Unusual Move To Halt Vote Is Indicated

AUSTIN, April 19 — A walkout tomorrow morning by House opponents of the Gilmer-Aikin school bill was being planned tonight in an effort to stall off passage of the first measure.

Questioned by an Associated Press reporter, Rep. Sam Hanna, Dallas, bitter opponent of Sen. Jim Taylor's school reorganization bill said, "It is quite likely a lot of representatives won't be in town tomorrow."

Should 51 of the 150 members fail to show up for roll call at 10 a.m. tomorrow, the House would be unable to conduct business for lack of a quorum.

To Be "Out Of Town"

"Will you be out of town tomorrow?" Hanna was asked.

"Yes, I am planning to be," Hanna replied.

He hesitated a moment then said, "Everybody knows by now that the House likely will not have a quorum tomorrow, at least not until late in the day."

Speaker of the House Durwood Manford said he had not heard of the latest strategy on the part of Gilmer-Aikin foes.

"If a quorum is not present, the House can do one of two things," he said. "It could adjourn until the next day or it could put on a call of the House and send out the sergeant at arms to bring in members."

Minor Victory Claimed

Representative Jimmy Horany, another strong opponent of the bill, from Archer City, said he has heard nothing about the proposed walkout.

"I'll be here at 10 o'clock in the morning," he said.

Gilmer-Aikin forces claimed a minor victory tonight when the House voted 71 to 44 to recess—instead of adjourn—until 10 a.m. tomorrow.

By recessing, the House cleared the deck for the first of the hotly contested school reorganization bills to be taken up immediately when tomorrow's session begins. One representative flatly predicted the bill would be passed tomorrow.

In the Senate, foes of a controversial bill to permit co-operative development of oil fields temporarily blocked the measure just short of passage.

Passage Is Predicted

Senators puffed and fumed over whether the oil industry was using the bill to try to "knock a hole" in the state's anti-trust laws.

Opponents of the Gilmer-Aikin bills tried unsuccessfully to have the House adjourn until Thursday

Final Vote On Housing Bill Slated Today

By ROSE McKEE
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 19 — The Senate was told today by Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) that the slum clearance program in the administration's long-range housing bill would prepare cities better for possible atomic attacks.

During debate on the bill, Sens. Humphrey (D-Minn) and Morse (R-Ore) charged that slums within the shadow of the capitol were a threat to the health of Washingtonians.

Late Session Indicated

Democratic and Republican leaders agreed that a final vote on the multi-billion dollar housing bill may be reached Wednesday.

Acting majority leader Myers (D-Pa) announced he might hold the Senate in session an hour or later on Wednesday to complete action on the bill.

The measure provides federal assistance for slum clearance, low-rent public housing and rural housing.

Sen. Langer (R-ND) proposed an amendment for a $3,750,000,000 loan authorization for farmers at 2 percent interest over a 50-year period.

Slums Said Health Threat

Morse declared that the slums within earshot of the speakers were "a national disgrace" and that if a contagious disease were to break out in them it would spread even to the "high-priced apartments of members of Congress." Humphrey said there was "no greater threat" to local health.

He said great pressure against the bill came from those "who make a lucrative profit" from slums throughout the country. He denounced this as an "abuse of property rights."

Douglas, in a speech strongly endorsing the slum clearance pro-

Huge Hail Stones Hit Del Rio Area

Oil Field Workers Isolated Near San Angelo; Flood Threatens Brownwood

(By The Associated Press)

MANY thousands of dollars in damage were counted Tuesday from hail and windstorms in Texas. Heavy rains brought welcome moisture to some farm and ranch sections.

A continuing heavy rain posed a flood threat to low residential sections at Brownwood, near the state's center.

Hail storms which struck late Monday night and early Tuesday in southwest Texas and along the Rio Grande were accompanied by heavy rains.

Tornadic winds damaged several points over the South Plains near Lubbock late Monday night. A farmer was killed by lightning near Hereford, and the lower Colorado River authority reported heavy hail between Liberty Hill and Bertram, northwest of Austin.

Del Rio Battered

Southwest of Brownwood, Coleman reported two inches of rain.

At Brownwood, where water in Adams Branch was pouring over the banks, emergency city crews were on the alert. More than five inches of rain had fallen there since 11 p.m. Monday.

The low section of Brownwood was the scene of a 1945 flash flood in which one person was drowned and 300 families evacuated.

Heaviest hit by hail was Del Rio, on the Rio Grande. Stones as large as teacups—even larger, said the Del Rio News Herald—battered the city.

Hail Forms Drifts

Windows in homes and downtown show windows were splintered. School closed. Telephone communication was almost knocked out.

At Austin, C. L. Dowell of the Lower Colorado River authority reported the hail between Liberty Hill and Bertram was in small stones. But he said it had washed down slopes and drifted in many places three feet high.

The LCRA had reports from 11 weather stations on its watershed of two inches or more of rain. This included Burnet and Buchanan dam. A seven foot rise was reported on the Llano river at Llano, and LCRA said the North Concho at San Angelo was reported on a

39 Hurt When Ceiling Falls

(By The Associated Press)

HOUMA, La., April 19—A theater ceiling crashed down on a startled audience of 75 to 100 persons tonight, injuring 39.

The most seriously injured was reported by the Ellender Memorial hospital as Mrs. Amos Lapeyrouse. The hospital said she received a compound fracture of the leg. She is the wife of one of the theater's owners.

The hospital said Clarence Poincot received a simple leg fracture and John Matherne a broken jaw.

Little Warning Given

Four others were admitted to the hospital for minor cuts and abrasions. The hospital said 32 others had been treated and released.

Theater manager Everett Talbot said the plaster and metal lathe acoustic ceiling came crashing about the heads of the audience with little warning.

"I was just entering the house and heard a cracking," he said. "It got louder and louder for a minute and then the entire ceiling seemed to come down in one great sheet.

"It made a terrific noise that could easily be heard a block away. A few of the people got panicky but most of them were too stunned for that. The children were the fortunate ones. They weren't hurt because they were protected by the backs of the seats extending above their heads. No one was hurt too seriously."

Victims Brought Out

He said the owners, L. J. Lapeyrouse and his two sons, Amos and Earl of Park Theater company, had not been able to ascertain why the ceiling of the new movie

Courthouse Site Studied At Meet

By ROGER SOUTHALL
Avalanche Staff Writer

Citizens from all parts of Lubbock county last night filled to capacity the District court room on the second floor of the county courthouse, in spite of inclement weather, to discuss the proposed new Lubbock county courthouse and to give their individual opinions regarding location of the new structure.

The meeting, attended jointly by members of the County Commissioners court and the Lubbock City Planning commission, in addition to other local citizens, was strongly reminiscent of the old New England "town meetings," with each person attending entitled to full and complete expression of his personal opinion, and with equal vote for all.

'Straw Vote' Taken

If those who attended were truly representative of Lubbock county residents as a whole, then probably the most important accomplishment of the meeting was the revelation, through a "straw vote" taken among those present, that the two preferable locations for the new courthouse are, first, just west of the present structure and as adjacent to it as is feasible, thereby preserving as much of the courthouse park as possible, and, second, on the site of the old courthouse, after the old structure had been razed.

Actual count last night on the two possibilities gave 27 votes to the first; and 24 to the latter. A third alternative, to locate the new building west of the driveway which skirts the west side of the present building, got three votes.

HST Signs Marshall Plan Extension Act

WASHINGTON, April 19 (INS)—President Truman today signed the Marshall plan extension act pledging $5,552,000,000 in U. S. economic aid to bulwark western Europe against Communism.

The presidential action assures a continued flow of American food and industrial goods to 19 European nations until mid-1950 to keep the U. S. hand high in the cold war.

Congress still must appropriate the actual money to pay the bill but under the extension the Reconstruction Finance corporation will advance $1,000,000,000 to keep the pipeline full meanwhile.

Mr. Truman signed the extension at a White House ceremony witnessed by ECA officials and congressional leaders.

Officers Sharpen Watch On Stores

Police prowl cars and other law enforcement officers last night were alerted to watch drug stores and pharmacies in the city closely after two burglaries in which narcotics were taken had been reported on consecutive nights.

The Lavender and Hull drugstore, at 2211 College Ave., was entered Monday night by a burglar or burglars who smashed a padlock on a front door and took an estimated $400 to $500 in money and checks and "all the narcotics in stock except the demoral."

Police questioned a man in connection with the case late Tuesday morning, then released him. Police detectives said he had not been under formal arrest at any time. No arrests had been announced in connection with the case late last night.

Robert P. Lavender, one of the owners of the store, said he would "have to guess" that the monetary loss was "about equally divided between money and checks."

Lab Loss Listed

He said that narcotics prescriptions would have to be checked against inventories as of last June before it could be determined what the narcotics loss was.

Narcotics taken included dilaudid, codeine, morphine, cocaine, papine, pantapon and elixir morphine, Lavender said.

R. S. Miller of Prescription laboratory, at 1629 College Ave., told officials in the meantime that the following narcotics had been

UN Group Scores Red Persecution

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., April 19. (INS)—The United States accused the Hungarian government today of silencing Josef Cardinal Mindszenty because the Catholic prelate refused to bow to the dictates of the Cominform.

Roundly condemning religious persecution behind the iron curtain, U. S. Representative Benjamin V. Cohen charged in the United Nations that a pattern of liquidation of political and religious leaders has emerged in Hungary, Bulgaria and Romania.

Cohen refuted allegations that the U. S. is interfering in the internal affairs in any country but declared that the right of a state to protect itself against revolt "does not justify the suppression of efforts to seek changes by peaceful means even though these efforts are displeasing to the ruling groups."

Acts Are Condemned

Cohen told the 58-nation Ad Hoc committee that the assembly should be asked to give its support and encouragement in diplomatic steps now being taken in Sofia and Budapest by the signatories of the peace treaties.

This was an endorsement of a resolution submitted by Bolivia, which added that the cases of the Balkan religious leaders would be kept on the agenda for next September's meeting of the assembly.

In one of the most outspoken condemnations of totalitarianism behind the iron curtain, Cohen said these regimes were the result of "the pattern of a minority group seizing power through force and intimidation."

Cohen declared that the sup-

HIGH-RANKING Air Force officials left Lubbock late Tuesday afternoon armed with full facts required to reach a decision regarding reactivation of Lubbock Army Air field on a permanent basis.

Their departure followed an afternoon conference with members of the Lubbock City commission and members of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce Air Force Affairs committee.

The Lubbock men were assured that definite announcement will be made "within the next few days" relative to establishment of the field as Lubbock Air Force Base.

Lubbock Is Praised

The visiting Air Force men expressed unreserved pleasure and satisfaction at what they had found in Lubbock.

Eugene M. Zuckert, asistant to the Secretary of the Air Force, management division, remarked that "the past 24 hours have been a revelation to me. I have been amazed at the growth, the progress and community spirit evidenced in Lubbock.

HEAVY DAMAGE CAUSED TO HOMES OVER SOUTH PLAINS

Tornadic Winds Strike

SOUTH Plains farmers and ranchers last night could count their benefits from Monday night's and Tuesday's rains in the thousands of dollars—although heavy damage was caused by tornadic winds which swept several rural sections to the northwest and southeast of Lubbock.

Reports from rural areas continued to come in late Tuesday concerning damage caused by the heavy winds. No official estimate was available on damage, but it was believed that it would run into the thousands of dollars.

Woman Is Injured

The winds, striking as a twister in the Shallowater-Monroe area, demolished at least five farm homes and tenant dwellings, heavily damaged five more, slightly damaged another and caused considerable damage to barns, outbuildings and irrigation well houses.

The twister—which swept a path estimated at a mile wide from a point about three miles northeast of Shallowater to the Monroe area, 10 miles north of Lubbock—struck about 9:30 p.m. Monday. Heaviest damage was reported in that section. Tornadic winds also hit in the Slaton, Ropesville and Petersburg areas, causing damage.

Only one person, Mrs. Basel Agnew, of Lubbock Route 3, was reported injured in the storm which struck the Lubbock area about 9:30 p.m. Monday. She was released after treatment at Lubbock Memorial hospital. She entered the hospital at 2:45 a.m. Tuesday, hospital attendants said.

Fall Boosts Crops

Rain, which continued to fall up to midnight last night, had raised the total for the year to 6.31 inches, one of the richest ground seasons the South Plains has experienced since 1941 when the area received 6.95 inches of rain in the first four months of the year.

Rainfall measured at the Lubbock Weather station totaled .84 up to midnight Monday, .38 inch up to midnight Tuesday for a total of 1.22 inch.

While agriculture interests over the area could look forward to the possibility of bumper cotton and grain crops "with a few more good showers," a check of the storm area Tuesday showed that losses would prove to be heavy to many home owners, and to utilities companies.

REA Lines Damaged

Local officials of the R.E.A., whose maintenance crews were busy most of Tuesday in locating and repairing damaged power lines, said late Tuesday afternoon that, insofar as their damaged lines were concerned, most serious damage was in a belt beginning some three or four miles east and slightly north of Shallowater, and extending eastward about seven miles. They estimated that the damaged area was possibly a mile wide.

A twister which struck about 9:30 o'clock Monday night lifted a seven-room frame house off its foundation and tore off the front of the house on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Utley, three miles east of Shallowater school. It tore a frame and sheet iron irrigation house apart and lifted the irrigation pump motor, throwing it into the field, on the Utley farm.

Roof Is Lifted Off

In the same area, the roof of a house occupied by the V. O. Carnes family on a farm belonging to L. T. Frizzell, was lifted off by the twister and scattered over a half-mile area east.

Mr. and Mrs. Carnes and their four children were in the house at the time but no one was injured.

Rain did damage to the furniture and household goods of Mr. and Mrs. Carnes.

Iowa Housewife Risks Life To Save Child Trapped In Well

By JOHN W. McCORMICK
INS Staff Correspondent

DES MOINES, Ia., April 19—A modest Des Moines mother and a volunteer fireman risked their lives today in a 40-foot well to rescue a trapped 3-year-old girl from drowning.

The 37-year-old housewife spent a half-hour 10-feet down in the 30-inch wide, moss-covered well pipe keeping little Betty Johnson from slipping farther down into the well.

Betty was hauled to safety an hour after she tumbled into the well by Kenneth Hughes, volunteer fireman, who was lowered into the hole by workmen holding to his ankles.

The heroic mother, Mrs. B. C. Jamison was then pulled out on a rope.

The well was filled in within an hour after the rescue.

Betty's narrow escape recalled the death 10 days ago of pretty, blond 3-year-old Kathy Fiscus who was trapped 95 feet down in an abandoned San Marino, Calif., well.

Mrs. Jamison narrowly escaped death herself while attempting to rescue the small adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett John-

Chinese Government Rejects Red Demand

NANKING, Wednesday, April 20 (AP)—The fateful battle for the Yangtze valley and control of all China may be only hours away.

The government last night spurned a Red demand for unopposed crossings of the river, an official source said. This is expected to be the signal for a Red smash to the south bank.

The Communists had set up a new list of conditions for peace. Among them were the unopposed crossings. They told the government to agree by today or take the consequences. No hour was set.

The government reportedly made a counter proposal, but most observers predicted its quick rejection by the Reds.

Shortly before the government decision, the Communist radio declared 400,000 Red veterans had finished preparations to strike across the river in the Nanking-Shanghai area.

In all the Communists are believed to have 1,000,000 veterans in position to attack along some 650 miles of the Yangtze river front. The government has possibly 500,000 troops to meet the assault.

Ten Jurors Chosen In McGee Trial; Most Of Panel Used

By EDWARD WELSH

WHEN Judge Dan Blair recessed the 72nd District Court at 5:48 yesterday evening 10 of the 12 jurors necessary to hear testimony in the trial of Richard W. McGee had been chosen. Seventy-one men of the 105 man venire were examined up until that time; sixty-one were excused, dismissed or challenged for various causes.

The case was opened Monday morning to try McGee, 24, a former resident of Pampa and Amarillo, who is charged by indictment with the murder with malice aforethought of R. L. Allston, 42, Allston, manager of the South Plains Associated Grocers, was killed on the afternoon of July 7, 1948, by a pistol shot allegedly fired by McGee.

Only 34 Remain In Panel

The original venire contained a list of 225 names. Various exemptions and legal excuses reduced the number to 105. Only 34 remain from which to choose the other two jurors. During the court session Tuesday five were excused because their names had been spelled wrong on the venire list. One man was dismissed because he could not read and write and

RED CONGRESSES OPEN TODAY

Attacks On Atlantic Alliance, U.S. Policy Expected At 'Peace' Meets

By JOSEPH L. RANFT
INS Staff Correspondent

PARIS, April 19 — Heavy attacks on the Atlantic pact and American atomic policy were expected tonight in Communism-sponsored world "peace congresses" opening in Paris and Prague tomorrow.

The Czechoslovakian news agency said the second congress in Prague will be for eastern European delegates who were refused French visas to attend the Paris congress. France limited delegates from the east to eight per nation.

The sponsors claimed that 2,000 delegates representing 58 nations will be present in Paris when Frederic Joliot-Curie, head of France's Atomic Energy commission, gives the opening address.

The conference is regarded as a sequel to the "peace congress" held in New York last month when picket lines formed in opposition to it outside the Waldorf-Astoria hotel.

The U.S. State department last night announced it would grant passports for the 30 American delegates. Sen. Mundt, South Dakota Republican, said he will urge the House Un-American Activities committee to protest the department decision.

Ilya Ehrenburg, Soviet writer, was among six Russian delegates arriving in Paris today, and it is understood that a total of 400 Britons plan to attend.

Artist Attends Meet

Artist Rockwell Kent, one of the Americans, in commenting on charges that the Paris and New York meetings were Moscow-inspired, said:

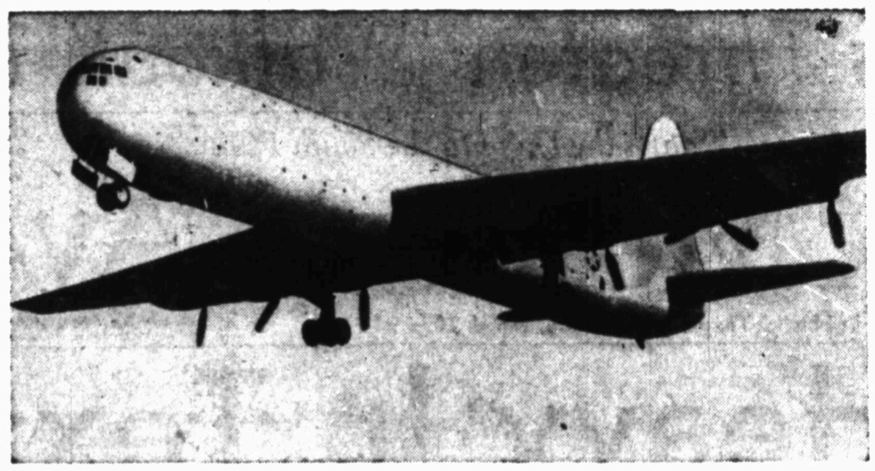

"If the devil himself organized a peace conference and I was sure he meant it I would pitch right in and work with him for peace."

Paul Robeson, negro actor-singer, heads the U.S. delegation. Other Americans besides Kent include Attorney O. John Rogge, poet Louis Untermeyer, novelist Howard Fast, band leader Artie Shaw, radio commentator Johannes Steele, Rabbi J. K. Cohen, artist William Gropper, Dr. W. E. B. Dubois, negro writer Albert Khan, president of the Jewish People's Fraternal order, Donald Henderson, president of the CIO-Affiliated Food, Tobacco and Agricultural workers.

Other Americans who have sent messages of endorsement or who will attend as individuals include Arthur Miller, author of the current Broadway hit play, "Death Of A Salesman," Martha Dodd, and former Minnesota Governor Elmer Benson.

High-ranking French Communist party members are managing the arrangements. Formal invitations were issued six weeks ago by the Paris liaison office of the "International Bureau of the Intellectuals for Peace and Culture."

This bureau is an outgrowth of last August's Communist-sponsored Congress of Intellectuals at Wroclaw, Poland. Alexander Fadeyev, head of the Union of Soviet Writers who denounced Americans as "fascist beasts" and also participated in the New York congress, is a leading member of the bureau.

MGM Drops Plan For Scheduled Lana Turner Film; Next Picture To Be 'A Life Of Her Own'

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
INS Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, April 20 — There have been some changes made at MGM for Lana Turner. The beautiful blonde and her studio have been conferring via radio to the Bob Topping yacht and it comes up that Lana will not star in "The Redhead And The Reformer" as advertised.

Instead, a Rebecca West story has been selected, "A Life Of Her Own," although I doubt if the readers of the West book, "Abiding Vision" will recognize it on the screen. Sam Raphaelson and Jan Lustig borrowed just a bare idea—and the rest is all new. It is interesting that in her role of the heroine who goes from poverty to riches, Lana will run the gamut from a young girl to an old lady.

Actress Plans 'Reunion'

Bette Davis talked with Hal Wallis in New York about doing an outside picture for him after she finishes "Beyond The Forest" at Warners. Hal was executive producer when Bette made "Dark Victory" and "Jezebel," which won an academy award at Warners, and she feels it would be a very happy reunion.

She's been in New York with her husband, William Grant Sherry, who is putting on an exhibition of his paintings at the American-British Art Center. After a private preview of Sherry's work, April 21, Bette will have a small party at a friend's apartment, for her New York friends.

English Star Likes Hollywood

Peggy Cummins makes no secret of wanting to make movies in Hollywood in preference to English productions. She was practically packed to return to London when the femme lead in "Gun Crazy" came along. She stays here to play the gun totin' moll in the MacKinley Kantor story for the King brothers.

Spencer Martin and Liza Kincaid glimpsed dancing at Ciro's—and that indicates, certainly, that he and Pat Smart have called it a day. Pat, meanwhile, is being seen everywhere in New York with Horace Schmidlapp.

Phil Regan, all excitement, telephoned from Midland, Texas. An oil well he and Ray Ryan own came in with such a gush it killed 27 cows and three teams of horses.

Ann Kresge, five and ten cent store heiress, and John Watling, jr., of Santa Barbara, had their pre-nuptial Easter dinner at the Seacombers. They were married in the village church at Westwood this afternoon.

A telegram from Mary and James Beck says: "Will baptize Ridgely Carter Beck Monday at Episcopal cathedral here. Bishop of New York officiating. Godparents are Duke and Duchess of Windsor, who will be represented by the British consul general, Sir Francis Evans and Lady Evans. Other Godparents are Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Thomas J. Watson, Mary Pickford and Rex St. Cyr." very imposing list of Godparents for such a little baby.

Saw Louis Calhern at the Friars Frolic with his bride, and he looks very well. I hear he signed a two picture deal at MGM.

William Powell, minus his mustache, a few tables away with "mousie" all done up in her Easter finery.

Katina Paxinou has been invited by Val Arms to come back to Broadway. He has a high comedy dealing with Queen Marie of Romania's visit to New York in the 20's, called "The Queen Comes Over." How well I remember Queen Marie's visit and Mayor Jimmy Walker's ride with her from the boat to the hotel.

Peter Lorre up at the Arrowhead Springs hotel to take off some poundage. That's a wonderful place to do it, with those baths.

Ralph W. Collins Is Named Engineer For Stanolind Firm

FORT WORTH, April 19 (Special) — Ralph W. Collins has been named division engineer for Stanolind Oil and Gas company's North Texas-New Mexico division, John R. Evans, division manager, announced today.

Evans also said that C. L. Kelley will be made assistant field superintendent at Brownfield. Kelley has been a senior petroleum engineer in the Fort Worth division office.

Another recent move saw E. L. Chapin transferred from Odessa to Lubbock as production foreman. Chapin assumed his new duties this month.

Funds Raised For Tokyo Raider Serving As Missionary In Japan

GALVESTON, April 19 (AP)—One of the daring Tokyo raiders, now a missionary in Japan, soon will receive a spontaneous contribution from his buddies to help him open the hearts of the Japanese.

Doolittle's daredevils from Shangri-La loosed their purse strings yesterday to help Rev. Jacob Deshazer, who was a bombardier on one of the B-25's. He rode the ship of Maj. Bob Hite. The raiders ended their fourth annual convention here with the adoption of three projects.

Deshazer, now at Osaka, Japan, wrote to the assembled fliers:

"De can influence more Japanese by opening the doors of Christian churches than by opening bomb bay doors."

An undisclosed amount of cash was collected for Deshazer.

The missionary was one of the unlucky ones following the raid. He was captured in China and spent 34 months in solitary confinement in a Japanese prison camp.

He was given a Bible by a Japanese guard.

Deshazer said, "I read it and the Lord showed me the way to become a Christian. I did not know before. I decided to love my fellow man and to return good for evil. All hatred was taken from me."

After liberation he returned to Oregon, his home state. He began studying for the ministry.

Says Man Has Strange Powers That Work While He Sleeps

A strange man in Los Angeles, known as "The Voice of Two Worlds," reveals the story of a remarkable system that often leads to improvement in power of mind, achievement of brilliant business and professional success and new happiness. Many report improvement in health. Others tell of increased bodily strength, magnetic personality, courage and poise.

The man, a well-known explorer and geographer, tells how he found these strange methods in far-off and mysterious Tibet, often called the land of miracles by the few travelers permitted to visit it. He discloses how he learned rare wisdom and long hidden practices, closely guarded for three thousand years by the sages, which enabled many to perform amazing feats. He maintains that these immense powers are latent in all of us and that methods for using them are now simplified so that they can be used by almost any person with ordinary intelligence.

He maintains that man, instead of being limited by a one-man-power-mind, has within him the mind-power of a thousand men or more as well as the energy-power of the universe which can be used in his daily affairs. He states that this sleeping giant of mind-power, when awakened, can make man capable of surprising accomplishments, from the prolonging of youth to success in many fields. Strangely, he says that this power works best while we sleep, when proper methods are used.

The author states the time has come for this long-hidden system to be disclosed to the Western world, and offers to send his amazing 9000-word treatise which reveals many startling results—to readers of this paper, free of cost or obligation. For your free copy, address the Institute of Mentalphysics, 213 South Hobart Blvd., Dept. K-152, Los Angeles, 4, Calif. Readers are urged to write promptly as only a limited number of the free treatises have been printed.—Adv

Dodge maintenance costs are at an all-time low . . . due to a wealth of engineering features and advancements.

In addition to features listed in the chart, consider these Dodge engineering advancements that are yours today . . . not one of which was available 20 years ago.

Connecting rod bearings are removable. Oil screen is of the floating, not fixed, type; a rotor oil pump replaces the old gear design. A water distributing tube increases engine efficiency.

Valve seat inserts substantially prolong engine life, increase gas economy, and reduce frequency of valve-grinding jobs. Vast improvements have been made in piston design; top piston rings are now chrome-plated, insuring better compression, longer cylinder wall life.

Famed Amola steel replaces alloy steels in springs and axle shafts. Hypoid rear axles replace the spiral bevel type, and rear axle shafts are shot-peened.

There are 7 frame crossmembers (including a channel-type bumper) instead of 4. Added features include voltage-control regulators, stepped hydraulic brake cylinders, and 35- instead of 20-ampere capacity generators.

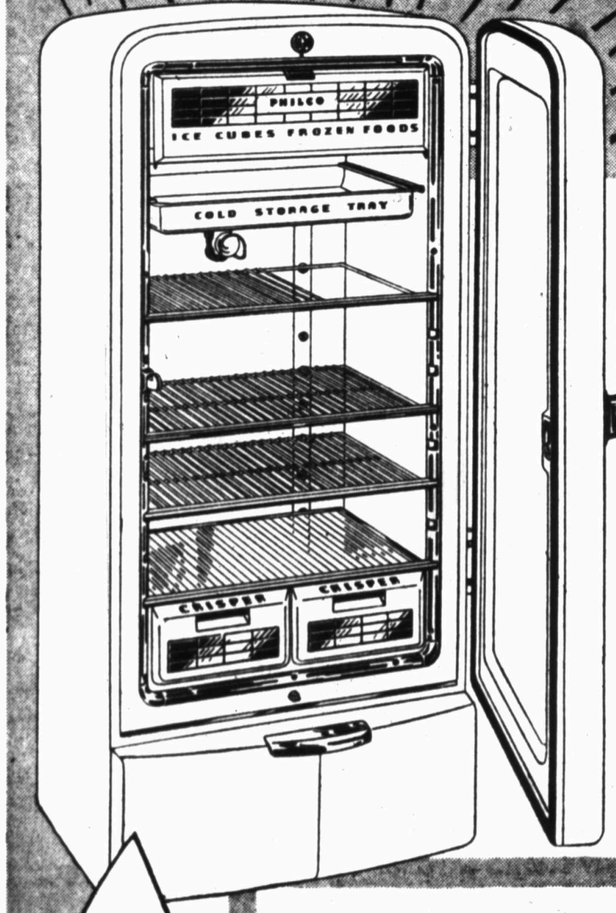

VALUE features in the new "Pilot-House" cabs . . . not present in '29 models . . . include 7-step seat adjustment on famed "Air-O-Ride" seats; slanted "V"-type windshield; safety glass; 4-point rubber, instead of rigid mounting; 57¼" seat width as against 45¼"; outside gas tank filler, instead of under seat, and many more.

SPEECH LATER CLEANED UP

Solon's Talk On War Plans Is Picked Up For Red Propaganda

WASHINGTON, April 19. (U.P.)—Chairman Clarence Cannon of the House Appropriations committee sent his war speech to the cleaners too late to hide the spots on it from the Communists.

Here and behind the iron curtain the Communist party is making a propaganda ten-strike of it. The speech was that one of last week in which Cannon accepted the idea that war with the Soviet Union is inevitable.

He said the United States in the next war must "equip the soldiers of other nations and let them send their boys into the holocaust so we won't have to send our boys."

Down Communist Line

"The next war," he added, "must be won in the first three weeks. We must in that time pulverize every military center in Russia."

The way the reporters in the House press gallery caught Cannon, he made no qualification about the likelihood of another war when he addressed the House last Wednesday on the Armed Services appropriation bill.

Neither did he qualify his proposition that the Marshall Plan countries would have to do the man-to-man fighting while we supplied the atom bomb and behind the lines services in the next war.

Those two propositions that the United States believes war must come and that we will make others do our fighting, are exactly what the Communists have been using for propaganda purposes for months. Now they claim it is official.

Was Later Changed

It is fair to say that the speech, as reported by the uniformly reliable men and women in the House press gallery, was just about what the Moscow propagandists would have ordered if they could order a speech.

As the speech actually appeared in the Record, it went this way:

Bombing Russia: "If there should be another war, which God forbid, the outcome could be decisively determined by atomic warfare in three weeks or less. All military experts agree that Russia would occupy the entire European continent within 90 days after the opening of hostilities."

Soldiers: "Of course war could not be won by air power alone. There must be troops for occupation and navy ships for transportation, but under the Marshall Plan and North Atlantic pact we will have allies with troops and ships who should also be given an opportunity to discharge their obligations as contracting powers. Why not let them contribute some of the boys needed to occupy enemy territory after we have demoralized and annihilated enemy territory from the air . . . send their boys as a fair share of their contribution to the war and defense of civilization and of their people."

Mrs. Wilma Ybarbo Asks Action Against U.S. Civilian In Germany

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., April 19. (U.P.)—Mrs. William Ybarbo today awaited word from two Massachusetts congressmen on her demand they ask the Army for "appropriate action" against a civilian official in Germany who she said "lied" to her to get a statement about her fatal shooting of her husband.

Mrs. Ybarbo telegraphed the congressmen that a U.S. Civil Investigation department official named "Chandler" threatened her with separation from her child in order to get the statement involving the death of Sgt. John Ybarbo of Goliad, Texas.

"He (Chandler) said I could not see the baby until after I gave a statement and then they wouldn't let me see the baby," she said in her telegram to Republican Reps. Angier L. Goodwin and Donald L. Nicholson.

Mrs. Ybarbo, freed from a prison sentence Friday by Gen. Lucius D. Clay, flew to the United States from Germany Sunday. She had been convicted of slaying her husband during a party at their Fritzlar, Germany home last September.

She said she would apply for her husband's $10,000 GI life insurance in order "to put my boy through college."

However, a Veterans administration official in Boston said she would not receive it.

Wichita Falls Residents Face New Threat Of Bus Walkout

WICHITA FALLS, April 19. (AP) The city council will make a last-minute try Friday night to forestall a city bus strike set for Saturday.

The council held a special session on the matter last night. But it failed to approve fare increases which the Wichita Transit company says must precede wage demands asked by the drivers.

The drivers struck for several days two months ago. They are getting five cents an hour wage increases temporarily under a makeshift agreement which expires Friday night.

Jester Calls For Strong Economy

HOUSTON, April 19 (U.P.)—Gov. Beauford Jester, speaking before Texas leaders of the U. S. savings bond program, urged "eternal vigilance" tonight to strengthen the American economy against depression and prevent encroachment "upon our way of life."

The governor reminded savings bond boosters that "in the time of our forefathers, there was no 'cold war' as we know it today."

"Our problem today," Jester said, ". . . is one for the extreme in wisdom and in cooperation, in choosing and performing tasks that will help to defeat the enemies of our way of life before it is necessary to engage in actual warfare . . ."

Warns Against Depression

"Or" he added, "if war should be inevitable—to win it conclusively and permanently when it does come."

Jester urged a strong economy as "the best peacetime defense" for the nation.

". . . Economic health," he said, "in this country gives us an almost impenetrable shell against the ceaseless and determined efforts of radicals to destroy our Democratic framework."

"We cannot afford another depression," the governor stressed. "We cannot afford the great loss of productivity that another depression would bring," he said. "We cannot afford the unemployment or the hunger and misery that another depression would bring to so many millions of our people."

Texas Construction Man Dies Of Pneumonia In Miami Hotel

MIAMI, Fla., April 19. (AP)—Col. Richard Tevia Daniel, 87, Texas and Oklahoma builder, died last night.

Daniel died in the former 64-room Seminole hotel overlooking busy Flagler street in downtown Miami where he had lived since 1942 when he was brought to the hotel by ambulance from Dallas.

His physician attributed death to pneumonia.

A son, R. T. Daniel, jr., lives in Kerrville, Texas. In 1944 he attempted to throw his father's estate into curatorship and charged his two brothers were holding their father a prisoner in the hotel.

Fort Worth Airport Plans Strike Snag

FORT WORTH, April 19. (U.P.)—The city of Fort Worth was confronted today with the necessity of switching strategy in securing of land for its controversial new international airport halfway between Fort Worth and Dallas.

Drew Clifton, judge of the Tarrant county court at law, yesterday threw out condemnation proceedings through which Fort Worth sought to take over a 40-acre farm at the airport site.

A condemnation board recommended that O. I. Longfellow be paid $20,000 for the property. Clifton held that the city had failed to negotiate before beginning its condemnation proceedings and also sustained the plea of Longfellow attorneys that the city was not a free agent in the action.

The latter plea was based on a contract between Fort Worth and three airlines. It gives the airlines the right to approve land purchase prices.

Attorneys for Fort Worth noted that the Longfellow farm land is adjacent to the main (north-south) runway and argued that failure to secure the land would delay the whole airport project.

Grand Jury No-Bills Rancher In Death Of Fort Worth Man

FORT WORTH, April 19. (AP)—The Tarrant county grand jury today no-billed William Luther (Buddy) Looper, 51-year-old Keller rancher and liquor store owner, in the slaying of Melvin Lee (Blackie) Lawson.

A murder charge was filed against Looper after Lawson was shot to death April 10.

Looper said he had never seen Lawson before the afternoon of the slaying when Lawson walked into a cafe and boasted, "I'm the toughest man in Fort Worth."

"I was defending myself," Looper said.

Lawson, who had been arrested 82 times by city police, followed Looper to the street from the club and as the rancher attempted to get to his sedan, Lawson grabbed him by the shoulder.

Looper fired his .38 caliber revolver at Lawson. A knife was found near Lawson's body.

Economic Setup For West Europe Still Depends On Many Problems

By DANIEL De LUCE
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, April 19—A powerful American figure in the European Recovery program stares out of his office window at the beautiful garden of the Tuileries as you put the tough question:

Will Western Europe be out of the red in 1952?

"Lord knows!" he exclaims.

'A dollar deficit. Yes, there will be one in 1952, after four years of ERP," he admits "But it could be a manageable deficit. It need not be a noose, strangling the continent.

Weather Is Factor

"It all depends. Even the weather has a fantastic influence. One good wheat crop was a tremendous tonic last year for France. But Portugal, which didn't take a dime from ERP in 1948, now needs 10 million dollars because of a terrific drouth.

"Who's to say what the weather will be like in the remaining three years of ERP?

"Besides that, do we know how much Communist labor bosses will sabotage western industrial production in the years ahead? Or how much Russia's threats will scare capital from European investment?

"How long will southeast Asia be in Communist turmoil, wrecking an important source of Europe's trade?

"Your answers are as good as mine. We don't know the answers. Yet they bear heavily upon the question whether Western Europe will be out of the red."

Heavy Cost Seen

ERP has meant five billion dollars of American aid in 12 months. It may mean a total of 17 billion dollars for the entire life of the program: April, 1948, to June, 1952.

The United States has squeezed no European concessions for itself through ERP despite Soviet charges.

Proponents of ERP claim it will be a bargain for the Unites States—even at a total cost of 17 billion dollars—if it wins economic independence for Western Europe on time.

It must, they say, win the peace. In winning the war, Americans spent 60 billion dollars on Lend-Lease alone.

Questions Pose Problems

But as many question marks as dollar signs crop up in ERP. Here are two of the biggest:

How long will Russia's Iron Curtain intimidate western industrialized countries from building up their old trade with agarrian eastern Europe? Europe's economic splitting may get worse before it gets better.

How long will the United States, Britain and France fail to devise a sure-fire formula for western Germany which will really unleash its economic strength for the comman good but permanently restrain the danger of new aggression? Nothing decided as yet about the Germans is more than a temporary compromise.

Nineteen European countries and areas are in ERP. Each is a problem—a question mark—in itself.

Switzerland is unique. No gifts or loans were asked last year or this year from ERP.

Some Receive Small Loans

Then there are countries receiving only relatively small loans, and no gifts: Belgium-Luxembourg, Sweden, Ireland and Turkey. Iceland also had been under consideration for a small loan, not having obtained any ERP funds in 1948.

Then come countries receiving both small loans and gifts, but they are very good risks by any standard: Denmark and Norway.

Then you can lump together the poorest risks. They are countries which by reason of war, foreign occupation, or the effects of Allied peace-making, have very little hope of economic independence within the four-and-a-quarter years of ERP. Here they are: Western Germany, Greece, Austria and the Free Territory of Trieste.

Last, but not least, are four countries which obtained $3,191,000,000 of ERP's first 5 billion dollars—that is nearly 64 per cent of it.

Put them over the top, and perhaps you could breathe easy about Western Europe as a whole. This is the way they split their net ERP aid:

France—1,304 million dollars (including about 100 million dollars as a loan).

Britain—940 million dollars (including about 250 million dollars as a loan).

Italy—535 million dollars (including about 50 million dollars as a loan).

The Netherlands—412 million dollars (including about 130 million dollars as a loan).

Many things are bought with ERP dollars, but you can search from top to bottom of the list without finding any mention of rose-colored spectacles.

Professional optimists are rare, if not non-existent in the ERP set-up.

Cordell Hull Leaves Naval Hospital After Long Treatment

WASHINGTON, April 19. (AP)—Cordell Hull, 77, former secretary of state, was released yesterday from Bethesda Naval hospital after more than two years of treatment.

Announcing this today, the Navy said the elderly statesman "has made an excellent recovery and has been discharged and has returned to his home permanently."

Peru now has 5,850 registered fishermen, 23 canneries and 2,000 cannery workers.

Reburial Rites Set For Former Football Star

BRENHAM, Texas, April 19. (AP)—Joe Routt, whose name is a legend in Texas A. and M. college athletics and who was a hero in the service of his country, is coming home.

The man who made All-America at Aggieland in the thirties will be reburied here tomorrow. He was killed in action during the Battle of the Bulge in Germany, Dec. 10, 1944.

Bronze Star Awarded

Routt was awarded the Bronze Star medal posthumously for heroic duty from Nov. 29, 1944, to Dec. 2, 1944, for his action in taking over command of his infantry company after the commanding ofifcer had been killed.

According to the citation, Routt crossed through open fire to reorganize his company for an attack. He was killed by machine gun fire from enemy tanks upon reaching his objective two days later. He was a captain.

Routt was the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Routt of Chapel Hill. Two brothers, W. A. (Chip) Routt and Milton Routt also played football at Texas A. and M.

Routt was one of the greats of Southwest conference football, being named All-America at guard in 1936 and 1937. He was a star high school football player here before going to A. and M.

Full military honors will be accorded Captain Routt tomorrow when services are held at Leon Simank Funeral home and continued at Prairie Lea cemetery.

At Texas A. and M. his name is enshrined in the roster of favorite sons.

Examined the new DE SOTO? You won't know what's happened until you do!

"The Car Designed with YOU in Mind" is changing a lot of minds!

Crowds of people have visited our showrooms since the first announcement of the new De Soto. It has been very interesting to watch their reactions.

First of all, of course, they walk all around the car and admire its smart, low lines and its sleek appearance. They tell us they like its looks because it is "modern but not modernistic."

But the big surprise comes when they open those wide doors and step inside. The roof does not hit their hats. There's lots of headroom. The steering wheel doesn't hit the driver's knees. And because the luxurious seats are chair high, you can see everything without craning your neck.

Get in. Front seat or back, they're both wider. There's more leg room for all passengers, too. And you get all this extra space without sacrifice of convenience, because the outside dimensions of the new De Soto are not increased. You can still park with ease. And you needn't rebuild that garage.

Before you make any decision about any new car, come in and let us show you De Soto's many great features including Tip-Toe Hydraulic Shift with Fluid Drive, that lets you drive without shifting. Compare this car with any other at any price . . . for beauty, comfort, safety and value. Then decide.

Mrs. B. H. Moore was elected president of Lubbock Woman's club during a brief business session preceding a tea Tuesday afternoon in the Hilton hotel. Mrs. Moore will succeed Mrs. R. O. Bennett, who had been re-elected president, but who resigned.

Dr. A. B. Cunningham, Lubbock novelist, was main speaker of the afternoon, discussing the process of writing a novel and illustrating his points by references to his latest book, "The Victory of Paul Kent."

Many people are unable to get away from other people long enough to write, Dr. Cunningham stated. He said that he writes each morning from 7:30 until 12 o'clock, encouraging no disturbance.

Approximately 60 club members and their guests attended the tea. Mrs. Bennett poured, and other members of the house party included Mesdames Moore, H. H. Bidwell, Edwin Boedeker, R. C. Badgett, W. B. Sides and Bert Douglas. The nominating committee report was presented by Mrs. A. C. Cocanougher.

The state was represented by County Attorney Waggoner Carr and assistant County Attorney Dudley Brummett. L. C. Harris was attorney for the defendant.

David S. O'Pry, 21, of Levelland, returned here by the Hockley county sheriff's office, pleaded guilty Tuesday of a charge of check law violation and was fined $10 and county court costs, a judgment of Judge Davies showed.

The Woman's Angle
By Ellen Miller

An unusual money-making scheme, launched this year by the Business and Professional Women's club of Denison, may be of interest to large women's groups here.

The club calendars that, instead of showing holidays and giving other information usually found on calendars, listed birthdays of local people. The calendars sold for 25 cents each. There was a charge of ten cents for each name listed, and sometimes as many as five names from one family was included. To make the venture yet more profitable, the women sold advertising for each page of the calendar to local firms.

The group sold approximately 750 calendars, listing about 1600 names. The project was not only remunerative, but served the community as well. As the months go by, many individuals are made happy by receiving notes, cards and calls from friends who saw their birthday noted on the calendar.

The women began working early in the fall so that the calendars would be on sale by the first of the year.

DRAPERY LINING

With increasing popularity of picture windows, and the fashion of hanging drapes that will be seen from the outside, it has been suggested that women line their draperies with attractive prints rather than the conventional solid neutral fabric. This makes the picture window serve a double purpose—framing the lawn for those inside the home, and framing the room when it is desired that it be seen from the outside.

TEEN-AGE TIPS

Not every girl is born pretty, but good looks definitely do not depend on that unusual combination of perfect features, lovely complexion and good figure.

Adolescence is the period of life when a girl should take a long look in the mirror and decide whether she is pretty like a Dresden doll—and if not, she should decide which are her best features and make an effort to be striking.

Pretty girls are as rare as the first spring violets, and they should treasure their loveliness and always wear dainty clothes, clear pink makeup and paler shades of nail polish so as not to distract the eye from their natural good looks.

But the many girls who are not actually pretty need never bemoan their fates, for they are really the ones who have more leeway in choosing clothes, who can try out the brilliant lipstick and nail polishes, pixie glasses and eye-catching costume jewelry.

Every girl has a few good features—maybe it is a tiny waist, pretty feet, glistening hair or clear, wide eyes. She should dress and apply makeup to direct attention to the good points, taking the eye away from her less attractive features.

Travelers At Vienna Opera

Ballet Is Featured

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Margaret Turner, Woman's Editor of Lubbock Avalanche and Journal publications, writes today of the opera in Vienna where she has spent a few days on an European tour which will be concluded next month.)

VIENNA—A night at the opera in Vienna is the dream of every music enthusiastic and it was our privilege to enjoy two such nights. The magnificent State opera house was badly damaged during the closing days of the war and the operas are held in the People's opera house.

Since our seats to "Tosca" were second row, we had an excellent view of the Vienna Symphony orchestra, as well as of the crowd, seated in boxes and on the main floor. The first night was a disappointment as to crowds but the second night saw a capacity audience for the presentation of Strauss' lilting operetta, "One Night in Venice." Eddie, our driver, says the people usually devote one night a month to an evening at the opera or at a wine garden.

It's said that everyone over here plays some kind of a musical instrument. The musicians in the orchestra were mostly young men and all were in business suits, with the exception of the young conductor who wore white tie and tails and came on with quite a flourish, stepping from his podium, where he seated himself to conduct, to shake hands with the concert master.

WE hurried to the entrance hall after the first act, but were disappointed when we didn't see anyone munching rolls, a tradition in the Volksoper. However, on the second evening, we saw the roll munchers and we also sat in audience that howled merrily at the comic lines in the operetta because they understood what was being said and, while we didn't understand, it was rather wonderful to hear the laughter and to see people enjoying themselves.

The Tarantella, a gypsy dance that features the third act of "One Night in Venice" was the most graceful ballet we have ever seen. The girls were beautiful of face and figure and wore brilliant costumes and they and the dance was executed with much speed and flashing of tambourines.

AN Austrian accordionist played and sang in the dining room at the Bristol hotel one evening. The English speaking waiter said he was a member of the opera before the war.

Our German words are terribly limited, being made up chiefly of "thank you," "what is this?," "good morning," and "good evening." Fortunately our driver spoke excellent English and Mrs. Smiley had learned enough to converse about such things as ordering meals, shopping and asking directions.

Since we have been in Europe, we have come to the conclusion that an international language would do much to break down barriers. For instance, in the beauty shop we couldn't tell the operator on which side we part our hair and how we wanted it set. Since one of the girls understood a little English, we got by all right, but we have wished time and again during these days over here that we could talk to these people and have them understand us. We would like to ask ten thousand questions.

THE continental politeness is a little wearing after so long a time. When we met the husband of an Austrian woman who lived near Mrs. Smiley during her residence in Vienna, we saw our first example of Viennese manners. He clicked his heels, bowed from the waist and brushed our right hands with his lips. It was rather disconcerting to say the least; especially when the act was repeated when we said goodbye.

The Austrians shake hands each time they meet, even if it is half a dozen times a day. When we left the Bristol hotel this morning after we said goodbye to five waiters, to the man behind the mail counter, to the woman who runs the magazine stand and to the man who places himself near the American MP who stands guard at the entrance. We had already told the hotel desk clerk goodbye and thanked him for his wishes for a pleasant journey and a happy return some day. We would like to come back to this city after it has been restored; it already has a part of our heart.

Carl M. (Jackie) Sullivan is beginning his third year as Hubber manager, and his fourth as a Lubbock player. Under Sullivan in 1947 the Hubbers captured the Class C championship of Texas, defeating Kilgore of the Lone Star league in a post-season playoff, after winning regular season and Shaughnessy titles in the WT-NM circuit. Last year his Hubbers finished third in regular season WT-NM league play, but were defeated in the Shaughnessy playoff. As a player, Sullivan has compiled a hefty .359 composite batting average in his three seasons with Lubbock. In 1946 he hit .341, in 1947 he climbed to .355, and last year he boosted his mark to .381.

Lubbock Hubbers Meet Clovis Pioneers In Baseball Opener

Pre-Game Activities Slated For 7:50 P.M.

By JOE KELLY
Avalanche Sports Editor

Pleading eyes were being turned toward the weatherman last night as Manager Jackie Sullivan and the Lubbock Hubbers awaited the opening of the 1949 West Texas-New Mexico League baseball season here tonight.

Paul Dean's Clovis Pioneers are scheduled to pry the platter off the top of the season tonight at 8 in Rosenthal Field, with the Hubbers acting as hosts, as ungracious ones as possible. And a colorful crown of over 3,000 persons was expected to help launch the new season.

Mayor Takes Hill

Mayor W. H. Rodgers, a baseball enthusiast, is scheduled to throw the first pitch of the Lubbock season, with Steve Matthews, city manager behind the plate. But attempting to break up the battery will be John King, former Texas League batting terror, who will try to exhibit his old home run power.

After the brief ceremonies have been concluded, last year's third place Hubbers and Clovis' sixth-place Pioneers will officially open the current 140-game schedule.

Manager Dean has nominated George Matthews, a tall, portsided pitcher, for mound duties. Manager Sullivan will oppose him with Don Hensiek, a tall righthander. Matthews won 14 and lost 15 for Clovis last year while Hensiek won and lost 10 for Wassau of the Wisconsin State League.

Lots Of New Faces

New faces will be sprinkled liberally through both starting lineups. Hubber fans will barely recognize the infield which will be barren of First Baseman Virgil Richardson, Shortstop Jackie Wilcox and Third Baseman Frank McAlexander.

Richardson, owned by Dallas, was bought by Pampa during the winter. McAlexander and Wilcox both vetrans were taken off the playing list at the last minute so that the Hubbers could get down to the league's playing limit of six veterans.

The Hubber outfield also is changed. Centerfielder Gene Hixson is gone and his place will be taken by Al Duarte, entering his fifth year of O. B. and his fourth in this league. Chick Fowler will be in his customry place in left field and Charles Willis, a rookie pitcher, probably will replace the ailing Joe Wisniewski.

Clovis Also Changed

Mike Dooley, a 1947 favorite here, returns to take over catching chores. Jim Prince, who was the minor league batting king with Midland in 1947 returns to play first base. Walter "Buddy" McCallum, a limited service player, with Odessa last year will be at shortstop and Nelson Davis, purchased only Monday from Austin, will be at third base.

Clovis also has made some changes, but such familiar faces as Jess Jacinto at second base, Wiley Moore in centerfield Chuck Novotney at first base Ray Bauer in centerfield and I. B. Palmer, former Lamesa player, at third base return.

Newcomers to the Pioneer lineup are Jim Sinovick in leftfield, Lesle Earl behind the plate and Buster Harliss at shortstop.

Sinovick formerly was with the Chicago Cubs, who sent him to the Wisconsin State League and the California League last year. He hit .318 for Visalia Calif. last season.

Tickets Still Selling

Earl is a 19-year old receiver on option from Los Angeles. He played with Class D clubs in Ohio and North Carolina last year, hitting an even .300.

Harliss is a rookie, is 22 years old and possesses a strong throwing arm. He comes from Springfield, Mo., and is on trial for the first 15 days.

Oscar Kuver, a righthanded pitcher, and Lloyd Pearson, a lefthanded outfielder also were taken off the playing list by the Hubbers last night. The Hubbers were carrying 10 class men and are allowed only six. The players mentioned may be kept, or they may be sold or traded.

In the meantime, a last minute ticket rush was expected by the Jaycees, who are selling tickets for the game. And if the weather is favorable, despite the prediction of rain last night, a record crowd may be on hand.

Double Main Event Tonight

A double main event will feature wrestling at Sled Allen's arena tonight, and the fights get underway at 8:15 p. m. Rod Fenton meets Pierre LaBell in the final main attraction, and Buck Weaver tackles Steve Nenoff in the first main exhibition.

After wrestling 45 minutes to a draw last week, Fenton and LaBell were not satisfied with the outcome and asked to be matched again this week. So the promoter is giving the boys an hour to settle their difficulties this week.

LaBell proved to the fans last week that he could match blow for blow with Fenton and fight just as rough as the Canadian.

Top man on the totem pole 'round here has been Weaver, and no one has had much luck in defeating him recently. But the bald Nenoff has been in the fight game as long as the smooth, scientific Weaver and can be expected to put up a good showing.

This match could easily steal the spotlight away from the other fights because both wrestlers have lots of experience and ability.

Two old timers get together in the first event when Billy McEuin and Hy Sharman meet in the 20 minute opener. These two men are about the same size and are well experienced in the mat game. McEuin has been the third man in the ring quite frequently, but he is not heavy enough for most of the men who wrestle in this area.

Tickets are on sale at Wylie's Drug today until 5 p. m.

Match Play Begins In Annual North-South Golf Tourney

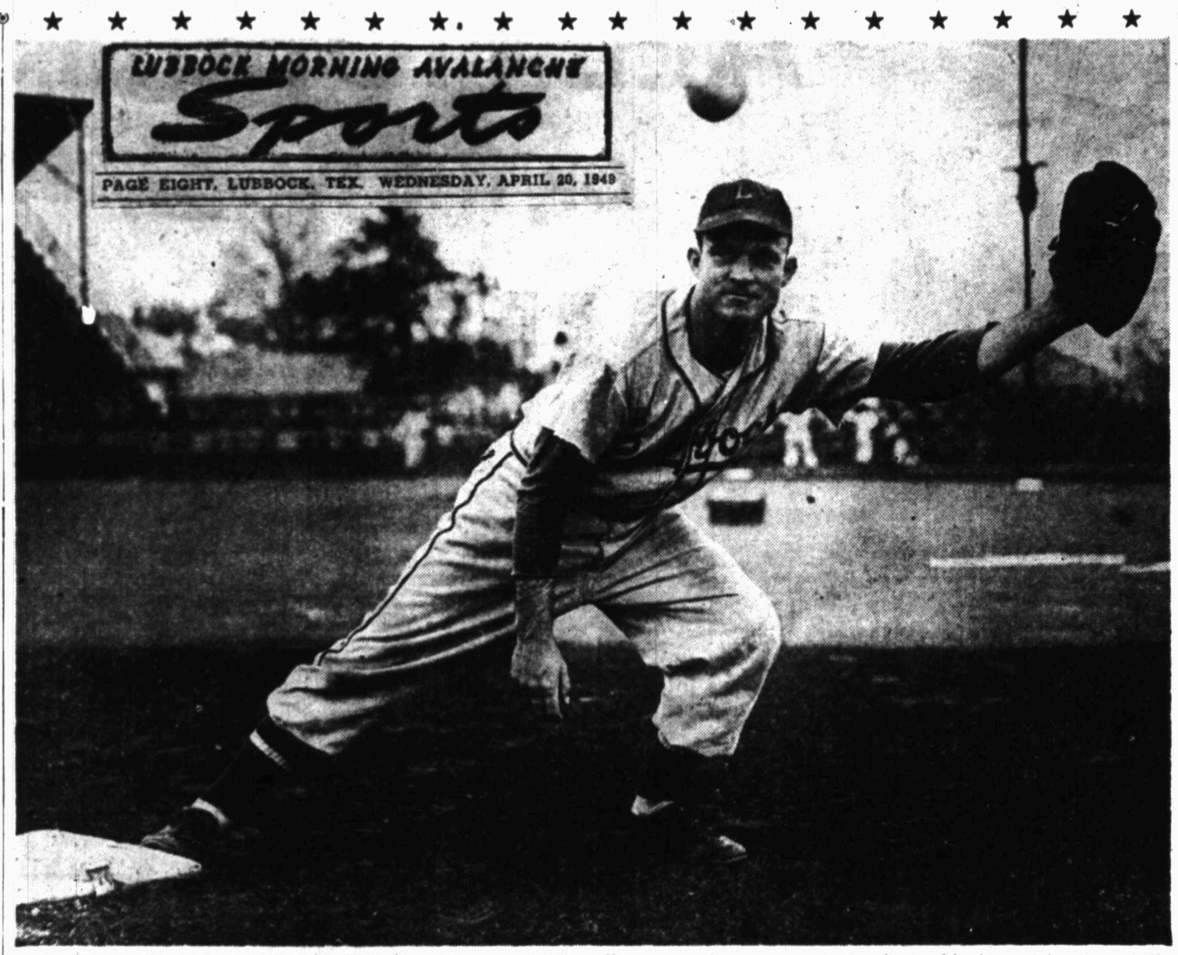

PINEHURST, N. C., April 19 (AP)—Taking their cue from defending champion Harvie Ward, favorites mowed down lesser opponents today as match play began in the North-South Amateur Golf tournament.

Ward, the University of North Carolina junior from Tarboro, N. C., his 1948 finals victim, Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, and the other prime choices moved into tomorrow's double-barreled round almost without incident.

Feller Ordered To See Bone Specialist About Ailing Arm

ST. LOUIS, April 19 (INS)—Ace Cleveland Hurler Bob Feller, who lasted only two innings in his 1949 debut, will visit noted bone specialist Dr. John Hyland in St. Louis tomorrow for an examination of his pitching arm.

Feller was ordered to see Hyland by Indian Manager Lou Boudreau, who removed the speedball hurler for a pinch hitter in the second frame of today's opener against the St. Louis Browns.

READY TO LEAD THE HUBBERS TONIGHT—Manager Jackie Sullivan, wearing an expectant grin on his face, stabs for a ball thrown to him at second base. The Hubber manager will be starting his third year as leader of the Lubbock Baseball team tonight at 8, when the Clovis Pioneers come here for the season's opener. If rain doesn't delay the season's first West Texas-New Mexico League tilt here, Sullivan and his team will square off opposite Paul "Daffy" Dean's nine in the first of a two-game series. The Hubbers will be after another pennant to add to their collection, as well as winning the opening day trophy for the largest crowd.

Loboes, Albuquerque Meet Today

2,500 May See Opening Tussle

LAMESA, April 19. (Special)—The Lamesa Loboes and the Albuquerque Dukes help open the 10th season of the hit-happy and colorful West Texas-New Mexico league here at Lobo Field tomorrow afternoon.

Officials forecast a crowd of 2,500 if good weather prevails. The weatherman threw a damper on the enthusiasm with a forecast of cloudy and cool weather, but without rain.

Pre-game ceremonies are slated to start at 2:30 with J. R. "Cutch" Leuenberger introducing players of both clubs. Mayor Sam Richardson will wind up and throw out the first pitch.

Most stores will close shortly before the game. Lamesa, once called the "biggest little town in baseball," still has a host of rabid rooters, despite dismal seasons at times.

Won Six Pre-Season Tilts

The Loboes this year have their eye on the pennant. They are bolstered with six straight exhibition game victories and entertain strong first division hopes under Manager Jay Haney. Haney hopes for last minute reinforcements to make the club even stronger.

Frank Calo, a veteran catcher who hit .346 with Gladewater last year and purchased from that club, is due to arrive in time to work the opener. Calo is expected to solve the mask problems. Dallas also promised a righthanded pitcher here in time for tomorrow's game.

Haney has named veteran Stan Grzywacz, a righthander, to toil the opener. He will be seeking his 32nd league mound triumph over the Dukes. His opponent probably will be Virgil Butler, recently optioned to the Dukes by Oakland.

Probable Lineups

The box office at the field will be open at 12:45 p.m. tomorrow, with tickets on sale downtown until 1:45 p.m.

The Dukes, with Manager Hershel Martin, are due to arrive here in the morning. Martin, playing centerfield again, guided the Dukes to a first-place finish last year.

Probable lineup: Albuquerque, Attyd, 3b; Dawson, lf; McClain, rf; Maul, 1b; Martin, cf; Mulcahy, c; Suhrman, 2b; Okrie, ss; Butler, p. Lamesa, Rheinghans, rf; Haney, cf; Pinto, lf; Coats, 1b; E. Melillo, 3b; Buckel, ss; Calo, c; H. Melillo, 2b; Grzywacz, p.

COURT TOURNEY ADDED

DALLAS, April 19 (AP)—An invitational basketball tournament between St. Louis university, Navy, Baylor and Southern Methodist university was announced today. The tournament will be held here next Dec. 30-31.

Tornadoes' Nine Tops Odessa, 5-1

LAMESA, April 19 (Special)—Lamesa's Golden Tornado baseball team lengthened its win streak to five games at Odessa today, defeating the Bronchos, 5-1, to move into undisputed leadership in the District 3-AA title race.

Defeated in their first conference tilt by Odessa, the Tornadoes have come back strong The winning pitcher for Lamesa was Righthander Bill Hart. He gave up only two hits while his teammates were hitting Oscar Roth for seven safeties. Hart has won two games, losing none.

Leading the hitting for Lamesa was Walter Massengale, catcher, he collected three base hits to spark the offensive.

The game was played under cloudy skies, and was delayed by rain. The next tilt for Lamesa is with Abilene here next Tuesday.

Gardella Motion Denied By Federal Judge Edward Conger

NEW YORK, April 19 (INS)—Federal Judge Edward A. Conger today denied a motion by Danny Gardella for an order permitting his immediate return to organized baseball.

Gardella, a former outfielder of the New York Giants, is under suspension. He is seeking damages of $300,000, charging that organized baseball violates the anti-trust laws.

Judge Conger, in denying the application, followed the course he established previously in the cases of Max Lanier and Fred Martin. These former pitchers of the St. Louis Cardinals also are under suspension for jumping to the Mexican league.

Tulsa Oilers Nose Indians Again In Texas Loop Game

TULSA, Okla., April 19 (AP)—The Tulsa Oilers snatched another close one from Oklahoma City tonight, winning a second duel from their Texas League neighbors, 7-6. Tulsa won last night's opener between the two clubs, 3-2.

A ninth-inning rally by the Indians faded with one run to go for a tie. Big guns in Oklahoma City's four-run finale were Pete Lewis, Ken Mapes, Hero Conyers and Ray Murray.

Texas Tech Netmen Ousted At Houston

Talbert Extended To Beat Broyles

HOUSTON, April 19 (AP)—National Champion Richard Gonzales and second seeded Ted Schroeder had little difficulty in winning their first matches today in the River Oaks Invitational Tennis tournament.

Gonzales defeated Leo Laborde, Baytown, Tex., 6-0, 7-5, while Schroeder won from W. M. Dickey, Houston, 6-1, 6-2.

Bill Talbert, New York City, seeded third, eliminated Jake Broyles, Texas Tech, 6-3, 6-3.

Fourth seeded Bob Falkenburg, Beverly Hills, Calif., was forced into a third set before eliminating Howard Startzman, University of Texas player, 6-4, 3-6, 6-2.

Five other seeded players also won today as the men's singles field was cut to 18. Rain prevented completion of two matches.

Gonzales tomorrow meets Bobby Curtis, former Southwest Conference singles champion and National Intercolegiate doubles champion at Rice Institute and now playing out of Denver, Colo.

Curtis today defeated John Baker, Texas Christian university, 6-4, 6-3.

Schroeder tangles with Felix Kelly, University of Texas star, and Talbert mets Clarence Mabry, Alice, Tex., a former Southwest conference star at Texas.

FINAL TECH NETTERS ELIMINATED TUESDAY

HOUSTON, April 19 (Special)—Texas Tech's Jake Broyles and Carl Schmidt were eliminated from the River Oaks Tennis tournament field Tuesday.

They joined Glen Ivy and Ed Scudday, both of whom had been eliminated on the opening day of play Monday.

Billy Talbert of Wilmington, Del., the nation's No. 4 ranked amateur, was hard-pressed to beat Broyles 6-3 6-3.

Bob Kamrath, Houston, eliminated Schmidt, 6-1, 6-1.

Talbert, two-time finalist in the akes meet and one of the favorites this year, didn't find Texas Tech's No. 1 boy, Broyles, a push-over. The easy-going Delaware ace extended himself on several occasions to gain the necessary margin over the Lubbock netman.

Kamrath, long-time leading Houston amateur, easily disposed of Schmidt. The latter appeared to be off his usual game and offered only slight resistance.

Boston, Cleveland Choices Are Agreed Upon By Loop Managers

NEW YORK, April 19 (AP) — Managers of the 16 major league teams agreed today with the consensus that the American League shapes up as a two-team race between Boston and Cleveland, while the National is a wide open battle.

Comments range from Brooklyn's Burt Shotton who says flatly, "I am picking the Dodgers to win the pennant," to Cincinnati's Bucky Walters who says, "some forecasters who put us on the bottom may find they are wrong."

James, Brown Are Matched

Gene James, Lubbock heavyweight, has been matched with Dickie Brown in the second four-rounder of the Jaycee fight card at Chapman fieldhouse next Tuesday, with fights beginning at 8 p.m.

Scheduled to arrive in Lubbock today is Jean Mougin, former French lightweight champion, who will meet Bill Henderson in the 10 round final event.

Henderson will be out to avenge his only professional setback, which came at the hands of the Frenchman. Mougin will be accompanied by his manager, Andre Dupre, and Dickie Griffin, matchmaker for the bouts, who will set up his training camp here for the fight.

James Licked Brown

A former 1948 Golden Gloves regional heavyweight title winner in his hometown of Amarillo, Brown was defeated by James the same year in an exhibition match. But Brown's manager has said that his fighter will score a knockout over James before their match is finished.

Also signed to appear on the same program with Henderson and Mougin are Sammy Galvan and Chino Alonzo, lightweights, who weigh 135.

Both boys have been fighting main events, and their match will be a six-round semi-final event. Alonzo, whose home is in Douglas Arizona, fought a semi-final match in El Paso Monday night and is supposed to spar with Henderson at O. C. Foster's gym today. He has had successful fights in California and comes to Lubbock well recommended.

Tickets Going Fast

Galvan, from El Paso, was defeated twice by Henderson, and his fight with Alonzo should be a perfect match since both boys have about the same ability.

Ticket sales for the fights are expected to move more briskly as fight time draws nearer. At present only 50 ringside seats remain, and approximately one-third of the reserved seats are sold. Plenty of general admission seats are available, but persons planning to attend the fight program are urged to buy their ducats early to save loss of time at the gate. Only a certain number of tickets will be sold, and when they are gone no more admissions will be accepted.

Tickets may be reserved by phoning the Jaycees at 6861 or by going by the ticket booth in the lobby of Hilton hotel. Those who have already reserved seats are requested to pick them up by Monday noon.

The entire program will consist of two four round fights, two six-rounders, and the 10 round main event.

Region One Track Slated

The Region One Texas Interscholastic league three-way track and field meet will be held at Texas Tech Saturday, with preliminaries getting underway at 9 a.m.

Schools from Class AA, A, and B will be competing in their different divisions for berths in the state meet at Austin May 6-7. Approximately 700 athletes will participate in the state track and field show, and the boys get there by being in first or second place in one of the events at the regional meet.

Districts represented at the regional Saturday will be Districts 1, 2, 3, Class AA; Districts 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5, Class A; and Districts 1 to 10, Class B. This region is one of nine in the TIL track program.

Amarillo Favored

Favored to win the team title is Amarillo, by virtue of victories in the West Texas Relays at Odessa and the South Plains Relays here last week. The Sandies are strong in every event and should have the power to take the meet.

Winner the last five years, Lubbock is not expected to be a threat in the meet. Last year the Westerners made it five in a row, scoring 53-1/3 points to 38 for second place Amarillo.

Injuries and sickness have hampered the local cindermen all season, and the prospects for victory seem very dim. Last week Charlie Williams did not enter the South Plains Relays in order to aid a pulled leg muscle which has bothered him all year. But this week he should be ready to go, and his presence will bolster Lubbock chances in the dashes and the 440-yard relay. Alfred Adair was hampered by a throat infection last week, but he should be all right before Saturday.

Finals Set Saturday

The Class A winner last year was Seminole, and Panhandle took the Class B crown. Lots of competition is expected in these two classes with Class B having the most districts—10. The complete list of teams will not be known until meet time, but approximately 100 athletes will participate.

Finals will begin at 1 p.m. Saturday. In each event AA, A, and B schools will be trying for records in their own class.

Yanks Edge Nats; A's, Tigers Win

ST. LOUIS, April 19 (AP)—Those upstart St. Louis Browns walloped the World Champion Cleveland Indians, 5-1, today in a season opener featured by the pitching of baby-faced Ned Garver.

Veteran Bob Feller, the losing pitcher, had trouble finding the plate and was jerked after two innings by Manager Lou Boudreau. The only hit off him was a triple to the right center fence by Rookie Jack Graham, leading to the first Brownies run, but Feller walked three.

The 23-year-old Garver was effective when it counted most. He gave up only seven hits in going the route and had six strikeouts.

WT-NM Chase Will Open Today

DALLAS, April 19. (AP)—The West Texas-New Mexico league opens its tenth annual campaign tomorrow night with the northern clubs playing in the south. This is being done, said President Milton Price, in deference to the weather.

Borger will be at Pampa, Amarillo at Abilene, Albuquerque at Lamesa and Clovis at Lubbock.

Price would make no forecast as to attendance. The league drew over 600,000 last year. The all-time high was in 1946 when the turnstiles clicked 650,000 times.

Albuquerque led the season route last year but lost to Amarillo in the pennant play-off.

Two men new to the managership will be in the loop this campaign. They are Jess Landrum at Amarillo and Paul Dean at Clovis. Hayden Greer returns to Abilene as manager where he served in 1946. He was with Mobile part of 1947 and last year. Jay Haney, who started his playing career at Lamesa, returns to that city as manager from the Texas league.

Returning managers are Hershel Martin at Albuquerque, Grover Seitz at Pampa, Ed Carnett at Borger and Jackie Sullivan at Lubbock.

Braves Take Pair; Reds, Bucs Victors

BROOKLYN, April 19 (AP) — Brooklyn treated a record opening day crowd of 34,530 at Ebbets Field to a power attack that all but buried the New York Giants under a 10-3 drubbing today.

The homer-conscious Brooks slapped righthander Larry Jansen for only five hits in five innings but three of them were home runs by Carl Furillo, Jackie Robinson and Roy Campanella to account for the five runs scored off the Giant ace.

Hank Behrman, former Dodger, took over for the Giants in the sixth, and was roughed up for six hits, including a triple by Billy Cox, which was good for five more tallies.

Palmer Signs With Clovis

LAMESA, April 19. (Special)—Lamesa Loboes announced the sale of I. B. Palmer, veteran third baseman, today to Clovis. Purchase price was undisclosed.

Palmer first reported he wouldn't play ball this year, and then later he could not agree with the club on salary terms.

He has played with Lamesa the past three seasons. In 1946 he played first base and catcher, and the other two years he was the regular third baseman. He hit .344 and fielded .882 last year, batting left-handed.

WEATHER HOLDS UP 1-AA OPENER

Postponed Lubbock-Brownfield Game Is Scheduled For Today

The baseball game scheduled for Tuesday between the Westerners and Brownfield will be played today at Chapman field, beginning at 4 p. m., provided there is no more rain.

A wet, soggy field caused cancellation of the District 1-AA opener for the Westerners, and if the game is not played today a doubleheader will be played Saturday.

Brownfield and Plainview started the action in the lower half of the district last week. Plainview took the contest, 12-1, and seems to have lots of power. The same Plainview team will play Lubbock Thursday afternoon at Chapman field diamond.

Coach Fred Taylor will probably start Jimmy Richards against Brownfield today in the event the game is played, and Jimmy Hamilton will draw the starting assignment Thursday.

Other probable starters are Morris Turner, catcher; Jessie Fullerton, first base; Charles Galey, second base; Powell Hinson, third base; Bob Brown, shortstop; and James Burgess, Jimmy Sexton, and Garnet Reeves, outfielders.

SMU WHIPS BEARS

DALLAS, April 19 (AP) — Southern Methodist university whipped Baylor, 5-1, here today in a Southwest Conference tennis match. Carroll Drewyer, Baylor's No. 1 singles player, downed James Owen, 6-2, 6-4, for the Bears' only victory.

Light and gas rates and street-car fares all went up in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

Bowling Tourney Opens Saturday

Twenty-four teams will inaugurate the first week of play in the fifth annual West Texas-New Mexico Bowling association tournament being held at Lubbock Bowling club.

Announcement was made Tuesday that three teams from Amarillo will not compete because of the large number of entries in the tournament, but the Amarillo teams represented will probably be stronger due to the cancellation.

The tournament will begin Saturday at 5 p. m. when the eight teams take to the alleys and two more shifts will bowl that night. Singles and doubles will be played on Sunday. The same procedure will be followed the three weekends of the tournament, and before the tourney ends more than 360 bowlers are expected to participate.

The Avalanche-Journal is sponsor of the kegling tournament, and trophies will be presented to team, individual, and doubles winners in each of the three classes of the tournament. An additional award will be made to the all-events winner.

In addition to the trophy prizes, winners will also receive money for their efforts. The complete list of money prizes to be paid or the amount of such prizes is unknown at present.

Bowling at 5 p. m. Saturday are Pabst Blue Ribbon, Midland, Class B; Reclamation, Tucumcari, N. M., Class C; Walton's Men's store, Lubbock, Class B; Lubbock Bowling club, Lubbock Class B; Santa Fe Rangers, Amarillo, Class B; Santa Fe Flyers, Amarillo, Class C; Dowell's Saratago, Amarillo, Class B; and Panhandle Insurance, Amarillo, Class B.

At 7:30 are Radio-Phono Shop, Borger, Class B; Palm Cafe Dumas, Class C; Boxwell Hardware, Dumas, Class B; Sullin's Hotshots, Tucumcari, Class B; Panhandle Insurance, Borger Class B; Atlas Life Insurance, Amarillo, Class A; Knights of Columbus, Amarillo, Class C; and Quality Foods, Amarillo, Class A.

The final flight at 10 has McCue Pharmacy, Amarillo, Class B; Khiva Temple (winner last year), Amarillo, Class A; Fyfe Cement, Amarillo, Class A; Elk Number One, Amarillo, Class A; Herring hotel, Amarillo, Class A; Amarillo Optimists, Class A; Liquor Marts, Amarillo, Class B; and White Motors, Amarillo Class B.

Keglers Will Get Trophies

Trophies will be presented to winners of various bowling tournaments this season at the annual dinner dance at 8 o'clock tonight at Hilton hotel sponsored by the Ladies City Bowling association.

Trophies for the ladies city tournament will be presented to Faola Patton, all events winner; Polly Buckner, singles; Helen Henkel and Gail Tyson, doubles; and a team trophy to Russell Hardin cleaners.

Ladies League Prizes

Ladies Commercial league trophies will go to Aleene Hilton for the highest average; Mrs. Artie Reed, high single game of 277; and Miss Hilton for high series of 606.

Mrs. Reed will receive a trophy for high series in the Ladies Classic league; Miss Patton, high single game of 233; Billie Lou Abel, high series of 576; and Maxine Buckner, high average trophy.

The Men's association will present three trophies to Ben Brown, who took high average score in the Major league, Men's Commercial league, and all events in the city tournament.

WEAPONS RACE IS PUSHED

Vast Improvements In Guided Missiles Sought By Scientists

By CHARLES CORDDRY
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 19—The trickiest problem facing guided missile scientists today is that of making the robots "intelligent" enough to know where they are and where they are supposed to go.

Guidance and control is "the most difficult and important problem of all," says Dr. R. E. Gibson, director of the Johns Hopkins Applied Physics laboratory. But there is no reason "to believe that fundamental obstacles exist in the way of controlling missiles in supersonic flight."

Need More Accuracy

What is wanted—what all countries are feverishly working on—is a missile that will carry a warhead unerringly from the point of launching to a target, regardless of distance. If the missile gets off course, it must know it and get itself back in line.

Such missiles, to travel faster than sound, will be powered by rocket motors, which can operate outside the atmosphere because they carry their own oxygen, or by ramjet engines.

Test vehicles of all shapes with weird names like Gorgon, Nativ, 774, Lark and Acrobee, now are gathering information about the upper atmosphere, flight control systems, power plants and the like. From these projects will come weapons of the future.

Setup Is Explained

They must be more accurate and much longer ranged than the German V-1 slow-moving pilotless plane and V-2 supersonic rocket. These followed flight paths that had to be determined before they were launched. If they went wrong, as they frequently did, nothing could be done about it.

Gibson says there are four ways of guiding missiles by means of electromagnetic radiation:

1. "Command guidance." A ground radar station tracks missile and target and gives out signals to guide the missile. The station controls the missile's course. This missile has a "low order of intellect."

2. "Way following guidance." The missile follows a radar beam focused on the target. It "senses" its position and can correct its course.

3. "Homing guidance." Used in conjunction with other guidance systems, this one enables a missile to "recognize its quarry and go after it." With a target seeker in its nose, it knows when to explode.

Other Suggestions Studied

4. Automatic celestial navigation. This would be a very intelligent missile, indeed. It would "read" the stars and adjust its course accordingly. This is not easy, Gibson concedes, "but the long-range missile will probably use such methods of guidance."

Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, commander of the Air Force Air Materiel command, recently indicated in Air Force magazine how these guidance systems would be used and how soon they could be expected in actual weapons:

1. Air-to-air missiles. In a "relatively short period of time" there will be missiles capable of being launched against bombers from interceptor planes. They will move under their own power at supersonic speed for several miles. A radar homing device will enable them to track down the target.

2. Surface-to-air. These will be fired from sites around strategic areas and will ride a radar beam constantly trained on enemy bombers. A proximity fuze will detonate the warhead. These should be "operational within the next few years." But surface-to-air missles for use against long-range enemy missiles, capable of flying outside the atmosphere, may require 10 years to develop.

3. Air-to-surface. These will be used by air forces to support ground troops and for long-range bombardment. Launched from bombers well outside enemy territory, these will travel to their targets at supersonic speed. "Depending upon the range and warhead desired, these missiles will become progressively operational over the next few years."

4. Surface-to-surface. The ultimate is a long-range missile capable of being launched from the United States, travelling 5,000 to 10,000 miles and delivering a knockout punch. The first of these may resemble today's airplanes and will not fly as fast as sound. The know-how to make these missiles exists today, but the "critical problem is guidance."

The guidance system ideally should be immune from enemy jamming.

"Surface-to-surface missiles may be available in three years on our shorter range subsonic weapons," McNarney says, "but I cannot predict the decade in which we cross the threshold of true push button warfare."

In the day of push-button warfare, the surface-to-surface missiles will fly at supersonic speed for any desired distance and will be pinpointed on their targets.

Two Negro Children Die As Home Burns In Mt. Pleasant

MT. PLEASANT, April 19 (AP)—A midnight fire last night burned two small negro children to death and seriously burned their mother.

Betty Jane Stanberry, 8, and Langston Stanberry, 5, were killed. Their mother, Fredonia Stanberry, who ran from the burning home with her hair afire, was severely burned about the head and face.

Another son returning from a church party entered the burning structure, woke up his mother, tossed a baby out of a window, but was prevented by the intense heat from entering the room where the two children died.

Texas Chick Production Shows Increase Over 1948 Period

AUSTIN, April 19 —Chick production in Texas during the first quarter of 1949 topped last year's figure by one-fifth, the United States Department of Agriculture reported today.

Production through March, the USDA reported, totaled 22,200,000 chicks, as compared with 18,310,000 during the same period in 1949.

March production was estimated at 12,000,000, compared with 9,500,000 during March of last year.

However, production for the last month was still below the five-year-average of 12,957,000 for the same period.

Egg production in Texas, the USDA said, was up about two per cent. A five per cent reduction in the number of layers on farms was "more than offset," the report noted, "by a seven per cent higher rate of lay."

Mother And Three Children Perish In Arkansas Blaze

BALD KNOB, Ark., April 19 (INS) — A 23-year-old farm mother and her three children, two of them twins, perished today when fire swept their home near Bald Knob.

The dead were Mrs. E. E. Van Winkle, Bonnie and Lonnie, 15-months-old twins, and their sister, four-month-old Violet Sue.

State police said the blaze originated when Mrs. Van Winkle used kerosene in starting a stove fire. An explosion resulted and the flames engulfed the house.

Neighbors said Van Winkle was away from home when the tragedy occurred.

'Lonely Heart' Deaths Probed In Delaware

DOVER, Del., April 19 (AP)—Police began sifting through a bushel basket of "lonely hearts" letters to Mrs. Inez Brennan today shortly after announcing she signed a statement admitting she plotted the killings of two elderly men and, aided by her three sons, burned and buried the bodies.

Col. Herbert Barnes, state police head, said the 43-year-old brunette confessed shooting one victim and ordering her youngest son, Robert, 15, to shoot the other.

The police official said she met Wade N. Wooldridge, 70, of Bedford, Va., and Hugo Schultz, 66, Epsom, N. H., through Lonely Hearts club correspondence and lured them to their deaths to rob them. He said Robert told of his mother taking $134 from Wooldridge, and selling much of Schultz' farm supplies and equipment.

Barnes said her farmhouse on lonely Horsepond road is "filled from top to bottom with lonely hearts letters."

Hoarse Complaints Follow Smog Tests

DONORA, Pa., April 19 (AP) — Hoarse complaints of sore throats and lack of breath followed the start of a four-day test of smoke conditions similar to those of last October's fatal smog.

Opinion was almost unanimous in Webster—across the Monongahela river from Donora—that the current effort to duplicate industrial conditions of last October's tragedy was succeeding "too well."

Abe Celapina, president of the Webster Society for Better Living which arranged the four-day test with the U.S. Public Health Service, said:

"I've had at least 50 calls from persons complaining of sore throats and short-windedness."

Those were the characteristics of the fatal ailments last year. Twenty two persons died then and hundreds were stricken.

A prevailing westerly wind whisked the white clouds pouring from the American Steel & Wire Co's zinc plant away from the city and directly into Webster.

San Francisco Authorities Hold Deaf Mute In Hammer Beating

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19 (INS) —An attractive young deaf mute was held by San Francisco police today on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder in the near-fatal claw-hammer beating of her 62-year-old aunt.

Police said the slim, 24-year-old deaf mute, Miss Nell O. Hammack, tried to kill Mrs. Effie Payne because the elderly widow insisted the girl learn to speak instead of using a pencil and paper.

Inspector George Murray said the girl admitted quarreling with her aunt in the upstairs bedroom of Mrs. Payne's home but that her mind "went blank" after she had tried to quiet herself by playing the piano.

Murray said the quarrel erupted into a murderous attack in which Miss Hammack battered her aunt again and again with a claw hammer, poker and brass candlesticks.

He said the young woman pursued her aunt from room to room on both floors of the house and stopped only when her aunt crumpled into semi-consciousness in the upstairs hall.

Fire Causes $500,000 Damage In California

OAKLAND, Calif., April 19 (INS) — Flames swept a half-block long two-story business and apartment building in Oakland today, routing 250 persons from their beds, leaving 28 families homeless and causing damage of $500,000.

One fierman was injured while battling the blaze in the frame and stucco building and a number of persons, including two mothers with infants in their arms, were carried down ladders to the safety of the street.

One hundred firemen and more than 20 pieces of equipment fought the smoke and flames in the apartment, known as the Philips block, which housed eight business concerns and 85 persons in apartments on the second story.

The cause of the fire, which began in the rear of a furniture store, was still undetermined.

Argentina May Hike Subsidies To Cut Meat Packers' Losses

BUENOS AIRES, April 19 (U.P.)—The Argentine government has informed American and other meat packers that it will help them meet new wage increases for their workers through increased government subsidies, a reliable source said today.

The packers, including the big three of Swift, Armour and Wilson, had threatened to close Argentina's 12 main meat packing plants April 21 unless the government absorbed their huge operating losses.

The packers claimed that the fresh wage increases, granted 58,000 workers on orders from the government, had raised their monthly losses from $3,000,000 to $6,000,000.

Damage Caused By High Winds path through the farm area east of Shallowater for a distance of approximately 4 miles.

House Is Demolished

The twister then demolished a two-room frame house on the nearby J. O. Bumpass farm. It also tore the roof off a barn on another farm in the Shallowater vicinity.

No one was injured when the seven-room frame house on the Utley farm was struck, said Mrs. Utley, who was in Lubbock this morning. The house was occupied by a negro couple, Charles Reed and his wife, who worked on the farm. Upon hearing the wind, the couple had risen from bed and the mattress of their bed was nowhere to be found this morning, apparently having been blown considerable distance. The front of the house was completely torn from remainder of the structure, said Mrs. Utley, who said the house was "a total loss" and the remainder would have to be torn down.

In the nearby home occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Utley, no damage was caused. Wind was so strong that they held the door in order to keep it closed.

CLUB HELPS VICTIMS

Members of the newly-organized Monroe Lions club spent most of the day Tuesday in moving families whose homes had suffered heavy damage in Monday night's storm.

In addition, the club was raising money to help needy families, and by late afternoon had collected several hundred dollars.

Members of the club gathered early Tuesday with pickup trucks and automobiles to move families from their damaged homes.

Trailer Turned Upside Down

A large four-wheel trailer used for hauling cotton was turned upside down near the Utley home.

On the nearby Bumpass farm, Mr. and Mrs. Basel Agnew lived in the helper house which was demolished by the storm. Mrs. Agnew was in the house alone and her husband was in a field turning off irrigation wells when the twister struck. Neither had seen it approaching. The two-room frame structure was ripped apart.

Mrs. Agnew suffered bruises and was badly frightened. She entered Lubbock Memorial hospital early Tuesday and was released Tuesday in satisfactory condition. The house in which Mr. and Mrs. Agnew lived was described as being located seven miles north and one-half mile west of Lubbock, on Lubbock route 3.

Grovesville Hard Hit

Heaviest damage centered in and around the old Grovesville community, near Monroe, about 10 miles north of Lubbock, they reported. Among damage reported to the R.E.A. offices was:

A tenant house on the R. E. Fielding farm, three miles south and two miles east of Monroe, was blown down.

A new four-room cottage owned by Johnny Hunter, who resides roughly two miles east and a half-mile south of the overpass between Monroe and Lubbock, was heavily damaged. The property was located in the Grovesville community.

In the same area, a small tenant house was blown off its foundation, and an irrigation pump house was blown through the R.E.A. lines.

Home Is Damaged

The porch of the T. Z. Goodjoin house, located approximately four miles east of Shallowater, was blown off. The residence itself was considerably damaged.

In the same area, a tenant house on the A. J. Bumpass place was blown away.

The R.E.A. reported also that the roof of a barn in the suburban section south of Lubbock, located near Fifty-second street, west of Ave. Q, was blown off, and that a barn on the R. O. Hays place between Slaton and Posey, was considerably damaged.

Officials said that a house of the J. R. Baker farm about four miles southwest of Petersburg was blown through an R.E.A. line there. Complete information was not available.

There were numbers of cases where sheet roofing on barns and houses was blown off, it was said, and numerous interruptions in electric service were caused by boards and sheet iron which blew through power lines.

R.E.A. crews had covered a considerable portion of the county by late Tuesday, it was reported, and, with the exception of isolated cases, service had been restored by the middle of the day.

R.E.A. officials said they had not estimated damages done to their lines, and that they did not know what property damage in the above areas would amount to.

Barn Is Damaged

A modern barn on the Ralph Hayes farm, sometimes called the Klattenhoff place, approximately three miles northwest of Slaton, was damaged. A small tornado apparently caused the damage about 9:30, approximately the same time that damage was caused near Shallowater. Hayes and his wife and son were in the house when the twister hit. The house was of concrete construction and was not damaged extensively, but the roof of the barn was lifted off and pieces of metal were scattered around the vicinity. Damage was estimated at $2,500 for the barn. The twister also broke a limb off a tree and drove it through the roof of the house. No one was injured. Farmers of that area, northwest of Slaton, reported heavy rains estimated to range upward to four inches.

Damage was reported in Monroe vicinity. A small house used by cotton pickers on the Wilson Dickson farm, three miles south and three miles east of Monroe, was moved about five feet and dishes in the house were broken. A fence around Dickson's own home was broken.

An end to the two days of precipitation was predicted today by the weather station. Drizzle and some fog is expected to continue up until noon today, the forecaster said, with a "breaking off" this afternoon followed with partly cloudy skies and slightly warmer temperatures.

The drizzle early today is not expected to bring much measureable moisture, the station said, although it will be of aid in pushing the earlier rain deeper into the soil.

Thursday will be partly cloudy and warmer with a high of 75 expected during the afternoon.

HOUSE IS UNROOFED—The twister wrecked a barn and then completely unroofed a house on the L. T. Frizzell farm occupied by Mr. and Mrs. V. O. Carnes and their four children, approximately 4 miles east of Shallowater. The roof was scattered over a half-mile area from the house. The downpour caused damage to the Carnes' household furnishings but no one was injured. (Staff Photo By C. W. Ratliff.)

Planes Check On Workers

Three planes from San Angelo checked Tuesday on welfare of oil workers in the new Susan peak (Plymouth Oil Co.) field in southeastern Tom Green county. The planes went out after workers, attempting to relieve the men, found rural roads to the field blocked by high waters. The planes dropped notes asking if the marooned crews needed food or supplies, but the workers waved them off.

The pilots reported several farm houses on the south side of the vast Lipen flat surrounded by temporary lakes. Draws in the nearby hill country still were running high. They had received up to five inches in 16 hours.

Fifteen oil field trucks were stuck along the road to the new field.

Rain poured at San Antonio Tuesday, dampening celebrants at the Fiesta de San Jacinto. There was a heavy rain at Big Spring. Mineral Wells, Austin, Waco, Victoria, Abilene, Alice, Dallas, Fort Worth, Wink, Midland, San Angelo, and Bryan reported rain in varying degree as the day ended.

Orchards Damaged

Maximum temperatures where there was rain ranged from the middle 50's to the upper 60's. Elsewhere afternoon readings were in the 70's. Laredo had an 81.

At Brownwood Adams creek empties into Pecan Bayou, a tributary of the Colorado river.

At San Angelo there was considerable damage to fruit orchards. The roof of a large grocery store was collapsed by the hail and rain. Power was interrupted.

Despite the hail damage, the moisture was welcome. The district extension service director at San Angelo, W. I. Marschall, said the rain was "perfectly timed" to supply moisture needs.

Called "Million Dollar" Rain

In fact, Marschall said "this was that million dollar rain" for farmers and ranchers alike in Tom Green and several adjoining counties.

The twister near Lubbock destroyed a two-room frame house 10 miles northwest of there and tore the front from a seven-room frame structure. Mrs. Basel Agnew, wife of a tenant farmer, suffered bruises when her two-room residence was ripped apart.

The lightning victim was James David Johnson, 22-year-old Deaf Smith farmer. He was killed Monday evening while milking cows.

San Angelo said the rain extended as far west as Fort Stockton, where half an inch fell, and as far south as Del Rio.

There were hail storms also at Eagle Pass, where damage was reported not extensive, and at Sabinal, where damage was reported heavy. Hailstones at Sabinal were said to be as large as baseballs.

Hail and heavy rains also fell in Uvalde and Kinney counties in Southwest Texas. J. R. Rhea, Southern Pacific railroad station agent at Spofford in Kinney county, said hail fell there for 25 minutes Monday night.

At Sabinal, Kenneth Byrd said four inches of rain accompanied the hail north of Sabinal. Big Spring reported that northeast Howard county received punishing hail Monday night.

vision of the bill, declared:

"In view of the danger of atomic attack, it is desirable that our cities be more diffused than they are. This provision will help markedly in that direction."

He argued that people displaced by slum clearance programs will have to be re-housed. He continued:

"Since we want to decrease the density of population in slum areas, there will necessarily be a spill-over of people who cannot be re-housed there, but must be re-housed in the outskirts of the cities."

Proposal Opposed

Sen. Cain (R-Wash) said he may introduce an amendment to require that one slum dwelling unit be torn down for every unit of public housing constructed.

Douglas led a Democratic attack on the Cain proposal. He said that such an arbitrary obligation should not be written in the bill while the housing shortage is acute.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) estimated that Cain's idea would about double the cost of the slum clearance program. He argued that it "might stymie progress" on the entire bill.

The legislation authorizes one and one-half billion dollars in federal aid to cities for slum clearance.

Action Up To Cities

Douglas emphasized that it was up to the cities to decide whether they wanted to take advantage of federal aid for either slum clearance or low-cost public housing, or both. He added, pointedly, that he knew Cain was an advocate of "local decisions."

Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich) warned against what he said may turn out to be "merely a shift of slums." He said that "unless we are careful, we may be tearing down slums in one section and building them up in another."

Douglas showed his colleagues poster-sized photographs of slums in Chicago, New Orleans, Detroit, Los Angeles, Dallas, Savannah and other cities.

He declared they are fire, health and economic hazards which are "growing like cancers, generally ringing the central business district and more or less spreading outward with their truly horrible blight."

He said that up to 15 million Americans live in slums.

In Atlanta, he declared, slum areas contributed 5.5 per cent of the city's real property tax revenue; but cost the city 53 per cent of its expenditures for fire, health, police and other services.

McGee Murder Trial

two negroes were let off.

One juror, C. H. Crump, was examined by both sides and would have been approved except for the fact brought to light that he had been a member of Company I, 142nd Infantry, 36th Division in World War I. This company was part of a battalion commanded by one of the defense attorneys, Col. E. A. Simpson, Amarillo. It was the first time the men had seen each other since their war days in France.

The 10 men who have been accepted by both the state and the defense are: A. G. Richardson, Route 6; M. P. Marchbanks, Route 1; Douglas A. Carlisle, 1516 Twenty-Seventh; Albert Ellis, Route 6; Wade W. Hash, Route 5; A. Weir, Box 300, Route 2, Slaton; H. H. Murray, Route 1; Jack Bennett, 1508 Twenty-Eighth; H. D. Stanley, 2107 Sixteenth; and H. L. Powell, Route 3.

May Order More Jurors

Four jurors were chosen Monday; two were named Tuesday morning and the remaining four were selected after court reconvened for the afternoon session at 1:30. It was 2:30 before one man was selected and then a period of two hours and 33 minutes passed before another was chosen. Both sides were screening the prospective jurors carefully to ascertain that they have no bias or prejudice in the case.

Both the state and the defense are allowed 15 challenges. Through Tuesday evening the defense had used up seven of these and the state had exhausted four. Indications were that Judge Blair may have to order additional jurors if the rate of acceptance continued at the same ratio.

Insanity Plea Indicated

The prosecution, District Attorney Lloyd Croslin and George Dupree, special assistant, were careful to exclude war veterans who might have served under similar circumstances as the accused man. The defense, Attorneys Burton S. Burks and Col. E. A. Simpson, however, stressed the fact that they would have as a primary defense the plea of insanity. They were careful to make certain that no prospective juror was prejudiced against such a plea. Under Texas law, the attorneys pointed out, no man is responsible for his acts while of unsound mind.

District Attorney Croslin was required by law to ask each juror if he had any conscientious scruples against death as a penalty in proper cases. Many were excused because, as they said, they did not believe in capital punishment. One man was a relative of the assistant district attorney and was excused for that reason.

When the afternoon period began there was a larger audience in attendance than previously. More than 100 persons were seated during the jury selection.

Defendant Appears Nervous

McGee, a former patient at mental hospitals, gave up the reading of his Bible as he had been doing on the first day. He paid little attention to the proceedings and fidgeted nervously in his chair at the counsel table. He chewed several packs of chewing gum during the day. As each new pack was opened it was shown to Chief Deputy Sheriff George Eubank.

Betty Jane Allston, 18, daughter of the slain man and a student at North Texas State Teachers College, Denton, was on hand at the trial yesterday. She sat beside her mother and uncle, and other relatives of her family. She often stared at the accused man who had been her suitor. She did not smile.

With McGee were his sister, Eva, Pampa, and his mother Mrs. H. H. Stull, also of that city.

Short Recess Ordered

Shortly after the court convened a power failure put the courtroom in darkness. Judge Blair ordered a short recess. When it was discovered the lights would be out for some time the session was reconvened in the dimly lit, third floor room. A steady rain and a heavily overcast sky precluded a sufficient amount of natural light.

Police Seek Clue In 'Pick Up' Attempt

Police late Tuesday were still seeking additional information on a man who allegedly attempted to "pick-up" a 10-year-old George R. Bean schoolgirl twice — once early in the morning and again at noon.

The girl reported the first attempt to the school's principal, W. Kary Mathis, who advised her to secure the license number of the man's car if he should make a second attempt.

School mates of the girl secured a license number when the second attempt to lure the small girl into the car was made. The child's father and police, who questioned the owner of the car to which the license number was registered, expressed the belief that some mistake was made in the number reported. The man was released without charge after questioning.

The car failed in every respect to tally with the description of the car in which the girl said the suspect was driving.

Police cautioned parents to advise their children to report such instances elsewhere and if possible to secure some specific evidence upon which to base an arrest. Other instances similar to those yesterday have been reported over past months.

court voted for the first of the three possibilities, in spite of the fact that previously they had favored locating the new building further west of the old courthouse, so that the west line of the structure would be but approximately 65 feet from the Texas avenue sidewalk. In the plan they had favored originally, parking space for 26 cars was to be located both north and south of the old building, with additional parking space between old and new buildings for persons employed in the courthouse.

After County Judge Walter Davies called for individual comment and discussion, K. N. Clapp, chairman of the City Planning commission, pointed out that "this is the only chance we have for a downtown park," and that the value of such a park cannot be valued in mere dollars in years to come. He stressed the importance of retaining as much of the park as possible, suggesting that the new courthouse be built as close to the old building as is practical.

Old Building Said Needed

George Berry, who some three years ago served on a committee to plan for location and construction of the new building, pointed out that by retaining the old courthouse building, lesser county offices, which now are renting office space in Lubbock, could be housed in the old building at a saving, whereas if the old building were torn down, rental expenditure would have to continue or the offices would have to be housed in office space in the new building which has been designated for future expansion of the more important county offices.

Mrs. H. F. Godeke, who also served on the planning committee about three years ago, spoke on the necessity for increased library facilities which could be provided in the old courthouse building if it were retained.

Numbers of other suggestions and opinions were advanced, among them incorporation of the old building with the new, closing of the streets circling the courthouse, widening of these streets to step up traffic flow through them, and renovation of the exterior of the old courthouse so that it would blend harmoniously with the new building.

Chas. A. Guy, a member of the City Planning commission, commended the assembled group for its effective and democratic spirit in conducting the meeting, pointing out that it was in many ways similar to the New England "town meeting" discussions.

Members of the Commissioners court who attended were Judge Davies, Pat Corley, Ottis Isom, R. O. Short, and George G. Green. Members of the Planning commission present were Clapp, Guy, W. L. Bradshaw, J. D. Hassell, jr., Steve Matthews, C. J. Griggs, Homer D. Grant, R. L. Oldham, and J. H. Murdough.

Iowa Girl Rescued

son.

The clothesline on which the housewife was lowered into the well snapped after Mrs. Jamison had slipped a noose under Betty's arms.

Mrs. Jamison braced herself against the sides of the slippery metal pipe and held herself and the little girl above water for more than half hour until firemen arrived with stronger lines.

Little Girl Wedged

The mother of a 6-year-old daughter, who disclaimed her action was heroic, reached Betty as "she was gradually slipping down the moss covered pipe and would soon have drowned."

"She was screaming pathetically but even in her fright seemed to understand," Mrs. Jamison said.

Betty was reported suffering from shock when hauled to safety.

The little girl was wedged between the side of the well and the water pipe connected to a pump with only her head above water, Mrs. Jamison said.

Holds Child Above Water

Mrs. Jamison managed to reach the child and pulled her out of the water and held on while bracing her feet against one side of the well casing, and her shoulders against the other.

Several attempts were made to pull the little girl from the well with the clothesline but it kept slipping off her wet body. Finally the light rope broke.

"Then we were really in the soup," Mrs. Jamison said laughingly.

"I never thought once of being unable to get out myself. I was just hoping and praying I could hang on to Betty until help arrived.

"It seemed like I was down there for years," Mrs. Jamison added.

'Walkout' Seen On School Bill

morning. The motion was defeated 83 to 32. Strategy of the attempt was to by-pass tomorrow, which is one of the two days during the week that the Senate bills can be considered by the House.

An effort to adjourn until tomorrow morning also was beaten.

"From the looks of that vote, the Gilmer-Aikin bill will be engrossed (passed on second reading) tomorrow," Rep. John Crossthwait of Dallas predicted.

Definite Work Is Seen

Reps. Rae Files Still of Waxahachie and George Nokes of Corsicana did not go that strong. Sponsors of the Senate-passed bills, they said the vote indicated only that the House definitely would work on the school bill.

Rep. Jimmy Horany of Archer City, strong opponent, did not consider the vote to recess indicative.

"Some of those that voted to recess are going to vote against Gilmer-Aikin. They told me that," he said.

Opponents of the oil measure by Senator George Moffett of Chillicothe hammered that anti-trust evasion was the sole purpose of the bill. Proponents fought back that it would let the oil industry do nothing that it is not now doing.

Proposals Fall Short

Moffett forces held full control to advance the bill up to its last hurdle. But a block of seven senators kept the Senate from suspending a rule that requires bills to be read on three separate days. The block forced the bill to wait until next week for final consideration.

Two proposed constitutional amendments fell far short of the 100 votes required for House passage. One by Rep. Don Lewis of Midlothian, calling for a three-day meeting of the House in December following general elections to elect a speaker, received a vote of 66 to 52.

The other by Rep. S. J. Isaacks of El Paso providing for repeal of the poll tax as a requirement for voting, secured a vote of 79 to 40.

Another constitutional amendment by Rep. Marshall Bell of San Antonio to prohibit the state or a political subdivision from levying an income tax on persons or corporations was revised considerably, but no final action was taken. Changes in the proposal knocked out the exemption for corporations and added a prohibition against a general sales tax ever being enacted by the legislature.

were Washington, I would think you are all headed for a nervous breakdown," he remarked in light vein.

The final announcement, to be released from Air Force headquarters in Washington, is expected to reveal (1) whether or not the base will be reactivated, and on what basis; and, if so, (2) definite dates by which rehabilitation will be begun as well as the time of arrival of the first permanent base personnel and students for the twin-engine advanced flying school.

Groups Leave By Planes

Departing in a B-17 following the conference were Zuckert and Cong. George Mahon, Brig. Gen. James B. Newman of the Air Forces Engineers; Col. Gabe Dissosway of the headquarters, USAF, Major A. J. Lanier and Capt. R. S. Rivers, USAF, representing Lt. Gen. Edwin Rawlings, comptroller of the Air Force, who was unable to make the trip.

Major Gen. Robert Harper, commander of the training activities of the Air Force with headquarters at Barksdale Air Force Base, Shreveport, La., and his party left aboard a C-47 transport for Barksdale. In his party were Major William F. Shanklin and G. W. Lenehan, civilian engineer.

Col. G. B. Dany headed the party from Randolph field which returned in a B-25. With him was Maj. Jackson Reed.

The officials were entertained at a luncheon at Lubbock Country club, after which discussion of problems incident to reopening the base was accomplished.

Among Lubbock men present were Mayor W. H. Rodgers, City Commissioners John Spikes, W. B. Price, E. K. Hufstedler and Clarence Whiteside; Homer D. Grant, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Spencer A. Wells, Homer G. Maxey, Chas. A. Guy, Parker F. Prouty, Don Davis, Earl Collins; A. B. Davis, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, and George Bond and Jim Crook of the chamber staff; and Lt. J. E. Crites, LAAF maintenance officer.

Previously, Monday night, the party was entertained at an informal barbecue at the Buffalo Lakes cabin of A. B. Davis. Tuesday morning, members of the various Air Force groups conferred with each other, inspected Lubbock Army Air Field and toured portions of the city.

Discussion centered largely around housing and kindred problems attendant upon bringing into Lubbock a military and civilian population of 3,300 to 3,700 men needed in the operation of a twin-engine bomber school.

British Sloop On Yangtze River Hit By Shore Fire

NANKING, Wednesday, April 20 (AP)—A British naval sloop on the Yangtze river was reported hit by shore fire today and forced aground between Shanghai and Nanking.

The report was received here by foreign naval quarters in incomplete telephone reports. It said there were some casualties.

The sloop was identified as the "Amethyst." It was reported forced ashore at 9 a. m. today at Kouanchen, about 65 miles northeast of Nanking.

Heavy Rain Reported Over Dawson County

LAMESA, April 19. (Special)—A heavy general rain which started early this morning blanketed Dawson county with from one-half to one and one-half inches of moisture. The official measurement here at noon was .80 inches with intermittent light rain during the day.

No damage was reported from light hail which fell in most areas, but telephone facilities were disrupted by the storm.

Fields and ranges, already in good condition after record-breaking January moisture, were greatly benefited by the precipitation. A good yield from nearly 1,200 acres of cotton already planted and an estimated 5,000 acres of wheat is almost certain now, agriculture officials reported.

Burglars Sought

taken there a day earlier almost 1,000 quarter-grain codeine tablets; a full 100 eighth-grain tablets of morphine, in a bottle the seal of which had not been broken; one to two dozen quarter-grain morphine tablets; several sixth-grain morphine tablets; and possibly a part bottle of atrophine.

Approximately $25 in money also was taken, Miller had reported Monday.

The burglary was the second since Lavender and Hull drug was opened, the other having been reported about the first of December in 1947.

It was the sixth time the Prescription laboratory has been burglarized or robbed, Miller said.

Moore's Bonded patrol telephoned the police at 3:10 a. m. to report the Lavender and Hull burglary. One of its drivers had found the padlock smashed, the police were informed.

Sgt. L. D. Blakney and Patrolmen H. B. Hayes and J. H. Schenk went to the store, where a preliminary investigation was commenced under assistance of Mr. and Mrs. Lavender. George Hall and Homer Harrison, other patrolmen, later assisted in the case.

Key Found

Lavender found that approximately $15 had been taken from a front cash register, the rest of the money from a hiding place elsewhere in the store. A key had been found in its hidden place, and apparently had been used in opening the narcotics drawer.

Nothing else in the store was disturbed, Lavender said.

Exit was through a rear door into the alley.

The man who was questioned lives only a few blocks from the drugstore, City Detectives Lee Rice, jr., and L. W. Forrest said.

They explained that their questioning was "routine", after the man had allowed them permission to enter his rented bedroom to ask him questions and later had told them they could examine his room if they liked.

Other than the burglary, police reported a very quiet day Tuesday, with a theft the only major violation investigated up to late last night.

Katie Parks, of 2404 East Ave. C, and Evelyn Reckley, of 2618 East Ave. J, told police that their coats, valued respectively at $25 and $34.75, had been stolen from a locker at the rear of a drug store where they are employed.

Business Prospects Improved In County

Increase Noted In Employment

Lubbock county's business outlook at mid-April is improving and employment is rising slowly but steadily, figures released by B. T. O'Connell, manager of the Lubbock district office of the Texas Employment commission, revealed Tuesday.

Non-agricultural employment for April was estimated at 26,020, as compared with total employment of 25,560 in March, figures compiled by O'Connell's office for Lubbock county indicated.

The figure represents an increase of 1.8 per cent in total employment since February.

Downward Trend Broken

O'Connell interpreted the figures as a "possible indication that the downward trend of the past two months has been broken and that the steady but moderate increase characteristic of the labor market of this locality during recent years has been resumed."

The estimates and predictions are based on information received from a selected group of employers who are contacted regularly by the Lubbock office of TEC.

Of the employers interviewed, 36 per cent report that their employment increased during a 30-day period, 12 per cent reported a decline, and the remainder showed no change.

Optimism Is Expressed

Although manufacturing industries showed some employment gain in the county, the volume of increase was mainly attributable to construction, and to a smaller degree, to wholesale and retail trade.

Lubbock county businessmen are optimistic about business conditions of the next few months, the report indicated.

"Although it might be expected that gains in wholesale and retail trade would be temporary at this season, our information shows that 18 per cent of the wholesale companies contacted expect net gains in employment during the next two to four months, and 26 per cent of the retail companies expect gains during that time," O'Connell's report said.

No Losses Expected

"No wholesale or retail firms indicated any sign of expected net losses during the next four months. In fact, no firms of any type reported expectation of losses during that period except two small construction companies whose jobs will be completed by June."

Total non-agricultural employment is expected to increase by more than 300 during the next two months and by approximately 500 during the next four. The gains are expected to be small except in the construction industry.

Although estimated unemploy-

LUBBOCK MORNING AVALANCHE

Lubbock, Texas, Wednesday, April 20, 1949

Interest Mounts In Demo Dinner

West Texas Democrats' big $10-a-plate barbecue to be staged on the Texas Tech campus, Saturday, May 7, is expected to attract the largest gathering of party leaders of any similar event held in the area, it was indicated by reports received by the arrangements committee Tuesday.

Indicative of the interest in the affair over the territory, Chick Gardner, prominent Odessa business man and party leader, visited Lubbock Tuesday and reported approximately $1,000 worth of the barbecue tickets would be purchased in Odessa and vicinity.

Gardner turned in a $100 check for tickets for a group of his friends and carried approximately 100 more tickets to be disposed of at Odessa. He and Judge Paul Moss are co-chairmen of the barbecue for the Odessa area.

Featuring the barbecue will be a talk by Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan.

Gardner, who has attended two previous party gatherings, both $25-a-plate affairs at Austin and Corpus Christi, said he had received inquiries from a large number of persons in his section of West Texas asking about tickets for the local barbecue.

Importance Of Talk Stressed

"I believe Secretary Brannan's talk will draw the largest crowd of the three party dinners in Texas," Gardner said. "His talk will certainly be of great importance to the people of Texas, especially in West Texas, because of the new provisions of the national farm program.

"I like the barbecue idea better than staging a formal dinner," Gardner added. "It's typical West Texas and the program is sure to offer a lot for people who would not otherwise want to attend a dinner like those held in Austin and Corpus Christi."

In addition to Secretary Brannan, a large number of party leaders from over Texas and from Washington are expected to be here for the event.

JUDGE DECIDES FAST

Council Posts To Be Filled In Voting

Runoff Election Is Set At Tech Today

Students at Texas Tech will go to the polls today to vote in a runoff election that is to be held as a result of the general elections conducted at the college last week.

Clint Formby, student body president, said head boy and girl cheer leaders would be chosen, as well as representatives from the various divisions to the student council. The major officers for the 1949-50 school year were chosen in the general election.

Sterling Heads Students

Curtis Sterling, a junior from Snyder, was chosen as student body president and Marshall Gettys, Amarillo, was named vice-president. Margaret Clark, Van Horn, was re-elected as secretary of the student council and Raymond Brigham, Stamford was unopposed for business manager of the council.

In today's election students will decide between Glenna Winston of Brownfield and Lam McKay of Lubbock for the head girl cheer leader. Bob Hogan of Terrell and Jimmy Carter of Big Spring are in the runoff for the head boy cheer leader position.

Roy Trice, Texarkana; Bill Parsley, Lubbock and Bill Agnew, Lubbock were elected in the general elections to serve as representatives to the student council from the arts and science division. Four of the following will be elected to complete the seven students who are to serve from that division.

Jo Simmons, Lubbock; Patti Jo Musson, Lubbock; Bill Trenfield, Lubbock; Pat Keffer, Odessa; Guida Miller, Amarillo; Bobby Joe Salem, Sudan; Jim Choate, Lubbock and Marjorie Buck, Levelland.

Other Races Slated

In the agricultural division, Don Morrison of Pampa was elected to serve as representative without a runoff. Two seats remain to be filled. Those in the runoff today will be: Cecil (Rigor) Mardis, Muleshoe; Frank Smith, Lubbock; Cloy Weems, Ralls and J. B. Cooper of Roscoe.

Three representatives from Business Administration will be chosen. Those in the race are Bill McCasland, Lamesa; Gail Rogers, Perryman; Bob Craig, Brownfield; Jimmy Hall, Amarillo; Bill Gillentine, Sherman and Sue Lawson, Lubbock.

Two places from the engineering division will be filled. Rex Darling of Houston, James Steele of Whiteface, Ken Hancock of Lubbock and Jack Burk of Corsicana will be in the race for those positions.

Marjorie Bullen, Lubbock; Richard Gibson, Dallas and John Jackson of Dallas were elected in the general elections as representatives from engineering.

Also elected last week were: editor of the La Ventana, student yearbook, Roy Grimes, Lubbock; business manager of the La Ventana, A. J. Bishop, Winters; business manager of the Toreador, student newspaper, Dean Allam, Little River, Kansas.

There was no one entered in the race for the editorship of the Toreador. The Publications committee at the college indicated in a special meeting last week that it would take applications for the position until next Wednesday. During the committee's next meeting, at which the applicants must be present, an editor will be chosen.

Jewish Leader Is Death Victim

NEW YORK, April 19 (AP)—Dr. Stephen S. Wise, 75, world-renowned Jewish leader who fought for half a century to make the world a better place to live for Jew and Gentile alike, died today.

The end came at Lenox Hill hospital, with his family grouped about his bedside.

He entered the hospital early this month for an operation for what the hospital called a "malignant stomach ailment."

Dr. Wise had been gravely ill since last Saturday.

Services Set Friday

Funeral services will be held Friday at Carnegie Hall. The body will lie in state tomorrow at Dr. Wise's free synagogue.

He died without realizing his last, fond wish. He keenly wanted to visit the new nation of Israel. He had spent a lifetime working for its establishment.

Dr. Wise was president of the American Jewish Congress and the World Jewish Congress.

His many titles, in and out of his own religion, meant less to the tall, rugged Rabbi than did his ideals—which were many and covered a broad field of social progress.

The late President Roosevelt called him outstanding in the world for his fight for "the oppressed and underprivileged."

Deeply troubled in recent weeks by the present trend in international relations, the failing Jewish leader made his strong views known once more as he had done so often before.

He said American leadership "seems bent on war."

Stand Was Attacked

He criticised "the largest of Christian churches" for being "unequivocably for war." He mentioned no names.

But his remarks brought a quick retort from several Roman Catholic professors who called his statement "false and malicious."

The widely-known Rabbi was no apologist for Russia, any more than he had been for Nazi Germany. His was one of the first strong voices raised against Hitlerism in 1933.

Dr. Wise was born in Budapest, Hungary, where his forebearers had been Rabbis for generations.

A year after his birth Dr. Wise was brought to New York where

SLASH LOWER THAN USUAL

State's Crude Production For May Again Cut By Commission

By MAX B. SKELTON
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOUSTON, April 19—Texas crude oil production is to take its fifth consecutive cut next month but the slash will not be as sharp as those previously ordered.

The Railroad commission today set May's allowable at 1,982,492 barrels daily, a drop of 54,079 compared with the April 16 allowable.

It is the lowest of the production reductions made this year. The five cuts have reduced the state's allowable by 810,000 barrels daily.

Outlook Is Brighter

The May reduction actually is a result of the month having 31 days instead of 30. No change was made in production days, with all fields except East Texas to operate 19 days and East Texas 17 days.

The commission heard "encouraging" testimony on petroleum stocks and imports.

Previous production cuts had been termed necessary in view of surplus stocks and an upward trend in imports.

Eight companies estimated their total average crude imports in May will be 345,800 barrels daily. Nine companies figure June's imports at a total daily average of 326,300 barrels.

These compare with December imports which averaged 647,000 barrels daily.

Estimates Are Made

Fourteen executives submitted estimates of working stocks considered essential. The average estimate approximated 250,000,000 barrels, compared with 268,000,000 at present.

Gasoline estimates ranged from an approximate average of 90,000,000 barrels in October to 125,000,000 barrels in early April. Present stocks approximate 127,000,000 barrels.

A. J. McIntosh, New York City, representing Socony Vacuum and Magnolia Petroleum company, said 16,870,000 barrels of current domestic stocks can be considered surplus but of "no economic burden to the industry."

The new May daily allowable is 479,700 barrels below purchaser nominations which totaled 2,516,271 barrels. The nominations were 29,119 daily below April.

The commission estimated daily production of natural gasoline and distillates at 257,685 barrels, which, combined with the new crude figure, gives the state a liquid petroleum allowable of 2,240,177 barrels daily.

Meeting Set May 19

Commission engineers reported that the bottomhole pressure in the East Texas field increased 3.72 pounds per square inch during march.

The June statewide proration hearing will be held at 9 a.m. May 19, at the Driscoll hotel, Corpus Christi.

Open House Plans Made

Final plans for the 13th annual Texas Tech Home Economics Open House have been completed and the doors will open to the public at 2 p. m. Friday, according to Mary Welch, senior from Winter Valley, who is general manager of the event.

The Open house is held each year in order that the general public may become better acquainted with the work that is being carried on by the Home Economics department at Tech. It is held in conjunction with the Engineering show and the regional Interscholastic league meet so as many high school students and teachers as possible may attend. Over 4,000 persons attended the event last year and plans for an even larger crowd have been made for this year's show.

Exhibits To Be Featured

Each department will feature exhibits which best show the type of work that it teaches. The home management department under the direction of Ruth Ann Fehr of Nazareth, will feature two modern kitchens, one all gas and the other all electric. The electric kitchen has an automatic electric sink with a disposal unit. There will also be an electric range, refrigerator and home freezer.

The nursery school has children's books, toys and books for parents on child development for visitors along with furnishing a tour of the nursery school plant. Hostesses will explain the aims and proceedures of the school.

Visitors will also have a chance to judge the foods and nutritions department for themselves by sampling the hot breads which the students will serve during the open house.

Movie To Be Shown

One of the highlights of this year's open house will be the showing of the all-college movie, "Features Unlimited," which is a 45 minute feature on the activities at Tech. In an effort to create more interest among high school students, a style show will be held Saturday. Students from several high schools in Area 2 will model the clothes which they have made during this school year.

Tech Home Economics students will meet the high school students and their teachers when they arrive and act as hostesses to them during their stay at the college. College students will also act as commentators during the style show.

The following area schools will send representatives: Slaton, Lena Schmidt; J. T. Hutchinson Junior High, Lubbock, La Vonn Priddy; O. L. Slaton Junior High, Jeane Davis; New Deal, Betty LaRuth Faubion; Smyer, Christine Daniel; Ropesville, Opal Cowan; Morton, Nell Brown; Whiteface, Mary Helen Keith.

ACHESON TO OUTLINE PROGRAM

Senate Group To Hear Plans For Arming Of Atlantic Pact Nations

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP)—The administration's plans to arm North Atlantic treaty nations will be outlined secretly to Senators Thursday by Secretary of State Acheson.

Acheson will appear before the Senate Foreign Relations committee. He also will give the group a full report on Germany.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) said that after hearing Acheson the committee then will decide:

Public Hearings To Be Set

1. When to lift the secrecy from the arms-for-Europe program aimed at bolstering North Atlantic defenses against Communism; and 2. When to start public hearings on the treaty itself.

On the arms program, he said there is a possibility secrecy might not be lifted until the Senate votes on the treaty.

He disclosed also that there is a tug-of-war between his committee and the Senate Armed Services committee as to which will consider the arms plan. Connally said Chairman Tydings (D-Md) of the armed services group feels it should be considered by that committee instead of foreign relations.

The arms program, estimated unofficially to cost $1,250,000,000 the first year, will back up the peace aims of the treaty.

Mr. Truman already has sent the pact to the Senate for ratification. A two-thirds vote is necessary.

Senator Douglas (D-Ill) said he and Senator Elbert Thomas (D-Utah) plan to introduce a resolution urging the United Nations to adopt the non-aggression principles of the Atlantic pact as a supplement to the UN charter.

Another group of senators, headed by Senator Flanders (R-Vt) plan to offer an amendment to the treaty so as to allow the 12 signatory nations to form a little UN which could function within the present world organization.

Pilot Plans Oklahoma City-Rome Non-Stop Hop On World Flight

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 19 (AP)—Not only does Jack Brazil plan to fly non-stop from Tokyo to Oklahoma City on his round the world flight but he aims to fly non-stop from Oklahoma City to Rome.

An announcement from Tyler, Tex., on the projected flight next summer listed a stop at Goose Bay, Labrador.

"But I don't plan to stop at Goose Bay," Brazil said today. "I plan to fly a course from the starting point at Oklahoma City on the way to Rome that will take me over Goose Bay."

Brazil, a former fighter pilot, said the flight might start in late July. He has signed a contract with the Johnson Aircraft corporation of Tyler, to use one of its light planes. The plane will be powered with a 185 horsepower engine and will carry auxiliary gas tanks.

McAllen Man Named Manager Of Presbyterian MO-Ranch

AUSTIN, April 19 (U.P.)—Selection of O. O. West of McAllen as general manager of the recently purchased MO-Ranch near Hunt, Tex., was announced today by Dr. David L. Stitt, president of the Austin Presbyterian Theological seminary.

The 6,816 acre ranch was purchased by the synod of Texas of the Presbyterian church.

West's appointment was handled by a seven-man committee, headed by Dr. Thomas B. Gallaher, pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Waco.

MO-Ranch, built at a cost of approximately $1,000,000 by the late Dan Moran, former president of the Continental Oil company, will be used by Texas Presbyterians as a general synod conference site.

The ranch has facilities for housing 200 weekend guests.

Ancient Drug Proves Successful Treatment For Bronchial Asthma

By PAUL F. ELLIS
United Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, April 19—A medicine discovered in ancient times is being used to treat bronchial asthma.

The medicine is a drug known as khellin, the active principle extracted from the seeds of a plant that grows wild in the Mediterranean area and in Arabia. Human beings in ancient days used dried seeds of the plants as medicine.

An example of the modern use of khellin, which has now been produced synthetically, is reported by Dr. Ralph H. Major, Kansas City, Kan., in the journal of the Kansas Medical society. He administered the drug to 12 patients, suffering asthma.

Dr. Major, of the Department of Internal Medicine, University of Kansas School of Medicine, said all of the patients were "severe asthmatics" who obtained relief only through administration of large doses of drugs which, Dr. Major said, "a conservative physician would regard as potentially dangerous." The routine anti-bistaminic drugs also were unsuccessful, he said.

Major said he put them on khellin.

"All of the patients with one exception," he reported, "experienced marked relief while in the hospital and taking khellin under our supervision. In most instances the relief was rapid and lasted as long as they continued taking the tablets."

One patient had suffered for 35 years, another for 28 years. The average was about 12 years.

The drug, as of now, is expensive and scarce, Dr. Major said. He admitted that the study of 12 patients was not conclusive, saying:

"Now, one swallow, as Aristotle said, doesn't make a spring, and 12 cases cannot prove the superiority or even the great value of khellin in bronchial asthma. We are convinced, however, from our admittedly limited experience, that khellin is of value in the treatment of asthma."

The dried seeds of the plant from which the drug was developed are still being used as medicine by the natives of the Mediterranean area and in Arabia, Major said.

Wife Gives Birth To Fifth Set Of Twins; Father Collapses

WAREHAM, Mass., April 19 (INS) — Joseph Lopes, unemployed Cape Cod laborer, collapsed today when his wife gave birth to twins at Tobey hospital.

It was the 28-year-old wife's fifth set of twins in eight years.

The babies born today weighed 5 pounds, 6 ounces, and 6 pounds, one ounce.

The Lopes family now includes 13 children.

Passengers Escape Injury As City Bus Plows Across Yard

A bus driver and four passengers escaped injury when a TNM&O bus went out of control Monday night and crashed into two trees in the yard of the Retha Martin residence, at 2701 Nineteenth.

The mishap occurred when brakes on the south-bound bus failed to function as the vehicle approached Nineteenth street from Texas Tech campus about 10 p. m.

Unable to make the sharp right turn at Nineteenth, bus driver A. L. Poe steered the vehicle across the Martin's yard.

The bus crashed through shrubs and flowers and hit two trees, a 30-foot spruce and a small ash before it stopped, Martin said.

The bus, which bogged deep in the soft earth of the yard, was removed early Tuesday.

W. Hurley Carpenter, assistant general manager of TNM&O lines here, said brakes apparently had become wet after an early evening rainstorm.

The bus was enroute from the Tech campus to Veterans village, 12 miles west of Lubbock.

Christopher O'Connor and George Buller, of Dublin, won mounted inkstands and fountain pens as winners of Eire's cocktail contest staged by the Bar Tenders' Guild.

Rumored Red Plan To Lift Berlin Blockade Comes At Vital Time

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 19 — There are rumors here that Russia is getting ready to lift the Berlin blockade.

They're starting at a pretty important time, as this story will show.

This is the setting:

The Russians, Americans, British and French occupy four sectors of Berlin, just as they hold four zones of Germany.

The four wartime Allies agreed on that division when Germany surrendered. But Berlin is entirely within the Russian zone.

Land Approaches Blocked

About a year ago Russia blocked all land approaches from the west to Berlin.

Since then this country has had to send supplies in by plane—the airlift—at a cost of around $5,000,000 a month now.

This has been pretty awkward for the Americans, British and French. But it's been awkward for the Russians, too.

Because of their own blockade, they've shut themselves off from the industrial supplies they've needed from the American, British and French zones of Germany.

Lifting the blockade would let those supplies in. That might be one reason for lifting it. Another might be a real desire to ease the east-west tension, for Russia hasn't been winning the cold war.

Any other reasons? Several, maybe. For instance, throwing a monkey wrench into the plans of the United States, Britain and France to set up a new German government in their western zones.

In the first place, the Russians and her three former Allies have never reached any kind of peace settlement on Germany.

The western powers have refused to talk with Russia about a settlement until the blockade is lifted.

Reds May Seek Delay

The Russians haven't liked the idea and talked of setting up a different German government in their zone.

If they lifted the blockade and got the peace talks going, this might cause a long delay in setting up the western government.

And the delay might have an irritating effect on the Germans who have been without any government of their own since the war.

But Russia might have something else in mind, such as throwing a harpoon into the Atlantic pact and the Marshall plan.

Congress hasn't yet this year tackled the problem of actually voting money for the Marshall plan or money for arms under the Atlantic pact.

U. S. Might Reduce Aid

And under the Atlantic pact we're supposed to send arms to those Democracies so they'll have confidence they can block any move by Russia.

But if, through lifting of the Berlin blockade, Congress thought the tension and danger in Europe was easing then—

It might cut down Marshall plan aid and not vote any money at all for our Allies in the pact.

What a cut in the Marshall plan might do to the economic recovery of our Allies and what withholding arms might do to their confidence in our friendship, is something that can't be foretold.

But any peaceful move by Russia, such as lifting the blockage, doesn't mean Russia has lost a battle or retreated a step. It might mean only that she is temporarily sidestepping.

Lenin long ago told his Communists the final goal is the important thing and that it's all right temporarily to compromise or step back so long as such tactics lead at last to that final goal.

Services Slated At Tulsa For Former Texas Multi-Millionaire

MIAMI, Fla., April 19 (U.P.)—The body of Col. Richard T. Daniel, 87-year-old multi-millionaire who died of pneumonia here last night, was sent to Tulsa today for burial.

Daniel came here from Dallas, in 1942 and lived alone in a 64-room hotel in downtown Miami. He and the nurse who attended him were the only occupants of the huge building.

In recent years, one of his three sons, R. T. Daniel, jr., had failed in an attempt to have Daniel declared incompetent to handle his extensive business holdings in Tulsa, Dallas, Miami and Spokane, Wash.

One Boy Killed, Another Is Injured In Dallas Shooting

DALLAS, April 19. (AP)—One boy was killed and another injured last night by a shotgun blast in a Dallas home.

James Bables, 10, was killer. His body was taken to a negro funeral home. His brother, Theodore, was treated for head wounds and released.

Police held a 15-year-old youth for questioning.

Endurance Fliers Receive $5,000 Check From Sponsoring Company

MIDWAY CITY, Calif., April 19 (AP)—A tow-headed 10-year-old smiled up from his sickbed and announced shyly:

"I feel better already."

The youngster had reason to be happy. When Dick Riedel, his father, and Bill Barris took off from Fullerton airport near here March 15 to set a new endurance flying record, they were gambling everything they had. Today, their gamble has paid off, and little Dickie, crippled with arthritis, may be able to walk again.

Barris and Riedel each have two children. Barris' 2-year-old girl, Patty, suffers from acute asthma, and his son, Steven, 15 months, has eye trouble.

Doctor bills come high. That was why the two pilots started their endurance flight—in the hope that someone would sponsor their venture once they broke the record.

Yesterday they received a check for $5000 from R. S. MacMillan, president of the petroleum corporation which donated the gasoline for their plane.

The money came as a surprise to the Barris and Riedel families. They gathered in the living room of the Riedels' small bungalow to discuss their good fortune. Overhead, the "Sunkist Lady" with Barris at the controls, buzzed the house and dipped its wings.

They're still up there. If everything goes well, they'll reach their goal of 1008 hours—six weeks in the air—at 11:44 a. m. next Tuesday.

Women now must wear bathing caps at the Woolwich, England, municipal pool.

U.S. BELIEVED ABLE TO PRODUCE BOMB EACH DAY

Noted Physicst Says A-Bomb Blast Over Heart Of New York Would Kill 200,000, Hurt 250,000

By BOB CONSIDINE
INS Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, April 19—R. E. Lapp, an atomic scientist who helped build the bomb and later worked on the Bikini tests, becomes the first physcist of that stature to write a book about the nefarious nugget.

He says in "Must We Hide?" (Addison-Wesley, Cambridge, Mass.) that things aren't quite as bad as they have been portrayed by some of his associates and the magazine writers.

Bomb Output Is Small

Russia, he figures, will have its first bomb or two in 1952 but that won't mean anything. No aggressor will strike unless he owns a pile of the things, and that takes time. He points out that with an all-out effort we, who have the know-how and production lines and processes costing countless hundreds of millions of dollars, can turn out a little more than one a day.

Lapp says it would be a bum idea to try to stop Communism, as an ideology, with the bomb. If the Red army overran Europe tomorrow, and holed up in the cities we treasure so deeply, we would not attempt to rout it with A-bombs. He doesn't think we'll ever fight a preventive A-bomb war, either for fear that we could never make friends with the people against whom we used the thing.

Panic Factor Cited

He'd not like to see the U. S. hit by an enemy A-bomb for several reasons, and one of these has to do with panic. Lapp recalls the hysteria caused by a boogy-man broadcast made in the placid pre-atomic era by Orson Welles, the celebrated ham. Along these line, it is the feeling of a man who knows so much about the bomb—I cannot mention his name—that the greatest loss of life in New York City, if an A-bomb fell on us, would be in the stampedes for the subways, tunnels and bottle-necked highways.

Lapp engages in the arresting occupation of A-bombing New York hypothetically. Since the A-bomb is primarily an anti-personnel weapon, and all wars hereafter will be total, which means everybody, Ladd picks New York as an enemy's No. One target. He points out that one in every 20 Americans lives in New York City. In fact, 60 per cent of our population lives in cities occupying less than three per cent of the U. S. land area.

'Cost Of Killing' Increases

The ability of the U. S. to fight back could be destroyed by some well-placed A-bombs dropped or detonated in New York, Washington, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Wheeling, Youngstown, Detroit, Gary, Chicago and Rochester, Lapp believes. All could be reached, he points out pleasantly, by "submarine-launched bombers." Military installations rank last on his list of enticing U. S. targets.

He'd like to see us spread out our industry and stop building our cities vertically. But he's worried about public indifference and the costs involved.

The cost of killing is mounting dizzily, Lapp stresses. It cost George Washington two million dollars a month to beat Britain and win our independence. It cost Ike Eisenhower $20 billion a month. In view of what we're now spending on arms—74 cents out of every tax dollar—he thinks some of it should go into making the country less vulnerable to A-bomb attack.

Bomb Stockpile Favored

Despite their cost (the crew of the plane which dropped the bomb on Hiroshima were told by indisputable authorities that the fabulous firecracker cost $75,000,000) Lapp is in favor of our stockpile of bombs. If peace should break out, he reasons, we can use the uranium and plutonium for medical and power purposes. An A-bomb stockpile, for the first time in the history of arms, constitutes "money in the bank."

Mayor O'Dwyer will be interested to learn that a saboteur who touches off an A-bomb in the basement of city hall would dig a crater 500 feet wide and scatter buildings and customers' men for 1,000 feet around.

Possible Destruction Described

A bomb detonated 1,000 feet over Fifth avenue and 42nd street would be more serious. It would spray lethal doses as far as the East river and Seventh avenue, and to the Ritz tower on the north and 26th street on the south. About 200,000 would be killed outright and 250,000 more injured. A blast over Chicago's Loop would do almost as much damage, he adds. Those directly under the blast would live, for reasons too difficult to describe.

Lapp wishes that the people of the U. S., who are paying for the bomb, knew more about it and its effects. He wonders why they are being kept in the dark on so much that affects them so deeply, and he concludes that if we knew the scope of the bomb we'd be the first people on earth who knew how to defend against it.

TO SPEAK HERE TODAY—Marine S/Sgt. Eddins O. Hilliard, above, this afternoon will lecture to graduating male students at Lubbock Senior High school on opportunities available to men who enlist in the Marine corps. Sgt. Hilliard, a native Texan, will use a Hile-Damroth visual aid board, also shown above, to illustrate his lecture. The talk is to be presented at 1 p.m. in the High School auditorium. Parents of high school students are invited to attend, M/Sgt. M. L. Ailes, in charge of the local Marine corps recruiting office, has announced.

Early Senate Action Urged On Wheat Pact

WASHINGTON, April 19. (INS)—President Truman today submitted the international wheat agreement to the Senate and asked for early ratification.

Senate leaders indicated ,however, that the treaty faces delay. They explained that the right-of-way given the Atlantic pact and the European rearmament program would cause the wheat plan to be put off for several weeks.

The President said the agreement should be ratified by July 1 in order to bring it into force "with a view to its operation during the next crop year."

Delay In Vote Likely

Leaders indicated that this would not be possible. But it was explained that if the agreement is made effective by August 1 it still can apply to the coming crop year for the most part.

Prospects for eventual approval of the agreement, however, were regarded as favorable.

An agreement last year was approved by the Foreign Relations committee unanimously, but was never brought up in the Senate for action.

Under the agreement, the United States and four other wheat exporting nations contract with 36 importing nations to ship to them 456,283,389 bushels of wheat a year over a four-year period at a top price of $1.80 a bushel. The U.S. share would be 168,069,635 bushels.

In Cyprus, a model village is being built to house British troops.

CHURCH INVOKES PUNISHMENT

Jesuit Priest Stripped Of Duties In Boston 'Heresy' Controversy

BOSTON, April 19 (AP) — A 52-year-old Jesuit priest, who declared he had been stripped of his priestly duties for contending there is no salvation outside the Roman Catholic church, today denounced his punishment by Archbishop Richard J. Cushing as "brutal" and "invalid."

Archbishop Cushing said he had barred Rev. Leonard Feeney, S. J., from the altar for "grave offenses against the general laws of the Catholic church."

'Heresy' Charged

But Rev. Feeney said, "the reason I am being silenced is because I believed there is no salvation outside the Catholic church and without personal submission to our holy father, the pope, and Archbishop Cushing believes there is. . . . I believe the present silencing of me is totally invalid."

The invoking of one of the gravest punishments of the Catholic church was the newest development in a week-old "heresy" controversy which has stirred the large Catholic population in this city.

The heresy charge was first leveled against Boston college, noted religious school, by three instructors there and another at Boston College High school.

The four lost their teaching positions, they claimed, because they contended Boston college was preaching the "heresy" that persons outside the Catholic faith can attain salvation after death.

Archbishop Cusning remained silent on the matter until last night when he criticized the instructors for causing "serious scandal" and set forth his edict against Rev. Feeney.

Rev. Feeney had publicly announced his support of the four instructors.

The archbishop said in a formal statement that he was "obliged to reveal the unhappy fact that Rev. Feeney has been defying the orders of his legitimate superiors for more than seven months."

Then the spiritual head of this archdiocese of nearly a million and a quarter Catholics pronounced this decree:

"The Rev. Leonard Feeney, S. J., because of grave offenses against the general laws of the Catholic church, has lost the right to perform any priestly functions, including preaching and the teaching of religion."

Plans for a half-day picnic for members of the South Plains Optometric society were approved Tuesday by the organization's board of directors in a meeting here. Exact date of the picnic is to be decided later. The directors also discussed plans for the next regular meeting of the society, scheduled for May 10. Attending last night's meeting were Dr. J. Chilean Student Indicted In New York As Result Of Shooting

TROY, N. Y., April 19 (U.P.)—A grand jury today indicted Richard Perry, 19, of Santiago, Chile, on charges of illegal possession of a gun.

The grand jury returned the indictment in connection with the fatal shooting of Manfred Lowen, a 23-year old German refugee student at Rensselaer Polytechnic institute, on April 3.

Lowen, who occupied a dormitory room adjoining Perry's was found shortly after midnight on April 4 slumped in a chair with a bullet wound in his head.

Police said Perry admitted a .22 caliber pistol discharged accidentally while he was examining it. The bullet passed through the thin wall of the barracks-type building.

Perry is free on bail.

Russia Announces Plan To Improve Animal Husbandry

By EDDIE GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, April 19—The Soviet Union announced today a three-year plan to improve its backward animal husbandry.

A decree of the council of ministers and central Communist party committee set the goal of a 50 per cent increase by the end of 1951 in production of meat, animal fat, milk, butter, eggs, leather and wool.

It calls for a big boost in numbers of cattle, hogs, sheep, goats and poultry in collectivized herds and state farms. The plan does not concern animals owned individually by peasants.

Vast Increase Planned

The plans embrace an increase in good breeding stock and greater use of artificial insemination, special prizes for development of new high production breeds, construction of tens of thousands of barns and sheds, development of mechanization and labor-saving methods to increase feed supplies, and more attention to education of animal specialists and veterinaries.

The decree states that Russia's grain problem has been solved despite the war and 1946 drouth, but animal culture remains "backward" because of the war, which caused "great ruin" to herds.

(The Statesman's yearbook gives the 1938 cattle population in Russia at 63,200,000, sheep and goats 102,500,000, hogs 30,600,000. Poultry production is not specified.

(The United States, smaller in area and population, had 107,000,000 beef cattle and milk cows in 1947, 32,000,000 sheep, 56,000,000 hogs and 475,000,000 chickens.)

Norway's merchant fleet totals 4,400,000 tons and will add 3,600,000 tons by 1952.

ON NEW REVENUE:

Let The Folks Vote

MANY cities are in financial straits. Therefore, they are searching for increased sources of revenue to meet operating and expansion expenses with almost frantic diligence.

Lubbock is among these cities. Each is attempting to watch all the others in the hope that some of them will devise financing methods adaptable to themselves.

Of particular interest to Lubbock in this connection has been recent news from Dallas and Amarillo. Dallas is boosting water rates about 25 per cent. Amarillo is sending up trial balloons on the proposed levy of a garbage collection tax. Officials of many cities have discussed the setting of a monthly charge for sewage connections. A good many cities long have levied garbage assessments and/or sewage connection fees.

Lubbock officials apparently are not considering an increase in water rates. Sewage connection and garbage collection charges have been discussed numerous times. Public reaction to such proposals invariably have been so unfavorable they invariably have been quickly discarded.

But officials say Lubbock must have more revenue to provide the services which should keep pace with rapid growth, to extend the City limits and for other reasons. Special charges for sewage connections and garbage collection would be one way to get more money. Increased taxation and/or assessed valuations are others. Higher utility rates are still another.

Present indications are the City commission soon will approve some plan to get more operating and expansion revenue. Sentiment now seems to favor the higher tax and valuation route. But some officials argue that special charges for sewage and garbage handling would be best and fairest.

Possibly they are correct. We won't question it now. But we believe that any Lubbock City commission, present or future, which may consider the imposition of special charges will be wise, and will follow sound policy, if it gives the citizenship opportunity to vote on the proposals first. If the people reject them, the charges should not be levied. If they vote approval, no one can complain—and our citizenship is of the quality, as has been proven repeatedly, which will approve such things, provided they are shown a reasonable need and justification for them.

Funds For Europe

THE speedy congressional approval by overwhelming majorities of the $5,580,000,000 European aid program undoubtedly reflected American public opinion in the matter. Opposition has been negligible even by those who regard the appropriation as unnecessarily large. But they would prefer to chance the mistake of providing too much rather than too little.

It will be interesting now to watch how the fund is administered. Will it actually be made to cover the 15 months for which it is provided? Or will those administering it spend it all within a year or so, and then go back to Congress, as they did last year, to ask—and obtain—a huge deficiency appropriation?

Possibly ERP leaders will get another deficiency handout if they repeat their performance of last year. Circumstances of the moment doubtless would go far toward determining the congressional and public reaction to such a request. But present indications are that the whole relief program will be in better favor if the administering officials and Congress require that actual spending be held within the limits of the funds supplied. Another deficiency appropriation request is likely to encounter strong opposition and justified defeat unless conditions have changed radically for the present.

When we decided to make eating our No. 1 weakness, we had no idea food prices were going to turn out this way.

"Diapers Are Essential." — Headline of advertisement. Yes, indeed. One might even say they are among the fundamental necessities.

We expect a new low in general despondency to be reached when soap opera goes on television.

Pardon our nervousness, please. We were just frightened by a passing drove of high school girls with Ish Kabibble haircuts.

TRIM sat on the edge of the car seat and stared down at him. After a while of consideration, he went on. "I'll tell you what I can, but you two have to be frank right back at me. In answer to your question: only incidentally. There's some tie-up there with Sagmon Robottom and—"

"What's he done?" cried Sin.

"Nothing yet — that we can prove. He just keeps popping up in key positions. A professional organization one place — a crackpot discussion group somewhere else. The L. A. office — that's Robottom's home town — thinks there's something off - key about him."

"Off-key?"

"Subversive. Undercover."

"Gosh," said Sin, awed. "If I'd known that, I' really have been scared this morning."

Trim pursed his lipe irritably at the interruption. "Nothing had come of my work when I ran across this lost treasure business. Okay—that's not my jurisdiction—finders-keepers and so forth. The two murders aren't my jurisdiction, either. Just a minute!" He held up a small hand to cut off the Conover's' questions. "I do come into it sideways. If Barselou finds the Queen, the money's his. But the government is interested if he's going to back Robottom in some subversive activity with that money."

John Henry began to pace back and forth, plucking thoughtfully at his lower lip. "Then Robottom could be Jones?"

"Oh, he could be," admitted Trim. "But the two dead bodies belong to Lieutenant Lay—not me. I'm here to cinch a subversion case. All I know about your Jones or Joneses is that a Barselou employe — Anglin — sent a wire to them yesterday morning telling them to meet him at the Las Dunas Hotel." He started to slide under the steering wheel. "I'm sorry I won't be able to run you back, but from what you've told me, I better get a move on."

Sin looked at the agent quizzically. "What are you going to do now, Mr. Trim? Or is it a secret?"

"WELL—"Trim squinted at the moon-painted mesquite. "I'm going out and wait for Barselou at his ranch. Now that you've run this galleon rumor to earth for me. I might as well warn him about registry and tax and some other details. Then it'll be his move if he wants to play with Robottom."

"Mr. Trim," said Sin earnestly, "look—wouldn't you like to follow Barselou and Jones and Robottom or whoever it is on the Queen? That way you could—"

"What are you talking about, Sin?" John Henry interrupted. "I thought you—"

"It has its points," Trim mused. "I might find out pretty definitely about the subversion angle. It would certainly catch Robottom off base." He laughed harshly. "But, unfortunately, Mrs. Conover—I don't know the way. All I can do is wait at the ranch for one or both of them to come back."

"That's it exactly," said Sin, jumping up and down with excitement.

"Sin, talk sense," John Henry insisted angrily.

"Johnny, don't you see? We know where to start — Walking Skull."

"What do you mean we know where to start? Where's Walking Skull?"

"Never mind," said Trim quietly. "I know where it is. Let her talk."

"And we've got a third copy of the combination — me." Sin pointed a proud forefinger at herself.

John Henry was disgusted. "Don't be silly. You've said it once Now it's gone. Why should that list of numbers stick with you?"

"Because," Sin explained slowly and deliberately, "they don't make sense!"

"SHE hasn't had much to eat," her husband said to Trim.

"No, Johnny! Just to prove it, here's the first two directions. R dash one. L dash three." Her words tumbled over one another getting out of her mouth. "I know I can remember it, Johnny: It just isn't a silly old quotation or anything—it doesn't have any order and I can remember it perfectly. I knew it when I recited it for you back at the ranch, but I didn't want to tell you then for fear it would spoil things or you'd want to go after the Queen by yourself later on. But now we've got help. And, Johnny, honest—I can't get the darn thing out of my head!"

"It'd be too dangerous for you, Sin. I don't want you—"

She put her arms around him. "I don't want to go to jail and I don't want you to either. This way we won't have to, honey. Because Jones will be at the Queen."

John Henry felt the tempting excitement begin to bubble inside him again. "I wouldn't mind running into the guy responsible for all this, at that. I feel I owe him something."

Triumphantly, Sin turned to the wizened agent in the sedan. "There! Now how about it, Mr. Trim? What do you say?"

Trim didn't say anything for a moment. He opened the glove compartment and took out a heavy service automatic. Leaning back in the car, he checked the magazine under the dashlight. When he came into view again, he shoved the gun at John Henry, butt foremost.

He said, "Stick close to your wife then, and come along. This may be the bag of the year or it may be a wild-goose chase. I guarantee it won't be any picnic."

Looking At Life - - By Erich Brandeis

ARE you a "vitro" or a "vivo" person?

It has nothing to do with Taurus the Bull or Cancer the Crab.

It is strictly scientific, as you will see in a moment.

At the recent meeting of the American College of Physicians and Surgeons, two cases of "vitro" and "vivo" were demonstrated. They called them "Cases Illustrating Life Situations, Emotions and Bodily Diseases."

BRANDEIS

First, let me explain "vitro" and "vivo."

Medical scientists talk about "in vitro," which means "in glass," and "in vivo," which means "in living matter."

Procedures and medicaments are first tried in the test tube, and when they show promise they are tested on human beings.

Both of the cases demonstrated were women who could not get along with their husbands and became ill. All the "in vitro" stuff didn't do them any good. But when "in vivo" was tried it worked.

In one case the husband got a good talking-to and changed his ways. The woman got well.

In the other, the woman herself, who had idealized her husband too much, was terribly disappointed when he turned out to be just a human being instead of a shining knight of courtship days. In this case she got a good talking-to, got on to herself and recovered.

Any physician who reads this will say that my explanation is very unscientific. Too many plain English words. Not enough Latin and Abracadabra. So be it.

But I am sure you'll understand it.

This not being the place for a medical treatise, I'll tell you why I am talking about it.

There is too much "vitro" and not enough "vivo" in most of us.

We go by theories, traditions, superstitions, by principles and ideas that have been tried in test tubes but not in actual experience.

TEST tubes are not always made of glass. Books may be test tubes. Prejudices are test tubes.

Yes, even mother and father may be test tubes.

I trust you will not call me sacrilegious. But all too often the Bible is used as a test tube.

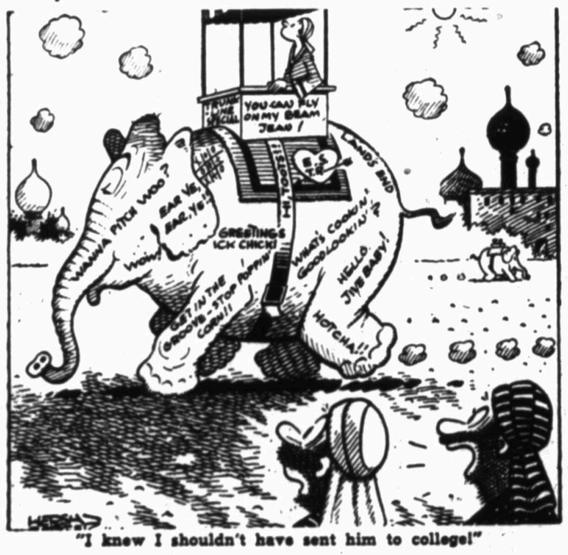

So often readers send me quotations from the Bible to prove a point, when their particular quotation is not at all to be taken literally but only as a guide or an allegory.

The Bible must never be a test tube. The Bible must be lived. Religion must be lived. God must be lived.

God "in vitro" is an insult to God. He must be in your heart, "in vivo."

Try it, please. It will be the best experiment in happiness and peace of mind you ever made.

DECLINE IS FEARED

Trends Are Studied

By RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Despite the flow of optimistic comment on the economic outlook from the White House, the more non-politically minded economists in Commerce, Agriculture, the Treasury and the Federal Reserve System show grave concern over the continuing downward trends of business and industrial activity.

While not a sharp decline as yet, an undercurrent of caution and general sluggishness inspires suspicion that large-scale producers, employers and investors may have fallen into the uneasy state of mind which Dr. Edwin G. Nourse warned against in his first report to President Truman. He has repeated that warning in recent off-the-record conferences here and elsewhere.

TUCKER

DANGER: The conservative chairman of the White House Council of Economic Advisers expresses alarm over the possibility that the country might "think or talk" itself into a depression or recession, without any basic justification for such pessimism in the underlying factors.

That psychological danger, his group feels, ha become more real in recent weeks, and it worries federal managers of the nation's economy for the simple reason that April-May developments may decide whether the forces of business and industry will stage a recovery rally or continue the spring retreat.

Indeed, if an unfortunate "break" should occur, it would be no surprise if certain Democratic spokesmen around the White House and on Capitol Hill charged that "economic royalists" had entered into a conspiracy to discredit the Administration—an indictment frequently heard during the Hoover and Roosevelt regimes when things went wrong or not as planned and advertised.

SLOWING-DOWN: Current surveys do reveal a widespread slowing-down of general activity on all fronts, due largely to manufacturers' and customers' doubts as to where the economic cat will jump

Employers are not hiring new men or expanding their staffs because they do not want a highly-paid and enlarged working force on their hands if a downward movement persists.

They are cutting down their overseas establishments because almost all foreign trade is conducted by governments or allied agencies. They are reducing inventories, which means a reduction in the number of employees, working hours and take-home pay. They say they cannot afford to load their shelves at present production costs, if prices keep on falling.

UNCERTAINTY: This doubt and uncertainty, naturally, prevails among the shopping public. Some lack assurance of steady employment. Others are holding back in the belief that there will be sharper price cuts, especially in household equipment and electrical appliances.

Relaxation of restrictions on instalment buying has stepped up retail sales for the first time since January, but not to the extent expected.

Investment capital is also shy, as Wall Street quotations on key stocks show. They do not reflect the earning power of old-line issues because trading is in the hands of professionals almost exclusively. Not even the recent reduction of margins from 75 to 50 per cent caused more than a temporary flurry in the market.

Profits look good in terms of dollars, but only because of the high price level. Profits per unit in almost every line is shrinking.

In short, private industry is holding its breath. And so is Washington.

SCOFF: President Truman's politico-economists, however, scoff at suggestions that the nation can suffer from a slump within the next two or three years. They list several favorable factors which were not present during the short but sharp decline of 1921-1922 and the 1929-1933 crash, to wit:

Marshall Plan and other foreign aid programs: Counting expenditures in Germany, Japan, Greece, Turkey, etc., these will total at least ten billions within the next year, to be spent on heavy and light goods.

Rearmament: The fifteen billions for domestic defense, plus another billion or so for equipping North Atlantic Pact members, will really begin to roll within a few months, assuring activity and employment in the major industries.

SUPPORTS: The Brannan Farm Plan: According to the Secretary of Agriculture, his program of federal food subsidies will guarantee continued purchasing power to producers and also a cut in retail prices for consumers.

Social Security supports: Unemployment insurance and increasing old-age and survivors' payments are counted on to prevent the falling-off in buying and payment of bills that usually accompanies a slump.

In addition, in the fall there will be payment of several billions of accumulated national life insurance premiums to ex-G.I.'s, not to mention more widespread and increased pensions under the Rankin Bill.

DETERMINATION: Last but by no means the least important factor, there is the determination of the Administration not to permit any crackup on Truman or Democratic time, or before January 20, 1953. In view of the government's various controls over the amount and kind of billions of expenditures, this political attitude may have a greater effect on future conditions than economic developments.

"Can you prove you were born?"—From bulletin issued by the Government. Perhaps not, as we have no birth certificate. But we submit as circumstantial evidence the fact that we have been paying Federal taxes for years. We don't believe a person who hadn't been born could do this.

At Littlefield, City Secretary W. G. Street reports the following building permits: Higginbotham-Bartlett company, $25,000 warehouse; A. C. Chesher and associates, an $8,000 automobile sales room; Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Winks, a $9,000 residence. Work has started on these buildings. In addition there are smaller residences and improvements totalling $12,700, making a total building program of $54,300. In this line, Littlefield for the past few months has been ranking with the leading cities of the South Plains. Prospects for a continued increase in building permits are good.

DEFEATIST TALK ASSAILED

HST's Program Makes Progress

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Behind the smoke-screen of defeatist propaganda about the Truman legislative program which has billowed out of Washington recently, all of it grossly exaggerated and some of it silly, the program nevertheless continues to move forward, surely if slowly.

Three key measures that were issues in last year's election are all through committee and ready for action—the housing bill which the Senate is taking up this week, and bills to moderate the Taft-Hartley act and extend the wage-hour act which will be considered, in succession, by the House.

STOKES

Some Battles Seen

All will be subject of what are known in newspaper language as "battles," but when the "smoke" clears away eventually, all three will be enacted into law along with others now being prepared. While their final form will be somewhat short of what President Truman asked, which is always the case in the compromises of the legislative process, they will represent considerable achievement. Two of them, housing and wage-hour act extension, have been pending for several years. The other is to remove the abuses of a law of the Republican 80th Congress that contributed to that party's defeat last November.

This slow but steady forward movement was explained very clearly in two episodes of the past week which revealed that at least some persons in prominent places here have recognized the influences that were at work in the last election, and are still at work among the people.

One was the tart lecture delivered by Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio to his Republican brethren behind the closed doors of a party conference in which he told them bluntly, in his fashion, that if the Republican party does not meet the needs of the people in a social welfare program it will disappear from American politics. But, beyond the fate of the party, he emphasized the good of the country, arguing that if a reasonable program is blocked, then an unreasonable and dangerous program might eventually be enacted. For the people intend to be served.

Senator Taft knows whereof he speaks. His wise counsel should need no demonstration after November's election. He knows that the party's failure to put through a social welfare program in the last Congress, which President Truman dramatized so successfully, had much to do with its defeat. He, himself, sponsored three such measures affecting housing, health and education.

The second episode of the past week was when Senator Taft matched words with deeds by introducing a health bill providing grants or subsidies to the states, in which he was joined by two other Republicans, which followed another bill of similar purpose introduced recently by a Southern Democrat, Senator Hill (Ala.) and several Republicans.

Election Results Noted

These measures are designed to counter the administration's health insurance bill that will be introduced soon. While they are wholly inadequate and defective in principle, they recognize the demand for more attention to health. They embody the principle of a "pauper's oath" as a prerequisite to assistance, which is so distasteful to our citizens that many who need it refuse it on that basis, instead of the principle of contributory insurance in President Truman's program, which maintains dignity and self-respect and recognizes the right of every citizen to share in a health program on a traditional American principle.

In all this, however, we see the election finally expressing itself.

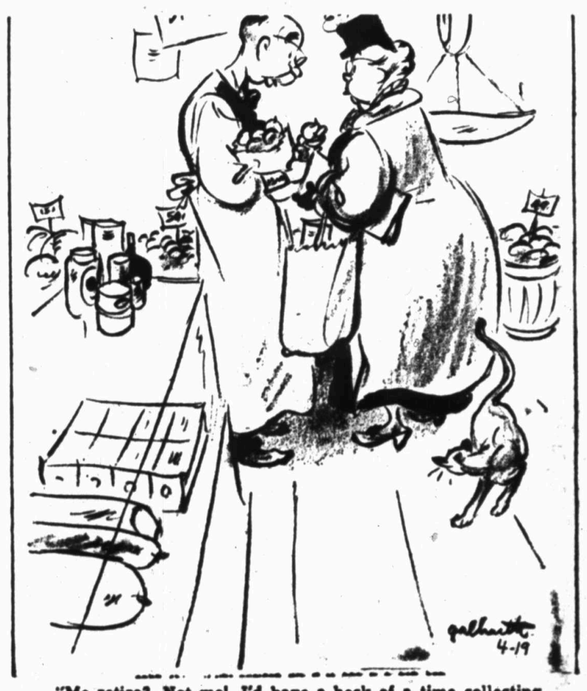

Generally, overlooked, too, is another way it already has expressed itself in Congress, which may be prefaced by recalling how, in the last campaign, President Truman made a very telling issue of the way the 80th Republican Congress impeded our public power and reclamation program through restrictions on its expansion.

This was reflected by the western states which flocked to his victory column and since has been reflected concretely in this Congress. The House responded with adequate appropriations for power and reclamation projects, which the Senate will ratify when it gets the Interior Department appropriations bill, and both House and Senate approved the steam plant needed for expansion of TVA in the South which was refused by the last Congress. All this is very much a part of the President's legislative program, and he has taken advantage of the favorable atmosphere in Congress to submit his bill for a Columbia Valley administration in the northwest to co-ordinate power and reclamation development which is proceeding so rapidly in that area.

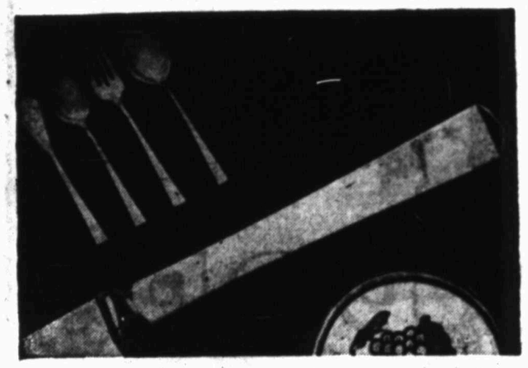

Senator Taft has given the cue. It looks as if others are beginning to take it.

Associated Press Bureau Chief To Speak At Journalism Meet

Noland Norgaard, chief of The Associated Press bureau in Oklahoma City, will discuss both press bureau journalism and the duties of a foreign correspondent in the general sessions of the Southwestern Journalism congress to be held at Texas Tech April 29-30.

The congress, which is being held at Tech for the first time in 13 years, will feature approximately 20 of the top journalists in the nation. The speakers will discuss journalism problems with student delegates from the 13 member schools of Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana during the two day meet.

Served Overseas

Norgaard is a native of Colorado. He joined The Associated Press in Denver in 1935. For the next five years he served as statehouse correspondent in Denver.

After a brief time on the AP cable desk in New York City in 1940, Norgaard was sent to London via Lisbon. From March, 1941, until October, 1942, he was stationed in London, covering various phases of the war including the blitz of the city by the German Air Force and the parachuting of Rudolph Hess in Scotland. He was still in London when the American troops arrived after Pearl Harbor.

In 1942 he joined the British and American forces comprising the Central Task Force for the invasion of North Africa. He landed with the troops at Arzew near Oran on Nov. 8 of that year. Later he flew on to Algiers and covered Gen. Eisenhower's Allied Force Headquarters until January.

Also Accompanied British

For the remainder of the African campaign, Norgaard divided his time between covering British and American troops movements. Late in 1943, he accompanied the British when they took Pantellaria island near Sicily. He was with the British Eighth Army during the Sicilian campaign.

After Sicily, he went to the American base of operations in Naples and finally finished the war in Italy. After the end of the war he was sent to Germany to cover the war crimes trials in Nurenburg. While he was there he visited several displaced person's camps.

In 1946 after five and a half years overseas, Norgaard returned home to the United States and was appointed chief of the Oklahoma City bureau.

Postmasters' Group Endorses Rate Hike

DALLAS, April 19 (AP)—Burris Jackson, Hillsboro, president of the National Association of Postmasters, today cautiously endorsed the plan to boost postal rates on second, third and fourth class mail.

The plan was outlined by Postmaster General Jesse M. Donaldson here at the convention of the Texas Postmasters association.

Jackson said, speaking for the association, "we're supporting the postmaster general's plan for increased postal revenues." He said the postmasters do not want to handicap anyone.

The Texas association elected Russell M. Chaney of Sulphur Springs as president.

Other officers included: J. R. Kilgore, Rosebud, first vice-president; L. C. Alexander, Waco, second vice-president; Judson Pryor, Texarkana, third vice-president; J. R. Pipes, Crystal City, fourth vice-president; Mrs. Pearl B. Monke, Weinert, fifth vice-president.

Chaney replaces Thomas C. Stell of Irene in Hill county. All the others moved up a step from their former posts, except Mrs. Monke who has not held office.

Alex M. Bowie of San Benito was returned as parliamentarian and J. Edwin McKee of Fort Worth was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Japs Claim They Are Western, Not Far East In 'Cold War'

By EARNEST HOBERECHT
United Press Staff Writer

TOKYO, April 19 — A lot of very Oriental-looking Japanese believe the time has come to point out once and for all that Japan is in the Far West and not the Far East.

It's all due to the East-West cold war and the shift of world power from Europe to America.

Most Japanese prefer to side with the Atlantic Pact nations and are afraid some people may misunderstand Japan's real feelings if people "incorrectly" keep considering Nippon as a Far Eastern nation.

Armed with maps and whirling globes, promoters of the "Far West" idea have figured out Japan's real position — west of the United States. Actually, they say Japan is far west of the U.S.A. and America is the backbone of the Western bloc.

How It Started

They note further that the idea of Japan being in the "Far East" dates back to the days when Europe was the "center" of the world. And any Japanese who has spent 10 minutes around a GI knows for a fact that America is the center of the world, to say the least.

The "Far West" idea is relatively new but the idea of reorienting Japan's position of the globe dates back even to before World War II. Some Japanese recall a movement in California to refer to Japan as the "Near West", on the theory that Japan is the nearest country to America on the west.

Not only are the Japanese worried about this "Far East" tag that has been hung on their part of the world, they are worried about being Orientals. This nervousness has been displayed in the local press.

Mainichi Explains

Mainichi, Japan's leading paper, pointed out in one of its editorials that participants in the Atlantic pact feel Soviet Russia is a country which cannot be trusted because of the West's inability to understand the "Oriental mentality" of the Soviet Union.

"Honestly speaking," the Mainichi hurried to explain for fear the western nations would take the same attitude toward Japan, "We ourselves cannot understand the mentality of the Soviet Union."

It may be some time before the Japanese really take to a movement to change themselves from Orientals to something else, but it isn't taking long for the "Far West" idea to catch on. Perhaps one reason is that the Japanese like western movies and mentally picture themselves some sunny day on galloping broncs amid the rice paddies of the "Far West."

Two Convicts Who Escaped Montana Prison Are Caught

TAMPA, Fla., April 19 (INS)—Two convicts who escaped from the Montana state prison at Deer Creek, Mont., last July were arrested today in Tampa, where they had been working for a drug firm.

They were identified as Elwood McPherson, 31, who was serving a life term for murder before his escape, and Robert Matthew Karelse, 28, who was under a five-year sentence for forgery.

Hillsborough county sheriff's deputies seized them on warrants issued by the FBI.

The two men had jobs delivering packages for a drug firm.

Their daily duties as delivery men took them frequently to the county jail, where they are now being held.

The FBI said Karelse was nabbed at the Tampa bus station and he then led officers to McPherson.

Hogs Tumble On Chicago Market For New Low Since October '46

CHICAGO, April 19 (AP)—Hogs tumbled 50 cents to $1.00 a hundred pounds today, dropping to another new low since Oct. 14, 1946. It was the first day since then that some hogs have not brought $19.99 or more. The top today was $18.75.

A few loads of good to choice hogs weighing 290 to 340 pounds brought $16.75. This is the average government support price for the April-September period on hogs here, although the support level in effect this week is $16.50.

Iron, Steel Scrap Exports Increased To Mexican Points

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP) — Exports of iron and steel scrap to Mexico have increased sharply with the recent easing of the scrap shortage in this country.

Commerce department officials said today that shipments in January and February this year were 6,569 and 7,782 long tons, respectively, against a monthly average of 2,681 for 1948 as a whole.

They described it as a normal commercial development, involving mostly scrap from the Southwest which no longer is in great demand by eastern U.S. mills since the latter are able to obtain scrap from less distant sources.

Demand Is Heavy

During the great scrap shortage in the U.S., the officials said, eastern mills were so eager for this raw material of steel-making that they "even paid the freight" to get scrap from the Southwest.

Now, they added, scrap inventories have risen, scrap prices have eased off, and the commerce department itself has called off a nationwide drive to get heavy scrap to the mills.

The officials said Mexico had always obtained some scrap in the U.S., and presumably will want more in future years because of industrial expansion there. In prewar 1939, U.S. scrap shipments to Mexico totaled 37,450 long tons.

All scrap shipments to Mexico must be licensed for export by the Commerce department. Officials said export applications are "scrutinized carefully," but there is no quota limit on the amount that can be exported to Mexico.

Heavy shipments have moved through customs at Eagle Pass, Tex., by rail and by truck.

It was indicated that the department is not concerned about possibility of re-shipment of scrap exports to the Soviet bloc, since it is believed here that the Soviet can obtain ample supplies of scrap in Germany and would find it both needless and costly to try getting U.S. scrap.

Body Of Slain Ex-Convict Found In Roadside Ditch Near Chicago

CHICAGO, April 19 (INS)—The garotted, bullet-pierced body of Frank D'Angelo, 30, a convicted rapist and accused robber, was found sprawled in a roadside ditch south of Chicago today. Police believe he was slain in a gang feud.

Will County Sheriff John Kirimcich said D'Angelo, who lived in East Chicago, Ind., had been shot in the forehead and in the right shoulder. Marks on the victim's throat indicated he had been strangled by a wire or a fine cord.

Sheriff's deputies reported that the absence of mud on D'Angelo's shoes indicated that he was thrown from an auto and shot on the road. The body was found shortly after dawn by a Chicago milk wagon driver.

D'Angelo was sentenced to five to 20 years for rape at Crown Point, Ind., in 1939. He was also out on bond awaiting robbery charges.

Gun-Running Ship Of Cuban Revolt To Be Restored In Florida As Friendship Move

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 19 (U.P.) — Plans are being made to recondition and preserve here as a mounment to Florida-Cuba friendship a historic old sea vessel which smuggled men and arms to Cuban insurgents before the outbreak of the Spanish-American war.

The vessel is the Three Friends, built in Jacksonville in 1895. She holds the stories of many desperate adventures within her wooden hull.

The craft ran filibusters beneath the walls of Morro Castle, so close that the fortress guns would have fired over her.

Skippered by freedom-loving N. B. Broward, who drained the Everglades, founded the University of Florida and later became governor of the state, the Three Friends outwitted both Spanish and American forces and is credited with turning the tide of war for the Cubans, who were trying to rid themselves of the Spanish yoke.

Named For Builders

Mrs. Dorcas B. Foster, Broward's granddaughter, and W. T. Coppedge, who gave her the vessel three years ago, are working to recondition the famous old ship.

The Three Friends took her name from her builders in 1895 —N. B. Broward, Montcalm Broward and George DeCottes, who brought the timber for their project from Andros Island.

The fastest thing afloat in 1895, the Three Friends made 15 trips to revolutionary Cuba. Captain Broward's widow, now 83, would walk to the back of their house as he left each time, so she would not know which way he went.

The Spanish government offered $50,000 for Skipper Broward, dead or alive.

More than once, Broward's crew turned to and during the night painted the hormally white ship a drab black with the name "Ox" on her side. In the daylight, Spanish gunboats and American cruisers ignored this strange-looking tub.

Narrow Escape

Once a Spanish craft sent a shell through the pilot house and continued in hot pursuit. The chief engineer covered the steam gauge with his cap and everything aboard that would burn went into the boilers. Pots and pans were tossed overboard to lighten the ship's load and she outdistanced the foe to her home port.

The Three Friends is said to have laid the first smoke screen by burning cooking fat in her boilers.

At least one Spanish gunboat wouldn't stand up to her in a fight and retreated when she fired a single shot from a Hotchkiss gun.

During the Spanish-American War, the Three Friends was pressed into the U. S. Navy as a dispatch vessel. She brought the news to Key West when Teddy Roosevelt stormed San Juan Hill. Such war correspondents as Richard Harding Davis, Ralph Payne, and Stephen Crane boarded her to write their stories of the conflict.

He was assistant Rabbi and then Rabbi of Madison avenue synagogue in New York. He first gained public attention as Rabbi of Portland, Ore., synagogue, where he entered into civic and charitable affairs.

He came back to New York in 1907.

Dr. Wise wanted his only son, James, to follow him in the Jewish ministry. The son felt otherwise and repudiated the formal Jewish theology.

"It was the only decent and honorable thing for him to do in view of his convictions," said the father as he went on with his own work.

ment showed a decrease of only 200, from 1,200 to 1,000 during the past month, there appeared to be no doubt that it has struck a downward trend.

In comparison with three preceding years, the current unemployment figure does not appear alarmingly high. In April, 1948, unemployment was estimated at 900; in April, 1947, at 800; and in April, 1946, at 1,500.

The unemployment figure is expected to drop to 800 within the next two months. Many of the unemployed being counted currently are transients who will move on to other localities if they do not find work readily.

San Antonio Man Wins Suit To Occupy Home In Restricted Area

SAN ANTONIO, April 19. (AP)—A San Antonio man of Mexican descent has taken up residence in a home denied to him during 16 months of litigation.

He is Abdon Salazar Puente, who bought his Mayfield park home in 1947. The Southwestern Acreage company and I. N. Clifton brought suit to enforce a deed provision banning sale of the property to persons of Mexican descent.

Before a decision was handed down by the trial court, the U.S. Supreme court held in a similar case that the restriction was illegal. Judge S. G. Tayloe followed the Supreme court ruling and decided in favor of Puente, whose attorneys had charged discrimination. The plaintiffs appealed but lost.

Yesterday Clifton and the acreage company agreed not to appeal to the U.S. Supreme court.

Change In Red Tactics Possible

By RICHARD S. WEIL
INS Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, April 19 — American and Western German spokesmen said tonight they believe Russia might lift the blockade of Berlin if she can find a way to do it without further loss of prestige.

However, there is no official comment in Berlin, Washington or London of any concrete Soviet move aimed toward lifting the year-old ground blockade.

New Tactics Possible

James W. Riddleberger, acting U.S. political adviser in Berlin, said, "It is quite likely that the Soviets realize the complete ineffectiveness of the Berlin siege and will seek a new tactic if the way is opened without sacrificing prestige.

"There is nothing definite to base this belief on, but a sudden change is definitely conceivable."

(The Paris newspaper France-Soir quoted West Berlin Mayor Ernest Reuter as saying he declined a Russian offer to exchange 100,000 tons of potatoes for steel and other products which are scarce in the Soviet zone due to the Allied counter-blockade.

Russians Make Offers

(France-Soir said this was the third Russian offer in eight days to resume trade exchanges, indicating there is "economic asphyxiation" in the Soviet occupation zone.)

Dispatches from Frankfurt, meanwhile, quoted informed American and British sources as saying Berlin may be abandoned as the functional occupation headquarters for the Western Allies—without, however, relinquishing the Western foothold maintained by the record-breaking air lift.

Such an abandonment, if it comes, would be after formation of a West German government and transfer of the duties of the military governors to civilian high commissioners.

Virginia Town Plans Gala Celebration Of 200th Anniversary

ALEXANDRIA, Va., April 19 (U.P.)—This old river town that George Washington made his second home celebrates its 200th anniversary this year, climaxed by seven nights of celebration during the week of July 13.

The town's first lot was sold at public auction on July 13, 1749, which was 51 years before the nation's capital was located on the opposite side of the Potomac River. Young Washington, then 17, came here from his home at Mt. Vernon, a few miles downriver, to work as a surveyor's assistant in laying out the new community.

For many years Alexandria was the chief seaport for the surrounding tobacco-growing region of Maryland and Virginia. Today, although overshadowed by Washington, it still serves the area as an important railroading center.

The name of the first President of the United States is closely associated with Alexandria. The City Tavern, built in 1752, served as Washingtons military headquarters in 1754 when he trained local troops to fight the French along the Ohio River. He was a member of the Masonic Lodge of Alexandria, and attended Old Christ Church, one of the town's many pre-revolutionary landmarks.

When the site of the new capital was being discussed by Congress, President Washington, to avoid any suspicion of land speculation, vetoed a proposal to locate it at Shooter's Hill in west Alexandria.

The issuance of a memorial six-cent airmail stamp on July 11 will open the bicentennial week.

Besides its association with Washington and the Revolution, Alexandria has had first-hand experience with two other wars: the War of 1812, when it was looted by the British, and the Civil War, when, as a part of Virginia and the Confederacy, it was occupied for four years by Union troops. The Alexandria Gazette, founded in 1782, is the nation's oldest daily newspaper.

Fort Worth Museum Displays Gifts Of French Gratitude Train

FORT WORTH, April 19 (INS)—A featured exhibition of "merci" gifts sent to Texas via the French Gratitude train has attracted 15 thousand persons to the Fort Worth Children's museum within two weeks.

Mrs. Anne Webb, director, said that the thousands have been matched by others who have viewed a French boxcar, which is stationed on the museum grounds. Many of those who could not get into the museum promised they would come back when the number of visitors decreased.

Fort Worth's contribution to the Friendship train were larger than any other city in the nation. A total of 19 carloads of food was sent by the Lions club of Fort Worth.

The first official exhibition of the state was taken to Fort Worth through the Fort Worth Star-Telegram and the Amon G. Carter foundation.

Lone Star Steel Leaders To Seek Added Markets

DALLAS, April 19 (AP)—E. B. Germany told stockholders today Lone Star Steel Co. is going after three markets: "local foundries in Texas and the Southwest, the national market, and the export business."

Germany is president of Lone Star. He, and other officers, were re-elected by the board of directors today.

Stockholders renamed 23 directors and elected W. O. Irvin of Daingerfield to replace R. W. Wortham of Paris, who resigned.

Stockholders approved an application for a $75,000,000 loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation to build a steel plant. Germany said it would satisfy needs of southwesterners for plate steel and oil field tubular goods.

He said that to go after the three markets Lone Star is "fighting an unequal, unjust and inequitable freight rate structure."

"I am going to fight as hard as I know how to beat unfair competition," he said.

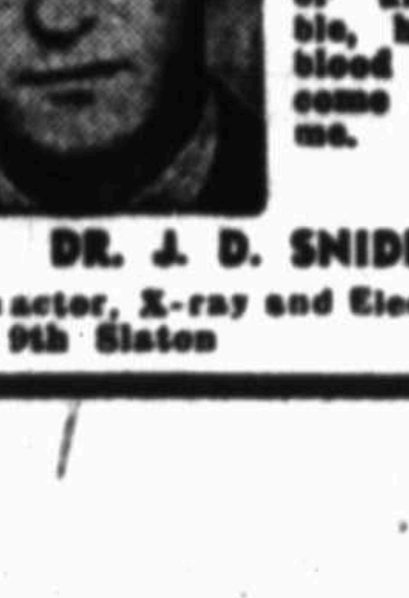

He charged that industry in the Southwest has been the stepchild of big steel, and said he would carry his fight to the Texas Railroad commission, Texas legislature, and even Congress.

Stockholders also approved an employes stock purchase plan which had been set up by directors.

Danish butter makers are expected to have to cut prices to sell in Britain.

NEW YORK, April 19. (AP)—Investors and speculators showed interest in stocks only at slight price concessions today.

Declines ranged from fractions to around a point for a majority of key issues. A fair number of stocks managed to cling to small gains.

The market was largely a trading affair, with professional operations accounting for a good part of the business.

Turnover of 830,000 shares was about even with recent sessions and compared with 890,000 yesterday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined .2 of one point to 63.7. The industrial, rail and utility groups all were affected.

Of the 967 individual issues which appeared on the tape 440 declined and 284 advanced.

Chrysler Corp. was one of the selected issues to end with a gain, closing ¼ up at 51¾.

Truman Appeals For Nationwide Support For New Bond Campaign As Aid To Peace

WASHINGTON, April 19. (INS)—President Truman tonight appealed for support of a new bond drive and said that the nation will "continue on the road to peace in the world and prosperity at home."

The President spoke before officials who will help carry out the "opportunity" bond selling drive scheduled to raise a billion dollars between May 16 and June 30.

In extemporaneous remarks following his formal address, Mr. Truman said that a U.S. bond—"the safest investment in the world"— is an "anchor to windward." He continued:

"It is necessary that we continue to instruct the citizens of this great nation that an anchor to the windward is the safest thing they can have in times that are prosperous and in times that are not so prosperous.

Workers Are Honored

"By your efforts to make this engagement (the drive) the usual success we will continue this great nation on the road to peace in the world and prosperity at home."

He declared at a dinner honoring three million volunteeers for the drive that savings bonds "signify that the owner is an active participant in the affairs of his government, as every citizen should be." He said:

"A savings bond is your certificate that you have a share in your country. And when a great many people own those certificates, it makes this nation a better country."

Others To Join Drive

Treasury Secretary Snyder, who also addressed the dinner, put new emphasis on savings bond investments as "a most satisfactory preparation" for economic slumps.

The President told volunteers for the drive that "the job ahead of you is a big one." He said:

"It will take all the effort each of you can give. I know that you will undertake this task with the enthusiasm and determination which mark your devotion to the public good."

He said the volunteer ranks will be joined in a few weeks by 250,000 newspaper carrier boys who "will ring the nation's doorbells, bringing the message of the opportunity drive to 12 million American homes." He added:

"I ask you to welcome these carrier boys to your homes and to give them the encouragement they deserve as our youngest salesmen. This campaign is an opportunity for them, just as it is an opportunity for all of us, to help ourselves and our country at the same time."

Future Buying Power

Snyder, switching somewhat from his previous position of stressing savings bonds as an inflationary deterrent, said:

"At the close of 1948, payroll savings plan participants owned approximately 12.5 billion dollars in savings bonds. We recognize this figure as representing a tremendous reserve of deferred buying power—a potential of future spending and therefore of future business, for community, state and nation.

"We recognize also that these billions of dollars constitute a most satisfactory preparation for any emergencies which may lie ahead.

"It is the responsibility of everyone, everywhere in America to comprehend the significance of the savings bond program to the development and maintenance of economic security for the individual and the nation."

The dinner meeting, attended by about 400 volunteer bond salesmen, as well as civic, government and news media representatives, sounded the "kick-off" for the drive.

Snyder has set the campaign's national goal at one billion, 40 million dollars for sales of series "E" bonds—the most popular type of government security.
