Southerners Launch 'All-Out' Filibuster

Truman Asks Showdown

By ALLAN J. FUNCH
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Southern Democrats launched their "filibuster to preserve filibusters" today in an all-out fight which may stalemate President Truman's economic and civil rights programs.

Sen. George (D-Ga) opened the Dixie bloc's talkathon which some said may beat the two months of debate which preceded Oregon's admission into the union Feb. 14, 1859.

Shortly before the Senate met, President Truman told Vice President Barkley and Senate majority leader Lucas (D-Ill) that he wants an absolute showdown on the pending resolution to limit Senate debate by a two-thirds vote.

Kill Time With Questions

The President said he wants the showdown even at the cost of sidetracking other planks in his "fair deal" program.

Lucas, who previously had planned to interrupt the filibuster from time to time to act on other important measures, said the whole "fair deal" is now "in the hands of the gods."

In addition to George's speech, the southerners killed hours today by asking questions about anything and everything—some of the questions provoking long responses.

Night Sessions Hinted

Lucas spoke of demanding night sessions next week. The southerners responded privately that they are ready for the "longest and roughest" filibuster in history rather than let civil rights bills come to a vote.

George, who seldom makes a Senate speech, denounced the two-thirds "gag" rule as an assault upon the Constitution and the rights of the states.

He said the states are not equally represented in the Senate if two-thirds of the members can "foreclose resistance to bring up any measure." George warned:

"If you begin the whittling away process, you may be certain you will be whittling away the rights of the states in a federated union."

Ruling To Be Sought

George was the only major speaker to be heard in today's session, which ended at 6 p. m.

NINE MEN ON MISSING CRAFT

Search Is Underway For Plane Feared Crashed In West Texas

(By The Associated Press)

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 28—Six Air Force search planes were scheduled to take off at dawn Tuesday in search of a missing Air Force C-47 plane with nine men aboard. The plane, overdue at Kelly Air Force base, is feared down in the rugged West Texas terrain in the Kerrville-Junction area.

Planes were to arrive at Kelly AFB during the night to take part in the search. They included a B-17, C-82, C-47, a helicopter, and L-12 and L-5.

Air Force spokesmen said the ship left Biggs AFB, El Paso, this morning and was due in San Antonio at 10:06 a. m. It was based at Hamilton Field, Calif.

It was also learned, from other sources that the plane had radioed its last position as over the Childress ranch southeast of San Angelo. These sources also said the plane was believed to have run into a hail storm near Junction.

Neither of the reports could be verified by CAA or mili-

Congress Asked To Provide 'Home Relief' Plan Funds

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28. — The Truman administration asked Congress today for $200,000,000 to $250,000,000 a year to help provide home relief for all needy —including cost of medical care.

This would be added to the present $1,000,000,000 the federal government spends on direct assistance to dependent children, the blind and the needy aged.

The reaction on Capitol Hill was noncommittal, for the most part. How much, if any, of the program will be approved by Congress is uncertain.

Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the House Ways and Means committee declined to take a position one way or the other, pending study.

Poorhouse Claimed Abolished

Arthur J. Altmeyer, commissioner for social security, opened before Doughton's committee the administration's arguments backing President Truman's proposals for a vast expansion of the general social security program. He dealt with relief for the poor first.

Social security has abolished the poorhouse, Altmeyer said, and he set as the new objective: "Preventing destitution."

To this end he said Mr. Truman wants federal financial aid extended to all needy people, in a federal-state money matching system—up to $100 a month for a needy couple plus $20 for each additional person in a needy home.

Program Extension Asked

Moreover, Altmeyer proposed special attention to the medical needs of the poor. He testified:

"To enable states to make medical care available to needy persons, we believe that federal participation should be extended to payments made directly to individuals and agencies furnishing medical services and supplies to public assistance recipients."

Direct relief for all needy persons is one point in Mr. Truman's overall security program, which also includes:

1. Blanketing of 20,000,000 more persons—doctors, lawyers, farmers, businessmen, servants and others—under old age insurance, bringing the total number of persons covered to 50,000,000;
2. Greatly increased benefits; and
3. Boosting security taxes on pay and payrolls.

The President has sent this legislation to Congress. He has promised bills later calling for a national program of health insurance —with the government paying doctor bills with funds collected from new payroll taxes—and also calling for expansion of unem-

Seven Plains Residents Die In Violence

SEVEN persons suffered death by violence on the South Plains in the two-day period beginning Saturday night and ending at midnight last night.

Three were victims of traffic accidents, and four were dead from slayings—two in Lubbock, one in Hockley county and one in Lamb county.

Victims Are Listed

Victims of the slayings were:

Leonard Earl Bailey, about 50, of Myrtle Drive, who died from a deep stab wound in the heart about 3 a.m. Sunday in a three-quarters dugout on Myrtle Drive.

Adolfo Trujillo, 46, a Mexican of 106 Ave. N, who was shot fatally about 6:20 p.m. Sunday at 120 North Ave. M.

Roscoe Paul Snead, 52, of Ropesville, slain Saturday night by a shotgun blast in his residence.

Refugio Lara, about 20, a Mexican, who was shot through the throat with a single-shot .22 caliber rifle about 11:30 p.m. Sunday on a farm in Spade community.

Charges Are Filed

Lee Ivey, 50, of Myrtle Drive, a cook, was charged with murder with malice in connection with Bailey's death.

Statements by Ivey and several witnesses, given to A. W. Salyars, assistant district attorney, said Bailey's slaying grew out of "two quarrels" in the course of a poker game in the dugout.

During the second quarrel, witnesses said, Ivey accused Bailey of cheating. Bailey grabbed Ivey by the hair and pulled his head down. A knife was seen in Ivey's hand at that time, and one of the witnesses, and Ivey, said that they saw a weapon in Bailey's possession at the time.

They decided to go outside to fight and Ivey went up the stairs first, Bailey following. Bailey got almost to the top of the stairs and slumped. Grady Bradford, 25, of 1203 Thirty-seventh, and Butler Ralston, 20, said they were leaving and caught Bailey in their arms as he staggered.

Statement Is Made

They said they were not aware he was injured until they had reached the floor of the dugout and found blood on their hands and clothing.

Ivey, in his statement, told substantially the same story about the arguments and the plan to go outside to fight. He said: "He pulled his knife and I pulled mine.

WINTER RETURNS

Snow, Rain And Sleet Hit Area

The proverbial March lion roared into the South Plains and Panhandle a full 24 hours early Monday to give this area a chilly lesson in the vagrancies of Texas weather.

A cold drizzle that started falling early yesterday morning changed to snow about mid-morning, and at one time the fall became so heavy in the Lubbock area motorist reported visibility was cut sharply. Later in the day the snow gave way to sleet and occasional freezing drizzle as the temperatures held near the freezing mark.

Mercury Takes Tumble

While the assortment of precipitation failed to produce sufficient moisture to be measured at the Weather station north of town, the weatherman said Monday's reading held from a high of 37 degrees, registered between midnight and 6 a.m., to 30 degrees later in the day. At 11 p.m. the mercury had fallen to 29 degrees.

When the temperature dropped below freezing yesterday it broke a nine-day stretch in which no minimum reading below freezing had been recorded. Records at the station also showed that February was unusually warm, with temperatures for the month averaging almost three degrees above normal. Also, it was drier than average with the .29 inch of precipitation recorded for the month .29 inch below normal.

Warmup Seen Today

South Plains weather is expected to "settle down" today, the station predicted. Temperatures will be slightly warmer, ranging from a low of 27 to a high of 42 degrees.

Wednesday is forecast to be partly cloudy and warmer. Temperatures ranging from 32 to 55 degrees are foreseen.

The Associated Press reported that weather observers said the snow was caused by a high pressure area north of Texas. Winds are circulating around the center. The winds gathered up moisture from Gulf areas. This moisture was precipitated as rain and snow when the winds were forced upward by differences in elevation.

Reporting snow at the 6:30 p.m. weather roundup were Amarillo, Clarendon and Childress. Earlier, snow was reported at Big Spring and Guadalupe Pass.

Temperatures at 6:30 p.m. ranged from the low 30s in the Panhandle to the mid-50s on the coast and in the Rio Grande valley.

Forecast for Tuesday was for continued cool weather with cloudy skies.

A day's respite in rain improved flood conditions along Texas streams. All except the lower Trinity were receding.

R. L. Thurman Fatally Hurt Near Anton

ROBERT L. Thurman, Sr., 59, of 1917 Twenty-fifth, local real estate man and resident of Lubbock since 1935, was fatally injured about 5:15 p. m. Monday when his car and a butane transport collided in the outskirts of Anton on the Lubbock-Littlefield highway.

He was rushed to Payne-Shotwell hospital in Littlefield by a Hammons Funeral home ambulance from Sudan. He died about 5:45 p. m. His injuries, it was reported, consisted of a crushed chest and a head injury.

Thurman's death brought to seven the number of deaths by violence over the South Plains in the last three days.

Traffic Is Changed

Butane from the smashed truck tank spread over the highway at the wreck scene near Anton and State Highway patrolmen diverted traffic around the area Monday night in an effort to prevent a spark from setting off a dangerous fire.

State highway patrolmen, who could find no eye-witnesses to the accident except the driver of the truck, gave the following account of how the accident probably occurred:

The butane transport, driven by Marvin Lewis McGilvary, 32, of Canyon, a driver for Western Transport of Lubbock, was going toward Littlefield, having loaded the butane in Lubbock for delivery to Dimmitt.

Driving Toward Lubbock

Thurman, driving a 1946 Plymouth sedan, was coming toward Lubbock, returning from New Mexico where he had gone on business, the family said.

Investigating patrolmen said that a study at the wreck scene and McGilvary's information indicated that Thurman's car momentarily slipped over the center line of the highway onto the left side, then just after McGilvary cut to his left Thurman apparently turned back to the right hand side of the pavement.

Thrown To Highway

The smaller vehicle struck the side of the truck just in front of the right rear wheels, the wheels of the heavier vehicle almost go-

Solon Says New Lines Would Boost 'Take'

Legislator Calls For Levy On Natural Gas

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Feb. 28. — The 51st Legislature's first natural gas tax bill was sent to subcommittee for three weeks study tonight by the House committee on Revenue and Taxation.

The vote was unanimous.

The action was taken on a measure by Rep. Deno Tufares of Wichita Falls, levying a one and one-half cent tax on each 1,000 cubic feet of natural gas. Tufares told the committee the building of new pipelines would boost the yearly take from his tax to around 60 million dollars.

Action Follows Arguments

The committee acted after opponents testified the tax would be borne mostly by Texas people, and proponents argued the burden would fall on consumers in the north and east.

Tufares explained his bill—the first important tax measure to face a test in the 51st Legislature — as a levy on the privilege of engaging in the natural gas business.

Under questioning by committee members, Tufares said the bill would cost the average home consumer around $4.17 a year if the tax is passed on, but he explained such rate increases would have to be approved first by city governments.

Hearing On Repeal Set

Rep. Jerry S. Steward of Fairfield asked Tufares if it wasn't a fact that he had made his race for the legislature on a platform "agitating for a tax against the big oil companies," but Chairman Joe B. Fleming stopped this line of questioning by sustaining a point of order against it.

Before taking up the Tufares bill, the committee set for hearing at 7:30 p. m. March 21 a bill by Rep. Davis Clifton of Farmersville to repeal the four cents

Five Ministers Confess Guilt

By IRVING R. LEVINE
INS Staff Correspondent

SOFIA, Feb. 28—Five more Protestant ministers rattled off similar confessions today at the trial of 15 Bulgarian churchmen accused of treason, espionage and illegal currency deals.

Like the three Protestant leaders who confessed previously, the Revs. Georgi Chernev, Lombri Mishkov, Georgi Vasev, Haralan Popov and Yoncho Driankov said they supplied information to Anglo-American representatives and championed the United States and Britain.

But unlike the three who admitted their guilt in the first two days of the trial, all but one of the defendants confessing today kept a firm grip on their emotions. The exception was the Rev. Popov who broke into tears and told the court "I beg you to impose punishment on me."

(In Belgrade two priests were among four persons sentenced today to hang by a Yugoslav "peoples' court" for wartime espionage and collaboration with the Nazis and Italians.

Truman Breaks Precedent To Attend War College Lecture

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (INS)—President Truman broke precedent today by attending a top-secret war college lecture on "Axis strategy in World War II."

Shortly before 3 p. m., the chief executive, apparently unexpectedly, arrived at the National War college which is supervised by the joint chiefs of staff.

The 90-minute lecture was delivered by University of California history professor Raymond Sontag. Contents of the talk were "entirely classified."

No Cut Seen In Aid To England

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28. (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations committee won't cut Britain's $940,000,000 share of proposed new Marshall plan money, Chairman Connally (D-Tex) predicted today.

Connally spoke after the committee had taken a searching second look at British needs. American officials told them that any reduction would endanger the European recovery program. They called the British figure a "tight fit."

The review was ordered because a British official said in a speech that economy recovery there had about been completed. Congressmen raised their eyebrows. The British official hastened to explain that stability required every bit of U. S. aid obtainable. And London and Washington governments emphasized that needs were not exaggerated.

Connally told reporters he does not think there will be any "material change" in the British share of $5,580,000,000 requested to run the Marshall plan to July 1, 1950.

The committee will finish work on the bill in executive session, perhaps starting tomorrow. It has been expected to approve the full amount. There was no indication it had changed its mind.

Canada Man Fires Bullet Into Mouth, Wrecks False Teeth

(By The Associated Press)

SAULT ST. MARIE, Ont., Feb. 28—Police said George Hatfield put the barrel of a .22 caliber rifle in his mouth and pulled the trigger.

The bullet ran around the inside of his false teeth and came out of his mouth.

Dr. J. E. Grimby, who treated Hatfield for a cut tongue, said the man was alive because:

The bullet was 10 years old.

The false teeth were in its way.

The teeth were wrecked.

Solons Ask Ruling On College Construction

AUSTIN, Feb. 28. (AP)—What is a "permanent improvement" and what is a "repair" for a state college?

Members of a House Appropriations subcommittee want the attorney general to decide so they can determine how much money the legislature should give state universities and colleges for the next two years.

Rep. Preston Smith of Lubbock, chairman of the subcommittee, said today that state schools are asking money for new sewer systems, new heating systems, wings on buildings, paving and to purchase additional land.

If these are permanent improvements, the subcommittee believes the schools are not entitled to legislative appropriations to pay the expense. But if such work comes under the heading of repairs, the House sub-group thinks the legislature can vote to spend the money.

Smith said the question arose because of a provision in the college Building Constitutional amendment which authorizes schools to issue bonds for financing of permanent improvements and new buildings.

Smith anticipated the total appropriation for institutions of higher learning will be about 65 million dollars for the next two years. Approximately 76 million has been requested.

House Committee Approves Bill To Finance Rural Phone Lines

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28. (AP)—The House Agriculture committee approved today a bill to permit financing of country telephone lines by the Rural Electrification administration.

Sponsored by Rep. Poage (D-Tex), the bill would provide for 35-year loans at two per cent interest, the same as now available for electrifying farms.

The bill would protect existing telephone companies by limiting loan applications for six months to companies in business now.

Congressmen Fail To Agree On '49 Cotton Crop Legislation

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28. (AP)—Senate and House conferees failed today to reach an agreement on legislation affecting this year's cotton crop.

Quick accord came, however, on a provision that 1949 plantings of cotton shall not be used in figuring future acreage allotments.

Disagreement arose over whether a farmer should be given cotton land credit for acreage planted in so-called war crops in 1945, 1946 and 1947.

Agreement Made On Water Laws

AUSTIN, Feb. 28. (AP)—D. A. Bandeen, manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, said tonight that "a 100 per cent agreement" had been reached on a proposed revision of the State Surface Water code.

Officials of the WTCC met here today with officials of the Texas Water Conservation association for a final compromise session over the controversial water issue.

Amendment Is Planned

The WTCC originally submitted 17 protests to the suggested bill drawn up by the TWCA. The two groups met in Austin about two weeks ago and announced they reached a general agreement.

Bandeen said tonight that five amendments wil be offered by Rep. Bill Tippin of Abilene when the bill comes up before a House committee possibly next week.

He said the five amendments would redefine the rights of appropriating water and water priorities, and would restore the right of municipalities to recapture water from industries and irrigation.

Top Officials On Hand

The WTCC contended throughout the controversy that the proposed bill did not protect the water supplies of West Texas cities against big dams and power projects on the lower reaches of the

Gen. Clay Asks To Be Retired From Duties

BERLIN, Feb. 28 (AP)—Gen. Lucius D. Clay said tonight he has asked informally to be retired from his duties as United States military governor of Germany.

It appears likely there may be a complete change in American administration here by early summer. Clay's retirement would certainly be followed by wholesale resignations among the top advisors in the military government.

Three generals have been mentioned as possible successors. They are: Gen. Mark Clark, former military governor of Austria; Lt. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, who has asked to be relieved of his post as ambassador to Moscow, and Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer.

Clay told an informal news conference in Frankfurt that he had no information about who might succeed him.

Property Valued At $600 Stolen

Several thefts, in which property and cash amounting to more than $600 were taken, were under investigation of law enforcement officers Monday.

A paint grinder, a cutting torch, two cutting tips and 40 feet of double hose—valued collectively at $200.50—were stolen from a building at 1911 Fourth street, Floyd McMakin of 108 Ave. V told police.

Mrs. Otis Jones of 319 Sherman said a man's wrist watch valued at $79 had been stolen from her residence Sunday morning while she was at church.

Billfold Stolen

An electric guitar, electric pick-up and mike, total value $150, were reported stolen from the car of V. A. Ryan of Lubbock route 7. The property was later recovered under a culvert where thieves had evidently hidden it.

A billfold containing about $5 and a $120 check were stolen from Omar Joe Norris of Lubbock route 2 while he was at Texas Tech, officers were told.

Chrome trim, two hub caps and a horn rim from the steering wheel of a car were taken from L. W. Evans, who lives on Idalou highway. A radiator, generator, carburetor and battery were reported stolen from him about a week ago. Aggregate value of the property was set at $75.

Clarence Hill, 20, charged here by indictment of felony theft, was returned to Lubbock Sunday by Dep. Sheriff J. L. Pounds. Hill was indicted by a November grand jury, officials said.

ALGER Hiss did a remarkable job of knocking the wind out of Whittaker Chambers's testimony, when the former State Department official confidently took the stand before the House Un-American Activities Committee to retort to the charges.

No. 21

Our espionage inquiry plainly was tottering. President Truman took the occasion to call the hearing a "red herring"—his first use of the term—and added that the Communist document-stealing ring existed only in the mind of Acting Chairman Mundt. The publicity the Committee hearings had received had inadvertently taken the news play away from Mr. Truman's special session of the 80th Congress.

There was little optimism in our little subcommittee as we rode to New York on the night of August 6, 1948, to confront Chambers with the brunt of Hiss's de-

FARMERS' WIVES SEEK BETTER KNOWLEDGE

Woman Commentator Will Conduct Midwestern Housewives On European Tour In Peace Cause

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE
INS Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Feb. 28 — Mary Foster has broadcast kitchen recipes to midwest housewives for ten years—but today she's in Europe with a new kind of recipe—for peace, not popovers!

With her are 30 farmers' wives whom she plans to "mix well" with Europeans. She hopes the result will be a palatable concoction much needed in the international diet.

Snub-nosed commentator Foster, youngish Mary Margaret McBride of Nebraska, had always been strictly chatty and domestic on the radio—till last month.

Gets Huge Response

But on one of her early-January radio shows she suddenly decided to speak her mind instead of her script.

"I think it would be a good idea," she ad-libbed, "if midwestern housewives would prove they aren't isolationists. I think they should go to Europe and study conditions, with a view to furthering international understanding.

"Don't you?"

Mary Foster's sincere "Don't You?" brought a three-thousand letter response.

It seemed that every housewife in Nebraska, Iowa, South Dakota and Wisconsin was eager to "further international understanding"—and at her own expense. But she wanted to be conducted to Europe personally by Mary Foster.

Mary, who is 30 and has never been out of the country, gulped several times. Then she caught onto the idea's possibilities, and "went to work on them."

Journey Is Arranged

Despite the storm crises in the four states in which her interested housewives lived, she managed to shuffle the necessary correspondence back and forth.

She put travel bureaus and civic organizations and her radio sponsor to work on the problem. She planned a committee to sift out the applications for the European pilgrimage. She saw to it that all the winning applicants were:

(1) In good health.

(2) Civic leaders in their communities.

(3) Able to pay for the journey.

(4) Willing to cooperate in the real mission: Strengthening international friendship on a person-to-person basis.

Mary Foster is the jolly, slightly chubby "baby" of the crew she selected. As the youngest (and only unmarried) member of the 30-day friendship tour, she assumes full responsibility for the crowd.

"I'll even give advice to Mrs. McMullen, I guess," she grins.

Mrs. McMullen is 77 years old, from Stella, Neb.

But despite her comparative inexperience, Miss Foster thinks she can handle the task.

To See Pope

As she prepared to leave New York the past weekend, she stood in direct center of her hotel room and stated positively: "Everything's under control."

It was.

"I have here," she pointed out with a sweep of her hand, "the invitation to luncheon at the Vatican. We're going to see Pope Pius XII.

"And I have here an invitation from Lady Astor. We're going to see her in London."

The itinerary also included meetings with political leaders, receptions by confederations of agriculture, notations on shopping and fashion tours, and lists of European families with whom the tourists are scheduled to stay overnight.

Still slightly bewildered from the suddenness and the "bigness" of her mission, she stopped just a moment in her packing to say: "I'm scared though. Now that I know I'm going, all I want to do is get back!"

The most frightening part of it all, she confessed, is the equipment she's taking with her to make possible the transcribing of daily radio shows during the trip.

"I have 138 pounds of rotary converters, transformers, wire recorders, mikes and tubes—but what to do with them?" she said. "Look at the directions the engineer wrote out for me. . ."

The directions, pasted in the top of the transformer case, started: "Step-down transformer plugs into 230 volts A. C. then the output plug gives you 1110-120 volts A. C. If only D. C. available, use rotary converter with clips attached to storage battery or. . ."

Mary Foster crinkled her forehead as she read them again.

"Oh well," she said, and snapped the box shut. "Everything's under control, like I said."

BORDERLINE ANEMIA*

IS A THREAT TO YOUR PEP!

Do you tire too easily? Is your color fading? Often, these effects come from red blood cells that are too faded and weak. You may have a Borderline Anemia, due to a ferro-nutritional blood deficiency.

Medical studies say that up to 68% of women — many men and children — drag through life with this Borderline Anemia.

If you have this Borderline Anemia, you need Ironized Yeast Tablets! They are specially formulated to help build up faded, puny red blood cells to healthy redness and size, and thus permit your color and energy to come surging back. Of course, continuing tiredness and pallor may come from other causes—see your doctor regularly. But in this Borderline Anemia, take Ironized Yeast Tablets. Take them to reclaim your vitality, your healthy color, your enjoyment of life!

*Due to a ferro-nutritional blood deficiency, a condition for which Ironized Yeast is specially formulated.

'Atomic' Cornerstone Laying Ceremony Set

NEW YORK, Feb. 28. (U.P.)—Atomic energy will be used to lay the two-ton, granite cornerstone for the new 19-story Crowell-Collier Publishing company building at ceremonies Tuesday on the site of the famous old Vanderbilt mansion at Fifth avenue and 51st street.

Dr. J. R. Dunning, Columbia university nuclear scientist who will supervise the event, said it will be the first such use of atomic energy.

The big cornerstone will be suspended one foot above its ultimate resting spot by a chain hoist, on top of which will be a motor. Between the stone and the motor a four-inch ribbon will be stretched and to it will be attached a magnesium flare.

With a miniature atomic pile, a reactor, an amplifier and two relays—one attached to the motor and the other to the flare— sufficient atomic energy will be produced to ignite the flare, cut the ribbon and start the motor, Dr. Dunning said.

As the motor starts, the stone will be lowered into its proper position.

Woman Disguised As Man For 20 Years Arrested In Denver

DENVER, Feb. 28. (AP)—Billie Morrison wanted to leave her husband 20 years ago, and thought it would be easier to get away from the small Texas town in men's clothing.

She put on pants and, except for one brief return to dresses, she's been masquerading as man ever since. She probably still would be today but for an argument with her daughter.

"It's easier to get along in the world as a man," she told Detective-Sgt. William Sanders.

Sanders said the 36-year-old woman and her 19-year-old daughter, Judy, started arguing in a bar yesterday. When they returned home the argument continued. Finally, he said, Judy ran into the street and told her mother's secret to a policeman. The two were arrested for investigation.

She moved to Denver from Amarillo five years ago and worked as cook here.

How Mr. Johnson gets good telephone service

Mr. Johnson just got the telephone he and his family have been waiting for. No individual lines were available, so he took a party line.

Now Mr. Johnson is wondering . . . "A party line . . . hum-m-m . . . what kind of service?"

Party-line service is good when everyone on the line gets a chance to call—or be called. You can't use the line when someone else is using it, of course. But no one else can use it when you are—so it's "even Stephen." That's why thoughtfulness, a little practice of the golden rule, can do wonders on a party line.

As soon as people waiting for telephones have them and nobody needs to wait, we'll be able to get Mr. Johnson and everyone else the type of service they want. Happy day!

IF LUBBOCKITES continue to make names for themselves in at art world, it is altogether possible that in years to come our city will have its own art colony. Most of our artists are so reticent about honors coming their way, we learn of them only by accident. But other cities publicize their talented residents and we'd like to do the same.

The most recent acclaim coming our way was the splendid showing Lubbock exhibitors made in the first annual Texas Crafts show in Dallas in which 90 artists submitted 44 entries. Two first prizes and two second prizes were won by Lubbock people and entries were accepted for exhibit from articles sent by eight others.

Exhibitors included teachers of crafts from the art department at Texas State College for Women, Denton; Southern Methodist university, Dallas, and others, as well as craftsmen having their own studios in Dallas, Houston, San Antonio and other cities.

Visitors to the Dallas show were quoted as showing amazement at how wisely and well crafts were practiced throughout the state.

MISS Quepha Rawls, 1948 graduate of Tech and art teacher at J. T. Hutchinson Junior High school, won first in the show's woodcarving division with a tray carved from white pine and second in textiles with silk screen printed material for a blouse.

Miss Martye Poindexter, head of the department of applied arts at Texas Tech college, won first prize in printed textiles with a block printed silk scarf.

Mrs. E. Douglas Anderson, a senior applied arts student, won second prize for a mahogany coffee table designed and made in a woodworking class taught by Mrs. Troy Lockard.

MRS. Bruce Bryan, who was represented in the Dallas show with a stamped copper tray, has done some wonderful things in medal. Incidentally, her husband shares her enthusiasm in this work.

Then there is Mrs. R. D. Erwin who is preparing her second one-man show in Santa Fe and Mrs. Chester A. Hubbard continues to win recognition for her lithographs and sculpture.

Yes, it appears that Lubbock is more than holding its own where art is concerned.

JIFFY PINS

THANKS to a new hair styling innovation, broken fingernails and chipped teeth caused by the difficult feat of opening bobby pins, are things of the past. The manufacturer calls it "jiffy pin" because it is just that and only one pin is necessary to hold a curl firmly in place.

The tip of a jiffy pin is ingeniously curved to allow you to open it with finger and thumb. Made of finest clock spring steel, it comes in black or bronze, 30 on a card for ten cents.

PAT Findley, who lives in Tech Women's dorm 4, got the wrong coat when she left a DFD rush party Feb. 8. When she needed her coat Sunday, she noticed the switch. She hopes the owner of the garment will get in touch and they may exchange them.

IN ANSWER to 500 queries, Mrs. Bernice Carnahan got busy and traced the melody for the Stop the Music program on Sunday night. It is a toast written by John Parry. Mrs. Carnahan says, and goes like this:

Today's Town Talk

MRS. MARY E. PAYNE, 2111 Fifteenth, has received a recent letter from her daughter, the former Ruth Marie Payne, and now Mrs. Milton Roelofs, who is living in Germany.

Captain Roelofs is stationed at Kaufbeuren Airbase in Germany, 19 miles from Mendelheim, where he is connected with the Personnel Affairs office and heads the German Youth Assistance movement in that area.

Mrs. Roelofs writes that the couple, along with their two children, James, 2, and Martha Lee, 5, made a recent vacation tour of Austria. They visited the home and birth place of Mozart in Salsburg, took a sight-seeing bus to the top of Hitler's former mountain retreat, and stopped at Berchtesgaden. Also they went through the Austrian salt mines and visited Laudsberg.

It was here, while dinner dancing at their hotel, that the Roelofs saw Tyrone Power and his bride in the ballroom, and learned that they were spending a part of their wedding trip there. The climax of their trip was a mile long cable car ride to the top of Fort Predistube mountain, where they stayed at a picturesque ski-lodge.

The Roelofs call the Swiss Alps, where they spent the winter, indescribably lovely, and enjoy living in Mendelheim, a small farming and dairy village. The Captain likes his work immensely and has even organized extra-curricular basketball teams for his young friends. The family may return to the states in April.

R. C. Tucker, Clayton Carter, T. F. Wiesen and Walter Clayton will reign supreme as pancake mixing kings tonight at a Shrove Tuesday supper to be prepared and served in Seaman hall at 6:30 o'clock.

Sponsoring the entertainment will be the Woman's Auxiliary of St. Paul's Episcopal church. Watching the foursome of flapjack flippers should make it an evening to remember.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Taylor, who have recently moved to Hobbs, N. M., were weekend visitors in Lubbock.

Mrs. Merrill Turner, the former Beulah Dunn, accompanied by her husband, visited her sisters, Mrs. R. O. Short and Miss Mary Dunn, over the weekend.

Looking well and attractive, Mrs. Turner is engrossed in her home and yard and study and garden clubs in Meridian. She has given up teaching violin, since she feels that the homemaking and teaching careers cannot be combined successfully.

nials.

We met the Time editor at 10:30 the next morning in the Federal Court House, Foley Square. At the start we were frankly skeptical of him, but he blandly ignored this and began adding a great store of detail to the astonishing story he had told earlier.

Gave Unusual Details

Chambers added facts which only an extremely intimate friend of Hiss (or one who had hired dozens of private detectives to compile a report on Hiss) could have provided. This is what he testified under oath:

Mrs. Hiss called her husband "Hilly." He called her "Dilly" or "Pross." Members of the Communist group called them "Hilly and Dilly" when they spoke of them. The Hisses lived in a series of frugally decorated homes, had a cocker spaniel which was occasionally boarded at a veterinarian's on Wisconsin Avenue, employed a part-time cook and cleaning woman, vacationed on the Eastern Shore of Maryland, never drank at home, ate very simply.

They were amateur ornithologists, and once returned to their home, where Chambers said he spent considerable time, and reported excitedly that they had seen a prothonotary warbler during a walk near Glen Echo. Hiss owned a battered Ford roadster, with manual windshield wipers.

AT THE time he knew them, Chambers went on, the Hisses were raising the son of Mrs. Hiss by her former husband, Thayer Hobson, New York publisher. The boy, Timothy, was nicknamed Timmie. Hobson was paying for his education, but Hiss, said Chambers, took the boy out of an expensive school, placed him in a reasonable one, and contributed the saved money to the Communist Party.

Hiss insisted on giving the battered Ford to the Party, for use by "some poor organizer in the West or somewhere," and Chambers further related that he and his own boss, J. Peters, reluctantly agreed to this—for it was against Communist underground rules to do anything with a car except trade it in. Hiss delivered the car to a car lot owner, of Communist tendencies, in Washington.

Hiss walked with a slight mince, said Chambers, had cordial but not very intimate relations with his mother and sister, played tennis. Mrs. Hiss was the former Priscilla Fansler, from Great Valley, near Paoli, Pa. She was from Quaker stock, and once showed Chambers the road down which her family's farm lay, when the Hisses and Chambers were driving in that area.

Brother Also Took Job

Donald Hiss, Chambers continued in his calmly detached way, was not as bright or as sensitive as his brother, "who is a man of great simplicity and a great gentleness and sweetness of character." Donald impressed Chambers, the latter testified, as a social climber whose efforts in that direction were approved by the Communist Party. Donald became fairly friendly with James Roosevelt, Chambers continued.

Donald Hiss "submitted to discipline" in accepting a job as legal adviser to the Philippine Section of the State Department, though he preferred another Government post which would have brought him in contact with Harry Bridges, Chambers went on impassively.

The editor related that the Alger Hisses moved from 28th street, N. W. in Washington, to Georgetown, then to another Georgetown home nearby, where their dining room was in the basement, then to an address near Wisconsin Avenue. They slept in a double bed. Their library was "nondescript." They did not own a piano. They did own, among other things, he said, a red leather cigaret box with gold tooling.

HISS wore glasses only for reading, Chambers went on. He was slightly deaf in one ear. As a boy in Baltimore, according to Chambers, Hiss used to pull his small wagon to Druid Hill Park, fill up with bottles of spring water, bring them back and sell them. As a "dedicated and disciplined Communist" he was forbidden to go to church.

At the end of the man's incredibly detailed account, Chambers was asked by Rep. Nixon if he would submit to a lie detector test.

"Yes," he said, calmly, "if necessary."

"You have that much confidence?" Nixon asked him.

Chambers looked at him oddly. "I am telling the truth," he said, quietly.

Dazzled by detail, we returned to a Washington that was calling for the Committee's scalp. I made a quick list of every statement Chambers had made and detailed a quiet, middle-aged woman on our research staff to check on each item. She worked diligently, combing the records of Timmie's schools, employment agencies, the veterinarian concerned, car registrations, real estate offices and the like.

All Details Checked

Everything jibed except in minute instances.

While she worked, and Presidential and other abuse rang in the Committee's ears, a number of others who had been named with Hiss showed what, for some, was their first interest in being heard by the Committee.

We did not call Hiss again until August 16. But between August 9 and August 13 the witness chair was seldom cool.

We heard twice from Alexander Koral, an accused Communist courier who declined to answer most of the questions directed at him; Victor Perlo; Gilda de Frank Burke, Nathan Gregory Silvermaster's former secretary who testified that Silvermaster had frequently called most of those accused Government officials he refused to identify while on the stand; and twice from Duncan C. Lee, the former OSS counsel, who denied all charges and called Elizabeth Bentley a leftish "nuisance" his wife and himself had tried to ditch.

We heard also from Major William Ludwig Ullmann, who gave us the now familiar "I refuse to answer that question on the ground that it would incriminate me"; Robert T. Miller, a writer and former Government employee, who denied he had supplied Miss Bentley with state secrets, and Henry H. Collins, who declined to answer any questions about who had come to his Washington apartment or whether or not he was a Communist.

IN ADDITION we heard from Charles Kramer, who also declined to answer most of the questions; George Silverman, former assistant to General Bennett Meyers, who also stood on his Constitutional privilege of refusing to answer key questions; Donald Hiss, whose replies and denials were nearly as clear-cut as those of his older brother and who strongly demanded that he or Chambers be jailed for perjury; several others, and key witnesses Lauchlin Currie, former aide to F.D.R., and ex-Secretary of Treasury Harry Dexter White.

Currie, who had left the Government to head an export-import firm, conceded that he knew most of those mentioned in the case up to that point, but only socially. He ducked no questions, denied all charges, and was commended by Rep. Mundt "on his attitude before the Committee, which is certainly refreshing following the series of witnesses to whom we have been compelled to listen over the past week."

White, like Currie, stated that he had been in Silvermaster's basement but had not noticed any photographic equipment, though he knew Ullmann, who lived there, was an excellent photographer. We showed his a real estate advertisement which had appeared just at this time in a Washington paper, offering the same house for sale and extolling its "excellent photographic room" in the basement, but that did not refresh his memory.

The former "Little Cabinet" officer said, with a smile, that it was "disconcerting" to be linked with the names that had previously been read into the record. He knew many of those concerned, he conceded, but only socially, and never suspected any of subversive activities. He interceded in Silvermaster's behalf, when the latter was facing suspension or disqualification as a Communist, "Because I will do a lot for my friends, good friends, and that was the least any decent human being could do for a man who we thought was innocent."

White testified that he did not know Chambers, and thus, as Chambers had stated, could not have been "in a very agitated frame of mind" when Chambers allegedly asked him to break with the Communist movement.

CHAIRMAN J. Parnell Thomas thanked White for appearing. Earlier in the hearing he had read aloud a note which White had sent to the chair:

"I am recovering from a severe heart attack. I would appreciate it if the chairman would give me 5 or 10 minutes rest after each hour."

In relation to this, White explained that he had overtaxed his heart during his days as a tennis player and baseball player.

Thomas's prompt, "Yes, sir!" was applauded by the crowded caucus room.

But that was about the only applause forthcoming.

"A red herring of the strongest type of smell," the President commented that day.

Then we called back Alger Hiss, this time in closed session.

Sentence Upheld In Treason Case

By DARRELL GARWOOD
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 — The Supreme court today upheld the life prison sentence imposed on Douglas Chandler of Baltimore for treasonable Nazi wartime broadcasts.

At the same time, the court freed Navy Signalman Harold E. Hirschberg, charged with brutality in a Jap prison camp, on the ground the Navy cannot try a man for an offense committed during a previous enlistment.

In a day of important decisions, the high tribunal also upheld 5 to 4 the Wisconsin Labor Peace act banning "quickie" or intermittent work stoppages for "unstated ends."

Decision Sets Precedent

The Chandler ruling, refusing to review the 58-year-old former Baltimore newspaperman's case, was the court's first decision that a person can commit treason by selling his voice to an enemy.

Chandler was sentenced to life in prison and fined $10,000 last July 31. He argued that his Nazi propaganda broadcasts did not harm the U.S. war effort and were made from "patriotic motives."

Chief Signalman Hirschberg, taken prisoner at Corregidor and convicted of maltreating two other American prisoners on a Jap hard labor gang, was sentenced to ten months confinement and dishonorable discharge after court martial in 1947.

In reversing his conviction, the high court said the Navy was trying to "extend its court martial jurisdiction beyond the limits fixed by Congress" by including offenses committed during a prior enlistment.

Both the Chandler and Hirschberg rulings are expected to affect scores of other pending cases. In effect, the court held that charges growing out of the war must be handled by civil courts, but that treason can be severely dealt with.

The divided decision on the Wisconsin labor law turned on whether the Wisconsin act interferes with the right to strike.

The law was challenged by the Briggs and Stratton local of the AFL auto workers of Milwaukee, which was ordered to cease and desist from a work stoppage at the Briggs and Stratton plant.

Justice Jackson in the majority opinion stated that intermittent work stoppages are neither legalized nor prohibited by federal law, and therefore it is within a state's police powers to ban them.

Justice Douglas, in a dissent, declared that such stoppages are legal under the Wagner and Taft-Hartley acts, and that "the effort of Wisconsin to make (them) unlawful must fail because it conflicts with national policy."

The court also ruled, 6 to 3, that an employer cannot refuse a union the use of a hall in a company town. The case was brought by the CIO textile workers against the Stowe Spinning company of North Belmont, N. C.

B. A. Barton Named To Head Auto Agency In New Mexico

B. A. (Beachy) Barton, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Barton of 2626 Twenty-first, has been appointed Studebaker dealer at Artesia, N. M., friends here were advised Monday.

For the past two years Barton has been manager of the Baker Office Equipment company at Midland. He has been a member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce there and he and Mrs. Barton were active in church work. Barton is a former Texas Tech student.

They have bought a home in Artesia which will be completed shortly.

Lubbock Boxers Win From Plainview

Locals Gain Five Matches

Lubbock boxers won five out of nine team matches from the Plainview boxing team last night in Chapman Fieldhouse to hand the visitors their second defeat of the season.

Britton Smith, Lubbock welterweight, scored a technical knockout over Kelley Bowers of Plainview in the final fight of the night to insure the Hub City victory.

There were two knockouts and five TKOs on the card, which included two exhibition bouts between Lubbock boxers, as well as a "paperweight" battle between the Key twins, Donald and Ronald, to open the card. Dingy Davis and Jimmy Carter staged an acrobatic exhibition at the intermission.

There were several good bouts on the card, with no one outstanding fight. The boxers were well-paired and the slim crowd was treated to good exhibitions.

Possibly the better bouts were the Wayne Raney-Bill Thompson heavyweight go and the James Adair-David Woods bantamweight match. Raney, a light heavyweight, gave reach and height to Thompson, Amarillo's Golden Gloves heavyweight champion, but he didn't let the disparity bother him. He worked on Thompson's middle and soon had it red. Then at 1:48 of the second round, Raney crashed a short right to the button and it was all over 10 seconds later.

Adair, from Olton, gave Woods a pretty good going over. The novices showed a desire to mix it and they did, with Adair knocking Woods down several times. The game Plainview fighter kept getting up, but Referee O. J. "Bo" Sexton scored it a TKO at 1:30 of the third round.

Doug Beedy of Plainview, Lubbock's Golden Gloves light heavyweight champion, showed that he still carried a punch in his right hand by scoring a TKO over Dan Williams at 1:10 of the second round.

Beedy had Williams down several times, landed damaging rights in both rounds and caused Williams to appear glassy-eyed. Sexton stopped the fight before Williams could get hurt badly.

FIGHT RESULTS

118-pounds: James Adair, Lubbock, scored TKO at 1:30 of third round over David Woods.

118-pounds: Melvin Hoelscher, Texas Tech, and Jerry Martin, Lubbock, no decision exhibition.

127-pounds: Bill Bailey, Plainview, scored TKO over Bill Kelly at 1:59 of the first round.

136-pounds: Bob Golleth, Lubbock, knocked out Don Aycock, 1:00 of first round.

136-pounds: Pat Bailey, Plainview, scored TKO at 0:45 of first round over Jackie Lee.

136-pounds: Don Davis, Lubbock, decisioned Wayne Foster.

147-pounds: Britton Smith, Lubbock, scored TKO over Kelley Bowers. Bowers unable to answer bell.

147-pounds: Elmo Hall, Texas Tech, and Robert Ferguson, Lubbock, no decision exhibition.

160-pounds: Don Bybee, Plainview, decisioned Jimmy Hall.

175-pounds: Doug Beedy, Plainview, scored TKO at 1:10 of second round over Dan Williams.

Heavyweight: Wayne Raney, Lubbock, scored TKO at 1:48 of second round over Bill Thompson.

Lubbock Meets Highland Park Quint Friday

Westerners Prepare For State Tourney With Stiff Sessions

A long, hard practice session was held Monday afternoon by the Westerner basketball team at J. T. Hutchinson Junior High School gym in preparation for the state basketball tournament at Austin, March 3-5.

Lubbock is scheduled to meet a strong Highland Park quintet of Dallas Friday night at 7:15 in the first round game. If they win this game they will probably be up against the winner of the Austin High-Brownwood contest.

Shallowater, champion of the recent Region One B tournament at Texas Tech gym, will play its first round against Slidell at 10:10 Thursday morning — the second game of the tournament.

Team Little Known

Little is known about the Highland Park cage team, except that it defeated Bonham in two straight games in the bi-district playoff. Earlier in the season the Scotties defeated Abilene quite handily, and a victory was registered over the powerful Waco tigers, bi-district winners over Texarkana, in an early season contest.

Present plans call for the Westerners to leave Lubbock Thursday morning and arrive in Austin at approximately 7:30 that night. The basketball court at Gregory gym has been reserved for a workout at 10 o'clock, after the Class A games of the day.

The last time Lubbock had a team in the state tournament was back in 1928, 21 years ago. In those days the Texas Interscholastic League was just beginning to make headway, and an article in the March 11, 1928, issue of the Avalanche-Journal listed Lubbock as one of the 14 teams with membership in the TIL.

That year the Westerners lost to Cisco (Big Dam) Loboes, 33-20, in the first game of the tourney after going undefeated in county competition and the bi-district playoff with Canyon. In 10 games the team made 309 points while holding the opposition to a mere 183.

1928 Team Dropped Canyon

Victories registered that year were over Canyon, Slaton and Idalou in the county. Hale Center, Seagraves, Floydada, and Ralls were defeated in the South Plains meet, and Canyon fell to Lubbock in the playoff.

Old-timers around Lubbock may recall that team, coached by Dell Morgan. Nine members made the trip to Austin which was financed partly by a game with Ralls. The members were Raymond Afer, Ernest Dowell, Haden Moody, Cecil Kelsey, H. A Castleberry, Leslie Smith, Horace Kerr, J. A. Walker and Emmett Kerr.

Getting back to the present, Coach Morris drilled the boys yesterday afternoon on ball handling after individual practice at shooting. A short session on defense on free throws was held, and then defensive work was stressed. Finally the team tried out its offensive power on the second stringers. Regular practice sessions are scheduled today and Wednesday, with emphasis on scoring against a man-to-man defense.

First Mustang Squad In A State Meet

Shallowater Leaves For Tourney Today

Shallowater's Mustangs, winners of the Region One, Class B, basketball crown, will leave this morning for Austin and the state court tournament.

Coach Charlie Booz, former Texas Tech student, will take a 12-man squad with him and it will be a unique group, for they will be the first Mustang cagers ever to appear in a state tourney.

Shallowater High school's present building was erected in 1930 and it was the first time that the school boasted a basketball court. But in the years since then, Shallowater often went to the bi-district tournament and the regional, yet they never had enough to win. They have been in the regioual tournament for the list five years.

Cars Take Squad

Individual carloads of players will leave today, taken to Austin by local business men including George Leftwich, Jack Reed, Clyde Fowler and J. L. Meeks. Charles Luck, manager, and Dee Hancock, superintendent of schools, will go tomorrow.

The 12-man squad making the trip includes Darrell Murphy, Hubert Gentry, Hulin Fowler, Benny Weber, Walter Hutton, Harold Clark, Jerry Brock, Jerry Lindsey, Donald Wages, Bobby Reed, Garland Hood and Jack Arnold.

The Mustangs wound up their regular season by taking four tournament games at Lubbock. The victories boosted their season's

HOBBY IS WORKING OUT IN GYM

Charles Galey, With 307 Tallies, Paces Tourney-Bound Westerners

By AL WILLIAMS
Avalanche Sports Writer

One of the three regular Westerner basketball players graduating this year is Charles Galey, high-scoring forward.

Although leading his teammates in scoring over the regular season with 307 points, 126 of which were made in district games, Galey's usefulness to the team was not limited to the scoring department alone.

The soft-spoken, modest senior has been a mainstay both on offense and defense this year and has been the main cog in the Westerner machine. His coolness in tight games has been one of the contributing factors toward Lubbock victories, and he unconsciously became the director of the team's play. In the Pampa game, he sank the winning field goal in the last three seconds of an overtime game.

Thought Lubbock Too Large

After coming to Lubbock High school in the fall of 1946 from Shallowater, a school of less than 300 students, Galey admitted that, "I nearly quit and went back because the high school here was so large." But his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Galey, 1517 Twenty-fourth, insisted that he stay in school in Lubbock because they felt that the larger school had more advantages than one in a smaller town. Opponents in district 1-AA have probably wished he had returned to Shallowater.

He has not confined his sports activities entirely to basketball, however, and has earned two letters in baseball while playing second base. This year he seems to be a cinch to repeat in baseball and to add a basketball letter to one received last year.

He probably will be named on the all-District basketball team this year, and last year received this honor in baseball.

A "B" student in high school, Galey expects to major in business administration in college. What college he prefers to attend is still somewhat of a secret, because he doesn't want to spoil his chances at a scholarship, and he stated that he would "go to any of them."

May Concentrate On Baseball

Because of his size, 5 foot, 11 inches, he thinks he may not play basketball and will probably concentrate on baseball. But shorter men have made great basketball players.

When asked about his hobbies, he replied that he must do something in his spare time but he couldn't think of any hobby unless it was working out on Saturday after a basketball game. Practice is one thing he concentrates on, and after the bi-district game with Childress Friday he was at Chapman fieldhouse Saturday working out with a basketball similar to one that will be used at the state tournament in Austin.

Galey has always been a team player and has worked consistently for the benefit of the team. He plays with a confidence and poise seldom seen in a high school player, and these factors should help him succeed in college athletics.

Braves Expected To Be Improved

In the concluding article of a series on the capabilities of major league baseball clubs, Davis J. Walsh cites figures to show that last year's pennant winners are just a little bit better than they were six months ago. The INS sportswriter explains that according to pre-training charts, the Cleveland Indians will have a tougher time repeating than will the Boston Braves.

By DAVIS J. WALSH
INS Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 28—It's all in the numbers, as the patter boys like to put it. But maybe that's only a new set of words to the old, old refrain—figures don't lie.

Anyhow, the "numbers" show that the Braves and Indians are just a little better than they were a half-year ago in winning the 1948 major league pennants. And much of their active contention as maybe just a mite worse. That is, going into the impending spring training season.

Most people, in fact, are taking it for granted that the world's champion Indians will win again in '49—not excluding, one suspects, the top challenging pair called the Yankees and Red Sox.

It, therefore, may be a surprise to some that the Indians, according to pre-training charts, are due to have a tougher time repeating in the American league than the Braves may in the National. Not many, as a matter of fact, are aware of just how decisive was Boston's domination of last year's list—6½ games at the end.

Few National league champions have won with that much to spare, the result—as of last October—dividing the field into four distinct categories, thus:

No. 1—The Braves. No. 2—(6½ to 8½ games behind)—The Cardinals, Dodgers and Pirates; No. 3—The Giants (13½); No. 4— (25½ to 27½), the Phillies, Reds and Cubs.

If anything has materially altered Boston's status, meantime, it's for the better. The Braves are young—their best should be ahead.

Any visible improvement, other-

Illinois Downs Indiana, 91-68

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Feb. 28. (INS)—Illinois stayed on top in the Western Conference basketball race tonight by running over Indiana, 91 to 68, in its final home game of the campaign.

The victory was the second of the season for the Illini over their Hoosier rivals and gave the conference leaders a record of 10 won and one lost in the big nine.

Illinois scored on its first 19 free throws without missing a shot for what may have been a new collegiate record.

The halftime score was 41 to 33 in favor of the Orange and Blue cagers.

Eddleman topped the Illini scoring with nine field goals and five charity baskets for 23 points. Ritter was high for Indiana with 20 points.

Illinois' only remaining opponent in the conference race is Michigan at Ann Arbor on March 7.

WISCONSIN CAGERS DROP IOWA HAWKEYES, 70-47

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 28. (INS)—Wisconsin's basketball team trounced Iowa, 70 to 47, tonight at Madison, paced by center Don Rehfeldt's record-setting 34 points in the Badger's fieldhouse.

The six-foot-six-inch pivot man's 13 field goals and eight free throws boosted the Badgers to a half lead of 34-26, with 18 points those of Rehfeldt. Hawkeye forward Charley Mason counted 11 points to top the Iowa scoring.

ABILENE, Feb. 28. (AP)—Hardin-Simmons' Cowboys wrapped up third place in the Border Conference basketball standings tonight by romping to a 71-45 victory over West Texas State.

Percy Basset Wins Unanimous Decision Over Lew Jenkins

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 28. (AP)—Young Percy Basset won a unanimous decision tonight over larruping Lew Jenkins in a slashing, bloody 10-round fight at the arena. Jenkins, of Sweetwater, Tex., weighed 132½ and Bassett of Philadelphia, 128½.

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 28. (AP)—Yielding precious inches in rebound control to a pair of towering Sam Houston defenders, the fighting Trinity Tigers went down to a 64-57 Lone Star Conference defeat at the Tigerland cage barn Monday night.

American investments in farfarming now are estimated at more than $50,000,000.

Tinkers Tangle With Matador In TAF Playoff

Blue flame automatically won third place in Region 2, Texas Athletic Association, basketball tournament when Primm Drug decided not to play in the consolation game tonight at 7:30. Instead Blue Flame will play an exhibition game with Levelland Refiners.

In the finals, at 9 o'clock, are Matador and Thomas Tinkers. The two teams will square off in Chapman fieldhouse, and the winner will receive a free trip to the state TAF finals in San Angelo March 11 and 12. The champions will also receive a trophy and individual miniature basketballs.

In Saturdays games, Matador defeated Blue Flame, 80-47, and Thomas Tinkers downed Primm Drug, 54-39, to enter the finals.

Other awards include miniature basketballs for players on the second team, and an award to the individual high scorer in the tournament. Other awards are trophies to the second and third teams, trophies to the all-tournament members, and a trophy to the team showing the best sportsmanship.

Meet In Progress

The tournament has been in progress since last Monday and started with 18 teams. Matador advanced to the finals in the top bracket by defeating Hawkins Service, 49-29, on the first night of the meet, Anton 48-36 Friday night, and Blue Flame in the semi-final match.

Thomas Tinkers, the lower bracket winners, defeated Henly's, 37-24, Panhandle All-Stars, 30-23, and Primm Drug.

Baylor's Bears Gain 49-41 SWC Victory Over TCU Five

FORT WORTH, Feb. 28 (AP) — Baylor virtually clinched a share of the Southwest Conference basketball championship here tonight by defeating Texas Christian, 49-41.

The Bears caught a glimpse of a minor tragedy when the stubborn Frogs broke into a 20-18 halftime lead, but the cellar occupants couldn't hold the pace after intermission.

Led by center O'Dell Preston, Baylor hit the meshes for 10 points as the second half began and took a 28-22 lead. Preston scored 10 points in the first seven minutes after intermission, mostly on long one-handed jump shots.

Game scoring laurels, however, went to the Frogs' aging Julius (Daddy) Dolnics who netted 18 points.

Bill Henderson Defeats Galvan

Lubbock Fighter Scores Tenth Round Technical Knockout In Tuscon Event

TUCSON, Ariz., Feb. 28. (Special)—Bill Henderson of Lubbock, Tex., scored a tenth round technical knockout over Sammy Galvan of El Paso, Tex., here tonight in the main event of a locally-sponsored boxing card.

Henderson weighed in at 132; Galvan at 130.

The end came with suddeness in the tenth round, with Galvan claiming a low blow. He refused to get to his feet and Referee Sonny Valdez awarded Henderson the TKO.

Charley Neff, a stablemate of Henderson's from Lubbock, was the victim of a second round technical knockout at the hands of Sherman Liggens, a Phoenix, Ariz., battler.

Neff could not take the terrific punishment Liggens was handing out and went down for the TKO at 2:40 of the second round. It was a schedued six-round semi-final bout.

Henderson stayed on top of his man all during his fight, but never had him in such condition that he could knock him out. He scored repeatedly with a good left jab, but his right was weak.

Fouls marred two rounds of the fight, with Henderson losing the sixth on a low blow. Two other times the referee had to warn the men about their blows.

The slim crown of 729 paid did not appreciate the fight and booed. It was dull with little action.

The only knockdown in the entire fight came in the tenth round, when Henderson shot a right to the midsection. Galvan, ranked fourth in Texas featherweight circles, fell to the mat holding himself. He claimed that Henderson had struck low.

Referee Valdez told him that the blow had not been low and that it had not carried enough weight to be serious. Galvan refused to get to his feet and Valdez awarded the bout to Henderson.

It was the Lubbock fighter's 14th professional victory without loss and his second over Galvan. In January, Henderson scored a TKO over Galvan in a six-round fight at El Paso. There also the TKO came in the final round.

Henderson was missing badly tonight and appeared to be off his usual form. He showed little outside-a good left, which he kept working on Galvan's head and body.

Neff didn't belong in the same ring with Liggens, although he was game to the end. Liggens handed him a thorough, punishing working over, as Neff attempted to slug it out toe-to-toe. The Lubbock boy weathered a stormy first round and came back apparently with the intention of polishing Liggens off in the second.

It was a mistake. Liggens opened up with both hands and Neff soon was a soggy, battered mess The referee stopped the fight and awarded the TKO to Liggens.

Ezzard Charles Drops Joe Maxim

CINCINNATI, Feb. 28 (INS)—Ezzard Charles, boxing idol of Cincinnati, decisioned a savagely battling Joey Maxim tonight by the margin of nine out of a possible 417 points.

The judges' vote was 213 to 204, with one of the three judges voting a draw.

Whether the howling crowd of 14,062 in Cincinnati's new gardens arena watched the next title opponent for Joe Louis leaving the ring following the 15-round spectacle remained a matter for conjecture.

Charles' bevy of managers, handlers and matchmakers immediately claimed the shot at Louis as Ezzard's rightful prize.

But not even Charles' tremendous left hook could put Maxim on the canvas tonight. Jack Evans' white hope from Cleveland was a bloody, crushed gladiator at the fight's end, but he was on his feet, still jabbing with the annoying left that won him the favor of the crowd before the bout was half way through.

Judge George Condor, indeed, thought so much of Maxim's superior boxing that he voted the contest even on points, 70 to 70. Judge Joe Blink voted for Charles 70 to 65 and judge George Behle for Charles 73 to 69. Under Ohio rules, each fighter may be voted up to five points per round at the discretion of the judges.

With three judges in attendance, referee Tony Warndorf did no voting, but he did plenty of talking throughout the fight, most of it aimed at Maxim. He warned Joey twice about failing to break from the clinches, and, when Maxim threw a punch following the bell that ended the sixth round, Warndorf charged to Joey's corner and hollered at him in no uncertain terms.

At fight's end, manager Kearns roared:

"Maxim won that fight. He fought Charles and he fought the referee, too, and he still won."

But, to the crowd, and to the International News Service scorecard, the final decision seemed just. The INS count had seven rounds for Charles, three for Maxim and five even.

Arkansas Turns Close Game Into Runaway To Beat Aggies, 61-46

COLLEGE STATION, Feb. 28 (AP)—Arkansas' tall Razorbacks turned a close basketball game into a runaway in the last nine minutes of play here tonight to rout the Texas A. and M. Aggies, 61-46, and capture at least a share of the Southwest Conference cage championship.

Behind only 23-25 at the half, the Aggies took the lead in the second half on quick goals by Gene Schrickel and Jewell McDowell. Arkansas wiped out the Cadets' 27-26 margin and began to make its fast break click for buckets.

Still, the Porkers couldn't get more than a five-point margin until the Cadets lost their top scorer and defensive hand, Bill Turnbow, on five fouls with 11 minutes remaining.

Then Ken Kearns, Jim Cathcart and Cliff Horton led a rally that pushed the Hogs ahead, 44-35 with eight minutes to play and 53-40 with five minutes left. The deluge of baskets kept up as the Aggies wilted in the final minutes.

The pressing Porkers were jittery at the start and couldn't find the range. Bob Ambler's two gift shots and Schrickel's lay-up shot tied it at 2-2 and it stayed that way nearly three minutes befoe Arkansas gained a 6-2 margin.

When Arkansas moved on top, 12-4, with eight minutes gone in looked like a runaway, but suddenly Turnbow began whirling past his guard and counting.

John Dewitt of the Aggies scored nine points while holding the giant Ambler to 11. But after Turnbow fowled out the Cadets had no one who could thwart the rapid-fire scoring of Horton, high point man with 17, and Cathcart who made 15 before fouling out in the last two minutes of play. Turnbow topped Aggie scorers with 14.

TECH HAS MATHEMATICAL CHANCE

Arizona's Wildcats Are 'In' As Border Conference Champs

It's all over in the Border Conference race to all intents and purposes, with the Arizona Wildcats the uncrowned champions for the fourth successive year.

The Wildcats still have three games to play, but they would have to lose all of them in order for Texas Tech to tie them for first place. Such an event would come under the heading of man bites dog; in other words, it would be news.

No one expects the Wildcats to suffer three straight defeats, although it might happen. Basketball in the Border loop is an unpredictable sport and while it would be astounding news, the possibility exists.

While it does, the Red Raiders in Lubbock still have a mathematical chance to tie Arizona. One victory will end the last possible chance and the Raiders can do nothing but sit and watch the Wildcats in their final three games — and hope.

Hardin-Simmons made the Wildcat finish easier by slipping valuable ground out from under the Raiders Saturday night, when they cut them down with a 65-60 lacing. That defeat virtually eliminated the Raiders from any chance at the title, but it didn't affect their second place finish. The Raiders clinched that by licking West Texas State Teachers college 70-61 last Wednesday.

The season may not yet be over for the Raiders, who might be given the nod to represent the Border loop in the NAIB playoffs. The Raiders will finish highest of any Texas team and the chances are that Gus Miller, WTSTC coach and NAIB area chairman, will name Coach Robison's crew. They are deserving of it on their record.

Third Place Fight

As for the rest of the circuit, it will be a fight between the Buffs and the Cowboys for third place. They are tied with nine victories and six defeats. And the loser cannot be dislodged from fourth place. for New Mexico has lost eight games and won seven.

Action this week will wind up play in the conference, with Arizona certain to demand—and probably get—a chance to meet the winner of the Southwest Conference to represent District Six in the NIT tournament.

Arizona State of Flagstaff, with its season over, climbed ahead of Texas Mines by licking Arizona State of Tempe twice last week. The double victories gave the Flag quintet seven wins against nine losses, one more victory than the Mines has scored.

New Mexico A and M, with one game remaining, is a half tilt ahead of Tempe, which concluded a disastrous season by winning only four games while losing 12.

Majors To Begin Training Today

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 28 (AP)—Ten major league baseball clubs will begin spring training in Florida tomorrow. It's the biggest crop of teams in the state since the war.

Some of the clubs gave a slightly dirty look at the weather man. In the west coast section he predicted a 10-degree drop to 56. That's a little jolt after the long run of springlike weather — the warmest for the state in 17 years.

Most of the clubs plan to take it easy on opening day. Generally players will check in, get their uniforms fitted. There will be a few light setting up exercises.

It will be toward the end of the week before the drills get tough. Then, some club managers will start the two-a-day sessions. Others will get in all the hard work in one prolonged period.

The unofficial Grapefruit league games will begin March 12. To the Florida baseball fan these Grapefruit league standings are a great thing. But look at Cincinnati. Last spring the Reds were right up at the top. They wound up the regular season just shy of the National league cellar.

record to 42 victories against four defeats. They lost to Stratford recently and had early losses to Dimmitt and two to Roosevelt.

While the squad is strong in itself, much depends on the brilliant Murphy, center and key man in the attack. He now has scored 822 points in 39 games for an average of 21.07 this year. His points have come on 307 field goals and 208 free throws. For the four-game tournament stint, Murphy averaged 22.75 points per game, even though he did not play full time.

The Detroit Tigers were in first place on July 4 only twice in the seven years in which they won American League flags.

wise, starts with the fourth-place Pirates, and in one respect understandably so, because the lower down one goes, the simpler is one's problem in this connection.

Nope, figures don't lie.

Neither, you might say, do headstones. But their devotion to strict and scrupulous accuracy has never been very noticeable.

Figures—and epitaphs—merely tell part of the story, which is just as well in both cases. After all, if the former weren't fallible, nobody would work for a living.

How They Look

So here is a 1949 baseball "morning line" on both leagues, mildly informative, perhaps instructive and provocative—about in the same proportion as is intended by the horse tacks:

National League

1948 finish, club, games behind, gain or loss between seasons:

1—Braves, 0, plus 8 1/3 points.
2—Cards, 6½, minus 4 points.
3—Dodgers, 7½, 0.
4—Pirates, 8½, plus 16 2/3 pts.
5—Giants, 13½, minus 5 points.
6—Phillies, 25½, plus 20 points.
7—Reds, 27, minus 6 points.
8—Cubs, 27½, plus 25 points.

American League

1948 finish, club, games behind, gain or loss between seasons:

1—Indians, 0, plus 5 points.
2—Red Sox (z), 1, 0.
3—Yankees, 2½, minus 4 points.
4—Athletics, 12½ minus 8 1/3 points.
5—Tigers, 17½, plus 16 2/3 points.
6—Browns, 37, plus 10 points.
7—Senators, 40, 0.
8—White Sox, 44½, plus 5 points.

(z) Finishing in tie for first place: lost playoff game.

There's only one stipulation about top-spotting the Indians—they must not be deprived of Mr. Lou Boudreau's superlative talents for any appreciable period. Lose him for a month, and they'd probably lose the pennant.

If an entire season, they can forget the pennant and turn their attention to something important.

That's where figures stop. They take no account of the intangibles, including the element of human frailty.

The all tournament team was selected from the participating teams. At forwards are Savage, New Home; Henson, Meadow; and Bellow, Meadow. The guards are Williams, Meadow; Crabtree, New Home; and No. 12, Dawson.

Accused Slayer Killed By Police

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 28. (U.P.)—Billy Ray Gilbert made good his boast that he would never be captured alive but failed to fulfill his vow to "take two officers with me" when he died.

The 28-year-old ex-convict, named as the mad-dog slayer of three persons near Needles, Cal., was killed last night by a hail of police bullets as he stepped nude from a tourist cabin where he tried to shoot it out with officers.

Detective Is Wounded

Gilbert was trapped in the cabin when the proprietor of the Red Wing auto court recognized him as the man sought in one of the biggest manhunts in the history of the west.

A crowd of 200 spectators watched as police ordered Gilbert to come out with his hands up.

Instead, the desperado began firing with his .38 calibre pistol. Five slugs hit Phoenix city detective Ed Langevin, 28, who was taken to a hospital where his condition was declared as "poor."

Police poured a stream of fire into the cabin's attic, where Gilbert had holed up. Gilbert returned the fire until two tear gas bombs arched into the building.

"I've been shot in the head," he shouted.

Riddled With Bullets

Moments later he stepped from the doorway with his arms raised shoulder high. A pistol, still smoking, was in his right hand.

When he cleared the doorway, he brought both hands down suddenly. Police opened fire again with pistols, shotguns and automatic rifles. Gilbert fell dead, his body literally blasted to pieces. His face was a pulp, his left leg nearly severed, and his chest caved in by a half dozen buckshot blasts.

Earlier, Gilbert's companion, George Schmid, 21, surrendered to two officers on the bank of a canal four blocks from his home here.

"I'm glad its all over," he said. "Gilbert's a crazy man — I want nothing to do with him."

He corroborated the story told by Florence Chisholm, buxom 31-year-old blonde, who said the men kidnapped her and drove her to Needles, Cal., last week. Miss Chisholm lived in Lubbock, Texas, for a few months in 1947.

Pioneer Resident Of Lubbock Is Claimed

Mrs. Nellie Wood, who passed her 73rd birthday last Tuesday, resident here for 30 years, died at 1:40 p.m. yesterday at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Clark Zachary, 2408 Ave. T.

She had been in ill health for more than a year, after suffering a light stroke of paralysis at her 1918 Ave. L home, where she had lived the greater part of the time since the family moved to Lubbock. She had been confined to bed at the daughter's home nearly four months, and had been in critical condition since last Thursday.

Funeral services are to be held at 2:30 p.m. today at First Central Baptist church, 1309 Eighteenth, with Rev. Jeff Welch, retiring pastor of the church, officiating, assisted by Rev. C. J. McCarty, pastor of Calvary Baptist church.

Burial is to be in the Masonic section of Lubbock Memorial park under direction of Sanders Funeral home.

Seven children survive. The husband died July 13, 1938 as result of an accident. The children are two sons, J. W. C. Wood of Tucumcari, N. M., and Juel V. Wood of Ashland, Kas.; five daughters, Mrs. Homer L. Bost of 2103 Ave. K, Mrs. Buster Damron of South Ave. P, Mrs. Alvis Allison of rural route 4; Mrs. A. B. Slagle of 1615 Eighteenth, and Mrs. Zachary.

Also surviving are two brothers, of Sweetwater; 16 grandchildren, and 14 great-grandchildren.

British Aid Hearing

head of the Economic Cooperation administration, declare that the $940,000,000 proposed for Britain is the "absolute minimum" to maintain the recovery program. He said it had been screened by the British, the ECA, the State, Treasury, Agriculture and Commerce departments, as well as the National Advisory council on international monetary and financial problems, and the budget bureau.

Committee "Irritated"

The bill before the committee would simply "authorize" ECA appropriations to help the western European countries stand on their own feet and stave off Communism. Separate legislation would be required to provide the money.

The senators had finished hearings several days ago when the British official, Christopher B. Mayhew, foreign undersecretary, made his reference to recovery progress before the United Nations. Despite his protestations that U. S. aid still is direly needed, and full concurrence by American officials, the committee called for a second look at the British figures. Senator Fulbright (D-Ark) said the committee was "irritated" and "embarrassed" by the Mayhew statement which he said left the impression that the U. S. was forcing money on the British.

El Paso Man Found Dead In Car; Wife, Children Killed In Home

EL PASO, Feb. 28. (AP) — John Redditt, 37, El Paso printing salesman, was found today in the wreckage of his car a mile from his home northwest of here.

When officers went to his home to notify his family they found his wife, 38, and their two children, David, 8, and Susan, 1, were slain.

Mrs. Redditt had been gagged with a cloth. There were bruises on her neck and those of her children.

Slaton Retail Group Has Annual Banquet

SLATON, Feb. 28. (Special)—Members of the Slaton Retail Merchants association attended their annual banquet tonight in the Slaton club house.

Travis Reynolds, vice president of the organization, served as toastmaster. The invocation was offered by Rev. George Hodges, pastor of the First Presbyterian church here.

The program included a number of songs by Misses Phyllis Leach and Joyce Sexton, and arranged and directed by Mrs. Elnora Masterson. Piano accompaniment was furnished by Miss Leonita Tunnell.

Foreign Visitor Speaks

Principal speaker for the evening was Miss Matina Zanga, a native of Athens, Greece. She was introduced by G. R. Kennedy of Lubbock.

Other features of the evening's program included a humorous "Minnie Pearl" impersonation by Mrs. Vergie Hunter, and a report by Mrs. Lee Green, secretary-treasurer of the Slaton Retail Merchants association, on accomplishments of the organization in 1948 and the first two months of 1949.

Members of the association also cast their ballots for six new directors for the organization, to replace as many directors whose terms have expired. New directors were not announced tonight, however.

Retiring directors include L. D. Carrington, R. W. Cudd, Earl D. Eddler, O. D. Kenney, Vern Johnson, and M. H. Lasater.

Holdover directors are C. M. Fields, who also is president of the association; W. T. Davis and Travis Reynolds.

Filibuster Opens

Sen. Connally (D-Tex) is expected to take the floor against the measure Tuesday.

This week, the filibuster is to be on a gentlemanly basis. Lucas at the end of the week plans to ask Barkley to rule that a two-thirds "gag" is already on the Senate's books, and then to apply the pressure if that fails.

The southerners introduced a new time-killing filibuster technique at the outset of the historic debate. They questioned proponents of the anti-filibuster legislation in such manner as to elicit lengthy replies.

Showdown Threatened

In other years, the Dixie senators have waited until advocates of the legislation finished their presentation before initiating hours-long speeches about anything, and everything.

Sen. Eastland (D-Miss) persistently quizzed Sen. Langer (R-ND) on such issues as the dismantling of German war plants.

These tactics so irritated majority leader Lucas that he declared:

"We're going to stay here from now on until we finally get a disposition of this question."

At this point Sen. Russell (D-Ga) suggested the absence of a quorum, and demanded a roll call. This is one of the old, established filibuster techniques.

Rules To Be Enforced

The issue now before the Senate is whether to change its rules to shut off debate against consideration of a bill by a two-third majority vote.

Barkley, up against his toughest job since taking over as presiding officer of the Senate, served warning the rules will be strictly enforced during debate.

Barkley himself faces a hard decision. Although he comes from the "border state" of Kentucky, he has nevertheless been a staunch supporter of the Truman program. He campaigned vigorously on the Democratic platform, with its pledge of anti-racial discrimination measures.

Drilling Operations Resumed On Oil Test Near Hale Center

HALE CENTER, Feb. 28. (Special) — Drilling operations have resumed on the Cooper-Hemphill Oil company No. 1 Nick Alley, oil test located five miles southwest of Hale Center, after the sponsors completed a deal with the Honolulu Oil company to take over the project at 8,200 feet where work had been halted for ten days. Charles Cooper of the local oil company has announced. Norwood Drilling company, Wichita Falls firm, is in charge of drilling operations for Honolulu in the extended exploration, which may go into the Ellenberger zone at a depth of approximately 10,000 feet. The old hole, bottomed at 8,200 feet in grey lime is in excellent condition for continuing the test, Cooper said.

Graham-Marvin Oil company, another Hale Center concern, has completed its efforts to assemble a block of 35,000 acres, adjoining the Cooper-Hemphill tract on the northwest, and is expected to announce plans soon for a test, a spokesman for that company said.

Active royalty "play" by individuals in this area was reported this week by Cooper, who said that $40 per acre is the top, with some acreage going at $35.

Stalin Orders Extensive Price Cuts In Various Consumer Goods

MOSCOW, Feb. 28. (AP)—Prime Minister Stalin Monday night proclaimed price cuts in 45 classifications of food, clothing and other consumers' goods.

The decree said the changes will raise the ruble's purchasing power and strengthen Soviet money in relation to foreign currencies.

The price cuts are effective Tuesday in all retail stores.

As examples they knock 10 per cent off the price of bread, fish, butter, and canned goods; 20 per cent off the price of cheese; and 12 to 20 per cent off many clothing items. Vodka will be reduced 28 per cent.

Restaurants, tea houses and other catering establishments were ordered to make corresponding reductions in their prices.

800 Persons Attend Lubbock Little Theater Production

Approximately 800 persons attended the Lubbock Little Theater's production of "Jane Eyre," last night in Senior High school auditorium.

Based on the novel by Charlotte Bronte, the play was the first costume production to be presented by the local group.

Mrs. Charles Cobb, in the title role of Jane Eyre, turned in an extremely convincing performance, as did Carl O. Garner, who played Squire Rochester, whose country estate was the setting for the play. Other characters contributed full measure to the mood of the play and held the attention of the audience throughout the lengthy acts. There was sustained applause at the end.

Mrs. Bert McGinnis, director, also filled in the role of Blanche Ingram, which was to have been played by Mrs. Loyette Thompson, until illness intervened.

Gas Levy Is Urged

per gallon sales tax on gasoline and replace it with a once cent per gallon tax on processing combustible fuels.

Fleming announced that Comptroller Robert S. Calvert would appear before the committee March 9 at 2:30 p. m. to report on the condition of state finances.

Another Hearing Slated

Tufares' bill would place a levy of one and one-half cents on each 1,000 cubic feet of natural gas.

The income—estimated by Tufares at $42 million annually under present conditions—would be distributed equally among eleemosynary institutions, rural schools and rural roads.

Another natural gas tax bill will be given public hearing a week from tonight.

This one would levy one cent per 1,000 cubic feet and is estimated by its author, Rep. C. S. McLellan of Eagle Lake, to produce $32 million a year.

Grover Sellers of Sulphur Springs, opposing the bill, said the gas people were paying the next to highest tax on any natural resource in Texas. Sellers, former attorney general, said it is "not fair to single out one industry" no matter how worthy the cause for which the money will be spent.

'Silo Cow' Reported Injured In Rescue

YUKON, Okla., Feb. 28. (U.P.)—Rancher Bill Mach's now famous "silo cow" will not be able to nurse any more calves and may lose her udder because of an injury suffered on her slide to freedom, Mach said today.

"It'll be some time before we know," the Yukon rancher said. "She seems to be contented enough. She's taken some feed and we've let her stand up a bit."

The Hereford range cow was "sprung" from her silo-trap Saturday under the direction of Ralph Partridge, Denver Post farm editor.

Cow Greased

Greased like an English channel swimmer and drugged with a "hypo," she slid out the same picture-frame entrance, 25½ by 17 inches, through which she had dashed into the silo Tuesday.

"She injured the udder coming out," Mach said, "and she may lose it. We're drying her up, so she won't be able to nurse any more calves. She's under two blankets instead of the usual one, and it'll probably be a couple of weeks before we let her outside."

Mach said he is still receiving mail by the bag. "Got 240 letters today, plus five specials, and some telegrams," he reported. "One letter was addressed to Buffalo Bill."

The low pressure storm center was moving northeastward into the Atlantic ocean off the New Jersey coast, and snowfall ended in the Great Lakes and Ohio region late in the afternoon.

Instruments Fail, But Plane Lands Safely

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 28. (INS)—A DC-6 airliner carrying 53 persons which radioed that its instruments had gone dead, flew blind over Philadelphia's international airport in a snowstorm Monday but landed without mishap.

Airport officials, fearing a serious accident, rushed fire fighting equipment and ambulances to the landing area.

The four-motored American airlines plane was enroute from Mexico City.

Smoke caused by leaking oil dripping into the ventillating system filled the cabin for a time.

But while airport officials were making emergency preparations, the instruments resumed functioning and the airliner landed without incident.

The plane carried 48 passengers and five crewmen.

ing over the front of the car.

Thurman was thrown to the highway, but the car was knocked backward several feet, coming to rest on the south side of the highway almost even with the front of the truck.

Scene Roped Off

Butane from the torn tank of the transport then spread, over a wide portion of the highway at the wreck scene, and state patrolmen had roped off the area last night and planned to divert traffic around the scene until sometime today.

The truck was too badly damaged to be removed immediately, and it was feared that a lighted cigaret or match tossed unknowingly from a passing car might set off a fire which could reach surrounding buildings.

Thurman's body was returned to Lubbock last night by Sanders Funeral home ambulance, but funeral arrangements were pending arrival of relatives.

Entered Real Estate Business

A son of the accident victim, R. L. Thurman, jr., of Santa Rosa, N. M., was believed enroute to Oklahoma City or Kansas City, Mo., and Lubbock police broadcast descriptions of the car in which he was traveling in an attempt to deliver the news of his father's death.

Other survivors include the wife; two sons in addition to R. L. jr., Bill and Pat Thurman of the home; a daughter, Martha Jane, also living at home; four brothers, L. Thurman of Jackson, Miss., and Ossie, Taylor and Houston Thurman, all of Pensacola, Miss.; and three sisters, Mrs. Clara Gilmore of Fort Worth, Mrs. Lawson Moore of Goldona, La., and Mrs. D. F. Whitfield, Jackson, Miss.

Thurman, who came to Lubbock from Seymour, had just recently entered the real estate business, the family said. A civil engineer, he had worked for the government for several years, and was employed by the Office of Price administration during the war and for some time afterward.

The federal government does not participate in the aid to the 800,000 unclassified other needy.

The murder charge was prepared by Salyars upon oath of Dep. Sheriff Earl Horton and filed in the justice court of C. E. Lynn. Bond of $7,500 was set.

A charge of murder with malice was filed in Lynn's court against Alfredo Albidrez in connection with Trujillo's death. Albidrez had not been apprehended late Monday night, officials said.

No motive had been found in the slaying, but a gambling game was said to have been in progress.

Ester Hernandez, of 201 North Ave. P, told officials that she heard the noise of shots at 120 North Ave. M and looked outside her house to see Willie Flores and another Mexican placing Trujillo in a car.

She said, she went in the car with them to Lubbock Memorial hospital, where Trujillo died after saying his assailant was Albidrez. Trujillo had been shot three times in the chest and four times in the left arm.

Man Charged At Littlefield

George Quintero, about 35, was in the Littlefield jail Monday night, charged with murder in connection with Lara's death. No bond had been set, the sheriff's office there said.

County Attorney Robert Kirk said that Quintero had made a statement to him admitting the shooting, but the motive was vague. The two men were understood to have had an argument earlier in the evening.

Quintero, the Lamb county sheriff's department said, stated that Lara and two other men came to his house and he thought they were going to do him harm. The shooting followed. Lara was dead on arrival at a Littlefield hospital.

Quintero's case will go before a grand jury meeting Tuesday, it was said. Lara was reported to have been "the husband of Quintero's sister, and both had lived in the area for several years.

Girl Is Held

A 14-year-old girl was held in Hockley county jail last night in connection with Snead's slaying.

The girl Monday afternoon was committed to the Gainesville school for girls for an indeterminate period after a juvenile petition had been filed by County Attorney E. W. Boedeker of Hockley county and a hearing held before the county judge.

Mrs. Spead told newsmen by telephone she was uncertain how the shotgun came to be discharged.

She said she was tatting at a table in the room where her husband lay across a bed. Her 9-year-old daughter was painting in a book. The 14-year-old was sitting at the foot of the bed listening to the radio.

Snead lurched from the bed and fell face downward on the floor. He was pronounced dead upon arrival at a Brownfield hospital.

The family had lived in Ropesville eight years.

Funeral services for Snead are scheduled for 2 p. m. today at the Ropesville First Baptist church, with Rev. Victor Allen, pastor, officiating. Burial in Ropesville cemetery will be under direction of Farley Funeral home of Brownfield.

In addition to the widow, Snead is survived by three daughters, Miss Mary Marie Snead of Lubbock, Miss Anna Pearl Snead and Miss Lavera Faye Snead, both of Ropesville, and three sons, Raymond, Doyle Edward and Virgil Eugene, all of Sundown.

Bailey's body will be sent to Conway, Ark., for burial, and Trujillo's body was sent overland to Roswell, N. M., for interment, Rix Funeral home said. No arrangements had been announced for Lara, Hammons Funeral home of Littlefield stated.

ECA Chief Convinces Senate Group Britain Still Needs U.S. Aid Despite Recent Optimistic Talks

By H. K. REYNOLDS
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28—Foreign aid administrator Hoffman today convinced the Senate Foreign Relations committee that England needs 940 million Marshall plan dollars despite optimistic recovery statements by the British.

Hoffman, recalled to explain his ECA estimates following the hopeful British utterances, told the committee that the whole thing was caused by Russian "needling" of an English official at United Nations headquarters.

Hoffman Explains Situation

The Englishman, Christopher Mayhew of the British office, boasted in retaliation that Britain had passed the recovery stage and is now breaking ground for new social and economic experiments.

Although London officials repudiated Mayhew's statement, another British cabinet officer, Hector McNeil, said Mayhew had "blurted out the truth at the wrong moment."

Hoffman admitted he was "embarrassed and distressed" by a turn of events which cast doubt on Britain's needs. He rejected, however, any implications that ECA estimates of British dollar requirements could be reduced without, "jeopardizing" the recovery of Britain and Europe as a whole.

At the conclusion of the hearing, Sen. Conally (D-Tex), committee chairman, said:

"The explanation of Mr. Hoffman was very satisfactory, and I doubt if the original figures will be materially changed."

Figures Were Re-Studied

Disclosing that Britain, as a consequence of the Mayhew blast, came within an ace of suffering a cut in next year's Marshall plan allowance, Hoffman said:

"I told our experts: 'Let's see if we can cut this down, and then see if there will be any more political speeches without regard to the consequences.'"

But Hoffman said the final verdict, after detailed re-study, was that $940 million is the "absolute minimum of dollars needed in the British program if continued recovery of the United Kingdom and western Europe is to be assured."

Members of the committee indicated they accepted his explanation, backed by charts, that Britain would still have to have U. S. dollars for imports of food and raw materials even though she has attained a foreign trade balance.

Cut Made In Funds

Thomas K. Finletter, chief of the ECA mission in London, said there is a "grave question" as to whether the British can close the dollar gap by 1952-53, when Marshall plan aid is to terminate.

Hoffman revealed that he told British chancellor Sir Stafford Cripps last July that Britain's ECA allotment for the second year would have to be cut 25 per cent below this year's allowance. The British figure of $40 million represents a cut of 24 per cent.

To illustrate effect of an additional reduction, Hoffman said it would force a decrease in British-manufactured exports because imports of raw materials from the United States out of which the exportable material would be made would be insufficient.

He said the reductions would extend to American exports of cotton, fruits, tobacco, machine tools and other products now being financed by ECA.

Farmers Get Ready For Spring Planting

Excellent Moisture Conditions Boost Hopes For Best Crop Year In History

Moving into a crop year that gives indications of being one of the best in the history of farming on the South Plains because of unusual moisture conditions for this time of year, Lubbock county farmers were busy the past week in a wide variety of activities in preparation for spring planting.

Land preparation was delayed. Farmers have learned over a period of years that fall preparation of land pays dividends, both from the standpoint of crop production and in holding the soil against wind erosion during the dormant winter and spring months.

Drouth Delayed Tillage

But because of persistent drouth conditions that sharply reduced production last year and continued until the turn of the year, fall land preparation was next to impossible. Some tillage methods were used, but almost altogether in an effort to hold the soil against wind erosion.

January moisture of more than four inches, and additional moisture during February brought a penetration into the caliche, saturating the surface and subsoil in a manner never before experienced in this area at this time of year.

Further delay in plowing and general land preparation has been experienced, of course, for the surface to dry sufficiently to permit cultivation, but bright sunshine much of the time, light winds, and temperatures abnormally high for February have combined to put the soil in excellent condition.

Thus, there is some form of activity on almost every farm in the county in recent days, although some areas, particularly on tighter, heavier land, have not dried sufficiently to permit anything more than surface plowing.

Tour Reveals Activities

A brief tour of portions of the county, made late in the week in cooperation with County Agent D. W. Sherrill, revealed activities from farm shop implement sharpening and repairing, and deep listing of moisture-laden soil in sandy portions, to erection of new houses in some instances and a general refurbishing of barns, yards, and equipment.

On the J. W. Jackson farm in the Canyon community about seven miles east of the city, Dick Brewster, who described himself as a share-cropper, rode a heavy tractor pulling a two-row lister in grain stubble.

He was turning up the sandy soil seven to eight inches deep, bringing to the surface the roots of the heavy stubble, along with soggy clods, placing the soil in condition that wind erosion during the normally windy months of March and April will be held to a minimum.

Eastward toward Acuff, apparently in tighter land that had not

Rites Set Today For Albert Taylor

Funeral services for Albert Taylor, 80, pioneer South Plains cattleman who died Sunday of a heart attack, will be held at 10 o'clock this morning in Rix Funeral chapel.

Dr. J. Ralph Grant, pastor of the First Baptist church, is to officiate, assisted by Dr. Travis White, pastor of the First Christian church.

Burial will be in Lubbock cemetery, under direction of Rix Funeral home.

Taylor, who had been in ill health for some time, died at 6:30 p.m. Sunday in his residence at 1646 Main.

Always in the cattle business, Taylor came to Terry county in 1884, when the Nunn ranch brought cattle to open range in that area. He was employed at the Nunn ranch in 1891 when Lubbock county was organized.

He worked at the Nunn ranch several years, and later at the TFM ranch.

He started his own ranch later

FARMING PREPARATIONS—Lubbock county farmers are now in the midst of a wide variety of activities preparing for spring planting. In the first picture, left, a 1929 model tractor is being repaired on the Huey Rush farm near Acuff. Left to right are Eddie Gaydos and F. B. Sexton, from a Slaton implement house; C. L. Wilks, Rush's assistant; and J. P. Ford, who farms on the Earl Davis place across the road. In the second picture from the left, flat breaking is being done by James Gammill on his half-section farm in Roosevelt community. Gammill is operating a two-plow breaker, hoping to help kill spots of johnson grass in grain stubble. He'll follow late in March with a lister. In the third photo, top right, dual purpose chiseling is shown under way on the Smid Keller farm in the Canyon community. Hired man George Valdez is on the tractor, chiseling at about a 45-degree angle to chiseling done before the January moisture, seeking to dry soil for listing and hold soil in event of wind.

Red Cross Fund Drive Underway

Lubbock county's part in the annual Red Cross fund campaign heads into its second day this morning, following Monday's "kick-off" breakfast for the advance gifts phase of the drive. The breakfast was held at the Hotel Lubbock.

No reports of the progress of the first day's work was available last night. Other phases of the campaign will get underway within the next few days.

Through the advance gifts drive, in which regular contributors who usually give large amounts will be visited, the Red Cross hopes to raise approximately one-half of its goal of approximately $26,000.

General Drive Next Week

The advance gifts drive will last one week and will be followed by opening of the general campaign among Lubbock county residents next Monday. Approximately 60 captains and team members attended the breakfast.

Truman M. Chumey, chairman of the advance gifts drive, presided at the breakfast. He said that 67.2 per cent of the total collected will remain in Lubbock county and the remainder will go to the national organization. In event of disaster, more money would be available for use in Lubbock county from the national organization than the county sends to national headquarters.

Long-Term Office Holders Affected

Curbs On Political Races Gets Backing

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Feb. 28—A bill to curb politicking by longterm state office holders advanced today in the House.

The measure requiring state officials whose terms run more than two years to resign before seeking other offices was passed on second reading 95 to 38, indicating almost certain final approval the next time it comes up.

It would bar such officials as members of the Railroad commission from running for governor unless they quit their commission posts.

Senate Passes Prison Bill

While the House was arguing politics the Senate finally passed and sent to the House another of the prison reform bills. It would permit the prison system to make a profit on products sold to the state government and other political subdivisions. There was no opposition.

Speaker Durwood Manford named a five-member committee to investigate the controversy over reburial of Felix Longoria, Latin-American soldier from Three Rivers killed on Luzon. The committee was instructed to report by March 15.

When the Senate adjourned, the next bill on tap was the foundation school fund measure by A. M. Aikin, jr., of Paris. The third of the embattled Gilmer-Aikin public school bills, it heads tomorrow's calendar.

Twenty-eight more bills were introduced in the Senate, bringing its total for the session to 312 at the start of the eighth week.

Scores of witnesses were on hand for two important night committee hearings in the House, one of which was postponed. One was on the proposed cent and a half tax on natural gas, the other on a measure setting the minimum pay of teachers at $2,400 a year instead of the present $2,000. The latter was reset for hearing at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday at request of the author of the bill, Rep. Jimmy Horany, of Archer City.

Amendment Proposed

A proposed constitutional amendment to permit city-county health units to levy a tax of 20 cents per $100 valuation was introduced in the Senate.

Debate on the election bill in the House produced some sharp exchanges.

Rep. S. J. Isaacks of El Paso plugged it as a measure that

Boys Club Loan Plan Is Studied

A joint meeting of the board of directors of the Lubbock Boys club and the operative board of the American Business club Monday afternoon appointed a committee to look into the possibilities of obtaining a loan to help complete the building and swimming pool construction now underway at the Boys Club layout.

Officials explained that approximately $70,000 has been spent of the new building and swimming pool phase of the improvements, that some $5,000 remains in the cash funds on hand, and that another $15,000 will be needed to complete the project. It is this sum which the committee will seek to obtain through a loan.

Expansion Setup Studied

The group also studied possibilities of expanding Boys Club work to other parts of town, and asked members of the board to return to their respective clubs to discuss the matter with members. Other business was routine, John Wilson, director of the club, said.

Members of the board of directors present included Dr. A. W. Young, president, Homer Hensley, Grady Bownds, Dewey Flanagan, Harold Chapman, Gene Blackburn, Bill Ed Watson, Charles Nelson, John Halsey. Members of the operating board present were J. Ray Dickey, chairman, O. B. Ratliff, Earl Ince, sr., Grady Knight.

The committee named to investigate possibilities of the loan included Dr. Young, Dickey and Ratliff.

MORE CENTRAL AUTHORITY NEEDED

Hoover Commission Says Lack Of Unity Hurting Armed Forces

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP)—The Hoover commission reported today that there is discord, waste, extravagance and lack of unified planning in the supposedly "unified" armed forces.

"The national military establishment, as set up under the (unification) act of 1947, is perilously close to the weakest type of department," the commission headed by Herbert Hoover told Congress.

It recommended, among other things, that the secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force be demoted to subordinate status and stripped of certain powers. This would increase the authority of the Secretary of Defense, now James V. Forrestal, to coordinate the often-quarreling armed services.

Civilian Control Suggested

The commission suggested that the three secretaries "be deprived of their privilege of appeal over the head of the Secretary of Defense; that they be directly and exclusively responsible to him; that the secretaries, to clarify their position, be designated the under secretaries for Army, Navy and Air Force."

Congress has been confirming appointment of and dealing directly with the civilian heads of the three armed forces for a long time.

The Hoover commission expressed concern about lack of civilian control over the military. It called the joint chiefs of staff, which is composed of military commanders of the three forces, "a law unto themselves."

A chairman should be appointed for "this most powerful of military units," the commission said, to bring about civilian control.

SOVIET SATELLITE GIVEN DATA

Two Army Officers Nabbed As France Cracks Down On Reds

By JOSEPH L. RANFT
INS Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Feb. 28 — A government probe of Communist espionage brought the arrest of a Communist army major and a captain today in what was said to be the start of the greatest French anti-Communist crackdown since early in the last war. An official announcement said the major confessed.

The drive is aimed at smashing attempts to demoralize the army, sabotage the re-armament program and undermine French participation in the Atlantic pact.

Confession Claimed Given

A government announcement said Maj. Louis Teulery admitted giving data on the latest French armaments to military attaches of an unidentified Soviet satellite state.

Teulery, who faces a life sentence at hard labor if convicted, was deputy chief of the security service in the armaments ministry from 1946 to 1947, charged with safeguarding the nation's key secrets.

A communique issued by the interior ministry said Teulery obtained armament documents while holding his defense post. He said he turned them over to a "popular democracy"—Soviet satellite. He also was said to have been known under the name of Viguier.

Teulery was a stockholder in the weekly publication D'Abord, whose editors were taken into custody last week.

Second Officer Nabbed

He was confined to the military prison in Paris after questioning by territorial security agents.

The second officer was identified as Capt. Azema, an instructor of airborne troops.

Azema was questioned concerning defense secrets which allegedly were delivered to D'Abord.

The arrests and the anti-Communist drive apparently were precipitated by the appeal of Communist chief Maurice Thorez to workers to welcome invading Soviet troops in the event of an East-West war.

Legal proceedings also are underway against Communist leaders in connection with attempts to demoralize the army.

Reports are current that an attempt will be made to lift the Communist members of the national Assembly and Senate, leaving them open to possible prosecution by the government.

Diplomatic observers interpreted the government's action as the beginning of a serious showdown between the Communist party and Premier Henri Queuille's "third force" administration.

One American diplomat described Thorez' appeal to French workers as "a declaration of civil war."

Farmers Prepare

dried sufficiently to permit listing or other deep plowing, George Valdez was atop a tractor towing a Graham-Hoeme nine-foot chisel, stirring the surface to allow more rapid drying and at the same time protect the surface from blowing in event of wind before listing can be done.

This was on the farm of Smid Keller. The land under the chisel, in cotton last year, had been chiseled prior to the January moisture, and the implement this time was being operated at an angle of about 45 degrees to the previous operation.

Disc Plows Used

Near Acuff, James Gammill, who farms a half section of relatively tight land, was using a two-plow breaker, flat-breaking land that had been in grain, and in portions of which, Gammill said, there are patches of johnson grass.

He felt that flat breaking would help to control the johnson grass, but at the same time was turing the wet clods to the surface to help hold the soil in event of wind until probably late in March, when he plans to list.

Operation of disc plows was noted on more than one farm. This practice, however, does not hold much favor with County Agent Sherrill, who said it lays the soil open to wind and water erosion, particularly since the surface is puffy already because of the bountiful moisture.

The one-way plow, similar in some respects to the disc, creates a somewhat similar conditon, and is practical only under certain conditions.

A job probably typical of hundreds of others in this and other South Plains counties was under way at the Huey Rush farm near Acuff.

Two mechanics from a Slaton implement concern were assisting hired help on the farm in an attempt to get a 1929-model tractor into operation for the crop season.

Tractors Still Short

The job of keeping the aged tractor in operation was not a matter of choice with Rush, or many others who face a similar plight. It was a case of getting the tractor into operation or be without, because sufficient new tractors are not available, and have not been available, for several years.

Implement dealers say some headway is being made against the growing demands for new equipment, but they "cannot see daylight" yet in the backdrop of several years of accumulated needs.

And thereby hangs a long story —the story of how farmers on the South Plains, where farm mechanization has reached the highest point of probably any farming area in the world, have kept antiquated and steadily depreciating tractors and other equipment in operation to set new crop producing records year after year during and since the war.

It was a job that only the ingenuity of the American farmer could do. He has prospered, it is true, but his efforts have been plentiful, and in most cases, his financial rewards have not been in keeping with expectations and demands made upon him. Gauged in relation to his efforts and the tools with which he was forced to work, he has not prospered in proportion to his city cousin industrialist or professional operator.

would "purify the political situation in Texas."

"Such officers (as members of the Highway and Railroad commission) should not be allowed the use of the people's time in running for what they consider better offices," Isaacks said.

Horany Explains Measure

Rep. Horany explained the bill.

"Who are you mad at on the Railroad commission?" Rep. Raymond Tatum of Huntington asked Horany.

"I have no axe to grind," Horany replied. "I think we should protect the people. When a man in office spends four to six months campaigning for another office it's a waste of the state's time and money."

The House passed a bill by Rep. Otis Lee of Port Arthur allowing all counties along the Gulf of Mexico to set up mosquito control boards.

Also passed was a bill setting up an adjunct of Texas A. & M. college in Kimble county.

Another measure approved by the House and sent to the Senate would increase membership of the State Banking board from three to five.

Stiles, executive secretary of the Red Cross; Miss Lula Mae Cravens, volunteer services chairman, and Ernest F. St. Clair, chairman of the Lubbock county chapter of the Red Cross.

Missions Are Explained

Speaking on missions of mercy of the Red Cross, Mrs. Stiles pointed out that the six major missions of the Red Cross are to aid in disaster, serve the armed forces, serve veterans, promote health and safety, serve youth, and help around the world. She told of examples of each mission in Lubbock county. The disaster plan in Lubbock county, which has been worked out in detail so it could be placed into immediate use in event of need, has been praised by the national Red Cross.

W. P. Clement, a team captain in the advance gifts campaign, gave the invocation.

St. Clair said that Texas City, where disaster relief had been given residents last year, doubled their goal in the fund drive.

Ford Plans Substantial Increase in Low-Price Model Production

DETROIT, Feb. 28 (AP) — Ford Motor company went ahead with plans today to step up production of lower-priced models substantially.

Executive Vice-President Ernest R. Breech said Ford had no intention of following General Motors' lead in cutting prices. He indicated current wages and material costs were too high.

G-M announced price reductions ranging from $10 to $150 Friday. No other auto firms appeared ready to follow suit.

THANK YOU, SIR!

To Speaker Manford

WEST TEXANS are so accustomed to being pushed around in the Legislature and by down-state politicians that when this great section of Texas is given the consideration it deserves the result is little short of shocking.

Durwood Manford, of Smiley, in Gonzales county, is Speaker of the Texas House of Representatives this term and his fairness to West Texas marks him as worthy (1) of the thanks of this section; and (2) of our remembrance, in case he ever decides to seek state-wide office. Although Speaker Manford is a South Texan, living just East and a little South of San Antonio, he has recognized the ability of many of his West Texas colleagues and the value of West Texas to the entire state by placing numerous West Texans in key legislative posts.

Of the 43 Standing committees of the current House, 10 are chairmanned by West Texans, including Oil, Gas and Mining, by Sterling Williams, of Snyder; Highways and Roads, by I. B. Holt, of Olton, both from this particular area. This district's extremely able representative, Preston Smith, did not want a key chairmanship, but got exactly what he wanted: the chairmanship of the Appropriations committee's sub-committee on Institutions of Higher Learning. This appointment, of course, is of inestimable value to Texas Technological college.

For his outstanding fairness to this section in placing West Texans in key posts and on all important key committees, Speaker Manford has earned the respect and goodwill of all of us who live in a section usually discriminated against. We know West Texans join us in expressing appreciation to the speaker and we hope some day we can return the favor, if and when Speaker Manford decides to seek a state-wide office.

All For One

THE Rotary club of Lamesa recently played host to an important visitor from South America, Humberto Montiero, of Sao Paulo, Brazil.

In typical Lamesa fashion, the Rotarians there extended perfect hospitality to the visitor. He is vice-president of the Ford Motor Co. in Brazil, and previously had royally entertained Rotarians J. D. McPhaul, of Lamesa, and Irving Jones, of Lubbock, when they attended the club's international convention in Rio de Janeiro last year.

Perhaps Lamesa Rotarians didn't think about it at the time, but their whole-hearted hospitality and generous entertainment of Mr. Montiero impressed the visitor not only from the standpoint of Lamesa, but of all West Texas as well. Lamesa Rotarian's "hit a lick" for this whole area, not only for their city, and it was a very good "lick," indeed.

This is something all of us need to think about when we have visitors from far places—in or out of the U. S.—within our gates. Our job is not only to represent ourselves and our individual communities, but also the South Plains area as a whole.

What Lamesa did in the case of Mr. Montiero, we all can and should do when opportunity presents itself.

Many a social drinker gets unsociable after too many drinks.

The average American should be thankful for Congress. To enjoy life, he must have something to cuss.

Beware Of Romance

BY the time Mike came down dressed for dinner, and Aunt Jane bustled in from a final supervision of the dining room and kitchen, Tip and several of Merry's friends, hastily summoned by telephone to meet her visitor from New York, had arrived, and the impromptu party was doing nicely. Merry was proud of Tip and her friends: the girls in pretty, smart summer dinner frocks, the boys in white dinner jackets and dark trousers.

Merry knew before dinner was over that Mike liked her friends and that her friends liked him. She was blissfully happy. It had been silly for her to imagine for a moment that there would be any stiffness between them. Tip and Mike seemed to hit it off perfectly, although when they had first been introduced there had been in each pair of eyes a cool, measuring glance, as though each were saying to the other, "So you're the guy she prefers to me, are you? Well, we'll see about that."

Lizzie was in her element, for she loved company. She couldn't imagine a cook worthy of the name who could be upset by the sudden announcement, less than an hour before dinner time, that there would be half a dozen guests. Lizzie accepted such an announcement as a challenge and rose joyously to meet it.

Andrew, serving deftly in his immaculate white coat, had a smile that rivalled the starched whiteness of his coat. It was good again to hear young voices, laughter, merriment in the old house.

AFTER dinner, the "rumpus-room," with its smoothly waxed floor, the radio that obligingly gave forth music either "sweet" or "hot" at the turn of a small knob, welcomed them and gave the evening its final touch of merriment. Shortly before midnight, when Aunt Jane, Merry and Mike stood in the big hall upstairs, speeding the parting guests, Tip spoke under his breath to Merry.

"He's quite a guy, Merry—your New York beau."

Merry's face was hot with color but she laughed at him.

"How you do talk! He's just a friend who was nice to me in New York and who happened to be passing through."

"Fish-feathers!" said Tip inelegantly. "Passing through my eye. A good 300 miles out of his way, if he was heading for New York! Still, 'most any fellow would drive 300 miles out of the way to say hello to you, Merry!"

Then after the last guest had gone, when Andrew and Aunt Jane were checking windows and doors and Mike and Merry were alone for a moment at the foot of the stairs, Mike looked down at Merry with a question in his eyes.

"So that was Tip Kennedy who's my competition," he observed thoughtfully.

Merry said hastily, "Don't be silly. Tip and I have been pals since school days."

Mike nodded thoughtfully.

"And that's the most dangerous sort of competition a fellow in my shoes can possibly face. Shared memories; mutual interests; tastes in common; same background." He shook his head and added grimly, "But I'm not giving up, Merry. Not without the fight of a lifetime. I haven't even begun to fight yet."

Aunt Jane came up then, smiling, and saying heartily. "Well, Mike, I imagine you'd like to get some rest after your long drive. It was a nice party, wasn't it?"

"One of the nicest I've ever attended," said Mike so firmly, so warmly that there was conviction in his tone.

Aunt Jane laughed.

"Oh, this was just a spur-of-the-moment, impromptu affair," she told him lightly. "Merry was afraid you'd be bored just with us."

"Merry knows better, Miss Randall."

"I'm Aunt Jane to Merry's friends and mine, Mike. 'Miss Randall' makes me feel as though I were being pursued by a bill-collector."

Mike laughed.

"Thanks, then, Aunt Jane."

"Anyway, you wait until it becomes noised about town that Merry had a visitor from New York; all the pretty girls and their mamas will entertain for you until you'll wonder why you ever thought New York was a mad place," Aunt Jane assured him. "It's an old Marshallville custom; everybody turns out and entertains like crazy for anybody's visitors."

"Somehow, the idea appeals to me a lot," admitted Mike cheerfully.

"Well, you've been duly warned," Aunt Jane assured him as they went upstairs together and separated at the head of the stairs . . .

MERRY lay awake for a long time after she had gone to bed. She was excited by the party, she told herself firmly; not because Mike was there. Certainly not! Yet it was fun having Mike in the house. It was going to be fun to show him to the town, and to show the town to him. She had not realized until then how much she had missed him. Or how nice it would be to see him again. to know that he had wanted to see her badly enough to drive 300 miles out of his way. But of course, she told herself hurriedly, that didn't mean a thing. Mike liked to drive; his car was handsome and new and he had time on his hands and the country was lovely at that time of the year and the roads were good. Suddenly she laughed, brushed aside all the hasty "of courses" and admitted warmly and happily that Mike had stopped by because he wanted to see her. That was a nice thing to know. And with the admission she fell asleep at last.

Looking At Life - - By Erich Brandeis

THERE is no question in my mind that a few centuries ago learned scientists solemnly announced — and proved — that the earth was flat.

BRANDEIS

There is no question in my mind that in a few centuries from now — or maybe sooner — learned scientists will solemnly announce — and prove — that the earth is not round.

Both of which statements seem to have little to do with dogs.

But they do, and they have.

I want to show you that scientists are not always right.

You have read a number of stories telling you that scientists claim that dogs cannot discern color and that they do not think.

At great expense and with infinite patience I have conducted a number of experiments which prove conclusively that dogs can differentiate between colors and that they do think.

I chose for my experiments four different dogs, unrelated, of different breeds and from different neighbors.

First there was Sandy, the Cairn. Then Spunky, the English Setter; Gumpy, the cocker spaniel; and Tico the—the dog.

I took one after the other of these canines, separately, and conducted my experiments.

First I put a piece of raw hamburger on the linoleum floor in my kitchen (my wife was out at the time).

Alongside I placed a stick of wood. Next to that a white handkerchief.

I called in Sandy and commanded: "Pick the red color."

Without a moment's hesitation Sandy walked over to the piece of hamburger and not only pointed to it with his nose, but actually ate it!

He ignored the brown wood and the white kerchief.

NEXT I put down a piece of potroast; a head of lettuce, a yellow shirt of mine.

I called in Spunky.

"Pick the brown," I said.

Spunky hesitated for a moment.

He looked at the green lettuce and the yellow shirt.

Then to the brown potroast and down it went.

I repeated the experiment with white meat of chicken, a flesh-colored stocking, and a fiery red geranium which I swiped out of one of my wife's flower pots (I told you she was away).

"White," I said to Gumpy and, ignoring the red color which had attracted Sandy, the little dog took the white bit of chicken and looked at me triumphantly, wagging what he had of a tail.

Tico was the only one who failed me.

In his case I used the red geranium, the yellow shirt, the white handkerchief, and the stocking.

"Pick the red," I commanded. Tico looked, wagged his tail and went away.

But you must admit that three out of four certainly proves my case!

WALLACE SPURS DEMOS

Farm Prices Studied

By ROGER WARREN
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — The dip in wheat and corn prices caused some worry in the farm belt but it gave a shot of hope to Henry Wallace that he may regain greater nuisance value by exploiting agrarian gripes.

During the meeting of the National Committee of his Progressive Party here, the former Secretary of Agriculture and Franklin D. Roosevelt's running mate was cold shouldered by old associates and Truman bigwigs. Nevertheless Henry's reappearance is bothering the Democratic high command more than it will admit publicly.

TUCKER

His latest sucker bait is a tentative Wallace national budget, proposed to offset the Administration's official budget. Three billion two hundred million dollars are earmarked for agriculture in contrast to one billion six hundred million dollars for this purpose by the President.

GRIEVANCES: Mr. Truman has just tempted a few normally Republican farm states into the family. His chiefs do not want to let Henry wean them away. They remember how their own William Jennings Bryan made political hay from rural grievances and how later they themselves went to town on this issue during the 20's and in the depression.

Wallace himself became interested in farm problems in the 20's. He maintains that the present sag in agricultural prices and the continued high prices of metals are similar to the conditions of that period. "I'm flying storm signals," he says, "even though the hurricane may blow out to sea."

ELECTRIFICATION: Wallace scouts report that farmers, in conserving their money as the result of watching the fluctuations in the commodity markets, are reluctant to buy farm implements such as tractors, hay balers and other machinery, which they maintain cost too much.

One of the most noticeable effects of prolonged agricultural prosperity is the electrification of the farm. First the various needs of the barns and fields were supplied and then all sorts of appliances for the house were purchased. Henry's statisticians say that lower farm income will slow down electrification.

The Iowa Santa Claus thinks that the way to check any recession in the corn country is to pour out a new pack of Christmas presents. He proposes to provide for a combined price support and subsidy program to ensure farm income and maintain lower consumer prices.

STAMP: In addition he would recreate the Farm Security Administration for tenant and small farmers, particularly below Mason and Dixon's line, inaugurate a food stamp plan for low income groups, expand crop insurance, develop flood control in the Missouri River Basin and enlarge the conservation program.

He also would take measures to reduce soil erosion and overcome the shortage of water that is removing thousands of acres from profitable agriculture each year.

In other words, our medicine man not only would halt the fall of farm income but also promises to shower new advantages over the wheat fields.

To Doubting Thomases he retorts, "They said lots of my dreams couldn't come true, but they did. I personally started the ever normal granary. Today everyone accepts it as a permanent farm policy."

Even before the election political experts rated Wallace as an extinct volcano. Ordinarily, therefore, the ideas of a has-been would not attract attention or be worthy of comment. Moreover the lure which a red tint has for Henry is a factor in his loss of influence.

NOSTRUMS: Nearly all of Wallace's farm belt popularity long since has waned. Still he retains his old aptitude for sensing farm problems and for offering nostrums which appeal to the man on the tractor.

Henry might not win back his old rooters. But he might light a prairie fire of dissatisfaction that could fill the White House with smoke. He could make farmers sore at President Truman.

The Republicans have learned their lesson and are trying in every way in Congress to prove to the farmers that they still love them. Although Taft and Martin do not want to be associated with Wallace, they are not displeased to see him stir up trouble for the President.

Wallace is the whip which drives the Democratic Party more and more toward the left. He did it in the last campaign.

Truman "me tooed" Wallace and won the election. The President borrowed many of his ideas on civil rights and labor and social services from his former Secretary of Commerce. Of course, the White House recoiled from Henry's position on Russia but in many other lines it gathered fruit from what Henry planted.

"INFLUENCE": Wallace realizes that his following has dwindled. But he boasts "We have an influence altogether greater than the size of our vote. We influenced the domestic policies of President Truman. We shall have quite an impact on the future decisions of the government."

The Iowan has had a roller coaster career. During recent months he has shot down deeper than before. So long as our relations with Russia and the Communist world remain as strained as now, his name will be mud. But Henry has been in the dog house again and again and again. Each time some new idea of his gained popular or government support and out he came.

He himself may not come back again. But should the farm belt start worrying, the dragon seed which Wallace is sowing may yield a crop of headaches for the Truman Administration.

That old expression of something being dirt cheap has no reference to a modern building lot.

Correct this sentence: "The alumni are satisfied with the coach though the team had a losing season."

Times are returning to normalcy. If an actress can't secure any publicity in any other manner she can always lose her jewelry.

Correct this sentence: "The small boy said he preferred going to church services rather than the movies."

Definition of a small town: A place where the policeman doesn't give a resident a ticket for infraction of a traffic law.

Music binds folks together, says a band leader. Yeah, some dancing couples look like they need to be untied.

The pioneer had things to worry him, but deficit spending was not one of them.

PRESIDENT ADMITS SPLIT

Truman Trip Into South Urged

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — If President Truman hits the road again and mounts the back platform to give the Democratic 81st Congress the same "what for" that he gave the Republican 80th a few months ago, as he threatened in his Jackson-Jefferson dinner speech, it would be only logical for him to head his special train due south and spend most of his time there.

STOKES

Since his own party is in control of Congress now, his complaints lie against it. And, in looking at his party and analyzing it, he will find what he already knows too well, which is that his troubles come from a bloc of southerners who still refuse to follow him on some important parts of his program.

HST Admits Split

He recognized his party's dilemma publicly when, in referring to the split in the Republican party that has been so widely advertised since the election, he reminded his Jackson-Jefferson dinner audience with a grin that there is a split in his party, too, which we all remember was so widely advertised before the election.

The split-off of southerners on some issues in Congress, economic and social as well as civil rights, immediately transforms the Democratic party there into a minority party, which is an old, old story told many times in the long years of Democratic control before the brief interruption in the Republican 80th Congress. If the party were united today it could move ahead fairly easily on most of the President's program, as it hasg a safe majority in Congress. Republicans welcome the bolting southern Democrats into their own camp, and you can't blame them if you accept the facts of politics, for politicians continue to practice politics despite everything.

So president Truman's quarrel is largely with the Southern Democratic bolters. His job, then, is to go about among the people of the south and build a backfire among them, if possible, against the small but effective southern rump party. He would need to go no further on his trip if he got results there, and he would by no means need total conversion.

A southern trip would be a gracious gesture that might pay dividends. The President should go all over the south and talk with the people. So many of them never have seen him. In his frank and friendly manner he could dispel some impressions about him in the south which, as this reporter found on a trip there just before the election, add up to create a figure that is as different from Harry Truman as day from night. It's not the same fellow at all.

He would discover a great many people in the south, as he found on his campaign trips elsewhere, who are enthusiastic supporters of his economic and social program because of the improvement that has come to them in so many ways from the Roosevelt program which he hopes to continue and expand. He would find, too, more people than might be suspected who will go a good part of the way with him on his civil rights program. There is a quiet revolution going on in the south, despite the Thurmonds, the Talmadges, and the Rankins.

A frank discussion of the civil rights program would reveal his sincerity and, while many would continue to disagree with him, he would start a healthy debate on premises clearly stated by him in person from which much good eventually might come.

Could Talk Plainly

He could talk in the plain language that was so effective in the campaign. He could let them know that he knew the difference between the real aspirations of the southern people and what some of their representatives stand for in Congress.

He could let them know that he knows how those men get here by virtue of the rotten-borough system that still prevails in some parts of the south which is perpetuated through poll taxes, the "white primary" and variations of it, and all the tricks by which so many citizens are disfranchised that machine control by privileged interests is possible. He could explain to them that one of the objectives of his civil rights program is to end this system.

He could let them know that he knows that the racial issue is used by special interests to stir up prejudice and bitterness which then is exploited against social and economic welfare measures and those who promote them, the tactics of confusion that smacks of communist stragedy though practiced as well by those at the extreme right.

Both President Truman and the south could benefit from meeting and knowing each other.

Rheumatic fever takes twice as many lives among children as infantile paralysis does.

Lubbock Couple Dead In Mishap

Funeral services were conducted Monday in the First Methodist church of Snyder for Mr. and Mrs. John B. (Jack) DeWald, of 2516 Thirty-first, who were instantly killed early Sunday when their automobile rammed into a four-ton truck 12 miles southeast of Snyder.

Burial also was in Snyder.

DeWald, 48, was a life-long resident of the South Plains area, and a partner in Jones & DeWald, local lathing contractors.

He and his wife, 39, were returning to Lubbock from Waco when the accident occurred at about 4:20 a. m. Sunday. DeWald's 1948 Pontiac sedan crashed into the rear of a winch truck parked on the highway near Hermeigh.

Pulled Truck From Ditch

The truck, it was reported, had just pulled a loaded grain truck from a roadside ditch. K. L. Fouch, driver of the winch truck, said he was picking up road flares preparing to leave the scene when the DeWald automobile, traveling at high speed, rammed into the truck.

The bodies of both Mr. and Mrs. DeWald were badly mangled, and their car was totally demolished.

Both Mr. and Mrs. DeWald were active members of the local First Methodist church.

Reared on the South Plains, Mr. DeWald had resided more than 10 years in Lubbock, during which time he had been in the lath contracting business.

Survivors include his mother, Mrs. Bertha Brown of 1905 Fifteenth; a daughter, Miss Jane DeWald; and two sons by a former marriage, Boyd of Lubbock and David of Amarillo.

Dr. J. P. Lattimore and Hal Lattimore of Lubbock and L. D. Lattimore of Amarillo are uncles of Mr. DeWald.

Mrs. DeWald, who formerly lived in Snyder, was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Webb of that city. She and her husband had visited her parents Friday night, en route to Waco. Mrs. DeWald's sister, Mrs Loy Logan, is also a resident of Snyder.

Tickets are available at the school at 25 cents for children and 50 cents for adults.

Cotton

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Feb. 28. (AP)—Cotton futures were irregular today in dull trading. Scattered hedging and liquidation were absorbed through mill and New Orleans buying. Traders awaited fresh developments on exports and the announcement of the mid-February cotton parity schedule after the close of trading today, which is expected to be under the January parity.

Private advices said that plantings of the 1949 cotton crop started in the lower Rio Grande valley and that acreage was expected to reach 700,000 to 800,000 acres compared with about 600,000 last year.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 28. (AP)—Cotton futures declined today under holiday long liquidation and scattered hedge-selling.

Closing prices were barely steady 60 cents to 80 cents a bale lower.

Supreme Court Ruling Gives New Weight To 'Axis Sally' Evidence

By EARLE MARCKRES
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Mildred E. Gillars—"Axis Sally"—fought for her life on the witness stand today as the Supreme court ruled for the first time that broadcasts for an enemy in wartime are treasonable.

The high court's ruling, upholding the life term given Douglas Chandler for Nazi broadcasts during the war, is expected to have a direct bearing in the case of "Sally," who is charged with the same offense.

Patriotic Motives Claimed

Chandler claimed he made Nazi broadcasts from "patriotic motives." This claim has also been made by Miss Gillars, along with claims that she was forced by the Germans to broadcast and that she was influenced by her love for a German professor.

Miss Gillars' testimony today, as her treason trial entered its sixth week, dealt largely with her love for Prof. Max Otto Koischwitz, the German whom she says she considered her "destiny."

She testified that she bought the Odes of Horace in Latin and many other gifts for Koischwitz, former Hunter College professor whom she first met in New York.

Bought 'Odes' in Paris

Miss Gillars said she bought the odes in Paris shortly before the Germans were driven out.

Soon afterward, she said, she and Prof. Koischwitz were separated when she went to Holland to continue broadcasting and he went to Berlin, where he died a few months later.

The gray-haired, 48-year-old spinster declared she had "premonition that something had happened" to Koischwitz, and telephoned Berlin to learn of his death.

Bribes Trainmen

She then bribed her way with coffee onto a Berlin-bound train, at the time of the German retreat, and attended Koischwitz's funeral.

Miss Gillars testified that both she and Koischwitz had "bitterly resented" the presence at their broadcasts of a German agent named Werner Plack.

She stated that they regarded Plack as a "stool pigeon" for the German foreign office. She reiterated that she did not regard her pro-Nazi broadcasts as treason, and that she never gave information she considered harmful to the U. S.

Miss Gillars dealt briefly with the many interviews she had with American prisoners of war to obtain program material. She said she could not remember many details, and added:

"I'd have to be a female Thomas A. Edison to recall all the conversations, except for a few details which stick in my memory."

She was interrupted by objections when she tried to testify that another woman broadcasting from Rome was known as "Axis Sally."

Miss Gillars swore that she never identified herself on the radio as "Sally"—the name by which she was known to the GI's. She said her radio nickname was "Midge."

Twenty-two large U. S. Cities now have television stations.

EAT PLENTY AND TAKE OFF UGLY FAT

When you buy Barcentrate, you buy a preparation for taking off weight. You do not pay for any printed diet or for vitamines to fortify you against weakness while on a starvation diet. You need never know a hungry moment while taking this preparation. Barcentrate is the original grapefruit juice recipe for weight reduction.

Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barcentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take just two tablespoonfuls twice a day. That's all there is to it.

If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, easy way to take off ugly fat, return the empty bottle for your money back.

Lost 56 pounds

Here is what Mrs. L. J. Bryant, P. O. Box 54, Whitewright, Texas, wrote us:

"I want to tell you what Barcentrate has done for me. I weighed 248 pounds when I started taking it. I now weigh 192.

"I have taken my dress size down from size 50 to 44 and never felt better in my life and everybody tells me how much nicer I look than I did.

"I am still taking Barcentrate as I want to get my weight down to 165 or 170 pounds."
