Loraine's Bond Issue Explained

A community meeting will be held Thursday (tonight) at 7:30 in the Loraine School Cafeteria.

Purpose of the community meeting will be for open discussion concerning the School Bond Issue to be voted on Dec. 11. All citizens of the Loraine School District are urged to attend. Superintendent Glenn Sanders will serve as moderator.

The bond issue totals $525,000 for renovations to the present facilities. A brochure was mailed out Monday explaining the need for such renovations, cost to the taxpayer and other vital information.

Annual Chamber Of Commerce Banquet Set

The construction of the new rodeo arena at the County Fairgrounds on West Highway 80 took up much of a 2½ hour meeting Monday night of the Colorado City Area Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors.

Also involved in the meeting was the interviewing of two applicants for the job of Chamber Manager. Neither applicant had experience as a chamber manager. After talking with both applicants separately for a time, the board voted to wait and try to find a person with experience in the Chamber field.

The Board also heard an audit report by Certified Public Accountant Steve Smith. As is common practice after a manager leaves a Chamber, an audit is performed and Smith found everything in order. He recommended several changes to make the Chamber bookkeeping less complicated and the board voted to implement a number of those changes.

Regarding the rodeo arena, Travis Cawthron, head of the Rodeo Committee, was asked to hold off on further construction until all material for the job can be found.

In order to help locate the needed material and money needed to finish the project, Chamber President Mac McKinnon appointed two committees.

The finance committee for the arena project will be headed up by Bobby Lemons and will also include Loyd Ledbetter, Drew Ballard, Shirley Delaney, Ken Godsey and Brad Rose.

The committee for securing needed materials will be headed up by Cawthron and Jerry Putman and will also include Bill Cooper, Alton Raschke and Barbara Gray.

Director Shirley Delaney reported on plans for the upcoming annual Chamber of Commerce Banquet to be held at the Civic Center Jan. 17. The menu will consist of steak, baked potato, a vegetable, salad, dessert, ice tea or coffee. Cost of tickets for the banquet will be $10 per person and tickets will go on sale later this week at the Chamber office and can be obtained from any Chamber director.

The board also welcomed five new members, Billy J. Sweek, H&H Systems Co., The Parts House, Landau's and CC Athletics.

The board also approved helping out with the annual Lone Wolf Basketball Tournament by donating $50 to go toward trophies in the tourney and also will sponsor a hospitality room for officials and coaches. The hospitality room will serve coffee, soft drinks and snacks.

In another matter, McKinnon named two other committees, one to nominate officers for the coming year, first vice president, second vice president, secretary and treasurer and another committee to nominate a new president.

The committee to nominate officers will be Alton Raschke, Bill Cooper and Pete McKinnon. The committee to nominate the president will include two past presidents, J.O. Dockrey and Jerry Putman and the current president, McKinnon.

Holiday Spirits Could Result In License Loss

That "one for the road" may affect this holiday season's celebrations more so than in years past because of a little publicized law enacted by the Texas Legislature during the last session which became effective August 27 and affects drivers in the state of Texas.

Under this law, a person convicted for driving while intoxicated will automatically lose his driving license, according to State Trooper James Burson.

"Citizens should remember that driving is a privilege and not a right," he said.

"Because it is a privilege it can be taken away under certain circumstances," Trooper Burson noted.

DWI offenses come under the controlled substance act and are not treated as other criminal cases, according to County Judge Bill Carter.

An estimated 80 percent of all cases filed in county court involve alcohol related offenses, he noted.

Texas Highway Patrol reports indicate a total of 41 DWI arrests made here last year. There were 75 DWI dispositions made (this includes cases carried over from the previous year) with 23 persons found guilty and jailed and 37 persons placed on probation.

One DWI case was dismissed and five were reduced to lesser charges, according to Trooper Burson. Four of the cases were not prosecuted.

Burson reported a total of 63 alcohol related convictions resulted in $11,593 in fines.

He also said in the second six months of last year there were eight alcohol related accidents.

Building Is Donated To The Woodland School

Woodland School will have a new home thanks to the generosity of Mrs. Marion Bassham who recently donated a new building to the school.

Formal dedication services will be held in the new building at 1431 Austin (the Kingdom Hall) Sunday at 2:30 p.m. with a reception and refreshments served until 4:30 p.m.

The public is invited to participate and attend the reception.

"It is a great feeling to know that we have a citizen who was able to see the need. I can think of no more worthy cause than helping the handicapped. The Board highly commends Mrs. Bassham for her gracious gift," Chairman of the Woodland School Board Elmer Martin announced.

Woodland School serves about 25 students currently. The school has had several locations, the most recent being a rented building located on East Highway 80, Martin noted.

This building was not adequate for the needs of the students and was located so far out that it made commuting to and from the school difficult, he noted.

"The new building is smaller and quite adequate for the student's needs and the location is quite convenient," Martin said.

"Hopefully expenses will be decreased by the donation because we will no longer be required to pay rent. We will still have the utilities to contend with, however," Martin said.

The 25 Mitchell County students enrolled in the school learn to work with their hands. They package plastic spoons, clean spoons for industrial thread and package old newspapers for recycling.

The state pays each person a small amount for the work he performs. They work from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. five days a week, Martin said.

"This work opportunity gives each one a chance to function independently," Martin noted.

Pecan Show Friday

Mitchell County will hold its Annual Pecan Show Friday and Saturday in the C.C. Thompson Room at the City National Bank.

"With a bumper crop of pecans this year, I anticipate a good number of entries," Bobby Lemons announced.

Pecan show competitions are held in about 50 counties all over the state of Texas during the months of November and December, County Extension Agent Bob Benson noted.

"There are about 60 different varieties of pecans that may be entered. They will be graded for nut size, per cent See PECAN Page 4

Webb Wins Best Fireman Award

Colorado City Volunteer Firemen honored one among them who had best served the community in the year past as they named Don Webb "Fireman of the Year" during a banquet celebrating the holiday season Monday evening.

Fire Chief Dwain McGuire presided over the ceremonies as more than 82 persons enjoyed the holiday fare at the civic center.

Introductions were made by City Manager Ray Mason and Mayor See FIRE Page 11

The situation in Iran has brought Americans closer together than anything has in years.

It is indeed a dangerous situation. As one foreign leader has warned, it could lead to World War III. Hopefully, that will not be the case.

President Carter has shown a great deal of leadership and poise during this crisis. During his press conference last week, he refrained from saying anything that could endanger the lives of the hostages and demonstrated a great deal of tact when it would have been so easy to make radical statements.

Some political leaders don't have that much class and discretion. One who lacks these qualities is Teddy Kennedy. His statements earlier this week about the Shah were not only untimely but totally uncalled for.

Kennedy's irrational behavior should show Americans the true nature of Kennedy. You would have thought he might have matured and become more responsible since the Chappaquiddick incident but apparently he has not.

The Iranian situation is one which is above politics and voters can tell a lot about the candidate they support by the way they behave during this crisis.

The performance of the Dallas Cowboys during the past weeks has been a constant subject of conversation and the prevalent question seems to be "What has happened to the Dallas Cowboys?"

It seems remarkable in itself that the Cowboys have done as well as they have under the circumstances. First of all, consider the fact that once you're on top, everybody is out to get you and they'll all play their best game of the year against the team on top. A local instance of this is the Wolves football squad. They've been on top and everybody has been wanting to knock them off.

But being a target for everybody's best game is only part of the problem for the Cowboys. One of the main concerns is the defense.

Has everyone forgotten how many all-pros from See COLUMN Page 4

Crowds lined the streets of downtown Colorado City Saturday afternoon for the annual Christmas Parade sponsored by the Colorado City Chamber of Commerce.

The parade which began at 4 p.m. had a host of floats, bands, pretty girls and clowns. The grand old man of Christmas himself, Santa Claus, was also on hand for the occasion.

Prizes of $100, $50 and $25 were given away for the three floats judged to be the best. Calvary Baptist's entry took the top prize while the float by Emanuel Baptist Mission was second and the entry by Brownie Troop No. 21 was third.

Dylan Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Beery Moore won the prize of five silver dollars for wearing the most unique children's red and green costume.

BILL MACK

Ol' Dude was one of the finest fiddlers ever to come out of the state of Texas.

He harbored his fiddle in the inviting city of San Antonio, using it whenever he took a notion or whenever his personal funds were at a low ebb. For Dude, playing the fiddle was fun.

It was as it was intended to be: a reflection of himself. After all, the instrument had always played an important part in his heritage. His daddy, even his grand-daddy, had always played the fiddle. It was always expected whenever kin got together that the beat-up bundle of wood and strings would be passed from hand to hand for individual renditions of such classics as "Bile Dem Cabbage," "Sally Goodin," "Turkey in the Straw," "Cotton Eyed Joe," etc.

Ol' Dude had worked with virtually every top western swing band in South Texas at some time or other. He loved "hillbilly" music, he loved his fiddle, and he loved his bottle... not necessarily in that order. He was also in love with some South Texas gal from time to time.

While I was disc jockeying on a San Antonio radio station, I had the pleasure of meeting Ol' Dude. At that time he was playing fiddle on radio for a band sponsored by one of the San Antonio breweries. I had been chosen by the beer company to be the announcer on the noon show.

During this special period of my life, the band was appearing at various dance halls and joints throughout the South Texas hills. They would play any place that had a neon sign and a few tables.

Especially on weekends you would find the bank pickin' at kickin' clubs in Fredericksburg, Victoria, Llano, Cherry Springs and the likes. Their means of transportation was a renovated school bus, still yellow in the original color. Black letters proclaiming the name of the band (which shall remain nameless) were smeared over the letters that one time spelled out some isolated South Texas school district.

As a matter of fact, the only renovation made on the bus was in the lettering on the side. Oh, yes. There was also a change in drivers. The bass fiddle player doubled as the bus driver whenever they were on personal appearance trips out of San Antonio.

Normally, the entire band would meet around noon at the radio station, pack their instruments and gear on the bus, and head out for their destinations for the weekend. However, on this particular weekend, Ol' Dude had decided to ride down in a separate car with his new-found girlfriend.

The band leader didn't mind. It would really be a pleasure, since Ol' Dude had a habit of getting on his nerves during road trips. He would drink more than his share of beer out of long necked bottles, smoke his strange cigarettes, and keep the rest of the band awake on the returning trips. More than one good picker had quit the band because Ol' Dude had robbed him of a portion of his nervous system.

Ol' Dude arrived at the club on time with his girl friend and completed the set that night with no problems. As usual, he was perfect with his fiddle on the bandstand, a complement to the band.

After the gig had been finished, he bade the fellow members of the band goodnight, opened up another longneck bottle and placed his lanky frame in the girlfriend's super auto for the return to San Antonio.

In order to evade the busy traffic on the freeway, and in order to allow themselves a few miles of "stop an' neck" room, Ol' Dude and his gal decided to take an isolated route back to the Alamo City. They had driven possibly 30 miles when the strange sound of air escaping from rubber was followed by any unsteady wobbling of the front wheels.

Ol' Dude snapped his fingers to the sound, thinking it was from the car radio, only to be interrupted by the whiny voice of his female companion as she inquired: "Do you know how to change a tire? I think we have a flat."

"I used to work in a fillin' station," replied Ol' Dude. "Jus' open up th' trunk, let me git a jack out an' put on th' spare an' we'll be back on th' road 'fore you know it, sweet thang!"

The sweet thang opened the trunk only to notice that the jack was gone. She had earlier removed it and was using it back at her home in San Antonio as a door stop. It was no problem, though. Ol' Dude would stop a passing motorist and borrow one.

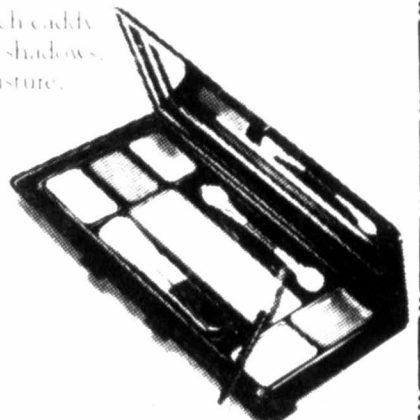

However, vehicles were far between on the isolated highway at 3 o'clock in the morning. A car or truck would pass them every 15 minutes or so, ignoring the thumb of Ol' Dude.

Finally, he decided he would rest his thumb and, instead, would place himself in the middle of the highway and wave the next motorist to a stop. He squatted in the middle of the road until he noticed blaring headlights approaching him on the horizon. He then jumped to his feet and began waving his arms frantically. Undoubtedly, the nearing auto hadn't seen him until almost the last minute and, instead of crashing into his wobbly body, changed its route to a ditch, completely destroying the front end. Ol' Dude ran to the spewing mass of metal resting in the ditch as the driver slowly lowered the window while in a noticeable amount of pain.

Ol' Dude walked to the window and asked, "Buddy, you got a jack I can borrow?"

DECEMBER 7 1979

had the choice of levying a maximum fine not over $500 and or sentencing the person from three days to two years in the county jail. These sentences could be probated.

If circumstances allowed, the offender could enter into a "plea bargain" with the county attorney and court allowing conviction for a lesser charge, Carter said.

The offender's driver's license was not revoked or suspended on the first offense in most instances, according to Carter.

Under the new law, which Judge Carter notes as "revolutionary," a person convicted of a DWI automatically loses his license.

The DWI charge is a misdemeanor. The speedy trial law states a person charged with this type misdemeanor must be tried within 90 days.

The person charged is given the option of signing a formal waiver of the right to a speedy trial which allows for extension of the time periods involved.

"At this point, there is some question as to the constitutionality of the new law. We are awaiting a ruling from the state now," Carter said.

The Highway Patrol report indicates 25 per cent of all rural fatal accidents involve DWI and 21 per cent of all statewide fatal accidents involve DWI.

"Accidents, in which DWI was reported as a factor, do not tell the whole story. As Texas has no law requiring chemical tests on drivers in fatal accidents, it is possible that many injured or deceased drivers who were DWI were not reported," notes the state report.

"Any person suspected of DWI is transported to the county jail and offered a breath alcohol test," Trooper Burson said.

"At least 15 minutes must elapse between the time the person is apprehended and the test is administered," Trooper Burson noted.

"This test indicates the concentration of alcohol in the blood," Trooper Burson said.

"A blood alcohol concentration of 0.05 per cent will definitely impair the driving ability of some individuals and as the blood alcohol concentration increases, a progressively higher proportion of individuals are so affected, until at a blood alcohol concentration of 0.10 per cent, all individuals are definitely impaired," Trooper Burson reported.

The Breathalyzer is an instrument contained in a metal case measuring about 9 x 10 x 8 inches with a test scale rating from 0.01-0.40.

There are three phases in the analysis. The first phase is concerned with the sample. The subject blows into the mouthpiece and the breath is delivered through tubing to the bottom cylinder. The last portion of expired breath is trapped in the cylinder.

The second phase of the analysis forces the sample through the tubing and glass bubbler into an ampoule containing 3 m of 0.025 per cent K₂Cr₂O₇ in 50 per cent by volume H₂SO₄.

In this solution the alcohol is quantitatively oxidized to acetic acid with a corresponding reduction of dichromate.

The third phase consists of measuring the decrease in the yellow color that accompanies the reaction.

In the minute recesses of the lungs, there are approximately 600 square feet of surface where air and blood are separated by a membrane a single cell in thickness.

In this situation, equilibrium for a volatile substance such as alcohol will be attained rapidly and the concentrations will be those expected from Henry's Law. Since the temperature of the body is practically constant, the equilibrium value is predictable.

According to a state report, there is no evidence to indicate the passage of alcohol from the blood into the air in the lungs is governed by processes other than those of diffusion and evaporation.

"If a person blows a 0.10 or over, a DWI citation is written and the person charged, taken before the magistrate and placed in jail where he must remain until the next morning," Trooper Burson said.

"If a person is not intoxicated according to the Breathalyzer but still acts drunk, he is observed to determine why," Trooper Burson noted.

Under state law, any person who operates a motor vehicle upon the public highways of this state shall be deemed to have given consent to a chemical test of his breath for the purpose of determining the alcohol content of his blood.

But, he shall not be deemed, solely on the basis of his operation of a motor vehicle upon the public highways to have given consent to any type of chemical test other than of his breath.

If a person under arrest for DWI refuses to submit to a breath test, that person shall be set for a hearing. If the court finds that probable cause existed for the arrest, the person's license will be suspended for one year.

Provided the person is found not guilty of the offense of DWI, he will retain his license.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—The energy crunch coming again to Texas, land of petroleum and natural gas?

Some say it isn't, some say it is.

And a few say it's already here for farmers and ranchers.

Some days ago, Gov. Bill Clements, who had been monitoring the energy situation in Texas, said that gasoline supplies may become tight, but there will be no need to reinstate the odd-even rationing plan of last summer "unless consumers panic and begin topping off their tanks."

Railroad Commissioner John Poerner thinks another crunch is near because of a federal decision to increase production of home heating oil for the northeast states.

Home heating oil is another name for diesel fuel...and there's already a shortage of diesel here in Texas, at least for farmers and ranchers.

Several farmers and fuel suppliers testified during a House subcommittee hearing last week that oil firms' manipulations of diesel fuel threatens to drive them out of business.

It seems there is diesel fuel available for them, but it is through irregular channels and for a much prettier price. The farmers openly called the secret channels "the Black Market," which is an inaccurate term.

Since diesel was deregulated last July, there are no government controls to keep the price down. The term "Black Market," as used during the hearing, is a reference to the manipulations by oil firms, which though legal, are done in secret to hike the fuel price and avoid bad publicity.

Several oil company representatives were present to testify they were not secretly directing fuel to the spot market.

So is there a shortage?

State Rep. Dan Kubiak, who chaired the subcommittee, said the answer depended on who you believed at the inconclusive hearing—the farmers or the oil companies.

"From the testimony presented, one conclusion is we will not have shortages in the near future. But by all other indications, we will have a shortage—we have one now," Kubiak promised more hearings as the probe continues.

A Presidential Visit

Top Texas Democrats endorsed President Jimmy Carter preparatory to a Dec. 8 visit for his Austin fundraiser.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, Speaker of the House Bill Clayton, Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong and State Treasurer Warren G. Harding appeared together to announce their support for Carter.

"President Carter, under very adverse circumstances, has compiled a fine record as President of the United States," Hobby said.

Only a catastrophe, such as a setback in the touchy Iranian situation, will prevent Carter from making the campaign swing through Texas, his supporters say.

And Presidential Polls

A statewide poll conducted by Texas Monthly magazine indicates Carter, much maligned in Texas, will not fare too badly in this state, but the movers and shakers in both parties are still taking a wait-and-see attitude.

The poll showed Carter trails challenger Teddy Kennedy by one percentage point, 34.6 to 33.7, and that Calif. Gov. Jerry Brown musters only 6.9 percent support.

Kennedy's support came from all large urban areas, except Dallas-Fort Worth, and from minority areas. Carter is backed by conservative Democrats, Kennedy by the liberals and both have about an equal number of moderates at this point. Veteran observers say look for a real fight.

Among Republicans

According to the poll, former Texas Gov. John B. Connally leads Ronald Reagan, George Bush and all others in Texas.

Connally mustered 30.3 per cent to Reagan's 27.6 percent and Bush's 13.2 percent. Not unpredictably, Connally called the poll's results "a victory," while his detractors called it "a setback" for him. Connally led in just about every category.

In a theoretical matchup, either Carter or Kennedy would beat Connally or Reagan, if the election were held today.

Carter was preferred over Connally by 51.7 to 48.3 per cent and topped Reagan 50.2 to 49.8 per cent.

Kennedy beat Connally 51.9 to 48.1 percent and took Reagan 55.2 to 44.8 percent.

Every political group one can imagine within both parties is finding silver linings in the poll, which seems to have a bit of credibility among politicians.

No one is denying Texas will have a horse-race on its hands. It may well come to pass that Texas will be the primary battleground to decide the outcome.

AG Opinions

In a legal opinion issued last week, Attorney General Mark White ruled a police officer has no statutory right to appeal a disciplinary suspension of 15 days or less, but a hearing may be required for a suspension resulting from charges which affect an officer's professional reputation. White also ruled:

—If a justice of the peace issues a search warrant returnable to him, the complaint alleging an offense discovered through the search need not be filed with him.

—Issuance of revenue bonds by an industrial development corporation will not violate the Constitution.

—The Railroad Commission has the authority and the duty to set rates for a specialized motor carrier operating under the authority of a seasonal agricultural license.

Letter To The Editor

The following is an open letter to the President of the United States:

Dear Mr. President: It is with honor I write this letter to voice my support, along with the support of my entire Police Department for your actions toward the Iranian Crisis. Though we are small in size, (14 members) we feel just as strong and as patriotic as the largest. In order to show our support, we are joining the Police across the country, to have each member wear a flag pin on the right collar of the uniform shirt until our hostages are released.

It is difficult for Police Officers to voice an opinion on any matter, especially politics, without coming under fire from the public, but we hope this action will be taken as symbolic of our concern for the hostages and to demonstrate our patriotism and support for America in the Iranian Crisis.

Once again, let me personally voice my prayers and support for you Mr. President, at this most difficult time.

I remain:
Respectfully yours,
Fred McWhorter,
Chief of Police
Colorado City, Texas

Lone Wolf Cage Tourney Set

This is the weekend of the annual Lone Wolf Basketball Tournament at Wolf Gym.

Although the event is somewhat smaller than in past years, Colorado Boys' Coach Mike Hart and Girls' Coach George Martin both said that cage fans would still have an opportunity to see some really good high school teams in action.

Both the boys' and girls' brackets have four teams each including the Wolves.

Hart said that probably the reason for there not being the usual number of teams sign up was that most schools were trying to play as close to home as possible because of the price of gasoline. With the exception of Coahoma, who also declined to come, there are relatively few Class AA schools close to Colorado City.

In the boys' bracket, the two first round games will come on Friday afternoon and they will include San Angelo Lakeview vs. Snyder Junior Varsity at 3 p.m. and Post vs. Colorado City at 7 p.m. The boys' consolation final will be played at 3 p.m. Saturday and the boys' championship contest will be at 7 p.m. Saturday.

The first round contests in the girls' bracket will also be Friday afternoon and they will include: San Angelo Lakeview vs. Post at 1 p.m. and San Angelo Central Junior Varsity vs. Colorado City at 5 p.m.

The girls' consolation final will be played at 1 p.m. Saturday and the girls' championship game will be at 5 p.m. Saturday.

Hart's varsity boys' squad will take an 0-2 mark into the tournament.

Martin's girls' varsity squad will carry an 1-3 mark into the meet.

The brackets for the tournament are given on Page 10 of this issue of the Record.

Loraine Independent School District Proposed Building Program

Why Do We Need To Renovate The Present Facilities?

1. The main building is nearly thirty years old, and is in need of repairs and renovation in many areas.
2. The existing roof requires frequent repairs. Bad leaks cause damage to the remainder of the building and contents.
3. The existing electrical system is inadequate. It will not comply with current codes and poses a possible fire hazard in its present condition.
5. The heating and cooling system needs modernizing to meet today's standards and to provide a comfortable learning atmosphere.
6. The building has been damaged with roof leaks and site flooding.
7. The lighting has been listed as inadequate and substandard by the Texas Department of Health.
8. The main building and the gymnasium will not comply with today's building codes, meet the required standards of the Texas Education Agency nor serve the physically handicapped as required by the State Board of Control.

Try lowering the temperature in your home to 68° this winter. You'll save on your heating bill.

A setting of 68° during the winter is the one Texas Electric recommends for both comfort and energy efficiency.

For each degree above 68° the energy used for heating your house is increased by approximately 4% per degree.

As shown by the chart the difference between the recommended thermostat setting and 74° is 24%. At 78° the increase in energy usage is 40% or more.

Clearly, the lower you set your thermostat the lower your heating bill is going to be. And after last winter's snow and ice, we think a lot of people are going to be trying their best to use less energy.

Remember to change the filter in your heating system regularly, too. A dirty filter causes your heating system to work longer and that costs you more. Check the filter at least once each month.

All forms of energy are costing more these days. If you're serious about saving energy and money, call us to find out about our Operation Tighten-Up program. We'll show you practical ways to save on your heating bills.

Fire. From Page 1: Marion Basham who graciously thanked the volunteer firemen for their service and congratulated them on the performance of their duties.

Webb was selected for the coveted title of "Fireman of the Year" by members of the department in a secret ballot.

Each member selected one member for nomination, then the three members with the most votes were placed on a ballot and members again voted for their choice, according to McGuire.

"Persons were selected for their leadership ability, attendance and service to the organization," he noted.

Webb has been with the department for about six years. He resides in Colorado City with his wife, Lola and two sons, Michael, 18, a senior at Colorado High School and John, 14, a freshman at CHS. A third son, Donald, 21, resides in San Angelo and is Hospital Supervisor at Community Hospital.

Webb has been a member of the United States Postal Service for more than 19 years and is currently Postmaster in Lorraine. He and his family resided in Colorado City until 1969 when they were transferred to San Angelo and later to Abilene. Webb was transferred to Lorraine in 1977 and his service with the VFD began again.

"I have never gotten anything like this award before. It came as a great surprise. These men did me a great honor. I am very proud to be a part of such a dedicated group of people," Webb commented.

During the course of the evening, gifts were exchanged after names were drawn and organization officers were recognized.
