PRMC becomes part of new rural hospital chain

By MARILYN POWERS
Staff Writer

Pampa Regional Medical Center has been sold by Triad Hospitals, Inc. to Signature Hospital, LLC, according to a report on third quarter results for Triad at its Web site.

Signature Hospital is a new rural hospital chain based in Dallas. It is being formed by Goldman Sachs, which is an investment banking group, and some former Nashville, Tenn., - area hospital executives, according to a report on the Internet by the Nashville Business Journal.

Terry Barnes, marketing director of PRMC, referred all calls to Triad and to Goldman Sachs when asked about the sale of the Pampa hospital. A representative of Triad returned a telephone message from The Pampa News Thursday and referred questions to the company's third quarter report online. A telephone message requesting information from Goldman Sachs was not returned as of press time today.

"On Oct. 18, the company entered into a definitive agreement to sell three hospitals to Signature Hospital, LLC, for $75 million plus working capital," the third-quarter report states on the Triad web site.

The three hospitals listed in the report are PRMC, Gulf Coast Medical Center of Wharton, and Medical Park Hospital in Hope, Ark.

The sale of the three hospitals to Signature is expected to close in the fourth quarter of this year, according to the Triad third-quarter report.

The investing group led by Goldman Sachs, which is forming Signature, has committed $150 million to the new for-profit acute care rural hospital company, according to the Reuters news service's online business wire.

Signature Hospital, LLC, will be based in Dallas. Triad Hospitals is based in Plano.

Goldman Sachs was founded in 1869 and is one of the oldest and largest investment banking firms in the country.

Rove escapes charge in CIA investigation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Karl Rove escaped indictment Friday in the CIA leak case but remained under investigation. The embattled White House braced for charges against Vice President Dick Cheney's top adviser, I. Lewis "Scooter" Libby.

Trying to put a brave face on one of the darkest days of his presidency, Bush traveled to Norfolk, Va., to deliver a speech on terrorism. "Thanks for the chance to get out of Washington," he said.

Rove's lawyer said he was told by special prosecutor Patrick Fitzgerald's office that investigators would continue their probe into the aide's conduct. Fitzgerald's office said Rove would not be indicted Friday, said people close to the Republican strategist, speaking only on condition of anonymity because of grand jury secrecy. Rove is deputy White House chief of staff and Bush's closest adviser.

The news was far less favorable for Cheney's chief of staff. White House colleagues expected an indictment charging Libby with false statements in the probe.

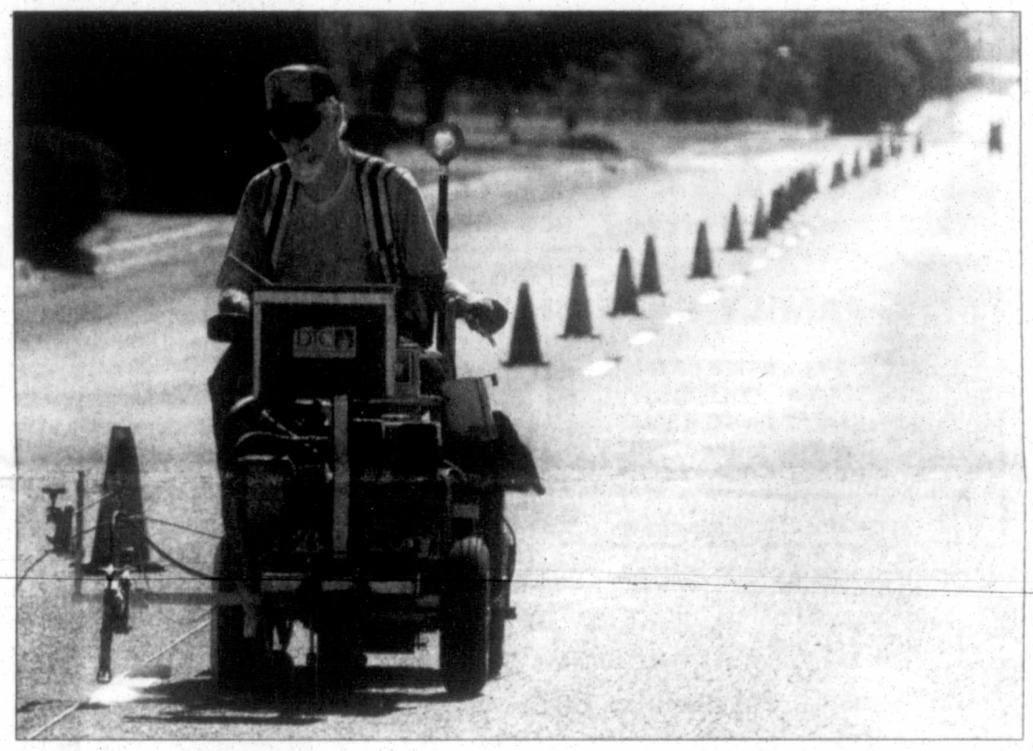

Fitzgerald, his team of prosecutors and the grand jurors filed out of the grand jury room and headed for the magistrate's room shortly after 11 a.m. EDT. Fitzgerald's office planned to release documents about noon, and the special prosecutor scheduled a news conference two hours later.

Some lawyers have raised the specter of broader conspiracy charges. Any trial would shine a spotlight on the secret deliberations of Bush and his team as they built the case for war against Iraq.

Bush ordered U.S. troops to war in March 2003, saying Saddam Hussein's weapons of mass destruction program posed a grave and immediate threat to the United States.

Jail fire sends 2 to hospital

By MARILYN POWERS
Staff Writer

A fire in the laundry room of Gray County Jail Thursday night sent two jailers to Pampa Regional Medical Center, where they were treated and released for smoke inhalation, according to Lt. Joe B. Hoard of Gray County Sheriff's Office.

Three units and eight firefighters of Pampa Fire Department responded to the call concerning the fire at 7:17 p.m., according to fire department records. Pampa Police Department also assisted during the incident, according to the department's incident blotter.

"One of their dryers had overheated, probably due to lint buildup," said Deputy Fire Chief Randy Dunham. "The fire was confined to the dryer, and was out pretty quickly."

"The inmates were moved to a different location in the facility," Hoard said. "They were not evacuated from the building."

The jail is on the second floor of the two-story building. The fire did not affect the first floor, Hoard said.

Heavy smoke damage was reported on the second floor, according to the fire department report.

"We evacuated the smoke from the building," Dunham said.

Reward offered for fugitive

MEMPHIS – A $1,000 reward is offered for information leading to the arrest of Thomas Wayne Carrol. who is thought to be involved in the assault of a man in Memphis on Tuesday, according to a press release from the Department of Public Safety.

Dennis Iron, 66, of Memphis is in the intensive care unit at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo in stable condition.

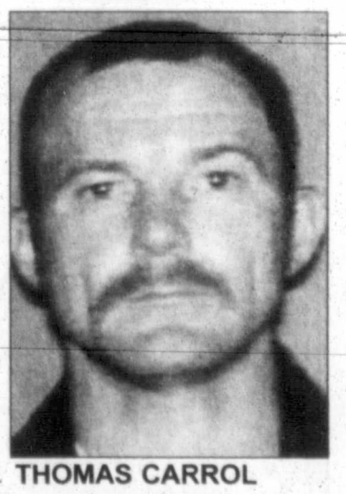

The Memphis Police Department and the Hall County Sheriff's Office want to question Carrol.

Iron was found by a friend in his home.

Carrol is possibly driving a silver 1985 Dodge pickup Texas license 6ST-08, or a maroon 1992 Dodge Dynasty Texas license TPS-30W.

Carrol is described as a white male, 31, 5-feet, 8-inches tall, with brown hair and green eyes. He is presumed to be dangerous. If

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: I'm an American soldier serving in Iraq. When I went on leave for two weeks to see my family, I found out that my wife had posted a profile in a chat room on a public Web site. When I asked her about it, she denied it. When I showed her what I had found, she confessed.

I wouldn't have been upset, but she lied to me -- besides, the profile presented her as single. It included a picture and information about how she looks and what she's "looking for." This has really put a dent in our marriage. I can't trust her, particularly from over here. She claims it was a one-time thing because she was bored.

I don't want to leave her and my three daughters, but now I have no trust in her whatsoever. It's tearing me up inside. Everything she does I question, and it's wrecking our marriage. I want to trust her, but what should I do? Please help me. -- SSG HURTING IN IRAQ

DEAR SSG HURTING: Until your tour of duty is over, your most important priority must be your own safety. That means you must develop tunnel vision for a while and think of nothing but yourself and your mission. For now, accept what your wife says. Time and distance can do strange things to people's relationships, and there is nothing more stressful than what both of you are experiencing right now.

If your daughters are being well taken care of, accept that for the time being. When your tour of duty is over, there will be time to deal with this -- through marriage counseling or spiritual counseling. So listen up: Please trust me and stay strong.

DEAR ABBY: When I was a student, I was encouraged to further my education. I hold two bachelor of arts degrees plus extensive training in emergency services. To my dismay, however, having an education has been a problem, not a plus, for me in my employment. People tell me I am "overeducated" for the job I so dearly love. It didn't bother me until I took a new job that required both my college degree and my technical training. One co-worker complained that my education "intimidated her" so much she "felt she couldn't do her job." Our supervisor said it was my fault that she was lashing out at me.

Since then I have moved away from that city. I have asked several friends about the "intimidating education factor" and was told it's also the reason I'm still single. I know that having an education is important, and I don't understand why it's having a crippling effect on my life. (I'm not pompous about my education. People have asked and I've told them.) What I don't tell them is I have a "genius" IQ, but it apparently shows when I talk. How do I cope with this? Is it me, or the society we live in? -- OVEREDUCATED IN THE SOUTH

DEAR OVEREDUCATED: Although I have never met you face-to-face, I can tell you with some certainty that it isn't the society we live in. So, that leaves "you." The problem isn't that you are "overeducated." It may be something to do with your personality -- the way you present yourself and the way others perceive you. I have met "brilliant" people whom I would describe as intellectual super-athletes. Some of them are socially adept and make those around them feel comfortable, regardless of their level of education. However, some of them are not. You may fall into the latter category.

I would recommend that you now invest in a different kind of "education" -- the "University of You." In other words, find a psychologist who can help you figure out why, with so much to offer, you are not able to fit in. It will be money well spent.

I felt like an intrepid journalist on first assignment

I felt like Clark Kent! It was my very first day as a reporter for The Daily Planet and my Lycra Superman suit was safely hidden under my clothes. I didn't need my alter-ego. After all, what's hard about being a reporter?

Yup, I had my first reporting assignment – the regular monthly meeting of the Pampa Independent School Board. I even possessed the meeting's criteria hours before the onset – I knew what was to occur before it occured! Being a reporter is a piece of cake! My reporter's image returned by my dresser mirror sure looked good! Who needs a phone booth?

After the meeting was over and with Superman's speed, I quickly reverted to Clark Kent, aka Closet Writer, typed my report – deadlines you know, – and submitted the copy for perusal by my editor.

"If I were to receive a grade for my report, what would you give me?" I asked my editor, Dennis Spies. "A,B,C, or D?" I continued. "D-. Having to print retractions is never good," was Dennis' brick-between-the-eyes grading of my report.

Dennis Palmitier
Columnist

I paid careful attention to the words spoken by Jane Steele and the school board's counsel. I wrote in my notes every pertinent word spoken that night in order to create a clear and concise reporting of the events for our subscribers to read. Nope, I didn't have any trouble transitioning from opinionated columnist to factual reporter.

Where I made my D- was interpreting the words I heard spoken that night. I misinterpreted certain words which is wrong when reporting facts. I was entirely wrong, and as a result, my Superman's Lycra has a rather long runner.

I have known Jane Steele for 40 plus years. Her father and mother made dating their daughters fun – you respected them for they trusted their daughters and their boyfriends. In fact, I miss Jack Howard. It was always fun to be at the Howard house.

As an educator and administrator to our community's schools, Jane Steele has given untold years for the betterment of Pampa's children. Jane has sacrificed for the needs of her community through teaching and community service. How many of us can compare our resume with Jane's? Jane, for the discomfort my choice of words added to your full plate, I apologize.

No. 2. Pampa needs to play the game of economic growth.

No. 3. Trust our elected officials and hold them accountable.

No. 4. The previous EDC brought economic growth to Pampa and the surrounding area.

No. 5. The Swine Genetic Research Facility came, and the world we enjoy hasn't changed. Our water is still good ol' water. All those undesirable folks who were to come with a facility of this type haven't arrived. Note: The previous PEDC had no financial obligation to the swine facility.

As Mr. Cummings stated, the previous EDC made some mistakes. I prefer to class these as "misjudgments," not mistakes. In the world of economic development corporations, caution is the word. But, even then, not all transactions will pay off. But the ones that do will make for a better way of life and economic future for all.

I support and will vote in favor of an EDC for Pampa and the surrounding area. I just ask the residents of Pampa to ask yourselves, what is good for Pampa? And if you say economic growth, then you will vote for an EDC.

Gary Stevens

Terrorism: False threats will bankrupt us

Our terrorist foes are practicing a technique employed by the great Confederate cavalry leader Gen. Nathan Bedford Forrest. It worked for him, and it's apparently working for the terrorists.

Forrest, on several occasions, would arrange for a Northern prisoner to overhear him and his staff making plans for an attack. Later that night, Forrest's men made sure the prisoner escaped. Thinking he had valuable information, the prisoner would make straight for his command and tell his commander about Forrest's plans. The Northern Army would then move to ambush Forrest, who would, of course, strike at a different location.

The tips about planned attacks against the New York subway and the tunnel in Baltimore are probably disinformation. It's very easy for al-Qaida leaders to tell their underlings that such-and-such attack is planned on a certain date. Should these underlings fall into our hands, either because of bad luck or with a little help from their bosses, they are squeezed, and they squeal. Then they are given lie-detector tests. They pass because they believe what they were told.

It's also true that some of the CIA's sources might actually be double agents whose job is to spread disinformation. Our CIA has always been essentially a white, Ivy League, upper-middle-class agency that has a devil of a time evaluating people from different cultures.

Charley Reese
Columnist

When the information is passed along, American leaders are confronted with a dilemma. Aside from New York City's own little CIA, most local politicians don't have any means whatsoever to evaluate foreign intelligence. If they are told by the feds that the information is credible (remember, the guy passed the lie-detector test), they have no choice but to employ the time-honored practice of CYB – cover your backside. No politician can afford to ignore a "credible" threat on the off chance that if he did ignore it and an attack actually took place, his career would be over. It is always better to err on the side of caution. I would do the same thing.

This causes a lot of expense and disruption, and also shakes people's faith in their leaders and in their intelligence agencies. The old "cry wolf" syndrome begins to insinuate itself into people's consciousness. It's like those people who evacuated for hurricanes that ended up going somewhere else. They grow skeptical about official warnings. Furthermore, the reaction itself provides the terrorists with information about our resources and how different government agencies will deploy them.

Al-Qaida's direct attacks against the U.S. have been few and far between. There was the first attack against the World Trade Center, then the two embassies in Africa, the attack on the USS Cole and finally the 9/11 attacks. That's four in about 10 years. That's why you should not take much comfort when you hear people say, "Well, it's been four years since 9/11, and we've been safe (excluding those Americans in Iraq and Afghanistan)."

Chances are, if and when we are attacked, it will be in some place and in some manner we don't expect. The key advantage the terrorist has is that he gets to choose the target, the time and the manner of attack. No one can guard all the possible targets all of the time against all of the possible threats.

After the Bush administration leaves, we'd better replace it with one that has the brains and the fortitude to tackle the political causes of terrorism. Otherwise, Osama bin Laden might well bankrupt us with a lot of phony threats and a few real attacks.

■ Oct. 17

San Antonio Express-News on Congress' proposed energy bill:

The House lamely addressed half the nation's energy problem when it passed a new energy bill recently.

The legislation, sponsored by Rep. Joe Barton, R-Ennis, streamlines the permitting process for oil refineries, removes environmental roadblocks and lifts onerous gasoline blending requirements. These measures certainly address the supply crunch created by Hurricanes Katrina and Rita.

On the consumption side, however, the bill inappropriately named the Gasoline for America's Security Act does next to nothing to diminish the nation's dependence on foreign oil. Some of the advanced conservation measures included in the bill are an ad campaign to alert drivers to gas-saving techniques and increased advocacy for car-pooling. Thanks for nothing.

House leaders rejected efforts to increase fuel efficiency standards for cars, SUVs and light trucks, a change that would have a dramatic effect on oil consumption. The one-sidedness of the Barton bill is one reason Republican leaders had to keep a five-minute roll call open for 40 minutes to garner enough votes for passage. As it was, the bill squeaked by 212-210.

Another reason is that while removing regulatory and environmental barriers may increase refining capacity, it will definitely increase the record profits of oil companies. The Congressional Budget Office estimates the bill will cost taxpayers $3.5 billion, most of which will flow to the bottom line of the energy industry.

The Senate will now take up the bill. It should seek a more balanced approach to the nation's energy problems. It should also scale back some of the generous subsidies for big oil.

New sign

Is standing under a sign good luck or bad? It must be good for Judson Eddins of Texas Furniture, who recently stood under the new sign advertising the local furniture store. Jody Berry, of Signs Plus, appears in the background, working hard to get everything put up just right.

Events calendar

• St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church will hold an enchilada dinner from 5-7 p.m. Saturday and from 11 a.m.-1 p.m. Sunday at the church. The menu will consist of enchiladas, beans, rice, salsa and salad. Plates are $7 for adults and $3 for children seven or younger. Take-out will be available.

• Pampa High School Senior T-Shirt Sale will be conducted before school Tuesday and Wednesday at PHS. Call 665-2803.

• A 2006 Seniors All Night Party meeting for parents of PHS seniors is scheduled at 7 p.m. Nov. 7 in the school library. For more information, call 665-4242.

• Pampa Book Club meets the second Wednesday of each month in the Texas Room at Lovett Memorial Library. Some selections for the year include "The Broker" by John Grisham (Nov. 8); any Rebecca Wells "Ja Ja" book (Jan. 10); "In the Company of Cheerful Ladies" or any other book by Alexander McCall Smith (Feb. 14); "Mermaid Chair" by Sue Monk Kidd (March 14); and "One Soldier's Story" by Bob Dole or "Dying Thunder" by Terry Johnston (April 11).

Energizer Sunday School Class

Mission readying for art gala fund-raiser

AMARILLO — Faith City Mission of Amarillo is organizing its second annual "Artists with a Mission Gala" from 6-10 p.m. Nov. 18 at its location at 401 S.E. 2nd in Amarillo.

The gala will include original art by more than 30 artists, live music, hors d'oeuvres, and a silent auction. Children and residents of the Mission and Family Shelter will also show their art, and tours of the newly renovated facilities will be conducted throughout the exhibition.

"We are utilizing the Art Gala so people from our area can see what Faith City Mission is all about. We are not your typical mission, but a ministry that meets the needs of hurting men, women, and children," said Executive Director Rick Phillips.

A portion of sales will benefit the mission's efforts to feed the hungry, and clothe and house the homeless in the community. Besides its use as a shelter, Faith City Mission has a women's ministry, a clothing outreach, offers emergency food boxes, a Bible study, chapel services, and the Hope for Men and Women's Program.

The Hope program is a faith-based alcohol and drug recovery program.

The mission has been changing lives since 1951. Weekly counseling is provided by a faith-based licensed chemical dependency counselor. An on-site computer-based vocational training center offers individual and group instruction in academic, vocational, and life-skills studies.

Every Hope program participant receives hours of training each week in computer skills, addiction recovery, anger management, overcoming failure, temptation, practical life skills, and more.

Faith City Mission also runs a 72-bed shelter for homeless families and single women, currently housing more than 20 children.

The Family Shelter continues to be filled to capacity, with a waiting list for homeless women and children. Plans include expanding not only the shelter but the 42-bed emergency overnight shelter.

The mission serves hundreds of meals daily. To find out more, write: Faith City Mission, P.O. Box 870, Amarillo, TX 79105.

Religion in the news

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — The president of the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops, addressing concerns about an upcoming Vatican document that will address whether homosexuals should be ordained, said "witch hunts and gay bashing have no place in the church."

"There are many wonderful and excellent priests in the church who have a gay orientation, are chaste and celibate, and are very effective ministers of the Gospel," Spokane Bishop William Skylstad wrote in his diocesan newspaper last week.

Conflicting reports have surrounded the contents of the document, which has been in the works for several years. Some church officials had previously signaled the Vatican would instruct seminaries to prohibit gays from enrolling. But earlier this month, a Vatican official said the document would stop short of a sweeping ban, and would instead permit candidates who have lived chastely for at least three years. Skylstad wrote that, if the latest reports are accurate, the document will be "nuanced and balanced."

Vatican teaching holds that homosexual acts are "intrinsically disordered."

Church brief

Central Baptist Church is planning an exciting Halloween for preschoolers through sixth graders from 6 to 7:30 p.m. in fellowship hall of the church.

Children can vie for door prizes, take in the snack walk and photo booth, participate in basketball, ring toss, face painting, pumpkin carving, bowling, ice fishing, bean bag toss, and enjoy some candy.

The church encourages the children to come dressed in costume. Penny Greer is coordinator of the event. For more information, call the church office at 665-1631.

Harvesters freshmen quarterback Casey Trimble (#14) stares down a Caprock defender during a run Thursday. Running back Thomas Fraser would later score a touchdown on Pampa's opening possession en route to a 14-8 win. Pampa improved to 7-1-1.

A team with nothing to lose, Dumas may offer surprises

By MICHAEL J. STEVENS
Sports Editor

Varsity

Often it is the team with nothing to lose that is the most dangerous, especially as the end of the regular season draws near. This fact is most likely not wasted on Pampa head coach Bryan Wood and his staff as Dumas (2-6, 0-3) comes calling tonight.

Four solid quarters against the Demons from all sides of the ball tonight could go a long way as the playoffs loom on the horizon. Both teams are coming off losses. Dumas was hammered by Hereford last week, 61-0. Pampa succumbed to Palo Duro, 35-7.

A win by Pampa tonight (3-5, 2-1), combined with a loss by Hereford at Randall, would put the Harvesters in the driver's seat for at least second place in District 3-4A with just one game remaining in the regular season.

Pampa faces Caprock at Dick Bivins Stadium Friday night.

Junior Varsity

The Pampa JV team defeated Dumas Thursday, 13-6.

The Demons scored first in the second quarter and led 6-0 before the Harvesters reeled off 13 straight.

Adam Estrada had an 85-yard kickoff return for a TD in the third.

Austin Pritchett added an interception in the fourth, which led to a Jerrod Bivins 12-yard TD run.

Cody Snow sealed the win with a late fumble recovery.

Chicago White Sox fans revel in win

CHICAGO (AP) — Black and white were the colors of rejoicing Thursday as Chicago White Sox fans reveled in their team's first World Series championship in 88 years.

A day after Chicago's sweep of the Houston Astros, Mayor Richard Daley announced plans for a large-scale celebration today, including a procession starting at U.S. Cellular Field, a ticker tape parade in the Loop and a victory rally.

At Midway Airport, thousands of fans gathered to welcome the White Sox back from Texas.

As Mark Buehrle drove his SUV by fans near an airport parking lot, the Sox pitcher rolled down his window and thrust his arms triumphantly into the air. Fans also mobbed manager Ozzie Guillen's limousine as it slowed down, many chanting: "Ozzie! Ozzie!"

"My heart is pounding," said Dawn Gasior, who greeted the players with her two children. "This is great. We're so grateful to them and they're so grateful to us."

Houses sported celebratory signs and banners while bakeries decorated special cupcakes. Employees proudly wore Sox gear to work — including a woman who donned a White Sox T-shirt under her suit jacket.

At several sporting good stores, lines snaked around the block as fans waited to buy T-shirts, hats and jerseys.

Bud Skaja waited for more than four hours at a store just blocks from U.S. Cellular Field. Fearful of jinxing his ultimate hopes for the White Sox, he refused to buy any merchandise before Thursday — even as they plowed through postseason play with just one loss.

Skaja, who said he expected to spend about $300, listed all the heartbreaking seasons he's experienced since becoming a Sox fan about 30 years ago.

"Not this time. They're there to stay," he said. "But I couldn't believe they did it in four."

Several costume shops said while they've been doing a good business during the playoffs selling black and white face paint — the team's colors — they're now thinking they might see some last-minute requests for Sox outfits for Halloween.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Saturday, Oct. 29, 2005:
You could find that you alternate between being extremely extroverted and extremely introspective. Both sides are part of you. Friends and networking play a large role in your success. You will have an uncanny knack for getting what you want. The role of introspection will be to determine what is important and viable for you as a person. You will begin an important luck cycle this year. At the same time, you might have a tendency to go to excess. Self-discipline might be important. If you are single, you could easily meet the right person this year. Don't plunge in. Take your time getting to know this person. If you are attached, you need to confide more in your sweetie. The bond you have will only become closer. VIRGO points the way to success.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
★★★ A lot might be weighing on you. Sometimes you take your responsibilities too seriously. Could this be the case now? Change plans to make yourself more comfortable. Your family and home come first. When you finally lighten up, you are nearly kidlike. Tonight: Let the wild person in you out.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
★★★★ You might feel inordinately pressured by a child or a creative project. Even a loved one might be touchy. Know that you can only control yourself, and give others space. Get into a fun project or game. Tonight: Chill out. Not every Saturday night has to be exciting.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
★★★★ Handle personal matters that might be weighing you down right now. In fact, despite someone's pressure, you manage to do what is important to you. Put on your dancing shoes and enjoy a loved one late this afternoon. Tonight: Let the fun begin.
CANCER (June 21-July 22)
★★★★ You might be overwhelmed by calls, visits and invitations. Choose what would please you the most, but clear out an important responsibility first. You're happy to have fun company. Tonight: Light and easy.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
★★★★ You might want to handle certain money matters during the daytime. Maybe it is time to spruce up your wardrobe or buy a special new item. You enjoy being out and about. Make plans to meet a friend or pals later this afternoon. Tonight: Don't be surprised if you visit until the wee hours.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
★★★★ During the daylight hours you are high-energy. Obstacles just need to be jumped over. Don't let anyone stop you from doing what you need or want to do. Postpone a purchase until later this afternoon. You need to indulge yourself. Tonight: Splurge and have a good time.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
★★★ Nap and make the day a lazy one if you want to. You will be in fifth gear by the evening — unstoppable. Decide what you would like to do and head straight for that desire. Your charisma peaks as the sun sets. Tonight: As you like.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
★★★ Make the most of the daytime. Friends might want you to join them. Why not? Whatever you decide to do naturally works, if you don't get too uptight about money. Decide to slow down by the afternoon. Tonight: Where is that special person? Why not invite him or her to join you?
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
★★★ You need to respond to the moment. Someone needs you. You are uniquely capable of handling the responsibility in question. Your visibility could draw someone much closer. If you are single, you might have a secret admirer. Tonight: Your time to party.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
★★★★ If you have the notion to take off early, you are right-on. Decide on an adventure or day trip you have wanted to do but haven't yet. Turn off your cell phone and give yourself up to escape and relaxation. Tonight: No matter where you are, others notice you.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
★★★★ Someone clearly needs and wants your time. You might need to excuse yourself for a few hours because you have important paperwork or a project to complete. Don't allow this person to feel left out. Tonight: Out where there is good music.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
★★★★★ Clearly others want you, and you are going to be busy. Even if in a crowd shopping, others seem to naturally chat with you. Make special plans with a person you really care about late this afternoon or tonight. Tonight: Quality attention.

Gebo's opens

Pampa's new Gebo's store opened Wednesday at 1051 Price Road, in the building which formerly was the roller skating rink. Tamra Bailey, assistant manager, left, and Dee Anna Ledbetter, manager, arrange a display of cow hides. The store will be open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays, and closed Sundays.

CIA

No such weapons were found. The U.S. military death toll climbed past 2,000 this week.

The Democratic National Committee didn't wait for indictments to pounce on Bush, urging him to delay his weekend trip to the presidential retreat at Camp David, Md., and confront the case.

Fitzgerald and his investigators have been trying to determine whether Rove, Libby or any other administration officials knowingly revealed the identity of CIA agent Valerie Plame or lied about their involvement to investigators. Her husband is diplomat Joseph Wilson, an opponent of the Iraq war who challenged Bush's assertion that Saddam was trying to secure nuclear materials.

The lack of an indictment against Rove is a mixed outcome for the administration. It keeps in place the president's top adviser, the architect of his political machine whose fingerprints can be found on virtually every policy that emerges from the White House.

Leaving Rove in legal jeopardy keeps Bush and his team working on problems like the Iraq war, a Supreme Court vacancy and slumping poll ratings beneath a dark cloud of uncertainty.

Libby is considered Cheney's alter ego, a chief architect of the war with Iraq. Any trial of Libby would give the public a rare glimpse into Cheney's influential role in the West Wing and his behind-the-scenes lobbying for war.

Though he has worked in relative obscurity, Libby is one of the administration's influential advisers because of his proximity to Cheney, one of the most powerful vice presidents in history.

Economy not fazed by storms

WASHINGTON (AP) — Economic activity expanded at an energetic 3.8 percent annual rate in the third quarter, providing vivid evidence of the economy's stamina even as it coped with the destructive forces of hurricanes Katrina and Rita.

The latest snapshot of the country's economic performance, released by the Commerce Department on Friday, marked an improvement from the solid 3.3 percent pace of growth registered in the second quarter.

Growth in the third quarter was broad-based, reflecting brisk spending by consumers, businesses and government.

"Holy Katrina! The economy weathered two major hurricanes and in spite of that showed accelerated growth," said Ken Mayland, president of ClearView Economics. "I think what this shows is that fundamentally the economy was and is in really good shape."

On Wall Street, the report gave stocks a lift. The Dow Jones industrials gained 55 points and the Nasdaq was up 9 points in morning trading.

The expansion in gross domestic product in the July-to-September quarter, the strongest since the beginning of the year, exceeded many analysts' expectations. Before the report was released, they were forecasting the economy to clock in at a 3.6 percent annual rate.

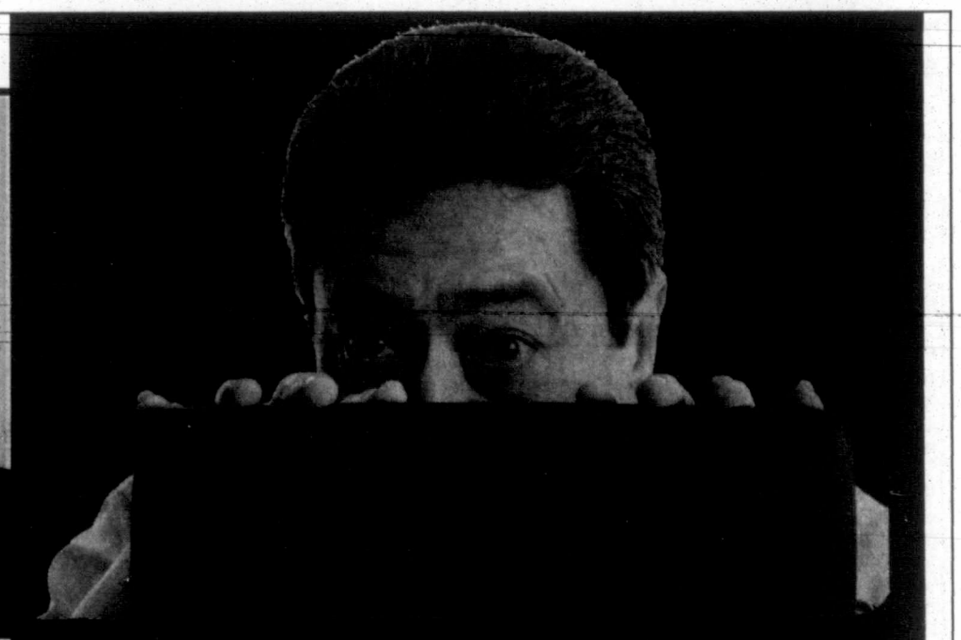

19 Why fund someone else's dream? It could turn into another EDC Nightmare. Be smart vote against the 4B.
