U. S. TO BUILD 2800 PLANES FOR WAR

Bolivia Scene of Terror As Revolt of Indian Hordes Spreads

RED AGITATOR INCITES RIOT BY NATIVES

Indians Pillage White Homes and Murder Occupants

SITUATION GRAVE

Aborigines Far Outnumber White Residents Of Territory

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Aug. 13. (AP)—The uprising of 80,000 Indians which has kept white residents of the departments of Potosi, Cochambama and Sucre in a state of terror for several days appears to be spreading throughout the republic. Stories of depredations are filtering in from all points and white hacienda owners are fleeing before the infuriated descendants of the ancient Incas.

Active measures are being taken by the government to prevent a spread of the rising to the department of La Paz. There are approximately 200,000 Indians in this department with the whites decidedly in the minority and fears are voiced by officials that if the movement does reach La Paz it might easily assume the nature of a catastrophe.

Reds Are Accused

The charge has been made in congress by the minister of interior that communist agents are responsible for the outbreak, inciting the Indians to nation wide rebellion to establish the supremacy of their race and obtain ownership of all lands. He told the newspaper El Diario that the rebellion had entered a grave phase inasmuch as many Indians had obtained firearms, in the use of which they were famed.

In Tomoya, an alleged communist, Luis Navarro, has been taken into custody, accused of arousing the Indians to lawless acts and measures have also been taken against a lawyer, Hiliario Fernandez, charged with distributing communist propaganda.

White inhabitants of the three departments where the disturbances started have been slain and their homes burned by the Indians who, armed for the most part with clubs and slingshots, are reported to be out to destroy every vestige of the white man's civilization.

Bloody Clashes

A number of sanguinary clashes have taken place between the Indians and soldiers sent to quell them with modern war material. The city of Sucre, nominally the capital of the republic, although the governmentals departments function at La Paz, is in the center of the disturbed region.

Indians comprise about 70 per cent of Bolivia's population. Those who are engaging in the present outbreak speak the Inca tongue. Their war garb consists of red blankets, curious ear coverings made of cloth and small hats which they wear perched on the front part of their heads. Women carrying babies on their backs are to be seen at the rear of the marauding bands.

Open Bids On Austin Building in Two Months

AUSTIN, Aug. 13.(AP)—Bids will be opened here within the next 60 days for construction, by Ernest Nalle, son-in-law of former Governor James E. Ferguson, of a ten-story office building, Nalle said today.

Original plans for the building, announced some months ago, are being revised to cover additional installations and equipment, he said. General contract on the building will involve between $450,000 and $600,000.

FRUIT LINER UNDER ARREST

Seizure in Connection With Sub Sinking

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 13. (AP)—United States marshals seized the United Fruit company steamship Abangarez under federal court admiralty processes yesterday upon the arrival of the ship here from Havana.

Libels for $336,583.15 were brought against the vessel and the company by the United States government as a result of the sinking of the submarine O-5 in Limon bay, Panama, October 28, 1923, when three members of the submarine's crew were killed.

Incompetence on the part of the steamer's officers, failure to maintain a lookout, negligence, improper conduct and improper navigation were charged as causes of the accident.

FIVE ENTRANTS FOR HOP OVER PACIFIC AREA

Erwin Not Yet Among Those Qualified In Dole Race

TESTS UNDER WAY

All Must Be Ready For Final Test Monday Under Rules

OAKLAND AIRPORT, OAKLAND, Cal., Aug. 13. (AP)—With the approved list of starters set at five in the Dole $35,000 aerial derby to the island of Oahu next Tuesday at noon from this airport, federal inspectors late today awaited word of readiness from the remaining five entrants. The remaining five must make navigation and other tests before federal approval is given to make the flight. Included in the five who have not received approvals is Frederick A. Giles who was last reported in Detroit.

Miss Mildred Doran, the 22-year-old Michigan school teacher, was definitely assured of being the only woman to join in the $35,000 Dole air derby to Honolulu next Tuesday, when her monoplane, the "Miss Doran" received official permission to start. The qualification of J. A. Pedlar, her pilot and Lieut. V. R. Knope, navigator, removed the last obstacle in the way of the the Detroit entrant.

Five Approved.

The official list of approved starters reached five with the qualification of Miss Doran's plane. The order of take-off on the 2400 mile air cruise was fixed as follows:

1. Bennett Griffin, piloting the monoplane, Oklahoma.
2. Norman Goddard, San Diego, flying the monoplane Encanto.
3. Livingston G. Irving, Berkeley, flying the Breeze monoplane Pacific Flyer.
4. Jack Frost of New York, who will take the San Francisco Examiner's cigar-shaped Golden Eagle into the race.
5. The Miss Doran, a monoplane piloted by J. A. Pedlar.

The ideal way to start the race would be on a runway two miles square giving each entrant no advantage at the barrier, it was pointed out, but the air derby Tuesday will be conducted on a runway permitting only one plane to get away at a time. No time allowance will be given to the last starter over the first. The first man to land on Wheeler field, Isle of Oahu, wins.

The field was rumor-ridden over the movements of various entrants in the race and the remote possibility that anyone of the fliers might take away for Honolulu before the fixed take-off time next Tuesday at noon.

Five Face Tests.

The five planes remaining on the unapproved list must qualify before 10 a. m. on Monday or quit the race. This condition has been stipulated by the entrants in a gentlemen's agreement signed Thursday night, postponing the race from Friday noon until Tuesday at the same hour.

The department of commerce inspectors issued their usual ultimatum to the fliers today. Clarence Young, director of aeronautics of the department of commerce, telegraphed to Lieutenant Ben H. Wyatt in charge of navigation tests, saying that any flier who took the hop to Honolulu without federal approval would be barred forever from flying in the United States or any of its possessions.

Lieutenant Wyatt today continued his rounds of the airport ready to check the course of any unqualified navigator who wished to take a test flight. Only the "Miss Doran" appeared in the air for qualifications.

Erwin Adds Compass.

The City of Peoria entry, flown by Captain Charles W. Parkhurst, after receiving a thorough check was ready for the navigation and load tests but the Dallas Spirit, flown by Captain William P. Erwin, was being fitted out with new earth-inductor and mariner compasses in preparation for navigation tests tomorrow. Captain Erwin was not satisfied with the operation of the instruments that were in his plane when he took off from Dallas, so is making the substitution here as an added safety precaution.

BOLL WEEVIL PEST INVADES COTTON AREA

Serious Damage Reported By U. S. Department Of Agriculture

PRICE TAKES HIKE

3 1-2 Cents Per Pound Gain Made During Recent Weeks

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—"Reports of boll weevil damage continue to come from almost all of the cotton-growing states, and in some cases was reported as quite serious," the department of agriculture announced today.

Havoc wrought by the boll weevil was given as a reason for the recent sky-rocketing of cotton prices. The government's estimate of a crop of 13,492,000 bales, based on the weevil menace, has started a stampede for the staple.

Cotton prices jumped 3 1-3 cents a pound from low during the period August 6-12, closing two cents a pound higher on the New York Cotton Exchange.

Demand for spot cotton was reported as only fair, due to the unsettled condition of the futures market. New crop cotton was reported as moving freely from some sections.

The world visible supply of American cotton was estimated at 3,154,078 bales compared with 2,076,547 bales a year ago.

Expensive Harmonicas Arrive For Championship Contest

Bill Ward, Recreational Director, Places Instruments On Display in Phonograph Shop

Six of the finest harmonicas manufactured in the world arrived Saturday in Wichita Falls and all six will go to the winners in the city wide harmonica contest which will be held on the night of August 24 in Bellevue Park, under the direction of Bill Ward, recreational director for the department of parks.

The harmonicas were donated by the Hohner Harmonica company, the largest manufacturers of "French Harps" in the world. Mr. Ward has placed the instruments on display in the Phonograph Shop show window.

Several of the harmonicas are valued at many dollars each and are so expensive that only professional players use them.

Over 100 entries in the contest have been received by Mr. Ward and it is expected that before Aug. 21, the last day on which entrance into the contest can be made, arrives that that over 200 will have signified their intentions of competing for the "harmonica championship of Wichita Falls" and for the valuable prizes that will be awarded.

The Hohner company also sent Mr. Ward several hundred booklets giving complete instructions relative to the playing of a harmonica. These booklets will be given free by Mr. Ward to all entrants in the contest.

ARMY TO GET 1800 SHIPS IN 5-YEAR PLAN

Navy's Airplane Strength Will Be Built Up To 1000 Planes

SIX NEW CRUISERS

Other Craft Also Listed In Federal Budget Next Year

By Universal Service.

RAPID CITY, S. D., Aug. 13.—President Coolidge today approved a budget of $3,316,000,000 for submission to the next session of congress, containing the largest program for national defense since the war and destroying the once optimistic hope for tax reduction.

The budget itself provides also the greatest prospective appropriations for government expenses since the post-war economy.

President Coolidge, with General Lord, the budget director, at his side, went to work early this morning with a total budget for the next congress of $3,433,000,000. When he had finished the day's work, the president had slashed it to $3,316,000,000. That was $116,000,000 in excess of the $3,300,000,000 goal he had sought. It is $66,000,000 more than the budget of last year.

Big Military Budget

While declining to reveal the definite amounts that will be proposed in the budget to the congress when it meets in December, General Lord frankly confessed tonight that the president had consented to a large naval program and had made the most generous appropriations in the history of the nation for building up the army, navy, and commercial air forces.

"The national defense is provided with a very material increase over last year," said General Lord.

"The budget of the navy provides for the completion of the eight modern cruisers which have been authorized by congress, and the construction of which has begun. In fact it provides for the completion of every arm of naval defense already authorized by congress, except the three large experimental submarines which the navy is still experimenting with. It provides also for modernizing the battleships Nevada and Oklahoma."

Answer to Britain

The above is regarded as President Coolidge's answer to Great Britain's attempt to rule the sea and the consequent collapse of the Geneva conference. Universal Service's previous dispatches that the president is "sold" on aeronautics were verified by General Lord's succeeding announcement. He said:

"The budget estimates for all aviation purposes, including the army and navy and the commerce department's activities in promoting commercial aeronautics, are larger than the $85,000,000 allowed last year.

"President Coolidge has approved estimates for the carrying out of the army and navy air expansion programs, which, at the end of five years, will find the army equipped with 1500 modern planes and the navy with 1000 modern planes."

Tax Cut Remote.

General Lord's budget figures carried a distinct tone of pessimism on tax reduction in the face of the republican congressional leader's claim that a $300,000,000 tax slash can be made at the coming session of congress and the democratic demand for a $500,000,000 tax slash.

He said the budget of today estimates that the receipts from all sources next year will be $3,776,000,000 and the expenditures about $3,561,000,000, leaving a surplus of only $214,000,000. It has been the policy of the government to hold at least $100,000,000 of the surplus for extraordinary emergencies expenses.

"It is not my business to talk taxes," said General Lord, "but what is to become of that surplus if congress makes provision for Mississippi flood control, farm relief and other matters that may naturally arise during the coming session?"

National Debt Cut.

General Lord said that in the past eight years the national debt has been reduced from 26 billions to 18 billions. As a result, he said, the interest charges this year were $67,000,000 less than last year and next year they will be $40,000,000 less than this year. He said that $611,000,000 of the past year's treasury surplus of $636,000,000 had been paid into the national debt.

Except the army and navy, most of the 43 departments and independent branches of the government will have to slash their estimates to meet the requirements decided by President Coolidge today. Among other notable exceptions are the veterans bureau, to which an additional $10,000,000 was allowed to defray the increasing cost of caring for the veterans.

Army Guards Against Small Brush Fires

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 13. (AP)—Military guards patrolled camp Stanley near here today to guard against small brush fires which in the last two days have burned over about 36 square miles of reservation. One of the fires is supposed to have started from an exploding shell. No damage was done on the government reservation but several fences on nearby ranches and one unoccupied shack were destroyed.

BRITISH GET ALL EXCITED

British Peerage Handicap Says One Lord

By Universal Service.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—Attempts of the Baldwin government to reform the English House of Lords have stirred up all manner of discussion and debate over the British Peerage.

The reflections which have been cast upon members of the upper house of the great British legislative body of Parliament have at last aroused Lord Derby to the public expression of his opinion that a title is a real, and serious hindrance to a Briton. Speaking at Southport recently, the famous Earl of Derby said:

"I think it might be of the greatest possible advantage if we could have the Second Chamber men as life Peers who have distinguished themselves in many walks of life. Such Peerages should not be handed on to their sons, to whom they might be a great hindrance. I think there are many ways in which to hold a title is a distinct detriment to a man in the fight for life."

Thorough agreement with the views of Lord Derby was expressed by Lord Gorell. He explained:

"There are two ways in which a title may be a great disadvantage to a man. In the first place it involves him in much increased expense. Wherever a person with a title goes he is charged more. I do not mean a case of fixed prices in a shop but wherever prices are a matter of arrangement, such as in hotels and similar matters. People seem to imagine that the possession of a title means that a person is well-to-do, whereas very often he is worse off as a result of it.

"In the second place it is not at all easy for a person with a title to be taken seriously. In my own instance I have practiced the profession of an author for the past twenty years and I find that the public generally and my friends are inclined to regard my work purely as being a hobby. They do not regard it in quite the same way as if it were written by a person without a title. I remember having a book of mine described as being the work of an amateur although the reviewer had worked in the same newspaper office as myself twelve years before.

"I believe that Lord Byron had a great deal of difficulty in getting people to regard him as a poet and not just as an amateur, because of his title."

Veteran Employe Loses Half of Life Savings

DALLAS, Aug. 13.(AP)—S. Johnson employed at Sanger Brothers for 35 years saved $6000 from his wages. Today he reported to the police that yesterday he lost $2200 of the savings, the missing cash being four $500 bills and four $50 bills. Detectives have asked anyone who is asked to change a $500 bill to report to them.

Sacco Keeps Unbroken His Hunger Strike

BOSTON, Aug. 13.(AP)—The hunger strike of Nicola Sacco was unbroken today when the breakfast trays were removed from the cells. Bartolomeo Vanzetti, strengthened and prepared by the liquid foods taken yesterday after his fast, ate two Frankfurters, bread, milk and coffee and suffered none of the ill effects felt previously when he suddenly broke fast.

NO BARREL HANDY

NEW YORK, Aug. 13. (AP)—Awakened by mosquitos, Christopher Dandurnd found Central park thieves had stolen his trousers. A policeman brought a blanket from the nearest station to permit a trip home.

Congresswomen Pass Summer A-Canning

Quartet of United States congresswomen who will sit in the seventieth congress: Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers, of Massachusetts; Mrs. Mary T. Norton, New Jersey; Mrs. Florence Kahn, California; Mrs. Katherine Langley, California.

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to The Record News.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—While congressmen are fishing or golfing during the vacation period, what do the congresswomen do? They can, of course. Lawmakers must eat, likewise their families, so the lady solon—or soloness, if you prefer—puts on a kitchen apron, rolls up her sleeves, surrounds herself with all the paraphernalia of the canning season and wades in.

In Lowell, Mass., Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers, who represents the fifth district of that state, uses the recipes handed down to her by her grandmothers. When she was a girl she spent her summers with this relative in Maine. "Grandmother believed cooking to be an essential part of a girl's education," she says.

Mrs. Rogers' favorite among three recipes is spiced currants. Following is the recipe: Seven pounds currants, five pounds sugar, three tablespoons cinnamon, three tablespoons cloves, one pint vinegar. Pick over the currants, wash, drain and remove stems. Put in a preserving kettle, add sugar, vinegar and spices tied in a piece of muslin. Heat to boiling point and cook slowly one and one-half hours.

Mrs. Rogers' colleague, Mrs. Mary T. Morton of the twelfth district of New Jersey, has an admiring husband who declares that his wife is as good a cook as she is lawmaker. Her favorite is plum conserve: Three quarts plums, half cup water, half pound seeded raisins, one pound walnut meats, three oranges, two lemons, two pounds sugar. Stew plums in water and add sugar when soft. Put the oranges, lemons, raisins and walnut meats in a chopping bowl, then chop fine and add to plums; cook all together very slowly to avoid burning for about 20 minutes.

Mrs. Kahn naturally uses one of the most famous products of her sunny state, oranges, and makes mermalade from these ingredients: Six oranges, three lemons, six and a half pounds of sugar, one pound of almonds. Slice the oranges and lemons very thin. Blanch the almonds. Cover fruit with 10 cups of cold water and let simmer, uncovered, for an hour. Dissolve the sugar in a little of the liquid from the kettle, cover, and when boiling return to kettle, boil 20 minutes, add almonds, then turn into the glasses. This will fill 15 glasses.

For the first time in history the south has a woman representative who will sit in the seventieth congress. She is Mrs. Katherine Langley of Kentucky. She recommends the watermelon preserve made from a recipe used by her colored mammy: Seven pounds fruit, three pounds sugar, one pint vinegar. Put on to cook and after mixture begins to simmer add one tablespoon of cloves and three or four pieces of ginger. Let boil until syrup covers the fruit.

Coolidge Is First To Run From Job

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.(AP)—It has been said no man ever ran away from the presidency, but President Coolidge has the distinction of having declined certain nomination and re-election, declared Hubert Work, secretary of the interior, today.

"The wave of prosperity of the Coolidge administration has insured the election of the Republican party's nominee next year," said the secretary.

Seek Identification Of American Victim

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.(AP)—From fragmentary talk of service at sea and a few details of a shipwreck on the China coast hospital authorities today sought to trace the six months wanderings of a shrunken amnesia victim, tentatively identified as Lieutenant Commander Fidele S. Carter, 74-year-old retired naval officer, missing since February 7.

RUSSIA WINS WAY TO FILMS

Red Mystery Cleared Up By Pictures

By Universal Service.

MOSCOW, Aug. 13.—The Chinese wall of red tape and suspicion which has made Soviet Russia a land of mystery, is gradually being hammered down from within. For first time ein a decade an American with a movie camera has been allowed free and unhampered photographic rights to the treasures and scenic splendors which few foreign eyes have seen.

Emanuel M. Newman, noted travel lecturer toured the remotest sections of the Caucasus, Crimea, Georgia, the Volga district and the Ukraine for nine weeks by train, automobile and on foot. He photographed the inside of the Kremlin in Moscow, a privilege accorded to no other man since proletarian dictators moved within the walls of the 15th century stronghold of the Czars.

"Peace is what the Soviet government needs to survive," said Mr. Newman. "The leaders realize it. War would disrupt trade which furnishes the capital for the building up of industry.

"A successful revolt against the communist regime is unthinkable. The government is more firmly established today than ever before. Out on the farms the peasants are satisfied. That means 85 per cent of the people or 120,000,000. Most of them are what we would call illiterate. They haven't grasped the principles of Marxism. But they have possession of the land. What they raise is their own. They are their own bosses. And that they consider a blessing in comparison with the feudal regime of the Czars when the choicest cattle, the best grain was taken by the lords of the land. They being able to buy manufactured goods at reasonable prices, but when it comes to overthrowing the socialist states they throw up their hands and shake their heads."

Mr. Newman believes it will take five or ten years to perfect a political and economic organization that will function efficiently. Until then he considers real progress impossible.

Letter Written By Early Texan Gives Details of Revolutionary Experiences

AUSTIN, Aug. 13.—A letter from David Thompson, first attorney general of Texas, to his Brother, H. I. Thomas, of Vernon, Miss., has recently been received at the University of Texas library. The letter has been given by Mrs. Emma Thomas Gildart of Dallas, grand-niece of the attorney general, to the Texas State Historical association.

Text of Letter.

"Dear Brother: I have only time to write you a few words. Major Green has just arrived and tells me that he saw you lately at New Orleans, afterwards at Vernon.

"The convention has adjourned, and, after a declaration of independence, and adopting a constitution, and electing a president, vice-president, secretary of state, of war, of the navy, of the treasury and attorney general—all forming the cabinet. I have not time to write you in detail. I am attorney general of Texas. You will, I have no doubt, see from the papers a full account of the proceedings of Texas. The president and his cabinet will fix their residences at Harrisburg on the waters of the Trinity on Galveston Bay, where you will be good enough to direct your letters.

"I have not speculated any as yet, times are a little difficult at this time. Santa Anna is in the country. San Antonio was stormed on the 6th of this month; not a man escaped to tell the news; about 180 Americans were butchered, Colonel Crockett amongst them, and I expect Major Autry of Jackson. It is said that there were between 2000 and 3000 Mexicans who made the attack. There was, according to their own account, upwards of 500 killed and as many wounded.

Tells of Houston.

"General Houston is in the field with 800 men on the Colorado; his force is increasing daily. Colonel Fannin is at Golaid with 500 or 600 men, all volunteers from the United States. They are fortified, and have, I have no doubt, been attacked before this time. I am anxious to hear from them. All my acquaintances are there that belong to the army.

"I have very little doubt but Santa Anna will attempt to storm that place. If he succeeds, they will suffer the fate of those in the Alamo. But I feel confident the place will be able to sustain itself.

"I will write to you again soon.

Yours, etc.,

"DAVID THOMAS.

"To Dr. H. I. Thomas, Vernon, Miss."

PROGRESS.

There seems to be a growing opinion among judges and governors that murder is unethical.

UNFORTUNATE.

Too bad that everybody has forgotten what it was Hobson did not choose to do.

Trace of Ancient Lore Discovered

By Universal Service.

JERUSALEM, Aug. 13—Digging to a depth of some 30 feet in the vicinity of the Wall of Ophel, archeologists have found traces of ancient buildings believed to date back to the time of the Maccabees. The excavations are expected to reveal a road leading from the Ophel elevation, which is the site of the city of David, to the Silwan.

Uninterrupted habitation has been established by uncovering various strata around this site. The laying bare of the upper layer showed traces of comparatively recent buildings; another layer yielded foundations of structures erected during the Byzantine period, including a mosaic floor.

Work on this site carried on by the Palestine exploration fund was interrupted about two years ago when money for the purpose gave out.

Renewed excavation, it is hoped, will lead to valuable discoveries, establishing beyond doubt the connection between Ophel, the rock ribbed spur, and the actual site of the ancient of Jerusalem.

Builders Guard Mystery Plane

British Ship Can Travel 300 Miles An Hour

By Universal Service.

LONDON, August 13.—A mystery plane capable of flying 300 miles an hour is now being jealously guarded at the Calshot aerodrome, Southampton. The machine called the Blue Bird, is a Supermarine-Napier, a low-winged monoplane of fine lines, and is intended to beat the fastest planes of the United States and Italy in the Schneider trophy competition to be held at Venice in September.

It has been built to the British air ministry's order and will be driven by a Royal Air force pilot, probably Lieutenant Worsley, a slight, fair-haired young man with a reputation for steel nerves.

A special picket guards the Blue Bird in its hangar, and not even unauthorized members of the Royal Air force are allowed to inspect the machine. The reason for the great secrecy is not fear of disclosing military information to foreigners but a desire to prevent American or Italian observers from copying certain innovations in time for the Schneider cup race.

When on her tests the Blue Bird looks like a swallow in swift flight. She shoots over the waters of the Solent at tremendous speed. Lieutenant Worsley has been in strict training for months, for to fly the plane requires the greatest physical fitness. Cornering and changing direction at a high speed is especially dangerous. It is said that any sudden turn when traveling at the speed Blue Bird reaches sends the blood rushing to the pilots head and may turn him temporarily blind, unless he is absolutely fit and attuned by long experience to the job. On the 220 mile Schneider course—seven laps over a triangular stretch of water—it is highly important that the pilot should be able to corner swiftly.

The Schneider cup is regarded here as the most coveted flying trophy in the world, and Great Britain is making a big bid to regain it this year.

CROP OUTLOOK MUCH BETTER

Steady Improvement Shown During July

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10. (AP)—With few exceptions, improvement in crop prospects during July was reported today by the agriculture department, which said that corn showed an increase of 110,000,000 bushels over the report of a month ago.

Corn production is now forecast at 2,385,226,000 bushels, the smallest crop in 26 years. Winter wheat declined 28,000,000 bushels since July 1, the preliminary estimate placing production at 552,767,000 bushels. Spring wheat improved 24,000,000 bushels in the month, with a total of 298,000,000 bushels now indicated.

The improvement in crops was due chiefly to a more evenly distributed rainfall, the department said. At present, no extensive area of the country is suffering from drought, or from excessive rain; temperatures have been moderate in most states, and during week crops have made good growth.

Corn, oats, and most fruits are now the only important crops expected to show acre yields appreciably below the average of the last 10 years and the yield of all crops combined is expected to be only 1 per cent below the 10-year average.

The indicated corn condition in Texas was 84 per cent of normal and the production 115,431,000 bushels; oats 22 per cent of normal and the production 45,804,000 bushels; winter wheat 86 per cent of normal and the production 17,829,000 bushels.

U. S. WILL VIE WITH BRITAIN

American Will Race For Naval Strength

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—The United States has made it clear to Great Britain that this government is determined upon having the same naval strength as that government, ship for ship and ton for ton, it was learned today.

This is the latest aftermath of the defunct Geneva armaments conference and a development of the direct diplomatic negotiations that followed between Secretary of State Kellogg and the British ambassador Sir Esme Howard.

These negotiations were entered into, it was stated, in the hope of rescuing some of the ideals of the Geneva conference at which Great Britain made it plain that nation desired to build more modern cruisers rather than scrap any to reduce to the existing ratio of the United States.

The conferences which continued throughout the week, have met with no more success than the Geneva deliberations, it was learned. The British still insist that they have every right to a sufficient number of modern cruisers to protect their trade routes, it was learned.

They have also contended that while this government has the same right to build more cruisers it has no real need to build up to the British strength, as there is no naval rivalry between the two countries. The administration, however, has failed to take this view of the situation and has made it plain that unless Britain can agree to limitation this government will begin building.

This notice has been made officially, it was learned and the diplomatic negotiations are practically at an end.

American naval experts now realize that it will require pretty close to half a billion dollars and take years in time to construct the necessary auxiliary warships to match the British navy. Before this can be done a bitter fight will have to be waged in congress over appropriations.

Future of Colorado Line Rests With Cities

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.(AP)—The Daily Metal Trade says the future of the proposed pipe line from the Texas Panhandle to Colorado cities rested with the city councils of Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo, which have the power to grant or refuse distribution franchises. Soft coal operators oppose the project, saying it will impair the industry. The line would require 100,000 tons of pipe, a $22,000,000 order for eastern steel mills.

6 MILES TRACK LAID ON LINE

Three Locomotives Put On Denver Project

Special to The Record News.

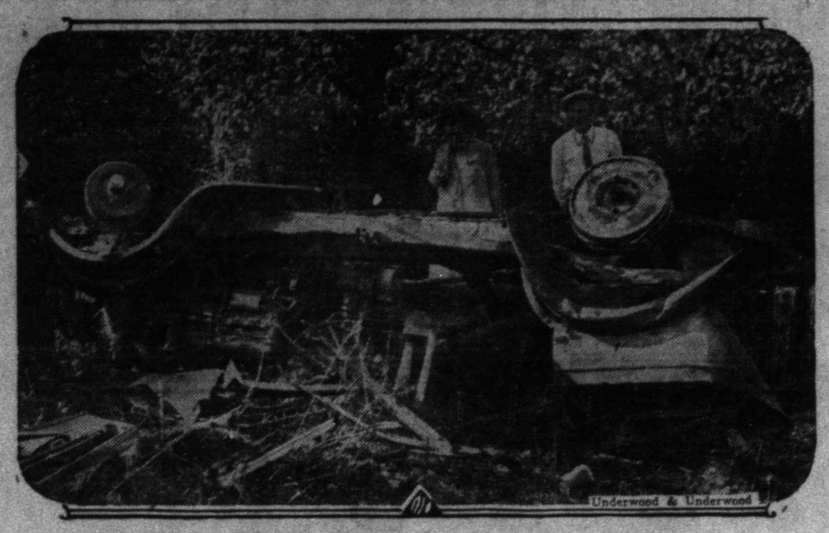

CHILDRESS, Aug. 13.—Six miles of track have been laid on the new South Plains line of the Fort Worth and Denver from Estelline toward the Caprock, and advance work is being pushed daily.

Automobile loads of Childress people are daily to be seen at the little town where the new line starts.

Great quantities of materials of all kinds have been received at Estelline and these supplies are being sent to the construction gangs along the road as rapidly as possible.

Three locomotive have been assigned to service on the line. Their headquarters is at Estelline, but they come to Childress for the rest periods for the crews and for their repairs as this is the division headquarters.

Miracles Do Happen Sometimes

Underwood & Underwood

Seven people were riding in this automobile on the Long Island motor parkway, where there is no speed limit, when another car forced it off the road to roll 50 feet down an embankment. None of the occupants were killed or seriously injured, but the machine, as the picture shows, was a total loss.

HIGHWAY MEET TO OPEN BIDS

Board Wants Figures On Concrete Paving

AUSTIN, Aug. 13. (AP)—The state highway commission will meet here Monday to open bids for construction of some 27 miles of concrete paving in Freestone, Anderson and Taylor counties to cost around $1,000,000.

The commission also will award contract for a concrete girder bridge over Deep creek on highway No. 30 in Jack and Wise counties at a probable cost of $15,000 to $20,000.

No county delegations after state and federal aid will be heard. The next meeting for that purpose will be held about the middle of September.

The paving projects pending are: Freestone county, 15.6 miles from Turlington east to the Trinity river on highway No. 7 about $600,000.

Anderson county, about 11 miles from Palestine to Neches on highway No. 43, about $300,000.

Taylor county, 10.4 miles from the Runnels county line north through Bradshaw and Ovalo on highway No. 30, about $300,000.

Private Papers of Mexican Writer Shed Interesting Light On Pioneers

AUSTIN, Aug. 13.—The private papers of Catarino E. Garza, one of the most picturesque border characters ofthe late eighties, are among the latest acquisitions of the University of Texas library. These interesting papers were presented to the university by Franak Perez of Alice, Texas, whose wife was formerly Miss Amelia Graza, daughter of Cantarino Garza.

The collection of papers were presented to the university through C. E. Castaneda, curator of the Latin American collection of the library, during a recent visit to the Lower Rio Grande valley.

Revolutionary Leader.

Catarino Garza was a journalist and a revolutionary leader against the absolute government of Diaz. He was leader of two fillibuster expeditions across the Rio Grande in 1890-91. While he was at Eagle Pass and at Corpus Christi he published a paper. His liberal and impassioned utterances through these publications finally caused him to have to leave the United States in disguise.

Finally Garza went to Florida and from there to Cuba. Then he went to Central America where he became acquainted with the patriots of Panama, who were trying to secure independence from Columbia. He was killed during a raid in 1895 when he with only 20 poorly equipped men led an expedition against the Columbian forces at Bocas del Toro.

Prized Memories.

Garaza's private memories, many letters and a few copies of the papers he published at Eagle Pass and Corpus Christi are contained in the collection now owned by the University of Texas. All of this material will be arranged in chronological order and catalogued, according to plans of Mr. Castaneda.

WEST TEXANS OPTIMISTIC

Adair Reports Conditions After Recent Trip

People of West Texas are expecting big things in Wichita Falls this fall, according to H. J. Adair, publicity manager of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce, who returned yesterday from a trip through Foard, Cottle, Motley, Floyd and Hale counties in the interest of the Texas-Oklahoma fair, October 1 to 6.

"They are looking to Wichita Falls to win the Texas league pennant and then the Dixie series and then they are expecting a big T-O fair," he said.

"Optimism seems to be the keynote out there," he continued. "Crop prospects are good. Recent rains have greatly improved the cotton and other row crops. In the plains country the crops are late because of the dry weather but with late frosts indications now point to big yields. The rains early last week were a great help. Thousands of acres of land are being plowed and plans already made for big grain crops another year. Ranges are fine and many cattle growing sections of the counties mentioned."

Egyptians Object When Lovers Use Road to Pyramids For Their Amours

By Universal Service.

CARIO, Aug. 13.—Reluctance to make the road leading to the Pyramids a lovers' lane, making it more attractive for affectionate couples to park their cars on the sides of the highway, was one of the arguments advanced in the chamber of deupties against a credit for the repair and widening of the Pyramid road.

The motion to spend about $90,000 on the project was defeated in the chamber by 69 votes to 66, after the upper chamber approved the motion and sent it back to the lower house in the hope it would reverse its previous decision.

Against the plea that this was the road used by thousands of tourists who because of the great amount of money they spent in Egypt were entitled to better communications than "an agricultural track," deputies remarked laconically that tourists would continue to come to Egypt in any case, and that it was of no great importance whether the roads were good or bad.

"The idea of the deputies that there is no need to cater to the comfort of the tourists, since these strange animals are driven forth from their homes by an irresponsible urge that sends them to Egypt, is a dangerous one," says the Egyptian Gazette.

"Visitors during the last few years have complained that the Egyptian government seems to care and do nothing for them. Next winter they will find that the road which above all others might be expected to receive special attention, has been allowed to deteriorate to a third-class condition. What becomes of the hospitality to strangers and the open handedness which is harped upon, in season and out of season by Egyptian orators?" this English language daily asks.

Childress Lays Plans For Most Successful Fair In City's History

Special to The Record News.

CHILDRESS, Aug. 13.—Officials have been named, the date has been set, the budget has been determined and plans for the Childress state fair are now under way.

In 1926 the fair earned $900 on a budgot of $9000 so the same budget was sot for this year to be on the safe and conservative side. The best crop conditions in many years seem to indicate, however, that the fair will be far more successful in every way than formerly.

The dates of the fair are September 20 to 24 inclusive.

Jerry Debenport is secretary in charge of the work.

At the meeting of fair directors, President Lon Alexander named Will P. Jones, Henry Sherwood and Fred L. Haskett as nominating committee. The committee recommended C. E. Johnson, C. H. Trueblood, F. A. Story, Lon Alexander, Hugh S. Black, Howard Harrison and Frank Houston for directors and they were elected. Lon Alexander declined to accept the presidency so the board picked F. A. Story.

Plans for exhibits, music, shows, carnival attractions and the like are now in full swing and the outlook for a good fair is bright.

TO HOLD RODEO ON IX RANCH

Dallas Plans Rodeo On Famous Ranch

DALLAS, Aug. 13. (AP)—The cry of "ride 'em cowboy" is soon to be again heard at the old IX ranch, 25 miles north of Dallas, once the rendezvous of some of the hardest riding cowpunchers in Texas.

Ten years ago this old ranch was the center for the big rides of this section, and every Sunday morning when the weather permitted men for miles around would come to display their skill as equine chauffeurs.

Now the sport is to be revived, and on September 4, the boys from the country round will gather again for one of these old time rides.

Tom Hickman, famous Texas ranger, and Harry Crozier, of Fort Worth, editor of the Southwestern cattlemen have been invited to be judges of the contest.

In the old days Harve Grace won all the contests when he rode in exhibitions, but his rodeo days were interrupted by the war. He is a farmer now but he has promised to don the chaps and mount his horse for the September 4 roundup.

"When I heard they were going to revive the rides at the old IX, I decided to enter just once more, and I'm going to show 'em that I can still ride," Grace said.

The IX is to be preserved as a typical ranch of the old cowpunching days. Corrals, chuck wagons, roundups and all the picturesque features of the old time Texas ranch, are to be reproduced in accurate detail. A group of Dallas men are fostering the project.

The September 4 event will be an open house and all will be welcome to try the wild horses. Campsites will be provided for the visitors.

TEXAS WINS EAST'S REGARD

All-Texas Special Train Brings Results

Special to The Record News.

FORT WORTH, Aug. 13.—That the eyes of the country are turning towards Texas as a result of the All-Texas special good will tour, which visited fourteen of the large cities of the North and East during the month of June, is being abundantly shown by recent comment by newspapers and other publications and by letters received by the all-Texas ways and means committee from those sections.

"New England has been given a better idea of Texas and Texans," writes George H. Clifford, native Texan who is now a citizen of Boston, and adds that he has received many inquiries from investment houses about this state since the visit of the all-Texas party.

Sun Is Complimentary.

The tour, according to the New York Sun, has served to bring the metropolis and Texas closer together, and the New York Graphic declares that such enterprises serve to "make a more united nation of the United States." The Graphic suggests that a party of New Yorkers should tour Texas.

"Such visits are productive of great good," says the Graphic. "They establish friendly relationships in business as well as in a purely social way. They help one part of the country to recognize the problems and the ambitions of other parts."

Common Restlessness.

"Perhaps," says the New York Sun, "the chief bond of affinity between New York and Texas is a common restlessness—a common disinclination to be content with things as they are. New York can understand a state which makes a seaport out of an inland city like Houston, causes Uncle Sam to create harbors at Point Isabel and Corpus Christi, turns the desert of the lower Rio Grande valley into a fertile and fecund garden, replaces the longhorn of the plains with fine beef cattle which can hold their own in the Kansas City and Chicago markets, pumps oceans of oil from its lands, endows its state university with one of the nation's finest libraries, fosters county farm agents and practices crop diversification while maintaining the hegemony of king cotton."

Big Future Seen.

The Boston Herald points out that Texas is on the way to become the most populous state in the Union. "Do we New Englanders realize," it asks, "that Texas — whose governor has recently been visiting us — while universally known as the largest state in the Union, stands a good chance of becoming the most populous, too? Watch the trend. In the assignment of seats that followed the admission of Texas into the Union, and for the whole decade that followed, Texas had just two congressional districts, based upon population, as against thirty-four in New York. Roughly speaking, Texas was one-seventeenth as populous. By the civil war census of 1860, Texas came to the front with four congressional districts, against thirty-one in New York. A little more than one-eighth as populous. The next census stood five Texans to thirty-three New Yorkers, a little better than one-sixth. The decade of the eighties gave Texas 11 to New York's 34, close to one-third; the next census stood 13 Texans to 34 New Yorkers. Then came 16 Texans to 37 New Yorkers. Now it is 18 Texas seats to 43 for New York. The disparity in area is so great as to give Texas a wonderful opportunity. It has 265,000 square miles against New York's 49,000. If Texas were one-fifth as thickly settled as New York per square mile, it would have the larger population. Is that ratio impossible of achievement? The Texans say No."

The New York Times remarks that the object of the All-Texas Special Good Will tour was "to acquaint financial and manufacturing centers of the east with the imperial resources of Texas and to stress the interdependence which is so obvious that it is often forgotten." Commenting it continues: "The trade balance of the union is so finely adjusted that New York could not be so great as it is without Texas, nor could Texas realize its commercial importance without New York . . . The more that is done to emphasize and clarify this relationship the better for the two American empires."

Capital Interested.

"Northern capital," exclaims the New York American, in an editorial which appeared in all Hearst newspapers throughout the country, "is just learning the opportunities to manufacture raw materials where they are grown." "It would be a good thing for the country," it continues, "if the investment bankers could be induced to visualize the wonderful resources of Texas. There they would find in a single state an empire, greater in area than Germany before the war sheared her, and infinitely richer in natural resources. There they would find five million all-American people, a blend of the south, the stock that wrested the republic of Texas from Mexico, and immigration from the mid-west. It is a race and an environment to produce independence, industry, vision. Perhaps no state in the union has so many strings to its bow as Texas. She leads all states in cotton, wool, livestock and oil. Her known oil deposits are so huge that they exceed all calculations, and if controlled will drown out eleven billion dollar oil industry. The state raises every known agricultural product of the country, from winter wheat on the wind-swept plains to semi-tropical fruits and grains in the irrigated delta of the Rio Grande, lying in the latitude of Miami. Northern capital is just learning the opportunitis to manufacture these raw materials where they are grown. Flour mills, meat products, refineries, leather goods, and above all, cotton and woolen goods beckon to it with abounding opportunities."

Texas Is Progressive.

"When will the east get over its fond illusion that Texas is still a state of cowboys, stud poker and bandits?" asks the New York Telegram. "As Governor Moody told Boston newspapermen, if they were to fall asleep in their own town and wake up tomorrow in Dallas, Houston or any other large Texas city, they would find themselves surrounded by taller buildings than they were accustomed to see. He might have added that the buildings would have a less dingy appearance, that the street cars would be cleaner, that ordinary people would be living mostly in bungalows on fifty-foot lots instead of dark tenements, that Houston is passing Boston as a port, though she had to dig her harbor, and that more money is being spent for electrical development in Texas right now than in all the New England states put together."

How Texas Changes.

Remarking on the transition of Texas from a purely livestock and agricultural state to a place where it is turning toward industrial pursuits as well, the St. Louis Globe-Democrat points out that capital is now welcomed into the state. "For a long time," says the Globe-Democrat, "Texas' 'unfriendly' attitude toward foreign capital has been a myth. And it was to dispel this myth that the forward-looking young governor and his business associates set forth into other states to court useful capital and the business good-will of the nation. That the delegation has done what it set forth to do is evidenced by the reception and encouragement the members were given in St. Louis and other cities of the tour. Agriculture is doing well in Texas. Range lands, especially in the more remot rgions, have been and are being cut up into smaller tracts for the plow, and diversified farming is laying a $1,000,000,000 tribute at the feet of the citizens of the state annually. Now to balance this the business men of the commonwealth want increased industrial interests. There seems no reason why the desire should be denied; especially in the fact of the presentation laid before the outside interests by Governor Moody and his equally progressive and business-like associates."

A Garden Paradise.

"Texas alone, intensively cultivated," exclaimed Arthur Brisbane, in his column which is printed in hundreds of newspapers "could feed every one of the 1,900,000,000 human beings on earth and have room left to raise cotton." And the Syracuse, N. Y. Herald, points out that there are many reasons why Texas and New York should get closer together. "One of them," it says, "is the richest and most populous of the union—the leader in finance and industry. The other is the biggest in territory and agricultural output. Every school boy is familiar with the primacy of Texas in the matter of size, but few of us realize her precedence in the production of the necesaries of life. From the latest official statistics at hand, those for the year 1925, it is seen that Texas leads all other state in the total value of her agricultural yield and her ahimal product. The figure for the former was $637,000,000 and for the latter $308,000,000—or within striking distance of a round billion dollars. . . . The state fair at Dallas is, by the way, a two-week enterprise, though its duration comes far from connoting the wonderful industry it represents. If New York is the greatest workshop and financial and commercial mart, Texas can claim similar primacy as the American garden and ranch. Nay more, if Texas is the unequalled producer of food and cotton, New York is the unrivaled consumer of both."

Texas Understood Now.

"Texas," remarks the Springfield, Mass., Union, "is too big to be misunderstood very long. Most easterners know by this time that it is achieving one record after another. We have read claims about its primacy in mules, peanuts, cotton, petroleum, sweet potatoes, and heaven knows what else. We know that it is not only our biggest state in area, but first in value of farm products, second in export trade, and climbing up the population ladder in a way to frighten Ohio and Illinois. We know that it has one of the richest and sturdiest of state universities. Many of us have learned the proper pronunciation of 'Houston.'"

Two States Linked.

The Evening Bulletin of Philadelphia takes occasion to call attention to the fact that Pennsylvania and Texas are directly connected by water transportation. "Galveston and the Delaware Breakwater," points out the Bulletin, "are only a short voyage apart. . . . No two states are more complementary than Pennsylvania and Texas. Vast quantities of oil products, cotton, vegetables, fruits and packing house products originating in Texas reach refineries, textile mills and the tables of Philadelphians. Philadelphia's famous locomotives, steel, iron, machinery, silks, linens, hosiery, worsted and other products find a market in turn down by the Rio Grande. . . . Pretty nearly everything the people of Texas need to buy outside of their own state is to be had right here. The Texas executive is making friends in the east."

Texans Sell East.

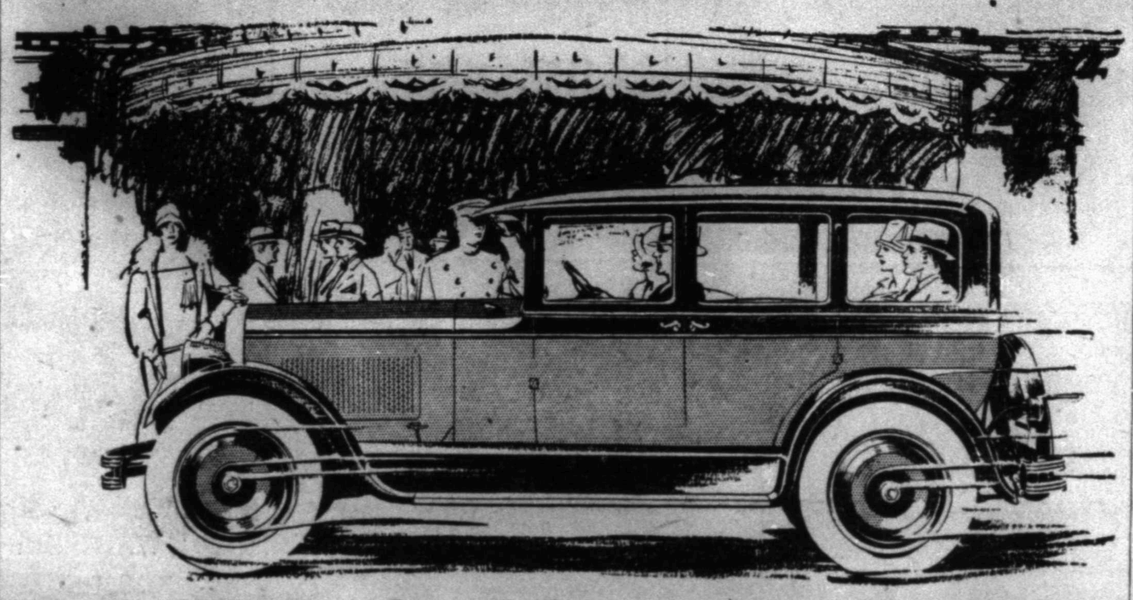

The Boston Evening Transcript, one of the oldest newspapers in New England, remarked on the fact that the visit of the Texans did much to disabuse the popular idea that the people of Texas were cowboys and frontiersmen. "President Coolidge told some people in South Dakota the other day that they were very much like Vermonters," say the Transcript. "These visitors from Texas give evidence that the people of their state are very much like the people of New England. There is a marked family resemblance in dress,, manners and tastes. They come from the same kind of homes. They do business in the same sort of buildings, save that in Texas the law permits taller structures than are permissable in Boston. If the Texas of the days of the covered wagon has not been as completely relegated as the Massachusetts of the era of Ind an wars, it is fast apprcaching that condition."

Other Expressions.

Similar expressions have appeared and are still appearing in many other newspapers in the eastern centers, and in addition to this special article on the tour are appearing in weekly and monthly publications. Two illustrated articles, with views of the sky lines of Dallas and Fort Worth and of the sea wall at Galveston, were printed in the Chicago Commerce, publication of the Chicago Association of Commerce, and similar articles appeared in The Kansas Citian, the publication of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce. The National Business Review of New York has issued a special edition, giving 24 pages to the Texas tour, and the American Banker of New York, the American Business Magazine of New York, the Manufacturers Record of Baltimore and many others. All of this is in addition to the daily reports carried by newspapers throughout the United States during the tour and the full reports of speeches by Governor Moody and other Texas speakers by local newspapers in the cities visited. The All-Texas committee on ways and means estimates that at least two thousand columns have been printed about the trip and its object of presenting Texas to the country. The circulation of the publications in which this publicity appeared is difficult to estimate, but it is certainly more than twenty millions in the opinion of the committee.

EARLY SHOWING OF NEW

FALL FASHIONS

Charming New Millinery

The new hats for Fall are quite different indeed.

The new felts and supple fabrics, employed in their making are so lovely and unusual, and the velvet and satin models are the last word in newness. Medium and small brims, with the off-the-face flare, or pinched or turned in a smart manner. A feather pad, smart quill placed low, unusual ornaments and velvet applied in various ways are the trimmins used. Unusual and most becoming are these new models and the prices most reasonable.

$3.95 to $16.75

Fall Coats Are Most Admirable

A combination of richness, grace, smartness and practicability more nearly fits a brief description of the new Fall coats than anything else we could say about them. Yet, to neglect to lay special stress on the completeness of this Fall display or fail to urge upon you the advantage of making your selection while the display is in progress, would be a gross neglect on our part.

Dresses Were Never More Attractive

If, for no other purpose than to see these dresses, you will, by attending this display find your time well spent. There is such a variety of styles, combinations, different fabrics, so many new trimmings, weaves and colors, that any attempt to enumerate even a part of them in so small a space, would be futile indeed. But we want you to see this Fall display and give us an opportunity to show you this remarkable collection.

Run in Tenth Clinches Chicago Victory

CHICAGO, Aug. 13. (AP)—Clyde Beck's single with the bases loaded in the tenth inning today broke up a pitching duel between Jakie May and Sheriff Blake, Chicago registering its second straight win over Cincinnati 2 to 1. May outpitched his rival, allowing only six hits, while Blake was more or less erratic being touched for nine. His teammates, especially Wilson and Beck pulled Blake out of trouble. The score.

AND WHY?

The damper isn't down any more. Fickle fandom perks up and forgets the fears it registered the past week that Wichita Falls wasn't going to make the Dixie series grade.

With the home guard apparently out of the rut and steaming along in top form again, the hammer brigade loses its stance and starts missing. You can't say they "threw" those last two melees. That's the story several of your cheap gamblers started here when the club hit its slump on the road. Did I say cheap? I meant "cheat" gamblers.

We've been pasting the Bears right along, so it wouldn't be in the least out of order should we cop both ends of the bargain bill at the orchard Sunday afternoon.

* * *

WELL, WELL.

"All right Joe, all right," shouted a coacher at first base and clapped his hands at the batter.

"All right, Joe, all right," shouted the Spudder third baseman.

You see, Joe Klein was at bat, Joe Kiefer was pitching and Joe Cobb was catching.

It just got out yesterday how came the boys to reverse on Houston so lustily Friday. They routed the Buffs, you know, 10-2. Just did it for the ladies, boys. It was "Ladies Day" and 1088 not counting several ball players' wives who went through another gate and didn't click the turnstiles, fem fans got in free to see the Spudders trumph over the Branch Rickey outfit.

SO-O-O-O DIFFERENT

The customers, the Lord bless 'em, as one Texas league club owner says it, emitted a loud yell yesterday when the black boy on score board in right center put up Fort Worth 5, Houston 0 at the end of the third. Can you blame 'em? Yet there was a day when such a maneuver on the tally slate brought only large groans. Remember?

* * *

JUST A SWE-E-ET HITTER.

Chuckled Harlem Joe after wafting that homer, "If the rest of you guys could hit like me and Cobb you wouldn't be worrying about whose gonna get any Dixie series coin."

Then in the fifth when Good walked him, "See there, got them birds scared stiff." The pudgy pitcher put a hefty drive to left center in the seventh that the fleet Najo had to do some tall loping to spear. Not like most ball players, mad because the outfielder robbed him, Joe grinned all over because he had hit one pretty hard even if it did get caught. They'll have a tough time of it keeping Joseph out of the line-up every day now. For that matter, any guy who can pitch and hit like he did yesterday ought to be in there every day.

KEEP SERIES AT HOME

Doak Roberts was in town the past week and among other things, talking for Walter Morris, tried to get the Sunday Dixie series games for Dallas. The Dallas mogul says a Dixie series in Wichita Falls, especially on Sundays, would be a flop. But Spudder President Gardner says if the ship sinks here he is going down with it. Morris believes Wichita Falls and the league can make more money even after splitting with Dallas interests by taking the Sunday games to Dallas. Maybe so, avers Gardner, but he refuses to walk out on the home crowd that way.

CRACKS FROM CONSUMERS

Megargel, Tex.

Dear Blondy,

I would like to get a little info on getting tickets for the Dixie series games. You know, down at Cowtown they lined up one day to get tickets the next day. I have been rooting for the Spudders ever since Wichita got the franchise and have paid my sixbits to see many a game but I can't spend a day and a night to get a ticket. So won't you get Mr. Gardner to mail me a ticket on receipt of the price. I went to the opening game the 16th of April and had to pull my shoes and socks off and climb up the net wire by the end of the grandstand and hook my toes in the wire in order to see over that macaroni model, Slim Roberts from Burkburnett. Now, Blondy, any service that you will render will be highly appreciated and I will reward you with a large box of cracker jacks. How will the sale of tickets be arranged?

W. C. R.

Answer: Gardner plans adding to the stand enough to double the capacity. He is going to put in 175 new permanent boxes and about 10 0temporary boxes, the latter down the first base line. The entire grandstand is to be reserved. Tickets will be on sale a good deal in advance of the series, Gardner says. Every effort, according to Gardner, will be made to take care of the regular customers first. Prices will be in the vicinity of $2.60 for box seats, $2.30 for reserve seats, $1.75 for grandstand.

Borger, Texas.

Blondy Cross
Record News sporting editor,

Dear Blondy,

I sure appreciate what you did for me Tuesday night even if I was disqualified. But down in your heart you can readily see how easy I could beat Gorman if there were some one to keep the inside people off the ring without me being hurt or make Gorman wrestle like a wrestler.

Mike Reed.

Answer: I'm not so sure you can beat Gorman. New York commission rules. Might do it Police Gazette. Yes, it's a shame some fans cannot keep their heads and let well enough alone. Any fan who would charge up and slug a wrestler when he is down, as was done Tuesday night at the Gorman-Reed match here, is doing nothing brave or even half smart. A three-year old child is wise enough to know that the same fan or fans wouldn't think of taking a poke at the wrestler down or do if they were paired off alone somewhere without a mob or police on hand to protect should the grappler wish to retaliate.

SPUDDERS GAIN ANOTHER GAME

Out in Front Six and Half To Good

Wichita Falls trimmed Santone, 9-3, yesterday while our old friends, the Fort Worth Cats, were mutilating the second-place Houston Buffs, 14-4, so our nine this morning gained a game and is riding six and a half contests in front of the nearest pursuer, those Junior Cardinals of the Bayou City.

If the Cats string with us again Sunday afternoon we stand a smart chance of running right off from those Buffs. We're booked to bait the Bears in a double header. First game starts at 3 o'clock.

Manager Carl Williams has Herb Cobb (we may get to see that Cobb and Cobb battery today), the sturdy George Payne and that ace of southpaws, Fred Fussell, to make the Wichita Falls pitching selection from for the double header.

Unless he runs in a rookie flinger, it is likely Bob Couchman will call on Fillinim and Lindsey to carry the San Antonio chunking chores.

SHIPPERS 4, SPORTS 3.

SHREVEPORT, Aug. 13. (AP)—The Exporters had one big inning here today scored enough runs in that session to win the first game of the series, 4 to 3. After an error and a couple of free passes had filled the bags in the seventh, Watkins hit for three bases to clear the cushions. The Sports made a couple of serious threats after that but the young Phillips was too tight in the pinches. The score:

CATS 14, BUFFS 4.

FORT WORTH, Aug. 13. (AP)—The Houston Buffs after playing hard baseball in Wichita Falls, struck a stump in the opening game in Fort Worth Saturday, losing, 14 to 4. Two Buff pitchers, Jacobus and Grabowski, were well smacked and an outfielder, Martin, pitched the last inning for the visitors. Williams held the Buffs well in check except in the last two innings. A fine play by Lewis that started a double play pulled the Cat southpaw out of a bad hole in the ninth. The two clubs play a double-header Sunday. The score:

Bambino And Lou To Team On Stage

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig, joint sultans of swat, have signed to go into vaudeville together soon after the world series, it was learned today.

Their contract calls for a 50-50 split of $5000 a week. Ruth will play the silver saxaphone given to him recently by Paul Whitman.

Ruth has two years to go on a three-year contract calling for $70,000 a season. While Gehrig's salary is said to be $8000 a year, he is slated for a big boost next season on the strength of his home run clouting this year.

Before going on the stage the home run hitters plan a two weeks' exhibition baseball tour calling for $1000 a game.

Ruth was on the stage 17 weeks last winter at $2500 a week. Two weeks in the films netted him a flat $100,000 plus a share in the profits.

NO BELLS FOR THESE BOYS

Six Sport Stars Defy Cupid Successfully

What's the matter with the girls, anyway?

The six Perfect Prizes of the sports world, each the best in his business, have not yet been claimed and reduced to the status of just being so many husbands.

Six sport aces, all fine fellows and possessing a host of silent though excited feminine admirers, remain bachelors. Why?

There is handsome Mr. James J. Tunney, heavyweight champion and the perfect gentleman of pugilism. Gene is as much at home with apostrophes and pronouns as he is with punches. They don't write a book too thick for Gene to wade through.

There are 'steen million fellows who would make less worthy breakfast table companions than Gene. Yet Miss America has let the worthy Mr. Tunney go his way and every time he falls into a clinch he is embracing not the future Mrs. Tunney but another man, the well-known Mr. W. H. Dempsey.

Mr. Grange as the Red Terror of the Big Ten got himself so much football fame that ladies all over the country were reported swooning just at the thrill of reading about him.

After leaving dear old Illinois Mr. Grange set up in business making movies and, of course, mazuma. He also played some pro football and now has reached a point where it would be an exaggeration to say that he is dead broke. Despite all this Red has no one to buy hats for or scold him when his football makes him late for supper.

Leading the list of big time sport bachelors in point of age is the 77-year-old commodore, Sir Thomas Lipton, yachtsman extraordinary, and the man who keeps England in tea.

Think how terrible it must be for the jolly old Englishman to go on losing these yacht races to the American chappies with no sweet soprano voice to take his mind off his grief by discussing new fall hats.

Well up in the ranks of the eligible but unclaimed one finds William T. Tilden II, Philadelphia cinema star and for long the king of all courts. Somehow Big Bill has managed to traipse the country and the world over in those darling white outfits the tennis folk effect without being snagged by some fair racquet fan.

The sparsely clad but exceedingly speedy Mr. J. Weissmuller, Chicago, has also managed to remain out of the swim as far as matrimony is concerned. Johnny has never revealed whether he uses quick getaway or just summerges when danger threatens.

Lastly there is Mr. Lou Gehrig, once the cynosure of all of Columbia's co-eds' eyes. Lou these days is so busy knocking homers he has never had a chance to look up in the stands into the many pairs of limpid eyes focussed on him.

There you are! The six of them, and every one as free as a ride in the police patrol. Girls, how come?

TITULAR BOUT HERE TUESDAY

THE CARD.

Matty Matsuda, El Paso, versus Bobby Sandow, Seattle. Junior welterweights, two falls to a finish.

Yaqui Joe, Sonora, versus Silvio Checco, New York. Welterweights, two falls to a finish.

Time: Tuesday night.

Two finish matches, one with a title at stake, are on the wrestling association card this week. Matty Matsuda, the old favorite and the greatest drawing card Matchmaker A. B. Ross ever has produced, has agreed, says Ross, to make 140 pounds for Sandow, the junior welterweight champion. Matsuda wishes to win Sandow's belt to place with his own, the senior welter belt. The sturdy little Sandow, admittedly stronger than Matsuda, just as clever but not as foxy, believes that with Matsuda below the Jap's normal weight 143 or 144 pounds, Matty will be just weakened sufficiently for him to beat the Nipponese quickly. Sandow says he wants to beat Matty at the junior welter limit and then let the Jap come in at his regular weight and beat him for the senior title.

The Yaqui Joe-Checco affair should prove a riotous melee. The tough and powerful Checco has a habit of getting rough. He's not as smart as Joe but he's pretty capable. The Indian can rough it with the best of them.

Wichita Tennis Tourney Opens

First Play For Week Set Wednesday

The elimination tournament to determine Wichita Falls' entrants into the Texas Municipal Athletic federation's second annual tennis tournament gets under way Wednesday. Bill Ward, city recreation manager has been working hard on this for the last few days and as a result the courts in the municipal parks have been worked over and are said to be in first class shape.

Wichita Falls will enter contestants in three divisions of the meet: Men, junior (boys under 18) and women. An entrance fee of $1 will be charged. Through the efforts of Mr. Ward the city has agreed to help pay the transportation and with the money derived from the entrance fees, it is thought that most of the expenses of the winners will be paid to the tournament, which is to be held in Waco Sept. 2 and 3.

The entry list is open until Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock, at which time drawings will be made at Landon-Hill Co., and play will start Wednesday. Everyone who is interested in municipal tennis and who would like to get in some competitive tennis is urged to enter. Entries may be made with Bill Ward at the city hall or with Preston Beck at Landon-Hill Co.

TEXAS U. GRID OUTLOOK GOOD

Littlefield to Have Many Candidates

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Aug. 13.—With 16 letter men, a number of reserves, and a hoard of freshman players as material, the University of Texas should be a potent but uncertain contender for the 1927 football championship of the Southwestern Athletic conference.

Clyde Littlefield, a new coach in major football, will whip the material into playing shape and on his success in forming a well-coached team will depend part of Texas' fortunes. His coaching will not be unfamiliar to the men, because he has trained most of them as freshmen, but his system will necessarily be new, as he will be coaching his own ideas and not teaching the system of another coach.

Young Team Material.

A young team will absorb football under Coach Littlefield. Nine of the 16 letter men are playing their second year, and several of the veterans will take the sidelines in deference to make powerful freshmen. A great mass of strong track men will go out for football for the first time and several of them are potential stars.

The men who have played one year before are Dusty Rhoades of Dallas, Herb Tigner of Houston, Jack Cowley of Blossom, Steve Wray of Donna, Ike Sewell of Wills Point, Cotton Mobley of Houston, Bill Ford of Dallas, Tommie Hughes of Texarkana and Leo Baldwin of Wichita Falls.

John Terrell of Decatur, Pottie McCullough of Waco, Joe King, Johnnie Estes and Ox Higgins of Dallas; Potsy Allen of Luling and Rufus King of Austin will be playing their third season.

Great Team Possible.

Should Higgins, Estes, Baldwin and Eddie Beular of Beaumont, the cripples of 1926, suffer no ill consequences from their old injuries, Texas may have a great team. If these four men return in perfect physical condition, they will add dynamite power to the team's punch. Each was all-conference material, but three of them were forced entirely off the team last year because of leg injuries, and much of Higgins' power was drawn by the same trouble.

With seven letter men in the backfield and nine in the line, the veteran material is well divided. And of the double leadership of the team, Co-Captain Higgins will play tackle, while Co-Captain Rufus King will boss the team from the fullback position.

More Material Out.

More football material will go out for the team this year than has appeared for practice in many seasons. Besides the men who have played college football before, there will be a number of track and basketball players who have not competed since high school days. Many of these may not play in a single game this year, but they will help develop other men and they will have learned the system for the next year.

Coach Littlefield's system of play will be difficult to forecast from the standpoint of the one he has used for seven years as freshman coach. During this period, he alternately groomed his charges in the system to be used by the major coach in varsity football and in that to be used by the next gridiron antagonist. Some things can be gleaned from the play of the first-year men, however.

Wide Open Formation.

One of the most persistent styles used on the freshmen was a wide-open formation that unleashed some powerful back to run, kick or pass from 10 or 15 yards behind the line. This style would place Baldwin, a great halfback, in his glory. Baldwin is the type of player who can hit through line or around end from five to an infinite number of yards on this play. He is also a great passer and the best kicker on the team. Beular and Big Un Rose of Dallas will also find this style exactly suited to their talents.

Punting will find Texas with but one great kicking back and that is Baldwin. He ought to send as many 50-yard boots spinning into the air during the campaign as any other man in the conference. Burr McKinnon of Plainview can punt farther than any man on the squad, and he may develop into an all-around player. Paul Krueger of Austin, Big Un Rose and Pap Perkins of Bastrop, from the freshmen, are good kickers with possibilities.

Rufus King, the greatest plunging full in the conference, will do most of the line plowing. He will have the assistance of Krueger and Buelar, who is small but carries a punch.

Baldwin, Joe King and Beular can pass well, while Rufus King, who passed most balls last year, is an excellent flinger.

Bill Ford, Big Un Rose and Dusty Rhoades will give the passers excellent targets, since all are receivers above the average.

Hard Games Ahead.

Playing S. M. U. and A. and M. away from home, Texas will face her hardest conference games on hostile territory. T. C. U., Rice and Baylor will appear in Austin.

A great running backfield should play for Texas. With the smart, resourceful Beular in quarterback's post, the team should be directed by a master hand. Beular knows how to play football and has punch and speed. He will be assisted by Joe King, who is a seasoned player. Passing and broken field running are his greatest accomplishments.

Baldwin of the 1925 team, Rose, Ford, Hughes, Estes and Allen are the most plausible halfback contenders. The versatility of Baldwin and Rose in kicking, passing and running; the pass-catching ability of Ford; the sturdiness of Hughes; the tackle tearing of Estes and the speed of Allen will make them valuable men. Then there are Holly Brock, Jimmy Boyles, Walker White, Burr McKinnon and Pap Perkins, all good men.

Rufus at Fullback.

Rufus King will play full, and he can do everything but run fast. He plunges, runs, passes, tackles, and sometimes punts. Krueger will be a valuable understudy for this position.

Co-Captain Higgins will play tackle again, the post that made him famous in 1925. He will have as mates Tigner, a fast tackle; Cowley, of giant power; Gordy Brown of San Antonio, the best freshman linesman last year; Beaty and Hawn.

Wray, all-conference guard last year, will be better this season; Ike Sewell, veteran from 1925, and Mobley are the letter men who are candidates for guard. Charlie Reynolds, a good athlete from the track team; Trifon, Phillips, Hargrove, McLemore, McCutcheon, Burnett, Speights, Robbins, Garrett, Hahn, Witsell, Adieta and Gholson will also play.

Veteran at Center.

No doubt that McCullough, two-year veteran, will play center. He is the smartest linesman in the conference and is a hard player. Frank Cheatham of San Antonio will be a good understudy.

Rhoades and Terrell will form a fast end combination. Rhodes is a great pass receiver, while Terrell is a hard-hitting defensive end. Nono Rees of San Antonio, from the freshman ranks, should prove to be a well-trained end and a hard tackler. Ivan Ward of Greenville, Cecil Smith of Austin and Wilbanks are other prospects.

DEEP SAND AT MUENSTER IS CAUSE OF NEW OIL EXCITEMENT

NEW POOL IS GIVEN ARCHER

But Muenster Test Causes Most Conversation

By TOM TRULY
The Record News Oil Editor

What the coming week holds forth for the Muenster pool of Cooke county as the result of determining the value of a new sand bearing oil vied with discussion of a new producing area in Archer county Saturday in impromptu sessions of members of the oil fraternity of Wichita Falls.

Archer county's new pool is an established fact. It was opened by Panhandle Refining company and Stanley MacGregor in their No. 1 W. R. Farmer, block 2, North Anderson ranch, in the southwest part of the county. It is being equipped to pump with an estimated daily output of 60 to 70 barrels and three new tests are being started up near it.

Deep Sand Found

Cooke county's excitement is occasioned by the picking up of an entirely new sand by Houseman and Lawson in their No. 1 test, block 21, Muenster townsite. Five feet of the sand was drilled with a rock bit which entered at 1936 feet. The formation is said to be comparatively hard but far from being too hard to be a real pay.

The bit cut the samples into small pieces and those who examined particles said it contained plenty of oil. The crew is reaming down to set pipe for a test.

Whether this test is located on the south edge of a pool or sits well within the boundaries of the oil laden formation was a matter of much speculative discussion. The sand is the deepest ever uncovered in the immediate vicinity of Muenster and bears out to an extent predictions of many oil men that the real pay of that county is yet to be uncovered in deeper sands.

Near Two Schools

Muenster citizens are doubly interested in the outcome of the well, which is located just east of the business district. The test was drilled to a depth which determined that it could not be productive in either of the shallow sands. To make a deep test, public subscription was taken up among the citizens of the town. Now their faith seems to be in a fair way of being justified.

The test is about three-quarters of a mile north and east of the original pool. It is south of the Parish school, west of the public school and east of C. D. Shamburger's lumber yard, being in a stone's throw of each. Its elevation is somewhat greater than the wells in the old pool which follows a creek.

As a small producer, the well will cause an immediate drilling campaign on the north side of town. But if it fails to produce oil commercially it has already proven another great boost for ultimate deep exploration in that sector.

There is not an operator who has drilled a hole in Cooke county dry or productive, but who believes there exists a deep pay there. It is held that the Ellenberger lime will some day be found to hold oil and when this happens, there is little doubt that Cooke county will be a major area. Wildcats failing to pay off above the Ellenberger are always shoved into the lime some distance on the strength of this belief.

The final testing of the deep sand, which is scheduled for the first half of this week, is expected to be witnessed by hundreds of scouts, operators and citizens.

Montague County

Montague county for the first time in several weeks commanded some attention during the past week with Pure Oil company's No. 1 Mrs. Loy, extending the pool to the north and west. It is now casing off a gas flow of 12,000,000 cubic feet to get the benefit of a 55-barrel oil show.

Foard county's most interesting test, Roxana and Fain-McGaha's No. 1 Matthews, near Thalia, obtained a fourth gas show at 1670 feet which was estimated from half a million to a million feet. The test is drilling deeper.

Slow Increase In Panhandle Tankage

AMARILLO, Aug. 13. — Steel storage capacity of the Panhandle field is slowly increasing. In July more than 187,000 barrels of steel tankage was built, bringing the total capacity to 23,565,000 barrels.

In the field tanks on August 1, were 321,490 barrels less than was held on July 1. Withdrawals are not being continued at the rate that they started out, and more tankage is expected to be built this fall.

On August 1 it is estimated there was available room in the Panhandle field for 5,235,000 barrels of oil, compared to 4,726,000 barrels on July 1.

Pipeline runs for July of oil gathered in the field itself averaged 114,000 barrels a day and shipments out of storage averaged 7970 barrels a day. Deliveries out of the field amounted to 3,350,500 barrels by pipelines, and tank cars took considerable.

Pipelines Keep Up Panhandle Oil Runs

AMARILLO, Aug. 13—The three major pipelines out of the Panhandle continue to move oil to distant storage farms or to refiners.

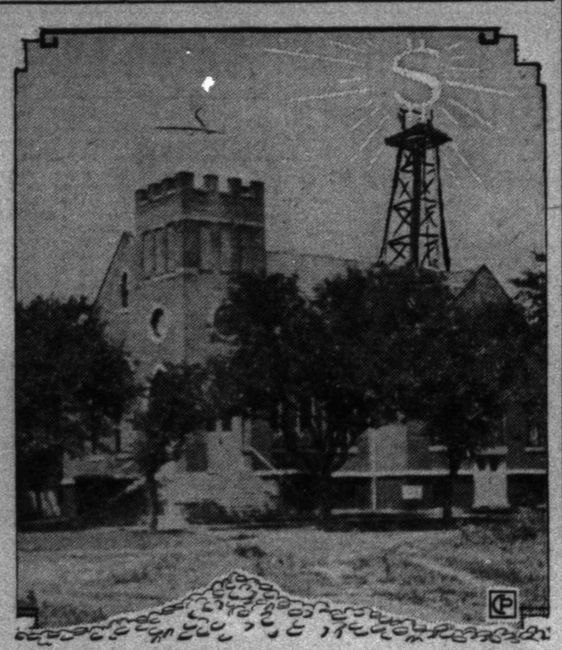

The Humble Pipeline company averaged 33,000 barrels a day during July, and the first week of August was moving slightly more than that amount.

The joint Gulf-Magnolia line was moving 24,400 barrels a day the first week of August. It was handling better than 7600 barrels a day for the Gulf, and more than 16,700 barrels for the Magnolia.

The Prairie Pipeline company was moving 16,000 barrels a day during the latter part of July, and is busy now relieving the Prarie Oil and Gas company, whose field and tank farm storage in the Panhandle is nearly full.

A new gathering line is to be built by the Empire companies from its Johnson lease in section 63, block 46, of H. & T. C. survey, Hutchinson county, through the Mary Whitley survey, block Y area, and to section 104, block 4, of I. & G. N. survey, in northwestern Carson county. It will be a six-inch line.

Church Owns Oil Well

THIS IS THE FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH AT OXFORD, KAN., WHICH EXPECTS TO PAY OFF ITS OBLIGATIONS WITH PROFITS FROM ITS OWN OIL WELL.

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch To The Record News.

OXFORD, Kan., Aug. 13.—As is the case with so many religious organizations throughout the country, the First Christian church here has debts; and, as is the case elsewhere, ice cream socials, box parties, rummage sales and collections were the irritatingly, leisurely means hitherto used to pay off the various obligations.

Now everything has changed. The faces of the members of the congregation are wreathed in smiles. The church treasurer beams upon his ledgers, and the First Christian church has every prospect of soon becoming the wealthiest small church in the country.

Oil is the answer.

Oxford is in the center of the newest Kansas oil district. The church is situated over a promising field. Other nearby wells have already been brought in, and drilling has been going on at the rear of the church building, on church property. Should the well prove successful, as there is reason to believe it will, the church will no longer have to worry about its financial obligations.

Meanwhile the proper atmosphere of a religious edifice has been maintained. Drilling goes on six days of the week, but on Sunday and at other times when church gatherings are held, no work is done on the well.

CRUDE TROUBLE IS OVERCOME

Chemists Solve Problems In Panhandle Oil

AMARILLO, Aug. 13. — The trouble that refiners had with Panhandle crude oil during 1926, when its constituents were not fully appreciated or understood, are no longer bothering them.

Chemical formulas and other methods of treating Panhandle oil have overcome the difficulties, which almost wrecked a number of refineries before the refiners found ways and means of separating the sulphur and paraffin contents.

Their experiences with Panhandle crude have helped them materially in refining West Texas crudes, which have a larger sulphur content than the oils of the Panhandle.

An analysis of tank car shipments from the Panhandle during July, and which totalled 4850 cars, compared with 4700 cars in June, indicate that most of the crude is going to Texas City terminals, and thence by tank steamers to eastern refiners.

Oil Blends Well.

Reports say that Panhandle crude blends well with other crudes and so the maximum recoveries are obtained.

The Santa Fe moved from Borger, Pampa, Panhandle and Kings Mill in July a total of 4530 cars, and the Rock Island moved 319 cars from Lela, in the McLean-Shamrock area.

Two refineries in Kansas received Panhandle crude last month. The Skelly Oil company is shipping all of its own production to its El Dorado refinery, a complete plant, and its chemists and engineers have perfected changes so that the oil can be refined with no damage to the plant. A plant at Chanute has obtained some of its crude supply from the Phillips Petroleum company. The Bell Oil and Gas company has also shipped oil from the Panhandle to Chanute.

Premium in Gray.

The British American Oil company of Toronto, Canada, is getting part of its supply from the Toronto Pipeline company, which recently offered a 10-cent premium for Gray county crude oil.

The Roxana Petroleum corporation ships its own production and such oil as it buys to its tank farm at Roxana, Ill., near its refinery there.

The Globe Pipeline company is supplying the small skimming plants at Clovis and Dayton, N. M., with their crude supplies.

Shippers using Texas City as their terminals are Phillips Petroleum, Kay County (Marland) Gas, Empire companies, Gulf Pipeline, and Humble Pipeline companies. The Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing, Bell Oil and Gas and Atlantic Oil Producing use Houston terminals.

Three Oklahoma Pools Increase; Two Decline

TULSA, Aug. 13.—Daily average production for the week ending August 10, increased in the Davenport, Stroud and Kellyville pools. The Deep Rock and Ingalls pools decreased slightly.

The following are the daily averages for these Oklahoma pools:

Pool—	Wells.	Barrels.
Davenport	210	3008
Stroud	65	1240
Skellyville	27	621
Deep Rock	29	1247
Ingalls	10	304

BOSTON CONCERN HAS PLANT IN PANHANDLE

AMARILLO, Aug. 13. — The Cadet company of Boston, which has gotten a permit to construct and operate a carbon black plant on the Henry Schafer ranch, in northeastern Carson county, has started work on its two-unit plant. It is located on the southwest 50 acres of the northeast quarter of section 86, block 4, of I. & G. N. survey.

NEWS of the FIELD

PANHANDLE, ROUTAN.

Panhandle Refining company is moving in drilling machine to drill its No. 1 Routan in section 565, T. E. & L. survey of North Young county. The location of 1825 feet east and 450 south of the northwest corner of section.

HARRELL, DUNCAN

F. O. Harrell et al tested a sand at 1431-34 feet in their No. 1 J. Duncan, section 2436, Young county and abandoned the hole as dry at a total depth of 1502 feet.

PANHANDLE, ABERCROMBIE.

Panhandle Refining company abandoned as a dry hole at 1430 feet its No. 1 Abercrombie and Taylor, located in block 41, Harris subdivision, Archer county.

WICHITA VALLEY LANDS.

Bailey and Damuth's No. 1 G. W. Lewis in block 20, Kemp Wichita valley land, Wichita county, is a dry hole at 1777 feet.

J. H. Turner's No. 1 Hodge and Gose in block 32, Wichita Valley land was abandoned as dry at 1856 feet.

WESTERN WICHITA.

Bridwell and Mayfield have abandoned as dry at 1985 feet their No. 1 Throckmorton, located in the J. F. Terry survey, abstract 212, Wichita county.

NEAR IOWA PARK.

T. F. Hunter et al drilled to 2001 feet in their No. 1 Fassett, south of Iowa Park in Wichita county and in the M. M. Templeton survey and abandoned the test as a dry hole.

WARREN, PERKINS.

J. R. Warren et al abandoned at 1854 feet their No. 1 J. J. Perkins, G. S. & F. survey, abstract 485, Wichita county.

DAUME DISTRICT.

A. T. Wolfe's No. 3-A Daume in South Wichita county has been completed on the pump and is good for 15 barrels from sand at 1811-18 feet. It is north of Holliday and in S. P. R. R. survey, abstract 266.

WOODRUM RANCH.

Bridwell and Heydrick completed their second dry hole on the old Woodrum ranch of Archer county in abandoning their No. 2 Perkins at 1765 feet. The test was in block 109, Torebio Losoya survey.

COMING AND GOING.

V. E. Autry, geologist with the Humble Oil and Refining company hopped off Saturday for Denver and will spend two weeks prospecting with the famous Rocky mountain gold diggers.

Harry Lewis, operator, has returned from a trip to Las Vegas and other points in New Mexico.

Frank Hodgins, petroleum sleuth, was back in his office at The Texas company Saturday after a seige of the "flu."

Wallace Ford, land and lease man with the Atlantic Oil Producing company, has returned from a vacation.

W. J. Green, one of North Texas' most noted wildcatters, may be forced to make a trip to Chicago along about the middle of September.

Cabby Cabbaniss: "McCluskey No. 7 made 5360 yesterday."

Trenton K. Frank of the Gulf has blossomed into a full fledged scout since taking over Billy Maloney's territory while the latter is in Massachusetts.

NEW WILDCATS AT JACKSBORO

Drilling Activity Goes Forward in County

Special to The Record News.

JACKSBORO, Aug. 13.—Jack county's drilling activity continues to go forward and at the present time several new wildcat tests are going down in almost every direction from Jacksboro. A very noticeable increase in the county's production was made during the past week when the producers in the Leidecker field were placed on the pump. Several new drilling blocks in different parts of the county are being assembled and within the next 30 days Jack county is due to receive the biggest play in the history of oil development in this county.

During this past week Foster and Erwin made a location for their W. R. Bell No. 1, B. B. B. and C. R. R. Co. survey, Abstract 100 and S. E. J. Cox spudded in his D. Nixon No. 1, J. Armendaris survey, Abstract 27, in the Antelope shallow field in the northwest part of the county.

In the Millett shallow pool located approximately 14 miles northwest of Jacksboro, Bland & Strang have made a location for their Millett No. 4, being 300 feet north and 300 feet west of their Millett No. 2, on the James W. Williams survey, abstract 887. Chandler and Bland have made a location for their Ellis & Dubose No. 2, offsetting their Ellis & Dubose No. 1, on the west on the Jas. W. Williams survey, abstract 887.

The Fletcher Royalty and Drilling company-A. S. Johnson No. 1, J. C. Johnson survey, abstract 2015, is drilling at 655 feet. This well is located approximately nine miles south of Jacksboro on Highway No. 24.

The Watchorn Oil company-Williams No. 1 B. S. & F. company survey, abstract 83, is drilling at 4765 feet in a hard black formation.

Rochelle-Ira Gray No. 1, J. W. Ramsey survey, abstract 499, has been temporarily shut down to repair bull wheel.

The Buttram Petroleum corporation-H. M. Williams No. 1, J. Knight survey, abstract 2158, is drilling at 3200 feet. The Buttram-Gaskin estate No. 1, B. S. & F. Co., survey, abstract 80, is drilling at 4725 feet. Buttram Jones estate No. 2, S. P. R. R. Co. survey, abstract 550, has been spudded in and now drilling at 225 feet.

The Seaboard Oil and Gas company-J. W. Cullers No. 1, J. R. Cullers survey, abstract 2188, is drilling at 732 feet.

The Reed and Neely-Keyser No. 1, L. Watkins survey, abstract 1502, is drilling at 805 feet.

Seismograph to Locate Oil Pools

Day of Wildcatter to Go, Says Writer

Special to The Record News.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—The sun of that romantic oil-hunting pioneer, the "wildcatter," has set. Science by creating artifical earthquakes and recording their results on the delicately acurate seismograph, has found a way of locating new oil fields which will eliminate one of the heaviest expenses of oil production.

This is the prediction of Floyd L. Darrow, scientist and writer who, in the August issue of St. Nicholas magazine, explains the recent successful oil-finding tests made by geologists in the Gulf Coast oil fields by means of dynamite and the seismograph.

Pointing out that one out of four wells drilled last year proved to be a dry hole, Mr. Darrow places the cost of a shallow well of 2000 feet at $30,000, emphasizing that as much as $300,000 can be lost in an unproductive deep well. At the minimum estimate, according to his figures, the amount lost in the 7965 dry holes sunk in America last year was nearly a quarter of a billion dollars. This loss, he holds, will soon be reduced to an insignificant minimum by the new method employed in the southwestern fields.

Waves Indicate Locations

"Most of the oil in that territory is found under salt domes, overlain with alluvial, or river-deposited sediments," he explains. "The prospector explodes dynamite on the surface of the ground near to the suspected location of such a dome. The waves from the shock radiate outward in all directions.

"Seismographs, the same instruments used for detecting earthquake tremors, record these waves. If these waves enter a medium of different density from the alluvial deposits, such as a salt dome, the seismographs instantly announce it by a change in the character of the waves recorded. Just as light or sound waves are refracted, or bent, in passing from a medium of one density to a medium of another density, so are these shock waves."

"As a result of many tests," his St. Nicholas article continues, "engineers are able to make blue prints of a region giving a complete picture of the strata of the underground region, and telling where to drill and where not to drill. The method also has proved successful in locating oil in limestone formations in Mexico."

North Texas Has 47 Active Refineries

Forty-seven refineries in North Texas, including the Panhandle, were operating in July, according to a survey made by W. T. Ziegenhain for the Oil and Gas Journal. This compares with 44 in June.

The 47 plants had a rated capacity of 179,800 barrels a day, and cracking capacity of 41,600 barrels. They were running 111,900 barrels a day on Aug. 1, compared with 105,300 barrels a day on July 1.

Ziegenhain reports that a new peak in refinery crude runs was made by 125 Mid-Continent refiners the first week of August of 457,800 barrels a day, exceeding July's average of 428,075 barrels. Their rated capacity was 664,800 barrels.

THREE NEW WELLS

AMARILLO, Aug. 13. — Only three first reports were made in the Panhandle field the past week, Carson, Gray and Lamb counties reported one new well each.

Air Lift Proves Boomerang For Seminole Operators, Say Engineers

Method Not Likely to Be Used in Other Fields To Follow Seminole's Finish

Failure is predicted by petroleum engineers for the air lift as used in the Seminole field, Oklahoma's giant oil district. The prediction is made by disinterested men who declare that oil companies are "cutting their throats with a doubled edged knife" by forcing the flood of oil out of the ground at the present time.

Petroleum engineers in Wichita Falls during the past week made the following assertions:

By using the air lift, operators are cutting down their ultimate production.

They are robbing themselves "going and coming" by forcing their oil on a low market and by cutting many months off of the natural life of their wells.

The air lift is not likely to be employed in any other field in the same manner as it is used in Seminole.

The latter assertion, if it proves correct, will be of greater benefit to producers in general that any of the others. There are other as practically as prolific as Seminole but if the air is not applied to them they can never present the problem now offered by Seminole.

It has already been shown, the engineers say, that watef intrusion is being speeded up with air and that the water is coming in many wells before all available oil is recovered, thus giving sudden death to producers that ordinarily should have been good over a period of years.

It is just in the past 45 to 60 days that operators have begun to see their folly, it was said. When they began checking their income with the cost of drilling and lease operation they found that they are handling more oil and money and earning less than has ever been the case heretofore. They were forced into applying the air and they are forced to continue its application but each week they see wells steadily dropping in output in the fact of the highest priced lease operation ever known to the industry.

So, the engineers asserted, the air lift is proving a boomerang. By using it, the operators broke the market. By continuing to use it they are losing money daily. What caused the Seminole problem will likely prevent its re-occurence after Seminole is done, they declared.

Five New Wells Fail To Overcome Decline In Panhandle Production

AMARILLO, Texas, Aug. 13.—Only five wells were completed the past fiscal week in the Panhandle oil field. The five producers had an initial output of 1327 barrels.

Gray county had three of the lot, with a new production of 965 barrels, and was the only area to show a gain. The others declined 2500 barrels, thus permitting the Panhandle to drop to 105,666 barrels a day from a total of 1353 wells. A net loss of 2301 barrels is shown in total daily output.

Carson county had one completion for 310 barrels and Hutchinson county one for 52 barrels. This is the first time in months that Hutchinson had so small an initial output. Its loss was 1639 barrels.

The field summary follows:

Area—	Wells	New Wells	Output	Gain	Loss	Wells Avrg.
Carson	159	9,613	1	310	....	623	61.62

Decline In North Texas Includes All Counties But Cooke and Young

Although Cooke and Young counties again showed gains in daily pipeline runs during the past week, the North Texas district as a whole slumped 975 barrels, with a daily average of 101,760 barrels.

With the exception of Cooke county the decline is general, even Young county owing its gain to the remarkable performance of a single well. This well is Panhandle Refining company's No. 7 McCluskey which this week reached a new high mark of 5264 barrels and averaged 4500 barrels.

Cooke county set its usual peak, making 6110 barrels daily.

Daily runs by fields follow:

Field—	Past Week	Prev. Week	Difference
Electra	14,180	14,940	loss 760
Burkburnett	11,400	11,595	loss 195

N. Texas Slows Down Drilling

District in Sharpest Drop In Mid-Continent

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 13.—Oil operations in the Oklahoma, Kansas, north Texas and New Mexico area of the Mid-Continent fields are again decreasing and during the week just ended the total number of oil field operations have dropped from 3203 last week to the new low level of 3063,—a decrease of 140 operations, the Oil Weekly says.

All districts showed a decrease in total number of operations, with the greatest decline shown in north Texas where operations fell off from 1467 last week to 1338 operations during the week just ended. In the entire area there was but 164 completions as against 190 the previous week. The number of drilling wells in this great territory has dropped from 1719 to 1622 during the last seven-day period which is a decrease of 97 wells being drilled. The number of drilling wells in north Texas dropped from 671 to 590—a decrease of 81;—this section showing the greatest decline in all operations.

There was a gain in total operations in the Shawnee-Seminole area of Oklahoma, this being the "hot spot" of the state, and operations increased from 727 to 744. There are 549 drilling wells in the Shawnee-Seminole territory with 47 new locations staked and 67 new rigs up. It is expected that this territory will soon begin to show a marked decline in operations as soon as the prevalent curtailment program has time to become effective.

Company Changes Its Development Plans

AMARILLO, Aug. 13.—The Exploration company is changing slightly its program of drilling a flock of wildcat wells in the South Plains territory of west Texas.

Instead of insisting on $60,000 for a full one-sixteenth interest, on the basis of 18 wildcat wells, it has lowered the interest cost to $45,000 and will drill but 15 wells. The failure of major operators to buy the interests prompted the reduction of the original interests costs.

Just how the revision will change the other details of the interest plan has not been learned. Under the 18-well plan and interests costing $60,000, the Exploration company planned to drill 341,972.74 acres of the Matador Land and Cattle companies in Motley, Cottle, Floyd, Hale and Swisher counties.

Consolidated's No. 8 Pumps 35 Barrels

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Aug. 13.—The Consolidated Oil company's well No. 8 pumped 35 barrels in 24 hours, according to the final drilling report. This is the eighth well brought in at the Consolidated pool, section 57, block 4. The Waggoner Refining company's B-2 well test swabbed 220 barrels in 24 hours at a total depth of 2363 feet in saturated lime. Eighteen hundred feet of oil was standing in the hole before it was put on the pump. The C-1 test, brought in previously, pumped 31 barrels in 24 hours on the final report.

Leasing Is Resumed In Moore County Area

AMARILLO, Aug. 13.—After a lull following the completion of the Morton and company No. 1 Reeder, in section 191, block 3T, of T. & N. O. survey, near Dumas, in Moore county, that area is receiving the attention of the lease buyers.

Operators are also buying more protection acreage, and several have magnetometer machines working in determining some geological information on the several trends away from the Morton producer.

Phillips Continues Lead in Panhandle

AMARILLO, Aug. 13. — There are 190 individual oil producers in the Panhandle oil field, but 22 of them are the leaders.

Phillips Petroleum company continues to be first among them all, and if the Cockrell-McIlroy-Dixon creek interests were linked as one they would be in second position. As it is the Gulf Production company is second, with third place assumed by the Prairie Oil and Gas company and fourth by Dixon Creek Oil company.

Seminole Well Produces Carload Of Sand Daily

TULSA, Aug. 13.—One of the freaks of the Seminole field is the Skelly Oil company's No. 1 Spencer in 12-9-5, which made 11,708 barrels yesterday. Its peak was 13,200 barrels in 24 hours.

This producer is now making a carload of sand every 24 hours, according to the lease workmen. The company had some of the sand on display here, yesterday. It is a light, soft sand, inclined to be pulpy. Old drillers in the Seminole field declare they never have seen a well produce sand in such quantities or of the peculiar quality. The sand has not injured the pipe, it is said.

3RD OILER IN MOORE COUNTY

Skelly No. 1 Armstrong Is A Well

AMARILLO, Aug. 13. — The Skelly Oil company is completing No. 1 Armstrong in the Freeman Birazemore survey of central eastern Moore county, thus giving that county its third well.

The Skelly found a lime pay from 3140 to 3197 feet and it is flowing six barrels an hour and when storage is built it will be drilled in and a larger producer is expected.

The new well is on the northwest trend from the Texas Panhandle towards the Oklahoma Panhandle.

Roxana Petroleum corporation No. 1 Cockrell in section 3 block B3 of D. S. & E. survey, in the McIlroy pool of southeastern Hutchinson, found the pay about 120 feet higher than other wells in that pool and it is blowing wild at 2860 feet and putting more than 500 barrels on the ground. The well is accompanied by 80,000,000 feet of gas the regular sand there is found at 3000 feet.

Pastor Returns From Visit to Arkansas

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Aug. 13.—Rev. W. B. Reaves, pastor of the Texhoma and Stringtown churches has returned from Arkansas where he and his family spent three weeks, part of which was spent attending the Methodist western assembly on Mount Sequoyah at Fayetteville, taking short courses given there for Sunday school workers.

During this time he visited his old home in Russellville, Ark., and preached in the old school house he attended as a boy.

The weather in the Ozarks was so cool that the use of two blankets and comfort were necessary at night, Rev. Reaves said.

COL. GORDON IN LEGAL VICTORY

He Wins Injunction To Operate Lease

EASTLAND, Aug. 13.—Fighting to retain a foothold on the lease that he developed from a value of nothing to a property now conceded by opponents to be worth $2,000,000, Col. Robert D. Gordon, noted oil operator of the Central West Texas district, won the first round in a court battle when Judge Elzo Been granted an injunction restraining two officials of the West-Adams Petroleum corporation from interfering with Gordon as manager of the corporation.

The injunction granted is temporary. Directors of the West-Adams, which is a Texas corporation, will come here from California for a hearing on dissolving or making permanent the injunction.

The colonel, who served 19 years in the regular army in the Philippines, China, the Mexican border and in France as a lieutenant colonel on the general staff, rose to his feet on several occasions and took part in arguments over points in the hearing.

Attorneys representing the defendants declared that the Ramsower lease is worth $2,000,000. Colonel Gordon charged that three months' salary totalling $3000 is due him and when attorneys for the defendants declared he owned no interest in the lease, he declared "if it's worth $2,000,000 I'm the daddy of the lease."

The lease is eight miles northwest of Eastland in an area that was regarded as exhausted. No development in that section had occured for years until Colonel Gordon interested the West-Adams corporation and by going 165 feet deeper brought in a 520-barrel well which has produced $170,000 worth of oil.

Seminole Output Slumps Again

TULSA, Aug. 13.—The second successive decrease in Semniole production was made yesterday when the prolific field fell off 4576 barrels.

There were no new wells in the field of any consequence. The Indian Territory Illuminating Oil company's Little River well, reported to be cutting two and a half per cent, decreased only 70 barrels over Thursday.

The Bowlegs pool fell off 2000 barrels, Earlsboro decreased 4000 barrels, Seminole jumped 2000 barrels and Searight held its own.

Comparative production figures follow:

Pool	Thursday	Friday
Bowlegs	169,565	167,163
Little River	9,345	9,275
Earlsboro	205,290	201,269
Seminole	76,627	78,429
Searight	29,023	29,138
Total	489,850	485,274

Decrease 4576 barrels.

CASH WHEAT MARKET UP

Stronger Tone Prevails With Top Basis

BY CHARLES J. LEYDEN.
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—A much stronger tone prevails in the cash wheat market, with exporters paying today's top basis for wheat, and buying about 211,000 bushels. Commission houses gave up futures cash wheat in a number of instances, ad seaboard advices said there was a better inquiry. There were reports that Great Britain is buying Chicago wheat freely. At all events the wheat is moving out freely, local shipments Friday being 961,000 bushels, making the total shipped for the week almost the same as the receipts. The cheap lake and ocean freights via Montreal are making it easier to do business with the other side. Galveston cleared 491,000 bushels, and premiums in that quarter are not much changed. The milling demand continues of moderate proportions. Primary points had 2,870,000 bushels when against 5,643,000 bushels a year ago, Kansas City having a bigger run than a year ago.

The corn market had several weak spells, notably after the opening when the December sold from $1.16⅝ down to $1.15. The buying was good on the break however and prices rallied to above the previous close and finished with small gains for the day. The weather continues shower, with the forecast for cooler conditions.

The demand for oats was not as snappy as it has been recently, and the market worked lower, with but small rallies.

Crop reports on rye both in this country and Canada are favorable, and the export demand is slow.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13. (AP)—The cotton market was lower today under a renewal of liquidation promoted by weather reports better than expected and relatively weak Liverpool cables. December contracts broke to 18.92 or 53 points net lower and 174 points below the high level of last Tuesday. They closed at the lowest, with the general market closing easy at net declines of 49 to 57 points.

The market opened easy at a decline of 26 to 28 points in response to the weakness in Liverpool. After the initial offerings had been absorbed, prices rallied some 15 to 20 point son covering, but met a renewal of liquidation after the publication of the weather map, which seemed a disappointment to some of the recent buyers. Stop orders were uncovered on the decline which followed, with the market rather weak and unsettled in the late trading, when October sold off to 18.85 and January to 18.92 or 50 to 57 points below yesterday's closing quotations.

Some escovering caused bulges from time to time during the morning, but the south seemed to be selling a little more freely here late in the forenoon and last prices were the lowst of th day on all positions. Long lines which had been carried over the mid-week declines, seemed to be coming out on the break of this morning, while there was also liquidation by more recent buyers who were supposed to be disappointed over the failure of rallies to attract more general or aggressive buying.

The unsettled tone of the stock market, no doubt, increased the disposition to even up long commitments, pending further developments and there may also have been some uncertainty as to the probable showing of private mid-August reports which are expected to appear within th enext few days.

Advices received here from the south continue to accentuate the heavy infestation of boll weevils and pressure of prospective damage from these insects, but they appeared to have little effect on the day's market.

Private cables said that covering and trade calling had been more than offset by trade selling and liquidation in the Liverpool market. Cotton on shipboard, awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 52,000 bales against 59,000 last year.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 13. (AP)—The cotton market was quite active for a Saturday session and the trend of prices was downward, owing to unfavorable cables and a dry weather map which encouraged rather liberal long liquidation. October eased off from 18.94 to 18.56 and closed at 18.56, 54 points down from the previous close. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of 53 to 55 points.

Liverpool was 5 to 7 penny points lower than duc and first trades here showed losses of 16 to 23 points. The market continued to decline when the weather map showed practically dry conditions over most of the belt.

The market rallied slightly on a forecast for showers over Sunday but turned sharply down on a renewal of liquidation, making new lows in the late trading with December at 18.82, 63 points down.

Exports for the day totalled 10,832 bales.

Stock Market Scores Good Recovery in Saturday Session Due to Cover-Buying by Shorts

By BROADAN WALL.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—The stock market scored a good recovery in today's half session due almost entirely to short covering. The bears cashed in big profits in many stocks and at the same time tested out other pool pets in anticipation of continuing their hammering tactics in next week's market. Their only success was in General Asphalt which dropped close to three points while others in both the railroad and industrial departments moved higher. The opening was slightly irregular but as soon as the liquidation that resulted from over-night margin calls was completed the recovery started and continued until just before the close when a final slam was made at prices that wiped out just a little of the gains. Fundamentals played no part in fluctuations for while there was some comment raised by the optimistic tone of the weekly reviews it was the strength of individual pools and the absence of signs of real support that interested most of the trading community.

The belief is growing that President Coolidge and not the more or less defunct Manhattan Electric group, was really responsible for the "technical correction" of the stock market. For it is argued that while the amateurism manipulation of Manhattan Electric undoubtedly was the lever used to effect the smash in prices it was the withdrawal of the president that created the influence necessary for success of Mr. Billy Shea and his associates in their bearish operation. But for the intervention of the reduction of the rediscount rate and the General Motors "melon" the effect of the Coolidge announcement would not have been so belated, it is argued.

Recoveries of from three to over five points were frequent, for the half session. General Motors was back more than three points, Radio up two, Houston Oil five, Byers close to four, Chrysler close to two points, Baldwin over two and other industrial leaders showed corresponding betterment. Union Pacific and others of the investment rails were the one group of evidence real absorption but the transportation stocks generally were quiet under influence of doubt as to the merger outlook and indications of lower earnings for the current month.

The automobile stocks in general paid no attention to talk of competition influenced by expectation that the new Ford car will be on show here in a day or two. Yellow Truck and Chrysler are the two most mentioned by those with sufficient courage to adhere to a bullish positon. The Yellow Truck bulls are influenced by the far-distant outlook while the Chrysler boomers expect another highly favorable income report for the current quarter and an extra dividend before the end of the year.

Believe it or not but a "public" trader has been found who has profited to the extent of 1000 per cent on original margin in a year's trading.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13. (AP)—It is expected that arrivals of wheat in Chicago on Monday will prove large, 800 to 700 cars. This fact, together with predictions of cooler weather for the Dakotas and Minnesota, led to lower prices for wheat today. Closing quotations on wheat were heavy, ⅝ to 1¼c net decline, with corn unchanged to ¼c up, oats ⅝@⅞ to ⅞c off, and provisions unchanged to 10c down.

Corn prices were strengthened by indications of cooler weather and rains. Oats were draggy owing more or less to bearish crop news from Canada regarding oats.

Scattered selling weakened the provision market, despite firmness of hog values.

TEXAS CASH GRAIN.

FORT WORTH, Aug. 13. (AP)—Milling wheat was a little weaker in the Fort Worth cash grain market Saturday while exporters were bidding nine cents over Chicago September or $1.50½ basis No. 1 hard delivered Texas gulf ports. Other grains were unchanged with demand barely sufficient to absorb the limited offerings.

Receipts Friday were: Wheat 23 cars, corn four, oats seven, barley two, sorghums four, hay five, snapped corn four and milo heads one car.

Estimates on Saturday receipts called for: Wheat 24 cars, corn three, oats nine, barley five and sorghums two cars.

Wheat: No. 1 dark hard milling $1.54 @1.55; No. 1 ordinary hard milling $1.53 @1.53; No. 1 red milling $1.52@1.54; No. 1, 75 per cent red milling $1.52@1.54.

Other grains unchanged.

Livestock

TEXAS LIVESTOCK.

FORT WORTH, Aug. 13. (AP)—The livestock trade at Fort Worth Saturday was dull and a nominal affair. No beef cattle were here and the supply of she stock was inside of 40 head. The calf supply was restricted to two cars and a few odds and ends. Hogs were supplied by one and one-half cars and 25 truckers. All the sheep came direct to a feeder buyer.

Five cars of stocker steers came to an order buyer with no slaughter steers offered.

The price range on she stock turned between $4.00 and $5.50 along with $3.50 for a few canners.

Practically no yearlings or heifers were on the market.

Heavy calves moved from $6.25 to $8.00 and medium calves cleared at $6.25 to $9.00. No light veals were present.

Hogs sold steady, decent light butcher hogs made $10.60 for a top bulk $10.25 to $10.40. Packing sows made $7.75 and feeder pigs $10.25.

No sheep on the market. A deck of feeder ewes went direct to a feeder.

Hogs: Receipts 200; steady; top $10.35; choice stock pigs $10.25.

Cattle: Receipts 700, including 300 calves; for week: Cake fed slaughter steers $10.00; slaughter steers $6.00; slaughter yearlings $10.50; top beef cows $6.50; feeder steers $8.25; heavy slaughter calves $9.75.

Sheep: Receipts 250; for week: Top wethers $8.00; yearlings $10.25; choice lambs $10.50@11.00.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—Hogs: Receipts 1600; steady; top $10.90; packing sows $7.25@7.65.

Used Car Managers

The Used Car Managers' Association, an auxiliary to the Wichita Falls Automobile Dealers' Association, is composed of the Used Car Managers of fourteen leading New Car Dealers of Wichita Falls.

Organized for a purpose—that of placing Used Car buying on a basis of confidence, and of stabilizing values—this organization is rapidly realizing its objective.

Fair dealing—correct valuation of used cars—satisfactory service—these are the aims of these men who expect to sell, and are selling, used cars upon the same basis as that of new automobiles.

NOW—A Used Car may be purchased with CONFIDENCE.

—And—

The Wichita Falls Record News—through its Classified Advertising columns—is placing these new ideas and principles before the used car buying public of Wichita Falls.

SACCO LOSES HOPE FOR LIFE

Doomed Man Is Trying To Starve to Death

By Universal Service.

BOSTON, Aug. 13.—Poor Nicky Sacco! He grew weaker every hour today because of his hunger strike.

All the entreaties of his wife, the warden, the prison physician and others at the state prison have failed to make him take nourishment.

Ever since he got his new lease on life through a last minute reprieve from Governor Fuller last Wednesday night he has steadfastly refused to eat. He wants to starve himself to death before the date of his execution on Aug. 22.

Sacco Loses Hope

Sacco had little expectation of acquittal in the end. He wants to beat the chair by starvation if he can.

But prison attaches are going to foil him there. They have made every preparation to feed him forcibly through a funnel if he does not yield in the next day or two.

Vanzetti broke his hunger strike the morning after the reprieve when he realized that he was still alive and not dead as he had expected he would be.

He was being closely watched today to determine whether he is retaining his sanity. Vanzetti has been in the padded cell once recently when he showed signs of going mad but he snapped out of it and has been normal since.

Vanzetti Is Strained

That is, he was normal until today when he again displayed indications breaking under the long strain.

For the present the fate of the two men depends on the outcome of Tuesday's decision by a full bench of the state supreme court.

If they lose there a strong attempt will be made to take their case to the federal district court where a writ of habeas corpus has already been asked as a matter of record.

Broken Pump Halts Road Paving Plans

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Aug. 13.—After pouring only 100 feet of concrete Friday morning, the J. P. Foty Construction company was forced to shut down when the motor to the water pump broke. A new motor was ordered shipped by express and the work of paving the remainder of the gap in the Colorado Gulf highway between Harrold and Oklaunion will be resumed Monday morning, County Engineer John E. Nabers announced Saturday. Only about 3.5 miles of the road back to Harrold remains to be paved.

Green Park Grandstand To Be Newly Painted

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Aug. 13.—The grandstand recently completed in Green Park will be painted before the opening of the football season, City Secretary S. H. Hall announced Saturday. The park committee is waiting for the return of C. S. McColloch, chairman of the park committee before letting the contract. The wooden structure will seat 2000 people.

New Chairs Provided For Grand Jurors

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Aug. 13.—Wilbarger county grand jurors will find brand new Douglas chairs in the jury room when they convene at 10 a. m. Monday morning, for the opening of the August term of 46th district court in Vernon. The purchase of the new chairs was in the nature of a "setup" for the grand jurymen, County Judge J. V. Townsend laughingly remarked.

THIEF HELD AFTER CHASE

Officer and Victim Run Negro In Alley

After being captured by a geologist and a traffic officer who gave chase through an alley in the vicinity of Indiana and 11th streets a Wichita Falls negro was lodged in the city jail shortly after 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, in connection with the theft of several articles, none of which were described, from the geologist.

According to police, the negro made a run for liberty from Frank Lewis, geologist, after the robbery had been discovered. Traffic Officer Stubblefield, seeing the chase, joined in, and the negro was captured.

Vernon School Books Received From Dallas

AUSTIN, Aug. 13. (AP)—The 41st annual Gillespie county fair will open at Fredericksburg Friday, August 19, the first day being designated as "Austin day," with 100 visitors from the capital expected wearing chamber of commerce hat bands.

Some 400 sheep and goats have been entered in the stock division.

KING BEN GETS JOLT ON JAW

Cult Leader Deals His Own Defense Harm

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., Aug. 13.—King Ben Purnell struck a severe blow at his own defense in the House of David dissolution suit here today when he charged his wife, Queen Mary, and her alleged consort, Francis Thorpe, cult pillar, with a plot to starve him an usurp his control of the colony. Queen Mary sat 15 feet away with downcast eyes and dejected mien during the indictment.

The admission was drawn from Ben by Special Assistant Prosecutor George E. Nichols while cross-examining him on certain pads in his own handwriting, which were seized by state troopers last November when they nabbed Ben in the colony diamond house where he had been hiding four years.

Conspiracy at Throne.

In these written statements Purnell upbraided her and Thorpe for their conspiracy to dethrone him and usurp his power because of the girls.

One of these girls, Bessie May Woodworth, has testified for the state they camouflaged themselves as old women in long dresses with shawls covering their heads and visited Ben while he was hiding in the diamond house. These he assaulted the cloak of his revolting "blood purification rite" Mrs. Woodworth said.

Asked why he ran away from justice and hid in 1923, Purnell freely admitted it was because of the capiases sworn out for his arrest by the two Detroit sisters, Ruth Bamford Reed and Gladys Bamford Rubel, self-confessed former favorites of Ben in his alleged juvenile harem.

"If you thought the Bamford girls charges were untrue, why did you hide? Why didn't you fight them openly in the courts? Demanded Nichols.

Witness on Cot.

"Because of the colony," Ben replied.

He admitted the charges were brought against him and not the colony, but said he could offer no better explanation of why he ran away.

Ben appeared healthier today than he did yesterday, but at that he is a pitiful sight, lying on his cot in the court room, barely able to whisper out his answer.

IOWA PARK SOCIETY

IOWA PARK, Aug. 13.—Mrs. John B. Barbour very delightfully honored her guests, Misses Helen and Sarah Beth Barbour and Florence Rohr of Norman, Okla., with a "kid" party Thursday evening. The guests included old friends of the honorees, Misses Barbour, who lived here before moving to Norman to make their home. Kid costumes, kid games, and even kid records on the Victrola carried out the idea of the entertainment, while ghost stories told on the lawn furnished the thrill of terror as in the days of childhood. Ice cream and wafers formed the refreshment course which the following enjoyed: Misses Edith Young, Loretta Fields, Fern Burrows, Veda Bell Dorris, Pearl and Shirley Smith, Helen and Sarah Beth Barbour, and Florence Rohr, and Bollins Clark, Donald Penn, Ishmael Corder, Lois Barbour, Frank Dorris and Edwin Hooks.

The Girls' Auxiliary met at 4 o'clock at the Baptist church with Mrs. Bernard Birdwell, the leader, in charge of the meeting. After a short program plans were discussed for the next meeting when they will sew for their work. They plan to make an autograph quilt which they will sell. The meeting will be with Mrs. West next Monday afternoon, and they will serve punch and cake.

The following members of the Rebekah and Oddfellows lodges at Iowa Park attended the meeting of the Lower Panhandle association which met at Electra August 10-11. Mesdames Olsen McKinley, Bell Goad, Viola Davis, Hazel Gay, May Majors, Helen Roberts, Ola Ackleman, Beulah Ellison, C. B. Davis, Pearl Davis, Nettie Davis, Anna Hobson, Lena Beasley, Susie Carpenter, Lillie Butcher and Messrs. and Mesdames R. E. Brubaker, Bill Brubaker, Finch, and M. O. Cheaves and Messrs. Sam Ferguson, Goad, Lee Smith, and Misses Mary Butcher, Vercie Smith, Flossie and Ethel Hobson.

Mrs. G. C. Richards entertained Thursday evening with a 42 party in honor of her guests, Misses Pruse and Hampton, of Wichita Falls. After the games which were played on the lawn, watermelon was served to the following: Misses Ruth Williams, Thelma Matthews, Katherine McKee, Marietta Lowrance, the honorees, Misses Pruse and Hampton, and Mrs. Jim Beasley and Alvin Tanner, Pat Wiley, Ward Simpson. Dainty handkerchiefs were given to the girls as favors and life savers to the boys.

The Ladies' Aid met at the Christian church Monday afternoon in a missionary program, the subject of which was "Preparation, Prayer and Purpose," with Mrs. Arthur A. Jackson as leader. Roll call was answered by stating the individual aims for the year. After the song "Ere You Left Your Room This Morning," Mrs. Jackson made a splendid talk on the subject, "More Things Are Wrought by Prayer Than This World Dreams of." Responsive readings were made from the World Call. Mrs. John B. Barbour discussed "World Wide Prayer for Missions," and Mrs. Bain had as her subject "God Answers Prayer." A good report of the social service work done by the aid was made. A round table discussion was followed by the benediction repeated in concert.

Mrs. Earl Denny honored Mrs. Edwin Davis with a delightful shower of lovely things for her young son, Raymond Kenneth, at the home of Miss Vivian Smith. Billy Faye, the little daughter of Mrs. Denny, presented the gifts to Mrs. Davis, bringing them in a baby buggy. After a social hour ice cream and cake was enjoyed by the following: Mesdames Arthur Fielder, Bratton Reeves, George Reeves, Smith, and Misses Ray Golden, Thelma Matthews, Ella Burnam, and Eleanor Burney.

Anumber of young folk from Iowa Park and Wichita Falls went to Sand Beach Saturday evening for a swim with a picnic lunch after the swim. Those who enjoyed the evening were Misses Willie D. Conner, Mary Anna Lowrance, Ruth Lowrance, Mary Ashmore and Mary Brown from Wichita Falls; Isla Cothran, Clara Lowrance, Lela Grace Cornforth, Margaret Cornforth, Laura Lynn Hathaway, and Carroll Conner, W. S. and James L. Conner, Lee Rossell, and Walter Davis, and Mr. and Mrs. Cornforth, Mrs. Ashmore, and Mr. T. J. Cothran.

Mrs. Hathaway of Pleasant Valley gave a very enjoyable "auto" party Thursday evening in honor of Miss Hilda Thomas of Itasca, who is spending two weeks here with friends. The lawn was decorated with automobile signs, "Oil, gas and free air" and stop signs. Such games as "Pinning the wheel on the car" and rearranging jumbled names of cars passed a pleasant evening. Punch and cakes in the shape of automobiles were served as refreshments, followed later by watermelon. The guests included Misses Isla Cothran, Laura Lynn Hathaway, Elizabeth Estis, Ruth Lowrance, Mary Anna Lowrance, Clara Lowrance and the honoree, Hilda Thomas, and Joe Estis, W. S. and Carroll Conner, E. J. Wilson, Don Wilson, Edward Cothran, Lloyd Copeland, and Mrs. Wilson.

The home of J. G. Childers of Valley View was the scene of a family reunion three days of last week. They enjoyed a dinner Wednesday and Friday they went to the Diversion dam for a picnic. Those who were present at the reunion were: N. A. Childers of San Antonio, grand master of the Masonic lodge, Orien Childers and family of Antelope, Rev. J. W. Childers and family of Bonita, C. G. Duncan and family of Durant, Okla., B. O. Gilstrap and family of Iowa Park, and the friends, Rev. Coburn of Valley View, Walter Miker of Manning, and Ralph Wagner and family of Fort Worth.

CITY WEEDS MUST BE CUT

Dr. Lucey Sets Out "Danger" of Mosquitoes

Although "week cutting week" in Wichita Falls ended August 6, and during that time a large number of lots and yards were cleared of weeds, nevertheless, there are still quite a few lots and yards in the city which the weeds have not been cut, Dr. L. I. Lucey, director of the department of health, said Saturday.

Although there is a city ordinance prescribing a maximum fine of $200 for property owners failing to cut weeds, Dr. Lucey said that he did not desire to enforce the law at the present time but would wait for a few more days to see if the owners of the lots and yards would remove the weeds.

Dr. Lucey pointed out that weeds were not only unsightly but also provided an excellent breeding place for mosquitoes.

"Property owners who allow the weeds to stand on their premises are not treating their neighbors in a fair manner as mosquitoes breeding in the weeds make their way into the homes of the neighbors," Dr. Lucey said.

Mosquitoes carry disease germs, according to Dr. Lucey, and it is with the idea in mind of "keeping down" contagious disease epidemics that the health department is sponsoring the weed cutting campaign.

Five More Shows Will Be Presented By City

Five more weekly vaudeville presentations will be given at Bellevue park before the season is closed, Bill Ward, recreational director of the park department, said Saturday.

The first one of the five will be next Wednesday night when an all-star bill will be presented.

There are several outstanding artists in Wichita Falls, who have not yet appeared on the city's vaudeville program and efforts are being made by Mr. Ward to have them appear before the season is ended. Mr. Ward has also requested that any persons acquainted with qualified vaudeville artists will "do him a favor" by giving him the names and addresses of the artists.

"Flying Wedge" of Police Controls Big Crowd

Many in Danger of Death at Chicago as Spectators Plunge Forward Under Blades of Lindy's Propellor

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—Danger of harm to many in the surging crowd from the whirling propeller blades of the famed "Spirit of St. Louis" was narrowly averted today by flying wedges of police as Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh alighted upon the municipal airport here today.

Hero-mad, the huge throng that lined the field broke from police restraint and rushed forward to greet the conqueror of the air. "Lindy," realizing the danger to the onrushing admirers, cupped his hands to shout:

"Stand back, please. Please stand back. I won't move a foot until my plane is taken care of."

Only after fresh cordons of police had formed about the plane did the famous flyer climb down and join the reception committee for his first visit to Chicago since his epochal flight.

Before landing on municipal airport, Colonel Lindbergh circled Chicago's loop and downtown district, as thousands hurled confetti from office buildings and factory sirens screeched a welcome to him. His arrival in the downtown section was at 1:43 p. m. shortly after which he flew to the municipal landing field for the first of a series of celebrations in his honor.

Tonight Colonel Lindbergh was guest of honor at the big banquet given here in the new Stevens hotel. Seated at the speakers' table, with him were Mayor William Hale Thompson, William R. Dawes, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, William P. MacCracken Jr., assistant secretary of commerce in charge of aviation and other notables.

Members Of Track Labor Gang Hurt

Thrown to the ground from the impact of a collision between two sets of gravel ballast cars near Raymond's switch about 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon, 10 Mexicans of the section gang were injured, two seriously, and were brought to the Wichita Clinic hospital for treatment on the 1:55 Fort Worth and Denver.

Victor Gonzales, whose condition is regarded as most serious, was still in a critical condition late Saturday. Another member of the crew is said to have sustained critical injuries. Others are being treated for minor hurts, hospital attendants said.

The men were unloading ballast to the tracks from specially built cars with hinged floors, and as each car was unloaded it was run over to a side track next to the main line, information from the train dispatcher's office here related. The accident is said to have occurred when the main train loaded with gravel collided with the empties with an unlooked for impact, throwing the Mexicans from the cars on which they were riding.

First implications, in the absence of a complete report of the accident, that the ballast train was struck by another train were revoked late Saturday with the arrival here of the conductor in charge of the switch work, Charles E. Brown, train dispatcher, said.

The Mexicans were taken to the hospital by waiting ambulances.

1927 Building Permits Total $2,516,679

Eight building permits, involving total expenditures of $36,350, were issued in Wichita Falls during the past week by Jack Irvine, assistant city clerk.

Boy Scout News

TROOP FIFTEEN.

Troop fifteen held its meeting Friday night on the Junior college campus with J. Chester Powell, former scoutmaster, in charge. It is hoped that Mr. Powell will be troop fifteen's scoutmaster for keeps now.

The meeting opened with the scout laws led by J. W. Collins.

Mr. Powell led the boys in tumbling, relay races and some games.

Plans were made for a ceremony which, it is thought, will be used to initiate boys into the troop.

The troop was presented with a flag of the United States earlier in the week.

Allen Gough of troop eleven was a visitor at the meeting. The meeting closed with the scout oath, led by Mr. Powell.

PATROL LEADERS CONFERENCE.

The patrol leaders' conference, to be held at the scout camp at Diversion dam August 16, 17, 18 and until noon August 19, is expected to be a very successful one in that it will give the boys who attend new ideas to take back to their troops. The course will cost $3 per boy. This covers all expenses, as the handcraft material will be a gift of the Wichita Area council.

Kenneth Erwin, scoutmaster of troop sixteen, will remain in camp for the patrol leaders' conference and will give the boys special instructions in plaster of paris casts. Other branches of handcraft to be studied are as follows: Two kinds of leather neckerchief slides, rubber moccasins, wood-working, turk heads of fancy string, watch fobs.

Patrol leaders will have open discussions on the best way to run a patrol and, at some time during the course, a model troop meeting will be held with the patrol leaders in charge.

This course will be open to patrol leaders, assistant patrol leaders, senior patrol leaders, and scribes.

TROOP TWO.

Troop two held its regular meeting at the First Methodist church Friday night. The meeting opened with the scout oath, laws, and pledge of allegiance to the flag, led by Scoutmaster McClure.

The scoutmasters' bulletin was read and discussed. Troop two wishes to congratulate troop ten on the splendid work it did in winning the plaque for the jamboree.

Camp was discussed and several boys from troop two will go to camp Sunday to see the Electra Indians do their stuff.

Troop two has been planning a two or three-day camping trip for some time. At the meeting Friday night it was decided that the camp will be held at Craterville Park during the Indian fair, which will be held August 26, 27 and 28. Three or four carloads of scouts will leave this city Thursday night and return Sunday morning. John Weller, Eagle scout and assistant scoutmaster, will have charge of the camp until Saturday, when the scoutmaster will arive to take charge.

Twenty-five scouts answered to roll call and Allen Robinson was voted into the troop. Troop two scouts wish him luck in the field of scouting.

Eggleston Ramey was in charge of the game period. Edwin Dunn won the game of tilting. A game of battle royal was played. Eight scouts were blindfolded and fixed up with boxing gloves. Herbert Cheshire was pronounced winner, as he was the last one to be unblindfolded. A game of sling the sack was a tie, as several scouts refused to be hit. Vernon McDaniel won a wrestling match from Herbert Cheshire and Guy Irwin won one from "Freckles" Haley. The wrestling match between Ogden Kelly and Leonard Baggett was a draw.

The meeting was closed with the scout oath and laws. Every member of Troop two is urged to attend the meeting next Friday night.

HONOR CAMPER TRIP.

Twelve honor campers, four from each camp period, will leave Wichita Falls the morning of the 25th of August, for a trip to the Ozarks and will return September 3.

The trip will be made in the scout truck and before the boys return they will have visited five states. Their camping place will be near Bentonville, Ark.

Only honor campers will have the opportunity of making this trip. It will cost $10 per boy. This price covers all expenses.

TROOP FIVE.

Troop five did not hold its regular meeting Thursday night as most of the boys were at scout camp. No meeting will be held until camp is over.

Troop five will have five representatives at the patrol leaders' conference. They are as follows: Bill Coffey, senior patrol leader, Dillon Holt, James Baxter, Joseph Williams, Bernard Hayes, patrol leaders.

CAMP NOTES.

Saturday morning the scouts at camp, 74 in number, made an all-day hike to Guida Mountain, the highest point of vision used by the Indians and other travellers in early days to get their bearings. Many Indians have camped there and the boys expect to find many arrow heads, etc. The mountain is about five miles from camp. Eighteen visitors from Vernon ate dinner Thursday with the scouts in camp.

INDIAN COUNCIL RING FIRE.

Taylor Cash and his Indians from Electra will be in charge of the council ring fire at camp Sunday night. This will be a wonderful program and scouts and their friends are cordially invited to attend.

The program will start at 8 o'clock and will last until about 9:30.

NEGRO FACES MURDER CASE

$5000 Bond Ordered By Court in Slaying

Ernest Hill, negro, 1304 Grant, was charged with murder by Assistant District Attorney Sam B. Spence Friday afternoon in the justice court of R. V. Gwinn in connection with the fatal shooting of Emerson Scott, another negro, who died early Saturday afternoon from gunshot wounds sustained in an affray at the Hill residence late Friday night.

Hill surrendered to police after the shooting, and both he and his wife, Maggie Bell Hill, were held in the city jail until Saturday morning, when the wife was released, and Hill was transferred to the county jail. Bond was set at $5,000.

The shooting is said to have been the termination of an old family row, brought to a head Friday night when Scott is claimed to have "moved in" to Hill's home and locked the door on the owner.

SERVICE
in its true meaning

The word "service" is used quite a lot these days, in many different meanings and senses. It has been more of a slogan for promised action rather than action to prove a slogan.

"Service" in its true sense means "duty required or performed in any office," "kindness to another," or "profession of respect." Somewhere you have gotten the idea that "service" means an extra amount of kindness, an extra amount of duty or an act greatly embellished. Embellished service does not increase good will, neither does impractical thought displace common sense.

This bank has placed its entire resources at your disposal and wants to give you the common sense kind of service.

Its officers invite your conference that they may help you solve your business problems.

Use Lemons to Whiten Your Skin

Better than Expensive "Bleaches"

The juice of two lemons squeezed into a bottle with Orchard White, will soothe sunburn, and clear up freckles, tan, discolored skin quicker than anything you can buy already prepared, and it doesn't cost you near as much.

Any druggist can sell you Orchard White, and it only takes a minute to mix it with the juice of two lemons. Then you have enough to last you all season.

It makes a delightful lotion which you can put on your face, neck, arms or hands at any time, and it will keep them nice and white. Mix a bottle now, so you will have it handy to use should your skin begin to turn dark, or rough.—Adv.

HASKELL SOCIETY

Special to The Record News.

HASKELL, Aug. 13.—Mrs. J. U. Fields, state president of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs, entertained in her home with an elaborate formal reception last Friday afternoon as a special courtesy, honoring Mrs. Hardy Grissom, popular society and club women of this section, who is leaving Haskell to make her home in Abilene. Two pages, Masters Hugh Mack English and Wallace Parish attended the guests from their cars to the porch, where Misses Maurine Couch and Anita Grissom escorted them to the entrance where greetings were given by Mrs. F. T. Sanders. Introductions to members of the house party who formed the two receiving lines, were begun by the hostess when she presented the honorees, Mrs. Hardy Grissom and out-of-town guests, Mesdames H. M. Hagaman and J. M. White of Ranger; C. D. Kelly, Grosebeck; D. L. Stephens, Anson; H. K. McWhirter and R. B. Cannon, Dallas, and from Haskell, Mesdames John W. Davis, W. H. Murphison, C. L. Lewis, F. T. Sanders, R. R. English, Bruce W. Bryant, H. M. Smith, Courtney Hunt and John A. Coush. The entire reception suite was elaborate with baskets of flowers in rose and lavender which denoted the color tones in all appointments and menu. From a punch bowl mold in a large block of ice, Miss Mae Fields ladled punch and in the dining room the following young ladies were presided over by Mrs. Elam Paris as they served cream in grape cluster mold and angel food cake squares: Misses Anita and Frances Grissom, Maurine Couch, Brucie Bryant and Dujin Fields. From the dining room the guests were privileged to visit the state president's office and examine any or all files and records. One hundred and twenty-five guests responded to this lovely social courtesy and left cards in the silver basket held by dainty little Miss Josephine Parish.

Honor Haskell's Latest Bride-Elect.

On last Wednesday afternoon at the Magazine Club library, from 5 o'clock until 7, Mesdames L. F. Taylor and Bruce W. Bryant and Miss Agnes Cox were charming hostesses for a miscellaneous shower for Haskell's latest bride-elect, Miss LaVerne Cummins, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. D. L. Cummins. Mrs. H. D. Neff met the guests at the door and invited them to where Miss Maybel Taylor stood ready to take the gifts they had brought. They were then ushered to the punch bowl presided over by Mrs. J. L. Southern after which they were presented to the receiving line headed by the hostesses and honoree and Mesdames Wayne Koonce, Virgil Meadows, Miss Sula Mae Ratliff, Mrs. A. E. Humphrey, Miss Madalia Hunt, Mrs. J. W. Pace, Miss Lucy Cummins. The guests then registered in a guest book presided over by Mrs. Tom French and from there went into the reception room where the following program was rendered: Piano selection, Miss Marjorie Rogers; reading, Miss Thelma Williams; vocal solo, Mrs. Wayne Koonce; library, a young bride and groom, appropriately gowned, Mary Helen Neff and Annie Maude Taylor, gave a bridal reminiscence in pantomimes and were followed by a very clever toast to the bride-elect, Miss LaVerne Cummins, who occupied the seat of honor and was gowned in an imported embroidered coral crepe creation from Syria (purchased by the bride-to-be when she was abroad two summers ago) by Miss Brucie Bryant in nurse's costume. Then came two interns, Frank Fuller and David Ray Neff bearing aloft a miniature Vanderbilt hospital filled with gifts.

The refreshment plate of yellow and green brick cream and iced heart-shaped cakes embossed with initials L. V. and E. R., of the bride and groom-to-be, with perriwinkles as plate favors, echoed the color theme used in decoration.

The following young ladies in nurses costumes served the refreshments to about 100 guests: Misses Iola Taylor, Virginia Whitman, Marion Guest and Brucile Bryant.

Guest of Golf Widow Club Party.

Mrs. R. C. Montgomery entertained last Tuesday morning in her home for the Golf Widow's club, this date being the first anniversary of the organization and Mrs. Montgomery named the retiring president, Mrs. Hardy Grissom, who has recently moved to Abilene as honor guest and presented her with a Spanish pottery mayonnaise bowl. Mrs. Bruce W. Bryant in behalf of the hostess and other club members, assured Mrs. Grissom of the love and esteem of each member for her and of the real regret felt by them in seeing her leave Haskell.

"Forty-two" was played during the morning hours designated by the hostess, after which she served pie a la mode to Mrs. Hardy Grissom, Miss Hattie Pace of Houston, Mesdames J. R. Post, F. T. Sanders, H. S. Wilson, S. R. Rike, R. J. Reynolds, J. L. Southern, A. H. Walz, T. J. Arbuckle, John Couch, R. C. Couch, S. A. Roberts, R. E. Sherrill, H. M. Smith, B. W. Bryant, J. W. Pace, and A. C. Pierson. Officers for another year elected follow: President, Mrs. J. L. Southern; first vice president, Mrs. Carlton Couch; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. T. J. Arbuckle.

Baptist Women's Missionary society met last Monday in circles as follows: The Central circle met with Mrs. Rose DeBard with nine ladies present and had an interesting lesson with Mrs. R. J. Reynolds, leader. Officers for another year are: Circle chairman, Mrs. Vaughn Bailey; assistant leader, Mrs. H. C. Cate; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. K. D. Simmons; mission chairman, Mrs. Marshall Pierson; personal service, Mrs. W. L. Norton; mission study, Mrs. John A. Couch; Bible teacher, Mrs. R. J. Reynolds; publicity, Mrs. M. B. Lebo. The East Side circle met with Mrs. M. A. Clifton and studied the book of Job; Mrs. R. P. Glenn was director. Those present were: Mrs. A. C. Roberts, Mrs. R. P. Glenn, Mrs. Robert Reeves, Mrs. W. W. Johnson, Mrs. D. Scott, Mrs. R. W. Clanton, Mrs. Oliphant, Mrs. M. A. Clifton and Miss Ellen Clifton.

Methodist Women's Missionary society met last Monday afternoon at the parsonage with Mrs. W. B. Vaughn as hostess. General director of the study course, Mrs. R. C. Montgomery, gave the devotional and commented on the content of the book. Then Mrs. C. M. Kaigler gave the exposition of the text book on Hebrews, and Mrs. F. T. Sanders on Revelation, and Mrs. John Wilson on John. Guests were served delicious punch by Mrs. Kenneth Thornton and Mrs. A. H. Wair on arriving and at the close of the lesson they were served sandwiches and punch.

Misses Maybel Taylor and four Abilene friends have returned from a tour of the Pacific coast. They were: Misses Pauline Jones, Dixie Howard, Clara Jackson and Mr. Marvin Jackson. They toured the Atlantic coast last year. In the same Dodge sedan and it is affectionately "dubbed" Foxy.

ELECTRA SOCIETY

ELECTRA, Aug. 13.—Edward Morgan, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Morgan was honored on the occasion of his third birthday with a party, Monday afternoon, at the family residence on West Garrison avenue. The children played games on the lawn and refreshments of soda pop, ice cream and cake were served to the following: Billy Ray Jones, Barbaltina Coates, Joseph Kilker, Georgia Jeraleen Barnes, Esther Rose Perky, Robbie Curtis, Betty Curtis, Eloise Williams, Lovell Williams, Johnnie Joe Myers and the honoree. Several mothers of the children of the children assisted in the entertaining.

Lions Club Meeting.

At the regular meeting of the Lions club, Thursday, the meeting opened with singing "My Wild Irish Rose" with Miss Latrice Wofford at the piano. Visitors of the occasion were Lions Graham, McGregor Curd, Pitman, Ladle and Ding all of Wichita Falls. Lion Jewel MacGreagor, well known dialect singer, rendered three Scotch songs, with Lion King at the piano.

The theme of the program being "Suggestions," with various members giving interesting suggestions of improvements made in Electra. Lion George Ezell told of the need of more street lights; while T. T. Decker spoke on "Traffic Signal Lights," while other suggestions included more electric lighting for businesses in Electra; signs at schools to be repaired and replaced; the school faculty to be entertained by the club; the widening of the East Cleveland street; other suggestions being on keeping up the attendance of the club. All ideas given were practical and well needed.

Ruie Totten Honored.

Little Miss Ruie Totten was honored on the occasion of her ninth birthday with a theater party last week. After the young guests gathered at the Totten they played games and attended the theater, later returning again to the residence where a picnic supper was served.

The guests included, Mildred and Francis McDannald, Betty Jo McDannald, Rose Marie Turner, Dorothy Cummings, Doris and Margaret Owens, Dorothy Parr, Armilda Jane and Marie Magee, Ethel Marie LeBus, Jo Ann Moore, Jean Fitzgerald, Billy Jo Weaver, Virginia Motley, Patsy Chaffie, Betty Jo and Doris Jean Miller, Elaine Oliver, Rollo Davidson, Jr., G. F. LeBus, Guy Tipton, Russell and Jack Fitzgerald.

Miss Floyd Honored.

Miss Elizabeth Floyd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Floyd of this city was honored at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. Marion Gibbons of Decatur, A five table bridge party was held, with a dainty two-course luncheon being served at the conclusion of the games. Those present were Mesdames J. R. Cates, S. W. Renshaw, Z. F. Lillard, Minnie Innes, J. W. Lillard, W. D. Boyd, M. W. Burch, F. A. Davenport, E. M. Crisp, Nell McIntosh, S. J. Hill, T. M. Tucker, H. H. Gose, N. P. Taylor, Frank Ward, J. D. Shinpaugh, T. G. Rogers, Joe Jennings, Misses Ada Harding, Ola Mae Wright, Jacobina and Katherine Burch, Sadie Sue Carpenter, Mary Lillard, Ruth Payne Bess Prunty, Edna Mae Boyd, Frances Robert, Miyanch and Madge Scott, Hortense Robertson, Jessie Larkin and the honoree, Miss Elizabeth Floyd.

DAD'S CORNER NEWS

Special to The Record News.

DAD'S CORNER, Aug. 13.—Mrs. C. R. Bell and children of Burkburnett, spent the day with Mrs. Bell's mother, Mrs. Edna L. Faggard.

Mrs. R. H. Hendricks is visiting her mother, Mrs. T. W. Jackson at Elk City, Okla.

Mrs. H. E. Coburn, Healdon, Okla., has been visiting her son, I. H. Coburn and family.

Mrs. I. H. Coburn and children have gone to Elk City, Okla., for an extended visit with relatives and friends.

Mrs. Jim King and children have gone to Wellington, Texas, to visit relatives.

Tom Tyler has returned from a two weeks' vacation spent in Oklahoma and Arkansas, visiting relatives and friends. He reports a wonderful time.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Pankhurst have returned home after spending their vacation in the Ozarks.

The Ladies' Community club met with Mrs. Tom Self Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The time was spent playing games. Mrs. Otis Howell, Mrs. B. E. Dean and Miss Anna Wilson carrying off prizes.

After the games were played luncheon was served to Mesdames John Watkins, Otis Howell, Tom Edwards, Otis Walton, Bon E. Dean, Misses Flora Crossway, Annie Wilson, Neva Herd and hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Burch and son, Earl Jr., from Archer City, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Coburn the past week.

R. L. Stephens and family of Grosebeck, Texas, are visiting R. L. Wood and family.

Miss Pearl Vanhooser and Miss Georgia Fay Beaird have returned to their home in Durant, Okla., after spending the week with the former's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. George Vanhooser.

George Vanhooser received a message from Weatherford saying that his brother had been killed in an automobile accident. He left immediately for that place. We do not have the details of the accident.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Chafin are the proud parents of a daughter, Bettie Lou, born August 3.

Mrs. N. E. Brown has returned to her home at Healdon, Okla., after a visit to her sister, Mrs. I. H. Coburn.

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Morrow and son, Morris Clure, have gone to Davis, Okla., for a visit with relatives and friends.

Megargel Golf team will play the Gulf team at Dad's Corner Sunday.

Miss Fay Jane Smith of Chico, Texas, one of the teachers in the Geraldine school, is visiting friends here this week.

A FRIENDLY SUGGESTION

PARIS.— Foolish performances on the part of American tourists in Europe have been eclipsed by a stunt of four New Jersey travelers on their first venture overseas. On the eve of their departure they were at a loss for a mailing address. A well-meaning friend suggested that their mail be addressed in care of the Arc de Triomphe.

"That's what I always do when I go to Paris," he said.

The suggestion was taken and on their arrival they called at the Arc de Triomphe for their mail. Now they're waiting to get home to lay hands on the friend.

GENERAL ELECTRIC Refrigerator

Simplified Trouble-free Guaranteed

The greatest electrical research organization in the world has now produced a perfect electrical refrigerator.

The master minds of the General Electric laboratories (working over a period of fifteen years) have faced the problems of electric refrigeration and solved them one by one.

They have developed a refrigerator that is remarkably quiet. Stand three feet away and you will hardly be able to tell whether the motor is on or off.

They have cut down current consumption. This refrigerator actually costs less to run than the average cost of ice.

They have made an all-in-one unit that requires no assembling and no oiling. All the moving parts are enclosed in one hermetically sealed housing that keeps efficiency permanently in—and trouble out.

They have made a refrigerator that you should see, ask about, and compare with all others, before you decide to buy.

Models for every home are now on display. Come in and see them. In the meanwhile, mail the coupon below for an interesting descriptive booklet.

Outstanding Advantages

Simplified — No pipes, no drains, no attachments. Portable — install anywhere. Just plug into nearest outlet and it starts.

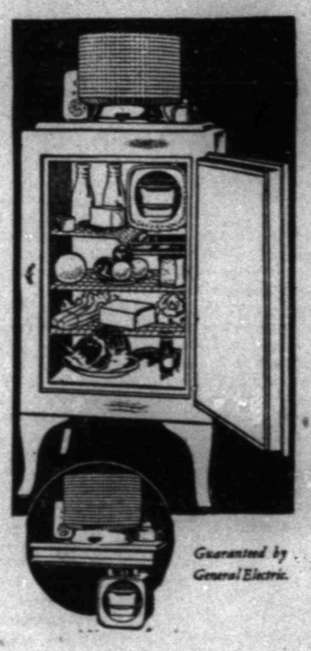

Quiet—Three feet away you can hardly hear it.

No Servicing—Never needs oiling or attention. All moving parts are enclosed in an hermetically sealed housing.

Economical—Uses very little current, and maintains uniform temperature.

Clean—The circulation of air through the coils drives dust away from the top of the refrigerator.

Aimee Given a Scare

EVANGELIST AIMEE was given a scare by some unknown friendly enemy. A bomb was sent to the Temple. It was wrapped in a newspaper. It was a bottle of unique pattern filled with a dangerous liquid. It bore a note which said, "Remember Sacco and Vanzetti."

Pandemonium reigned in the Temple. Police were called in. Secret service men were called in. Taken to police headquarters was the instrument of death and destruction. An investigation was made by the bomb expert of the department.

He laughed. The dangerous liquid was Mussolini dynamite—good old orthodox castor oil. Mussolini never used the gallows. He never used the gun. He never used the electric chair.

His police agents just dosed all dangerous characters with liberal portions of castor oil. History makes mention of the fact that a third dose wasn't necessary. One dose worked like a charm. A second dose humbled the most desperate. A third dose compelled the recipient to flee the country.

There are a few noisy madmen in the United States who look upon the bomb as the emblem of liberty and law who should be given the Mussolini treatment. It reduced the Italy of the Caesars to a kingdom of law abiding and hard working people.

There are no active communists in Italy now. There are no bomb throwers parading the streets of Italian cities or towns. There are no red mouthed anarchists. There are no impudent professional beggars. There are no street walking harlots for their male monstrosities.

Those who did not flee Italy are doing honest work. Labor is noble and holy. Castor oil did the work. There is only one Mussolini. He knew the proper remedy. He applied it in broken doses. Now he is the cock of the Italian walk, the king is his chief messenger and all the captains of industry and labor leaders and an army of patricians and proletarians dance to the music of "Hail the Chief," as he waltzes along.

Leonard Wood

MAJOR GENERAL LEONARD WOOD has gone to his reward. Colonel Hanford MacNider, assistant secretary of war, said it all in his message to the widow of the famous soldier and executive:

"Every citizen who has our good at heart mourns with you. The army of the United States stands at last salute to a great soldier, a great administrator and a great American."

He was a great soldier, a great administrator and a great American. He was the close friend and comrade in arms of Theodore Roosevelt.

He was the colonel commanding the Rough Riders, but Roosevelt organized the Rough Riders and was their lieutenant colonel and active commander.

He had worn the uniform for more than two score years. He never shirked a duty or evaded a responsibility. He was a contender for the presidential nomination in 1920. His backers were very wealthy men, but he had nothing to do with their prodigal expenditure of money in the noted campaign of that year.

He lost the nomination but it did not sour him. He became the governor general of the Philippines and his record as an administrator for the islands and the islanders and the American people made material for a glorious page of American history.

His official life is without a splotch; his private life without a stain. He will sleep in Arlington along side of his comrades of the Spanish-American war.

Yes, Soldier McNider said it all. "The army of the United States stands at last salute to a great soldier, a great administrator and a great American."

Why He Is Always Elected

GOVERNOR GEORGE McMULLEN of Nebraska has been asked to remove the prosecuting attorney of McPherson county. His name? John A. McGraw. He refuses to enforce the prohibition law. He is the only lawyer in McPherson county. A county attorney must be a qualified voter of the county or else he cannot hold the office. Citizen McGraw has held it for years. He is always elected. He is as wet as the Atlantic ocean, in his convictions, at least. If the governor removes the unique prosecutor, then it will be up to him to send another lawyer to the county.

Bilbo Back on the Job

BILBO is back in Mississippi. He is the democratic nominee for governor. That is, he will be after the run-off. Theodore G. Bilbo is to Mississippi just what Coleman L. Blease is to South Carolina. Blease held the governorship two terms. Then they kicked him out. Then he became a candidate for United States senator. He was defeated. He bided his time. He came again. He won a senatorship.

Bilbo has been the stormy petrel of Mississippi for a quarter of a century. He served in the state senate. He served two terms as governor. He is the idol of the Hilly Billys. His enemies have painted him as black as the pitch of hades. His followers look upon him as the poor man's hope, as honest as Paul and as brave as Julius Ceaser.

His runner-up is Dennis Murphree. With Bilbo at the bat for two years, Mississippi will be in the headlines. He was in the headlines as a state senator. He was in the headlines four years as governor. He knows the value of publicity and how to get it.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By BURTON RASCOE.

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch To The Record News

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—One of the most unusual openings ever staged took place the other night at the Longacre theater. The celebration was in honor of Babe Ruth and his new picture, "Babe Comes Home," and also a new type of talking-movie, the Vocafilm.

In most cases, first-nighters at movie openings are a correct and also dull assemblage. They applaud at the right times, are high in their praise of the entertainment, and so forth. Habitual first nighters at the legitimate theaters are a breed apart. They are ready and anxious to snicker at any eccentricity of the performance. They insist on an unusual evening. Often, if the show is at all bad, they hoot the players in the middle of the show. Admittedly all in bad taste, this sort of thing is stimulating.

But to return to the Longacre and the Vocafilm. With the first bars of the overture, the audience tittered. Apparently the recording machine was far from perfect. The notes wabbled, they fell, they shrieked and squealed. Often the score would lift to an entirely different key. The audience grew noisier.

Other acts followed. A pair of fat radio singers could hardly be heard. Their voices sounded like those of particularly anaemic eunuchs. In an encore the volume was deafening. The notes on the piano were akin to the chimes of a cathedral and the men's voices were those of giants.

A cello solo by Yasha Bunchuk followed. After he had played two arias, a sub-title announced that Mr. Bunchuk's instrument was very valuable. So saying, the film once again revealed Mr. Bunchuk at his adult fiddle, whereupon he repeated the two numbers just heard. The audience broke into open guffaws so as to drown the music. They grew noisier and noisier. People were leaving by the score.

When the second half of the program opened, another overture was so low as to be barely heard. Some jovial fellow in the gallery called "louder" and the audience applauded this sentiment.

This same show was scheduled to open about a month ago. In the meantime, the producers have been trying to improve the quality of Vocafilm's reproduction, at an expense of some $4000 a week. Why they let it go as it was shown I do not understand.

And yet orchestra seats for the opening sold for $11 each at the box office. I haven't the slightest doubt that most of those who went had more enjoyment for their money than they could have at a show done in the best manner. Surely nothing could have been funnier.

* * *

A lonely, dirty, clumsy-looking dog ambles down Broadway, sniffing pathetically at passersby, who repulse him. . . . West Fiftieth street trembles with the vibration of the organ in the Capitol theater. . . . Lads in their B. V. D.'s are swimming in the fountain at Columbus circle. . . . The sign attracting most attention is the Cadillac at Forty-second and Broadway, at least a dozen different colors of lights being used to show a Viking boat propelled by a score of oarsmen. . . . A pair in a taxi are locked in fond embrace, lost to the grinning pedestrians who glance in. . . . Push cart merchants sweat on the lower east side and sell everything from penny ice cream to dress suits. . . . A bunch of small boys swear and grimace as an impressive Limousine interrupts their ball game on a street in Greenwich Village. . . . A bedraggled specimen of a man snatches a cigaret butt which a man in a tuxedo has thrown to the ground on alighting from a cab at a theater entrance, puts it in his pocket, and waits for the next car to draw up.

The Art Game—By James J. Montague

Time was, when a boy came home from college and announced that he was going in for art, his parents, after a sleepless night, decided to put him under some kind of forcible restraint. Had he threatened to become a poet they couldn't have been more worried. Even the slightest symptom of the artistic urge in a daughter was disquieting. But daughters, as a rule, get married, and then the suppression of tendencies that may wreck their lives is up to their husbands. I can sympathize with the parents of the girl who came back to Kansas after taking a cultural course in a Chicago domestic science school, and when asked to get lunch for the harvest hands, gave each of them a cup of bullion with whipped cream, an olive and a sandwich tied up with a pink ribbon. But she probably married one of the harvesters, and promptly took up quantity production of ham and eggs.

But art is rapidly coming into its own. You remember, of course, the old greasy gasoline stations, in tumble down shacks along the roadside, with decaying flivvers piled behind them, and three or four unshaven lads standing by the rusty pumps. Well, you don't see them any more. They were cheap to operate, but they didn't pay.

Big business, through one of its research bureaus, discovered that art is profitable. So it bought up the old shacks, tore them down, and replaced them with shining porcelain edifices, which in most cases are the best looking structures in the towns where they are located. The pump boys were sent home to wash up, and when they came back they were provided with new uniforms and caps, and equipped with manicure sets. Now when you drive through the country you get your gasoline at a chalet or a chateau or a miniature reproduction of the Louvre, or a quaint log cabin, or a reproduction of the White House on a very small scale.

And you are so delighted with these places that you can hardly get past one of them without stopping to fill your tank, and buy oil and accessories. Moreover, you are put so in tune with art and luxury that you bestow abundant largess on all the attendants. I am not prepared to say whether the gas in these aesthetic stations costs more than it used to in the old places, but the extraction of money in luxurious surroundings is far more painless, as modern dentists have discovered, to the great increase of their practice.

I know one thing, and that is that Bill McMorrow went broke in the dirty little shed from which he dispensed fuel to the motorists of our village, and that the Greek Temple which was put up when his place was torn down seems to be making money hand over fist. So I begin to think there is something in art, after all.

If Ever, For Any Reason, Business Would Sag, the Guilding Spirit of the Establishment Would Tie Each Sausage Inside Its Roll with a Pink Ribbon, and that Would Increase Trade Without Any Trouble.

Then there is the case of Toney, the Hot Dog Man. He began with a lunch wagon, from which he supplied nocturnal workers with various forms of comestibles. By and by he discovered that hot dogs sold faster and paid better than anything else, so he took out his range, substituted a gridiron, and sold these exclusively. He managed to do very well, what with school children in the day time, and burglars and policemen at night, but still the roaring of his eleven children bore heavily on him and it looked for a while as if he would never manage it.

Then Toney's daughter, who worked in a highly artistic home as a mother's helper, suddenly decided that what Toney's business lacked was art. She had a long and tough job in persuadings her father of this, but she finally managed it. By putting a mortgage on his wagon, Toney raised enough money to rent a site along one of the highways and to erect on it a white painted house over which was a large sign "Ye Lowly Thatched Cottage." She told me that it was her opinion that spelling the last word "Kottage" would have brought more business, but that the woman for whom she worked frowned on it.

Now there were no hot dogs to speak of in this country when lowly thatched cottages were the style, and there seems to be no reason why the two should be associated. You might expect sausages and buckwheat cakes or fried pork chops in a lowly thatched cottage, but not hot dogs.

However, as soon as the cottage was built and the sign put up there was always a line of cars in front of the place and people came from all over the country to patronize it. After a week, it was necessary to run out a wing on either side, each with a griddle, behind which stood Toney's six daughters, all of them serving hot dogs as fast as they could be split and broiled. If ever, for any reason, business would sag, the guiding spirit of the establishment would tie each sausage inside its roll with a pink ribbon, and that would increase trade without any trouble.

Toney today is living in a lowly thatched cottage with a sun parlor, a library, a breakfast room, four baths and five master rooms upstairs. Moreover, he takes a trip to Italy every year and doesn't have to make his own claret any more.

Down on main street they still run the old style barber' shops and meat markets and green groceries, and they think that this application of art to business is all foolishness. But they'll learn. Pretty soon somebody will come along and sell cabbages and melons in cartons, and tie up asparagus with mauve ribbon, and invent new names for their markets, names suggestive of everything artistic from the days of Ur down to the present.

Then the boys will have to be to the library and find out what art is and how it can be applied to trade. They will have to create "atmosphere" in the bootblack stands and the garages and the butter and egg store if they want to keep up with the procession. All this will create such a demand for training in art as has never been known since the renaissance.

Pretty soon when a young man or a young woman comes home from college with noting but "arty" conversation, their parents, instead of sending them out west until they get over it will send them to France and Italy to complete their education. The profession which used to be regarded as something to follow only for its own sake, and not to be followed very far at that, has at last come to be as practical as the vending of life insurance—as prosperous, almost as bootlegging.

Pipe Received For Clarendon Pipeline

CLARENDON, Aug. 13.—Four carloads of pipe were received here today for use on the Upham company's gas line to be run here. Trucks and drivers were in town this morning preparing to unload and string the pipe along the right of way as soon as the ground dried sufficiently from the heavy rains of Monday and Tuesday. Six hundred meters were received earlier in the week, and other loads of material have been received at Hedley, Lelia Lake and Giles, other towns to be served with gas from this line. Company representatives state that they will be ready to serve gas by the 15th of October and will rush the work to completion.

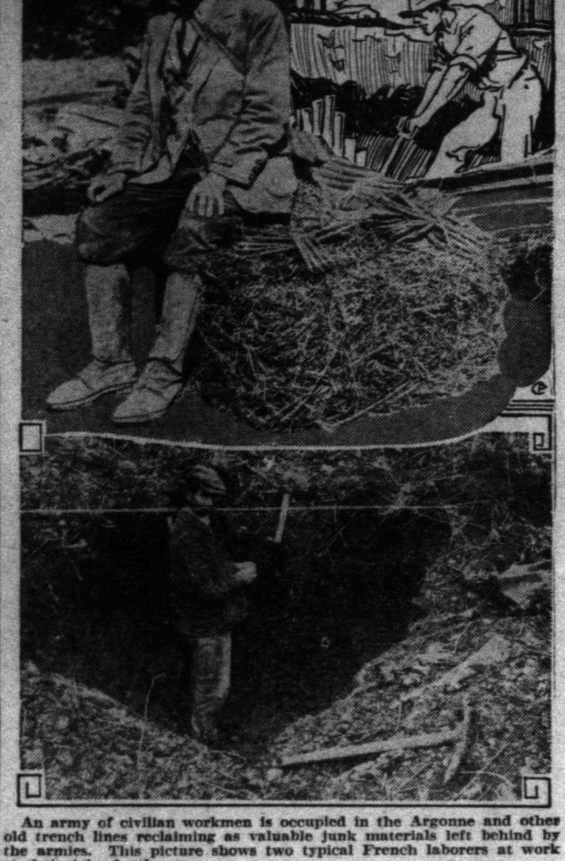

Ruth Allen Resumes Teaching at Texas U.

AUSTIN, Aug. 13.—After a year's leave of absence, Miss Ruth Allen, adjunct professor of economics, will return to the University of Texas in September to resume her teaching work. Miss Allen has been doing graduate work in the University of Chicago for the past year.

Besides teaching the introductory course in economics at the university, Miss Allen teaches a special course dealing with the economic status of women.

French Trenches Hold Fortune In Junk

An army of civilian workmen is occupied in the Argonne and other old trench lines reclaiming as valuable junk materials left behind by the armies. This picture shows two typical French laborers at work at their job of salvage.

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to The Record News.

VARENNES, France, Aug. 13.—The boys are cleaning up the Argonne forest once again—

Not as it was cleaned up in September, 1918, by American divisions, nor as it will be cleaned up again in September, this year, by souvenir-hunting members of the American Legion who will journey through the fastnesses in automobile sight-seeing busses. No. It is being cleaned up by a crew of laborers who are working for a junk salvaging company which obtained the exclusive contract from the French government for the job.

All along the roads of the famous forests are hundreds and hundreds of bales of barbed wire. Huge wagon-loads of rusted corrugated iron abris are hauled to Ste. Menehould, Les Islettes and other points along the railroad that leads to Verdun and Paris. Rifles, bayonets and hand grenades, together with those cast iron shell casings of the German 77's, are collected. Barbed wire standards are tied in bundles; copper machine gun bullets are placed in gunnysacks. Everything that once was considered an attribute to war is being dragged out and drawn away.

And think of it!

A 10-Year Job.

The laborers in the Argonne have been working almost four years on this clean-up job. They have shipped thousands of carloads of material. But, according to Jean Paradenski, who works out of this city, it will take at least another five years, if not 10, to accumulate all the wire and the abris and other junk that the Germans and French carried into the forest to fortify their positions from 1914 to 1918.

The war in the Argonne has developed a profession. The workers, many of whom live with their families in old barracks in the heart of the forest the year round, are expert salvagers. They have learned to tear down what the masters of war knew how to build. With consummate skill—as anyone may see in the construction of their bales of barbed wire—they are cleaning up. Some time, in five or 10 years, these laborers expect to conclude their chore. Then the Argonne will be cleared—mopped up—and ready for another war.

Fourth Gin Being Erected at Turkey

TURKEY, Aug. 13.—Sand and gravel has been placed on the ground for Turkey's fourth gin. This being put in by H. E. White, of Washburn, Texas. With the gin facilities and the cotton compress here, Turkey will become the cotton center and market for a large cotton section.

Among the mourners at the funeral of Lord Abinger, at Abinger church, Surrey, England, recently, was the late peer's favorite dog.

"I Never Pretended to Make Friends"

By BRUCE BARTON

Illustrated by RAEBURN VAN BUREN

IN the matter of money most men make a conscious effort to provide for their old age. They save and invest, and figure that at sixty they will have such-and-such an income.

In the matter of friends too few take such wise precaution. Hence the cities are full of lonely old folks who have outlived their generation; the friends of their middle years are gone and they have made no new ones to fill the vacant places.

A man whom I very much respect was speaking of this the other day.

"Until I was forty years old I sought deliberately to make my friendships among men older than myself," he said. "Since I passed forty, I have tried just as deliberately to find friends among younger men. I am laying up friendships for my old age."

Wise old Sam Johnson followed the same good rule.

"If a man does not make new acquaintances as he advances through life, he will soon find himself alone," he said to Boswell. "A man, sir, should keep his friendships in constant repair."

Viewed from this standpoint, no other human career presents a sadder spectacle than Napoleon's. Most readers of history remember only his splendid hours. We think of him holding court at Versailles, or dictating terms to emperors on the battlefield, or marrying himself to the daughter of Europe's proudest court.

But what was the end of it all?

On a little rocky island he fretted away the last years of his life. Who was there to share his exile?

Not his wife; she had gone back to her father. Not Berthier, his lifelong comrade; Berthier has deserted without a blush and become captain of Louis XVIII's bodyguard. Two of his trusted marshals had insulted him. Marmont, his petted favorite, conspicuously betrayed him. Even the personal attendants who had slept at his door turned their backs on his failure. "What ingratitude!" you exclaim. But he himself had set the example.

"After all, I care only for people who are useful to me, and so long as they are useful," he once remarked. And again: "I have made courtiers; I have never pretended to make friends."

The fine tomb in Paris is a monument to the dazzling aspects of his career, erected by those who knew him only from a distance. Those who knew him best raised no monument to him on the shores of St. Helena. His little garden there became a crude potato-patch, the billiard-room in which he had played and talked, a haymow, and the room where he died, a stable.

Over the ruins might well have been written: "I made courtiers; I never pretended to make friends."

ALL PSYCHOLOGY GOOD

The word "Psychology" means the study of the mind. "Psysis" refers to that part about us which I often call the "Unpinchable." This includes the mind, intelligence, ego, soul, spirit, and other terms used by the different religionists and philosophers to define the thinking part about us which is clearly not material. Any such religious and philosophical study is of inestimable value to those who are seeking to have health more abundantly. However, a leading professor of psychology at one of our large universities recently made this statement in a lecture: "There are a great many books and lectures on the subject propounding and setting forth theories and so-called facts which are at least of doubtful value, if not positively harmful, in the effect upon the mind."

I want to place myself on record as disagreeing emphatically with this professor's viewpoint. I am fairly familiar with the teachings of all of the different schools of psychology, mental science, New Thought, and the beliefs of Christian Science, and the psyco-analytical schools and I have never in my practice run across a case of a patient who had been injured by the teachings of any of these systems. On the other hand, I advise all of my readers and likewise my private patients to read every article, book, pamphlet, and any other literature they can secure on these subjects about the study of the mind and its effect upon the body. And, I furthermore believe that all of these teachers are correct from their point of view, and that if we can, each one of us, understand the conclusions arrived at by these investigators, we will simply have a broader and more helpful concept of such vitally important subjects. As we study the different philosophies, we can finally gather together enough good information to perhaps create a philosophy of our own, which is more fitting to our experiences in life than any of the individual systems propounded by teachers who are apt to be over-enthusiastic, and inclined to exaggerate the benefits of their teachings.

One does not have to believe all that one reads in the different books in order to receive good from these philosophies. Simply reading these books over and over again creates a helpful and hopeful attitude of the mind, even without any definite attempt to understand the hidden meanings in what is written. One can daily receive a good deal of good from reading a chapter or two of the New Testament, "Science and Health," "The Mind in the Making," "The Secret of Mental Magic," and a thousand and one other books space does not permit me to name. My readers know how much I believe in food science and the science of physical mechanics, yet, I hope these beliefs will never keep me from appreciating the good which my patients can receive through a study of psychology in its various phases.

My advice to you is to give an equal amount of time to the study of mental science, food science, exercise science, and a study of psychological chemistry. Do not spend so much time on any one of these subjects that you do not have time for the others.

QUESTION: Mrs. C. W. writes: "Is the moderate use of condiments so very harmful? I find it hard to do without a little spice or vinegar in preparing meals."

ANSWER—Spices and condiments stimulate the flow of digestive juice, and if they are used at all they should be used at a meat meal. Those who suffer from hyperacidity already have more acid than they know what to do with, and anything which will excite an additional flow of hydrochloric acid is bad for them.

QUESTION: Marjorie L. writes: "My blood examination shows a positive Wassermann test. Will you answer me in the paper and tell me what to do?"

ANSWER—Your question refers to a subject which can not be freely discussed in the columns of the daily newspaper. If you desire such information you must write a personal letter to me, giving your full name and address which, of course, will never be published in the paper.

QUESTION: A. C. writes: "Will you please advise me what to do? I have an acid system."

ANSWER—What you probably mean in your letter is that you have hyperacidity of the stomach. This can be cured if you will learn to live on the proper food combinations. Follow the menus suggested in this column, and you will soon notice a change for the better.

'INSPI' BACK ON FILM LOT

Old Company Seeks to Regain Prestige

By LOUELLA PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 13.—Inspiration Pictures is taking a new lease on life. The company which formerly boasted of Lillian Gish, Dorothy Gish and Richard Barthelmess, is coming back into the production field with many promises. No less a person than J. Boyce Smith, vice president of the concern formerly headed by Charles R. Duell, assures us that the coming year will see a great increase in production activities.

Hire New Actors

The Halperin boys, Victor and Edward, who have been making pictures in New York on an independent scale, are the first unit to join Inspiration. Their arrangement is patterned along the lines of the Edwin Carewe-Inspiration deal. Furthermore, Mr. J. Boyce Smith announces the Halperin pictures will be of the same magnitude as "Resurrection and "Ramona." We hope he is right.

At one time, Inspiration ranked with the most flourishing of the film companies. Charles R. Duell had Lillian Gish, Dorothy Gish and Richard Barthelmess under contract. There was plenty of money and Lillian Gish and Richard Barthelmess spent it making big pictures. Then came the lawsuit between Miss Gish and Mr. Duell and Inspiration, for a time was shaky. Now there is new blood and new promises.

Garden of Eden

I think that we can be hopeful that "The Garden of Eden" is to materialize as a Corinne Griffith picture. There were a few days when it looked dubious. Lowell Sherman, who recently joined the army of deposed husbands at the Garden of Allah, or the garden of alimony, as some wit puts it—has been signed to play the role of Glessing. My information is that Glessing is a very wicked person and that Lowell, who knows his stuff when it comes to being a he vamp in the movies, has one of his typical screen roles. By the by, those who claim to know, say there isn't a chance that Pauline Garon and Lowell Sherman will kiss and make up. Their separation has come as a great surprise, since they lunched at the Montemarte nearly every day together.

Works on Own

Dolores Costello's little sister, Helene, may be located at the Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer studios. Helene has a right to be indignant at such a designation for she is an actress on her own, and with or without sister Dolores, an asset. John Stahl must think so, too, for he has engaged her to play the leading feminine role in "Old Kentucky," Charles Dazey's famous play. James Murray, King Vidor's find, plays the male lead, with Wesley Barry and Edward Martindel in the supporting cast. Wesley Barry is married now and grown up. Seems only yesterday, as "Freckles," he was being told what to say when we interviewed him.

WELL, AN EGG'S AN EGG, ISN'T IT?

LEXINGTON, Ky.—County Patrolman James Hall had a pair of fried eggs for breakfast which were so good he demanded more. His wife sent him to the nest where the first batch had originated, and there he found a large blacksnake guarding a couple of snake eggs. The patrolman retreated in some haste, and comparing notes with his better half discovered that the eggs he had just eaten were undoubtedly snake eggs. He feels very queer about it, but it's too late to do anything.

LOOK OUT, MERE MAN

LONDON.—Women are tired of being called the weaker sex. And the days when a woman was a helpless creature bearing submissively the black and blue marks of man's superiority are over. She is learning how to defend herself and the man who dares to question her ability better look out. In London there is a school where society women are taught courses in self-defense which include kicking, biting, punching, scratching and other tricks of feminine self-defense.

REALLY ACCOMMODATING

DALLAS.—If all florists were as accommodating as this one, their business would be one of the most prosperous in the world, and "Say It With Flowers" a slogan used not only in connection with courting and Mother's day. Nestling in the bottom of a flower box delivered in Dallas were found two half-gallon jars of whisky. Arrests were made.

GILDA GRAY IN 'DEVIL DANCER'

Exotic Star to Show In Weird Picture

Special to The Record News.

CULVER CITY, Aug. 13.—Samuel Goldwyn, eminent motion picture producer, today disclosed plans aimed to give his latest production, "The Devil Dancer," some of the elements which certain critics of the cinema art have inferred are not competent to handle.

In attempting to meet the widespread challenge to place something new upon the screen, Mr. Goldwn is placing before his camera what would appear to be one of the most bizarre dramatic situations yet heard of in connection with motion picture production. The action transpires partly in Tibet, the curious and cruel nation in mountains north of India into which very few white men have ever found their way. This will be the first time that Tibet has ever been shown as the locale of a picture story and innumerable treasures have been brought from the sacred city of Lihassa to serve as authentic properties in "The Devil Dancer."

Gilda Gray in Lead

The story itself, written to suit the exotic talents of Gilda Gray, narrates the tale of an English girl brought up by Tibetan devil worshipping monks as a vestal virgin dancer in their isolated mountain monastery. It is from the pen of Harry Hervey, well known writer of Oriental stories and perhaps the only writer of fiction who has ever actually penetrated Tibet.

To bring to the screen so exacting a story of a strange race and its customs make necessary a care in production far beyond the usual. In addition to the research services of Mr. Hervey himself, Mr. Goldwyn has engaged the famous Hungarian artist, Willy Pogany, to execute the sets and costumes. Pogany is especially noted for his achievements in eastern art.

Ted Shawn to Help

To assure perfection in the execution of native dances, this responsibility was placed in the hands of Ted Shawn, associated with Ruth St. Denis.

The cast of "The Devil Dancer" in addition to its star, Gilda Gray, contains the names of many interesting screen players among them being Clive Brook, who has been assigned to the principal male role, Anna May Wong, Michael Vavitch, Sojin, James Leong, Martha Maddox, Anne Schaeffer and Barbara Tennant.

MIGHT BE FRESHMEN

LAKE FOREST, Ill.—Campus isn't a college word for camp. That has been decided by Lake Forest police officers who happened on a family of tourists pitching their tent on the grounds of Lake Forest university.

"Who told you this was a camping ground?" the officer asked.

"Well, look at the sign," the head of the family replied.

ROLLING PIN CHAMP

REDMOND, Ore.—Mrs. Ruby Hagman of Terrebonne, has been awarded the state championship for rolling pin throwing, and Oregon husbands are looking with doubt as to the advisability of encouraging this type of activity. Judging by Mrs. Hagman's performance they are right, for she hurled the pin 120 feet, for the title at a Grange picnic. It was an accurate shot, too.

Plenty of Laughs Contained In "Firemen, Save My Child"

Laughs, more laughs and then some more, without interruption until one's sides really ache. That, in a line, sums up the newest fun masterpiece of Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton. "Firemen, Save My Child" which opened Sunday at Majestic theater.

This new picture, beyond question, places Beery and Hatton at the absolute top rung of screen comedy. When Paramount took these two players, who for years had been portraying villian roles before the camera, and linked them in "Behind the Front," they started with their laugh-provoking capabilities; when the boys followed this success with "We're in the Navy Now," they scored a greater triumph.

Now, in "Firemen, Save My Child," their comedy team work has ripened, into a fulfillment that has produced a humor classic, the greatest of all their pictures, the funniest film ever made by a comedy duo.

It is superfluous to describe their antics. As they blundered involuntarily into the army and navy so now they are catapulted from an 85-foot tower into the fire depadtment and they proceed to reveal all the hidden mysteries of the lives of firemen in a ludicrous succession of adventures that, even in the moments when the flames are hottest and the fire burning at its fiercest in the climatic sequence of the picture, arouses hilarious roars.

There is a well-defined plot in "Firemen, Save My Child" that builds from the opening sequence through the big fire scene when they prove themselves real (if laughable) heroes, to the final fadeout.

The "four horsemen of hilarity" who made this picture,—Beery Hatton, Director Edward Sutherland and Monty Brice, the comedy constructor,—the quartet which made the two previous Beery-Hatton comedies, have turned out their greatest work, one which unshakably entrenches the two stars as the most laughable comedy team of screen history.

FAST WESTERN AT MISSION

Horse and Dog Stars In Presentation

There's one thing about sitting through a picture photographed by William Thornley, — you can be sure of the quality and beauty of the photograph, if nothing else. For this man Thornley can take even a Western and make it a joy to the eye.

And, as Mr. Thornley was called upon to do the photography on "The Thunderbolt Strikes," which began a two-days' engagement at the Mission theater yesterday, you may know right at the start that it is worth your while to go and see it.

But we are glad to report that in the present instance the photography is not the only quality of merit. George Hull, who wrote the story of "The Thunderbolt Strikes," has woven a thoroughly entertaining and often dramatic story of a clean-cut young westerner who works hard and conscientiously to make a man of the brother of the girl he loves. And Harry Webb, who not only produced "The Thunderbolt Strikes," but directed it as well, also deserves credit. It moves forward at a galloping good pace toward the sort of ending that movie audiences like. "Starlight," the star's wonder horse, and "Rex," his beautiful and intelligent Collie, figure prominently in the proceedings. A cast of well-known "heavies" and "cowboys" has been assembled in support of Mr. Perrin, and Alma Rayford, a comparative new-comer, plays the chief feminine role.

Memphis Girl Accorded Honor at C. I. A.

DENTON, Aug. 13.—Miss Jean Leslie of Memphis, Texas, was elected house president of Brackenridge Hall for the second summer session of the College of Industrial Arts. The following monitors were elected: basement, Ida Taylor, Bryson, Texas, main floor, east corridor, Jessie Garner, Odom, Texas; main floor, main corridor, Margaret Beyers, Paris, Texas; third floor, east corridor, Carpella Thornhill, Dallas, Texas; third floor, main corridor, Euela Pearson, Nocona, Texas; third floor, west corridor, Caro Crawford, Honey Island, Texas.

Non-intoxicating beverages and fruit juices sent from this to other countries in the past year were valued at nearly $1,200,000.

"Covered Wagon" At the Olympic

Still the picture of pictures—still a novelty for the theater going public, is James Cruze's Paramount production "The Covered Wagon" which came back to the Olympia theater Sunday.

Some 500 prairie schooners, 100 horses, 600 oxen, hundreds of actors and 1000 Indians from six different tribes, go to make up this stupendous production, still one of the largest ever presented to a motion picture audience.

J. Warren Kerrigan, Lois Wilson, Charles Ogle, Ernest Torrence, Tully Marshall, Alan Hale, Guy Oliver and John Fox are the principal players. The picturization in adnering closely to Emerson Hough's novel, has lost none of its force or interest. "The Covered Wagon" tells a love story that is different. Many difficulties are encountered by Miss Wilson and Kerrigan because of the fact that Hale, as Sam Woodhull, believes himself engaged to Lois and he refuses to tolerate Kerrigan's attentions to her. In the end, however, everything turns out for the best and the first picture we ever enjoyed as much on a second visit as on the first, comes to a close.

"The Covered Wagon's" greatness remains undimmed!

BARGAIN DAY IN BAGS

TERRE HAUTE, Ind.—It is only just a plain ordinary shopping bag, but it's worth exactly $169.95 to W. H. Wills, manager of a Terre Haute grocery store. Wills took $161 out of his cash register the other evening and slipped it into a shopping bag, as a precaution against a possible hold-up. A few minutes later an unidentified customer bought the bag for five cents, the clerk who sold it, being ignorant of its valuable contents.

Earphones are supplied to deaf persons attending a church in Fulham, England, so that all the congregation may hear and join in the services.

Harris In "Let's Go" at Mission

"Lets Go," is right—

It's a fast moving musical comedy which opens Sunday at the Mission theater with Honey Hank Harris and His Honey Girls furnishing the music and the comedy.

Honey and Rose Harris will be there to furnish the laughs for the customers; while Zoe Frazell, Joyce Culberson and the two Brennans supply the singing and the dancing.

In "Lets Go" Honey Harris will introduce some of the latest "hits and bits" from the musical comedies on Gay Broadway.

And judging from past performances in Wichita Falls, Honey and His Honey Girls will "do their stuff" to the satisfaction of everybody concerned in "Lets Go."

The average income of most of the population of India is now estimated at $15 a year.

Ice Delivery To Homes Thru Pipes

Liquid Ice Newest Freak of Commerce

DALLAS, Aug. 13. (AP)—Liquid ice will be piped to the business houses on the main thoroughfares in Dallas when the warm weather season opens next year, according to plans made by F. O. Stevenson of Fort Worth, president of the Stevenson Engineering company, which is promoting the project.

A $1,000,000 downtown refrigeration system will be installed. Site for a central plant is now being selected.

Pipelines will be laid within three months on Main, Elm and probably Commerce streets, Mr. Stevenson announced.

This system, which will be the only one in Texas, will be the first to be installed west of St. Louis. Several eastern cities use this system.

The downtown systems will be the first unit of a great network of "piped ice" throughout the city. Year after next a $750,000 unit of pipes will be added in the residential section, according to plans.

Ice, ice water and iced air will be supplied at a minimum cost to all business houses. City officials have already granted the company permission to lay the pipes under the pavement on Main and Elm streets.

Refrigeration, according to the announcement, will be piped in pipes as gas and water is piped. It will be generated at the central plant. Ammonia, which is a gas, will be compressed to liquid ice and forced into pipes from the central plant. When it reaches the refrigerator in each building it will be converted into gas and the expansion will result in frigid air, even as low as zero. The gas will return to the central plant where it will be compressed into liquid form again.

"This system, as has been proven in other cities, has no equal from the standpoint of hygene, service, efficiency and economy," Stevenson said.

CAR BUILDERS WATCH FORD

Industry Steadier After Excited Flurry

BY RAY PRIEST.
Automobile Editor Universal Service.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 13.—Better automobiles are being offered for fall buying by almost every motor car manufacturer. Combined with the stimulant of lower prices by most of the makers sales are expected to show large increases during August and September.

Motor car manufacturers in this territory have gained courage to continue manufacturing on their previously arranged schedules calling for increases in production during the next two months by the publication of Henry Ford's intention to start building his new car on an extremely limited introductory plan.

Ford Light Eight.

The report regarding the new Ford light eight caused a flurry among medium priced car makers. Others said they had expected something of the kind because of a statement given out by the motor magnate last spring that he would build a "car for every family need and purse."

What other cars that are coming in the Ford line seem to be known to the manufacturer and his closest aids alone.

A rumor persists in Detroit that Ford has employed C. Harold Wills, formerly head of the Wills-St. Clair company, of Marysville, Mich., and formerly an executive in the Ford organization, to build "the finest six cylinder car possible."

The writer is inclined to believe the possibility of this action as he was once told by Henry Ford that "Wills is undoubtedly the finest automobile engineer I have ever known." This statement came after Ford had been questioned regarding a report at that time that he had re-employed Wills.

Ford Sees Wills.

Ford further admitted that Wills had been out to see him. He refused to state whether he would ever consider hiring the engineer in the future. This interview was shortly after the Wills-St. Claire company ceased production.

The reception of the new Buick throughout the United States and subsequent sales proves that the public likes the many new features being offered in this product of General Motors.

The factory caused a check to be made by "clockers" who stood in the doorways of every Buick showroom of any size in the country keeping track of the number of people who come to see the new car on the first three days of its showing July 22, 24 and 25.

The total for the United States was 1,526,152 persons. Announcing the total the Buick company added:

Public Enthusiastic.

"Seldom if ever has the public shared so wholeheartedly a manufacturers' enthusiasm over his product."

Creation of a new zone office at Portland, Maine, was announced during the last week by the Chevrolet Motor Car company. This is the 20th office to be opened by Chevrolet in key cities in the United States since 1925. Today Chevrolet has 43 zone offices out of which total more than half have parts distribution depots to give the public quicker and more efficient service.

The Franklin Motor Car company has seized upon the renewed interest in aviation to capitalize on its air cooled motor principle.

Engineers of the Franklin company claim that air-cooling is as beneficial to the motorist as to the aviator, pointing out that it would be difficult for the motorist to obtain water for his radiator in some of the southwestern states as it would be for the aviator to replenish the cooling supply for his motor while flying.

Air Cooling Popular.

Widespread use of air-cooling in aviation will ultimately result in automobiles turning to the same type, state Franklin engineers.

Willys-Overland set at rest persistent rumors regarding announcement of a new Whippet with a statement this week that "No changes are being anticipated in Whippet design or construction and that the success achieved by this car has been such as to indicate the adoption of Whippet features by other cars in the near future."

Science Used In Producing Autos

Scientific construction of different parts of an automobile chassis contribute to its long life, road stability, riding comfort and safety. Advanced engineering in the automotive industry has brought the center of gravity close to the ground, thus adding immeasurably to stability and riding comfort.

The first American automobile manufacturer to embrace this low swung type of construction as standard for all models was Willys-Overland, Inc., of Toledo, Ohio, builders of Whippet, Whippet Six, "70" Willys-Knight and Willys-Knight Great Six cars. Setting a new and distict trend a year ago, other leading car manufacturers of the nation were quick to sense the advantages of this type of construction and followed the lead set by the Toledo manufacturer.

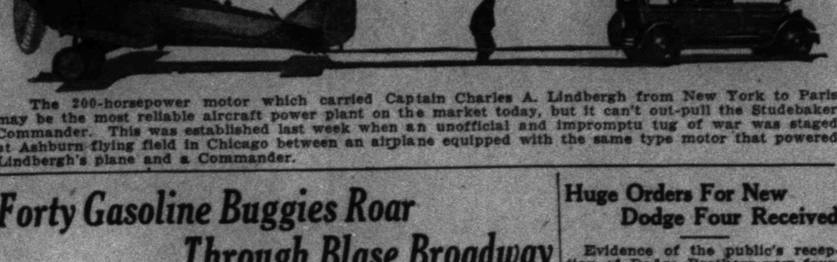

Willys-Overland engineers point out that many advanced engineering features have been embraced in the construction of the Whippet Six which made its appearance about eight months ago and since that time has set a notable standard of performance in the light six cylinder field.

The Whippet Six frame is of pressed steel and is re-inforced by four sturdy cross-members exclusive of the two striking cross-bars used in the motor suspension. The wheel-base is 109 1-2 inches. The type of construction carries out in full the low center of gravity design, a feature of all Willys-Overland products.

MOONSHINE STORY

READING, Pa.—What the young folks do in Reading when the magic of moonshine lures them away from home we don't know, but they tell us that the old folks go to work then. Rather than submit themselves to the scorching daytime sun during a recent heat wave, farmers mowed hay by moonlight and slept in the daylight hours.

Tug of War

The 200-horsepower motor which carried Captain Charles A. Lindbergh from New York to Paris may be the most reliable aircraft power plant on the market today, but it can't out-pull the Studebaker Commander. This was established last week when an unofficial and impromptu tug of war was staged at Ashburn flying field in Chicago between an airplane equipped with the same type motor that powered Lindbergh's plane and a Commander.

Forty Gasoline Buggies Roar Through Blase Broadway

Blase Broadway woke up the other day, rubbed its eyes and pinched itself to make sure it had not been transported back to 1900 in one of H. G. Wells "time machines." There, through the heart of the "Roaring Forties" roared 40 gasoline buggies reminiscent of the days when horses and hair pins were in their prime.

The tomorrow's edition of one of the leading tabloids (out that afternoon) brought a return of sanity. It told that the oldest automobiles of the Metrolopitan district had been challenged to "strut their stuff" and that the 40 had responded to an extra shot of gas and were racing from Dyckman street to the city hall.

Like many other oldsters that have endeavored to cavort on Broadway, 16 of them ancient arks fell by the wayside. The jazz age of 1927 had proven too strenuous for their palpitating pistons and hardened gas lines. Of the 24 that finished the Oldsmobile was crowned Endurance King. Four Oldsmobiles, each past its 27th birthday, had finished among the first six winners. Even the sages of Forty-second street admitted that four out of six in the money was traveling some.

Huge Orders For New Dodge Four Received

Evidence of the public's reception of Dodge Brothers new four-cylinder line which was introduced July 17, is to be found in the large volume of orders received. On the two days immediately following the formal announcement orders were received for approximately $2,250,000 worth of new sedans alone. This was the only body type introduced.

Within a short time a coupe will be in production. Later a cabriolet roadster will be added to the line. Dealers in such cities as Boston, Brooklyn, Chicago, Cleveland, Milwaukee, St. Louis and Philadelphia report that their salesrooms have been visited by more people since the new line was introduced than upon the occasion of any previous announcement Dodge Brothers have ever made.

SALES RECORD MAY BE MADE

Stearns-Knight Head Says, "More Business"

"Indications at present point to the fact that sales of Stearns-Knight motor cars for the last six months of the year will head those of the first half period by a substantial margin, says H. J. Leonard, president of the F. B. Stearns company, of Cleveland, Ohio.

"Recent additions of strong six-cylinder line is about what it was last year at the same time and the new eight-cylindered model which was first put on the market in April is receiving an unlooked for interest.

"The recent addition of a cabriolet roadster to the line came considerably ahead of our original plans for the production of this type of car and was made necessary by continual requests for a model of these characteristics.

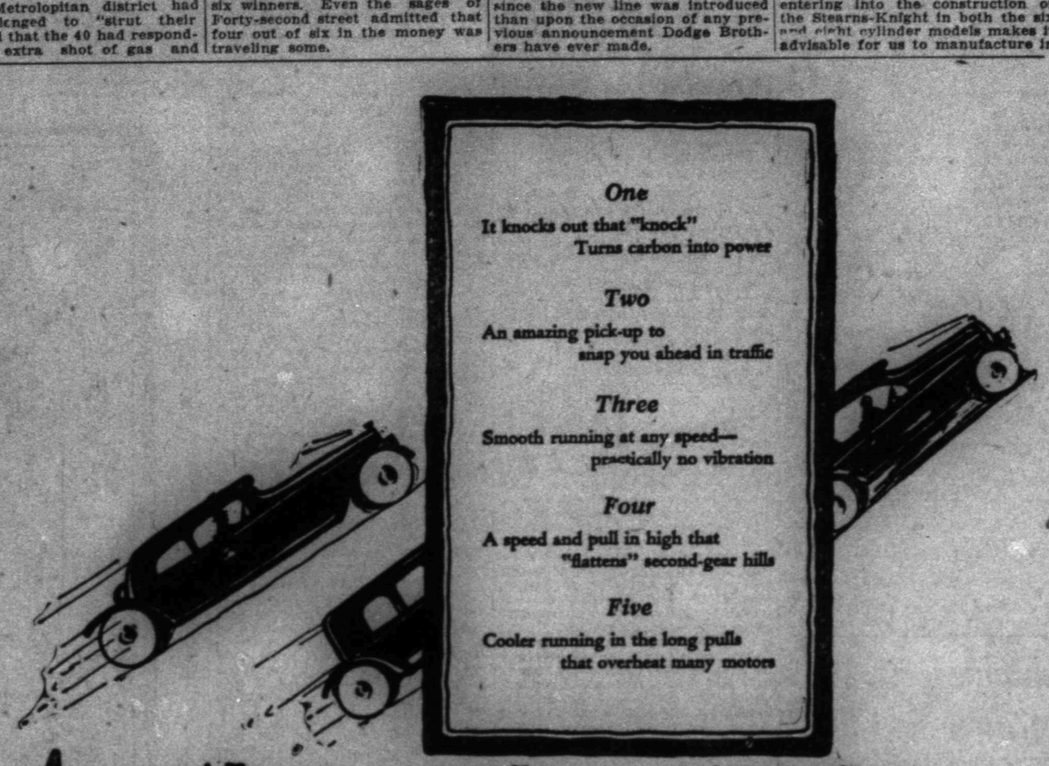

"Recent additions of strongg distributors to our field sales organization have materially added to our ability to serve the more important sales centers of the country and to expand our service facilities to take care of new and old time owners.

"The natdre of the workmanship entering into the construction of the Stearns-Knight in both the six and eight cylinder models makes it advisable for us to manufacture in limited quantities to serve a selected clientele of buyers but our manufacturing volume is being steadily expanded to meet the growing demand."

UNDERSTANDING JUDGE

CHICAGO, Ill.—Jimmy Johnson knows not only how to turn shaggy and fuzzy individuals into slick, shiny gentlemen, but he also knows their peculiar desire for a certain kind of tonic. Thus, when one entered his barber shop he was confronted with a question: "Tonic, sir?" And upon saying "Yes," a glass of the most refreshing tonic appeared immediately. But Frank Zink, a patrolman, did not have proper appreciation for this kind of refreshments and ordered the barber to appear before the judge. "Did you have a warrant?" asked the judge. "No," replied the patrolman. "Case dismissed," said the judge.

Are these advantages worth 25¢ a week to you?

YOU'LL say they are—and a great deal more! Yet you get all these advantages with Conoco Ethyl Gasoline at an average extra cost of only 25c per week.

Since they've used Conoco Ethyl Gasoline, many motorists have forgotten that their motors ever knocked—and they are pleased not only because of the smoother riding but also because Conoco Ethyl—by eliminating knocking—has saved wear and tear on the engine and thereby saved double its extra cost in overhauling bills. It is the real economy fuel—the anti-knock gasoline which has no substitute.

To be sure, regular Conoco Gasoline is the ideal gasoline for normal motoring operation, but when abnormal conditions have to be met, as, for instance, when the cylinders are choked with carbon, you need Conoco Ethyl—because the Ethyl fluid gives very definite qualities which no gasoline—Conoco or any other brand—can have without it.

To be sure, those who want anti-knock smooth motor operation under all conditions will ask for Conoco Ethyl Gasoline—at the sign of the Continental Soldier.

WHAT I FOUND AT McCLURKAN'S

Fall Tendencies In Millinery

THE very small ripple brim and brimless hats lead for fall. The latter differs in two essentials from the brimless chapeau of spring: it comes well down over the hairline at the back of the neck, so that it almost seems to rest on the shoulders, and it follows the contour of the head—a much more flattering style than the high hats of last season. Velvet promises to become the leading factor in fall millinery modes, but felts are tremendously popular for early wear. The smart Catalina California sport hats shown here are especially chic in the important blue shades.

Fall Frocks and the Coats To Wear With Them

THE revival of elegance sponsored by Paris for women's wardrobes this fall may be felt in the new frocks and coats at McClurkan's. Rich fabrics and rich colors characterize the mode and, the ensemble feeling being stronger than ever, the same colors are usually found in dresses and coats alike. Here are a few of the many: Tabac (tobacco), greywing, moonlight blue, crimson maple, Rosario and gazelle (tan). Botny flannel and jersey frocks, which are to be very smart, are just the thing for the college girl's campus wardrobe, with a satin compose suit for luncheon in town. A creation of too much beauty to be omitted is a transparent velvet printed in gorgeous autumn-leaf design. The coats are heavily furred with the usual popular furs and Eclipse Wolf.

The Season's Accessory Fancies

THE fluffier and gayer, the smarter the flower! A shoulder posy of especial seduction is the long-petaled silk bloom which in bright red resembles an exotic poppy, but is also shown at McClurkan's in nile green and other shades. It is so different—and quite sophisticated. There is a wide variety from which to choose a boutonniere that bespeaks the latest trend.

Auburn, Algerian and Malacca are three fall shades in hosiery, all tan of varied intensity. Ask for them by name and see these new shades in the Gordon shadow clocked hose, exclusive with this store.

Rio Rita Bags are the smartest and most convenient of the season. They are really fitted handbags with compact, lipstick, flaconette, comb and mirror always in place in a separate compartment, so that the beauty aids are never in the way as loose ones usually are. The Rio Rita they showed me at McClurkan's was in brown reptile and of the medium size which is to take precedence over the large bag.

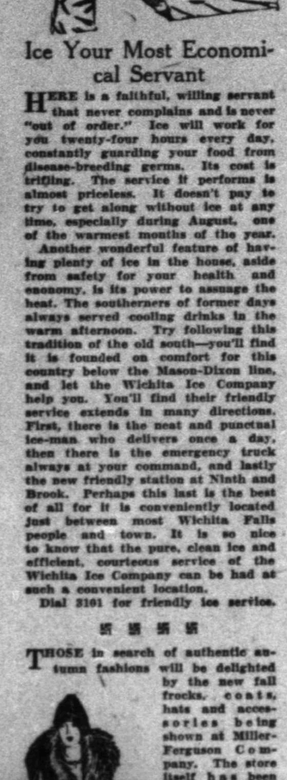

Drop by and see the fall fashions for yourself at:

W. B. McClurkan & Co

A HINT of autumn immediately reduces the wide hat brims of summer to the merest suggestion of a brim. The velvets and felts that are among the smart new arrivals at Marshall Millinery, 924 Indiana, are of the close fitting variety with several "Mephistopheles" skull-caps designed for sleek bobbed heads. Nothing is more desirable to express the winter's chic than a snug and shapely hat—you'll find it in smart colors at Marshall's.

Ice Your Most Economical Servant

HERE is a faithful, willing servant that never complains and is never "out of order." Ice will work for you twenty-four hours every day, constantly guarding your food from disease-breeding germs. Its cost is trifling. The service it performs is almost priceless. It doesn't pay to try to get along without ice at any time, especially during August, one of the warmest months of the year.

Another wonderful feature of having plenty of ice in the house, aside from safety for your health and economy, is its power to assuage the heat. The southerners of former days always served cooling drinks in the warm afternoon. Try following this tradition of the old south—you'll find it is founded on comfort for this country below the Mason-Dixon line, and let the Wichita Ice Company help you. You'll find their friendly service extends in many directions. First, there is the neat and punctual ice-man who delivers once a day, then there is the emergency truck always at your command, and lastly the new friendly station at Ninth and Brook. Perhaps this last is the best of all for it is conveniently located just between most Wichita Falls people and town. It is so nice to know that the pure, clean ice and efficient, courteous service of the Wichita Ice Company can be had at such a convenient location.

Dial 3101 for friendly ice service.

Do You Profit by What You Read?

ONE of the most important aspects of Thomas Hardy's philosophy of life as expressed in his novels is the belief in "the off chance." "In crossing a street one may sprain one's ankle, or be run over by an automobile, or encounter a book agent, or meet one's true love, or do a thousand other things; but the chances are that one will get safely over." Most of us are not so pessimistic as Mr. Hardy and prefer to believe that what really does happen is not an off chance independent of human character or will, but rather the result of our inherent qualities. And so it is with success—the successful man may have been "born under an unlucky star," but the star didn't interfere so long as he saved and invested his money properly.

We will agree with Mr. Hardy in a closing quotation, however, "Limitation and not comprehensiveness, is needed for striking a blow." If you wish to strike the blow which will bring success, don't wait for "something big," begin a systematic savings account with The North Texas Building and Loan Association now—it will be big in the end. Drop by 822 Scott for information on the various savings accounts offered.

FALL FASHIONS

Jolesch-Thomas

SHOWS some of the smartest of the new fall models in footwear. The diversity of style displayed here is the greatest I have found.

Kidskin is the chosen medium for fall, and a very wise one it seems, for kidskin has just enough lustre to be genteel and makes it easy to smartly match handbag and gloves with shoes. Jolesch-Thomas shows them in Stroller Tan and Midnight Blue. Gunmetal patent, black patent, and satin (for evening or formal afternoon wear) are also shown in styles for every type.

THE long warm days of Indian Summer are very trying days for convalescents. They welcome any break in the monotony of tossing on hot pillows and thinking perhaps of the vacations they had planned. Most welcome of all are fresh, colorful flowers—their soothing beauty and fragrance are irresistible.

The Wichita Floral Company arranges cheery boxes of summer's own flowers, gladiollas and merigolds, (or, of course, of any you may prefer) and offers gifts that will delight sick children. A doll clasping a bunch of posies, for example, will send the "frets away and leave a smile on the little face.

Flower suggestions for the ill of any age will be found at the Wichita Floral Company. Place an order today—flowers for the sick are the most thoughtful gifts of all. Flower-phone 3300.

ONE of the greatest truths and most excellent reasons for industry is found in these lines, "The supreme optimist is a fool."

Those who indulge in extravagance in prosperous times must suffer the opposite in times of need. The successful man or woman looks into the future and saves part of the money made so easily when business conditions are good, for the inevitable days when they will be bad. For optimism is like most good things—very helpful in moderation, and injurious in excess.

If past experience has made it necessary for you to retrench, take warning now and open an interest bearing account at the Wichita State Bank and Trust Company, where consistent courtesy and efficiency make it pleasant to save.

THOSE in search of authentic autumn fashions will be delighted by the new fall frocks, coats, hats and accessories being shown at Miller-Ferguson Company. The store itself has been redecorated and makes a fitting background for the stunning new merchandise. The fall showing here seems unusually complete and pleasing. It is most gratifying to find the modes advanced fashion sheets have been telling us of, realized in such a varied and carefully chosen line of high grade ready-to-wear. From the "swanky" sports coats to the "slinky" satin frocks, Miller-Ferguson's fall showing is satisfyingly smart.

ANYONE who wishes may talk about the "good old days" but it rather looks like the good days come in August, 1927, when a Whirlpool electric washer can be bought for $2.50 down and $5 per month! The old days are past when washing had to be done on a rub-board, with an aching back the result to the washer—this special offer places the wonderful energy-saving Whirlpool within the reach of all.

The Texas Electric Service Company is making this wonderful offer and at the same time another which enables you to see the worth of the machine before purchasing. They will do your next washing without cost to you in the 1900 Whirlpool washer. This washer is not only quicker, giving you more time for enjoyable pastimes, but is better. The heaviest garments and the most delicate are equally clean and undamaged after being washed in the Whirlpool. Housewives will be glad to hear that there is only one place to oil and that children playing around the Whirlpool are perfectly safe.

Have your next washing done, free of charge, in the washer that is built like a fine automobile, yet is amazingly simple in operation. You'll be delighted with the appearance of the Whirlpool, too. Call the Texas Electric Service Company for demonstration.

CHRYSLER HAS NEW MODEL

Increased Speed At Lower Prices

The Chrysler Sales Corporation announces production of the Chrysler "52." The new model includes six body types—the coupe, listed at $725; roadster, with rumble seat as standard equipment, also $725; two-door sedan, $735; four-door sedan, $795; touring, $750, and De Luxe sedan, $875. The chassis, with cowl, is priced at $525.

Description of the latest product of the Chrysler factories presents a combination of features new in this class, which, according to J. E. Fields, vice president in charge of sales, is made possible only by the operation of the famous Chrysler policy of standardized quality, with its advantage of group manufacturing and low production costs for each one of the four Chrysler models.

Outstanding among these features, as the manufacturers explain them, are a speed of 52 miles and more per hour; acceleration from 5 to 25 miles in eight seconds; exceptional roominess and riding comfort; seating equipment of remarkable quality; beauty of external contour and color harmonies in the latest styles, and a degree of handling ease and economy of operation said to be of a very unusual character.

Graham Trucks "Right at Start"

This is a fundamental policy of Graham Brothers in the building of motor trucks. It means not only that every part going into the truck must be right from the very beginning of its manufacture, but that the whole truck is right and ready for service when it reaches the buyer.

Guarding the qualities of dependability, strength and long-life in every Graham Brothers truck is a corps of highly trained inspectors which in itself would form a large organization. These inspectors make more than a quarter million "checks" or inspections daily.

To follow the course of a single part through Graham Brothers plants is to encounter a seemingly endless series of "checks." The inspections begin before the raw materials enter the factories. Metallurgists and chemists in Dodge Brothers and Graham Brothers chemical and physical testing laboratories analyze each lot of iron, alloy steel and other materials entering into the completed truck. If it doesn't come up to Graham Brothers rigid requirements, it is rejected.

In the huge forge shops and foundries, more "checks" meet the materials. Testing machines of many tons capacity tear forgings apart or crush castings to fragments to determine ultimate strength. Then the laboratories step in again, retesting and submitting the materials to microscopic examination.

In the machine shops, precision is guarded by inspectors at every turn. So complete are the means for checking the quality of workmanship that every part meets blueprint specifications before it reaches the assemblers.

Assembly inspectors check each operation. High class workmanship is required and given by the assembly men.

With this multiplicity of inspections it would seem that the manufacturers might be satisfied that everything possible had been done to insure quality. But it is not enough for Graham Brothers trucks. Each one must give a performance demonstration to skilled mechanics on a special test track. Then it is again the subject of critical examination.

U. S. Army Officers Prefer Willys-Knight

United States army officers, especially those in the air service and the engineering divisions of Uncle Sam's fighting forces, are showing a distinct preference for Knight engined cars, according to officials of the Willys-Overland company, at Toledo, Ohio. The popular car with these officers, factory sales officials say, is the "70" Willys-Knight Six.

Scores of these army officers, many of whom rank high in the service, come to Toledo to take personal delivery of their cars, and in many instances take them to the outposts of the country, and frequently to posts in the Philippines and Hawaii.

The fact that such a large number of army officers, many of them highly trained technicians and experts in gasoline engines, show a preference for the "70" Willys-Knight, is accepted as a tribute to the unusual engineering features embraced.

Average Person "Hoofs It" Eight Miles Every Day

DALLAS, Aug. 13. (AP)—The average person walks eight miles a day. A housekeeper, without leaving the house, walks every year the distance equal to that from Dallas to Boston and return. A woman shopper in Dallas during the Christmas season walked 11 miles in one day.

These and many more strange things about walking have been revealed in a national survey of foot mileage through the use of pedometers, Dr. Joseph Lelyveld of Boston, executive director of the National Association of Foot Health, said here recently at the National Chiropodists' association meeting.

Some interesting results were obtained from tests in New York, Boston, Cleveland, Dallas and several other cities, Dr. Lelyveld said. Some of the results he enumerated.

The average distance walked in a day is 19,093 steps, or 7 7-8 miles. A business man every three or four weeks walks farther than from Dallas to New York. This does not include the walking he does when away from business.

On average shopping days, the woman shopper does about 8 1-2 miles through the stores. A school girl at school and at play averages 17 1-2 a day. A boy does 15 miles a day.

A doctor in a hospital walked 18 miles in a day, using his automobile when out of doors. A salesgirl walked eight miles in a day. From 11 in the morning until 9 o'clock at night a steward in a grill room walked 13 1-2 miles.

On a run from Boston to Cleveland a conductor walked seven miles picking up tickets. Yet from Boston to Chicago he walked but five miles, although he walked nine miles on a run from Boston to New York. The difference was due to the fewer stops made.

Some other walks were cited.

Seventy-five miles in a week was the distance covered by a salesman.

A letter carrier walked 22 miles in a day, a department store buyer, seven, and a golfer during 18 holes walked 8 1-2 miles. Girls in business offices walked 57 miles in a week, and a stenographer walked 43 miles in a week, although riding to and from work. A dancer in an act in the theater, walked a mile, and a chorus girl registered 4 1-2 miles a day.

Former T. U. Instructor At Denton College

AUSTIN, Aug. 13.—Miss Ola Johnston of Burke, who during the past long session of the University of Texas was instructor in zoology, will teach during the coming year in the North Texas State Teachers' college at Denton. Miss Johnston is a graduate of the University of Texas, having received both her bachelor and master of arts degrees. She taught zoology in the university during the first term of the summer session and is at present teaching in the Stephen F. Austin State Teachers' college at Nacogdoches.

Quitaque Gins Preparing For Season

QUITAQUE, Aug. 13.—The cotton gins are repairing and getting ready for this crop, which is expected to be a fair yield. Mr. Ed Grundy the manager of the Quitaque Gin company states that he has several workmen repairing his gin, to the extent of, installing burr extractors, two new cleaners, new droppers and many other equipments that is essential for an up-to-date gin. He says the installing and making the necessary repairing will cost approximately $8,000.

CHICKEN FARM AHOY!

CAPE MAY, N. J.—Jeremiah Pratt, 74-year-old seaman, did not care a bit if the 28-pound lump of ambergris, which he found 15 miles off shore, did not smell fragrantly. He could stand most anything as long as he could buy a chicken farm and retire. He'd even take the smelling mass himself to the perfumers to be turned into delicate scents, and for which they were to pay $448 a pound, or a total of $12,500.

TO MAKE WAR ON ROOT ROT

Pathologists Train Guns On Cotton Disease

COLLEGE STATION, Aug. 8. (AP)—Cotton root rot, the bane of the cotton farmer along with the boll weevil, cotton fleas and other plant enemies, is due for a jolt at the hands of pathologists connected with the Texas agricultural experiment station, A. and M. college of Texas. It may take some time for the pathologists to get the range but they announce that they have their guns trained in its general vicinity with a prospect that a new method of attack may be worked out.

Hitherto it has been established that cotton root rot has been spread by contact of diseased roots with roots of other suspectible plants. Now comes B. F. Dana, plant pathologist with headquarters at the Temple substation, and reports discovery of spores or seed stages of the fungus that causes the disease.

It has been known for several years that the fungus have spores or seed stages but they have been observed only rarely in Texas. Some were found several years ago at Paris, and recently at Balmorhea, Texas, in the Pecos valley and in the lower Rio Grande valley. Those from Temple, however, are the first reported from the central Texas black land section where root rot is prevalent.

Possibility that these spores contribute to spread of the diseases is being given experimental attention at the experiment station under direction of Dr. J. J. Taubenhaus, chief of the plant pathology division. He has already established that cotton root rot is spread by contact and cultural practices have been worked out to check it to some degree; but if the spread also occurs through spores, as now seems likely, a new character of attack must be worked out to control the disease. Spores taken from the garden of Dr. O. W. Silvey on the campus of the college this season are supplying abundant material in studies of the problem.

Recent legislative appropriations have enabled a large force of specialists to concentrate on the problem, each step in the solution of which is being carefully recorded.

27 Candidates Apply For Major Examinations

AUSTIN, Aug. 13.—There are 27 candidates for bachelor of arts degrees with English or comparative literature as their major who applied for the four-hour major examination at the University of Texas, according to Dr. J. B. Wharey, acting chairman of the English department during the second term of the summer session. Students in the university are required to pass a general four-hour written examination on their major subject before they get their bachelor's degrees. The faculty in making out this examination take into account not only the particular courses elected by the student during his enrollment in the university but expect a mature and comprehensive knowledge of the subject.

REARRANGE GROCERY.

QUITAQUE, Aug. 9.—Henderson Cash Grocery has rearranged his grocery store and interior of building, so as to make it on the order of a self-serving system. Mr. Henderson says he will make larger grocery purchases, as he has much more room to display his stock. He says his business has increased about 35 per cent in the last 30 days.

FLYING SCHOOL GETS CADETS

Dallas Men Organize Cadet Association

DALLAS, Aug. 13. (AP)—The Aviation Cadets of America, an organization formed here to teach aviation to the youth of the country, is being rapidly developed.

Recruits are being enlisted for the program which includes aviation ground work, the assembling of the framework of planes, engines, fueling, map reading, navigation and other branches connecting with the art of flying.

John W. Philp, Dallas postmaster, is national president of the organization, and Capt. W. H. Scott, Dallas, is secretary. Martin Weiss is acting as treasurer. Mayor R. E. Burk of Dallas, is vice president, and B. B. Owen, president of the Dallas Flying club, was appointed as chief pilot.

The advisory board includes Maj. Josef H. Noyes, Maj. F. H. Blake, Jack Moran, W. C. Barnes, Lloyd Long, Capt. J. H. Freeze, Tom Hardin, J. C. Thompson, L. O. Thompson, L. O. Donald and Grady Niblo, all of Dallas.

Offices have been opened and No. 1 Oak Cliff squadron has been formed, two of the cadets already being in charge of the field.

Recruits must pass mental and physical examinations before they are allowed to enlist and all minors must have the consent of their parents.

These young embryo fliers will compose the guard of honor for Col. Charles A. Lingbergh when he visits Dallas in September.

They will wear snappy officers uniforms, with the open fronted tunic, khaki shirts and tie, field service cap, Bedford cord riding breeches, black leggins and belt. Insignas of the corps will be worked in on the cap and jacket.

To Study Citizens Of Mexican Descent

AUSTIN, Aug. 13.—A series of studies of Mexicans living in Texas, or more particularly, the so-called "Tejanos," Texas citizens of Mexican descent, are being begun by members of the department of economics and sociology of the University of Texas. These sociological studies, according to Dr. W. E. Gettys, chairman of the department, will deal particularly with the integration of original Mexican settlers into various communities of the state. Some of this survey has already been made in San Antonio by Dr. Max S. Handman, professor of sociology in the university, according to Dr. Gettys. Other studies have been made in the same city by graduate students of the university.

PURCHASE MERCHANDISE.

QUITAQUE, Aug. 9.—Mr. and Mrs. G. Tunnell have gone to Dallas where they will make purchases for their fall and winter merchandise of dry goods. They will make fancy selections, that will be of the very latest styles, in the dry goods line.

Furniture Store In Old Church

Old quarters of the Star Furniture company, established in the First Baptist church, 922 Indiana, in 1912. The steeple of the church shown in the picture, was later removed.

Improvement on their former quarters at 922 Indiana avenue, and addition of more floor space proving unsatisfactory for the increasing volume of business, the Star Furniture company officials Saturday announced their intentions of moving their quarters to a new and larger location at 916-918 Scott. The move probably will be effected about September 1 and preparations are now under way for the change.

Beginning Monday and continuing until September 1 furniture in the old building will be sold at reductions in a removal sale, staged to make the move more efficacious.

The business was inaugurated here in 1912 by John Man, owner, who dealt in the beginning strictly with repair and refinishing work. Building his business alogs substantial lines, the owner in the course of years branched out to the ownership of another store at 716-718 Scott, which was opened in 1918; and is now preparing to put final touches to a new and bigger store.

W. H. Ehlert, manager of the old store for the last five years, will continue in the same capacity with the opening of the new.

A much larger stock will be carried by the firm in the new location, Mr. Man announced, and the added floor space will accomodate much more attractive floor displays.

Four Thousand Farmers Attend A. and M. Agricultural Course

COLLEGE STATION, Aug. 13. (AP)—Four thousand farm men, women, boys and girls who attended the eighteenth annual farmer's short course in July at A. and M. college here, looked upon the training as an avenue for greater service to humanity and not as a means of escape from arduous labor, according to President T. O. Walton.

His pungent comment was that "these people were serious and earnest and partook of the educational programs prepared for them in a manner which speaks well for the improved farm and home conditions. As a class these farm people looked upon training of the head, heart and hand as a medium of preparing them for greater efficiency in service to the home, community and humanity; and they must perforce become the leaders and the trained followers of the future as contrasted with those who looked upon education as a means of escaping arduous labor."

The reaction of Charles H. Alvord, director of the extension service and the farmer's short course, was that those who attended carried home "a broader vision and outlook upon the great possibilities of the development of the resources and expansion of the opportunities for Texas people and those from other sections of the nation who may choose to locate here."

More than 1600 farm boys and girls took an active interest in the program and will carry back to more than 25,000 club members in the state the benefits of the training and inspiration they received.

For allowing his chimney to be on fire, a chimney-sweep was fined in a Leicester, England, court recently.

Questionaires Mailed C. I. A. Ex-Students

DENTON, Aug. 13.—Letters in the form of questionnaires are being mailed ex-students this week by Miss Ruth Knox, secretary to the Ex-Student association at the College of Industrial Arts. These letters, when returned, will contain a complete brief survey of the ex-students work since leaving the college. Space is provided for addresses of other former students.

Of the eighteen thousands ex-students of the college, Miss Knox has filed, with their addresses, between eighteen hundred and two thousand names. Not all of these, however, are paid up members of the association.

A complete file of paid members will be completed this week.

WILL IMPROVE BAPTIST CAMP

Plan to Expend Several Thousand Dollars

ALPINE, Aug. 13. (AP)—Improvements entailing the expenditure of several thousand dollars are planned to be made at the Paisano Baptist encampment grounds, eleven miles west of Alpine, before the opening of next year's session, it was stated at the close of the sixth annual meeting, just held. A free-will offering has been taken and approximately $13,000 or more was subscribed. The members of the board of directors gave $8,900 of this amount. A part of this sum will be used to pay off the debt against the encampment grounds and the remainder, after operating expenses have been paid, will go toward making more permanent improvements, it was stated. Among the things planned for the year is a modern sewerage system to be installed on the grounds in the near future. A number of new cottages are being built and others will be built during the year by various individuals.

At a recent meeting of the directors plans for the next encampment were made and the following officers and directors elected:

Rev. L. R. Millican, president; J. M. Garner, Del Rio; Buren Sparks, Alpine; George F. Brown, Midland; I. V. Garrison, Pecos; L. E. Frazier, Fort Stockton; T. V. Neal, El Paso; vice presidents, E. C. Easterling, Del Rio; secretary, S. F. Marsh, Marfa, assistant; H. L. Kokernot Sr., Alpine, treasurer.

A board of directors composed of the following was recommended: H. L. Kokernot Sr., chairman; A. C. Easterling, secretary; J. C. Hunter, H. L. Kokernot Jr., Rev. Buren Sparks, Alpine; B. B. McCutcheon, W. W. McCutcheon, Fort Davis; John Z. Means, Abilene; Dr. T. V. Neal, El Paso; J. B. Moore, Del Rio; J. M. Garner, Del Rio; D. M. Bennett, Alpine; Stanley Wilson, Fort Stockton; C. T. Mitchell, W. H. Colquitt, J. C. Fuller, Rev. S. F. Marsh, Marfa; W. F. Easterling, Del Rio; Dr. I. E. Gates, San Antonio; Rev. L. R. Millican, El Paso; Rev. George F. Brown, Midland; T. G. Hendrick, John M. Gist, Odessa; Rev. I. V. Garrison, Pecos; A. C. Hoover, Ozona; Mr. Akin, Odessa; Rev. L. E. Frazier, W L. Ross.

New Citizen Likes Wichita

"Like Wichita Falls? I'll say we like it," said E. C. Ricker yesterday. Mr. Ricker is a partner in the firm of Yates and Ricker, Inc., which is now located in Wichita Falls at 909 Eighth street.

The business of this firm is selling G-E electric refrigerators. And while they have only had their doors open here since the first of August they report much progress.

Mr. Ricker came up from Dallas where he was connected with the Texas Power and Light company. Prior to being in Dallas he was with the General Electric company at Schnectady for four years.

"I'd like to correct one impression that some people may have," stated Mr. Ricker, "and that is that the G-E electric refrigerator is a new product. It is new in this market but it has been in the process of perfection at the General Electric company for the past 15 years. It represents 15 years of work and scientific research by the many experts employed by that large organization.

PLAN TEXAS ZONE SURVEY

League of Texas Cities Will Conduct Work

HOUSTON, Aug. 13. (AP)—A zoning survey is planned for Texas cities by the league of Texas Muncipalities, Harvey W. Draper, executive secretary of the league, has announced.

The organization is planning to to add to its staff men who will be qualified to make zoning surveys and advise cities in carrying out their zoning plans in accord with laws recently passed by the legislature and along plans that will conform with those recommended by the highest authorities on city planning.

"This service is only for the league members," said Mr. Draper, "City planning for Texas cities will be handled in such a way as to get full advantage of similar efforts that have been put forth by various municipal leagues of America, always with a view of avoiding errors made in past city planning efforts in other states.

"Arrangements have recently been made with municipal engineering firm to conduct a department each month in the organization's official magazine and municipal engineering problems will be delt with in this column by a reputable municipal engineer who is amply qualified to render answers to practically every engineering problem that may confront any Texas municipality. This service goes with membership in the league.

Feast Of Aisumption To Be Observed Monday

TO TALK PLANS FOR CHURCH

South Side Methodists To Consider Building

Methodists residing on the south side of Wichita Falls have been invited to attend a mass meeting on Sunday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock at Sibley-Taylor park on Princeton street, for the purpose of discussing with the recently appointed building committee the prospects for the erection of a new Methodist church in that vicinity.

The meeting will be in charge of W. A. Lynn, chairman of the building committee, and several other speakers will address the audience on the feasibility of the plan.

The urgent need of a church for the accommodation of south side residents has led the building committee to take prompt action in soliciting the aid of residents of the vicinity for the erection of the church, it was said.

Keep Away from Calomel!! It is Quicksilver—Mercury

Never take calomel. It is mercury—a dangerous drug. If you are constipated, bilious, sick, headachy, stomach sour, meals don't taste right, hot days make you drowsy and lazy, take Dodson's Liver Tone. That's all you need.

Calomel salivates. That's why you have to take salts the next day to get it out of your system so it will not eat your bones. You have to stay at home a day to recuperate from the shock it gives you. No wonder Dodson's Liver Tone is so popular. All you do is take a spoonful at night. By morning you are cleaned out good, head is clear, you feel as light as a feather; you are not sick, no danger of salivation, and you can eat anything you want. Think of that.

Get the big bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone from your nearest store. They all have it. Keep it in the house so you will have it handy to take nights before going to bed. —Adv.

The Way to Keep Cool IN AUGUST

The problem of what to eat and what to serve vanishes when one remembers Colvert's Ice Cream.

For Colvert's is the ideal food and refreshment for hot, summer weather.

The many flavors, the delicacy of blend, the wholesomeness, makes Colvert's the favored dessert among discriminating people—throughout West Texas.

Colvert's Vanilla Ice Cream Always Good

There is a good reason why housewives and society women choose COLVERT'S ICE CREAM as the favored dessert. It is "correct" and always in good taste.

A telephone call to your Colvert dealer and within a very few minutes you will be serving this wonderful dessert — no matter how unexpectedly friends drop in.

Has the Human Body Really Reached Its Speed Limit?

Sculptured Head of a Runner Made by Dr. R. Tait McKenzie, Professor of Physical Education, University of Pennsylvania, Shows the Features Expressing the Effects of Fatigue and Rebellion Against Effort.

Supreme Effort Is Expressed in the Face of These Runners Delivering Their Last Ounce of Energy in a Final Burst of Speed. It Is Estimated That a Man Uses Nine Horse-Power of Energy in Running 100 Yards in 10 Seconds.

Another Sculptured Head of an Athlete, Also Made by Professor McKenzie, Shows the Runner in State of Utter Exhaustion with the Muscles Inert and Incapable of Stimulation.

How a Study of the Effects of Violent Effort and of Fatigue Show That It May Be Impossible to Break Some Athletic Records.

HAS the human body reached its speed limit? Yes, practically, science answers to this question, basing the reply on studies of the effects of violent effort and of fatigue.

Professor A. V. Hill, the English expert in physiology, who recently completed a series of experiments to test the powers of endurance of the body, concludes that it is unlikely that sprinters, for example, will ever be able to break present records to any appreciable extent—perhaps in hundredths of a second—scarcely more. Professor Hill backs up his ideas by experiments made with new timing devices of his own invention, which measure the characteristics of an athlete in the expenditure of energy and calculate his speed.

When Charles W. Paddock, the California sprinter, famous as "the fastest human," not so long ago ran 100 yards in 9 5-10 seconds, he established a new American record, clipping one-tenth of a second off the mark set by Arthur Duffy a quarter of a century ago. To do that, Paddock had to travel at the lively rate of twenty-four and one-half miles an hour. Is that close to the speed limit of the human runner?

It may be, according to Prof. Hill, whose findings, taken in conjunction with an ingenious timing method, may result in proving that in some of the shorter running events the best athletes have come so close to the human speed limit that future record breaking is likely to be in hundredths, rather than fifths or tenths, of a second.

Prof. Hill's timing method, as described in Popular Science Monthly, consists of wire coils alongside the track at the starting line, at the finish and at intermediate points. The runner carries, attached to his waist by a tape, a small piece of magnetized hack-saw blade, and when he passes a coil a current is induced in it, and a galvanometer attached to the coil is deflected. These deflections are recorded on moving photographic paper. The timing slips provide a detailed and easily understood record of the athlete's performance, even showing when the runner "beats the gun" by about a tenth of a second.

Experiments showed that with all the sprinters examined it took, at the start, about one-tenth of a second for the runner to flash the order "Go!" from his mind to his muscles. A runner who did the sixty yards in 7 and 56-100 seconds reached maximum speed at some moment between twenty and thirty yards, which seems to be the case with all sprinters. His last ten yards as a whole were the fastest. He covered them in 99-100 second.

"A runner," Professor Hill explains, "is subject to a retarding influence proportional to his velocity. The faster he runs, the greater the resistance he must overcome.

"A sprinter capable of running 100 yards in record time would perform work equal to that required to lift himself 300 feet or more in the air. In running 100 yards in ten seconds a man uses nine horse-power of energy.

"This tremendous expenditure of energy supplies scientific basis for the belief, expressed by many prominent track coaches, that, when the present sprint records are beaten, it will be by fractions of a second so small that they can be recorded only by electric timing apparatus.

"Muscles contract and relax rapidly when a runner is traveling at high speed," Professor Hill continues. "Lactic acid—a product of muscular fatigue—is manufactured at the rate of three or four grams a second, and one and one-half ounces of this comparatively strong acid in the muscles at the end of a fast 100 yards will result in a considerable falling off in speed. Four ounces is enough to stop the athlete completely.

"A runner must pay a tremendous price in energy for even a slight increase in speed. At high speeds most of the mechanical energy developed by the muscles is absorbed by internal friction. Only a small part is available to move the body forward.

"It is improbable that athletes of the future will be able to improve greatly on the starting speed of the present record holders. The strain on muscles and tendons already is tremendous. Once a sprinter has attained his maximum speed, the remaining distance to be run is so short that it is difficult for him to increase his speed greatly. For these reasons I do not think that there will be any startling lowering of records in the sprint distances.

"In the longer runs a man's probable speed limit for any given distance may be determined by his oxygen-borrowing capacity.

"To perform work, a muscle must have oxygen. But it is not necessary that this should come from the outer air. The muscles can use stored energy as an electric motor uses stored electricity. They are able to 'borrow' oxygen, and replace it after the effort has been made and the athlete is resting.

"In the sprints the athlete runs almost entirely on stored energy and breathing is of slight importance. In the longer runs the athlete's ability to borrow oxygen and repay it later is an index to his ability as a runner.

"The maximum oxygen intake of a runner is about three and one-half quarts a minute, and the maximum energy storage capacity is about thirteen quarts. This gives a total oxygen capacity of about sixteen and one-half quarts. An athlete running at top speed can use up all his available energy in a little more than 300 yards. When he has done so, total exhaustion is at hand."

When it comes to motor-car racing it is even predicted that a much greater speed cannot be obtained than that made recently by Major H. O. D. Segrave in his racing motor-car "Mystery" on Daytona Beach, Florida, when he made 203 miles an hour, and, with the wind, over 207 miles an hour.

American psychologists think that in a trained man like Major Segrave it takes about four-tenths of a second for an order from the brain to reach the muscles and contract them. Now in this time the "Mystery" would run over a hundred feet—far enough for it to leave the track altogether.

It is doubted whether a man can keep his attention thus on the stretch for very long. The mechanical speed may increase but that of the psychologic reaction cannot. One limits the other and will bring the "record-breaking" business to an end for good, psychologists believe.

The most violent material strain in this wonderful experiment on Daytona Beach was doubtless that felt by the wheels, due to the centrifugal force. The manufacturers tested their tires, it is said, by revolving them at speeds corresponding to 300 to 400 kilometers an hour. At 400 the tires burst into fragments.

Tests show that the strain on the engineer and the pilot have nearly reached the breaking point and that it would be useless to go much further. Such experiments have only two possible issues—success or death.

Cause of "Bloody Rains"

WHEN a so-called "bloody rain" fell in southern France recently scientists were enabled to explain this mystery which, since ancient times, has terrorized superstitious people.

Drops of the red rain in this instance were put under the microscope and found to contain colored dust from the Sahara Desert.

Vari-colored rains also have been recorded, frequently, from white, due to chalky earth, to "ink," due to smoke or soot. "Yellow rain" has been traced to pine tree pollen.

It has also been found that volcanic eruptions, and possibly meteoric dust from shooting stars, have at other times produced colored raindrops. Sometimes the fluid deposited by certain butterflies just before they take flight for the first time leaves a "bloody rain," of red drops spattered over rocks and earth. Rains of various colors are not the only mysterious showers, for there are records of fish and frogs, falling from the sky when tornadoes or waterspouts passed over shallow water and sucked them aloft. A reported rain of frogs was traced to torrential rains that washed away a muddy layer of earth and exposed a vast number of frogs that had lain buried in the ooze.

"Ozalid" a Substitute for Blue Print Paper

A NEW photographic print paper which is meant especially for industrial drawings and diagrams, is called "ozalid," and is to be used in the same manner as ordinary blue-print paper, so widely used by artists, architects, engineers and mechanical draftsmen.

Ozalid is a positive paper presenting the design in dark chestnut-brown lines on a white background. It is capable of dry development within a few minutes by merely being exposed to the fumes of ammonia.

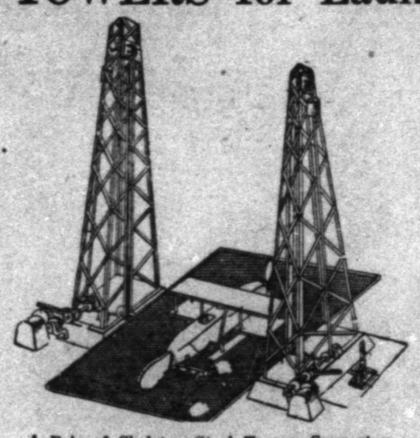

The exposure is made in the same manner as that of ferro-prussiate and similar papers, the required time of exposure being practically the same as that of the best blue-print papers, or from one-seventh to one-eighth as long as the time required by other positive papers. But instead of being developed by water, it appears that ammonia vapor must be used.

In order to develop it, it is necessary to place the printed paper in any sort of receptacle in the presence of ammonia vapors given off from an aqueous solution having a concentration of 20 to 25 per cent. The container, however, should be made in such a manner that when it is opened the ammonia fumes, which are lighter than air, are prevented from escaping in a way to annoy the operator.

The reproduction presents a faithful image of the original plan without variation or shrinking. Annotations made with a lead pencil are as visible as on plain white paper, and wash drawings may be made as readily as on ordinary drawing paper. Moreover, since the design can be corrected either by rubbing out part of it or by adding new lines with a special ink, any drawing can be completed or corrected without touching the original print.

Ozalid remains constantly flexible and resistant, which facilitates its use not only in schools or laboratories, but also in workshops and studios.

TOWERS for Launching AIRPLANES

A Pair of Skeleton Steel Towers Support a Platform Which Can Be Raised and Lowered by Cables.

FOR the launching and landing of airplanes large spaces are usually demanded; which fact is of serious importance in view of the rapid devolpment of flying. It suggests a problem which eventually may approach in difficulty that of finding parking room for motor vehicles.

A Cuban inventor of Havana, Federico G. Diago, believes that a solution for this problem is provided by an apparatus which he has newly patented in the United States. It is a pair of skeleton steel towers, supporting a platform which can be raised and lowered by steel cables and a couple of hoisting machines.

The platform, elevated to a suitable height, strongly braced, which carries a sheet of wire fabric to provide a surface for the plane to rest upon. If thought preferable, the wire fabric may be connected to the frame by heavy springs.

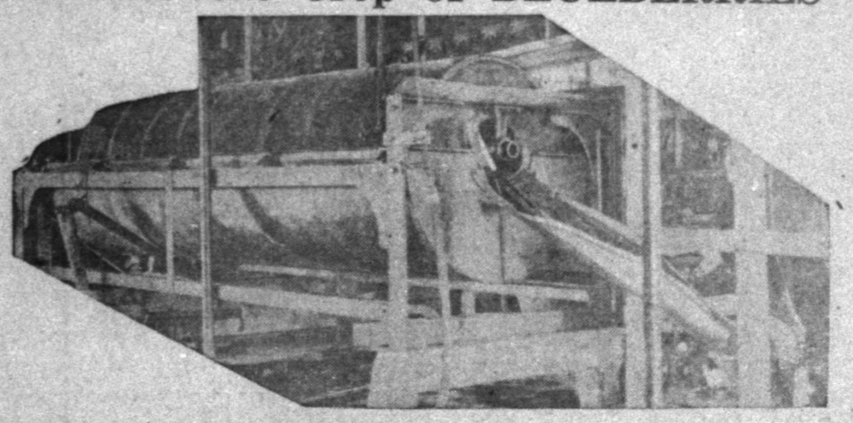

The platform, elevated to a suitable height, affords in a restricted space opportunities for "taking off" or landing. Lowered to the ground level, it takes the airplane aboard and hoists it to the requisite elevation. When the plane returns, the apparatus is ready to receive it, thereupon lowering it to the ground.

For proper use of the apparatus, certain requisite modifications in the construction of planes are specified. Thus the flying machine should be provided with a toothed "gripper," to engage the wire net, which the inventor describes. The gripper is operated by a handle. A forward movement of the gripper causes it to seize the wire fabric; a reverse movement disengages it.

If preferred, the platform may have a guard to engage a bumper on the plane, to prevent premature flying off, the chassis of the machine carrying stout steel skids in place of the usual landing gear.

Preferably the towers should be mounted on a turntable, the latter on rollers riding on a truck and driven by gearing which is in turn driven by a motor.

SAVING the Crop of BLUEBERRIES

The Blueberries Are Revolved in Hollow Wire Screen Cylinders Partly Submerged in Tanks of Water to Separate the Good Fruit from the Bad.

BLUEBERRIES are a much more important crop than is commonly supposed. In the State of Maine a million dollars' worth of them are put up in cans in a good season, and great numbers of people derive from them the bulk of their income.

Unfortunately, the blueberry is attacked by a bad insect, a small dark fly which lays its eggs in the fruit. Maggots hatched from the eggs make the berries unfit for food. Last year the infestation was so bad that it was feared the crop would be to a great extent a loss, inasmuch as the Pure Food Law forbids the canning of unwholesome material, and no way was known to separate the damaged blueberries from the good ones.

The crop was saved, however, by an invention which was developed at the United States Bureau of Chemistry. An ingenious yet simple machine, handling the berries in quantity, washes out the unfit ones and delivers the sound ones ready for canning.

The berries, as delivered at the cannery, are revolved in hollow wire-screen cylinders which are partly submerged in tanks of water. Those that are maggoty or otherwise defective are broken up by the attrition and, tending to settle to the bottom, are carried off by drain-pipes. The sound ones pass out through a chute at the end of each cylinder.

One such machine, with a single cylinder, will deal effectively with 350 to 500 bushels of berries in a day. The invention is not patented, and has already been generally adopted for use by the canneries. It means safety for the future of the much esteemed blueberry pie.

"DRY ICE" for Preserving FOOD

THE expectation seems to be that "dry ice" will soon be used for sending packages of perishable foodstuffs through the parcel post or by express. It is carbonic acid snow, which, pressed into blocks, weighs seventy pounds per cubic feet, as compared with fifty-seven pounds for frozen water. Dry ice does not melt, it merely evaporates. A cubic foot of it yields more than twice as much cold as a like quantity of water ice.

The vapor, as it comes from the dry ice, is at 109 degrees below the Fahrenheit zero. This kind of ice can be used in fibre containers.

The vapor is 50 per cent heavier than air. Accordingly, in making carload shipments of fish, a plan recommended is to crush the dry ice and throw it over the top of the load, afterwards sealing all openings in the car to prevent the vapor from escaping.

Why the Latest Vanderbilt Bride Laughs at Mama

Very Emphatic Parallel Between the Heiress' Forbidden "Elopement" and Her Mother's Love-Match with the General Which His Family Opposed 31 Years Ago.

According to Her Brother, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., a Staff of Butlers and Other Servants in Grace Vanderbilt's Home Had Strict Orders to Supervise the Heiress' Comings and Goings. In Spite of Their Vigilance, However, She Managed to Slip Out Now and Then, to Meet Her Fiance.

Rare, Quaint Photo of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, When, As Grace Wilson, She Became Engaged to the General, 31 Years Ago, Despite His Family's Disapproval.

WHEN Grace Vanderbilt, youngest darling of the "uncrowned aristocracy of America," married Henry Gassaway Davis without her parents' consent, the mouth of Mama Vanderbilt compressed itself into a stern little knot.

Society chroniclers of Fifth Avenue noted the fact. But another equally significant fact they overlooked was that, when Grace was told that her mother was much annoyed by the nuptials, the daughter's lips curved ever so faintly into a cryptic smile.

What caused this fugitive ghost of a smile? Was there a hint of mockery, of defiance, in it? Or was "Gracie" merely thinking that her own rapid-fire romance had provided an almost exact parallel to that of her disapproving parent?

Grace Vanderbilt, fabulously rich heiress and daughter of General Cornelius Vanderbilt, "pulled a fast one" on her surprised family when she "eloped" to the New York City Municipal Building with Young Davis, a mining engineer of good family and considerable wealth, but "not in the Vanderbilt class."

When they read of it in the newspapers, persons with long, tentacle-like memories nodded their heads and murmured: "History's repeating itself." They recalled, through the mists of the years, that socially historic day when the then Grace Wilson wedded "Corny" Vanderbilt without his parents' consent.

For the same sort of protesting stir arose over the Vanderbilt-Wilson marriage as arose over the Davis-Vanderbilt match! "Like mother, like daughter," the wiseacres whispered.

"Corny's" wooing of Grace Wilson had been carried on against the wishes of most of the Vanderbilts. His marriage to her resulted in his estrangement from many of the clan and his forfeiture of a large part of his inheritance. Objections to the match were based, mainly, on Miss Wilson's "background." Her family position, while substantial, was thought to be just a shade below the Vanderbilt grade.

Then, too, there was the fact that the bride was the groom's senior by eleven years. Also her father had a predilection for racing thoroughbreds—a fad that had not then received the official stamp of the "400's" approval.

But in spite of these barriers, "Corny" Vanderbilt, anticipating his daughter's independence of action by thirty-one years, laughed at opposition and, after several postponements, finally married the beautiful lady of his choice. And Society, today, finds it just a bit ironic that this same lady, after the passage of a good many years, should have scowled over her daughter Grace's unexpected selection of a mate.

The sheck to the public when Grace chose a handsome and brilliant American, instead of a crowned head or a foreign title, was keen. For Grace has been rumored engaged to many a British or Continental notable, and it was generally thought that nothing short of a duke would be good enough for her.

Mama Vanderbilt's gilt-edge invasion of London society for several seasons past is still the talk of why of their courtship aroused much speculation among the general public, but little was authentically known of it till Grace's brother, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., opened his lips and cast a surprisingly full flood of light on the romance.

Grace had met Davis at a party given by a well-known publisher in Washington. Of this meeting, her brother gave the following account:

"To use a trite expression," he said, "it was a case of love at first sight. The instance of their meeting is interesting. The hostess had asked Mr. Davis, along with several other young men, to be particularly nice to certain girls. Among the three girls that my brother-in-law was to take charge of, none of whom he had seen, was my sister.

"But he did not meet her when he first came in. He saw a girl dancing with another man who was slightly under the weather from too much indulgence in a hip-flask. Wishing to rescue her from what was evidently an embarrassing situation, he cut in and danced with her.

"He told this young lady that he was supposed to look after three girls, but he hadn't found them yet, and that he would much prefer if he could dance and talk with her. This girl was my sister, Grace."

Three months after their meeting, young Davis asked Vanderbilt Senior's consent to his marriage with the daughter. Vanderbilt expressed no decided rancor against the match, but asked the young people to wait for three months before formally announcing their engagement. Rumors of Grace's betrothal to the Prince of Wales had been whispered previously by people in the know, and it now appears likely that some of the Vanderbilts hoped, after the three months "probationary period," to announce Grace's engagement to the heir to the British throne.

It is known that the Prince had accepted Mrs. Vanderbilt's invitation to board her yacht, the "Atlantic," at Halifax on August 15 and go to Newport, where it was believed that the engagement would be announced.

Meanwhile Grace's interest in Henry Davis continued and reports of their engagement sifted into the English newspapers, where they may or may not have been seen by His Royal Highness. At any rate he changed his plans and cabled Mrs. Vanderbilt that he would not be able to accept her invitation for August.

The three months elapsed, and Davis finally felt he had become entitled to announce their engagement at a party to be given aboard the "Atlantic" after the Harvard-Yale boat race. The day arrived. When Henry appeared at the dock, ready to be welcomed as a future son-in-law, he discovered, to his consternation, that he was not to be allowed on board.

Cornelius, Jr., described what followed this unfortunate occurrence.

"When the family became fully aware that the affair was of a serious nature, they whisked the poor child away on a six weeks' cruise in the Caribbean Sea, at a time most unreasonable to visit these waters. They ran into several hurricanes which endangered the life of all aboard, and most of the trip the heat was so intense that several members of the crew were prostrated. Grace returned to New York in bad physical condition.

"This time she was not to be fooled by subterfuges. On Tuesday morning she managed to slip out of the house unnoticed. This was almost a miraculous feat, as every domestic in the establishment had been under strict orders for the past 24 hours, under pain of losing their jobs, to keep her under close surveillance.

"They met, she and Henry, across the street in front of St. Patrick's Cathedral, which has ever been a trysting place for society couples.

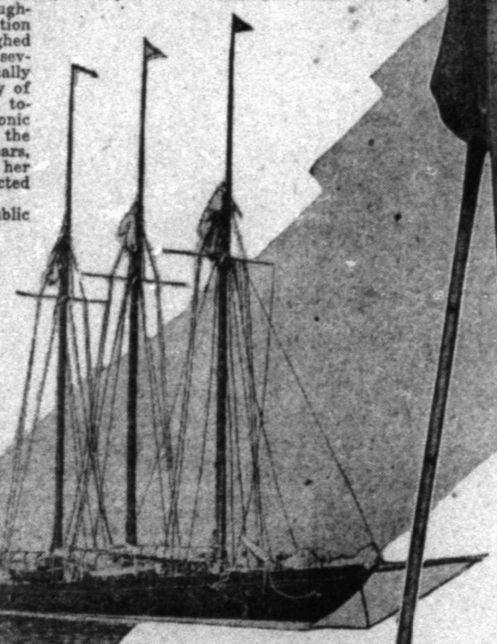

"After the civil ceremony they dispatched a letter to my parents, telling them what they had done, and inviting them to a religious ceremony later in the day. There was no answer to this note. After waiting as long as they could, they were married in the Little Church Around the Corner, at a quarter to midnight.

"They are going on a typical American honeymoon, and will wind up at his uncle's mining camp in British Columbia, a month hence, where they expect to remain most of the Summer. They will probably make their permanent home in Washington.

"I am very sure my sister will be as happy as it is humanly possible. No finer type of young American can be found than Henry G. Davis, who inherits the best traditions of a fine old Southern family, the members of which have contributed much for public welfare and have been outstanding figures in the political life of our nation.

"I am betraying no secrets or confidences when I mention the fact that certain misguided members of my family made strenuous efforts for years to arrange and force my sister, despite her objections, into a marriage with an Englishman of noble rank. When she stubbornly turned down all the Britishers who were proposed, she was asked what Continental man she cared for. When she persisted in her intention to marry an American she was told that this was impossible."

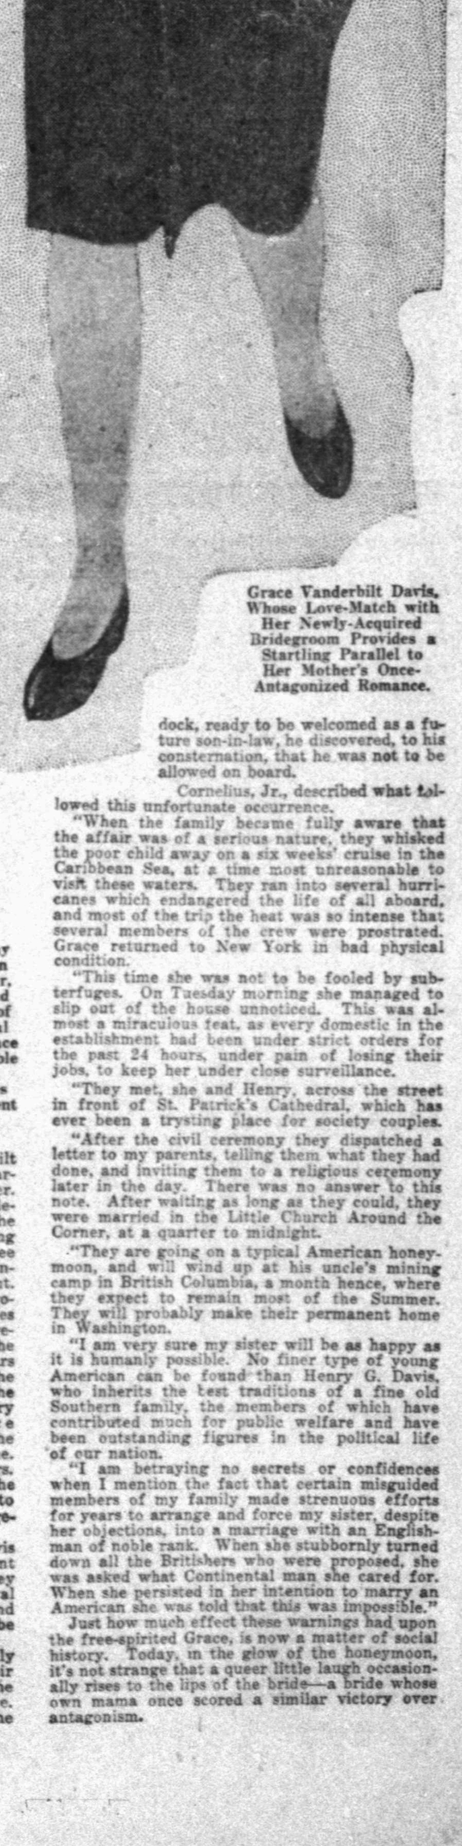

Just how much effect these warnings had upon the free-spirited Grace, is now a matter of social history. Today, in the glow of the honeymoon, it's not strange that a queer little laugh occasionally rises to the lips of the bride—a bride whose own mama once scored a similar victory over antagonism.

Painted His Nose Red to Mesmerize His Fiery Model

Secret of Sargent's Wonderful Painting of the Cat-Like Carmencita Dramatically Revealed by His Biographer, Who Bares Other Mysteries in the Lives of the Artist and Dancer.

Humorous Caricature of Sargent Sketching in the Alps, by Prof. H. V. Tonks. Note the Model Being "Mesmerized," But Not Exactly in the Way That Sargent Made Carmencita Stand Still.

FOR 37 years the famous Sargent painting of Carmencita, the Spanish dancing girl, has been the wonder—and mystery—of the artistic world. By what miracle of skill did Sargent manage to transform a bit of canvas and orange pigment into the rustle of silk and the suspended motion of the dance?

The eerie power with which he captured and held for all time a moment's fleeting attitude has caused the portrait to be hailed today as a masterpiece of draughtsmanship and color and expression.

The achievement seems even more remarkable when one considers the personality of Sargent's model. Carmencita was a girl from the music halls of Spain. In her nature were combined all the passion, all the love of color and movement, all the tempestuousness of her dark, romantic race.

Other artists had attempted her portrait, and failed. The painting which would represent but a second in the rapid whirl of a dance must necessarily be the culmination of long, weary sittings—struggles with temperament as well as with his brush.

Who could subdue the fiery spirit of Carmencita long enough to accomplish this task?

The finished portrait proved that John Singer Sargent could, but it was not until the recent appearance of a book by the Hon. Evan Charteris that the artist's grotesque method of riveting his sitter's attention became known. The incident is chronicled in Mr. Charteris's "John Sargent," a biography published by Charles Scribner's Sons, N. Y.

The dignified Sargent, realizing the childishness of all primitive natures, set about his task by trying in no way to subdue his sitter with high-sounding arguments and reason. On the contrary, he adopted the method of the photographer who obtains his best results with a two-year-old by enticing it to watch the small and non-existent "birdie." Exercising his ingenuity, Sargent, says Mr. Charteris, painted his nose red to fix her childish attention upon himself, and when the red nose failed, he would fascinate her by eating his cigar. This performance, though possibly bad for the artist's digestion, was the dancer's delight. She'd stand stock still in an apparent state of mesmerism.

Sargent's ingeniousness did not stop here. Patrons of the vaudeville and musical comedy stage know that a red nose can be funny, but not for too long. Sargent had other resources. He was fond of Spanish music and had in his studio a talking machine on which he played his favorite Spanish tunes. It is possible that he beguiled the tedium of many a sitting of Carmencita and recaptured in this way the waning interest of his temperamental model.

There were still other ways. When the picture was exhibited in New York and an admirer offered $3,000 for it, Sargent replied that he could not accept that amount, as the picture had cost more than that to paint.

"Cost you more! How do you mean?" he was asked in astonishment.

"Why," he replied, "in bracelets and things."

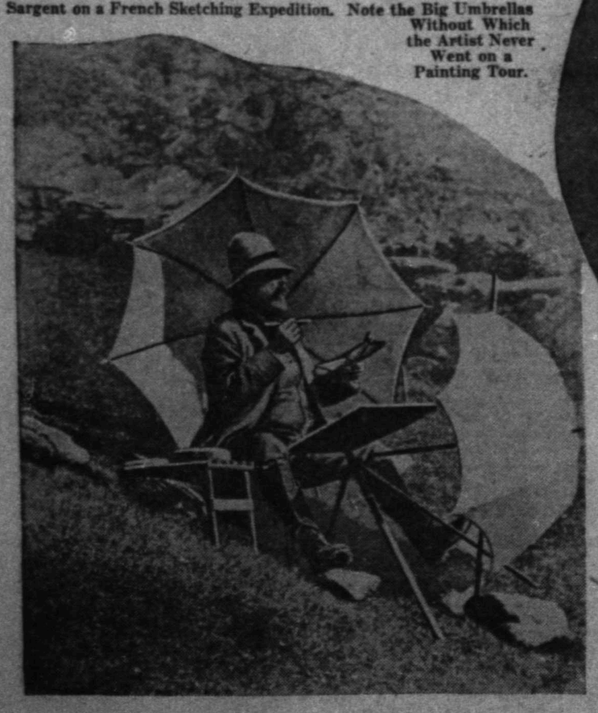

To such an extent had this capricious beauty to be coaxed before she would fulfill her promise to pose.

Carmencita had a great success in New York. Mr. Charteris tells in his book how anxious Sargent was to have Mrs. Gardner, a patroness of the arts, see this "bewilderingly superb creature." "Could you," he wrote, "have her at your house in Fifth Avenue? If so, might I go and see whether the floor or carpet would be good, and whether there is a chandelier against which she could break her head? It would have to be about twelve o'clock at night, after the performance."

Charteris continues: "In the end, the party was given by Mrs. Gardner in the studio of William Chase, the painter, in Tenth Street, New York. The fee paid to Carmencita was 150 dollars.

Mrs. de Glehn, then Miss Jane Emmet, was present with her sister and describes the scene. Sargent, whom she had never seen before, "was seated on the floor. The studio was dimly lighted; at the end of the room was just such a scene as he had represented in "El Jaleo." "'Carmencita, a light thrown on her from below, now writhing like a serpent, now with an arrogant elegance, strutted the stage with a shadowy row of guitarists in the background, strumming their heady Spanish music. She had arrived at the studio with her hair frizzled and her face loaded with powder and paint. Sargent, as her impresario for the occasion, smoothed her hair flat with a wet brush—he even applied a wet rag to her cosmetics. This was carrying the office of stage manager too far; she resented it and boiled over. Tact was then required to call her down and induce her to dance, but her 'scenes' were shortlived. Before she had danced many steps, Mrs. de Glehn saw her throw a rose at the painter as he sat in the half-light on the floor. He picked it up and from his buttonhole it ratified the 'peace'."

Carmencita later married the leader of her guitar orchestra, and shared with him a single-bed sitting-room in Bloomsbury, London. Although she danced for large salaries at the English music halls, she was no longer the Carmencita of New York. Mr. Jacob Hood, who visited her in this apartment, wrote of her that time had abated her wildness, though not her beauty, and civilization had subdued the fire of her spirit, though not her grace. She was tamed, and in her steps deferred to the standards of British conventionality.

The dress in which Sargent painted Carmencita was recently bought in London at a sale of his effects for a surprisingly small amount. In America, it would have gone for a much larger sum.

Sargent was one of the few great painters who did not have to struggle to success through adversity. Born in Florence of well-to-do American parents, he had the advantages of European travel and study with the best masters of France and Italy. He showed early signs of his great talent, his whole life having been marked with the inveterate desire to draw, draw, draw everything that intrigued his sight.

But Sargent was well-suited by inclination and background to do the portrait of the famous Carmencita. He had a great interest in Spanish subjects, and his own style of painting had been greatly influenced by the Spanish masters, especially Velasquez. A red nose, a luncheon of cheroots—he didn't mind them so long as they helped him put on canvas the tigerish soul of Spain's loveliest dancer.

RIDDLES

Here's Fun with Postmark Patches

POSTMARK PATCHES! This is a new puzzle that will prove how good a student of geography you are. Here are ten postmarks waiting for your scissors. How quickly can you find the cities in these "postmark patches"? If your scissors aren't handy, just block in the halves as you guess them. That, too, is fun.

The largest city between the Missouri River and the Pacific Ocean, settled by miners in 1858, is here. You will find a Southern city which, in 1775, was the patriotic scene of Patrick Henry's historic speech and also the "Nutmeg State's" capital, birthplace of Noah Webster.

How many other capital cities can you find?

Save the halves for your own "postmark patch." Write to the puzzle editor and tell him how much you like the "postmark patches." Another grouping will be ready for you next week.

What Four Words Does This Picture Suggest to You?

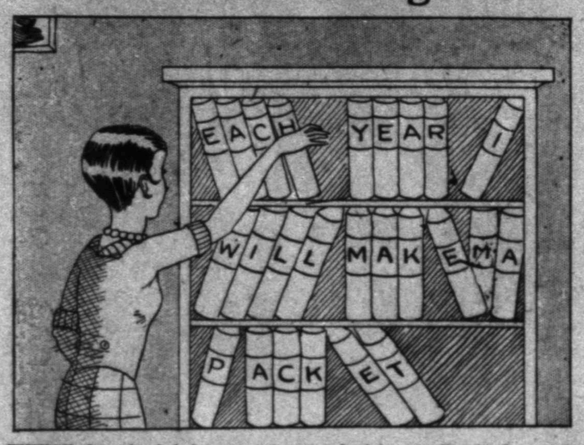

NAME the article of apparel that appears so conspicuously in the centre of this drawing and then form the four words suggested by the four surrounding drawings which are to be used as prefixes or suffixes to the centre picture.

An Easy Problem in Pictorial Arithmetic

THE figures in this simple problem in pictorial arithmetic are represented by the drawings of five familiar objects. If you name them correctly and then add and subtract correctly the letters that spell the name of each object the result will spell the name of an article of wearing apparel.

Solve This Anagram

THESE three bookshelves contain a total of twenty-five books, on the back of each of which is a letter.

The solution to this puzzle consists in rearranging the books in such a way that the letters will spell the name of a noted author.

A Puzzle Guide to a Lesson in Drawing

HOW accurately can you follow directions? If you do not know you can easily test your ability with this puzzle guide to drawing, which, as you see, consists only of dotted lines crossing one another and forming four hundred small squares. The key to the location of each square is indicated by the numbers at the top and the bottom of the drawing and by the letters at sides.

The solution to the puzzle consists of drawing certain straight lines the shortest distance possible on the chart, as directed, so that they will form the outline of an animal. Take care to draw all lines to the centre of each square necessary to complete the picture.

The starting point is the centre of the square keyed G7. All the lines necessary to complete the drawing are to be made as follows: From G7 draw a straight line to H8 to H9 to F11 to C11 to B10 to D8 to C7 to C5 to E3 to G3 to I1 to L1 to M2 to M5 to L6 to K5 to L5 to L3 to J3 to I4 to K4 to J5 to J6 to 17 to J7 to K8 to P8 to Q7 to Q10 to M10 to L11 to L15 to M16 to P16 to Q15 to Q18 to L18 to K19 to H19 to I20 to J20. Centre H19 to G19 to D16 to D11.

Simple Tricks with Matches

EVERYONE will agree that crushing a matchbox ought to be as easy and as simple as the egg trick of Columbus which nobody knew how to do.

Secure an empty match box and remove the cover, which you place on its side. Next stand the other part of the box upright on the cover and request someone to crush it with one blow of his fist. The performer will be surprised to see that neither one of the two parts of the box will be broken by the blow from his first, but instead will be sent flying in different directions.

Making a match appear to be magnetic is an interesting trick that will mystify your friends. Put an ordinary match on a smooth surface and then place another match across it so that it is sufficiently unbalanced to tilt the head upward. Next take a matchbox, hold it near the head of the tilted match and then move it slowly. Your audience will be surprised to see the match turn and keep its head pointed toward the moving box as if the latter attracted it as a magnet.

Here is the secret of the trick: As you move the box you blow lightly on the blank end of the tilted match which causes it to turn on the match across which it has been placed, just as if it were being pulled by the unseen force of magnetism.

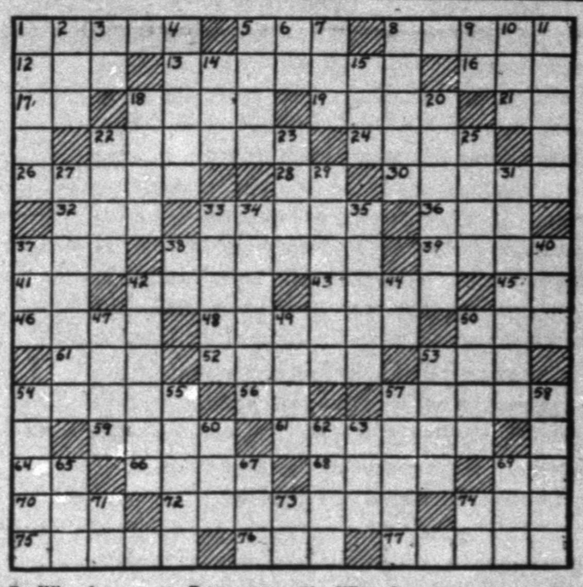

* * *

Another match trick that will enable you to fool a friend merely requires a little dexterity with your fingers. The next time anyone asks you for a light, produce a match which you hold between your thumb and first two fingers. Break it in two pieces by a sudden pressure from the thumb and then hold the two pieces between your thumb and forefinger.

Now strike the match as usual and as your friend reaches for it, he naturally takes the unlighted end. As he starts to "light up" he is surprised to find that he has nothing but a piece of the match, as you watch him with a smile of amusement.

Answer to Last Week's Cross-Word Puzzle

THE WOMAN OF IT By FANNIE HURST

© McClure Newspaper Syndicate

The World's Highest Paid Short Story Writer

Author of "Lummox", "Humoresque"

FOR weeks after it happened it remained to Lita something she could not quite realize.

It seemed incredible that, of all the dozens of girls of her actual personal acquaintance who coveted his slightest smile, she—plain little freckle-nosed Lita Lee, who worked as cashier in a large fancy grocer's in the neighborhood where Lefty had been born and reared—should be the one to entangle his fancy.

Little Lita Lee, whose father was an iron welder, and whose mother worked three days a week in a hand-laundry, engaged to be married to Lefty Garfinkle, champion middleweight boxer and holder of the Taggart Trophy for three consecutive years!

No wonder Lita sometimes found herself pinching her arm right in the midst of a work day to reassure herself that life was real.

It was simply beyond realization that three short months before she had been unknown to great Lefty either by sight or name, and now, her position resigned, and her weddding day set, life was just one bewildering day after another of trousseau, gifts from this and that Athletic Club that held Lefty's name in reverence, and even interviews from newspapers who wanted to know how it felt to be engaged to the champion middleweight boxer of two continents.

Lita's bright brown eyes were like saucers most of the time, and her heart a trip hammer from lifting the telephone receiver to the magnificent boom of Lefty's voice. Each day that passed over her head was more exciting, more thrilling, more love-laden than the one before.

Lefty had the munificence of a king. Hampers of flowers arrived! His car, a white racing roadster with a torpedo body and bright green leather upholstery, drew up to the lowly front door of the Lees', fruit-and-candy laden. Even a dozen new meerschaum pipes for old man Lee, who had smoked the same one for seventeen years. Lace collarettes for Mother Lee and a fur neckpiece for her tired old red neck that was as wattled and as old-looking as a turkey gobbler's.

Dazzling, unprecedented, unexpected days had fallen upon the humble house of the Lees.

The arrival of Lefty in it was a magnificence of procedure not soon to be forgotten.

The rippling bleat of the siren of his car, coming down the narrow street as trumpeters of old announced the arrival of a dignitary.

Children scattering to cover as the white and green speed monster drew up in front of the little story-and-a-half wooden packing case of a house in which dwelt the Lita of his preference.

Lefty himself, enveloped in the fragrant haze of the seventy-five-cent cigars he perpetually smoked when not in training. Sartorially emphatic in the checked suits he was fond of, spats, gay waistcoats and jewelry that drew its share of the admiring gaze of the beholders of his neighborhood.

And Lita, like the pretty frail flower she was, nodding in the window to greet him.

Great days for the house of the Lees.

And yet, the near perfection of these days had its venom. Lita, even though, as the neighborhood saying put it, she had Lefty wound around her little finger, was deeply, secretly, afraid. Scarcely a day but what Lefty, with an ostentation that to him was not ostentation, but just a superabundance of the joy of living, brought a handful of pink and scented notes to pour into the lap of his lady love. Notes from fair admirers. Notes from admittedly smitten young women craving the favor of his magnificent glance or autograph or rendezvous. Of course Lefty displayed them only that he might laugh at them and dump them into the waste paper basket and gather more appreciately into his arms the shrinking Lita, whom he had discovered chiefly because she did shrink and had stood peering at him from the unnoticed edge of a crowd, while the others jammed up around as he made his triumphant entry through his part of town the day after his championship battle.

She had stood so timidly, tiptoeing to peer over the shoulders of the bolder girls, and somehow the violet of her eyes had reached out to him and he had tossed her the flower from his buttonhole, and there in the center of his worshippers had demanded that the little girl back there in the blue hat the color of her eyes be lifted into his car and proceed through the streets, part of the triumphal chariot.

It was unbelievable. It was as if Lita could never stop rubbing her eyes to make sure they were not obscured by dream dust.

Lefty the magnificent. His big, easy laugh. His adorable ways of loving her. His largesse. Why, his every arrival was like the arrival of a Prince out of Bagdad.

Tired old Mrs. Lee and horny old man Lee, they were new human beings. Made over by the largesse of Lefty. And the splendid part of it was, people said that, even without the skill and prowess which had brought fortunes into his coffers, Lefty had brains. Lefty could have made his way in any field he chose. Lefty would have made a superb salesman. Generosity. Personality. Persuasiveness. Those were only a few of his qualities. Lefty would have been a good showman. He had a way with him. He knew what the people wanted.

Lefty was a person.

And yet Lita was afraid. The world was so much with him. Daily, he was more and more in demand by the crowds. Distractions jammed in upon him.

One day the daughter of the president of a bank had him at her home for luncheon. Lita shed secret, frightened tears. Of course she was glad—but—the frightened knot at her heart would not untie.

Then there came the offer for him to go to England. That terrified her most of all. Of course she could understand how it was better for Lefty to go alone, have his match over with and then return at once to America to marry the girl of his choice. But it was so hard.

Besides, Lefty would have been willing to marry her right off. That made it easier, but his managers talked to her and persuaded her it was better the other way. Of course. Lita understood. But secretly, her heart bled and bled. Secretly she was full of fear. And Lita knew that she would always be full of fear.

It was too good to be true this thing happening to her. But the distractions would always be between her and Lefty, and Lita wanted Lefty to herself. Stripped of his glory. Just the Lefty she knew and loved from the sweet hours they had spent away from the crowds. Just the two. It was then that the Lefty Lita had learned to love best of all, came out from under the pomp of the personage.

Then two days before he was to sail for England, sparring around in his training quarters at the lightest kind of work, Lefty fell and in one of those un-understandable calamities, actually injured his spine so seriously that for a time it looked as if he would never walk again.

It was difficult to take in. It was beyond comprehension. Like a snuffing of a candle, Lefty's prowess went out.

After a year, he walked again practically as well as ever, but absolutely out of the running so far as his boxing profession was concerned.

Lefty would never even throw a medicine ball again.

As a champion, Lefty was finished.

He took it with an equanimity that amazed his friends. Almost nonchalantly.

Secretly he had suffered as he never thought he could suffer. Overnight, as it were, his laurels snatched off his brow, his life ambition ground into dust.

It was Lita that was the miracle to him. There was the something about her that was like a flame. A flame that lighted his way to recovery and an interest in other things.

Was Lita glad? Why, sometimes, it almost seemed so to him. The hours alone with him—she claimed them so greedily. He was her own now—unquestionably. Was Lita glad?

Lita was. He was all her own now.

FANNIE HURST.

Was Lita Glad?

Glad of the hours alone that came to her and Lefty—hours away from the crowd, the admiring, demanding world?

Lita, the miracle, the flame that lighted his way, was joyous in her possession, alone, of the Lefty she loved.
