No Major Problems...

Space Shuttle Soaring

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The space shuttle soared through the first full day of Mission 4 today, its astronauts plunging into a flurry of tests after exchanging coded messages about a Pentagon payload that symbolizes a marriage of the civilian space program with the military. Columbia, launched so brilliantly Sunday, hummed along with no major problems. On its last test flight, astronauts Ken Mattingly and Henry Hartfield were qualifying the craft as an operational space vehicle.

"All the things people have said about this machine are true," Mattingly said in praise of Columbia's performance on Sunday.

There were some troubles. The booster rockets that were to have been recovered for reuse sank in the Atlantic Ocean, a $36 million loss. The spacecraft also developed a steering jet leak and a high temperature reading on a fuel cell, but officials said these were minor and would not affect the mission. A student experiment failed to function.

One of the top-secret Defense Department experiments might not have worked. At least that was the inference when Mattingly reported, in a code-worded exchange, "no joy on step No. 3."

The astronauts fell so far behind in their routine that they didn't get to bed until nearly 11:30 p.m. — almost three hours later than scheduled. But after five hours sleep they were ready for a busy day.

Mission Control wakened them with a recording of "Up, Up and Away," and commander Mattingly acknowledged: "My compliments to your taste in music. We're ready to go to work."

"We're glad to hear that; there's lots for you to do today," said capsule communicator Brewster Shaw.

"I never would have guessed," replied Mattingly. Shaw told them their spaceship was in "good shape, and we're glad you're both in good spirits."

Hartsfield was the point man today for two space processing experiments which have potential medical applications.

Mattingly, according to the flight plan, was to switch on a Defense Department payload for 10½ hours. The Pentagon has labeled it "top secret" but there is enough information on the public record to identify the main elements as sensors being tested to detect hostile missiles and spacecraft and a device that could give defense satellites navigation capability free from ground control.

Mattingly, the mission commander, activated the experiment for the first time on Sunday, receiving coded instructions from a special military control center separate from NASA's Mission Control in Houston. NASA and the Air Force had said they would maintain open communications throughout the flight even with the defense payload on board. But the astronauts were instructed not to discuss details or television pictures of it.

Indeed they did not. All the exchanges about it were in clipped phrases: "Perform Bravo Alpha," "Foxtrot off," or "try Charlie step 3 again." The package was referred to only as "the experiment."

There was indication of a problem with one of the defense experiments when Mattingly reported, "no joy on step 3," and asked for assistance from the military communicator at the Air Force's Satellite Control Facility in Sunnyvale, Calif. After a few minutes of troubleshooting, he again reported "no joy."

Never before have U.S. astronauts conducted military experiments in space. Most of them have been military pilots, but they flew for a civilian agency — NASA — that was created to operate an open space program.

But space shuttles are being built as a national asset, not only for use by NASA, but also other government agencies, commercial customers and even some foreign governments and organizations.

Bomb Rips Belfast

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — A 1,000-pound bomb, one of the largest ever reported in Northern Ireland, blew up today in Belfast, wrecking houses and gouging a "huge crater" in the street, police said.

A second bomb exploded in a Roman Catholic Church in the beleaguered city.

There were no casualties in either bombing, which police blamed on rival Protestant and Catholic terrorist groups.

"This is criminal madness," said Chief Superintendent Jim Crutchley, the police chief in West Belfast, a mainly Catholic area. "It's a miracle no one was killed."

Farewell Reception

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. is holding a farewell reception tonight for his senior staff, an indication he intends only a brief caretaker role in the job which fell so quickly from his grasp last week.

Although he resigned Friday, Haig still retained his title and spent almost three hours Sunday briefing his designated successor, George P. Shultz, on the continuing turmoil in Lebanon and other issues.

Neither man spoke with reporters, with Shultz maintaining what he calls his "days of silence" during the transition.

Freeze Takes Stock

ATLANTA (AP) — The nuclear weapons freeze is an idea whose time has come a lot faster than its originators thought possible, and they met here last weekend to try to catch up with it.

Crowded together for three days in a stuffy room at the Martin Luther King Jr. Center for Non-Violent Change were 60 or 70 mostly young people who first came together in a loose alliance two years ago to organize around an idea on controlling the arms race.

Mostly in their 20s and 30s, they constitute the national committee of the Nuclear Weapons Freeze Campaign, an alliance of religious and peace groups and local committees organized to promote a nuclear freeze.

Safety Ban Ignored

WASHINGTON (AP) — A company that was supposed to dispose of garments treated with a suspected cancer-causing chemical instead sold most of them as children's sleepwear, the firm acknowledged in testimony recently made public.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission, which in 1977 banned children's sleepwear treated with the suspected cancer-causing chemical Tris, later gave permission to some companies to cut their already manufactured garments into industrial rags.

But according to testimony put on the public record last week, officials of the John R. Lyman Co. told a closed-door hearing of the House Commerce investigations subcommittee on June 4, 1981, that only about one-fourth of the company's 25,000 pounds of Tris-treated sleepwear was cut into rags.

The rest was sold to consumers through the company's outlet store in Chicopee, Mass., they said.

Rains Filling Area Lakes

Weekend rains have put more water in area lakes, including both reservoirs of the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

Lake J. B. Thomas, which provides Snyder with water, picked up nearly 9,000 acre feet, making a total of 68,600 acre feet impounded as of this morning. Bull Creek was still flowing a stream 4½ feet deep and the Colorado River was flowing two feet deep this morning.

Lake Thomas had gained about 12,000 acre feet for the week and 19,870 acre feet for the year. The vertical rise for the week was 6.06 feet and the elevation this morning was 2234.11.

Lake E. V. Spence had picked up 51,000 acre feet of water for the week and it held a total of 322,700 acre feet. Its total gain for the year is 79,270 acre feet.

The vertical rise at Lake Spence the past week was 5.14 feet and the current elevation is 1884.1, which is a record.

Lake Colorado City had a vertical rise of 4.3 feet for the week, which put 6,300 acre feet of water into the lake. It was within .8 foot of the spillway.

Champion Creek Lake gained 19,925 acre feet of water on a vertical rise of 11.16 feet. It held a total of 48,500 acre feet.

Against Donovan...

Calls Evidence Insufficient

WASHINGTON (AP) — Special Prosecutor Leon Silverman said today "there was insufficient credible evidence" to warrant prosecution of Labor Secretary Raymond J. Donovan on any of a variety of allegations of criminal activity made against him by FBI informants.

"The special prosecutor concludes that no prosecu-

City Council Session Set

The Snyder City Council has scheduled a special session for 6:30 p.m. today to consider appointments to two city boards.

The council also is scheduled to consider a request by Western Texas College for city participation in the local Senior Citizens Program for 1982 and then go into executive session to discuss acquisition of property.

Appointments on the agenda include two positions on the board of adjustments and one member on the planning and zoning commission.

tion of the secretary on any of the allegations investigated is warranted or could successfully be maintained," wrote Silverman, concluding a six-month investigation.

On June 18 and June 22, the Brooklyn federal grand jury that was looking into the allegations unanimously decided not to indict Donovan "with respect to all organized crime allegations put before it."

The report said no evidence was found of ties between Donovan and organized figures.

"Extensive investigation produced insufficient credible evidence upon which to base any prosecution," the report said. The report was untruthful in its denials (on organized crime ties) either before the Senate Labor Committee or the grand jury of any and all such associations.

The three-volume report by Silverman, consisting of over 1,000 pages, was released by the special panel of the U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington that appointed Silverman.

Interest Focuses On Candidates

Interest is focused on the July 4th Queen Contest early this week as the community prepares for its annual Independence Day Celebration.

Murray Anne Ray, who heads the Chamber of Commerce July 4th Committee this year, urged residents to vote in the queen's contest. The queen will be determined on the basis of the number of tickets sold in her behalf. The tickets sell for $1 each and the funds from contest are used to pay for the fireworks display, which is the closing feature in the celebration.

The candidates are Debbie Foree, sponsored by the Jaycees; Amy Beaver, sponsored by the B&PW Club; Kary Johnice Fulfer, sponsored by Larry and Karen McAden; Jacqueline Pylant, sponsored by the Rotary Club; Elyse Merritt, sponsored by Adventures Unlimited; and Ileta Hall, sponsored by the Shriners.

"We hope everyone buys some tickets," Mrs. Ray said. "The candidates will appreciate the support, and we need the money to pay for the fireworks. Our fireworks display always has been one of the best in the country, and we are going to have another good one this year."

The queen will be crowned Sunday night preceding the fireworks display. Also, several prizes will be given away.

"Several merchants have contributed nice prizes this year," Mrs. Ray said.

NASA Officials Baffled That Boosters Sand To Ocean Floor

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — NASA officials say they are baffled as to why Columbia's spent rocket boosters failed to float when they hit the Atlantic and instead plunged 3,100 feet to the ocean floor. But they say there is little hope of recovering the steel casings, worth $36 million.

"I think they've abandoned the idea of bringing them up," said Linda Dougherty, a spokeswoman for the Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala., which controls booster operations. "I don't know of any way they can do it (lift them)."

HARLEY BYNUM

The 149-foot-long boosters are the largest solid-propellant motors ever flown and are designed to be reusable for up to 20 flights. Packed with fuel each weighs 1,293,000 pounds. Empty they weigh a fraction of that, but still a lot — 183,000 pounds.

It is the boosters that give the shuttle its main burst of power en route to orbit, quickly expending all their fuel in the process. They are pushed away from the orbiter by special motors at 2½ minutes into the launch. Then, their descent slowed by three large parachutes and one small one, they splash down in the water where they are supposed to bob until NASA recovery ships can retrieve them.

The boosters used on the first three flights all performed perfectly and are now being refurbished for later missions. Even when stormy seas after the second launch prevented divers from positioning the tubes for towing for an entire week, they kept floating.

But on Sunday, something went wrong. An Air Force plane briefly spotted one casing lying low in the water 160 miles east of the Kennedy Space Center. Guided by radio beacons on the boosters, the recovery ships UTC Liberty and UTC Freedom rushed to the site, but the boosters had vanished.

Late Sunday, one of the ships turned back, while the other stood guard overnight on the lonely stretch of ocean.

"We don't have any clue" as to why they went under, said NASA spokesman Mark Hess. "We'd certainly like to get them back. We'd like to use them 19 more times."

Hess estimated the loss at $36 million, since a pair of new boosters costs about $50 million to build and pack with fuel, and a used pair costs $14 million to refurbish.

Although NASA officials refused to speculate on why the canisters sank, officials said that for the first time on this flight, they had hitched a set of used parachutes to the rockets.

On Dean's List

CANYON—Debeanna Longbotham of Snyder, who received a bachelor of business administration degree, is on the dean's list for the spring semester at West Texas State University.

The dean's list is made up of students with a grade point average of 3.25 to 3.84 on a 4.0 scale while taking at least 12 semester hours of college work.

Kennedy Tells Democrats...

'Our Day Is Coming Again'

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Their midterm party conference behind them, Democrats are turning their political efforts to the 1982 congressional elections with a confident prediction from Sen. Edward M. Kennedy that "our day is coming again."

"We are in the midst of a Israeli Seige...

Trapped PLO Vows To Resist

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Trapped Palestinian guerrilla leaders today vowed to resist the Israeli siege of their west Beirut strongholds "until victory or martyrdom." But Lebanese officials said the guerrilla chiefs were locked in secret negotiations to arrange a face-saving retreat from their embattled enclave.

The cease-fire wrung out of the Israelis and the Palestinians by U.S. presidential mediator Philip C. Habib held firm today for its third straight day. It was the longest unbroken truce since the Israelis invaded Lebanon on June 6.

fierce struggle for the shape and soul of our generation," Kennedy declared in a rousing speech that stole the show on the final day of the Democrats' three-day National Party Conference.

"Only a few months ago, Democrats were scorned and told that our day was done," added Kennedy, a candidate for re-election to the Senate this year and one of two front-runners — along with former Vice President Walter F. Mondale — for the 1984 presidential nomination.

"But we know now and all America knows that for us as Democrats... the dawn is near, our hearts are bright, our cause is right, and our day is coming again."

With that, the Massachusetts senator touched off a five-minute demonstration in a hall that had been carefully prepared beforehand by his aides, down to the hundreds of blue Kennedy posters that they distributed throughout the crowd. Even so, it was a reminder of the hold that Kennedy retains on many Democrats as the party looks beyond 1982 toward 1984.

Charles T. Manatt, the party's chairman, told reporters after the session ended that the conference had helped lay a foundation "for the challenge of 1982." He predicted earlier that the party would pick up about 15 seats in the House and one or two in the Senate in this fall's elections, a concession that the GOP Senate would stay Republican at least two more years.

As for the presidential hopefuls, he sidestepped a question about who had benefited from the party meeting and who had been hurt.

"As far as the six or seven, I don't think any of them gained all that much," he said.

Kennedy's speech aside, the party approved a series of position papers without dissent at its concluding session, leaving Democrats on record in favor of a nuclear freeze and a revision of Reagan's tax program. They also said Israeli's invasion of Lebanon provides an opportunity for "lasting peace" in that war-torn country and "greater security" for the Jewish state.

The position papers were drafted, debated and approved without the sharp divisions that have split the Democratic Party in the past.

Nevertheless, the conference was dominated from beginning to end by the men who seem anxious to declare formally that they want the party's 1984 presidential nomination.

Mondale spoke at the opening session on Friday, as did Sens. Gary Hart of Colorado, John Glenn of Ohio.

4 Theft Cases Occupy Police

Snyder police are investigating four theft reports received over the weekend.

Bill Dennis of Quick Auto Service called police around 1 p.m. Sunday to report the theft of several batteries from that business. No value was listed for the missing batteries but preliminary police reports indicated that the thief had already sold them to another local man.

Robert Green of 1904 15th St. also called police to report the theft of a battery around 1 p.m. Sunday. He told officers that someone had stolen the battery off his boat while it was parked at the residence.

Later yesterday, around 6:30 p.m., Juan Alaniz reported the theft of a stereo from his 1975 Porsche. The stereo, valued at $70, is thought to have been taken while the car was parked at R&S Imports and Repair on the Lameas Highway.

Michael Wier of 410 30th St reported Sunday's fourth theft around 7:30 p.m. He told officers that a stereo equalizer, valued at $35, had been taken from his car sometime over the weekend.

Local police also received a criminal mischief complaint around 2:20 p.m. Saturday. Rodney Mueller of 100 37th St. told police that someone had scratched the paint on his car. Estimated cost to repair the 10 foot scratch was $125.

Two minor traffic mishaps rounded out the weekend for the local officers.

The first mishap was reported in the 3700 block of College Avenue around 7:20 p.m. Saturday. Involved in the mishap were a 1964 Chevrolet driven by Lupe Morin of Rt. 3, Snyder and a parked 1977 Kenworth tractor-trailer owned by Safeway. No damages were reported to the truck and only minor damages were reported to the Morin vehicle.

The Sonic Drive-in on south College Avenue was the scene of the weekend's other accident around 10:30 p.m. Sunday. Involved in the hit and run incident was a 1978 Chevrolet driven by Laura Margaret York of 2011 Merrill. The other vehicle fled the scene of the accident and only minor damages were reported to the York car.

Dear Abby

Teen-Ager's 'High' Is Not Worth the Cost

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1982 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: We are trying to organize a parent support group to combat teen-age drug abuse in our area. I received some material from Alan B. Machall, chairman of the Alcohol and Drug Program in Clinton, Md. One brochure contained two letters from your column. They were both excellent. Please run them again. And may I have your permission to use them both in a newsletter I'm putting together for Parents Against Teen-Age Drug Abuse? Thank you.

MOTHER OF FOUR IN INDIANA

DEAR MOTHER: With pleasure. Here they are:

DEAR ABBY: I was glad to see your warning about angel dust. Everything you said about it was true. It makes you violent and can really mess up your head. I know. I was in high school, ready to graduate, when I smoked that dust. I didn't even know it. I smoked some pot that had been laced with angel dust. I didn't get high. I just went crazy.

I was sent to a mental hospital where I spent three months. I put my poor parents through hell. I'm out now, but I have to see a social worker every week. I'm still on medication, and my head still hurts. But at least I can dress myself and comb my own hair. My biggest fear is that one day I will go completely crazy again and end up back in the hospital. I saw kids there who'd had that experience.

My God, what a terrible price to pay for wanting to get high. Abby, please keep telling kids to stay away from pot. You never know what's in it. I am signing my name and address just to prove this letter is not a phony, but if you print it, sign me...

PAID A BIG PRICE

DEAR PAID: If your letter makes just one person say no to pot, it will have been worth space in my column. Thanks for writing. God bless.

DEAR ABBY: I am 23. I began smoking pot at 13. By 17, I had taken LSD and shot heroin. I have been addicted to opiates for two years. I am on the methadone program now. (It's a government-approved substitute for heroin, but I have to get a fix every day.)

If just one young person reads this and takes heed, I will feel that I have accomplished something.

The road to drugs is for fools. A kid starts because he thinks he is being smart. Or because he wants to be "in" with the crowd. Or because he's afraid they will think he's chicken. Taking that first joint is the dumbest thing a kid can do. I know. It cost me my future. I had a chance to be a really good ballplayer, but I lost interest because I wanted to get high. I didn't even finish my education because I wanted to get high. Then my head got all messed up and I didn't have a choice anymore.

Now I beat my brains out in a hot factory. Kids, stay straight. Say no to that first joint, and when you reach 23 you will be on the top of the world. Not like me. No money. No friends. Suicidal feelings. Needing a fix every day.

I'm nobody to be giving advice, considering what I've done with my life, but maybe you kids out there can learn something from a loser.

FOOLISH

DEAR FOOLISH: One who has made mistakes, picked himself up, brushed himself off, then tries to prevent others from becoming victims is no loser in my book. Too bad you'll never know how many lives you may have saved by writing one letter.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Being lean will help

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 55-year-old female and recently my doctor told me I have a hiatal hernia. He told me I should eat everything — just give up drinking, smoking and coffee. I don't drink or smoke so giving up coffee too was no hardship. I feel no improvement and feel I should be on some sort of diet, too. Please write something about this ailment and its consequences if ignored.

DEAR READER — Your doctor's advice is good as far as it goes. I agree that you should eliminate cigarettes, coffee (and other sources of caffeine such as tea and cola) and alcohol if you have a hiatal hernia. Also, if you have symptoms you should not use decaffeinated coffee either.

You don't mention your weight but it is important to be on the lean side. Any fat inside the abdominal cavity merely increases the pressure and helps to force the stomach through the enlarged hole in the diaphragm. It is similar to the effect of a pregnant uterus. Many women, perhaps 80 percent, develop a hiatal hernia during pregnancy because of increased intra-abdominal pressure. That may also have something to do with why more women have a hiatal hernia than men earlier in life.

What you eat is not so important, but you do need to avoid things that increase stomach acidity because the acid stomach contents leak backward into the lower esophagus to cause symptoms. Tight belts or garments increase the leakage.

It is important to eat small meals and to wait at least a couple of hours after eating before lying down. Elevating the head of the bed helps.

If you don't control the backward leakage there is some danger of developing an ulcer in that location. Or the irritation can cause scarring and obstruction, interfering with the passage of solid food into the stomach. To give you more information on what you can do to prevent complications and manage a hiatal hernia I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-8, Hiatal Hernia, Esophageal Reflux. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Is there anything that can be done to relieve menstrual cramps? I have tried taking aspirin, drinking hot fluids, taking hot baths, even doing sit-ups and other exercises but to no avail. I would appreciate any help you can give.

DEAR READER — Of course you should have an examination to pinpoint why you have so much pain, if possible. If you have the type of menstrual cramps many young women have it may be from an increased production of prostaglandin. This hormone is formed in the lining of the uterus. It acts on the uterus to cause uterine contractions which in turn cause cramps.

The female hormone from the ovaries, progesterone, inhibits the formation of prostaglandin, but if ovulation does not result in a pregnancy the progesterone level falls and prostaglandin increases, inducing the cramps at the onset of menstruation.

Some studies have shown that medicines that inhibit the formation of prostaglandin relieve such cramps. Aspirin is a weak inhibitor. Stronger ones are Motrin, Indocin, Ponstel and Naprosyn. All are prescription items.

one heart and two diamond discards from East. He is at the moment of decision. The defense still holds six hearts and five diamonds. If West was dealt four hearts, then only he can guard both major suits. All South has to do is to cash the ace-king of diamonds and squeeze West. On the other hand if East is still hanging on to four hearts, East is down to just two diamonds.

Alan: "South should decide that East is guarding hearts. Therefore, South plays three rounds of that suit. The last heart lead squeezes West. He must unguard the diamond queen to keep the good spade and three diamond tricks bring the slam home."

Oswald: "A diamond lead plus perfect discarding by East and West would have beaten the grand slam. But West had a very normal spade lead."

Diet facts & fallacies

These nutritional tips brought to you by
DIET CENTER

Are you planning a trip in the near future and are worried about your diet? Just treat your diet like a suitcase—plan and pack in advance.

Prepare yourself mentally by firing up your self-discipline. Set a goal for yourself to work on—even if it is to lose just one pound. Take along some snacking alternatives—fresh fruits and vegetables, hard-boiled eggs, whole-grain crackers. Make sure you drink eight glasses of water (8 oz. each) every day and exercise as much as possible to keep your body running smoothly.

When you get to a hotel or restaurant, quickly scan the menu for fresh salads, fruits and fish. Avoid fatty meats, gravies, sauces, desserts and cocktails.

Ask your waitress to prepare your foods with lemon, not butter. State your intentions courteously and clearly. Explain that you are on a restricted diet if necessary. If you are planning to fly, a request twenty-four hours prior to departure will usually ensure your getting a high-protein, low-calorie meal.

Diet Center believes that conscientious planning and preparation will help you lose weight, even during a vacation. See your local Diet Center Counselor for other suggestions.

Midlanders Grab Top Honors At Scramble

Midland's Tony Farish and Dub Huckabee shot a 123 to win first place in the Championship Flight of the Western Texas College Two-Man Scramble, held here Saturday and Sunday.

The Midland twosome won by five strokes over four other teams which finished in a tie for second place with 128s. In a "sudden-victory" playoff, Ronnie Huckabee and Dub Warren, also of Midland, took second place rights.

Breck Nolen and former Westerner golfer George

Gonzales, both of Fort Stockton, won third place in the playoff over another former WTC player, Richard White, and his partner Scot Ramsey of Pecos, and over Jim Harris and George Powell of Snyder.

Gonzales and White were two of several former Westerner golfers participating in the two-day tournament. White, a 1981 graduate of WTC, plays for Sam Houston State University, while Gonzales, a 1982 grad, will attend Hardin-Simmons

Because Of Weather...

Wimbledon Format Altered

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) - John McEnroe has begun what could be one of the toughest weeks of his tennis career as he bids to retain two Wimbledon crowns, facing a crowded schedule and the uncertainty of a suspect ankle.

After a first week disrupted by rain, tournament officials prepared to call players into non-stop action to try to finish by next Sunday as scheduled.

McEnroe is the defending singles champion, and he and his partner Peter Fleming are defending their doubles crown. To win both, McEnroe has to play five singles matches and six doubles - all the best of five sets - in a maximum of seven days.

Weather experts predicted more rain today but better weather beginning Tuesday.

A sprained ankle forced McEnroe out of the Italian and French Opens. Newsmen asked him about it throughout the last week and he admitted the trouble is still there.

"I'm trying not to think about it," McEnroe said. "The less I think about it, the better I play."

All players agree that Wimbledon is one of the most demanding tournaments in the world. Normally, in the second week, the players get a day's rest between each singles match. This time, because of the heavy backlog of matches, they must play every day if they are to reach the final stages.

McEnroe was scheduled to play Lloyd Bourne, a 23-year-old Californian, today for a place in the final 16. He and Fleming had to meet American Broderick Dyke and Australian Peter Johnston in the first round of the doubles.

McEnroe is seeded to meet Jimmy Connors in the finals. Connors faced American Drew Gitlin today in a third-round match.

A few others, including third-seeded Vitas Gerulaitis, were at the same stage as McEnroe and Connors. But, they were a round ahead of 36 players who still had to complete the second round.

Today's schedule sent Chris Evert Lloyd, the defending women's champion, against Kate Latham in a third-round match. Lloyd was aiming to join her top rival, top-seeded Martina Navratilova, in the final 16.

Tracy Austin, seeded third, was paired against Kathy Jordan. Andrea Jaeger, the French Open runner-up and No. 4 seed, faced Ros Fairbank of South Africa.

There was plenty of sunshine but no tennis on Sunday. All-England Club officials spent the day working on emergency plans to beat the railway and subway strikes, which threatened to paralyze Britain.

Ayala Wins Decision

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - Unbeaten junior middleweight contender Tony Ayala Jr. scored a unanimous decision over Curtis Ramsey in a 10-round bout at Will Rogers Coliseum here Saturday night.

Ayala, now 20-0 and rated third by the World Boxing Association, suffered a cut for the first time in his career and was forced to go the distance for only the third time.

Ramsey lived up to his nickname of "The Razor" by opening a cut over Ayala's right eye with a combination left and right near the end of the fifth round.

Charged with a low blow in the sixth round, Ayala came back to score to the body in the seventh. Ramsey claimed another low blow in that round and referee Spider Bynum advised Ayala to get his punches up during the middle of the round.

Astros 'Pen' Pierced

HOUSTON (AP) -The Houston Astros' bullpen received another critical blow Sunday when right-handed pitcher Dave Smith was placed on the 21-day disabled list.

Houston, which already has left-handed reliever Joe Sambito sidelined with a "stress riser" condition in his elbow, will fill Smith's spot by promoting Randy Moffitt from its class-AAA affiliate in Tucson.

Smith, battling a painful back problem most of this season, had a 1-3 record with a 5.60 ERA. Smith made his first major-league start Friday against Los Angeles and worked two innings.

Moffitt was with the Astros April 23-June 9, compiling an 0-3 record in a 4.82 earned run average. Moffitt is 0-0 with a 6.75 ERA and one save for the year at Tucson, and 0-0 with a 12.00 ERA since being sent back down earlier this month.

GILDER WINS WESTCHESTER
HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) - Bob Gilder, who scored an incredible double eagle on the final hole to finish off a 5-under-par 65 and tie an all-time PGA Tour scoring record in Saturday's third round, scored an easy, 5-stroke victory in the Manufacturers Hanover-Westchester Classic but fell four strokes short in his quest for the PGA Tour's all-time scoring record.

HAYNIE LPGA VICTOR
PITTSFORD, N.Y. (AP) - Sandra Haynie birdied two late holes and won the LPGA Rochester International women's golf title by six strokes with a 5-under-par 67. First place was worth $30,000.

Nancy Lopez's bid for her fourth victory in four tournaments at Locust Hill Country Club ended with her round of 71. Haynie finished 72 holes in 12-under-par 276 and Lopez and Hollis Stacy tied for second with 6-under 282s.

University.

Rains swept the second round of play Saturday, noted tournament co-coordinator Dave Foster, but weather was good Saturday morning and all day Sunday. Sixty teams - 120 golfers - participated in the meet.

First Flight honors went to Larry Anderson and Tommy Lay of Snyder, who defeated Pat Doran and Tim Flynn on the sixth playoff hole. Both teams shot 133s to tie after 36 holes. Taking third were the Fort Worth team of Lane Hafley and former WTC golfer Mike Hafley, with a 134.

Winning the Second Flight was another Midland team, Rick Hall and Mark Smith; with a 136 score. Second place went to Howard Crenshaw and Ricky Starnes just one stroke back at 138. Third was the San Angelo team of Carson Cummings and James Ramirez, who defeated Glenn Womack and Trey Womack of Colorado City on the first hole of a playoff. The teams had both shot 139s in regulation.

Midland players continued to dominate the action as Dave Brinberry
