FIGHTERS SET FOR BOUT

BELIEF FELT GAS COMPANY WANTS RAISE

Chamber of Commerce Officials Declare Producers Take Advantage of New Act.

One Asserts Lone Star Has "Drop" on Cities of North Texas Under New State Legislation.

Belief that the injunction suit brought against the North Texas Gas company by the Lone Star Gas company is the first step in an effort on the part of the company to take advantage of the transportation act, as applying to the company as a common carrier, to force the fixing of a rate of income which would provide a "fair return" on the investment, figured on the basis of present valuations, was expressed Friday by a prominent Chamber of Commerce official.

"If such a valuation is established on the basis of present day prices, and prices obtaining when the Lone Star company made some heavy investments, a particularly high price for gas will be obtained," he said.

"And, if it is defeated, it will take the most careful kind of work and cooperation on the part of all cities and towns affected.

"This is particularly true as I believe that should my theory prove correct, the gas company could go all the way to the Supreme court with the advantage rather on their side.

"The kind of a fight which the cities and towns face is demonstrated by the helplessness of these same cities and towns when the "pistol" was held to their head at the time the recent increases were granted—granted on the terms of paying or going cold."

MANN TO REPRESENT CITY AT CONFERENCE.

City Attorney E. M. Mann of Wichita Falls, will attend a conference in Dallas today of representatives of North Texas cities affected by injunction action taken by the North Texas Gas company to keep the Lone Star Gas company from cutting off the gas at Wichita Falls and practically every other city in North Texas.

This conference was called by Mayor Wilson of Sherman for the purpose of "lining up" all of the towns affected for concerted action, it is said.

While it was not expressly stated in the call, Judge W. N. Bonner, commissioner of pubic utilities, believes that the conference will be attended by attorneys of the gas companies involved and that an explanation of the action in seeking the injunction will be given also the probable outcome of the controversy.

This hearing is called at this time to give the city officials of the towns interested an opportunity to exchange views and discuss methods of preventing any possible raise in the gas rate before the hearing granted by Judge Kenneth Force of the Fourteenth District court, on July 5, takes place.

Whether the injunction proceedings will develop that this suit is merely a nominal affair calculated as a preliminary to raising the gas rate is not known here and different opinions have been passed. The report that the Ohio Cities Gas company of Pittsburgh recently secured holdings in the Lone Star company and that the new owners were opposed to the present contract on the ground that it encouraged waste has not been definitely confirmed but is thought to have a bearing on the situation.

It is known definitely that the North Texas cities will fight the move to either cut them off from gas or raise the rate unless they are shown that there is justifiable grounds for so doing.

City Attorney Mann has received no instructions from the city commission regarding the action to be taken by the cities represented at the Dallas conference, Judge Bonner said, the trip there being chiefly an effort to secure more information as to the real situation.

PROHIBIT USE OF AMERICAN MONEY

By Associated Press.

LAREDO, Texas, July 1.—Beginning tomorrow a governmental decree forbidding the use of any foreign money as a circulating medium in Mexico, with the single exception of American gold, will be strictly enforced, Mexican officials at Nuevo Laredo announced today.

Americans carrying American gold into Mexico must spend of exchange it there for Mexican money, it was stated, as all gold sought to be exported from the country will be confiscated by special officers stationed at international bridges.

PEACE WITH GERMANY NOW PROVIDED FOR

Compromise Resolution Ending War With Central Powers Is Adopted by House and Senate.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Enactment of the compromise resolution, ending the state of war with Germany and Austria finally was completed by congress and the measure now goes to the president who is expected to sign it within a few days.

Final action on the measure taken was by the senate which adopted the conference reports by a vote of 38 to 19, after a day of debate in which the democratic members made a last assault on the resolution. The House acted yesterday, the vote being 283 to 59.

The signing of the measure by the president will open the way for the resumption of diplomatic relations with Germany and Austria but administration officers have indicated that plans for this have not been worked out. All opponents of the resolution were democrats, b ut three democrats, Shields of Tennessee; Walsh, of Massachusetts, and Watson of Georgia, voted with republicans for adoption. Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, was paired in its favor.

DEATH CHEATS LAW IN CHASE OF MURDERER

DALLAS, Texas, July 1.—Stopping a negro funeral procession and examining the corpse while the mourners and other attendants stood by horrified, Dallas policemen today found that death had stepped in and cheated the law in the chase for Frank Dawson, negro bandit, who with two other bandits killed two policemen in Chicago a week ago. The negro died yesterday in Dallas from bullet wounds.

The discovery was made by accident, two officers standing on the street watching a negro funeral procession go by. Asking a negro onlooker who was dead they were told it was Frank Dawson. Stopping the procession they ordered the coffin and holding up the funeral until a photograph could be secured they established the dead man's identity.

It was not known in Chicago that Dawson had been hit, but bullets received in the gun fight, when the two Chicago officers were killed proved fatal to the fleeing bandit. Since the holdup a nation wide search has been conducted for the bandit.

ALLIES TELL TURK PORTE WHAT "CASUS BELLI" IS

By Associated Press.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 1.—The allied high commissioners have informed the Porte that violation of the neutral zone will be regarded as a casus belli.

The grand viser, Tewfik Pasha, has begged the Angora government to respect the allied demand for neutrality in the zone.

Ismid is entirely depopulated. Fifty thousand refugees—Greeks, Turks and Armenians—have evacuated to Thrace and Constantinople.

GEN. PERSHING BECOMES ARMY CHIEF OF STAFF

Commander of American Expeditionary Forces Assumes Highest Military Office in America.

Instructs Officers to Assist Ex-Service Men and Enlisted Personnel in Every Possible Way.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Within a few hours after he became chief of staff of the army today, General Pershing was acting as secretary of war. Secretary Weeks left for a five day visit to his farm in Lancaster, N. H., and Assistant Secretary Wainwright was on an ispection tour of army posts in the South.

General Pershing's first act upon entering his new office was to order officers of the regular army to "help their less fortunate comrades," former service men, in making contact with the bureau of war risk insurance to renew or convert their insurance, to obtain medical or dental treatment, hospitalization or vocational training, or to present their claims for compensation.

MAY URGE DOCTORS TO CUT CHARGES

Chamber of Commerce Will Discuss Professional Fees Today.

Discussion of professional charges on the part of physicians, surgeons, dentists, nurses and allied professions and callings from the standpoint of a possible reduction will feature a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce directors to be held Saturday morning at the Chamber of Commerce.

The meeting will be a continuation of a discussion initiated at a special meeting of the board held Friday morning, at which several of the directors indicated belief that an adjustment should be made. A committee representing the medical profession is invited to meet with the board for the purpose of discussing these charges, and the possibility of their being reduced.

No action was taken on the matter Friday morning, although presented, several of the board holding that the situation should be presented from the standpoint of the members of the profession before the board should adopt any attitude.

MARKET AND CROP ESTIMATES JOINED

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Consolidation of the bureau of markets and the bureau of crop estimates effective tomorrow, was announced today by the department of agriculture.

Leon M. Estabrook, former chief of the latter bureau and now associate chief of the markets section will supervise the work of both until a successor is appointed to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Georgia Livingston.

Mr. Livingston will be retained at the request of Secretary Wallace as a consulting specialist of the agriculture department for an indefinite period.

UNKNOWN VICTIMS OF WRECK STILL HELD

By Associated Press.

TEMPLE, Texas, July 1.—The bodies of three men, killed in a Katy freight train wreck near Troy yesterday and burned beyond recognition, still are held in a local undertaking parlor with faint hope that any of the victims will ever be identified.

YEAR'S WHEAT EXPORTS HIT 87,000,000 IN TEXAS PORTS

By Associated Press.

GALVESTON, July 1.—Roughly 87,000,000 bushels of wheat were exported from Galveston and its subport of Texas City during the fiscal year ending yesterday, according to estimates of the Galveston cotton exchange and board of trade. Texas City shipped 11,725,765 bushels of the total exported. The twelve month period showed an increase in wheat exports of approximately 56,000,000 bushels.

VERDICT IN GAINES TRIAL EXPECTED TO COME TODAY

By Associated Press.

DALLAS, July 1.—The jury in the trial of Charles E. Gaines, alias Georges Wheeler charged with murder in connection with the fatal shooting of G. W. Street, postal clerk, last January, retired tonight without rendering a verdict. The jury was given the case shortly after noon. A verdict is expected tomorrow.

CHAMPION AND CHALLENGER SURE OF VICTORY AS BOUT DRAWS NEAR

DEMPSEY WILL WIN WITHIN 3 OR 4 ROUNDS SAYS MANAGER KEARNS

Jack Kearns, manager for Jack Dempsey:

"We expect to win over Georges Carpentier in 3 or 4 rounds. I will not be surprised if Dempsey stops him in the first round. This of course depends upon the style adopted by Carpentier.

"The Dempsey who will defend his title as world's champion, is the fastest, hardest hitting, gamest heavyweight who ever stepped inside of a ring. After the fight is over I think every one who saw it will agree with me.

"Dempsey is in better condition than he has ever been. He has trained hard and faithfully and I never felt more confident of winning a fight. I am convinced that he will beat Carpentier and do it decisively. The champion is bigger and stronger and even a greater fighter than when he defeated Willard two years ago.

"Dempsey is in great shape and will do his best and if beaten will have no excuse to offer."

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 1.—Pugilistic history will be made in a huge pine board arena in Jersey City tomorrow afternoon when Jack Dempsey defends his heavyweight championship against the fistic challenger, Georges Carpentier. It will be an international glove contest in the broadest application of the term. Every section of the globe will await with keen interest the outcome of the battle between the American holder of a long record of ring victories, and the Frenchman, noted equally for his prowess in the squared circle of the battlefield of the world war.

The last legal obstacle to the match was removed late today when the Hudson county grand jury refused to return an indictment charging the principals and promoters with conspiracy to hold a prize fight in violation of the New Jersey state law.

SUPREME CONFIDENCE REIGNS IN BOTH CAMPS.

NEW YORK, July 1.—Supreme confidence appeared to reign in the camps of Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier on the eve of their championship bout in Jersey City tomorrow.

Special statements furnished the Associated Press either directly or indirectly by the principals, their managers and the promoter follows:

By Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the world:

"I am in the best shape of my career, ready and anxious to give an account of myself in the ring as champion of the world. I expect to win, and win as quickly as possible. If one punch will knock Carpentier out, I'll be better satisfied.

"But regardless of how long the fight goes, the public can depend on me to do my level best every second of the way. I am proud to represent America against the European challenger and this pride will cause me to make what I feel will be the greatest fight in my life.

"I never was more anxious to win a fight than this one. Of course, I know that Carpentier is a great hitter, but I feel confident that I will be able to successfully defend my title. I have faithfully trained the best I know how. I put in ten weeks of work—six weeks of real hard training.

"I am ready."

By Georges Carpentier, challenger:

"When I go into the ring against Jack Dempsey, I will be prepared to make the supreme effort of my fighting career."

"You can also say for Georges," added Trainer Wilson, "that he is in condition to fight a great battle; that he will bring all the experience of fourteen years of training to bear, and that, if Dempsey defeats him, America can claim a real champion, for Georges Carpentier is a great fighter and to beat him he will indeed be a champion. We have no excuses to make and the victory will be ours."

The setting for the bout will be in keeping with the magnitude of the affair. Seats have been provided for more than ninety thousand spectators and a major portion of them have been sold. A purse of five hundred thousand dollars has been given by Promoter Tex Rickard. Of the huge sum, an amount far in excess of any financial compensation ever offered pugilists in the past, Dempsey will receive $300,000 and Carpentier $200,000 regardless of the outcome.

Ticket Sale Million and Half

Advance ticket sales up to early tonight amounted to nearly one and a half million dollars. Regardless of the enormous expense attendant upon the venture, Rickard is certain to clear a net profit several times larger than any that has resulted from his previous efforts in this direction. While official figures are not available at this time, it is estimated that the purse, cost of arena and enormous overhead expenses will mount close to the million dollar mark.

Rickard, Dempsey and Carpentier will not be the only persons to profit by the "battle of the century." As the contest has been aptly named. Uncle Sam, as represented by the internal revenue collectors, will receive a large share of the proceeds. The promoter, principals and scores of others connected with the bout in minor capacities will contribute under the income tax laws a total sum estimated at close to five hundred thousand dollars.

Every nook and cranny of the globe will be represented in the vast assemblage of spectators. In the past 48 hours virtually every incoming train has brought its quota of fight fans from all section of the United States, Canada and Mexico.

Transatlantic and coastwise steamships have added hundreds more to the crowd that will descend upon Jersey City tomorrow morning. France, the home of the challenger; England, where he is most equally popular, Spain and other continental countries, South America and the Far East will all be represented.

Past Pictures Fade.

All past impressions of the huge fight crowds and the attendant pictures of interest and enthusiasm retained upon the mental retina of veteran boxing authorities fade before the magnitude of present scenes. Reno, with its gathering for the Johnson-Jeffries clash; Havana, the site of the Willard-Johnson battle, and Toledo, where Dempsey wrested his present title and ring honors from Jess Willard, offered nothing that compares with the night before scenes on the eve of the Dempsey-Carpentier battle.

Great as were these heavyweight championship contests and the assemblies that witnessed them, the contest but a few hours away appears to exceed in pugilistic possibilities, attendance and gate receipts, spiced with an air of mystery surrounding the person of Georges Carpentier, any of the bouts of the title since the day when the idol of the ring, John L. Sullivan, fell before "Gentleman Jim" Corbett at New Orleans.

The outcome of the battle appears to be the one and only subject of discussion and controversy among millions of persons who normally take only the slightest interest in matters pugilistic.

Sentiment for Challenger.

Sentiment appears to lean strongly in favor of Carpentier, probably because of the halo of heroism that the war has given him. However, but a very small percentage of the Frenchman's well wishers care to carry their enthusiasm to the points of betting on him to win.

Dempsey is a 2 1-2 to 1 favorite in the wagering and there are thousands of dollars of uncovered wagers here tonight, although betting by the Frenchman's supporters has increased

CARPENTIER WILL KNOCK OUT CHAMPION IN FIVE ROUNDS SAYS DESCAMPS

Francois Descamps, manager of Carpentier, speaking through Tex Rickard:

"I confidently expect Georges Carpentier to win the world's heavyweight championship from Dempsey inside of five rounds. Georges has trained faithfully and is in the best condition of his life. His long ring experience has fitted him for any form of attack and every member of the Carpentier camp from Georges himself, down to the man at the gate is supremely confident of the outcome. Georges Carpentier will be the new champion before nightfall Saturday."

Promoter Tex Rickard:

"The heavyweight championship contest between Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier is the most successful in every respect that I have ever attempted to promote. The arena is the largest ever built for a boxing contest.

"The bout itself has created more interest, both national and international, than any other ring contest at any weight. After promotion of the Johnson-Jeffries match at Reno, in 1910, I thought that no future bout could equal that battle in general interest, but a short span of eleven years has produced another heavyweight title bout greater in every respect.

"Without preference or choice as to the principals, I can only say, may the best man win in a sportsmanlike manner."

DEMPSEY IS FAVORITE IN LATE BETTING

Odds of Two and a Half to One Offered on Jack Retaining Crown.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 1.—Jack Dempsey probably will enter the ring tomorrow a 2 1-2 to 1 favorite over Georges Carpentier, the French challenger.

When the Wall street brokerage houses closed today, it was estimated that two hundred thousand dollars had been placed during the day on the outcome of the contest. In all five hundred thousand dollars is believed to have been wagered in the financial district here, which is not a high figure compared with some of the wagers made in previous titular contests.

The total amount of money to change hands in the bets on the outcome probably will run into the millions, although there is no way of establishing definitely the exact or approximate amounts wagered throughout this country and Europe.

The largest single bet made here was $30,000 to $10,000 that Dempsey would win. That wager, made early this morning, was exceptional, as the odds later tapered 2 1-2 to 1 and 2 to 1 on the champion. These odds are expected to continue until the hour of the fight.

Indications a week ago were that Dempsey would enter the ring the most pronounced favorite in modern heavyweight title bouts. Four to one and three to one were the odds generally quoted, with Carpentier money scarce.

Thursday afternoon saw a mystifying shift, marked by an avalanche of Carpentiers money and followed as suddenly by the disappearance of Dempsey currency.

The sudden contraction of Dempsey money, which refused 2 1-2 to 1, was believed in many quarters to be a ruse to shorten the odds on which Carpentier adherents insisted.

BONOMI ENTRUSTED WITH NEW CABINET

By Associated Press.

ROME, July 1.—King Victor Emmanuel late today entrusted Signor Bonomi with the task of forming a cabinet to succeed the ministry of Premier Giolitti which tedered its resignation early in the week. WOMAN LECTURER IS KIDNAPPED IN IDAHO

By Associated Press

TWIN FALLS, Idaho, July 1.—Mrs. Kate Richards O'Hare, widely known socialist writer and lecturer, who was released from Federal prison by President Wilson after she had served 14 months of a sentence for violating the espionage law, this afternoon was kidnapped from the Twin Falls home of H. H. Friedheim, her sponsor for a lecture to have been delivered here this evening, by a party of a dozen or more unknown men. Inadequate descriptions of her abductors have been furnished to the authorities, but no trace of them had come to light late this evening.

SOUTH BEND SHOWS SPIRIT IN WELCOME

Linking of Young County Oil Town to This City Is Celebrated in Appropriate Style.

Talks of Day Praise Local Industry and Enterprise for Building of Connecting Road.

Special to The Record News.

SOUTH BEND, July 1.—A hearty welcome, expressed by hundreds of the citizenship of South Bend and of the southern part of Young county, greeted the first passenger train to enter South Bend over the rails of the Wichita Falls and Southern at 12:40 today, and to extend a warm welcome to the near four score Wichitans and representatives of other cities who came on the train to participate in the celebration.

The progressiveness and enterprise of the Wichita Falls people, as exemplified by those who are building the railroad, as well as of the large number who put their money into the development of the South Bend field, was generously praised by their hosts for the day, both by those who appeared on the program, and those who saw to the informal entertainment of the trippers throughout the various events of the day.

Immediately on arrival after being met by a brass band, a large number of school children, and thousands of South Bend and Young county people, the visitors were entertained with a delightful luncheon.

Following the luncheon came the short speaking program. C. A. Bennett of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce presided, and Judge W. E. Witcher, president of the South Bend Chamber of Commerce welcomed the visitors, including in his talk a number of generous expressions of good will for the Wichitans, and voicing admiration and respect for the individuals building the railroad line.

The response was made by Bert Bean, personal representative of the "Who Can Beat It" brand, who declared South Bend to be the cleanest oil town he had ever seen, and displaying a civic spirit which he had never seen excelled by any other oil town anywhere.

E. S. Graham, the mayor of Graham, also made a brief talk, expressing the good will of the people of his city both to South Bend and Wichita Falls. Speakers from Fort Worth and Dallas also appeared on the program.

ONE CURE IS REPORTED DUE TO "TAR AND"

By Associated Press.

YOAKUM, Texas, July 1.—William Reutlinger, tarred and feathered by unknown parties Saturday night, has written the following letter to the public:

"You are aware of the punishment meted out to me last Saturday night for leading an immoral life. I am guilty of having erred as other men have, and acknowledge it, but have lived here for the last 30 years and now being an old man, I desire to continue this as my home and promise, if allowed to remain here, that I will never again give cause for any action on my account by the citizenship of this community and will always live the life of a law abiding, loyal, American citizen, if given another chance.

(Signed) "Respectfully,
"WILLIAM REUTLINGER."

YANK TROOPS ON RHINE HAVE GREAT MORAL EFFECT

By Associated Press.

PARIS, July 1.—Comment today in official circles on a report that the United States might recall the American troops along the Rhine on July 4 was to the effect that it would be regrettable if the unity of the front on the Rhine was broken because the presence of the American soldiers is of great moral effect, even though the United States has not ratified the treaty of Versailles.

Hope was expressed that the report was untrue.

LIBERATE ANOTHER IRISH PARLIAMENTARIAN

By Associated Press.

DUBLIN, July 1.—R. C. Barton, member of parliament for East Wicklow, was liberated today from Portland prison, according to the Daily Eireann's publicity department, which announces that Mr. Barton's sister has received a telegram to that effect.

RAIL UNION HEADS STILL CONSIDER CUTS

Undecided Whether or Not Employes Should Be Advised to Accept Wage Reductions.

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 1.—Railway union leaders tonight were undecided on their final attitude toward the general twelve per cent wage reduction which became effective today on virtually every railroad in the country by order of the United States railroad labor board.

Despite considerable dissatisfaction displayed among many employes, no reports of sporadic strikes or any threats of strikes were reported to union chiefs here today.

Approximately 1,500 delegates from system organizations of the Big Four brotherhoods, the shop crafts, the maintenance of way men, telegraphers, clerks and switchmen met here today to canvass the situation. Heads of the big four and the sixteen American federation of labor unions held a short meeting this morning before the officers separated to convene the federation meetings.

The executive meetings, it was said, took no action other than to place the entire wage situation in the hands of a committee headed by B. M. Jewell, president of the railway employes department of the American Federation of Labor. The other members are E. H. Fitzgerald, president of the brotherhood of railway and steamship clerks, freight handlers, express and station employes; L. E. Sheppard, president of the Order of Railway Conductors; E. J. Manion, president of the Order of Railway Telegraphers and Timothy Shea, vice president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

PULLMAN COMPANY TO ORDER CUT IN WAGES

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 1.—After acceding to the dictum of the United States railroad labor board directing that wage negotiations be held with union representatives instead of employes en masse, the Pullman Company today was given permission to make wage reductions for shop crafts employes. The reduction will amount to from 6 to 8 cents an hour and become effective today.

VISITORS RETURN

Special to The Record News.

CLARENDON, Texas, July 1.—Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Mitchell of Wichita Falls, Texas, who have been visiting their daughter, Mrs. A. N. McCardell, returned to their home today.

CULPEPPER HOLDS TWO SERVICES

Two great religious services were held in Wichita Falls last night—one for women only at the First Methodist church, south, led by Mrs. E. C. Huckabee, and one at the "Al Fresco" tabernacle, corner Eleventh and Scott, for men only, conducted by Evangelist Burke Culpepper.

As had been announced the subject used by Evangelist Culpepper was "Detectives," or "The Sleuth Hounds of Hell Are on Your Track." Contrary to some, Mr. Culpepper spoke along an entirely different line from what was expected. His message, though forceful and emphatic, was free from vulgar or coarse and was a red-blooded message to red-blooded men, along sane lines.

"I'm going to try to do a real community piece of work tonight," said the speaker at the opening of his sermon, "and I want your careful, prayerful attention that I may put it over." And in presenting the subject one could clearly see that it forms the foundation not only of true Christian practice and living, but the basis for civic development.

Before taking his text Mr. Culpepper said he thought Wichita Falls "the city that faith built," was destined to become a greater city than El Paso or a number of other towns and cities in the state where he had been. He thought that it would easily run to 75,00 or 100,000. With two "cracker jack" newspapers, fine paved streets, palatial homes, hotels that would do credit to cities much larger, beautiful churches, some of the best pastors he had ever met, good street car service, a splendid railroad center, there was no reason why the city should not become great in potential power. He said one way to build a city was for its citizens to pull together, and boost instead of knocking, and if every man would go to boosting instead of knocking, then the slogan could read "we have faith not only in our city, but in each other."

The large crowd of men present gave the evangelist deepest and most earnest attention as he took his text from Proverbs 13:15, "Good understanding giveth favor; but the way of the transgressors is hard." Mr. Culpepper said there were two roads that ran through this life—one was filled with beautiful and sweet scented flowers, and the end of which was righteousness and peace; while the other was strewn with thorns and briars and the end was disappointment and death.

As Adam and Eve left the beautiful garden, never more to wander down its daisy-covered valleys, drink of its purling, gurgling streams, a voice rang out from heaven which said, "The way of the transgressor is hard." As Cain fled from the presence of God with his dead brother's bloody corpse swinging to his guilty conscience, he heard the same words —"The way of the transgressor is hard!"

Mr. Culpepper said that the way of the transgressor was not only hard but it was hardening; that there were men in the audience if they were not reached now would never be reached for the church. He said the way of the transgressor was also hardest on the transgressor's best friend, and gave many human interest stories in support of the assertion, showing how the innocent had and was suffering as a consequence of man's transgression of not alone civil laws, but divine laws, saying that sin was an opiate—a narcotic—that it would "get your tag," "knock you out of the box," and at last land the transgressor in hell. It was also heartrending.

Mr. Culpepper said he wanted the favor of Dr. Knickerbocker and his splendid board, and wanted the favor of Wichita Falls, but if he had to sacrifice the favor of man or God, then man's favor would have to go.

It was a great service, and the large audience responded feelingly to the words of the speaker.

A large number made the "great decision" to put God first in their lives and line up with the church.

The Women's Service Last Night.

The spacious auditorium of the First Methodist church was filled with representative women of Wichita Falls last night—mothers, daughters, wives, sweethearts—for prayer, while the men held forth at the open air tabernacle.

The meeting was led by Mrs. E. C. Huckabee, who displayed marked ability in handling the subject chosen for the occasion. Much emphasis was placed upon the importance of keeping the home attractive, mothers keeping a closer relationship with their daughters, keeping up the family altar and emphasizing the fact that the church was woman's greatest friend and protector.

Mrs. Huckabee's appeals were forceful and she had the sympathetic cooperation of her audience from the very first words, holding it until the last note from the organ sounded the closing hymn.

By her charming manner and sweet Christian simplicity the speaker won the hearts of her audience, and when she extended an invitation for those who were out of the church to give their names, the response was very gratifying indeed, as many came forward, professing faith in Jesus Christ and a desire to connect themselves with some church.

MISS STONE BECOMES BRIDE OF ANDERSON

Miss Helen Stone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Stone, of 1400 Grant street and Charles L. Anderson were quietly married at the home of the bride's parents, Friday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock by the Rev. N. F. Grafton, pastor of the First Presbyterian church.

Both young people are well known here and popular members of the younger society set. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson left immediately following the ceremony for New York City, and other eastern cities and Canada for a month's wedding tour.

Following their return, they will accompany the bride's parents to California where they will spend the remainder of the summer.

Another pretty American screen star is sailing to join the American colony abroad. She is Miss Corinne Riely Barker. Miss Barker may do more than take a vacation abroad. She is seriously considering making an appearance on the legitimate stage while in Europe. Miss Barker has had many roles on the legitimate stage in this country as well as in pictures. She has played with Julian Eltinge, Elsie Ferguson and many other well known stars.

SEND NEW AXLE TO BROKEN DOWN CAR BY AIRPLANE

Making the trip of 156 miles between Wichita Falls and Matador in two hours, H. K. Neal, pilot of the Aerial Transportation Company, and Harry Smith, automobile mechanic, brought relief to J. I. Staley, Rice Romming and party, of this city, stranded with a broken axle just outside Matador Thursday afternoon on the way to Mr. Staley's New Mexico ranch.

At 3:40 a message was received in Wichita Falls telling of the breaking of an axle on Mr. Ramming's automobile. At 4 o'clock Mr. Neal, Mr. Smith and the axle set out. At 6 o'clock they were at the delayed automobile, and at 6:30 the party was again on the way to New Mexico.

AUTO DEALERS HAVE MEETING

MANY HERE FOR REVIVAL

A number of out of town visitors are reported to be here for the old-fashioned camp meeting, now being conducted by Charles F. Parham, of Baxter Springs, Kansas, in a special open air tabernacle near Tenth and Buchanan streets.

In addition to preaching at the tent Evangelist Parham will conduct shop services and will speak each evening at 6:30 o'clock at the corner of Eighth and Indiana streets.

The musical programs during the meeting will be in charge of Fred A. Campbell, of Baxter Springs.

The meetings started July 1 and will continue for two weeks. Special all day services are announced for July 4.

All visitors must arrange for their own board and rooms, an announcement states. Those in charge of the camp asks that any one having light housekeeping rooms near the tent to let those at the camp know how many can be accommodated.

What's Use of Working, Anyway!

Another good thing about increasing the number of holidays is, if we can get two or three hundred of them, it might obviate the necessity for going out on a strike.

FIND HOWATT GUILTY FOR STRIKE CALL

Jury Holds Head of Kansas Miners' Union Violated Industrial Law in Ordering Walkout.

By Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, Kan., July 1.—Alexander Howat and August Dorchy, president and vice-president of the Kansas Miners Union, were found guilty of violation of the Kansas industrial court law criminally by calling a strike by a jury in the Cherokee county district court this afternoon.

The jury found Howat and Dorchy guilty of a misdemeanor.

The case was based upon the calling of a strike at the Mackie "H" mine at Scammon, over a dispute as to the pay of Karl Mishmash, a young miner.

TITTLE WILL TALK ON "PATRIOTISM"

"The Highest Patriotism" will be the subject of the Sunday morning sermon by Rev. W. L. Tittle, pastor of the Floral Heights Methodist church. There will be no evening service on account of the Culpepper revival. An invitation to those who intend to join the church is extended at the morning service.

After this Sunday, Rev. Tittle announced that the Sunday evening services will be featured and will be the kind that are enjoyed by all.

YESTERDAY'S NEWSPAPER AFIRE CALL FIREMEN

The Wichita Falls central station fire department had another "formal showing" Friday afternoon when it made a quick and dusty run to the corner of Austin and Seventh street, where a trash box suffered total loss amounting to a yesterday's paper and other supernumerary articles.

In Iceland the nesting grounds of the eider duck are regarded as very valuable property. The birds, are carefully protected from injury or annoyance, and it is a criminal offense to fire a gun within a mile of the nests.

HOLD LOCAL MAN CHARGED WITH FRAUD

John S. Mabry, formerly one of the managing attorneys, and the active head of the Wichita Great Western Underwriters, was arrested in Dallas Thursday night following the return of a Federal indictment at Amarillo alleging use of the United States mails in a scheme to defraud. News of Mabry's arrest was contained in a letter from Postoffice Inspector Wallace, who made the arrest, to Ed Howard, postmaster, Friday.

The firm for which Mabry was the active head several months ago announced a suspension of business, and cancellation of policies coincident with announcement by other members of the organization of acceptance of Mabry's resignation. Since that time the affairs of the organization have been put in the hands of a receiver.

MINNICK AIDS WICHITA POLOISTS IN 9 TO 3 WIN OVER FORT SILL

With the help of Jim Minnick, ranchman and hard riding poloist, who joined the aggregation on the eve of the game, the Wichita Falls Polo club evened things for their recent defeat by the Fort Sill Polo team by nine goals to three. Minnick was one of the stars for the Wichita Falls bunch on the offensive, shooting four goals himself; Warren Jennings scored four, and Cecil Wilfong the remaining counter.

The two clubs play again today, the aggregation from this city going against the strongest combination the Fort Sill crowd can muster.

YANKS WANT ALIEN CASH FOR TRADING

By BASCOM N. TIMMONS.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—American bankers are again turning to the approximately $450,000,000 of foreign securities and cash held by the Alien Property Custodian as a basis for the extension of American trade, and particularly for the disposal of huge stocks of cotton and sugar.

Reversion to the plan prepared by a coterie of Eastern bankers with the aid of government officials and outlined several months ago is the result of the antagonism of bankers and the administration to any further extension of credit to foreign buyers of American commodities. This plan was approved by Attorney General Palmer, treasury officials and leaders of the senate and presented to former President Wilson for approval, but was never acted upon.

This is what Secretary of Commerce Hoover is supposed to have had in mind last Saturday when he opposed the Norris bill to create a $100,000,000 government farm export corporation on the ground that while the situation today "has reduced the purchasing power of the American farmer 67 per cent and has put him in the most serious duress agriculture has ever had to face" he "could not feel that the extension of further credit facilities for the supply of food products to Europe would give any adequate remedy."

Mobilizing Credits.

Secretary Hoover flatly told the committee that he does not want to see the government "push farther into the conduct of business." He added that "efforts are being made by the administration to mobilise banking credits for carrying over surpluses of cotton and sugar."

The $450,000,000 cash and securities held by the Alien Property Custodian is owned by Germans, Austrians, French, Belgians, Britains and nationals of other countries who were ni Germany or Austria-Hungary when the United States entered the war.

In creating the office of the Alien custodian congress reserved to itself the right of disposing of this property, but in a later opinion Mr. Palmer held that the president, simply by executive order, could permit the utilization of the property in any manner that would be in the interest of the United States and would also protect the original owners.

The plan of the bankers, who included Morgan & Co., Charles H. Sabin, president of the Guaranty Trust Company; Albert Wiggins of the Chase National Bank, Thomas W. Lemont and others, was the establishment of a $3,000,000,000 corporation under the Edge law with the $450,000,000 of alien property as a basis.

Secured By Debentures.

All of the principal would be secured by debentures and further protected by issuance of common stock. The proposed ratio of credit to capital would be 10 to 1, making a total credit of $5,000,000,000 to be expended in the United States.

Previous to the submission of the plan to President Wilson for approval arrangements were completed in Germany, through the formation of powerful trade and banking syndicates, for the handling in that country of all the credit to which it would be entitled. The syndicates appointed a trustee, who was to be held responsible for an equal distribution of raw materialns.

These bakers will point out that the property held by the Alien Property Custodian is the only cash, or its equivalent, available for the purchase of American commodities by European countries. They will insist that the plan will eliminate the depressing effect of credit expansion and in its stead furnish the natural stimulus of cash ntrasactions as the corporation in making purchases would pay in either cash or negotiable securities.

This, it is said, would automatically relieve the producer of the burden of carrying credits where there is but little possibility of early collection and would give him the cash or its equivalent necessary to the planting and production of next year's crops.

FOREIGN CAPITAL FEARED BY CUBANS

By Associated Press.

HAVANA, July 1.—The newspaper La Discusion has published a charge that a "capitalistic plot" to dominate the Cuban sugar industry has been formed and that all the Cuban sugar centrals will be owned by foreigners. The newspaper asserts that "when the Cuban sugar business is found in foreign hands, it is almost certain that the price of sugar will rise as if by magic and that the business will be on an even more stndendous scale than now.

"When American capitalists began an invasion to secure control of Cuban centrals," the paper continued, "they foresaw an era of prosperity and bought, without sparing their millions as many sugar properties as were for sale. The price of the product rose to 23 cents, then it was seen that a good part of the crop remained in Cuban hands and that the Cubans aspired to obtain the highest possible price. Then the price well like an avalanche from 23 to 3 cents.

"First a bank crisis, then a currency crisis. There was no money to pay for refining, nobody to buy this year's crop from the Cubans.

"Our sugar men now find themselves owing large sums of money to the banks. They have not been able to sell their crop. With the termination of the moratorium will disappear the restriction against pending commercial obligations. The sugar men have to pay or go bankrupt. The banks are not interested in holding sugar centrals.

"On the other hand, there exists much idle foreign capital which is anxious to make a killing. Right now a powerful company is being formed to acquire every central and plantation whose owner cannot pay. The properties secured, the debts will be paid. So what is worth from five to ten is secured for one. A case of opportunity."

Now Will They Be Good?

President Harding notifies those of the bureaucrats who won't play the game of efficiency that they may go into retirement along with the democrats.

RECIPES

Cookies—Cream one egg with one cup sugar, two-thirds cup melted shortening, fill cup with sour milk and stir in one-half teaspoon soda, add to egg and sugar. Flavor with nutmeg and use flour, in which is sifted one teaspoon salt, just sufficient to make dough as soft as can be handled. Roll thin, bake quickly.

Lettuce Salad — Use the outer leaves, and shred with scissors. Cut a few radishes very thin, a bit of green pepper over, and salad dressing made by the following recipe:

Salad Dressing — One egg, two tablespoons good vinegar, three tablespoons dry mustar, one-quarter tablespoon paprika, one or one and one-half cups oil. Beat egg and dry ingredients and vinegar and rub smooth. Add oil, one-third cup at a time, beating thoroughly each time before adding more. If desired thicker add more oil.

Cornbread—Two eggs, a little salt, two tablespoons drippings, two tablespoons sugar, one large cup sweet milk, two teaspoons baking powder in two-thirds cup flour, cornmeal to make a thin batter. Bake twenty minutes.

SUGGESTIONS

Use Milk—Milk is good for patent leather shoes. First remove all dust from the shoes, then rub them well with a cloth dampened with milk. The milk not only polishes the shoes but preserves the leather.

Occasionally Wipe the Windows with clean paper, tissue paper is best, but newspaper may be used, and so keep the dust and dirt from accumulating and minimize the number of real window washings necessary. You will be surprised at the amount of dirt that the paper collects from the window panes, at the ease with which you can thus clean them, and at the result, clear, shining windows.

Use Tops—This is the season in which you should utilize the tender tops of beets. If you want a spinach which is more than just spinach in flavor, cook the young beet tops, just as you do the other greens and serve them so.

Saving the Lemon—If you wish to use only a little juice don't cut the lemon in halves, but make a small incision in the peel and squeeze out the amount you need. The rest of the lemon will then keep longer without drying up.

Soles for Slippers—Old felt hats cut into proper size and shape make excellent soles for bedroom slippers.

Making a Camisole—Cut out the neck and sleeves of the washable blouse you have discarded, bind with ribbon and trim with an old piece of lace.

To Remove Black stamping marks out of white linen put as much celluloid starch in tepid water as will make it milky and soak the centerpiece or other article for one or two days. Then wash in the ordinary way.

SENATOR SAYS LOBBY WORKING AGAINST BILL

By BASCOM N. TIMMONS
Record News Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Senator Frelinghuysen, one of the leading administration Republicans of the senate, charged today that Washington is full of lobbyists to defeat his coal bill to "aid in stabilizing the coal industry." He warned that a tradgedy "in the nature of a coal famine is impending over the United States." The coal barons, said he, have at last convinced him that they have not been telling the truh about their profits.

"With these men," he declared, "the sub-committe of the Interstate Commerce Committee, which investigated the coal industry, was patient and conciliatory. They asserted however, that they welcomed proper legislation. Many of them were sincere.

"Nevertheless, although we made every concession we felt justified, and spent two years in conference, we find, with the price of coal still rising, that practically all of these operators, oragnized and unorganized, are bitterly opposed to the pending legislation and have organized an elaborate propaganda with a view to bringing about its defeat."

Insidious Lobby

The return of the Republicans to power has brought back the "insiduous lobby" which President Wilson denounced in 1913, and which the Mulhall investigation frightened out of the capitol for a few years. The coal lobby is one of the many lobbies operating in the open.

Mr. Frelinghuysen asserts that the National coal, the Authracite coal operators, the American Wholesale Coal Merchants associations and many state and regional organizations are united to kill this measure and all other coal legislation.

"Representing hundreds of thousands of capital, they have combined in a big union to continue their stronghold on the necks and purses of the buyers," he charges. "During the last two weeks, since the recent conferences with Secretaries Hoover and Fall, the junior senator, from New York, and myself and other officials anxiously seeking a solution of the coal problem, these powerful organizations have attacked with a violence almost unprecedented the very practical piece of elgislation now before the senate.

Throw Dust in Eyes

"Every senator and every representative has been subjected to fusillades of printed matter—atoms of fact and tons of misrepresentation. The whole purpose is to throw dust into the eyes of the people and the senate."

Mr. Frelinghuysen said the sole object of his bill is to establish complete and prompt publicity in the departments of Secretary Hoover and Secretary Fall, with regard to the production of stocks, storage, and prices at the mines, in transit, and in the final retail market.

"The operators have always claimed that it was not they who got the big profits—that their own profits were reasonablee. My own inclination has been to agree with them. In view however, of their present crusade, of misrepresentation concerning the purpose of the legislation, I am disposed to believe that they have never told the truth regarding their profits."

APPEALS FOR CLEMENCY IN MICHNA TRIAL

Declaring that the record of the defendants in the overseas forces during the late war entitled them to another chance to make good, Judge A. H. Carrigan, representing the state in the prosecution of Adolph Michna and C. A. "Red" McDonald, on trial for theft in the Eighty-ninth District court Friday morning asked the jury to give them a suspended sentence should they return a verdict of guilty.

As he told of recently finding out that McDonald had served under his son, Pat Carrigan, lieutenant, who was killed in action overseas and in whose honor the local post of the American Legion is named, Judge Carrigan broke down and was unable to continue his argument to the jury.

Shortly after he closed his plea the jury returned a verdict of guilty against both McDonald and Michna and gave them two year suspended sentences.

The trial of the cases before Judge P. A. Martin Friday morning came as a surprise. McDonald and Michna, several weeks ago, entered pleas of guilty with George Husted, local oil operator, charged with the same crime. All three were indicted in January along with several others as being implicated in the theft of a large amount of oil from the storage of the Empire Fuel and Gas company last December.

Husted was placed on trial in May and after all evidence had been introduced entered a plea of guilty as did Michna and McDonald. Since that time a motion for new trial has been overruled, in Husted's case, which is now on appeal.

Friday morning, when Judge Martin, upon agreement of both state and defense attorneys, granted new trials to both McDonald and Michna. A jury was then sworn in and the trial of the men started. Both defendants took the stand. Michna, who is the son of a wealthy royalty owner in the northwest field of the Burkburnett district, said that he had paid for the oil alleged to have been stolen from the Empire company. They told of their war records, both having served in the 36th division in which Pat Carrigan was an officer.

Judge Carrigan has had charge of the prosecution of the cases in connection with the theft as a special state attorney.

PRINCIPLES OF CZECHOSLOVAK LEGIONARIES.

The "America First" second general convention of the United Czechoslovak Legion of America which has recently been concluded in Chicago, Illinois, received an inspiring telegraphic message from President Harding, in which America's first citizen sent "warm greetings and extended his most cordial good wishes to the assembled delegates of the American veterans of the Czechoslovak Legion."

The platform proclaims emphatically the principles for which the men fought on foreign battlefields. As unanimously adopted at the convention, the platform reads: "As American citizens of Czechoslovak origin, in whom national tradition developed defenders of the principle of justice, love of liberty, and understanding of every high aspiration or idea which tends to the improvement of culture evolution and the relation of human beings economically or socially, we consider it our bounden duty to fulfill all our civic responsibilities, to preserve absolute loyalty to this land, whose democratic principles, interpreted in the ideas of the emancipators, Washington and Lincoln, have become an influential factor in the world-struggle for the independence of small nations, and in the moment of our national revolution aided in securing the freedom of the Czechoslovak nation.

"As in the past, whenever the American republic was threatened by an enemy it found among our Czechoslovak people loyal supporters and defenders, we proclaim, with a full consciousness of our grave responsibilities, that we, the Czechoslovak Legionaries of America, will continue in the future faithful to those principles and to the 'Starry Flag' which we salute as the emblem of a great nation trained in the school of great democracy, the ideal of freedom and civic equality assuring equal rights and responsibilities to all adherents, without regard to class, position, or political or religious conviction. As Czechoslovak Legionaries in public and civil life we shall remain on guard against all enemies of the nation.

"We believe in the deathlessness of the idea of world democracy, but we place ourselves from principle in opposition to every movement which under the cover of varied tendencies would force on the nation and on human society an illogical Utopia or a system of government which the majority of citizens do not approve as justly representative of their interests, and which has not been accepted by a fair or legal vote of the nation making it valid and constitutional."—Svornost (Czech, Ind.) Chicago.

BETTER THAN VICTORY.

Germany, being compelled to disarm, thereby wins an immense victory over all other countries. She does not need to keep hundreds of thousands of men in the army and the navy producing nothing. She does not need to maintain thousands of others making big guns, explosives and giant battleships. Germany can devote all her time and resources to increase her industrial efficiency and production. She can use her best brains to promote science, commerce, industries, inventions. Freed from the burden of war preparedness which swallows ninety-three percent of our national revenue, Germany is freer than any of her former enemies.

In losing the war Germany has won the greatest victory; freedom from preparedness of war.—Uusi Kotimaa (Finnish, Ind.) New York Mills, Minn.

Rippling Rhymes

by Walt Mason

TEARS, IDLE TEARS.

It doesn't help, when trouble's here, to shed the brackish, briny tear. I well recall the fateful day when my old hen refused to lay; I needed eggs to poach and boil, and brace me up for honest toil; but when I sought the biddy's coop, she'd laid no eggs, and cared no whoop. And I had fed her costly hay and kindred grub, that she might lay. I might have wept and torn my hair and rent my beard in my despair; instead of that I seized the fowl, beheaded her, despite her howl, and had her for my evening meal, and then remarked, "How good I feel!" And so I make the best of things when grief in my direction swings. I once possessed a balky steed, and when it balked 'twas vain to plead, or weep, or let hot language roll, or soak it with a cedar pole. When on a journey I would start, I took some volumes in the cart; when balkiness obsessed the steed, I'd open some good book and read, and spend an hour in comfort there, instead of pawing of the air. And when the horse desired to go, I'd speak a loud, commanding "Whoa!" And so he quit the balking game and as a trotter earned much fame, became the best of bald-faced roans, and brought me in two hundred bones. I always make the best of things, and am as happy as nine kings.

Editorial Digest

THE TROUBLE IN THE WOODPILE.

When republican state legislatures, the republican representatives in congress of a state with large lumber interests, and republican papers of the standing of the Chicago Tribune unite in opposition to the proposed tariff of twenty-five per cent on finished lumber, the Hartford Times (Dem.) seems to be justified in its remark that "it remains for any one to give a satisfactory or even an understandable reason" why such a duty should be imposed. The housing shortage and our depleted forests are brought forward as arguments against a prohibitive tariff on lumber, and while the democratic press is more widely vocal, republican papers are scarcely less vehement, even in some cases echoing the dire predictions of their democratic contemporaries of the effect on the party of the adoption of the Fordney recommendation.

There may be "some one" in the United States, the Hartford Times continues, "who wants a duty on lumber, but certainly it is not the people who use lumber, nor the great mass of those who supply their needs." Coming "just at this time, when reducing building costs and facilitating the building of homes is a matter of importance in every community," the Rochester Times-Union (Ind.) feels that a measure tending to advance the price of building material "is especially objectionable." That congress should "even consider" a protective duty on lumber is, to the Lansing (Mich.) State Journal (Ind.) "one of those inexplicable moves on its part that tends to stagger the folks back home." Another daily in Michigan, Chairman Fordney's home state, also gives warning of the attitude of mind of "folks back home," and suggests that Fordney and his colleagues "will need protection from an incensed electorate" if they persist in their demand for protection for lumber. The paper referred to is the Detroit News (Ind.), which "relays" the following message "from the heart of the people" to the men "who in the seclusion of the sanctuary of Capitol Hill are planning the tariff policy of the government:"

"There is a shortage of houses. The people are having trouble establishing and maintaining their homes because houses are costly and rents are high. Houses are built of lumber. The prices of lumber is maintained at a very high level. A tariff on lumber can effect nothing unless it increases the cost of lumber. And if the republican party is responsible for increasing the cost of lumber, continuing the present high cost of building and thus playing into the hands of the rent profiteers, it will meet with signal punishment at the hands of the people at the next election."

The effect on the housing situation is of course pointed out as the more immediate, but danger to our forests is also seen by editorial writers in the proposed measure. Mr. Fordney, the Ann Arbor (Mich.) Times-News (Ind.) says, "ought to realize better than the average person the necessity for conserving the forests of America, since his own wealth was carved out of the Michigan forests." Insisting that there is "no good reason for protective duties on lumber" the Springfield Republican (Ind.) states that such a tariff "will only hasten the destruction of what timber is left," and the Chicago Post (Ind.) feels that if everything that is said of our vanishing forests is true "there will be no need for a tariff to protect American lumber in the years to come, for there will be no American lumber to protect." While protection of the lumber industry was legitimate and justifiable "when the United States was still a heavily wooded country," that policy now, the Buffalo Express (Ind. Rep.) thinks, "is an attempt to legislate in 1921 on the ideas of thirty to fifty years ago." It asks further:

"When lumber prices are as high as they have been for many years and when house building has been brought almost to a standstill, while rents have mounted to prohibitive figures, what basis can there be for putting duties on lumber?"

In view of the plain fact that "such a duty would be unpleasant for most of us," the Worchester Telegram (Rep.) searching for the "beneficiary," imagines that there might be "certain owners of logging camps and timber lands" who wish "other lumber kept out, the price of lumber kept up and the shortage continued," and, it adds, "one must wonder if Mr. Fordney has these gentlemen strongly on his mind and deeply in his heart."

This doubt, however, does not trouble the Fort Wayne Journal Gazette (Dem.) "Mr. Fordney is a lumber man," it says, "always has been a lumber man, and in Congress he is essentially and solely the representative of the lumber men." The Boston Post (Ind. Dem.) as well is convinced that the duty on lumber, "a harmful and needless thing that cannot be defended on any ground," has been devised "simply for the better profits of big timber combines that have grown rich from the necessities of the people." As to the revenue from this important duty, the Milwaukee Journal (Ind.) declares that it "may yield as much as a million and a half, at a cost to the American people of sixty millions," while "the difference goes to swell the pockets of a small class of lumbermen."

There are various ways, observes the Baltimore Sun (Ind. Dem.) "of digging one's grave," and this "bonus to the lumber trust' has the appearance of "tariff dynamite" with which the Republican party is trying "to blow itself to smithereens." The New York World (Dem.) reports that "Republican members from fifteen states are in open revolt" against the provision and "rebellion appears to be spreading from day to day," which, according to the New Orleans Times Picayune (Ind. Dem.) "is growing to formidable proportions." Admitting that the "excessive" and "indefensible" proposal "has opened a rift in the Republican membership of the Ways and Means Committee" and that it will certainly "split even more widely the majority of the House," the New York Herald (Ind.) warns that:

"What damage will be caused to Republican solidarity in Congress by this extortionate tariff schedule? * * * is not to be mentioned in the same breath with the political havoc it will work among the voting members of the party from Maine to California."

Apparently the Chicago Tribune (Ind. Rep.) is assured of ample support in its contention that "lumber must be kept on the free list."

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

A LITTLE SLICE O' LIFE.

It was one of those days
That you read about, and
In our neighborhood it was
So hot that the asphalt was
Melting and running down hill,
And the humidity was so strong
That the air was almost water.
Breathing was a lost art
A man in the apartment below us
Was sitting in the window
And looking out into the street
When a bird came along and
Asked the man if he wanted to buy
A good fur overcoat cheap.
"Just wait a minute,"
Said the man in the window,
"I'll be right down," and
On his way out he grabbed a gun
And a baseball bat and he
Chased the bird with the Fur overcoat till they were
Out of sight. The man hasn't Returned home yet. We didn't read
Of any murder in the paper
And probably our neighbor hasn't Caught his victim yet.

Many of the song birds are migrating to Europe and will return when the contract season opens again.

ON OUR AVENUE.

Bang, bang! Oh, murder! Somebody's shot!
To the window in terror I fly—
'Twas only a spark plug's infernal report
From a lumbering bus passing by.

Motor trucks grinding, while limousines toot;
What ails them, for mercy's sake?
Touring cars, taxi cabs, roadsters and vans;
What terrific commotion they make!

And now comes a sound as of a chariot race,
Fully fifty horsehoofs or more
Gayly pounding the stones as they chase some one's bones
To the edge of the "Golden Shore."

Oh, this uproarious avenue,
The throng all have homes, no doubt;
But they're heading en masse toward lunatic land—
Most by gasoline route.

TOO REVOLUTIONARY.

My Dear Roy: I'm engaged in writing the great American play that later will have a continuity written for it and become the great American photoplay, and have decided that the butler will not be named Jenkins, the chauffeur James, the chorus girl Mazie, the bootblack Tony and the waiter George. In writing, care should be taken to bring out personal individuality. It is good to bear in mind that you are competing with the individualistic styles of generations of authors. It may be your fortunate lot to be possessed with a style which will revolutionize literature. You have the not uncommon desire to write—to give expression in words to what you feel in your conscious and subconcious mind. Command of the English language is not absolutely necessary; but originality is essential. Few writers ever get out of the mediocre class. The few who do, generally die poor. Develop your true selfhood and ignore traditions.

Do you realize that there are 9,876,543 other people in this world who are trying to do the same thing in seventy-three languages?

Breakfast Stories

He wasn't what one might call a polished gentleman, but he took a great interest in the local school, and sometimes "dropped in to put a few questions to the youngsters."

"Now," he said, on the occasion, pointing to one bright youngster, "wot's the capital of 'Olland?"

"H!" came the reply like a flash; and even the teacher's scowl failed to suppress the snigger that went rippling through the room.

It was evening. A stranger approached the cyclist.

"Sir," said he, "your beacon has ceased its function."

"Sir?"

"Your illuminator, I say, is shrouded in unmitigated oblivion."

"But, really, I dont quite—"

"The effulgence of your irradiator has evanesced."

Just then a boy shouted:

"Hi, mister, your lamp's out."

And the cyclist understood.

"When I was a boy," said the gray-haired physician, who happened to be in a reminiscent mood, "I wanted to be a soldier, but my parents persuaded me to study medicine."

"Oh, well," rejoined the sympathetic druggist, "such is life. Many a man with wholesale aspirations has to content himself with a retail business."

"John," said Mrs. Henpeck, "I want you to take your feet off that table."

"Mrs. Henpeck," he answered, "there is only one person who can talk that way to me."

"And who is that?' she demanded angrily.

"You, my dear," replied John putting his feet to rest on the floor.

"Do I understand your husband assaulted you?" asked the London magistrate of the much-damaged lady who made application for a summons.

"I did that, sir," she replied with emphasis. "Bashed me over the 'ead wiv a motter, 'e did!"

"With a what?" queried the magistrate.

"A motter, yer worship. One of them fings what you 'angs on the wall wiv a frame rahnd it and 'Bles Our 'Appy 'Ome' in the middle."

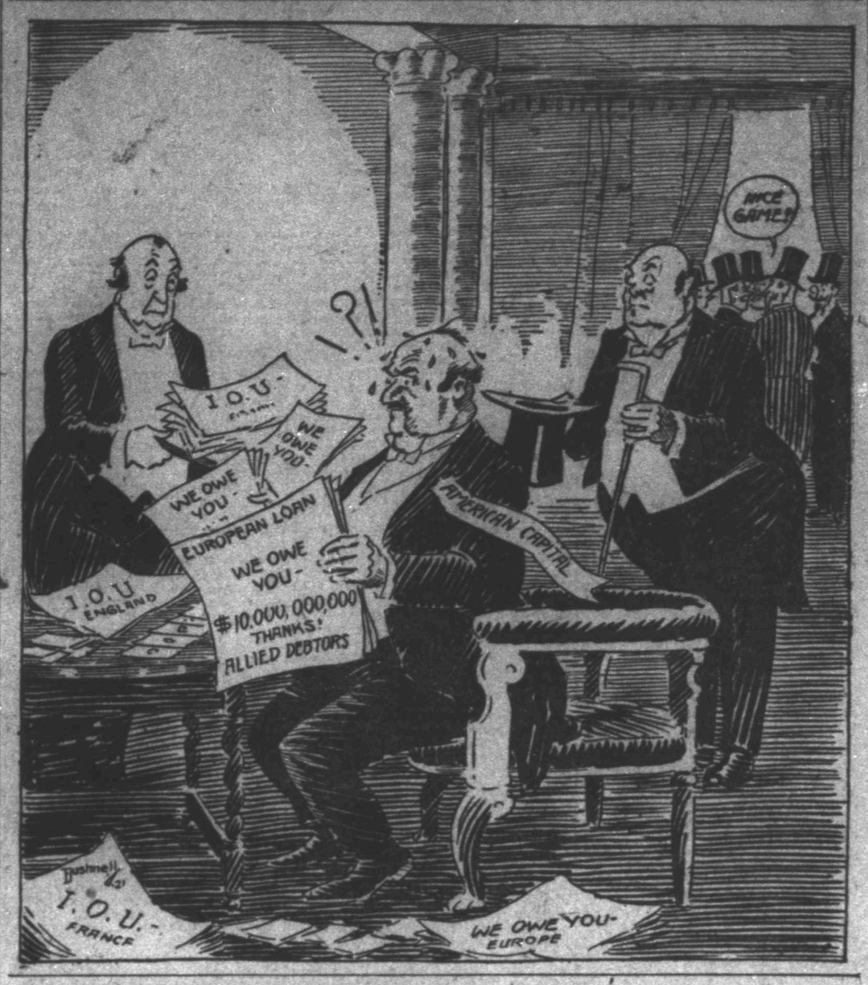

The dog stole cautiously into the butcher's shop and bolted with a large piece of meat. The butcher raged.

"Is that your dog?" he roared at the man passing by.

"Well," replied the man, "he was my dog once, but he seems to be doing for himself now."

PROMOTE KEY TO ASSISTANT BANK CASHIER

Tom A. Key, who has been connected with the City National Bank of Commerce since November, 1920, as efficiency expert in charge of the various departments, was promoted to assistant cashier of that institution at a meeting of the officers and directors Thursday. This is in recognition of the good work which has been done by Mr. Key since he took charge of the general organization of the departments last November, according to C. W. Reid, active vice president of the bank.

Before coming to the local bank Mr. Key lived in Sherman and for 17 years was connected with the City National bank of Whitesboro as cashier and active vice president. He has lived in Texas practically all of his life, he coming to this state from Georgia with his parents when he was one year old.

In the short time he has lived here Mr. Key has made many friends both in social and business life who congratulate him on his promotion and wish him every success. Mr. Key is said to be a keen judge of human nature, which made him invaluable to the bank in his work of supervising the departments in finding the departments in which different employees were fitted and placing them according to their aptitude.

Other business of the meeting consisted in authorizing the regular quarterly dividend of 3 per cent.

HONOLULU LEPER PATIENTS FAIL TO REPORT REGULARLY

By Associated Press.

HONOLULU, T. H., July 1.—Some of the patients released on parole from the leprosy investigation station and hospital at Kalihi, Honolulu, have failed to report at regular intervals, as they are required to do by the terms of their parole, and the board of health of the territory has issued an ultimatum that if this continues they will be brought back to the station and their permits to live at home canceled.

While not a single patient out of the scores paroled from Kalihi has been returned owing to recurrence of the disease, the authorities insist on keeping a strict check on those released. Board of health officers point out that while the chaulmoogra oil treatment, as administered here, has proved that leprosy can be checked, time alone can establish whether a definite cure has been evolved.

In all their statements given to The Associated Press, Dr. W. A. L. Dean, president of the University of Hawaii, and the other scientists waging the battle against leprosy here have specifically said that the chaulmoogra oil treatment will check leprosy, and, while expressing the confident hope that it will ultimately result in a definite cure, they have carefully pointed out that this hope can be realized only by the test of time.

Following the resignation of Dr. J. T. McDonald, who has given years of his life to the fight against the disease, Kalihi hospital now is in charge of Dr. H. E. Hasseltine, a biological expert sent out from Washington.

Who's Who

VICE ADMIRAL H. P. JONES

HILARY P. JONES

Vice Admiral Hilary P. Jones, the new commander of the U. S. Navy, has seen thirty-seven years' active service in his country's defense. The new commander was born in Hanover Academy, Virginia, November 14, 1863, and was graduated from the Naval Academy in 1884. He commanded the Scorpion, the Birmingham, the Tennessee, the Rhode Island and the Florida before reaching flag rank. During the world war he first commanded Squadron 1 of the patrol force, Atlantic fleet, then Division 4 and the Newport News division of the cruiser and transport force, Atlantic fleet. Since 1919 he has been vice admiral of the Atlantic fleet, commanding the battleship force.

CASES FILED IN JUNE SET HIGH RECORD

With 241 cases filed during the month all records for the filing of cases in local district courts for the year were broken during the month of June, according to reports Friday from the office of District Clerk Kerr. The number for the month represents an increase of 34 over the total for the month of May.

Contrary to the expectations, many legal business in this county has shown an increase this year over last year based on the number of cases filed in all courts.

Undertaker Wants to Change Business

"I have been in the undertaking busines but it is the dead end I want to get into something more live," said a colored applicant as he presented himself at the office of the county superintendent of schools Friday morning to take the teacher's examination for a county school.

After being assured by Acting Superintendent Preston that he was glad to hear of the decision and also its cause the applicant was allowed to take the examination.

The man is said to be the first negro to take the examination in the county for several years.

Negroes teaching in the schools of the county usually take examinations at normal schools.

Six others took the examination Friday.

With the Women of Today

Miss Anna E. Partree.

Staid New England is gradually giving up some of her traditions particularly where women are concerned, and now one finds women in conservative New England states doing things just as usual as those things which have long since been done by the more progressive western women. One would expect the descendants of those daring souls who staged the Boston tea party, however, to pioneer in other fields.

Miss Anna E. Partree of Bridgeport, Conn., is just such a pioneer. She has the distinct honor of being that city's first bank officer and she is also the first woman bank official in the state of Connecticut. Her election to the office of assistant treasurer was announced recently following the annual meeting of the directors of the Bridgeport Savings bank. Some of the city's most influential men are officers and directors of the bank and Miss Partree was selected as the right person for assistant treasurer from a number of eligible men. She has been with the bank since 1903.

In commenting on her election to office, Samuel M. Hawley, the newly elected president, said: "I believe that her election will be looked upon as a forward step in banking. It is the first promotion of a woman to such an important position in the banking history of the state and in her new position she will be able to render unusual service to the women of the community."

RHODES SCHOLARSHIP FOR WOMEN SOUGHT.

Now there are to be women's Rhodes scholarships. Following the opening in Oxford of four colleges to women an effort has been launched to obtain endowments with which to bring women students from the colonies and the United States as the Rhodes scholarships have brought men. The women, however, see no prospect of any such princely single benefactions as provided by the Rhodes scholarships.

Viscountess Rhondda heads the new organization which was recently launched for the purpose of gaining endowments for British colleges. The endowment appeal sets forth that money is required to enable the women's colleges to pay adequate salaries and pension to their staffs, for research libraries and building upkeep.

In this connection it is proposed to make a special appeal to colleges in the United States and in the dominions, assuring them that rooms will be reserved for girls from places whence endowment help may come.

ENGLISH CHURCH ADMITS WOMEN.

At the recent session in Newcastle the general assembly of the Presbyterian church of England decided to admit women to the eldership and deaconship and authorised their ordination as such office bearers.

The committe reported declaring no barrier in principle to the admission of women to the ministry, proposing that there be prepared for the next assembly a reasoned statement on the subject and recommending ministers to invite women of gifts and consecration to give addresses in church. Women, if admitted to the ministry, are to be licensed by the Presbytery but to resign on marriage.

EUGENIE'S ESCAPE PLANNED BY PRINCE

LONDON, July 1.—The recent death of Sir John Montague Burgoyne famous for his rescue of the late Empress Eugenie at the fall of the Second French Empire in 1870, has brought to light a letter written by Sir John to Sir Henry Ponsonby ten days after the dramatic voyage across the English Channel. The letter relates the details of the escape in which Dr. Evans, an American dentist, was instrumental.

Sir John's yacht happened to be lying in the harbor at Deauville on September 6, 1870, waiting favorable weather for sailing. At 2 p. m. two strangers came abroad and asked for an audience with the owner. They appeared to trust Sir John and confided to him that the Empress was concealed in Deauville. He agreed to convey her to safety in England, and it was decided that Lady Burgoyne should remain on board in order not to arouse suspicion.

It was arranged that Her Majesty should come aboard at five minutes past midnight. Meanwhile, at 11:30 p. m., Sir John had a visit from a young Russian, to whom he had only been introduced. This gentleman had brought a friend who "wished to look over the yacht." They were shown over the craft, although Sir John said he was convinced the men were spies.

The visitors were conducted by Sir John personally into the town and had scarcely gone when Dr. Evans, the Empress and Mme. le Breton came up and were taken on board without baggage.

Empress Eugenia was said to have been greatly agitated and to have sobbed bitterly. She was cared for by Lady Burgoyne through the two days of the voyage to Ryde, England. The trip of itself was uneventful except for the fact that heavy weather and a nasty sea made travel for the Empress very uncomfortable. A landing was made at Ryde at 7 o'clock of the evening of September 8 and the Empress left immediately for Hastings to join her son.

Sir John in his letter says the escape was planned by Prince Metternich and most skillfully carried out by Dr. Evans.

TWO COP FORCES AND NO JAIL SO TOWN FILES SUIT

NATIONAL PARK, N. J., July 1. Two police forces but no jail!

That is the startling situation in this town. Mayor Edgar Waters has a police force all his own and the council has one, too.

Through Justice Katzenbach, Mayor Waters has appealed to the Supreme court of New Jersey to say that his force is legal. But whether it is legal or not the men on it are not getting any pay.

The loyalty of the council's force is more on a monetary basis, for its members are getting pay envelopes regularly.

It makes no difference, however, which force is legal as far as arrests are concerned. Both are making them and magistrates and justices of the peace are taking cognizance of both. But after the arrests are made, National park has no place to put the prisoners. They must be taken to the county jail at Woodbury. In plain words it all simmers down to this:

Mayor Waters says that he has power to appoint the police force under a state law. So he has appointed three men to patrol the streets of the town.

However, on March 14, council created a police commission and gave it power to select the policemen. The commission has appointed six patrolmen and council ordered the mayor's men to quit work—in other language, "canned" them. But they are continuing to work, even though there is no pay forthcoming.

The situation has developed a new game—"Cop watch cop!" It is indulged in daily by the two forces.

There haven't been many arrests made by either set of policemen. One of the reasons for the scarcity of arrests, given by the residents hereabouts, is that the jail is too far away.

Edwin T. Simpson, on behalf of the mayor, has obtained through former Judge William T. Boyle, a writ of certiorari from Justice Katzenbach. "Certiorari," in this case, means something about the Supreme court looking into the way National Park council acted about Mayor Waters' police force.

And on July 11 the writ will be "returnable," which means that a lot of fellows from National Park and their lawyers and the like will go up to Trenton and argue about the police before the Supreme court.

Then a justice or two will say what they think about it and will decide who has a right to have the police force concession in National Park. Then it will be all settled.

But even after that, if you want to be arrested in National Park you will have to be contented with being jailed in Woodbury.

HOW WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

May Escape the Dreaded Sufferings of That Period by Taking Mrs. Block's Advice

Hopkins, Minn.—"During Change of Life I had hot flashes and suffered for two years. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the paper and got good results from taking it. I recommend your medicine to my friends and you may publish this fact as a testimonial."—Mrs. ROBERT BLOCK, Box 542, Hopkins, Minn.

It has been said that not one woman in a thousand passes this perfectly natural change without experiencing a train of very annoying and sometimes painful symptoms. Those dreadful hot flashes, sinking spells, spots before the eyes, dizzy spells, nervousness, are only a few of the symptoms. Every woman at this age should profit by Mrs. Block's experience and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., about your health.

More than 1000 men and boy scouts battling with the flames on the Blue Mountains, entire fleets of motor trucks have been pressed into service and manned by members of the state constabulary are hauling relief gangs to the burning mountains and food for the fire fighters. Early today the blaze seemed to be under control but before noon there were more than a score of new outbreaks. The state fire marshal is directing the efforts of the men. No water is available and trenches and backfiring are the only means now employed in an effort to check the flames. The transportation of chemical tanks on motor trucks is being considered and may be resorted to if no headway is gained by tomorrow.

Fanned by a strong breeze the flames have swept northward into Carbon County.

Estimates of the money loss caused by the fires vary, but it is conservatively estimated that the damage will not be under $100,000.

SAYS LEAGUE OF NATIONS IS COSTLY

By Associated Press.

GENEVA, Switzerland, July 1.—Obligatory use of two languages French and English, in all its transactions, and the high cost of living at the headquarters in Geneva, are given by the special committee investigating the workings of the League of Nations as an explanation of what has been considered in some quarters as the excessive cost of the organization. The expense for the last year, as already reported, was about $4,150,000.

"There can be no doubt," says the committee's report, "that rightly or wrongly, the League of Nations has the reputation of costing too much." The report then goes on to explain how the complexity, diversity and novelty of the work undertaken necessarily costs heavily, particularly since it is in the hands of comparatively young institution and lacks experience.

The dual language of the League requiring translation and duplicate publication of all documents alone accounts for one-third of the entire expense, the report says, then points out that the location of the headquarters of the League in Geneva accounts for a good deal of the excessive outlay.

"Since the main purpose of the commission of inquiry is to suggest every form of economy," the report says, "it feels bound to point out that, at the moment, Geneva is—and so far as it is possible to forsee will remain—a city in which the cost of living is comparatively higher than in almost any city in Europe, and where the rate of exchange is, at the moment of writing, the most disadvantageous for the great majority of states members of the League."

The report suggests that were the League headquarters located at Brussels, Fontainbleau, Turin or Vienna, or almost anywhere else, an immediate economy would be effected that would be appreciated by all members of the League and particularly by those whose exchange is depreciated.

HUNDREDS FIGHT FOREST FIRES IN BLUE MOUNTAINS

ALLENTOWN, Pa., July 1.—Evidence that forest fires that have for several days been devastating the Blue Mountains between Slatington and Lehigh Gap are the work of incendiaries was unearthed today when it was discovered that new outbreaks at points where it was thought the flames had been conquered were due to the ignition of large quantities of oil which has apparently been deposited in basins in the forests and then lighted.

That, in the opinion of Game Warden James D. Geary of Slatington, explains repeated new fires that invariably break out after the fire fighters have extinguished the flames and left for new points of attack. In some cases, Mr. Geary said today, the fires broke out with greater fury than ever within an hour and a half after the guards had gone in another direction.

A force of state police that came here from Palmerton, Lansford and Pottsville to assist in fighting the fires is now giving its attention to

NEW JERSEY ONION ENTERS REALM OF BON-TON FRUITS

KANSAS CITY, July 1.—No more is the plebeian onion to be sniffed at. It entered the realm of the bon-ton fruit and vegetable markets when the first carload of officially graded New Jersey onions was shipped from Cedarville, N. J., yesterday by the Southern New Jersey Onion Growers' association, a new organization of big growers who are determined to let the world know there is a difference in onions.

Heretofore onions have been just onions. If a housewife bought onions at the corner store that not only looked good, but were good, she accepted her good fortune as a matter of course. If she got poor onions, she might have thought something, but she did nothing. A law passed by the last New Jersey legislature to protect the consumer against inferior products eliminates this risk in marketing for the home kitchen. It has been adopted by the onion growers as a means of guaranteeing their products to the consumer.

The carload of onions just shipped was packed as "New Jersey Onions, Grade No. 1," which means to the housewife that every onion so marked must be at least one and a half inches in diameter, sound and of perfect quality. The initial grading experiment was inspected yesterday by Douglas Dilts, grade specialist of the New Jersey State Board of Agriculture, and pronounced perfect.

This section has become famous in recent years for its onions of fine flavor and hundreds of acres of the fragrant bulbs are now being harvested for shipment in the new graded packages to Philadelphia, New York, Boston and other marketing centers. There their grade guarantee will carry them into the best markets, where they can snuggle between fancy Florida oranges, California plums and a dozen other graded seasonable products.

A WIFE IN THE MAKING

BY PHYLLIS PHILLIPS

CHERRY STARTS THE BREAK.

"Ned, dear, the Hamlen store needs a competent designer in its millinery department—one who has had experience," said Cherry one morning a few days later. "I'd dearly love to apply for the position, if you would not raise too many objections," she went on smoothly, the color heightening in her cheeks as she talked.

Ned and his wife were alone at the breakfast table, the rest of the family having scattered to their daily duties.

"Old subject again, Hon?" he said impatiently. "Why will you always worry me so. We had this thing out days and days ago."

"You may have had it out, Ned. Agreed," answered Cherry, "but not I. There's not a real thing for me to do in this big, old house. And I told you that I simply cannot stay inactive any longer. I just can't see, Ned, why you feel any false shame about your wife taking a decent position. It's not as if I had always been a helpless, useless girl, not by any means. I have always worked. And I need to work."

"Work!" burst from Ned, violently. "Just as if you needed to work. Just as if I can't make enough money to support both of us. Why can't you be satisfied to be just my wife, Cherry? I married you to have a wife—a companion. I did not want a worker, especially. Besides, you know what a row mother will raise if you go and work here in Wellsburg. You should consider her feelings, if not mine."

"Fiddlesticks," said Cherry, now thoroughly aroused. "Just as if your mother would consider mine where any of her pet theories were concerned! Be fair, Ned, if not sensible."

"I can't forbid you, of course, my dear. But let the consequences be upon your own head, not mine," answered Ned, angrily.

"You really are very selfish, Cherry. You are considering no one but yourself in this issue, as you very well know."

"While you, of course, are considering me!" said Cherry sarcastically. "Your mother, of course, is considering someone outside herself, too. Why not be frank, you and I. Tell each other the truth. You and your mother are bound to keep me here, inactive, bored, though genteelly unemployed, eh? And all for the sake of your own little family pride. Well, let me assure you that I despise both it and you. If this means nothing to you, then I'll not take the job, but I shall criticize you always for your attitude towards me and my wishes, Ned, believe me."

"I wash my hands of the whole affair," announced Ned, dramatically. "If you see fit to go ahead and enter the employ of Arthur Hamlen and his father, well and good. But stand by your action when once you have decided. That's all I ask."

"As if I could ever do otherwise!" said Cherry, scornfully. "When you married me you knew I was a business girl. You claimed to admire me for it, and now a few months later your real attitude towards my belief in work and independence comes out. I'm sorry, Ned, deeply disappointed and sorry. You are not at all the man I though you were when I married you."

"And you are not the wife I thought you were, or would be, either, when I married you," answered Edward Randall, bitterly, as he banged his coffee cup down.

Among the curious insects of the Malay peninsula studied by a member of the London Zoological society is one called the lantern fly, which is remarkable for its sudden leaps, made without the aid of its wings. It was only after the observer had carried a specimen to London and carefully examined it that he discovered that a curious projection on the front of ist head, a kind of nose with a crease in it, was the leaping organ. When bent back under the abdomen and suddenly released it sent the insect flying.—Christian Science Monitor.

SPUDS LOSE TO BUFES 2 TO 4 ON CIRCUIT HIT

"Into each life some rain must fall," remarked a good poet and student of human nature many years back—and there you have the explanation of Houston's win over the Spudders yesterday by a margin of 4 to 2. It was just a little rain that had to fall into the pleasant life the Spudders had been leading. No team can win 'em all, and the Spuds simply were due to drop a ball game—and so they dropped it.

But it took a mighty wallop to turn the trick, and the good old ball game might have been a 2-1 victory for the Spudders if Brother Bottomley hadn't crashed a circuit punch over Jake Miller's head in the third inning with two men on the sacks. That one hefty blow tells the story in itself.

Abe Bowman went the route for the Spuds, and held Houston to six bingles. But Abie's streaks of wildness, plus Bottomley's terrific slam, dropped the Spudders seven points in the percentage column. Eddie Donalds was hit rather freely by Salm's men, but the punch was lacking at crucial moments, and many Spudders were stranded on the paths waiting for the blow to bring them home.

The Spudders counted in the opening round. Bescher walked and was forced at second by Gross. McElwee singled to right sending Danny to second. Clark also drew a free ticket to first, filling the bases. Tex McDonald hit a sacrifice fly to Bailey, scoring Gross, and Jake Miller flied out to Johnny Baggan.

The Buffs promptly evened the count in their half. After two men were out, Abe walked Bailey, who stole second and kept on to third when Kitchens' peg went wild. Charlie Miller's infield hit to deep short scored Bailey, Bottomley walked and Doyle skied to Jake for the third out.

In the third canto the Spudders for a few minutes again took the lead. Gross was thrown out by Doyle, and McElwee flied to Bailey. Clark singled to right, and went to second on a balk. Tex singled to right, scoring Danny, and Miller grounded out to Bottomley.

In their half of the third, however, the Buffs put the game in the refrigerator.

Daringer was thrown out by Gross, and Bailey beat out a hit down the first base line. Charlie Miller was hit by a pitched ball, and then Bottomley got revenge by hitting a pitched ball—far and away over Jake Miller's head for a home run. Doyle lined to Pierce Works and Blades went out, Bowman to Works.

And after the third the scoring ceased. The Spudders in the fifth and sixth had splendid opportunities to score, but Donalds became extremely stingy with hits as soon as runners got on the bags, and each and every opportunity turned to sorrow for the Airdome fans.

However, that was yesterday. Today is another day. The boys will hook 'em this afternoon. This is a prophesy. Go to the Airdome and witness it come true.

$20,000 GOES TO WINNER IN TACOMA RACE

By Associated Press.

TACOMA, Washington, July 1.—Twelve automobile race drivers, most of them already famous for their work on the nation's big tracks, compete in the tenth annual Tacoma Speedway race July 4 for points toward the national championship and a winner's prize of about 120,000, it was announced here recently.

Approximately 50,000 spectators are expected to attend the race. The course covers 125 laps of the Tacoma Speedway, which is just under two miles in length.

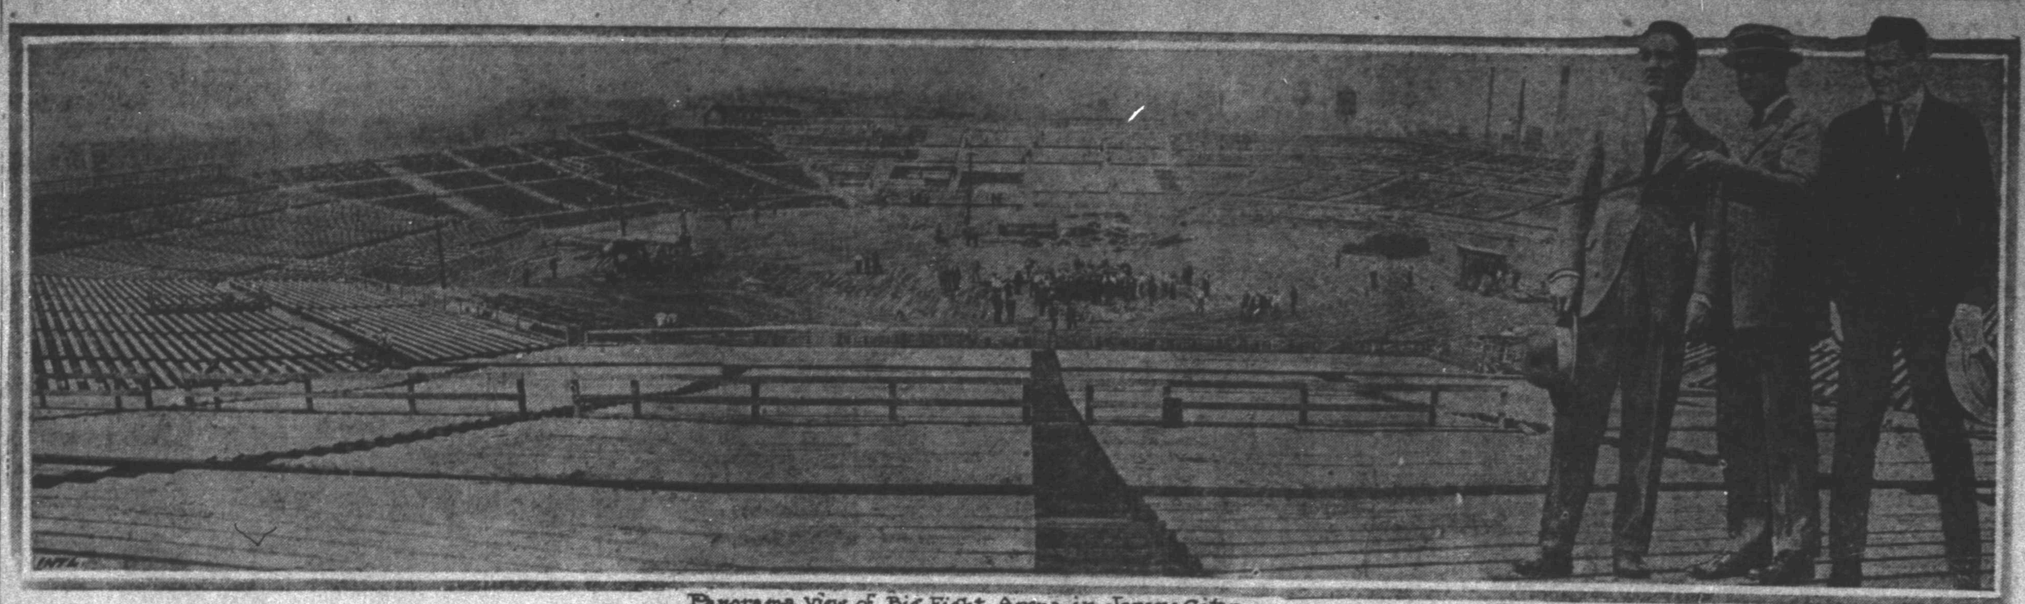

Heading the list of drivers entered is Tommy Milton, winner of the 500-mile Memorial Day race at Indianapolis this year, another entry will be Rosco Sarles, who took second money at Indianapolis when he finished only a few seconds behind Milton.

A driver new to the Tacoma course who will appear July 4 will be Jules Ellingboe, noted dirt track racer, whose driving was one of the features of the Indianapolis race. The speedway also will see its first foreign-made entry, a car to be driven by Howard Wilcox.

Among the other drivers entered are several veterans, Eddie Pullen, Ralph Mulford, Joe Thomas, Ira Vail and Eddie Hearne. Others on the list are Eddie Miller, one of the youngest racing drivers in the country, Alton Scales and Jerry Wonderlich.

The Tacoma Speedway association has put up a purse of $25,000 for the race. In addition, national accessory and tire concerns have offered about $20,000. The winner will receive $20,000 from the speedway association and 500 points toward the 1924 championship. Side money will boost the winner's money to about $20,000. Second money will be $5,000 from the speedway purse.

GIVE A LOOK, ROSIE. HERE'S WHERE THEM BIG ATHALETIC MEN ARE GOING TO FIGHT. GEE, THEM PRIZE FIGHTERS IS ROUGH, ROSIE!

Panorama View of Big Fight Arena in Jersey City.

NEW YORK, July 1.—Jack Dempsey, of Salt Lake City, the world's heavyweight champion boxer, and his challenger, Georges Carpentier, of Lens, France, European heavyweight champion, are ready for their "Battle of the Century" in Rickard's Arena at Jersey City tomorrow afternoon. Only light work has been indulged in by both boxers for the past two or three days, during which they have been gradually getting away from the more drastic training exercises.

The largest crowd of spectators that ever witnessed a heavyweight bout for the world's championship, will invade Jersey City. For the past week, special trains, motor cars, ocean liners and all other modes of travel have been bringing to the metropolis from all parts of the world the thousands who will surround the ring in Tex Rickard's mammoth wooden bowl. Hundreds of the visitors from the west and distant points, are using Pullman cars parked in railroad yards near the arena as temporary hotels. Hundreds more have crowded leading New York hotels until reservations tonight were virtually unattainable. Manhattan citizenry, too, will furnish a large part of the crowd which will pay to Tex Rickard more than $1,000,000 in gate receipts.

Theaters and other amusement places, as well as hotels, are sharing in the bounty. Tonight is "fight night" along Broadway, resembling in a measure the "football night" with which inhabitants of a hundred college towns of the country are familiar.

But a large number of those who will witness the bout tomorrow are far from Broadway tonight. They are the general admission ticket seekers who will pay only a modest $5.50 for the privilege of watching from some distance, Dempsey and Carpentier pummel each other. The general admission pasteboards will go on sale in the morning. The "early birds" sleep on their feet tonight.

A larger percentage of feminine enthusiasts will be in the crowd tomorrow than has ever been the case heretofore. The women, who will be mainly in the higher-priced seats, will come as members of parties which promise to make tomorrow's crowd the most colorful in ring history. City and state officials will be present in boxes. Men of note in the arts, sciences, professional and business callings are here for the bout.

And all the while, United States revenue officials smile. Tomorrow's bout, when amusement taxes, surtaxes and half a dozen other varieties of taxes are deducted, will net the government about $500,000, which is approximately what the boxers will receive for 12 rounds or less of action with eight-ounce gloves.

The bout will be a no-decision affair, as required under the laws of New Jersey. This fact has been mainly responsible for the lightest wagering on a heavyweight bout in years. The title can change hands only on a knockout or a foul. Odds which made Dempsey a 4 to 1 favorite several weeks ago, have not shifted appreciably, according to Wall Street brokers, with plenty of Dempsey money to cover the small influx of French backing which has come from the other side.

Trainers of both boxers in statements tonight declared that the men are ready. Questioned about the cut over the eye which Dempsey received in training four weeks ago, Teddy Hayes, the champion's chief handler, declared that it had healed satisfactorily and that no trouble from it was expected. The camps of both men have been quiet places for the past two or three days. With the increasing vigilance of Manager Francois Descamps at Manhassett, Carpentier might as well have been on a desert isle so far as the desired privacy was concerned.

The nature of the Frenchman's training routine at Manhasset, calling for his appearance in public only twice a week, has surrounded the bout with more uncertainty than ever has been the case before. A sort of mystery surrounds the Frenchman which even experienced newspaper men have been unable to fathom. It has been generally believed that Carpentier has done most of his serious work in private more or less camouflaging, on "press days," his real condition. The whole campaign of secrecy, probably inspired by the wily Descamps, has succeeded in making Carpentier the "Man of Mystery."

Dempsey, apparently, is almost as fit physically as the day on which he met Jess Willard, although it is recognized that a boxer comes to a supreme fighting point but once in his life. Many believe that this point in Dempsey's career was reached on that blistering afternoon in Toledo two years ago. However, he will enter the ring tomorrow at almost exactly the same poundage as against Willard and apparently just as strong. His footwork and defensive tactics have been speeded up in the past three weeks by fast rounds with the featherweights and lightweights on his sparring staff. Over-confidence and "staleness" have been the two main hazards the champion's handlers have sought to avoid. Dempsey, two days ago, to the eye, was anything but stale. Whether he is over-confident, only tomorrow's action will tell.

Indications point to the fact that it will be a short bout. Carpentier himself expressed that belief several weeks ago. Dempsey enters the ring heralded as the hardest hitter the game has ever seen. But in Carpentier's right hand is reposed a "kick" which, according to Joe Jeannette and other "authorities" who have felt its force, is sufficient to drop the man on whom it lands with full force.

If the bout goes past the fourth round, Carpentier is considered likely to last out the bout and not unlikely to gain the unofficial newspaper verdict. Dempsey undoubtedly has increased his ring cleverness in the past two years but it is improbable that he can cope in shiftiness with the Frenchman over the 12-round distance.

Dempsey will weigh about 20 pounds more than Carpentier. Ring tradition gives the champion an advantage on that account and many veteran observers of fistic battles here tonight are wisely nodding their heads and declaring that "Jack will wear down the Frenchman in two or three rounds; then slip over the punch."

Carpentier throughout his training has laughed at the suggestion of the champion's weight advantage. Many men who have watched both boxers train are of the opinion that the weight advantage possessed by Dempsey will be much slighter than against some other opponent. For Carpentier's powers of physical co-ordination; his quickness of thought, much of which came with his experience as an active aviator in the war and his mental poise, unusual in a boxer, make him an uncommon athlete.

Dempsey will climb through the ropes a larger man in nearly every respect. He is an inch and a half taller than Carpentier. His reach is one inch greater. But Carpentier's neck, usually declared by casual observers to be thin, is well developed and measures 16 3-4 inches, one-quarter inch larger than that of Dempsey. In all other respects, except in calf measurements, the tape shows Dempsey the larger. Carpentier's remarkable lower legs measure 16 3-4 inches as against the 15 1-4 inches of Dempsey.

The ring courage of either man can scarcely be doubted. Carpentier's has been proved in a long series of bouts in which he fought his way to success from bantamweight to the topmost heavyweight ranks in Europe. The bouts in which this young Frenchman met Frank Klaus, Billy Papke, Joe Jeannette and Bombardier Wells, taking as well as giving much punishment, tell of his lion heart, as do the war experiences through which he went.

Dempsey's courage in a bout of any great length never has been thoroughly tested, mainly because his great punching power has made the average length of his bouts two or three rounds. In the match with Brennan, there never was any doubt as to his superiority, although it went along in a slow fashion until the twelfth round. However, Dempsey went against tremendous physical odds when he met the massive Jes Willard and the way in which he tore into the Kansas Giant indicated an entire absence of fear.

It is notable that neither of tomorrow's contestants, in his last bout, have any real evidence of his true prowess. Carpentier's most recent bout with Levinsky, was fought immediately after the Frenchman had finished a long circus tour and was in no condition for a top-notch exhibition, although he did knock out his opponent in four rounds. Dempsey's performance against Brennan, was below the standard of his previous bouts.

With the exception of the principals and the third man in the ring, little Francois Descamps, the astute manager of Carpentier, will be watched with more interest than any other person in the arena. The whole soul of the excitable Frenchman is wrapped up in his boxer. Several times when Carpentier was younger, Descamps leaped into the ring to prevent the further punishment of his charge. Although emotional, Descamps is wise in ring affairs and Carpentier will not lack for acceptable counsel between the rounds.

So New York and its surrounding cities await the battle. Early tomorrow morning, the tide will start to surge toward "Jersey" and the first of the preliminaries will be under way in the great wooden bowl shortly after the noon hour. The throng, with the exception of the general-admission ticket holders, probably will be slow in arriving for Promoter Rickard has promised there will be no difficulty in securing all seats that have been reserved. By 2 o'clock the crowd will be practically all seated; news writers and experts from every part of the United States will be at the ringside and the "Battle of the Century" is promised by Rickard for shortly after 3 o'clock.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, July 1.—The Gassers took the second game of their series with the Bears by a score of 8 to 3. A near fight occurred when Skipper Johnny Nee of San Antonio started into the stands after a fan who had been "razzing" him during the afternoon. Timely interference by the police stopped the only interesting thing of the afternoon.

"NO 'TIN' EARS FOR ME," SAYS BEN LEONARD

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., July 1.—Dame Rumor frequently has announced that Benny Leonard, world's champion lightweight pugilist, planned to retire from fighting and Benny himself has never maintained that he expected to make boxing his life work, but now, for the first tmie, the prince of the smaller boxers actually has set it down in writing that he is going to forsake the business that made him famous.

During the next six months, Leonard says, he will "meet all the worth while opponents left in the lightweight field, clean them out, and retire with half a million dollars, while I still have two good ears and a straight nose."

"I have two good ears and my nose is still just as nature wanted it to be," writes Benny. "I have never won any beauty prizes, but I'm very proud of the fact that I have exposed these parts to perhaps a million boxing gloves—and still have preserved them. I mean to keep them too.

"I am worth half a million. I have made investments that pay sufficient to keep myself and my family for the rest of our lives. No, the world is mistaken if it thinks Benny is going to go the way of many others in the profession.

"When I have met all the worth while opponents in the field, and I do not think that will require more than six months more, I'm going to put the old gloves in the moth balls and call it quits. The boxing world has been kind to me and I'm going through to the finish. Then, I don't think the fans will have any complaint. I do not believe any of my friends care to wish 'tin' ears or a broken nose on me for life—and I want to have something to say about it anyway."

WISDOM AND WORSE

BY C. F. C.

Gosh darn the luck! That St. Louis deal fell through. We received a telegram from Walter Salm in Houston last night, briefly stating:

"Was unable to make trade satisfactory to us. Still trying to purchase pitchers."

Since the trade fell through there is no harm now in mentioning what most of the fans already know; namely that the deal involved was supposed to be one whereby the Browns were to furnish the Spudders with Second Baseman Gleason, another infielder and a pitcher in exchange for a certain Spudder player on whom the St. Louis management has been particularly sweet a long time. It appeared on the surface a good trade for the locals—a chance to strengthen the Spudders, and opportunity for one of "the boys" to get his chance in the majors. Apparently, however, the Browns switched the terms of the trade in some way, or another unexpected hitch developed to kill the deal.

Well, we appreciate the fact, anyway, that Walter is "still trying to purchase pitchers," and we agree heartily with the management's policy of seeking good ones. All the fans in Wichita Falls will be glad to get the news even if it's a bit discouraging—and they'll stay with the Spudders to the grim finish while players and bosses are fighting and trying as they are today. Stay in there, Spuds! Keep on trying, Walter! If we can't do any better, we'll let these other teams hit our pitchers—and then we'll gather two hits for every one of theirs and beat 'em at their own game. All the fans ask is that every opportunity be taken advantage of in every game, and that every man keep the flame of battle burning in his heart.

The pitchers that bloom in the spring, tra-la,
Have nothing to do with the case;
But the one with a heluva midseason swing
Is the pitcher we need in this race.

That little bunch of poetical junk above doesn't mean anything. Just tossed it in there to point the way to a little dissertation on the manner in which some good twirlers unexpectedly slip on the unseen banana peel. When the 1921 season opened, the Spudders had on paper as good a hurling corps as could be desired—and we're not saying that just to offer up an apologetic sacrifice on the managerial altar. Marshall was a good pitcher, and Bowman's record stamped him as even better than Rube. But for some reason Rube and Abe have this season showed only flashes of the form that they displayed throughout 1920. And when a thing like that occurs, you can only blame it on the breaks of the game; on pure, unadulterated hard luck. They may come back; both may start winning streaks—and if they do, there isn't a team on the circuit the Spudders cannot face with the utmost confidence.

So, keep on doing your durndest, Abe and Rube. The fans have only the kindest feelings toward you, and also toward "Rabbit." If the old soup bone don't get to working right, we'll know it wasn't because you didn't try.

Feeling in a mellow, philosophical mood today, we rise to another point of baseball order. Namely the good of the game in 1921, with particular reference to the Spudders, as follows:

If the Spudders close the 1921 season in eighth place—they won't be considerable, but just supposing they do—baseball will still be in a healthier, better condition in Wichita Falls than it was at the close of last season. The gambling evil, as common in Wichita Falls last year as now in Siberia, has been completely eradicated. Police action hasn't killed it, either. It has been wiped out by good, honest public opinion. And the result has been that all Wichita Falls fandom this year is for the Spudders, first, last and all the time—which is considerable contrast with 1920 when fully one-third of the fans at a local game had bets on the opposition to win, and were openly rooting for the visiting club.

The gambling evil in Wichita Falls last season was a serious one; far more serious than many fans probably have realized. It is a splendid thing this year to see and hear the loyal manner in which men, women and youngsters all down the line are pulling for the Spudders. Just as long as that spirit continues, not only will Wichita Falls have a good ball team, but Wichita Falls will be recognized as one of the greatest cities in the minor league world.

This is purely a Spudder column today. No other sports can horn in. Here's good luck to the team. POUR IT ON 'EM!

"DUBS TOURNEY" HAS REACHED "CRUCIAL STAGE;" GIVE 'EM AIR

W. M. Haigler will meet A. E. Myles and Frank Cullum will take on Jim Barnard in the semi-finals of the Dub tournament at the Country Club for the McGregor-Rowe-Lea cup. The semi-finals are scheduled for Saturday and the final a day later, which, if carried out, will confine the tournament to a seven-day period—a new record.

The third flight matches were played off Thursday and Friday, Haigler winning his way into the semi-finals by defeatng C. H. Reid: Myles by beating Morris Norton, Cullum eliminating Dan Boone, and Barnard by winning from Earnest Fain.

AKIN BOYS BEAT SNODDY BROTHERS BY SAME NET SCORE

J. W. Akin and Henry Akin are brothers. The same statement may be made regarding Bill Snoddy and Carroll Snoddy. But the Akin boys seem to have it on the Snoddy brothers when it comes to applying that old brotherly team work.

All of which points the way to the fact that in the singles the June tennis tournament yesterday, Henry Akin defeated Carroll Snoddy 6-3, 6-0—and then J. W. Akin faced Bill Snoddy and applied the same medicine, 6-3, 6-0.

From now on the going will be tougher in the singles event, as only a handful of individual tennis sharks are left to battle for the June championship.

K. C. BLUES RELEASE BRANNON TO TULSA

By Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, July 1.—Dudley Brannon, first baseman of the Kansas City American association team, was released to Tulsa of the Western League, effective tomorrow, it was announced today. Brannon is subject to recall at any time this season, and will be returned to the local club at the end of the season, in any event.

John Savage, secretary of the local club, said Brannon's sojourn to Tulsa would benefit that club and give him needed experience.

GENTLEMANLY CONDUCT OF KRUEL KONKRETES RESPONSIBLE FOR VICTORY OVER WICHITA TOP FLOOR CLUB

Out-maneuvred and out-tricked, but never out-played, the famous Wichita Top Floors were defeated yesterday afternoon at Athletic Park by the Kiwanis Kruel Konkretes. Leadership of the Weekly Luncheon League is now without a home.

The Top Floors played a gallant game, and had they caught more balls in the outfield, stopped more grounders in the infield and made more hits when at bat, there is not a shadow of a doubt but that they would have won a glorious victory.

Yes, they were beaten by trickery; by the gentlemanly conduct of the Konkretes, which was such a complete surprise that the Top Floors were unable to readjust their plan of attack in time to escape defeat. Superior Manager Lloyd Weaver had perfected an attack and a defense for the Top Floors based on the expectation that the Kruel Konkretes would live up to their advance reputation as hard-boiled birds. But the Konkretes double-crossed him with politeness. Whenever Umpire Strong or Umpire Ellis rendered a decision unfavorable to the Top Floors, the Konkretes howled the loudest and this gentlemanly conduct and good sportsmanship so upset Weaver's clientele that they became absolutely unable to handle the situation.

The final score was 16 to 3, very closely resembling Bill Bryan's famous 16 to 1 Free Silver score a number of years ago. But the only thing free at yesterday's game was home plate—it was free to the Konkretes every inning!

The writer at this point is ready to burst into tears, and can only complete this masterpiece by giving a brief synopsis of the game, as follows:

		Runs	Hits	Errors
Kiwanis	6314200—	16	Many	Rare
Top Floors	0010110—	3	Few	Yes

BOXING BOUT AND BALL BATTLE AT SPUDDER'S PARK

A double bill will be staked at Athletic Park today. The big show will be the returns of the Dempsey and Carpentier fight at 1:00 o'clock. The matinee will be the meeting, for the first time, of the Wichita Falls Black Spudders and the Dallas Black Marines. The Spudder's manager has just returned from Fort Worth, with two new finds for his pitching staff (names reserved) but in order to cinch today's game either "Big Boy" Hicks or the miniature Reed, will be on the mound for the 'Spuds.' The Marines tho' descending the percentage ladder, have a rather formidable bunch of players, and indications point to a hot contest around parkdom this afternoon. Game called at 4 p. m.

U. S. WRESTLERS OPPOSED TO JAP METHODS

COLUMBIA, Mo., July 1.—American wrestlers come back from Japan with less money, more experience and no love for Japanese promoters, according to Alfonso Johnson, former United States Trade Commissioner to Japan and now connected with a local newspaper.

"Ad Santel and Henry Weber, American wrestlers," says Johnson, "are on their way back to this country from Japan, where they mustered a great deal of respect for Japanese wrestlers.

"'Sumo' is what they call wrestling in Japan. According to our rules of mat skill, American wrestlers are far more superior to those of Japan; but, according to Sumo rules, neck and toe holds are barred—so Santel and Weber were out of luck when they bucked the champion of Japanese rings."

Japanese wrestlers, unlike the average Jap, are giants of men, Johnson declares. They are mountains of strength, fat and muscular, with sensual faces and, he declares, for the most part, of sensual habits. They allow their hair to grow until it can be braided.

Those of their following who attain the championship class usually marry the daughters of wrestling devotees and then live a fast life that sends them to an early grave, debauched, says Johnson.

Once Down, Defeated.

Explaining some of the details of Sumo, Johnson says only forty-eight falls, consisting of twelve throws, twelve lifts, twelve twists and twelve throws over the back are permitted. The matches are staged in sanded rings, encircled by rice-straw bales; the wrestlers enter the arena practically naked, wearing only a gali-colored apron. An umpire stays in the ring to see that rules are strictly observed. He is dressed in the latest style of Kimono and carries a fan.

Japanese wrestling seldom results in a fall, as a fall is known in America, as no attempt is made to touch the shoulders of an opponent to the mat. A wrestler is down if any part of his body touches the mat, or if he steps over the boundary line of the ring. The Sumo men being giants, the Japanese wrestling contests are mostly pushing contests.

"Years ago," explains Johnson, "American sailors tried to mix American wrestling and Japanese Sumo, but always with disastrous results, for the sailor would tear in for a catch-as-catch-can and upset the Jap. That wasn't the way it was done in Japan.

"The last big Sumo match I saw was between a Jap and a giant negro sailor. The sailor was warned not to 'muss him up too much,' and for a time things went well. Suddenly, the Jap pushed a little too hard to please the negro, and the black forgot his instructions, grabbed a 'half-Nelson' and threw the Jap so hard that he almost cracked. It broke up the game and that night the sailors were afraid to take shore leave. That ended Sumo contests between Japs and American sailors.

Wrestling, Royal Art.

"Santel and Weber understood the Sumo rules when they started their tour of Japan. They signed contracts with promoters at Dal Nippon and staged bouts in Kudan Park, Tokio, where they were bested because of certain interpretation of the rules of combination matches. After five days wrestling before crowds of from 6,000 to 8,000 Santel and Weber asked for an accounting; they needed money. They were told the profits had been only 196 yen ($98), as the expenses had been very heavy.

"Still arguing over this, they went to Nagoya and staged two bouts. They still received no pay. At Osaka they refused to wrestle unless paid in advance. This ultimatum finally brought them some money. They accepted some checks also, but the banks reported they had no accounts with the signers. The promoters who brought them from America had disappeared."

Sumo is connected by Japanese history, Johnson says, with the royal family of that country. The Japanese throne, he says, once was a Sumo prize.

"In the ninth century," declares Johnson, "the Mikado died and left two sons, both of whom claimed the throne. They committed their claims to a Sumo match rather than real warfare."

GONZALES HEADS NEW REVOLT IN MEXICO, IS REPORT

Pablo Gonzales.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—That a plan has been developed in Mexico for a new revolution headed by General Pablo Gonzales, former Carranza military chief, to extinguish the government of Alvaro Obregon, is a report now current in Washington.

News dispatches have carried the statement that Gonzales, who is a banker and business man of Laredo, Texas, although a Mexican citizen, is in Mexico at the head of rebel troops.

Behind Gonzales, it is said, are ranged a large number of prominent and successful business men of Mexico.

BOTH FIGHTERS ARE CONFIDENT OF VICTORY TODAY

noticeably within the past few days.

Many expert followers of pugilism express surprise that has spread in odds is not greater, as Carpentier is as much of a "man of mystery" on the eve of the battle as he was the day he landed on the Isle of Manhattan preparatory to training for the championship clash.

After weeks of the closest application and effort on the part of boxing writers and authorities, very little is known of the real ring ability of the French challenger.

His few public training exhibitions in his camp at Manhassett, Long Island, have shown little that was not generally known before. Lightning fast afoot, possessing a powerful right hand punch, which he can shoot from various angles, and a well muscled body, except around the mid-section, he appears to be at best a middleweight with the legs of a heavyweight. Of his ability to take punishment from a terrific hitter of Dempsey's caliber, little is known and much doubt is expressed.

No question arises regarding Carpentier's courage or gameness. This he has demonstrated both in the ring and on the battlefield. On ring strategy he also stands high and should he elect to box a stand-off contest, taking full advantage of his speedy footwork and clever boxing, Dempsey will find a far different opponent to cope with than was the case when he faced Willard, Fulton and Brenan.

AND NOW COPS MUST WATCH FOR CHEESE

"Ah ha! Smugglers!" cried the customs inspector as he came upon three steerage passengers on a steamer that had just arrived from sunny Italy. The trio protested but the customs inspector seized their duffle bags. The outlines of huge discs could be seen.

"Cheese smugglers!" the inspector added, and he emptied the contents of the duffle bags on the deck. From each bag rolled three large, black Parmesan cheeses, glistening like ebony platters.

The inspector then explained that the three Italians were technically smugglers, although they had not violated our customs laws, but those of Italy. He said that there was an embargo on cheese in Italy, and an export tax must be paid on all cheeses taken out of the country. To evade this tax, he said, emigrants secrete the huge Italian cheeses in their luggage, but when they are discovered in American ports the would-be tax dodgers are held as smugglers as an act of comity to the Italian government. Difficulties are settled with the Italian consul by paying the export tax.

"The Italians would gladly pay anything rather than part with their cheese," the customs inspector said. "Each man treasures a cheese from his native village, where it was made from a recipe popular in that locality. Some villages favor colored cheeses flavored with herbs while others prefer the cheese in its natural state after being made from sheep's milk.

"The most popular Italian cheese and about as rare as champagne used to be in this country is the Parmesan cheese. It is kept under the bed or in cupboards for three or four years. The cheese, shaped to suit the owner, is taken out monthly and polished with linseed oil and charcoal until it shines like ebony. It is then used for decorative purposes. In some villages it takes the place of the bridal cake and is cut up for the guests at the wedding feast. Almost every smuggler boasts of a parmesan cheese.

Struggles of Hungary During Last Fifty Years Reviewed With Pride By Count Apponyi On 75th Birthday

By Associated Press.

BUDAPEST, July 1.—"I worked for Hungary's prosperity during my half-centennial political career, I suffered with my people when the war and the final catastrophe crushed us and now I rejoice to see the nation rising nobly again," said Count Albert Apponyi to The Associated Press correspondent in the garden of his quaint old palace on the Buda-Hill overlooking the Danube and the city, bathed in the golden rays of the early morning sun.

Count Apponyi recently celebrated his 75th birthday and the special session of the National Assembly, the gala performance at the opera house, the numerous banquets which were held in honor of the "grand old man" gave expression to the esteem in which he is held by the Magyars.

"You ask me to look backward and sum up my experiences of the last 50 years?" mused Count Apponyi, strokling his long patriarchial beard. "Well, look here"—and he pointed to the Danube and the city"—when 50 years ago I looked down from this same spot, I saw a lonesome river and one solitary bridge over it built by an Englishman from purely British-made material. Except for a handful of one-storied houses only dunghills extended along the banks.

"Now look. Six new bridges—home-made to the last nail—are thrown across a river loud with the traffic of steamboats. You see the dark outlines of our Gothic parliament and the long rows of noble mansions, you hear the distant droning sounds, the bustling toil of a million inhabitants. Here you have our history of the last century, which can boast of a marvelous economic, technical, cultural progress of almost American proportions.

"But, alas, my pleasant recollections are obscured by pictures of a gloomier hue. The bulk of the nation, the gentry and landed middle-class could not keep abreast of the feverish economic struggle and consequently fell back. Clinging to the traditions of a long semi-feudal past, they neglected trade and commerce and were ill-fitted for the exigencies of modern public and intellectual life. Their footing thus lost has since been occupied by the Jews; hence the expansion of their influence, for which they can hardly be blamed.

"Our gigantic struggle during the last decades has yet another dark side. We become but lately aware of social life not merely production and consumption, but much more a just distribution of goods produced and that a social legislation has to keep watch and eliminate the bad consequences of free competition as well as check the tyranny of the rich. I, at least, have been preaching and advocating for 30 years a liberal labor policy and the satisfaction of all labor claims which are comparable with efficient production.

"The disastrous war and the more disastrous peace made my flourishing country a wreck. We lost two-thirds of our former territory, oud woodland is altogether gone, most of our mines have been taken and ruins of former Hungary were exposed to the storms of two revolutions and a subsequent Rumanian occupation.

"And yet my faith remains unshaken in Hungary's resurrection. The future will prove that universal interests will help Hungary to a higher position than what was intended to be given to her by the peace treaty. Hungary will win, if not a leading, at least a strong position in Central Europe because none of the shaky new states will be found equal to fulfill the historic function of the former dual monarchy which consisted in securing peace, tranquility and in spreading western ideas in this part of the world. Hungary though mutilated will show herself fit for the task and will come to her own in the long run."

The correspondent asked County Apponyi whether in the light of today he had discovered any fatal blunder in the policy of the former monarchy which, if realized and corrected at the proper time, would have given a different course to events?

"A pernicious mistake," replied the county, "was that by Hungary's compromise with Austria in 1867 no independent army had been provided for Hungary. Had the late King and Emperor Francis Joseph followed my advice and granted a national army to Hungary, I think it probable that the former monarchy would still be on legs, because its system had not become consumptive owing to the incessant friction of Austria and Hungary.

"Another regrettable error was made with regard to our nationalities. There never was an 'oppression' of them, there never was anything approaching the cruelty with which the Magyar minorities are now being treated according to the unbiased reports of the American Unitarian Church Mission or the mission of the British Presbyterian church. But we have blundered—and I am no exception—in not observing the metamorphosis of our nationalities from unconscious masses into self-conscious national minorities. Had we observed it we could have done more to accept the consequences of the change as we do full justice to the claims of our preserved national minorities.

"Although I consider the Treaty of Trianon the worst of all, yet I take the entire peace work for a sordid piece of statesmanship. No peace has been achieved and conditions have been imposed on the vanquished which must prevent a sincere reconciliation. Whether this will lead to new convulsions or the treaties will lose their harshness in later practice, nobody can foretell."

HAPPINESS FOUND IN LIGHT OF LAMP

Mankind has long searched for some theory of life that would end all human troubles. The theory may be found easily enough; the difficulty is to make it work. We now learn from Dr. Kuchkiesh, who is director of applied science at the Bela research laboratory in Cleveland, that a lamp may be the fount of all bliss. This assertion should not be taken humorously; a research laboratory must be a serious thing. Nor does Dr. Kuckiesh's idea lack plausibility. Have we not the historic case of Aladdin? Fiat lux.

"Colors seen by candle light will not look the same by day." Dr. Kuckiesh produces candle-like effects with the electric light to show that Mrs. Browning spoke by the-card. He softens the common glare to a sentimental dimness. "Did you talk when you spooned in the moonlight?" he asks. Conversation will languish as the glow fades. And are not most of our troubles due to talk? How can people quarrel if they hold their tongues? But there is more than this in his theory. The nature of the light will react upon the temper of the mind. Variously shaded lamps will control the emotions. "When a man or woman can 'paint' his rooms to suit his wrath or his beatitude, there will be fewer cases in the divorce courts."

The roots of a young oak tree have been known to lift a block of granite estimated to be more than six tons in weight.

MARKETS DULL AS THREE DAY HOLIDAY NEARS

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 1.—Dullness, such as usually precedes a protracted recess characterized today's stock market. The tone was uncertain throughout, oils, motors and their accessories and some of the obscure specialties making further declines, while rails, equipments and food issues were disposed to improve.

Mexican petroleum fell five points to 96, a new low for several years, and Pan-American petroleum and General Asphalt also gave way to renewed pressure, but these were relieved later when shorts covered.

United States Rubber, Studebaker, Harvester, American wolen of September. The market was firmer on covering, closing 10 to 15 points net higher. July and September closed at 5.80, and December at 5.85, all bid.

Famous players and Sears-Roebuck sustained additional losses of 1 to 3 1-2 points and sugars were again affected by domestic trade conditions and tariff possibilities.

Minor rails fared better than seasoned issues, Canadian Pacific and Reading reacting moderately under professional offerings. Colorado Southern, Western Pacific and St. Louis and Southwestern issues were in fair demand. Sales amounted to 435,000 shares. All call money, including loans into next Tuesday, were remained at 6 per cent and many July maturities were extended at prevailing rates. Sterling and most continental exchanges were tower during the morning, but registered variable recoveries on moderate purchases of British and French bills, even the German rate showing improvement.

All liberty issues except the 3 12's hardened and the bond list as a whole reflected better investment conditions, speculative rails adding to recent gains. Total sales, par value, eleven million, four hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars.

DUN'S REVIEW.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 1.—Dun's tomorrow will say:

General commercial revival having failed to develop during the first half of the year, it is not the time now to look for decisive improvement in conditions. Even in active quarters, July brings interruptions to business through holidays and vacations, and suspensions of work for repairs, and other restraints add their weight this year. The combined effect of these forces appear in a further slowing down in basic industries and primary markets and a larger retail distribution of seasonable merchandise is only a partial offset.

That some plants are well engaged, all things considered, is encouraging, but iron and steel output remains at an extremely low ebb, and textile production has receded again in some divisions. The fundamental causes of the restriction of manufacturing, which extends to many lines, is found in some buyers persistent disinclination to do more than cover immediate requirements, and current needs are limited. The practice of economy and retrenchment has become no small factor in the present situation and the sharper competition for orders finds reflection in the not infrequent offerings of goods at lower prices. Results of the six months just now ended have proved disappointing to those who had expected general and substantial economic recovery, and have necessitated modification of some views regarding the probable duration of the readjustment. The record, however, is not wholly unsatisfactory for progress has been made in correcting the artificial and unsound status of business and the foundation is being laid for stronger conditions in the future.

A clergyman who had been a missionary in China eventually took up his residence in Berkeley, Cal. His friend and fellow missionary, Dr. Boone, returning on furlough, was expected to arrive in San Francisco on a certain day. Dr. Smith, the clergyman mentioned, crossed the bay to the city. He meant to find Dr. Boone and his party, and, after spending the day in sightseeing, to take dinner at a well known cafe.

The steamship, however, had reached port earlier than had been expected, and when Dr. Smith got to the dock his friends had left. He made inquiries at the principal hotels, but could not find them. In order to notify his family in Berkeley of the necessary change in plans, Dr. Smith sent them a telegram. Here is the somewhat damaged message that Mrs. Smith finally read:

"Can't find the bones. Will come home to dinner."

On Derby night the waiters in one of the fashionable restaurants in London were dressed as jockeys and the head waiter as a bookmaker.

HOLIDAYS PULL DOWN CORN AND WHEAT MARKETS

CHICAGO, July 1.—Aversion to carrying ownership risks over a triple holiday in a weak market pulled down wheat prices today after an early bulge. The close was heavy, 1 1-4 to 2 1-4c net lower, with July 1.22 1-2 to 1.22 3-4 and September 1.21 3-4 to 1.22. Corn gained 1-4 to 1 3-8c and oats 1-8 to 1 1-4c. In provisions the outcome was unchanged to 10c lower. At first the wheat market responded readily to continued dry hot weather in the northwest and predictions that unless general rains came soon northwestern crops would be greatly reduced. Upturns in price, however, increased the disposition of many holders to even up before adjournment of the board until Tuesday, especially as the weather map indicated cooler weather. Monthly crop estimates were less bullish than had been expected and the seaboard reported England trying to resell because of large Australian offerings.

The market lacked support during the alst half of the day, and fininshed ear the bottom level reached.

Nebraska advices of corn curling in the fields and of hot winds in South Dakota had a bullish influence on the corn market today. Smallness of receipts strengthened oats.

Provisions were governed chiefly by the action of the hog market.

ARMAGEDDON TO BE UNEARTHED BY UNIVERSITY

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 1.—The sight of Armageddon of Palestine is to be excavated by the University of Chicago through a gift of $60,000 by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., it was announced here today. Armageddon or Megiddo, was the place of the first battle whose details are known to history, Dr. Thomas G. Allen, secretary of the Oriental Institute of the University to which the gift was made, said today.

The book of revelations calls by the name of Armageddon the last great battle of the earth.

FASCISTI KILLED IN ITALIAN RIOT

By Associated Press.

ROME, July 1.—One member of the fascisti, or extreme nationalist party, was killed in Grosseto, capital of the Maremme region, during the course of a riot, says the Temps today. Hearing of the fatality thousands of fascisti journeyed from Rome, Siena and Trieste to Grosseto and ransacked the labor exchange, a communist newspaper office and several communist homes, the newspaper adds.

A statement issued by the fascisti says that finfteen communists were killed and many injured in the raids.

COTTON TURNS AS GOVERNMENT ISSUES REPORT

NEW YORK, July 1.—The government report making the condition 69.2, acreage 28.4 per cent and the indicated yield 8,433,000 bales, excluding linters, was almost exactly in line with the average expectation. It proved the turning point in the day's market however, earlier declines being followed by advances which carried October contracts up from 12.03 to 12.48, or 31 points net higher. October closed at 12.43, and the general market closed steady at a net advance of 32 to 27 points.

The market opened steady at a net advance of two to six points, and active months sold about 11 to 14 points net higher during early trading in response to higher Liverpool cables and reports that tenders of 8,000 bales in the English market had caused no depression. This bulge met considerable pre-report realizing and just before the government reports was issued active months were selling about 14 to 18 points net lower, July touching 11.30 and December 12.45. The official crop indication failed to have any immediate stimulating effect, but more buying orders seemed to be reaching the ring late in the afternoon, while there was covering by early sellers which sent July up to 11.75 and December 12.92 in the late trading. Last prices were within 4 or 5 points of the best. General business was restricted by the proximity of the holidays.

NEW YORK COFFEE

NEW YORK, July 1.—The market for coffee futures was very quiet today but after a slight early decline sold higher on covering for over the fourth. There was no special news to account for the advance which carried September contracts up from 629 to 6.40. The general market opened unchanged to one point lower and closed at a net advance of 4 to 9 points. July 5.98; September 6.34; October 6.48; December 6.75; January 6.86; March 7.08; May 7.24.

CLAIM PARIS MERCHANTS PROFITEER

By Associated Press.

PARIS, July 1.—The effect of the high cost of living in Paris upon tourist trade, as indicated by the growing frequency of complaints of extortion by Americans visiting France, is occupying the attention of the government. The authorities hold that the tourists have the cure largely in their own hands; exaggerated prices being due in large part to indiscriminate spending by visitors, aided by the "spendthrift tendency of French profiteers.

It is admitted that abuses practised in amusement resorts, where meals, wine and dancing are provided, have their effect upon prices in general but how to correct that evil without discouraging the most profitable trade is a question.

Under Secretary of State Paisant, discussing the question with Americans, proposes publicity as a remedy. He has invited American visitors to join in a protest which will be published in the Paris press, and he also will take up personally individual cases of extortion brought to his attention.

The most frequent causes of complaint are charges for lodgings in hotels and apartments. Mr. Paisant told the Americans he had decided to ask hotels to publish their rates in the papers. This remedy would not, however, affect apartments, which are the subject of profiteering on a scale hitherto unknown.

There are very few unfurnished apartments to let, according to the real estate agencies; as fast as vacated by tennants they are transformed into furnished apartments and either let at rentals of from 200 to 1,000 per cent higher than the average before the war for furnished apartments of the same class, or rented at an increase of 200 to 300 per cent above the average for unfurnished apartments, with the promise that the tennant buy the furniture at excessive figures.

Charlie Can Make 'Em Behave.
The attitude of this country is that it cares not who makes the mandates so long as Secretary Hughes is allowed to interpose a few conditions.

—For Furniture Repairing, crating and storage, see us. All work guaranteed and goods stored in brick building with low insurance rate. Second-hand furniture bought, sold and exchanged. We have several phonographs to exchange for second hand furniture. We also take old goods in exchange for new.

ANNOUNCE OFFICERS OF KNIGHTS

Officers of the new commandery, Knights Templar at Seymour, dispensation for which was granted at the recent grand commandery held here in April, have been announced as follows:

C. E. Rupe, eminent commander; F. H. Bunkley, generalissimo; W. P. McLarty, captain general; A. E. Richmond, prelate; D. J. Bailes, recorder; W. Whiteside, treasurer; W. B. Alexander, senior warden; R. R. Kellum, junior warden; J. L. Russell, sword bearer; F. F. Fisher, standard bearer; W. F. Thompkins, warder; H. C. Lankford, sentinel.

Grand Commander Hawkins of Vernon recently instituted the commandery at Seymour and last Wednesday the first class of 11 candidates was given the degree. Assisting the Seymour officers were the following from Wichita Falls: C. R. Hartsook, S. C.; W. Y. Hammack, E. C.; Otto Stehlik, C. G.; J. R. Bachman, S. W.; M. M. Cook, J. W.; C. O. Fritz, P.; A. A. Vermillion, St. B.; Robert Nolen, S. B.; W. B. Guthrie, W. Others who motored over with the officers were Leslie Stringer, Warren Smith, C. R. Bancroft, Lee Faught, J. J. Jenkins, C. C. Willard, E. G. Boardman, C. R. Fuller and R. C. Coffee.

After being entertained by the Chamber of Commerce with a chicken luncheon the Seymour commandery and the local officers conferred the degree of knighthood on the following candidates: G. E. Whiteside, M. E. Tarver, J. S. Schultz, I. O. Newton, E. F. Rupe, G. S. Plants, R. D. Mugg, J. R. Wilson, W. H. Miller, J. A. P. Dixon, W. H. Francis, T. C. Irby, Jr., and Wright McClatchy.

A Masonic hall, two stories in height, to be devoted exclusively to Masonry, is contemplated during the coming year. A site has been secured and construction work is expected to start soon.

Those of the local commandery who made the trip report an enjoyable time and expect to take advantage of an invitation to make a similar trip soon.

NEW PROJECT IS WONDER OF WORLD, SAYS

By Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, July 1.—The world's greatest electrical project" is the phrase used by some engineers in describing the plans of the Southern California Edison company for impounding the waters of the Colorado river and developing hydro-electric power on a huge scale for distribution over a wide area of the southwest.

Edwin O. Edgerton, special counsel for the corporation and formerly president of the California state railroad commission, stated the project ultimately would involve possibly $800,000,000, or twice as much as was spent on the Panama canal.

Applications for permission to impound the waters of the river have been accepted for filing from the company by the federal power commission and the Arizona water commission. It is expected similar applications will be filed with corresponding commissions in other southwestern states.

Generations of a peak load of 4,350,000,000 horse power and an annual average load of 2,600,000 horse power from our developments projects along the river will be possible, it is stated, if the stream flow is controlled by the first of the four—a 500-foot dam planned for the head of Glen Canyon, Ariz.

At that point, it is stated, the main dam would create a lake almost 200 miles long, extending backward from the dam, up the nearly level basin of the Colorado to the mouth of the Fremont river. From this point, the river descends in 400 miles from 3350 feet above sea level to 500 feet above sea level, a fall of 2800 feet. To this 2800 feet of the dam itself, giving a gross head of 3300 feet for power development.

At the Glen canyon dam, according to plans, a uniform flow of 18,900 second feet would pass through turbines and thence through a power canal for fifty miles, to the mouth of the Little Colorado. This would give a net head of 800 feet and would generate 1,240,000 horse power.

From the Little Colorado to Kanabb creek, a net head of 700 feet could be secured in 85 miles, which would generate 1,090,000 horse power.

In the 145-mile stretch between Kanab creek and the Arizona boundary line, at Diamond, a net head of 800 feet could be secured by the use of two high dams. The river would deliver to switchboards about 1,240,000 additional horse power, according to Southern California Edison engineers.

The fourth development would cover the 120-mile stretch between the Arizona boundary and the Cottonwood valley. This would afford a 500-foot head and deliver 780,000 horse power.

It is contended that among the results of the project, when completed, would be:

Absolute flood control.

Provision for irrigation of 2,250,000 acres, of which 1,000,000 acres would be above the canyons.

Three hundred miles of the river would be made navigable.

The area which could be served with power includes the entire states of Arizona, Nevada and Utah, more than one-half of Colorado and New Mexico, one-fifth of Idaho and Wyomnig and three-quarters of California, with possibly large areas in Northern Mexico.

Power would be used for the electrification of steam railroads, as well as for commercial, agricultural, mining and municipal uses, thus saving 90,000,000 barrels of fuel oil a year.

FLORAL HEIGHTS PASTOR TO SPEAK ON PATRIOTISM

"The Highest Patriotism" will be the subject of a special sermon by the Rev. W. L. Tittle, pastor of the Floral Heights Methodist church, Sunday morning, July third. Reverend Tittle gave as his reason for the sermon that the patriotic associations of the Fourth of July should always be made to serve the highest and best things.

Rev. Mr. Tittle said that he intends to receive several members into the church resulting from the evangelical work in the city of Burke Culpepper and Dr. George Truett. He also stated that he did not expect the hot summer months to materially affect his services.

Hardly Affect the Privates.
If President Obregon carries out his announced intention of cutting down the Mexican army one half, that may be said to be a general reduction.—Columbia Record.

In Saxony, for more than 100 years, it has been the custom to provide a condemned man with a luxurious dinner on the night before his execution. Owing to the shortage of food, however, the government has decided that the "gallows meal" must be abolished.

In America there are more than 5000 churches of all denominations which show moving pictures regularly to their congregations.

CONFERENCE AGAIN TALKS JAP TREATY

By Associated Press.

LONDON, July 1.—The imperial conference met again today for what it was hoped would prove to be the final discussion for the present of the question of renewing the Anglo-Japanese treaty.

A whole week has been consumed in the consideration of this question and the cases for and against renewal of the pact have been stated with a frankness which is believed to be responsible for the government's refusal to publish the accounts of the proceedings.

Some at least of the dominion premiers let it be known early in the discussion that they had not come to London to be treated "like school boys," as in pre-war days, and be told by the "elder statesmen" of Downing street just what they should do.

The premiers had some sharp passages and as one of those who attended all of the meetings said, "there was lots of good copy for the newspapers."

Premier Smuts of South Africa, whose dominion can take a more detached view of the question than Canada, Australia, New Zealand and India and especially the mother country acted as peace maker and suggested the scheme of a conference of the pacific powers, which it is believed the imperial government will attempt to attain.

Therefore, it is for this purpose, and also to give the premiers time to consult their cabinets and probably their parliaments, that Japan has been asked to extend the alliance three months.

Premier Meighen of Canada, throughout the conference, has held out for denunciation of the treaty.

KEEP BUSY AND STAY COOL SAYS HEALTH DIRECTOR

Dr. C. Lincoln Furbush, director of the Department of Health of Philadelphia, in a special bulletin has issued a series of "Don'ts" to be observed during hot weather. The most novel is the first, which says:

Don't forget to keep occupied to divert attention from the heat of the day.

The doctor seems to be a skeptic on prohibition, as he warns:

"Don't indulge in alcoholic beverages, as they increase discomfort and do not keep the body cool.

The other don'ts follow:

Don't expose yourself unnecessarily to the direct rays of the sun. Walk on the shady side of the street.

Don't work in the heat of the sun without the protection of suitable headgear. Work in the shade when possible.

Don't eat too much. Eat sparingly of meats, butter, pastries or any fatty or starch foods. Fried substances should be omitted entirely. The diet should be light and include non-heat-producing foods, such as fresh vegetables.

Don't eat too fast. Thorough mastication facilitates digestion and conserves energy.

Don't forget to drink plenty of cool water. Ice-cold water is not recommended. Weak tea or lemonade will lessen the thirst.

Don't forget to bathe daily. A cold plunge or a shower in the morning prepares the way for the day's work. Another cold bath before retiring at night produces sleep.

Don't permit children to play exposed to the direct days of the sun.

Don't take children on shopping tours or to indoor amusement places.

Don't fail to select the coolest room in the house for the infant.

Don't fail to consult the health center in your neighborhood to obtain instruction on the care of the baby during hot weather. Call the division of child hygiene, city hall, for information.

HOUSTON MAN IS DELIGHTED WITH RESULTS

Dalton Beard Says He Eats Better, Sleeps Better and Feels Better Now.

"Put me down as a firm believer in Tanlac, for when I tell you it has helped me over troubles that bothered me for three years I am giving you the plain, unvarnished facts," said Dalton D. Beard, 223 Lennox avenue, a well known and popular young business man of Houston, Texas.

"I don't know when I have found anything that did me as much good as Tanlac and I sure don't mind telling people about it, for it delivers the goods. I was in a run-down, nervous condition, was frequently bilious and nearly always constipated, having awful headaches every little while which seemed to be getting more and more frequently, and was so restless at night I could hardly sleep at all. I used to get up in the morning feeling heavy and all worn out and wouldn't feel very much better during the day. I felt sure it was my stomach that caused this trouble, for nothing I ate agreed with me.

"I would be hard to satisfy if I wasn't pleased with what Tanlac did for me and there is hardly anything good enough for me to say about it. I am eating three good, hearty meals a day now, am rid of the nervous headaches and every last thing resembling in any way stomach trouble. I eat better, sleep better and feel better, and no reasonable man could ask more of a medicine."

Tanlac is sold in Wichita Falls by Miller Drug Store; in Electra by Tarlton Drug Store; in Burnett by West End Drug Co., and by all leading druggists.

ASK ME

Lilyan—Vera Gordon made her screen debut in "Humoresque." She appeared on the stage in Russia at the age of 13. A curious fact is that even at that tender age of 13 she played the role of mother. In 1906, she left Europe and came to Canada appearing both on the stage and in vaudeville. Since her appearance in "Humoresque" she has played in "The North Wind's Malice" and "The Greatest Love." She was born in Russia, is married and has two children.

Glen—In "The Luck of the Irish," James Kirkwood plays the part of the Irish plumber. He was a director before becoming a screen actor. Previous to his motion picture experience, he was a popular leading man on the stage.

Zenuah—For the first time in five years, the stage claims Rod La Roque. He is playing opposite Mary Nash in "Thy Name Is Woman." Yes, you are right, Ivy Duke is an English actress, a great favorite in her country. It is said she is soon to make a visit to the United States.

Toddle Top—So the fascinating little game has caught you, too? Be careful, Toddler. It may be expensive as well as fascinating and fashionable. I really can't tell you whether the stars you admire are fond of the game, but it's safe to say they are if they have time. Stars are hard-working people, despite the popular belief that all they do is to wear beautiful clothes and ride in their limousines.

Ridgewood—Eugene O'Brien, Nigel Barrie and Conrad Nagel are all 6 feet in height. John Gowers played the role of Clayton in "The Cumberland Romance." His latest picture is "The Sky Pilot," in which he plays the lead. Nigel Barrie is married.

Russell—I do not know the play you mention. However, there is a musical comedy called "The Whirl of the Town." It may be the one you have in mind. "Hold Your Horses" is taken from the Rupert Hughes story. Tom Moore plays the lead.

Berton B.—Mary Pickford's little five-year-old niece has already started her screen career. Her first appearance was with her uncle, Douglas Fairbanks in "The Nut." Her name is Mary Pickford Rupp.

Baby Doll—Yes, I too, have heard the report that Larry Semon and Lucile Carlyle are to be married. Larry has not confided in me, but I have a hunch that the report is the truth.

Hulda C.—The C. M. Production's company is a company formed to make pictures for Lina Cavalieri, to be assisted by her husband, Lucien Muratore, the famous opera singer.

Floy—"Moonlight and Honeysuckle," was first played on the stage about two years ago. Ruth Chatterton played the lead. James Rennie, Dorothy Gish's husband, played opposite her.

WHERE TO GO

Olympic—"Wet Gold."

Strand—James Oliver Curwood's "Nomads of the North."

Empress — Antonio Moreno in "Three Sevens."

Majestic — Franklin Farnum in "The Raiders."

Gem—Buster Keaton in "The Scarecrow."

PARIS DISCUSSING UNWRITTEN LAW

PARIS, July 1. — Prominent Frenchmen and women, including the country's best lawyers, writers and parliamentarians, have suddenly plunged into a controversy over the application of something akin to the American "unwritten law," but broadened to include every kind of so-called "love murder."

The discussion arose over the acquittal of a young engineer who shot and killed the husband of his former mistress in the street, without any preliminary discussion taking place. His only excuse was that he loved the woman and that his victim had taken her from him.

The Countess de Noailles immediately pronounced her opinion.

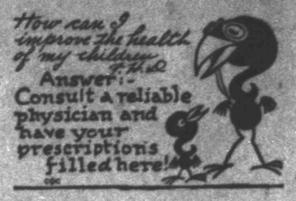

"The jury was right," she said. "In a crime like this, where love is so important an element, where there is so much human tragedy involved, a jury has the right to find that there were two victims—the man who fired the shot, as well as the man who fell dead at his feet.

"To acquit such people is simply amsurd," replied Alfred Capus, eminent French writer and member of the French academy. "They should be punished like any other murderers."
