Rehearing Is Asked By Two School Units

Bill Kerr, one of the attorneys for Gay Hill and Center Point Common School districts, has prepared a motion for a rehearing of the schools' petition for a writ of error and mailed it Tuesday afternoon to the Texas Supreme Court in Austin.

Thursday would have been deadline for the common schools to file their motion for a rehearing. The question now raised is whether the court will rule on the motion before it shuts down for its long summer vacation Aug. 1.

There is a possibility that the court could act and announce its decision. If it follows its regular pattern of operation it will meet on July 31.

Efforts will be made, said Gil Jones, attorney, to have the court move the petition up on its calendar to get it settled before the vacation.

OTHER HEARING ASKED

Meantime, the next step in the annexation case involving the two common schools and the Big Spring Independent School district will be a hearing on Aug. 1 by Judge Ralph Caton, 118th District Court, on a motion by the Big Spring school to set aside an injunction which has been in effect since the annexation matter first arose. Gil Jones, attorney for the Big Spring schools, filed the motion asking the cancellation of the injunction. Under the injunction, the three schools have been operating on a status quo basis during the long battle over the proposed annexation. Now the Big Spring school asks that the order be set aside to enable the independent district to proceed with various plans.

Meantime, the two common schools, their future uncertain, are planning for the 1963-64 school term. Budgets for the new year are being drawn up and preparations made as usual.

NEAR FINAL ROUND

Should the Supreme Court act on the motion for a rehearing on the schools' writ of error petition and overrule that motion, the annexation order, issued May 4, 1960, would become operative — provided some new legal way to delay the action can be developed by the common schools' attorneys. Seemingly, the only step left open, in the event this happens, would be to get the question to the U. S. Supreme Court on a constitutional issue.

The annexation order of the Howard County school board, which ordered the two common schools to become a part of the Big Spring district, has been sustained by the District Court here, by the State Court of Civil Appeals, and, in the action overruling the petition for a writ of error, by the Texas Supreme Court.

Draper Funeral Home at Van Horn, Tex., identified two of the dead as Seaman and Mrs. Leland R. Smith, whose home is at Freeport, Fla. Smith was stationed on the USS Frontier, U.S. Naval Communications Station, San Francisco, Calif.

The other two victims were not identified immediately.

Test Ban Agreement Reported Completed

Thursday Set For Initialing

MOSCOW (AP)—After nearly a whole day of negotiations, the nuclear test ban treaty was reported completed today and probably will be initialed Thursday.

Efforts to get the agreement today apparently were held up by prolonged discussions over the nonaggression pact wanted by the Russians but which cannot be negotiated by the British and American delegations here.

Earlier, Premier Khrushchev said a "racial turn toward a better international climate" could result from signing the agreement.

K QUOTED

But Khrushchev, as quoted by Tass, again tied the test ban closely to a non-aggression pact between NATO and the Communist bloc. He did not, however, specifically say the world could not have one without the other.

The premier's views were in a letter to the heads of state of the 30 African countries which took part in the Addis Ababa conference in May.

Tass distributed it around the world just as American, British and Soviet delegates were holding a hard working session at Spiridonovka Palace.

Western representatives had an urgent telephone call from the Soviet Foreign Ministry just before they went to the session.

HOPEFUL

Western diplomats were still hopeful the agreement could be signed today, but they cautioned newsmen there could be a slip.

It could not be learned what last minute problem the Russians had raised.

An air of happy triumph among the Western delegations Tuesday was modified this morning. But confidence continued that a test ban treaty would be concluded.

U.S. sources in Washington said it appeared Soviet Premier Khrushchev would not insist that a nonaggression pact unacceptable to the West accompany the test-ban treaty.

DEMAND

It had been feared Khrushchev might demand a package deal but U.S. diplomats now expect the nonaggression pact proposal to be deferred.

Chief American negotiator W. Averell Harriman, a veteran of negotiations with Stalin as well as with Khrushchev, stressed to newsmen that treaties are finished only when they are signed.

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk told newsmen in Washington: "We think there is a possibility we can get an agreement."

Rusk also brushed aside reports that he might go to Moscow, perhaps with a congressional delegation, to rally Senate support for the test-ban agreement. The Senate must approve the treaty by at least a two-thirds majority if it is to bind the United States.

NO PLANS

"There are no plans to go any where now," Rusk said after a closed-door meeting with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Western diplomats in Moscow still feared Khrushchev might bring up something that would delay conclusion of the test agreement.

Last week he filled the negotiational air full of supplementary demands for a nonaggression pact between the North Atlantic Alliance and the Communist Warsaw Pact group, for a freeze on military spending, and for a system of inspection teams at airports, railway terminals, ports and highway junctions on both sides of the Iron Curtain to guard against preparations for surprise attack.

U.S. sources believed the Russians were willing to defer all these proposals, perhaps to a summit meeting. But they were not sure.

FOLLOWS LINE

The test-ban treaty reportedly follows the lines proposed by the United States and Britain last August at the Geneva disarmament conference. Khrushchev opposed it then, saying it would tend to legalize underground tests.

The treaty would bar all but underground nuclear tests, thus removing the major sources of radioactive fallout. Underground tests were left out to avoid the impasse over on-site inspection.

Parties to the treaty also would agree to discourage the spread of nuclear weapons to other countries.

Signatories would be free to resume testing if a nuclear explosion occurred in the treaty countries or elsewhere.

France, the only nuclear power not participating in the Moscow talks, is expected to spell out its reaction when President Charles de Gaulle holds a news conference Monday. One French official in Paris said there are no plans for an aerial or under water test in the immediate future. But even if the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union agree on a ban, France is considered certain to hold more tests to achieve De Gaulle's goal of creating France's own nuclear arsenal.

Pickets Block Trucks

Anti-discrimination pickets sit in the street and block trucks at a hospital construction site in Brooklyn borough of New York. The civil rights demonstration appeared to be a token effort when previous picketing produced mass arrests. The pickets are protesting alleged union bias against Negroes in the building industry.

Pickets Lay In Muddy Street, Arms Locked

NEW YORK (AP)—Negro and white pickets lay in a muddy street with locked arms today in an effort to prevent supply trucks from entering a Brooklyn construction project.

They were seeking more building trade jobs for Negroes and Puerto Ricans.

Police arrested 12 pickets, five of them women, in the demonstration at the Downstate Medical Center and placed them in patrol wagons.

The street became muddy when water from the construction site flowed into it.

The picketing started at the site July 10. Until today, there had been 449 arrests of pickets there and at other construction sites in the city.

Despite the new locked-arm tactics trucks were not delayed in entering the site.

Picketing also resumed at the Rutgers housing construction site on the lower east side of Manhattan.

Eight demonstrators stayed overnight in Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's outer office in a campaign to increase job opportunities for Negroes and Puerto Ricans.

The Brooklyn site is one of two at which police arrested 140 pickets Tuesday.

Pickets did not return today to the second site—a housing project in Queens.

As the Brooklyn demonstration began, 40 pickets walked slowly on a barricaded strip of sidewalk along one entrance to the new Downstate Medical Center. They carried placards and occasionally sang or chanted.

The pickets were divided almost evenly between whites and Negroes and between men and women.

Police today also had a reduced force at the scene—210 officers compared with some 300 Tuesday. Police arrested 116 pickets Tuesday when they blocked the entrance of construction supplies.

The Rev. Milton Galamison, one of the Negro demonstration leaders, said he did not expect too many pickets at the medical center today.

"We may block truck entrances if we have enough people on hand," he said.

Bombs Start Fires

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—Terrorists tried to burn down the Colombian Capitol building Monday night, police said Tuesday.

They said a series of 36 homemade fire bombs touched off blazes which caused only small damage. No one was injured.

Negroes Attempt Forceful Entry

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Negroes, described as an unruly mob, battled with six policemen Tuesday in an attempt to force their way into a public swimming pool restricted to whites only.

One of the officers was cut above the eye and on the arm before five Negroes were arrested and the crowd broken up.

Capt. Leslie Font, who was hurt, said it was a very unruly mob. He estimated there were 50 Negroes in the group.

Robert Clanton, manager of the pool in Baton Rouge city park, said the crowd appeared at the pool entrance and tried to pass through a locker room to enter the water without buying tickets.

Record Calf Crop Due This Year

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas' calf crop is expected to total 4,627,000 this year, the highest number on record, the U.S. Department of Agriculture said today.

This total is 7 per cent over last year's crop of 4,335,000 calves, the department said.

Speed Speech Orders Roll In

Heavy response indicates that many people in Big Spring and this area are interested in achieving a working knowledge of conversational Spanish.

Orders have rolled in for William Archer's SPEED SPEECH, with which, the author says, Spanish can be spoken in after 24 hours of purposeful study of his course. If you and members of your family can give one hour a day of real concentration (with plenty of practice, and that's fun), you will have a new language on your tongue in less than a month!

Archer knows that speaking a foreign language can be very contagious in the home. He has devoted years to studying the way a child mimics the adults in a family, and is thoroughly convinced that if a child hears a language, he can learn to speak it. As you progress with the SPEED SPEECH course, try this simple experiment: Speak only Spanish in the home three days each week and see how much fun it is to talk in a foreign language. You will be equally thrilled that your children will be expressing themselves immediately in Spanish without even the benefit of a textbook.

There are three items in the SPEED SPEECH course: A textbook, a dictionary, and a set of two 45 rpm records. Each item sells for $2.95, plus six cents sales tax. You can start with the textbook, order the others later, or get them all at once. Mail orders (there is a coupon in today's Herald) will be filled promptly, with shipment coming out of Fort Worth.

GIVE TIME FOR LEGISLATION

Extension Requested For New Work Rules Deadline

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairmen Oren Harris, D-Ark., of the House Commerce Committee, asked the nation's railroads today to hold up for another 30 days the new work rules they propose to put into effect at 12:01 a.m. Tuesday.

He said Congress could not enact legislation to avert a strike by that time.

Harris asked for an answer within 24 hours.

TO LOOMIS

He addressed his request to Daniel P. Loomis, president of the Association of American Railroads, as Harris' committee opened hearings on President Kennedy's plan to have the Interstate Commerce Commission consider work rules for train crewmen.

Loomis said he couldn't give a yes or no answer but that the railroads would consider the appeal.

Loomis went on to say another postponement would drain off more of "the life blood of an anemic industry."

"We've already been delayed and this has continued for some four years," Loomis said.

The railroads contend that forced employment of unnecessary workers is costing them millions of dollars a year.

Secretary of Labor W. Williard Wirtz, leadoff witness for the administration plan, sat puffing on his pipe as the chairman and the railroad official had their exchange.

AVERT WALKOUT

Harris said he asked the railroads to postpone for 30 days their new, manpower trimming work rules to avert a national walkout. Rail unions have said they will strike the minute the rules are imposed.

Harris said he did not consider the request unreasonable and hoped the railroad would go along.

Loomis said the railroads have been trying to negotiate a work rules settlement for years and charged they are still being forced to make unnecessary payments for work not performed.

Loomis said that has "become intolerable under present conditions."

Harris said that "after four years of discussions the work rules hassle was brought to the attention of Congress only day before yesterday."

Harris said it will take time for Congress to consider properly the "intriguing and unique proposal" President Kennedy has made.

HARRIS PLEA

Harris' plea was part of mounting congressional pressure for the railroads to delay putting in the new work rules.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen drafted a resolution aimed at keeping the trains running until Congress has time to act.

And various legislators of both parties voiced appeals that the railroads hold off on new work rules which a carriers' spokesman said Tuesday would go into effect at one minute after midnight next Tuesday as planned.

The five on-train unions have said in the past they will stage a massive walkout the moment the new rules—which would eliminate thousands of jobs—are posted.

Two congressional committees worked at full throttle on President Kennedy's recommendations for settling the dispute. But there were many doubts the measure could reach the White House for Kennedy's signature in time to beat the deadline.

ONE HOPE

One hope was, however, that the railroads' announcement of their intention to go ahead with the work rules was aimed at keeping Congress hard at work on the bill and that they would postpone the action before time ran out.

Railroad officials go before the Senate Commerce Committee today to voice their support for Kennedy's formula for handling the dispute.

Many committee members who indirectly called on the carriers Tuesday to give Congress more time to act thus will get a chance to make their appeal directly.

The House Commerce Committee begins its consideration of the administration proposal by hearing Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz who testified Tuesday before the Senate group.

Mueller Named To Moon Effort Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. George E. Mueller, a specialist in space communications, has been named to take charge of the United States' effort to put a man on the moon.

Mueller's appointment as head of the manned space program was announced Tuesday. He takes over the $21,000-a-year post Sept. 1.

Mueller, currently vice president for research and development at Space Technology Laboratories in Los Angeles, will supervise Marshall Center at Houston and the Launch Operations Center at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

The space agency said Mueller, 45, will take over the duties of D. Brainerd Holmes, who resigned recently as director of the Office of Manned Space Flight.

Spectacular Salvage Blaze Burns Tires, Disrupts Power

By M. A. WEBB

A roaring fire, belching huge columns of black smoke, consumed several hundred old tires and a small structure Tuesday afternoon, and disrupted electric service to part of the city.

Besides the tires at Dupre Salvage yard, just east of the city limits and off Interstate 20, an office and storage building were destroyed while firemen sought to contain the blaze.

The southeast part of the city was without power for 20 to 30 minutes when the intense heat and blaze burned down a pole supporting one of Texas Electric Service Company's main feeder lines into Big Spring. Crews worked fast to switch other sources of power to the disrupted circuits.

The city's sewage disposal plant at Marcy and Eleventh Place was out of power and stopped from 3:05 p.m. to 6:05 p.m., and again from 1 to 1:30 a.m. today. Jones Lamar, superintendent, feared bacteria may have been lost. Bacteria are used in treatment processes.

Firemen, called to the scene, had to lay 2,500 feet of hose, from the fireplug at the Bowl-A-Rama to enable two pumper trucks to fight the roaring blaze. A third truck was called to the scene to supply enough hose. Fifty joints were required.

A fairly high wind from the south kept the smoke blowing away from the city and also prevented another big stack of salvaged tires from burning.

H. L. Dupre, owner, said he had no insurance and could make no estimate on the amount of loss for some time. He said he did not know the cause of the fire.

R. L. Beale, district manager for Texas Electric, said power was disrupted for 20 to 30 minutes in a large area in southeast Big Spring before other circuits could be switched in. A smaller area in the College Park Addition, including the Bowl-A-Rama, was without power for two to three hours. Beale said the fire was at the point of the tap serving this area.

Crews finally completed permanent repairs on the line at 2 a.m. Wednesday. Beale said no estimate of the damage to lines had been made but that it would be expensive.

Power to the transmitter tower for Radio Station KHEM was knocked out, and the station was off the air for about 40 minutes.

Firemen were recalled to the scene three times during the night. The final call was made at 6 a.m. today, but they felt no more damage would result even though the old tires could smolder at least a week.

Dallas Surgeon May Be Candidate

DALLAS (AP)—Dr. Milton V. Davis, Dallas thoracic surgeon, is considering running for the United States Senate in next year's Republican primary, the Dallas News said Tuesday.

Although Davis had "no comment" on the reports, a well-placed report said he has put out feelers to friends around the state about the race, the News said.

Davis has been active in Republican politics for some time.

Uncertain Reception Awaits Nuclear Pact

WASHINGTON (AP)—An uncertain reception in the Senate awaits a nuclear test-ban treaty which U.S. sources say is all but completed in Moscow.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and disarmament agency director William C. Foster sought to blaze a path for the treaty Tuesday by showing a draft of the proposed agreement to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Afterward committee Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said it was possible the Senate would approve it this session but declined to go so far as to predict that would happen.

Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois would predict only that the treaty would set off lively debate. He said he would not know until he had seen all of the provisions whether he would oppose it or not.

Informed sources said American, British, and Soviet negotiators had virtually completed their work on the test-ban pact and were preparing to issue a final communique soon, perhaps later today.

Signing of the treaty would send it to the Senate, which must ratify it by a two-thirds vote before it becomes binding upon the United States.

After the briefing by Rusk and Foster, Fulbright made these points to newsmen:

1. No committee member opposed the limited test ban during the closed session, but no member had committed himself to support the treaty, nor had Rusk requested this.

2. The test ban "is not yet final." U.S. negotiator W. Averell Harriman has yet to initial it—certifying what the negotiators agreed to—and then it must be brought to Washington for governmental consideration before formal signing.

3. After Harriman initials the agreement, the committee expects to have an opportunity to study it for some days before the signing.

4. Then — if the consultations with the senators and among interested Washington federal agencies favor the draft — arrangements will be completed for a formal signing.

Plans for Rusk to go to Moscow himself for the signing were described as still tentative because agreement has not yet been reached with the British and Russians on what official level the formal ceremony should take place.

The secretary of state also intends to proceed with discussion of a number of other subjects raised by the Russians on which Harriman was not empowered to negotiate, it was stated.

Premier Khrushchev has proposed a NATO-Warsaw alliance nonaggression pact, reduction of outside forces in Germany, and exchange of military observers to lessen fears of surprise attack.

Ward Arrives

Dr. Stephen Ward holds a cigarette in one hand and brief case in the other as he walks from his home en route to London's Old Bailey Court where he is on trial. He is charged on five counts of having procured men, including many prominent ones, for Christine Keeler, Mandy Rice-Davies and other girls.

Council Advances Pool Hall Rules

An ordinance regulating pool halls, providing for a license, describing types of buildings and locations, and establishing zones in which they may be operated, was passed on first reading before the Big Spring City Commission Tuesday night.

The ordinance was drawn providing for pool halls in which families might play. No beer or intoxicating beverages may be sold in the halls, and no partitions, except for sanitary facilities, will be permitted.

Transparent view of the interior must be provided across 60 per cent of the front of the building.

Two representatives of a San Angelo firm, dealing in electrically-operated tables, appeared to protest the exclusion of coin-operated machines and the exclusion of beverages.

Application for licenses for pool halls must be made to the city secretary, and must be approved by the chief of police, city health officer, fire marshal, and building inspector. A thorough investigation of applicants will be made before licenses are approved. An operator's license may be revoked for violations of the provisions of the ordinance. A written notice, from the chief of police, will be served upon the operator, who may request a hearing before the city commission if proper written notice is filed with the city secretary.

No pool hall may be operated in districts zoned for residential, duplex, general residence, parking, or neighborhood service. None may be operated within 300 feet of a church or school, and the 300 feet measurement shall be made from the closest point of the school or church building, to the closest point of the building containing the pool hall.

The time of operation for pool halls during the week days will be from 7 a.m. to 12 midnight. Sunday operation was set from 1 p.m. to 7 p.m.

All licenses issued by the City of Big Spring will expire on Aug. 31 of each year, regardless of the time granted, and will cost $25.

State law permits pool halls in Texas after Aug. 23, and the ordinance regulating them in Big Spring will become effective about the same time.

No Influence On Decision

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Navy Fred Korth says his friendship with General Dynamics Corp. officials did not influence his decision that the firm should get the TFX contract.

Korth acknowledged the friendship in testimony Tuesday before the Senate Investigations subcommittee. He also told the senators he had discussed the multibillion - dollar project with General Dynamics officials as well as with officials of the Boeing Co., the rival bidder, during the negotiations.

But, he added:

"I certainly hope it is clear, certainly I intended for it to be clear, that there was no, repeat no, influence of any character exerted on me by any one of the individuals who called upon me, or by any group who called upon me."

The subcommittee is investigating whether favoritism helped steer the contract to General Dynamics. Military evaluators had said the Boeing design offered a better, cheaper TFX tactical fighter, experimental.

The subcommittee plans to release today a transcript of Tuesday afternoon's secret session, the windup of eight often stormy days of testimony by Korth.

Secretary of the Air Force Eugene M. Zuckert replaces him on the witness stand when the hearings resume Thursday.

Foster Home Is Sought For Child

Delores, 5-year-old daughter of Mrs. Ruby Turner, declared a dependent and neglected child late Tuesday, was placed in temporary custody of the Howard County Juvenile officer. A foster home for the child will be sought.

Gil Jones, district attorney, claimed that the mother worked in a beer place and that she customarily took the child with her to the place to stay during the hours she worked. Jones also charged that improper care was given the little girl at her home. Judge Ralph Caton, 118th District Court sustained the request.

Storm Blew Out

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The Weather Bureau said a squall area off Mexico's lower Pacific Coast which threatened to become a tropical storm apparently blew itself out. It reported Tuesday that winds in the area were normal and rain which fell along the coast had ceased.

Reapportionment Hearings Begin In Midland County

MIDLAND (AP) — Midland County commissioners, facing a suit filed by Mayor H. C. Avery, held the first in a series of reapportionment hearings Tuesday.

Avery laid a proposal before the commissioners that would divide the county into four precincts on the basis of population, land area, tax value and county roads.

The mayor filed suit in district court last September demanding reapportionment. He contends that 97 per cent of the county's voters live in one precinct.

There has been no reapportionment of the county since 1885, Avery said. Three of the precincts consist mainly of sparsely populated rural areas.

At a pre - trial hearing last month, Dist. Judge Joe Dibrell Jr. of Coleman agreed to postpone hearing the suit until Oct. 22 to give the commissioners time to formulate a plan.

Tuesday's session was for proponents. Opponents will be heard Aug. 13.

The three rural precinct commissioners boycotted the forenoon meeting over a rules procedure dispute. County Judge Barbara Culver and one commissioner continued despite their absence.

Differences were resolved by lunch time and all commissioners attended in the afternoon.

Davis Is Sentenced, But He Isn't Going Anywhere

Lewis Davis, 59-year-old itinerant, heard himself formally sentenced to 25 years in the state penitentiary for murder with malice late Tuesday afternoon. He then was marched back up to the fourth floor of the Howard County court house where he resumed residence in the same county jail cell he has occupied for more than 600 days. When he will leave for the Huntsville prison for the slaying Oct. 23, 1961 is uncertain.

The sentence pronounced yesterday afternoon was one which would have been pronounced in December 1961 except for legal maneuvers.

His formal sentence was preceded by a legal tilt between Gil Jones, district attorney, and George Thomas, Davis' lawyer. The fight was over a defense effort to have a mistrial entered in the case, the contention being the same that was brought up in December 1961—jury misconduct. After hearing the debate Judge Ralph Caton of 118th District Court, overruled the motion.

Sentence then was passed on Davis. His attorney asked credit for his client for nearly two years spent in the county jail, and Judge Caton granted the request.

The defense then announced its intention to file an appeal.

This means that Davis will be held here, in all likelihood, until a final disposition is made of the appeal.

The weird tangle which caused the unprecedented delay in the time between the date the jury found the defendant guilty and the date he was sentenced began when an appeal was filed before judgment had been formally entered in the case. It was further delayed by a muddle over the transcript and by the normal slowness of the appeals court in a criminal case.

AGRICULTURE SECRETARY

Shuman Has No Desire To See Freeman Out

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Charles B. Shuman of the American Farm Bureau Federation has had many run-ins with Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman since 1961 over farm policies and programs, but he says he has no desire to see Freeman replaced.

Here to appear before a congressional committee on farm legislation, Shuman told newsmen: "We know where Mr. Freeman stands. We don't know where a successor might stand. Besides, I feel that Mr. Freeman is an able man. We just don't agree on farm programs. That's all."

Shuman made these comments at a news conference when asked about rumors that Freeman might be replaced. Aides of the secretary have denied that Freeman—now on a tour of Eastern Europe— is on the way out.

"What we would like to see," the Farm Bureau president said, "is a change in direction in Kennedy administration farm policies away from controls toward a free market system."

Shuman said he believes that time will show that the recent wheat referendum was a major turning point in a shift away from farm controls to a minumum of government intervention.

Witness Says Police Forced Her To Lie

LONDON (AP)—A prosecution witness in the vice trial of Dr. Stephen Ward testified today police threatened to take her young sister and her baby from her unless she provided evidence against Ward.

Margaret Ricardo, 22, an admitted prostitute, repeated her assertion—first made at the close of Tuesday's session—that she lied on the stand at Ward's preliminary hearing and in a statement to the police because of police pressure.

ADMITS

Under questioning from prosecutor Mervyn Griffith-Jones she admitted that she voluntarily gave an additional true statement to the police on April 10 about her sister, Dorothy Richardson, 13, another girl named Diane and Ward.

The substance of this statement —which Miss Ricardo insisted was true—was not immediately disclosed.

Griffith-Jones asked her why, if the police previously had forced her into signing false statements, she had volunteered fresh information on April 10.

"I did not want my sister to go to a remand home," Miss Ricardo replied. Remand homes are places where underage defendants in criminal or delinquency cases are kept.

Miss Ricardo added she was afraid her brother would be arrested as well. She said the brother was in fact jailed soon after.

Miss Ricardo again disavowed her statement to the police and at the preliminary hearing that she used Ward's apartment on three occasions for relations with men who paid her.

She testified that the only time she ever had relations at Ward's apartment was with a boy friend named "Silky" Hawkins and that she did not charge him. Tuesday she testified that Ward and a girl were similarly occupied in the room at the time.

Douglas Fairbanks Jr. denied the testimony Tuesday by call girl Marilyn (Mandy) Rice-Davies that he had relations with her.

The baby-faced little 18-year-old admitted to the packed courtroom she brought the name of the former actor and television producer into the case "because I didn't like him."

She had testified that Fairbanks was one of several men she had relations with during three months in 1961 when she shared an apartment with Christine Keeler, leading lady in the Profumo scandal whom the prosecution charges was a co-star with Mandy in a call girl stable operated by Ward. Mandy said Fairbanks didn't pay her.

Fairbanks, now 53, a resident of London since the war and a friend of Britain's royal family, issued his denial through a spokesman in New York. British law bars him from commenting on the case in London while it is still in the courts.

Dog Loses Life Of Ease

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Star, a 6-year-old Weimaraner, has lost his air conditioned station wagon, his silver eating dishes and a $300 a month caretaker.

After three months and $7,061 of luxury, the pampered pooch is going back to a dog's life.

The decision came when Tucson attorney Martin Rogers announced in Superior Court that he would resign as executor of the estate of Mrs. Olivia Kuhlmann, the animal's late mistress.

Mrs. Kuhlmann's will said that Rogers was to use "sufficient funds" of the $62,885 estate to care for Star.

The remainder, upon Star's death, is to go to Sol Rosenbloom, Tucson, and Mrs. Mayme Mullen and Mrs. William Walsh of University City, Mo.

As residual heirs, they filed suit to remove Rogers as executor. They said he was too extravagant in caring for Star.

The case came to an abrupt end Tuesday when Rogers said the case has affected his practice and his family in such a way he thought it best to step aside.

The court will appoint a special administrator to care for Star and handle the estate.

New Satellite Launch Delayed

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Spacecraft technical problems today forced an indefinite postponement in the scheduled attempt to launch the Syncom 2 communications satellite into a 22,300-mile-high orbit where it would appear to hang over one area of the earth.

The trouble cropped up only a few hours before launching while the countdown was under way.

Officials had no estimate on how many days the shot would be delayed.

No Highway Program Danger Seen In Trinity Project

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Highway Department told the Texas Water Commission Tuesday that the state's highway program would not be endangered by the proposed $900 million Trinity River development project.

The department forwarded a review of how the proposed U.S. Engineers project would affect highways. It put the cost of relocating highways at $70 million.

Water commissioners are scheduled to begin a hearing Tuesday on the feasibility of plans for developing navigation, flood control and water supply resources of the Trinity inland to Fort Worth.

First, however, the commission must weigh a request by 20 railroads operating in Texas that the hearings be reset for after Aug. 23, the date for a federal court hearing on the railroads' suit to block further action on the Trinity River project. The railroads also have filed with the commission a protest of the project.

"As is the case in any project of this magnitude, serious conflicts of schdeuling of construction as related to highway relocations and future planning are certain to develop," the department said.

"However, the report (by the U.S. Engineers) recognizes this problem and emphasizes the necessity of coordinating advance design and construction of the proposed projects with transportation relocations."

The Highway Department said the Engineers report "contains adequate provisions to both effect savings in public funds and to promote orderly development of the proposed projects and the related highway relocations."

Most of the $70 million in relocation costs will fall on local sponsors, such as the Trinity River Authority, the department said.

Plan Outlined To Finance New International Airport

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — A witness for Fort Worth outlined a plan for financing the city's share of proposed improvements at Greater Southwest International Airport including a 10-cent increase in taxes to remain in force for 10 years.

The witness, Archibald C. Matteson, director of research for Wainwright & Ramsey Inc. of New York, municipal financial consultants, testified Tuesday at the Civil Aeronautics Board's hearing on the Dallas-Fort Worth regional airport case.

His testimony was part of Fort Worth's case for having Greater Southwest International Airport designated the regional airport, a plan opposed by Dallas.

Fort Worth proposes improvements totaling $68.3 million of which the federal government would pay an estimated $18.3 million.

The improvements would be financed by bonds and Matteson said the added tax money would be needed to support the bond issue for 10 years and was set up also to service airport general obligation bonds that the city now has on hand. He said the airport would be self-supporting ten years after the tax goes into effect next year.

William Miller, attorney for Dallas, brought out in questioning Matteson that in September 1951 Fort Worth voters approved general obligation (tax) bonds in the amount of $1,750,000 for what was then called Fort Worth Greater International Airport by a majority of 38 votes.

The Work Starts

LINCOLN, Ill. (AP)—Vacations really don't begin for some parents when their children go away to camp.

Leonard Juhl, a high school teacher, bid his son, Gary, a pleasant time at camp for two weeks. Then he learned he would have to mow 20 lawns a week and take daily weather observations—chores the boy had handled.

Claims Nortex Knew About Wells

DALLAS (AP)—Defense counsel sought to bring out in the trial of a damage suit Tuesday that Nortex Oil & Gas Corp. should have known wells it bought from Ebro Oil Co. were slanted.

Nortex, which absorbed Ebro as part of the transaction, is suing Ebro for $5,761,553 although Nortex president James R. Wendover has said his firm hopes to recover only $1.1 million from Ebro stockholders.

Much of Tuesday's session before Dist. Judge Charles Long was devoted to cross-examination of a Nortex vice president, James C. Holcomb, by Ebro lawyer Henry Atkinson.

Earlier Atkinson introduced documents stating Nortex was satisfied, after an investigation, that the Ebro leases were what Nortex wanted to buy.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

by Heloise Cruse

Dear Gals:

The stuff that we keep under our kitchen sinks needs tending, too!

Imagine if some of your neighbors came in and cleaned it out? Whatever would they say?

Heloise

Gossip: "Now just why in this world did she keep that bottle of stuff? Here are three cans of so-and-so. Look at this old dirty thing!" And so it goes. You and I don't care, but for once let's stop and take a look at all this.

Get some newspapers. Put them on the floor of your kitchen and place everything in the bottom of your cabinet on the newspaper. Some of these things make spots and rings on your linoleum and asphalt tile! Also, there is another reason for the newspapers.

When you get through cleaning out, throwing away, etc., you can just roll up these newspapers and put the whole kit and caboodle in your garbage and save more cleaning up, energy, etc.

Wash the cabinet with a disinfectant. Then paint on some bug roaches or insects crawling . . . now is the time.

Let this dry thoroughly.

Look at the pile of stuff sitting on your drainboard which came from your cupboard above your sink! What's there? Stuff you don't use three times a day!

What's on the floor? Things you use six times a day!

Put the bleach, furniture polish, soap pads, starch, ammonia, etc., things you use 20 times a day on the shelf above that sink.

All poison should be kept high out of reach of small fry.

Now, just what are you going to do with that "under-sink" cabinet?

Put the utensils you don't often use in it.

Ladies, these shelves under and over your cabinet should be lined with foil. It again reflects light! These cabinets are dark. I am well aware that you think foil is expensive. It is. But it needn't be wasted.

It pays in the long run. It can be wiped with a sponge when it gets dirty and after using and reusing can be turned over next time you clean the cabinet, so in the long run it pays off. Don't scrimp here.

Neither does foil absorb odors. The lightweight foil is good, but the heavyweight is worth the difference you will pay, for it doesn't wrinkle as quickly as lightweight and won't have to be replaced as often.

I caution you . . . if you have wooden cabinets, put a piece of waxed paper down first to use as an underliner so that whatever you use as a liner won't stick. Waxed paper is inexpensive. Give here. Pays off later when you clean your shelves next time.

Let's get our homes clean, get rid of all the clutter. We spend most of our waking hours in the kitchen. Keep it simple.

Union Official Blasts At Bob Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP)—A teamsters Union official said today Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy has designed the administration's civil rights program for his "personal desires and ambitions."

Sidney Zagri, legislative counsel for the union, said the entire program is intended to help President Kennedy win re-election. He called for Robert Kennedy to resign as attorney general.

Zagri's prepared testimony before a House subcommittee was principally criticism of the attorney general, long a foe of Teamsters President James R. Hoffa.

Three churchmen supporting the program said segregation is immoral and "racism is blasphemy against God." They represented Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish groups.

Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, spokesman for the trio, told a House judiciary subcommittee in prepared testimony that "we are in the midst of a social revolution. Please God it will remain a social revolution and not degenerate into civil chaos."

He urged Congress to act now to pass President Kennedy's civil rights program.

Dr. Blake, chief executive officer of the United Presbyterian Church who was arrested earlier this month in a Maryland antisegregation demonstration, appeared with the Rev. John F. Cronin, an official of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, and Rabbi Irwin M. Blank of the Synagogue Council of America.

Dr. Blake called the joint testimony by members of the three major religious faiths a "historic event."

Dr. Blake told the House group that America's religious conscience recognizes that segregation and discrimination "are a denial of the worth which God has given to all persons."

He made these comments on the President's proposals to ban segregation and foster better race relations:

Voting—"It is a fact that on the basis of color or race hundreds of thousands of citizens are denied the opportunity to register and to exercise the right to vote. Therefore we welcome and support legislation which will provide realistic guarantees for all citizens."

Public accommodations — "Neither law nor morality sanction the concept of the absolute right of property. Both insist that the property owner must use his property is a socially responsible fashion. If we can protect citizens against the injury caused by blaring television sets surely we can give equal protection against the deep affront and humiliation caused by racial discrimination in public accommodations."

Education—The proposals "are positive, creative and constructive steps designed to aid school boards, as well as other state and local governmental units step up the pace of desegregation."

The three religious leaders will testify before two other committees Thursday. Father Cronin, assistant director of the Social Action Department of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, will present the joint testimony before the Senate Commerce Committee. Rabbi Blank, chairman of the Synagogue Council's Social Action Commission, will be the spokesman before the Senate Employment and Manpower subcommittee.

Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee and its Civil Rights subcommittee, is finding it hard to bring the hearings to a close.

They began May 8 and Celler had announced his hopes of ending them this week. But the hopes have gone glimmering. He disclosed Tuesday that he has been forced to extend them at least until Aug. 2 to accommodate prospective witnesses.

Suspect May Be Transferred

Raymon Quintana, 18, who has been questioned by Big Spring detectives for two days, regarding a fatal beating, may be transferred to Howard County jail today. Detectives Jack Jones and Wayne Tollett said he had made a statement but that more witnesses were to be brought in for statements.

Quintana is being held on a charge of murder following the death of Salamon Miller, 60, at a local hospital Monday. Miller was taken to the hospital Saturday afternoon when he was found inside Davis Cafe, 309 N. Gregg, bleeding at the mouth and only a bump on the head showing. Police said he was unconscious and unable to make a statement.

Miller's body was sent to Abilene for an autopsy, but a report had not come in Wednesday morning.

Quintana, sought on a warrant charging him with murder, was not found Monday night but surrendered voluntarily at the Howard County sheriff's office Tuesday morning.

Manuel Olague Dies Tuesday

Manuel Nunez Olague, 67, resident of Big Spring for 65 years, died Tuesday afternoon at a local hospital after a two months illness. He lived at 909 N. Runnels, was a retired farm laborer, and a member of St. Thomas Catholic Church. He was born Sept. 19, 1896 in Midland.

Boy Senators Complimented

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy, in obvious reference to the wrangling at the Governors' Conference in Miami Beach, Fla., over civil rights, told 100 boy "senators" today that they show more initiative in some ways than the governors.

He spoke to the youngsters, delegates to the annual Boys' Nation meeting, in the White House flower garden.

Both Federalist and Nationalist parties in the election held by the boys Tuesday had strong civil rights planks in their platforms.

In his brief remarks to the group, Kennedy jested about the closeness of his own election.

Congratulating Richard J. Stratton, 17, of Leland, Ill., 6n his landslide victory for the presidency of Boys' Nation, Kennedy said there are some candidates who just "skimmed by."

Boys' Nation is sponsored by The American Legion. Its purpose is to study the operations of the national government. Each state except Alaska and Hawaii is represented by two senators. The District of Columbia and the Panama Canal Zone also have two senators each.

Pecos Newspaper Is Sold Monday

PECOS (AP) — Fred W. Janca of Lovington, N. M., has purchased the Pecos Daily News for an undisclosed sum.

Janca, 31, assumed active control and management of the newspaper Monday. He will serve as publisher.

The Daily News, once owned by Billie Sol Estes, was bought from a group of 20 Pecos businessmen who acquired the newspaper from the Estes receivership a year ago.

Janca has served as general manager of the Lovington Daily Leader for the past two years. His wife, Sylvia, will assist him in the operation of the Daily News.

Both have previously operated the Eddy County News in Carlsbad and prior to that were employed by the Corpus Christi Caller-Times.

Troops Leaving University Campus

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—The U.S. Army continues pulling the last of its troops out of this university town today. By Thursday, the last soldier will be gone.

The 250-man detachment — all that remained of the more than 23,000 sent here last fall to quell the rioting which erupted when James H. Meredith enrolled at the University of Mississippi — began tearing down their tent camp late Tuesday.

Meredith, 30, the Negro who pioneered integration at Ole Miss, meanwhile went to his classes today under the watchful eyes of federal marshals.

Heat Blamed For Deaths

By The Associated Press

A couple of tornadoes menaced the upper Texas coast late Tuesday, but there was no such diversion elsewhere from the state's midsummer heat wave, tentatively blamed for three deaths in Dallas.

Hard, brief rains accompanied the economy size twisters. One hit on the north side of Port Arthur and the other near Bridge City, between Port Arthur and Orange.

Miss Judy Brewer, 24, suffered cuts on her arms as the storm smashed windows in her home at Bridge City. In the same vicinity a driving downpour and winds estimated up to 45 miles per hour halted traffic for a time on the Neches River bridge. It sank a boat in a yacht club basin.

At Port Arthur the other tornado damaged a small trailer house, hurled 10 big drums of Diesel fuel at the Marine Fueling Service Co. plant into a canal and broke power lines. Neighboring Beaumont measured .73 inch of rain.

Health authorities in Dallas said, meanwhile, that the city's unbroken week of 100-plus temperatures may have caused the deaths of a 50-year-old man and two Negro infants the past two days. All three died after developing body temperatures up to 110 degrees, diagnosed as evidence of heat strokes.

Weak and scattered thundershowers fell across the Texas Panhandle early Wednesday. The Weather Bureau looked for isolated thundershowers by evening in Southeast Texas. Forecasts nevertheless called for continued hot weather.

Long range advisories, covering the period through the weekend, promised temperatures several degrees above normal in all sections of the state and little or no moisture.

Wink in far West Texas recorded 105 degrees for the top official mark reported Tuesday. Other highs ranged down to 90 at Galveston.

El Paso registered 104, San Angelo 104, Midland 103, Abilene, and Wichita Falls 102, Amarillo, and Lubbock 100.

Blind Father Saves Daughter

School teacher William Schmidt, who is blind, holds his daughter Peggy Marie, 3, as he fishes for his wife's shoes in the pool at their Temple City, Calif., home. The shoes were left in the water when Schmidt and his wife dove in to save Peggy when she almost drowned. Schmidt raced downstairs of the home, leaped into the pool and groped for the child until he found her. He revived her with mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

OIL REPORT

Deep Section Has Weak Blow, No Oil

A weak blow, with subsequent recovery of only drilling fluid, were the results on the fourth drillstem test taken at Ashmun and Hilliard No. Bessie McBrayer, south central Dawson County explorer.

Operator tested a section from 10,822 feet to the bottom of the hole at 10,889 feet, with tool open one hour. The weak blow lasted two minutes and died. Operator bypassed the tool twice, with a few bubbles on each bypass. Fluid recovery was 90 feet of drilling mud.

This test was slated to bottom at 11,700 feet in the Montoya. The latest section checked was not identified.

The venture spots C SE NE, section 8-35-4n, T&P survey, about eight miles south of Lamesa and 3½ miles northeast of the Tex-Hamon field.

Pumping Section

Operator is pumping at Pan American Petroleum Corp. No. 1-F F. D. Breedlove, Silurian test in Martin County. No gauges were reported.

The project is bottomed at 12,165 feet, with tests being made through perforations between 12,118-123 feet. Previous recovery from the section included 37 barrels of new oil swabbed in each of two separate 11-hour periods.

John Stiff Gets Amarillo Job

John S. Stiff, 42, who was reared in Big Spring, has been named city manager of Amarillo effective Sept. 1.

Stiff, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Stiff, lived here for many years when Mr. Stiff was employed by Texas Electric Service Co. He is presently city manager at Garland. At Amarillo he will succeed N. V. Moss, who retired June 15. Stiff's salary will be $19,500.

He was graduated from Big Spring High School, attended Texas A&M from 1938-41, got his first municipal experience here. He also is a civil engineering graduate of Yale University and served as city manager at Irving for four years, following service with the city in Abilene as manager-trainee for three years.

Permit Denied, Commission Launches Cleanup Proposal

The city commission, at Tuesday night's meeting, disapproved a request for a permit for on-premises consumption of beer and wine at Celito Lindo Cafe, 305 NW 4th. The council also heard a report from the civic beautification and development committee of the Chamber of Commerce; granted a request from the Big Spring Amateur Radio Club to move an old city building not being used to their "snack" for an addition. It approved release of paid paving liens; and authorized initiation of vacant property mowing program; three ordinances were adopted.

The commission reviewed past history of the owner and location and disapproved the on-premises request.

John Taylor, acting as chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Civic Development committee in the absence of Clyde McMahon, congratulated the city commission on recent improvements, including the downtown planter boxes, landscaping parkways, improving parks, improving lighting conditions on the north side; installation of the up-coming trash and garbage pickup containers system; cleaning alleys and the collecting of garbage and handling cans in the residential area.

The committee recommended cleaning of vacant lots, and the control of litter around drive-ins.

The commission had approved a plan for mowing vacant lots in the city just minutes before the committee reported.

A property owner will be given 10 days notice. If he fails to comply, a city mower will move in and shred the growth. If the owner fails to pay the cost, legal steps will be taken to collect because of the safety, sanitary, and fire hazards connected with weed and trash-covered lots.

An ordinance was passed, on zoning from commercial to central area, the east half of the block, between Sixth and Seventh streets, along the west side of Main Street. An ordinance was approved on this reading, annexing Colonial Hills Addition, north of Immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic Church.

The Amateur Radio Club, with Weldon Lowe as spokesman, asked permission from the city to move an old, unused city building on "Goat Hill" to its present building to provide needed room. The Commission concurred.

Engineer Pact Is Approved

Clifton Bellamy was authorized Tuesday evening by the city commission to furnish engineering services in the design and construction of a roadway and storm water detention system along Eleventh Place. The area to be covered under the Master Plan bond program will be from Presidio Street, extended south, to State Park Road, about where future FM 700 will be re-routed to connect with IS 20 near the rodeo grounds.

Bellamy's basic fee will be based on a percentage of construction costs. It will be scaled from $10 per day for construction costing as much as $50,000, down to $7 per day for construction costing up to $500,000.

Other fees will cover regular engineering work required by the city, exclusive of resident inspection engineering. Certain maps, drawings and documents now on file at the city offices will be available to the engineer, and he will credit any preliminary field work done.

Bellamy's contract will cover the whole road layout, dams, and dirt work. No pavement will be included. The road, when completed, will be ready for curb, gutter and pavement, which will be done later.

The engineer will begin work on the project within a few days but no definite time was set.

Market Jogs Slightly Ahead

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market jogged ahead slightly in dull trading early this afternoon after 10 straight daily declines.

Brokers salled the advance "unimpressive" and ascribed it to buying by traders who hoped to pick up some short-term profits.

Motors, oils, steels, chemicals, utilities, aerospace issues, and a number of the volatile issues in the office equipment, photographic, and electronic fields were ahead.

As the possibility of a nationwide railroad strike once again drew closer, some Wall Streeters seemed to be standing pat.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .5 at 263.9 with industrials up 1.0, rails off .2, and utilities up .2.

The rails, although edging off slightly in the AP averages, seemed to be steadying at around the intermediate lows reached in Tuesday's sharp decline.

All the major auto stocks were up fractionally, but some gains were minimal.

Dallas Opposes VA Office Move

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposal to move the Dallas regional office of the Veterans Administration to Waco drew strong opposition Tuesday from a Dallas delegation.

Robert Cullum, president of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce, urged the VA to reject the proposal.

He said a recent study showed that suitable buildings are available in Dallas if the VA decides it does not want to renew a lease for the office space it now occupies in the city.

Cullum referred to a report that the VA has been considering relocation in view of a refusal by the owners of the building now occupied to sign a new lease agreement containing certain civil rights clauses.

The building is owned by the Baptist Annuity Board.

Political Fire Continues At Governor's Conference

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A Democratic-controlled committee of the 55th annual Governors' Conference acted today to cancel its endorsement of President Kennedy's program of health care for the elderly.

The committee, headed by Gov. Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey, rephrased a majority report to call for another year's study of the issue. It struck out language urging speedy congressional action on the proposal to finance such care through Social Security taxes.

Representing the four Republicans on the group, Gov. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon prepared a minority report calling for expansion of the Kerr-Mills program of federal-state aid for needy elderly persons.

Hatfield wrote antidiscrimination provisions into his report in an effort to bring the civil rights fight back to the floor of the conference.

The governors bypassed any positive civil rights action by voting Tuesday to instruct their executive committee to cooperate with Kennedy in a further study in this field.

Cancellation of the endorsement of the President's health care program seemed to indicate some dissension among the Democrats on the Social Security method of financing it.

Hatfield said he was not going to let the civil rights matter rest if there was anything he could do about it. But he conceded his chances of getting the minority report before the conference for a vote were slim.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson told the governors at their formal state dinner Tuesday night that public leaders could not keep their trust "by exploiting the (civil rights) issue for partisan ends or discouraging its resolution for personal advantage."

"American politics must not be less responsibile than the electorate it serves," Johnson said. "There can be no Democratic answer or Republican answer, no White House answer or state house answer, no 1964 answer. but only a responsible American answer achieved by all of us, at all levels, working together all of the time for and with the people."

Only a few hours earlier, the Democrats had blitzed Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and other Republican state executives at the climax of a three-day fight to put the Democratic-dominated Governors' Conference on record as favoring strong civil rights action.

Taking advantage of their 3-1 margin, the Democrats rolled over the Republicans who were threatening to steal their publicity thunder on the civil rights question.

A motion by Democratic Gov. John Dempsey of Connecticut to instruct the conference executive committee to give priority to civil rights in its operations in the next year won by a 38-3 vote.

Democratic Govs. George C. Wallace of Alabama, Ross Barnett of Mississippi and Donald S. Russell of South Carolina voted "no."

It was not lost on the Republicans that Dempsey, who had issued credentials to Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey to attend the conference as his aide, was the author of this particular motion. Bailey denied that the idea behind it had been transmitted to him from Washington, but he didn't convince everyone.

There was a little political sugar for everybody in this method of settling the civil rights matter.

Kennedy administration Democrats got credit for authoring the motion by which the conference directed its new nine-member executive committee to cooperate with the President and various agencies in the field of improving racial relations.

Under the rule that gives the party that does not hold the chairmanship a majority on this particular committee, Democrats would outnumber Republicans 5-4 and thus control the policies to be pursued.

Dodger Flingers Record 17 Shutouts This Year

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

You can't beat the Los Angeles Dodgers' formula for winning. Just keep the opposition from scoring.

The Dodgers turned in their 17th season shutout Tuesday night as left-hander Johnny Podres protected their six-game National League lead with a 6-0 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Already ahead of their previous Los Angeles shutout record of 14 set in 1959, the Dodgers need only five more runless victories to equal their all-time Brooklyn high of 22 in 1906 and 1916.

Six of their shutouts have been by 1-0 scores. Only once since 1890 have the Dodgers won more by the lowest of shutout margins. That was in 1907 when the Dodger staff fashioned seven 1-0 victories.

Podres was not particularly overpowering in spinning his fifth shutout of the campaign and 10th victory in 16 decisions. The 30-year-old southpaw permitted seven hits, walked three and allowed a Pirate runner in every inning but one. Three double plays, however, pulled him out of as many jams. John struck out six.

The second-place St. Louis' Cardinals defeated Milwaukee 5-1 for their fourth straight victory. Jim Maloney pitched a one-hitter for Cincinnati, beating the Chicago Cubs and Larry Jackson 1-0. Willie Mays cracked a pair of homers in the Giants 9-1 rout of the New York Mets and Houston snapped a six-game losing streak beating Philadelphia 6-5 in 15 innings.

Bob Friend, Pittsburgh's hard-luck right-hander, allowed the Dodgers only five hits and one run before bowing out for a pinch hitter in the seventh inning but absorbed his ninth defeat, four via shutouts. The Dodgers cemented their victory with a five-run assault upon relievers Al McBean and Harvey Haddix in the eighth. Tommy Davis drove in the first two runs with a single and rookie Ken McMullen the last two with his third home run.

Dick Groat paced the Cards attack against five Milwaukee pitchers with four hits, raising his league-leading batting average to .343. He scored after the first of his four singles in the opening inning and drove across the final tally in the eighth. Southpaw Ilay Sadecki, with relief help from Ron Taylor, squared his season record at 6-6.

Maloney, a 23-year-old Cincinnati right-hander who throws as hard as anybody in the league, fanned 13 Cubs and allowed only three base runners, all on walks, after yielding a first-inning single to Ellis Burton. It was his 15th victory against only three losses.

The game's only run was scored in the eighth. Tommy Harper singled and was forced by Vada Pinson. Gordy Coleman singled Pinson to third and Frank Robinson scored him with another single.

PODRES

HADDIX

It was Jackson's eighth loss in 19 decisions.

Juan Marichal registered his 16th victory with a four-hitter for the Giants, who inflicted the 15th straight loss upon Roger Craig. The Giants bombed the Mets' veteran right-hander for seven runs in the first two innings. Mays finishing him off with a two-run homer, his 20th. Willie socked his 21st off southpaw Ken MacKenzie in the sixth.

Craig, who has a 2-17 record, won his last game April 28 when he beat the Dodgers 4-2.

Al Spangler and John Bateman teamed up for Houston to snap the Phillies seven-game winning streak, longest for Philadelphia since 1955. Each had three hits, scored a run and drove in another.

Bateman, whose single had tied the score in the eighth inning, opened the 15th with a triple. One out later, Spangler came through with a single to end the 4-hour and 16-minute marathon. Dick Farrell, who fanned five batters in a two-inning relief stint, was credited with the victory, his seventh against 10 defeats. The loss was charged to John Klippstein, who allowed only three hits in seven relief innings.

Houston Wins Extra Inning Contest, 6-5

HOUSTON (AP)—Rookie Johnny Bateman tripled in the 15th inning and scored on Al Spangler's one-out single to give the Houston Colts a 6-5 marathon victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday night.

Dick Farrell, fifth pitcher used by Manager Harry Craft, was credited with the victory, his seventh against eight defeats. The hard-throwing right-hander struck out five of the eight batters he faced, including the side on 10 pitches in the top of the 15th.

The victory snapped a six-game Houston losing streak. It was Philadelphia's first loss in the last eight games.

The defeat was charged to Johnny Klippstein, his fifth in eight decisions. It was a tough loss for the veteran right-hander who allowed only three hits in seven innings.

Klippstein had taken over in the eighth inning after the Colts had scored twice to tie the score at 5-5. It was a single by Bateman that drove in the tying run.

After Bateman slammed his three-bagger, Klippstein disposed of Bob Lillis on a grounder. Dennis Bennett, a left-hander, came out of the bullpen to give Johnny Temple an intentional pass to set up a possible double play. Spangler upset the strategy by smashing a single to right that scored Bateman with the winning run.

Junior Leaguers Bid For Runnerup Spot

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The battle may be over for top spot in the American League—but that's quite a skirmish going on for second place.

There are no less than four teams in a virtual deadlock for the runner-up spot behind New York's surging Yankees, whose latest drive has carried them a whopping nine games ahead of the pack.

Here's how the aiso-rans in the first division stand — Boston is second, one percentage point ahead of Chicago and Minnesota and three in front of Baltimore.

All but the Orioles lost ground Tuesday night. Diego Segui posted his first shutout in the majors, pitching Kansas City over the Red Sox 1-0. Detroit took the White Sox twice, 5-1 on Norm Cash's eighth-inning grand slam and 6-4. Tito Francona's homer in the 13th gave Cleveland and Jim (Mudcat) Grant a 3-2 victory over the Twins ending the Indians' losing string at nine games. The Orioles blanked Washington 4-0 behind left-hander Steve Barber.

The Yankees? They won again, naturally, riding John Blanchard's home run slugging and the shutout pitching of Stan Williams and Steve Hamilton to a 7-0 romp over the Los Angeles Angels.

Blanchard, the reserve outfielder filling in for the ailing Roger Maris, kept up his heavy hitting with a pair of homers for the Yanks, who clinched it with a six-run cluster in the fifth inning against the Angels.

Hamilton, relieving Williams in the eighth with the bases filled, killed that threat by striking out three men in a row and completed the shutout by getting out of another bases-loaded situation in the ninth. Paul Foytack was the loser.

Segui's breaking pitches and low fastballs checked the Red Sox and brought the right-hander his fifth victory in his last six decisions. He is now 6-3. The Athletics netted the game's only run in the first inning off rookie Bob Heffner on Wayne Causey's double and Jerry Lumpe's single.

In addition to his clinching grand slam in the opener, Cash belted another homer in the second game as the Tigers swept the White Sox and finished the doubleheader with four hits. His four-run homer came after Detroit had loaded the bases in the eighth with two out and gave the pitching victory to Hank Aguirre, who scattered 11 hits.

Al Kaline had three singles and three runs batted across in the second game, won by Bob Anderson over Dave DeBusschere.

Both Grant and curveballing Camilo Pascual went all the way in the Indians-Twins marathon at Cleveland, ended by Francona's home run with two out in the last of the 13th. Grant, 7-9, allowed nine hits and blanked Minnesota on four over the last 10 innings. Pascual gave up seven hits, including a homer by Willie Kirkland in the sixth after a double by Francona.

Barber won his 13th of the season and first in four weeks with a four-hitter as the Orioles beat the Senators for the ninth time in 10 meetings this year. Baltimore nicked Claude Osteen for a run in the first inning, and nailed it

FORNIELES

The Dallas Texans having flown the coop, radio station KBST, Big Spring 1490, will air play-by-play accounts of the Houston Oilers each Sunday this fall. So says Winston Wrinkle.

The broadcasts will start in late August, at which time the AFL team will engage in its first exhibition games.

Setting course records is an old custom with Red Jacobson, the golf pro who played with Gary Player, Sam Snead and Big Spring's Jimmy Patterson earlier this week in Seagraves.

Jacobson's 64 set a record for future generations to shoot at in earning the right to play with Snead and Player.

Earlier, the redhead had blistered courses in Houston, Beeville, Victoria and McAllen for new records. He's been pro at the Mimosa course in Lubbock for two years.

Incidentally, Patterson will probably further his schooling at North Texas State University in Denton.

Mike Fornieles, who I always thought was the finest Big Spring pitcher in the history of the Longhorn League, may have reached the end of the line in the major leagues.

The Cuban righthander was cast adrift recently by the Minnesota Twins. Miguel, who will be 32 years of age Jan. 18, has been in the majors off and on since 1952. He has worn the flannels of the Washington Senators, Chicago White Sox, Baltimore Orioles and Boston Red Sox, as well as Minneapolis.

Fornieles made an auspicious debut in the big leagues Sept. 2, 1952, when he threw a one-hitter for Washington. Only Addie Joss of the 1902 Cleveland Indians did as well in his first start in the majors. In 1960, Mike played in 70 American League games.

In 1960, he was named the top relief pitcher in the American League by the Sporting News.

In 1951, when Fornieles broke into organized baseball here, he won 17 and lost six decisions. His earned run average, 2.86, was the best in the Longhorn League.

The selections committee for the Six and Eight Man Coaching School picked three Forsan boys for the annual eight-man football game in Cisco next month because it was in a bind for players.

Coach James Blake of Forsan, a vice president of the organization, graciously offered to help out the committee by asking the three boys — Hubert Bardwell, Jimmy Flynt and Bill Stockstill — to play.

Stockstill, an end and the son of the Forsan superintendent of schools, didn't play football last fall because the transfer rule made him ineligible but he's regarded as college material and the game could be a break for him in that college scouts will be on hand to watch the boys perform.

Ordinarily, no more than one player is taken from a school, Flynt likely will attend ACC this fall. At 200 pounds, he is regarded as quite a football player.

* * * *

Incidentally, Elbow school will be identified as Forsan Junior High this fall and the athletic setup there will be strengthened and diversified. The school will field a football team.

Originally, Forsan was to be represented at the Cisco grid clinic by four of its coaches, but indications are now only Oscar Boeker and Blake will be on hand. Boeker has been attending school for the first six weeks this summer.

Moneyed men in Houston are probably making a bigger effort to attract boxers of professional calibre than any other community in America.

The patrons of the sport want the hopefuls to move to Houston and fight out of there.

Featherweight Steve Freeman and heavyweights Tod Herring and Cleveland Williams are among the well-known boxers now headquartering in Texas' largest city.

Herring is biding his time. He'll make his move as soon as boxing's cartel is ready for him.

More than 4,000 young men have written Houston fight manager Hugh Benbow and his partner, Bud Adams, seeking sponsorships, and the chance to learn and train.

Jack Respects Power In Champion's Fists

TORONTO (AP) — Take Jack Dempsey in his prime and match him with Sonny Liston and how would it come out?

Take the word of an expert, there's just no telling.

"It might have gone either way," said Dempsey. "This kind of a fighter is tough to fight. He's liable to lick anybody.

"He's big and strong," the old heavyweight champion said of the latest titleholder. "And with today's crop of fighters, it may be some time before you'll be able to properly size him up."

Dempsey, 68, in Canada to look over some mining property in Quebec, said he had an invitation to watch the Sonny Liston-Floyd Patterson rematch on closed circuit television Monday night, but passed it up.

"I didn't see it, but it figured," he said of Liston's first-round knockout of the former champion. "I had a chance to go, but heck, it's just the same thing all over again."

Dempsey, who lost his title to Gene Tunney, then lost again in a rematch, said he quit the ring because "I didn't want to get hurt."

Patterson, twice the victim of first-round knockouts, should do the same thing, he said.

"Floyd is a nice guy and has plenty of dough," Dempsey said. "He doesn't need to fight. He's an amateur, not a fighter. He can't take a punch and personally I don't think he can fight."

Dempsey reflected a moment, then added: "I shouldn't have said that."

How about Cassius Clay, the loud-mouthed, unbeaten challenger who is angling for a title bout with Liston in September?

"Cassius does a lot of talking, but I don't know how well he can fight," Dempsey said. "He smothers you with punches, but I don't think he's ready for Liston yet."

Plans For Fight

HOUSTON (AP)—Texas Boxing Enterprises announced Tuesday that negotiations will begin immediately to match Floyd Patterson with Cleveland Williams for a Sept. 3 heavyweight fight in Houston.

Softball Playoffs Slated To Begin In City Park

Playoffs for the Big Spring Softball league championship get under way in the City Park this evening, starting at 6:45 p.m.

All four teams in the circuit are involved in the playoffs and two defeats will be required to eliminate a club. The tournament will be concluded Saturday night. No games are scheduled tomorrow evening, the tournament resuming Friday.

First games pit Morton's Foods against E. C. Smith Construction Company.

Webb AFB plays the Merchants at 8:30 p.m.

The Merchants captured first place in regular season competitions and are favored to win the tournament.

Cotton Mize will probably pitch for Morton's Foods against Troy Wetsel of Smith's in the opening engagement.

John Terry is apt to mount the knoll for Webb in the second engagement against Billy Paul Thomas, the winningest hurler in the league and one of the top softball flingers in the state.

Two teams tied for first place in the Pee Wee league and their managers, Jerry Stallo of the Blacks and Bob Papasan of the Greens, flip a coin to see which contingent plays the All-Stars Friday night.

Regular season competition wound up Tuesday night.

Americans Rusty, Need Warmup

WARSAW (AP) — Never again will the United States track team go to Moscow for the annual dual meet with the Soviet Union without stopping off for a warm-up meet first.

That seemed certain today, after the coaches and officials had finished their analysis of the recent American invasion of Moscow that turned out only slightly better than Napoleon's.

"I am making the very strong recommendation that we have at least one tune-up meet before the Russian meet in the future," coach Payton Jordan said here where the team is preparing for the meet with Poland Friday and Saturday.

"I also think it is a good idea to get into Moscow only a day or two before the meet, and stay a few days afterwards for sightseeing," Jordan said.

The team spent a week in Moscow this year before the meet, then almost lost it. The girls' team suffered one of the worst humiliations in American international sports history.

Actually, the team went to Moscow a week in advance to meet objections that they had been going there in the past without proper time to become accustomed to the food and water.

It didn't work.

"They went too long without competition," Jordan said.

Classy Turnout For Golf Meet

CHICAGO (AP)—A class-packed field, headed by Jack Nicklaus, Julius Boros, Bob Charles and slumping Arnold Palmer, will open competition Thursday in the 60th annual Western Open Golf Tournament at the Beverly Country Club.

Nicklaus, 23-year-old Columbus, Ohio, heavyweight, was due to play his first practice round today since his come-from-behind victory in the Professional Golfers Association championship at Dallas last Sunday. With Boros and Charles, Nicklaus is part of the trio that holds all the world's major championships. Nicklaus earlier won the Masters crown while Boros won the U.S. Open and Charles the British Open.

Irish Luck Good For Chicagoan

Mrs. Dwyer is a 65-year-old widow and mother of 12. She hit at the harness track Monday night, but waited to cash it.

INTERNATIONALS WIN

Texans Decision Andrews In 7th

An All-Big Spring final was assured in the District 3 Little League tournament when the Big Spring Texans knocked off the Andrews Nationals, 8-7, at Webb AFB Tuesday night.

The Texans swung the issue in an extra inning when Gilbert Rodriquez and Greg Ryan walked in succession and Charley Rodriquez brought in Gilbert with an infield out. Two were out at the time.

Andrews failed to get a runner aboard in the last half of the inning.

In the night's other game, the Big Spring Internationals sprang a mild upset by thumping the Big Spring Nationals, 3-2.

The Internationals thus won their way into the Friday night finals. The tournament will be resumed Thursday evening, at which time the Big Spring Texans will oppose the Big Spring Americans, winner over the Andrews Americans in their first round of competition.

The winner here goes to the Section I tournament at Big Lake, a three-day event which gets under way Aug. 1. Ralph Havenhill is the sectional director. Eight teams will compete at Big Lake.

Two Killed In New Jersey Train Wreck

HARRISON, N.J. (AP)—A man and woman were killed and 28 other passengers injured early today when a Port Authority Trans Hudson line train collided with a parked diesel engine east of the Harrison station.

The four-car train was approaching its last stop before Newark on a run from New York City when the collision occurred about 1 a.m.

Police said the passenger train sideswiped the diesel, tearing out the sides of three of its cars as it ran by.

The diesel, with 10 cars coupled behind, was stopped on a spur but stuck out into the path of the main line, police said.

Anna Misiak, in her 30s, of Jersey City, died at Beth Israel Hospital in Newark of internal injuries, the hospital reported.

The dead man was Quinton Villaneuva, 63, of Irvington, N.J. He died at a Newark hospital. Another passenger, Louis Gulinello of Newark, was reported in critical condition.

The accident occurred within a half mile of Harrison station, two miles from Pennsylvania Station in downtown Newark.

There were 38 passengers on the train. The parked diesel had a four-man crew, but police said none of them was injured.

"The impact knocked the engine back into the second car," said a passenger.

About 15 of the injured were taken by train to the Newark station.

"There was a terrible impact," said one. "I don't know what happened. I'm still shocked."

The accident stopped temporarily service between Journal Square in Jersey City and Newark. Harrison is the only stop between those two points. The Port Authority Trans Hudson tracks are operated by the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Lorre Opposes Similar Name

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Although friends say Eugene Weingand, 29, looks and talks a bit like Peter Lorre, the actor isn't sympathetic.

Lorre, 59, acting through attorney Robert H. Shutan, opposed a petition by the real estate salesman to change his name to Peter Lorie.

Shutan said Tuesday his client didn't want Weingand or anyone else to trade upon the actor's name.

Shutan told Superior Court Judge Philbrick McCoy that Weingand, advised by his friends to enter show business, originally expressed a desire to be called Peter Lorre Jr. The case was set for a hearing Oct. 3.

DAILY GUIDE— One of those days when it pays to watch all the angles, as some people will be either giving out false information or evading the truth. Take the news with a good size grain of salt. Some important higher ups will be throwing their weight around.

Avoid absent - mindedness; watch your change, directions, and any written messages, as well as those spoken. Late evening hours more congenial socially, but keep in mind the general background of illusiveness in relationships.

Tomorrow Neptune moves forward in Scorpio so we can expect some new directions in matters involving minority groups, welfare matters, and security secrets. This is a long term aspect, but we will be able to trace some trend started at this time.

Virgoans can wind up some action today or tomorrow. Librans be in readiness to move ahead. Arians, Leos and Sagittarians plan a fine social day or trip on Saturday.

Early hours could have some tension, with likelihood of friction, so start tomorrow resolved to keep calm.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, LEO! The general stress remains the same this year as last, except that your main problems should be over, if you acted wisely.

There is an accent on personal relationships, particularly if married or in partnership. Other people are more critical, or slow you down. Conditions at home base are still uncertain with changes or confusion going on from time to time. Around Oct. 3 expect an accent on these matters as concerns your partner.

Finances can have ups and downs, but stimulation will pass this month for the time being. Travel seems very favorable this year; watch out for too ambitious an idea at the end of August. This week be careful not to stir up difficulties by speaking out of turn.

Blind Teacher Gets Nation's High Honor

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) —When the U.S. Embassy in Saigon told blind Genevieve Caulfield, 73, that she had been awarded the presidential Medal of Freedom, she gasped and said, "My goodness, whatever is that?"

She was genuinely astonished as the embassy told her it was America's highest civilian peacetime honor, and read off the names of some other recipients this year—Pablo Casals, Thornton Wilder, George Meany, Ralph Bunche.

"But why pick me?" Miss Caulfield asked in her soft, carefully modulated voice.

The answer lies not in her dedication to a cause, like George Meany, or to the arts, like Casals and Wilder. In an age of the big gesture, Genevieve Caulfield, stooped now, and with iron gray hair, personifies the tiny individual efforts being made to help cure some of the ills of the world.

Miss Caulfield has spent 30 years helping blind children in Southeast Asia live normal lives. A doctor blinded her accidentally by spilling a bottle of corrosive medicine over her eyes when she was three months old in her home town of Suffolk, Va.

A year later, an operation restored some light perception in her right eye. Since then she has seen the world visually only as shades of gray.

When she went to Thailand in 1938 to try and establish a school for blind children, the first in the country, the people of Bangkok looked at her incredulously and declared, "Why help them? It is foolish."

Even now in Southeast Asia, Miss Caulfield says, the tendency is to write off retarded children as hopeless misfits.

She was not to be denied in Thailand. Her school, financed with her own meager savings, got off the ground in Bangkok late in 1938 with one pupil. She mastered the difficult Thai language and devised a Thai Braille alphabet.

The Thai government began supporting her after a few years and takes care now of one-sixth of the school's budget. The rest come from donations.

The school now has 145 pupils. There is another school with 40 pupils, run by the government.

Miss Caulfield estimates that in Thailand there are 30,000 blind people.

"When I think of all those people who are not taken care of I feel sad," she said. "But then, what can we really do? I feel my job is to try and make the people of these countries aware of their blind, and other retarded children and adults. But this way I can aid them."

Miss Caulfield's urge to help those afflicted as she is, built up over the years, first in the United States and then in Japan. She saved for seven years from her small earnings as an English teacher in New York to go to Japan to help the blind.

Finding Japanese blind programs highly developed, she remained to teach English until she built up her savings and her courage to go it alone in Southeast Asia.

She was invited to Viet Nam by the Saigon government in 1958 and now commutes regularly from Thailand. In Saigon she established "The Friends of the Blind of Viet Nam," and got a tiny school going for blind girls.

The school, with its handful of students, is cramped and facilities are poor. But Miss Caulfield is not pressing the government of either Thailand or South Viet Nam to build more imposing schools.

"My work has always been on a small scale, as much as an example to the people here as anything else. If I can make the public realize that the blind can be taught to lead useful lives than I would have achieved enough."

In Thailand, her blind students have become telephone operators, typists and teachers. Nine have been sent abroad for study. Some American servicemen have offered to finance a group of young blind girls in Viet Nam to go to the United States for advanced study.

Miss Caulfield still takes an active part in the welfare of her students, but she leaves the running of her schools to highly trained locals. She is a familiar figure in Saigon and Bangkok, walking slowly by herself or on the arms of friends.

Occasionally, she revisits the United States on self-imposed "lecture crusades." Last year she had a book, "The Kingdom Within," published.

She intends to stay in Asia as long as she is able to get around.

"So much is to be done," she says, "I will stay here as long as I am able."

Operation Is Finished

American military advisor sits amid wreckage of a village burned by government troops in South Viet Nam. Menfolk, suspected of being Viet Cong agents, had fled. Government soldiers found large quantities of supplies stored in the village, then burned some 100 houses after allowing the remaining population, mostly women and children, to remove personal belongings.

HOT SPRINGS, ARK.

Trouble Due For Gambling Oasis

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — For nearly a century this resort city has been an oasis of gambling and whisky in a conservative, Bible-belt state.

It has been the hideout of gangsters. Its night clubs draw top talent. Across its gambling tables flow millions of dollars.

Hot Springs has a moratorium on Arkansas' stringent gambling laws and on regulations that allow only packaged liquor sales.

The rest of Arkansas, except for critical church groups, merely wink. But there are rumblings of trouble in Hot Springs.

A bomb exploded in the plush Vapors night club and injured 12 persons. When Prosecutor David Whittington began a crackdown on prostitution, his car was dynamited.

Whittington and city officials have been feuding over prostitution. The prosecutor says it is rampant. Mayor Dan Wolf and Police Chief Milford Sanders say there is no serious problem.

The last prosecutor who stirred up Hot Springs was Sid McMath, an ex - Marine who closed the casinos and bars in 1947. He was elected governor the next year and the places reopened. They have been going strong since.

Some gamblers say privately that Las Vegas or Chicago gambling syndicates are trying to move into Hot Springs and that the unsolved Vapors bombing Jan. 4 was their warning shot.

A strong talking point of pro-gambling forces has always been that the casinos are owned and operated by local people. U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy says he is checking that claim. New federal laws prohibit bringing equipment or people across state lines to engage in gambling.

A federal grand jury investigated Hot Springs gambling in the light of the new laws, but returned no indictments.

Leading spokesman for the gambling forces is State Sen. Q. Byrum Hurst, son of a Hot Springs preacher. Only legal betting in the state is on horse races at Hot Springs' Oaklawn Park and at a dog racing track in West Memphis.

Hurst, who has been indicted on federal income tax evasion charges, earlier this year announced he would introduce a bill to legalize gambling. The churches put pressure on Gov. Orval E. Faubus and Faubus announced he would veto such a bill. Hurst didn't introduce it.

Rural legislators then offered a bill to establish a special state police division to crack down on gambling, but Faubus' lieutenants killed it with a filibuster.

The governor says gambling, liquor and vice in Hot Springs are local problems and he won't step in unless he is asked.

Hot Springs' mystery man is Owen (Owney) Madden, prohibition era beer baron and New York gang lord who moved to the resort in 1933 after serving time in Sing Sing. He lives an outwardly quiet life and claims he is retired.

At one time such underworld figures as Legs Diamond, Pretty Boy Floyd and Lucky Luciano had the run of the city.

Things have changed. When three Chicago hoodlums showed up this year, Whittington met them at their hotel and told them to be out of town by dark. They went.

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., put a crimp in Hot Springs' thriving bookmaking business when his investigations subcommittee closed the racing wires. Now the bookies operate on a bet today-pay tomorrow basis.

Hot Springs also is one of the leading cockfighting centers of the South. Several pits operate clandestinely from time to time.

The city levied a tax on casinos and used it to build parks and a municipal auditorium. The city has 22 swimming pools and is undergoing its biggest construction boom.

It has more per capita church construction than any other city in Arkansas. Its Easter sunrise service atop Hot Springs Mountain draws thousands, as does a candlelight Christmas ceremony.

It is the home of the Miss Arkansas pageant and draws a large share of conventions, including church meetings.

The beautiful Ouachita Mountain city of 30,000 is a bit cluttered with signs and is somewhat overrun with characters during the 43-day spring racing season. But it retains a unique atmosphere. Three big lakes nearby are havens for outdoor enthusiasts.

Hot Springs is a national park, and the government controls the privately owned bath houses along magnolia-shaded bathhouse row. Many doctors send patients to bathe in the thermal waters from springs deep in the earth.

Fire Damages Pittsburg Plant

HOUSTON (AP)—A fire and recurring explosions critically injuring a paint company worker and sent four firemen to the hospital Tuesday overcome by fumes.

Damage to the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. plant was estimated between $100,000 and $150,000 by plant manager John Wagen.

The injured worker, Eugene Coleman, 39, suffered burns over about 70 per cent of his body.

The three-alarm blaze erupted at 4:50 p.m. and required 75 firemen using 14 pieces of equipment before it was brought under control three hours later.

[ANOTHER EXCLUSIVE INTERVIEW WITH FINA]

Q: "IS IT TRUE THAT ALL BRANDS OF GASOLINE ARE PRETTY MUCH ALIKE?"

Today, instead of our customary tire-side chat on Pink Air, Fina's additive of the future, we would like to talk about gasoline. The interviewer, being an obliging fellow, has kindly agreed to ask some questions that may have popped into your mind, too:

Q. Let's see, I'm afraid that some of the questions may get sort of blunt.

FINA. Will that stop you from asking them?

Q. No.

FINA. In that case you might as well get on with it.

Q. Allright. First, in spite of all the advertising of special claims, I think most people believe that all reputable brands of gasoline are pretty much alike. Is that so?

FINA. Certainly. With minor variations, all first class gasolines are literally interchangable as to quality and ingredients.

Q. You mean you could mix them together?

FINA. Sure. Actually, that's exactly what you do whenever you add half a tank of a different brand to the gas that's already in your car, isn't it?

Q. Yes, but . . .

FINA. Of course they both have to be top quality and the same grade.

Q. There are quite a few grades of gas, aren't there?

FINA. Only two that matter, we think: Regular and Premium. We can't recommend the others.

Q. How about super-premiums; aren't they better?

FINA. Well, they're more expensive. But the catch is that your car either doesn't need gas of that grade, or can't properly use it any more than it could use rocket fuel.

Q. How about sub-regulars, at the other end of the scale?

FINA. They are cheaper, of course, but the catch there, is that your car doesn't run as well or as efficiently with them.

Q. So . . .

FINA. So, your best bet is to buy a Regular or Premium of one of the many well-made gasolines.

Q. That means there are poorly-made gasolines?

FINA. Oh yes; gas can be made to any specifications. If you're interested in antiques, there are some cut-rate grades that are quite inadequate for today's cars: 1913 model gas.

Q. How do you tell the difference? Mostly a matter of price?

FINA. Mostly, but it helps if you've heard of the brand, of course. A larger, well-promoted brand has to keep up its quality, if for no other reason than to protect its investment.

Q. Then bigness has something to do with whether a brand of gas is good or reputable?

FINA. Not altogether, but you have to be a certain size just to operate efficiently in an industry as huge as the oil business; that is if you're a diversified company.

Q. Which Fina is?

FINA. Oh yes; in addition to thousands of stations down the middle of the country, we have pipe lines, oil fields, five refineries, large petrochemical facilities, and we've done it all in six years. Say, does it sound like we're bragging?

Q. As a matter-of-fact, yes. But look, do you have to have all those things to sell good gasoline? Couldn't a station, or a string of stations, simply buy its gas from somebody else's refinery and sell it?

FINA. Yes. Many outfits, including some quite large companies, operate that way. Some of them sell old-fashioned, "Early American" gas and some sell the modern stuff. And some have pumps for every period: regular drive-in museums, they are.

Q. But would you say that it's safer as a rule not to buy gas from smaller outfits?

FINA. No, that wouldn't be fair. There are a number of small operators who sell good gas. As long as you know who you're doing business with, you're all right. Just keep your eyes open. Is all this clear?

Q. Yeah, except if you have to think that much about it, why not pull into a Fina Station in the first place?

FINA. Well, if you're driving down the road and you see a Fina Station and it's on your side so you don't have to make a U-turn through traffic and there aren't six cars waiting and you need gas or something, please stop in.

Q. Do you ever wish that your history was as long as your motto?

FINA. Youth is a wonderful thing, Mr. Q.

A Devotional For The Day

Lord, now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace, according to thy word. (Luke 2:29.)

PRAYER: "O Lord, support us all the day long of our troublous life, until the shadows lengthen and the evening comes, and the busy world is hushed, and the fever of life is over, and our work is done. Then in Thy mercy grant us a safe lodging, and a holy rest, and peace at the last, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen."

Haystack

Reports have it that the new Air Force space surveillance radar system will be able to detect an object no bigger than a dime 1,000 miles out in space. This detection system is called Haystack, doubtless because its capabilities suggest finding a needle in one.

With Haystack, tracking anything as big as a quarter or 50-cent piece will be duck soup. This leads to the conclusion that any so-called unidentified flying objects will be spotted unless visitors from other planets are about the size of a grain of sugar and operate space ships scaled down accordingly.

The truth is that various detection and tracking devices already scanning the heavens have already put the kibosh on U.F.O. talk. These mysterious objects, reported so freely a few years ago, would now have to penetrate a battery of electronic eyes and ears that make secret arrival virtually impossible.

So, at any rate, common sense tells us. Then in speculative moments we find ourselves saying inwardly, But suppose visitors from other planets have some sort of ray or something (at this point, the idea gets a little vague) that fools radar and all that stuff? If you look out in the backyard some morning and see a shiny disc with little green men hopping out, that's what they've got.

More Selective

"We haven't been very selective in issuing drivers' licenses," said James R. Barnett of the New York State Department of Motor Vehicles in a recent address. His conclusion is borne out by the fact that the number of adults with permits to drive is well over 50 per cent.

Some help in eliminating the unfit is coming from the Federal Driver Register, established in 1961, which lists 360,000 persons whose licenses have been revoked for drunken driving, or for conviction of a driving violation causing a fatal injury. This list produces 10,000 searches a day to determine whether license applicants have had their licenses revoked in any other state. As time goes on, this list should have a substantial deterrent effect on traffic law violations.

Meanwhile, it remains true that states are not very particular whom they license. The system needs considerable tightening up if we are to keep pace with the swift increase in the amount of traffic.

Morality Of U.S. Fiscal Policy

WASHINGTON — In these days when spokesmen for the administration are piously stressing "reminders of conscience" and "moral issues" in the "equal rights" crusade, it may be wondered why those symbols of national behavior don't seem to apply also to the fiscal policy of the government.

It might be assumed that it's all right to spend the total revenues taken from the citizens during the year and then to borrow still more and spend it, thus increasing an already record-breaking debt. If the citizen were to conduct his affairs by that code, could he, too, plead that just a few years ago somebody else spent as much, if not more, and never paid off a dollar of debt?

IN THE PARLANCE of the day, it has become a fad to denounce anyone who wants to balance the budget as some kind of "reactionary" or "right winger." If the argument is offered that a "conservative" is a fellow who wants to conserve his savings and his property, the retort usually is that this is the "obsolete" and unsophisticated doctrine of a past generation. If fears are expressed, moreover, about the future value of the dollar —that it may buy less when it is taken out of the savings banks than when it was put in there, the answer given is that the "national welfare" demands such confiscation.

IN THE FACE of such euphemistic arguments, it is in the public interest for attention to be called to some salient facts which President Kennedy failed to make clear in his recent summary of the nation's finances for the fiscal year which ended June 30.

The President said that last January his budget experts estimated that the fiscal year 1963 would show a deficit of $8.8 billion, but he added that it now is only $6.2 billion. This drop of $2.6 billion is supposed to bring sighs of relief, since it is pointed out that $1.7 billion of this decrease has been made possible by a cut in federal spending and that $900 million more than expected came in from tax receipts, sales of assets and other payments to the government since the January estimate was made.

NOW $900 MILLION isn't the only increase in revenues. For, actually, the total receipts of the government in the fiscal year 1963 went up $5 billion above the 1962 figure. Of this sum $3 billion was contributed by tax money. But all of this was eaten up in government spending just the same, and the budget was still left unbalanced with a deficit of $6.2 billion.

How can any institution remain in good health, fiscally speaking, if it uses up all of its increased receipts each year to pay current expenses and incurs also even a bigger deficit which requires the borrowing still more money? Any thought of reducing the public debt, moreover, seems to have been abandoned altogether.

YET THIS DILEMMA, which has gone unresolved for many years, doesn't appear to bother most of the politicians in Washington. They point out that it must be all right because in the peacetime years since World War II there has been a deficit every year with few exceptions and there is still enough unborrowed billions to send a man to the moon.

But the important fact to bear in mind is that fiscal unsoundness doesn't always reach its climax overnight and that, when the climax does come, it is too late to restore confidence.

THE PRESIDENT, after surveying his own figures—showing that the current deficit isn't as bad as last January's estimate—finds comfort in a budget of $92.6 billion because it isn't as high as the $94.3 billion estimated last January. Yet the federal budget was $87.8 billion just 12 months ago—in the fiscal year 1962. Why couldn't the United States government have gotten along in 1963 with that big budget of $78.8 billion? How can a reduction in tax rates now be considered sound finance? Even if business is stimulated and tax receipts should grow in volume next year, why should the government's expenses go up just the same?

THESE ARE THE simple questions that are left unanswered today in the "moral" atmosphere of the national capital where the preachers of "equal rights" and "equal protection of the law" show no signs of becoming conscience-stricken over the age-old principle that it's wrong "to rob Peter to pay Paul."

Billy Graham

I have recently become a Christian but I feel I cannot be a good Christian in the job I now have. Although my employer is a good man and the job is a good one, I still feel that I need to work with Christians for help. What is your advice? —J.H.

You will never become a strong Christian by fleeing from a situation. It is not likely that you will become a better Christian by retreating and finding refuge among other Christians. Spirituality does not rub off them and onto you. You grow and become strong often through opposition. Moreover, your witness is meaningful among those who knew you before your conversion whereas it will have less value to those who already believe. The Bible says, "Let each man abide in the calling wherein he was called." (1 Cor. 7:20) This is a general principle, to be observed unless your calling is clearly a violation of the Christian life. Remain where you are, and witness to the transforming power of the Gospel, for that is where you can most effectively serve the Lord.

SQUEEZE ON CASTRO: The United States has released data to support its claim that mounting moves to isolate Cuba have resulted in a steady deterioration of the Cuban economy.

Among the figures released: Western shipping to Cuba has been reduced from 128 arrivals at Cuban ports in January 1962 to only 12 last January; Cuba's gross national product was down 25 per cent in 1962 from the 1958 level of $2.5 billion.

Except for some foods, medicines and medical supplies, normal U. S. commercial trade with the Communist country was placed under embargo by the United States on Oct. 19, 1960. The latest sanction against Cuba was a ban on virtually all remaining U. S. financial transactions with Cuba and a freeze on Cuban assets in the United States.

PRESS TREATMENT: Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana has charged South Viet Nam with "a continuing effort to humiliate and to discredit American press representatives and to discourage them in the honest performance of their responsibilities to the people of the United States."

And, Mansfield said on the Senate floor, "the support of our newsmen by our own officials on the spot leaves much to be desired."

Several Kinds Of Fish

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's plan for solving the railroad dispute—or at least postponing a showdown until after the 1964 election—should fry several kinds of fish, none of them to his disadvantage.

1. It should eliminate the dispute as an issue in the election campaign.
2. It should avoid getting labor in general mad at him.
3. It should take the railroad union leaders off the hook.
4. It should help the railroads begin saving money.

ALL THIS is conditioned on one thing: that the 11-man Interstate Commerce Commission act instead of stall.

Kennedy has asked Congress to empower the ICC, for a two-year period, to hand down decisions in this railroad-union argument which already has dragged on for four years.

He also wants the ICC to have authority to get a federal court injunction to stop a railroad strike if the unions don't like its decisions. This should save the country from a withering shutdown until at least 1965.

Thus the railroad case wouldn't be an issue in the 1964 election. After that a re-elected Kennedy or his successor would have until 1965 to face the problem again, if there is still one by then.

The plan as Kennedy devised it may cost him the votes of some railroad workers next year, if they lose their jobs through ICC decisions, but organized labor as a whole wouldn't have much reason to be sore at him.

UNDER Kennedy's proposal men whose jobs are ordered eliminated by the ICC are to be transferred to other ones or, if they are laid off, are to get severance pay, like 60 per cent of their regular salary for three years, or other benefits.

UP TO NOW union leaders—in the face of approval of job elimination by a presidential commission and the Supreme Court—have refused to yield. This is understandable.

The leaders, elected by their union members, are paid to fight for them and their own jobs depend on their members' support. They can say they did all they could if now, under congressional approval, the ICC starts wiping out jobs.

They can truthfully say there's an end to how much fighting they do against the government. Thus the Kennedy plan is in a sense protection for the union leaders even though its purpose is to eliminate jobs.

From several standpoints, particularly a political one, the plan is shrewd although Kennedy has already been condemned for not taking a more direct, forceful stand to end the whole dispute fast instead of letting it stretch out.

Anyway, It's Fun

NEW YORK (AP) — There's nothing quite like a vacation to teach a fellow his place in the office.

It was Smythe's first day back after three weeks spent listening to his wife and building sand castles for the kiddies at good old Quagmire Cottages by the Sea, "family meals a speciality."

Smythe was the first man into the office. He went to the washroom, combed his hair, straightened his necktie, practiced in the mirror his gee but it's great to be back again grin.

In the next hour 37 fellow workers passed Smythe's paper-bare desk.

"Glad to see you back—been sick?" asked 25.

The other 12 made such remarks as:

"If I'd of known you'd of been out this long, I'd of sent you a get-well card."

"What hospital were you in?"

"They must have kept you under a sun lamp a lot. You gotta nice tan there."

After each remark—nobody asked him about his vacation—Smythe made a lonely round trip to the water cooler.

At 10 o'clock he went over to report to the chief accountant.

"I guess I better start catching up with the situation," said Smythe. "Who handled my work while I was gone?"

"What work?" inquired the chief accountant.

At noon he went to lunch with three old cronies. He pulled out some snapshots taken during his vacation, but nobody seemed interested in them. One of his pals had just got back from a vacation, too, and the others were leaving next week, and wanted to talk about their plans.

After lunch Smythe re-sharpened his pencils until 3 o'clock when he received a surprise summons from the big boss.

Handing him a cigar, the big boss said:

"Smythe, you've been doing a splendid job for the firm the last few weeks, and I just want to let you know first-hand there'll be an extra $20 on your next paycheck."

"But, sir, I've been on vacation for the last three weeks."

"Aren't you Ed Smythe in sales?"

"No, sir, I'm Jim Smythe in accounting."

The big boss reached out, plucked back his cigar, and said, "My mistake, Smythe. But remember, no matter what department you're in—keep up the good work."

Back at his desk, Smythe rearranged his paper clips again and sharpened his pencils until quitting time.

Upon leaving the office Smythe walked alone to his favorite tavern.

"Well, well, well—welcome back, Mr. Smythe," said the bartender. "Sure did miss you. Did you have a nice vacation?"

Smythe leaned his forehead on the shiny mahogany bar and broke into tears. He was very, very late getting home that night.

Some Heart Attacks Resemble Indigestion

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband's cardiogram recently showed a posterior wall infarction.

In a recent article you stated that this "would mean scarring of the heart muscle, which would be the healed area following a heart attack." My husband had no heart attack. Please explain this.—Mrs. L. B.

The whole explanation lies in six words that you didn't write.

If you had said, "My husband had not heart attack which we recognized at the time," the last six words would tell the whole story.

A heart attack means an interruption of the blood flow in one of the branches of the coronary artery, which serves the heart muscle.

If a large part of the blood flow is shut off, then a large part of the heart muscle is affected. If the stoppage is farther along, in one of the smaller branches, a small part of the muscle is damaged.

Whether large or small, it is still an attack in the sense that we use the term for coronary heart disease.

The cardiogram shows an infarct or infarction. This means that a portion of the muscle is not normal and scar tissue is forming or has formed around it. Your husband had heart trouble, even though you and he were not aware of it.

Such cases are not particularly uncommon. Cardiologists are forever encountering patients who haven't the slightest notion that this has happened. The most likely explanation is that they passed it off as a bad attack of indigestion.

You've probably read—but not really noticed—warnings about acute attacks of "indigestion."

This is an illustration of the reason.

Even in unmistakable heart attacks, the majority are not fatal.

But all are dangerous and all do some damage. Some people have a series of comparatively light attacks.

If they find out what is happening, and take care of themselves, they can remain in pretty good health. If they fail or refuse to recognize the truth, they are in grave danger.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: My daughter and her husband kiss their baby on the mouth and encourage the grandparents and relatives and friends to do the same. Isn't this dangerous? Will you elaborate? —A. B.

I realize that you're begging the question, but I agree with you. I do not favor kissing babies on the lips.

The soft, warm, moist surfaces of nose, mouth and throat are ideal roosting places for all sorts of germs, good and bad, major and minor. Colds, flu, miscellaneous viruses, strep, staphylococcus—you name it. And don't forget the many varieties of pneumonia.

I'm in favor of kissing babies on the cheek or forehead, or (even better) the back of the neck. But I don't know that grandparents can say much about this without inviting ill will. Maybe the best thing you can do is to follow the rules of kissing elsewhere than on the mouth, and of not saying one single word about it. Just hope that actions speak louder.

* * *

NOTE TO C. V. A.: Yes, the tendency toward allergies can be inherited. I stress "can" and not "will."

* * *

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears?' If so, write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald for the booklet, "Ear Noises—Their Causes and Cures," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin stamped envelope.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim

Land Of Change

Your correspondent is recently returned from the Land of Opportunity and is pleased to report that things appear to be looking up in Arkansas.

This is a generalization, but particularly in the urban centers, notably Little Rock, there is an air of development if not boom. In the hinterlands the process of awakening shows less signs of vigor. Gone, however, are the days when you could move into Arkansas rural districts and pick up land for a song. Here and there are evidences that once worn-out, wooded land can be turned into productive acres.

A CASE IN POINT is what God and Winthrop Rockefeller have accomplished in Yell County. One of the grandsons of the legendary oil tycoon settled in Arkansas and picked out what was regarded as one of the poorest counties of the state to prove that modern methods can work wonders. He acquired multiplied thousands of acres, some of it in bottoms, some on hills and a lot of it on a great plateau. Giant machines ripped off the low value timber, terraced the slopes. Palatable, nourishing grasses were seeded and fertilized. He stocked ranges with blue-blood Santa Gertrudis cattle, which are fed his own mixed feeds grown on rich bottom farms. He has his own experimental grass farms (including a gold mine in zoysia grass), a spotless show barn layout with cafeteria, stalls of structural glazed tile, rubber mats and welded pipe rails.

THERE ARE NOT enough Rockefellers to go around, but elsewhere there is signs of progress. For instance, in the country around Benton are the vast bauxite deposits which furnish most of the nation's aluminum potential. A once worthless and troublesome residue has been found by an enterprising young man and converted it into excellent base material marketed under the name of Donnafill.

Little Rock, a city about the size of Lubbock, is bustling. The amazing thing about the housing boom there is the great number of places in the $75,000-$100,000 category clustered along the slopes of the western ridges. Major shopping centers (one with a two-level mall) have been erected; apartment centers are going up like mushrooms; a new mental hospital is rising near the dream-like medical center. Several men developed 1,100 acres of raw land into an industrial district and have wrought miracles.

EVERY YEAR FINDS the schools with enough new scholastics to warrant a couple of schools. With a minimum of problems and fanfare, integration is progressing, this year to the second and fourth grades. There have been only about a dozen requests at each level, and possibly two-thirds will be honored. A colored girl seems a cinch to shatter all scholastic records at Hall High.

There is a certain air of history rooted in the territorial days and Confederacy days, and politics hang heavy around the Marion Hotel where it is agreed Orville Faubus has accumulated not only a backwoods backing but an awesome machine. Nevertheless, Arkansas is looking at today's facts of life. It is pioneering in an economic education workshop which had such formidable lecturers as Henry Ford II, Donal Bell, director of foreign aid, Rep. Wilbur Mills, Sen. John McClelland, and others. There are voices of conservatism heard, yet the city has a tremendous urban renewal program reclaiming musty areas. No one would think of challenging the program to make the Arkansas navigable to Tulsa.

THE STATE HAS great resources in minerals, a reasonable amount of fertile deltas and bottoms, great potential on its rolling hills. It has a potential in water resources unmatched by any other state in the Southwest, and its timber reserves are impressive. Most of all, it seems to have a new spirit among its younger leaders who seem determined that the state slogan will mean just what it says.

You Can't Enjoy Culture

We Americans who have been thinking that the so-called culture explosion or cultural boom was just great and that the whole nation is benefitting by it are in for a nasty shock.

The truth is that if you and I are not careful we are going to be the death of culture. Our eager interest in art, music, theatre, books and corollary subjects is suddenly a threat to the whole cultural kit and kaboodle.

SOMEHOW, the fact that there are now 1,000 symphony orchestras, as many opera groups and 100,000 little theatre organizations in the United States is not vivid testimony of a national hunger for the better things of life. It only confirms our eternal American commitment to the booboisie.

During the past six or eight months this has been the general tenor of critics of American life and times, as expressed in magazines, newspapers and on television.

THE CRITICAL JOY that greeted the cultural boom after World War II is evaporating these days in critical suspicion not that culture isn't good for us but that we're not good for culture.

As far as this member of the booboisie can figure out, after study of the charge, we Americans have committed the unforgivable artistic or cultural sin of ENJOYING more books, art, music and drama than has ever been available to us before.

THIS, APPARENTLY, is where we Americans have erred, at least from the critical viewpoint. Our enthusiasm for art in all its forms is a black mark against us. Again, I deduce that our enthusiasm, like our enjoyment, is uninformed, unsuitable and wholly unbearable.

Only a week or so ago a critic of The New York Times worried in print over a display of four pictures by a living French artist of considerable reputation. The Times critic seemed most apprehensive that Americans exposed to these pictures, hung in the TWA terminal at Idlewild International Airport, wouldn't realize that they are terrible. They might, God forbid!, even enjoy them.

THAT'S THE RISK — enjoyment — a nation, in the midst of a cultural boom (if you will pardon the expression), runs. And it is a very grave risk, indeed, as pointed out on television recently by William Saroyan, the author, and Walt Kelly, creator of "Pogo."

As members of a teevee panel on the cultural explosion, the Messrs. Saroyan and Kelly came up with a blanket "no confidence" vote in their fellow citizens. They could not explain away the 1,000 symphony orchestras across the land, but they had a ready raspberry for the little theatres and all their laughable ilk.

THE OTHER MEMBERS of the panel, Jean Dalrymple, director of the New York City Center; David Merrick, the Broadway producer, and Dave Brubeck, the jazz maestro who has just completed a new symphony, felt there was a lot to be said for the cultural explosion and that it was both splendid and real.

But the withering interruptions of Saroyan and Kelly took care of them and any preposterous idea that a culture boom was visible in the U.S.A.

MERRICK FINALLY got in one short comment: "People want to be entertained. Is that bad?"

The answer, if you read the new criticism is "yes." That's the reason the cultural boom is a bust. We Americans have been enjoying ourselves and have been entertained by the arts. And culture won't be a success in this country til we're all bored stiff.

New Influence In The House

WASHINGTON — Congressman Gerald Ford of Michigan, mid-continent in geography and mid-conservative in politics, gets frequent mention for the Republican national ticket of 1964. His national image is a little too dim at the moment for presidential likelihood, but he conceivably could run in second place for Barry Goldwater, Nelson Rockefeller, Tom Kuchel or General Lucius Clay. He would do credit to any ticket.

JUST TURNED FIFTY, a balding, one-time blond football star and boxing coach, Gerry Ford, in the role of a national candidate, would represent a trend that began in 1960. Three years ago, both parties left the old presidential supply sources, which for years had been the governorships and military shrines, and reached into the Senate. Kennedy was preferred to Stevenson, Nixon to Rockefeller. The Democrats did the incredible by fielding two senators, Kennedy and Johnson, despite the fracture of a precedent.

TODAY, WITH THE Senate gone heavily liberal, most of the close party battles are fought in the House, where the Republicans keep gaining membership, and gaining quality, despite losing governorships, senators and their only President since the Great Depression.

Ford came to Washington from Grand Rapids in 1948, when Harry Truman was scuttling Republican majorities in both chambers and in the Gallup polls. A Yale Law School graduate and a Navy veteran, Ford took the slow way upward by inconspicuous work on the Appropriations subcommittee for defense spending, the opposite number of Democrat George Mahon whom he greatly admires.

FORD WAS NEARLY always with the GOP leadership in votes, but not entirely in lock step with the plodding of the Old Guardsmen. He was part of the youth movement in 1959 which overthrew Joe Martin and installed Charlie Halleck as the Republican leader. Then, this year, Ford himself rode the surge for a New Breed of party leadership. He unhorsed the elderly Hoeven of Iowa, a Halleck henchman, and became chairman of the hitherto moribund Republican Conference.

Since then the conference has been a garrison post from which Ford-appointed subcommittees have made daring raids on a number of rather complacent Democratic positions.

THE HOSMER (Calif.) subcommittee has hit the administration some telling blows on the matter of detecting nuclear blasts. Schwengel of Iowa leads a subcommittee which has awakened slumbering attention to the scarcity of minority staff workers. A new subcommittee under Gubser of California is readying a study of Democratic assumptions on space spending. An Ad Hoc subcommittee, headed by Poff of Virginia, is reporting on ways to improve the work of the Conference itself.

BY MARSHALLING these and other youngish House members, Ford has become something very admired on both sides, and in both parties, of Capitol Hill —a politician's politician. His rise is not dissimilar to the ascendency a few years ago of Sen. Lyndon Johnson, although without LBJ's flamboyant and publicity-conscious style.

Ford's economic conservatism would balance a Rockefeller ticket, and bolster a Goldwater ticket. His ideology, while activist and nationalist, is not doctrinaire. He can see some reason in bending a principle to make it fit an historical opportunity—such as invading Cuba at a ripe moment, aiding Yugoslavia to help split the Communist bloc, curbing civil rights (in which he deeply believes) at the point where they intrude upon property rights.

A GO-SLOW, but go-forward product of the postwar House, Ford is one of many Republicans who are willing to march, but not to stampede, toward the betterment of his country and party.

New Action May Nullify Agreement For Equality

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP)—The president of this racially divided community's leading business group resigned today after its directors announced their opposition to an equal accommodations amendment to the town charter.

The split threatened to offset the effects of the new agreement signed in Washington Tuesday by Negro and white leaders in an attempt to solve the town's explosive racial problems.

Levi B. Phillips Jr., head of the Dorchester Business and Citizens Association, said he was quitting because the association's directors had voted to bring the amendment to a public vote, then to work for its defeat on the referendum.

He thereby joined Mayor Calvin M. Mowbray and other town officials who had expressed hope that the amendment would be permitted to take effect next month.

Phillips' announcement came after directors of the association disclosed that nearly 700 members voted unanimously at a Monday meeting to support a drive to petition the amendment to a referendum.

These developments followed a general easing of Cambridge's racial tension as a result of a 24-hour-old agreement.

The agreement was signed Tuesday in the Washington office of Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy after nearly 10 hours of negotiations between Negro leaders and Maryland and Cambridge officials. The pact says it "is considered as imposing a moral obligation. . . to abide by and fully support the spirit and intention of this agreement." It is not legally binding.

"Not everything has been accomplished," Kennedy said. "It is a major step forward. It is an effort to get Cambridge back together. It is not a victory or defeat for anybody."

Negroes have agreed to halt demonstrations indefinitely because "further progress can best be obtained in an atmosphere of calm and serenity."

'Try Big Spring First' Materials Are Distributed

New displays urging residents to "try Big Spring first" before making a purchase will be going soon. Large banners for display in store windows were distributed today at a joint meeting of the retail and advertising and promotion committees of the Chamber of Commerce.

Enough banners are available for every business, Carroll Davidson, Chamber manager, said. The Chamber purchased 1,000 of them. He urged businessmen who have not obtained a banner to stop at the Chamber soon to keep the "Try Big Spring First" campaign going strong.

About 20 persons attended the meeting. Many suggestions were offered about how business can help the customer want to buy locally. Sgt. A. C. Rose, an airman at Webb Air Force Base and chairman of the convention and tourist committee, played a tape recording of commer'ts from Webb AFB personnel suggesting how retailers can do a better job of serving base personnel and the general public.

Merchants were urged to help keep Big Spring clean to make it a more inviting shopping point. Larry Crow, city manager, pointed out that the new dumpster garbage containers will be placed in alleys this week and he urged businessmen to cooperate in making most efficient use of them.

As a follow-up to distribution of the banners, lapel buttons which can be used by clerks and other store personnel will be distributed when they arrive. They are expected in about a week.

Unemployment Caused By Automation To Be Studied

EDITOR'S NOTE—President Kennedy says he intends to appoint a commission to study the effect of automation as a cause of unemployment. The following article analyzes the general problem.

By DARDEN CHAMBLISS
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—A new attack is being mounted against a problem that has persistently resisted conquest. The problem is unemployment caused by automation.

This time, with more to go on than ever before, the effort may be more successful.

The new assault will be made by a commission announced by President Kennedy in connection with his discussion of the railroad dispute.

MORE TO IT

Kennedy made it clear, however that he is not merely thinking of the switch from coal-burning locomotives to diesel-powered engines, which planted the seeds of the rail dispute by making obsolete the work of firemen.

The President said he wants the most comprehensive review ever made of this complex subject. In stressing breadth, he seemed intent upon neutralizing a difficulty of some previous studies.

Many businessmen have attacked other studies as making a bogeyman out of automation, of treating it as an unprecedented force that has wrecked jobs singlehandedly.

Henry Ford II registered such a dissent as a member of the President's Advisory Committee On Labor-Management Policy in a report on automation Jan. 11, 1962.

NOT NEW

This time Kennedy emphasized he considers automation desirable, that he does not consider it frighteningly new, that it is merely one factor in unemployment.

These disclaimers are in keeping with the new climate in which automation is being discussed. While some still speak of millions being displaced by machines, many others have drawn encouragement from recent developments.

Chief among them are the Kaiser Steel Co.'s long-range sharing plan at Fontana, Calif., and a maritime union agreement with Pacific shippers.

Both of these plans are financed by savings resulting from automation. Employers are encouraged to automate, both to ease the strain on human backs and to enrich the funds from which workers draw benefits.

PROVISION

Kaiser also has a provision for retaining employes who are displaced by machines. But with the rising demand for steel this spring the system hasn't been used very much.

Another new development has been the extended vacation plan, first installed in the can industry, then in steel, and now being sought in aluminum. The idea is to spread work by giving long-term employes 3-month vacations every five years or so.

A third recent development has been the .700 batting average by new federal retraining programs in getting graduates back to work.

These developments are just beginnings, however. The maritime program is the only one that has been in full operation more than a year. There also is disagreement over their cost and effectiveness.

Automation is spreading more and more. Few workers can feel forever secure.

CAN BE ADOPTED

The practice of using punched tape to run machines has been refined to such a degree that all kinds of shop and office machines can be adopted to it.

Similarly, computers are no longer restricted to the monolithic, bulb-flashing giants of cartoons; they are available in small, relatively cheap models.

There are also small robot machines with finger-like appendages that can be "trained" to do assembling, sorting and other tasks requiring dexterity.

Because of these trends workers are uneasy. Union negotiators are being pressed to give priority to job security in new contracts.

This was a major issue in the 1958 steel strike that lasted 116 days and in the costly dock and newspaper strikes last winter.

URGENCY

These conflicts point up the urgency and breadth of the problem.

There are questions of how to provide a basic education rich enough to meet changing job demands, how to help workers too tied to a locality to move where prospects are better, how to apportion among employers, unions, and government the responsibility for aiding displaced workers.

3 ◇	Pass	5 ◇	Pass
6 ◇	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ♠

Today's slam contract in diamonds was a soundly conceived enterprise. South's hand is worth 19 points counting high cards and distribution and is well worth a jump rebid to three diamonds. North has an opening bid himself including a fit for partner and a slam try is clearly indicated. Since he has no ace to show, his invitation must take the form of a jump to five diamonds; South has the necessary controls to proceed to slam.

West opened the king of spades taken by declarer's ace. Trumps were drawn in two rounds and, since the fate of the hand appeared to hinge on the heart finesse, South hastened to lead the four of that suit from his hand. West followed with the five and the ten was played from dummy. East produced the queen of hearts and a spade return settled declarer's hash.

While we cannot criticize South for failing to drop a doubleton queen, we do feel that his heart finesse was a trifle premature. At the risk of losing an overtrick worth a mere 20 points, South can better protect his slam investment by conducting a preliminary investigation of his opponents' distribution.

It is suggested that he concede his spade loser after the trumps are drawn. Suppose West now shifts to a heart. The ace is played from dummy and a third round of spades is ruffed. If the queen of spades happens to fall on this trick, North's ten would become established and eliminate the necessity for taking the heart finesse.

East shows out on the third spade and South ruffs. Since West must hold on to his queen of spades to cover North's ten, declarer can safely postpone his heart play 'til the very end. He cashes the two high clubs and then runs down his remaining three trumps, on which West discards the five of spades and two hearts. The ten of spades is thrown from dummy after West's last discard.

At trick 12, a heart is led and West follows with the nine. Since his remaining card is known to be the queen of spades, declarer can put up dummy's king of hearts with complete assurance of dropping the queen.

DEAR ABBY
Appreciate The Children

DEAR ABBY: Why do people think that because you have a large family, your yard is a public playground? Right now 12 kids are playing ball in my back yard, and only seven of them are mine. The children't aren't allowed to play in other yards because they ruin the grass. I really don't mind, but it wouldn't hurt some of the other parents to share the noise with me. At night they ask me to turn on my yard lights so they can play after supper. When, oh, when will I have peace and quiet again?
JUST WONDERING

DEAR JUST: Too soon. And you can take my word for it. Count your blessings. Your children are occupied in healthy, wholesome play, and you don't have to worry about where they are — or with whom. Anybody can raise grass. It takes special qualities to raise children.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am 14 and my mother and I have been fussing over something very silly. We were at the ball game and I was with a very nice boy. He took my hand. My mother then leaned over and told me to quit holding hands with him. Abby, couldn't she have waited until I got home? She had to make a big scene in front of everybody. I don't see anything wrong with a boy and girl holding hands at a ball game, do you?
WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Your mother could have told you quietly to quit holding hands, but I think she was right to tell you. A display (even a minor one) of affection is out of place in public.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Someone suggested to "Ma" (who was upset at seeing "Pa's" choppers grinning at her from the dresser top while Pa was outside mowing the lawn) that she "steal" Pa's choppers and leave in their place $3.20 from the "Good Fairy." Well, a set of dentures contains only 28 teeth. So at the rate of 10 cents per tooth, Pa should be left only $2.80.
Sincerely,
DENTAL ASSISTANT

Storms Strike Parts Of Nation

By The Associated Press

Severe thunderstorms struck northern central Alabama today as more showers fell in other sections of the Southeast and in parts of the West.

In Alabama, heavy rain, hail and strong winds swept the Birmingham-Bessemer region. Trees and power lines were toppled. The Weather Bureau reported police in Bessemer said a large tree fell on a two-story apartment building. There were no reports of injuries. Hail pelted the Huntsville, Ala., area.

Warm weather prevailed across most of the nation. Temperatures ranged from the middle 60s in the northern Appalachians and the Lake Superior district to near 100 degrees in the Southwest desert region. Hot air clung to the Plains region with readings in the 80s as far north as Miles City, Mont.

Pact Is Signed

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico signed a technical assistance pact with the United Nations Tuesday for a million dollar program in 1963-64. The money will come from 10 organizations which channel aid through the United Nations and will be spent for various technical programs.

Alley Dedicated To Union General

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The City Commission has honored the flight of a half-dressed Union general before Gen. Nathan Bedford Forrest's Confederate raiders.

An ordinance to make a downtown alley "General Washburn's Escape Alley" was approved Tuesday.

One night in 1864 Maj. Gen. Cadwallader Colden Washburn fled his quarters clad only in his nightgown. His dress uniform was taken by one of Forrest's detachments.

Forrest returned the uniform. In response, Washburn had a uniform tailored and delivered to Forrest.

Border Work Conditions To Be Discussed

AUSTIN (AP)—Eight lawmakers from Mexico and the United States will address a conference at Laredo next week on working conditions along the Texas-Mexico border.

Roy Evans, secretary of the State AFL-CIO, said Tuesday that the purpose of the meeting is "to draw plans to remedy the deplorable wage and job situation along the Texas-Mexico border."

Evans said it will be an attempt at a remedy "by cooperation and common sense, and if this does not work, by demonstrations."

Evans' first mention last week of possible mass demonstrations in South Texas brought quick criticism of "irresponsible" and "selfish" from Gov. John Connally. Evans countered with an invitation for Connally to attend the Laredo meeting.

The State AFL-CIO's Committee on Latin American Affairs will meet Aug. 2. Bexar County Commissioner Albert Pena Jr., state chairman of the Political Organizations, will keynote the Aug. 3 meeting.
