AUTO SURVEY INTEREST LAGS

Citizens Registering Cars Should Fill In Cards They Receive With License Tags

With approximately 26% of vehicles affected by the registration law, car owners of Lynn County have returned to the Highway Planning Survey only 67 of the post cards that were handed to them at the time they paid their 1937 automobile license fees at the office of A. M. Cade, County Tax Assessor and Collector. Car owners of Lynn County have failed to respond to pleas of the Highway Planning Survey to provide information on which the highway programs of the future will be based, a tabulation of returns received to Wednesday disclosed. The number of car owners sending in information on cards received when they registered their vehicles is insufficient to provide an accurate picture of the road needs of this County. The information which is being collected will be used by the Highway Department and the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads in planning the future construction and maintenance of roads and highways in this county and in this section of the state. Local motorists should be sufficiently interested in improving the road system of this county to ask for these cards at the time they pay their license fees and should fill in the cards and mail them, because information collected by the Highway Planning Survey will be used in designating federal funds which soon will be spent on improving the secondary road system of Texas.

The cards on which this information is being collected are self-addressed and require no postage. The Highway Department and the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads have gone to considerable trouble in order to offer highway users the opportunity of helping to plan their own roads. Just as citizens were long ago given the right to vote, car owners are now being given a similar right and should take advantage of their opportunity. It is to the advantage of each county to return at least as high a percentage of these post cards to the Highway Department as are returned by its neighboring Counties.

Merchants Agree On Closing Hours

Beginning Monday, March 29, and continuing until September 15, practically all lines of business in Tahoka have agreed to close their stores by 7 o'clock each evening except Saturday. This is done in order that closing hours may be uniform and in order that proprietors and their employees may have some leisure time through the long days of summer. Deen Nowlin, Buster Fenton and W. T. Bovell composed a committee securing signers to the agreement, and they report business men co-operating one hundred per cent in the movement.

Lumber yards will continue to close at 6 o'clock, according to custom. Because of the nature of their business, filling stations, garages, produce houses and blacksmith shops were not asked to join the movement.

Folks living out of town are urged to make their shopping visits to the county seat early in the day every day except Saturday.

Business men are also attempting to reach an agreement on the holidays on which they will be closed during the year. Proposal is made to close up the town on Independence Day, July 4 (the holiday to be on July 5 this year, since July 4 comes on Sunday), Armistice Day, November 11, Thanksgiving, November 25, and Christmas, December 25.

Sylvester Reese, a student in the Texas Tech, spent the week end here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Reese.

Mrs. Heck Injured In Car Accident

As Mrs. Henry Heck and baby were returning to their home at New Home Monday afternoon after a brief visit in Tahoka, her car overturned on the highway a few miles north of town resulting in many severe bruises upon her person but inflicting no serious injuries. The baby was also slightly injured. The car was badly damaged.

The wreck was caused by a blow-out of one of the tires.

1936 Cotton Crop Total 49,676 Bales

E. W. Holloway, collector of ginning statistics for the Bureau of the Census, telephoned us Tuesday the final report of cotton ginned in Lynn County from the crop of 1936, and the figures far surpass estimates of the crop made early in the fall. We have ginned, Mr. Holloway reports, 49,676 bales against 46,656 the preceding year. The acreage was considerably larger than it was the preceding year but the yield per acre was not quite so good.

The prospects are that the acreage this year will exceed that of last year. There is no way yet of predicting the yield or the price, though prospects for both seem fairly good.

McPHERSON IS HOME

J. B. McPherson, who was so desperately ill with pneumonia for several days, was released from the Lubbock Sanitarium and returned to his home here last Saturday. It will probably be several days yet before he is able to make a full hand at his store. Many friends are delighted at his recovery.

Littlefield Sheriff Killed By Negro

Lubbock, March 22.—Sheriff F. A. Loyd, 48, of Lamb county, died of bullet wounds in a hospital here early Monday.

Leroy Kelly, negro who shot the sheriff at Littlefield Saturday night, was held in Lubbock county jail for safekeeping.

Deputy Sheriff Sam Huston, who not be filed until after the funeral of Sheriff Loyd, said Kelly would be moved even farther from Lamb county. Feeling is high in Littlefield, he said.

Sheriff Loyd was the second South Plains peace officer to be killed by a negro in slightly more than a year. Deputy Sheriff F. E. Redwine of Tahoka was slain March 7, 1936, by Elmo Banks, negro, who later was electrocuted. Banks shot Redwine in a jail break.

Sheriff Loyd and Chief Deputy Huston were returning to Littlefield after investigating a lunacy court case when they were informed Kelly had shot at a negro woman. Huston was unarmed.

Locating Kelly, the officers ordered him to surrender. He answered with gunfire. Loyd returned the fire and grappled with the gunman, knocking the negro's arm up. When the sheriff fell, Huston picked up the officer's gun, firing twice before it snapped.

Kelly later surrendered. He had been shot in the left arm.

Sheriff Loyd was appointed in 1935 to serve the unexpired term of former Sheriff Lener Irwin, who was convicted in federal court here of conspiracy to defraud the Government of liquor taxes. Loyd was elected last year.

The officer is survived by his widow and eight sons and daughters.

Scouts Will Attend Easter Egg Hunt

A number of Tahoka Boy Scouts are planning to attend a council-wide Easter egg hunt in Lubbock next Sunday.

Scouts from many towns in this section are expected to be there and it will be a big day in scoutdom.

ELECTIONS FOR CITY OFFICIALS, SCHOOL TRUSTEES ARE SLATED

Three Names Are Filed For School Trustees, Election Will Be Saturday, April 3

When the time for filing the names of candidates for school trustees for the Tahoka Independent School District expired Wednesday night, three names had been filed: J. O. Tinsley, N. M. Wyatt, and Frank Hill. Two are to be elected, to succeed Alvin Hicks and Sam Holland.

The election is to be held on Saturday, April 3.

On this day elections are to be held in all the school districts of the county. Names of candidates in all the common and some of the independent districts have been filed with the county judge, and the ballots will be printed in due course of time.

Singers Will Meet At Central Church

H. M. McEachern, principal of the Grassland Public School, has announced that the Lynn County Singing Convention will meet at Central Church in the Grassland community eleven miles east of Tahoka at 10 o'clock Sunday morning, April 4, for an all-day singing.

It is expected that there will be a reorganization of the convention at this meeting. Mr. McEachern says.

Visitors are expected from all parts of Lynn county and some from neighboring counties. Some from a distance are expected and many good singers will doubtless be there.

"The people of Lynn county are invited to come and to bring sandwiches with them—and cake too if they wish to," Mr. McEachern stated to the News.

There was a community singing at the Central Baptist Church last Sunday, which was well attended. Mr. McEachern reported.

Inspect Gas Lines In Local Schools

All the gas lines and connections serving the school buildings of the Tahoka Independent School District were carefully inspected Monday by Roy Leslie, local agent for the West Texas Gas Company, and found to be in perfect condition, according to Superintendent W. G. Barrett.

The inspection was made as a matter of precaution and to satisfy the school authorities and patrons that there is no danger of gas explosion in the school buildings here. Naturally uneasiness was felt by some parents in probably every school district in the state using natural gas for fuel following the terrible catastrophe at New London. Careful inspections will probably be made here at comparatively frequent intervals hereafter, though it is considered that the danger of such an explosion here is negligible, practically impossible.

DELINQUENT TAX SUITS WILL BE FILED BY COUNTY AND STATE

The commissioners court of Lynn county recently made a contract with Vance Swain of Lubbock, attorney-at-law, to file suits for the collection of delinquent taxes on all property in this county on which the taxes are delinquent. West and West of Lubbock and Abilene, public accountants, will be associated with Mr. Swain in the collection of these taxes.

Similar suits are to be filed in most of the counties of the state, we understand. The State and various counties sue jointly for these taxes. Different attorneys have been or will be employed for the various sections of the state. Mr. Swain, we are advised, will bring suits in several other counties in this section of the state. George Bond of Crosbyton, who was a candidate for Representative in the Legislature last summer, will bring suits in a number of other counties in this section, it is said.

The time for filling the names of candidates for city offices will expire Saturday night. Probably all the names that will appear on the ballot have been filed already. The election will be held on Tuesday, April 6.

The names filed as given to us by the city secretary are as follows:

Mayor: Deen Nowlin.

Aldermen: A. J. Mullins, T. J. Bovell, L. P. Craft, B. H. Howell; two to be elected.

City Marshal: James E. Dye. M. C. Finch, Homer Harrison.

E. H. Boullion was nursing a severe cold Wednesday and was not able to be on duty at the store.

Dr. Harp Moving From Tahoka

Dr. Robert Harp, who has been out of town on business the past few weeks, is here this week completing his arrangements to move to a new location for the practice of medicine.

It is but fair to Dr. Harp to state that he had fully decided to remove to another location before the recent indictment was returned against him by the grand jury.

Dr. Harp insists and many friends believe that he has been done a grave injustice in the filing of these charges, a matter about which The News expresses no opinion. Dr. Harp, however, has done remarkably well in the practice of his profession during the short time that he has been here. He is a highly educated gentleman and holds degrees both in purely academic work and in medicine.

Many friends here hope that he may meet with eminent success in whatever field he may locate to continue the practice of his profession.

Local Lady Meets Mrs. Roosevelt

Mrs. J. R. Singleton of this city had the distinct honor and pleasure of joining with others in welcoming Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt to the Governor's Mansion in Austin last Saturday.

Mrs. Singleton's daughter, Miss Ola Belle, is now acting as hostess at the Governor's Mansion and when she found that Mrs. Roosevelt would visit Austin she invited her mother to come down and assist in the welcome.

Mrs. Singleton says that she found Mrs. Roosevelt to be a most charming and interesting personage, possessed of a pleasing and attractive personality, and she enjoyed very much the opportunity to meet and to welcome to Texas the first lady of the land.

Mrs. C. Y. Jackson of Brownwood and Mrs. T. B. White of Coleman have returned to their homes after a visit here with Mr. and Mrs. M. T. White of the Piggly-Wiggly store.

Tahoka Golf Course Completed This Week

Members of the Tahoka Golf Club report that the new golf course just south of town has been completed and they declare it to be one of the best courses in this section of the country.

The club now has about twenty-five members, and they are inviting others to join them. Some of the members tried out the course last Sunday for the first time.

Red Cross Aid Is Given New London

Hon. Tom Garrard, chairman of the Lynn County Chapter of the Red Cross, received a communication a few days ago from the Midwestern Branch Office at St. Louis advising that everything was being done that could be done to relieve the distress at New London, Rusk county, following the explosion disaster there. Red Cross officials of the Midwestern Branch were on the grounds by 4 a. m. Friday morning following the explosion Thursday afternoon.

Owing to the generous response of the people to the appeals made recently for funds to relieve the flood sufferers along the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers it was not necessary to make any special appeal for funds to meet this new disaster. "The National Red Cross will provide the funds needed for relief purposes," the communication stated. However, any one desiring to make a contribution has the privilege of doing so and should turn his or her contribution in to Mr. Garrard or some other authorized agent of the Lynn County Chapter.

Planning Grange Body For Tahoka

Cecil Ayers, teacher of vocational agriculture in the Tahoka High School, will undertake next week to organize a local Grange lodge here. He will be assisted by Mrs. Edgar T. Neal of Lubbock.

Mrs. Neal, who is supervising the work in the Lubbock district, was here Monday conferring with Mr. Ayers about the proposed organization. In conversation with a representative of The News she stated that local lodges had been organized in many towns in this section of the state including Slaton and Wilson.

The Grange is the oldest Farm organization in the world, the National Grange having been organized Dec. 4, 1867. The first local Grange was organized at Fredonia in western New York on April 16, 1868. The organization thereafter grew and spread rapidly and by the close of 1875 Granges had been organized in every agricultural state in the Union. In the '70s and '80s it was a powerful farm organization, in the South and in Texas as well as in the North and East. Later the organization died out in the South, its place in the South and West being taken largely by the Farmers Alliance, which started in the '80s and was a political power in this country for fully a decade, when it began to decline.

While the Grange has never died out in the North and East, its numerical strength has not been great for many years, but in the last few years it is taking on new life and growth and is spreading again into the South and West. Many Granges have been organized this year in Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Fortenberry of New Home left Monday for Corpus Christi, where they expect to spend the remainder of the year. Mr. Fortenberry talked as if he didn't intend to do anything down there much but fish. However, he will read the Lynn County News between bites.

EXPECT CROWD FOR CONTESTS

Annual Event Opened Last Night, But Biggest Crowds Coming Friday and Saturday

The Interscholastic League meet is in progress.

Declamation contests were held last night in the high school auditorium and the grade school gymnasium.

Most of the literary contests will be held today. Many children and their parents are here to participate in or to witness these contests.

But Saturday no doubt will be the big day of the meet. Most of the athletic events are to be staged Saturday. Teams and individuals from many schools will be here to win. These events always attract county-wide interest, and if the weather is decent, an immense crowd will be on the athletic grounds rooting for the various teams and individual contestants. Many Tahoka people will also be out to see these contests.

Speaking again for the people of Tahoka, we wish to extend a whole-hearted welcome to the visitors who are here and to the others who are coming. This is your meet; these are your contests; Tahoka in a large sense is your town. We want you today and tomorrow to enjoy it to the utmost. May there be nothing to mar your pleasure. Folks, we welcome you.

Mrs. Barker, Fred At Home Again

Mrs. N. A. Barker and her son Fred, both of whom have been very seriously sick, are now at home again.

Mrs. Barker, who took sick at the home of a daughter in California, returned to her home here Saturday night, and Fred, who was treated in the West Texas Hospital and later in the Torrance home in Lubbock, was brought home Sunday morning.

Their hosts of friends are delighted that both have almost entirely recovered.

Local Man's Kin In School Blast

Soon after receiving a telegram last Saturday morning advising that his little niece had been killed in the gas explosion that wrecked the school building at New London in Rusk county Thursday afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Payne and little son left for that point. The mangled remains of the child had been buried, however, before their arrival.

The child was Joyce Geneva Payne, 12 years of age, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Payne of New London. O. W. and J. C. being brothers. Before the child's body had been found several hours after the explosion, the mother had become frantic and had fainted and had to be carried away from the scene. After the child was found she was not permitted to see its mangled body but she identified the dress it wore. She had seen the explosion which wrecked the building from her home three quarters of a mile away. The body was carried to Riley Springs near Sulphur Springs a hundred miles from New London and there buried Saturday afternoon. Joyce Geneva was a pupil in the seventh grade.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Payne and little son returned to Tahoka Wednesday morning. Mr. Payne says that he did not have an opportunity even to see the wrecked school building, but he met many friends there whose children were killed in the catastrophe, and he says it was the saddest group of people he ever saw.

Mr. Payne is meat cutter at the Piggly-Wiggly store here.

Explosion Destroys World's Largest Rural School

The building in which nearly 500 school children lost their lives in the explosion that wrecked the central portion of the $1,000,000 plant.

NEW LONDON. — Death and destruction fell with terrific blast on this rural community when on Thursday afternoon a few minutes before time to dismiss the school, an explosive blew out the walls of the New London Rural school and the roof of the building falling on the entrapped pupils crushing and mangle to death nearly 500 pupils, including several teachers. The school, located in the East Texas oil field, is the largest and richest rural school in the world, with an enrollment of more than 1,000 pupils, drawn from a radius of 30 miles. Indescribable grief and horror filled the hearts of the vast crowds drawn to the scene by the explosion that was heard for miles around. Frantic parents were unable to identify their loved ones in the mass of crushed and mangled forms in the ruins. Plans for relief were rapidly formed and aid came from all sections of the state to work day and night to clear up the debris and account for all the children if possible.

Col. Clarence E. Parker, absolute ruler of the disaster scene under the authority of Gov. James V. Allred's proclamation of martial law, ordered a military board of inquiry to meet at noon.

It was generally agreed by all authorities, including C. E. Shaw, superintendent of the school, whose own 17-year-old son was one of the victims, and National Guard officers, that an accumulation of natural gas in the building's subbasement caused the explosion that bore the building down on the heads of 1,100 students and teachers.

At the same time the military board meets members of the New London School Board, officials of the oil companies operating in the East Texas field and military authorities will inspect the ruins. Reports that there had been a dynamite explosion arose from the finding of fifteen sticks of unexploded dynamite in a school building not touched by the blast. The dynamite was intended to remove rocks in preparing the school's athletic field.

Albert Evans, regional director of the Red Cross, arrived and set up relief headquarters at Henderson, five miles from the disaster scene. A large supply of antitetanus serum arrived from Dallas and will be administered to the injured.

The rain set in at dawn, which revealed an appalling scene. Bodies recently taken from the wreckage cluttered the field morgue, awaiting distribution among a dozen nearby towns.

The blaring of loud speakers, rumble of trucks, screaming of ambulance sirens and tramp of National Guardsmen was pierced occasionally by a scream, as some parent identified a child.

Several thousand spectators crowded at the guard lines, eager but helpless to aid.

Many Are Maimed.

Of the 1,100 students enrolled in the school, less than half escaped death or injury, and the dead far outnumbered the injured. More bodies were believed buried under the great heaps of steel, wood and concrete and several hundred workers tugged at the debris, piling it onto trucks for hauling away.

250 Thought Injured.

Red Cross authorities, emergency nurses and doctors, who came from hundreds of miles around, believed that the final account would show the number of injured to be approximately 250.

The blast was accompanied by a sheet of reddish light seen for miles and caused reports that the wreckage was on fire.

There was no fire.

For an instant utter silence hung over the country side whose every atmosphere carries the stench of the oil coming from the earth. Then there were frightening shrieks and screams, blood curdling cries, all in childish treble. Teachers came rushing out of the opened wall of the auditorium to find headless bodies, armless bodies, bodies so dismembered and mangled that they were not recognizable as bodies. They found children drenched in their own blood running, insensibly round in circles, to collapse grotesquely.

Soon the news of the worst of recent disasters was filtering out over the telegraph and telephone lines from Overton, six miles from New London. In Austin, the capital of Texas, Gov. James V. Allred, heard the first news and when it was apparent that there had been no exaggeration he placed the town of New London and its immediate vicinity under martial law.

The National Red Cross was mobilizing its facilities. The automobiles of physicians and nurses from hundreds of miles away, as far as Dallas and Fort Worth and Shreveport, were racing along the highways—a procession that continued throughout the night. While this was happening the oil field workers were running through the forests of derricks.

The producing companies, including the Humble Oil Company, a Standard Oil subsidiary, and the largest of the field, were sending every truck and crane and workmen they could find to the scene.

Ambulances and hearses and private cars raced along the paved highway in packs.

The cranes were pushed into position, the scoop shovels began digging their blunt noses into the debris.

Occasionally there was a faint cry and the shovels halted and hundreds of frenzied hands tore away at the bricks, each pair of hands belonging to a man whose child or children had been in the school until a still living child, though in almost every case, a dying child, was lifted out and sent in a waiting ambulance to a hospital.

But more often the men and the cranes and the shovels turned up no living children or dying but dead children.

Occasionally came a cry from the hundreds of men—huge powerful men, their shoulders heavy with muscles acquired in the toughest school of manual labor—that was not the cry of an injured child.

Find Own Children.

It was the cry of a man who had discovered himself, or had pointed out to him by a sympathetic fellow, the body of his own child. These cases were not scattered—there were many.

Night came and from the tool sheds of the companies came great arm lamps that soon bathed the ruins and the sweating workers in a weird hot white light.

A public address system was erected, its loud-speakers hanging from trees, from the ruins of the auditorium, from poles planted in the earth. They blared through the night.

They summoned J. R. Reach of the Emergency Hospital. It was sad news for the bodies of his two children had been identified.

Cruel rumor tortured the rescue workers even more than their task tortured them. One said that a dynamite bomb had been exploded under the school and anger, for a few minutes, raged uncontrolled.

Then it was found that fifteen sticks of unexploded dynamite had been found in the gymnasium.

It had been part of a supply used for blasting out rock in clearing the athletic field and contributed not in the least to the disaster.

Others that circulated during the horror-filled night were that living children and living teachers remained beneath the debris; that their piteous cries filtered up through the heaped brick and mortar. These caused fathers whose children still were missing to hope against hope, only to be led later to a mangled body.

Before midnight a few children were taken in a dying condition from the debris. They had been near the top. After midnight, the children removed were dead.

Col. Clarence E. Parker of the National Guard, a kindly greying man, was obviously under a frightful strain. The complex though efficient organization passed through his hands. His voice shook a little and his eyes were a little dim. Among other of his experiences, he saw the bleeding, broken form of a 7-year-old child uncovered brick by brick. The child was breathing when the last brick was removed.

A grease-covered pump man, his shoulder muscles trembling, so intensely was he concentrating on making his red, ironlike hands gentle, lifted her up and her head turned just a little, her lips parted and saliva drooled over them and glistened under the blinding overhead light.

The child was dead.

All the students were in the "U" shaped building except for approximately 100 of the lowest grades which had been dismissed for the day and another 100 that were in the gymnasium.

Almost all of its 60 class rooms were occupied, children at their desks, teachers and the blackboards.

At exactly 3:05 p. m. there was an explosion that was heard for miles around and instantly stilled every pump in the East Texas field. The walls of both wings of the "U" shaped building fell outward, dumping the three floors and their human burden on top of the other into the basement.

Yellow brick spewed out in cascades and were scattered for a quarter mile around. One end of the "U" shaped building was driven into one wall of the auditorium and its front wall fell inward, showering some 100 mothers and teachers in a Parent-Teachers' meeting with crumbled brick and mortar.

The blast was accompanied by a sheet of reddish light seen for miles.

Shrieks and Screams.

For an instant utter silence hung over the country side. Then there were shrieks and screams, blood curdling cries, all in childish treble. Teachers came out of the opened wall of the auditorium to find headless bodies, armless bodies, bodies so dismembered and mangled that they were not recognizable as bodies. They found children drenched in their own blood running, insensibly round in circles, to collapse grotesquely.

But, above all, was the wreck of the building which had been approximately 350 feet long, the length of an ordinary city block, and 100 feet wide at the base of the "U." Not even a fragment of wall remained. Desks, blackboards, books and the arms and legs and bodies of children showed in crazy-patch pattern amid the heaps of bricks and mortar and timbering.

Soon the news of the worst of recent disasters was filtering out over the telegraph and telephone lines from Overton, six miles from New London.

The building had no central heating plant, but each room had its own heater.

The basement through which the gas mains ran, had been closed and gas could accumulate there for days, according to C. F. Evans, 29-year-old chairman of the science department.

"Gas must have seeped under the basement and been touched off by a match or something," Evans said.

"We probably never will know the true cause."

The school contained two buildings, one of which was completely demolished. The other building, ironically, was empty. Classes had been dismissed a few minutes earlier and the children had gone home.

The building which was destroyed was a two-story structure, built in the shape of a "U." In the center was a large auditorium, and down the sides were two wings containing classrooms.

All survivors agreed that the explosion occurred in the basement under one of the wings, which was built several years before the rest of the building.

Blown From Steps.

"There is no doubt where the explosion occurred," said F. L. Waggoner, 28, principal of the elementary school.

"I was entering the building and had my hand on the door when the blast threw me down the steps and knocked me out. The force of the explosion was directly from the other side of the building—from the basement up."

Waggoner aided in rescuing 60 or 70 children after he regained consciousness.

Lines of Workers Form

Long lines of workers formed, and hands rubbed raw and bled as jagged framework and torn bricks were passed along, hand-to-hand. Trucks hastily recruited from the oil field arrived within a few minutes, and cranes lifted tons of wreckage from the broken bodies of the dead and dying children.

Darkness fell, and floodlights, hastily installed, cast a ghastly white pall over the temporary tomb of the children.

National Guardsmen patrolled the area after it was placed under martial law by Gov. James V. Allred. State highway patrolmen, liquor agents, local officers, rangers and members of the American Legion threw a police cordon around the appalling scene.

Lieut. Col. C. E. Parker, commanding the National Guard units, disproved a report that the building possibly was dynamited. He said fourteen sticks of explosives found in an undamaged closet had been placed in storage there during the blasting on a football field.

Executives from oil companies, who stopped operations in the nearby vast East Texas field to volunteer their men and machinery, conferred with Parker to formulate plans for speeding removal of the debris.

Strikes Heart of Nation

The tragedy struck deep into the heart of the nation. From all sections offers of aid and condolences streamed in.

In Warm Springs President Roosevelt announced he had ordered the Red Cross and all other government agencies to "stand by and render every assistance to the little Texas community."

The president said he was shocked with the rest of the nation and could only hope further information would "lessen the scope of this tragedy." A few hours earlier the president himself had stood in a little brick school house just completed for Negro children and dedicated it by asserting educational levels must be raised.

Gov. James V. Allred, after declaring martial law, ordered a military court-martial to begin an investigation.

The slow process of identification moved forward before dawn. Bodies were held in morgues and improvised morgues in a dozen towns. Injured, of which there was yet no accurate estimate, were equally as scattered.

Spectator Tells of Awful Blast

One spectator thus described the scene of the Texas school disaster: "In the middle of a ring of about 5,000 persons lay the remnants of the huge structure. The center portion had only a bare split wall at the rear still standing. The brick and stones were piled about 15 feet high in a quarry-like effect. From the ponderous oil trucks to the mass of debris covering the children were stretched stout cables. Sweating oil field 'roughnecks' turned errands of mercy—many seeking their own sons and daughters.

"In the manner of stevedores, they lined up on the rock and passed debris hand-to-hand to a clearing.

"Blood smeared an upturned brick. With a shout, the workers gathered available shovels and lights and stretchers were called. An arm, a head appeared—terribly crushed. In a few minutes it was on the stretcher, carried to a waiting ambulance and speeded to the nearest temporary morgue.

"The scene was repeated over and over. Finally the worst of the shock was over and the men and families settled down to a quiet, organized effort to get out the bodies as quickly as possible—not actually in the hopes of life but to make certain relatives would be spared the anguish of ignorance of their children's fate—which the rescuers knew too well."

Vance rose and bowed. "Thanks for your ultimate candor, Miss Graem. I'm deuced sorry I had to torture you to obtain it. And please ignore the nightmares you accused me of manufacturing. I'm really grateful to you for helping me fill in the pattern."

The girl frowned as her intense gaze rested on Vance.

"I wonder if you don't really know more about this affair than you pretend."

"My dear Miss Graem! I do not pretend to know anything about it," Vance went to the door and held it open for her. "You may go now, but we shall probably want to see you again tomorrow, and I just ask for your promise that you will stay at home where you will be available."

"Don't worry, I'll be at home," As she went out, Miss Beeton was coming up the passageway toward the study. The two women passed each other without speaking.

"I'm sorry to trouble you, Mr. Vance," the nurse apologized, "but Doctor Siefert has just arrived and asked me to inform you that he wished very much to see you as soon as possible. Mr. Garden," she added, "has told him about Mr. Swift's death."

At the moment her gaze fell on the tweed coat, and a slight puzzled frown lined her forehead. Before she could speak Vance said:

"The sergeant brought your coat up here. He didn't know whose it was. We were looking for something." Then he added quickly: "Please tell Doctor Siefert that I will be very glad to see him at once. And ask him if he will be good enough to come here to the study." Miss Beeton nodded and went out.

CHAPTER X

There was a soft knock, and Vance turned from the window. He was confronted by Garden, who had opened the study door without waiting for a summons.

"Sorry, Vance," Garden apologized, "but Doc Siefert is downstairs and says he'd like to see you, if convenient, before he goes."

Vance looked at the man a moment and frowned.

"Miss Beeton informed me of the fact a few minutes ago. I asked her to tell the doctor—I would be glad to see him at once. I can't understand his sending you also. Didn't the nurse give him the message?"

"I'm afraid not. I know Siefert sent Miss Beeton up here, and I assumed, as I imagine Siefert did, that you had detained her." He looked round the room with a puzzled expression. "The fact is, I thought she was still up here."

"You mean she hasn't returned downstairs?" Vance asked.

"No, she hasn't come down yet."

"Vance took a step forward."

"Are you sure of that, Garden?"

"Yes, very sure," Garden nodded vigorously.

"I've been in the front hall, near the foot of the stairs, ever since Doc Siefert arrived."

"Did you see any of the others come down?"

"Why, yes," Garden told him.

"Kroon came down and went out. And then Madge Weatherby. And shortly after the nurse had gone up with Siefert's message to you, Zaia came down and hurried away. But that's all. And, as I say, I've been down there in the front hall all the time."

"What about Hammie?"

"Hammie? No, I haven't seen anything of him. I thought he was still here with you."

"That's deuced queer," Vance moved slowly to a chair and sat down with a perplexed frown. "It's possible you missed him. However, it doesn't matter. Ask the doctor to come up, will you?"

When Garden had left Vance sat smoking and staring at the ceiling. I knew from the droop of his eyelids that he was disturbed.

"Deuced queer," he muttered again.

"For Heaven's sake, Vance," Markham commented irritably.

"It's entirely possible Garden wasn't watching the stairs as closely as he imagines."

"Yes, Oh, yes," Vance nodded vaguely.

"Everyone worried. None on the alert. Normal mechanisms not functioning. Still, the stairs are visible half way up the hall, and the hall itself isn't very spacious."

"It's quite possible Hammie went down the main stairs from the terrace, wishing, perhaps, to avoid the others."

"He hadn't his hat up here with him," Vance returned without looking up. "He would have had to enter the front hall and pass Garden to get it. No point in such silly maneuvers. . . . But it isn't Hammie I'm thinking of. It's Miss Beeton. I don't like it. . . . He got up slowly and took out another cigarette. "She's not the kind of girl that would neglect taking my message to Siefert immediately, unless for a very good reason."

"A number of things might have happened."

"Yes, of course. That's just it. Too many things have happened here today already."

Vance went to the north window and looked out into the garden. Then he returned to the center of the room and stood for a moment in tense meditation.

"As you say, Markham," His voice was barely audible. "Something may have happened. . . ."

Suddenly he threw his cigarette into an ash tray and turned on his heel.

"Oh, my word! I wonder. . . . Come, Sergeant. We'll have to make a search—immediately."

He opened the door quickly and started down the hall. We followed him with vague apprehension, not knowing what was on his mind and with no anticipation of what was to follow. Vance peered out through the garden door. Then he turned back, shaking his head.

"No, it couldn't have been there. We would have been able to see."

His eyes moved inquiringly up and down the hall, and after a moment a strange, startled look came into them. "It could be!" he exclaimed.

"Oh, my aunt! Damnable things are happening here. Wait a second."

He rapidly retraced his steps to the vault door. Grasping the knob, he rattled it violently; but the door was now locked. Taking the key from its nail, he inserted it hurriedly into the lock. As he opened the heavy door a crack, a pungent, penetrating odor assailed his nostrils. Vance quickly drew back.

"Out into the air!" he called over his shoulder, in our direction. "All of you!"

Instinctively we made for the door to the garden.

Vance held one hand over his nose and mouth and pushed the vault door further inward. Heavy amber-colored fumes drifted out into the hall, and I felt a stifling, choking sensation. Vance staggered back a step, but kept his hand on the door-knob.

"Miss Beeton! Miss Beeton!" he called. There was no response and I saw Vance put his head down and move forward into the dense fumes that were emanating from the open door. He sank to his knees on the threshold and leaned forward into the vault. The next moment he had straightened up and was dragging the limp body of the nurse out into the passageway.

As soon as the girl was out of the vault, Vance took her up in his arms and carried her unsteadily out into the garden, where he placed her gently on the wicker settee. His face was deathly pale; his eyes were watering; and he had difficulty with his breathing. When he had released the girl, he leaned heavily against one of the iron posts which supported the awning. He opened his mouth-wide and sucked the fresh air into his lungs.

The nurse was gasping stertorously and clutching her throat. Although her breast was rising and falling convulsively, her whole body was limp and lifeless.

At that moment Doctor Siefert stepped through the garden door, a look of amazement on his face. He had all the outward appearance of the type of medical man Vance had described to us the night before. He was about sixty, conservatively but modestly attired, and with a bearing studiously dignified and self-sufficient.

With a great effort Vance drew himself erect.

"Hurry, doctor," he called. "It's bromine gas."

Siefert came rapidly forward, moved the girl's body into a more comfortable position and opened the collar of her uniform.

"Nothing but the air can help her," he said, as he moved one end of the settee around so that it faced the cool breeze from the river.

"How are you feeling, Vance?"

Vance was dabbing his eyes with a handkerchief. He blinked once or twice and smiled faintly.

"I'm quite all right."

"The settee and looked down at the girl for a moment. "A close call," he murmured.

Siefert inclined his head gravely.

At this moment Hammie came strutting up briskly from a remote corner of the garden.

"Good God!" he exclaimed.

"What's the matter?"

Vance turned to the man in angry surprise.

"Well, well," he greeted him.

"The roll call is complete. I'll tell you later what's the matter. Or perhaps you will be able to tell me. Wait over there."

And he jerked his head in the direction of a chair nearby.

"I wish I'd taken the earlier train to Long Island," Hammie muttered.

"It might have been better, don't y'know," murmured Vance, turning away from him.

The nurse's strangled coughing had abated somewhat. Her breathing was deeper and more regular, and the gasping had partly subsided. Before long she struggled to sit up. Siefert helped her.

"Breathe as deeply and rapidly as you can," he said. "It's air you need."

The girl made an effort to follow instructions, one hand braced against the back of the settee, and the other resting on Vance's arm.

A few minutes later she was able to speak, but with considerable difficulty.

"I feel—better now. Except for the burning—in my nose and throat."

"What happened?" she asked.

"We don't know yet," Vance returned her gaze with obvious distress. "We only know that you were poisoned with bromine gas in the vault where Swift was shot. We were hoping that you could tell us about it yourself."

She shook her head vaguely, and there was a dazed look in her eyes.

"I'm afraid I can't tell you very much. It all happened so unexpectedly—so suddenly. All I know is that when I went to tell Doctor Siefert he might come upstairs, I was struck on the head from behind, just as I passed the garden door. The blow didn't render me entirely unconscious, but it stunned me so that I was unaware of anything or anybody around me. Then I felt myself being caught from behind, turned about, and forced back up the passageway and into the vault. I have a faint recollection of the door being shut upon me, although I wasn't sufficiently rational to protest or even to realize what had happened. But I was conscious of the fact that inside the vault there was a frightful suffocating smell."

"Yes. Not a pleasant experience. But it could have been much worse," Vance spoke in a low voice and smiled gravely down at the girl.

"There's a bad bruise on the back of your head. That too might have been worse, but the starched band of your cap probably saved you from more serious injury."

The girl had got to her feet and stood swaying a little as she steadied herself against Vance.

"I really feel all right now," She looked at Vance wistfully. "And I have you to thank—haven't I?"

Siefert spoke gruffly. "A few more minutes of that bromine gas would have proved fatal. Whoever found you and got you out here did so just in time."

The girl had not taken her eyes from Vance.

"How did you happen to find me so soon?" she asked him.

"Belated reasoning," he answered. "I should have found you several minutes before the moment I learned that you had not returned downstairs. But at first it was difficult to realize that anything serious could have happened to you."

"I can't understand it even now," the girl said with a bewildered air.

"Neither can I—entirely," returned Vance. "But perhaps I can learn something more."

Going quickly to a pitcher of water Heath had brought, he dipped his handkerchief into it. Pressing the handkerchief against his face, he disappeared into the passageway. A minute or so later he returned. In his hand he held a jagged piece of thin curved glass, about three inches long.

It was part of a broken vial, and still clinging to it was a small paper label on which was printed the symbol "Br."

"I found this on the tiled floor, in the far corner of the vault. It was just beneath one of the racks which holds Professor Garden's assortment of chemicals. There's an empty space in the rack, but this vial of bromine couldn't have fallen to the floor accidentally. It could only have been taken out deliberately and broken at the right moment." He handed the fragment of glass to Heath.

"Take this, Sergeant, and have it gone over carefully for fingerprints. But if, as I suspect, the same person that killed Swift handled it, I doubt if there will be any telltale marks on it. However. . . ."

"This was a dastardly thing, Vance," Siefert burst out, his eyes flashing.

"Yes. All of that, doctor. So was Swift's murder. . . . How are you feeling now, Miss Beeton?"

"A little shaky," she answered with a weak smile. "But nothing more." She was leaning against one end of the settee.

"Then we'll carry 'em, what?"

"Of course," she returned in a low voice.

Floyd Garden stepped out from the hallway at this moment. His coughed.

"What's this beastly odor in the hall?" he asked. "It's gotten down stairs. Is anything wrong?"

It's a Party Sure Enough!

AND the girl holding the curtains back, just looking on, might be joining the fun except for her misconception that "party" clothes are hard to sew. She made the neat sweet house model she's wearing with no trouble at all—but—

And Here's the Story.

"Marge, did you really make your pretty dress all yourself? It looks so elaborate; I'd be afraid to cut into chiffon like that for fear I'd ruin it."

"Be yourself, Rose. It doesn't take a bit more skill to make my dress than yours. The pattern explains everything. You can't go wrong. I get a double kick out of making a party frock—I feel important sewing it and elegant wearing it. I couldn't begin to have so many party clothes if I didn't belong to The Sew-Your-Own!"

Mother Made Daughter's Dress.

"Joanie, dear, aren't you beginning this party business pretty young?"

"No, Auntie Rose, of course not. I've another one just like it that Grandma made for me. It's red and it has blue bands around it. I'm going to wear it to school tomorrow."

"Well, I see where I've got to get some silks and crepe, pluck up my nerve, and have clothes like other people. I wanted to join the Jolly Twelve but I just felt I didn't have anything to wear. Now I've decided to join The Sewing Circle and make a real fashion debut, come Spring!"

HUGHES MAKES STATEMENT

Chief Justice Charles E. Hughes
and other members of the Supreme Court refused a few days ago to appear before the Senate Judiciary Committee to testify concerning the Roosevelt proposal to add new members to the court. This was obviously a wise decision, since such a course would doubtless drag the court further into the mire of politics than it has been dragged by the proposal of the President.

When Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Democratic Senator and erstwhile supporter of the President, took the stand Monday, he read in-
to the record, however, a brief statement which had been made by Chief Justice Hughes containing the following paragraphs:

"An increase in the number of justices, apart from any question of policy, which I do not discuss,
would not promote the efficiency of the court. It is believed that it would impair that efficiency so long as the court acts as a unit.

"There would be more judges to hear, more judges to confer, more judges to discuss, more judges to be convinced and to decide. The present number of justices is thought to be large enough so far as the prompt, adequate and efficient conduct of the work of the court is concerned."

But Chief Justice Hughes should understand that what President Roosevelt wants is not more judges on the court but a different set of judges.

WHY?

Why should a federal judge receive a salary of $20,000 per year while he serves on the court, and then receive the same salary for life if and when he should retire?
A man who has brains enough to aspire to such a high office certainly has been one with a most lucrative law practice. If he has common sense enough to pass upon the economic questions involving 125 millions of people, certainly he has been foresighted enough to lay away a good per cent of fat fees he has received as a lawyer. A federal judge is supposed to live modestly and far more economically than the man who is in politics or other kind of public life.
When the public sees men of this class retire at such unreasonable salaries for life, is it any wonder that the people fall for the Townsend plan, or demand $30 per month assistance for all over 65 years of age? But, the lawyers prevail in legislative halls, and most certainly will protect the interest of the group which receives the political plums.—Canyon News.

Since we have come to think of it,
we believe you are right. There is no sense nor justice in paying a retired justice of the Supreme Court $20,000 for doing nothing.
That is what our Congressman,
George Mahon, said in explanation
of his vote against the Summers bill —and George is a lawyer too. He was district attorney before he went to Congress.

The Summers bill providing that members of the Supreme Court who had reached the age of 70 and who had served as much as ten years on the court might retire on full pay was introduced before President Roosevelt submitted to Congress his startling plan to revamp the court.

But after the President had submitted his plan, Congress rushed the Summers bill through with the hope that it might help to solve the difficulty that Congress faced.
George Mahon, we believe, was the only Texas Congressman who voted against it. Only a few Democrats voted against it. It passed in a jiffy.

Under the authority and the delicate suggestion contained in the Summers bill, two or three members of the Court doubtless would have retired soon had not the President appeared before Congress with his startling proposal and his bitter attack upon the Court. He then could have appointed their successors and thus have accomplished in large measure, in an orderly and proper fashion, without bluster and ballyhoo, what he is now attempting to accomplish by the use of another Roosevelt's weapon, the Big Stick.

It occurs to us that President Roosevelt has made an egregious blunder, even if he wins.

Isn't it strange how we think the other fellow is prejudiced? If he opposes our views of things and advances arguments that we can not answer, why he is just too prejudiced to listen to reason. Only we are open-minded.

Fourteen-cent cotton! It sounds too good to be true. Yet reports on the market pages of our newspapers recently stated that the price of cotton had climbed up to that point.
We must give President Roosevelt and the New Deal part of the credit for this advance in the price. The curtailment of the crop has reduced the amount of surplus cotton on hand. But there is another contributing cause. Foreign nations are buying more American cotton than they have in several years.
For some reason, the foreign demand is increasing. This may be due solely to increasing prosperity throughout the world or it may be due in part to the tariff agreements made by Secretary Hull with a number of foreign nations; but whatever the cause, the foreign demand for cotton is helping to boost the price. Here's hoping that the farmers of the South realize at least 12 cents per pound for their cotton
next fall and winter.

In this day and time no nation can live to itself. However limited and isolated we may be in our thinking, the action of the smallest nation in the world may greatly affect our own lives. Assassination of an insignificant prince in a comparatively insignificant nation was the spark that set the world on fire
and brought on the great World War in 1913. The European nations are now entering upon a navy-building race. As a result there is an ever increasing demand for iron and other metals. All the old scrap iron throughout the United States is being bought up. Tahoka is being cleaned up. Our scrap iron is going.
It may portend a terrible thing for the world in the near future but right now it is a good thing for our town. It at least looks better.

Probably nobody is to be censured for the terrible catastrophe that took the lives of more than 450 school children and teachers at New London near Overton on Thursday afternoon of last week.
With their imperfect knowledge, ordinary men could not foresee such a calamity. But with the imperfect knowledge that has been gained as a result of the explosion and the investigation that followed, more precaution will be taken hereafter in the use of gas for fuel in public buildings and even in private homes. Possibly a law requiring expert inspection of gas lines by experts may be passed.

A proposal to submit a constitutional amendment to pay all persons over 65 years of age a pension of $15.00 per month is now pending in the state senate. The proposed amendment will probably be submitted to the people, and it will have strong support. We shall be against it. Why pay a pension to the owner of a sky-scraper, the president of a bank, a cattle baron,
an oil magnate, or a hundred thousand other well-to-do citizens of Texas over 65 years of age? We do not believe in any such pervasion of the taxing powers of the state. Let's pay the aged needy as liberally as we can afford, but let's not tax the ordinary consumer to provide a hand-out to the wealthy.

Ordinarily no bumper wheat crops are made in Lynn county. We do not sow a large wheat acreage. We run strongly to cotton and feed crops.
But if one will drive out over Lynn county now, he will see numerous small patches of wheat that look very fine. If not pastured too long and if we have normal rainfall from here on out, the wheat should be fine here this year.

If one will take a drive throughout the country, he will see many fields terraced and contoured. He will see more than that. He will see many of the pastures contoured.
This is all very fine, we think. It is a part of the Government's soil-
and-water conservation program.
But it seems funny, some how or

Poorly Nourished Women—
They Just Can't Hold Up

Are you getting proper nourishment from your food,
and restful sleep?

A poorly nourished body
just can't hold up. And as for that run-down feeling, that nervous fatigue, — don't neglect it!

Cardul, for lack of appetite,
poor digestion and nervous
fatigue, has been recommended by mothers to daughters — women to women — for over fifty years.

Try it! Thousands of women testify Cardul helped them. Of course, if it does not benefit YOU,
consult a physician.

The expressions of sympathy that came to the people of New London and of Texas from people all over the United States and even from foreign countries, some of them official, are appreciated by the people of Texas. They show that all the world is a-kin.

Until we jurors learn to deal out more even-handed justice by our verdicts, it hardly lies in our mouths to criticize the opinions of able jurists concerning matters of law and the Constitution.

things you really know for yourself.

You know that a plating on metal cannot come off like any mere liquid. Thus Oil-Plating, formed in your engine by Conoco Germ Processed oil, cannot come off the working parts like any mere film of oil. Though the patented Germ Process puts abnormal strength into the so-called movable oil film, it goes much farther and gives you exclusive Oil-Plating.

With this firmly fastened layer of lubricant always maintained on cylinders, bearings and other parts, it stands to reason that friction never finds them naked. They remain all covered constantly with slippery Oil-Plating, as though they were built with it on. It's on, every time you start the engine, because Oil-Plating can't run down "between times." And it's on throughout your hardest run, because Oil-Plating isn't liable to the usual "squeeze-

County Prepares For Meat Show

Lynn County, as usual, will have a major part in the annual Plains Quality Meat Show at Lubbock March 29 to 31. A large number of entries in the four divisions, baby beef, fat pig, fat lamb, and cured meat will be made by exhibitors from this county.

A supervised fun night program is planned for the exhibitors around a huge campfire at the fair grounds, beginning at 7:30 p. m. each evening, with the annual exhibitors' dance in the ballroom of the Hilton hotel Monday evening at 9 o'clock.

Judging of the livestock divisions will begin at 9 a. m. Tuesday when Casey Fine, Tech Professor and a member of the Tech livestock judging team, will judge the fat pig division. Fat lamb judging begins at 10:30 a. m. with W. R. Nisbet, Specialist, Texas Extension Service, as judge. Baby beef judging will begin at 1:30 p. m. March 30, with W. L. Stangel, head of the Animal husbandry department of Texas Tech, as judge.

Demonstrations in the handling of pork will be the main attraction in the Woman's building, where a series of booths will be shown, graphically picturing the importance of good breeding, proper feeding and the best methods to be used in preparing the animal for curing and storage.

Summer Knight, who was in a most serious condition in a Lubbock Sanitarium several days last week following a mastoid operation, is now back home and is improving most satisfactorily.

Jack Stricklin Of Brownfield Is Sick

We regret to have to chronicle that our good neighbor and friend Andy Jack Stricklin, editor of the Terry County Herald of Brownfield, is in very ill health and recently found it advisable to go down to Marlin to take the hot water baths.

Jack writes back to his paper that the baths cost him a dollar a shot but are worth the money. We hope that he is soon sound and well and back on the firing line with his Gatling gun taking shots at the boys who happen to cross his path. We hope however that he "lays off" Charley Guy of the Lubbock Avalanche Journal for a spell, as we feel that he has dealt out enough punishment for that "entleman already."

Willie Lois Nevels Weds Slaton Man

Miss Willie Lois Nevels of this city and Mr. C. C. Hoffman of Slaton were united in marriage at the home of his sister in Lubbock last Sunday morning and immediately left on a honeymoon trip to Old Mexico. Upon their return, they will be at home to their friends in Slaton.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Nevels and has been reared here. She is a graduate of the Tahoka High School and of Baylor University, Waco, and is a highly cultured and accomplished young woman.

The groom, we understand, is engaged in the realty business in Slaton, and is said to be a most estimable gentleman.

They have the best wishes of many friends throughout this section of the state.

P. M. MONTGOMERY VISITS NEW MEXICO POTASH MINES

P. M. Montgomery returned Tuesday from Carlsbad, New Mexico, near which place he visited the big potash mines in operation for the past several years.

Mr. Montgomery brought back with him a sample of the potash being taken from the mine of the American Potash Company. He says that this mine is a sight almost equal to the Carlsbad Cavern. It is 1670 feet deep and of vast underground proportions. About 600 men are employed in this mine. About the same number of men are also employed at the U. S. mine in the same vicinity, and a third mine will soon be opened with the expectation that it will employ 800 men.

Potash mining in the vicinity of Carlsbad has grown to be an immense industry.

The interior of the building has been recently remodeled and beautified, and the two shops are very neat and attractive.

A Bond to the People

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

"The Government itself is under bond to the American people that in the exercise of its functions and powers it will deal with the body of our citizens in a manner scrupulously honest and fair and absolutely just."

Those are the words of former President Cleveland, the centennial of whose birth, on March 18, 1837, admirers celebrate this year.

By many thousands of Americans, regardless of party affiliations, the memory of their author is honored for the devotion to our national welfare shown in his official acts and utterances.

His words and admonitions are still quoted in reference to many of the problems which perplex us today. Here are just a few of them that America might do well to recall:

Public Service: "Office-holders are the agents of the people, not their masters."

The Constitution: "The oath I now take to preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States, not only impressively defines the great responsibilities I now assume, but suggests obedience to Constitutional commands as the rule by which my official conduct must be guided. I shall preserve the Constitution by loyally protecting every grant of Federal power it contains, by defending all its restraints when attacked by impotence or restlessness and by enforcing its limitations and reservations in favor of the people."

Economy: "Extravagant appropriations of public money, with all its demoralizing consequences, should not be tolerated."

Self-Reliance: "Though the people should support the government, the government should not support the people."

Merit System: "If the people of this country ever submit to the banishment of its underlying principle from the operation of their government, they will abandon the surest guarantee of the safety and success of American institutions."

Home Rule: "Devotion to the public good will lead us to strongly resist all impotence of constitutional limitation of Federal power and to persistently check the increasing tendency to extend the scope of federal jurisdiction into the domain of State and local jurisdiction upon the plea of subserving the public welfare."

Not only on a centenary date, but throughout our national history, America can, with profit, both honor and follow such advice.

LOCAL BAPTIST ATTENDED RAILS MEETING THIS WEEK

Rev. and Mrs. George A. Dale, Prof. and Mrs. H. P. Cavness, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Stanley, Miss Marion Hooper, and Mmes. K. R. Durham, Elbert Rogers, and Frank Roberts attended the Baptist B. T. U., Sunday School, and W. M. S. meeting at Ralls Tuesday and Wednesday.

Rev. Dale is president of the District B. T. U. organization and was elected Wednesday for a third term.

Mmes. Stanley, Rogers, Durham, and Cavness composed a quartet which had a prominent place on the program of the meetings.

Rev. Dale reports that in spite of the sandstorm, about six hundred visitors were present, 150 more than last year.

FIENDSHIP BENEFIT PARTY

The Friendship H. D. Club is giving a benefit "42" party at the Edith school house Saturday night, April 3. Everybody is invited to come.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Brooks and children of Paducah visited Mrs. Brooks' sister, Mrs. A. P. McGlaun, and family. Mr. Brooks, who is a commissioner of Ootile county, attended the judges and commissioners meeting in Lubbock, while here.

Harley Henderson, B. R. Tate, L. H. Perkins, and Mr. Adams went down to San Antonio last week end to inspect the Medina Valley irrigation project. They report that some wonderful crops are being raised in that district.

J. P. West, rural mail carrier, visited his family at Rule last week end.

Barabra Jean, younger daughter of Mrs. and Mr. Harley Henderson, was carried to a Lubbock sanitarium Thursday morning.

YOUR VOTES APPRECIATED—In the Friendship contest being conducted at Galsnat's Store, I am representing the Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist church. Any prize that I may win will be used by the Society. Your votes will be highly appreciated.—Mrs. Fred Bucy.

Bovell And Perry Rotary Speakers

W. T. Bovell entertained the Rotarians Thursday with an account of his recent trip into Old Mexico. W. T. had a very interesting story to tell about the land, about the people, about the primitive conditions that exist there.

Mr. Perry of the Perry Abrasives Company made a brief report respecting the mining of the pumicite beds in the lake seven miles south of town. He says the deposits are vast and that the grade is good. The greatest difficulty is railroad rates to the North and East, but he hopes that this problem may be satisfactorily worked out soon.

The applications of two new members were received and acted upon favorably, Rev. Ben Hardy, and Dr. E. Prohl.

Visitors present were Ed L. Moore of Lubbock and O. D. Cardwell of Post.

The Club was informed that Friday night of next week has been designated as charter night for the club just organized at Lamesa, and about fifteen members of the local club expressed the intention of attending. The Lamesa club has 24 charter members.

Rev. R. E. Day Moves To Southeast Texas

Rev. R. E. Day, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Big Spring and well known in Tahoka, has tendered his resignation to take effect April 15 and has accepted the pastorate of the First Baptist Church at Port Arthur.

For more than six years Rev. Mr. Day has been pastor of the Big Spring Church and during that time he did the preaching in two revival meetings in Tahoka.

Friends here will be glad to note that during his pastorate the staggering debt which hung for years like a pall over the Big Spring Church has been reduced from $80,000 to $22,000. The membership has increased from 569 to 965.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Gildersleeve visited at San Antonio and Gonzales over the week end. They were accompanied home from San Antonio by Mrs. Gildersleeve's mother, Mrs. Lucy Proctor, who will visit here several weeks.

REPORTS FROM THE COUNTY CLUBS

Miss Lilith Boyd, H. D. Agent

WILSON H. D. CLUB

"What your dentist wants to know," was the subject of the program of the Wilson H. D. Club meeting at the home of Mrs. Howard Cook March 17.

Many helpful comments on the care of teeth were made. At birth the baby teeth are all formed except the roots. About the third year a child usually has all twenty of his deciduous or "milk teeth." Mothers should take care of the baby teeth as they fill the place the permanent teeth will take. Teach the child to use the toothbrush early in life, and take him to the dentist by his third year for a careful check-up. A child's diet should consist of foods containing teeth-building elements.

It is necessary to visit the dentist often, as infections of the teeth cause serious infections in other parts of the body.

Pre-natal care of a child's teeth is very important. A mother's diet should consist of foods containing phosphorus, lime and calcium in order to build good teeth and bones.

Members present were: Mmes. D. A. Hill, Howard Cook, B. A. Crumley, B. W. Baker, Edwin May, W. H. May, M. J. Scaer, H. B. Crosby, M. C. Brandon, Douglas Finley, S. G. Anthony, and Miss Clara May.

HACKBERRY H. D. CLUB

Hackberry Home Demonstration Club met at the home of Mrs. L. E. Bartlett on March 19.

The house was called to order by our president, a report from the Council heard, and many business matters discussed.

The meeting was then turned over to our Home Demonstrator and she made two kinds of cheese which were very successful.

We had one new member and six old members present: Mmes. H. Heare, Oates, Denton, C. Heare, B. H. Jones, L. E. Bartlett, and Ray Spence. We are looking for a larger crowd next meeting as we have our A. & M. delegate to elect. The next meeting will be at Mrs. C. A. Bloxom's on April 2.

HACKBERRY H. D. CLUB

"From January 1 to March 13, we sold $158.46 worth of eggs from a flock of 310 white leghorn hens," said Mrs. B. H. Jones, home food supply demonstrator in the Hackberry Home Demonstration Club.

"Last week we received $18.36 for 102 dozen eggs. We have been marketing over 100 dozen each week, for some time. This pays for laying mash, little chick feed, groceries and affords some spending money. We never think of checking money from the bank to buy groceries for our family of four.

"I have 225 baby chicks now 5 weeks old. I have the cockerels engaged to be sold when they are seven or eight weeks old. They will weigh approximately one and one-half pounds then. Last year we received 35 cents each for them at seven weeks old," added Mrs. Jones.

Mrs. Jones is keeping an accurate record of the food bought during the year. Serving balanced meals throughout the year is expected of all home food supply demonstrators. Mrs. Jones said, "I think making meal plans saves both time and energy."

FRIENDSHIP H. D. CLUB

"Processed cottage cheese may be made within three and one-half hours," said Miss Lilith Boyd to the Friendship Home Demonstration club which met in the home of Mrs. Ernest Brown March 18.

"This cheese should season about five days," she added.

We had two new members. The were Mrs. W. C. McKenzie and Mrs. S. H. Woods.

Miss Magdalena Clements was our guest.

The following members were present: Mesdames A. J. Bell, Ernest Brown, Lloyd Edwards, M. O. Canaday, Sam Holland, Weldon Jones, J. T. Owens, Garland Pennington, Roy E. Poer, J. W. Taylor, T. E. Tippitt, Redis Bishop, W. C. McKenzie, W. H. Kahl, S. H. Woods, and Miss Maxine Owens.

GROWING TOMATOES

Mrs. W. R. Greer, home food supply demonstrator in the Grassland Home Demonstration Club, has Margobe tomato plants and cauliflower plants growing in her cold frame which is eight feet by eight feet. The frame is lined with cardboard.

She has planted in her garden: lettuce, spinach, radishes, beets, carrots, onions, English peas, mustard, beans, and potatoes.

Mrs. Greer hopes to supply her family with vegetables this year from her cold frame, a garden near the house and a garden in the field which will be irrigated.

FRIENDSHIP CLUB WILL HAVE "42" PARTY

The Friendship Club will give a "42" party open to all who wish to attend on April 3. The money will be used to send a delegate to the A. & M. Short Course.

You will have lots of fun; so, be sure and come. The meeting place will be at Edith school building.

FORT WORTH-GRAHAM MAIL ROUTE SET UP

Washington, Feb. 22.—Establishment of a new "star" route mail service from Fort Worth to Graham was announced by the Postoffice Department Monday.

The announcement becomes effective as a substitute for the present service between Fort Worth and Graham, which will be discontinued after Feb. 28.

Under the schedule for the new route, which goes into effect March 1, six trips per week and one-way trip will be made from Fort Worth to Graham by way of Jacksboro and Bryson.

A contract for the service has been awarded to C. M. Parker, 1725 Doris Street, Fort Worth, for temporary star-route service from Mar. 1 to June 30, at the rate of $3,600 per year.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our deep appreciation and sincere thanks to our many friends and neighbors for their help, kindness and sympathy given us during the long illness and at the death of our dear husband and father, Sylvanus Monroe Bean. May God bless each and every one, and may your souls be enriched with a long and useful life and finally be rewarded with life everlasting in the Great Hereafter. Mrs. Jossie Bean, John and George Bean, Mrs. Minnie Isham, Mrs. Jack Curry.

A SCREEN EVENT TO THRILL THE WORLD!

If anyone can witness the love scenes between the imitably glamorous Greta Garbo and the dynamic and handsome Robert Taylor in "Camille," showing at the English Theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, without considerable palpitation of the heart, he must be a callous observer indeed.

For even beyond its magnificent production details, its striking beautiful settings, costumes and scenic backgrounds—even beyond the superb direction of George Cukor and the flawless acting of its stellar group of supporting players—"Camille" stands out as the most poignant and stirring portrayal of the love of a beautiful and fascinating woman for the man of her heart that the magic of the screen has ever given its followers.

Robert Taylor as Armand, the lover, likewise gives a performance that definitely places him high among the really distinguished actors of the screen. It is a smooth, compelling and highly romantic portrayal and one that perfectly balances the emotional intensity of the Garbo part. The work of the supporting featured players could not be improved upon—particularly as regards the performances of Lionel Barrymore as Armand's father, Elizabeth Allan as Nichette, Jessie Ralph as Nanine, Henry Daniell as the Baron de Varville, Lenore Ulric as Olympe and Laura Hope Crews as Prudence.

The Dumas romance of the exquisite Parisian woman whose love story will go down with the ages, has been brought to the screen with beauty and tenderness.

"Camille" is a picture not to be missed. It is a picture upon which congratulations may be showered upon its producer, director, its stars and supporting players, its scenic and costume designers and on everyone who had a hand in making it the triumphant photo-play that it is.

Garden Worth While To Any Family

College Station.—"One half acre of garden, properly cared for, will produce an average of $100 worth of food for the family." This statement was made by J. F. Rosborough, extension horticulturist, who pointed out that year in and year out, the garden should be the most profitable area on the average farm.

For each member of the family, 600 feet of row space should be allowed, Rosborough said. To supply a balanced vegetable diet, this 600 feet of space should be divided into 200 feet devoted to potatoes; 100 feet to yellow and leafy vegetables, such as mustard, cabbage, and carrots; 100 feet to tomatoes; and 200 feet to such miscellaneous vegetables as onions, beets, and turnips.

Over a large portion of the State, the time is at hand to plant Irish potatoes, according to Rosborough, who recommends the Triumph and Irish Cobbler varieties. Cabbage and onion plants should be set out, and tomato plants started now. For deep South Texas, where most tomatoes have already been planted, Rosborough indicated that the Bonny Best tomato was a good all around variety, while for the rest of South and East Texas, he preferred the Marglobe. He favored the Earliana, June Pink, or Magee for the blackland belt, and Earliana or June Pink for West Texas.

English peas should be planted in rows that have been laid off 12 inches apart with 24 to 30 inches between rows. By this method, the peas will tend to support each other in their upward growth, Rosborough pointed out.

No One Is "Exempt" From Taxes

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

Millions of Americans, as this is written, have just completed their annual struggle with the income tax form and its exactions from their earnings. Other millions who were not required to mail a check to the Bureau of Internal Revenue believe, perhaps, that they have escaped the tax collector.

But they are wrong. No one who works and earns is exempt from taxes. He pays them whether he fills out a complicated paper form or not.

For on his earnings rely multitudes of unseen "dependents"—jobholders, bureaucrats, officials, politicians—and their various plans for spending the worker's money after it has received the alluring label of "public funds."

The sums collected through income tax returns are not large enough, and cannot be made large enough, to meet more than a part of that huge and continuous expenditure.

So the difference is made up from indirect taxes, levied on the cost of virtually everything the worker buys, and passed on to him in higher prices. Collectively they act as wage-cuts, by reducing the purchasing power of his pay.

In the words of one student of the subject: "The difference between the value of a thing and the price you pay for it is taxation."

As everyone realizes, taxes are necessary for the conduct of successful government. But excessive taxes aren't. A program of reasonable economy, comparable, let's say, to that practiced by the average housewife or merchant, can reduce them greatly.

And if the average citizen wants to cut this steady toll on his pay envelope, his most effective method is to insist upon such economy.

For neither he, nor any other worker, is exempt from taxes—regardless of how they are labelled.

Fred McNabb made a business trip to Sherman, Texas, this week.

A fine rain fell over the entire community Friday night, followed by a freeze Saturday night and Sunday. The fruit is probably killed for the trees were in bloom.

Mrs. John Fulford was taking the school census last week.

Miss Louise Boyd, who is attending Draughn's Business School in Lubbock, spent the week end with her parents Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Boyd.

H. W. CALAWAYS HOLD HOUSE WARMING IN NEW HOME

The newly remodeled home of H. W. Calaway of Draw was the center of attraction on Monday afternoon, March 22.

One of the greatest surprises of Mrs. Calaway's life was turned into the happiest hours of her years when a host of friends met to honor her with tokens of love and appreciation for her devoted Christian life and friendship.

The three daughters, Mrs. LeMond of Snyder, Mrs. Woosley of Tahoka, and Mrs. Cates of Draw, having been notified of the event, secretly decorated the beautiful home with all the colors that Spring offers. Peach blossoms and violets were peeping from every corner.

An appropriate program was rendered, as follows:

An accordion solo, "Heavenly Sun Light," Mrs. Rafe Richardson.

Kind words of welcome, Mrs. Carmack.

Vocal solo, Mrs. Skip Taylor.

Reading, "Make me thankful for this house," Mrs. Hensley.

Reading, "Home," Mrs. Woosley.

After this, the climax of the occasion was reached when Mrs. Richardson, a very dear friend, in her charming way presented "Granny" Calaway with the surprise, a beautifully decorated basket overflowing with gifts, was delivered by Mrs. LeMond and Mrs. Cates.

Each one present shed tears of joy as "Granny" expressed, in her own sweet and loving manner, her appreciation of her friends and their gifts.

"Bless your sweet souls! My friends are all so good to me!" she said as the guests were being shown into the dining room, where a lace-covered table was centered with a large punch bowl embedded in the center of a pink rosebud with dimly burning silver tapers. Fancy cookies and cake harmonized in colors. The table was presided over by Mrs. Woosley in her graceful manner.

Those present from a distance were: Her daughter, Mrs. Guy LeMond of Snyder; Mrs. F. H. Hancock, a twin sister; Mrs. Henry Heck and daughter, and Mrs. Veach, New Home; Mrs. Price Thomas and daughter, Grassland; Mmes. Pete Coleman, J. H. Edwards, Skip Taylor, Ovid Luallin, Alex Riddle, A. D. Seth, Rafe Richardson, J. H. McCarty, E. W. Hammond, and J. K. Woosley of Tahoka; Mrs. Maudeleen Crawford of Midland; Mmes. Tom Smith, Holloway, Walters, Giles, Jones, Hensley, Luttrell, Carmack, J. D. Crawford, Berry, Sewell, Grady LeMond, Tine Smith, Protor, McDonald, Cates, Hart, Williams, Pennington, Wallace, Herman Crawford, Opal Smith, Nordyke, Coursey, Cargile, Jackson, Pauline Smith, Nelson Sherrell and several others whose names we failed to secure, of Draw.—Contributed.

Competition

Perhaps if there is one thing in life that we have more difficulty avoiding than any other, that thing is competition. There is no place we can go nor is there any thing we can do that will not offer some semblance of competition. Some of us might at first count this a disadvantage, but if we think more diligently on the subject we will be able to see that competition is the life of all work. The thing that makes us want to make our work better is the spirit of competition in it, the chance to make our work better than that of our fellows. We can bring our thoughts closer to home. We are just on the verge of a long hard round of competition in many fields. With the coming of our annual County Meet, we have many opportunities for competing in contests. We hope to win many of our contests. We know that we cannot win all of them in the sense of getting first places, but we can win in the sense of knowledge of work well done and experience gained. Let us build character by the practice of all the rules of fairness and courtesy in all of our contests.

Organize "Loud Speaker"

In connection with their study of Parliamentary practice, the students of the Speech department have organized their "Loud Speakers" club. The students have had this club in the school for several of the past years. The following officers were elected:

President—Charles Gagnat.
 Vice-President—Hiram Snowden.
 Secretary—Lottie Jo Townes.

"My Home Town" Contest

By vote of the Speech class, Charles Gagnat is the representative of our school in the West Texas "My Home Town" speech contest. The contest will be in Brownwood in the month of April. We are expecting Charles to bring glory to his Home Town in this contest.

Interest Shown In Interscholastic League Work

Of late much interest is being shown in work for the Interscholastic League. This week we have had two chapel programs in which contestants in declamation, extemporaneous speech, choral singing, and the one-act play demonstrated their ability. These programs were well received by the student body, and

New "Super-Chief" for Western Run

THIS gleaming train, of lightweight, stainless steel will become the famous "Super Chief" of the Santa Fe railroad when it goes into service early in the spring.

The train, nine cars in length, now is under construction by the Edward G. Budd Manufacturing Company of Philadelphia.

Traversing the picturesque lands of the Navajo, it will take over the weekly run between Chicago and Los Angeles—a distance of 2,325 miles—and will cover the route on a schedule of 39 hours, 45 minutes.

Through use of lightweight construction principles, the new train will weigh only half as much as the train it will supersede and will be a radical departure from the conventional design of railway equipment.

The train will be Diesel powered. New features for comfort and convenience have been built into it and it will have a striking decorative design. The nine cars include five sleepers, cocktail and lounge car, baggage and postoffice car, dining car and an observation car.

Tankersleys Find Fish In The Pecos

C. T. Tankersley, Joe Tankersley, and Cody Bragg returned last Friday night from a fishing trip near Sanderson on the Rio Grande. They hit the river at a point which is infrequently visited by fishermen and had excellent luck. They caught a lot of fish, the finest specimen weighing 35 pounds.

Mr. Tankersley also reports that they saw some real scenery on this trip. The bluffs of the canyon where they did their fishing rise almost perpendicularly to an altitude of about 1100 feet above the bed of the river, he stated, and the adjacent country is about the roughest he ever encountered. The three men greatly enjoyed the trip.

Playground Ball Teams Win

Three out of four teams in high school and seventh grade won the right to represent this quadrant in the finals of the county meet. We are proud of these youngsters for the work they are doing. Let us hope they keep up their winning ways.

Volley Ball Girls Will Have New Suits

Due to the efforts of the volleyball girls and their coach in staging a couple of little tournaments in this popular sport our girls are to have new suits in which to play for the County Meet. We are proud of the showing these girls are making; especially when they played a good team from Brownfield last week in their tournament with them. Mr. Penn says that this was the best win of the year.

Tennis Entrants Showing Up

All of our entries in tennis save senior girls singles were fortunate enough to survive first rounds and are eligible to enter playoff in this event. It looks as if we stand a good chance to win some points in this event.

Debate Results Announced

In the first round of the County Debate tournament, the following results were had:

Tahoka girls are to be represented in finals along with the boys team from New Home. Their opposition for these final debates will come from both boys and girls teams of Wilson. Teams, both boys and girls, from O'Donnell won both third places. This contest was held last Saturday.

Button, Button

There are probably 50 or 60 billion buttons on clothes in American wardrobes and on American people, men averaging around 450 buttons each, women less than that. A man's business clothes are held on by about 30 buttons. A woman may have as few as none at all. And yet a good button is not nearly as common as one might think. It should have certain definite characteristics. The back, just behind the holes, should be reinforced or built out a little; the holes should have rounded edges so as not to fray the thread; and the bridge between the holes should be not too thin. These points any woman can detect for herself when she buys buttons; unfortunately, she cannot tell how the button will launder. Buttons are made of many substances—wood, leather, bone, plastic in gay colors, "vegetable" ivory, metals and cloth.

Many Throne Pretenders

Throughout the British Empire there are numerous small groups of Jacobites who, believing in the 248-year-old claim to the throne by the descendants of the exiled Stuarts, regularly meet and toast "the rightful king." Undoubtedly each group has its own particular pretenders, as a list of them contains more than 500 names, including those of a Glasgow grocer and a Hereford policeman.—Collier's Weekly.

Occupants of the Mayflower

The occupations of the Mayflower passengers included the following: Merchant, steward-servant, servant-man, servant-boy, ladies' maid, bound-boy, printer and publisher, physician, jailer, tradesman, wool carder, farmer, lay reader, silk worker, husbandman, carpenter, cooper, seaman. Some were at some time teachers, accountants, linguists, writers, etc. Some had formerly practiced handicrafts.

J. B. Walker left Wednesday for a week's work at Wichita Falls, where he will be associated with Claude Miller, father-in-law of Governor Allred. Mr. Miller was formerly a prosperous oil man but the tide turned and his property was swept away, and he now is in the employ of the state railway commission. He is said to be a most interesting character, and J. B. was looking forward to his week's work with a great deal of pleasure.

Midway

(Delayed)

Miss Mary Louise McDonald was given a birthday party Sunday by her mother, Mrs. W. P. McDonald. She celebrated her twelfth birthday.

The Midway girls and boys played Draw Tuesday in baseball and volley ball. The girls won the volley ball game, but the boys were defeated in baseball 16 to 17.

Miss Keeton spent Saturday night with Miss Nora Potter of Lubbock.

ATTEND CONVENTION

Judge P. W. Goad and commissioners George Small, Waldo McLaurin, and Tom Hale attended the county judges and commissioners association in Lubbock last Friday and Saturday. Judge Goad was lavish in his praise of the address made by Robert Lee Bobbitt, chairman of the state highway commission. By the way, Judge Goad and Mr. Bobbitt were boyhood friends in Hill county. Mr. McLaurin was a member of the resolutions committee at the convention.

SINGING AT NEW LYNN

There will be singing at New Lynn Sunday afternoon, March 28. Every one is cordially invited to come, especially out of community singers.

Mr. and Mrs. S. N. McDaniel left Monday on an extended trip and visit among relatives in South Texas. Among others, they will spend some time with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Anson Coughran and children at McAllen in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. They will also visit in San Antonio and at other points in that part of the state, and they could not foretell just how long they would be gone. Their daughter, Mrs. Homer St. Clair, is looking after the McDaniel residence and apartment houses during their absence.

Mrs. T. T. St. Clair, who has been here for some time visiting in the home of her son, Homer St. Clair, left Monday in company with Mr. and Mrs. S. N. McDaniel to visit another son, Hubert, at Bronte. Hubert is well known here, having been a teacher in the public school at one time.

T. C. Perry, who is engaged in mining and marketing the volcanic ash being taken from a lake seven miles south of Tahoka near Highway No. 9, made a business trip to Kansas the first of the week.

Mrs. Cecil Bradshaw of Meadow, who recently underwent a major surgical operation in the Treadaway-Daniell Hospital in Brownfield, is here spending the week with her parents, Judge and Mrs. P. W. Goad.

REV. SCAER WILL ATTEND LUTHERAN STATE MEETING

Rev. M. J. Scaer, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church of Wilson will leave for Houston next Tuesday to attend the annual synodical convention of the Texas District of the Lutheran Missouri Synod. About 300 pastors, teachers, and delegates will attend the week of sessions in Houston.

The convention's opening service will be held on Wednesday evening. Dr. J. W. Behnken of Chicago, former Houston pastor and prominent Texas church official, now national president of the Missouri Synod, will deliver the sermon.

Business sessions will begin on Thursday morning, with the annual president's message of Rev. C. M. Beyer of Wichita Falls, president of the Texas District. An unusually large portion of the synod's time will be devoted this year to the consideration of affairs pertaining to the young people of the church, according to President Beyer, who characterizes the coming convention as a "youth convention". Rev. Prof. O. P. Kretzmann of Chicago, executive secretary of the church's national youth organization, the International Walther League, will attend the convention to preach at the Sunday evening service of April 4 and to address the synod on the following day.

Rev. A. E. Moebus of La Grange has been appointed chairman of the committee on missions for this convention. Among the proposals to be passed on by this committee is a resolution from Houston congregations requesting the calling of a Spanish-speaking missionary to begin Lutheran work among the Mexicans of Houston.

Short-Lived Governments
France has had 100 governments—premiers and their cabinets—or an average of one every eight months since becoming a republic for the third time in 1871. Not one has served a full term of four years because each has been forced to resign the first time that one of its bills was voted down by the National Assembly, an act which is indicative of a lack of confidence in the cabinet. —Collier's Weekly.

Why Laxatives Fail In Stubborn Constipation

Twelve to 24 hours is too long to wait when relief from clogged bowels and constipation is needed, for then enormous quantities of bacteria accumulate, causing GAS, indigestion and many restless, sleepless nights. If you want REAL, QUICK RELIEF, take a liquid compound such as Adierka. Adierka contains SEVEN cathartic and carminative ingredients that act on the stomach and BOTH bowels. Most "overnight" laxatives contain one ingredient that acts on the lower bowel only. Adierka's DOUBLE ACTION gives your system a thorough cleansing, bringing out old poisonous waste matter that may have caused GAS pains, sour stomach, headaches and sleepless nights for months. Adierka relieves stomach GAS at once and usually removes bowel constipation in less than two hours. No waiting for overnight results. This famous treatment has been recommended by many doctors and druggists for 35 years. Take Adierka one-half hour before breakfast or one hour before bedtime and in a short while you will feel marvelously refreshed. At All Leading Druggists.

IMPROVED SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Dean of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.
© Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for March 28

JOHN'S RECOLLECTION OF THE RISEN LORD.

LESSON TEXT—John 20:19-29; 21:30-34.
GOLDEN TEXT—And when I saw him, I fell at his feet as dead. And he laid his right hand upon me, saying unto me, Fear not: I am the first and the last: I am that which liveth, and was dead; and behold, I am alive for evermore, Amen; and have the keys of hell and of death. Rev. 1:17,18.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Our Living Lord.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Eating Breakfast With Jesus.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Who Saw Jesus After His Resurrection?
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christ's Resurrection a Glorious Fact.

"The best authenticated fact in all history"—that is what competent historians have called the "resurrection of Christ. One of America's greatest legal authorities used it as an illustration of how properly to prove a fact in court. If anyone comes to this lesson with doubts about the bodily resurrection of our Lord, let him give himself to a study of the evidence. He will find it overwhelmingly satisfying and complete. That is as it should be, for the resurrection is vital to the completeness of man's redemption. Had Jesus died and remained in the grave, his claims would have been nullified; we should indeed have been "of all men most miserable" (I Cor. 15:19). But Paul goes on in triumphant faith, "Now is Christ risen from the dead." We have a resurrection faith, a living Saviour.

Our lesson brings before us our Lord in his post-resurrection appearance to his disciples, and a subsequent conversation with Peter. These verses fittingly tie up the resurrection of Christ with the life and service of his followers. Those who serve the risen Christ have an inward peace and an outward authority and power. Their convictions are based on the best of evidence and carry them forward to a life of personal responsibility and service. I. Peace (20:19-21). Peace of Soul is absolutely essential to useful and satisfied living. Only as we are "steadfast, immovable," can we be "abounding in the work of the Lord" (I Cor. 15:58). Steady at the center, active at the circumference.

II. Authority (vv. 21-23)
Commissioned and sent by the Son of God, clothed with Holy Spirit power, the Church of God has his authority. While some have read too much into verse 23, others have read out of it the real authority that God has given.

III. Conviction (vv. 24-29)
Thomas made the serious error of being absent from the gathering of the disciples when the Lord Jesus stood in their midst. Let those who commonly absent themselves from the place and hour of worship take heed lest they miss a blessing, and coming later add nothing to the spiritual life of the church, but rather become troublers and doubters. But God graciously turns the doubt of Thomas into a means of blessing to all of us who since then have read of his experience. Thomas was an honest doubter. God is always ready to meet such with satisfactory proof. The trouble is that there are so many in the world who use professed doubts to cover a life of sin.

Doubt may come to any man. In itself it is no sin. But to cherish it and hold to it in unbelief—that is a different matter. One wise spiritual leader rightly counseled his people, "Believe your beliefs and doubt your doubts. Never make the mistake of doubting your beliefs or believing your doubts." When Thomas saw the Lord, doubt rapidly changed to strong personal conviction and abandonment of himself to his Lord and Saviour.

IV. Responsibility (21:20-24)
This incident took place at a later appearance of Jesus to a smaller group of the disciples. The irrepressible Peter has, as usual, a question to ask. "What shall this man do?" It is a right thing to be concerned about the welfare of others, to see to it that they live right and do right. But there is in our relationship to God a primary personal responsibility, our own lives. The writer of the Song of Solomon (1:6) spoke a profound and deep-cutting word when he said, "They made me keeper of the vineyards; but my own vineyard have I not kept." Perhaps Jesus is saying to me, or to you, the solemn words that he spoke to Peter, "What is that to thee? follow thou me." Personal responsibility should be one of the most resultful factors in the making of manhood, as in the finding of salvation.

Duty and Honor
Despise danger and self-interest where duty and honor are concerned.—Selected.

Walking Gracefully—

Learn to Move About With Youthful Step and Fine Poise

By Lydia Le Baron Walker

EVERY person would like to be graceful, and recoils from being considered awkward. This attribute of grace is held in such high esteem that children are frequently sent to dancing school just to acquire it although they may never become exceptionally fine or professional dancers. They are taught poise and rhythm of motion that gives them the ability to move about with ease of body and grace of action.

Ungainly Gaits.
Knowing all this, it is odd that youths of today frequently have ungainly walks. This is instanced in girls especially. Older folk regret it when they themselves do not walk gracefully, and so eventually the young girls will also.

Promenades in Foreign Lands.
The art of walking gracefully is a matter of special attention in some countries. In Italy and many other foreign lands, the afternoon promenade is a function. Not to have a graceful gait is to mark one as awkward and conspicuous. The women from such countries are noted for their erect poise and fine carriage.

Acquiring Grace.
A graceful walk can be acquired by anyone who really wishes to be graceful on her feet, unless she has some pedal affliction. Ungainly gaits may be the result of heedlessness, badly fitting shoes or stockings, actual maladies of the feet, or poor poise. Once you know what is the hindrance to graceful walking, you can set about the task of overcoming it, gracefully.

Some Hints.
Throw the shoulders back, hold the head high, watch where you are going without keeping your eyes glued to the ground. Do not ape the stride of men, for their long steps are awkward for women. Learn to flex the knees slightly, not enough to cause you to bob up and down, but just enough to provide that springiness which is an indication of the suppleness of youth.

A Suggestion to Remember.
Do not throw the torso first into one hip socket and then the other. This is ungainly and is said to increase the size of the hips. The hint of a "swinging gait" with its buoyancy is desirable but, when exaggerated, this becomes a rolling walk, which is to be avoided.

Fishermen Visit, Fish In Mexico

That fishing party that visited Mexico last week, consisting of Joe, George, and W. T. Bovell, Skinner Connolly, J. L. Heare, and Charley Cargyle, brought back the evidence of their success. They arrived in Tahoka Sunday with about 200 pounds of fish, which they say they caught in the Sabinas River about 150 miles south of Eagle Pass. The largest fish they had was a cat weighing 40 pounds.

W. T. says that most of the soil they saw south of the Rio Grande apparently was very poor, though the country over much of the distance was comparatively level. They saw very few houses or other places of abode except in the villages. There are four villages between Piedras Negras, which lies just across the Rio Grande from Eagle Pass, and Sabinas, their destination.

How the villagers live was a puzzle to the American visitors. All the villages however are situated at irrigation plants, and the irrigation ditches wind through the villages, affording the inhabitants their water supply. W. T. says he saw no glass windows and no screen doors. Little patches are cultivated near the villages and are watered by irrigation. Walking plows and burros are used in cultivation of the crops. Burros and oxen are used to draw the carts and wagons along such highways as they have.

Sabinas is said to contain 25,000 people but it occupies an area about the size of Tahoka. At Sabinas, however, there is a big ice plant, operated by an apparently higher class of Mexicans than the ordinary villagers. Most of the men there and in the villages are idle and the numerous saloons are usually crowded full. W. T. says. How they procure their "pesos" with which to buy their food and clothing and drink is one of the unsolved problems, though, in addition to the little irrigated fields, the visitors did see an occasional flock of goats and sheep—and there are some cows too, but all the stock are very poor.

Only Mexicans may own land in that country and it may be a long time before it becomes modernized, but the boys declare it is a dandy good place to fish.

Mrs. Henry Lee, widow of the late Henry Lee, chief of police in the city of Fort Worth for many years, and her son and daughter-in-law, Captain and Mrs. Edward Lee were guests this week in the home of W. M. Lee of this city, brother of the deceased chief. They were accompanied by Ed Weatherford, also an officer. Captain Lee and Mr. Weatherford attended court in Tulsa Tuesday and Wednesday as witnesses for the State in a burglary case.

Bad Sandstorms Visit South Plains

Lynn county has been in the dust bowl the past two or three weeks. Sandstorms have been coming with monotonous regularity. In spite of the fact that there is a good season in the ground, the wind insists on picking up our rich real estate and wafting it through space at a terrific speed.

That sandstorm Tuesday blew the soil worse than any sandstorm we have had in two years, according to G. M. Reid, one of our rural mail carriers. The unplowed ground especially suffered, he says.

Democratic Book Sent To The News

The News force and families are indebted to Congressman George Mahon for a large and valuable volume entitled "The Democratic National Convention of 1936," but it is not a story of the Democratic National Convention at all.

Besides a brief history of the Democratic party, it contains chapters giving The Story of Congress, The Story of the Supreme Court, Business Progress Under Roosevelt, Democratic Presidents Preceding Roosevelt, information about all the Government departments and the various administrative boards and agencies, and much other valuable information, together with numerous photographs of men and women prominent in governmental affairs and in the public eye. In its 394 pages, 55 different topics are treated.

While the material is not free from partisanship and contains much propaganda, it is still a valuable asset to any office and especially to a newspaper office.

Mrs. B. A. Stafford of Mineola arrived Saturday to visit with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stafford for some time. Mr. Stafford is in the employ of an oil company which is making torsion balance tests in this county. Mrs. Stafford will be remembered by ex-students of West Texas State Teachers College as the wife of the late B. A. Stafford, professor in that institution for many years.
