"Our international relations are not in as grave danger as our national relations," Mrs. Warner said. "The soil is the source of our prosperity. When they are robbed of their just profits, half the buying power of the nation is cut off.

Three in Houston

HOUSTON, Jan. 2. (AP)—An investigation into the murder of Preston Austin, wealthy Victoria, Texas, cattleman, slain in a Hot Springs, Ark., hotel more than two years ago, brought the arrest of three men here today.

W. S. (Shilo) Scrivenor, already under two local murder complaints in connection with a double killing; A. M. (Buddy) Jenkins and W. F. Martin were held for Hot Springs authorities. Advices from that city said the case would be placed before a grand jury next week in the hope of obtaining indictments.

The three, and a fourth man not named by officers, stand charged by complaint in Hot Springs with the murder.

Austin was strangled to death in his Hot Springs hotel room in September of 1929. Investigating officers believed he had been robbed of money and valuable jewelry.

An attempt to find finger prints at the time, made by a local identification expert, W. R. Ellis, were futile.

Counsel for Martin filed a habeas corpus proceedings, a hearing being set for Jan. 14. Jenkins' attorneys announced they would take a like action in his behalf.

Scrivenor was held in the county jail in default of $50,000 bail on indictments for the murder of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. (Keggy) Jones in their apartment here last August.

PEACE NEGOTIATIONS IN INDIA BREAK DOWN AND BRITAIN WARNS GANDHI

BOMBAY, India, Sunday, Jan. 3. (AP)—Negotiations for peace in India broke down today and the arrest of Mahatma Gandhi was momentarily expected.

Viceroy Lord Willingdon rejected the mahatma's terms for settlement and informed the Nationalist leader that he and the all-India national congress would be held responsible for any action they might take.

The government will be ready, the viceroy said in a telegram to Mr. Gandhi, to meet any activity on the part of the Nationalists.

The mahatma smiled as he read the message. He expected, he remarked, to be arrested under a law of 1818 which empowered the government to arrest or deport any agitator without trial.

"The national must respond to the government's challenge," Gandhi said.

Urges Non-Violence

"It is to be hoped, however, that while people of all classes and creeds will courageously and in all humility go through the fiery ordeal, considering no price too dear and no sufferings too great, they will observe the strictest non-violence in thought, word and deed."

The mahatma had told the viceroy he would withhold plunging India into the turmoil of another civil disobedience campaign if the viceroy agreed to an interview with him for the purpose of discussing the recent restrictive ordinances put into effect by the government. This offer was turned down by Lord Willingdon.

Before word of the viceroy's decision was received here, Subhas Chandra Bose, former mayor of Calcutta and a member of the extremist Nationalist faction, was arrested for openly declaring he would start a civil disobedience campaign in Bengal province as soon as he arrived in Calcutta. He was made captive on a Calcutta-bound train and was taken to a destination that was not revealed by the authorities.

ALL AVAILABLE BOATS PRESSED INTO SERVICE

Full Force of Flood Being Felt in Tallahatchie County, Miss.

GLENDORA, Miss., Jan. 2. (AP)—An inland sea of muddy water that surged over weakening levees crept higher around homes on the Tallahatchie river valley tonight wherein are marooned thousands of people who are beginning to feel the pinch of hunger and illness.

All available boats are hurrying hither and there on rescue missions but their number is sorely inadequate to promise immediate help for all.

Calls went out in the stricken valley today for more boats, but relief workers are wondering where they will secure a sufficient number to rescue all of those stranded in time to prevent greater suffering.

Levee Breaks

Late today a levee protecting the Jones Federic plantation near here broke and all man power in the vicinity was rushed there. Twenty-five thousand acres were threatened with immediate inundation unless the break can be mended.

The full force of the flood is now being felt in Tallahatchie county, bursting minor plantation levees

SIX MISSOURI OFFICERS DEAD AFTER ATTEMPT TO ARREST MAN WANTED ON CHARGE OF MURDER

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Jan. 2. (AP)—Sheriff Marcell Hendrix and five other officers were slain late today when they attempted to capture Harry Young, 25, and several companions in a farmhouse five miles west of here, and late tonight the killers were believed to have escaped into the Ozark mountains.

After a seige of several hours a new force of officers and citizens stormed the house, only to find Young, who was wanted for slaying a city marshal at Republic, Mo., two years ago, and his companions had gone. Latter it was thought they had the killers surrounded in a cornfield nearby, but later advices received here expressed fear the desperadoes had made their getaway.

A battery of national guardsmen and nearly 1,000 citizens joined in the search tonight.

Killed by the desperadoes, who are believed to have been armed with a machine gun, were:

SHERIFF MARCELL HENDRIX, of Greene county.

DETECTIVE CHIEF TONY OLIVER, of Springfield.

CITY DETECTIVE OLLIE CROSSWHITE, of Springfield.

CITY DETECTIVE DISNEY MEADOWS, of Springfield.

The men failed to return and searching parties began looking for them. McElrath's body was found in Trinity bay last Sunday. Since that time scores have been searching the Trinity bay waters and shores for Bonham's body.

Frank W. Greer, 31-year-old unemployed plumber and fisherman, was charged with murder in Mont Belvieu in connection with McElrath's death. The charges were filed by W. H. Sherman, Chambers county sheriff. Greer denied the charges.

Youth Rents Plane In An Effort to Escape After Holding Up Bank

FORT SMITH, Ark., Jan. 2. (AP)—An air-minded young robber held up the president of the First National bank at McCloud, Okla., at noon today, drove to Shawnee, about 12 miles east, boarded an airplane he had chartered an hour previously and was arrested by officers who awaited the ship's arrival at the Fort Smith airport.

About $500 loot was recovered when the youth was apprehended.

The superior judge who probably will hear charges, unwittingly boarded the airplane with the robber, while a second ship, carrying two deputy sheriffs from Shawnee took the skyway in futile pursuit. Telegraph wires worked east and the chase proved unnecessary.

The three occupants of the chartered plane were Orville Burch, of Seminole, the robber; J. C. Hayes, pilot and Leroy Cooper, superior judge of Shawnee. Judge Cooper was at the airport leisurely rounding out his holiday vacation with nothing particularly to do. He asked Pilot Hayes if he had room for him and became a welcomed guest.

Sheriff W. A. Roberts and Clarence Tankersley, county attorney, of Pottawatomie county in which McCloud and Shawnee are situated, left for Fort Smith after word of Burch's capture was received. They plan to take the youth back to Shawnee tomorrow.

Judge Cooper sat in the cabin and chatted with Burch en route. He said the youth "appeared bright and alert" but was not nervous on the trip.

Cotton Acreage Regulation Law to Be Tested in Court Through Suit To Be Filed Monday at Franklin

AUSTIN, Jan. 2. (INS)—As Texas' cotton acreage regulation law went into effect today, County Attorney T. L. Tyson announced here suit would be instituted Monday at Franklin to test its validity.

Tyson explained he was not attacking the law, and that he was open-minded on the much-mooted question of its validity; and that the action he would bring would be an injunction to prevent its violation.

This injunction will be directed against Fred L. Smith, who has served notice of intent to not observe the law, in an arrangement calculated to get the earliest possible court test.

Tyson conferred here at length with Attorney General Allred and Commissioner of Agriculture J. E. McDonald.

He said McDonald considered it wise to obtain an early court test and declared in the event the courts held the law unconstitutional, he (McDonald) would petition the governor to call another special session of the legislature to pass a law that would stand the court tests.

Japanese Troops Greeted by Crowds Chinese Citizens Who Line Streets Chinchow With Hastily Made Flags

CHINCHOW, China, Jan. 2. (AP)—The triumphant soldiers of Japan marched into Chichow today and were greeted by crowds of Chinese citizens, who lined the streets to cheer for them.

The Chinese waved flags that looked as though they had been hastily sewed together during the night by townspeople who wanted to receive their conquerers diplomatically.

Chinchow fell without a shot being fired. The first column swung into town at 1 p. m. and found the evacuation of Chinese troops already completed. Several hours earlier the last trainload of Chinese soldiers had departed down the Peiping-Mukden railway, bound for stations inside the great wall of China.

With the occupation of Chinchow Japan became master of the entire province of Manchuria.

The building housing the Chinese civil government in Chinchow was taken over by the Japanese, who issued a proclamation in the name of General Honjo, Japan's Manchurian commander, requesting that

CHARGED LARGE GAS COMPANIES ROBBING FIELDS

Independents Seek Permission to Convert Gas Into Gasoline

PROCEDURE FORBIDDEN BY STATUTES OF STATE

Early Hearing Promised by Chief of Oil and Gas Division

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 2. (INS)—Charging five large natural gas companies operating in the Panhandle were "squeezing" them out, a number of independent operators today petitioned the Texas Railroad commission for permission to convert their gas into gasoline—a procedure forbidden by Texas statutes.

They asked permission to make gasoline, rather than using the gas for "light or fuel" as provided by law, because, they allege, the large companies named controlling 90 per cent of the gas wells, are draining their holdings of gas as well as absorbing completely the market for natural gas.

Probe Gas Situation

Simultaneously Atty. Gen. James V. Allred announced that his assistants were investigating the gas situation in the Panhandle and stated that if it were found powerful foreign untilities are holding down the prices of gas so as to deprive the state of correct tax collections, and oppressing small land owners, "it would be a matter of serious concern to my department."

He intimated ouster proceedings might follow if charges made were substantiated and a monopoly was found to exist.

The five companies, whose holdings supply Chicago, Indianapolis, as well as other eastern and northern sections, at least one of which plan an extension of lines into New York, are Texhoma Natural Gas company, Cities Service Gas Pipe Line company, Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line company, North American Development company, and Southwest Development company.

Early Hearing Promised

R. D. Parker, chief of oil and gas work in the railroad commission, said the application will be set for hearing within 20 days. He pointed out the commission has undertaken a program of gas conservation for the great Panhandle field and plans to tighten up on this program of preventing waste of gas in the area.

The petition was filed by L. R. Hagy, D. D. Harrington and Stanley March, on their own behalf, asking permission to extract the gasoline and convert the residue into carbon black from wells on their holdings in the West Panhandle field, comprising Moore, Hutchingson, Potter, Carson and Gray counties.

Charge Refusal to Buy

It asserts that by construction of pipe lines, the five named companies have "appropriated" the available market for natural gas. The petitioners, it alleges, had tendered their production to the companies, but they had refused to buy it. As a result the petitioners "have been forced to shut in our wells (as provided by law) and permit the gas from under their leases to be drained by wells of the said companies."

It was charged a "deliberate attempt" was made to drain these wells, as offset wells to the petitioners' leases "have been operated at a greater capacity than wells not close to leases of others."

About one-third of a gallon of gasoline can be extracted from a thousand cubic feet of natural gas. This was forbidden by law as constituting a waste of the natural gas, potentially much more valuable when used for heating or lighting.

JAPANESE TROOPS ENTER CHINCHOW

Without Shot Being Fired

(By The Associated Press)

Chinchow fell to the Japanese yesterday without a shot being fired.

The triumphant Japanese army completed their conquest of Manchuria by entering this last stronghold of China to the accompaniment of cheers from the Chinese population.

Applauding crowds lined the streets, waving flags which apparently had been hastily sewed together that the townspeople might be able to make a diplomatic gesture toward their conquerors.

Before the Japanese column entered the city Chinese troops and civilians taxed the facilities of the Peiping-Mukden railway as they rushed pell-mell to places of safety behind the great wall of China.

At Japanese headquarters in Mukden it was indicated there probably would be no need of a further advance by the army to Shan-Haikwan, at the great wall and just below the southernmost tip of Manchuria.

In Nanking China's foreign minister, Eugene Chen, announced his government had repeated its order to Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang that he defend Chinchow at all cost. Apparently this announcement was made before news reached Nanking that the city already had fallen to the enemy.

SIX OFFICERS DEAD AFTER GUN BATTLE

from the house, until the bodies of the dead could be reached. A few officers tried to worm their way across the field toward the house, but a fresh shower of bulelts would drive them back. It was long after dark before the posse penetrated the house and the barn and found them empty.

Police officials said they were calling a broadcasting station at Kansas City to radio descriptions of the killers.

Harry Young, the ring leader, was wanted for the slaying of Marshal Mark Noe of Republic June 29, 1929. Police this afternoon received a tip he had returned to Greene county after two years in hiding, and they summoned Sheriff Hendrix to assist them in raiding the Young home.

Known for Daring

Detective Chief Oliver was known for his daring. Three years ago he was slightly wounded when he broke into a house from which "Dobbs" Adams, known as a desperate character, was firing upon a force of officers, and captured him. One policeman was killed while attempting to capture Adams. After his conviction and sentence to death by hanging, Adams committed suicide in his cell.

Deputy Sheriff Mashburn, who was at the side of Sheriff Hendrix when they opened the door of the farmhouse about 4 p. m. was found unconscious when the officers captured the place. Both of his eyes had been shot out and his face and head mutilated by the spray from the machine gun. He was removed to the Springfield Baptist hospital where he died at 8:15 p. m.

The scene of today's sanguinary battle is but a few miles from the Ozark town of Branson, Mo., where a little more than a year ago Jake Fleagle, notorious bank bandit, was mortally wounded as he struggled with officers attempting to arrest him.

Fleagle, the "Wolf of the West," was taken to a Springfield hospital, where he died.

Later it was diclosed he had lived nearly a year in a cottage at Hollister, Mo., close by. Hollister, nestled in the hills of the famous White river country, is a popular Ozark summer resort.

The rugged, hilly nature of the region around Springfield, with thick woods in many places, is well designed for fugitives' hideouts. Should the desperadoes reach the hills, fear was expressed that posses might have utmost difficulty in locating them.

To the west of Springfield are the cities of Carthage and Joplin, but should the fugitives head southward toward the Arkansas border they would encounter sparsely settled territory, traversed by few railroads.

Long Search for Young

Search for Young has been going on two and a half years since the slaying of Noe, 40-year-old marshal at Republic, 16 miles southwest of here and not far from the scene of todays' shooting.

Noe was killed the night of June 2, 1929, but his body was not found until the next morning, by the side of a little used road. He had been shot three times, twice in the head and once in the right arm near the elbow. Discovery of Noe's body was made by a brother of Sheriff Hendrix, who was killed today.

Officers telephoned here at 10 o'clock tonight they feared Young and his companions had escaped from the corn field in which they believed they had him surrounded. Posses were extending the scope of their hunt for the slayers of the six peace officers.

Tulsa Officers on Lookout

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 2. (AP)—At the request of Springfield officers, a squad of detectives, armed with riot guns and tear gas, had ambushed themselves around a north side residence here tonight when it was learned that Harry Young, 25, Springfield farmer who escaped from his barricaded home after slaying six policemen, was en route to Tulsa.

All available reserves were given descriptions of Young and police and county detectives were ordered by Nelson J. Moore, chief of police here, to "shoot on sight."

MOVE TO RUSH TAX AND TARIFF BILLS IN HOUSE

Expect to Dispose of Tariff Measure by End of The Week

TAX LEGISLATION TO REQUIRE MORE TIME

Leaders Hope to Have Bill Ready for Senate by February 1

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2. (AP)—Definite plans to expedite house action on troublesome tariff and tax raising legislation were made today by Democratic congressional leaders.

The program calls for such speed that the party's tariff bill is expected to flash through the house and to the door of the senate by the end of next week. Revenue increasing legislation will be rushed with a view to passage by Feb. 1.

With the return today of Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the senate Democratic leader, Speaker Garner summoned the joint policy committee to meet with him Monday morning to give its approval to the tariff bill drafted during the Christmas holidays.

Tariff Hearings Tuesday

Chairman Collier announced today hearings on the tariff measure would begin before the house ways and means committee Tuesday afternoon. He expects it to be reported favorable Wednesday so that it may be submitted to the house for consideration Thursday.

Secretary Mellon and Undersecretary Mills of the treasury are to open hearings before the ways and means committee on the tax bill Thursday, Collier said.

Speaker Garner said the tariff bill would be introduced by Collier immediately after its approval by the policy committee. He expressed the opinion that extensive hearings were unnecessary since the rates would not be revised.

Although the bill is being guarded closely, it is designed to bring about a means by which reciprocal tariff arrangements may be negotiated. It would permit international conferences on tariffs and would authorize the tariff commission to report needed changes in duties to congress instead of to the chief executive as at present.

Returning today after a visit in New York, Representative Snell, the Republican leader, urged the Democrats to bring up tax legislation before tariff. The New Yorker said the "country and the business people want to know the tax policy so they can adjust their businesses to the new taxes and the revenue is needed by the federal government."

Young Professor Who Ended Life Asks Cremation

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Jan. 2.(AP)—A request that his body be cremated "and the ashes thrown to the four winds" because he "wished to leave no grave over which any one may grieve," was penned by Roland Benjamin Schaefer, youthful University of Arkansas instructor, before he shot and killed himself during a new year's party early yesterday.

"Death ends all," he wrote. His last message was read today after the arrival of his father, Paul Schaefer, from Milwaukee, Wis., to take charge of the body.

Other details of the note, which was believed to shed further light on an unhappy love affair, were not disclosed. The father expressed a desire to be spared from further publicity. "I know Roland would wish it that way," he said.

The 25-year-old instructor in English and German left the other guests at the party, went to his room upstairs and shot himself after writing a poem and two notes, one requesting that an engagement ring be returned to the jeweler. The girl he had taken to the party had gone home shortly before with another escort, Kinney Holt, former university athlete.

The father arrived here alone, Mrs. Schaefer being prostrated with grief and unable to make the trip.

Embassy Guarded

The Italian embassy continued under special police protection, while 14 places in Chicago, including the Italian consulate, were under guard. New precautions were taken in other localities where bombings or attempted bombings occurred.

From Charles Fama of New York City, president of the Defenders of the Constitution, a leading anti-Fascist group, came the opinion in a telegram to Fish "that the diabolical work was committed either by terrorists or Fascist agents provocateurs in order to make Fascists appear as martyrs to their cause."

Fama asked a congressional inquiry of both sides of the Fascist movement. Fish termed the request "a fair one" and immediately drafted a resolution for introduction in the house Monday.

Also, he prepared legislation to put congress on record against "the teaching of Fascism in the United States," and demanded that "the activities and propaganda of both the Fascists and anti-Fascists shall cease."

Italian establishments at Trinidad, Colo., and Paris, Ill., were damaged by bombs Friday, while three men were arrested in Bellaire, Ohio, when 11 sticks of dynamite were seized under an Italian merchant's house.

Express Men Busy

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Jan. 2. (AP)—Railway express officials and Cleveland detectives, still on edge from Thursday's near bomb tragedy at the Italian consulate, spent a bad two hours today.

Called excitedly by recipients of three packages, investigators gingerly opened the parcels after minute examination.

They were found to contain, variously, cheese, oil, and a musical vase.

The shrewd nose of Detective Capt. Frank W. Storey identified the cheese, and the gurgle gave away the olive oil.

But the package containing the vase—not until it had been shaken tentatively several times did it "go off," playing softly, "the beautiful blue danube."

Clue Exploded

NEW YORK, Jan. 2. (AP)—Investigators exploded at least one clue and pursued others without apparent success today in their quest for the mail and express bombers whose terrorism attained nation-wide proportions.

A member of the police bomb squad dispatched to New Jersey returned with the statement that dynamite stolen from Cliffside Park, N. J., was not of the same brand as that used by the manufacturers of the bomb packages which fatally injured three persons in Easton, Pa.

From sources close to postal investigators it was learned they held to the belief the persons who sent five infernal machines by express from New York Tuesday also mailed the package which wrought havoc in Easton Wednesday.

A total of 764 births was registered with the city health department here during 1931, according to statistics released Saturday by Dr. R. B. Wolford, city physician. The boys were slightly in the lead with 388 as compared with 376 prospective blondes, brunets and redheads.

agricultural situation here. As yet no subject has been announced.

He is thoroughly correct in describing himself as "a small farmer of Tennessee," since he has lived, does live and probably will always live on a farm. For years he has been known as one of the foremost American thinkers, writers and speakers on agricultural economics, and industrial problems in general.

His name on the program of an important gathering means that his hearers will go away with a delightful memory and something new of which to think. Industrial councils call him in to help them solve their problems; big development associations wait to hear his opinions; men connected with the great transportation agencies of the country ask him to advise with them; and civic clubs of every conceivable sort count themselves favored to hear what he has to say.

Committees Named

Three committees have been appointed by Mr. Jackson and Dr. Kimbrough to have an active part in the movement of the annual meeting.

The committees are distinguished guests committee, the auditorium committee and the attendance committee.

Members are as follows Greeters, Walter D. Cline, chairman, Frank Kell, J. J. Perkins, W. M. McGregor, W. B. Hamilton and J. S. Bridwell; auditorium, Ralph DeShong, chairman, John W. Thomas, A. M. Miller, J. A. Hood, Jack Barnard, B. D. Donnell, Will E. Huff, Darrold Kahn, Roy Mann and J. C. Mytinger; and attendance, H. S. Ford, chairman, Burton Stayton, Mrs. Will E. Huff, Mrs. John F. O'Donohoe, Mrs. Everett Jones, V. R. Smitham, Albert Kelly and George Mobley.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2. (INS)—Mrs. Jennie Marston Adams Burgard Tibbett today was bound to "love, honor and obey" her new husband, Lawrence Tibbett, opera singer.

The old-fashioned rite, abandoned by many moderns, was used when the couple was married in the home of the bride's mother, Hunter S. Marston.

Many relatives of both Tibbett and the bride sent congratulations from California.

The couple planned to go on a honeymoon trip when Tibbett is through with present operatic and radio engagements.

MAX SHUMAKE IN FAVOR ECONOMY HELP TAXPAYERS

Max Shumake, tax assessor of Wichita county, will make the race for re-election as an avowed supporter of two new laws proposed in the Texas legislature to give relief to taxpayers of the state.

One of them is house joint resolution No. 6, article 8, which reads as follows:

"Three thousand dollars of the assessed taxable value of all residence homesteads as now defined by law shall be exempt from all taxation for state purposes; nothing herein shall apply within those counties or other political subdivisions now receiving any remission of state taxes, but upon the expiration of such period of remission this section shall become applicable within such counties and political subdivisions."

The other proposed bill which Mr. Shumake favors is house joint resolution No. 21 to amend section 14 and 16 of article 8 of the constitution of Texas to combine the offices of tax assessor and tax collector, providing the time and manner thereof and providing for the submission to the voters of the state of this amendment.

Mr. Shumake explained that the hardest work of the two offices came at different times and that it would be feasible to combine them and that this would save the taxpayers of each county a large expense each year.

During his term as tax assessor the cost of operating that office has been reduced from slightly less than $12,000 to below $8,500 per year, a decrease of approximately 33 per cent.

He favors the homestead tax exemption bill on the grounds that it would promote the ownership of homes throughout the state and would bring about a more stable citizenship.

The candidate is making his race on the platform that his long experience in the tax assessor's office has qualified him for the job and that he has been closely in touch with tax valuations in this county for several years and is able to give the citizens a fair evaluation of all real estate in the county.

NO VERDICT REACHED IN MAIL FRAUD CASE

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 2. (AP)—The federal jury considering the Universal Oil and Gas company case in which S. E. J. More than 48 hours had elapsed tonight since the jury was given the case. The eight are charged with having swindled investors of nearly $1,000,000.

Greatest Hazard

Miss Eleanor Ellis, secretary to J. W. Williamson, superintendent of Parchman prison farm, made a trip by boat through the section and said the flood was the greatest hazard the valley has ever known.

She said practically no hope was held that the levee system would last until tomorrow noon when the highest of the water is expected.

"Most of the workers say the fight is hopeless," said Miss Ellis.

After minor breaks today in the Cassidys bayou levee, R. L. Ward, Red Cross director at Sumner, appealed to the Red Cross for immediate funds for relief of more than 10,000 persons he estimated had been made homeless in Tallahatchie, Quitman and Panola counties.

LONE STAR RATE HEARING WILL BE RESUMED MONDAY

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 2. (UP)—The corporation commission will resume the Lone Star Gas company, rate hearing Monday, Paul Walker, chairman, said today.

The hearing was halted over a month ago when the state delayed its cross-examination of expert witnesses for the company until auditors could check the testimony offered.

Since the last hearing officers of the Lone Star Gas corporation, the holding company of Pittsburgh, Pa., have been subpoenaed in the case.

So far they have given no indication of attending the hearing, Walker said.

The Lone Star Gas company, with headquarters in Dallas, Texas, operates in 26 Southern Oklahoma towns.

Officials to Attend

DALLAS, Jan. 2. (UP)—The Lone Star Gas company will have three representatives at the rate hearing before the corporation commission at Oklahoma City Monday.

TEXAS-LOUISIANA COMPANY PLACED IN RECEIVERSHIP

LOCAL TRANSPORTATION CONCERNS NOT AFFECTED

Complaints Cites Obligations for $2,700,000 Unsecured

FORT WORTH, Jan. 2. (AP)—Properties of the Texas-Louisiana Power company and 11 subsidiary concerns were placed in the hands of receivers last night by order of Federal District Judge J. C. Wilson here.

A. P. Barrett, Fort Worth, and Wiley F. Corl, Philadelphia, Pa., were appointed receivers. They will execute bonds of $50,000 each.

The receivership action was brought by Stafford-Lowdon Co. of Fort Worth, whose bill of complaint alleged and unsecured claim of $6,725.33 for goods, wares and merchandise.

The bill recited that the defendant company's physical properties are carried on its books at a value of $30,000,000 and that the plaintiff believes there are other assets of $1,000,000.

In addition to its funded debt, the defendant company is obligated to a great number of persons, firms and corporations in an amount exceeding $2,700,000, all of which is unsecured, the bill of complaint recited. Of this amount, the bill declared $700,000 is due and payable.

The defendant's answer to the bill admitted all allegations of the complaint, "which correctly shows that this company is solvent."

Subsidiaries involved in the receivership are Crystal Bottling Works, Texas corporation, Duncan Utilities company, Arizona; Gainesville Gas and Electric company, Delaware; Mount Enterprise Telephone company, Texas; North Texas Coach company, Texas; Terral Ice and Light company, Oklahoma; Texas Dairy Products company, Texas; Oklahoma Electric and Water company, Delaware; Wichita Falls Traction company, Texas; Texas City Sewerage company, Texas; Post City Sewerage company, Texas.

Local Subsidiaries

Receivership of the Texas-Louisiana Power company will have no effect on either the North Texas Coach company or the Wichita Falls Traction company, it was announced here Saturday by L. L. Albritton, general manager of the two local companies. The coach company, which operates buses between Wichita Falls and Fort Worth, and the traction company here are under their own individual management, their only connection with the Texas-Louisiana Power company being that the latter owns bonds issued by them, Mr. Albritton said.

RANCHER AND FAITHFUL HORSE WHICH HE HAS RIDDEN 51,000 MILES WELL-KNOWN IN ARCHER

Judge John Purcell, Archer county ranchman on his faithful saddle horse, "Buster Brown" which has carried him more than 51,000 miles in the past 17 years. Judge Purcell astride his favorite mount has been a familiar figure in Archer county for many years.

ARCHER CITY, Texas, Jan. 2.—Judge John Purcell of Archer City is the owner of the oldest and probably the finest four-gaited saddle horse in the state of Texas.

Judge Purcell, who is now 71 years of age, is a familiar figure in Archer City and Archer county, astride the now famous cow-pony, Buster Brown. The pioneer rancher, who is a native of North Carolina, retired from the practice of law in Archer several years ago to engage in the ranching business. Buster Brown was born in April, 1905, and is now in his twenty-seventh year. His owner, who is a splendid horseman, raised and trained the pony himself and has ridden him more than 50,000 miles to and from his various ranches in the county.

The attachment of the horse for his master and that of Judge Purcell for the animal has attracted the attention of hundreds of people in this section for years. The above picture was taken recently as Judge Purcell started on a 20-mile trip over his ranch six miles south of Archer City.

Judge Purcell's own story of the horse reveals the faithfulness of the animal and the strong attachment which exists between him and his master.

"Buster Brown is a product of Archer county. He was a bred saddler and went all the gaits, each as easy as a cradle. Being a horse of almost human intelligence, he learned the different gaits by name and would immediately take the one called for by his master. For instance, if he were pacing and 'fox trot' was called for, he would shift to that gait without hesitation," Judge Purcell said.

Companion 17 Years

"Since I retired to private life over 17 years ago, he has carried me faithfully in my ranch work and to and from my home in Archer City to my ranches. During that long time, he has been my constant companion and friend without guile, utterly from hypocrisy, deception or selfishness, too often found in human beings. A perfect understanding developed between horse and rider; I knew him, he knew me. In his way he let his wants be known; I understood and usually gratified them as a reward for his intelligence and faithful performance of duty.

"In his prime he was a beautiful animal, very showy and attractive. He went with his head in the air shying at everything he saw and many things he did not see, yet perfectly gentle if understood and properly handled," his owner continued.

"The day's journey was never too long, nor the work too hard for him not to play if given his liberty. I frequently turned him loose in an enclosure of several acres to see him play. Somtimes he would leap as high as a man's head, pop his shoes together and light on his feet with the ease and precision of a trained acrobat, then run for dear life or take one of his gaits. Every movement was as graceful as a fawn.

"Can any one find as much to admire in a man-made machine—an automobile, if you please—as in this magnificent product of nature? To tell of his many good qualities, the many smart things he did and his many traits of nobility would fill your paper. Children loved him and he has been the admiration of hundreds who knew him.

Welcomes Master

"If there was a place for animals in the 'spirit world' as there is a heaven for the redeemed souls of men, doubtless 'old Buster Brown' would be there 'when the roll is called up yonder.' He is old now like his master, his eyes are dim, his hearing defective, teeth are bad, but he never fails to give forth the same glad whinney when he sees his master coming. Evidently his days are numbered, but if his master survives there will be genuine sorrow at his passing.

"You ask me for an estimate on the miles he has carried me and some items of his upkeep. I can approximate only, but can offhand say that I have ridden him sufficient miles to go around the globe twice and have spent at least $300 for shoes alone. You say impossible! But listen, there was hardly a day except Sundays for 17 years of his life that I did not ride him to my ranch (the closest point from Archer City being five miles) and many days 30 and 40 miles in rounding up and visiting other ranches; but take the 10 miles to and from my closest ranch, multiply by 300 days, you have 3,000 in one year and in 17 years gives 51,000, enough to girdle the earth twice, with 1,000 miles to spare.

"Being a large horse weighing 1230 pounds, he wore out his shoes rapidly. This necessitated a new set every 30 days. At $1.50 per set, woud make $18 per year and in 17 years $306."

These are conservative figures and do not include the other 10 years of the life of Buster Brown, part of which was spent as a colt on the judge's ranch and the other years when he was kept by the judge at his home in Archer City and only occasionally ridden by the judge and his children.

PROBE DEMOCRATIC NEW YORK EXPENSE FOR CAMPAIGN 1928

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2. (AP)—The expenditures of the New York headquarters of the Democratic national committee in the 1928 Smith-Hoover presidential campaign are under investigation by the office of the federal district attorney in New York.

Charges by Representative Wood of Indiana, chairman of the Republican national congressional committee, that the Democrats concealed some of their expenditures are the basis of the inquiry. By so doing, the Indianan said, the national committee violated the federal corrupt practices law.

Assistant District Attorney Jacob J. Rosenblum of New York is conducting the inquiry. He arrived today and immediately began to go over the reports of receipts and expenditures filed with the house clerk by James W. Gerard of the Democratic national committee.

Rosenblum said he also would scrutinize quarterly reports of the committee filed since the 1928 campaign.

James R. Nutt, treasurer of the Republican national committee, has filed a report with the house clerk showing the contributions received and expenditures made during 1931. Expenditures amounted to $258,918, with contributions totalling $100,371. The committee began the year 1931 with a balance in excess of $100,000, but had a balance of $6,425 Dec. 31.

Robert V. Fleming, treasurer to the Republican national congressional committee, filed a report for 1931 showing $31,569 had been expended. Contributions are received from Republican congressmen and the national committee by this organization.

YOUTH CHARGED WITH JUVENILE DELINQUENCY RESULT FATAL SHOOTING

FORT WORTH, Jan. 2. (AP)—Bennie Hurst, 11, was charged with juvenile delinquency in a complaint filed in 67th district court today after he had confessed to the fatal shooting of a Mexican farm hand near Birdville.

The complaint, charging that the lad did kill and murder the Mexican, was drawn up by the district attorney's office and filed in district court, which had jurisdiction in such matters. Bond of $500 was posted for him and his trial was set for Jan. 15.

Bennie, after misleading authorities for two hours with a long statement he later admitted was false, finally related how he fired a charge from a .410 gauge shotgun into the Mexican's chest. The Mexican, Mack Sanchez, 60, died in an ambulance on the way to the hospital.

San Antonio Grand Jury No-Bills State Banking Commissioner and Nine Officials of Defunct Bank

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 2. (AP)—Nine officers of the closed City Central Bank and Trust company and State Banking Commissioner Shaw were no-billed by the current grand jury in its report to Special District Judge Anthony this morning.

They were no-billed on each of the three charges filed in justice of the peace courts after the court of inquiry into affairs of the closed bank, ocnducted by the county attorney's department.

Judge Anthony refused to accept the written report of the grand jury in which comment on various cases was contained when County Attorney Davis and Assistants Wright and Morris objected to the judge's receiving the comment and spreading it on the court's minutes.

The county attorney and his assistants asked the judge for permission to examine the report before it was accepted. After a consultation in a court anteroom the two assistants voiced objections which were sustained by the judge. Judge Anthony told the grand jurors it was their duty to investigate matters brought to its attention and that there was no place for their individual opinions.

Those no billed by the investigators were Carl D. Newton, Russell C. Hill, W. A. Williams, Allan F. Barnes, F. L. Thomson, James Shaw, Wallace Rogers, Harry Rogers, B. R. Webb and R. F. Spencer. They had been charged with infraction of banking laws.

FORD PLANT IN RUSSIA OPENS

Beginning of Motorized Era In That Country

NIZHNI-NOVGOROD, U. S. S. R., Jan. 2. (AP)—A russian Mujhik on a tractor and the citizen in a flivver were offered by Soviet officials today as the Soviets' challenge to "capitalists" and their civilization.

The occasion was the opening of the country's newest and largest automobile plant, in which Ford cars will be made. The plant was completed in record time by American engineers and opened New Year's day with ceremonies.

Officials hailed the new factory as the beginning of a motorized era in Russia. "When we place the U. S. S. R. at the wheel of an automobile and a Mujhik on a tractor," one official said, "let the venerable capitalists who boast of their 'civilization' try to reach us!"

The factory occupies an area of 300,000 square yards. Around it is being built a new city, about 14 miles from the old Nizhni-Novgorod, once the great market place for middle Asia and China.

The new city includes 60 four-story apartment houses and 178 small houses for workers and their families, as well as the communal kitchens, hospitals, clubs, dining halls, public baths, laundries, theaters and other institutions which go to make a model Soviet city.

The plant cost $119,000,000. Officials said by the end of this year Russia will have jumped from 40th to eighth place among the countries of the world in automobile production.

CREW JAPANESE FREIGHTER SAVED SHIP ABANDONED

SEATTLE, Jan. 2. (AP)—Upwards of two score of the crew and officers of the Japanese freighter Tamaho Maru were safe on the north Pacific today after abandoning ship after a losing 60-hour fight with wintry seas.

A brief message relayed to the coast guard here last night told of their rescue by the Reiyo Maru, which had convoyed the Tamaho Maru for many hours. Forty-two men were taken off and the Reiyo proceeded toward Japan.

The 6,786-ton freighter first sent out distress messages three days ago, saying its steering gear was disabled and an 80-mile-an-hour gale was blowing. Later a message said it had arranged a temporary rig and was going ahead slowly.

The message telling of the abandoning ship was intercepted by the Hinchinbrook naval compass station, near Seward, Alaska, late last night.

It said that the Hikawa Maru, a third ship, quoted another unnamed Japanese vessel as follows:

"All 42 of the crew of the Tomaho Maru rescued by Reiyo Maru at 4 p. m., now bound to Yokohama."

Sunday will mark the first appearance of the First Methodist junior string quartet as a regular part of the Sunday night service, which begins at 7:30. The quartet is composed of the following players: Bobbie Honea, first violin; Wilma Sue Warman, second violin; Halbert Jarrott, viola; Lois Fisk, cello; with Helen Smith as pianist.

These young people will accompany the hymns for the opening song service and will also be featured in solo numbers during the winter. Another special musical feature of the evening service will be a soprano solo by Mrs. Pearl Calhoun Davis, who will sing "Watch Fires."

The words to this song were written by Mrs. Grace Coolidge, the wife of the former president, and the music was composed by Maury Madison. The song is being sung throughout the United States Sunday to celebrate the birthday of Mrs. Coolidge.

Dr. S. S. McKenney, the pastor, will bring a message of inspiration and hope for the new year, speaking on "The Abundant Life."

ECHO SINGING TO FEATURE SERVICES

The special evening services at the First Christian church have been drawing great audiences, it is announced. Last Sunday evening the auditorium was taxed to capacity.

Continuing these special services, Sunday evening echo singing will be introduced. Hidden singers in different parts of the church will lead the audience in singing old hymns of the church. The sermon will be, "Two Roads to Heaven."

This church, in keeping with all other Christian churches in the United States, is beginning Sunday a Christmas-to-Easter campaign for new members and every member attending every service. A great attendance is expected Sunday morning in launching this campaign. The sermon will be "At Ease in Zion."

CHILDRESS, Texas, Jan. 2.—Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Carter celebrated their 57th wedding anniversary at their home in this city last Sunday with a family dinner at which all of their children and all but two of their grandchildren were guests.

They were married in Covington, Hill county, Texas, on Dec. 27, 1874, and five years later moved to Montague county settling in the northwest part of the county, five miles from the town of Belcherville. They lived on the farm there until Jan. 1, 1907, when they moved to Childress county. Their first years in this county were spent on a farm but recent years have been spent in Childress.

Boy Scout News

Doings of Scouts in Wichita Falls Area

The overnight camp which was booked for Camp Ephriam Griffon over New Year's day had to be called off, as only a few boys could make the trip, and not enough signed up to make the trip possible. Friday, about noon, enough boys called and asked to go that would have made it more than possible to go, but reservations were supposed to have been in not later than Thursday. If the boys that had wanted to go had signed up properly, the camp would have been held.

Court of Honor

The next session of the board of review will be held Monday, Jan. 25, and a great many scouts should be ready for advancement and a great many merit badges should be passed. Scoutmasters have agreed that the theme for the year's work for 1932 shall be "advancement."

Troop Ten

The meeting was opened by Marvin Fox of the Flying Eagle patrol. Mr. Woodward, the scoutmaster, made a few announcements and the patrols had their regular business meetings. In the game contests the Flying Eagle patrol won the first and third contests, while the Flying Camels won the second contest. The meeting adjourned with the scout benediction.

Eagle Scout

A new Eagle Scout in the area, Robert Arnold, an assistant scoutmaster for many years, has had his application for Eagle Scout approved by his local court of honor and the same has been sent to the national court of honor and within the next 10 days Robert will have his eagle badge. This is the first Eagle Scout to be awarded this badge in Graham.

Troop Twelve

Troop 12 met in regular session at the Grace Methodist church with Don Ross, the scoutmaster, in charge. On account of several New Year's parties, the attendance was very low. Signaling and compass were studied by the boys that were present. The meeting was dismissed with the scout oath and laws. Troop 12 had an overnight hike to the Weeks park camp grounds and had 10 boys sleep out Monday night. Mr. Ross Supplied the boys with hot cakes the next morning and stated he was glad that he did not have 20 boys to cook breakfast for.

Get-to-Gether Meet

The big get-to-gether meeting that was held at the First Christian church was so successful that the scoutmasters at the association meeting decided to have another on Friday, Jan. 15 at the First Presbyterian church. The csoutmasters will each put on a game. It is expected that over 250 boys will be present.

Troop Sixteen

Troop 16 met at the First Baptist church, but as the Men's Bible class was having a banquet the troop met in the primary room. Tenderfoot badges were presented to Lester Deaton, Snelling White, Harold White, Wyatt Sparks and Jack Franks. A second class badge was presented to Paul Osteen, a scout who has recently transferred into the troop from another council. Lloyd Detleff, the assistant scoutmaster, conducted the meeting. Troop 16 camped out Tuesday night on the Wichita river. Lloyd Detleff, the assistant scoutmaster, took the boys out early in the afternoon and Mr. Erwin, the scoutmaster, came out in the evening and i spent the night out. One of the activities was a treasure hunt and Billy Ed Suddith was the winner.

Scoutmasters Hike

The scoutmasters association voted to have an overnight hike at Weeks park Saturday night, Jan. 9, at which time the much promised pig will be prepared. The pig will be cooked under the ground and supper will be served at 6:30 p. m. Each man will cook his own breakfast Sunday morning, and camp will break up in time for the scoutmasters to get home and cleaned up and to Sunday school by 9 o'clock.

Troop Twenty-two

Troop 22 met in regular session Wednesday night at the Wichita Falls Boys club, with 22 boys in attendance and with W. M. Avery, the scoutmaster, in charge. A number of boys passed their tenderfoot tests, while others studied on their second class work. The meeting was conducted by the patrol leaders. During the business session it was decided that the scribe, Ted Gore, should read the minutes and report on the advancement of the troop. Friday the troop had an all-day hike to Weeks park camp ground and seven boys with the scoutmaster spent the day at the camp grounds. The morning was devoted to test passing, and the scouts that were present passed many tests. After the boys had cooked their own lunch, tracking was held in the form of a hare and hound contest, with Marshall Martin and Tommy Gore as hares and in two contests the hares won both events. Camp broke up about 7 p. m., after the boys had cooked supper and Mr. Avery promised the boys another hike in the near future.

Wilbarger Scouts

The Vernon scouts have planned a big jamboree to be held in the high school gym on the night of Jan. 29 and there will be eight events, relay knot tying, compass (four-man relay), one man judging; five-man signaling relay, three-man chariot race, six-man relay, two-man first aid race, one-man fire building, using flint and steel. The Vernon scouts have asked the other scouts in Wilbarger county to attend from Odell, Harrold, Rock Crossing, and the two new troops that are now being organized at West Vernon and South Vernon. There has been some agitation for a troop to be organized at the Five-in-One school, but nothing definite has been done. Mr. Fowler, in the South Field, will be scoutmaster and in West Vernon, Mr. McIntyre, principal of the school, will be scoutmaster. A troop may be organized in the community house district of Vernon, Mr. Pierson being interested in this project. It is the hope of the scouters in Vernon to have 10 troops in Wilbarger county before the end of 1932.

Troop Fifteen

Troop 15 met in regular session at the Highland Heights Christian church with Jack Rudy, the scoutmaster, in charge. Two new boys were voted into the troop, R. E. Roark and Alfred Stacy. The patrol contest that has eight more nights to run is pretty close. The Black Devils, with E. L. Moon, patrol leader, has 60 points, and the second patrol has 46, the third patrol 43 and the fourth patrol 42. After regular business of the troop games were played.

Troop Eight

Troop eight, with C. E. Rhoads as scoutmaster, met in regular session at the Grant Street Methodist church with 20 boys in attendance. An orchestra was started with five pieces, piano, J. E. Foote; banjo, Henry Foster; guitar, Jack Near; harp, Herbert Tarver, and the violin by a new member of the troop. The boys have been asked to play for the get-together party at the First Presbyterian church Jan. 15. The troop made plans for the year 1932 and much interest was shown in some of the projects discussed. The meeting closed with the scoutmaster's benediction.

The letter has been sent to pensioners by Frank V. Whiting, chairman of the board of pensions, who explained the action was necessary because of present economic conditions.

BUILDING SLIGHTY MORE THAN HALF AVERAGE FOR PRECEDING FIVE YEARS

CHICAGO, Jan. 2. (AP)—Construction in the United States during 1931 was estimated by American Builder and Building Age last night at $3,312,839,019, slightly more than half the average for the preceding five years.

The magazine estimated that 317,535 buildings were erected.

Cost of residential construction dropped from $4.90 a square foot in 1929 to $4.27 in 1931, the magazine said, despite a "steadily progressing tendency to use more expensive equipment in dwellings of all types."

BARNES TO PREACH AT FLORAL HEIGHTS TODAY

FECHET TO BEGIN CAMPAIGN URGING NATIONAL DEFENSE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2. (AP)—A private citizen today after 33 years in khaki, Maj. Gen. James E. Fechet, ex-chief of the army air corps, announced he had just begun a new fight.

He is going to give the people "plain facts" on national defense through magazine work he is undertaking.

"I go in sorrow at the state of our armed forces," said Fechet, "in sadness at the attitude of my country toward its defenders and because of the false sense of security my people seem to feel.

"I want my farewell act to be this word of warning. We are the most hated nation in the world; we house more than our share of the world's treasury. That treasury is now practically unprotected.

"Unless we do a hasty about-face, unless there is immediately a national consciousness of impending trouble, with ample preparations to meet it, our fool's paradise will soon be lost."

Young enough to remain in service a long while yet, Fechet explained he retired because he could do more for defense and aviation outside.

JOHN MARRS WILL SEEK RE-ELECTION AS COUNTY JUDGE

John P. Marrs, county judge, formally announced Saturday that he would be a candidate for re-election, subject to the action of the Democratic primary. His statement follows:

"Being county judge of Wichita county, especially during a depression, is no small job. We now have a population of about 75,000, and actual wealth of about a hundred million dollars, with assessed values of about $53,000,000. The duties of the office are increasing every year. Every legislature adds more duties to those of the county judge.

"During the last four years, the taxable values of the county have been reduced near $20,000,000, which is one way of lowering your county and state taxes. In this way, the taxpayers have been saved in state taxes alone from about $70,000 per year to about $130,000 per year, as well as considerable saving in county taxes. This money has been kept at home instead of being sent to Austin.

"County expenditures have been reduced from 15 to 25 per cent the last three years, and some departments of the county have reduced expenses more than one-third, and yet it is believed that the efficiency of the employes at the court house was never better. Nearly all departments are cooperating splendidly.

"While county income has been greatly reduced by lower values and inability of the people to pay their taxes, the county indebtedness has been reduced nearly half a million dollars the last three years. And yet, we have just about enough money on hand in our interest and sinking funds to meet all payments on principal and interest coming due in 1932, though our biggest tax collecting month (January) is yet to be accounted for. Wichita county has never defaulted a single day in meeting a payment on the principal or interest on her bonded debt.

"While my work as county judge has been heavy the past three years, the cooperation of the commissioners court and other officials and employes of the county has been so fine I have enjoyed every bit of my work. It has been my constant ambition to be prompt, efficient, patient and courteous at all times in the discharge of my official duties, as well as to lend my aid to every civic and community interest within my power.

"Trusting that my efforts merit the confidence and support of the taxpayers and voters of the county, I am offering myself as a candidate for county judge for another term, subject to the action of the Democratic primary in July."

JUDGE P. A. MARTIN TO MAKE RACE FOR RE-ELECTION HERE

Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court Saturday announced his candidacy for re-election as follows:

"Under our system of government, the only way a man in public service can determine whether his services are acceptable to his employers (the people), is to announce for re-election and put the matter squarely 'up to' the voters. This I am doing at this time, subject, of course, to the action of the Democratic primaries in July.

"Whether elected or defeated I take this occasion to thank the public for honors heretofore bestowed. My experience in the office has led the governor of the state to appoint me twice as presiding judge of the eighth administrative district, consisting of 16 counties, and also to place me as a member of the Texas civil judicial council. These places are offices of no pecuniary emolument but are places of distinction and responsibility and I owe them all to the people who have elected me district judge.

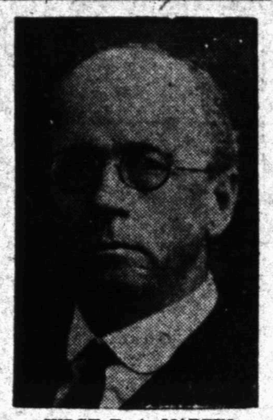

"I have given my best thought and most careful study to the administration of the law, as I understand it, and I invite consideration of the record I have made.

"I have at all times endeavored to conduct the court business with the minimum of expense to the taxpayers and was gratified to learn just this week that the commissioners court found that the jury fund of the county was in such healthy condition that they transferred $10,000 from it to the general fund.

"I have also endeavored to conduct the business with as little trouble and inconvenience to jurors, witnesses and litigants as possible.

"If re-elected, I shall continue, as heretofore, to give the best that is in me to the administration of justice, without fear or favor and to see that all men, rich or poor, high or low, regardless of race or nationality, have the same treatment in the courts."

PASTOR AT MUNDAY TO SERVE HASKELL CHURCH

MUNDAY, Texas, Jan. 2.—Rev. Charles A. Tucker, pastor of the Presbyterian churches at Rule and Munday, in future will also serve the pastorate at the Haskell church, it was announced Saturday.

He will preach at Haskell on the first and third Sundays of each month, in Munday on the second Sunday and in Rule on the fourth Sunday.

T. A. HICKS IN RACE FOR COUNTY JUDGE OF WICHITA COUNTY

T. A. Hicks, Wichita Falls attorney, Saturday issued an announcement of his candidacy for the office of county judge as follows:

"After careful consideration, I have decided to become a candidate for county judge of Wichita county, subject to the action of the Democratic primary to be held July 23, 1932.

"In announcing my candidacy for county judge, I wish to say that I have always supported the Democratic party and believe in the principles for which it stands and the precedents it has heretofore made with reference to the holding of public office.

"My residence in Wichita county for approximately 14 years, I feel, has acquainted me with the conditions of this county and its people.

"I am mindful of the importance of the office which I seek and believe that it is one of, if not the most important of the offices in the county and that its incumbent should be an experienced business man of sound judgment, as well as one with a proper understanding of the laws governing the administration of county affairs, for it is an office that calls for an executive with sufficient qualifications to guide the financial affairs of the county in both legal and business capacities, to the end that the business of the office may be dispatched with efficiency and a saving to the taxpayers of the county.

"As chairman of the board of county commissioners, a great responsibility rests upon the county judge, for he is largely looked to for advice and guidance in the handling of the business affairs of the county, in the fixing of the assessed value of your property and the rate of taxes you will pay upon the assessment, as well as the expenditure of the tax money of the county; and, in my judgment, he should be a man of seasoned business and legal training, by actual experience, that he may be amply fitted to safeguard the interests of the taxpayers of this county.

"In addition to the duties of the county judge in the handling of county funds, he is the trial judge in all insanity cases and has original jurisdiction of all probate and guardianship matters.

"If elected your county judge, I will not enter upon the duties of that office without previous experience in the handling of county affairs, very similar to the ones over which I will have jurisdiction in that office.

"And should I be elected, I shall stand for the economical expenditure of the county's funds and a reduction of county taxes, for a reduction of the assessed value of all properties in this county so that they will compare with the assessed values of like properties in other parts of the state and so that the taxpayers of Wichita county will not be called upon to pay more than their just share of the state taxes.

"I am opposed to bond issues creating new indebtedness, except for school purposes, and unless the bonds are voted for the retirement of outstanding bonds, in order to effect the saving and reduction of interest upon previous issues.

"I invite an investigation of my qualifications for the office which I seek and upon that alone I ask your vote and influence in my behalf. I assure you that if elected your county judge, the interest of the taxpayers of this county and the business of the office shall always be first and uppermost in my mind and I will devote my entire time and best efforts to the duties that devolve upon me as county judge."

What's New in the New Chevrolet Six

When you read what's new in the new Chevrolet Six, you, too, will agree it's the Great American Value for 1932.

It is the only low-priced car to offer both Syncro-Mesh and Free Wheeling in combination. It has engine and chassis improvements that raise performance to new heights of power, speed and smoothness. It provides the finest Fisher bodies Chevrolet has ever introduced. And it maintains the same factors of dependability and economy that have won the approval of millions of Chevrolet owners.

All that has proved to be sound and dependable in the past, plus all the new advancements given below—at one of the lowest prices in the market! That's why the new Chevrolet Six is the Great American Value for 1932!

Silent Syncro-Mesh Transmission

This well-known feature of high-priced cars is the finest type of transmission ever developed. In the new Chevrolet Six, it brings a new type of handling ease and car control to the low-price field. Syncro-Mesh permits you to shift gears with marvelous quickness, quietness and ease. As a safety factor, it is especially valuable. For it enables you to shift rapidly from high back into second, any time you want to use the engine as a brake.

A Smoother, Improved Six-Cylinder Engine

New experiences await you in the Chevrolet Six—new thrills in power, pick-up, smoothness and speed. For Chevrolet has introduced many new engine-features that increase power 20 per cent to 60 horsepower, and make Chevrolet's built-in six-cylinder smoothness even smoother. These features include down-draft carburetion, a new cylinder head, new manifolding, a counterbalanced crankshaft and rubber engine mountings.

Simplified Free Wheeling

Chevrolet's Free Wheeling mechanism is a new and advanced type that is extremely simple in construction. You may take advantage of its thrills whenever you want to, by simply pressing a button on the dash. Thereafter, and until you pull the button out again you are "in" Free Wheeling. You coast along on momentum every time your foot is off the accelerator. And you can shift with magical simplicity and ease.

65 to 70 Miles an Hour with Faster Acceleration

Vital new features introduced into Chevrolet's six-cylinder engine enable it to develop 65 to 70 miles an hour with astonishing ease, stability and smoothness. And stop-watch tests show an acceleration from 0 to 35 miles in 6.7 seconds.

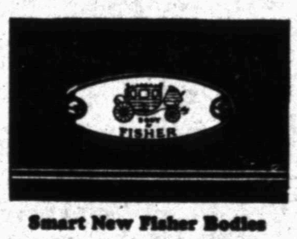

Distinctive New Front-End Appearance

Stabilized Front-End Mounting

An ingenious method of mounting front fenders, lamps, double tie-bar and radiator securely to the frame—a method exclusive to Chevrolet—stabilizes the whole front-end assembly and insures steadiness when driving over rough roads.

Smart New Fisher Bodies

Chevrolet's new Fisher bodies are the smartest bodies ever to appear in the low-price field. Moreover, Fisher craftsmen have added many new elements of strength, quietness and solidity to the wood-and-steel construction. Greater vision is provided for all occupants.

Down-Draft Carburetion

The down-draft carburetor is a big factor in Chevrolet's greater power, speed and pick-up. An intake silencer combined with it assures greater quietness. A heat control device, operated from the dash, warms up the engine quickly and provides more efficient operation in cold weather.

Finger-Touch Front Seat

One of the most interesting conveniences in the new Fisher bodies is the new type of adjustable front seat. A touch of the finger on a lever at the left of the cushions, and you can move the seat to any desired position. This feature is exclusive to Chevrolet in the lowest-price field.

And the following Chevrolet features that have won the approval of millions of owners: Big, powerful Four-Wheel Brakes . . . Four Hydraulic Shock Absorbers . . . Four long Semi-Elliptic Springs . . . Full Length Frame . . . Insulated Driver's Compartment

Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell, most notable of screen lovers, are seen together again in the new Fox musical romance, "Delicious" now playing at the Majestic. The film features six George Gershwin melodies, the first time that the famous composer has written the entire musical score for a motion picture.

Briefly, the plot of the drama revolves about the experiences of Janet Gaynor as a Scotch immigrant in the steerage of a large liner coming to America, and her adventures after she gets into the country illegally.

Romance enters her life when she makes friends with a troupe of Russian entertainers on board the boat, and is made love to by their leader, a poet-musician, portrayed by Paul Roulien, handsome newcomer to the screen from the South American stage.

Charles Farrell, a sportsman returning from European polo conquests, also makes the acquaintance of the wistful little steerage waif and soon enters into active competition for her love.

El Brendel, as Farrell's valet, adds much to the gaiety of each situation by his incessant clowning.

To add to your enjoyment you will see "Finn and Caddie," an act; "Spider and Fly," a silly symphony and Fox news in sound.

"Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde"

"Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde"—what a time for the lights! The greatest of all dramatic mystery-thrillers starts at the Majestic Tuesday.

Frederic March, in the title role, gives a great dynamic punch to his Jekyll-Hyde characterization. His stage successes are well known and his excellent work on the screen in "Royal Family of Broadway," "Ladies Love Brutes," "Paramount on Parade," "Manslaughter," "Laughter" and "My Sin" have won for him thousands of admirers.

Miriam Hopkins — golden-haired Miriam—who nightly panicked audiences in the Broadway stage production, "Lysistrata"; who in "The Smiling Lieutenant" won the applause of fans in her role of the demure princess who turned jazzy; and who captured the honors in "24 Hours," now plays her strongest, most gripping role as the Cockney street-girl friend of March's Mr. Hyde.

And Rose Hobart, for years one of Broadway's stage favorites and recently seen on the screen in "East of Borneo," plays the important role of fiancee to March's Dr. Jekyll.

In addition you will see "Half Holiday," an Andy Clyde comedy; "China," a Terrytoon and Paramount news in sound.

"Mati Hari"

Greta Garbo, Ramon Novarro, Lionel Barrymore and Lewis Stone make a sensational appearance in "Mati Hari," which opens at the Majestic next Friday. These stars have long since won the approbation of the public for distinguished work; they offer the finest portrayals of their respective motion picture careers.

The plot is based upon the life and loves of the notorious world war spy who meets her death before a French firing squad.

"Mati Hari" is easily the outstanding production of the year and will provide a new treat for the hordes of Garbo, Novarro, Barrymore and Stone fans.

"GOOD SPORT" AT STATE FEATURES JOHN BOLES

"Good Sport" opens a three-day engagement at the State theater Sunday. The cast includes Linda Watkins, John Boles, Greta Nissen and Allen Dinehart.

"Good Sport" has an angle that is read almost every day in "advice to the lovelorn" columns—where the troubled wife writes concerning her cheating husband and other women.

But Dorothy Dix, Beatrice Fairfax or any of the others ever told the wife to go out and learn how the gold diggers work. And if you don't believe its hilarious entertainment just listen to these seven gold-digging blondes get together and discuss the all important question of "How to hold your man." And how they practice the gentle art of husband-snatching. But underneath all the frivolity you will appreciate the entertaining treatment "Good Sport" gives to a serious modern problem. And don't try to keep this from your husband because he'll find it out anyway—there are seven beautiful blondes in the picture and all of them wearing the very newest in fashions.

"Men of Chance"

"Men of Chance" featuring Mary Astor, Ricardo Cortez and John Halliday, comes to State Wednesday. It is by the author of "Five Star Final." Bringing to the screen a story of women against the world, "Men of Chance" makes no compromises with motion picture tradition, the story being told with bold strokes of the camera and leaving nothing to the imagination.

Mary Astor plays an excellent part in the role of an American girl stranded in Paris, with Cortez and Halliday characteristic of men who gamble their lives on chance.

"The Homicide Squad"

Saturday the feature attraction will be "The Homicide Squad" featuring Noah Beery, Mary Brian, Russell and Leo Carillo. On the same program will be the fourth chapter of "Galloping Ghost" with Red Grange.

Zane Grey Story Featured at Gem Starting Sunday

From a photographic standpoint "Riders of the Purple Sage," action romance featuring George O'Brien and now at the Gem theater, is declared to be one of the most beautiful ever filmed.

There are two reasons for the photographic beauty of "Riders of the Purple Sage," it is pointed out. The first, and most important, is that the picture was photographed entirely in the scenic wonderland of north-central Arizona, land of red rock cliffs, purple mountains, azure sky and vast distances. Another, and more technical reason, is that Chief Cameraman George Schneiderman, A. S. C., used throughout the very latest in motion picture negative stock, a highly improved film known as supersensitive panchromatic, which brings color values to the screen never before presented.

Uncle Rex Bell Says Actor Will Tame Clara Bow

TUCSON, Ariz., Jan. 2. (INS)—Clara Bow, red-headed "It" girl of the movies, will be "tamed" by Rex Bell, her new husband, into a home-loving young wife.

That is Bell's plan according to his uncle, J. D. Barnes, Tucson banker.

"Clara won't 'put anything over' on that six-foot man-of-the-west," Barnes said. "He has told me that he intends to quell with a strong hand her every temperamental outburst.

"They are going to play in pictudes independent of each other and invest the money in their Searchlight, Nev., ranch.

"Clara knows what's best for her and will follow Bell's lead. It will be a happy marriage."

UNA MERKEL MARRIES AERONAUTICAL ENGINEER SON RETIRED CAPITALIST

TIA JUANA, Mexico, Jan. 2. (INS)—Una Merkel was Hollywood's prettiest New Year's day bride.

Burla is the son of Owen T. Burla, a retired capitalist of Los Angeles.

Coming to the screen from Dixieland a few years ago Miss Merkel soon established herself as one of the foremost players in pictures.

PREPARE FOR HUNGER MARCH

Pittsburgh Unemployed to Invade Washington

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 2. (AP)—Unemployed men and sympathetic agencies rallied today in preparation for a march to Washington seeking relief.

Father James Cox, pastor of old St. Patrick's Catholic church, will lead the unemployed march to the capitol starting next Tuesday because, he says, "these hungry, needy souls are not reds, not Communists but patriotic citizens."

The Pittsburgh delegation will leave Tuesday and recruits are expected as they trek through Pennsylvania and Maryland to Washington.

The only banner of the marchers will be the American flag, Father Cox said. They will attempt to interview President Hoover and will present a petition to congress asking relief.

In years past, Father Cox has led other pilgrimages of a vastly different nature. Annually he has taken pilgrims to the shrine of Our Lady of Lourdes at Lourdes, France. During the world war he was a chaplain in the United States army.

The priest has been engaged for months in intensive welfare work and heads an organized relief agency.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 2. (AP)—Edward P. Duffy known by seafaring men everywhere as "The Admiral" today completed 50 years as a member of the editorial staff of the Baltimore Sun, most of which was served as marine editor.

Admiral Duffy who will be 77 years old next month, is credited with being one of the oldest active reporters in the country and father of the first newspaper published at sea. It was issued with London type while he was a member of the crew of the Trenton.

His newspaper service was preceded by a long career at sea. He said today he had no intention of resigning now that he has reached the goal he set years ago—50 years as a reporter.

FRIENDS ASK AUTOPSY ON BODY JOHN NICHOLS WHO DIED IN HOUSTON

PORT ARTHUR, Jan. 2. (AP)—An autopsy on the body of John Nichols, 45-year-old restaurant proprietor, who died in a Houston hospital Thursday, was asked today by friends of the dead man who believed him a victim of a strange malady.

Detective Captain R. C. Parsley of the police department said he had been informed Nichols became violently ill and was taken to a Houston hospital after drinking whisky given him by a former business associate who owed him a large sum of money.

A murder charge was lodged against the preacher after a coroner's inquest. He had been held in jail here since the shooting.

McGaha claimed his gun accidentally discharged when he tripped over underbrush as the raiding party closed in on the distillery.

SWEEPING REDUCTION IN EMPLOYES TOLEDO, OHIO

TOLEDO, Ohio, Jan. 2. (INS)—One hundred twenty-five city officials from 19 municipal departments were without jobs today, following the introduction of a new city administration with the new year. Mayor Addison Q. Thacher, who took office yesterday, gave no reason for the dismissals.

SCENE FROM GEORGE BERNARD SHAW COMEDY SUCCESS

The British cabinet indulges in vocal exercises in "The Apple Cart," coming to Memorial auditorium Monday, Jan. 11.

The upsetting of "The Apple Cart" should be a really exciting event. For George Bernard Shaw is always exciting—and always outrageously upsetting. He may come past us and look into the future as he does in "The Apple Cart" or he may go "Back to Methusela" but his nonsensical topsy-turvydom goes on forever.

But Shaw's wit springs from something infinitely more valuable than mere comedy because it is the product of a really great mind which is concerned seriously with social problems. He is willing to play the fool himself, if need be, but he hates to see society in the same role. Hence does he ruthlessly "hold the mirror up to nature."

Shaw is an idealist who is never blinded by the glitter of the superficial. He sees the world both as it is and as it should be. In probing into dogmas and institutions in search of truths regarding them, he ridicules society as it exists with almost fanatical consistency and earnestness. At heart he is a stark Puirtan who is seeking to hitch the wagon of humanity to a star and "The Apple Cart" is one of his most supreme as well as his most entertaining efforts in that direction.

Long before Freud had ever been heard of, Shaw had already recognized the importance of woman's status and her relation to man. He has consistently pointed out that the true function of sex has all but become obscured by conventional morality. And in "The Apple Cart" he again depicts love as a sex war in which primitive woman seeks to corner and capture her man.

Henrietta Couple Married 60 Years Honored at Party

HENRIETTA, Texas, Jan. 2.—The 60th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Snearly, pioneer settlers in Clay county, was celebrated with a dinner at the home of their oldest daughter, Mrs. Lon Kelley, Friday. Open house was held Friday afternoon to honor the pioneer couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Snearly came to Texas from Tennessee in 1878, and settled in what is now the Riverland community. In the early 80's they moved to Henrietta. Until the advent of the Denver railroad Mr. Snearly drove the stage from Henrietta to Graham. He was later engaged in the feed business but retired in 1918.

Mr. and Mrs. Snearly have the distinction of being the only couple of the families who settled the riverland region who are now living. Mrs. John Schwend of Henrietta is the only other surviving settler of that community.

Mr. Snearly will be 86 years old in February and Mrs. Snearly was 82 in November. They have three children, Mrs. Lon Kelley of Henrietta, Mrs. S. L. Conn of Wichita Falls, and G. L. Snearly of Henrietta, and three grandchildren, Mrs. W. B. Moore of El Paso, W. C. Kelley of Fairfax, Okla., and Roy Snearly of Henrietta.

TEXAS COMPANY GETS 500-BARREL PRODUCER IN VICTORIA COUNTY

VICTORIA, Texas, Jan. 2. (AP)—The Texas company brought in an oil well last night near McFaddin, Victoria county, with an estimated daily flow of 500 barrels. Saturated sand was struck at 5828 feet.

The well came in under its own pressure. It is three and one-half miles east of the O'Connor ranch well in northern Refugio county, which opened a new field several weeks ago.

The discovery well is flowing high gravity crude while the O'Connor well is producing heavy coastal crude.

MAY QUESTION GOVERNOR IN OIL PRORATION PROBE OKLAHOMA NEXT MONDAY

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 2. (UP)—Gov. William H. Murray may be called as a voluntary witness before the county grand jury which convenes Monday to investigate oil proration violation charges.

O. J. Jaye, Royalty Owners league manager, on whose petition the jury was ordered, said:

"In all probability Governor Murray and his cousin, Cicero I. Murray, military chief of the oil fields, will be asked to testify."

The governor's action would have to be voluntary. He could not be forced to appear. Friends of the governor predicted Murray would welcome an opportunity to explain his military rule in the field and answer attacks of his enemies.

Cicero Murray, as lieutenant colonel in the national guard, has been in control of proration enforcement since the field was placed under martial law Aug. 4.

Neither is friendly toward Jaye who has made many charges against the oil field administration. Jaye charged huge amounts of oil had been stolen from the field by night operations and that royalty owners were being robbed.

TWO DRY SENATORS

It is difficult to follow the reasoning of Senator Ashurst of Arizona and Senator Sheppard of Texas in declining to serve on committees to consider proposed changes in the prohibition laws. Senator Ashurst said that he "had no time to waste in aiding those who are attempting to weaken or relax the prohibition laws." Senator Sheppard echoed this view in his refusal to serve, adding that the modificationist efforts could not possibly get anywhere.

These two senators have put themselves in the position of wanting to deny the wets even an opportunity to be heard. That is the wrong way to combat any movement. If the arguments advanced by the wets are valid, nothing is gained by refusing to listen to them. If the arguments, on the other hand, lack merit, dry senators should welcome the opportunity to reply to them. It is hardly in keeping with democratic principles to refuse to hear the other side. And it is difficult to see how it would be "aiding" the wets to give them such a hearing.

Perhaps the two senators are in the state of mind of the Irish justice of the peace. He said he didn't want to hear both sides of a case tried before him because it had a tendency to confuse the court.

THE DISCREDITED PROPHETS

There are many predictions of an upturn in business in 1932. Most of us try to believe them, try to discover the factors that justify them.

The trouble with them is, practically all of the prophets have been discredited in the past two years.

If we accept their predictions now, it is because of the hopes that we hold rather than because of the authority with which they speak. The realization has come to us that, after all, there are precious few who can be believed. There never was a time within the memory of living men when the business of predicting was so futile. Too many of the predicters have been confounded by events.

More hopeful than anything the prophets have had to say is the fact that the people and the nations are relying more than ever upon those homely virtues that we thought, not so very long ago, were outworn. We are getting back to fundamentals. That is the one clear and hopeful note in all the confusions of sounds.

FEWER LYNCHINGS IN 1931

Texans can take pride in the fact that their state is not on the list of those in which there were lynchings in 1931. The records kept by Tuskegee institute show a total of 13 lynchings in the United States during the year, and none of these were in Texas. To that event, Texas started wiping out the black disgrace of its 1930 record.

Of the 13 lynchings, only eight were in the strictly southern states. Maryland, Missouri and North Dakota, with one each, and West Virginia, with two, accounted for the remaining five.

The record is not as good as that of 1929, when only 10 lynchings were recorded. The number in 1928 was 11. In 1930 there were 21 lynchings.

The courage and resourcefulness of peace officers thwarted many mobs in 1931. Officers who live up to their oaths of office can do much to curb lynching. The real remedy lies deeper; it consists of engendering that respect for law that makes lynching impossible.

CHICAGO'S DESPERATE PLIGHT

The court decision in Chicago, invalidating the tax assessment rolls for 1928 and 1929, puts that city in a truly desperate plight. It already was in bad shape, but it at least had the hope of getting some money; that hope is now virtually dissipated.

A new system of assessing property for taxes was inaugurated in 1928, the purpose being to reach certain classes of property that had previously either escaped taxation altogether or paid a disproportionately small share. The system was attacked in the courts and property owners withheld payments, pending outcome of the case. As a result, about $140,000,000 was owing the city in delinquent taxes for the years 1928 and 1929. Had the decision been favorable to the city, much of that sum could have been collected, but the adverse decision leaves Chicago without revenue and without hope of getting any until new tax rolls can be made up, assessments fixed, and new taxes collected. It is doubtful if any of the 1928 and 1929 taxes can be collected at all.

Politics, both in Chicago itself and in the legislature, is largely responsible for the situation. The city has been unable to have its own affairs administered efficiently, and the legislature's efforts to remedy matters have merely made things worse.

The immediate need seems to be for a receivership. But that will not replenish the treasury or provide money for the school teachers and other employes who have been working for nothing for many months. The way back to solvency is a difficult one to chart. Probably some sort of legislative action is necessary, but the legislators cannot be counted upon to provide any real help.

THE FIGHT ON THE TIGER

Plans for a vigorous fight to oust Tammany from control of New York's municipal affairs at the next election, in 1933, are being made by citizens of the metropolis. A committee of one thousand members has been formed to conduct the preliminary campaign and to recommend an independent candidate.

About once every 10 or 12 years New York decides that it has a stomach-full of Tammany's graft and misgovernment, and makes a change. It is about time, as the cycle turns in New York politics, for one of these spasms of reform. Certainly New Yorkers have had enough to disgust them and make them want a new deal.

The voters of this country's largest cities are gluttons for punishment, however, and it takes a lot to convince them of the need for a change. In New York City, the reform movement is handicapped by the fact that the Republican organization is as bad as Tammany, considering its limited opportunities, and that it can offer no real help. Those most anxious to oust Tammany are not practical politicians, and they have an unpleasant way of falling out among themselves. A contest between them and Tammany is one between amateurs and professionals. Occasionally the amateurs win, but the odds are always on those who make a living out of it.

In the next election Tammany will have an ace in the hole. If it sees that it is going to be pressed uncomfortably hard, it can draft Al Smith as its mayoralty candidate and he probably could defeat any one the reform element might name. Tammany does not want Smith as its candidate, if there is any way to remain in power without him; probably Smith does not crave to run, but would do so, to save the organization from defeat.

A news story says million-dollar incomes aren't as common as they used to be. It's no trouble to get the zeros, but it's hard to get one to stand by them.

Must West Fight East?

By GLENN FRANK
President of University of Wisconsin and Former Editor of the Century Magazine
(Copyright McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

As news of difficulty between Japan and China comes over the wires and through the air, prophets of disaster begin to revive their dark predictions of an ultimate color war between the peoples of the west and the peoples of the east.

In the early post-war period there was much concern manifested in the possibility of such a war.

It was pointed out that before the war five despotic military empires existed. They were:

(1) Germany.
(2) Austria.
(3) Turkey.
(4) Russia.
(5) Japan.

At the end of the war, four of these, as empires, lay shattered.

The Japanese empire survived.

The next great issue in world politics, the prophets of disaster contended, would be the mastery of the Pacific.

Japan wants this mastery of the Pacific, as these prophets insisted, and the disintegration of the old European order left her in an advantageous position in any struggle for it that might arise.

When this issue is joined, these prophets suggested, Japan might not be contending single-handed for the dominance of the Pacific.

Japan might be but the clenched fist of the long arm of Asia.

The prophets of disaster foresaw this coming together of the forces of Asia because, they said, a vast fund of bitterness has been built up against the white races for their having preempted so much of the world's surface that the colored races need and that the white races are not using to full possibility.

They saw a sullen anger against the discriminatory laws that the white races had leveled against the colored races.

And they saw the colored races looking with ominous glee upon the weakened and bickering state of the white races as offering to the colored races their opportunity to strike, sooner or later, for elbow room and equality.

We are due for a revival of this sort of frightened prophecy.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Be of good cheer: it is I; be not afraid.—Matthew 14:27.

Big Hearted

Gandhi's willing for a million to die,
Till freedom for his land arrives.
You can say this much for that Gandhi guy,
He's mighty generous with other folks' lives.

Old Stuff

The papers are full of predictions and such,
And perhaps they would make us feel merry,
If most of them didn't resemble so much
The predictions of last January.

Discovery

Europe can't pay, its statesmen shout,
They've no cash in the drawer,
Little by little, we're finding out
Who lost the war.

Promises

The candidates promise the taxes to lower,
And it seems like a lovely idea,
But we hope that none of 'em will get very sore,
If they hear someone saying, "Oh, yeah?"

Senator Johnson says Germans can pay their debts by giving up one glass of beer, each, a day. And a lot of Americans, if they could get one glass of beer, each, a day, wouldn't care whether Germany paid or not.

It's Leap Year

This year 1932 is a leap year, one in which, according to the ancient tradition, women have the right to do the proposing. This right, it seems to us, is less important than it might be. It is based on the notion that in years not divisible by four, the women are utterly passive as to matrimony and that the men really do the proposing in those years. As a matter of fact, leap-year isn't different from any other year; every year is leap year, from the woman's point of view.

The idea that a woman who decided in 1929, for example, to marry a certain guy, would wait until 1932 to bring such a thing to pass, is based upon a pleasant fiction that will not bear the light of truth. If the leap year tradition were an accurate one, there wouldn't be any marrying except in the years that are divisible by four.

All through the ages, mankind has kept up the romantic pretense that the male does the deciding and that he does the wooing. This has never been true.

Away back yonder in prehistoric times, for instance, courtship was a rather rough proceeding. The male would waylay the woman of his choice (as he thought) rap her on the head with a club and then carry her away as his bride. The girl would run and scream and fight when the male started after her and make him think she wanted to escape.

The poor neolithic simp! He thought, as he dashed madly after her that she was trying to get away. It never occurred to him to wonder why it was that she happened to be in that particular place at that particular time. It never struck him as peculiar that he came across her out in some lonely spot where none of her relatives could hear her screams. He never noticed that she didn't run quite as fast as she could have, or that her seemingly frantic struggles weren't as desperate as they might have been. If any such ideas percolated into his thick skull, he decided that it was just a coincidence that he met up with her just at that time and place.

Neolithic Ideas

With all the progress and development that man has known since prehistoric days, he still clings to his neolithic ideas about courtship. He still thinks that he is doing the pursuing and that the female will escape if he doesn't chase her at top speed. Man has grown in many ways, but he still is of an age with his neantherthal ancestry with respect to the pursuit of the opposite sex. And he still is so proud of himself when the chase is ended and the female's struggles have ceased that he doesn't realize what has happened. Out of the bigness of his heart he invented leap year so as to ostensibly give the women a break and enable them to avoid spinsterhood, as if they needed something like that.

And women, throughout the aeons, have kept up the pretense. They have never let on that they knew any better.

Back in the early days, they knew their stuff, and they still do.

When Igga, the prehistoric flapper, started out from the cave one morning, her mother wanted to know where she was going.

"Oh, just out for a little stroll," says Igga.

"Whereabouts?" asks her mother.

"Oh, just down along the creek," says Igga.

"Well, be careful; look out for the pterodactyls" says the mother.

Now Igga knew, and her mother knew she knew, that Ugg, the handsome young man of the village, was fond of hunting pterodactyls and that he probably would be out after them down on the creek that morning. And she knew that Igga wasn't going strolling down there just to pick flowers or to enjoy the sunshine.

But Ugg didn't know. He thought that Igga was there just by happen-chance. And when he started chasing her and she ran farther up the creek instead of back toward the paternal cave, it never occurred to him that her choice of direction was a peculiar one for a young woman who was trying to escape.

The methods of pursuit and capture have changed in the last few hundred thousand years, but the basic principles have not. And that's why this leap year notion is a lot of spinach.

The city of Chicago is about to go into receivership, and probably Big Bill Thompson would blame that on King George, too.

The poor benighted Finn, he returns to the path of sin, he abandons with merriment the noble experiment and votes for beer and gin.

If, as Speaker John Garner desires, Texas is divided into five states, which one of them would get the treasury deficit?

Maybe this is going to be a better year after all. Here it is two days old and it hasn't yet produced a news reel talkie of Vice President Curtis.

Speaking of 'Yellow' Perils—!

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

MAFAI'S METHODS IN THE UNITED STATES

Editor The Times: Some days ago the papers reported that hundreds of the dread Mafia, Italy's so-called underworld, were arraigned before the tribunal of justice for adjudication. That crime organization used to be the nightmare of Italy, but the determined stand of the government has forced them to cover and according to all appearance Italy will soon be rid of this moral pestilence.

My mind wandered to England and looked up the record of the Scotland Yards of London. I found that relatively few cases remained unsolved and that due to this fact the crime record of that large city seemed almost insignificant. My mind then returned to our country, the crime situation forced the blush of shame to my face. The crime wave of this country with its center, Chicago, is a blotch on American civilization. We who claim to lead the world in the subjection of physical forces to the use of man, have failed miserably in the subjugation of the moral forces that operate against the welfare of society. Our police and our judiciary are staging a comedy within the tragedy of crime. In no line does America show the world a sorrier aspect of helplessness and, considering our accustomed bragging about our unparalelled ingenuity, of well deserved ridicule. It was humiliating enough that our police system should show itself absolutely incapable of coping with crime.

But what shall we say when justice steps down from her high position, jerks the symbolic blindfold from her eyes, throws away the symbolical scales and draws the sword like a gladiator ready for the executioner's job? That has been the picture of American justice ever since that judge in Chicago in default of police action dug up an antiquated law and thereby railroaded the public enemies to jail. I have no complaint against the "secret six," nor their designating certain persons as "public enemies." They were doing the job of pointers or setters for the hunters, the police, and either the police should have been adjudged incapable of performing police duty and dismissed, or the "secret six" should have been prosecuted for libel and slander. As the case stood, a jury was nothing but a farce, the case stood adjudicated by the verdict of the "secret six" and the person without the due process of law was sent to jail for being a "public enemy," on the pretext of vagrancy, that is to say, on false pretense. This is evident to any thinking person, for there were hundreds of people that could have been sent to jail on that same plea who were never molested.

The most flagrant case of scandal of justice is that of Al Capone. Now, I wish to most emphatically state that I am not holding a brief for this purported king of the underworld but I wish to state just as emphatically that I am opposed to railroading even this man to the penitentiary on false pretense. No one will deny that if it had not been for his purported criminal record he would not have been prosecuted for his evasion of the income tax, and no one will deny that if it had not been for that record that he would not have received the jail sentence and fine as he did. He was railroaded to the penitentiary on the plea of the income tax evasion; in other words, on false pretense. If the throng of federal sleuths that hounded Capone were to be turned loose by blindfolded justice I have no doubt in my mind that thousands of U. S. citizens would get an attack of the nerves and I do not doubt in the least that even old Andy's hand would show a little trembling that had nothing to do with old age. When finally Capone lands in the cell that justice prepared for him already before his trial was called and a visitor walks along with his son, what would be the proper remark for that father to make to his son? Would he have the right to say, there is the greatest criminal of our age, whose crimes led him finally where all crimes are bound to end, or should he say, there is a poor devil who has not been shown more guilty than one of the cabinet officers but who was railroaded here by mere public opinion? While the first may be right, all evidence I have is from hearsay, I am convinced that the last is absolutely right.

The only way I can represent to my mind the scene at Chicago when this man was sentenced, no matter how much solemnity was added in a hypocritical way, is this, justice devoid of scales, and blindfold, but flashing her swords, stands over the prostrate form of Capone and addresses him thus: "Now, you infernal scoundrel, I have got you. I have tried to encounter you on the field of evidence, but you have stealthily evaded me always. Now, I have you entrammeled in the net of the income tax and you cannot move. Now I will gouge my sword in your carcass so that it will take 11 years to heal up, besides the poison of the fine I will pour into your gaping wounds."

This travesty of justice has turned the world frenzy with exaltation. The judge who has sentenced the man not on conviction for what he is really sent to the penitentiary for but out of revenge of the public against him for unproven charges is asked to be promoted for his great feat. This seems to me to be the greatest insult to the judiciary of the entire nation. On the supposition that everything is all right this demand means nothing else but that a judge who does his duty is entitled to special remuneration for no other possible reason but that no other judge besides him performs his sworn duty. Surely, a beautiful picture of American justice.

I am surprised that no one of the pharisaical bunch has raised his voice against Uncle Sam accepting some of that vice money. I expected some one to raise his voice declaring that this cannot be put into the United States treasury because it is blood money. They used to call money, by far less soiled than this, by that term. But I am not surprised at this bunch pointing the finger of scorn to those who would patronize the speakeasies of Chicago, because it would help this man pay his expenses. Now, I cannot see why I should not, if I had occasion to do so, help raise the amount for which Uncle Sam is so anxious to get in order to reduce his deficit. And why, I ask, should any one be ashamed to buy a drink anywhere he can get it? The shame is not on him who buys but on him who closed or helped close all avenues of some more decent procuring.

It is not unconstitutional to drink, nor is it unconstitutional to buy a drink. No doubt most persons would wish to buy and drink in more decent surroundings, but if the access to such places has been barricaded by some fanatics who wish to force their conception of morality and decency on them by their pharisaic non-approval and scorn, they would, indeed, be moronic cowards if they did not go and get it where alone they can get it, especially so since Uncle Sam is only too glad to get a share in the price.

In conclusion I wish to say that I bewail the lawlessness of this country, but if justice herself is going to correct this lawlessness by turning herself lawless, then it is time to give up all hope of bringing order out of this chaos and crying aloud, "Oh, Lord, save this country, which is on the way to the dogs." Yours truly,

P. BONIFACE, O. S. B.

NEW YORK.—The other night, a strange and almost spectral parade threaded its way through the jammed angles of the Broadway district.

Old-timers, headed for theaters, brushed suggestions of mist from their eyes. Some seemed to look about, a bit perplexed as though uncertain of their place and time. A romantic reminder of a lost decade was approaching. At least a dozen old-fashioned horse-drawn hansoms were suddenly re-appearing in the white light belt. Not in years had such a display been seen. Could it be that changing times would bring back some of the city's more picturesque touches?

The short parade passed. Thousands of eyes followed it. Then the mystery was solved. The back of each cab bore a banner: "Go to Minsky's Burlesque tonight!"

This, it would seem, was indeed the end. Even stiff-hatted cabbies had joined the ranks of the sandwich men.

However, I did hear of one enterprising jehu, whose stand has been near the entrance to Central park. For a few old vehicles still manage to haunt the side door of the Plaza hotel.

It seems that in a certain Broadway scene, and old-fashioned cab was driven on the stage.

Three nights later, just such a cab appeared in the street outside the theater at the close of the play. The driver figured that certain oldsters, sentimentally reminded of the manner in which they once drove to their homes, might want to recall the experience.

And he did very well.

Two paragraphs on the society page of a New York daily suggest ideas for those who would collect ironic short-short-short stories. The first reads: "The drawing for the $150 shoes was won by an elderly lady out in Short Hills who broke her back the day previous."

The second is even shorter: ". . . The dance will be held for the benefit of the Prosperity Shop . . ."

Garcon, please fetch the wormwood!

Many of the elaborate "benefits" now being staged for the needy must leave a slightly acid taste in some mouths.

Just the other evening, one of the largest and swankiest was staged at the new Waldorf. The gems worn by two dowagers alone would possibly have fed an entire breadline for many a week.

Scores of the gowns had been made to outshine any other to be seen this season. A few visiting movie stars, wishing to catch the eyes of the fashionable throng, seemed to carry fortunes on their backs. Thousands had been spent on several of the garms.

As in the case of all such charity events, the cost of spending an evening could be nominal. A certain percentage, plus some raffles and donations, went to the poor.

And I could not help but wonder about a handsome fund that might be raised if, on such an occasion, the matrons wore gowns they already had hanging in their ample wardrobes and donated the price of the new creations to a fund.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—Seldom does a conservative Republican congressman from Massachusetts jump to his feet in a pledge of allegiance to the Communist party and the Soviet union.

Not if he knows what he's doing, he doesn't. When such an extraordinary experience occurred in the life of Representative A. Piatt Andrew of Massachusetts it was because he knew not that which he did. Neither did Gene Tunney.

Piatt, as he is called, was sitting in the famous Meyerhold theater of Moscow. So was Tunney. During the play a man arose and began to harangue. It was part of the play, somehow. Suddenly the 1,500 persons in the audience rose and hollered. Andrew hesitated. His guide nudged him.

"I got up, then," he admits. "Tunney got up, too. Then I asked the guide what it was all about and he said:

"'The man said all those who were ready to die for the revolution would arise.'"

Congressman George Holden Tinkham of Massachusetts tried to get Congressman Hamilton Fish of New York, who saves the country by investigating Communists, to investigate the incident. Congressman Fish refused. For one thing, Congressman Andrew had been nudged by his guide and it appeared to have been a case of entrapment. Early reports did not mention the nudge. That was why the Baltimore Sun, Washington's leading morning newspaper, defended Andrew on other grounds, as follows:

"The fact is that it is part of a representative's training instinctively to respond to all loud and dramatic calls, to leap to his feet on every possible occasion and to take either a leading or a following part at all public gatherings. Of course, Mr. Andrew did not understand Russian. When he saw everybody get up he might have thought they were going to sing the 'Star-Spangled Banner' or that a fire had started. Anyway, it was automatic. That is the way our representatives by and large react. And a very good thing, too."

Andrew was six weeks in Russia, traveling about quite a bit. He wasn't any too deeply impressed by Soviet claims of remarkable progress. He believes that even if the United States stood still for 40 years the Russians even then would have reached no point near our present state of mechanized civilization.

He noticed barbed wire on the frontiers and guards with bayonets. Trains were late and the boat which took Andrew down the Volga arrived 18 hours behind time. There had been no soap for sale in Moscow for two months and he saw long lines of people, waiting, in front of everything that was open. He observed an enormous migratory population, saw thousands of people lying around railroad stations with their bedding, waiting for trains.

Every one in Russia, he found, was "building for a distant future," content to give up all comforts for the present, export everything exportable, concentrate almost entirely on producing machinery and factories and get along on little more than life's necessities.

The government makes a sincere, heroic effort to lift the people, Andrew says, but can never live up to promises which have led them to believe they would reach the American level in five years. Private citizens do not own automobiles in Russia. Andrew says some progress will be made from year to year, but perhaps no more than might have come under the old czaristic regime.

He opposes recognition of Russia unless it can be guaranteed that the Russians, crusaders and propagandists, will keep hands off our affairs.

Vocal Gymnastics

There are a number of diseases and abnormalities which may affect the respiratory apparatus, throat or nasal passages, and all of them will influence the speech. We are all familiar with the hoarseness accompanying a cold and the peculiar nasal twang from a deformity or polypus of the nasal passages.

Men, who are forced to use their voices in public often develop a soreness of the throat and an inability to talk much above a whisper. This is usually termed the "Clergyman's sore throat." It results from an insufficient breath control of the diaphragm and chest rather than from too much speaking. The huskiness is usually made worse by the many remedies applied.

Lisping and peculiarities of speech may be caused by a cleft pallate, tongue-tie or other deformities, or they may result simply from habit.

A mute person or one having an inability to speak is usually a mental defective, although occasionally a person with exceptional mental brilliance is found suffering from some interference with the nerve supply to the vocal organs. A deafness from birth may also cause mutism from not having learned to speak (since one affected in this way has not the opportunity of learning to speak). These people may be taught to speak even though they cannot hear, if they will closely watch, feel, and imitate the throat and lip movements of others.

Stammering can usually be overcome by careful training, since it is usually caused by an incoordination or lack of control of the vocal apparatus.

Aphasia sometimes occurs in brain diseases from a destruction of the cells controlling speech. The treatment for this form of inability to speak is the same as that employed for apoplexy, since the causes are much the same.

The most frequent cause of a roughening of the voice and an unpleasant harshness is chronic catarrh. So prevalent is this disease that almost any voice may be improved if its owner will undergo the fasting and dieting regime which I outline for the cure of catarrh.

There are many exercises for developing and controlling the voice which are very useful if practiced daily just as one would any other system of calisthenics. The use of the vocal apparatus in song gives delight to the body. The bathroom baritone is enjoying himself even though he is annoying his neighbors. Your vocal gymnastics should be indulged in where they will not disturb others, and, after you have gained control of the muscles and nerves supplying your vocal organs, you will be pleased to know that your speech and song will also be enjoyed by others.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Chlooroform More Dangerous to Breathe

Question—G. K. writes: "I was recently operated on and have not been well since. Could it be possible that I have swallowed some of the chloroform given me as an anesthetic? Would that be poisonous?"

Answer—Although extremely poisonous in vapor form, comparatively large quantities of chloroform can be taken into the stomach without producing death. The smallest dose which has proved fatal to an adult is 15 grams, but with a child an amount as small as three and a half grams has resulted in death. The symptoms are burning sensation, followed by numbness, sometimes temporary excitability and delirium followed by narcosis, pale face, livid lips, convulsions followed by bloody stools, general pain and sensations of anxiety. People poisoned by chloroform internally sometimes live for several days before death occurs.

Foods Beneficial to the Hair

Question—Mrs. Pauline W. writes: "I wish to know which foods contain minerals beneficial to the hair."

Answer—A loss of hair may result from several causes, such as: 1. Severe toxemia during a fever. 2. Poor circulation of the scalp. 3. Diseases of the scalp. 4. A lack of mineral elements in the diet. The mineral usually lacking is silicon, and it is found most abundantly in the following foods: Asparagus, cucumbers, lettuce, bran, dandelion; parsnips, fruit skins, strawberries and beets. If the hair roots are not entirely dead, a well-balanced diet containing a good proportion of these foods accompanied by a vigorous massage of the scalp and any other treatments which will increase the circulation should be beneficial.

Clever Cast to Present Comedy Thursday Eve

"This Thing Called Love," a modern sophisticated comedy full of clever lines and brilliant repartee will be presented Thursday night at 8 o'clock at the Forum clubhouse by the Harlequin players, with Mrs. Thomas Korn directing.

Talented actors, brilliant direction and an original plot will contribute to the entertainment.

The theme is that of a young man who returns to America after an absence of many years in the tropics with an ideal of marriage that makes him think it the perfect state for all people. The opening scene is the dinner party at the home of the Bertrams, where Mrs. Bertram, jealous of Miss Alvaraz, a Spanish beauty, creates a scene that is extremely disillusioning. Tice Collins, admirably portrayed by Henry Barton, who has been recognized as a talented actor in Blue Curtain and Little Theater plays, falls in love however with Ann Merwin, a character made witchingly winning by Mary Virginia Barron, and in spite of disillusionment, wants her for his wife.

Marriage is arranged on a business basis. Mrs. Collins is to have $25,000 per year and all expenses and both parties to the marriage are to be free to go as they wish. Tice Collins runs about with the little Spanish beauty. Miss Alvaraz and Mrs. Collins with Normie DeWitt, a man about town who makes trouble for all married people.

Before the third act, Mr. and Mrs. Collins have fallen in love with one another so overwhelmingly that the business arrangement is dispensed with and like other husbands and wives, jealousy drives them into a quarrel, bringing "This Thing Called Love" into prominence.

Characters are cleverly portrayed. "Mr. and Mrs. Bertram" are played by H. A. Jones and Mrs. A. Lee Whitt; Miss Mary Virginia Barron is an intriguing "Ann Mervin;" Marguerite Peery is a "Dolly Garrett" so lacking in tact that her lines are often astounding; Rose Marion Art is a typical "Miss Alvaraz;" Duncan Perkins, with a pleasant nonchalance makes a real man-about-town and Henry Barton plays a strong leading man. Messrs. Drew McCully and Harold White play admirable minor parts.

Tickets will be on sale at Renfro Drug No. 1 Tuesday Jan. 12.

Series of Beautiful Pre-Nuptial Parties Honors Popular Wichitans Who Will Become January Brides

Even though June is recognized as the month of brides, the first month of the year is a favorite of Cupid's and the past week-end was filled with beautiful social events honoring Miss Willette Jarrell and Miss Jonnie Morgan, two charming daughters of prominent Wichita Falls families, whose weddings have been announced for January. Misses Joline Woods, Mary Dulaney and Elizabeth Langford were hostesses Saturday at a beautiful luncheon and handkerchief shower at the Forum clubhouse.

The long dining table was beautiful with masses of honeydew roses in crystal bowls, trailing sprays of fern linking the bowls and stressing the two colors chosen by the piquant bride-elect.

The handsome gift presented by the hostesses and the boxes of exquisite handkerchiefs brought by the guests were wrapped in the same lovely colors.

Place cards stressing the bridal motif marked the places for Miss Jarrell, Mesdames C. E. Benyers Jr., of Olney, Bill McKemie Jr., R. E. Spake, of Dallas, Walter M. Priddy, A. K. Jarrell, O. B. Kiel, Landon H. Cullum, J. H. S. Theta Luncheon

One of the prettiest pre-nupital courtesies tendered Miss Jarrell was the Kappa Alpha Theta luncheon at the country club Thursday. Her colors were noted in the honeydew and green of the green crystal bowl filled with honeydew rosebuds which centered the table and the graceful ivy urns at the ends from which ivy trailed. The handsome imported cloth of Italian cutwork and real lace medallions furnished an exquisite background, and the bridal place cards in Dresden holders and favors of miniature bridal chests and miniature bridal books filled with candies in the honeydew and green, completed an artistic triumph.

The honoree was presented with

PEGGY PIEDMONT Says

WITH the end of the Christmas holidays and the entrance of young Mr 1932, life among the younger set, especially the school and college crowd has slowed down a bit and the trek back to books has begun.

The past week was filled with all sorts of informal parties, open houses, dances and get-together affairs, not to mention the numerous watch parties of Thursday evening.

And while life for the school crowd has slowed down, for two charming brides-elect, Willette Jarrell and Jonnie Morgan, events for the next few days, will come thick and fast. For the wedding of Miss Jarrell and Robert Tucker Roark will take place Wednesday evening at the home of her mother, Mrs. A. K. Jarrell, which leaves only a very short time for pre-nuptial courtesies, and Miss Morgan leaves Monday for Los Angeles, California, from where she will sail on Jan. 8 for the Fiji Islands and be married in the Episcopal chapel at Suva immediately upon her arrival.

BOTH brides-elect have already been wined, dined and showered to their hearts content, for two more popular ones would be hard to find. With the mention of the Fiji Islands, in the South Seas, a roman-

Beautiful Interpretation of Alfred Noyes' Poem to Furnish Theme for Choral Club Concert

Reorganized under the direction of Mrs. Pearl Calhoun Davis after one year's inactivity, the Wichita Falls Woman's Choral club will present its opening concert of the year at the Woman's Forum Tuesday night, Jan. 5, at 7:30 o'clock. The program is being given for the general public, and there will be no admission charge of any kind.

Departing from past practice in the matter of program construction, the Choral club will use but one composition in its concert. The number chosen is a setting of Alfred Noyes' poem, "Slumber Songs of the Madonna," the musical score being the work of May A. Strong.

Chamber music furnished by the Raub String quartet will precede the appearance of the choral club, and a violin and cello from that group will be used with the piano on the accompaniment of vocal numbers.

Inspired by the original story of Christmas, the Noyes poem is a fanciful and appealing interpretation of moods attributed to Mary, the mother of Jesus, as she contemplated the new-born babe at Bethlehem. Incidents mentioned in the Biblical account of Jesus' birth, including the visit of wise men and the presentation of costly gifts, are included in the poetic text to be sung by the choral club. They have been described with beautiful lyric effects, however, admirably adapted to musical setting.

Symphony of Moods

Mr. Noyes' lines and the music of Miss Strong present a remarkable blending of modern literary and musical effects with the quaint simplicity of mediaeval expression. Melodic phrases which occur frequently in the cycle of song are strongly suggestive of old carols. The score is replete with passages, however, which reveal the genius of modern composers for depiction of moods. This quality in musical expression particularly will be noticed in the numbers which portray the mother's premonition of tragedy in the life of Jesus. Harmonic presentation of the text is quite as filled with evil portent as the words themselves.

The cycle closes with Mary's declaration of complete joy in possession of the child, at least for the period of his childhood. A fervent spirit of exultation is restrained by the distinctly religioso style which pervades the entire closing movement.

"Slumber Songs of the Madonna" has been written with extreme delicacy, and is exceptionally well chosen for presentation by a chorus of trained women's voices. Both in literary text and musical score, it has the fine texture of old lace. Its figures are etched with clarity and grace, and with exceeding fineness.

Mrs. Kenneth Bebb, soprano, will sing the solo which comprises the first movement in the cycle, as well as the recurrent obligato passages is succeeding parts of the composition. With Mrs. W. L. Olmsted at the piano, the accompaniment throughout will include violin and cello supplied by Mrs. A. M. Miller and Edwin A. Bebb, respectively.

Two numbers of established concert popularity are to be played by the Raub String quartet, composed of Stanley M. Raub, first violin; Mrs. Miller, second violin; Mrs. E. A. Bebb, viola; and Mr. Bebb, cello. The quartet will open the evening's program with Bizet's "Adagietto" from "L'Arlesienne." The second number consists of three movements from Haydn's Opus. No. 7 for string quartet. The ensemble will use "Allegro con brio," "Menuetto," and "Presto."

The choral club, reorganized early last fall, consists of about 35 voices.

Miss Morgan Honoree

The few days elapsing between the announcement of Miss Morgan's approaching marriage and the date of her departure have been filled with pretty courtesies from her friends. Mesdames Harry Davis, T. A. Hicks, P. P. Langford and Miss Dorothea Knight were joint hostesses Saturday afternoon at Mrs. Hicks' home on Fillmore, when orchid, pink and crystal made an artistic setting for a lovely seated tea. An exquisite antique crystal candelabra with gleaming cut-glass pendants was the central theme in the dining room. Orchid candles in crystal holders and pink flowers in quaint crystal containers completed a beautiful scene.

The group of close friends who were guests during the afternoon included with the honoree, Miss Morgan, Mesdames Sam Kruger, Luther Hoffman, E. P. Bass, Claude Woods, John Butts, T. A. Smith, Q. B. Lee, Preston Lea, W. L. Hawkins, T. R. Boone, Carrie Joline, A. H. Carrigan, S. A. Barnes, Jeff Waggoner, Marvin Smith, Dr. Maude Lindsey, and Misses Elizabeth Carrigan, Margaret, Beatrice and Ethel Morgan.

Luncheon Shower

Mrs. Julian McFall was hostess at her home on Hayes street Saturday at a luncheon and handkerchief shower. Her decorations were the white and red of the holiday season with a lovely bowl of red carnations and sweet peas furnishing the central theme on the luncheon table. Pretty bridal place cards carried out the same motif.

Covers were laid for Miss Morgan, Mesdames W. C. Chapman, Hobart Martin, S. M. Gose Jr., Misses Ethel Morgan, Beatrice Morgan, Margaret Morgan and the hostess, Mrs. McFall.

Dinner Party

Mrs. Sam Kruger entertained honoring Miss Morgan Friday evening with an informal family dinner party at her pretty home on Buchanan. The lovely table, gleaming with silver and centered with a great bowl of crimson flowers was laid with places marked for Miss Jonnie Morgan, Misses Ethel Morgan, Beatrice Morgan, Margaret Morgan, Messrs. Emil Hermann, Virgil Childress, Mr. and Mrs. Kruger, Miss Bertha Mae Kruger and Aaron Kruger.

Sunday Parties

Dr. Maude Lindsey and Miss Ethel Farabee will entertain at 9 o'clock Sunday morning with a waffle breakfast honoring Miss Morgan. Other parties scheduled for her include a dinner at noon given by Mrs. P. P. Langford and a Sunday evening supper with Mrs. Q. B. Lee hostess at her hospitable home on Huff. Miss Morgan will leave Monday night for Fiji Islands, South Seas, where her marriage will take place in the Episcopal chapel in Suva immediately upon her arrival.

tic atmosphere is immediately produced, and when one has as many friends in a city as Miss Jonnie Morgan has here, of course the announcement of her approaching nuptials to a man living in that far off country brings an avalanche of question marks. And so, because, Peggy herself was among the interested and curious, many items of interest concerning the bridegroom-elect, Mr. Albert George McCowan of Wai Ni Loka estates, Fiji Islands has been given out in response to numerous questions asked about him.

FIRST, it has been revealed that it was "love at first sight," that Mr. McCowan is an Englishman whom Miss Morgan met through her brother while in Hawaii when she took a European trip a few years ago. That he is a fruit raiser and exporter, dealing in fresh and canned tropical fruit which he sells in New Zealand and Australia. That when she nears the coast of the islands, he will meet her in his new launch which is her namesake, "Jonnie" and that they will cruise the South Seas and visit New Zealand during February.

AN UNCOMPLIMENTARY remark made about some people is that they do not seem to improve with travel. But Miss Morgan is one person that it does not apply to. For not only does she observe closely, but she is the possessor of the talent and quality that it takes to make other people see the interesting things that she has seen, and many Wichitans recall with pleasure the delightful travelogs with colored slides, that she gave her friends, when she returned from her trip to Europe and the Holy Land.

AND while grown-ups and children alike will miss this popular young woman, whose work in the city schools, with the Children of the Confederacy, the United Daughters of the Confederacy, the church, literary and social circles is outstanding, every one of her friends join in wishing for her all the happiness and prosperity that one person can have.

AMONG the hostesses who have shown social courtesies for Miss Morgan prior to her departure on Monday evening, are Mesdames T. R. Boone, Preston Lea and W. L. Hawkins, who invited friends to an informal reception at the home of Mrs. Boone on Thursday afternoon; Mrs. Sam Kruger who was hostess at dinner Friday evening; Mrs. Julian McFall, luncheon Saturday; Mesdames T. A. Hicks, Harry Davis and Miss Dorothea Knight, a seated tea Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Hicks; Mrs. Harry Davis, hostess at dinner party Saturday night; Mrs. P. P. Langford, luncheon Sunday at noon; Dr. Maude Lindsey and Miss Ethel Farabee, hostesses at a waffle breakfast Sunday morning, and Mrs. Q. B. Lee hostess at Sunday night supper.

DRAWING on the most vivid imagination, it is hard to conceive of so many affairs sandwiched into two or three short wintry days. And for the other bride-elect, Miss Willette Jarrell, life has been just about as busy. Just one elaborate shower, luncheon and bridge party right after the other, only she has a little longer to go and will remain in Wichita Falls to make her home after the wedding much to the delight of her friends.

IT HAS been said that we thrive on excitement, that there is something about it that is good for everybody, old and young alike, and that pleasant excitement is really a boon to health. If this be true, we in Wichita Falls are much blessed, for as the New Year enters, our social calendars are filled with all sorts of pleasant diversions.

SPEAKING of the effect excitement has on a person, a well known writer says:

"You and I have known dozens of cases where ill or tired people could perform amazing things if it was something they were eager to do. The fagged woman, for instance, was too exhausted after a hard day's work to wash the dishes—but when someone called her up on the telephone and invited her and her husband to a dance, she began to sing, went up and put on an evening dress and danced till two.

"THE next morning she'd be up bright and early feeling fine. We are told that we don't even catch cold so easily when we are excited—the answer to the question, 'Why don't more girls die of pneumonia, when they go out to parties on bitter nights and drive long distances with almost nothing on?'"

Anyway one who likes plenty of action even if it is not always the most profitable kind is your friend—

Colonial Period Will Influence Fashions

NEW YORK, Jan. 2. (AP)—Grand ladies of early America—Martha Washington and the chic and charming Dolly Madison—will influence the fashion mode of Miss America 1932.

Perhaps, too, the Washington bicentennial has something to do with it. Many of the style touches that fashion designers are reviving were popular in his day.

The Dolly Madison influence is seen in tiny, tight curls and tufts of flowers enhancing the coiffure. There are colonial pumps, too, with large tongues and great buckles of steel; and the wrist length gloves with delicate cut-out designs on the back are reminiscent of early American modes.

Reproductions of the quaint patterns featured in gowns worn by Martha Washington and other ladies of the colonies are to be seen in some of the new evening prints. Taffeta is popular; and in some instances there are adaptations of the bustle of the middle and late 1700's.

SUB-DEB GROUP HAS HOLIDAY PARTY

The very young society set was charmingly entertained Thursday evening when Mary Pauline Rathke was hostess at a pretty party at the attractive home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Rathke, 1612 Grant street. Mistletoe with silver white berries and tall red candles gleaming in the rooms gave a pretty holiday setting.

Bridge keno was the game of the evening with seven tables filled. Henry Swain was presented a pretty trophy when he had high score among the boys and Juanita Hayes was the fortunate winner among the girls.

After a group of other games, refreshments were served to Martha Britain, Patty Gene McDaniel, Louise Foote, Peggy Mathis, Mary Harrell, Billie Parmenter, Betty Ann Morrison, Margaret Breneman, Mary Shephard, Jennie June Donnell, Gene Stephens, Juanita Hayes, Harold Davis, Guy Rogers, Franklin Standring, James Cocanower, Joe Bert Hunt, Alfred Booth, Stanmore Langford, Jasper Thorburn, Alfred Cohen, Fowler Gilchrist, Wilburne Hulland, Henry Swain and the hostess, Mary Pauline Rathke.

TEXAS CONGRESS P.-T. A. TO MEET IN AUSTIN

The annual meeting of the board of managers of the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers will convene in Austin, Texas, Jan. 14 and 15 at the Austin club, Norwood building, according to the call sent out by the state president, Mrs. A. F. Wood, Athens.

The executive committee will consider the approval of the plans of standing committees and the report of office committee at its first meeting to be held at 7:30 p. m. Jan. 13.

The board of managers will consider many pertinent things concerning the congress work but among the most outstanding ones will be the plans for district conferences, revisions of district bylaws and state bylaws, amending the charter, filling vacancies on the board, report of the budget committee, election of the board of trustees of the endowment fund, approval of plans of special committees and recommendations from the executive committee.

Each chairman is a strategic link between the state board and her community. It is necessary for a chairman not only to understand her own program of work but also she should be familiar with the big program of the whole organization and she should make her phase of work effective in promoting the state program.

Many matters of vital interest to the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers are to be discussed at this time. It is hoped that each member of the state board will be present and that all discussions will prove beneficial and practical to all in attendance and to the congress at large.

RECEIVES HONOR COMMISSION

MRS. BEN G. ONEAL

prominent Texas clubwoman of this city, and past president of the first district, Texas Federation of Women's Clubs and of the Wichita Falls Woman's Forum, has been honored by Gov. Ross Sterling, who appointed her to serve as a member of the Texas commission for the celebration of the George Washington bicentennial to be celebrated throughout the United States during a period from Feb. 22 to Thanksgiving day, 1932. Mrs. Oneal will have charge of 12 counties, including Wichita, Wilbarger, Hardeman, Foard, Childress, Hall, Brisco, Motley, Cottle, Baylor, Archer and Clay. She will begin her work at once by getting in touch with the mayors of towns in these counties that have not already appointed committees for this work, that they may be functioning by Jan. 10. Announcement of this proposed celebration was made by a national broadcast on New Year's day from the home of George Washington's mother in Fredericksburg, Va., with the Hon. Sol Bloom giving the opening address. At high noon, "listeners in" heard the old grandfather's clock in this famous home, strike the noon hour. The clock which told George Washington the time of day, and the school time hour.

FORMER WICHITA GIRL IS WED IN DALLAS

Announcement has been made of the marriage in Dallas, Thursday, Dec. 31, of Miss Bertha Jane Sommerville and John E. Friley Jr., at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Sommerville, 2913 Forrest avenue, the ceremony being read by Dr. Armeding of Dallas.

A background of smilax and cathedral candles made an improvised altar for the ceremony and the bride, gowned in a brown crepe ensemble with harmonizing accessories, was given in marriage by her father. Miss Dorothy Sommerville was bridesmaid and Mr. Friley was attended by John E. Friley Sr.

An informal reception was held following the ceremony. The three-tiered wedding cake in the dining room was cut by the bride. Yellow rosebuds and tall pink tapers made a pretty decoration theme.

Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Friley left on an extended wedding trip and will be at home at Wichita Falls at its conclusion. Mrs. Friley's family formerly lived in this city. Mr. Friley is connected with the Cora Products company.

PHILADELPHIA UNABLE TO MEET CITY PAY ROLL

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 2. (AP)—Today was another payless payday for the 26,000 city and county employes of Philadelphia.

For the second successive time the city treasurer's office was without sufficient funds with which to meet its semi-monthly pay roll of approximately $1,700,000.

Unless last minute tax payments, sent through the mails, reach record proportions there is little likelihood of the municipal employes receiving their salary checks until the middle of next week.

DEMOCRATS TO PLAN ACTIVITY FOR CAMPAIGN

Series of Party Meetings To Be Held During Coming Week

WILL PREPARE WAY FOR PRESIDENTIAL CONTEST

Party Leaders Seek to Promote Harmony in Organization

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2. (UP)—As befits its role of challenger, the Democratic party is the first to move out into the arena to herald the arrival of a new presidential year.

Democratic leaders will begin arriving early next week for a series of party meetings intended to prepare the way for the spectacular presidential contest of 1932.

Alarms of controversy over prohibition are heard among the approaching generals. But attempts are being made now to agree to disagree in a way that will throw the question over for later consideration by the national convention in June.

Three big party events scheduled for the week:

Thursday — Formal presentation of Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland as a presidential candidate by his Maryland followers at a Jackson day dinner in Baltimore.

Friday—Jackson day dinner at Washington where important speeches will be made by the three living ex-candidates, Alfred E. Smith, John W. Davis and James E. Cox.

Saturday—Meeting of the Democratic national committee in Washington to choose the place for holding the 1932 national convention and to discuss party policies, including prohibition.

National Chairman John J. Raskob earlier insisted upon a showdown by the national committee in advance of the convention regarding his home rule plan of prohibition modification. But he is now willing, it is said by his friends here, to forego a showdown and simply lay his case before the committee to be passed on to the convention. He is expected to announce his position on this early in the week.

Leaders Want Harmony

Party leaders want above all to avoid rending the party now by an internal fight of this troublesome issue. The gravest economic issues of a generation are clamoring for treatment, and should economists be correct in saying the world is probably only half way through this depression, then the job awaiting the next administration may be one that goes to the foundations of the present economic order. Most party leaders therefore feel that a quarrel over beer should not monopolize their attention.

They have seen President Hoover's prestige shaken by several recent off-year elections revealing large anti-administration majorities. They are convinced they have the best chance of victory in 16 years and they are keyed to eager combat.

Smith Maintains Silence

NEW YORK, Jan. 2. (AP)—The indications are Alfred E. Smith will wait several months before announcing whether he will seek the Democratic presidential nomination, or whom he favors if he is not an aspirant.

The 1928 standard bearer himself persistently refuses to discuss for publication his own political future, although it is known repeated efforts are being made to have him become a candidate, or at least to say he is willing to accept the honor.

From a source close to him, however, it was learned tonight he intends to pursue this policy of silence until just before his party's national convention.

In the meantime, he has established just as iron-clad a rule about discussing the political booms under way for other Democratic leaders, as about saying whether he will be a candidate himself.

He is said to have many reasons for maintaining this silence, among them:

1.—He is convinced the Democrats will win in 1932 if party harmony prevails, and his concern at present is to help maintain such harmony. He wants the party to present its full and undivided strength in the campaign and election.

2.—Possessing long experience in politics, he knows that much can happen in the political arena between now and the June convention.

3.—He wishes to take a definite stand at the opportune time and then abide by it, but feels it is yet too early to "tie himself up."

Michaux, 2-0905. Mrs. Michaux is chairman of the committee of awards, and will want to know as early as possible, how many expect to appear on Saturday.

Guardian Association

The guardians of Wichita Falls district are all invited to meet at Freear furniture store on Saturday of this week at 3 o'clock. Through the courtesy of this store the guardians will receive assistance toward the 1932 birthday project which centers around the home. Several of the elective requirements include a study of furniture and different arrangements. The Grand Rapids Furniture company has prepared a special booklet on the subject of different period furniture, and are offering $1,000 in prizes to Camp Fire groups throughout the country. This will all be explained to guardians and older girls who care to attend this meeting. Plans for Wichita Falls groups will be outlined at this time and definite projects decided upon.

Out-of-town groups are especially invited to send representatives from their groups.

Carol Honors

Toy Shop Honors

A careful check of the service chart kept for Christmas toy shop shows some very interesting facts as follows: The work shop was open nine afternoons after school hours, three full afternoons on Saturdays and holidays and one evening. The following earned the instructors' honor for 15 hours of service as instructors when needed: Loucille Willis, Lucile Murchison, Sue Ann Timblin, Ruth Thomas, and Mrs. Maude Bartholomew.

Janet Tate, Margaret Pierce and Elaine Steinkoenig earned the toy shop honor for first-year work in toy shop serving 15 or more hours.

Fifty-eight different members assisted with the project, giving a total of 328 hours of service time—or equivalent to 41 eight-hour days.

Toys were distributed as follows: Kiwanis club total of 25 toys; Texas Children Aid society, four toys; one Sunday school class, three toys; Camp Fire members, seven toys, making a grand total of 39 toys distributed, two were sold, and seven are still on hand.

A total of $7.25 was spent on equipment and materials which will be taken care of by the Kiwanis club as previously agreed by the members.

It is hoped that next year there will be more time to give to the work so there will be opportunity for more girls to get in 15 hours and many more toys completed. Girls will be permitted to make toys during the summer which will be counted toward the project, for 1932.

Adi-Iwah Group

Members of the Adi-Iwah group have had a reunion during the holiday season. On Tuesday of last week a number of the members went with their guardian, Mrs. Frank W. Michuax out to the Weiler lease off of the Seymour road. Those who spent the full three days out were Thelma Simmons, Margaret Davis, Edith McClure, Clarice Clark, a former member of the group now in school in Oklahoma, Florence Frazer, and visitors as follows: Anita Clark, Marie Dollard. On Thursday, Miss McIlheran drove out with Charlotte Kennedy and Thelma Bridges. Mr. Michaux, and John Weiler, nephew, were also among the campers.

The girls named the camp "Carefree" and lived up to the name, having no set program but taking advantage of the opportunities for hikes and observation. From the queer skulls, bones, bird nests, rocks, and reports of birds seen, evidence of the keen joy of the out-of-doors was displayed. The birds observed were purple grackel, crows, chicken hawks, slate colored junco, cardinal, blue birds, quail, and meadow lark. Mrs. Ralph McClure and Mrs. J. H. Simmons furnished transportation for the girls.

Since the house contains a good gas stove, and the campers were excellent cooks, the meals were excellent and plentiful. This trip adds one more item to the "don't you remember" column of the Adi-Iwah group, which was the subject of the open house on Friday evening.

Mrs. R. E. Davis (Anne), former guardian of Adi-Iwah, opened her home at 1708 Victory on Friday evening, when all girls who had ever been members were invited to come over.

Charlotte Kenedy and Clarice Clark will go back to C. I. A. and Cameron college this week, but expect to be in Wichita during the summer.

Mankilo Group

The Mankilo group of Crockett school was entertained at the home of the guardian, Mrs. Maude Bartholomew and daughter, Helen, at 2123 Avenue I, on Wednesday afternoon. The home still wore its pretty Christmas decorations. Norene Eason won high score and Juanita Ford, low score in the game of progressive bunco. Refreshments were served to Lulu Sue Davis, Norene Eason, Cleas Hoffman, Hazel Kent, Bettie Rowland, Elaine Steinkoenig, Ann and Mary Katherine Tarry, Miss McIlheran, and several visitors:- Florence Abbey Wells, Juanita Ford, Ella Rita Hayes, and Gwendolyn Fisher.

During a short business session following games, the girls planned to make candy to earn money to decorate their club room. The next meeting will be devoted to the learning of symbols, in preparation for first rank.

On Friday afternoon the girls met informally at the home of Mrs. T. C. Lynch, 3106 Tenth, to earn some honor beads for identifying 10 plants by the odor, and later, by feeling. Dish towels were also hemmed for sandcraft honor. Apples, popped corn, and peanuts were enjoyed by Mary Katherine and Ann Tarry, Helen and Mrs. Bartholomew, Helen Benninger, Norene Eason, Bettie and Tommie Lynch Jr., and Billie Bartholomew.

Oawakiya Group

Members of Oawakiya group met at the home of guardian, Mrs. Frank Schram, on Wednesday. During the business session, plans were made to make blue prints at the next meeting. Refreshments were served to Annette Adair, Mary Arwood, Maurine and Willie Mae Bralley, May Anna Duncan, Mildred Fisher, Margaret Hutchinson, Evelyn Howard, Ina Jo Ogle, Ethel Ranbarger, Lois and Mrs. Schram.

Sue climbed into her car and started the engine.

"Wait!" a voice called from the doorway. She leaned out to see who was calling. Perhaps Corrinne's tempestuous mood had passed. Maybe she was really going to apologize. Not that that would help very much now, Sue knew. But it would smooth things over outwardly. It would remove any worry from Mrs. Merryman.

It wasn't Corrinne who came running down the walk. It was Sarah. She was pulling on her coat as she came and her hat, gloves and pocketbook were in her hand.

"Lucky I had just tossed my things on a chair when I came in," she said. "I'm one of the family now, Sue. Tell me what Corrinne did. Anyone with half an eye can tell that she's stirred up this particular kettle of fish and she's cooking them at her own temperature. Your mother knows Corrinne is the youngest in the family . . . she's still much too young for life and living according to her own standards. That's why she can't blame her for anything. What happened?"

Sue was driving fast, faster than she usually did, although she liked to swing along and feel that she was making time.

"If I'm going to be burned at the stake it won't do any good for you to weep over my ashes, Sarah. You're a peach, but this isn't the kind of a story I can tell."

"You're going to tell," Sarah insisted. "If you don't you will probable drive into a telephone pole or crash a red light with dangerous consequences just to blow off steam. Go on. Speak up."

Sue told the story. She told it all. She felt better as she talked. But when she finished she hesitated a second.

"Will you make a promise, Sarah?"

"What is it, Sue? I'll make it if it appeals to me. But I'm not neutral. Get that straight. I'm on your side."

"Thanks. I want you to promise not to make any moves in this mess or say one word about it to my family. Forget it. You see, Corrinne has to make the amends without any help . . . if we are ever to patch things up."

Sarah nodded her head. "I guess you're right. All right. But if I see a chance to make things clearer and can't keep from taking it . . . but I know what you mean, I'll not make Corrinne force her hand. Peacemakers never are very blessed anyway. They get their hair pulled and their faces scratched."

It was dark now. Sue turned the car around and started back towards the Merryman residence. Sarah got out and ran up the walk. Sue started back to town.

Some of the hot anger at Corrinne was growing cooler. But as it cooled it grew harder. She couldn't quite believe that this fiendish attack had come from Corrinne. She wasn't like herself.

The car rolled on. A red light stopped it. She put on the brakes very suddenly. Life was always throwing out red light to make people slow up, she reflected.

The only person who could understand just how she felt was Ruth Bradley. Ruth had been treated unkindly, too. Much more so than she herself had. She started to think about Ruth. She was lovely with the cluster of soft brown curls that waved around her head and the new clothes.

At a crossing a gruff voice called to her. A car had swung close.

Next: An accusation.

INJUNCTION STOPS RAIDERS REMOVING FIXTURES IN CLUB

NEW YORK, Jan. 2. (US)—Just as federal agents were about to remove the costly paintings, tapestries and ornate furnishings from Joe Zelli's swanky Royal Box today, Attorney Michael Edelstein, who has represented such "whoopee" makers as Tex Guinan and Belle Livingstone, showed up with an injunction which bore the signature of Federal Judge Robert P. Patterson.

Not only were the raiders forbidden by the injunction from removing the reputed $235,000 furnishings, but they had to move everything back in place as attendants and a Broadway throng gave them a merry ha-ha.

Only the bar and bar fixtures were confiscated.

Prohibition administrator Andrew McCampbell, when he heard about this sudden change in plans, following a spectacular liquor raid, said that he would continue his war against "class" speakesies. He hopes, he said, to ultimately get a court order to really wreck the Royal Box, paintings, tapestries and all.

McCampbell then declared that the liquor seized in the Royal Box raid was of very ordinary bath-tub variety, with the suckers paying $1 chased along the Bowery for a dime. a drink for stuff that could be purHe explained:

"The labels on the bottles at Zelli's were prettier, that's all."

KENNETH HARLAN HELD HOLLYWOOD ON SUSPICION DRIVING WHILE DRUNK

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Jan. 2.(AP)—Kenneth Harlan, former film actor, was arrested on supicion of drunken driving today after his automobile, in which Patty Dobbs and William Brees also were riding, struck a milk wagon and wrecked it.

Police said a horse drawing the wagon was hurt so badly it will be killed.

Brees was booked on suspicion of intoxication after he had attempted to take the blame for the accident, saying he and not Harlan was driving the automobile. Miss Dobbs was not held.

Of the arrest, Harlan said: "It is ridiculous. I have been on the wagon for two months, trying to come back in pictures. There was no light on the milk wagon and I don't know why I am here—it will blast my comeback.

"If there was any liquor in the automobile, it must have belonged to somebody else. I feel very badly. It is so easy to get behind these bars and so hard to get out in front of them again."

Given a sobriety test, Harlan drew a report of "unsteady gait, speech thick, eyes red."

FOUR OF ESCAPED VAN ZANDT COUNTY FUGITIVES CAUGHT

CANTON, Texas, Jan. 2. (AP)—Twelve of 16 fugitives from the Van Zandt county jail remained at liberty tonight. The men walked from the jail here last night after overpowering Jarrell Waters, jailer, and taking his keys.

Authorities of several East Texas counties were patroling the highways and searching freight trains.

Two of the 16 men surrendered to Constable L. P. Tillman of Canton immediately after the break. A third surrendered later and a fourth was captured by Van Zandt county officers early today on the Dallas highway two miles from Canton.

Having sawed their way into the runaround the prisoners surprised the jailer when he entered last night. They left him locked in a cell and it was necessary to use a blow torch to free him.

Coxey as Mayor Continues Fight For Dream Idea

MASSILLON, Ohio, Jan. 2. (AP)—Thirty-eight years ago he was "general" Jacob S. Coxey, leader of a scraggly "army" of unemployed. Today he is Mayor Jacob S. Coxey of Massillon—and still fighting for the idea that came to him in a dream.

Coxey, at 77, was formally sworn in as mayor yesterday. Gray-haired, wearing a plain black suit and an old fashioned high collar, his eyes flashing behind spectacles, he asserted "the whole nation has its eyes turned to Massillon."

"The people may not understand my plan fully, but they have a feeling that I am trying to help the downtrodden and underfed and that I am going to try to solve this great economic problem which our nation faces.

"Thirty-eight years ago last midnight I had a dream in which the plan I have been advocating since that time came to me." The plan is to issue $200,000 in low-interest bearing bonds in denominations as low as a dollar, to be used as a medium of exchange in putting the unemployed to work on public improvements.

Monday night, he said, he will ask the city council to approve the bonds.

The plan is the same he tried to put before the public in 1894 in the famous march of "Coxey's army."

BILL WOULD GIVE U. S. CONCESSIONS TO BLIND PERSONS

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 2. (UP) A bill giving exclusive concessions to blind persons for cigar and news stands in all federal buildings will be introduced in congress Monday, E. L. Reno, chairman of the state commission of the adult blind, said today.

A nominal rental will be charged to support the board.

An examination of the applicant also is required under the bill. Both ex-service men and other blind persons will be eligible to the concessions.

British Bridge Team's Visit to U. S. Called Off

LONDON, Jan. 2. (AP)—Thank you, Sir, but Col. B. M. Beasley, secretary of the Crockfords club, will have nothing to do with that proposed bridge match between England and America.

Colonel Beasley does not approve the part Ely Culbertson, New York bridge expert, has played in the negotiations for the play. He said today Mr. Culbertson appeared to have grasped the idea the match could be exploited.

"First of all, Mr. Culbertson has been talking about us as an international team," the colonel explained. "We are nothing of the sort. We are simply the Crockfords club and we do not mean that anybody shall pretend otherwise.

"Mr. Culbertson appears to have grasped the idea that a match can be exploited to his advantage. He actually suggests that he shall not only prevent us playing against any team he does not choose to nominate but also that he will select our team.

"In the circumstances, our visit has been indefinitely postponed until the situation in America ceases to be a battleground of warring financial interests.

"I understand that in anticipation of our visit uncomplimentary references even were made to our English accents. So you see we were not greatly tempted to go anyway."

Sir Reginald to Give Up Job on Bally Old Lift

NEW YORK, Jan. 2. (AP)—Sir Reginald Wolseley, baronet from Waterloo, Iowa, whose life has been a series of ups and downs; sailed today to take refuge from the hurly-burly world in the stacks of some British library.

For 14 years Sir Reginald ran an elevator in Waterloo, but he was ever a lover of philosophy and used to go home and study. Now he hopes to go into research work. No high life for him, he indicated.

With him was Lady Wolseley, formerly his mother's nurse, who was reunited with the baronet after a rift which culminated in a British divorce.

Wolseley, who has spent 37 years in the United States, was running his elevator when word came that he was a baronet.

Soon afterward came Marion Baker, the mother's nurse, bearing word that his mother's last wish was that he marry Miss Baker. They were married but things didn't run smoothly as they might and there was a divorce.

But all ended well, for the couple was reunited last month in Waterloo. Lady Wolseley, petite and executive, was making the business arrangements today, signing travelers' checks while her husband, a grey-eyed man of 58, looked on admiringly.

HEAR TESTIMONY HIGHTOWER TRIAL IN MINE SLAYING

MT. STERLING, Ky., Jan. 2. (US)—Fred Lester, former postmaster at Evarts, testified today in the murder trial of William Hightower that he heard the defendant say "We will have to get rid of the law in Harlan county before we can win."

Hightower, president of the miner's union at Evarts, is charged with murder and conspiracy in connection with the Harlan county mine killings in which Jim Daniels, a deputy sheriff, was among those slain.

Lester told of the whipping of a man named Carpenter and quoted Hightower as saying to him: "Now you see what happens to scabs." The witness said that Carpenter was whipped "like an ox."

The former postmaster also told of a meeting attended by Hightower and W. B. Jones in which miners were urged to get rifles and shotguns and to meet the following day on a road near Evarts to stop the officers who would be coming to make arrests. Jones recently was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment for the slaying of Daniels.

Cecil Dozier, a miner, testified that he saw a white man shoot off the top of Jim Daniels' head but said he could not identify the slayer.

Judge Henry R. Prewitt today refused to dismiss the order banning John T. Moutoux, a Knoxville, Tenn., newspaper reporter from the court room. Moutoux will be given a hearing later on the judge's contempt citation following articles in the Knoxville newspaper criticising the court and state in the prosecution of the Harlan county case.

TIMES BOOK REVIEW AND LITERARY LANTERN

burns weekly in the Sunday Times and is intended to throw light on writings around and about the South. Communications for this column should be addressed to the Editor of the Literary Lantern.

It is generally believed that since the world war the case of American drama has improved. What with Eugene O'Neil, Maxwell Anderson, George Kelly, Phillip Barry, Lawrence Stallings, Elmer Rice, Sidney Howard, Paul Green and others a truer representation of life and manners in the United States is being given on the stage than was true of the days, say, when Augustus Thomas was in greater vogue. Whatever the individual contribution made by American playwrights, no critic can overlook the work of Frederick H. Koch and his Carolina Playmakers in the creation of that type of stage production known as folk drama. Of course, in a way all drama is folk in that it deals with human beings, but the type developed and exploited by Mr. Koch in the main has to do with less sophisticated and more primitive people. The protagonists and characters of these dramas are depicted as being close to the conditions and processes of nature and lacking in the more cultured refinements of a higher society. The manners, ethics, religious and philosophical ideals of such people are considered to be more derived from and controlled by the ways of the outside physical universe. Koch's work is in line with the Irish folk drama renaissance of some 20 years ago led by J. M. Synge, Lady Gregory, William Butler Yates, Douglas Hyde, and now being continued by T. C. Murray, Lennox Robinson and Lady Gregory herself. In his most recent collection of student plays, "Carolina Folk Comedies" (Samuel French, New York, $2.50), Mr. Koch by way of preface discusses his work:

"In recent years the university and the state of North Carolina have witnessed a remarkable renascence in the drama. With the formation of the Carolina Playmakers some 13 years ago a new era was begun. Before that time, Barrett Clark tells us, the entire state was stricken from the mailing list of Samuel French, publisher of plays, as a dead state in its dramatic interest—so dead, in fact, as not to warrant the postage necessary for the mailing of play catalogs. Today there are a dozen courses in play writing and theater arts in the curriculum of the university, a student may do his major work in the drama, and the candidate for the M. A. degree may write a play in lieu of the traditional thesis. And there is acting everywhere in the Carolina country—in high schools and colleges and Little Theaters from the smoky mountains to the sea.

"Since 1918 hundreds of plays, most of them one-act, have been written in our university courses in playwriting, and 112 original plays by 74 different authors have been produced by the Carolina Playmakers. Three volumes of Carolina Folk Plays by various student-authors, have been published. More than 10,000 copies have been sold and the plays have been read and produced all oved the United States—and even as far away as Honolulu. And this season one of them was produced four times by the Liverpool Play Goers club and entered in the Fifth National festival held by the British Drama league at the Globe theater in London.

"Besides the production of their Carolina plays at Chapel Hill, the Carolina Playmakers have since 1920-1921 made 28 tours. Travelling in their Playmakers show-bus with three sets of their own scenery atop, portable lightning equipment, costumes and stage properties, they have played all over North Carolina—in cross-roads villages in the mountains, in towns of the Piedmont section, and in 'neighborhoods' by the sea—in school auditoriums, old time 'opera houses,' and outlived town halls. Their little plays have caught the popular imagination wherever they have played them, for the reason that they are true to the lives they record and to the human nature in all of us.

"The itineraries of the tours have not been confined to their own state. They have played in a dozen other states—in South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Virginia, Tennessee, Maryland, the District of Columbia, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York, Connecticut and Massachusetts—playing to audiences numbering in all more than 200,000 people. They have played in Professor Baker's beautiful University theater at Yale, and on three successive tours they have appeared at Columbia university in New York City. Last season, when they gave two performances at the Fine Arts theater in Boston, their little company was greeted by Gov. Frank Allen at the Massachusetts state house; and on their first visit to Washington they were officially received by President Calvin Coolidge at the White House.

"The appeal of their simple folk-plays has been the same beyond the borders of North Carolina as in the home-towns. The next morning after our performance before a sophisticated audience in evening dress in Atlanta, a man came to me and said: 'I think I owe it to you to tell you of the effect that little play, Fixin's, had on be last night. —I come from New York, and I've been seeing the best shows in the theaters there for 30 years. But that little play got me last night—so much so, that before I went to bed I went to the Western Union office and telegraphed some flowers to my wife in New York!'

"I cannot refrain at this point from quoting an excerpt from the review in the Theater Magazine of our second appearance in New York. The critic avers that our "band of players, recruited from the hills of North Carolina, are too close to the picture to have an adequate conception of the genuine enjoyment their programs must give to others not of their state. The rare characters and the homely qualities of these plays of the Carolina soil linger in one's memory long after some of the more sophisticated plays of Broadway have been forgotten.'"

And in his foreword to this volume of Carolina Folk Comedies Archibald Henderson says, "Until comparatively recent years, creative writing has not been dignified with official recognition at our American colleges and universities. In both spirit and actuality, North Carolina was among the first to appreciate the significance and cultural value of creative writing, and to recognize it officially as a worthy form of scholarly contribution on a par with the more pedestrian and, shall I say, less inspired, research thesis. When Edwin Mims came to the University of North Carolina in 1909 as professor of English, he received a memorable letter from the late Walter Hines Page, a distinguished man of letters and native North Carolinian. In that letter, Page voiced his faith in the teaching of creative writing, his desire to see it taught at the University of North Carolina: 'I firmly believe that you could grow a crop of effective writers, start a new, great educational movement, give literary studies a new meaning and a new vitality and put the university at the head of a quickly-widening movement in all this work by working out concretely this fundamental truth—the way to teach literature is to teach men to write and to talk right—in a word, not by reading but by practice. That's the way we teach surgery, engineering, law, farming (Knapp), the mechanical trades. It's the way we teach everything that we really do teach . . . You could in five years have every university in the land following you, and "The N. C. Method" of teaching (and of making) literature could become as familiar to the next generation as "Tar, Pitch, and Turpentine" were to the last. That teaching is a failure which makes it possible for a man to get a degree in English who cannot write an idiomatic speech or speak effectively in the idioms of the people . . . with dramatic effect and proportion . . . You can work a revolution . . . You have a virgin field and a boundless opportunity. You have just the right material to work on—boys without "literary" traditions or enervating ideas. They are themselves the idioms of our population.

And Professor Koch, it seems, has richly fulfilled the prophetic advice of the late ambassador to England.

The contents of this, the latest Playmaker volume are "Magnolia's Man," a mountain comedy by Gertrude Wilson Coffin; "Ever' Snitch," a comedy of Carolina fisher-folk, by Irene Fussler; "Agatha," a romance of plantation days by Jane Toy; "Dogwood Bushes," a comedy of country youth by Wilbur Stout; "Companion-Mate Maggie," a negro comedy by Helen Dortch; "The Lie," a play of revolutionary Carolina, by Wilkeson O'Connell; "Cloey," a play of Winston-Salem folk, by Loretta Carroll Bailey; "The New Moon," a whimsical fantasy drawn from old folk-story, by Telfair Peet; appendix I: "The Carolina Playmakers," productions and tours of the Carolina Playmakers; appendix II: "The Carolina Playmakers," a selected bibliography.

Local Writer Honored

"Visions" is a clever bimonthly magazine published by the American Writer's society in Los Angeles, Calif. On the editorial page there are offers of some 20 prizes for poems judged best by the prize-givers. A Wichita Falls writer, Mrs. Pearle Moore Stevens, who has already to her credit a book of poems and a place in several outstanding anthologies of verse, was winner in the September-October issue.

Irene Shelley Boysel, who is a poet and who conducts a Twilight Reverie hour program over WTAX, chose Mrs. Steven's "I Have Known," a copy of which appears below:

I Have Known

I have not known the joy that comes to one
Who breaks the shackles that bind a weary soul,
Of one who struggles for the world's acclaim
And feel that they at last have reached their goal,
But I have quietly lingered on life's way
And drunk the beauty of sunsets from day to day.

Where silver gulls lift wings against the sky,
And soft salt breezes from a land afar
Bring peace and joy as days drift idly by,
But I have known the quietness of cool streams
And builded towering castles with my dreams.

Where mountain arms reach out to heaven's blue,
Nor felt the perfect peace that comes to one
Who's dreams and plans have all come true,
But I have humbly knelt upon the sod
And there on bended knees have talked with God.

—PEARLE MOORE STEVENS.

Tarzan for Grownups

There are a few people left in the world who think that the Tarzan stories by Edgar Rice Burroughs were written primarily for children; but the latest one, Tarzan the Invincible, just published by the Burroughs corporation, should disillusion these few remaining skeptics. It has a boiling plot based on international intrigue and sufficient wholly sophisticated love interest to stimulate the imagination of the most phlegmatic, yet the scene of the story is all laid in the African wilds, and, like all other Burroughs stories,it is clean.

Burroughs has the faculty of suggesting much to the imagination of the adult mind without transgressing the dictates of polite society or arousing the libido of the adolescent. This and the veiled satire that runs through all his works have, together with their romantic appeal and the author's gift of narrative, endeared him to millions of adult readers. Yet his stories appeal also to youth, as was recently demonstrated by a canvass of book stores made by a large metropolitan daily newspaper, which revealed the interesting fact that only a little over 80 per cent of the Burroughs books are bought by adults.

Tarzan the Invincible is the first Burroughs book to be published by his own corporation and represents the outcome of what might be called a long-distance publishing venture. Edgar Rice Burroughs, Inc., the publisher, is located at Tarzana, Calif., the artist, Studley Burroughs, has his studio in Chicago; the book was printed by the Kingsport Press at Kingsport, Tenn.; Chas H. Denhard & Co. of New York is handling the advertising, and the book is being distributed to the 47,000 book stores of the country by four large jobbers located at stragetic points all the way across the continent form the Atlantic to the Pacific.

The BOOK SURVEY

By BRUCE CATTON

It is small wonder that practically everybody is talking, these days, about the late Frank Harris' last book, "Bernard Shaw," which Simon and Schuster and the Book League of America have been distributing.

Shaw, of course, is and has been a great many things, but he is never dull. And Harris seems to have been the man from whom he learned how to present, invariably, a fascinating and provocative side to the public.

This book, then, is naturally very interesting. Whether or not it is also a good book I am not sure. It doesn't make much difference. It will hold your attention no matter where or when you open it, and when you find a book like that the only thing to do is hang onto it.

Harris wrote of Shaw, his lifelong friend, with a good deal of venom. He was violently critical of Shaw's attitude during the war, for one thing. He did not think that Shaw's long preoccupation with Socialism helped either mankind in general or Shaw in particular. He believed that Shaw's work will not endure, and that Shaw will be remembered as a personality rather than as a creative artist.

But Shaw, who edited the book, has the last word. He deftly replies to all of Harris' charges and, in fact, makes the book as much a study of Harris as a study of Shaw. Which—since Harris was an unusual man—is quite all right.

"Bernard Shaw" may irritate you, now and then, but it won't ever bore you. It will cost you $4.

Study of the Amazing 1920's

"Only Yesterday" is a remarkable book. In it Frederick Lewis Allen sums up the years from the end of the world war to the stock market crash of 1929. He achieves a surprising detachment, as if he were a dispassionate observer from some entirely different era, and he makes the follies and meannesses of the 1920's stand out with objective clarity.

All of those events and currents that molded our lives in that amazing period are studied here—the rise of the Ku Klux Klan, the Harding oil scandals, the development of the radio, the Florida land boom, the Coolidge bull market, the Lindbergh flights, the tremendous growth of newspaper ballyhoo in connection with such things as prize fights and murder trials; Mr. Allen discusses them all and renders exceptionally fair verdicts on them.

His comments on Lindbergh's sudden rise to fame are especially worth reading, and his study of the oil scandals is about the most thorough and comprehensible yet made. His book, which is published by Harpers and which is the December choice of the Book of the Month club, is priced at $4.

A Book on India

Books on India are always more or less timely, and a lot of people are going to be interested in Patricia Kendall's "Come With Me to India!"

This book is very far from being unbiased. Miss Kendall undertakes to show that practically all of India's difficulties are due to the failings of the natives, and the converse of her proposition is that British rule has been, unqualifiedly, a good thing for the natives. She attacks Gandhi bitterly and goes into detail in her denunciations of child marriage, caste restrictions, Moslem-Hindu rivalries and the like.

Nevertheless, her book cannot easily be tossed aside. She has dug back into Indian history to buttress many of her assertions, and the book shows a good deal of honest study and research. Her prejudice reveals itself more and more frequently as the book nears its close, but her charges aren't to be answered without an extensive first-hand knowledge of the facts.

"Come With Me to India" is offered by Scribners, at $3.50.

For Those Who Go in for Murder

Among the detective stories you might like to hear about are these: "About the Murder of the Night Club Lady," by Anthony Abbot (Covici-Friede; $2). The night club lady gets murdered while the police commissioner and his men are in the next room, and her girl friend's corpse appears a moment later in a blood-curdling and seemingly impossible manner. It's very puzzling, but it's not up to Mr. Abbot's previous thrillers. His famous Thatcher Colt gets more pompous and less life-like in each book.

"Dead Man Inside," by Vincent Starrett (Crime Club; $2). Several very mysterious murders, starting with the corpse that changed places with the clothing dummy. It's all very unbelievable, but somehow you keep on reading it right to the end—which, very likely, is all that matters.

"An Innocent Criminal," by J. D. Beresford (Dutton; $2). A better-than-average book about a man who bought a country house and found a murdered woman's body buried in the garden. Oddly enough, there's a finger missing . . . and they didn't dig deeply enough, at first. . . . This one is well worth your while.

SUNDAY'S RADIO BROADCASTS

IRVING BERLIN TO WRITE MUSIC FOR POPULAR PROGRAM

America's master song writers will compose special numbers for the "music that satisfies" program opening Jan. 4 over a coast-to-coast network of the Columbia Broadcasting system.

Irving Berlin heads the list of popular composers who will write exclusively tunes for the broadcasts which will star Alex Gray, lyric baritone, and Nat Shilkret's orchestra and which will be presented each week night at 9:30 p. m., central standard time, over 67 Columbia stations.

Berlin has written a waltz entitled, "I'll Miss You in the Evening," for presentation by Chesterfield during the month of January. Each month thereafter Gray and Shilkret will introduce the latest ballad by another ranking song writer. The special compositions will be released to the public at the end of each month.

"We plan to introduce to the radio audience each month an outstanding composition of America's song writers," Shilkret announced. "The series will be a 'pre-view' of the tempo and spirit of the country's popular music in 1932.

"The feature will make public, for the first time, the latest songs direct from the master manuscripts in arrangements typical of each composer. It should prove to be a cross-section of the best music in the American dance, ballad and stage lyrics of the year."

Fisk Singers to Present Weekly Radio Programs

Groups of singers from Fisk university are to be presented in a series of radio programs over a nationwide hook-up of the WABC-Columbia network commencing Sunday, Jan. 10, 1932. The programs will be heard each Sunday evening from 7:15 to 7:45 p. m., central standard time.

Fisk university, at Nashville, Tenn., long has been noted for its school of music, which came into prominence in 1874 when the first group of Fisk Jubilee singers sang their way through the courts and capitals of Europe to bring back the funds used in constructing the university buildings.

Taking part in the programs will be the Fisk University A Cappella choir of 60 voices, directed by Ray Francis Brown; Warner Lawson, noted negro soloist, and the world-famous Jubilee Singers, under the direction of Mrs. James A. Myers.

Adding interest to the programs is the fact that they will originate "down South," being broadcast directly from Memorial chapel on the Fisk campus. The singers thus will be at home in an atmosphere that has been filled with the music of spirituals for generations.

HUNGARIAN QUARTET TO SING CHAMBER MUSIC

The Roth quartet of Budapest, Hungary, one of the foremost chamber music organizations in this country, will be the first ensemble of a series of five to be heard every Monday, beginning Jan. 4, from 1 to 1:30 p. m., central standard time, over the WABC-Columbia network. The program will be under the auspices of the music division of the library of congress, made possible by the provisions of the Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge foundation, the object of which is to serve the interests and propagation of fine music, especially chamber music.

The Roth quartet is composed of young virtuosi, three of them Hungarian, Feri Roth, violinist; Jeno Antal, violinist; and Ferenc Molnar, viola. The fourth is a Hollander, Albert van Doorn, cellist. Under the direction of Feri Roth, the founder of the group, the ensemble has become well-known through hundreds of concerts in this country and abroad as exponents of musical precision, technical mastery and inspiration.

"Church of the Air" periods on Sunday, Jan. 3, will be directed by representatives of the Congressional and Roman Catholic denominations, and both the morning and afternoon programs will be transmitted to a nation-wide hook-up of the Columbia Broadcasting system from Station WABC in New York.

The morning services at 9 o'clock, eastern standard time, will be conducted by Dr. Allan K. Chalmers, pastor of the Broadway Tabernacle Congregational church in New York. Dr. Chalmers will preach on the subject, "Looking Down on Life." Other details of the service have not been announced.

The Rev. Joseph E. Daly of St. Gregory's Roman Catholic church, also in New York, will lead the afternoon period and will speak on the topic, "Religion and the New Day."

Music of the Catholic period, from 1:30 to 2 p. m., central standard time, will be presented by the glee club of the College of Mount Saint Vincent—a Catholic college for young women situated on the Hudson river near Riverdale, N. Y. The club is a well known organization and is heard annually in a concert at town hall in New York. It is under the direction of Professor Nicola A. Montani, organist and composer, who has recently been made Knight of Saint Gregory by the pope in recognition of his distinguished work in liturgical music.

Young Russian Pianist on Sunday Broadcast of CBS

Vladimir Horowitz, sensational young Russian pianist, will make his first network broadcast when he plays the Rachmaninoff D minor concerto in the New York Philharmonic-Symphony concert which will be heard through the WABC-Columbia network from 2:15 to 4 p. m., central standard time, Sunday, Jan. 3, Hans Lange conducting.

Rachmaninoff, himself a world-famous pianist and a close friend of Horowitz, will be present at the performance of his concerto. Horowitz was born in Kieff in 1904 and spent the first years of his active career as a concert pianist in his native country. In 1925 he made his first appearances in other European countries, and immediately leaped to a position of eminence among executants. Three years later he made a spectacular debut with the New York Philharmonic, and played throughout the United States with such success that in his second season he made appearances with the Detroit, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago, St. Louis, New York Philharmonic-Symphony and Philadelphia orchestras.

Although playing as heavy a schedule as time and energy will permit, he consistently has refused all offers for broadcasting, preferring to appear only with a full symphony orchestra in a program that is to be broadcast in its entirety, and this will mark the first occasion on which he will be heard by the radio audience outside the New York area.

COLUMBIA SYSTEM NOW HAS 90 CHAIN STATIONS

The Columbia Broadcasting system will begin the year 1932 with 90 member stations, with station WMBD, Peoria, Ill., the latest outlet to be added. This is the largest number of member stations ever gathered together in one broadcasting network.

Station WMBD is owned and operated by Edgar L. Bill and the Peoria Broadcasting company. The station is assigned to the 1440 kilocycle (208.2 meter) wave length, and will take the full schedule of Columbia's sustaining programs.

Two other stations added to the WABC-Columbia network during December were station WODX in Mobile, Ala., and station WSFA in Montgomery, Ala. Both stations operate on the 1410 kilocycle (212.6 meter) wave length.

Writers Make No New Year's Resolutions

New Year's, to most authors, is an occasion to be approached with both eyes shut tight and hands clapped to the ears. In other words, the writing ladies and gentlemen prefer to ignore Jan. 1 completely. In answer to a questionnaire sent out recently by the Literary guild, almost all of its authors declared that they would make no resolutions.

"I never make New Year's resolutions," writes Elizabeth Madox Roberts. "Indeed I do not think I ever made a New Year's resolution in my life. Nor do I take much notice of what is called 'New Year's day.' The year seems to come to an end and to make a new beginning at the first sign of spring, so that my New Year's day is the day when the first change is felt, when the first sign is detected. Thus my New Year's day is a variable feast, often a surprise, and is never met with such a dreary thing as a resolution. It is met rather with an inner shout, a madness—the first grass-blade after a frozen winter, the first lilt of the Carolina wren after a frozen silence."

Frank Dobie, the author of "Coronado's Children," writes this: "It is part of my policy not to plan too far ahead. Therefore, I seldom make resolutions. Economists say that a financier should keep his funds fluid. I seem not to have any particular funds of time and certainly I have none of any other kind, but by not making any promissory notes—of time—for far distant payment, I occasionally succeed in having a few fluid hours. Anyhow, although I don't know what I am going to do in January, I know that in February I am going to do some more teaching in the University of Texas. I have taught only one year out of the last four and a half, and I am afraid that I shall have to study a little. The course I'll delight in teaching is "Life and Literature of the Southwest." I'll admit there is more life than literature to it—but life is preferable to literature any time. I don't know what I shall do in the summer. I always go to a ranch for a while. I may go down into Mexico and very likely shall. I think my next book will be a collection of tales about northern Mexico—the part of Mexico that has no idyllic villages such as Stuart Chase lived in but that has plenty of desert, mountains, lost mines, were-wolves, witches, vaqueros that can trail a buzzard by the mark its shadow has left on the ground, Indians that run deer down afoot, snakes as big as the one Beowulf killed, the memory and song of Pancho Villa, and many other things with which machines have very little to do."

From Maristan Chapman, whose "The Happy Mountain" was an early Literary Guild success, comes this note: "New Year's resolutions are no good to me. I'm a very imperfect resolutioner and if, by chance, I do make such vows I drop and break them by the third at the latest. My plans for the New Year are to work 10 hours a day instead of eight, to accomplish some short stories as well as a new novel for the Viking Press and a juvenile for Appleton. My greatest ambition is to keep one jump ahead of the rent collector."

"I don't make New Year's resolutions," says Oliver La Farge, author of the Pulitzer prize winning novel, "Laughing Boy." "My New Year plans are simple: I leave for Guatemala in January to spend six months with the Indians among whom I worked before. This, with the report to follow it, means that I look forward to a prety purely scientific year, salted with plenty of camping and horseback traveling. Can you ask for anything more?"

Roark Bradford, author of "John Henry," broke into rhyme when he was asked his New Year's plans:

"I think New Years resolutions
Are most vicious institutions
For they teach the resolutes how to lie
(Toot: toot!)
Whereas lying is a talent
From Olympus to the gallant
Gentlemen of leisure, so why
Should any doughty peasant
Seek to follow such a pleasant Pastime? Prithee, tell me why? (Ting!
Ting!)"

But then he adds: "My plans for 1932 are as indefinite as usual. I used to make plans but some way or other never could get around to carrying them out. So in my later years I evolved the labor saving scheme of not even making plans. I am in New Orleans at present, and occasionally quit the sinful old city for a month or so on my brother's plantation near Shreveport, where I have a cabin furnished with a bed, fireplace, typewriter, cook named Ti-uldy, and St. Bernard dog. (But no keg of brandy under his chin, yet; he is still a puppy).

"At the present time I am devoting practically all of my time to the hopeless task of trying to make a gentleman's man out of one Hot Shot whom my brother presented to me. Hot Shot was born on my brother's place and has the instinct and inclination of a gentleman's man, but lacks backgrounding, speed and concentration. He was also very unsuccessful in every known line of agriculture and romance. His wife, Mamie T, quit him this fall for a boy named Joe Boody, and then somebody stole all of his clothes. However, he can wear my old clothes, even to shoes, and since acquiring him I don't dress so much like Heywood Broun, being compelled, out of some sort of sense of the appropriate, to buy you new ones."

With the Magazines

William Lyon Phelps, writing in the January Scribner's, throws a new light on Mark Twain. To the average thinker, the man who qualified as a Mississippi river pilot would seem foreign to a love of literature such as Mark Twain had. His own stories though beautifully polished would not suggest Twain to the reader as a lover of Browning.

In his home town, Mr. Phelps said, Mark Twain belonged to a club that met regularly to hear him read Browning. And Twain, himself, said that he could take any supposedly abstruse passage from Browning and by reading it aloud, give it a real meaning. "How I wish we had a record of these readings on a gramophone," Mr. Phelps remarked.

Frances Woodward Prentice in her article "The Confused Generation," in the same magazine, classifies women as outstandingly brilliant or outstandingly dull with a restless, groping group between these. "Both these enviable classes," she said, (the two outstanding groups), "in whatever generation they occur, are perfectly content." Then she spoke of herself as having a rather flat feeling "in the contemporary female sandwich.

As vivid a pen picture as we have seen is a New Year's story in the Century. The new year in China is not celebrated (save for political reasons) on the first day of the calendar new year. The Chinese, according to this story, wait until the earth puts forth green and until a new revival is really at hand. Their accounts are all settled on that day, goods marked to profit or loss. The most beautiful part of their celebration is the honor shown by family groups to living and dead ancestors.

Mary Heaton Vorse, writing from Berlin on Dec. 10, says in the current New Yorker, "Probably no place will ever seem to me quite as glittering and gay as Berlin has been these past few weeks—or as terrible and dangerous. This is the end of something now. Something's going to crack; something's going to explode."

Essad Bey's "The Red Czar," continues in Collier's and intrigues an interest that cannot believe all of it. In spite of Mr. Shaw's views on the Russian question, we think with horror of that night when the Royal Russian family were murdered en masse.

Will it be possible for a man relentless in revenge and cruelty and absolutely cold blooded to tower so over this century that his shadow will be thrown over the entire world.

"What Good Is Money in the Sock?" is the title of an article by Wm. G. Shepherd in the same magazine. It sounds quite ridiculous but the monetary problem is rather ably discussed in it and the evolution of money is a most fascinating thing as Mr. Shepherd gives the information. At that, most of us feel that money in the sock is a bridge over a torrent, an umbrella in time of storm; above all, it means that most enviable possession, peace of mind.

Our John Garner is the man seen by the gentleman at the keyhole in the new magazine. His view of the Texan will make the state prouder of such a representative. A man who "puts public interest as he sees it, above partisanship," who "never lies to any one," who "never makes promises he does not carry out"; that is the way Garner stands in the national eye and what nobler recommendation could one have?

Mr. Freling Foster tells us that in Japan nearly every school has its motion picture study club; that India lives in constant chronological confusion because of its use of 17 different calendars; that it is always fair weather for yacht companies. The readers of this column do at least gather news from far corners of the world.

The most interesting feature of the new Woman's Home Companion for this reader is "The Postscript." We have an idea a man is the writer; one can never tell by a name. It is humorous and broadminded.

Quite the other thing may be said of an article by Mary Orme, "Fair Play in Marriage," which endeavors to establish an alibi in stating that the author writes as an impartial onlooker. It lacks in humor and also in impartial vision. Man is seen as the business and professional woman sees him; never as he might appear to a mere wife. A wife may have opinions.

Walter Lippman writes "The Case Against the Dole," just at the point when the newspapers were about to convince us it is not a dole.

Anna Steese Richardson assembles outstanding campaign issues from prominent political and educational writers. Among those from whom she quotes, are these briefly clipped excerpts: The Governor of Connecticut; "Peace and Prosperity." U. S. Senator Arthur Capper: "Relief from the burden of taxation; enforcement of law, including the 18th amendment and fair prices for farm products." Ruth Pratt, representative from New York: "Campaign issues are shifting daily." Ruth Bryan Owens, Florida: "A study of relationship between product and distribution both in American and international trade." Mary Anderson, director of Woman's bureau, U. The January "House Beautiful," is full of entrancing things. Readers may imagine lovely homes for themselves (our method of building). In the preword, the editor speaks of houses "that lacked proper discipline and were allowed to wander from the straight and narrow path of good architecture or else they found themselves attached to the wrong owners and became in consequence sadly crippled in an attempt to adapt themselves to alien conditions." Have you not seen them?

The pages marked "Please Tell Me," in this magazine are filled with information intriguing to lovers of homes—even though they have none of the possessions about which questions are asked.

Gardening is one of the major themes in the House Beautiful. There is in the January 1932 issue a charming letter to the beginner and there are articles by experts touching on design in gardening.

Program of Work Committee Will Present Comprehensive Outline of Proposed Activities for New Year

In several instances the programs are similar and occasionally duplications are indicated. In such cases both organizaions will work on the projects with the Junior chamber in charge of certain phases of the work.

Resolution Offered

To the board of directors, Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce: Gentlemen:

Your program of work committee, charged with the duty of drafting a proposed outline of projects for the chamber of commerce for 1932, is ready to report.

We have been working on this assignment for two months, during which time 24 meetings of the committee and groups were held. Nearly 400 members and other citizens have attended these meetings and have had a part in framing the program which is hereby submitted.

The coal was in interstate shipment and federal charges probably will be filed, it was said. The suspect now held was taken into custody, according to Sheriff C. R. Elliott, after he is alleged to have sold quantities of coal at bargain prices.

TROY DOUTHITT JR.

HENRIETTA, Texas, Jan. 2.—Henrietta's boy musician will play three musical instruments and sing a group of numbers in a recital in which he appears at the auditorium of the First Christian church, Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

He will be assisted in the recital Tuesday evening by his friends, Claude McKinney Jr. on the saxophone, and Bud Parker, cornetist.

Troy Douthitt Jr., the young musician, is the 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Douthitt and has been appearing in musical programs in Henrietta since he was 5 years of age. In his first recital he played 11 numbers, one year after he began his study of piano with Mrs. C. B. McDonald. When he was 7 he played one of the leading parts in a musical play, "The Doll Shop," which was presented three different times, first from the studio, then under the auspices of the Parent-Teacher association, and last over radio through station WBAP. In response to the radio program he received more than 60 telegrams.

Troy has always been active in the musical organizations of his schools. At the age of 9 he belonged to the Harmonica band of 26 members, which won honors at the Wichita Falls convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. He is pianist for the Junior High orchestra and last year he appeared on two programs over station WBAP.

Although he is majoring a piano, like many of the old masters, he is interested in music in all its branches. In the recital Tuesday evening, he will play the accordian, saxophone and piano, and will also be presented in a group of vocal selections by his voice teacher, Mrs. Earle Nutter. He will also play accompaniments for a cornet solo and for a selection by the Junior High orchestra.

Three Federal Judges to Pass on Legality Enforcement Martial Law By Governor in East Texas Fields

HOUSTON, Jan. 2. (AP)—An attack on Gov. Ross S. Sterling's administration of martial law in the East Texas oil fields, fraught with historically significant legal possibilities, will be heard before a three-judge federal court here beginning Monday, Jan. 4.

Specifically, the suit seeks to enjoin Governor Sterling from enforcing production restrictions in the vast fields, of which he has been supreme commander since his declaration of martial law on Aug. 16, 1931, and to recover about $100,000 damages, it was alleged, in the plaintiff's amended petition, there had been a "conspiracy" to boost the price of crude in various fields of the country and that the governor had acted "in accordance with the agreement, combination and conspiracy" and in a manner violative of due process clauses of the constitution.

State Officials Defendants

The plaintiffs are E. Constantin, and J. D. Wrather; the defendants Governor Sterling, State Railroad Commissioners Lon Smith, C. V. Terrell and Pat M. Neff; Atty. Gen. James V. Allred, Brig. Gen. Jacob F. Wolters of the national guard, in command of the field under martial law; V. McDavid, county attorney of Rusk county; Adj. Gen. W. W. Sterling.

The case, in the pleadings and counter pleadings filed, will cause to pass in review practically the entire turbulent history of oil regulation in Texas. On its outcome, according to counsel for the governor, will depend the question as to whether a state's chief executive has the discretionary right to declare martial law—the decision in the matter as to whether it is necessary being left solely to him—and whether, after a declaration of martial law, his resultant orders properly are the subject of judicial review and supervision.

Will Determine Control

It likewise will determine the future control of the great field. The decision, of course, will set precedent for the nation.

The whole matter already had been much in the federal courts, in a preliminary fashion. On Oct. 13, the plaintiffs were granted a temporary restraining order by Randolph Bryant, federal judge in the eastern district of Texas, restraining General Wolters from enforcing production orders of the railroad commission in the field.

On the same date, the governor as commander in chief of the state military ordered the general to restrict production, not under any previous railroad commission orders, but under the executive order of the governor himself.

Wolters Files Answer

Upon the petition of counsel for the complainants, Judge Bryant cited General Wolters to show cause why he should not be held in contempt, but before he was cited, Wolters filed an answer insisting he was acting in good faith under the orders of the governor, and was merely doing his official duty.

Judge Bryant then concluded to allow both matters—the suit itself and the contempt citation—to be threshed out before the three-judge federal court. The case originally was scheduled to be heard in Beaumont but was transferred to Houston by agreement.

The amended petition of the plaintiffs, alleging they had drilled their Rusk county wells in a "proper manner" and had taken every precaution to prevent waste, charged each well was capable of producing 5,000 barrels a day and that the production restrictions imposed by the governor were costing them huge sums—a loss of some $1,500 a day.

Former Oil Connections

It then went on to allege the governor was "for many years financially interested in the Humble Oil and Refining company" and that Wolters was in regular employ of the Texas company, adding their "relations with said two corporations are so close and intimate as to disqualify them from action and judgment in the premises."

The petition then recounted the special session of the legislature last August, which enacted an oil and gas conservation law, and the subsequent declaration of martial law, alleging Governor Sterling, in that act, "far exceeded" his authority.

It was alleged further the governor's reference to "riot and insurrection" in the East Texas field as a basis for martial law was unjustifiable, claiming there was "absolutely no tumult, riot or breach of the peace," and that the executive had acted in a manner "arbitrary, capricious and unjust," for the "sole purpose of preventing or restricting production" to affect the price.

History of Reductions

The petition told the history of the various reductions in the allowable production for each well in the field—reductions gradually more drastic until the allowable finally had dropped to 125 barrels per day when the suit was filed—and claimed the purpose of the reductions was to prevent the field from producing in excess of market demand.

Gen. W. W. Sterling was named in the suit, said the petition, because his Texas rangers aided the military. Attorney General Allred and the Rusk county attorney were made co-defendants because of their official positions. The railroad commissioners named have attempted no supervision over the field since Oct. 13, 1931.

The petition, reiterating the assertion that the military occupancy had been for the purpose of raising the price, alleging that "purpose" had been attained, and alleging the militiamen had made no effort to "suppress any of the alleged riot," asked that the respondents, or defendants, be restrained from interfering with the plaintiffs in production up to 5,000 barrels per well per day, and demanded $100,000 damages.

The answer of the governor, Adjutant General Sterling and General Wolters (the other defendants had other counsel and were not included) denied the plaintiffs had lost $100,000, moved to strike out many of their pleadings, denied the governor had exceeded his authority, denied knowledge of any "conspiracy," specifically denied the defendants ever had participated in any such "conspiracy," denied martial law was intended to affect price, claimed it was wholly necessary to prevent insurrection and perhaps bloodshed, said none of the governor's orders after the temporary restraining order were designed to enforce railroad commission decrees and added in substance:

That it was the governor's intention to enforce martial law and restrict production until the lid "safely" could be lifted.

That his act in declaring martial law and subsequent acts were found necessary upon investigation and that the citizens in the territory were about ready to "take up arms" or use "dynamite and fire" because they considered themselves, as royalty owners, being stripped of their rightful possessions by disorderly operations in the field.

The answer then asked that the action be dismissed on the following grounds:

No jurisdiction—that it was a suit against the state and that the state hda not consented to be sued.

Because an injunction would restrain Governor Sterling from "exercising the discretion vested in him by the constitution and statutes of the state in determining when and where insurrection exists."

Because there was no cause of action.

The answer filed on behalf of the general in the contempt citation insisted he was merely doing his duty in following out the governor's orders and that he had attempted no enforcement of railroad commission orders after Judge Bryant had granted the order restraining such an action. It was stressed that the orders the general enforced after Judge Bryant had acted were orders, not of the commission, but of the governor as commander in chief of the militia.

The Brock-Lee Oil company originally was a plaintiff in the suit, but withdrew.

HOUSTON.—An unemployer man attempted to commit suicide here by cutting his wrists with a razor blade. But it hurt so much that he called an ambulance and was taken to a hospital. After his wrists were taken care of, hospital authorities released him, cautioning him not to attempt suicide again. "Don't worry," he said. "You won't see me any more. That hurts too much."

YOUNG VERNON SALESMAN DIES BULLET WOUND

VERNON, Texas, Jan. 2.—Hugh Kirkpatrick, 28-year-old salesman for the Vernon Meat company, died at a Vernon hospital at 1:30 Saturday afternoon of gunshot wounds inflicted earlier in the day.

Funeral services are to be held at the First Baptist church Sunday afternoon with the Rev. E. F. Lyon, pastor, in charge. Burial will be in East View cemetery.

Mr. Kirkpatrick drove into the McClanahan filling station about two miles west of Vernon about 9:30 o'clock Saturday morning and requested employes at the station to call an ambulance. "Buck" McClanahan brought him to a Vernon hospital where an examination revealed a fatal shotgun wound in his chest. Attendants at the station understood from Kirkpatrick's story that he had been shot by a hitchhiker to whom he had given a ride.

Officers who investigated the case found the gun with which he was wounded in a pasture a short distance off the highway, several hours after the shooting. Several unopened letters addressed to his wife, his parents of Honey Grove, and his employer were found in his pockets.

Kirkpatrick had been a resident of Vernon for a number of years. For the past five years he had been employed by the Vernon Meat company as a salesman. Besides his widow and parents, he is survived by two children, Nola Jean and Hugh Jr.

Ordered to Smile

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Jude Stonehouse's face lights up with an ocasional smile now and then as the result of a recent order by Judge Cameron. Stonehouse was up before the judge on a charge of injuring his daughter, Mildred. She stated that in addition to physical hurt, her father hadn't smiled at her for four years. "I believe it would crack your face if you smiled," the judge told Stonehouse. "It isn't enough to support your family. You better smile when you go home."

Diamond's Girl Back in Gotham Looking for Job

NEW YORK, Jan. 2. (AP)—Marian Roberts, who left the chorus for a precarious existence with an ill-starred young man who sought unsuccessfully to become an overlord of gangdom, came back to New York today.

She wore no flashing jewels or gorgeous clothes, but an inexpensive black coat and hat, and she appeared pale and tired.

Less than a month ago her companion, Jack Diamond, left her in the Albany rooming house where she had lived—a distance that was many miles from the glitter and gayety of Broadway—and was shot to death as he lay sprawled in a drunken stupor on his bed in his own furnished room in the same city.

Troubled memories and an indictment hanging over her up in Green county in connection with the kidnaping and torture last spring of a truck driver—these are about all "Kiki" Roberts has left after an experience which at its beginning may have looked glamorous.

"No, I'm through with him," she answered hastily when she was asked if she would visit Diamond's grave.

"I'm here to get a job," she added, "and begin all over again."

She came to New York from Boston, where at her mother's home she had been writing the story of her life. Her mother and a Boston newspaper man accompanied her.

Woman Dons Best Clothes and Gems Walks Into Ocean

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 2. (UP)—Tired of living, Mrs. Mae Blodgett, 25, penned a tribute to her "wonderful husband" in New York, put on her $3,500 diamond bracelet and $1,000 diamond ring and walked into the ocean.

"My Dear Husband Bob: I have decided to end it all. Hope you will forgive me. I can never thank you enough for what you have done for me. You lived in every way to make me happy and give me everything I could possibly want, but I guess I wasn't meant to be happy. I never knew any one could possess such a wonderful character and be as successful as you have been, and I appreciate it from the bottom of my heart. You deserve everything of the best that life has to offer. I hope you will be happy. Say goodbye to the folks for me. I thank them for their many kindnesses. Your loving wife, Mae."

SUSPECT QUIZZED FOLLOWING DEATH OF PAIR IN FIRE

FATAL FIRE FOLLOWED LONG DRINKING PARTY

Holds to Story of Leaving Two Women Alone Few Hours Before Fire

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Jan. 2. (INS)—Police continued this afternoon to grill Arthur Taylor, 35, alleged bootlegger, concerning the deaths of two women whose bodies were found in the fire-razed home of Taylor near here early today.

The dead were Mrs. Lilly Gray, 40, of Vine Grove, Ky., and Miss Ruby Garrison, 19, who lived at the Taylor home.

A drinking party apparently was in progress at the house last night, for Taylor told police that when he left, one of the women was partly intoxicated.

A little dog whose body was found in the embers of the burned house barked frantically about the time the fire started, according to a passerby whose name could not be learned.

Bodies Charred

There apparently was no reason why the women could not have left the burning building.

Coroner M. G. Frash this afternoon said that the bodies of the two women were so badly charred that he was unable to tell whether there were any marks of violence upon them.

"My only possible theory to date is that one of the women dropped a cigaret which set fire to the flimsy building. However, it is hard to believe that the frantic barking of the dog would not have awakened them. It would have been easy to run to safety under those circumstances."

Taylor, this afternoon under prolonged questioning, admitted that four other men were in his house drinking liquor from 8 to 10 o'clock. He said that the men whose names he did not know lived in Pittsburgh, Ind. He added that he believed one of the men was a barber.

(Copyright 1931, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

By WILL ROGERS

Well all I know is just what I read in the papers, and what I see as I prowl hither and thither, and believe me brother I have been prowling hither for the last few weeks. It would take me a week to tell you all about it. But this one will just have to kinder start me off.

I left the American shores when my plane crossed the Canadian border up above a town called Bellingham, Washington, on my way to beautiful Vancouver, and say, by the way that is undoubtedly the prettiest aeroplane trip I ever made, that is from Seattle to Vancouver. You fly over all those islands and inlets and straits, and the mainland is in places low and level and a wonderful dairying country. It looked to me exactly like Holland. There is a lot of rivers and canals, and lots of old milking cows out chewing on the green, and it was green. And here ten miles back was Mount Baker that is some 15,000 feet up, and covered with snow. But is beautiful all up in that country; they say one of the prettiest trips is the inland trip to Alaska by boat, or plane, for there is islands off shore and you can keep inside them. But the whole Northwest is beautiful from Frisco north, its mountains and pines, and rivers and lakes. Seattle is a great aeroplane center on account of the great Boehing plane being made there. They supply the government a lot of them and to lots of commercial and private parties. They have a fine field, well equipped, and Vancouver has one out on an island or a point of land, I was so busy looking at the beautiful scenery that I couldent tell. But Canada is going somewhere with aviation, and they should for they are a country of long distances. Just think the time a plane will save in Canada.

Well we went to the beautiful and big C. P. R. hotel there, a well appointed and really elaborate affair and was to sail on the Empress of Russia, a boat of their line in the morning. I heard along the line that Floyd Gibbons, the world's champion reporter and radio announcer, was to be on his way to Manchuria too, but I wasent sure. But when I finally got to Vancouver, and they told me it was so I was tickled to death. Just think of the privalege of traveling and being with him. Here is a man that has been in every nook and corner of the world, knows everybody, everything. I got acquainted with him in Warsaw, Poland, in the summer of 1926, and have been good friends with him since. Well he was coming in on the C. P. R. at 8:30 that night from N. Y. All the press boys was down to see him in and I joined out with 'em. He had 22 Chinamen on the train with him that was catching the boat too. They were going back home, but not to fight. They said they dident want any war. Well we all went up to the hotel and the newspaper men had a nice party that night, with all their wives and friends present, and of course Floyd and I had to gab. He is just as good as he used to be on the radio, only slower. He gives you time to take it all in when he is talking to you. We had a fine time, met lots of fine folks, and up in the morning and saw Vancouver. Its the coming city of all West Canada, and well laid out and very pretty.

Bellinger Brothers, Inc. N. Y.

But I Kept Eating

Well we shoved off the next morning about 11:30. It looked like a long trip, 11 days to Yokohoma. I am the worlds worst Sailor anyhow. I get sick before the boat unties from the dock, but you know I says, "I am going to lick this, I am going to eat everything they got, drink— — —." Well anyhow I stayed with em, and do you know I kept waiting to get sick, and kinder looking forward to it, and days went by and nothing showed up, and by golly I begin to believe that maby the old Oklahoma Kid was a Sailor after all. Then we hit rough weather, and when you hit rough weather on the Pacific, Brother you are encountering some weather. The Atlantic is only a fish bowl. The Captain, and a very fine Capable man, Captain Hosken, really did a great job of handling that boat in that hurricane. He practically had to stop, then he turned south off our course, as we were not far off the Aelutian Islands. Thats the one these Aviators try to sail along coming from Japan. Well we was trying to keep off of em. The waves got so high we lost a lifeboat, washed off one of the top decks.

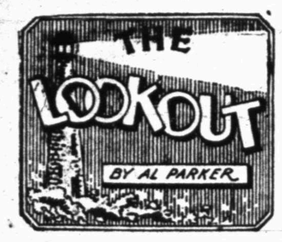

But I was still riding it, and retaining beautiful. Why any other trip I was ever on I would have died. This foolishness kept up with this Ocean for over two days. It was a Chinese Typhoon, that had run into a Monsoon, that was crossed with just plain Hurricane, and Oklahoma Norther combined. But I kept eating, and HOW! They gave good food on that Line, and they are always passing something, and I was always not letting anything pass me. We had a fine little bunch on board, as travel like all other commodities has been curtailed by Hoover I suppose, and there is not a whole lot of World travel. Now is the time to go, you are not run over by what One traveler always calls "the other Objectionable people." You see everybody is doing the wrong thing when you travel but you.

Read of lot of books. I never was much of a Book reader. I am kinder like Al Smith, I never read one through. But I knocked off some on this trip. That old Genghis Khan, that flourished around over in all this Country around 12 hundred. If you enjoy Jessie James, Al Capone, and the Younger Boys, you want to read about this Baby. Oh, Lord, the World was his Oyster. He ruled everything from all of China clear to the gates of Vienna, and from the North Pole to Africa, and he did it all horseback. There was a real Buckaroo for you. Then I read a book by General Graves about our adventure in Siberia with our Soldiers. He tells you he was in charge of em and he dont know yet what we sent em over for. Now that its all over and he has been looking up till now, he still dont know what they were doing there. I guess it will go down as one of the prize Boners of all our foreign invasions.

I want to drop up there to Vladivostok on this trip if I can. You know we have all read of that place, and I want to get a crack at it. I am anxious to see this Japan and China and all this, and I will write you more about it when we land, which is right now. Oh, Lord, here is what they call a Rickshaw, a thing where a man pulls you in a chair. What a traffic jam I am going to get into in one of these.

T. C. U. FAVORED TO AGAIN WIN CONFERENCE CAGE CROWN

It is not often that a minor league ball player balks at the opportunity to advance to the big leagues, but that is the element that makes Carey Selph's 1931 fate quite uncertain. The brilliant Houston second sacker, by many strides the best in the Texas league last season, was drafted by the Chicago White Sox. Selph immediately let up a squawk that he would not report to the Chicago club. In fact, he made it even broader and asserted he would play baseball nowhere but at Houston. It seems that Selph has established his home and an incurance business at Houston that he deems more important even than a major league job. Ordinarily in a case of this sort the major club will relinquish its claim to the player, but the powers that be of the White Sox aver that Mr. Selph will play in Chicago or nowhere. Selph still contends that he will play nowhere but at Houston, and that's where the matter stands today. Our guess is that Carey will be with the White Sox sooner or later, for that is one club as hard as nails. It seldom yields a point in its arguments with the players, and we can't believe that Selph will make good his threat to quit.

The Wichita Falls club in its dozen years in baseball has been extremely fortunate in losing few players through their failure to report. A few times the club has tied into players who quit the game, but we can't recall ever having lost an important player because of the athlete's dissatisfaction with salary terms or a desire to play elsewhere. Clyde Mattox, a catcher obtained from Pittsburgh a half-dozen years back, and an outfielder whose name we can't recall slated to come from the Cubs about the same period, never reported, but it wasn't because they had been transferred to Wichita Falls. They simply had enough of baseball and both retired from the game. Few clubs in baseball can boast as fine a reputation for fair treatment of the player as has been developed through the Harvey, Gardner and Huff regimes, and that is the principal reason that the Wichita Falls club has been so fortunate.

John J. Buvid, the Czecho-Slovakian born in Scotland and distinctly a Spudder product, had his ups and downs in rapid fire order last year, but is to get another chance in double A company next season. Buvid was signed by the Spudders while he was in the marine corps and was farmed out most of the time he was the property of the Spudders. He spent one season in the D ranks, another in class B and then graduated to the Browns. He was farmed to Milwaukee for a couple of seasons and after a dismal start last spring finally wound up the season as a free agent after failing to make a go of it in the class B Three-Eye circuit. Johnny has been signed by the Oakland club of the Pacific Coast league. Always possessing more than an average amount of ability, Buvid has never been able to take full advantage of his talents.

The Texas league holds its special meeting Sunday at Dallas for the express purpose of erasing from its code of operation the individual salary limit rule adopted at the fall meeting. The action, as outlined previously in this column, comes at the behest of Commissioner Landis. A substitute salary limit is likely to be adopted, we believe, in the form of the old-fashioned club total limit, a rule of which there is not the slightest possibility of enforcement. If the clubowners so desire, there is nothing to prevent them entering an agreement to stick to an individual salary limit. The rule as it stands now limits the individual's pay to $500 monthly, and the owners can promise to continue to abide by it without making it a rule. Such an agreement, however, would not be worth the effort used to frame it, for it would be adhered to only so long as it did not interfere with the clubowner's plans.

Willis Johnson, secretary of the Browns, in an issue of the Sporting News reproduced parts of letters received during the off-season from St. Louis players. Two of these are from Jim Levey and Larry Bettencourt, two stars of the 1930 Spudder constellation, and should be of interest to Wichita Falls fans.

Larry's letter in part follows:

"Things have been going quite well with me during the past few months. The football season has been a big success on the coast. I have witnessed quite a few games.

"In the Pasadena game, which is to be played on Jan. 1 between the University of Southern California and Tulane, the favorite will be the California team. Southern California, with its power plays and running attack of Mohler and Shaver, no doubt will stop the boys from New Orleans. In Southern California's line their star is Baker, who is considered all-American timber. One of the boys from Tulane to be considered is an end named Dalrymple, and the Southern California team will be able to test his all-American ability when the attack gets started around his wing position.

"I have been doing some hunting and playing a little golf. My hardest work has been around the farm plowing and trimming fruit trees. It is quite a thrill to put on the overalls and mingle around with the old folks. Now and then I have helped out at St. Mary's under Coach Slip Madigan, who, to my way of thinking, is the best football man in the West. His teams since 1924 to 1931 have defeated every large university on the coast and also one of the best from the Southern conference.

"That is about all that I have in the way of news at the present time. I only wish that the opening of the training season was not so far away. I am in a hurry to get started. Get the field in shape, because I am ready to go. No fences too far and none too high for me."

"I am feeling fine and dandy and sure wish it was time to start the 'ole' ball rolling again.

"Have taken in plenty of football games here and to tell the truth every time I saw one I wanted to break right down and get into it.

"My opinion of the Notre Dame outfit was that they had a great football team, all right, but there seemed to be something lacking somewhere. Coming after the passing of Rockne, I believe it was the psychological effect he had with his players. This is, as you know, quite an important thing, and means a lot with a football team or any other athletic outfit.

"Pittsburgh had a great club also and outside of the Notre Dame game looked to me like one of the greatest of the year. They were a tough club in November, and I believe they would have taken Notre Dame if their game had been played in that month.

"Haven't much of anything to say about myself as I am trying to do my bit here at home to keep things going along. Was invited on a hunting trip, but had to decline the invitation. I would liked very much to have made the trip.

"You can say for me though that when Jimmy Levey starts playing ball next summer some one is going to take a back seat around the top of the leading shortstops of the American league. No one has any idea how much last season has meant to me. I learned plenty in more ways than one. I'll be in there hustling all the time, and believe me when I say I'll hustle I mean just that."

Powerful Frogs Play Like Champs In Practice Tilts

Six Quintets Will Open Basket Ball Race Friday And Saturday

By BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Jan. 2. (AP)—The 18th annual Southwest conference basket ball campaign, carrying a schedule of 42 games that promises to be more than ordinarily eventful, will begin Friday night, Jan. 8.

First to compete in the goal shooting marathon will be the University of Texas at Fayetteville against the University of Arkansas, which, until last season, had won five consecutive conference cage titles. The best the former Arkansas champions could do last season was tie Baylor for third place with seven victories and five defeats.

The steady, fast, hard playing Texas Christian Frogs, defending champions, will meet their first 1932 conference competition Saturday night in the Baylor Bears at Waco. Other Saturday night combats will be the second game between Texas and Arkansas at Fayetteville and the Texas A. & M. and Rice Institute contest at Houston.

As the seven conference quintets prepare for the opening whistle, the Texas Christian Frogs, who staked themselves to last year's championship with nine victories and three defeats, are favorites to repeat.

A few critics have even dared to predict that the Frogs will jump the conference cage pond without suffering the loss of a game.

In preliminary combats the last two weeks, Coach Francis Schmidt's Texas Christian basketeers have revealed the same scoring power that swept them to the pinnacle last season.

The Frogs are back to defend their title with Adolph "Too Tall" Dietzel at center, Capt. "Doc" Sumner and Elbert Walker at forwards, with Harlos Green and Buster Brannon at guards. All but Walker and Green were regulars in 1931.

Where Southern Methodist university carried last season's championship fight down to the final game, the Baylor Bears, Texas A. & M. Aggies, Rice and probably the University of Arkansas are favored contenders for Texas Christian's baseball scalp. University of Texas and Southern Methodist are not expected to furnish enough competition to worry the more powerful teams.

The Baylor Bears, who this week defeated the East Texas Teachers of Commerce 42 to 24 and 47 to 23, loom as one of the better bets for the championship. The Bruins have Alford and Strickland as outstanding stars. Strickland made the all-conference team as guard in 1931. Alford has been a scoring ace in all preliminary combats.

Arkansas' material has yet to prove its worth, but one thing in favor of the Razorbacks is the schedule which gives them their only two games against Texas Christian on the Arkansas court.

VETERAN OF ANSON'S CHICAGO CLUB DEAD

Parrott, a pitcher and utility player, was with Chicago under Pop Anson in 1893 in the old National league and later played with Cincinnati and St. Louis. He went to Chicago from Nashville where he played in 1893.

Parrott's last year in professional baseball was about 1906 or 1907 when he played first base for the Houston Texas league club. Parrott, whose nickname was "Tacks," was an excellent cornet player and in 1908 and for several years afterward he played in a band during the summer season at the Galveston beach amusement park.

REDS' FIRST BASEMAN INJURED IN EXPLOSION

LONG BEACH, Calif., Jan. 2. (AP)—Mickey Heath, first baseman of the Cincinnati Reds, suffered burns of the face and hands Saturday during a Christmas tree fire and explosion.

He started dismantling the tree in his apartment when a short circuit of the light cord ignited it. He ran toward the back yard with the blazing tree and as he entered the laundry room the blaze ignited accumulated gas.

The explosion wrecked the laundry room and Heath will spend a few days under the care of physicians.

Rumor Athletic Agreement Reached By Army and Navy

Finland Has Second Nurmi for Olympics

By DANIEL J. FERRIS
National Secretary, Amateur Athletic Union

NEW YORK, Jan. 2. (AP)—For the 1932 Olympic games, Finland, our greatest rival for scoring honors since the war, has developed in 22-year-old Lauri Lentinen an even greater runner than Paavo Nurmi.

A few years ago this appeared impossible. We all regarded Nurmi as a superman and did not expect to see his equal, at least not in this generation. Now Finland comes along and develops another who they claim will wipe from the record books all of Nurmi's marks. Although a comparative newcomer, he has run 1,500 meters, 3,000 meters, two miles, 5,000 meters and three miles during the past year in times only a fraction of a second behind the world's records held by Nurmi. During the past season he has scored several victories over the former invincible Paavo. The Finns expect Lehtinen to perform just as sensationally at Los Angeles as did Nurmi eight years ago in the Oympic games at Paris, where he won four Olympic championships.

With such splendid material available as represented by Lehtinen, Nurmi, Virtanen, Iso-Hollo, Lavrva, Purje, Lukkola and Ritola, the latter now in Florida training for the Olympic marathon race, Finland's hopes of making a clean sweep of all the distance running events on the Olympic program from 1,500 meters to the marathon may be realized.

Despite these Finnish threats, I again expect the United States to score a decisive victory on points in the Olympic track and field competition.

America will send to the mark three potential point winners in practically every event of the program. If one of our representatives faisl to perform up to his standard we may reasonably expect one of the other two to fill the gap. No other country is yet in that position. All of the foreign nations, however, are gradually creeping up on the United States and America's margin of victory grows less each year.

Several nations which heretofore have not caused us much concern will be represented at Los Angeles by one or more potential winners. They include Italy, Hungary, Japan, Poland and Czecho-Slovakia.

Battalino Earns New Respect of Boxing's Fandom

Boxer Declares Damaged Hands Handicapped Earlier Work in Ring

NEW YORK, Jan. 2. (INS)—When Battling Battalino fights Tony Canzoneri for the lightweight crown, the fans will view "Bat" with a new respect as a result of his quick knockout over Al Singer in his last important bout.

Battalino, however, does not agree with those who talk of his "overnight transformation" from a mauler into a knockerout.

"I broke both my hands when I won the featherweight title from Andre Routis in 1929," he points out, "and up until a couple of months ago I didn't dare hit hard. The bones in both hands were dislocated so badly that Dr. Fralich, who treated me, had to take no less than 114 stitches in them.

Had to Nurse Hands

"I had to nurse my hands along for nearly two years. They hurt after every fight. A few months ago they seemed to be O. K. So I didn't pull any punches against Earl Maestro and dropped him three times.

"That slugging didn't hurt my dukes, so I hit as hard as I could in my next scrap, against Bushy Graham, and flattened him in one round. When I faced Singer I knew my hands were in perfect shape and had no trouble in putting him away in two rounds."

Weight a Surprise

Battalino was quite a hitter before he broke his hands on Routis. He knocked out four men in less than eight minutes in winning the national amateur featherweight championship in 1927.

New York boxing writers haven't yet recovered from the surprise Battalino handed them when he weighed in for the Singer fight. The featherweight champion had weighed in at less than 126 pounds five weeks before, and it was estimated he would tip the scales at about 128 to 134 for Singer.

The scribes wrote reams of copy speculating as to whether Battalino, a "good little man," could whip Singer, a "good big man." Imagine their embarrassment when "Bat" weighed in at 135½, nearly two pounds more than Singer.

JOY TAKES CLOSE ONE FROM HENRIETTA FIVE

HENRIETTA, Texas, Jan. 2.—The Joy senior basket ball team, champions of Clay county last year, met stiff competition in the Henrietta five Thursday night, but speeded up enough in an extra three minutes of play to win, 23 to 17. The score was 9-9 at the half, and advanced to a 17-17 tie at the end of the game. The scoring ability of Wolf and G. Howell turned the tide in Joy's favor in the playoff.

Both teams unleashed lightning passes and displayed excellent teamwork. The Henrietta quintet lacked the passing and scoring help of Bragg, forward. Roper, letter man of last year's team and stellar forward, is still recovering from a knee injury and did not play until the last quarter. Failure to make free shots also counted against the Bearcats.

Jackson, Henrietta forward, and G. Howell, Joy center, tied for high point honors with nine each.

WHITNEY HORSES AGAIN LEAD IN MONEY WINNING

NEW YORK, Jan. 2. (AP)—Climaxing the greatest three-year money winning streak in the history of the American turf, the famous Eton blue and brown capped silks, now ruled by the youthful Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, again showed the way in financial returns in 1931, winning $423,400.25.

Although failing by more than $15,000 to equal the yearly record of $438,849 established by the thoroughbreds of Harry F. Sinclair in 1923, the Whitney runners easily passed Sinclair's three-year total made in 1921-22-23.

During the three-year period, in which Zev won an international reputation, Sinclair pocketed $941,852 as the result of the success of his horses. A similar length period, ending Thursday, brought the Whitney stable $1,171,577.25. The amount even exceeded the four-year total of $1,063,927 earned by the late James R. Keane's runners in the early part of the century.

BANDED DUCK KILLED NEAR HERE LIBERATED IN KANSAS LAST YEAR

A pintail duck, banded Feb. 26, 1930, and liberated at Ellinwood, Kan., by F. W. Robl, came to an unhappy end on Dec. 1, 1931, five miles northwest of Wichita Falls. Henry Entrop killed the duck on his farm near the city and brought the band, bearing the identification of the United States biological survey to the offices of The Times.

The band number was sent to the biological survey and a reply giving the details of the banding of this particular duck has been received.

Migratory waterfowl each year are banded in large numbers and liberated from 50 stations scattered throughout the country. From the returns of killed ducks and geese, the department carries out important research work in the migrations and life history of North American birds and waterfowl.

Believe Navy to Resume Relations Without Reserve

Report No Strings Attached To Tentative Understanding

NEW YORK, Jan. 2. (AP)—Announcement is expected within the next 10 days that the military and naval academies have signed an agreement to resume athletic relations beginning with the Army-Navy football game next Dec. 3.

Negotiations have been going on for some time and although a report today that an agreement had been reached was denied at Annapolis and termed premature at West Point, it is believed official confirmation will be forthcoming soon.

Major Philip B. Fleming, graduate manager of athletics at West Point, Lieutenant Commander James Mall, who holds the corresponding post at the Naval academy, and Capt. John W. Wilcox, athletic director at Annapolis, held several conferences in New York this week during the meeting of the football coaches and the National Collegiate Athletic association.

It is understood they reached a tentative agreement, which has not yet been ratified by navy officials.

Relations between the two schools were severed in December, 1927, when the Naval academy returned unsigned the contract for the 1928 football game, announcing it would schedule no teams which did not abide by the three-year eligibility rule. Army's position was that so long as a cadet at the Point was in good standing he should not be debarred from its athletic teams and intercollegiate competition.

The terms of the tentative agreement now reached were not learned but it is believed Navy has reversed ist former stand and athletic relations will be resumed with no strings attached.

Hagen Remains Golf's Outstanding Showman

By NAN O'REILLY
International News Service

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Do you know—

That Walter Hagen, as long as a certain manufacturing company uses his name, collects so much per club on all sales made; that he never worries about his income or bills, no matter where he is, as his company looks after such details?

That he was given a block of General Motors stock some years ago by his friend Larry Fisher, told to keep it, sold it for $30,000, and thereby lost a million dollars, but never gives it a thought?

That he is golf's first great showman, the Barnum of the links; that in his worst year (1931) he won the only major championship that had eluded him, the Canadian? That in England they call him "Hagen the Lion," "The Great Hagen," but that in this country he is known as Sir Walter and The Haig? That they admire Bobby Jones in Great Britain but they love Hagen?

That he not only never wears a hat, but he doesn't own one? That on the coldest winter day, he will stand in a duck blind bare-headed and in the thinnest of sweaters, yet never feel the chill? That he is a living example of "What the well-dressed golfer will wear" and that blue-brown and grey-white are his favorite color combinations?

Physical Freak

That he eats anything any time anywhere and has the digestion of a goat; that he drinks anything any time any place; that he is a Harry Greb for punishment; stays out all night before a big championship and smokes and drinks with the boys; that he wanted to be a professional baseball player and would give all his golf titles to hit one of Babe Ruth's home runs?

That he has the laziest voice of any human but never knocks any one even though his eyes are absolutely green? That he eternally complains of lumbago and aching back, yet never offered an alibi in his life; that he has the biggest hands and wrists in captivity and abnormally long arms? That he is 6 feet tall and weighs only 185 pounds despite his top-heavy frame, but that his physique is abnormal, in that his hips are enormous but his legs and thighs lean and lanky? That he was born in Rochester, Dec. 21, 1892?

New Clothes and Cars

That clothes and automobiles must be new, else he isn't interested; that he wastes more time than any living man and has never been known to hurry; that he drives a 16-cylinder car with the radio going full-blast and knows every cop in Detroit? That he always takes a suite in a hotel and has his meals served there and feeds his friends en masse? That he had half his teeth removed last winter to help his golf, but that it didn't help? That he plays his greatest golf when the elements are raging; that if he likes you he'll divide everything he has, even to his golf clubs, with the exception of his famous putter.

That he changes his tie and shirt and sweater after every round and carries dozens of extras to the club with him in a special bag? That he has been married twice, has a son 12 years old, Walter Hagen Jr., who is now in a military school? That the kid is a real "Little Haig" and drives his own auto?

That he is a great dancer and that the gals like him and he likes the gals? That he will bet any amount on anything and has great luck? That he built one of the world's greatest courses at Pasadena, Fla., and saw it grow up in weeds?

That he was beaten by Archie Compston by the greatest possible margin—18 and 17—and that he gave Bobby Jones the greatest licking in his life? That he loves contract bridge, but makes the craziest bids imaginable—and laughs and laughs at bridge and life and golf and everything?

In short, that he is America's greatest contribution to golf?

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 2. (AP)—Tommy Armour, Detroit, recovered from a bad start today to increase his lead in the $2,500 Miami open golf tournament with a stellar 68-71—139 for the 36 holes halfway distance.

Wild Bill Mehlhorn, New York, who captured first money in the 1930 $15,000 La Gorce open tournament, was the only man who could come near the British open champion as today's play ended. He scored a 73 for the day, repeating an earlier score to count 146, seven strokes behind Armour.

Four players were tied in next place with 147's. They were Arnold Bob Gray, Yonkers, N. Y., John Kinder, Caldwell, N. J., Eddie Williams, Cleveland, and Henri Ciuci, Mill River, Conn.

Lee Chase, Buffalo, retained his lead of the simon-pures in the tournament, with 150 for this two days' play.

Joe Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y., defending champion, was well back of Armour with a 149.

By virtue of his lead-tightening victory today, Tommy established himself still further as a favorite to win the opening event of the Florida winter golf season.

Plans Completed For Grade School Football Warfare

Twelve Teams Divided Into Two Districts to Play Round Robins

Completion of plans for a five-week football campaign in the 12 grade schools of Wichita Falls was announced Saturday by Charles Lindsey, assistant Wichita Falls High school mentor, who is directing the new grid activity. Grade school football is being sponsored by the high school athletic department principally to develop material for Coyote teams of the future and to create interest generally in the game, according to Lindsey.

Play in the two round robin schedules begins next week and games are to be played by each team every Friday afternoon for the next five weeks. With one exception, training and practice of the grade school youngsters will be handled by Coyote players of last season's team who are not engaged in basket ball activities, with Lindsey directing the entire organization. R. L. Mauldin, faculty member, is tutoring the San Jacinto gridders.

Lindsey has announced the following appointments of student-coaches:

HOLIDAYS CAUSE SUSPENSION ACTIVITY WICHITA DISTRICT

Voluntary Sunday Shutdown Causes Noticeable Drop in Oil Production During Past Week in Nearby Fields

By JIMMIE MAXWELL

Christmas week in the district was spent in a quiet manner. Very little development was accomplished, as practically all companies shut down their field work until after the yuletide. Many of these operators are at their homes in various portions of the country and no real activities are expected to begin until after their return.

Prior to the holiday a number of wells shut down on the sand, due for completion next week. Eight locations were staked out, Archer, Young, Montague and Denton counties sharing in the number.

Completions were reported in Montague, Young and in the Chalk Hill area of Archer county, all in proven areas, with the exception of the Bridwell Oil No. 1 Brown, a semi-wildcat north of Nocona in Montague county.

Texas Company Warns Stockholders Against 'Gas Tax Racketeers'

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Increasing gasoline taxes and inadequate means of collection have developed systematic and ruthless tax evasions by wholesale and retail marketers in the oil industry, The Texas corporation warns its stockholders today in a statement accompanying dividend checks.

"The Tax Evasion Racket," under which heading the statement is written, "is a double-edged sword, wielded by racketeers against the public and responsible marketers," the corporation declares. "The public suffers in that inferior products are sold at low (tax-free) prices and the road-building program, the ostensible reason for gasoline taxes, is threatened."

"The oil industry is aggressively working toward a solution but we must have the assistance of the industry's stockholders, as well as the public at large," the statement says, adding by implication that money not collected by the states because of gasoline tax evasion must be made up through other tax measures, ultimately burdening the taxpayer with the deficiency arising through the gas tax evasion.

"Vigorous protest should be made to the legislators who have established this tax and who, even now, in many states are considering an increased tax," the stockholders are told. "Either, the tax must be enforced or it must be repealed and if these cannot be effected immediately, the levy must be reduced to such a point that its evasion will not finance 'public enemies.'"

The statement charges that the devious methods of the racketeer have forced some states to guard their navigable waters with armed patrol boats and others to enlist the aid of the state police to cope with the smugglers.

The full statement, signed by the corporation, reads:

How It Works

"While today the press in some parts of the country is calling attention to the 'Gasoline Tax Racket,' we believe that many are not cognizant of its effects and ramifications.

"Briefly stated, increasing gasoline taxes and inadequate means of collection have developed systematic and ruthless tax evasions.

"This is a double-edged sword, wielded by racketeers against the public and responsible marketers. The public suffers in that inferior products are sold at law (tax-free) prices and the road-building program, the ostensible reason for gasoline taxes, is threatened.

"The income of your company and other responsible marketers has been seriously curtailed by this iniquitous competition, which has demoralized retail markets by the splitting of the unpaid tax with unscrupulous or indifferent vendors.

"Many devious ways are being adapted by the racketeer and the unscrupulous dealer to evade payment of this tax. Some of the states have been forced to guard their navigable waters with armed patrol boats. Other states have been obliged to enlist the aid of the state police to cope with smugglers.

"This 'Tax Racketeering' and other racketeering must be stamped out. Otherwise, we shall see an organized criminality of a degree never before encountered in this country. The public-spirited citizen and the investor, desirous of protecting business, should join hands.

"The oil industry is aggressively working toward a solution—but we must have the assistance of the industry's stockholders, as well as the public at large.

"Vigorous protest should be made to the legislators who have established this tax and who, even now, in many states are considering an increased tax. Either, the tax must be enforced or it must be repealed and if these canont be effected immediately, the levy must be reduced to such a point that its evasion will not finance 'public enemies.'

"This program may take some little time, but in the meantime, motorists can, in some measure, work toward their civic duty by acting with extreme caution in the purchase of any gasoline offered at bargain prices."

1000-BARRELER COMPLETED IN TATUMS FIELD

ARDMORE, Okla., Jan 2.—The Carter Oil company No. 2 J. C. Taylor in the northwest corner of 19-1s-2w, on the northeast edge of the Tatums field in northwestern Carter county, was completed this week for 1,022½ barrels of oil during initial 24-hour gauge. The new producer swabbed and flowed during the test. Production was found in sand at 1840-2000 feet. Total depth is 2050 feet in black shale. This is the first completion in this area during the past six months.

The only other test in the Tatums field is the Tatums Oil company No. 1 J. C. Carter in the southwest corner of the northwest of 13-1s-3w. It has derricked completed and is waiting on tools which are expected to be moved in early next week. This test was announced several weeks ago as a Paul Turner operation. The Tatums Oil company is a new concern composed of Duncan and Ardmore operators.

Schermerhorn-Ardmore company No. 1 Bourland-Howard in the northeast of the northwest of the southwest of 1-6s-1e, on the north edge of Love county and about two miles southeast of the old Brock field in south Carter county was drilling below 180 feet in green shale. It is being put down with a machine.

WEEKLY OIL REVIEW

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 2. (UP)—Oil men have accepted the challenge that the destinies of the petroleum industry in 1931 will be determined by their own actions.

With one exception, oil leaders will not seek panaceas as a solution to troublesome problems of overproduction and attendant low prices. Already they have shouldered responsibility of controlling production to equalize supply and demand.

"The state of the industry during 1932 will very largely be determined by the conduct of those engaged in it," M. V. Foster, president of the Indian Territory Illuminating Oil company, said. His comment was typical of most oil company executives.

The Sunday shutdown policy, widely adopted on a voluntary basis in Texas, accounted for the decline. This progress toward curtailment is backed by virtual acceptance by the oil fraternity of proration on a drastic scale. New restriction orders, trimming Oklahoma's production 76,000 barrels to 475,000 barrels, became effective yesterday.

The exception to the apparent policy of the industry shouldering its own burden is the agitation for a tariff on foreign oil importation which comes before congress, probably next week.

Independent operators have gained a tremendous public support of their demand for $1 tariff on imported crude and 50 per cent ad valorem value on refined products, Wirt Franklin, president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, leader in the tariff demand, claimed backing of 100 prominent southwestern business men attending a meeting at Tulsa this week. Franklin believes that domestic producers are entitled to protection for the competition of cheap foreign oil on the grounds of their strenuous efforts to set their own house in order.

Gasoline stocks increased, the institute reported. Total stocks increased 1,263,000 barrels to 37,919,000. Daily average imports rose 38,285 to 187,714 barrels for the week.

THREE BANDITS ROB OHIO BANK OF $4,000

TOLEDO, Ohio, Jan. 2. (UP)—The Waterville Savings bank was robbed of $4,000 today by three well dressed bandits who marched three employes and a customer into an inner office and then escaped in a waiting automobile.

REPAIR GANGS PATCH ONTARIO'S STORM-TORN COMMUNICATION SYSTEM

TORONTO, Jan. 2. (AP)—Struggling in the slush and ice-strewn path of a $300,000 sleet storm, repair gangs sought today to patch the pieces of western Ontario's communications system.

Damage was most severe around Galt, midway between Toronto and London. Power lines torn loose left several centers and countless farm homes without power and light. Thousands of trees went down or were stripped clean of branches. The fruit growing area of the Niagara peninsula reported heavy damage.

Many cars were ditched east of London, while near Caledonia 50 motorists spent the night marooned in a farmhouse.

DRILL 200 NEW OIL PRODUCERS WEST TEXAS

Eighteen Counties Yield Total of 78,610,706 Barrels During Past Year

WILDCAT INDICATES NEW FIELD IN WARD COUNTY

Two Producers Added to Group of World's Deepest Oil Wells

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Jan. 2.—Despite the worst depression the industry has known, West Texas in 1931 added approximately 200 oil wells and staked 169 locations, and over 3,300 wells in 31 areas in 18 counties yielded 78,610,706 barrels, swelling total recovery, largely in the last seven and one-half years, to 522,908,732 barrels. Crude prices changed seven times, dropping from a peak of 79 cents per barrel on the highest grade oil on March 10 to a low of 10 cents on July 8 and returning to 50 cents on Nov. 2.

Principal 1931 developments included the increase in the number of the world's deepest oil wells, in Reagan county, from seven to nine, opening of four new producing areas in southeastern Ward county that closed gaps between established pools and expansion of the Wheat field in Loving county, the Toborg-Tippett in Pecos county and the Royston in Fisher.

John F. Shipley and Byrd & Harmon's No. 1 Monroe in western Ward county was the only wildcat that developed production indicating a new field, although an extreme northwestern Loving county test, Lewis & Slagel's No. 1 Henderson, made a small amount of oil. Evans, Gant and others' No. 1 Love in southwestern Kerr county, first test on the Edwards plateau, to show oil in amount approaching commercial production, late in 1930, gradually failed. It deepened unsuccessfully and several tests near it proved dry. Cranfill and Gulf's No. 1 Tubbs, west central Crane county discovery, failed to revive its brief, high initial flow of early October, 1930, was completed for only 107 barrels and two tests nearby were dusters. For lack of outlets, the Southern Crude Cowden pool in northern Ector county and the Deep Rock field in south central Andrews county, opened late in 1930, remained stationary, each adding but one well.

During most of the year the demand for West Texas crude exceeded the supply and 5,189,147 barrels was withdrawn from storage. Stock on Jan. 1, 1931, was 31,906,866 barrels and room 23,315,194 barrels. On Dec. 1 crude in storage totaled 26,717,659 barrels and room only 24,319,341 barrels. Tanks with a capacity of 1,004,147 barrels had been dismantled, many being moved to East Texas.

While crude prices tobogganed almost to the cost of production and purchasing on gravity scales early was replaced by flat bases, many pumpers and other small producers were shut in and a few were abandoned. Drastic reductions were made in oil company forces in all departments and several offices were closed. Leases on an estimated 1,750,000 acres were dropped during the year, failure to obtain rental reductions being the main cause. In many instances rentals were cut in half. There remains under lease, however, in over 50 counties almost 9,000,000 acres, bringing land owners an enormous cash crop. Until conditions improve renewals in lieu of drilling likely will be the rule.

Deep Well Possibilities

Possibilities of deep production weigh heavily whenever leases are considered, for tests that have drilled to the equivalent of the more than a mile and a half deep horizon from which flow the wonder wells of the Big Lake pool in Reagan county can be numbered on one hand. The influence of those wells dominated wildcatting last year. It caused Stanolind to start a test already down to 6795 feet and M. L. Benedum to spud another, now at 5627 feet, both in Irion county. This paid and two in Schleicher county—J. D. Wesner's No. 1 Nicks, drilling past 5380 feet, and Eastland and others No. 1 Tisdale, at 4510—are among the most important tests being made in the Permian basin at this time.

Two oil pipe lines were laid in West Texas in 1931, a 16-mile carrier by producers from the Pecos valley pool in Pecos county to a junction in Ward county with a larger line to a Wickett refinery, and a 27-mile, 6-inch line by The Texas company from the Big Lake field to a connection in Pecos county with its truck line from New Mexico to the Gulf, to handle up to 25,080 barrels daily for the Big Lake Oil company. A 12-inch line to San Angelo and an 8-inch line to Girvin, completed early in the year for the Texas Public Service company, provide an outlet for a small per cent of the several hundred million cubic feet of gas daily available from the Reagan county deep wells.

The Yates field in Pecos county in 1931 produced 27,473,486 barrels compared with 15,295,954 barrels by Hendrick in Winkler, but Hendrick maintained its lead in total recovery with 154,115,721 barrels, Yates ranking second with 137,916,079 barrels. Church-Fields and McElroy in Crane and Upton counties remained third with 75,508,621 barrels, of which 6,400,636 barrels was produced last year, and the Big Lake field fourth with 59,925,456 barrels, of which 9,562,673 barrels was produced in 1931.

The nine world's deepest wells accounted for approximately 7,000,000 barrels of Big Lake's total yield last year, their total flow of 44 to 63 gravity oil from depths of 8525 to 8940 feet reaching around 10,500,000 barrels. At no time was all on production due to constant experiments to lower gas-oil ratios, including tubing and deepening of six wells to a horizon yielding less gas and more oil of lower gravity than the first deep pay. In one week in April the deep production totaled 173,884 barrels but probably would amount to 125,000 to 150,000 barrels in 24 hours if all the wells were opened wide.

The eighth of the deep wells, Big Lake Oil company's No. 5-C University, was drilled in on Dec. 31, 1930, at 8718 feet and the ninth, Texon (Continental) No. 4-B University, began producing Jan. 14, 1931, bottomed at 8587 feet. Texon No. 4-B blew out March 4 after being tubed and ran wild for three days, stopping trains for awhile. Deepened to 8667 feet, Texon No. 2-B became the prize gusher in the group before being shut in April 6, gauging 11,710 barrels and losing an estimated 8,000 barrels in 24 hours and gauging over 163,000,000 cubic feet of gas. Only one of the deep wells, Big Lake No. 1-C, has shown water and as the year closed was cementing back from 8908 feet. Only one new test, Big Lake No. 6-C, was drilling but three of the producers were deepening.

The Texon, with four deep and 79 shallow (2900 to 3000 feet) wells, and the Big Lake, with five deep and 168 shallow producers, control the Big Lake field, which has been the heaviest contributor to the royalty fund of the University of Texas, now totaling almost $15,000,000. The only other Reagan county field, the Skelly-Utah Southern, with four wells, produced 29,265 barrels in 1931, increasing total recovery to 181,859 barrels.

Proration, which West Texas fathered, further restricted production in 1931. The daily allowable of the Yates field, with 402 wells on 195.9 units of 80 acres each, was reduced from 89,500 to 65,000 barrels, although 24-hour potential dropped only 653,150 barrels to 4,858,052 barrels due to readjustments based on bottom hole pressures.

The Toborg-Tippett shallow pool immediately northwest of Yates added 17 pumpers, 400 to 600 feet deep, last year and its 57 wells made 582,791 barrels for total recovery of 1,028,449 barrels. The Taylor-Link field had no drilling but 60 wells produced 505, 056 barrels, making total recovery 2,544,734 barrels. Wells in the Pecos Valley pool increased from 20 to 27 and yielded 46,021 barrels for total recovery of 118,625 barrels.

With practically all its 480 wells making water, the Hendrick field in Winkler registered a sharper production decline last year than in 1930. Fifty-four wells were abandoned, potential dropped 21,860 barrels to 91,755 barrels daily and daily allowable was cut from 60,000 to 40,000 barrels.

Howard and Glasscock counties, prorated jointly, added 16 wells and their 519 in December, producing from four horizons, had daily potential of 68,685 barrels and daily allowable of 26,000 barrels. The year's production of 9,914,479 barrels advanced total recovery to 42,241,232 barrels. Several Howard county wells were deepened and increased.

The Wentz pool in Upton county and the Gulf McElroy in Crane added a number of wells in 1931. Total potential of 589 wells in the two conties in December was 52,222 barrels and daily allowable 16,700 barrels. The Church-Fields-McElroy areas during the year produced 6,400,636 barrels for total recovery of 75,508,621 barrels; the Waddell pool 13,033 barrels for a total of 47,718 barrels and the McCamey-Taylor field in Upton county 1,903,170 barrels for a total recovery of 21,392,193 barrels.

Wildcat Stakes

The Penn pool in southeastern Ector conty, adding no wells, produced 2,468,926 barrels in 1931, amassing total recovery of 5,684,234 barrels. Its 79 wells in December had total potential 37,972 barrels and were allowed 6,375 barrels daily. Weekley and Casteel & McCurdy's No. 1 Cowden, about five miles northeast of the Penn pool, was one of the Permian Basin's most closely watched tests as the year closed by reason of an estimated several million cubic feet of gas struck from 3790-97 feet.

Production in southeastern Ward county was extended about eight miles west and slightly north from the Grandfalls and Hayzlett areas during 1931 by four wells and subsequent producers around them. Grandfalls, with 43 wells, made 150,712 barrels for total recovery of 180,747 barrels; Hayzlett, 16 wells, 67,120 barrels, total recovery 361,443 barrels; Bennett, four wells, 53,939 barrels, total 127,167 barrels; O'Brien-Hutchins, 21 wells, 979,659 barrels, total 1,827,190 barrels.

The year's only wildcat strike of importance, Shipley and Byrd & Harmon's No. 1 Monroe, in section 3, block 1, W. & N. W. Ry. Co. survey, in western Ward county, headed 150 barrels of 32 gravity, sweet oil every three days from 4606 feet, three feet in the Delaware sand. Casing was run and tubing was to be inserted. The well is about 13 miles southeast of the Wheat field in Loving county, the only heavy producing area from the Delaware in the basin.

Eppenauer No. 1 Salisbury in April extended the Wheat field three-quarters of a mile north. Producers increased from 33 to 55 and the year's yield of 39-41 gravity, sweet oil was 1,233,801 barrels, making total recovery 2,241,077 barrels. Twenty-five miles northwest of the Wheat field, Lewis & Slagel's No. 1 Henderson made 25 barrels of oil daily from 3127-80 feet but had bottom hole water. Another test was being drilled one mile northeast of it.

The Royston field in Fisher county during the year was extended first a quarter mile east, a mile north, Cranfill & Reynolds' No. 2 Flannigan, and opened a new deep pay from 3780 to 3801 feet. Twenty-two wells produced 292,084 barrels for total recovery of 1,463,338 barrels.

The King pool and Noodle Creek's north extension expanded most in Jones county. These areas and the Tiner and Stebbins pools with 89 wells produced 441,581 barrels, making total recovery 4,080,014 barrels. Five Taylor county wells produced 29,269 barrels for a total of 69,593 barrels, six wells in the Ira field in Scurry county made 11,430 barrels, raising total recovery to 49,095 barrels and Runnels county's only producer, Vacuum's No. 3 McMillan, flowed 26,827 barrels, increasing total recovery of the field (two wells having been abandoned) to 114,404 barrels. With no additions, the Westbrook-Iatan field in Mitchell county, the oldest in West Texas, with 140 wells, yielded 690,084 barrels for total recovery of 8,240,815 barrels.

The Powell field in Crockett county was extended one-half mile south. Thirty-six wells produced 49,370 barrels, making total recovery 3,401,545 barrels.

Two producers were added to Irion county's shallow, high gravity, sweet oil field, one marking a three-mile north extension, and nine wells pumping intermittently made 20,340 barrels for total recovery of 44,863 barrels.

J. D. Wesner's No. 1 Nicks in Schleicher, 1¾ miles northeast of Eldorado, in May encountered an oil showing from 4000-06 feet estimated good for 15 to 20 barrels daily, but failed to develop production and drilled ahead.

Mid-Kansas Oil and Gas company's No. 1 M. H. Goode in Terrell county, 33 miles southeast of the Yates pool, struck a gauged 6,500,000 cubic feet of dry, sweet gas at 5606 feet in February, but obtained no increase to 6120 feet, where it was shut in indefinitely.

Crude Oil Runs Drop To Low Season Mark

Crude oil movements from the Wichita Falls district of Texas for the final week of 1931, averaged 49,516 barrels daily, a decrease of 4,362 barrels per day as compared with the previous week's run.

The above figures represent the lowest number of barrels delivered daily during any week in the season of 1931.

Responsibility for this noticeable slump was due directly to the reduction in the greater portion of the wells' output by a Sunday shutdown inaugurated two weeks ago, and a strict proration, both measures being in force to further conserve the output in this district. Below are the runs by pools:

BRITISH JOURNALISM MOURNS SCOTT'S DEATH

LONDON, Jan. 2. (AP)—British journalism mourned today the death of C. P. Scott, editor of the Manchester Guardian, because during 57 years he showed the heights to which journalism based on idealism and humanitarianism can attain. Mr. Scott was 85 years old.

He took the Guardian, then a little provincial newspaper, and made it into a great editorial medium whose voice reached daily around the world. From Scott and his paper the saying grew up: "What Manchester does today, England will think tomorrow."

He was never a popular figure like Lord Northcliffe or like Lord Beaverbrook. A journalist, politician and classical scholar, a stern but quiet fighter, he still remained a simple man, the embodiment of faith in mankind.

Liquor Charge Filed

MUNDAY, Texas, Jan. 2.—W. H. Hornsby and Buck Bales were charged with possession of liquor and ordered held for the grand jury under bonds of $500 each following the seizure of four gallons of whisky at a house here, according to informaion given Saturday by C. R. Elliott, sheriff.

TWO TESTS IN DUNCAN FIELD FIND SHOWINGS

Area Five Miles South and Two West of Duncan Is Hot Spot

FINDING OF PAY WILL MEAN ACTIVE DRILLING

Carter Company Completes Thousand-Barreler in Tatums Field

DUNCAN, Okla., Jan. 2.—Two tests in the area five miles south and two west of Duncan, the hot spot of oil development in this territory, found oil showings during the last week and have casing cemented for tests. Much of the drilling activity of the county depends on the outcome of these two tests. Paying production in either would mean an interesting drilling campaign in the area.

The county had seven active operations at the close of the year. The Carter completed a 1,022-barrel well in the Tatums field of Carter county during the week and tools are being moved in for a wildcat test northeast of that field.

M. C. Brown and associates have cemented casing to test a showing of oil and gas in their No. 1 Thompson, in the NE SE SW of 35-1s-8w, on the east side of the old Empire field and in the new area five miles south and two west of Duncan. Sand was topped at 1676 feet. Total depth is 1669 feet in the sand. Core samples indicated paying production.

P. L. Gilbert and associates have cemented casing in their No. 1 Dare, in the SW NW SE of 2-2s-8w, west and a little south of the J. C. Chambers and associates' No. 1 Dare, completed recently for 100 barrels at 1356-63 feet. Gilbert topped the sand at 1368 feet and drilled into it a foot before setting casing. The Gilbert test is on the section south of the Brown No. 1 Thompson.

The Carter Oil company completed its No. 2 Taylor, in the NW NW NW of 19-1s-2w, on the extreme northeast edge of the Tatums field, of Carter county, and swabbed 1,022 barrels in 24 hours. A series of sands were logged from 1840 to 1990 feet. Total depth is 2040 feet in black shale.

Further Activity

Completion of the No. 2 Taylor as a good producer assures further activity on the northeast side of this prolific field. The new producer has added importance because it is offset on the south by a dry hole.

The Mid-Kansas and Ramsey Petroleum companies failed in another effort to get production at deeper levels in their No. 6 Preston-Culp, in the NW NE NE of 8-5n-9w, deep test in the Cement field of Caddo county which was carried to 10,080 feet in search of the Wilcox sand.

The hole was plugged back to 6780 feet and a sand from 6720 to 6780 shot with 80 quarts of nitro but nothing showed except mud and water. The hole is being plugged back again to test a showing between 6000 and 6200 feet.

The Continental Oil company has cemented surface casing in its No. 1 Dare, in the NE SW SE of 2-2s-8w, a south offset to the J. C. Chambers, et al., No. 1 Dare, in the area southwest of Duncan.

Wildcat Near Loco

George L. Pace was drilling at 100 feet in his No. 1 Mullins, in the center of the SW SW of 35-2s-5w, a wildcat being drilled a mile northwest of the town of Loco, in Stephens county.

H. J. Brown and associates were shut down, repairing machinery, at their No. 2 Hightower, in the SW SW NE NE of 15-3s-5w, in the shallow field southwest of Loco. Sand was found from 900 to 950 feet but a fishing job has held up a test.

Will H. Smith was shut down at 797 feet, repairing machinery, at his No. 1 Ridgeway, in the NW NE SE of 17-3s-4w, a wildcat two miles south and two east of Loco.

Cohen and Reece are rigging up rotary tools for their No. 1 Green in the SE SW SW of 35-2n-9w, a test for gas to be drilled in semi-proven territory, six miles north and nine west of Duncan.

B. F. Lundy and associates are moving in tools for their No. 1 Morris-Luster, in the NE NW SW of 8-1s-2w, a wildcat to be drilled a mile and a half northeast of the Tatums field of Carter county.

The Tatum Oil company's No. 1 Carter-Hooks, in the SW SW NW of 13-1s-3w, just north of the Tatums field, is a completed derrick and shut down.

Joe Anderson was rigging up tools for his No. 2 Wild, in the NE SE SE of 28-3n-5w, in the Carter-Knox field of southern Grady county and just north of the Stephens county line.

WEALTHY OIL MAN AND HIS TWO DAUGHTERS END LITIGATION OVER ESTATE

WICHITA KAN., Jan. 2. (INS)—A settlement had been reached today between Joseph H. Porter, 75-year-old wealthy oil and cattle man, and his two daughters, who sued for an accounting of trust estates which they charged he was squandering.

The action of the daughters, Mrs. Earl W. Youngmeyer, Wichita, and Mrs. Oreta Palmer, Pittsburgh, Pa., followed annulment by Porter of a marriage license obtained by Mrs. Eleanor Torrey, 37-year-old divorcee, in the names of Porter and herself.

Under the terms of the settlement the daughters will receive an equal division of bonds and securities of approximately $900,000 par value and a 9,000-acre ranch in Greenwood and Elk counties, valued at approximately $250,000. Porter will retain a life interest in the ranch and reserved for himself a large ranch in New Mexico and another in Kansas.

The daughters charged in their petition that their father during the last 10 years had "squandered large sums in secret marriage and divorce and in costly complications with other women."

BUSINESS SHAPING ITSELF FOR SEASONAL JANUARY UPSWING

Year-End Predictions Point Out Necessary Groundwork Being Laid For Early Return of Prosperity

CURB PRICES MAKE POOR SHOWING FOR NEW YEAR TRADING

NEW YORK, Jan. 2. (AP)—The curb market made rather a poor showing in the year's first session today.

Except for a efw minutes at the opening when some recovery was made, leading shares were mostly under light selling pressure and small net losses were well distributed through the list at the close. Trading, however, was very dull and the day's transfers approximated only 140,000 shares.

American Commonwealths Power issues reflected the receivership by reacting to nominal quotations, while the 6½ per cent preferred closed 4½ lower at 4½. Electric Bond & Share traded actively and was lower throughout the greater part of the two hours, closing with a loss of ⅝. Commonwealth Edison and Northern States "A" were also heavy, but Consolidated Gas or Baltimore rallied.

Specialties traded infrequently and some of the more volatile shares failed to open. Aluminum of America was down 4 points on a relatively small volume offerings. New Mont Mining and New Jersey Zinc sold off more than a point.

Coldman Sachs trading encountered profit-taking on Thursday's rise which preceded announcement that Atlas Utilities had acquired a substantial interest in the company. Atlas was steady.

Dry Goods Market

NEW YORK, Jan. 2. (AP)—Primary dry goods markets were quiet today with most of the attention of traders given to closing the books for the past year.

Percales have been priced on a basis of 10¼c for jobbers, of 4-yard 80 squares, and 11⅛c for retailers. Cutters will buy at 10c. Efforts are still under way to restrict the output of sheets and pillow cases and print cloths. Wool goods were inactive. Silk showed a little firmness, with silk goods in better demand. Rayon prices will remain unchanged.

M'KINLEY AND BARTON MOVE TO 10TH AND OHIO

The McKinley and Barton company has moved its produce business from 505 Tenth street to the corner of Tenth and Ohio. The company deals in produce, poultry and eggs.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.(UP)—American business entered the new year today. Restrained optimism was apparent in year-end forecasts of various business and banking heads. They pointed out that the necessary groundwork for a new prosperity was being formed rapidly. The principal element lacking, they said, was confidence.

Confidence will be supplied as soon as it becomes apparent banking difficulties are ended. Failures have been smaller in recent weeks. Hopes are entertained they will decrease further.

While there are no surface indications of a miraculous return to prosperity, business is shaping itself for the seasonal January upswing that inevitably follows the year-end industrial shut-downs. Steel and automobile operations both will be stepped up materially next week. The improvement will be felt all along the line.

Whether the early January movement will be lasting will depend largely upon events over the next few weeks. The automobile industry upon which rests a large portion of the economic welfare of the country, is proceeding cautiously. It is prepared to step up operations sharply.

New Ford Model

Much interest attaches to the prospective new Ford Motor model. Trade papers indicate it is an "eight" ready for delivery early in the spring. Quantity production of such a car would swell industrial operations immediately and force the rehiring of thousands of workers throughout the country to produce materials.

Railroads enter the new year with improved prospects. On Monday the 3 to 4 per cent freight rate increase, designed to swell railroad revenues from $100,000,000 to $125,000,000 annually, goes into effect. Later in the month active negotiations will be resumed to effect the proposed 10 per cent reduction in wages.

The oil industry is cheered by the current Sunday shutdown movement that already has clipped more than 100,000 barrels off the weekly crude oil production figures and brought production more in line with actual needs.

Retail and wholesale merchants, on the other hand, having shared fully in the Christmas buying season, are suffering from the usual after-holiday buying slump.

Financial affairs enter the new year slightly improved. A check on the liquidation of leading stocks and bonds came last week. Better markets are predicted in many quarters. Much, however, will depend upon developments in foreign countries.

Southwest Review

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 2. (UP)—While the usual year-end slackening of activity marked business in the Southwest this week, a number of factors improved the outlook in the agricultural regions.

An increase of 19.7 per cent in the fall pig crop, or a total of four and one-half million head, should bring the aggregate amount of hogs on farms for the first of the year around 57 million, or about 600,000, short of last year, a local authority reported.

The wheat market emerged from the recent rut and scored an upturn of more than a point. Buying incentive was found in adverse harvesting and threshing advices from South America and light receipts at domestic markets.

Abnormally mild weather with general ample soil moisture in the main wheat belts resulted in continued growth, the United States department af agriculture reported.

The petroleum industry was mostly steady, with crude prices remaining firm. The refined market was somewhat ruffled in Oklahoma but in general refiners anticipated better demand for gasoline in the immediate future.

Wholesale and retail trade for the holiday season made good showings. Most reports indicated sales equaled the 1930 mark.

Zinc shipments for 1931 totaled 232,608 tons, the smallest in 33 years. Lead shipments dropped to 26,787, the lowest level since 1899. The combined shipment value of both metals totaled almost $6,500,000, the smallest in more than 33 years.

Octogenarians Plan Duel

LONDON, Jan. 2. (AP)—Never too old to play 18 holes is the motto of S. T. Lancaster and T. S. Pattison. Lancaster, 83, was challenged by Pattison, 82, to a round of golf and promptly accepted. They plan to play it off next March, when the weather's milder.

REACTIONARY TREND FOR STOCK MARKET PRICES NEAR LOWS

NEW YORK, Jan. 2. (AP)—The change in the calendar wrought no magic on stocks today. After a very brief period of steadiness at the opening, a quiet market became distinctly reactionary and closed the first session of the new year with average prices again flirting with the 1931 lows.

Because many traders were out of town for a long week-end brokerage circles were unwilling to pass too hasty a judgment on the market's performance, disappointing though it undoubtedly was. Many stocks traded thinly, but a number of leaders reached new lows for the bear cycle. Transfers totaled 722,440 shares. The standard statistics—Associated Press composite sagged 2.4 points to 62.1 against the Dec. 17 minimum of 61.3.

Bonds were inclined to be heavy, although U. S. governments displayed a firm tone. Foreigns were irregular, Argentines rallying briskly.

Considerable liquidation cropped out in sections of the stock list. American Telephone tumbled more than 4 to within a fraction of the recent low. American Can sold at the lowest since 1927, off 2¼ net, while General Motors, Westinghouse and Western Union reached record lows for the present stocks. The automobile group may have been discouraged by a feeling that the outlook for new business at the yearly shows was unfavorable.

U. S. steel reacted to 36⅝ but firmed slightly at the close, finishing at 37⅛, off 1½. Consolidated Gas, General Electric, National Biscuit, Case, Woolworth, Loew's, American Tobacco "B" and Union Carbide were down 1 to 2. Du Pont broke 4 and Auburn ended the day 6 points off, although it had been 3 higher.

Rail stocks, on the other hand, were reasonably steady, lagging behind most other groups in the matter of declines. Wall street feels that the carriers' financial horizon is somewhat cleared and that the freight rate increase, effective on Monday, as well as any wage readjustments effected, will substantially improve operating conditions. Santa Fe dropped 3 points and Union Pacific lost a rise of similar extent.

The steel industry is starting the new year very quietly. Neither inquiry nor prices show important signs of immediate clarification for leading consumers continue to mark time. Production activity has rallied from the Christmas lull but seems little more than able to hold its own. "Steel" said a further slight gain was indicated for next week; Youngstown district operations will be anchanged at 32 per cent of capacity.

Year-end bank statements, as expected, are notable for the greater liquidity of the reporting institutions. Cash and holdings of government securities generally reveal substantial gains, while loans and discounts are off.

Foreign exchanges are quiet. Firmness in the British pound, the French franc and the Canadian dollar was somewhat contrary to custom, since there is usually a reaction after the completion of Dec. 31 adjustments.

Commodity markets were closed.

BOND MARKET LAGS DOMESTICS LOWER GOVERNMENT FIRM

NEW YORK, Jan. 2. (AP)—Interest in the bond market lagged today with the result that irregularity prevailed in the thinnest sort of trading.

Although various domestic issues fluctuated uncertainly, some dropping a number of points on a few sales, United States government obligations maintained a firmness that made for orderliness throughout the list.

Sales for the day totaled $5,339,000 and the average for 60 corporate securities fell 2-10 of a point.

The rails, which recently have given indications of climbing to upper brackets, dropped some of their gains. Losses of fractions to several points were recorded by some loans of Atchison, Baltimore & Ohio, Rock Island, Erie, Great Northern, Illinois Central, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Pennsylvania, St. Louis & San Francisco, and Wabash. Advances were made, however, by Atlantic Coast Line, Chesapeake & Ohio, Southern Pacific and Union Pacific.

The industrials closed about the same as Thursday. Armour & Co. loans dropped from 2 to 2½ points after announcement of a big drop in the company's earnings. The utilities were down slightly, International Telephone Convertible 4½s displaying weakness. Postal Telegraph 5s also sold down.

Prices of foreign bonds were mixed. The German 7s and 5½s were down from 2 to 5 points. The Argentine list, however, sold from fractions to 4⅝ points higher. Chile liens also moved upward. Japanese loans were firm.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 2. (AP)—(USDA)—Cattle trade during the week under review was featured by a fairly liberal movement of short fed steers while other killing classes and stockers and feeders were marketed sparingly. Packers were unable to enforce price declines the forepart of the week on fed steers but a reaction on late session left values at most centers 25c or more higher than last week's close. Trade on fed steers was marked by a slipping of the demand from strong weight kinds to the lighter weights. Short fed light yearlings and fed heifers are 25@75c higher for the week and substantial upturns were also recorded on fat cows. Stockers and feeders are quoted firm to 25c higher but the supply was too small to make a fair test of market conditions. Aggregate receipts at 11 markets totaled around 133,800, an increase of 61,000 over last week and 10,000 short of the corresponding period a year ago.

Hogs are unevenly weak to 30c lower as compared with Thursday of last week, strong weight butchers taking the big end of the decline. St. Louis had a late top of $4.75. Supply were 210,000 heavier than last week and 25,000 in excess of a year ago.

Fat lambs opened the week on a lower price basis but upturns on late days left values firm to 25c higher with last week's close. Mature killing classes and feeding lambs ruled steady to strong. Receipts approximating 279,000 were 100,000 more than last week and 50,000 heavier than a year ago.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2. (AP)—Congress today prepared for prompt consideration of America's most important peace time economic legislation upon the resumption of sessions Monday.

The $500,000,000 reconstruction finance corporation asked by President Hoover gets the call in the senate next week while the Democratic house gets started on the vital tariff and tax increase measures.

Almost every congressional committee will go to work during the next six days with the whole gamut of federal legislative possibilities up for discussion.

Hearings will be begun in the senate on the controversial naval program and prohibition. Studies of foreign bond flotations will be resumed. House committees will take up agriculture relief and rivers and harbors plans.

The all important Democratic policies on the tariff and taxes will be formulated at meetings of the party leaders beginning Monday. The Democratic controlled house is prepared to drive through the party's tariff proposal before the end of the week. It will then get to taxes.

Committees at Work

The senate banking committee holds the burden of the more pressing economic problems and Chairman Norbeck has called it to get to work again on Tuesday.

Subcommittees have reached decisions on the reconstruction corporation and on the measure to increase the capitalization of the federal land banks by $100,000,000.

Prompt reports of these two gigantic propositions for infusing new life into the nation's credit fabric were promised today by Senator Norbeck. Strong bi-partisan support for each is in prospect.

Norbeck said he expected the banking committee to give precedence to the reconstruction corporation by which President Hoover hopes to aid the railroads and support the whole national financial structure.

The committee, however, is prepared to guard more closely than was at first proposed the availability of federal reserve facilities for discounting paper of this corporation.

Senate action before the end of the week is believed certain for the reconstruction corporation. House leaders are ready to give it prompt consideration also.

The house already has passed the federal land bank recapitalization measure and new millions for this form of agriculture assistance will be flowing from the treasury before the end of the month.

Meanwhile, the drive will be resumed in the house appropriations committee for drastic economy in next year's government expenses.

Money Bills

The first of the regular appropriation measures will be taken up by the house Monday—the first deficiency bill supplying emergency funds to meet added expenditures for this year.

Pending receipts of the reconstruction finance measure later in the week, the senate will have a few more days to ballot on the deadlock over reelection of Senator Moses, Republican, of New Hampshire, as president pro tem. No break in this contest is in sight. It is the order of business in the senate.

Hearings will be resumed Monday by the LaFollette committee on the controversial proposals to contribute millions from the treasury for unemployment aid. Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania has been called by Senator LaFollette as one of the witnesses. He opposes President Hoover and favors direct federal aid.

The prohibition contest facing congress is going to have to await disposition of the urgent economic legislation. However, on Friday a senate committee headed by Senator Metcalf, Republican, of Rhode Island, will open hearings on measures to permit the manufacture of beer.

On Wednesday the dispute over building up America's navy comes up for reconsideration by the senate naval committee. Secretary Adams is the first witness to be heard on Chairman Hale's bill to authorize construction of the fleet up to the limits allowed by the London treaty.

OUR SEMI-ANNUAL STATEMENT

A Statement We Are Proud of!

IT PROVES WITHIN ITSELF THE ELEVATED POSITION OF THE ASSOCIATION

In addition to distributing a dividend on July 1, 1931 of more than $66,000.00 the association has increased its reserves and undivided profits account during the year by $126,803.70.

As you already know, it has always been the policy of the executive board to seek wide distribution of loans, in no case concentrating an overly large investment in any one city or group of cities in one locality. Consequently, we have an ideal situation in this respect, as our loan field includes some of the best cities in Northwest Texas. That the judgment of the board has been justified in this action is evidenced by the fact that the association owns no real estate in all that territory comprising the Panhandle of Texas, where close to one-third of the assets of the association are located.

CONSUMPTION OF LAMB MEAT INCREASES IN U. S.

CHICAGO, Jan. 2. (AP)—More lamb meat was eaten last year than ever before, William Whitfield Woods, president of the Institute of American Meat Packers, said last night.

Woods said there was a slight increase in the consumption of meat in the United States last year.

Consumption of pork in 1931 was slightly larger, he reported, while the amount of beef and veal eaten showed little change from the figures for 1930.

Penney Store With New Manager Has Gain in Business

J. F. LUTE

An enviable record of increasing sales to 30 per cent above the store's quota for December and at the same time showing an appreciable increase for December, 1931, over December, 1930, is the one enjoyed by J. F. Lute, new manager of the J. C. Penney store in Wichita Falls.

Mr. Lute, who came to Wichita Falls from Stillwater, Okla., has managed Penney stores for the last 29 months without falling below his assigned quota level. His record for continually increasing his store's business was made during the "so-called depression period."

He credits the newspapers here for assistance in his campaign to increase the business of the store.

Since Mr. Lute took control Dec. 6, 18 persons have been added to the sale force, and he plans to add several more to that department after the first of the coming week.

To aid his campaign to cover the store's quota, Mr. Lute has received a large quantity of stock for sale this year, all of which was placed on the floor Saturday, Jan. 2.

A strong belief in better business conditions is indicated by the fact that he has signed for a 1932 quota twice as great as that the store had last year.

"Low price on quality merchandise is expected to continue a promising business during 1932," Mr. Lute declared. "Such an expected increase depends entirely on keeping prices at the lowest possible point.

"It is necessary that a rapid turnover take place, due to the fact that retail prices are at a low level.

"Results of popular prices on quality merchandise will be increased employment and stabilization of prices on a new basis."

Outlines for the following lessons have been prepared for use in the public schools: Milk, breakfast, fruits, cereals, proteins, minerals and digestion. These outlines are a teaching guide for each of the topics mentioned and state the principles to be developed, the problem as it will appear to the child with subject matter and activities for use in presenting the lesson. Each lesson is graded to the school level or the child and employs the same principles of teaching as would a lesson in arithmetic or reading. The ultimate goal of the lesson is to influence the conduct of the child that he may assume habits of eating that will be conducive to health.

The regular monthly meeting of the nutrition committee will be held Wednesday of this week at 9:30 a. m. at the office of H. D. Fillers, superintendent of schools. Plans for the second half of the year will be discussed.

Buy Intelligently is the name of a recent publication by the General Federation of Women's Clubs. This publication outlines for club discussions, material and suggestions which may assist the consumer in a more intelligent choice of foods, clothing, household furnishing and equipment. It is issued from the division of family finance of the department of the American home whose chairmen are respectively, Dr. Josephine L. Pierce and Mrs. John D. Sherman.

Evaporated milk is whole milk that has undergone evaporation processes until about half of the water is removed before sealing the can. Condensed milk is whole milk to which sugar has been added and then about half of the water has been removed before sealing in the can. The evaporated milk may be used in any way that whole milk is used and equals the same as the whole milk from which it was made if an equal amount of water is added to it after pouring from the can. The condensed milk may be used in any food that requires as much sugar as is found in the milk. The same amount of water may be added to it as to the plain evaporated to dilute it to whole milk equivalent.

Good teeth come as the result of good development, especially that development which occurs during prenatal life, is the opinion of the prominent dentists and doctors working on the problem of dental decay at the present time. The theory that the use of soft food in the diet caused decay does not seem to have much scientific evidence. The overuse of sweets may be a cause in poor dental structure since it crowds out of the diet the building foods needed for good teeth structure. The tooth is built of substances the same as the bones, muscles or other tissues. The special tooth tissue requires much minerals, especially lime. While some of the workers have disagreed in part on the cause of dental caries the fact remains that all of them have recommended diets fairly adequate for the general nutritional needs of the individual. In instances where caries have been best cared for an adequate and well-balanced diet was used. A group of workers in Michigan succeeded in controlling caries in three large groups of children by the use of a simple inexpensive diet within to food budget of the average family. While dietary studies appear promising there are other factors of major importance such as heredity, age, bodily health and constitutional characteristics.

AIDE TO 'SECRET SIX' TO HELP IN CAMPAIGN AGAINST OMAHA GANG

OMAHA, Jan. 2. (UP)—Don L. Kooken, Garrett, Ind., who assisted Chicago's "Secret Six" in its battle against gang warfare, was here today to lead a similar campaign against the alleged liquor syndicate which has created a reign of terror by killing six persons and attacking many others.

Kooken, who was an assistant to Alexander Jamie, chief investigator in Chicago, came at the invitation of Police Commissioner Roy N. Towl.

Along with Kooken's arrival came rumors that Gen. William McDaniel Rowan, federal prohibition administrator for Nebraska, is to be displaced here by George C. Parsons of Fort Dodge, Iowa. Amos W. W. Woodcock, national administrator, who came here to investigate charges of inefficiency against Rowan had been visited later by Harry Lapidus, prominent politician, in Washington. A short time later Lapidus was killed. Lapidus had asked that Robert Samardick be reinstated as head of prohibition work here.

Otis Rogers, of Fort Worth, chief defense counsel, was here Saturday and conferred with Sam B. Spence concerning the record which was later approved by the court. The Alsup case was transferred here on a change of venue from Tarrant county.
