Carmel Myers remains his only "pleasant memory" of the screen. "She moves so beautifully," he exclaimed. "She has a slender figure and is pleasant to work with."

Lillian Gish offended him . He designed simple costumes of plebian fabrics for a film in which she was to appear as a poor girl. But no, mademoiselle must have them all executed in silk, "for when she acts, even her skin acts with her," and where is the skin that would not act better with silk?

Rene Adoree refused to wear corsets which Erte insisted were necessary for a certain costume. "Can you imagine a woman not wearing corsets in an 1830 costume?" he asked.

BOLD VERNON HOLD-UP PLOT IS FRUSTRATED AS AUTOIST KNOCKS WOULD-BE ROBBER OFF HIS CAR

Bandit, Pistol in Hand, Orders Man to Drive Into Country

VERNON, Nov. 3.—W. P. Thomas today told how the hold-up intentions of a certain masked possessor of a revolver were brought to a sudden end about 10:20 o'clock Saturday night when revolver and possessor were hurled from the side of a moving automobile near Fair park. The would-be bandit, who had boarded Thomas' car downtown and ordered the owner to drive to Fair park, fired two shots as he was thrown from the car, but both missed the occupants.

The bandit began his operations in front of the Reese home on Texas street when Mr. Thomas and Miss Elizabeth Reese, returning from a show, left Mr. Thomas' car and started to the house. Wearing a blue handkerchief over his face and brandishing a revolver, the bandit ordered the two back in the car. Thinking some Hallowe'en reveler was playing a prank on him, Mr. Thomas at first disregarded the commands, but soon realized that the masked man was in earnest.

After boarding the fender of the car, the bandit still brandishing the revolver, ordered Mr. Thomas to drive toward Fair park. Arriving at the park, Mr. Thomas inquired as to which road to take, and the bandit pointed to the left with his revolver. When the revolver was pointed away, Mr. Thomas hurled the man from the fender. Two shots were fired in quick succession, one striking a light on the side of the car. The bandit crawled into the weeds and no trace of his has been found.

NEW VICTOR IS PRESENTED TO BIG AUDIENCE

Othophonic Machine Reproduces all Tones of The Human Voice

A capacity audience warmly applauded the first record played on the new Victor orthophonic phonograph last night at the Majestic theatre. By way of contract, the "Anvil Chorus" was played on the old type Victor phonograph and then the "Soldiers Chorus" from Faust was played on the new machine. The rich, full tones of the orthophonic were heard to the fartherest corners of the theatre.

The "Soldier Chorus" by the Victor male quartet was followed immediately by Tripoli, a band selection by Creatore's band. Each individual instrument was brought out distinctly. Many different type selections from jazz music to symphony selections were played during the evening and every type of music was reproduced faithfully.

The new invention has been developed largely by the telephone engineers of the Western Electric company and the secret of the marvelous results obtained rest largely in the specially constructed and enlarged sounding box. The principles and patents developed by the Bell Telephone company in its long experience in improving sound transmission have been made the basis of the new reproducing instrument, which gives forth tones with power and fidelity over nearly twice the range which the existing phonograph can compass. A large audience kept their seats until the last piece was played.

LYRICS OF LIFE.

By Douglas Malloch.

Some You Helped.

There are some you have amazed
With your cleverness of speech,
There are some who come and gazed
Wishing they the heights could reach,
There are some who felt your strength.
There are some who knew your power
But the twilight comes at length—
Ah, and at the sunset hour?

Then I think you will forget
Clever things you used to say;
Some of them you may regret,
Things that hurt a heart some day.
Strength will seem so little there,
Pow'r will seem a futile thing,
When the twilight comes to men.
Is there naught that night will bring?

Little then you will recall
Victories you once desired;
Once you saw the foeman fall,
Now your arm is old and tired.
Then another thought will come:
Tears of joy will fill your eyes,
Thanking God that there were some,
There were some you helped to rise.

Sun Company's Southwest Megargel Pool Has Six Wells Now

SIMMS TO TEST SAND AT 17-30 ON RICHARDSON

Upper Stratum Topped a Bit High May Make a Well On South Edge

SALTY TO NORTH

Sun Company Now Has Three Producers on Richardson Lease

Simms Oil company has set and cemented casing on an upper sand in their No. 1, W. T. Richardson, located in the northeast corner of the north portion of their lease in the T. E. L. Co. survey, block 2415, a south offset to the Sun Oil company's No. 3, Richardson, a yesterday completion. The sand is that tested by the Sun company in its discovery well which showed salt water, but the level at which it was found in the Simms well indicates a slight rise to the southeast from that location, and that, coupled with the report that Simms drilled seven feet of solid sand in the well is giving rise in some quarters to the expectation that the upper sand layer in the pool may prove productive, as has the lower.

Sun Core Was Salty.

Simms topped the upper sand at 1,417 feet and drilled ft to 1,430 feet, setting and cementing its casing above. A quarter mile to the north and a bit west Sun Oil company tested the same sand at 1,416-22 feet and showed salt water. A core in the sand at 1,428-30 in the Sun company's No. 3, offsetting the Sun company well to the north, showed white and salty.

Sun Oil company's No. 3 Richardson is the sixth completion in the field and was being swabbed yesterday and looking like possibly 75 to 100 barrels on the pump, sand at a depth of 1,445-52 feet. The well swabbed 100 barrels Monday night in about 12 hours. Sun Oil companys No. 4, Richardson, west of the discovery well was spudded and down 100 feet, while the rig off of No. 3 will be moved a location north for No. 5 between 2 and 3.

Gulf's well was swabbing yesterday and showing for 100 barrels. West of the Pandem well in the southeast corner of the old Litchfield-Kentucky twenty-six acres Globe Drilling company is rigging up for its No. 1, Young.

Six Wells Now.

The pool shows six wells now, three of which are Sun company's and should make about 300 barrels. One is Pandem's and should do 150 barrels on the pump, pulling having started there yesterday according to reports. Another is Pandem-Simms, a good 100-barrel well and the other Gulf's No. 1, Richardson, a probable 100-barrel producer.

There are three pipe lines in and building to the area now, Humble with a two in already running oil, Texas company with a four-inch line taking Pandems oil, and Gulf, building a line there.

The pool was discovered about four weeks ago by the Sun Oil company with its No. 1, Richardson, a location west of the northeast corner of block 2425, southwest of Megargel, southwest Archer county.

TRY SALTS IF KIDNEYS HURT

Drink Water Freely and Often to Keep Kidneys Flushed and Clean

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Too much rich food creates acids which clog the kidney pores so that they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood. Then you get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin to drink soft water in quantities; also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for years to help flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone can take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby often preventing serious kidney complications.—Adv.

The well was reported standing about a third full of oil yesterday from sandy lime at 2,360 feet, of which only a few feet had been drilled. The well is a half mile east of the old Beatty well.

Landreth's F-2 location west of the F-1, which is in the southeast corner of the west half of the southeast 40 acres of the southeast quarter of section 46, block 4, is on the sand and will set casing and test at a depth of 1,895 feet.

LAWYER TELLS OF WORK WITH RUM CLIENTS

Got 'em In Trouble, Then Got 'em Out, He Jests

A state-wide prohibition law that furnished "profitable litigation" in Oklahoma 12 or 15 years ago, was explained Tuesday to members of the Wichita County Bar association by F. W. Fisher, now an attorney here but who began his law career in Oklahoma City about the time that state enacted a bar on spiritis fermenti.

In Jocular Vein.

With much attention to detail, Fisher explained the lean and meager days of early practice; told how when booze was outlawed and bootlegging first ascended to the dignity of a lucerative business, he cultivated acquaintanceship with the more prominent members of the fraternity; took a remiss county attorney to task for not enforcing the prohibition laws; instructed him whom to enforce it against, and then collected his fees and got his clients out of jail. In the end, he intimated, he built up a pretty successful law practice.

Two readings were given by Miss Marguerite Fisher to the huge delight of the lawyers who listened to a Bowery Mike's recounting of "Hamlet" as he saw it at a "tee-ater." and then of the same gentry's idea of how Sampson and Delilah should be presented.

State Will Appeal Peninsular Decision

AUSTIN, Nov. 3.—(AP)—The state of Texas will appeal the "Gaillard peninsula" case of Harris county, in which it seeks to recover title to land which has sunk beneath the water, after extensive oil and gas drilling. Trial court held the submerging of the land was artificially produced, and not a process of nature. Assistant Attorney General R. J. Randolph announced several points remain to be cleared up and the case will be taken to the Galveston court of civil appeals.

DAN MOODY AND HIS RECORD.

If it be right, do it boldly; if it be rong, let it alone. This was the advice f a sage who dwelled among the ancient n an ancient land.

Walking in the middle of the broad ighway in quest of friends and fame nd fortune, Dan Moody first attracted he attention of the Texas public by fearss prosecution of men whom he believed ere law violators. This in the county of Villiamson.

His prosecution was both fearless and uccessful and as district attorney he laced behind the bars of the penitenary men who had been indicted for mob trages against their fellows. He did not employ pectacular methods. He went about his duty oldly.

He advised grand juries to return indictments on e evidence submitted. When those indictments ad been returnd, justic did not travel with a aden heel. Cases were not continued from term term.

All those who had been indicted were given peedy trials and the jurors in the cases returned peedy verdicts of guilty as charged according to e law and the evidence.

Then it was the friends he had won the state rer called upon him to become a candidate for ttorney general. It was urged against him by those ho found fault with his candidacy that he was too oung, and that his experience was as a prosecutor f criminal cases and not as a pleader in civil cases r as an exponent of constitutional laws.

These objections were brushed aside, and the emocrats of Texas by a large majority in the runff nominated Dan Moody for the office of attorney eneral. He had his detractors as a matter of ourse. All men have who do it boldly if it is ight, and if it is wrong, let it alone.

The people of Texas are familiar with the civil uits the attorney general has filed in the road ases, they are familiar with the many cancellaons of contracts that have been made as a result f the vigorous proceedings on the part of their ttorney general.

They are familiar with his trip to Kansas City nd his return to Texas with approximately $500,-00.00, which he turned into the treasury and which ne road contracting company had turned over to im until final action had been taken in the courts f justice of the state.

It must occur to the detractors of Dan Moody, ast and present, as to his youth, the fact that he ad a reputation alone as a criminal prosecutor and ot as a civil practitioner before his election to the igh office which he now holds, that if given a little ime the attorney general may demonstrate to the atisfaction of friend and foe, partisian and carping critic, that he is something of a civil lawyer as well as a most successful prosecutor of men who ad been charged with flagrant violation of the statutes of the commonwealth.

Youth, virile, ambitious, fearless and loyal to uty, is not a handicap and never has been since ivilization began, and it is always possible for a uccessful presecutor of wrong doers to win his spurs nd add to his achievements in other fields of enleavor where the followers of Coke and Blackstone attled for supremacy on the side of law and rightousness as they see it.

There are some few who are fast travellers; ther re others who will move along at a snail's pace.

It must be conceded that the attorney general of Texas has been a fast traveller in the very few years hat he has been before the people of his country and later before the people of Texas as a sworn official of the courts and the law.

HIGH TARIFF MEN WIN IN CANADA.

In the elections throughout Canada, the conservative party, lead by Arthur Meighan, overwhelmed and ousted the liberal government, headed by W. L. Mackenzie King. It was a waterloo for the liberals who swept the conservatives out of office four years ago.

King was defeated in his own district. Many liberal districts returned conservatives, and in some of the liberal strongholds which had been loyal to the liberals for years, the followers of prime minister King met with most humilating defeat.

The election in Canada followed a lively campaign with the tariff the principle issue. Conservatives demanded a definitely and consistently protective basis to shut out American goods and to force the manufacture of Canada's raw material in Canada, the progressive, mostly farmers from the western provinces, demanded a low tariff or none at all, while the liberals promised to maintain if continued in power, a tariff mid-way between the two extremes and which they argued had raised Canada from the depression from a few years ago to the moderate prosperity she enjoyed today.

Other issues, which, the tariff forced more or less into the background, were senate reform, tax reform, immigration and transportation. It was the purpose of getting a mandate to deal with these latter four important problems that Prime Minister King had the Canadian parliament dissolved in September and appealed to the people.

Now he has been voted out of power; now the high tariff politicians and advocates of Canada have been returned to power; now Canadians who believe that all Canadian raw materials should be manufactured in Canada and not exported to the United States and other nations are the victors while the free traders of Canada, voters who believe in reciprocity or friendly trade relations find themselves out of office, shorn of power and their proposals discredited for the present at least.

There are conservative politicians in Canada who would build a Chinese tariff wall sky high between Canada and the United States, and no doubt they would be justified if they carried their program to completion.

High tariff controls in the United States. All the republicans and many democrats are advocates of a high tariff and many would make it higher than it is today.

"Canada for the Canadians" was the war cry of Arthur Meighan and his lieutenant. It was a winning slogan, but will the victors put over the program.

Uncommon Sense

LAWS COME LAST

Since the beginning of the grace people have gathered together, established customs, and when the customs were fixed, put them into the form of laws.

The laws have always come last.

And as customs have changed, they have been amended, but never till people had ceased to regard the laws as binding.

The obedience of the wife was first enforced with the cave man's club.

In those days he spent his time hunting aurochs and other ferocious animals for food and clothing.

He had no time, and no inclination to do the cooking and the mending.

And not being very intelligent, he had not yet discovered that his wife probably had a better brain than he had.

So he used his club to enforce the family discipline, and by and by it became a sort of an unwritten law that the wife must obey her husband.

St. Paul makes a reference to the importance of husbands bidding their wives keep silence in the churches. He had the same idea of women as had the good bishops who caused the word 'obey" to be written into the marriage ceremony. This word was lately taken from the ceremony of the church in America, but not till long after wives had come to disregard it.

The law was a dead letter before the amendment was made. And it should have been a dead letter long before that.

Since the dawn of real civilization marriage should have been an equal partnership—a family counsel over family matters.

Always if the husband has the better brain he will dominate, but it is seldom that he has the better brain, for the women, because of her love for her children and her home thinks more than her husband, and it is thinking that develops the intellect.

In the countries which are the least civilized, the domination of the husband is the more pronounced.

And as enlightenment progresses, women are granted more freedom. Today even in Turkey they are beginning to understand that marriage is a partnership and not a form of the institution of slavery.

There is nothing very startling about the elimination of the word obey in countries where women have already gained the suffrage.

The change in the law does not mean a new era, but a formal recognition on the part of the authorities of an era that began a good many years ago.

For the law comes last.

Often it drags along far behind the customs of the country. There are some dead laws that have never been repealed, and may never be repealed.

But that does not make much difference, for in the main customs are on a par with the enlightment of a country, and what is regarded as right conduct is the best conduct that one can expect of the time.

We are glad that "obey" is stricken from the rites of one branch of a great church. But whether it had been takn out or not, intelligent women would have asserted their independence in all important matters in the family, for they have learned now that man is not rightfully their "lord and master."

WE GO

Time goes you say? Ah no!
Alas, Time stays, we go;
Or else, were this not so,
What need to chain the hours,
For Youth were always ours?
Time goes you say—ah no!
Ours is the eyes' deceit
Of men whose flying feet
Lead through some landscape low;
We pass, and think we see
The earth's fixed surface flee—
Alas, Time stays—we go!

These lines by Austin Dobson, Englishman, brought before Lorado Taft a picture which fancy speedily transformed into colossal work of sculpture.

His hand transformed it from fancy to the reality, his famous "Fountain of Time," situated at the Washington park end of the Chicago boulevard known as the Midway. It is one of the magnificent but neglected (by visitors, save Europeans) sights of Chicago, more expressive and articulate than many volumes of philosophy.

Time is represented here not as a flying figure, but as something still and perpetual, a rugged, mysterious shape, standing apart from and reviewing a procession of humanity which combines into a series of waves, "rising and falling in eternal motion from unknown to unknown."

Out of the mist at the right comes Man, primitive, naked, crouching, instinct with the strength and have savage virility of nature.

Successive figures, rise, stand erect, quarrel and progress.

A warrior on horseback flanked by banners and dancing figures forms the center of the composition. Before him marches a trumpeter, and above him floats banners with eagles on their tips. Under the billowing flags walk priests and scholars.

But with the warrior the downward curve begins, and the cadence of the whole group breaks up from the steady, rhythmic march of civilization into a more spasmodic wave motion.

Two lovers stand out, embracing, careless of what is coming.

Ahead totter an aged couple, supporting each other as they go.

Farther on the figures crouch again, with feebleness of age.

In the midst of them we see a dancing girl, beautiful, rhythmic, careless of everything to come.

At the end we see a man kneeling, terror-stricken as he gazes over the brink.

Next him lies an old man, his face worn with suffering.

Back of them comes a young woman, her head thrown back, reluctant. Behind her a young soldier falls to the ground his face hidden under his helmet.

The procession has passed on, while Time remains unmoved.

WHAT MITCHELL MEANS TO TEXAS

If, through the vagaries of army courtmartial, Col. William Mitchell should be transferred from Texas, this state would lose a great booster, although it is hoped that recommendations which he has made but which never have been recognized in Washington, will be acted upon favorably.

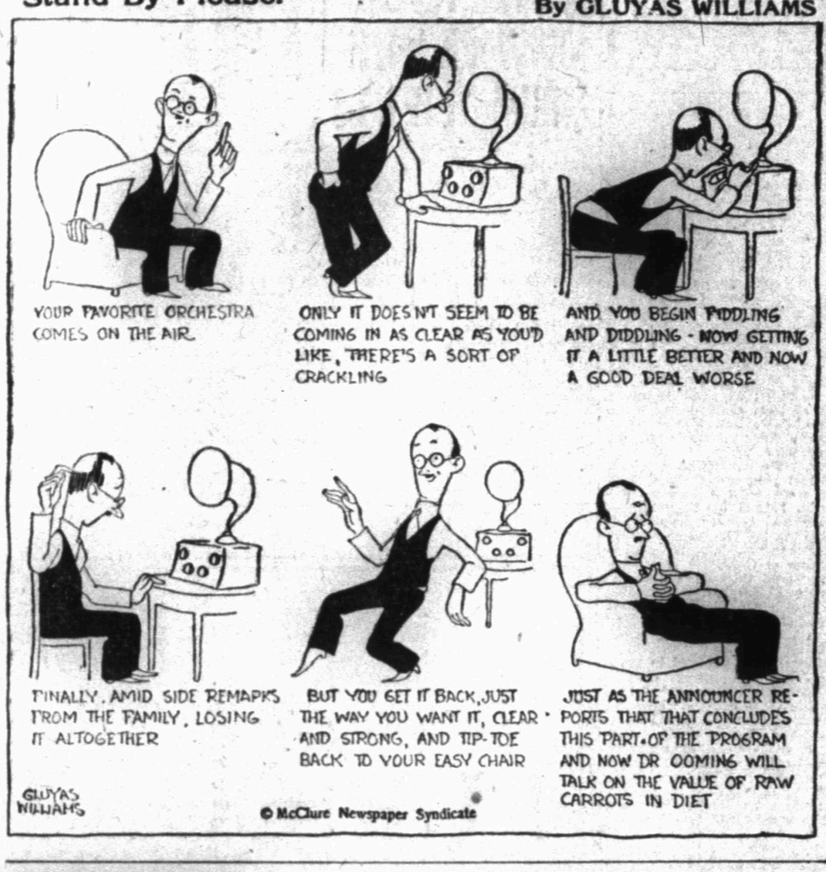

In Texas Colonel Mitchell visualized the greatest aeronautical center in the world but primarily the bulwark of this nation's fighting aircraft.

The stormy petrel revealed recently that he had recommended Texas as this concentration point but that his requests had never been acknowledged. His plan was to maintain an immense depot in this state where all-year flying conditions exist. In the event of attack army planes could be at either seaboard within 10 to 14 hours.

It was for such lack of response from the war department as explained above that Colonel Mitchell recently launched his attack, he declared at his trial, hoping that the publicity brought out would take his plea to the people, regardless of what punishment it meted to him.

In the evening, they are unfavorable and the vibrations are sluggish. During the afternoon, anything that savors of constructive effort is predestined to success, especially along mechanical or inventive lines. Agreements or contracts can be executed, and it is an exceptional opportunity for any correspondence of an important character. The rest of the day should be spent as quietly as possible, and all excitement should be avoided, and only duties of a routine character should be prosecuted.

Children born today will suffer, during infancy, from their "ups and downs," but, given proper care and well-regulated alimentation, there is no reason to despair of physical normalcy. Temperamentally, they will leave much to be desired. They will show little or no consideration for others, and unless checked, will grow up to be selfish and self-seeking. They will be evasive, and lack that frankness and openness, which so often breeds forgiveness and commands admiration. They will be very painstaking, quick to learn, and fond of study. It is quite within the probabilities that they will be successful, but, if so, it will not be surrounded with that glamor that sanctifies the success of those who have been unselfish and considerate.

If today is your birthday, you are easily satisfied, as you lack ambition—the great urged to effort and, incidentally, very often the result of discontent. You are stubborn, and, at times, obstinate, and can not see the value of an opponent's logic if it be opposed to your own particular brand. You are easily influenced by externals, and, although you set no store on them for yourself, you give an undue appreciation of them in others.

POEMS THAT LIVE

FORGET ME NOT

Go, youth beloved, in distant glades,
New friends, new hopes, new joys to find,
Yet sometimes deign, 'midst fairer maids,
To think of her thou leav'st behind.
Thy love, thy fate, dear youth, to share,
Must never be my happy lot,
But thou mayst grant this humble prayer,
Forget me not, forget me not.

Yet should the thought of my distress
Too painful to thy feelings be,
Heed not the wish I now express,
Nor ever deign to think of me;
But, oh, if grief thy steps attend,
If want, if sickness be thy lot,
And thou require a soothing friend;
Forget me not, forget me not.

HOW IT STARTED

PORCELAIN

The existence of porcelain, fine bric-a-brac, lusteware and china which adds so much color and beauty to modern homes, we owe to the Chinese. For it was in China that the secret was discovered of making porcelain, as these fine products are called to distinguish them from the coarser potteries; and it was centuries before porcelain was made in Europe. Specimens of Chinese porcelain going back as far as the Fifteenth century which is a few hundred years earlier than the appearance of porcelain in Europe, are still in existence.

Porcelain is the product of two substances or clays ,known as kaolin and petuntse and its prolific manufacture in the China of centuries ago was no doubt due to the existence of these clays in China in great quantities. This is borne out by the reference of Marco Polo, who in the Fourteenth century writes of a city in China which he calls Tin-Gui, where the natives collected a certain clay out of the ground and exposed it in heaps for forty years, when it was ready to be wrought into the cups and bowls and dishes, the manufacture of which he says, occupied the entire city.

The first procelain produce is Europe dates from 1709 when experiments t imitate the then popular Chineses wares were begun at Meissen near Dresden, Germany. Its success is said to have been due to an accidental discovery of the necessary kaolin and the beautiful product took the name of "Meissen" by which it is known today.

In 1769 a similar industry was started at Sevres, France, which also names now one of the finest procelains known. Then came the English procelain with which all lovers of fine pottery are familiar.

SYNOPSIS

Connemara Moore, finding herself on a yacht in Long Island Sound after midnight, attempted to leap overboard, but was restrained by one Pooch, a stranger. Then McTish, the skipper, falls Pooch for annoying her. In the bow of the boat Connemara is amazed to find young David Lacy, with whom she had driven from Aunt Celimena's Connecticut home. He had been spilled in an automobile accident and is now in the company of two mysterious characters, "Doc" and "Sweetie."

CHAPTER VIII—Continued

"Shut up, Doc, you're all wet!" called the lady weakly, sitting up on the deck. This was a true statement, however she meant it.

"Are you all right, Sweetie?" asked the big fellow anxiously.

"K. O.!" responded the girl tersely. "Where's the guy we had with us?"

"I hope he's drowned!" was the unfeeling answer. "The Big stiff—he was a Jonah! Hey, who's in charge of this tub?" he added to McTish.

McTish turned to look at Lacy, who, rope in hand, was in controversy with Mr. Pooch.

"Stick out your arms like a nice little boy," suggested Lacy. "I'm going to tie you up in a neat little package and ship you somewhere where you'll be more appreciated!"

Mr. Pooch slowly arose to his feet. He surveyed the slighter man contemptuously and then his roving eyes took in the little group in the bow who were watching the tableau with various emotions. As his glance fell on Connemara, his eyes brightened. Mr. Pooch had a one-track mind.

Lacey dropped Mr. Pooch to the deck.

"Gimme that fifty grand!" he demanded hoarsely, staggering toward her. The big man and his girl companion started and looked at each other significantly.

"Do what you're told!" exclaimed Lacy impatiently—and dropped Mr. Pooch to the deck with a perfectly timed left hook. Immediately stooping, he began the process of tying up his victim.

"Where's that gun?" whispered Doc, shaking Sweetie's arm.

"I lost it when this scow hit us," Sweetie answered — then warned, "don't start nothin' you can't finish, Doc!"

Ignoring her advice, Doc strode over to Connemara and grasped her arm roughly. "So you did get the jack, hey?" he growled. "Well, that makes things easier. Gimme that dough or I'll croak you!"

Lacy reached Connemara's side as though shot from a cannon and while Sweetie's warning shriek was still on the air, his right fist shot out and thudded against Doc's jaw. But Doc did not go down, a la Pooch. Instead, he returned the compliment with much vigor. In another instant the two men were threshing about the rolling deck, while McTish, in response to Mr. Lacy's shouted command held the struggling, clawing, howling Sweetie, with both arms tightly pinioned at her sides. From his prostrate position on the floor, Mr. Pooch watched the proceedings with mournful interest.

A fortunate blow from Lacy, who even to Connemara's inexperienced eyes seemed to be something of a boxer, sent Doc crashing to the deck. The big man's head struck a projection with a resounding and soul-satisfying bump. He lay still and unresisting as Lacy deftly bound him and with the help of McTish rolled him alongside Mr. Pooch. Released during the process, Sweetie leaned against the rail and glared at each in turn.

"If I don't tie you, will you make an atemtpt to act like a lady?" Lacy asked the girl.

"Leave me and Doc go and we'll call it a night," answered Sweetie, apparently succumbing to Mr. Lacy's smile. "Tomorrow's another day!"

"And you may put me ashore also, while you're about it!" broke in Connemara, annoyed at the half-admiring glance Sweetie bestowed on Lacy.

Lacy let out a few more inches on his smile and surveyed both girls thoughtfully.

"I cannot leave you young ladies as abruptly as that," he said. "You have interested me strangely—eh, Sister?—while you, Sweetie, made a decided impression on me back there in the dory!" And he rubbed a noticeable lump on his head gingerly.

"What are you going to do with us?" asked Connemara anxiously. The mocking light in his eyes disturbed her.

"I will decide that later!" he answered mysteriously. "Just now I want to know who you all are and what this inane nonsense is all about!"

"Well, first," smiled Connemara, "you can take this beastly money. That may prevent any further attempts on my life!"

Lacy stared at the bundle of banknotes in her outstretched hand. So did Mr. Pooch and Doc. Mr. Pooch emitted a baffled groan and rolled on his side, as if to hide the scene from his view. Doc, who was swearing with great heartiness, stopped abruptly.

"I don't want this. What is it—how much?" asked Lacy.

"It's more than I'm going to be responsible for," said Connemara firmly. "Please—please—just stick it in your pocket—or anywhere."

"Well," said Lacy, "it's very irregular, but I'm always anxious to do what a lady requests."

He took the money and stuffed it carelessly in the pocket of his wet coat. As he did so out of the darkness came a gruff hail. A shapeless hulk grated against the yacht's side.

CHAPTER IX

Sophie Kerr

By Sophie Kerr

McTish and Lacy, Connemara and the Sweetie person, were galvanized into attention and rushed to the rail. Pooch and Doc could do nothing but stretch their necks anxiously in the direction of the hail, and squirm uneasily.

"Ship aho-o-o-y!" sang out Lacy. "Look out, you'll run us down, you poor goofs. What're y' doing? Where's your lights?"

There was silence for a moment, and then the voice, much less gruff, came from the darkness, accented in amazement: "By the great horn spoon, that's Dave Lacy and his old tub, the Bloody Nuisance. Dave, you scoundrel, what are you doing here?"

"Listen—say!" Lacy's voice was just as much amazed, and quite hilariously joyful. "Why, Bob Mer——"

"S-s-s-s-t!" said the other voice, sharply. "Don't call my name! I'm looking for somebody, somebody in a little foolish boat, maybe two of them, sneaking round these waters and being as inconspicuous as possible. Seen anything like that tonight?"

"I've only been aboard a few minutes. I'll ask McTish. What about it, Mac?"

"Not a sign nor a sound," declared McTish. "And I've been on the lookout too."

"Oh, damn!" went on the unseen voice. "Just my rotten luck. Say, Dave, you going to anchor here?"

"I might, if there was any inducement," said Lacy. "Why don't you come on board? I've got Scotch and rye."

A low groan of anguish burst simultaneously from Doc and Pooch at this announcement.

"I'm going to take a little quiet run round, for half an hour or so, but I'll be back and go you a couple down the hatch," said the voice. "You stick right here, old son, and wait for me. And keep a weather eye out for any little boats with two or three people in 'em. If any such come round, and you can inveigle the folks on board, lay 'em out with a marline spike."

"Who is yon talkative laddie buck?" asked McTish sourly, as the boat beside them slipped away quietly into the night.

W. F. WOMEN TURN TO CHURCH WORK

School PTA Activities Claiming Attention

By PEGGY PIEDMONT.

WICHITA FALL'S women observe "church day." Monday is set apart by local women as the day when church work will be done to the exclusion of everything else if it happens to conflict with their duties to the church. It is the day when they usually attend some sort of circle, division, aid or missionary meeting, where working plans are laid for bake sales, rummage sales and Christmas bazaars.

AT the meeting of the First Christian Woman's Missionary society held at the church yesterday, 25 women from Electra attended. All day meetings were held at both the First Baptist and Floral Heights Methodist churches, also a general aid meeting at the Grace Methodist, besides numerous circle and division meetings.

Mrs. Fred Barron, president of the Woman's Auxiliary of the First Baptist church says "a very fine spirit prevails among the women of the church. We have recenty sent several good boxes of clothing and other things and made special free-will offerings for Buckner's Orphan home.

Wichita Falls women all do church work. Or rather the greater majority of them do. And while there are more study clubs here than are in any other Texas city except Dallas, church work holds first place.

AT the general aid meeting held at the Grace Methodist church, with the chairman, Mrs. J. T. Ritchey in charge, the women planned a bake sale to be held Saturday and a bazaar to be held the first week in December. A floral committee for the year was named with Mrs. C. B. Jetter, chairman, and Mesdames M. E. Carey, J. H. Simmons, G. I. Dorrance. Mrs. O. W. Ross was made chairman of the parsonage committee with Mesdames J. H. Parker and W. W. Swartz. Mrs. Jetter and Mrs. Ritchey compose the jail committee.

CIRCLE ONE of the Grace Methodist Aid society elected new officers in which Mrs. C. F. Watson was made chairman, Mrs. W. L. Dalton, secretary and Mrs. G. W. Lobaugh, treasurer. New officers for Circle Three, are Mrs. C. A. Andree, chairman; Mrs. G. E. Friberg, assistant chairman, Mrs. M. E. Carey, secretary and Mrs. J. J. imon, treasurer.

Next to church work, Wichita Fall' women are probably more interested in the schools than in any other one thing. The Parent-Teachers associations are fairly seething with activity this year. Keeping the comfort and well being of the child uppermost in their minds. Members of the various P. T. A.'s are leaving nothing undone in the way of providing necessary equipment in the schools.

THE music memory contest which is a feature of each term, is almost at hand, and the Barwise P. T. A. have already given an entertainment which netted them about $20 with which they bought music memory records for the school victrola. Friday night, the Pat Carrigan P. T. A. will sponsor an entertainment which will include a program of comic plays drills, folk songs and dances. The proceeds from this, to be used by the club for school equipment.

The high school Parent-Teachers club will meet in the auditorium of the Junior college, Thursday, and Friday afternoon the Alamo Mother's club will meet.

County Judges Ask Low Orient Taxes

AUSTIN, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Grading scale of assessment against the Orient railroad, will be recommended to the commissioners court by the judges of 18 counties which the road traverses. Lon A. Smith, railroad commissioner, said today. He returned from a meeting of the judges at Sweetwater. The assessment would be for three years.

For 1925, under the agreement made, the Orient will be assessed $2,000 per mile; for 1926, $2,500, and for 1927, $3,000 which is satisfactory to the Orient officials Commissioner Smith said. Previously the assessment ranged from $1,500 to $6,000 per mile.

How to stop BOILS!

There's only one way to stop boils. Stop the cause of boils! That's common sense—isn't it? All right. Boils thrive because the blood gets so weak in healthy, red cells that it can't throw off the impurities that get into the body. There's not enough rich, red blood to purify the system.

Now—S. S. S. builds back the blood to fighting strength. S. S. S. builds red-blood-cells—builds them by the millions! Boils dry up!

S. S. S. is the thing. Impurities that cause boils and other skin eruptions can't stand up against the rich, healthy, red blood that S. S. S. builds. That's all there is to it.

Stop boils with S. S. S. It's the way. Get it at any druggist. The larger bottle is more economical.

DOROTHY DIX ADVICE

Don't Marry Until You Have Had Your Playtime And Know What Sort of a Husband You Want For Keeps—And When You do Marry Be a Good Enough Sport to do Your Part Without Whining

The other day a girl of 18, tired of being what she called "a married slave," committed suicide. Investigation showed that her husband was a kindly, worthy young man, as far removed as possible from being a domestic tyrant, and that the wife's slavery consisted merely in her having to take care of her home and her baby.

But she rebelled against doing this. She didn't want to be tied down with a child. She loathed cooking and sewing and mending and dusting and all household duties. She longed to be free to gad the streets and go joyriding with other youngsters. She wanted to spend her evenings going to movies and jazzing in cabarets, instead of being a fireside companion to her husband, and walking the colic. And because she couldn't devote all of her time to amusing herself, life was worthless to her and she threw it away.

The tragedy of this poor, little silly girl has two lessons in it which I commend to the consideration of all other flappers. The first lesson is a warning against the folly of early marriage.

The girl who marries too soon almost invariably wrecks her life. Not once in a hundred times does the early marriage turn out successfully.

To begin with, the girl of 16, 17, or 18 has the unformed tastes of a child. She has no more idea of what sort of a man she is going to want and admire when she is 25 than she has of what kind of a hat she is going to want. The boy who fires her fancy when she is a schoolgirl bores her to tears when she is a mature woman.

Practically no woman who failed to marry her first sweetheart ever meets him again without feeling like falling on her knees and thanking God for her miraculous escape.

There is no use in saying that the girl who marries in her teens will be developed by her husband and grow into being just part of him. That isn't true. A girl develops into what nature made her. Heredity and early environment have settled that point, and it is sheer luck if she and her husband are congenial after she has grown up. Generally they are not.

Then the tragedy comes in, when the young wife has grown sick and tired of the man who was once her girlish fancy finds the man who is her real mate, and with whom she falls in love with all the passion of her mature woman's heart.

The girl who marries too young is miserable and dissatisfied because she has not had her playtime. She is not ready to settle down. She wants to dance and frolic and have a good time. She wants the admiration of men, and it is her reaching out after the pleasure of girlhood that she has no right to, as a married woman, that fills the world with quarreling young couples, and clogs up the dockets of thedivorce courts.

They are more to pitied than blamed, these poor young creatures who have taken burdens upon themselves that their young shoulders are not strong enough to bear; who are not old enough to have acquired a philosophy to meet their daily needs, and who are crushed by duties and responsibilities they are too immature to have assumed.

To the girl mother a baby is an unwelcome brat that interferes with her going to dances. Her home is a prison, her housework slavery. To the mature women who had had her fill of playing a baby is God's benediction on her home a palace of dreams come true and her housework a labor of love.

"There is a time for everything, says the Good Book. Especially there is a time for marrying and if girls would only wait to marry until they are ready for it, it would do away with half the domesttic discord of the world.

The first lesson, then, in the story of the girl who killed herself because she could not endue the slavery of having to take care of her home and her baby is not to marry until you have had your play time and are ready to settle down.

The second lesson is to realize that marriageis a working partnership in which thewife must do her part just as much as the husband must do his.

A lot of girls don't think of this. They think of marriage as being all beer and skittles for them. They think that it emancipates them from mamma's control or frees them from having to punch the time clock in a store or office, and that it gives them a free meal check and shopping ticket for life.

They never think of the obligations it lays upon them or of any return that they must make to their husbands for all that their husbands do for them. Nothing is more common than to hear women complaining about having to do their housework and of how troublesome their children are. They pose as martyrs to their families.

It does not seem to occur to them that they are merely doing their part in life, that they are only performing the duties they undertook when they got married. They work no harder than their husbands do, yet you rarely hear a man asking for the sympathy of the public because he has to toil to support his wife and children. Sill less does he consider himself a slave.

So the moral of this story is—don't marry until you are ready to go about the real business of life, and when you do marry be a good enough sport to do your part without whining.

SOCIETY

USHERING in the November social season, Mrs. G. D. Anderson and her daughter, Mrs. Landon H. Cullum entertained at tea at the Wichita club Tuesday afternoon, complimenting Mrs. G. D. Anderson Jr., a recent bride, and Miss Ona Astin of Bryan, house guests of Mrs. Cullum, with one of the largest and most elaborate affairs of the autumn.

A pretty color scheme of orchid and pink was carried out in the decorations of cut flowers, palms, ferns and plume chrysanthemums which were arranged in baskets in every nook and corner. The tea tables were especially beautiful with center pieces of Kilarney roses, azuratum and candles in silver holders. Tea was poured by Mesdames J. A. Richolt, M. M. B. Darnell, H. B. Patterson and A. H. Carrigan.

The guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. J. T. Montgomery and other members of the house party were the hostesses and honorees and Mesdames Charles Clough, H. B. Patterson, M. M. B. Darnell, L. B. Stringer, Lee Haney, C. W. Stevenson, C. V. Lomen, M. Gaffney, J. E. Dillard, M. M. Adickes, P. P. Langford, Paul Scott, William Bonner, J. W. Stringer, Martin Rowe, J. J. Perkins, R. O. Harvey, C. Lovely music was played softly by an orchestra, and Mrs. G. D. Anderson wore a handsome afternoon gown of sea swallow gray velvet embroidered in silver. Mrs. G. D. Anderson Jr., wore her wedding gown of satin and lace, hand embroidered and with pearl trimmings; Mrs. Cullum wora peach colored georgette embroidered in crystal beads, and her house guest, Miss Astin wore a gown of silver and pink lace embroidered in crystal beads and rhinestones.

SUB ROSA BY MIMI

Why Always Blame the Other Woman.

That other woman! Hear the abuse and condemnation poured upon her head by the women whose men she's vamped away.

"She was a wicked and designing creature and she used every effort to get him away from me," writes a deserted m aiden. "I feel sure there is some punishment coming to her here on earth for what she did to me. She simply ensnared my poor sweetheart."

Not a word against the sweetheart—only pity for him. Just harsh words for the awful woman who won him away.

Why do girls always rail dramatically against the siren who attracts their men?

Does it ever occur to you, oh deserted damsel, that if your particular man had been absolutely totally gone on you, he wouldn't have noticed the wiles of the vamp?

A man who is deeply interested in a book doesn't notice a knock on the door or a voice calling him to come to dinner.

And the good old faithful suitor with strict ideas about loyalty and fair play and all that sort of thing won't be lured astray by an unusually pretty pair of eyes.

If your sweetheart or fiance has gone a-wandering, ask yourself whether you perhaps ought not to be grateful to that other woman for opening your eyes to something about him which might have proved tragic after marriage.

There are a number of girls in the world who enjoy vamping for its own sake—they can't help it. In the end, they don't get much fun out of it, but while they're young, their chief delight in life is colecting men and loveletters and fraternity pins.

There is not particular use in being angry at them—or vindictive. You can't teach them a lesson that will last so you might as well leave them out of the picture entirely.

But you can get a very good angle on your Mr. Man if he chances to be one of the siren's victims.

That tells you that he is either weak, a fool, a flirt, or not in love with you. Either way you're wise to something you didn't know before.

If he's weak or a fool you'll probably take him back (women always do)—but you'll know him well enough thereafter not to expect the undeviating loyalty of your Ideal.

If he's a flirt and you take him back, you've a rough road of matrimony before you.

And if he's not in love with you, you can't get a chance to take him back.

All in all, you ought to be a bit grateful to that other woman. She's a sort of test by which you can judge how much of what he tells you is the truth—how much, appleasauce.

If he passes the test, you're on top of the world. If he fails, you're a wiser girl—and every little bit of wisdom helps in the game. You may have a heart-ache at first, but in the end you'll have a firmer, more secure happiness.

More Truth Than Poetry

REAL STRATEGY

We never have penned any lays
  In behalf of the Soviet stuff,
We always have held that their ways
  Were—well, say a little too rough.
They can shoot people up, when things get in a mess,
  But that method a little bit crass is,
What they never have showed, up to date, is finesse
  In handling the troublesome masses.

But now they display, we admit
  A scheme that has offered some hope
Of curbing the public a bit,
  Without either bullets or rope.
They've adopted a means to diminish the chance
  That the moujiks will ever resist 'em,
By sending to Germany, England and France
  And buying a telephone system.

Hereafter the troublesome kind,
  Instead of collecting in halls,
A cause of rebellion to find
  Will be putting in telephone calls.
And the spirit that now is arousing unrest
  Perforce for a long time will slumber,
While the men who possessed it are doing their best
  To get from the girl the right number.

No people, however uncouth,
  A great deal of havoc can raise
When they spend in the telephone booth
  The far greater part of their days.
We at last raise our hats to the Soviet crew,
  And we trust that their troubles grow lighter—
They still are not easy to love, it is true,
  But they're growing a little bit brighter.

TOP O' MORN STUFF
By Blondy Cross.

The Southwest conference has its own ideas, and very unique too say the least, about scoring tie games in the percentage column of the organization. The standing was sent out of Austin yesterday, over Associated Press wires giving A. & M. 1,000 per cent with two conference victories, but Texas university drew only a .750 figure with one victory and a tie.

* * *

In other words, your tie games count a half game against you instead of being listed as nothing at all as is done in every conference over the nation and all baseball leagues.

* * *

For illustration, let us take two teams, say Baylor and S. M. U., with each playing four conference games during the season. Suppose the Mustangs defeats Arkansas, T. C. U., and Rice, but lose to the Bears. That would give S. M. U. a .750 average at the close of the race. Baylor plays A. and M. and Texas, and finding the opposition rather tough, manages to squeeze through with a pair of tie games. That's quite possible. There have been similar instances. The Bears then beat Rice and S. M. U. Then, according to the conference way of figuring, although the Bears went through an undefeated season and beat the Mustangs, the two teams would be tied for the championship.

* * *

STEER OUTLOOK

Should A. and M. continue on its winning ways this year and then be upset Thanksgiving Day in conflict with the Longhorns, Texas, providing Doc Stewart's outfit topple the Bears this week-end, would be a conference champion by a fractional game margin. A. and M. has five games on its schedule. The Aggie percentage would be .800, the Steers' .875. Doc's men playing only four. But, according to this form of calculation, counting tie games as half games, should Baylor manage to tie the varsity Saturday, all hopes of a championship for the Longhorns would be lost. The Aggies are doped to beat T. C. U. and Rice, their remaining games before playing Texas. Then should the Longhorns beat the farmers, the Aggie eleven with four victories and one loss against the average of the undefeated Texas team, which beat the Aggies, would be crowned confetence kings.

* * *

The Aggie percentage would be .800 against Texas' .750. Had the Steers billed five conference tilts, tied two and won the rest including the Aggie encounter, the championship would be called a draw although one of the even-Stephen aggregations had defeated the other.

* * *

Such figuring as that would insure immunity for the rest of the conference from the strong defensive club which little by little builds up a driving attack that climaxes the season with two or three victories to top off earlier tie games.

* * *

It would be mighty hard to convert followers of an eleven who beat the conference "champion" under this system into believing their team in reality was not the championship aggregation.

* * *

This may or may not insure a better brand of football, this docking a team a half game for every draw encounter.

* * *

But it certainly cannot keep a club from stumbling into a let down following a stiff pace set in earlier contests, and being held to a tie score by some fluke or excessively hard playing of a weaker team.

* * *

Since recent announcement of players drafted by the Texas league this year, stove leaguers have been asking for a bit of dope on them. We gave you a complete record Tuesday of R. F. Trexler, outfielder drafted by the Spudders. There follows a bit of dope of the rest of the lot:

Fort Worth—Ralph Brandon,, catcher, from Ottumwa of the Mississippi Valley league, Class D, hit .261 in 104 games. T. O. Farrell, pitcher, from Winston-Salem of the Piedmont league, Class C. He won nine games and lost seven out of the 24 games he played in.

Shreveport—Robert Lennox, second baseman from Winston-Salem, but played under option with Durham of the Piedmont league, Class C. He batted .301 in 114 games. Ed Donovan, first baseman, from Williamsport in the New York-Pennsylvania league, Class B. He hit .344 in 114 games.

Houston—J. W. Jones, outfielder, from Spartenburg of the South Atlantic league, Class B. Hit .352 in 125 games. Lahaie, pitcher, from London of the Michigan-Ontario league, Class B. He won 19 games and lost nine in 27 games. William Coogan, pitcher, from London of the Michigan-Ontario league, Class B. He won 24 games and lost 11 in 41 games. TRINITY AFTER CHAMPS.

BROWNWOOD, Texas, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Trinity university's gridsters will meet Howard Payne's team here Wednesday afternoon in a contest that will signify in large measure the 1925 T. I. A. A. championshpi. Howard Payne won the title last year. Although the Trinity Tigers have never beaten a Howard Payne eleven, the Waxahachie team has the edge on their foe in this season's play. Last year Howard Payne unmercifully whipped Trinity, 26 to 0, and many of the same faces will be in the line-up determined to avenge that defeat.

M'DONALD, BUCKNER, WOLFE, WARREN SMEAR AROUND AND OVER HAWK DEFENSE AT WILL

Heavier Burk Crew Scores 35 Points in First Half, Second Stringers 13 in Final Periods

Iowa Park's assault on the Bulldog storonghold at Burkburnett Tuesday was turned into a wild rout when Ludgate's machine, displaying an almost perfect steam roller and running attack, forced Brewster's Hawks into the defense and then snapped that defense, penetrating it at random for an overwhelming victory. The final score was 48 to 0 Burkburnett.

Johnnie McDonald, Fene Buckner, Mitchell Wolfe and Blackie Warren rit through the Iowa Park line in the first half and piled up a 35 to0 score. Iowa Park held Burk's second string to 13 points in the second half.

The Bulldogs were dubbed with penalties that ran up to 112 yards as a grand total, while the Hawks received but one five-yard setback. The many penalties apparently failed to hamper the Bulldogs, and were made up with long runs through the light Hawks line which tried in vain to stop the furious onslaughts.

With a powerful forward wall opening holes, and picking them with ease the Bulldog backs rattled off several long gains that ran from five to 25 yards in length. The Hawks did very little damage during the first half, but were better able to advance in the final two periods. Burkburnett crashed through for 21 first downs, while Iowa Park made but wo.

Burkburnett at the start of the game kicked to Burney on the Iowa Park ten-yard line. He returned the ball to the 25-yard line. Burney then made five yards in three attempts at the line.

Enloe booted the ball to Warren on the 20-yard line, who returned the ball 20 yards to the Burkburnett 40-yard line. Blackie Warren crashed through left tackle for 25 yards. McDonald came back with 25 more around the left end. Warren then ploughed left tackle for ten yards and a touchdown. Wolfe kicked the goal.

Later in the quarter Burkburnett took a punt on the Iowa Park 25-yard line and buncked down the field to a touchdown. McDonald made six yards through left tackle. Warren made three yards through center. Burkburnett was penalized five yards for having backfield in motion. Wolfe brushed the left tackle for six yards. Warren made four yards at center. Wolfe lost one yard on a run around the right end. McDonald ploughed through left tackle for seven yards and a touchdown. They failed to make the extra point.

22 Points in Second Period.

In the second quarter the Bulldogs went wild and piled up 22 points. They opened the attack on their own 25-yard line. McDonald skirted left end for 17 yards. Warren went around right end for five more. Wolfe made 10 yards around left end. Buckner came around right for five more. After pulling four long end runs in a row, McDonald went through center for six yards. Warren made six yards through left tackle. Burkburnett was penalized five yards for backfield being in motion. McDonald made 14 yards around the right end. Wolfe started as if to skirt the left end of the line, but cut back through the Iowa Park defense for a touchdown. They failed to kick the goal.

3 Plays and a Score.

Another march down the field after taking another punt on the Iowa Park 43-yard line resulted in a touchdown in three plays. Buckner made four yards through center. Trask went through left tackle for 10 yards. Johnnie McDonald broke loose around the right wing for 30 yards and a touchdown. Again they failed to make the point.

On a punt close to the Hawk goal line, Enloe kicked to the Iowa Park 15-yard line. Wolfe went 15 yards to another touchdown on the first play, again cutting back the through the defense. He kicked goal from placement, making the score 32 to 0. McDonald started the next move down the field by intercepting a pass on the Iowa Park 35-yard line. Buckner made nine yards through left tackle. McDonald went around left end for 11 yards. The Hawk line tightened and forced Mitchell Wolfe to dropkick a field goal. With the score 35 to 0 the half ended.

Buckner Goes Through.

Twice in the final half the Bulldogs reached the one-yard line to have Gene Buckner crash through center for the touchdowns. A pass to Hood gave them another extra point.

Burney, Hawk fullback, played a great game, and was the only man on the Parkers club that could get away with many gains. Mostly through the efforts of young Burney the Hawks did their only threatening. He made the longest run of the Hawks, a 15-yard run around the left end of the Burk line.

Fields, Alvin Smith and Denny played nice games in the line, but were unable to hold the powerful Burk charges. James, Patterson and Gilchrist were the stars of the Burkburnett linemen.

BALD-PATED BUCKAROOS OF MUSCLE FRATERNITY DISPROVE IDEA SAMSON S NEED TRESSES

Billiard-Topped Al Kreuz Murders Penn's Grid Opponents—Speckled Bob and Sullivan Twins Examples

Al Kreuz, star fullback of Pennsylvania, looks like an all-American choice this year. He is a terrific linebucker, a talented kicker and a sterling performer on the defense.

Kreuz is called various nicknames, but mostly the Michigan Tractor. Albert belongs in Detroit, though he has been anything but a "flivver" at Penn. The sawed-off, 190-pound Hercules has also been referred to by some as The Bald Bullet. This is not because Kreuz is entirely bald, but—well Albert wouldn't find it exactly easy to join the House of David team. As a matter of plain fact, the Tractor has very little skull covering.

Ever since Samson's vivid illustration of the majesty of muscle folks have been wont to associate extraordinary strength with a luxurious crop of hair. Teams that have met Penn this year wonder what might have happened had Kreuz owned a mane like that of Samson. Without benefit of tresses, the Michigan Tractor has been ripping through the scrimmage lines as if they were so much tissue paper.

Nor was Al Kreuz's the first thinly haired pate to make itself illustrous in athletics.

Boxing has had quite a few "baldies" and "near-baldies." The most famed of them all was the immortal Robert Fitzsimmons. Fitz had a fair head of hair when he arrived here from Australia in 1890. But in the seven years that elapsed before the remarkable Cornishman fought for the highest honors of the ring, time was pulling at his toppiece with both claws. And the locks came out in handfuls. Fitzsimmons was half bald when he plunged that paralyzing left into Corbett's solar plexus at Carson City, establishing himself as the supreme Queensberry gladiator of his day.

The Sullivan Twins.

Some years later Fitzsimmons was obliged to recognize twin competition in the matter of sparse hairs. The Sullivan twins of Boston—Mike and Jack—became prominent and later each of them half bald. They were a famous pair, not only for their picturesque appearance, but for their redoubtable fighting qualities as well. Both were remarkably clever and they could hit a bit. As a defensive fighter Jack Twin was one of the best the ring has ever seen.

Al Kreuz has some company in track and athletics. Neither Ollan Woodring nor Vernon Ascher is bald, but they have lost considerable skull covering. Hannes Kolehmainen is half bald and has been so for years. In baseball Heinie Groh comes about the nearest to a billiard ball, though he still has a fair share of hair left, and he knows how to make the most of it.

Golf has its Mike Brady and Findlay Douglas, and wrestling has its Stan Zbyszko. The Pole has scarcely any hair on his head, and none on top.

Zbyszko evidently takes wrestling very serious, but we know a good many who don't.

THE BOOB

(Baba Ruth admits that he is a "babe and a boob."—News Item)

Any fool can make a lot of money—
Any guy can haul the hopecks in—
But the gents who linger longer where the world is getting stronger
Are the ones who do not part with all their tin;
And the thing that irks and riles you is a vision of the smiles you
Caused while heaving all your money in the bin.
There's another thing the Babe will soon be learning
T.ll it hits him like the shudder of a 'quake—
That the art of making money disappears in manney funny
And the second time, it's very hard to make—
And that likewise those who aid you in the spending seem to fade,
You find that they but seldom give and only take.

Come Down Here, Frank

FRANK MENKE finds that the forward pass is fading as an offensive weapon and ascribes the vanishing of the play in the east to a follow-the-leader policy after the veteran Knute Rockne.

Mr. Menke may be right—as far as the east is concerned. But if he will invade the southwest, he will find the pass is greater use this year than ever before. As far as the conference is concerned, this is probably due to the success of the Baylor team in 1922 under Bridges and of the SMU team in 1923 and 1924 under Morrison and Freeland, in using the open attack.

Yet the fact remains that the wide prevalence occurs in a fall immediately following the first prolonged visit of Rockne to the section as an instructor and after every coach in the conference of his assistants had been in more or less close communion with the sage of Notre Dame.

It looks very much as if Brother they did.

Dempsey given ovation in Mexico City. Well all Jack has been doing for a year is bull-fighting.

One thing about paying $50 for a ringside seat at a prize fight, you do not have to look through a veil leader.

Some day there is going to be an open season declared on the peanut and popcorn boys.

Another Rule That Does Not Work.

THE BALL CLUBS have been announcing of late their re-called option players for the season. This is a trifle late as they exercised the options before the season was over but did it silently and reserved the publicity.

The operation of the option rule, major and minor, is another of the things that does not work out as it should. In theory, it is largely designed to help the player. That is, if the young man is on the verge of delivering, it is presumed that he is optioned out so that a year longer when he is ripe for higher company, he will be on the job.

Sometimes it does work out that way. Of course, any ball club wants to use the player who can deliver. But in actual practice, 90 per cent of the players out under option are never used for anything but trade material. Clubs hold on to them as long as they can—and deal them out to teams of lower classifications with which they have friendly relations.

The option evil in this regard became so great that a rule was passed prohibiting sending players out under option more than two years in succession. But a gentlemans agreement even gets by that.

There was a time not so long ago when the St. Louis Cardinals were reputed to own the young ball players in the country. Scout Charlie Barrett, folks said, guided their hands to contracts while they sat in the cradle.

Then the Cards optioned them out to they ever showed anything they had a the St. Louis farms and others. But if chance with the Rickeyites.

The only trouble with this arrangement was that in those days you could not convince the rookies the Cards were in the big leagues.

The Showman Knows.

WHEN TEX RICKARD called off plans for a bout between Harry Greb and Mickey Walker because of the former's demand for a $500000 purse, you could figure that one of two things was in the showman's mind. Either he was morally certain that the public interest in the bout would not be enough to pay off a purse of that size, or he thought New York's threatened legislation would intervene in time to so scale down the prices that the bout would be unprofitable.

Rickard is in the tistic promotion business for the financial health of Mr. Rickard. But to assure the game, he has always been willing to pay high for talent—if the talent was worth it.

You can bet your Stone Mountain half dollar that a Greb-Walker bout for the title is not worth it at the gate, if Tex says it isn't with refusals.

Longhorns May Lose Quartet Of Grid Mainstays

Doc Denies He Predicted Victory Over Bears And Aggies

AUSTIN, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Four Texas Longhorns are in danger of being out of the game with the Baylor Bears here Saturday. Ike Sewell, Basil Penney and Gerald Coffey are scholastically ineligible, while Maurice Stallter will have to pass an examination to go in the game.

L. Theodore Belmont, director of athletics, said "chances are slight for re-instatement of Sewell, Penney and Coffey." These three were declared ineligible following tabulation of the mid-term grades and are not permitted to practice with the regular squad. They are three of the best men in the non-too strong Texas line. Matt Newell is suffering from an injury to a hand, and Olle is not able to scrimmage because of injuries received in the Rice game.

The workout today was on a wet field, the squad resorting to the aerial game, with a stiff scrimmage at the end.

Coach Stewart tonight denied that he had predicted Texas University would win over Texas A. & M., and Baylor Bears. He declared he never predicted victory.

His squad stands only 24 men strong now.

Amateur Baseball Ass'n Plans Meet

FORT WORTH, Nov. 3.—(AP).—The first annual state amateur baseball congress will probably be held in Waco on November 14.

R. R. Rice, secretary of the Houston amateur baseball association, has requested the local association to call a meeting of the state organization in Waco on that date. Fort Worth, Dallas, San Antonio and Houston are expected to send representatives to the session at which plans for an annual state tournament will be made.

Fort Worth will be represented by Clarence Kraft, president, and E. I. Dreschel,, secretary, of the local association, and R. D. Evans and Bob Stow of the recreation department.

If San Antonio and Dallas are agreeable, the meeting will be held in accordance with the Houston request.

VERNON MEETS PLAINVIEW FOR TITLE NOV, 11

VERNON, Nov. 3.—The game between Vernon and Plainview high school football teams for the championship of district, class A, of the interscholastic league, will be played in Vernon Wednesday, November 11, it was decided at a conference in Paducah, late Monday night between W. T. Lofland, superintendent of the Vernon schools and Dr. W. R. Moore, a member of the athletic council, representing Vernon, and Coach Allen of the Plainview team. Coach Baggett announces that he will be able to place the full strength of the Lions on the field when they meet Plainview as the members of the team received only minor injuries in the game with Wichita Falls last Saturday. Crouch and Ryan, who were removed from Saturday's game because of injuries are reporting for practice this week.

S.M.U. Confident Of Pouring It On Arkansas Eleven

Ponies Come Away From Steer Tiff Without Injuries

DALLAS, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Southern Methodist Mustangs are out for pork next Saturday when Arkansas Razorbacks come to Dallas with their squealing aggregation of gridsters. The ponies are not downhearted over the scoreless tie with Texas Longhorn. Mustangs may succeed in throwing sand on the greased tactics of the razorbacks, they expect to win easily Saturday. The Mustangs are contemplating victory in the realization that they outplayed the powerful Texas team in every department of the game. They came out of the choicest without a single injury which forms a powerful combination machine.

European Tin Ear Gentlemen Invade America

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP).—European fighters threaten to take the place of South America in the indoor season of professional boxing with Johnny Brown, the bantam champion from across the seas, coming here to tackle Charlie Phil Rosenberg, who gained, the title from Eddie (Cannon Ball) Martin.

Tommy Milligan, the "Irishman born in Scotland," may gain an engagement with Mickey Walker, world's welte weight title bolder, before the winter is gone, and little Edouard Mascart, who has sought a battle with the featherweight king, Louis (Kid) Kaplan of Meriden, Conn., remains in the country, still on the trail of the title that the war hero, Eugene Criqui, won and lost over here in 1923. Other Europeans ready for action here are Lucien Vinez, lightweight, and Vicent Sanchez, Spanish featherweight. Johnny Brown is a colorful little lad known as the "newsboy of White Chapel." Three times he has won the Lord Lonsdale belt and now holds it permanently.

BURK BULLDOGS TANGLE UP WITH SEYMOUR CLUB FRIDAY AT SPUD PARK IN PLAY-OFF

Mosley Turns Attention to Line As Tribe Trains for John Tarleton and McMurray Games

The Burkburnett Bulldogs, victors yesterday over Iowa Park on the Burk grid, are scheduled to clash with Seymour at Spudder park Friday afternoon, it was announced at Spudder headquarters yesterday.

This Burk-Seymour clash, the third of the season between the two speedy little class B teams of this district, is culmination of two tie games registered early in the season.

The teams seem very evenly matched. The first contest staged at Burk resulted in a scoreless tie. Last week the Bulldogs invaded Seymour and again the result was a deadlock with neither club crossing the goal line.

Burk appears to have pepped up a great deal since its last engagement with Seymour. That 48 to 0 win over Iowa Park displayed this, and if Ludgate's men came away from that scrap in good condition the odds appear to favor the Bulldogs to finally nose out on their persistent Seymour opponents.

Spudder park has been granted the two clubs free of charge.

The Junior college Indians are training hard for their one-week trip to Stephenville and Abilene in which they meet two strong college teams, John Tarleton and McMurray.

Coach Mosley is hoping to form a powerful line before the opening game in Stephenville that will hold the onslaught of the Tarleton club. There are a few weak points in the first defense as yet.

John Clary, captain, is improving fast from his nose injury and will be expected on the backbone of the line at center. Karns, Box, and Hirschi probably will see lots of service at guards. Weeth, Whitelaw, and Saunders will do most of the playing at tackles, while Harris, Crites, and Gonce will be depended upon at the wing positions.

Thurman, Deems, Rawls, Stephenson, Datson, and Beaty will all see plenty of work in the backfield.

The Tarelton game is a conference affair. McMurray is not in the Junior college conference.

Pack Primes For Quanah

The Coyotes are priming for the Quanah game Saturday on the Quanah grid. The club has been working mostly since the Vernon game to iron out the kinks put in their muscles by the Lons. Swede Wainscott was the one to get the worst of the injuries, and is still out of the practice, and may be for several days yet.

Coyal Francis has been showing up well in the backfield, and probably will be depended upon greatly in the next game. Francis is fast and a good ground gainer.

Ed Powel, newly appointed captain, probably is in the best form of any of the Coyotes and should prove to be a bulwark in the backfield. He will be looked to for his full share of the gains.

With the absence of Wainscott the line is greatly weaknened, but from the line material on hand Coach McCallum should be able to pick a fairly strong forward wall.

Both clubs are out of the conference race, and are building for 1926, any many second string men may be expected to take part in the game.

Pups May Break Into Win Column

The Coyote Pups continued their struggle to get into winning form by the time of the Olney game. The club is working on an assortment of new plays. The squad went through a brisk scrimmage Tuesday afternoon in order to see how the maneuvers will work with an opposition to cut them off.

The feature of the scrimmage was a pass, Beach to Stevens, the latter running 65 yards to a touchdown over the first stringers. The play was featured by the ground gaining of Martin Hodgkiss who played with the second stringers. The reserves resorted mostly to passes for their gaining.

Line playing of Ted Davenport and Ben Mix on the defense featured the playing of the first string team. Dale Carter and Roy Brackett were the most consistent ground gainers for the regulars.

Captain Farris and Pete Powell were missing from the session.

The pups will go into the Saturday game with the Hillbillies intent on winning, and ready to put up a fight. There is nothing, however, to make them overconfident.

The gang, so far, has been held scoreless, but intends to tabulate enough on the Olney crew to win. Coach Montgomery will depend on Fly, Brackett, Carter, and Farris to shove the ball over the goal line.

Reese Makes Shifts With Tigers

The Electra Tigers got down to work this week in preparation for their clash with Amarillo on November 11 which will be played at Amarillo. The Tigers have no game this week, but the Tiger second string men have a game on Tiger field on Armistice day, but the team to furnish the opposition has not been named. This game will include a number of the substitutes and ineligibles who have been working out with the club all year.

The Tigers were sent through a lengthy workout Monday afternoon to start the week off. A few changes were made in the first string lineup as Willis Cranahan, star center, has been laid up with a wrenched knee since the Coyote scrap October 17, has been shifted to left end in place of Mike Brown who is o nthe in eligible list at present. Brown was out for practice however, and worked with the second stringers. Ralph Turner was shifted to Sanderlins' end while Sanderlin watched the practice from the sidelines due to a wrenched shoulder received in the Vernon game. Lendon Smith was holding down Bob More's place at half as More failed to show up for the daily frolic. John Louie Wright was at the other half instead of Vincent Trammill, who was shifted to full when Coolidge was moved into tackle in place of Turner. Brewer Smith, husky linesman, was also on the sidelines with a sprained ankle. Smith has seen very little practice since the Coyote game.

The backfield showed it's first real form of the season last week against Quanah when it ploughed the opposing line almost at will. They are expected to show up as well against Amarillo. The line has shown real form all year, and if this is kept up the Armistice game the Tigers hope to bring home the bacon.

Williams Only Frog On Casualty Roster

FORT WORTH, Nov. 3.—Blackie Williams, T. C. U. backfield star, who was carried from the field with a twisted ankle Saturday, is not expected to be in the game against Texas A. and M. Saturday. He was hobbling about today, stepping gingerly with his right leg. The ankle is badly swollen.

He is the only injured man on the Purple squad.

"The rest of the boys came through the Saturday game without a scratch," rejoices Coach Matty Bell.

Bell knows he is going up against one of the toughest, if not the toughest, eleven in the conference in the Aggies and wants his team to go into action in first class shape.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 3.—(AP)—The cotton market was quite an active affair today with a large volume of business and a sharp upturn in prices which carried the December position to a level 124 points above the low point at the close of last week. All active months crossed the 19c line on the upgrade scoring moderate advances above that level.

The start was very active and higher in sympathy with the higher cables and because of more bad weather in the western belt First trades showed gains ranging from 26 points on December up to 4.0 on May. The early months stiffened further right after the call and December traded up to 18.95, January 18.96, March 18.97 and May 18.95 or 34 to 40 points above the previous close.

The market fluctuated rather narrowly during the rest of the morning, gradually easing off to 18.80 for December, 18.83 for January, 18.81 for March and 18.85 for May, or 15 to 20 points down from the highs. These prices proved to be the lows of the day. From noon on prices gradually recovered and during the last half hour of trading the market became active and very firm, prices advancing to new highs for the day right at the end at 19.14 for December, 19.17 for January 19.13 for March and 19.17 for May. The close was at the top.

The late rally was due to large buying orders and to an estimate by a well known bureau making the total ginnings to Nov. 1, 10,920,000 bales, or only 1,400,000 bales for the last period. Exports for the day totaled 81,986 bales.

Grain

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Assertions that the exportable surplus of wheat in Australia this season has been cut down more than half as compared with last year's total, had much to do with a lively advance in wheat prices today. The wheat market closed strong at virtually the top level reached 1⅝ to 2c net higher, new setyle, December $1.53¼ and May $1.47¼, with corn ⅝ to 1¼c up, oats at ¼@⅝ to ⅝@⅞c gain and provisions varying from 20 cents decline to a rise of 7 cents.

Indications of wintry weather in the corn belt together with smallness of receipts of corn in Chicago gave firmness to prices both of corn and oats.

Most deliveries of provisions were higher, influenced by a bigger decrease in stocks of lard here than was looked for.

Livestock

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK.

FORT WORTH, Nov. 3.—Conditions were available for a better cattle trade than shippers found laid out for them Monday. Buyers were in the market for fat cows of heavy weight, and were willing to spring Monday's prices a trifle to secure them. However thin, range steers were not favored, and luckily few of this port were around. Calves made a recovery from the slump of the previous day. Other classes of slaughter cattle were not changed in market status.

Receipts for the day were posted as 4,000 grown cattle and 1,500 calves. This number of cattle was in excess of similar arrivals last week and a year ago.

Beef steers were slow, no sales reported.

Butcher cows, as has been heretofore remarked, were held as the apple of buyers' eyes. The chief difficulty appeared to get enough fat cows to fill orders. The early rounds yielded carloads at $3.50, with carloads up to $4.50, but trading was somewhat delayed by the non-arrival of 50 of the 200 cars expected for the day.

Canners and cutters took on a portion of the 25-cent advance granted the best of the butcher cows, the advance here amounting to a dime to 15c. Canners cleared at $2.00 to $2.25 and cutters had a spread of $1.30 to $2.75.

Bulls ranged from $3.25 to $3.35.

A good call developed in feeder steers which was not fully met. Chief sale of the day in feeders stood at $7.75. A few deals were made in stockers at steady prices.

Calves made a good recovery from the dull time of Monday values advancing 25 to 50c all around the ring. Light vealers made up to $8.50 and the desirable end of the heavy calves took on a top of $7.25.

The hog market was a very slow affair, nothing having been accomplished in trade up to noon. The tendency was for steady trend. Sales later at $11.25 to $11.35.

The sheep trade was fully steady, five decks of wethers taking $8 and a deck of choice breeding ewes selling at $8.50. Light weight feeder lambs made $10.

Cattle—Receipts 5,500, including 1,500 calves; market steady; beeves $4@8.50; stockers $4@7.25; fat cows $3@5.25; cutters $2.30@2.75; canners $1.50@2.25; heifers $4.50@8; yearlings $5@9; bulls $2.50@4.25; calves $4@8.50.

Produce

TEXAS PRODUCE.

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 3.—Except for a closer discrimination on size and quality there is little change to the actual price situation on poultry markets of the state today. Rays of Light
GEO. WILLIAM L. SPENCER

Quality vs. Price

Readers of newspapers are too often beguiled into believing things just a little too wonderful, for the habit of adding a bit of rose color to the bare truth is easily fallen into.

Therefore, we have never made any claims beyond and above our one guiding and dominating principle—that of offering always only merchandise of the highest character obtainable, not at lowest-in-the-city-prices, nor yet at highest-in-the-city-prices, but on a just, reasonable, equitable basis.

PRICE is not what we advertise first and foremost, but QUALITY is! And along with this QUALITY is embodied style, authenticity and reliable workmanship.

We keep our price quotations strictly representative of the value of the merchandise itself—dependable, trustworthy and unflinchingly just.

Otherwise There Was Nothing So Much the Matter

ELECTRA, Nov. 3.—Postmaster A. N. Richardson and Mrs. Richardson were jolted Tuesday morning at 10:30 when they were returning home from Wichita Falls and suddenly found their car careening to one side, pitching them about in ruthless fashion.

Only the steering wheel had come off, and one of the rear wheels was spinning over in the gutter. No one was inured.

Erring Husband Beaten, Then Petted, By His Irate Mate

"Hell hath no fury like that of a woman scorned" it was said long ago. And if the tales the neighbors told police were true, the author of the famous line was eminently correct.

Police were told that a terrible disturbance was going on in a Wichita Falls home last night, where pots and pans and oaths and rebukes were flying freely—all too freely. The husband had fallen victim to the wiles of some fair maiden, the neighbors overheard, and the wife was asserting her rights (fists). She was beating her husband.

An editor once told a reporter there would be no news in the fact that a dog bit a man; but if a man bit a dog, that would be news. So it is with the police. Let a man beat his wife, and they refer to it as a family row; but let a wife beat a husband, and they call out the riot squad.

When police reached a home in an exclusive residential district, they found all calm. For the erring husband had asked forgiveness and now was receiving the caresses of his high-tempered wife, who grew indignant at the interference of the officers, slammed the door in their faces and went back to the arms of her lovemate.

The Record News want ads are the quickest medium between buyer and seller. Use them for results.

IRRIGATION

COST OF WATER TO THE HOLLIDAY LAND OWNERS.

The fact that the land owners along Holliday Creek are figuring on coming into the irrigation district and putting their lands under water has caused some comment on the cost of this water.

It is planned that these owners shall receive water on the same basis as those now in District No. 2.

This being the case they will pay on each acre of their land in the district the sum of $35. They do not pay this money al lat once. The payments are extended over a period of 34 years. The interest rate is 6 per cent. Payments are made year on an amortized basis, or in er words interest and principal gether are the same each year figured together.

The $35 per acre is paid off year at the rate of $2.45 per No more no less. This $2.45 incl all interest and all principal.

In addition to this amortized ment on principal and interest is an additional sum due for the of maintaining and delivering w This is called the maintenance ch It is supposed to be about $1 acre per year. It may be less may be more. With a large ac under water there is a good ch of decreasing this charge.

No man need be afraid of payments for his water. A ta $2.45 on land worth $250 per is mighty little. Every bit of irri ed land in this valley will be w that much some day.

Whereas, the board of aldermen of the City of Wichita Falls deems it necessary and expedient to borrow money on the credit of the city in the sum of one hundred thousand ($100,000) dollars and to secure the payment thereof by the issuance of bonds of said city in that amount for the purpose of raising funds to pay the cost of constructing permanent street improvements in and for said city.

Her "Dead" Husband Came to Life After She Had Wed Again

"Legal bigamy," if there is such a thing, has resulted in a divorce decree for a Wichita Falls woman, who, in a hearing in the seventy-eighth district court, declared that a "dead husband came to life" on her hands after she had married twice.

Her testimony was to the effect that she was married in Duncan, Okla., in 1921 and that her husband deserted her a short time later. Two years after that she read of his accidental death in another Oklahoma town, and word subsequently reached her from official sources that her husband had been killed.

A year after that, she said, she married a second time and not long thereafter saw her first husband, entirely alive and apparently healthy, on the streets of this city. She and her second husband immediately separated and have so remained ever since, she testified.

Judge Rogers granted her plea of divorce.

"Jake" Is Gone But Another Has Come To Take His Place

Taps have been blown for Jake.

Do you know Jake He's the gentleman who has caused city, county, state and national officers an unending amount of trouble. But Jake was put under a legal ban by the city of Wichita Falls some time ago when an ordinance was passed prohibiting the sale here of Jamaica ginger for beverage purposes.

But before the flowers on Jake's grave have wilted, a newcomer has made his appearance.

The latest arrival is pear extract. Unless Wichita Falls housewives have taken a sudden liking to cakes and pastries with a pear flavor, it is being used as a beverage, police aver. And if the Wichita housewives are using the extract in their culinary activities, the police wish to request that they not throw the empty bottles into downtown alleys.

K. M. A. Residents Protest As Their Church Is Put On Wheels, Ready to Be Moved

The church at K. M. A. is jacked up on a truck and unless officers come to the rescue, it will be moved away early this morning, a group of K. M. A. residents told police authorities here last night. They said they they did not own the building but that they did own a 700 addition to it, which had been constructed with the understanding, they claimed, that it would be left on the property as long as it was used either as a school or as a church.

Through a recent combination of schools in that community, the use of the building as a school was discontinued, but it is used regularly as a church, the K. M. A. men declared. Services were held in it last Sunday and will be held again this Sunday—if the church still is there.

But late last night it was still on the wagon, ready to be hauled away today, they said. The men called a local district judge into conference in an effort to settle the dispute.

Through a Woman's Eyes

Parent Pals.

A newspaper in Indiana is telling the world about a new kind of school, a school for mothers and fathers, in which parents can take courses in subjects which are of interest to their children and so establish a basis of understanding between them. In the words of the exponents of this "educational experiment:

"The school offers six weeks courses to mothers and fathers in manual training, nature study and other favored activities. The idea is to furnish parents with a more systematic understanding of the things their children are doing or like to do, to keep them alive their interest in childish pleasure and to make them grownup pals and playmates as well as mentors and counselors of their charges."

Three cheers for the idea! If there were but one piece of advice permitted to parents which should be as nearly as possible all-inclusive in the tremendous matter of bringing up children that one precept would be unquestionably. "Make them your chums"!

To the observer of children and family life, there can be no doubt that the happiest, the most intelligent and best behaved, the most generally satisfactory children are those who enjoy a spirit of comradeship and understanding which in turn is bound to inspire their confidence and trust.

Many mothers and fathers who would be willing to make any sacrifice for their children have a sense of failure as parents, because they live on different planes from their children and so there is no understanding or comradeship between them. The loving parent is not always the understanding parent; and the secret lies largely in common interests in parents keeping the interests and the psychology of youth—in making chums of the children.

While it is true that each child may present an individual problem according tothe fundamental material which he furnishes for us to work upon, no character is conceivable that will not be better for having had a father or mother-chum and there is no safe-guard on earth as great as a parent to whom the child naturally "tells everything." It is a relationship which can be attached only through the parents, ability to see with their children through the, eyes of youth.

Three cheers for the new idea which will render its great blessing not in the knowledge of nature study or toy mechanics which it may impart or revive, but in the attitude which it instills into the minds of mothers and fathers to be interested in the thing which interest their children to be the companions and pals of their boys and girls.
