CVAE CLASS - These boys participated in a special vocational course during the school term last year. The program has been approved for the next year, along with a class for girls.

Vocational Unit Gets Approval

A co-ordinated vocational academic education unit for junior high girls has been approved for Hart schools. Mrs. J. V. Wescott has been employed to teach the course.

The course, called Home-maker's Assistant, will include instruction in cleaning, general; laundering, general; caring for the sick in the home; preparing food in the home; serving food in the home; caring for children in the home; handling emergencies and meeting people outside the family; interior decorating, general and sewing.

Meeting Monday evening, the school board employed Ray Murphy to teach high school English and Spanish. Murphy has ten years experience, seven of which were in Olton High School.

The adult education program was approved for the 1970-71 school year. Members also voted to take bids on the 1960, 48-passenger spare Ford bus. Bids will be opened at 8 p. m. July 13.

Transfer students were accepted for the 1970-71 school year.

Board members voted to purchase equipment and supplies valued at $2446.83 for the vocational agriculture and Co-ordinated Vocational Academic Education Departments. Approval was also given to lease a pickup for the agriculture department. The pickup will be leased from Thompson Chevrolet in Olton for $720.

Two Attend Boys State

The thirtieth annual American Legion Boys State sponsored by the Department of Texas and held on the Campus of the University of Texas, got under way today as 785 high school boys from all parts of Texas, and two from Mexico, began registration, Henry H. Hill, Department Commander, announced.

Among those registering from Hart were Gary L. Six son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Six and Donald Ray Shive, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Shive, who were sponsored by local American Legion Posts.

Following registration, each citizen was assigned to one of two political parties - the Nationalist or Federalist. Each citizen then functions as a member of his party, he attends its precinct, county and state conventions and votes in its primary.

In Boys State, The American Legion provides the type of program where the young citizen has the opportunity to learn for himself that his government is just what he makes it. The boy "learns to do by doing."

Highlight of Boys State will be a trip to the Capitol Friday morning where each elected Boys State Official will be given an opportunity to serve in his respective office for a day, followed by the Governor's Ball Friday evening.

Boys State enrollment this year brings the total of 14,939 junior high school boys who have attended since 1940, when Boys State was first inaugurated in Texas.

Goose Ramey Speaks To Lions

Goose Ramey of Dimmitt was guest speaker Monday at the regular meeting of the Lions Club in the Community Room of Farmers State Bank. He presented a program about geese.

Accompanying Ramey was J. R. Brown, also of Dimmitt. Nineteen members attended.

Local Teachers Are Attending Summer Institute

Four teachers and one teacher's aide are attending a Migrant Summer Institute being held in Estacado High School in Lubbock. Classes are 9 a. m. until 3:30 p. m. and run from June 8 through July 3.

The institute is sponsored by the Texas Education Agency and is designed to help teachers and teacher aides gain knowledge and experience in four areas of concern - language development, reading, instructional media techniques and bilingual instruction.

A variety of techniques of instruction will be presented during the course. Demonstrations will be conducted with children, micro-teaching skills will be presented and videotape facilities will be utilized in the teaching-learning process.

Castro Farmers Reminded To Certify Row Crop Acreage

Castro County farmers are reminded that early compliance and early certification in reporting acreage of cotton, feed grains and diverted acreage will mean early payments. Dates certified are the final farm disposition dates.

Correct certification of acreage is important since it cannot be adjusted once it has been certified. Farmers who are not certain of their acreage may ask for measurement service. The service is available until June 19, 1970 for row crops in the county.

Diverted acreage cannot have cotton, feed grains or sweet sorghum growing on it when it is certified. If soybeans are being grown on the acreage, it should be reported and the beans should be plowed up before Sept. 30, 1970 and certified again at that time.

All farms in which a producer has interest must be in compliance to be eligible for payments.

May 25, 1970 was the final replanting date for cotton in Castro County and June 20, 1970 for feed grains.

Farmers whose crops are destroyed after the replanting date, must request approval in writing in order to plant some other crop. The land must be inspected before planting another crop. An inspection fee is charged for the farm visit.

For prevented plantings to be eligible for credit as planted acreage for program payments, price support and history, the area for which credit is requested must not subsequently be planted to feed grains, cotton or wheat for harvest in the current year.

This provision is for the benefit of those farmers who suffered a hardship through loss of the crop due to a disaster (such as drought, hail, flood, etc.). This is not intended to be used to provide windfall benefits to producers who are not making a genuine effort to plant, care for and harvest the crop.

Before an application is filed for this provision, a producer should be sure that every effort has been made to plant or replant.

Accent On Health

First step in a move to provide better health services to more than two and one-half million Texans was made May 1 when the Texas State Department of Health Region 7 was opened with headquarters in Tyler.

The new region, first of 10 planned by the State Health Department, served 36 counties stretching from the Red River to the lower Louisiana border above Orange. It includes the Governor's Planning Regions of Northeast Texas, East Texas and Deep East Texas.

Region 7 medical director is Dr. J. R. Bailes, who moved to his post after serving as director of the Texarkana-Bowie County Health Department since 1962. Deputy regional medical director is Dr. John P. Jones, who also supervises the Tuberculosis Control Program in the Tyler area.

Texas has 68 organized city and county health departments providing direct public health services to eight million residents in 76 counties which contain about 76 per cent of the state's 10.6 million population. The state's remaining 178 counties, with about 24 per cent of the state's population (or 2.6 million people), are left without local health units. The new region is setting about to alter this situation.

According to Dr. Hampton C. Robinson, chairman of the State Board of Health, a more highly coordinated, economical method of providing public health services to all people is vital. The regional system has been designed specifically to meet the demands of the growing state which by 1980 is expected to have a population of 14.9 million.

While maintaining the health units already organized, the regional offices will be staffed by well-trained personnel representing all the professional and technical disciplines required for complete health services.

Health personnel will be concentrated into the regional office and made available throughout each region.

Each region will have a regional engineer to supervise the environmental health program, a public health dentist, a veterinarian, a chief nurse and a chief sanitarian.

"Primary mission will be to provide assistance to those counties that do not have health departments," said Dr. James E. Peavy, State Health Commissioner.

Three regions in the Rio Grande Valley, West Texas, and Dallas-Ft. Worth area, will go into service during the 1972-73 biennium, according to Deputy Commissioner for Program Planning, Dr. Fratis L. Duff.

SENSING THE NEWS

By Thurman Sensing

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

Southern States Industrial Council

In recommending a treaty under the provisions of which the United States would renounce all rights to undersea resources beyond the depth of 200 meters (218.8 yards), the Nixon administration proposed the most colossal giveaway in the history of this country. It is hard to believe that President Nixon, in view of his strong national interest stand on many issues, has been fully advised of the implications and effects of the treaty proposed by his administration.

The sea floor pact statement released by the White House said the proposed treaty would call for establishment of "an international regime for exploitation of seabed resources" beyond the 200 meter depth. This international organization would "provide for the collection of substantial mineral royalties to be used for international community purposes, particularly economic assistance to developing countries."

What must be impressed upon the American people is that the proposed treaty would deny to the United States vast wealth to which it is entitled and which it is particularly well equipped to acquire.

The United States is the leader in ocean technology, especially ocean engineering. Hundreds of taxpaying, free enterprise companies in the U. S. have developed the equipment and the techniques for oil drilling and mining in the depths. Since 1946, more than 9,000 offshore wells have been drilled by companies. President Truman, in 1945, asserted American jurisdiction over the continental shelf, thereby assuring protection of a vital national asset.

But technology is moving at a rapid rate. The National Petroleum Council pointed out last year that within less than five years, technology will allow drilling and exploration in water depths of 1,500 feet (457 meters). Within 10 years, technical capabilities will allow drilling and oil producing in water depths of 4,000-6,000 feet (1,219-1,829 meters).

Given America's technological know-how and investment by American shareholders, this country should be able to develop a vast new source of wealth on the continental slope and adjacent ocean floor areas. These submerged lands, where there is "waiting wealth," are part of the North American continent. They just as much belong to the United States as the cold regions of Alaska. The American people are entitled to the wealth that lies off the coasts of the United States and that can be obtained by the know-how of U. S. free enterprise.

It would be tragic beyond words for this wealth to be turned over to an international regime for distribution to countries around the world, many of them incompetent to run their own affairs or antagonistic to the United States and its free society. It is hard to believe that the American people, considering their vital interests and real needs, want the country to propose or sign a treaty that would yield their assets to an agency of the United Nations or anything similar. Yet that is in the cards unless there is a strong grassroots protest.

The National Petroleum Council, in a definitive study of undersea resources, has said that "the continental shelf is the frontal edge of the submerged continent...it is the logical starting point for localizing the approximate outer limit of coastal-state jurisdiction." The Council said that the United States "should promptly and forthrightly assert (its) rights" over the continental slope and at least the landward portion of the continental rise. To do otherwise would be to deprive the American people of wealth to which they are entitled. The denial would be for all time.

It is dismaying and shocking that the administration failed to heed the words of the Council and instead has adopted a position virtually identical with the resolution advanced by Malta in the United Nations.

The mini-states of the world -- and many of the large but dependent countries -- see in internationalization of seabed resources an opportunity for unlimited and enduring subsidization of their regimes. This subsidy would come "out of the hide" of the American people, for the U. S. is better equipped than any other nation to develop seabed resources.

In short, the establishment of an international regime for seabed resources would be a cruel and utterly unnecessary tax on the American people. The sea floor pact goes far beyond even the most extravagant foreign aid plan in envisioning permanent subsidies for backward lands -- all at the cost of the USA. This proposed undersea giveaway would deprive the American people of tremendous benefits that would be derived from development of the seabed by taxpaying, free enterprise companies.

The sea floor pact represents a Louisiana Purchase in reverse -- a loss of rich submerged lands that rightfully belong to the American people.

Financial Facts

By Willis A. Hawkins, Jr.

The emperor Constantine the Great reorganized the monetary system of Rome. His reforms included the reduction in weight of the gold coin, called the solidus, to 1/72 of a libra or pound.

This system was adopted in the Eastern Empire by the Byzantine monarchs and for centuries the Byzantine solidus remained the principal medium of exchange throughout the Mediterranean area. The solidus was used for international exchange and also for domestic transactions which involved large sums. Silver and copper coins continued to be used in local and petty trade.

The monetary system in western Europe was in a state of chaos and the barbaric rulers of the west were glad to adopt the solidus for their own use.

Bob Price Writes

Today the House Agriculture Committee voted to adopt a substitute wheat and feed grain amendment which has completely unglued the carefully constructed compromise farm bill.

The vote was 17-14. I opposed the substitute amendment.

I opposed it not only because I knew its adoption would dissolve the fragile bi-partisan agreement we had in the committee but also, and more importantly, it was greatly inferior in providing assistance to wheat and feed grain farmers.

The substitute removed from the bill three amendments which I had personally sponsored and worked very hard toward getting the committee's approval. These were:

First, to increase grain sorghum loans in relation to corn, by removing from the law unscientific criteria now being used to set loan levels.

Second, to permit the grazing of sweet sorghum on set-aside or diverted acres.

Third, to give county ASC Committees greater discretion in permitting the grazing of set-aside acreage.

In addition to deleting my amendments the substitute also struck from the bill the guaranteed payment of 32¢ per bushel on corn and an equivalent amount on grain sorghum.

The substitute really accomplished was to put into the bill very low floors for both wheat and feed grain - floors which incidently were lower than the actual benefits provided in the committee compromise bill.

The substitute for example, wrote in a floor of $1.84 per bushel on wheat whereas the benefits guaranteed by the committee bill were $1.95 per bushel - some 11¢ per bushel more.

I think it is extremely unfortunate that the committee has taken this action because the result is to kill the bill.

I hope in the days ahead we will be able to apply a cooler attitude toward this important legislation, because it is the farmer and the public who will eventually suffer most if no new farm bill is enacted before 1971.

Texas State Fair Set For October 10-25

Big Tex and his great State Fair of Texas are off on another journey for the 1970 Fair, Oct. 10-25 in Dallas.

Last year Big Tex made it to the moon, but this year he will lead Fair visitors into the mysterious world of the ocean depths with the "Exposition of the Seven Seas."

Neptune, King of the Oceans, will assist in guiding Big Tex through a comprehensive theme exhibit that is presently being developed in conjunction with Texas A&M University to be presented in the New Dimensions Pavillion.

Neptune will also explain to Big Tex the enormous influence the oceans have on man's existence as well as the age old lore of the sea.

Joseph B. Rucker, Jr., Executive Vice-President and General Manager of the Fair said, "it was natural for us to turn to the scientific exploration of the other great space still virtually unexplored--the oceans of the earth."

The 85th annual exposition will emphasize future aspects of oceanology and ocean engineering while at the same time giving prominence to the historical and legendary romance of the sea.

Along with the many exhibits, the motif of the Seven Seas will be further enhanced by special events, nightly parades, park decorations and additional exhibits.

You've been spending too much on weeds in cotton!

If you've been just cultivating, or using a chemical weed killer and not getting the control you need - either way you've been spending too much.

There's a better way to get good weed control, and spend less.

It's with Caparol® 80W - your partner, the weed-killer - band applied, at planting.

In just one trip across the field, you plant your crop and put Caparol on in a band. This keeps the weeds out of the rows. Then, all you do is cultivate the middles.

Don't spend too much on weeds in cotton again this year. Apply Caparol, in a band, at planting.

Homemakers Haven

By Mrs. Max Marble

An informal get-together centered around a buffet meal is one of the most pleasant ways to entertain. The idea is to make service easy, to allow guests to take as little or as much as they want. That way both nibblers and hearty eaters are happy. Arrange the buffet almost any way you like to make a pretty combination of appetizing.

For a touch of Texas, South of the Border style, you might try a Chili Pie Casserole, add Spanish rice, Mexican beans, tossed green salad with tomatoes and avocado slices, pineapple and orange fruit cups, sugar cookies, plenty of chips and dips.

CHILI PIE CASSEROLE

- 3 c. Fritos
- 1 large onion, chopped
- 1 can or 2 cups chili
- 1 c. grated American cheese

Place 2 cups of Fritos in a 2 quart baking dish. Arrange onion and half of cheese on top. Pour chili over this and then top with remaining Fritos and grated cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

GUACAMOLE SALAD

- 2 ripe avocados
- 3 T. onion, minced
- 1 T. vinegar
- 1 T. mayonnaise
- 2 drops hot pepper sauce
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 2 tomatoes
- 1 c. Fritos

Peel and mash avocados. Add minced onion, vinegar, hot pepper sauce, mayonnaise and salt. Serve on tomato wedges garnished with Fritos.

TASTY TUNA SPREAD

- 1 can chunk-style tuna
 - 1 3-oz. pkg. soft cream cheese
 - 1 T. mayonnaise
 - 1 T. finely chopped onion
 - 1 tsp. horseradish
 - 1 garlic clove, mashed or finely chopped
- Mix well and serve with crackers, chips, or use for finger sandwiches.

For a salad bridge luncheon, you might like to try a Peach and cheese salad, finger sandwiches, cream cheese and jelly on date bread, assorted relishes and spongecake with orange custard.

PEACH AND CHEESE SLAD

- 1 lb. cream style cottage cheese
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- 2 T. mayonnaise
- 1 c. lightly crushed Fritos
- 1 can peach halves.

Combine the cheese with salt, mayonnaise, and Fritos. Serve on peach halves garnished with crisp lettuce.

You might like to also add a Rice Salad for that buffet.

- 2 to 3 c. cooked and cooled rice
- 1 c. crushed pineapple
- 1 c. miniature marshmallows
- 1 c. mandarin oranges
- 1 c. nuts
- 1 c. sour cream
- 1 c. shredded coconut

Combine all ingredients and chill before serving.

FRUIT SALAD

- 2 bananas, sliced
- 1 large can apricot halves
- 1 c. nuts
- 1 large can pineapple chunks

DRESSING

- 1 pkg. instant lemon pudding mixed with 1/2 c. milk and 3/4 c. pineapple or apricot juice.

Try this one as it is different from the everyday fruit salad.

CHERRY DELIGHT

- 1 small angel food cake
- 1 8 oz. pkg. cream cheese
- 2 pkgs. dream whip
- 2 c. powdered sugar
- 1 can cherry pie filling

Crumble cake. Mix dream whip according to directions. Fold into crumbled cake. Add cheese and sugar. Top with cherry pie filling.

Janet's Jibberish

BY JANET McLAIN

I hope that everyone is enjoying the summer as much as I am. If you go on some sort of vacation, please be careful and don't forget to let us hear about all the fun you had. On the other hand, if you are working-- well, don't strain yourself too much.

TRY SMILING
When the weather, suits you not,
Try smiling;
When your coffee isn't hot,
Try smiling.

When your neighbors don't do right, or your relatives all fight,
Sure 'tis hard, but then you might--try smiling.

Doesn't change the things, of course-- Just smiling;
But it cannot make them worse, Just smiling.
And it seems to help your case, Brightens up a gloomy place;
Then, it sort o' rests your face -- Just smiling.

WHAT'S NEW IN THE NEWS

The Bates family was visiting here this past weekend. Rex Henderson how do you like your car? and Danny? We sure do hate to see the Brown family leave us; also the Burns family, too. Landra, what's that you and Bill B. have up above your upper lip? Lonny Davis came home for a couple of days from being on wheat harvest. Sandy, how's the work at the store coming along????!! Ricky Farris did I see you with a suit on Sunday?!! Double knit?!! (L.C.)

HERE IS ENCOURAGEMENT

There may come a time when you will not have a straw to cling to except these words. These thoughts should "pull you through" anything if you remember them, knowing others have been in impossible situations before you.

If you can force your heart and nerve and sinew To serve your turn long after they are gone And so hold on when there's nothing in you Except the will which says to them, "Hold On."

A THOUGHT TO THINK ABOUT EMPTINESS-- Four things are grievously empty: a head without brains, a wit without judgment, a heart without honesty, and a purse without money.

PATIENCE -- To know how to wait is the great secret of success.

NEWSPAPER -- I read the newspapers to see how God governs the world.

PROFANITY -- Profanity is a weak mind trying to express itself.

KNOWLEDGE -- The essence of knowledge is, having it, to apply it; not having it, to confess your ignorance.

GOSSIP -- I hold it to be a fact, that if all persons knew what each said of the other, there would not be four friends in the world.

President Nixon, Johnny Cash Appear On Billy Graham's Campus Crusade

Evangelist Billy Graham closed his East Tennessee Crusade here Sunday afternoon, May 31, after 10 days of history making and highlights that included a visit by President Nixon and songs by Johnny Cash.

Well over a half million people filed into Neyland Stadium since May 22 to back a new team playing on the University of Tennessee's Tartan Turf. It's the same football field where the nationally acclaimed Volunteers have beaten some of the great teams of the country, but during these days there has not been an orange jersey in sight.

President and Mrs. Nixon flew into "orange country" early Thursday evening for a stopover at the Crusade while on their way to the Western White House in San Clemente, Calif. Approximately 100,000 people swelled the stadium area far past capacity in what was thought to be the largest crowd for any event in Tennessee history.

In delivering a 13-minute address from Graham's platform, the President received 14 ovations, one a full minute, from the vast majority in the sympathetic audience.

Evangelist Graham called the President's reception in East Tennessee "one of the greatest receptions I have ever seen given a President anywhere."

President Nixon told the vast sea of humanity that, "I can tell you America would not be what it is today, the greatest nation in the world, if this were not a nation which has made progress under God."

It was youth night at the Crusade and a high percentage of the audience were young people and students who jam-packed the stadium long before the 7:30 p. m. starting time. The President exhorted the young people toward spiritual things when he declared: "And if our young people are going to have a fulfillment beyond simply those material things, they must turn to those great spiritual resources that have made America the great country it is."

Mr. Nixon's address here was history making too, as it was possibly the only time in American history that a President spoke from the platform of an evangelist.

About three hundred anti-war demonstrators, carrying signs which said, "Thou Shalt Not Kill," gathered in the east section of the stadium and shouted slogans throughout much of the service. Several minor incidents were reported, and some arrests were made.

Singer Johnny Cash, who has emerged as today's champion of the down-trodden and troubled, told last Sunday (May 24) of his experience with drugs and dramatically warned youth at the Crusade, "It ain't worth it."

Silence fell over the audience in the sun-drenched stadium, as the famed Western singer stood on the speaker's platform and said: "I'd like to ask the young people to take it from a man who's been there that knows what he's talking about.

"In plain everyday words, my young friends, it ain't worth it. There's a beautiful thrill and ecstasy that comes from some drugs the first time. But then as time goes by, and it only takes a short time, you cross that line between ecstasy and terror and that's where you stay -- on the terror, the horror side of that line.

"I escaped. I was lucky beyond measure. Don't try it. It ain't worth it."

Cash, earlier in a meeting with reporters, told of his Christian conversion experience as a 12-year-old boy in an Arkansas Baptist Church. He said that "However, lately I have been placing a new emphasis on the spiritual things of my life."

Appearing with Cash were the entire cast of his television show, including the Carter family, the Statler Brothers, and Carl Perkins and the Tennessee Three.

Cash and his group sang four songs including "The Old Account Was Settled Long Ago," and "What is Truth?"

Some 42,000 people paused for 60 seconds of silent prayer Saturday afternoon for "the boys in Vietnam and Cambodia" in what was considered the largest Memorial Day ceremony held this year in the United States.

Color guards, representing the Army, Air Force, Navy, Marines, and Coast Guard, marched to the center of the field and presented the colors as the huge audience sang the National Anthem and repeated the Pledge of Allegiance led by UT's head football coach, Bill Battle. American flags waved throughout the observance.

Evangelist Graham who said he was "thrilled" by the service, personally called on the throng to pray for "the boys in Vietnam and Cambodia, that peace will come soon in this war which has gone on far too long, pray for the war prisoners, and wives of those men in prison...what agony they have gone through."

The evangelist's nightly sermons portrayed various subjects, most of them aimed toward young people. However, as a characteristic of his Crusades, Evangelist Graham stuck to basic ideas about Christ and salvation.

Many people have wondered why the Billy Graham Team would come to such a small populated area of the country--Knoxville population is about 170,000--but its decision to come here was well rewarded by the people of East Tennessee. The Crusade drew 45,000 people the opening night and averaged well over 50,000 every service. Monday night of the meeting was one of the largest Monday night crowds ever assembled to hear Dr. Graham. Some 55,000 were present.

Also, some 12,300 people marched across the green carpeted field to commit their lives to Jesus Christ.

This is the first time a Graham Crusade has been held in the center of a great university. Students live in the stadium dorm at the very site of the Crusade meetings. UT is the third largest university of the south, with nearly 25,000 students and thousands of them came to the services. Approximately 50 percent of those responding to the invitation were in the 13 to 25-year age bracket.

Four of the Crusade services will be carried on the largest Graham Crusade telecast in history. June 22-25 are the dates the Crusade will be shown throughout the United States and Canada, as well as other parts of the world. More people than at any previous time will have the opportunity to view this Crusade, according to Crusade officials.

NIECE VISITS

Karen Kitchen of Hereford visited her aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Willis A. Hawkins Jr. last week.

My Debt To My City

My City owes me nothing. If accounts were balanced at this date, I would be the debtor. Haven't I, all these years, lived within the limits of the City and shared all its benefits? Haven't I had the benefit of its schools and churches? Haven't I had the use of its libraries, parks, and public places? Haven't I had the protection of its fire, police and health departments? Haven't its people, during all this time, been gathering for me, from the four corners of the earth, food for my table, clothing for my body, and material for my home?

"Hasn't this City furnished the patronage by which I have succeeded in my business? Hasn't it furnished the best friends of my life, whose ideals have been my inspiration, whose kind words have been my cheer, and whose helpfulness has carried me over the greatest difficulties?"

"What will I give in return? Not simply the taxes which cover so small a part of what I have received. I want to give more; I want, of my own free will, to give enough that I can rightfully say, 'This is my City,' so that I can take pride in 'my City' so that I can take pride in its prosperity, in the honors which come to its citizens, and all that makes it greater and better.

"I can do this only by becoming a part of the City - by giving to it generously of myself. In this way only can I, even in small part, pay the great debt I owe to my City."

THE DOOR through which hundreds of laughing brides and grooms have made their exit in a shower of rice.

THE DOOR through which a thousand babies have been brought for holy baptism.

THE DOOR through which tens of thousands have entered to worship God and left to serve mankind.

THE DOOR which opens and closes countless times — always leaving its mark on the souls of men and women.

Today before THE DOOR boy meets girl. No better time. No better place.

Will their friendship blossom into love? Will they one day share that shower of rice — and bring their own child to the font?

THE DOOR cannot answer such questions.

But THE DOOR can open for them, as it does for all men, the Way to God's blessing in our dreams and our hopes.
