County residents take steps to prepare for area's growth

By PAT BLAIR
Managing editor

Amid observations that Aransas is one of the fastest-growing counties in the Coastal Bend, a group of county residents and representatives of governmental entities have agreed to get together a working committee to plan for that growth.

The agreement came after a meeting at Rockport's City Hall last Friday, Nov. 4, with Dr. Michael Patrick, an economist with the Texas A&M Unversity Extension System. The meeting was attended by some 20 county residents including Aransas County commissioners, members of Rockport's city council, planning and zoning commission and board of parks and recreation, officials of the county independent school district, the Emergency Medical Service (EMS), the navigation district and the library.

The purpose of the meeting, Dr. Patrick told those in the audience, was to determine if Aransas County residents and officials want to do a study on the growth of this area and the demands it will make on the county's development and services (including those provided by other governmental entities such as the cities and schools).

Such a study, he pointed out, would complement other studies that are now under way in the county, including Rockport's master plan study, the master plan study recently authorized by the school district and the study being done of area beaches by Texas A&M for the navigation district.

'...the fastest-growing county in the Coastal Bend...'

Such a study, he said, will give area residents a better idea of what to expect from such developments as the condominiums now being planned or under construction, new shopping centers — and major industrial developments like the BakersPort project.

Patrick said area residents have two options if they want to undertake such a study: either Texas A&M University could do the entire study, in which case the project would cost money; or it can be done by a working committee composed of members of the community, with assistance from Dr. Patrick.

The second method, he said, would not cost money — or would cost only minimally for use, for example of Texas A&M's computer — "since my salary is paid by A&M."

During the two-hour meeting that began at 10 a.m., Dr. Patrick invited those present to discuss what they see as areas of problem or concern to the community.

Ken Calloway emphasized the need for some type of meeting/community facilities. "Let's not lose sight of the fact that people come here to be entertained or entertain themselves," he said. He suggested Aransas County residents consider a complex such as the one in Port Aransas, which clusters facilities for the city hall, a library, museum and auditorium.

Aransas County Navigation District (ACND) Chairman Hillis Dominguez said, "I have been on the navigation district approximately four years, and the impact of growth is hitting us hard."

Dominguez pointed out Rockport's mile-long beach is manmade "and hard to keep up" and observed, "Our concern (on the ACND) is that we are not set up for recreation. This district was created for navigation purposes, not for recreation. It (recreational use) developed.

"We are very interested," Dominguez said, "on how growth will impact on the beaches and recreational facilities — what we will

Harbor improvements are planned

Aransas County Navigation District commissioners gave formal approval in a special meeting Monday to improvements to Rockport and Fulton harbors that will be funded as part of a proposed $500,000 revenue bond issue.

On a motion by Commissioner Hal McKnight, the three commissioners at the special session voted to add a pier in the north basin of Fulton Harbor that will increase the number of boat slips by 40 and approved two alternate plans for construction of a pier in Rockport Harbor.

Approximately $100,000 of the proposed bond issue is already earmarked to pay for rewiring Rockport Harbor.

Estimated cost of the proposed work to Fulton Harbor is $262,300, including construction of the pier, electrical and plumbing and demolition of existing slips. As presented by Jim Shiner, a representative of Goldston Engineering Inc. of Corpus Christi, at Monday's meeting, the new Fulton pier — which would be for commercial vessels — would provide 48 boat slips but because eight existing slips would have to be demolished, the net gain would be 40.

Also included in proposed project costs are a $22,000 contingency allowance and engineering fees of $17,000 — 8 percent of the project costs.

The pier to be constructed in Rockport Harbor would be for pleasure boats and the first alternative adopted by the navigation district calls for construction of a pier in the harbor's north basin. This would provide 43 new slips on a 300-foot-long pier with a total project cost estimated at $116,200.

Second alternative on this project calls for construction of a 400-foot-long pier for pleasure boats in the south basin, which would result in 56 new slips at a total estimated cost of $153,000.

Navigation commissioners did not specifically include Cove Harbor in their ac-

Rockport Cable TV rates to increase in January

By LESLIE ABRAMS
Staff writer

Rockport Cable TV has announced that rates for basic cable service will increase $2 per month, from the present rate of $10.95 to $12.95, beginning Jan. 1.

Reasons for the increase were outlined in an Oct. 31 letter from President Oliver J. Hensler, who cited increases in costs to the company.

This is the first rate increase in two years for the firm, which first began service in 1979.

In the letter, Hensler stated that since the last increase, the number of available channels has gone from 26 to 30 and that the firm has had to replace two services which went out of business. In addition, the company has recently installed a fourth satellite receiving antenna. Ten channels of FM stereo are also now available to cable subscribers.

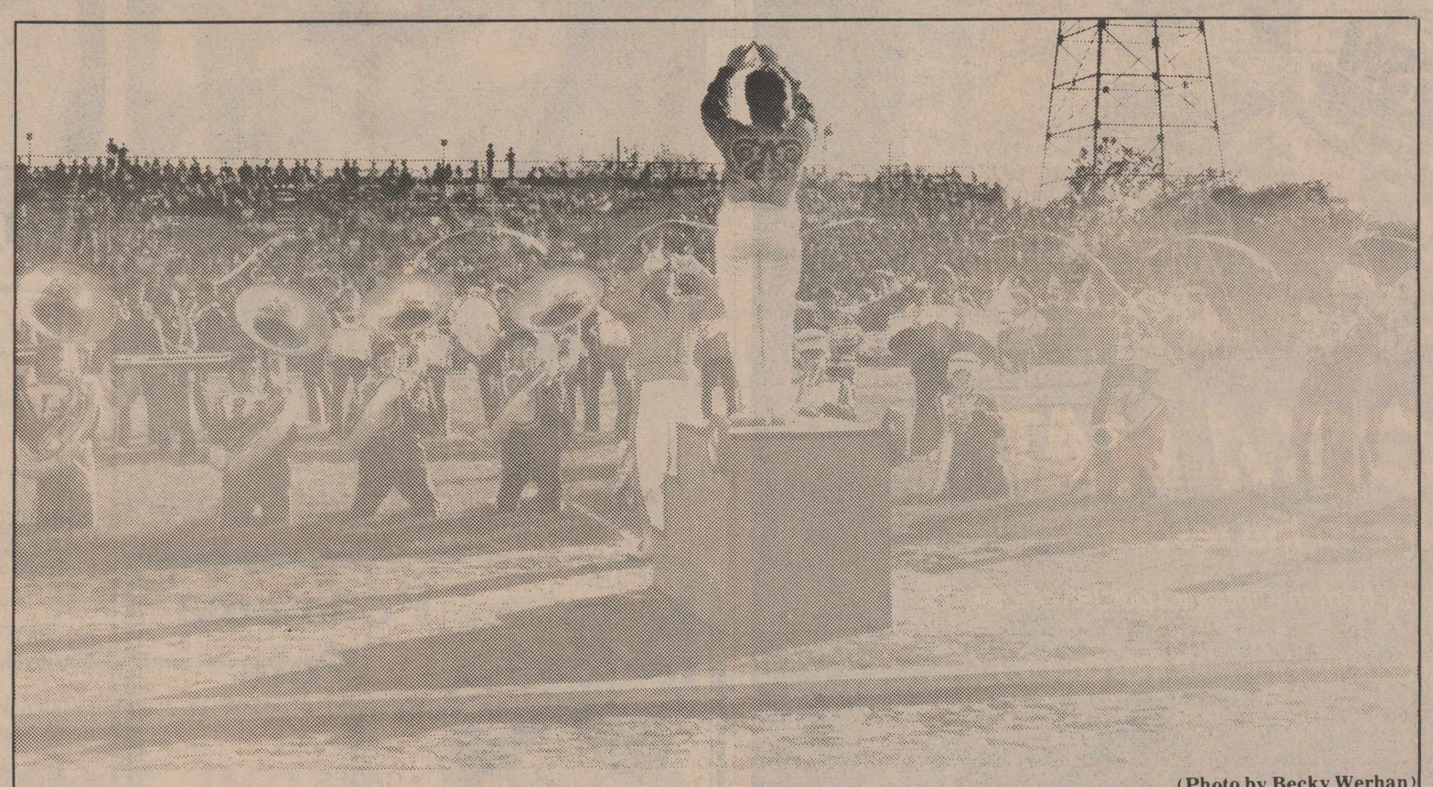

According to Vice President Jana Hensler, the main reason for the increase is accelerated costs. Mrs. Hensler said in a telephone interview Monday, Nov. 7, that several services the firm receives have increased their costs and that some services which had not previously charged a fee are now doing so. She emphasized that premium channel rates would not be affected by the increase, nor would other services the company provides.

Other cost increases to the company cited in the president's letter include higher energy, insurance, telephone, taxes, stationery, postage and advertising costs. In addition, the firm has hired additional employees to provide better service to its 2,058 subscribers.

"We're just like everyone else," said Mrs. Hensler. "When we have savings we pass them on. You don't want to price yourself out of business but you don't want to go out of business either."

The letter further stated that the company, since its inception, has not yet shown a profit and does not expect to break even until 1985. However, Mrs. Hensler said, the firm is continuing to enlarge its viewing area and is currently working to install cable TV to serve the Copano Heights, Copano Cove, Copano Ridge and Copano Village areas. Other areas in which the company hopes to install service in the near future include the Allegro North Condominiums, the condominiums on Key Allegro, Rockport Oaks Apartments and Rockport Country Club Estates.

According to the letter, subscribers will be notified of the rate increase in their December monthly statement.

Area businesses target of drive by United Fund

With the Aransas County United Fund campaign at 65 percent of its 1983 goal — a total of $19,500 in donations or pledges to date — the campaign has launched a "personal drive to all area businesses," according to Jim Blankenship, publicity chairman for this year's drive.

"We're urging all businesses to help" in raising this year's $30,000 campaign goal, Blankenship said Monday. Target date for reaching that goal is the week after Thanksgiving, he added.

Money raised by United Fund in Aransas County stays in Aransas County, Blankenship emphasized. Funds this year will be used to help the Aransas County Council on Aging, the Aransas County Emergency Medical Service (ambulance), Aransas County Youth Council, Aransas County Emergency Corps (the five volunteer fire departments), American Red Cross, ABC Learning Center, Boys Scouts of America-Gulf Coast Council, Family Counseling Service, the local and Paisano Council of Girl Scouts, AIM Home Health Agency and the USO.

Blankenship noted the United Fund campaign has received several donations of $200 or more, including $2,000 from the Sid Richardson Foundation and $1,000 each from Mr. and Mrs. Earl P. Burke Jr. and Dennis O'Connor.

Others donating $200 or more include Aransas Natural Gas Co. and Getty Oil Co., $200 each; and builder P. W. Jackson, $500. Blankenship also noted a $150 donation from RYSCO.

Individuals who have donated or pledged $200 or more this year include Mr. and Mrs. Bill Noble, Mr. and Mrs. Phil North, Marshall and Molly Freeborn, $250 each; Mr. and Mrs. Jesse W. Schumacher, Mr. and Mrs. Don Bodard, J. Paul Karcher and Robert J. Hicklin, $200 each; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Kline, $204; Fred Stark III, $240; William A. Statesir, $360; and Dale C. Snyder, $240.

Blankenship noted the donations from the Klines, Stark, Statesir and Snyder were in pledges through DuPont.

21-14 score will go down in Pirate history

Pirates defeat Sinton in the game of the year

"Things happened Friday night that people are going to be talking about for a long time..."

That's how Head Coach Aubrey Schulz sums up the most spectacular game of the Rockport-Fulton Pirates' season — a stunning 21-14 victory over Sinton, the district Goliath rated 10th in the state. The game was highlighted by a 94-yard touchdown run by Dwayne Walls but from the dazzling first quarter that saw two touchdowns scored in three minutes and more yards gained against the number one defense in the state than they'd given up all season long, to the breathtaking fourth quarter interception by Louis Soliz that sounded Sinton's final death knell, the entire Pirate team proved, in Schulz' words, "that Rockport-Fulton is no fluke."

Coming into Friday's game fortified by the R-F freshmen's impressive 38-0 Thursday night shutout victory and a near miss by the JV, who lost 12-7 after a well-played game, the Pirates displayed four full quarters of confidence — "these kids just kept on coming with all odds against them," boasts Schulz. "They never gave up and it finally paid off."

"We were ahead from the very beginning," says the coach. In the first series of the game, the Pirates gained seven yards on three plays — not impressive in itself but it takes on more meaning against a defense that had allowed only 80 yards all season. Giving the ball up, the Pirates stood firm, allowing the Sinton offense a scant one-and-a-half-yards on their first play. "The defense was what got the offense going."

The Pirates came back, gained yardage on a pass from Rudy Soliz to Bill Mott, then made their first touchdown of the night — a 14-yard pass to Doyle Parr with a little less than four minutes in the quarter remaining. "That just shocked them," says Schulz. "It really shut them down when Dwayne ran the ball in for the second one." Walls' 47-yard run and David Cochran's second successful point-after attempt set the score at 14-0 with less than a minute left in the quarter.

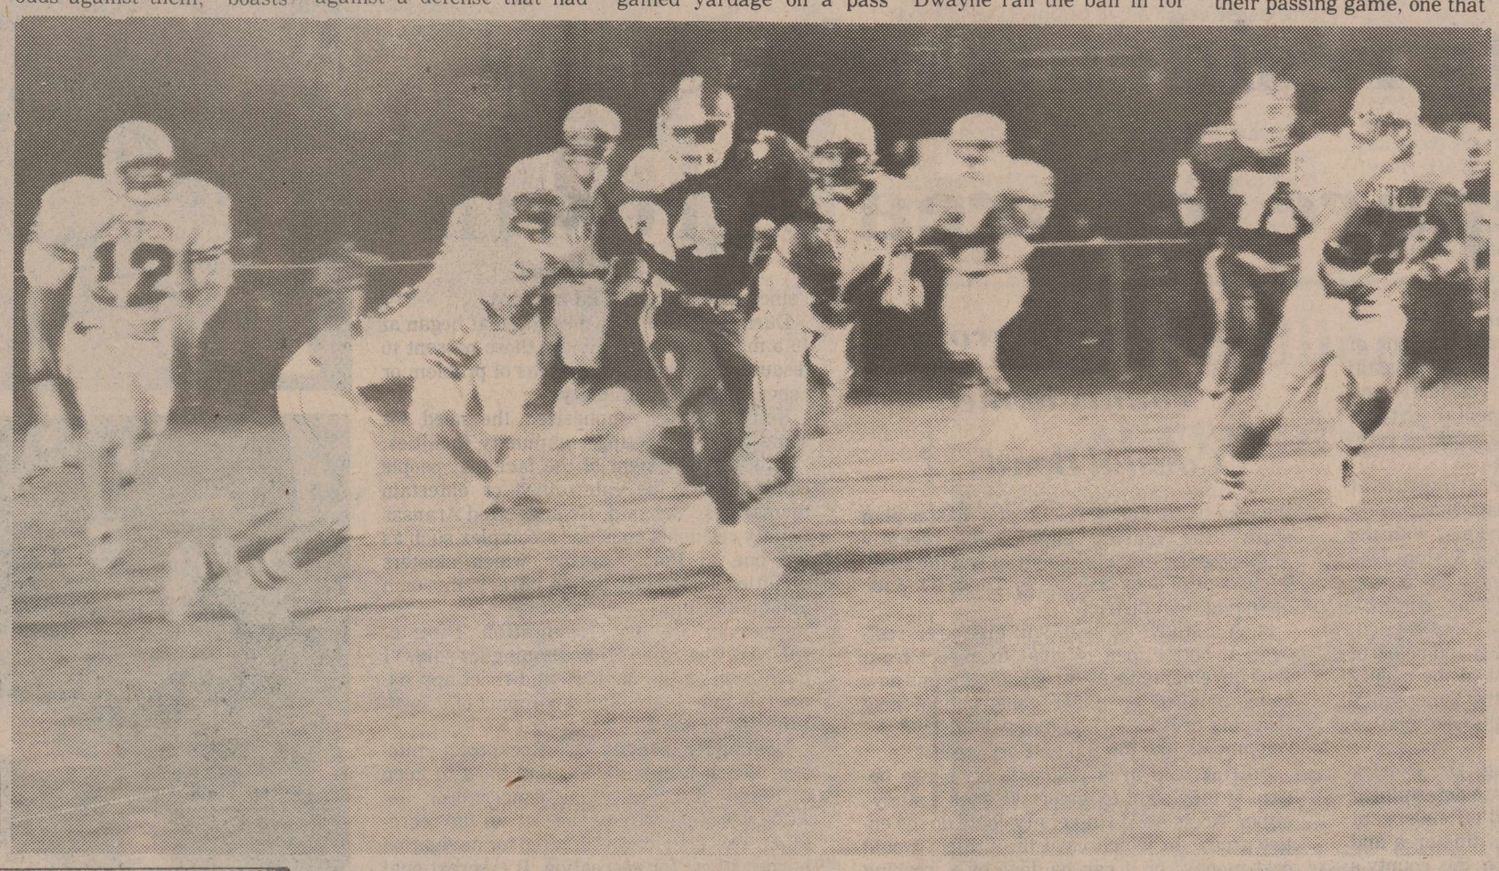

The Sinton Pirates got tougher in the second and began to rely heavily on their passing game, one that Rockport-Fulton couldn't hope to match but that they didn't let get the best of them. A five-yard scoring run put Sinton on the board but they missed the extra point.

On their next series, Sinton fumbled and Walls, aided by Raymon Romero, recovered. With most of the field in front of them, the Pirate offense took over and Walls screamed down the 94-yard expanse to put the Pirates ahead and leave the Pirate stands in a fever pitch that never abated. Cochrans' point after was good and the score was 21-6. "That secured it," says Schulz.

Coming into the second half, the coach recalls being worried about the tiredness of the team. "I wasn't sure they could keep it up, whether they were worn out or not" but a massive Rockport-Fulton spirit line at the goal posts, made up of most of the spectators was, according to Schulz, the key. "That's what really fired them up. They couldn't believe all those people down there."

Though the third quarter was mostly a struggle by the Pirates to maintain their gain against a weakening Sinton and neither team scored, the second half was highlighted by two dynamite interceptions — a one-handed leap by Cochran and Soliz' key snag late in the fourth quarter. Soliz' interception came after the Sinton Pirates had put one more touchdown past Rockport. Attempting to punt, Bobby Dingenary couldn't get a hand on a wobbling ball and Sinton got it turned over on the three yard line — an easy score with less than three minutes left in the game. A two-point conversion put the score at 21-14 then came Soliz' coup d'grace. "That was really the icing on the cake," states the coach. In spite of penalties, including one for unsportsmanlike conduct when most of the Pirate bench, coaches included, leaped on Soliz and buried a Sinton Pirate in the process, R-F held forth for the rest of the incredibly tense fourth period. "The penalty was totally deserved," grins Schulz "...but it was worth it."

Leading the Pirate defense throughout were Kevin Billeiter, Mott and, in his best game of the year, John Hattenbach. Schulz also credited Demetrius Lewis' efforts on the defensive line. "He had a super game."

Walls' had a 170-yard night, putting his season total to 1135. Scott Russ also shone on the offense with 60 yards in 15 carries. Soliz attempted eight passes, completing two and losing none.

The Pirates had 12 first downs to Sinton's 17, 240 yards on the ground to their 172, and only 54 in the air to their impressive 241.

"The fans and everybody in town really helped out on this one," says Schulz. "The guys had a chance to do something that people would talk about for a long time and they did.

"They played this one with their hearts."

RFSA Mustangs beat Raiders, 3-2

In Saturday's Junior Division soccer, the Mustangs did what no one else had been able to do and that was to beat the previously unbeaten Raiders. That victory came in a keenly played 3-2 game at 8:30 a.m.

The Raiders jumped ahead with a goal by Charlie Lozano who had taken a good pass from Rosendo Ricarte. That score didn't hold up long as Gabriel Trevino for the Mustangs deflected a shot past goalie Nathan Arispe. Both teams kept making numerous rushes at the opponent's goals, but the goalies and the defense proved too tough until the Raiders scored on a short shot by Ricky Romero. The Mustangs answered that goal with a deflented shot off the toe of Miles Adkison following a pass from Robert Schoen.

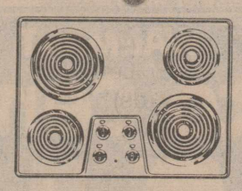

Both teams played hard in the second half in the humid morning, but it was the Mustangs who found the winning combination for a goal off the toe of Adkison who slipped a perfect shot past Romero who tended the net in the second half. Defense was the name of the game except for that one shot in the second half. Romero and the Mustangs' goalkeeper Alan Kohl were brilliant. Kohl got a lot of help from "Big" Eric Scott, Dwayne Solis and Mario Hernandez keeping the ball out of the Mustangs' end of the field.

The Raiders were not without their defenses who stood out as Ricarte and Bubba Kellough along with Daniel Cox moved the ball constantly across the midfield area. J.R. Martin roamed the entire field, making good moves on the Mustang goal, but the ball would either be stopped by Kohl or just miss the net.

County offers historic weekend tour

JEFFERSON — The Christmas Candlelight Tour in this historic East Texas riverport, set for the weekend of Dec. 1-3, will feature two historic homes, a bed-and-breakfast inn, and a former Jewish synagogue and Catholic convent now known as the Jefferson Playhouse.

This is the second tour sponsored by the Marion County Historical Commission, with proceeds earmarked for historic preservation in this Piney Woods enclave which attracts regional and international visitors year-round to its restored homes, restaurants and antique shops.

"Our first candlelight tour was so successful we decided to expand the program to three days," said Suzanne Benefield, commission member.

member. "Again this year, many shops and restaurants will keep later hours to accommodate visitors. The town will be bright with Victorian Christmas lights and decorations, as well as traditional Christmas music throughout the historic district."

Additionally, local playwright William K. Gleason, one of the best-selling writers of college and high school plays in America, is creating a Victorian Christmas drama for debut during the tour weekend.

Tours will be from 6 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. nightly, beginning at the Junior Historians' Headquarters (the McGarity Saloon Building) at 61 Dallas Street.

Admission for the family-oriented event is $5 for adults and $1 for children 12 and under. The homes and structures, featuring traditional handmade Victorian Christmas decorations, are not open for tours during the year, making the tour a treat for local citizens as well as visitors.

The Berry Benefield Home (909 S. Line) named for the famous Texas author who grew up there, has been restored over the past three years by Joe and Lois Muller, owners of Auntie Skinner's Riberboat Club in downtown Jefferson.

The residence was built of cypress in the 1860s with a simple symmetrical Greek Revival facade, evolving from a T-shaped structure to a rectangular shape 60 years later.

Benefield, one of nine children of Benjamin and Adalaide Benefield who had bought the house in 1897, was a staff writer for the Dallas Morning News and the New York Times and penned short stories for Collier's and Scribner's magazines after his graduation from the University of Texas. In 1926 he was compared to Ernest Hemingway and Sherwood Anderson.

Benefield wrote seven widely acclaimed books, two of which became screenplays, "The Chicken Wagon Family" and "Valiant is the Word for Carrie." He lived the last 13 years of his life in the house, dying in 1971 at age 94.

The Mullers converted it from two apartments to a one-family residence featuring the typical southern center hall and an eclectic mix of furnishings. Southern Christmas customs and decorations will be observed.

The Old Whelan Place (206 Delta) is a classic American Foursquare built by Martin Joseph Whelan. He came to Jefferson from West Virginia at the turn of the century, raised six children and operated a successful timber and railroad tie business.

The brick home features an unusual basement, oak and cypress floors, a coal-burning fireplace in each room and canopied balconies on the second floor.

Dan and Karen Capers, who had grown tired of city life in Arlington, bought the home from Whelan heirs in 1982, and have restored the home and the full block on which it sits.

"Our Christmas decorations will include pine boughs and cones, cedar, sumac berries, old-fashioned ornaments and good smells," said the Capers. "We hope to evoke memories of a slower-paced time when Christmas was savored and dreams came true."

The Pride House (409 E. Broadway), with its graceful porches and elegant trim, has almost, a fairy-tale appearance. The ornate two-story Victorian structure, heavily embellished with gingerbread mill work, was built about 1888 by George Washington Brown, a lumberman, who insisted on the best timber and most proficient craftsmen available. The exterior is of cypress, cut and hewn in the area as were the five-inch pine floors, studs and rafters.

Ray and Sandy Spalding, experts in home restoration, purchased the home in 1979, restoring its extraordinary beauty and renaming it The Pride House for their 5-year-old son. The servants' house also was restored and is known as The Dependency.

The home is furnished with beautiful antiques. The rooms have 14-foot ceilings downstairs and 12-foot ceilings upstairs. The halls feature attractive wainscoting, ornate carved door handles and nine-foot windows throughout the house topped by sparkling stained glass squares.

Pride House is now owned by Mrs. Spalding's mother, Ruthmary Jordan, who resides there and operates it as a bed and breakfast inn for visitors to this popular tourist town.

The Jefferson Playhouse and the Ruth Lester Memorial Building (corner of Henderson and Market Streets) now joined, were built at different times for related reasons. They are often called the Jewish Synagogue and the Catholic Convent.

A private residence built in 1854 was sold in 1869 to the Immaculate Conception Church of Jefferson, the first Catholic church erected in the diocese of Dallas. The same year, the Order of the American province of the Daughters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul opened St. Mary's school, and later operated a hospital in the structure.

The sisters sold the property in 1875 to the Sinai Congregation, which built the synagogue to serve Jefferson's once large Jewish community. Many prominent Jewish families of Texas, including Mrs. Herbert Marcus Sr., once lived here.

The Jessie Allen Wise Garden Club bought the structures from the last descendant of the congregation and has used it since 1955 to stage the popular "Diamond Bessie Murder Trial" during the annual spring pilgrimage.

The "convent" was restored and named for Ruth Lester, a longtime advocate of historical restoration in Jefferson. It is now used for lectures, club meetings, parties, etc. The playhouse still has its original interior gaslights still in use.

Salvation Army kicks off annual service unit drive

The kickoff meeting for the Rockport Salvation Army Service Unit Fund drive — with a goal of $7,500 — is set for 10 a.m. Saturday, Nov. 12, at the First National Bank Town Hall.

Bob Hewes, Aransas County sheriff and Rockport Service Unit committee chairman, announced Grover Traylor will be campaign chairman for the drive.

Money collected through the drive is used to pay for the Salvation Army's services in Aransas County. "We are confident that the community will support the emergency fund program as generously as in the past," Traylor said.

The committee, composed of business and civic leaders, carries out a year-round program of aid to people with emergency needs. Acting on behalf of the Salvation Army, the committee arranges for food, lodging, utilities or other basic necessities a family or individual might require in a crisis situation.

The Service Unit committee also acts as liaison with the Salvation Army's statewide programs, such as summer outings for boys at the Army's Camp Hoblitzelle near Dallas, help for paroled prisoners and emergency relief during times of natural disaster.

Tony Harden is treasurer of the committee and Doug Carroll is camp chairman. Other committee members are Herman Johnson, the Rev. Charles Fake, Blas Ramirez, Mrs. Jack Forrest and the Rev. John Bradshaw.

The committee has put out a call for volunteers to assist with this year's campaign. Anyone who would like to help is asked to call any committee member or simply attend the Nov. 12 campaign kickoff.

Council institutes changes in UIL rules

Raising academic standards and restricting loss of school time were major issues addressed by the University Interscholastic League's Legislative Council, which held its 43rd annual meeting in Austin, Oct. 16-17.

The council voted to place on a referendum ballot proposals that would raise academic credit requirements and restrict classroom absenses by those participating in golf and tennis. In addition, the council voted to allow speech students to miss no more than 10 days per year in order to participate in speech/debate tournaments.

The referendum ballot will be mailed from the UIL office to school administrators in February. Results will be announced March 3. A simple majority is needed for proposals to hass and items appromed will take effect during the 1984-85 school year unless otherwise specified.

"The meeting had the largest attendance, the greatest participation and the most comprehensive press coverage of any in league history," said Dr. Bailey Marshall, UIL director. "I was pleased to see the increased interest. Those who may have questioned or doubted the league's rule-making processes surely were impressed by the openness and the free exchange of ideas."

Among the proposals slated for referendum ballot examination are the following:

• An item that would require students to be passing four rather than three courses, excluding physical education, in order to compete in a league contest.

• A proposal that would prohibit students from missing a class that they are failing in order to participate in a league activity.

• A proposal that would require students to have passed four courses rather than three the preceding semester in order to compete. If passed, this item will not go into effect until the spring semester of 1985.

• A proposal that would restrict golf and tennis students to 10 days lost per year for participation in each activity respectively. For instance, a tennis player may miss no more than 10 school days in order to compete in tennis tournaments.

In addition, the council voted to place on the referendum ballot proposals that would relax summer basketball, football and volleyball camp rules. Summer camps would be open to athletes who have not participated in a varsity contest. Also, students may not be coached in a summer camp by a person employed by the students' school.

The council also placed on the ballot a proposal that would open the door to summer basketball leagues. Summer league play would be permitted between June 1 and Aug. 1 under the following guidelines: students may participate in one league only; students may not be coached by a coach employed by the player's school; students may not play more than two games per week; students may not play on a team that has more than three players from one school; school equipment may not be used; students may not compete against a team that has more than three players from a single school.

"In both league and camp situations, the player may not be coached by a secondary coach — meaning a seventh through 12th grade coach — employed by the student's school," Marshall said.

Other major council proposals going on the referendum ballot include:

• Amending the rules to allow for parochial and private school membership into the league.

• Studying the concept of disqualification of coaches or contest sponsors who knowingly violate league rules.

• Revising the UIL spring meet calendar, with the combining of boys' and girls' district, regional and state meet athletic events. District meets would be held either April 1-6 or April 15-20. Regional meets would be held April 29-May 4. The state meet would be held in Austin, May 9-11.

• Reserving the Five-Year Rule so that a child being retained in the seventh grade for competitive purposes would lose the final year of high school eligibility.

• Adding gymnastics and wrestling as UIL sports for Conference 5A only.

• Placing the amateur restrictions on all students beginning in the ninth grade, regardless of the student's age.

• Eliminating mandatory penalties in basketball and volleyball for players or teams violating game and tournament participation restrictions. The council recommended passage of this proposal, which would give the district executive committees greater flexibility in assessing penalties.

• Revising the college course enrollment regulations so that courses taught by a high school teacher during the regular school day and conforming to Texas Education Agency guidelines are not considered college courses, even though college credit is given.

• Changing soccer seasons to begin on either the first Monday following certification of the district football champion (with the season to end the last week of February) or beginning on Jan. 1 (with the season ending with the state championship tournament, held the last week of April).

• Allowing athletes to sign a letter of intent and a college scholarship agreement that contains the conditions of the scholarship, provided the athlete receives no part of any valuable consideration guaranteed by that scholarships until after all UIL eligibility is completed. If passed, the item would take effect in 1984-85.

• Revising future basketball starting dates, allowing basketball practice to begin on the seventh Monday following the first Thursday in September.

• Giving administrators the choice of keeping the present outside soccer restrictions as is, applying restrictions only to players who have participated in varsity contests or abolishing outside participation restrictions. At present, soccer players who participate in club soccer prior to the start of the UIL soccer season are ineligible to represent the varsity soccer team.

The council also voted to move the first day to play basketball games from Nov. 22 to Nov. 21, to allow baseball players to wear metal cleats this spring and to restrict music organizations to one non-league meet held on school time. The music restriction takes effect this year.

The council also voted to meet March 7 in order to take action on the following items:

Recodification of the league's constitution and contest rules; the findings of the Junior High Athletics Study Committee; procedures for implementation of a penalty on coaches or contest sponsors who knowingly violate UIL rules. The final item will be considered only if the concept of contest sponsor punishment is approved on the referendum ballot.

In final action, the council referred to a Committee on Excessive Expenditures a proposal that would penalize schools for spending on "luxuries" above basic athletic equipment and supplies. This panel, to be named soon, as well as a Committee on Loss of School Time, Missing School and Number of School Contests will meet this spring and issue a report to the Athletic Committee of the Legislative Council, May 30-31. The council also voted that if a district executive committee imposes either a post-district disqualification or a district disqualification, that action may be appealed to the Senate Executive Committee.

The council defeated a proposal that would have increased from $40 to $50 the limitation a school may spend per student as an award for participation in interschool competition.

"The council members did an outstanding job in considering the 50-plus items presented in public hearings Sunday as well as the multitude of proposals they had previously heard," Marshall said. "They listened to, read and considered what each individual had presented. Though many of those addressing the council took conflicting sides, I believe all those attending truly are concerned with the total education of the student first and foremost."

Scouts plan bicycle trip

Rockport Boy Scout Troop 454 held a bicycle clinic in conjunction with their Halloween party Oct. 31 to prepare for its next major overnight camping trip on Nov. 12.

On that date, the troop will bicycle to Port Aransas and then camp overnight on the island. They will return via bicycle the next day. Side trips are planned so that the boys may meet certain requirements for advancement.

According to Scoutmaster J. Curtis Kovacs, the troop is planning more complex and strenous activities during the school year to better prepare the boys for the challenges of the scout summer program.

Growing child

Some toys may be hazardous to children

Editor's note: This is the first article in a series of four article in a series of four articles about children's toys from Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter.

Danger: child playing!

No, this isn't a street sign. It's a reminder that some toys can be dangerous to children.

Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter, reminds parents that children are imitators and experimenters. Not only do they imitate their parents, they are continually experimenting with their toys — poking, pulling, prying, pinching.

Some stuffed animals, for instance, have cute button eyes that pull off easily, exposing the sharp points which fasten them on. These points sometimes do not lock like staples, but are just pushed in like a double-point thumb tack. This type of stuffed animal is apt to be found in souvenir shops or sold at carnivals. They are attractive to children and are frequently a casual or spur-of-the moment gift. Avoid them — or inspect them carefully.

Children are rough on toys. They experiment by dragging them, banging them and sitting on them. Avoid anything with sharp or tough edges that will cut or scratch.

Also avoid toys or objects with small removable parts that can be swallowed or pushed into an ear or nose. No one knows why a child will push a small object up his nose — perhaps just because it's there, the object is handy and it happens to fit.

If a toy is painted or has painted decorations, be sure that the paint is non-toxic. Imported toys, especially those from Mexico, may use lead-based paints and eating paint chips has resulted in lead poisoning. Decorative beads, beans or seeds may also be poisonous. Some plastic toys may be flammable if exposed to heat.

So what are desirable toys?

For infants: bright, colorful toys in many shapes, sizes, textures and weights. Noisy rattles to shake; unbreakable mirrors to look into; soft balls, blocks and puppets to hold; hard rubber or unbreakable plastic objects to teethe on.

For preschoolers: books! A sandbox with bucket, shovel and spoon. (For indoors, a "rice box" using whole grain unprocessed rice is easier to clean up!) Large pegboard and pegs and puzzles for coordination skills, wooden animals, cars and vehicles. A sturdy wagon, a "walk-around" kiddie car, large crayons, paint, lots of paper, a rocking horse.

For school age children: books, books, books! Hardwood blocks, a small chair and table, board games, musicial instruments, microscopes, kaleidoscopes, telescopes, arts and crafts supplies.

Next: 'Toys: When and How to Buy Them.

Growing Child has a catalog of unique educational toys, books and records for children from birth to 6 years old, with a few items for older children. To obtain a copy, send $1 to Catalog, P.O. Box 620, Lafayette, Indiana 47902.

4th grade learns concept of barter

On Friday, Nov. 4, the fourth grade classes of Mary Lang, Amelia Blaylock and Janice Scott conducted a "Trade Day." Students were encouraged to bring to school small items they no longer wanted, which were exchanged with items brought by others in a free trading session to illustrate the concept of barter.

The items brought by students ranged from polished rocks to electronic games, hair ribbons to hard hats.

A 15-minute viewing time gave the children an opportunity to view each others' wares, then the trading began. Scores of deals were made and many articles changed hands several times as new owners made better bargains. Old seemingly worthless possessions took on new value as students traded them for something and learned that bartering can be a valuable tool.

Sculpture society celebrates 25th anniversary

CORPUS CHRISTI — Southwest Sculpture Society (SSS) observed its Silver Anniversary — 25 years of annual sculpture exhibitions — Friday evening, Nov. 4, with a gala celebration at the Art Community Center in Corpus Christi.

During the celebration ceremony, attended by several hundred art patrons and sculptors, Michael Manjarris, president of SSS, announced the winners of the exhibition.

Sandra Humphrey won first place for "Abstract Form #2," gypsum stone; Dr. Joseph C. Rupp won second place for "Girl With Flower," a wood sculpture; and Lucy Locke, third prize for "Alas," terra cotta on stone.

Three honorable mentions went to Manjarris for "Mother and Child," a Carrara marble piece; Dennis Silvertooth, "Prophet," a bronze; and Lavernis Royal, "Samburu Girl," cast paper.

Thirty-seven pieces of work were entered in the competition representing work of area sculptors. Four additional sculptures are on view — three done by three of the original founding members of SSS. Tommie Whitefield's "Dancer" won first place in the SSS 1958 exhibition. Antonio Garcia has a small wooden maquette of "Tree of Life," his carved doors to the ark Temple Bethel in Corpus Christi and Frank Olstowski has a mixed media sculpture. Kent Ulberg has a small bronze model of his "Wind in the Sails" included in the exhibition.

"This Silver Anniversary show displays extraordinary talent among Corpus Christi area sculptors," said Manjarris, co-chairman of the show along with Jan Garber.

"Corpus Christians should take advantage of this large talent here and beautify our city and our homes with some of these excellent works of art," commented Joan Duerr, president of Art Community Center.

Judges of the show were two of the original founders of SSS in 1957 — Mrs. Tommie Whitefield and Garcia. SSS holds the distinction of being the second oldest local chartered sculpture society in the United States; only New York has an older local chartered sculpture society devoted exclusively to sculptors.

"An excellent presentation of sculpture with a great deal of vitality and variety, running from massive coherent forms in stone, sensitive variations of texture in wood, to delicate expression in cast paper," comment the two judges about the exhibition.

Highlights of Friday evening's reception included honoring Mrs. Whitefield and Garcia by dedicating to them the 25th anniversary poster designed by wood sculptor Juan Cobarruvias. Also a specially designed 25th anniversary birthday cake was cut by the jurors.

Patrons of the show include Cecil Burney, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Trudeau, Sue Rees and H.E.B. Foods-Drugs Stores.

The 25th Anniversary Sculpture Exhibition can be viewed through Nov. 27 at Art Community Center Gallery, 902 Park Avenue, Corpus Christi. Hours are 1-5 p.m. Saturday, Sunday and Monday and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday through Friday.

Range, washer and dryer among items taken

A range, washer and dryer and an antique chest of drawers were reported stolen from a Hackberry Street residence between Oct. 26 and Nov 1. The items were valued at $1,800. The case is under investigation by Aransas County sheriff's deputies.

A Fulton boat shop reported that a glass door and three windows had been shot sometime between 5 p.m. Oct. 31 and 8 a.m. Nov. 1. Damage was estimated at $823.

A Rockport-Fulton High School student reported to the sheriff's department that his bicycle was stolen outside the high school band hall around 5:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 31. The bicycle is valued at $150. The case is under investigation by the sheriff's department.

Allena Jones reported the theft of a .32 caliber handgun worth $150 from a Fulton residence. The Aransas County Sheriff's Department is investigating the incident.

Mike Buchanan reported that a person or persons kicked and dented the door of his vehicle, which was parked on the south side of the high school auditorium on Oct. 28.

Aransas County sheriff's deputies arrested one man on charges of driving while intoxicated during the past week.

Collect farm soil samples now

By Mike Rothrock
County Extension Agent-AG
San Patricio-Aransas Counties

Farmers should not wait until next spring to begin planning their crop fertilization programs. By collecting samples now and having soils tested, farmers can get a jump on next year's production.

Testing soils this fall offers several advantages:

—Samples often can be collected when fields are dry and more accessible. In the spring, it's often difficult and sometimes impossible to collect samples because soils are wet or even flooded.

—By testing this fall, farmers avoid the typical spring rush in the Soil Testing Laboratory.

—Applying fertilizers in the winter minimizes spring planting delays because of tight dealer schedules and reduces the potential for moisture loss just prior to planting. Also, fertilizers usually cost less in the fall than in the spring when demand is greater and supplies tighter.

Fall testing also eliminates the risk of not getting fields sampled. If soils are not tested until near spring planting time, chances are good that fields will not be tested at all.

For more information concerning soil testing and materials, contact the County Extension office.

Tropical rain forest habitats may be in danger

KINGSVILLE — A thousand miles south of here in a tropical rain forest so remote that frequent downpours often isolate villagers for weeks on end, a Texas A&I University scientist spends part of each year observing the wood thrush and the yellow-bellied flycatcher.

The reason for this intense interest and activity is that the area in the Mexican state of Veracruz where John Rappole works is the winter home to these birds. It and forests like it are disappearing at an alarming pace around the globe.

Such habitats are vanishing at the rate of one to two percent annually. In Mexico and Central America, says Rappole, there is a likelihood that very little rain forest, except for scattered patches, will be left after the year 2000.

The effect on bird life is devastating. But more important, Rappole believes, it points to much larger, more ominous probtems for mankind itself.

Much of the clearing, of course, is done in Third World countries to provide more tillable land to feed their burgeoning populations.

But Rappole, an ornithologist and post-doctoral associate at Texas A&I's Caesar Kleberg Wildlife Research Institute, and those working with him in Mexico believe such cutting is only a temporary solution at best.

He has been deeply involved in studying the rich aviculture of South Texas and northern Mexico since his graduate student days at the University of Minnesota, and is becoming increasingly convinced of the inextricable ecological link between all living things.

While South Texas is extremely rich in bird life, actually the most desirable area north of the tropics for studying migratory birds, it does lack rain forest. The Sierra de los Tuxlas in southeastern Mexico combines both features.

The basic question Rappole is studying is the effect of tropical forest destruction on birds that breed in Texas and other parts of North America. But an equally important aspect is to examine other related conservation issues and publicize the findings.

Rappole's findings lead him to more far-reaching conclusions and reflect those of international conservationists who say that destruction of tropical rain forests is a "hidden time bomb" that could wreak worldwide natural disaster.

The World Wildlife Fund, which is supporting Rappole's project, says such forests are valuable because they shelter millions of species of plant, animal and bird life, supply food and fresh water and provide various medicinal and commercial materials important to humankind.

Nonetheless, the disappearing rain forest, according to Arne Schiotz, conservation director for the World Wildlife Fund, "is probably the most important conservation problem today."

"Unfortunately," Charles de Haes, the fund's director general, has been quoted as saying, "the problem remains a well-hidden time bomb generally known only to a scientific elite."

As the forests are increasingly denuded and finally vanish altogether, Rappole says, "and the people learn that this process does not relieve their social and economic burdens, there will be a mass exodus.

"This has a direct effect on us in the United States," he believes. "Even if cutting down the forests resulted in rich crop yields there would still be a problem because there are too many people."

Rappole is convinced that the increasing influx of illegal aliens from Mexico and other parts of Central America across U.S. borders can be traced, at least in part, to this. In an agrarian society such as Mexico's," he points out, "if the people can't strike a balance with the land they move off of it."

Rappole sees other ramifications as well. "For those of us interested in the ecology of the world, and our own area in particular," he says, "we understand that as the tropical forests disappear some of our own species of birds will disappear as well."

"Erosion plays a role. When an area receives 6½ feet of rain a year (one standard of measurement of a rain forest) that much precipitation on bare gorund has a tremendous impact, especially in mountainous areas."

"There are no easy solutions," says Rappole. One possible answer is to convince multi-national corporations to conduct themselves in a moral way and not exploit the host country.

"Let's think of some alternatives before it's too late," he urges. Look at other parts of the world, he says, where man has turned forests into deserts. (Rappole has observed so many changes in his own study site over time that he isn't sure what he will find when he returns at Christmas.)

"And that's what is happening in Mexico. It's already happening in so many places. How come we have to keep proving it over and over again? Nobody's going to come out ahead."

Beware of phony merchandise invoices

AUSTIN — Many merchants and business persons pride themselves on being able to make prompt payment for merchandise.

Before you pay any invoice, make sure you actually ordered — and received the goods. An increasing number of Texas businesses have been victimized by companies billing them for goods which were not ordered or received.

These unscrupulous companies capitalize on the fact that a busy merchant or bookkeeper in a medium to large-size business will assume that the goods have been ordered and will not take the time to check company records or consult with other employees. The invoices are usually sent by companies in other states, most notably California, and often relate to a purported order for advertising space in a "business directory."

Although these phony invoices usually contain a disclosure, required by federal law, that they represent a solicitation for the order of goods and not a bill or invoice, this disclosure is often located at the bottom of the invoice and is easily overlooked.

A common variant of the phony invoice scheme is one in which a business receives unsolicited merchandish through the mail, then gets a high bill for it. When the sending company is contacted, it refuses to accept the return of the merchandise and continues to dun the business. Under Texas and federal law a person has a right to refuse to accept delivery of unsolicited goods. If the unsolicited goods are either addressed to or intended for the recipient, and are accepted, they are considered by law a gift to the recipient and he or she may use or dispose of such a gift in any manner with no obligation.

Our Consumer Protection Division attorneys have these tips about phony invoice schemes:

— Caution employees to be alert for invoices which bill the company for goods it has not ordered or received. Generally these "phony invoices" will come from an out-of-state business and will request that remittance be sent to an out-of-state post office box.

— Instruct employees to refuse to accept the delivery of unsolicited goods. If the goods are accepted inadvertently, contact the sender immediately and inform him that the merchandise was not ordered and that it is available for pick-up or will be returned at the sender's expense.

If you are victimized by a phony invoice scheme, contact one of our Consumer Protection Divisions in Austin, Dallas, El Paso, Houston, Huntsville, Lubbock, McAllen or San Antonio. The attorney general's office is the people's law firm. We are here to help you.

Family budget one step toward financial security

COLLEGE STATION — Many people think living on a budget is like going on a starvation diet.

But a budget is simply a financial plan that enables families to achieve financial security and reach their goals, says home economist Nancy Granovsky. "Actually, a budget is more like a road map for charting where you want to go than a spending diet," she adds.

According to Granovsky, a specialist in family resource management for the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service, families can develop a livable, non-constricting budget by following these steps:

First, examine past spending patterns for at least two to six months. Use old receipts, check-stubs or other records to show where the money has gone and how much has come in during the same period — or keep close records for two to three months.

Then determine what percentage of spendable income has gone for major categories such as housing, utilities, transportation, non-mortgage credit payments, health care, food and clothing. If more than 25 percent goes for "miscellaneous," you will need to keep better records for a while in order to track your spending, says the specialist.

Now you are ready to project ahead, using your past financial records as a guide.

Estimate total spending during the budget period, being sure to include expenses like insurance payments that come due only occassionally. On a monthly budget, estimate these occassional costs at 1/12 of the annual cost so you will not be caught short when payments are due, she cautions.

Also project income from all sources during the budgeting period.

Next, bring projected spending and projected income into balance. Some expenses might have to be reduced to make the financial plan balance or you will need to find additional sources of income.

Making decisions about where to reduce spending and how to do it should be easier because you now have a clear picture of where your money is going, says the home economist.

Once you have a budget plan, develop a simple record-keeping system to keep track of expenditures and income during a trial period for the budget.

"Give the budget and record-keeping system a fair chance to work," says Granovsky, "but if it isn't working, don't be reluctant to make an adjustment." A livable budget must be realistic and flexible, she notes.

One of the best things about the budget process is that it gives families the chance to discuss and establish long-term and short-term financial goals, says the specialist.

Goals like obtaining financial security or saving for Christmas gifts, a down payment, a new car or college tuition can be achieved by small actions over a long period of time. But families must plan their financial actions to achieve those goals, says the specialist.

Polish Christmas wafers offered for sale

WYANDOTTE, Mich. — The Mariavite Old Catholic Church, founded in Poland in 1893, plans to preserve a centuries-old Christmas tradition by making available to area readers the traditional Polish Christmas Oplatki Wafers. The church seeks to fill the void where such wafers are unobtainable and yet desired for the preservation of this tradition.

In the Christmas tradition of the Polish people, as the first star appears in the eastern skies on Christmas Eve, the family gathers at the table for the Vigil, or "Wilia" supper, a feast of Lenten-like foods commemorating the nativity of Christ in Bethlehem.

In farm homes, sheaves of grain tied with colored ribbons are placed in the corners of room with a silent prayer for a good harvest in the next season, and a thin layer of straw is placed under a white tablecloth in memory of Christ in the manger.

Before sitting down to eat, all members of the family break the traditional Christmas wafer, Oplatek, and exchange good wishes.

Known also as the Bread of Love, or Angel's Bread, the Oplatek is a thin unleavened wafer similar to communion wafers, stamped with figures of the Christ Child, Mary, the Angels or other Nativity scenes.

Use of the wafers is no longer restricted to persons of Polish descent, but have become a part of the holiday customs of others, as well.

The wafers, baked by the Mariavite Nuns at their Motherhouse in Poland, are available in envelopes of three each by writing to the Most Rev. Robert R. Zaborowski, O.M., Prime Bishop, Mariavite Old Catholic Church, 2803 10th Street, Wyandotte, Mich. 48192-4994.

Requests for the traditional Oplatki will be honored from now until Dec. 12 to assure delivery. A voluntary offering of $3 is requested for each envelope to help defray costs and postage.

The "Mariavita Monthly," a monthly publication of the church containing items about the traditional Polish Christmas Eve customs and a number of Polish traditional recipes in English is available at $1.50 per copy upon request. The church has also prepared a brief catalog of other Polish Christmas items which is also available upon request. All offerings are tax deductible and proceeds will be used for the needy in Poland.

The Administrative Center at Wyandotte, Mich., serves as the headquarters for the Mariavite Old Catholic Church - Province of North America. The church is similar in worship to the pre-Vatican I (1870 A.D.) Roman Catholic Church.

On Christmas Eve, a traditional "old-style" Latin Midnight Mass will be celebrated in the Archiepiscopal Chapel, and on Christmas Day a Polish High Mass will be offered at 9:45 a.m. followed by an English High Mass at 11 a.m. Refreshments will be served after each Mass. All are invited and welcome to attend.

Archbishop Zaborowski explains the church retains the ancient Latin-language Mass and other church traditions, customs and services now nearly extinct, but is an independent Catholic Church not subject to the Vatican since 1906.

Women's Aglow Fellowship to meet

CORPUS CHRISTI — The Women's Aglow Fellowship of Corpus Christi will hold their monthly meeting and luncheon at Uncle Chester's Olde Crab House, 6810 Saratoga, at 9:30 a.m. Thursday, Nov. 10.

The guest speaker will be Rev. Edwin Harvey, rector of All Saint's Episcopal Church in Corpus Christi. He will draw from his missionary service in the Fiji Islands to speak on the "Power in the Pacific."

Area women are invited and luncheon reservations can be made by calling 882-6505.

A nursery will be provided. For nursery reservations call 853-0055.

RR commission criticizes federal bus legislation

In written comments sent to Congress this week, the Railroad Commission of Texas criticized the effects of federal bus legislation passed last year saying bus service has been reduced, the financial position of bus companies has worsened and the regulatory process has been made more expensive and less meaningful.

The commission told the House Subcommittee on Surface Transportation that "the Bus Regulatory Reform Act of 1982 has failed to produce any of the benefits which its proponents have projected," and on the contrary, "has produced severe negative impacts on the states and their citizens."

The commission statement also strongly criticized the Interstate Commerce Commission's enforcement of the act, charging "the ICC has played a shell game in which the rules are made up and changed along the way, concealed from the players and applied in such a way as to make the state role in bus regulation a farce.

"For those states, such as the state of Texas, which take pride on responsive and responsible motor bus regulation, the ICC's actions are an insult to the regulatory process and the public," the commission said.

Before passage of the federal act last fall, the Railroad Commission had regulated bus service in the state since 1927 under the Texas Motor Bus Act. The commission would carefully consider impact on the public before granting or denying applications to change or discontinue bus service or raise rates.

With the Bus Regulatory Reform Act the situation changed dramatically for the worse, RCC officials charge. State commissions have been severely limited in their ability to block unjustified route cancellations or fare increases. If such applications are denied by the state, the decision can be appealed to the ICC which has the power to overrule.

According to the Railroad Commission, the ICC has been doing just that with alarming frequency. "Drastic reductions in service to small towns have occurred during the first year since passage of the BRRA and even more drastic future reductions are likely," the commission pointed out.

"The nation's largest bus carrier proposed to discontinue all service to over 1,000 cities and towns in several states, among them Oregon, California, Iowa and Texas," the commission said. "As blanket affirmations of such proposals were forthcoming from the ICC, other carriers have proposed discontinuances in other areas."

In Texas, Greyhound Bus Lines Inc. applied to the Railroad Commission to cancel service to 58 cities. After Greyhound presented virtually no evidence to justify such a move, the commission denied the application and Greyhound has appealed that decision to the ICC. Similar appeals by Greyhound from other states have been upheld.

"With this encouragement from the ICC," the commission told the subcommittee, "motor bus companies can be expected to discontinue service throughout Texas with impunity, without regard to whether such discontinuance is justified."

According to the commission statement, the argument most often advanced by bus companies to justify their service cuts is that the service is not profitable. When state regulatory bodies have sought financial data to substantiate the claims the bus companies haven't been willing or able to produce it. Worse, the ICC hasn't insisted on the data in its appellate review of cases.

"In a recent decision where the ICC granted a bus company's application to discontinue service over the objections of the state, there was a question as to the accuracy of the methodology by which the bus company had calculated its financial data," the Railroad Commission said.

"The ICC candidly admitted that it was not sure of the exact amount by which the carrier's expenses exceeded its revenues, but opined that it was probably 'a great deal.' With such irresponsibility in the ICC's decisions, it is no wonder that the bus companies are irresponsible in their record keeping."

The Railroad Commission recommended several changes in the Bus Regulatory Reform Act and ICC rules and procedures to the subcommittee. New grants of charter authority should be stopped and existing charter service should be restricted to stops where regular route passenger service is provided by the carrier, said the commission.

The commission said deregulation of charter service by the BRRA has brought a massive influx of interstate charter operators into Texas which has hurt in-state bus companies. The Texas companies have responded by reducing regular route passenger service in an attempt to compete and still, charter revenues of Texas regular route carries are down 40 to 60 percent. "This is catastrophic to many small carriers located in rural Texas areas," the commission said.

The Railroad Commission also said the ICC must change the way it deals with the states and appellate cases. "Generally, the only guidance provided to the states is given in ICC review decisions issued after the state has already exercised its jurisdiction," the commission said.

"In these decisions, the ICC does not give credence to a reasonable interpretation by the states, but substitutes its judgement for that of the state."

Other corrections suggested by the commission included limiting evidence in appeal cases to that presented at the state level, refusal to consider taxi cab service as a "reasonable alternative" to bus service, and providing more advance notice of proposed bus service cancellations.

The Railroad Commission statement concluded by saying "if Congress is truly serious about making the future of public service by bus companies secure, it should work more closely with the states to hammer out a rational framework for regulation."

Petition seeks tougher child abuse penalties

The Church Women United of Aransas County have joined that organization's statewide movement to toughen enforcement of laws against child abuse.

Spearheaded by a Corpus Christi-based organization called Mothers And (Others) Against Child Abuse (MAAM), the movement consists of a petition now being circulated that will be presented to the Texas Senate and House of Representatives calling for an "all out war" against child abuse and demanding that the House and Senate "through legislation — declare that war."

Copies of the petition have been placed in the offices of the Rockport First Baptist Church, St. Peter's Episcopal Church, First Presbyterian and First United Methodist Church, and Sacred Heart Catholic Church is supporting the action.

Any other area churches that would like to make petitions available through their offices are asked to call 729-7617.

Supporters of the project note that child abuse is found all all levels of society and among all ethnic groups. According to MAAM, 90 percent of all persons in the Texas prison system were abused children. And many abused children become child abusers themselves.

Aransas County Sheriff Bob Hewes noted that Aransas County's incidence of child abuse "is probably about the same as anybody else's — but any time you get one a year, it's bad."

He said last year there were three or four cases of child abuse or indecency with a child reported in the county.

Growth

need, how to finance it." Dominguez said the navigation district presently has contracted with A&M for a study to answer some of these questions.

E.J. Randow, superintendent of the Aransas County Independent School District, said that district is starting work on a five-year master plan. "We're very concerned about the impact of the (Rockport) country club, the condominiums," he said.

Asked by Dr. Patrick what the school district has so far projected in terms of growth in Aransas County, Randow replied, "Steady growth."

Aransas County Commissioner Pete Sanders disagreed with Randow's comment, saying, "I think it's more like explosive growth." Sanders observed that Aransas County is "the fastest-growing county in the Coastal Bend percentagewise" and expressed concern over the future ability to secure water for Aransas County needs. Noting that the county buys water from the San Patricio Water District and the supply is brought into the county through a single 18-inch line, Sanders asked, "How much more growth can we have before we have to add a line?"

Rockport City Manager Herman Johnson responded to that, saying, "It's not the growth that worries me. It's that one line," noting that the city has experienced breaks in the line in the past. Johnson said the city is at "the end of the line" of the water supply in this area.

He said the city — which provides water to a major portion of Aransas County south of the causeway — presently has 4,600 water connections now; he projects another 2,500 within the next two years.

Johnson said in his opinion, the city and county governments in Aransas County need to work together on the problems of growth. "In the next four to five years," Johnson predicted, "Rockport and Fulton will be one industrial area."

Rockport is presently involved in improvements to Memorial Park and enlargement of the city's sanitary sewer system from a current capacity of 1 million gallons per day to a 2 million gallons-per-day capacity. "That should be good for at least 10 years," he said.

Also being planned, in addition to the city's master plan, are expansions of city hall and the police department. "But," Johnson observed later, "Aransas is a small county. I think we need to all work together, get a master plan for the county."

Chief Paramedic Bill Aston, attending the meeting on behalf of the EMS, said the ambulance service must consider the number of additional support personnel that will be needed as the county grows. Also affecting his service, he said, is the question of where growth will occur in the county — and how this will affect ambulance response time on emergency calls.

Kathryn Winkelman, a member of Rockport's board of parks and recreation, said, "Recreation is inadequate and we're slowly losing those areas we have. We need land and we need more recreational facilities."

Eunice Hamon, chief librarian of the Aransas County Public Library, observed that the county library is presently operating "on $1.32 per capita (compared to more than $12 per capita for the Port Aransas library) in a 2,500 square foot building. We're in trouble."

Patrick later pointed out some of the benefits of the county's growth, including more people paying property taxes and other revenues to the various governmental entities. Edwina Stranahan, a member of Rockport's planning and zoning commission, said, "I don't think we have a choice. We can't lock the gates and say nobody else can come in."

Johnson added, "You can't stop the growth and I know that. You have to make plans for the future." But, he warned, "When you make those plans, it's going to cost somebody."

Those attending Friday's meeting agreed to proceed with forming a working committee composed of representatives from the cities of Rockport and Fulton, Aransas County, the navigation district, school district, the county conservation and reclamation district, the chamber of commerce and tourist association. Also suggested as members of this committee were representatives of Central Power & Light and Southwestern Bell.

Stranahan and Calloway volunteered to work on getting such a committee together and arranging a meeting next January.

7 million draw survivors' benefits

By ERIC R. KINGSON
(Ninth of 14 parts)

SOCIAL SECURITY And you

Each month Social Security provides checks to more than 7 million survivors — young children, widowed mothers and fathers, aged widows and widowers and even, in some rare instances, the surviving parents of deceased workers.

The vast majority of people age 60 and over, who are or were married to workers who have contributed into Social Security, are eligible for aged widows' or widowers' benefits if the worker dies. Their benefit essentially ranges from 71.5 percent to 100 percent of the deceased spouses's primary insurance amount (PIA). (One hundred percent of the PIA is the benefit a retiring worker is eligible to receive at age 65.)

Aged widows' or widowers' benefits usually are less than 100 percent because the benefit amount is permanently reduced for each month of receipt before age 65. Also, a survivor generally cannot get a higher benefit than the deceased worker would have gotten if he had lived.

Aged widows' or widowers' benefits are also subject to the earnings test and family maximum.

Even with Social Security, aged widows are likely to face large drops in their standard of living. The severe economic problems of many of them indicate that further improvements in Social Security are needed, and also that families must make careful financial plans to protect each member.

Widows and widowers ages 50 to 59 without dependent children are entitled to benefits only if they, themselves, are disabled under Social Security's disability requirements. Beginning in January 1984, all disabled widows and widowers will receive a benefit equal to 71.5 percent of the PIA. After a two-year waiting period, disabled widows and widowers are eligible to receive Medicare benefits as well. Even if someone is widowed between ages 60 to 63, it may make sense to apply for a special type of disabled widows' or widowers' status in order to be eligible for Medicare benefits before age 65.

A fully or currently insured worker's widow or widower under age 60 is eligible to receive surviving mothers' or fathers' benefits if he or she is caring for a child under age 16 or a disabled child who is also eligible for survivors' benefits on the worker's record. The monthly benefit in 75 percent of the decreased worker's PIA.

The qualifications for aged widows' and widowers', disabled widows' or widowers' and surviving mothers' or fathers' benefits are essentially the same for divorced survivors as for non-divorced survivors. However, the marriage must have lasted at least 10 years. Also, surviving spouses aged 60 and over may keep their benefits if they remarry. The 1983 amendments corrected a technical error that did not give surviving divorced spouses this same right and these amendments also extended this option to disabled widows aged 50 to 59.

Surviving mothers or fathers who are under the age of 60 and remarry lose their benefits. The same is true for a divorced surviving mother or father.

Surviving children under age 18, surviving children of any age who were disabled before age 22 and surviving children aged 18 and 19 who are full-time secondary school students are eligible for monthly payments if a parent or, in some cases, grandparent was fully or currently insured at the time of death. The rules governing receipt of surviving children's benefits are essentially the same as the rules governing eligibility for dependent children's benefits on the earnings record of a retired or disabled worker. Surviving children receive a benefit equal to 75 percent of the PIA of the deceased worker, subject, of course, to the family maximum and the earnings test.

Under certain circumstances, the dependent parent aged 62 or over of a fully insured deceased worker is also eligible for a survivors' benefit. This is equal to 82.5 percent of the PIA, when only one parent receives the benefit, and 75 percent each when both are beneficiaries.

A lump sum payment of $255 is generally made to the surviving spouse who was living with a deceased worker. In certain cases, where no surviving spouse is present, the benefit is paid only if there are children eligible for monthly survivors' checks in the month the worker died.

Harbor

tion Monday, but the Cove is in the district's overall capital improvements program, which means, according to the Goldston representatives at the meeting, any bond funds left from the rewiring, Rockport and Fulton projects could be applied to improvements at the industrial harbor.

In the meantime, commissioners are scheduled to meet in a special session at 11 a.m. Wednesday, Nov. 9, to discuss proposed diversification of Cove Harbor. The meeting will be with Dr. Robert J. Hoover from Corpus Christi State University at the navigation district office.

A second alternative to the Fulton Harbor project was presented at Monday's meeting and was unanimously rejected by the three navigation district commissioners in attendance.

This project called for extension of Fulton Harbor's north basin northward by removing the existing timber bulkhead, installing a new concrete bulkhead and dredging. A new pier and finger pier would be constructed under this proposal, resulting in 55 new slips.

But, under this plan, 20 existing slips would be lost with a net gain of 35 boat slips at a total estimated project cost of $612,400.

District Chairman Hillis Dominguez summed up the commission's consensus, "There's no way I could go for that. I wouldn't even consider (this alternate)."

In addition to Dominguez and McKnight, Commissioner Roy Hicks was at Monday's session. Absent were commissioners David Maguglin and Charlie Augustine.

By Rep. Phil Gramm

Unemployment drop lauded

The recent sharp decline in unemployment carries a message — "and the message of this good economic news is that our program is working for the working people," said U.S. Rep. Phil Gramm.

"The drop in unemployment was dramatic," he added. "Down to 8.8 percent nationwide and down to 6.9 percent in Texas. Both figures represent a decline of about 20 percent below the peak of the recession and they provide new verification that our hard-won victories in cutting the growth of federal spending and putting more money back into the pockets of the people who earned it were worth the fight."

The congressman also pointed out that "the economic recovery program has now created 2.8 million jobs in the private sector, and those jobs are going to all segments of our society.

"Unemployment among all age groups, all races and both men and women has declined sharply."

At the same time, Gramm said, the inflation rate for this year is holding steady at below 4 percent, "and merchants are looking forward to their best Christmas in years.

"These are all clear signals of a robust economy, and the message they carry is equally clear — the president's economic recovery program is working and we need to stay with that program."

Congressman Gramm was co-author of the Gramm-Latta budget bills and the Bipartisan Recovery Budget, which formed the core of President Reagan's economic recovery program.

The Sandbar Cafe offers variety

Offering a variety of food and drink, fishing supplies and live bait, the Sandbar Cafe in Cove Harbor offers a casual, pleasant atmosphere for fishermen or those who just want to stop by for a bite to eat.

The cafe, run by Jim Lawhon, opened in March 1983. In May of this year, Lawhon added live bait facilities and fishing supplies.

Aside from bait and fishing supplies, the Sandbar Cafe has a simple menu of hot sandwiches, soft drinks, cold beer and ice. Lawhon's specialty item is a "super large double meat hamburger consisting of ¾ pound meat." He plans to turn the cafe into a full-service marina.

The Sandbar Cafe is located approximately 2 miles south of Rockport on Hwy. 35 at Cove Harbor. Business hours are 6:30 a.m. until 6:30 p.m. The phone number is 729-4046.

Alfred Edge

Housing prices show decline in some areas

As the result of gradually declining mortgage interest rates, the American dream of owning your own home is more alive today than ever before, says Alfred Edge, who specializes in relocation service.

With the continuing recovery of the housing industry, Alfred Edge, president of Alfred Edge Realtors, says more people are taking steps to buy now as they feel more secure in their jobs and earning ability.

This is particularly true, Edge says, of first-time home buyers — young buyers aged 25 to 36 who were born after World War II. Many of these "baby-boom" buyers in particular wouldn't have felt as secure in their first home purchase two years ago, Edge notes.

A recent survey by the Federal Home Loan Bank board shows a wide variation in the average price of new and existing homes sold in 32 major metropolitan areas across the United States, Edge reports. In 11 cities, prices actually declined between the second quarter of 1982 and the second quarter of 1983.

Edge cites board figures showing the average price among the 32 cities surveyed was $91,900, with homes least expensive in Louisville, Ky., and most expensive in San Francisco.

Edge says factors resulting in price variations include land costs, labor and material costs and imbalances in housing supply and demand in various parts of the country.

Such statistical information is of value to prospective home buyers in their selection process, says Edge whose company is a member of RELO, a nationwide referral network of independent realtors specializing in helping families sell a home in one georgraphic area and buying a home in another.

Here is a breakdown in alphabetical order of the 32 major metropolitan areas surveyed by the Federal Home Loan Bank board. (Prices are in thousands of dollars.)

DRINKING DRIVING DEATH
A Combination we CAN'T LIVE WITH!
A message from this newspaper and the Troopers of the Texas Department of Public Safety.

HEALTH CAUTION: Check Before Giving Aspirin To Children With Flu

If your child has chicken pox or a flu-like illness, call the doctor before reaching for the aspirin.

The United States Surgeon General has issued a warning to parents: don't immediately give aspirin to children who are suffering from chicken pox, influenza or a flu-like illness.

The caution is a result of medical research that indicates a possible association between children under age 16 taking aspirin and a condition called Reye Syndrome.

Reye Syndrome (pronounced "rye" and sometimes called RS or Reye's Syndrome) is a dangerous condition that may follow influenza or chicken pox infection in children from one month to late teens. It is characterized by persistent vomiting, violent headaches and bizarre mental and physical behavior. The affected children are usually recovering from a viral illness when Reye strikes.

The condition, according to C. Everett Koop, M.D., U.S. Surgeon General, is rare but may be fatal. Fewer than 1,200 cases occur each year in the U.S. Death occurs in 20 to 30 percent of all reported cases and permanent brain damage has been reported in many children who have survived.

Reye syndrome most often occurs in children between the ages of five and 16.

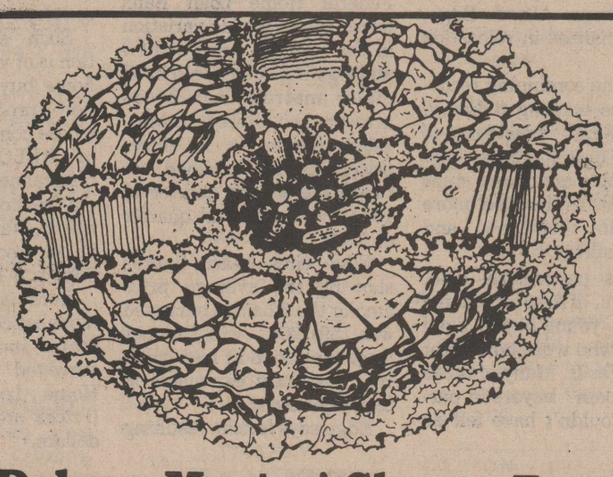

Although the relationship between aspirin is suspected, not proven, Dr. Koop recommends that parents with children who are sick with chicken pox or a flu-like illness leave aspirin on the shelf. Instead, he suggests calling a pediatrician or family physician for advice. The American Academy of Pediatrics makes the same suggestion.

Most childhood illnesses, Dr. Koop points out, are minor and self-limiting . . . they quickly go away with no need for medication. Therefore, it's not only unwise to give your child aspirin during a viral illness, it's probably also unnecessary.

If there is a need to reduce fever, to make the child more comfortable, seek the advice of your physician.
