FRED STRANG TALKS TO SENATE PATRONAGE
COMMITTEE

(By Associated Press)
 WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Charges of fraud in receivership proceedings against Texas Oil companies were laid before the senate patronage committee today by Fred W. Strang, of Port Worth, upon the committee's resumption of its investigation of federal appointments in Southern states.

Strang said he had known of many such cases and had been indicted in one himself. He told the committee "some men were arrested and thrown into receivership and fined" while "other were not."

Ninety Per Cent Not Paid
 "Ninety per cent of oil frauds fines were not paid," Strang said.
 "Why not?" asked Senator Mc-Kellar, democrat, Tennessee.

"I can't tell," the witness answered, "but eventually the properties wind up in the hands of politicians."

One affidavit, Strang said, was "typical of all the cases." It was signed by C. P. Edgell, whom Strang described as a "former Port Worth oil man connected with the republican machine but now on the outer edge of the circle."

Bought New Sedan
 The affidavit was ordered into the record by McKellar. It said that Edgell gave $2,000 to Col. W. E. Talbot of Dallas, in behalf of Owen A.
 Wood, an oil man who, Edgell said, told him to "give it to Talbot to buy a new sedan."

Talbot, Strang testified, was a "political consort of R. B. Creager," the latter is chairman of the republican national committee for Texas.

Talbot, Strang continued, was to interfere with Col. William J. Donovan, who was then assistant to the attorney general, in an attempt to prevent proceedings against Wood.

"Does Talbot hold any public office?" McKellar asked.

"No," replied the witness, "but I believe he will if it can be arranged."

Highlights of the fall-winter fashion trends were shown recently at the Chicago style show.

As noted they are: Flares are popular, both in suits and dresses, but they by no means monopolize the limelight. The straight silhouette still demonstrates its popularity. Much fur is used on fabric coats, and often it is manipulated in unusual and interesting ways.

Jackets with the pocket suits vary as to length. Some are short, others of cardigan length, and still others are three-quarters length. Woolen jackets and skirts are worn with turtleneck jumper, or a reversal of the fabric.

The blouse shows gathers on the ruffled collar and at the waist line. Fancy buttons are used to finish both. The three in the circle are, left, Miss Helen McBride, former "Miss Chicago," in a creation by Annabel La Reine, Chicago, couturier, of transparent velvet with imported lace collar. Center, one of the new travel coats in trench styling, worn by Billy Walton; right, Viola Allen displaying a three-piece printed velvet ensemble in plaid design with blouse of solid color and tuck-in mode.

At the extreme right of the picture is a coat of a new blue creole weave cloth with a horseshoe shaped collar and muff made of caracul. This coat shows the flared line, low placed, and preserving the slender effect. It is worn by Miss Rayburn.

Anti-Christian forces also control the movies, which are largely responsible for demoralization of our youth. Their aims in this channel are accomplished by sex stuff. The movies ridicule the preacher, painting him as a reformer or criminal, and show disrespect to the office on the screen.

"Even dress styles are designed and controlled by this anti-Christian movement."

The Rev. Mr. Ham said that upon one occasion 40 women's organizations in America elected delegates to a central congress, where delegates were elected to a national meeting, where plans were made to aid the Soviet government in putting over his program in this nation.

He said that this Satanic campaign has placed spies in the Free Masonry body in efforts to destroy the fraternal body.

He said that the movement is to moral perversion.

"This body also controls sports and games, purposely to encourage gambling and speculation. That explains why Jack Dempsey can get more space in the newspaper than a preacher, unless that preacher has done a wrong."

sky conqueror during the morning work. Six naval planes circled overhead as the big silvery ship came to earth.

The nose of the newest trans-Pacific liner touched the mooring mast at 3:33 a. m.

The first word from the passengers of the Zeppelin was from Lady Grace Drummond Hay of London. "Glad to be back."

"I am so glad to be back in America," she said.

Passengers disembarked at 5:55 o'clock. Flying time of the Zeppelin for the 16,880 miles from Lakehurst, N. J., was computed at 233 hours and 33 minutes.

"A very marvelous trip, a wonderful experience," was the comment of Sir Hubert Wilkins, Australian explorer and passenger.

Dr. Eckner is ill.

Dr. Hugo Eckner, commander of the Graf Zeppelin, who was seriously ill for two days of the trip from Tokyo, was rushed by motor to a hotel. Arrangements had been made to issue a statement, but a written statement he had prepared last night was lost as the wind tore it from his hand while he leaned from the control room gondola.

Those with whom Dr. Eckner had talked said he was highly enthusiastic over the success of the trip and convinced it was far had demonstrated the commercial feasibility of lighter-than-air transportation ocean commerce.

The condition of Dr. Eckner, while indicating the stress of the trip and his two day illness, was declared to be good. He was hurried to the hotel in order to get sufficient rest to meet the entertainment program and be prepared to get away when the Zeppelin is ready to take off.

Began August 7

The historic flight of the dirigible began at Lakehurst, N. J., Wednesday, August 7 at 10:30 p. m. The ship arrived at its home port.

Friedrichshafen, Germany, Saturday, August 10 at 7:33 a. m. (eastern standard time), the voyage being remarkable for the speed which it crossed the Atlantic—58 hours, 24 minutes.

Four days later, August 14 at 10:43 p. m. (E. S. T.), the air liner left Friedrichshafen for what was considered the most difficult part of its world's flight, the 6,880 miles to Tokyo.

The journey across the wastes of Russia and Siberia was made without following the premeditated course because of unfavorable weather and the dirigible was unable to pass over Moscow. It covered the distance in 101 hours 53 minutes, arriving at Tokyo August 19 at 4:37 a. m. (E. S. T.).

Only One Mishap

The only mishap thus far to mark the world flight was at Gasumigaura, the air station near Tokyo, where the dirigible was moored. Dr. Eckner prepared for a takeoff on August 22, but unfavorable weather held him up for several hours. In attempting a takeoff the dirigible swayed as it was being taken out of its hangar and two struts of a rear gondola were broken.

Repairs were made and the air liner took off for Los Angeles at 3:33 p. m. (1:15 a. m. E. S. T.) Friday, August 23.

It was the first time an aircraft ever actually started a non-stop flight across the Pacific. The great ocean had been conquered however, by airplane in 1927, when the Southern Cross made the flight from California to Australia with two hops, one at Honolulu and one at Suva, Fiji Islands.

Welcome Upstream

Strens, automobile horns, steamship whistles and all other available noise makers cut loose, and the sky conqueror rode through the Golden Gate in the middle of a swarm of welcoming airplanes. She circled the bay cities area slowly and then headed for Los Angeles.

At Los Angeles the mighty uproar of greeting was repeated. It burst forth when lanterns waved out of ports of the control room of the Zeppelin as the big ship slowly circled above the airport in the darkness. Cheers from thousands of throats were matched by the roaring of horns and sirens from automobiles. Police kept the myriad onlookers who might rush upon the Zeppelin.

At Jaffa last night Arabs attacked in force the government offices. They were driven off by British police in a conflict in which five persons were killed and thirty wounded.

The violence of the outbreak, of which the causes had long been served, however, seemed to have taken on the British governing body in Palestine by surprise.

All members of the Zionist executive were summoned to London for an emergency session. Louis Lipsky, president of the Zionist organization of America, will represent American Jewish interests at the meeting.

British warships and troops were rushed to Palestine from all strategic points in the Mediterranean.

From Cairo, Egypt, it was reported the casualties on both sides during the fighting since Friday had been much greater than was indicated in news dispatches by way of London.

COL. TALBOT DENIES STRANG'S CHARGES

DALLAS, Aug. 26 (AP)—A denial of charges made before the senate patronage committee in Washington today was issued by Col. W. E. Talbot of Dallas.

"I had some information on the said Strang which I turned over to the Better Business Bureau, while undoubtedly accounts for his testimony against me in this case."

"I deny all his charges and at the proper time will prove this at the committee's convenience."

WRIGLEY'S SWIM
HAS 409 ENTERED

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 26 (AP).—Four hundred and nine entries have been received for the Wrigley 15-mile open marathon swim in Lake Ontario on Wednesday.
The 40th entry was from a tramp, Henry J. Dallmeyer of Fond Du Lac, Wis. The list had been closed before his entry was received, but an exception was made in his case because the last mail had reached his cabin in May. He had traveled 2,000 miles to file his entry, unaware the list had closed.
The first five finishers in the women's 10-mile swim last week automatically qualified for the open marathon, but present indications are only Ruth Tower of Denver will compete. The winner, Martha Norlund of New York, announced she still will not start.

SPUDDERS CONTINUE TO FALTER IN TEXAS LEAGUE

NINTH RALLY OF FIVE RUNS FEATURES DAY

LOCALS COME FROM THE REAR TO BEAT OUT TEXANS AGAIN

Coming from behind in the ninth frame with five-run assault, the Spudders knocked the count and beat the Amarillo Texans through two extra innings Sunday afternoon to eke out a 12 to 11 decision over the Panhandle city nine for the fourth straight victory over the visitors.

After it appeared that all was lost for the homeboys, Manager E. Wilson rallied his forces and pulled the frame from the fire in the final round and pushed across a pair of tallies in the eleventh to cop the decision.

Both Scoreless In 10th
Both teams went scoreless in the tenth, but in the 11th, the Tacks counted once to take the lead and would have held this margin had it not been for a brainstorm on the part of the Amarillo board of strategy. After Hensley had walked and advanced to third base on Waller's sacrifice and Wilson infield out, McColl was issued a free pass to first base. Catcher Boyles came out of a conference and attempted to force a double steal by trying for McColl at second on the first pitch. Neither keystone guardian covered on the throw and Hensley scored the tying run, McColl going to third after Rigney had walked. Brothers hit to third base, scoring McColl as E. Boyles fumbled.

Vaught Grows Wild
For eight innings, Bernie Vaught held the Hubbers in check while his mates pounded McColl off the Hill and continued their assault on Jackson. A five-run spree in the third put the visitors out in front with comfortable margin, and at the beginning of the ninth, the Tacks held a five-run advantage. In this round Vaught grew wild and was relieved by Carter Bassett.

The Texas University star served 'em from the wrong side, and was promptly greeted by a barrage of base hits. Lubbock batted around in the ninth frame, counting five runs to tie the count at 10 all. After Bassett was knocked out, McColl was brought in from center field to take over the hurrying burden. The contest thereby strengthened the two-run rally in the eleventh inning.

Alex McColl, the Hubber right-hander was unable to get started yesterday. A rolled ligament on the second ball pitched ruined his effectiveness for the day. After three innings, the veteran twirler gave way to Gilbert Jackson with none out in the fourth.
Jackson hit by fairly well for a spell but this change of pace soon lost its effectiveness and the boards began to rattle. Raymond Aler, Lubbock shortstop, went to the mound in the eighth and hurled brilliantly in the punches. In the tenth, he struck out two batters to stem the Amarillo threat. Able support helped him over in the eleventh.

Carter Bassett, protégé of Uncle Billy Dusch of Texas University was the shining star of the melee, poling out three singles, a double and triple in seven trips to the plate.

Rogers 'Guilty' Of Adding Punch That Cubs Needed

THE RAJAH TAKES THE STAND IN HIS OWN DEFENSE NOW

BY WILLIAM RITT
Central Press Writer
NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Mr. Rogers Hornsby, alias The Rajah, is accused of aiding and abetting and of being one of the prime instigators of a plot of the Chicago Cubs to kidnap the National League pennant, last seen in possession of the St. Louis Cardinals. Mr. Hornsby takes the stand in his own defense.

Prosecuting Attorney: "Your name?"

"Rogers Hornsby, second baseman."

"Where and when were you born?"

"In Winters, Texas, on April 27, 1896."

"Your occupation?"

"A ball player, sometimes a baseball manager. Sometimes both."

"How long have you been a ball player?"

"Since 1914. I started with Dallas in the Texas League. Then after a couple of seasons I was sold to the St. Louis Nationals."

"Is it true that you labored for the St. Louis Nationals from 1916 to and including 1928 and as player-manager, brought them their first championship?"

"Yes, sir; it was like this."

"Never mind that. Then what did you do?"

"Well, sir, I played with the New York Giants one year, managed the Boston Braves the next season, and this spring started playing with the Chicago Cubs."

"How long have you known of this plot to kidnap the pennant?"

"Well, Mr. McCarthy, the manager," said something about it when I joined the Cubs this spring and since then I've noticed that all of the fellows had the same idea."

"Hm! I see. Is it true that your hitting has given the Cubs the necessary 'punch' to kidnap the pennant?"

"Well—er—you see, everybody on our club has had a big hand in this business."

"But isn't it true that you are leading the Cubs in hitting, that you are one of the first five hitters in the National League and that your average is around .360?"

"Yes, sir."

"And isn't it true that by your fielding and generalship in the infield you have stabilized the Cubs' infield defense, thereby strengthening greatly their one weak spot?"

"Well—er—goosh, I don't know."

"That's all, Your Honor, the state rests its case."

His Honor, Judge B. B. Pan, rises, adjusts his spectacles and announces:

"The court finds the defendant guilty as charged. Rogers Hornsby, you are sentenced to from four to seven days of hard labor in Philadelphia and Chicago this fall during the 1929 World Series. Next case!"

LONG-AWAITED MEETING OF REDS AND CUBS PEACEABLE AFFAIR; YANKS LOSE DESPITE RUTH'S TWO HOME RUNS

By WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The long-awaited grudge meeting between the Reds and the Cubs came off in Cincinnati yesterday, but hardly as advertised. Lured by threats and counter threats of what would happen to Messrs. Wilson Kolp and Donohue found themselves once more within the confines of a single ball park, even so roomy a battle ground as Redland field. 35-432 clients appeared before the turnstiles with cash in hand. After all they had been led to hope for, they saw nothing but two very business-like ball games played by peaceable young men who apparently do not even know how to make a hostile gesture. Red Lucas won the opener for the home team 6 to 3, his seventeenth triumph of the season, but Guy Bush turned the tables for Chicago in the nightcap, winning his eighteenth game, 10 to 1.

Cubs Stretch Lead
The even break enabled the Cubs to stretch their margin half a game to 13 full contests as the Pirates again bowed to the Giants, this time 10 to 3.

Lester Sweetland pitched the Phillies to a 4 to 6 triumph over the Robins in Brooklyn, allowing only four hits, and Willie Sherdel shut out the Braves in Boston by an identical score while allowing five hits.

Ruth in Action
After 22 scoreless innings, master minds of the Yankees devised a plan for getting runs across the plate, at once simple and effective. It was merely to have Mr. Ruth step to the front and hammer the ball out of the lot, which he had neglected to do for some days until yesterday.

Putting this plan into operation against Wally Stewart in the fourth and ninth innings at Sportsman's park yesterday, Ruth snapped the Yankee string of scoreless innings and lifted his personal home run total from 23 to 25 but failed to win the ball game, which the Browns did at the expense of Roy Sherid, 3 to 2.

The Athletics also lost when Al Thomas allowed just four hits to win, 3 to 0. It was three out of four for the White Sox over the leaders, who now have dropped six of their last eight games.

Detroit finally won from Washington, stopping the Senators, 8 to 7 in 11 innings at Navy field, and the Indians divided a double header with the rejuvenated Red Sox. Cleveland took the opener 5 to 4 and Boston the nightcap by 5 to 3.

TEN OUT OF SIXTEEN MATCHES WON BY LUBBOCK SUNDAY

Plainview golfers found the hazards of the Lubbock Country club a little tough Sunday afternoon and the home guard scored its second successive victory over the Hale county aggregation, winning ten out of the 16 matches over the 18-hole course.

The visiting golfers made a serious threat to even things with the Lubbock team, but were unable to overcome the advantage held by the boys familiar with the course.

Competition Close
Close competition was the feature of yesterday's engagement between the rival cities. Several matches were won in extra-hole play, while an even greater number were decided on the 17th.

Captain Ross McWhorter of the Lubbock team suffered the most overwhelming defeat of the day when he went down before the masterful strokes of Hornbuckle, 5 up and 4 to go. McWhorter is certain that his opponent will have little trouble winning the state championship of New Mexico when the tournament comes off.

Two Go To 19th
J. O. Smith and Carl Patton were forced to go extra holes in their matches. Smith was square with Rousey at the end of the 18 holes.

Both golfers lay on the edge of the green on the 19th. Smith's pitch shot struck within inches of the cup and Rousey holed out on a similar shot. Patton defeated Sears on the 20th hole, 1 up.

Match results: May defeated Bedford, 1 up; Walter Sykes defeated J. W. Byrne, local pro, 1 up; Edmondson defeated Brown, 3 and 1; Pearson defeated Woodward, 7 and 5; McLary defeated Adams, 2 and 1; Rousey defeated J. O. Smith, 1 up on 19; Gregory defeated Wells, 2 up; Cook defeated Lykes, 1 up; Yager defeated Cannon, 1 up; Roberts defeated Gillespie, 3 and 1.

Campbell defeated Trigg, 2 and 1; Arnett defeated Birdson, 2 up in 20; Patton defeated Sears, 1 up in 20; English defeated Wright, 3 and 2; Hornbuckle defeated McWhorter, 5 and 4; Gollfar defeated Sadler, 4 and 3.

Harley Sadler, owner of the Sadler shows, was leading his opponent by a wide margin until he was overcome by the heat and collapsed. His prostration was said to be caused from lack of water despite the fact that there are three windmills on the Country Club course.

TRY NEW PLAN

Umps Voice Is Heard Over Loud-Speaker

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP).—Umpiring behind the plate and announcing probably will be one and the same job henceforth at the Polo Grounds as the always have been in the smaller leagues of the land. The merger of the two posts at the home of the Giants, if accomplished, will be due to the installation of a loud-speaking device, which was tried out yesterday and Saturday.

At the Sabbath game between the Giants and the Pirates, Cy Rigler, the heroically-built arbiter, adjusted his mask at the plate, touched a metal disk with his spike and sent his announcement of the batter to even the most remote sections of the vast baseball plant through a series of amplifiers. A wire connects the umpire's spikes with a microphone in his mask. The spike, touching the metal disk in the ground, forms contact with a wiring system which carries the voice of the speaker to amplifiers throughout the park. Balls and strikes are to be called over the network.

Tied With Houston

By splitting yesterday's twin sle at Stuart Stadium, winning first, 3 to 1, and dropping the second, 4 to 1, the Exporters pulled Oilers down into a virtual tie with the Buffs, who were taking the second straight from Fort Worth.

Today is the first time in 40 days that the far north city has not had undisputed hold on the title. The even break gave Galveston a record of seven losses in nine games since hitting the road, wiped out the last of the six-game lead with which it departed Wichita. The loss of Benton slumped the Buffs and a weak spot at the third has been costly.

Hurling Is Masterful
Gilt-edged twirling by two ex-leaguers, Flint Rhem and Lil Stone, featured the Buffs' valuable victory over the Oilers.

When he allowed the Panthers only four safeties while Stoner was giving up five, Pepper Martin was the only member of either club to get two hits.

The onrushing Steers made eight wins in their last nine starts by tumbling the Indians, 8 to 3 and 9 to 7, in their doubleheader. The first half champs were only two and one-half games from the summit to day and driving hard.

Shreveport slid into fourth place by dividing a pair with the Oilers. The Oilers, who had been obviously unbeaten, from the hills capturing the first, 13 to 8. They were six homers during the match. Thompson hurled the Sports to a 2 to 2 decision in the second after relieving Tuero.

AS you motor along the country roads, you are frequently urged to stop, look, and listen to avoid accidents. Every woman traveling the broad highway of fashion should be urged to do the same. For things are happening. Express trains are coming along so fast and so ruthlessly that no woman is safe who is not alert and keeping her foot on the brake.

Styles are changing rapidly. The dress you buy today may be absolutely passe within the next few months unless you keep your eye on the road.

Many women are asleep at the wheel. There have been no violent and radical changes in fashion in the past few years, and those that have come, such as irregular hemlines and long back and sides, have come so gradually that women actually have forgotten the reputation Fashion has for being fickle. But be ready. Fashion is just full of tricks this year.

This trend is particularly noticeable in coats. The little straight model that wraps about the hips is conspicuous by its absence at the fall openings in Paris. In its place are flared models that fit in closely at the waistline, with wide, romantic looking sleeves and a cut that would make a jig-saw puzzlist weep with envy.

If the coat is allowed to be straight, it is so intricately cut, has such unusual neck or hem treatment and such a completely different feeling than that to which we have been accustomed that it bears not even a family resemblance to the flapperish model we have been wearing.

In fact you can hunt all over for the straight line and not find it. Dresses have circular lines, molded hiplines, and often high or at least normal waistlines.

One of the most noticeable changes is the element of mystery that has suddenly appeared in gowns for afternoon and evening. No longer are they artless and simple. Sleeves have suddenly become ambitious and sophisticated, and baffling in cut. A collar does more than simply surround the neck—it has mysterious scarf effects that melt away to nothing and go only part way around the throat, completely baffling you as to where the beginning is. Skirts are different lengths, gowns contrive double waistlines, molded hips and bolero jackets all at the same moment. It's all too confusing.

But you do notice that the waistlines are definitely higher, skirts are shorter and the freedom of the knees seems to be denied entirely.

The Paris importations shown today tell the story of the changing modes in their own inimitable way. Read them and weep for joy. Because there is something new under the sun, and it's coming into every woman's life.

I. THIS Lelong evening gown is of mousseline, in colors that suggest the late sunset. The ground is a tender gray with flowers in blurred pink and rose. A very unusual effect is achieved at the waistline, where the bolero and the hip yoke follow the same slanting line and the tailored belt follows the natural waistline. The long, narrow panel that touches the floor and the almost negligible shoulder straps are important new touches.

II. HERE is a black velvet evening model, with a double-tiered hem and sleeves that recall the middle ages. It is as glamorous a wrap as any woman—particularly a blond—need own. It may be worn with or without a shoulder corsage, but a few orchids never ruined any coat, and they add to the charm of this one.

III. THIS Lelong afternoon model is in mousseline—that very sheer looking fabric that wears like cast iron. It is printed in red, black and green, in a bold, bizarre design. Gaze upon those sleeves and turn your back forever upon the sleeveless mode.

IV. A typically Parisian street costume is this Lelong creation. Its black cloth coat, with the ample collar and cuffs of lynx, is united in ensemble to a crepe frock of black and white striped and shaded silk. The frock looks simple enough, but the cut is masterful, and the addition of the godets and the molded waistline is a problem in fashion geometry.

V. OF the three Lelong coats illustrated here there is much to be said for each, but for originality the prize goes to this model of black marocain with wing sleeves and scarf collar. It is quite the most slinky and exotic wrap that has been seen this season. And harmonious indeed is the black felt hat with the wide points at the side and the flat bows applied on the crown. If you think the vamp is dead—think again.

VI. FROM Jean Patou comes this handsome evening coat of lame in the most heavenly shade of old blue and gold. It is banded at the hem and the cuffs with blue fox. The complete absence of any fur at the neckline and the substitution of the wide scarf is quite in line with the best French customs. You will notice that this coat is shorter in front than in the back, and is worn over a frock of the same fabric.

Thought For Today

And while they are drunken as drunkards, they shall be devoured as stubble fully dry.—Nahum 1:16.

qualities peculiar to himself. Drunkenness places him as much below the level of the brute as reason elevates him above them.—Sir G. Sinclair.

The Growing Giant

The budding aviation industry is growing so fast that it is difficult to keep track of its progress. Figures for one month eclipse those of the month before with astonishing regularity.

Some of the most recent reports reveal:

No less than 216 cities have now established themselves on the "air map" as aircraft manufacturing or operations centers. Every day Planes fly 80,000 miles, and passengers, mail and express between these cities, which are linked by 30,000 miles of established airways.

Mail planes alone fly 50,000 miles daily across 41 of the 48 states, northward into Canada and south into Mexico, Central and South America.

In addition, passenger planes on regularly scheduled routes are flying approximately 50,000 miles daily.

In July the National Air Transport shattered all its past records by carrying 151,052 pounds of mail and 7,887 pounds of express in an increase of 18,660 pounds of mail and 285 pounds in express over June the previous high month.

One American air transport company—the Boeing system, operating between Chicago and the west coast and between Los Angeles and San Francisco—now flies four times as much mileage each night as does the Deutsche Luft Hansa, which virtually monopolizes air travel in Germany.

Recent increases in airplane manufacturing activities and in schools for pilots and mechanics have been most gratifying.

All of which is an illustration of the increasingly important role that aviation is playing in our daily life, with unlimited prospects for the future.

Other nations may excel in the building of huge dirigibles that can cross the Atlantic and may fly around the world, and in the construction of planes that can carry 100 passengers. Such feats are commendable for the genius and enterprise they display, but real progress is written in the growth of day-by-day commercial flying on a business-like basis.

That Sheriff

We're ready to read the cheering for Sheriff L. E. Alderman of Proctor county, Colorado.

Sheriff Alderman, as you probably have read is that six-foot, rough-hewn, two-gun guardian of the law in that remote Colorado county where crime is rampant, has down a gang of bank robbers put fiction story detectives to shame. A rural Colorado farmer until his election by his neighbors two years ago, he stepped into the case with all the sagacity and acumen of a trained sleuth, solved the baffling mystery, rounded up seven alleged members of the gang in various parts of the United States and has furnished police departments everywhere with photos and fingerprints of the alleged ring leader, who escaped him by only 10 minutes in Pueblo, Ill.

Which, we think, was a darn good job.

The most amazing part about the whole case is how the ex-farmer, untrained in the ways of big cities and in the ways of crime, succeeded where other officers, with more opportunity to know the devils ways of the underworld, had failed. It looks like a man who probably would be referred to in criminal parlance as "a hick cop" and viewed at by professional detectives had out-smarted one of the most daring gangs of desperadoes the southwest has known since the days of Jesse James and brought them to bay.

Well, maybe Sheriff Alderman was a "hick cop," maybe he didn't know any more about criminal law, or clues, or Bertillon photos, or blood tests and things like that until he undertook to solve this case.
But the fact remains, he did it.

THE PLAINSMAN

Says

That Girl on Broadway says when the phone girl goes to sleep at the switch the sidetracks her train of thought.

Within the past week two youngsters, a boy and a girl, have been seriously wounded as the aftermath to nocturnal raids on farm orchards and watermelon patches.
The incidents, while costly, should serve to warn other youngsters and also their parents.

As The Plainsman sees it, the human life is much more valuable than watermelons and peaches. All the watermelons and peaches in Lubbock county fall short of being worth the life of any one individual within the county's confines for peach and watermelon crops may be replaced but no human life may be snatched away and then reproduced.

Don't misunderstand The Plainsman in this regard. He sympath-izes with the farmers whose fields and orchards nightly looted of their crops and realizes that the human disposition at times becomes frazzled to the point where better judgment is submerged. No farmer likes to raise his produce for thoughtless looters yet no real man would in his calm moments want to exact a young life in payment for a juicy melon or luscious peach. Doubtless the two farmers whose bullets caused blood to flow wish to the bottoms of their hearts the thing had never happened.

Youngsters who steal watermelons, peaches and whatnot should be punished. Yet there are other and more just methods of punishment than via the bullet route. In fact, The Plainsman remembers somewhat ruefully the days—or rather nights—when shotgun boomed across watermelon patches and fat salt meat or bacon rind collided with his own anatomy. In other words, looting watermelon patches is no new innovation and the use of shotguns to repel nocturnal raiders is likewise not original.
Yet bullets which permanently maim may be substituted for with good results.

Youngsters who raid farmers' fields should be punished. The Plainsman is a firm believer in the old adage which points out that you spoil a child when you spare the rod and certainly most parents will agree that their boys and girls may better find other diversions more profitable than stealing, even though the thefts be thoughtless and of the unimportant variety. Farmers can't be expected to sit idly by while their crops are stolen yet they will be satisfied with a punishment less stringent than that accorded to the Lubbock county boy and girl last week.

NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—This town used to be full of people who thought there wouldn't ever be any more tariff fights.

The prevailing theory was that the democratic party had gone high-tariff and that the issue was no longer one of dispute between it and the republicans.

It was commonly believed that so many democratic senators had industries in their own states demanding protection that any tariff bill the republicans cooked up would not be opposed by as much as a corporal's guard.

It was also an accepted supposition that the country at large was so thoroughly sold on protection that any new tariff bill, no matter how high its scale of duties, would be greeted by hosannas from the households and public thanksgiving meetings at the town pump.

Seriously confident that all these things were true, the rulers of the house of representatives jammed through a tariff bill with the slogan that the sky was the limit and no one expected any further trouble, though it was supposed the hard-boiled republican majority on the senate finance committee would adopt a general program of further elevation.

Well—already the bill has been for some time in a terrible jam and when the finance committee's bill hits the senate floor it probably will enter a period of incarceration.
No man knows the final outcome, but all sensible persons have had to readjust their views about the tariff as an issue.

In the first place a swell fight has developed.

In the second place, the tariff is as much a party issue as it ever was Democratic national headquarters has been issuing unremitting daily blasts against the house bill and the republicans of the finance committee for months. Most democratic senators have sponsored biting and withering denunciations of the bill and republican intentions in general.

It actually looks as if the democrats were more effectively united against the house bill or anything like it than they have been on any other issue in the last several years.

Newspapers Critical

In the third place—and most important—the country is not in any receptive mood. By such means as the country is able to protest it has been squawking steadily and some time ago word came from the White House that a study of clippings showed nine out of ten newspapers actually critical.

The effect of this popular disapproval of many of the proposed increases is plainly to be seen in the sweatings and writhings of Senators Smoot, Reed, Watson and other republican leaders now wrestling with the bill.

The fight on the house provisions has come from many sources—from powerful corporations acting in self-interest and from the most altruistic sources at the same time. The sugar trust, made up principally of American interests operating in Cuba, led the fight on the house three-cent sugar rate, aided enthusiastically by the carbonated beverage bottlers, unselfish individuals and organization defending the interests of the consumer.

Praning Under Pressure

Under this sort of combined pressure, Smoot, Reed, Watson and the others have at least partially caved in. Late the boys have acquiesced cold feet on wool and have reduced the house bill rate on that by three cents a pound. They're pruning under pressure and trying to make this bill look just as sweet as possible under the circumstances.

Apparently the plan as it will finally work out will give the senate bill with bigger and better agricultural duties than the house bill.
That will tend to appease the farmers and make the bill look more like the measure President Hoover intended it to be. On top of that the finance committee will undoubtedly lose overboard quite a few of the tariff seeking interests whose resistant squawks will be politically unimportant.

The subsequent history of the bill will depend on how many democrats and progressives turn out to be willing to trade. There is a rumor that the Republican committee members plan to knock out various southern agricultural products from the house bill in order to make some of the democrats come to terms.

PORT HURON, Mich., Aug. 26.— After 20 years it's rather difficult to understand how alley and barn cast their particular magic over boy-hood.

I've come, within the past few weeks, to have a tremendous respect for the child imagination. Exploring in a new and narrow world, it can find enchanted lands in everything.

To be sure, an alley was not an alley when I was a lad. It was a thoroughfare filled with elegant hiding places when you were playing any of the hide-and-seek games. Also it removed you from the reality of the main streets, with their grown-ups and their traffic. It was far from the voice of searching parents. And there were barns to hide in, and behind, when you wanted to roll a corn silk cigar.

Nor was a back yard a back yard, except when the grass needed cutting or the carpets needed beating.
The carpets, however, offered some compensation for one's effort. They could be converted into tents at nightfall and one could play "camping out."

Garrets were filled with old clothes for "dressing up" games, and old trunks and grips that were far less mysterious than they appeared.
Still, they yielded faded magazines that could be pored over for hours on rainy days. And they were thrice desirable since parents generally demanded to know why you went up there and got all dirty. Barn lots were simply grand places to pore over Diamond Dick and Nick Carter.

After 20 years, I regret to say, the barn seemed singularly like a thousand barns I have seen. And I could more or less understand why my mother pleaded with me to "stay out of that dirty alley."

The school house was still there—a little one-storied, one-roomed affair. It had the shape and manner of all the little red school houses of the world. It's hue happened to be dusty. I did not need to inquire to learn that Mrs. Coyle must be dead. But "Miss Beanie" was still upon the earth. The school house had ceased to be such in the accepted term. They taught stenog-raphy and shorthand there now—crafts that were mysterious and far from the little red school house had been "our school."

Motion picture palaces have taken the place of the old opera house, where we climbed countless stairs to the gallery, with climes clutched in small pinks, climbed them almost as soon as the napkins had been tucked in their rings, so that we could get seats along the front rail.
But before we went, there was a hurried huddle in the barn while we sneaked out a few choice numbers of the latest yellow-book.

Once, trying to emulate some of our older and rougher fellows in the "nigger heaven" set, two of us essayed to chew tobacco. And cared little thereafter whether or not a performance was held.

But, after all—boy or man—it's the home town.

Still, I come away after 20 years with the impression that the "old home town" and the swimming hole and the sand lot are gorgeous places to visit in reversion of a winter night when the wood is crackling in the grate. For then you can conjure up looking upon the barns, the alleys and the garrets.

NEGRO IS NAMED

IN ASSAULT CASE

HOUSTON, Aug. 26 (AP)—Released from the state penitentiary Thursday after serving a second year term for burglary, R. W. Banks, 24, was in jail again Saturday charged with burglary and attempted criminal assault on a 60-year-old white woman.

The charges were filed Saturday afternoon after Sanford had been viewed by the attack victim, who was under care of a physician.

The attack with which he was charged occurred Friday night. The attack victim was at her home ironing when a negro man broke into the house and threatened the woman with an iron pipe, seized her by the throat and dragged her into the rear yard. The timely arrival of the victim's daughter-in-law frightened the attacker away and Sanford was captured at a pistol point a few minutes later by J. E. Kent, a neighbor.

Banks was arrested in Chicago in May after being at liberty for nearly seven years, having escaped from the Campbell county chain gang after serving a few months of his sentence imposed in Fulton county superior court in March 1922, for his part in a robbery netting himself and two others $5.85.

The average person consumes 167 pounds of meat annually.

LEG CRAMPS DISAPPEAR WITH

OTHER TROUBLES AS

EXCESS FAT MELTS

Thanks, Doctor.

"Dear Dr. Peters: This is the second time I am writing you. The first time, it was for your Petering pamphlet, and this time it is to tell you I can not express my gratitude. I am 53 years old, 5
feet 1 inch tall, and a few months ago I weighed 167
pounds. By following your instructions I now weigh 136.5. I weighed myself
each Saturday morning on regular market scales, and I did not go on the three-day
shrinking stomach period; the regular reducing diet did the work.
My friends tell me I look as I used to long ago. No more double chin.
All my clothes are too large; my corsets are falling off me and even my shoes are too big! I could not run before, but I can now. I used to have cramps in the back of my legs if I knelt for any length of time, but I can do it easily now. I also had a hard whitish lump on my eyelid but it disappeared during my reducing.
That alone, even if I never lost a pound, means the world to me, because it worried me.

"I am very happy and grateful to you, Dr. Peters. I think God has sent you to help the helpless. May God bless you."
MRS. W.

Thank you, Mrs. W. for your very kind wishes.

That little lump on your eyelid must have been a little fatty deposit.

LEGAL FLAW IN DIVORCE DECREE IS OPENING FOR CONVICT'S NEW CHANCE

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 26 (AP)—Fate turned a flip-flop for Robert R. Garrett, convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment for a brutal slaying in the rugged Nebraska sandhills region.

Through a queer twist in a 25-year-old divorce law his sentence has been lifted by a one-day margin and he has a good chance to win freedom.

Garrett's estranged and presumably divorced wife convicted him with her testimony. She was the only witness of the killing of William Kinsley, the ranchman for whom she was acting as housekeeper.

The packed courtroom was tense as she took the witness stand and told her dramatic story, accusing Garrett.

She told how Kinsley was shot down as he passed the living room window at the ranch—the roar of the gun—his fall. Then she ran to the window, peered out, and saw a figure crouching in the gloom, smoking gun in hand. The figure was Garrett, she testified.

Leaving the gun at her feet, she ran many miles into the country before releasing her, she said.

Garrett denied that story, denied the slaying, and as the trial progressed produced an alibi to show he was many miles from the scene of the slaying. But the jury believed the woman.

Just as he had grown accustomed to his prison life, after two years, the supreme court sustained his appeal and sent the case back.

Nebraska laws require that a wife must wait six months after asking a divorce before the writ can be granted. It was designed to promote reconciliations. Mrs. Garrett's writ had been sustained one day before the six months expired, and at the time of the slaying and the trial she was still his wife, and therefore could not testify against him.

Now it is the state's turn to seek loopholes and technicalities in the law. In the meantime Garrett is held in prison, awaiting retrial.

The law, the supreme court ruled, is constitutional, and when Garrett again faces the bar the state's chief witness—his wife—can not point at him in accusation.

CONSIDER REMOVAL
ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 24 (AP)—A proposal to remove national headquarters of the Veterans of Foreign Wars from Kansas City, Kansas, was taken under consideration by the Veterans' administration council at a pre-encampment meeting here.

The meeting was a closed one and the trend of discussion was not made public.

HAD GIVEN UP HOPES OF EVER BEING WELL

"I Am Just Simply Feeling Great Since Using Orgastone," Says Lubbock Citizen

"I was in such a terrible condition, really, I had given up all hopes of ever being a well man again," said J. W. Gordon, of 1511 Ave. F, Lubbock, Texas, who has been in the plumbing business here for quiet a while.

"I haven't been in good health for two years," he continued, "my system seemed to be all run down, and my appetite was very poor and I just had aches and pains all through my body. Right after every meal, gas would form and float me up until I would be miserable for hours afterward, and wouldn't hardly get my breath. I had a bad case of constipation and had to take strong laxatives all the time."

"I was extremely nervous and couldn't sleep well at night, and would roll and tumble and when I got up of a morning I would feel worse than when I went to bed. I would have dizzy spells and would be very bilious. I was going down hill every day and knew that I needed something to put me in condition."

"Seeing Orgastone so highly advertised and recommended by everyone here in town, I decided to try it and it has certainly set me right. My run down, nervous, irritable feeling are gone and my appetite trouble afterward. All of my aches and pains have left me, and I sleep like a log every night and feel simply great. I see about Orgastone, for it has brought back my health when I had given up all hopes of ever being as well as I am today."

Genuine Orgastone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific bile treatment containing no alcohol or other false stimulating drugs and is sold in Lubbock exclusively by the Brown's Drug Store who are direct laboratory agents.

MEET AGAIN

Mother Sees Son After 58 Years Separation

LAREDO, Aug. 26 (P.)—Mrs. Francis Trevino of San Antonio, 110 years old, was allowed to meet her son Juan Hernandez, 60, whom she had not seen since he was two years old, on the international bridge here for the few hours Saturday afternoon.

Hernandez came from Monterrey, Mexico, to greet his mother, whom he could not remember even having seen. He said he was stolen from his parents when he was two years old and that a year ago his foster parents told him he was not their child and said they believed he had a sister living in Monterrey. Investigating, he finally learned that his mother was living at San Antonio.

Immigration authorities would not permit the mother to enter Mexico nor the son the United States but furnished them with a little room on the bridge where they could talk for a few hours.

The aged woman was brought from a taxi to where her son was waiting. They stood and gazed at each other for a long time.

"Ah, Ah, Madre Mia," he said. "Jesus Is Good," she answered, and swooned.

STOCKS MOVE UPWARD AGAIN

UTILITIES AND COOPER SHARES LEAD IN BUYING

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (P.)—The stock market began the new week today with prices still pointing upward. Heavy buying came into several of the utilities and copper shares the opening. A block of 5,000 shares of Southern California Edison was taken at a record price of 88 3/4, up 3 7/8, and a block of 6,000 shares of American Smelting at 120, up 1 3/4 points. R. H. Macy mounted 2 1/2 points. American Can 1 point and New Haven Railroad 3/4 to a new high at 124 3/4. Some profit-taking appeared in U. S. Steel, which slipped back 1/4 of a point. Radio opened firm, up 1/4 of a point.

Considerable profit-taking came into the market in the first hour, with the buying of the copper and some of the utilities and rails gathering force.

Based on Rumors
Operations for the advance in copper were based on rumors of a prospective increase in the red metal prices. Green Cananea left forward 8 points. American Smelting 3 3/4 and Anaconda 2 1/2.

Communication Shares were again strong. International Telephone, helped by reports of negotiations for important concessions in France, rose nearly 1 point to a new high at 147 1/2.

Other shares to reach new high records included Crucible Steel, U. S. Industrial Alcohol Brothers, and Woolworth.

Soft spots included National Biscuit, off 2 3/4 points. Allis Chalmers and Canadian Pacific, down 2 points, and U. S. Steel, Bohn Aluminum, American and Foreign Power and Utilities Power and Light, which sagged 1 to 1 1/4 points.

Foreign exchanges opened steady with cables at $24.35-35.25.

ADVANCE FROM 1 TO 12 POINTS MADE IN NEW YORK MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (P.)—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 1 to 12 points in response to steady cables and reports of continued dry weather in the Southwest. The weather map seemed to afford encouragement for expectation of showers in the Southwest and prices eased off after early demand had been supplied.

By the end of the first half hour active months were about 3 to 6 points lower and 1902 for March making net declines for about 5 to 9 points. The official forecast, however, failed to encourage the hope of showers in the Southwest, and the market steadied later on covering.

Mid-day prices were about net unchanged to 5 points higher with October quoting at 18.83 and March at 19.11.

OPENING IS SOMEWHAT EASIER IN SOUTH

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 26 (P.)—The cotton market opened somewhat easier despite relatively steady cables. Initial trades were unchanged to two points down compared with Saturday's close. As New York opened higher the local market rallied with October selling up to 18.33, December 18.84 and January 19.11.

Reaction from the early advance carried the market off to 18.42 for October and 19.02 for March making net declines for about 5 to 9 points. The official forecast, however, failed to encourage the hope of showers in the Southwest, and the market steadied later on covering.

Mid-day prices were about net unchanged to 5 points higher with October quoting at 18.83 and March at 19.11.
