Yanks Want To Fight In Indo-China

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 — UP — The French embassy disclosed Thursday that individual Americans have been volunteering for the fight against the Communists in Indo-China.

"We have received lots of letters and some telephone calls from Americans who want to volunteer," said a spokesman. "But we have turned them down because we don't recruit in this country."

The French didn't reveal exactly how many offers there have been. But it was learned they came from pilots, mechanics, doctors and in some cases from youths who were unemployed.

The State Department warned that it is "illegal for any American to go abroad to serve in any foreign military force."

The department said it has received no official requests for permission to serve in the Indo-China war. Under the McCarran act, this could be granted only with the express approval of the secretaries of state and defense.

French authorities were asked if any Americans have managed to find their way into the fight in spite of legal obstacles and official discouragement. They said they don't think so but that some might be serving with units of the French Foreign Legion.

The revelation that Americans have been volunteering came amid some congressional fears that the United States might become deeply involved in the seven-year war, in spite of administration assurances to the contrary. Informed sources said the Senate Foreign Relations committee plans to launch an investigation into the whole Indo-China situation beginning next week.

Optimist Club

A proposed organizational meeting of a Pampa Optimist Club was slated for the Schneider Hotel at noon today. The Borger Optimist Club arranged the meeting for the purpose of organizing an Optimist Club in Pampa. About 10 men of the Borger Optimists were to meet with potential members of the Pampa Optimist Club.

Cold Front Moves South

By UNITED PRESS
A Canadian cold front that swept through the Texas Panhandle and South Plains early Thursday brought freezing weather to that area and a gradual drop in temperatures as it moved southward. Weathermen described it as a weak front, however. Freezing weather extended from the top of the Panhandle as far south as Lubbock, which reported a low of 21 degrees. The front spread rapidly east and southward and by 8 a.m. Thursday was approaching the Beaumont-Houston area on the upper Gulf Coast. It should cover the state by nightfall, meteorologists said. Except for the Panhandle and South Plains, most of the state, however, was not any cooler earlier Thursday than Wednesday morning.

Big Storm Brews Over Tour Of Department Security Chief

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 — UP — Scott McLeod's political speaking tour has kicked up such a fuss that the State Department is speeding special reports to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles in Berlin, it was learned Thursday.

McLeod, the department's personnel security chief, took a leave of absence this week to hit the stump for the Republicans in Wyoming and South Dakota.

Democrats rapped the administration for letting a man in such a sensitive position enter the political arena. And some State Department officials privately indicated some misgivings.

A department spokesman said he wasn't sure whether Dulles knew McLeod intended to make the speeches. But he said he "is being informed of the press and congressional reaction."

There were indications that press clippings and copies of congressional comments were being sent to Dulles at the Big Four foreign ministers conference by air pouch. It was believed that cable reports also were being dispatched.

In Worland, Wyo., Wednesday night, McLeod hit back at his critics, saying "I don't know how you're going to run in government and not be in politics."

"Making a dirty word of it just doesn't make sense to me," he said.

Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.) had said two days ago that the FBI agent was being employed in the "hurry-burry of the political arena" — a "party huckster canvassing votes." He urged Dulles to put a stop to a politician of a man in such a key post.

McLeod said, however, that there wasn't much chance of him winning votes for GOP candidates when "everybody who goes to a Lincoln Day dinner already is a confirmed Republican."

Kin Challenges Eccentric's Will

SEBASTIA, Mo., Feb. 11 — UP — Legality of the will of McNair Igenfritz, who left $150,000 to the Metropolitan Opera on condition that it perform one of his operas, was challenged in a Missouri court Thursday.

Two nieces of the wealthy eccentric, Mrs. Jean Igenfritz Deming, Kansas City, and Mrs. Dorothy Igenfritz Buckles, Sherman Oaks, Calif., filed in probate court here for ancillary administration of property in Pettis county, Missouri. They contended the will, now under administration by the Orphans Court at Philadelphia, Pa., was not Igenfritz's last will and testament.

Letters of administration of Igenfritz's Missouri property, including his interest in the three-story Igenfritz office building here, were issued, Mrs. Gold Igenfritz, a sister-in-law of McNair Igenfritz, previously filed suit asking for sale of the office building, in which she has one-third interest.

An attorney for the nieces said that Igenfritz's will "was probably the result of undue influence, and there is the question of mental competency."

Opposition Leader Says Job Half Done

SAN DIEGO, Tex., Feb. 11 — UP — Ten supporters of George B. Parr resigned their posts amid signs his political empire may be crumbling, but an opposition leader said Thursday the job is only "half done."

J. M. McDonald, a colorful leader of the opposition to Parr's South Texas domain, demanded that Sheriff Archer Parr, a nephew of George Parr, and County Judge Dan Tobin resign immediately.

As long as Parr controls the offices of sheriff and county judge, the job is only half done," said McDonald, a Duval county rancher who holds a commission as a special deputy Ranger and wears a big gun in a shoulder holster.

"They should go immediately," McDonald said. "The most prominent of the 10 Parr supporters who resigned Wednesday was D. C. Chapa, tax assessor - collector for the Benavides and San Diego school districts and Duval county."

McDonald's demand for the resignations of Archer Parr and Tobin came as State Auditor C. H. Cavanaugh and seven assistants began a detailed inventory of records of the Benavides and San Diego school districts and Duval county.

Special Judge Arthur Klein of Harlingen ordered the records impounded Wednesday.

The records were impounded because Attorney General John Ben Shepperd, directing the investigation personally, said some 800 cancelled checks had disappeared since last Friday.

The other highlights in the fast expanding probe Wednesday included:

1. Parr, known as the "Duke of Duval," denied in an exclusive United Press interview that he held any power, and thus couldn't "abdicate." He said the "newspapers" put him in power.

2. Judge C. Woodrow Laughlin of the 7th District went before the Texas Supreme Court, which heard oral arguments on a plea by 11 South Texas lawyers that he be removed from his bench.

3. Shepperd said the investigation, in full swing since Tuesday, was "only beginning."

4. The state gained an important tactical advantage with the sealing of Klein as a special judge in lieu of Laughlin, a Parr supporter. Klein will be in charge of at least those phases of the probe which were begun Wednesday.

5. Others who resigned from their posts besides Chapa were the four Duval county commissioners, four members of the Benavides school district board and the district's acting secretary.

Ike's Verbal Whip Pleases Democrats

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 — UP — Democrats said Thursday President Eisenhower in effect rebuked some of his own party leaders by expressing disapproval of sharp partisan attacks by Republican orators.

The Democrats, who had called on the President to halt what some called "dastardly" GOP attacks linking their party with communism, were pleased by Mr. Eisenhower's new conference statement.

Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson said it was a "re-buke" to presidential advisers. And Sen. Lister Hill (D-Ala.) agreed that "the effect of what he said is to rebuke those in his own administration who have been making these vicious and unwarranted attacks."

But Sen. Homer Ferguson (R-Mich.), chairman of the Senate GOP Policy committee, said he did not understand what the Democrats were complaining about. He insisted that GOP speakers have been giving the nation "facts" and said there can be no "armistice" on telling the truth.

Mr. Eisenhower said Wednesday the times were too serious for extreme partisanship and said he expected his own official family to show a tolerance for Democrats. But he added that he had no control over others, an apparent reference to Republican congressmen.

He also said it would be unwise, foolish and politically unwise to charge that Democrats were tinged with treason and were all security risks.

Big 4 Parley Faces Crisis

BERLIN, Feb. 11 — UP — The western foreign ministers sought a showdown in a secret Big Four meeting Thursday on Communist willingness to negotiate peace settlements in Korea and Indo-China.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault decided to try to pin down Soviet Foreign Minister Georges Vyacheslav M. Molotov on Russian and Chinese Communist intentions.

The result might be that Russia would use its influence, as the western allies have asked, to get the Red Chinese to negotiate a Korean peace treaty and stop supplying the Communist Viet Minh rebels in Indo-China.

At the first secret session Monday the West rejected Molotov's proposal for a Big Five conference on world problems with Red China, but asked Russia to intervene with the Peiping regime to get Korean peace talks started and halt shipments to Viet Minh aggressors in Indo-China.

Western sources said the foreign ministers accomplished nothing in their first round on the Far East.

Hull Says Rhee Will Cooperate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 — UP — Gen. John E. Hull, U. S. commander in the Far East, arrived Thursday and asserted his confidence Syngman Rhee will "continue to collaborate" to maintain the truce in Korea.

Hull and John Allison, U. S. ambassador to Japan, flew here for high policy talks on the Far East, coincidental with the critical situation in Indo-China.

The U. S. commander said that Rhee, president of South Korea, was a "great patriot" and although the Far Eastern situation will "remain difficult for some time" he didn't think Rhee would break the truce.

Hull was asked what he would do if he found he had misjudged Rhee and the South Koreans renewed hostilities.

French Take 1,000 Rebels In Indo-China

HANOI, Indo-China, Feb. 11 — UP — French-led forces killed or captured 1,000 Communists this week in the Red River delta, some 40 miles from the airfield where newly-arrived U. S. airplane mechanics are at work, it was announced Thursday.

The French high command said another 800 persons, believed to be Red guerrillas in disguise, were rounded up for screening in the 96-hour mopup of the Nam Dinh area, south of Hanoi airfield.

Communist activity in the vicinity of the airfield is not uncommon. Guerrillas blew up a gasoline dump only 12 miles away last week.

The Americans are protected by tank patrols and barbed-wire entanglements constantly prowled by savage "war dogs."

The suspected Reds rounded up in the Nam Dinh region were mostly men caught following empty coffins in "funeral processions" which apparently were attempts to escape the closing French net.

Intelligence officers began investigating when they noticed a sudden, unaccountable increase in funerals in the area where French and loyal Indo Chinese troops were mopping up Communists.

REV. PORTER BROOKS ... elected Cancer head

Brooks Will Head Cancer Group Here

The Gray County chapter of the American Cancer Society today had a new slate of officers to serve for a year. Rev. Porter Brooks, vicar of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, will lead the group as general chairman.

Other officers include Dr. Raymond Laycock, vice-chairman; Mrs. Walter Spoonmore, secretary; and B. D. Robinson, treasurer. At the organizational meeting Wednesday evening, Mrs. Gertrude Linn of Austin, state director of field activities, presented a speech on importance of county organizations and the work they can do in helping cancer patients. Mrs. W. C. Barkdale of Borger, district laywoman, was in charge of the program.

Oona Chaplin To Renounce Citizenship

LOAN, Feb. 11 — UP — Oona O'Neill Chaplin, wife of comedian Charlie Chaplin, said Thursday she would formally renounce her American citizenship when she returns to her home in Geneva next week.

The raven-haired Oona, daughter of the late American playwright Eugene O'Neill, revealed Wednesday that she had become a British subject like her husband.

She had planned to take the oath of renunciation at the American embassy here Thursday, but changed her mind when she learned the formalities would take longer than she expected.

Neither Oona nor Chaplin would discuss her decision further. Although he spent 40 years in the United States, Chaplin never gave up his British nationality. He said his wife's decision was "one of my proudest moments."

Rotary Elects New Directors

A ladies night Valentine dinner will be held at the Pampa County Club Monday at 7:30 p.m. for members of the Pampa Rotary Club and their wives.

President E. S. Williams held members of the club at their luncheon meeting Wednesday that all members are urged to attend, adding that those members who do not attend may make up attendance by reporting to the secretary at the regular meeting place Wednesday noon in the Palm Room of the City Hall.

Seven new directors of the club were elected at Wednesday's meeting. They are Fred W. Brook, Don

Schaffer Will Seek Job Of Commissioner

E. C. Schaffer, a resident of Gray County since 1950, late this morning announced that he would be a candidate for county commissioner of Precinct Two.

Formerly county commissioner from Precinct Three (1951-53) Schaffer this year will be running against County Commissioner W. E. (Bill) Jarvis and Former County Commissioner J. W. (Bill) Graham — the same two men he ran against two years ago.

First word of Schaffer's entrance into this year's race came Wednesday when his electioneering cards appeared around the Court House.

"I would try to keep the business all here in Gray County, for the people who pay taxes in Gray County," he said in announcing that his name would be entered in the July 24 Democratic primary.

A rancher with property in the southern part of the county, Schaffer who lives at 908 S. Wells has run for both the Pampa City Commission and the Gray County Commissioners' Court since he last held political office.

Schaffer said he would file his formal papers of candidacy at a later date. He has four sons and three daughters.

Husted Is Elected Country Club Head

The Pampa Country Club board of directors today had three new officers and a new director among its ranks, following a recent meeting of stockholders.

After the election of directors, the officers were appointed from the group. C. A. Husted is the new president, B. E. Holt, vice-president, and Marvin Harris, secretary-treasurer. The newly elected director is R. A. Baker, replacing Hugh Burdett, who did not choose to run.

The two other directors whose terms had expired and who were re-elected were H. M. Luna and Aaron Sturgeon. The remaining directors, not up for election, include Fred Neslage, Rex Rose, Luke McCellan and John Frick. Each serves three years, with three men up for election each year.

Congressional Post Sought By LaMaster

LeRoy (Pete) LaMaster, of Perryton, has announced his candidacy for the post of U.S. representative in Congress from the 18th Congressional District.

A life long Democrat, LaMaster said that this time he would enter the Republican primary July 24 and, if elected, would be "a full member of the (Eisenhower) administration team, assist in organizing a Republican Congress and be in a position to serve the Panhandle to utmost advantage."

Twice before, the Perryton wheat farmer tried to obtain the Democratic congressional nomination (failing to get in the run-offs by some 700 votes last time).

LaMaster stated that he ran for congressman in 1950 as a "conservative Democrat" and supported like in 1952. "Since then, I have studied his administration's program carefully, and am now in thorough general accord with it."

The aspirant continued that he is "vitality" interested in agriculture; oil and gas; and water. He

Mrs. Mattie Holt and daughter, Betty Simmons, have been called to Springfield, Mo., where Mrs. Holt's father, R. B. Swayne, is favoring a continuance of the present farm program (till a "better one can be worked out"); the maintaining of present depletion tax allowances (to "encourage drilling of new wells"); the pushing "very actively" of co-operative measures in Congress "which will bring about the proposed Canadian River dam-and-reservoir project "at the earliest possible date."

Born and reared in Ochiltree County, LaMaster was graduated in 1941 from the Texas College of Arts and Industries. He is 35 and married.

Incumbent Walter Rogers has not formally announced for re-election, though he has indicated to Pampa friends that he intends to do so.

Mike Kemp of Odessa has also announced for the office. Both are Democrats.

J. D. Fish Seeks Job Of Constable

J. D. Fish, of Alameda, a resident of Gray County for the last 32 years, has announced his candidacy for constable in McLean.

A farmer and rancher for the last few years, Fish said in making his announcement, "I feel I am capable of handling the many duties of the office I seek."

His name will be entered in the Democratic primary, slated for July 24.

"If elected," he continued, "I will move to McLean as I know it would be more convenient in case I should be needed in an emergency."

Opposing Fish will be Luke Henley, incumbent, who has announced for re-election. The other two constables in the county — H. A. Doggett, Pampa, and Charlie Clendenen, Lordsburg — have announced for re-election and are, thus far, unopposed.

Visitor Holds Nightly Meets

Raymond R. Rose of Brooklyn, N. Y., circuit minister of Jehovah's Witnesses, is visiting the Pampa congregation this week, leading Bible meetings each evening.

High light of his visit will be a Bible lecture Sunday at 3 p.m. entitled, "Happiness in a World of Gloom."

Rose has travelled extensively throughout the country during the past 12 years delivering Bible lectures. Pampa's Kingdom Hall is located at 944 S. Dwight.

National Guard Continues Growth

Following the acquisition of some new members and some re-enlistments at Pampa's National Guard drill session Wednesday evening, the unit now boasts 95 enlisted men, 11 officers and five warrant officers.

Those re-enlisting were Sgt. 1-c Lilburn Howell, Sgt. Charles Vignall, and Cpl. Hershel Williams. The two new men were Pvt. Bill Herr and Dale Fannon, both of Pampa.

Pampa's battery is one of few units being trained to observe enemy artillery fire and direct fire upon the enemy. One of these units proved very successful in the Korean Conflict. All members are specialists in fields of communication, survey, motor, mess, personnel, weather observation, flash and sound ranging and radar procedure.

400 Teachers Plan To Attend Banquet

More than 400 persons are expected to attend the annual Teachers Appreciation banquet, which will be held in the Pampa High School cafeteria Monday at 7:30 p.m.

Frank Fata, co-chairman with Jeff Bearden of the Goodwill and Reception committee of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, which sponsors the event, is in charge of arranging the program. He said today that the program is not complete, but added that it would feature the Larry Kelly troupe of Amarillo.

This group of entertainers will star a young trouper who impersonates Louis Armstrong on the trumpet.

The program will be very informal, Fata said, adding that further details would be announced later.

The Bowery theme will be carried out and special prizes will be awarded for the best Bowery costumes to both men and women. This annual banquet is being held for teachers of Gray and Roberts County to show appreciation for their efforts, Fata said. Tickets were being mailed today from the Pampa chamber office to the teachers. These tickets were provided by business and professional men of Pampa.

Appeal Move For Tulsa Socialite

AUSTIN, Feb. 11.—Attorneys for former Tulsa socialite Mary Jean Parsons planned Thursday to appeal against the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals' refusal to reverse her conviction for killing her husband of six weeks.

The court handed down a written opinion Wednesday on arguments for a rehearing of Mrs. Parsons' appeal which were heard Jan. 27. Defense attorneys now have 15 days to file a second motion for a rehearing, and if it is denied, can then file a writ of certiorari asking the U.S. Supreme Court to hear the case.

Mrs. Parsons, a 22-year-old blonde former University of Oklahoma student, was convicted at Wichita Falls, Tex., last year for the 1952 murder of L. Richard O. Parsons at El Paso. She was sentenced to 10 years in prison, but has remained free on bond pending the appeal.

Court observers pointed out that former Gov. Dan Moody, one of Mrs. Parsons' attorneys, laid the ground for a possible appeal to the nation's highest court when he argued before the Texas appellate court that she was deprived of her constitutional rights when her apartment was searched after the murder.

Wednesday's opinion, written by Judge W. A. Morrison, said that search was legal.

Morrison said the defense's sole contention, "as stated originally . . . was that of Mrs. Parsons' sanity." She was found sane in a jury trial at El Paso in May, 1952, three months after Parsons was killed as he slept.

If Mrs. Parsons' conviction sentence should be sustained by all courts, she would serve her 10-year sentence in the Texas State Prison.

Belated Greetings

SEOUL, Korea, Feb. 11.—UP—A soldier audience was not surprised Wednesday when a Christmas short subject was shown on their movie screen. The film came by slow boat from the United States.

But the GI's raised their eyebrows when the film ended with the greeting—"Merry Christmas, 1953."

Policeman Quits Under Fire — PERRY, Okla., Feb. 11.—UP—Night Police Chief Eli Pricer quit Wednesday, charging he was "railroaded out." Mayor Henry Dolezal confirmed that Pricer's resignation was asked.

While U.S. Fears Recession, British Business Is Booming

By WILBUR G. LANDREY
LONDON, Feb. 11.—UP—While Americans are arguing whether there is a recession, Britain's economy is booming.

Production and employment are at record levels, despite a drop in trade with the United States. Stocks are rising toward record highs.

Government officials and economists say they believe any severe or prolonged American recession would hit Britain and the rest of the world.

Vital British exports to the United States slumped 10 per cent in the last three months of 1953. But figures published in the last few days show the British economy is strengthening. Things seldom have been so good.

New Highs
Here is what the figures show: Employment was at an all-time high in the closing months of last year. Unemployment is less than at the same time last year despite the seasonal increase.

Steel production last month was the highest for January in history. Overall production was steadily climbing, according to the latest available statistics for late 1953.

Farmers set new production records last year for wheat, barley, oats, potatoes and turnips.

Industrial bond and share prices are just short of the all-time record set in 1947.

The gold and dollar reserves of the whole sterling area still are climbing steadily as it edges further into the black.

Retail prices have been steady for almost a year.

Wages as recorded by the official index have climbed 12 points since Prime Minister Winston Churchill's government took office in 1951; prices have climbed 11 points.

Last November the British working force reached a record total of 22.4 million out of a population of about 50 million. That is the highest in history and after a seasonal decline in December it was still a record total for that time of the year.

The last figures show that on Jan. 11, the number of registered unemployed was 272,000, which was 82,000 below the same time in 1952.

Recovers from Slump
Steel production last month was at the record high rate of 18,797,000 tons a year, while the index for overall industrial production recovered from a 1952 slump by climbing from 118 index points in Jan. 1953 to 122 last November.

Total coal production for this year is running slightly behind that of last year but miners agreed when they obtained a recent wage

INVESTIGATOR—The Senate Agricultural Committee, headed by Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt.), is priming itself to strike a blow for American coffee drinkers. Senator Aiken expects his committee to approve a bill that will put coffee trading under the same federal restraints on speculation as other regulated commodities.

'Pop' Go The Biscuits

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—UP—Mrs. Mary Madl, 40, Northlake, Ill., says she doesn't mind if frozen biscuits pop out of the can but when they explode that's going too far.

Mrs. Madl has sued a baking company for $50,000, claiming she suffered a cut leg and shock when a can of frozen biscuits exploded.

No Possibility Of Draft Cut Until Late 1956, Says Hannah

NEA Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Reduced draft calls cannot be expected until fiscal year 1956, and "are expected to average 18,000 for the next six months," according to John A. Hannah, Assistant Secretary of Defense for Manpower. The 18,000 figure is the same as that announced for February, the lowest since June, 1952.

Hannah made his prediction in a question-and-answer session with NEA's Washington Bureau, in which for the first time he specifically relates manpower goals to the new budget. The questions and Hannah's answers follow.

Q. Does the new military budget which calls for a reduced Army mean that draft calls will be reduced?

A. Not necessarily. Draft calls are determined by the need for replacement of losses due to expiration of term of services less the number who enlist voluntarily and change in enlistments. Therefore, a change in end strength goals does not in itself indicate the size of draft calls.

Q. When can you look forward to reduced draft calls? What will they average for the next six months?

A. Draft calls are expected to average 18,000 for the next six months. We cannot expect reduced draft calls until fiscal year 1956, a year in which losses through expiration of term of service are relatively light.

Q. Does the cut in the size of the Army mean that draftees will start going into the Air Force and Navy?

A. No. Men will not be drafted as vacancies can be filled with voluntary enlistees.

Q. Does the so-called "new look" which places greater emphasis on use of newer, more complicated weapons mean the mental level of service for draftees?

A. No. While it would be desirable from the standpoint of the services to raise the standards, there is no plan to adopt new criteria at present.

Q. Is there any plan to raise or lower the physical standards for draftees?

A. No. Physical standards are the same now as they were at the peak strength in World War II when we were scraping the bottom of the manpower barrel. It is the opinion of the Department of Defense that we cannot economically lower the standards further.

Q. Is the supply of men currently reaching draft age satisfying the needs for new men?

A. Yes.

Q. What is the draft outlook during the next six months for the various age groups?

A. It is expected that calls will be filed during the next six months primarily from registrants 20 years of age. It may be necessary to call a few 19-year-olds. Also some older men previously deferred will be called.

Q. Has the end of the fighting in Korea had any effect on the enlistment rate? On the recruitment rate?

A. Apparently not. Enlistment and recruitment rates continue to fluctuate about as they did in fiscal year 1953 and early fiscal year 1954 and no definite trend has developed.

The Pampa Daily News

One of Texas Five Most Consistent Newspapers

We believe that one truth is always consistent with another truth. We endeavor to be consistent with truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule, the Ten Commandments and the Declaration of Independence.

Should we, at any time, be inconsistent with these truths, we would appreciate anyone pointing out to us how we are inconsistent with these moral guides.

About Suspicion

Does suspicion undermine morale?

Depends on the suspicion. Certain people are automatically under suspicion all the time. Bank tellers, for example. Nothing personal about it. And it doesn't seem to hurt their morale.

A bank teller is told when he applies for the job — and we paraphrase:

"There's nothing personal about this. But you'll be handling large sums of the public's money. Our customers will want to know that we're doing all we can to protect that money. This means you'll have to be bonded, just in case.

"It doesn't mean that we think you're a crook. It's just a policy of automatic suspicion which makes us put in certain safeguards in advance. Perhaps not more than one bank teller in one million would ever embezzle his customer's money. But to insure against that one crook, we have to carry a group bond which covers all our employees."

The bank tellers understand that this arrangement is perfectly reasonable. The tellers we've met seem to enjoy their work. If their morale suffers from this atmosphere of automatic, impersonal suspicion, we've never heard of it.

The suspicion need not be taken as a personal insult. It should merely be a matter of general policy — since persons who negotiate treaties which could mean war, or spend great sums for international relief, or work with atomic secrets actually assume a greater responsibility than bank tellers — they should be willing, in exchange for their handsome salaries, to work on the same terms as bank tellers.

We mention this because certain persons have been using words such as "creating an atmosphere of continual suspicion" or "spreading the seeds of disunity" or "spreading hysteria, mistrust, and divisiveness."

It has been said that the Bricker Amendment, which would limit the President's treaty making powers and prevent any future secret treaties such as Yalta, is a personal insult to Eisenhower.

It isn't intended as an insult, Ike.

It's just that like a bank teller only to a much greater degree you've taken on the responsibility of dealing with money (and in your case human lives) which do not belong to you.

We're not suspicious of you personally. But the Constitution was written in the first place as a set of prohibitions on what government officials could do with our lives, or fortunes, and our human freedom.

George Washington did not regard it as a personal insult when limits were placed on his power. He felt that most all men are weak, and that they needed limitations placed on them by constitutional law, while they took the responsibility of other people's lives and money.

That's what we think you are, Ike. Not crooked. But humanly weak.

To take the Bricker Amendment as a personal insult would indicate to some that you don't think you have any weaknesses, and that you don't think you can ever make an error in judgment.

Show some respect for your limitations, Ike.

Let the people help you make some of your decisions, particularly those that involve agreements with foreign nations, agreements such as Yalta, Tehran, and Potsdam, which can risk our money and our lives.

Coffee Comment

Editors are notorious coffee drinkers. That's why we were more than happy to discover in the Wall Street Journal an analysis of the present coffee situation based on a reasonable appraisal of the problem — one which we might have attacked with considerable prejudice.

As the Journal points out, the gloomy forecast is that coffee may reach $1.20 a pound, a truly alarming figure for the eight-to-ten-cups per day consumer.

The Journal adds:

"The temptation of the housewife, of course, is to denounce the man who sells her the coffee at such a price. But the man who sells the coffee is tied to the price of roasted coffee, and the roaster is tied to the price of the green bean.

"Another temptation, which one of our senators has succumbed to, is to denounce some mysterious and unnamed 'speculators' who have been gambling with people's coffee money. But the speculators, even if there be such, can't hold up the price of the coffee because they can't make any money out of the coffee they buy unless they sell it, and they can't sell it at a high price if the price is high only because they bought it. If speculators are making money it is only because the price was going up anyway due to other causes.

"So the next temptation is to roast those foreign coffee growers down in Brazil. If they were just growing more coffee we wouldn't be in this fix.

"The cause of this last squeeze on coffee supplies which has shot the price above a dollar is wayward weather, which can hardly be blamed on the Brazilians. But even before crops were cut by the frost, supplies were having trouble keeping up with demand and prices were rising because plantings had not been sufficiently increased. Can we not at least blame the growers for this?

"Well, it wasn't long ago, you remember, when they were growing so much coffee that they couldn't sell all of it at a price high enough to pay the shipping charges. Then when the demand for coffee began to pick up, we had a thing called first the OPA and then the OPS that kept the price of coffee down.

"Coffee is at a dollar a pound because people have been willing to pay a dollar a pound even though they don't like it. If they preferred keeping a dollar to drinking coffee, that wouldn't be the price."

BETTER JOBS

Truman's Non-Published Executive Agreement On Potatoes

In the last issue I stated I would relate how executive agreements give the President the power to make laws without consent of Congress. I am getting this information from the National Economic Council Papers. The article was written by Joseph G. Butts, a practicing lawyer in Washington, D.C. It is under the heading of "Treaties and Potatoes." I quote in part:

"While Mr. Truman was 'giving 'em hell' in '48 the government was making good on its promise to buy every Irish potato grown in the United States if necessary to hold up farmers' prices. Washington was 'holding the line' on most things—but you either paid the government's 'supported' prices for potatoes or 'eligible' farmers simply sold to the U.S. Department of Agriculture."

"Guy Capps, a Virginia potato dealer, discovered that he could buy potatoes in Canada, pay customs duties plus freight, and still sell them on our market at a substantial profit.

"Capps did not see any reason why the Truman supported market should not be open to him (as well as to 'eligible' farm voters), so shortly after the election he ordered nearly 50,000 bags of potatoes from Canada. When the S.S. Gangway landed them in Florida, he paid the Canadian price of $88.350; freight charges ($19,417.60) plus customs duties to the U.S. Government amounting to $37,000, and still sold them to A & P and other customers at a neat profit of $18,000!"

"Potato dealer Capps was probably aware of the government's general policy to encourage trade with friendly foreign countries. He also knew, presumably, that Congress had not passed any law to close our ports to Canadian potatoes.

"But what he did not know, was that two years later the United States Government would sue him in Federal Court for $150,486!"

"The government was 'compelled,' it claims, to purchase 48,544 bags of potatoes from 'eligible' farmers who might have otherwise sold them to Capps' customers. He is therefore accused of 'saddling the United States with the virtually certain liability of having to purchase almost 50,000 additional bags of potatoes' to support farmers' prices."

"Briefly stated, the legal argument runs like this:

"There was a statute to permit limited import controls, but it could not be invoked without an investigation, hearings, and a Presidential proclamation. This was too complicated and slow to suit Mr. Truman. A formal treaty, even if it would work, would have required Senate ratification and Congress had just voted not to permit an embargo, or even a quota cut without safeguards."

"So an exchange of letters was arranged between our State Department and the Ambassador from Canada. In these letters it was agreed that Canada would attempt to prevent the shipment of potatoes to this country for table use. These letters, say the government's lawyers, constitute an 'Executive Agreement.' And they say further that—

"Executive Agreements so concluded have the status of treaties . . . and are the supreme law of the land . . ."

"The government contends that Capps had told his supplier that this was in line with the 'executive agreement' and that it constituted a 'promise' for the benefit of the United States and that the government could sue because it was breached."

"The Federal Court of the Eastern District of Virginia held that the letters which were exchanged have 'the force of law.' But it ultimately held that the government did not prove that it was damaged because of Capps' sales."

"The government appealed. By this time the Supreme Court had refused to sustain the so-called 'inherent' Presidential power involved in the celebrated steel seizure case. The United States Court of Appeals held for Capps. . . ."

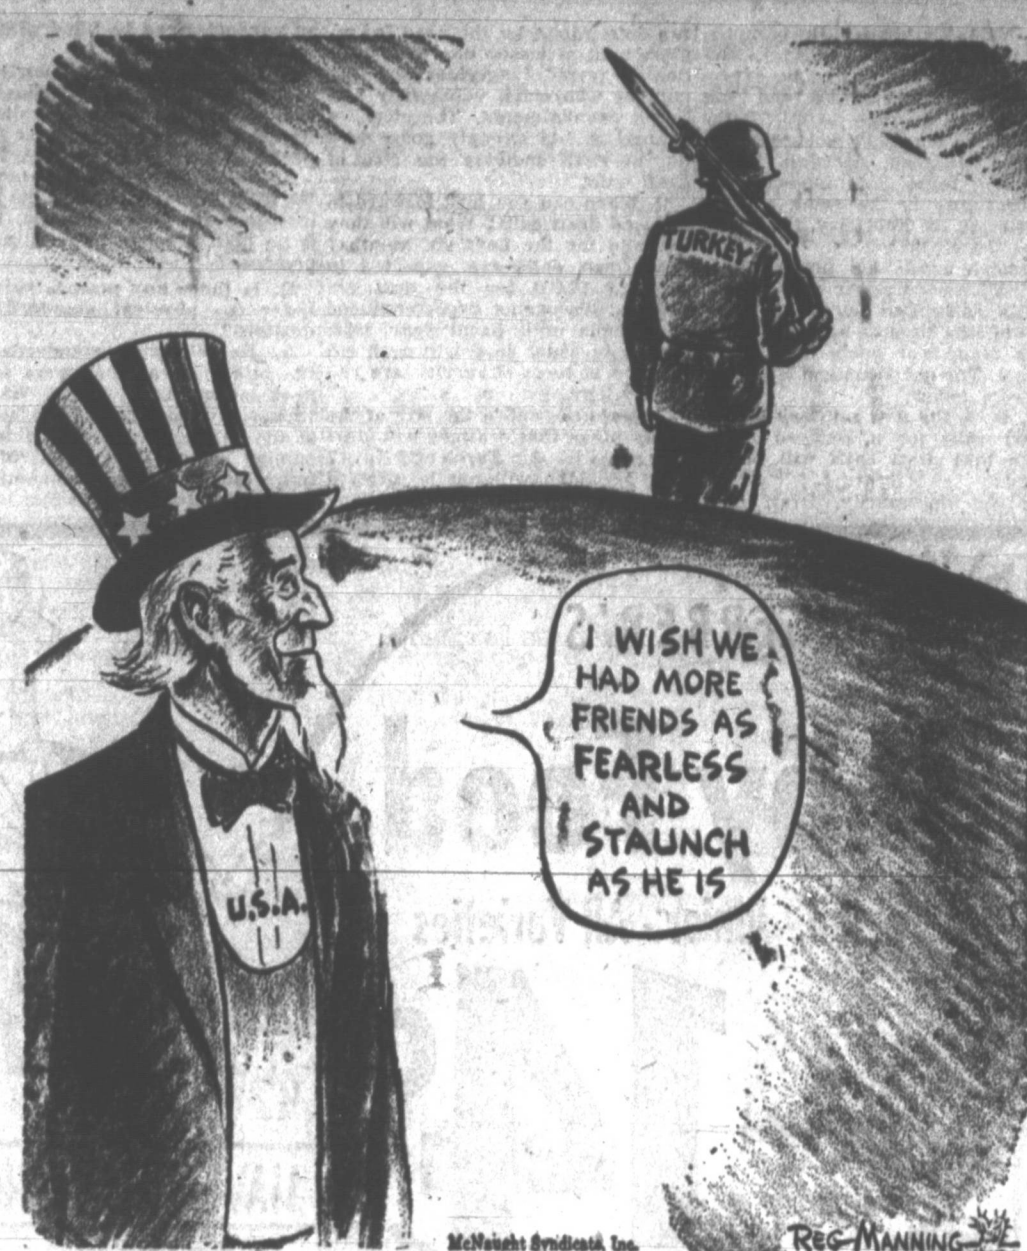

"Attorney General Brownell has now taken this case to the Supreme Court of the United States where it will be heard during the present term. He has told the Court that 'Nothing in the Constitution forbids this established practice.'"

"On the first day that Congress met after the election of President Eisenhower, 62 Senators joined Senator John W. Bricker of Ohio in proposing to amend the Constitution to provide, among other things, that 'all executive or other agreements between the President and any . . . foreign power, or official thereof shall be made only in the manner and to the extent to be prescribed by law.'"

"But Mr. Dulles must not have anticipated that five months later, Attorney General Brownell, another member of the 'team,' would ask the Supreme Court to uphold the position of the previous administration that such agreements 'are the law of the land' (Petition to the Supreme Court in United States v. Capps, filed September 10, 1953)."

"Is there any wonder that those people in the United States who believe in the division of powers of Government want to pass the Bricker amendment, or something similar to prevent the present President or any future President from having the power to make executive agreements that supersede our Constitution and the laws made by our Congress?"

National Whirligig... Jenner Committee Will Depict FDR As Tolerant With Reds

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The Jenner Security Committee's next exposure of alleged Communist influence and infiltration at Washington will be an attempt to depict F.D.R. as too tolerant and charitable toward Moscow conspiracies in the midst of World War II. It may be a more sensational drama than Harry S. Truman's handling of the Harry Dexter White spy ring.

Sen. William E. Jenner of Indiana, committee chairman, revealed the essentials of the story in a recent speech. Two of those from whom information was expected remained silent or refused to remember the details. The first was Adm. Ernest W. King, wartime chief of staff to F.D.R. The second was Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, heroic and salty seadog in naval warfare in the Pacific.

KEY WITNESS — Jenner's key witness will be the brilliant Robert Morris, who won a reputation in a recent speech. Two of those from whom information was expected remained silent or refused to remember the details. The first was Adm. Ernest W. King, wartime chief of staff to F.D.R. The second was Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, heroic and salty seadog in naval warfare in the Pacific.

According to Jenner's premature version, which he obviously got from Morris, F.D.R. or somebody acting for him disbanded a Naval Intelligence Section in 1944 when they were about to penetrate and break a Communist spy conspiracy against the United States. Somebody also ordered the destruction of all Naval Intelligence files on our supposed ally's operations against us.

Morris was a member of the Naval Intelligence group in New York City. He had been told that Victor Kravchenko, a Russian purchasing official, was eager to tell how the Reds' purchasing personnel were capitalizing on their end-lease privileges to spy on our industrial and military setup. Kravchenko later wrote a bitter anti-Russian book entitled, "I Chose Freedom."

DEFINITE INSTRUCTIONS — When Morris' superior asked Washington for authority to question Kravchenko, he was ordered to "leave Kravchenko alone." Soon thereafter, the New York Naval Intelligence Section was "disbanded" for the four "winds" by orders from the Pentagon. Morris was exiled to Pearl Harbor, where he told his amazing story to Admiral Nimitz. The latter expressed his disbelief.

When Admiral King visited Pearl Harbor on an inspection trip, Nimitz questioned F.D.R.'s personal military adviser about the incident. Admiral King, according to the Jenner-Morris account, confirmed the story, and said that the "White House" was responsible for halting the investigation, destroying the Naval Intelligence files and disciplining the overzealous investigators.

To the Editor:

Now that we have our poll tax for the year of 1954 let us be sure we use it for the betterment of our city and the community at large. We, as individuals, should strive to make Pampa one of the cleanest and best governed cities in the Panhandle. In order to do this we must point out the weaknesses as they arise from time to time and then put forth our best to remedy the same. Let me submit for your consideration the illegal adoption of Recreation Park which lies about one half mile east of the city limits. Why do I call this adoption illegal? Because it does not join any part of the city except by air and state highway.

The city has an investment of several hundred thousand dollars and spends thousands of dollars annually for upkeep and improvements. This park is leased out by our city officials for a fee of one dollar a year as the situation now stands. This is as a millstone around the taxpayers' neck. The city government might have been more judicious in its handling of this 10 per cent of all gate receipts should be made and used for the purpose of upkeep and to beautify the park.

I feel that we should understand that our state constitution forbids the giving away of any part of the tax dollar. And the adoption of Recreation Park by our city was carried out with one thought in mind and that is to dodge the state law and substitute home rule government such as our city allows the spending of thousands of dollars of the taxpayers' money and no detailed record of such spending is required.

Ask your city commissioner this: How does he justify the spending of five thousand dollars to connect one rest room to the sewer system? Extravagance and loose spending are running amuck in our city government. There are a few more cases of loose spending which I will point out later that will startle the imagination of

Fair Enough... Pegler Quits Smoking, Gains 25 Pounds He Can't Get Rid Of

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

(Copyright, 1954, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

NEW YORK. My first cigarette, about the age of 8, was a dried lily-stem, which is a weed of heavy flavor with a flu-a-floo through it. Thereafter, my novitate faded into the mists of memory.

Cuba, sections of biggy whips, slender shafts of rattan baby-carriage and cigarettes of tea or coffee rolled in butchers' paper or newspaper. I was an eager subject and soon came along to Duke's Mixture, Bull Durham and a product suitable for both smoking and chewing, called Yum-Yum, which looked like roan gleamings from a curry comb but gave a surprising, if not mouth-watering, experience.

In the 40-odd years of my addiction thereafter, I smoked all the conventional American cigarettes and pipe-tobaccoes and a few cigars, as well as Home Run and Pines, which were 20 for a nickel and had the flavor of soft coal, and British wood-bines and French monopolies. These were made of barber-shop sweepings, cured in roofing compound.

You might suppose that anyone who had burned as many leagues of these coffin-nails, as our teachers used to call them, would never have a kind word to say for cigarettes or any other manner of smoking and, for a fact, I have none. I struggled many a year to strike the may I say letters, of addiction, from my psyche and my final success, after more than four decades of thrall, was the only moral victory of my life that I call worth-while. That was more than six years ago and I will bet you something that I will never smoke anything again, although friends of mine of equal age and similar experience have laid off for two or three years, weakened, and resumed.

I have no kind words for cigarettes but, in the current uproar over cancer of the lungs and the blame, if any, that cigarettes deserve, I feel bound to report that, although I inhaled from childhood and was a chain-smoker for years, there never was anything wrong with my lungs except three little spells of pneumonia and that they are at this writing not under suspicion. On the other hand, within 10 days after I abruptly quit smoking and drinking, too, because each folio seemed to complement the other, I went down of a blown gasket in my gastric tract and damn near died to death.

I do not deny that this sequence a conclusion that one may quit smoking — or drinking — only at risk of massive hemorrhage of the triceps, but put it down to coincidence of other causes as did my doctors, too. For, it seems to me, otherwise they might have been understood to say that once a smoker got himself habituated, not to say saturated with the tars and other smart juices of the weed, he had better keep on and on. Liquor was never a serious problem in my discipline or hygiene so I will drop that phase as a needless and confusing complication.

Certainly the clientele of the cigarette has multiplied enormously since, say, 1914, when a woman who smoked was regarded as fast, not to say loose. The distaff trade actually became important in the First World War when women went into the masculine occupations either producing munitions or substituting on the street-cars and in other lines calling for rugged physical work, so that men could be relieved to grab the inflated pay in the war trades. Very few such American women actually relieved men of their jobs, however, could go to the war itself, although that was always the sentimental explanation.

In Britain in that war, however, many women really did take the jobs of men called up for the army and thousands of them worked as stevedores in the London and Liverpool warehouses. A tougher and more profane tribe of American never lived, either. As to whether they commonly smoked before 1914 I have no idea, but they took to fags very handsly as they muscled into many hard labor jobs from which, incidentally, they never have been expelled.

When the American troops came back in 1918, prohibition was coming on, women, who had always been excluded from the bars, were now consorting with male scoundrels in illicit resorts of the new accommodation, and smoking was by comparison with the trifles as demure or knitting. The cigarette companies, important to our journalism as a principal source of eating-money, and some front-end and simulated Chipendale agencies along Park Avenue were so rich on their brokerage from ads extolling gaseous that their owners died untimely of galloping opulence. I knew the director of an advertising studio who would never let his wife serve any other brand at his dinner, but the one that bought their cigar. A Ziegfeld comedian of the early '20s, being offered a cigarette, said he had given them up because he didn't want to seem effeminate.

these things will do them no good but they are determined to smoke, nevertheless, and it is idle to care whether because they think it smart or because they think they get some sedative or stimulating effect. Anyway, that is their business and on the basis of my own experience, they will suffer no serious harm.

Harold Ickes once ravelled surpress for playing down the findings of some savant at Johns Hopkins who had reported that certain cigarettes caused a quicker and greater constriction of the capillaries than others did. Ickes was a liar in this, as he was in most matters, for the story was published. But the insinuation that we buried an ominous warning was absurd because the cigarette has always thrived in opposition including horrible seasons delivered by moulting mosquitoes. And quidding for an entire new layette, for I put on 25 pounds in six months and have never been able to take it off.

Convicts Request Television Set To Brighten 'Idle Hours'

McALESTER, Okla., Feb. 11 — UP—Convicts in the state penitentiary here may some day enjoy television in their off-hours, but they will have to wait until Warden Jerome Waters can get better reception on his own set.

"We've discussed the idea of installing television in the prison," Waters said. "But we can't even consider it seriously until we get some kind of booster station that will give us a picture."

McAlester is 125 miles from the nearest TV station.

"I've tried every way in the world to get decent reception," the warden added. "I've spent $150 on fancy aerials. But there's too much interference from the machines and other things at the penitentiary. Sometimes I get a picture from Oklahoma City and sound from Dallas."

The idea of television was suggested by the convicts' newspaper, "The Eye Opener," and Waters said the inmates are for it. Some of them have never seen TV. Presumably the installation could be paid out of the prison canteen fund, which would not tap state money. The fund amounts to a reported $300,000.

Waters said he has mentioned the idea informally to Harris Oimstead, chairman of the State Board of Affairs, but they have not really explored the possibilities, he said. Waters said trustees who live in dormitories now have individual radio reception through ear-phones, but the bulk of the 2,000 prisoners in the penitentiary are in cell blocks without any such luxury.

"That's just one of the problems we would have to get into," the warden said. "How could we get TV into the cell blocks? We can't have all the prisoners running loose at night — it would be a tremendous security risk."

Shoup was born in Dallas, Tex., and started sketching costumes as a member of the thriving little theater group in that city of oil wells and millionaires with diamond-studded shoe laces. He studied at Pratt Institute in New York, clicked with his first designs for a dress manufacturer and was grabbed by Warner Bros. after stirring up fashion waters as a designer for Hattie Carnegie and Bonwit-Teller.

Says Shoup: "The successful star today is one who trusts her designer or any of the other gifted technicians assigned to her. A movie star isn't supposed to have a taste in clothes. She gets to the set at six in the morning and she doesn't get home until seven. The average stenographer knows more about clothes than a movie star."

Early to bed and early to rise, says Don Porter, means that the television set is out being repaired.

Magician In Trouble

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 11 — UP—Magician Harry Albaker, impresario of the Hungarian-American all star flea circus, sent word to friends here that he had lost his act in Columbus, Ohio.

Albaker said he dropped a box containing his "performers" in a parking lot at Columbus.

"I've telephoned the Columbus dog pound," he said. "Maybe they can help me out."

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Famous movie designer Howard Shoup came up today with the jackpot answer to the disappearance of every last Sloppy Sue from the Hollywood scene.

Movietown's dressed-to-the-cap-teeth cycle has nothing to do with press-agent advice, the scarcity of slacks that bag or Christmas-gift orders.

It's just that Marilyn Monroe, Shelley Winters and their disheveled movie sisters, according to Shoup, are reacting to the panic in the Hollywood scene.

Without even knowing it! "Whenever there's a disaster in the air or a crisis, women start dressing up," Shoup said.

"In wartime women deck themselves out in fabulous clothes. The vogue for untidiness vanished from Hollywood the minute television became a threat and box-office receipts fell off."

"Every actress who had been criticized for bad taste in clothes and faulty grooming suddenly started paying attention to fashion. Not to mention the business of looking every inch the star. It was like closing ranks to keep the glamor from leaving Hollywood."

Shoup ought to know about these things. He's president of the newly formed Costume Designers Guild, with a membership of 34 active gown whipperuppers like Edith Head, Helen Rose and Jean Louis, and eight associate sketch artists.

For years movie queens like Ann Sheridan, Olivia de Havilland, Alexis Smith, Doris Day, Esther Williams, Kathryn Grayson and Virginia Mayo have waited for their SHOUP to come in before stepping out on a sound stage or showing up at a movie premiere.

What's more, his line of gorgeous, dude manufactured under his classy label is grabbed by the nation's best-dressed dolls in stores from San Francisco to New York. Shoup wasn't one bit surprised when Marilyn Monroe started blossoming out as a Hollywood fashion plate.

He didn't fall on his face, either, when Shelley Winters started showing up at Ciro's with her hair combed and her torso encased in a number straight out of the slick fashion magazines.

Where There's A Will . . . French Girl Buys A Rifle And Ends Up With Fur Coat

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—UP—It was a most unusual interview. Here was a lovely French movie gal, decked out in the latest from Paris.

The girl, Dany Robin, here to plug a picture, said: "You know, before I had some money, yes, I thought I ought to have a fur coat, no?"

Since she had the fur coat on her back, I could say nothing but "yes," and "how did you get it?"

"I want," she said in half English and half French, "I want mink, but we have no mink. So I shoot a fur coat."

That brought a blink to these fired eyes.

Settles for Raccoon

Then Dany explained that in the village where she lives outside Paris you hardly ever see a mink. But there are other animals. So the lovely lady went down and bought herself a .22 caliber rifle.

"In no time at all I have me enough raccoon pelts to make this coat," she said. "See?"

It was indeed a fluffy, fine coat.

"The cheapest way to get a fur coat," Dany said, "is to shoot one. No?"

DIL-CRACKING GIANT—No, it's not a toy for this little boy. It's a model of a new oil plant. The unit is called a catalytic cracker and it will split petroleum molecules to make more and better gasoline. According to officials of the Shell Oil Company in Norco, La., it will produce about one million gallons of gasoline a day beside huge quantities of other petroleum products. The model, built to 1/4-inch scale, serves as an engineering aid.

Food Price Hike Slated

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—UP—The Agriculture Department told consumers Wednesday not to expect a break in food prices this year and predicted a slight increase in late winter because of "some tightening" in meat supplies.

It said overall retail food prices in 1954 are expected to average "substantially the same as last year."

The department said food supplies generally should be as large this year as in 1953. But it said continued strong demand and the "relative inflexibility" of food marketing costs will rule out any sharp reduction in prices.

"Even though some further reduction in economic activity and employment occurs," a department food report said, "incomes available to consumers for spending are likely to be maintained fairly close to the 1953 level."

"Accordingly, expenditures for food are expected to be about as large as last year."

Admitted Wife Slayer Indicted For Murder

MOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 11.—UP—Two Riverside, Calif., officers prepared here Wednesday to return a 32-year-old ex-convict to face charges of murdering his 52-year-old bride three weeks after their marriage.

The murder of the woman was not discovered until last week when an Arkansas state trooper stopped Johnson William Caldwell in Oklahoma national forest here to question him about an automobile license tag on his car.

He admitted to the trooper that "I'm the man you want!" and then told of bludgeoning his wife to death—the week before—at her ranch-style California home. Riverside officers disclaimed any knowledge of the murder. Several hours later, they discovered the woman's body in a bathtub after driving 12 miles to the home.

The California officers, Mel V. Vion and Rick Dawson, arrived Tuesday and plan to drive Caldwell back Thursday.

Shivers Plans Highway Program

AUSTIN, Feb. 11 — UP — The Texas Good Roads Association has accepted an invitation from Gov. Allan Shivers to join in a study to find a solution to the state's long-range highway problems.

TGRA President J. H. Kuitgen of Waco said Shivers' suggestion that his group, the State Highway Commission, the County Judges and Commission, the Texas Turnpike Authority and the League of Texas Municipalities work out a road program for submission to the 1955 Legislature was a good one.

Political Regime Shaky
SAN DIEGO, Tex., Feb. 11 — UP — Some observers said Thursday South Texas political boss George Parr's empire might be in the process of disintegration, as 11 Parr supporters quit public jobs. Meanwhile, state and federal authorities began an audit of records which were ordered impounded by a special judge.

History Program For Wheeler Teachers

SHAMROCK — (Special) — A banquet of the Wheeler County Teachers Association was held in Shamrock on Monday night. Superintendent A. E. Brown of Wheeler, president of the association, presided at the session.

Featured in the program was a recording of a radio broadcast of the history of Public Schools in Texas. It was a special program commemorating the centennial year 1854-1954.

Talks by Brown, Supt. E. J. Moors of Shamrock, and County Superintendent Jesse Dyer were in connection with a survey planned by the Texas Association of School Administrators. The survey is to determine the effectiveness of the instruction program in Texas Public Schools.

Delegates were elected to attend the District TSTA meeting scheduled for March 12 in Amarillo.

Testimony In CAB Hearing Will Continue

Testimony will continue Thursday in a hearing to determine the cause of a private plane crash in which Braniff Airways President Tom E. Braniff and 11 other persons were killed.

Witnesses at the first day of the Civil Aeronautics Board hearing Wednesday testified that an "area of ice" hung over Shreveport the night of Jan. 10, when the plane went down.

E. E. Harris, a Braniff Airways pilot, said he didn't think any plane "not equipped with" de-icing equipment would have been able to maintain flying speed.

C. J. Blosca, Baton Rouge, La., pilot who flew into Shreveport that night, said he landed with three inches of clear ice on his wings. Blosca said his first approach was perfect and he doubted if he would have been able to make a second because of the ice.

E. E. Geter, chief pilot for United Gas Co., which owned the plane, said its pilots both were experienced, and the plane was not faulty mechanically.

Geter testified the plane had alcohol heaters on its propellers, but none on its wings. He said it normally was used for short hops in South Louisiana, and the de-icing equipment wasn't used.

Fifteen other witnesses were expected to testify.

Cotton Warehouse Finished
GALVESTON, Tex., Feb. 11 — UP — The Harris Kempner interests will take possession Monday of a $800,000 cotton warehouse which was built by the Texas Gulf Construction Co. of Galveston.

Local critics have picked either Cox, star of "Mr. Peepers," or Webb, the Joe Friday of "Dragnet," to take the "Best Male Star" honor. Jimmy Durante won last year.

Miss Shore and Miss Young are strong contenders for the best female star, although some experts claimed Lucy would cling to her title for the third year.

Others nominated by 300 television critics across the country are Sid Caesar, Jackie Gleason, Donald O'Connor, Eve Arden and Imogene Coca.

Bishop Fulton Sheen was expected to repeat his 1953 victory as "most outstanding personality." This year he's competing with Edward R. Murrow, Martha Raye and Webb.

TV Awards To Be Given In Hollywood Ceremonies

By ALINE MOSBY
HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 11 — UP — Dinah Shore, Loretta Young, Wally Cox and Jack Webb were the hottest contenders to snare honors at the biggest television academy award banquet in history Thursday night.

Thirteen hundred TV big-wigs and even some invaders from the motion picture industry will gather at the Palladium ballroom for the fifth annual "Emmy" awards handed out by the academy of television arts and sciences.

Before the banquet the local critics and network experts predicted the event would see Lucille Ball topping from her post as queen of TV.

The big-eyed comedienne has walked away with the "best female star" statuette for the last two years. She and Desi Arnaz collected "the best comedy show" statuette last year for "I Love Lucy."

But this year the competition is rated tougher.

Local critics have picked either Cox, star of "Mr. Peepers," or Webb, the Joe Friday of "Dragnet," to take the "Best Male Star" honor. Jimmy Durante won last year.

Miss Shore and Miss Young are strong contenders for the best female star, although some experts claimed Lucy would cling to her title for the third year.

THE RECORD SHOP

By RICHARD KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK — (NEA) — If you feel like envying somebody, envy Les Paul and Mary Ford. They are good, ripe envying material. They could sit back and do nothing and still turn out hit records for 10 years or so. Without even plucking a guitar string or yoo-hooing down an echo chamber.

Les tipped his hand quite casually. "We've got about a hundred numbers on tape," he said. "We made them when we were experimenting. They're still unreleased."

At the moment, the Pauls put out about four records a year. That's eight numbers. The hundred tunes they have in the bank should hold them quite a spell. But, of course, they keep making new things, adding to their backlog.

Most of those old songs were made in the Pauls' "under-the-blanket" period. That was when they were broke and living in a basement apartment in Jackson Heights, N. Y. They'd do their tricky recording at night, so there'd be a minimum of outside noise. And, to keep from awakening the neighbors, they'd huddle under a blanket.

The Popular Side: Can you guess which were the two biggest money-making records of '53? The Cash Box, juke box magazine, made its annual award to Percy Faith's "The Song From Moulin Rouge" and Teresa Brewer's "Till I Waltz Again With You." Sparring Karas, MGM's young drummer who's trying something new in jazz with "Mambo Stringo," uses strings and flutes and bassoons for his sounds. "And there's nothing sweeter than a bassoon with a boogie beat," says Sperie. . . Hope this is the end of a trend — the Tune Toppers (MGM) have recorded "Dragnet Polka."

On The Classics: RCA-Victor has created what it calls the "peanut gallery" of music — fine music at low prices. The new label, "Camden," sells at $1.99 for a 12-inch LP. Engineers have taped from the original 78-rpm pressings, added highs, strengthened or reduced lows, broadening the frequency range. If you aren't a hi-fi nut and don't mind your artists cloaked behind pseudonyms, there's a lot of good listening here for a price. First releases include classical light concert, specialty and popular (but not current) selections.

Envoy To Britain Adopted By Texas

LONDON, Feb. 11.—U. S. Ambassador Winthrop Aldrich, nominally a New York banker, will become a Texan by adoption next month and serve as the ambassador from Texas at an Anglo-Texas barbecue.

Aldrich will add Texas to his diplomatic interests on March 6 by special mandate of Gov. Allan Shivers.

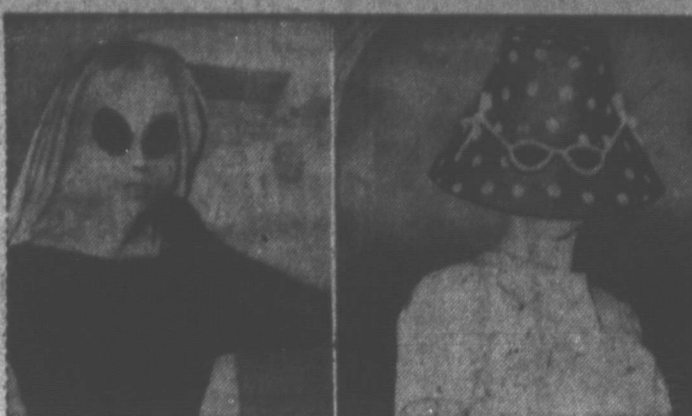

The barbecue will be given by the Anglo-Texas Society, made up of Britons who love Texas. A spokesman said the group wanted to invite Aldrich, but didn't feel he was qualified merely because he was the U. S. ambassador.

An embassy spokesman said Aldrich was "pretty pleased" by the Shivers appointment and subsequent invitation.

"The ambassador doesn't feel he can afford to miss a good Texas barbecue if he gets a chance to go," the spokesman said.

Four prime steers have been donated by the Houston Fat Stock Show, and master barbequer George Kelley of Houston is sending along 20 gallons of his personal barbecue sauce.

Any American who was born or whose official residence is in Texas can attend the barbecue and bring his family, according to Anglo-Texas rules.

Head of girl at right is completely enveloped in polka-dot red cotton with smoked-glass "beepholes" in the low brim.

Accuser Faces Folk In Court

HOLBROOK, Ariz., Feb. 11.—UP—A witness testified Wednesday that he accused a man identified as Carl J. Folk of slaying Betty Faye Allen after he examined the trailer where the 23-year-old Wattsburg, Pa., woman was tortured and strangled Dec. 2.

Charles J. Rice, the truck driver who said he untied the bonds from the wrists of Raymond Bruce Allen, husband of the victim, testified that the woman's husband had shot the 60-year-old Folk when he was free to get his gun.

Rice, from Wichita, Kan., testified Wednesday morning at Folk's trial on a first degree murder charge that Folk ran, staggered and fell some 60 to 75 yards from the trailer where Allen said his wife was killed.

Rice, who said he had seen the inside of the trailer and Mrs. Allen's body, testified he ran after Folk to accuse him. He said he asked Folk, who was still conscious, "Why did you kill that woman?"

Meanwhile, Allen completed testimony Wednesday in describing routine events following the shooting of Folk. Allen had taken the stand Tuesday to testify that his wife had been assaulted, burned with papers dipped in kerosene and finally strangled.

BIG WHEEL—Seppi Winterhalter, an Austrian tourist in Rome, is leaving the jet propulsion age to others. He's content with his grandfather's bike on which he traveled over 1000 miles from his home in Innsbruck to Italy. In the background is the 2000-year-old Coliseum.

THE MARQUEE
BY DICK KLEINER

NEW YORK — (NEA) — New sounds aren't new. At the 50th birthday celebration of the first Enrico Caruso recording, RCA dragged out an instrument called a "Stron violin." This was used back in 1904.

It's a regular violin, tricked out with a horn to make the larger sounds needed by the primitive recording equipment. It still plays, producing an old new sound that should make Les Paul drool.

One of the most fascinating records to come along in quite a while is Capitol's "The Passions." This is a long-player, done in "full dimensional sound," which interprets seven different passions musically — despair, ecstasy, lust, terror, jealousy, hate and joy. (What, no "humility?")

Les Baxter's orchestra is featured, along with a chorus and a gal singer named Bas Sheva who expresses herself with growls and grunts and sighs and screams and la-las. Baxter uses harp and xylophones and rattles and bells and a dings called aguiro — a Latin-American percussion instrument — plus more usual devices like violins.

The strangest part is that each segment comes remarkably close to creating the mood it's supposed to. This is particularly true of despair, hate and terror. In hate, for instance, Miss Bas Sheva (or is it Miss Sheva?) grns so menacingly that I'd be scared to meet her in a dark record shop.

There's no danger, in case you've been worried, of the folk song supply running short. RCA's Harry Belafonte, one of the top folk singers around, says the situation is under control, and we'll have "new" folk songs popping up all the time.

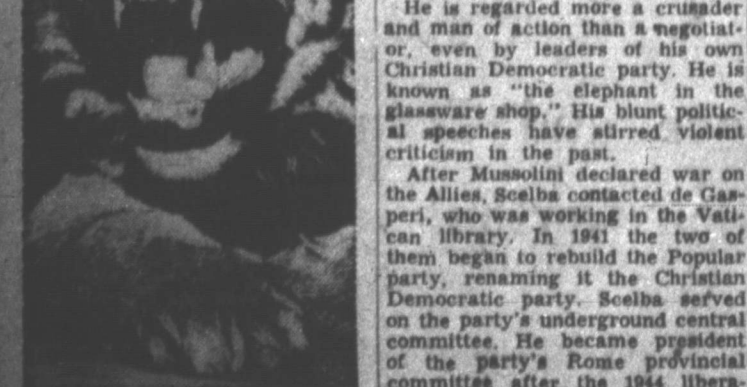

"I've got a couple of hundred at home," he says. "Some are just snatches of song, and some run 116 verses."

Every so often, Belafonte pokes his nose into the Library of Congress in Washington, where there's a tremendous collection of folk music.

"If you dig under the surface down there," Belafonte says, "there are thousands of songs. That's where I found 'Mark Twain.' 'Mark Twain' is the song that stops the show when Belafonte sings it in John Murray Anderson's 'Almanac.' It was just a fragment when Harry unearthed it, but he made it into a show-stopper with loving care.

Belafonte, tall and handsome, H. defines folk music as "a lyrical and unselfish representation of the times."

As for the present times, he calls nowadays "a great big conglomeration of nothing, culturally," which is why there's not much potential folk music. It seems like a fairly accurate appraisal — can you see some 21st Century

TIGER RACE — Zoo officials don't know whether it's love or hate that controls the face of Sheik, the royal Bengal tiger at the Memphis, Tenn., zoo. He made this show of teeth when he got the first glimpse of Sheik, tiger in a nearby cage.

Scelba Was An Early Foe Of Commies

ROME, Italy, Feb. 10.—UP—Mario Scelba, latest to attempt to form a stable Italian government to end the nation's extended political crisis, is given a major share of the credit for defeating the early post-war rise of communism in Italy.

By an odd turn of circumstance, if he succeeds in forming a government and becoming premier, Scelba will once again be matching wits, leadership and political skill with the man who did most to further the postwar rise of communism in Italy.

That man, Alexander Y. Bogomolov, then the Soviet member of the Allied Control Commission for Italy has just returned to Rome as an ace diplomat of the Kremlin and the Soviet ambassador to Italy.

Scelba's return means, Russia is hoping to capitalize on Italy's long crisis and political uncertainties by resuming the effort to win Italy away from the West.

Scelba also knows how to deal with such a situation. He built the police force that defeated Bogomolov seven years ago. Bald, 55-year-old Scelba is one of Italy's most controversial figures. Observers concede he did a wonderful job, in team-work with former Alcide de Gasperi, in beating back the Communist surge in the early post war years. But they fear that he might become lost in the jungles of party politics.

He is regarded more a crusader and man of action than a negotiator, even by leaders of his own Christian Democratic party. He is known as "the elephant in the glassware shop." His blunt political speeches have stirred violent criticism in the past.

After Mussolini declared war on the Allies, Scelba contacted de Gasperi, who was working in the Vatican library. In 1941 the two of them began to rebuild the Popular party, renaming it the Christian Democratic party. Scelba served on the party's underground central committee. He became president of the party's Rome provincial committee after the 1944 liberation of Rome.

LORAIN, Ohio, Feb. 11.—UP—Martin Zolnk, 27, was fined $300 for flying an airplane, while intoxicated Zolnk crashed up while landing at the Lorain airport. He said he was looking for a restroom.

Designers Have Turned Their Talents To Men's Shirts For Newest Fashion

NEW YORK — UP—The women have stolen the shirt right off the man's back.

But for spring and summer, it's a shirt the men wouldn't recognize. In some cases, it's formal enough for evening wear.

Actually, women for years have copied masculine fashions, even as they criticized the men for their drab and conservative tastes. And in the last few months, blouses tailored like a man's shirt have been popular.

Now, designer Hattie Carnegie, has gone even farther. She has refined the shirt, but not even bothered to tuck in its tail.

She calls the result the shirt-cardigan. Sometimes the collar is modified for a softer effect than a man's collar gives. Sometimes the sleeves are loose instead of cuffed. But the slits up the side are the same, and the general fit is the same as that of a man's shirt.

One of the shirts is a light-weight wrap of soft pink boucle knit, worn over a slim-cut day-time silk dress of gorgonium red.

Some of the shirts are in figured silks, to wear with dresses of the same fabric or with coordinated solid colors. Some shirts are in solid color, light weight wools. One of the fanciest is of deep pink peau de soire, with jeweled cuffs, for use as a spring and summer evening wrap.

RUTH MILLET

A man reader wants to know whether or not it is proper for a married woman to give gifts to her married employer or to other married men in her office. Let's not discuss whether or not it's proper. Let's see if it is wise, which is much more important.

When a married woman buys a gift for a married man there is always danger that it will create some unpleasant reactions in two families.

Her own husband may not like the idea of her buying a gift for another man, whether he be her employer or another employee in her office.

And the wife of the person to whom she gives the gift is not likely to take kindly to some other woman's selecting a shirt, necktie, or whatever it may be, for her husband.

And the facts are, that no husband or wife can afford to risk making the other jealous or resentful of any office associate.

Besides that, gift-giving in offices is an expensive most working couples can't afford. So it is best when it doesn't get started. Married men and women who work together can be good friends for years if they keep their friendships from becoming too personal.

One way to avoid even the appearance of too-personal friendships in an office is for men and women to avoid giving each other gifts, buying each other drinks, offering each other rides, etc.

This may sound stuffy and old-fashioned, but it is practical. So from a purely practical point of view, it isn't wise for a married woman to give gifts to married men in her office, or vice versa.

GRACE FRIEND

Dear Grace Friend:
The affect of alcohol upon one of the most important organs in the body, namely the liver, is quite well known, albeit the seriousness of it is not taken into consideration.

The kidneys also are seriously damaged, and we must admit that the power of the brain to direct our activities in work for a livelihood is greatly impaired, as well as the ability to enjoy life.

A material concept is better than all burnt offerings, namely lecturing, weeping, hating and condemning those who manufacture it.

The following is the most sensible home remedy which I have ever used for myself and others who have been afflicted. It is a neutralizer.

Grind enough onions to make 1½ pints. Grind enough garlic to make one-half pint. Pack mixture in quart jar; and purchase one-half pint of dry gin.

Pour gin into onion and garlic mixture and put cap on jar, place in ice box and let stand without opening for one week. Then strain thoroughly through sieve and put into pint bottle. The dose is one tablespoonful three times a day and at bedtime.

Dear Nellie
Alcoholism should be treated by a doctor. If you have anyone in your family in need of treatment, please don't try to cure him yourself. See that he visits a doctor. If the doctor approves of your home remedy, then use it but don't try it without his permission.

Gas Official Likes Decision
DALLAS, Feb. 10 — UP—A senior officer of the Lone Star Gas Co., Vice President Chester L. May, said Tuesday the U.S. Supreme Court decision which invalidated the Texas natural gas gathering tax was a good one. May said the tax was a "discriminatory burden" on Texas industries which use large quantities of the fuel.

NEA Food and Markets Editor
If you are looking for a Sunday dish to amaze and delight your guests, serve Chicken Portola. We had it in San Francisco, one of the best cities in the United States to find good food.

It is chicken with a wonderful sauce cooked in a coconut shell. Helen Brown, noted California food writer and expert, gives specific directions in her very fine "West Coast Cook Book."

She uses three ears of corn. However, either frozen or canned kernel corn, very finely chopped, can be used instead of the ears. Allow 1 coconut for each serving. Saw off the top, about 1-2 of the way down. (It's worth hunting up a power saw for the job, but it can be done by hand.) Using a very strong spoon, scoop out a good part of the coconut meat. Try to do this evenly, leaving about ¼-inch lining of coconut meat in the shell. For each 4 servings, allow 1 frying chicken, cut so that the breast is in 4 pieces, and the legs and thighs separated. Brown the chicken lightly in ¼ cup of olive oil and set aside.

To the oil remaining in the pan add 4 slices of diced bacon, a large onion, chopped, a large green pepper, chopped, and a clove of garlic that has been ground in a mortar with a teaspoon of salt.

Let this cook quietly until the vegetables are limp, then add 3 cups of peeled chopped tomatoes, a few grindings of black pepper, and salt if needed.

Simmer 30 minutes, then add 3 ears of green corn, grated, and 1-3 cup of the coconut meat, also grated. Divide the chicken among the shells, a piece of dark meat and a piece of white to each shell. Fill with the sauced vegetables, and cover the rim of the coconut with a paste made of flour and water, and replace top.

Set the shells in a pan containing an inch or so of water, and bake at 350 degrees F. for 1½ hours, basting with water once or twice so that the shells won't get too dry. Serves 4.

Ingredients: Four coconuts, 1 frying chicken, ¼ cup olive oil, 4 slices bacon, 1 large onion, 1 large green pepper, 1 clove garlic, salt, 3 cups chopped tomatoes, 3 ears corn, 1-3 cup coconut meat, pepper, flour and water.

Now that potatoes are in such superabundant supply, you may want to try this recipe which we tried at home last week. It has really good flavor and is packed with food value.

Deviled-Potato Pie
(Makes 6-8 servings)
Shortening, 1 small onion, chopped; 1 small green pepper, chopped; 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1 cup cubed process-cheese, 6 large white potatoes, peeled and sliced thin; 2 cans (2½ ounces) deviled ham, seasoning.

Melt shortening in heavy skillet so generous layer covers bottom of pan. Combine onion, green pepper, parsley and cheese. Spread layer of thin-sliced raw potatoes in hot fat and sprinkle with vegetable-cheese combination, then dot all over with bits of deviled ham. Continue to make layers in this way until all ingredients are used, seasoning as desired as you go along. Press down firmly in pan and cook over moderate heat for about 10 minutes. Cover skillet and continue cooking over low heat for an additional 25 minutes. To serve turn out bottom-side up on hot plate and cut in pie-shaped wedges.

From the New Hampshire Extension Service comes this potato-and-bacon omelet:

Potato-and-Bacon Omelet
Two cups boiled potatoes (cubed), salt and pepper, 3 slices bacon, 2 eggs.

Cook diced bacon until crisp. Add potatoes, salt and pepper. Beat eggs slightly and pour over bacon and potatoes. Cook until eggs are set. Fold like omelet.

Maybell Taylor Girls Auxiliary Has Meet

The Maybell Taylor Girl's Auxiliary of the Hobart St. Baptist Church met Monday afternoon for a social meeting during which "Prayer Pal" gifts were exchanged. Helen Brock, president, called the meeting to order. Lynn Murphee led the girls in prayer and Mrs. Don Alexander led the group in Scripture reading and singing.

Attending were Misses Carol Hill, Mildred Stephens, Truma Fate, Linda Doggett, Louise Tyre, Dorothy Rose, Mary Clay, Pat Vanderlinden, Paula Vanderburg, Leslie Newton, Lena Smith, Jo Ann Moxley, Helen Brock and Lynn Murphee. Leaders present were Mrs. Don Alexander and Mrs. Ruby Vanderlinden.

Valentine Party Held By Girl Scout Troop

Troop 17, under the direction of Mrs. Joe Wells, and her daughter who is a Senior program advisor, had a Valentine party last night in the Wells home at 824 Hazel.

The entire program was planned and activated by the Scouts themselves. Three patrols were chosen to take charge of decorations, games and refreshments. Red hearts were used for decorations and the game committee invented two heart games—pinning hearts on a big red heart while blindfolded and heart jigsaw puzzles. The refreshment committee served heart-shaped sandwiches, cookies and punch. During the short business session the Girl Scouts donated to the Juliet Lowe fund which is contained in a special box made by the girls.

300 More Tickets Placed On Sale For Amarillo Tilt

An additional 300 tickets for the Harvester-Amarillo game Saturday night at Canyon were placed on sale this morning in the school business office in the City Hall.

The original 576 adult tickets sent yesterday were gone within three hours time and school business manager, Roy McMillen, sent in a request for more tickets and Amarillo officials complied with 300.

But this will be all Pampa will get, according to the school business office.

Sixty of the additional 300 had been sold by 9:30 a.m. today, just thirty minutes after they were placed on sale. It is believed that this 300 tickets will also be sold out shortly.

Meanwhile at the high school, the 350 tickets put on sale there for students were just about gone, meaning that Pampa will be represented by at least 1,300 fans for Saturday's crucial District 1-AAAA game between the Sandies and Harvesters.

A few tickets for the Lubbock Game Friday night remained available at the school business office this morning.

The Harvesters will depart for Lubbock tomorrow morning for Friday night's contest. The original plans called for the Harvesters to leave Thursday to enable them to workout in the West Texas State Fieldhouse at Canyon, scene of the Amarillo game, Thursday afternoon.

Pampa will carry a 49-game winning streak into the game Friday night at Lubbock. The Harvesters already own a 79-43 win over Lubbock but Westerners have shown vast improvement since that game. Lubbock's district record is 7-4. They have won seven of their last nine games.

The Harvesters have also defeated Amarillo this season, but still again the Green and Golders will have a rough time in this tilt. The District 1-AAAA title race could be decided this weekend. The three

Lubbock Fans Going All Out In Boosting Westerners Up For Harvesters Tomorrow

WORD IS OUT HERE that Lubbock is going all out to stop the Harvester winning streak Friday night.

It is reported that placards are being placed at downtown business establishments in Lubbock saying "Beat the Pampa Harvesters."

This will certainly put more spirit into the Westerner cagers and it means, of course, the Harvesters will have to play that much harder in Friday's contest.

And the Harvester cagers will feel much better if a lot of their friends are on hand for Friday's game. Lubbock sent 100 tickets to Pampa for the game and it would be a shame to return some of them. About one-half of the tickets to the Lubbock game remains at the school business office.

So, if you can make the Lubbock trip at all, your patronage at the game will be appreciated by the Harvesters.

Meanwhile the tickets to the Amarillo game at Canyon are going at a rapid pace. The original 576 adult tickets that were sent were gobbled in about three-hours time.

Teams with a chance remaining for the crown, Borger, Amarillo and Pampa meet each other before the season is over. Borger will meet Amarillo Friday night at Canyon with the Harvesters following the Bulldogs in the next night.

Then next Tuesday night, Borger invades Pampa in the season finale.

Collier New Head Coach At Kentucky

LEXINGTON, Ky., Feb. 11.—UP—Blanton Collier flew to Washington, D.C., Thursday to clean up a few loose ends for his old boss, the Cleveland Browns, before buckling down to a tough new task as head football coach at the University of Kentucky.

Collier Wednesday accepted an offer of a three-year contract at $12,000, plus certain expenses, offered by Kentucky after several from determined Kentucky alumni and officials.

Collier said that leaving the professional Cleveland team and Paul Brown after nine years was "the toughest decision I ever had to make," in 47 years. He flew to Fort Myers, Fla., Monday to talk it over with Brown.

In signing Collier as its 27th head coach, Kentucky is getting a man recognized as one of the keenest football students in the business, although he never played collegiate or professional ball himself, and has never been head coach of any except a high school team.

At Kentucky, he succeeds Paul Bryant, who resigned last week to take over as head coach and athletic director at Texas A&M.

He picked a tough man to follow, for Bryant never had a losing season in eight years and coached Kentucky out of the football depths.

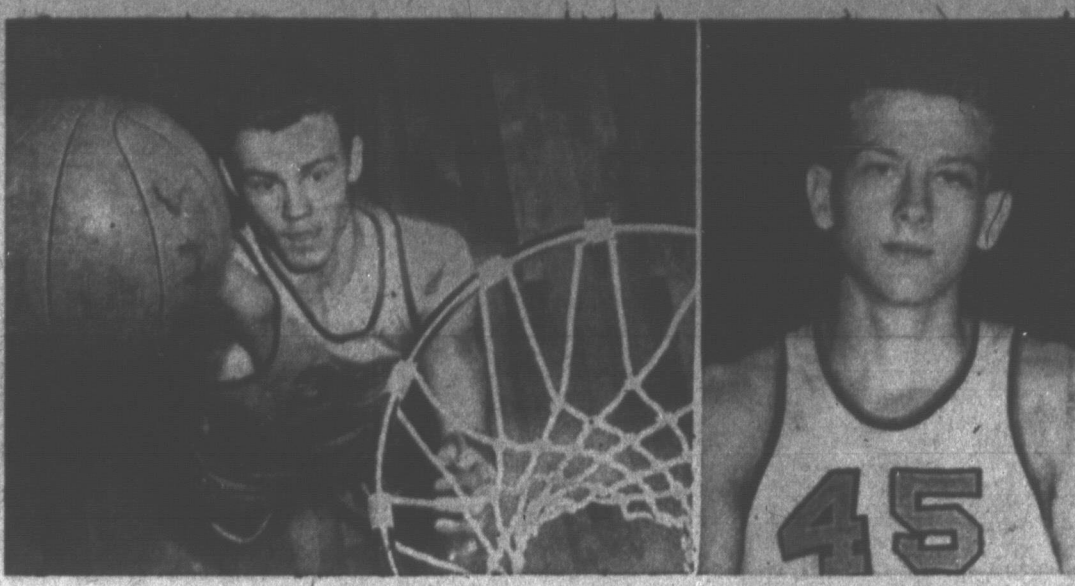

One of Bryant's assistants, Backfield Coach Eral Allen, has been invited to stay as chief aide to Collier, but nothing definite has been decided.

Collier said his salary at Kentucky wouldn't be any more than he made with the Browns, but that coaching at Kentucky "is something I've always wanted to do."

Industrialist Buys Foreign Sire

ARCADIA, Calif., Feb. 11.—UP—Scorpion, one of Australia's most successful young thoroughbred sires, arrived here Wednesday.

Scorpion was purchased by Steve Hammond, Chicago industrialist and owner of Greenacres Farm in Chino, Calif. The Australian horse will be in stud duty shortly.

CAGE VETS — Jimmy Bond, left, Harvester center, and Dale Ball, Lubbock guard, will be meeting on the court for the sixth time tomorrow night when the Harvesters and Westerners meet at Lubbock. They are the only members of the current squads who were around as sophomores three years ago. Both are leading scorers of their respective teams, Bond with 242 points and Ball 168 in district play.

PHS Winning Streak Started Against Lubbock Westerners

By BUCK FRANCIS

Pampa News Sports Editor

The Pampa Harvesters and Lubbock Westerners played a thrilling overtime game in Chapman Fieldhouse, Feb. 15, 1952, and with this game the defending state champion Harvesters set out on a record smashing winning streak that now has reached 49 games.

The Harvesters managed a 60-50 win in the '52 encounter which was the first win on their current winning string.

And Friday night, almost two years later (lacking only three days) the Harvesters once again face a dangerous Westerner team. Coach Clifton McNeely of the Green and Golders firmly believes his current Harvester edition will have just as rough-a-time with the Westerners Friday night as they had in the '52 thriller.

The Lubbock game in 1952 was the next to last game for the Harvesters that season. They won over Odessa, 53-33, the following night to wind up the campaign with a 2-2 game win streak.

Then in the 1952-53 season, the Harvesters swept through a 26-game schedule unbeaten to extend their streak to 28. And this season, the Harvesters have added 21 games to that streak that leaves them one game shy of the half-hundred mark in consecutive wins.

But the Harvester win streak will be in serious danger in their final three games this season, at Lubbock Friday, at Canyon Saturday against Amarillo and against Borger at Pampa next Tuesday. Any one of the three teams are capable of pulling the "trigger" on the Pampa.

Two players will see action in Friday night's Lubbock-Pampa game that took part in the '52 overtime game between the two teams. They are Dale Ball of the Westerners and Jimmy Bond of the Harvesters.

Ball is a reserve in that game while Bond, a regular in his sophomore year, dunked in 17 points.

Ball and Bond are the scoring leaders of their respective teams at present. Ball has netted 168 points in 11 District 1-AAAA games while Bond is leading the district with 242 points, also in 11 games. Ball ranks fourth in 1-4A scoring.

Bond, nearing the completion of his third year with the Harvesters, has led the Pampans in scoring each year. As a soph, Bond scored 322 points in 23 games for a 14.4 average; in his junior year last season he scored 579 in 28 games for a 22.3 average; and in the first 22 games this season Bond has scored 430 points for a 20.5 average.

Overall, Bond has scored 1,341 points in 70 games for a 19.1 average.

In District 1-AAAA play, Bond ranked third in scoring his first year with 183 points in 12 games; was first in scoring last season with 307 points in 14 games; and holds a commanding lead in this year's scoring with 242 points in 11 games to date.

Bond's 279 points for the season and 307 in district play last year are both 1-AAAA records.

In the 37 1-AAAA games Bond has played in, he has scored 20 or more points in 20 games. Bond has fallen below 10 points on only one occasion in the 37 district games. He was held to nine points in a game against San Angelo in his sophomore year.

His highest single game performance in district play came against Lubbock this year in which he canned 24 points. But Bond is sure to find the going much rougher Friday night against the same Lubbock team.

Lubbock didn't have 6-8 Lyle Harker when meeting the Harvesters here Jan. 8. With Harger's height to go along with 6-4 Wade Wolfe, Bond may find it difficult to score against the Westerners Friday night.

The 6-5 Pampa center was named on the All-District 1-AAAA team the past two years and should make it three in a row this year. Last year Bond was named on the All-State 4A team. He lacked only one vote of being unanimous choice for all-state last year. The lone dissenting vote was by a District 1-AAAA scribe covering last year's state tournament.

A couple of junior forwards have been giving Bond plenty of scoring help this season. Gary Griffin (6-4) has scored 142 points in district play while E. Jay McIlvain (6-2) has tallied 132. Rounding out the starting five are guards Ken Hinkle (5-10) with 84 points, and George Depee (5-9) with 42 points.

Friday's game may well turn into a scoring duel since seven players with 50 points or more in 1-4A play will see action. Lubbock has four above the 50-mark, Ball (168), Wolfe (155), Chuck Key (92) and Harger (91). Three Harvesters in this category are Bond (242), Griffin (142) and McIlvain (132). At least 100 fans are due to follow Harvesters to Friday night's game at Lubbock. The Harvesters will leave Pampa early Friday morning for Lubbock. They will spend the night in Lubbock after the game before proceeding to Canyon the next day to meet the Amarillo Sandies Saturday night.

Philly Denies Writing Nasty Letter To Mack

PARIS, Tex., Feb. 12.—UP—Dave Philley, the Philadelphia Athletics' top hitter, denied Thursday he had written a "very nasty" letter to the A's Earl Mack and labeled as gross exaggeration Mack's statement that he had turned down a $40,000 raise.

"There was nothing nasty in the letter I wrote Mack," the hard-hitting outfielder said. "I just stated the facts and told him to check on what kind of year I had last season."

Philley, who sandwiches in some basketball officiating with his cattle business in the off season, completed a neat .355 batting average last summer—good enough to win eighth in the lead—as he led his own club at the plate.

Denies Reports

As for having turned down three offers including one with a $5,000 boost in salary, Philley gave forth with a contemptuous snort.

"Why, I've had only two offers from the club, all told," he said. "And I'll tell you neither of 'em came close to being $40,000 more than I made in 1953."

"The first offer didn't have enough to even half that figure, and the second didn't have $40,000 more than half of that $40,000 hike Mr. Mack so freely bandied about to the press."

Philley said he'd heard reports that Mack had made those statements and, in addition, had hinted at the possibility of Philley being traded because of his attitude.

"But I didn't believe it until yesterday, when a relative brought me a United Press story from a Dallas newspaper quoting him," he said.

Not Discussing Trades

The 33-year-old native of Garrett's Bluff, Tex., who broke into the majors on a firm basis in 1947 with the Chicago White Sox, wasn't too talkative about that trading business.

"I'd hate for contract talk to be cause for trading a man," he said. "I'm interested in getting merits and I wouldn't be too particular about who paid it."

"Mr. Mack was quoted earlier as saying he thought I deserved a substantial raise—but the offers I've had so far were certainly not in that category."

TL Employs Passarella As Ump Chief

FORT WORTH, Feb. 11.—UP—A veteran major league umpire will be back with the Texas League this year, serving this time as umpire-in-chief.

Art Passarella, who resigned last fall as an American League umpire after 11 years, was hired Wednesday by John L. Reeves, new president of the Texas League. Passarella started umpiring in the Cotton States League in 1937 and worked in the Texas League in 1938-39-40.

Reeves said Passarella would work games himself, but also would have "complete control" over other loop umpires. He will work with various crews. Reeves said he hoped the league's budget would permit hiring 12 umpires this season, compared with the 10 who worked in two crews of three and two of two in 1953. He said he wanted to break in some younger umpires, and gave no indication what would happen to the 10 men who served last year.

Milwaukee Peddles Bickford To Orioles

By UNITED PRESS
The Milwaukee Braves have sent veteran pitcher Vern Bickford to Baltimore and received a minor league catcher in exchange.

Earl White Jr. of Baltimore's San Antonio Texas League team, came into the Braves fold on the deal Wednesday.

The 24-year-old Bickford had expressed dissatisfaction with the Braves club, complaining that he was not being used enough, general manager John Quinn said.

It was reported that Bickford was less popular with management after his flustered exchange with Johnny Logan in New York last July.

Quinn said he had been trying to make a deal on Bickford with an American League club for some time.

Waived by National "Everybody waived him in the National League," Quinn said. Bickford had a 2-5 record in 58 innings and an earned run average of 5.28 last year.

Quinn said scouts had reported favorably on White, who throws right-handed and bats left-handed. The 25-year-old catcher, five-foot, 11-inches, weighs 195 and batted .287 for San Antonio last year.

Quinn has slated him to assist Sam Calderone in relieving Del Crandall, the Braves' regular catcher.

Earlier Wednesday first baseman Joe Adcock signed up, leaving only two first-string Braves off the contract list.

Jack Dittmer and Johnny Logan have not returned their contracts. Several other teams, including the pennant-winning Yankees and Dodgers, made baseball news on other fronts by signing key players.

The Yankees got a signed pact from Jerry Coleman, the ex-Marine flyer who is an important man in the Bronx Bombers' plans.

Kentucky Five Boasts Top Offense Mark

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 —UP—Kentucky Coach Adolph Rupp complained last week that there wasn't much kick in beating weaker teams, but the dullness of the process hasn't interfered with Kentucky's offense. With 402 points in their last four games, the Wildcats lead the nation's major colleges with 88.9 points a game, NCAA Service Bureau statistics showed Thursday.

That's a sizeable lead over the No. 2 team, Frank Selvy's Furman, which has 85.3. The defense leader is still Oklahoma A&M, with 51.0 points a game allowed, but a more noteworthy mark is unbeaten Duquesne's 51.1, because the Dukes, unlike the Aggies, don't play possession ball at the time.

Kentucky, Duquesne and Seattle University, however, are more concerned with another type of statistic on scoring. Each has a long winning streak and is within reaching distance of some streak records.

Duquesne has won all 18 of its games this season through Tuesday, Kentucky all 17. The record for a perfect season is 26-0, by Long Island University in 1938, and if both stay unbeaten, they'll pass that mark by a good margin, because of tournament opportunities.

Seattle, after losing its opener, has won 24 straight, and is just three short of the all-time mark for the longest streak in one season. Seton Hall set it last year by winning its first twenty-seven games.

Getting back to scoring, Kentucky is the only team to score in triple figures on four occasions, and with a 61.2 defense has the biggest "spread" over its opposition—27.7 points a game. Duquesne is second in this respect with 21.6, thanks to a 72.7 points-a-game offense.

For accuracy, George Washington is still the best, with a 455 per cent mark in shooting from the floor (to 43.9 per cent for Niagara) and a 73.5 per cent efficiency in free throws (to Tulane's 73.3 per cent). Scoring figures include games played Tuesday but the percentages cover only games played through Saturday.

The Cincinnati Redlegs moved within two men of completing their roster by signing rookie pitcher Bill Powell, 34-9 at Charleston, Fla., swept by Grace DeMoss Smith of Coral Gables, Fla., 3 and 1. Mrs. Smith recently captured the Helen Lee Doherty tournament at Miami.

Sixteen golfers in all survived Wednesday's round at the 1954 AAU Announces Entries. The Amateur Athletic Union has announced that California will send a group of eight track and field stars to the American indoor-championships at Madison Square Garden, Feb. 20. The group includes Parry O'Brien, George Brown, Ernie Shellen, Bob Richards, Fred (Red) Barnes, George Mattos, Herm Wyatt and Meredith Gourdin.

Ag Hopes Up With Bear In Fold Bryant Has Knack Of Bringing Grid Program Out Of Doldrums

By ED FITE
COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Feb. 11 —UP—Paul (Bear) Bryant, a drawing one-time backwoodsman with a compelling cost of polish, brought only a nodding acquaintance with coaching adversity to his new job at Texas A&M.

The tall, 200-pound former Alabama end who grew up amidst the lore of the Oskars, around Fordyce, Ark., has had a winner each of his nine previous seasons as a head coach—one at Maryland and eight at Kentucky.

At each of those schools, Bryant rejuvenated flagging grid fortunes almost overnight and a similar "challenge" here at Aggieland was a big factor in swinging him away from Kentucky.

Two other motivating factors were the tremendous school spirit in Texas A&M's "12th man" cadet corps and the abundance of material spewing from the 800-plus, Texas schoolball teams.

He's already made a big hit with the corps, which keeps up a thunderous roar throughout all Aggie home games, by unexpectedly following a tradition that calls for pep rally speakers to shed their coats and ties and letting them drop to the floor on the spot.

This dramatic act provoked a wild demonstration and indicated Bryant was "in" as far as the corps was concerned.

He has been here only two days, so as yet has had no chance to put his glib, appealing tongue to work on the state's prospective college athletes. But, those who saw Bryant at work for Maryland and Kentucky have no doubts the personable, 40-year-old mentor will sway his share of top-grade talent.

Bryant, who once wrestled a carnival bear to earn his nickname and whose gamesmanship was further exhibited when he played an entire game against Tennessee with a broken leg, wasn't worried too much about the dim prospects existing at Texas A&M.

Asked if he thought the Aggie personnel could be any poorer than that at Kentucky when he first went there, Bryant replied: "Well, it would have to be pretty weak."

That inaugural year at Kentucky, Bryant took a cellar ball club and guided it to a 7-3 season record. The Aggies haven't won a championship since 1941, have won only one conference game a year the past three seasons and lost a huge slice of the 1953 cellar-sharing club by graduation.

The situation has an old familiar ring to Bryant. But, he best expressed his feelings at that costless, teletype-rally in his first hour on the campus when he rolled up his sleeves and shouted to the enthusiastic cadets: "I don't know about you, but I'm ready to play."

Sooner Aps Nip Billikens In Crucial Tilt

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 —UP—Duquesne's unbeaten Dukes moved a long stride closer to their goal of a perfect season Thursday and the Oklahoma Aggies closed in on their second straight conference championship, thanks to the two best basketball defenses in the nation.

The Dukes, who Wednesday accepted a bid to the National Invitation Tournament, celebrated Wednesday night with an 86 to 46 thumping of Carnegie Tech which ran their record to 19 wins in 19 games and moved them within seven games of a perfect season.

The Aggies, meanwhile, got half a grip on the title in the tough Missouri Valley Conference with an impressive 59 to 53 victory over St. Louis in a road game that had been regarded as crucial.

In these days of "firehose" teams and their 100-point scores, the Dukes and the Aggies are proving again that it still pays to be stingy in the court sport. After Wednesday night's games, the Dukes rank as the nation's best defensive team with a 50.5 points per game average allowed, and the Aggies are close behind in second place with a 51.1 mark. Before then the Aggies had been leading with the Dukes second.

Duquesne simply didn't give out-manned Carnegie much chance to shoot Wednesday night, practically blowing the engineers off the court in the first half to take a straight regular season win, a string including six games at the end of last season.

The Aggies' victory left them unbeaten in six league games with only four more to play—all on their home court—and made them prohibitive favorites for their 14th league title in 19 years.

Bobby Mattick, six-11 pivot man, racked up 20 points in leading the Aggies to their 17th straight win this season but the Aggies did go ahead to stay until early in the fourth quarter. Dick Boushka led St. Louis with 16 points.

Four top independent teams—La Salle, Fordham, Louisville, and St. Francis of Brooklyn—also registered wins to strengthen their bids for post-season tournament berths.

Revamp Method Of Selling Par For Golfing Ladies

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 11 —UP—Women can't hit a baseball over the fence in the average baseball park; can't toss the shot 30 feet or kick a football 80 yards.

So why should they be asked to match men on the golf course? The question is asked by Harry Obitz, head professional for Fred Waring at his Shawnee-on-the-Delaware golf course, and Joe Mortara, Vallejo, Calif., golf pro.

They have been doing considerable research on the subject and are ready to start a campaign that at least should prove popular with the ladies: Change the entire par system for feminine golfers.

Not Enough Difference Currently, the average golf course shows only two to four strokes on par for women different from the men. In other words, the little ladies are expected to hit the ball just about as far as the men if they are to achieve par. Only a few, such as professional Babe Didrikson Zaharias or Patty Berg, come close to doing that.

"As a result, on par five holes," says Obitz, "Most women give up when they get on the tee. They'll settle for a six right away. On the other hand, women golfers always have a lot of fun shooting at the par-three holes."

Obitz and Mortara have arrived at these decisions on par for women: Par three—up to 200 yards (now is up to 210). Par four—201 to 375 yards (now is up to 400). Par five—376 to 450 (now up to 575). Par six—451 and over (now 576 and over).

There are two ways these new rules would help in the golf world, says Obitz and Mortara: 1. It would eliminate the installation of costly second tees for women on all golf courses.

2. It would make women's par on an average course around 80 instead of 74 to 76.

Would Be More Equal "In this way," says Obitz, "There would be nearly as big a percentage of women golfers shooting for par as there are men golfers. As things now stand, there aren't a half dozen regular par shooters among the amateur women golfers in the country today."

The two golf professionals have a little problem ahead of them before their proposal would be accepted by the U.S. Golf Association: They have to have every women's golf club in the country vote on the plan.

If they can get together on such a subject as that, they ought to go for this plan—at least in 10 or 15 years.

Black-Vejar In A Draw

CHICAGO, Feb. 11 —UP—Jed Black "made too many mistakes" to earn more than a draw in his first big time boxing venture Wednesday night, against experienced Chico Vejar, but the former Michigan State boxer wanted to "fight him again."

"I learned something," he said. "But I sure made mistakes. I knew it. All the time. I blame it on my experience. He had a lot more than I have."

Vejar, who believed he won the battle handily, agreed he had experience on the 24-year-old ex-Spartan boxing champ. But he believed that he had not lost his finer touch through a year of Army duty, he would have left no question about a victory.

"I was in condition," he said. "But my timing was off. I just wasn't sharp, and when you're not sharp, you can be out of condition and put on a pretty good fight."

It was the first draw on the record for each fighter, but it was Vejar's 63rd pro battle and Black's 29th. Vejar has been beaten four times and Black once.

Both scrappers put on a good show for the scanty house of 1,608 who paid $6,277.01 gross. Each received 15 per cent of the net, $724.27, plus $4,000 apiece for their television performance.

Judge Frank Clark scored the battle 93 to 92 for Black and Referee Joey White 97 to 90 for Vejar while Judge Howard Walsh made it a 91-91 draw.

Rex Baxter To Compete In Laredo Open This Week End

LAREDO, Feb. 11 —UP—PGA whole North Texas State golf team were among the amateurs entered in the pro-amateur tournament.

The $3,000 Open gets under way over the Casa Blanca course Saturday and Sunday.

Already entered in the Open are Ed Furgol, winner of the Phoenix Open; Julius Boros, former U.S. Open champion, Oliver, Mayfield, Chuck Klein, Ed Carpenter, Holguin and others.

Expected were most of the pros that will play in the Texas Open in San Antonio next week.

Long ball hitters that can hit straight against the wind are the favorites in the tournament, which was a quick substitution when the Tucson Open was dropped.

New style ... New power ... New economy ... and yet
Lowest-priced line in its field!
That's why people are calling it the new 1954 Chevrolet the outstanding motor car value of this new year!
Men and women everywhere are deciding that Chevrolet for 1954 gives more for the money than any other car in its price range.
Here are the reasons why ...
New style—more beauty of line, contour and color—with stunning new bodies by Fisher and luxurious new modern-mode interiors.
New power—more pickup, more passing ability, more smoothness and quietness of operation with either of Chevrolet's two advanced 1954 engines—the thoroughly proved "Blue-Flame 125" engine teamed with Powerglide (available on all models at extra cost) or the thoroughly proved "Blue-Flame 115" engine!

New economy—yes, even stronger gasoline savings—because both of these great high-compression engines are designed, engineered and built to wring more power from every charge of fuel.
Moreover, these new Chevrolets remain the lowest-priced line in their field, again this year.
Come in ... see and drive the new 1954 Chevrolet ... and place your order now!
