Bluebonnets Motif For Enjoyable Tea

In sympathy with the study theme of Sorosis club, Texas bluebonnets were the attractive decorative motif Tuesday afternoon when Sorosis club members entertained the Twentieth Century society with a seated tea at the Country club. Fresh bluebonnets that had been sent in for this occasion, were arranged in bouquets and hand painted program covers were of the flower.

An annual social courtesy is extended members of the Twentieth Century club, the pioneer study society here, by members of the Sorosis organization, which was founded by the older society.

For two years Sorosis study has dealt with "Texas" and this was remembered in the decorative theme for the tea. An ice course was served.

Program Entertains

After greetings had been extended by the hostess club president, Mrs. O. B. Hewett, and Mrs. William Dingsus had given a resume of Sorosis activities for two years, an enjoyable musical program was given. "On the Road to Mandalay" (Sparks) was sung by David Powell, accompanied by Mrs. R. A. Trussell, who later played "Polonaise Op. 40 No. 1" (Chopin) as a piano solo. She also assisted other musicians on the program.

Poems ("Frederick" and "Maurika" (Mylmark), violin selections, were played by Miss Dorothy McDonald and Mrs. Lynn Williams sang Zameenik's "Indian Dawn."

Two Readings

Miss Kate Pressley read "The Lady Slipper" and Miss Mary Scott read "Katherine's Guest," the program concluding with two selections, "When the Lilies Bloom" and "The Song is Ended" by Mrs. H. S. Brown.

Seven young girls, daughters of Sorosis club members, closed the evening by singing "The Bluebonnets" and "The Song is Ended."

MARYE and MOM Their Letters
BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

Mom, dear:

Here's where you get the surprise of your life. I went alone and unprotected, to the lion's den. And I came out all of a piece.

Now I'll tell you what those plans are—those I referred to in a previous letter. I knew when Michello asked me to pose for him that it was purely a business proposition. Don't ask me how I knew. Even girls of your day must have known when they appealed to a man as a man. I knew I hadn't clicked with Michello. He didn't seem to be interested in me as an addition to his love gallery.

There were others, I admit, at the party who took notice of me after the show in a warmly personal way, but Michello was not one of them. He told me that he liked my figure and wanted to sketch me in poses of the dance. They're to be used in illustrating a book on the origin of modern dancing.

He's going to do a series. It will take some time as he can't work steadily on them. He has three portraits under way now and several more ordered. Some day I hope he will do one of me but his prices are stiff. I thought he might offer to do it for less if I posed for him but he insists upon paying me for my work.

And then, Mom, maybe you think it isn't work. Oh, I'm full of crinks and knots that I know will never come out. It may sound like the life of Riley standing up there on a dais and just holding still but it's torture after a while. I don't think I'll ever be able to do the Black Bottom again except in slow motion.

Michello says these poses are unusually trying but I can think of easier ways to get money than by posing for it. Coaxing it out of a husband is one but I'd rather take the harder way and earn it. There's a mental compensation. It will be a thrill to have a little money of my own again. Of course Alan and I get along pretty well on the arrangement we made in the beginning about the money I was to have but there are unexpected uses for a little cash that bob up now and then which make a pre-nuptial money agreement nothing but a scrap of paper.

If the series and my bones hold out I'll be able to start a savings account.

Dearest love
MARYE

NEXT: An elopement.

Bluebonnets Motif For Enjoyable Tea

In sympathy with the study theme of Sorosis club, Texas bluebonnets were the attractive decorative motif Tuesday afternoon when Sorosis club members entertained the Twentieth Century society with a seated tea at the Country club. Fresh bluebonnets that had been sent in for this occasion, were arranged in bouquets and hand painted program covers were of the flower.

An annual social courtesy is extended members of the Twentieth Century club, the pioneer study society here, by members of the Sorosis organization, which was founded by the older society.

For two years Sorosis study has dealt with "Texas" and this was remembered in the decorative theme for the tea. An ice course was served.

Always Tired; Appetite Gone?

No Need for You to Suffer Here Is the Way to Health

The reason so many people think they are working too hard is because they find it difficult to work at all. They feel tired and worn out—their old time "pep" is missing—their vitality sapped. Their brain cells are drugged with poisons.

How is it with you? Are you one of the fortunate ones who enjoy perfect health, or do you, too, long for the days when you were young and strong, healthy, buoyant, active and alive with ambition?

Your body may be organically sound but if your system is clogged with poisons you are not getting much out of life.

Gordon's, the discovery of a well known Dallas Pharmacist, will make it possible for you to eat what you like, and as much as you want, without any distressing after effects. It will tone up your digestive organs so that your appetite will again be normal. It will quickly relieve you of that averted feeling. A few doses should convince you.

Gordon's is sold by good drug stores everywhere. $1.00 per box, six for $5.00—less than list.

DEMOCRATS WIN BY LANDSLIDE IN LOUISIANA VOTE

NEW ORLEANS, April 18 (AP)—Democratic nominees for state offices found themselves elected today by an overwhelming vote in general election although a complete republican ticket was entered in Louisiana for the first time since reconstruction.

The vote was almost unanimously democratic in 239 of the 245 precincts in New Orleans and scattered returns from the state indicated a similar result.

The vote appeared to favor overwhelmingly four constitutional amendments adopted by a special session of the legislature last September, among them being provision for extending for ten years payment of taxes by flood sufferers.

Other Amendments: The other amendments provided for a one mill tax levy in New Orleans parish to raise revenue for indemnity for flood sufferers in St. Bernard and Plaquemine parishes; damages sustained in the Cheniero crevasse flow; a $8,000 bond issue for sewerage and drainage in New Orleans and transfer of title of 400 acres of land near Alexandria to the federal government for a hospital.

The vote in the tabulated precincts of New Orleans gave Huey P. Long of Shreveport, democratic candidate for governor, 31,209 votes against 1,914 for Etienne J. Caire of Edouard republican.

The democratic nominees elected to four year terms are: Governor—Huey P. Long, Lieutenant governor—Dr. Paul N. Cyr, Attorney general—Percy Saint, Secretary of state—James J. Baker.

Auditors—B. Bayard, Treasurer—Haley E. Conner, Superintendent of state education—Thomas H. Harris, Commissioner of agriculture and immigration—Harry D. Wilson, Registrar of state land office—Fred J. Grace.

DALLAS MAKES BIG OFFER IN BAYLOR SCRAP

MILLION AND HALF IN CASH AND ACREAGE PLEDGED TO BOARD

DALLAS, April 18 (AP)—Dallas today offered a site of from 600 to 1000 acres and $1,500,000 in cash for the relocation of Baylor University here at a meeting of a chamber of commerce representative and business men here Tuesday.

The offer was made by Cullen F. Thomas and Carr P. Collins of the relocation committee attending the meeting and afterward made a statement confirming the fact that the offer was genuine.

Guided By Convictions: Mr. Thomas and Mr. Collins in their statement insisted that although interested in Dallas welfare, their position in the contest for the location of the school was dictated solely by their convictions as to what is best for the university on whose board of trustees they have served many years.

They asked that judgment in the matter be deferred and pointed out that their intention was merely that of messengers of the Baptist education commission.

The offer of the Dallas business men will be placed before the education commission within a few days and the action of that body will have to be submitted to a session either regular or called of the Baptist general convention of Texas, the two committees said.

The next regular session of the general convention is to be held next fall.

TAXICAB CHARGE BRINGS WOMAN'S MURDER ARREST

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 18 (AP)—A charge of murder on a taxicab which carried her, bare-headed and disheveled, away from where she is accused of slaying her husband yesterday, led to the arrest last night of Mrs. Nadine Weinert, 28, on a charge of murder.

The victim, Bruno Weinert, 42, theater orchestra leader, was shot to death in the couple's hotel apartment following a heated argument with his red haired wife. Other roomers heard the shots but were unable to halt the woman, who fled down a rear stairway, flagged a taxi and drove, apparently aimlessly, to a point fifteen miles from Louisville. She then discovered she had no money and returned to the site where she obtained a fur coat from a friend, pledging the garment to the cab company for the fare.

Other drivers in the office recognized her and trailed her to a restaurant after notifying police. Arrested, she is said to have confessed.

ST. LOUIS, April 18 (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is home again, this time with a new monoplane, which he will use in place of the "Spirit of St. Louis" which he said would be given to the Smithsonian Institution at Washington.

Fighting strong head winds, Lindbergh flew 400 miles from Wichita, Kans., and landed here shortly after 6 p. m. last night, with two passengers, H. M. Eshy, president of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, and Harry H. Knight, a broker.

Nine Nuns Taken In Raid Go To Capital

MEXICO CITY, April 18 (AP)—Dispatches from Vera Cruz today said nine Spanish nuns who were taken into custody by department of interior agents at Asilo Veracruzano, a hospital in which a Catholic priest named Laraneta was found in hiding, have been entrained for Mexico City. Scrivener's Appeal Offers Big Tangle

AUSTIN, April 18 (AP)—A tangled legal question is raised by W. S. Scrivener in his appeal filed with the court of criminal appeals from a Galveston county life sentence assessed him for robbery of the Texas City First National bank.

Scrivener, convicted several years ago of participation in the Jackson Street, Dallas, postoffice robbery, in which two lives were lost, contends that the trial court erred in the jury charge.

The part objected to was the court's instruction that if the jury found Scrivener guilty, it should assess him not less than the punishment provided in the previous conviction.

Presumably admitting that to be statutory in ordinary cases, defense attorneys assert that a pardon obtained by Scrivener from the first alleged offense blotted out that transaction forever and that technically he stands convicted of only one robbery.

ST. LOUIS, April 18 (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is home again, this time with a new monoplane, which he will use in place of the "Spirit of St. Louis" which he said would be given to the Smithsonian Institution at Washington.

with the nearby towns not registered. Inquiries sent out to 30 towns by Ira Jenkins, local Western Union manager, late yesterday and last night indicated 350 delegates while there were 24 more towns to be heard from.

Fifty-four clubs will be represented in the convention. Mr. Boyd said today, the greatest number ever attending a district convention since its creation. Of the list, eight of them will be new clubs organized this year. In the new members will be four clubs just recently granted their charter by Governor Boyd. They are: Levelland, Ball, Midland and Big Springs.

Need Few More Rooms. "We still slightly short of rooms," Mr. Myrick said this afternoon. However, the delegates will get the best there is regardless of how many local citizens have to sleep in the streets, he remarked. Practically all of the visitors are already cared for in the private residences, he said, there being a shortage only in commercial rooms.

Payment J. Knoepfel, of New York, director of Rotary International who is to be one of the principal speakers during the convention, is due to arrive here in the morning with the Fort Worth delegation. He will be accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. J. Robert Stout, also of New York. Mr. Stout is a director of the New York City Rotary club.

Nearby Attendance. Attendance from the nearby towns is to be 100 per cent, J. A. Rix, general convention chairman said this afternoon. Slaton, Ralls, Littlefield, Post, Plainview, Levelland and others are to send their entire club here for at least one day of the session and most of them are likely to attend both days.

Nothing is lacking now in the way of entertainment of the visitors, Mr. Rix said. Every visiting delegate will be given a little coupon book from which he takes coupons entitling him to various entertainments over the city.

A coupon allows him entrance into the city's theatres, the city hall park where the Hubbers meet the Hamilton team tomorrow and Friday, to newspapers from any newsboy in the city and various other courtesies.

A ladies rest room was being furnished this afternoon in the new Myrick building for the visiting women and everything necessary to their comfort and entertainment is to be provided.

Opens At 4:30 Thursday. The convention program opens tomorrow morning at 8:30 o'clock with the registration of all delegates. At ten o'clock, a general conference is scheduled in which Rev. Walter P. Jennings, of the Host club is to welcome the visitors to the city to be responded to by Walter Amster, of the McGregor club. At 10:25, District Governor Boyd is to make an address and at 11:20, Mr. Knoepfel will present his address on "Rotary International."

A full schedule of events, calling the attention of the visitors from 8 o'clock until midnight each day, awaits the convention.

Several liquor bottles were found in the room and officers were told that the actor had been drinking considerably.

GERMAN-IRISH CREW PLAN TO COMPLETE HOP

WILL USE SISTER SHIP OF STRANDED PLANE IN CONTINUANCE

QUEBEC, April 18.—The German-Irish flying triumvirate today planned a rendezvous here for a continuance of their flight to New York city in the plane's sister ship, the Junkers, F-13. Under these plans the trans-Atlantic monoplane Bremen would be left at Greenly island for a while.

The decision of Captain Hermann Koehl and Baron Gunther von Huenefeld to give up their effort to repair their plane came as Major James Fitzmaurice fought a freezing northern storm in an effort to reach Quebec and start repair parts back to them.

Relief Plane Halted

The Irish commandant and Charles A. (Duke) Schiller, Canadian pilot, spent the night at Clarke City, Que., where they were forced to land after a take off from St. John's in an effort to fly to Murry Bay.

Schiller, learning that the two Germans wished to come out in a relief plane instead of waiting for repairs, volunteered to go back after them but poor communication deferred knowledge of their decision.

Another plane bearing reporters and photographers was at Seven Islands today across the bay from Clarke City. They had taken off late yesterday to fly to Greenly island but were forced back by a storm.

Could Use Other Plane

If that plane could reach Greenly island, the Baron and Koehl could fly out in it, observers here pointed out, providing the writers of the Bremen would accede to the plan. This would permit Fitzmaurice and Schiller to continue their flight here.

The F-13 today was at the flying field at Montreal, where it was flown from New York ready to take the Bremen crew to the air they set as their goal when they left Baldonnel, Ireland, six days ago.

Miss Ferris, daughter of the Bremen's builder, daughter of Murray Bay, waiting for formation of the fliers' plans so she might act to aid them.

The ice-breaking steamer Montcalm, which the Canadian government sent to the fliers and last Friday was recalled yesterday when the practicability of taking aid to Greenly island was proved.

Effect is Uncertain

How this would affect the plans of the German fliers was uncertain. It was assumed their decision to leave the Bremen was prompted by the hope it could be shipped out on the Montcalm.

The little steamer had been fighting a losing battle with the ice floes in Belle Isle Straits. At one time it was only 30 miles from its destination but the wind turned and swept it back.

Major Fitzmaurice, said dispatches from Clarke City, was again the collecting Irishman he had been pictured.

Shaved and bathed for the first time since he took off from Ireland almost a week ago, he appeared happy and content. Despite the amazing experiences he had gone through both in the ocean flight and his attempt to fly out to civilization.

From various sources additional details of the hazards through which the Bremen passed in the first east-to-west crossing of the north Atlantic have been revealed.

Description of Flight

Through the Point Amour radio station near Greenly island Baron Huenefeld furnished the Marconi Wireless company with a short description of the flight.

Bremen time flight 36 hours and half," said his message. "Struck heavy fog off Newfoundland coast. Forced fly above. Found impossible. For at two thousand feet high descended fifty feet on waves. Had moment again. Very high seas. Steered west while night. Heavy storm. Saw stars occasionally. At dawn flew over wooded country. Could not locate position. Also flew over large river. The large mountain loomed ahead. Rising continued flight. At noon saw lighthouse, thought to be steamer

NEW DIRECTOR ASSUMES DUTIES WITH LOCAL BANK

Chas. F. Drexel for the past three years national bank examiner with the federal department at Washington, has been elected a director and active vice-president and cashier of the Citizens National bank here, and has assumed his new duties, it was announced at the bank today.

Mr. Drexel is a banker of long experience, officials of the institution said, having had experience with some of the largest organizations in this country. Prior to the World War, he was for ten years with the National City bank of New York, eight years of which time was spent in foreign countries.

Following this he was cashier of the Federal Reserve bank in San Francisco for two years and immediately following the war was for three years with the Guaranty Trust company of New York as a member of the general management committee on foreign affairs. During a part of this time, he was located in Colombia, South America. He also spent two years with the War Finance corporation in Washington.

Mr. Drexel has assumed his duties here and his family will move to this city this summer following close of school in St. Louis, his home, where he has two children in school.

Mail Carriers In Frozen North Are To Be Rewarded

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, April 18.—The thermometer stood at fifty below zero. But Wilbur Jewell merely pulled down his ear muffs tighter and set out from Chitana, Alaska, to deliver letters of Christmas greeting to the people of Circle. Before he got there he had severely frozen his hands and feet.

Sitting in her living room by the fire in a comfortable home in Norway, Countess a woman read in the newspapers about Jewell's sacrifice and decided he ought to be rewarded.

Reads Third Episode

Then, some time later, she also read about Maurice O'Leary, another Alaskan carrier of mails; how he lost his hands and feet rescuing his horse which broke through the ice while they were making their lonely route, and had to have some of his fingers amputated.

And the story of Bert Thorson also moved her. Thorson battled Blizzards-Sweet blizzards to deliver his mail to two Arctic outposts.

So this Connecticut woman, Postmaster General New a check for $250 with a letter containing fine sentiments. Mr. New has mailed the check to Alaska to be divided among the three carriers. The name of the donor will not be made public.

GANGSTERS FAIL TO 'GET MARKED' CHICAGO VICTIM

(By Associated Press) CHICAGO, April 18.—Gangsters were hunting again for Jack McCormick, northside feudist and reputed former aid of Al (Scarface) Capone, but police today believed he had escaped unscathed.

An anonymous phone call informed police that "there's a big machine gun battle over here" at an address on the near southwest side being given. Investigators found a large ocean peppered with machine gun bullets. The car was almost shot away. The hood and radiator also were damaged. The license had been issued to McCormick.

Target in Former Raid

McCormick was a target for assassins' guns in a cage store at the Hotel McCormick on the near northside. He was shot in the right lung and left arm. In a hospital, he refused to discuss the shooting with police, saying he would settle the affair when he recovered.

McCormick yesterday came out of hospital to answer charges of disorderly conduct in connection with the March shooting. He was discharged.

Police believed the gangster's former victims were responsible also for yesterday's attack. They learned indirectly he had escaped but as a precaution, notified all hospitals and physicians to be on the watch for victims of gunshot wounds.

Miss Greta Ferris, a nurse at the Greenfield mission, 15 miles from where the plane landed, sent a graphic story to the Times-Globe and Telegraph-Journal of Saint John, N. B., telling of the aviators' fight with the elements, their landing and their conduct.

Baron Huenefeld, Miss Ferris said, when he feared they were going to fail in their flight, was ready to bail his two companions and himself. He was near exhaustion when the plane landed, her story said.

"Thank God," in German and best Baldonnel Irish, she said, was the first exclamation of all three fliers when they landed.

"PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN PORTRAITS"

"Sidewalks Stuff" Discarded
By Al Smith Of Today

EDITORS NOTE: This, the eighth in a series of Presidential Campaign Portraits written for The Journal and NEA Service by Robert Talley, is the first of four articles on Gov. Al Smith of New York. The second article on Governor Smith will appear tomorrow.

One of the telephones on Governor Smith's desk rang and he jerked off the receiver. "Hello, hello, hello!" he yelled in a voice that must have carried throughout the capitol, and he carried on his conversation in the same tone.

While he was talking, I surveyed the governor's big, flat-topped desk, bearing a collection of articles not unlike a museum. It is necessarily a big desk, for here's what it bore:

A statuette of a boy scout, a miniature bronze lion, a bronze bear, a small silver bull, three ink stands with flashily-colored pens protruding, a glass of ice water on a blotter, a bronze cast of a big peanut with two legs, a silver-rimmed picture of his wife and one of his sons, a 12-inch replica of the first railroad train in New York, several dozen unfinished letters, Governor Smith opens his personal mail himself, a small marble elephant, several scribbled notations, two telephones, a desk lamp with pink silk shade, and two bronze book-ends between which were these volumes: "Care and Treatment of the Diseases of Animals," "The World Almanac," "Papers of Thomas Jefferson," "Speeches of Bourke Cochran," and New York legislative proceedings for several years.

BY ROBERT TALLEY
NEA Service Writer
ALBANY, N. Y., Apr. 18.—There will be less of the "sidewalks of New York" stuff when Al Smith's name is placed in nomination at the Democratic national convention at Houston next June.

If any stung individual shows up down there from the Bowery, sporting a checked suit, a loud coat and with a brown derby cocked over the tip of a long cigar protruding from the northwest corner of his mouth, he probably will be thrown out on his ear if he starts singing "East Side, West Side, All A-round de town."

For this year the American public is going to be introduced to

"The new Al Smith"—the man who has outgrown the environment of New York's East Side, where he once clerked in a fish market, and who has now discarded the brown derby for the tuxedo in dress, speech and habit, with a consequent addition of dignity and refinement that would befit a president.

Three main obstacles stand between Al Smith and the presidency, according to his friends. One is his religion, one is his anti-prohibition stand and the third is a sort of general impression that the former East Sider is an uneducated and unrefined social creature who wouldn't know how to act in the White House if he got there.

FOR his religion, Governor Smith has no apologies to make. The prohibition issue can be met from the platform. But already the campaign is under way to show Smith's social metamorphosis from the cocoon of the Bowery to butterfly chrysalis of the refined drawing room and thus prove his cultural eligibility for the White House.

In personal appearance, Smith's allura have made him everything that could be asked in sartorial elegance, compatible with good taste. In his speeches this self-made man, who left school before he was 15, carefully guards his grammar. In his official appearances, he has never been guilty of any act that would reflect discredit on the dignity or decorum of his state.

Always, in his public appearances, Smith is on guard.

BUT what sort of a human being is Al Smith under the skin? In his luxurious private office at the capitol here, I met the man who has been acclaimed—and doubtless is—"the best governor that New York ever had." At any rate, he has been elected to that office four times.

"Hello!" he boomed in a voice that was almost a shout, as he grasped my hand with a grip like lemon-squeezer. "Sit down!" he bellowed.

I faced a man 55 years old, wearing horn-rimmed glasses, with wavy hair parted in the middle, and a real smile. He wore a faultlessly-tailored brown suit, a bow tie of gleaming brown silk, an ordinary collar, a stiff-bosomed shirt with pearl studs, a gold signet ring on his right hand, one with a cloudy-gray stone on his left hand and a pair of high brown shoes that, oddly enough, had enormously thick soles.

fireman's uniform, pictures of Smith with his baby grandson, pictures of Smith with Boy Scouts, framed cartoons and autographed photographs of the great.

Governor Smith talked—loudly, volubly and breezily. He laughed and joked in a big, booming voice and some of his smiles fairly smothered. If he wanted to use a cuss word occasionally he did it.

Despite the care with which he guards his public speeches, Governor Smith's grammar lapses in ordinary conversation.

He used the word "ain't" at least a dozen times, and he frequently referred to "them fellows."

But Al Smith at ease and Al Smith officially are two different persons. An amateur actor in his youth, he is a good imitator and a close student. In all his public appearances he has never breached the dignity of the position he holds as governor. In that he has been very careful.

During his first term as governor he used to toss his prepared speeches to the newspaper reporters and say: "Here take the first market language out of this stuff for me, will you?" The reporters got together and made rhetorical and grammatical improvements thereon.

By experience, contact and close observation the former East Sider has acquired polish. Today, he can use almost perfect English in his speeches—only when at ease does his conversation lapse.

Between Governor Smith and the old Dutch families that comprise the aristocracy of Albany there has been a social feud for many years. No trace in this feud ever will be reached, although more than one wealthy hostess today would relish the opportunity to entertain the governor.

When Al Smith came to the assembly from New York's East Side years ago the dowagers let it be known that neither the young assemblyman nor his wife would be welcome in their social circle.

"If Assemblyman Al Smith wasn't welcome in their homes at that time, then Governor Al Smith is not going into their homes now," he once told a friend.

With the younger generation it is different. Mrs. Emily Smith Wagner, the governor's daughter, is prominent in the Junior League and the children often entertain at the Executive Mansion. But the parents keep their distance.

Governor Smith has many wealth-

Price Of Coal
 If you are a confirmed optimist, and feel that everything is working out for the best in a few days of all possible worlds, take a few days off some day and go exploring down through the soft coal fields of this nation.

Price Of Coal
 You'll find it a deplorable experience, but doubtless it will be good for you.

Price Of Coal
 These mine towns are not cheerful places. A coal tippie black and muddy, projects from an open space in a valley. Railroad sidings surround long fingers out beneath and beside it. A power house, usually the only building in sight, doesn't look as if it had been built there together anyhow—stands nearby. In the background, wherever there is room, are the homes of the miners.

Price Of Coal
 And such dreary homes as they are! Often they are unoccupied, when they are painted, it usually seems as if care had been taken to find as drab and ugly a shade as possible—a hideous brown or a depressing olive gray. The yards are patches of bare dirt. Ramshackle wooden fences straggle about. Nowhere is there a touch of beauty or color; nowhere is there a place that looks reasonable clean.

Price Of Coal
 In such towns as these, it is not uncommonly hard to find a man who can read.

Price Of Coal
 There are exceptions of course. Occasionally you will find a man who can read, and who is intelligent. But the majority are illiterate.

Price Of Coal
 At present there is a strike on, and it has some terrible phases. But assume for the moment that the strike has settled. Assume further that the price of coal goes up, so that all the mine work is fairly full schedules and all the miners get something to respectably pay envelopes. Would you see anyone who ever saw anything better for the case, mine worker homes in one of these mine towns? No, on your life.

Price Of Coal
 This bit really anybody. In fact, the coal tippie, the mine town, the strike, the coal industry, it is even more depressing than the present strike. It presents a terrible problem, yet sooner or later these towns will have to be raised from the ground up.

Price Of Coal
 We are paying a high price for our coal. And the price is not the major item of the expense. The social part of it is the "burning" of the men who dig out our coal; have to live in the most cheerless barren places you ever imagined.

Price Of Coal
 WILL this country, sooner or later, have to put its best minds to work devising entirely new methods of government? The men who dig out our coal have to live in the most cheerless barren places you ever imagined.

Price Of Coal
 Prof. Charles E. Merriam, chairman of the Department of Political Science of the University of Chicago, seems to think so. He predicts that ultimately we will have to form a new state to carry out the government of these areas.

Price Of Coal
 "Reform of the type of New York, Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia are unites in the economic sense and they also represent types of social and cultural unities," he says. "But from the governmental point of view, each of these regions is highly decentralized. In Greater Chicago, for instance, there are no less than 1500 independent governing agencies. It is obvious that some more compact form of organization is necessary to enable such groups to carry out their governmental functions effectively."

THE PLAINSMAN

Says:

That girl on Broadway says you can't compare a book with a woman because you can shut up a book.

 Lige Robertson, you know, is the man who is to decorate Lubbock for the 41st District Rotary conference, which will be held in Lubbock on Thursday and Friday. He has all kinds of plans for both beautifying the city and for the position of signs to direct the visitors about the city.

 Along the latter line, he announced yesterday that each church in the city would bear a sign telling the visitors just what denomination it represented. The Plainsman suggests that the signs be made in permanent materials, and that they be used by some local folks after the guests have gone.

 But seriously speaking, Lubbock's Rotarians have tasked a man's job—so in the center of a banquet of the 41st District conference. Nobody ever heard of Rotarians doing anything they ever undertook, and the Plainsman is not even considering the idea of such an enterprise. Members of the local organization are capable of putting on a jam-up conference—and that's just what they're going to do. But the point is the conference can be made even better if the tank and file of citizens put their shoulders to the wheel and help out.

 It is doubtful if any conference or convention in the history of the city, Lubbock has ever attracted as large a number of out-of-towners. The Plainsman also doubts that a more important conference, from the standpoint of subject matter and public benefit, has ever been held here. This conference—in case you might have a mistaken idea of it—is no two-bit affair. It is a great big gathering of as high a type of men and women in Texas as anywhere else for that matter. And they're coming to Lubbock in tens and twenties—but in hundreds and on special trains. In other words it's a big meeting and must be handled in a big way. That's where the citizens of Lubbock—some of those in the Rotary—have come in for their share.

 The columns of your local newspaper have been full of Rotary news for the past several weeks. From now until the conference is a matter of history there will be even more about it. Acquaint yourself with the conference, study the program which will be in tomorrow's Avalanche and Journal so that when a visitor wants to know some thing you'll be able to tell him if he asks you.

 A suggestion just worth a thought is that community make a good use of the present strike. The idea of cities being closed to conventions. They must show folks from other places—that their city is a "big-dandy" and offers everything in the world to the potential citizen. An outing over the river for the folks that are going to write the Rotarians are here.

 Rev. Walter P. Jennings, president of the Lubbock club in his letter of invitation to 41st District conference, has promised that the Rotarians of the Panhandle will have a "big" time in Lubbock. There is no doubt in the Plainsman's mind. But what should be added is in addition to that famous hospitality Lubbock will render even a further service to the guests by standing ready to give out any kind of information at any time—or else even more than that information can be secured.

 Beware of tomorrow morning the delegates from a great portion of Texas will begin streaming into the city. Many of them have never been here before. Many of them are coming here to see whether the South Plains and Lubbock are as much as they've cracked up to be. Many of them want to see that Texas. They've heard so much about and find out for themselves and with their own eyes, if it really is a great big educational institution or merely another college which has been given a lot of publicity.

 Make up your mind now that if you can help it no delegate will be disappointed in Lubbock, the city or anything else. The thing will go over BIG—in regular LUBBOCK STYLE—if we all get together and "PUSH" it.

 The Man on Avenue Q says since he had his car overhauled he can speed it up as high as fifty dollars and costs.

 This is the time of the year when even the city man is sure that he can have a successful garden.

 We usually have a poem in this column, every day. And often they are hard to write. You don't know what to say.

Death Of Frank Willis Will Have Little Effect Upon Choice Of G. O. P. Presidential Candidate—Dutcher

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
 NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Should the passing of Senator Frank B. Willis of Ohio prove to have been the "break" fated to decide the choice of the Republican national convention it apparently will be the first instance of the kind in history.

Death never has removed a candidate for nomination who was considered a real chance of who stood firmly in the path of a favorite candidate, except perhaps in the case of a president serving his first term.

Candidates duly nominated have led especially charmed lives, for no party has yet experienced the terrible blow of losing its presidential choice between June and November. No has any president-elect died before taking office.

Parties naturally count in the health of a candidate along with his abilities as a vote-getter. They want a man who can stand the campaign and who can last eight years.

The mortality rate among presidents and candidates has been high in the last seven years. Harding died in office and Wilson not long after he left. La Follette, one of the three candidates of 1924, died in 1925. Senator Samuel Ralston of Indiana, who might have had the compromise nomination at the Democratic convention of 1934 had he not refused it, also died in the next year.

Death, however, has decided at least one presidential election. It was Henry Clay in his campaign against James K. Polk, in 1844.

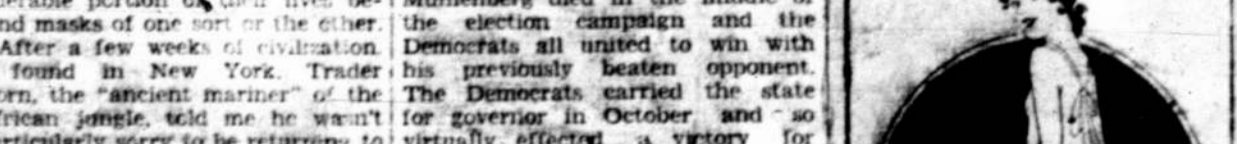

Clay was nominated by the Whigs. His party labored under a handicap because it had been forced to repudiate President Tyler, who had entered the White House when Harrison died a little more than a month after inauguration. If Harrison had died two or three years later Tyler might not have been able to wreck the party.

Even so, he might have won but for another death—that of Muhlenberg, the Democratic candidate for governor of Pennsylvania. Pennsylvania was regarded in that year as a pivotal state. Muhlenberg was nominated only after a bitter factional fight which so weakened the party that he had no particular hope of election.

The result was bound to be so closed that both parties believed the winner in the state fight would insure the national ticket. Then Muhlenberg died in the middle of the election campaign and the Democrats all united to win with his previously beaten opponent. The Democrats carried the state for governor in October, and so virtually assured a victory for Polk in Pennsylvania by 6900 votes and a majority of 5000 in New York in November.

Illness is credited with denying James G. Blaine the Republican nomination in 1876—a year in which the Republicans won. He had a clear majority of delegates, but on the Sunday morning immediately before the convention he collapsed at the church door and remained unconscious for some time. The first reports of his illness were considerably exaggerated and his opponents made the most of them. There was confusion in the Blaine camp. Blaine wired on Monday morning that his illness was not serious. His lines were reformed but he could never get his majority voting for him at the same time.

With Our West

Contemporaries

A GENUINE NEIGHBOR
 We are never ready for misfortune to overtake us, never prepared for accidents. Last week a very serious press accident occurred in our office which put it entirely out of commission for four days.

But for every misfortune there is a good fortune. We had a neighbor in the Morning Review and but for the slight confusion occasioned by our having to transfer the newspaper forms across town to the Review press the Times went to the people each day on time except for the first day of the accident.

We are certain that there was more or less confusion caused in the Review mechanical department by our crowding in on them, naturally would be, but every courtesy was shown us and every effort was made to make our load lighter. For these acts of neighborliness we are indeed grateful and while we trust that no accident ever occurs with the Review, yet if such does happen we want to be ready to lend every assistance within our power.

The associations we have had with our neighbors, the Morning Review, during the past week, have been so pleasant that a lot of the sting of the serious accident in our plant has been taken away—Clearburne Tupper.

There is hardly an individual that does not sometime in their life come to a point in the road that they are placed in position that a little assistance would mean a great deal to them, just at that time. Most people can wiggle out of these kinds of places in some way or other, but they must naturally be greatly handicapped, and they must be very greatly inconvenienced. A little friendly assistance is a great thing at the proper time. In the newspaper business, we presume that this fraternal feeling is probably no greater than with other lines of business, but there seems a greater need, because of the nature of the business that assistance be given promptly. The case of the Times and the Review is just one of many that we have known in our newspaper experience. Several times we ourselves have been accommodated, and have had the glad experience of being able to help others. It is a wonderful opportunity to use the Golden Rule, and newspapers use it about as much as any other class of business, and that is one reason that we are proud of our profession.

PLEA OFFERED IN MEMORY OF TEXAS HEROES

CAMPAIGN ASKED FOR MARKING OF GRAVES OF WAR DEAD

(By Associated Press)
HOUSTON, April 18.—The memory of a score or more of Texas patriots will be honored and continued if L. W. Kemp, salesman for a large oil company is able to carry out his plan. His idea is that the bodies be moved from almost forgotten graves to better known resting places, or their graves be marked more fittingly.

Would Mark All Graves
Among them is Alexander Wharton, aide of camp on the staff of Gen. Sam Houston, whose body rests in St. Augustine and Joel W. Robison, who was one of the captors of the Mexican commander Santa Anna after the battle of San Jacinto, whose body rests in an unmarked grave between La Grange and Brenham. Fully twenty others, he said, should either be removed from obscure graves to more fitting surroundings or their graves unmistakably marked. Mr. Kemp already voluntarily has been instrumental in removing the body of Gen. E. H. Tarrant to an honored resting place in Fort Worth. He had set the machinery in motion to carry the dust of Capt. Jesse Billingsley from McCade in Bastrop county to the state cemetery at Austin but a matter of finance has made it seem advisable to await a more propitious time.

Captain Billingsley's body is in a small cemetery at the family home. It had been planned to take it to Austin on April 21, the anniversary of the Battle of San Jacinto. His son Jephtha, who resides at Elgin, had agreed to it, but the plan was halted by another relative who suggested that it would be better to leave it where it is, since it is men like Capt. Billingsley should bear the expense. Indeed it appears that the legislature had approved an expenditure of $250 for that purpose during the administration of Gov. Lanham in 1901, but the governor vetoed it. Moreover the view was also taken that appropriation of the money was but simple repayment of services rendered by Capt. Billingsley. After Texas had won her independence at San Jacinto he became leader of a band of Texas Rangers and supported eighty of them for a year with the proceeds of skins from animals he had shot and trapped. After his services as leader of the force had ended he was asked in repayment merely a sack of coffee and a sack of salt.

Not Aware of Identity
Joel Robison, a private in the command of Gen. Sam Houston, was not aware of the identity of Santa Anna when he with Lieut. Sylvester took the Mexican general into custody the day after the defeat.

History records that Gen. Houston who with about 1,000 men had decisively whipped Santa Anna's army of 1,500, of which 630 were killed, 208 wounded and 730 taken prisoner, had given orders to look especially for Santa Anna. "You will find him the hero of Tampoco," said Gen. Houston, "if you find him at all, make his retreat on all four and he will be dressed at least as bad as a common soldier. Except the sword man you find easily."

Joel Robison was one of the men sent to search for him. The secretary of Gen. Houston's statement was verified when Santa Anna was brought into camp paraded

GANG LEADER IN ILLINOIS LOSES HIS LAST FIGHT

(By Associated Press)
BENTON, Ill., April 18.—Deserted even by his attorneys, Charley Birger, condemned leader of a southern Illinois gang that terrorized the countryside for several years, dies on the gallows here tomorrow.

Robert E. Smith, his attorney who has sought with every legal resource at his command to save Birger, said: "This is the end of the road—nothing further will be done for him, when a circuit court jury yesterday found the gangster sane and his hanging was set for 10 a. m. Thursday."

Hearing Is Short
An insanity hearing lasting only one day ended abruptly yesterday and Birger's hopes went glimmering when the jury deliberated only ten minutes before pronouncing him sane. Circuit Judge Charles Miller then resented the condemned man for the murder of Joe Adams, 300-pound mayor of West City, Ill.

Birger, whose jaunty defiance has characterized his every appearance in court was unmoved by failure of the insanity plea. As the state's witnesses testified that they thought him sane the gang leader smiled and jeered at them audibly and suggested answers to them when they were questioned by state's attorney Roy Martin.

Ford Luncheon In London Worthwhile

LONDON, April 18.—The luncheon which Lloyd-George gave Henry Ford yesterday more than paid for itself.

The former premier complained that the Ford Tractor on his farm at Churt, Surrey, did not plow deep enough.

"I will send you one that does as soon as I get home," Mr. Ford said. "Thanks that will help a lot," said farmer Lloyd-George. "I'll pay the freight."

"No you won't," said Mr. Ford. "The freight and all are on me."

as a poem. Private Robison and Lieutenant Sylvester saw a Mexican fleeing. They pursued. The Mexican sought to hide himself in the tall grass and as they approached he arose and faced his captors. He was dressed in a skin cap, round jacket, blue cotton pantaloons and soldier's shoes. On the way to Houston's headquarters Mexican prisoners addressed him as "El Presidente" which established his identity.

As he approached Houston, Santa Anna bowed low and announced that "I am General Antonio Lopez Santa Anna, a prisoner of war at your disposal."

Demand Is Denied
Robison doubtless witnessed the stirring scene that ensued when the Texas soldiers, remembering the massacre of Texans at the Alamo in San Antonio and the butchery of Fannin's command at Goliad, shouted for his life. Houston, however, forbade his execution and Santa Anna was eventually sent to Washington and thence to Mexico.

Mr. Kemp has a list of twenty other Texans—he says, who participated in those stirring times whom he strongly thinks ought to be honored with at least suitably marked graves. His services have been given voluntarily and unreservedly as his time permits in locating their graves.

Boris Makes Trip In Area Of Quakes

SOFIA, Bulgaria, April 18.—King Boris has gone to southeastern Bulgaria and is making a personal trip through the district which was stricken by a heavy earthquake several days ago and is still in a state of panic caused by additional tremors.

Throughout yesterday shocks continued near the town of Tcherpan where twelve persons were killed during the first quake Saturday. One severe shock yesterday caused a number of houses to collapse, adding to the devastation already prevailing. The tremors were accompanied by loud rumblings underground which produced indescribable panic among the population, many of whom will venture into the abandoned district.

Six of those seriously injured in the first quake died yesterday, bringing the death list to 26.

ANGEL DELAYED ON WORLD JAUNT BY MEXICAN LAW

(By Associated Press)
MEXICALI, Mexico, April 18.—A projected 25,000 mile aerial trip around South America, with Fresno, Calif., as the starting point, today was being held up by a technicality in Mexican law after the completion of the first leg of the flight.

Jimmy Angel, pilot of the airplane, who brought his craft across the international border yesterday was waiting for word today from William Berry, who is to act as photographer on the trip, regarding the seizure of his photographic outfit by Mexican authorities. Berry is at Guaymas, Sonora, where Angel will pick him up on his way south.

Half Way Stop Planned
A half way stop will be made at Santa Ana, Sonora, instead of the intended non-stop flight to Guaymas when the trip is resumed. Mexican pilots familiar with the treacherous desert country around the Gulf of California advised Angel to divide his intended 500 mile flight to Guaymas into the two parts. Angel is accompanied by Fresno Stephenson, flight sponsor and A. M. Benton, co-pilot.

Look, Daddy! Just like our new house

TRUE to child instinct, he has caught their pride in the new home... caught the spirit of it all in that tiny house he has built so laboriously with his blocks. What joyous pride in providing for that little son a real home to grow up in!

A woman's ability to compare had helped in choosing a home for a lifetime. Comparison is helpful in everyday purchases also. This is true in buying coffee.

Taste-tempting... palate-pleasing. There's cheer in each steaming cupful of Folger's Coffee. It has this intangible flavor because each grain of coffee in Folger's is the highest grade, highest type and highest priced coffee that the world produces in its respective countries of growth. Compare Folger's by making the famous Folger Coffee Test.

The Folger Coffee Test: Drink Folger's Coffee tomorrow morning; the next morning drink the coffee you have been using; the third morning drink Folger's again. You will decidedly favor one brand or the other. The Best Coffee Wins. That's fair, isn't it?

We Wish Our Shoes Were Made of Glass

Sometimes we wish our shoes really were made of glass, like Cinderella's slipper of long ago, so that you could see the little differences of workmanship that spell the difference between a good shoe, and one that merely looks good.

—You can judge the style and the luster of the leather, but we can't show you such things as honest inner soles, real leather counters to prevent stiffness, full cut vamps and waxed linen stitching thread.

If we sold only a few hundred thousand pair a year, we frankly admit that we could not give you such shoes for the prices we ask. Nobody could. But our shoe orders run into millions of pairs, and of course the manufacturer effects important economies in their production. This saving we pass on to you.

Our shoes, more than anything else perhaps, represent the Penney ideal of Quality; a Quality that goes farther than mere surface prettiness and is built deep down into the merchandise itself.
