U. S.-Soviets set meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz will meet with Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze next Monday and Tuesday in Geneva, where an arms control treaty continues to elude negotiators.

The announcement was made in Washington by the State Department and in Moscow by the Soviet news agency Tass.

The brief State Department announcement stressed they also would discuss regional conflicts and a "full range of issues" on the U.S.-Soviet agenda. A U.S. official, who demanded anonymity, said Shultz would also go to Brussels on Wednesday to report to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization foreign ministers.

In the arms control field, the official said, Shultz and Shevardnadze would focus as much on hopes for an agreement next year to reduce strategic nuclear weapons as on the elusive treaty to ban medium-range missiles.

In the regional area, he said, the top two items for discussion are the Iran-Iraq war and U.S. efforts to persuade the Soviets to withdraw the Red Army from Afghanistan.

The announcement also listed human rights on what will be a busy agenda of the two foreign ministers' fourth round of talks in three months.

All these issues also are likely to be taken up by President Reagan with Soviet Communist Party General Secretary Mikhail S. Gorbachev during their scheduled talks at the White House Dec. 8-10.

AD-trustees meet in closed meeting, second session set

Snyder school board members were in closed executive session for four hours Thursday night, for a portion of that time in conference with Dennis Tomlin, who serves the district in the twin capacity of head football coach and athletic director.

Tomlin and an Austin attorney, Mark Robinette, were admitted to the closed session around 9 p.m.--one hour after the board first went into executive session at 8 p.m.

During the closed session, the board met also with their own legal representative, Dave Buhrmann of Abilene.

The board came back into open session around midnight and adjourned without taking any official action.

Superintendent Dalton Moseley said Friday morning that a second board meeting is now set Tuesday. Part of the agenda for that meeting includes an action item listed as "consider coaches' assignments."

Last Feb. 9, the extension for an additional year on Tomlin's contract as athletic director--an annual agenda item for administrative-level posts--was approved by a split 3-2 vote of the board.

His current contract with the school district runs through June 30, 1989.

Last Friday, Tomlin completed his fourth football season as the head coach, a season which saw his team 2-8 for the year.

He came here in the fall of 1984 and initiated a rebuilding program for Snyder teams which had been 1-9, 1-9 and 0-10 in the three years previous to his arrival.

For the past four years, he has amassed an 11-29 win-loss record. Tomlin's teams were 2-8 in 1984, 4-6 in 1985, 3-7 in 1986, and 2-8 in 1987.

The Snyder Tigers have not had a winning season since 1979.

ISD's net worth increases by some $2 million in 1987

The surplus of revenues as opposed to expenses for the school year ending Aug. 31 increased by almost $2 million over last year, the Snyder school board was told Thursday.

This involved both an increase in revenue of some $1.7 million--an increase linked to more state funds with the district's change from budget balance status--and a decrease in overall expenses of approximately $220,000.

The approximate $2 million increase in funds on hand helped the district increase its overall net worth from some $18 million to $20 million.

As in year's past, the majority of this net worth is involved in fixed assets like campus buildings. This worth is now estimated at some $12.8 million.

These facts and others were profiled for the board by its outside auditor, Joe Morren of Colorado City, making his annual report.

Morren characterized the financial status of the district as very healthy to include no long term indebtedness. In addition, during last school year the district required no short term notes.

In his recommendation section, Morren noted the district needs to improve its record listing for inventory items--a list that ranges from school desks to school buses.

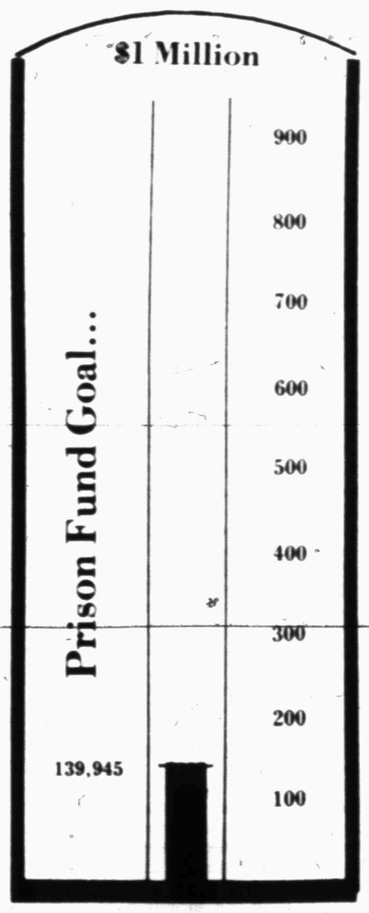

He said the computer system now in use at the administration building would now allow for this to be completely computerized. He noted placing this data on the computer might require the addition of some temporary staff.

Morren told the board also it needs to be more up-to-date on any amendments to its current budget. The board has been addressing these as a single action item at the end of the budget year.

He also suggested the board should review checks written during the previous month and indicate if these expense items have been approved on a monthly basis.

St. Mary transition progressing well Cogdell board told

Preparations for Cogdell Memorial Hospital to affiliate with St. Mary of the Plains Hospital of Lubbock on Jan. 1 are going smoothly, Cogdell administrator Cy Miller indicated in a Thursday night hospital board meeting.

Miller is scheduled to continue working for a few weeks after his resignation becomes effective on Dec. 31 to help the new managers make the transition.

He said St. Mary's executive Dan Griffis was in Snyder last week and asked him to tell board members that the Lubbock hospital managers "appreciate the confidence you have in them."

The board recently agreed to sign a three-year management contract with St. Mary's that will not involve the payment of any fees but will affiliate the two hospitals.

Miller said the official letter he has requested from the county on the state of the hospital's cash accounts as of Dec. 31 will coincide with a similar accounting that St. Mary's will perform.

St. Mary's has agreed to work with the board in employing a chief executive officer and chief financial officer.

Certified public accountants Jerry Vestal and Lee McNair attended the 6:30 p.m. meeting as part of their preparations to complete an audit of the county hospital in February.

Vestal and McNair have assumed the hospital's audit from CPA Monte West, who audits the rest of county government and last week asked the county commissioners court to be relieved of the hospital segment of the task.

Other business included the board's meeting as the hospital foundation and considering bids for a new car to be used for such business as nighttime trips for blood.

They accepted the low bid of $7,946 for a 1988 Chevrolet Caprice from Mal Donelson Chevrolet, contingent on the bid's meeting specifications.

Ministers to hold Thanksgiving rite

An all-star youth choir from several Snyder churches and a full slate of local ministers will lead a special Thanksgiving church service at 7 p.m. Sunday at the First Baptist Church.

The Rev. Bob Harper, associate church pastor, will deliver a sermon on "Thanksgiving the Year Around."

Harper noted 50 percent of the offering will be applied to the "Good Samaritan" fund for down-on-their-luck visitors, which is administered by the police department.

The rest of the offering will go to the local food bank.

Organized by the cross-denominational Snyder Ministerial Alliance, the service will be opened by the Rev. Glenn McCathern of Colonial Hill Baptist Church.

"The feller on Deep Creek says, "It's wrong to repeat gossip, but there's not much else to do with it."

Keeping tabs on our neighbors:

Good efforts are being made across the nation to battle illiteracy. Jimmy Carr, in the Vernon Daily Record, says one of the big problems may have to do with abbreviations.

"There is, however, another literacy threat looming on the horizon, and it's being fostered by none other than the federal government, as well as some major newspapers.

"There was a time when abbreviatons were pretty standard. Everyone knew that co. meant company, Tues. stood for Tuesday and Tex. was the shortened form of Texas.

"The postal service, probably for a good reason, several years ago changed standard state abbreviations to two-letter versions. Thus, Tex. was shortened to TX and Calif. became CA.

"Unless you've got the new list memorized, there might be some confusion. For instance, AL is the postal abbreviation for Alabama, but could it not also stand for Alaska? Colorado is abbreviated as CO, but could also presumably be a shortened form of Connecticut. Does MS stand for Massachussets or Mississippi, and will NE send a letter to Nevada or Nebraska? Only your carrier knows for sure.

"Newspapers in some metropolitian areas are notorious for chopping perfectly good words into meaningless snippets of letters, presumably to save space in their classified ad columns.

"How could you resist renting this apartment advertised in the Chicago Tribune: '6 rms, dec, 1st flr, Irv. & Ked. Htd, stvfrg.'

"Here's one in the personal column seeking companionship: 'SM 33, 6',160, rsdnt physn, hansm, snstv, athltc, tnsplyr, sks SW to share life's pleasrs, but smart engh to know that a real relatnshp can't ride on lks alon, so hnsty, sncrty, intl, outgoing prsnlty pls. Wlng to xchng pixs.'

"Come to think of it, this new abbreviation style may soon catch on.

"Anyone smrt engh to see thru a ladr cn tel it says the wrtr time & spc. The only prblm is finding sum1 intlgt engh to rd it."

In Brief

Budget talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Capitol Hill deficit-reduction negotiators said today an agreement is imminent. Nevertheless, President Reagan intended to order $23 billion in across-the-board cuts to kick in at midnight.

"The proper description is 'codeword imminent'," Democratic Rep. William H. Gray III, House budget committee chairman, said before today's discussions began.

White House chief of staff Howard H. Baker Jr. said Thursday night that, as far as the president was concerned, the clock had run out on the administration-congressional negotiations to find an alternative to Gramm-Rudman's across-the-board cuts. The cuts were to be imposed today.

Meeting set

MOSCOW (AP) — Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze and Secretary of State George P. Shultz will meet in Geneva next week to finalize an arms treaty and prepare for the superpower summit, Tass said today.

The official news agency said Shevardnadze and Shultz would hold talks in the Swiss city on Monday and Tuesday.

Cease fire

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India today announced a 48-hour cease-fire in its battle against Tamil militants in Sri Lanka. The action came one day after the Tamil rebels released 18 Indian soldiers and called for a cease-fire.

K. Natwar Singh, minister of state for external affairs, announced in Parliament that Indian troops in northern and eastern Sri Lanka would begin the cease-fire at 7 a.m. Saturday.

Final action on bill delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — House and Senate negotiators are unlikely to produce a compromise on their 1,000-page trade package until February, Democratic congressional leaders say.

"I am loathe to see us fritter away our time this year," House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, told reporters Thursday as he arrived to testify at a Rules Committee meeting.

But he said "logistical considerations and technical considerations" made it doubtful that House and Senate conferees who have been meeting on and off would reach a compromise package this year.

Wright's remarks appeared to all but end any hope for final action this year on the issue, which has been heavily debated since 1985.

"Now we will target it for February," he said. He said he continued to view legislation to sharpen the U.S. edge in global markets and combat unfair trade practices by other countries as urgently needed.

Senate Finance Committee Chairman Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, also expressed doubt it would be possible to wrap up work on the bill this year.

A timetable that has been under discussion among Democrats would set late February as a deadline for producing a finished product. The House then would vote on such a measure by March 15.

There was speculation following the stock market crash on Oct. 19 that uneasiness among investors might have meant the end of the trade bill. Both Wright and Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., stressed afterwards the importance of completing work on the issue as soon as possible.

The administration and other opponents of trade legislation have been highly critical of "protectionism" contained in the bill. They say it would invite retaliation against U.S. exports, cost more jobs than it would save and raise prices while narrowing consumer choices.

President Reagan on Thursday renewed his attack on what he called "Draconian protectionist trade measures." He said he has enough support in the Senate to sustain a veto of any legislation that could "knock the legs out from under the world trading system and send our economy reeling at the same time."

But proponents say such a bill is needed to cope with unfair trade practices overseas and with record trade deficits and related unemployment in manufacturing industries.

Congressional aides say the main factors stalling agreement were a lack of time, the demands of efforts to reach an agreement on a $23 billion budget cut and an assortment of knotty issues within the trade bill that are proving hard to resolve.

They cited a Senate provision to require employers to give unions notice of upcoming plant closings and a House amendment to compel foreign investors in the United States to make disclosures with details of their holdings.

Kissinger: history to vindicate Nixon

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — The rehabilitation of Richard Nixon's reputation is well under way, as reflected in the first national conference on his presidency, says former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

About 150 scholars, journalists and former Nixon administration officials, including H.R. Haldeman, John Ehrlichman and Charles Colson, sat amiably Thursday on panels with former opponents and critics.

And as keynote speaker, Kissinger concluded an emphatic defense of Nixon's foreign policy by recalling his meeting in 1974 with the despondent president two nights before Nixon resigned in disgrace over the Watergate scandal.

"History will treat you more kindly than your contemporaries," Kissinger said he told Nixon.

"I believe this conference is proof that this process is well under way," he said of the three-day meeting at Hofstra University.

Nixon was invited to the conference, but declined, according to a spokesman for the ex-president, who lives in northeast New Jersey.

In his address, Kissinger tried to discourage debate over whether he or Nixon was the primary architect of such foreign policy moves as the establishment of relations with the People's Republic of China.

"I was his associate and his subordinate," said Kissinger, who was Nixon's national security adviser before becoming secretary of state. "I say this so we can avoid ... the fruitless exercise to see who contributed what part to what decision."

Nixon decided "before he ever met me" that a nation with a quarter of the Earth's population could not be ignored, Kissinger said.

"So that should settle the argument of who thought of it first," Kissinger said. "I came to the same conclusion independently."

Professor Stephen Ambrose of the University of New Orleans, author of the recently published "Nixon: The Education of a Politician," faulted the Nixon administration for not ending the war in Vietnam sooner.

"Think if we were out of Vietnam in 1969," Nixon's first year in office, Ambrose said earlier in the day. "Nixon mishandled the retreat at a terrible price in lives and treasure and his own reputation."

An irritated Kissinger dismissed such criticism, saying that the North Vietnamese did not want to negotiate an end to the war.

The nation could not change its policy in Vietnam "as if it were switching a television channel," he said, adding that it was "presumptuous for outsiders to pretend they had a monopoly on virtue."

Ehrlichman, who was Nixon's domestic adviser, said his former boss was a pragmatist. "He was essentially a problem solver," he said. "When you presented him with a problem and some options, you didn't get ideological results."

Elliot Richardson, who held numerous cabinet posts in Nixon's administration, said Nixon "had it within his grasp to become our greatest post-World War II president."

Richardson had no answer for why Nixon did not. There were what he called "flaws of character," but Richardson wondered if a different Nixon would have succeeded so well in some areas.

Forgotten Negligee Reveals Pain at Woman's Departure

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1987 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: A few months ago, the woman I had loved for six years moved to another city. We lived together for the last three years. Finally, she said she needed to get on with her life, and she left me.

In the process of moving, she inadvertently left behind a gift I had given her last Christmas. It was a beautiful, expensive (not that the price matters), sexy, very revealing nightgown. Our relationship is over, but I can't bear the thought of her wearing that nightgown for another. I feel that I should mail it to her, but, as I have said, I hate the idea of her wearing it for someone else.

What do I do, Abby?

BEWILDERED IN LA CROSSE

DEAR BEWILDERED: You pack up the lady's property and send it to her, that's what you do. If it's any consolation, Freud said, "There are no accidents." Could she have left it behind because, unconsciously, she wanted to come back?

DEAR ABBY: The letter signed "Jeffrey's Mother" hit home with me. It seems that Jeffrey had been dating Karen exclusively for two years, a fact well-known to his mother, but in introducing Karen to her friends, she said, "This is my son, Jeffrey, and his friend, Karen."

Karen took offense, saying she should have been introduced as "Jeffrey's girlfriend."

Here's my situation. My boyfriend and I have been living together for six months. Although we are not formally engaged, we plan to marry next year.

Last month, at his sister's wedding, I had a chance to meet his whole family, who all live out of state. His mother, who is aware of our relationship and future plans, introduced me to all the aunts, uncles, sisters, brothers and grandparents as her son's "little friend".

BELITTLED IN EL PASO

DEAR BELITTLED: The letter from "Jeffrey's Mom" sparked other memorable introductions. For example:

DEAR ABBY: Years ago when I was just a poor college kid, I was invited to spend the Christmas holidays with the family of a girl I'd been dating for about six months. We liked each other a lot, but I was in no position to make any kind of commitment. Well, can you imagine how I felt when her mother introduced me all over the place as "Jennifer's fiance"?

CONFIDENTIAL TO 'A LOVING MOTHER': So far you have given your son a car for his 18th birthday. He totaled it after three days. You gave him another car, which he totaled in two months. You gave him a chance for a college education. He dropped out in his sophomore year. You paid for the diamond ring that he gave his fiancee. He then broke the engagement, she returned the ring, and he hocked it and kept the money.

And now you ask me if you should borrow on your home to put this son in business.

My answer is an unqualified no! Give him one more gift: a chance to prove that he is a man. Let him find his own job, stick to it, and learn how to stand on his own two feet.

Drugs pose risk to unborn child

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — If, as you said recently, a baby receives oxygen through the umbilical cord before birth and does not breathe, how does cigarette smoking affect the unborn child?

DEAR READER — An unborn baby receives all of its nutrition and oxygen through the placenta, a remarkable organ that attaches to the uterus, picks up needed substances from the mother's circulation and passes them into the baby through the umbilical cord. Unfortunately, the placenta also picks up unneeded and unwanted substances — such as nicotine, alcohol, narcotics, toxins and certain drugs — and passes them to the baby.

Rapidly growing, healthy young tissue — in a word, the baby — is particularly susceptible to compounds entering it from the maternal circulation. Thalidomide, a tranquilizer given to pregnant women years ago, was later banned because it was found to cross the placental barrier, enter the fetal circulation and cause severe developmental abnormalities. Most hospitals are familiar with fetal alcohol syndrome and drug addiction, when babies born of substance-abusing mothers experience alcohol or narcotic withdrawal. Pregnant women who smoke tend to deliver infants that are smaller and less healthy than normal. Alcohol — even in quantities considered to be social (one or two drinks a day) — can affect fetal development.

Because of the profound influence of material circulation on fatal growth, modern experts advise pregnant women to avoid tobacco, alcohol and all medicines, unless those medicines have been specifically approved by the obstetrician. In addition to receiving parental genes, an unborn baby is very likely to receive anything that its mother eats, drinks, chews, sniffs, inhales, smokes or otherwise absorbs. Responsibility for a child's health does not begin at the moment of birth, but long before — even, some specialists believe, before conception.

DEAR DR. GOTT — You have been a wonderful resource for many people. Please mention the National Alliance for the Mentally Ill (1901 North Fort Meyer Drive, Suite 500, Arlington, CA 22209). This is a group of parents, children, spouses, family and friends of people with serious mental illness helping each other in a comprehensive community based system of support and care.

DEAR READER — Thank you for writing and sharing information about the National Alliance for the Mentally Ill.

Racing commission receives applications

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The new State Racing Commission may not be staffed with the most qualified Texans because of strict financial disclosure requirements for appointees, Gov. Bill Clements' office says.

The public members selected to serve on the regulatory board will have to file lengthy, detailed personal financial statements similar to those required for people applying for bank charters, James Huffines, Clements' appointments chief, said Thursday.

The financial statements also must be available for public scrutiny.

"A lot of our nominees will reconsider their level of interest once they see what financial disclosure is required," Huffines said. "I don't think a lot of these people realize what all is required."

He said the rules could discourage some of the most qualified nominees.

Texans overwhelmingly approved legalization of betting on horse and dog races for the first time in 50 years. The racing commission will regulate the industry.

A total of 148 people have applied or have been recommended for the six positions on the commission, and six to 12 more names are coming in daily, Huffines said.

But he predicted that the crowd will thin considerably when the financial disclosure rules are explained and they are told they will not be paid.

"Once they take a look at the application that has to be filled out, I don't think that 70 percent of them will do it," Huffines said.

Applicants also will be subjected to thorough background checks.

A list of applicants and nominees released by Huffines on Thursday included former Dallas County District Attorney Henry Wade and former Dallas Cowboys quarterback Roger Staubach.

Staubach was nominated by Donald Delotell of Hamilton, Ohio, who described himself as a boyhood friend.

Wade applied for the job. He said he was encouraged to do so by friends who own racehorses.

"I know you will have hundreds applying, but I have decided that it would be a challenge to me and would like to put my hat in the ring for one of the positions on the Racing Commission," Wade wrote the governor.

Clements will name the six members of the commission and is not required to choose from among those submitted for consideration. Huffines said Clements hopes to make his selections by the end of the year.

Two of those selected must be veterinarians. Two others must have some knowledge or experience with horse racing and two must be familiar with dog racing.

Some companies help workers through day

by The Associated Press

A jar full of cigarettes helped smokers at a Dallas office get through the day without a puff as thousands of Texas smokers joined an estimated 20 million nationwide for the Great American Smokeout.

The American Cancer Society's 11th annual smokeout Thursday tested the mettle and patience of smokers, their families and co-workers.

David McDill, 57, of Beaumont spent the day munching breath mints and pacing the floor.

"I live five minutes at a time," McDill said. "I've tried quitting before and always let people down. This time I decided to quit on my own."

In Dallas, Rebecca Pederson began bumming cigarettes from her co-workers at Southwestern Bell Corp. several days before the smokeout in preparation for the smoke-free day.

But instead of smoking them, Ms. Pederson stuffed them into a glass jar and asked her friends to guess how many she'd gathered. The winner would get a "cold turkey."

Meanwhile, company managers took advantage of the momentum of the event to tell their 68,000 workers in five states about a new restrictive smoking policy that takes effect Jan. 1.

"The reaction seems to be favorable, especially on a day like this — when the awareness is there," said James Lydon, a Southwestern Bell spokesman.

A survey of about 7,000 Southwestern Bell employees found that seven of 10, including smokers, wanted a new company smoking policy, Lydon said.

Currently, Southwestern Bell allows employees who work in the same office to decide that group's smoking policy. The new policy will allow smoking only in designated areas, such as break rooms, cafeterias and lunch rooms.

Deferred gratification

You've heard the old saw "Defense is the hardest part of the game." Believe me, it's true. Place yourself in the East chair with partner leading the diamond two against four spades. What should you be thinking about?

Of course the deuce is a singleton, and the diamond ace and a diamond ruff plus the king of spades will be three tricks for the defense, but you need a fourth trick to set the hand. Where is the setting trick coming from? Obviously the ace of clubs in partner's hand would be nice, but that trick won't disappear. What if partner has the king of hearts instead? Suppose you give him that diamond ruff. Now he is on lead and what will happen? Perhaps he will lead a heart, but that will be away from the king, and declarer can duck and make a trick with his heart queen as the cards lie, and then knock out the king of spades to just make his contract. I think you see the road you need to travel. The diamond ruff can wait, since the bidding suggests that declarer has only a five-card spade suit. The winning play is for East to switch to the heart jack at trick two. That will establish another trick for the defense before West gets his diamond ruff.

Lesson: It's fine to give partner a ruff when he leads a short suit, but be alert for those times when you have to first attack a side-suit to develop a needed trick on defense.

A new book by James Jacoby and his father, the late Oswald Jacoby, is now available at bookstores. It is "Jacoby on Card Games," published by Pharos Books.

Welfare reforms advocated

AUSTIN (AP) — Texans have differing opinions about the welfare system, but they seem to agree that it's not working, says the chairman of a committee studying ways to reform the system.

Some Texans believe that welfare "assists people who are too lazy to work," Sen. Hugh Parmer, D-Fort Worth, said at a Thursday meeting of the Special Senate Interim Committee on Workfare.

Others — including Parmer — say the system provides inadequate benefits to those needing them.

"While these views are quite distant, I would suggest to you that they reflect a common feeling on the part of many Texans that the system for public assistance, simply does not work," Parmer said.

The committee was formed to study the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program and other parts of the welfare system to see if it is possible to reduce long-term dependence on welfare through a plan such as workfare.

Under the present system, a hypothetical single parent in Texas with two children would get $184 a month in AFDC payments. Adding food stamp and Medicaid benefits brings the total to $549 a month, according to committee testimony.

Parmer said the committee has an opportunity to "design something better, something that will be pro-family and not anti-family, that won't create a necessity for one spouse to leave the family before the children can be recipients of assistance."

A single mother may not be able to afford to take an entry-level job because she wouldn't make enough money to replace the loss of health benefits for her children, said Dave Cox, vice-chairman of the State Job Training Coordinating Council.

The council is developing pilot programs in Beaumont, Houston and San Antonio to move people from the welfare rolls to the job market.

As part of its work, Parmer said committee members will travel to California and Massachusetts to study those states' programs to put welfare recipients to work.

California has a mandatory workfare program that includes sanctions for not participating, while Massachusetts has a program that works through incentives, Parmer said.

The committee also plans to have hearings across the state to get suggestions for improving the system, he said.

A system should be designed "to invest in people to create a new resource for Texas, and that's a new group of people who have the skills and the capability to contribute to the future of our state," Parmer said.

Sen. John Whitmire, D-Houston, said the committee should look at suggestions to make it easier for people who need food stamps to get them.

"The incidence of food stamp applications in Houston is on the decline, while ... the applications for private food pantries is on an increase," Whitmire said.

Only 30 percent of those eligible for food stamps receive them, he said.

"What we're finding in the area of food stamps, it's much easier because of the frustration of getting through the state and federal system that you in effect go to private food pantries, which are overburdened and underfunded," Whitmire said.

Peso devaluation gets mixed reaction

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Retailers in El Paso and Juarez are generally cautious about predicting the effects of the Mexican peso's steep devaluations, but some already have seen a drop in business.

"Look at this place," said Ignacia Vasquez, sweeping her hand across her deserted restaurant in downtown El Paso. It was 12:30 p.m. Thursday — lunchtime. "It's usually full right now."

She blamed the loss of business on the precipitous devaluation of the peso, which fell from about 1,700 to the dollar Tuesday to 3,000 in some border trading houses Wednesday. The peso recovered slightly Thursday in El Paso and Juarez, where exchange houses were buying dollars Thursday evening for 2,000 pesos and selling dollars for 2,800 pesos.

El Paso retailers such as Mrs. Vasquez, who relies heavily on customers from Mexico, say they probably will be hit hard by the devaluation. So will Mexican workers, who must struggle against the resulting inflation.

But the devaluation probably won't have much effect on owners of maquiladoras or on tourism in Mexican border cities like Juarez, officials say.

Inflation already had hurt Raul Perez, a Juarez street vendor who on Thursday was selling bananas, persimmons and limes from a grocery shopping cart.

Perez said the devaluation prompted him to raise the price of persimmons from 1,400 pesos Wednesday to 3,000 pesos Thursday.

"I try to sell the fruit on the street, but people tell me they don't have the money," he complained.

Employees of maquiladoras — American-owned factories that employ low-paid Mexicans — said they hoped wages would keep up with inflation.

"I can afford lights and gas now, but next month, who knows?" said Estela Leresma, who earns 14,000 pesos a week at a maquiladora. In terms of dollars, her wages dropped in two days from about $8.25 a week to about $6.65 a week.

The American companies who own maquilas are relatively immune from devaluations because their dollar costs remain the same.

"American companies pay us in Mexican money, but they profit in American money," said Miguel Mendez, a Juarense who works in a maquiladora that makes wire fence.

Play again today in classic...

Dusters fall to Panola in OT

BIG SPRING -- Western Texas College left its half-court offense on the bus and Panola took advantage here Thursday, defeating the Lady Dusters in overtime, 76-72, in the Howard College Hawk Queens Tournament.

The Dusters, 4-3, take on McLennan Community College today at 4 p.m. as the three-day classic continues. They play Southwest Christian at 3:30 p.m. on Saturday.

"I thought their press bothered us. And they were able to get us in a half-court game and we didn't execute it well offensively," said a dejected Coach Kelly Chadwick. "We had several kids that just didn't play very well. It wasn't from lack of effort, though."

Western hit eight straight points - six of them from Staci Smith - to take a 19-11 lead with 11 minutes gone in the first half. Panola was able to keep pace, however, and cut the margin to 34-30 by intermission.

The Lady Dusters made another run early in the second half and it appeared as if they might break the game wide open. Two baskets from Smith and one each from Nickey Allen and Julie Roewe made it 52-37 with 12:07 to play in the game.

But Panola, coached by former Dusters mentor Joe Cushing, refused to give up. Led by 6-2 freshman Daphne Sowell, the East Texas team rallied. Panola shut down Western's fast-breaking offense by forcing a half-court game, then went to the boards. Western's Kayla Thompson hit a free throw with 4:02 left for a 66-61 lead, and the Dusters didn't score again in regulation play.

Two turnovers in the final minutes helped Panola, which got a three-pointer from Carolyn Allen with 3:12 left and a two-pointer from Allen at the 2:31 mark to tie the score.

Neither team could hit a basket the rest of the way. Western got the final shot, but Smith's effort wouldn't fall, and the game went into overtime.

The teams exchanged leads in the extra five-minute period, but Sowell was the difference. She scored eight of Panola's 10 points, and pulled down several key rebounds.

Western's Smith led all scorers with 24 points. Allen scored 10 and Thompson and Lisa Houston added 9 each.

Panola got 22 from Sowell and 20 from Cheryl Canada.

"We're mixed up on offense. We've played so many games the last few days that we keep making the same mistakes. We need to get into the gym and work about three hours a day for four days and correct some things," said Chadwick. "Until we learn how to play some good offensive basketball, we're not going to win."

Free throws were a part of WTC's sagging offense. The Dusters hit only 4 of 14. Panola made 18 of 26.

Western nips Bacone; tests Weatherford next

HUTCHINSON, Kan. -- Western Texas' Westerners pieced together a 12-point lead in the first half, then held on to edge Bacone, Okla. 74-73 in the Quarterback Classic here Thursday.

Western, now 2-8, will play Weatherford, Texas, at 6:30 p.m. today and close out the three-day event against host Hutchinson at 8:30 p.m. Saturday.

Sophomore forward Darrell Nelson again led the Westerners in scoring with 34 points - four more than his average. He pulled down seven rebounds.

James Hill scored 14 points and Walter Martin bunched together 12. Five other Westerners scored two or more points.

Western outrebounded the Oklahoma team 21 to 19.

The game almost went Bacone's way from the charity stripe, though. WTC was spanked with 15 fouls and Bacone cashed in from the free throw line for 11 points in 17 attempts.

Western shot only eight free shots as Bacone was charged with just eight fouls. WTC made six of the eight attempts.

Western led 44-32 at the half. Hill aided the effort with two three-point goals.

Woolridge directs New Jersey past Knicks

by The Associated Press

An NBA axiom: When in doubt, go to the big man.

The New York Knicks did just that, but Orlando Woolridge also knows that rule and was able to turn it into a victory for the New Jersey Nets.

"When it comes down to the wire, all teams want to get the ball to their best player," Woolridge said following New Jersey's 108-107 NBA victory Thursday night.

With one second to go, the Knicks were inbounding the ball from under their own basket.

"I saw a little eye contact between Gerald Wilkins and Patrick (Ewing), so I cheated in that direction and made the interception," Woolridge said as he capped a night that saw him score a game-high 25 points, including the tying and winning points from the free throw line, and blocking a shot with 35 seconds remaining.

"I'm just happy I was able to come back in the fourth quarter, after playing poorly, to make some big plays," Woolridge said. "I was hurting physically and I think I lost my concentration early in the second half."

Elsewhere, it was Houston 105, Cleveland 97, and Milwaukee 117, Sacramento 113 in overtime.

With 4:47 to play, Woolridge scored a basket that started an eight-point spurt that saw the Nets tie the game at 101 on a Woolridge free throw. After the Knicks went ahead 103-101 on a jam by Ewing, Woolridge scored on a driving layup, was fouled and hit a free throw.

Chris McNealy's two free throws for the Knicks were matched by Dennis Hopson's jumper. Mark Jackson put the Knicks back in front at 107-106 on two free throws, but with 35 seconds remaining, Woolridge blocked Jackson's driving layup.

Trent Tucker led the Knicks with 18 points, while McNealy had 17 points and 12 rebounds.

Rockets 105, Cavaliers 97

Houston held Cleveland scoreless from the field for nearly six minutes late in the fourth quarter to defeat the Cavaliers.

Akeem Olajuwon had 27 points to lead the Rockets, who won their eighth straight over Cleveland. The Cavaliers were paced by Brad Daugherty's 24 points.

Bucks 117, Kings 113, OT

Terry Cummings scored five of his 34 points in overtime to lead Milwaukee over Sacramento. Paul Pressey added 23 points and Jack Sikma 20 as Milwaukee posted its 10th straight win over the Kings.

Sacramento tied the game at 100 with one second left in regulation when Derek Smith tipped in a rebound after rookie Kenny Smith missed the second of two free throws. Smith hit the first free throw to pull Sacramento within 100-98.

Otis Thorpe led Sacramento with 33 points, while Smith added a career-high 23 and backup center Jawann Oldham grabbed a career-high 15 rebounds.

A&M, Texas headed for showdown but must play Saturday games first

by The Associated Press

Texas A&M and Texas are headed for a Thanksgiving night showdown to decide the Southwest Conference's Cotton Bowl representative no matter what happens on Saturday.

The 16th-ranked Aggies, who have won five games in a row, meet the revenge-seeking Texas Christian Horned Frogs at noon (Raycom regional television) on Saturday in Fort Worth.

The Longhorns host the Baylor Bears, who have never won under Coach Grant Teaff in Austin, at 1 p.m.

A&M and Texas are both 4-1 in SWC play and they could both lose and meet in Kyle Field for the host team in the Cotton Bowl.

Arkansas is 5-2 and the only way the Razorbacks could get a ticket to Dallas on January 1 is if both A&M and Texas lose on Saturday then tie on Thanksgiving night. The Hogs lost to both Texas and A&M.

In the only other SWC game this weekend, Texas Tech can earn an Independence Bowl invitation with a victory over the Houston Cougars in the Astrodome in a 7 p.m. game.

Texas A&M has won 14 consecutive games against the Horned Frogs, including a 74-10 slaughter last year.

There's also no love lost between A&M Coach Jackie Sherrill and TCU Coach Jim Wacker.

Wacker has accused Sherrill of running the score up on him.

"We have 15 seniors who want to erase memories of last year's game," Wacker said.

Sherrill said A&M won't let down even if it doesn't have to win.

"Our confidence is high right now," Sherrill said. "We need to maintain that through the Texas game. We can't allow ourselves to go flat."

Sherrill said his team is prepared for a hostile greeting.

"I really believe it will be our toughest game all year," Sherrill said. "TCU is a dangerous offensive team and Tony Jeffery is a tremendous running back with a talent for making things happen."

The Aggies were four-point favorites over the Frogs.

Texas was a 10-point pick over Baylor, which is 6-4 and still a possible Independence or Bluebonnet Bowl participant.

"Texas is obviously on top of their game and highly motivated," Teaff said. "Eric Metcalf has developed into one of the most exciting and dangerous players I've seen in the league in a long, long time. He is truly a great player."

Texas Tech Coach Spike Dykes has yet to enjoy a victory on the road with his Red Raiders. All six triumphs have come at home.

The Raiders and Cougars have two of the most potent offenses in the SWC.

"They scare you to death with their big play ability," Dykes said. "They are on a roll after beating Texas like they did (60-40). We'll have to be on our toes every play."

Most unconstitutional, says Judge...

Stanford drug testing nixed

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) - Most involuntary drug testing by the NCAA is unconstitutional, according to a judge who barred it in all but football and basketball at Stanford University.

Superior Court Judge Conrard Rushing said he would allow limited tests to continue in basketball and football because of evidence of some steroid and cocaine use in those sports may constitute a "compelling need" for testing.

Attorney Robert Van Nest, representing students who challenged the drug testing, called Thursday's decision a "sweeping repudiation" of the program's value.

Rushing ordered the NCAA to cease testing in 26 sports and to return to court Dec. 4 with a plan for testing in the two excepted sports. Rushing issued the order in a preliminary injunction and said he would decide at the December hearing whether to make the ruling permanent.

Although the decision applies only to Stanford, Rushing's finding that the testing program violates the U.S. Constitution, as well as the state Consitution, could influence athletes and schools throughout the country to challenge the program.

"Until we receive a copy of the ruling we will have no comment," Jim Marchiony, a spokesman for the NCAA, said at its headquarters in Mission, Kan. He would not say whether the NCAA plans to appeal.

Van Nest, attorney for Stanford football player Barry McKeever and soccer player Jennifer Hill, who fought the NCAA testing, said the decision "declares (the program) vastly overbroad both in testing for too many drugs and too many athletes."

Stanford President Donald Kennedy said the decision "vindicates Stanford's belief that student athletes should be treated like other students."

Evidence presented by students' attorneys showed of 3,511 students tested, only 34 were declared ineligible. Of those, 31 were football players. Of the 34, 26 were positive for steriods and seven for cocaine. No women were declared ineligible in any sport.

"All of the evidence taken together demonstrates that except for the sports of football and men's basketball, there is no evidence of any kind of drug involvement," Rushing said in his 36-page decision.

Van Nest said that at the December hearing he will oppose testing even for basketball and football.

The exception of football is moot this season, since the school's season ends Saturday.

Rushing wrote, "The NCAA drug program as it is administered (at Stanford) violates the California Constitution and the U.S. Constitution in that there is no evidence of a compelling need to engage in drug testing of college athletes.

"Moreover, even if a compelling need were shown, the program is not narrowly tailored to meet its goal."

Rushing previously told NCAA attorney Christine Hanson of San Francisco that he doubted the accuracy of drug tests and said the issue of privacy was crucial to the legality of the program.

Rushing issued a temporary restraining order against the NCAA on Aug. 26 allowing athletes to compete without signing written consents for mandatory drug tests.

Cowboys, Dolphins present interesting matchup Sunday

by The Associated Press

They are the two most successful NFL franchises since the merger, with two of football's winningest coaches, the game's most dynamic passer and one of the best runners.

Even though neither the Dallas Cowboys nor the Miami Dolphins are powerhouses anymore, Sunday night's game is especially intriguing. Both teams need victories to remain viable playoff contenders. Both have weak areas which could play right into the strengths of the opponent - Dallas is ranked 20th against the pass, Miami 22nd against the run.

And, of course, there are the coaches - Tom Landry of Dallas and Don Shula of Miami. Shula is 4-3 in games against Landry, but the Cowboys won the biggest of those encounters in the 1972 Super Bowl, a 24-3 victory.

Shula, in his 25th year, is the NFL's winningest active coach and second to George Halas. Landry, in his 28th season, has 265 victories, two fewer than Shula.

"You've got to stand back and admire everything that he's (Landry) done," Shula said. "Not only the way he's handled himself, but the positive influence he's had on young people and people in general."

"We don't get to go against each other very often," Landry said. "Don is just a great coach. Right now, he's struggling like we are, but his teams are always well coached."

The Cowboys are 5-4 and coming off a 23-17 overtime victory over New England, which dropped the Patriots to 4-5 in the AFC East, the same record as Miami. Shula is hoping the Cowboys help his team again this week.

He's also hoping the Dolphins can find a way to stop Herschel Walker, whose 60-yard touchdown run won last Sunday's game.

The Dolphins don't have any comparable all-around threats. Their forte is passing, with Dan Marino, the league's top-rated quarterback, throwing to standout receivers Mark Duper and Mark Clayton.

Dallas quarterback Danny White has a sore wrist and Steve Pelluer might start. Pelluer hasn't thrown a pass during a game this season.

Several key AFC divisional games are set for Sunday. Central co-leaders Cleveland and Houston meet, as do the West's top two teams, San Diego and Seattle. In the East, where Indianapolis and New York are 5-4 and the other three teams are 4-5, the Colts are at New England and the Jets host Buffalo.

Also, it's Atlanta at Minnesota, Detroit at Chicago, Green Bay at Kansas City, Pittsburgh at Cincinnati, St. Louis at Philadelphia, San Francisco at Tampa Bay, the New York Giants at New Orleans, and Denver at the Los Angeles Raiders.

On Monday night, the Los Angeles Rams are at Washington.

Cleveland and Houston are 6-3. The Browns are used to being in first place, winning the division in 1985 and 1986. The Oilers haven't been in such a heady position since 1980.

The game will feature big-play defenses that could steal the show.

The Browns lead the NFL in total defense and pass defense and have allowed an NFL-low 131 points. The Oilers' defense is second in the NFL with 18 interceptions, including six by safety Keith Bostic, the AFC leader.

After 1980, the Oilers lost more games than any NFL team over the next five years. But they won four of their final seven games on the way to a 5-11 season in 1986. This year they have beaten all three divisional rivals on the road for the first time ever. Houston's 15-10 victory at Cleveland came during the strike.

Bruce's firing causes uproar

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - In some cities, firing a college football coach is no big deal.

But Ohio State University football is king here, and the firing of Coach Earle Bruce, rocked the kingdom.

Bruce was fired Monday, and today emotions are still running high.

"It's, to me, quite astonishing," says Hamilton Teaford, a Columbus lawyer who sits on the university's board of trustees. "If only we could generate such interest in academics."

Ohio State has been having its worst year since Bruce took over from the legendary Woody Hayes, who socked a Clemson University player during a bowl game and was fired in 1979.

On Saturday, the Buckeyes suffered a last-second 29-27 home loss to Ohio, their third straight defeat, putting their season record at 5-4-1 and giving Bruce's detractors more ammunition.

One sportscaster said the coach had to go. In Sunday's Columbus Dispatch, the sports letters column was filled with anti-Bruce comments.

At a press luncheon Monday, the Buckeye alumnus said he was staying at Ohio State.

Across campus that day, however, OSU President Edward Jennings had decided to fire Bruce, and called Athletic Director Rick Bay to give him the news.

Bay, perhaps Bruce's staunchest defender, told Jennings he would resign in protest. He also refused Jennings' request to keep secret the firing of Bruce and his staff until after Saturday's season-ending game at arch-rival Michigan.

Bay called a news conference later Monday, announced Bruce's firing and his own resignation, and the ire swiftly turned away from Bruce and toward Jennings.

A television station survey ran 10-1 in favor of Bruce among more than 12,000 people who paid 50 cents a call to express their opinion. Radio station phones lit up, and the callers were angry. Columnists zeroed in on Jennings.

On Tuesday, Jennings called his own news conference. He claimed sole responsibility for firing Bruce, but refused to say why. Jennings acknowledged Bruce's fine win-loss record - 80-26-1 at Ohio State - and denied any wrongdoing on the coach's part.

Bruce, pointing to his record, said he was baffled by the firing.

Leak could have been fatal

TEXAS CITY, Texas (AP) — The recent toxic acid leak could have caused a disaster similar to the one that killed 2,800 people and injured 200,000 more in Bhopal, India, a sociologist and a representative of an advocacy group says.

"It would have been our Bhopal" if the hydrofluoric acid at Marathon Petroleum Co. had leaked out of the bottom of the tank in its liquid form, causing a poisonous gas cloud, Dr. Fred Millar, sociologist with the Environmental Policy Institute in Washington D.C., said Thursday.

About 2,800 people were killed and 200,000 more injured in Bhopal, India, when methyl isocyanate gas leaked from a Union Carbide plant in December 1984.

More than 1,000 people sought medical treatment as a result of the Marathon leak.

Information from a 1986 study by Amoco and the Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory shows hydrofluoric acid plants are "astonishingly more dangerous to surrounding populations than was previously thought," Miller said.

SMOKELESS — Snyder High School students and faculty members let a raft of balloons go at midday Thursday as part of their participation in the "Great American Smoke-out" to discourage the use of cigarettes and "smokeless tobacco." Homemaking classes at SHS sponsored the balloon release. (SDN Staff Photo)

Service Sunday for Thanksgiving

A youth choir made up of singers from various churches will sing toward the end of the service, which will also feature music by First Baptist Church harpist Kim Gorman and music minister Jerry Neill.

The Rev. Terry Templey of Union United Methodist Church will offer a prayer of Thanksgiving, and the Rev. Bob Metzger of the First United Methodist Church will give a scriptural reading.

Others to be involved in various parts of the service are J.D. Smith, the Rev. Terry Lyles of Ave. D Baptist Church and the Rev. John Irwin of Trinity United Methodist Church.

A brass ensemble from Colonial Hill Baptist Church will perform.

Company 'G' sets plaque dedication

The 14th annual reunion of Company G, "Matney's Raiders," is underway here with social gatherings planned Friday and the annual business session on tap Saturday morning.

A special dedication is slated Saturday at 9:45 a.m. as the group donates a plaque commemorating Company G to be displayed in the Scurry County Museum.

Registration will begin at 9 a.m. and the business meeting will follow the plaque dedication.

An evening dinner was held Thursday as part of the reunion and an informal gathering Friday was to begin at 3 p.m. at the Willow Park Inn. Friday night, a barbecue meal at the Union Community Center is slated, to be served at 6:30 p.m.

Approximately 100 veterans and their wives--many of them Scurry County residents--are expected.

The National Guard unit of Company G was mobilized out of Snyder on Nov. 25, 1940 for service through five years of the war. It was part of the 142nd Infantry, 36th Division.

Company G was part of the first American troops to invade Italy at Salerno on Sept. 9, 1943. They fought in six European campaigns.

Police officer gets job back

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — An arbitrator has ruled that the homosexual police officer who was fired from her job should get her job back along with more than $15,000 in back pay.

The ruling Thursday determined that the dismissal of Patricia A. Minton, 27, on Sept. 4, 1986, was unreasonable.

Minton was fired after a six-month El Paso Police Department internal affairs investigation stemming from her actions at a nightspot frequented by homosexuals.

She likely will be back on the job by the end of the month, authorities say.

Arbitrator Roberto Albertorio of Albuquerque reduced Minton's dismissal to a total of 45 days suspension without pay, 15 days for a charge of violating a Police Department gag order and 30 days for a charge of conduct unbecoming of a police officer. She also will receive 10½ months worth of salary.

Bill Ellis, a lawyer who represented Minton, said, "This is not a gay rights opinion. It is an opinion that does not permit the imposition of double moral standards, and it holds all officers to the same amorous contact in public."

Ellis said he hopes department officials will take the opinion as a message to stay out of their officers' private lives unless there is a compelling reason to become involved.

"The decision has been made, and we will abide by it," police spokesman Lt. J.R. Grijalva said.

Minton said she was pleased by the ruling and is anxious to return to work.

"Like I said from the first day, I enjoyed the job and I love it, and I'm ready to go back," she said.

The officer said she would not return to the Old Plantation, the South El Paso nightspot where April 2, 1986, the arbitrator decided, her conduct unbecoming of a police officer occurred.

In his opinion, Albertorio said he made his decision "solely on the fact that it was conduct within the view of the public."

"That is to say that ... heavy petting, embracing, kissing and otherwise expressing sexual affection is conduct which arguably undermines the integrity of the Police Department," the opinion stated.

An undercover officer who was working at the nightspot reported that Minton danced with, kissed and touched a woman who was her date at the nightspot.

The gag order Minton violated was set after she became aware that Internal Affairs was investigating her. She discussed the investigation and its effects on her with her supervisor at the West Side substation.

La Joya sergeant is indicted

LA JOYA, Texas (AP) — This South Texas city's police chief had to hastily swear in six reservists to help keep the peace after the force's second-highest ranking officer was indicted on weapons charges.

Sgt. Jose Santos Villareal, 29, was arrested Wednesday because of an 11-count indictment that says he bought 10 paramilitary weapons between March 9 and April 20 and delivered them to a Mexican citizen.

The Mexican citizen named in the indictment, Juan Garza, remains at large, said Christ Heart, resident agent-in-charge of the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms.

Villareal was released Wednesday on a $50,000 unsecured bond after an appearance before a U.S. magistrate.

"It caught everybody completely by surprise," La Joya Police Chief Jesus Perez said Thursday. "No one had been approached by ATF. They came in and told me, 'We have a warrant for your sergeant.'"

Perez suspended Villareal without pay pending the outcome of the charges. Perez said Villareal has not submitted a letter of resignation.

City officials held an emergency meeting Wednesday night because Villareal's suspension left the four-person police force shorthanded. Perez swore in six basic reserve officers to assist.

"This definitely is going to reflect on the department," Perez said. "Many people are going to get the wrong idea about the officers that are here. We're going to have to face some criticism. We're going to have to hold our heads up high and continue doing what we're here to do, and that's enforce the law."

The indictment alleges Garza on March 9 gave Villareal money to buy five Colt World War II .45-caliber pistols. Later that day, the indictment says, Villareal bought the weapons from Womeldorf's Inc., a McAllen gun shop, and delivered them to Garza.

The indictment also alleges that between April 11 and April 17, Garza gave Villarreal money to buy five Colt AR-15 .223-caliber rifles. Villareal then delivered the weapons to Garza.

Texas among twelve finalist states

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas is among a dozen states still in the running for an multimillion-dollar national research center designed to develop and manufacture the next generation of computer chips.

Officials of Sematech, a consortium of semiconductor manufacturers, announced Thursday in California that the search had been narrowed from 34 to 12 states after extensive review of more than 100 sites.

Sematech intends to select a site by the end of the year.

Texas has two sites in Austin, one at the Balcones Research Center and the other at a former Data General semiconductor manufacturing plant. Both sites are closely linked to the University of Texas, said Pike Powers, a former aide to Mark White who is helping coordinate the Lone Star effort.

Powers refused to provide any details about the incentives being offered to lure Sematech to Austin, and characterized the dozen states still in the race as appearing to have very similar financial inducements.

Driver hits road sign

A 21-year-old Hermleigh man escaped serious injury when his car ran through a rural intersection and through a highway sign Thursday morning.

The Department of Public Safety said Troy L. Ford was going east on FM 1606 some 7 miles south of Snyder at 9:30 a.m. He was driving a 1975 Chevrolet when he ran through the Round Top Rd. intersection and knocked down a road sign.

Workers recalled as mine set to reopen

DALLAS (AP) — Sunshine Mining Co. will reopen the nation's largest silver mine in northern Idaho, which has been closed since silver prices plunged in April 1986, officials say.

The Dallas-based company expects to recall about 400 workers to its Sunshine Mine in Kellogg, Idaho, over the next 120 days, officials said in a statement Thursday.

Company officials said they will implement a flexible wage scale, tied to the price of silver and the output of the mine, for employees represented by United Steelworkers of America Local 5089.

"With the new flexible wage scale and our other cost-cutting efforts, we expect to keep the Sunshine Mine operating whether the price of silver is high or low," Sunshine Chairman G. Michael Boswell said.

School audit heard Thursday

During his report, he also pointed out a fund account on the district's books which did not totally involve school-related funds.

The account, totaling some $9,700, was part of unspent funds related to cleanup activities at Tiger Stadium and the county coliseum undertaken by the special education students housed at the Humble-Smith school here.

The group includes some adults still enrolled in special education classes, school officials noted, and was actually a subsidiary function to the class' school activities.

Morren said the district needs to decide if it wants to continue administering the account and, if not, how to transfer the fund amount.

As part of the board's November meeting, it also voted to again name Morren for the coming year's outside audit.

During discussion of this agenda item, the board indicated it would be "open to local firms in the future" for completion of this annual task.

During previous meetings, trustees had indicated a willingness to consider proposals form local accounting firms to complete the school audit.

This process was postponed this year at the request of Nick Williams, assistant superintendent for business employed this past summer.

Williams asked for one year to acquaint himself with district operations before the possibility of changing auditors was considered. On his recommendation, the board voted unanimously to re-employ Morren for the coming year.

All board members attended Thursday's meeting to include Mike Jordan, who presided, Ken Branam, Ignacio Benitez, Ben Wilcox, Luann Burleson, Charlene Light and Billy Bob McMullan.

In other school-related business, the board voted to:

—Appoint the school textbook committee, a list comprised of Superintendent Dalton Moseley and staffers Debra McNair, Virginia Quintela, Patsy Massey, Judy Brown, Stanley Cozart, Aleta Long, Ramelle Parsons, Steve Tyler, Darlene Robbins, Melanie Smith, Eleanor Dryden, Kay Hopper, Marshall Parham and Larry Scott.

—Delete a school policy related to the requirement for a tuberculosis certificate. It was noted this was a recommendation statewide since some 40,000 teachers were required to do it annually and, in the past five years, not one case of TB has been detected.

—Amend local school policy related to the district's Title IX coordinator. As part of this amendment, the superintendent was named as the new coordinator.
