Mystery Craft Are Reported In Caribbean

U. S. Officials Are Keeping Sharp Eye On Soviet Vessels

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29—Three more mysterious Russian ships have suddenly been reported in the Caribbean area where the largest U. S. peacetime maneuvers in history soon will be held.

The vessels are described by authorities as "fishing ships"—but without fishing gear and equipment with extremely powerful radios.

U. S. civil and military officials are keeping a careful, but diplomatically correct, eye on the progress of the ships in Western Hemisphere waters.

Purpose Speculated

The three vessels are the Trepang, Peramutr and Chiaka, reportedly enroute from the Baltic to Vladivostock by way of St. Thomas in the Virgin islands, the Panama canal and Honolulu.

Authorities disclosed that these three bring to 15 the number of similar type Soviet ships that have crossed the Caribbean on their way to Russia's important Siberian seaport in the last two and a half years.

With the Chiaka in their wake, the Trepang and Peramutr put in at St. Thomas for supplies just before Christmas. It is believed they plan to get to the Canal Zone the last of this week or the first of next.

One informed source expressed doubt that the Russian ships' primary interest is in military information. He suggested that Russia may be planning to take over fishing grounds that the Japanese used before the war.

Previous Trip Recalled

But in that connection, naval men recalled that the Japanese ships—like the Russian diesel-equipped schooners—often turned up in maneuver areas at about the time major exercises were getting started.

Last year three Russian vessels—the Omar, Belsk, and Globus, arrived at St. Thomas just a few weeks before spring maneuvers were held.

In this case, military planners are completing arrangements for an Army-Navy-Marine-Air Force exercise involving some 80,000 men, which is due to be held from January through mid-March.

While Soviet ships have a right to put in at St. Thomas for supplies, water and repairs—provided they abide by U. S. port regulations—some Navy people point out that the Caribbean route is the long way around for a vessel on the Europe-Vladivostok run.

Another Route Shorter

It would be shorter, they say, to go through the Mediterranean to the Indian ocean, and thence up

Police Officer Kills Wife And Himself

Homicide Lieutenant, Veteran Of Force At Houston, Fires Four Pistol Shots

(By The United Press)

HOUSTON, Dec. 29.—A 46-year-old police officer shot his wife to death and then killed himself early today in their home here.

Homicide Lt. W. P. Brown used his pearl-handled service pistol to shoot his 39-year-old wife, Sarah, once through the heart. Then he killed himself by putting the gun in his mouth and pulling the trigger.

The tragedy was discovered by Mrs. Brown's sister, Ethel Berger, sleeping in a rear bedroom.

She heard four shots, she hysterically told police, and then ran screaming 20 blocks to the home of Lt. Brown's brother, W. W. Brown. He found the bodies and summoned officers and a coroner, who returned the murder-suicide verdict.

Lt. Brown was lying on the bedroom floor. Several feet away, in a hall, was his wife. Both were clad in night clothes.

Two bullets which missed their mark were embedded in the bedroom wall.

The veteran officer, one of the most respected on the Houston police force, had 23 years of service.

For Those In Need

New Home Being Built

By OPAL DIXON
Journal Staff Writer

The house that neighborliness is building is going up north of Lubbock.

When it is completed, a man with asthma, heart ailment and tuberculosis and his wife will move into it.

The man and his wife are Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Mahon and Mrs. Mahon is anxious that Lubbock residents who are building her home should know whom they are helping.

Work And Generosity

The determination and work and gifts of neighbors coupled with the generosity of other Lubbock residents is making the house possible.

Mrs. Wallace Gibson of 2800 N. Seventh several months ago decided to help Mrs. Mahon prepare for the time, in January, when Mrs. Mahon's husband would leave the state Sanatorium near San Angelo. Mrs. Mahon and her 10-year-old son have been living with a daughter here since last spring.

That Was Her Worry

"I have never asked for anything," said Mrs. Mahon. "Mrs. Gibson came to me and asked if I wasn't in trouble. She said I was losing weight and she knew there was a great worry somewhere. That was my worry: Wondering about what I was going to do when my husband came out of the hospital."

In February of 1945, her husband became sick while working as a pipe fitter at the Oak Ridge, Tenn., atomic bomb plant. Mr. and Mrs. Mahon returned to their home at Texarkana and he spent part of the time in hospitals and part of the time at home. About three years ago, they sold their home and traveled, thinking his condition would improve.

Cold Fatal For Man Following Plane Crackup

Hopes For Houston Resident Ended By Discovery Of Body

(By The United Press)

CROSSVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 29—A searching party today found the frozen body of John Anderson, 35, Houston, Tex., about one mile and a half from his crashed private plane on a steep mountainside near here.

The former Bristol, Tenn.-Va., man had survived the crackup of his plane on windswept Devil Step mountain only to die in the biting cold before rescue parties could reach him.

His leg was broken in the crash and he had fashioned a splint, using his belt to hold it tight.

Plane Is Found

He had tried to write a message on a rock but searchers among the more than 100 persons looking for him through the mountain wilderness could not make it out.

His frozen body was located shortly after the search was picked up at dawn today.

Anderson's plane was found yesterday and when no trace of the pilot could be found near the wreckage, hopes soared that he might have survived. He had been missing since Dec. 22.

Anderson's light plane was found wrecked on the 2,000-foot mountain late yesterday, but no trace of him was found. Search party members said a seat had been removed from the plane and burned, perhaps in an effort by Anderson either to keep warm or to signal for help.

Search Is Organized

Anderson was en route from Houston to spend Christmas at Bristol, Tenn.-Va., his former home. He was last reported taking off from Columbus, Miss. A search organized by the air force rescue service and the Civil Air patrol switched to the Crab Orchard area near here early this week after a farmer reported hearing a plane in trouble and then a crash the night of Dec. 22.

The plane was spotted from the air yesterday by Anderson's brother, James Anderson, of Bristol. An hour later five members of

1,989-Mile Speeds By Plane Reported

Writer Claims New Experimental Ship Flies Three Times Faster Than Sound

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 29.—An air force plane reportedly has flown 1989 miles per hour—three times the speed of sound.

That's the new record of the air force's X-1 rocket plane, says the Los Angeles Times' aviation editor, Marvin Miles.

Quoting what he calls "reliable informants," Miles today said the X-1 had reached a speed of 1989 miles an hour in the stratosphere over Edwards Air Force base at Muroc Dry lake.

The speed was given to him as mach 3, he said, or three times as fast as sound. Sonic velocity is 663 miles an hour between the altitudes of 35,000 and 100,000 feet.

Miles' story did not say who was at the controls, but presumed it was Capt. Charles Yeager or perhaps Maj. Pete Everest. A year and a half ago the Air Force announced that Yeager would try to fly the X-1 up to 1700 miles an hour, the maximum speed for which it was originally designed. Everest, Miles said, has been testing the rocket-powered craft.

Record Unconfirmed

The needle-nosed, 31-foot-long X-1 is dropped from the belly of a superfortress for its flights. It climbs almost vertically to about 80,000 feet before beginning its speed runs. Its four rocket tubes, with a total of 6,000 pounds of thrust, can operate for slightly more than four minutes. At the end of that period, the fuel is ex-

Foreign Units Charged With Spy Activities

Nationalization Plan Pushed; American, Others Still Held

(By The Associated Press)

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Dec. 29—Hungary's Communist government today seized a large number of foreign-owned companies, charging they were being used "to build up espionage and sabotage rings."

Among those ordered nationalized was the Standard Electric works, a subsidiary of the American-owned International Telephone and Telegraph company. Two foreign officials—an American and a Briton—and a Hungarian manager of the company are in a Hungarian jail charged with espionage and sabotage.

Long Step Taken

The government also broadened its nationalization program by taking over all Hungarian-owned enterprises employing more than 10 persons and all printng plants employing more than five. This was considered a long step toward further socialzation of the country's economy.

Compensation was promised for the foreign and domestic-owned nationalized plants.

The foreign companies seized had previously been exempted in 1948 from nationalization, although every Hungarian manufacturing firm employing more than 100 persons was nationalized at that time.

Confessions Claimed

Minister of State Ernoe Geroe, who directs the nation's economy, announced the seizure as "absolutely necessary" to wipe out the remains of foreign holdings to "preven these undertakings from being used for subversive machinations."

MISHAPS OCCUR NEAR SEMINOLE

Seven Are Injured In Auto Accidents

(Special To The Journal)

SEMINOLE, Dec. 29—Slippery highways resulting from a heavy fog and mist were blamed for four separate auto accidents near here this morning, with six members of a Jackson, Miss., family hospitalized after the car in which they were riding overturned about 15 miles east of Seminole on the Lamesa highway.

Injured in the mishap—none seriously—were the driver, L. C. Owens, 36; his wife; a son, Roy Owens; and three sisters, Georgia Owens, Holly Owens and Sarah Owens. All suffered bruises and lacerations.

Applied His Brakes

Owens apparently applied his brakes on a straight section of the road, it was reported, and the auto overturned. Time of the accident was set at 8:30. The family was en route to Los Angeles from Mississippi.

Wiley Perrigan, Odessa oil field worker, was treated at Seminole General hospital for a fractured collarbone and chest injuries received when his car skidded and overturned 10 miles south of Seminole on the Andrews highway about 8:30 o'clock this morning. His condition was not considered serious.

Four other Odessa men accompanying Perrigan were not hurt in the mishap.

Others Escape Injury

Two other West Texas men escaped injury in truck accidents at the same site a few minutes later,it was reported.

Two Men Hurt In Well Fire

HOBBS N. M., Dec. 29 (AP)—Two men were injured in an explosion during a spectacular oil well fire near here last night.

Amerada Oil company's LP2 well eight miles southwest of Hobbs in the Monument pool broke into flames about 6 p. m. and burned for three hours. Cause of the blaze was not known.

Gas Tank Explodes

Flames reached 40 feet into the air, except for three belches when the fire soared to 200 feet. Following one of these flareups, a gasoline tank on a swabbing unit exploded.

M. L. Buskin, 40, and Harry King, 42, both Hobbs volunteer firemen, were burned. Buskin received burns on his face, both hands and ankles and King received burns on his face.

The fire was extinguished by trucks using foamite. Tractors and trucks dragged white hot pieces of debris from the fire scene to prevent the well from re-igniting.

Mean Sergeant Given As Reason For AWOL

DETROIT, Dec. 29 (U.P.)—Salvador A. Paramo, 25, Detroit, told the FBI today that he felt the five-and-a-half years he was AWOL from the army was justified.

He said he left Camp Kohler, Calif., after only 90 days of service "without telling them."

"I had a real tough, mean, nasty sergeant," he explained.

Three Persons Dead In Crossing Mishap

DENTON, Dec. 29 (AP)—Three persons were killed today when the pickup truck in which they were riding crashed into a Santa Fe passenger train at a grade crossing ten miles northwest of here.

The victims were Mrs. Jake Keith; her daughter, Peggy Keith; and Burl Taylor, all of Pilot Point.

Their bodies were badly mangled. The truck was demolished. Part of it was strewn for 100 yards down the right of way. Another part became entangled in the wheels of the train. The train was still stalled there an hour and a half later.

Identification of the bodies was made by Dr. J. M. Sullivan, Sanger physician, who said the three had visited him in his office about fifteen minuts before the accident.

Gambling War Report Denied

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Dec. 29 (U.P.)—Gamblers and police officials today scoffed at reports that a shooting war is about to start among the operators of Las Vegas' gambling resorts.

Gus Greenbaum, president of the fashionable Flamingo hotel, described the reports, printed in a Los Angeles newspaper, as a "fabrication."

The reports said big shot gamblers were openly carrying guns and were surrounded by armed bodyguards. In addition, the Los Angeles newspaper said one major gambler left Las Vegas recently after being warned he was in danger of being killed.

Deputies On Duty

Greenbaum, whose hotel was built by the late Benjamin (Bugsy) Siegel, said only special deputies were carrying guns around gambling casinos.

The clubs pay the deputies, but the sheriff appoints and controls them.

William J. Moore, vice president of the Hotel Last Frontier and a member of the state tax commission, said the reports were inspired to prevent California dollars from coming into Nevada.

He said it was significant that the reports appeared "on the eve of what promises to be the biggest

Travel Ban Studied By U. S. Officials

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29. (AP)—The United States is considering a ban on travel by Americans to Communist-run Poland and Czechoslovakia.

This was indicated today by a State department official who disclosed that a note was sent Poland on Dec. 16 "expressing this government's concern for the welfare and safety of Americans traveling in Poland."

The note demanded information about the disappearance of Hermann Fields, and American citizen who was last seen publicly in Warsaw last Aug. 22.

A note also was sent Czechoslovakia on Dec. 21 asking information about Herman's brother, Noel Fields, and the latter's wife, Herta, who dropped from sight in Czechoslovakia.

Air Line Stewardess Crowned Orange Bowl Queen At Miami

(By The Associated Press)

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 29—Blonde and blue-eyed LaDene Van Wagoner, 23-year-old air line stewardess, was crowned Orange bowl queen last night. Six other candidates for the honor stalked out, claiming the contest was fixed.

Just after the crown was placed upon Miss Van Wagoner's head by movie star Colleen Townsend, the rival finalists walked out as newsboys hawked copies of a paper announcing the new queen.

The losers contended the early sale of the paper (the Florida Sun and Riviera Times) proved that earlier rumors were true—that the queen had been selected long ago despite assurances she would be chosen at last night's ball in Coral Gables Country club.

They claimed the paper was on sale even before the announcement was made. The paper carried a full-page tabloid size picture of the queen, whose home is in Salt Lake City, Utah.

FIREBUG REPORTS INVESTIGATED

Lumber Fire Loss Is Set At $30,000

Smouldering lumber kept city firemen alert today after a fire which raced through heavily stocked sheds of Home Lumber and Supply company at Nineteenth and Avenue L caused damage now estimated at $20,000 to $30,000.

A thorough investigation was promised after persistent reports indicating the blaze may have been the work of a "firebug" continued to be heard this morning.

Firemen from all Lubbock stations fought the spectacular blaze before bringing it under control at 12:30 a. m. today. Many private citizens helped battle the fire, and the Salvation Army set up a portable canteen to serve coffee and food to weary firemen and others.

Stacks of lumber continued to smoke at mid-morning today.

Three houses north and east of the lumber yard were damaged by fire, smoke and water as flames fanned by a southwest wind leaped from the lumber yard and threatened the entire block.

Five airmen of Reese Air Force base turned in the alarm at 11:30 p. m. when they noticed a fire in the rear of the lumber yard as they drove past.

Firemen Injured

Nolan F. Gordon, 26, of 2717 North Sixth street, fireman from station No. 2, was taken to West Texas hospital after being knocked down by a lashing hose. He was dismissed today after treatment.

Bradley Black, city fire marshall, was investigating the fire, he said this morning, but he remained non-comittal and said it would take "two or three days" to make an investigation.

An investigator from the State Fire Insurance commission at Austin had been requested. Eugene Sanders, state fire marshal, reportedly had advised local officials that none could be sent today but that an inspector would be here within a day or two.

The loss was only partially cov-

Improved Bond Rating Is Set

The city, county and independent school district have been given an improved bond credit rating, officials here learned today.

The county's rating has been advanced from "BA" to "A" and those of the city and school district from "BA" to "BAA." The highest rating is "AA."

These listings were included in a recent compilation by Moody's Investors service, of New York, an authoritative agency which specializes in the study of the financial condition of state's, cities, counties, school districts and other political subdivisions and their ability to pay their bonded and other indebtedness.

Lower Interest Likely

Local officials explained that the bonds of the political subdivision with the higher Moody rating usually can be sold more readily and at a lower interest rate.

City Manager Steve Matthews said the city has been seeking an improved rating for more than two years.

Prior to the war, the city, county and school district held AA ratings. Bond issues voted in the effort to keep pace with growth resulted in lower ratings as the proportion of indebtedness to assessed tax valuations increased.

Matthews said that, in support of the effort to obtain an improved rating, a survey was made recently which showed that the valua-

China Loyalist Guns Smash Red Flotillas

HONG KONG, Dec. 29 (AP) — Nationalist military sources said today shore based artillery on Hainan island, off the South China coast, had smashed several flotillas of Communist manned boats probing its defenses.

Small scale Communist landing efforts along the Hainan coast evidentally are a prelude to a major Red assault now being readied on the Liuchow peninsula which juts toward the island from the mainland.

Charges Range From $7.50 To The Limit

New York's Nightclubs Ready For New Year's Celebrations

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—It can cost a lot or a little to welcome 1950 in the big city.

It all depends on how you do it, and where.

New Year's eve is the big night for New York's assorted night spots, and most of them have big party plans.

Even sedate Carnegie hall scheduled a special program and promised to leave its bar open later than usual.

Prices for the holiday night generally are normal, ranging from $7.50 for dinner and a funny hat up to just about any amount the bankroll will stand.

The tonier night spots and supper clubs ask around $25 per person for food, entertainment and treats. The fixed figure does not include drinks.

Police have completed plans to handle the thousands who will jam Times Square.

At least one night spot made special plans to take care of those who overestimate their capacity.

Leone's club, just off Broadway, said it will have an old-fashioned milk-wagon in a

Burglars Take $50 From Willis Drug

Police said burglars who broke into Willis Drug store, at 404 Ave. H, made off with a sack containing $50 in "change."

Police said they did not believe that a broken window at Alcoholics Anonymous club house, 1502 Main, signified more than the work of mischief-makers.

New Additions To Schools Set

Two Lubbock architectural firms have been instructed to proceed with plans and specifications for two new additions to Lubbock's school plant, A. C. Jackson, public schools business manager, said this afternoon.

A four- or six-classroom addition will be made to Roscoe Wilson school at 2801 Twenty-fifth. Haynes and Kirby were named as architects at a special meeting of the school board in Hilton hotel at noon Wednesday.

Negro School Planned

The wing will be added to the south of the building, according to present plans.

Butler-Brasher company was named to draw plans for an eight- to 12-room elementary school in the negro section. The new school will adjoin the present Dunbar school property if land can be obtained at a suitable price.

Board members attending the special meeting were Clyde G. Tatum, president, G. C. Dowell, W. H. Evans, O. A. Woody, Ruel C. Martin and Don L. Jones. Dr. M. M Ewing, the seventh board member, was unable to attend

Aid For Tennessee Girl Is Proposed

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 29 (AP)—A San Antonio policeman named Smith suggested today that every Smith in the nation send $1 to Betty Lou Marbury.

Betty Lou is the 10-year-old Tennessee girl whose right hand and wrist were amputated yesterday at a Memphis hospital.

The policeman is Emmett Smith, jr., 3, a motorcycle officer for the past five years and a peace officer since 1937.

Says Smith as he mailed his check to Betty Lou:

"Prayers have their place, but what she needs now is a financial bulwark for the future."

He said he hoped thousands of other Smiths would chip in.

Smith is the father of four children, aged 7 to 18.

UNIONS PRESS PRIVATE DRIVE

Expansion Of Pension Plans To Be Major Issue In 1950

By STERLING F. GREEN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29—America's rush to provide for its old age—by act of Congress, by bargaining, or by strikes if necessary—may tag 1949 as the year of departure into a new economic era—the "age of security."

On New Year's day the social security tax will increase by half. By spring Congress will—by all present evidence — complete its present program of raising social security pensions and wrapping perhaps 11 million more workers under protection.

The big unions, scorning what they call "inadequate" federal pensions, are out to nail down security for their own members. The drive has sent most of big industry scrambling to the adding machines.

Plans In Force

Counting the plans already in force and those newly won on the picket line, "private" pensions today call for contributions about as great as the federal government will collect in social security taxes.

The total—private and federal—approaches $5 billion a year. The sum gives every promise of mounting for years to come. It is becoming an economic force. The government cannot weigh its impact, but can and does worry about it.

Even that isn't all. It doesn't count the funds poured into pensions for firemen, police, teachers and other city, state and federal workers. It omits the employes of hospitals, churches, charities and non-profit bodies. It doesn't count the railroad retirement system or the tax-supported pensions of soldiers and sailors.

It doesn't include state pensions for residents. In California and elsewhere old age election campaigns gave prosperous 1949 the political look of the depression days, when pension plans called "ham and eggs" and "$30 every Thursday" were bywords. Some states came close to voting themselves into near-insolvency to take care of their oldsters.

Rosy Dreams Revealed

Rosier dreams lie ahead. Secretary of Labor Tobin is plugging for a $100 a month federal pension for "every retired person." President Truman has not called him off the campaign.

The "Mr. Republican" of Capitol hill, Senator Taft of Ohio, says this would cost $12 billion a year. (Social security officials agree it would cost at least that). Taft says it would have to be paid from taxes, because it would be impossible to amass an insurance fund big enough to swing it. (Most officials, and all insurance men, agree with that, too.)

So Senator Taft proposes that the Senate finance committee start an immediate study of the "feasibility" of $100 pensions for all at age 65. That is $200 a couple.

Delay Is Seen

This may prolong the Senate hearings on the pending social security bill. Modest by comparison, it would raise the minimum pension from $10 to $25 a month and boost the maximum for an aged couple from $85 to $126.

But passage seems certain. The House approved it last session by a vote of 333 to 14. This is an election year, and both party platforms call for improvement of social security. The pensions now average only $26 a month.

Still, in the entire government, nobody knows exactly what gap the government benefits are trying to fill, or what part of the gap is being filled, by the fast-rolling drive of the unions.

As many as 8 million workers, the social security administration believes, may now be covered by private plans. The insurance trade thinks the total is higher.

The cost of renting a car in France has dropped 60 per cent since currency devaluation, and decreases of 50 per cent in Britain and 30 per cent in Ireland are reported.

Bail Is Set In Shooting

ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 29. (AP)—Slim, brunette Miriam Thurmond was reported out of danger today while the woman who shot her and Dean John Drewry is free on $5,000 bond.

Mrs. Kathleen Drewry, 45-year-old divorced wife of the University of Georgia journalism dean, was released last night after being charged with assault with intent to murder her ex-husband and his 28-year-old former secretary.

Sheriff Tommy Huff placed the charges against her after the hospital reported Miss Thurmand "much improved" and out of danger. The 47-year-old dean was walking around and the hospital said he would leave soon—possibly today.

Fit Of Rage Blamed

Sol. Gen. Marshall Pollock said the two counts against the dean's former wife would be presented to the January session of the grand jury.

Mrs. Drewry's release from jail came five days after she stepped into the living room of the Thurmond home and emptied a .32 caliber pistol at her ex-husband and the slim brunette.

Mrs. Drewry, a one-time campus beauty queen, told the sheriff she shot her husband and Miss Thurmond in a fit of rage. She said she had dinner with her ex-husband an dtheir son Milton, 17, the night of the shooting and he promised her a reconciliation and remarriage.

They were divorced in July after 23 years of marriage.

Drewry has refused comment on his wife's statement that a reconciliation was planned.

Young Democrats Ask Roosevelt To Resign

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 29 (AP)—The Young Democrats of California have asked the resignation of James Roosevelt as Democratic national committeeman.

The entry of the eldest son of the late president into the governor's race is the reason for the action, announced William J. Tiernan and Henry James, southern and northern chairmen, respectively, of the group.

They stated yesterday that Roosevelt should resign in favor of someone who "unfettered by ambitions for personal agrandizement," may devote time to unifying the party.

A spokesman for Roosevelt said, "since the group no longer is accredited by the party, no comment is necessary."

Services Set Today For Slaton Resident

SLATON, Dec. 29 (Specal) — Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. today at the Slaton Methodist church for Mrs. R. W. Ragsdale, 49, who died in Mercy hospital here at 9 a. m. Wednesday. She had lived here since 1915.

Rev. O. B. Herring, pastor, will officiate at the services and burial will be in Englewood cemetery under direction of the Williams Funeral home.

Mrs. Ragsdale's husband is the sales manager for Crow-Harral Chevrolet in Slaton.

Services For Morton Merchant Set Today

MORTON, Dec. 29 (Special) — Funeral services were to be held at 10 a. m. today for David C. Todd, 28, prominent Morton furniture store owner and one of the town's young civic leaders. He died at 7:30 a. m. Wednesday in West Plains hospital of pneumonia and complications.

Services will be conducted at the First Methodist church here with the pastor, Rev. C. C. Armstrong, in charge assisted by Rev. R. L. Kirk of Perryton. Burial will be in Slaton cemetery.

Todd was president of Morton's Lions club, a member of the board of stewards of First Methodist church, and was active in the Morton Chamber of Commerce and the Quarterback club.

A native of Slaton, he attended Slaton schools before enrolling at Texas Technological college in 1939 and 1940. He was a veteran of 39 months' service in the Army Air Corps during the war. He was an ardent sports fan.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Donna Todd, a son, Michael, 3; two brothers, R. H. Todd, jr. Slaton, and Frank Todd, a student at North Texas State Teachers college at Denton; and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Todd, sr., of Slaton.

Man, 107, Not Lost; Trying To Find Work

OCEAN PAAK, Calif., Dec. 29 (AP)—Cipriano Chavez, 107, laughed when police found him and told him he had been reported missing.

"Oh, I can take care of myself," he smiled. "I was only looking for work."

His daughter, Mrs. Josephine Garcia, told officers yesterday that Chavez had been working regularly as a gardener until this year.

"Then he was hit by a bus," she explained. "That slowed him down a little."

Heat And Power Are Generated From Noise, Experiments Show

By JOHN DAFFRON
Associated Press Staff Writer

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Dec. 29—The potential heat and power that lies in noises—noises about as loud as the popping of a paper bag—may some day be utilized to operate engines or touch off explosions, a physicist reported today.

The shock waves set up by these noises have a tendency to converge at a single point and in so doing generate enormous pressures and temperatures, Dr. Arthur R. Kantrowitz told a section of the American Physical society meeting at the University of Virginia.

Kantrowitz said he and Robert W. Perry, carrying out experiments supported by the Office of Naval Research at Cornell, found that shock waves appear to possess an unexpected potency. This potency, of split second duration, may find its greatest value in military application.

The physicist, who already had demonstrated that shock waves could operate an air compressing machine, said he and his associates found the shock waves' peculiar affinity while testing for pressures.

In a laboratory experiment, they divided a length of three inch tubing with a celluloid diaphragm. Pressure was built up in one section until the diaphragm popped. The flat shock waves traveling into the low pressure end of the tube were pierced by a cone. This made the invisible area of shock doughnut-shaped.

Then, as they traveled along the tube, the waves tended to converge at the hollow. This built up hundreds of pounds of pressure at the center and thousands of degrees of temperature.

Exact measurement of the heat couldn't be made, but Kantrowitz said it probably was as much as 20 to 30 thousand degrees for a tiny fraction of a second.

Noise of the bursting celluloid disc that set up the shock waves, Kantrowitz said, was about as loud as that caused by popping an air-filled paper bag.

Shock waves properly concentrated probably could provide a self-perpetuating ignition system with the noise touching off the explosion and the explosion providing the necessary shock to touch off a succeeding explosion—and so on.

But Kantrowitz said he still felt that the present spark plug was better for ignition in automobiles. He added that the noise or shock system had more promise as a detonator of explosions outside of engines.

Holiday Dances, Open House Are Scheduled

Traditional open houses and dances are being planned in Lubbock as farewell to the old and greeting to the new year.

Century Dance club will attend a New Year's Eve celebration at Hotel Lubbock from 10 o'clock until 2 p. m. Hosts will be Messrs. Rogstad Zachary, Julian Fairly, Brady Lowe, Johnny D. Gamble, David Weaver, Sidney Keeton, Dan Young and Robert Snyder.

Music will be furnished by Dave Fawcett's orchestra.

This will be a masked ball. A gigantic net filled with balloons and suspended from the ceiling will be released at midnight.

In Tribble Home

To introduce her son, Dell Tribble, who has been attending City college in Los Angeles, Mrs. Bert Tribble 3408 Twenty-fifth, is giving an open house New Year's day. Mr. Tribble is to enroll in Tech college in January.

Friends are being invited to call between 3 and 5:30 o'clock.

Assisting in hospitalities will be Mesdames Louis Metcalf, N. H. McFarland, P. L. Chapman, R. L. Aikin and Vincent Carr.

Plan Holiday Dance

Misses Pat Mansell, Nancy Hess, Sandra Toombs, Ernestine Gammill and Sandra Stanton are giving a semi-formal dance at Lubbock Contry club tonight from 9 o'clock until 1 a. m. High school and college groups have been invited.

Burl Hubbard's orchestra will play and during intermission Mexican pinatas, hanging from the ceiling, will be broken and an assortment of confetti and bubblegum will pour forth. Other decorations will be in a Christmas motif.

Honor guests will be Messrs. Mesdames Fred Brown, E. J. Lowrey, Marlin Hayhurst, C. R. Pattison, Bill Floyd, O. J. Sexton, Scott Ballard, H J. Bingham, R. B. Luker, George Langford, Mrs. Fred W. Standefer, Miss Laurene Bussey and Miss Dorothy Lomax.

Chaperones will be Messrs. and Mesdames Walker Stanton, J. D. Gammill, Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Mansell, Mrs. Tom Toombs, Dick Suharick, Glen Hess and Misses Peggy and Jane Hess.

Marriage Solemnized

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Childers of Lubbock, Rt. 4, are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Mrs. Wilda Reynolds, to Crate Snider, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Snider of Spur, which took place in the parlor of First Methodist church Wednesday.

Miss Hallie Wall, pianist, played "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," "Indian Love Call" and traditional wedding marches. She also accompanied Miss Dovie Parr as she sang "My Wonderful One."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a navy blue suit, with navy and winter pink accessories, and a corsage of white rosebuds.

Mrs. Nan Powell, matron of honor, wore an ice blue suit with navy and rose accessories, and a corsage of rose camellias. George Link of Spur served as best man. Only family members attended the ceremony.

After a wedding trip to New Orleans, the couple will be at home near Ropesville.

Eloise Foster Is Wed To Jesse S. Maynard

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Foster of Throckmorton announce the marriage of their daughter, Eloise, to Jesse S. Maynard, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Maynard, 2104 Seventh.

The double ring ceremony took place Dec. 23 at 7:15 p. m. in the First Baptist church at Clovis, N. M, with Dr. I. C. Maddox officiating.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Stovall, 3119 Twenty-second, had as their holiday guests their daughter, Miss Jeanne Stovall of Fort Worth; Mrs. A. Stovall of Sacramento, Calif., Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Smallin of Seminole and Bob Westbrook of Fort Worth.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Hancock and sons, Gerre and Jimmy, returned Wednesday night following Christmas visits in Fort Worth and Dallas. Hancock is county supervisor of schools.

Miss Vicki Martin To Take Job In Capital

Miss Vicki Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. K. Martin, 2508 Twenty-second, will leave Lubbock Jan. 10 for Washington, D. C., where she will join Congressman's George Mahon's staff. She will assume her duties Jan. 16. A graduate of Texas Tech college, Miss Martin at present is woman's editor of the Crop and Stock magazine.

Knight Family Meets For Holiday Reunion

A reunion of the Knight family was held during the Christmas holidays in the home of a sister, Mrs. Harold Biffle, 2820 Twenty-fourth.

Brothers and sisters and their families attending were: A. B. Knight, jr., Wichita Falls: Mrs. J. C. Smith, Slaton; Mrs. L. M. Taylor; Mrs. M. J. Harvey, Waco; J. K. Knights; Grady Knight, Roy Knight, Wichita Falls; Henry Knight of Stamps, Ark.

Highlight Gray Hair With Glitter Dust

A sprinkling of silver dust turns gray hair into a shining nimbus. Dust, made of tinsely shavings, shaken over the hair (left) after a light spraying with lacquer, is combed through completed coiffure to impart (right) an effect of silvery luster. It is easily combed out.

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

A sprinkling of bright silver dust is the newest way to glamorize gray hair. The glittery stuff, made of tinselly shavings, can be dusted over a completed coiffure to turn the dullest hair into a shining nimbus. Glitter is applied salt-shaker style from a cannister.

New York's John Hall, who treats many a silvery crest to this glitter trick, advises using lacquer, rayed on lightly, before silver dust is applied Then, says this hairdresser, there'll be no flying particles when a lady dances.

When the dust has been shaken over the hair, the hair should be combed—not brushed—lightly. If the hair isn't silvery enough to suit, there can be another sprinkling and another combing. Two light applications are better than a single heavy one.

The glamor dust should be applied evenly rather than in patchy effects. It is not meant to be used to create silver streaks, or to even up the light-dan-dark effects of graying hair.

When a gala evening is over, a thorough job with a well-brisled brush will take that dust right out of a woman's hair.

Ring Service Is Performed

Mr. and Mrs. Cole Hyten, 2615 Maple, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Willie Mae Hyten, to Howard Caddell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Caddell, 2725 Walnut, which took place Wednesday night at 8:30 o'clock at the Walnut Street Church of Christ. Elder L. D. Morgan officiated at the single ring service.

The bride wore an aqua dress with brown accessories and a corsage of six pink carnations.

Miss Dorothy Hyten served her sister as maid of honor and Avis Goodwin was best man.

A reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Cox after the ceremony. A two-tiered cake, topped with a bridal couple, was cut by Mrs. James Thompson and served by Mrs. Avis Goodwin. Coffee and hot chocolate were served by Mrs. Joe Cox and Mrs. Pete Caddell.

The bride is a junior student at Lubbock High school. Mr. Caddell works for Furr Food stores.

Anti-Histamine Drug Sales Will Continue

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (U.P.)—The Food and Drug administration said today it is standing pat on its decision to permit non-prescription sales of anti-histamine drugs.

Associate Commissioner George P. Larrick, head of the drug section, said there is no basis for reports the administration would reverse itself and permit sales of prescription only.

Although In Love, Young Parents Disagree On Who Should Care For Baby At Night

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My husband and I are very much in love and have very much in common. However, as is the case with all marriages, we do have some problems.

In particular, our main difference at present has to do with who should get up at night to take care of our very young baby, who naturally requires much attention.

We both love the baby, but I feel that after I have taken care of her during the day, my work should be finished when I go to bed. I think in fairness to the woman that the father ought to do something to help.

My husband works hard in his job and I know that he is conscientious. However, I think that he ought to spend some time with our child, and since he cannot during the day, that he ought to care for her at night. But he does not agree with me to that extent. He agrees to help, but thinks we should take turns on alternate nights. Do you think he loves our child? What have you to say about the situation? Signed A. B.

WIFE IS AIRING GREAT CONFUSION

DEAR A. B.: It seems to me your trouble is that you got married in the spirit of one sailing off into the clouds on a magic carpet, and consequently find the unremitting chores of wifehood, homemaking and especially infant-care about as uncongenial as a camel ride would be, comparatively.

In short, you weren't prepared for the tedium, stresses and disciplines of life in double harness. You hadn't thought ahead realistically, to plan competent management of your new duties or to question whether you could be a worthwhile helpmate. And psychologically you were too immature—still too dependent upon the brains, energy and aims of others to carry you—to keep an inner balance and cope self confidently with the rising tide of unexpected demands on your resources.

The vehemence of your present attitude stems from unrealized resentment of the work you've cut out for yourself. You suffer from increasing vexation and self pity, and in particular at this time you resent the baby's need of more or less continuous care—as for instance: bathing, feeding, changing, soothing, airing, special laundry, formula-fixing, etc.,—all of which grinds you down to the status of harried flunkey, so you feel, when your aspiration was and is to be "taken care of" by the man you married.

MAKES EXTREMIST DEMAND ON HUSBAND

IMPULSES to have revenge upon some alleged injustice usually accompany "injured" states of feeling; and in this instance it seems you've unconsciously elected your husband to be the goat. You are determined to get him up at night, rob him of rest, give him a "dose" of baby-care, etc., to satisfy vindictive emotions, and your theory that you are making a reasonable request is pure camouflage of hostile ferment.

This I gather from your extremist view that he ought to take full charge of the baby at night. That punitive demand doesn't make sense when levied against the partner who is the family breadwinner; because you may catnap or idle during the day, to compensate for wakeful nights, whereas he must be fresh and diligent on his job or run great risk of losing it.

However, please understand, I'm not saying your husband shouldn't help with the baby, occasionally or even regularly, to give you relief. But I can't find any fault whatsoever in his suggestion of sharing the task, by releiving you of nursing chores every alternate night. Indeed I think this offer is generously fair, coming from a hardworking father; and I feel that in justice to him, you cannot ask and should not accept any more than that. M. H.

CHRISTMAS FATALITIES GREATER THAN TEXAS CITY

330 Traffic Deaths Predicted During New Year's Weekend

(By The Associated Press)

The nation celebrated the six major holidays in 1949 with a lot of whoopla and gaiety but there was a staggering toll of violent accidental deaths—2,717.

And, the National Safety Council predicts, 1950 will start with 330 Americans being killed in traffic accidents over the New Year's weekend. It did not estimate the number of deaths in other accidents.

Estimates Exceeded

Deaths on the highways, in the air, fires, drowings, and a variety of other causes reached new records over some of the holiday periods this year. In most of them, the traffic toll exceeded the figure estimated by the council.

The 1949 holiday violent deaths showed: 1,705 in traffic mishaps; 391 drowned; 66 killed in fires and 555 killed in accidents of miscellaneous causes—including falls, airplane crashes, shootings, asphyxiations, etc.

Here is a breakdown for the holidays:

New Year's (two days)—309; including 207 traffic, Memorial day (three days), 413, including 253 traffic, 87 drownings; Fourth of July (three days), 711, including 315 traffic, 256 drownings; Labor day (three days), 525, including 394 traffic; Thanksgiving (one day), 179, including 123 traffic; Christmas (three days), 580, including 413 traffic.

More Than Texas City

The safety council has termed the violent deaths during the holiday celebrations "shameful," "appalling," and "disgraceful."

After last weekend's Christmas holiday, when 580 persons lost their lives in accidents, Council President Ned H. Dearborn said:

"The actual death toll for our three-day celebration was more than that for the Texas City disaster of two years ago which horrified the nation.

"Our holidays have become a series of 'Texas Cities.' In a week (New Year's) we may expect another one unless the people have sickened of making horror days out of their holidays."

Only a blizzard that "sews the country up tight" can prevent a death toll of at least 330 over the New Year's holiday, Dearborn said.

"But let's depend on ourselves and not the weather man, he added.

Warn Against Drinking

The council's estimated 330 traffic fatalities for this weekend's New Year's celebration is for the period from 6 p. m. Friday to midnight Monday. The council warned against drinking and driving and to "double your caution if the weather is bad."

The Christmas weekend toll of 413 traffic fatalities was 22 under the council's estimate. But the auto death rate for the period was approximately 78 per cent higher than the average number of deaths for an equally long period based on statistics for the first 10 months of 1949. The average number of traffic deaths for a similar period this year—78 hours—was 269.

The Fourth of July holiday took the heaviest toll this year—a record of 711 lives. The total was close to an all time record toll for any holiday, the 761 accidental deaths recorded in four days in Christmas week, 1916.

The three-day Labor day celebration, marked by the loss of 525 lives in accidents, set a new violent death record for the holiday. The council described the toll "appalling," and "enough to make every decent American sick at heart and boiling mad."

The Thanksgiving day toll was one of the highest in several years.

The Christmas toll included 66 persons who perished in fires and 101 in a variety of mishaps. The 580 total compared to 306 in 1948, which included 277 traffic fatalities.

The violent death toll started with the two-day New Year's holiday, with 309 persons killed. There were 207 traffic deaths, 37 above the 170 predicted by the council.

Film Actor Johnny Sands Is Visiting Mother In Floydada

Johnny Sands, Hollywood movie actor, is visiting his mother, Mrs. Ora Gough in Floydada and will return to the West Coast early in the New Year. The young man was known by his real name, John Harp, when he lived here and attended Lubbock Public schools.

The young actor completed his new role in the comedy picture, "Once Over Lightly," Christmas Eve. In this he plays comedy situations as an ex-GI and has a scene with Wanda Hendrix, who is the picture's feminine star, opposit Edmond O'Brien.

Sands' first break, after a succession of youthful roles came when he was cast as a heavy in "Outrage," a Paramount production starring MacDonald Carey and Gail Russell. His career was given a shot in the arm recently when he ranked second in Photoplay's Popularity poll.

With no serious romances in his life, Johnny lives in a bachelor apartment in Beverly Hills. He drives a modest automobile—without the heavy foot on the accelerator that marked his hotrod days.

Luzon Sways During Quake

MANILA, Dec. 29. (AP)—Luzon island swayed sickeningly throughout its 500 miles length for two and a half minutes today. Almost every able bodied person fled into the streets and fields for safety.

Seismographs registered an earthquake of moderate intensity. There were no reports of casualties. The Red Cross said none had been received.

But damage to many buildings was reported. Large cracks appeared in the walls of some of Manila's tallest structures. Occupants were warned about reentering them until after the quake temblors were over.

Fires Are Started

Three fires started by short circuits in electric lines were extinguished quickly.

Standing without support became difficult in the fourth floor office of the Associated Press in the Manila Times building. Light fixtures rocked back and forth. A steel file cabinet danced around the floor.

There were stories that several women, trapped in downtown buildings, fainted. Traffic in narrow streets became jammed. Many abandoned their vehicles and sought safety away from the swaying tall buildings.

Almost every large city on the island reported damage to buildings.

Fire In Hold Fails To Delay Freighter

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 29 (AP)—A Mexican freighter was scheduled to dock here on time today despite a fire which broke out in the hold and was later reported under control.

Capt. Pedro Teran of the 2,800-ton Mexican freighter Uxmal reported the fire by radio to Fernando Patron, manager of H. T. Cottam and Co., agent for the vessel.

Two Coast guard cutters escorted the Uxmal up the Mississippi.

Injured Policeman's Condition Improved

Condition of Pat Crow, city policeman who was injured in a wreck early this morning, was reported good at Lubbock Memorial hospital today.

Crow was injured at Twenty-third and Ave. N at 12:42 a. m. when his car was in collision with another driven by Johnny Ray Lawson, 22, of 1019 Seventeenth.

Crow had been assisting firemen on the Home Lumber and Supply company fire at Nineteenth and Ave. L while off duty.

Crow's car was traveling west on Twenty-third, Lawson's north on Ave. N, reports showed. Both drivers swerved their cars a moment before impact. Crow was carried to the hospital in a Sanders ambulance.

Kiwanis President Gives Farewell Talk

Outgoing President Dr. Fred Sparks of the Lubbock Kiwanis club gave a farewell address at the regula. weekly luncheon of the group in the Lubbock hotel at noon today.

Sam Bass, newly-elected president of the club, will officially take office at the organization's Ladies' night banquet at the Lubbock country club Jan. 5 at 7:30 p. m.

Dr. Sparks complimented the 12 committees working under him during the past year and set forth accomplishments of the Lubbock Kiwanis during 1949, including the establishment of the Hub City Kiwanis club in September.

Rev. Charles Law of Kansas City gave the invocation, and Raymond Hamilton introduced guests.

Tickets for the ladies' night banquet ext week are $3 each and will be available to members until Tuesday, Bill Tatum, chairman, said. Noon luncheon next Thursday will not be held.

Missing Plane Is Reported By Firm

BROWNSVILLE, Dec. 29. (U.P.)—A Brownsville charter plane service reported today one of its craft has been missing since Dec. 15.

Les Mauldin, operator of a charter service, said a BT-13 plane, was flown from his field Dec. 7 by C. C. Massey of Odessa.

Massey reported in Dec. 15 from Uvalde where he was grounded by bad weather. Since that day Mauldin has had not a word from Massey. The pilot had leased the plane to take aerial pictures of a ranch.

About twice as much power is required to stop an express train as to start it.

Northwest Hit By New Storm

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 29 (U.P.)—A second Arctic storm swept in on the battered Pacific Northwest today, bringing additional snow to British Columbia, and more rain to Washington state.

At least two persons were dead in the wake of the first blow.

Rivers in Washington state generally were holding steady, although W. Woodward of the Seattle weather bureau predicted more rain in the next 24 hours which would increase the flood threat.

Bus Passengers Trapped

In British Columbia, a heavy storm which piled up 30 inches of snow at Hope and Princeton, B. C., tapered off last night, leaving 101 Greyhound bus passengers trapped at Towers Camp, 53 miles east of Princeton, B. C.

Strong winds and heavy seas halted shipping at the mouth of the Columbia river in Oregon.

The weather bureau said the cold blast now freezing eastern British Columbia would swing down into Montana, over the Rocky mountains and into the Great Plains.

Coroners said a blinding rainstorm caused te death of Henry George Iverson, 83, Snohomish, Wash., who was struck by a car while walking across a highway near his home. Bernis McHenry, father of four, was killed when 50-mile-an-hour winds toppled a tree as he worked on a logging railroad.

Low Readings Reported

Alaska was still in the grip of a cold spell, temperatures ranging from 50 below zero to 17 above.

The mercury dropped to 23 below in Anchorage Tuesday night with an unofficial reading of 35 below reported in the suburbs of the city. Fairbanks reported 40 below, while Northway saw 50 below.

Even southeastern Alaska was cold. In Juneau, the temperature was three below zero, while usually temperate Ketchikan had a reading of 17 above zero.

Mysterious Sphere Chased By Former Air Force Pilot Over North Carolina

HAMLET, N. C., Dec. 29. (U.P.)—Former air force pilot Phillip Gibbons said today a strangely-flying silver sphere gave him the slip when he took off in a light plane to look it over.

"I was no conventional airplane or balloon that I know anything about," he said.

Object Pointed Out

Gibbons said the object was pointed out to him at the airport by two men who drove out from town.

"When I first saw it, it was at an altitude of 3,000 or 4,000 feet and appeared to be standing perfectly still," Gibbons said. "It looked like a bright aluminum ball."

Gibbons said he watched it only long enough to warm up his plane, and then took off.

Sphere Is Described

"I spotted it only once from the air and it moved immediately between me and the sun. I tried flying first north and then south at right angles from its course toward the sun, but I never located it again.

"It looked like a perfect sphere of bright aluminum about 20 feet in diameter and there was nothing hanging below it or sticking out from the surface."

School Cafeterias In Area To Test Use Of Powdered Milk For Cooking Purposes

Cafeterias in 135 schools of this area will learn in January whether they like powdered milk for cooking.

The Federal Surplus Commodities administration has sent a shipment of powdered milk to Lubbock for distribution to 135 schools in 30 counties.

Eight hundred cases containing 38,400 pounds of powdered milk has arrived by railway car from Manawa, Wisc., since opening of the holidays in the schools and almost all of it has been delivered to representatives of the schools.

Home Economists Visit

For four years, request has been made that no powdered milk be sent into this area, said Roy Boyd, Lubbock county superintendent of schools who also serves as food distribution agent in this area of the federal surplus food program.

Home economists recently visited school cafeterias to prepare them for use of powdered milk.

The milk is to be used for cooking purposes, according to information to Boyd from the federal agency which sends surplus commodities to the schools without cost to the schools.

Apples Shipped

Boyd has been notified that 798 bushels of apples are to arrive from the state of Washington next week for use in the school cafeterias participating in the surplus food program. Three carloads of apples arrived about Dec. 1.

Rent of a warehouse in Lubbock for storage purposes was sought early in the school year, but it was learned that a portion of the warehouse already was in use and the entire warehouse would not be available until after Christmas. Arrangements are expected to be completed early in January, said Boyd.

Food now must be sent directly to the schools from railway cars. After a warehouse is obtained, many surplus commodities can be stored and sent to schools when needed.

Ann Sheridan Willed $2,195 From Admirer

In a beautifully-penned will written in 1947, Johnson said he was given to "my beloved Ann Sheridan, picture star (and no one else), Hollywood, Calif., C/O Warner Bros., the content in my safebox . . ."

Cash in the safebox amounted to $2,195. In Johnson's room, authorities found hundreds of pictures of the one-time "oomphy girl."

Johnson died last Friday.

Hervey Allen Dies Of Attack

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 29 (AP) — Hervey Allen, world-famous author of "Anthony Adverse," died of a heart attack at his winter home here yesterday. He was 60.

The noted author's body was found on the bathroom floor and Dr. Franz Stewart, heart specialist, said he apparently was stricken while preparing to shave.

He frequently worked late at night and slept late, so no alarm was felt when he failed to appear in the morning. Mrs. Allen found the body about 1 p. m. (EST).

Intimates said they had known since 1939 that he had a "bad heart" but he refused all suggestions that he see a doctor.

He attended the customary rounds of Christmas festivities with his family, including one gathering the night before his death.

Working On Book

Allen had maintained a winter home here since 1933. He had a summer home at Cazenovia, N. Y.

At the time of his death he was working on a book called "City In The Dawn," fourth and last in a series dealing with pre-revolutionary days in the United States. "City In The Dawn" dealt with Philadelphia.

William Hervey Allen was born in Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 8, 1889. He attended schools there and was appointed to Annapolis in 1913. An injury received in athletics forced him to resign with an honorable discharge.

He served with the Pershing expedition into Mexico in 1915 and was wounded in France in World War I

He was information specialist for the Atlanta regional office of War Manpower commission in World War II.

He studied at Harvard, taught English at high schools in South Carolina and lectured at Columbia university and Vassar college.

Edited Series

His literary career began in 1921 and included many books, among them "Wampum and Old Gold," "Israfel," "Action at Aquila," and "The Forest and the Fort."

"Anthony Adverse,' which he began in Bermuda in 1932 and finished in 1933, brought him his greatest fame. He had edited the "Rivers of America" series since 1943.

He was active in the Historical Association of Southern Florida and a member of many national and international literary societies. He was a founder-member o the Poetry Society of South Carolina.

While at Vassar he met Ann Hyde Andrews, whom he married in 1927. In addition to his widow, he is survived by two daughters, Marcia, 20, and Mary Ann, 18, and a son, Richard, 13.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete pending arrival of relatives, but probably will be held tomorrow.

Actress Will Divorce Mate

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 29 (AP) — Ida Lupino plans to divorce Collier Young but will remain his business partner.

The British-born actress disclosed last night that their separation is on the friendliest terms and that the divorce action will be on the same basis. She added they will continue their association as film producers. The couple married last year.

"Collier and I have been doing the work of ten people," said Miss Lupino. "We decided our marriage didn't have a chance. But as long as we can stand on our own two feet you can bet we'll be business partners."

Young, she said, is at Palm Springs recovering from a near nervous breakdown. She has assumed direction of their current film.

Miss Lupino formerly was married to Louis Hayward and Young to Valeria Young, a radio actress.

"The Body" Recovers From Spasm Of Heart

ENCINO, Calif., Dec. 29. (AP)— Marie McDonald has made a quick recovery from a nervous heart spasm caused by a midnight hit-run auto accident.

Known as "The Body" in Hollywood, the 24-year-old actress and her husband, Harry Karl, shoe manufacturer, were involved in the crash which did considerable damage to their auto.

"I haven't got heart trouble. The doctors envied my heart," she said yesterday. "I feel fine now."

Miss McDonald said the seizure she suffered after the accident was "a spasm of chest and heart muscles," adding that she recently spent 10 days in the hospital for treatment of the nervous heart.

Westerners Shade Eagle Quint

Lubbock Gains 38-35 Victory

ABILENE, Dec. 29 (Special)—Abilene's Eagles and the Lubbock Westerners matched points for 29 minutes here last night, before Lubbock went ahead with less than three minutes to play to break a 33-33 deadlock and win, 38-35.

The difference in the score came from the free throw line, where the Westerners held a decided edge over the Eagles in the non-district basketball clash.

Turner Hits Hoop

Guard Morris Turner hit the hoop for two field goals in the dying minutes of the game to insure victory, and a free throw by Carl Ince pushed the margin a comfortable one-point higher.

The Lubbock win avenged an earlier 43-41 loss to the Abilene five, and gave the Westerners a record of 10 wins and two losses for the full season.

Abilene held a decided edge in field goals, hitting 14 from the field while Lubbock was making but 11. From the free throw line, however, it was a different story. Coach David Cook's visiting Westerners connected 16 times on charity tosses while the Eagles were able to hit but seven. Lubbock missed six and Abilene missed 12 free throws.

High scorer for the evening was Guard Morris Turner of the Westerners with 11 points, and Jimmy Sexton had 10 markers. Abilene was led by Jack Stuard with 10, and Don Strange made nine points. The accuracy of Stuard in the first meeting of the two teams spelled the difference.

Take Early Lead

The Westerners took an early lead, pushing it to 11-8 at the end of the first quarter and then holding a 16-15 margin at halftime.

In the third stanza the Eagles wrested the lead from the Lubbock quintet, going ahead, 26-25. The two teams battled on even terms through most of the final quarter, with the score deadlocked at 33-33 with three minutes left.

Then Lubbock took the initiative once again after the three minute rest period to go out in front for the last time.

Turner hit a shot from far out to push the margin to 35-33, and then Carl Ince sank a charity toss to make the score, 36-33. Another bucket by Turner, this time from close in, gave Lubbock its final score, with Abilene able to make but two points the remainder of the game.

The nearness of the battle in the closing minutes was shown by the score, and the count was knotted four times in the latter stages of the final quarter.

Each team had 21 fouls marked up against it, and two Westerners, Jim Wilson and Ince, fouled out of the contest while Vol Montgomery went out through the five-foul route for Abilene.

Lubbock's next opponent is Big Spring at Big Spring on Jan. 3. District play opens Jan. 6 for the Westerners when Odessa invades Chapman fieldhouse in Lubbock.

Lubbock won the "B" team game by defeating Abilene, 28-24. High scorer for Lubbock was Sammy Adams with seven points. Tommy Yelvington had six, Garnet Reeves five and Dean White four.

Abilene led at the half, 14-12.

All-America Gridders Finally Meet

Doaker, Justice Will Make Trip To Bowl Tilt Together

DALLAS, Dec. 29. (AP) — The Doaker and Choo-Choo—two of the most famous men of football—finally have gotten together.

It required four college seasons and a Cotton Bowl game for them to have that chat they've both been wanting.

The Doaker is Doak Walker, three-time All-America of Southern Methodist. Choo-Choo is Charlie Justice, two-time North Carolina All-America.

Talk Is Private

Strong admirers of each other and with careers that ran a startling parallel, Walker and Justice shook hands and talked over a lot of things yesterday afternoon when the North Carolina football squad arrived in Dallas where next Monday the Tar Heels play Rice in the Cotton Bowl. It was the first time they had seen each other.

Walker won't be in a bowl game this time—he'll just be watching the Choo-Choo try to railroad the Rice Express.

There is one thing on which the two differ—that's conversation. Walker never says much—not even when spoken to. Justice chatters away. He will give sports writers a direct, quick answer on anything.

Walker probably talked more to Justice than anybody he's ever met. But it was pretty private.

Plan Bowl Trip

About the only thing that leaked out was the fact that Walker and Justice, who will captain opposing teams in the Senior Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., Jan. 7, are going there together and taking some other guys along with them.

Before he met Justice, Walker told newsmen a leg injury had healed and that he was going to Jacksonville next Tuesday to play in the Senior Bowl. He had to miss the East-West game because of the injury. Justice, of course, has been tied up in practice for the Cotton Bowl.

After their little talk, Justice said they'd decide to make up a party and would go to Jacksonville by plane Tuesday with Art Weiner and Kenny Powell, North Carolina ends, and Dick McKissack, Southern Methodist fullback.

Santa Clara Is Due In Florida Today

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 29 (AP)—The Santa Clara Broncs were scheduled to end today a 3,000-mile, four-day train trip for their meeting with the University of Kentucky in the Orange Bowl Jan. 2.

The Broncs were due in Miami shortly after noon aboard a Seaboard Air line special train from New Orleans, where they worked out yesterday.

They will take over Memorial field at Miami Beach, where the Kentuckians have been training since Saturday. The Wildcats shifted their training grounds to Quarterbacks field in Coral Gables.

Orange Bowl officials hoped the Californians would arrive in time to attend a noon "kick off" luncheon for both teams but that was doubtful.

Meanwhile, Kentucky's Head Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant was singing the injury blues after yesterday's scrimmage session.

Doug Moseley, 200-pound first string offensive center, suffered a bruised shoulder late in the contact session but x-ray examination disclosed no fracture or separation.

Moseley will be out for an indefinite period and Harry Rogers, 190-pound junior, is expected to do most of the work as his understudy.

Texas Gridders On West Team Lineup

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 29 (AP)—The day is drawing near for the East-West Shrine charity game here Saturday, the major proceeds of which will go to the Shriners' hospital for crippled children.

Both of the teams—East at Santa Clara and West at Stanford—tapering off yesterday.

Coaches of both teams named starting lineups.

West Mentor Matty Bell of Southern Methodist, Dutch Meyer of Texas Christian and Jeff Cravath of U.S.C. named two teams.

They include:

If West receives: Don Narrell, Texas Christian, rt; and Lindy Berry, Texas Christian, qb.

If West kicks off: Jack Halliday, Southern Methodist, or Jim Castagnoli, c; and Dick McKissack, Southern Methodist, fb.

The East team, apparently, is tentative with Andy Kerr, Tuss McLaughry and Bernie Bierman.

Raiders Lose To Cab Quint

Texas Tech's basketball squad, 61-55 loser to San Angelo's Checker Cab quint at San Angelo Wednesday night, today began drills for Friday night's game here with the Wayland college Pioneers.

The Wayland clash will be one of the few Raider home games at which there will be an unlimited supply of tickets for townpeople, since Tech students currently are away during the holiday vacation. Ducats, priced at $1 each, will be on sale at the Tech gym box office. Game time will be 8 o'clock.

Stage Strong Finish

The Raiders, who had beaten Checker Cab by 62-43 here recently, got off to a miserable start at San Angelo Wednesday night and never caught up, despite a strong finish.

Tech trailed by 36-17 at halftime, after hitting only six of 40 field goal attempts in the first 20 minutes.

Coach Polk Robison's quint waxed warm in the final period, but was never able to close the gap.

Jackson Paces Rally

Chester Jackson sparked the Tech rally, getting 12 of his 14 points in the final period. Verdell Turner, however, was top Raider scorer for the night, with 16 counters.

John Klick, a forward who formerly played for Eureka, Ill., college, led the Cabbie scoring with 17 points. Keith Long, ex-Indiana university cager, pitched in 16, and Herman Hopkins, a center from North Texas State Teachers college, came through with 11.

Fouls proved costly to the Techsans, who committed 24 personals. Gene Gibson, rangy center who turned in yeoman service off the backboards, fouled out after seven minutes of play in the last half.

The victors' winning margin came from the free throw line, where they hit 17 shots to only nine for Tech. The Raiders had a 23-22 edge in field goals.

Light Drills Slated For North Carolina

DALLAS, Dec. 29 (AP)—North Carolina went on a one-a-day practice schedule today and indications were the sessions would be light.

The Tar Heels ran through a limbering up drill yesterday.

"I don't plan to work the boys very hard," said Coach Carl Snavely. "Somehow we seem to have a fragile group; they're always getting hurt and I'm afraid to take chances."

Snavely said his squad was in good physical condition. Only one player, Center Joe Neikirk, won't see action. He has a hand injury.

HOYAS ARE GREETED

EL PASO, Dec. 29. (AP)—Georgetown university today opened practice for its Jan. 2 Sun Bowl meeting with Texas Western University. The Hoyas arrived here late yesterday, were paraded through downtown El Paso, and extended the city official greetings in a huge street rally.

Friday Services Set For Tahoka Resident

TAHOKA, Dec. 29. (Special)—Funeral services for William Leroy Finch, 38, who died about 6 p. m. Wednesday in a local hospital, have been set for 3 p. m. Friday in the First Baptist church here.

Finch had been a Lynn county resident for 33 years. He had been in ill health most of his life.

Rev. C. T. Aly, pastor, will officiate at the services and burial will be in Tahoka cemetery under direction of Stanley Funeral home.

Survivors include his wife; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Finch of Tahoka; and a sister, Mrs. Alvin Shelton of Slaton.

Adamson Five Tops Borger, 59 To 27

DALLAS, Dec. 29. (AP)—Four Dallas teams are in the semi-finals of the Cotton Bowl high school basketball tournament.

Adamson plays North Dallas today and Sunset meets Crozier Tech with the winner playing tonight for the championship.

Adamson yesterday defeated Borger, 59-27; North Dallas beat Jesuit (Dallas), 51-37; Sunset defeated Highland Park (Dallas) 37-34, and Crozier Tech eliminated Forest (Dallas), 41-30.

In consolation play, Waco beat Garland 7-30; Sherman defeated Greenville, 55-38; Pleasant Grove downed Plano, 36-31, and Bloomburg beat Krum, 40-29.

Linemen Hold Hopes Of LSU

BATON ROUGE, La., Dec. 29 (UP)—Norman Cooper, Louisiana State's soft-talking, tobacco-chewing line coach, figures the Sugar Bowl football game between his Tigers and Oklahoma will be decided on 21 inches of ground.

Twenty-one inches, he says, is the space between the two lines on a football field when they line up for play. And the team that gets over those 21 inches first with the most wins, he believes.

His rock-ribbed Louisiana State line, one of the best in the history of the school, is taught that theory of football emphatically. Linemen are drilled to move fast, hit hard, keep moving, and not to stay down when blocked.

No Glory In Line

"There ain't no glory playing in the line," Cooper says. "It is a hard, dirty job and tough, but you've got to have a line to win football games."

In picking his linemen, Cooper is a demanding coach. Besides spirit, hutsle and ability, his players must be tough.

"I wouldn't have a man on my squad that wouldn't fight like hell and hit twice as hard," Cooper says. "I tell them all if you can't fight like hell I can't use you."

That's one thing outstanding in the Louisiana State forward wall, which drew more cheers from the fans during the regular season than the flashy, driving backs . . . its fight and vicious tackling.

Players Like Scrimmage

So tough is Cooper on his linemen in workouts before a scrimmage that the players sigh happily when Coach Gaynell Tinsley blows his whistle for an overall team scrimmage.

For 45 minutes before each scrimmage, Cooper, a master of the biting criticism, puts them through tough, intricate drills.

In one particular formation, tackles and guards line up in opposing lines. When Cooper blows his whistle, every lineman must charge at full speed and be able to stop on a dime or turn suddenly when another whistle blows. This is for alertness, he says.

Then comes 10 minutes of vicious tackling among themselves, climaxed with a rigidly supervised blocking drill.

After that, Cooper lines his players up again. One line charges at full speed and picks the other up bodily, and runs for 15 more yards. That, Cooper says, is for conditioning.

"By the time we get through with all of that," one lineman said, "we are begging for a scrimmage . . . that's a picnic."

Oklahoma A&M Upset

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 29. (AP)—Second-seeded Wyoming is in the finals of the All-College basketball tournament tonight, as expected, but there's a stranger in the opposition — Oklahoma City university.

Top seeded Oklahoma A&M, heralded to win its sixth straight title, fell in the semi-finals last night to alert Oklahoma City 37-25. The loss was the first to Hawk IBA's Aggies in 18 all-College tournament games.

Has Sasy Time

Wyoming had an easy time of Arkansas, 40-26.

Arkansas and A & M meet for third place in the first game of the double header tonight.

Wyoming, last year's Skyline Six champions, have breezed through the tournament.

It easily handled Texas 44-35 in the first round. Last night, Wyoming led 23-25 at the half and Arkansas didn't make a field goal the first 18 minutes of the last half.

In afternoon games, Baylor will meet Texas for the consolation title and Vanderbilt will play Alabama for seventh place. In games yesterday, Texas defeated Alabama 48-41 in a last half drive and Baylor topped Vanderbilt 61-53.

KENTUCKY IS FAVORED IN SUGAR BOWL MEET

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 29. (AP)—Kentucky is favored to win its third Sugar Bowl basketball championship by the coaches bringing teams to the tournament.

Coach Adolph Rupp's annually potent Wildcats received the most points in an Associated Press poll of the four coaches whose teams open the tournament tonight.

Kentucky got 16 points, four more than second place Bradley. Trailing were Villanova with 11 points and Tulane with five points.

A first-place vote was counted as five points, a second place vote three, third two and fourth one. Kentucky got three first-place votes.

NORTH CAROLINA STATE PACES DIXIE TOURNEY

RALEIGH, N. C., Dec. 29. (AP)—North Carolina State looked like the team to beat—and Forward Sammy Ranzino like the man to stop—as the Dixie basketball classic rolled into its second round today.

Ranzino, who's been having tremendous success in this young season, hit a peak of 33 points yesterday in leading his mates to an 81-64 victory over Rhode Island State in the Wolfpack's first tournament meet.

Joining the host Wolfpack in the day's championship semi-finals are: Penn State, which provided the opening day's only upset by outlasting Duke, 51-58; West Virginia, a 58-50 winner over North Carolina; and Georgia Tech, which defeated Wake Forest, 64-57.

McMurry Squad Will Leave For Galveston

ABILENE, Dec. 29. (AP)—Coach Wilford Moore and 33 McMurry college football players will board a chartered bus tomorrow morning for Galveston, where they will play Missouri Valley college's Vikings in the Oleander Bowl Jan. 2.

Moore will send his gridmen through a light workout in Galveston tomorrow afternoon.

Between the Lines by Joe Kelly

In Austin there is a baseball team with high ambitions, and the brains behind the club don't care who knows it.

A member at present of the Class B Big State league, the Pioneers are already looking ahead to entrance into the Class AA Texas league along with Dallas, Fort Worth, San Antonio and other clubs. The baseball officials make no bones about the fact that they want into the higher classification, and they think the date might be soon.

But in order to move into the Texas league, the Pioneers will have to replace one of the present teams.

A writer for the American-Statesman in Austin says that Beaumont is the logical choice because of the financial troubles and lack of support from the New York Yankees—the parent club—and the fans.

During the past two seasons the Exporters have run into much trouble, drawing only 125,000 persons during the 1949 season.

Meanwhile the Pioneers were drawing 187,000 persons to their Class B park. But the Pioneers had a winning ball club.

One of the saving factors for the Shippers could be Yankee assistance during the 1950 season in the form of players to give them a winning team. If this help does not come through, then Beaumont is likely to have another poor season at the gates, necessitating further financial aid from Texas league owners.

A Class C Gulf Coast league including Port Arthur, Jacksonville, Lufkin, and Galveston from Texas, and Lake Charles and Crowley from Louisiana has drawn many fans from Beaumont, and this year attendance at Gulf Coast games should detract further from Beaumont crowds.

The Pioneers of Ed Knebel have a large area from which to draw paying fans, and other Texas league owners have noticed the attendance figures with interest since Austin is centrally located in the state and would provide an acceptable location should Beaumont be forced to drop from the league.

But Knebel is not so sure that fans would bear the increased raise in admission price that comes with a move to the Class AA loop.

But instead of sitting back, waiting, Knebel is going ahead with improvements on the park which will be of advantage to the club in case a step upward is taken.

The seating capacity of Disch field is being increased. Additional lighting power is being added, and grandstand chairs are expected to be installed soon. Additional bleachers for negro fans are being installed, and more concession stands and ticket booths are being installed so that fans will not have to "sweat out" long lines for tickets or drinks.

The management of the Austin club is looking ahead, building for the future. Regardless of a move upward or not, the physical additions to the field will benefit the club because they make the game easier for the fans to watch, thereby increasing the desire of the patrons to go out to the games.

Lubbock club officials could take a lesson from the Austin club and start adding a few improvements to the Hubber park. There's lots of room for improvement.

In Browsing through different sports pages, this writer ran across an all-star team for the Sugar Bowl, held annually in New Orleans. Only 11 men are on the team, and one must be put off in order for a new one to be added.

There must be many fans in Lubbock and surrounding area who have seen some of these stars perform. In its ranks are four former All-Americas and six Texans.

At ends are Gaynell Tinsley, LSU, who played in the bowl in 1936 and is taking the LSU team back to the Sugar Bowl this year as coach, and Ken Kavanaugh, LSU 1938.

Tackles are Ernie Pannell, Texas A&M 1940, and Marshall Shires, Tennessee 1941.

The guards are Marshall Robnett, Texas A&M 1940, and Ray Richeson, Alabama, who was the last to make the squad in the 1948 game against Texas.

TCU's Ki Aldrich was named to the team in 1939 at center.

The backfield is a star-studded aggregation, with John Kimbrough, Texas A&M 1940, Monk Simons, jr., Tulane 1935; Davey O'Brien, TCU 1939; and Sammy Baugh, TCU, 1936.

There are 14 All-Americas who participated in the bowl who have not made the honor team. Included are Charlie Trippi of Georgia, Bob Fenimore of Oklahoma A&M, Glenn Dobbs of Tulsa, Paul Burris of Oklahoma, Charlie Justice of North Carolina, Dick Harris of Texas, Herman Wedemeyer of St. Mary's, John Steber of Georgia Tech, Darold Jenkins of Missouri, Chet Gladchuck of Boston College, Bob Suffridge of Tennessee, Harley McCullom of Tulane and Darrell Lester of TCU.

ABILENE, Dec. 29 (AP)—Howard Green, president of the newly organized Gulf Coast baseball league, has written all clubs that the league has been accepted as a Class C member of organized baseball.

ENID, Okla., Dec. 29. (AP)—The Enid invitational basketball tournament ends tonight with the University of Tulsa meeting the Pittsburg Teachers of Kansas in the final round.

Bear Loser In Card Feature

Gorgeous Gus, the wrestling bear, ran into too much competition last night at Sled Allen's wrestling arena and was defeated—but it took five grapplers to turn the trick.

Teamed with Gus in a wrestle royal were Pat O'Dowdy, George Overhull, Bob Cummings, Jack Paperheim and Pierre LaBell, and this fivesome turned on Gus at the bell to try to eliminate him from further competition, turning the trick in 10 minutes.

Then the five men went after each other, with Pat O'Dowdy being the first to go. Next two eliminated were Papenheim and LaBell, and this twosome put on a fine display of wrestling in the semi-final bout.

In 17 minutes of the first fall, the two traded many holds before LaBell dropped Papenheim with a series of dropkicks and a shoulder pin.

Papenheim evened the match in the second canto, winning it in 13 minutes with an inside twist toehold, but LaBell won the third fall and the match in three minutes with an armlock and twist.

The semi-main event was mostly clean, hard wrestling, and a large crowd of fans showed their appreciation of the match.

Meeting in the final event were Cummings and Overhull, with Cummings outlasting Overhull to win.

The Oregon grappler dropped Overhull after 11 minutes of the first fall with a cat toehold, but Overhull won the second in 13 minutes with a full Nelson.

The final fall was a good one, with fast action before Cummings trapped Overhull with an inside cat toehold in 14 minutes to end the show.

Offense Is Stressed In Blue-Gray Drills

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 29 (AP)—Wide open offense probably will be the order of the day Saturday when all-star teams from the North and South meet in the 12th annual Blue-Gray game here.

Head Coaches Blair Cherry of Texas, Gray leader, and Ray Eliot of Illinois, chief Blue mentor, called a halt to rough work yesterday as both squads began polishing their offense.

The attack on both squads will be liberally sprinkled with forward passes, laterals and intricate ball-handling maneuvers designed to spread the defense.

WINNING PLAYERS

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Co-Captain Leon Hart, right end from Turtle Creek, Pa., and Bob Lally, right guard from Cleveland, completed their college football careers this season with the enviable record of never having played on a losing football team in either high school or college.

Top Sports Events Of Year Recalled

By WILBUR MARTIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

A backward glance at the highlight of Texas 1949 sports year:

Baylor, Rice and Arkansas ended in a three-way deadlock for the Southwest Conference basketball championship . . . another squabble popped up among touring pros at the Rio Grande Valley Open golf tournament. . . that made two years in a row . . . Texas' crack track team almost cracked up at the Southwestern Exposition meet in Fort Worth . . . Charley Parker was one of the Steer aces sidelined by a pulled muscle . . .

Dallas' high-priced Eagles started to make a runaway of the Texas league chase, ended watching four other clubs run away and leave them out of the Shaughnessy playoff . . . The Rio Grande League boosted the state's professional baseball leagues to six . . . Joe Kracher, Kilgore's clowning manager, received a serious honor; a silver bat for winning minor league baseball's batting championship in 1948. . .

Olsen Wins Crown

Zoe Ann Olsen came back from a nasty tumble to turn and twist her way to another springboard diving championship in the Women's National AAU swimming meet at San Antonio . . . And Hawaii's swimmers practically swam away with the meet . . .

Mose Sims staged a national all-star high school football game at Corpus Christi . . . Southern Methodist, Texas and Rice started the football season in thunderous fashion . . . Southern Methodist ended it that way, despite four losses and a tie . . . it almost beat mighty Notre Dame . . .

Rote Grabs Htadlines

Kyle Rote ran 100 yards for a touchdown against Texas A. and M., but the feat was overshadowed by the Aggies' sensational performance in gaining a 27-27 tie . . . He grabbed the headlines, though, against Notre Dame . . . scoring three touchdowns.

Doak Walker closed his collegiate football career on the bench and in civilian clothes . . . the flu and a leg injury forced Walker to miss much action, but didn't dim his legendary fame . . .

Ray Morrison turned the lowly Austin College Kangaroos into a razzle-dazzle outfit that won more games than it lost . . . and Brad Rowland sparked a high-scoring McMurry eleven that won the Texas Conference Championship for the second straight year . . . The Gulf Coast Conference showed up among Texas' football circuits . . . this is the league formed by four schools that dropped out of the Lone Star Conference . . .

Lubbock, touted as the best high school team to come out of West Texas in years, tumbled in the first round of the Texas Interscholastic League's playoff for class AA teams . . .

Texas Tech won the Border Conference championship again and again rejected a bid to act as host team in the Sun Bowl . . . and speaking of bowls, the Cotton Bowl came up with one of the weakest attractions in its history—a thrice beaten North Carolina team vs. Rice . . . The Owls, incidentally, were rated almost two touchdowns better than the Tar Heels before the game.

Lubbock Fives Move Up In Tournament

ANTON, Dec. 29 (Special)—First round winners in the independent tournament here Wednesday night were Reese Air Force base, Lubbock Barber college, Thomas Tinkers and Levelland's Mason Ramblers.

Second round play tonight matches Reese Air Force vs. Barber college at 6:30 o'clock; Anton American Legion vs. Spade in the second game; Thomas Tinkers vs. Levelland in the third game; and Morton vs. Plains Ice Cream in the nightcap.

Coach Nabbed Doak For SMU

DALLAS, Dec. 29 (AP)—H. N. (Rusty) Russell, backfield coach of Southern Methodist, was the reason Doak Walker didn't go to Texas but instead became All-America at S. M. U.

This is revealed in Walker's story of his life, a copyrighted feature now appearing in the Dallas Times Herald.

Walker told in today's chapter how, while in the maritime service, he went to New Orleans to get shipping orders. But the orders never came—it seemed the maritime service had more radio men than it could use.

Layne With Walker

Bobby Layne, former football teammate at Highland Park High school, who became a great player at Texas, was with Walker. "We couldn't see much use in hanging around New Orleans on a deal like that so we decided to withdraw and go to school," Walker said.

That week-end Southern Methodist played Tulane in New Orleans and Russell, Walker's and Layne's former coach at Highland Park, got them tickets to the game.

Talks With Coach

"I had decided I would go to Texas with Bobby," Walker said. "But when we got on the train that night, the S. M. U. squad was aboard and Coach Russell had a talk with me. I can't remember everything he said now, but it must have been pretty convincing because I decided to attend S. M. U. I think one of the factors in my decision was that I knew Coach Russell's style of play."

Three Entries For Tourney Announced

The 1950 Lubbock regional Golden Gloves boxing tournament, slated for Jan. 30-Feb. 3 at Texas Tech gym, today had three entrants—two in the novice class and one in the open class.

Robert L. Stice, 19-year-old open middleweight from Reese Air Force base, was the first fighter to submit an entry for next month's mitt meet. Stice, a member of the 3500 Medical group at RAFB, has had nine previous amateur bouts and won four, according to information on his entry blank.

Two other entries, both in the novice class, also were received Wednesday by tournament officials. Gilbert Garcia, 16-year-old Latin-American residing at 202 Ave. K, Lubbock, entered the featherweight division. Garcia competed in last year's Lubbock GG meet, winning one of his two bouts.

Kenneth Crawford, a 16-year-old residing at 606 Ave. B, Lubbock entered the lightweight division Crawford also has seen previous action here, winning a bout in last year's novice competition

Plans for the five-night regional tourney are progressing satisfactorily, officials said Wednesday. Ticket reservations for the event, jointly sponsored by The Avalanche-Journal and the Texas Tech Matador club, are now being accepted at the Tech athletic office.

Kansas Boys Held In Theft Of Auto

TEMPLE, Dec. 29. (AP)—Two 15 year-old Kansas boys were held by police today after a 100-mile-an hour automobile chase with officers.

The chase began when a filling station operator, suspicious of the youths, notified highway patrolmen, who tried to flag them for questioning.

The boys said they stole the 1949 model sedan in Hutchinson, Kans., Tuesday night and set out for Texas.

TEXAS LEADS ECONOMIC GROWTH

Sec. Sawyer's Report Shows Business Best In Southwest

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP) — Business conditions in the southwest have been termed "extremly good" and are expected to remain so in 1950.

Secretary of Commerce Sawyer made the report yesterday to the White House based on his personal inspection of th economic situation over the country.

The secretary reported:

"The southwest has been experiencing a period of economic growth reminiscent of the opening of the western frontier."

"The heart of this development is in Texas," he added:

"Striking testimony was provided in all of my meetngs there of what it has meant in terms of business conditions through the present year.

Recovered Rapidly

"The 1949 declines experienced in areas and business lines elsewhere appear to have been not nearly so noticeable in Texas, and recovery seems to have been achieved more rapidly.

"Indeed, numerous individual businessmen made reports to the effect that in many instances bank loans and debits, drugstore, restaurant, gasoline, automobile and peneral retail sales would run ahead of 1948 levels both in dollars and otherwise."

The only somber aspects of Sawyer's report on the southwest concerned the petroleum and livestock industries.

Large imports of oil from the Far East have forced cutback in domestic production, hitting independent operators in particular, he said, and lower livestock prices adversely affected ranchers.

Oklahoma Harder Hit

He reported the effects were felt more severely in Oklahoma than in Texas.

"Comments made to me on business conditions in Oklahoma indicate that, while the same general pattern described above has also been felt there, business conditions have conformed more closely to national trends," his report to John R. Steelman, assistant to the President, said.

"That situation was in part related to a lower volume of livestock sales, lower livestock prices and, thus, lower levels of farm income and stockyard and packing house employment than prevailed in 1936."

New Home

bock.

Mrs. Gibson was determined that a house should be provided. She was spurred in that determination by the belief that Mr. and Mrs. Mahon should have their own home, in view of his illness, and that Mrs. Mahon would need to stay home with her husband rather than work during his serious illness.

Organizations have indicated that food, medical supplies and perhaps clothing might be made available, she said, "but nothing I knew of could get shelter for them."

Rummage Sales Held

Two rummage sales were conducted by neighbors. They netted $168, which was placed in the building fund. A food sale was conducted. Neighbors provided the food and Mrs. Mahon sold it. The proceeds totaled $28.

Mrs. Mahon put $10—earnings from 40 hours of baby sitting—into the fund. Sometimes at night she takes care of babies. During the day, she cares for the baby of the daughter with whom she lives.

Mrs. Mahon also has sold rummage. She has said that if anyone has clothing they do not need, they may call her at 2-7369, and she will call for the clothing and sell it. She has had several requests for children's clothing.

Takes Charge Of Fund

Mrs. F. H. Bashore of 2711 N. Seventh, telephone 7623, became the treasurer of the group of neighbors, taking charge of contributions and earnings placed in the building fund.

Mrs. Gibson visited firms and individuals and received many gifts for the Mahon building fund. Five churches—Seventh Day Adventist, First Church of the Nazarene, Williams Memorial Nazarene and Myrtle Drive Baptist church in Lubbock and the First Church of the Nazarene at Texarkana—made gifts. Various firms and individuals have given money and building products and furnishings for the house.

About $400 additional money is needed, said Mrs. Gibson. "If I can get that, we may be able to squeeze on through."

The carpenters, electricians, bricklayers and plumbers unions have said they would donate labor.

The plumbing has been roughed in and fou..dation has been laid. Pumice blocks are to be laid Saturday. Efforts will be made to complete the house by Jan. 5, said Mrs. Gibson.

The house, which is being built at 806 University St. in Carter-Coffee addition, will contain four rooms.

Archie Wells, acting police chief, said a thorough investigation of the gambling situation turned up "no evidence of any kind."

The Clark county grand jury has been investigating a dice game in which the Club Savoy failed to pay off $47,000 of $67,000 in winnings. Spectators told police the dice used in the game turned up only sixes and eights.

Hock Talk

A. V. Womack, proprietor of a second hand store at 1208 Ave. F. was fined $75 in corporation court Wednesday on a charge of failure to keep proper records on second hand clothing. Police filed the charge against Womack after a negro informed officers that a suit of clothing recently stolen from him had been sold to the second hand dealer. Womack entered a plea of guilty.

Theft of two suits, a radio, a woman's purse, two fountain pens, a quantity of groceries and $3 in cash from the residence of E. P. Boyd of Idalou was reported to the sheriff's office Wednesday.

Theodore L. Houghton, 40, of Lubbock was fined $75 and county court costs on a plea of guilty of drunk driving, a judgment of County Judge Walter Davies showed.

Norman E. Downs, aviation electronics technician, third class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs L. E. Downs of Route 2, Anton, was recently graduated from the Aviation Electronics Technician school at the Naval and Air Technical Training Center, Memphis, Tenn.

Downs, who entered the naval service Sept. 10, 1948, received his recruit training at the Naval Training Center, San Diego, Calif.

Holiday visitors in the home of Dr. and Mrs. M. H. Benson, 1625 Avenue Y and Mrs. Ruby Bomar, 1110 Avenue O, were Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Spears of Brownfield, parents of the two women. A sister of the two, Mrs. Jesse Roberts, also of Brownfield, and her son, James, were visitors also.

Mrs. Charles L. Bomar, 1505 Avenue L, and son, Michael, flew to Pecos today to visit Mrs. Bomar''s parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Johnston, for a few days.

A little improvement was reported early today in the condition of Miss Helen Ray Gossett, 21, a registered nurse who was injured Christmas afternoon in an automobile accident about six miles north of Lubbock. Attendants described her condition as "fair."

The Men's brotherhood of Asbury Methodist church will attend a chicken dinner at 7:30 o'clock Friday night at the church. Paul Cates, layman in St. John's Methodist church who is director in the Northwest Texas conference for the Texas Methodist College day observance, will speak. Dale Elms is president of the brotherhood.

Burglary of the residence of E. M. Bilberry at 612 Ave. L early this week was reported to police late Wednesday. Taken, Bilberry said, were three pairs of trousers, a woman's watch and a pair of glasses. Total value was placed at $100.

A red two-wheel trailer was stolen several days ago from Alton Blewer of 2216 Fifth, Blewer reported Wednesday. It was taken from his back yard.

Theft of an automobile from Gaylord Kinard of Lubbock route 6 was under investigation of police today. The machine was identified as a 1949 four-door green Chevrolet sedan, license LJ 7301.

Mrs. L. E. Parsons, 2503 Twentyfourth, who has been ill for three weeks, is a patient at West Texas hospital, where she is reported to be convalescing satisfactorily.

Bond of $700 returnable Saturday was set for Brewster E. Dillard, 38, of 1200-block Sixteenth in connection with a pistol-carrying complaint, the sheriff's department said this afternoon. The charge grew out of a disturbance Wednesday night at a cafe in 1000-block Ave. H, arresting police said. A .32 pistol was seized in the case.

A youth service will be conducted at the Sabbath Eve service at 8 o'clock Friday night at Congregation Shaareth Israel, Twenty-third and Ave. Q. Robert Berger, student in the University of Texas who is spending the holidays from classes in Lubbock, will be the leader and Jackie Rosen, student in Texas Technological college, will assist in conducting the service. Rabbi Julius Kerman will deliver a sermon on "New Year's Resolutions."

MOST STOCKS ADVANCE

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (AP)—Late selling chopped down early gains in the stock market today.

Final prices, nevertheless, showed a clear majority of advances, almost all of them fractional.

Railroad stocks were in heavy demand most of the day but slowed down toward the close.

The overall rise was enough to boost the general price level to a new 1949 high and a mere trifle below the 1948 top.

The rails came to life with a bang yesterday when advances ran to an extreme of 4 points.

Heavy trading accompanied today's rise. Turnover for the full session approached 2,000,000 shares, or close to the best level of the year.

Among the gainers were Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Pennsylvania R. R., Rock Island, Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, American Telephone, Commonwealth Edison, Phelps Dodge, Westinghouse Electric, Philip Morris, and Johns-Manville.

Consolidated Edison was a soft spot with a loss of 1½ points at one time.

Railroad issues moved up smartly in the bond market. U. S. governments held steady in over-the-counter dealings.

Higher in the curb were Le Tourneau, Pancoastal Oil, Salt Dome Oil, and Cities Service. Losers included Pacific Gas & Electric 6 preferred, Universal Consolidated Oil, and Lone Star Gas.

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (AP)—Cotton futures were steady today in quiet trading. Mill and export buying met only limited hedging and profit taking. Some buying was influenced by a prospective tightening in spot cotton supplies next year as more cotton accumulates in the government loan. Traders also felt that current market prices for middling 15/16 inch cotton are 1¾ cents a pound under the likely government selling price for its cotton stocks.

Cotton futures advanced into new high ground for the day as aggressive trade covering of a year-end nature developed in late dealings. All deliveries, except new May, established new season's highs.

Futures closed 25 to 85 cents a bale higher than the previous close.

Grain Market

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, Dec. 29 (AP)—Wheat No. 1 hard, 2.38-43.

Oats No. 2 white 93½-96¼.

Corn No. 2 white 1.62-64, nominal.

Sorghums No. 2 yellow milo, per 100 lbs. 2.45-50.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Dec. 29 (AP)—Grain futures generally were firm today, with a lot of dipping and bouncing above and below the previous close. Gains or losses were confined to fractions most of the time.

Soybeans were weak early, then advanced a little, then turned downward in scattered selling, and then climbed again.

Buying of grains was influenced by favorable export news in corn and oats. Wheat received some support because of the tight cash situation in the northwest and southwest, and also on reports of unfavorable moisture conditions in parts of Kansas and Oklahoma.

Wheat closed ⅜ to ¾ higher than the previous finish, March $2.17⅜-¾, corn was ⅛ up to ½ down, March $1.31⅜-½, oats were ¾ to 1½ higher, March 72½, rye was ⅛ lower to ½ higher, May $1.41½-¾, soybeans were up ½ to 1, March $2.29¼-½, and lard was 3 to 12 cents an hundred pounds higher, January $10.60.

Couple In California Will Complete 70 Years Of Married Life New Year's Day

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Dec 29 (AP) —Imagine being married to one man for 70 years.

Mrs. Bennett Dumbar Perkins doesn't think it's anything to make a fuss about.

On New Year's day, it will be 70 years since she and Mr. Perkins were married in the seaside town of their births, Castine, Me.

There wasn't, in Mrs. Perkins' words, "any fuss or feathers about it then," and there isn't going to be now.

Trips Not In Vogue

She is 88 and her husband, retired contractor and apartment house owner, is 91.

When they were married Rutherford B. Hayes was president of the United States.

Folks in Castine didn't go in for fancy weddings.

"Honeymoon trips weren't in vogue either," she said. "The bridegroom just took his bride to the home he had prepared for her."

She recalled that her husband carried her over the threshold of his family home on Perkins street, Castine, which is now 100 years old and still as sturdy as the day it was built.

Pictures Ruled Out

Their wedding carriage was "horse and buggy with the dog underneath."

Mr. and Mrs. Perkins consider themselves newcomers to California. They came her 40 years ago from Castine.

She ruled out any ceremony or picture taking in connection with the anniversary and was put out a little that her son, Burr Perkins of San Diego, had leaked the news. He backed his mother in favor of a quiet anniversary, explaining that his father's heart wouldn't permit excitement.

The couple had one other son, now deceased.

RETAIL SALES REPORTED HIT

Excise Tax Slash By Congress Seen

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29—Prospects increased today that Congress will reduce excise taxes next year.

Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer reported to President Truman last night that he is convinced that the excise taxes are "very seriously" hurting retail sales.

Sawyer said he considers that the taxes on furs, jewelry, luggage and admissions are harmful.

Prospects Are Good

However, his report said that business prospects for the immediate future are good, if taken with "well-tempered optimism."

Sawyer's report was seen as a prod to Mr. Truman to beat the Republicans to the gun and make a presidential request for excise tax reduction after Congress goes back to work next week.

Republicans, and some influential Democrats, want the excise taxes reduced, or in some cases repealed. Some of Mr. Truman's congressional lieutenants have urged him to take the lead in asking for moderate reductions.

House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin, jr., of Massachusetts, fears that Mr. Truman will offer reduction of such taxes as "bait" to increase personal and corporate income taxes.

Face Deficit Spending

The government will go into the red an estimated $5,500,000,000 this fiscal year, and is faced with deficit spending next year. Rep. J. Aime Forand, R. R. I., member of the tax-writing House ways and means committee believes the budget could be balanced without new taxes by plugging existing laws and forcing "tax dodgers" to pay up.

Sawyer's 15,000-ward report to the White House was the result of a six months survey of the country. He travelled 15,000 miles and talked to 3,000 businessmen and 1,000 labor representatives.

The report, he emphasized, contained their recommendations, not his. He said businessmen, labor and government officials in all sections believed "that our economy is essentially sound."

"I was given the impressive evidence that the declines experienced during the first half of the year were natural and necessary adjustments from the high inflationary levels of 1948," he said.

Sawyer added that the readjustment was almost complete by fall, although the process was "unfortunately interrupted by the coal and steel strikes."

nearby parking lot to serve beakers of milk to celebrants, and if necessary, carry them safely home.

The Waldorf-Astoria plans to have 10 dining rooms and cocktail bars open, with a maximum dinner-and-music charge of $18, plus tax.

At the bumptious Copacabana, the levy will be $15 to $25, depending on the table location. The menu calls for filet mignon, and Jimmy Durante.

The Hotel Astor, with two orchestras for the evening, posted a general $10 price tag.

At Cerutti's club, on Madison avenue, the management will stop the show at 1 a. m. to serve all patrons with a "hangover stew"—an oyster, milk and paprika concoction.

Carnegia hall will open at 9 p. m. with a variety program including comedians Morey Amsterdam and Myron Cohen, and the Cuban singer, Diosa Costello. The show will end at 1 a. m., but "as an added attraction" the bar will remain open.

New York state laws bans the serving of drinks after 3 a. m., and no concessions are made for toasting the new year past that hour.

candidates and their families followed.

Orange bowl committeemen were quick to deny the accusations. Orange Bowl Chairman Dan Mahoney could not be reached for a statement and neither could th eeditor of the paper. Ernie Seiler, general manager of the Orange bowl festival, had no comment.

Duke Jordan, public relations director for the Orange bowl, denied it was a stacked contest.

"It was not in the bag for this girl," he said. "It was pretty well decided in the judges' mind who the winner was going to be, but there was always a chance other circumstances might arise."

He insisted the final judging was influenced by applause for the 38 finalists along the parade route in Coral Gables before the coronation ball.

The protesting candidates said "a majority" of the finalists would sign a petition and present it to the Orange bowl committee.

The girls said they weren't mad at the queen, but were mad because they had been assured they still were in the contest until the queen was announced.

Those protesting included Ellen James, Barbara Erikson, Joy Redmon, Betty Baucom, Ann Meyer and Cathy Blakley.

ered by insurance. Six policies so far located total $20,500.

Reports Investigated

Meanwhile, officials were attempting to track down several reports, including one that two men were seen jumping off the lumber shed building shortly before the fire started, and that a street-marker flare wrapped in newspapers had been thrown into a car owned by Monroe Dunn and parked at 1119 Eighteenth street.

A fence in the vicinity of Eighteenth and Ave. K also was reported afire about the same time the lumber blaze started. It was extinguished by firemen. Five other small blazes in the vicinity were reported.

L. H. McLarty, one of the lumber yard owners, made an early estimate of $25,000 to $30,000, but added that it might run higher. Other stockholders are Otis J. Felty and Aline McLarty. The lumber yard has been at the location since April 1, 1938.

New Location Necessary

McLarty said today the business would continue to operate on a limited scale at its present location. Last night he said the fire would force the lumber yard to move to a new location to rebuild because of city fire zoning ordinances.

Flames leaping from lumber storage bins reached more than 100 feet into the air at the height of the blaze, lighting up an area of several blocks.

The blaze was visible all over Lubbock, and the Lubbock Weather bureau at Municipal airport, five miles north of the city, reported the glow was seen clearly there.

Residents north and east of the lumber yard were asleep when the fire broke out, but all fled to safety.

Bonnie Thompson and Mary Burnett, who room at 1812 Ave. K, said they were awakened by flames about 11:30 p. m. and tried to call the fire department but found the line busy.

Garage Damaged

Owners of the house, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Jones, were not at home when the fire began. Only fire damage was to the rear end of the garage, but flames threatened to break across the alley before the roaring blaze was brought under control.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. West of 1811 Ave. L, directly north of the back end of the burning lumber yard, said they were awakened by three men who stormed onto the front porch and attracted their attention.

They said 15 or 20 men helped move out their furniture and load it onto lumber trucks that had been driven from the yard by two of the airmen who first discovered the blaze.

Furniture Broken

Severe water and smoke damage was done to the house, which is owned by the lumber company. Several pieces of furniture were broken in the hurry-up job of moving.

Bruce Barrier, who lives with his mother, Mrs. Clifton Barrier at 1213 Eighteenth street, also north of the lumber yard, estimated water damage and breakage to their home and furnishings at $1,000.

Barrier, his mother, and sister, Margaret, had gone to bed and were awakened by the fire about 11:30 p.m., he said. Taking a garden hose, Barrier climbed to the roof of his house and sprayed water to keep the house from burning.

About 30 men helped the Barrier's move all their furniture into the front yard, but water from firemen's hoses so soaked the house that it will have to be entirely re-decorated, he said. Parts of the house were less than six months old.

Mrs. Barrier said her son's billfold, containing $100, disappeared after it was left on top of a dresser. Mrs. Barrier also was looking for her silverware, which she hoped was somewhere around.

Airmen Move Trucks

The five airmen who discovered the fire, telephoned the alarm and moved two trucks from the yard where Sgt. Glenn Milam of Austin, Sgt. Frank Watson of Oklahoma City, S/Sgt. D. C. Carroll of Alexandria, La., Sgt. Everett Stull of Frederick, Md., and Sgt. R. P. Anderson of Minnesota.

Milam and Watson ran into the lumber yard and found flames pouring from a center shed in the rear of the yard. Milam drove one truck through the west gate of the yard, knocking it down. Watson drove the other truck behind him.

Carroll, Anderson and Stull went to telephone the fire department. Milam said they were returning to RAFB, driving along Nineteenth street, when they spotted the fire.

Treated For Burns

Milam was later treated at Lubbock Memorial hospital for second degree burns on his left hand. He said he burned his hand on the hot steering wheel of the truck.

At least four cars parked on the Faulkner Motor Co. used car lot at 1202 Nineteenth street, east of the lumber yard, were partially burned. Paint was burned off the rear of the cars and there was some water damage. There were approximately 16 cars on the lot.

Several men pushed away the four cars nearest the alley beside the lumber yard. Joe Ed Wright and J. C. Wicker, whose addresses were not learned, were among those moving cars. Wright received first and second degree burns on his hands in moving the cars.

Flights Halted By Heavy Fog In Area

A heavy fog blanket over much of the South Plains halted airline operations in and out of Lubbock and made highway travel hazardous this morning.

Fog that moved in a 6:55 a. m. reduced visibility to one-sixteenth of a mile and ceiling to zero most of the morning. By 10:30 a. m. the ceiling was only 100 feet at Municipal airport.

The fog was reported by airplane pilots to extend as far as Abernathy on the north, Big Spring on the South and Spur on the east.

By 11:30 a. m. both commercial airliners and private airplanes resumed flights at the airport.

Some light rains were reported at Carlsbad, N. M., and Big Spring, but no precipitation had been seen on the South Plains. There were indications that the area would receive light drizzles tonight, however.

Eastern New Mexico was clear to partly coludy this morning.

Very light showers were considered likely in the South Plains area during the afternoon, said Melton Connell, observer at the Lubbock Weather bureau station.

No important temperature changes were forecast.

ments have declared that the officials of the International Telephone and Telegraph company in jail have confessed to police they were guilty of spying and plotting sabotage. They are Robert Vogeler, American, and Edgar Sanders, British, both of whom were arrested with the Hungarian manager of the company, Imre Geiger, in November.

"Foreign imperialists have been using the owners and leaders of these undertakings (companies)," Geroe said, "to build up espionage rings and prepare sabotage actions."

He said such activities had been going on in the Hungarian subsidiary of the Standard Oil company (Maort) and the Standard Electric works, both of which were included in today's nationalization decree.

Others nationalized included the Hungarian branches of Shell Oil company, Vacuum Oil company, Standard Oil company, the Dutch-owned Phillips Radio company, the Swiss-owned Brown-Boveri Electric works and various textile factories.

ANDREWS, Dec. 29 (Special)— Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. today in the First Baptist church of Denver City for Billy Verne Mitchell, 19, a student of Texas Tech, who was killed near here at 5:30 p. m. Wednesday in an oilfield truck mishap.

Condition of Brady Leneman, 38, of Denver City, his companion at the time of the accident, was meanwhile reported as improving at Andrews County hospital here this morning.

Rig Breaks Loose

Mitchell was crushed to death about 14 miles north and east of here Wednesday when a jackknife drilling rig being hauled on the trailer of the truck he was driving broke loose from its moorings and crashed the car after loose dirt in the road stopped the vehicle. He was dead upon arrival at the hospital.

Officials of the Singleton Funeral home in Seminole, where the body was taken, said the Denver City services this morning will be followed by rites in Odessa at 2:30 p. m. Friday. Mitchell's parents who now reside in Denver City, were originally from Odessa.

Mitchell's death marks the 106th tor the South Plains area during the year, 15 more than was predicted by the State Highway patrol in January.

Man Thrown Clear

Leneman, who was thrown clear of the cab at the time of the accident, was reported in "good" condition this morning by attendants at the hospital. He is resting fairly well, they said, despite a broken clavical, thumb and finger on the left hand, and numerous cuts and bruises.

Mitchell, a sophomore in the division of engineering at Texas Tech, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Mitchell, of Seminole. He and Leneman were working for the S and G Trucking company of Denver City. The accident happened in a company truck.

The mishap occurred in the Shafter Lake region on a county road about eight miles west of State Highway 51 between Seminole and Andrews. The road joins State Highway 51 about six miles north of Andrews. The oil community of Frankel City is about two miles west of the accident scene.

Ed Van Zant of Andrews, an oil field worker, was behind the truck when the accident occurred. He reported it to Sheriff F. E. Peacock and Deputy Sheriff John Suggs, who then investigated.

Sheriff's officer said the road on which the accident happened is being repaired by road crews.

Victim's Chest Crushed

A Singleton Funeral home ambulance from Andrews was sent out to get Mitchell's body. The driver said Mitchell had suffered a crushed chest, and that both legs and arms had been broken. He was dead upon arrival at the hospital.

Rev. Clifford Harris, pastor of the Denver City Baptist church, will officiate at funeral services for Mitchell this morning. Rev. C. T. Aly of Tahoka will officiate at the Odessa services, to be held in the Belmont Baptist church there. Burial will be in Odessa cemetery under direction of the Singleton Funeral home in Seminole.

Besides his parents, Mitchell is survived by two sisers, Dorothy Jean and Linda Kay, both of Denver City.

the east coast of Asia.

The Russians themselves have volunteered no explanation.

All 15 of the Soviet ships reported in the area over the past 30 months are said to be part of the reparations demand from Finland by Russia after the war. All are new 328-ton schooners, 125 feet long.

Aside from supplies needed on the trip they carry no cargo. Those which appeared last year had salt aboard for ballast; the present trio is using rock.

These three stopped in Plymouth, England, and left there Nov. 17.

The captain of the Peramutr is M. Moriacov, who was chief mate on the Globus, which visited St. Thomas on Jan. 28, 1949. There is evidence indicating that some members of the crews also have made more than one trip.

Demos To Start 18th Straight Year In Control Of Presidency

By D. HAROLD OLIVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29—The Democratic party soon starts its 18th successive year in the presidential driver's seat. Its top men show no worry about being stopped.

President Truman and Vice President Barkley take the view that the party can go on winning provided it conducts an unrelenting fight for the prinicples for which it stands. They see the country continuing to prosper, and know that prosperity is usually good for the 'ins."

Danger Signals Raised

Southern Democrats, long a road block to program achievement but surmountable at national election time, are raising danger signals over federal spending, "Socialistic" tendencies, and civil rights. But even they do not see the party breaking up as some Republicans would have it.

And even some Southern Democrats are beginning to hit back at men like James F. Byrnes, one of the first to warn te party against a trend toward what he called "statism," or too much power in the government. Compromises, too, may be in the offing on some intra-party issues.

On the whole, Democratic leaders are confident about the party's future, but caution against resting on past achievements.

The degree of success or failure of the party's program in the coming session of Congress may well be reflected, in some measure at least, in the 1950 congressional elections.

Tradition Fought

Ordinarily the opposition party makes inroads on—and sometimes overturns — congressional majorities of the other party in non-presidential elections. For example, the Republicans pickd up 80 seats in the House in 1938, 47 in 1942, and 54 in 1946. They also gained 6, 9, and 12 Senate seats in those years.

Democratic campaign strategists, however, say their party can upset tradition and knock off a few more Republicans next year for a net gain of about three in the Senate and from 20 to 25 in the House.

Here's the way William M. Boyle, jr., chairman of the Democratic national committee, sizes up the 1950 picture:

"The Democratic party will face in 1950 a challenge of unusual importance for a non-presidential election year.

"That is because the forces who thought they were going to defeat Harry S. Truman and elect a Republican Congress in 1948 have decided to make an all-out onslaught on the fair deal in the congressional elections next fall.

Barkley Goes All Out

"They will have one of the largest non - presidential year campaign funds in history. They will have an elaborate publicity machine and they will seek to avoid their mistakes of 1948.

"They will have nearly 100 per cent backing from the newspapers. But they will not have a constructive program that will appeal to the American people.

"If the Democratic precinct workers can repeat the job of going direct to the voter with the issues which affect him and his family, as they did in 1948, I'm confident that the Democratic majorities in the Congress will be strengthened in 1950."

Vice President Barkley was a seven-league boot jump ahead of Boyle in the realm of prediction recently.

"It is my candid judgment," he said, "that the American people in 1950, and 1952, and throughout the years of the future will confirm overwhelmingly their satisfaction with the contribution we are making to the general welfare of our own people and to the peace of the world."

Byrd Issues Warning

Who will be the party's presidential candidate in 1952 is anybody's guess. Some crystal gazers see a Truman-Barkley repeater ticket, despite their ages. Truman will be 68 and Barkley 75 by November, 1952.

It is from the northern corner of the southern wing of the party that the loudest warning comes. Senator Byrd of Virginia cries out that the nation "is on the march to Socialism."

"The deficit financing of federal programs in time of peace," he says, "is piling up a federal debt to proportions in which the liberties of free enterprise cannot survive."

Byrd terms 1950 "the year of crisis." He says Congress faces the choice of cutting federal expenditures by $7,500,000,000, raising taxes about thta much, or trodding along "the economic primrose path of indefinite deficit financing." He's wholeheartedly against te latter two alternatives.

Senator Lucas of Illinois, the majority floor leader, says he hates deficit financing as much as Byrd. But he adds that if it's a choice between doing that to strengthen chances for peace or running the chance of engaging in an atomic war, he would prefer the "risk of deficit financing."

Catch Words Overused

One southerner who apparently is becoming fed up with the definition of his party program as the "welfare state," is Senator Russell of Georgia. In a recent speech in Atlanta, he said:

"Let us not become unduly alarmed by catch phrases. All of government is designed for the welfare of the people. I am not for socialism, but some people brand every new idea as socialistic. We are moving in a world of supersonic speed and we cannot afford not to try new things. We must not be deterred from going forward with government as well as with private enterprise every time someone shouts 'socialism.'"

Another southerner, Senator Sparkman of Alabama, recently asserted that the split in Democratic ranks over civil rights will not sabotage the party's entire legislative program.

"We're all Democrats, and we're going to stay Democrats," he said. 'Any fight we might have won't draw the southerners into a coalition with the Republicans."

Shortage Of Skilled Workers In Printing Industries Forecast

DALLAS, Dec. 29 (AP)—A serious shortage of skilled workers faces the printing industry, the president of the Southwest School of Printing says.

E. W. Jackson of Austin thinks the way to remedy the situation is for the International Typographical union to liberalize its apprentice restrictions; printing shops to take on more apprentices, and more schools of printing established.

Jackson and other officers and directors of the Dallas school of printing met here yesterday for the annual meeting.

Jackson said that "at the rate we are going now, every working printer will have to remain on the job until he is 86 years old if we are to replace the labor force without reduction."

School Plans Expansion

He added that's "an obviously absurd thought, but it's an honest picture of the situation."

Jackson predicted that the Southwest School of Printing's courses would soon be expanded to include teletyping, stereotyping and offset printing. It now teaches linotype, hand composition and press work.

Jackson was re-elected president of the school; E. M. (Ted) Dealey, publisher of the Dallas News, vice-president, and Bryan Snyder, jr., Dallas, secretary-treasurer.

New directors named were Vern Sanford, Austin; G. J. Bauhens, Houston; James C. Cockrell, Oklahoma City; C. J. Ellis, Tyler, R. B. Goddard, Waco, and Dewitt Nelson, Austin.

Child Slated For Normal Life After Unusual Operation

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Dec. 29 (U.P.)—Sandy Kaplan, the "miracle baby," passed her first birthday yesterday and her mother predicted today that she would live a normal life.

Six months ago Sandra underwent a rare heart operation that was credited with saving her life. The operation relieved pressure on her esophagus, which at times became so great it choked her.

"The condition caused her to blackout—to stop breathing," said Mrs. Bernard Kaplan, the child's mother. "For six months we lived in a nightmare. Few doctors had ever diagnosed the condition, let alone how to treat it."

The baby was finally brought to Dr. Richard Sweet of Boston, who performed the operation.

"The baby is perfectly well now," Mrs. Kaplan said. "She shows no signs of strain and is husky and healthy. She walks, says 'mama' and 'dadda' and breathes normally. We were told that if she got by her first birthday she would be all-right."

Wire Recordings Are Used In Court Cases

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. Dec. 29. (U.P.)—Drivers suspected of drunkenness are performing by wire recorder of Judge Edward G. Burleson.

Burleson ruled that conversations recorded from drunk-driving suspects just after they are arrested can be introduced as evidence in his court.

The judge did not specify any particular tests, such as traditionally tongue-twisting "Peter Piper."

Baptist Church Never Part Of Catholic Setup, Leader Says

DALLAS, Dec. 29 (U.P.)—Dr. C. Oscar Johnson, president of the Baptist World alliance, declared today that Baptists could never "come back to the Catholic church because we were never a part of it."

It was the Baptist leader's answer to an offer Pope Pius XII made to non-Catholics last week, urging a return to "the one true church" in a union against militant atheism.

The St. Louis pastor countered with an invitation of his own to Catholics, proposing that they become "free followers of Jesus Christ and our way of believing."

Johnson was here for the Southern Baptist convention's Sunday school conference, ending tomorrow.

Skirting queries on whether the Baptist theology is that of "the one true church," the 63-year-old clergyman said, "the Baptist church comes closer to the New Testament than the others."

In a technical sense, he said, Baptists are not Protestants. Some authorities, he pointed out, insist that John, a disciple of Jesus, was the original Baptist.

In a speech yesterday, Johnson delivered an indirect rebuff to proposals for union of all Protestant faiths.

"Better Bible teaching produces unity, but not necessarily union," he said.

Banker Builds Boat In Residence Yard

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., Dec. 29. (U.P.)—A novice boat builder here hardly can wait for next year's cruising season to open on the Mississippi River.

At that time Okey Miller hopes to launch "Miller's Folly," a 35-foot houseboat he built in his spare time in his backyard.

Miller, vice president of the Stockyards National Bank here, laid the keel of the craft four years ago. Since then he has completed the general construction. This winter Miller wilgl install a 50-horsepower gasoline engine in the boat, which then will be ready to move from its backyard-drydock in the spring.

Miller drew the patterns for the craft on his basement wall. He estimates that he has spent some $2,000 for material so far. The banker used oak, walnut and cypress in the construction.

Tots Promise Not To Play Postman Again

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 29 (U.P.) — Two little boys promised today they would stick to cowboy and indian games. From now on, playing postman is out.

Postal Inspector Virgil Nidiffer got a hunch yesterday while he watched the boys, one 5 and the other 4 years old, playing around mail boxes from which a $71 government check and seven fountain pens had been stolen.

He questioned the boys, and they admitted the had tired of playing cowboy and indian and turned to playing postman. They "delivered" the mail to other boxes, they said.

The inspector learned that the check had been destroyed, but he could find no trace of the pens.

Private Milestones Change Human Lives

World Events Not Remembered As Readily As Personal Ones

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK—Most people would rather look backward than forward for a very simple reason. It is easier to remember where you're going.

Everybody now is taking a reminiscent gander back at the last 50 years—some fondly, some sadly.

And it's a popular pastime to debate what were the most significant events of the 20th century up to now. But there ought to be two such lists. One would have such impersonal things on it as the invention of the airplane or the atom bomb—undoubted landmarks in the progress of the human race.

Life Pattern Changes

But each man also has had the pattern of his life changed by little personal milestones, small events in the continuing story of mankind but of standout importance to himself.

I remember 1924 as the year the Gilda Gray of our seventh grade threw me over for a taller boy, and I made a mental note that there must be something you can trust more than women.

(Editor's note: What?)

(Boyle's note: Don't rush me—I'm still looking.)

There was a day I thought "I'll never learn to swim," but I kept on until I did. And 18 years later that day paid off. One of Gen. Patton's landing craft hit a coral reef, and I had to paddle the last 50 feet to Africa.

Little Events Count

And there was the day I came home from university and told my mother there were some students whose families did more for them than mine. She broke into tears, and I knew what it must be to sacrifice for a child and have it turn out both dumb and ungrateful. I would have given my arm to unsay what I had said.

You have your own list, too. What's on it? But isn't it true that it's the little events few others remember that made the biggest noise in your life? The large events did make our century — it's the small ones that bent us to the shape we are.

Baby Sitters Called Child Monitors Now

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28 (AP) — The U. S. Employment Service office here has started to handle placement of baby-sitters.

But of course, being a government agency, it couldn't call them anything as simple as baby-sitters.

They're "child monitors" on the job register.

Betty Lou Marbury's Faith Unshaken By Amputation Of Hand Prayers Didn't Save

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 29. (AP) —Betty Lou Marbury, a 10-year-old picture of courage and faith, lay resting today from an operation that took her diseased right hand.

She had hoped the prayers of the nation would save it, but she gave it up with the firm belief it was "the will of God."

The cute little Brownsville, Tenn., farm girl's condition was described as good. She was being attended by three special nurses.

The amputation, necessary to save her life, was done yesterday. A malignant bone tumor was the cause of the plucky youngster's trouble.

Doctors here and in Boston were consulted before it was decided that to remove the hand, between wrist and elbow, was imperative to keep the malignancy from spreading.

Greets Her Parents

Betty's childish faith didn't waver before or after the operation, which came nearly a month after she wrote a letter to the Commercial Appeal asking the nation's prayers that she wouldn't have to lose the hand.

After shaking off the effects of the anesthetic, Betty greeted her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clay Marbury, and the hospital chaplain, the Rev. F. P. Loman, with one of her typical smiles.

Loman said her spirit and simple faith throughout the ordeal could "be an example to the nation."

She was calm from the time her father told her it was necessary to amputate. She expressed her attitude in these words:

"If the Lord wants my hand, that's all right with me."

Phone Strike Talks Underway

Five Governors Meet On Issue

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 29. (U.P.)—Governors of five states and a representative from another met with labor-management officials today in an effort to forestall the threatened Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. strike.

Besides Missouri Gov. Forrest Smith, who arranged the conference, other state executives on hand included Governors Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, Sid McMath of Arkansas, Frank Carlson of Kansas and Roy J. Turner of Oklahoma.

State Labor Commissioner M. B. Morgan represented Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas.

Governor Optimistic

In Jefferson City, Mo., yesterday, Smith said the six-state parley may result in the establishment of an arbitration board for settlement of the impending walkout of 50,000 CIO communications workers.

The governor appeared optimistic about chances of ending the wage dispute between Bell and the union He noted that both sides were "very anxious to get the thing settled and would lean over backwards to do so."

Smith added that conferees at today's session "hope to set up the machinery for taking care of differences so there can be no strike."

A similar meeting called by the Missouri executive paved the way for eventual settlement of the recent Missouri railroad strike through arbitration.

Union Agreeable

Vice President Frank P. Lonergan of the union's division 20 said his group was in favor of arbitration as a means of settling any of all the issues.

A company spokesman declared Bell was adopting a wait-and-see attitude on any arbitration proposal that the governors may make at the conference.

JOAN PROUTY

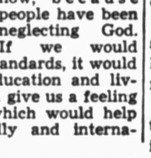

THE QUESTION

What improvements would you like to see nationally or internationally in 1950?

THE ANSWERS

CHARLIE GALLIMORE, 2120 Ninth, salesman for Keeton Packing Co.: "There are a lot of things I would like to see come true in 1950. I think that most of all, I would like to see us as a nation get the Russian situation settled in a peaceful way; this I think could be done with cooperation among the friendly nations of the world."

DEWEY HESTER, 1115 Thirty-fourth, coin machine operator: "As far as the country is concerned, I would like to see a more peaceful and God-loving world. Co-operation between the different nations. I believe, would help this.. If people would forget some of their selfishness, too, it would help."

REV. PAUL VAUGHT, Waco, minister of Irene Baptist church: "Personally I would like to see people find the true value of their lives and live accordingly. Nationally I would like to see the moral standards raised; I think it is so low now, because people have been neglecting God. If we would raise our moral standards, it would also boost our education and living standards and give us a feeling of brotherhood which would help us both nationally and internationally."

W. J. WOOD, 1404 Fourteenth, fruit stand operator: "I would like to see the United Nations settle their difficulties more peacefully. I would also like to see the economic and national political problems settled and get back to normal."

JOE BURCH, Levelland, mechanic: "I would like to see the various arguments of the world settled more peacefully and without another war. I believe that this could be one, too, if people would just make up their minds."

W. R. SMOOT, 123 N. College, conductor for Santa Fe Railway: "I would like to see labor and management get together in 1950. I would like for them to have a better understanding with each other. I think that this could be done if a more efficient mediation board were set up."

Mexican Gets Scared By Ninth Fired Shot

TAMPICO, Mexico, Dec. 29 (U.P.) —Plutarco River asked police today for protection.

For the ninth day in a row, he said, someone has tried to shoot him from the mountain behind his farm.

"They never come close," Plutarco said, "but I think someone is after me."

Chas. Brickley Claimed At 58

NEW YORK, Dec. 29. (AP) — Charlie Bickley of Harvard, one of the greatest drop kickers in American football history, died from a heart attack last night at the age of 58.

He was twice an All-America halfback—in 1913 and 1914—and in his three years for the Crimson set records that have never been surpassed.

In the 1913 Yale game, at the height of the Crimson's football heyday, he kicked five field goals for Harvard's only scoring and a 15-5 victory.

Records Still Stand

Two of his records still stand. His 13 field goals in 1913 were the most ever kicked by a varsity player in a single season. He also held the over-all record of 34 goals out of 37 attempts for his three varsity years starting in 1911.

After graduating from Harvard he entered the brokerage business and in late years was an advertising salesman in New York.

His death was discovered last night when a friend at the George Washington hotel heard groans coming from Brickley's room and called the house doctor. They entered with a pass key and found the former grid star lying on the floor. He was pronounced dead by Dr. Alan Moody, ambulance surgeon from Bellevue hospital.

Ill For A Year

His son, Charles E. Brickley, jr., said his father had been ill for a year but would not give up work.

"He just wouldn't rest he wouldn't give up. . . . He was a champ right to the end," the younger Brickley said.

Father and son had appeared in Mid-Manhattan court yesterday to have charges of disorderly conduct against them dismissed.

Their arrests grew out of a football argument that turned into a fight at Reuben's restaurant, on Dec. 14.

Laughed It Off

Brickley took exception to the remark, and before it was over it took 10 policemen to subdue father

CALL FOR SESSION IS AWAITED

New Resources Tax Favored By Corbin

A natural resource tax appears to be the solution for financing the state's eleemosynary institutions in the approaching special session of the Texas Legislature, State Senator Kilmer B. Corbin said on a visit to Lubbock Wednesday.

Senator Corbin said he expected Gov. Allan Shivers to issue the call for the session during the latter part of January. Appropriation bills for operation and improvements for the eleemosynary institutions may be the only subject for which the governor will call the session, Corbin said.

"The way I see the problem right now," Corbin said, "is that the state is still trying to operate on approximately the same amount of funds it was operating on 10 and 15 years ago. And they just won't meet the state's needs."

Sees Five Alternatives

Corbin said he had made several trips to Austin in the past three months and from the talk with other members of the legislature, he surmises that one of five proposed solutions may be followed in the special session:

1. The recalling of the general appropriations bills passed by the Legislature in the past session, including departmental, eleemosynary and education bills, and cutting down on them to save money;
2. The levying of a state income tax;
3. A state sales tax;
4. An omnibus tax bill (endorsed by Gov. Shivers); and
5. A natural resources tax.

Cut Would Hit Here

The recalling and paring of the general appropriations bill would hit right here in our own district, Senator Corbin pointed out. Texas Technological college would probably be included in the cut of funds, which would work a great hardship on the school, he declared.

"I'm not against cutting some corners," Senator Corbin said, "but I couldn't be for the cut generally. If I had not wanted the bills as they now stand, I would not have voted for them."

A state income tax or sales tax would create too big a burden on the general public, Corbin believes.

Opposes Tax Program

"I have always been against both of them," he said.

An omnibus tax might be workable, Corbin said, but it would still increase the heavy burden on the public.

"The best solution, I believe, would be the levying of taxes of new resources which can absorb them," Corbin said. "The appropriation of money for the eleemosynary institutions is imperative because the late Gov. Beauford Jester vetoed the latter half of the operating expenses bill which the legislature passed," he said. "And we must raise additional funds to cover the expenses, so

IT WON'T be long now until the holiday decorations start coming down and we'll all settle back into the customary humdrum existence fairly typical for us all between each January 3 and December 15.

Most of us think of Christmas and the Yule season as being particularly for the kids and that they get the biggest kick of all out of the doings. But if Doc Gallup did some polling on the subject, it's our guess that he'd find that adults —if they'd admit it — get just as much pleasure and thrill out of the holidays as the youngsters, if not even more.

"Boys" and "girls" of 40, 50, 60 — even 80 — dislike seeing the trees hauled down, the greenery pulled from the mantels, the outdoor lights disappear. They probably dislike the dismanteling even more than the children do, because they understand that with the disappearance of holiday decorations, they must plunge back again into the hurly-burly of everyday existence; must forego the pleasures of the dream-world for another year.

Life is all checks and balances, but that doesn't make it any easier to realize that after Christmas joy must follow some compensating sorrow.

Maybe parking meters are good for something after all —good for something, that is, besides chiseling still another tax from the car owner.

Up in Canada last week a lady was doing her last minute Christmas shopping.

According to the Toronto Star, her efforts to get the job done were being hampered no end by her accompanying husband, who had started his holiday celebration a little early.

Finally, the exasperated wife propelled her alcoholic husband out of a store, pushed him to a parking meter. Then she buttoned his overcoat around the meter, dropped a coin in the slot and went about her business.

When she returned a half hour later, her uncomplaining husband was still firmly lashed to the meter — from which she freed him and took him home!

MOST OF us try hard to be nice to old people—go out of our way, in fact, to show them courtesy and attention. But do we sometimes make a mistake—and cause them sadness—by referring to their age?

A friend of ours was in the other day and was telling us about his mother. She's 93, chipper as a squirrel and with a mind as clear as a bell. Where she didn't used to object to inquiries about her age 15 years ago, she resents them now. And here's how she puts it:

"I don't mind anyone knowing I'm 80, 90, or 93. It isn't vanity that makes me resent references to my years. The trouble is, people say: 'Oh, you've been around a long time. I suppose you get lonely, since all your old friends are gone and there is none left with whom you have much in common.'

"That is true, of course," says our friend's mother, "but just because it is true doesn't make it pleasant to contemplate. I find that when people talk with me about my age, and about all my oldest friends being gone, I become depressed.

"That's why I don't like to tell people how old I am."

The lady in question has a good point and all of us will do well to remember it when next we are visiting with someone 'way up in years.

We may think we're being kind and pleasant to chat with old people about their age—even compliment them on having been around so long.

But if our remarks make them feel badly, then we'd do much better either to remain quiet, or confine our remarks to the weather!

YESTERDAY we reported here to Police Chief Lewis Kittrell a piece of good work done by his officers in making an arrest at the bus terminal. Today we have a report for him which is not so good—a report passed on to us by George F. Sooter, of Shallowater.

According to Mr. Sooter, two of his brothers—Woodrow, of El Paso, and Ted, of Monte Vista, Colo.—were here to spend Christmas with relatives. Inadvertently, they got into the wrong traffic lane at Broadway and Q, where a policeman gave them a verbal going over, instead of a courteous explanation. As a result, both men, says George Sooter, vowed to make reports to their hometown newspapers in order to give Lubbock some bad advertising.

All we know of the matter is what we got from George Sooter's letter. Chief Kittrell might check up with whatever officer was on duty at Broadway and Q at noon on Friday, Dec. 23—and then lecture all his traffic policemen once again on the subject of courtesy, especially with people who are not familiar with the newfangled traffic lights and lanes.

After the funeral, some friends of the family were talking.

"I feel awfully sorry for Mary and those three kids," said one. "After all, it's a tragedy for them to be left without husband or father at such an early age."

"Yeah," answered another, "that's right. But what did Mary expect? She knew John was a pedestrian when she married him!"

FOURTEEN months after two American servicemen were taken prisoner by Chinese Communists, the American State department has sent telegrams to their wives, in this country, telling them the men have been located.

At that rate, the State department, and the Truman administration as a whole, may be expected to get the men home by Jan. 1, 2000—provided, of course, they get the help they're begging for from 30 other nations.

BY DREW PEARSON: TWO AMERICAN ENLISTED MEN REMAIN IN HANDS OF COMMUNISTS

Nation To Make Sweeping Survey Of Water Supply

WASHINGTON—One American ambassador not likely to stay long at his present post is delightful, garrulous George Wadsworth, U. S. envoy to Turkey.

PEARSON

Wadsworth follows a schedule that runs his staff ragged. He plays bridge until after 3 a. m., gets down to his office about noon, goes out for golf right after lunch, sees callers at 6 p. m.

If an American businessman wants to see the ambassador, he is usually invited in at six, but finds so many other callers grouped around the martini tray that he can't discuss anything private.

What drives Wadsworth's staff really wild is his belief in strict protocol. He demands, for instance, that no one of lesser rank leave a dinner party until the top ranking guest has departed. And since the ambassador usually outranks everyone else, other guests have to twiddle their fingers until 3 a. m., until he gets up from the bridge table.

Once when a young matron, not in good health, tried to leave a party at midnight, Wadsworth put her in her place with: "Where are you going, darling?"

NOTE—A great admirer of the Arabs, Wadsworth's denunciation of the Jews is so vigorous it is embarrassing. When Arab dignitaries pass through Istanbul, he is a frequent visitor at the airport to greet them.

National Water Survey

The U. S. Public Health service will soon make a sweeping survey to determine the effects of water shortage and water pollution on the nation's health.

Federal health officials privately report that the lack of facilities to decontaminate river water — which most Americants drink—is shocking. A sudden breakdown of these subgrade facilities, they say, could lead to serious water shortages in other cities besides New York.

More than 10,000 new water-cleansing units are needed throughout the nation to decontaminate drinking water taken from rivers and bring it up to proper health and taste standards.

THOUGH the heat was taken off the Chinese Communists after Angus Ward's release, the State department is still trying to free two other Americans from Communist hands. They are Marine M/Sgt. Elmer Bender of Cincinnati, Ohio, and Navy Chief Electrician William Smith of Long Beach, Calif.

These men have already endured one icy winter in an underheated Chinese jail, but the public clamor in their behalf hasn't been loud enough to arouse the State department.

Believing, however, that two enlisted men are entitled to the same protection as one of the State department's own employees, this column has investigated the case of Bender and Smith. They disappeared on a routine training flight near Tsingtao, China, on October 19, 1948—one year and two months ago. Word reached the Navy over the Chinese grapevine on November 4 that they had landed in Communist territory, were alive and in good health. This was confirmed by additional reports on January 17 and March 22, 1949.

A Communist agent, representing the pair's captors, got in touch with the Navy later and offered to negotiate their freedom. He reported that Bender and Smith had been moved from Hsia Tien to Nan Tsun, China about February 15. The Navy delivered a written document, asking for their release, received an answer that the Navy would be put in touch with the "highest authorities." However, no further word came through, so the Navy turned the matter over to the State department. That began the series of notes to Chinese Communist oficials.

Finally Mrs. Smith on July 23, 1949, appealed to Congress.

"As the Navy has evacuated China, my husband has been left behind without supplies and medicine," Mrs. Smith pleaded. "I have never been able to correspond or send him supplies. I have two small children, one his father has never seen. My children need their father as I need him."

Can't Even Write Families

On August 4, Ernest A. Gross, assistant secretary of state, informed Congress:

"Our diplomatic and consular officials in China are doing everything possible to secure information concerning the welfare of Mr. Smith and Mr. Bender and to secure their return. A message just received from the American consul general at Pieping states that he has attempted further approach to the authorities there."

One month later, Goss promised again: "The matter is again being brought to the attention of the highest Chinese Communist authorities at Pieping."

Another month passed. On October 18, Goss reported sadly: "The consul at Tsingtao on October 10, 1949, addressed an informal memorandum to the local Communist authorities stressing the humanitarian aspects of the two cases. This approach was without satisfactory response from the local authorities who were 'instructed' to inform the consul that they no longer knew the whereabouts of Mr. Smith and Mr. Bender."

Latest word from the State department said: "On November 25, 1949, our consul general at Peiping sent a letter to Chou En-lai who is in charge of the foreign relations of the recently established Chinese Communist regime requesting that he cause an early investigation of the mafter to be made to the end that the men be permitted to communicate with their families regarding their personal welfare."

NOTE—What the State department is up against, of course, is the impossibility of sending armed force into China to rescue two men. However, it would seem that it should not have required a year to ask the Communist foreign minister that the men have the privilege of writing their families.

"Science will lead mankind into a better world." The atomic bomb has already done that for a lot of people.

It's His Baby And He's Stuck With It

BY ROBERT C. RUARK

"Research" By Writer Proves Hawaii Is Hard On Hangovers

KONA, Hawaii, Dec. 29.—In years past it has been our custom to treat briefly with the hangover, or skullbuster, a malady that is endemic in the mistletoe or God-rest-ye-merry season. It may be only imagination on my part, but it seems to me there are more hangovers around today than there used to be.

RUARK

This may be attributable to the increasing fondness for doushots of neat boze on the rocks, the dry Gibson, which is an onion immersed in clear gin, or the habit of clearing the head in the morning with a Bloody Mary, or vodka-cum-tomato juice.

The imminence of atomic destruction is used by some as an excuse for the ante-meridian flutters, but is scorned as a sign of feeble excuse for compulsive guzzling by the more valiant tosspots. Certainly the hangover has increased among members of the Republican party in the past 12 months, for natural and forgivable reasons, and is still rising in incidence among the rich, who see no surcease from taxes.

As the hangover mounts in frequency, it also richens in variation. We have discussed, previously, the common species of morning malaise, including the skull-throbber accompanied by delusions of mice in bed; the languid Sunday kind which packs a mental clarity of a superhuman octanage; the inability-to-let-anything-go type, in which one transfers handkerchiefs, cigaret packages, key rings and papers helplessly from one fist to the other, and of course the tinkling chimes of far distant elfin bells.

Guilt-Complex Blamed

The suicidal hangover is still with us, too—that being the one induced by mixing Manhattans, wine, brandy and Scotch whisky in the mistaken idea that alcohol is only alcohol and does not become more vehement by cross-breeding.

It seems to me that the guilt-complex hangover is still climbing steadily, or at least I am meeting more people with sheepish expressions and an air of general bewilderment over actions they may or may not have committed in a moment of exuberance the night before. This is especially true of the singing drinker, the dancing drinker, the dirty-joke-telling drinker, and the amorous, or garetr-snapping drinker.

HANGOVERS VARY according to locate. A contemporary has cited a pullman berth as the worst possible place to suffer from the screaming fantods; I will say that the ultra-modern, or airplane hangover, has it whipped. You are nailed to your seat. Babies scream and get sick in your vicinity. Your ears pop, your nose runs, and your eyes stream. You can't get off, nor are you allowed by the hostess to leaven the pain with a short helping of doghair. Your stomach squirms, because the pilot always waits until he has a hangover victim aboard before he searches out the rough air.

A London hangover is a frightful thing, when all the world is gray and still and the fog mingles with the dirt-filled air, the pubs are closed and every passer-by seems to have buck teeth and a disdainful mien.

Hawaiian Hangover Worst

But I do believe that a Hawiian hangover has London licked. The islands are full of sites, sights and sounds that are ordinarily wonderful to the senses. But after a bout involving okolehau, Scotch, hum and assorted fruit juices, they become repulsive.

The poison green of the shrubbery and the bichloride blue of the sky and sea smite the eyeballs painfully. The sun shimmers on the sands until black specks appear before the eyes. The pound of the surf becomes unbearably monotonous. The mynah birds scream and squawk like tortured sinners.

The victim is surrounded by myriad athletes being sunburned and vociferously healthy, a horrid contrast to his own plight. His head pounds to ukulele rhythm, his stomach does a slow ami-ami, or version of the hula, and songs like "kaulana o hilo hanakahi," which means "my island is bigger than your island," or "my brother can lick your brother" or some such, races in and out of the brain until reason reels.

You understand of course that this is non-subjective, but is the result of an amazing amount of reportorial research in my constant search for truth. Aloha oh, means I wish I was dead.

BY RUTH MILLETT: TO THE LADIES

The Feminine Viewpoint

WHEN the last child leaves home to strike out on his own a husband and wife ought to be able to look at each other and say: "Everything is fine. We still have each other—which is all we had when we began our marriage."

It's a tragedy when parents look at each other and think: "All we have is each other—and it isn't enough."

MILLETT

But it is tragedy of their own making.

Take this letter I received from a woman in her early 60s, for an example. She writes:

"My husband and I are both miserably unhappy since our last child moved to a distant city to live.

"How are people our age supposed to fill the gap left when their children are away from home leading such busy lives of their own they often aren't even conscientious about writing home?"

Starting in to fill the gap now will be hard. It should have been filled in gradually through the years. How?

By both the mother and father resisting the urge to live for and in their children.

IT ISN'T TOO LATE

BY both developing interests and activities outside the home.

By both remembering through the years that the most important relationship in a family is the relationship between husband and wife, and that if it is to be a rich, rewarding relationship in later years when the children are gone it must be constantly nourished through the years when the children are at home.

Of course, if that couple wants to be happy they can be—even yet. But it will take some doing. They'll have to make an effort to take part in the affairs of their community. To strengthen old friendships and build new ones. To put themselves out to encourage and share each other's interests. And, of course, to accept the fact that their children are gone for good and that they must rebuild their lives entirely independent of their children.

"Try And Stop Me"

THE NEW YORK debut of "Gorgeous George," a wrestler from Hollywood with more flair for publicity than a half Nelson or scissors hold, was not an unqualified triumph. "Gorgeous George" wears a blond wig and flossy dressing gown, and before he swishes into the ring, an attendant sprays the mat and the opponent with perfume.

New York press comments included, "It was a performance that should go far—we hope" (Tribune); "The Board of Health will certainly prevent this sort of thing in warm weather" (Mirror); "Gorgeous George weighed 205 pounds before the match, and the promoter about $1,500 less after it" (Times). The usually disdainful critic of the New Yorker, however, was more tolerant for once. He observed—and I agree with him, "Maybe all of us are glutted with tales of trials of Communists in Communist countries, a general recrudescence of damfoolishness."

A SOLUTION TO THE PROBLEM

State Rep. A. J. Kazen, of Laredo, told a special legislative Water Code committee a few days ago that one way to ease Texas water problems is to build a great many dams.

Unquestionably he is correct. The experts agree that about nine-tenths of the water which now falls in Texas winds up in the Gulf of Mexico without having done anyone the slightest good. Most of it could be conserved for a multitude of uses by dams at the right places.

True, such a program would involve enormous cost and would require many years for completion. But it is a job that must be attended to—and one which is sure to pay huge dividends.

Mr. Kazen's statement and the code committee's investigations indicate progress toward the actual performance of this vitally necessary job.

FUTURE COURSE OF POLITICAL PARTY DEBATED

Republicans Agreed On Making Government's Spending Policy Prime Issue In 1950 Ballot

By JACK BELL
Associated Prss Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dc. 29 — Republican leaders seemed agreed today on making the Truman administration's spendng policies one of their chief issues of the 1950 campaign.

That was the one suggestion that croppd up most often in an analysis of current and recent statements by GOP bigwigs on the future course of their party. As of now, it needs much more money and many more offices.

Out of a long drouth at the presidential polling places has come about every possible suggestion for reorganizing and rebuilding the party.

Merger Reported

At one wing Senator John W. Bricker of Ohio has proposed an outright merger with Southern Democrats. On the other wing, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts has called for a Republican party that will hold out its hand to labor.

Guy G. Gabrielson, the Republican national chairman, has joined the latest GOP outcry against "me-tooism" in his party.

However, Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll of New Jersey, whose reelection last Novmber was one of few bright spots in a dull Republican sky, says it all depends on what the GOP is "me-tooing."

He, for one, says he is willing to "me-too" the ten commandments, the preamble to the constitution and a strong national defense.

Driscoll has opposed federal aid to education and federal public housing. But he has pluggd a state program to accomplish the same ends.

Dewey Tactics Criticised

Senator Arthur Vandenberg (R-Mich) put his creed for Republicans into one sentence. He said the Republican aim should be:

"To restore the American system to safe foundations before it is too late and to gear dependable progress with national solvency and individual freedom."

Generally speaking, the Republicans seem to think that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York made a big "me too" mistake in his unsuccessful 1948 presidential campaign: approving some new deal proposals and saying in effect that he could make them work better.

Dewey himself has conceded he may have taken the wrong tack with a swetness-and-light campaign. But aides said he stands pat on the advice he gave the Republican party here last winter. Looking back on his defeat, he told the Republicans:

"Take the middle road. Stop bellyaching about the past. Quit trying to outpromise the Democrats. Forget about turning the clock back and work for social progress under a flourishing competitive system of private enterprise, where every human right is expanded."

Dewey recently wrote a Portland, Ore., friend that under no circumstances would he become the party's presidential nominee again in 1952. He followed that up yesterday by telling a news conference at Albany he would not seek the nomination in 1956 or 1960, either.

Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the GOP Senate floor leader, leader, doesn't think so much of the middle road advocated by Dewey. Wherry wants the Republicans to fight the Democrats at every cross-roads of national policy.

"Let's not make any mistake this time," he said. "Give the people a clearcut choice on the issue from the GOP standpoint. Expounding on the basic principle of his party, Taft said recently:

"The Republican party insists on a sound basis of fiscal security by a balanced budget and a level of taxation that does not deter business expansion as it has done in Great Britain. It is completely opposed to socialism as destructive of liberty and progress."

Although he has attacked what he calls the Truman administration's aim toward setting up a "handout" state, Taft said the farmers want price supports and should have "reasonable" props.

Taft finds himself in disagreement with some of his GOP colleagues on the extent to which Republicans ought to support administration foreign policies. He opposed the North Atlantic treaty and has called for abandonment of the foreign military assistance program.

Stassen View Different

Taking a different view is former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, a potential 1952 presidential candidate. He called in a recent statement for GOP support of the bipartisan foregin policy "with vigorous participation in the affairs of all of the world."

Stassen said he wants the Republicans to oppose what he called the "gravy train" approach of the Truman administration to domestic problems. He advocated giving younger candidates and volunteer groups a larger share in forming GOP policies.

John Tope of Detroit, president of the National Young Republican federation, agrees on the latter score. He said young Republicans are planning a fighting camapign next year, adding:

"We're not going to punt and wait for the breaks. We're going out to carry the ball."

He said the basic political issue is "whether we will have a state of opportunity for the individual or one dominated by social benefits pointed at attracting the votes of minority groups."

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW! — BY FAGALY and SHORTEN

Three Convicts Still At Large

HUNTSVILLE, Dec. 29. (AP)—Two guards have been fired for "carelessness and negligence" in the tunnel escape of seven convicts from the Huntsville state prison. Three of the prisoners are still at large.

Warden Emmet Moore last night discharged Alton Harmon, about 60, and Dave Langley, about 57.

Moore said both men were picket guards on top of the prison wall where Monday the men escaped by digging a 21-foot tunnel through hard clay.

"Our investigation of the escape," Moore said, "revealed carelessness and negligence on the part of the two guards. If they had been alert this escape never would have happened."

Posse Searching

Moore said Harmon has been with the prison system since 1939 and Langley since 1945.

Still at large are Thomas W. Tucker, 38, serving 74 years for murder from Brazoria and Tarrant counties; Walter Thorp, serving 25 years from Dallas county for robbery, and Collin M. Mershon, 38, serving life from Limestone county as an habitiual criminal.

An armed posse of 75 has been combing a Walker county creek bottom for the trio. The search turned briefly to the Fort Worth area. A car stolen in Huntsville Monday night was found abandoned at White settlement, near Fort Worth, Tuesday night.

Two of the escapees were picked up shortly after the break. Two more were captured early Tuesday.

SIBERIAN WAR CRIMES TRIAL ON

Soviet Claims Japs Infected Chinese With Typhoid Fever

LONDON, Dec. 29 (AP)—Moscow radio reported today that a Japanese germ warfare unit infected 3,000 Chinese war prisoners with typhoid fever in 1942 and then released them to start an epidemic among civilians.

The broadcast, reporting the Siberian war crimes trial of 12 Japanese army officers captured in 1945, said a witness testified the prisoners were fed bread rolls containing typhoid and paratyphoid germs. All 12 defendants are reported to have pleaded guilty to developing germ warfare before and during world war two.

Wells Claimed Infected

The testimony, according to the official account, came from a medical assistant named Furuichi, who worked with the Japanese Kwantung army's top secret germ warfare agency known as "unit 731."

Furuichi was said to have testified that a scientific worker told him the paratyphoid germs "proved the most effective in provoking an epidemic among the population" in central China.

Furuichi said he went into central China with a "unit 731" expedition under General Shiroishii in 1942 to fight the Chinese with germs, according to the broadcast.

"I infected wells and reservoirs as well as dwellings," he was quoted as telling the tribunal.

Tests Made

"In the area there were two camps of Chinese prisoners," Furuichi declared. "Ishii gave an order to bake 3,000 rolls and infect them with typhoid and paratyphoid fever germs. Along with others I took part in baking the rolls."

"The rolls were distributed among the prisoners of war by the interpreter Kasuga," Furuichi continued. "The Chinese prisoners then were released from the camp to spread the infection."

Furuichi was quoted as telling the tribunal that "unit 731" infected 50 Chinese with typhoid for study purposes. He added that women were infected with syphilis by the researchers who were seeking preventive methods.

Other human guinea pigs were said to have been used to test blister gas and frostbite.

"All of these people experimented upon and doomed to a most painful death," the witness said, "were kept in the prison of 'unit 731'."

One of the defendants, Maj. Masao Onoue, was reported to have told the court that the experiment cost "many hundreds of lives."

er and son. Brickley laughed it off, saying "fame is fleeting . . . it happens all the time." The restaurant owner, an old friend, refused to press the charges.

Although most famous for his kicking, Brickley was also an outstanding ball carrier, and was also a member of the American hop-step-and jump team in the 1912 Olympics at Stockholm, Sweden. He was captain of the Harvard football team during his last year.

The younger Brickley said funeral services will be held at Everett, Bass. The time is not yet set.

Meant to the Boys of Lubbock."

Invocation and benediction will be by local ministers to be selected at a later date, Ratliff said.

Following the program, several members of the Boys' club will stage a swimming and diving exhibition for visitors after which refreshments will be served.

The general public will be invited to the program, Ratliff said.

The swimming pool is practically complete now and will be in operation by the time the dedication is held, club officials said Wednesday.

MEET THE MANAGER—Robert P. (Bob) Elam, owner and manager of Bob Elam Safety Lane, 2905 Texas avenue curve, was born Nov. 11, 1907, at Knox City. His family moved to Crosby county when he was six months old and he went to school there. In 1927 he began working for the County of Crosby and the State Highway department for four years. He then went to Amarillo and worked for the Amarillo Brake company, where he received training for his specialized knowledge of brake and wheel problems. After a year there he came to Lubbock as manager of the brake department of Firestone Tire and Rubber company here. After three years, when tractor tires were introduced, he mounted the first set of tractor tires seen in this country and left the brake department to manage the tractor tire department of Firestone for two years. He then started a small tire business at Broadway and Avenue M. He returned to Amarillo in January,, 1936, rejoining Amarillo Brake company. He returned to Lubbock and worked for Kuykendall Chevrolet company, then went to California, where he operated the brake department for Harmon-Marshall at San Bernardino. He left there to operate a truck center in Los Angeles. He returned to Lubbock in January, 1938, and rejoined Firestone as district tractor tire representative of the Oklahoma City district. He went into the tractor tire business for himself and remained in that business until tractor tires were frozen at the start of the war. He then worked at Lubbock Army Air field as head of the hydraulic department. He designed a landing gear fork straightener and propellor blade straightener and was called to Wright field in December, 1942, where he remained three and a half years on specialty work. When the war ended he cam back to Lubbock and oprated the brake shop at McWhorter's 18 months. On July 1, 1948, he opened his present business. Mr. and Mrs. Elam and two sons, Don, 4, and Rex, 15 months, live at 2515 Twenty-sixth. His hobby is hunting and fishing. He is a member of First Baptist church, and Elks club. (Staff Photo).

Ilka Chase Offers Ideas On Making Parties Successful

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY
United Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 28. — Ilka Chase has one rule for giving successful parties: "Don't invite dull people."

Miss Chase, author, actress and the wife of Dr. Norton Brown in private life, doesn't fancy herself an Elsa Maxwell when it comes to entertaining. But she does give successful small dinner parties and buffet suppers.

Over a cup of tea in her East Side apartment, Miss Chase listed a few of her theories.

"Don't invite dull people," she said. "I don't care if the guests are all from different fields, so long as they're interesting."

Then get the guests there so dinner can be served on time.

"Friends who are always late I invite 15 minutes earlier than the other guests. That means they'll only be about 20 minutes late," Miss Chase explained. "If there's anything I loathe it's being invited to dinner at 8 and not getting to eat until 10."

Depends On Hostess

Once the guests arrive, she thinks the best thing the hostess can do for them is to enjoy the party herself.

"It just never occurs to me that a party won't go," she commented, reflecting on the tendency of the hostess to fret over the party's success.

"There is one sticky time," she decided, "when the guests have finished eating and returned to the living room." Some hostesses resort to games to pep up the party at this point. Miss Chase uses good records or the television set.

"I don't mind party games so much myself, but my husband would just throw up," she said.

Like many hostesses, Miss Chase has to use buffet serving if the dinner guest list is over ten. That's all her table will seat.

One of her typical buffets was a party given for the opening of the court of jewels, a display of $10,000,000 worth of jewels, including the Hope Diamond. Miss Chase was committee chairman for the United Hospital Fund, which received the proceeds from the display, so she entertained 20 committee members at a buffet supper.

No Soup At Buffet

"I served a six-rib roast, curried chicken and rice, green peas, a big bowl of salad, a plate of cheeses and hot rolls," she recalled. "I never serve soup at a buffet."

She lets the guests help themselves, but she believes in using place cards for the seating. "Otherwise," she explained, "husbands and wives will sit together—not so much because they want to, but because they're shy."

She also believes second helpings and the dessert and coffee should be served to the guests. It's too confusing to have them shuffling back and forth to the buffet table. The dessert at her Court of Jewels buffet was fresh fruit trais and coffee.

Simple foods, superbly cooked are her idea of what the smart hostess serves. That lessens the danger of a last-minute calamity in the kitchen.

"To be perfectly honest, I'd prefer to serve steak, French fried potatoes and salad," she confessed. "It's my own favorite meal."

scales in some of the cities in Bell's six-state system.

The company has claimed that the union failed to make any definite wage demands and "does not know the union's justification for its demands."

A walkout originally was scheduled for last Friday. The union, however, agreed to a 10-day truce after Gov. Smith made his governors' conference proposal.

The union's wage contract with Bell expired Dec. 1. Since then, through the means of a continuation clause, it has been maintained on a day-to-day basis.

Cigar Maker For 60 Years Finally Quits

EASTON, Pa., Dec. 29. (U.P.) — Easton's oldest cigar maker, who has been rolling his own now for 60 years, has retired.

Albert Miner, began making cheroots by hand in 1889, when he was 14 years old. Since then, he estimates he has rolled more than 2,500,000 cigars by hand. Besides conducting his own business, he has taught other cigar makers.

But it's now a dead art in Easton. Miner has outlived most of those he taught.

Can't Tell Which Parent Baby Looks Like

Rita And Aly's New Daughter Said "Doing Extremely Well"

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, Dec. 29 (AP)—One-day-old Princess Yasmin has "harmonius features and tiny wisps of black hair," but it's too early yet to tell whether she looks like her movie star mother, Rita Hayworth.

The infant is also very well behaved and has hardly cried at all.

The description came from the head nurse of the Montchoisi clinic, where Yasmin was born yesterday morning to Rita and Moslem Prince Aly Kahn whom she married last May 27.

Yasmin—her name is the Persian for the fragrant jasmine flower—"is a very gracious, delightful little girl," said Head Nurse Olga Besson.

To Move To Gstaad

But it's too early, said the nurse, to tell whether the baby looks more like her mother or her father.

It's also too early, Miss Besson said, to say whether Yasmin will be a bottle baby.

"We shall have to see during the next few days whether the mother is able to feed the baby," she said.

The baby's crib is in a private room adjoining Rita's, said the nurse. The family plans to go, as soon as mother and daughter can be moved, to a chalet Prince Aly has rented for them at Gstaad, fashionable Swiss winter sports center.

Gilbert Payot, public relations adviser to Rita and Prince Aly, said last night both mother and child were "doing extremely well, despite a long and difficult birth."

Today both Rita and her daughter were reported making continued "good progress." Sources at the clinic said the baby was in the best of health.

Proud father Aly Kahn left his hotel early this morning to visit his wife and new child. He carried a new batch of the congratulatory telegrams that have been pouring in from all parts of the world since the birth was announced.

Many Gifts Arrive

Huge bouquets of flowers for Rita were delivered at the clinic all yesterday afternoon. More flowers and presents arrived today.

The baby's two grandfathers heard of their new status on opposite sides of the world. Aly's father, the wealthy Aga Khan, spiritual ruler of 5,000,000 Ismaili Moslems, commented in Cairo: "I thank Allah, who has blessed this union."

Rita's father, dancing instructor Eduardo Cansino, said in Hollywood Aly had cabled him the "wonderful" news.

Rita's two brothers in California said they got the news from the newspapers. The younger, Eduardo, jr., added:

"You know how it is with Rita since she became the princess. We have to read the newspapers to find out about her."

Becton Cotton Gin Destroyed By Fire

A loss of $50,000, only about half of which was believed to be covered by insurance, was suffered when fire totally destroyed the Tudor cotton gin at Becton last night.

The gin is owned by R. H. Tudor of Lubbock, who also owns a gin on the Plainview cut-off road. The Becton gin burned down about three years ago in a similar fire.

Cause Not Determined

Cause of the blaze remained undetermined this morning. Tudor said he was told no fires had been going in the gin during the day Wednesday. He said he had heard conflicting stories, but he was disinclined this morning to attribute the blaze to a butane explosion.

Roy Taylor, gin employe, noticed the fire from his residence approximately 100 feet from the gin at about 10 p.m. A passing motorist, J. W. Shadon of Becton, drove to nearby Heckville to turn in alarm to the Lubbock Fire department.

The flaming gin was visible from Lubbock, Tom Crow, one of the four-man booster truck crew sent to the blaze, reported. The firemen, unable to halt the flames, stood by to prevent the blaze from spreading to the Taylor residence or the cotton piled close by.

Plant Ablaze In Minutes

Taylor rushed into the blazing engine room to shut off a 1,000 gallon butane tank when he saw that the flames could not be controlled. He stated that the whole building was an inferno in a matter of minutes.

An alarm was also turned into the Lubbock Fire department by Kenneth Pugh, tower controlman at Lubbock Municipal airport, who spotted the flames more than 17 miles away.

Albert Smith, manager of the gin, said that men had been working there two hours before the fire started. His wife, the daughter of Tudor, estimated the loss at about $50,000. Tudor was unavailable for an estimate on the damages.

Employes from the Heck gin in nearby Heckville quit work and rushed to the blaze to see if their aid was needed, H. Heck, gin owner stated. "By the time we arrived," he said, "there was nothing anyone could do to stop the flames."

Spectators from farms in the vicinity and passing motorists crowded to the scene of the fire and watched until the building was a smouldering shambles.

A water storage tank, containing approximately 1,000 gallons, was within 25 feet of the burning building and could not be utilized because there was no way of pumping the water.

Julius Yetts of Becton, one of the first to arrive on the scene of the blaze, said, "I have never seen anything go up in flames so fast. There was no way of stopping the fire moments after it began."

Clubs Start Price War For Big Night

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 29 (AP) Two of the sunset strip's most famous supper clubs have started a New Year's eve price war.

Charlie Morrison, owner of the Mocambo, announced that he and Herman Hover, owner of Ciro's, will cut their price for the evening from $20 a person to $12.50.

"Hover and I decided that the best way to meet competition was to start a price war," Morrison said.

As an additional inducement, Hover offered free barber's service to customers with five o'clock (a. m.) shadow, plus complimentary bus rides to Pasadena for the Rose Bowl game.

City Manager Plan Successful In U. S.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. Dec. 29. (U.P.)—American communities apparently like the form of city government which provides for an elected council and a hired manager.

A University of Michigan survey shows that only 36 of 900 cities and towns which adopted the council-manager plan have abandoned it.

Prof. Arthur Bromage, who directed the survey, said only nine of the 36 communities had the plan for 10 or more years before they voted to toss it out.

He cited several principal factors in towns and cities voting to give up manager government. They included defective charters, depressions which voters blamed on the city government and "selfish political interests."

Irate Student Has Laugh On Council

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Dec. 28. (U.P.)—When the city council raised a furore by ruling that University of Virginia students were liable for personal property tax assessments, one student, Jefferson Baxter, showed up at city hall.

He plunked down seven cents for the tax and added a penny because he was one day late in making his payment.

His bus fare to city hall cost a dime.

"I hope they're satisfied," Baxter said.

Pilot Spends Three Years On Air Trips

NEW YORK, Dec. 29. (U.P.)—The life span of an individual is determined by the time spent on earth, then Capt. John Henry Miller, Pan American-Grace Airways pilot, claims to be three years younger than his birth certificate states.

For the veteran air line pilot has chalked up his 25,000th flying hour, which is close to three years spent "of the earth."

In the 30 years since he learned to fly, Capt. Miller has been up in the air one out of every ten hours and has actually flown more than 4,000,000 miles — approximately 160 times around the world or eight round trips to the moon. This distance was covered in more than 35 different types of aircraft.

Born in Rulo, Neb., 50 years ago, he has flown in every state in the Union and every Latin American republic from Mexico to Argentina. Last August Miller rounded out 18 years of continuous service with Panagra.

He learned to fly in the Navy during the first World War and was one of the first pilots to receive a commercial license.

Branch Managers Of Firm Open Meeting

Branch managers for the Waples-Platter grocery wholesame company from throughout western Texas and New Mexico opened a two-day meeting in the Hilton hotel Navajo room at 8 a. m. today.

More than 60 officials of the company from Amarillo, Clovis, Roswell, Odessa, Abilene, Vernon, Memphis and Lubbock are attending the sessions, being conducted by executive officers from the home offices in Fort Worth.

A banquet in the hotel at 8 p. m. today will highlight the day's meeting, while a closing banquet is scheduled for noon Friday for the annual meeting.

C. C. Files, manager of the Lubbock office is acting as host for the meeting, which, up to this year, had been held in Fort Worth. He said the group would discuss plans for the coming year.

Officers present from the Fort Worth offices include J. W. Shugart, vice-president and general sales manager; C. C. Braggans, general buyer; and Harry Echlebeger, manager of the Fort Worth house. Also present is Campbell Smith, manager of the Dallas. house.

Judo-Trained Girl, 23, Puts Thug To Flight With What Brother Taught Her

DETROIT, Dec. 29 (AP)—Miss Lorraine Rickey, 23, was about to get into her car in front of her home here last night.

Along came a young man.

"Going downtown, baby?" he asked.

When she gave him an emphaetic "no," he grabbed her by the throat.

Seconds later the thug was flat on his back on the sidewalk. With an anguished groan, he picked himself up and fled into the darkness.

Miss Rickey, five-foot-five and weighing 120 pounds, phoned police a brief report before climbing into her car.

Police were intrigued. She has estimated the thug's weight at 170 pounds. They learned on further inquiry:

Miss Rickey's brother, Edward, had trained her in judo. He was a judo instructor with an airborne division during the war.

Rain Makes Liar Out Of Miami Beach Song

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Dec. 29 (AP)—Dedication ceremonies for the new lighting system at the city's Lummus park were rained out last night.

The 2,000 spectators didn't get to sing a song written especially for the occasion.

The song was entitled, "Miami Beach Sun Is Always Shining."

The dedication will be held tonight—weather permitting.

Hollywood In '49 Did Best To Retain Zany Reputation

(First Of Two-Part Series)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 29. (NEA)—The Year In Review—

The economy wave, the Ingrid Bergman-Roberto Rossellini Stromboli soap opera, Rita Hayworth's marriage, Shirley Temple's divorce, and Humphrey Bogart's New York panda bear hunt were Hollywood's top headlines of 1949.

Johnson

All except the economy wave were in the Hollywood tradition. The picture cost slashing and the cutting of studio personnel sent stars as well as extras to the local social security office for their weekly pay checks.

M-G-M let out 640 employes and, when she became overweight, all of Lana Turner's dresses. A Hollywood bra shop was forced to put up a sign reading: "Inflation at Moderate Prices."

Television got around that corner and many a movie executive had a mental picture of filling his swimming pool with dirt and planting a vegetable garden.

Jack Benny moved from NBC to CBS and his first comment was:

"I wonder if CBS has a free parking lot."

Maria Montez, who was suing producer Charles R. Rogers for $400,000, dropped the amount to $100,000.

Lady Astor Criticizes

Other 1949 highlights:

Hollywood had enough worries at home and no one paid much attention when Lady Astor made that crack about "wretched little Hollywood glamor girls" throwing monkey wrenches into the machinery of the world.

Said Hollywood: "Just a publicity stunt."

Sam Goldwyn deplored the fact that the censors leave producers nothing to work with any more but "empty little fairy tales," and the Bishops of the United States came right back with the announcement that movies in 1949 were "morally the most offensive in number and quality in the history of the Legion of Decency."

There was an all-time high for broken marriages—25 divorces and 18 separations. John Payne and Gloria de Haven separated so many times that they became confused and announced one more reconciliation than they had had separations.

The Los Angeles Daily News carried the headline:

"Jane Russell Shows London a Thing or Two."

Jane stood out in bold relief in more ways than one—as a champion of Hollywood morality. She encouraged a young evangelist named Billy Graham to conduct the greatest revival in Los Angeles since Aimee McPherson's day.

Agents Went Wild

Hollywood press agents had their usual fun:

They persuaded the auto workers of the west to name Peggie Castle "Miss Classy Chassis of 1949." They announced that the Midwestern Cosmetologists had chosen Shelley Winters "Blonde of the Year."

The press agents also took up the cudgels in defense of cheesecake when Shirley Temple announced she hated the stuff. A storm of leg art swept the country, with many leggy stars stressing the virtures, advantages and benefits deriving from cheesecake.

It was, in fact, the cheesecakiest year in film history, and every femme star able to walk straight got in on the deluge of breaks.

Party of the year was Errol Flynn's fantastic "coming out" party to celebrate his split with Nora Eddington.

Casting search of the year was for a mule to play the title role in the UI picture, "Francis." The Democratic Party's mule finally got the job. But not before 20 Hollywood agents, leading mules, walked into the UI casting office and said:

"This is the young mule I've been telling you about."

Rites Slated Today For Oklahoma Man

Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m., today at the Broadway Church of Christ for William H. Blackstone, 82, former South Plains resident who died Tuesday in Enid, Okla. Dr. M. Norvel Young will officiate, assisted by Liff Sanders.

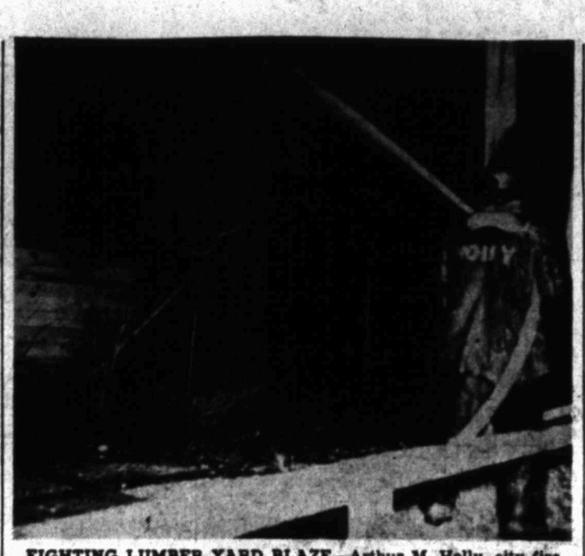

Burial will be in Lubbock cemetery with Sanders Funeral home in charge.

Blackstone, a former resident of Enochs and Lubbock, had moved to Enid several months ago to live with a daughter. He died there at 10 p. m., at the home of Mrs. K. C. Moser, the daughter.

His wife died in 1939, and is buried here.

Survivors besides his daughter at Enid are two other daughters, Mrs. C. M. Moser of Brownwood, and Mrs. D. P. Connelly of Toronto, Ohio; two sons, V. E. Blackstone and Longview, and W. L. Blackstone of Brady; and two cousins, A. C. and Chester Blackstone ,both of Lubbock.

U. S. Is Accused Of Neglecting Health Of Nation's Children

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Top American scientists today heard the federal government accused of neglecting child health research while spending millions on bombs.

Dr. Leona Baumgartner, of the children's bureau, Washington, D. C., made the statement before the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Only a few thousand dollars a year of federal money goes for child health research, she said, but more than half a billion is spent on other research, including immense sums on bombs and atomic energy.

By contrast, she said, children are by far the most important product of the United States.

"What we are after," she said, "both educators and doctors, is to help in raising a new generation of human beings who are buoyantly healthy in body and spirit; whose creativeness and social responsibility are given the greatest possible opportunity for expression; who have an unchallengeable conviction of their own worth and the worth of other people.

"This is the kind of positive health we are after. This is the quality of people we are convinced can truly build a democratic society."

Dr. Baumgartner said there are 20,000,000 American children with poor teeth, 4,000,000 with poor sight, 1,000,000 with poor hearing, 20,000 with epilepsy, and 170,000 with cerebral palsy.

And, she said, despite the $7,500,000 Congress annually gives states to help sick children, the states are forced to turn down thousands of children a year for lack of funds.

She said this year there are 30,000 crippled children unable to get help.

She wants the research to go much farther than child diseases—to cover, for example:

The child who has actual pains due to taking a school test; the child who can't do good work because of home worries; the many millions of children who lay the foundation for mental troubles; the great puzzle of why some children have most of the accidents.

Dr. Baumgartner said accidents are the largest cause of child deaths over age one.

She also urged research on how to aid parents with child problems.

"Probably never before," she said, "were parents so eager for guidance."

Negro Fight Merely "Play," Judge Told

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 29. (AP)—Jerry Body, 27, negro, was brought into court charged with taking a swipe with a switch blade knife at David D. Young, 29, also a negro.

"We were just playing," Young told Judge Andrew Doyle yesterday. Body agreed.

"Playing?" exclaimed Doyle. "What would have happened if you had got your head cut off?"

"It would have just been bad luck," Young replied.

Doyle gave Body a $25 suspended fine and dismissed the case.

GE Terminating UE's Contract

NEW YORK, Dec. 29. (AP)—The General Electric Co. plans to terminate its contract with the United Electrical workers when the pact expires April 1.

The company said last night it had decided on this course because of the current jurisdictional fight between the UE and the CIO International United Electrical workers.

Notified of the decision, the UE promptly called for a vote in the 100 or more General Electrica plants throughout the country to determine what union the workers want to represent them.

Employe Support Sought

The UE recently was ousted from the CIO on grounds of Communist domination. The new IUE was formed by the CIO to replace the ousted union.

Both groups now are battling for support of the approximately 125,000 G. E. workers.

Under the UE's present contract with the company, extension of the pact after the April 1 expiration date is automatic, unless either the union or company notifies the other of cancellation at least 90 days in advance.

Such extensions were made in 1947 and 1948.

But L. R. Roulware, G. E. vice president in charge of employe relations, said last night that to extend the contract before employes choose between the two unions, would be to show favoritism to the UE.

He said the company's policy is not to take sides in such a dispute.

Film Actress, Three Children Flee Blaze

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Dec. 20 (AP)—A brush fire that raged for more than two hours last night forced Loretta Young and her three children from their suburban home.

Before it was brought under control by 300 firefighters, the blaze threatened several large residences, advancing at one point to within 30 feet of two homes. Householders played streams of water from garden hoses over their roofs as winds carried sparks over a wide area.

Miss Young and her children spent the night at the home of a friend. Her husband, radio executive Tom Lewis, returned to help battle the flames.

Fellow Named Barkley Is Pressed Into Service As Cab's Assistant Oil Checker

NORFOLK, Va., Dec. 29 (AP)—When the stout, worried gentleman in the sporty convertible asked cab driver Oscar Osmund the way from Little Creek to Norfolk yesterday, he got his answer.

Not, however, before Osmund had pressed him into service as an assistant in the greasy job of checking the oil in his cab.

That job accomplished, Osmund led the gentleman and his lady driver to a Norfolk ferry dock. He got a five dollar bill for his pains.

Then he found out just who the assistant oil-checker was.

It was Vice-President Alben Barkley. The lady driver was Mrs. Barkley. En route to Washington, they'd lost their way near Little Creek amphibious base.

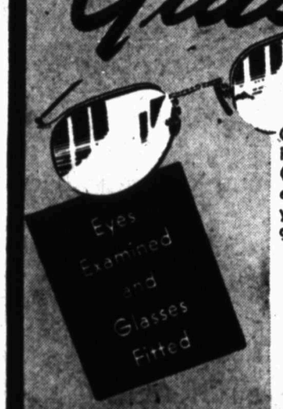

Osmund wasn't impressed.

"Who's Vice-President Barkley?" he asked.
