REBELLION CRUSHED CALLES SAYS

AMARILLO WITNESSES BOOST SANTA FE EXTENSION

TRADE BEING CONDUCTED IN SECTION TOLD

REPRESENTATIVES FROM VARIOUS LINES OF BUSINESS TALK

With Amarillo interests presenting testimony as intervenors for the application of the South Plains and Santa Fe railway, to construct an extension into Lea county, New Mexico, at the hearing being conducted before I. C. C. Examiner H. C. Davis, late yesterday and this morning, and Santa Fe officials taking the stand this morning, that railway's side of the battle is slowing up.

Following completion of testimony from New Mexico intervenors favoring the Texas and New Mexico railway, and of those from towns along the route of the main line of the Texas and Pacific railway, the crowd in attendance at the hearing was considerably thinned this morning. Most of the New Mexico visitors have returned, Lovington still keeping its delegation present, however.

In contrast to information divulged yesterday that present developments of natural gas pipe lines, and known deposits of potash, located in southeastern New Mexico, needing railroad facilities in order to reach development, today's session offered information that the section to be traversed normally and logically belongs to the trade centers flying on the lines of the Santa Fe system, principally Amarillo and Lubbock.

DEATH OF AGED MAID PUZZLES

WEALTHY MISTRESS IS FOUND NEARLY DEAD FROM BEATING

CHICAGO, April 4.—What at first appeared to be an attempted murder and a suicide had turned today into a mystery in which a third person may have played a part.

Two aged women—a wealthy widow and her maid—were found in the former's apartment yesterday. The maid, Mrs. Iba Peterson, was dead, a bread knife in her neck; her mistress, Mrs. Helen Kelso, 70, was near death from hammer blows.

The first theory of police was that the maid, 67, had beaten Mrs. Kelso with a hammer, and had taken her own life. Mrs. Peterson, who had been a maid for Mrs. Kelso for 27 years, at one time was an inmate of the state hospital for the insane.

Circumstances tending to contradict the theory were found by investigators. Physicians expressed doubt the maid would have had sufficient strength to have plunged the knife into her neck with such force as to break off part of the blade. They also adduced from the blood that flowed from both that Mrs. Kelso may have been attacked after the maid had been slain.

'BLANK' BULLET MAY BE FATAL

Wadding From Supposedly Harmless Gun Hits Him

AUSTIN, April 4 (AP).—Benno Neuse, 18, of New Braunfels, wounded accidentally while participating in a school play at Buda, when wadding from the blank cartridge of a shotgun, fired at close range, penetrated his abdomen, was near death in a hospital here today.

Young Neuse was a member of a school group which entered in an interscholastic league theatrical competition. He was playing the part of a northern soldier searching for a confederate in a southern home, when the woman of the house, a role taken by one of the school girls, opened fire with a shotgun.

CATTLE DRIVE TO REVIVE OLD DAYS

DALHART, Texas, April 4 (AP)—Old times in the West will be be recalled about April 20, when Bivens and Wagner, cattlemen of Amarillo, will drive 4,000 cattle from near Toyah to their ranch near Romero.

It is expected it will take about 60 days to cover the 400-mile trip.

The greater part of the distance will be through northwestern part of Texas and the southeastern part of New Mexico, entering New Mexico just east of Carlsbad, as there are practically no fences to obstruct the drive.

Drivers estimate it will take at least fifteen men to make the drive. A string of about 100 horses will be required. Old time cattle drivers say this probably will be the longest and largest drive which will ever occur.

BODY NAMED TO DRAFT NEW RELIEF BILL

CROP SURPLUS COSTS IS BIG PROBLEM OF COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, April 4.—A subcommittee of five members of the house agriculture committee composed of Chairman Haugen and Representatives Purnell of Indiana and Williams of Illinois, the ranking republican members, and Aswell of Louisiana and Kincheloe of Kentucky, the ranking minority members, was designated today to draft a farm relief bill.

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP).—The big problem now confronting the senate and house agriculture committees, as the time approaches for them to begin writing the new farm relief bill, is what policy to pursue with respect to defraying the cost of controlling crop surpluses.

In the opinion of many administration leaders, the testimony of Secretary Hyde has virtually settled other phases of the farm relief plan that will be presented to the special session of congress. It is the concensus there must be a federal farm board with broad powers, commodity advisory councils to keep a close watch over production and marketing methods of the various crops, and stabilization agencies to buy up surpluses and filter them out on markets so as to maintain a constant price level.

But there is still a major difference as to how the cost of controlling surpluses is to be met, and in this connection the debenture plan advocated for many years by the national grange appears to be arousing considerable interest in and out of the committee.

NEW YORK, April 4 (AP)—Suit for $1,450,000 was filed in the supreme court today by Maximillian Morgenthau, son of the former ambassador to Turkel, and 92 other investors in Boca Raton real estate in Florida against T. WASHINGTON ALL AGOG OVER SOCIAL RIGHTS OF MR. CURTIS

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 4—The official contingent of Washington society turned its formally polite, but determinedly questioning, eyes today upon its final arbiter, Secretary Stimson. The unofficial contingent, having nothing at stake, turned curious but possibly partisan eyes in his direction.

For the capital is in the throes of a social war such as it has not experienced in years, delicate questions of precedence and rank must be settled, and , because they have to do with international usages, the secretary of state is the official who must settle them.

Kellogg Is Storm Center

The situation centers around the ruling by Secretary Kellogg just before he turned over the office to Mr. Stimson last week that Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, sister and official hostess of Vice-President Curtis, ranked below the wives of foreign diplomats in the seating of guests at official dinners. Feeling strongly that his sister has not been given full recognition, Mr. Curtis has put the problem up to the new secretary with a vigorous protest.

The vice-president's wife died years ago. Had she lived, his elevation to the vice-presidency would have entitled her to rank above the wives of diplomats at official dinners, and he had expected his sister, with whom he has lived since the death of Mrs. Curtis, to be accorded the same privilege.

Five Farm Relief Suggestions Made

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP).—Five proposals he considered necessary to secure adequate agricultural relief were laid before the house agriculture committee today by L. J. Taber of Columbus, Ohio.

These, he said, were agricultural tariff revisions, a federal farm board, the export debenture or drawback plan to bring benefits to exportable farm produces, a sound land policy and waterway development, and organization, co-operation and efficient production.

IMPEACHMENT MILLS GRIND SLOW TODAY

CROWD OF BOOSTERS FOR GOVENOR ARE IN CAPITAL EARLY

(By Associated Press)

BATON ROUGE, Apr. 4.—While hundreds of supporters of Governor Huey P. Long milled about the capital today, the Louisiana House of Representatives pursued its inquiry into charges against the governor after getting off to a slow and halting start.

From all sections of the state, Long supporters came by automobile and special train prepared to stage a demonstration to show the governor still had friends in the state despite the 19 charges, including a plot to commit murder, against him.

Through the open windows of the house chamber, investigating members could hear an occasional cheer of the crowd, awaiting the mass meeting later in the day to hear the governor defend his record. The occasion was not in the nature of a brass band rally as had been first announced, the visitors walking about the streets in groups as on any county court day.

Inquiry Is Delayed

The impeachment inquiry was held back an hour and a half at the opening and was broken only when a charge of filibustering was made on the floor. First a statement of William A. Moon, Oklahoma representative was read to the house from a newspaper in which Moon was quoted as stating he had been requested to come to Baton Rouge to advise in the impeachment proceedings and his expenses and a fee were paid. The resolution of investigation into the Moon case was re-

New York Yacht Is Held By Pro Force

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 4 (AP)—The Schooner Yacht Nomad, flying the colors of the New York Yacht club, was seized by the coast guard and towed to the harbor at Cape May today. John B. Scoffield of Cape May, sailing master of the Yacht, and the log, were missing.

Flying Bull Tries To Regain Land Leg

SCHULENBURG, Tex., April 4 (AP) "Carnation Badger Aero Lone Star," the Carnation Milk company flying bull, was trying to regain his "land legs" today.

The bull arrived here yesterday after completing a 1200 mile air trip from Oconomowoc, Wis.

Governor Dan Moody took part in the presentation of the animal to the dairy industry of Texas and the Fayette county agricultural committee.

The flying bull arrived while the observance of Carnation day was at its height. Governor Moody turned the first spade of dirt for the new $300,000 milk condensing plant.

HANDSHAKING IS HARD ON HOOVER

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP).—Word went out from the White House today to members of the house and senate that they must be more considerate in sending their constituents to the executive mansion to march in the semi-weekly presidential handshaking line.

Yesterday 1,775 people filed through the executive office and grasped President Hoover's hand. The muscles of the hand became so sore he was able to write only with great difficulty for some time afterward, and he felt also the handshaking had been a considerable strain upon him.

The legislators on Capitol Hill have been asked to limit themselves to ten constituents at each reception. Yesterday one member of the senate, Copeland of New York, sent 188 people to the White House with, the necessary credentials, a letter of introduction to the president's secretary.

REBELS BRING DOWN BLAZING FEDERAL SHIP

SHELLS HIT BOMBER ON CRUISE OVER NACO SONORA, TODAY

(By Associated Press)

NACO, Sonora, April 4.—Two Mexican federal aviators, were shot down by rebel gun fire this morning while engaged in a raid on General Topete's troop train.

The aviators who crashed to death were Capt. Juan Guiterrez, who came to Naco from Mexico City and Lieut. Jesus Gaona, believed to be from Mexicali.

The plane was on its fifth trip over the rebel camp and was flying at an altitude of between 3,000 or 4,000 feet. It was seen to break into pieces and explode as rebel shells hit the gasoline tank and the two bombs it was carrying were exploded. The crash occurred one mile south of the federal trenches.

Bombing and counter bombing had started, the day's hostilities when the federal plane, on its first two trips flew over the troop train and dropped four 50-pound bombs while two rebel ships hurled eight bombs on government positions.

DECISIVE WIN FOR FEDERALS NOW CLAIMED

'EXTERMINATION' OF A FEW REBELS LEFT IS PLEDGED SOON

(By Associated Press)

LA REFORMA, Chihuahua, Mexico, Apr. 3. (Night) (Delayed)—The back of the Mexican revolution in the north was borken today when 2100 rebels failed by a hairsbreadth to escape from federal cavalry. As a result 800 rebel dead lay piled in three stacks beside the railroad tracks tonight. One thousand revolutionists were wounded. Forty-two Federals were killed. The rebel force was the last to leave Jimenez about six o'clock yesterday.

The federal had bombed bridges and torn up the track near Le Reforma and the rebels stopped to repair the damage. The work had been completed, and their train was but a quarter of a mile short of the last replaced bridge ready to start towards Chihauhua City when federal cavalry under General Anacleto Lopez charged after a long chase.

Deserted by their leaders, Generals Urbalejo and J. G. Escobar, who fled yesterday in automobiles, the revolutionists made a desperate stand by forming a line at right angles from the railroad tracks. Others fired from the train.

The cavalry charged straight in and to the very windows of the cars, some of the federal dead were found later beside the train. Equipped with light machine guns, rifles and automatics, the cavalry mowed the

LABORATORY TO OPEN SOON

$1500 IN EQUIPMENT TO BE FOUND IN CITY PLANT HERE

The newly equipped city laboratory at the city hall will be officially opened within the next few days, Dr. Y. J. Aiken, director of laboratory and food inspection work for the city, announced this morning.

When opened work will be done exclusively for the city. Testing and analysis will be made of water milk, meat and sewerage.

"The primary purpose of the laboratory," Dr. Aiken said, "is to see that Lubbock's food supply is sanitary and is handled in a sanitary manner. We will test the water to see that it is free from disease germs, and the sewerage to see that it is disposed of santarily."

The laboratory when completed will contain approximately $1,500 in equipment. Establishment of the laboratory is the greatest forward step to be taken by the city in this way, in Dr. Aiken's opinion.

CLOTHES MAKE A DIFFERENCE

Art Student, Gazing On A La Nude, Is Taken In

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—It's one thing to admire a statue of John Paul Jones, but it's something entirely different to do so with benefit of raiment.

As a result of this distinction, a man giving his name as R. F. Larkin, 32, of Bloomingdale, Ill., is held by Washington police.

When police investigated a disturbance amid the Cherry blossoms of Potomac Park they found Larkin in the nude gazing steadfastly at the statue while a growing growd gazed at him. The officers wrapped him in a blanket and took him to the station.

HANKOW, China, April 4 (AP).—The Wuhan armies, which have been opposing the advance of the national government troops on Hankow, collapsed today and were retreating on all fronts.

FREIGHTS SMASH AND WRECKED CAR IS OVERTURNED ON AUTO; TWO KILLED

(By Associated Press)

DENTON, Tex., April 4—A Denton family of six sat in their automobile at a railroad crossing here last night, waiting for a long string of freight cars that blocked their path to allow them to pass.

There was a deafening crash and the freight cars writhed and buckled. Six of the heavy carriers plunged from the track, and the wreckage of one fell upon the car.

Mary Lynn Church, 3, sitting on the front seat with her parents, was killed instantly when caught beneath the overturned freight car. Her father, Herbert Church, was crushed so badly he probably will die.

Mrs. Church and three other children miraculously escaped serious injury. They were taken from beneath the mass of heavy timber. Their automobile was almost flattened and was surrounded by wreckage of the six box cars.

MONTH AS PRESIDENT SHOWS HOOVER BELIEVES IN WORK AND PLENTY OF IT

By RICHARD L. TURNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Attaches at the White House have come to the conclusion that ahrd work is to be an outstanding characteristic of the Hoover administration.

It was just a month ago today Mr. Hoover took the oath of office. Almost immediately he embarked upon a strenuous and exacting program. Social invitations customarily accepted by his predecessors were declined so that his evenings might be free.

From the president's desk have come in rapid succession announcements of significant new public policies and appointments to offices of high responsibility. The president has written the message to be sent to congress which he summoned by proclamation, and in addition he has attacked many other problems of state.

Customarily, Mr. Hoover arises at 7 o'clock and, mindful of the idict of his personal physician., Lieutenant Commander Joel T. Boone, that he must

GOOD WILL JOURNEY TO OKLAHOMA CITY PLANNED BY LOCAL BUSINESS MEN

For the purpose of linking closer relations between the towns of the South Plains and Oklahoma City, to encourage the proposed extension of the Q. A. and P., a subsidiary of the Frisco system, from Floydada to Lubbock, and to aid in the further development of the Carlsbad Caverns Highway, twenty-five representatives of this city will join delegations from the other cities along the Q. A. and P. in making a rail excursion to Oklahoma City on April 17.

This decision was made at a meeting of the directors of the Lubbock Board of City Development last night. The Lubbock pullman will be made up at Floydada, present terminus of the rail line, and it will be joined by a Floydada pullman, another from Paducah, two from Quanah, and one at Altus and Lawton.

Oklahoma Plans Excursion

The excursion was planned by representatives of the Oklahoma City Chamber of Commerce, Stanley C. Draper, manager, J. R. Singletary, manager of the highway department of the chamber, and J. J. Kirkpatrick, vice-president of the Fidelity National Bank of that city, who were in Lubock last night.

The Plains visitors will be guests of the Oklahoma City Chamber of Commerce while in the city. The following day, representatives of that city will reciprocate with a visit to the cities of the South Plains.

At last night's meeting of the B. C. D., Mr. Singletary stated that a leg of the Carlsbad Cavern Highway had recently been completed. The distance from Oklahoma City here on this route is 396 miles and from here to El Paso, 370 miles, as compared to the present distance of 464 miles. He said that the highway would be adequately marked in the near future.

LONG'S GROUP TO GIVE SHOW

FRIENDS OF GOVERNOR ARE GATHERING AT BATON ROUGE

(By Associated Press)

BATON ROUGE, La., April 4.—This old Southern capital was set today for a political circus when friends of Governor Huey P. Long descended upon the town for an all-day demonstration to show the legislators, he has the support of back countrymen.

Unperturbed by elaborate arrangements made by the governor's supporters for the all-day rally the house of representatives faced a grind on testimony bearing upon impeachment charges against the governor.

Testimony until today dealt with only two of the nineteen impeachment charges, bribery of legislators and intimidation of the press. Near the close of the first day's testimony, Charles P. Manship, Baton Rouge publisher, quietly told the committee the governor had attempted to humble him into withdrawing from the fight against the governor's proposed tax on oil by threatening to expose the fact that his brother was in a state insane asylum. The publisher explained his brother was a casualty of the World War and was being treated at the asylum. Looking solemnly over the house the publisher said "The governor cannot humilate or embarrass me."

Nearly the whole of the day was spent in evidence bearing on the charge of bribery of state legislators, several representatives, state office holders and one senator testifying jobs had been offered in an effort to give support for the governor's taxation program which brought down upon him the avalanche of impeachment proceedings.

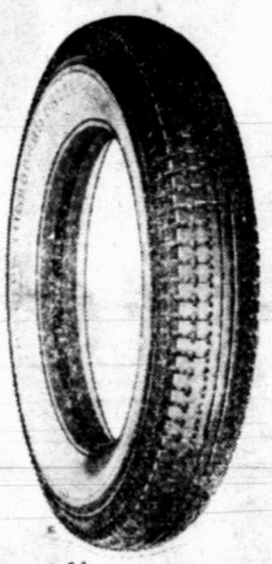
Dayton De Luxe



Bigger, Wider,

Heavier, Sturdier!

The Greatest Thorobred of Them All

AND that means something to the hundreds of thousands of Southwest motorists who have bought DAYTONS from Hicks stores and associated stores in the past.

But if you are not yet acquainted with the tire that has no equal in strength, beauty and color, permit us to tell you a few things about the KING of DE LUXE Tires, the new DAYTON product.

(Unless you want the greatest tire ever built, these tire FACTS will not interest you).

Deeper Non-Skid

Now, in the first place, and in the face of the contention of countless present DAYTON Stabilized users that there just couldn't be any improvement in such a tire, we want you to know that the new DAYTON Thorobred De Luxe represents an outstanding and noteworthy advancement over the DAYTON Stabilized Balloon. The non-skid of the Dayton De Luxe is deeper—much deeper—and the entire tread has been improved in numerous ways. It is a far thicker tread. There is a great deal more of it. The non-skid buttons have been tremendously reinforced—they pyramid and increase in breadth as they approach the carcass, which results in marvelously increased rigidity. The tread of the new Dayton De Luxe is made by a special Dayton process which makes the tread non-blooming.

New Dispersion Process

The special Dayton dispersion process is not just a word but a definite and very important new process. It assures perfect distribution of all ingredients, which means greater toughness, greater wearing ability, greater resistance to abrasion, and greater resilience without weakness.

The amount of rubber underneath the non-skid in the new Dayton De Luxe is sufficient to protect the carcass and give the greatest possible wear. Yet the tire is not over-balanced at this point. If it were over-balanced the tread would grind off and tear away from the carcass. The new tread also extends farther down around the sidewalks.

The tread of the new Dayton De Luxe, besides having superb non-skid and tractive qualities, positively will not sing and is the most silent running tread on the market today.

Greatest Tread Known

The amazing tread of the new Dayton De Luxe was developed after countless experiments by the engineering and chemical experts of Dayton Rubber. After developing this tread, Dayton had its findings substantiated by several outside agencies, laboratories and engineers specializing in such work. The concensus of opinion was that Dayton had developed what is by far the greatest advancement yet known in a tire tread. Exhaustive road tests, and every other kind of test conceivable, have proved beyond a shadow of doubt that this is true.

In developing the new Dayton De Luxe, Dayton has also perfected a tremendously improved method for tying the tread to the carcass, a method so efficient that tread separation should not be known. The bead has also been reinforced, thus producing an unusual factor of safety.

Unbroken-Section Cushion

The cushion of the new Dayton De Luxe runs in a single unbroken section from one side of the tire to the other. The old methd of making up the cushion of shorter lengths joined together has been discarded. The new method greatly strengthens and reinforces the breaker, which, in the new Dayton De Luxe is more evenly and firmly imbedded than ever.

Carcass Is Unchanged

The carcass of the new Dayton De Luxe remains absolutely the same as in the original Stabilized Balloon. Every Dayton user knows that it is impossible to improve upon this carcass.

The new Dayton De Luxe Thorobred Balloon is bigger—wider—heavier—sturdier. It is a real Thorobred. It is built as a master watch or the finest motor car is built—with materials that meet the most rigid chemical and physical tests, and with an unhurried attention to detail such as has never before entered into the construction of a tire.

have exercise, he turns first of all to that. Several times a week he proceeds with a group of friends to a secluded spot on the White House lawn and they toss a medicine ball for a half hour. At 8 o'clock he is at breakfast, and at 9 he at his desk.

For an hour he devotes himself to his mail. Then unless it happens to be a "cabinet day," begins the long succession of official callers—members of congress anxious to discuss a hundred topics, private citizens eager to talk of the same subjects, or perhaps, merely to pay their respects.

Usually Works Late

It is usually after 1 o'clock before the chief executive finds himself free to return to the White House proper for lunch. Hardly an hour later he is back again at his desk, ready for consultations with members of his cabinet, or working alone, to dig into problems that confront him. Only infrequently does he leave before 6 o'clock. More often it is 6:30 or 7.

The interim before dinner Mr. Hoover likes to spend in relaxation. His favorite way is to lounge in a comfortable, big chair and listen to the radio, usually music, but sometimes a speech. Dinner is at 7:30, and afterward, unless there are guests, the president frequently works in the library until about 10:30, when he ordinarily retires to his room and reads until he is drowsy.

Werline's long freight, containing 86 cars, was drawn on a siding in the railroad yards to allow a fast freight to Fort Worth to pass. The locomotive was not clear of the main line however, and the fast train struck the cab squarely where Werline sat.

Both engines were overturned and damaged badly. The engineer and fireman on the fast freight were not seriously hurt.

The track on which Werline's train stood was torn up for several hundred yards.

Moody Goes On Fishing Trip; Business Over

AUSTIN, April 4 (AP).—Governor Moody prepared to go fishing today, having finished disposition of bills passed by the legislature.

Returning from Schulerberg, he worked in his office until midnight, not reaching a final decision on the last three measures until just before the time limit was up at 12 o'clock.

He vetoed the bill requiring sanction of the county commissioners court before the highway department could change the route of a state highway in a town of not less than 200 population. He filed without his signature the measure placing motor trucks under supervision of the railroad commission and the bill permitting free use of a non-commercial sand and gravel for grade-raising purposes at Corpus Christi.

Some members of the house told members of the senate that if they did not pass the rerouting bill they would not vote for the bond issue amendment resolution. The highway department was opposed to the bill. The bill was inspired by action of the highway commission in changing routes of highways from small towns where they were not on the staright lines.

AMERICAN WOMAN IN ROMANTIC QUEST IN FRANCE

By JULIA BLANSHARD
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, April 4.—For sheer, sustained thrill, modern woman might do well to try digging into the earth instead of flying away from it, judging from Dr. Ida Treat, paleontologist.

Dr. Treat digs in the painted cave section of the Pyrannees, France, for traces of prehistoric man and is fascinated. She has had the joy of uncovering one valuable burial that contained a prehistoric skeleton that was the very first of its kind to be found. She has unearthed some curious animal frescoes that show the oldest art known. She has found many engraved pebbles, carved spear heads and many other implements and bones scattered around buried hearths of men who lived 30,000 years ago.

"There is adventure, change and chance all bound up together in my work," Dr. Treat explained her enthusiasm and satisfaction in it. "I think paleontology the complete profession. First, there is something fundamentally satisfying in digging. Scientific digging makes one use both head and her hands. Lastly, I work half in the field and half in the French Museum of Natural History, in the laboratory of paleontology.

An Old World in the New

"In addition, it is twice fascinating to explore an unknown, ancient world right in France, a country where so many know every stone so well."

Of course there is a great deal of technique to be learned before anyone can start right out hunting prehistoric man. Dr. Treat studied biology and geology in Paris, and worked under Prof. Marcellin Boule in the French Museum of Natural History and is to receive her doctor of science degree this spring. When she took her Ph.D. in Romanche Languages in Paris, before teaching here in America during the war, she was the youngest woman ever to get such a degree there.

She is visiting in her home country now for the first time since 1919.

When one is fully equipped to know what to look for and how, finding a cave to dig in sounds a little like modern house hunting.

"First, you pick a cave with a good south exposure," Dr. Treat advised, "because of course these were dwellings and even prehistoric man appreciated the sun. If you find one with much undergrowth across the entrance it is much better for it means you are the first one there and you are much more likely to uncover ancient treasures.

"Since prehistoric man lived about the fireside, chipped his bones, carved his tools and engraved weapons around the fire, the first thing to look for is a hearth. Traces of charcoal, flint and bone mean a hearth, usually. You will not find traces of art near the entrance of these caves. For paintings were always in the interior back where the rituals took place."

Paleontology? Here's How!

The technique of a paleontologist's digging is something like this. After the cave has been decided upon, one trench is dug, and the various layers of earth, studied from its wall. Sometimes one cave has several layers of civilization. The periods are identified by the archeological layers of animal bones, flint tools and so on. You uncover layer after layer with a poker, carefully, examining everything because a queer shaped stone may turn out to be a chisel 20,000 years old. One works alone, or with perhaps a single ditch digger for heavy work. If anything delicate is found, plaster is poured over it and the whole mass removed to the laboratory, where the plaster is chipped off carefully with a needle.

Aside from skill needed in this prehistoric man hunting, it seems no profession for an old lady or an old gentleman.

Those Nimble Ancients

One must be positively acrobatic, for prehistoric man was so agile he could leap easily upon balconies that must be scaled perilously now with ropes. Sometimes one crawls for days through low, dank caves or descends into gaseous carrion wells where prehistoric dead animals were thrown. There is an occasional icy underground torrrent to be swum, clothes and all, and armies of bats to encounter whose wings sound like rushing water, so many of them beating together. There are even snakes in entrances. last, but not least, there is the chance of cave panic, an unreasoning thing, hard to combat, the fear the best mountain climbers have.

"Everyone has cave panic at least once," Dr. Treat smiled. "But it is the least of one's worries. The things that impress you are the great silences, the peace, the perspective one gets. For, after all, when you realize that civilization after civilization has disappeared into the earth to make way for another layer, it is impossible to get greatly worried over the present generation."

Living and Loving

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"Human nature frequently bungles in love making. A cold wife is only another way of saying a disillusioned, disappointed wife. The husbands of cold wives have only themselves to blame; they have never taken the trouble to master the art of making love.

"The authentic article (love) has but one vital desire—and that is the happiness of the beloved. It is utterly selfless. It is equally prepared to go to the uttermost ends of the earth with the beloved—or to stay out of that person's life forever."

This is what a famous beauty, who had scores of lovers said of that most talked of passion—love. Not many of us can measure up to her standards, can we? We demand possession of the loved one.

LONESOME LARRY loves a girl. He is 22, she 17. At first her folks objected to the courtship, then the girl attended a party at his house and drank beer and smoked and Larry's mother was not favorably impressed. Then the girl grew cold and Larry decided "all was over between them." But they meet occasionally at dances and she smiles at him and dances with him, and he's plain puzzled what to think. She's planning to go to college and later to teach, and he's afraid he has lost her, but what had he better do?

I think she is still interested in you, Larry and that you may safely ask her for dates if you want to. She is young and likes to have fun, that is all. Maybe thinks it is a lark to try to make you jealous. You can at least have an occasional good time with her until she goes to college, and maybe keep in touch with her then if you care to.

"MY DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: Will you please tell me what to do? I have a very dear little friends that I feel I must help. She is only 16 and is in love with a 23 year old married man. She is spoiled and cannot see the harm that might come if it were known. I am the only one she has confided in and I have talked and pleaded, but she says she just cannot quit seeing him. I'm sure she does nothing wrong, but you can't expect people on the outside to believe that. So please suggest some way I can make her realize the sorrow it might cause both of them. VIRGIN ANNA."

Maybe if she could meet the young man's wife she would feel differently about him, and might be prevailed upon to "sacrifice" herself. He is more to blame if he encourages her in her infatuation. Usually the more opposition young people get to their affairs the more they persist. It makes them seem more important. I take it. And at 16 such affairs are soon over. If your friend goes too far, you can threaten to have nothing more to do with her. That might make her think.

RAMONA L.: I think I would stop worrying about the boy dear, as you are both so young. Be friendly to him, as he says he will be to you, but that is all. I think you will feel better so.

YOUR IRISH PAL: Just let the boy friend have plenty of rope, dear. Why not accept dates with other boys. Practice your dancing so that you feel sure of yourself, and have as good a time as you can, and maybe he will get tired of his "freedom" and come back.

TRIBUTE FOR AMBASSADOR

UNBOUNDED HONOR IS HEAPED ON HERRICK IN FRENCH RITES

(By Associated Press)

PARIS, April 4—The people of France today poured out unbounded tribute to the memory of Myron T. Herrick, beloved American ambassador who so greatly endeared himself to the hearts of all Frenchmen in the World War.

Gathered around his bier, draped with the Stars and Stripes in the American embassy, the French cabinet, the army, the diplomatic corps and many Americans now in Paris paid their last farewell to the late American ambassador.

No more notable gathering ever paid respects to the memory of a foreigner in the French capital. With the exceptions of Marshal Joffre and Lyautey, too aged to expose themselves to fatigue, all the leaders of the French army were present, including such noted figures as Petain, Franchet D' Esperey, Gouraud, DuBail and Lasson. Members of the government were there in full, headed by Premier Poincare and Foreign Minister Briand.

Embassy Ceremony Simple

The ceremony at the embassy was one of simplicity.

General John J. Pershing was the first to say goodbye to the ambassador in a touching manner. The general painted Ambassador Herrick so faithfully, that many eyes were wet as his voice vibrated with unmistakeable signs of his own emotion.

Count Quinones De Leon, the Spanish ambassador, who represented the diplomatic corps as its dean, next spoke, and told of the qualities of loyalty and patriotism which had made Ambassador Herrick's work so fruitful.

Premier Poincare, who spoke last, surpassed himself. In the presence of the body of the American ambassador who had had conversations of the greatest consequences with him in 1914 and whom he had always recognized as one of the best friends of France, the Premier's voice lost the sharp and sometimes rasping acents usual to him in political speeches.

Ceremony Parallels Program

The cortege to the American pro-Cathederal and the religious ceremony there were in keeping with the program at the embassy. All was of utmost simplicity with an impression of grandeur and heartfelt sincerity. Among those at the church was Elihu Root who joined the pallbearers there.

J. P. Morgan, unable to attend ceremonies at the embassy, was present at the church service. He entered alone and took the place reserved for him, but left with the other pallbearers.

Dean Beekman read the usual Episcopal service for the dead in the presence of as many people as could crowd into the church. Then all was over but the honors still to be paid to the ambassador's body at Brest, where the swift cruiser Tourville waited to carry it across the waters to the United States.

The thousands who lined the street in front of the embassy overflowing into the Trocader: Gardens alongside, remained motionless and speechless, heads bared, as the ambassador's body left the embassy for the last time.

Black Horses Draw Hearse

The hearse was drawn by six black horses covered with black crepe on which were gilt stars. It was followed immediately by an Usher of Chancery of the Legion of Honor bearing the ambassador's Grand Cross of the Legion on a cushion.

A detachment of the republican guards, its band and infantry marched ahead. General William Harts, American military attache and Norman Armour, counselor at the embassy, led the mourners with Mrs. Parmely Herrick and Madame Salembier following them.

As the cortege passed up the Avenue D'Iena, along the Avenue Pierre Premier De Serdie and down the Avenue George to the Catheoral long lines of French infantry presented arms.

SARGON BROUGHT HEALTH; GAINS 14 POUNDS, HE SAYS

"I gained fourteen pounds on three bottles of Sargon. It mastered every one of my ailments and kept me on the job. I never felt better in my life than I do now," said

S. U. BLAKELY

S. U. Blakely, well known resident of 1123 Laurel St., Beaumont, recently.

"Before I started on Sargon I was so weak and rundown that many days I had to stay at home and let my work go. I had a bad case of chronic indigestion and after eating I suffered so much from gas pains, dizziness, heart palpitation and smothering spells that I dreaded to see mealtime come. I lost weight rapidly and felt exhausted from under-nourishment.

"Billiousness and constipation added to my suffering and my kidneys were so badly disordered that there was a hard pain across the small of my back and I had to get up several times every night. This broke into my sleep and brought on extreme nervousness.

"The medicine I took didn't help me, and I heard so many of my neighbors praising Sargon I decided to try it. Now, I too, want to help spread the good news to other sufferers. Sargon helped me from the first. I began to eat big, wholesome meals without a bit of trouble afterward. The pain in my back disappeared and I never have to get up at night now. Sargon Soft Mass Pills ended every trace of constipation and billiousness. My nerves are steady, I have gained weight, and I feel so well it is hard to realize I was ever in the bad shape I was. Sargon deserves all the praise I can give it."

Sargon may be obtained in Lubbock from City Drug Stores; and in Slaton from the City Drug Store.

REVOLUTION

rebels down in short order. Every window in the pullman car in which the Escobar staff rode was crashed by federal guns.

The rebel dead was chiefly infantry, the cavalry having left the vicinity on horses.

It is estimated here the rebels have 3,000 men between La Performa and Chihuahua City.

An American is held by federals here for investigation. He is accused of having been a rebel aviator.

QUICK FOLLOW-UP IS CALLES PLEDGE

MEXICO CITY, Apr. 4.—The Mexican rebellion emerfed today from a four-day encounter in Southern Chihuahua a shadow of the movement which on March 3 threatened the government.

Penned like rats in a cage by the fire of coordinating units of federal cavalry, infantry, artillery and airplanes, the army of the North yesterday at La Reforma Chihuahua was almost annihilated in what was described in government dispatches as a "horrible slaughter."

Believing his work in the North well done, General Plutarco Elias Calles, federal commander-in-chief, announced diversion of 5,000 of his troops to the state of Guanajuato and Jalisco, to wage a similar war of "extermination" against the so-called religious insurgents of those states.

Slaughter Stupendous'

"Rebel infantry not killed are our prisoners," General Andreu Almazan, federal field commander, wired President Emilio Portes Gil, "but the veritable butchery among them was stupendous."

General Calles wired the president the encounter at La Reforma was "the greatest battle in Mexico's revolutionary history. It was definitely decisive; in it the rebels paid dearly for this infamous revolution."

After the rebels retreated from Jimenez, which they held under fire for two days, General Almazan's forces entered the town Tuesday night and were allowed to sleep.

Detachments of federal cavalry were sent northward at some distance from and paralleling the railroad on each side. Seven burned bridges between Jimenez and Santa Rosalia prevented the rebels escaping by train.

While the rebels were trying to repair bridges the federal cavalry closed in. General Almazan brought the presidential guards regiment, containing infantry and artillery, along the railroad track, and attacked as the cavalry charged. Federal airplanes dropped 75-pound demolition bombs on the rebel trains The rebels abandoned their trains, but flight was impossible. Machine gun and rifle fire mowed them down like weeds while shrapnel leveled whole squads.

Little Mercy Shown

Little mercy was shown. Some surrenders were accepted and the trains, bereft of their able-bodied, yielded 500 wounded who had been forced to remain in their frail shelter as the federal fire pierced and shattered the coaches and box cars.

No estimates of the dead were available here other than the remark that the toll was 'stupendous.' At Chapultepec Castle it was said five hundred of the enemy were wounded and the number killed was "much greater."

A Chapultepec announcement said the rebel leaders escaped. This was taken to mean General Jose Gonzalo Escobar, Marrcello Caraveo, Francisco Urbalejo, and others. General Calles said the rebels fought with great bravery but were abandoned "by their cowardly leaders."

Dispatches from Juarez giving reports of rebel officials at Chihuahua City and others that the troops of General Escobar had made a counter-attack at Jimenez and were fighting in that city were believed to refer to the rebel counter-attack of Tuesday morning.

At that time the insurgent cavalry made a desperate effort to break through the federal lines, but failed. General Almazan's troops, according to apparently well-founded information reaching Mexico City, not only held Jimenez today but had advanced to a point beyond La Reforma, 11 miles north.

This young French aviator came to call—and had a close call from death. Pilot Andre Laboree wasn't hurt when, flying low over a Paris suburb, his plane crashed into a roof-top. Are you giving your child the right chance?

S.S.S. builds sturdy health

DO you not marvel when thinking of the inward physical workings of your child—bone, flesh, muscle and brain growing each day—building onward toward manhood or womanhood?

Of course it is the blood stream which carries the millions of tiny red-cells to all parts of the body. And it is the healthy, rich, red-blood-cells that does this building, warding off disease and making for strong and healthy bodies.

When a child's appetite wanes or he loses weight, the complexion becomes sallow or pimples and boils appear—then you instantly know that the inward mechanism is not working properly — that a good blood tonic is required.

In such cases S.S.S. is the proper tonic. It is made from fresh vegetable drugs—therefore will not harm the most delicate system. It improves the appetite and restores the red-blood-cells to normal; lost weight is regained; skin eruptions clear up and color returns to the cheeks.

Give your child the right chance to develop. You will not regret it in later years.

For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been helping children and their elders regain strength and vitality.

The seasoning and aging process, used in the manufacture of S.S.S., makes it pleasant to the taste.

All good drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

TECH-BIG SPRING SERIES DELAYED UNTIL NEXT WEEK

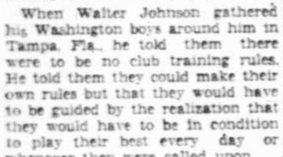
Random Scraps Of News Pertaining To Sports World

Art Shires, White Sox first baseman, is the dude of the American league.... But he wads a half sack of eating tobacco in his face before he goes on the field.... Bill Aaronson, the demon baseball photographer, would drop his camera if he was shooting a king.... If someone said—"Shoot two bits".... Bill was taking shots at third base in the Giant training camp.. Fitsimmons, the big Giant pitcher, was coming into the bag.... He couldn't stop and he hit Bill and knocked him cold.... Jack Kearns put up the dough to guarantee the purse for the Walker-Loughran fight.... The Brooklyns ordered a ten-piece band to play for an exhibition game down south.... And the pieces were counted by the club secretary before they started punishing the customers.



WELL, OF ALL THINGS:

When Walter Johnson gathered his Washington boys around him in Tampa, Fla., he told them there were to be no club training rules. He told them they could make their own rules but that they would have to be guided by the realization that they would have to be in condition to play their best every day or whenever they were called upon.

But the club had been in camp only a few days when Johnson was forced to assume the role of a disciplinarian. And guess who was the first man on the club who had to listen to one of Walter's mild sermons?

No one but Mr. Al Schacht, the distinguished coach of the club and one of the celebrated clowns of the league.

SARCASTIC, THOSE SCRIBES

Some newspaper men, friends of Al's, made Tampa on their tour of the southern training camps and they invited Al to dinner with them. Along with them was Jim Downing, the popular Tampa boxing promoter.

It was after 9 o'clock when the newspaper men finished their stories and it was later when they arrived at a famous eating place in the Latin quarter. Downing, a great Tampa booster, insisted upon showing the party the sights and they finally wound up in a night club. Schacht was recognized and he was forced to do some entertaining.

Time slipped by and it was too early in the morning to mention when Schacht was dropped at the hotel where the ball club stopped. He mounted the steps bravely with pep in his step and a whistle on his lips. He strutted over to the desk, got his key, greeted the sleepy night staff and went to bed.

And in the morning he was told that Mr. Johnson would have a few words with him.

JUST A FEW WORDS FROM WALT

"Al, I am surprised at you," Mr. Johnson said in his nice mild way. "You are the first one to break the training rules."

"But there ain't any rules, are ther, Walt?" Al asked.

"You broke your own rules, Al," Johnson said.

"I just came in a little late, that's all, Walt," Schacht said.

"It was a little too late for this early time of the season," Johnson said. "Supposing some of those young fellows had seen you come in. They were all asleep, I suppose. You're more than a player on this club. You're a coach and one of my assistants and the fellows look up to you. And I am depending on you. Until we get away from the training camp at least I wish you would come in at a respectable hour. You will won't you, Al?"

Al said that he would and in telling about it later he said:

"I never felt so cheap in my life. Gosh, that fellow can get under your hide with his nice easy words. I wish he had smacked a fine of fifty bucks on me and saved me from that lecture."

COMPETITION HOT IN WOMEN'S PLAY

PINEHURST, N. C., April 4 (AP)—For the first time since they have been playing the historic North and South women's tournament, a southern woman is within striking distance of the championship.

The hopes of the south today rested upon the shoulders of Miss Marion Turpie from New Orleans.

Miss Turpie's task in the semi-finals was to give the dope bucket a sufficiently powerful kick to bowl over the mighty Glenna Collett.

By beating Miss Helen Hicks, sensation of the Florida tournaments, 3 and 2, in the quarter finals yesterday, the New Orleans girl won her way into the title's ante-room to find her path blocked by the national champion. Miss Collett moved up by triumphing over Miss Maureen Orcutt, the New Jersey star, 3 and 2.

A dispatch from Cannes says Countess Alexandre Festetics has been seen often this Riviera season smoking a pipe while taking a stroll. (Not an advertisement.)

PREPARE FOR CANYON MEET ON SATURDAY

MATADORS WILL MAKE STRONG ENTRIES IN ALL EVENTS

Tech thinly-clads took advantage of the warm sunshine Wednesday afternoon to get in one of their most profitable practice sessions of the season. Coach Payne sent his entire squad through their respective events with the result that the outlook for a victory over the Canyon Buffaloes Saturday in the first dual meet of the season looms decidedly brighter than at this time last week.

Present indications point to strong entries for the locals in the hurdles, long distance races and field events. The Teachers are ceded the edge in the majority of the dashes.

The meet Saturday will furnish the first test of the 1929 team. Reports from Canyon indicate the Buffs have one of the strongest track aggregations in history. The T. I. A. A. team has yet to meet strong competition this year but a host of veteran tracksters are expected to carry their colors far in the conference race.

Coach Payne was uncertain last night as to Tech's entries for the Canyon fracas. New members of the squad have yet to demonstrate their prowess on the cinder path while the veterans are as yet undecided.

SPUDDERS TO BATTLE HOSE

WICHITA FALLS PLANS 3-GAME SERIES WITH SOX

(By Associated Press)

DALLAS, April 4—The Wichita Falls Spudders today continued routine drilling in preparation for a three game series with the Chicago White Sox starting tomorrow. Benefitted by mid summer weather for the past few days, the Spudders were announced in the best condition by Manager Jim Galloway since they started their training season on March 1.

Manager Atz put the Fort Worth Panthers through routine training this morning and will do the same Friday. In the afternoon the Cats will sit in the stands and see baseball as it is played by the major leaguers. Detroit and Pittsburgh play both days.

Manager Milton Stock today put the Dallas Steers through a light workout and then called it a day. They were topping off in preparation for a game tomorrow with the New York Yankees. Steer officials have announced that Phil Hensick, star hurler in the Cotton States league last year and looked to as a great help for the Dallas club this year, would be released. A late illness has handicapped him.

The Shreveport Sports today retrenched and worked over their defense and attack as the result of their loss of a two-game series to the Kansas City Blues. Tomorrow they were to start a three-game series with the New Orleans Pelicans and their workout today pointed to the series. The Blues won yesterday 6 to 3.

The San Antonio Indians were to take on a picked team from the Kelly Field squadron baseball league at their park this afternoon under the game-a-day training system inaugurated by Manager Alexander. Unable to find opposition yesterday, they "chose up" and the Comanches played the Arapahoes a seven-inning session, won by the former, or regular line-up, 4 to 3.

The Buffs will not need so much mound help from their godfather, Branch Rickey, as was originally believed, if the young hurlers continue to come through as they did in the Pirate series. Hook Myers and Ralph Rose, two new Blues, almost won a decision yesterday from Jess Petty, one of the best southpaws in the National League. Grantham's homer in the seventh gave the Pirates a 5 to 4 victory. It supplied the only run the Pittsburghers made off Rose. Buff fans are anxious to get a look at Clough, southpaw from Rochester, and Foreman, newest addition to the hurling corps. Clough already is here and the righthander is on his way from the Card training camp.

ROOKIE CRASHES THROUGH

SUGGESTION OF SCOUT SAVES CAREER OF CARD RECRUIT

BY NORMAN E. BROWN
Sports Writer for Central Press and The Journal

AVON PARK, Fla., April 4—The baseball career of Carey Selph, the young man who has been cavorting around second base for the St. Louis Cardinals this spring, might have been ruined early but for the suggestion of a wise old scout.

The rookie infielder now has a good chance to win a regular berth in the St. Louis machine—in the near future—and win some measure of fame, at least, as a major league ball player.

Selph started his baseball activities while a student at Ouachita college, in Arkansas. You pronounce it as though it were "Wash-ee-taw." It's an Indian name meaning base hits, or something like that.

Selph was playing shortstop, and under the guidance of Morley Jennings, then Coach at Ouachita, and now occupying a similar position at Baylor university, had made a name for himself when Jack Ryan, St. Louis Cardinal ivory hunter, looked him over.

Ryan liked the youngster's work around short. The lad was covering a lot of ground, fielding neatly, and conducting himself well in general. But Ryan noticed that he favored his arm in throwing.

Questioning Selph, Ryan found out the youngster had been having trouble with his throwing arm. Playing at reasonable intervals, Selph could whip the ball about without trouble. But two or three contests over a week's time would leave him with a sore arm.

Ryan said nothing to Selph, but when the former recommended the college boy to the St. Louis Cardinals it was with the suggestion that he be played at second.

Selph was graduated in the spring of 1926, and reported immediately to the Cardinals at San Antonio, where they worked out spring. His work impressed the club bosses to the extent that they kept a string on him, and farmed him out to Fort Smith. He played through the season there at second base. Relieved of the task of whipping the long throws from deep short to first, his arm grew stronger. The last month of the season he was sent up to the Syracuse farm for another once over, and then in 1927 to the Houston club.

Selph celebrated his arrival in the Texas League by hitting safely the first seven times at bat—the streak stretching over the first two games. That this debut wasn't a flash in the pan is indicated by the fact that in his last month of play with Houston last fall he hit at a .356 clip.

Travis Jackson, Giant infielder, was a schoolmate of Selph's at the Arkansas college, but did not play on the team as he had played professional ball.

RUTH-GEHRIG COMBINATION IS BROKEN UP

PARTING IS ONLY FOR A DAY HOWEVER; MAJOR NOTES

(By Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, April 4 (AP).—The famous Ruth-Gehrig home run combination has been broken up, but only for a day. The Babe came here with the Yankees regulars yesterday and celebrated by missing his first homer of the year by a few inches while Lou led the Yanks' second team against the University of Texas at Austin. They are together again today to repel the threat of Arndt Jorgens, the young catcher who stole their thunder by clouting the ball over the fence. Ruth tried to do the same trick but his drive fell into the right fielder's hands just short of the bleachers.

Cullop Leads Robins

Nick Cullop, whose absence from the flock has led to rumors that he would prefer Atlanta to Brooklyn as the scene of his baseball activities this year, has gone a long way toward disproving the reports in one game. He repoined the Robins at Jacksonville yesterday, after being away for some time due to illness of his wife, and promptly led them to their first victory in many days. Nick's triple with the bases loaded started the Robins on a batting spree that beat out the Jacksonville Tars.

Although he has the habit of hitting a tall times, Mel Ott, young Giant outfielder, finds the climate of his home state of Louisiana conducive to a good batting average. In three exhibition games the Giants have played in the state, Mel has gone to bat twelve times and hit safely five of them. His average dropped to a mere .417 yesterday when he got only one hit in four attempts against the Cleveland pitchers at New Orleans.

The Philadelphia Athletics appear to be gathering strength on their homeward trek from their Florida training camp. A steady improvement has been noted in the team since it left Fort Myers. Nearly every man is hitting and several of the pitchers have gone the full game route.

Manager Shotton and his Philadelphia Nationals were nearing home today from the southern training base at Winter Haven, Fla. They are due tonight and preparations have been made for workouts tomorrow on the home grounds. They meet the Athletics in the first game of the city series on Saturday. Loss of Tommy Thevenow, badly injured in an automobile accident at Lakeland, Fla., was a hard blow at Manager Shetton.

HILL IS BACK IN ROSTER OF MATADOR NINE

FAVORABLE WEATHER GIVES TEAM GOOD PRACTICE GO

Coach Grady Higginbotham announced yesterday that the baseball series with Big Spring of the West Texas League has been postponed until next week. Failure to get in touch with officials of the club resulted in the latter's arranging a series with another team this week.

Old Sol beamed down upon Tech field in mid-summer fashion Wednesday afternoon, giving the Matadors an opportunity to cut loose in all departments. The Tech hopefuls snapped into one of their most impressive workouts of the season with a lengthy batting drill and the usual infield workout.

Volney Hill Back

The return of Volney Hill, ace of the Matador hurling staff, brightened the outlook of the locals considerably Wednesday as the veteran spit-ball artist demonstrated his old-time prowess. "Satch" had his hooks breaking nicely and seems to be headed for another great season.

McCrary, a southpaw, and Hobson, righthander, were the other slabmen performing yesterday. The former had some difficulty in locating the plate, but nevertheless continues to look good. Hobson appears to have progressed further than any member of the pitching staff, showing almost mid-season form in his slab work.

Coach Higginbotham is considerably encouraged over the showing of his shortstop candidates. Both Waller and Rainwater have come through in an impressive manner. Little Red appears to have the edge in stick work.

BASEBALL'S IVORY HUNTERS PREPARE FOR ANNUAL JAUNT IN BUSH LEAGUES

By BRIAN BELL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, April 4 (AP)—Fans at college baseball games soon may see several men of middle age watching the young athletes perform. They are scouts.

Every major league baseball club has from one to half a dozen scouts who ride the "rattlers" all summer long, looking at baseball players on semi-pro teams and in the minor leagues. Before the summer baseball starts, the scouts attend college games.

"Not that we expect to get any big round-up of players from the colleges," said one of the old scouts, "but looking at the collegians will get us in shape for the long grind when the weather gets hot."

"You hear people talk about college ball players in the major leagues and they name a long list, 40 or 50 or more. They are not college players. Rather they were minor league players. They went to college but after a trial by the majors they were sent out, or maybe they went first to a minor league club and then came up.

"I haven't counted 'em, but I'll bet there are not more than a dozen players in the two big leagues who went to major clubs from colleges and have been in the majors ever since."

College to Majors

The old scout was not far wrong. Cy Williams of the Phillies joined the Chicago Cubs in 1912, fresh from Notre Dame, and has been around ever since. George Sisler went to the St. Louis Browns from Michigan in 1915, and two years later Joe Dugan left Holy Cross for the Athletics. Frankie Frisch left off at Fordham and tok up with the New York Giants in 1919 and Bib Falk joined the Chicago White Sox from the University of Texas in 1921. Tom Zachary went to the Athletics from Guilford College in 1918, pitching only two games, however. He bobbed up with the Washington Senators the next year. Eppa Rixey was graduated from the University of Virginia to the Phillies in 1912. Bob Reeves went from Georgia Tech to Washington in 1926.

Three players have been with only one major league outfit after leaving college, Pete Donahue, Texas Christian University and Cincinnati; Luke Sewell, University of Alabama and Cleveland; and Ted Lyons, Baylor University and the Chicago White Sox.

OIL NEWS NOTES

DALLAS, April 4 (AP).—A 6,400 foot west extension of Moore's field in Fort Bend county has resulted in the completion of the Gulf Production Company's No. 18 Moore, which came in for 700 barrels of oil daily from a depth of 3,900 feet.

Two new producers, the Grisham-Hunter Corporation's No. 1 G. R. Davis and the Midland Oil Company-Grisham-Hunter Corporation's No. 1 W. Y. & R. A. Davis, have been completed in the Davis pool in western Shackelford county. The first well gave the area a half mile northeast xtnsion.

The Snebold and White company have brought in their J. E. Smith No. 2 well in the Gordon gas field from a depth of 3,297 feet. The well was making 24,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily.

"Hey, Bill!

I don't know which cigarette this is, but it sure wins my vote!"

W. H. (Bill) McCord, of Post & McCord, steel contractors for New York's tallest skyscrapers, holds cigarette test with 94 workers.

Friend, you're smoking a certain cigarette today because you feel it's the best brand for you. And maybe you're right. But have you ever really checked up? Ever said to Old Man Habit, "Now you step out of the room. I'm going to smoke the four leading brands with brand names forgotten and just let my taste say which one is best."

The other day one of these tests was made among the huskiest fellows in New York . . . those two-fisted chaps who work with steel girders, sky-high above the city streets.

Their own boss, Mr. W. H. McCord, was referee and score keeper. Each cigarette was "masked" and numbered. All Mr. McCord said was, "Tell me which one you like the best."

The result speaks for itself! 69 out of 94 men voted for OLD GOLD!

OLD GOLDS win time after time in these public tests, because smokers find them smoother and better . . . with not a cough in a carload.

The four leading brands of cigarettes . . . "masked" with numbered paper sleeves to conceal their brand names.

IMPEACHMENT

ferred to a committee and administration leaders began an argument over procedure.

Tell of Borrowing

Finally state officials were called to the stand to testify in the borrowing of $6,000 by the governor to entertain visiting governors to the National Governors' Conference in New Orleans last winter. Questions were shot at the witnesses in an effort to show the governor had not made a proper accountiug of the $6,000.

H. B. Conner, state treasurer, identified a check drawn by the state treasurer for $6,000 to the credit of Governor Long and testified this returned check showed it was endorsed by the governor and his secretary and cashed by a Baton Rouge bank.

The treasurer said he was informed by L. B. Baynard, jr., state treasurer, that a portion of the $6,000 was used for entertaining the National Association of State Auditors and Treasurers which met in New Orleans about a week before the governors' organization convened.

HEARING

senting the International Harvester company, explained that his firm has served southeastern New Mexico for the past 10 years in a wholesale way, with an investment at Amarillo of between $600,000 and $700,000, employing 100 people. It's territory includes all of the Panhandle, north of the T. P main line, and a considerable portion of the state of New Mexico, frequent shipments being made to Lovington and a salesman continually travelling that area.

With wholesaling all kinds of agricultural impiements and machinery, the I. H. C. Amarillo branch last year did an annual volume of $5,500,000 in sales, and has in four different years exceeded in sales volume that of any other branch of the company in the United States.

The Santa Fe's proposed extension would better serve this concern as well as the people of Lea county, Mr. Womble stated, in offering more direct service from logical markets. He stated large stocks of I. H. C. goods were kept in Lubbock.

Traffic Experts Talk

Amarillo's second witness this morning was S. J. Cole, traffic manager of the chamber of commerce. With voluminous figures offered in evidence, he showed that his city does a general jobbing and wholesaling business into much of New Mexico, particularly the southeastern portion. He contended Amarillo offered the nearest center of this character, of its size, or larger, to the area, naming specifically wholesale hardware, farming implements, drugs, creamery, milling and other concerns that offer source of supply and market for things produced.

The estimated value of Lea county's dairy products last year, Cole said, was about $100,000. He went quite extensively into exhibiting comparison of freight rates from Amarillo and other jobbing centers, both by the proposed Santa Fe extension and that of the T. and N. M., these showing favorable to the Santa Fe.

R. L. Thompson, wholesale druggist, told of his firm doing extensive trade with the Lovington area over a period of several years, also serving a large portion of the entire state of New Mexico. As in the case of other Amarillo wholesalers and jobbers, he said the bulk of his supplies originate in the north and east.

The first Santa Fe official to take the stand was J. R. Hitchcock, general manager of the Western Lines of the A. T. and S. F., and vice-president and general manager of the Panhandle and Santa Fe. He testified that the South Plains and Santa Fe railway, as well as the P. and S. F., and that of the extension, are being operated and will be operated under the same management at the A. T. and S. F. system. He offered a statement, which he read, telling of his long service with the Santa Fe, and of various developments along branch lines of the Santa Fe in the Panhandle-Plains section, following the construction of these lines.

"We have kept a close watch of the oil development in the Lea county area," he said, "and filed our first application, which was the first of any railroad, to build an extension into that county, when it became apparent that there would be a field." He said the Santa Fe had always watched all of West Texas and New Mexico development in oil and in agriculture, "and we expect to project lines to give service, even though the area to be traversed will not offer sufficient tonnage to pay for some years to come."

Maps Introduced

A number of maps were offered by Mr. Hitchcock, some of them rather large, showing the proposed Santa Fe transcontinental route to be reached at Lubbock by the extension, and also a map showing in more detail the area immediately around both the Santa Fe and T. and N. M. proposed extensions. Another map showed the entire Santa Fe system in the United States.

Attorney Gresham, for the opposition, sought to learn the total mileage of all Santa Fe lines in New Mexico, to which objection was made by H. C. Pipkin, of Santa Fe counsel. Gresham declared that he understood the Santa Fe owned more than 50 per cent of all railway mileage in New Mexico and contended it was illegal for one system to own more than certain percentages of total trackage in any one state.

Chief Engineer of the Western lines of the P. and S. F. lines, for the Santa Fe, M. C. Blanchard, detailed the facts that his company planned to lay 90 pound steel rails, on cresoted ties, with frame station buildings, section houses, stockyards and steel water tanks, the general construction to be the same as standard on all Santa Fe branch lines, on the extension from Seagraves. The approximate cost per mile of this extension is to be $30,459, as compared with only $26,071 per mile estimated expenditure of the Texas and New Mexico plan on its extension. He said the Santa Fe could build the same character of road as the other, but its standard was higher than that character, and a heavier weight rail would be used. This is of great advantage in the economical and rapid service on oil field tonnage, he said.

Blanchard explained that, if emergency warranted, the extension could be completed within six months time, and that the procedure ordinarily would be to build first the line from Seagraves to Lovington. He testified also that heavier construction would be necessary on the route south of Hobbs, where the T. and N. M. proposes to build, than north of that place.

Wonder how many lanterns he could clean, trim and fill in an hour. That's an old-fashioned pastime, too. I'm willing to bet him one thing, anyhow. Thought For Today

Cause from anger and forsake wrath; fret not thyself in any wise to do evil.—Psalms 37:8.

Bad temper is its own scourge. —Charles Buxton.

A Message

When Stonewall Jackson's body lay in state in the capitol at Richmond, Va., in the spring of 1863, a haggard Confederate officer fresh from the bitter struggle of Chancellorsville, paused before the casket and remarked:

"If today you meet with Caesar tell him we still make war."

That old quotation comes to mind once more as the French republic gives final honors to the body of Ferdinand Foch—Foch who commanded more soldiers than any man who ever lived, and who brought a victorious close to the most terrible war the earth ever witnessed.

The warrior has always had the headlined position on the page of history. From the time of Alexander down to the present, the list of men who have won honor and fame has contained a constant percentage of fighters. Methods of combat and schools of strategy have changed. The Macedonian phalanx has evolved, in long centuries of warfare, into the infantry platoon with bayonets and hand grenades. But the old principle remained unchanged. Men have always been willing to be killed or mangled at the order of their leader.

Never yet has the program been interrupted. Men have devised elaborate new ways of killing one another. Hannibal, for instance, with his war elephants, would have appreciated the modern tank, which serves much the same purpose. But they have not yet even come close to finding a new way of settling their differences. War is still the accepted method, and the soldier still has plenty of employment.

The passing of Foch brings this fact home somehow. When he was hurling his masses of French, British and American soldiers at the German lines in that last great offensive, and men were dying by the scores of thousands to bring the war to an end, there was a great hope in the world, a hope that this frightful struggle might, in some way, bring about a better day, in which the necessity for war and destruction could be avoided. Out of this war, it was felt, could be made to grow a new order that would be wiser and less bloody.

That hope is not so strong now. It is not Foch's fault. He was given the job of bringing the old war to an end, so that victory could be made the foundation for a new era. He did his part magnificently. His fame will always be secure in that select circle of strategists that includes such soldiers as Napoeon and Lee.

But after his job was finished the rest of us slipped up. We let the idealism and high resolves of wartime ooze out of us and dropped back into acceptance of the old ways. So now, 10 years after the war, we find ourselves little nearer an enduring peace than we were before.

It would be pleasant to be able to say that Foch will prove to have been the last of the great generals. But we can't be that optimistic. As Foch goes to his grave, we can do little but quote the Confederate officer:

"If today you meet with Caesar, tell him we still make war."

THE PLAINSMAN Says

That Girl on Broadway says "displeasing is the face that wears a frown."

What's the matter with Cowtown? She's all WRONG!—at least as far as her attitude on the rail hearing, which has been raging here all this week.

The Plainsman has pulled a bust. This is a correction. A couple of days ago he commented upon the fact that a couple of Fort Worthians were here testifying for the Texas and New Mexico lines against the Panhandle and Santa Fe, for whom Lubbock is intervening and whose application the entire Plains region is supporting. In the article The Plainsman, to quote the original, said:

"The Fort Worth Association of Commerce hasn't taken any stand in the dispute as far as The Plainsman has seen or heard, and judgingitg from past actions the Panther City, generally, should be on the side of the Panhandle-Plains area. This section and Fort Worth have always been close friends and pleasant business acquaintances and it is to the advantage of both of us that we remain the same. For these reasons, despite the fact that citizens of that place are found in the rival camp, it is improbable that the Panther City, in any appreciable sense, is backing the application of the Texas and New Mexico lines."

Now here's where the correction comes in. Below are reproduced two telegrams. The first one was sent to the Fort Worth Association of Commerce, and the second was the answer received. Read 'em over—but first call for an ice-pack or some smelling salts.

THE QUESTION

"Fort Worth Association of Commere.
"Fort Worth, Texas.
"Please wire us straight telegram collect immediately if Jules Smith authorized to speak for and represent you in I C C hearing here and if you have formally taken action suporting application of T. & P. to build into New Mexico which is against the interests of Lubbock and the South Plains."

Lubbock Chamber of Commerce.

THE ANSWER

"Lubbock Chamber of Commerce
"Lubbock, Texas.
"The Fort Worth Association of Commerce is on record as supporting application of T. & P to build into New Mexico believing that such extension would increase trade radius of Fort Worth and secure and hold for Fort Worth and Texas a tremendous tonnage which would otherwise go to other markets outside the state (stop) We could possibly have no reason for any position contrary to best interests of Lubbock and the South Plains which fact we believe is well known to you (stop) Jules G. Smith is authorized representative of both Fort Worth freight bureau and Fort Worth Association of Commerce in this matter.

Jack H. Holt, Manager,
Fort Worth Ass'n. of Commerce

So our old friend, it appears, has deserted us. Fort Worth, after years and years of insistence that it is a great friend of Lubbock and the South Plains has forgotten all these protestations of friendship and has "thrown in" with the enemy in an effort to divert natural Lubbock and South Plains trade into its own channels. What a shame, what a shame!

Of course, there's no telling what the ICC will do with these two applications but whatever it does Lubbock and the Plains generally have found out that Fort Worth's future words must be taken more lightly than those of the past.

In this connection The Plainsman hardly thinks Dallas' position can be overlooked. Dallas may be for the Texas and New Mexico. Dallas may be for the Panhandle and Santa Fe. But the Dallas Chamber of Commerce has not, thus far at least found it necessary to take official action in the matter. It might be well for the folks up this way to remember Dallas' stand in the matter—Dallas, the city which Fort Worth has always painted for us as "that East Texas town" and an enemy of this area.

Fort Worth's decision to force an addition to its trade territory at the expense of Lubbock and the Plains has come at a poor time. With rail connections between the South Plains and Oklahoma City so improved and with a booster trip planned for the near future, Fort Worth had better look after her knitting if she wants to continue her friendly—and profitable—relations with this part of the state.

It's not the fact that Fort Worth is against us that hurts so much. We can fight Fort Worth just as well as any other town because they don't grow 'em smarter down there than they do here. What hurts is the fact that an old friend has "run out on us" in the thick of the fight, has given us "the run around", as it were. But Fort Worth can well remember this much: She can give us "the run around" but she darn sure can't make us like it!

The Old Guard, Says Senator J. Boomboom McWhorter Has Been Taken For A Ride—And By A Thought Friend

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Emotions of grace disquiet, serious doubts whether all's well with the world or all's wet, and certain other sickening sensations, have afflicted members of the Old Guard.

Senator J. Boomboom McWhorter's famous features have taken on a greenish aspect. Violent wretchings of his imagination have him pretty near all to pieces. Awake and asleep, he holds long conversations with himself.

The other evening, as he and your correspondent sat on a twig in Rock Creek park, the senator finally blurted out his grief and explained why the Old Guard was on the verge of catfits.

"It may be," said he, "that we have been taken in. I refuse to believe it, but if we were, we have been victims of the most hideous taking in the history of this great republic.

"We are asking ourselves today just what the Republicans elected last November. Look at him! He certainly ain't no Republican, acting the way he is. And they say he was once a Democrat.

They Minded the Senate

"You know what Republican presidents are like—take Taft, Harding and Coolidge. Did they ever act like this fellow? Huh! They stuck to our principles and I mean the kind that were maintained by the nation's best minds in the Senate. If the right bird wanted government oil or higher tariff duties he got it and if he got income tax refunds, too, it wasn't anybody's business.

"Now, Handsome, I won't say we elected no Democrat. You could tear out my tongue before I'd admit that. But if there's no more gravy in being Republican than this guy is providing, all of us might as well be Democrats and go hungry. Where does he think the money is coming from in 1932?

"After he got elected it was his duty to see important Republicans. But he'd rather go see Latin-Americans. And did!

"He must have resisted temptation by not putting more Democrats in his cabinet, but look at what he picked. Can I go to one of them birds and say I want something done and done snappy? Do I know 'em so they get what I mean? Try and get it! Only one who has a drag with them birds is Hoover himself. Just think of the downright treachery of that postmaster general of his who says the postoffice service is not a political institution and who has gone and told all the postal workers about it. Why, that was the way Wilson felt!

"Who was it squawked about selling postoffices and oil and tariff corruption? Democrats mostly, expect progressives, which is worse. Did you ever hear us real Republicans mentioning such things? And do you remember how we have fought all these years against publicity on the tax refunds. We bled and died against the Democrats on that and now this guy says they were right!

They Miss the Yacht

"Did he think presidents were the only ones that wanted free rides on the Mayflower? That yacht made more friends for the Republican administration than Heinz made pickles. And senators, maybe they don't need outings, too.

"Does he suppose enforcing prohibition is going to do him any good with the city bosses and the ward bosses? They gotta live too, and no bootlegger can pay honorariums when he's pinched.

"I don't suppose the Democrats really sneaked him over on us and wanted him to win all the time, but what's biting us old-timers is why we spent so much of our own time and other trusting people's money trying to beat Al Smith.

"The worst of it is probably most who voted for him think he's fine. But maybe they think we're here for our health!"

With Our Contemporaries

LEGISLATIVE POWER OF THE STATE

A committee of 15 were created by the Fortieth legislature to be known as the tax survey commission. Three members of the senate were appointed by the president of that body; four members of the house were appointed by the speaker, and eight "public spirited and capable persons who are private citizens" were appointed by the governor.

According to the act creating the committee the members were to receive as compensation the sum of $10 per day for each day they actually served, together with railroad fare, hotel, telegraph, telephone, postage and express expenses incurred in the discharge of their duty. A sum of $25,000 was appropriated to defray the compensation and expenses of the committee.

Representatives A. H. King of Throckmorton declared the act was in violation of the constitution of the state. He invaded the court. Finally certified questions from the court of civil appeals were passed on to the supreme court of Texas. It was a knockout for the lawmaker members of the committee, when this tribunal answered. It was declared that they could not take down $10 per day for their services as the constitution decreed that $5 was the pay of a legislator. As for the private citizen members of the committee they were all to the good. Each member received $10 per day and all expenses incurred while in actual service of the state. As to the constitutional provision the high court decision reads: "The legislature is forbidden to provide any greater compensation for the services of the members of the legislature than the stated per diem and mileage." Dillon on municipal corporations was quoted by the learned members of the supreme court as follows:

"It is a well settled rule that a person accepting a public office with a fixed salary is bound to perform the duties of the office for the salary. He can not legally claim additional compensation for the discharge of these duties, even though the salary may be a very inadequate remuneration for the services. Neither can he recover extra compensation for incidental or collateral services which properly belong to, or form a part of the main office. An express contract to pay such extra compensation or an express allowance of it is void."

This is the law of the commonwealth according to the high court decree: "the trial court erred in its holding to the effect that the resolution was unconstitutional and void insofar as it directed the payment of money out of the legislature contingent expense fund for the expenses of the legislative members of the committee; but the trial court did not err in the judgment to the effect that the resolution was unconstitutional and void insofar as it directed the payment of money out of said fund for compensation to the legislative members of the committee. The trial court did not err in the holding to the effect that the resolution was valid insofar as it directed the payment of money out of the legislature's continued expense fund for compensation and expenses of the members of the committee who were not members of the legislature."

Former Gov. Oscar B. Colquitt is chairman of the tax survey commission. He is a lawyer. Senator A. E. Woods and A. J. Wirtz and Edgar E. Witt are members o fthe commission. These gentleman are lawyers. There is a former senator (prominent lawyer) "a private citizen appointed by the governor." Judges of the court of last resort interpreted the constitution for the lawyers and the lay members of the tax survey bureau or commission. A report port will be submitted to the special session of the legislature of the activities of the tax survey. It will be thrashed out by lawyers who are lawmakers and lawmakers who are laymen at the coming special session in the month of April.—Brownsville Herald.

War Time Blasts Laid To Germans

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP).—New evidence intended to fix on the German government responsibility for the war time munitions explosions and fires at the Black Tom terminal and at Kingsland, N. American agent, Robert W. Bonynge, representing the United States, dealt with an alleged sabotage program planned by German agents in the United States before war existed between th etwo countries.

Gilbert Swan

In New York

By Swan

NEW YORK, April 4.—Something like the last word in fantastic originality must surely be achieved by Sam's "snipe shop."

If, among all the myriad business enterprises of the world, there is one half so incredible, I should like to hear about it.

Until the discovery of Sam's snipe shop" was made recently, it seemed to me that Manhattan's strangest place of barter was that which furnishes beggars with such supplies as pencils, tin cups and cards relating how a leg was lost in a mine disaster.

Now a "snipe," in case the world has forgotten, is that portion of a cigar which has been discarded upon the sidewalk or in the street by a smoker who has grown tired of it.

A "snipe shooter," hence, is one who goes about picking up discarded cigar buts and, by smoking them, teaches the world a lesson in thrift. That the smoker of the cigar is quite unknown to the "butt shooter" is of no consequence. The custom is an old one among bums.... an old and honorable one, I might add. No bum worthy of his steal was ever known to have the price of a panatella.

They tell me that this grand old art has fallen into disrepute in most places. In New York it may be studied at first hand on almost any side street.

Which brings us to Sam's "snipe shop." This is nothing more nor less than a few boards stretched across a couple of boxes. Its location, as one might suspect, is the lower Bowery. It operates in the open street. Its stock in trade is an extraordinary assortment of carefully chosen butts.

And since Sam has no overhead, he can sell his snipes for little or nothing. His outlay involves only a little energy and cunning. To be sure, he sometimes does enlist the services of a few small boys. For a few pennies he can secure whole boxes of slightly used stogies. Then, with the aid of a pair of scissors, he carefully trims the two ends. If the "snipe" already has an attractive band, so much the better. If it hasn't—well, I would not put it above the dealer to practice such slight deception as supplying a band.

Then, too, the length of the "butt" must be given consideration. No "snipe" finds its way to his stand unless a few honest puffs can be assured.

Thus, when business is finally started for the day, a Corona-Corona butt of very fair size can be obtained for a few pennies. Shorter and less important butts may be purchased at two or three for a penny or more. Those elegant butts, rescued in the vicinity of subway stations where they have been cast aside by men rushing for their trains, often bring as high as four cents.

And, as you can see, it's all velvet. No goods need be bought and there is no rent to pay. And since the proprieter has the appearance of one of the gang, he has the complete confidence of the Bowery bums.

Motor busses operating out of Manhattan now have "sleeping cars." There are wash rooms and other accommodations of a Pullman and, so I am told, the berths are considerably larger.

And they're telling a tale around town of a retort made by Wilton Lackaye, who is noted for his sharp "come backs." A movie actor from Hollywood had approached him with congratulations and wound up with the question: "Really now, how does it feel to be a great actor?"

"My dear fellow," came back Lackaye, "that's one thing you'll never know." GILBERT SWAN.

ESTIMATED CALORIES FOR SPANISH TAMALE ARE APPROXIMATELY 400

Spanish Tamales

Here's a letter that I know, without looking at the address, comes from California. The writer wants to know the caloric contents of Spanish tamales.

The last time I wrote on tamales, I said the next time I was in California, I would get one and weigh the contents and estimate the value as accurately as possible without a laboratory. I took a trip to California during the holidays and did that little thing for you.

The tamale I examined weighed eight ounces with the husks, or seven ounces without. There were two and one-half ounces of a cornmeal paste, which I estimated about 150 calories. The filling consisted of two and one-half ounces of mixture of thickened gravy, three or four olives, a few raisins, beans and small amount of meat. All of this I estimated to be about 250 calories. So that would average about 400 calories for the average sized Spanish tamale.

None of the food lists gotten out by nutrition laboratories give tamales, so apparently they haven't yet been tested, so I cannot give you a more accurate figure than this, but if you count approximately 400 calories, you won't be far wrong.

G.—Ordinary cereal bran is 100 calories to two-thirds of a cup (11 level tablespoonfuls.) The fine feed bran packs down much tighter and so would be 100 calories to about one-third cup.

The caloric value of a bran muffin depends upon the recipe used and the size of course. An average sized muffin is approximately 125 to 150 C.

Most books on dietetics give lists of 100 caloric portions of foods. We have a list of good books on dietetics we can recommend to you, in the article on balanced diet.

V.—There is no more danger of reducing in the winter than there is during the summer, if you do it scientifically. The correct reducing regime, instead of lowering your resistance, builds it up.

If you are in need of instructions on how to reduce, you may have our pamphlet on the subject by following the column directions.

Marriage of Cousins

"I am keeping company with a girl whose father was my mother's father's brother. Is that relationship too close to consider marriage?

"WONDERING."

Puzzling out this relationship puzzle, W., I reason that your mother's father is your grandfather. Your girl's father being a brother of your grandfather, is your brother of your grabdfather, if your grand or greatuncle. So she is a first cousin to your mother and a second cousin to you. I guess this is right.

The marriage of first cousins can be sanctioned if there are no hereditary weaknesses or mental disorder in the families, for it seems that these traits are more apt to appear in the offspring. The marriage of second cousins, of course, makes this possibility more remote.

A. P.—You must see your physician. If your milk leg is getting worse, it is probable that you should keep off your feet for some period of time. You are considerably overweight and a reduction of your weight will improve your general condition, which, in turn may help your leg.

Editor's Note: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose, nor give personal advice. Your questions, if of general interest, will be answered in the column in turn. Requests for articles must be accompanied by a fuly self-addressed, stamped envelope and 2 cents in coin for each article, to cover cost of printing and handling. For the pamphlet on reducing and gaining, 10 cents in coin, with fully self-addressed, stamped envelope must be enclosed. Address Dr Peters, in care of this paper.

FLOOD CONDITIONS ON MISSISSIPPI CLOSELY WATCHED

BY MAJ. GEN. EDGAR JADWIN
Chief of Army Engineers

(Edgar Jadwin was born at Honesdale, Pa., Aug. 7, 1865. He studied at Lafayette college and was later graduated from the United States Military Academy and the School of Application, in engineering. He was promoted through the ranks to the college of chief engineers, with the title of major general, in 1926. He was stationed at the Panama canal during four years of its construction and served in France during the World war where he supervised engineering work over 160,000 men. He has been awarded the Distinguished Service Medal.)

Present conditions on the Mississippi and its tributaries are not considered serious and the danger of a flood comparable to that of 1927 has passed unless unforeseen heavy rains occur.

Army engineers, however, are watching the Mississippi proper very closely, particularly at the lower end of the river as the crest of the flood approaches the Arkansas river. Thus far no damage has been suffered by the levees under construction by the government at points along the Mississippi, the building of which were made necessary after the 1927 flood.

As to the Mississippi flood protection plans the Cairo floodway project is one of the most necessary of the entire program. By the construction of these levees the Mississippi would be enabled to overflow into an emergency channel several miles wide. Its present channel is but two miles in width. Under the plans the present levee at Cairo would be lowered and the area between it an the new high back levees would provide the floodway.

Army engineers are co-operating in every way possible to safeguard the levees along the river and and its tributaries. General instructions have been issued from engineers headquarters in Washington, to army engineers in the field to repair the damaged levees, regardless of whether or not they are government constructed. Two-thirds of the cost of repair work of this nature is borne by the government, under the flood legislation passed by congress. In addition to the commissioned engineering officers, enlisted men of the army corps are stationed at strategic points along the river to assist in the protective work.

TOLL BRIDGE SUIT PLANNED

TEXAS AND OKLAHOMA OFFICIALS TO MEET FRIDAY, SHERMAN

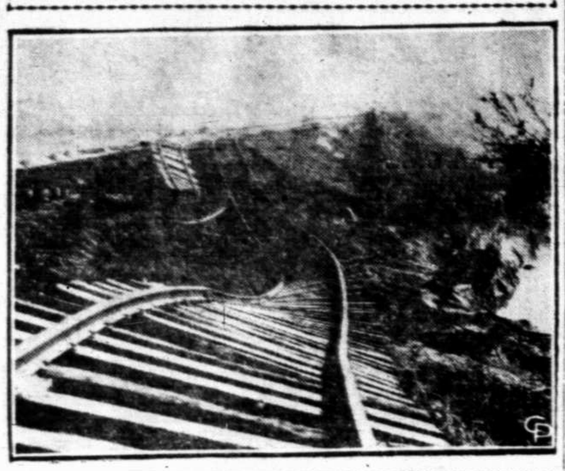
(By Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 4—Texas and Oklahoma officials will confer at Sherman tomorrow on a suit planned against the Red River Bridge company, which operates a toll bridge across Red River between Denison and Durant.

Several weeks ago the war department ordered toll rates reduced along Red River. Owners of the Denison bridge have not complied with the order, having instituted suit at Washington to enjoin the two states from enforcing the lower rates.

W. L. Murphy and W. C. Lewis, assistant attorneys general of Oklahoma, and W. C. Burnham, state bridge engineer, will leave here today for Sherman. R. M. Tilley, assistant attorney general of Texas will meet them in the Texas city tomorrow. Mr. Murphy said a suit probably would be filed at Sherman seeming to stop collection of tolls on the Denison-Durant bridge. At Austin, Attorney General Pollard said whatever action taken by the states depends on information given at the joint meeting.

A RAILROAD TWISTED BY FLOODS



Flood waters played havoc with this stretch of railroad track near Harriman, Tenn., one of the towns suffering the most in lives and property damage from rising streams in the Mississippi valley. Many washouts like the above occurred.

More than half the population is afflicted with defective vision, according to statistics. Either the man who compiles those figures never has seen a traffic jam or he is an incurable optimist.

Mussolini asks what is the use of a wife with a vote who casts it as her husband does. But perhaps the husband couldn't persuade her they ought to vote differently!

HAMMONDS QUITS OKLAHOMA POST

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 4 (AP)—Much political speculation has been brought to a close with the announcement that Dr. O. O. Hammonds has resigned as head of the state health department, and the resignation has been accepted by Governor W. J. Holloway.

Withdrawal of Dr. Hammonds, husband of the former confidential secretary of Henry S. Johnston, former governor, has been forecast for several days.

While the name of Dr. Hammonds was drawn into the impeachment trial, which resulted in the removal of Johnston, the health director did not play as prominent part in the trial as did his wife.

Although Dr. Hammonds' name was not mentioned frequently in the investigation, he was drawn into the impeachment trial when Jack Wheeler, Oklahoma City attorney, testified to a conversation he overheard between Dr. and Mrs. Hammonds.

Wheeler said one night, when he had waited in Governor Johnston's outer office for some time for an opportunity to see Johnston, he heard Dr. Hammonds tell his wife "this affair with the governor has gone far enough."

"Shut your mouth," Wheeler quoted Mrs. Hammonds as retorting. "We'll get ours while we can."

RADIO'S "RED BIRD" TELLS OF FRAY

BEAUMONT ARTIST SAYS HUSBAND SHOT HER, THEN TURNED PISTOL ON HIMSELF

BEAUMONT, April 4 (AP)—A pretty, red headed woman, known to thousands of radio fans as "The Red Bird", told police today that she was wounded by her husband, G. C. Sparks, at their home Tuesday night, and that after he had shot her he turned the gun on himself. Sparks died yesterday after he had been found unconscious on the driveway of his home a few hours before.

Marie Sparks, the wife, first refused to talk to officers. Informed that her husband had died, she related what had taken place before the shooting.

She said her husband, who had been living with a brother recently, came to the home where she and their two daughters were living and that a controversy arose concerning sale of the house.

Sparks suddenly turned and saying to her "take that, then", whipped out a pistol and fired at her. Then he stepped out doors and she heard another shot. She said she thought he was firing into the air to stimulate suicide and that she ran through the house and out onto the front porch.

It was after she had been taken to the hospital that detectives found Sparks lying on the driveway.

Mrs. Sparks was said today to be in no danger.

She has been singing from radio station KFDM here as a member of the song team of "Red Bird and Mac."

Widow Of Pickle King Found Beaten

CHICAGO, April 4 (AP).—Mrs. Charles Kelso, 75, wealthy widow of a Belleville, Ont., pickle manufacturer, was found probably fatally beaten in the living room of her home in the fashionable Hyde Park district here today. In a rear bed room the body of her maid, Mrs. Ida Peterson, also 75, with throat slashed, was found.

Police at first theorized that the maid, who had been employed by Mrs. Kelso for 7 years suddenly had suicide after attacking her employer with a hammer. A knife and hammer, blood stained, were found beside her body.

Old Tires Worth Money while Fleet is Here

Tomorrow's the day . . . the day the fleet comes in!

Fifteen gleaming silver cars . . . 19 crack drivers . . . passing through here on the great Goodrich Tire demonstration run across the continent and back . . .

And bringing, as they come, bargains in tires!

For the moment the Fleet arrives . . . the instant the cars drop anchor before our store . . . the Silver Fleet Trade-In Sale begins, bringing you bargain allowances on your old tires.

You'll want to be there, of course! You'll want to see the fleet . . . stock models of leading passenger cars.

You'll want to talk to the pilots . . . 19 specially selected men, trained particularly for this great drive across the country and back.

But more, you'll want to be there to get rid of your old rubber . . . at a bargain!

To take advantage of a special sale that makes worn casings worth real money on the purchase of brand new tires!

We Appraise Tires

On your car now are well-worn tires . . . tires that have given five thousand . . . ten thousand . . . maybe more miles of service.

Tomorrow, we'll have an expert go over your rubber. Finding tires that should be replaced now before the cost of keeping them going exceeds their value to you.

He'll tell you instantly how much you can save in cash by turning in one, two or four of your present tires on Goodrich Tires And you'll be surprised how little it will cost to put sound, new rubber on your car.

And Don't Forget

Remember two things . . .

First, special allowances apply on old rubber while the Fleet is here . . . extra-generous allowances, that make the cost of new tires amazingly small.

And second, the tires you buy from us are exactly like those on the Silver Fleet . . . exactly like them in materials and workmanship.

So be on hand tomorrow, by all means. Bring along your car, so that we may inspect its rubber. Here's a real opportunity to get new tires all around at a saving.

THREE GOODRICH TIRES: Silvertown De Luxe, for superlative style and service. The famous Silvertown—the standard quality tire. Goodrich Cavalier, a low-priced tire for keen buyers.

HERE THEY COME! The 15 gleaming cars of the famous Goodrich Silver Fleet are scheduled to arrive in this city tomorrow. You'll want to see them . . . you'll want to greet the pilots . . . and hear at first hand the whole vivid story of their great trip to this city. And you'll want to see the Silvertowns Tires that have made such an amazing performance record on the trip so far. It's an interesting experience that motorists everywhere have enjoyed. And remember, too, the Silver Fleet also brings with it bargain allowances on your old tires. WAYLAND ENJOYS APRIL FOOL DAY

(Special To The Journal)

PLAINVIEW, April 4—April Fool's Day or April first brought its fun and laughter to the student body of Wayland College Monday when the faculty gathered for chapel and found their places usurped by members of the student body. Every member of the faculty got to see himself or herself as others see them.

The student body in one accord say it was the jolliest hour ever spent in chapel. Distinguished guests who had visited chapel during the past few months found themselves represented on the program and for one and one-half hours the student body was in a continuous uproar as various characters were being imitated and speeches rehearsed.

The honor guests appearing on the program were, Dr. J. E. Nunn of Amarillo; Prexy J. D. Sandifer of Simmons University, and Pat Horton, pastor of the local Baptist church. Ray Colthorp played the role of Dr. Nunn and brought the jovial spirit of the Dr. when he is privileged to visit the school. Reid DeWeese delivered the speech of Prexy Sandifer and Minter Uzzell of J. Pat Horton.

THE TINYMITES

BY HAL COCHRAN

The poor old tub man was surprised. Of course he never realized that he was going to be upset by Old Bird Goofygoo. The bird had punched him in the nose, and it was one of those hard blows that knock a person to the ground, like only hard blows do.

The Goofygoo stood back real mad, while Mister Tub Man looked quite sad. "That's what you get for roping me," the long-necked bird cried out. "I don't mind teasing, now and then, but don't do things like that again, 'cause if you do, I'll just hand you another painful clout."

The Tinymites still hid from view. They didn't know just what to do. They liked the friendly tub man, but they feared the monstrous bird. "I wish," said Scouty, "we could aid the man, 'cause he seems quite afraid. The two are talking back and forth, but I can't hear a word."

Then Carpy said, "Let's run away. This is no place for us to play. We're bound to get in trouble if we stop and interfere. I'd like to help the old tub man, but I see no way that I can. The safest place for us is many, many miles from here."

And then the bunch heard Clowny roar, "Oh, look! He's hitting him once more. I simply can not stand to see an old man knocked around. I may get hurt, but I dont' care. At least I'll give that bird a scare." And not a moment passed ere little Clowny left the ground.

He dove right down from aff the hill, which gave all of the rest a thrill. It was a flying tackle. Clowny surely had the knack. The thought of it may seem absurd, but round the legs he caught the bird. Real quickly Mister Goofygoo was flat upon his back.

(The Tub Man becomes a real friend in the next story.)

LUBBOCK BOOSTED AS GRAIN CENTER

PROTEIN TESTING LABORATORY WILL BE PUT IN AT GRAIN EXCHANGE OF THIS CITY

Installation of a grain protein testing laboratory, similar to the ones used in Dallas, Galveston, and other grain centers will be made here during June, S. E. Cone, secretary and treasurer of the Lubbock Grain Exchange, was advised yesterday by the Texas Testing Laboratories at Dallas.

Lubbock as a grain center will be further augmented with the addition of this tester. The bulk of the grain shipped from this section last year came through Lubbock for inspection; through the service of R. R. Stuard, licensed federal grain inspector. It is thought that even more will be brought through here with the inauguration of the testing system.

Protein analysis of all grains, cake and oils from the cotton oil mills, both incoming and outgoing can be made by the laboratory. The cost will be $1 per car.

Federal Reserve Governors Meet

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—Governors of the twelve Federal Reserve banks met in joint conference with the reserve board today with Secretary Mellon announcing beforehand no action bearing on the financial situation would be taken. Mr. Mellon declared the conferees would consider only routine affairs of the system.

The secretary said that during the three-day semi-annual meeting of the governors they might have discussed the general financial situation but if this was done, it was only incidental to their conversations on the routine business of the banks, and no action was likely to result from their conferences.

STOCK TREND REACTIONARY

SLIGHT LOSSES SHOWN IN LARGE NUMBER OF BIG ISSUES

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, April 4 — Reactionary tendencies predominated at the opening of today's stock market. National Biscuit and Greene Cananea Copper each dropped 2 points and New York Central, International Nickel, Briggs, Nash Motors and Skelly Oil yielded a point or so. American Sugar Refining sank to a new low for the year. American Power & Light, Bethlehem Steel, Montgomery-Ward and Standard Oil of California showed initial gains of a point each.

Uneasiness over credit brought liquidation into the market in early trading. Active copper dropped a point or more.

Selling also developed in the oil shares as a result of speculative disappointment over failure of officials of the American Petroleum Institute to receive federal approval of their nation-wide curtailment program. Standard Oil of California forfeited its early gain of 1 point and dipped below last night's close, and Indian Refining, which has been in brisk demand of late on expectations of heavily increased earnings through its new cracking process, also sold a point lower.

Wright Aeronautical, Commercial Solvents, Advance Rumley and Mohawk Carpet dropped 2 to nearly 4 points in the early selling movement.

Steels led a rally towards the end of the first hour on buying influenced by the optimistic character of the weekly trade reviews and predictions of unusually heavy earnings in the first half of the year.

Foreign exchanges opened steady, with cables unchanged at $4.85 1-4.

GENERAL SELLING IS GRAIN FEATURE

CHICAGO, April 4 (AP)—General selling, together with absence of buying support except on downturns, brought about a sharp early setback in prices today both for wheat and corn.

Opening 3-4c to 1 1-8c off, wheat later scored rallies. Corn started 1-4 to 3-8c to 1 7-8c down, with recoveries lacking vigor. Oats were easy. Provisions tended lower.

WEATHER PUTS COTTON LOWER

MARKET OPENS STEADY AT DECLINE UPON NEWS REPORT

NEW YORK, April 4 (AP)—Cotton opened steady at a decline of 5 to 9 points under selling encouraged by relatively easy Liverpool cables and favorable weather in the south.

The decline extended to 19.66 for July and 19.65 for October, making net losses of about 8 to 14 points during early trading. Trade interests were buyers of the near months and there was considerable covering at the decline. This steadied the market, which showed rallies of 5 or 6 points from the lowest by the end o fthe first half hour.

The relatively firm ruling of May attributed partly to trade buying, helped the tone of the general market durinf the middle of the morning. Earlier losses were recovered old crop months selling 4 to 5 points net higher. The new sold back to or a shade above yesterday's closing quotations. Trading tapered off however, and later fluctuations were somewhat irregular with the midday market quiet, net unchanged to 6 points lower.

NEW ORLEANS ALSO OPENS EASIER

NEW ORLEANS, April 4 (AP)—The cotton market opened easy in sympathy with lower Liverpool cables than due. First trades showed losses of 7 to 8 points and prices continued to work lower on sellingg inspired by favorable weather and spread of the Carolina mill strike.

May traded off to 19.55, July 19.62 and October 19.43, or 8 to 13 points below yesterday's close. Covering developed on the decline and prices rallied 5 to 7 points, but towards the end of the first hour the demand was supplied and the undertone was easier.

Good trade and speculative buying entered the market later, probably based on the firmer technical position of the market. Prices gradually recovered, May selling up to 19.68, July 19.75 and October 19.60, or 13 to 17 points up from the lows and 4 to 5 points above yesterday's close.

At noon the market was steady and near the highs.

Local Contractor Says Results Have Been Wonderful

"I Was In Wretched Health Sick For 15 Years And Orgatone Has Restored My Health," He Says

M. R. Grissone, of 2224 1-2 Seventeenth Street, Lubbock, Texas, is still another who has cause to be glad he was induced to try Orgatone. Mr. Grissone, is a prominent, well known contractor and has been a resident here for years. In discussing the Master Medicine which has been beneficial to him, he says:

"Orgatone is building me up fine and is the only thing I have been able to get to give me any relief. I just got to where I didn't have any energy or strength at all. I have had a severe chronic case of stomach trouble for fifteen years, and I had a hard lump in my stomach, which would pain me severely at times, and would be awful sore. I didn't have any caused gas to form, and I would feel so puffed up that I could hardly get around. All of my food soured on my stomach, and wouldn't give me the proper nourishment. I was extremely nervous and just felt badly all the time an dcould hardly keep going. My sleep seemed to do me very little good and I would get up in the mornings just as tired as on going to bed at night. I could hardly do my work at all. I was so badly run-down and weak.

"Seeing Orgatone recommended so highly I decided to try it and now I can say it is just wonderful. I have taken two bottles now and am feeling stronger and better in every way. I don't have that tired, worn-out feeling any more and my appetite is just splendid. All of the pains have left me, that bothered me, and the soreness out of my stomach is all gone. In fact, all of my stomach disorders and worries are gone, and I honestly feel like a new man. I shall continue and take the full treatment and then I know I will be in perfect health again. I don't believe Orgatone can be equalled and I have recommended it to many of my friends and neighbors, and since it has done so much for me I can understand why so many others are praising it. I can never say too much for the good Orgatone has done me."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific bile preparation containing no alcohol or other false stimulating drugs and is sold in Lubbock exclusively by the Bowen's Drug Store, under the personal direction of a special Orgalone representative. Out of town customers are being supplied by mail upon receipt of price $1.25 for one bottle or $6.25 for six bottles.

Mayer Wins In Texas "Battle For Proxies"

AMARILLO, Texas, April 4 (AP)—The so-called "Battle of Proxies" in the Johnson Ranch Royalty company ended yesterday when Ed R. Mayer of Amarillo was returned to the presidency by a large majority. It was no surprise to E. K. Whitehead, vice-president, and Dr. Mary E. Bates, secretary, Whitehead declared last night.

Dr. Bates and Whitehead had been accused by Mayer of attempting to oust him from control of the company, which he organized. Whitehead denied this.
