Court Clears Right-Of-Way Across County

Total Cost To County Is $32,225 As Commissioners End Disputes

Hasie Optimistic

Senator C. C. Small And Engineer To Leave For Austin To Aid Work

Following a ten hour session Tuesday, the Commissioners Court announced, with one exception through the City of Wellington, that the right-of-way for the highway under construction across this county had been secured from the Childress County line to the Wheeler County line. The announcement dismissed doubts concerning the construction of the road because federal aid might be withheld until the right-of-way was clear. The meeting lasted until 6.30 p.m. Tuesday evening and the commissioners, who have been faced with a problem for the past 20 days, left the meeting in good humor, expressing a hope that the work might be continued in the immediate future. The entire right-of-way has cost the county $32,225, which will almost complete the cost of the entire road to this county.

Two Projects Complete

The contracts on the south to Childress county and on the north to Salt Fork have already been practically completed with all of the bridges in and the grading up to specifications. These contracts were paid from federal and state funds and totaled $58,000.

Senator Clint C. Small and Resident Engineer C. L. Hasie will leave Thursday for Austin, where they plan to meet with highway officials and do everything possible toward the letting of the bridge, grading and drainage work on the project north from Salt Fork to the Wheeler County line.

Showers Break Heat Wave Over County Monday

Wellington And Southwest Portion Of County Benefit From Rain

Sections Dry

North And Western Sections Receive Little Rain As Crops Suffer

Showers fell over portions of Collingsworth County Monday afternoon, bringing welcome relief from a heat wave of several days duration, which caused discomfort to the persons of this section, but delayed and burned the young crops over the entire county. Before the rain Monday the thermometer stood, each day, above the 100 degree mark, and since the rain, has been around the 90 degree point.

Record .65 Inch Rain

Wellington and the southwest portion of the county received more rain than other sections. In town, the rainfall measured .65 of an inch and fell in less than 30 minutes as many persons sought protection in the cellars and business men gathered in groups to discuss the black clouds that hovered over the town.

Persons living in the Houselog community also sought the protection of cellars as the heaviest rain in the county fell over that section, which exactly one year and 10 days previously was almost completely wiped out by a twisting cyclone which left a trail of wreckage through the community. The rain was also reported to have extended back to the Hall county line.

Communities north and west of town reported light showers where any rain was recorded at all. Very little rain, or none at all, was reported north and west of the Blue Front Filling Station, two miles north of town. A. D. Rainey said there was no rain at all in the vicinity of the Lutie community.

Dodsonville reported a heavy sand storm, but no rain. Fresno reported light showers, sparsely scattered between that community and the Loco community.

From Loco toward Childress, showers were reported but were said to be generally light and scattered.

Forestry Camps Will Take Three Local War Vets

Collingsworth County To Have 32 Representatives In Reforestation Work

No Relief Work

Other Relief Activity At Standstill As No Federal Money Arrives

Three World War veterans from Collingsworth County will be allowed to attend the National Reforestation camps, according to word received this week by Miss Katherine Boverie.

"This phase of the reforestation work is being conducted through the Red Cross and the number representing each county is based upon the population of the county," Miss Boverie said. "Notice has been given that veterans with dependents will be given preference and the local office has already written for blanks. All veterans will be eligible to apply for these positions, but only three may go from this county."

"The nature of the work to be done by these men in the camps has not been released as yet and we have no idea at all as to where they will be stationed."

The three men chosen from this county will bring the total to 32 men from here, with 29 local boys already in training at Ft. Sill, Oklahoma.

The Reforestation Camps in Texas represented the only form of national aid being received in the county at this time as the Federal Relief money for May has already been used and no allotment has been made for June.

"We received a letter this week asking if we still needed the amount requested, $3,900 for the month of June," Miss Boverie said, "but the question of getting any money at all is still pending upon any appropriation which may be made to this state."

Meetings will be held at Childress and Pampa, Friday, where the National Reconstruction Act will be explained and a large number of Wellington persons plan to attend one of these meetings. Special invitations have been received by the Commissioners Court, City Council, Chamber of Commerce, Relations Committees, West Texas Chamber of Commerce director and Red Cross organizations to attend the meeting.

Kidnappers Of Local Officers Still At Large

Associated Press Tries To Establish Tahoka Jail Escapes As Captors

Machine Guns

Notorious Barrow Brothers Identified As Men Who Captured Officers

In a special message to The Leader, Associated Press today tried to establish identity of Vowell and Dick, Tahoka jail escapes, as kidnapers of Sheriff Geo. T. Corry and City Marshal Paul Hardy. Both officers denied any similarity between pictures of jail escapes and the men who held them captives from 11:40 Saturday night until 3:35 Sunday morning.

Sheriff Corry also stated that the identity of their captors checked with the pictures of Clarence Barrow and Ivy (Buck) Barrow and stated that the men told him of taking Joe Johns, a Carlsbad deputy, for a ride.

Forget License Plates Both officers also said that their captors cursed fluently and frequently because they left license plates for Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Kansas in the wrecked car—and were afraid that the plates would disclose their proposed route. Reports today showed the captors of the two officers still at large.

After a hectic night, which included a mid-night ride held as captives of two desperate bandits, whom they identified as Clyde Champion Barrow and his brother, Ivy Barrow, both of West Dallas, Sheriff Geo. T. Corry and City Marshal Paul Hardy returned to Wellington Sunday afternoon tired and exhausted from the strenuous night.

Sheriff Corry and Mr. Hardy feared that they did not especially star for their lives at any time after the bandits took them and that the most dangerous moment was probably when they first faced the two machine guns at the Steve Pritchard home.

Threatened With Death Corry also stated that a confederate joined the bandits near Sayre and asked Clyde Barrow, "What are we going to do with these men, kill them?" Barrow replied, "No, I have been with them so long that I am beginning to kind of like them."

Both Corry and Hardy stated

Child Wonder Will Appear In Wellington

Little Doris June Bayles, child wonder, is to make a public appearance in Wellington. This diminutive child wonder, five years of age, and small in stature to those years, has amazed many audiences in her brief career. Her enunciation is said to equal any adult, giving difficult readings without the aid of a prompter, singing snappy songs with the personality of grown-up professionals, doing dance routines with the brilliance of the most noted artists. According to Manager Bonner of the Ritz Theatre, she has baffled audiences since she was a baby with her mentality. Mr. Bonner has known this child prodigy since birth, and says that during his twenty-nine years in theatre work, has never seen her equal.

No performance has been given on the Ritz stage that will be of such interest to parents and children, as the appearance of this dainty little blond. She has many changes of costume, especially designed for her various routines. Her readings will classify her as a regular monologist. Her dance routine includes tapping, Oriental and acrobatic, all presented in gorgeous costumes and color effects. So far as is known she is the only child her age in the United States ever attempting Adagio dance classics. She has a juvenile dance partner for this difficult presentation, about four years her senior. He is Joe Bean, just a little boy who is distinguishing himself with the graces that many a man would be proud to have the same honors.

Special Privileges To Parties
Since this juvenile performance is of special interest to children, Manager Bonner has announced that line parties will be given special prices. Line parties of ten or more children, together with their sponsor, will be admitted to the special children's matinee performance at 5 cents each. Mr. Bonner stated that this was done as a matter of social cooperation, hoping to make the event one of outstanding success as a community affair. These child performers will be presented on Thursday, June 22. Special matinee and one night performance.

Six Months Good Time Given For Kansas Convicts

A six months good time allowance for approximately 1,000 convicts who did not avail themselves of an opportunity to participate in the Memorial Day break from Kansas penitentiary was announced recently by Gov. Alf M. Landon.

The reward was announced by the Governor after investigation, he said, had shown a lack of discipline, organization and equipment at the penitentiary at the time eleven convicts escaped, kidnaping Kirk Prather, then warden, and two guards, all later released.

Simultaneously, Lacey Simpson, the new warden, announced he had had a conference with all penitentiary officers Thursday night and that "it is distinctly understood that under no circumstances shall a guard permit a prisoner to go through a gate, tower or over the wall."

The six-month good time allowance will apply only to those prisoners having a minimum sentence of more than one year.

"There were not enough guns available, and there wasn't ammunition for the guns that were available," Governor Landon said. "Inspection Friday morning revealed a shotgun in the hands of a guard couldn't be broken open. "Another thing there have been ropes hanging from the towers, used for lifting materials, the furnished an avenue of escape. These ropes must be replaced by light cords that will not lift a man."

Houston Lad Is Judged As Texas Most Intelligent

Scholastic honors are worth worth $4,500 to Garfield H. Horn, 13-year-old high school boy from Houston, who won the scholarship offered by the Culver Military Academy of Culver, Indiana. The award entitled the lad to three years in the noted military academy with practically all expenses paid.

Robert Gilcrease, 14, of Corsicana was selected as first alternate and Sam D. Levenson, 13 of El Paso, second alternate. Dr. Fred C. Ayer of the University of Texas, Austin was chairman of a committee of noted Texas educators which selected the candidates for the scholarship to a series of the most advanced mental, psychiatric and physical examinations to determine the most intelligent and adaptable youth for the generous award.

Horn, the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Alvin L. Horn of Houston is in the ninth grade of Sam Houston high school. The scholarship entitles him to three years in the noted boys' preparatory school. Long Distance Walker, 92, Dies In California

A human machine who knew no fatigue, Dan O'Leary, long distance walker, died far short of the 120 years he expected to live.

Disease and the natural toll of age struck him down recently in a Los Angeles hotel where he was spending the summer. In another month he would have been 92.

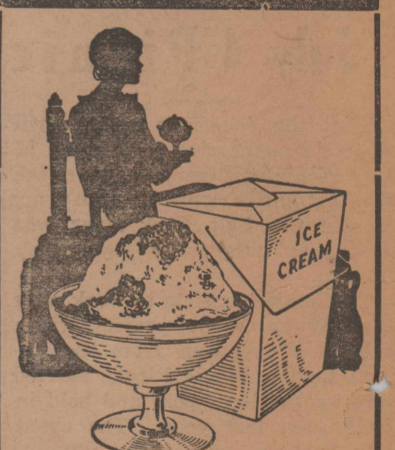

Death was due to hardening of the arteries. He scorned steady attention from a doctor, in spite of a developing tumor on his hip, but 10 days ago he admitted that his finely conditioned muscles perhaps needed the care of a physician.

O'Leary's heels were his fame while the rest of the world took to wheels. At 35 he began walking 100 miles on his birthday, and he kept it up until his 90th birthday. At the age of 80 he started visiting every state capital afoot and only a few of them had he failed to see at the time of his death.

Friends said he outlived his only son by 10 years, but he leaves two daughters, several grandchildren and great grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements were held in abeyance pending word from relatives.

Held up by bandits, John Clark of Boston offered to take them home with him and get them some money.

Consider These Points

If you have tried our new Summer gas, you know its qualities and merits . . . think over these points:

1. This new Summer Gasoline is refined from crude oil produced in the Panhandle of Texas—and every dollar paid for this gasoline is re-spent in the Panhandle.
2. The LABOR used to refine this gas is chosen from Panhandle men; the men who drill the wells and pump the crude are also Panhandle men.
3. Panhandle men know the atmospheric, weather and road conditions in the Panhandle—and refine this gasoline to suit these conditions and this particular climate.

When you buy this Summer Gasoline at Gillentine's Station you not only get a superior product, but you help the people of this county and of the Panhandle of Texas.

LOW PRICE CARS VS. CHEAP CARS

We do not build a low-price car: the cost to us of building our car is pretty high.

But we do sell a high quality car at a low price.

Almost every new Ford V-8 car we have built so far this year, has cost more to manufacture than its selling price was. As you buy them at only $490 to $610, we have to depend on increasing volume to make up the difference.

The reason for this is simple: — a manufacturer who gives good value must expect to lose money on the first cars he sells because he cannot charge all his costs to the people who are first to buy.

But with the purchaser it is different — he cannot afford to lose anything on a car. It must give him full value from the first, and keep on giving him full value for years.

Two things make possible our combination of low prices and high cost quality:

1. Volume Production
2. Taking only one profit

First, we set our price at what would be fair to the public on the basis of economies we enjoy in volume production. Then, in order to justify and maintain our low price we must get volume sales.

Thus it comes that a car which is really high-cost to make, is also low-cost to buy.

There is a difference between a cheap car and a low-priced high quality car.

Ford prices are always fixed at a point which makes it profitable for a customer to buy.

Good and lasting business must produce profit to the buyer as well as to the seller. And of the two, the buyer's profit must be, comparatively, the larger one.

It pays you to sell the Ford V-8 because it pays you to buy it.

MULE IS BACK

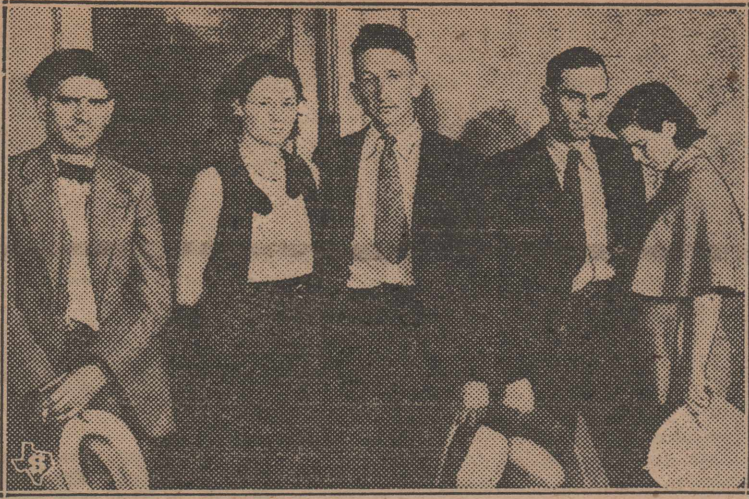

H. F. Mosley's mule came back after two and one-half years.

Mosley in 1930 drove a bunch of mules to a pasture in Wheeler County, north of Mobeetie. He returned some time later to claim his mules, but one was missing. Recently the prodigal "came home."

He is in pretty good condition and seems glad to be back," Mosley said.—Amarillo News.

Canada has about 500,000 acres of forest land, more than 50 per cent of which is favored with timber of merchantable size.

Kidnapper and Pals Nabbed

These three men and two women were caught at Amarillo following the sensational kidnaping of Mary McElroy, in Kansas City, and the payment by her father of $30,000 ransom. The case attracted nationwide attention. From left to right they are: Walter H. McGee, ring leader, who says he is "a cross between a barbed wire fence and a s....."; Lenore and Lawrence Gilbert; Wendell and Hazel Johnson. McGee said he was taking the two couples on a pleasure trip, but that in reality, he needed them to pass the large bills he carried—the ransom. Buying a new car in Amarillo led to the gang's capture.

Upward Business Trend Reported

Continual industrial expansion was reported this week by Bradstreet & Dunn weekly review.

"The forward swing," it said, "rests on the definite upward trend in consumption, employment and wage levels, the importance of which is not fully realized as yet, as the transition has been such a dussen one, and constructive developments have been so rapid. The course for trade progress has been cleared as more of the extraneous influences which retarded the pace for a time have been rendered impotent by the well-fortified ramifications to which the improvement has been extended."

"A further stimulus to the upward movement is being provided by the general support being given the administration's sweeping industrial recovery measures, which open the way for conduct of business on reasonable earning basis, and the growing appreciation of the importance of credit and sound credit practices in commerce and industry."

"Besides, the constant widening of employment, the rises in wage scales announced from week to week, and the gain of nearly 20 per cent in the prices of farm products in the last two months have opened a new source of spending power which was not discernible even faintly six months ago."

Both retail and wholesale buying continue to improve, the review said. Large department stores report volume "fully 10 per cent ahead of the 1932 level, with further gains in prospect."

Italians Climax Varied Careers

Americans will have a chance to get acquainted with some of Italy's most colorful as well as efficient aviators when General Italo Balbo's expedition of 100 blackshirt fliers crosses the Atlantic this month. A course in English has been part of the year and a half's special training the aviators have mastered enough of the tongue to be able to answer questions.

Navigate Seas And Skies

Men who have flown the Arctic skies, sailed windjammers, captained submarines, fought Moors and spanned the South Atlantic are among the officers the air minister himself a romantic figure, has designated to command his 24 seaplanes.

Almost all of them accompanied him on his mass flight to Brazil in 1930. On that trip they piloted 11 planes from Bolama to Natal in a single jump.

While most of them are only in their 30's they have crammed enough experience into their brief career to fill several volumes of thrillers.

Oldest Officer Commands

While Gen. Balbo will be in general charge of the flight and give the word to start, go on, or turn back, the actual commander-in-chief will be General Aldo Pellegrini.

At 44 he is probably the oldest officer in the whole group. He is director of the government's aerial navigation school for sea fliers, a graduate of Leghorn Naval Academy, Italy's Annapolis, and saw naval service in the Turkish war of 1911-12 and in the world war. He turned to flying while the big conflict still was on and came out of it with silver and bronze medals won by personal valor.

Lieutenant Colonel Ullisse Longo, who will command one of the ships, was blazing away at African tribesmen from the cockpit of a Spanish fighting plane eight years ago. Before that he had won decorations for bravery in action against the Austrians.

He spent years plying the seas on a sailing vessel and was one of those who flew with Balbo to Brazil. He is 39.

One of the most skillful fliers in the group is Lieutenant Colonel Stefano Cagna, who was Balbo's second pilot on the South Atlantic crossing and will serve in that capacity on the trip to Chicago.

Into his 31 years Cagna has crowded experience on merchant steamers, a stretch in the submarine service, Arctic flying and rescue work. He was awarded a medal for flying to the aid of the stranded Nobile party when the dirigible Italia broke up in the North Polar regions.

Captain Alessandro Niglia, 33, also a veteran sailor and member of the South Atlantic equadron, had naval service mostly aboard submarines. He became a pilot in 1924.

Rookies Learn New Lingo In U. S. Forestry Camps As Many Arrive

Twenty-nine Collingsworth County boys, along with thousands of other "rookies" are learning some new lingo, according to press dispatches this week.

More than 10,000 boys are pouring into the camps each day and that is said to be as good as the war department did during the war, and every rookie has the "fall itch" to be sent to his forest home, and yet no one is positive as to where he will go.

There are 131 national forests in the United States, in addition to the camps the various states are securing, and of course, no one knows where he will be sent until he gets his order.

Already the camps are breaking out with a new lingo, as you will note from this letter, and is it taking? Some one handed a C. C. O. the name "Peavy" which means a tool with an iron hook used in the forest to handle logs, and it settled. After two weeks of training a "rookie" graduates into a "Peavy" and is permitted to use the lingo. Discipline, yes. A peavie gets a "trailing" after "chiseling" in on the "chow" line for an "extra." If a sergeant catches him he gets a "wedge" and a position on the tail-end of the line, and the second offense usually means a dishonorable discharge or an extra "detail."

MELLOWED

SINCLAIR MOTOR OILS . . .

From Mid-continent's oldest crude or Pennsylvania's costliest crude . . .

WE don't presume to tell you which motor oil gives you best results—Mid-continent or Pennsylvania. But we can prove to you that in these two classes Sinclair Motor Oils are the finest that Nature and science together have produced.

Sinclair Opaline Motor Oil is refined from crude oils, mellowed and filtered for at least 80 million years; it is a blend of the very oldest Mid-continent crudes, including the famous Cambro-Ordovician crude taken from a mile and a quarter below the surface in Oklahoma.

Sinclair Pennsylvania Motor Oil is a product of the Devonian Age of a hundred million years ago. Sinclair Pennsylvania is refined 100% from Bradford-Allegany crude oil—a crude so rich in lubricating quality that every barrel commands an extra price. (See crude oil prices in any petroleum journal.)

Both of these splendid motor oils undergo a special treatment in the Sinclair refineries. Sinclair Opaline and Sinclair Pennsylvania are not only de-waxed—they are also freed from heavy, sluggish, non-lubricating petroleum jelly at as low as 60° F. below zero. Containing no petroleum jelly, the lubricating body of Sinclair Motor Oils is absolutely genuine and will not thin out in engine heat.

Experience will tell you quickly why Sinclair Opaline and Sinclair Pennsylvania are the finest in their respective classes. Note how these oils stand up in hard, fast driving. Note especially at draining time how little oil has been used up—positive, visible proof of protection for the last mile as well as the first!

Hated Enemy Of Cuban Rebels

A reliable report recently said that Major Arsenio Ortiz, who is in official disfavor because of an incident in his campaign against rebels, would sail for Germany on the first available ship. He would be dropped from the army pay roll after, it was believed.

It was learned last week that Major Ortiz had the choice of leaving the country or facing a court-martial on charges of being responsible for the murder of three guards of the American-owned Jatibonico sugar central in Santa Clara Providence. The men were killed after they had been arrested by Ortiz's troops for questioning in connection with rebel activities. The military supervisor of Santa Clara Providence reported that a group of rebels appeared at La Corona farm, owned by the sister of President Gerardo Machado, near Manajabo, disarmed the guards and fled with the weapons.

Enjoy These Exclusive Advantages of Modern Electric Cookery

Let modern Electric Cookery take the place of tedious old-fashioned methods in your home by installing an Electric Range now. You'll appreciate Electric Cookery for these distinct and exclusive advantages:

MODERN . . Automatic timing and temperature control permit you to cook entire meals without constant watching.

FAST . . Modern ranges make electric cookery faster. Less water is used, which cooks foods faster . . and makes them better and more healthful, too.

ECONOMICAL . . Electric Cookery provides not only economical operation, but gives distinct savings in food cost through minimizing the shrinkage of meats and bulk foods.

CLEAN . . Clean, flameless electric heat cooks without blackening pots or pans. No scouring, no scraping. Kitchens stay clean with little work.

SIMPLE . . The principles of Electric Cookery are so well defined, the methods so clear-cut that even inexperienced cooks always obtain excellent results.

ACCURATE . . Simple processes and automatic control enable women to prepare perfectly cooked meals more accurately than when timed by human mind.

COOL . . Perfect insulation retains the heat in the oven so well that it does not escape into the room. Electric Range kitchens stay cool.

HEALTHFUL . . Electric Cookery gives you tastier, more healthful foods. Natural flavors are preserved. Health-giving minerals are retained.

SAFE . . Electric Cookery is flameless . . no poisonous gases or disagreeable odors . . no fire danger.

TIME RELEASING . . Electric Cookery releases your time from "pot watching" for more pleasant tasks or pastimes.

Call us for an individual investigation of your use of electric service, to determine the cost of cooking by electricity in your home. You may be surprised to know that there are many cases where electric cookery actually decreases the total of electric and gas bills.

Do you know that your increased use of Electric Service is billed on a surprisingly low rate schedule . . . and adds a small amount to your total bill?

Golden V-8 Ford Proves Unusual Claims For Economy In Test Run

High Gallonage Record Is Set In 10,054 Mile Test Run Over Roads

The Golden Ford V-8 completed the 10,000 mile Economy Test Run at 5:12 this morning sixteen miles east of Ponca City. The car was driven through the balance of the lap to Bartlesville. Total mileage for the run was 10,054.

The run was sponsored by the Bartlesville Daily Enterprise and when the car pulled up before the Enterprise building it was greeted by a large enthusiastic crowd. The drivers, tired but happy, piled out and were kept busy answering questions. The car has been on the route day and night traveling at high speed, approximately 1,000 miles per day. Drivers were changed twice daily, two or more men being in the automobile at all times.

Throughout the entire trip the performance has been remarkable. All kinds of road and weather conditions were encountered. Rainstorms prevailed during two days of the run. For three days high winds prevailed and temperatures as high as 94 degrees were experienced during a considerable portion of the trip.

Gasoline consumption averaged 18.9 miles per gallon. Considering the high speed schedule maintained up and down hill, over good roads and bad, through sand, dirt and mud, this mileage is remarkable. Oil was changed each 1,000 miles and not one drop of oil was added between changes. No water was added to the radiator during the entire trip. Not one cent was expended for repairs during the entire run.

Spinning along at 50 miles per hour or faster the Ford V-8 clicked the miles off with clock-like regularity. The route consisted of a loop starting at Bartlesville to Tulsa, west through Sand Springs, Oilton, Drumright, Cushing, Guthrie and Oklahoma City. A twenty minute stop in Oklahoma City for meals and a five minute stop at each Ford dealer consumed a half hour which had to be made up each trip in speed. Then heading on west through Yukon to El Reno the route turned north through Kingfisher and Enid. Then east through Garber, Covington and Perry. North again almost to the Kansas line through Blackwell, then east through Ponca City, Pawhuska and back to Bartlesville.

A definite schedule was maintained and every point was reached on time. The hood and gas tank were locked securely. Gas was taken on only at Bartlesville, Guthrie and Enid. The hood was unlocked only in Bartlesville once every twenty four hours for the 1,000 mile oil change. Day and night the gruelling run continued. Stops were made at 21 Ford dealers and 42 Phillips Stations each day for a period of one to two minutes and this necessitated real speed while on the road in order to maintain the hard schedule. Interested spectators gathered daily at stopping points along the route to look at the speedometer and to ask questions in regard to the program of the run, gas consumption, etc.

Newspaper reporters from various towns along the route rode around the loop and then wrote stories that indicated they had received a real thrill.

During the entire trip only one car passed the Ford V-8 traveling in the same direction and it was overtaken before reaching the next town. Continuous high speed hard driving was the order of the day. Checkers employed by the Bartlesville Daily Enterprise were with the car constantly and maintained an interesting log book in which was recorded everything of interest on the trip. Records were kept on weather and road conditions and time of arrival at various points on the route, gas consumption, etc.

10,000 mile test. No mechanical work or adjustments will be made before starting the second 10,000 mile lap.

Federal Plans Provide Park Eight Miles Long In Palo Duro Canyon

Wellington Boys Likely To Work In Reforestation Camps In Park

Rumors that the 29 Wellington boys enrolled in the federal Reforestation work would be stationed near Amarillo and be employed in work in the Palo Duro Canyon were indirectly confirmed this week with the announcement that a state park, eight miles long and three miles wide, in the famous Palo Duro Canyon, will be constructed, according to federal plans. In addition, a second park is located on the Palisades section, 10 miles south of Amarillo.

Five forestry camps, employing 1,000 young men for six months with an appropriation of $90,000 for materials, were authorized for Palo Duro Canyon Thursday by President Roosevelt. When the parks are improved with roads, dams, scenic trails and other attractions for the public use, they will be turned over to the state park board for operation.

The major Palo Duro park will be on a tract of 21 sections, 11 miles due east of Canyon City, in the very center of the famous scenic Canyon, where it measures on an average of three miles from rim to rim. The site is the old B. S. Arnold ranch, recently owned by Byers Brothers of Kansas City, and which has been deeded to the state.

Many Persons Helped

Less than 30 days ago—May 2 to be exact—the Palo Duro park movement was revived, after repeated efforts for 30 years to get this natural wonderland opened as a public playground. Its culmination, with the federal government coming to the rescue to furnish the men and the money for all improvements, is a result of intense efforts being put forth by various individuals and organizations, according to T. E. Johnson of Amarillo, chairman of the general committee chosen at the organization meeting on May 2 to press the project with state and federal authorities.

"It simply was a case," said Mr. Johnson, "of enlisting the support of everyone in position to help and not taking 'no' for an answer. Our time was short, but we realized that if the Palo Duro was to be made into a public park it must be done while the government was recruiting men for forestry camps and furnishing ample funds for improvement purposes."

"Through the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, the State Park Board, the citizens' committees of Claude, Canyon and other nearby cities, Congressman Marvin Jones of Amarillo, Senator Tom Connally of Texas and our own James O. Guleke of Amarillo, the program was worked out, submitted to federal authorities and approval obtained."

Much impetus was given the project as a relief measure. The West Texas Chamber of Commerce, through its retiring president, Wilbur C. Hawk of Amarillo, first made application for one or more reforestation camps in the canyon as a relief move. Following the park meeting in Amarillo on May 2, the immediate task was the securing of land where the camps could be located. State park board officials had obtained an option on the Byer's land, with a view to later seeking a loan from the R. F. C. for its purpose.

Many Doubtful

When the showdown came for the location of conservation camps in Texas, the committee was discouraged, Mr. Johnson said, because it had not been successful in securing the necessary camp sites.

The Texas officials were in Washington to present applications for camps. The Panhandle committee was notified that the Palo Duro project could not be approved unless title to the land was given the state.

"Then it was," Mr. Johnson "that Mr. Guleke came through in flying colors. He caught the first train to Washington, spent an entire week with the federal committee, asking them to hold the Palo Duro project open until further negotiations could be conducted for the land."

Guleke Works

"In the meantime, the committee and Mr. Guleke, with the help of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and park board officials at Austin, worked out a plan, whereby the Byers tract was deeded to the state park board, with a percentage of gross concession receipts to apply as its purchase price. Officials at Washington accepted the new plan and tentative approval was given before Mr. Guleke left the capital last Thursday. President Roosevelt's signature, authorizing the five forestry camps, was the final action necessary to the project becoming an actuality."

One park, the Palisades, would have been obtained anyway, it was said. It was an outright gift of 320 acres, which was officially approved a week ago as a state park and a federal camp site, while the major project was pending.

State To Be Owner

Both parks are to be owned and operated by the state, under the supervision of D. E. Solp of Austin, chairman of the Texas park board. Mrs. Phebe K. Warner of Claude is a member of the state board.

Construction of the parks will be under the supervision of the Department of Interior, with the men and materials furnished by the War Department. Preliminary surveys of the property have been made this week, with maps furnished both the army and the park officials for immediate study as to camp sites, highways, lakes and other improvements.

Army officers are expected to inspect the property by Monday, it was announced by Mr. Colp from Austin. National park planning officials also have advised the local committee they will be on the ground within a week.

See Work Soon

Establishment of the camps (with men on the job and actual construction work under way, may be expected within two weeks, it is believed. Canyon and Claude citizens have been unusually active on the project, with L. P. White of Claude; Clyde Warwick, County Judge S. B. Orton and Fred Wortham, secretary of the Canyon Chamber of Commerce, working "day and night" for the past three weeks. The present highway leading east from Canyon to the park will be the main entrance into the park, with plans calling for outlets to the north and east toward Washburn and Claude.

Col. Oscar Seward, prominent engineer of Amarillo who has been instrumental in preliminary surveys and inspections of the Palo Duro Park project, was named general park engineer for the state this week.

His appointment to that position was made by Chairman Colp.

troller a permit or permits to engage in the business of wholesale dealer or retail dealer, as the case may be, and shall obtain a separate permit for each place of business of such dealer; and shall pay to the Comptroller a fee of Five Dollars ($5.00) for each permit. If and whenever any cigarettes taxes in this Act are found in the place of business of any retail dealer, wholesale dealer, or any other person, firm, corporation or association of persons, except bonded intrastate wholesale dealers, without the stamps affixed as herein prohibited, the prima facie presumptions shall arise that such articles are kept therein in violation of the provisions of this Act."

his work carried him over the entire state, Arizona, and New Mexico.

Mr. Bandy was one of three men who marked off the Lubbock town-site and at the time of his death still owned property in that city. He organized the first churches at Amarillo, Lubbock and Globe, Arizona, and helped organize first church at Ballentine, Marfa, Alpine and several other smaller churches.

His wife recalls many dangers that they faced in the early days, one of the most romantic of which was the Mexican raid on the Bright ranch in the early days.

He came to Wellington seven years and six months ago and since that time has carried on his work here although he was handicapped in his activities by his age.

Pall bearers were: Paul Starr, J. M. Strong, Dave Thomas, Bert Newman and Percy Wells.

In addition to his membership in the First Christian Church he was a member of the Woodmen of the World and active in religious circles of the community.

Interment was made in the Wellington cemetery by Ellis Funeral Home.

Kidnappers Of--

that the men admitted their identity as the Barrow brothers and Mr. Hardy said that they stated that they had killed several men, but never when they did not have to do so for their own protection.

The entire escapade resulted from the two bandits and a woman having gotten of the old Wellington-Shamrock highway a quarter of a mile south of the Salt Fork River bridge and driven onto the new highway under construction parallel to the old road. Speeding at a rate of more than 60 miles an hour their coupe plunged from a 30 foot embankment into the river bed, late Saturday night.

Steve Pritchard, who lives 200 yards from the scene of the accident, said he was sitting out in his front yard at the time and seeing the car pass at such a high rate of speed rushed to the scene as soon as he heard the crash. When

Mr. Pritchard arrived the woman was unconscious and the men were badly bruised but not in critical condition. Mr. Pritchard gathered the woman into his arms and started with her to the house.

"When I picked up the woman, the men reached into the car and secured the guns," Mr. Pritchard said. "They followed me on to the house and I insisted that we call a doctor or an ambulance, but the men objected. One of them said, 'No. We can't afford to have a doctor. You do what you can and we will pay you anything you want.' They seemed to have plenty of money, but I told them that I was already doing all I could. About that time one of the men went back to the car (after another gun I guess) and we had placed the woman on the bed."

Carter Tells Sheriff As the man departed for the car Lonzo Carter, Mr. Pritchard's son-in-law, slipped out to the garage and pushed the Pritchard car down a long grade, started the engine and escaped, carrying the news of the event to Wellington, where he reported to Sheriff Corry.

While Mr. Carter was gone Mrs. Jack Pritchard, Mr. Pritchard's daughter-in-law, started to open the back door and the bandits fired several rounds of shots, wounding her hand. Reports indicated that she might recover without serious results and at the worst her thumb might have to be amputated.

Sheriff Corry and Mr. Hardy said they arrived at the house, parked their car and walked in through the back door.

"The woman was laying across the bed and seemed to be in a serious condition," Mr. Corry said, "Mr. Pritchard was sitting in a chair. I asked him where the men were and he said, 'Out there,' pointing to the front yard. I thought they were probably a couple of drunks so I picked up the lamp and walked out on the porch without even drawing my gun. As soon as Mr. Hardy and I were on the porch the men commanded us to 'Put 'em up—and put 'em up high.' They had the two sub-machine guns trained on us and we complied with the command. They fired several random shots and the woman jumped from the bed, rushed to the porch cursing fluently and took our guns from the holsters."

Holding the officers as captives, the two bandits took Sheriff Cor-ry's car placing Corry in the front seat and Hardy in the back and started out on the Shamrock road. After reaching Shamrock they went four miles on the Pampa road, turned around and came back onto the Erick road. They drove to a point about seven miles from Sayre, where they were met by a confederate in another car.

Wired Between Trees Here the confederate took the handcuffs from Mr. Corry's steering wheel and joined the two officers together. He next got some barb wire and after spreading them apart, wired their free hands to trees and left them at about 3 o'clock Sunday morning.

After approximately 30 minutes Mr. Corry worked him hand free from the wire and the two officers made their way to a farm house where they called the Sayre Sheriff to come after them. Sayre officers notified V. L. Williams, deputy, and Austin O'Neil, who went to the scene to return the two men, but before they arrived Sheriff Corry's car was located near the point where the two men were bound.

The officers followed tracks until the early morning traffic ruined the prints and reported no trace of the bandit quartet.

"The woman was evidently badly hurt," Mr. Williams said, "because between the place where the two men were bound and the road where they left the car, an impression could be plainly seen where she had become exhausted and was forced to rest." Sheriff Corry also said that the woman's condition was critical based all hopes of catching the bandits upon the fact that he believed they would soon be forced to secure medical aid.

The Ford coupe, which was brought to Wellington, contained a large number of different license plates and was thought to have been stolen from near Madill, Oklahoma.

Sheriff Corry said that he believed the bandits were on their way to a hold up job somewhere in this section of the Panhandle at the time the accident occurred. He identified the men from their pictures of which he has a file in his office and said that they admitted their identity to him while he was held captive. He said that the confederate they met in Oklahoma was a short, dark man about 26 years of age and weighing around 100 pounds.

WANT BARROW BROTHERS IN TWO OTHER STATES

By Associated Press

DALLAS, Texas.—Clyde Champion Barrow and Ivy Barrow, brothers, identified by Sheriff George Corry and City Marshal Paul Hardy of Wellington as the pair who kidnapped them Saturday and took them to Erick, Okla., are wanted by Texas, Oklahoma and Missouri officers for various offenses.

They were charged with murder and assault to murder at Joplin, Mo., in April, this year in connection with the killing of an officer and the wounding of two others.

Clyde Barrow also was charged with murder and assault to murder in connection with the killing of an officer and the wounding of another at Atoka, Okla., in August, 1932.

Clyde was charged with murder and robbery with firearms at Hillsboro, Texas, April 30, 1932; robbery with firearms at Lufkin, Texas, May 12, 1932; robbery with firearms and burglary at Dallas in August, 1932; assault to murder in Wharton county, Texas, August 30, 1932; and robbery by firearms at Abilene October 8, 1932.

He also is wanted for questioning in connection with a bank robbery attempt at Lucerne, Ind., in May, this year.

The auburn-haired woman described by Sheriff Corry of Wellington as the woman injured when the night eight-cylinder coupe in which the trio traveled overturned near Wellington Sunday night is well known to police here and was said by them to be the constant traveling companion of Clyde Barrow. However, she has never been charged with any offense, so far as records here show.
