STOCKS ZOOM UPWARD AGAIN

Stocks Fly Up While Business Stays In Slump

Rise Caused By Reduced Inventories And Faith In Renewed U. S. Spending

Is Recovery coming? Has the bottom of the depression been reached? Does the recent rise of prices on the nation's great stock markets mean that a business upturn is imminent? . . . These are Mr. Every Man's question which John T. Flynn, eminent economist and journalist, discusses in three articles written exclusively for NEA Service and The Journal. Here is the second article.

By JOHN T. FLYNN

(Copyright, 1938, NEA Service, Inc.)

Since the rise in stocks, market forecasters have been searching for the cause of that rise. The greatest mistake is to look for the cause of the rise in existing trade statistics.

The market upswing began at a moment when most of the trade indices pointed down. While wages had not been cut severely in that period, employment had declined and many salary cuts had been made among white collar workers. Steel announced a reduction in prices and the fear of a wage cut hung over the steel world—indeed still hangs over it. The commercial reports from ten of the twelve Federal Reserve districts at the end of June were still bad. Commodity buyers remained cautious and merchandise buyers in New York reported sluggish markets. Yet it was in the midst of this that the market went up.

Explanation Is Obvious

The explanation has seemed reasonably obvious to me from the beginning. In spite of a lot of political and propaganda muttering about the causes of the depression, business men generally had about come to the conclusion that it was the result of the withdrawal of government spending. Notwithstanding their criticism of the administration for spending, they felt that the President's determination to resume spending meant the restoration of the force which kept business up.

Then there has been an immense amount of advertising of the swollen inventories which started the depression. A number of trade writers and some economists believe that excessive inventories start depressions and exhausted inventories revive trade.

The theory is that when merchants' shelves fill up too much they cut down their orders, factories stop or curtail production, throwing workers out of employment and reducing payrolls, thus making still fewer purchasers for the already overstocked merchants, who still further curtail and so on.

Rise And Fall Explained

I believe too much importance is attached to this. Of course, overstocked shelves result in reduced orders. When the stocks are disposed of the orders are increased. The first phase of this cycle means a curtailment of industrial activity. The second phase means a quickening of activity. Therefore it is correct to say that this rise and fall of stocks produces a rise and fall in business activity. But it is not the major movement of the business cycle. It accounts for the minor up and down swings.

While, therefore, large inventories would have caused a decline in activity, it would not have pro-

Pageant On Life Of Rogers Is Planned

LOS ANGELES, July 19 (AP) — Plans for formal dedication of the Will Rogers Memorial highway, extending from Chicago to this city, with a pageant depicting the early life of the late comedian, were announced here today by Carl Hinton, national president of the Will Rogers 66 Highway association.

He said Vice-President John Garner and governors of five of the eight states traversed by the highway have accepted invitations to attend the celebration, to be held at Amarillo, Texas, August 15, the third anniversary of Rogers' death.

Two motorcades will leave the terminal of the highway three days previously, Hinton said, and meet at Amarillo.

"Our pageant will depict the life of Rogers as a cowhand in the Texas Panhandle," he added. "He got his first job in Amarillo at the age of 15 years. The pageant will follow him during his tour with the old Nellie Baker circus to South America, his early life in New York and will close with a spectacular scene from the 1916 Ziegfield follies, in which he was starred."

Oil Conspiracy Convictions Upheld

New Trial For 15 Men, Three Firms Granted

Convictions Of 17 Of 46 Defendants Sustained By Federal Judge Today

(By The Associated Press)

MADISON, Wis., July 19—Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone today sustained the conviction of 17 of 46 defendants found guilty last January of a conspiracy to raise and fix Midwestern gasoline prices in 1935 and 1936. He fined these defendants—12 companies and five executives—a total of $65,000.

The judge dismissed the charges as to 10 other executives and one corporation and found that the remaining defendants—15 officials and three firms—were entitled to a new trial because they had been linked to the alleged conspiracy by circumstantial evidence.

In Three Categories

In the 16-page decision Judge Stone treated all defendants in three catagories: (1) Those whom he held were shown to have combined through gasoline purchasing agreements to "peg" the midwestern market; (2) Those whose connection with the conspiracy was subject to doubt; (3) And those who were clearly shown to be innocent.

Among the individual defendants, whose convictions stand, is Charles E. Arnott, New York, vice president of the Socony Vacuum Oil company, alleged by the government to have been the "master mind" of the conspiracy.

Fined $1,000 Each

Arnott and the following four executives were fined $1,000 each: H. T. Ashton, St. Louis, manager of the Lubrite division, Socony Vacuum Oil company.

Robert W. McDowell, Tulsa, Okla., vice president in charge of sales, Mid-Continent Petroleum corporation.

P. E. Lakin, St. Louis, general manager of sales, Shell Petroleum company.

Companies Are Fined

Judge Stone assessed $5,000 fines against each of the following 12 companies: Socony Vacuum Oil company, Wadhams Oil company, Pure Oil company, Sinclair Refining company, Shell Petroleum corporation, Skelly Oil company, Conti-

Tear Gas Used On Strikers

(By The Associated Press)

NORTH CHICAGO, Ill., July 19.—Police and deputy sheriffs fired a tear gas attack today on pickets blocking entrance to the strike-bound Chicago Hardware Foundry company plant. A half dozen women pickets were knocked to the ground.

Pickets fought the officers in hand to hand encounters while tear gas bombs and shells burst all around.

Fifty Officers In Attack

About 50 regular and special deputies and city police from North Chicago and nearby towns launched the attack after giving the pickets five minutes to "break it up."

Officers carried guns but did not use them. They fired tear gas from pistols and threw gas bombs. About 50 gas missiles burst within a few minutes.

Dozens of pickets, watching the officers gathering, had obtained pails of water to wet handkerchiefs for protection from the gas.

Battle Begins At Noon

The battle began about noon and in the first few seconds five or six women pickets were knocked down. Gasping pickets held the wet cloths to their faces as the gas spread.

One group of about 25 pickets including a few women was in front of the main gate. Another group of women pickets was at another gate a half block north along Commonwealth avenue.

The plant stretches for two blocks

British Royal Pair In Paris On State Visit

Booming Salute Of 101 Guns Welcomes Rulers To France; To Reaffirm Common Front

(By The Associated Press)

PARIS, July 19—A booming salute of 101 guns welcomed King George and Queen Elizabeth of England today on their arrival for a visit of state to France.

The Boyish-appearing King George, monarch of an empire of nearly 500,000,000 subjects, came with his consort by boat and train from London to this capital and was greeted by gray-haired Albert Lebrun, titular chief of state for 102,000,000 persons.

Reaffirm Common Front

The visit of the Britsih sovereigns was designed to reaffirm — as did a similar visit by King George V in 1914 — the common front of two of the world's greatest empires.

The royal party arrived at the little Bois de Boulogne station in the aristocratic northwest corner of Paris, a square, gray-stone structure under whose green cupola visiting royalty traditionally descends.

Greet French President

The royal train arrived at 4:49 p. m. (9:49 a. m., C.S.T.) the king and queen, smiling broadly, stepped onto the platform and shook hands with President and Madame Lebrun. The king wore the uniform of an admiral of the fleet. The queen was all in white.

Marines lining the platform presented arms, while a marine band played "God Save the King" and the "Marseillaise."

The appearance of the king and queen brought volleys of cheers from throngs surrounding the station, while the royal salute sounded from the guns of Mount Valerian fort in the western suburb of Suresnes.

Doves Are Released

The British Royal standard and the French Tricolor ran up on gilded staffs. From a huge cage, concealed by banks of flowers, 10,000 white doves were released as their majesties appeared, a symbol of Franco-British aspirations for peace.

King George and Queen Elizabeth arrived at Boulogne this morning from London and came to Paris over 120 miles of carefully guarded rails which became, in effect, their private line for the occasion. Troops, mobile guards, gendarmes and police guarded the entire route.

Former Amarillo Woman Shot In Dallas; Husband Is Held

DALLAS, July 19 (AP) — Mrs. F. L. Hundley, 32, was wounded critically in a shooting here last night.

Her husband surrendered to Deputy Sheriff Bill Decker, and said he would make a formal statement to the district attorney today.

The couple had been married 22 months, and had lived in Amarillo, where both were employed.

The shooting occurred at the home of Mrs. Hundley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Falkner. Mrs. Falkner said the shooting followed several weeks of domestic discord.

Mrs. Falkner said her daughter returned to Dallas ten days ago, and yesterday filed suit for divorce.

EVANGELIST DIES

LOS ANGELES, July 19 (AP) — Dr. Paul Rader, 58, internationally-known evangelist, died at Hollywood hospital today after a long illness.

A Broken Neck Is No Fun

A week ago last Saturday E. E. Moss, jr., 16-year-old Lubbock boy, suffered a broken neck in a diving accident at Buffalo Springs. These photos show him, top, as he was "haltered" in a West Texas hospital bed and, below, in a frame in which attending physicians placed him late Monday, after nine days in the "halter." The lad, a "perfect physical specimen", was paralyzed in both arms and legs when brought to the hospital. The "halter" was used to stretch the neck to loosen pressure on the nerves, eliminating the paralysis. The frame, doctors believe, will hold the break and, eventually, bring about complete recovery. Cheerful through it all, young Moss is the son of a gin supply salesman who resides at 1806 16th street.

Banks Receive Terse Appeal

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The morning mail brought to the nation's bankers today a terse RFC appeal to lend more money to business.

Chairman Jesse H. Jones of the RFC wrote officials of all state and national banks that bank participation in RFC loans to industry was insufficient, and added:

"If banking is to remain in private hands it must meet the credit needs of the country."

Cites Number of Bills

He directed attention to the number of bills introduced in the last session of congress providing further extension of government credit to business.

"There is still persistent talk about the establishment of industrial banks throughout the country," he said, "to be at least partially owned by the government, to provide capital for local private business.

"You bankers know that with our great abundance of banking resources it should not be necessary for the government to lend to private industry. You should also know that the government will be forced to lend so long as there is a substantial demand for legitimate credit which is not being met."

Notable Victory Believed Won By British Medical Profession

LONDON, July 19 (AP) — The British medical profession believed it had won a notable victory in the acquital today of Dr. William Aleck Bourne, prominent obstetrician, who performed an illegal operation to prevent a 15-year-old girl, victim of an assault, from becoming a mother.

The jury, which included two women, took 45 minutes to reach a verdict after Justice MacNaughten, summing up, said Dr. Bourne had performed "an act of charity without fee."

Dr. Bourne had insisted on being prosecuted in order to test Britain's rarely invoked statute against operations to prevent motherhood.

More Broadway Talent Leaving For Filmland To Perform In Pictures—Intelligent Fleas

NEW YORK, July 19. (AP)—Sam and Sadie, perhaps the smaftest of the current crop of fleas on Broadway, are leaving by plane today for Hollywood—and Claudette Colbert's shapely back.

Miss Colbert, it seems, is being starred in a new version of "Zada" and in line with the new Hollywood realism it was decided to use a flea.

Partly because there are no intelligent fleas in Hollywood and partly because it has been the custom for a number of years past to import Broadway talent to the cinema capital, Al Lewin, producer, turned to New York.

Roy Heckler, owner of Hubert's circus, the great fleas menagerie, was sought out. Heckler told Lewin he imports his fleas from Italy and trains them for six weeks after giving them I. Q. tests to determine their talent.

For the I. Q. test, Heckler puts the fleas in a box which contains a lighted bulb wrapped with loose cotton. Smart fleas burrow through to the warmth. The morons and the rugged individualists stay outside.

'Stretch' Is On For Candidates Over Texas

Concentrated Efforts To Line Up Votes Are On In Wind-Up Of Biennial Campaigning

(By The Associated Press)

Words—and music to go with them—rode thundered and played mightily the Texas air today as candidates launched fully into final summing up of cases for judgment by the electorate in Saturday's Democratic primaries.

Beneath the flow of oratory and mountain "swing," campaign organizations rolled logs and "turned chips" in concentrated efforts toward lining up the vote.

Foolhardy Hero Corrigan Gets Praise Of Irish

Daring U. S. Flier May Receive Only Spanking For His Atlantic Hop

(By The Associated Press)

DUBLIN, July 19.—Douglas G. "Daredevil" Corrigan was $2,000 to the good today on that little "mistake" in direction which took his $900 plane across the Atlantic.

"The $2,000 I got for my broadcast to America last night will keep me in pocket money while I'm here," he said.

"But as soon as I can get steamer passage fixed up I am going home. I am trying to get a boat where my plane won't have to be dismantled."

He acknowledged that "folks here still are tremendously excited about my trip, but after all it wasn't much. They've

MADE LIFE MEMBER

BURLINGTON, Wis., July 19 (AP)—O. C. Hulett, president of the Burlington Liars' club, solemnly affirmed he was telling the truth today when he said Aviator Douglas Corrigan, who flew to Ireland under his avowed belief he was headed for California, had been made a life member of the club.

"After the one he pulled," Hulett said, "I think he deserves it. Anyway, it's a good story."

Corrigan, when he landed in Ireland, said, "I thought it was California all the time, until I saw your mountains here."

been very kind to me in not having me summoned for landing without an airworthiness certificate."

The 31-year-old Californian who flew an aged plane the "wrong way," crossed the Atlantic, set all England and Ireland talking and was proclaimed on two continents as a foolhardy hero, slept late in the guest bed of the American legation. He wore pajamas borrowed from American Minister John Cudahy.

"I want a nice long rest," he told Cudahy last night. "Don't wake me for a long time. I'll sleep through breakfast."

He had the matter of the legality of his landing to settle with Irish officials, but men with names like Corrigan and Cudahy are not likely to have trouble here getting over a technical difficulty when it concerns a flight like Corrigan's to Dublin.

He won't have to worry about clothes. Admiring tailors already have sent the daring aviator two new outfits, free.

He had offers of contracts, too, although he had been here less than a day, but it was understood he turned them all down with the statement "I prefer to be footloose while I am here and won't sign anything."

Footloose and fancy free, he is staying in Dublin a day or two without planning for the future.

The "crate" that took him the 3,150 miles from New York to Dublin's Baldonnel airdrome between 4:17 a.m. e.s.t. Sunday and 9:30 a.m. e.s.t. Monday was locked up at Baldonnel to safeguard it from souvenir hunters.

Under the air navigation pact, American fliers are permitted to land in Erie on scheduled flights if their passports are in order. But Corrigan did not bring a passport. Such a document is not needed to fly from New York to California, as Corrigan insisted he thought he was doing until he sighted Irish shores.

Technically Corrigan was "detained" today pending an examination of credentials and

Rumanian Flier To Take Off Thursday

NEW YORK, July 19. (AP) — The second solo flight across the Atlantic ocean in less than a week will be attempted Thursday by Capt. Alexander Papana, the "Lindbergh of Rumania," who hopes to become the first to fly the 4,712 miles from New York to Bucharest non-stop.

The captain, famous in European sports circles and recognized as an outstanding aerobatic performer, holds the Rumanian altitude record of 41,700 feet.

For the ocean part of the route he will follow the trail of Douglas G. (The Incorrigible) Corrigan, who conquered the ocean stretch — the eighth person to do it solo — yesterday in a surprise hop to Ireland in his $900 "flying crate."

Panama will use a new type Barkley-Grow transport plane and expects to complete the trip in 31 hours. The twin-motored craft, relatively small, has a wing span of 50 feet, nine inches and a length of 35 feet, eight inches. It will have a gross weight of 7,950 pounds.

Public Health Service Says Big City Safest Place For Infant

WASHINGTON, July 19. (AP)—The public health service pointed out today that a big city is the safest place to spend the first year of life.

"An infant," said Harold F. Dorn, government statistician who has harvested a set of figures on country life versus city life, "is more likely to die before completing the first year if born to parents in rural areas."

He added however:

"Regardless of the way in which ill health is measured, rural residents possess definite advantages over urban residents."

New Highs Set As 'Boom' Is Resumed

Gains Of One To More Than Four Points Registered; Volume Highest Of Year

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, July 19—Stocks zoomed toward the stratosphere in today's market with gains of one to more than 4 points putting leaders at new tops since last October.

Profit taking cut down top marks at the last, but favorites were well in front at the sound of the final gong.

On Year's Broadest Scale

Resumption of the mid-year "boom" on the broadest scale of the year today was a further response, brokers said, to the much brighter prospects for business recovery as exemplified by the brisk upturn in steel mill operations, building construction and retail spending, in addition to signs of convalescence from many other recently lagging lines of industry.

Buying orders from all over the country and abroad deluged commission houses at the opening. With blocks of 1,000 to 6,000 shares changing hands on the upside, the ticker tape during the greater part of the first two hours was as much as six minutes behind.

Largest Volume In 9 Months

The feverish run-up resulted in the largest volume for about nine months, transfers approximately 2,900,000 shares.

Selected steels, motors, rubbers, mail orders, farm implements, coppers, rails, oils and specialties took the leadership from the start. Utilities were up moderately, but were hardly buoyant. Aircrafts acted tired, notwithstanding satisfactory earnings reports from the aviation manufacturers, the latest being the Glenn L. Martin Co.

Fight Planned For Hospital

Conferences were in order at the chamber of commerce this morning as preparations were started for a "finish fight" in an effort to secure for Lubbock the Veterans hospital for which $1,435,000 in federal spending-lending funds have been alloted.

The exact nature of the procedure on the city's behalf remained to be worked out, but the plan of activity was not as tentative as might be supposed. Much of the ground-work already had been laid in expectation of some such announcement as that from Washington Monday that an engineer of the veteran's administration will be here July 27 for a survey of proposed sites.

Directors To Meet Soon

Informal conferences at the chamber of commerce, it was said, probably will be followed by a call at once for a special meeting of the board of directors. Before it is held, effort will be made to ascertain in more detail than is now available just what the purpose of the engineer's visit will be.

Meeting of the directors, officials said, will be followed by the appointment of a committee charged directly with the responsibility of attempting to secure the hospital. Officials were not informed as to what may be desired in the way of a site, but confidence was expressed that anything that may be needed can be supplied.

There was little speculation as to what Lubbock's chances of securing the hospital may be except the general opinion that this city faces an "uphill fight." Difficulties for the city and section apparently are increased, it was added, because the fight is wide open to every section of the state.

Number Of Nazi, Communist Leaders Plan To Leave U. S.

WASHINGTON, July 19. (AP) — Representative Dies (D-Tex) said today agents of a house committee investigating unAmerican activities had been informed that a number of communist and nazi leaders intended to leave the country before the committee starts hearings Aug. 11.

SERIAL STORY

INTERNE TROUBLE

BY ELINORE COWAN STONE

COPYRIGHT, 1938, NEA SERVICE, INC.

CHAPTER I

Tran Dearborn entered Saint Vincent's as a student nurse without any one's having taken the trouble to warn her that, in a big hospital, the lowest form of human life is a probationer. . . . Lower than the callowest of the internes—although even Tran could see that their assumption of jaunty sophistication was often but a thin cloak to hide panic and a devastating sense of bewilderment.

When Tran's mother had christened her "Tranquility," her husband had warned her that she was inviting disaster.

"And anyhow," he had said, "you don't suppose any one is going to call her that, do you?"

And, of course, no one did. "Tranquility" seemed so preposterously out of keeping with everything that was Tran Dearborn.

Perhaps that was because her slight body, with its restless dancing feet and hands that would dart into quick gestures unless she held them tightly clasped, seemed to be driven by a nervous dynamo too powerful for its size. . . . More likely it was because of her eyes.

Those wide, dark eyes of Tran's—so out of proportion to her small pale face, with the dusting of golden freckles over a high-bridged nose that might have been haughty if it had not been faintly funny—often gave her a resemblance to a startled fawn on the verge of flight. . . . That is, unless you saw them at one of those times when her sense of humor got the best of her most painstaking endeavors to look gravely respectful—while the head nurse was explaining the house rules governing probationers, for instance.

At such times Tran managed to keep her other features composed in an earnestly respectful look by biting her cheeks hard—but her eyes she never could control, even by opening them very wide.

Of course people had not really called her "Tranquility" even in her early school days at Miss Brand's of Virginia, or later, after her mother and father had died and Aunt Clara had taken her from one Continental school to another. All that was before Tran knew that she would have a living to earn with her own hands.

But it was not until she entered the training school at Saint Vincent's that people really began to canvass the delightful possibilities for parody presented by her given name.

Increased Demand For Farm Products Is Seen This Fall

WASHINGTON, July 19. (AP)—The bureau of agricultural economics predicted today that increased demand for farm products would follow industrial recovery this fall.

It is expressed belief, in a review of the demand and price situation, that the low-point in consumer income and demand for farm products has been reached and that both should go up.

TVA Investigating Committee Asked To Probe Texas Case

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 19. (AP)—Each member of the congressional committee here investigating the Tennessee Valley authority received a letter today from Jerome C. Martin, a member of the Fort Worth, Texas, city council, requesting an investigation of allegad efforts by the Texas Electric Service Co. to block the city's purchase of power from the lower Colorado river authority.

The investigators said it would be impossible to add this additional work to their already heavy burden, even had congress given them the authority.

Four Members Added Faculty

Four new faculty members were appointed and plans for a visual education program were anounced by the executive committee of Texas Technological college Monday afternoon.

The board of directors had approved the appointments and the new program, upon recommendation of the executive committee comprised of Dr. James M. Gordon, chairman, W. T. Gaston and Dr. Harry L. Kent.

Four New Members

New faculty members were appointed in the journalism, foreign languages, architecture and allied arts, and mathematics dapartments.

Approval of the visual education program allows the establishment of a film library, containing both sound and silent educational motion pictures which will be rented to public schools of this section. Visual education is gaining popularity over the country, and schools of this area are acquiring projectors, said J. F. McDonald, director of extension.

Meeting To Be Held

School representatives are invited to attend a meeting in the chemistry building auditorium next Monday and Tuesday, when motion pictures will be shown and the school representatives will be asked for advice in the choice of films that will best meet the needs of schools of this section. The library will be in operation by Sept 1.

Faculty members appointed, for service in the next college year opening in September, were:

Dr. Douglas W. Alden, instructor in foreign languages department, principally to teach French; received bachelor's degree from Dartmouth college, Hanover, N. H., with highest distinction in romance languages, master of arts and doctor of philosophy at Brown university Providence, R. I.; has spent two years at the Sorbonne in France; has been a fellow and a graduate teaching assistant at Brown university since 1934; author of articles in language reviews and magazines.

Newspaperman Is Chosen

Joseph W. Cowan, instructor in journalism; now manager of Pico, Calif., Times-Post, newspaper; received bachelor of journalism degree from the University of Missouri, Columbia, in 1929, and master's degree from there in 1932; attended University of Texas 1924-27; instructor in Texas Christian university department of journalism from 1929 to 1932, and promoted to assistant professor in 1932; served as editor of San Saba Star, 1933 to 1937; member of Texas Press association and several other press organizations.

Carroll Parker Brady, mathematics instructor; has taught at University of Chicago Downtown college and Armour Institute of Technology in Chicago; candidate for doctor of philosophy degree at the University of Chicago in August; attended public schools in Manhattan, Kas., received bachelor of arts degree from University of California, Los Angeles, in 1932 and mastaught at University of California, Los Angeles, two years; had experience in engineering in California, and with Topeka Edison company at Topeka, Kas.

Ramond Hendry Williams, part-time instructor in architecture and allied arts; received bachelor of science degree in 1926 from the University of Wisconsin and a master of science degree in 1933; taught three years in Utah high schools, two at the University of Wisconsin; served as head of the art department at a Wisconsin high school; and seven years as instructor at the University of Nebraska.

To Be Educational

In describing the visual education program, Director McDonald said that motion pictures appropriate for showing in the various grades and in the courses in high school will be obtained for the film library. The pictures will be educational and not of the entertainment type.

It was not known how many films will be purchased, but there will be a large variety, it was said.

The extension director said that a course in "Use of Visual Aid in Instruction" will be taught at Tech the second summer term, opening today, by W. B. Irvin, superintendent of Lubbock public schools. One of the big problems in setting up visual aid instruction is teacher training, he said.

Representatives of both sound and silent motion picture distributors will come here to show films at the open house Monday and Tuesday. Showings will open at 8:30 o'clock each morning and will continue through night sessions.

Visual education has developed rapidly the last year or more, said director McDonald.

Two Daring Victories By Japs In Aerial Raids Are Reported

SHANGHAI, July 19 (Thursday) (AP)—The Japanese navy in a colorfully worded communique announced its air arm scored two daring victories yesterday over the Chinese.

In the first of two reported victories, the Japanese navy said a squadron of bombing planes landed on China's main air base at Nanchang. In the face of Chinese rifle and machine-gun fire, the crews got out with torches and set fire to seven Chinese planes and then drove the defenders into retreat.

In the other, according to the communique, a second Japanese squadron engaged 15 Chinese Akir fighters in the air and shot down eight.

FFA Officers Are Installed

Two chapters of Future Farmers of America elected and installed new officers at New Deal Rural High school auditorium Monday night.

One of the chapters was the alumni chapter, the only one in the state.

Officers Selected

New Officers for the regular chapter are: John Neil Harrell, president; Eugene Bond, vice-president; Bill Harvey, secretary; Bill Fortenberry, treasurer; Roy Gilmore, reporter; Dan Gillett, parliamentarian; W. J. Pearce, watch dog; Marvin Looney, historian; and Lowell Paden, song leader.

Officers for the alumni chapter are: Macon James, president; Warren Haddock, vice-president; Douglas Stokes, secretary; Philom Cox, treasurer; Willis James, reporter; Orland Wages, parliamentarian; J. I. Speer, watch dog; Alton McNeely, historian; and Truman Anglin, song leader.

Macon James and Haddock were selected delegates from the alumni chapter to the state convention at El Paso Thursday, Friday and Saturday. From the regular chapter Harrell and Gillet were selected.

McNeely and Willis James also are going, as is Lawrence Shipman, vocational agriculture teacher at New Deal Rural high school and sponsor of the clubs. Shipman will be accompanied by his wife and daughter, Patricia Ruth.

Macon James and Harrell have submitted their applications for American Farm degrees. A state committee has acted favorably on the applications, but the convention also must approve them. If they are approved, then they will be submitted to a national convention which will meet in October. Only two farmers in West Texas, J. R. Bertrand of White Deer and J. B. Sharp, jr., of Tulia, have those degrees.

Application Submitted

Haddock has submitted an application for a Lone Star Farmer degree. If he meets requirements, it will be awarded at El Paso this week-end. Willis and Macon James, Harrell and G. W. Elliott, all of the New Deal chapter, are the only persons in Lubbock county with Lone Star Farmer degrees, Shipman said.

Macon James and Harrell are only West Texas farmers submitting applications for the American Farm degree.

New officers selected will serve the first half of the new school year.

Gunshot Wound Is Suffered By Child Here; Boys Fire Rifle

Gerry O'Neal, 4, daughter of Mrs. L. S. O'Neal of Big Spring, continued under medical treatment this morning in the home of her grandmother, Mrs. J. B. Walker, 2421 Twenty-first street, after having been wounded in the left leg above her knee by a stray bullet Monday afternoon.

Mrs. O'Neal and her daughter were here visiting.

The slug, fired from a .22 calibre gun, struck the girl when she was sitting on the lawn at her grandmother's residence. She was given emergency treatment at Plains hospital and released.

Officers said the shot was fired by boys about a block away, and that they were shooting at a target.

Officers of the sheriff's department and the police department warned against boys shooting guns in the residential districts of the city.

Another child recently was shot and injured seriously by a slug, origin of which never was learned.

Man's Furniture Still Stands In Front Of House; Aid Offered

KINNELON, N. J., July 19 (AP) — Fred Leeper's furniture has stood since May 28 in front of the home from which he was evicted, and last night he asked the borough council what it was going to do about it.

The council, of which Leeper was a former member, said it had no authority to provide storage but would give him $15 a month toward rental of a house.

Leeper, saying he would find nothing at that price, was urged to look again.

Gly-Cas Ends Her Former Distress

First Medicine In Years To Reach Stubborn Case; "Gly-Cas All That It Claims To Be"; She Declares

"Sufferers today are fortunate in being able to get a medicine with such outstanding merit as this new Gly-Cas," said Mrs. A. L. Janes, 1919 South 5th St., Waco, Texas.

MRS. A. L. JANES

"To eat had meant only one thing to me—suffering. Foods would sour on my stomach, bloated and was miserable after every meal I ate. My kidneys were disordered too, couldn't get a good nights sleep and in spite of all I tried I seemed to grow worse continually. Dizzy spells would attack me and added to my discomfort and I was so nervous I could hardly stand it at times. The poisons from improper elimination filled my system so that pains settled over my entire body. Everything seemed to lose its power when put up against my case—BUT NOT GLY-CAS once I gave it the opportunity to help me."

"Gly-Cas was different for in a short time the poisons were removed from my system in a most natural manner," continued Mrs. Janes, "and before I realized it my stomach and kidneys were again functioning normally. I now eat and enjoy my meals, sleep fine and get around with ease. I can easily understand why I heard so much praise for Gly-Cas—it is one medicine that does as it claims to do."

Gly-Cas is sold by Mark Halsey Drug Co., 1219 Broadway, this city, and by the leading druggists in surrounding towns. Adv.

Medical Rebels Are Organized

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 19.—Announcements of the "committee of 430," the rebels of organized medicine, that they will set up an independent group to fight for less costly medical care, were in the mails today.

The announcements were sent to 840 physicians who are now members of this group which started with 430 well-known doctors last year. Its name is the Committee of Physicians.

Policies Are Opposed

They oppose policies of the American Medical association's board of trustees on social features of medical care. Their meeting to map a campaign will be held sometime after the close of the national health conference which began a three-day meeting in Washington Monday.

Some of their members, the announcements state, are attending the Washington meeting, as individuals but not as instructed representatives of the "430 committee."

The announcements charge self-interest against the "ten principles of the American Medical association, adopted in 1934 by its house of delegates as the basis for social experiments and still standing unchanged.

Principles Asserted

The principles were asserted to put their major emphasis on "direct financial relations between patient and physician."

In the controversy on social medicine the split centers around how and whether to use federal, state and local tax monies to help pay the costs of medical care.

"It must be recognized," the announcement states, "that a large proportion of the population, while self-supporting, in most respects are unable individually to meet the growing cost of medical care."

In Line With Declaration

This stand is in line with declaration by Josephine Roche whose report to the American Medical association a month ago was taken to represent the attitude of government officials concerned with health administration.

A changed attitude of the Journal of the American Medical association, which is edited by Dr. Morris Fishbein, is commended. But it is declared that committee is not yet satisfied that the Journal is ready to "give sufficient space and exhibit the same attitude to social and economic articles that it does to scientific articles."

Curbing Of Shady Insurance Firms, Loan Sharks Asked

DALLAS, July 19 (AP) — Capt. C. W. B. Long, U. S. postal inspector, Monday asked southwestern commercial executives to support state legislation to curb shady insurance companies, loan sharks and fraudulent burial societies.

"The present insurance law allows many tricksters to evade strict regulations," he said.

The address was made before the sixth annual session of the Southwestern Chamber of Commerce school, attended by representatives from Texas, Louisiana and Arkansas.

Castle 'Maryhill' Stands As Incomplete And Mystic Monument To Queen Marie

(By The Associated Press)

PORTLAND, Ore., July 19 — The castle "Maryhill," buttressed deeply in the stone of the high Columbia river gorge, stands as an incomplete and somewhat mystic monument to Queen Marie of Rumania who died Monday.

The castle was the dream of the late Sam Hill, son-in-law of the famed "Empire builder," Jim Hill.

It was conceived as a refuge for his friend, Albert, war-time King of Belgium. It was dedicated in 1926 by Queen Marie.

May Be Opened Next Year

The huge stone and concrete structure, 90 miles from Portland, was prepared for a museum after Hill abandoned the idea of offering it to Albert, and next year it may be opened.

Queen Marie presented many of its art objects, and one section of the rambling structure was set aside as "The Rumanian room."

The tour by Queen Marie and her royal party through the rugged Columbia gorge country 12 years ago was an elaborate occasion. Many guests did not share the queen's expressed belief that Hill's dream was a model of idealism and vision.

There was more than a little intrigue and bickering, too, in connection with the trip through Oregon and Washington when the queen was Sam Hill's guest. At one stage, Hill was expelled from the queen's train after a dispute with one of her aides, but the friendship of the two was in no wise dimmed by the incident.

OFFICER ACCIDENTALLY SHOT

PHILADELPHIA, July 19 (AP) — A lecturer on firearms safety, National Guard Sergeant Harry Ziegler, 38, accidentally shot Sergeant Andrew Wallace, 59, in an armory last night. Wallace died today.

PASTOR RESIGNS

HALE CENTER — Rev. H. W. Graham, pastor of the Cotton Center church for the past 14 months, has resigned. He has not announced his future plans.

The death rate from accidents in the U. S. is exceeded only by the death rate from heart disease and cancer.

AFOL Endorses Tydings' Foe

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 19 — The American Federation of Labor stepped into the Democratic senatorial primary in Maryland to endorse the campaign of Rep. David J. Lewis to unseat Senator Millard Tydings.

The endorsement gave Lewis the support of both wings of organized labor, the CIO having previously given him its backing.

Federation aides said the endorsement showed the A. F. of L. would not withhold its support from a candidate merely because he had been approved by the CIO, its rival for labor leadership.

CIO To Throw Support To Earle-Jones Ticket

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 19 (AP)—The CIO has decided to throw its full support to the Democratic ticket in the fall election test of New Deal strength in Pennsylvania, John Philips, president of the state industrial union council, revealed today.

Philips termed "correct" reports that the labor organization which backed the unsuccessful gubernatorial candidacy of Lieutenant Governor Thomas Kennedy in the primary would endorse the Earle-Jones ticket.

Cost Of Treasury Borrowing Rises For 3rd Straight Week

WASHINGTON, July 19. (AP)—The cost to the treasury of short term borrowing rose today for the third consecutive week.

The treasury sold $100,000,000 of 91-day treasury bills for an average price of $99.986, making the cost 14 cents per thousand dollars. This compared with 10 cents last week and 3 cents three weeks ago.

Today's rate was equivalent to borrowing money at .054 per cent.

Hubbers Face Hobbs Crew In Series Opener Tonight

Warming Up In A Cool Manner

Wearing smiles of confidence, three of the east's best hopes in the Women's National Swimming Championships at Santa Barbara, Calif., July 22-24, pause for a few moments while training at the President Pool, Swan Lake, N. Y., before leaving for the coast. From left to right on the diving board are Elizabeth Ryan, defending champion in the 100-meter free style, Lorraine Fischer and Helen Rains.

John Henry Lewis Says Galento Bout Just Step Toward Match With Champ Joe Lewis

(By The Associated Press)

LEIPERVILLE, Pa., July 19 — "The forgotten man"—that's what they're calling John Henry Lewis these days.

The light heavyweight champion is matched for a 15-round non-title bout with beer drinking, "Two-Ton" Tony Galento at Philadelphia's municipal stadium a week from tonight. Tony has been getting most of the headlines.

"So, I'm the forgotten man," mused Lewis at his training camp here. "That's all right by me. I never was much of a hand for cavorting around. But just keep one thing in mind — fighters don't forget me.

Let Him Have Fun

"Let Tony have his fun now. I'll have mine next Tuesday night. I can beat any fighter in the world today, Joe Louis included. Tony outweighs me more than 20 pounds, but he's small, he has short arms. I've seen his stuff in the ring and I know what to do about it.

"What I'm counting on is me. I've been around boxing since I was four years old. My father had a gymnasium in Phoenix, Ariz. so I was born in the game and know what I'm talking about.

"Galento must have something to get where he's got. Otherwise, how could he knock out all those fellows he's met? No, I don't underrate Tony, but boiled down he's just another fighter.

"To me, he's a step toward a match with Joe Louis for the heavyweight title."

HASRATO GETS DECISION

HOUSTON, July 19 (AP) — Stanley Hasrato, 160, New York, easily decisioned young Stuhley, 164-pound Chicago veteran in ten rounds here last night.

Buddy Scott, 166, Dallas, decisioned Jack Moran, 165, Boston, in the 10-round semi-final. Cowboy Owens, 155, Wichita Falls, was held to a six-round draw by Jimmy McLaughlin, 153, Houston.

Tony Bruno risks his No. 1 Texas middleweight rating here Tuesday night against Chief Parris at Hugh Benbow's Olympiad.

Sports Roundup

NEW YORK July 19 (AP) — Henry Armstrong has been doing the pitching for a Los Angeles soft ball team called the "Armstrong dynamiters" . . . What was that Dizzy Dean muttered about a "lemon rickey" after he got that four-hitter out of his system the other day? . . . If you are still horsing for real long shots why don't you place a quid on "Feller and Hemsley and Brown and Todd" as the batteries for the opening game of the World series? . . . And before you laugh that one off, remember that Connie Mack pulled old Howard Ehmke out of the bull pen and sent him against the Cubs one day—and won.

Flying isn't sports, but you can't help but doff your new straw to that Corrigan guy. . . . His grand feat in flying the Atlantic in an old sewing machine has touched the hearts of the nation. . . . Last night, as this album of songs, was being ground out, Jack Corbett, president of the Syracuse club of the International league, called to say he was forwarding a check for $100 to start a fund to buy a new plane for Corrigan. . . . This department is too busy (?) to undertake the handling of such a fund, but I'll guarantee to turn Corbett's check over to anyone who will. . . . Anyway, Corrigan rates a new mount, we say.

Ouch dept.: Judge Landis bought himself a new skimmer and went out to see the Cubs play. . . . The park attendant did not recognize the judge in his new finery and wouldn't let him in. . . . If football coaches wore numbers you could dish out No. 13 to Emmett Stuber of the Cape Girardeau (Mo.) Teachers and he wouldn't holler murder—in fact, he'd reach for it. . . . He thinks he is the unluckiest coach in the biz. . . . Last fall his team won its first conference championship in history. . . . What happened. . . . Thirteen of the small squad graduated, 12 flunked out and three married. . . . Back in 1931 after Stuber had let his Westminster (Mo.) college team through an undefeated season the school — you guessed it — dropped football.

A youngster named Earl Tolley is apt to drive Sam Snead, the pride of West Virginia, right off the front pages down there. . . . Tolley is the pro at the swanky Greenbrier club at White Sulphur and has all the earmarks of a comer. . . . and if all this happens, the irony would be that Tolley learned most of his golf watching Snead play. . . . Sports Editor Alan Gould is starting a three week's vacation. . . . All we hope is, he doesn't come a cropper as he did a couple of years back. . . . Ahoy, there mate — or should it be avast.

Not many people up this way are fooled by the way Frank Guernsey of Rice is going to town in tennis. . . . Pros called the turn on him as far back as two years ago. . . . They said then the kid was going places and, well, he's gone.

Aquatic Antics

While competition was keen in most events in the national aquatic show at the Olympic swimming stadium in Los Angeles, there were times when spectators and competitors had to laugh. Norman Hanley flies through the air with the greatest of ease in one of the stunts performed by comedians.

Rabemen Are Tough Foes For Locals

Lubock and Hobbs tangle at the local lot tonight in the first of a two-game series. Contests tonight and tomorrow night start at 8:30 o'clock.

Hobbs hold a two-game edge over Lubbock in games won this season and is the only team except Clovis in the league ahead of the Hubbers in that respect. At Parris field the clubs have split eight games. At Hobbs, the Boosters have won five of eight games played.

Split At Big Spring

Manager Rabe is one of the mast popular men in the league, always keeping his team hustling, whether ahead or behind. Especially have local fans found his showmanship to their liking.

Here Again Aug. 27

Veteran Charlie Bryan likely will be Manager Hack Miller's choice for the starting assignment for the opener tonight against Hobbs.

Thursday the Hubbers go to Hobbs for two games, hop to Wink for a single game Saturday and a doubleheader Sunday, then complete the road trip at Clovis Monday and Tuesday. The team returns for a pair of games against the Pioneers here July 27 and 28.

Rained Out Monday

Next extended homestay starts Aug. 3 and ends Aug. 11. Eighteen games remain on the Hub home schedule.

The final contest with the Barons at Big Spring was postponed due to rain Monday.

Tommy Warren pitched Midland within one game of the Hubbers last night, holding the Roosters to six hits to win, 11 to 4. Jake Suytar increased his home run lead with a roundtripper.

Twelve hundred fans turned out to see night ball inaugurated at Clovis Monday night and the Pioneers came through with a 6-to-1 victory over Wink on a slushy field. Frank Grabek hurled for Wink and gave up nine hits. Si Nelson did Clovis hurling chores.

Public Is Given Break In Rose Bowl; More Tickets Allotted

PASADENA, Calif., July 19. (AP)—The football public denied the right to buy tickets to the Rose Bowl game last New Year's day, got a break from the Pacific coast conference today.

Mr. Ordinary Fan, even though his alma mater was the school of hard knocks, will have a chance to get one of the 35,600 seats reserved for public sale at the next renewal of the grid classic.

They amount to 40 per cent of the Rose Bowl's total seating capacity, 89,000.

Fifty per cent of the seats will be allotted to the university whose team represents the conference in the "East-West" game.

The remaining 10 per cent will be reserved for the press and other special groups, including the school representing the "East."

Fair Warnings Are Given New Yorkers

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

No matter what may happen to those pennant-hungry New York baseball clubs within the next week or so, no one can say they haven't given or received fair warning.

The Yankees, leading the American league by a game and a half as they go into a "crucial" four-game series with Cleveland's secondplace Indians today, sounded the alarm by winning 17 of their last 20 games and tying another. The Giants, dropped into second place by Pittsburgh's Pirates, have heard a similar warning from the Chicago Cubs. They have to tackle Chicago and the newly-recovered Dizzy Dean late this week after what they hope will be a pleasant interlude at St. Louis.

Cubs Team To Watch

The Cubs, right now, look like a team to watch in the National league. They have won seven straight from Philadelphia and Boston to move back into third place. The return of Dean undoubtedly will be an inspiration and the team appears overdue for its annual big winning streak.

Chicago has a long way to go, however, before it can overtake those persistent Pirates. The Buccos, who rose to the top on a 13-game victory string, proved that wasn't just a prolonged flash in the pan when they won two games and tied one in a four-game series with the Giants. They made their margin, previously visible only in the percentage column, a half game yesterday by slugging out a 7-4 victory in two big innings.

Cubs Pull Out

The Cubs, meantime, pulled out a 7-6 decision over the Boston Bees in the ninth inning after blowing a 6-3 lead in the same frame.

The St. Louis Cardinals knocked off the Phillies, 5-3, in the day's only other game as the Brooklyn Dodgers, with four straight victories, were checked by rain at Cincinnati.

The American league had an open date.

Henry Armstrong Is Preparing To Knock Lou Ambers Out

BY DREW MIDDLETON
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 19 (AP) — Everytime you look up Henry Armstrong is getting ready to knock some fellow's head off. This time it is Lou Ambers and the Los Angeles negro goes so far as to predict he'll belt out the king of the lightweights.

The buzz-saw is making his first appearance here since he battered Barney Ross into a bleeding, helpless pulp and added the welterweight championship to his featherweight crown. He starts training Wednesday.

Maybe He's Gone Back

"I saw him fight this Jimmy Vaughn out in Los Angeles," said Henry, "and I think maybe he's gone back. He didn't lick Vaughn until Vaughn got tired and Jimmy hit him a couple of licks that really rocked him.

"Now that's different than he was," continued the hammer. "Remember him against Montanez that time indoors. Pedro hit him with everything but the water bucket one round and he came back in the last rounds and won a draw. Then he took some more from Pedro, outdoors, and licked him."

Has Passed His Peak?

The inference was that Ambers, after five years of fighting on or around the top, has passed his peak. But Henry was not too confident that was the answer. "I'm not too sure," he said, "All I can say is if he doesn't get better, I'll drop him."

This was an about face for Henry. Early last spring when he and Harry Armstrong, his trainer, were plotting their triple killing of the welterweight, lightweight and featherweight titles, they were more worried over Ambers than Ross.

"We still think he's cute, we haven't changed our minds on that," Henry answered. "Man, he's hard to hit and he knows a lot. But if his legs are goin' he isn't going to be so hard to hit and you saw how much knowin' a lot meant for Schmeling when he got in there with Louis."

Suspending License Of Corpus Christi Promoter Considered

AUSTIN, July 19 (AP) — Fred Nichols, state boxing commissioner, said last night he was considering suspending the license of Fred Lutz, Corpus Christi promoter, for failure to stage matches on a card advertised there last Friday.

Nichols said if he found Lutz had failed to fulfill the contract with engaged fighters, he would disbar the promoter.

TP Oilers Battle Wards; Still And Guess Face McIlhaney Ten

Two games are scheduled in softball leagues today, with T. and P. Oilers meeting Montgomery Ward in the National at 23rd St. and Ave. K, and Still and Guess tangling with McIlhaney at the CCC camp.

Wilson Cleaners and Dalby recorded victories Monday.

The Cleaners combined home runs by Earl Ince and Pigg with six-hit hurling of Graham to defeat the CCC campers, 5 to 2, at Avenue H field. The scheduled Good Eats-Lubbock Poultry and Egg game was not played, due to absence of the latter ten to compete in a tournament at Brownfield.

KYFO fell before Dalby, 12-11, in an extra-inning contest at the CCC camp. Nine innings were required, necessitating further postponement of a second game which earlier had been rained out.

Texarkana's Liners Creeping Closer To East Texas Lead

(By The Associated Press)

Texarkana's Liners crept closer to league leading Marshall of the East Texas circuit last night, with an 8-6 victory over Tyler, while Longview was beating Marshall 4-3.

Jacksonville's 1-0 shutout of Kilgore was featured by the victory bringing home run by Skipper Robello. It was the 29th of the season for him.

Timely hitting in the pinches brought a 7-5 victory to Henderson over the Palestine Pals.

Schoolboy And Daffy Foes On Hill Again

(By The Associated Press)

Beaumont's Exporters, who walloped the Tulsa Oilers 8-4 to cut the latter's Texas league leadership to three games, travels to Dallas to pit Schoolboy Rowe against Dallas' Paul Dean, in the rubber game of a now famous duel on the mound.

When the Schoolboy was with the Detroit Tigers and Dean with the St. Lou's Cards, Daffy beat Rowe in a World series contest. Recently in Beaumont, however, the two former big league stars, now attempting a comeback, met again, with the Schoolboy winner although Dean allowed only four hits.

Exporters Break Loose

Scoreless the first four frames last night, the Exporters burst loose with a six-run barrage in the fifth, and scored twice again before the end.

San Antonio's Missions took a 7-2 decision from the Oklahoma City Indians, thereby squeezing the Indians from third place in the standings.

In a ten-inning affair at Fort Worth. The Cats eked a victory over Houston 5-4 when a final inning rally was successful.

Dallas beat Shreveport 3-0. Jelly Sorelle of the Steers getting back to work for the first time since he was hospitalized for spike wounds.

All-Star Team Is Selected

(By The Associated Press)

TULSA, Okla., July 19.—Southpaw Max Thomas of Tulsa's league-leading Oilers and Righthander Bill Trotter of San Antonio will be the starting pitchers in the Texas league's golden jubilee all-star baseball game at Oklahoma City Saturday night.

Manager Bruce Connatser of Tulsa, who will direct the play of the picked team from the north half of the league, and Skipper Al Vincent of Beaumont, who was named pilot of the squad representing the south end of the loop, announced their probable starting lineups for the first time here last night just before a regular league game between their respective clubs.

First In Oklahoma

The third annual "dream game," celebrating the birth of the Texas league 50 years ago, will mark the first appearance of the all-stars on an Oklahoma diamond.

Connatser, who will manage the north's players selected by ballot from the Texas League teams at Tulsa, Oklahoma City, Dallas and Fort Worth, announced his batting order as follows:

Jim Levey, Dallas, shortstop.
Hubert Shelley, Oklahoma City, center field.
Clyde McDowell, Fort Worth, second base.
Harlin Pool, Dallas, left field.
Stanley Schino, Tulsa, right field.
Lee Stebbins, Fort Worth, first base.
Grey Clarke, Dallas, third base.
Vernon Mackie, Fort Worth, or George Susce, Tulsa, catcher.
Max Thomas, Tulsa, pitcher.

Batting Order For South

The bafter order for the south team, chosen from players at Beaumont, San Antonio, Houston and Shreveport, was announced by Vincent as folows:

Joe Valenti, Shreveport, third base.
Joe Vitter, Shreveport, second base.
Harold Epps, Houston, center field.
Pete Fleming, Shreveport, right field.
Sig Gryska, San Antonio, shortstop.
Les Fleming, Beaumont, first base.
Frank Secory, Beaumont, left field.
Walter Stephenson, Shreveport, or Dixon Parsons, Beaumont, catcher.
Bill Trotter, San Antonio, pitcher.

Neither skipper hesitated in the least when asked about the starting moundsmen. Thomas has won 17 games this year to lead the league in the number of games won, and has lost only seven. Trotter has won 15 games while being charged with but four defeats.

Rabe Is Back In Town

By Tom Miller

Not many games remain on the Hubber schedule for the 1938 season, so it's a good tip to crawl into the old gas-buggy and take a cushion (or rent one from little Sammy Tate) tonight when Lubbock engages the Boosters of Hobbs. Eighteen games, to be more exact, are left on the card for Parris field, except for those loose ends picked up from postponed contests. Tonight and Wednesday night, July 27 and 28, and 14 games in August are all that you will be chanced to see.

If you are picking out the best spots in the schedule to go out to the orchard for a peek at WT-NM baseball, these Hobbsmen are the number you've waited for. Little Neal Rabe is tops in popularity. He has more color than the entire Hubber roster and half Midland and Big Spring thrown in. Up or down, he'll be out there to put on a show that's worth half the price of admittance.

Last time the Boosters hit this end of the circuit, the Rabbit was a sick man and unable to cavort around in his usual manner. However, on two other visits here, Lubbock fans yelled louder for him than they did for a Carr-manufactured home run Climbing nearly to the top of the "chicken" wire in front of the grandstand is just one of his antics, running around the bases after grounding out and completing it with a hook slide in home, is another. Old Pete Rabbit will give you a show, see it.

Added to the Hub roster are a pair of chuckers that showed Sunday they might find their ways around in this loop, Ralph Marshall, a righthander, set the sandlots afire for two or three years in Dallas. Marvin Gramly had the displeasure of facing him in elbowing duels on occasion and says its a full-size dose. Tommy Fleming is the other pitcher. He was sent here from the Class B Anniston, Ala., club from whence Ernest "Big Bill" Terry came. The White Sox sent him here for a bit more seasoning in Class D ball.

We know that sports fans are in no mood for football with perspiration beading on summer necks, but less than three weeks will elapse before a taste from the gridiron will be had. Local powers did a swell job of engineering the Texas High School Coaches association school this way and now they are preparing to do a swell job of putting the thing over.

There's going to be a lot of college coaches here, too, but by majority they'll come for a far different purpose. Ray Morrison, Dutch Meyer, Matty Bell, Dutch McIntosh, and flock of others from the South and Southwest plan to look around. Frank Junell, Boswell of Texas Mines, says Mack Saxon, Harry Phillips, and Marshall Pennington will be on hand.

The football game the night of Aug. 6 will bring together the best high school prospects Texas produced last year. Adeptly coached by Harry Stuhldreher and Lynn Waldorf, the boys will stage a first-class grid show. Those boys are what the college mentors will appreciate more than the special plays run from given formations. They are the finest college prospects in any one territory, and it's first come, first served with them unless someone down the line hikes the ante.

Tyrus Raymond Cobb, the Georgia Peach and one of the all-time baseball greats, and about whom Ross Newland, Associated Press sports scribe, says "knows something about baseball," has given one rookie ball player some advice that is good for them all. Sam Chapman, who made the almost impossible jump from the campus to the big time and now is holding down a regular job with the Philadelphia Athletics, is the fortunate chap to receive advice from Ty Cobb.

Says Cobb, "The boy should try shortening his grip on the bat. Hot weather is sapping his strength and that club probably feels like he is swinging a tree trunk. He can hit the ball just as hard with a shorter grip and still have better control of himself.

"Then he should change tactics—like hitting the first pitch every other time or lamming into the fat one the pitcher usually throws when he is in the hole. If the slump continues; then try hitting them back to the pitcher, one after the other. Then he can lengthen them out and I think he will regain the old confidence. I went through many slumps and worked out of them this way."

It has been noted all season that Hubber batsmen, of the same classification as Chapman, have repeatedly let fat first pitches go by, only to be faced with sharp curves or faster pitches later down the creek. It is part of the game to cross the opposing flinger up just as it is to lam 'em out of the lot. When a pitcher knows a given player will pass up the first one or the cripple, it is no gamble to "groove" the pitch. If the batter jumps on a few of those easy ones, he'll break down someone's confidence.

CATCHES FISH TWICE

PALESTINE, July 19. (AP)—It wasn't so much that Herman Brien of St. Louis caught the same fish twice at Davey's lake north of here. It was what Brien thought about it.

The St. Louis man hung a five-pound bass, which broke the line. Later the fish was found floating belly-up in another part of the lake, the lure dangling from its mouth.

Brien said he believed the fish must have become excited and drowned.

TOURNAMENT IS SCHEDULED

New Nazi Decree Imposes Extensive Duties On Civilians During War

Supplies Are Requisitioned

(By The Associated Press)

BERLIN, July 19. (AP)—Driving home the nazi principle that the private individual counts for nothing, the state for everything, the government today published a decree imposing extensive duties in aid of the country's armored forces upon all citizens as a preparedness measure in event of war.

The decree, signed by Chancellor Adolf Hitler, Col.-Gen. Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the army high command, and Interior Minister Wilhelm Frick, demands services or deliveries in kind from all civilians for military ends as and when they are required.

To Coordinate Duties

The purpose of the decree, it was officially explained, was to coordinate such duties and bring them up to date.

The new law, it was pointed out, replaces old ordinances such as those governing the billeting of military forces on civilians dating back to 1868 (in Austria to 1879), and those of 1925 defining the liability of citizens to render material aid for defense purposes.

All For Use Of Armies

The decree covers the requisitioning of supplies and stores of forage, motor fuel, use of water hydrants, gas, electric current, use of buildings and factories for billeting, horses and vehicles of all sorts, and plants for the dissemination of news—all for the use of armies on the march or during maneuvers.

The rendering of assistance to aviators and sailors in distress also is provided for.

The decree says suitable compensation is to be made "in so far as the services cannot justifiably be expected to be rendered free."

Defense Witness In Harlan's Labor Trial Fatally Injured

CORBIN, Ky., July 19. (AP)—Oscar Skidmore, 22, defense witness in the Harlan anti-labor conspiracy trial at London, Ky., was killed in an automobile accident late last night on a highway four miles east on here.

Skidmore's death was the fourth fatality in the course of ten-weeks-old trial. Three other men, either witnesses or defendants, have been shot dead.

NEGRO TO BE BURIED

SHREVEPORT, La., July 19. (AP)—The new Zion church in the little Lee Bend country of Bossier parish will be the scene of funeral services today of Giles Arnold, 53-year-old negro plantation foreman who was the "Giles" of the Roark Bradford's plantation stories.

Giles died Sunday night. Services will be in a little church near the 1,386-acre plantation managed by R. C. "Dick" Bradford, brother of the author.

A Silent Movie About A Chimpanzee

4-H Club Rally Is Slated Here

An all-day 4-H club rally for Lubbock county boys and girls will be conducted July 29 at Mackenzie state park.

Plans were announced by J. W. Palmore, jr., assistant county agent, and Miss Elizabeth Brooks, assistant home demonstration agent.

Games and amusements will be had during the day. Short talks will be made by J. H. Brock of the chamber of commerce and Dean A. H. Leidigh of the division of agriculture of Texas Technological college and Miss Margaret Weeks, dean of the home economics division.

Others To Speak

James A. Potts, a Lubbock county 4-H club boy, who attended the recent state encampment at College Station and Miss Wilma Stokes a club girl, are to speak. Potts is to be presented a gold star pin for his club work, he having been one of 100 boys in Texas to receive one. Miss Stokes was presented her pin at College Station.

Boys are asked to bring their lunch at noon. For the night meal a small charge will be made, probably 10 cents, Palmore said.

The night program starts at 8 o'clock and will include singing and recreational games, club boys and girls will be in charge of these.

Parents are urged to attend, said Palmore. There are 308 boys and 260 girls in clubs in the county.

Encampment To Be Held At Silver Falls, Aug. 8-10

CROSBYTON, July 18 (Special)—Crosbyton Chamber of Commerce will assist in entertaining 350 4-H club boys of district 2 at Silver Falls lake Aug. 8 to 10.

The lake is in Blanco canyon three miles east of town. Water comes from a spring and there are boating and swimming day and night. The place is lighted for night sport. Life guards are on duty all the time the park is open.

Nineteen counties in the district will send their club members here for the occasion. County agents and assistants will supervise the play.

Work of measuring cotton acreage for the 1938 farm program was further speeded Monday when two additional sets of supervisors started work, according to J. C. Smith, county supervisor.

They were: Earl Fine and T. A. Johnson, supervisor and assistant at Posey; W. T. Ellis and E. B. Saunders, supervisor and assistant at Acuff.

A million dollar glass exhibit will be a feature of the N. Y. World's Fair.

'Fireside Chat' On Return Is Likely

HASHINGTON, July 19. (AP)—Well-informed persons considered it increasingly possible today that President Roosevelt would make a "fireside chat" about his western tour when he returns to Washington.

Such a speech, they said, would give him an opportunity not only to recount his personal observations of American conditions but also to summarize his political and legislative objectives.

When he reutrned last September from a national tour that carried him through the drouth states, he made a radio speech on his trip.

The political phase of Mr. Roosevelt's present journey has stopped for the time being while he goes fishing in the Pacific, but it probably will be resumed August 9 when he disembarks at Pensacola, Fla.

What sort of speeches he will make in the South remains to be seen. The western portion of his trip, however, left no doubt that for the remaining 30 months of his term, Mr. Rosevelt would campaign vigorously for "liberalism" as against "conservatism" in the Democratic party.

Neutralization Said Favored

(By The Associated Press)

MANILA, July 19. (Tuesday)—Commonwealth President Manuel L. Quezon said today in a broadcast to America that Japanese statesmen seemed unanimous in their sympathy with the idea of neutralizing the Philippines when the islands receive their independence, probably in 1946.

Quezon, who returned from Japan Sunday, said he entertained no misgivings concerning the attitude of Japan toward the Philippines, once the islands were fully separated from the United States government.

Denies Purpose Of Trip

He denied emphatically that his trip to Japan was for the purpose of starting negotiations with the Japanese government looking toward neutralization of the Philippines.

The United States government, Quezon pointed out, exercised full control over the commonwealth's foreign affairs, and any neutralization negotiations must be by the United States.

Preparing Defense

The Philippines, said the president, was preparing for national defense, not because of fear that any nation had untoward designs against the country's independence or territorial integrity, but because "it is a primary function of every government to insure its own protection."

Ignoring the proposal of Paul V. McNutt, United States high commissioner, for a realistic re-examination of the entire Philippine question, President Quezon said he was persuaded that America, in granting independence, did so on the assumption that she had stayed in the islands long enough to give Filipinos sufficient training to take over full responsibility for their own affairs, "in accordance with the rules and dictates of international justice and amity."

LOCAL supporters of Double-You Lee O'Daniel only yawned when the charge was made—and substantiated—that the Ft. Worth flour broker has no poll tax receipt.

Then later, when it was brought out that Double-You Lee was born in Ohio and tarried quite a spell in Kansas en route to Texas, they yawned again.

They said neither of these things would hurt his candidacy any.

But now they're worried.

Somebody has found out that Double-You stands for "Wilbert"—and that's enough to hurt anybody's candidacy!

The theory that mankind sprang from anthropoid apes will not attract much attention as long as men continue to keep their legs covered.

THE PLAINSMAN can remember —and it wasn't so many years ago — when the mere mention of "Dallas Booster" was enough to cause the bravest West Texan to run for cover.

In those days Dallas was "all broke out" with boosters.

They'd get you in a corner, spouting facts and figures about the East Texas capital, and when they did, it was just too bad.

They'd keep on, and on, and on until they were exhausted.

And you'd be surprised at the energy and vitality those guys had!

But that was back in the days when Dallas was wresting the Texas population leadership away from sleepy, tranquil San Antonio, which had always held the "biggest city" title because of the droves of docile peons who stopped there some generations back when en route northward from Mexico.

It was before Buffalo Bayou turned Houston from an inland town to a bustling seaport by virtue of being changed to a ship channel.

At that time it looked like Dallas was "off to the races," never to be stopped; headed, as it were, to the population and progress championship of all the South.

SINCE then, however, times have changed — and with a bang.

Houston has passed Dallas like a freight train passes a tramp and now it's Houston that looks like it will never be headed off.

That once fearful tribe of Dallas Boosters, indomitable in their onslaughts and unceasing with their chamber of commerce statistics, has now gone the way of the noble red man and his cigar store counterpart.

Pride galloped along before a tremendous tumble, as it were.

If you'll take time to notice the building permits, which are printed each Sunday in The Avalanche-Journal and other state papers, you'll get more than a hazy idea of what has happened and is happening in Texas.

Briefly, Houston is running away with the show — as it has been now for a number of years.

Take last week's building permits as an example. They are fairly representative of each's week's gatherings.

For the year, to date, Houston's permits totaled $14,448,730 which, roughly speaking, equals the combined figures of Dallas, Ft. Worth, San Antonio, Lubbock and Austin, which, with Corpus Christi, trail along behind Houston in the building race.

Dallas, in second place, has only $4,714,761 to lay along side Houston's 14 million-plus. In other words, there's three times as much building going on in Houston as there is in Dallas.

THE Same situation holds in other lines, too.

In fact, about the only leadership Dallas can lay claim to in Texas today is as the style and retail shopping capital.

Many a well-fixed Houstonian sees his wife drive off to Dallas to stock up her wardrobe upon several occasions each year and there's no denying that.

But for the rest of it — well, Houston's on top and seems destined, in 1940, to cash in at about 500,000 souls as compared to not over 350,000 for Big D.

Times change in Texas, as elsewhere.

One can't scan the building permits weekly, however, without marveling over our own little wayside watering point — the capital of the nation's well known "white spot."

The 10 "first cities" in building are, in order, Houston, 1; Dallas, 2; Ft. Worth, 3; San Antonio, 4; Austin, 5; Corpus Christi, 6; Lubbock, 7; Galveston, 8; Amarillo, 9, and Tyler 10.

Of that list, Tyler is the only city smaller than Lubbock and it can't be over 5,000 smaller if it is that much. All the rest of them are from one and a half to 12 times as large. Yet Lubbock's million and a half total rates very nicely along side of San Antonio's three million; Corpus Christi's $1,700,000, and tops Galveston's $1,300,000.

Wichita Falls, allegedly in the grip of an adjacent oil boom, has been able to count up but $403,000 for the year to date while Tyler, of comparable size, has only $766,000.

This is a pretty fair little town we've got here, in case somebody comes up on a bobsled and asks you!

That Man on Avenue Q says the governor's race being what it is offers a threat that somebody's liable to try to revive the Little Theater movement in Lubbock.

DRIVING around the other day, The Plainsman noticed that our golf courses are doing very nicely.

They are attracting a lot of gentlemen, as well as quite a scattering of ladies. There's something doing on them from early morning until dusk.

The sight of the lads and lassies frolicking on the green reminded us of an essay on golf which we some years ago laid by for a rainy day, columnly speaking. So we dug it out. It goes:

"Golf is a form of hard work made expensive enough for men to enjoy it. It is estimated that if it were called work and paid 75 cents an hour, at least eleven men in the United States would still follow it.

"Golf is a preferred but unprofitable substitute for letter-carrying, ditch-digging and carpet-beating. It is largely indulged in by enthusiastic gentlemen wearing short pants and colored socks who would not walk two blocks to see the Statue of Liberty turn a flip-flop.

"More tools are required to play this game correctly than a carpenter uses in building a house. Each tool is supposed to have a specific purpose, but no matter which club a golfer uses, he thinks afterwards that he should have used another.

"When you decide to take up golf it looks like the simplest game in the world; after you have taken it up you think you are the simplest person in the world for ever having thought so. In one respect it is like the dope habit: once you start it you can't quit. As a means for prolonging the lives of useless men, it has no equal.

"The game is played on a neatly trimmed cow pasture with little white balls costing from 50 cents to a dollar each and as many funny looking clubs as the player can afford to buy. It is estimated that if all the balls lost by golfers in a single afternoon were found and loaded on the steamship Queen Mary, it would sink.

A REGULAR golf course consists of 18 "holes," at varying distances apart and placed in the most inaccessible spots. A "hole" consists of an iron cup placed near the center of a "green." The "green" is a smoothly shaved plot of grass of the imported variety costing about $1.95 a blade. The object of the game is to drive, swat, knock, smack, whack, tap or otherwise propel the ball into each of the 18 holes with the fewest number of strokes and the least possible profanity.

"To make the game more interesting, hillocks, brooks, trees, underbrush, tall grass and sand-filled holes are strategically placed here and there in the player's pathway around the course. "Hazards" of this sort are a source of great glee to a golfer who would cuss profusely if he had to detour one block around a street excavation.

"After each hole is played, the golfer adds up his score. Many of them have apparently learned arithmetic in a night school and can't add correctly in the day time. Some of the great captains of finance, strange to say, are unable to add above 87 on a golf course!"

Not bad, we'll say.

The Plainsman never played golf and doesn't know anybody who can play golf.

But he knows a lot of guys who talk a swell game!

nurses on a demonstration tour of some of the less exciting wards. The itinerary happened to lead them past the opened door of the Emergency reception room at the very moment when a police ambulance clanged up and stopped outside; and two uniformed figures hurried in, supporting between them a limp, bleeding man.

The rest of Tran's group passed demurely on, herded by an older nurse. . . . But not Tran.

This that was happening in Emergency was the kind of thing she had hoped she was coming to the hospital to learn about. Yet up to date she had not had an opportunity to learn about much of anything except unexciting matters like the anatomy of the circulatory system, and how to make beds—and above all, how to address one's superiors. . . . Among other things—as Tran had discovered after several disheartening experiences—"probes," as the probationers were vulgarly called, did not make brash suggestions to their betters unless asked for them.

Now, as Tran stood entranced with curiosity, some one else came along the corridor and halted outside the door of Emergency. Glancing over her shoulder, Tran saw a tall, handsome man whose spotless white linen emphasized his look of glowing cleanliness and vitality and self-confidence; and whose arrogant nose and deep-set blue eyes suggested a native impatience not too firmly leashed.

Tran's heart missed a beat as she recognized him. Only the day before some one had pointed Dr. Sargent out to her as the most brilliant surgeon — and the most gosh-awful man to work under—in the whole hospital. It was his "gosh-awfulness" that had won for him the nickname of "Top Sergeant," clipped for convenience to "Top Sarge."

To make a mistake when you were helping him was as much as your uniform was worth. . . . To be personally requested to assist him at an operation was the equivalent of a royal command. That was the mark Tran had set herself to shoot at.

Now the dark, friendly young interne on duty in Emergency glanced up from the figure the officers had placed on the table and called, "Oh, Dr. Sargent, please! If you have a minute, I'd appreciate some advice, sir."

The tall white-clad figure went into the room. After a hasty glance up and down the corridor, Tran recklessly slid in after him.

The two men bent over, studying the angry red hole in the bare patch the interne had exposed on the patient's right shoulder. Tran, fascinated beyond thought of caution, eased herself closer, until her breath was almost upon the backs of their necks.

"Pretty deep, shouldn't you say, sir?" the interne suggested deferentially. "I think I'll need a probe."

"A probe, by all means," Dr. Sargent agreed.

Tran could hardly believe her ears. "Probes," she had been told, never got within a mile of operations—much less to help with them. Yet the Emergency interne had undoubtedly said that a "probe" was needed; and the terrifying "Top Sarge" had agreed with him. It seemed providential that she was on the spot.

Tran cleared her throat so sharply that they both jumped and turned, frowning at her.

"Perhaps," she said breathlessly, "perhaps—wouldn't I do? I'm one—a 'probe,' I mean," she hurried on—as if her gray dress and voluminous apron were not sufficient advertisement of her low estate.

The young interne's face underwent a sort of convulsion; he turned his back and made a disconcerting noise that sounded like a cross between a sneeze, a sob, and a smothered prayer.

The terrible "Top Sarge" just stood, looking. But something in the way he looked gave the effect of an amazed Olympian surveying from the heights a particularly insignificant worm.

Tran's heart began to sink. She couldn't be mistaken. He had definitely said, "A probe, by all means." . . . Later, of course, she was to learn that when a surgeon asks for a "probe," the chances are at least one to a billion billion that he does not mean a student nurse, but a surgical instrument used for extracting embedded solids. . . . Now she only understood that something was terribly wrong.

Nevertheless, she persisted, "I mean—well, you did say you needed a 'probe,' didn't you?"

"And even so," Top Sarge spoke with a chilling politeness, "may I ask what you happen to be doing here?"

Tran put her hands into the pockets of her uniform to keep them from shaking.

"I was—well—looking," she managed to get out. "I"—desperately she strove for a more chatty note—"a hospital is such an interesting place—don't you think?"

Then—because the more frightened she was, the more irresistibly she wanted to laugh—she took her cheeks hard between her teeth; but her traitor eyes got bigger and darker and shinier in her pale little face.

"So interesting," he said, his own eyes like remote blue ice, "that if you're quite through sight-seeing here, I should appreciate your going to do your looking elsewhere."

After a quivering instant, Tran went, with what dignity she could muster.

"And who, Benchley," Dr. Sargent demanded, "would that feather-brain be?"

Young Dr. Benchley grinned.

"Her given name—believe it or not—is Tranquility — Tranquility Dearborn," he said. "But she's more popularly known as 'Utility'."

"And what, in heaven's name, is she doing in this hospital—or any other, for that matter?"

"Well—as her nickname rather neatly implies—just about anything that nobody else wants to do—heaven help her!"

Whether Heaven heard his prayer or not, not many minutes had elapsed before Tran was to need the benefit of prayer.

CHAPTER II

With burning cheeks Tran fled down the corridor—away from those cruelly amused male voices in Emergency. For, although nothing was further from her ethical code than to eavesdrop, she had heard. . . . Her resentment was entirely directed toward the homely, dark young interne who had snickered. As for Top Sarge, of course, no one would have thought of questioning his right to be caustic, any more than if it had been a law of nature. He was "Top Sarge." Nevertheless that "feather-brain" did rankle.

Oh, well, all she had wanted anyhow was to pick up a little useful surgical information; and at least she did know now that the chances against any one's wanting a student nurse when he asked for a "probe" ran into astronomical figures.

She had a good deal of difficulty in finding the rest of the demonstration group, because no one had considered it worth while to tell her beforehand just where they were going, or why.

It began to occur to her that by this time Miss Miller, the senior nurse in charge of the group, just

A FOOLISH EXPENDITURE FOR UNCLE SAM

Extravagances of our government are proverbial—a joke to the world. But even our own Uncle Sam seems to have been trying to outdo himself with his insistence upon the expenditure of $750,000 for palaces to be occupied by the nation's high commissioner in the Philippine islands.

Indications now are that the palaces—one for summer and the other for winter—are likely to take rank as the costliest places of abode in our history. This statement is based not upon the fact that the aggregate cost of the two palaces will be $750,000—although that sum should be sufficient for two pretty nice shacks. The statement takes into consideration the fact that we are pledged to move out of the Philippines within a very few years. Of course, the palaces may then serve as places of residence for our minister to that newly independent nation, which will mean that our envoy to that very minor country will be the most handsomely housed individual in our entire diplomatic service.

We are not one to criticise a proper environment for our nation's official representative in the islands. But three-quarters of a million dollars does seem like a lot of money for palaces among a lot of heathens for occupancy by the holder of an official position which soon will cease to exist.

Hollywood Chit-Chat

Still demonstrating that the Rand is quicker than eye, Sally is appearing at local theater with her fans and bubbles. Oops! There Goes A Few More Grand

After eight months of panic and penury, talkietown is beginning to use the terms "colossal" and "terrific" again.

Metro budgeted $112,000 for a single sequence, a ship burning, in "Too Hot to Handle." One of its back lots, a 30-acre tract, is covered with a set for "The Great Waltz"—a town with a street a quarter of a mile long. . . . Warners will spend $200,000 on their technical version of the San Francisco earthquake in "The Sisters." . . . An RKO company will live and work for two months on a mountain location for "Gunga Din." Five hundred carpenters are preparing sets and quarters for them now. . . . David Selznick will produce "Titanic" and Walter Wanger may do "Leviathan." . . . And in a few weeks Hollywood production should reach an all-time high, with about 70 flickers rolling from the cameras.

As usual, however, quickie producers are still starving. One of them was seen knocking at the wolf's door.

Bing Crosby and Paramount really are battling over the title of his new picture. First it was "Sing, You Sinners"; now it's "The Unholy Beebes." His indignation—so great that he refused to show up for work the other day—isn't merely over an inept title, but because his music publishing company printed all the sheet music with the original tag and now may have to scrap it.

General Goldwyn's Last Stand

Charlie Chaplin and Tim Durant say they've finished the scripts of two pictures—one for Chaplin himself and one for Paulette Goddard—maybe. . . . Gary Cooper will portray an officer under General Custer in "Seventh Cavalry," and Custer's last stand is to be filmed at its actual location on the Little Big Horn. Condolences already are in order for Producer Goldwyn and Writers Howard Estabrook and William Rankin; they're sure to be rapped for inaccuracies because there are half a dozen theories of what actually happened at the Little Big Horn. And nobody really knows.

FDR 'Just Getting Started' In His Efforts To Control Party, Rodney Dutcher Thinks

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 19.—President Roosevelt's attempt to encompass defeat of certain senators and election of others in the 1938 Democratic primaries is only a curtain-raiser. It will be followed by two exciting, turbulent political years as F.D.R. plunges ahead with his crusade to liberalize the Democratic party and to control its 1940 nominations.

Dutcher

This will be true regardless of the degree of failure or success of 1938 purge efforts, say Roosevelt intimates. The President left on his western trip happier than ever. He feels he has created a situation where political realignment is inevitable and that it's more fun fighting down a straight-line track than playing the part of a shifty politician.

Presidential strategy after November will be worked out as time goes on. The strong New Dealish flavor of recent presidential appointments, plus slaps at Senators Byrd and Glass of Virginia, Tydings of Maryland, and McCarran of Nevada through removal of friends from federal office or appointment of political enemies in the senators' home states, may presage one phase of attack. If so, there will be battles royal over various senatorial confirmations.

Throughout the tenure of the next congress there will be no question of Roosevelt's hope of driving his program's opponents from office. In the center of the fighting will be those Democratic senatorial opponents up for renomination and election in 1940, including Burke of Nebraska, Byrd of Virginia, Gerry of Rhode Island, Holt of West Virginia, King of Utah, Walsh of Massachusetts, and Wheeler of Montana.

Bosses Liked His Speech

Neither Roosevelt nor Administrator Harry Hopkins has uttered the slightest reproof to WPA Deputy Administrator Aubrey Williams since he publicly told WPA workers to "Keep your friends in power!"

Both liked the speech, even though the Senate campaign investigating committee censured Williams. Hopkins privately says he will refuse to be muzzled during the campaign months, regardless of the committee.

"I'm for Roosevelt," says the WPA administrator. "I'm not for Landon."

Why Steel Cut Prices

Various reasons behind the cut in steel prices and virtual elimination of the basing point system by U. S. Steel corporation have been revealed, but not all. A direct threat by Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold of criminal prosecution under anti-trust laws is supposed to have been one factor. Anyway, it was an open secret that the Justice department was planning such proceedings.

But the final push was given at a secret meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute on Wednesday, June 22. President Eugene Grace of Bethlehem Steel arose, said something had to be done and declared Bethlehem was going to cut prices on its own.

With that information, U. S. Steel executives worked feverishly and brought out a new price schedule on June 24, effective the 25th. Whether its price cuts were bigger than anything Grace contemplated isn't known, but ending the basing point system was a direct blow to U. S. Steel's competitors. The feud between "Big Steel" and "Little Steel" is bitterer than ever and the whole industry is still trying to figure out where it stands.

Spending Figures

Latest confidential government estimates indicate that gross federal expenditures in the fiscal year 1938-39 will total about $9,000,000,000. This compares with about $7,500,000,000 in 1937-38.

The net federal contribution to consumer purchasing power (excess of expenditure over tax collections) has risen from 40 millions in February to 170 millions in July. It is believed that this figure will reach 350 millions a month some time next spring, as a result of expected expenditures and lower tax receipts.

State and local expenditures are running at about 10 billions a year, three billions more than in 1932.

FLASHES OF LIFE

(By The Associated Press)

uble Duty

NEW YORK — Mrs. Lucille Hall of Baird, Texas, has combined the roles of mother and teacher at Columbia university.

Mrs. Hall, a summer student in the teachers college, is getting academic credit for observing the classroom behavior of her daughter, 13.

The girl is a student in the college's demonstration school. As part of her psychology assignment, Mrs. Hall visits the school each day and takes notes on how her daughter gets along with other youngsters.

LOS ANGELES—J. P. Johnson's car is burned and he's storming a bottle of water for the blaze.

The bottle lay next to bedding in the car, Johnson explains, and magnified the sun's rays to a red-hot point. The bedding smoldered, blazed.

w Road Hazard

SALT LAKE CITY — David Buck drove home from a meeting in which he thought was his car.

Next day he saw his machine parked near the meeting place. He hurried to police headquarters, found the car he was driving was listed as stolen.

o-be!

ST. LOUIS—An impromptu rodeo—with police and detectives as unwilling cowboys—proved hard on both clothes and dispositions.

Forty-seven hogs and seven cows, spilled from a truck when it collided with the framework of a Mississippi bridge, provided the "sport"—for the spectators.

The officers, pursuing the animals through the drizzling rain, took half an hour to corral the livestock.

INDIANAPOLIS—Mrs. Irene Hill was sure no food she had cooked ever smelled like that before.

She lifted a lid from the simmering pot and sniffed suspiciously. Then an explosion filled the air with flying beans and ham.

Firemen said Mrs. Hill had not only used gasoline as fuel for her stove—but also had been cooking the ham and beans in it.

A well known principle of the psychology of memory is to associate the fact you wish to remember with something you already know. Take the following as an example:

You wish to remember that the Pilgrims landed in America during the year 1620 . . . now associate this fact with THE BAKER CO. telephone number which also is 1620 . . . Presto, the job is done . . . it's easy to remember . . . telephone 1620.

Livestock

19—Livestock For Sale

Lubbock Auction And Commission Co.
AUCTION SALE EVERY TUESDAY AND FRIDAY

LUBBOCK AUCTION AND COMMISSION COMPANY'S market jumped the gun on recovery again this week. Prices moved upward so rapidly the trade couldn't keep front figures on their mind, and it was one of the nicest arranged scrambles that man could devise.

Buyers scrambled for steers, yearlings, cows, heifers and to make it unanimous, stocker and feeder dealers got into the affray with no intention of being ignored. The glamour of the week centered on good butcher cattle, and stiff competition didn't frighten the buyers in the least. All classes of cattle sold 25c to 50c higher than last week.

We have the buyers coming to us for their needs, and we are looking to you—our good customers—to keep us supplied with enough cattle to satisfy our many buyers.

If you have no way to get stock in, wire or phone us for trucking service.

We are bonded for your protection!

Snyder Livestock Market
Of Lubbock, Texas

Mr. Harry Trussel of La Junta, Colorado, who has had several years experience operating auction sales of livestock at La Junta and at Syracuse, Kansas, will take active charge of the management of our market Thursday, July 21.

We have also made arrangements with Mr. Jim Cherrill of Denver, Colorado to work in the ring.

We had a good active market Thursday, and both butcher cattle and stockers sold readily at good prices.

We will sell cattle at private sale every day in the week and continue our auction sales on Thursday of each week.

We are now buying hogs every day. Bring us your hogs.

For best results consign your livestock to Snyder Livestock Market.

Program Is Planned At Cooper School

An all-day program Wednesday will serve to give the public a first look at the new Cooper rural high school at Woodrow, allow them to hear candidates in one of the last few of their vocal appearances and afford a general get-together that will include a basket lunch, auctioning of pies, playing of music and baseball and other features.

The program is of significance because it means completion of a rural high school goal of a new building for every Lubbock rural district, or remodeling and renovating. The new building, modern in every respect, will be open for inspection from 9:30 to 10:30 o'clock Wednesday morning, and from 1:30 to 2:30 Wednesday afternoon. High school students will be ushers.

Candidates will speak from 10:30 until 12 o'clock noon, when basket lunches will be provided all. At 2:30 o'clock candidates will conclude their campaign speeches and there will be a rodeo. Cooper FFA boys have built fence and corral for the event. The rodeo will be followed by a baseball game.

The public is invited to attend, said Joseph R. Griggs, Lubbock county superintendent.

B. M. Hays, superintendent at Woodrow, will direct the program.

along the east and west street. Across the way are the Chicago North Shore and Milwaukee Line tracks and freight depot.

Chief Novak called to his men: "All right, let's go," and the battle was on. He shouted to the pickets "get going and keep going north."

Under pressure of the tear gas and clubs, the picket lines wavered and fell back. Instantly an automobile loaded with five company foremen drove into the plant. The foremen had been repulsed earlier.

Body Of Williams Is Sent To Stanton

Body of Roy Wiliams, 27, laborer who was adjudged a suicide, was sent by Sanders Funeral home late this morning to Stanton for funeral services this afternoon.

In a verdict entered in his records this morning by Walter Davis, justice of peace, Williams was ruled to have come to his death Monday in a downtown hotel by poison (a strong disinfectant) self-administered.

In a statement at an inquest conducted by Justice Davis, R. L. Reinhardt, who had been in the hotel room with Williams, said he saw Williams at 4:30 o'clock Monday morning and that he expressed "no despondency." When he next saw the man at 3 o'clock that afternoon, Williams was dead. Reinhardt said he had gone to work after Williams had told him the room was paid until Tuesday and that he proposed staying there until then.

Authorities found an empty bottle of the disinfectant and several other empty bottles in the room, they said. Williams was lying across a bed when Reinhardt gained entry to the room through assistance of a bellboy.

Earlier plans had been to take the body to Mineola, where two sister live.

Survivors are four sisters, Mrs. E. B. Reinhardt and Miss Maurine Williams, both of Stanton, and Mrs. W. C. Little and Mrs. L. Meheer, both of Mineola.

Only 13 reservations had been received and a minimum of 25 were required, he said.

Meanwhile, he added, attention now is being centered on preparations for district swimming meets which will be preliminary to a council-wide tournament in the American Legion pool in Plainview Aug 12.

The Lubbock district meet, he said, has been moved forward from Aug 5 to Aug. 4 and John W. Wilson, physical education instructor at Junior High school, has been named chairman. Wilson has called a meeting of his committee for 7:30 o'clock Wednesday morning in council headquarters in the Myrick building.

The appointment at the university was received by the Junior High school teacher a short time ago.

Trailer House Charges Filed

Three complaints, the first to be filed under the Lubbock "trailer house" ordinance adopted several months ago, were disclosed this morning as having been filed by City Building Inspector Jim Reid in corporation court.

All name the same individual as defendant. He was out of the city, however, and police said they had not been served.

May Be Others Filed

The complaints, according to warning from the building inspector, are the first of many which will be filed unless there is a closer observance of the ordinance. Although several violations have been discovered in the past, he added, conditions have been corrected without the necessity of prosecution.

The three charges were filed, the building inspector said, after investigations had disclosed that the defendant had placed within Lubbock city limits houses of the "shack" type which he had been warned were in violation of city ordinances. The houses, according to the further allegation, were built here, moved into the oil fields and then were brought back to Lubbock, violating not only the trailer house regulation but the city fire zoning ordinance as well.

Typhoid Cases Reported

Further spurring activity on the part of city officials, they added, was the discovery recently of three cases of typhoid fever in the vicinity of the Mexican section. Each of the patients, according to Dr. J. W. Rollo, city health officer, was a member of an itinerant family and had contracted the fever before coming to Lubbock. All since have completely recovered, Dr. Rollo added.

One of the requirements of the trailer ordinance deads with water and sewer connections designed as a safeguard against such things as typhoid.

Foolhardy Hero

communication with the United States government. But little trouble was expected because of the unorthodox flight.

Newspapers burst into praise.

The Northern Whig of Belfast said: "Flying the Atlantic in an old dilapidated monoplane, Corrigan turned a gamble with fate into a brilliant and jaunty triumph.

"Never has there been a long distance flight so unceremonious and impudently daring, but this irrepressible flier, who has Irish blood in his veins, risked everything and by a combination of audacity and skill and good fortune came safely through and made transatlantic flying look ridiculously matter-of-fact."

The Irish News said: "Corrigan's feat without wireless, weather reports, maps or adequate instruments leaves us almost speechless with amazement.

"When the initial shock is over, the hand of everyone will be lifted to salute this intrepid adventurer with an Irish name."

Warm And Probably Profitable Welcome Awaits Flier's Return

By CHARLES A. GRUMICH

NEW YORK, July 19. — Douglas (Who Said Jalopy?) Corrigan today faced a warm and probably profitable welcome home and nothing worse than a spanking out behind the hangar at the hands of a forgiving government.

For a trans-Atlantic flight violating all the rules, a daring, unpredicted ocean hop before a world now yawning over fliers who can let a robot do the heavy work and reach announced destinations on schedule, riches may be the reward if Corrigan will take them.

Penalty To Be Light

Stifling snickers that turned to open-mouthed amazement and then to admiration, persons of influence indicated his penalty, if any, for nose-thumbing the authorities would be light.

From Denis Mulligan, head of the federal bureau of air commerce, on the official side, to the Irish-American Societies of New York, on the sentimental, the flight so caught imagination that the policy was to forgive—and not forget so far as a welcome is concerned.

Dusting Off "Celebrity Trail"

Already, they're dusting off the "celebrity trail" traveled only last week by Howard Hughes & company.

Mulligan, torn between the pride of the "Ould Sod" and duty, asserted between chuckles that something would have to be done.

His first concern was to prevent "incorrigible Corrigan" from jumping into his ship and flying home.

Not To Attempt Return

Corrigan promised interviewers in Ireland he would not attempt to backtrack his uncharted trail across the Atlantic, a route carefully traversed six previous times by aviators flying solo and mainly with elaborate instruments as aids—certainly in planes prettier than Corrigan's obsolete Curtiss Robin, 1922 model.

The mild burst of publicity that accompanied Corrigan's 28-hour nonstop flight from Long Beach, Calif., to New York July 9, a mere smattering of space on the eve of Howard Hughes takeoff 'round the world, brought several "feeler" offers to the flyer.

Offers Are Piling Up

Now that he has completely captured the front pages concrete offers of profit are piling up.

Oil companies whose regularly prepared products fueled and lubricated Corrigan's plane checked Floyd Bennett field yesterday to learn just what he bought or bartered from them.

Although Corrigan steadfastly assured the pop-eyed Irish populace that he thought all the time he was flying to California, that his compass worked backwards or something, he can hardly plead innocent when brought to the bar of the federal bureau controlling aircraft.

He applied once before for permission to fly to Ireland and was refused. Friends at Roosevelt field disclosed that promptly thereafter he spent some time in New England vainly searching for an obscure field for a quiet takeoff overseas last summer.

Prime Minister de Valera Congratulates Corrigan

DUBLIN, July 19. (AP)—Prime Minister Eamon de Valera congratulated Douglas G. "Daredevil" Corrigan today on his "wrong way" flight from New York to Dublin.

The prime minister hurried from a cabinet meeting to greet the 31-year-old Californian and hear the details of the daring flight.

After thanking de Valera for Ireland's kindness to him, Corrigan visited government buildings to straighten out difficulties arising out of his failure to have any of the papers a flier abroad is supposed to carry.

Officials of Ireland's department of external affairs told him they would place no difficulties in his way.

Corrigan went out to Baldonnel airport to see his "old crate" and disclosed he hoped to visit London to exhibit the plane. There also was some talk that he might take the machine to the Glasgow exposition.

"I am not going home without the plane, but I won't fly it," the Californian explained. He said he would take it back by steamer.

He had lunch at the United States legation, where messages from many parts of the world poured in with congratulations on his flight. One of them was said to have been from Henry Ford.

'The Corrigan Clipper' Was Purchased For $310 In 1935

LONG BEACH, Calif., July 19 (AP) —The airport "gang" here called the ship in which Douglas Corrigan flew the Atlantic "The Corrigan Clipper."

"Why it took Doug 13 days to fly the ship from New York, where he bought it in 1935 for $310," Larry Connor, 27, mechanic who helped rebuild it, said today.

"He landed in cow pastures along the route and had to work on the crate at night so he could fly the next day.

"When he got the clipper back to San Diego, where he worked as a welder for the Ryan factory, Doug disassembled the ship, trimmed it and recovered it at night.

"He pulled out the 90 horsepower OX5 motor, traded some stuff for two Wright engines and put the best parts of each into the power plant which hauled him across the continent and the Atlantic."

Connor described his friend as a "depression aviator."

"To save money for the flight," said Connor, "he would eat half a pecan roll and drink a half bottle of milk for breakfast and finish off the rest for supper."

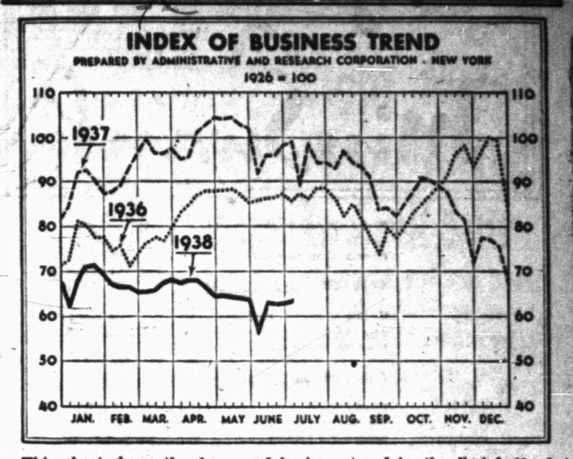

Detroit Flier Might Have Attempted Atlantic Flight

BOSTON, July 19. (AP) — A sister of Davis E. Smith, Detroit flier missing since he left Wayne (Detroit) county airport in a rebuilt monoplane at dawn on June 29, suggested today he might have attempted a trans-Atlantic hop.

Mrs. Glenn H. Hawes of Malden said Smith's plane was quipped with a rubber boat and carried 373 gallons of gasoline. The craft, similar to that in which Douglas Corrigan of Los Angeles completed a New York to Dublin hop yesterday, had been fitted with a new engine and a new type of wing, she said.

Smith was "the type to do anything," his sister said.

Stocks Go Up; Business Down

This chart shows the downward business trend in the first half of 1938, as compared to 1936 and 1937. Stock prices rose suddenly and sharply, late in June, despite this unfavorable general business index.

duced the immense, the almost unprecedented collapse which occurred in a few months last year. However, those who thought that large inventories caused the recession made up their minds when those inventories were exhausted that a rise was near.

These two currents of thought—confidence in resumption of government spending and in the regenerating force of reduced inventories—were probably the major causes for that state of mind which would prepare the way for a recovery movement.

There were two other forces. One was a widely held view that dollar devaluation was near. The writer is one who believes that that is inevitable. How near it may be is another question.

But many circumstances led speculators to write down the devaluation date as close at hand. Rumors floated into Wall Street from England about proposals for joint action by the United States and England. About the same time Joseph Kennedy returned from England for some undisclosed reason and Wall Street decided it was connected with devaluation. Certainly tips went out of the Street to that effect.

The other force was the presence of a large element of investors with a high interest in a small bull market and who were prepared to encourage such a market if it developed in order to unload some of their own holdings. This, however, I believe to have been a minor element.

There was a general feeling in business that the bottom was probably near. Hatred can wear itself out. Men are in business to make money, not to punish political or ecocnomic enemies. Many had tired of denouncing Roosevelt and had settled down with a strong appetite to make some profits.

In the midst of this the market rise started. It was not based on actual trade statistics or on trade pictures at the moment. It was started by those who were ready to gamble that very soon the business statistics would get better. When it started it happened that the number who also held this to be a good gamble was large. Then the papers and reporting services broke out into a great chorus of optimism which tended to whip up the movement.

As matters stand it is still a gamble. How much of a gamble we will see in tomorrow's article.

Tom Hunter planned to speak at Waco. He was at Houston for a radio address last night in which he explained how he would carry out the state's contract with its aged pioneers.

Karl Crowley, who spoke at Houston last night, emphasizing the seventeen points in his platform, was to go to San Antonio tonight. Other candidates, among them P. D. (Pete) Renfro of Beaumont, had not reported speaking schedules, but were for the most part making contacts by shaking hands.

INTERNE TROUBLE

COPYRIGHT, 1938, NEA SERVICE, INC.

By Elinore Cowan Stone

might have missed her. And Miss Miller had an unpleasantly direct way of asking questions.

In the end, it was the homely young interne from Emergency who set her feet in the right path. He came dashing around a corner just as she hastily shut the door to a private room which she had opened by mistake.

There had been a rather unpleasant moment just after she had opened that door. The patient, a florid blond lady, had sat up in bed and demanded in a shrill, lyric soprano. "For God's sake—is this a private room, or a subway station? All I want is a little peace. Heaven knows I'm paying enough for it."

The nurse in charge rustled hastily toward Tran, frowning and whispering. "Sh-sh!" And Tran again took to her heels.

So it was that as young Dr. Benchley hurried around the corner she ran directly into his arms.

"Well!" he gasped. "If it isn't our little Utility again! But say—whoever named you missed a bet. He should have made it 'Agility.' . . . . For Pete's sake, kid—this is a hospital not a race track. You'd better get back where you belong."

Nevertheless he steadied her, grinning companionably down at her till she got her breath. . . . His grin somewhat mitigated her resentment. It transformed his dark face from an interesting ugliness to a flashing charm.

As a matter of fact, she found herself suddenly liking him so much that she utterly failed to notice that he was still supporting her; and although she took her cheeks firmly between her teeth, her eyes became starry wells of mischief.

"How about yourself?" she demanded. "After all, this isn't Emergency either, is it?"

"Dr. Sargent," he said with dignity, "got so much interested in fishing for that bullet himself that he sent me out to take a telephone call for him."

"Just a couple of errand boys, aren't we?" Tran said.

She owed him that one for snickering.

He acknowledged the thrust with a crooked grin. Then, as an elevator whirred in the shaft behind them, he released her hastily, and thrust his hands into his pockets as if to keep them out of temptation.

"Say, listen, Agility," he admonished in a lowered tone, "don't let old Sarge get you down. He's a good egg really; but with half the females in this hospital making passes at him, you can't blame him for getting a little scratchy when he finds a new one breathing down his neck."

"Really?" Tran said with delicate venom. "Well, I can't imagine any one pursuing him from personal motives—unless she was looking for a chance to put poison in his soup."

"You wait. In no time at all, you'll be swooning with adoration when he passes, like all the rest of them," said Dr. Benchley, grinning down at her, his hands still in his pockets.

Then as a door opened down the corridor, he said swiftly, "Listen, Agility, if Miller misses you and sends out a search party, you might as well turn in your apron. . . . For your information, I just passed her little flock going into K-6. . . . If Miller asks embarrassing questions," he called softly as she turned away, "the old one about having a nose bleed may work."

Tran sped off down the corridor.

K-6 was the Women's Surgical ward.

By good luck the door stood open. Tran slid in like a slim gray wraith and joined the little group of aproned girls following Miss Miller's crisp white linen down the long room.

Miss Miller might have modeled for a Red Cross poster as the ideal nurse. She was erect and trim, blond and coolly lovely as a snow maiden, with quietly watchful blue eyes, slim, beautiful white hands, and an air of serene detachment which had won for her the nickname "the icicle" . . . Miss Miller was not a regular nursing instructor; but as a nurse she was recognized as tops. Rumor had it that she was Dr. Stephen Sargent's favorite nurse—a rumor, Tran knew, which gave her enormous prestige throughout the hospital.

Now, "the icicle's" cool, quiet voice was explaining the organization and management of the long white ward through which they were passing; her graceful, beautifully groomed hands were pointing out the arrangements of the beds in their small curtained cubicles, the proper adjustment of lights for the comfort of the patients, the correct grouping of articles on the bedside tables, and other kindred matters which she called "the elementary groundwork of good nursing."

Meantime, on either side of the long aisle, the ward nurses—some graduates in their trim white uniforms, caps and white shoes, and a sprinkling of student nurses in gray striped dresses and white bibbed aprons—lined up at respectful attention as Miss Miller passed. That was because here Miss Miller was supervisor, and consequently senior nurse.

It was all rather like a military inspection. Tran found herself feeling absurdly small and insignificant as part of so much pomp and circumstance—and more than a little uneasy, even while she managed her most convincing expression of grave, respectful attention. . . . . Had Miss Miller missed her?

She was not long left in doubt. When it was over, and Miss Miller had marched her double line of gray-clad girls back to their quarters, she summoned Tran with a lifted eyebrow and a backward inclination of her smooth blond head. The rest filed away with carefully restrained glances of curiosity and pity which were by no means lost upon Tran. . . . She had been seen then.

"The icicle" began crisply, "Now it's no use wasting my time with the one about stopping to tie your shoelace and getting lost. No," she went on as Tran half opened her lips, "nor the bromide about having had the nose bleed, either. They both grew whiskers years ago. . . . Besides, I'm not even going to ask you where you've been. Because I know."

"I'm sorry—" Tran began.

But Miss Miller raised a slim hand for silence.

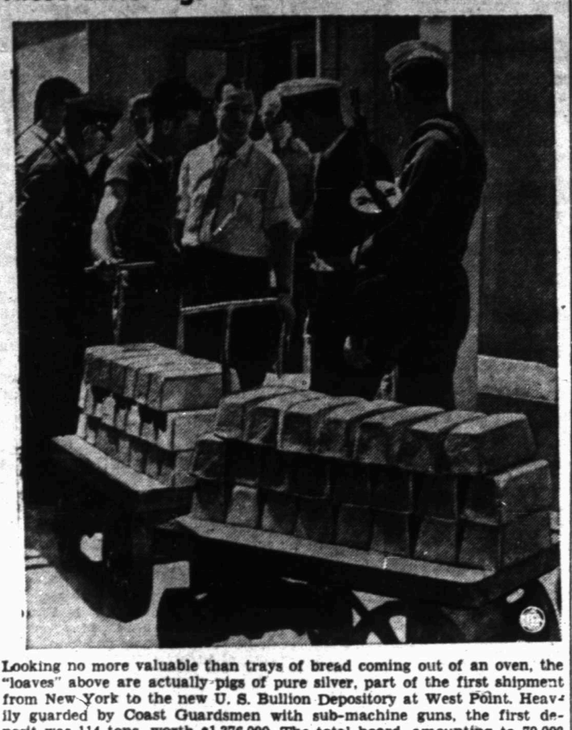

"I should prefer," she went on, "to let the matter rest between us. After all, it's no credit to me to have girls in my charge openly defiant of discipline. But unfortunately I am not the only one who saw you follow Dr. Sargent into Emergency. . . . I'm not even asking you why you did it. You can explain that to the Director of Nursing. I have repeatedly noticed in your attitude a tendency to frivolity which has no place in the nursing profession." . . . Miss Miller was one of Tran's superiors who had frequently found those uncontrollably dancing eyes of hers vaguely disconcerting. . . . "I might warn you," she went on, "that you will not find anything in Miss Armstrong's displeasure that you can laugh off."

It was just after Tran had finished dissecting a particularly juicy and loathsome frog in the zoology laboratory next day and had gone to her room to clean up that the summons from Miss Armstrong came.

These Little Pigs Went To West Point

Looking no more valuable than trays of bread coming out of an oven, the "loaves" above are actually pigs of pure silver, part of the first shipment from New York to the new U. S. Bullion Depository at West Point. Heavily guarded by Coast Guardsmen with sub-machine guns, the first deposit was 114 tons, worth $1,376,000. The total hoard, amounting to 70,000 tons worth $1,290,000,000, will take 25 trucks, running five days a week, six to eight months to transfer.

During the first eight months of last year, 3,184,000 foreign automobiles entered the Dominion of Canada.
