Here In HICO

Now we're mixed up again. About the time we get straight on some point, confusion in a new place breaks out. The source of complaint this time is the fact that we are still uncertain about the city officers. It will be remembered that the ramrod of this great religious weekly was raked over the coals in a mild manner some weeks ago about a couple of paid notices concerning city affairs. It seems that we were several years attached thereto—we say that seems to be the case, and we got enough information that we thought our mind was clear on that subject. We were told and assured that Cole Hooper was chief of Police.

Now comes that gentleman of the law with papers to serve on us. Being of a meek and gentle nature, we calmly accepted the document, and upon reading it found that it was a notice to appear at the City Hall at 8 o'clock on a certain date, then and there to work on the streets of Hico as required by the city ordinances. Whaddya know about that?

But this is not where the trouble came in. Having made up our mind that the above-named paper was legally installed in the office mentioned, we thought surely we could keep our record straight, at least until another city election. But upon reaching the bottom of the notice, we found appended thereto the signature of an entirely different party than we had ever dreamed was connected with the office. Questions and argument were to no avail, and this lowly person was left in utter ignorance of the whys and wherefores of the case. All the information we could get was contained on the Street Working Notice, as it was styled, and the officer seemed to be in no doubt as to his ability to make it stand up regardless of any discrepancies that might appear on its face.

Well, what's the difference? It is pretty hot to work on the streets, we must admit, but in the same breath we can make another admission—the streets will stand a lot of work. Not being well versed in the art of paving streets, we have a slight hesitancy in offering our services. It seems to be the common opinion around here right now that paving is badly needed, and much discussion has been had as to ways and means of putting a hard surface on at least a portion of the thoroughfares. Right now, if plans formulated some time ago are carried through as last decided upon, a committee is in session, Lockhart or some other Texas town or city inspecting paving of a certain type that has been recommended highly to the Hico taxpayers. The reading public is requested to take notice of the word "if" in the above statement, for this committee is not vouching for us in any manner, nor do we make any promises or assurances as to their carrying out their much-talked-of trip this week-end. We do not mean to cast any reflections on their veracity or integrity, but having made promises for them before, we have our own reputation for truthfulness to look to in the future.

Having taken in about all the territory we can safely include in such remarks, we had better pass on quietly to other subjects. The Chief seems to be a pretty reasonable sort of a fellow, in spite of the fact that he issued the notice on vs. Probably we can yet compromise with him and make some settlement out of court. And since he carries a pretty good share of authority around with him, we will take his word for it that he is the duly elected and legally constituted officer in the position of City Marshal.

Not long until the Hico Reunion. This celebration draws visitors from every section of the country, who are in Hico during its dates for the only time during the year in some cases. We should extend ourselves on plans to make their visit happy, and show them that Hico is indeed what we claim—a good town composed of a friendly citizenship, and a mighty good place to make a home. Perhaps the direct returns from the reunion will not be great enough to repay us for our trouble and expenditure on the occasion, but in the long run it furnishes a first-class opportunity to entertain people from this and other sections and make them want to come back again—and again. For our part, anything we can do to add to the pleasure of our visitors will be gladly done. We want every one to come to our office while they are in Hico, and avail themselves of our services in any way their wishes may dictate. We would really enjoy meeting every person who comes to the reunion, and find out something about them. The business houses of the town will open their doors to everyone who are sure.

HICO, TEXAS, FRIDAY, JULY 4, 1930

Hico Strives to Serve the Needs of the Dairymen, Poultrymen and Farmers of This Vast Community.

NUMBER 5

SAYS HICO AND HAMILTON COUNTY ARE BETTER PLACE THAN OTHERS, AFTER RECENT TRIP TO WEST TEXAS

This week Rev. Clarence Allen Morton, pastor of the First Baptist Church, returned from Coleman where he has been in a very successful revival. When interviewed by the News-Review he stated that the home town papers was of high rank compared with many other weekly papers he came in contact with while away. He also stated that in the matter of spirit, there was less complaint in Hico and Hamilton County than in many of the sections of the Central West. Also that perhaps there was less unemployment in this territory and in general the outlook was better on crop and market prospects in this territory than in other sections. There is more buying and selling here than there.

In talking of church matters, Rev. Morton stated that this coming Sunday, July 6, this church and the invited public would have the rare privilege of hearing Dr. B. A. Copass, a great gospel preacher, moral reformer, Crusader and Bible scholar. Dr. Copass is Professor of Old Testament interpretation and Hebrew in the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary at Fort Worth, Texas. He will lecture to the men of the church in the Morton Bible Class at 10 a. m. and preach Sunday at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. He has made several trips to the Holy Land and will speak along this line.

Rev. Morton also stated that beginning August 10 and lasting for two weeks the Annual Revival Meeting of the First Baptist Church will be held. The preaching will be done by the Rev. C. V. Dossey of Dallas, and the singing conducted by Gospel Singer E. L. Carnett of Fort Worth. Both of these men are gifted in evangelistic work and all Hico and surrounding communities are urged to attend this revival.

Speaking of the Baptist work over Hamilton county he stated that the annual meeting of the women will be held in a few weeks, details of which will be given the press in a few days.

The 54th Annual Meeting of the Hamilton County Baptist Association, of which Rev. Morton is the Presiding Officer, will convene with the Agee Baptist Church in August. Representatives from some 24 churches in the Association will be in attendance besides many visitors and denominational leaders from over the state will be present.

Senator Small In Hico Last Week For Short Address

Telling his audience that the gubernatorial race in his estimation had narrowed down to where the candidates numbered only seven, and claiming himself to be the only one in the race west of a hypothetical line drawn from Denison to Del Rio, Senator Clint C. Small addressed a good-sized and interested crowd last Saturday morning from a truck in the street in front of the First National Bank.

Senator Small, who hails from Wellington, made speeches at Stephenville Thursday night and at Hamilton Friday night, and arrived in Hico unannounced. However in a short time the meeting had assumed the proportions of a rally, and Mr. Small held his listeners almost to a man in a quiet, dignified speaking. He and his party were on their way to Glen Rose and Granbury where he was to fill speaking dates, and necessarily had to make his remarks brief and to the point. This feature added to rather than distracting from interest in his speech, and various remarks were heard afterward complimentary to his candidacy.

While we cannot attempt to cover his entire talk in this space, it might be well to say that Mr. Small declared himself firmly opposed to any state bond issue, modification of the prohibition laws, centralization of the prison system and operation of the state government by political machines. He just as firmly declared himself in favor of development of our natural resources, laws fully protecting Texas labor, regulation of utilities by creating a utilities commission, equalization of state taxes, creating new markets for agriculture through industrial expansion and development of irrigation by utilization of our flood waters and streams.

In setting forth the reasons which have impelled him to become a candidate, Senator Small made the following unusual statement: "I have announced for Governor after a careful study of conditions. I am prompted by the conviction that the people demand, and should have, relief from partisan strife and that in lieu thereof they shall be given a careful business administration. If I should be elected Governor, it will be my aim and ambition to adjourn politics in Texas and to inaugurate a constructive era devoted to building and developing Texas institutions. By thoughtful application of strong business policies it will be possible for the State to make substantial progress without additional cost of government. State government should so function as to make Texas an inviting field for new and diversified industries. To accomplish this end taxes must not be increased, but the tax dollar must be judiciously expended and made to yield a greater dividend. The most practical way to aid agriculture in all its branches is to make Texas an industrial State."

He told his audience that under the present system of taxation the state highway department would have this year over $37,500,000.00. This sum, he said, would be increased each year.

"In my opinion any three men who spend this great sum wisely, economically and judiciously within the period of one year will be doing the state a very great service," he said.

He said that a movement already had been started to issue state bonds for other purposes, providing the road bond amendment was put into the constitution, and warned citizens against what he predicted would be a "bond issuing bureau."

Senator Small said that the next 10 years will present problems more complex than ever have been experienced in Texas. One of these problems is that of unemployment, he said.

"It should be the duty of your next governor to do everything in his power to see that there are no vacant buildings in Texas towns and cities. There should be no vacant farms and no idle men," he said.

"We want our people to stay in the country and carry on the important farm work we must give them every opportunity to see that their children have good educations," he said.

Senator Small may be best remembered throughout Texas for his activities in securing the passage of the new famous "Small Land Bill." This measure protects owners in their rights to creek bed lands and became extremely valuable with the discovery of oil. He has served as mayor of his town, county school superintendent, county attorney, county judge, district judge, and at this time is a member of the state senate, representing the 26 Panhandle counties. With all of these offices he has had but one contested race.

Christian Revival. Messrs. McKissick and Holmes, preacher and singer, arrived Tuesday and began a series of meetings at the Christian Church.

Services are announced over Sunday, the 6th. The public is cordially invited to attend these meetings.

MANY HICO STORES TO OBSERVE 4TH, BUT WIDE OPEN AS UNION DEPOT AFTERWARD, WITH HUGE BARGAINS

According to their intentions as expressed by their signatures on a petition circulated last week, a majority of Hico business houses will close for the Fourth of July and celebrate the day by taking off from their work.

But they are determined not to lose any business through taking this short breathing spell, as will be noticed from the advertising in this issue. Special bargains and inducements are offered their customers, new faces are expected in their stores, and it will be a pleasure to wait on the public.

Duncan Brothers announce a Dollar Day event that will save the buying public many pennies out of their dollars.

G. M. Carlton Bros. and Co. are starting their usual July Clearance Sale, and have much store news in their page ad.

In addition to these it is Trade Merch Day, which is by itself enough said. Hico merchants participating in this campaign are alive to the needs of the buying public, and are willing to sacrifice a lot of their profit in order to supply the needs of their friends in the proper manner.

Some say times are hard, others agree with them. But come to Hico this week end and share in the festival of savings to be found at Hico stores.

There are certain items needed and required by every family. The way to make these purchases in an economical manner is to settle yourself in a comfortable chair, unfold the old home paper, and look over the offerings in the advertising columns. The merchants who are proud of their reputation for reliability and square-dealing are the ones who advertise regularly. You can't go wrong in trading with them, for they have nothing to hide—in fact they are proud of their service and their offerings and don't fail to tell the public.

One little request: When you see a bargain advertised which interests you, and later inquire at that store or make a purchase, don't fail to tell the merchant or clerk that you saw his advertising. It won't be much trouble to do this, and will make him feel better, make us feel better, and in the long run work to your advantage.

Former Hico Man, Highly Respected, Dies at Waco Home

Hico friends of H. E. Trippett were shocked and grieved last week to learn of his death on Thursday night at Waco. The Waco News-Tribune carried the following account of his death and funeral services:

Last rites for Horace E. Trippett, prominent Waco lawyer and civic leader, were held Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock from the family residence at 1325 Austin Avenue. Dr. J. M. Dawson, pastor of the First Baptist church where Mr. Trippett was a member, and Rev. F. B. Thorn of the Columbus Avenue Baptist church officiated at the services in the home and at Oakwood cemetery, where interment was made.

Pallbearers were Harvey M. Richey, John Sheehy, E. Day, Dr. Charles Watson, J. M. Nash, C. A. Kelly, T. C. Westbrook, and C. F. Dumas. Honorary pallbearers were the faculty and trustees of Baylor university; trustees of the Baptist sanitarium; members of the Waco Bar association; and directors of the Liberty National and First Trust and Savings banks, of which Mr. Trippett was a director.

The respect and sorrow of his many friends were shown in the number of beautiful floral offerings and messages received by the family, and by the many friends who paid their last respects to the beloved citizen by their attendance at the funeral services. Baylor university classes were dismissed for the day Friday, and the doors of the two banks with which Mr. Trippett was connected were closed in tribute to him.

Resolutions on the death of Mr. Trippett will be adopted by the several organizations with which he was connected during his life at their next meetings.

Surviving Mr. Trippett are his widow, and four sons, Joe, Horace, Jr., William and Harry, all of Waco.

Mr. Trippett was senior member of the law firm of Trippett, Richey and Sheehy, and had resided in Waco since 1910, coming here from Hico where he held the position of city attorney. His civic leadership in Waco included his work in connection with the Waco Community Chest, his leadership in the campaign to keep Baylor in Waco when attempts were being made to remove it to Dallas, his prominence in the Civic League, his membership on the Chamber of Commerce advisory committee, and his association with the membership of the First Baptist church.

CHURCH OF CHRIST TO BEGIN SERIES MEETINGS

The Church of Christ will begin a series of meetings Thursday, July 10th, at 7:45 p. m. to continue until 3rd Lord's Day night. Bro. Frank L. Cox of Mineral Wells will do the preaching. He is a Christian gentleman and a fine teacher. The church also has new song books, "Pure Heart Praise" which are full of good spiritual songs, and good song leaders are promised. A great meeting is expected, and everybody is invited to help in this good work.

Here's A Man Who Enjoys Living In This Section; Optimistic About Conditions

Taking an active interest in all things calculated to be for the good of his community, and standing ready always to assume his share and more of the public works in and around the place where he lives, W. H. Smith still sees life worth living, and passes over pessimistic remarks, preferring to take an optimistic view of life as a whole.

Mr. Smith lives three miles west of Hico, in the Long Point School District No. 50, which school district by the way he was instrumental in organizing and has furnished an outlet for his enthusiasm and enterprise during the years past. About thirty-seven years ago, while he was serving on the county school board, he succeeded in having the district organized, and with his neighbors undertook the task of building a schoolhouse with out any money and starting off from scratch with school affairs. This seems to be a community of live and determined citizens such as he, for no one man could carry out a plan such as this and today have a place for Long Point community children to go to school such as in evidence there today. The number of pupils is not large, by any means, averaging about 25 to 30, but their schooling is taken care of in a proper manner, good teachers are supplied and the term is made of long enough duration to see them through the elementary grades with no sacrifice to their education.

Thrashing in that section was finished up last week. Mr. Smith still knows how to farm, seemingly, for he made 67 bushels of oats to the acre on his ten acres. The neighbors pitch in and help each other in their work, and this works out to the advantage of each.

Mr. Smith's wife died twenty-five years ago, and it was no little task to take the rearing of his family in his own hands, but he did just that, and has made a success of the job. Life has had its worry and work for him, as he was the oldest of three orphan boys, and therefore felt responsibility at an early age. His brothers, M. A. Smith and Dr. E. G. Smith, together with the subject of this article, compose a trio that have seen adversity and come out with a good record. M. A. (Alec) is an employe of the Duncan Brothers Store in Hico, while the other brother is a doctor at Mercedes, in the Rio Grande Valley.

The News Review editor was extended a cordial invitation to come out some time and visit Mr. Smith, who lives with his son and wife at the present time. He has lived in and around Hico since 1883, having never left except for short sojourns in other sections, one of which was his residence in Coke County, where he was interested in a gin. He said that he and his neighbors had been thinking of having an "investigating committee" visit the new owner and editor of the News Review, following the fashion of the old days, of which he talks so interestingly. In those days it was the custom to have such a committee wait on all newcomers, but we don't know whether our reputation could stand this or not.

"We don't have any fancy grub at our house, and the furniture and fittings are in no wise elegant," said Mr. Smith, "but people of the right sort are always welcome. I have heard of farmers starving to death every year, but I have yet to see the grave of a man who met his end in this way. Taken all in all, we have a pretty good time, I guess. I only wish the present generation could know and realize the hardships through which their forefathers passed."

Keeping Up With TEXAS

The sixteenth annual convention of the Texas Wholesale Fruit and Vegetable Dealers' Association was held in Corpus Christi Saturday and Sunday. Approximately 200 fruit and vegetable dealers were present.

Ruth, 9-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Williams of Mexia, died Saturday after a shot-gun was accidentally discharged as the family was preparing to leave for a fishing trip Friday night.

An aviation program with cash prizes aggregating $1500 was staged at Tyler last Sunday as the climax of the ceremonies marking the dedication and opening of Tyler's new $50,000 airport. More than 10,000 persons, many of them from distant parts of Texas and from other states, witnessed the two-day program that began Saturday with nearly 100 planes taking part in the program.

Cheeks totaling around $3,000.00 have gone out from Fort Worth grain dealers and millers to the shippers and farmers of the Texas grain belt this past week, in return for nearly 2500 cars of new crop wheat. It is expected that this flood of money—half a million dollars each business day moving into the channels of Texas trade—will start the business reeling eagerly awaited, and that its results will be immediately visible all over the grain belt.

The Rice Hotel at Houston, owned and operated by Jesse H. Jones, was robbed of approximately $10,185 in cash Sunday morning, according to a report made to police. J. H. Pengelly, 32, general cashier, was found slugged, bound, gagged and in a semiconscious condition in the bathtub of a vacant room by a hotel employee. He said two well-dressed, masked bandits assaulted him and relieved him of the money after accosting him with pistols as he entered his office on the third floor, with silver and currency which he had just taken from a vault in the lobby.

HICO LIXX SELECTED AS NAME FOR HICO'S MIDGET GOLF COURSE

As a result of a naming contest which closed last Wednesday night, the miniature golf course in Hico will in the future be known as "Hico Lixx." The name was submitted by Miss Laurel Persons, winner in the contest, who was awarded with twenty tickets good for play on the course.

The selection of a name from the large number submitted was in charge of a committee composed of Mrs. H. F. Sellers, Mrs. L. N. Lane and Mrs. H. E. McCullough, who declare that it is a hard task to make a decision, there having been so many good ones submitted. They took the job seriously, and worked faithfully, finally deciding on the one named above.

More Eggs. Little Miss Eddie Mae Walton, not to be outdone by other of our friends who have been bringing freak eggs into the News Review office, visited us Tuesday morning and left with us three specimens which are very unusual. These were laid by Rhode Island Red hens, and one of them is very small, being about the size of a runt peccan. The other two are also diminutive, but in addition to their small size, are peculiar in their shape. One of them resembles a gourd. The other—well, it will have to see to it for we never saw a shape before.

TEXAS LAWS

Article No. 1341. Penal Code. "Whoever wilfully and in the absence of the owner drives or operates or causes to be so driven or operated upon any public road or highway any automobile, motor cycle, or other motor vehicle, without the consent of the owner thereof, shall be fined not to exceed one thousand dollars, or be imprisoned in jail not to exceed one year, or both."

FIRE DESTROYED HOME OF JULIUS JORDAN THURSDAY NIGHT

About 9:30 last Thursday night, while the family was away from home, the residence of Julius Jordan, beyond Millerville on the Stephenville road was destroyed by fire, together with all its contents including the personal belongings and furniture of Mr. Jordan. They had been away all afternoon, and the fire had gained such headway by the time anyone arrived on the scene that everything was lost.

The Hico Fire Department and a number of people from Hico and sections adjoining the scene of the fire rushed out to do what they could to lessen the loss, but all were too late.

The house belonged to Mr. Hancock of near Stephenville. It was just this spring moved up near the road from its old location further back in the pasture.

Mr. Jordan and family are making their home for the present with his father, A. J. Jordan, who lives four miles below Hico on the old Hamilton road.

HAND BADLY CUT BY FALLING GLASS MONDAY AFTERNOON

Geo. Christopher suffered a serious laceration to his right hand Monday afternoon while trying to remove a large glass from one of the windows upstairs over the Sadler Motor Co. The glass had been broken and loosened in the sash the day before by some unknown party, and was considered dangerous to passers-by on the sidewalk below.

George was endeavoring to remove the glass without breaking it further, when it slipped and broke into pieces, the upper half falling on his right hand, cutting it deeply and severing the leader to his thumb. Prompt attention by a local physician relieved the pain, and he went to Stephenville Hospital Monday night, where the leader was put back in place and sewed up. It is thought that it will heal up nicely now.

Bar Indorsing Associate Justice Stanford, 2nd Term

Associate Justice J. A. Stanford, of the Tenth Court of Civil Appeals, was elected by the people of said district, and is now serving his first term. During the first five years he has written 218 opinions, or an average of 43 plus each year, while the general average for the thirty-three appellate judges in the state for the same period of time is, according to the S. W. Reporter, 38.

He is regarded by the Bench and Bar of the State as one of our most able judges, his opinions being clear and explicit declarations of the law, frequently cited by our courts. Attorneys and litigants having business in the court agreed that Judge Stanford has rendered efficient and satisfactory service and should be reelected for the second term.

The lawyers are endorsing Judge Stanford as shown below:

"We, the undersigned members of the Bar of Johnson County, take pleasure in endorsing Judge J. A. Stanford, of Waco, Texas, formerly a resident of Johnson County, Texas, for Associate Justice of the Court of Civil Appeals for the Tenth Supreme Judicial District at Waco. Judge Stanford is an excellent lawyer, a splendid gentleman and a capable and diligent judge, and from our personal acquaintance with him, extending through many years, and our experience in practicing before the Court of which he is a member, we recommend him as worthy of the confidence and support of the Democratic voters of the Tenth Judicial District."

The Housewife's Hand

Directs A&P's buying

If you hired a personal agent to buy food in the markets of the world for your own table, you would give him, first, money for the purchase and shipping costs; second, money to cover his expenses; and, third, a salary for his services. You, yourself, would choose the kind of food he would buy.

That's just what you do when you trade with A & P.

Of every dollar which you pay over A & P counters, 83½ cents go to food producing communities* in exchange for the food you ask for.

A & P's part is to find out what you want—by what you order in its stores—and to spend your 83½ cents as you direct. Of the rest of your dollar, 14 cents stay in your neighborhood to run A & P stores.

All you pay A & P for its services is the remaining 2½ cents.

*Another article will tell how your massed buying helps American food producers as much as it helps you—fair tilt for all.

EDITORIAL

July Fourth brings memories of our younger days when the biggest thrill was in being first to get up in the morning to wake the neighborhood up with enormous cannon crackers.

Youth is that period when the weather is never hot enough to make ten uncomfortable in a sport roadster.

A local man says: "Teach your boy a sense of responsibility. Some day he may have a lawn."

A great many people believe that if this community is good enough for them to make their money in it is good enough for them to spend it in.

A BARE FACT

It isn't chivalry that makes a man look the other way at the beach. It's consternation.

"Everything to Build Anything"

THE VALUE OF SOUND DESIGN

New Ford engine gives outstanding acceleration, speed and power without sacrificing reliability or economy

THE good performance of the Ford car, so apparent on every highway, is due largely to the sound mechanical design of the engine.

It has outstanding acceleration, speed and power, yet that is only part of its value to you. Greater still is the fact that it brings you all these features without sacrificing either reliability or economy.

That is the reason the Ford car has given such satisfactory service to millions of motorists all over the world and has been chosen by so many large companies that keep accurate cost figures. In every detail of construction it has been carefully planned and made for the work it has to do.

The design of the compression chamber is an important factor in the efficiency of the Ford engine. It is built to allow free passage of gases through the valves and to thoroughly mix the fuel by producing turbulence within the cylinders during compression. The spark thus flashes quickly through the whole fuel charge, resulting in quieter and more effective engine performance. Other factors are the direct gravity gasoline feed, the specially designed carburetor, the new hot-spot manifold, aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valves of larger diameter, statically and dynamically balanced crankshaft and flywheel, the simplicity of the electrical, cooling, lubrication, and fuel systems and accuracy in manufacturing.

Miss Nobody from Nowhere

BY ELIZABETH JORDAN

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

A young woman, who knows only that her name is "Eve" finds herself standing on a Fifth Avenue corner. She has no idea how she came there or even what city it is. There is nothing about her with which to identify herself. While a policeman is talking to her, a young man, Eric Hamilton, stops. Seeing that she is in trouble, he tells her he has seen her at hotel where they are both stopping. He takes her to the hotel where they find that she had registered in French as "Miss Eve Nobody of Nowhere." Hamilton volunteers to call in his friend Dr. Carrington, a specialist in nervous troubles. Eve, terrified, clutches the doctor and through a French porter in the hotel, who says he once saw her in France but does not remember her name, she finds a cheap apartment in an obscure part of town.

In the next apartment lives Ivy Davenport, a cabaret dancer with a weak heart. She is friendly, and persuades Eve to go to "Jake's" and take her place until she is better. Her job at Jake's is to entertain men at the tables and to dance with them. The other girls there are crude but kindly and Eve finds the work not as difficult as she had expected. She meets a young man named Hunt, who frankly tells her that she doesn't belong there.

NOW GO WITH THE STORY

Her own life, Eve was beginning to think, would mean acceptance and reconstruction. Marcel and Leon seemed broken reeds, and her present condition might go on indefinitely. If it did, she would at least continue temporarily in this new environment. She was helping Ivy, whom she had persuaded to see a specialist and follow his treatment. Miss Morris had hinted that she would like to learn some French, and had added frankly:

"Some English, too, teacher. Don't think I ain't wise to the way I spill words."

Eve Stella was more human with Eve than with others, and on one occasion had sought the novice's apartment to make a tearful confession of a sort not often given. Eve gathered that Stella had so far forgotten her prejudice against men as to fall in love with one of the regulars at Jake's, and to throw herself violently at the head of the unappreciative young man. When he failed to respond she sent him notes.

When he ceased coming to Jake's, obviously to avoid her, she called at his rooms late one afternoon and waited there till he came home.

At this point in the account she gave Eve, Stella's sobs grew so loud that Eve feared they might draw Miss Davenport from the next apartment. She mentioned this danger to the raconteuse, who stifled the expression of her grief. It was no part of Stella's plan to make Ivy a confidante. But her plain face was tear-streaked as she went on, and Eve experienced a deep sympathy not only for her but for the regular who had been subjected to this sort of scene. There may be girls who are beautiful when they weep. Poor Stella was not among them.

"I let me see why I was there," Stella gulped, "an' he was that polite he broke my heart. I'd taken off my coat an' hat before he come in, for of course I thought he'd keep me to dinner anyway. Don't they always, in stories an' pictures? But he didn't. He got my hat an' coat, an' he put 'em on gentle an' kind, like he was dressin' a kid, with soothin' noises, an' he told me I was too nice a girl to put myself in compromisin' positions. Wasn't that the elephants' knuckles! An' he got me to the door an' outside it, an' the first I knew he had the elevator up and was puttin' me in it an' sayin' good-by. Oh, Berson, it was awful! For of course I caught on then, right off, I seen I was a woman scorned!"

The phrase seemed to please Stella, for she tried it again on a higher key.

"A woman scorned," she repeated. "Berson, I give you my word I cried all the way home. Now, what d'you think I ought to do? Give him up?"

"Yes, Stella," Eve said, with a straight face and a comforting pat on the girl's shaking shoulder. "If I were you I'd give him up."

She had believed that, with the possible exception of Queenie, Stella had the keenest sense of humor of any one at Jake's. Now she realized anew that one's sense of humor often perishes under the first assault of one's emotional nature.

"Well, if you say so, I will," Stella agreed with a pathetic sniff, and she drifted away, greatly relieved by an outburst to which she never again referred.

Yes, one could do a little for these girls, Eve reflected, as she depressedly walked at Hunt's side. She was earning money, too, and saving most of it, and beginning her readjustment, and doing her sleeping in the daytime, and not having to face black nights. Yet, admitting all these things, her panic returned in some degree every time she met strangers.

Tonight she told herself she had been made to come. Deep within her an alarm was sounding, softly but persistently. It grew louder as she approached the man at the corner table. He had risen and stood watching her with an air of tense expectancy. He took a quick step forward when she reached the table, and then under her conventional smile stopped short with a look of incredulous stupefaction.

He was a big man, six feet tall, smooth-faced, of dark complexion, middle-aged, and inclined to stoutness. He had a large head covered with thick gray hair, crushed straight back from a good forehead. His gray eyes, just now fixed unswervingly on hers, were partly concealed by the thick lenses of the horn-rimmed spectacles he wore. They had the peering look of the near-sighted, and this constant effort to see clearly had lined his forehead and tufted his thick gray eyebrows.

"I wish I knew what this meant," he said at last. "Perhaps you'll tell me. But take your time. She made two efforts before she could speak. He was one she had known, but her inner panic proved that he was also some one she had reason to fear. She did not know him now, and she would let him see that she did not. It seemed the safest course.

"I'm always rather nervous with strangers," she admitted, and then asked breathlessly, "Would you care to dance?"

He laughed at that, on a sudden harsh note; and again he took his time to speak, his eyes on the cigar as if he were thinking deeply.

"Strangers!" he repeated. "I think," she suggested, "you are mistaking me for some one you imagine you know."

He straightened as if she had struck him.

"My God! are you telling me I don't know you?" he cried.

"I think you're misled by a strong likeness. There are some amazing resemblances, you know."

Jake passed the table as she spoke, glanced at the pair, and hesitated. Eve did not see him, but the stranger did.

"Jake says you're working for him," he brought out with difficulty. "He tells me you're substituting for another girl. That's about the limit, but we won't go into it now. However, I know the rules of the cabaret game. I mustn't take the time of his people for nothing. So here's a sop to him."

With extreme deliberation he took a roll of bills from his pocket, pulled off a ten-dollar bank-note, and tossed it on the table before her. In her increasing panic she hardly observed the action.

The stranger saw that Jake had passed on, and his manner changed as abruptly as if some nerve in him, tense till now, had suddenly snapped.

"Well, young lady," he rasped out, "it's time to drop this chicanery of yours and come to an understanding."

Eve stared at the man in a frozen silence.

"I don't understand," she faltered, after a brief duel of eyes between them.

He smiled wryly.

"I'm afraid neither of us is meeting this very well," he said wearily. "I'll admit it's too much for me. But we'll understand each other all right when we've had our talk. Go and put on your coat and we'll get out. This is no place for you, and God alone knows why you came here."

Eve stood up quickly. She must end this nightmare.

"I must go to the dressing-room and get my wrap," she said.

Queenie in the dressing room. Eve caught her arm.

"Is there any back way out of this place?" she asked desperately. Her expression forbade questions and Miss Morris rallied to the obvious crisis of the moment.

"Sure there is!" she remembered. "The boys' dressin'-room has a window on a back alley."

She hurried Eve across the room, and with an emphatic push helped her through the window that opened on the alley.

It was all quite simple now. Three taxicabs stood in a waiting line just around the corner, in front of the side door, and with a crisp command she entered the first.

"Sixth Avenue and Fortieth St. Quick, please," she directed; and the chauffeur, who seemed used to such instructions, started with a suddenness that made her bite her tongue.

She paid him and left the taxicab at the point she had indicated, and when the cab was out of sight she took another that was passing, and ordered herself driven downtown. The Garland, she had decided, was her only refuge. She dared not return to the apartment to which she could so easily be traced, and no other good hotel she knew of would take her in at that hour of the night without luggage and in evening clothes.

During the swift journey, she planned her story for the hotel clerk. If Jenkins, the night man, was on duty, she was sure he would take her in. She left the cab a block from the Garland and walked the remainder of the distance; and her panic lifted a trifle when she entered the lobby and saw the plump face of Jenkins confronting her across the night desk.

"Oh, Mr. Jenkins," she began with a desperate effort to speak naturally, "perhaps you remember me."

"Miss Parsons? Of course. How do you do? I can give you the same rooms you had before, if you like," he hospitably added. "They're vacant."

"Thank you, yes; I'd like that very much."

Eve took her key, gave him a forced smile, and went on to the elevator, breathing more naturally.

A warm bath partly soothed her, the familiar bed was comfortable, and the quiet neighborhood was free from the car-clanging that had disturbed her at the apartment. With a mighty effort of will she tried to draw mental shutters between memory and the episodes of the night, but the gray-haired stranger pushed back those shutters, with compelling hands. The room seemed full of him, and of some horror connected with him.

HAPPY MOTHER ENTHUSIASTIC ABOUT KONJOLA

Relates How New And Different Medicine Did Wonders For Her Little Boy of Twelve.

HARMON GLAZE

Results are what count, and Konjola can be counted on for results. Sufferers want relief, not promises. Konjola has made a matchless record simply because it does the things it is designed to do. Take, as a typical example of Konjola at work, the case of Harmon Glaze, 12, whose mother, Mrs. Annie Glaze, Route 4, Loneke near Little Rock, Ark., says:

"My boy, Harmon, 12, had typhoid fever about five years ago, and his health since then was not good. He frequently had fever and had attacks of nausea. He had no desire to play and his appetite was poor. Nothing I gave him seemed to do any good. Konjola had helped me so much that I decided to give it to Harmon. Today, he is like a different person. He eats, sleeps, and plays like other children and is no longer subject to fevers. I am still giving him Konjola for it has done so much for both of us."

So it goes: victory after victory wherever Konjola is given the chance to prove its merits. You can put your faith in Konjola feeling that you will be rewarded abundantly.

Konjola is sold in Hico, Texas, at Porter's Drug Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

When Food Sours

Lots of folks who think they have "indigestion" have only an acid condition which could be corrected in five or ten minutes. An effective anti-acid like Phillips Milk of Magnesia soon restores digestion to normal.

Phillips does away with all that sourness and gas right after meals. It prevents the distress so apt to occur two hours after eating. What a pleasant preparation to take! And how good it is for the system! Unlike a burning dose of soda—which is but temporary relief at best—Phillips Milk of Magnesia neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

Next time a hearty meal, or too rich a diet has brought on the least discomfort, try—

When the Fourth of July comes around we should, in our genuine patriotism, realize that it was not the effort of the heroes who died for our country that made us the greatest nation on the earth, but also the skill of our financiers from the very start, in the Colonies. That skill exists today.

McFADDEN FAMILY LEAVES FOR PT. ARTHUR TO MAKE NEW HOME

There will be a familiar face missing from its accustomed place in the G. M. Carlton Bros. & Co. store during the week, and three familiar faces missing from the Methodist Church on Sundays now that A. T. McFadden, wife and son, Orban T., have left Hico to take up their residence in Port Arthur, down in South Texas.

Recently Mr. McFadden was offered a connection with a large oil and refinery company at that place, and the offer was so attractive that he could not afford to turn it down. He and his family left Monday for Valley Mills, where they made a short visit with relatives and friends before going to their new home.

"Mac" has been an employee of the Carlton Store for the past seven or eight years, having come here from Valley Mills. He has made a good clerk, and a good citizen, having entered into every activity worthy of his interest. He and his family have made for themselves a place in Hico that it will be hard to fill since their decision to leave for other fields of endeavor. However the good wishes of a host of friends will follow them to their new home, and it is hoped that his new work will prove interesting and profitable in the degree his ability and aggressiveness deserve.

Notice of Purchase of Machinery.

The commissioners court of Hamilton county invites bids for the purchase of a tractor of approximately five tons, for the use of Commissioners Pre. No. 2. Bids will be opened at 10 o'clock, July 7, 1930. Address all bids to H. W. Henderson, County Clerk. This 9th day of June 1930.

THE NEW TEXACO MOTOR OIL LONGER-LASTING, "CRACK-PROOF"

THE Texas Company again demonstrates its leadership in the petroleum field with the introduction of a vastly superior, new product—a motor oil that lasts longer—that is crack-proof—a motor oil that meets exactly every requirement of the high speed automobile engine of today! This new oil revolutionizes lubrication values as completely as the new and better Texaco Gasoline, the original "dry" gas, revolutionized motor fuels in the Spring of 1926.

An Oil Without Precedent

There have been oils that gave remarkable mileage. There have been oils that flowed freely at zero. There have been oils that kept your engine completely free of wax and carbon troubles. But—never until now have all these advantages been combined in any one single lubricant. That motor oil is ready for you today. It is the new Texaco—longer-lasting and crack-proof. Road tests—laboratory tests have proved it.

Available in all our 48 States

Fill your crankcase with this new crack-proof motor oil today. It will more than pay you, not only in greater value for your lubrication dollar but for your car dollar as well. It is manufactured in five grades: C, D, E, F, and G, corresponding in body to Society of Automotive Engineers (S.A.E.) viscosity ratings. 30¢ a quart everywhere (35¢ for grade G).

THE TEXAS COMPANY
Refiners of a complete line of Texaco Petroleum Products including Gasoline, Motor Oil, Industrial Lubricants, Railroad and Marine Lubricants, Farm Lubricants, Road Asphalts and Asphalt Roofing.
