DISPLEASURE INCREASING

Allred Is To Finish His Term

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Sept. 23—Governor James V. Allred announced today he would serve out his term.

He said he would not resign before expiration of the term in January to become judge of a new federal court in south Texas to which he has been appointed by President Roosevelt.

GOVERNOR 20TH TIME

AUSTIN, Sept. 23 (AP) — Lieut.-Gov. Walter F. Woodul of Houston will act as governor of Texas for the twentieth time when Governor James V. Allred leaves the state tomorrow.

Governor Allred is going to Oklahoma City to attend a conference of governors.

No Special Session

Simultaneously the governor hinted strongly there would not be a special session of the legislature this fall, a matter over which there had been considerable speculation.

"I don't know of any prospects for a special session at this time," he said.

Statement Long Awaited

The governor's statement regarding his plans long had been awaited and many had thought that because of a heavy docket for the new court as well as his desire to get on the new job as soon as possible he could resign before finishing his second term as chief executive.

He said simply:

"I am going to serve out my term as governor."

The new court's first session opens next Monday.

Number Of Reasons

A number of reasons were advanced by friends as influencing the governor's decision.

The controlling one was said to be the belief he ought not to relinquish such an important public office as the governorship until expiration of the period for which he had been chosen by the people.

Another was that as governor he would receive $167 a month more than as a federal district judge. The governor's salary is $12,000 a year while that of a judge is $10,000.

Finally, it was stated there was

Nearly 500 Are Counted Dead In 7 States

Double Task Of Succoring Living And Fighting New Threat Is Under Way

(By The Associated Press)

The northeastern corner of the nation counted nearly 500 dead today as the toll of Wednesday's savage hurricane while rescue workers tackled the double task of succoring the living and raising bulwarks against the new flood terrors in the seven stricken states.

A dread trickle of reports, seeping through walls of silence imposed by shattered communications systems, swelled the roll of victims until the disaster stood as the worst hurricane in the United States since 1928 when a storm swooped out of the Caribbean sea, as did this one, and scourged Florida with a loss of 2,000 lives.

WIND VELOCITY RECORD

BOSTON, Sept. 23 (AP)—Wind gusts of approximately 173 and 186 miles an hour were recorded at the Harvard meteorological observatory on top of nearby Blue Hill during the height of Wednesday's hurricane, Director Charles F. Brooks announced today.

Wind velocity of 111 miles per hour was recorded on the summit in three five-minute periods. The velocities were the highest in the observatory's 53-year history.

Toll Not Fully Known

In the afflicted states, a hundred years' history could not produce a catastrophe of equal extent. Even today, nearly 48 hours after wind and wave struck with paralyzing force, a coherent story of loss and damage could not be assembled.

Gov. Wilbur Cross of Connecticut termed the disaster "the worst in the history of the state"—a history dating back to the birth of the nation. Parallel statements came from Rhode Island, hardest hit of all, and Massachusetts. But nowhere would anyone hazard even a guess of the loss and the number of missing—potential addenda to the roster of the dead.

Damage in Millions

The damage was high in the millions—only that was certain—and was mounting under the depredation of streams sent spilling out of bounds by days of unceasing rain.

Even as rescue workers rallied under the impetus of direct orders from President Roosevelt that threw all government agencies into the fight against the post-hurricane menaces of famine and disease, rivers in New England, New York and

Berlin Press Arousing Ire Of British

Pessimism Is Increased In Situation Today; Peace Demonstrations Made

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Sept. 23 — A feeling of increasing displeasure here at the Berlin Press which in inch-high headlines proclaimed "away with Benes," president of Czechoslovakia, developed today.

The pro-government Daily Telegraph and Morning Post set forth what was taken to be an official position.

"If he (Hitler) proves to insist . . ." the paper said, "that there must be an end of the Czechoslovak state, the conclusion will be inescapable and the consequences deplorable. . . .

Must Be Determined

"The point has been reached where this issue . . . must be definitely determined one way or the other . . ."

Indications from Germany's press that there remained only a few details for discussion between Chamberlain and Hitler at Godesberg this morning increased pessimism here.

Britain has held that there are infinite details attached to remaking the Czechoslovak state, and that such adjustment is just the start of specific, detailed readjustment of the relations of major European powers.

May Condemn Move

Unless such settlement is effected, it is granted freely here that Chamberlain's peace mission will be condemned relentlessly in Berlin.

There were brief street demon-

Movement Aimed At Erection Of Free Library Building In Lubbock Is Under Discussion

BY H. I. KIEFER
Journal Staff Writer

A movement which looks to the erection of a free public library building in Lubbock was disclosed this morning as having been set in motion.

It had progressed sufficiently far that it will be the subject of joint conference Monday of the city and county commissions.

Monday will be the regularly meeting date of the county commission and members of the city commission have accepted an invitation to be present, O. R. Walker, local architect, also will attend.

To Seek PWA Grant

The tentative plan for financing as proposed, it was revealed, is for the city and county to pay part of the cost and to seek a Public Works administration grant for the remainder.

Speed will be necessary if there is to be any possibility of PWA assistance, officials were advised, because applications must be made not later than Sept. 29 if they are to receive consideration.

Volunteers Assistance

Walker has volunteered his assistance in the preparation of the application without cost to city or county. He also will discuss with the officials the probable cost of a structure.

The tentative plans, as they already have been discussed, contemplate an initial structure costing perhaps $20,000 to $30,000. It is probable, officials believe, that should such a building materialize, it will be of an architectural design to permit additional units when enlargement is needed without loss of structural utility or beauty.

Need Is Realized

While members of the city commission have not expressed themselves officially on the proposition, they were unanimous in their expressions of realization of the need for such a library and of their desire to cooperate in any practicable plan for making it possible.

At present, Lubbock's only public library facilities are those provided in the courthouse by the county library. It is the outgrowth of a community library which became the county library in about 1925 when the county commissioners court took advantage of new legislation which made the support of that facility possible.

Courthouse Space Crowded

The courthouse, however, has become so crowded that officials say the library space, consisting of the equivalent of two large rooms on the

Fair Lights To Shine Tonight

The Silver Jubilee celebration of the Panhandle-South Plains fair will go into final dress rehearsal tonight.

It will be one of the last, and perhaps the most important, of the preliminaries to the opening Monday of the exposition which gives every promise of being the greatest ever staged on the South Plains, according to Alex McDonald, president of the fair association.

At Strategic Spots

The scores of floodlights which have been erected at strategic spots over the grounds, he added, will be turned on. Likewise the brilliantly colored neon sign on the newly completed Merchants building will be turned on, McDonald said.

Although all gates will be closed to the public, he extended an invitation to those desiring to drive past and get a glimpse of how the grounds will appear. It will be necessary to keep all gates closed and locked, however, because of the ex-

Briton Delays Talk; Russia Warns Poles

Chamberlain Is Reported To Have Asked Truce In Crisis; More Disorders Break Out

NEW FRENCH STAND

PARIS, Sept. 23 (AP) — Radical-socialist deputies tonight quoted Premier Edouard Daladier as declaring that "if Germany enters Czechoslovakia France will face her engagements."

Deputy Louis Malvy, one of the leaders of the premier's own party, was one of those who quoted those words to newspapermen after a declaration of radical-socialist ministers had called on the premier.

Malvy also said that Daladier declared he would call parliament immediately back into session "if the situation should become worse."

France is pledged to go to Czechoslovakia's aid should the latter be the victim of "unprovoked aggression."

(By The Associated Press)

Fresh border outbreaks, Prime Minister Chamberlain's sudden decision to postpone his dramatic conference with Reichsfuehrer Hitler and a blunt Russian warning to Poland again clouded Europe's scrambled effort at peace today.

Chamberlain dispatched a letter to Hitler which put off "until later in the day" a bargain-sealing conference between the two at Godesburg, Germany.

Truce Said Demanded

Informed sources said they believed Chamberlain had demanded a truce in Czechoslovakia's Sudeteniand and at least part demobilization of German reserves as conditions for continuing conferences. The letter was dispatched even as new reports of heavy German troop concentrations near the Czech border were received. There was no indication Hitler was inclined to grant concessions.

LITVINOFF INFORMS LEAGUE

GENEVA, Sept. 23 (AP) — Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet commissar of foreign affairs, told the League of Nations today that Soviet Russia might voluntarily go to the aid of Czechoslovakia, "but no one can insist on this help as a duty."

In a surprise statement to the league assembly's political committee, Soviet commissar declared his government had "a clear conscience and clean hands in the Czechoslovak crisis."

"The Soviet government," he said, "may come to the aid of Czechoslovakia only in virtue of a voluntary decision on its part or in virtue of a decision by the league but no one can insist on this help as a duty."

Litvinoff repeated his pledge that if France fights to protect Czechoslovakia against invasion, Russia will fulfill her obligations under the Soviet-Czechoslovak mutual assistance pact.

At Prague, Czechoslovakian government sources reported eight persons were killed, many wounded in frontier clashes between Sudeten German party members and armed Czech guards. From the small border town of Freiwaldau, in western Sudetenland, came reports of the most serious incident. Czechoslovak gendarmerie and Sudetens clashed and four Czechs were killed, 12 wounded.

Ukraine Will Be Protected

By CHARLES P. NUTTER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23 — Authoritative reports reaching Washington indicate the Soviet Union, convinced Adolf Hitler has obtained a free hand in eastern Europe, is forcing a protective armor for the lucrative Ukraine.

On the basis of meager information diplomats believe the Russians, bitter over the collapse of western European efforts to stop German expansion, have speeded up their construction of a mighty line of steel from the Black to the White seas. Behind this line the red army would await any invasion.

One Of Richest Areas

Hitler's domination of Czechoslovakia, if and when completed, would bring the German influence or army within a hunderd miles of the Ukraine. The latter is one of the richest geographical areas in the world, the possession of whose minerals and grains—in Hitler's own words in 1936—would enable Germany to "swim in wealth."

The Ukraine now supplies the Soviet Union with about 80 per cent

Preston Delano Is Appointed U. S. Comptroller Of Currency

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23. (AP)—The White House announced today President Roosevelt has appointed Preston Delano of Massachusetts as comptroller of the currency succeeding J. F. T. O'Connor, who resigned to run for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in California.

Stephen Early, Mr. Roosevelt's secretary, said the job had been held over for O'Connor, who was unsuccessful in the gubernatorial race.

O'Connor, Early told reporters, advised the president he did not desire reappointment and that he would return to California to practice law.

Delano is a distant relative of the president.

Decisions Up To Employers

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23—Thousands of employers must decide in the next month whether the new wage-hour law applies to their particular businesses.

Officials of the wage-hour administration explained today that in innumerable borderline cases the proprietors must determine for themselves whether their workers are participating in or producing goods for interstate commerce.

Must Be Given Benefit

If they are, they must be given the benefit of federal labor standards; a minimum wage of 25 cents an hour and a maximum work week of 44 hours.

Before the law becomes effective Oct. 24, Administrator Elmer F. Andrews expects to issue opinions to guide these employers. Calvert Magruder, general wage-hour counsel, is listing industries which clearly come under the law.

No "Pat Definition"

But Magruder has told friends there will be no "pat definition" of interstate commerce. Thus thousands of businesses on the borderline — partly engaged in interstate and partly in intra-state commerce —must decide for themselves.

For the individual business man the financial interests in such a decision may be quite high.

He probably could go along for months after October 24 without raising wage minimums or shortening the work-week. Later, if his employes could prove in court that the law covered them, they could collect back wages up to the minimum and also compensation for the overtime they had worked.

Better Order Additional Copies Now

Sunday's Avalanche-Journal, an edition commemorating the 25th anniversary of the Panhandle-South Plains fair, will mirror a quarter-century of growth of this great section.

There will be many stories showing by figures and descriptive the contributions to the general advance, from odd corners and population centers of the area, and what the prospects are for future expansion.

You will want your friends to see the edition. Orders will go to practically all states and to several foreign countries, including far-flung islands of the seas.

For 10 cents, paid to the circulation department of Avalanche-Journal publications, the paper will be mailed for you. Do not try to make reservations by telephone, however. Be sure and bring names and addresses.

Another Record In Building Threatened

Another Lubbock building permit record of more than 10 years duration teetered on the brink this morning.

As result of permits issued Thursday afternoon and this morning, total for September was increased to within $3,650 of the total for any single month in more than 10 years, according to records in the office of City Building Inspector Jim Reid.

However, there is no probability that total for the present month will go any higher than second place among the monthly building permits records in the history of Lubbock. The all-time mark of $935,675 in April, 1926, never has been closely challenged.

In second place among the months is May, 1934, when the aggregate of permits was $568,654. The total for the present month, with a full week yet to go, was raised today to $565,004, with indications that the final September total will easily pass the $600,000 mark.

Total for the year to date was hiked to $2,352,739.

Largest of the permits issued within the 24 hours to noon today was one to the city for pavement costing $31,200. Others included: M. P. Siniard, owner, and C. H. Forson, contractor, frame residence at 2102 Thirty-second street, $3,250; and L. A. Lorance, owner, and Tom Jenkins, contractor, frame residence at 2106 Avenue P, $1,339.

Houston Mayor Threatens To Put Officers On Milk Wagons

HOUSTON, Sept. 23. (AP)—Mayor R. H. Fonville today answered a threatened milk drivers strike with a threat to put policemen on every milk wagon if the strike becomes effective.

Drivers of six companies have voted to strike for higher wages.

"The question is whether the teamsters or the local constituted authorities are going to run the city," the mayor said. "As long as I am mayor the milk drivers are not going to tie up the city."

The mayor, awakened at his home by a report some 150 men had gathered in front of a dairy, sent 20 policemen to the scene to keep order.

Facilities At College Taxed

Pressing need for solution to problems in stretching facilities to meet the increased enrollment at Texas Tecchnological college perhaps will require a meeting of the executive committee earlier than Monday, Dr. James M. Gordon, chairman, said this morning.

Inadequacies in number of faculty members and in facilities for caring for the record number of students were being reported by various departments.

May Require Earlier Action

The committee had planned to wait until registration had neared completion and it could be definitely seen the extent of inadequacies in the various departments and divisions. Developments may require an earlier meeting than that which had been tentatively planned for Monday, however.

All of the students who had obtained permits to register had not completed the procedure, and all were not in classes who are expected by the end of registration. Today is the last day for payment of fees without a late fee of $2 and Wednesday will be the last day a student may register for the first semester.

By close of registration Thursday, 3,529 had obtained permits to register and between 3,000 and 3,100 had paid fees. It was unlikely the final figure would reach much higher than the number of permits that had been issued and it was possible the figure might shrink because of failure of some to complete registration. A few obtained permits this morning.

Shortage of funds will prevent relief of crowded conditions to any great extent. Placing of additional chairs in rooms, enlargement of classes to include more students than planned, addition of sections to classes, and other similar readjustments must serve as the only solutions in many cases.

The problem of inadequacy in

Fire Does $17,000 Damage To Warehouse At State Hospital

SANATORIUM, Sept. 23. (AP) — Damage was estimated at $17,000, including $15,000 to stocks, in a fire which for a time this morning threatened $125,000 worth of stocks stored in the large warehouse at the state sanatorium here early this morning. None of the dormitories, in which hundreds of men, women and children from all over the state were sleeping, was endangered.

The establishment of two more contract postal sub-stations in Lubbock on October 1 was announced today by Postmaster Amos Howard. The stations will be located at Mark Halsey Drug No. 2, 2416 Broadway and the Nineteenth Street Pharmacy, 2422 Nineteenth street.

All postal service except dispensing of mail and acceptance of postal savings will be available at the stations.

The stations will be open regular postal hours.

Wires Crossed Somewhere-- No Such Pensions Available

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Sept. 23—The wires have gotten crossed somewhere but the governor's office doesn't know how.

Twice recently Governor James V. Allred has received letters from women who think that because they have eight children they are due money from the state.

One letter said today:

"I've been informed that the mother of eight or more children is entitled to $1,000. If this be true, I feel that I qualify for same since I have eight children and all are under 13 years of age."

The other woman wrote she understood mothers of eight boys were entitled to pensions.

Dero Cowley, Governor Allred's secretary, informed the writers he knew of no provision for state aid among the lines suggested.

Scenes Of Horror, Desolation In Storm Area Are Described

Las Chaparritas club alumnae are asked to meet at the home of Mrs. C. J. Rollo, 1802 Avenue S, Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Every woman who has been a member of the social club at Texas Technological college is urged to attend the meeting.

KEEP CONTAINER COVERED

Exposed garbage provides flies with happy hunting grounds. Take extra care during this season to keep refuse containers clean and sweet as possible and covered at all times. Special paper linings to make disposal easier are handy and inexpensive and help to keep the inside of the can dry. Wash frequently with strong soapsuds and disinfectant and dry in the sunshine.

The boll weevil inflicts an annual damage on the cotton crop of $164,500,000.

Ready For First Days Of Fall

Ready for the first fall days is the tucked frock of light-weight black wool worn by this young New Yorker. Her tambourine toque is studded with silver circles and her black suede shoes are finished with the season's outstanding footnote—platform soles.

Fair Entries Being Made

Superintendents of the women's department at the Panhandle-South Plains fair have been busy the past two days arranging numerous entries submitted in the various divisions. Deadline for all articles except perishables, was 1 o'clock this afternoon. Perishable foods and flowers, other than potted plants which must be delivered at the woman's building by 1 o'clock this afternoon, will be received from 8 a. m. until 1 p. m. Monday at the fairgrounds.

Miss Wilkinson and a corps of 20 or more workers spent the entire day Thursday in the building and last night appeared gratified with the number and quality of exhibits offered. There is plenty of space for more entries in all departments, however, they all agreed.

Nursery Is Planned

Four troops of the Lubbock Girl Scouts, meeting Wednesday afternoon at the American Legion home, planned to sponsor and operate for the sixth consecutive year a free nursery at the fair next week. Thirty-five girls, attending the meeting, indicated that even a larger number will be available to care for children during the fair. The nursery will be open from 1 until 5 p. m. each day.

Details regarding services the girls will offer parents who bring small children to the fairgrounds will be announced in the Sunday Avalanche-Journal.

TIPPED PARFAITS

Lend a chocolate flavor and give a flecked appearance to the vanilla mousse or parfait you're making in your mechanical refrigerator by adding half a cup of grated sweet chocolate to each three cups of the mixture.

Erosion Control Projects On 847 Farms And Ranches In Panhandle

Pradices To Be Followed

(By The Associated Press)

AMARILLO, Sept. 23.—Erosion control programs now are being carried out completely on 847 farms and ranches totaling 595,265 acres in the ten Soil Conservation service demonstration areas in the Texas Panhandle.

H. H. Finnell, regional conservator, said that in the entire wind erosion region which, in addition to the Texas Panhandle includes eastern New Mexico, southwest Kansas, eastern Colorado and the Oklahoma Panhandle, 1,701 farmers and ranchers are cooperating in the demonstration of erosion control practices on 1,120,483 acres.

To Follow Recommendations

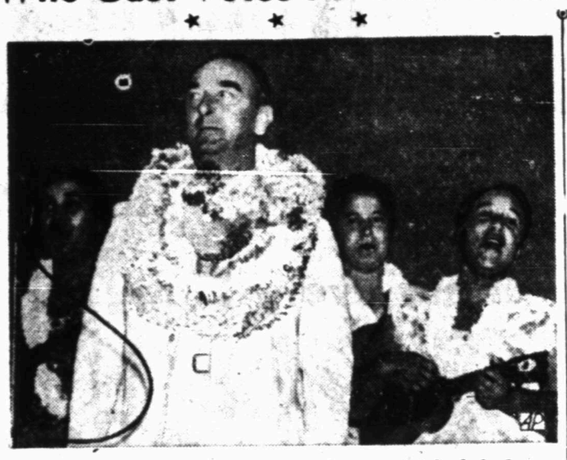

These farmers and ranchers have agreed to follow recommended soil conservation practices for a minimum period of five years in return for assistance from the federal service in developing soil-saving programs on their land. Each agricultural unit is being or has been developed into a complete erosion control demonstration, Finnell explained.

Practices employed by cooperating farmers to control erosion include contour or around the hill farming, terracing, contour strip cropping, gully control, pasture contour furrowing, range management, water spreading and diversion, tree planting, construction of stock water ponds, and others. Cropping systems are being rearranged in order that a vegetative cover for protection against wind and water erosion may be provided at all times.

Each of the farms or ranches included in the demonstration program is located within the work area of one of the five erosion control projects in the Texas Panhandle or within the work area of one of the five CCC camps which are working on erosion control under supervision of the service.

'Hillbillies' Are Old Stuff To Hawaiians Who Cast Votes For Best Entertainers

Candidate Sam King, encircled by leis and surrounded by hula dancers, is employing the tried-and-proved technique of cajoling the Hawaiian voters.

(By Associated Press Feature Service)

HONOLULU, Sept. 23.—Not all Americans regard the politician who strums and sings for his votes as a new character.

Americans in the Hawaiian islands are used to hillbilly politicians. In fact, it is evident—as the candidates there scramble for their ukeleles in the present campaign—that anyone rash enough to shun the hillbilly technique and stick to political issues would be booed off his stump.

To islanders, who consider politics their major recreation, the skill of a candidate's hula troupe often outweighs the fluency of his promises.

Generally, they judge his popularity by the number of flower leis draped about his neck as he rises to speak; and his ability by his proficiency in foreign languages.

What he says usually is described as "hoomalimali," the Hawaiian "banana oil."

Before the Oct. 1 primary; speakers will discuss a multitude of local problems, President Roosevelt and the New Deal.

But voters, who flock to political rallies as gleefully as circuses, are more interested in the show. Candidates for every major office present their own hula troupes and musicians. Dances frequently are longer than speeches.

Hawaiians, with some 31,000 registered voters, are the most important racial group. Japanese rank numerically second and no better than fourth in influence.

Appealing to Hawaiians, one candidate (Mayor Charles S. Crane, Republican) already has introduced a campaign song which, when sung and danced, will describe his exploits glowingly. The first two lines go this way:

"He inoa keia no Charles S. Crane,
Ka mea oke kalana, Oahua. . . ."
(I sing the praises of Charles S. Crane,
The mayor of the county of Oahu. . . .)

Federal Judge Has Russian's Entry Case Under Advisement

LAREDO, Sept. 23 (AP)—Federal Judge T. M. Kennerly has under advisement the habeas corpus application of Dr. Romano Lukiancguk, charged with illegal entry into the United States.

Lukiancguk, 38, a native of Russia, came to Canada in 1917 and served with the Canadian forces. federal authorities here were advised. He came to the United States on a Canadian passport and has resided in various parts of this country and Mexico. He testified he had never been deported.

Hospital-Care Insurance Will Be Discussed In Dallas Today

DALLAS, Sept. 23 (AP) — Hospital care insurance is among topics for discussion before the Protestant hospital association which will begin sessions here today.

More than 5,000 persons are expected for the conventions of that association and of the American Hospital association, the National Association of Nurse Anesthotists, the Group Hospitalization Plan executives, the Hospital Exhibitors association and the American College of Hospital administrators.

"Evidence" Doubted

Under oath at last year's hearing on strike violence before the Senate Post Office Committee, Tom M. Girdler, Chairman of the Republic Steel Corporation, entered the above photograph as evidence that strikers were making "dynamite bombs". The picture was signed by Carl Olsen, Youngstown, Ohio, police chief. The current La Follette Civil Liberties Committee will investigate Olsen's later denial that he had ever seen the picture. The "dynamite bombs" proved to be sulphur smudges for fumigation.

More Than 300,000 Pupils Are Carried To Texas Schools In Buses

Safety Factor Is Stressed

(By The Associated Press)

TROUP, Sept. 23.—September school opening, which added more tha 5n,500 school buses to traffic on Texas highways, demonstrate the growth of this division of school facilities and the responsibility of drivers of other motor vehicles in safeguarding 300,000 pupils being taken to and from their lessons, state and regional school officials say.

L. A. Woods, superintendent of instruction, said that at the close of the last school term 5,422 buses had operated for white pupils and 157 for colored. The value of transpertation equipment owned by school districts was $3,966,449.

Cost Over $3,000,000

"During that year 275,925 white and 12,812 colored pupils were transported," Woods said. "The cost of transportation, exclusive of the most of buses, was $2,923,826 for white pupils and $78,132 for colored. The total enrollment for public schools was 1,140,373 whites and 223,328 colored."

Figuring expenditure down to the individual pupil, Supt. Woods estimated the daily per capita cost was slikhtly more than 10 cents, calculations including cost of buses.

Oil Belt Uses Buses

In the Smith-Rusk county oil belt league schools og Gaston, Leverett's Chapel, Overton, Arp, Salem, Carlisle and London, 38 large buses serving an area of 356 square miles will transport 4,850 pupils over 50,810 miles of lateral oil field roads in the coming school term. The number of bus-transported pupils represent 71 per cent of the total enrollment in the seven schools. Total investment in the 38 buses is $115,000, with a yearly upkeep of $518 on each.

Although the average driver is 36 years old, trained and reliable, school men say "it is impossible for him to assume more than his share of the responsibility of the road. Other drivers must always bear their part in safeguarding children aboard the vehicles."

Only Three Deaths

"As far as we know in this office," said an official of the state department of education at Austin, "there have been only three deaths in any way connected with school buses or their operation." He added there may have been deaths, or accidents leading to deaths, not reported to the department, but after the number of pupils and miles transported are taken into consideration, the accident rate is regarded as unusually low.

Jan. 1, 1938, the Texas school bus system was carrying approximately nine per cent of the 3,230,000 bus-transported pupils of the nation. The system had its inception in Texas between 1915 and 1920 when the Littlefield and Edinburg school districts pioneered with 12 buses in transporting 310 pupils.

The party was to lunch at Snyder and to stop at several towns between Abilene and Lubbock to advertise the fair.

The group was to leave Abilene at 9:45 o'clock this morning.

Schools To Dismiss Classes On Tuesday

Plans for dismissal of public school students Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday afternoon for Lubbock day and Children's day at the Panhandle-South Plains fair were announced by Supt. W. B. Irvin.

Passes to attend the fair Wednesday afternoon will be given to students.

In Senior High school students will have their regular schedule Tuesday morning and run their Tuesday afternoon schedule on Wednesday morning. Regular time for the vocational guidance meetings will be given on Wednesday morning before the classes that would have been Tuesday afternoon. At the vocational guidance period seniors will eleet officers for the year.

Ace Hitch-Hiker Warns Against Women Who're Driving Cars

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 23. (AP)—In four years of attendance at the University of California at Los Angeles, Fred Auerbach has never paid a bus fare. He figures he has traveled a distance equal to half way around the world by thumbing rides.

Auerbach's advice for success as a hitch-hiker includes the following: Wave the thumb and elbow vigorously; keep a stiff upper lip and put on a big grin; beware of women driver, and don't be discouraged.

Traffic Officers Urge Fair Visitors To Employ Driving Caution

Plans Mapped For Problem

Lubbock's law enforcement officers and especially the traffic departments, along with county and state officers, today spoke a final plea to visitors to the Panhandle-South Plains fair to employ all caution.

Cooperating in enforcing laws in efforts to reduce to a minimum the ever-present traffic problem with its hazards will be the Lubbock police department, the sheriff's office, and the Lubbock district office of the Texas Highway patrol.

Kittrell To Direct Traffic

Policing the fair grounds and handling of traffic to and from the fair probably will be under direction of Lewis Kittrell, police traffic sergeant, Sheriff's officers and Capt. W. W. Legge, commanding officer here of the Texas Highway patrol, pledged full cooperation.

Kittrell said approximately a half-dozen extra officers would be detailed to policing the grounds in addition to his regular traffic force consisting of Ralph Goldwater and Silas Anderson.

Problem To Keep It Moving

Chief problem of the traffic situation, Kittrell said, will be keeping traffic to the fair moving.

"We must prevent any congestion on the highway near the entrance to the fair grounds," Kittrell said, "and in order to do that we must have the cooperation of those attending the fair. We earnestly plead for their strict observance of all state and city traffic rules and regulations.

Ample parking space has been provided by fair officials and the state law forbidding parking on the right-of-way of the highway will be enforced.

Officers To Be On Grounds

Sheriff's officers will not have men detailed to traffic, but will assist in law enforcement on the grounds as they have in the past, said Tom Abel, sheriff.

Capt. Legge said he would furnish several highway patrolmen to the police department to assist in directing traffic at the grounds' entrances and would detail the others to patroling highways leading into Lubbock in efforts to minimize traffic dangers arising from the increased motoring because of the fair.

Six Men To Be Available

Capt. Legge has six men in the district office here detailed to patrol work and others stationed at substations. Motorists will be arrested and prosecuted for violation of speeding laws and for careless driving and other improper driving, he said.

"We ask the whole-hearted cooperation of the public in observance of driving regulations," Capt. Legge said, "and we hope as much success this year as we had last year."

All officers joined in a final plea for proper driving and cooperation and observance of traffic and all other laws, but with that plea was a sound warning that all violators would be prosecuted.

Iowa Farmer Couldn't Afford Milking Machine; Made One

POSTVILLE, Ia., Sept. 23. (AP)—Farmer Arthur Baltz couldn't afford to buy an electric milking machine but he wanted one so badly that he spent 40 hours assembling parts of an old automobile, a washing machine and several plumbing fixtures.

Result—an electric milker costing $32.16 which he claims has others "beat a mile." It is operated by an electric motor that can be moved back and fourth through the barn on an overhead carrier track.

Exes Asked For Ideas On Man

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, Sept. 23 — Thirty-five thousand former students of Southern Methodist university have been invited to submit their ideas regarding the qualifications they would like to see met by the new president to be elected in the near future by the board of trustees.

Cooperating with Frank L. McNeny, chairman of the university's executive committee, in obtaining the sentiment of the exes is a committee consisting of Sid M. Henry, Irl W. Brown, and Logan Ford, all of Dallas.

After serving as president of S. M. U. more than 15 years, Dr. Charles C. Selecman was elevated to the bishopric of the Methodist church last spring. When he left S. M. U. Sept. 1, Dean E. B. Hawk of the school of theology, became acting president of the institution.

Among leading laymen mentioned for the presidency of S. M. U. are Dr. John N. Andrews of New York university, President J. N. Hilman of Emory and Henry college of Virginia, President W. W. Parker of the Southeastern Missouri State Teachers' college, Dr. George R. Reynolds of Jackson, Miss., and Dr. Guy E. Snavely, executive secretary of the American Association of University and Colleges.

Ministers Are Considered

Ministers under consideration for the presidency include Dean Hawk, Dr. J. N. R. Score of Fort Worth, Dr. Paul Quillian of Houston, Dr. Umphrey Lee of Nashville, and Dr. W. M. Alexander of Nashville.

Trustees who are to nominate the new president are Bishop Ivan Lee Holt and Frank L. McNeny of Dallas, the Rev. Walter W. Ward of Waco, the Rev. J. O. Haymes of Amarillo, W. W. Fondren of Houston, H. E. Jackson of San Angelo, and R. T. Blackburn of Durant, Okla.

Selection of the new president is expected within the next few months in order that he may complete work on the university's five-year program culminating with the school's twenty-fifth anniversary in 1940.

Many steps in the program were completed under the leadership of Dr. Selecman, but the completion of a $5,000,000 endowment, the payment of the school's debt, the obtaining of several scholarships and fellowships, and the erection of a chemistry building remain on the program.

Plans For Tax Levy For Lubbock Municipal Parks System Studied

Idea Presented To City Dads

Members of the city commission today studied the suggestion that an election be called on a proposal to set aside a portion of the tax rate for parks purposes.

The plan, as submitted to the semi-monthly meeting of the commission Thursday afternoon by K. N. Clapp, chairman of the city parks board, would fix the levy for parks at 2 cents on the $100 of valuation.

Present Tax 75 Cents

Present city tax rate for all purposes is 75 cents on the $100 of valuation.

Clapp's arguments in support of the proposal were two-fold: First, that had the tax been in effect this or during past years, it would have meant little difference in the tax rate actually set; and second, that it would take the parks out of politics and would protect them should the time come when a city administration antagonistic to parks or parks board personnel is placed in office.

Clapp explained that if the parks tax was in effect now, it would make little difference in the total rate because present and past city commissions have been considerate of parks needs in making financial appropriations. This year, parks operation cost around $28,000, which was appropriated by the city commission. The 20-cent levy would have produced between $40,000 and $44,000.

Go Into Reserve Fund

As outlined by Clapp, the difference between revenue from the tax rate and monies actually spent would go into a reserve fund which would not be permitted to exceed $50,000. After the reserve fund is built to its maximum, excess revenues would go into the city's general fund.

The reserve, he argued, would make possible the purchase of park sites at low prices in anticipation of the city's growth. At least two such sites, he contended, should be bought now.

At the present time, he said further, parks development depends on the month-to-month generosity of the city commission. Under the present setup, he continued, it is wholly possible that some commission in future may refuse any appropriation, resulting in the destruction of all the plant life which has been developed at large cost through many years.

Mrs. T. J. Delavan's request that the city make her an offer for property which would permit the opening of Twenty-third street between Avenue H and Texas avenue was taken under advisement. She first asked $8,000 and then $6,000 for the property, the commission was informed.

An appropriation of $1,000 for current operation expenses of the County-City Welfare association was approved.

A resolution under which city employes will be paid only 60 per cent of their usual wage while recovering from illness or injury was approved. In the past they have received full pay during such periods. A few city workers, commissioners were told, apparently have abused this generosity by remaining off the job unnecessarily long.

Permission Is Refused

Permission was refused the Plains compress to close a number of streets and alleys in the southeast portion of the city so that a warehouse might be built.

Purchase of two Indian motorcycles for the police department was authorized. Cost of two machines will be $480 for two-cylinder or $560 for four-cylinder vehicles plus the trade-in of two motorcycles now used by police. City Manager W. H. Rodgers and police will decide which type to buy.

Application of Ed Hambright for a lease on the lake on what is known as the city's "eighty-acre tract" northwest of the city limits was taken under advisement. Hambright said he proposed to stock the lake, which is about five acres in extent and contains about 30,000,000 gallons of water, with fish. He made a tentative offer of $100 per year for the lease.

Plans Are Discussed

O. R. Walker, Lubbock architect, discussed with the commission plans for a new central fire station for which he is to prepare specifications. A $50,000 bond issue for such a station was voted last Sept. 2.

A resolution calling for the paving of approximately 20 blocks of alleys in the downtown district was passed and Oct. 12 set as date for protest hearings.

Miss Dora Snyder, city bacteriologist, was instructed to attend a conference in Hot Springs, Ark., next month at which standardization of Wasserman syphilis tests is to be the topic.

Instructions were given to put out the city-owned flag decorations during the Panhandle-South Plains fair next week.

Attending the session were Mayor Carl E. Slaton and Commissioners W. B. Price, A. J. Fortenberry and Hub Jones. Commissioner W. G. McMillan was out of the city.

Caution Is Urged Of Motorists Tonight

A final warning for motorists to employ caution in driving to and from the Lubbock High school-Abilene High school football game tonight and the Texas Technological college-University of Wyoming game Saturday night has been issued by Capt. W. W. Legge, commanding officer here of the Texas Highway patrol.

Both games will be played in the Tech stadium.

No Parking Allowed

"Absolutely no parking will be allowed on College Avenue," said Capt. Legge, "in compliance with state traffic laws forbidding parking on all state highways." And the same point was stressed by Lewis Kittrell, police traffic sergeant who is in charge of the police's activities in directing traffic.

"We have received much comment," Capt. Legge said, "on the absence of drinking at the game last Saturday night, and all of it was favorable.

"We are suggesting that the liquor be left at home again tonight and tomorrow night," Capt. Legge said.

"We are issuing a plea to the public to refrain from drinking at the games and to comply with traffic rules and regulations."

Toledo On Path To Industrial Peace; Board Created To End Labor Strife Is Doing Job

TOLEDO, O., Sept. 23.—The Toledo Industrial Peace board, formed here three years ago in an effort to see whether cities might not themselves keep their own industrial peace, has handled 181 disputes involving 30,481 employes up to June 15, 1938.

In July of 1935 two strikes which brought bloodshed and death jolted Toledo. The town was frightened. Responsible leaders of all kinds decided that there must be a better way. They tried to find it.

Co-Operation—Not Compulsion

Edward McGrady, then assistant secretary of labor, who had helped settle the two violent strikes, proposed the plan. Local opinion was mobilized behind creation of "a composite forum, representing the community, to which either side can bring its grievances, and which shall be of such repute and dignity that much trouble can be avoided.

Ten members of the new board, five named by organized labor, five by employers, began testing out the plan June 5, 1935. The principles laid down then have been guilding the board ever since:

1. The board's work is cooperative and voluntary; it has no power to order anyone to do anything.
2. Members try to think of themselves as representing the whole community and its interest in orderly industrial relations.
3. While the board offers its services in mediating disputes, it does not arbitrate, that is, make final decisions binding on both parties.
4. It does not vote on the "right" and "wrong" of disputes, does not interfere with or assist in unionization campaigns, takes no position on questions like the "open shop" or "closed shop."

Edmund Ruffin, above, former newspaperman and labor expert, now does outstanding work as an employe of the city of Toledo. He is charged with seeing that no hasty or ill-considered dispute interrupts the city's industrial peace.

Reputation Still Growing

The first head of the board was Ralph A. Lind, borrowed from the NRA administration. Then a Department of Labor official took over for another temporary period. So much had been accomplished that the city government decided to carry on the work at its own expense.

Edmund Ruffin, newspaperman with wide experience in covering labor disputes, was then selected to head the board, and the city made an appropriation for his salary and the expenses of conducting the office. The director, of course, does most of the work, calling in members of the board only when his own efforts have failed to get results. Now expanded to 18 members — to include representatives of the general community — the full board never yet has met on a case. It operates more like a panel from which the director selects, say, two or three to work on a specific case — a labor member, an employer member, and a member representing the public generally.

Though there is no compulsion, only one person has thus far flatly rejected the services of the board. On its growing reputation for being genuinely helpful to both parties of disputes, and especially to that ever-present third party, the community itself, the board's obvious usefulness is firmly based.

Toledo is rapidly being convinced that very little of its annual municipal budget is better spent than the $7,000 a year with which it provided a road to industrial peace. For instance, 19 new industries have come to Toledo since the board began its work, and 27 local plants have expanded their activities.

Nobody knows how many times that $7000 Toledo saves in a year through orders gained instead of lost, extra police and deputy sheriffs the city did not have to hire, and the general benefit of a reputation for peace and sensible procedure rather than for interrupted production and violence.

Westerners Tangle With Abilene's Eagles Tonight

Locals In Good Shape And May Break Teams' Tie-Game Jinx

An old inter-district high school football rivalry breaks out all over the Texas Tech gridiron tonight when the Lubbock Westerners make their home debut against the Abilene High School Eagles. Kick-off time is 8:30 o'clock.

Each side has a victory under its belt, but past records and future prospects go in the discard when figuring Lubbock and Abilene.

The Westerners, except for two bed-ridden injury victims, will take the field in good physical shape tonight and may go into the game with a 50-50 chance of breaking a tie-game complex that has been the rule for several years when these teams meet. Abilene will present a heavier line, but the Lubbocks may make up for this deficiency in speed and backfield power.

The teams—Lubbock High school Westerners and Abilene High school Eagles.

The place—Texas Tech field.

The time—8:30 o'clock tonight.

Probable starting lineups, with numbers, weights and positions:

LUBBOCK	No.	Wt.	Pos.	Wt.	No.	ABILENE
Clifton Hill	31	150	LE	180	30	Roland McAdams
Jerry Nash	34	165	LT	210	29	Travis Ables

Leading the Westerners likely will be Capt. Jumbo Webster and his running mate, Rusty Johnston. Webster has been counted on heavily to carry the brunt of the Lubbock attack this year. However, Johnston showed signs at Fort Worth last week of usurping some of the captain's glory.

His running was above standard and with a shoulder injury more completely healed he may take over the booting and passing responsibility yielded to Webster last year. The latter remains the man to stop once he gets into the secondary.

Reserve Strength Cut Down

Their squad cut down by the injuries of Paul Sparkman, regular center, and Howard Martin, reserve halfback, Coaches Weldon Chapman and Goober Keyes must depend more than ever on their regulars. Reserve strength is at a minimum at most positions. Several untried boys may be found capable later in the season.

Abilene's running attack is centered around will-o'-the-wisp Bill McClure, 132-pound sprinter, who graduated from last year's reserve ranks. He does most of the punting and passing in addition to leg wagging.

Eagle Line Is Heavier

The Eagle forward wall tonnage is more than the locals'. Coach Jay Mayhew's line is above average high school size, with four each scaling more than 180, none under 154.

Nothing can be gaiped from opening games played by each team. Opposition was of altogether different type.

Lubbock had its hands full with a heavy North Side (Fort Worth) crew in a 7-6 victory. Abilene had its hands full trying to keep the ball off pay dirt against Class B Moran. The Eagles won 42 to 7 and more than once punted while deep in Moran territory to keep from scoring.

Last time the teams met was in 1936 when the Westerners trekked to Abilene to play a deadlock in a quagmire.

Schoolboy Race Is Wide Open

(By The Associated Press)

The Texas Interscholastic league football campaign opened on all fronts today.

Lamesa was at Plainview to start the championship drive in the Panhandle with El Paso high playing at Odessa in district 4 and Corsicana going to Bryan in the Central Texas district.

One conference game was played last night, Arlington Hights downing Fort Worth Tech, 7-0, in the Fort Worth district opener.

In other games played last night San Jacinto (Houston) and Sunset (Dallas) battled to a 7-7 tie in an interdistrict tilt, Waxahachie defeated class B Kerens, 18-0, and Brownsville swatted La Feria, 32-0.

More Than 60 Games

More than 60 games will be played today and tomorrow with the Abilene-Lubbock, Vernon-Breckenridge, Masonic Home-Highland Park, Riverside (Fort Worth)-Athens, Tyler-Palestine, Austin-Temple, Waco-Mexia, Brackenridge (San Antonio)-Austin (Houston) Edinburg-Mission, Port Arthur-Nacogdoches and Beaumont-Lake Charles, La., tilts standing out.

Twelfth graders were not due to be in the starting line-up for Port Arthur against Nacogdoches and for that reason this game should furnish a good indication as to the Yellow Jackets' strength in the district 14 race.

The Yellow Jackets will not use them in championship play this year under an Interscholastic league refrendum that barred them from competition after being the center of a controversy for several seasons but Coach Tom Dennis anonunced plans to play them in inter-sectional games.

Barker Stumped On Southern California And Alabama; Picks Minnesota, Pitt, Army, Navy, Purdue, Texas And L.S.U.

By HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Dipping lightly into the nearest desk drawer for a load of blank cartridges, this heckled football guesser opens harmless fire on the 1938 season and asks only for just enough time to duck when the gun backfires:

SATURDAY FOOTBALL BROADCASTS
(Time is Eastern Standard).
Networks:
2:45 p. m.—Minnesota vs. Washington, WABC-CBS, WJZ-NBC MBS.
6:00—Alabama vs. Southern California, WEAF-NBC.
Other station groups:
12:45—Pitt vs. West Virginia, WOR, WCAE, WLEV, WTBO, WFBG.
1:45—Holy Cross vs. Providence, WEEI, WORC, WMAS, WDRC, WPRO.
2:45—Virginia vs. W. M. I., WRVA, WSVA, WCHV, WBTM, WLVA, WDBJ; Maryland vs. Richmond, WCAO, WJEJ, WSAL, WBNI.

Still Knows How

Bearded Pat O'Connell, 62-year-old reinsman from Cleveland who wanted to see if he could still ride a winning sulky, holds the cup he received at Goshen, N. Y., for scoring the 50th victory of his harness racing career. O'Connell rode Kelley to victory in the first two heats of the "Goodtime," first race at the Grand Circuit meeting

Southern California-Alabama: It's hardly cricket to hand the prognosticators one like this before they've had a chance to round into condition. Alabama's first-string line averages 203; Southern California's 200. Alabama's backfield is experienced, versatile and fast; ditto Southern California.

Ballot For

Minnesota-Washington: Maybe it wasn't such a good idea to start this guessing business this week. Washington is bringing a veteran backfield, minus only Fritz Waslowitz from last year, to Minneapolis, but there is enough doubt about the Huskies' line to warrant a ballot for Minnesota's Big Ten champions.

Pitt-West Virginia: This corner old-fashionedly sticks to Pitt.

Army-Wichita: Army should have too much reserve strength for the Kansans.

Tars Should Win

Navy-William & Mary: There's little advance cheering down at Annapolis this year but the Tars should take this one safely.

Purdue-Detroit: Even without Cecil Isbell, Purdue looks like no worse than an even bet against Detroit, which won't have Andy Farkas. Spinning a brand new dime, Purdue.

California-St. Mary's: Vic Bottari and Dave Anderson ought to lick California through this one.

Texas-Texas: A perhaps ill-advised shot in the dark, Texas.

L.S.U. Over Mississippi

Georgia-Citadel: The crying towels are working overtime at Georgia but they can be put away for this one.

Tulane-Clemson: Ought to be close for Clemson has a veteran array. Picking Tulane and hoping for the best.

Washington university-Vanderbilt: It's whispered about that the Commodores really will play Ray Morrison's style of open football this year. Vanderbilt.

Texas Christian-Centenary: T. C. U. to whip a notorious annoyer of Southwest conference teams.

Saturday's Tilts May Produce 'Corrigan Starts' For One Or Two Southwest Grid Elevens

BY FELIX R. McKNIGHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Sept. 23.—Six Southwest conference teams knuckle down to facts tomorrow in openers that could reasonably produce "Corrigan starts" for one or two on the take-off.

Only Rice institute, the defending champions who will have worry enough once they wade into a nightmare schedule, remains idle.

Scattered around on six fronts will be sights which include:

Aggie Double Shift Puzzling

The unveiling of Texas Christian's bulky 197-pound average team chosen by critics to beat out Rice for the flag; Coach Homer Norton, parading for the first time anywhere, his Texas Aggies in a daffy double shift that could revolutionize defensive football; Coach D. X. Bible starting a University of Texas pilgrimmage he hopes will lead from three years in the celler to the first division's daylight.

Spotlighted, game by game:

Texas Christian vs. Centenary, Fort Worth—No later than last season the Centenary Gents played the rowdy role and dropped T. C. U., 10-9, one Ed Whitehurst stirring up the most mischief from his fullback post. The Frogs unanimously placed him on their all-opponent team and even their 21-0-pound average line isn't looking forward to another afternoon against his line pounding. However, the Christians have wee Davey O'Brien, Johnny Hall, and blocking Earl Clark Handy and look like a two touchdown winner.

Looks Like Kansas

Texas vs. Kansas, Lawrence, Kas.—Fleet Charlie Haas, the Texas Steers' best kicker and runner, went out with a broken shoulder blade and Texas' light may have gone out with him. Coach Bible plans to use Bobby Moers, a 170-pound youngster who has never played football, in the Haas role. His Longhorns, chances are, a sturdier crew than the oft-licked 1936 edition, and may use the noted Bible strategy to pull out against the best Kansas squad in three seasons, but it looks like a Jayhawker afternoon by seven points.

Arkansas vs. Oklahoma A. & M., Fayetteville—Shorn of his brilliant offensive but boasting the finest defensive club in nine years, Coach Fred Thomsen shoves the University of Arkansas off against Oklahoma's Aggies with fair chances of reaping a three touchdown triumph. Crafty Kay Eakin will be in the old slot occupied by Jack Robbins and Dwight Sloan, but what Thomsen really enjoys is a massive, 205-pound average line that has stood out in scrimmage.

Todd To Start Big Year

Texas A. & M. vs. Texas A. & I. College Station—Dandy Dick Todd has been scattering turf in all directions in practice scrimmages and Coach Norton believes the Crowell cyclone will start a phenomenal year against the Javelinas. Presence of Jim Thomason, husky sophomore blocking back, to batter out a few holes for Todd; improved kicking and the new offensive double shift designed to befuddle the foe, makes the Aggies capable of piling up a five touchdown advantage over A. & I.

Southern Methodist vs. North Texas Teachers, Dallas—Matty Bell definitely has an improved club, although scrimmage work hasn't stamped them title contenders. Ray Mallouf, the sophomore saviour, hasn't been invincible in scrimmage, but veterans Ewing, Jackson, Harlow, Crouch and Belville, plus Soph Johnny Clement, could come through. The Mustangs look safe for a three touchdown victory over a North Texas Teacchers team that upset Howard Payne last week.

Baylor vs. Southwestern, at Waco—Gone are two demons of the defense at Baylor, Carl Brazell and Bubba Gernand, but Bullet Bill Patterson and an improved line still are present and capable of dusting off Southwestern about three touchdowns—although they may be scored on. The Baylors just about average up to last year's team, and don't forget the '37 Bruins won their first six games.

San Antonio Needs Just One More Win

BEAUMONT, Sept. 23. (AP)—The Texas league play-off moved here today with San Antonio needing but one victory to take home the pennant.

Last night at San Antonio the Missions defeated Beaumont, 5-4, to gain a three-games-to-two lead in the series.

Beaumont was to send Schoolboy Rowe, ex-big leaguer, to the mound in an effort to stem the San Antonio tied with Harry Kimberlin expected to do the pitching chores for the Missions.

If another game is needed it will be played here.

San Antonio spotted Beaumont three runs in the first inning last night but scored five of their own before the Exporters could spike the pan again.

Beaumont drove Chill Wagener to cover but Bill Trotter did a great job of relief hurling to allow only four hits in eight and a third innings.

The total cost of the largest telescope in the world at Pasadena, California, will be around $12,000,-

Pirates Seem Destined To Win Flag

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Between now and the time Pie Traynor sits down to figure out the Pittsburgh pitcher he'll throw at the Yankees to start the World series, you're going to hear a lot of that "sweet revenge" buildup in favor of Jim Tobin.

Of coures, there's the little matter of sewing up the National league pennant still in front of Pie and his Pirates, but after knocking off the Brooklyns twice, 6-0 and 11-6, yesterday, there doesn't seem much the Bucs can do any more about getting out of ti. They're in a spot now where they can drop three of their 10 remaining games and still win, even if the second-place Chicago Cubs sweep the 11 left on their schedule.

He's Former Yankee

It seems this "revenge is sweet" business pops up about every time the Yankees go into the series which, you may recall, has happened once or twice in past years. Last season they sang the same song about the Giants' stringbean Cliff Melton who, like Tobin, was a Yankee castoff. But everybody forgot all about it after Gehrig and company pinned the Mickey Mouse man's large ears back.

About Tobin, there are whispers he is looking for a chance to go to work on them th'ar Yanks. The World champions obtained him from Oakland in '36, then left him there to undergo an appendectomy, and in '37, after bringing him up again, they sold him "down the river" to the Bues. The story now is that Jim doesn't figure he got a square shake, that the Yanks didn't give him enough of a tryout to show he knew the difference between his fast one and his curve.

Cubs Win Too

The Bucs still boast a 3 1-2 game edge over the Cubs, who also turned in a double-win over the Phils in the first full National league program in four days. Bill Lee equalled a National league record with his fourth straight shutout, by a 4-0 count, in the opener, and Clay Bryant came through 2-1 in the afterpiece. The Giants regained third place by kicking the Cincinnati Reds around twice, 6-1 and 2-1.

The Yankees finally swapped out of their eight-year record six-game losing streak by overpowering the White Sox, 7-4, calling on their handy little habit of homer-hammering to do it. Red Rolfe and Joe Gordon supplied out-of-the-lot power in this lone game on the American league card.

Boston's Bees, determined to hang onto fifth place in the senior circuit chase, nipped the Cardinals twice, 6-5 and 4-1.

Raiders To Top Off Drills For Cowboys

Apparently wakened to the possibility of having to put forth considerable effort tomorrow night when they take on the University of Wyoming Cowboys in another intersectional game, the Texas Tech Red Raiders paid close attention to instructions and hints of coaches yesterday, and evidenced a lot o' pep and enthusiasm in the workout.

The Raiders will top off the preparation this afternoon in a light drill, probably at the same time the Wyomings are limbering up following their long ride from Laramie.

The first team's offense, despite the absence of the pepper-box captain and quarterback, Frank Guzick, clicked pleasingly under the chirping direction of Bobby Holmes, who will call signals from his left halfback post during the absence of Guzick.

Rankin Looks Hot

Big Bull Rankin, the Colorado fullback, is disporting himself in a workmanlike fashion at the quarterback post, and no doubt will come in for a goodly share of ball toting Saturday night as well as a lot of blocking. For a sophomore, he looks exceptionally well running with the veterans.

Nor was there much left to be desired in the manner in which the shock troops conducted themselves, offensively and defensively. With Raymond Flusche, sophomore from Electra, running the team at quarterback, the second stringers looked well, with only one veteran in the backfield, Charley "Buzz" Barnard, Indian from Tulsa, provides the steadying influence for the sophomore trio, Johnny Sims, Jodie Marek and Flusche. This setup had been dominated by Milton Hill, another big fellow playing his first varsity season, but Hill's leg injury, sustained in the Montana State game, will keep him out of the lineup this week, coaches believe.

Although there's no question that Guzick will be missed, fans may anticipate another rip-roaring, hipper-dipper Red Raider showing when they bump into the Cowpunchers Saturday night.

The club will have but one home workout, following Saturday night's game, in preparation for next week's clash at Buffalo, N. Y., with Duquesne. Having decided to make the trip by train instead of by air, the Raiders leave here Tuesday afternoon. They'll work out in St. Louis Wednesday, and on into Buffalo for a drill Thursday night. The game with the Dukes, probably the toughest assignment on the schedule, is to be played Friday night.

Cowboys Leave Amarillo For City Today

(Special To The Journal)

AMARILLO, Sept. 23 — Following a skull practice this morning, Coach W. A. Witte loaded his University of Wyoming Cowboys into their bus and took off on the last leg of the long but frequently broken trip from Laramie. The Cowboys play Texas Tech in Lubbock Saturday night.

For a team counting heavily on reserve strength to see it through a tough schedule this year, the Cowboys sustained a bad break in a drill at Butler Field here last night. Willis Ball, junior tailback who is back in school after a lapse of two seasons, was injured in a punt-returning practice, and will be out of the Tech game. He had not been listed in the starting lineup, but was figured to get in some effective punches before the game is over.

Spectators Are Impressed

Otherwise, the squad finished its workouts at Dalhart and Amarillo in good physicial condition, and impressed spectators who watched them drill.

The club worked out under a boiling sun at Dalhart Thursday afternoon, moving on to Amarillo for the evening.

A varied attack of passing and running will be sprung against the Red Raiders when the whooping Cowhands hit Tech Field Saturday night. Although definitely classed as underdogs, the Cowhands are apt to pull a few surprises that will make the folks back home in Laramie anything but disappointed.

Layden Is Whistling But Like Small Boy Passing Graveyard

BY HEARL HILLIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 23—Coach Elmer Layden is whistling these days — but he sounds suspiciously like the small boy who whistled to buoy his courage as he scurried past the graveyard at eventide.

A breath-taking nine game schedule, some Notre Dame loyalists fear, may well develop into a graveyard of Irish hopes. For with a squad composed largely of inexperienced candidates, Coach Layden may have a tough time preventing Kansas from writing the first paragraph of the Notre Dame "obituary" one week from tomorrow — and after Kansas will come one powerful adversary after another to haunt the Layden crew.

Layden says he is not disheartened.

"There isn't any use in worrying about a schedule which anyone will admit is a difficult one," he says. "We've been lucky in past years, winning games by one point margins and having boys develop quickly to plug caps. Maybe we'll be lucky this year — and if we aren't we'll always be in there fighting."

Oct. 1 — Kansas at Notre Dame; Oct. 8—Georgia Tech at Atlanta; Oct. 15—Illinois at Notre Dame; Oct. 22—Carnegie Tech at Notre Dame; Oct. 29—Army at New York; Nov. 5—Navy at Baltimore; Nov. 12—Minnesota at Notre Dame; Nov. 19—Northwestern at Evanston; Dec. 3—Southern California at Los Angeles.

Classy Visitors In Town

By Collier Parris

THE FOOTBALL SEASON STARTS all over again for Lubbock citizens tonight as the high school Westerners make their home debut against Abilene's big Eagles.

Tonight's game stacks up as one of the two outstanding high school attractions booked for Lubbock this season, the other being the traditional Turkey-day game with the Amarillo Sandies.

This is not intended to belittle the other teams on the high school card—there are some good ones, with Vernon, Borger and Plainview playing here in October—but the Lubbock-Abilene and Lubbock-Amarillo conflicts just naturally take precedence on the basis of past records and attendance, not to mention the quality of football produced in these meetings.

Lubbock has not defeated Abilene and Abilene has not defeated Lubbock in any of their last three clashes, and over a period of six or seven years, the total score for each side is 25 points.

Needless to say, the players of both teams have had this record fact driven into them this week, and they are ready to battle for the lead tonight. Such attitudes are generally productive of fast, alert football, and that is the kind you should see this evening at Tech Stadium.

On paper, the Abilenes rule favorites in the pre-game books; the Eagles will exercise a weight advantage, as usual, and they must have something in the way of a powerful offense to crush even a Class B team like Moran by nearly fifty points in their first game, playing under wraps. The Lubbocks had to pull ever trick they knew, and call on the gods of good luck, before they could skin the North Side Steers at Fort Worth by a teeny-weeny point.

But this corner is stringing along with the Westerners, and figuring that some time during the course of tonight's game they'll get the break they are always anticipating, and make way with the winner's end of the purse. We are not risking much of our own purse on the prediction, but we stow a lot of faith in big Walter Webster, in Peanut Harold Parsons, Rusty Wayne Johnston and the nifty-footed Leete Jackson, not to mention a quick-opening line manned by important characters like Jerry Nash, Lloyd Sanders, Joe Pytell, Wayne Pipes and Joe Bob Foster.

Pipes is a 179-pound newcomer to the Westerner club who broke in strong last Friday night at center when Paul Sparkman came down with a broken leg.

GOTTO GET 'N a lick here, too, for tomorrow night's pigskin clash at the same place.

The Texas Techs continue their intersectional struggle against Northwest by taking on the University of Wyoming Cowboys, in case you hadn't heard.

We aren't saying tha the game won't be a mere warm-up for the Techs as they look forward to a date in Buffalo, N. Y., next Friday night with Duquesne.

It goes without saying, however, that Tech will have a little rougher going tomorrow night then they had last week against Montana State college.

The Cowboys from Wyoming are by no means novices to the football wars. They are considered this year to have something like a 70 per cent stronger team than they had last year, and they had everything last year but reserve strength. They have the reserves this year, and eleven starters who got acquainted with each other last autumn. Eighteen lettermen on a squad is something to consider. That's way we consider Texas Tech as pretty tough this season.

The Techs, from coaches to equipment room boys, have had something bordering on the football blues this week, with Captain Frank Gusick resting on the sidelines. A very tough break, losing Gusick right at the dawn of a very promising season. He isn't through for the season, but may not play any more until the Techs go to Missoula to play University of Montana.

Guzick'll be missed, but Sophomore Bull Rankin is doing his best to make the other boys and the fans forget Guzick. The Colorado High school ex is looking pretty fair in Guzick's blocking and lineback-ing position, and may come in for the same toting of the mail tomorrow night.

TIME NOW for the Friday afternoon neck-sticking-out section of this discourse. Some of the better college teams are warming up this weekend, but there's still little necessity of head-scratching to pick the winners, unless all signs go boom.

Looking down today's and tomorrow's schedule, then:

Big Army may have a bit of trouble with little Wichita U., but superior numbers will finally tell, for West Point; West Virginia, the Sun Bowl winner, isn't expected to give the Pittsburghs much trouble, because Pitt will be remembering last year when it nearly got slipped up on, just as the Red Raiders of Tech got slipped up on at El Paso on the first day of this year;

University of Texas, minus the services of Charley Haas, will have more trouble than originally planned at Lawrence, and the Kansas team has a chance to pull one from the fire—but probably won't; Arkansas should manhandle the Oklahoma Aggies, but the fur will fly; Detroit and Purdue should have a battle, with Purdue favored; Vanderbilt should take Washington university right handily.

Baylor opens with Southwestern, and probably will repeat the 39-2 slaughter of last season, or worse; Texas Christian and Centenary, who played a 9-10 game last season, will go hard again, but the Frogs are favored this early in the game; Southern Methodist always has trouble with the North Texas Teachers, but generally manages to win; Texas A. & M. shouldn't be pressed in taking Texas A. & I.

The Far West provides its fans with interesting things this weekend: St. Mary's and University of California should have a neat struggle before the Golden Bears win; Oregon and Washington State will play to suit the Cougar fans; Loyola should take California Tech rather easily, and Gonzaga ought to smear College of Puget Sound, University of Washington invades Minnesota, and there the Gophers start what looks like a rough season—for the opposition. Hardin-Simmons plays University of San Francisco, and may win. Alabama invades Los Angeles to lick Southern Cal.

Mrs. Page's Record Is One Of Most Remarkable In Go'f

CHICAGO, Sept. 23. (AP)—Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page of Chapel Hill, N. C., marching on today in defense of the women's national golf championship, has set up one of the most remarkable records in the sport.

She never had gripped a golf club until five years ago.

Since that time she has won the qualifying medal honors in the national twice, tied for it this year and won the championship last year at Memphis, defeating Patty Berg, the 20-year old gallery lure from Minneapolis.

Today finds Mrs. Page, a 31-year-old housewife, in the semi-finals. And Miss Berg again the menace. Mrs. Page plays Peggy Graham, Hollywood's gift to the tournament, who defeated Mrs. E. R. Hury, Dallas, Texas, 5 and 3 yesterday. The Minneapolis Miss engages Marion Miley, slim brunette of Lexington, Ky., who won 5 and 3 from Marion McDougall of Portland, Ore.

St. Paul's Saints And Kansas City Blues Meet For Title

ST. PAUL, Sept. 23. (AP)—The St. Paul Saints meet the Kansas City Blues here tonight in the first game of the final playoff series of the American association.

St. Paul completed a three game comeback last night to win the semi-final series by defeating Milwaukee, 9 to 1.

Final Trip For Fair Thursday

Lubbock business and professional men have adequately advertised the Panhandle-South Plains fair — if their travels over the great surrounding trade territory means anything.

The fourth such trip was completed late Thursday, when 80 persons, including the hight school band, followed W. E. Twitty, fire chief, and his red car to Plains Texas, and Tatum, Lovington and Hobbs, N. M.

Those who welcomed the Lubbock trippers were Arthur Cotton, Yoakum county judge; W. J. Hale, editor of the Yoakum County Review; T. C. Galliger of the Tatum schools; Miss Nora Tankersley, who led the Tatum greeters in singing the New Mexico state song; Luke Roberts, publisher of the Lovington newspaper; A. W. Anderson of the Hobbs Chamber of Commerce; Sam Young and Joe Cawthon, members of the Hobbs police and Dr. A. P. Terrell of the Hobbs Rotary club.

Representative crowds, met visitors at each stop.

Those Making Trip

On the trip, in addition to Twitty, H. A. Anderson, high school band conductor, and Clyde Owens, Bill Watson and Tom Armstrong, bus drivers, were:

Fred Hackel, Clayton Gammill, George Langford, Frank Lanotte, Clark Wood, C. L. Hudson, Ray Farmer, Lewis Price, M. M. Meek, Roy Moore, C. M. Guess, George Zarafonetis, Bill Curtis, Douglas Parker, Bill Lawrence, Ralph Penney, W. C. Henly, P. T. Glazner, Tate Sanders, O. A. Woody, Ed D. Allen, George A. Meiser.

W. W. Rix, Robert J. Allen, George Watkins, C. W. Tinney, Arlie Crites, Lorenz Ellis, H. B. Bryan, Chas. Whitacre, M. L. Davis, Fred Kincaid, Frank Matchett, Pat Bullock, Jerry Fulton, R. P. Fuller, Glenn Woody, Byron Beck, J. L. Blair, Lewis Tatum, Clyde Benn, M. S. Cole, B. R. Brady, Eli C. Henley, Homer Brown, and Hack Miller.

Plans For Tech Y Outlined Thursday

The freshmen can remember now.

By an unique arrangements of digits, they will know when YM-YWCA meetings are held. For instance, they will gather at 7:17 o'clock to 8:18, the theory being they can remember the succession of numbers better than 7:30 to 8:30 o'clock. Meetings will be Thursday nights.

Plans for freshmen activities were among matters discussed at a Thursday meeting of approximately 50 YM-YWCA members. The freshman group will meet separately from remainder of the organization and will meet the first time Thursday night in room 302.

Miss Allene Atkinson, who came here from Austin recently to take the position as the first full-time secretary of the YM-YWCA in several years, spoke to the group. Norman Davis, from Wildorado, president, presided.

A panel discussion was offered by four members who attended a student conference in Hollister, Mo., early this summer. They were Alma Rhea Eads of Lubbock, Davis, Mary Len Crawford from Childress, and Lyman McGehee from Wayside.

A new vice-president, Frances Titus from Pecos, was elected to succeed Nellie Katherine Speed of Athens. Miss Eads was chosen one of the sponsors of the freshman organization. A worship program was led by Elizabeth Black from Barstow.

WON'T BARTER FIREWATER

BULL RUN, Va. (AP)—A modern trader has set up shop on a famous spot where Indians once swapped furs and skins for firearms and firewater. J. T. Richards has reestablished the Bull Run trading post here, and announces he is ready to trade any and everything with any and all comers — except firewater.

Just Baba

1. PRINCESS BABA of Sarawak has been making a lot of headlines, but it seems she really isn't a princess. Her father, the white Rajah of Sarawak, says so—says none of his three daughters has a right to be called princess.

2. ALL THE FUSS about Baba started when she married Robert Gregory, British wrestler, last November. Here's the confetti-strewn couple. Baba's maiden name was Valerie Brooke.

3. MAMA as well as papa, was supposed to be considerably disturbed by that marriage. Papa disinherited her, but mama, the ranee, greeted daughter warmly enough when the latter arrived in New York from Europe in January.

4. WRESTLING BOB used this hold — his subject is Baba — shortly before he wrestled in New York in March. Then the couple went to California, where Bob's been wrestling some more.

5. DARNING SOCKS was what Baba was doing a few weeks ago, but she said that pretty soon she'd be knitting little things. She also said she and her husband were going to buy an island in the East Indies so he could be a rajah. That would make her a ranee, and being a ranee is a lot better than being a princess. Or is it?

ENUMCLAW, Wash., Sept. 23. (AP)—For 38 years the Enumclaw Courier-Herald has carried a two-column advertisement without change of size or copy. It was inserted by the White River Lumber company, and stated, "We Specialize in Quality Lumber."

Now the company has notified the Courier-Herald that it will discontinue its old ad and run some copy "better calculated to meet present-day competition."

Second Bonds Vote In Plainview Loses

School bond elections have been set for Sept. 28 in Crosbyton and for Sept. 29 in Sudan, according to information given here this morning by O. R. Walker, architect, who is preparing plans for the proposed structures.

Crosbyton citizens will vote on a $15,000 issue intended for replacement of a grade school building which has been condemned, Walker said.

In Sudan, a $45,000 issue is proposed for a new high school building.

Each community is seeking a Public Works administration allotment. $30,000 and that of the Sudan structure about $80,000, information here said.

Total cost of the Crosbyton building is expected to be approximately

KANSAS CITY—The telephone in a local hospital buzzed.

An excited feminine voice gasped:

There was a half-minute pause. Then came a sigh.

"Skip it," said the voice, "I just got out of my new corset."

Thinks Time Is Ripe For New Automobile Style Cycle

Noted Viennese Designer Points Out That Better Cars Should Soon Bring Smarter Styles

BY MME. IDA JOLLES

All of us appreciate the constant change that is the rule in the world of fashion; too few, perhaps, realize what is behind such change, or what change marks the inauguration of a true style departure.

The fact is that the best style is the style that best expresses purpose. This is true whether you deal with automobiles or the important accessories of women's dress. Whether it's a car or a handbag, it must have logic as well as loveliness if it hopes to start a style.

Personally, I expect automobile design to embark upon a new road in the very near future. Too much attention, of late, has been going to the detail of decoration and too little to expressing the constant improvement that has been marked in automobile construction.

From all I hear, the car most likely to establish such a new style cycle appears to be the new Buick which will soon be announced. Reports that reach me point it out as something that derives its smartness from its improvement in functional design. That will be sufficient to make it a car that at last starts us on a new style cycle.

'School Supplies' Matinee Is Being Held At Theater

The annual "school supplies" matinee sponsored by Avalanche-Journal publications and the Lindsey theater opened at 3 o'clock this afternoon as children thronged into the theater after presenting as admission the equivalent of a nickel in school supplies.

Tablets, pencils, crayons, rulers, erasers, scissors, paper and other supplies were accepted in place of regular admission charge.

The supplies are needed for underprivileged children in four Lubbock schools, including two for white students.

"The Singing Outlaw" and the first chapter of "The Lone Ranger" are on the screen.

Fair Lights To Shine

tensive work which must be done. Many of the lights will require adjusting and many exhibitors will be on the grounds getting their displays into their spaces. That work would be impossible, McDonald explained, if the grounds should be thrown open.

Can Park 5,000 Cars

The grounds, especially in the enlarged parking areas where nearly 5,000 automobiles can be parked, will be "almost as light as day," McDonald said. Brilliantly revealed also will be the new arrangement of exhibit buildings and the extensive sidewalk system which will make every portion of the grounds more speedily and conveniently accessible than at any previous fair.

Despite the lighting, however, he explained, the tests tonight will give only a hint of the brilliance of the grounds during the fair when the carnival is in place, and all the exhibitors have arranged their illumination.

Urge Purchase Of Tickets

Meanwhile, McDonald and other officials of the association joined in a plea that all of those who intend to purchase season tickets do so before they reach the grounds.

"The new parking and traffic system," McDonald explained, "will be one of the outstanding features of the exposition. If those intending to buy season tickets do so before they reach the grounds, it will speed traffic movement and lessen congestion."

New Exit Provided

Ticket sellers will be stationed along the new auto entrance—the same as that used in the past. A new exit at the southwest corner of the grounds has been provided.

Season ticket prices are $2.50 for adult, $1 for children and $1 for automobiles, each good at all times. Single admissions will be 50 cents for adults, 25 cents for children and 25 cents for automobiles.

Cotton Market

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 23 (AP)—Cotton futures opened steady 1 to 2 points net lower here today.

October contracts opened at 7.97, Dec. at 8.04, Jan. 8.06, March 8.06, May 8.02, July 8.00 and October (new) at 7.92-bid.

Towards the end of the first half hour the market was steady, unchanged to 3 points lower.

News of the interruption in the Hitler-Chamberlain talks attracted some nervous selling later in the morning but the trade continued to take contracts on the scale down and declines were restricted.

Near mid-session October sold at 7.98, Dec. 8.01, March 8.03, May 8.02, and July at 8.00, or 1 to 5 points below the previous close.

The census bureau's ginning total to Sept. 16 of 3,632,153 bales was about as expected and compared with 1,331,745 bales ginned to Sept. 1 and 4,261,165 to Sept. 16 last year.

The turnover yesterday was 25,000 bales and open commitments 395,950 bales, a decrease of 100 bales from the previous day.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (AP)—Cotton futures opened unchanged to 2 lower. Higher Liverpool cables were offset by nervousness over political developments in Europe. Oct. 7.89, Dec. 7.94, Jan. 7.94, March 7.96, May 7.91, July 7.90.

There was quite active October Liquidation in advance of first notice day, but enough trade buying appeared to absorb these offerings and with foreign houses taking distant months, prices turned steadier.

Dec. recovered from 7.92 to 7.96, leaving prices net unchanged to 3 points higher shortly after the first half hour.

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (AP)—Selling on a moderate scale was renewed in security markets today, depressing many stocks 1 to 3 points, as Wall Street revised its hopes for preservation of European peace.

Suspension of the Hitler-Chamberlain talks, together with warlike preparations in various countries and clashes on the Czechoslovak border, seemed to dispel much of the financial community's assurance extensive bloodshed would be avoided in the Czech-Nazi struggle.

Accustomed to week-end crises and coups in Europe, traders put their accounts in shape to stand another shock if need be. But the selling was a mere echo of the excited liquidation at the height of the war fright recently.

Foreign currencies declined in terms of the dollar, pointing to a further shift of capital to New York. Bonds sagged with stocks while the grain pit was dominated by speculation for the rise again on the chance war moves might stimulated demand for foodstuffs.

Indications business improvement in the United States had made more recovery headway got lost in the shuffle of European tidings and home storm news, which preoccupied financial attention.

While larger than in the preceding session, transactions approximated only 650,000 shares.

Grain Market

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Sept. 23 (AP)—New flare-ups of big scale war peril ran Chicago wheat values approximately two cents a bushel higher late today, but top quotations failed to hold.

Scenes Of Horror

gasett bay.

National guardsmen tramped the darkened streets of Westerly's business district, called out when fear of looting spread. The city was a turmoil as police, Red Cross and volunteers sought to restore order from the chaos, handicapped by flood waters four feet deep and paralyzation of essential services. For two days they were unable to send out pleas for help.

I saw summer playgrounds of rich and working man alike turned into a shambles, and heard the cries of friends and neighbors struggling on the rooftops of homes swept out to sea. Some I later counted along the rows of dead. Others I never expect to see alive again.

There were heroes among those gone.

Alvin Mawson, one of my closest friends, dashed into the turbulent waters to reach his wife trapped in their home on the ocean front. Alvin's body was found yesterday. His wife is still missing.

Bond Is Posted By Cafe Man On Charge

R. Ercambrack, 43, had posted $250 bond set in county court late Thursday on a charge of aggravated assault by improper relations with a 14-year-old boy, said the sheriff's office this morning.

The charge set out more specifically Ercambrack, cafe owner, had conducted himself in such a manner as "calculated to inflict disgrace and shame" on the boy.

Arrested Early Thursday

Ercambrack was arrested at 3:40 o'clock Thursday morning in 100-block Seventeenth street by O. E. Rush, W. J. Tucker and Carl Francis, all of the police.

A policeman had found a 13-year-old companion of the boy figuring in the complaint and, when questioned what he was doing out at night, the boy told authorities a strange story.

He said he and the other boy had "caught a ride" from Levelland to Lubbock to see the circus showing Wednesday night.

They "got lost," he said and found their way to Ercambrack's cafe, listed in police records as being at 103 Seventeenth street.

They told authorities and newspaper men Ercambrack forced them to drink beer, then locked one of the boys into a room.

The other escaped, as related, he said.

The boy who is set out in the complaint to have been assaulted said Ercambrack threatened him when allegedly subjecting him to indignities.

Be Glad To Get Home

"We sure will be glad to get home," said one of the boys, waiting in the police station for parents.

"It wasn't so much fun coming to the circus."

M. N. Davidson, night chief of police, had said the father of one of the boys came here for them.

Russia's Problem

of its coal, 60 per cent of its iron, 95 per cent of its manganese, the bulk of its wheat, and vast quantities of mercury, copper and gold.

It Is Russia's Granary

It is Russia's granary, a country of limitless steppes, almost as large as Germany was before annexation of Austria. It is peopled by about 30,000,000 stalwart, industrious slavs who have known war ever since their ancient capital, Kiev, was overrun by th Mongols in the 13th century.

Now that, France has failed to come to Czechoslovakia's aid under its treaty, Russians believe they must rely entirely on their own resources to check a reborn and hungry Germany. The buffer nations set around Germany on the southeast by the Versaille treaty are no longer insurmountable, as developments in the last week have shown.

Problem Is Complicated

The Russians' problem in the Ukraine is complicated by just such a minority issue as gave Hitler his chance in Czechoslovakia. The Ukrainians are not and never have been Russians. They do not speak Russian. Their culture, literature and civilization is vastly different and older. There has been and probably still is a powerful separation movement in the region.

As late as 1923 the Ukraine republic was a separate country signing treaties with European nations. Then it was gobbled up by the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics.

The last of the Kulak liquidation and subsequent famine seven years ago fell most heavily on the Ukraine steppes, adding to the discontent there. The Russians frequently have charged Germans were active in stirring up sabotage and counter - revolutionary activity among the Ukrainians, and stern repressive measures have been used to quell insurrection several times.

Problem At Tech

number of faculty members was the major one facing the committee. W. T. Gaston, business manager and member of the executive committee, said the committee was empowered to take steps necessary in regard to faculty additions and that a meeting of the board of directors would not be necessary.

Even Care For 3,600

Dr. Harry L. Kent, director of administrative research, is the other member of the three-member committee serving in executive capacity.

The situation in regard to space was not considered so desperate that temporary solutions could not be reached. Gaston expressed the belief the college could even take care of approximately 3,600 students.

Indicative of crowded conditions were reports from several departments.

In the mathematics department, approximately 1,700 students were enrolled. The teaching force is no greater than when there were 1,200 students in the department.

Laboratory space was inadequate. For instance, 51 students were enrolled in one class and the laboratory in which it is to meet accommodates only 32 students.

In one class in which 99 students were enrolled last year 199 are now enrolled.

Plans were to limit English classes to between 25 and 30 students. In no class is there less than 30 students.

In many cases, the problems must be solved by additions of more chairs in rooms and by creation of additional sections of classes.

Largest In History

The number of permits to register issued by close of registration Thursday exceeded by 375 the largest number of students enrolled in any former semester.

Dr. Gordon pointed out that the late registration fee was not required because the college desired to obtain additional money from students but because it wishes to encourage early enrollment.

Wednesday will be the last day a student may register or add courses in the first semester.

The increase in enrollment appears to be in the upper classes, said Dr. Gordon. That condition was gratifying, indicating the "holding power" of the college.

Dr. Paul Popenoe To Speak At Tech

One of the country's foremost speakers and authors on subjects of love and marriage and family relations, Dr. Paul Popenoe of Los Angeles, will speak at Texas Technological college Oct. 3 under auspices of the college YM-YWCA, Miss Allene Atkinson, "Y" secretary, said this morning.

Dr. Popenoe, director of the Institute of Family Relations, will speak in a home economics class on family relations at 8 o'clock that morning; in a general convocation of students at 11 o'clock on "Achieving Emotional Maturity"; and will conduct a forum in one of the dormitories at 2 o'clock that afternoon on "How Can You Tell When You're Really in Love."

The student Christian organization sponsored addresses by Dr. Popenoe once before. Response of students at that time has resulted in scheduling of the return engagement.

Floods Threat In Storm Area

New Jersey inched toward the devastating peak of the 1936 floods.

The flood threat was particularly acute in Hartford, Conn., with 10 per cent of the city's 12,000 acres already unded water, the Connecticut river surged past 33 feet—17 feet above flood stage—while 1,000 hip-booted men desperately heaped sandbags atop threatened dikes.

At that height, the river was three feet below the crest of the 1936 flood which caused a $20,000,000 loss in the city of 175,000. The Red Cross was in charge of relief work and the cheering word came from

STORM DEATHS BY STATES
(By The Associated Press)

The known dead by states in northeastern hurricane area follows:

Rhode Island	247
Massachusetts	112
Connecticut	57
New York	48
New Hampshire	13
Vermont	2
New Jersey	2
Quebeck province, Canada	2
Totals	483

Mayor Thomas J. Spellack that "no one need be homeless or hungry."

Other Spots In Danger

Other flood danger spots lay along the Merrimack river in New Hampshire and on the Connecticut's course through Massachusetts. In New York the Hudson, Susquehanna, Chenango and Mohawk were crowling upward toward menacing proportions, as was the Delaware, along the Pennsylvania-New Jersey border.

While these flooded streams were chewing at sandbagged dikes, undermining houses, factories and highways and surging unimpeded through lowland areas, rescue workers began the sorry jobs of salvage and succor in the territory battered by the hurricane's wind and waves.

Rhode Island Hardest Hit

They faced their greatest task in Rhode Island. The smallest state in the union contributed the largest death list—it stood at 247 today—and even that appalling figure was not complete.

"Only scraping the surface" was the dismal message that accompanied the report of the finding of 18 bodies at Island park. "Fifty or more" dead was the estimate of the coast guard for the Watch Hill shore section. Scores of towns had not been heard from since the hurricane struck.

Throughout th storm area, towns still lacked light and power. Food generally was reported adequate but the boiling of drinking water was urged in precaution against disease. Isolated towns used the radio to call for help; Gilbertville, Mass., where 1,000 persons were isolated, sent out carrier pigeons with a plea for food.

And, while the pigeons winged away, three food-laden trucks stood a few miles distant, their paths blocked by washed out and flooded roads. Arrangements were made to send food by plane today.

The Red Cross and government agencies were in the van of rescue work. The WPA had 100,000 employes on emergency work on an "around the clock" basis. Harry Hopkins, WPA chief, arranged to fly from Los Angeles to New England to take personal charge.

The coast guard marshaled 15 seagoing ships, three seaplanes, three mobile radio stations and about 100 small boats in the devastated area.

Norman H. Davis, national Red Cross chairman, worked shirt-sleeved in his Washington office until late in the night. He and fellow officials estimated 10,000 families in distress.

Offers for aid, among many that poured in, came from Louisville, Ky., victim of flood terror last year, and Miami, Fla., which has felt the whip of hurricanes.

Eight Trapped In Dirt Slide

(By The Associated Press)

FORT PECK, Mont., Sept. 23. — The bodies of seven of eight workmen entombed when a third of a mile of the upstream face of $100,000,000 Fort Peck dam gave way were hidden under millions of tons of soft dirt and rock today.

The body of Albert V. Stoeser, 23, Park Grove, Mont., was found late yesterday soon after the huge section of the dam's east abutment roared toward the lake forming behind the dam on the Missouri river.

None Expected Alive

Hours of dangerous search on the loose slide slope, 20,000 feet long and 200 feet high, convinced searchers none of the missing would be found alive. The entire dam is nearly three miles long.

Major Clark Kittrell, U. S. army engineer in charge of construction of the dam, largest earth-fill dam in the world, announced a preliminary survey did "not indicate that any reason for alarm should exist regarding the security of the main dam." He said the water level of the lake, now 90 feet deep, was 15 feet below the damaged abutment.

Major Kittrell said construction was not halted on the dam, started four years ago and now nearing completion.

France Has Trouble Within

At Paris, parliamentary circles said Premier Daladier had agreed to submit the blanket resignation of his government as soon as the international crisis "takes a definite turn one way or the other."

In Godesberg, Chamberlain's negotiations with Hitler this afternoon hung in tense suspense.

The British leader, remaining at his Petersberg hotel, sent a letter across the Rhine to Hitler, called off their scheduled morning talk.

No Indications Given

There were no indications what Hitler's reply would be received when the talks, begun yesterday, Hitler's hotel Dresden headquarters would be resumed.

Nor was there any official information of what Chamberlain's letter said, but informed persons believed it outlined essential conditions for continuation of the talks.

One of Chamberlain's conditions was reported unofficially to be that Hitler help arrange a truce between the Sudeten Germans and Czechoslovaks who were reported drawn up against each other in lines as if for battle on the Sudetenland border.

Promise Said Forced

A split in the French cabinet over policies of the premier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet forced the resignation decision. Reports were that revolting cabinet members forced from Daladier a promise that France would make no further concessions to Germany.

Threatened clashes between a Sudeten armed force and Czechoslovak soldiers at Asch, Czechoslovakia, was averted when government troops halted their advance toward the Asch area near the German border. The troops withdrew one mile to the east but left road patrols behind. Sudetens remained behind barricades on the main highway between Eger and Asch, which they had been prepared to defend the Czechs from reoccupying Asch, hometown of Konrad Henlein, Sudeten German party leader who fled to Germany.

Meanwhile, at Rome Premier Mussolini reviewed 10,000 blackshirt troops in Rome's first big martial demonstration since the crisis arose — but he failed to make an expected speech. The occasion was the dedication of the reconstructed Ara Pacis—altar of peace.

NOW, WHAT NEXT?

VALENCIENNES, France, Sept. 23. (AP)—Fifty Polish miners paraded through the town of Fresnes today demanding independence for the 200,000 Poles living in northern France.

Police dispersed them and seized swastika (Nazi) flags the miners carried. They shouted "Heil Hitler" and "insulting France!" Police said they belonged to a large Polish society with headquarters in Paris. Most of the 200,000 Poles are miners imported after the World war to replace depleted French manpower.

The governor indicated strongly he might make his home in Houston, after he assumes the judgeship, because the bulk of business in the court would be there.

Other towns in the district which have been under consideration are Galveston and Corpus Christi.

CLARA ON THE JOB

By Associated Press Feature Service

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 23.—Seventeen-year-old Clara Mallin, Marquette University freshman, is chiseling her way through college—and her report card of straight "A's" indicates her success.

Clara is a tombstone engraver, probably the youngest and one of the few girls in the trade.

She picked it up from an old master, a friend of her family, when she was 13. At 14 she applied for a job and was turned down. But when the boss saw and approved a sketched inscription, and later, the finished monument, without knowing Clara was the chiseler, she made the payroll.

Now she's going right ahead "manning" an electric drill. She picks up additional schooling funds through tutoring in mathematics. But what she wants to be is a research chemist.

Final preparations for a camporee of Boy Scouts, cubs, and leaders on the Texas Technological college campus Saturday are being worked out today by a committee under direction of L. R. Day, chairman.

Sites 70 feet square were marked off and preparations were made for obtaining water and latrines for scouts and leaders.

Arrangements will be made for a camp commissary to furnish supplies.

Tents Are Obtained

Council tents have been obtained and arrangements are under way to obtain others from the Texas National guard.

The camp will open at 9 o'clock Saturday morning. Earl M. McClure, council executive, said several hundred persons were expected to attend.

Saturday night the scouts, cubs, and leaders will be admitted without charge to the Texas Tech-Wyoming university football game in the Tech stadium. Approximately 2,200 scouts, cubs, and leaders have been invited.

This will be the first camporee for the entire council sponsored by the college.

Between 850 And 1,000 Bids Entered For Federal Research Units

Early Location Said Remote

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—When Senators Lee and Thomas, Democrats of Oklahoma, made formal application to Secretary Wallace to establish in Oklahoma one of the four regional agricultural research laboratories provided in the 1938 farm act, they found applications of nearly every farm state also on file.

For when congress approved the establishment of the laboratories to develop new uses for farm commodities, it dropped into the agriculture department's lap another kind of research problem—where to locate the laboratories and which commodities will benefit from research work.

Must Be In Farm Area

Congress merely directed that one laboratory must be located in each major farm producing area and research work carried on by them be devoted "primarily to those farm commodities in which there are regular or seasonal surpluses, and their products and by-products."

An appropriation of as much as $4,000,000 each fiscal year beginning with this one was authorized, the money to be allocated annually with each laboratory getting one-fourth.

James T. Jardine, experiment station chief, estimated that between 850 and 1,000 bids have been received from individuals, communities and states interested in location of the laboratories.

Cotton Assured Of Consideration

He said the first step in establishing the laboratories would be selection of the commodities in which the research work would be started first. The South's cotton crop is assured of consideration. All cotton producing states have sought one of the laboratories.

Because of the great amount of work to be done, agriculture department officials say they do not look for the laboratories to become things of reality within an early date.

State Rivalry Is Apparent

State rivalry for the stations first became apparent during the session when Senator Bilbo (D-Miss.), early proponents of the research idea, painted a glowing word picture of his state's advantages as a site for a cotton laboratory. He said Mississippi stood ready to provide $750,000 toward the project.

"How about Texas?" and "How about Arkansas?" other congressmen immediately inquired, urging selection of their own states.

Declaring the research should be on a nation-wide basis, Senator Connally (D-Tex.) said he did not agree the government should "auction off the project to a community from which it can get the most 'swag' in connection with location of a laboratory."

Memory Test

OMAHA, Neb.—A young man who rushed into the Social Security office was downcast to learn he couldn't select his own number.

He said he got a job by reeling off a string of digits when his prospective employer asked for his Social Security number.

"Now he'll think my memory isn't so hot," the youth wailed.

Friendly Bee

DES MOINES, Iowa—A bee flew into Mrs. C. R. Treanor's car and settled on her hand.

While trying to shoo it away, Mrs. Treanor lost control of the automobile which crashed into a vaiduct pillar.

Mrs. Treanor and her daughter, Jerry, 6, were taken to a hospital.

But a bee sting was not among the injuries.

Unappreciative Audience

DALLAS—The neighbors said they liked music but objected to young Mike's warbling.

Mike, a bulldog, sang every day—playing his own accompaniment. Bracing himself on a piano bench, he would strike the keys with his forepaws. Then he'd lift his voice in a range somewhere betwween a high baritone and low tenor.

When the neighbors complained Mrs. Henry Sorenson, Mike's owner, promised to keep the piano closed. But, she insisted:

"He doesn't raise a disturbance. He's just cute."

Potent Pert

CHICAGO—Explosion of a wine cask in the basement of a distributing corporation caused:

The injury of one workman;

the splashing of 1,650 gallons of port all over the cellar; tripping of the sprinkler system which flooded the plant and turned in a fire alarm; collapse of a firebrick wall and the shattering of plate glass windows—all within five minutes.

Texas Experiment Station Official Says Texas Could Well Be Turkey-Breeding State Of Union; Natural Advantages Are Cited

(By The Associated Press)

COLLEGE STATION, Sept. 23.—Due to natural advantages, Texas could well be the turkey breeding state of the union, said R. M. Sherwood, chief of the division of poultry husbandry at the Texas Agricultural Experiment station here, in a recent statement.

Experiments show, he said, that the quality of Texas turkeys and eggs can be greatly improved by proper feeding and management. Breeders should be selected before any birds are sold from the flock. If the flock is made up of birds of several ages, this should be considered in making the selection. Large, well developed turkeys of good body conformation with the proper color markings for the breed should be selected, removed from flock and fed a ration richer in protein than the fattening ration.

For best results, he said, turkeys should be fed regularly, or the grain and mash should be kept before them all of the time, together with plenty of water, which should be changed morning and noon. Shelter should be provided in cold and rainy weather, nests provided and the turkeys penned to prevent casual laying.

A barrel with one end knocked out, Sherwood said, makes the best nest, but it should be placed on the side with open tilted slightly to prevent snakes crawling in. To keep the hens in the pen, one wing may be clipped, but the toms' wings should not be clipped as it interferes with their mating. Two toms should be available even with the smallest flocks and the percentage of fertile eggs will be increased by rotating the toms daily. It has been observed that certain hens will not mate with one tom, but will mate immediately if another is placed in the pen, Sherwood said.

The station conducted feeding tests to determine the relative value of various amounts of ground oats, wheat bran and meat and bone scraps in rations for laying turkeys.

Bronze turkeys of like breeding hatched from the experiment station flock between March 29 and April 29 of the preceding year, were used.

Four per cent of tobacco dust was fed continuously during the experimental period to help control worms associated with blackhead organisms. Lights were used on the birds during February through April giving the turkeys a 14 hour day. The toms were rotated daily, using one tom in each pen. Records were kept of feed consumption, egg production, health, and mortality. All birds were carefully observed; any that died were posted to determine, when possible, the cause of death. Any broodiness among the turkey hens was broken up as soon as possible by keeping the hen in an enclosure in one corner of her pen until she showed no further signs of this condition. During this period of confinement, the hen was fed the regular experimental ration.

The study showed a turkey hen consumed eight to 12 pounds of grain and mash a month. The birds ate more grain than mash in the late winter and early spring, and more mash than grain in late spring and early summer. It took from 0.75 to one pound of feed to produce one egg. A decrease in egg production during the month was closely correlated with broodiness among the hens, but the turkeys were in good market condition when the seven month experiment closed.

Sherwood said there was a slightly higher mortality in the groups receiving the higher level of protein, but the higher level protein did not result in higher or more economical egg production.

Dueling Clause Up In Election

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Sept. 23—Texans can say on Nov. 8 whether or not their state officials should be required to swear they have never fought a duel with deadly weapons.

The single side-issue in the general election on that date is an amendment which would abolish the dueling clause from the constitutional oaths for state officers.

The anti-dueling provision is a hangover of hardy days when flaring tempers often required settlement of questions of honor by the pistol or sword. Pioneers evidently concluded it would both discourage dueling and keep duelists out of office.

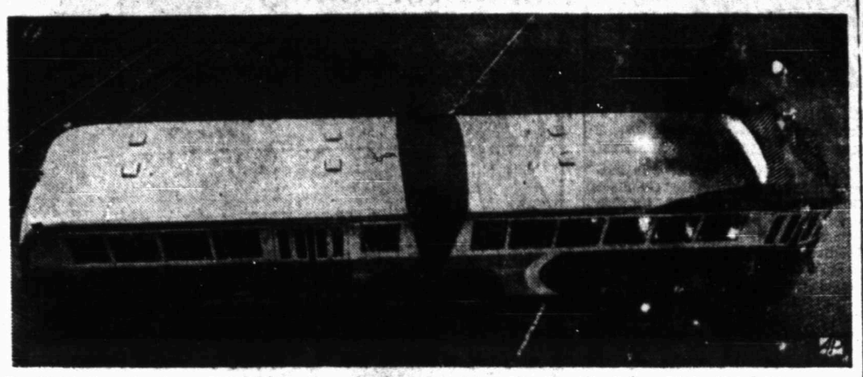

Causes Snickers

Its repeated use in modern times has caused not a few snickers at solemn inaugural ceremonies.

The oath has not been changed since it was incorporated in the present constitution, adopted in 1876. The dueling section perhaps would have been eliminated except that Texans generally did not feel it was of sufficient importance to warrant an election. The present legislature voted to submit it at the 1938 general election.

The three things to which an officeholder has sworn are that he will support the constitution and laws of the nation and state, has not acted as principal or a second in a duel and has not promised any money or valuable consideration in return for his election or appointment.

Bus Gets Rubber Joint And Grows 15 Feet

By AP Feature Service .. 5 1-2 pt.

AKRON, O., Sept. 9.—Highway bumps have been the limiting factor in the length of buses. But now they've built a 120-passenger affair that's 47 streamlined feet long. In tests it has wiggled through traffic at a 50-mile clip.

A sort of rubber hinge in the middle makes possible the unusual length. It was developed by the B. F. Goodrich and the Twin Coach companies. It limits the shock of bumps by confining the reaction to one end of the vehicle at a time. Double, twinned wheels in the middle help sustain the load.

The new bus is steered from the front by one driver. When he turns the steering wheel not only the front driving wheels, but the rear pair, too, twist to make the corner.

It Takes A Heap Of Shelf Space To Keep FDR's Hobbies In Line

By SIGRID ARNE
Associated Press Feature Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Goodness knows, this may swamp the White House mail room with flowers. And goodness knows, the housekeeper may not have enough vases. But here are the posies the president prefers (he's never been able to name just one favorite): Mountain laurel, roses, dogwood, gardenias and any wild flowers.

He wears a heavy gold ring with a bloodstone setting on which is carved the Roosevelt crest: Three roses in the middle, a scroll frame, and three plumes on top.

His weight stays around 187, height, six feet, two inches; chest 39½ inches; sleeve length, 18¾; hat, 31½; hat-size, 7¼ inches. His shoe is 38½ inches long.

He's written five books; "Whither Bound," "Government Not Politics," "The Happy Warrior," "Looking Forward" and "On Our Way."

Wonder who keeps track of his club dues? He belongs to all these: PCE, IOOF, Masons (Holland Lodge No. 8, New York City), Eagles, Alpha Delta Phi (Harvard chapter), and the Loyal Order of Moose.

At home he likes to hear these songs: "The Yellow Rose of Texas," "Anchors Aweigh," and "Home on the Range." At church he wants "Art thou weary, art thou languid?"

Off hours he wants to swim, sail, picnic or collect stamps, old prints, old documents, ship models. (And does that give Mrs. Roosevelt a headache sometimes! She runs out of shelf space. She doesn't collect anything. Says one collector to a family is all any house can stand.)

That stamp collection has been ballyhooed a lot, but the president says it isn't usually valuable. Just large. It includes 25,000 stamps. He's specializing on stamps from Haiti, Santo Domingo, the West Indies and Hongkong. But (and this should give you some idea of the Roosevelt shelf problem) he's also specializing on the Americas: North, Central and South.

He's received honorary degrees from 21 colleges and universities; 12 of them before he became president. They are: St. John's college, Harvard, Dartmouth, Syracuse, Oglethorpe, Yale, Southern California, Notre Dame, Queen's university, American university, Rutgers, Hobart, Fordham, Catholic university, Temple, Rollins, the Universities of Rio de Janeiro, Buenos Aires, and Montivideo, William and Mary and Washington college.

There may be others by now. This was just up to the time of going to press.

He goes for dark fruit cake and scrambled eggs.

And this just goes to show that a president might as well move into a gold fish bowl as into the White House. He's had several letters since the second inaugural asking why he didn't kiss the Bible that time.

This is the story: A president is supposed to kiss the Bible after he takes the oath of office. President Roosevelt did the first time. But the second time rain was coming down in buckets, and the Bible was wrapped in cellophane to protect it. So he probably figured if he couldn't kiss the real thing he wasn't going to kiss just an old wrapper.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 21—(Special)—The pleasant young man who was acting as a sort of an unofficial guide for us stopped the car on a promontory and pointed across the canyon at a cluster of mansions huddled on Tower road.

A resident of this, the largest center of population west of Chicago, he pointed with pride and his voice trembled as he explained:

"The big house off to the right is the home of John Barrymore. Right across here is the mansion of Charlie Chaplin. There to the left of the Chaplin home is the residence of Charles Boyer."

EDITOR'S NOTE
The Plainsman is back from foreign etapets but columns which he sent in prior to his return will continue to appear through Tuesday's Evening Journal. They were written from Los Angles and Flagstaff, Ariz.

In proper awe. The Plainsman and the Little Woman gawked at the menages of the movie mighty—duly impressed despite the fact that we had been looking at similar shanties of other cinema bigwigs all morning long.

And then we stopped to think of the thousands of other pop-eyed visitors who, throughout the years, have done the same thing and it occurred to us that it was all a waste of time.

* * *

We saw where Fred Astaire lives. We saw Pickfair, the fabulously beautiful—and expensive estate of Mary Pickford which, among other things, has a nine-hole golf course within its bounds. We viewed the lavish teepees of Mary Brian, Richard Arlen, Gary Cooper and all the rest—even going so far as to see places where the actors "used to live before their last divorce."

But we didn't see any of 'em mowing the lawn, washing the car, or even reading the paper on the front porch.

The houses were all very fine, but as far as we were concerned, they might just as well be owned and operated by the Zilch or Doakes families.

In other words, like thousands of others, we wore ourselves plumb out gaping and gawking—and didn't accomplish anything either.

Even if we'd met all the stars in Hollywood and Beverly Hills personally, we wouldn't' have accomplished anything!

Because they'd have forgotten us before we ever got off their respective properties!

MAYBE it's because The Plainsman has never liked Southern California in general, or Los Angeles in particular, that he feels cold as a mackerel toward Hollywood's hokum and Beverly's bunkum.

But anyhow — although there's probably no one in Lubbock who enjoys a good movie more than he—The Plainsman will not give you a plugged quarter for all the touring of the film colony that money will buy.

In Los Angeles, we are always more impressed by the fact that the women here have the best complexions in the country than we are by the fact that William Powell and Ronald Coleman love privacy so much that they've practically walled their estates off from the common herd, like penitentiaries and a monasteries are walled off.

We are considerably more attracted here by the dazzling brilliance of Edison building's tower at night than by the fact that there are more millionaires to the square inch in Pasadena than there are anywhere else to the square mile.

And even the fact that Carl Laemmle, jr., pays $2,300 per month for the penthouse atop a swank apartment house pales into insignificance when we stop to remember it is the great mass of people living here who, in two generations, have made Los Angeles one of the most progressive cities in all the world.

You hear about the mad movie moguls until you almost forget that in Los Angeles, like everywhere else, the big job of making it a place to live is done by the great middle class which forms its backbone — just as it makes up the backbone of every city in our land.

* * *

YOU have often heard — and doubtless have seen it proven—that "one man's meat is another's poison."

The same adage will hold good with towns.

Writing the other day from San Francisco, we told a little of how employer-employe strife is wrecking the city's tourist trade and marring its business life, in general.

That situation does not hold in Los Angeles, where labor trouble is practically unknown. And as a result, many San Francisco firms have moved or are moving to Los Angeles, where they will not be strike-ridden.

San Franciscans and Los Angeleans both point out that Los Angeles is gaining and San Francisco is losing because of the labor war there.

And strange to say, you find a surprisingly large number of residents here who are genuinely sorry that San Francisco is taking such a licking from a business standpoint.

You probably will be loath to believe this, after hearing all your life about Southern California's never-changing, fine weather, but here we have run into "an unusual condition" — so we're told on every hand and in every edition of the five papers.

To be brutally frank about it, it's been hot as the hinges of hades here with mid-day temperatures soaring to 94 and 96—which is hotter than 120 would be in Lubbock, because of the excess humidity.

Night weather is very pleasant — very similar to that of the Plains.

But we've run into more real summer here than we saw all through July and August there at home.

IN what turned out to be a vain endeavor to sidestep the heat we journed out to San Marino—which lies between here and Pasadena — to give the double-o to the world famous Huntington Library, which houses some 30 million dollars worth of rare books and manuscripts not to mention the great art collection which is so valuable that everybody is afraid to make a guess at it.

As we moseyed around the lovely buildings we were mainly impressed with the fine air-cooling system — not being of a particularly artistic nature. But when we stopped in front of the original of Thomas Gainsborough's "Blue Boy" we forgot all about the cooling system and the heat that made it so welcome.

There, friends and neighbors, is a wonderful canvas.

It must be, because even The Plainsman could appreciate it as such and he doesn't know an easel from a basic hue!

Attaches of the library wouldn't say what the "Blue Boy" is worth.

It is rumored that the late Henry Huntington paid $200,000 for it, but it is well known that the kings horses and all the king's men couldn't drag in enough gold to purchase it now. It just isn't for sale.

And no wonder.

Any old country boy like The Plainsman — who doesn't know anything about art and who probably cares less under ordinary circumstances — can see in every sweep of the brush and in every bit of shading a real masterpiece.

The thing is so well done that after one gazes at it for awhile, he almost expects the subject to come to life.

The expression upon the face of the "Blue Boy" is so natural and so life-like that it's all very uncanny.

* * *

THIS is a small world, after all—as has been noted upon so many occasions before this.

The other night as we registered at the Mayflower hotel here a young man on the other side of the counter came up.

"How are you?" he cordially asked, calling The Plainsman by name, "and how is Lubbock?"

It was Paul McDaniel, former superintendent of service at the Hilton at Lubbock.

And this is not a Hilton hotel.

The next night, upon returning to the hotel after a show, The Plainsman and the Little Woman dropped by the hotel's lounge.

No sooner were we seated than a tall, dark and handsome young man approached from another part of the room and lo, and behold! It was Norman Wilson who several years ago lived across the street from us over on Avenue X and who used to carry a route for The Avalanche-Journal!

Maybe it is because we've been gone so long. Or maybe it is because talking about Lubbock to these ex-Lubbockites made us think more about home.

But regardless of the reason, we've about "fed up" on this gawking tour and are just about ready to run back to the good, old South Plains.

We'll be seein' ya — and it won't be long!

Boxwood Barrier

BY BLANCHE S. FERGUSON
Copyright By Associated Press

THE STORY SO FAR: The boxwood hedge surrounding Goodloe's Choice in the Maryland hunting district is a symbol and a sacred boundary. On the inside, Judith Goodloe is longing to hear a proposal from dashing Gary Brent. Outside, on horseback, Reuben Oliver, self-made millionaire, peers enviously over the hedge until Jim Goodloe invites him in. Attempting to jump the boxwood, Reuben is thrown at Judith's feet, badly injured.

Chapter Eight
Another Outsider

In the house, while she directed an excited and bewildered Hannah to bring towels, gauze, hot water, Judith, despite a vague pity for his plight, was hating Reuben with a fierceness that actually shook her. Keeping her from Gary—as if two years of waiting wasn't long enough! Keeping her whole future hanging in the balance, her happiness—

"I won't be kept another minute! I'm going down! Why couldn't he have selected osme other spot in which to smash himself!"

Hurriedly she turned back jasmine scented sheets of the guest room bed. As they laid him upon the wide four poster bed, Reuben opened his eyes.

"He's coming round," Mr. Blout murmured. "Eh, Oliver? How do you feel? What did you say?"

Reuben had merely sighed, his eyes upon Judith standing between him and the west window. The sun made reddish lights in her hair. Subconsciously he reached out a straying hand, attracted as a child to a bright bauble; "I didn't dream—"

"Of course you didn't, Oliver," Dick Blout assured him. "You tumbled all right!" Then to Judith cheerfully: "They don't usually talk so soon when there's concussion. It may not be an operative case after all," briskly. "Now if you'll get me scissors, Judy, I'll cut that sleeve."

Twilight was closing in before Judith was free to go down stairs. It seemed a lifetime had passed since she had been kissed in the garden, but woman-like she tried to take up her enchanted moment where she laid it down. She stepped out on the wide porch, radiance in her eyes.

"I'm sorry, Gary. Hannah wasn't a bit of good. I had to stand by."

But it was not Gary who paced the porch impatiently. It was a strange little figure whose head made a red blob in the twilight.

"How is Reuben?" The voice was blurred with throaty notes not unlike the first chirpings of a mud-lark. "Don't stand gazing like a wooden Indian! Hurry and tell me how he is!"

Judith, submerged in her own affairs, continued to stare at the intruder in surprised silence. Here was a person she had never seen before and of a type foreign to the valley. Even in that moment she noticed the stranger's expensiveness. Paris was written all over her. Who was she, where had she come from, and what had brought her?

From the shadow of a vine enclosed corner, Gary came forward. "Miss Rogers is a friend of Oliver's," he explained. "Miss Goodloe will give us a cheering account of the patient, I'm sure, Miss Rogers."

"He isn't badly hurt," Judith caught up with the moment. "The doctors say Mr. Oliver will be as good as new in a week or 10 days."

Cissy sighed her relief. For an instant she was beyond speech. Then: "I might have known nothing could do Rube in for long!" She scanned Judith's face—the girl who had taken him from her, if she ever had him—low voiced, poised, beautiful.

"She has something I haven't," Cissy thought. "Something I would give the world for."

"I'm sorry you've been anxious," Judith saw this uninvited guest as one more obstacle between herself and Gary. If she would only hurry and go! She wanted to be alone with Gary—wanted him to take her in his arms—wanted him to kiss her.

Seated upon the porch railing, a smile upon his handsome face, Gary showed no sign of impatience for the guest's departure. He said: "Miss Rogers was wandering in and out between the box like a lost soul, when I salvaged her."

"I corralled him," contradicted Cissy. She was conscious of Gary's charm. Conscious of his approval of herself. "I should be running along, but—

Curiosity about Judith Goodloe made her linger. Curiosity and the fact that Reuben was upstairs. She was nearer to him here.

Judith, still in riding togs, swung up on the porch rail beside Gary: "You're a guest at Five Chimneys?" she asked politely.

Cissy nodded and helped herself to a cigaret from a nearby table. Gary gave her a light. In the flare of the match her hair showed very red. Very short. Her eyes were two flawless emeralds with black centers. "Reuben has a house party over the week end," she explained.

"And missing it! Talk about hard luck;" Gary felt a sudden sympathy for the man lying upstairs in the four poster bed.

"He isn't so crazy about it," Cissy said. "It was my idea entirely."

"His fiancee, of course," Judith decided and asked: "Do you wish to see Mr. Oliver?

Terribly Cissy wished to see Mr. Oliver. She hated the assistance Judith had been able to give him. Was jealous of the minutes—of the very walls that surrounded him. She said: "Not tonight. I'll come tomorrow, if I may." Proud of the way she said it.

"Please come as early as you wish," Judith invited cordially. "I'm sorry your party is getting off to such a gloomy start."

"The gang won't be gloomy long." Cissy dragged on her cigaret. She felt the other girl's aloofness. "They'll have a great laugh when they hear that anything so archaic as a horse did Reuben in."

Judith gasped: "Archaic? — Horses?"

"I've made a bad break," Cissy thought. She stuck to her guns. "Aren't they?"

"Maybe—I hadn't thought. Ours are part of the family."

"But hardly the modern means of locomotion," flicking an ash with slender ringed finger.

"I like the creatures, well enough. I lope around the park sometimes. Usually through, I'm in a hurry to go places and do things."

"Then a car, of course—"

Cissy blew a perfect smoke ring. "I usually fly an RX Super."

"How very modern!" Judith murmured without interest but Gary flung away his cigaret and slid from the porch rail. "I knew there was something tantalizingly familiar about you! You're C. C. Rogers the aviatrix—by all the gods. The C. C.!" His glance sweeping her was openly admiring and surprised. "You're just as big as a minute!"

Blue Eyes Meet Green

"I'm five feet one inch."

"Sure about the inch?" Gary grinned. "I've pictured you a—a sort of Juno."

"I'm flattered that you wasted a thought! Devastated because I'm not Juno?" impishly.

"Heavens no! But your pictures give that impression. I was among the mob the day you landed at Croyden. That was a grand flight you made—remember, Judy?"

"Yes," Judith remembered only because Gary had written, not because she cared about the flier. "Where have you flown from today, Miss Rogers?"

"Chicago. I came down in Rube's prize cornfield." Cissy laughed and turned to Judith: "Making a country squire of him, aren't you?"

"I?" surprised.

"You."

"The credit belongs elsewhere. I," with unconscious hauteur, "hardly know Mr. Oliver."

"Snob," thought Cissy resentfully. She had a sudden desire to hurt Judith. "You should get around more," lightly.

"Why?"

"Travel is broadening."

"So I've been told."

Blue eyes and green met. The girl who knew little of the world beyond the valley and the girl who knew it from sea to sea, took measure of each other. The former had the traditions and ethics of a long, proud line to uphold her. The latter made her own codes when necessity required. She said:

"Until he came here the only

LAWYERS IN THE LEGISLATURE

The statement attributed to an individual named Simon Michelet, president of the National Get-Out-the-Vote club—whatever that may be—that attorneys make up considerable majorities of the Texas legislature obviously in an attempt to make the Lone Star State appear as a horrible example of something or other.

If that is his purpose, it loses all convincing qualities when a few comparisons are considered. For example, considerably more than half our presidents have been lawyers. More than half the members of every congress—without one exception—have been attorneys. And we believe we are safe in saying that a majority of the membership of every legislature in the United States is made up of those in the legal profession.

Doubtless there is general agreement with Michelet's implied contention that the proportion of attorneys among lawmakers is larger than might be desired in the perfect state. But the lawyers are the ones who become candidates and then hustle for the votes. They are the ones whom the citizens elect.

That being the case, there doesn't appear much that Mr. Michelet or anyone else can do about it.

Hollywood Chit-Chat

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 23. — There is another one of those bands in Hollywood. I mean specialty bands like the Raymond Scott Quintet or the Schnickelfritzes that jam a movie set with visitors from other studios and set everybody on the lot to jittering.

This band is different, of course, being a sort of blend between Scott's modernism and the Schnickelfritzes' corn.

Your correspondent is strictly an alligator on the groove stuff, but I get along all right with swing if it has a discernible melody. And it is easy to tell what this Matty Malneck is playing.

Malneck was Paul Whiteman's arranger for nearly 12 years, and that background of jazz-classicism obviously has helped him to rationalize swing music. Besides his treatment, the novelty of his work depends on his choice of instruments, of which there are eight. Malneck himself uses a fiddle. Unique for swing is the single brass, a trumpet. Also there's a harp. And a drummer who patters on a piece of cardboard.

Tootler, Plucker, Switcher, Pounder, Eetc.

The trumpeter is quite a trumpeter, being Manny Klein, the tootling idol of some millions of eastern swing fans. Klein doesn't belong to the right union out here, but Malneck gets around that by paying a standby movie trumpeter as much as he pays Klein.

The harpist is Joe Quintili, who used to twang with the Cincinnati Symphony before Al Goodman lured him away to the radio. Joe is the best worrier in the band because he's afraid something will happen to his harp, and he doesn't like the way grips and electricians move things around the set of "St. Louis Blues," which is the picture they're working in.

The harp cost $3000, and they say Quintili sleeps with it.

Ralph Hansell, the drummer, is really a very good man on the traps and marimba and xylophone and such, but he doesn't do much with those orthodox instruments now that he has taken up cardboard playing. It's just an old piece of corrugated paper box, and he tickles it with flyswatters.

Occasionally, when overtaken by a creative frenzy, he swishes the back of his chair or the top of the piano. Before joining Malneck at Paramount, he worked for Walt Disney, doing rhythmical sound effects.

When the Dorsey brothers were still playing together, Bob Van Eps was their pianist. He's now holding down that seat with Malneck. Manny Stein, who whops the bull fiddle, also has played with some of the famous popular orchestras.

They Inspired A Toughie To Write About Love

Malneck, though, it may not sound like it, doesn't care about the past records of his men, for two of them have had little experience.

Many of his arrangements feature the accordion playing of 19-year-old Milton Delugg, who looks a little like Harpo Marx. The guitarist is Marshall Fisher, a 17-year-old kid just out of high school.

Although they've been organized for five months, Malneck's group has not yet made a public appearance. However, they have made several recordings. Bing Crosby is so stricken with them that he recorded Gershwin's "Summertime" to their music. Also "Blue Serenade," and there are others coming up.

Besides arranging, Malneck writes tunes. Two of his—"I Go for That" and "Let's Dream in the Moonlight"—are being featured in Paramount's "St. Louis Blues" and will be sung by Dorothy Lamour.

Director Raoul Walsh didn't quite like the lyrics that somebody hashed up for the "Moonlight" tune, so he sat down and wrote new ones.

It's hard to believe. Walsh wears a patch over one eye, and has a colorful vocabulary, and carries a pickax handle while working on the set. But he can sit down and write love lyrics just like that.

Housewives Owe Debt Of Gratitude To Lady Economist Who Analyzed Nation's Markets

By GERRY DICK

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23 — She might be called the nation's No. 1 housewife for no food problem of the family market basket is unknown to her. Yet she thinks of peas and carrots in terms of charts and graphs. Bread-making means millions of bushels of wheat to her. Breakfast brings her visions of fields of corn and oats.

She is quiet and retiring, yet she is senior economist of the United States Bureau of Home Economics—Dr. Hazel K. Stiebling. Two similar problems claim most of her waking hours.

How much food is needed to give every American an adequate diet, is the first problem.

How can agriculture supply this need, is the second problem.

Rodney Dutcher is on vacation. Today's "Behind the Scenes in Washington" is written by his assistant, Gerry Dick.

These problems are geared together, she believed, and the solution of one means much toward the solution of the other. From her office in the building of the Department of Agriculture she began her research on the question of adequate diet.

DIET AT FOUR LEVELS

In a study of tremendous value to millions of housewives as well as to the whole field of nutrition study and home economics, she worked out charts and tables to show what foods could and should be purchased to get the great possible food value out of the weekly budget.

Today anyone who wants to know how to stretch the food dollar farthest need only write to the Bureau of Home Economics for the series of four standard diets devised by Dr. Stiebling.

These "Diets at Four Levels of Nutritive Content and Cost" are:

1. The liberal diet.
2. The adequate diet at moderate cost.
3. The adequate diet at minimum cost.
4. The restricted diet for emergency use.

Relief officials throughout the country are using the Stiebling recommendations as to the last two diets. The diets are worked out for families of different sizes.

When Secretary Henry A. Wallace, who has declared that an adequate diet for every American must be the goal of any farm program, wants to know how much of each kind of food farmers should raise to give the nation an adequate diet, Dr. Steibling tells him.

FOOD FACTS

Today, Dr. Stiebling is engaged in a great new experiment. A survey of consumer purchase and consumer income, carried on by the Bureau of Home Economics and Bureau of Labor Statistics in co-operation with the National Resources committee has yielded an unprecedented mass of data on hundreds of thousands of families. Dr. Stiebling is comparing the food expenditures of these families with her diets and at last will know what proportion of families are getting them, or are able to get them.

ALL IN THE CARDS

In spite of the collapse of the President's "purge," there will still be quite few new faces in the congressional set this winter.

Wives of those fortunates who are the "people's choices" probably will play their part in the life of the capital in much the same manner as all congressmen's wives.

The congressman's wife leaves cards at the White House, on down the line, unendingly, until at night she dreams of a succession of cards, like the accordion folders of picture postcards.

The wife of the senator from the state her husband represents asks her to an "at home." It is a smaller gathering. She gets to meet people, deserve them. And they appraise her. She feels dowdy. She must give more attention to her frocks, her gloves, her hair-do.

Washington rents are high. To have the right background she must pay $150 to $200 for a four or five room flat with a good address. Her own wardrobe, adequate for her needs at home, with morning frocks, some simple little afternoon things for her bridge club and literary clubteas, and one good evening dress a season, simply won't do. They look shabby.

And there's always the need to put away something for the next campaign, if they hope to come back. And they do, they most certainly do, for its very, very glamorous.

thing Rube used horses for was to pull trucks out of mudholes; now—it's funny."

"Mr. Oliver's going in for sport? I agree with you," Judith said a bit too smoothly.

With the swiftness of lightning Cissy's hot temper burst the carefully acquired shell of her veneer.

"Sport, my eye!" scornfully, "What's so sportsmanlike in an able bodied man with a gun in his hands or a pack of dogs at his heels, chasing a defenseless rabbit, fox or what have you, to its death? The pastime of cowards, if you ask me!"

Cissy took a savage delight in the vibrant silence that followed her speech. She rushed on: "Face to face with a man sized opponent your so called sportsman probably turns tail and runs!"

"Oh, come now!" Gary started a protest, but Cissy's spurt of anger died as suddenly as it had flared.

"I've been rude," repentantly, "when I meant to be so nice. Please forgive me! I wanted," with small girl honesty, "to make a good impression. Now—" regretfully.

"You've made a wonderful impression," Gary assured her heartily. He found her amusing. He had never met a girl just like her.

Cissy's green eyes approved him, covertly. She noticed that her hostess approved him openly. Oh-ho! That was where Judith's heart lay. Cissy's spirits rose with a great surge. She kept right on being rude.

Work To Start Soon On Dam

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—The war department has ordered immediate construction of the St. Francis river project, and work will start on the $21,700,000 Wappapello dam as soon as the necessary roads are built into the construction area from a nearby highway and the damsite cleared.

The engineers have allocated $2,300,000 of flood control funds for the project for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1939. The amount is supplemented by an unexpended balance of $1,700,000 credited to the project for the 1938 fiscal year, making a total of $4,000,000 available for the current year's operations.

To Be Spent On Dam

The engineers say most of the money will be spent on the huge Wappapello dam and reservoir in extreme southeast Missouri which when completed will typify the method advocated by the war department for slowing up and regulating tributary floodwaters.

Of the $4,000,000 available, about $446,000 has been set aside to begin construction of the dam proper, and an approximately similar amount for spillway structures and a channel to allow for gradual outflow of part of the water to be impounded in the reservoir.

About $1,000,000 will be spent for control structures and $35,000 for outlet works and clearing operations. About $500,000 has been allocated for land purchase. $300,000 for readjustment of railroad and other utility property and $100,000 for surveys and exploration.

To Construct Levees

For levee construction in that part of the project near Marked Tree, Ark. and elsewhere along the St. Francis and Little rivers about $500,000 has been apportioned.

"For the first time we have the money, the plans and the detailed land assurances and we are ready to go to work," a spokesman for the engineer said.

He stressed the importance of the levee work planned near marked tree, saying it was designed to correct a "bad situation" in flood time caused by inadequacy of locally constructed levees near the injunction of the St. Francis and Little rivers.

Plan New Sluice Dam

Plans call for building a new sluice dam on the St. Francis river, expenditure of $250,000 on St. Francis levees and $250,000 on Little river levees in the current fiscal year.

The levee work will be done in drainage district No. 17 in Mississippi county, Arkansas, and the drainage district No. 35 in Duncan county, Missouri, and drainage district No. 16 in Mississippi county, Arkansas.

The Wappapello reservoir, designed solely for flood control, will flood 1,235,000 acres in the St. Francis and Little river valleys. It will be built by erecting a rolled fill dam about one-half mile long, and about 416 feet above mean Gulf and 73 feet above the valley floor.

In addition to the dam and reservoir, the St. Francis project includes improvement and construction of 277 miles of levees along the St. Francis and an overbank floodway to St. Francis Bay which will require a total of 26,500,000 cubic yards of dirt, and 116 miles of levee in the Little river area requiring 10,000,000 cubic yards.

IT COSTS COUNTY $6

HOLLISTER, Calif. (AP) — Mrs. Emma E. Robbins has the distinction of being the only registered member of the Prohibition party in San Benito county.

County Clerk Elmer Dowdy has the distinction of spending $6 at every election printing a sample ballot and a regular ballot for Mrs. Robbins' exclusive use. Such procedure is required by law.

Starting Early For An Extra Point

Too many football games are lost by the margin of a point after touchdown, so Bill Krywicki buckles down to place-kicking early on Fordham Field, where the Rams became the first major college team in the country to begin drills. Great things are expected of Krywicki, who starred at quarterback last season as a sophomore.

Unsettled Conditions Abroad Reason For Illegal Entries

PORT ARTHUR, Sept. 23.(AP)—Unsettled political and economic conditions aboard and comparative prosperity here are reasons given by Horace C. Harris, inspector in charge of the district offices of the federal immigration and naturalization service, for Port Arthur's popularity for illegal entry.

In the fiscal year ending July 1, 68 desertions from foreign ships were listed here, compared with 22 the preceding year. Ten were apprehended and returned to their ships before they sailed. Many were included in the 44 deportation cases instituted here.

Only three of 23 applications for legal admission here were rejected. They were the "men without a country," who stowed away on one vessel six months.

The 12 banks for cooperatives of the farm credit administration report there are 3,270,000 members in farmers' co-operative associations in the United States.

First Texas Forest Festival To Be Opened In East Texas

LUFKIN, Sept. 23 (AP)—The first annual Texas Forest Festival will open its gates for a five-day run here Oct. 11, featuring the forest and lumbering theme and having the codperation of the Texas Forest service and the Texas Mill Managers association.

The new exposition replaces the old Angelina county fair.

Four exhibit buildings are now under construction at the new exposition grounds, including a special structure to house the Texas forest service's $20,000 woods products display, moved here from the Texas Centennial at Dallas.

Lufkin, headquarters for the Texas Forest service, the federal forest service, and long the center of lumber manufacturing in East Texas, will invite leaders in state, federal and commercial timber circles here for the festival.

A forestry pageant, introducing forest "princesses" from many East Texas towns, will be the high-light attraction of the exposition.
