THE PLATFORM.

The report of committee on platform and resolutions was reported and accepted with applause and enthusiasm as follows:

To the Hon. J. P. Smith, Chairman of the 8th Congressional District of the State of Texas:

We your committee on Platform and resolutions beg leave to report as follows, to-wit:

The Democrats of the 8th Congressional district of Texas in convention assembled, we assert our devotion to the time honored principles of the party. The sovereignty of the State in the American union, and the sovereignty of the citizens in the state; that the government was instituted for the purpose of protecting the people in their lives, their liberties and their property; that all power not delegated by the Constitution is reserved to the State respectively, and to the people; that the government has no right to do for the citizen what the citizen can do for himself; that we denounce as subversive of a peoples government, and destructive of the autonomy of the state the doctrine advocated by our adversaries of whatsoever name, to transfer from the people to the Federal government, the transaction of the business, and the ownership of the grert Industries of the country; that the Platform of Principles, enunciated by the National Democratic Convention at Chicago on the 21st day of June, 1892, meets with our unqualified approval; that the declarations of said platform, denunciatory of the Force Bill, the McKinley Tariff act, and the principle of taxing one industry for the benefit of another, we hail as the very embodiment of the democratic idea of government, and again we demonstrate that the Democratic party is the only true friend of free government and the liberty of the citizen in this country; that with a man like Grover Cleveland at the head of the ticket, we can safely promise the people that if the democracy is placed in full charge of the government at the ensueing election, the country will return to that primitive purity and simplicity, when burdens were equally distributed and all men were equal before the law.

THOS. T. EWELL, Chairman.
BEN M. TERRELL, Secretary.

Mr. G. H. Goodson, of Hamilton, rose and in a short talk in which he dwelt on the many excellent personal traits of his candidate, nominated Hon. C. K. Bell. for their congressional candidate.

H. T. Sims, of Coleman, seconded Bell's nomination.

Terrell, of Tarrant, seconded the nomination and moved that Mr. Bell be nominated by acclamation. The motion carried and the chair announced Mr. Bell's nomination.

Motion by Perry, of Hamilton, that a committee of five be appointed to wait on Mr. Bell and inform him of his nomination. Messrs. Perry, Terrell, Sims, Cowan and Clay were appointed.

W. O. Hamilton of Comanche was nominated for permanent chairman for the ensuing two years by Pressler of Comanche and secondpo by Martin of Hood.

The vote was taken and Hamilton was elected unanimously.

At this juncture Hon. C. K. Bell came in accompanied by the committee and after an introduction addressed the convention in a speech of absent an hours duration.

Mr. Hamilton was then called for and responded in a short speech well filled with abuse of the Third party.

Dr. Perry offered a motion that the several counties select one from their county as an executive committee.

Adjourned.

Judge Bell said in his speech of acceptance Saturday "that the People's party contend that there is a certain class of men (meaning the farmers) if they should be benefited by legislation all other class would be be benefited as much as they and that by so-doing it would take the money out of one man pocket and put it in another—that was not class legislation, what was it." We would like to inform the judge that the sub-treasury contemplates no such thing, but proposes to bring about a method whereby the man that makes the money may at least retain a fair portion of it, and stop this method of taking the money out of the pockets of the producers and transfering it into the pocket of these leaches upon the body politic. Mr. Bell said further: "that the resolution declaring against federal interference was published in the papers of the south but not in those of the north. We have before us a paper that is published at Clay Center, Kansas, that has it just exactly as it was in the PROGRESS and the Comanche Exponent.

Jeff Bartlett, who is well known in this city, and who lives in Water Valley, Miss., had his leg broke one day last week by being thrown from a horse. At last reports he was getting along very well.

AT HOMESTEAD MILLS

A SURPRISE IN STORE FOR SUPERINTENDENT MORRISON.

Sub-Agent Getty Badly Frightened, as the Men Wanted to Throw Him in the River—No Trouble at the South Bend Vehicle Works.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 6.—A special to the News from South Bend, Ind., says: There is no trouble of any kind at the Studebaker wagon works in this city. The men are working as usual. The origin of the false report is a mystery.

Situation Unchanged.

HOMESTEAD, Aug. 6.—The reported strike at Studebaker's South Bend works is supposed to be the result of Hugh O'Donnell's trip, which was for the purpose of furthering a boycott sentiment against the Carnegie mill material.

There is no change at the Homestead mill. The lastest report received here at General Wylie's headquarters was that no trouble occurred during the night at Duquesne and this morning the mill was quiet. The advisory committee say that Superintendent Morrison will find he is mistaken on Monday, as a large majority of the men will not report for work, they having reconsidered their action. It has been decided to maintain a military guard at Duquesne until the authorities are fully satisfied that there will be no further disorder.

Ralph S. Getty, sub-agent for the Keystone Employment agency at Pittsburg, came to Homestead. A number of lockedout men spotted him and he was followed and held up. Officer Jim Walls arrested him and when Getty was arrested a crowd wanted to take him to the river and throw him in. Getty became badly frightened, for probably 100 men gathered around him and he was glad to be placed in the lockup. He will be charged with resisting an officer and perjury. There is considerable indignation among all classes of Homestead citizens over the transportation of non-union men across the river on Little Bill. They say the boat was chartered for the use of the state militia, but its principal use is carrying place seekers across the river and putting them into the mill free of charge. "If the militia is merely here to preserve peace and give no aid to either side why do the officers permit such practice?" asked a merchant. "At present everybody in Pennsylvania is being taxed to pay for the transportation of the black sheep and we really do not think it fair."

Frick in His Office.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 6.—H. C. Frick has so far recovered as to be able to be at his office. He is attending to business as usual before being shot by Bergman.

Train Robbery in California.

FRESNO, Aug. 5.—Passenger train No. 17 southbound was held up by train robbers six miles east of Cillis. Two of the robbers crawled over the tank to the engine and ordered the engineer and fireman to stop the train. They made the engineer walk ahead a quarter of a mile and compelled the fireman to stay with them. They then went to the express car and ordered the messenger to open up. He refused, and the robbers threw six or seven dynamite bombs at the doors, completely demolishining them. They then forced open the safe and took out the money; the amount is not known. They made the fireman help them carry the treasure a distance and then galloped off on horseback. The robbers' faces were masked with light cloth. The engine was injured by bombs exploding under it. One of the express messengers' ribs was broken.

The Sugar Trust.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 5.—The absolute power with which the American Sugar Refiners' company, commonly known as the sugar trust, controls the sugar markets of this country was illustrated, when it was announced that wholesalers, to be able to purchase granulated sugar from them, must at the same time order a certain amount of soft sugar. Sugar brokers said, in reply to the question as to why this action was taken, that it was probably due to the fact that the trust was running short on granulated and desired to restrict its sales for the present. The effect upon the trade cannot be foreseen at present, but an advance in the price of granulated, it is thought, will shortly follow.

Marshal Fricke on Garza's Trail.

RIO GRANDE CITY, Tex., Aug. 5.—If the plans of United States Marshal Fricke and his large posse do not fail, Catarino Garza, the notorious Mexican revolutionary leader, will be captured within the next few days. Garza was seen by several reputable Mexicans on the ranch of Cecilo Salinas, a revolutionist now out on bond, northwest of here. Information was immediately telegraphed to Marshal Fricke at San Antonio, who immediately gathered together a large force of deputies and left for Garza's rendezevous. The latter is surrounded by a few supporters and it is expected he will resist.

Some Kansas Democrats Against Simpson.

TOPEKA, Aug. 5.—William O'Conner, county attorney of Stevens county, and a Democratic leader in the southwestern part of the state, says that outside of Sedgewick 50 per cent of the Democrats in South district would vote with the Republicans rather that support Jerry Simpson. He said the Democrats were organizing to prevent Simpson's indorsement, and if defeated in convention would bolt and run an independent candidate as was done at Third district convention.

Another Hot Wave in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Another hot wave has reached Chicago and its advent brought about the prostrations of six persons. It is feared another heated term is upon the city.

THE BIG STRIKE IN GOTHAM.

Building Trades in the Metropolis Literally Paralyzed.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Never before perhaps has this city witnessed such a complete paralysis of building trades as at present. All the great buildings in course of construction, the municipal as well as those belonging to private corporations or individuals, are at a standstill, only partially completed and exposed to the weather, which will necessitate, when operations are resumed, the tearing out and replacing of thousands of dollars' worth of work already done. Expenses roll up by the hundreds of dollars hourly; bonds guaranteeing the completion of work at stipulated dates are nearing the expiration with no prospect of preventing their forfeiture; thousands upon thousands of dollars invested in material is being gradually destroyed by exposure; wages that must be paid to artisans, whether in idleness or at work, by yearly contracts, and numerous other contingencies entailing more or less expense, tend to darken the future prospects of some of the best known and wealthiest builders in the city. The condition is the result of the strike through its several steps of developments, of the housesmiths against the Iron league. About a month ago, when the housesmiths were all but defeated, their purpose being to unionize the shops of the Cornell Bros. and the Jackson Architectural Iron Works company, the board of walking delegates stepped in and took charge of the fight for the union. Since then it has spread until all but two of the building trades are involved.

The first move of the delegates after taking charge of the fight was to stop the delivery of material by calling out the public cartmen and truck-drivers, thus compelling the bricklayers, masons and framers to knock off work. So far as the monetary loss is concerned, this strike is far ahead of the strike at Homestead. The men are now losing $40,000 a day, and the contractors and dealers are certainly losing as much more. The strike has been on for two months, and there is every indication that it will last two months more. Practically the building season has been wasted. It is estimated that 20,000 men, most of them with families, are now out, and the number is being augmented by new strikes daily. Among the families of the strikers' want is now beginning to be felt, especially among the poorly paid trades. A number of the men are bitter about it, and begin to see the possibilities in one direction of the sympathetic strike. Five new strikes were ordered, and before starting on their daily tour of investigation the members of the striking committees announced their intention of ordering fully that number.

Canadian Annexation.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 6.—When the agitation over the Jesuits' state act was at its height three of the equal righters hinted that annexation might be utilized as a last resort to escape the Roman Catholic domination. Now some of the Irish Catholic and French Canadian papers are hinting that annexation is the best way to escape from Protestant domination. The latest issue of the United Canada, the local Irish Catholic organ, has a leading article headed: "Justice or Annexation," in which it deals with the privy council in the Manitoba school cases. It says: "One of two things must soon come. This war of Protestant against the Catholic, race against race, must soon come to a close or otherwise by annexation. The two classes of people in Canada are certainly delighted with the decision and they are extreme Protestants and those who are in favor of annexation." The Canada-French daily had also another significant article following previous articles and suggesting an annexation because the French Le Canadian it says cannot get justice under the British flag. Le Canada holds the fact that half a million French Canadians are contentedly settled in the United States is proof they are well treated there. It asserts that no one can reasonably deny if the province of Quebec were in the United States it would be well off and its people would make their mark here. They would not, it concludes, have to engage in a war of races on religion there, because every race is welcome in the United States and every religion is respected.

A Sea Serpent in Illinois.

HAVANA, Aug. 6.—Some young people of this town persist in telling of a frightful experience they had while rowing on Thompson's lake near here. They say they had left the lake shore and were rowing through the flooded street, which is now crowded with sand bars. One young man had a revolver, and pointing to a log lying half submerged in the shallow water, asked his companion to take it away, remarking he would shoot the center of the alligators. At the report of the weapon the supposed log began to move about in an extremely [illegible] such that the waters were white with foam. To the horror of the boating party an immense and hideous head reared out of the water. The shape of the head was like that ascribed to the sea serpent, and was surrounded by a scaly hood. The body was covered with enormous scales. The reptile had small, wicked eyes, which glittered fiendishly, and from the hideous mouth long fangs shot out with utmost rapidity. So frightened were the occupants of the boat that they did not take observations, but rowed for clear water as fast as they could. The serpent followed the boat some distance, making the most hideous noises, and the atmosphere was filled with a sickening odor. A farmer living on the Spoor river bottoms is satisfied this snake has been in the high grass in the bottoms. He has often wondered at the wide swath made in the grass and could never account for it. Other people claim to have seen the snake, and some farmers report loss of stock and poultry. It is reported that the reptile is the one that escaped from a river menagerie some two years ago.

DUN'S REVIEW OF TRADE.

Business Outlook Distinctly Improves—Volume of Trade.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review says: In every respect, save one, the business outlook distinctly improves, heavy sales of American stocks by foreign holders continue, and draw large amounts of gold from this country, indicating a foreign distrust of American finances. The volume of trade in July, indicated by the clearing house exchanges, is fully 15 per cent. larger than last year and greater than in any previous year, in spite of a decline of 5 per cent. in prices since a year ago. Imports are enormous, exceeding last year over 19 per cent. the past month, which is proof of the great activity in domestic manufactures and consumption. Sales of wool increased largely, and for the year at three chief points are 174,000,000 pounds against 148,000,000 pounds last year to date.

Cotton mills are sold ahead four to eight weeks, and print cloths are strong at 3¼ cents. Speculation has made higher prices for breadstuffs, half a cent for wheat, in spite of the receipts at the west exceeding a million bushels per day, with exports of 800,000 bushels in three days. Corn has been advanced nearly 5 cents on small sales, and oats 2¼ cents, western reports favoring shorter estimates. Cotton declined an eighth of a cent on sales of 596,000 bales for the week, the crop reports being more favorable. Coffee is an eighth of a cent stronger.

Business failures occurring throughout the country during the past seven days were 184, compared with 193 last week. For the corresponding week last year the figures were 231.

A Louisiana Feud.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 8.—The shooting of Judge Henry Long from ambush a few nights ago at Kennerville, just above New Orleans, has aroused great bitterness there. The whole trouble is attributed to political enemity and has resulted in a race feud. Parish officers have been working up the case against the assassins and have made a number of arrests. On the other hand a number of negroes and white men who are in sympathy with those who attacked Judge Long have held a meeting and it is said have formed a plot to force a number of white residents out of the place. It is said they have threatened to burn down the store of Mrs. H. Felix and Angel Palmisen and the residences of E. Stahl, E. Becker and Judge Long's mother.

The situation finally began to look serious and Stahl swore out an affidavit against several of the negroes for making threats. Warrants were placed in the hands of the sheriff and a number of negroes in the neighborhood parish of St. Charles were locked up in the parish jail. The population of the town is almost exclusively colored. Some of the arrested negroes have given valuable information as to the shooting. Reports to the effect that the paisoners will be lynched are in circulation.

Picnic for Trainrobbers.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—An enormous shipment of gold coin went east from the sub-treasury here, $60,000,000 being sent to the United States treasury at Washington. For two or three weeks postal agents have been arriving from the east on secret missions. Thirty who came left on the gold train, and with them went nine others from San Francisco. For each man there is a Winchester. There are five postal cars unusually heavy and strong, and a big caboose in which the guards ride. The government had stored at San Francisco $100,000,000 of its gold reserve, and it is said $60,000,000 in all will be sent to Washington, one more shipment like the present being necessary.

Killed Under a Fallen Horse.

PITSBURG, Aug. 6.—Charles Volz and Jacob Woolfinger, auditor and road surveyor of Reserve township, were out on an inspection tour of the township roads. They returned home at midnight. When they attempted to back their horse and buggy into the barn the horse became frightened and backed over a forty-foot precipice. The horse fell upon Volz, killing him instantly. Woolfinger was perhaps fatally hurt.

BITE OF THE MOSQUITO.

Strange Case of Poisoning and Death of a New York Man.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—A mosquito bite caused the death of Peter Kennedy, a day laborer, aged 69, of 2260 Third avenue, at Bellevue hospital. Ten days ago he was severely bitten on the left cheek. He injudiciously rubbed the spot, and the next day the swelling increased and sharp pains shot through his head. On the morning of the third day Kennedy went to the Harlem hospital, where one of the physicians put some spirit lotion on the inflamed surface of the cheek, and told him that it would be all right in a day or two. The tissue around the spot steadily became more inflamed. Another visit to the hospital convinced the physicians that the case required more serious attention, so he was sent to Bellevue. Kennedy's condition grew rapidly worse. He became delerious, with intervals of consciousness. Inflammation spread so as to involve the membranes of the brain, producing meningitis. Dr. Van Loan, Bellevue hospital surgeon, who attended Kennedy, said death was undoubtedly due to the inflammation which followed the bite. The doctor was inclined to the belief that the mosquito must have been investigating putrid flesh of some kind before attacking the man, and by this means some of the poisonous ptomaines developed by decaying animal matter had got into the wound and thus led to pyæmia and death. This is the first case known, with one exception, of a mosquito bite being the cause of death. Sometimes these deaths occur through shock, as in the case of infants, but at others blood-poisoning rapidly follows the infliction of the wound. The other known case of death from a mosquito bite also occurred in Bellevue hospital about three years ago.

A Man's Death from Glanders.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 7.—Albert Haberstrah was buried from the house of his sister, Mrs. Luessing, at 4984 Natural Bridge road. He had been sick for two weeks, suffering untold agonies. When first taken ill he had run a splinter into his finger, and the aggravated condition of the sore indicated blood-poisoning. Dr. G. A. Humpert of 4980 Natural Bridge road found matters growing so much worse that he called in Dr. H. Mudd. They still thought it an aggravated case of blood-poisoning, and advised amputation of the finger or hand. The relatives desired to wait, however, and see if the finger could not be saved. The feet and legs began to swell. The right leg was lanced, and the patient became unconscious. Finally the yellow color and characteristic eruption and pustules indicated glanders. At this stage the physicians instituted inquiries, and learned that the young man was a teamster employed among some teams in the quarries, and had been taking care of some sick horses. Haberstrah never regained consciousness. Mrs. Schleer, another sister, who nursed him, described his sufferings as being fearful and his condition repulsive. The eruption, swellings and sore hand, with the sickening yellow color, and thick black tongue, in his unconscious state, made his condition a pitiable one. Dr. Humpert saw that there was no question of the case being one of glanders. The deceased was unmarried and would have been 34 years old on Aug. 20.

Chance for Unemployed Men.

HURON, S. D., Aug. 6.—A limited number of harvest hands have come in, but not sufficient to lessen demand. Potter and Faulk county farmers were here to secure harvest help but were unsuccessful. Dr. Smith of Ree Height says 400 men are wanted in Hand county alone. Grain is ripening rapidly and help must be had or the crops can't be saved.

Hog Cholera in Canada.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 6.—The department of agriculture advised that the disease which has been carrying off so many swine in Ontario turns out to be hog cholera. The mortality among hogs has been very large, and unless the headway of the disease is checked soon it will be difficult to prevent its spreading throughout the province.

MR. OATES' OPINION.

THE INVESTIGATION OF TROUBLE AT HOMESTEAD.

Designs of Souvenir Half Dollars Already Selected—Representatives of the United States at the International Monetary Conference—News from Washington.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Mr. Oates, chairman of the sub-committee of the house which investigated the labor troubles at Homestead and the connection of the Pinkerton detectives therewith, submitted his report to the committee, which was not agreed to. No member que stioned its correctness, its statements of the facts or the conclusions of law, but the Republican members of the committee would not assent to what he had upon the tariff and the majority of Democratic members of the committee thought it impolite to make any report until the entire investigation was completed, which could not be done before the second session of congress, therefore a postponement of the report was made until next winter.

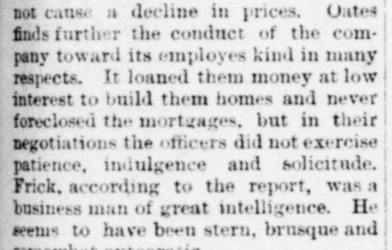

The report prepared by Mr. Oates having been rejected by the committee, he now gives to the public his individual opinion of the matters investigated. The report begins with a statement of the movements of the sub-committee, followed by a description of the works at Homestead, number of employes, rates of wages, negotiations between the company and Amalgamated association preceding the outbreak, contents of both sides and finally on account of the disastrous ending of the attempt to land the Pinkertons. The report says that the Pinkertons who surrendered were brutally and outrageously treated, principally by women and boys, and Mr. Oates is loath to believe any of these women are native Americans. He says the indignities to which the detectives were subjected was a disgrace to civilization.

Oates asks whether the Carnegie firm was justified in equity and by a good conscience in proposing a reduction in wages. "I answer," he says, "that Frick declined to state the cost of bessemer steel billets and labor cost. The men were paid satisfactory wages, but the work much abbreviates the natural period of life and should be well paid for."

He thinks the company should have some of the benefits of the profits resulting from the use of the improved machinery. He condems the McKinley law for its failure to benefit the American workmen, and says the promises made to operatives had been disappointing. Had Frick stated the facts to the committee they might have agreed that a proposition to reduce the wages was justifiable, but they took issue with him in his conclusion that the tariff did not cause a decline in prices. Oates finds further the conduct of the company toward its employes kind in many respects. It loaned them money at low interest to build them homes and never foreclosed the mortgages, but in their negotiations the officers did not exercise patience, indulgence and solicitude. Frick, according to the report, was a business man of great intelligence. He seems to have been stern, brusque and somewhat autocratic.

Oates is persuaded if Frick had appealed to the reason of the employes and shown them the state of the company's affairs, the reduction might have been made and no trouble followed. He finds the Pennsylvania law contains nothing to prevent Frick from employing Pinkerton men as watchmen at Homestead, but says under the circumstances he should not have done so. He made overtures to the Pinkertons before negotiations with the men were interrupted, and did not appeal to the county or state authorities in the first instance for protection. He asserts that Sheriff McCleary was a very inefficient officer, but says had Frick aided him and joined in his appeal to the governor instead of employing Pinkertons he would have furnished a sufficient force to have protected the property.

Oates censures as unlawful the acts of the workingmen in turning away the sheriff and as insulting in hanging in effigy W. Hamblett, the says the purpose has moved b d association is to prev ment of nonunion men ods into s no organization has the righ force its wishes by resisting. The men had no right to resist the forces of the Pinkertons. Oates finds congress has no power over the questions involved. The enactment of a satisfactory arbitration law is well nigh impossible. As to whether congress has th power to regulate or suppress the Pinkerton men, Oates says he has no conclusion to express until the completion of the investigation next session.

CARROLL, Ia., July, 1889.

I was suffering 10 years from shocks in my head, so much so that at times I didn't expect to recover. I took medicines from many doctors, but did not get any relief until I took Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic; the second dose relieved me and 2 bottles cured me. S. W. PECK.

For many years I was sickly and very nervous, so that the least thing would frighten me, and my sleep was unrefreshing and I was so weak as to be unable to do any housework. Little Interest in the Matter.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Very little interest is displayed in official circles at Washington in regard to the report that Great Britain has arranged to establish a coaling station in the harbor of Pago Pago, Samoa, for the simple reason such a course of action is in strict accord with the terms of the treaty concluded between Great Britain and Samoa in 1870 and does not interfere or impair the rights or interests of the United States in any respect.

Kearsage Ordered to Honduras.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The United States steamer Kearsage, now in New York, has been ordered to sail at once to Honduras to look after American interests in that country. This action is not based on any recent information received from Honduras, but simply in accord with orders issued several days ago.

World's Fair Souvenir Coins.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The treasury department will take prompt measures for the execution of the provisions of the act appropriating $2,500,000 for the World's Columbian exposition and expects to have souvenir half-dollars coined. Bronze and vellum diplomas will be prepared in about six weeks. The designs of the souvenir coins have already been selected and the reverse will show the main building of the exposition and the obverse the head of Columbus. The plaster cast of the head of Columbus is made from a portrait of Columbus which is recognized by experts as nearly authentic as any that exists.

Deserted Congress Halls.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Rows of empty seats, desks littered with documents, heaps of waste paper, dust and dirt and the heavy, oppressive atmosphere, these are all that remain at the capitol to remind the stray tourist of the Fifty-second congress.

The Monetary Conference.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The president has selected Senators Allison and Jones, Representative McCreary, General Francis A. Walker of Massachusetts and Henry W. Cameron of New York to represent the United States at the international monetary conference.

Suing Her Husband's Slayer.

SEDALIA, Mo., Aug. 6.—Mrs. Wm. E. Condon, widow of a Missouri Pacific brakeman, who was shot and killed last spring by Wm. Parmerlee, a prominent young lawyer of this city, has filed suit in Pettis county against Parmerlee for $5000 damages.

A Fugitive Forger Returns.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 6.—James Hunter who, five years ago, startled the financial world by precipitate flight from this city, after putting out forged papers to the amount of $106,200 is held in $10,000 bail to answer. He has been in Brazil, is broken in health and his mind is shattered. Physicians had no hesitancy in pronouncing him incurably afflicted mentally. It is thought he will never be in a condition to stand trial.

Scouts the Idea of Garza's Arrest.

EL PASO, Tex., Aug. 8.—The Times contains a long interview with Colonel Louis Sandoval, in which the revolutionist leader scouts the idea of Texas deputy marshals arresting Garza. The most important feature of the interview is a discussion of the financial condition of Mexico. He says the actual condition of the country is one of financial embarrassment. General Diaz's lack of knowledge of governing the country has led to this crisis. He mortgaged the future of Mexico for $30,000,000 to build railroads and these roads by exorbitant rates have killed the prosperity of the country. The national treasury has not money to pay interest on railroad bonds for the coming year, and, to cover this it is proposed to float a loan of $20,000,000. Destitution is universal. If the proposed loan is not floated nothing is left but to take the money by force from the national banks to pay outstanding foreign debts. The state of Zacatecas has already reached this stage and is forcing the loan from the people.

A Fatal Dinner.

HARRODSBURG, Ky., Aug. 8.—Near Buena Vista a family named McIntyre and the cook ate cabbage for dinner and soon were taken with pains which caused the death of four of the family and the cook in a few hours. In looking for the cause of the sudden deaths it was found that a snake of the spreading viper species had been cooked in the pot with the cabbage. How the reptile got there no one knows.

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

Monday.

SENATE—The resolution extending until next Thursday the last year's appropriations for government bureaus, covered by and included in the sundry civil bill, still hanging in the house, passed without any division.—Almost all that occupied the attention of the senate were speeches on the tariff by Messrs. Hale and Hiscock, advocating and defending the policy of protection, and a statement by Mr. Vest respecting the profits of the Arlington wool mills.

HOUSE—The World's fair appropriation did not come up, but a bill passed changing the date of the dedication ceremonies to Oct. 21. Nothing further was done.

Tuesday.

SENATE—There was but one subject of public interest before the senate and that occupied attention for most of the three hours the session lasted. It was the resolution reported from the committee on education and labor for the appointment of a select committee of seven to inquir into the organization and employment of Pinkerton forces and under what authority they were employed and used in labor controversies. The resolution was adopted.

HOUSE—Business in the house was confined principally to taking recesses in order to enable the Democrats to talk over the situation and formulate some scheme of action. Resolutions revoking all leaves of absence, even those granted on account of sickness, were adopted and the sergeant-at-arms was directed personally, if need be, to enforce the attendance of absentees. Filibustering then began over the World's fair, which was continued until adjournment.—The committee on the Watson allegations of drunkenness heard Cobb's defense. He said he was not drunk, though during the speech referred to he drank beef tea and whisky. Watson said he had not meant to get Cobb into trouble and paid him a tribute.

Wednesday.

SENATE—A resolution offered by Mr. Pettigrew calling on the secretary of war for a report as to all army officers who have been tried by courtmartial during the past ten years, their rank, the offenses and verdict rendered and the imposed punishment was the subject of considerable discussion. Referred to the committee on military affairs.—Resolution reported for the appointment of a select committee of three to visit the Indian Territory to investigate the complaints of the Cherokees against intruders was placed on the calendar.

HOUSE—The peace committee reached an agreement on the following basis: The house shall vote down the Bingham motion and shall reconsider its action on the sundry civil bills. The senate's $5,000,000 World's fair amendment shall be disagreed to and the bill shall be sent back to the conference, with the house insisting that this item shall be eliminated from the sundry civil bill. Mr. Durborow's World's fair bill shall be taken up on Aug. 6, Saturday, shall be voted on. The amount carried by the bill, however, before the vote shall be reduced to $2,500,000 and made a direct gift. All members of the committee except Durborow voted for an agreement. The committee simply submitted the agreement to the caucus and members are not bound to vote in favor of the Durborow bill. They simply agree if the caucus adopts the proposition not to filibuster against it and each man reserves the right to vote for or against the Durborow bill. The understanding is a vote on this bill shall be final and the item is not to go back into the sundry civil bill. According to the terms of the agreement, appropriations are extended.

Thursday.

SENATE—The joint resolution extending until Aug. 10 the appropriations for the service of the government bureaus covered by the sundry civil bill was received from the house and passed.—The resolution reported from the committee on contingent expenses authorizing the committee on the quadro-centennial to visit the World's fair buildings to obtain information as to the expenditures was rejected.—After receiving a message from the house that that body insisted on the disagreement to the World's fair amendments to the sundry civil bill and requested a further conference, the senate adjourned.

HOUSE—Mr. Holman made a motion to suspend the rules and send the sundry civil bill to a further conference. Agreed to, 14 to 54. Mr. Reilly of Pennsylvania moved to suspend the rules and adopt a resolution providing that immediately after its adoption the house proceed to the consideration of the substitute for the Durborow bill, such substitute to be considered an original bill. Consideration shall continue from day to day and at 1 o'clock tomorrow the committee of the whole shall report the bill to the house and the previous question to be considered as ordered on its passage. No intervening motion will be entertained until the bill is finally disposed of. Mr. Bailey of Texas demanded a second and it was ordered by a vote of 185 to nothing.

Friday.

SENATE—The World's fair bill passed.—Resolutions offered by Messrs. Harris and Cockrell, giving the thanks of the senate to Vice President Morton and President pro tem. Manderson for the dignified, impartial and courteous manner in which they had severally presided over its deliberations, were adopted.—Final adjournment was taken at 11 p. m.

HOUSE—Durborow's World's fair bill passed.—Senate joint resolution passed authorizing foreign exhibitors at the World's fair to bring into this country foreign laborers to assist in preparing exhibits.—The senate joint resolution was passed extending the king and queen of Spain and the descendants of Christopher Columbus invitations to be present at the opening of the World's fair.—A message was received from the senate announcing the agreement to the conference report on the sundry civil bill. It was received with manifestations of approval, but no applause.—The speaker signed the sundry civil appropriation bill and his signature was the signal of general leave taking.—Final adjournment was then taken.

South Carolina Cotton Crop.

CHARLESTON, Aug 8.—The cotton outlook in South Carolina may be said not to be the best. From 10 to 20 per cent. less acreage was planted this season and the amount of fertilizers bought is at least 40 per cent. less than that of last year. The excessive rains in June and July, together with the recent unusually hot spell, has tended to delay the crop and it is as least two weeks behind in growth. The best reports are not altogether favorable. The plant has not fruited as abundantly as usual on account of the rapid growth during the wet weather. The recent hot sunshine and dryness has checked the rapid growth without causing the plant to shed its fruit on clay lands, but on sandy soils the plant has changed color and to some extent cast off its forms. The plant has taken on little or no fruit. Prominent cotton men in South Carolina are reticent about expressing their opinion as to the probable yield in the state, but it may be safely estimated at 10 or 12 per cent less than last year's crop, or about 585,000 bales.

THE COMING AMERICAN RACE.

It Will be Anglo-German With a Dash of Celtic Thrown In.

It is curious to note the shifting character of the immigration of this country. For a while we were threatened with an Italian deluge. When the colapse in the Argentine Republic and Uruguay turned the flood-tide of southern Europe in this direction the American ports were over-run with the brown race of Sicily and the Italian peninsula and one of the prophets began to predict that the American people would be Latinized. But the Italian immigration is already decreasing. The report of the bureau of statistics shows that the number of Italians arriving in this country during the nine months ending with March was 38,194, while during the corresponding period of the year proceeding it was 38,025, and still greatest for the year before that. The feature of the movement from Europe is the enormous growth of the Russian immigration. According to the Courier-Journal this is due to the causes—the increasing discontent throughout the empire and the Jewish persecution, the latter in particular being effective. As a source of human supply Russia now ranks next to Germany. During the last nine months we received from that country 62,219 immigrants, which was more than double the number for the equivalent period proceeding. A few years ago the immigration from Russia was so small that it was not worth mentioning. But there is one country from which the human stream is not subject to spasmotic increases or decreases. On the contrary it flows steadily on with gradually swelling volume, and the characteristic of that land, next to those of parent England, will always have a greater influence upon the United States.

The German nation has long furnished us with more immigrants than any other, and even the great Russian spurt has not been able to pass it. The German movement, which began a half a century ago, has been throughout that time unchecked, and is now larger than ever before. During nine months the total arrivals from the German empire was 76,128, and of the Germans from Austria, 20,497, this being an increase of about 17 per cent. in one year. The immigration from England, Scotland and Wales does not change much from year to year, but remains close to 60,000 annually. While on certain years Russia, Italy and other countries may go ahead, yet the Island of Great Britian remains, next to Germany, our chief source of human supply. Contrary to the general belief, the immigrants from Great Britian are much more numerous than those from Ireland. There have been periods when there was an enormous influx from Ireland, but for several years it has averaged not more than 30,000 annually. Obviously the Scandinavian blood—and a vigorous red blood it is—is destined to figure conspiciously in the composition of the Americans of the future. The arrivals from Sweden, Norway and Denmark are next in importance to those from Great Britian and Germany, and exceed by one-fourth those from Ireland. The Bohemian and Hungarian immigration is still large, but is increasing very little, while that from Portland is augmented considerably.

On the whole, after examining the figures for years, there is no reason to change the opinion of earlier investigators that the American race will be essentially a composition of the Teutonic people of northern and central Europe. It will be Anglo-German, with a Celtic dash, and it is too late for the Italian, Hungarian or Polish blood to have any effect upon it.—Chicago Herald.

Raise More Hogs.

T. T. Knight left monday for Purcell, I. T., where he will purchase a car load of hogs to be shipped to Dublin to eat up some of Erath county's immense corn crop. He will fatten them for the fall market and will doubtless make it a paying investment.

A Correction.

The PROGRESS has been requested to make the following corrections in its report of the assasination of Mr. R. L. Haley near Dublin, which appeared in our issue of last week.

That Mrs. Haley did not see the flash of the gun, but only heard the report, if she had seen the flash of the gun she would doubtless have seen the murderer.

That Mr. Haley was shot in the right side in place of the left.

Dr. Coleman, the great magnetic healer, is here and associated with Drs. Rew & Guyton, in the Dublin Healing Institute. Dr. C. has hundreds of excellent testimonials of cures of paralysis, rheumatism, neuralgia and all chronic diseases through his wonderful natural magnetism, Come and see him and his testimonials at the rooms of the institute, over Wasson & Miller's, Dublin, Texas.

Hamblett, the furniture man, makes a specialty of cabinet making in all forms and the best of workmanship.

Bad Behavior.

Boys that go to church should be taught to be quiet during services; only last Sunday certain young gentlemen(?) were continually talking, laughing and thumping peach peelings and making various noises, until those sitting near them couldn't hear the preacher. Such conduct should be checked by administering a first-class spanking, accompanied with a good lecture to have respect for others and not be continually making a fuss thereby depriving others of hearing or enjoying the services.

Aristippus and Æschines having quarrelled, Aristippus came to his opponent, and said, "Æschines, shall we be friends?" "Yes," he replied, "with all my heart." "But remember," said Arristippus, "that I being older than you, do make the first motion." "Yes," replied Æschines, "and therefore I conclude you are the worthiest man, for I began the strife and you began the peace."

To the voters of Erath county: Owing to my private business, which I could not foresee at the time of entering the race, that now prevents me from making a thorough canvass, I hereby withdraw my name from the race for Sheriff of Erath county. Thanking the people for their warm solicitations,

On account of the democratic convention the rate from Ft. Worth to Houston and return will be $8.60 and from all points on the Fort Worth and Rio Grande to Fort Worth 4 cents per mile for the round trip, good to return the 26th inst. The rate given above from Fort Worth to Houston and return will possibly be cut to $5.00, but $8.60 is the lowest rate yet authorized.

By the authority vested in me as chairman of the twenty-sixth senatorial district I hereby call a convention of the People's party to meet at Brownwood on the 16th day of August, 1892, at 10 o'clock, a. m., for the purpose of nominating a candidate for State Senator for said district.

I suggest that county chairmen call their respective county conventions on Saturday, the 13th day of August, to select delegates to said convention. J. H. BYRD,

A Political Revival at Lipan.

Special to the Progress.

The 4th of this month was a great day for the P. P. boys of this section. We had a picnic which was well attended by parties from Erath, Palo Pinto and Parker counties.

J. T. Petty gave an address of welcome which was well received. After which he introduced Hon. H. L. Jamieson of Dublin, who represented the platform and prinples of the People's party.

Mr. Jamieson spoke first on the conditions of the country; the cause and remedy. The propositions were well taken, logically discussed and sustained by timely proofs. He spoke an hour and thirty minutes and was followed by Judge C. K. Bell who spoke two hours and thirty minutes. The Judge used about an hour of his time trying to prove that the democratic party was a free silver party and wound up by saying it was not a paramount issue and would not benefit us any. Next he flew into the tariff and gave us the same old chesnut. After which he spoke on transportation and the sub-treasury. The Judge failed to elicit any enthusiasm—the propositions remained unanswered—the democratic platform ignored. His common-place generalities no longer blind the people.

Mr. Jamieson reviewed the Judge's speech for about an hour; he showed the action of the democrats on the silver bill in the last house, the fallacy of the tariff as was advocated by democrats and republicans and gave the true solution of the problem. He closed with an eloquent appeal to the people to unite in a common interest against a common foe. May he long be spared to champion the cause of the oppressed against the oppressor. J. D. STELL.

This is Pretty Good.

Mr. John C. Goodwin, a carpenter of Danville, Ill., writes: "About two weeks ago a heavy saw log fell upon my foot very badly crushing it, so that I was unable to walk at all. I sent for a bottle of Ballard's Snow Liniment and kept my foot well saturated with it. It is now two weeks since this happened, and my foot is nearly well and I am at work. Had I not used Snow Liniment I should have been laid up at least two months. For healing wounds, sprains, sores and bruises it has no equal. No inflammation can exist where Snow Liniment is used. "You can use this letter."

Beware of all white Liniments substituted for Snow Liniment. There is no other Liniment like Ballard's Snow Liniment. Sold by S. S. Davis. 3

Proclamation!

To the members of the Farmers Alliance—Greeting. The regular annual session of the Farmers State Alliance of Texas will convene in the city of Austin on the third Tuesday, the 16th day of August, 1892, at 9 o'clock sharp. This will be one of the most important sessions ever held in the history of our organization, hence the necessity of all delegates being on time and come to stay until the meeting adjourns.

Given under my hand and seal of office this the 21st day of July, 1892.

[SEAL]

EVAN JONES,
Pres. F. S. A. of Texas.

Brother R. C. Tillery of Ballinger, Runnels county, called in last Friday. He reports the sentiment in favor of the Alliance growing in his county and says he has hopes of it being organized soon. Runnels is the only county in the 8th district which has no county alliance organization.

R. A. Merrill, of Hobbs, says: Scurry county is solid for the Alliance and its demands.

The county Alliance of Mason county held an interesting meeting and took steps to build up the order in that county through a system of lectures, with the aid of reform literature—good.

F. M. Fletcher, of Panther, says: "We organized an Alliance at the Colony school house the 21st of April and now we have 40 members and several petitioning. The Alliance was never more flourishing in this (Hood) county than it is now."

N. C. West, Jr., of Carroll county, Miss., says: The Alliance in our immediate section is on a boom with the command of "forward, march!" We are not weary in well doing, but expect victory to crown our efforts this fall.

The Lord Chief-Justice, at the Birmingham assizes last year, said: "If England could be made sober three-fourths of her jails could be closed."

TEMPERANCE COLUMN.

MISSES CORA & ROWE MCKINNIE, Editors.

The Loyal Temperance Legion meets every Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock at Baptist Church.

W. C. T. U. meets at the residence of G. W. Andruss every Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

W. C. T. U. PLEDGE.

I hereby solemnly promise, God helping me, to abstain from all distilled, fermented and malt liquors, including wine, beer and cider, and to employ all proper means to discourage the use of and traffic in the same.

All can not be great in this life, but all can become great in the next.

The following persons are on the program for the next meeting of the Loyal Temperance Legion: Misses Ethel Lattimore, Laura Hilson and Albert Bailey.

Prohibitionists should send a card to P. H. Bailey, Houston, Texas, P. O. Box 19, for a sample copy of the Advance. This is the official organ of the Prohibition party of Texas and no Prohibitionist can afford to be without it. Also request that they send some million voters agreement blanks. Only a little over 2000 signatures have been sent in from Texas, while her quota is about 12,000.

* * * * *

Dr. Benjamin Richardson, of England, was a drinker when the London physicians assigned to him the task of investigating the action of alcohol on living tissues. He took a year for his experiments and came out a total abstainer; his science had convicted his conscience and controlled his life.

* * * * *

A writer in the Fortnightly Review, an English traveler, says: "The very air of Africa reeks with ram and gin, imported from England; every hut is redolent of its fumes. Over large areas drink is almost the whole currency, and in many parts the year's wages of the negro factory worker are paid altogether in spirits."

* * * * *

We can sometimes see better what a thing is at a little distance. The saloon, for instance, is so near to us, and is so tangled up with politics, and prejudices, and business affairs, that we can hardly see just what manner of institution it is. We have a specimen exhibited in London, however, which is far enough away to be seen without so many of these obscuring media. On Nov. 9 the police raided one of these licensed institutions and "captured ten burglars who were fairly loaded down with spoils. The saloon was filled with all sorts of plunder. Now, while all saloons in our cities may not be headquarters for burglars, thieves and burglars have their headquarters and hiding-places in saloons. —Christian Standard.

A NOTEWORTHY EXAMPLE.

If all women who are called to be social leaders would take the high ground on the temperance question which is taken by Lady McDonald, wife of the late Premier of Canada, a long stride would be made toward the solution of the question. This pretty story of Lady McDonald is told by a writer in the Northwestern Christian Advocate:

Another lady of high position met her at dinner one day, and was surprised to see that she took no wine, and at length asked:

"Did you not set out wine when you entertained the Marquis of Lorne?"

"Never," was the prompt reply.

"But did you not feel that you must apologize?"

"Certainly not. Wine is not a natural beverage, and so should rather come in than go out with an apology."

This answer and that example led the other lady to become an abstainer also.—Christian Standard.

Why Poor Stock.

One thing that we cannot understand is why some men are so particular about the crops they grow, buying the best implements with all the latest improvements for their cultivation, growing the largest crops possible and harvesting them in the best manner, pay no attention to the sort of stock or what they feed them. It is an anomaly in our farm practice, something that cannot be explained on any reasonable or sensible basis, and yet we see it done every day. Men who would laugh at the idea of following so old a method as to cut their hay with a scythe, who would hardly use a mower except of the most approved pattern, will yet keep cattle twenty years behind the time to eat their hay. There has been just as much improvement during late years in our farm stock as in implements with which we cultivate our land, and it will pay the farmer even better to keep up with modern progress in this line than any other. Some say they do not believe in thoroughbred stock; then they should not believe in improved machinery, in draining, in the silo, in the early maturity of fattening cattle, in growing of sheep for both mutton and wool, in any of the things that are helping to make our agriculture to-day a better agriculture than that of a generation ago. Some say they cannot afford high-class stock; then they cannot afford any expenditure that tends to better farming, for stock, and good stock, too, is the beginning and end of agricultural progress.—Colman's Rural World.

Wylie & Son are situated on the corner of Patrick and Elm streets in the McLemore building and have a nice, fresh stock of groceries at very low figures. They also handle the freshest country produce and solicit your trade.

In planting the garden bear in mind that it is not best to sow immediately before nor after a rain, it packs the soil down more or less, and it then cakes in the sun so that the seed sown on the same is almost sure to suffer. It is best to sow on a freshly turned soil, one that is light, loose and moist.

NOW TRY THIS.

It will cost you nothing and will surely do you good, if you have a cough, cold, or any trouble with throat, chest or lungs. Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds is guaranteed to give relief, or money will be paid back. Sufferers from la grippe found it just the thing and under its use had a speedy and perfect recovery. Try a sample bottle at our expense and learn for yourself just how good a thing it is. Trial bottles free at the Dublin Drug Co. Large size 50c. and $1.

LIVE STOCK DEPARTMENT.

Communications, practical suggestions, and results of personal experience on Live Stock will be appreciated from our readers and will tend to promote more local pride in the study of Live Stock culture.—EDITOR.

HORSES.

There is no danger of over-feeding either the colt or the work-horse if the right kind of food is used. Some men give their horses about half of what they want to eat so as to keep their digestive system in order and then go in and eat as big a dinner as they can and top off with pie. The horse needs a full-feed just as often as the owner does. Prof. Sanborn's experiments "seem to show that a rather large ration of grain for work horses is an economical one." Of course.

* * * *

It is not the amount of food consumed but that digested which keeps the horse strong and plump. A correspondent says he recently put two quarts of stones the size of hen's eggs in one of his mangers lately. The horse did not digest them—in fact he did not eat them but he eats his oats more slowly because he can't eat them so rapidly, and as a result, digests them fully. It is as easy for an animal to waste food by bolting it, as to poke it through a hole in the manger.

* * * *

Horses may need in the matter of watering all the care hereby urged, but they very rarely get it: "Feeding a horse principally on grain and driving it five hours without water is like giving a man salt mackerel for dinner and not allowing him to drink before supper time—very unsatisfactory to the man. If you know anything about the care of horses and have any sympathy for them, water them as often as they want to drink—once an hour if possible. By doing this you will not only be merciful to your animals, as they will do more work, they will look better and live longer," says an exchange.

* * * *

There are some points about horses that do not receive as much attention from us as they should. One of these is as to the age of which a horse is of the most value. In buying we always look for a young horse and sometimes pay pretty dear for the extreme youth. The fact is that there is more good service in a horse after it has passed its tenth year than before that, provided it has had proper care and has not been broken down by overwork or become unsound. In buying a very young horse there is always the danger of hurting it by too heavy work before it is fully matured, and consequently you do not get full service from it until it is about six years old. Another point in determining the value of a horse is to consider its walking gait. Some day we shall begin to train fast walkers as well as fast trotters. No matter where the horse is to be used—on the road, the farm or in the city work—about the most most valuable single quality it can have is to be a fast walker. It can then accomplish the maximum amount of work, day after day, with the minimum fatigue. Look at this point when you are buying.

CATTLE.

The export returns in full for the fiscal year ending June 30 are now available. From them are to be learned many things of interest to the producing public, and in it all is a little encouragement for cattlemen. In that year the total number of cattle exported alive was 380,177, against 355,878 in the preceding year. In the past year we sent out more live cattle than in any preceding year except the one ending June 30, 1890, when the total exceeded 400,000 head. Last year, too, prices were decidedly better than for some years previous the average export value per head having been $90, against $82.32 in the year preceeding.

* * * *

Referring to the decline in the Western ranges the Drover' Journal says: As the march of empire takes its way westward the prairies and plains of the great West that were once the boast of American pioneers are gradually converted into farms. It has been but comparatively few years since buffaloes, in herds of thousands, roamed these beautiful lands unmolested and unconfined by limitations of civilization. Now this pround specimen of the Western plain has passed away before the ceaseless tide of emigration, and in its stead herds of domestic cattle are reared to feed the hungry millions. But how long will these great fertile lands be open to the ranchman is a question which is beginning to assume a serious aspect. The encroachment of the agriculturist has already cut down this vast area, and what a few years ago was a boundless prairie where cattle were grazed without reference to territory, is now a series of ranches limited and confined by fences. In turn these ranches are being rapidly converted into tillable land, so that the possibility of an extensive herd is fast becoming a more serious problem. The day seems not very far distant when the range steer will have to give place to the more domesticated corn-fed beef.

HOGS.

If the fattening hogs are kept in a pen, give them a variety of food. It will help to keep them healthful.

* * * *

Brook sows especially are benefitted by a liberal diet of roots both before and after farrowing. It is a safeguard against weak, puny pigs.

* * * *

An absorbent of some sort should be used in the pens, but straw is not good in summer, as the hogs will nest in it and become too hot. Sawdust is a good substitute.

* * * *

It may be a bit of repetition to suggest that the hog likes clean quarters, but it is especially important to attend to this in hot weather if you desire to preserve its health.

* * * *

Field peas may be sown in summer and mature sufficiently for feeding. Hogs can be fattened on them quickly and cheaply and the improvement of the soil is no small item.

* * * *

Hogs need to be surrounded with proper sanitary conditions quite as much as any other class of animals. To our growing appreciation of this fact is due the decreasing ratio of losses.

* * * *

When marketing fall hogs if the weather is at all warm many careful farmers haul them to market instead of driving. The saving in shrinkage more than pays for the extra labor.

* * * *

Cheap corn makes many hogs, for it is then that their services are most needed as freight condensers. Quick growth, early maturity and compact form are essentials in this combination.

* * * *

With the present demand for lean meat, instead of a carcass larded with fat, it is comparatively easy to keep pigs in condition to market at any time. A little grain with the grass will do it.

* * * *

Do not feed the young pigs on fattening food. Keep them growing and in good condition all the time, but if they take on too much fat while very young it will be at the expense of the economical development of frame.

When you go to feeding corn find out how much hogs will eat up clean, and feed no more than that. There is no economy in throwing out a single ear to be trampled and soiled.

* * * *

Roots should have a place in the arrangements for winter feeding. A meal once or twice a week of beets or turnips will aid in the digestion and assimilation of the more heating food.

* * * *

Skimmilk and middlings will make growth, bone and muscle and a proper proportioned amount of flesh. Such feeding is especially within the reach of dairymen who wish to keep a few hogs as an adjunct to their other business.

* * * *

Pigs that are well fed in connection with a dairy frequently make three hundred pounds by the time they are eight months old. This pays better than the old way of feeding for that weight. The "old way," we may explain (for it is out of date now), was to keep the hogs eighteen to twenty months, feeding grain steadily the last three months, and making them weigh 300 to 350 pounds.

* * * *

It is much easier and more economical to maintain a healthy, vigorous growth than to start the pigs up again if once stunted. Don't make a set rule for feeding, but watch them all the time and give them what they appear to need.

DOGS AND SHEEP.

It is perhaps rather unfortunate, says a contemporary, that whenever friends of the wool-growing interest venture to urge that measures should be adopted for protecting the sheep interest from ravages of dogs, they should be promptly and energetically accused of wishing to bring about the extinction of the dog kind. Some extremists have done much to create a belief that all who wish to restrain the dogs are anxious to see this done most effectually by killing all dogs; but the truth is that some at least if not most, who urge that suitable laws should be passed and enforced for preventing loss of life and property through canine playfulness or viciousness are themselves admirers and friends of good dogs. These people would be very unwilling to see all dogs exterminated but they do want to see the scrub cur, which nobody can own without shame, prevented from inflicting further injury upon mankind. All who admire and appreciate well-dred dogs should join in the work of ridding the world of the mongrel scrubs, worthless and full of mischief as they are—Farmer's Voice.

A NEW LEAF.

After mature thought I have concluded to change my style of doing business. Heretofore I have been selling some goods on 30 days time and my goods have been marked in characters and some time they were marked at a price that would bear a cut.

After the First Day of September

I will mark all goods down to the lowest price and make them in plain figures and sell FOR SPOT CASH and ONE PRICE. I have marked all the goods in the house down to the one price figure and will mark all the new ones as they come in the same way. This will enable me to do business without a bookeeper and cut off a great many other expenses,

Therefore I Can Sell for less Profits than I have Heretofore Done.

Now if you want to see some cheap goods give me a call. You can buy as cheap from one clerk as you can from another, for my goods are one price to everybody. I have marked my goods so low that it astonishes me to look at them, but I am determined to sell them this way. Remember the date, September 1st.

I Will Positively Sell for Spot Cash and one Price.

If you do not wish to be refused do not ask for 30 days, 10 days nor 1 day. I have come to the conclusion from the experience of other men that this is the way successful merchants do business.

Yours Anxious to do Business on Strictly Business Principles.

The political pot boils high. Democratic primaries and conventions are over. So far as the party is concerned the interest of democracy is in good hands. The party is pledged from primaries and conventions to support the ticket from President Cleveland to constable. The party is sanguine of success on every count.

The People's party meets in convention at Eastland, I learn on the 18th inst. The interest of the People's party is in good hands. They are striving in every legitimate way to make themselves heard and understood. They have a good following in this county, and are counting on victory at the polls this fall. They are going to call out the best talent of the party to carry their banner in the front of the battle. Their cry is: "Give me victory or give me death!" The two parties have met upon the battle ground and are preparing for a faithful conflict this fall at the polls. Right is might and under God, will prevail.

Obituary.

Richmond L. Haley was born Nov. 28th 1850, in Kemper county, Miss. He professed religion and joined the Methodist church at the age of 22 years; where he lived a consistent member until the time of his death, which occurred July 30 1892, near Alexander, Erath county, Texas. He leaves a wife and eight children to mourn his loss. Brother Haley was a dutiful and law-abiding citizen, an affectionate and good husband, a kind parent and a trusty friend. Bro. Haley was coming home from Dublin in a wagon, and while opening a gate a short distance from his door a shot from an assassin's gun struck him and he never spoke any more. His remains we interred in the cemetary at Live Oak Grove, Texas. Brother Haley joined the Grange when he was 24 years old, and was a member of Restless Grange at his death.

Whereas, God, in His providence and working in a wise and mysterious way, has seen proper to remove from Restless Grange, No. 1046, our brother, R. L. Haley, and

Whereas, bowing in submission to His will, knowing that He doeth all things well, we deeply deplore the death of our beloved brother, therefore, be it

Resolved, That in the death of Bro. Haley, the Grange at Live Oak Grove, Texas, has lost a bright and useful member, the community a good citizen, the church a noble Christian, and the family a tender and loving husband and father; and we extend to the bereaved family our heartfelt sympathy and may the God who tempers the wind to the shorn land; that God who has promised to be a father to the fatherless, a husband to the widow, sustain them in this the greatest of all trials.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of the deceased brother and to the DUBLIN PROGRESS and Alexander News for publication, and also spread upon the minutes of the Grange.

Mr. Hamilton told a story at the democratic convention last Saturday about a tree that he had grown in his yard, and that it smelled so bad that he was compelled to cut it up, but it would sprout up every spring with the same old bad smell and he likened it unto the People's party. Mr. H. has carried the putrid smell of the corrupt old democratic party about him so long that he thinks every other party smells just as bad.

"Man is the creature of circumstances. Free, he has the qualities of a free man; enslaved, those of a slave."

The author of a great reformation is always unpopular in his own age. He generally passes his life in disquiet and danger. It is therefore for the interest of the human race that the memory of such men should be had in reverence, and that the memory of such men should be supported against the scorn and hatred of their contemporaries by the hope of leaving a great and imperishable name. To go on the forlorn hope of truth is a service of peril—who will undertake it, if it be not also a service of honor? It is easy enough, after the ramparts are carried, to find men to plant the flag on the topmost tower. The difficulty is to find men who are ready to go first into the breach.—Lord Macauley.

If Hogg is re-elected governor of Texas, watch cotton get cheaper than it was last year.—Bosque Citizen.

It is to be hoped that our friend Geers does not really hope that Gov. Hogg yields such an influence.

Two of the cannon which, it is believed, were at once time mounted on board Christopher Columbus' flagship were received at Chicago recently. The cannon are of the ancient and clumsy pattern of such guns turned out in the fifteenth century. Nothing but the body of the gun remains, the woodwork, of course, having rotted away centuries ago. The guns themselves are almost worn to pieces and are not much more than huge chunks of rust. Indeed, the cannon are put on the "scrap iron" list in custom house papers. These historic old pieces have been secured for exhibition at the World's Fair.
