Loan Provisions Changes Noted

The only change in the loan provisions for 1971-crop corn is that loan rates will be those of the "county where stored" instead of the "county where produced", according to Charley E. Hill, Secretary of the Castro County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee.

The action is intended to encourage the flow of corn into the principal consuming areas. The change to the "county where stored" basis for loan rates had already been made for several other grains and for soybeans, according to Hill. It provides farmers an added option in management, with no penalty imposed if they choose storage closer to market outlets.

Loan rate for 1971-crop corn in Castro County will be $1.14 per bushel, the same as for 1970. It is based on a national average loan level of $1.08 per bushel, No. 2 basis. Premiums and discounts will be unchanged from those in effect for the past several years.

County loan rates vary throughout the country because of historic difference in locations and prices. Variations in local corn prices are caused by such factors as changing trends in production and use, transportation and others. A review of these factors and of local operations of the loan program by U. S. Department of Agriculture officials is made each year before county loan rates are established.

"The County ASCS Office can check on the loan rates for any county where a producer plans to store his corn," Hill said. "As always, eligible producers wanting to know about loan rates should get in touch with their local ASCS office."

Participants in the 1971 voluntary feed grain program are eligible for loans and set-aside payments for corn.

"Producers participating in the 1971 set-aside farm programs are reminded of the need for continuing observance of set-aside requirements," Jim Elder, Chairman of the Castro County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee, said today.

He pointed out that even though crop acreages have been certified and virtually all program participants have received their preliminary set-aside payments, the requirements relating to set-aside acreages must continue to be met through the remainder of the year.

The set-aside represents that acreage on a farm which must be devoted to conserving uses in addition to the conserving base if a producer is par-

DONNA KAY WELTY

'Candy Striper' Gains Experience For Career

Serving as a Candy Striper is providing experience for Donna Kay Welty for the career she hopes to pursue in nursing.

The fifteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Welty enjoys her volunteer work at the hospital and has over 60 hours of work compiled since becoming a member of Castro County Candy Stripers seven months ago.

Miss Welty, a sophomore at Hart High School, was selected to attend the Annual Texas Candy Stripers Convention in Canyon last August and attended the two-day workshop meeting.

Candy Striper's duties include keeping the lobby neat; watering flowers for the hospital and for patients; reading to patients; walking patients; serving meals and many other activities. Candy Stripers may also increase their duties by helping at the Mental Health-Mental Retardation Center.

A teen volunteer worker for the American Cancer Society, Miss Welty recently attended a workshop for the annual Hospital Auxiliary bazaar.

A member of the Church of Christ, the active volunteer is also involved in numerous school activities. She is a member of Future Homemakers of America, Future Teachers of America, Pep Squad and 4-H Club.

Miss Welty has two younger sisters, Joyce Lynn, 14, and Leoria Sue, nine.

Blood Drive Slated For Local Youngsters

the First United Methodist Church from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Persons wishing to donate blood to the boys may contact any member of Chi Psi or Xi Mu Iota sororities. For information or appointments call 938-2393 or 938-2171 during the day or 938-2328 or 938-2255 after 5 p. m.

Beta Sigma Phi sororities and Hart Lions are sponsoring the drive.

Some 22 units of blood are needed to replace that which has already been used. Any additional donations will be kept in reserve for future use of the boys.

Army ROTC Scholarships To Benefit 1003 Students

The Army has announced that 1003 four year scholarships will be offered to high school seniors for matriculation at colleges and universities throughout the United States in school year 1972-1973. These Army ROTC scholarships are awarded annually to outstanding male high school seniors who are motivated toward a career as Army officers.

The scholarships are worth $6,000 to $12,000 depending upon the university or college the recipient attends. The scholarship includes tuition, fees, books and laboratory expenses, plus $50 per month for the duration of the scholarships, and may be used at any of the more than 280 colleges or universities in the United States offering Army ROTC in the fall of 1972.

Selection for these four year scholarships is competitive and is based on the results of the CEEB-Scholastic Aptitude Test or the American College Test, high school academic record, and participation in athletic and extracurricular activities. Applications must be submitted by 15 January, 1972.

Young men interested in competing for a scholarship should make the necessary arrangements with their high school counselor to register for and take the CEEB-Scholastic Aptitude Test that will be administered on 6 November or 4 December 1971. The closing date of 15 January 1972 for scholarship applications will not allow sufficient time for receipt of scores from later scheduled testing dates.

The Army Reserve Officers' Training Corps (ROTC) exists to develop college educated officers for the active Army and reserve components. It enables a young man to prepare for a position of leadership in either a military or civilian career of his choice.

The ROTC program is specifically designed to give college men "on-campus" training and experience in the art of organizing, motivating and leading others. It includes instruction to develop self-discipline, physical stamina, and bearing -- qualities that are an important part of leadership and that contribute to success in any career.

Texas Tech University offers both a four year and a two year program of Army ROTC. The two year program is designed to accommodate students from junior college that are transferring to a four year college or university. If a student is attending a junior college and desires to participate in the two year Army ROTC program, he must make application prior to 1 May 1972. A letter of application for the two

Tailwater System Lowers Crop Production Costs

"Reducing cost of producing a crop is the best reason I know for installing a tailwater recovery system on your farm," says Larry Starnes of the Soil Conservation Service in Dimmitt. "Cost is reduced in several ways while your farm water supply is increased."

Perhaps the most reduction falls in the cost of pumping less water from irrigation wells. It costs about one-fourth as much to pump an equal volume of water from a Tailwater Recovery Pit as it does from a well. In weak water areas the savings may be even greater.

A pit enables the farmer to apply water in furrows at a rate fast enough to wet the soil evenly throughout the length of the field and then recover the waste. This also cuts down on water at the head of the row due to water soaking deeper than the root zone. It wets the lower end properly, raises crop yields, and in most cases provides the crop at the lower end of the field enough water to increase the length of time between irrigations.

Most producers who have Tailwater Recovery Systems will agree that they run off more water than they would have considered possible and they feel free to do a better job of irrigation when they can return the extra waste water it takes, Starnes said.

Many soils in this county require rapid application of irrigation water to prevent deep penetration of water below the root zone. On these soils you can expect to recover at the pit about one-third of the well yield.

"This means, for example, that for every three wells from which the tailwater is caught a volume of water equal to the size of one of the wells is returned for use," says Starnes. "Or, in a sense, this would be equal to having a fourth well on the farm."

There is no standard pit size since the capacity is determined by the yield of the wells from which the tailwater is collected and the type of soil irrigated.

It is wise to take into consideration the entire farm irrigation system when choosing a pumpback system. Too small a pumpback system would reduce the amount of water which could be returned and possibly cause damage to the system.

Starnes says "If you are considering a Tailwater Recovery System let your Soil Conservation Service assist you design a system to fit your irrigation system. They have knowledge of numerous systems already installed and can show you examples of what they feel are the best systems and some they feel leave something to be desired. They can give you facts which will enable you to decide which type of system is best suited to your farm."

"Responsibility for making certain that the set-aside requirement is met falls primarily on the farm operator. However, each producer on the farm has certain responsibilities too, because of his vital interest in this matter. His benefits are reduced proportionately if total benefits for the farm are reduced because of failure to comply," the ASC Committee Chairman said.

Any producer who has a question about program compliance or wants to know more details about requirements should get in touch with the County ASCS Office, Elder said.

REV. T. H. TAYLOR

Are we thankful?

Do you appreciate what a blessing it is to live in this freedom? The horn of abundance has again overflowed in our great and pleasant land. The United States, with less than seven percent of the world's population, has enjoyed 50 percent of its wealth! Have we deserved all that we have received? Have our hearts been stirred to a gratitude that manifests its reality in "thanks-LIVING"?

I once knew a man, when asked how he was, would say, "Do you think that you have enough time?" I knew another man when asked the same question would say, "Fine, just fine!" The difference in the two men was the out-look that they had on life.

The liberties the Pilgrims established, which we now enjoy, are even more precious than our temporal prosperity. These, including our spiritual heritage, are the true luxuries that should stir our hearts to the heights of fervent praise. Yet, are we truly appreciative of our blessings? It is well that we pause for a moment to consider the words of the Lord Jesus who warned, "Unto whom much is given, of him shall be much required!"

The sentiments expressed by Abraham Lincoln so many decades ago still lash at the heart of our ungratefulness with stinging rebuke: "I fear," said he, "that we have forgotten the gracious Hand which has preserved us in peace, and multiplied, enriched, and strengthened us, and have vainly imagined in the deceitfulness of our hearts that all these blessings were produced by some superior wisdom and virtue of our own. Intoxicated with unbroken success, we have become too self-sufficient to feel the necessity of the redeeming and preserving grace, too proud to pray to God that made us."

The Bible makes it crystal-clear that all of the Divine benefits should lead us to acknowledge and exalt our Heavenly Benefactor. The "goodness of God" must lead us to repentance--lest in righteous disgust at our base ingratitude He "give us up" as He did those in the past who trampled upon His grace and blessings.

Gratitude is not just a mere sentiment, hopefully requested by God--it is rather a divine imperative--a call to "appreciative living" -- for He has said, "...BE YE THANKFUL" (Col. 3:15).

EASY WAY

An easy way to get meat out of a fresh coconut is to pierce the "eyes" with an ice pick or some other sharp object and drain out the liquid. Then place the coconut in a 350 degree oven for 20-30 minutes or put in the freezer for about an hour. This brings about contraction of the meat causing it to separate easily. Tap the shell lightly with a hammer in several places until it cracks. The shell will separate easily.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Bill Swindle and Mr. and Mrs. George "Bus" Dorman of Wheeler.

Mrs. Leon Sanders of Dimmitt presented nuptial selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of white velvet styled with an Empire bodice encrusted with seed pearls.

Clusters of pearls accented the petal points of the long sleeves. Her train was attached at the shoulders and her elbow length veil was held by a headpiece of lace and pearls. The gown was designed by the bride and fashioned by her mother. She carried a bouquet of bronze spider mums with white velvet streamers.

Maid of honor was Eva Bramlett of Plainview. She wore a formal length gown of gold satin fashioned with puffed sleeves and a band of self fabric accenting the waistline with long streamers in the back. She carried a bouquet similar to the bride's.

Dan Trimble of Briscoe was best man. Ushers were Jim Swindle, brother of the bride, and Tommy Newkirk of Amarillo.

A reception was held in fellowship hall of the church. The bride's table was laid with a white net cloth over gold.

The traditional three-tiered cake was decorated with yellow roses, white wedding bells and tiny white doves and was made by the bride's mother and Mrs. W. C. Malone. Crystal punch bowl and silver coffee service was presided over by Misses Judy and Marian Battenhorst of Umbarger. Guests were registered by Miss Janette Brandt of Umbarger.

For a wedding trip, the bride chose a dress of navy and red double knit with matching coat.

The couple will be at home in Wheeler.

A rehearsal buffet luncheon was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Dorman at noon Saturday in the Swindle home. The serving table was laid with a lace cloth and centered with white spider mums surrounding a large white and gold candle.

HIPPOTAPOTAMUS' SWEAT

There is no foundation to the belief that the hippopotamus sweats blood. During warm weather, the hippo's skin does secrete a reddish, oily liquid to make the skin more resistant to water, but this secretion is not blood, although it resembles blood in general appearance.

STRONGEST FIBER

Silk is the strongest of all natural fibers. A thread of silk is stronger than the same size thread of some kinds of steel.

ABUNDANCE

Jesus said, "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly."

Now it is a tribute to the intelligence of men that no one thinks He was talking about the material abundance we enjoy today. Everybody knows He was talking about something else.

But what else? What could Christ add to your possessions? What can He give men that might account for the logical distinction we readily make between a life of abundance and the abundant life?

Himself! That's it. That's all. Precisely what He said: "I am come that..."

To know Him and to know the meaning His Life has for our lives is to discover the abundant life!

Does your family use the Church as faithfully as the market?
