Iraqi police leave refugees' camp

■ Police withdraw behind 'safety zone' created by allied forces.

Associated Press

ZAKHO, Iraq — Almost all of Saddam Hussein's police quit this northern Iraqi city Friday, to the joy of refugees but leaving America and its allies with the task of stopping further bloodshed by returning Kurdish guerrillas.

Guerrillas with machine guns and hand grenades attacked a police station in Zakho late Thursday, wounding at least five officers, Zakho Mayor Daoud Hassan Suliman said Friday. Other residents said two police were killed, but this could not be confirmed.

The police were part of a 50-man Iraqi force intended to patrol the city in the Kurdish "safety zone" set up by allied forces.

In New York, the United Nations said it would soon take control of the U.S.-installed refugee camp.

"We intend to take over as soon as possible," Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar said Friday. "It is a question of days."

The refugee death toll continued to rise. U.N. officials said Friday in Tehran that of the thousands of refugees swarming into Iran, nearly 2,000 a day are dying.

Iranian officials say more than 1 million Kurdish and Shiite Muslim refugees have crossed into Iran since Iraqi troops crushed their rebellions against President Saddam Hussein.

Saddam, in the latest move toward easing the severity of his rule, on Friday lifted a ban on travel for Iraqis and disbanded his Baath Party militia, known as the Popular Army, which was mobilized during the gulf crisis.

The travel ban was ordered early in the crisis when Saddam began marshalling his 17-million population to face the U.S.-led coalition forces.

Foot columns of allied troops in combat dress and flak jackets began patrolling Zakho's streets Friday morning, trailed by happy children. Flowers, handshakes and offers of tea were pressed upon the soldiers as they walked.

Military officials said refugees in the mountains heard that the police had left and started to descend from the camps, where for weeks they risked disease and hunger rather than face slaughter by Saddam.

The police departure emboldened Kurdish guerrillas to move about openly. Three cars of fighters, known as the peshmergas, zoomed through Zakho's main street, past the police station where only Thursday scores of police had been staying.

Bowing to allied demands, more than 300 Iraqi police left town in buses Thursday evening and early Friday, U.S. officials said. Townspeople said the figure of those leaving was more like 700-800.

The rebels struck a few hours before the last busload rolled out of Zakho, leaving behind only the group at the targeted station.

Mayor Suliman told foreign journalists visiting from Baghdad that the Thursday night attack seriously wounded three police and slightly injured two.

"The police had only light weapons and could not fight back," he said.

Bush says U.S. not looking for fight with Iraq

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush said Friday the United States is "not looking for any fight" with Baghdad but will keep military forces in Iraq as long as it takes to help Kurdish refugees.

"I don't think Saddam Hussein is dumb enough to want to have (to) run into the U.S. troops again," Bush said.

He also expressed confidence Saddam will be deposed eventually. "His people don't like him and it's only terror that's keeping him in power," Bush said, adding that there will not be normal relations between Baghdad and Washington as long as Saddam is in control.

The president made his comments at an impromptu news conference on the White House South Lawn during a tree-planting ceremony marking Arbor Day. He helped plant a purple leaf beech.

Bush said he was confident that Baghdad would continue to keep military forces away from the refugee camps in northern Iraq.

"They don't want to tangle with the U.S. again," he said. "They learned that the hard way and the forces are there to be sure" Iraq keeps its own troops away. "We're not looking for

Living in trunk

DES PLAINES, Ill. — A woman lived on peanuts and rainwater for eight days in the trunk of a car after being raped and slashed, police said Friday. The 37-year-old woman from this Chicago suburb freed herself Thursday by prying open the lock with the spare tire bracket, Sgt. Larry Zumbrock said. She was dehydrated and had infected cuts on her face, hands and legs, officials said. Don Juan Blackmon, 32, a deliveryman the woman had dated, was charged in the incident and held on $500,000 bond, police said. The woman was raped April 17, then slashed with a knife and stuffed in the trunk, police said. Blackmon continued to drive his 1978 Oldsmobile — even for his car pool — with the woman in the trunk, Zumbrock said. She survived by eating two peanuts a day from a package in her pocket and by drinking dew and rainwater that seeped through the cracks in the trunk, Zumbrock said.

Author dies

CHOTEAU, Mont. — A.B. Guthrie Jr., whose epic frontier novels took a gritty and unglamorous look at the American West and earned him a Pulitzer Prize, died Friday. He was 90. Guthrie, who had been in poor health for several months, died at his home northwest of Choteau. Funeral arrangements are pending. A newspaperman-turned-author, Guthrie's fame rested chiefly on six historical novels that gave a lusty but unromanticized look at the settling of the American West. The most famous, "The Big Sky," launched his career in 1947 and "The Way West," published in 1949, won the Pulitzer Prize for fiction in 1950. "These Thousand Hills" followed in 1956. All became movies. His other historical novels were "Arfive," which won the 1970 Western Heritage Wrangler Award, "The Last Valley" in 1975 and "Fair Land, Fair Land" in 1982.

Tornadoes kill at least 28 in Midwest

Associated Press

ANDOVER, Kan. — Tornadoes ripped through Kansas and Oklahoma Friday, chasing legislators from the Kansas Statehouse, damaging a hospital at an Air Force base and killing at least 28 people, authorities said.

At least 22 were killed in Andover, Kan., outside Wichita, by a twister that damaged 500 homes, Andover Mayor Jack Finlason told reporters. Law enforcement officials weren't immediately able to confirm the death count.

Two deaths were reported in Wichita and one near Winfield, Kan.

Oklahoma authorities blamed tornadoes for at least three deaths in the northeastern part of that state.

In Andover, a town of 5,000, the mayor reported devastation.

"The southeast part of town, especially the mobile home park, is completely leveled. The injuries are too numerous at this point to assess," Finalson said.

Some Texas schools could face audits

■ Comptroller's office will audit districts that lay off teachers or cut instructional programs as result of funding cuts.

Associated Press

EL PASO — School districts that lay off teachers and cut instructional programs because they've lost funding under a new school finance reform measure could get audited by the state comptroller.

Before districts make such cuts, they should first trim administrative costs, Olivia "Ollie" Besteiro, president of the Texas State Teachers Association, said in a news conference Friday.

"Any budgetary belt-tightening should be aimed at preserving the quality of the instructional program. Teachers and

Odessa's tax burden 3rd among 21 largest cities

■ Of the state's largest cities, only residents in Corpus Christi and Pasadena pay more taxes than Odessans.

By Brian Pearson
Staff Writer

ODESSA — Odessans last year shouldered a higher property tax burden than residents of Austin, Dallas, Houston and San Antonio, a Texas Research League study released Friday shows.

Of the state's 21 largest cities, Odessa had the third highest tax burden, with only Corpus Christi and Pasadena residents paying higher taxes during the 1989-90 fiscal year.

A tax burden is the combination of city, school, college, hospital, county and other property taxes. Odessa had no hospital tax last year, unlike Corpus Christi and Pasadena.

Midland's population was not big enough to make the 21-city list, but the city's tax burden would have ranked ninth if it was in the survey. That places it higher than Dallas, El Paso and Houston among other large cities.

The study does not include tax increases approved by governmental entities in mid-1990.

In 1989-90, Odessa's tax burden was $2.15 cents per $100 valuation, a 16 cent, or 8 percent, increase from the previous year, when the city's tax burden ranked fourth. Amarillo ranked higher than Odessa in 1988-89 but dropped to fifth last year.

Midland had a $2.03 per $100 valuation tax burden last year, a 26 cent, or 14.7 percent, increase from the previous year's burden of $1.77.

TORNADO: Storm damages hospital on Air Force base

(From 1A)

The Golden Spur Mobile Home Park was leveled. Authories planned to search for victims there throughout the night.

"There are still, we're afraid, injured people trapped," said Stan Cox, a Butler County Sheriff's captain.

A 13-year-old girl in Andover was carried 400 feet into a tree.

Corrugated metal, insulation, and other debris was wrapped around utility poles. All power was out in the town late Friday.

Gov. Joan Finney has authorized National Guard troops and Kansas State Highway patrolmen to go to the Wichita-Andover area for reinforcements.

In Oklahoma, one woman died when her car was swept off U.S. 64 in Pawnee County, west of Tulsa, said Highway Patrol dispatcher Patrick Sawyer. Another person was killed near Westport, about 25 miles west of Tulsa.

One person died when a tornado hit a street corner in Copan, a few miles south of the Kansas line, said Bartlesville shift Chief Larry Topping.

Cars in Copan "were rolled up like little balls," Topping said.

Tonkawa, about 100 miles northwest of Tulsa, was hit by two twisters, one in the morning and one in the evening. Between the onslaughts, retiree Jack Barnes was helping clear downed limbs from another family's roof when a branch snapped back in his face injuring him fatally, said police Chief Frank Hall.

Tornadoes also hit Nebraska and Louisiana.

Kansas lawmakers were ordered to evacuate the Statehouse because of storms heading for Topeka.

The Cowley County Sheriff's Department confirmed that a twister killed a man near Winfield, in southeast Kansas, but he had no other information.

Harold Harris of Wichita watched a twister touch down on a farm northwest of town.

"We saw the tornado coming across the field," he said. "A barn disappeared and it tore the devil out of the house."

A sheriff's official in Sedgewick County, Kan., estimated that up to 200 people were taken to hospitals.

A tornado touched down at McConnell Air Force Base in Wichita about 6:30 p.m., causing a few minor injuries and heavily damaging the base hospital, community center, bowling alley, gymnasium and other buildings, said Sgt. Larry Dean of the base public affairs office.

In Nebraska, a tornado damaged houses, farms and trees south of Beatrice as thunderstorms and hail up to the size of golf balls pummeled the state's southeastern, eastern and northeastern portions.

A twister battered Grand Isle in Louisiana. New Orleans area subdivisions were awash in floodwater and unrelenting rain postponed the opening the New Orleans Jazz and Heritage Festival.

Intense storms pelted areas of Arkansas with hail up to the size of golf balls and knocked out power to thousands, officials said.

In Wyoming, the state highway patrol closed a 30-mile section of Interstate 80 between Laramie and Wolcott Junction.

WEATHER SUMMARY

Today's high to be near 80

Staff Report

Today's forecast is sunny and cooler with a high near 80 and northwest winds 10-20 mph and gusty, diminishing to 10-15 mph by late afternoon, according to the National Weather Service at Midland International Airport.

Tonight is predicted to be fair with a low in the upper 40s.

Sunday's forecast is partly cloudy with a high near 80, the NWS said.

Friday's high was 90 compared to record high of 97, set in 1959.

The record low for today's date is 36, set in 1946.

STATE

Skies over Texas were sunny in the west Friday and partly to mostly cloudy elsewhere ahead of a dry line. South Texas was foggy with visibility below five miles.

Temperatures climbed Friday into the upper 80s and lower 90s except for 70s under clouds in East Texas. Extremes ranged from 96 degrees at McAllen to 71 degrees at Texarkana.

Forecasters expected thunderstorms, some severe, to march across North Texas Friday night as an upper level disturbance overtook the line separating dry from moist air. The line stretched from near Wichita Falls to just east of Abilene.

Saturday's forecast was for clearing skies in West Texas and warm temperatures statewide with highs in the 80s and 90, but cooler in the Panhandle. Drizzle and fog were on tap for South Texas.

NATION

Severe thunderstorms and tornadoes pounded parts of the central and southern Plains and the lower Missouri Valley on Friday, and a springtime dose of wintery weather hit parts of the Rockies.

Thunderstorm winds gusted to near 65 mph at Tonkawa in northern Oklahoma, causing damage to trees and power lines.

Golf ball-sized hail fell near Newkirk, Okla., and northwest of Coffeyville, Kan., while early afternoon thunderstorms produced hail about the same size near Delphos, Kan.

In Montana, forecasts of up to 4 feet of snow loomed larger than usual because a strike by more than 4,000 state employees includes road crews.

The late season storm already caused problems in parts of southern and southwestern Montana. Homestake Pass over the Continental Divide on Interstate 90 was closed for several hours Thursday because of snow. It reopened after a department supervisor sanded the highway.

By Friday morning, more than a foot of new snow was reported in several areas of Wyoming, and conditions were not expected to improve Saturday. About a foot of snow had fallen in the Wind River Mountains.

Travel across much of Wyoming was predicted to be dangerous Saturday as a major spring storm continued to dump snow and rain on the state and whip up wind gusts as high as 70 mph.

Snow reached from east-central Nevada across northern Utah, eastern Idaho, southwest Montana, Wyoming and northwest Colorado.

The nation's low Friday morning was 18 degrees at Burns, Ore.

Temperatures at 3 p.m. EDT ranged from 30 degrees at Yellowstone in Wyoming to 96 at Laredo, Texas.

The Associated Press also contributed to this report.

Tornadoes hit East Texas

JACKSONVILLE, Texas (AP) — Severe thunderstorms pounded Cherokee County Friday evening, possibly spawning tornadoes blamed for damage in several communities.

"The most serious damage is to Mount Selman," said a dispatcher with the Cherokee County Sheriff's Department. The extent of damage was not known but included some structures. No injuries were reported.

Additional damage was reported in the Reese and Cove Springs communities, also in northern Cherokee County.

Baseball-sized hail was reported in the town of Bullard on the Smith County line, the National Weather Service said.

The region was under a tornado watch until 1 a.m. Saturday and a tornado warning was issued at 6:49 p.m. for Cherokee County after radar indicated a possible twister in the area.

Thunderstorms also struck Southeast Texas, where golfball size hail was reported in Montgomery, just east of Willis.

IRAQ: Guerrillas attack police station in Zakho

(From 1A)

The wounded Iraqis were taken away from Zakho with one of the last busloads of police leaving Friday, said British Marines Capt. Mark Wolsey.

At the police station, halls, floor and stairs were stained with blood. There were marks of an explosion, and bullet holes in a wall near the entrance.

Col. Dick Naab, the American liaison officer for dealing with the Iraqi government in Zakho, said he did not know what happened at the police station.

"There's gunfire every night, almost," Naab said.

"It's real Hatfields and McCoys territory here, but it's getting better," said U.S. Marine Col. James Jones, commander of the unit providing protection for the U.S.-led relief effort for Kurdish refugees.

A leader of the area peshmerga, Mohammed Samoud, disavowed responsibility for the attack. But he told reporters every Iraqi officer must leave before he would urge his people to return from the hills.

"If one policeman stays here, there will be no security," said Samoud, who is loyal to the Kurdish Democratic Party.

Dressed in an olive-green uniform with Kurdish-style baggy trousers, a cummerbund and wrapped scarf on his head, the bearded 35-year-old carried a Kalashnikov automatic rifle on his shoulder, two grenades and a pistol on his hips.

A British Royal Marine holds the hand of a little Iraqi girl as he patrols the streets of the Iraqi border town of Zakho Friday.

The coalition, as part of its plan to create a "safe haven" for displaced Kurds, had demanded all but 50 well-identified "indigenous" Iraqi police leave town, U.S. Army Maj. Gen. John Garner said earlier. Those remaining would be allowed to carry automatic rifles, he said.

Few of the 50 who stayed behind dared show their faces Friday. An Associated Press photographer who spent most of the day in the city encountered only eight Iraqi police, and none late in the day.

"The peshmerga is coming to their houses to kill these police," one resident sitting in a barber shop warned before the raid. Peshmerga means "those who face death" in the Kurdish language.

Commander Jones said the Iraqi army has now fully withdrawn beyond the 18-mile line specified by the allies last week.

Townspeople expressed fear some secret police stayed behind.

A British Marine captain met with Kurdish guerrilla leaders in the mountains near Zakho to persuade them to give refugees the green light to come to the new camp in Zakho, according to reporters at the scene.

But the leaders were reluctant to make that decision until they were convinced all Iraqi police, including secret police, had left.

British, Dutch and U.S. Marines conducted patrols in Zakho. The British and Dutch were on foot; the Americans in armored personnel carriers.

Wherever the soldiers went, curious children trailed them and people on the sidewalks expressed joy and relief.

Streets and markets were crowded with residents.

"Now we aren't afraid. It's normal now and we want the people of Zakho to come back," said another man, a lawyer.

But despite the allied troops, the man was afraid to give his name.

BUSH: President thinks Saddam will be deposed any fight. We want to help these Kurds ... and I might say at considerable cost. We're doing it because it's right."

(From 1A)

On Capitol Hill, Gen. Colin Powell said the United States was beefing up its forces in Iraq and that the Kurds should feel more secure about coming down from the mountains. Moreover, he said international relief efforts were increasing.

"So I think we're in pretty good shape, better than we were a couple of days ago," said Powell, the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Asked how long U.S. troops will remain in Iraq, he said, "I had no time line in mind when we sent them in there. They'll stay as long as needed."

About 7,000 U.S. troops are positioned in northern Iraq and in nearby Turkey to assist hundreds of thousands of refugees who fled their homes after a failed uprising against Saddam.

U.S. military officials said 90 more troops entered the Zakho area Friday and that 300 or more were en route to bolster the U.S. military presence.

"I do not want to intervene and get our troops hauled into some conflict that's been going on for years," Bush said. "But when it comes to helping people, the United States is today doing what it's always done: being out in front on the relief effort."

He said he did not know how long U.S. troops would be in Iraq. "They're going to stay there as long as it takes to be sure these refugees are taken care of, and not a minute longer."

In New York, U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar said the camp at Zakho will be turned over to U.N. control within days. A U.S. diplomat said the complete transfer of authority would probably take weeks.

Bush said he was committed to bringing U.S. troops home but that "we will do what's necessary to see that this refugee aid gets to the people that need it and gets there so that they can have it in safety."

He expressed skepticism about chances to end Iraq's own turmoil. "I don't know that there's going to be lasting peace in Iraq," the president said. "Peace has escaped those people for years."

He said he hoped a tentative agreement between Saddam and Kurds would ease tensions but added, "I can't certify that" it will.

Bond election information available

Staff Report

Persons interested in obtaining more information about Midland Independent School District's upcoming bond election may participate in several events.

Information pamphlets will be handed out from a booth in Midland Park Mall from 9 a.m.-9 p.m. today and from 1-6 p.m. Sunday.

A neighborhood discussion panel will be conducted on the bond issue 4 p.m. Sunday in the library of Emerson Elementary School, 2800 Moss. Persons from the school board and the citizen advisory committee will participate in the panel discussion.

The final days to vote absentee are Monday and Tuesday. The Midland County Voter Administration Building, 709 W. Washington, will be open for voting 8 a.m.-5 p.m. both days.

Powell tells paper about pronunciation of his first name

LONDON (AP) — The Times of London was politely corrected in a letter to the editor Friday by Gen. Colin L. Powell, chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, about why his friends call him Koh-lin — not Kah-lin.

The matter came about Feb. 22 when Philip Howard, the paper's writer on linguistic affairs, wrote in a lengthy and learned article about the name Colin that "he pronounces it with a long o, so as to rhyme with bowling. What can it mean?

"Two things are going on here, I think. One is the American wish not to put up with elitist British pronunciations... The other factor is American individuality and the wish to be different in names."

But Powell, who became well-known in America and England for his prominent role in the Persian Gulf War, wrote in his letter:

"Mr. Howard attributes courage to me — and to Americans in general — for choosing to pronounce my name as its spelling looks. I am afraid ... the truth is not as bold and brazen as he surmises.

"My parents were British subjects and they named me Colin (Kah-lin). Being British, they knew very well how the name was supposed to be pronounced. But when I was a young boy, there was a famous American World War II hero ... whose name became very popular in the streets of New York City. He was Captain Colin P. Kelly Jr. He was called Koh-lin.

"My friends in the streets of the South Bronx, who heard Captain Kelly's name pronounced on the radio and by their parents and other adults, began to refer to me by the same pronunciation. So, I grew up with my friends saying Koh-lin and my family saying Kah-lin. By the way, I lived on Kelly Street.

"I have become comfortable with either pronunciation, but most of my friends call me Koh-lin — much to the regret of most of my British friends who liken this 'improper' pronunciation to fingernails sliding down a slate board."

Powell said Kelly "died as a result of his heroism and was given our Distinguished Service Cross." But he recalled how he later met Kelly's son, Colin P. Kelly III, who after serving in Vietnam returned home and entered the Army chaplaincy as an Episcopal priest.

Powell wrote: "I met him almost 10 years ago when I was a brigadier general and he was a lieutenant colonel. I asked him immediately what his name was and when he said Koh-lin Kelly, I was instantly relieved. I said to him, 'Thank God, you have been mispronouncing your name all your life also.'"

Clarification

In Friday's edition of the Reporter-Telegram, an article describing the Midland Independent School District's Alternative Program Center, the concluding paragraphs were inadvertently omitted.

The article noted that an independent advisory committee of business people has recommended a name change and image-enhancement program for the center, which is for any student who requires an environment other than the typical classroom setting in order to complete their schooling — for a variety of reasons.

The school has served 300 students, whose racial composition is roughly the same as the high school population at large — 55 percent Anglo, 35 percent Hispanic and 10 percent black.

The remainder of the story should have read:

"It's a misconception that this is a school for children in trouble," said Lucy Davis in the advisory committee report she recently presented to the school board.

Ms. Davis, director of education for Casa de Amigos and a member of the Midland Alternative School Advisory committee, said that 92 percent of the students enrolled in the school this year will receive their diplomas in May.

"The faculty of the school is outstanding," she said.

Before researching the school, Ms. Davis said, "I thought it was a school for children in trouble. I found out it is a school for those who cannot perform in the typical classroom for other reasons."

DEATHS

Lloyd Dunagan

Services for Lloyd Dunagan of Midland will be at 9:30 a.m. today at First Baptist Church Sanctuary with Rev. James Denison, pastor, officiating. Interment will follow at Fairview Cemetery with Ellis Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

He died Thursday at his residence.

Pallbearers will be Harold Claiborne, Lew Haney, Bob Birth, A.R. "Bo" Snider, Joe Pollard and W.D. Adams.

The family requests memorials be directed to Hospice of Midland, P.O. Box 2621, Midland, Texas, 79702.

STUDY: Odessans' tax burden heavy

(From 1A)

Alan Barnes, an Austin-based Texas Research League senior research associate, said tax burden studies are useful tools for industries and local governmental officials.

"If you're an industry looking for a location and you decide to go to Texas, tax burdens make a big difference in what city they go to," Barnes said. "We hope the study also will be used by officials when setting tax rates. They can see how they stack up around the state."

The highest 1989-90 tax burden among the 21 cities belonged to Pasadena, levying a combined $2.28 per $100 valuation burden on its taxpayers. Corpus Christi, the second-place finisher, had a $2.19 burden.

The tax burden for other cities in that category was: Abilene, $2.01; Amarillo, $2.12; Arlington, $1.86; Austin, $2.10; Beaumont, $1.89; Brownsville, $1.84; and Dallas, $1.85.

Also: El Paso, $1.88; Fort Worth, $2.09; Garland, $1.81; Houston, $2.02; Irving, $1.74; Laredo, $1.49; Lubbock, $2.13; San Angelo, $1.84; San Antonio, $2.07; Waco, $1.75; and Wichita Falls, $1.80.

Neil McDonald, Odessa Chamber of Commerce industrial development director, said his community's tax burden has not affected the city's ability to lure or keep industry.

"The profitability enjoyed by these companies operating in Odessa outweighs the tax liabilities that may or may not affect them," McDonald said. "We don't have any complaints about the tax burden."

In fact, he said seven "major" industries were strongly considering a move to Odessa, apparently undaunted by the tax burden.

Mark Thomas, Midland Chamber of Commerce economic development specialist, said tax burden is a factor that companies consider when eyeing a move.

"But it does not weigh as heavily as other considerations," Thomas said.

He said industries also look at land prices, cost of living and incentives such as temporary tax relief.

Midland and Odessa each have enterprise zones, which are areas set aside for industrial development. Companies locating inside the zones receive temporary relief from property taxes.

Although Odessa and Midland tax burdens rank toward the top compared to Texas' largest communities, they size up more favorably when the list includes smaller cities.

The Texas Research League study also includes a list of tax burdens in 382 Texas cities with populations greater than 4,000.

The property-rich city of Highland Park near Dallas ranked lowest on the list, as it did the previous year, with residents bearing only a $1.10 per $100 valuation tax burden.

Crystal City in South Texas, meanwhile, carried a whopping $2.89 burden, making it the costliest taxing community in the state, as it also was in 1988-89.

Barnes said tax burdens mostly depend on property values. Cities with higher property values, ironically, tend to have lower taxes than cities with low values because there is more wealth to tax, he said.

When compared to the other 380 cities in the survey, Midland and Odessa landed closer to the middle of the taxing pack.

Midland and Odessa ranked 136th and 88th, respectively, moving up from the previous year's respective listings of 186th and 96th.

Bomb kills 3, wounds 15 in New Delhi

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — A bomb at the city's main market killed three people and wounded 15 others Friday, and police blamed Sikh militants trying to disrupt upcoming parliamentry elections.

The blast shattered four shops in Connaught Place, bringing down chunks of concrete and splintering furniture, police officials said.

The bomb was hidden in a public toilet in Palika Bazaar, one of the several shopping arcades in the circle of columned buildings, according to the officials who cannot be identified under briefing rules.

'Top Gun' school commander disciplined for fraternization

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The commanding officer of the Miramar Naval Air Station, known as the Navy's "Top Gun" school, was relieved of his duties Friday and disciplined for fraternizing with a woman officer on his staff.

Capt. Larry Pearson, Miramar commander since June 1989, was reassigned to another naval air station and fined $3,000. He will soon retire from the Navy, said a spokeswoman, Cmdr. Sheila Graham.

The woman officer on Pearson's staff was relieved of her duties, fined $1,500 and reassigned, Graham said. Her name and rank were withheld.

Both officers also received letters of reprimand.

The actions stemmed from an April 15 complaint, Graham said. She refused to provide further details.

There are about 15,000 civilians and naval personnel at Miramar, located just north of San Diego and home to the Navy's fighter pilot school.

FORMULA FOR THE FUTURE
Vision + Planning + Effort = Success
I see Midland as a city on the grow, with plenty of good jobs for anyone who wants to work. This won't happen overnight, but with planning, strong leadership, and efficient, business-like management of our city's resources, it will happen in time.
A first class city deserves a first class airport. I believe expanding airport facilities, attracting new airlines, and extending control tower operations to 24 hours a day crucial to improving our economic future.
We need strong leadership to hasten an economic turn-around, leadership with vision. I would deeply appreciate your vote on May 4th.

TSTA: State teachers' organization discusses funding

(From 1A)

other classroom necessities must be the last target for cuts, not the first," Ms. Besteiro said. About 1,000 delegates to the TSTA are meeting in El Paso for the organization's annual conference.

The school finance reform law passed last month shifts millions of dollars in local property tax revenue from wealthier school districts to poorer ones.

Ms. Besteiro said Deer Park Independent School District in Harris County and Alamo Heights Independent School District in Bexar County already have "pink slipped" teachers and made cuts in their instructional programs.

The Alamo Heights school board voted March 26 to reduce its budget from $15 million to $10 million, which resulted in 14 instructional layoffs and the loss of 13 maintenance workers.

'Any budgetary belt-tightening should be aimed at preserving the quality of the instructional program.'

— Olivia 'Ollie' Besteiro, TSTA president

The board also cut $125,000 out of its central office budget, which included elimination of an administrative position.

Schools were closed Friday in San Antonio because of the Fiesta celebration.

Deer Park cut 178 teachers in late March. The superintendent was not in her office Friday when called by The Associated Press.

"We would hope that there would be some way for most of those teachers to remain because of their obvious contributions to quality education for the children in Deer Park," said Jim Lankin, a Deer Park High School economics and government teacher attending the conference. "We are doing everything we can to help."

At TSTA's request, Comptroller John Sharp will notify districts that they will be put on a "priority list" for audits if they plan to cut teaching positions and instructional programs.

But the comptroller can do little more beyond the audit.

"He doesn't have enforcement power, but certainly when it's made public in that particular school district it will put pressure on the school board," Ms. Besteiro said.

Greg Hartman, Sharp's executive assistant, said his office is developing guidelines for choosing districts that will be reviewed. A reduction in staff or an increase in pupil-teacher ratios would be the kinds of things his staff would watch for in deciding if district's should be reviewed.

The comptroller currently is reviewing eight school districts to see how they manage their money and will report the outcome to the Legislature on July 1.

Ms. Besteiro said some districts spend exorbitant amounts of money on "extravagant" facilities and have "stockpiled" money in surplus accounts. The state mandates that schools have reserve accounts, but Ms. Besteiro said "the school districts shouldn't be squirreling away all that money, they should be spending it on instructional programs."

Montana's state workers out on strike

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — A strike by state workers spread Friday as employees at Montana's home for the mentally retarded and its mental hospital joined state troopers and thousands of others on picket lines.

The walkout by 4,000 state employees included road crews. Weather forecasters called for up to 4 feet of snow.

About 400 National Guard troops were deployed to the Montana Developmental Center and the state hospital. Some 300 guardsmen already are stationed at the Montana State Prison, the Veterans Home and other institutions where workers walked out Thursday.

The new strikers walked off their jobs promptly at 10 a.m., when a restraining order expired. Guard troops were deployed shortly afterward.

Bob Anderson, administrator of the Institutions Department special services division, said all admissions and evaluations of patients at the home for the mentally retarded, as well as daily activities, were halted.

Jane Edwards, Montana State Hospital superintendent, said strikers include aides, housekeepers, psychologists, social workers and therapists. Registered nurses at the state hospital, where 290 patients get care, are honoring the picket line, she said.

Highway Department officials said a snowstorm forecast to hit by Friday night could dump up to 4 feet of snow in mountainous areas, and they may be forced to close some roads.

Department spokesman Dennis Unsworth said officials were considering letting Guardsmen operate plows.

Col. Robert Griffith, commander of the Montana Highway Patrol, said about 90 percent of the 167 officers normally on road patrol were striking.

A failed attempt by the Legislature on Wednesday night to override Gov. Stan Stephens' veto of a 60-cent-an-hour pay raise precipitated the walkout.

Starting pay for state workers ranges from $13,785 for a secretary to $19,233 for a civil engineer and $29,015 for a lawyer.

Contract talks Friday concluded with no agreement.

Baker ends Middle East trip upon news of mother's death

HOUSTON (AP) — Bonner Means Baker, the mother of Secretary of State James A. Baker III and member of one of Houston's most distinguished families, died early Friday after an apparent heart attack. She was 96.

Baker abruptly ended his Middle East peace mission after receiving news of his mother's death.

Mrs. Baker apparently suffered a heart attack at her Houston home and was taken by fire department ambulance to Methodist Hospital where she was pronounced dead on arrival around 5:20 a.m., spokeswoman Michelle Smith said.

Mrs. Baker's husband was Houston lawyer James Addison Baker Jr., the son of Capt. James A. Baker, an original regent of the Rice Institute, now Rice University.

Her husband's grandfather was Judge James Baker, who in 1872 joined what is today the law firm of Baker & Botts, one of the city's largest and most prestigious firms.

Her husband died in 1973 at the age of 80.

Mrs. Baker was born in Gatesville, the daughter of John Coulter Means and Stella Means. She moved to Houston with her parents in 1902, when she was 8.

She was active in the Junior League of Houston, the Garden Club of Houston and the Museum of Fine Arts. She also was a member of First Presbyterian Church.

Besides the secretary of state, she leaves a daughter, Bonner Baker Moffitt of Columbia, Md.

President Bush called Baker Friday morning to express condolences.

"Barbara and I have known Mrs. Baker for many years. She was indeed one of God's special people," Bush told reporters at the White House.

The funeral home of Geo. H. Lewis & Sons said it would announce funeral arrangements. She was to be buried beside her husband in Houston's Glenwood Cemetery.

Baker was trying to narrow differences between Israel and Syria on the framework for a peace conference and the question of which Palestinians would attend.

Confirmed bee swarms grow by five

HARLINGEN (AP) — Five more swarms of Africanized bees have been identified in South Texas, bringing to 11 the number of confirmed sightings since the so-called "killer" bees crossed the border.

Nineteen counties are under quarantine, which bars the movement of any bees — domestic or Africanized — from the area.

The state's eight southernmost counties have been under quarantine since last October, when the first swarm of Africanized bees was trapped near the border city of Hidalgo.

"There are now a total of 11 confirmed swarms," Dave Mays, a spokesman for Texas A&M University's Department of Agricultural Communications, said Friday. "All have been destroyed."

Mays said entomologists Friday confirmed the latest swarms near Hidalgo, Roma and other South Texas locations. Six swarms of the ill-tempered bees had been trapped in the region by Thursday, including one in a tree in Laredo.

In the latest finds, Africanized bees were found near Hidalgo in the same trap that caught the first swarm last Oct. 15, Texas A&M researchers said.

A swarm was also found near Roma in the same trap that caught another swarm last week. Scientists said two swarms were discovered in traps in Bentsen Park, southwest of Mission.

A laboratory in Beltsville, Md., confirmed the fifth swarm was found in a tree outside Santa Ana Wildlife Refuge, about one-half mile from a previous swarm confirmed last week.

Officials said Laredo is the farthest north and west that officials have trapped the bees in Texas. All of the other U.S. swarms were discovered in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Africanized bees have been heading toward the United States since 1957 when African honey bee queens escaped from a South American laboratory and began breeding with European bees in the area.

Federal regulators take over Sunbelt Savings

DALLAS (AP) — Government regulators moved Friday to prepare Sunbelt Savings FSB for a bailout that will likely be one of the nation's largest.

The Office of Thrift Supervision named the Resolution Trust Corp. as receiver for Sunbelt, the second-largest thrift in Texas with 112 branches and assets of $8.35 billion.

The thrift was renamed Sunbelt Federal Savings. Operations continued normally.

First Hispanic sworn in as appellate judge

AUSTIN (AP) — Cheered on by other political trailblazers, Fortunato "Pete" Benavides was sworn in Friday as the first Hispanic on the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

Gov. Ann Richards, the first woman governor of Texas in more than half a century, had a front-row seat for the ceremony. She appointed Benavides to the state's high criminal court to replace Judge Marvin O. Teague, who died.

Plastic & Reconstructive Surgeon
As we begin to age the changes in our appearance are very subtle. We think it is stress or fatigue, too many suntans, or from having worked outdoors for many years. Our skin begins to shown these subtle changes around age thirty, but there is a wide variation in how fast and when people age. It is a combination of genetic and environmental factors that determine this for us. Cosmetic surgery does not turn back the clock and make our skin and facial features younger, but it can help someone "look good for his or her age". A consultation with a qualified physician is the first step if you are considering cosmetic surgery.
Emotional stability is one of the most important factors to have well established prior to undertaking any aesthetic surgery. Facial cosmetic surgery can enhance your appearance but improvement in self-confidence and much of the "success" of the surgery is up to the patient. Lastly, when contemplating facial cosmetic surgery one should candidly discuss their expectations prior to undergoing any procedures.

Cost of school-finance reform is anyone's guess

By John Powers
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Only days after the Legislature approved a court-ordered school financing bill, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock released new figures from the Texas Education Agency that estimated property taxes could increase $1.23 billion statewide the first year of the new plan.

That figure is about six times the original estimate by legislative leaders, who previously predicted taxes would increase $400 million during the next biennium, or $200 million a year.

If true, the TEA projections mean property owners could pay an additional $6.11 billion in taxes during the four years it will take to phase in the new plan, and $8.3 billion over five years, which is a 34 percent tax increase.

The estimates stunned some legislators, particularly in the House of Representatives. The House, citing the high cost as one reason, had rejected a previous school finance equalization bill. The rejected bill would have increased taxes an estimated $7.4 billion statewide over five years — about $1 billion less than the plan they approved.

House Speaker Gib Lewis responded that the estimates made by the TEA for Bullock were for a worst case scenario. Lewis reported another set of TEA projections that estimated property taxes would rise about $2.28 billion over four years — about one-third of the increase predicted by Bullock's TEA figures.

Rep. Bruce Gibson, D-Godley, went further than that. Gibson charged that Bullock was trying to "panic" the public into supporting a state income tax. Bullock favors an income tax to replace property taxes and to reduce sales tax rates as part of a reform package for Texas.

Bullock fired back with a letter to members of the media that said he had not made the numbers up; they were created by the TEA, based on assumptions that the TEA made about what school districts would do regarding tax increases.

He said he submited the numbers to the Legislative Budget Board, and the board's director, Jim Oliver, said: "It is our opinion that this represents the best possible effort at this time at projecting statewide state and local revenue requirements under SB 351."

At question are the assumptions made by the TEA in preparing the projections.

The estimates prepared for Bullock assumed that local districts that will lose money under the new plan will increase taxes to replace the loss, and, more important, that all districts will increase tax rates by 5 percent annually to cover inflation.

But a set of TEA projections prepared for Lewis assumed only that districts would increase taxes to make up for lost funds and that schools would maintain the current spending level per student.

Lewis pointed out that under the new system, 72 percent of the state's schools districts could cut their tax rates and still receive the same amount of money they get now, while only 24 percent would have to raise rates to maintain current spending levels.

Rep. Ernestine Glossbrenner, D-Alice, House sponsor of the school bill, also said a lot of districts will be receiving a lot more money than they were before and would have no reason to raise taxes.

But Bullock said the 5 percent increase a year in taxes is not unreasonable, particularly since the growth rate for spending by school districts averaged more than 5 percent from 1983-1989.

Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, sponsor of the Senate education bill, said Friday he agrees with the projections prepared for Bullock.

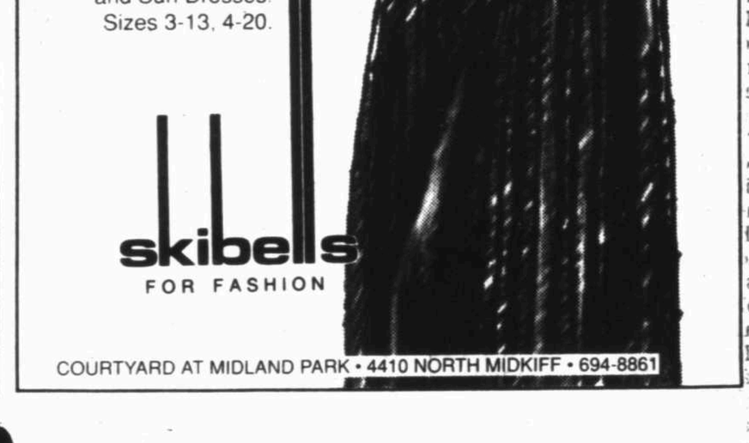

Bullock and Parker wanted to use more state money from general revenues to finance schools and move away from such heavy dependence on local property taxes.

But the House rejected that plan, and finally approved the system that will take less money from rich districts by raising more in property taxes.

Local property taxes now provide about $6.39 billion a year for the school system, and the state provides $5.78 billion.

Senator denies tale of sexual encounter

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — U.S. Sen. Charles S. Robb on Friday denied a television report to be broadcast Sunday that alleges he had an affair with a beauty queen while he was Virginia's governor.

In a transcript of a 2½-hour interview for NBC's "Expose," Robb acknowledged a "time or two" when he was too "close to the edge" of committing adultery.

"I've clearly placed myself in circumstances a couple of times that I would describe as appropriate for a bachelor, inappropriate for a happily married family man and I regret that," Robb said in the transcript released by his staff.

Robb, 51, who is a Democrat, is married to Lynda Bird Johnson, the elder daughter of late President Lyndon B. Johnson. They were married at the White House 23 years ago.

A videotape of the NBC interview was shown to about a dozen reporters in Robb's Richmond office. Robb was in the Middle East.

Meanwhile, in New York on Friday, U.S. Sen. Alfonse D'Amato said an advertisement for an upcoming "60 Minutes" episode about him falsely accused him of hanging up up on reporter Mike Wallace.

D'Amato said he was approached a month ago for an interview, but the CBS news magazine wouldn't agree to show it live and unedited.

"They really only wanted to show my edited responses, which I think is unfair journalism," he said.

Robb has hired libel lawyers and barraged reporters with denials of the reported affair with Tai Collins, a Roanoke woman who was Miss Virginia-USA in 1983.

He told The Washington Post that he met Ms. Collins in 1984 at a New York hotel, where they shared a bottle of wine and she gave him a massage. Ms. Collins, 28, told The Washington Post that she had an affair with Robb.

Ms. Collins told "Expose" they had sexual relations in the hotel, an allegation Robb called "absolutely, categorically untrue."

Peggy Hubble, an NBC spokeswoman, wouldn't comment on Robb's denials.

"I think people will have to watch the segment and decide for themselves," she said.

Ms. Collins was out of the country, family members told reporters.

On Friday, Robb aides also released a letter from the senator to Tom Brokaw, the NBC anchorman and host of "Expose."

Sen. Charles Robb, D-Va., has hired libel lawyers to counter an upcoming television report of allegations that he had an affair with beauty queen Tai Collins, shown in this 1990 file photo, according to a Washington Post report published Friday.

"I did not commit adultery with Tai Collins; I did not engage in any sexual activity with her; I did not have an affair with her," Robb said in the letter, dated Thursday.

Robb, who served as Virginia governor from 1982 to 1986 and was elected to the Senate in 1988, often has been mentioned as a Democratic presidential candidate in 1996 or beyond. He has said he won't run in 1992.

The interview with NBC producer Marion Goldin also goes into previously reported allegations that while he was governor he attended parties in Virginia Beach where cocaine was used. Robb has denied ever using or seeing drugs.

He blamed the allegations about his private life on political enemies.

Robb's press secretary, Steve Johnson, said Robb has hired libel lawyers John Walsh of New York and Rodney A. Smolla of the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg. They met with NBC executives Tuesday but didn't ask the network to scuttle the show, Johnson said.

Firm to drop 'fresh' from juice label

CINCINNATI (AP) — Procter & Gamble Co. agreed Friday to the Food and Drug Administration's demand that it stop using the word "fresh" on orange juice made from concentrate.

Federal prosecutors raided a warehouse Wednesday in Minneapolis and seized 12,000 gallons of the company's Citrus Hill Fresh Choice Label orange juice that the FDA said was mislabeled.

Procter & Gamble is negotiating other disputed terms on the orange juice label, company spokeswoman Wendy Jacques said.

"We expect to resolve all of them," she said.

The company has said government labeling rules are unclear, but the FDA said Citrus Hill, which is made from water and concentrate, cannot be called "fresh."

Other terms on the Citrus Hill label that the FDA objected to are "fresh choice," "pure squeezed," "100 percent orange juice" and "100 percent pure juice."

FDA Commissioner David Kessler said the terms could mislead consumers. The company agreed to change the labels on Citrus Hill cartons by May 22 and on plastic jugs and frozen juice cans by June 5, said FDA spokesman Jeff Nesbit.

The name of the juice will be changed to Citrus Hill, Ms. Jacques said.

Nesbit said the company agreed to delete the words "fresh choice" from the label and to cease all use of the term "fresh" on its labels. It also will stop using "any phrases in labeling that imply or suggest that nothing is added," Nesbit said.

Nesbit wouldn't comment on any future legal action the FDA might take but said other companies that have received warning letters about misuse of the term "fresh" on labels "should take those letters very seriously.

Agency proposes curbs on spotted owl habitat

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Fish and Wildlife Service proposed logging restrictions Friday for 11.6 million acres of Northwest forests, saying huge areas of Oregon, Washington and California provide "critical habitat" for the threatened northern spotted owl.

Environmentalists generally praised the proposal, which came in response to a federal court order, but critics said it would cost the region tens of thousands of timber jobs.

"This is biology run amok," said Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore.

"They just created Appalachia in the Northwest," said Michael E. Burrill, president of a lumber company in Medford, Ore.

Mark Liverman, the National Audubon Society's conservation director in Portland, Ore., said simply, "This is the first step toward the birds' survival."

The proposal — covering an area the size of Massachusetts and Vermont combined — was described as the most sweeping action to protect wildlife in the history of the Endangered Species Act.

However, the director of the Fish and Wildlife Service, John Turner, said the amount of land involved could be reduced after a review period.

Turner told a House subcommittee last week that an earlier strategy to ban logging on 3 million acres of forests was insufficient because it would allow too many owls to die.

He said Friday there is no way of knowing how much logging will be allowed to continue within the 11.6 million acres — 5.1 million in Oregon, 3.3 million in Washington and 3.2 million in northern California.

"I am concerned there is a widespread misconception that 'critical habitat' prohibits all activities within designated areas. That is not the case," Turner said.

Anyone wishing to cut trees in that area would have to obtain special permission from the Fish and Wildlife Service. An outright prohibition of logging would be invoked only in cases in which officials felt there would be clear harm to the owls.

But Hatfield said he fears federal judges will treat the entire 11.6 million acres as a "wilderness area" where logging is not allowed.

"What they have created with this proposal is 11.6 million acres of wilderness and if the Fish and Wildlife Service doesn't manage it as wilderness, the courts will," Hatfield said.

Sen. Slade Gorton, R-Wash., and a timber industry spokesman agreed that the likely result of the agency's proposal would be to place all 11.6 million acres off limits to logging.

"If there are owls in there and it's designated critical habitat for owls, I don't see how any logging can go on in there," Barry Polsky of the American Forest Resource Alliance said.

Environmentalists generally praised the proposal as the most significant development since the Fish and Wildlife Service declared the owl to be a threatened species last June.

But Barbara Boyle, regional director for the Sierra Club in Nevada and northern California, said the agency should have specifically outlawed logging in the habitat area.

"There is absolutely no scientific justification for allowing the destruction and disturbance caused by logging in any critical habitat for the spotted owl," she said.

Turner, the Fish and Wildlife director, will present his proposal and details of the maps on Monday to U.S. District Court Judge Thomas Zilly of Seattle.

Zilly ruled in February that the agency had abused its discretion last summer when it failed to identify habitat critical to the survival of the remaining estimated 3,000 pairs of owls. He set an April 29 deadline.

It is possible Zilly could reject the proposed rule because the agency said it had not fully considered the economic impact of designating the critical habitat, as required under the Endangered Species Act.

"We met the court deadline, but a great deal remains to be done. We must combine conservation with common sense as we seek to forge a sensible plan that balances protection for the owl with the concern for well-being of the people of the Northwest," Turner said.

Critics fault news media in gulf war

WASHINGTON (AP) — The news media heavily criticized U.S. policy in the Persian Gulf War and served the enemy by reporting from Baghdad, speakers at a conference sponsored by a conservative group said Friday.

Sending reporters into the enemy camp "poses a threat over the long run to the very survival of this country," said Accuracy in Media founder and chairman Reed Irvine.

News executives at the conference defended war coverage.

Cable News Network will send a reporter to an enemy capital "in a heartbeat,... unequivocally, without hesitation, without reservation," said CNN Washington bureau chief William Headline.

CNN's Peter Arnett engaged in "courageous professional reporting" from Baghdad, said Michael Getler, The Washington Post's assistant managing editor for foreign news.

Fifty-nine percent of 1,733 TV spots on the Gulf war were negative about U.S. policy, said S. Robert Lichter, co-director of the Center for Media and Public Affairs. That was almost as high as the negative rate for Iraqi policy, 63 percent, he added.

Fifty-seven percent of stories shown during the six-week air and land war opposed the conflict, said Lichter. There were nearly twice as many stories on anti-war demonstrations in the United States as pro-war rallies.

CBS and NBC were generally balanced in their reporting, ABC was "distinctly anti-war," with three-fourths of their stories critical of U.S. policies, said Lichter.

The press critics said the stress on live TV coverage led to erroneous reporting. Among them:

—The first SCUD missiles to hit Tel Aviv had chemical warheads.

—Iraq had 100,000 troops poised to enter Saudi Arabia after the battle of Khafji.

"Instead of journalism being the first rough draft of history, television is the first rough draft of journalism," said Lichter.

"There are traps in live coverage" but CNN has no intention of changing its policy on live reports, said Headline.

Headline defended Arnett's coverage from Baghdad, which was carefully monitored by Iraqi officials and included extensive shots of civilian damage from allied bombing raids. "There is no question about balance in our broadcasting," Headline said, adding that allegations CNN had worked out a deal with Saddam Hussein to gain access to Baghdad were "outlandish, outrageous, a flat-out lie."

He said Israelis, Saudi and U.S. military controls on journalists were often just as tight as those imposed by Iraq and that the viewing public was intelligent enough to differentiate fact from propaganda.

Bird hospitalized

BOSTON (AP) — Larry Bird was hospitalized and placed in traction Friday night after leading the Boston Celtics to a 127-120 playoff victory over the Indiana Pacers.

The procedure was intended for Bird, suffering from a painful back, "to get a good night's sleep," Celtics spokesman Jeff Twiss said. "It's not a medical emergency. It's just to help him relax."

Bird was taken to New England Baptist Hospital after getting 21 points, 12 rebounds and 12 assists in 41 minutes in the opener of the best-of-5 series.

There was no word on whether Bird would play in the second game Sunday.

His hospitalization "is not related to any new trauma," Twiss said. "He did aggravate (his back condition) because he played 41 minutes."

Bird missed seven of Boston's previous eight regular-season games and the last four days of practice.

Lee youngsters produce

■ Midland Lee's bevy of underclassmen earn a state track berth with more possible today.

By Terry Williamson
Sports Editor

LUBBOCK — Midland Lee's "Kiddie Corp" pulled off a surprise state berth in the boys shot put and set itself in position for two more state berths in the girls division at Texas Tech's Region I Track Meet Saturday.

With nary a senior to count on, Lee got a lot of production from the youngsters.

Lee junior Jovan Tellez shocked the field with a second place 54-4 in the shot put to earn the Rebels a state track berth in Austin in two weeks. Amarillo High's Jason Montgomery won with a 54-10½, the shortest throw in recent memory for a Region I meet.

Certainly, this year's shot put competition was weaker than usual, but Tellez, who was second in the District 4-5A meet to sophomore teammate Scott McLeod, was not expected to make a strong run at a state berth.

"I don't know what to think about it," Tellez said. "I just came here to compete and do what Coach (John Parchman) told me to. I got it on my third throw and I scratched on a longer throw the last time up. It's just a great feeling to be going to Austin."

McLeod, the district champion who is nearly always around 54-0, was sixth with a 52-10.

"I threw pretty bad and I'm not happy with this," McLeod said, "but I'm really glad one of us is going to state. Hopefully, I can come back and go to state before I'm through."

Lee junior Traci Logan posted the best qualifying time in the 300 hurdles with a 45.92 while sophomore teammate TaNisha Mills had a qualifying best of 57.24 in the 400 to set up two more golden opportunities for state berths today when the running finals are held.

Logan's time was short of her career best 45.80, but a good time on the blustery day at the Tech oval.

"I really want to go to state. It's my turn," said Logan, who finished third, one step away from a state berth here last year. "I feel more confident this year since I've been here before, but I'm still nervous about the finals. I want to do well."

Mills, too, was short of her career best 56.5 in the 400, but she wasn't challenged like she will be today.

"I can run a lot faster in the finals," Mills said. "I expected this to be a little tougher than it was, but I know it will be tough tomorrow. I'll just pray for confidence."

Lee sophomore Tekeira Strambler, still nursing a bad left ankle, finished sixth in the triple jump with a 37-1½. El Paso Parkland's Lisa Austin won the event with a Region record of 41-6. Strambler will get another chance today in the long jump.

Tall City netters defeated

By Joe Wyatt
Staff Writer

LUBBOCK — The sun set swiftly on one Tall City representative while the three remaining Midland netters captured first-round wins before their respective seasons were put to rest Friday at the Region I tennis tournament.

Midland High senior Tracey Hopkins, who blasted into the regional affair on the heels of a District 4-5A girls singles championship, lined up against a brick wall named Mary Feuille in first-round action.

And the wall won.

Feuille, a backcourt strategist from El Paso Coronado, shocked Hopkins in a 3-6, 6-1, 6-4 decision and advanced to the quarterfinal round and finally to the finals.

Midland Lee's veteran doubles team of Jason Gooch and Ben Bacon found first-round success with a 6-4, 6-4 triumph over Chris Henderson and Kevin Robinson-Powell of Burleson. But the Rebels, who failed to win a match at last year's regional tourney, found the going tougher in the quarters, where they dropped a 6-2, 6-3 match to Manuel Orta and Patrick Dudley of El Paso Coronado.

And Antwine Smith of Lee slipped past K.J. Van Ackerman of Fort Worth Paschal, 6-4, 4-6, 6-1, only to earn a try against top seeded Mark Richter of El Paso Coronado.

Rebel nine tunes up for playoffs

By Bill Price
Staff Writer

Midland Lee, the 1991 District 4-5A baseball champion and ranked No. 9 in the state, makes its final regular-season appearance at 2 p.m. today when the Rebels host San Angelo at Johnson Field.

■ 4-5A standings and Lee, MHS stats/3B

High, the district's other playoff representative, has its 4-5A open date today.

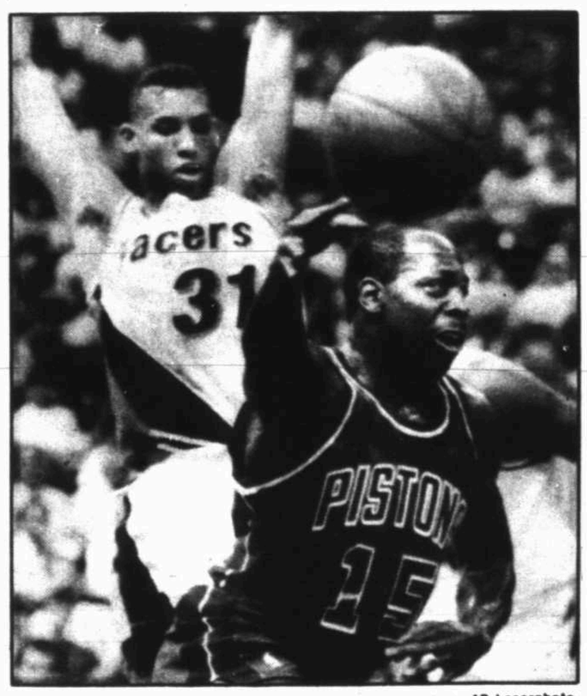

Having already clinched the district title and the No. 1 seed entering bi-district play May 7, The Rebels are looking to pad their 17-8 record (9-2 in 4-5A) with a win over the Bobcats.

San Angelo, which Lee defeated 4-2 April 2 in San Angelo, was in the playoff chase until a week ago, when the 'Cats lost to Cooper while Lee and MHS wrapped up the playoff berths with wins.

A pair of sophomores are expected to be the starting pitchers, with right-handed Ryan King looking to open the game for the Bobcats. King is 2-3 this season with a 4.42 ERA.

Lee righthander Julian Urquidez is 3-3 this year with an ERA of 3.96 in 4-5A games, and was no-decisioned in his last start a week ago against Odessa High. Though his control was off somewhat, Urquidez struck out seven Bronchos while giving up one earned run in five full innings.

However, Rebel head coach Jesse Benavidez has a penchant for using his entire roster, and with the league title under his belt, may decide to give Brian Tomlin, Jimmy Patton or Shane Greeley some innings-pitched.

Pistons stumble

Associated Press

AUBURN HILLS, Mich. — The Detroit Pistons stumbled on their first step toward a three-peat as Dominique Wilkins scored 32 points in the Atlanta Hawks' 103-98 victory in the opener of their playoff series Friday night.

NBA

Game 2 will be played Sunday night at The Palace, then the best-of-5 series shifts to Atlanta for the third game Tuesday night and Game 4, if needed, Thursday.

The Pistons won the regular-season series from the Hawks 5-0 and had defeated the Hawks in 12 of their last 16 regular-season meetings, but the Hawks were stronger, faster and in control almost all the way before a stunned crowd in The Palace.

Joe Dumars scored 20 points and Mark Aguirre 19 for Detroit, trying to become the third franchise in NBA history to win three consecutive championships.

Bill Laimbeer, who scored seven points for Detroit, was ejected with 9:01 remaining in the fourth quarter for throw-

MHS' Malmqvist stays in golf hunt

By Joe Wyatt
Staff Writer

LUBBOCK — Sonya Perales of El Paso Andress scorched the Reese Air Force Base golf course with a 71-stroke display Friday to take a five-shot lead after the first round of the Region I girls golf tournament.

Perales, whose effort puts her five strokes ahead of Fort Worth Southwest's Heather Haas with 18 holes remaining, sits 10 shots ahead of Midland High's Linda Malmqvist.

Gidget Tate of San Angelo and Abilene Cooper's Marcie Edwards share third place with 79s, while Midland Lee sophomore Paula King shot an 88 in the opening round, good for 10th place.

Malmqvist, who scored an 81 Friday, averaged 77.5 points per round in capturing District 4-5A's top medalist honor. She is tied for sixth place going into today's final round, but trails the second-place Hass by just five strokes in the race for a berth at the state meet.

The top two teams and the top two individuals qualify for the trip to Austin, and 4-5A teams are looking good heading into the stretch run.

Lewisville Marcus amassed 354 strokes to take the first-round team lead. But Cooper and San Angelo share second place with 358 totals, six strokes in front of Amarillo High, which needed 364 to complete the round.

MC stays unbeaten

Staff Report

WACO — The Midland College men's and women's tennis teams earned Region V finals berths Friday by shutting their respective opponents out in semifinal action Friday.

The MC women's team defeated host team McLennan Community College, 5-0, while the men ousted Temple Junior College by the same score. In both cases, all MC match victories went only two sets.

The Temple women won only 12 of 84 total games. The Lady Chaps improved their record to 13-0 on the season; they will face Cooke County Community College today at 9 a.m.

The MC men, 19-0 on the season, meet McLennan upon completion of the women's matches today.

Both dual matches ended after MC had won its decisive fifth singles match, although the No. 6 singles matches were completed. With victories clinched after the fifth singles wins, neither men's or women's doubles teams had to play.

Spurs, Warriors trade verbal barbs

Associated Press

SAN ANTONIO — The Golden State Warriors' playoff clash with the San Antonio Spurs got more ferocious Friday. This time, off the court.

What had been a battle of bodies Thursday night at HemisFair Arena became a war of words as the teams prepared for Saturday's Game 2 in their best-of-5 Western Conference series.

Warriors coach Don Nelson, whose team lost the series opener Thursday 130-121, complained that his players were being portrayed as hatchet men in defending Spurs center David Robinson.

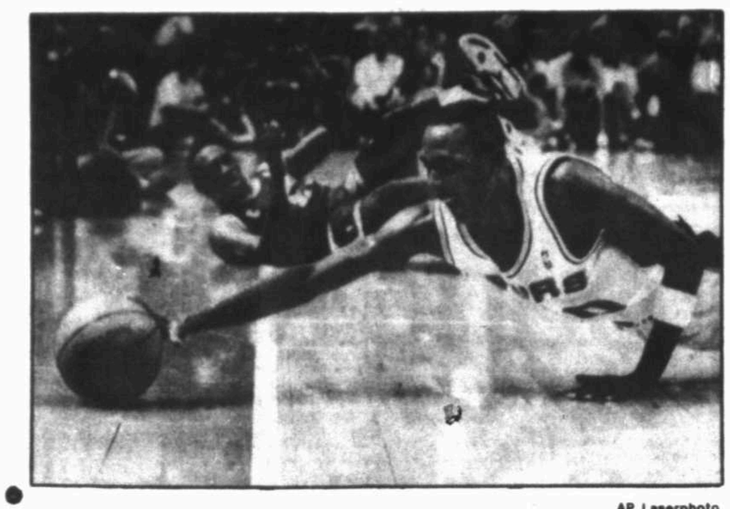

"I know that referees read newspapers and I know they read the local papers and I thought it had an effect on the game," Nelson said. "When you watch it on film, it's quite obvious to us who the aggressor is. It's not us. David Robinson was very aggressive."

Responding to Nelson's remark, Robinson let out a sarcastic laugh. "Oh ... I was the aggressor, huh? I don't think I'll comment on that," he said.

Robinson went on to say, "I go out and play, that's all. That stuff piques me. I like it. It makes me feel better. It makes me more focused."

A foul and a shoving match between Robinson and Golden State's Jim Petersen and a flagrant foul by Alton Lister led to two bench-clearing confrontations.

"I've faced that stuff night in and night out for a long time," the second-year 7-1 center said. "I know what they're trying to do ... They're trying to play real physical and get something going and take me out of my game mentally and physically."

AP Laserphoto

Willie Anderson of San Antonio dives for an out of bounds ball in Thursday night's series opener.

Robinson scored 30 points, grabbed 13 rebounds and had eight blocked shots in Game 1.

Nelson said he wasn't blaming Robinson for playing tough.

"David Robinson was very aggressive, and I give him credit for it. I applaud that. That's the way he should be playing," Nelson said. "But don't penalize us and put our pictures in the paper and make mug shots out of us."

Nelson would not comment on his team's strategy for Saturday.

Rockets still fuming over Scott's controversial shot

Associated Press

INGLEWOOD, Calif. — Did Byron Scott beat the clock? The Houston Rockets say no, but their opinion doesn't matter.

All that matters now is that the Rockets trail the Los Angeles Lakers 1-0 in their opening-round playoff series. If they don't win Game 2 on Saturday, the Rockets will return to Houston one game away from elimination in the best-of-5 series.

The Lakers led the Rockets 91-90 in Thursday night's opener when Scott made a 20-foot jumper with 3½ seconds left, just as the horn sounded to signal the expiration of the 24-second clock.

At first, referee Jack Madden ruled the basket no good — that Scott didn't release the shot before the shot clock expired. But Madden, the senior official, was overruled by his partners, Dick Bavetta and Bruce Alexander.

The Rockets then turned the ball over and Sam Perkins made a free throw to give the Lakers the four-point cushion they needed in a 94-92 victory.

"Jack Madden made the correct call, and he was overruled," an angry Rockets coach Don Chaney said after watching several television replays of Scott's shot. "I think it's ridiculous — a veteran official makes the correct call and he allows it to be overruled.

"It is not even close. It's very obvious."

The TV replay seemed to back up Chaney's opinion, but he was wrong about one thing — it was close, very close.

"No question it was good," Lakers coach Mike Dunleavy said. "I'd bet my house on it."

Scott agreed.

"There was no question that it left my hand before the buzzer," he said. "I heard the buzzer after the ball was in the air."

Madden said his immediate reaction was that the shot wasn't released before the clock expired.

NBA: Bird paces Celtics

ing a punch at Moses Malone. Both Laimbeer and Malone received technical fouls, but Malone remained in the game.

Celtics 127, Pacers 120

BOSTON — Larry Bird, sidelined for seven of the previous eight games with a back injury, keyed a 10-0 fourth-quarter run that broke a 110-110 tie and carried the Boston Celtics to a victory over Indiana in their playoff opener.

Reggie Lewis' 20-footer with 4:39 left gave the Celtics the lead for good at 112-110. Bird then passed to Brian Shaw for a reverse layup with 3:44 to go and assisted again when Shaw sank a 10-footer with 3:20 remaining.

Micheal Williams missed his shot on Indiana's next possession, and Bird rebounded. On the other end of the floor, Bird, 6-for-20 from the field for the game, hit a 19-footer with 2:37 to play and raised one finger in triumph before the ball went through.

Watkins, Sauers share lead at 134

Associated Press

GREENSBORO, N.C. — Lanny Wadkins said Forest Oaks Country Club didn't give up a lot Friday, but he and Gene Sauers squeezed some low numbers out of it to share the lead midway through the Greater Greensboro Open.

Wadkins came away with a 7-under 65 and a two-day total of 134. Sauers came through in the afternoon with a 64, one stroke shy of the GGO record, to match Wadkins' 10-under par total in the $1.25 million tournament.

"This course is no cinch," said Wadkins, the GGO champion in 1983. "You've got to keep driving at the fairway time after time.

"The golf course didn't give me a thing today. I earned everything I got out there."

What Wadkins earned was eight birdies and one bogey in a round which started in light rain. Sauers attacked the back nine with a run of five birdies for a total of nine — one bogey tainted his day — to momentarily dispel the notion that Forest Oaks was a monster that gave strokes grudgingly.

"It was just a perfect day for scoring," Sauers said.

Early-morning showers gave way to partly cloudy skies and little wind across the 7,000-yard course. The result was a cut in which players who didn't score at least even par packed it in for the week.

Wadkins had birdie putts of 25, 30 and 40 feet as well as a pair of 6-footers. He also saved par twice on the back nine.

"I think my swing might be more solid than it's ever been in the 20 years I've been on tour," Wadkins said. "And I've improved my putting. I think my play the last year has been a good result of that."

The adjustment of his game mechanics netted one triumph last year, and led Wadkins to a victory last January in the Hawaiian Open.

"I just concentrated a little bit more on some things that I had been working on and improving," he said.

Sauers was strongest from the fairways, hitting iron shots near the flagstick for his three birdies on the front nine. On his back nine, he bogeyed the third hole, and Sauers said that set off a mental alarm.

Bob Wolcott watches a birdie try pass the cup at Greensboro, N.C.

"I had a three-footer on the third hole that I missed that did something to me," he said. "When I missed that putt, I steered it at the hole. I said just quit steering it and line it up and hit it. Nine out of 10 times, it will go in."

For Sauers, it was five out of five in the stretch. "I got in my mind what I wanted to do and did it."

Jeff Sluman, whose last victory was the PGA Championship in 1988, had a 67 for a 36-hole total of 8-under 136. Also at 136 was first-round leader Bob Wolcott, whose 69 might have been lower except for putts on three successive holes that either rimmed out or sat on the lip.

John Inman, a native of Greensboro, was at 137 after a 67. Five players were at 138.

Boddicker exacts revenge

Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Mike Macfarlane delivered a two-out, two-run double in the eighth inning Friday night, sending Mike Boddicker and the Kansas City Royals to a 5-3 victory over Boston.

Kirk Gibson drew a one-out walk in the eighth from Tony Fossas (0-1) and stole second. Gibson took third on a fly out and, after Kirk Stillwell was walked, Daryl Irvine relieved and Macfarlane doubled into left-center.

Boddicker (2-2), who won 32 games for the Red Sox the past two years and signed a free agent contract over the winter with Kansas City, gave up five hits and three runs through eight innings. Jeff Montgomery pitched the ninth for his fifth save.

Indians 5, Rangers 2

ARLINGTON — Sandy Alomar Jr. singled home the tie-breaking run off Nolan Ryan in the ninth inning as Texas lost to the Cleveland Indians.

Ryan (2-2) struck out Chris James to start the ninth, but Brook Jacoby doubled, pinch runner Mitch Webster moved to third on a wild pitch and Alomar singled for a 3-2 lead.

Mark Lewis hit a two-run double later in the ninth off Goose Gossage. Ryan gave up eight hits, struck out nine and walked two in 8 1-3 innings.

Steve Olin (2-0) pitched one inning for the victory and Doug Jones got his fourth save of the season. Tom Candiotti went seven innings, yielding five hits.

American

Blue Jays 5, Tigers 4

TORONTO — Greg Myers hit a two-run night and the Toronto Blue Jays held off the Detroit Tigers.

Myers' hit capped a three-run fourth inning that made it 5-1 and chased Walt Terrell (0-3). Todd Stottlemyre (2-0) gave up six hits in seven innings. Mike Timlin pitched the eighth and Duane Ward worked the ninth for his fourth save.

Rob Deer led off the seventh with his fourth home run, pulling Detroit to 5-3, and Lou Whitaker hit his third home run in the eighth.

The Blue Jays made it 1-0 in the second on Rance Mulliniks' two-out single and Mark Whiten's triple. Mulliniks hurt his heel sliding home and left the game.

Detroit tied it in the third when Tony Phillips singled with two outs and scored on Alan Trammell's double. Toronto went ahead for good in its third as Manny Lee tripled and scored on Devon White's grounder.

Brewers 5, Orioles 4

BALTIMORE — Greg Vaughn hit his fourth home run in three games and Bill Spiers singled home the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning as the Milwaukee Brewers beat the Baltimore Orioles.

Mike Devereaux hit two solo home runs for Baltimore, which has lost six of eight. He connected with two outs in the ninth off Mark Lee for his first career multi-homer game, and Edwin Nunez got the last out for his second save.

Darren Holmes (1-0) pitched 1 2-3 innings to earn his first major league victory.

Twins 6, Mariners 0

MINNEAPOLIS — Scott Erickson pitched a five-hitter for his first major-league shutout and the Minnesota Twins beat the Seattle Mariners for their fifth victory in six games.

Kirby Puckett and Dan Gladden each got three of Minnesota's season-high 15 hits. Chili Davis added a solo home run and RBI single as the Twins sent Seattle to its third straight loss.

Erickson (2-2) walked four and struck out one in his second complete game in 21 career starts. He escaped a bases-loaded jam in the first inning by retiring Pete O'Brien on a fly ball, and ended the eighth by getting O'Brien to line into a double play.

Yankees 3, White Sox 2

CHICAGO — Matt Nokes singled home the go-ahead run in the 11th inning and the New York Yankees beat the Chicago White Sox.

Brian Drahman (1-1) retired Hensley Meulens on a fly ball with the bases loaded to end the 10th, but lost it the next inning. Jesse Barfield led off with a single, Jim Leyritz sacrificed and Nokes singled to left field.

Braves end futility in dome

Associated Press

HOUSTON — Ron Gant doubled twice and drove in two runs Friday night as the Atlanta Braves beat the Houston Astros 7-2 and ended a nine-game losing streak in the Astrodome.

Charlie Leibrandt (2-1) allowed one run and six hits in seven innings as the Braves won in Houston for the first time since Sept. 27, 1989. He struck out five and walked three.

Jim Deshaies (0-2) allowed seven runs and six hits in 4 1-3 innings, the most runs he allowed in the Astrodome in his six-year career. Deshaies struck out four and walked three.

Atlanta took a 3-0 lead in the first. Otis Nixon reached on a bunt single and took second on Deshaies' throwing error. Nixon stole third, Terry Pendleton walked and Nixon scored on another throwing error by Deshaies. Gant then walked and Jeff Blauser tripled in two runs.

Houston closed to 3-1 in the second when Ken Caminiti singled and scored on Jeff Bagwell's double. But Gant hit an RBI double in the third and the Braves added three runs in the fifth on run-scoring doubles by Gant and Sid Bream and Dave Justice's run-scoring single.

Padres 4, Phillies 0

PHILADELPHIA — Bruce Hurst pitched seven shutout innings, and Tony Fernandez and Tony Gwynn drove in two runs each as the San Diego Padres beat the Philadelphia Phillies.

Hurst (2-0) allowed five hits, struck out five and walked three as he increased his career record against the Phillies to 4-0. Larry Andersen and Mike Maddux finished the six-hitter.

Jose DeJesus (0-1) failed to win in his fourth start this season. He allowed all four runs and seven hits in seven innings, walked five and struck out four.

San Diego took the lead in the first when Bip Roberts led off with a walk, took third on Fernandez's hit-and-run single and scored on Gwynn's groundout, the 500th RBI of his career.

National

Mets 2, Pirates 0

NEW YORK — Frank Viola pitched 8 1-3 shutout innings to outduel New York nemesis Zane Smith as the Mets beat Pittsburgh, ending the Pirates' six-game winning streak.

The Pirates and Mets battled for the lead in the National League East most of last season before Pittsburgh pulled away in the closing days. The two clubs are back at it again in 1991 and are tied for first place at 11-6.

Viola (3-0), allowed six hits, struck out two and walked two before John Franco finished for his fifth save. In 31 1-3 innings this season, he has allowed four runs.

Reds 3, Cubs 1

CINCINNATI — World Series MVP Jose Rijo won his first game this season and Paul O'Neill hit a two-run homer off an ailing Mike Harkey as the Cincinnati Reds beat the slumping Chicago Cubs.

Rijo (1-1) allowed a check-swing, opposite-field double by Jerome Walton in the fourth and a ground single by Mark Grace in the seventh before giving up two hits in the ninth. Randy Myers and Rob Dibble completed the combined five-hitter. Dibble got his third save when George Bell flied out with the bases loaded.

Cardinals 4, Expos 0

ST. LOUIS — Bryn Smith pitched seven shutout innings as the St. Louis Cardinals beat Montreal, extending the Expos' losing streak to six games and their scoreless streak to 26 innings.

Felix Jose singled twice, doubled and tripled for a career-high four hits and rookie Bernard Gilkey hit his first home run of the season.

Smith (3-0) allowed five hits, struck out four and walked none. Juan Agosto relieved with two on and no outs in the eighth and finished with hitless relief for his save.

Hill, Powell tied at Sanders Classic

HOUSTON (AP) — Mike Hill, who birdied the final four holes, and Jimmy Powell shot 6-under-par 66s Friday to share the lead after the first round of the $300,000 Doug Sanders Celebrity Classic.

Hill and Powell held a 2-shot lead over five players with 4-under-par 68s on the par-72, 6,564-yard Deerwood Club course.

Powell had one bogey and seven birdies, including a 20-yard shot with a sand wedge that had to go up and over a hill on the par 4 No. 1 hole.

"That was my big break of the day," Powell said. "I was just trying to come up over and maybe even make a bogey, but the ball went in the hole."

Hill 3-putted from 50 feet on the par 4 No. 9 hole and hit a six-iron in the water on the par 3 No. 12 hole for bogeys but he overcame those two holes with eight birdies.

"That (six-iron) was about my only bad swing of the day," Hill said. "I haven't played too well the last couple of weeks.

Hill started his four-birdie charge with a 4-foot putt on No. 15. He hit a sand wedge to the green and two-putted from 50 feet on No. 16 and ran in putts of 15 inches and 18 inches to close out the round.

"I hit it closer to the hole today than I have in the last four tournaments," Hill said.

John Paul Cain took the early lead with a 4-under-par 68 and was joined at 68 by Bob Charles, Gary Player, George Archer and Bobby Nichols.

"I started the day with a goal of shooting a 68 because that's what I shot yesterday," Cain said. "I guess I'm right on schedule.

Spitz tries luck in another butteryfly

MISSION VIEJO, Calif. (AP) — Mark Spitz, beaten badly in his first comeback attempt two weeks ago, tries to rebound against Matt Biondi in another 50-meter butterfly match race on Saturday.

The 41-year-old swimmer believes he'll fare much better against Biondi than he did against Tom Jager, who beat him by almost two seconds. Jager finished in 24.92 seconds, while Spitz clocked 26.70.

"It was a strange feeling not being able to control my nerves," Spitz said Friday. "They simply got the better of me and drastically affected my start. My start was terrible, but once I began my stroke, I felt I was making good time, so naturally I was surprised to look up at the clock and see that bloated 26.70 posted in my lane.

"Next time out, I expect to go a good 1.5 seconds faster."

Spitz will probably have to go at least that fast to stay with Biondi, who is 16 years younger.

Biondi holds the unofficial American record in the 50-meter butterfly at 24.53, second in the world behind the 24.39-second clocking of Germany's Nills Rudolph.

Since the 50-meter butterfly isn't an Olympic event, there is no official world record for the distance.

"My practice sessions the last two weeks have been excellent and I feel considerably more comfortable and more confident than I did before the race on April 13," Spitz said. "No longer do I have to wonder about how it will feel to be competing for the first time in 19 years, or how it will feel to have the television cameras focused on my every move."

Spitz retired after winning seven gold medals and setting seven world records in the 1972 Olympics at Munich. Biondi won a gold medal in the 1984 Olympics and got five more in the 1988 Olympics, where he set four world records.

"I feel like I gained some real race smarts against Jager and I can now begin to visualize what it's like to be swimming against the world's fastest swimmers," Spitz said. "This should help me to better control my body, and my nerves.

"It was not very realistic for me or anyone else to expect Mark Spitz to be as good in April, 1991, as he was in September, 1972. Don't give up on me. I will return."

Maradona arrested in Argentina

Associated Press

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina — Diego Maradona, suspended from soccer for using cocaine, was arrested Friday for possession of illegal narcotics.

A package of white powder confiscated at an apartment in which Maradona was present will be analyzed, police chief Jorge Chissone told reporters. The powder is presumed to be cocaine, said Diarios y Noticias and Noticias Argentinas, two local news agencies.

Federal Judge Amelia Berraz de Vidal denied the reports by the agencies that cocaine definitely was seized. The judge, who must determine whether to file charges, ordered that the player be held incommunicado until she interviews him, but she didn't say when that would be. Radio Mitre reported that Maradona will remain in custody until Monday.

Maradona smiled as he was led by police from an apartment building in the Caballito neighborhood of Buenos Aires. But he looked forlorn as he was shoved into the back seat of a squad car between two plainclothes policemen.

Fans chanting "Diego! Diego!" tried to block police from putting Maradona in the car. Reporters at the federal police narcotics division said he had tears in his eyes when he arrived there. Two other men also were arrested, Chissone said.

The drug bust was not intended to net Maradona, Channel 11 television reported, citing justice officials. The apartment had been under scrutiny for a week and when police finally raided it, Maradona was inside, the television said.

An unidentified policeman claimed to reporters that the occupants of the second-floor apartment threw a bag of white powder out the window as police broke in. The power fell on the roof of a ground-floor butcher's shop and was recovered, the policeman.

Marcos Franchi, the player's manager, was not allowed to see the player at the jail.

"Diego wasn't feeling very well," Franchi said. "He is under pressure, under tension" as a result of the suspension. He said Maradona "is not at his best spirit."

Maradona, 30, was suspended by the Italian League on March 29 after an analysis of his urine taken following Napoli's March 17 victory over Bari tested positive for cocaine.

The 15-month suspension was upheld by Italy's highest soccer body two weeks ago.

Vincent upholds suspension of Clemens

Associated Press

NEW YORK — Roger Clemens will keep his shutout streak for at least another week.

More than six months after he was dragged off the mound in the playoffs, Clemens' punishment became final Friday: Commissioner Fay Vincent, while acknowledging that umpire Terry Cooney's report "contains some inaccuracies," upheld a five-game suspension and $10,000 fine.

Clemens will miss one start for the Boston Red Sox. Instead of pitching Sunday night in Kansas City, he will take his 4-0 record, 0.28 ERA and streak of 30 consecutive scoreless innings into next Friday night's game in Chicago.

Cooney's crew is supposed to work that game, according to sources familiar with umpire schedules. Cooney has not done any Red Sox games this year; umpire assignments are made six weeks in advance and are not made public.

Cooney, in Texas for Friday night's game between Cleveland and the Rangers, did not confirm he was assigned to the Boston-Chicago series. But he left the impression his crew had the job.

"Naturally, there is going to be some anxiety there," Cooney said. "But if I work (home plate) the game in which he pitches, I'll try to do the same professional job I've tried to do every game," Cooney said. "There is no way I'll go out there and make myself look ridiculous."

Vincent did not directly criticize how Cooney handled Clemens last October. The commissioner did say Clemens did not conduct himself properly.

"I am not persuaded that the discipline imposed should be eliminated or reduced," Vincent said in his nine-page ruling. "Regardless of the basis for an ejection — or any other decision, right or wrong, made by an umpire on the field — a player must comport himself during games within certain accepted norms."

Clemens checked out of his hotel room in Kansas City after getting the decision and went home to Katy, Texas. The Red Sox said they expected their ace to rejoin the team early next week in Minnesota.

"I'm just here to see the kids and do a couple things while I'm home," Clemens said upon arriving at Houston's Hobby airport Friday night.

Later, from his house, Clemens said through a Red Sox spokesman: "I'm glad it's over with. Now I can put it all behind me and go on and help the team."

"I feel like maybe I wasted some time," Clemens said. "But I felt it needed to be done to show my side of the situation.

"I feel I'm getting penalized for what happened after the ejection. How was I supposed to react? What would people have thought if I just quietly handed Joe (manager Morgan) the ball and walked away?"

While Vincent handed Clemens his first loss of the year, the Red Sox wound up winning, in a way. By drawing out the appeal process, they achieved a major objective — they kept Clemens eligible to pitch in two games against Toronto, their chief rivals in the American League East, and he won both of them.

Based on his $2.5 million salary this season, the suspension could also cost Clemens about $82,000. But teams rarely withhold pay and they almost always cover the cost of fines.

"I called Roger this morning and woke him up and I told him the decision," Clemens' agent, Randy Hendricks said.

St. Louis stays alive

NHL

Associated Press

ST. LOUIS — Dan Quinn had a goal and three assists and the St. Louis Blues smothered the Minnesota North Stars with a strong defense to win 4-2 Friday night and stave off elimination from the Norris Division finals.

The North Stars lead the best-of-7 series 3-2 heading into Game 6 Sunday night in Bloomington, Minn., where they routed the Blues 5-1 and 8-4 in Games 3 and 4. But it wasn't the same Blues team that showed up Friday night.

St. Louis held Minnesota without a shot for the first 12:25 of the second period and gave up few good chances overall. Goaltender Vincent Riendeau, pulled in Games 3 and 4 after giving up nine goals on 27 shots, allowed only late power-play goals to Brian Propp and Mike Modano.

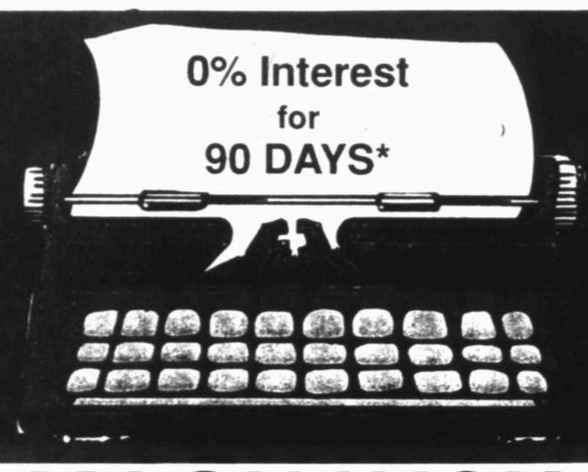

This time it was North Stars goaltender Jon Casey who was pulled, leaving at 10:18 of the third period after giving up four goals on 29 shots.

Rod Brind'Amour added a goal and an assist and Paul Cavallini and Dave Thomlinson scored on the power play for the Blues, who are trying to become the first team in NHL history to come back from a 3-1 playoff deficit twice in the same season.

The Blues prevailed before a standing-room crowd of 18,520 despite Brett Hull and Adam Oates going scoreless. Instead they got got their offense from the Quinn-Brind'Amour-Steve Tuttle line. Tuttle had three assists.

St. Louis has struggled throughout the playoffs on the power play, but went 2-for-8 in Game 5. The Blues are 6-for-20 the last two games after going 4-for-57 the first 10 games of the playoffs.

The Blues also shut down the North Stars' playoffs-leading power-play unit, which was also 2-for-8. Propp's sixth goal of the playoffs was with 5:56 to go, and Modano scored while Minnesota was at a two-player advantage with 2:21 left.

Scriptures Selected by The American Bible Society

Emotion and suspense charge the atmos. arrival of new life is imminent. Then the mirac ten-like cry announces the birth of yet another

Briefly, the physical connection between mother and child continues to pulsate. Then, with one swift motion, that bond is severed. Yet, the emotional bond which has existed between mother and child for months will remain intact always.

In time, the child will reach young adulthood. Though mother will be unable to "fix" the problems of her offspring as easily as changing a diaper, there is something she can do. While her child is small, she can introduce her son or daughter to a personal relationship with God. As Mary said to the angel in Luke 1:38, "I am the Lord's servant."

As we worship this week, may we thank God for the bonds of love between mother and child and between her child and our Heavenly Father. May they last forever.

RELIGION IN BRIEF

■ Baptist Fellowship to hold convocation

ATLANTA — "Behold I Do A New Thing" will be the theme for the May 9-11 convocation of The Baptist Fellowship, an organization of Baptists cooperating to do mission and ministry in new ways.

The convocation, to be held at the Omni Coliseum in downtown Atlanta, is the second meeting for The Fellowship, which was organized during a consultation in Atlanta last August.

The convocation will feature three worship/business sessions, as well as small group and state meetings.

"It will be issues oriented, not personality oriented according to Oeita Bottorff, project director of Baptist Committed, Austin, and the Rev. John Hewett, pastor of First Baptist Church, Asheville, N.C., co-chairs of the program committee.

"The convncation is not aimed at starting a new denomination, although The Fellowship will move toward a permanent structure during the convocation," said a release from The Baptist Fellowship.

The Rev. Daniel Vestal, moderator of the fellowship and former pastor of First Baptist Church, Midland, said, "Our intention is not to start a new convention. that is not our deliberate intention, but I'm not going to be naive or dishonest and say that is not a possibility. But I do see a new associaiton of Baptists that at this point is existing within the Southern Baptist Convention. What will happen in the future only God knows."

■ Mormon church donates videos to library

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints has donated 14 videocassettes on carious topics to the Midland County Library.

Two of the videos are touching stories — "Mr. Krueger's Christmas" starring James Stewart and "The Last Leaf" with Art Carney — which have been aired on national television.

Other tapes include "On Our Own" and "The Prodigal Son," a modern-day depiction of the well-known biblical parable which portrays the story of a man who has just returned home after spending months in a rehabilitation center and the reaction of his family to his return.

Other titles include "The Dead Sea Scrolls," "The Touch of the Master's Hand," "The Songs of Chrsitmas," "The Songs of America," "How Rare a Possession," "Bible Stories for Children" from the King James version, "How to Conduct a Hymn and Organ Fundamentals," "Your Visit to Temple Square" and two videos on dating and marriage.

These videos can be checked out with a valid library card from the audio-visual department, main floor of the library.

■ First Baptist Church to present musical

The Music Ministry of First Baptist Church will present "God Has Always Had a People" by Bill and Gloria Gaither at 6:30 p.m. Sunday, 2104 W. Louisiana Ave.

The combined 100-voice sanctuary choirs, 50-piece orchestra and drama department will portray the story of Abraham and Issac, Paul and Jesus. These roles will be presented by Carl Trim, Ryan Dodd, Vernon Stokes and Al Faychak, respectively.

Songs include "A Mighty Fortress is Our God;" "God Hath Provided the Lamb," based on the Genesis story of Abraham and Issac; "If My People," based on II Chronicles 7:14; "I Will Serve Thee;" "Cornerstone;" "It Is Well With My Soul;" and "My Faith Still Holds."

Soloists are Cherry Crawford, Andy Lary, Debbie Nance, the Day Family Singers, Charlotte Cooke, The Stan Hamblin Family and Duke Jimerson.

One of the highlights of the 90-minute production, which is directed by James Nance, will be the first use of new choir robes presented to the church by an anonymous donor.

The church's minister, the Rev. James C. Denison, invites the public to attend.

■ Women's church organizations to meet

■ Church Women United will meet at 10:30 a.m. Friday in the chapel of First Presbyterian Church, 800 W. Texas Ave., to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the founding of that organization.

This is a world-wide organization with the primary goal of helping women achieve a better life, not only for themselves but also their children, said a release from CWU.

Those interested in attending the program are welcome to do so. The program will be followed by a salad luncheon. Each person attending the luncheon is to bring a salad to share.

A nursery is available by appointment. To mae an appointment call Janet Riley, 683-9589, by 5 p.m. Wednesday. Each child using the nursery will need to bring a sack lunch.

■ The Odessa Chapter of Women's Aglow Fellowship will meet at 10 a.m. Wednesday at the Odessa Holiday Inn-Parkway.

The speaker will be Kathy Pena. Ms. Pena is the corresponding secretary of the local chapter and also helps lead the praise and worship service during monthly fellowship meetings. She lives in Odessa with the husband, Ignacio.

Her topic will be "Embracing the Wilderness."

For more information call 694-2896 or 684-6405.

■ Churches to offer special services

■ First Assembly of God, 100 W. Wadley Ave., is having a special 10:30 a.m. service Sunday called "Something Better in Heaven."

"This dynamic illustrated sermon will include live drama, outstanding music and singing," said a release from the church.

A Kids Crusade is planned for the children 3 through 12 years old, which will include a Power Team demonstration, prizes and a puppet show. Nursery care is provided.

The church's pastor, the Rev. Sammy Hayes, who will be bringing the message Sunday, invites the public to attend.

■ Fannin Terrace Baptist Church is planning to have a "Marvelous May Program" every Sunday in May.

Each Sunday, a special age group will be recognized during the morning service. Preschool recognition day is May 5, children's recognition day is May 12, youth recognition day is May 19 and adult recognition day is May 26. Also, May 26 will be High Attendance day for the Sunday school, all ages.

The church's minister, the Rev. John Rasco, will speak on "Closing the Followship Gap" Sunday morning and "Christians Living in a Troubled World" Sunday evening.

■ Johnson ministry to be celebrated

Kelview Heights Baptist Church is celebrating the 30th anniversary of the Rev. Frank Johnson's ministry to the church Sunday at 9 and 10:45 a.m.

The Rev. Bruce Melton of Huntington Beach, Calif., will bring the message and "The Singing Americans" will present the music.

Johnson

The Johnson family moved to Midland in 1961 to begin ministry with a few families.

"The last three decades have seen numerous lives influenced and changed through God's use of this faithful family," said a release from the church.

Johnson has led the congregation through several building projects as well as through numerical growth of the church. The church building has changed from one room in 1961 to nearly a full block of buildings, housing Sunday School, a gymnasium and a 5,000 square foot nursery.

The Sunday morning services will include recognition from local officials and the deacon board. Nurseries and children's classes are available at 9 and 10:45 a.m.

The congregation invites all Midlanders to join in this special occasion.

■ Grace Evangelical to do Family Night

Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church, 3000 W. Golf Course Road, is hosting Family Night Wednesday.

The evening begins at 5:30 p.m. with a light dinner, after which Dorothy Horsley will share her slide presentation and personal insights gleaned from previous summer teaching assignments with the English Language Institute, China.

ELIC is a non-profit prganization which places Christian English teachers in the Peoples Republic of China. Its history dates from 1979, and in 1982 the first six teachers were sent to China. Last summer, 208 qualified teachers participated in the summer program. ELIC's theme is "service and witness to the glory of God in China."

For more information call the church office, 697-3221.

■ Seminary commencement upcoming

SAN ANTONIO — The Hispanic Baptist Theological Seminary has announced graduation ceremonies for the spring semester are set for 7:30 p.m. May 10 in the sanctuary of First Baptist Church, 515 McCullough St.

The seminary is again offering its popular Summer Language School at the San Antonio campus June 3 through July 12.

The HBTS Language School offers a unique opportunity to learn conversational Spanish, at beginning and intermediate levels, in a two hours per day, four days per week format, with special emphasis on usage within the context of Christian laymen's ministries. A popular, modern translationSpanish Bible is used as the text for the course.

J. Nestor Quintero, professor of languages at Hispanic Baptist Theological Seminary, is director and instructor for the Summer Language School.

The final week of the school will include a field study excursion to a Mexican village in connection with the Texas Baptist River Ministry.

The HBTS Summer Language School is open to the public and tuition is free to Texas Baptists. Tuition for out-of-state or non-Baptist students is $300.

Housing is provided at the Seminary campus on a space available, first-reserved basis at a cost of $200 per person for the term.

Generous underwriting of the Summer Language School is provided by Texas Baptist through the Baptist General Convention of Texas and the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board.

To register for the HBTS Summer Language School, to obtain a brochure by mail or for more information, call the seminary, 1-512-924-4338.

Kurdish refugee deaths reach almost 2,000 a day

The World

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — The death rate among Kurdish refugees streaming into Iran has reached nearly 2,000 a day, U.N. officials said Friday.

Iran says more than 1 million Kurds and Shiite Muslims have crossed its frontier since Iraqi troops crushed their rebellion against President Saddam Hussein last month.

"The mortality average is still very high here, particularly among children and old people," said Giuseppe de Vincentis, a representative of the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees.

The U.N. agency's latest figure doubles its previous estimate of 1,000 refugee deaths per day to include fatalities among the half-million Kurds still crowded on the Iraqi side of the frontier, de Vincentis said.

Camps and towns overflowing with displaced Kurds have become a breeding ground for disease, and the U.N. agency fears an outbreak of cholera or meningitis now that warm weather has replaced the freezing rains that accompanied the main exodus.

So far, most international aid has gone to the smaller number of Kurds who sought refuge in neighboring Turkey.

Aid donations by foreign governments and private groups are now arriving in large quantities in Iran, but the relief effort is still largely uncoordinated and bottlenecks have developed in distribution.

Only two international airports near the border region, in Tehran and Tabriz, are equipped to receive large cargo aircraft. Most airfields near the remote mountain passes through which the Kurds are streaming can only handle small airplanes.

A total of 54 cargo flights had arrived by Friday and 40 more were expected in the near-future.

But U.N. officials said they could not estimate the total aid received since most foreign governments and relief groups have concluded bilateral agreements with Tehran and were not coordinating with the United Nations.

Much of the aid, including medicine, tents and food, has to be trucked along crowded and winding roads in the northwestern provinces of Bakhtaran and West Azerbaijan, where about 800,000 refugees are located.

Kurdish refugees huddled in squalid camps of plastic sheeting or crowded into mosques and other public buildings in towns along the border have complained bitterly that they have not yet received any assistance.

The Iranian government has so far provided the bulk of the aid, distributing it through the Red Crescent Society and other domestic relief organizations, de Vincentis said.

But the influx has strained resources in a country which now hosts the largest refugee population in the world.

There are almost 5 million refugees in Iran, most of them Afghans displaced by the long civil war in that country, according to official figures.

"The first phase of the emergency, when we were seeing 100,000 people crossing the border per day, has been overcome," de Vincentis said.

Atheist Cub Scouts win round against 'God' pledge

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Twin atheist Cub Scouts were confronted by angry parents at a pack meeting hours after a judge blocked Boy Scouts of America from expelling them for refusing to say "God" in the scouting oath.

"There's a million people in this country who think you're stupid," screamed Randy Lindenberg, a parent who argued with the 9-year-old boys and their father after Thursday night's scout meeting was abruptly canceled.

"This is the reason I don't want my boys to follow the same God you do," replied James Randall, father of twins William and Michael.

The boys were ousted from Cub Scout Pack 519 in January after announcing they didn't believe in God and wouldn't say the word "God" during recitation of the Cub Scout Promise.

The oath reads: "I promise to do my best to do my duty to God and my country, to help other people, and to obey the Law of the Pack."

Earlier Thursday, an Orange County Superior Court ruled that the boys cannot be barred from attending Scout meetings until a trial decides whether leaders can legally expel them.

Judge Richard O. Frazee Sr. said dismissal from the Scouts would violate the twins' constitutional rights, and he issued an injunction barring that action pending the trial.

The boys had been attending meetings under a previously issued temporary restraining order.

Randall sued the Boy Scouts after his sons were told they could not participate in troop activities unless they pledged their "duty to God."

In obtaining the injunction Thursday, Randall argued that the Boy Scouts is a public organization that should be held to state laws that prohibit discrimination against members on religious grounds.

'We'll take it all the way to the Supreme Court.'

— Richard Votaw, District Scout leader

"We'll take it all the way to the Supreme Court," said Richard Votaw, a district Scout leader.

The Scouts contend their organization is private, and has the right to decide who should be a member.

"In our view, the order interferes with the constitutional rights of the members of the Orange County Council and the pack and the den to associate (with whom they wish)," said attorney George Davidson, representing the Boy Scouts.

The ruling came hours before the boys were scheduled to receive Scouting beads symbolizing their progress toward earning a Bear merit badge, the completion of which includes religious requirements.

The judge said that Scout leaders cannot deny the boys the badge if they refuse to meet the requirement.

But the youngsters never got a chance to get the coveted Bear badge.

When the Randalls arrived for the pack meeting at Crescent Elementary School, television cameras were there. Scout leaders told the Randalls they could come in but the media would be barred.

When Randall and the news media protested, Scout leaders and parents abruptly canceled the meeting.

The scouting organization's position has wide support, according to a November 1990 Associated Press-ICR Survey Research Group poll on the issue. Eighty-three percent of the respondents said the Boy Scouts should not take out the reference to God from their oath, while 11 percent said the reference should be dropped.

Baker blames Israel for slow peace moves

■ Talks in Jerusalem were cut short after Baker learned of the death of his mother.

SHANNON, Ireland (AP) — Secretary of State James A. Baker III on Friday blamed Israel for his lack of headway in setting up a Middle East peace conference.

Cutting short his talks in Jerusalem after learning of the death of his mother, Baker said through his spokeswoman:

"Questions remain here in Israel. We still need some answers from the Israeli government ... before we can move this process forward."

The spokeswoman, Margaret D. Tutwiler, said Baker would meet with President Bush after attending his mother's funeral in Houston "to determine appropriate next steps in the search for Middle East peace."

Ms. Tutwiler read the statement to reporters before Baker left Israel for Washington, with a refueling stop in Ireland. She refused to reply to questions about the criticism of Israel and whether Baker also needed concessions from Syria and other Arabs to keep going.

The statement, approved by Baker, said the questions Israel had failed to answer questions related "primarily to modalities."

By that Baker meant the framework for the negotiations that would be held by Israel with Arab nations and with Palestinians.

The Arabs, with support from Baker, have tried to carve out a role for the United Nations in the negotiations. Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir and others in the Jerusalem government are dubious about involving outsiders besides the United States in the talks, fearing they would side with the Arabs.

And yet, Shamir and Foreign Minister David Levy made several concessions in their meetings with Baker, Israeli officials said.

These included a promise to consider giving the European Community a role in the peace talks and permitting the participation of the Soviet Union.

Also, the United States and whoever else sponsors the peace talks could intervene after six months in the event of a deadlock, said the officials, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

But the sponsors could not impose terms for a settlement of the 43-year Arab-Israeli dispute or intervene without the permission of the parties.

Baker received word of the death of his mother, Bonner Means Baker, 96, during his meeting with Shamir. After taking the telephone call from his wife, Susan, Baker cut short his meeting with Shamir and canceled meetings he had planned with Defense Minister Moshe Arens and a group of Palestinian Arabs.

Returning to his hotel, Baker was intercepted by a group of reporters in the lobby. Asked if Shamir had answered his questions on such issues as U.N. participation and Palestinian representation, Baker replied:

"We have some answers but we still have some answers yet to come, so we'll have to see."

Asked if he would return to the area — this was Baker's third trip in seven weeks — he said, "We don't know yet whether we'll be coming back. ..."

President Bush telephoned Baker at the hotel to express his condolences. Baker gave him "a brief sense of where things stood," Ms. Tutwiler said.

After more than a week of shuttle diplomacy, Baker seemed to be making some headway in arranging a peace conference.

Having begun his current tour in Israel, Baker visited Egypt, Jordan, Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and Syria, and made a side trip to the Soviet Union to consult with Foreign Minister Alexander A. Bessmertnykh before returning to Jerusalem on Thursday.

The purpose, a U.S. official said, was to get answers to questions he had posed a week earlier to Shamir and Levy.

They dealt with a U.N. role in the peace talks and with which Palestinians would attend.

The Arabs had told Baker it was up to the Palestinians to choose their representatives. Shamir and Levy had tried to disqualify residents of East Jerusalem as well as members of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Israeli officials said Baker had agreed to fence out the PLO, though the Palestinians with whom he has met on his trips to Jerusalem had been cleared by Yasser Arafat's group.

Baker began the day holding a two-hour meeting with Levy. He emerged with an optimistic appraisal.

"I am glad to have received some positive responses here," Baker said.

British watchdog agency finds 'Twin Peaks' series in bad taste

LONDON (AP) — Britain's broadcasting watchdog agency has decided that "Twin Peaks," the cult soap opera, is in bad taste.

A murder on the surrealistic crime thriller went "beyond all acceptable limits," the Broadcasting Standards Council said Thursday in its first such finding since it was created in January.

The council was set up by Act of Parliament to consider allegations of bad taste and bad language on television. It has strong powers of moral persuasion but cannot actually get programs banned.

The offending scene was in an episode in which anti-heroine Laura Palmer's murderer was disclosed. Miss Palmer's cousin suffered several violent blows to her face and was hurled against a framed picture by the killer, who then slashed her face until it streamed with blood.

Eight viewers said the episode, broadcast by the British Broadcasting Corp. Feb. 19, contained protracted and gratuitous violence.

The program is televised throughout western Europe, and in Poland and Yugoslavia. Deals are in the works to provide the show in Hungary and Czechoslovakia, Peck said.

Dancing fish whet Japanese appetites

TOKYO (AP) — The latest in food rages in Japan is to eat fish live — flounder that flap around on the plate, finger-length eel swallowed raw. And remember, if the shrimp don't dance, send 'em back.

"The food moves around a lot — that's the whole idea," said Sunao Uehara, a chef at Chunagon, a well-known seafood restaurant in Ginza, one of Tokyo's most expensive nightspots.

Shrimp, flounder and lobster are by no means the only energetic entrees on the trendy diners' menu. Other attractions include firefly squid, loaches, sea bream and young yellowtail.

Waiters bring the fish in wiggling, their eyes and mouths moving, then quickly slice open the midsection and gut it, so the fish is ready to eat. Like sushi or sashimi, the slices are dipped in a mixture of soy sauce and horseradish.

Lobster is served belly up, with an incision made along the length of the tail so diners can get at the meat. Small squid and eels are eaten whole.

Shrimp are featured in a dish called "dance," and are expected to do just that.

"We're packing them in," boasted Uehara, who specializes in preparing live lobster.

Though some Japanese express misgivings about eating live food, it is a concept that fits in easily with the emphasis on freshness and au naturel presentation upon which Japanese gastronomy is based.

Toshio Fujii, an X-ray technician from a stretch of Japan's western coast where discerning seafood eaters are the rule, said he prefers to eat his fish live because "they don't come any fresher."

"My 7-year-old daughter likes them, too," he said. "But eels are kind of gross. I had them in my beer one time. Too many little bones."

The recent resurgence in the popularity of live food in Japan — practiced for centuries by hungry Japanese fishermen — is part of a larger "gourmet boom" fueled by Japan's ever-growing economy, according to one industry official.

"People have more money to spend on food and are looking for better-tasting, more unusual dishes," said Tatsuo Saegusa, spokesman for the Japan Food Service Association, which represents several large restaurant chains. "The rediscovery of live fish and shrimp is definitely part of that."

Live fish tend to be expensive. Lobster courses at Chunagon range from a basic $44 meal to the top-of-the-line $120 dinner.

"The expense just makes it all the more appealing," said Fujii. "The more it costs, the better we expect it to taste."

Saegusa said there are reasons besides trendiness and flavor that account for the popularity of live seafood. "It's a performance. It's like the cook is saying, 'Here, I am giving you a life.'"

A spokesman for the Japan Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals said the group doesn't consider the practice to be cruel.

"Eating live fish is part of our unique Japanese culinary culture," said the spokesman, who requested anonymity.

"Westerners eat dead fish, we eat them live. It's just a cultural thing," he said. "We are not being cruel, we want to have the best-tasting fish. If the fish were prepared simply for show, like for TV, we would be very much against that."

Youth testifies Winnie Mandela gave him shelter

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — A witness identified only as "Youth X" testified Friday at Winnie Mandela's trial that he was sexually abused by a minister at a church home and turned to Mrs. Mandela for help.

The defense witness, who could not be named under South African law because he is under 18, testified he left the home twice because he was sexually molested by the Rev. Paul Verryn.

Mrs. Mandela and two co-defendants are charged with abducting four young men from the church home and beating them at Mrs. Mandela's house in Soweto in December 1988. They have pleaded innocent to eight counts of kidnap and assault.

The prosecution says the four men were abducted and beaten because the defendants thought they were homosexuals or police spies. One youth, Stompie Seipei, later died. Mrs. Mandela's ex-bodyguard, Jerry Richardson, was convicted of the death.

Friday's testimony was to bolster defense claims that the youths were brought to Mrs. Mandela's home to protect them from sexual abuse by Verryn.

Mrs. Mandela says she was out of town at the time of the alleged crime. A co-defendant, Xoliswa Falati, testified she brought the four young men to Mrs. Mandela's home to protect them after she left.

Speaking in a slow, hushed voice, Youth X described sexual acts he claimed he was subjected to by Verryn. He said he was about 13 at the time.

Asked if he understood what was happening, the youth replied: "I did not know a thing. I did not know what was happening."

The youth and another defense witness on Friday acknowledged they had ties to the African National Congress or other anti-apartheid groups.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Your personal relationships will affect both your professional and financial status. Romance is extremely important to your long-range happiness. Be prepared to make a tough choice in September. Your work responsibilities will increase sharply in January 1992. Luckily, so will your income! Taking a few short trips next spring will aid your business plans.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: President Ulysses S. Grant, singer Sheena Easton, Coretta Scott King, actor Jack Klugman.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): A quiet day at home is good for both body and soul. Tackle several household chores you have been postponing. A period of meditation leads to greater clarity of thought. Read for pleasure.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Love is the universal language spoken today. A party or festive event is great for mixing business and pleasure. Friends and family members could be demanding. Do not waste your money on fickle people.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Your mate may be in a contrary mood. Realize that finances could be at the root of the trouble. Be generous and loving with your old friends. Together, you can accomplish miracles!

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Discuss moneymaking ideas with family members. Pleasing news from afar could be exaggerated. Believe only what you see for yourself. Avoid driving if you have had a drink.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Reduce friction on the home front by being more diplomatic. Petty arguments accomplish nothing. A day of shopping or visiting friends suits your mood. Be certain you can afford a so-called "bargain."

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Being cooped up at home may make you feel like a prisoner. Get out and about. Take a chance on something new. Traveling or exploring gives you a needed lift. Romance looks super!

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Seize an unexpected opportunity to broaden your horizons. Romance will be active over the next few days. Choose your companions with special care. A lack of discretion could prove costly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Think about what you can do to improve a difficult situation. Your enthusiasm will help you to advance an important cause. Do not waste your abilities by failing to act! Romance soars.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): A long-sought goal moves within reach. People you meet on trips can have a profound effect on you professionally and personally. A romantic relationship blossoms when you turn on the charm.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You may feel a need for seclusion today. Travel could be part of the day's plan. New ideas hold more promise than old ones. Keep an open mind about a sensitive subject.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): A tricky situation calls for diplomacy and self-control. Keep calm if things do not seem to be going your way. A family powwow could result in a constructive plan. Share the credit.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Play it smart; defer to a member of the opposite sex's wishes. Friends may be planning a surprise for you. Include members of the older generation on a special outing. Try a new restaurant.

TODAY'S CHILDREN are determined, loyal and articulate. The advanced verbal skills they display at an early age could lead to an illustrious career in the public eye. Many statesmen, writers and radio personalities were born on this day. Enthusiastic and resilient, these sturdy Taureans take any setbacks in stride. Their peers respect their endurance as much as their talent. Marriage should probably wait until these ambitious Taureans have established their careers.

Some fans didn't recognize Jagger on streets of Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP) — Mick Jagger has been in Atlanta for two months filming the movie "Freejack," but even some die-hard Rolling Stones fans don't recognize him when he goes out on the town.

Jagger

"It's funny," said Eric King, owner of Blind Willie's nightclub. "One night he was in and there was a birthday party for a friend of mine. She's a big fan, but she didn't believe it was him. She thought he was a Mick impersonator."

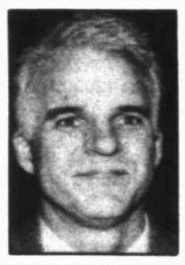

Jagger-watchers got one of their best chances to see him Thursday, when he spent much of the day at a downtown intersection brandishing a gun for a scene in the science-fiction action movie.

Jagger, 46, plays a lethally charming mercenary named Vacendak in "Freejack," which also stars Emilio Estevez and Anthony Hopkins.

The singer "didn't come up as an actor, but he certainly knows a lot about theater," said director Geoff Murphy.

NEW YORK (AP) — Actor Steve Martin says he's found the perfect solution for handling fans who expect him to be friendly and funny on a moment's notice. He hands them a business card.

Martin

"This certifies that you have had a personal encounter with me and that you found me warm, polite, intelligent and funny," read the cards, which are signed by Martin.

"I'm not comfortable doing routines when strangers come up to me for autographs," Martin says in Sunday's issue of Parade magazine. "I just can't be what I'm not, and that's outrageously funny."

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Billionaire John W. Kluge and his wife, Patricia, have been granted a divorce, Mrs. Kluge's lawyers said.

Kluge, 76, and Mrs. Kluge, 42, were married in 1981. The divorce is his third and her second.

Robert A. Blair, one of Mrs. Kluge's lawyers, said Thursday that the divorce was granted recently in a Virginia court. He would not be more specific.

Kluge was listed in Forbes magazine last fall as the nation's richest man, worth $5.2 billion.

The couple separated last year and live on estates near Charlottesville. Their 7-year-old son, John W. Kluge II, lives with Mrs. Kluge.

The Baghdad-born Mrs. Kluge, a onetime nude model, received unwanted publicity when it was disclosed she took personal trips in a state helicopter with Gov. L. Douglas Wilder after her separation from Kluge.

The German-born Kluge made his fortune as founder of Metromedia Co. and is a majority shareholder in Orion Pictures Corp. His other businesses have included steak houses and cellular telephones.

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Advocates of non-violence must work harder in the wake of the Persian Gulf War, Coretta Scott King says.

"I think it ... says to the non-violent movement that we have to redouble our efforts. Our job is even greater than ever before," Mrs. King said Thursday.

Mrs. King was in Santa Fe for the annual conference of the Martin Luther King Jr. Federal Holiday Commission, which she chairs. She also is president of the Atlanta-based Martin Luther King Jr. Center for Nonviolent Social Change.

The widow of the slain civil rights leader told reporters she was "deeply pained" by the Gulf War.

HOUSTON (AP) — An auction house owner is agreeing to pay a $7,000 penalty in the disputed sale of ex-Beatle Paul McCartney's birth certificate.

McCartney

Ray Simpson, owner of Houston-based Simpson's Galleries, said Thursday his settlement with the Texas Department of Licensing and Regulation involved administrative deficiencies that have been corrected.

"In our view we did nothing wrong," he said.

Cheryl Bean of Houston accused Simpson of participating in a scheme in which a friend of the certificate's owner bought it at auction last November for $18,000 to inflate its value for a future sale.

BOSTON (AP) — Metropolitan Opera soprano Aprile Millo will try to raise a few notes for a parochial school.

A concert at Symphony Hall on Sunday and one at Mechanics Hall in Worcester on Tuesday will benefit St. Bernard's Central Catholic High School in Fitchburg.

Faced with escalating costs, declining enrollments and donations hurt by the recession, the 71-year-old school is turning to new methods of raising money, Headmaster Rev. Thomas J. Sullivan said.

The State

■ Lawmakers busy as weekend nears

AUSTIN — The Senate approved a bill to regulate solicitations and sales that reach into the home day and night through telephone calls.

The measure by Sen. John Leedom, R-Dallas, was sent to the House on voice vote Friday.

Senators, working with the House in adjournment until Monday, passed 51 bills — including 33 on a local and consent calendar — in just over an hour, then adjourned until Monday.

Leedom's bill would place limits on when customer telephone calls may be made, and would bring the state attorney general into the regulatory scheme.

Penalties for violations include civil fines of up to $10,000 for each violation.

■ Hutchison responds to merger idea

AUSTIN — In the wake of a report that consolidating the state comptroller and treasurer posts is being studied, a spokesman for Treasurer Kay Bailey Hutchison said Friday that the Constitution separated those jobs for good reason.

"The comptroller's job is to collect the taxes. The treasurer's job is to invest the money. There's a check-and-balance built into the system," said Mark Toohey, press secretary to Ms. Hutchison.

The Dallas Morning News reported that consolidation of the offices was among many money-saving ideas under consideration by Comptroller John Sharp's performance audit teams, which are reviewing state spending for Gov. Ann Richards.

Under the state Constitution, the two offices have separate functions. Both the comptroller and treasurer are elected officials, and consolidating the agencies would require a constitutional amendment.

Sharp, a Democrat, is considered by some a likely candidate for governor in the future. Ms. Hutchison, a Republican, is viewed as one of the rising GOP stars in Texas.

■ Shrimper arrested for TEDs violation

GALVESTON — A Rockport shrimper was arrested Friday for fishing with altered nets, the first arrest of the spring shrimping season off the Texas coast, U.S. Coast Guard officials said.

Amado R. Rios, 41, was arrested Friday afternoon after he was escorted ashore by the Coast Guard and the National Marine Fisheries Service for allegedly violating turtle excluder device regulations.

The 66-foot shrimping vessel captained by Rios, the Sharon & Ali-Michelle, was spotted by Coast Guard officials at 3:36 a.m. trawling with its TEDs fastened shut with plastic ties, said Don Merwin, Coast Guard spokesman.

Rios will remain in the Galveston County Jail until Monday when a bond hearing will be held before a U.S. magistrate, Merwin said.

■ Error leads to fill-in-the-blank vote

MALONE — Voters had better have their minds made up about their favorite candidates when they go to the polls May 4 because there won't be any names on the city election ballot to remind them.

Seven people thought they had filed for three open City Council seats and the mayor's post last month, but an oversight left ballots blank and forced everyone to run as write-in candidates.

Former city secretary Lee Boortz left his job 10 days before the March 20 filing deadline without notarizing the applications. He said city officials didn't ask him about the filing procedure before he left.

Compiled from Reporter-Telegram wire services.

Bonner: Revitalize troubled agency

AUSTIN (AP) — The new head of the Texas Department of Commerce on Friday proposed overhauling the way it operates, saying the time has come to "revitalize and breathe new life into this troubled agency."

Interim department chief Cathy Bonner, a longtime aide to Gov. Ann Richards who took over at Commerce two weeks ago, said she wants a management revolution at the economic development agency.

Ms. Bonner said she hopes to run the department with a management team driven by demands of their customers.

"We are not going to lose in the global marketplace because other states have bigger budgets — because we have a better product," she told the department's board of directors.

The board took no action on her proposal because only half the six members attended. Three appointees of former Gov. Bill Clements had scheduling conflicts and couldn't attend, Ms. Bonner said.

Board Chairman Alan Kahn said he hoped all board members would be present at future meetings.

"I don't think the people of the state or this department will be well-served by their absence," Kahn said. "We all have busy schedules, and we managed to get here."

The department, created during Clements' last term by merging several state economic development agencies, has been under fire since Richards became governor in January.

The governor criticized past agency officials for what she said was waste, bad management and inefficiency, including spending more than $100,000 to take several officials to Europe for the opening of a state trade office there.

The (Commerce) department ... has been under fire since Richards became governor in January.

Ms. Bonner said Friday that a review of the agency's operations had uncovered more problems, including:

■ Spending some $1.3 million to rent space in a downtown Austin high-rise and still not having all agency employees working at the same place. Rent totals 17 percent of the agency funds, she said, adding, "Seventeen percent may make sense as a percentage of total income for a Fortune 500 company — but not for the public sector."

■ Using $386,000 in tourism funds for non-tourism activities.

■ Paying many salaries with Job Training Partnership Act funds, even though those people may not have worked on that program.

■ Failing to give priority for two major department programs, job training and Community Development Block Grants. "These two programs represent 93 percent of the budget of this agency, yet they had little or no voice at the senior management level," she said.

Ms. Bonner described the agency as one with "no clear direction, no consensus of where we wanted to go and how to get there."

Man goes to jail, not altar

RICHLAND HILLS, Texas (AP) — A 29-year-old man was charged with kidnapping and criminal trespass after he forced his way into an elementary school where he abducted his ex-girlfriend and allegedly tried to force her to marry him.

Perry Ashley Keener was ordered held at the Richland Hills Jail on $40,000 bail.

Police said that Keener, carrying only a gown, forced his way into Debi Fernandez's special education class at Richland Elementary Thursday morning and reportedly told her to put on the gown and go with him to the altar.

"He had a white dress in hand and said, 'I want you to put this on and come with me,'" said Police Chief Barbara Childress.

Ms. Fernandez, 36, who had declined a marriage proposal from Keener before the couple separated this week, refused to go with him. Keener then dragged her to her car, police said.

Keener sped off with Ms. Fernandez and stopped to borrow money from his mother, police said. His mother didn't have the money, and Keener apparently made a call to arrange for a loan.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR WASTE DISPOSAL PERMIT

ROY ROY DAIRY, INC., 2802 Maxwell, Midland, Texas 79701 has applied to the Texas Water Commission for a permit (Proposed Permit No. 03175) to authorize disposal of waste and wastewater from a dairy which consists of a maximum of 400 head in confinement. Washdown water, flushwater, and stormwater will be retained in six storage ponds. Wastewater from the ponds will be disposed of by evaporation. Manure/ solids will be disposed of as fertilizer on agricultural land. No discharge of pollutants into the waters of the State is authorized by this permit.

The dairy is located on the east side of Midkiff Road, approximately two miles south of the intersection of U.S. Highway 80 and Midkiff Road in Midland County, Texas. This location is in the drainage area of the Colorado River below Lake L.B. Thomas in Segment No. 1412 of the Colorado River Basin. The Executive Director of the Texas Water Commission has prepared a draft permit based on the application submitted by the applicant and other information presently available.

Legal Authority: Section 26.028 of the Texas Water Code and 31 TAC Chapter 305 of the Rules of the Texas Water Commission.

No public hearing will be held on this application unless an affected person who has received notice of the application has requested a public hearing. Any such request for a public hearing shall be in writing and contain (1) the name, mailing address and daytime phone number of the person making the request; and (2) a brief description of how the requester, or persons represented by the requester, would be adversely affected by the granting of the application. If the Commission determines that the request sets out an issue which is relevant to the application; or that a public hearing, would serve the public interest, the Commission shall conduct a public hearing, after the issuance of proper and timely notice of the hearing. If no sufficient request for hearing is received within 30 days of the date of publication of the notice concerning the application, the permit will be submitted to the Commission for final decision on the application.

Requests for a public hearing on this application should be submitted in writing to Christopher Gee, Assistant Chief Hearings Examiner, Texas Water Commission, P.O. Box 13087, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711, Telephone (512)463-7966. Information concerning any technical aspect of this application can be obtained by writing Randall B. Wilburn, Wastewater Permits Section, Texas Water Commission, P.O. Box 13087, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711, Telephone (512) 463-8201

Issued this 7th day of February, 1991. (Seal)

Gloria A. Vasques, Chief Clerk
Texas Water Commission

PART-TIME INCOME AVAILABLE

The Midland Reporter-Telegram has several distributorships which need to be filled with qualified, responsible individuals.

OFTEN ASKED QUESTIONS:

Is it worthwhile for adults also?

Yes! Our current carrier force is already 90% adult and 10% youth. Morning newspaper routes are attractive for:

- ADULTS who have full-time jobs, yet want to supplement their income with a steady part-time job.
- MOTHERS who can't justify a small job and daycare, because as a carrier, you do not need daycare!
- COLLEGE STUDENTS needing a part-time job which will work with classes!
- SENIOR CITIZENS wanting regular exercise, added income, or just want to work with people, neighbors, and friends.

How much money can I make as a carrier?

Depending on the size of the distributorship from $300 to $700 monthly! Some make even more!

How long does it take?

The actually delivery takes 1 - 2 hours Monday - Saturday, and 2 - 3 hours on Sunday, again depending on the size of the distributorship. Also, a few hours a month are needed to collect from subscribers. Many carriers choose to handle some of this by putting envelopes in subscribers' papers. Collecting in person will be necessary though!

When do papers have to be delivered by?

6 a.m. Monday - Friday and 7 a.m. on Saturday, Sunday and holidays.

Do I ever get a day off?

The job requires a 7-day a week commitment. However, carriers do take days off by finding a friend or family member to substitute for them!
