Where's the water going?

■ Water audit has revealed no leaks so far

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

Tom Bean of Pitometer & Associates said there's not much good news to report about the city's water loss problem which is about one million gallons a day (approximately 700 gallons per minute).

Bean made his report to the Big Spring City Council at its Tuesday meeting.

Of the 300 meters, 50 have already been tested, including Colorado River Municipal Water District meters, and no problems have been spotted so far. Bean did tell the council water will find the easiest point from which to escape.

So far, water loss is costing the city about $600 per day and City Manager Lanny Lambert said "The city is anxious to fix this problem and yesterday is already too late."

The firm of Parkhill, Smith & Cooper has been hired to assist the city in studying the downtown water distribution system. This study will cost between $9,000 and $11,000.

After meeting in executive session, the council also decided to accept the resignation of Municipal Judge John Rhelmscheld who was requesting a pay increase to $2,000 from $1,200 for his part-time duties.

Councilwoman Pat DeAnda said she didn't think the citizens of Big Spring would appreciate that kind of liberty for so little work.

Council members also granted permission to the Hispanic Women for Progress to close Scurry Street from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Oct. 15 for a youth dance group as hosts of 'Fiesta

Honoring Pickle

Rep. J.J. Pickle with his wife Beryl wave in front of photos of themselves during a reception on Capitol Hill Tuesday. The Austin Democrat, who has served 30 years in Congress, will not seek another term in Congress, ending a political career that had its beginning in World War II.

Texans on Capitol Hill gather to honor retiring lawmaker

WASHINGTON (AP) — Capitol Hill won't be the same without J.J. "Jake" Pickle, say the Texas politicians who have worked with the veteran Austin Democrat.

With the 103rd Congress nearing its close, Texans gathered Tuesday to honor the retiring lawmaker and remember his accomplishments over 30 years in the halls of Congress.

Hundreds turned out to pay their respects to the 80-year-old at a Tex-Mex-flavored party hosted by the Texas State Society, a group of expatriate Texans now living in the nation's capital.

To the sounds of a mariachi band, the Texans mingled in the courtyard of the House office building named after former House Speaker and legendary Texan Sam Rayburn. "I'm going to miss Jake Pickle," said Treasury Secretary Lloyd Bentsen, who served with Pickle in Congress for 22 years. "I'm going to miss his sense of humor, that wit — my God, even the harmonica playing."

"Jake Pickle is the outstanding example of why term limits are a big mistake," Bentsen said to applause, on a day when hundreds of Republican congressional candidates had gathered in Washington to push for term limits and other congressional reforms.

Pickle's announcement last year that he wouldn't seek a 16th term brings to a near-close the era of Texas lawmakers with close political ties to Lyndon B. Johnson. Of that era, only Rep. Jack Brooks, D-

Beaumont, and San Antonio Democratic Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez will remain.

Pickle entered politics in 1941, helping Lady Bird Johnson run her husband's congressional office while he was serving in the Navy during World War II. Twenty-two years later, Pickle would be elected to LBJ's former seat.

Third in rank on the powerful House Ways and Means Committee, Pickle used his clout to keep a vigilant eye over federal programs that affect millions of Americans — from Social Security and Medicare to pension benefits and the Internal Revenue Service.

Asked Tuesday his biggest accomplishments, Pickle cited

U.S. suffers first casualty in Haiti;

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — American troops expanded their mission Tuesday from disarming the Haitian military to taking up posts around the Parliament building and City Hall in anticipation of Haiti's return to civilian rule.

The U.S. forces suffered their first fatality Tuesday. An American soldier was found shot to death at hillside mansion being prepared for legislators returning to Haiti for Wednesday's Parliament session.

Pentagon spokesman Dennis Boxx said the soldier's death was being investigated as "an apparent suicide." He was part of the 10th Mountain Division from Fort Drum, N.Y., and his identity was not immediately released.

Military police strung concertina wire in front of the white colonaded Parliament building, a day before the Haitian legislative body was to begin discussing a bill authorizing amnesty for the country's top military leaders.

The amnesty measure was part of a deal worked out Sept. 18 between the U.S. delegation led by former President Carter and Haiti's military junta.

A soldier posted on the roof of the Parliament scanned the area with binoculars, and others took up posts at the gate. Army vehicles stood watch in front of the building.

Small crowds of Haitians gathered in front of the building.

At City Hall, U.S. military police in armored vehicles were posted inside the compound and Army Humvees, machine guns mounted on their tops, took up guard just outside.

Mayor Evans Paul, exiled President Jean-Bertrand Aristide's former campaign manager, is expected to come out of hiding and return to his office on Thursday, U.S. officials said.

Paul has been out of sight for most of the three years since Aristide — Haiti's first democratically elected president — was overthrown by the military.

The first U.S. fatality came as American troops were refurbishing the Villa d'Accueil, a Haitian state guest house during the dictatorship of Jean-Claude Duvalier that now houses the Independent Electoral Council, which is to oversee elections.

The Board of Directors of Moore Development for Big Spring, Inc., met to discuss a variety of items including Moore Board's Annual Meeting, an update on the Wright Fibers project, and the selection committee's progress in the search for a new executive director.

Moore Board's annual meeting is scheduled for Oct. 13, but a specific place and time has not been determined.

Board members discussed some of the things that need to be included in the meeting including a more visible image to the public.

Scott McLaughlin said, "The more we can be in the public's eye, the better. We need to promote the fact that we're here to answer the public's questions."

Board member Bob Scott recommended that there be some type of visual representation of the businesses in Big Spring, especially the businesses assisted by Moore Board so that the public has an idea of what's happening in the business commu-

Education board member blasts Goals 2000 adoption

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

The federal government is wanting to take over the public education system and take control out of the hands of local school districts, according to State Board of Education member Monte Hasle.

Hasle, a Republican, represents District 15 comprised of 50 counties and 145 school districts. "On Sept. 9, the Democrat-controlled SBOE adopted Goals 2000 amid reassurances there are no strings attached to federal funds. I refer to that date as 'Black Friday' for Texas public schools," said Hasle.

He is up for reelection in November and is running unopposed. He spoke to the Big Spring Rotary Club during their meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Goals 2000 is a program developed by President Bill Clinton to assist public education. Clinton has appointed a National School Board and a National Standards Board. Gov. Ann Richards is required to appoint another board to implement the policies of Goals 2000 in Texas that the national boards create.

The money from the federal government is to be used to create and implement volunteer programs. "Although the programs are supposed to be volunteer ones, the federal government says it will rate the school districts based on how they use those programs. When you rate a district on a program, it is no longer a volunteer one," Hasle added.

Committee of Education has approved a decision to take the federal funds and give them to Comptroller John Sharp's office for disbursement. "In my opinion, that is turning the public schools over to the federal government."

Hasie adds Texas is ranked 50th in the amount of money the state provides for public education but ranks third in the amount of local taxpayers dollars being used for education.

"The local control of public education will be weakened if the Texas Legislature approves letting the federal money go through the comptroller's office."

"I'm a happy man," he told a reporter.

"I'm going to miss Congress — more than Congress will miss me," he added. "But I'm leaving with a great sense of pride."

Pickle's colleagues remembered him Tuesday for his ability to craft compromise, his bipartisan spirit and his tireless dedication to the job.

"I can't think of a single member of Congress that I've served with or that I have served with that is a better example of what a representative should be," said Rep. Charles Stenholm, D-Stamford. "Even today he works as hard as he did the first day that I met him."

can be resubmitted.

Board member Bob Scott said he visited Wright Fibers a while ago and there has been some progress made.

Also during the meeting, members voted to unanimously to select Coahoma State Bank as its depository for the next two-year period ending Sept. 30, 1996.

The other item on the agenda was an update on the progress of the selection committee's search for a new executive director for Moore Board.

Fillingim said the list of applicants was narrowed to 11 and then four.

Board members met in executive session to discuss the final four applicants, but no action was taken as a result.

McLaughlin told City Council member Tuesday night that interviews for the final four candidates will begin sometime next week.

Moughon was recently acting superintendent at the BSSH and will take to El Paso experience in both community programs and state facilities. He has previously managed community programs for the 23 counties in West Texas served by the BSSH and has worked for Tarrant County MHMR Services in Fort Worth.

Moughon is replacing Bee Butler at the El Paso Center. Butler was recently named superintendent of the Terrell State Hospital, east of Dallas. A permanent director is expected to be named in early 1995.

Hasie adds if public education was the most important priority in the state and more money was spent on it, there would not be such a great need for more prisons and crime prevention programs.

The State Board of Education is comprised of 10 Democrats and five Republicans. Recently the board split along party lines to adopt new health textbooks.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Lawsuit filed by development project

AUSTIN (AP) — Austin city officials say they will vigorously defend an ordinance aimed at protecting the environment against a property development company that is suing to have the ordinance deemed unconstitutional.

FM Properties Operating Co., whose proposed 4,000-acre Barton Creek development became a lightning rod for environmental politics several years ago, filed a lawsuit Friday in federal court in Austin. No hearing date has been set.

The lawsuit challenges the city's administration of property development rules, namely a water quality ordinance known as Save Our Springs. The lawsuit also contends that the city discriminated against FM Properties by refusing to approve a site plan for one of the company's residential subdivisions.

Group wants voters to think about the children

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas voters need to pay attention to State Board of Education races for the sake of their children, says the People for the American Way Action Fund.

The group — which describes itself as a non-partisan, non-profit group promoting tolerance and civic participation — is launching a project to urge citizens to be informed and vote in November.

"What is at risk is the future of Texas' next generation of school children," said Mike Hudson, general counsel and vice president of the group.

Seven of the 15 Education Board seats are up this year, including six contested races. Incumbent Monte Hasle of Lubbock, a Republican, has no challenger.

The Education Board helps shape state education policy and decides which textbooks can be purchased with state money by school districts. It currently includes 10 Democrats and five Republicans.

Lawsuit filed to remove judge

AUSTIN (AP) — A county judge who was reprimanded for declaring several people free of Texas and federal laws is now the target of a lawsuit seeking his removal.

Kerr County Judge William Stacy should not be allowed to hold office because he issued eight judicial orders in May which declared various Kerr County residents "sovereigns," Kerr County Attorney David Motley said Tuesday.

The orders were later voided by Stacy. "He more or less loaned the prestige and power of his office to a group of friends to determine what they want to do," Motley said of Stacy.

One of those receiving an order from Stacy tried to use it to challenge a municipal court's jurisdiction over him in 10 traffic cases, officials said.

Lawyers trying to improve their image

AUSTIN (AP) — Call it legal rehab.

Jim Branton, president of the State Bar of Texas, acknowledged Tuesday that lawyers have an image problem and suggested that counseling may be the solution.

"Lawyers do have a poor image, and for good reason," said Branton, an attorney from San Antonio. "We're a major part of the problem. I have to admit that in some cases, it may have taken a ton of bricks falling on our collective heads before we lawyers finally got the point."

Beginning next month in El Paso, the State Bar will offer lawyers who have received conduct complaints from clients the option of going before a panel of colleagues for counseling.

Showdown over insurance rates begins

AUSTIN (AP) — Consumers and the insurance industry Tuesday squared-off over automobile insurance rates with insurers seeking an increase and consumers recommending a decrease.

The hearing on benchmark auto rates is expected to last several days. The hearing examiners will make a recommendation to Insurance Commissioner Robert Hunter.

Hunter will make a final decision on the benchmark auto rates.

Under the flexible rating system, companies can price auto policies as much as 30 percent below and 30 percent above the benchmark without state approval.

The Office of Public Insurance Counsel called for a 5.7 percent decrease in the benchmark rate for private passenger automobile insurance, while insurers have asked for increases ranging from 9.8 percent to 15.7 percent.

Under the current benchmark rate, a male driver 25 or older in Travis County who drives a 1993 Ford Taurus pays $550 a year for a standard insurance policy, according to the Texas Department of Insurance. Rates vary among the 52 rating territories statewide.

Under the OPIC recommendation, that benchmark rate would drop to $518.65. The insurers' recommendations would raise the premiums to a range of $603.90 to $636.35 per year.

"With every percentage point increase in rates, Texas consumers pay an additional $47 million in insurance premiums," said OPIC's Mark Kincaid.

"Before they are allowed to take this money out of consumers' pockets, insurers must be able to prove that an increase is justified. They won't be able to do it at this hearing," he said.

Testimony clicks for officers who bring child back safely

DALLAS (AP) — An alleged kidnapping has ended with police rescuing a 6-year-old girl who was found naked and hands taped together when she was pulled out of harm's way.

Two Dallas undercover officers are being commended for their good police work in the case, which began about 5 p.m. Tuesday when they responded to a call about a child pulled into a car as she walked with her sister near their far south-east Dallas home.

"Stranger-to-stranger child abductions are a very rare event," said Dallas Assistant Police Chief Marlin Price. "Even rarer is a couple of officers that can remember information, you know, 6-months-old and connect suspects and suspect descriptions when they hear them and act so efficiently that they recover a child before any harm has come to her."

Dallas Senior Cpl. Vidal Olivarez said things began falling into place when he and Senior Cpl. Kenny Sowell talked with the older girl, who told them her sister was abducted by a balding, bespectacled man in a small black four-door car.

"As soon as she said that, I snapped on what we had six months earlier," Olivarez said of a prior indecency with a child report that resulted in no charges.

The officers went back to the police station and located the suspect's picture, then split up — with Sowell heading toward the suspect's Mesquite apartment and Olivarez heading to compile a photograph lineup, the officer said.

Once at the complex, Sowell saw the suspect get out of the car, open the passenger's side door and carry the child upstairs in a red sheet or blanket, police said.

Apparently upon hearing a police helicopter overhead, the suspect returned downstairs where he was arrested by Sowell about 6:20 p.m., police said. A short while later Sowell found the 6-year-old girl in the apartment, naked and wrapped in the red covering with her hands taped together, Olivarez said.

Health care reform is dead, but only for now

Health care reform, at least as President Bill Clinton envisioned it, is now a truly dead issue in the Legislature.

Monday, Sen. George Mitchell officially gave up the fight to try and pass some version of health care reform during this session of the Legislature.

Given that the issue was dying a lingering death by bickering, in both houses of Congress, the end to the debate on health care comes as no real surprise.

As we all know, health care reform will be an issue in the upcoming campaign season.

Health care reform has been a divisive issue for the American public, with as many wanting it as those that don't.

And, partisan politics haven't helped cure the divisiveness, no matter which party, if either, is to blame for the failure of Congress to pass any reform package.

As the issue is played out during the elections, voters should take the time to acquaint themselves with the issue and plans. We will be seeing them again, in 1995.

President Clinton has vowed not to give up the fight for the issue which he made the cornerstone of his campaign.

Given the acrimony this issue has stirred, don't look for an early resolution.

Know the city's building codes

A man's home is his castle, according to the old saying.

But when that castle is within a city's jurisdiction, there may be some restrictions on what the king and queen can do.

A few of the city's codes are frequently violated by homeowners, perhaps inadvertently. Violations can lead to warnings and even fines, so it behooves property owners to learn what their responsibilities are.

According to members of the Proud Citizens Committee, a cleanup and beautification group working with the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, code violations are a major cause of visual pollution in our city.

If you are guilty of any infractions, take step to correct them. It will improve the city's appearance (and remember, it's the law!). If you see others violating the codes, write or phone the Code Enforcement Office at the City of Big Spring.

Here are some of the most common code violations:

1) Did you know that the property owner, both private and business, is responsible for clean up of the alley behind the property? Alleys are also not to be used for storage of lumber, junk, old furniture or appliances. This is the rule no matter if the lot is vacant or the building unoccupied.

2) In residential areas where the city provides roll-out containers, occupants of the residences should roll out the containers on trash collection day and return them to a place off the street after trash service.

3) It is unlawful for the owner of any lot in the city to allow weeds and tall grass to go unmowed, or to allow brush and junk to accumulate. It does not matter whether the lot is vacant or the buildings unoccupied. Inappropriate items should not be stored in the front yards of residence; this would include appliances, furniture (other than lawn or outdoor furniture) or junk of any kind, including inoperable cars.

4) Junk vehicles are a public nuisance. A property owner is in violation of city codes if he allows a junk vehicle to be located where it is visible to the public, or is in the public right-of-way (street). Such vehicles are an eyesore, invite vandalism and creates a safety hazard.

5) The posting of hand bills, placards, garage sale signs or any written matter on any house, wall, pole, fence or other property without the permission of the owner is prohibited.

In some cases of code violations, the city can issue a notice and if the property owner does not respond, the city has the right to clean up the property and present the owner with a bill.

The city codes are designed to make the community a safer, cleaner, more attractive place to live in. In other words, a suitable kingdom for your castle.

U.S.-Russia trade enters new phase

By TOM RAUM

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Much of the fanfare, the tension, the high-stakes drama of Moscow-Washington summits is gone with the Cold War. Business as usual is becoming the usual business of these high-level meetings.

Throw weights? Megatons? Trust but verify? The terms of the arms race are yielding to the jargon of the corporate boardroom: joint ventures, capitalization, agribusiness, venture capital. Forget about MIRVs, SLICMS and ICBMs. The new alphabet soup of summits includes AT&T, ARCO, OPIC and GATT.

A highlight of today's session between Russian President Boris Yeltsin and President Clinton was to be an Oval Office session with three U.S. business executives.

That was to be followed the signing of a "Partnership for Economic Progress" statement by Clinton and Yeltsin pledging closer economic ties between the two nations.

This marks an important new phase in relations. Right after the collapse of the Soviet empire, the primary economic consideration was Western aid to prop up the new struggling democracies.

Now, both political and economic stability seem to be coming — if slowly — to Russia.

"We're in a new episode in our history when Russia does not need any additional help,"

★ WASHINGTON TODAY

Oleg Davydov, Russia's minister of foreign economic relations, said at a trade agreement signing ceremony Tuesday.

True, weapons and conflicts like the one in Bosnia remain an essential ingredient of U.S.-Russian meetings.

Moscow, after all, still controls the world's second largest arsenal of nuclear weapons. But the time is long past when the fate of the world hung in the balance in any clash between the two nations.

"Today, Russia is a threat to no one," Yeltsin told the United Nations earlier this week.

Clinton told Yeltsin in welcoming remarks that Russian-American summits used to be "moments of high drama and sometimes disappointing results. ... Today we meet not as adversaries but as partners in the quest for a more prosperous and peaceful planet."

But if Russia is no longer a military superpower, it also has a long way to go to be an economic superpower.

Last year, the United States sold $3 billion in goods in Russia and bought $1.7 billion of Russian products.

Compare that with the figures for China, which remains a Communist regime but one with a growing industrial base. Last year, the United States exported $8.7 billion in goods to China and imported $31.5 billion in goods from China.

"Russia has a long way to go," said Robert Hormats, a trade expert and executive with Goldman-Sachs, a New York investment house. Hormats was among business executives who met with Yeltsin in New York on Monday.

He said Yeltsin expressed a strong desire to become a full member of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, a world trade organization; and to have all remaining U.S. laws that discriminate against Russia stricken from the books.

Even so, Russia's efforts to fast forward into a world-class economy is hampered because it produces little in terms of manufactured goods that are competitive on world markets. Most of its exports remain raw materials.

The United States and American companies already have made some tentative steps toward helping.

Commerce Secretary Ron Brown on Tuesday announced a series of new agreements to promote U.S. investment, including establishing a Russian business center to provide information on U.S. suppliers. Brown also announced $1.5 million in new grants to help U.S. companies get a foothold there.

Estonian ferry sinks

■ Most of 850 passengers presumed dead

TURKU, Finland (AP) — Rescuers searched in high winds and choppy seas for survivors of an Estonian ferry that capsized and sank this morning with about 850 people aboard. Most were missing and feared dead.

Only about 90 people had been rescued from the 54-degree water seven hours after the ferry Estonia sank in the Baltic Sea, Finnish authorities said. They said rescue workers found bodies, but declined to say how many.

The sinking threatened to become one of the worst passenger ship disasters in recent years.

"We saw about 40 life rafts," said Swedish rescue helicopter pilot Stefan Carneros. "Unfortunately, most of them were empty." He said waves in the area were up to 20 feet high.

Stormy seas and winds topping 56 mph were hindering rescue operations near the site of the disaster, about 23 miles from the Finnish island of Uto off the country's southwestern coast.

There was no immediate explanation of what caused the 515-foot Estonia to capsize.

"A vessel of this size should have no problem in these winds," Finnish maritime inspector Esa Saari said in the Finnish port of Turku, the base for rescue efforts.

But news reports speculated that trucks and cars on board may have broken loose in the storm, and that their shifting weight caused the vessel to capsize. A spokesman for the ship's owners told Estonian radio that authorities believe both engines stopped simultaneously, leaving the ferry vulnerable to the strong wind and high waves.

Estonian authorities said the ship's final radio message was: "We are sinking! ... The engines have stopped!"

Ships and helicopters from Finland and Sweden were at the scene. Estonian authorities were sending rescue crews. At least five other passenger ferries also were trying to find victims in the stormy, dark waters.

The Estonia sank sometime after midnight. The ferry sent out a distress signal before it went down. Some news reports said the ship sank in five minutes, while others put the time at closer to 30 minutes.

Haiti takes steps toward democracy

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Haiti takes a hesitant step toward democracy today when parliament, shuttered for months, reopens to debate a proposed amnesty for the army officers who overthrew President Jean-Bertrand Aristide.

Amnesty for the bloody coup and the brutal human rights abuses that followed was part of the last-minute deal between the junta that seized power three years ago and an American delegation led by former President Jimmy Carter. The Sept. 18 deal forestalled a U.S. invasion.

U.S. troops were to provide security at parliament as well as individually for certain deputies and senators, some of whom are only now emerging from hiding in Haiti or self-imposed exile in the United States and Canada.

Plague victims awaiting care

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — A huge banner proclaimed "Plague Control Room" at the capital's train station, and police stood by Tuesday to rush the sick to the hospital. There, feverish sufferers shivered while awaiting care; one ailing man tried to sneak away.

Officials urged calm, but as plague spread from western Surat to New Delhi and across the nation to Calcutta, authorities also escalated efforts to find the sick, rush antibiotics to pharmacies and spray insecticide to kill disease-carrying fleas.

TV broadcasts advised that plague can be treated with common antibiotics like tetracycline.

Some pharmacies in New Delhi and Bombay ran out of antibiotics, and New Delhi officials released a list of 200 stores that were well-stocked and would be open 24 hours a day. In Bombay, officials raided two pharmacies because they were selling antibiotics at black-market prices.

Confirmed cases of pneumonic plague were reported outside Surat, the port in Gujarat state that an estimated 400,000 people fled after the disease struck a week ago. Nine cases were reported in New Delhi and Calcutta, hundreds of miles east of Surat.

Jordan gives up West Bank links; avoids more conflict with PLO

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Jordan renounced its religious links to the West Bank Tuesday in a move apparently aimed at avoiding further conflict with the PLO, but maintained its spiritual claim to Jerusalem.

A statement issued by Prime Minister Abdul-Salam Majali said Jordan was also dismissing hundreds of employees of nearly 40 religious sites in the West Bank.

The statement, read on national television, stressed that Jordan would continue to "support the Palestinians by all means and ways, and will not allow any side to harm the deep-rooted relations between the Palestinian and Jordanian people."

It said the action was taken on King Hussein's orders.

"I think it's a good step in the right direction," said Hassan Tahboub, Islamic affairs minister in the Palestinian self-rule government.

"Only the people who made sacrifices here should be responsible for the holy sites," Abdel Raouf Tibani from the West Bank town of Hebron said as he stood outside the Tomb of the Patriarchs, which is holy to both Muslims and Jews.

Relations between Jordan and the Palestine National Authority was strained after Jordan and Israel signed a declaration July 25 in which Israel acknowledged Jordan's special role in caring for Jerusalem's Muslim sites.

Palestinians viewed it as an attempt to undermine their claim to Jerusalem as the capital of a future Palestinian state.

Jordan ruled the West Bank and east Jerusalem for 17 years before they were seized by Israel in the 1967 Middle East war. It severed legal and administrative links to the West Bank in 1988. Hussein maintained his guardianship of the Muslim holy sites in the West Bank and Jerusalem.

Jordan spent about $9 million a year on maintaining the holy shrines and on employees' salaries.

Tahboub said he was confident the dispute over Jerusalem could be settled and hinted that the Palestinians wouldn't insist on exclusive control in talks with Jordan.

Berbers threaten 'total' war if kidnapped singer not returned

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — Ethnic Berbers mobilized their supporters Tuesday and threatened "total war" unless a popular singer and activist feared kidnapped by Islamic militants is freed unharmed.

The Berber Cultural Movement set a Wednesday morning deadline for the release of Lounes Matoub, known for his opposition to Muslim fundamentalism. The government, calling for calm, warned against vigilante justice.

Matoub was kidnapped Sunday at a roadside cafe by about 15 armed men shouting Islamic slogans, according to movement officials. Witnesses said the gang harassed clients for drinking alcohol and "opposing the law of God."

On Monday, police found Matoub's empty car but no sign of the singer.

There was no claim of responsibility for the abduction in the fiercely independent Berber region of Kabyle. But it threatened to escalate violence that has left at least 10,000 people dead in a 2-year-old Islamic insurgency.

Algeria's government blamed Matoub's kidnapping on "elements hostile to Algeria and its unity ... (attempting) to sow trouble and division among the population."

Tensions have been mounting in the mountainous region east of Algiers, where tens of thousands have boycotted schools to press for making Berber the country's official language.

It is spoken by an estimated 9 million Algerians, about one-third of the population. Arabic is the official language.

The Berbers, Algeria's largest minority, formed self-defense committees in some villages earlier this year to fight the Islamic insurgency. A movement official said such militias "could take the offensive" in response to the kidnapping.

Clinton, Yeltsin discuss nukes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Clinton and Boris Yeltsin are mapping ways to guard Russia's nuclear material and to attract American capitalists to bet more bucks on the rebounding Russian economy. Several announcements were due today on improving nuclear storage facilities and training Russians to fend off nuclear smugglers. American investors, meanwhile, will be getting more protection of their capital, with the aim of doubling their stake in Russia's economy from $1 billion to $2 billion.

Russian Foreign Ministry spokesman Georgy Karasin exulted Tuesday night that Russia and the United States had completed the transition "from the times of Cold War to real practical partnership."

What would Lenin think?

WASHINGTON (AP) — What in the world would Lenin think? The glittery White House dinner to honor Russia's president began with a carefully choreographed entrance and a stiffly posed photograph that soon gave way to a warm celebration of the first-name friendship of Bill and Hillary and Boris and Naina.

By the time it was over, the foursome strolled out the front door of the White House arm-in-arm like longtime pals who had just taken in dinner and a movie. (In tuxedos and gowns, of course, with 130 friends joining them.)

Clinton called it a "remarkable night of friendship and cooperation."

Senior CIA officers to be disciplined

WASHINGTON (AP) — CIA Director R. James Woolsey has decided, after an internal investigation of the Aldrich Ames spy case, that senior officers who failed to recognize Ames' betrayals will be punished, officials familiar with his intentions say.

Those to be disciplined include retired CIA officers, according to officials who agreed to discuss the secretive matter on condition they not be identified.

Funding demand raises questions

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — An advisory committee's call for federal funding of human embryo research prompted a demand that the government attempt to answer the fundamental question of when human life begins.

An answer to the question of life's beginning could effect both embryo research and the nation's position on the right to abortion, experts say.

The committee, in a report released Tuesday, concluded that it was in the public interest for the National Institutes of Health to fund experiments with fertilized human eggs during the very early stages of development. The report is the first step in a government process that could end a 15-year ban on federal funding for human embryo research.

The committee said such research should have severe restrictions because a human embryo "possesses qualities requiring moral respect."

Los Angeles City Coroners Office personnel remove the body of a woman from an apartment building as a neighbor, Maria Garcia, observes the scene. Three young children lived off scraps in their apartment for about three days as their mother lay dead on the floor. The children are listed in good condition.

Children survive alone as mom lay dead from a heart attack

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Three children apparently lived off scraps of food in their apartment for up to three days while their mother lay dead on the floor, the telephone next to her hand.

The youngsters, ages 4, 11/2 and 4 months, were discovered Tuesday after the oldest child knocked on a neighbor's door, looking sad, said 14-year-old Perla Napoles.

"I said, 'Where's your mama?'" Perla said. "He said, 'She had a heart attack.'"

Neighbors had been suspicious because of a foul smell coming from the apartment and the loud volume of a television, which wasn't turned off for several days, said police Detective Charles Salazar.

"When the manager went to knock on the door, the children would only say that their mother was asleep," he said.

He said the woman apparently died of a heart attack, and investigators found heart medication next to her body.

Flexibility given in protecting water

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House approved compromise legislation Tuesday giving states and municipalities greater flexibility in protecting drinking water.

The bill breezed through the House by voice vote after key differences were worked out in negotiations last week.

The House bill differs significantly from a version passed by the Senate last May and it is unclear whether the two measures can be reconciled in the final weeks before Congress adjourns.

The House-passed bill changes the way the Environmental Protection Agency sets drinking-water standards, providing greater flexibility for smaller communities that have complained that federal requirements are too cumbersome and costly.

Water systems serving fewer than 10,000 people would be exempt from some water-quality requirements, be allowed to use alternative and cheaper methods for meeting standards, and be relieved from certain water-monitoring requirements.

The EPA estimates that 80 percent of the nation's water systems serve fewer than 10,000 people.

Water-quality regulations also would be eased for larger municipalities. Treatment facilities no longer would have to test for chemicals highly unlikely to be present because of geography or other circumstances.

The bill also would create a revolving fund — a total of $3.6 billion over four years — to help states and municipalities improve treatment facilities. The fund would make available $600 million during the next fiscal year and $1 billion each year after that through fiscal 1997.

The EPA no longer would be required arbitrarily to set standards for a specific number of contaminants every three years. Instead, EPA would concentrate regulations on selected contaminants that present the greatest public-health concern.

Simpson's first words reveal a bit of the pain

LOS ANGELES (AP) — O.J. Simpson finally broke his silence to reveal a tiny part of his pain.

In his first words to reporters since his life began to unravel more than three months ago, Simpson said Tuesday that he sang "A new day has begun," a line from the musical "Cats," because he misses his children.

"That song really gets to me because it says 'touch me' and I can't touch my kids," Simpson quietly told the three pool reporters, including one from The Associated Press, who were covering jury selection.

His unsolicited remark referred to the song "Memory," which he sang Monday in the courthouse.

Texas Republicans sign 'Contract with America'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A national Republican platform pledging speedy House votes on term limits, tax cuts and congressional reform is one way of promising Americans actions — not rhetoric, Texas Republicans say.

Seventeen Texas GOP congressional challengers were among more than 300 candidates who endorsed the 10-point

"Contract With America" at a rally in front of the Capitol on Tuesday.

"We are showing people in writing what we will do once we are elected and inviting them to throw us out if we don't keep our word," said Mac Thornberry, a GOP candidate opposing Democratic incumbent Bill Sarpalius in the Panhandle's 13th District.

The manifesto calls for a balanced budget amendment, welfare reform, crime-fighting measures and several tax cuts that Republicans will seek votes on within the first 100 days of the new Congress if the GOP regains control of the House.

Republicans would have to gain 40 seats to wrest control of the House from Democrats, who have held the majority since

Democrats denounced the plan as a costly gimmick, saying it smacks of "warmed-over Reaganism."

But Republicans contended that the contract is a way of proving their commitment to the American people.

"I think it's the first time political candidates have said 'Hold us accountable,'" said

Donna Peterson, who is making her third bid against Lufkin Democratic incumbent Charlie Wilson. "I have asked the people of East Texas to use this contract as a report card on my performance and if I fail ... I won't run again."

Said Ernest Anderson, who is running against Democratic incumbent Pete Geren of Fort Worth: "When was the last time you got to look at a candidate before you elected him?"

"This is the best thing that's come down the pike since butter on bread," Anderson added.

House Minority Whip Newt Gingrich, whose speech stirred the flag-waving, banner-carrying GOP crowd, said the contract "is a first step toward renewing American civilization."

Salvos fly as Bush, Richards get hitting

AUSTIN (AP) — Republican candidate George W. Bush's campaign says Gov. Ann Richards' attack on his business record is "Texas politics at its mudslinging worst." Richards' camp says the Bush record is fair — if not flattering — game.

In a new television commercial, Richards on Tuesday accused Bush of being a bad businessman who was an official of companies that lost more than $371 million.

Bush immediately released a television commercial in which he says issues "should be the focus of the campaign, not personal attacks."

Richards, who opinion polls indicate is in a near dead heat with Bush, criticized his business background with a television commercial and mailings to news media outlets across the state.

"For most Texans, there is one standard of success in business: profit. There is one standard for failure: loss. That's the bottom line," said Richards spokesman Chuck McDonald.

"This ($371 million in losses) is Mr. Bush's business record, which he says is his qualification to be governor. We think the people of Texas will think otherwise," McDonald said.

Bush spokeswoman Karen Hughes said that contrary to the Richards' claims, Bush's record is one of business success.

"It is the height of irresponsibility for the governor of the state of Texas to take to the airwaves and allege that three viable Texas companies which employ Texans and are worth a combined total of $400 million are somehow failures," she said.

In offering its analysis of Bush's business background, Richards' staff said they didn't include the Texas Rangers baseball team. That's because Bush, the managing general partner, owns only 1.8 percent of the team, McDonald said.

They did examine Securities and Exchange Commission documents, stockholder reports and records of the other companies during the time Bush was affiliated with them, offering this assessment:

Most losses came from the Maryland-based Caterair International, an airline food business, which lost $285 million in 1990-1994, the Richards campaign charged.

Harken Energy lost $64.9 million in 1986-1993, Tom Brown Inc. has lost $18.6 million since 1989, and Arbusto Energy-Bush Exploration lost $3.1 million in 1979-1984, the campaign said.

Bush served on the Caterair board, merged his own company with Harken and served on its board, sits on the Tom Brown board, and began his career when he incorporated Arbusto-Bush in the 1970s.

Richards distributed an inch-thick report on Bush's business dealings entitled "The Bottom Line." The report said, "George W. Bush cannot claim innocence in the loss of millions of dollars in stockholders' funds for these companies. His titles varied from chief executive officer to president to member of the board of directors."

Lady Steers spike Andrews

By STEVE REAGAN
Sports writer

For one night at least, the dreaded second-game collapse never happened. The Big Spring Lady Steers, who have developed a tendency of collapsing in the middle of their matches this year, put that rep to bed with easily their best match of the year, steam-rolling district-leading Andrews 15-11, 15-7 at Steer Gym Tuesday night.

The two teams came into the match with polar-opposite District 4-4A records; Andrews was 3-0, while the Lady Steers were 0-2. But Big Spring never played like cellar-dwellers Tuesday, dominating the Lady Mustangs in every aspect of the contest.

On a night when literally everybody played well for the Lady Steers, three players stood out.

Sophomore LaToshia Wilbert was the top hitter, collecting eight kills; junior Molly Smith was deadly accurate from the service line with five aces and senior Laura Elrod was a mainstay on defense, digging numerous Andrews kill attempts. "We did not have a weak spot all night," Big Spring coach Lois Ann McKenzie said.

Big Spring (8-10) was fueled in large part by emotion against arch-rival Andrews (16-9).

"I have to admit, the people we wanted to beat the most was Andrews," Elrod said. "Plus, they were undefeated (in district), so it was a pleasure to beat them."

"For one, they said they would beat us, and that made me mad," Wilbert said.

The Lady Steers trailed only once the entire night, after a kill by Prescilla Rampone made it 7-6 Andrews in the first game. But after Wilbert allowed Big Spring to regain service with the first of her kills, she and Smith went to work.

Two Smith aces and a net call against Rampone made the score 9-7 Big Spring, then Wilbert collected three kills in a span that saw the Lady Steers increase their lead to 13-7.

Andrews drew back to within 13-11 on four straight points, but Angie Powell served out the game for Big Spring.

No one on the Lady Steers' bench was celebrating just yet. After all, the second game, Big Spring's Achilles heel all season, had yet to be played.

"We've had a problem with being excited and intense in the first game, and not carrying it over to the final games," Elrod said. "Tonight, we finally got it right. We started out excited and carried it over to the end."

It was almost that easy. Andrews stayed close for the first half of the second game and drew even at 7 when Big Spring's Kathy Smith was called for a lifted ball. But that proved to be last call for the Lady Mustangs.

Big Spring began pulling away with three straight points off Kristi Birrell's serve. After Kathy Smith atoned for her earlier error with a kill to force a side out, she added another point on serve by forcing an Andrews return error.

With the Lady Steers leading 12-7, Molly Smith returned to the service line and quickly put an end to matters, serving three straight points to close out the match.

BSHS cross country team comes home

By DAVE HARGRAVE
Sports Editor

Please excuse Randy Britton if he seems preoccupied this week. The Big Spring cross country coach has plenty on his mind.

The Big Spring Invitational will be Saturday morning at the McMahon-Wrinkle Airpark, and in the meantime Britton is keeping track of his runners' times, their workouts and the number of applications mailed from schools wanting to come to the event. After a long summer of training, Big Spring finally has its first home meet of the season.

Britton will see less of this meet than any of the road events - when you're meet director, you have to do a lot more than coach your runners - but what he will be seeing could be a preview of the District 4-4A Championships, which will be at the Airpark Oct. 29.

All of Big Spring's 4-4A opponents will be at the Invitational except Fort Stockton, which doesn't have a team. Britton said other teams that will run at the Invitational include San Angelo Central, Midland High, Greenwood, Garden City, Ozona, Grady, Stanton, Coahoma, Rotan and Water Valley.

Big Spring's girls' team is young and inexperienced - last year's star, Evy Perez, graduated. Britton said the girls are at least a year away from district championship contention, but that's not the case with the boys, who won BSHS's first-ever boys' cross country district title last season.

Joe Franklin, last year's district champion and state qualifier, is the top returner, and he's followed closely by Robert Rios.

The Lady Steers' top runner this season has been Marisol Carnero, a freshman. Carnero took eighth at the Seminole Invitational, and she has Britton drawing comparisons with former Lady Steer stars.

"Right now she's as fast as any freshman I've ever had, and that's talking about Mimi Regalado, a three-time state qualifier. And she's definitely as fast as Evy was," Britton said.

The course at the Airpark will be under scrutiny almost as much as the runners. Big Spring is hosting the Big Spring Relays Oct. 15, and then the district meet, so the Steers and Lady Steers should feel at least familiar with the course by the end of October.

Will they feel comfortable? Probably not.

"They're going to be on a rough course. This is a true test of cross country right here," Britton said. "This is probably one of the truest tough courses, as far as the ups and downs, and not a lot of grass. It's really what I think cross country ought to be."

Britton said his teams will start practicing at the Airpark next week, but only once or twice a week. He doesn't want to burn out his runners on a course they aren't crazy about. By the time the district meet comes around, Britton hopes his runners will have, if not a like for the Airpark course, a friendly familiarity. That could work to his teams' advantage.

"I hope the other district teams' runners here Saturday come off the course and say, 'I don't ever want to see that course again.' That could work out really well for us."

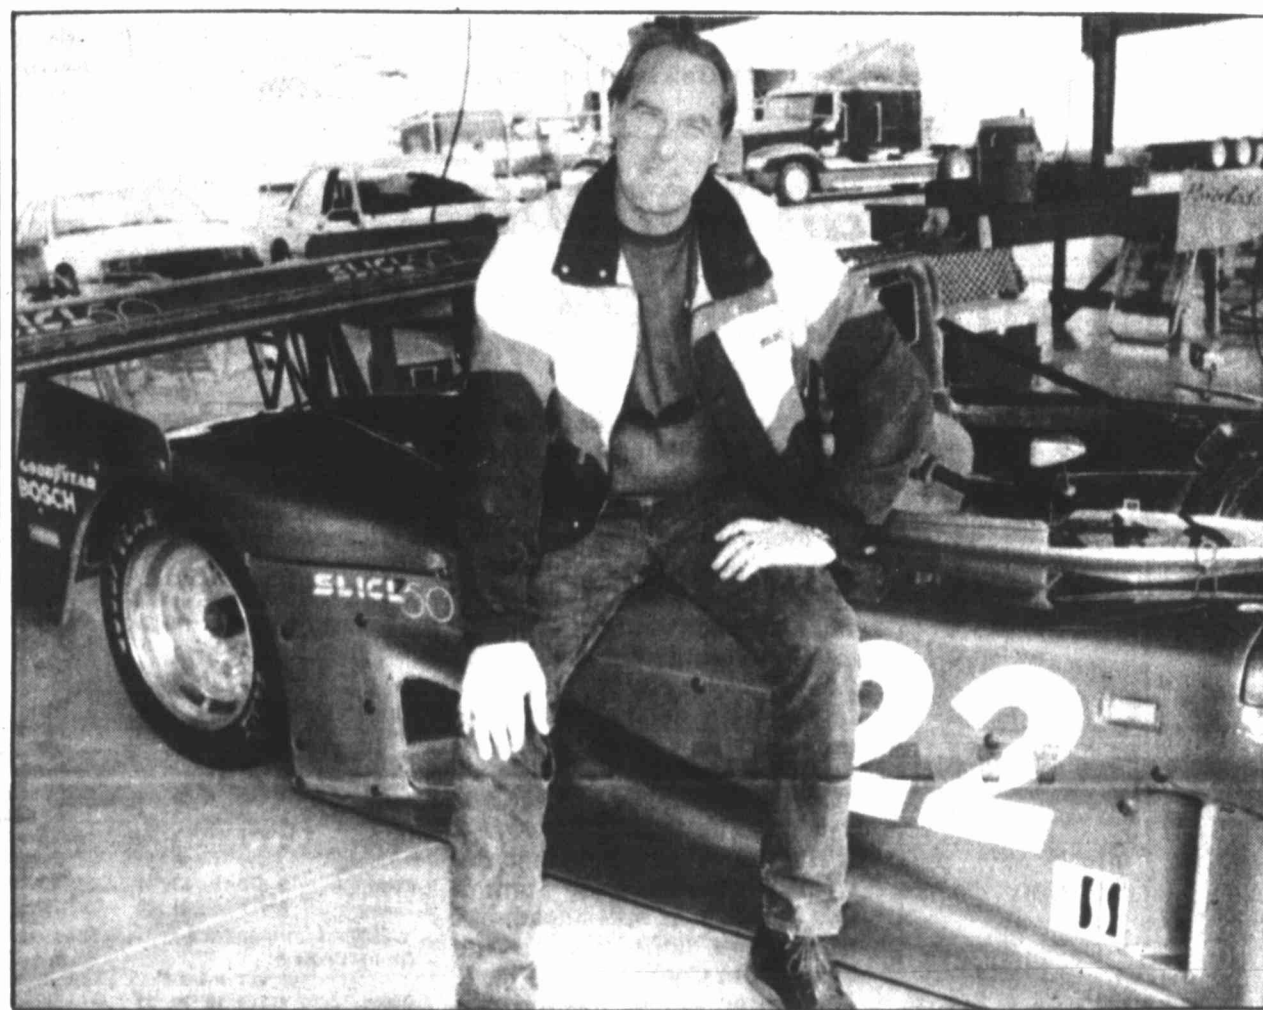

The Big Spring Invitational starts at 10 a.m. with the Division II girls' race. Division II is for Class 2A, 1A and junior varsity runners, while Division I is for Class 3A, 4A and 5A schools.

Admission is free.

Any hope of hockey season starting Saturday seems lost

TORONTO (AP) — NHL commissioner Gary Bettman seems resigned to the fact that the start of the season will be postponed. Players are not giving him any reason to think otherwise.

Bettman gave the players' union a new proposal during eight hours of negotiations Tuesday, but union boss Bob Goodenow described it as "unacceptable."

"We still have a lot of work to do and I am getting concerned that time is getting short," said Bettman before he headed back to New York to await a call from Goodenow to see if and when talks will resume.

"As time marches on I will be more and more concerned. We have some wide rivers to cross. Are they so wide and so deep that they are incapable of being crossed? I hope not and I think not but the more time we spend together and the less progress we make, my level of concern rises."

Bettman has said he will decide Friday whether to postpone the start of the season, which is scheduled for Saturday.

The NHL's new proposal deals with a tax plan to help finance small-market teams. Goodenow called it a variation on an old theme.

Los Angeles Kings defenseman Marty McSorley warned that the players are ready and willing to stay out the whole season if owners do not budge on the issue of taxing salaries.

"We're prepared to shut it down," he said, in reference to the season.

Players interviewed at exhibition game sites were disenchanted by the recent developments.

"One person (Bettman) has taken the bull by the horns," said Kings' center Wayne Gretzky. "I think he has backed himself into a corner by saying there will be no hockey on Saturday. It is very disappointing."

"It doesn't look like much progress," said goaltender John Vanbiesbrouck, team representative for the Florida Panthers. "We put together a lucrative package to answer their concerns about the lower-market teams and they didn't like it."

Tuesday's session brought the total to 15 hours the NHL and NHLPA have worked this week toward negotiating a collective agreement to replace one that expired Sept. 15, 1993.

BSHS tennis team falls to Midland

By DAVE HARGRAVE
Sports Editor

Several Big Spring tennis players went home to cold suppers Tuesday.

In one of the longest dual matches you're ever going to see, Midland High defeated Big Spring 10 matches to 8. It all came down to the final match - No. 1 boys' singles - between Big Spring freshman Hsiao-Hsuan Li and Midland's Shane Burgin.

Burgin came on strong in the end and won 7-5, 5-7, 7-5 in a match that didn't end until nearly 9:30 p.m. The dual match began at 4 p.m. Had Li won, the match count would have been tied at 9, but Big Spring would have been the winner because it would have won more sets.

"This isn't a district match, and we played a 5A school, so this kind of loss isn't going to stick in our craw like it would if it were a district match," said Big Spring coach Ralph Davis. "We've been playing a lot of tough teams, and we're used to this, and our players are taking it in stride."

Davis was particularly pleased with No. 2 boys' singles player Colby Wegman, a junior. Wegman defeated Midland's Nathan Lawrence 6-4, 6-2. Lawrence is an accomplished United States Tennis Association player.

"Colby Wegman's play stood out," Davis said. "He played the best tennis I've ever seen him play. He beat a USTA Super Championship player."

Midland won five of the nine girls' matches, but Big Spring was hampered by the loss of freshman Monica Villarreal, who didn't play because of a pulled stomach muscle. Her older sister, senior Maria Villarreal, had a good day however, winning No. 2 singles 6-1, 6-1 over Kallie Kerr and teaming with Brandi Gutierrez to win No. 3 doubles.

Big Spring has more important matters ahead when Fort Stockton comes to the Figure 7 Tennis Center for the opening of District 4-4A play. Big Spring was the undefeated district champion in team tennis last season, and the goal could be within reach again.

BU target of charges

DALLAS (AP) — A former Baylor University basketball recruit says he was provided a rent-free apartment in Waco in the summer of 1993 and that head coach Darrel Johnson was aware of it.

Jason Ervin was one of four junior college transfers whom Baylor was required to hold out of competition last year after their transcripts were called into question.

Ervin told Southwest Conference investigators about the apartment after receiving immunity from eligibility sanctions. The Dallas Morning News reported today.

Johnson has denied any direct involvement in NCAA infractions. He was out of town Tuesday on a recruiting trip, and unavailable for comment, said Tommy Newsom, assistant sports information director at Baylor.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Local football season filled with surprises

JV, freshmen both defeated

Big Spring was not as fortunate in the junior varsity and freshmen matches as the varsity Tuesday, dropping three decisions to Andrews.

The JV Lady Steers (1-12) fell 15-4, 15-13. Playing well for Big Spring were Stephanie Jones and Amanda Hensley.

The Big Spring "Black" freshman squad fell to 3-4 with a 15-12, 10-15, 15-12 loss to Andrews, while the "Gold" team dropped a 15-4, 15-13 decision to the Lady Mustangs. Playing well for the Big Spring freshmen were Stacey Villa, Gina Valdez, Keesha Lott and Summer Leubner.

Goliad, Runnels spike C-City

Goliad Middle School and Runnels Junior High won in volleyball action Monday. All wins came against Colorado City.

At Goliad, the 'A' team (5-5) won 15-1, 15-13. Angie DeLaCruz, Chandra McBee and Nina Evans were the top servers, and Goliad also received strong play from Theresa Porras.

The 'B' team (4-3) won 15-4, 15-0. Frances Martinez and Heddi Wington were the top servers with nine points each.

The 'C' team (3-2) won 15-0, 15-3. Bobbi Villa served all 15 points in one game, and Goliad had great efforts from Angelica Ortiz and Jillery Armstrong.

Runnels 'A' team won 15-4, 15-10. In the first game, Linda Rodriguez scored six points with her serve. Leslie McLellan had three points, and Juanita Valdez had three. In the second game, Sherry Burdette had seven points, Samantha Granado had five and Rachel Ray two.

The 'B' team won 15-3, 15-3. Stephanie Wright and Cherilyn Hunt each served four points for Runnels, while Jennifer Hayes had two points.

In the second game, Jennifer Sneed served nine points, while Tiffany Birrell had four.

Random thoughts while taking the under on the O.J. Simpson trial:

... My, my, my, my time do fly when you're having fun.

Wasn't it only yesterday that football season began? Is it true that we've already had four weeks of games and the halfway point of the high school season is this Friday?

I've heard the saying "It seems like only yesterday ..." a few million times in my life, but I really never appreciated it until I sat down and thought about this football season.

It does seem like only yesterday that Dave Hargrave and I were grousing about the start of football season. Well, maybe we did do a little grousing yesterday, but that's beside the point.

I know the days are getting shorter, but this is ridiculous.

What is the point, Reagan?

The point I'm trying to make, in my round-about way, is that this has been one of the most surprising seasons I've seen in my 85 or so years as a sports-writer for your friendly neighborhood newspaper.

You want surprises? We'll give you surprises.

Consider:

• The Big Spring Steers - On paper, this team looked like it was heading for a hard time this season. Young, small, inexperienced and not blessed with a ton of speed, the Steers weren't realistically expected to win more than half their games this season.

We might have to upgrade that assessment a bit.

The Steers are still small, they're still young and they're still not blessed with speed, but they're also a lot better than anticipated. That, combined with what looks like a down year for the rest of the district, makes the playoffs a definite possibility for the Steers.

• Coahoma - The Coahoma Bulldogs and winning have not always been mentioned in the same sentence, but things seem to be changing here as well.

New coach Eddie McHugh has fashioned a feisty defense in these first few weeks, and that group has led Coahoma to a 3-1 start that should be 4-1 after this week's game against Hawley.

The meat of the schedule, with Wall, Jim Ned, Stanton and Winters, is still ahead, but things are definitely on the upswing in Coahoma.

• Stanton - Who has the best record among area 11-man teams? The 4-0 Battlin' Buffs of Stanton, that's who.

The reason Stanton has been so good so far? Take two speed-burners in the backfield (Jerele Lee and Todd Davis), mix them with an experienced quarterback (J.J. Ortiz) and a better-than-expected defense, and you have a team that has to be considered one of the favorites in a talented district.

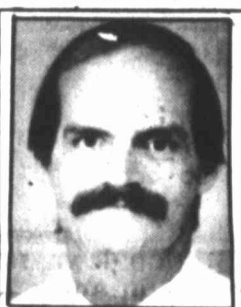

• Klondike - I'm going to have to quit listening to Klondike coach Ed Wilson. All preseason, he bent my ear with tales of how young and inexperienced his team was, and how the early season schedule might just break his kiddies in half.

Yeah, right.

Boy, all those bad guys have really made life rough on the Cougars. They're only 4-0.

Don't you feel sorry for them?

I sure do.

Brown sees many changes in 80 years

By JANET AUSBURY
Features Editor

It's been an interesting 42 years of real estate for Marie Rowland Brown, and although the last few years have been the roughest, she still sees good times ahead.

BROWN
Brown will celebrate her 80th birthday Saturday, Oct. 1. On a warm afternoon in the Scurry Street office that bears her name, she reminisced about her life and career in Big Spring.

She had been preparing income taxes for "three or four years" prior to opening her real estate office, and had decided to take up real estate as a hobby. "I never went back," she said. "It was steady, the town was growing. If people got a chance to sell a farm or ranch, they did."

Brown and two partners opened the first office not far from where the current office is located, "on the same 100 square feet of land." The current location was opened in 1960.

Business in the 1950's was booming, never more so than toward the end of the decade. Brown recalls selling as many as three houses in a day back in 1958 and 1959, "and no time to show 'em."

At one point, she had eight salespeople working for her. She recalled one particularly ambitious salesman who kept a typewriter in his car so he could type sales contracts on the spot.

Changes in real estate regulations have made the business more time-consuming than it used to be in Big Spring's housing heyday. "In those days, you had more time to work and less paperwork," Brown recalled.

The town itself has changed quite a bit since she first came here as a child. "There were dirt streets, some wood sidewalks, maybe three blocks of pavement when I first came here," she said.

Howard College was out by the airbase, she recalled, and Gregg Street was just starting to be built up. Scurry was the main north-south thruway.

Brown sold much of the real estate that is now developed along both sides of Gregg. She chose her current office location because it was visible from and close to Gregg. "It's easy to find and centralized," she said.

In her retirement years, she has continued to visit the office that bears her name and make her presence known. She has thought about changing the name to Rowland Real Estate, but family members talked her out of it.

Early in her retirement, she and her husband traveled all over the world. At age 66, she went parasailing in Mexico. Parasailing, she explained, involves being towed behind a boat and being hooked up to something similar to a parachute. "We loved it," she said. "You fly around for 15 minutes or so, over five- or six-story buildings."

She even convinced a younger woman not to be afraid to try the sport. "She told me later she had a great time," recalled Brown.

Brown's next adventure will be attending her birthday party 2-4 p.m. Saturday at the Best Western Hotel Hospitality Room, and seeing what surprises her family and friends have in store for her. "They won't tell me a thing," she said, smiling.

Check food labels

Nutrition labels on the foods that we buy have begun to take on a new look. The January 1993 Food Labeling Regulations have changed a few things concerning nutrition labeling. The new regulations have expanded mandatory nutrition labeling.

Dana Tarter

requires that products carry a uniform list of nutrients, reference to amounts needed in a daily diet must be defined, label words, phrases and claims must be defined and has established new label format.

The new label can be identified by the title Nutrition Facts and provides a new label format and requires more informative ingredient labeling which should be helpful to consumers.

The new food label allows the consumer to compare products while in the supermarket, make informed, healthy food choices and plan meals according to recommended Dietary Guidelines. Serving sizes listed on the new label are more likely to be what a person would actually eat and similar foods will have similar serving sizes making comparison shopping easy.

Not only will the label include total calories per serving but it will also include calories per serving from fat. The labels you are reading now may have some familiar information on them but the information is now required by law.

The nutrient list includes information which is most important to your health such as: total fat, cholesterol, sodium, total carbohydrates and protein. The new label includes two vitamins, A and C and two minerals, calcium and iron. Some food products companies may choose to include more information voluntarily.

If you would like more information concerning the new food label contact the Howard County Extension Office, 1st Floor East, Howard County Courthouse or call 264-2236.

Whistle blower recalls era of fixed quiz show

DENVER (AP) — With withered hands, Stoney Jackson sorts through his newspaper clippings from 1957, the year he won big money on a quiz show and blew the whistle on the rigged game that he says ripped him off.

Then a crew-cut young minister from Tennessee, Jackson says he was the first person to willingly go public about the fixed shows.

His complaint about "$64,000 Challenge," coupled with a government probe of the manufactured drama of the quiz show "Twenty-One," outraged an audience that had been mesmerized by the live programs. The scandal led to congressional hearings and new laws regulating TV game shows.

The scandal is the subject of a new movie, "Quiz Show," directed and produced by Robert Redford. It's the story of Charles Van Doren, a young Columbia University instructor who acted his way through a bogus winning streak on "Twenty-One," then finally admitted the scam at a congressional hearing.

The tale didn't impress Jackson.

"I guess it's more entertaining to see a man who kept the money and kept his mouth shut instead of somebody who was trying to be honest from the beginning," he said.

Back in 1957, Jackson's hometown friends in Tullahoma, Tenn., laughed when he sent in an application to appear on "$64,000 Question" — some 300,000 hopefuls wrote the show each month.

When Jackson got no response, he wrote again, noting the show only seemed interested in celebrity contestants.

"The letter said 'I am contemplating doing a book on our present times called the Hucksters and the Suckers ... and I'd like you to please tell me what kind of an agent do you have to have to get on the show,'" Jackson recalled.

He was on a train to New York City within 48 hours.

Jackson quickly figured out the program's fix: Before the show started, he had to answer the questions he would be asked on the show. That allowed producers to manipulate questioning to control winners and losers.

What got to Jackson, however, was this: Undeclared, winner of $4,000 and hoping for more, he had to stop competing when his rival lost. The show's rules required it.

"I was furious because they cheated both of us," Jackson said. "I don't think they could have stopped me short of $64,000 legitimately."

Stoney Jackson holds a 1957 newspaper at his Denver home Wednesday, Sept. 21, with his name in the headlines exposing corruption on the $64,000 Question and $64,000 Challenge. Jackson appeared on both shows and was the first to go public with the fact that the shows were rigged.

Study: Even the very old benefit from exercise

BOSTON (AP) — Afraid you're too old to get in shape? A study released today says you would have to be more than 100.

Extra strength can improve the lives of people in their late 80s and 90s, the study said. Researchers dedicated it to their oldest volunteer, a former dentist who pumped iron for four years until he died at 101.

The researchers found that frail nursing home residents in their 80s and 90s got around faster, climbed stairs better and sometimes even were able to swap their walkers for canes after a few weeks of lifting weights.

"The results of this study suggest that a healthier aging process can be achieved, but only by working at it," deputy editor Dr. Edward W. Campion said in an editorial in the New England Journal of Medicine, which published the research.

The study involved 100 men and women who appeared to be typical of frail nursing home residents. Their average age was 87, and about one-third were in their 90s. Half were demented, and many suffered from a variety of other ills, including arthritis, lung disease and high blood pressure.

They were randomly assigned to participate in ordinary nursing home activities or to work out vigorously for 45 minutes three times a week. They used exercise machines to strengthen their thighs and knees.

Those who exercised increased their walking speed by 12 percent and their ability to climb stairs by 28 percent. Four who needed walkers to get around became able to walk with just a cane.

The work was a much larger follow-up to a ground-breaking study four years ago by the same team. That report, which involved only 10 people, showed that working out strengthens aging muscles.

VA offers depression screening

Special to the Herald

Mental health professionals at the Big Spring VA Medical Center will offer local residents the opportunity to learn about the signs and symptoms of depression.

The medical center is offering a free screening as part of National Depression Screening Day, Thursday, Oct. 6. The free program will be 4:30-6:30 p.m.

Participants at the screening will hear a brief talk on the causes, symptoms and treatments of depression, followed by a short video. Individuals will complete an anonymous written screening test of depression symptoms and have the opportunity to discuss the results with a mental health professional.

Depression strikes more than 15 million Americans each year, according to figures from the National Institute of Mental Health. Only one in four individuals with depression, however, actually seeks treatment even though treatment can help 80 percent of those affected.

"We hope that this effort to provide mental health screening for depression will educate the public about the signs and symptoms of depression and encourage those who may be vulnerable to seek evaluation and treatment," said Dr. Jordan Yee, chief of psychiatry service at the VA Medical Center.

National Depression Screening Day, which highlights Mental Illness Awareness Week, was developed by Harvard psychiatrist Dr. Douglas Jacobs.

Last year, this 4-year-old national effort attracted more than 56,000 people to 1,300 sites across the country. National Depression Screening Day inaugurated the concept of screening for a mental illness.

HEALTH IN BRIEF

Iron and Alzheimer's

Researchers suspect Alzheimer's disease may be caused by too much iron accumulating in the brain.

"We have noticed that there is a lot of iron in the cells surrounding Alzheimer's," said Dr. James Connor.

What may be happening is that a chromosomal gene is reacting to the iron, then ordering the body to produce a protein called amyloid. This protein then causes the rope-like tangles in the brain always found in Alzheimer's victims.

Connor said his goal is to understand how iron is implicated in Alzheimer's, then to design ways to stop it.

Connor said the iron accretion may be caused by impurities in the environment, dietary factors or an inherited tendency to contract the disease.

Approximately 4 million Americans, most of them elderly, suffer from the slowly progressing disease, now the fourth leading cause of death in the United States.

Multi-vitamins for elderly

A daily dose of multi-vitamins may protect the elderly from illnesses and bolster their disease-fighting immune systems, say scientists at the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey in Newark.

These conclusions were reached after a study of 60 elderly people who took modest amounts of multi-vitamins for a year. Dr. John Bogden reports in the current Journal of Clinical Nutrition.

The 60 were divided into two groups, half of whom were given the vitamins and the others given placebos. Those who got the vitamins increased their blood concentrations of vitamins B6, C, E, beta carotene and folate. They also increased their disease fighting T-cells.

Bogden said those who got the vitamins clearly improved their ability to fight infections, may have reduced chances of contracting cancer and may have increased their lifespan.

New hernia surgery

A new surgical technique that speedily repairs groin hernias has been developed at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Using a mesh material, surgeons led by Dr. Charles Herbst are repairing hernias under local anesthesia and allowing patients to return home the same day.

In contrast, hernia repairs usually are performed under general anesthesia and require one to three days of recuperation in a hospital. Hernias are weaknesses in the muscle and connective tissue in the groin that allows fat or other tissue to protrude from the abdomen into the groin.

The new procedure seals off the weakness with the mesh material. Patients experience little pain and can return to work within a week, Herbst said.

Peace and quiet for preemies

A little peace and quiet in hospital wards for premature babies helps them gain weight and avoid learning and behavioral problems, say researchers at the University of Texas Health Science Center in Houston.

'Bird lady' in Midland zoning flap

MIDLAND (AP) — Injured and sick wildlife of the Permian Basin have wound up over the past 24 years in Midge Erskine's jungle-like back yard.

Mrs. Erskine rehabilitated the animals from home — 4.4 acres of knee-high grass, towering trees and coiling vines — encircled by a neat Midland neighborhood.

But the woman widely known as the "Bird Lady" has found herself locked in a flap that might escalate into a showdown next week at City Hall.

Property owners next door sparked the scrutiny by complaining that Mrs. Erskine's work could spread disease in an area zoned for single-family residences. Her yard is a nuisance and fire hazard, they say.

So the City Council must decide Tuesday whether to allow wildlife rehabilitation inside Midland. If the vote doesn't go Mrs. Erskine's way, the only licensed rehabilitator between Lubbock and Uvalde says she'll have to shut down.

"The people of Midland want wildlife to be humanely and lovingly cared for," she said. "I do not get the impression that this is what the City Council wants."

The situation of Mrs. Erskine, 60, and her 64-year-old husband, Woody, attracted such a crowd last week that a public hearing had to be moved to a larger room. Council members heard several hours of discussion before deferring their decision.

Dennis and Vanessa Baker, who don't live in the house

The people of Midland want wildlife to be humanely and lovingly cared for. I do not get the impression that this is what the City Council wants.

Midge Erskine

they own next to the Erskines, sued them two years ago to stop the rehabilitation. Attorney Jad Davis said the city has not been enforcing its own codes on Mrs. Erskine.

Wildlife work isn't appropriate there, Davis said.

"You couldn't have a soup kitchen to rehabilitate the homeless in a single-family residentially zoned property," he said. "You couldn't give physical therapy to people. A child in 4-H couldn't raise a lamb. A little kid couldn't have a pony."

Davis points out that Mrs. Erskine's state and federal licenses require her to follow city ordinances.

Supporters, however, emphasize the voluntary service she performs each time someone drops an animal off at her doorstep. They say she poses no threat.

"I'm not sympathetic to a bunch of whining people who don't appreciate the efforts toward conserving the natural resources of Texas — for free," said Robert Lee of Lubbock, special agent of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

"Ask the thousands and thousands of students she's educated, whether she's inspired them to care about something other than their own well being."

Mrs. Erskine earlier this year turned down a 1.7-acre relocation site the city proposed as a compromise. That offer, she said, was an insult: The land was flood-prone, noisy, treeless and located behind a chemical company.

She wants to stay put.

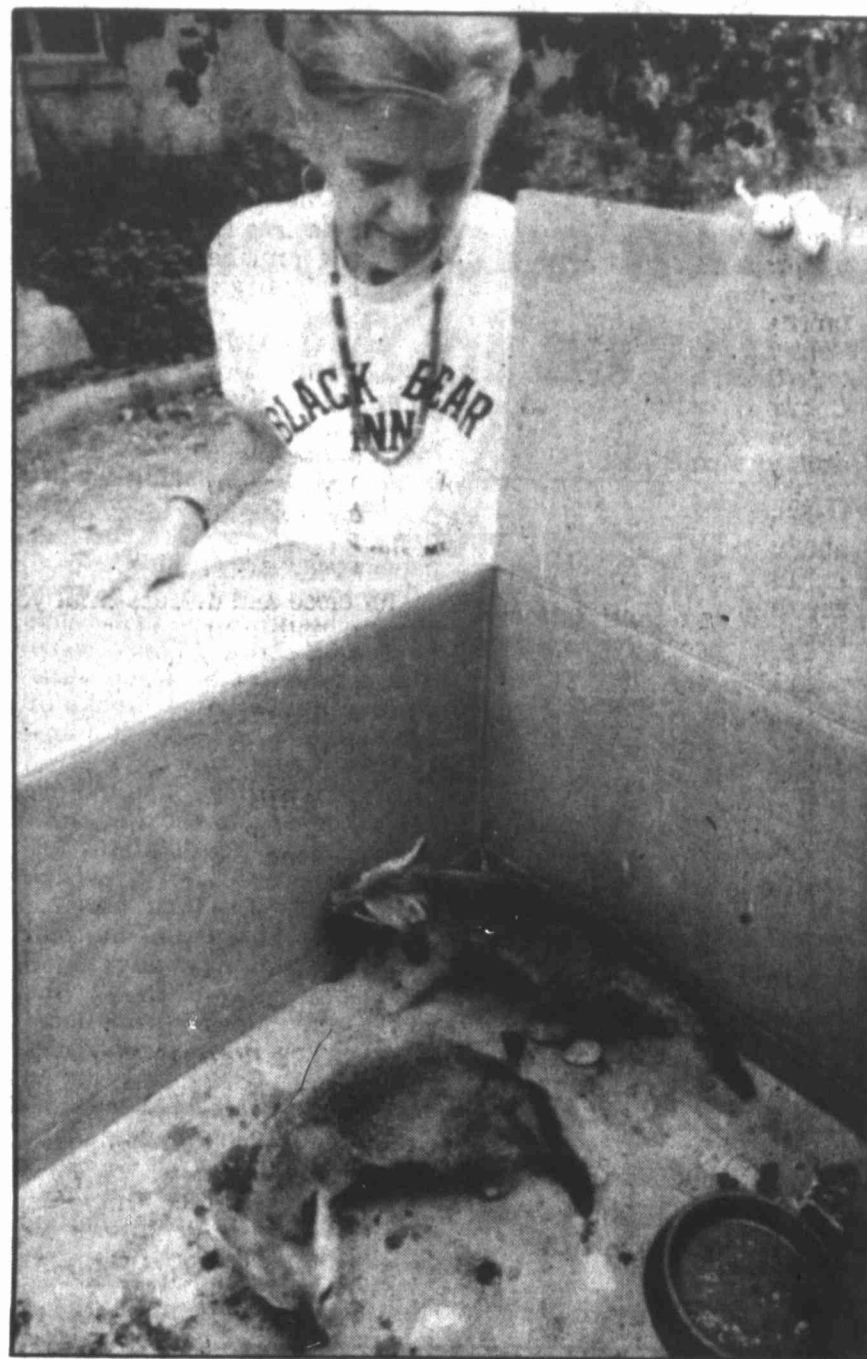

Three hundred and eight species of birds have nested in her trees, according to Mrs. Erskine's count.

"I can't imagine anyone being stupid enough to want to destroy such a unique habitat," she said. "The city should be willing to promote it."

PC Hanes, director of the Central Texas Wildlife Institution in Hamilton County, said the Midland City Council could be setting a dangerous precedent.

Ms. Hanes said officials shouldn't fear a deluge of unqualified rehabilitators popping up.

"This is something you do because you really care, not because you're going to get paid for it or because the community is going to love you," Ms. Hanes said. "You're out to give something back to the earth. Midge gives something back every time she releases a bird."

Midge Erskine, shown in this 1992 photo with fox cubs, has found herself locked in a zoning flap with city officials in Midland. She has rehabilitated injured and sick wildlife at her home for 24 years.

Divorced father rocks wedding boat

DEAR ABBY: A year and a half ago, my daughter (I'll call her Betty) was married in a beautiful church wedding. Although her mother and I have been divorced for seven years and we have both remarried, I paid for half of everything. My present wife urged me to make sure Betty had a first-class wedding, and I did. Now the problem: Betty wanted me to sit with her mom during the ceremony. I thought it would look strange if her mom and stepfather and I, plus the groom's parents, all sat together, while my wife sat alone; so I sat with my wife. Since then, Betty has been very cool to me. She hasn't called or come by - nothing. Abby, I love my daughter very much. I sent her to a fine girls' college and saw to it that she had the best clothes and a car of her own. I apologized to her and told her I didn't realize it meant so much to her to have me with her mother. Was I wrong to sit with my wife? -- SAD DAD, MEMPHIS, TENN.

DEAR SAD DAD: Don't let your daughter lay a guilt trip on you. You acted appropriately when you chose to sit with your wife rather than have her sit alone.

DEAR ABBY: Occasionally one hears someone described as a "good Christian" -- or someone did the "Christian" thing. I think what is meant by this is that the person is of good character.

Abby, this type of person can be found among all faiths: Muslim, Buddhist, Hindu, Jewish, B'nai, and even atheists. The use of the word "Christian" to mean "of impeccable character" is hurtful to those who are not Christian. If we all want to live together on this planet with respect and acceptance, we need to find a better way to describe good character. I happen to be a good person, but I am not a Christian. If you use my letter, please sign me ... GOOD, BUT NOT A CHRISTIAN, IN LA HONDA, CALIF.

DEAR GOOD: You are right -- Christians do not have a monopoly on good character. Better to say, "So-and-so is a good person," or "So-and-so did a good (or kind) thing." One can find people of good character -- and bad -- in every religion (and race).

DEAR ABBY: I bought my daughter a lovely wedding gown for her wedding 10 years ago. Unfortunately, that marriage didn't last very long.

My daughter is planning her second wedding, which will take place in our home. Many of the same friends and family members will attend.

I was aghast when she said, "I still have the wedding gown that I wore at my first wedding, and I want to wear it again."

What do you think, Abby? -- AGHAST MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I think it should be your daughter's choice.

For Abby's favorite family recipes, send a long, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Cookbooklet No. 1, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054-0447. (Postage is included.)

This date in history

Today is Wednesday, Sept. 28, the 271st day of 1994. There are 94 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History: On Sept. 28, 1066, William the Conqueror invaded England to claim the English throne.

On this date: In 1542, Portuguese navigator Juan Rodriguez Cabrilho arrived at what is now San Diego, Calif. In 1781, American forces in the Revolutionary War, backed by a French fleet, began their siege of Yorktown Heights, Va. In 1787, Congress voted to send the just-completed Constitution of the United States to state legislatures for their approval.

In 1850, flogging was abolished as a form of punishment in the U.S. Navy.

In 1892, the first nighttime football game took place, in Mansfield, Pa., as teams from Mansfield Teachers College and the Wyoming Seminary played under electric lights to a scoreless tie.

In 1920, eight members of the Chicago White Sox were indicted for allegedly throwing the 1919 World Series against the Cincinnati Reds in what became known as the "Black Sox" scandal. (Even though they were acquitted at trial, the players were banished from the game.)

In 1924, two U.S. Army planes landed in Seattle, having completed the first round-the-world flight in 175 days.

In 1939, during World War II, Germany and the Soviet Union agreed on a plan to partition Poland.

In 1961, "Dr. Kildare," starring Richard Chamberlain and Raymond Massey, and "Hazel," starring Shirley Booth, premiered on NBC.

In 1967, Walter Washington took office as the first mayor of the District of Columbia.

In 1972, Japan and Communist

China agreed to re-establish diplomatic relations.

In 1974, first lady Betty Ford underwent a mastectomy at Bethesda Naval Medical Center in Maryland, following discovery of a cancerous lump in her breast.

In 1976, Muhammad Ali kept his world heavyweight boxing championship with a close 15-round decision over Ken Norton at New York's Yankee Stadium.

CALL COLDWELL BANKER

More than nine out of ten of our customers would recommend us.

SUN COUNTRY REALTORS

600 GREGG 267-3613

Expect the best!

Coldwell Banker Sun Country sales associates work hard to be the best. They know the real estate business - and they know their local market. They are as comfortable talking about the "feel" of a neighborhood as they are discussing financing programs.

Our sales associates are people oriented professionals who are actively involved in serving their community. They are committed to understanding their customers needs, and satisfying those needs at every step of every transaction says, Janelle Britton, owner. Britton encourages prospective home buyers to take advantage of some of the lowest interest rates in nearly 20 years. Homes that were out of reach for some buyers only a few years ago are now affordable, thanks to lower interest and lower payments. This also makes now a perfect time to sell a home since more buyers are able to qualify for lower interest loans.

Houses are selling quickly in Big Spring and as a result there is a need for more homes to sell. At Sun Country we can help determine what your home is really worth. We don't guess and give you a figure. We examine up-to-date information about your neighborhood. We compare recent sales and current comparable homes for sale. We team this information with the special features and characteristics of your home. The result is a quantitative no-guess estimate of your home's market value.

Because of our relationship with Coldwell Banker, we now have additional information, resources, training and expertise to provide buyers and seller with unparalleled real estate services.

Coldwell Banker's extensive advertising and promotional support includes network and local television, radio and print campaigns, public relations activities and special promotions. All are designed to keep Coldwell Banker's name where it works best in front of our buyers and sellers.

To help guide their customers through the complex process of buying and selling a home, our sales associates are equipped with the most powerful tools available anywhere in the real estate industry - tools designed to communicate, and to get results.

With the Best Buyer System our associates help take the mystery out of finding and financing a home, giving even the most seasoned home buyers greater confidence in their decision to purchase.

Through the Best Seller System, Coldwell Banker Sun Country Realtors, our goal is not simply to sell houses, but rather to help sellers realize the best price obtainable for their property in the shortest period of time. To help achieve this goal we have developed an exclusive Best Seller Home Enhancement Guide.

Based on proven marketing techniques, this information guide will introduce practical ideas on how to successfully prepare a house for sale. These suggestions require a minimum of time and expense to complete and are designed to make a house stand out over the competition.

Our sales associates draw upon the extensive resources within Coldwell Banker to assist our customers with a wide selection of residential real estate services including relocation.

"Expect the Best." It's far more than a slogan to us - it's a way of doing business. It's a pledge we practice every day. In every transaction. It's a pledge that Coldwell Banker Sun Country Realtors will continue to lead the way in offering services that keep pace with the changing needs of the real estate market. And it's a pledge that we will remain the very best in residential real estate.

"Life!"
