Snook To Continue Story Of Threats By Theora Hix On Witness Stand Today

DOCTOR SPENDS FIVE HOURS ON COURT STAND

Aged Mother and Brave Wife of Slayer Show Their Loyalty to Him

'ARRANGEMENT' MADE

Three-Year Affair of Snook And Theora Hix Told In All Details

By MORRIS DE HAVEN TRACY

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 7. (UP)—A story of elementals was unfolded today, in the trial of Dr. James Howard Snook for the murder of Theora Hix.

There was Dr. Snook himself, for five hours on the witness stand fighting the battle for self-preservation and using as his weapon the unfolding of a tale as old as man's first temptation—the story of a man and his mistress.

Wife Still Loyal

Then there was the drama of woman's loyalty, as revealed by Mrs. Snook who, dressed in white, her face flushed, came bravely to her husband's side and after raising her lips to receive his kiss, told what she could to help him before a gossiping audience.

Lastly there was the 73-year-old mother, fighting for her first born. Mrs. Abner Snook, tall, dignified and steeled to battle, turned on attorneys when they sought to stay the hand she was raising in defense of her child and fairly shouted that her boy Jim was a devoted son, who could do no harm.

Three-Year Romance

As to Dr. Snook's story of the man and his mistress, it was new only in its garb of this year of sex freedom—1929. It had started three years ago when the then professor of veterinary medicine and surgery at Ohio State university asked to take home in his car one rainy afternoon, the pretty new stenographer.

In three years it saw what started as only a "convenient and pleasant arrangement" for a man and woman, develop as such affairs have developed throughout history, until the woman's possessive instinct would not permit her to unloose her hold upon her man. Tomorrow Dr. Snook will continue his story until he hopes to show that he finally was provoked to violence.

Outstanding Points

Outstanding of the episodes in this recital today were these points which have strong bearing on the case at bar:

Dr. Snook's frank admission that within three weeks after he first met Theora a discussion of companionate marriage led to an "arrangement" for intimacy between them.

A recital that Theora, becoming interested in drugs because of her medical studies, finally experimented on herself with a long list of stimulants and narcotics—thyroid, thyroxin, atropin, and on two occasions cocaine.

A claim that Theora finally in-

Work Being Rushed On Duke-Eldorado Road

Special to The Record News.

ALTUS, Okla., Aug. 7.—Within less than two weeks time five miles of graveled road has been completed on the Duke-Eldorado highway.

This has been accomplished because road and weather conditions have been ideal for rapid work. All grading and bridge work on this highway will be completed this week, according to John Riley, county engineer.

MAMER SETS DATE

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 7. (AP)—N. B. Mamer today fixed Aug. 15 at 6 p. m. as the tentative time for his takeoff on an attempted nonstop, coast-to-coast refueling endurance flight. Art Walker will fly with him.

Heavy Rains Break Two Months Drouth in Parts of Panhandle

Precipitation Amounts to Two Inches in Places, Boosting Crops and Grazing Lands of District

AMARILLO, Texas, Aug. 7. (AP)—A drouth of two months and a heat wave have been broken by rain in parts of the Texas Panhandle.

The precipitation, measuring from a fraction of an inch to nearly two inches, was said by farmers to be of value to growing crops. Wheat land broken for fall planting also will be benefited they said.

An August record for Amarillo was broken when nearly an inch and a half of rain fell within 30 minutes, the weather bureau reported. The total was 1.70 inches.

Rains were reported west from Amarillo to Tucumcari, N. M. Wheeler, Dalhart, Texhoma and Channing had rains from one-half inch to an inch. Eight-tenths inch of rain fell near Pampa, greatly improving grazing lands.

RAIN AT CHILDRESS

Special to The Record News.

CHILDRESS, Texas, Aug. 7.—Rain was falling here late tonight and apparently it was general. If so, cotton and feed crops will be greatly benefited.

MERCURY PASSES 100 MARK AGAIN

Although temperatures were above the 100-degree mark Wednesday afternoon and the barometer remained at a low figure, heavy, dark, though scattered clouds gave considerable relief from the heat wave which has held Wichita Falls and the surrounding territory in its grip for the last 10 days. The highest temperature recorded Wednesday was 101 degrees during the afternoon, according to the report of the government weather station at the Texas Electric Service company. The maximum of 108 degrees, reported for the 24-hour period ending at 5 p. m. Wednesday, was recorded at 5 p. m. Tuesday, the beginning of the stated period.

Hopes that the low barometer readings indicated a change of weather were substantiated Wednesday with the appearance of the dark clouds and the issuance of forecasts predicting cloudiness and probable thundershowers for this section Thursday. Similar forecasts were made for East Texas and Oklahoma. Information issued by weather bureaus for the guidance of fliers indicated that moderate winds would prevail at the surface and that fresh, southerly winds would be felt at a slightly higher altitude.

QUARTET HELD AS MURDERERS

Two Men and Wives Named in Charges

CARTHAGE, Texas, Aug. 7. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Donaldson of Faulk, Ark., and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Jones of the old Center community, this county, here today were charged with murdering T. L. Carter on July 2.

Carter was brought to the jail here June 28 by Donaldson and Jones who told officers he was of unsound mind.

Four days later Carter died. Bruises on his back and legs led to an investigation that resulted in the arrest of Donaldson and his wife in Arkansas and Jones and his wife in Logansport, La.

The four waived preliminary hearing and were released on $1,500 bonds.

Prominent Vernon Woman Succumbs

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, Aug. 7.—Mrs. Nellie May Townsend of Vernon died early today in a Temple, Texas, sanitarium following an operation performed yesterday. Mrs. Townsend, accompanied by her husband, County Judge James V. Townsend, left Vernon Saturday for Temple for medical treatment. Her condition was not thought to be critical before the operation and news of her death came as a shock.

The body is to be returned to Vernon Thursday but funeral arrangements have not been perfected.

Mrs. Townsend had lived practically all her life in Vernon but lived in Washington, D. C., four years while Judge Townsend was secretary to Congressman John H. Stephens.

Surviving besides the husband are W. O. Anderson, her father, prominent banker and business man of Vernon, her mother, and two sisters, Mrs. Daniel Bond and Mrs. J. C. Sumner, both of Vernon.

Autopsy Over Body of Prohi Agent Starts Search for Elevator Man

DETROIT, Aug. 7. (UP)—Federal, city and county authorities renewed their search for John M. Heath, elevator engineer, when the report of a doctor's autopsy stated today that Richard J. Sandlands, government prohibition agent, had died of a broken neck.

Sandlands' body was recovered earlier today from the Detroit river into which he had been thrown or fell after a scuffle with Heath aboard the latter's yacht, Maxine.

Heath's version of the trouble aboard the yacht, given through his attorney, Max Finkelsten, described a fight which followed the prohibition agent's attempt to seize the boat without showing his authority. Heath has not been seen since early Saturday, a few hours after the fight with Sandlands.

His attorney and Maj. H. E. Tyrrell, government physician, attended the autopsy which was performed by Dr. Frederick Newbarr, Wayne county physician.

After Dr. Newbarr's findings, Finkelston said he would surrender Heath to police as soon as he could locate him.

MABEL TELLS OTHER SIDE OF DRY KILLINGS

Enforcers Are Slain as Well As Violators, She Reminds

DOESN'T EVADE ISSUE

She Admits, However, That Killings Cause Doubt Of Law's Success

THE INSIDE OF PROHIBITION
IV. Enforcing Prohibition By Murder

By MABEL W. WILLEBRANDT

(Copyright 1929, by Current News Features. All rights for publication reserved throughout the world.)

(In this chapter Mrs. Willebrandt, former assistant United States attorney general gives her hearty condemnation of unjustifiable use of firearms and explains the other side of the picture describing exciting battles which have helped swell the casualty lists of government agents.)

"Is it necessary for prohibition agents to kill 135 persons in the course of less than 10 years in order to enforce prohibition?" is one of the questions I have been asked many times.

Mrs. Willebrandt

I might make an evasive answer to this question by asking another:

"Does not the killing of 55 agents of the prohibition unit in the same period, the killing of six federal coast guard officers and the crippling of six others for life, and the killing of three narcotic enforcement officers and nine customs agents, indicate the necessity for the use of arms and force by officers of the government to deal with a vast class of desperados engaged in criminal violations of the nation's laws?"

Public Awakened

I have no desire, however, to evade the issue.

I not only believe, I know, that the violence which has accompanied enforcement or attempted enforcement of the prohibition law, has done more than anything else, probably, to instill in the public mind, the question and the doubt: "Can prohibition ever be enforced, and if so, is it worth the price in human life and the violation of personal and property rights?"

I also know, however, that all the facts about the violence that has attended enforcement of the prohibition law have not been adequately and properly submitted to the great body of the American people who are the jury which in the end will return a verdict on the enforceability of the 18th amendment.

Men Who Didn't Get the Drop

If I thought that enforcement of the prohibition law would necessarily entail continued killing and other acts of violence, and the outrage of private rights of persons and property, I would unqualifiedly

Mary MacLane, Egotist and Girl Of Thousand Loves, Dies Heartbroken

By W. F. SULLIVAN

CHICAGO, Aug. 7. (UP)—Mary MacLane, whose audacious pen once wrote "men came and went in my life in a never-ending stream, like a long, glittering galaxy of little gods," died here today—alone, unattended and practically forgotten by a world that had toasted, feted and admired her.

Mary the author, the supreme egotist who startled the world with her book "Men Who Have Made Love to Me," whose bold descriptions were translated into many languages, passed away in a rocking chair in a cheap $10-a-week room of a South Side apartment house.

It was the same Mary who with her "I, Mary MacLane"—probably her most daring book—brought the literary world to attention and moved from her lonesome surroundings in Montana to the gay and Bohemian atmosphere of New York, Boston and other cities of the world.

It was the same Mary who at the age of 19 had published "The Story of Mary MacLane," picturing herself the rarest of beauties, against the ugliest and always the most egotistical person the world ever knew.

And it was the same Mary who in her later years, wrote: "I am Mary MacLane, of no importance to the wide, bright world, and dearly and damnably important to me."

But today, the girl who told of her thousand loves, had no one about her she could call her own. Today when the "tomorrow" she often wrote about, will not arrive, an aged mother was sought in Montana as the only person who really wants to know.

After months of illness, at the age of 48, she died a victim of tuberculosis, according to doctors who were called. But her landlady, shook her head and said:

"No—loneliness and a broken heart."

Undoubtedly this was a contributing cause. To take Mary's own words for it, while she had thousands of friends, she needed but one. She wrote:

"I say to me in my mirror: 'It's you and me, Mary MacLane, and another wasting, damning tomorrow. Tomorrow, tomorrow and tomorrow."

Of her lovers and admirers, she had many, but she singled out the callow youth, the literary man, the prizefighter, the absinthe drinker, the middle-aged gambler, the younger son and the husband of another woman to describe in detail.

Story of the Youth

"Into my life one winter there blew a callow youth," she wrote. "I knew him first in St. Augustine, where I used to pass my winters. One meets a moneyed company there, from the darkest Pittsburgh and deepest Indiana.

"He and I used to amble together at sunset when the bells in the ancient cathedral sent languid chimes out over the sea, and low waves splashed the seawall and moontide and the sky was of opals and amethysts."

Then she described her conversations with the callow youth in the romantic atmosphere she had pictured, and ended:

"'Twas full three weeks before he bored me."

WICHITAN DIES IN AUTOMOBILE

Heart Attack Fatal for G. W. Goss, Inventor

George W. Goss, 54, inventor of several oil field devices and long a resident of Wichita Falls died suddenly in his automobile as he was being driven into Wichita Falls from Fort Worth late Wednesday afternoon.

Examining physicians said he died from heart failure and R. V. Gwinn, justice of the peace, who conducted an inquest, ascribed death to natural causes.

Loses Consciousness

Mr. Goss slumped in his seat and lost consciousness about 6 o'clock Wednesday afternoon as he and Vernon Nelson, son of a life-long friend, were nearing Wichita Falls. After trying in vain to rouse his companion, Nelson rushed him to a hospital off the Henrietta road where physicians pronounced him dead. Officials at the hospital summoned the police and called Judge Gwinn, who held an inquest over the body as it lay in the car in front of the sanitarium. Later it was placed in the hands of the Merkle Undertaking company.

In a statement made to L. V. Abernathy, county attorney, Nelson said Mr. Goss had been visiting his father in Fort Worth and had asked him to drive the car into Wichita Falls Wednesday. The older man said he did not feel able to drive the car himself, Nelson declared.

Eats Watermelon

Mr. Goss was more or less ill throughout the trip, his companion continued, and appeared to be asleep most of the time. He aroused enough, however, to enjoy a watermelon at Decatur, Nelson added. Mr. Goss spoke for the last time when the pair were about 8 miles out from Wichita Falls when he roused and said he was feeling better, the young man said.

When Mr. Goss failed to reply to a question, or to regain consciousness when he was shaken, Nelson became alarmed, stopped the car and asked a passerby for directions to the nearest hospital. By the time he reached the suburban institution, his companion was dead.

Mr. Goss had lived intermittently in Wichita Falls for many years. At one time he had been connected with an oil flow indicator company where one of his inventions was in use.

Mr. Goss is the brother of Tom Goss, millionaire rancher of Colorado City, Texas, and of Mrs. John Cole, of Robert Lee, Texas, and Mrs. Nell Aaron, of Fort Stockton, Texas. Besides his brother and sisters, he is survived by two sons living at Breckenridge. Funeral services will probably be held Thursday from the Merkle Undertaking parlors.

Illinois Woman Hangs Self in Hotel Room

CHICAGO, Aug. 7. (UP)—A woman believed to be Mrs. Mary G. Boggs, 50, of Hinsdale, Ill., hanged herself in the bathroom of her room in the Morrison hotel. Her body was found suspended from a hook today. She had used a scarf as a noose.

Eleven letters addressed to relatives and friends in Lincoln, Neb., and an envelope containing $9 to pay the remainder of her bill, $200 in money and checks and a diamond ring were among her effects.

Texarkana Man Faces Charge of Abduction

TEXARKANA, Ark., Aug. 7. (AP)—Dick Farr of Texarkana was ordered returned to Port Arthur to face charges of abduction after a habeas corpus hearing here today. Mrs. Margaret Wolfe was held under $250 bond as a material witness.

Farr, who was alleged to have accompanied Mrs. Wolfe here, was arrested at the request of Port Arthur officers on a complaint of Mrs. Wolfe's husband.

Virginia Becomes Battleground For Democrats and Cannon's Party

Dr. John G. Pollard, Dry, Nominated by 'Regulars' to Oppose Fusion Group's Candidate

By RAYMOND CLAPPER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7. (UP)—Virginia now becomes the first battleground on which the Democrats will attempt to recover territory in the once solid South lost to Herbert Hoover in the last presidential election.

This is assured by the Democratic primary, the results of which revealed today that Dr. John G. Pollard, who spoke for Governor Smith in the presidential campaign, was made the Democratic candidate for governor by an overwhelming majority running more than three to one ahead of G. Walter Mapp, author of the state's first prohibition law.

Cannon Opposes Pollard

Pollard is to be opposed by Dr. William Mosley Brown, nominated recently by both the anti-Smith Democrats and by the Republicans, meeting in separate conventions. Bishop James Cannon Jr., long a power in Virginia politics, is behind the fusion candidate. Pollard is the protege of the regular Democratic state organization which backed Smith in the presidential campaign.

The fight gains added bitterness because of the feud between Bishop Cannon and Senator Glass of Virginia, Democratic leader of the state, who is up for re-election next year. Many expect that if all goes well in the governorship fight in the fall, Bishop Cannon will seek to run against Glass for the senatorship.

Pollard Staunch Dry

However the Virginia fight is not in any sense to be a test of prohibition, for Pollard, though he supported Smith last fall, is dry. The fight will be waged entirely with an eye on the state situation. It will be a hand-to-hand encounter between the old-line forces which rebelled against Smith, joined with Republicans and carried Virginia for the Republican party for the first time since reconstruction days.

Mr. Hoover carried Virginia by nearly 25,000 last fall.

The primary is held to furnish little indication as to what will happen in the November election. Thousands of Democrats are said to have refrained from voting in order to be free to vote as they please in November—instead of being pledged to support the winner of the primary as is the case with those participating in a primary.

Pajama Clad Flier Encounters Cool Spell

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 7. (UP)—Cool weather greeted Ronald Daly, Muskogee, Okla., when he arrived from Tulsa and as a result his air and pajama tour turned southward again today towards Dallas. He has been riding planes here and there for a week, clad in pajamas, and expected to continue his pajama boosting tour another two weeks—"unless it gets too cool."

HOUSTON, Aug. 7. (AP)—A daring daylight bandit who commandeered the care of two insurance men after robbing them of $1,084 apparently had made good his escape tonight.

MOODY TAKES MAXIMUM TIME

Governor to Prune State Money Bills

AUSTIN, Aug. 7. (AP)—Indications were today that Governor Moody would use all the time allowed him under the constitution before acting on the appropriation bills aggregating $47,000,000 to pay costs of maintaining the government for the biennium beginning Sept. 1.

He has until Friday midnight to file the bills. He has worked on them two weeks while he attempts to whittle the total down to about $45,000,000.

There has been speculation as to what he would eliminate. It was reported that on account of the mounting cost of government he might cut $900,000 for new buildings at several schools and colleges.

Another item considered likely to receive the ax is the $40,000 for an underground water survey.

Floydada Officers On Trail of Burglars

Special to The Record News.

FLOYDADA, Texas, Aug. 7.—Officers here are seeking trace of burglars who early Wednesday morning broke into a business house, two garages and a filling station, obtaining $200 cash loot. The Barker Brothers garage sustained the loss. The Martin Dry Goods company, the Motor Inn Filling station, and the Guillion and Sons garage were also entered, the only loss being a small quantity of gasoline from the filling station. The robbers fled when they were seen in the act of prizing the door from the Guillion and Sons garage safe by a night watchman.

Newspaperman Killed In McCamey Car Accident

M'CAMEY, Texas, Aug. 7. (AP)—Howard Hart, former newspaper man of Dallas and Houston, died in a hospital here last night of injuries received a few hours earlier in an automobile accident. His skull was fractured.

RIGHTS DEFINED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7. (AP)—The rights of prohibition agents to investigate home manufacture of cider and fruit juices were defined today by Commissioner Doran, who instructed his agents that investigations in homes could be made only upon a bona fide search warrant.

Split-Second Judgment of Pilot Saves 10 When Huge Plane Falls

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 7. (US)—Ten persons were injured today when a Pickwick airways passenger plane was wrecked in a forced landing after two of its three motors went dead.

With three broken ribs and internal injuries, Mrs. J. J. Warner, 32, of this city, was the most seriously injured.

Only the fact that the airliner had a metal body saved the occupants from greater injury and perhaps death, for the huge plane was virtually demolished.

The plane was over the Los Angeles municipal golf course when first the right wing motor and then the center one sputtered and died.

Pilot Wood had only two or three minutes to select an emergency landing field. The crowded golf course was out of the question. The only remaining place was the waterless Los Angeles river bed.

The wheels struck the sand, stuck, and then turned over on its back, making a "ground loop." Passengers were jumbled together helter-skelter and their compartment crushed.

DIRIGIBLE TO CIRCLE OVER MISS LIBERTY

Eckener Announces Route Just Before Start of Voyage

CARGO CARRIED

Lady Drummond Hay And Sir Hubert Wilkins Aboard Ship

NEW YORK, Aug. 8. (US)—The Graf Zeppelin crossed the statue of liberty this morning at 1:40 a. m. on her start around the world. Rising from the naval air station at Lakehurst at 12:41 the German air liner made the flight to New York in 60 minutes.

NAVAL AIR STATION, LAKEHURST, N. J., Aug. 8. (Thursday)—(US)—In the deep darkness of midnight, the Graf Zeppelin soared away from Lakehurst late last night on the Hearst-Zeppelin-round-the-world flight.

Gleaming like a huge, phosphorescent fish in the moonless darkness, the giant airship hovered for a moment over the flying field, then, as the propellers gripped the air, she sailed away, swiftly disappearing toward New York and the Statue of Liberty, the latter the official starting point of the voyage round the world.

Score of Passengers

On board the Graf Zeppelin, as she started off on her 25,000 mile voyage around the world, were a score of passengers, a crew of 40 men, a Boston terrier, a baby alligator and a miscellaneous cargo. Only seven of the passengers will remain aboard with the crew after the Zeppelin's first stop, the home port of Friedrichshafen, Germany.

Among the round-the-world passengers are Lady Drummond-Hay, noted air traveler, Karl von Wiegand, famous correspondent and Captain Hubert Wilkins, the explorer. These three will write day by day stories of the flight.

Final Preparations

Shortly after 10 o'clock, the final preparations for the flight began. At that hour the passengers, who had come by special train from New York, stepped into a bus at the welfare house, community house of the air station, and were whisked to the hangar.

It seemed like only a moment before the voice of the good Doctor Eckener, shouted the first order to the ground crew:

"Stand by to walkout."

In a moment the ship was moving, propelled by two taxi cars, six trolleys and a crew of more than 400 sailors and marines.

In a half an hour, while the crowd outside looked on curiously, the Graf Zeppelin had passed through the great west door of the hangar and was floating lightly, just off the turf, in the middle of the field. There was a second order:

Precise Speed

"Standby to weigh off ship."

With precise speed, the German crew of the dirigible unloaded water ballast, to even the airship's keel. Then came the third and final order:

"Stand by for up ship."

All hands shoved gently and gracefully the Graf Zeppelin ascended a few feet in the air and her propellers began to turn over, slowly at first, but always with increasing speed. Now the dirigible moved ahead, and the epochal round-the-world-flight had begun.

Chicago to Copenhagen Planned This Month

ROCKFORD, Ill., Aug. 7. (UP)—Bert R. J. Hassell and L. H. Fredericks will begin a Chicago to Copenhagen air flight late this month, according to plans announced today. The trip, which it is understood will be financed by the Great Lakes Air Plane corporation, will be made by easy stages via Greenland, Iceland and Sweden.

duced him to take thyroid extract tablets which she was using to "pep herself up."

Charges Threats

Charges that during the spring of this year the girl's demands became so heavy upon him that he sometimes resisted and drew from her threats of violence to himself or of exposure before his wife.

That, in the weeks before June 13, when death ended the arrangement of this strange, bald-headed pedagogue and his student-mistress, she came to a point where she flew into rages, scratched, bit and slapped him—and then denied all knowledge of such actions.

A remarkable story of how he went to a man whom he did not know, asked him to go to Theora in New York, and in return for this favor, how Snook agreed that he would never see Theora again. The man was Marion Meyers, young farm crops expert of the university.

Demeanor Unchanged

Through all the five hours he testified Dr. Snook never changed demeanor except that by noon the light flush which was on his face at 10 a. m. had paled to a sickly yellow. He sat erect and military in his chair. He looked straight ahead. He seldom made a gesture. His clothing was carefully arranged and pressed, all grey and blue, but as a witness he failed to coordinate.

He showed no hesitancy in his manner. Even when he spoke of things which made the audience gasp and that was often.

Snook said his meetings with Miss Hix were frequent and intimate. It continued he said, for more than a year. Then Theora went to New York.

From New York she wired him that she had encountered difficulties in arrangement of her course of study at Long Island Medical college and Columbia university. She asked him to come and give her help.

Men in Agreement

"But I was too busy with my work," he said, "so I looked up Mr Meyer. I had seen him but never met him before. I told him the situation explaining that I had had heard about him as a friend of Miss Hix and he undoubtedly knew about me. I asked him to go and help her. He said he would if I would agree not to see Miss Hix again. I agreed and that night he left for New York."

The agreement was kept for several months, during which time, Snook said, he heard of intimacies between Miss Hix and Meyers, and then one day Theora telephoned him that she was through with Meyers and wanted to see him.

"She phoned about 5 o'clock one afternoon," he said. "I went to see her right away."

Then they established for themselves a room in a lodging house and in its seclusion Miss Hix told him of her affairs with Meyers and laughed at what she considered his lack of knowledge of the subject of sex.

Meyers "Favored"

"She made comparison of myself and Meyers which was in Meyers' favor," he testified. When attorneys demanded to know the details, he spoke them out without a change in voice or manner—the court room hearing at that moment things which court rooms have seldom heard before.

Miss Hix needed money and he turned over to her, first enough for a new cloak and finally all his earnings outside of his salary of $4,000 a year from the university. These earnings came chiefly from magazine writings. At the end of a year Theora had amassed a bank account of $1,030. She drew it then and returned it to him. The use of it, it was explained, was what she had wanted.

With the coming of summer the little room was abandoned. But when the winter of 1928 arrived another was procured. That was the $4 a week room at Mrs. Smalley's rooming house so often mentioned in the testimony.

Things were getting troublesome but were due to get more so for Theora suddenly developed a habit of personal violence, he testified.

He was inclined to attribute it to her readings upon sex subjects.

"At first noticed it," he said, "one evening when we were sitting in our room on Hubbard street. I wanted to read a magazine. She had gotten so if I did not give her immediate attention when I came, she would be irritable. That night she flew at me, slapped the magazine out of my hand, scratched me and slapped me breaking my glasses and cutting my nose."

After that, he said, frequently she flew into similar tantrums. But always she denied knowledge later of what she had done.

Mrs. Arthur Brown

Dallas Lady Helped Mother Get Well

"Ten years ago I started giving mother Nature's Remedy and she has kept away her spells of constipation, indigestion, sick headaches and pains in the back ever since," says Mrs. Arthur Brown of 93 Reiger St., in Dallas.

That's because those little Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) soothe sweeten and stimulate the stomach and bowels. Then the starch and sugar wastes can't remain in your system to form those acids which bind the bowels, sour the stomach and rob the blood of the red corpuscles it must have plenty of to keep you from suffering pain, biliousness, headaches, indigestion and rheumatism. You can get NR tablets in the 25c box at any drug store. More than three million are used in a day.—Adv.

Indians Worship Three-Headed God With Christian Songs

Mexico Expedition Finds Quaint Customs Among Jungle Tribe

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 7. (AP)—Indians who worship a three-headed god, to the tune of Christian songs taught their ancestors centuries ago by Spanish missionaries were discovered in the jungles of Quintana Roo by an expedition which just has returned to Mexico City.

Quintana Roo lies next to British Honduras on the southern boundary of Mexico.

According to an account by Professor Florentino Guzman, leader of the expedition, the explorers penetrated to Chunpon, the holy city of the Mayas. Chunpon is inhabited only by the guards of the temple who are supplied by the surrounding villages.

The temple itself is a mere hut. At 3 o'clock each morning caravans of natives arrive at Chunpon from the villages of the district, the praying beginning at that hour. The worshipers kneel and pound their hearts, singing and praying in a mixture of Maya, Spanish and Latin. The songs originally were learned from Catholic missionaries in the time of the Spanish conquest, nearly 400 years ago.

The explorers were granted the rare privilege of viewing the "tatich" or book which the native priests consult for practicing the religious rites. The "tatich" is of manuscript, written in Maya by a Spanish missionary in 1558 and setting forth the principles of the Catholic faith. The priests use its counsel to guide them in worshiping the three-headed god which sits on a pedestal in the middle of the temple.

HAGUE MEET IN TWO CAMPS

Disagreement on Young Plan Splits Delegates

THE HAGUE, Aug. 7. (AP)—With the nations at The Hague conference for putting into effect the Young plan thrown into two camps by Great Britain's attack on certain features, work today was divided into two sections in the interests of prudent diplomacy. Germany took a third position.

Separate commissions were named to deal with the political and financial angles, a division not necessary at the non-political Paris conference which formulated the Young plan.

Philip Snowden, British chancellor of the exchequer who had expressed his government's opposition to the reparation of the Young plan annuities among the allies, emphasized the firmness of the British attitude in an interview today.

His interview, which also brought out British opposition to the present conception of the bank for international settlements evolved by the experts in Paris, followed speeches approving the Young plan by the French, Belgian and Italian delegates.

Another Lawyer Enters In Suit Against Tunney

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Aug. 7. (AP)—An appearance as plaintiff's counsel in the suit of Mrs. Katherine King Fogarty of New York against James (Gene) Tunney, former heavyweight champion, whom she has sued for $500,000 damages in a breach of promise allegation, was entered in superior court here today by Frank W. Wilder of this city. He replaces Col. Lewis L. Field of New Haven who represented Mrs. Fogarty in the initial proceedings.

Colonel Field said that while he had not withdrawn from the case court matters in Connecticut would be handled by Mr Wilder. The notice given today was in keeping with required procedure.

Treasury Secretary Offers Resignation

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7. (AP)—Henry Herrick Bond of Waltham, Mass., resigned today as assistant secretary of the treasury to resume the practice of law. The resignation is effective Sept. 1.

Bond was appointed by President Coolidge on Nov. 7, 1927. He has had administrative supervision over the internal revenue service, the office of the comptroller of the currency, the bureau of engraving and printing, the mint bureau, secret service division and the office of the disbursing clerk.

Incendiarism Blamed for Fires Raging in Southeastern Oklahoma

POTEAU, Okla., Aug. 7. (UP)—Forest fires raging in Southeastern Oklahoma are the result of incendiarism, C. O. Doster, district forester, and John Craig, superintendent of the Choctaw Lumber company's land department, said late today.

With approximately 25 fires burning in different regions, both Doster and Craig said they could not have been started accidentally. Officials of the lumber company were unable to estimate the damage today.

Doster said that approximately 12,000 acres had been burned today.

The town of Ringold was menaced late today. One fire, burning about three miles northeast of the town, was creeping gradually toward the small village consisting of a postoffice and several isolated farmhouses.

There is no available water in the burning area. Effort was continued today in attempting to divert the flames toward small creeks.

Doster reported earlier today that only a drenching rain could put out the larger fires. The entire section, however, was subjected to the sun's broiling heat today. No relief was predicted by the weather bureau.

Ten fires were said to be under complete control today.

One new fire was added today. It started burning in the timber north of Bethel in McCurtain county.

Red Hill School Hearing Is Held

Special to The Record News.

ALTUS, Okla., Aug. 7.—A public hearing for the discussion of the advisability of annexing a strip of the Red Hill school territory to that of Duke was held at the Red Hill school Monday by Clay Kerr, assistant state superintendent of public instruction.

The county superintendents of Greer and Jackson counties together with a number of school patrons attended the hearing. The Harmon county superintendent was unable to be present.

The Red Hill-Duke consolidation history dates back to approximately two years ago when the district school board of Duke asked annexation with that section. Opposition to the consolidation was voiced at once and the case was carried to the supreme court.

The question has become intricate since the Red Hill district is composed of lands in Greer, Harmon and Jackson counties.

Kerr conducted the hearing in the hope that an arbitration might be effected. No report of action taken at the hearing has yet been made.

School began in the district Monday, Aug. 5.

Ozark Valley Church Meeting Starts Friday

Special to The Record News.

ALTUS, Okla., Aug. 7.—Revival services are to be conducted at the Ozark Valley Church of Christ, beginning Friday with S. S. Bozeman in charge of the meetings. The revival will last for 10 days.

Bozeman came from his home in New Mexico to conduct the meetings. He is, however, a pioneer of this community, coming here 33 years ago and settling near Ozark Valley. He helped to organize the Church of Christ there. Bozeman is 75 years old and has been in ministerial work 25 years.

How Schoolteacher Gained 18 Pounds and New Energy

"I am a public school instructor," writes Mr Linus L. Clark, "and from my study I was convinced that Ironized Yeast was exactly what I needed to put me in shape. I took only two bottles and gained 18 lbs. More than that, Ironized Yeast brought more energy, greater endurance and an improved complexion."

You can believe letters like this. Thousands who were doubtful at first write they gained 5 to 20 lbs. often in 3 weeks. "Skinny" limbs changed to graceful roundness. Skin clears. Tired feeling vanishes.

Only when Yeast is Ironized is it more effective—for Iron is needed to bring out the weight-building and strengthening values of Yeast. Pleasant tablets in a handy bottle. Safe for everybody. Never cause gas or bloating, no harmful drugs.

Go to any druggist today and get a full size treatment of Ironized Yeast. If after this generous trial you are not delighted, money back.—Adv.

ROAD BODY MAY VISIT BOWIE

Elimination of Overhead Crossing Urged

Members of the state highway commission will be invited to inspect the Colorado-to-Gulf highway just west of Bowie, with a view to eliminating an overhead crossing at the Denver railroad, as a result of a meeting of chamber of commerce and highway officers of this district there Wednesday.

D. M. Puckett, division highway engineer, and Hubert M. Harrison, general manager of the chamber of commerce, with Fred Young, Bowie chamber of commerce highway committee head, made a survey of the crossing in question, and will recommend the construction of an under-pass just west of the present over-head crossing, it was said. Mr. Puckett and Mr. Harrison also were consulted relative to a project now being inaugurated at Bowie for paving the main street of the city, it was said.

Last Survivor of 1871 Arctic Expedition Dies

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 7. (US)—Dr. Noah Hayes, 85, a member of the Polaris Arctic Expedition of 1871, died at the Milford Soldiers' home here today.

As far as known Doctor Hayes was the last survivor of the ill-fated expedition which was under command of the late Capt. C. F. Hall. The expedition ship was wrecked within 500 miles of the north pole and more than half of the crew was drowned.

Stamps Issued by Texas Cities During Civil War Bring Tidy Sums

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 7. (INS)—Who remembers the good old days when cities of the South could issue their own postage stamps and send a letter just as far with them as with government stamps now used?

Seven Texas cities are known to have printed and sold their own postage stamps during the days of the civil war. The stamps from those cities—Independence, Victoria, Helena, Beaumont, Goliad, Hallettsville and Gonzales—are now worth anywhere from $25 to $1,000 each.

The reason for the local issuance was that, shortly after the outbreak of the civil war, John H. Reagan, of Palestine, then postmaster general of the Confederacy, ordered postmasters to return all United States stamps to the postmaster general immediately.

Since this would leave the post-offices without stamps, Reagan gave the postmasters permission to "frank" letters as they saw fit. The practice was followed by postmasters who used pen and ink or rubber stamps to mark "paid 5c" or "paid 10c" on the outside of mail.

Enterprising postmasters of the seven cities named, however, didn't like the idea much, so they went to the local job shop and had batches of "regular" stamps printed for themselves. They could follow their own pet color scheme and use own original ideas in designing the stamps.

Body of Slain Reporter Returned to Indiana

LAREDO, Texas, Aug. 7. (AP)—The body of Harry Williams, newspaper reporter, whose body was found in the Rio Grande about a month after he had disappeared, was exhumed today and will be sent to his home in Munice, Ind. The removal is being made under Masonic auspices. Two former Laredo peace officers were given long penitentiary sentences on murder charges in connection with his death.

TRI-COLOR SCARFS

The tri-color idea is excellent for style this spring, when it comes to accessories. An enlivening addition to a suit or frock is a long narrow scarf that uses navy blue, maple leaf tan and emerald green.

Before Baby Comes

Comfort and ease for the expectant mother

UNLESS the muscles, tissues and nerves "give" easily as the abdomen enlarges, much pain and untold suffering may result. As the abdomen increases in size strains increase in intensity, exhausting the expectant mother with perhaps ill effects upon the unborn child. More important still, is to have the tissues and muscles as "elastic" as possible when the great moment of childbirth arrives.

Countless thousands of expectant mothers for over 60 years have used "Mother's Friend"—that time-tested, scientifically-prepared skin lubricant and pain-reliever, which originated in the prescription of an eminent obstetrician—and have been relieved of the strain and the pain, the discomfort and the nervousness that come from the distention and the stretching of the skin and the tissues, which attend this delicate condition.

You owe yourself the comfort "Mother's Friend" gives during the waiting months. It is soothing, relaxing, comforting! It is not a drug to be taken. It is used externally only—gently rubbed into the skin. Clean and pleasant to the touch. Brings relief promptly. Very valuable in keeping the breasts in good condition. Also puts you in fine shape for the approaching ordeal. "Mother's Friend" is on sale at all drug stores. $1.25 per bottle. A massage with it tonight will relieve your strained condition. A booklet on "Things to Know Before Baby Comes" will be mailed in plain envelope, free, on request. Address Bradfield Regulator Co., Dept. D, Atlanta, Ga.

CALIFORNIA TOUR PLANNED

Poultry-Dairy Motorcade Is Aim of W. T. C. C.

STAMFORD, Texas, Aug. 7.—Realizing that the growth and development of West Texas depends to a great extent upon the success of agriculture in its various phases, B. M. Whiteker, agricultural manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, is completing plans for the second West Texas poultry-dairy educational motorcade to California.

Under these plans the party will leave some central West Texas point about Aug. 20 for a 14 day trip that will carry them over 5,000 miles into the developed regions of California.

30 Expected to Go

Already 12 prominent farmers of West Texas have signed for the trip and it is expected that fully 25 or 30 will be ready by the time the date for departure arrives. Under the plan which Mr. Whiteker has outlined the trip will cost each man about $100. The trip will be made in a motor bus and will carry the party to numerous points of interest in California, giving ample time for the study of the advanced methods of production of quality eggs, cream, fruits and vegetables.

It is pointed out that California buys much of its feed stuff from West Texas and Mr. Whiteker's plan and idea is to develop West Texas along lines similar to those used in California.

Because of the great interest which the first motorcade of this kind aroused last year bankers and business men throughout West Texas have become more interested than ever before in this kind of development in West Texas. Last year's trip proved to be educational in every respect and the information brought back has created a deeper interest in the poultry and dairy business in the communities which sent representatives on the trip. It is Mr. Whiteker's hope that West Texas be made the poultry and dairy center of the nation and with a knowledge of progress made in California and other sections he is convinced that West Texas can make the same progress and development because of more favorable conditions than ever were prevalent in California.

Success Last Year

Last year's trip was declared one of the most successful of it's kind ever conducted from Texas. It is very likely several members of last year's party will make the trip again this year, for all were enthusiastic over the knowledge which they gained. Of those none are more enthusiastic than Garland Eubanks, cashier of the First National bank of Throckmorton, who is writing his banker friends in West Texas urging them to send representatives from their communities on the trip.

Okla. Cotton Seed Banned in Texas

AUSTIN, Aug. 7. (AP)—Having moved to protect Texas citrus fruit growers by banning importation of Florida oranges, lemons and grapefruit, Agricultural Commissioner George B. Terrell now has taken steps to aid cotton farmers in their attempt to stamp out cotton wilt.

A regulator quarantine against cotton seed from Alabama, Georgia, Arkansas and Oklahoma has been imposed, and under its provisions no seed can be shipped into the state unless the consignment bears a certificate that it comes from a non-wilt zone.

"We can depend only on the integrity of inspectors of the neighbor states," Commissioner Terrell said, "but I believe that the quarantine will be of distinct benefit in ridding the state of impure seed."

Cotton wilt cut the Texas output last year and when the disease made its appearance in the fields again this season the ban was decided upon.

COVEY TO RUN FOR FARM POST

Goree Editor Out for State Agriculture Office

Special to The Record-News.

GOREE, Texas, Aug. 7.—In answer to solicitations from all sections of the state, Elmer L. Covey, editor of the Goree Advocate, has announced that he will be a candidate for state commissioner of agriculture in 1930.

Mr. Covey served in the state legislature from 1922 until 1926 as representative of Knox, Foard, King and Hardeman counties. He was for several years superintendent of the Goree public schools, and for the past several years has been in the newspaper business. He was born on a farm in Collin county, Texas and is 41 years of age. He was educated in the Texas schools and has been very closely connected with the farmers and their problems all his life.

Mr. Covey states that he will have a formal announcement after the first of the year and will try to let the people of the state know his views on all state questions.

LAWTON HOST TO LODGE MEET

Noted Men to Speak at Picnic Today and Friday

Special to The Record News.

LAWTON, Okla., Aug. 7.—A joint picnic of the Modern Woodmen of America and the Royal Neighbors of America will be held at Craterville park, near Cache, next Thursday and Friday, the Royal Neighbors presenting Thursday's program and the Modern Woodmen the program on Friday. A basket dinner will be served on Thursday and a barbecue at noon Friday. Attendance of neighboring lodge members is expected to be large.

Competitive Royal Neighbor drills will be held Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock and a feature on Friday will be a log-rolling contest for which Frank Rush, park proprietor, is offering a silver loving cup. Teams from Duncan, Walters and Lawton will compete.

Scott Ferris, Democratic national committeeman for Oklahoma and former congressman, will address the meeting on both days. James Nance, speaker of the house of representatives, will also speak.

Lake View-Memphis Road Work Discussed

ESTELLINE, Texas, Aug. 7. (Spl.)—Citizens of Lake View and Memphis held a meeting recently at Lake View to discuss plans for paving the road between these two cities. The body decided to call an election at once for the purpose of voting bonds. It was expressed at the meeting that this road might some day receive state aid, connecting up with the Turkey-Estelline highway, which is soon to be paved.

Schools Near Alvord In Line for Bonus

ALVORD, Texas, Aug. 7. (Spl.)—The new rural school aid law, giving $300 bonus to schools effecting consolidation and paying half the transportation costs, will mean much to this section since Paradise, Boyd, Alvord and Greenwood are all eligible for some of the benefits.

Girl Evangelist Draws Big Crowds at Alvord

COMANCHE 4-H CLUBS HONORED

Contestants Take Prizes in Dress Contests

LAWTON, Okla., Aug. 7.—Comanche county lead all other counties in the state at the 4-H club roundup held at Oklahoma A. & M. at Stillwater last week, in the "appropriate dress" contest. Comanche county contestants took seven places. Nellie Ryan won first in the Southwest district and first in the state with a party dress; Ruth Wilson won first in Southwest district with a tailored wool dress. The following three boys won first place in the Southwest district: Francis John, appropriate dairy clothing; Hester Glandon, suitable work clothing; John Ryan, suitable street clothing.

The dress contest is something new in 4-H club work for children, the object being to teach the farm boy and girl appropriate clothing for all occasions.

The farm boys and girls of this particular section have long since "gotten the hay out of their hair" and present as neat appearance in public as their city cousins.

ATWATER KENT RADIO

Easy to prove it's the radio for you, too!

WHILE many are making claims and counter-claims, Atwater Kent is making sets and speakers—and sales. Up goes production in the largest radio factory in the world, to keep step with the demand for the new Atwater Kent Screen-Grid Radio.

Why should this one kind of radio be chosen above all others—everywhere? Try it yourself, and learn the answer from its mighty, controlled power—easy mastery of distance—needle-point separation of stations—simplicity—glorious, unruffled Electro-Dynamic tone .... See an Atwater Kent dealer and give it a personal trial. That's the way to find out that the better radio chosen by so many others is the radio for you.

ATWATER KENT MANUFACTURING COMPANY

On the Air: Atwater Kent Radio Hour—Sunday evenings, 9:15 (Eastern Daylight Time), WEAF network of N. B. C.

The top, ends and instrument panel of this console are of five ply striped walnut, rounded corner post of solid walnut, doors of five ply butt walnut, with diamond matched Oriental walnut overlays on side pilaster.

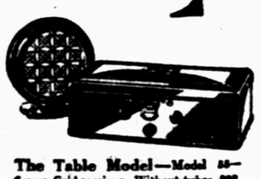

The front and frieze panels of this console are enriched by carefully selected butt walnut veneers. French doors are of striped Oriental walnut and the carvings and curly maple overlay are harmoniously blended.

Prices Slightly Higher West of the Rockies and in Canada

An exceptionally good looking model, finished in walnut, which meets the demand for the ever-popular high-boys. The Gothic arched molding of contrasting tone which frames the speaker outlet and the old gold fabric over the outlet, add considerably to the grace and beauty of this cabinet.

The Table Model—Model 55—Screen-Grid receiver. Without tubes, $95. Model F-4—Electro-Dynamic table speaker, $84.

SCREEN-GRID RADIO

Even at Bottom of Sea

The crew of the U. S. Navy submarine V-4 get radio entertainment through Atwater Kent direct current sets. The V-4 is the largest of our under-water vessels. Although it has a steel shell, filled with complex machinery, its officers say they receive programs from distant shore stations with the same clarity and volume they would expect in their homes on land.

27 Years of Making Things That Are Right

Atwater Kent Radio is seven years old. For twenty years before broadcasting began the Atwater Kent Manufacturing Company was making electrical instruments by methods of precision. Every Atwater Kent today is the product of long experience in making things that work with exquisite accuracy.

The public's liking for such things has built the largest radio factory in the world—recently doubled in size—now thirty-two acres. More than 2,500,000 families—more than a million in the past year—have chosen Atwater Kent Radio and found the choice justified in the performance. Now, with twice as much room as before, Atwater Kent can make not only more but still better radio.

Skipper Got Radio Music All the Way Across

On a voyage from New York to Port Natal, South Africa, the captain of the steamship Whitby heard New York and Pittsburgh stations 3,080 miles away, through his Atwater Kent receiver.

"This was not a freak," the captain writes, "because I heard these stations every night but one, when atmospherics were very bad. After getting out of range of the United States I picked up Cape Town, South Africa, a distance of 6800 miles. So actually, on a voyage of 9,000 miles I received 8,000 miles."

Bread An' Jam

A Daily Illustrated Poem For Children

By Wymond Garthwaite

POOH

There's no such thing as elfs and such
Or sprites or fairy-folk—
I never did believe in them—
They're just a sort of joke,
If you believe in things like that
You're just a little baby,
There's never even ghosts or spooks
Excepting—
Sometimes, maybe.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

This is vacation time. Every day we hear that Mr. and Mrs. So and So have gone to somewhere to spend their vacation. Or maybe, "Mrs.," for often father stays at home and keeps the bank account fit for vacations.

◇ ◇ ◇

Of vacations, we approve. When we were quite small, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," was indelibly impressed on our memory. We used it when we were tired of work. But one of the truest things ever said was "If a man can't make a living in 11 months, he can't in 12."

◇ ◇ ◇

Vacation means so many different things. To some, it is just rest at home; but to one who has had the care and the steady environment of home, it means change.

◇ ◇ ◇

To the greater number, it means to go somewhere. People with hot, tired children go to visit relatives who must cook a little more in the hot summer weather, and it is a relief to dear ones when parting time comes.

◇ ◇ ◇

But many close their homes and go to the mountains or to the seashore. Fishing in mountain streams and bathing in sea water is vacation. "A period of leisure," it is called. And leisure is what the one taking vacation likes best.

◇ ◇ ◇

Since the days of motors, many people travel in their own cars; but still there are many traveling on the train. They go somewhere. And for every citizen, there is one lesson that should be inculcated as the very backbone of citizenship. Sell your town!

◇ ◇ ◇

Don't knock it! Never get slushy; but so long as you are a citizen of a city, sell that city.

◇ ◇ ◇

There's always something interesting to remember about "home," without having to brag. There's always someone who will be interested in anything worth while.

◇ ◇ ◇

There are fortunate people whose personality sells any city in which they live. And the city is fortunate in having them as citizens.

◇ ◇ ◇

We have a city with a wonderful school system. We have a splendid junior college. Let the world know about it.

◇ ◇ ◇

Think of the many lovely homes being built in this city. Are they not a boost?

◇ ◇ ◇

What city of its size has anything like the Forum building in Wichita? It gave its members pleasure last year with music, drama, art and lectures serious and humorous. That interests women.

◇ ◇ ◇

One who is a knocker isn't welcome as a member of any community. It doesn't make one to whom you knock your own home town, wish you were one of his community. Sell your city!

◇ ◇ ◇

Nothing grows without growing pains. Don't let growing pains give you a faint heart. Sell your city!

Mayo, Messrs. E. W. Sullivan, Warren Griffin, Robert Holt, Arvil Davis, Dick Warren, Elree Griffin and W. B. Baldwin.

MUSSOLINI GIVES STATUE TO CITY OF ROME, GA.

ROME, Ga. (INS)—Closer unity of feeling between the United States and Italy was seen today in the announcement that through Benito Mussolini the Eternal city has presented Rome, Ga., with a statue, said to be the only perfect reproduction of the wolf mother and Romulus and Remus, ever to be given an American city.

Allendale P.-T. A. Has Interesting Meet

An unusually interesting meeting was held by the members of the Allendale school P.-T. A. when they met at the school Wednesday at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. E. L. Noey presided and opened the meeting; the devotional was given by Mrs. E. E. Campbell. After the reading of the minutes and the treasurer's report, a folk dance was given by the small children of the school. Catherine Stagner gave a reading, "Sundown," and Ethel Stagner sang "The Star Spangled Banner."

Mrs. J. W. Mantooth was elected secretary and Mrs. E. E. Campbell as new treasurer.

A vote was carried to buy a Bible for the school and after refreshments were served to about 25 present, the meeting was adjourned to meet Sept. 23.

Oh, These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 7. (US)—A Detroit woman tells the court that a by-product company owes her a lot of money. She lived near their plant, and the odor from it made her lose two pounds per month. Most women would consider they were in debt to the company.

Now somebody will open a reducing plant near the Chicago stock yards. Cheap and fast.

Met a rich girl who fell in love with "the wrong man," so now all the women she knew when she was prosperous refuse to know her. But she works with him and they are happy. "I must have had the wrong kind of friends all these years," says she, truthfully.

A friend doesn't ask, "why are you in difficulty?" All she asks is, "what do you need?"

A grey-haired man on the train took a Los Angeles nifty into dinner. It seems that he sells steel and travels very extensively.

"I imagine you enjoy studying people, various types of women, for instance?" asked the nifty, coquetting considerable.

"Naw!" said the nice looking man with grey temples. "The bunk!"

But in the six days it took to get from Chicago to the coast, that man who never studies people, took 10 different women into the dining car and bought them meals.

"I guess," said the nifty, as she and the other girls laughed it over, "that he doesn't stop to study them. It takes too long."

An adorable little Scotch house on the Los Feliz boulevard, at Glendale, where they have only a few, very good things, to eat. A dear old lady of 60 runs it. The roof is an up and down affair with uneven shingles, and the rough boards of the doors and windows look exceedingly old. The fence is tied together at the corner with rope, and the fireplace is an uneven hole with great logs pushed into it and a very old kettle to sing on the hearth. Only it doesn't sing because it is always "like this" in Los Angeles, and there is no need for fires.

Over the door of the Scotch Inn, with its blue and white checked tablecloths, and rough mountain finishings, was written in old gold, a bit from Bobby Burns:

"Ye canna expect to be baith grand and comfortable."

One of the things that sells you on this country, if you are a woman, is the signs everywhere that read "lemons, 5 cents a dozen," and "cantaloupes, 5 cents each," right after you have been paying 75 cents for 12 lemons and 60 cents for melons in Chicago and New York. Then the hard part is going back East and remembering.

You can never buy your lemons in comfort after that. It's probably a lot of wives with grievances like this that start families moving to the Pacific coast.

Know Your Type And Choosing Of Mate Isn't Hard

How Should a Young Man Go About Picking Out a Wife?—Straight Talk to An Unsophisticated Girl—Folly of a Too-Suspicious Wife.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a young man and would like to get married. I have never had a girl friend to go out with and have no idea of what girls really are. I want a good wife who will love me and will make a real home for me. Please give me a few pointers on how to select a real good housewife.

—A GOOD BOY.

Answer—If you only want a good housewife, you had best apply at an employment agency and pick out some girl who has good references as a crackerjack cook.

But while it is of prime importance that a wife should be a good cook—and if I were a man I would not pop the question to any girl until after I had sampled the bread she had made with her own fair hands—there are a lot of other things besides her skill with the pots and pans that you should consider in making your selection of a wife.

The first thing, and it is something that men nearly always ignore, is to try to get a line on yourself and to make up your mind about what kind of a wife you want. What are you marrying for? Your stomach? Or your pocketbook? Or your eyes? Or your brain? Or your heart? Which is most important to you for you to gratify? Do you want a wife for a cook? Or to save your money? Or for an ornament and living picture? Or for a chum and companion? Or just something that is sweet and cuddly upon which you can lavish your affections?

Decide on your type and the balance is easy. You have only to pick out some girl whose angels' food melts in your mouth. Or pop the question to the girl who always takes a ham sandwich instead of lobster Newberg when you are treating her to dinner, and whose favorite topic of conversation is how a savings bank account will grow if properly nurtured. Or you can select the girl who looks like a daily hint from Paris. Or say, "let's make a twosome of this for life" to the maiden with whom you play golf. Or marry the sweetie that you just love because you love her.

However, if I were a young man starting out to pick out a wife and with no special leanings toward any particular female, there are just a few things that I should seriously consider.

The first is health. I wouldn't marry a sickly, neurotic woman, because I wouldn't want to spend the balance of my life working to pay doctors bills and support nurses and druggists and sanitariums. Nor would my idea of a happy home be one in which the mistress was always ailing, and where I had to walk on tiptoes because of her poor nerves. Besides which invalids are nearly always peevish and fretful and melancholy and depressing and nobody can blame them for it, poor dears, but it does not make them cheerful companions.

The next quality I would look for in a wife should be good nature. I would want a wife who was sweet-tempered and amiable, not one who would bawl me out every time I crossed her and whose disposition I would have to be always gumshoeing around. I would want an easy-going wife who could laugh it off when things went wrong and who wouldn't blame me when it rained or the trains were late or business bad or the children got the measles.

I would want a wife I wouldn't be afraid of, and one to whom I wouldn't have to lie every time I wanted to go out in the evening. And I would want a wife who would say a thing once and drop it. Any man with almost human intelligence can find out if a girl has the nagging complex before he escorts her to the altar without going through what he calls the foolish marriage ceremony. What shall I do? Shall I do as he wants me to do, or shall I quit him and get such ideas as these out of my head?—N. M. W.

Answer: Quit him and get such ideas out of your mind. If you do not, they will wreck your whole life.

Try to look the situation fairly in the face. This man tells you that he loves you, but he lies. He loves nobody but himself. When a man really loves a woman he puts her good above everything else. He tries to protect her, and especially when she is a little young 16-year-old child, such as you are, she calls forth all the chivalry that is in his nature and he wants to save her from herself and from the effects of her own ignorance and folly.

Be sure of this, my dear. The man who really loves a woman and who means to act honorably toward her and be faithful to her offers her legal marriage. When a man says he doesn't believe in marriage it means that he does not propose to bind himself to any woman. He will stay with her as long as she interests and amuses him and no longer.

Then when her beauty fades, or he gets weary of her or his fickle fancy turns toward some other woman or he decides he wants all of his money for himself, poof, he turns her out of doors and that is all there is to it. She has no redress. No claim on him. He is free to go out and lure some other fool of a woman into the same sort of losing bargain.

And that is where you would be my child. Deserted. Declassee. Without home. Without friends. Without position in society. Without money. Without self-respect. Charming prospect, isn't it?

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—My husband and I have always been so devoted to each other. Never a cloud between us, but the other day I saw him kiss a woman guest and now I feel I never can trust him again. What shall I do?

—JANE.

Answer—Forget it. If that is all you have against your husband you are a lucky woman. Kissing doesn't mean any more than shaking hands these days. Custom has taken the significance out of it. Quit nagging your husband about this one kiss or else you will make him think there was more pep to it than there really was.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Lamar Baptist Church Has Old Time Picnic

Members of the Lamar Avenue Baptist church enjoyed an old-fashioned picnic Tuesday evening at Boone park, honoring the new church members.

After a delicious picnic supper, an interesting program was given, led by Mrs. L. P. Wilson. She made an introductory talk on "Why We Are Here," followed by the main talk of the evening, "Welcome to the Church Fellowship," by the pastor, Rev. S. F. Martin. Miss Lucile Ballard gave a reading and welcomes from the Sunday school, the B. Y. P. U. and W. M. U. were made by J. B. Allred, Mr. Lyle and Mrs. H. A. O'Neill.

Members of the W. M. U. presented Mrs. C. F. Somerville with a handsome pin in appreciation of her work as president of the union during the past year.

More than 120 were present at the picnic.

Two Holliday Men Surprised With Party

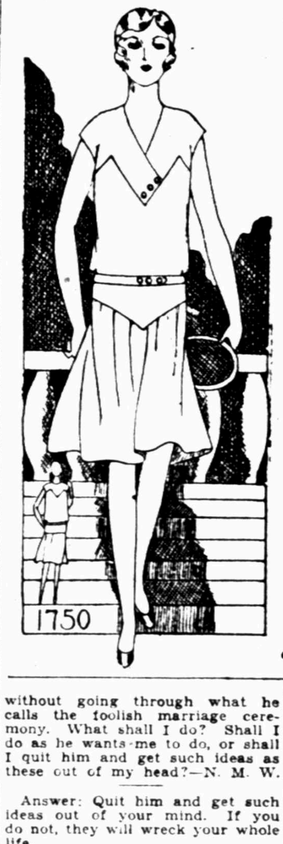

A surprise birthday party was given to Mayor H. M. Simpson and W. H. Turner of Holliday on Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Seaberry, in that town, honoring the 37th birthday of each.

This joint celebration is given each year in their honor and is always planned so as to have a "surprise" feature.

The birthday cake carried the correct number of candles, forming the initials "S" and "T".

Games were played until a late hour and then delicious refreshments were served to a number of friends.

"STUNNING SPORTS MODEL"
Pattern 1750

Pointed effects assume great importance in the mode this season, and particularly lovely are the pointed yokes of bodice and skirt in design 1750. The skirt is gracefully flared, giving freedom and easy swing.

This model is delightful fashioned of wash silk in a pastel shade. Or if you wish, a cotton fabric might be used with smart results, either in plain color or one of the new prints. Tiny attractive buttons lend dainty finish to yoke and belt.

May be obtained only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38 and 40.

Size 16 requires three and five-eighths yards of 40-inch material.

Patterns will be delivered upon receipt of 15 cents in coins carefully wrapped or stamps. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, style number and size wanted.

Our new spring and summer fashion book will be sent upon receipt of 10 cents in coin. Address all mail and orders to Record News Pattern Department, 243 W. Seventeenth street, New York City.

We Women

By BETTY BRAINERD

OLD-FASHIONED HUSBANDS

"Dear Betty Brainerd: Do you think a modern girl can be happy with an old-fashioned man?

"I have had to work since I was 16; now I'm 23 and perfectly willing to give up my job when I marry.

"The man I'm in love with doesn't think that women have any business sense at all and when I try to discuss any practical problem with him he tells me not to worry my head about sordid things.

"When I mentioned the question of allowance he looked as if I'd insulted him and said that all he had would be mine and that he didn't like the idea of paying his wife a set sum as if she were a servant. It's not that I want a career but I don't want to be treated like a half-wit or a piece of breakable glass.

"He's awfully sweet and I am very fond of him, but I've held down a good secretarial position for years and I'm used to having money of my own. I've always thought I'd like my husband to discuss his affairs with me and I don't like the idea of having to ask for every dollar I get. Do you think I could be happy with him?"

Sometimes men of the type your fiance appears to be make very good husbands but they usually require handling that is apt to irk the modern, capable, business-like girl.

Often they expect their wives to be no more than badly paid "yes" girls.

They like to feel the little woman's dependence upon them, that it is within their power to grant or withhold that which she desires. They like to have her echo their opinions and have no thought which was not theirs first.

Upon general principles I should be leery of a man who became insulted when asked for an allowance, and I should certainly insist upon having one if I agreed to marry him.

No woman in this day and age has to get married.

You have a good position. You have freedom, intelligence and youth.

I should hesitate a long while before exchanging these for a wedding ring, a cook stove and a husband with a Turkish complex.

"The world is so full of a number of things," you know. There is really no need for a girl to content herself with a dubious bargain—not in these enlightened times.

Are you troubled and do you need advice? Betty Brainerd will reply personally to those sending stamped self-addressed envelope.

Mrs. Conder Is Honoree At Lovely Shower

One of the prettiest summer parties was a miscellaneous shower given by Miss Grace Downing at her home, 2011 Speedway, Tuesday evening, honoring Mrs. Claude A. Conder, who was formerly Miss Thelma Howle, daughter of Mrs. B. O. Howle.

Musical numbers by little Miss Mabel Louise Johnson and other numbers were given during the evening.

The many gifts were presented to the honoree in a large laundry basket by a colored wash-woman.

An ice course was served to Misses Mary Virginia Howle, Mabel Louise Johnson, Dorothy Wilson, Frances and Margaret McHam, Kelly Gwinn, Ruth, Susie and Grace Downing; Mesdames R. T. Sloan, B. O. Howle, F. P. Warren, Rex McDowell, W. H. Downing, R. W. Muse, Mr. and Mrs. Norman D'Olive of Houston and the honoree.

C. E. Young People Rally at Henrietta

More than 20 poung people active in Christian Endeavor work here went to Henrietta Tuesday night to participate in a rally in the First Christian church there.

Miss Ruby Brown and Grady Snuggs presented the "Crusade With Christ" movement very effectively. A sing song was led by J. T. Morrow followed by a prayer by Rev. Mr. Neely, pastor of the church where the rally was held. Piano and violin played softly by Misses Janice Mashburn and Emma Lou Scott accompanied the devotional led by Mr. Morrow.

The meeting was closed with prayer by Rev. E. F. McGaughey, pastor of the East Side Presbyterian church of Wichita.

On adjournment to the basement, delicious refreshments were served. Those attending from Wichita were Misses Anita and Catherine Crocker, Ruby Brown, Vivian White, Claudia and Candace Kidd, Ada Rambo, Janice Mashburn, Cora Lee Morrow, Emma Lou Scott, Bessie Hagerman, Juanita Bussey, Aurie Bell Yeager, Lonada Sterns and Messrs. Rayford McAfee, Howard McShan, Grady Snuggs, J. T. Morrow, J. F. Craven, Wayne McCreary, Cecil Ralley, Shirley Donnell and Rev. E. F. McGaughey.

Youthful Motorist Displays 'Genius' In Passing Series of Bad Checks

A plausible young man who covered a $72 bad check with another hot one for $75, netting a profit of $3 in cash, and who blandly gave the same automobile shop a third worthless instrument for $129 for repairs is being sought by members of the sheriff's department on a swindling charge.

In spite of the fact that he had already presented two hot checks to the sales department of a local automobile agency, the optimistic youth brought his car back to the same shop for repairs after it had been wrecked in a collision, officials declared, and blithely presented the repair department of the business with his third ornamental but valueless check. Shop workers, unaware of his previous exploits obligingly took the check and the audacious purchaser drove away with the reconditioned machine.

The first $72 was in partial payment for the car. It was covered by a $75 document, also worthless, in the exchange of which the purchaser made his $3 profit. The automobile company is out the $75 and the $129 repair bill. The buyer is at liberty.

Americans in Russia Take Swim 'Au Naturel'

ROSTOV-ON-BON, U. S. S. R., Aug. 7. (AP)—Members of the unofficial American delegation touring Soviet Russia for business and professional observations enjoyed a swimming party in the cool waters of the river Bon last night.

The Russians admired the swimming and diving of the American men. Women of the party went in about a block distant from the male members, choosing a more secluded spot. It is the native custom here to swim without bathing suits or other encumbrances.

Dallas Tot Crosses Sea At Age of Three Months

DALLAS, Aug. 7. (INS)—Miss Anne Pearson, aged three months, is probably the most traveled and most widely advertised of any flapper of her age in the world.

She is just back from her latest journey—a trip to England. She began the voyage at the tender age of six weeks and enjoyed it immensely, apparently. She didn't even grow seasick crossing the Atlantic.

Little Miss Pearson was taken by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Talbot Pearson, of Dallas, to England to visit her grandmother and to be christened in a 300 year old English chapel which had been the place of worship of her forbears.

The English newspaper carried on quite a bit over the little one and her long voyage. But she did not let the publicity go to her head. She won't even talk to newspaper men about her voyage.

THE TRUTH ABOUT CANDY

To Be Moderate Is Not to Gorge or to Undereat

A noted food authority states that attacks on candy lack a background of scientific insight. He reminds us that in addition to sugar, the best candies and confections of the present day contain also many other foods. He enumerates nuts, milk, cream, butter, gelatine, chocolate, and fruits, as being used along with sugar in delicious, modern candies, and he says that good candy as a dessert may become a wholesome part of a meal. Who, he asks, would deprive the world of one of its most delicious desserts?

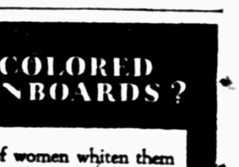

Science and common sense are restoring sanity to the nation today. Don't gorge. Don't undereat. Prepare a great variety of all healthful foods. Flavor these so that they will be delightful to the taste. Those are some of the present-day precepts that will guide us to a better diet.

If a dash of sugar will encourage your family to eat cereals, fresh, canned and stewed fruits, and milk in the form of milk drinks and milk desserts, then—in the name of health—use a dash of sugar. Try a dash of sugar when cooking vegetables in a small amount of water, and you will be surprised at how much fresher, more colorful and more delicious the vegetables are. A little sugar sprinkled here and there throughout the meal will encourage children and adults to eat the varied diet that is so necessary to health. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute.

75% OF BUSINESS GIRLS WASH DISHES AT HOME—

Survey Shows They Wash Dishes One Way to Keep Hands Lovely

In the world's largest office building, in New York, a recent survey of business girls showed 75% had home duties, including dishes to wash.

Almost without exception these busy girls say that washing dishes actually helps them to keep their hands lovely and white for the office—because they use Lux in the dishpan. Nine out of every ten asked wash their dishes with Lux.

As Miss Elsy Stephans, private secretary to the vice-president of a large company, says:

"I find that Lux in the dishpan keeps my hands looking lovely—and of course in my position it is important that my hands look dainty and well cared for. The Lux suds feel so soothing and bland, and my hands always look smoother and whiter after washing dishes than before. I really like to wash dishes for that reason—for with Lux your hands get beauty care right in the dishpan."

LEGION NAMES NEW OFFICERS

C. C. Kirby Elected Post Commander

C. C. Kirby was elected commander of Pat Carrigan post No. 20, American Legion, at the regular meeting Wednesday night at the legion headquarters in the Memorial auditorium. Mr. Kirby succeeds Victor Nobles as officer in charge of the post.

Other officers elected were R. M. Wilhite, first vice president; Adrian L. Buzby, second vice president; J. F. Friberg, post adjutant; Rabbi S. J. Schwab, chaplain; G. C. McMurry, finance officer; R. C. Mann, sergeant at arms; and Henry W. Davis, historian.

Discussion of plans for sending representatives of Pat Carrigan post to the state convention to be held in Port Arthur this fall was held at the meeting. Other matters of routine business were also considered.

Music and Yo-Yos Entertain Lions Club

Musical entertainment furnished by the Electra club, and a yo-yo contest staged by Wichita Falls members, featured the program given at the weekly Lions club meeting at the Kemp hotel Wednesday noon.

Following a short talk given by G. R. Davidson, Electra, deputy district governor. Misses Doris and Margaret Owens contributed several duets, and Joe Turner sang costume numbers, accompanied by Miss Letrice Wofford. Miss Vivian Goodman gave several readings, and T. B. Carroll, accompanied by J. S. Pitman, gave two solos. W. A. Asbill, Electra club president, was in charge.

Dr. R. R. Ramey, John McKifiley, and Freeman Miller were the other members of the Electra club present Wednesday.

Hollis, Okla., Seeks To Establish Civic Body

Efforts are being made in Hollis, Okla., toward the organization of a chamber of commerce there, according to Hubert Harrison, manager of the chamber of commerce, who visited that city early this week and addressed members of the Kiwanis club.

The speaker was invited to return at an early date and speak in behalf of such an organization in Hollis. Mr. Harrison's trip also included visits to Frederick and Altus, where investigation of truck deliveries in wholesale business was made. Leaders of the chamber of commerce there issued an invitation to Wichita Falls to send a delegation to the Tillman county fair which is to be held at Frederick on Aug. 27, 28, 29, and 30.

Optimist Club Hears Musical Program

Discomforts of warm weather were dispelled for members of the Optimist club Wednesday noon by a musical program presented at the weekly meeting by Mrs. J. H. Crouch, Miss Harriett Bradley, Mrs. J. W. Bradley, and Miss Lucille Crouch.

Miss Crouch gave piano solos, Mrs. Crouch and Miss Bradley played several violin duets, and Miss Bradley, contralto, concluded the program with a group of solos. Mrs. Bradley played accompaniments for the violin and voice numbers.

Joel McGregor led a club singsong.

LAMESA, Texas, Aug. 7.—Mrs. Nannie M. Sumpter, a resident of Lamesa and Dawson county for the past 19 years, died at her home Saturday evening at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Sumpter was 66 years of age, and had been in bad health for several years. She is survived by her husband and seven children, four daughters and three sons. The daughters are as follows: Miss Ruby Sumpter of Lamesa; Mrs. Jim Ware and Mrs. E. L. McClinton, Gainesville, Texas, and Mrs. W. R. Hobbs, Ardmore, Okla. The sons are Jamesa Sumpter, employe of Texas Electric Service company and Earl Sumpter, night watchman of this city and L. P. Sumpter of Oklahoma.

Oklahoma Market Expert Invited To Assist Work Here

C. Moulton, manager of the new Oklahoma City public market, has been invited by chamber of commerce officials to come here during the first week in September and assist in the organization of a modern public market, it was announced Wednesday night.

The problem of marketing produce grown in this community was designated some weeks ago by directors of the chamber of commerce as one of the most important issues faced by the organization, and the committee appointed to seek means of providing such a market here was said to have given a great deal of time and study to the matter.

Officials of the chamber of commerce inspected the Oklahoma City plant several days ago. The building is about 300 feet square, and has individual stalls for 150 farmers' produce trucks. Of all the plans now being tried which were inspected by the local committee, that in use at Oklahoma City appeared to offer greatest promise of practicality, it was said.

Moody's Reprieve Stays Howard Electrocution

AUSTIN, Aug. 7. (AP)—P. W. Howard, condemned to die in the electric chair Friday for the murder of L. V. Nixon of El Paso in 1920, will be reprieved, Governor Moody announced today. He said he had not decided what length of stay he would give. The proclamation was not issued. Howard's sister came from San Antonio to plead for either commutation or a reprieve.

Guatemalan Fliers Land at Dallas Airport

DALLAS, Aug. 7. (UP)—Col. Miguel Granados and Lieut. Carlos Merlen, Guatemalan good will fliers, landed at Love field here late today and drove into Dallas immediately with a delegation which greeted them. The aviators said they would remain here the rest of the night, abandoning their original plan of continuing to San Antonio.

Chicago Merchant's Son To Wed Movie Actress

CHICAGO, Aug. 7. (UP)—Edward Hillman Jr., son of the late Edward Hillman, State street merchant, and Marion Nixon, movie actress, will wed Aug. 14, Hillman announced today. The couple obtained their license yesterday. Hillman gave his age as 28 and Miss Nixon said she was 24. Miss Nixon is the divorced wife of Joe Benjamin, a boxer.

CLARA BOW'S MAN ACCUSED

Night Club Entertainer Sues Richman

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 7. (INS)—Details of the $250,000 damage suit filed by Ellen Franks, Pittsburgh night club entertainer, against Harry Richman, stage star and reputed fiancee of Clara Bow, screen actress, were made public today in a statement filed in United States district court here by her attorney, Kivie Wolfe, of this city.

Miss Franks charges that Richman drugged her, forced her to enter a compartment in a Pullman car in the Pennsylvania station here and held her prisoner for four hours on Mar. 12, last. The suit also charges that Richman beat her and otherwise mistrated her during the alleged imprisonment.

Electrical Storm In Missouri Kills Two

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Aug. 7. (AP)—Two dead, one dangerously injured and 50 workmen momentarily stunned was the toll of an electrical storm north of Oscola yesterday.

Miss Mildred Blanchard was killed when lightning struck her home near Deepwater. Other members of the family were uninjured.

Paul Maloy, of Vista, was killed and 50 workmen were stunned when lightning hit a camp of oil pipe line workers 10 miles from Deepwater. One of the injured was removed to a hospital.

Defective Brake Shoe Wrecks Freight Train

RIVERSIDE, Ind., Aug. 7. (US)—Twenty-eight cars of a Wabash freight train piled up north of here this afternoon after tearing up 500 feet of track. No one was injured. The wreck occurred when a brake shoe on the locomotive drive wheel flew off and struck an upright switch frame and broke it off, thus permitting the rails to spread.

STATE FILES OIL TAX SUITS

Wichitans Named in Gross Production Cases

AUSTIN, Aug. 7. (AP)—Three suits to recover gross production oil tax alleged to be due the state, penalties for failure to make reports, and damages aggregating $87,107 were filed by Rice M. Tilley, assistant attorney general today.

In each instance the defendants were ordered to appear Aug. 20 and show cause why an auditor and receiver should not be appointed to audit the books of each and take charge of and administer their assets.

J. H. Middleton of Collinsville, Okla., was sued for $21,607; D. O. Johnson and H. H. Fraser of Wichita Falls for $46,500 and Knox Finley of Wichita Falls for $19,000.

The tax suit filed by the state against D. O. Johnson and H. H. Fraser Wednesday involves property at Geraldine townsite on the L. F. Wilson ranch in Archer county, Mr. Fraser said Wednesday night. It is concerned with a controversy over the 1928 gross production taxes, he explained. He was unable to give details of the state's claim against the producers.

Leaders of Anti-Negro Will Face Court Trials

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., Aug. 7. (UP)—Four alleged ringleaders of a mob which forced all North Platte negroes to leave the town after a policeman was killed by a colored man July 13 faced charges of unlawful assembly today. Arraignment was expected Thursday. The men are A. A. Hastings, Edward Supanchick, John M. Campbell and James Miller. The negro citizens returned to their homes after a three-day exile.

RUN-AN-HOUR

Lawton Men Prefer Race Track to Hollywood Diet

Special to The Record News.

LAWTON, Okla., Aug. 7.—The "Run-An-Hour" club of Lawton has increased its membership 100 per cent in two weeks.

It now has two members.

Two weeks ago a local barber, preferring an exercising program to the Hollywood diet in a desire to retain his apollo-like form, entered upon a daily habit of whipping himself around the race track at the fairgrounds.

Tuesday he was joined in his self-imposed morning footwork by a local banker who is threatened with having to have the buttons of his vest "set over."

The charter of the new club is expected to be kept open for some days.

Posses Move Against Armed Indian Slayer

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 7. (UP)—Charles Cherrapin, 53-year-old Indian who carried out his threat to kill his former wife if she ever returned to his home after leaving with another Indian, was sought tonight by posses proceeding with extreme caution.

Cherrapin was believed armed with a revolver, a knife and 100 rounds of ammunition. He fled into the hills on the Couer D'Alene Indian reservation Tuesday after carrying out his threat against his wife.

'MRS. HONEY' IS VODVIL STAR

7,000 Applaud New Blackface Team

A crowd of almost 7,000 persons, the largest for the past two seasons, witnessed the weekly free vaudeville program at Bellevue park Wednesday night when the Orient Petroleum company presented a bill entitled "A Night in a Studio," conducted with George Hodgins as director and announcer over "the mike."

The feature act of the bill was Honey Boy and his wife, "Mrs. Honey," in a comedy skit which was applauded so strongly that the show could not continue until the two had reappeared again and again with encores. The audience condescended to let the next act continue only after having received a promise from "Mr. and Mrs. Honey Boy" that they would appear again in the program next week. Sassafras, who was to have played with Honey Boy in the act, was called out of town and "Mrs. Honey" took the opposite part.

George Taylor, popular KGKO artist and singer, had planned to begin his act with a series of popular vocal numbers, but the audience refused to accept them until he had given his famous "Hot Dog" song, which has proven especially popular with the children.

The entire bill was a great success, according to C. C. Bunnenberg, city park superintendent, who sponsors the productions. Other acts included Rabbit Benton, Spudder shortstop, in a number of vocal selections; the Tesco quartet, in several musical numbers; the All-American Hawaiians, with their stringed instrument band; The Holland Fiddle band, in several special numbers; and the Playground band, under the direction of Paul Seeds, in concert selections.

Noted Showman Sued By Wife for Divorce

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 7. (AP)—Edward Conrad, of Hollywood, Calif., former manager of the Al G. Fields minstrels and nationally-known showman, was sued for a divorce in Franklin county courts here today by his wealthy wife, Mrs. Pearl Conrad, a niece of the late Al G. Fields.

The woman charged gross neglect and non-support. The Conrads, who were married May 11, 1910, have two sons, aged 11 and 18.

BRUNSWICK Announces "STUDIO QUALITY" RADIO RECEPTION··and proves it!

A corner of the monster set built for the Cabaret Scene in Universal's super Movie-Tone Production "Broadway"

UNTIL now, radio reception has not kept pace with broadcasting.

Almost from the advent of radio the broadcasting stations have put the greatest artists on the air. But the means available to hear them in the home have been inadequate.

It has remained for Brunswick to design and build a set that would receive broadcasts without loss of quality—that would realize the dream of the radio industry which is "Studio Quality" Radio Reception—that would enable the listener-in to hear a program exactly as though he or she were in the studio from which it was being broadcast.

It is only natural that "Studio Quality" Radio Reception should be a Brunswick achievement. For Brunswick has spent many years and many millions perfecting the reproduction of music.

The Proof of "Studio Quality" Radio Reception

Every Brunswick dealer can prove "Studio Quality" Radio Reception in his own store.

He will re-create for you the most sensational test for Tone and Reception ever conceived—a Broadcast made at 12:11 midnight, May 4th last, at the Studio of WABC, New York City.

You will hear this Broadcast just as though you had been in the Studio of Station WABC, on that date. And, at the same time, you will hear the same program just as it was received through a stock model of the NEW Brunswick Radio.

And so, for the first time, you can compare the studio performance of great artists with the work of these same artists as it sounds when received through the NEW Brunswick Radio.

"BRUNSWICK BREVITIES"—radio's greatest entertainment—goes on the air the week beginning August 19th, offering the finest entertainment that the world affords—artists such as AL JOLSON, BELLE BAKER, BEN BERNIE, NICK LUCAS, ABE LYMAN, RAY MILLER, ZELMA O'NEAL, etc. Every week Brunswick Recording Stars will participate in the most colorful feature of Radio—"BRUNSWICK BREVITIES." Watch for definite announcements of Stations, Dates and Time.

The NEW Brunswick Radio is made in three models
Model 31—Panatrope with Radio, Price $272
Model 21—Superb highboy console-type Radio, Price $174
Model 14—Artistically beautiful lowboy console-type Radio, Price $148

Herbert Kaufman's Daily Editorial

RE SETTING SOME OLD SAWS

YOUR LICENSE to be a fool commenced and expired on the first of April. Be sure that you turned the calendar pad.

Don't ask for an extension of privilege—the world has no use for asses, except as butts of ridicule—and beasts of burden.

The Smart Aleck who kicks the silk hat always banks a brick. And the purse on the pavement only holds a joke.

Shrewdness doesn't spend effort on profitless pick-ups.

As Old Farmer Judd used to tell the summer boarders, "Take your apples from the tree—sound pippins don't drop to the ground—you've got to climb after them or knock 'em down."

Prime wares are rarely sold at reduced prices. Nothing first-class can be found on life's bargain counters.

The rich man's day is no longer than the laborer's and no different. Bungle and success are measured by the same clock-tick.

Determination utilizes time—neglect brutalizes it.

All the opportunity in America is out in the open. It's a public domain—take as much of it as you can—but you'll need a quick eye to recognize the main chance, balanced judgment to develop it, and a strong hand to retain it.

You are the tool with which fortune is tilled. If you debase yourself and fritter vitality on folly, you can't complain, because the fruit of your endeavor is the logical outcome of its seed—if you cultivate weeds you won't pluck roses.

"Class" and "mass" and "favored few" and "down-trodden many" are the expressions of chronic failure.

AS LONG AS immigrants progress from Ellis Island to the Thousand Islands—as long as farm boys become reaper kings—as long as penniless Scotchmen, by sheer persistence, realize in steel their youthful dreams—as long as brakemen follow the rails until they advance from cabooses to private cars—as long as cash-boys grow to merchant princes—as long as stenographers start as "men of notes" and end as men of note—the record will give the lie to the alibis of slackers, the whimpers of mediocrity and the snarls of disappointment.

Nothing in these United States is nailed down. The resources of the continent are a communal right. The money in its banks keeps shifting from one name to another as incompetence yields thoroughfare to ability.

Competition bestows prosperity where it belongs.

If you live to be as old as Methuselah, doing your utmost through the centuries, there'd always be another frontier waiting for a pioneer—an unsolved problem for a surgeon, an untried formula for a chemist, an unthought-of project for an engineer, and a flock of unexploited efficiencies for a business man.

Of course, you've heard all this before. Phoenicia preached it; Athenian elders poured it into their son's ears. Some truths are fundamental, universal and perpetual.

They are not altered by geography nor by period.

Wisdom has always accomplished more than stupidity—steadfastness invariably finds the goal that unreliability misses.

The less a man gives, the less he gets. The lower he aims, the lower he strikes—he lands where he leaps.

A Parisian editor says there would be better understandings if the average American, traveling abroad, entered more into the life of the European nations. The trouble is, Americans are so used to bathtubs.

An ape-man, captured near Mexico City the other day, keeps shouting "Wah Oo Wah!" Probably it's merely some baseball fan reverted to type.

Add this to your list of similes: As cold as a hot-roasted peanut in a ball park.

We Believe Wichita Falls Is Ready

IF WICHITA FALLS goes through another summer without having taken steps to improve the water situation its citizens will have only themselves to blame, and will deserve what they get in the way of water service.

Every committee and everybody that has investigated the water situation has been convinced of the need of steps to improve the supply and its distribution and there has been general agreement both by engineers and committees of citizens of the steps that were necessary. The chief reason that an election has not been ordered for a bond issue has been the fear that the people have not been ready to approve it.

If the recent experience of shortage of supply, unfiltered, unsafe water and its menace to health, low pressure for fire fighting and all other inconveniences have not demonstrated to the people that something must be done, then the case is well nigh hopeless and Wichita Falls must be considered a backward place whose people are either unwilling or unable to help themselves.

We cannot believe this. We do believe that it has taken something like the present situation to awaken the people to a realization of conditions. We believe the people of Wichita Falls are capable of remedying the situation and that they are now ready to do so. It is time to submit a bond issue to the people for improvements that have long been needed.

The British Strike and American Cotton

THE WAR between the states brought great suffering to the cotton spinners of England because the blockade of southern ports and the stoppage of the cotton supply. Likewise strikes in the British cotton mills in times past have caused serious depression in the South because of the effect on the price of cotton.

There is now a great strike of cotton weavers in England, but the effect on cotton prices has not been serious.

And while anything that would check the transportation of cotton from America to England would have serious effects on the British cotton goods trade it would hardly cause the suffering that it did in civil war times.

The strike of British cotton weavers is not seriously affecting the cotton market because there are other markets that will absorb a considerable part of the product and because of the belief that the strike will not be a prolonged one.

And if there was a stoppage in the supply of cotton from the United States the cotton acreage in other countries would be increased to supply the deficit.

The Labor Party's Problem

IT IS an ironical turn of circumstance that makes labor difficulties the one great problem that may eventually wreck the Labor government of England.

With 500,000 cotton mill employes on strike in England, the government is presented with a problem of the first magnitude. Since unemployment is one of England's great issues, the strike presents a difficulty more extreme than might otherwise be the case.

The Conservative government weathered the general strike of three years ago, but the Labor government's position is more thorny. The failure of a Labor cabinet to handle labor problems satisfactorily would provide the party's opponents with a campaign argument too powerful to be borne.

Upon the solution of this cotton strike the fate of MacDonald's government may rest.

The Hitch-Hiker; a Pest

A MOTORIST just returned from a cross-country tour reports that the hitch-hiker is abroad in the land this summer in greater numbers than ever before.

This is bad news for everybody concerned. The hitch-hiker, to put it bluntly, is an unmitigated pest.

To be sure, nobody begrudges the farmer's boy his right to ask for a lift along a hot road. But hard working farmers' boys are an infinitesimal minority among the hitch-hikers. Most of them are young men frankly out to travel cheaply by imposing on the good nature of their fellowmen. They are, for the most part, nuisances; and the motorist who makes it a practice never to give anyone a ride can hardly be blamed for it.

CHATTY—GODDESS OF GAB

By BEATRICE BURTON, Author of: "HER MAN," "HONEY LOU," "SALLY'S SHOULDERS," "MONEY LOVE," "LOVE BOUND," ETC.

COPYRIGHT 1929, CENTRAL PRESS ASS'N, INC., CLEVELAND, OHIO.

READ THIS FIRST

Charlotte Chatterton, nicknamed Chatty, is a born gossip. She loses her job in a hat store because she talks too much.

Her mother, a widowed dressmaker, has one wealthy customer, Mrs. Lowell Van Nuys, an old friend. Through her Chatty gets a job in the files department of Mr. Van Nuy's bond house, downtown. There she meets David Jordan, a young bond salesman, and falls in love with him.

Billie Langenau, who's in charge of the files, and her sister, Sara, come to live across the hall from the Chattertons. Billie gives a party for the office force, and that night Dave Jordan makes love to Chatty for the first time. After that they see much of each other, going around with Billie and George Mayhew, one of the bond salesmen, sometimes. Finally Dave comes to the flat and meets Mrs. Chatterton. But Chatty won't let Pud, her young brother, meet him, for she has found out that Pud and Ben Tomlinson, who owns the corner drug store, are bootlegging. Pud admits selling alcohol to Winnie Talcott, who works in Mr. Van Nuys' office, helping Agnes.

Chatty unearths some office scandal. She finds out that Billie Langenau has been married but never divorced, and that George Mayhew does not know this. Billie insists that since George isn't in love with her, or she with him, this doesn't matter. But when Chatty sees George with another girl, and tells Billie about it, she bursts into tears.

Sometimes Mr. Van Nuys and Agnes Herford, his secretary, go to lunch together. Chatty promises her mother never to speak of this to Mrs. "Van." But when she becomes jealous because Agnes is too friendly with Dave, she steals Agnes' diary from her desk and sends some of it to Mrs. Van—enough to show Mrs. "Van" that Agnes is in love with her husband.

Chatty leaves the torn diary in Dave's roadster. He returns it to Agnes' desk, and no one but himself knows that Chatty stole it. He scolds her for taking it, and says he cannot understand her doing such a thing. That night Mrs. Van sends for Chatty, shows her the torn pages of the diary, and asks her whose handwriting is on them.

Chatty tells her the pages are from the diary of Agnes Herford. Chatty urges Mrs. Van to have Agnes fired. Chatty writes Dave a note.

Now Go on With the Story

CHAPTER XX

From her chair at the telephone switchboard, Chatty watched Dave Jordan's face as he read the letter she had written to him.

But it was as stoney and calm as a good poker player's face.

He came to the end of it, and was folding it up to slip it back into its envelope when Jim Bowen came walking up to his desk and spoke to him.

Chatty saw him nod to Jim, pick up his hat, and then come across the office to her.

"Sorry," he said to her, "but I won't be able to take you to lunch today. I'm going to eat with Jim."

And then, before she had a chance to say a word in answer, he had turned on his heel and was half way across the room on his way to the door. As it swung shut behind him, Chatty felt as if all the sunshine of the warm, bright day was gone, leaving the office in deep and gloomy shadow.

A lump came into her throat, and her face began to flush slowly and uncomfortably . . . She was not only hurt, but terribly ashamed Ashamed because she had begged him to take her to lunch and let her talk things over with him—and he had turned her down!

"And turned me down cold, too!" she told herself. "He knows I know he doesn't have to go to lunch with Jim Bowen unless he wants to. And he didn't even ask me to go with him tomorrow! He's mean! Oh, he's mean!"

Across the room, on the shiny top of his desk, her note lay folded in its envelope. He hadn't thought enough of it to tuck it into his pocket—or even to tear it up and throw it into the waste basket.

"Just left it lying there where anybody could come along and read it!" thought Chatty, with sudden anger. She jumped up from her chair and dashed across the office to tear it up, herself.

Then a bright idea struck her.

She snatched up a pencil from the glass tray on Dave's desk and wrote another message across the face of the letter:

"Dave, dear, you're just killing me by treating me this way. Please let's not fuss any more. I've done everything I can do to make up with you, and I can't do anything else. It's just up to you now—but please remember that I love you, and that I'm so unhappy when you don't pay any attention to me."

She put it back into the envelope addressed it to Dave's bachelor flat, and dropped it into the mail chute in the hall before she could have a chance to change her mind.

He would read the letter that night, at home, where he would have plenty of time to think it over before the next morning. And surely he would see that he ought to forgive her and be nice to her again—because she loved him so much.

"And I'll tell him all about Agnes and Mr. Van," she decided, completely forgetting that she had solemnly promised Mrs. Van never to speak of the affair to anyone. "I'll juggle the truth a bit, and tell him that Mrs. Van asked me to find out if there was anything between her husband and Agnes."

To "juggle the truth" was an act that never bothered Chatty in the least.

Like most people who talk all the time, she could lie as fast as a race horse can run. But she never called it lying . . . She called it "juggling the truth" or "telling it in my own way."

She would tell this story of the diary to Dave Jordan in "her own way"—and instead of thinking she was a snoop and a sneak and a thief, he would think that she simply had been a loyal friend to poor Mrs. Van! She would make him think that.

But when the next morning came he gave her no chance to tell him the story.

He walked past the switchboard without so much as a nod or a glance in her direction, although she felt sure that he must feel her anxious eyes on him and hear the pounding of her heart as he passed.

But even then she did not give him up.

"He'll get over this," she thought, bracing herself with the memory of the way he had talked to her, the way he had looked at her, the way he had held her in his arms and kissed her, only a few nights before. "He was crazy about me then—he's still crazy about me. He must be. He couldn't have gotten over it so soon."

At noon Mr. Van and Agnes shut themselves in Mr. Van's private office. At 1 o'clock Agnes came out with her thin pale face all flushed and swollen from crying, and with red rims around her eyes.

"Hooray! He's given Aggie her walking papers at last!" said Chatty to herself, and she did her best to be glad.

But, somehow or other, she couldn't make herself feel glad about it. . . . In spite of herself, she was sorry for Agnes as she watched her go into her own office and slip into her shabby street clothes and pull on her shabby gloves.

She dropped the letter into the mail chute.

Just as she was starting for the door Dave Jordan came in.

From under her thick eyelashes Chatty watched him go straight up to Agnes. She could not hear what he said to her, but a moment later he tucked his hand under her arm, and the two of them went out of the office together.

Agnes did not return at all that afternoon.

At five o'clock Dave Jordan came back alone.

This time he did not pass Chatty without a look or word.

He came over to the switchboard where she sat, and stood with his hands in his pockets, looking down at her.

Chatty grinned up at him, impudent as a street urchin.

"Hello!" she said. "You finally did come 'round and speak to me, didn't you?"

Instead of answering, he gave her another deep, straight look, as if he were trying to figure her out. Trying to get to the bottom of her. . . . There was puzzlement in his look, along with a kind of disgust.

"What do you think I am? A penny, penny peep show or something?" Chatty asked him, as she kept on working at the board, giving Billie Langenau an outside line and taking a sunburn call for Mr. Van.

"No, I didn't know what to think about you," Dave Jordan answered, and he shook his handsome red head.

He pulled up a chair that stood beside Jim Bowen's desk, and dropped down upon it.

"Now, tell me one thing," he said. "What satisfaction did it give you to send those pages of that poor girl's diary to the big boss' wife? What earthly good did it do you?"

Chatty did her best to tell a lie. She opened her lips to tell him that Mrs. Van had asked her to get the diary for her. . . . But the words stuck in her throat.

"I did it because I was afraid she was going to go to Mr. Van with a story I had told her about Billie Langenau," she found herself saying. And anyway—I wanted to get her fired."

She stopped and looked down at her hands. Her chin trembled, and she was sure she was going to burst out crying.

"Why did you want to get her fired?"

Chatty shook her head. Then suddenly she told him a little more of her story. "Well, in her diary, she said I was silly, and that made me angry—and, anyway, I never did like her."

She looked up into Dave Jordan's eyes as she finished, and they were as hard as flint.

"And so you managed to have her fired for no more reason than that that you didn't like her, and you thought she might gossip about you to Mr. Van! Well, I know her better than you do—and I know she never went to him with any kind of office chatter." Nothing could have been more frozen than the tones of his voice.

Chatty didn't answer. She was thinking hard . . . wondering if she had better tell him her real reason for hating Agnes and wanting to get her out of the office.

"Suppose I tell him how jealous I was of Agnes because she was so friendly with him?" she thought, her unhappy gaze still on his face. "Suppose I tell him how jealous and suspicious I was that afternoon when I saw him give her that note—and how I went poking into her desk just to see what he had written to her? And that's how I happened to find the diary."

Surely he would forgive her when he knew that she had done what she had done just because she was wildly, jealously, crazily in love with him.

"Listen, Dave," she began, and her voice was husky and shaky with the tears she was holding back. "If you only knew how I hated that girl for weeks—if you only knew, you wouldn't be so cold and hard and mean to me. You'd understand me better."

He shook his head. "I'd never understand anyone doing a thing like the thing you did," he said, tersely. "To pry into another person's private papers! To steal them and send them where they would make the most trouble—the most unhappiness! No, I never could understand that."

The lump that had been in Chatty's throat for hours seemed to grow large and choke her. She could hardly speak.

"Does Agnes know it was I who sent them to Mrs. Van?" she asked, in a whisper, and Dave shook his head once more.

"No, you're perfectly safe. Don't worry," he answered. "No one but myself knows what you did—and you can't imagine me telling anyone, can you?"

He did not wait for her to reply. He pulled his hands out of his pockets and walked away, across the office.

"He's through with me now," Chatty told herself, miserably. "He's through with me, now."

He was, too.

All the rest of the week she saw him only at a distance, and heard his voice only when he asked her for telephone numbers or took incoming calls. He did not look at her—did not come near her.

And so she lost him.

On Monday morning when Chatty walked into the girls' cloakroom, she found Winnie Talcott there in a state of bright-eyed excitement.

"Aggie's leaving next Saturday, and I'm to have her job for sure!" she cried. "If that isn't luck I'm a Chinese watch maker! Jean Gilday's getting married and isn't coming back to work, and you're going to keep your job at the board and have a $2 raise! Want to know any more news?"

Chatty shook her head. "No—that $2 raise is news enough for me, Winks."

"Well, there's more to hear, anyway," said Winnie. "There's a new salesman coming in this morning. He worked over at Tuttle & Talebrough's when I was there and, believe me, he's a sheik and a sailor! Best looking thing you ever saw, and more darned fun! You will certainly lose your mind when you see him, and I don't mean anything else!"

But her enthusiasm left Chatty cold. For there was no man in the world but Dave Jordan, who had come to despise her—and she was sure of it.

SIDE GLANCES By George Clark

The Day Book of a New Yorker

Broadway Chatter by Grant Dixon

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Several months ago an author of my acquaintance completed a novel, which has been appearing as a serial in a magazine but is not yet out in book form, in which the hero is the inventor to the story, would enable motorists to serve themselves with gasoline by dropping quarters in a slot. A few weeks ago it was announced that a California inventor had perfected such an apparatus.

City Museum

New York, which already may lay claim to being the city of museums, will have a museum of its own next year, wherein will be displayed the municipal waxworks. Unlike the waxworks at Coney Island, which pictures such civic events as the murder of Arnold Rothstein, this museum will depict the more serious and important moments in the history of the municipality. The first scene will show Henry Hudson on the deck of the Half Moon, approaching the island of Manhattan on his search for a route to the Indies. Other scenes will show Peter Minuit making his famous $24 deal with the Indians, and Washington's inauguration at Federal Hall. Also pictured will be a draft riot in Union square during the civil war, and the waterfront in the days of clipper ships. No plans have been laid for picturing more modern events, but I, for one, vote for the inclusion of a scene depicting the return of Lindbergh from Paris. There was something that for sheer magnificence may never be duplicated.

Floating Hotel

Several years ago an imaginative reporter got himself and his newspaper into all sorts of trouble with a highly colored story about a floating palace on Rum Row, where the elite of the fast set were enjoying gambling and drinking orgies. The vessel was pure imagination on the reporter's part—and everyone agreed, a very superior grade of imagination. But now the real thing has appeared off the coast on Long Island. It is a luxurious boat, operated as a hotel, where stage and society folk spend their week-ends. It is no gambling hell or floating liquor dispensary, and it operates within the law.

Foolish Squirrels

Columbia university, where men and women are equipped in a superior fashion for their battle with life, has proved the undoing of a community of squirrels. These animals have been broken down mentally to such an extent that they have forgotten the inborn squirrel instinct to bury nuts in summer so that they may eat in winter. The students are at fault. Apparently all of the thousands that attend the university in the winter session have been willing to provide nuts for the campus squirrels, and the squirrels have developed a devil-may-care philosophy. And the strange part of it is that early summer is the leanest period of the year for these improvidents—for the winter students have departed and the summer session attendants have not yet arrived.

Wig Tales

Two of the best-known wig-makers in New York are Herr who maintains his workroom in the Metropolitan Opera house and Herr E. who has a little shop in the heart of the theatrical district. The first devotes his time exclusively to making costume wigs for the opera singers, and there is a vast tradition behind his profession. Each role in opera requires a certain wig, and if one of a different type is used the learned critics are all a-twitter. He has been making wigs ever since the early days of Caruso, and most of the better-known artists at the Met employ him. Caruso used to take him on his trips to Atlanta and other havens of summertime opera, and would generously pay the expenses of his wife, too.

The other goes in for modern wig-making, and makes a specialty of fashioning scalp fringes that appear to grow. One of his customers who is so devoid of hair as a cue-ball is a fraudulent testimonal to the efficacy of a certain hair tonic. This man, like many others, was so sensitive over his baldness that he could not face the ridicule that would come if he appeared to sprout a full head of hair overnight. So the wigmaker painstakingly made a light fringe of hair around the base of the customer's head. Weeks afterward, he completed another wig that carried the fringe a little higher, and so on, until the happy customer rejoiced in a normal growth of hair.

Nor would that satisfy the sensitive customer and the artistic wig maker. Living hair, of course, grows. So what did the "artist" do but make three wigs—one showing a fresh haircut, another showthe cut to be a week old, and a third depicting a pressing need—the barber's services. The owner of these wigs keeps a careful schedule on his calendar and changes from one to the other at the proper time. When he gets to the last stage he takes pains to say: "I simply must go to the barber's today."

Amarillo Factory Moves to Sayre

Special to The Record News.

SAYRE, Okla., Aug. 7.—The Amarillo Duntile Manufacturing company of Amarillo, Texas, closed a deal to remove their plant to Sayre in order to be nearer the source of raw materials used in the manufacture of duntiles, which are composed of pure clean sand and cement. A recent geological survey made by the Sayre Chamber of Commerce, revealed an abundance of almost pure sand, on national highway 66 four miles west of Sayre, which is located only three miles from the Sayre gas field. An abundance of water at shallow depths is available.

A permit has been secured for the location of the factory.

The Once Over

The Vacationists' Relief Fund

Responses to the fund for the relief of summer vacationists, this department is happy to say, have been most gratifying. Following the recent announcement that this year, as in 1928, this great work of succoring vacationists and bringing them back home where they can get a little rest and comfort would be carried on, contributions have been numerous.

PHILLIPS

(A special appeal is herewith made for donations from hours-in-the-air contests. It is estimated that if every person now engaged in such a contest would send in 10 cents the grand total would be something like $1,567,875.30.)

Contributors will be pleased to know that more than 1,000 summer vacationists were rescued from the discomforts, inconveniences, worries and exasperations of seashore and mountain resort life last week and brought safely back to their city apartments. Oh, if the public could have seen the joy which lit up their little pinched faces as they were loaded aboard relief fund cars and whisked away from the hot, crowded, noisy summer resorts back to their own flats, where they can once again enjoy good, wholesome food, a little ventilation and a clean bed with an honest-to-goodness mattress on it!

These poor, disillusioned people need immediate aid. In many cases they are starving. Another week at a vacation resort may kill them. They are desperately in need of human kindness. They must get home, where they can get a rest.

Many people have helped the fund through parties and sales. A group signing themselves "Twelve Little Girls" gave a lemonade sale on Thursday and raised 11 cents. (Nobody bought any lemonade, but they short-changed an old gentleman who asked them to break a dollar.)

A number of big lawyers have taken an interest in the fund, one of whom writes:

"I was so deeply touched by the pathetic plight of summer vacationists that I took up a collection among all my clients and friends, raising a total of $250.87. I am, indeed, happy to send you the 87 cents, deducting the balance for commission ,incidental expenses, office rent, etc."

Gustave Schmooze gave a lawn party and raised $1,500. He writes that his expenses were $4,000. This leaves nothing for the fund, but it shows the right spirit.

Do your bit today. The fund now stands:

Previously acknowledged	$ 1,346.87
Jimmy Durante	5,000.00

12 Cars of Melons Leave Alvord in One Day

ALVORD, Texas, Aug. 7. (Spl.)—Twelve carloads of melons were loaded out of this city one day last week by the Fort Worth & Denver. This is the best day's record up to this time. Agent W. L. Durrett reports 57 cars loaded to date, 53 of them being loaded at Alvord and four at Cowan Switch. This is the largest number of melons ever loaded here in July and they are still coming in, with many being hauled to other points in trucks.

CEMENT FIRM DENVER OWNED

Company Attacking Road Board Chartered

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 7. (UP) —The Oklahoma Portland Cement company which is attacking procedure of the state highway department as discriminatory against an Oklahoma company, is owned and controlled by Denver, Colo., capitalists and the Ideal Cement company, the articles of incorporation in the secretary of state's office, showed today.

List of stockholders show the total amount of stock in the Oklahoma Portland Cement company held by state men is $50. Total capitalization is $1,000. The $50 of stock is owned by C. D. Nichols, Oklahoma City, and W. C. Mathews Ada, who own one share each. All the officers are Denver men.

The Oklahoma Portland, through J. B. Dudley, attorney, restrained the highway commission from filling its contract with the Monarch Cement company of Kansas yesterday. Argument on the injunction proceedings are set for Monday.

The highway commission entered into the contract with Monarch people at 10 cents a barrel less than was bid by state companies.

Lew Wentz, chairman of the state highway commission today made his first statement following the issuance of the restraining order.

The formal statement was as follows:

"This litigation of the Oklahoma Portland Cement company will not stop our getting the present slightly reduced price on cement, but getting that reduction is not very satisfactory to me.

"We should get 40 or 50 cents a barrel reduction. It looks as though the federal and state legal departments should be able to handle these prices 'fixers' who so brazenly gather at biddings with agreed prices.

"In any event we should have some new state laws that will protect us from these people and at least prevent our being called into court to account to the trust for the crime of securing reduced prices."

Texas and Monterey Road Officials Confer

MONTEREY, Mexico, Aug. 7. (AP) —Ways and means of further organizing the Mexican-American Highway association and matters to facilitate travel between the United States and Mexico were discussed here today by delegates from San Antonio and Monterey.

The meeting, a two-day affair, was opened with an address of welcome by Gov. Arron Sanez of Nuevo Leon, who urged construction of highways as a means of bringing the two nations closer together.

About 150 persons attended the gathering.

American Vets Seek Bodies of Fallen Pals

MOSCOW, Aug. 7. (AP)—Michigan members of the American Veterans of Foreign Wars, forming a special mission have arrived in Moscow planning to recover the bodies of American soldiers of the "Polar Bear" division along the Archangel front.

The Americans will start for Archangel on Aug. 9 and will set to work immediately to recover the 128 American bodies buried in the Archangel cemetery and other points in North Russia.

New Mexican Labor Code Is Assured

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 7. (AP)—The way today was almost clear for final enactment of the drastic national labor code proposed by President Emilio Portes Gil. It was regarded as a foregone conclusion that steps remaining would be taken with little hesitation.

The Mexican senate yesterday passed, with modifications imposed by the chamber of deputies, the bill amending the national constitution to permit enactment of the labor code. Legislatures of all the Mexican states have been called into extraordinary sessions to consider the constitutional amendment.

Two thirds of the states must ratify the amendment before it can become effective, and the labor law passed.

OKLA. MILITIA TO WAGE WAR

Three-Year 'Campaign' to Be Concluded

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 7. (UP) —The final attack on a theoretical enemy upon whom war has been waged for the last three years, will be staged by the Oklahoma national guard at its encampment, starting Aug. 10 at Fort Sill, Gen. Charles E. Barrett said today.

The attack maneuver, which will last three days and nights, will be staged during the second week of the encampment, which closes Aug. 24. The attack will involve all forms of modern warfare. Artillery fire will be directed from the air from the 45th division air unit from Denver, Colo.

Approximately 5,000 officers and enlisted men will attend the encampment.

The camp at Fort Sill will be called "Camp Holloway" this year, in honor of Gov. W. J. Holloway.

Bail for Reformatory Guard to Be Opposed

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 7. (UP) —Homer Hurt, Garvin county attorney, said today he would oppose bail for R. E. Davis, former state reformatory guard charged with the murder of Stanley Kelley, 16.

Davis's application for bond will be heard for the second time tomorrow before W. G. Long, Pauls Valley district judge.

At the hearing last Saturday, Judge Long took the matter under advisement after hearing arguments of both sides. Hurt said he opposes bond because Davis has not produced any additional affidavits and is depending solely on the testimony of the preliminary hearing.

Oklahoma-Southwestern Railway Now 'History'

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 7. (UP) —The Oklahoma-Southwestern railway company became history today when the state's corporation commission granted permission to cease operation and take up rails.

The company once was a flourishing line operating between Bristow and Nuyaka in Okmulgee county. Decline of revenue following a decrease in the oil business caused operating expenses to exceed income.

BERGER DIES OF INJURIES

Fiery Socialist Leader Auto Victim

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 7. (US) —Victor L. Berger, 69, former congressman and Socialist leader, died here this afternoon of injuries received on July 16.

Physicians and attaches of the Milwaukee hospital had been hopeful of his recovery until just before noon when his condition took a turn for the worse and he died at 1:19 o'clock.

Berger was run down by a street car on the night of July 16 crossing the street. He suffered a basal skull fracture and internal injuries.

The fiery Socialist was born Feb. 28, 1860, at Neider Rebbush, Austria-Hungary, and was educated in the universities of Budapest and Vienna.

In 1879 he interrupted his studies at Vienna to come to the United States and Milwaukee. Soon after his arrival here he became interested in Socialism but his first active work for what is now the Socialist party was in 1896 when he was a delegate to the convention of the People's party in St. Louis.

Berger entered politics actively in 1910 when he was elected alderman-at-large here. In 1911 he was elected congressman. He was re-elected in 1918 and at a special session in 1919 was again elected. In the meantime, however, his Socialistic bursts had caused him trouble and in 1917 he was refused a passport to the international peace conference at Stockholm, Sweden, by Secretary of State Robert Lansing.

He was also refused his seat in the house by a vote of 309 to 1 but the supreme court ruled in his favor after the 1919 election and he was seated.

During 1919 he also faced trial before Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis on an espionage charge. He was convicted and sentenced to serve 20 years in the federal prison at Leavenworth. Before he was taken to Leavenworth, however, the government withdrew its charges against him.

Last fall Berger was a candidate for re-election to congress but was defeated by William H. Stafford in a bitter battle featured by mud-slinging. Immediately following the vote count Berger demanded a re-count, which was made, and proved his defeat.

Other than his political life Berger has been editor and publisher of a local labor paper, the Leader, for many years. It was on leaving his paper, en route home, that he crossed a street, through heavy traffic, and was struck by the street car resulting in his death today.

Wisconsin Wets to Continue Campaign

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 7. (UP)— The campaign against prohibition, which has become a habit with the Wisconsin legislature, will be continued in the 1931 session, Senator Bernhard Gettelman promised today.

Not satisfied with repeal of the state dry law by the present general assembly, the wet Milwaukeean declared he would renew his efforts to put the state in the liquor manufacturing business, a plan which he holds is not in contradiction to the 18th amendment.

Defeat of this proposal by a senate vote of 12 to 9 yesterday disposed of all wet projects since Wisconsin earlier this year repealed its state dry law and abolished its prohibition enforcement department.

SIX BANDITS ROB ROADHOUSE

$20,000 Taken as Guests Face Machine Guns

CHICAGO, Aug. 7. (US)—Six machine-gun bandits were sought today after they had held up and robbed the Ridgeland farm roadhouse office and guests of $20,000 in cash and jewelry.

Several score of Chicago business men and their wives were in the roadhouse at the time of the robbery.

The bandits, armed with three machine guns and revolvers, invaded the roadhouse, calling:

"Everyone sit on the floor!"

One man who failed to drop to the floor quick enough to suit the bandit leader was knocked unconscious by a blow from the butt of his revolver. Several women fainted and others became hysterical—but the bandits went about their task calmly.

Robert Holmes, the roadhouse proprietor, was seized and forced to turn over the house receipts. Then the leader, working under the protection of the machine guns, went about collecting the cash and jewels of the guests.

SUGAR FORCES OPPOSE SCALE

Sliding Rates Tend Toward Price Fixing

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7. (AP)—Opposition to the Smoot sliding scale sugar tariff plan was voiced today by domestic and insular possession sugar interests before the senate finance committee at a public hearing.

Franva Dillingham of New Jersey, representing the domestic sugar producers association and Porto Rican growers, opposed the sliding scale proposal in general and the Smoot's plan in particular. He endorsed the house duty of three cents a pound on world sugar and 2.40 cents against Cuban raw sugar.

The sliding scale, he said, which provides a minimum rate of one cent a pound and maximum of three cents depending on the New York wholesale refined price, with 20 per cent off for Cuban sugar, had a tendency toward price fixing.

BIG LOTTERY POOL SMASHED

Clearing House Figures Are Switched

NEW YORK, Aug. 7. (INS)—Lottery-ticket promoters who run a nation-wide pool based on the New York clearing house figures were caught red handed today.

Messengers who report the figures to their newspapers and press associations were bribed by the gamblers to give wrong figures.

The correct figures were $1,482,000 and $182,000,000. The winning number would have been 822. Gamblers who had previously bet on another number gained entrance to the room when the figures were chalked up on the board and succeeded in bribing some of the messengers to send out the fictitious figures.

New York clearing house officials declared attempts to switch the figures are common but that it is seldom they are successful.

Cinderella
and the Three proud cigarette brands

A Modern Fable

Once upon a time a Mighty Prince set forth to find a perfect cigarette. Being very wise, he netted down his search to the four National favorites . . . that quartette of popular sister brands known as the "20 for 15¢" family.

The three elder cigarette brands rushed forward to meet the Prince with all the proud pomp in the world . . . each vying with the other in urging her charms upon him.

"Smoke me!" said the eldest, "I am the class of the field."

"Smoke me!" said the second, "for I am beyond compare."

"Smoke me!" said the third, "all the world acknowledges me to be the best."

Then, from the background, the youngest brand . . . the Cinderella of the family . . . quietly spoke up. "If you please, Sire," she suggested, "why not smoke all four of us . . . and compare us fairly and impartially, letting your taste decide which one of us you like best?".

"Why, that's a common sense idea!" exclaimed His Highness. Whereupon he covered the names of all four brands with paper masks; lit them and smoked them reflectively, with all brand prejudice removed.

One cigarette seemed to capture his fancy, far and beyond the others. "I don't know which cigarette this is," he declared, "but, unquestionably, it is the cigarette for me."

Whereupon he removed the mask and found it to be . . . Well, Cinderella is the "story-book" name but in America today that winning brand is known as OLD GOLD.

MORAL: It is easy to make big claims, but you can't smoke claims. The only sound way to discover the cigarette you like best is to let your taste decide.

SPUDDERS SCORE 7 IN FOURTH TO SWEEP EXPORTER SERIES

WICHITA BATS 8 TO 5 VICTORY

Easterling's Two Homers Score Three Tallies

By LARRY DAILEY
Record News Sports Editor

The Spudders scored 7 runs in the fourth inning yesterday, which was ample to give them an 8 to 5 victory over the Beaumont Exporters and sweep the series, thereby maintaining their game and a half lead over the Fort Worth Panthers.

Jim Galloway's merry men broke loose with an offensive of seven hits with a sacrifice in the fourth round to drive Tink Riviere off the hill in that big fourth round. The Spudders batted around and three over in that inning. Grimm chucked steadily for the hostiles thereafter.

Milt Steengrafe pitched a nine-hit game, and except for Paul Easterling and Lyman Lamb was master of the hostiles. Easterling clouted two home runs, one with a runner on base and Lamb hammered a double, single and sacrifice to drive home the other two Beaumont runs.

Spuds Make Hits Count

The Spudders made all but one of their nine blows count in their run-getting in a pleasing display of timely hitting. Rabbit Benton and Pete Turgeon, that brilliant keystone pair, led the home nine on the attack with a brace of blows apiece, including a double each and a three-base smash by Pete.

It was the fourth straight day that a Spudder pitcher has gone the nine-inning route, a most significant portent and delight to the loyal fans. George Payne now has three days rest and will be in there on the hill today in the opener of a three-day series with the Houston Buffaloes.

The fielding of Turgeon, Benton, Stapleton and Bennett enlivened the pastime.

Exporters Start Scoring

The Exporters started as in Tuesday's game, with Swanson hammering the right field wall for two bases and scoring on Lamb's double to center and Akers and Easterling walked to fill the bases but two were out then and they were stranded.

The Spudders went out in order as did the Shippers in the second inning.

Bennett, Sullivan and Stapleton walked but were left on the lines. Steengrafe turned back the Exporters one-two-three in the third. Benton led off with a double to left, the first Wichita Falls hit, but he got no farther.

The Exporters again were retired in rotation in the fourth.

Wichita Falls went ahead in its fourth with seven runs. Sullivan strolled and advanced to third on Stapleton's double to right. Crouch's sharp single to center scored both runners, and Jack tallied on Steengrafe's sacrifice. Riviere to Hanson, and Benton's hit. Turgeon whanged the left field wall for three bases, scoring Benton. Fitzgerald beat out a hard bounder to Hanson. Bennett singled to left tallying Turgeon. Grimm replaced Riviere and Sullivan singled to right, scoring Fitzgerald and Bennett tallied and Dick went to third when the ball got away from Lamb.

Lamb Brings in Another

Davey walked, advanced to second on Grimm's hit, third while Swanson was forcing Grimm, Stapleton to Benton, and tallied on Lamb's hoist to Bennett in the fifth. The Spudders went out one-two-three.

Easterling hit a home run over the left field wall, scoring Akers, who got on on Hermann's boot, ahead in the sixth.

Turgeon led off with a double to right, stole third and scored on Bennett's fly to Easterling.

Lamb and Huber singled in the seventh but to no avail. The Spudders failed to get on base.

Easterling started the eight with his second home run, a mighty clout dead over the center field wall. Douglas set back the Spudders in order.

Turgeon tossed out Huber. Stapleton and Steengrafe accounted for Hanson and Benton threw out Akers in the ninth.

SINGER FIGHTS KID CHOCOLATE

Foremost Feathers Battle Aug. 29 at Gotham

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Aug. 7. (UP)—Easily the two outstanding attractions in metropolitan boxing circles and perhaps the two best fighters in the world for their weight, Al Singer, dark-eyed Bronx boy, and Kid Chocolate, Cuban negro, have been matched for a 12-round bout at the polo grounds Aug. 29.

If Madison Square garden never gets Jack Sharkey and Max Schmeling in a boxing ring together, it won't make much difference to a majority of the customers who can now sitback and look forward to one of the most promising matches made since the Dempsey-Tunney and Delaney-Berlenbach series.

It took five months to make the Singer-Chocolate match, but if ever there was a boxing contest worth wasting time and trouble on this certainly looks like it.

Will Decide Feather Title

Actually no title will be at stake, but the winner will have no trouble gaining recognition as the world's best fighter from 122 to 130 pounds.

Singer knocked out Andre Routis of France, featherweight champion, in the second round of a non-title bout at Ebbets field, Brooklyn, July 24 and is the uncrowned king of the 128 pounders.

Chocolate has never lost a fight in more than 150 matches. Only once has he been held to a draw. Joe Scalfaro knocked him down for a count of nine in the first round last winter and the little negro got off the floor to earn a draw.

Madison Square garden won't have to hire any press agents to write stories about Al Singer rescuing a drowning girl from a lake or start a controversy about whether Kid Chocolate will, or will not, come to the scene of the battle by airplane.

Tickets at Premium

The only catch to this match is try and get a ticket. The speculators will get about the first 15 rows and triple the prices for them, so it makes no difference what original figure the garden decides to charge.

Unless the seats are scaled too high, the match ought to pack the polo grounds and attract a gate of more than $200,000, which is some figure for a non-championship fight among featherweights.

The biggest obstacle in making the match revolved around the weight Singer should make. He finally agreed to make 128¾ pounds in one of the strangest weight adjustments in fight annals. For a time, it appeared that one-quarter of a pound would actually prevent the match. Chocolate, who now fights around 124, wanted Singer to make 128. Singer wanted 129.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—One Eyed Connolly, the eminent gate crasher, was talking of putting the slug on his rival, Pitts Blackman, out in Detroit, but nothing came of it, unfortunately.

Sleep-out Louie Levinson is a Detroit citizen whose moniker entitled him to more than passing notice.

Scotty Montieth, for years manager of Johnny Dundee, and now matchmaker for Detroit's Olympia club, entertained ye scribe in Henryfordville, recently, by taking him down to the river and showing him where the rum runners push the old zing-water in from Canada.

Tommy Walsh, of Chicago, who heretofore always managed little bloke like Pal Moore and Charley White, bowed a tendon lugging the stricken Sully Montgomery back to the corner in Detroit, and forthwith renounced the heavyweights.

Phil McGraw, the Detroit lightweight, called on the scribes who attended the Dundee-Fields affair, and looked stilettos at Jackie Farrell, of the New York News, who said Phil is all laundered up.

Charley Brickley, the great Harvard drop-kicker of another day, is now living down at Long Beach, and looks swell.

Charley O'Connell, the old Cleveland lightweight, is managing fighters, but took a course in chiropody in case his fighters peter-out, as fighters are bound to do.

Solly Harris, who gave up women's millinery years ago to become a sport, is poking around the Chicago tracks and is only $999,999 short of a million bobs.

Joe Dundee, the former welterweight champion of the whole world, is retiring from the manly art, and why not, seeing that Joe can't fight a lick any more.

Nicholas Dondolas, otherwise Nick the Greek, is around Detroit, but doing no good for himself whatever. Things have been so tough with the Greek that he hasn't even seen any of the new issues of currency as yet. And its been out quite awhile.

George Knockout Brown, another Greek, and a grand old galloper in his day, is around Cicero, Al Caponi's bailiwick, doing a little bit of this and that.

Billy Nolan, who managed Battling Nelson when the battler was lightweight champion, is selling hay and grain at Walnut Creek in Contra Costa county, California, and walked out on the Hudkins-Ballinger thing in San Francisco in sheer disgust recently.

Eddie Graney, one of the great triumvirate of San Francisco referees of the old days, is bed-ridden, and very sick. Jack Welch, another member of the triumvirate, died some time ago, but old Firecracker Jim Griffin is still calling 'em as he sees 'em out there.

Al Herford, of Baltimore, who was the Jack Kearns of his day, and manager of the great Joe Gans, has also been pretty sick lately. They didn't expect him to live for a time, but I'm told he is now winning the duke.

Gig Rooney, manager of Jackie Fields, the new welterweight champion, is named Willie, and got his moniker years ago around St. Joseph, Mo., from his habit of saying "I gigged that one," whenever he scored at craps.

Leonard Sachs, Jack Dempsey's secretary, was at the Dundee-Fields fight in Detroit, spending plenty of dough in entertaining all comers.

Brass McDonald of St. Louis, who was one of the high shots at Miami last winter, is said to have tossed off around a quarter of a million booking on the wire out of St. Louis lately.

Levi's Bat Busy

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 7. (AP)—The war club of John Levi, who rated all-American selection as Haskell institute's fullback five years ago, is menacing Western league pitching this year.

Released by the New York Yankees as a poor prospect, the giant Indian is fielding flawlessly and hitting .335 for Topeka's Jayhawks. "Big John" is taking his baseball more seriously since his big league flop.

Levi has responded to Topeka's need for a hitting outfielder by smashing the ball with regularity. Jimmie Payton, Jayhawk manager, says Levi has one of the greatest throwing arms of any player in the game.

Aces of Wightman Cup Teams

Here are the aces of the American and British women's tennis teams which play for the Wightman cup at Forest Hills, L. I., August 9-10.

The SPORTLIGHT

By GRANTLAND RICE
(Copy't, 1929, New York Tribune Inc.; Trademark Registered U. S. Patent Office)

A Wish—And a Retrospect

(An old-time fan rises up to speak).

The big league teams are molding dreams
That point to baseball fame,
I cannot join the gladsome shout
Since Ty Cobb's quit the game.

Now thick and fast the hits drive past,
And o'er the fence they ride.
I care not for the present cast,
I want to see Cobb slide.

No thrill is left, like the swift theft
Of second base by Ty,
And from there streaking home again,
On scratch or outfield fly.

I sing not Vance or Frisch, but wish
These could be days the same
As those of thrills and spills and kills
Before Cobb quit the game.

As those when heart-throb followed Cobb
Before he quit the game.
W. J. M.

A lot of fellows felt the same way about Matty and Wagner. But a prominent star of the Yankees never heard of King Kelly and Ed Delehanty. Yesterday in sport is a long, long way from today. And tomorrows fly by faster than any wind.

It all depends. I still remember the day when I tried to get both feet in the water bucket as a wild young left-hander by the name of Rube Waddell pitched against Vanderbilt and hit the first two men up. My only desire was to get back to the bench with part of my head left on top of my neck. A long time later Connie Mack decided the Rube was all through, he gave him to St. Louis and the Rube responded in his old age by fanning 16 Athletics and setting an American league record.

Baseball Memories

Baseball is full of memories. One of them is Matty, pitching 27 scoreless innings against the Athletics in 1905, where you had the feeling they wouldn't have scored in two years. Then there is Three-Finger Brown fielding his job around the box—not to forget Wiltse. A young Walter Johnson throwing them by the batters—never mind the curves or the change of pace—just throwing them by. And ball players, even stars, on the days Johnson was pitching, turning up sick, unable to work that afternoon.

Ty Cobb on his way to second and third in one stretch, no matter where the ball was thrown. Maybe all the way home. Johnny Evers, on fire every time he saw an umpire or a New York Giant. Bill Bradley playing third against Jimmy Collins. Sheckard and Speaker on their way to kill a two-base hit. Bender throwing curved balls to McInnis and Collins at first and second during a world series. "What's the idea," said the Chief when they howled, "isn't this just a game? Let's have some fun?" Nap Rucker pitching five games a week for a semi-pro team after plowing all the forenoon. A New York crowd razzing Ty Cobb up to the point where he got four hits, stole four bases and scored four runs in one game. Which is always the best way of replying to the anvil sonata. Rube Marquard winning his 19th game in succession and then unable to sleep until they beat him in his 20th start.

DETROIT 'OUT' AS FIGHT SITE

Sharkey-Schmeling Battle To Go Elsewhere

DETROIT, Aug. 7. (INS)—The Max Schmeling-Jack Sharkey fight for the world's heavyweight championship will be held elsewhere than Detroit, according to indications today.

The Michigan State Boxing commission has ruled that before Sharkey can meet Schmeling, Sept. 19, the tentative date, he must go through with a contract to fight Pierre Charles under the promotion of Floyd Fitzsimmons, Sept. 5.

Fitzsimmons said today Sharkey had flatly refused to meet Charles two weeks before his match with Schmeling. The Madison Square Garden corporation of New York and the Olympia organization of Detroit, have been attempting to bring the fight here.

Garden Abandons Schmeling for Jack-Tom Fight

NEW YORK, Aug. 7. (UP)—William F. Carey, president of Madison Square garden, announced tonight that plans had been abandoned for a heavyweight fight between Jack Sharkey and Max Schmeling of Germany.

The garden corporation will promote a heavyweight bout between Sharkey and Tommy Loughran, light-heavyweight champion, at the Yankee stadium, Sept. 26, he said.

Carey's action follows that of the New York State Athletic commission in barring Schmeling from fighting in this state until he fulfills a contract to fight for Humbert J. Fugazy.

ATHLETICS AND YANKEES SPLIT

Champs Take First, 13-1; Macks Cop Final, 4-2

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 7. (AP)—The New York Yankees failed to cut into the 11½-game lead of the pace setting Athletics today, dropping a pitchers' battle in the second game of a double-header, 4 to 2, after slugging out a riotous victory in the first contest, 13 to 1.

George Earnshaw won his 18th victory of the season and his first this year over the Yanks in the second game.

Ruth hit his 28th home run of the season and his second with the bases full in two days in the second inning.

A crowd estimated at 45,000, the largest ever to watch the Athletics at home, saw the twin bill. Scores:

Use Hard Swimming Strokes

Many women take up swimming in order to become graceful, or to develop their bodies with more symmetry of form. Sometimes, however, a woman learns to swim so easily that she continues to use her favorite swimming strokes which become easy to her, and does not give her as much exercise as if many difficult strokes were tried. It is often of value to use all kinds of peculiar and difficult strokes in order to get the most exercise. For this reason it is advisable for everyone to take swimming lessons and learn as many different kinds of strokes and movements in the water as possible. The easiest stroke is the so-called "dog stroke" which is a sort of paddling stroke. When one who cannot swim is suddenly thrown into the water, he will usually naturally resort to this stroke and be able to keep afloat.

When the side stroke is used, the swimmer should learn to alternate the stroke so that after the right arm is used in the forward stroke for a short distance the swimmer should turn to the other side and use the left arm forward. Beginners usually like this stroke, since they do not have to submerge the face, as in the crawl stroke.

The breast stroke affords a very good exercise and more resembles the swimming movements of the frog.

In the crawl stroke the arms are used alternately, reaching far forward on each stroke, and rolling the body from side to side. The breathing must be carefully controlled, and as the face is submerged part of the time, it is necessary to take long breaths through the mouth while the mouth is out of the water, and exhaling through the nose when the face is passing under the water from one side to the other. This promotes vigorous deep breathing and makes the crawl stroke especially beneficial to health.

The back stroke is another excellent movement which uses the muscles in an entirely different way than any of the other strokes while lying face downward. Any good swimming instructor can teach you these different kinds of strokes, but do not be satisfied to continue using only the movements which are easy for you.

It is sometimes a good plan to simply stand in the water about shoulder high and churn the water vigorously with your arms and hands, imitating movements which you might use in a gymnasium while exercising with chest weights. At least part of the time while you are swimming try to make the swimming as difficult as possible so as to get the proper amount of strenuous exercise which this sport affords. Part of the time change around so that you use the strokes which you find hard to do. This will tend to equalize the play on your muscles and make swimming a better all round exercise.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Child Lame in Knee

Question—Mother writes: "I have a little boy 3 years old who has been lame in one knee since he began to walk. I have had him to several doctors, each of whom has something different to say about it. However, a recent X-ray shows the knee to be in a rachitic condition. What would you advise?"

Answer—Sometimes a subluxation of the sacrum or hip joint may produce a lameness such as you describe, and I would advise you to have a competent osteopathic physician examine your little boy's limb. If the joint is only affected by rickets you could undoubtedly notice an improvement by following a correct diabetic regime and the use of short sunbaths daily.

Symptoms Not Definite

Question—Mrs. H. J. L. writes: "My symptoms are drawing in the top of my head—can't converse without nervousness. Pain in lower part of back extending to pelvis, and sleeplessness. An M. D. says gall bladder trouble, but a chiropractor says nerves are the major trouble. Am 65 years old.'

Answer—The doctors may both be right, and still you may have high blood pressure, lumbago and any number of different disorders. As much as I would like to help you, it would be ridiculous for me to attempt to diagnose your case through this column. The source of your trouble must be ascertained, and this is only possible through a careful examination.

Diabetes

Question—Reader writes: "Would be glad to know your treatment of diabetes. What about insulin?"

Answer—I have written many articles on the subject of diabetes, and some new ones will appear in the near future. In these articles I will tell you how to effect a cure without the use of insulin.

Italian Terrorist Is Arrested in Chicago

CHICAGO, Aug. 7. (US)—Rocco Maggio, who for two years has terrorized the Chicago Italian colony and forced tribute from many Italians, was arrested today. Two years ago after he had been tried for murder he was ordered deported. When arested today he displayed a copy of an order of the department of labor at Washington canceling the deportation order. Maggio was guarded by two bodyguard when arrested. Maggio, police officers said, collected from $2 to $5 a week from Italians under threat of death if the tribute was not paid promptly.

Olney Aviators Crash In Field Near Alvord

ALVORD, Texas, Aug. 7. (Spl.)—When Joe Benson and Dick Faggin of Olney attempted to clear the local aviation field here, an obstruction of a fence and telephone wires would not permit them to rise. They stopped suddenly and in doing so, turned a flip with damage to the propellor and other parts of the plane. Repairs had to be obtained in Fort Worth and the men were delayed a day in getting back to Olney.

Enforcers Get Killed Too, She Reminds

demand the repeal of the 18th amendment and the laws enacted thereunder.

I condemn as atrocious, wholly unwarranted, and entirely unnecessary some of the killings by prohibition agents. But I know that there are equally shocking cases of gangsters' attacks on agents, which if as widely known will influence the fairminded people not to be too hasty in lavishing sympathy on violators of the law who get wounded in the course of arrest.

As a sample of how the bootlegger deals with citizens who stand in his way, this touching letter to me stands as mute evidence:

"Dear Madam: I understand that my husband wrote to you some time ago about prohibition law and the agents you sent here told those, the wholesalers, about him writing to you, so the wholesalers went to the priest on the fourth of April. This priest called on my husband and warned him that the wholesalers would make a lot of trouble. Just four days after that they murdered my husband, Eugene Costa, and left me with five little children. My husband fought for his country during the world's war. And it took a foreigner to murder my husband over beer and whisky. If you sent someone in I will explain it better. If you think it would better for me to come there please tell me when and how. For I am broken hearted. Kindly pay special attention.

MRS. EUGENE COSTA."

Tom Morris' Case

Take the case of Tom Morris, deceased. His family now know that in enforcing the prohibition law, agents of the government are not dealing with mere "good hearted boys" who meet a public demand for liquor.

He with another officer stopped a car which was crossing the border loaded with liquor. After making the arrest and putting handcuffs on one of the men who had been in the car, the other said, "Wait a minute 'till I light a cigaret." The officers "waited a minute," but instead of lighting a cigaret, the rum runner pulled a gun and shot Morris, who died almost instantly. The defendant then ran, and the surviving officer shot at him but missed. Subsequently captured and convicted, he was given only a prison term of from two to 20 years. These bootleggers were the type ordinarily engaged in running liquor between Texas towns. Nothing in their appearance gave the agents warning. They are no better and no worse than thousands of other bootleggers who are operating daily in all parts of the country. And let it be remembered that the man who committed this act of violence was himself in no great danger from the law prior to the shooting of the customs officer. He was subject to a penalty at most of only six months and a few hundred dollars' fine after conviction. Nevertheless, in an attempt to avoid facing that charge, he shot down and killed an officer of the law.

Indicted for Self Defense

The case cited is not at all unusual. On Sept. 26, 1928, a prohibition agent named King stopped an automobile crossing a bridge at Jacksonville, Florida, and arrested a well-known bootlegger who was in charge of the load of liquor. When the agent stepped on the running board of the car the bootlegger pulled a gun and shot the agent who fell into the road. Wounded as he was, King nevertheless managed to draw his gun and as the bootlegger started to drive away a running battle occurred in which Agent King killed the bootlegger. A disinterested workman on the bridge told the facts. While the agent lay at the point of death in a hospital, the state authorities, as the result of sensational and unwarranted press reports which inflamed the public mind, and following threats of death from the deceased's associates, endeavored to obtain an indictment for murder against an officer who had risked his life in the performance of his legal duty, and who shot after being thrown in the road, wounded, and only in self-defense.

I might cite dozens of other similar cases, but I will call attention to only one more. It is the case of the United States of America vs. James H. Alderman, charged with and convicted of murder and sentenced to death. The conviction has been upheld by the United States circuit court of appeals for the fifth circuit, and the supreme court of the United States has refused to review the case. The facts are these:

Facts of Case

On Aug. 7, 1927, a United States coast guard patrol boat, on duty off the coast of Florida, stopped a small boat coming from the direction of Bimini in the British West Indies and headed toward the Florida coast. On boarding the boat, the Coast Guard Commander Sidney C. Sanderlin, found one James H. Alderman in charge, with Robert K. Weech aboard, together with 20 sacks of liquor. Of the coast guard boat crew, only Sanderlin was armed. He searched Alderman for weapons and found none.

Murder at Sea

While the coast guard crew was transferring the liquor from the small boat to the coast guard boat, Sanderlin started toward the pilot house of the patrol boat where his wireless was located and Alderman followed him. A moment later the coast guard crew heard shots and saw Alderman, an automatic in his hand, take a step or two from the pilot house door and shoot at a member of the crew named Lamby. She shot struck Lamby and he fell into the engine room. No one saw Alderman shoot Sanderlin; but afterwards Sanderlin was found dead on the floor of the pilot house killed by a bullet which entered the right side of his back, passing through the heart and coming out of the left breast. Lamby died four days later in a Florida hospital.

Alderman, the bootleg runner, then lined up the remainder of the coast guard crew and menacing them with his revolver, said that he was going to "get" the rest of them. He then directed his own companion, Weech, to get the liquor back aboard their boat, tear out the gas pipe of the patrol boat and set it afire. Alderman told the patrol crew that he was going to 'hrow them overboard one at a time and shoot them, and that they might as well say their prayers, because they were all going to hell and they would need them.

Manwhile, he had secured two more revolvers from the pilot house and had given one to his associate Weech, so that the prisoners were covered by three guns. A few minutes later Alderman glanced down the hatch to see what Weech was doing with regard to the motor which he had ordered Weech to start. Taking advantage of his momentary inattention, the surviving members of the coast guard crew rushed toward Alderman and he began shooting. He succeeded in shooting one of them through the shoulder and head and in killing another. However, the others overcame him and later captured his associate, Weech.

Bootleggers Mostly "Killers"

I have outlined the facts in this case to show what vicious criminals are in the bootleg business, and the risk of his life an agent runs.

It is the officer's duty to make arrests. The law gives the arrested man every presumption of innocence and much legal protection. But he must go peacebly with the arresting officer to the nearest magistrate for hearing. Resisting an officer is a serious offense. It has been such ever since governments were established. It has been the duty of all sworn officers of the law to bring in their prisoners "dead or alive." That has always, since the days of Blackstone been regarded as vital to the protection of society and the preservation of the state.

In dozens of cases hundreds in fact, arrested bootleggers are resisting with force and with guns, officers of the law who have the legal right and the duty to make the arrest and are discharging that duty lawfully. In no other class of cases has there been so much resistance to officers. Every day, in some part of the United Staes, men are arrested by state and federal officers for burglary, robbery, arson, mail robbery and other crimes for which the penalties are much more severe than those imposed for bootlegging. Yet there is no such resistance to the officers as in bootlegging cases, simply because the men arrested know that they get no public or newspaper support if they attack or kill the officer of the law. But let resistance be made to a prohibition agent in the lawful performance of his duty, and there is an immediate rallying to the defense of the bootlegger by those who are opposed to prohibition enforcement. Are we losing our sense of proportion when the arrest involves liquor?

I condemn without qualification unjustified use of fire arms in the enforcement of the prohibition law as well as any other law, but I think no one who is fair minded will disagree with this editorial statement of the Los Angeles Times:

"There seems to be a good deal of over-emphasis for wet propaganda purposes of such regrettable affairs as the slaying of Jacon Hanson of Niagara Falls and of Henry Virkhula at International Falls, Minn. If either man had been killed by a policeman who mistook him for a burglar, the case would have been dismissed, so far as national public interest is concerned in a few lines of press and it is inconceivable that it could have become a subject for congressional discussion."

Who Is to Blame?

In expressing my condemnation of the use of unnecessary and unjustified violence in the name of prohibition enforcement, I have the woman's privilege of saying "I told you so."

I had not been in charge of prosecution under the prohibition law more than a few months before I discovered what many people since have acknowledged: That hundreds of prohibition agents had been appointed through political pull and were as devoid of honesty and integrity as the bootlegging fraternity. I found that there were scores of prohibition agents no more fit to be trusted with a commission to enforce the laws of the United States and to carry a gun than the notorious bandit Jesse James. Among the evidences of this fact that early reached me was this letter from a judge known throughout the country as an upright, fearless, able jurist:

"More intelligence ought to be used in selecting prohibition agents. The majority of them in my district are stupid, and on the witness stand under cross-examination conducted by highly paid and able lawyers for the bootleggers, they crumple up.

"In my courtroom an agent testified that between the 17th of October and the 1st of November, about 14 days, he drank 700 glasses of alcohol and 700 glasses of moonshine whisky. That was a period of 14 days, and when 1,400 is divided by 14, it will be reasonably clear that he did not drink any such quantity. But if he only drank a fraction of that amount it would be sufficient to destroy his usefulness. This situation cannot be permitted to go much further because the judges are losing confidence in the integrity and veracity of the government's witnesses."

It was my opinion in 1921, and it still is, that the government is committing a crime against the public generally when it pins the badge of police authority on and hands a gun to a man of uncertain character, limited intelligence, or without giving systematic training for the performance of duties that involve the rights and possibly the lives of citizens.

(Tomorrow, Mrs. Willebrandt will discuss further the reason of unwarranted acts of violence in the enforcement of the prohibition law, and how and when such conditions can be corrected.)

EIGHT SANDS IN OVERALL AREA

Cheney Et Al Find Oil In Moody Strata

Special to The Record News

COLEMAN, Texas, Aug. 7.—Cheney-Midwest-Continental-Overall No. 6, 1859 feet from the west line and 300 feet from south line of J. H. Barclay survey 701, got a 20 barrel well in the Moody sand from 2783-87 feet, after deepening this week. This well originally was a gasser in the top of the sand, and was drilled about a year ago, having an initial production of 13,000,00 cubic feet of gas. The importance of this well lies in the fact that it is the first oil producer encountered in the Moody sand, in the Overall district.

The Moody sand is approximately 60 feet above the prolific Fry sand in this area. This makes a total of eight oil and gas sands now productive in the Overall area, which are as follows: 1. Shallow gas sand on C. E. Shore, developed by Stepp and Keister, depth 775-800 feet, initial production of 1 to 2 million cubic feet. 2. 950 foot gas sand on Hutchins, section 11, initial production 2,000,000 cubic feet. 3. Haas sand, depth 1600 feet, initial production 30 to 75 barrels. 4. Cross Cut sand, 2300 feet deep, No. 1 and 2 Independent Oil & Gas Co., section 14, initial production 40-100 barrels. 5. Moody sand 2187 feet deep, section 701, Cheney-Midwest-Continental No. 6, initial production 20 barrels. 6. Fry sand, 2100 feet, John H. Barclay survey 700, initial production 50-700 barrels. 7. Alexander sand, 2333 feet, No. 2-B Cheney et al section 12, 5 barrels of oil, 2½ million cubic feet of gas. 8. Gardner sand, 2360 feet, intial production 40 barrels of oil, and 2 to 5 million cubic feet of gas.

The Overall area now has a production of approximately 1100 barrels per day. The Peacock Gas plant is manufacturing 2,000 to 2,500 gallons of gasoline per day. Both the Oklahoma Natural and Lone Star Gas companies have lines in the area. The outstanding wells in the area are No. 1 Continental-Cheney-Atlantic et al, Overall, in the John H. Barclay survey 700, and No. 2-B Cheney et al, Overall in section 12. The No. 1 well, now about nine months old, has produced approximately 90,000 barrels of oil. The No. 2 well has produced some 286,000,000 cubic feet of gas, which has been taken by the Oklahoma Natural Gas company.

Wilbarger Well Flows 80 Hourly

Special to The Record News

VERNON, Texas, Aug. 7.—Flowing 80 barrels an hour, the M. L. V. Smith No. 1 Waggoner shot oil over the top of the derrick Monday afternoon and is showing for about 2,000 barrels a day. The well is in 20 feet of sand from 2637 to 2657 feet. The well is located southeast of the Sigler field, in section 35, block 2, H. & T. C. survey, across 40 acres from the Simpson & Fell producer brought in several weeks ago in section 36.

The new producer was a shallow well until about a month ago when local operators decided to drill deeper. The well is now on the deep sand of the lower Milham strata.

Several local men are interested in the producer.

Lawton Indian Critically Hurt

Special to The Record-News.

LAWTON, Okla., Aug. 7.—Sam How-yah, Comanche Indian, is lying critically if not fatally injured in Fort Sill Indian hospital as a result of an automobile accident which occurred on C avenue of this city at noon yesterday.

How-yah was struck by an auto driven by Phillip Lookingglass, another Comanche, as the latter attempted to start his car. The car shot forward over the curb of the sidewalk, pinning How-yah against a large box, breaking the bones of his legs and injuring him internally. He is not expected to live.

CUBA DENIES PROTEST AGAINST SUGAR TARIFF

HAVANA, (INS) — Official statement from the Cuban department of state denies that Cuba has protested against proposed increase in sugar tariff, saying that "Cuba is in no way authorized to meddle in the domestic affairs of any other country."

MID-WESTERN REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 7. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Beef steer and yearling trade around the 11 market circuit today slowed up considerably. Monday's sharp upturn having influenced loadings of grassers and short feds. Choice quality natives registered no material change but the less desirable natives and all grades of western grassers ruled 15@25c lower. Majority of the beef steers sold slightly better than last week's dull close. Other killing classes steady. Chicago realized $16.85 on several shipments of choice medium weight and heavy steers and obtained $16.65 for long yearlings. Receipts 44,100, an increase of 9,000 over a week ago and 5,000 more than the same day last year.

Hogs steady with Tuesday's average market. Some weakness in the late trade to packers. The top of $12.10 was paid at Chicago. Total offerings 71,400 as compared with 57,516 last Wednesday and 77,095 the corresponding period a year ago.

With the exception of slight strength on fat lambs at Kansas City and a few weak spots at Chicago. Killing classes of sheep were unchanged. Choice Montana lambs in Chicago topped at $13.90 and classily sorted natives brought $13.65@13.75. The supply numbered 49,900, an increase of 4,000 over a week ago and 2,500 more than a year ago.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Aug. 7. (AP)—A more or less general disposition to await publication of the government's crop report tomorrow, was reflected by a continued quiet business and comparatively narrow price movements in the cotton market again today. Slight opening advances were followed by declines but after selling off from 19.29 to 19.11, December rallied to yesterday's closing quotation, and closed at 19.19. The general market closed very steady, net unchanged to 3 points higher.

The opening was steady at a decline of 2 points on May but generally 1 to 6 points higher, with the more active months showing net gains of 2 to 8 points during the early trading on trade buying and covering.

The advance met pre-bureau liquidation or realizing, however, and offerings increased after the publication of the weekly report of the weather bureau which evidently read more favorable to the crop than anticipated by recent buyers. October sold off from 19.03 to 18.86, while March declined from 19.40 to 19.28 making net losses of about 7 to 9 points on the general list.

There was further liquidation which at times seemed in fair volume but it was absorbed by continued covering which appeared to be combined with some trade and Wall street buying. The forenoon losses were just about recovered with October closing at 18.91 and March at 19.36.

Two more private crop reports were issued, one of them placing the condition of the crop at 72.2 and the indicated yield at 15,750,000 bales while the other made the condition 68.5 and the indicated yield 15,116,000 bales. These private reports published during the past fortnight have shown condition figures ranging from 68.1 up to 73.1 and the private crop indications have ranged from 14,845,000 up to 15,810,000 bales.

Liverpool cables said there had been covering and foreign buying in that market influenced by reports of drouth in Texas.

Port receipts today 8,293. U. S. port stocks 521,414. Exports today 2,534, making 43,099 so far this season.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 7. (AP)—With the government crop report due tomorrow there was little incentive to trade in cotton today. Operators seemed disposed to hold off. Buying in early trading carried prices up 7 to 9 points but the improvement met selling and October sold from 18.88 to 18.75. The option closed at 18.79, or 2 points net lower with the general market closing steady net one point up to 2 down.

Liverpool cables were favorable and induced an opening advance here of 4 to 5 points. The market continued to advance, December reached 19.09, or 8 to 9 points net up.

The weather map, however, showed 3-in rainfall in the Texas Panhandle and the market started down. Before the offerings were absorbed December hit 18.94, or 13 to 16 points below the early highs. The market recovered nearly half the loss, December closing at 19.01, or one point net up.

Stocks Irregular as Traders Await Bank of England Rate

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Aug. 7. (US)—A quieter and continued irregular stock market was experienced today as Wall street waited on action on the Bank of England rate tomorrow. Bullish and bearish opinions flowed freely, influencing further short selling and some liquidation but having the main effect of keeping traders out of dealings entirely. Steel rallied vigorously but other Standard Industrials were unable to follow although holding to rather narrow range throughout. A few specialties closed higher with Hershey gaining 3½, and American Metals gaining 2⅜ but most Industrials lost from 1 to 5 points. Consolidated Gas lost 3⅜, Brooklyn Union 2 and other Utilities dropped to a lesser extent. Rails were in better demand in the afternoon so that Canadian Pacific gained 2⅛ and Union Pacific 3¾. The call rate dropped from renewal of 10 to 8 per cent with an apparent abundance of funds available. Turnover fell off to near the 3,000,000 share level.

Each Thursday brings its own crisis. Tomorrow it's the Bank of England rate action. By the time business starts tomorrow morning cables will have been received telling of action of the bank's directors. If the rate were left unchanged it would help our market. If raised further irregularity would be evidenced here. The fact is that the Bank of England's action should have no influence here as any change in the rate would be but temporary development and would not be likely to cause any change in our gold holdings. There are many bankers who think the rate may be left unchanged. They point out that the English have no such fetish as "ratio of reserves" such as prevails here and therefore are not disturbed because gold metal circulates. There is hope for a slight reduction in brokers' loans.

Short covering for the account of a prominent trader was reputedly responsible for the early strength in Steel. At the same time there was further good absorption for every report from the industry warrants belief that earnings this quarter will hold up to the record showing made by the corporations for the second three months. In that event it is difficult to see how directors can hold off splitting up the shares more than a few months. Bethlehem benefited from the performance of Big Steel as it emphasized that its earnings are running at a rate to warrant extra dividend. The operation in Briggs is not run by the group that managed the last lamented pool work. Present activity is sponsored by those who expect improved earnings in the last half of the year.

Churning of Anaconda is attracting attention to other Coppers even though it is recognized that the Anaconda activity is assisting the passing on to involuntary of permanent investors of stock left by the recent pool. Cerro de Pasco remains the most liked of the Red Metal group for on its low production costs it benefits most if the leaders of the industry can hold the price of the metal at 18 cents a pound. A new pool has been formed to work in American Metals. Those associated in the work state they will succeed if the "Anaconda churners get away with their operation." Recent buying of Borden and Hershey has been accompanied by rumor that there have been conservations looking toward merger of the two properties. Better demand for the Rails was predicted on belief they would take leading place in dealings—if the reserve permits a fairly easy money market.

Those who are in the best position to know claim there has been no conversation looking toward metger of Consolidated Gas and Brooklyn Union. They do not say there will not be a merger eventually but maintain all reports now of terms of exchange, etc. are "bunk." In fact, important stockholders of Consolidated Gas think Brooklyn Union is too high for any deal at this time. It is stated there is no chance of a get-together until present work of concentrating activities of subsidiaries is completed. It is progressing rapidly but it will be a few months more at least before the Gas and Electric properties are operating in the form of the two distinct units that is desired. In the meantime, buying for investment trusts and rich individuals has no limited floating supply of both stocks as to put both near the class of technical corners.

Sorghum heads, unchanged.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW

CHICAGO, Aug. 7. (AP)—Indications that farmers' haste to rush wheat to market is abating, and that exporters are buying more freely, helped turn wheat values suddenly upward today. Unlooked for relative strength of wheat prices in Europe attracted widespread notice, and there was renewal of anxiety concerning the crop outlook south of the equator.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 3c to 4⅛c a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 2c to 3⅛c up, oats ⅜c to 1⅜s advanced. Provisions varied from 4c decline to a rise of 2@5c.

Liverpool closing quotations were at 1⅜ to 2⅛ pence decline, notwithstanding that based on action of the Chicago market the Liverpool market was due for 5⅜ to 5⅜ pence break. Receipts at all primary points for three days this week showed more than 2,000,000 bushels falling off as compared with the same period last week. Estimates were current, too, that world wheat supplies for the present season would be around 220,000,000 bushels less than a five-year average. Today's export purchases of North American wheat were figured as 1,000,000 bushels or more, chiefly wheat from the United States.

Corn price upturns resulted largely from unfavorable advices about crop conditions in Oklahoma, Kansas, Western Missouri and Southern Nebraska.

In the provision market, lard tended upward on account of buying for packers and warehouse interests. Meats, however, slanted downward.

SUIT SPRING

This is to be a spring of suits. The little silk suit with pleated, gored or circular skirt and matching unlined cardigan coat will be the most popular, perhaps. But the silk suit of faille, or some other fine silk, that gets a feminine cut to its coat wins the race for chic.

PRICE OF EGGS GAINS SHARPLY

Decrease in Supplies Brings Advance

Pronounced decrease in supplies of marketable eggs resulted in a four-cent advance on No. 1 eggs in prices announced by the Armour Creameries plant here Wednesday.

Egg-laying hens in this section have shown marked inclination to observe the prevailing vacation spirit, it was said, with shipments from other states already received to meet local needs. The situation promises a material stiffening of the egg market within the next two weeks, local buyers said.

Movement of poultry has been limited largely to spring chickens, officials of the local Armour plant stated. Two carloads have been shipped recently, and other large quantities are being held in cold pack, it was said.

Extreme heat during the last nine days has resulted in the death of considerable numbers of chickens in batteries of the Armour Creameries. From 12,000 to 15,000 springs are held in the feeding batteries at one time, and on one day the toll was more than 100 chickens.

Two Ranches Occupied By Mexican Peasants

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 7. (AP)—A dispatch to Excelsior from Guaymas, Sonora, says that El Pueblito and El Hecho ranches, formerly the property of General Manzo, have been partially occupied by peasants to whim the land has been given by the government for temporary use. General Manzo's property was confiscated because of his participation in the Escobar revolution. He crossed to the United States just before the revolution collapsed.

"THERE IS NO SUMMER SLUMP"

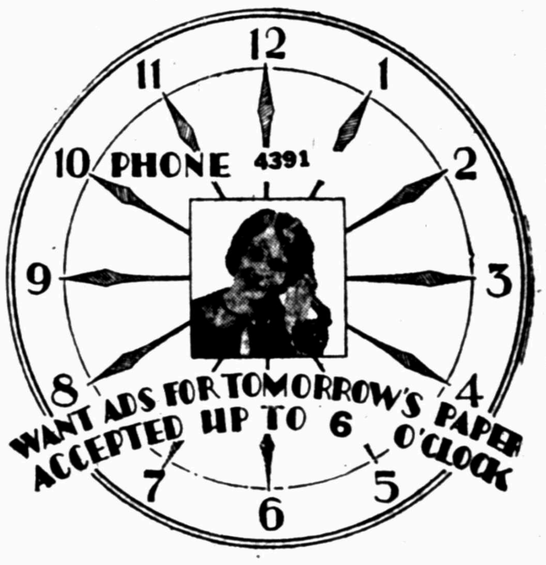

Radios and Musical Merchandise find a ready Market in Wichita Falls

Radio has no season. There is a demand the year round. This is also true of victrolas, pianos and other musical instruments. In the pioneering days of the radio, it was discovered that reception in summer weather was not as good as other seasons. This condition no longer exists as the newly perfected receiving sets operate practically as good in summer as any other time. Dealers in musical merchandise find that business is good. They sell radios, victrolas, records, sheet music and all types of musical instruments every day in the year. They find that Daily Times-Record News readers are responsive and ready purchasers. During the vacation season, when the children are home, there is an additional demand for all types of musical merchandise to entertain the kiddies. So there is no place in the music business for the old, poor business croaker—General Satisfaction and his gallant Classified army continue to dispose of Used Musical Instruments with profit to the advertiser and joy to the new owner. Daily Times-Record News is Wichita Falls' best medium for disposing of musical merchandise.

TEXAS TO KNOW TAX RATE SOON

Shumate Expects Increase In State Levy

The state tax rate will probably be set on Monday of next week according to information wired to Max Shumate, county tax assessor, by S. H. Terrell, state comptroller, Wednesday afternoon. The information came as the result of a telegraphic inquiry sent by the Wichita county official who has been expecting an announcement of the state rate for the past two weeks.

Local officials are expecting a small increase in the state levy in view of the heavy appropriations voted at the called session of the legislature. The rate stands now at 64 cents on the $100 valuation, divided into 22 cents for state revenue, 7 cents for pensions, and 35 cents for schools. Both the pension and the school levy are already at their highest, Mr. Shumate explained, but the revenue rate can be legally raised to 35 cents. Governor Moody has indicated that an increase will be necessary, the assessor explained.

The state rate is set in a conference between the governor, the treasurer and the comptroller, and will probably be announced late Monday afternoon, Mr. Shumate said.

Services Held For Burk Car Victim

Special to The Record-News.

BURKBURNETT, Texas, Aug. 7.—Funeral services for C. J. Mullenhouse, 21, of Bridgetown, near Burkburnett, who died in a hospital at Wichita Falls Sunday evening at 6:05 as a result of injuries received when the new Ford coupe which he was driving overturned about five miles northwest of Burkburnett late Saturday afternoon, were conducted Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock from the Church of Christ, with the pastor, Willis Kreager, officiating. Services were delayed awaiting the arrival of the father of the deceased, Mr. Don Mullenhouse, who was in West Texas at the time of the youth's death.

The accident, in which Mr. Mullenhouse sustained a fractured skull and internal injuries, occurred when the car skidded in loose dirt and went into the ditch on the Morgan City road. J. D. Abbot, who was also in the car, suffered a broken nose, several lacerations and severe bruises on the face and chest.

Besides his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Don Mullenhouse of Stringtown, the deceased is survived by three brothers, C. E. Mullenhouse of Duncan, Okla., W. T. and C. R. Mullenhouse, both of Burkburnett; two sisters, Mrs. W. R. Stimpson of Burkburnett and Mrs. J. O. Hickey of Temple, Okla.

Stringed Orchestra To Appear on Program

The stringed instrument orchestra of the East Side Presbyterian church will present several concert numbers in connection with the regular Friday night free motion pictures at Bowie school ground this week, it was announced Wednesday by C. C. Bunnenberg, city park superintendent, in charge of the arrangement of the picture programs. Arrangements for the concert were made through Rev. E. F. McGaughey, pastor of the East Side Presbyterian church.

Two Violent Deaths Recorded in Dallas

DALLAS, Aug. 7. (AP)—An unusual number of accidents were reported here during the past 24 hours. Two violent deaths also were recorded.

Mrs. Pearl Sadler, 43, of Dallas, died in a hospital yesterday of injuries received in an automobile accident near Waxahachie. Mrs. C. L. Bay, 38, died last night of a poisoning. The body was sent to Greenville for burial.

'I Feel 20 Years Younger Since Taking Orgatone,' He Says

Holliday, Texas, Man Had Suffered With Stomach Trouble and Rheumatism; Gained 13 Pounds

"Yes, sir, I feel 20 years younger, and am like an entirely new man, for every sign of my 20 years of suffering has gone, and I've only taken about seven bottles of Orgatone," said L. F. Martin, employed by the Humble Oil Co., Holliday, Texas.

"I've spent lots of money and have got over my troubles at the low cost of $6.25, and if that isn't enough to be praising Orgatone, I don't know what is."

He continued, "I had rheumatism so bad at times I could hardly get out of bed in the mornings, and didn't even feel like trying. I had become almost a nervous wreck. I was constipated a great deal of the time, and would have severe headaches and dizzy, bilious spells. I was driving a truck around Burkburnett during the oil boom, and at that time I suffered with rheumatism, and so bad at times I would have to use my hands instead of my feet on the clutches and brakes. I suffered so much I cannot tell you. My limbs would cramp and swell, and I felt as if I could never get any relief, for I tried a lot of medicines but nothing did me any good.

"Orgatone was advertised so highly for just such troubles as mine, and so I decided to give it a trial. I noticed an improvement right from the very start. Since taking a little over six bottles, I'm feeling great. I can tell you right here and now that Orgatone has relieved me of my rheumatism; I have no signs of it now. My headaches have disappeared, and those dizzy, bilious spells have gone. I feel 20 years younger since using it. And I have actually gained 13 pounds, so you see I cannot help but speak a good word for Orgatone, after all the good it has done for me."

Genuine Orgatone is manufactured by one of the world's greatest laboratories and is not a so-called secret or patent remedy but a new scientific bile treatment and is sold in Wichita Falls exclusively by the Allison Drug store.—Adv.

MAJESTIC: Intensely gripping courtroom drama in "The Trial of Mary Dugan." Paramount news.

STRAND: "The Time, the Place, and the Girl." Grant Withers as a bond salesman is a fine football player. Vitaphone vaudeville. Comedy. Movietone news.

OLYMPIC: "The Strange Case of Captain Ramper." A foreign production featuring Lon Chaney make-up in spooky atmospheres. Pathe review, comedy, Pathe news.

GEM: Madge Bellamy in "Mother Knows Best." Comedy.

The name of William Shakespeare might be suspected by having wandered far from its wonted fields if discovered in a column ostensibly devoted to the dissemination of humble opinions anent current screen and legitimate drama. No attempt will be made to compare dramatic effects obtained by the talking picture of 1929 with those which thrilled Queen Bess as the immortal plays of Shakespeare began their world conquest in London more than three centuries back.

◇ ◇ ◇

The creations attributed to Shakespeare are invoked as offering irrefutable testimony that dramatic greatness depends largely upon a universal appeal. The charm of his plays lies not alone in the rare beauty of his poetic expression, but in the discerning portrayal of character, so truthfully reflecting recognized types of human nature as to gain almost immediate adoption throughout the civilized world.

◇ ◇ ◇

It may be observed that in spite of prolific production, Shakespeare did not draw exclusively for subject matter upon the court life in London, although it appears that his career was sponsored largely by the imperious Queen Elizabeth. Through his pen the deeds of Caesar, the tragedies of Egypt, the romance of Venice, the political intrigue of Denmark lived again in London. A range of interest which hardly could be called provincial.

◇ ◇ ◇

All of which draws pointed contrast between established greatness in drama and the degree of monopoly exercised by New York's revues, night clubs, and high-steppers in the composition of plays now being produced through talking films. Nor is the contrast out of season, in view of declarations issuing numerously from leaders in the new industry attesting its high purposes and promising dramatic perfection excelling that of the speaking stage. There seems to be a determined effort to impose upon the "provincials" that fine degree of sophistication which cosmopolitan New York is supposed—outside that city—to impart. But its apostles may have fallen into the error common to conscientiously unprovincial minds—that of extreme provincialism.

◇ ◇ ◇

Survey briefly the sound pictures which have been emblazoned in largest letters above our theaters during the year. As well start with Fannie Brice in "My Man." Then Al Jolson with "The Jazz Singer," and "The Singing Fool." More recently the "Broadway Melody," and "Rainbow Man." Now we have Alice White in "Broadway Babies," and Dolores Costello in "The Glad Rag Doll." Soon Harry Richman, New York night club owner, will open a new cycle with "The Song of Broadway." Continued sweets cloy the taste.

◇ ◇ ◇

Experience proves that being kept too long in the saddle may involve a... much injustice as "riding a good horse to death;" merely changing the locale of superior endurance. Is the life of America, and of the world, so centralized in the dressing rooms of Broadway's play houses that subject matter for entertaining drama has disappeared entirely from less important fields of endeavor, and less favored centers of population?

◇ ◇ ◇

Producers at Hollywood may naturally be keenly interested in Broadway as a source of talent for the new picture industry, but our interest in how the "hoofers" finally got a big break has sagged woefully during the last five or six demonstrations of it.

FATHER MUST SUPPORT TOTS

H. L. Baker Assessed Monthly Payment of $30

H. L. Baker, the third of nine defendants named in child desertion indictments returned here two weeks ago, Wednesday was assessed $30 a month toward the support of his children by an order from Judge W. W. Cook in the 78th district court.

According to evidence introduced at the hearing, Baker has two children, 8 and 10 years old, and earns a salary of around $100 a month. The defendant told the judge that the assessment was "kind of steep," but accepted the ruling. He has been released under a $1,000 bond and will not be prosecuted on the indictment so long as the judge's orders are carried out, it was explained.

Under the new law which makes child desertion a felony, the district attorney's office has arranged a hearing and an assesment for each defendant named. Two other fathers have been ordered to make payments within the past two weeks, one being assessed $5 a week and the second $12.50.

New Truck Service To Be Inaugurated

Daily truck freight service service between Dallas and Wichita Falls, and between Wichita Falls and Stamford, with complete insurance protection both to carrier and shipper, will be inaugurated at once by the Tarry Motor Freight lines following receipt Wednesday of certificate of convenience and necessity from the motor transportation division of the state railroad commission.

This announcement was made Wednesday by J. P. Tarry, president of the Tarry Warehouse & Storage company, Inc., of which the Tarry Motor Freight lines are a subsidiary.

The Tarry lines are classified as a class A carrier according to the certificate received. This classification signifies the maintenance of a regular schedule over a regular route with fixed termini.

According to Mr. Tarry, daily service will be maintained between Dallas and Wichita Falls, trucks leaving each city about 5 p. m. and making delivery at destination about 6 a. m. of the following day. The Tarry lines articulate at Fort Worth with the Binyon-O'Keefe trucks. Trucks to Stamford, and intermediate points, leave Wichita Falls about 7 a. m. daily, with a similar service originating at Stamford at the same hour. Seymour, Goree, Munday and Haskell are among the towns visited on the Stamford route.

Freight to Abilene will also be handled by the Tarry lines, it was stated, transfer being effected at Stamford.

MORE ABOUT PENSIONS

Editor, Record News: I was very much impressed by the article of Col. Ed C. Wilson, an 87-year-old confederate veteran of Electra, with reference to the state pension.

I want to say that I heartily agree with Colonel Wilson when he says that it is a shame that the state cannot make the pension fund at least $25 per month for the old veterans.

All of the old veterans are growing old and can not long need the pension. The seven-cent state tax for the pension is not sufficient to pay the $25 per month, but it will be only a short time until the veterans will be so few that even this amount would not take a very large per cent of the pension tax. Why not give these old veterans this money while they are here and need it so badly.

Another point of the new pension ruling that I think reflects no credit on the fair name of Texas is the payment of all the funds to the pensioners over 75 years of age. I know widows of old veterans who are in destitute circumstances who are past 70 but not 75 years of age who will not get one penny under the new ruling. These old widows have been receiving about $50 for each quarter year prior to the passage of the recent bill making the change in the pension payments.

We can appropriate money to pay college and university professors who work three or four hours a day big salaries, but we cannot afford to pay these old widows who are in destitute circumstances a small pension. The 41st legislature made appropriations of more than $50,000,000 and refused to provide a small pension for these old widows. I think it a disgrace that we provide funds for everything else and leave these old widows to get along the best they can without this small pension.

Texas Student Fliers Injured in Crash

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Aug. 7. (UP)—Lieuts. O. R. Meacham and F. M. Lane, student officers of the army advanced flying school at Kelly field, were seriously injured late today in an airplane crash near here. Meacham was piloting and Lane was taking aerial pictures at the time of the crash.

WORM POISON NEEDED HERE

Cotton Leaf Pest Gaining On Farmers

With an inadequate supply of the necessary poison, Wichita county farmers are waging a precarious battle against the spread of the cotton leaf worm, already infesting the fields, G. C. McGowen, county farm agent, declared Wednesday afternoon.

"We have 300 pounds of calcium arsenate; we need 30,000," the agent said. "The nearest source is California and a carload is on its way here, but meanwhile the worms will get a 10-day start of us."

Mr. McGown said the worms, which eat the leaves of the stalks and destroy the growth, are spreading rapidly and that farmers are having to limit their efforts to an attack upon concentrated areas. He has sent for re-enforcements, themselves inadequate, from Vernon, and has discovered a small amount of the poison at Iowa Park. The situation threatens to seriously hurt the development of the crop, the agent declared.

"There is one hopeful circumstance," Mr. McGown added. "This first generation of the worms won't do disastrous damage. By the time the dangerous fellows come along we'll have the poison on hand. But I want to warn all the farmers of the county to look out for the last week of this month and be ready for a real battle. We ought to check up now, when the infestation is just starting. Since we can't do that we'll have to get ready for a hard fight on a large number of fully developed worms."

Entries Received For Harmonica Contest

Entries in the city-wide harmonica contest to be staged at Bellevue park Aug. 14, may be made at the office of the city park department in the Memorial auditorium or may be telephoned by calling 2-2183, it was announced Wednesday by C. C. Bunnenberg, city park superintendent. The contest is open to all comers and prizes, consisting of three medals and three harmonicas received from the Honer Harmonica company, will be awarded to the oldest, youngest and best players of the instrument.

Gwinn Refuses To Take Part In License Tag War

R. V. Gwinn, justice of the peace, Wednesday refused to take part in any license war of reprisal on Oklahoma by declining to fine an Oklahoma truck driver arrested for driving in Texas without a Texas plate.

"I won't have any part in this hi-jacking business," the justice declared. "Maybe they are getting Texas drivers in Oklahoma, but that's none of my affair. When a truck comes over here on infrequent and short trips, I'm not going to lay a fine on its driver. This is the first case of the kind I've had in months, and I rather think it will be the last."

After the hearing on charges of driving a commercial vehicle without a Texas license, Judge Gwinn sent the driver up to the office of the tax collector after a license, but would not impose a penalty.

Spasmodic efforts on the part of Cotton county officers to strictly enforce a similar law in Oklahoma last week resulted in a widespread comment among Wichita county drivers and the warning of other truck owners to avoid the difficulties. Wichita county officials have deprecated the threatened feeling of hostility and have expressed the hope that it would be checked at once.

Knothole Leaders To Play Panther Nines

The two leading teams in the Rotary Knothole league of Wichita Falls at the end of the week will play two teams from the Panther Boys' club of Fort Worth in a double-header here Saturday afternoon, it was announced Wednesday by C. Automobile License Fees Total $4,000 in Two Weeks' Time Here

Almost $4,000 in automobile license fees has been collected by Charles E. Parker, deputy tax collector, during the past two weeks, according to compilations completed before the mailing of a fortnightly check to the state on Wednesday afternoon. Of the total amount the state's share totaled $2,648.24, Mr. Parker said. The collections are about $500 greater than those for the same period last year, the collector added, the department handling around $1,000 a month more business this year than in 1928.

A portion of the fees taken in during the past two weeks are being held in reserve for refunds on licenses bought between May 23 and June 17, Mr. Parker explained. Several hundred Wichita county automobile owners have not collected the small refund due them by the terms of the new fee law, he declared. The new law, which went into effect before local officials were informed about its terms, calls for a 1-12 reduction in the yearly fee every month rather than a 1-4 cut every quarter. Purchasers of licenses between May 23 and June 17 paid more than was legally required and have been invited to call at the collector's office for refunds.

DeMolay Installs Master Councilor

Robert Crocker was installed as master councilor of Hope chapter, Order of DeMolay, at a ceremony held at 8 o'clock Wednesday night in the Faith lodge rooms, 813½ Scott avenue. Other officers installed were Dick Long, senior councilor, and Richard Crocker, junior councilor. J. D. Bright, advisor of the chapter, was in charge.

A special program for the occasion was presented and the ceremony was open to the public, with several Masons and friends of the DeMolays in attendance. The ceremony was held following the regular session of the chapter.

Robert Crocker had been re-elected master councilor at an election held several weeks ago. He has been quite active in DeMolay work during his term of office, having planned several activities for the chapter. During his coming term as master councilor, several out-of-town trips will be made in August and September, arrangements for another chapter to confer the maiority service on a number of ex-DeMolays having been planned. In addition, plans for the perfection of a DeMolay alumni organization in Wichita Falls are going forward.
