MISD: District sees separation from region in STAAR

■ Largest gains were in math scores, results show

By Stewart Doreen
sdoreen@mrt.com

Midland ISD interim Superintendent Rod Schroder said the district's results on the first administration of the State of Texas Assessment of Academic Readiness test were positive and that the district is seeing "separation" compared to scores from around the region.

Schroder said MISD moved ahead of Region 18 scores "more significantly" that it had in the past, including being 13 points ahead in eighth-grade math (from 7 points last year). Schroder said fifth-grade math and reading also experienced more separation.

"The district ought to be performing ahead of Region 18," Schroder said. "The next step is to be above the state average and then to be competing among our peers (across the state)."

Schroder said more data on state scores should be known this summer.

Midland ISD reported improvements in results (students who passed the STAAR test) in fifth-grade math (from 65 to 74 percent) and eighth-grade math (67 to 74 percent). Improvements also were reported in fifth-grade math and reading by those students tested in Spanish (by 18 percent in each category).

Fifth-grade reading for English-speaking students saw no change (62 percent) and eighth-grade reading experienced a decline of 6 points (from 73 to 67 percent).

Still, Schroder said the overall results should reinforce the district's message that there will be a growth mindset required for all students to have success and a no-excuses philosophy so no students are written off.

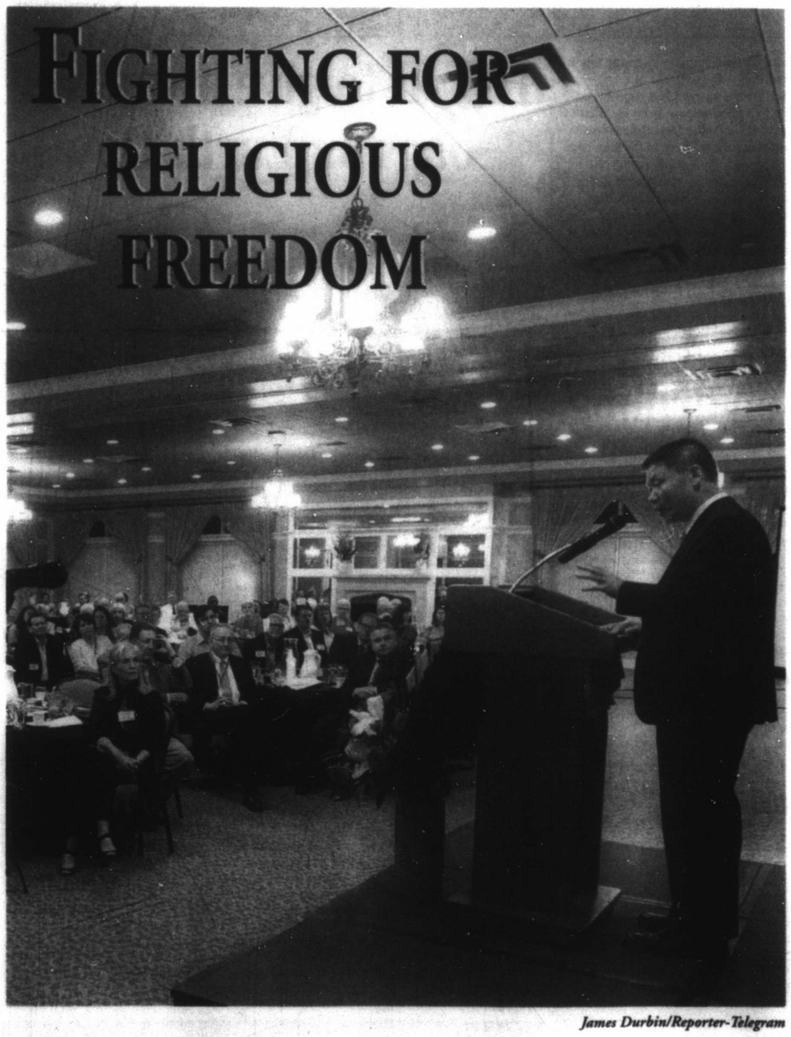

He also said the results are a nod to the use of professional learning communities as part of a teacher network that inspires collaboration.

"The pathway is set," Schroder said. "We have to stay the course. It takes time, but teachers will become more expert in instructional process. They will find new and creative ways to teach them. It is a process that doesn't occur overnight."

The district also reported that when comparing the performance of the same group of students (cohort) from one year to the next (i.e., last year's fourth-grade performance compared to this year's fifth-grade performance), the district realized double-digit gains in four of the six areas. Additionally, when compared to performance with Region 18 overall results, Midland ISD outperformed in all areas.

"The results are encouraging and all the credit goes to the hard work in the classroom. We are optimistic about our most

IEA: Stockpiles higher than before cuts

■ Effect of agreement 'close to nonexistent,' analyst says

By Grant Smith
Bloomberg

When OPEC and Russia meet next month to assess the impact of their oil cuts, they face a surprising outcome: stockpiles are even higher than when they started.

Inventories have started to decline, but by the time ministers gather in Vienna on May 25, developed nations still won't have burned through the big stockpile increase caused by a surge in OPEC output just before the cuts came into force, data from the International Energy Agency indicate.

The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries has been "hoisted by its own petard" by agreeing in principle to reduce production last September while allowing members to keep boosting sales until the deal took effect on Jan. 1, Citigroup said. Although the group has fully implemented its pledged cuts, that's being offset by U.S. shale oil producers buoyed by price gains, according to Commerzbank.

"OPEC is like a magician waving his hands and trying to pull the rabbit out the hat, but still the rabbit isn't there," said Eugen Weinberg, Commerzbank's head of commodities research in Frankfurt. "They've done all they can with the production cuts, and the effect is close to non-existent."

The accord last year between OPEC, Russia and 10 other producers was intended to boost prices by eliminating an inventory surplus of about 300 million barrels over the five-year average — equivalent to three days of global oil production. By this measure, the historic agreement hasn't delivered.

At the end of December commercial oil stockpiles in the 35-nation Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development totaled 2.98 billion barrels, according to the Paris-based IEA, which advises those countries on energy policy. That rose to 3.06 billion barrels in January due to a late surge in OPEC shipments before the cuts came into force.

"Producers unintentionally accelerated activities that would ultimately obstruct, and for a period reverse, the very rebalancing they were trying to accelerate," said Ed Morse, head of commodities research at Citigroup.

Inventories in the OECD — which consumes about half global supply — fell only slightly in February and remained 330 million barrels above the five-year average, bigger than the surplus of 286 million at the end of December, IEA data show.

2 MISD schools placed under lockdown

From staff reports

Two Midland ISD schools were placed under lockdown Thursday morning while Midland Police Department officers searched for the suspect in a robbery, according to a press release from the district.

When MISD Police Department was notified about the robbery in the area near Bowie Elementary and San Jacinto Junior High, both campuses were placed under temporary lockdown "out of extreme precaution," according to the release. The campuses were placed under lockdown at about 8:40 a.m.

The lockdown at Bowie was lifted at 9 a.m and the lockdown at San Jacinto was lifted about 9:45 a.m.

At no time were students or staff in danger, according to the release.

Permian keeps on drilling

■ Fed: Wells drilled but not completed are now at their highest count in more than three years.

David Hunn
Houston Chronicle

Drillers in the Permian Basin just keep cranking out more oil.

Crude production in the Permian increased by 57,700 barrels per day from February to March, according to a new report from the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas. Wells drilled but not completed — a sign of production to come — also increased, and are now at their highest count in more than three years.

"The firming of crude oil prices since the OPEC agreement has likely boosted confidence in the sector," said Dallas Fed senior research analyst Kunal Patel.

And those wells drilled but not completed mean Permian operators can quickly produce more oil when crude prices rise.

Permian Basin production increased in March by almost 3 percent to 2 million barrels per day, double the increase in South Texas' Eagle Ford, where production rose by a little more than 1 percent to 1 million barrels per day. Operating rigs numbered 310 in the Permian and 80 in the Eagle Ford in March.

The Fed also reported an increase in oil and gas employment in Texas, of 3,000 jobs in February to roughly 208,300 total.

Court again finds intentional voter discrimination in Texas

By Paul J. Weber
Associated Press

AUSTIN — A Republican-drawn map setting the boundaries of Texas' statehouse districts violates the U.S. Constitution by intentionally discriminating against minority voters, a federal court found Thursday — the third such ruling against the state's voting laws in roughly a month.

The latest ruling means Texas' strict voter ID law, congressional maps and state legislative maps — all of which were enacted in 2011 — have recently been found in violation of the federal Voting Rights Act.

For Texas, the stockpiling losses carry the risk of a court punishing the state by demanding approval before changing voting laws. The process, known as "preclearance," was formerly required of Texas and other states with a history of racial discrimination before the U.S. Supreme Court in 2013 struck down the heart of the Voting Rights Act. But the court kept in place the chance that states could again fall under federal oversight if intentional discrimination is found.

Minority rights groups and Democrats could press a three-judge panel in San Antonio over that possibility at a court hearing later this month in San Antonio, when they're also expected to demand new state and congressional maps for the 2018 elections.

The latest decision concerns how districts were drawn by Republicans for the state House of Representatives, which the GOP now controls 95-55, in addition to every other branch of state

H-E-B to give away free bags on Earth Day

From staff reports

Saturday is Earth Day, and H-E-B is giving away reusable shopping bags.

The bags were designed by Texas artist Becca Borrelli, who illustrates adult coloring books, and the 180,000 bags the grocer will give away statewide are reminiscent of this style, according to a company press release. The bags are made from at least 75 percent recycled plastic bottles and containers.

The giveaway begins at 11 a.m. Saturday, and the bags will be available at checkout stands. The first bag is free, and additional bags can be purchased for $1.50, the release said.

Customers will also have the option to donate up to $5 to EarthShare of Texas by using tear-pads at checkout stands. Shoppers donated $140,000 to the campaign in April 2016.

Note: Bigar's Stars is based on the degree of your sun at birth. The sign name is simply a label astrologers put on a set of degrees for convenience. For best results, readers should refer to the dates following each sign.*

A baby born today has a Sun in Taurus and a Moon in Aquarius if born before 3:43 p.m. (ET). Afterward, the Moon will be in Pisces.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Friday, April 21, 2017:

This year you often take an unconventional stand. Other times, you are emotional and very sensitive to a situation. Use care with spending, as you tend to sedate your strong feelings by going on a shopping spree of some kind. If you are single, you will meet someone as the weather cools down. This person will open your mind to many different perspectives. If you are attached, the two of often are seen out and about as a couple.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) ★★★★ Your high energy might be covering up some frustration or anger. By being active, your difficult feelings often disappear. Right now and for the next few weeks, your words could carry some sarcasm or hostility. Discuss this issue with a close friend. Tonight: Catch some zzz's.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) ★★★★ You might feel as if a friend isn't telling you exactly what he or she feels. Perhaps this person doesn't feel confident that you will respond the way he or she would like you to. A conversation opens up new possibilities. Tonight: TGIF! Celebrate with a loved one.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) ★★★★ You would embrace a certain situation differently, given the opportunity. A conversation will offer more insight into what is happening. You could be somewhat more sarcastic than usual. Ask yourself what is going on, and figure out what is irritating you. Tonight: Be around music.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) ★★★★ Taking a break from the here and now will be important, and it also might positively affect various areas of your life. You could be more uptight than you realize. Try not to swallow any anger, and be more willing to discuss your feelings. Tonight: Head out for the weekend.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) ★★★★ Others come forward and express their feelings. You will have the opportunity to form a closer bond with a specific person. You might be out of sync when dealing with many people at once. Opt for more one-on-one interactions. Tonight: Avoid a difficult and/or irritating friend.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) ★★★ Your instinct will be to defer to someone else. How you handle a personal matter could change radically, given some time. You know what you need to do to make a situation work. A conversation could be provocative, but it will be worthwhile. Tonight: The only answer is "yes."

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) ★★★ You might need to fill in for someone who can't be present to follow through on a key responsibility. Expect a close friend to be somewhat upset at the sudden change of plans. Share your thoughts with someone in whom you often confide. Tonight: In the whirlwind of living.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) ★★★★★ Your creativity cannot be suppressed. On the other hand, you might not want to share your ideas with everyone. A financial matter could have you tied up or feeling restricted. Break past that barrier as quickly as possible. Tonight: Express your interest in someone.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) ★★★★ You might be feeling unusually relaxed despite some pressure you're getting from an associate or loved one. You probably won't be surprised if this person has an outburst or two. Perhaps you'll want to have a long-overdue chat as a result. Tonight: Listen rather than talk.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) ★★★★ Your intuition locks in one more time, yet you still might wonder what to do next. Let events play out. Make sure your hunches are right before you take action. Sometimes you feel as if you need to sit on your frustration. Tonight: Join a friend or two for some bubbly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) ★★★ Be aware of how much money you are spending. In a sense, you might want to call a halt to what is happening. You will be able to honor a change, but only once you are sure that the other party involved is ready. A loved one suddenly might act up. Tonight: Curb any wild spending.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) ★★★★ You feel in sync with others. You often think about how those around you feel, but you also need to honor your own feelings. Be more direct in expressing your thoughts and ideas. As a result, you'll open up and feel much happier. Tonight: Invite a close friend to dinner.

recent results and look forward to additional gains with the second administration," said Patrick Jones, chief academic officer, in a press release.

The largest gains overall appear to be on the math side. Every junior high school reported improvements (Abell led with a 15 percent gain), and 20 of 27 elementary schools reported improvements, including 12 with double-digit percentage gains. Rusk reported a 31 percent gain in its student passage rate in fifth-grade math. Following Rusk were Long (30), DeZavala (29), Lamar (24), Jones (21), Crockett (19), Burnet (16), South (13), Scharbauer (13), Henderson (11), Fannin (11) and Bonham (11).

Schroder applauded the math teachers for their efforts in improving scores compared to what is taking place across the region.

All junior high schools reported lower eighth-grade reading scores compared to last year, and only nine of 27 elementary schools reported improvements in fifth-grade reading. Leading the way were Long (a 20 percent gain in its student passage rate), Fasken (12), DeZavala (12), Milam (12) and Lamar (11).

Salad shortage could last until May following California deluge

Bloomberg

California's farmers have been plagued by drought in recent years, but the problem in 2017 is too much rain. That has squeezed U.S. salad supplies and it may be a several more weeks before supermarket shelves are fully stocked again.

Warmer-than-usual weather meant the winter growing season ended early in southern California and western Arizona. That was followed by heavy rain, pushing back planting in coastal regions of California, which is the largest U.S. fruit and vegetable producer.

The delays have led to shortfalls of crops including lettuce and broccoli and sent wholesale prices soaring. The cost of a carton of 30 celery heads has almost tripled since early February to $25, U.S. Department of Agriculture data show.

A carton of 36 hearts of romaine lettuce jumped to about $52 as of April 18, more than four times the cost last year. Prices may remain volatile and "relatively elevated" into mid-May, said Roland Fumasi, a senior produce analyst for Rabobank in Fresno, California.

"The harvestable crop is not at the level that it normally would have been had we not had these planting delays," he said. "Over the coming few weeks or 30 days, the supply gaps will hopefully be less intense and maybe begin to go away."

The West Coast is the main U.S. source of crops like leafy greens, cauliflower and broccoli at this time of year. California's Salinas Valley, dubbed the "Salad Bowl of the World," grows about 70 percent of the nation's lettuce, according to the City of Salinas Economic Development Department. Since the start of October, Salinas Municipal Airport received 16.3 inches of rain, more than four times the 30-year average, according to the National Weather Service.

Weather service meteorologist Brian Mejia said California has been inundated with a series of what are called atmospheric rivers — drenching weather systems that have helped to alleviate the dryness that previously gripped the state. The multi-year drought has been nearly erased, except for parts of Southern California.

Abnormally-high winter rainfall disrupted planting schedules for lettuce, celery and spinach in coastal districts, said Timothy Hartz, an extension agronomist at University of California, Davis. Sowing in January and February occurred during short windows between precipitation. Now that winter-planted crops are maturing, there's restricted availability of some leafy greens.

Some of the affected crops have seen heightened demand in recent years, with the rising

New Mexico earns $4M in latest oil and gas lease sale

Associated Press

SANTA FE, N.M. — The latest oil and gas lease sale has netted nearly $4 million for public schools and other beneficiaries.

The State Land Office said this month's sale attracted two dozen bidders from six states. Up for auction were 35 tracts covering nearly 9,000 acres in Eddy, Chaves and Lea counties in southeastern New Mexico.

With two months left in the fiscal year, revenues earned from monthly oil and gas lease sales have surpassed $61 million. Officials say earnings for the 2016 fiscal year totaled only $36 million.

Land Commissioner Aubrey Dunn says it's fortunate that interest in drilling in the Permian Basin remains strong. He says more than 90 percent of revenues earned from oil and gas activity go toward teacher salaries, books and education infrastructure.

Pot fans observe 4/20 holiday with smoke-outs, high hike

By Gene Johnson
Associated Press

SEATTLE — From Capitol Hill to Hippie Hill, marijuana enthusiasts observed their 4/20 holiday Thursday with public smoke-outs, parties and, yes, great deals on weed.

Before the clock even hit 4:20 p.m., there were arrests in the nation's capital, as police took seven people into custody at a demonstration that involved handing out joints to congressional staff members.

Pot fans in Los Angeles went for a cannabis-fueled hike, and in Portland, Maine, an author gave away more than 200 grams of marijuana to a long line of fans.

Overcast skies and drizzle didn't stop thousands of people — many in costume — from gathering at a park near the Colorado Capitol.

At 4:20 p.m., they lit up and sent out a raucous cheer — as well as a cloud of smoke that lingered in the humid air.

The annual celebration of cannabis culture gave activists an opportunity to reflect on how far they've come — recreational use of marijuana is now legal in eight states and the nation's capital — and on the national political tone, with Trump administration officials reprising talking points from the heyday of the war on drugs.

"We're looking at an attorney general who wants to bring America back into the 1980s in terms of drug policy," said Vivian McPeak, a founder of Hempfest in Seattle. "I'm skeptical they can put the cannabis genie back into the bottle."

President Donald Trump hasn't clarified what his approach to marijuana will be, but Attorney General Jeff Sessions opposes the drug's legalization and this month ordered a review of the government's marijuana policy, which has included a largely hands-off approach in legal marijuana states.

This year's 4/20 party follows successful legalization campaigns in California, Nevada, Maine and Massachusetts, which joined Alaska, Colorado, Oregon and Washington as states that allow recreational marijuana. More than half of all states now allow medical marijuana.

In California, tens of thousands of people flocked to events that ranged from marijuana cooking classes to the annual bacchanal on Hippie Hill in San Francisco's Golden Gate Park.

Some revelers on Hippie Hill complained the event was less free-spirited than in the past. Security checked IDs and turned away people who didn't have them, leading to some angry exchanges.

"People were joking in the line to get in, 'What is this? Coachella,'" said Tara Scott, 42, referring to the giant California music festival.

About two dozen pot fans in the Los Angeles area opted for a morning celebration, gathering at a trailhead in the Altadena foothills for "High'ke," a 2.5-mile trek that promised joints to everyone who made it to the 5,600-foot peak of Mount Lowe.

Saudi oil minister says production cuts may need to continue

By Fay Abuelgasim
Associated Press

ABU DHABI, United Arab Emirates — Saudi Arabia's oil minister on Thursday suggested that production cuts agreed to by OPEC members and countries outside of the cartel may need to continue to help shore up crude oil prices.

The comments by Khalid al-Falih carry significant weight as the kingdom is one of the world's top oil producers. They come as the price per barrel stand above $50 and increases in U.S. shale oil production threaten to keep them low.

"There is an initial agreement but it has not been communicated to all the countries yet that we might be forced to extend in order to reach our goal," al-Falih said in a speech at an oil conference in Abu Dhabi, the capital of the United Arab Emirates.

OPEC agreed in late November to cut its production by 1.2 million barrels a day for six months, its first cut since 2008. Nearly a dozen other countries including Russia pledged in December to cut an additional 558,000 barrels a day.

Crude oil sold for over $100 a barrel in the summer of 2014, before bottoming out below $30 a barrel in January 2016.

Significant wild cards remain, however. President Donald Trump has pledged to free up more oil drilling in the United States. The global economy remains weak as well. Meanwhile, shale oil production has started growing again in the U.S. while Iran rushes to produce as much as it can to make up for years of economic sanctions it suffered over its contested nuclear program.

government. In a 2-1 ruling, federal judges again found signs of racial gerrymandering and evidence that Republicans intentionally diluted the growing electoral power of minorities around Dallas, Houston, San Antonio and elsewhere.

"Mapmakers improperly used race with an intent to dilute Latino voting strength by wasting Latino votes," read the lengthy opinion about two Dallas districts.

A spokesman for Republican Texas Attorney General Ken Paxton said the state would ultimately prevail. The maps were redrawn in 2012 before being ever being used in an election.

"As Fifth Circuit Judge Jerry Smith observed in his dissent, the challenge to the old 2011 maps are not only moot but "a finding that racial considerations were dominant and controlling defies everything about this record," Paxton spokesman Mark Rylander said.

Paxton and Republicans are now forced to keep defending major voting laws Texas signed by then-Gov. Rick Perry in 2011. Earlier this month, U.S. District Judge Nelva Gonzales Ramos of Corpus Christi again found intentional discrimination in Texas' voter ID law, two years after she likened the ballot-box rules to a "poll tax" meant to suppress minority voters.

The Texas law requires voters to show one of seven forms of identification at the ballot box. That list includes concealed handgun licenses — but not college student IDs — and Texas was forced under court order last year to weaken the law for the November elections.

Before 2018, opponents now want new maps drawn that could boost Democrats, which haven't won a statewide race in Texas in more than 23 years.

"Now that there is intentional racial discrimination finding that continues to infect the plans that we're using right now, the only appropriate thing to do would be to fix them," said Nina Perales, an attorney for the Mexican American Legal Defense and Educational Fund, which is among the groups suing the state.

Writing in dissent Thursday over the decision on the statehouse maps, Smith said the opinion defied logical explanation.

"The majority's findings are fatally infected, from start to finish, with the misunderstanding that race, rather than partisan advantage, was the main reason for the Congressional and state house districts drawn in 2011," Smith wrote.

Without O'Reilly, Fox News faces its toughest test

By David Bauder
Associated Press

NEW YORK — Fox News Channel has thrived despite losing founding leader Roger Ailes and next generation star Megyn Kelly within the past nine months. Wednesday's firing of defining personality Bill O'Reilly will be its toughest test yet.

Fox moved quickly to install a new lineup after announcing O'Reilly's exit due to several harassment allegations by women, which he continues to deny. Outside pressure isn't leaving with him; members of the National Organization for Women demonstrated outside Fox's headquarters Thursday, saying the company's workplace culture won't really change unless management cleans house of other high-ranking executives who knew about the sexual harassment but didn't do anything.

For most of Fox's existence, O'Reilly had popularity of vegetables such as kale and cauliflower, said Christine Lensing, specialty crops economist at Greenwood Village, Colorado-based CoBank.

"People just tend to eat more of these things nowadays, because people are more health wise," she said. "That's why these supply interruptions are felt so much more through the marketplace."

But the shortfall shouldn't last too long. Lettuce matures in just a few months, and Salinas Valley growers produce multiple crops a year.

Steve Alameda, 61, the president of Yuma Fresh Vegetable Association and who farms vegetables, melons and alfalfa at Top Flavor Farms in Yuma, Arizona, increased his acreage of lettuce when rains halted planting in January on a second farm in California.

"We saw an opportunity to make some money" he said. "It's always a risk that if you grow, the market may not want it when it's time to harvest."

Not all stores solely rely on West Coast supply. New York-based BrightFarms Inc. produces lettuce, tomatoes and basil in greenhouses to stock supermarkets in cities including Chicago and Milwaukee. Chief Executive Officer Paul Lightfoot said the company has been contacted by additional retailers this year, though its output is already spoken for.

"Surety of supply sounds attractive all of a sudden," he said.

With North Korea, we do have cards to play

■ Our objective should be clear — at a minimum, a testing freeze; at the maximum, regime change

CHARLES KRAUTHAMMER
Washington Post Writers Group

The crisis with North Korea may appear trumped up. It's not.

Given that Pyongyang has had nuclear weapons and ballistic missiles for more than a decade, why the panic now? Because North Korea is headed for a nuclear breakout. The regime has openly declared that it is racing to develop an intercontinental ballistic missile that can reach the United States — and thus destroy an American city at a Kim Jong Un push of a button.

The North Koreans are not bluffing. They've made significant progress with solid-fuel rockets, which are more quickly deployable and thus more easily hidden and less subject to detection and preemption.

At the same time, Pyongyang has been steadily adding to its supply of nuclear weapons. Today it has an estimated 10 to 16. By 2020, it could very well have a hundred. (For context: the British are thought to have about 200.)

Hence the crisis. We simply cannot concede to Kim Jong Un the capacity to annihilate American cities.

Some will argue for deterrence. If it held off the Russians and the Chinese for all these years, why not the North Koreans? First, because deterrence, even with a rational adversary like the old Soviet Union, is never a sure thing. We came pretty close to nuclear war in October 1962.

And second, because North Korea's regime is bizarre in the extreme, a hermit kingdom run by a weird, utterly ruthless and highly erratic god-king. You can't count on Caligula. The regime is savage and cult-like; its people, robotic. Karen Elliott House once noted that while Saddam Hussein's Iraq was a prison, North Korea was an ant colony.

Ant colonies do not have good checks and balances.

If not deterrence, then prevention. But how? The best hope is for China to exercise its influence and induce North Korea to give up its programs.

For years, the Chinese made gestures, but never did anything remotely decisive. They have their reasons. It's not just that they fear a massive influx of refugees if the Kim regime disintegrates. It's also that Pyongyang is a perpetual thorn in the side of the Americans, whereas regime collapse brings South Korea (and thus America) right up to the Yalu River.

So why would the Chinese do our bidding now?

For a variety of reasons.

■ They don't mind tension but they don't want war. And the risk of war is rising. They know that the ICBM threat is totally unacceptable to the Americans. And that the current administration appears particularly committed to enforcing this undeclared red line.

■ Chinese interests are being significantly damaged by the erection of regional missile defenses to counteract North Korea's nukes. South Korea is racing to install a THAAD anti-missile system. Japan may follow. THAAD's mission is to track and shoot down incoming rockets from North Korea but, like any missile shield, it necessarily reduces the power and penetration of the Chinese nuclear arsenal.

■ For China to do nothing risks the return of the American tactical nukes in South Korea, withdrawn in 1991.

■ If the crisis deepens, the possibility arises of South Korea and, most importantly, Japan going nuclear themselves. The latter is the ultimate Chinese nightmare.

These are major cards America can play. Our objective should be clear. At a minimum, a testing freeze. At the maximum, regime change.

Because Beijing has such a strong interest in the current regime, we could sweeten the latter offer by abjuring Korean reunification. This would not be Germany, where the communist state was absorbed into the West. We would accept an independent, but Finlandized, North.

During the Cold War, Finland was, by agreement, independent but always pro-Russian in foreign policy. Here we would guarantee that a new North Korea would be independent but always oriented toward China. For example, the new regime would forswear ever joining any hostile alliance.

There are deals to be made. They may have to be underpinned by demonstrations of American resolve. A pre-emptive attack on North Korea's nuclear facilities and missile sites would be too dangerous, as it would almost surely precipitate an invasion of South Korea with untold millions of casualties. We might, however, try to shoot down a North Korean missile in mid-flight to demonstrate both our capacity to defend ourselves and the futility of a North Korean missile force that can be neutralized technologically.

The Korea crisis is real and growing. But we are not helpless. We have choices. We have assets. It's time to deploy them.

OPINION EXTRA

Earth Day Texas organizers want investors to see green

Each year, Earth Day Texas draws families, kids and adults from around the Dallas-Fort Worth area to Fair Park. This year, event organizers are aiming for an additional audience: Investors.

For the first time, Earth Day is hosting a forum specifically geared toward family offices, high net worth individuals and foundations who may be interested in early-stage clean technology startups. The E-Capital Summit, an invitation-only event, will teach potential investors about the emerging areas of green and energy-efficient technology.

Earth Day organizers said they hope the forum persuades attendees to bet on the future of cleantech by investing in startups.

"Cleantech is the economy of the future, so if you're not in it now, you're going to be really sorry later," said Matt Myers, vice president of business operations and strategy.

Myers said he would like attendees to understand the broad range of cleantech startups. That includes companies focused on wind, solar and hydropower, but it's also ones that recycle water, make homes more energy-efficient or create transportation or parking apps.

The forum's lineup includes J.B. Straubel, Tesla co-founder and chief technology officer; KR Sridhar, founder and CEO of Bloom Energy, a company that makes on-site power generation systems for clean energy; and Energy Secretary Rick Perry.

The idea for the new forum came from last year's Earth Day Texas. An exhibit showcased about a dozen startups, and some of them got investments because of connections they made.

"The lightbulb went off and I said, 'Geez, why don't we scale this,'" Myers said.

Myers said mission-driven investors in the private sector will play a crucial role in fighting the effects of climate change. He said those kinds of investors have patience and sense of purpose, along with a focus on the bottom line.

Venture capital firms have lost enthusiasm for cleantech startups after initially funding a wave of them. Cleantech deals hit a peak in 2011 with 355 deals and about $4.7 billion of investment, according to PitchBook, a private financial market data platform. Since then, venture funding for cleantech has dropped off as some projects failed and others grew slower than predicted. Under President Donald Trump, the federal government also appears unlikely to ramp up investment in cleantech.

Instead of startups chasing buzzy trends like messaging apps or the sharing economy, Myers said he'd like more of them address the challenge of climate change.

Dallas startup Skyven Technologies is one of about 50 companies that will attend the summit. It makes solar panels with mirrors that reflect and concentrate sunlight and create heat that can be used by commercial and industrial facilities, such as running boilers that pasteurize milk in a dairy plant.

At last year's Earth Day, Arun Gupta, Skyven's founder and CEO, said he met numerous potential customers and some architecture firms that specialize in designing green buildings. This year, he would like to meet potential investors and strategic partners.

"Some of the family offices and high net worth individuals in this space can be hard to find because they don't have press releases and stuff like that," he said. "Forums like this mix people who want to talk to each other, but can't always find each other."

Trump shouldn't follow Carter's lead

■ The president is right to have China help get North Korea under control

JAY AMBROSE
Tribune News Service

It's tricky and scary, this business of trying to get North Korea's tyrannical regime to give up its nuclear ambitions. Scarier still would be an inane go-ahead signal, the kind of thing, for instance, we got under the Clinton administration. Say about him what you will, but President Donald Trump is doing more than any predecessor to get China to do what's needed, and China is the key in all of this.

Reviewing the fumble in the Clinton years helps explain how we got where we are and what we ought to avoid. North Korea was then preparing for the production of nuclear weaponry, and President Bill Clinton, first telling the Pentagon to get ready for action if necessary, also asked the United Nations to figure out sanctions that might help avert disaster. Then came Jimmy Carter.

As Steven F. Hayward related in his 2004 book, "The Real Jimmy Carter," this ex-president insisted he be allowed to visit with dictator Kim Il Sung, and Clinton said OK despite misgivings. Carter's presentation was prepared for him. He was to threaten sanctions if North Korea did not allow U.N. inspections, hand over spent fuel rods and otherwise trash its nuke program.

Instead, he said forget the inspections and said the United States would not support U.N. sanctions. Negotiating beyond what Clinton wanted and his rights as a private citizen, Carter mainly just wanted further talks and asked North Korea to give its word about no further development of the weapons while promising U.S. help in developing nuclear energy.

North Korea was ready to trot, and, before calling the White House, Carter publicized the plan through CNN interviews. That put Clinton in a position of looking obstructionist if he did not go along with Carter, and he did after first weakly arguing for toughening things up some.

Hayward tells us Kim Il Sung died soon afterwards and that the joke in the State Department was that he died of laughter at Carter's giveaways. North Korea went right ahead with its weapons development to the point it is now bragging about having nuclear missiles capable of reaching the United States.

Carter's was a pathetically common mode of negotiation that substitutes starry eyed hopefulness for practical results.

We saw the same thing in the Syrian deal on chemical weapons and varied approximations of it in the Iranian nuclear deal. An occasional harrumph is about as much as we've seen in recent years concerning North Korea, which is now being led by the murderously evil, short, fat, egomaniacal Kim Jong Un, who is threatening nuclear war as nonchalantly as if just calling for still more dessert.

A big part of the answer is China, which could erase North Korea's economy virtually overnight by cutting off trade. It had long refrained from meaningful sanctions despite constant urging. Then Trump, in his talks with Chinese President Xi Jinping, clearly got through to him. Trump backed off his own trade threats at a time when China itself needs all the economic help it can get. China quit importing coal from Korea in February and appears to be contemplating more such moves. A collapsed North Korea could mean major problems for China, but the point is to keep North Korea from risking collapse.

Another huge concern is that North Korea could burst into a military frenzy that, among the horrors, would devastate South Korea. Might recent U.S. military actions in Syria and Afghanistan and an increased U.S. military presence near North Korea in a week or so help instigate such an outburst? Just the opposite, some say.

Of course, the greatest fear of all is that a fanatically governed, already dangerous North Korea becomes a full-scale nuclear power. Although there is no certainty in all of this and even the experts disagree, we do seem to be on the right track.

The last thing we need is a return to negotiations people joke about.

Once critical of global deals, Trump slow to pull out of any

By Matthew Lee and Josh Lederman
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The "America First" president who vowed to extricate America from onerous overseas commitments appears to be warming up to the view that when it comes to global agreements, a deal's a deal.

From NAFTA to the Iran nuclear agreement to the Paris climate accord, President Donald Trump's campaign rhetoric is colliding with the reality of governing. Despite repeated pledges to rip up, renegotiate or otherwise alter them, the U.S. has yet to withdraw from any of these economic, environmental or national security deals, as Trump's past criticism turns to tacit embrace of several key elements of U.S. foreign policy.

The administration says it is reviewing these accords and could still pull out of them. Yet with one exception — an Asia-Pacific trade deal that already had stalled in Congress — Trump's administration quietly has laid the groundwork to honor the international architecture of deals it has inherited. It's a sharp shift from the days when Trump was declaring the end of a global-minded America that negotiates away its interests and subsidizes foreigners' security and prosperity.

A day after his secretary of state, Rex Tillerson, certified that Iran was meeting its nuclear obligations, Trump on Thursday repeated his view the seven-nation accord was a "terrible agreement" and "as bad as I've ever seen negotiated."

"Iran has not lived up to the spirit of the agreement and they have to do that," Trump said at a news conference with Italian Prime Minister Paolo Gentiloni. He said U.S. officials were analyzing the deal carefully and would "have something to say about it in the not too distant future."

Earlier Thursday, he delivered a similar assessment of the North American Free Trade Agreement, railing against the 1990s trade deal while offering no indication he was actively pushing for wholesale changes. As a candidate, Trump threatened to jettison the pact with Mexico and Canada unless he could substantially renegotiate it in America's favor.

"The fact is, NAFTA, whether it's Mexico or Canada, is a disaster for our country," Trump said.

Trump's administration has been focused on marginal changes that would preserve much of NAFTA, according to draft guidelines that Trump's trade envoy sent to Congress. To the dismay of NAFTA critics, the proposal preserves a controversial provision that lets companies challenge national trade laws through private tribunals.

Douglas Brinkley, a presidential historian at Rice University, said Trump may be allowing himself to argue in the future that existing deals can be improved without being totally discarded. "That allows him to tell his base that he's getting a better deal than Bush or Obama got, and yet reassure these institutions that it's really all being done with a nod and a wink, that Trump doesn't mean what he says," Brinkley said.

So far, there's been no major revolt from Trump supporters, despite their expectation he would be an agent of disruption. In addition to Tillerson's Iran certification, this week's reaffirmations of the status quo included delaying a decision on whether to withdraw from the Paris climate accord.

The president had previously spoken about dismantling or withdrawing from the nuclear and climate agreements as part of his vision, explained in his inaugural address, that "every decision on trade, on taxes, on immigration, on foreign affairs will be made to benefit American workers and American families."

Trump had called the Iran deal the "worst" ever, and claimed climate change was a hoax. But in place of taking action, the Trump administration is only reviewing these agreements, as it is doing with much of American foreign policy.

Fox

been the linchpin of its success as the most visible and most watched host. Fox's viewership at 9 p.m. went up when Tucker Carlson replaced Kelly in January — her battles with Donald Trump cost her support among many Fox viewers — but don't expect Carlson to repeat the feat when he moves an hour earlier on Monday.

"There's going to be some dismay among the Fox audience," said Tim Graham, director of media analysis at the conservative watchdog Media Research Center. "The real question is what happens next. If they offer the same generic product, then it will be forgive and forget."

Announcing a new lineup at the same time as the O'Reilly firing was smart, Graham said, because it enabled some viewers to say, "Oh, that's not bad. I can live with that."

Fox News has consistently been the most-watched network in all of cable television, not just news, over the past few months. The ouster of Ailes due to sexual harassment allegations last summer may have been disturbing, but meant little to viewers because it was off the air. Most of his management team remained, and the network's approach didn't change.

O'Reilly's brand of middle-class populism, delivered with a mix of humor and outrage, predated and reflected the appeal of President Donald Trump. O'Reilly wasn't always predictable in his opinions. Joe Pollak of the right wing Breitbart.com web site wrote a column on Thursday headlined, "Bill O'Reilly's secret: he was a centrist, not a conservative."

Arguably, the lineup installed in his stead is more reliably conservative. Carlson has made it a point to seek a younger audience by reaching out to the alt-right community, said Angelo Carusone, president of the liberal Media Matters for America. Eric Bolling begins his own show at 5 p.m. and the current late-afternoon panel show, "The Five," moves into the 9 p.m. hour.

"It's not like they brought in Shep Smith or a news anchor," Carusone said.

Carlson scored the highest ratings ever for Fox in the 9 p.m. time slot early for the first three months of 2017, but there remains some question about how much that was a result of following O'Reilly in the lineup. With him moving up an hour, 9 p.m. likely represents Fox's biggest challenge. "The Five" is set up as a panel show with one liberal trying to hold his own with four conservatives. The panelists are familiar to Fox viewers, and O'Reilly protege Jesse Watters is being added to the mix.

"The Five" it faces strong competition with MSNBC's Rachel Maddow in that hour, and CNN is about to give Jake Tapper a test drive in the time slot.

Trump's most ardent defender on Fox, Sean Hannity, remains at 9 p.m.

Fox plainly hopes that the brand and point of view it has developed is stronger than any single personality, even one as outsized as O'Reilly.

Meanwhile on Thursday, a handful of media outlets reported that O'Reilly could be receiving a payout of up to $25 million for leaving Fox — less than the $40 million Ailes was paid when he exited last summer.

Fox had its largest audience on the renamed "The Factor" Wednesday night since O'Reilly left for what became a permanent vacation, with the Dana Perino-hosted show seen by 3.34 million people, the Nielsen company said Thursday.

Rupert Murdoch and his sons James and Lachlan, who run Fox News parent 21st Century Fox, have talked about building an atmosphere of respect for women at the workplace now that the network's top executive and top personality have both been drummed out for their behavior. Some observers, like the NOW demonstrators, wonder if that can happen without further changes behind the scenes.

CycleBar's charity rides begin with Harmony Home

By Rich Lopez

More information

- 2 p.m. Saturday at CycleBar, 3415 N. Loop 250 W.
- Register at midland.cyclebar.com; fee is $25
- For information about Harmony Home Children's Advocacy Center, visit ohhac.org.
- For organizations interested in setting up a charity ride, contact CycleBar at midland@cyclebar.com.

CycleBar is a new addition to the Midland fitness scene. The boutique-type gym is stocked with stationary cycles and staffed with instructors to help riders of all levels build strength and endurance and drop some excess pounds. But CycleBar also has a philanthropic side.

On Saturday, CycleBar will host "Go the Extra Mile for Children," its first charity ride for the Harmony Home Children's Advocacy Center.

"They connected with us, and so our staff went and we enjoyed it," Harmony Home community resource director Anthony Vandenburg said.

As it turns out, philanthropic work was part of the deal for franchisees.

"CycleBar is a franchise, and part of what that entails is called Cycle Giving," Midland owner Ashley Robbins said. "We put a set price per bike, a link for the ride and all the proceeds go to the cause. It's a nice way to get involved in the community."

CycleBar is open to hosting charity rides for nonprofits, charities and will even consider fundraisers such as for an individual's medical expenses or booster clubs. They will host a second ride for Make-A-Wish Foundation on April 29.

In addition to the 50-minute ride that is open to all fitness levels, Vandenburg and Harmony Home staff will be on hand to offer

Group to honor Midland girl who died in ATV accident

From staff reports

The West Texas Chapter of Safari Club International is donating $75,000 to honor Sydney Dickerson-Matthews, 11, a Midland sixth-grader who died in an ATV accident in September. The donation will go toward a $6 million campaign for San Antonio-based nonprofit Trinity Oaks, which provides outdoor experiences for disadvantaged children, children with terminal illnesses or disabilities and wounded veterans.

The funds will be used to purchase and renovate Thumbtack Ranch, a 2,000-acre site near San Antonio that Trinity Oaks uses for its excursions. The ranch's main lodge will be named in memory of Sydney, according to a press release.

"Sydney was a gentle, kind, competitive spirit who loved the outdoors. Her passion was to always help other kids in any way she could," said her mother, Valerie Matthews, in a statement. "I am so excited and appreciative for this amazing opportunity to keep our Sydney's memory alive in a way that she would be so proud of."

The West Texas Chapter of SCI's donation — $50,000 from a January fundraiser and a $25,000 grant — will be matched by Scott Gurney, former executive producer of "Duck Dynasty," according to the release.

For more on Trinity Oaks or how to donate to the Thumbtack Ranch Project, visit www.trinityoaks.org, or email Britt Hosmer, Trinity Oak's executive director, at britt@trinityoaks.org.

Wichita men pray before Eucharist overnight for 33 years

By Katherine Burgess

WICHITA, Kan. — It's peaceful in the chapel at 3 in the morning, with only the sound of a softly ticking clock or the occasional rustling from the two men kneeling, one clasping a rosary.

Two candles flicker at the sides of the Eucharist; the consecrated bread that the Catechism of the Catholic Church teaches has become the actual body, blood and soul of Jesus.

The Eucharist is contained in a monstrance, a container that looks like a circle of gold flame.

Steve Freach, one of the two men, remembers the story of a peasant who spent hours in front of the Eucharist. When asked why he did so, the peasant said, "I look at him and he looks at me."

For 33 years, Freach and Bob Knoff believe they have looked at Jesus and that he has looked back at them as they've prayed and meditated at 3 a.m. at Church of the Blessed Sacrament.

They're not the only people in the Catholic Diocese of Wichita who pray and meditate before the Eucharist at unusual hours.

The Wichita Eagle reported that perpetual Eucharistic adoration means never leaving the exposed sacrament alone. Someone must be scheduled to be in an adoration chapel with the Eucharist 24-7, 365 days a year.

Perpetual adoration relates to what Christians celebrate on Easter — Christ's resurrection — said the Rev. John Jirak, pastor of the Church of the Blessed Sacrament.

"The spiritual significance is having a real, true known encounter with the Lord," Jirak said. "There's different ways God communicates with us. . It's much richer if you're able to walk with another person, be actually present with them, and since we truly believe that the Lord is present, there is a different sense of when you're praying there versus praying in your room."

When he first began the 3 a.m. shift, he "was on fire," Freach said. It felt right to be there, and he couldn't see not doing it.

"It's so peaceful," Freach said. "I've gained so many graces from the prayers I've said, the stuff I've read."

That's not to say signing up was his idea — he jokes that he was "hoodwinked."

Perpetual adoration came to the diocese in 1983, not long after Pope John Paul II started it in the Vatican.

Someone in the parish called Freach and asked whether he knew anything about perpetual adoration, signed him up for the 3-4 a.m. slot once a week and hung up before he could say anything else about it.

Today, he still has the same hour.

For Knoff, getting out of bed and spending an hour at the church is no trial.

He attributes his 62-year marriage, his six children and their families to the hours he has spent in front of the Eucharist in prayer.

Part of the practice is derived from the story of Jesus' suffering before his death, when he prayed in the Garden of Gethsemane and asked his Disciples to keep watch with him "for one hour." Instead, they fell asleep.

"I don't want him to someday say, 'Where were you when I needed you?'" said Pat Dwyer, one of the original volunteers who organized perpetual adoration at the church. "It is peaceful. I look forward to it."

For 17 years, Dwyer made sure worshippers were scheduled to be in the chapel all 168 hours of the week. If someone didn't show up, she made sure there was a replacement.

There are only a few pews facing the stone wall and altar that holds the monstrance in the small room. People can come in and pray even if they aren't scheduled for an hour, and they often do. Freach has seen other people at 3 a.m.

The practice began in the diocese at Blessed Sacrament but has spread. Sixteen of the diocese's 90 parishes had perpetual adoration in 2014, the most recent year for which data is available.

Another 52 parishes had partial adoration daily, weekly or monthly.

Our Lady of Guadalupe in Hutchinson has had perpetual adoration since 1995.

The Rev. Ned Blick, pastor of the church, said he decided to become a priest while praying in front of the Eucharist. He hears similar stories from other seminarians.

"I kind of consider it like the powerhouse of our parish," Blick said. "It's like the engine room where there's this spiritual, ongoing intercession for our people going on all the time."

At Our Lady of Guadalupe, an artist from Mexico painted a life-sized picture of Jesus behind the monstrance, which holds the sacrament where Jesus' heart would be in the painting.

Blick said the priest who founded the church building in 1964 once returned for a visit and said he noticed a different atmosphere, something attributed to perpetual adoration.

"It brings a spiritual aura or spiritual force or protection throughout the whole city," Blick said. "People who do it over time, it does change them, transform them in a way to be a person of peace."

Playground case touches on separation of church and state

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court signaled Wednesday that it will decide an important case on the separation of church and state in favor of a Missouri church that wants state money to put a soft surface on its preschool playground.

The case is being closely watched by proponents of school vouchers, who hope a broad ruling would remove obstacles to voucher programs in some states.

Liberal and conservative justices alike seemed troubled by Missouri's decision to exclude the church from a grant program that pays for playground surfaces made of recycled tires.

The court did not appear ready to scuttle the case, even after Gov. Eric Greitens, R-Mo., announced last week that he was changing the policy that said churches couldn't participate in the program.

The justices posed a stream of hypothetical questions to both sides that were aimed at finding the right line between the improper mixing of government and religion on the one hand and discrimination against religious institution on the other.

"This church-state divide, it's a fraught issue. It's a hard issue," Justice Elena Kagan said.

The case grows out of a lawsuit filed by Trinity Lutheran Church of Columbia, Missouri, after it lost out on a grant for its playground in 2012 despite being ranked fifth out of 44 applicants.

The state said its decision not to give the church any money was based on a provision of the Missouri Constitution that explicitly prohibits using public money to aid a religious institution. Roughly three dozen states have similarly worded provisions.

"All we're talking about is a safer surface on the playground for when kids plays," David Cortman, the church's lawyer, told the court.

James Layton, representing Missouri's director of natural resources, faced considerably tougher questions from the justices.

In response to a question from Justice Stephen Breyer, Layton said the state could not deprive the church of police, fire and public health protection without violating the U.S. Constitution.

Through its programming, the Odessa-based agency helps children and families who have suffered abuse by offering rehabilitation and education in a safe space.

"We're excited about this because it's a new type of fundraiser," Vandenburg said.

Supporters can sweat off the calories while contributing to the well-being of Permian Basin families. For the armchair-inclined, donations of $25 are being accepted.

CycleBar opened on March 30. Robbins said that as they settle into their schedules and clients, she expects them to host more charity rides.

"We'd like to do them on a weekly basis," she said.

East Texas children use recycled items to help make shoes

By Stephanie Stevens
The Lufkin News

LUFKIN — Sixty-six pairs of shoes made of recycled materials will be donated to children in Africa thanks to Jamie Mahan's class at Lufkin's Dunbar Primary School.

The Lufkin News reported students traced out pieces from jeans and recycled materials to be sent to Sole Hope, a nonprofit that turns the materials into shoes to protect children in Uganda from contracting jiggers through their feet.

Jiggers are parasitic insects that enter under a person's toes and in the webbing of feet, where they lay eggs. The eggs continue to multiply until the child can no longer walk. Shoes help protect children from the bugs.

Mahan said her class has been learning about reducing, reusing and recycling.

"We went on a learning journey where we went to the county landfill, the recycling plant and wastewater treatment plant so kids can see why we don't want things going into the landfill," Mahan said. "We are running out of room."

Second-grader Wesley Bennett said he was surprised to learn how much garbage goes to the county landfill.

"Almost 1 million pounds of trash goes into our landfill every day," Wesley said. "How will that affect my kids' kids' kids' babies?"

Mahan's class wanted to use recycled goods to help others, she said, "So on Valentine's Day, instead of it being about ourselves, we wanted to share love with someone else, and we decided to share love all the way to Africa for kids who really need these shoes."

Students and friends brought recycled jeans and food cartons and cut out the shapes needed to make shoes. They also cut plastic pieces out of milk, orange juice and tea cartons that will be put in the heels of the shoes.

Lynda Langston, who visited the class on April 10 to tell the kids how many shoes they had made possible, said each shoe bag has 12 different denim pieces.

"So we cut out 792 pieces," she said, congratulating the students on their hard work.

"It was hard to cut out the cartons, but I liked doing it," first-grader Brylie Hunt said. "I hope they like their shoes."

Students also brought rubber gloves, pens and other first aid items to send with the shoes.

> "I brought lots of stuff like gauze and Band-Aids and stickers to make the kids feel better when their feet get poked at the hospital. I can't imagine not having a pair of shoes. I have some; why can't other kids have some, too?"

> Abe Ramsey, second-grader

"I brought lots of stuff like gauze and Band-Aids and stickers to make the kids feel better when their feet get poked at the hospital," second-grader Abe Ramsey said. "I can't imagine not having a pair of shoes. I have some; why can't other kids have some, too?"

He wondered aloud what it would be like not to have a single pair of shoes.

"It would probably hurt, because on the playground, walking on the wood chips would hurt," Abe said. "I feel lucky to have shoes now, and I think they will feel super excited to get them. I feel happy that I can help them."

He said he felt inspired to use recycled materials when he grows up.

"I want to be an electrical engineer, and I'll try using recycled materials to do it — maybe get the plastic from milk cartons and things like that," Abe said. "I hope others will use more recycled materials, too."

Dunn, Dominguez aim for regional berths

By Christopher Hadorn
chadorn@mrt.com

Lee senior Jorrdyn Dunn had a District 2-6A track meet to remember.

Dunn was his school's most decorated athlete, as he garnered one gold medal, one silver and two bronzes to help contribute 44 points to the Lee boys' score on April 11-12 in San Angelo.

Dominguez

However, Dunn isn't resting on his laurels. Dunn is hoping to carry the momentum into today's Districts 1-6A/2-6A Area Track and Field Championships at Peoples Bank Stadium in Wolfforth.

Dunn will be among 14 Lee area meet invitees that are hoping to qualify for the Region I-6A Track and Field Championships, April 28-29 in Arlington, with top four finishes today.

Dunn knows it won't be easy, as he has never competed in a regional meet.

"I just want to stay focused and work harder than before, keep on my mind that this might be my last track meet," Dunn said. "I just keep going hard and striving for what I really want and I will come out as a winner."

"This meet is going to be the meet for me go all out hard and make it to regionals," Dunn added.

In 2016, Dunn was slowed by a hip injury that led to a late start to the track season. At last year's area meet, Dunn missed a regional berth by one spot after he finished fifth in the boys long jump.

Now healthy, Dunn has blossomed into a standout in both the 300-meter hurdles and long jump, and is a key cog on Lee's 400 relay and 800 relay teams.

Dunn had a scare at the District 2-6A meet, as he fell on his last hurdle during the 300-meter hurdle prelims, but was able to get up and secure a third-place finish.

Unshaken by his tumble, Dunn came back to win the 300-meter hurdle finals with a time of 39.90 seconds.

"Anything or anyone can make a difference in the hurdles," Dunn said. "You can fall, you can trip. Someone can come up from behind while you're not noticing and go off the wrong way, that can make the difference too. You just have to keep running hard and try to

Enjoying the dominance

Hernandez, Rebels relish no-hit outing

By Will Korn
wkorn@mrt.com

Lee's 2-1 District 2-6A win in eight innings Tuesday at Wolfforth Frenship was an evening of baseball the Rebel players might remember forever.

That is certainly the case for Lee's starter that night — senior left-hander Wyatt Hernandez — and his battery mate, junior catcher Colby Standard.

Wade

In a contest with critical playoff seeding implications, Hernandez battled through six tense, no-hit innings before being relieved by the hard-throwing John Wuthrich, who sealed the win with two no-hit innings himself.

"It's definitely (a game) I'll remember for probably the rest of my life," Hernandez said. "It was just one of those days where you feel good, you feel good about what's behind you and just kind of throw."

Hernandez allowed an unearned run while striking out six and walking five on 101 pitches, as he held down a lineup that had Frenship in first place for two weeks.

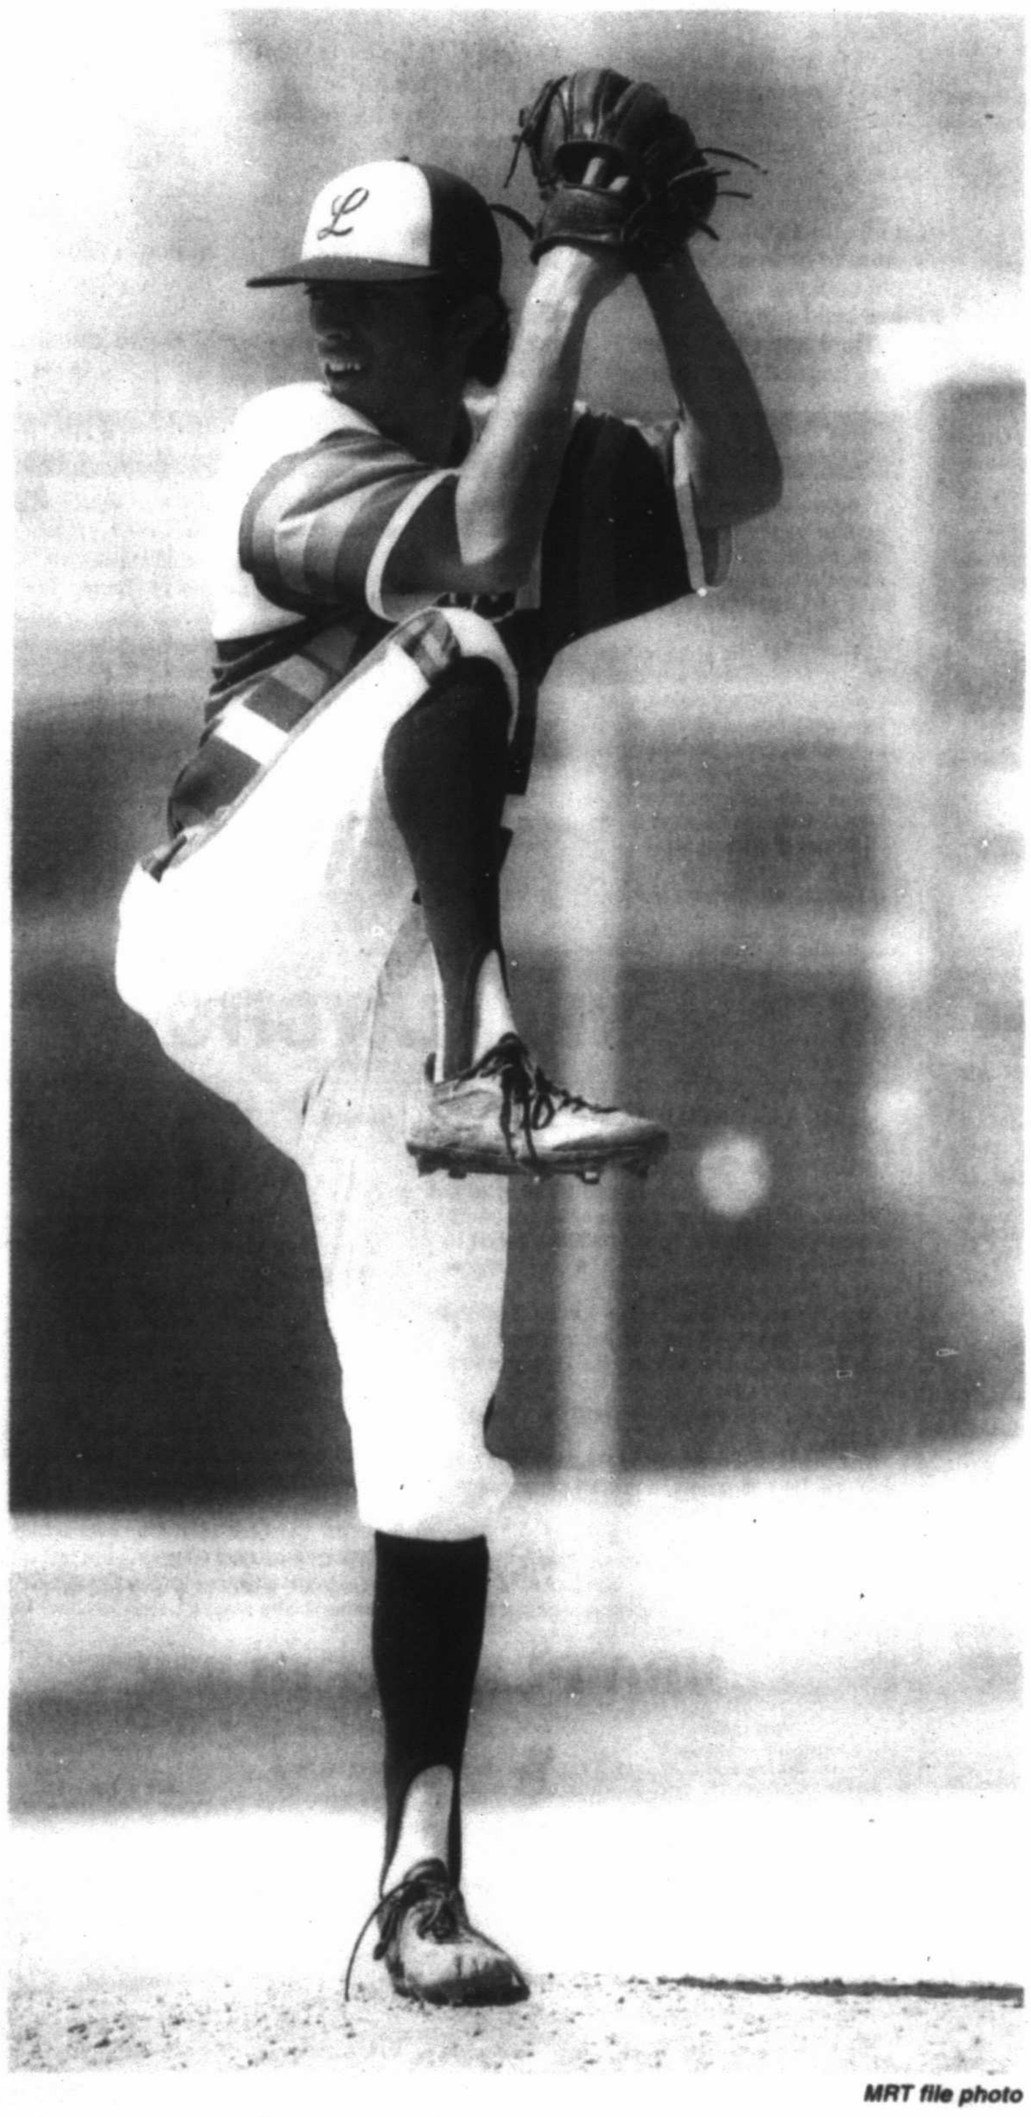

With the Rebels' pitching staff down a pair of key right-handed starters in Bo Blessie and Brayden Payne, Hernandez has been asked to step up his game down the stretch of the district season.

He said having a catcher with a comforting presence such as Standard helped keep him in control against the Tigers in such a pivotal game.

"I just trust Colby and he calls a good game every time he's caught for me," Hernandez said. "I don't shake him off, because I believe in him, he believes in me and I know we'll get the job done."

Standard, who drove in the game's winning run with a single to center field in the top of the eighth, knew he was witnessing something special from his view behind the

ROCKHOUNDS NOTEBOOK

'Hounds aiming to crank up offense early

By Christopher Hadorn
chadorn@mrt.com

The good news is the Midland RockHounds are keeping the runs off the scoreboard in the early going.

The bad news is the RockHounds are having trouble scoring runs.

Riordan

Midland returned to Security Bank Ballpark Thursday, while beginning a four-game home series against the San Antonio Missions, in last place of the South Division standings at 5-7, following its first road trip of the season in which it went 2-4 at Tulsa and Springfield.

The eight-man piggyback starting rotation is doing the job thus far for the RockHounds, as they entered Thursday with the third-best team earned run average (3.20) in the Texas League.

On the other hand, Midland was shutout twice on the road trip, and ranks next to last in batting average (.241) and runs scored (46) in the Texas League.

"Our pitching has been very solid," RockHounds manager Fran Riordan said. "The eight-man rotation depending on the given night has worked out so far. It's just a matter of pushing a few more runs across the plate on offense and making the plays on the defense. I think overall in all three aspects of the game we're playing pretty well, but there are some things that could be tightened up."

2 RockHounds move up to Nashville

Oakland Athletics starting shortstop Marcus Semien underwent right wrist surgery earlier this week, causing a chain reaction in transactions within the A's organization.

Former RockHounds player and 2015 Texas League Player of the Year Chad Pinder was promoted from Triple-A Nashville to Oakland to take Semien's big league roster spot, and infielder Melvin Mercedes was moved up from Midland to Nashville.

Mercedes, 25, was hitting .313 with a .389 on-base percentage in 16 at-bats with the RockHounds.

Utility player Jean Carlo Rodriguez joined Midland from extended spring training to take Mercedes' spot.

Rodriguez, 21, has played every position except right field in his professional career.

"He even caught a little bit in low-A last year," Riordan said of Rodriguez. "I had the pleasure of managing him in (low Single-A) Beloit last year. He is a great kid. He loves the game. He plays the game hard. He can do a lot of things, so it was a good replacement for Melvin and we're happy to have him."

The RockHounds also lost right-handed pitcher Corey Walter via a promotion to Nashville at the end of the road trip.

Walter, a member of Midland's piggyback rotation, was 1-0 with an 0.82 earned run average in 11 innings pitched.

Riordan planned to use his bullpen to fill Walter's piggyback starting rotation spot, as he was scheduled to be paired with Midland left-handed pitcher Brandon Mann on Thursday. Riordan

MC's Chastain eager for more opportunities

By Oscar LeRoy
oleroy@mrt.com

Elizabeth Chastain admits she surprised herself after last weekend's performance.

Chastain

Getting some playing time at second base because of an injury to Kassie Maddox, the freshman infielder and Odessa Permian grad stepped up for the No. 11 Midland College softball team last weekend against Western Texas College. In three games, Chastain went 5-for-10 at the plate, with three home runs, a double, seven RBI and four runs scored as MC went 2-1 in those games.

"It makes me feel a little better about my playing," said Chastain about her performance over the weekend. "I haven't been playing a lot since Kassie is really good, so whenever I do get to play I just try to do the best I can do. I have just been trying to hit really well, especially when we really need it."

The Lady Chaps (30-11, 15-5 in Western Junior College Athletic Conference) hope to get some performances like that this weekend when they play a key four-game series against No. 16 Howard College (36-11 19-1). The teams play a doubleheader at the Midland College softball field at 1 p.m. today, before the series switches to Big Spring for a doubleheader beginning at 1 p.m. Saturday.

MC coach Tommy Ramos said Maddox will continue to be limited with a sore knee, which may mean more opportunities for Chastain. Ramos said the way Chastain's been developing, he won't hesitate to use her more.

"I just felt like the last couple of weeks, she has definitely picked up her excitement and energy and has really gone hard in practice," Ramos said. "She's always been one that's been willing to adjust and move to different positions on the field. When the opportunity opened up for her last week, she stepped up, she was ready."

Ramos said he's known Chastain since she was 12, and even at that age she displayed the quiet confidence she has

NO. 12 MIDLAND COLLEGE AT CLARENDON COLLEGE

When/where: Doubleheaders of 7 and 9 innings beginning at noon today and Saturday, Clarendon College baseball field, Clarendon

Records: Midland College 33-11, 21-3 in Western Junior College Athletic Conference; Clarendon College 23-19, 14-10

Last WJCAC series: Midland College 3, Western Texas College 1; Odessa College 3, Clarendon College 1

Notes: The Midland College baseball team will be heading on its longest road trip of the year so far in the WJCAC this weekend, which is always a test. ... MC has won four of its last five games, including an 11-6 non-conference win on Wednesday in which sophomore Eric Senior hit his team-leading 16th home run on the year, which also ranks third in the NJCAA. His 79 RBI on the season also leads the nation. Clarendon dropped three out of four games at Odessa College last weekend but is also coming off a non-conference 12-6 win on Wednesday against Seward County Community College. ... As a team, the Bulldogs rank fifth in the WJCAC with a .333 team batting average, and rank sixth in team ERA at 7.43. By comparison, MC is third in the WJCAC with a .346 batting average and first with a 5.62 team ERA. ... The Chaps will stick to the usual rotation of sophomore right-handers Calan Johnson (6-0, 3.73 ERA) and Brock Barger (7-1, 3.62) starting in the first and second games, respectively. RHP Jonathan Nicholson (9-0, 3.26) will start Saturday's first game, while the series finale's starter will be determined by who's left out of the bullpen.

"You don't see her frustrated, and I think that's good because that sets an example for other freshmen," Ramos said. "She's very patient and works hard. That's why she stepped up in the moment we needed, she was ready for her moment."

Chastain said that she's never been the most vocal person, but added that high school coaches would tell her she led more by example.

"My mom is the same way. I guess I get it from her," she said. "She's quiet but she's self-confident too."

Chastain said it's going to be important for her team to be confident but not cocky going into this weekend's big series.

The Lady Chaps hope they learned their lessons from the series against Odessa College earlier this season. In that big series, MC was swept by the Lady Wranglers.

"Even before (Odessa) series, I talked to (the Lady Chaps) about how competitive (the conference) is," Ramos said. "I told them, 'You've got to show up. I can't be your energy, I can't have your attitude. That effort and energy, you have to bring that to the game. I can't be that force for you.' I don't think they quite believed me, but I think after that series they realized the importance of having a good week of practice, preparing to play well. We'll see. We've had a couple of good days of practice where we've had a lot of energy and effort and we hope that carries over."

Now Chastain and the Lady Chaps look for a good showing against another of their big rivals.

"We need confidence but not get too cocky," she said. "We need to go out there knowing that we can. The opponent doesn't matter, we're just going out to play a game we all know how to play."

NBA PLAYOFFS

FROM WIRE REPORTS

CAVALIERS 119
PACERS 114

INDIANAPOLIS — LeBron James finished with 41 points, 13 rebounds and 12 assists, and the Cleveland Cavaliers set an NBA postseason record by erasing a 25-point halftime deficit to beat the Indiana Pacers 119-114 on Thursday night and take a 3-0 lead.

James passed Kobe Bryant for No. 3 on the NBA's career playoff scoring list and tied another NBA record by winning his 20th consecutive first-round game.

The Cavaliers will try to sweep the series Sunday.

The incredible rally ruined Paul George's big night. He had 36 points, a playoff career-high 15 rebounds and nine assists.

Cleveland trailed by 26 in the first half and was still down 74-49 at halftime. The largest halftime deficit overcome to win a playoff game had been 21 points by Baltimore against Philadelphia in 1948.

BUCKS 106
RAPTORS 100

TORONTO — Kyle Lowry shrugged off his Game 1 struggles in style, and got the Raptors back on level terms.

Lowry scored 22 points, including the clinching basket with less than 10 seconds to play, and Toronto beat the Milwaukee Bucks 106-100 on Tuesday night, evening their first-round playoff series at 1-1.

"I've been in the trenches with him before and he's always bounced back," Raptors coach Dwane Casey said.

DeMar DeRozan had 23 points, Serge Ibaka added 13 of his 16 in the second half and Jonas Valanciunas had 10 points and 10 rebounds for the Raptors, who improved to 5-1 when playing Game 2 of a playoff series on their home court.

FROM WIRE REPORTS

RANGERS 2
CANADIENS 1

NEW YORK — After a lackluster performance in a Game 3 loss, the New York Rangers came out aggressive early on Tuesday night. They managed the puck better and kept the pressure off their own net.

And now their series against Montreal is even.

Rick Nash and Jesper Fast scored, Henrik Lundqvist made 23 saves and the Rangers beat the Canadiens 2-1 to tie their first-round playoff series at two games apiece.

"The guys were playing on their toes," Rangers defenseman Ryan McDonagh said. "They wanted to compete, wanted to battle and wanted the puck on their sticks."

BLUE JACKETS 5
PENGUINS 2

PITTSBURGH — Sidney Crosby and Scott Wilson scored 51 seconds apart in the third period, helping the Pittsburgh Penguins eliminate the Columbus Blue Jackets with a 5-2 win in Game 5 of their first-round series on Thursday night.

Bryan Rust scored twice for Pittsburgh, Phil Kessel added his second of the playoffs and Marc-Andre Fleury finished with 49 saves. The defending Stanley Cup champions will face the winner of the Toronto-Washington series in the conference semifinals starting next week.

William Karlsson and Boone Jenner scored for the Blue Jackets, but Sergei Bobrovsky stopped just 27 of 32 shots to finish a forgettable series.

PREDATORS 4
BACKHAWKS 1

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Roman Josi scored twice, Pekka Rinne had 30 saves and the Nashville Predators beat the Chicago Blackhawks 4-1 on Thursday night to complete a surprising sweep of the Western Conference's top seed.

Colton Sissons also scored and Viktor Arvidsson added an empty-net goal as Nashville completed the franchise's first playoff sweep. Led by Rinne and a terrific defensive performance by their lines and defensive pairings, the Predators limited the high-scoring Blackhawks to just three goals in 13 periods.

Nashville will face the winner of the St. Louis-Minnesota series in the second round.

MISSIONS 9, ROCKHOUNDS 5
At Security Bank Ballpark

TOP HITTERS: San Antonio's Nick Schulz was 4-for-6 with a home run, two RBI and two runs scored. ... Missions shortstop Luis Urias, the youngest player in the Texas League at age 19, went 4-for-5 with two doubles, an RBI, two runs and a sacrifice bunt. ... Brett Vertigan had two hits and two runs for Midland.

TOP PITCHERS: San Antonio's Rafael DePaula picked up the win in relief after holding Midland to one hit and no walks over two innings, while striking out three. After DePaula's exit, Missions righty Adam Cimber induced five straight ground outs over 1 2/3 hitless innings and lefty Brad Wieck followed with 1 1/3 perfect innings.

HIGHLIGHTS: San Antonio scored runs in each of the first five innings to take an 8-3 lead. ... The Missions scored three runs in the top of the first, as Franmil Reyes had an RBI single and Fernando Perez following with a two-run single. ... Midland cut the Missions' lead to 3-2, as B.J. Boyd provided a two-run single in the bottom of the first. ... San Antonio added a run in both the second and third innings before Schulz's mammoth homer to center in the fourth. ... Urias' hard hit double deep to center scored Austin Bousfield in the fifth, extending Missions' lead to 8-3.

NOTES: Midland's J.P. Sportman doubled in the first inning to extend his hitting streak to 12 games. ... The RockHounds dropped their third straight game and the first in a four-game home series against San Antonio. ... Midland scored two runs on two wild pitches by San Antonio reliever Justin Hancock in the ninth.

TODAY'S PROBABLES: San Antonio - RHP Brett Kennedy (0-0, 2.70 ERA); Midland - RHP Grant Holmes (1-1, 4.76)

ROCKHOUNDS

said there could be another roster move soon, as the RockHounds played Thursday with a man short of the 25-man player maximum.

BOYD BOUNCES BACK FROM AILMENT

RockHounds outfielder B.J. Boyd went 4-for-11 with three doubles and three RBI during the three-game series at Springfield after missing the Tulsa series because of food poisoning.

"I got hungry late night, ordered some Dominos (Pizza)," Boyd said. "I kind of woke up in the middle of the night at 3, I kind of felt hot. I started sweating a little bit. I ran to the bathroom, just throwing up and I had diarrhea.

"I got to the field and I tried to play it off like I was all good. I got to (batting practice), I couldn't really swing the bat. I was way too tired. And then Fran saw it and then he said, 'You need just take a day off.'"

Frenship is assured at least the district's No. 2 seed. The Lady Bulldogs could potentially fall to the district's No. 3 seed with a loss and if third-place Odessa High (20-7-1, 6-3) beats Odessa Permian in its finale. MHS and OHS split the district series this season, so that scenario could be decided by a seeding game or a coin flip.

MCS captures district crown with wild win

From staff reports

NORTH RICHLAND HILLS — Thanks to a seven-run rally in the top of the seventh, the Midland Christian softball team edged Fort Worth Christian, 11-10 to win the TAPPS Division II District I title on Thursday.

MCS (15-16-1, 5-2) led 3-2 after three innings, but fell behind 10-4 after the Lady Cardinals piled up eight runs over the fourth, fifth and sixth frames.

Zaitha Suarez and Courtney Monk each went 2-for-4 with a double and a pair of RBI for the Lady Mustangs, who collected 12 hits and survived three errors in the victory.

Clarissa Martinez got the start for MCS and she allowed 10 runs (five earned) on 11 hits, while striking out seven and walking six in a complete-game win.

Jessica Hooper, Macy James, Baylee Neff and Vivian Angelares also drove in one run each for the Lady Mustangs.

Beltran's first Houston homer helps Astros top Angels 2-1

By Kristie Rieken
Associated Press

HOUSTON — After hitting his first home run for Houston in 12 1/2 years, Carlos Beltran was asked to recall the last time he went deep for the Astros.

"I don't remember," he said. "I swear to God. I wish I could. Playoffs maybe. But I don't remember where."

Jake Marisnick also homered on Thursday in a 2-1 win over the Los Angeles Angels.

Beltran's previous homer for Houston came on Oct. 17, 2004, in Game 4 of the NL Championship Series against St. Louis, capping a postseason in which he hit eight homers with 14 RBIs in 12 games. He then left as a free agent to sign with the New York Mets.

Beltran's home run Thursday came with one out and the first inning off Matt Shoemaker (0-1), and Marisnick's second homer this season made it 2-0 in the fifth.

Beltran has 422 big league homers as his 40th birthday on Monday approaches.

"I don't get caught up in homers," he said. "For me it's about trying to put up quality at-bats. I think if I put quality at-bats, I know those are going to come."

Lance McCullers (2-0) scattered three hits and struck out eight over 6 2/3 scoreless innings as Houston won for the seventh time in eight games.

"We had a couple chances but not a lot," Angels manager Mike Scioscia said. "He's pitched us tough in this park and we just haven't figured him out yet."

Chris Devenski allowed home run to Mike Trout starting the ninth inning and back-to-back singles with one out before fanning Cameron Maybin and Danny Espinosa for his first save.

At 11-5 the Astros are off to their best start since 2006. They lead the AL West a year after a 7-17 start put them in a hole too big to climb out of last season.

Shoemaker allowed three hits and two runs while striking out seven in a season-high seven innings.

TIGERS 1

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — Steven Souza Jr. came within a single of hitting for the cycle, and Erasmo Ramirez (2-0), Chase Whitley and Tommy Hunter combined on a five-hitter as Tampa Bay Rays completed a three-game sweep.

Souza doubled in the first, hit a two-run triple in the second and added a solo homer in the eighth.

In the rotation because Jake Odorizzi strained his left hamstring, Ramirez allowed one run and two hits in five innings with five strikeouts and no walks.

INDIANS 6
TWINS 2

MINNEAPOLIS — Trevor Bauer (1-2) struck out seven in 6 1/3 innings, giving up two runs, three hits and three walks, and Carlos Santana had two doubles and two RBIs.

Ervin Santana gave up one run, four hits and three walks over six innings for the Twins, who are 1-5 in a 10-game homestand.

plate. It was the first no-hitter he has caught at the high school level.

"I could just see the fire in (Hernandez') eyes. He was competing his butt off and giving us the best chance to win," Standard said. "I didn't even realize it 'till after the game when everyone started saying we no-hit them. It was pretty special. It was awesome."

That battery duo will likely be called upon when Lee (11-14, 8-4 in District 2-6A) takes the field to begin postseason play in the coming weeks. But they said they'll be ready for the challenge.

"I think it really boosts (our confidence)," Standard said. "Me and Wyatt have confidence in each other and it just continues to rise and rise. Hopefully we'll continue that going into the playoffs."

Wade providing a spark as leadoff

Midland High has long been searching for an offensive spark to accompany a pitching staff that has been stingy most of this season.

Emerging sophomore infielder Tyler Wade just might be the Bulldogs' answer, with three district games remaining before the playoffs.

After a three-game experiment at leadoff early in the year, MHS head coach Barry Russell slotted Wade back to the top of the lineup on April 1 and has gotten encouraging results since.

In his last six games leading off, Wade has gone 11-for-24 with three RBI, five runs scored and two walks. He delivered the game-winning single in the ninth inning in MHS' 3-2 home win over Odessa High on April 11.

Wolfforth Frenship at Lee, 4:30 p.m.; MHS at Amarillo Tascosa, 4:30 p.m.; Odessa Permian at Odessa High, 4:30 p.m.

Wade said he believes he's settled in nicely with his new role. Perhaps one reason why: Opposing pitchers are taking a more aggressive approach against him to start the game, as they look to establish command with their fastballs.

"I'm feeling pretty comfortable because I'm getting a lot of fastballs up there," Wade said. "That helps out because I needed a reality check after the beginning of the year. But I'm feeling pretty comfortable now."

Wade, who is hitting .289 in all other games in which he didn't bat leadoff, said that even through his impressive recent streak, he has felt the increased pressure of reaching base to help set up the middle of the Bulldogs' order.

But he added that he has the trust of his coaches and teammates, which has been reassuring.

"I feel a little more pressure because I'm trying to do my best to get on any way I can," Wade said. "(But) It's a huge blessing to have them believe in me and it's really helpful whenever I'm up to the bat. I just think about them and it helps."

2-6a standings could get messy

With three district games left, District 2-6A's four playoff teams have been decided but much is still to be determined.

Following Lee's 2-1 win at Frenship Tuesday, the Rebels have gained the all-important head-to-head tiebreaker on both the Tigers (17-11, 9-3) and third-place MHS (14-13, 8-4). A Lee win against Frenship at 4:30 p.m. today at Ernie Johnson Field would give the Rebels control of their own destiny in their quest for a repeat district title.

The Bulldogs will travel to last-place Tascosa (5-21-1, 2-10) at 4:30 p.m. today but will wrap up the regular season with a critical home-and-home against Frenship. MHS needs to win both contests to gain the head-to-head tiebreaker on the Tigers.

Meanwhile, fourth-place Odessa High (17-11, 7-5) will take on Permian at 4:30 p.m. today before battling Lee twice next week. OHS won the first meeting against Lee, 2-1, on March 24 and could finish as high as second place with a sweep and some help.

Steers energized by big win at Greenwood

Approaching the final stretch of the District 5-4A season, Big Spring picked up some momentum with a 6-4, eight-inning non-district win at No. 19-ranked Greenwood on Tuesday.

The Steers' (13-13-1, 2-4) victory halted Greenwood's 11-game winning streak that dated back to March 3.

Big Spring head coach Daniel Carrillo said enduring that sort of playoff-like contest — regardless of the result — should fire up his team and get it focused on its final two district games.

"Playing a game like that is fun," Carrillo said. "I love this time of year. It was a great atmosphere and that's what playoff baseball is all about. We had some moments where we could have collapsed, but they've done a great job all year of staying the course."

Currently in fourth place, Big Spring is a half a game out of third place and one game out of second. The Steers will host fifth-place Snyder (12-12, 2-5) at 7 p.m. today with a chance to qualify for the playoffs.

MCS running out of time

With four TAPPS Division II District I games to play, Midland Christian is running out of time to jump into the playoff race.

After a promising 8-5 home win over Grapevine Faith Christian on March 24, MCS (7-19-1, 1-7) has dropped its last seven district contests and has been outscored by a combined 67-29 margin.

The Mustangs travel to Fort Worth Southwest Christian at 7 p.m. today and will wrap up the two-game set at 11 a.m. Saturday. MCS currently trails GFC (14-7, 5-3) by four games for the district's second playoff spot.

Branden Grace leads Texas Open by 1

Associated Press

SAN ANTONIO — South African Branden Grace had a 6-under 66 and leads by a stroke after the opening round of the Valero Texas Open on Thursday.

Grace had a season-best 11th-place finish last week in defense of his RBC Heritage title. He leads the 5-under 67s of Steven Alker, Stewart Cink, John Huh and Will MacKenzie at TPC San Antonio. Alker, a journeyman New Zealander who played in the final group of the day, birdied the final three holes.

There are 13 players packed two shots back at 4 under. That includes 2010 U.S. Open champion Graham McDowell and 2016 U.S. Ryder Cup member Brooks Koepka.

Two weeks ago, Grace was over par but still survived the cut at the Masters. He played the weekend in 3 under, and his best scorecard last week at Hilton Head was 68. The 66 on Thursday was his best round since Hawaii in January.

"That's the one round I was waiting for," Grace said. "I've been shooting the 69s and 70s, but not getting that one low round. This is nice."

His day took off with three consecutive birdies mid-round, including a 22-foot putt at the ninth after missing his only fairway of the day.

It almost wasn't as nice for McDowell, who's won twice on the PGA Tour since his U.S. Open title at Pebble Beach seven years ago.

"I made bogey at 11 from the middle of the fairway, (and) I ripped it down the middle of the 12th fairway right in the middle of a divot and duffed it out short of the green and made bogey there," he said.

Ian Poulter needs to at least make the cut to keep his PGA Tour card for the remainder of the season. That's in doubt now — no birdies until his 17th hole and a 75 has him well outside the top 100. He's playing on a major medical exemption granted after a foot injury caused him to miss most of last season, and he needs to earn $30,624 before the exemption ends this week.

Patrick Reed, who was born in San Antonio and was runner-up here a year ago, is three shots out of the lead after a 69. Ryan Moore, Reed's Ryder Cup teammate and who tied for ninth at Augusta this month, is another shot back with a 70.

Defending champ Charley Hoffman, co-leader at the halfway point at the Masters, shot 71 and sits just outside the top 50.

U.S. Amateur champion Curtis Luck of Australia opened his first round as a pro with three bogeys, but he holed a bunker shot from 75 yards for eagle later in his round to help him to a 1-over 73.

Spoils for a champion: Patriots open season hosting Chiefs

By Barry Wilner
Associated Press

One of the spoils of being champion: The New England Patriots will kick off the NFL season on Sept. 7 by hosting the Kansas City Chiefs.

New England earned that honor with its record comeback to beat Atlanta in the Super Bowl. Its opening opponent in a Thursday night game won the AFC West last season.

The Falcons visit Chicago in their first game.

The rest of the opening weekend will feature what seems like a yearly occurrence, with Dallas hosting the New York Giants on Sunday night. They finished 1-2 in the NFC East in 2016.

On Monday night, New Orleans is at Minnesota, followed by the Chargers, in their first game representing Los Angeles since 1960, at Denver.

Five games will be held abroad, beginning with Baltimore vs. Jacksonville in London on Sept. 24. The next week, Miami hosts New Orleans. In Week 7, the Rams host the Cardinals, followed the next week by Minnesota vs. Cleveland.

New England is the visitor against Oakland at Mexico City on Nov. 19.

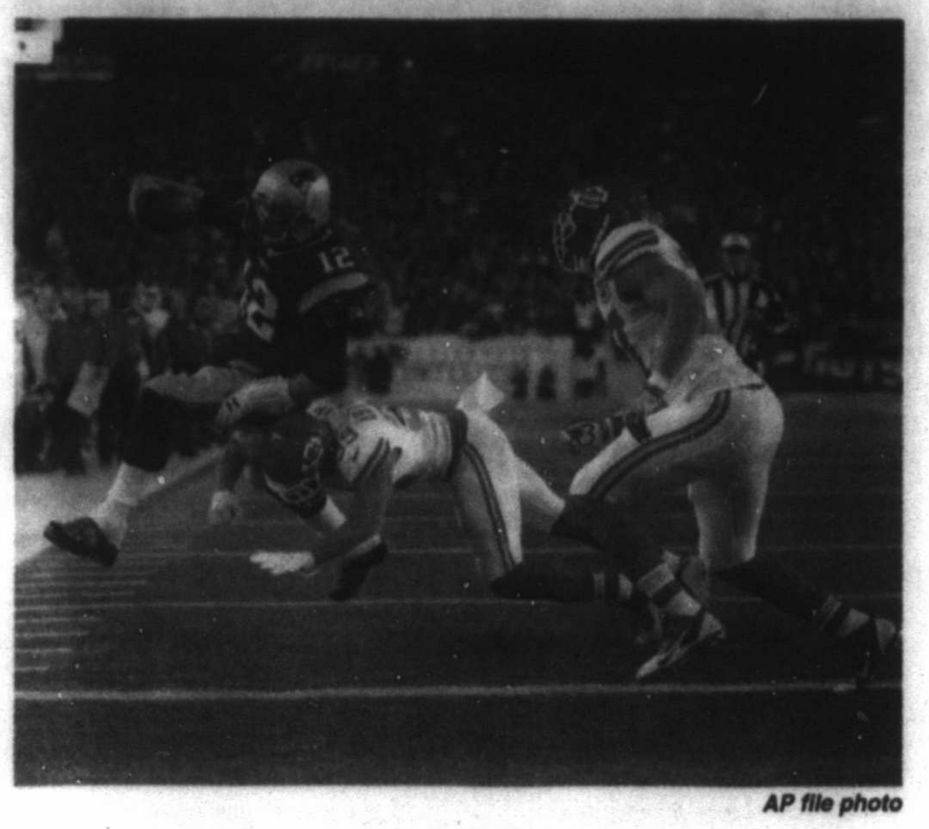

Thanksgiving's traditional games will have Minnesota at Detroit and the Chargers at Dallas. In prime time, the Redskins will be home for the Giants.

Christmas weekend will be busy. Two Saturday matches have Indianapolis at Baltimore in late afternoon, Minnesota at Green Bay at night on Dec. 23. Most of the rest of the schedule will be played on Dec. 24, with no night game. On Christmas Day, Pittsburgh will go to Houston in a late-afternoon matchup, followed by Oakland at Philadelphia.

The season ends when 2017 does, on Dec. 31.

The Falcons are scheduled to open their new stadium in an NFC championship rematch with Green Bay on Sunday night in Week 2. Atlanta has five prime-time games, the same number as New England. The Super Bowl rematch comes Sunday night, Oct. 22.

StubHub Center, the new and temporary home of the Chargers, will have its first regular-season contest in Week 2 when Miami visits.

BERTHS

finish through and not look back."

Like Dunn, Midland High senior Ashlynn Dominguez knows the feeling of coming up short at the area meet.

In 2016, Dominguez finished fifth in the girls 200 meters, missing a regional berth by one spot.

"That was a really sad thing for me," said Dominguez, who will play soccer at UTSA after graduation. "I was really depressed for a day or two. I really thought that I could have had my best time at that meet.

"But I'm coming back. I am doing the best I can this year, especially for senior year since it's my last year of doing track as I'm carrying on soccer for college. It was really exciting and depressing, but I got over it and now I am here to compete again."

Dominguez showed her true competitive nature at the District 2-6A meet.

Dominguez had been with the team for only about a week following the Lady Bulldogs' girls soccer team's run to the area playoff.

Showing no rust, Dominguez made a seamless transition to track with a stunning first-place finish in the 100-meter dash (12.59).

What made the gold medal performance even more remarkable is that Dominguez hadn't raced the 100 since junior high.

"This is what this team does, we compete," Dominguez said. "Right when I go on the (starting) line, I knew that I had to give it my all and I was really excited to come out with the win."

Dominguez's 100-meter win was unexpected and instrumental in the MHS girls edging Frenship, 138-126, for the District 2-6A girls team title, the program's second consecutive championship.

As one of 27 MHS area meet qualifiers, Dominguez will compete in the 100, 200 and 400 relay today. She has been to regionals before as a 400 relay and 800 relay member and she wants to leave an impression on her team's underclassmen today.

"Being a senior I have to set an example for the young ones, to see how far we can go and the potential that we have as a team," Dominguez said. "I have been to regionals twice. It's been really exciting. I'm looking again to go to regionals."

New study aims at stopping Alzheimer's before it starts

DEAR ABBY

Write Dear Abby at www.DearAbby.com or P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, CA 90069. Her column is distributed by Universal Press Syndicate.

DEAR ABBY: More than 10,000 baby boomers in the U.S. turn 65 every day, and enter the "age of risk" for Alzheimer's disease. I have witnessed the devastating effects of this disease in my work as a neurologist, as a clinical researcher, and sadly, in my own family.

The good news is that we are now starting prevention trials to try to stop memory loss before it begins! The A4 (Anti-Amyloid Treatment in Asymptomatic Alzheimer's) Study is the first clinical trial designed for people who have the earliest signs of Alzheimer's disease beginning in the brain, but don't yet have any symptoms of the disease. The A4 Study is enrolling healthy 65- to 85-year-olds across the country who may be at risk for memory loss because of Alzheimer's disease.

I feel a new sense of hope, but we really need volunteers to join us. Our motto for the A4 Study is "Now is the time," and now really IS the time to make a difference in defeating Alzheimer's disease. I hope your readers who are interested will call (toll-free) (844) 247-8839 or visit A4study.org to receive more information or to join us. — REISA SPERLING, M.D., PROJECT DIRECTOR, HARVARD MEDICAL SCHOOL

DEAR DR. SPERLING: I'm pleased to alert my readers to your clinical trial. Living to a "ripe old age" can be a mixed blessing because the older we get, the greater the likelihood of Alzheimer's disease entering the picture.

Readers, Dr. Sperling is looking for subjects with a family history of Alzheimer's disease or who, through prescreening, have been discovered to have amyloid plaques forming in the brain. There are more than 65 study sites throughout the U.S. and several in Canada, so you may be able to find a location near you.

DEAR ABBY: I have been somewhat taken aback by two retirement party invitations I received lately. Both require an "entrance fee" of $15 to $20. I have never heard of or experienced something like this before. When I retired from teaching 10 years ago, I held my own retirement party at my home. I supplied the food and beverages and requested, "No gifts, please."

Is there a new custom that requires people to pay an admission price to a party? If someone pays to go to the party, is he/she also expected to bring a gift? Honestly, I'm a little put off being asked to pay to celebrate my friends' retirements. Should I be, or is this an appropriate request? — WONDERING IN OHIO

DEAR WONDERING: I don't blame you for feeling put off. I don't know who is supposedly giving the parties for your friends, but if you're being asked to pay for your food and beverages, it appears that no host is. If you pay to attend these parties, your PRESENCE should be your gift. And if you choose not to go, I wouldn't blame you.

Opening lead: King of ◇

The king of spades was almost certainly onside from the bidding, so the contract was cold as long as trumps split no worse than 4-1.

South, a careful declarer, gave some thought to the possibility of a 5-0 trump split.

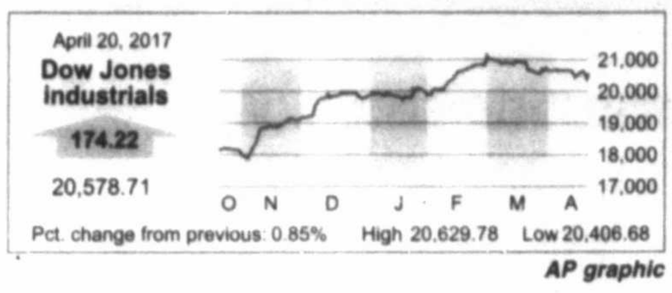

Nothing could be done if West held all five missing trumps, but there was a chance if it was East who held five trumps.

South won the opening diamond lead with dummy's ace and then made the strange looking play of leading a low trump to his jack. When West showed out, declarer had to go to "Plan B". He led his spade to dummy's queen and then discarded a diamond on the ace of spades. South now cashed three rounds of clubs, ending in the dummy, and led a spade. Had East ruffed high, South would have discarded a diamond and easily taken the rest of the tricks. East, however, discarded a diamond, so South ruffed the spade. Dummy was re-entered with a trump to the king and dummy's last spade was led. East was helpless this time. Another discard by him and South would ruff with his remaining low trump for his twelfth trick. East ruffed instead, and South shed his last diamond, claiming the balance. Well done!

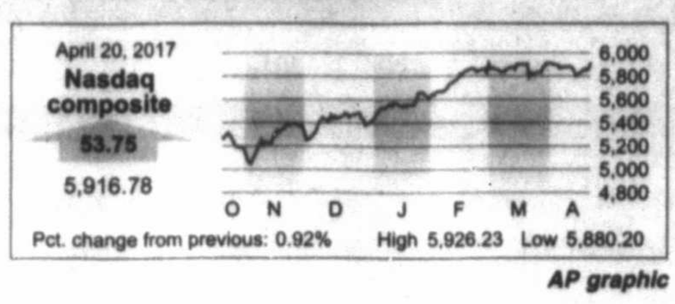

Note that the contract would have been defeated had South started trumps by leading dummy's king. He needed that card in dummy as a late entry for his plan to work.

Subway shuts hundreds of stores in historic retrenchment

Bloomberg

Subway Restaurants closed hundreds of domestic locations last year, marking the biggest retrenchment in the history of a chain that spent decades saturating America with restaurants.

The company lost 359 U.S. locations in 2016, the first time that Subway had a net reduction. The store count dropped 1.3 percent to 26,744 from 27,103 in 2015, but Subway remains the nation's most ubiquitous eatery. McDonald's Corp. is No. 1 by sales.

The closely held company is coping with a sales slowdown in the U.S., made worse by the emergence of newer fast-casual rivals and the industry's heavy reliance on discounts and promotions. Subway also has lost some of its luster as a healthier-food option. It's been working to restore its status by eliminating antibiotics from its chicken and switching to cage-free eggs.

In another bid to revive growth, Subway is adding delivery services — a strategy that's also been embraced by McDonald's. And it even unveiled a new, more contemporary logo. But so far, the changes haven't helped much: Sales fell 1.7 percent last year to about $11.3 billion.

Industrywide, same-store sales continued to slide in the U.S. during March. They dropped 0.6 percent in the fourth straight month of decreases, according to Miller-Pulse data.

Subway is still growing internationally, though. Last year, sales outside the U.S. rose 3.7 percent to $5.8 billion as it continued to open locations.

"Sales for 2016 reflect our focus on international growth," the Milford, Connecticut-based company said in a statement. "We are undertaking an exciting transformation that includes introducing new and improved products, creating an even greater customer experience, refining operations, and positioning Subway franchisees for continued success."

The sandwich chain also has been overhauling its management team. On Wednesday, the company said it's bringing on former McDonald's executive Karlin Linhardt to lead marketing for the more than 30,000 Subway stores in the U.S. and Canada.

Last year, Subway hired Katie Coleman to handle global public relations. She was tasked in part with helping the chain recover from a scandal involving former spokesman Jared Fogle. He pleaded guilty to child pornography charges and was sentenced to prison in 2015.

Subway, owned by Doctor's Associates Inc., was founded about 52 years ago by Fred DeLuca and Peter Buck. DeLuca died in 2015, leaving the company in the hands of his younger sister, Suzanne Greco, who became chief executive officer. The chain's restaurants are entirely owned by franchisees.

Buffalo Wild Wings activist Marcato calls for CEO to leave

Bloomberg

Marcato Capital Management is pushing Buffalo Wild Wings to replace its chief executive officer, the activist investor's latest move in its proxy fight against the beer-and-wings eatery.

Mick McGuire's San Francisco-based fund officially filed Thursday to nominate four dissident directors for election at Buffalo Wild Wings' upcoming annual meeting, after it said the company's board rejected an alternative plan to remove CEO Sally Smith and seek a successor.

Marcato on Thursday nominated McGuire to join the board along with Scott Bergren, Sam Rovit and Lee Sanders. It said Jerry Rose, a member of Buffalo Wild Wings' governance committee, had rebuffed Marcato's proposal to withdraw its nominations if just McGuire and Rovit were added and as long as Smith stepped down. The investor also released a new letter and 50-slide presentation outlining its criticisms and proposals for Buffalo Wild Wings.

Buffalo Wild Wings' "board has blindly stood by management as the company experienced sustained declines in customer traffic, comp-store sales, margins, returns on capital and guest experience ratings, made flawed capital deployment decisions, and continues to dismiss the merits of a more highly-franchised business," McGuire wrote. "The status quo is unacceptable — oversight and accountability must be restored and CEO Sally Smith must be replaced."

A spokeswoman for Buffalo Wild Wings said the company's performance has consistently led the casual dining industry over the last decade, generating total returns for shareholders of 1,697 percent under Smith's leadership since the initial public offering in 2003.

Marcato, which owns more than 6 percent of Buffalo Wild Wings, publicly disclosed its activist holding July 25 and has referred to meetings it's held with the company since June. Buffalo Wild Wings' responses have included vowing to increase stock buybacks and accept input, as well as announcing its own board changes.

Stocks rally

U.S. stocks climbed Thursday as industrial companies, banks, technology and materials firms and energy companies all rallied. A strong day of corporate results left investors feeling better about the economy.

For more than a week investors have been poring through company earnings for signs the economy is growing at a faster pace, and on Thursday they felt they found it. Railroad operator CSX gave transportation companies like railroads and airlines a big boost while Sherwin-Williams raised its annual projections and helped basic materials makers go higher.

It's still early in this round of earnings reports and a few high-profile companies have disappointed Wall Street this week, so stocks have wobbled recently.

The Standard & Poor's 500 index advanced 17.67 points, or 0.8 percent, to 2,355.84. The Dow Jones industrial average rose 174.22 points, or 0.9 percent, to 20,578.81.

The Nasdaq composite gained 53.74 points, or 0.9 percent, to an all-time high of 5,916.78. The Russell 2000 index of smaller-company stocks added 17.02 points, or 1.2 percent, to 1,384.15.

Metal prices end mixed

Gold rose 40 cents to $1,283.80 an ounce. Silver lost 14 cents to $18.02 an ounce. Copper rose 1 cent to $2.54 a pound.

TEXAS COMMISSION ON ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY

Notice of Draft Federal Operating Permit

Draft Permit No.: 02560

Application and Draft Permit. Navitas Midstream Midland Basin, LLC, 9303 New Trails Dr Suite 400, The Woodlands, TX 77381-5009, has applied to the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality (TCEQ) for a significant revision of Federal Operating Permit (herein referred to as Permit) No. O2560, Application No. 25340, to authorize operation of the Spraberry Gas Plant, a natural gas liquids facility. The area addressed by the application is located at 13701 E County Road 230 in Midland, Midland County, Texas 79706-8208. This link to an electronic map of the site or facility's general location is provided as a public courtesy and not part of the application or notice. For exact location, refer to the application. You can find an electronic map of the facility at: http://www.tceq.texas.gov/assets/public/hb610/index.html?lat=31.855&lng=-101.792777&zoom=13&type=r. This application was received by the TCEQ on October 3, 2016.

The purpose of a federal operating permit is to improve overall compliance with the rules governing air pollution control by clearly listing all applicable requirements, as defined in Title 30 Texas Administrative Code § 122.10 (30 TAC § 122.10). The draft permit, if approved, will codify the conditions under which the area must operate. The permit will not authorize new construction. The executive director has completed the technical review of the application and has made a preliminary decision to prepare a draft permit for public comment and review. The executive director recommends issuance of this draft permit. The permit application, statement of basis, and draft permit will be available for viewing and copying at the TCEQ Central Office, 12100 Park 35 Circle, Building E, First Floor, Austin, Texas 78753; the TCEQ Midland Regional Office, 9900 W Interstate 20 Suite 100, Midland, Texas 79706-2636; and the Midland County Library, 301 W Missouri Ave, Midland, Texas, beginning the first day of publication of this notice. The draft permit and statement of basis are available at the TCEQ Website:

www.tceq.texas.gov/goto/tvnotice

At the TCEQ central and regional offices, relevant supporting materials for the draft permit, as well as the New Source Review permits which have been incorporated by reference, may be reviewed and copied. Any person with difficulties obtaining these materials due to travel constraints may contact the TCEQ central office file room at (512) 239 1540.

Public Comment/Notice and Comment Hearing. Any person may submit written comments on the draft permit. Comments relating to the accuracy, completeness, and appropriateness of the permit conditions may result in changes to the draft permit.

A person who may be affected by the emission of air pollutants from the permitted area may request a notice and comment hearing. The purpose of the notice and comment hearing is to provide an additional opportunity to submit comments on the draft permit. The permit may be changed based on comments pertaining to whether the permit provides for compliance with 30 TAC Chapter 122 (examples may include that the permit does not contain all applicable requirements or the public notice procedures were not satisfied). The TCEQ may grant a notice and comment hearing on the application if a written hearing request is received within 30 days after publication of the newspaper notice. The hearing request must include the basis for the request, including a description of how the person may be affected by the emission of air pollutants from the application area. The request should also specify the conditions of the draft permit that are inappropriate or specify how the preliminary decision to issue or deny the permit is inappropriate. All reasonably ascertainable issues must be raised and all reasonably available arguments must be submitted by the end of the public comment period. If a notice and comment hearing is granted, all individuals that submitted written comments or a hearing request will receive written notice of the hearing. This notice will identify the date, time, and location for the hearing.

Written public comments and/or requests for a notice and comment hearing should be submitted to the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality, Office of the Chief Clerk, MC-105, P.O. Box 13087, Austin, Texas 78711-3087, or electronically at www.tceq.texas.gov/about/comments.html and be received within 30 days after the date of newspaper publication of this notice. If you communicate with the TCEQ electronically, please be aware that your email address, like your physical mailing address, will become part of the agency's public record.

A notice of proposed final action that includes a response to comments and identification of any changes to the draft permit will be mailed to everyone who submitted public comments, a hearing request, or requested to be on the mailing list for this application. This mailing will also provide instructions for public petitions to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to request that the EPA object to the issuance of the proposed permit. After receiving a petition, the EPA may only object to the issuance of a permit which is not in compliance with the applicable requirements or the requirements of 30 TAC Chapter 122.

Mailing List. In addition to submitting public comments, a person may ask to be placed on a mailing list for this application by sending a request to the Office of the Chief Clerk at the address above. Those on the mailing list will receive copies of future public notices (if any) mailed by the Chief Clerk for this application.

Information. For additional information about this permit application or the permitting process, please contact the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality, Public Education Program, MC-108, P.O. Box 13087, Austin, Texas 78711-3087 or toll free at 1 800 687 4040. Si desea información en Español, puede llamar al 1-800-687-4040.

Further information may also be obtained for Navitas Midstream Midland Basin, LLC by calling Mr. Brian Reese at (832) 463-4410.
