Reagan: U.S. ready for 'give, take' in arms talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan said Friday the United States is "ready for serious give and take" in nuclear arms talks with the Soviets resuming next week, but present and former government officials expressed doubt that quick progress will be made.

Reagan, in a statement issued after meeting with his negotiators, said, "Concrete Soviet proposals would get the talks moving and would make a positive contribution to the intensified U.S-Soviet dialogue which has been under way in recent months."

"We have made serious proposals, we are patient, and we are ready for serious give and take," he said. "With a comparable Soviet attitude, much can be accomplished, and soon."

The third round of the talks begins next Thursday in Geneva, Switzerland.

A senior administration official, speaking on condition he not be identified, said the United States believes Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev is preoccupied with domestic issues and has not focused on arms control.

This official said the United States did not feel under pressure to achieve a quick breakthrough and would not be particularly concerned about a lack of progress in the third round of the talks.

"Nobody expected it to to move that quickly," he said.

Paul Warnke, chief arms control negotiator in the Carter administration, said the arms control talks are at an impasse and "probably the only way progress can be made" is for Reagan and Gorbachev to reach an agreement on basic issues at their summit meeting in Geneva Nov. 19-20.

Reagan said he was looking forward to the summit meeting and added, "Arms control will, of course, be one of the important parts of our agenda at that meeting, and progress at the negotiating table in Geneva in this round would provide a positive, additional stimulus to a productive discussion in November."

The president's remark differed in emphasis from an interview he gave Monday to a group of college students, in which he said he did not think of arms control and arms limitation "so much as a thing to take up in the summit as to eliminate the things that are preventing arms control."

Reagan has often indicated that he favors getting at the underlying causes of East-West tensions, rather than the details of arms control and other issues, in the summit.

Of the arms control talks, he said, "Soviet leaders have recently given public indications that they may be considering significant nuclear reductions, and we have encouraged them to translate this expression into concrete proposals at the negotiating table in Geneva. Now is the time for both sides to spell out their intentions; now is the time for both sides to move forward."

A delegation of U.S. senators who recently met with Gorbachev in Moscow reported afterward that he had told them he is ready to make radical offers to reduce nuclear weapons arsenals and may not oppose basic U.S. research on space-based defensive weapons — the so-called "Star Wars" program.

Parts of city get two inches of rain

From Staff Reports

Midlanders avoided flooded side streets and stalled cars Friday afternoon as remnants of a cold front passing through the area deluged residents with more than two inches of rain in some areas.

"We recorded 1.46 inches at the airport," said Ron Brown of the National Weather Service. "Some areas got more than two inches particularly near Goldsmith and there were reports of flooding on State Highway 302, north of Odessa."

Brown said that an urban flood warning was put out early Friday warning rush-hour motorists of possible flooded streets in low-lying areas.

"The warning stated that an additional ¼ inch to ½ inch on top of what we received during the night, could cause problems," said Brown.

The NWS also received reports of heavy rain in outlying areas.

"There were several thunderstorms reported at 4 a.m. Friday near Kermit and another at 5 a.m. near Wink," said Brown. "Civil defense officials in Kermit said that those storms dumped more than 2½ inches."

Brown said that the precipitation was scattered, due mostly to a slow-moving cold front.

"The front has been moving along in almost any direction at less than five mph," he said. "We just didn't have any real good consistant wind flow in the upper atmosphere."

He added that Midlanders could "get an increase in thunderstorm activity," over the weekend.

Despite the heavy rainfall, the area is still 2.3 inches short of the average precipitation for the year to date. The average amount through Sept. 14 is 11.24 inches.

Sales tax rebate check up over September '84

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Assistant City Editor

It was the same repetitious number for Midland when the sales tax rebate checks came in — $550,496.79. But it still ranked higher than Odessa's figure, which was $502,697.48.

The September checks reflect the 1 cent sales tax charged by the cities and collected by the State Comptroller's Office for the month of July.

Compared to the September 1984 rebate of $508,320.10, this year's check was slightly higher. But it still fell within the range of $500,000 to $550,000 the city has been receiving in the past year, according to City Finance Director Troy Gifford.

With the September check, the city closes its books on the 1984-85 fiscal year with a final tally of $8,759,000, said Gifford. Midland City Council had budgeted $8,650,000 for the year. The Comptroller's Office, however, keeps the figures tallied on a calendar year basis, and for the year through September Midland has received $6,797,432.63, which is a 15.08 percent increase over last year's $5,906,785.66.

Odessa's checks for $502,000 was about $40,000 more than the $461,042.96 received in September 1984. That is "just a trace lower" than what the city of Odessa had expected, according to Fiscal Services Director Frank Muser. "We thought it would come in at 9 percent over last year's."

"Our economy is anywhere from flat to low growth," said Gifford. "If you look back over the prior comparable months, it does not seem to be growing very much. We've been in the $500,000 to $550,000 level for several months. We've had four to five of these $500-550,000 numbers." As an example, he said December 1984 showed a rebate of $548,000 while January was $551,000.

For October, which reflects sales made in August, Gifford is expecting Midland to receive a check for about the same amount as the September rebate. Although that was a month to buy back-to-school items, Gifford said there also was a decline in the oil industry which might offset that school buying.

For Fiscal Year 1986, which starts Oct. 1, the council has projected sales tax income of $9 million. "There's always a chance of it coming down some, as well as going up some," he said.

Odessa is ending its fiscal year with $7.7 million, which is where it had been targeted once the figures were revised after the first of the calendar year, said Muser. For FY 1986, Odessa has projected to received $8.2 million, which Muser said is a 3.5 percent increase over this year. The Comptroller's Office calendar year-to-date figures shows Odes-

PUC requests increase for basic phone rates

By STEVE LEVINE
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Basic monthly rates for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.'s residential Midland customers would increase to only $9.10 under a proposal the Public Utility Commission's research staff submitted Friday.

Business rates would jump to $21.30 per month under the new staff plan. Current flat rates are $8.80 for residences and $20.65 for commercial customers. The charges for Midland would increase only because growth in the area has pushed the Midland exchanges into a higher rate category. Customers in exchanges which stay in the same category would not see any base rate increase under the staff proposal.

Bell had requested boosting the residential rates to $10.80 and business rates to $25.25 as part of its $323.9 million rate increase proposal. The PUC staff's original plan called for increases to $9.50 and $22.20.

In July, the staff recommended that Bell receive a $92.7 million total increase. Two weeks ago the staff reduced that proposal to $63.7 million, and Friday's plan reflects that change.

Although the basic monthly charges would not change for most Texas customers, the staff called for a $19 million increase in Bell revenues from Touch Tone services and Custom Calling features such as call

Midland County Sheriff Gary Painter displays the typewriters, check protector and altered driver's licenses found in a house during a search warrant that resulted in breaking up a forgery ring.

Sheriff's department breaks forgery ring

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Assistant City Editor

A "slick" forgery ring that has been operating in the Permian Basin for the past 10 years and has stolen an estimated $1 million from area businesses has been broken, according to Midland County Sheriff Gary Painter.

During a news conference Friday afternoon at his office in the County Courthouse, Painter said five persons have been arrested in the past four weeks and two search warrants served Wednesday and Thursday have broken apart the ring that has been the object of law-enforcement officials' investigations for the last two years.

Painter declined to release the names of those arrested but noted that at least five more persons will be arrested. "It is a pending investigation and we're not sure how many more will be arrested. But we'll get as many arrests and indictments as we can. We've got some of the principals involved, but not the center of the ring."

Forgery by passing is a third degree felony and carries a punishment of two to 10 years in jail and/or a $5,000 fine, he said.

Two people killed in separate accidents

From Staff Reports

Two people were killed and three injured in two separate traffic accidents on Friday, according to reports from the Department of Public Safety. Both involved large trucks.

An accident which killed a New Mexico man and injured an Odessa truck driver was reported at 12:45 p.m. at the intersection of State Highway 176 and FM 181 in Andrews County, the reports said.

In the mishap, a 1980 Peterbilt tractor pulling a 1973 Aztec trailer collided with a 1965 International tractor pulling a 1973 Fontaine trailer at the insection. Pronounced dead at the scene at 1:50 p.m. by Justice of the Peace G.A. Ragsdale of Andrews County, was Kelly Bloodworth, 22, of Artesia, N.M. Bloodworth was driving the International, according to officers.

His body was taken to Singleton Funeral Home in Andrews.

The driver of the Peterbilt, which struck Bloodworth's vehicle on the left side, was identified as Doyle Brown, of Odessa. He was treated and released with minor head lacerations at Permian General Hospital in Andrews.

Three congressmen visit Midland to learn oil, gas industry problems

By JOHN PAUL PITTS
Business/Oil Editor

The bonds of coalition between northeast, liberal congressmen and the Texas oil industry grew stronger Friday with the visit to Midland of two representatives from the New York City area.

Rep. Gary Ackerman (D-N.Y.), of the Bronx and Rep. Tom Manton (D-N.Y.), of Queens, along with Rep. Bart Gordon (D-Tenn.), were the guests of Council for a Secure America, a coalition of Texas oilmen and Jewish business and political leaders. During their visit they were briefed by Texas Railroad Commissioner Mack Wallace on U.S. energy vulnerability, toured the Petroleum Museum and the Conger field in Sterling County and were guests at a Texas-style barbecue hosted by Wagner & Brown.

The congressmen were in Midland on a fact-finding tour to acquaint themselves with the problems of the oil and gas industry.

"We have a lot of misconceptions about the oil industry," said Manton. "We take things for granted. We flick on a switch and get energy and never think about someone producing it. There are lots of things on our legislative agenda that impact directly on what you do here in the Permian Basin."

Manton said if he were to vote today on a bill proposing the elimination of depletion allowances and intangible drilling costs, he would probably vote against it.

"We need to make sure we are not dependent on foreign powers and the whims of foreign leaders for our energy," said Ackerman, at a press conference at the Petroleum Museum. He said if there had been animosity between the Northeast and energy producing states in the past it was "the child of ignorance." Said Ackerman: "The more we do things like this (try to understand one another) the less animosity there will be."

Comet dust dangerous, expert says

GREENBELT, Md. (AP) — The chief scientist on this week's crossing of a comet tail by a satellite said Friday that some of the spacecraft on their way to intercept Halley's Comet next year will "almost surely" face greater danger.

"Halley is known to be a much more dusty comet than comet Giacobini-Zinner, and many of the spacecraft targeted to Halley are going in much closer than we are," said John C. Brandt, chief of the astronomy and solar physics laboratory at the Goddard Space Flight Center.

The interstellar dust that surrounds comets when they are in their closest approach to the sun conceivably could cloud or damage a satellite's solar panels to the point where they do not produce enough electricity to send data to Earth.

The Soviet Union and Japan each are sending two probes to Halley's comet, which makes its once-in-76-years return next March. The European Space Agency is sending one.

That satellite, called Giotto, will come closest to the comet of any of the probes — about 310 miles sunward of Halley's nucleus. Wednesday's encounter with Giacobini-Zinner — the first-ever crossing of a comet's tail by a satellite — was about 5,000 miles behind the nucleus.

Giacobini-Zinner surprised scientists by how little dust it had, but Brandt said that can't be applied to Halley's because comets vary in the amount of dust they produce.

Brandt said scientists on the Halley's projects are aware of the increased risks and have devised strategies for avoiding problems. The Giotto spacecraft has a double shield to protect its solar panels from becoming damaged by the ultra-fine particles of dust.

This week's comet tail crossing by a satellite named ICE, for International Cometary Explorer, yielded many surprises, Brandt said at a briefing on early results from the Giacobini-Zinner mission.

"Cometary physics has fundamentally changed as of Sept. 11, 1985. The results we have obtained already exceed my expectations," Brandt said.

Scientists are divided, he said, whether the comet was preceded by a "bowshock" as expected or whether its approach was heralded by a different kind of disturbance than any ever seen.

"This is a two-way street," said Wallace, a member of the Council for a Secure America. "We will be going north to learn about their problems as well. They have a mass of humanity up there (New York) to take care of and we need to understand their problems."

Ackerman said he represented a congressional district four miles wide by five miles long with over one million constituents.

Gordon of Midland, Tenn., said his main concern was that the U.S. was not held hostage again by another energy crisis. "Our nation needs to know that we do not have unlimited energy, that it costs something."

At the breakfast briefing, sponsored by RepublicBank First National at the Pinnacle Club, Wallace warned the congressmen that the U.S. foreign energy supply lines were highly vulnerable to submarine attacks and that we should be developing a policy of energy self-sufficiency.

"We cannot enjoy the luxury of transferring our basic industries to foreign nations. We cannot survive by McDonald franchises alone," said Wallace. He added that America must have a strong domestic energy industry and a cushion of energy within our own borders.

Said Wallace: "Shiek Yamani has gone on record as saying that Arab oil will be used as a political weapon in 1987 and that the golden age of Arab oil would be in the 1990's and not the 1970's."

Local single parents to get aid

From Staff Reports

Congressman Tom Loeffler (R-Hunt) Friday announced Midland will receive more $150,000 in federal funds to help 30 low income single parents achieve economic self-sufficiency.

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) is awarding the grant to Midland as part of a national program to demonstrate how public and private resources can team up to break the poverty cycle at the family level, Loeffler said.

"I am extremely pleased that Midland has been selected to participate in this program, which aims to help single parents stand on their own feet and provide for their fmilies," Loeffler said. "This locally designed and operated program will help single parents to help themselves by providing housing assistance, help with child care and transportation, counseling, job training, and eventually job placement."

"It relies on the partnership of local government and business to help these people reach the point where they can support themselves and their families. Self-sufficiency, not government dependency, is the key to breaking the cycle of poverty which besets those who have not shared in the economic rebirth of America," Loeffler said.

Under the program, 30 single parents in the Midland area will receive more than $5,000 each in assistance during a 12 to 18 month program to culminate in permanent job placement.

Two men jailed for possession

From Staff Reports

ODESSA - Two men were charged Friday and jailed in connection with drug possession charges.

Jessie Molina Orona Jr., 25, 2915 Hammett Drive in South Ranchito Estates, was arrested about 10 p.m. Thursday by Odessa police, DPS officers and sheriff's deputies executing a search warrant issued by Peace Justice R.G. Hungerford. Officers seized about four pounds of a substance believed to be marijuana.

Municipal Judge Otis Moore set Orona's bond at $2,000.

About 10:50 p.m. Thursday, Odessa police narcotics officers arrested 19-year-old Douglas J. McCarthy, 3727 Andrews Highway, Apt. 1001, on a charge of possession of cocaine.

McCarthy's arrest came after undercover officers allegedly purchased about one and a half ounces of the drug from him.

Moore set bond for McCarthy at $15,000 on a delivery of cocaine charge and at $7,500 on a possession charge.

sa to have received $5,793,840, a 5.5 percent increase over last year's $5,490,839.

"We see very slight growth over last year," said Muser. "But for all practical purposes it's been relatively level. With the energy situation and the federal tax reform, it's created uncertainty."

Sunday shopping which started Sept. 1 could push the FY 1986 figure upward slightly, according to both financial directors.

Gifford said, "There are two schools of thought on this: One is that people will spend more money and the second is that people only have so much to spend, whether they do it in six days or seven."

Overall for FY 1986, Gifford said he expects a "modest growth of 2 to 4 percent."

Muser expects the Sunday sales to have a "positive effect" on sales tax. "There seems to have been a fair amount of traffic on Sunday in the (Permian) mall," he said.

RING

Because the people in the ring usually pass the forged checks at supermarkets and department stores on weekends when clerks are trying to handle a lot of customers and often don't pay as much attention to the checks, Painter said he was trying to alert these businesses to the problem.

In the house searches, law-enforcement officers found typewriters, check protectors, altered driver's licenses and numerous stolen business checks, according to Painter.

In the last three months, this ring has made at least $75,000 to $100,000 from forged checks, Painter said.

Asked how the ring had operated for 10 years without detection, Painter said the group is "very slick. They use drug addicts on the street. They have buffers between them." He added that narcotics is linked to the ring with the members needing the money to "feed their narcotic habit."

The group is known to have operated in Midland, Odessa, Seminole, Monahans, Stanton, Lubbock, Seminole, San Angelo, Andrews, Kermit, Brownfield and Crane. Law enforcement officials from these cities are invited to a Sept. 23 task force meeting, in which they can look at the forgery ring and exchange information, according to Detective Shara Woods with the Odessa Police Department.

Assisting the Midland County Sheriff's Department in breaking up this ring were the Odessa Police Department and Midland County District Attorney's Office.

"We're asking businesses to be careful in cashing checks," said Painter. He advised clerks to look at the quality of the check and to cash checks only of people they know. "Hopefully, all the stores will do some kind of preventive measure."

State consumer lawyer Jim Boyle, who represents residential and small commercial ratepayers before the commission, called on the staff to push for a Bell rate cut and "stop playing games with the pocketbooks of local ratepayers." Boyle has recommended a $124.4 million reduction in Bell's annual revenues.

"Any way you slice it, what the staff is doing is increasing local rates," Boyle said.

ACCIDENTS

In a separate accident later in the day, a Seagraves girl was killed and her two sisters injured in a two-car accident involving a 1983 Peterbilt tractor trailer rig driven by Thomas Eugene Wood of Midland.

According to the DPS, the accident, which was reported at 5:20 p.m. at the intersection of two paved county roads 6.1 miles south of Seagraves, occurred when a 1982 GMC pickup truck, driven by Sandra Ortiz, 16, of Seagraves, failed to stop at the intersection, striking Wood's vehicle.

Maria Decarmon Ortiz, 13, of Seagraves, was pronounced dead at the scene at 6 p.m. by Justice of the Peace Fred Connally of Gaines County. Her body was taken to Connally Funeral Home.

Injured was Maria Isabel Ortiz, 9, of Seagraves, who was admitted to Seminole Memorial Hospital in critical condition with severe head injuries and lacerations to the abdomen. She was later transferred to Lubbock Methodist Hospital where she remains in critical condition.

Also injured was Ms. Ortiz with cuts and abrasions. She was admitted to Seminole Memorial Hospital.

According to reports, Wood's vehicle was southbound on a county road when it was struck by the Ortiz vehicle, which was headed west on another county road. The pickup struck the tractor trailer in the left rear dual tires.

Wood, of County Road 1323, was not injured in the accident, reports said.

Friday the 13th lucky for Houston family

HOUSTON (AP) — Unlike many superstitious people, Don Curtis and his family don't look upon Friday the 13th as an unlucky day.

Not only did Curtis celebrate his 56th birthday on Friday, but his father, G. Jack Curtis, also was born on Friday, Nov. 13, 1908. And his son, Deryl, was born Oct. 13, 1967, another Friday.

"We'll hang a ladder and walk right under it," Don Curtis says.

The number 13 also has other significance for him. Curtis, an inventor, received a patent on a golf ball retriever on July 13, 1972.

Bush says he, Reagan won't take sides in governor's race

Bush

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Vice President George Bush said Friday that he and President Reagan won't take sides in next year's Texas Republican primary for governor, but they will campaign for the GOP nominee.

"It is important to the Republican party to have a Republican governor in Texas in 1986," Bush said. "The president will be interested in helping."

Bush made the remarks in a brief news conference after arriving in San Antonio to attend a fundraising reception for Republican candidates.

STATE

Bush would not specify which candidates would benefit from the $1,000 admission fundraiser at Trinity University.

But he did say that he hoped his work here could lay groundwork for his future political plans.

Referring to the presidency, Bush said, "If I decide to run, hopefully the same people offering support now will offer their support in 1988.

Regarding current debate in Congress about an immigration bill, Bush said the United States has to protect its borders. But he said, "A supply of labor for time-sensitive crops is important.

"You don't want to have rotting agricultural products in the field because of inadequate a labor," Bush said.

U.S. Rep. Tom Loeffler and former Gov. Bill Clements are the announced candidates for the GOP gubernatorial nomination. Former U.S. Rep. Kent Hance also is expected to make the race.

Three TDC inmates stabbed in cells

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — Despite a lockdown that keeps inmates confined to cells, three prisoners at the Texas Department of Corrections Coffield Unit were stabbed early Friday by five others who apparently cut their way out of their cells, officials said.

One of the victims was hospitalized with stab wounds while the two others were treated at the unit infirmary, spokesman Charles Brown said.

The Coffield Unit, at Tennessee Colony in Anderson County, is among 13 prison units locked down earlier this week as officials try to quell gang violence among inmates.

"The assailants were able to cut the bars with some type of metal," Brown said. One weapon, a 7-inch piece of metal from a fan guard, was recovered, he said.

Eugene Sheets, 18, serving a 45-year sentence from Dallas County for aggravated rape, was listed in good condition at Anderson County Memorial Hospital with a wound to his left side and abdomen, Brown said.

The two other wounded inmates were identified as Roger Arce, 25, cut in the chest, arm and wrist, and Roberto Perez, 20, cut in the neck.

Brown said Coffield officials identified the assailants as Brent Williams, 25, serving 50 years for theft and aggravated robbery with a deadly weapon in Bell County; J.P. Parks, 27, serving 14 years for burglary and unauthorized use of a vehicle in Harris County; Chaney Gumpert, 23, serving 30 years for aggravated rape and aggravated kidnaping in Dallas County; Tracallen Streeter, 23, serving 50 years for aggravated robbery in Dallas County; and Darryl Shelton, 20, serving 30 years for aggravated robbery with a deadly weapon in Brazoria County.

The five were placed in security detention pending the outcome of an investigation by the Anderson County sheriff's department, Brown said.

The three victims may have been stabbed while they were asleep as their attackers reached through the jail bars, Brown said.

Some 1,500 minimum-security inmates were released from lockdown throughout the system on Friday, but 9,000 other prisoners remained confined in their cells at the 13 units.

Prison Director O.L. McCotter ordered 17,000 inmates locked in their cells Monday after four prisoners were stabbed to death within a 24-hour period. The entire system, at 38,000 the nation's second-largest, has been described by officials as very tense.

Most of the recent violence has been attributed to a recruiting war between two Hispanic gangs known as the Texas Syndicate and the Texas Mafia.

AIDS victim 'begs my president to be moved'

NEW YORK (AP) — A 39-year-old AIDS victim made an emotional plea at a congressional hearing Friday, asking President Reagan to personally launch a public education campaign on the deadly disease.

"I beg my president to care. I beg my president to be moved. I beg my president to act," said Victor Bender of Manhattan, a former guide on Circle Line sightseeing cruises. He was diagnosed in January as having AIDS.

Bender said he held the federal government responsible for a lack of AIDS education, and said Reagan should do public service announcements to dispel the belief that the disease could be spread by casual contact.

But he indicated he did not expect his plea to be heeded.

"There is one man residing in Washington, at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, who to my knowledge has never once mentioned the word AIDS in public," he said.

Bender was joined by numerous physicians, gay activists and others at the hearing chaired by Rep. Ted Weiss, D-N.Y., a member of the House subcommittee on intergovernmental relations. All said the government was doing too little about AIDS, either in research or education.

The disease, acquired immune deficiency syndrome, attacks the body's ability to fight off disease. AIDS is most likely to strike male homosexuals, abusers of injectable drugs and hemophiliacs.

AIDS has struck 13,074 people in this country; 6,611 have died.

Bender criticized those who want to bar a New York City child with AIDS from public schools. "He could spit in their face and they couldn't get it from him," he said, while "he could catch anything from those other children."

In a court session in Queens involving that case, an expert on AIDS in children testified Friday that he does not think the disease can be transmitted casually, but that it still may be dangerous to both infected and healthy children to mix them secretly in a classroom.

Dr. Arye Rubinstein was the second physician to testify at a state Supreme Court hearing on the effort to force the city to remove the AIDS child from a school somewhere in the city. Neither the child nor the school has been identified.

Rubenstein said such an unknown AIDS child would endanger "to some extent" the other students and that they might endanger the AIDS child.

"I'd like to know whether other people in the class have chicken pox or some other infection that might endanger the (AIDS) child," he said.

Guerrillas prepared in Cuba for attack, report says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leftist guerrillas prepared for a highly successful Dec. 30, 1983 attack on a Salvadoran army base with practice maneuvers in Cuba, using a model of the garrison constructed from sketches, a State Department report said Friday.

The equipment used in the attack — explosives, machine guns and ammunition — was sent to El Salvador via Nicaragua, the report said, basing its information on the testimony of a former Salvadoran guerrilla who defected recently.

The incident described by the defector, Adin Ingles Alvarado, was part of a pattern of events outlined in the report that the Reagan administration believes substantiates its claim that Nicaragua, with Cuban help, poses a clear threat to its neighbors.

U.S. officials, who asked not to be identified, acknowledged that the release of the report was timed to counter Nicaraguan contentions that the United States has engaged in terrorist actions against the Sandinista government in violation of international law.

Nicaragua is presenting its case against the United States to the World Court in The Hague, Netherlands, where deliberations resumed Thursday after a 10-month recess.

The 1983 attack on the Salvadoran army's 4th Infantry Brigade Compound at El Paraiso represented a high point for the guerrillas in their struggle against the U.S.-backed government.

News reports at the time said 100 Salvadoran solders were killed in the pre-dawn raid, the army's worst single-day death toll. For the first time in the war, the rebels were able to seize an army installation. It took 1,000 government soliders to retake the garrison.

According to Ingles, he and 27 others rehearsed for the attack in Cuba, "making simulated assaults using a mock-up of the 4th Brigade garrison constructed from sketches," the report said.

He also was reported to have said that training of Salvadoran guerrillas in Cuba and Nicaragua included rehearsing for attacks on the Puente de Oro Bridge in October 1981 and the Ilopongo Air Base in January 1982.

Most of the report centers on alleged Nicaraguan subversion in Central America and the ways in which the leftist Sandinistas in Managua provoked a hostile American response.

The study used testimony of defectors, captured documents and U.S.-Nicaraguan diplomatic exchanges in an attempt to demonstrate that the Sandinistas are responsible for the continuing turmoil in Central America.

Referring to the Nicaraguan case before the World Court, the report said, "It is Nicaragua, and not the United States and its friends, that committed the aggression that led directly to the actions of which the Sandinistas now complain.

Francisco Campbell, minister counselor for political affairs at the Nicaraguan Embassy, said when asked for comment on the report: "Outright falsehood, misrepresentations and distortions are no substitute for serious policy. If the U.S. has any evidence of any aggressive act by Nicaragua, the administration should take these charges to the International Court of Justice.

"The fact that the United States is boycotting the World Court is indisputable evidence that the U.S. has no evidence whatsover to support the charges it is making against Nicaragua," he said.

At a news briefing Friday, Elliott Abrams, assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, linked the release of the report to the World Court proceedings.

"Nicaragua is in the midst of a propaganda blast and they are putting out a lot of lies," he said. "It's time to set the record straight."

Train collision blamed on station master

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Government officials on Friday blamed a station master for the head-on collision of two speeding passenger trains in central Portugal. At least 49 people were killed.

The regional rescue center estimated as many as 64 people were missing, citing reports from families, friends and embassies of passengers not accounted for.

Firemen combed through the burned and twisted wreckage in the mountainous Serra de Estrela region two days after the accident, looking for remains of more victims. A Paris-bound express train full of migrant workers slammed into a local train Wednesday evening. Both trains were said to be moving about 60 mph.

"It has been established that the blame lies with a station master who allowed the trains to move on in opposite direction on the single track," Carlos Melancia, minister of public works and transportation, told The Associated Press.

Melancia said investigators ruled out equipment trouble and cleared the two locomotive engineers of error. Both engineers were killed in the crash.

The minister refused to identify the station master they accused.

"It will come out eventually," he said, adding that it is one of the masters of two local stations in Nelas and Alcafache.

Firemen, helped by construction workers with cranes, removed the wreckage from the track, and rail traffic, interrupted for two days, resumed.

Workmen with rakes and hoes went through rubble, picking up address books, passports and other documents for use in identifying the dead and missing.

Rail officials said that based on ticket sales and reports by survivors, they now believe about 320 passengers were on the express and about 100 on the local.

Only 18 of the dead have been identified.

More than 100 people were injured in the collision, 25 of whom remained hospitalized, rescue officials said.

In Mangualde, where a makeshift morgue was set up, urns containing the remains of an undetermined number of victims were buried after Justice Ministry officials gave their approval.

Prime Minister Mario Soares said Friday said he hoped the number of missing "would not be blown out of proportion as before."

He was referring to reports immediately after the crash which said the death toll could reach 300.

The Federation of Railroad Trade Unions said the crash investigation should not be limited to identifying those directly responsible for the disaster.

It said Wednesday's accident could have been avoided if the stations and the trains were equipped with radios.

New records will warn about explicit lyrics, group official says

DALLAS (AP) — "Parental Guidance" labels on rock albums with sexually explicit lyrics won't go far enough in warning consumers, the leaders of two parents' groups say.

They voiced their dissatisfaction with the labels proposed by the recording industry Thursday during a panel discussion called "Porn Rock — Too Hot to Air" at the annual meeting of the National Radio Broadcasters Association and the National Association of Broadcasters.

The groups are pushing for a more extensive rating system similar to movie classifications. They also want full disclosure of lyrics either on record covers or on cards that would accompany tapes.

Although other panelists, mostly executives from radio stations, were sympathetic to the two groups, they objected to such a rating system.

"We will not rate the 25,000 new recorded songs we release each year," said Stanley Gortikov, president of the Recording Industry Association of America, which represents companies that produce about 85 percent of the records sold in the country.

"Any attempt to create a master bank of right-wrong or good-bad characterizations is likely to become a first step toward censorship...Enough already," he said.

Instead, Gortikov said, the industry will soon begin labeling albums with a simple inscription reading: "Parental Guidance — Explicit Lyrics."

"This will highlight such content for any concerned parent to exercise discretion," he said.

But Tipper Gore, the wife of U.S. Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., argued in favor of a label rating albums "R" to encompass what she called "explicit sexual language, profanity, violence, the occult and the glorification of drugs and alcohol."

Mrs. Gore is one of the founders of the Parents Resource Music Center, a Washington-based group that is leading a protest against lyrics deemed too sexy, violent or Satanic.

Rock lyric protester Tipper Gore, left, talks to broadcasting executive Edward Fritts during a National Radio Broadcasters meeting in Dallas. A recording industry executive said future record releases will warn of explicit lyrics.

Also calling for such specific labeling was Ann Kahn, president of the National PTA.

The Senate Commerce Committee is planning a hearing on the issue Thursday in Washington.

Man admits pornography addiction

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal panel investigating pornography wound up two days of hearings in Houston with testimony from a Louisiana businessman who said he was addicted to the sexually explicit material.

The man, identified only as Dan, spoke Thursday to the 11-member panel from behind a screen to hide his identity. He described pornography as "the demon that invaded my mind."

"To be held in bondage to pornography is a terrible thing for a person to live with," the middle-age man said.

He told how he first saw adult magazines at age 9, then graduated to films and prostitutes. Finally, he sought counseling four years ago when he became disgusted with himself after fantasizing about sex with family members, he said.

"I am in control of my habit, in regression, you might say" he said. "But I cannot and will not patronize a store that sells sexually explicit materials. If I took so much as one little peek, it would start all over again."

Houston was the third of six cities visited by the panel, commissioned by Attorney General Edwin Meese. The next stop is Oct. 15 in Los Angeles. A report of the committee's findings is due in June.

Retired black teacher recalls school days before integration

By JOHN FOOKS

TEXARKANA, Texas (AP) — The school books at Dunbar High in 1920 were hand-me-downs from local white schools. The children, however, didn't mind. Most everything they owned in those days was secondhand.

Katherine Hudson, then Katherine Jones, didn't mind. She graduated that year and went on to Wiley College in Marshall. When she returned to Dunbar in 1926, it was to teach. She taught English to 39 generations of school children before retiring in 1968, the year Dunbar was integrated.

"Since I retired, I have had a chance to see overall some of the changes in schools since then," she said in her Texarkana home.

Her living room is a showplace of virtue, containing a colorful assortment of figurines, vases, china plates and crystal stemware. Delicate and clean, her home reflects a light gaiety and clarity of thought.

Voicing a somewhat different line of thought than what most black commentators say in light of the past 20 years of integration, Mrs. Hudson marches to the steps of her own opinions.

"There have been some advantages and disadvantages," she said of the U.S. Supreme Court integration rulings in the 1960s. "I think the (black) children lost something more than they gained. They don't seem to have the will to grow and develop they showed in earlier years, and don't show the sense of unity they once had.

"They just go to class these days and slump around, not seeming to care about anything."

At the same time, however, she supports the overall purpose of integration, and the year she retired from teaching she signed up for a class at Texarkana Junior College.

One reason she registered was in response to what a local school administrator, a white man, had told a group of white educators and students several years earlier.

"He had brought two or three white students over to Dunbar to audit our classes," she said. "Of course, our students weren't allowed to go to the white schools and audit them, but we didn't mind.

"Anyway, that man went back and told a group of white teachers and students, 'You have much better conditions and supplies than the Dunbar people have, but they are doing much better work than you and they may one day surpass you. And I would rather die and go to hell than see that happen.'

"At least he was honest about his prejudice," Mrs. Hudson said, her usually smiling eyes briefly flashing stormy warnings of anger. "Don't suppose he could help himself. But I never forgot that, even long after he had died. And when I went to sign up at Texarkana Junior College, I was so proud — and I know that man was just turning over in his grave."

'Exterminator' doesn't let clients 'tick him off'

By MILES MOFFEIT

ARLINGTON (AP) — For 10 years, Gary Finley has armed himself with a gun, gas mask and slew of chemicals to combat a million-year-old menace.

One could describe him as a diluted version of "The Terminator."

But Arnold Schwartzenegger he isn't.

Rather, he's "The Exterminator," a pest-controller equipped with fumigating munitions, an old-fashioned sense of adventure and a knack for encountering the unusual.

Oddly enough, the 34-year-old Arlington resident and owner of Finley Pest Control often stumbles into scenarios which might be found in a motion picture.

He's confronted "mounds of fire ants as large as compact-car hoods," attacks by hundreds of swarming bees, hordes of ticks chewing up sides of houses, roaches the size of mice, a haunted house foundation and nude clients. He's been told by some customers to come in an unmarked pesticide vehicle to save them embarrassment.

Finley's business is family-owned, with only two employees. However, his son often joins him in the fight against insects.

The firm handles an average of 25 service calls per day.

"Every job is a new ball-game," Finley said. "It requires good judgment and concentration.

The exterminator has fought pests on almost all battlegrounds.

"Bugs have no economic distinctions," he said. "They can infest anywhere, from the most affluent places to the most humble."

FINLEY IS outfitted with hefty water spray-guns, gas masks and more than two dozen different insecticide chemicals capable of destroying more than one million different insects. He is currently testing a new innovation in pest-control called the Insectiscope which detects the sound of termites behind walls.

Contrary to popular belief, Finley is not bugged by his tiny nemeses.

"If anything, I've gained a great deal of respect for insects," he said. "They never cease to amaze me." And besides, they are responsible for Finley's lucrative business of late. He said Arlington has had "the buggiest summer in the last 10 years."

Moreover, Finley emphasizes that combating pests is "a lot of fun."

He describes the adrenalin rush he receives during bumblebee ambushes.

"Bumblebees are the most fun we've had," he said. "Everybody fights for that job. It's like a World War II movie."

Finley said two exterminators will advance to the scene of an ambush, both heavily armed with 200-gallon and eight-horsepower spray guns. Then they surround the hive.

Finley said a dense fog will usually form around the hive and the bees will become extremely aggressive and start nosediving.

"THEY (THE BEES) line up in front of you and attack you like German bombers," he said. "When we spray they get gravely perturbed. They'll try to get you."

He said he doesn't wear any special protective clothing during the maneuver because vulnerability "makes it more sporting." However, it's important, he said, that somebody cover the back side of the nest to ward off other bees, such as ones away from the hive.

"It's exciting — like an anti-aircraft gunner on the battle-scene of World War II," he added.

He said he frequently arrives at a scene where a woman is screaming on top of a kitchen table or chair after seeing a cockroach or a rat.

And, "Folks from New Jersey are always asking us if we have unmarked vehicles because they're embarrassed to call us," he said. "I think that's kind of off-the-wall."

Says Finley,"Everyday we have to calm people down.".

But once he lost his tenacity and had to be calmed down. His scariest experience, he says, is the time he crawled underneath the foundation of a North Arlington home built during the turn of the century and heard an ominous noise that raised the hair on the back of his neck.

"I couldn't see it, but something was down there with me," he said. "It was something large rustling all around me. The other men heard it and refused to go under."

It's not surprising that Finley considers his encounters with people, the best part of his job.

"There are different houses and different lifestyles," he said. "The strong seat of the job is communicating with customers and dispensing advice. We're extremely safety-oriented."

Judge denies bond for man who allegedly killed mother, brother

Kendall

NAPLES Fla.(AP) — A judge Friday denied bond for Steven Benson, saying the state has compiled enough evidence to support two first-degree murder charges in the car bombing that killed his tobacco heiress mother and brother.

Defense lawyers argued that "evidence stronger than that needed for a conviction" should be presented by the state in order to deny bond, keeping Benson jailed pending trial.

However, state Circuit Judge Hugh D. Hayes Hayes said, "I think they (defense attorneys) haven't met their burden" of proving their argument.

Defense attorney Jerry Berry said he would appeal Hayes' decision.

A Collier County grand jury last week returned a nine-count indictment against Benson, 34, including two first-degree murder charges.

Benson is charged with the July 9 car bombing that killed his mother, millionaire tobacco heiress Margaret H. Benson, 63, her adopted son Scott, 21, and seriously injured his sister, Carol Lynn Benson Kendall, 40, of Boston.

Two pipe bombs went off just after the three victims entered Mrs. Benson's car, parked outside her home in an exclusive Naples development.

Ms. Kendall, 40, the divorced mother of two teen-age boys, suffered burns over 30 percent of her body in the explosion and has been undergoing skin grafts and physical therapy at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston.

On Thursday, Ms. Kendall expressed concern about the prospect of her brother being released on bail. She declined to elaborate, except to say she respects the wishes of her grandfather, Harry Hitchcock, founder of the Lancaster Leaf Tobacco Co.

Hitchcock wrote a letter urging the judge not to let Benson out on bail, saying he feared for his life and Ms. Kendall's.

Ms. Kendall returned to Boston on Thursday after testifying before a grand jury in Naples in connection with the bombing.

Mrs. Benson left an estimated $10 million estate which, under her will, would be shared equally by her three children.

Police have said that Steven Benson engineered the bombing because he feared he was going to be cut out of his mother's will after she accused him of stealing $2 million from her stock account.

Senate rejects amnesty proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, working to craft a final version of legislation to slow illegal immigration, rejected a proposal Friday to grant amnesty to many illegal aliens at the same time employer sanctions take effect.

The vote to reject the proposal was 65-26, as the Senate moved closer to a final vote on the bill next week.

Two other amendments won approval on a voice vote. One could lead to termination of employer sanctions if they were found to cause widespread discrimination. The other would require all states to verify an alien's legal status before approving welfare, Medicaid, food stamp and unemployment compensation benefits.

The amendment for simultaneous amensty and sanctions was proposed by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass who said it was part of the compromise necessary to win majority support for an immigration bill.

Hispanic groups have demanded that legalization take place the same time as sanctions, which under the bill sponsored by Sen. Alan Simpson, R-Wyo., would take effect a year after enactment.

They have feared that employers would not hire Hispanics or others with foreign-sounding names once they were faced with possible stiff fines and criminal penalties for knowingly hiring illegal aliens.

The amnesty vote thus left intact Simpson's language, which would delay legalization for up to three years, while a new commission studied whether the immigration reform measure was curbing illegal border crossings and the hiring of undocumented workers.

Simpson's language also specifies that amnesty only be granted to illegal aliens who have been in the United States continuously since before Jan. 1, 1980. Kennedy sought to include more people in the amnesty, by moving the cutoff date to those in the country prior to Jan. 1, 1981.

Kennedy, in arguing for simultaneous amnesty and sanctions, said, "It was good enough for a compromise last October. It ought to be good enough for us now." He referred to an agreement by House-Senate conferees last year before they gave up efforts to fashion a compromise bill.

But Simpson said if legalization begins before enforcement controls in the bill are under way, "The illegal population will immediately begin to grow again. It will create additional pressures for additional legalizations. We will have a new surge (of illegal immigration)."

Kennedy won, however, with his amendment that could phase out sanctions if they cause widespread discrimination. Simpson, who said he does not expect that to happen, accepted the proposal and it passed by voice vote.

NATION IN BRIEF

TV camerman assaulted while doing crime story

BALTIMORE (AP) — A television cameraman filming a story on alleged crime at an East Baltimore hotel was assaulted and his equipment thrown to the ground before undercover officers moved in and arrested two men, police said.

Charles Cochran, 31, an employee of WBAL-TV, was not seriously hurt, police said.

Marc Mooney, 32, a reporter for the station, said he and Cochran were taping a follow-up story on alleged criminal activities at the New Motel "when two dudes thought we were filming them."

Brian Dibbern, 26, and John Lane, 25, both of Baltimore, were charged with disorderly conduct, assault and malicious destruction of property. Dibbern was also accused of possession of marijuana.

Plane crashes in field

HARTSELLE, Ala. (AP) — A twin-engine plane that reported engine trouble crashed and burned Friday in a freshly plowed soybean field in northern Alabama, killing at least five people, authorities said.

Lloyd Alley, the Federal Aviation Administration's air traffic manager at the Huntsville-Madison County Jetport, said the plane traveling from Lakeland, Fla., to Huntsville crashed in a rural area near Hartselle at 11:17 a.m.

Alley said the pilot's flight plan indicated six people were aboard the plane but state troopers at the scene were able to confirm only five deaths.

Alley said the pilot of the turboprop plane reported "engine difficulty and hydraulic problems" and that "he was unable to maintain altitude, and then we lost contact with him."

Alley said the plane went down close to the intersection of Alabama Highway 67 and state Highway 36 in Morgan County.

Bank to sell building

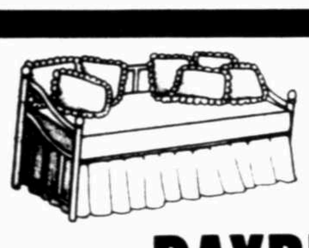

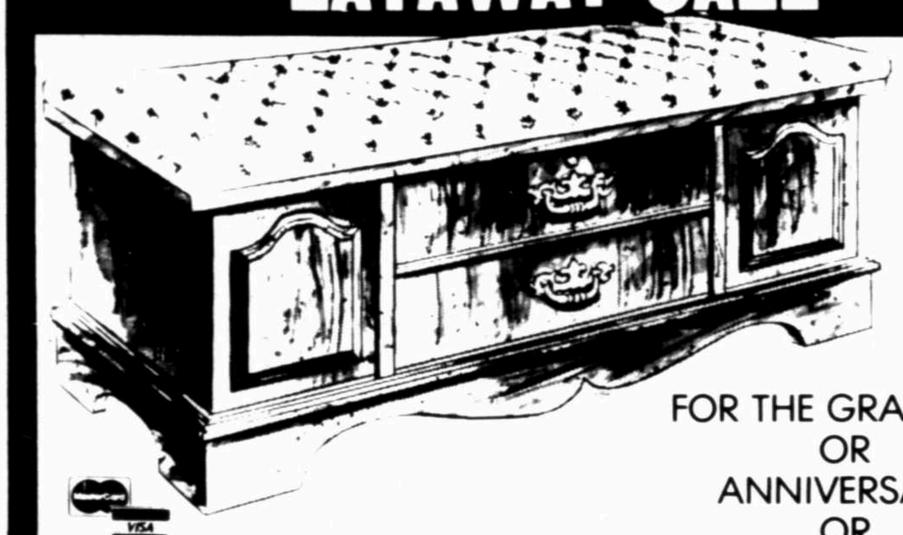

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Bank of America plans to sell its 52-story world headquarters tower, the tallest structure in San Francisco, and two nearby buildings for $660 million, the bank said Friday.

BankAmerica, the bank's parent company, put the building on the market last fall in a move it estimated would raise at least $500 million.

The bank, the nation's largest, "has entered into a letter of intent to sell" its headquarters complex to developer Walter H. Shorenstein but the sale "is subject to a definitive agreement," according to the announcement.

The deal also includes a 16-story building and a five-story branch of the bank. In all, a square block with about 1.8 million square feet of rentable space is involved.

People's dreams strangle Brazilian state

By BRYNA BRENNAN

PORTO VELHO, Brazil (AP) — The biggest problem for Brazil's newest state, formerly the Amazon jungle territory of Rondonia, is a preponderance of people in search of new lives and prosperity.

"We are at the point of social strangulation," said Gov. Angelo Angelin during an interview at his office in this state capital, 2,300 miles northwest of Rio de Janeiro. "These people arrive and confront difficulties because they have nowhere to go and we don't have the facilities to handle them."

In 1982, a year after Rondonia became Brazil's 23rd state, the military government then in office predicted that the population of about 500,000 would double by the end of the century. According to the governor's office, it is now almost triple that, with a population of 1.3 million.

Angelin contends the military regimes that ruled for 21 years promised too much too quickly. He claims the region will go from boom to bust unless the influx slows down.

"To stop migration is impossible and illegal," said the governor, who was appointed by the civilian administration that came to power this past March. "We have to end this propaganda the military governments promoted that said Rondonia is El Dorado." El Dorado is the mythical South American city of gold.

The centerpiece of the plan to populate Rondonia, which borders Bolivia, was a 900-mile road financed by the World Bank. When completed last year it linked Rondonia to the prosperous south.

The road was described as the "dorsal spine" of the Amazon, a two-lane highway that would enable Brazilians to flee crowded cities, get cheap land and easily grow crops for subsistence and sales. Sleepy little truck stops that dotted the road when it was dirt-covered and sometimes took a month to traverse now are sprawling, hot, dusty cities.

The governor said the state, about the size of Oregon, is rife with problems and conflicts because of the disappointments suffered by those who left behind roots and found no hope, no jobs.

The government agency responsible for helping colonize the area is swamped with requests. Educational needs are far below demand. Malaria is the No. 1 killer.

"We're receiving all these people from other states, but we aren't getting funds from those states nor the federal government," said Valdemir Camata, mayor of the city of Ji-Parana, about 250 miles south of Porto Velho.

Camata, sitting in his office dressed in a sport shirt and sandals, arrived in Ji-Parana seven years ago.

"It was a new frontier, there was room for everything. I came for a visit, caught malaria and decided to stay," he said. "But now we can't keep up with the growth."

Roughly 145,000 people settled in Rondonia last year, or about 400 people a day, and 82 percent wind up in Ji-Parana.

"No matter what we do we are always a step behind the influx," Camata said. "We can't stop the migration because it is a result of what's happening in the rest of the country. They come here looking for new horizons."

"The people arrive and don't know where to go," said the Roman Catholic bishop of Ji-Parana, the Most Rev. Antonio Possamihe. "They wait, almost without hope. They sit at the bus stations, the town squares."

Yet, some have found success in Rondonia, particularly those who came before statehood. The area, once only dense rain forest inhabited only by scattered Indian tribes, now has ranchers and farmers producing rice, beans, corn, coffee and cocoa.

"We're real close to meeting the monthly average though," added Brown. "The average is 2.08 inches and we've received 1.74 so far."

The NWS predicted mostly cloudy skies for today with a 30 percent chance of rain, a high temperature near 80 degrees and southeasterly winds at five to 10 mph.

Tonight and Sunday will also be mostly cloudy with a 30 percent chance of rain forecast for Sunday afternoon. Lows should be in the mid-60's and a high temperature in the 80's is predicted.

Brown stated that although temperatures have been cooler lately because of the cold front, temperatures could "edge up to 90 degrees by the first of the week."

The record high temperature for Friday's date was 102 degrees set in 1930. An all-time low — 52 degrees — was recorded for today's date in 1949.

STATE

Very moist and unstable tropical air brought widespread showers and thunderstorms Friday from the central Panhandle south to the New Mexico border.

Showers and thunderstorms were also observed from the Lower Rio Grande Valley northward through Central Texas to the Red River.

Skies were generally fair to partly cloudy elsewhere in the state, the National Weather Service said.

Behind a Pacific cool front, temperatures reached the mid-70s over the western Panhandle and mid-80s to lower 90s across the rest of Texas.

North to northeast winds at 10 mph were typical.

The forecast for North Texas called for widely scattered thunderstorms through Sunday, particularly in the south. Highs should range from mid-80s to near 90 and lows from mid- to upper 60s.

NATION

Thunderstorms drenched Kansas and much of the nation's midsection Friday as cool weather moved into the Northeast.

Partly cloudy to cloudy skies and cool temperatures, in the 50s and 60s, were common from New England and the mid-Atlantic states to the Great Lakes. At least 11 cities scattered from West Virginia to Massachusetts set or tied record lows for the date, with readings ranging from the 30s to 51 degress.

Showers and thunderstorms were scattered across the eastern and southern Plains and western sections of the middle and lower Mississippi Valley.

In southern Kansas, 2 to 5 inches of rain fell overnight, with isolated amounts in excess of 8 inches. Wichita received 2 inches of rain in just two hours.

Heavy rains caused local flooding in eastern Nebraska, where 2 to 4½ inches fell between Kearney and Riverdale.

Dogs snatch dramatic win from Andrews

Cody Bell, Reporter-Telegram

Midland flanker Kenny DeLaGarza makes good gain before being caught from behind in Memorial Stadium game Friday night.

Marcum-LaGarza bomb ends tie with 1:30 left

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Assistant Sports Editor

Midland High quarterback Matt Marcum was probably trying to figure out a way to explain why the Bulldogs were in the wrong formation on fourth down and 1:30 left to play in a 13-13 tie with the Andrews Mustangs at Memorial Stadium Friday night. Instead, he was explaining a 19-13 victory.

Marcum dialed receiver Kenny DeLaGarza for a 39-yard TD bomb with 1:17 left in the game to break open the 13-13 logjam with the Mustangs, giving the Bulldogs a rousing 2-0 start in the 1985 football season.

Marcum was almost sheepish in the Bulldog dressing room after the game. He knew he had made a mistake, but it turned out not to matter as DeLaGarza ran his route, caught Marcum's bullett and eluded one Andrews defender to fine the end zone, avoiding a sisterly kiss with Andrews.

"I called the wrong formation on that play," noted Marcum. "You can't print what I was thinking about at the time. I looked over at Coach (Doug McCutchen) and he said to go ahead and run the play. Kenny did a good job of getting open and ran his route perfectly. It all worked out, but I was wrong."

McCutchen also noticed the error. "My heart was in my throat. We had the tight end, Bobby Williams, on the wrong side. If he goes downfield, he's an ineligible receiver. Bobby did a good job of recognizing we were in the wrong formation and didn't go down. We ran the route we wanted all along and it worked. Coach Bernie Hagins called that play from the press box."

DeLaGarza, who had a brillant night with seven receptions for 115 yards, knew this 39-yarder was the biggest. "I felt like it was then or never. I knew I had to get in the end zone. We were facing fourth down and time was running out."

"I really thought the play would work all along because the cornerback kept coming up on me and I thought I could get behind him. I wouldn't know if we were in the wrong formation or not. I just ran my route."

The Bulldogs scored all 19 of their points in the second half to erase two leads by the pesky 4A Mustangs.

As expected, this one turned into "London Blitz" with Marcum completing 11 of 22 passes for 206 yards while Andrews quarterback Danny Neighbors hurled the bomb 22 times, completing 11 for 161 yards and two touchdowns.

Andrews took a 13-7 lead with 7:47 left in the game when Neighbors hit Mike Moisant with a three-yard TD pass to end a 56-yard, six play drive. Neighbors hit a Hail Mary effort to Rodney Buck for 22 yards to the MHS two to set up the score.

But MHS came rolling back to tie the score by marching 52 yards in eight plays with Jake Madrid getting the final three. Both teams missed the extra point tries and it looked like there would be that infernal kissing score staring these teams at the end. Only four minutes was left in the game.

Andrews was forced to punt and Midland High responded with a 69-yard drive in 11 plays to pull it out of the fire. Marcum hit on four passes in the drive and nailed the "Wrong Formation" victory with a strike to DeLaGarza to end it.

Andrews took a 7-0 lead in the first half when Mustang Eddie Gonzalez intercepted a Marcum pass to set up the Mustangs at their own 48. Neighbors hit three passes in the drive, including the 10-yard TD to reserve receiver Colby Lemmons with 50 seconds left in the half.

MHS stormed back to score in the third quarter after stalling on one drive at the Mustang four-yard line. Mark Johnson returned an Andrews punt from the 44 to the 16 to set up his own four-yard TD.

"I was pleased with the way our kids came back," said McCutchen. "We may have underestimated Andrews in the first half and you can't do that against a good team. Andrews is a good team. This is a nice one to have."

Madrid led all rushers with 72 yards on 12 carries while Hohnson had 59. Andrews' David Criswell had 15 carries for 48 yards. But it was the Neighbors to Buck combination that ripped the Bulldog secondary for 91 yards.

However, the Marcum to DeLaGarza combo was potent also. That accounted for 115 yards and not even a wrong formation could stop them.

Defensively, Andrews' Gonzalez, Neighbors and Munday Hernandez all had first half interceptions against Marcum, who passed for 115 yards before intermission without getting the team in.

Marcum faced a lot of pressure from Andrews' Bobby Kimbrough and Carlon Branson through the night and the Bulldog runners were finding that running against linebacker Ronnie Elmore was tough.

Midland High's Brent Barton had a big 16-yard sack on Neighbors in the Mustangs' final fling of the night and tackle James Campbell was rugged up front as the Andrews rushing game could account for only 80 yards.

The Bulldogs now hit the road for the first time this year and face the tough prospect of facing Lubbock Estacado at Lowry Field. Estacado, another 4A school, already owns a victory over 5A Plainview, a team expected to do well in District 3-5A this year.

Temple stuns Rebels, 19-7

By BOB BRUNDAGE
Sports Writer

TEMPLE - Domination, that was the story. The Temple Wildcats dominated the Midland Lee Rebels on both sides of the ball for a 19-7 "Revenge is Sweet" victory here Friday night at Wildcat Stadium.

It only took the Wildcats 14 plays to prove who was boss, 11 on offense and three on defense.

Taking the opening kickoff, the Wildcats drove 70 yards in 11 plays for the first score in the game. Rico Fairley punched the ball across the goal line from five yards out for a 6-0 lead.

The Wildcats then gave the Rebels their chance with the ball and showed them an defensive effort that was to supress the offensive performance. Lee was held to three downs and forced to punt.

Taking the ball from their own 22, Temple again marched down field at will. This time the drive took 16 plays and covered 78 yards with Fairley scoring his second five-yard TD run. Quarterback Brian Frericks got back back the missed extra point from the first touchdown on a keeper to his right for the two-pointer and a 14-0 lead with only 21 seconds gone in the second quarter.

That was all the scoring of the first half but it wasn't the end of Lee's frustrations. In all, the Rebels managed to run only 18 plays in the first two quarters for 61 yards while Temple piled up 204 total yards on 37 plays. The Rebels didn't even manage a first down until the second quarter.

"We just got beat, thouroughly beat," said Rebel head coach Jack Tayrien. "They lined up and rammed the ball down our throats and made us like it. We couldn't get a sustained drive going and we couldn't stop them. We slowed them down occasionally but didn't stop them."

Things seemed to get a little better for Lee in the second half, keeping the Wildcats out of the end zone the final 24 minutes, but the Rebels still couldn't manage any offensive production.

With 11:57 remaining in the game, the Wildcats increased their margin to 17-0 with a 21-yard field goal by Bobby Arnold.

Following the three-pointer, Rodney Sims came up with the biggest Rebel play of the night, a 58-yard kickoff return that set up Lee's lone score.

Getting the ball at the Wildcat 36 - one of the few times the Rebels even made it out of their own territory - Lee picked up a quick first down on Joe Woodard's 12-yard run. Quarterback Tuey Rankin followed with a 24-yard pass to Dexter Traylor for the score with 11:32 left in the game. Mike Little made it 17-7.

Defensive end Lloyd Hoelscher gave the Wildcats their final points of the night on Lee's next possession. After Temple downded a J.J. Villerreal punt on the Rebel two, Hoelscher sacked Rankin in the end zone for a safety and a 19-7 lead.

In all, Lee was held to only 91 yards rushing on 33 carries and 24 yards passing. Ranking completed 1 of-4 passing efforts.

Temple was also 1-of-4 in passing, for 12 yards, but the Wildcats never really needed to throw the ball. Their running backs were doing too good a job carrying the football, 278 yards on 15 carries.

Two Wildcat backs busted the 100-yard mark. Fairley, who scored both Temple TDs, rushed for 107 yards while Stacy Davis picked up another 105.

"Stacy is Kenneth Davis' youngest brother," said Temple coach Bob McQueen. Kenneth Davis was a concensus All-American for TCU last year and fifth in Heisman Trophy balloting. The elder Davis is back for TCU again this season.

"I'm not going to take anything away from them, they're excellent backs," said Tayrien. "We did have some opportunites to tackle them but we didn't."

Throughout the game, Temple backs were running into, over and around would-be Lee tacklers. They continually turned no-gains into first downs and losses into positive yardage.

"There are no excuses," said Tayrien. "We weren't good enough. They beat us. It certainly wasn't any fluke."

The loss to Temple is the first pre-district loss the Rebels have suffered since a 6-0 decision favoring Killeen in 1980.

Lee now has a week to regroup for Friday night's home debut against El Paso Eastwood. The Rebels are taking a 1-1 record into the game.

Temple is also 1-1 on the year and McQueen looks at the victory as a big boost to his team's morale.

"This is sure a big win for us," said McQueen, whose team dropped a 20-18 decision to Austin Crockett last week. "We had the greatest edge going in, a psychological edge after losing last week to Crockett and last year to Lee."

The Wildcats had something because they weren't the same 22 Tayrien scouted last week. "They did a great job. They are a well coached ball team and they came out ready to play," said Tayrien. "This certainly wasn't the same team we saw against Austin Crockett."

TED BATTLES

Who can stop Auburn now?

See how easy it is to become No. 1. It shows you how the pollsters' minds work. Last week Auburn jumped over preseason favorite Oklahoma into the AP's No. 1 spot on the basis of its "impressive win".

Impressive, yes, but Southwestern Louisiana? Maybe it wasn't "impressive", but UCLA did beat defending national champion BYU last week, but apparently that didn't impress. And Penn State beat Maryland, picked by some preseason ratings to be No.1 in the land, but obviously the pollsters regarded the Lions' win over the Terps as habit, not achievement.

Auburn may be so firmly entrenched after this week that nobody will get the Plainsmen out. The race for No. 1 may be over before Oklahoma and Texas even open the season or, for that matter, even Auburn opens the season. The Tigers play Southern Mississippi this week for impressive win No. 2.

The SWC....

Texas A&M plus 7 1/2 over Alabama—Crimson Tide might be on the way back, but I'm reluctant to give points against the Aggies, who should be on the verge of a productive year.

Texas Tech plus 7 1/2 over Tulsa— Raiders more familiar with Wishbone and should get its offensive show on the road sooner. However, beating Tulsa at Tulsa....

Miami minus 18 over Rice— A noon game on Astroturf in Houston at this time of year... they've got to be crazy. Under those conditions, perhaps anything can happen. But outside of heat stroke, I don't think it will.

TCU minus 13 over Tulane— Frogs could draw their biggest crowd ever for a non-conference home game, which shows what kind of fever they've got in Fort Worth. With that kind of support TCU should be at its best.

Georgia minus six over Baylor— It's Athens, and it will all be Greek to the Bears.

The others...

Auburn minus 21 over Southern Mississippi— Unless War Eagles suffer letdown after that big win last week. The pollsters have been trying to make Auburn No. 1 for several seasons now. Somehow I've got a hunch that Pat Dye would just as soon they wait until November.

Temple plus 10 over Penn State— Owls reaching for attention and, catching the Nittanies after win over Maryland, just might make it close.

Maryland minus seven over Boston College— Terps recover composure.

BYU minus four over Washington— Both coming off losses, but Cougars are at home.

Notre Dame minus 2 1/2 over Michigan— Still, points look good, too.

Tennessee minus three over UCLA— Bruins let it all hang out last week and trips to Provo and Knoxville on successive weekends is asking a lot.

Georgia Tech minus nine over NC State— Wolfpack wiped out by East Carolina last week.

Ohio State minus 7 1/2 over Pitt— Panthers have been struggling the last couple of years and this is no place to get well.

Rutgers plus 20 over Florida— Didn't I pick the Scarlet Knights to finish No. 1. I can't abandon the bandwagon this soon.

The Pros...

Dallas minus 5 over Detroit— Unless Lions get away with a 12th man again.

Houston plus 10 over Washington- Redskins still licking wounds, but then the Oilers may not be back on this globe after Miami....Can I change that pick?

Jersey Giants plus one over Green Bay— Where do they get these teams, anyway?

49ers minus 14 over Atlanta— Hawks don't stand a chance.

Miami minus 17 over Indianapolis— Colts pay for Oilers' indiscretion.

Golden Cranes thwart Owls, 14-12

By ERIC SCHURER
Sports Writer

BIG LAKE - Crane coach Ricky White may not have spent most of his week praying for rain, but it sure did help his Golden Cranes stop the Reagan County passing game Friday night as the Cranes spoiled the Owls home opener, 14-12.

As much as the slippery field and slick football, though, credit the pass rush of defensive end Kenny Walker and the Golden Crane secondary with limiting the vaunted Owls' passing game to 96 yards and five completions in 22 attempts for Reagan County quarterback Bobby Gunnels. Gunnels was also victimized for three interceptions.

"The conditions helped us as far as Gunnels is concerned," admitted White. "I wouldn't like to face him on a dry field.

"The footing was atrocious, it was worse than it looked," White said of the grounds that absorbed an all-day and part-of-the-night rain.

Ironically, it was a 52-yard bomb by Crane quarterback Abel Sena to wingback Carl Claunch late in the third quarter that made the difference for the ground-oriented Cranes. And that came just moments after the Owls had taken their first lead of the night with a 23-yards scoring drive off a Crane fumble.

Shouldering the load for most of the night for Crane was junior tailbck Gerald Mitchell who gained 149 yards and scored Crane's first touchdown on 23 carries.

But credit a sturdy goal-line stand by the Golden Crane defense late in the fourth quarter to stop a last-gasp Owl drive at the five-yard line with 2:00 left.

Owl coach Ronnie Reeger opted to go for the first down and try for six rather than entrust a shaky kicking game with a potential game-winning field goal.

"I wouldn't even want to think about a second chance in that situation," Reeger said. "We've been having some trouble with our kicking game, we discussed it, and that was it.

"It was our strength against their strength at that point. They just did a better job than our people."

Ricky DeGraffenried was the first Crane in on the crucial down, stopping fullback Tim Tatum's dive into the line. "I think the brightest spot in the game was the way the kids played with character on that series," White said. "It's easy for kids to give up when you've got just this much to go," White said, holding up his hands about two feet apart.

Crane took over the ball with just under 2:00 left, from there, Sena and Mitchell executed one final first down to run out the clock on the Owls' hopes.

As well as supplying most of the offensive fireworks for Crane, Mitchell was one of the defensive stars for Crane on this night, picking off a pair of Gunnels' passes. Dwayne Tarpley also nabbed an interception, his third of the season, while Mark Velasquez and Edwin Galindo spent much of the night batting down Gunnels passes.

Walker, who has been an imposing defender on the pass rush all season, played an excellent first half, but was hampered in the second half with a stiff back injured whilte trying to block a Reagan County punt.

In the first half, the game was living up to its billing as a defensive struggle as both sides were having trouble moving the ball on the wet turf.

For Reagan County, Gunnels was just three of 12 with two of his interceptions at the intermission, and tailback James West was stopped for zero yardage on seven carries.

The Cranes broke the stalemate late in the second quarter as Sena connected with Tarpley for his only completion of the half. But for the Cranes fans who made the trip, it was worth the wait going 44 yards to the Reagan County 15-yard line. From there, it was Mitchell's show, taking him just two runs to finish off the job. It was a seven-yard run that gave Crane its 7-0 halftime lead.

The Owls gained their best field position of the half on the ensuing kickoff as West, who was held to zero yards rushing on seven first-half carries, ripped off a 35-yard return to their own 45. But Gunnels threw his second interception of the evening on the second play of the drive to stall the Owls until after the intermission.

But Reagan County came out roaring in the second half as West, just a sophomore, raced 71 yards around the left side to make it 7-6. A blocked extra point kept it there until the Owls took a brief lead, 12-7, on a one-yard keeper by Gunnels before a two-point conversion failed.

It was then Crane mounted its final drive, using just four plays to cover 70 yards for the game-winner.

Springs fined $2,000

DALLAS (AP) — Former Dallas Cowboys running back Ron Springs was given a year's probation, fined $2,000 and ordered to pay restitution for a police officers' medical bills Friday following his conviction for resisting arrest at a topless nightclub.

A jury of nine women and three men deliberated more than two hours before agreeing upon a sentence for the veteran running back, who received a 45-day sentence probated over a year.

Springs, 28, was indicted in February on a charge of aggravated assault on a police officer, a felony punishable by up to 10 years in prison. But the jury convicted him Thursday of resisting arrest, a misdemeanor.

Police had been called to the Million Dollar Saloon on Jan. 18 by the day manager, who said Springs was causing a disturbance and refused to leave.

Cpl. Vanessa Pitz told the jury that Springs had hit her on the lip, kicked her in the shin, "body slammed" her against a bar and thrown her over bar stools.

Springs was ordered on Friday to pay her medical bills of $1,376.24.

Springs said his career in the National Football League has been put on hold because of the charges. He was cut by the Cowboys on Labor Day and now says he may sign with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

Baylor, Rice, Ag on video

Southwest Conference

Baylor free safety Thomas Everett was named SWC AP Player of the Wee after returning a punt 77 yards, making 12 tackles and intercepting a pass last week

Three Southwest Conference football teams will get the television treatment this weekend with two games being shown nationally.

The Georgia Bulldogs were six-point favorites over the Baylor Bears in an 11 a.m. (WTBS-TV) nationally televised game from Athens, Ga.

The other nationally televised game features Texas A&M against Alabama, fresh off its comeback victory over Georgia. 'Bama was a touchdown favorite over the Aggies in the 6:45 p.m. (ESPN) nationally televised game from Birgmingham, Ala.

The Rice Owls are the other SWC team to be on television, meeting Miami at noon in Houston with the SWC network cameras looking on. Miami was rated an 18-point favorite over the Owls who won only one game last year.

In other games, Tulsa was a seven-point selection over Texas Tech at Tulsa; Arkansas was a four-point choice over Mississippi in 7:30 p.m. clash at Jackson, Miss.; and Texas Christian was a 12-point favorite over Tulane in a 7:30 p.m. game at Fort Worth.

Baylor was 0-2 against Georgia, losing narrowly both times.

The Bears lost 24-12 in 1972 in Coach Grant Teaff's Baylor debut and fell 16-14 in 1978.

"It's a challenge to play between the hedges," said Teaff. "They have a great winning tradition. We catch them at a bad time, coming off a loss. They aren't used to losing in Athens."

Aggie Coach Jackie Sherrill will be returning to his alma mater, Alabama, to challenge 'Bama Coach Ray Perkins, his teammate on a national championship team in the 1960s.

Sherrill refused to announce his starting quarterback, saying he wanted Alabama to have to study both Craig Stump and Kevin Murray.

"They had to go back to 1983 to see Kevin in film," said Sherrill, who also refused to allow his quarterbacks to be interviewed.

Perkins said, "Texas A&M is very impressive. They have the best athletes we will face all year. They will without question be the biggest team we will play this year and perhaps the most talented."

Texas Tech, which rallied for a 32-31 victory over New Mexico, will be seeking its first victory outside the state of Texas since 1978.

"We're going to have our hands full," said Tech Coach Jerry Moore. "They embarrassed us two years ago and last year they were one of the best teams we played."

Tulsa whipped Houston last week in the first of four games against the SWC.

TCU, which was 8-3 last year, will be making its 1985 debut.

Tulane Coach Mack Brown said, "TCU has a great back in Kenneth Davis. Our program right now is quite similar to TCU's two years ago. TCU Coach Jim Wacker has done a great job in the two years he's been there."

Wacker said Tulane is a lot farther along than the Horned Frogs.

"They have better players than we did," said Wacker. "We're excited about getting the season under way."

The Arkansas-Ole Miss game is always a heated affair. The two schools can't even agree on the series record.

Arkansas says it's 15-15-1. Ole Miss says it's 16-14-1 in favor of the Rebs.

In 1914, The Rebs won but the Hogs claimed a forfeit because Ole Miss used an ineligible player.

"This is still a great neighborhood rivalry," said Arkansas Coach Ken Hatfield. "I don't know if it was as same as it was in the 1940s, 50s, and 60s."

Texas will not open its season until next week when it hosts Missouri.

SMU is idle.

Colbert shares first place

MILWAUKEE (AP) — First-round leader Jim Colbert, a veteran PGA Tour member, scored a 3-under-par 69 Friday to share the second-round lead of the $300,000 Greater Milwaukee Open with struggling pro Jeff Sanders.

Colbert, 44, and Sanders, a 29-year-old non-winner on the tour from Oregon, both had second-round totals of 135, 9-under on the par-72 Tuckaway Country Club in nearby Franklin.

Sanders putted well on fast, hardening greens, earning a 5-under-par 67 to go with his first-round score of 68.

"It feels great," Sanders said. "This is what you play for, to be in the hunt.

"I've never been leading or tied for the lead before, so this is a new experience," he added. "I do feel pressure. I know what this tournament can do for me.

Colbert, who had a 66 Thursday, said Friday's 69 "was a lot harder because I didn't play very well. I putted well. I chipped pretty well.

In sole possession of third place, one shot back after carding 68-68—136, was 24-year-old Gregg Twiggs, who joined the tour last fall. He also is a non-winner on the tour.

Jack Nicklaus
....well back in the pack

Tied for fourth with a two-round total of 137, or 7 under par, were Joey Sindelar, a 27-year-old two-time winner on the tour this year, and George Burns, who is coming off a victory last week at the Bank of Boston Classic.

"I was anxious to get to the course today," Burns said. "It's nice to be in this kind of groove."

The hilly Tuckaway course, featuring big greens, measures 7,010 yards and was playing tougher than in past years because of higher rough, a gusty wind and slick putting surfaces that made three-putting a constant threat.

A group of five golfers led by Roger Maltbie, another two-time winner on the tour this year, followed at 6-under 138.

Jack Nicklaus, making his first professional appearance in the GMO after failing to qualify for the U.S. Ryder Cup team, was at 139 after two rounds along four other pros. He has not won a tournament this year.

"I played pretty solidly," Nicklaus said of his second-round 69. "I'm not very far behind. I have a very good chance of winning.

"I always like to win a golf tournament," he said. "That's fun."

Astros fire Rosen, hire Wagner

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astros owner John McMullen, fulfilling a promise to shake up his struggling baseball team, fired General Manager Al Rosen Friday and replaced him with former Cincinnati General Manager Dick Wagner.

Rosen's dismissal ended his five-year quest to return the Astros to the National League playoffs.

For Wagner, the new job brings him to Houston to take the post he held with the Reds until he was fired in 1983. He has been operating a baseball consulting business since then.

"Baseball is a cruel sport," McMullen said. "It's not Al Rosen's fault. It's not (Manager) Bob Lillis' fault. But things just haven't happened on the field. It just seemed to me to make a change," McMullen said.

Rosen reportedly was in line to accept a similar position with the San Francisco Giants with Giants General Manager Tom Haller stepping onto the field as manager, replacing Jim Davenport.

Wagner, who signed a three-year contract, said he never thought of leaving his consulting business until 10 days ago when he started discussions with McMullen. Wagner said he had been contacted by other major league teams, but the Astros' position was the only one that held his interest.

Al Rosen
...headed for Giants?

He said the status of Lillis would be "something we will evaluate after the season is over and we've had a chance to sit down and talk."

Asked about his conservative image in dealing with players, he said his image was unearned.

Astros pitcher Nolan Ryan said Rosen's dismissal was no surprise.

"Everybody knew that something would happen. The bigggest thing this did was to stop all the speculation. From a player's standpoint, all you can do is try to do your job and wait to see what happens next," Ryan said.

Responding to questions from reporters, McMullen team owner said the hiring of Wagner did not mean a wholesale turnover in the organization was forthcoming.

McMullen pointed out that the Astros had above .500 records in each month of the season with the exception of an 8-18 mark for July.

Wagner served 5 12 years as Reds general manager before he was fired in July 1983. He was criticized for severing contract negotiations with Pete Rose and firing Sparky Anderson as manager.

Wagner's philosophy with the Reds was to build the organization through its farm system. The Astros have followed a similar policy in recent years, declining to make major trades to upgrade the team.

Rosen, 61, was named Astros General Manager in October, 1980 in a controversal move by McMullen to replace popular former general manager Tal Smith, who had helped lead the Astros into the 1980 National League Western Division title.

The Astros started the 1985 season with hopes of finally challenging for the Western Division title again but they were slowed by injuries.

Under Rosen, the Astros won the second half of the strike-shortened 1981 season but lost the divisional playoff to Los Angeles and have not approached late season contention since that season.

Baseball Drugs

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Former Pittsburgh Pirates captains Willie Stargell and Bill Madlock may be called as defense witnesses next week to refute testimony that they distributed amphetamines to their teammates.

Former teammates Dale Berra and Dave Parker made the claim at the trial of a former Philadelphia Phillies clubhouse caterer charged with dealing drugs to ballplayers.

No players were called Friday as U.S. Attorney J. Alan Johnson used a stream of witnesses whose testimony was aimed at showing that defendant Curtis Strong stayed in Pittsburgh hotels at various times from 1980 to 1984, when he is accused of distributing drugs.

The defense is expected to begin presenting its witnesses Tuesday and attorney Adam O. Renfroe Jr. said he will call at least five former or present players — possibly including Pete Rose, player-manager of the Cincinnati Reds, who this week broke Ty Cobb's career hits record.

"We're going to have ballplayers testifying for two to three days," Renfroe said. "You haven't heard the last ballplayer yet in this case."

Renfroe said he might call Rose because he was briefly mentioned in Sept. 5 testimony by Kansas City Royals outfielder Lonnie Smith.

Smith recalled that Rose's name surfaced in connection with a 1981 investigation into the use of amphetamines by some Phillies players.

Smith did not say whether he ever saw Rose use "greenies," a type of amphetamine that players have testified was once commonly used in baseball to combat fatigue and injuries.

Renfroe said he will call additional players to refute testimony in which Strong, 38, was pictured as a major, well-known supplier of cocaine not only to the Pirates, but also to other National League players.

By law, a prescription is required to obtain the stimulant.

Irish, Michigan try to reclaim lost glory before TV

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

College Football

Proof that parity has arrived in college football will be evident Saturday in Ann Arbor, Mich., when Notre Dame and Michigan, two of the sport's most glamorous name, try to recapture some of their lost glory.

Thanks to CBS-TV (12:30 p.m.), the entire nation will be able see how the mighty have fallen when the Fighting Irish begin Gerry Faust's fifth — and some say final — season as head coach while the Wolverines try to overcome the embarrassment of a 6-6 record in 1984.

Although Notre Dame was 7-5 for the second year in a row, the Irish finished the regular season by defeating LSU, Navy, Penn State and Southern Cal before losing to Southern Methodist in the Aloha Bowl.

"I think we came of age a little bit that last month,' says Faust. "We proved we could bounce off the canvas and play good football against some pretty tough opposition."

Despite Faust's 25-20-1 record, the Irish are ranked No. 13 in the Associated Press poll.

"I think we've got a chance to be a good football team, but I almost always feel that way," says Faust. "I haven't said much, and I don't think the players have said much. We probably haven't won as much as people thought we should the last four years so it's understandable for people to have a wait-and-see attitude.

"WE NEED TO GO out and play good football consistently for 11 straight weeks. We've been through our share of ups and downs and I think we know what needs to be done. If we realize our potential and take it one Saturday at a time and keep everything in perspective, we have a chance to have the kind of season Notre Dame fans have been waiting for."

Michigan is 15-1 in openers under Bo Schembechler, 9-0 at home, and Schembechler promises that the Wolverines will be "a better team this year than we were a year ago. That will be particularly true offensively. First of all, we'll have (Jim) Harbaugh back at quarterback. I think our offensive line will be improved. I think our backs will be decent.

"There are no superpowers out there. There are no teams on our schedule we can't beat. You pick us in the second division (of the Big Ten) and you'll be dead wrong. We'll be in contention. You talk to all of those guys who are going to play us and there's not a one of them taking us lightly — I'll guarantee it."

MEANWHILE, AUBURN puts its new No. 1 ranking on the line with a home game against Southern Mississippi. The Tigers supplanted Oklahoma, which doesn't get under way for two more weeks.

Elsewhere, third-ranked Florida entertains Rutgers, No. 5 Iowa plays host to Drake, eighth-ranked Oklahoma State is at home for a night game with North Texas State, No. 9 Ohio State hosts Pitt under the light and No. 10 UCLA visits Tennessee.

In the Second Ten, No. 11 Penn State entertains Temple, No. 12 LSU visits North Carolina, No. 14 Arkansas faces Mississippi under the lights in Jackson, Washington is at No. 16 Brigham Young, Maryland vs. No. 17 Boston College at Foxboro, Mass., Southern Illinois at No. 19 Ilinois at night and Texas A&M vs. Alabama in Birmingham for a night game.

Besides second-ranked Oklahoma, No. 4 Southern Cal, sixth-ranked SMU, No. 7 Florida State, No. 15 South Carolina and No. 18 Nebraska have an open date.

Auburn opened with a 49-7 rout of Southwestern Louisiana as Bo Jackson galloped for 290 yards and four touchdowns from the Tigers' new I-formation. Southern Mississippi, on the other hand, blanked Louisiana Tech 28-0 and allowed only 138 yards to lead the nation in total defense.

"We face a lot sterner test this week," says Auburn Coach Pat Dye. "They always seem to play their best against Southeastern Conference teams. We've had some great games against Southern Miss since we've been here and expect this to be no different than the rest — tough and hard-fought."

PITT, WHICH nipped Purdue 31-30 in its opener, lost to Ohio State in the Fiesta Bowl two years ago and pays its first visit to Columbus and, says Coach Foge Fazio, "from everything I hear it's real wild."

Ohio State will be without star tailback Keith Byars, who suffered a broken bone in his foot two weeks ago.

"I hope our guys realize that Keith Byars is not their whole football team," Fazio says. "(John) Wooldridge can run, they have good receivers and their quarterback (Jim Karsatos) is a great competitor."

UCLA, which ended Brigham Young's 25-game winning streak last week, can make Terry Donahue the winningest coach in school history by defeating Tennessee. Donahue and Bill Spaulding are tied with 72 victories but Spaulding needed 14 years (1925-38) to do it while Donahue is in his 10th season.

"It was a critical start for us," Donahue says. "We're young and not highly experienced."

But Tennessee's Johnny Majors says that "any time you beat the defending national champion with the longest winning streak in the nation — and on their home field, at that — you have a good football teams. I was impressed by UCLA's defense. They put pressure on BYU's passing game that was very effective."

UCLA will have another top passing game to contend with since Majors calls Tony Robinson and Tim McGee the best passer and receiver he has coached. In fact, the Vols have five wide receivers who can run 40 yards in 4.5 seconds — or better.

THE WASHINGTON-BYU game lost some of its luster when both teams were beaten last week (UCLA 27, BYU 24; Oklahoma State 31, Washington 17). This was supposed to have been the game that wasn't played a year ago when BYU won the national championship and Washington, which thought it should have, finished second.

So long, golden arches, dinosaur of drive-in era

BEAVER FALLS, Pa. (AP) — Billions of hamburgers ago, when the global McDonald's empire was young, workers raised a pair of golden arches over the roof of a drive-in that's now the last of its type on the East Coast.

But in the past 20 years "drive-thru" has replaced "drive-in," spelling the end of one of only six red-and-white-tiled McDonald's in the country.

Store manager Pat Brown said, "The reason we're moving is we're expanding with all the new products. When they built this place they had hamburgers, fries and Coke, 11 items. Now we've got so much equipment we're getting crowded."

The Beaver Falls outlet was No. 712 in a worldwide chain that numbers 8,500 restaurants, with another sprouting somewhere on an average of every 17 hours, according to Robert Keyser, director of media relations for McDonald's.

The others five operating red-and-white-tiles McDonald's are in Birmingham, Ala.; Cleveland; and San Jose, Long Beach and Pico Rivera, Calif.

Forty percent of the company's sales come from the drive-thru window, where customers can be served without leaving their cars, Keyser said.

At the drive-in, customers parked, walked to the counter and most of them returned to the car to eat. There are no seats inside, only a handful of tables outside and benches built into the walls under the eaves of the wide flat roof.

"In the wintertime they're not really happy about it at all. Nobody really wants to sit in their cars when it's 20 degrees outside and eat," Brown said. "A dining room would definitely be nice."

Rod Applequist, director of operations for Paul Sweeney, the franchisee who runs the drive-in, echoed Brown's view.

"We do try to make it convenient for our customers and we can't do that without a dining room or a drive-thru," he said. "The size and location of the lot doesn't permit it."

"I'm going to miss it. That was always McDonald's, the tile and the arches. The new ones are nice but they're just not the same. McDonald's was always like a drive-in to me."

— Customer of McDonald's golden arches store

The Beaver Falls store sits on a triangular lot wedged between a two-lane highway and a pair of car dealerships. Sweeney wants to replace it elsewhere, and expects to move by the end of the year. But he doesn't know what will happen to the old building once its arches come down.

"There's a lot of nostalgia," Sweeney said of his stand, which he took over in 1977. "I started in a store like that one...a red-and-white. I can remember the days of peeling potatoes and dicing and blanching."

But, "you've got to move forward, and those things are part of the past."

The Beaver Falls red-and-white opened April 28, 1965, 10 years to the month after Ray Kroc started the chain's first restaurant in Des Plaines, Ill. The company phased out the Illinois store and turned it into a museum in May.

In 1966, McDonald's experimented with indoor seating at a narrow counter with stools and a few tables in Huntsville, Ala., according to "Roadside Empires" by Stan Luxenberg, a book published this year by Viking.

Increased sales led the company within two years to a design resembling those now being built, with the arches on a sign, indoor seating and tile replaced by brick.

Seminar on water reuse to be in Odessa

By FRANK TROMBLEY
Staff Writer

ODESSA - About 100 West Texas mayors, city managers and municipal utility directors are expected to attend a day-long seminar on water reuse at the Holiday Inn Centre Wednesday in Odessa, according to utilities director Bob Derrington.

At a news conference in city council chambers Friday, Derrington said many favor the water reuse concept as a long term plan to meet future water needs.

Derrigton says the choices available range from a do-nothing approach to creating a network of wastewater treatment and distribution facilities that should meet the increasing needs of Odessa through the year 2010.

But, Derrington said, creation of such a system will cost Odessa residents millions of dollars that will probably have to be raised through higher water bills and bond issues.

The Dallas-based engineering-consulting firm of Camp Dresser & McKee Inc., which was commissioned by the city council to do a water reuse study, will discuss the city water reuse alternatives during the seminar.

According to the study by the Dallas firm, improvement of a city's treatment facilities would allow the reuse of wastewater for irrigation, commercial-industrial and household purposes, including use as drinking water.

Ashok Varma, a consultant for the Dallas firm, said there has been success in other cities in gaining acceptance for the conversion of wastewater to drinking water.

According to Varma, people have an understandable aversion to concept of using wastewater, or sewage water, for drinking purposes and have difficulty understanding that modern day treatment capabilities render wastewater useable for all household purposes, including drinking.

Derrington, in the past, has explained that, with a few exceptions, most all of the water we use today has been previously used by someone else.

The water reuse seminar Wednesday is scheduled to begin at 8 a.m. and last until 5 p.m.

ASAT test 'flawless'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States conducted an "absolutely flawless" test of a satellite-killing weapon in space for the first time Friday, smashing an old satellite into bits as it orbited 345 miles above Earth, the Pentagon said.

Lt. Gen. Bernard P. Randolph, Air Force deputy chief of staff for research, said the test was carried out over the Pacific Ocean by a rocket launched from an F-15 fighter plane.

"From everything that we can tell, it went absolutely flawless," said Randolph.

The experiment, the third live firing of the ASAT rocket but the first against an actual object in space, was carried out despite a rising drumbeat of criticism here and abroad.

The so-called "ASAT" rocket slammed into an old Air Force scientific satellite at 4:42 p.m. EDT, Randolph said, "a few hours" after the F-15 jet fighter took off from Edwards Air Force Base.

The ASAT weapon was launched from an altitude of 35,000 to 40,000 feet by the jet, then flew into space where its Miniature Homing Vehicle locked on to the target with infrared sensors and then destroyed it through impact.

Pentagon spokesman Fred Hoffman said Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger "is absolutely delighted by the result of today's test."

Accident scene

Cheryl Woodfin of Midland was injured in a Friday evening accident near Loop 250 and Wadley Boulevard. Midland police and paramedics responded to the accident which occurred around 9:45 p.m. and involved a Chevrolet Chevette and Chevrolet Malibu. The extent of her injuries were not known at press time.

Rental car agency reports auto taken

From Staff Reports

Agency Rent-A-Car reported the unauthorized use of an automobile Friday morning, according to reports by the Midland County Sheriff's Office.

A manager reported at 10:57 a.m. that a 1984 Ford LTD was missing from the parking lot of the business at 202 Airport Plaza, said reports. The manager had noticed the car on the lot after it had been returned before 5 p.m. Thursday, but found the car missing at 8 a.m. Friday.

The car had been leased to a Midland man, who was accompanied by the suspect, a 21-year-old black male, said reports. The manager told officers that the suspect had originally tried to rent the car but was refused because of improper identification. The suspect gave cash to the Midland man who then rented the car for three days, which was returned Wednesday. The car is valued at $7,300.

Residents miss antics of performing crow

EAST ALTON, Ill. (AP) — Ewing Street is quieter with Blacky gone, but some folks aren't sure it's an improvement. They miss the antic crow who performed for garden-hose showers and snacks.

In fact, some in this Southern Illinois town miss him so much they make regular trips to the Treehouse wildlife shelter, a 20-mile round trip, where the bird took up residence in July, shelter director Adele Evans said Thursday.

"The neighborhood in East Alton that brought him in has kind of a fan club going," Ms. Evans said. "They still come up and visit him quite often and bring him treats."

Among the bird's friends is Jim Delaney, who met Blacky last April while working in his backyard. Blacky accepted a bit of bread from Delaney, then stayed around for more — two months more.

"He'd bury his food," recalled Jane Miller, another Ewing Street resident. "He'd put it in the rocks in my flower bed and put some rocks and leaves on top of it."

Residents say the bird performed tricks and sometimes behaved more like a person than a crow — picking up a smoldering cigarette and swaggering around with it in his beak, for example.

Once when Delaney was working on his camper trailer, he said, Blacky flew off with a screw and perched not far away. When he was chided for his mischief, he flew back and dropped the screw in Delaney's hand.

"This sounds like I'm making it up, but I swear I'm not," he said.

Delaney was not doubted by Ms. Miller, who said she used to give Blacky showers.

"He'd peck on my window and fly out to the garden hose," she said. "He'd strut around impatiently if I didn't hurry out and spray him."

Ms. Evans wasn't surprised by Blacky's antics.

"Crows are very smart birds, and every one I've gotten at the Treehouse does these strange things," she said. "They pick up these tricks without being trained.

"Crows that are raised by people, which Blacky must have been, become human-imprinted and think they are people and want to be around other people."

Blacky's eccentricities were appreciated by most residents of Ewing Street, but neighbors said two families made several complaints about him, saying their small children had been frightened by close encounters of the bird kind.

WATCHES

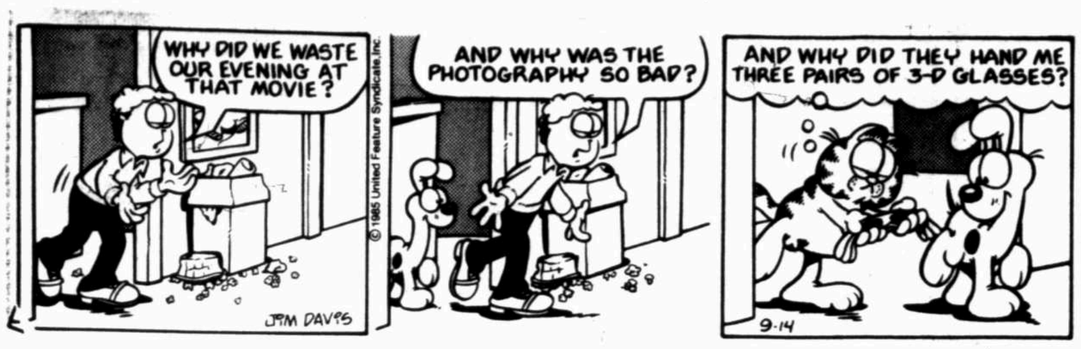

Mr. Sears and Mr. Roebuck got together because of a classified ad!

In the late 1800's, Richard W. Sears had a pretty good business going selling watches and needed someone to handle his watch repairs. He placed a classified ad in the newspaper and Alvah C. Roebuck got the job. That's how the nation's biggest retailer got started... through a classified ad!

Buckley admitted to hospital

Buckley

DETROIT (AP) — Author and columnist William F. Buckley Jr. was admitted to a Detroit hospital Friday after complaining of chest and stomach pains, an aide said.

Buckley, 59, who was scheduled to address the State Bar of Michigan at its 50th anniversary convention, was first taken to Detroit Receiving Hospital, then admitted to the coronary care unit at Harper Hospital, said his secretary, Francis Bronson.

"He's in for observations. There is no diagnosis," said Ms. Bronson, indicating that Buckley did not suffer a heart attack.

Harper Hospital spokesman Tim Ball confirmed that Buckley was admitted but gave no more information.

Taylor

PARIS (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor was named Commander of Arts and Letters, France's highest award for excellence in the arts, by French Culture Minister Jack Lang on Fray.

Placing the green and white striped ribbon around Miss Taylor's neck, Lang called her "a star, a true star...who has made her admirers the world over wait impatiently for each new movie."

Hundreds of fans had waited impatiently for Miss Taylor, who smiled radiantly as she swept into the Culture Ministry more than an hour late.

Wearing a close-fitting navy blue suit trimmed in white satin, the 53-year-old actres said the award was "one of the most important things in my life."

"I used to think you had to be in love to visit Paris. But now I realize that you just have to be in love with Paris and love the French people, as I do. I love you," she said.

Miss Taylor's French visit coincided with the American Film festival in Deauville where she attended the re-release of "The Taming of the Shrew" in which she starred with her former husband Richard Burton.

Hudson

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The condition of Rock Hudson, who is stricken with AIDS, has remained unchanged for several weeks, his spokesman says.

"I have talked to him. I have had warm, pleasant times with him. He is in very good spirits," Dale Olson said Thursday.

Hudson has remained secluded at his Beverly Hills home since being discharged from UCLA Medical Center in fair condition on Aug. 24. He was treated at the hospital for acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

Syndicated columnist Marilyn Beck said Thursday that Hudson, 59, was in such poor condition he could only manage the most meager of conversations, "most of them not going beyond a few labored words."

She added that Hudson's participation in an autobiography, being written by Sara Davidson, was limited because of his inability to talk.

Olson refused to comment on Ms. Beck's column.

"It is true a deal has been made for the book. It is true Sara Davidson has been assigned to write the book," he said.

The book, called "My Story," is scheduled to be published by William Morrow and Avon books next summer. Proceeds from the book are to be donated to the Rock Hudson AIDS Research Foundation in New York.

Kirkpatrick

NEW YORK (AP) — Jeane J. Kirkpatrick, former chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations, has been named a co-recipient of the 1985 Jabotinsky Prize-Defender of Jerusalem Award.

The award was also given in honor of Operation Moses, the Israeli-sponsored rescue mission that enabled 10,000 Ethiopian Jews to be airlifted to Israel beginning last November.

The recipients, who were named Thursday, will equally share $100,000. The annual award was established in 1983 to honor "outstanding action in the defense of the rights of the Jewish people."

Eryk Spektor, chairman of the Jabotinsky Foundation, said, "We are proud to honor Ambassador Kirkpatrick for her valiant support of Israel and the Jewish people during her tenure at the United Nations."

Operation Moses' share of the award will be used to establish Jabotinsky scholarships at Israeli schools for 50 young students who were brought to Israel from Ethiopia in the rescue mission.

The award and the New York-based foundation are named for Vladimir Jabotinsky, a militant Zionist and philosopher, who in the late 1930s warned European Jews to flee the impending Nazi holocaust.

The prizes will be formally presented Oct. 30 in New York City.

Ride

SENECA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Astronaut Sally Ride will visit the National Women's Hall of Fame on Oct. 18 to return a scarf, once owned by aviator Amelia Earhart, that she carried into space on her second mission.

Ms. Ride became the first American woman in space when she blasted off on a space shuttle voyage June 18, 1983. She carried the scarf on loan from the National Women's Hall of Fame on her second trip, which began Oct. 5, 1984.

Amelia Earhart, the first woman to fly solo across the Atlantic Ocean, is one of the 35 women of achievement honored in the Hall of Fame, which has headquarters and a museum in downtown Seneca Falls.

BONN, West Germany (AP) — West German tennis sensation Boris Becker fled into the federal chancellor's palace Friday when he was mobbed by young admirers at an outdoor fair.

Becker, 17, who in July became the youngest man ever to win the Wimbledown singles title, was one of several sports stars attending the children's festival on the palace lawn.

When he was surrounded by dozens of well-wishers and autograph seekers, Becker ducked into the nearby Palais Schaumburg and watched the festival from there. A while later, he emerged again to meet his young fans.

NEW YORK (AP) — The circumstances surrounding the death of Marilyn Monroe, the golden goddess of celluloid, on Aug. 4, 1962 have long been cloudy, murky and otherwise confused.

However, according to a new book by Anthony Summers, "Goddess: The Secret Lives of Marilyn Monroe" (Macmillan, $18.95), the late actor Peter Lawford destroyed a letter or suicide note purportedly left by the actress in order to protect Robert and John Kennedy (Lawford's brothers-in-law) who allegedly had had affairs with her.

Pearl S. Buck Foundation aiding Amerasian 'children of dust'

PERKASIE, Pa. (AP) — Some 15,000 children of U.S. soldiers, known as "children of dust" because of the conditions in which they live, remain in Southeast Asia, say officials of a foundation hoping to speed the process that lets some of the war babies reach America.

"We have never given up these children," Grace C.K. Sum, executive director of the Pearl S. Buck Foundation, located in rural Bucks County outside Philadelphia, said Thursday.

"These are our children. We couldn't just ignore them. They didn't ask to be born, but they are suffering the consquences. All Americans should have a sense of responsibility to them," Sum said in an interview.

The foundation is sending the files of 1,100 Vietnam War babies born of U.S. soldiers back to Asia to speed the release of those who want to leave, Sum said. The files, case histories and pictures compiled by the foundation, will be shipped next week to United Nations officials in Thailand.

The children left behind along with the jeeps, tanks and other debris of war are called "buy doi," or "children of dust," because they live in dirt and discrimination, Sum said.

Once their parentage is verified, their only way out is through the U.N.'s Orderly Departure Program in Bangkok. The ODP has requested information from the foundation on individual cases in the past, so officials offered to send all of the files at once.

"There are monumental problems because many of their birth certificates and other documents were destroyed in the Communist takeover. It's a crazy situation," said Sum. "By and large, these children do want to come to this country. They are despised as Amerasians, and the economic conditions in Vietnam are poor. If one life is important, the effort is worth it."

The Pearl S. Buck Foundation, founded in 1964 by the Pulitzer and Nobel Prize-winning author of "The Good Earth," worked to bring Amerasians to the United States for four years before Saigon fell in 1975.

The release of war babies did not resume until September 1982, when the foundation led a group of volunteer organizations in reaching an agreement with Vietnam for the children's exit.

Not all of the war babies are illegitimate. Some of the fathers were killed or sent out of the country. A small percentage of the children are American citizens, officials said.

"It doesn't help at all that some are American citizens. It doesn't get them out of Vietnam any faster," said Sue Anne Kerstein, the foundation's director of communications.

The foundation helped win the release of the wife and 15-year-old son of Robert Stackhouse, 56, of Croydon, Pa., who waged an 11-year battle with the bureaucracy.

Dwindling species gassed for furs, expensive skins

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — Millions of crocodiles, Jaguars, snakes, foxes and other animals are being illegally slaughtered in Brazil and their skins smuggled abroad to become expensive shoes, handbags and coats, according to a Brazilian Forest Service official.

He said some of the animals are sealed in trucks and put to death by gassing to avoid damage to their pelts.

Joao Leite Neto, director in Sao Paulo of the Forest Service, the government's main wildlife protection agency, charged that U.S. and European dealers, along with well-connected Brazilians, are behind the contraband trade.

The United States and 80 other countries are party to an international treaty that bans trade in 600 endangered animal species, including crocodiles and other animals of Brazil.

Leite Neto said in an interview that if the slaughter continues at its current rate some of the animals could face extinction. The most seriously endangered is the lobo guara, an animal of the wolf family.

Some 190 tons of hides, "representing the wholesale slaughter of about 5 million animals," are smuggled out of South America's largest country each year, Leite Neto said. He set the value of the skins at more than $6 million.

On June 24, Forest Service inspectors and the federal police seized 2.5 tons of skins hours before they were to be airfreighted to West Germany from Sao Paulo, Brazil's biggest city.

The hides, packed in wooden crates marked "Handicraft objects — no commercial value," were worth almost $90,000. "It was the largest single seizure of skins ever made in Brazil," Leite Neto said.

He added that the ease with which the local exporter obtained shipping authorization indicated "influential Brazilians are behind all this." He did not identify them.

Two employees of the exporting company were indicted for violating Brazil's wildlife protection laws, but Leite Neto said they were simply "middlemen of one of three organized gangs we know are operating in this field."

If found guilty, the suspects could get one year in prison and be fined the quivalent of $500, punishment Leite Neto called "grotesquely lenient."

"We are still investigating the American connection which we know exists because of the large amounts of skins that wind up in the United States in the form of shoes, belts, briefcases, coats and handbags," he said.

The documents found at the forwarding company after the June seizure of hides prove that the European connection is based in Hamburg, West Germany, Leite Neto said.

"The documents also showed that over the past eight months, the forwarding company sent almost 19 tons of skins, worth an estimated $650,000, to Hamburg," Leite Neto said.

WORLD IN BRIEF

U.S. has no information Soviet ships to visit Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The U.S. Embassy said Friday it had no confirmation of a report that Soviet warships would visit the Gulf of Mexico port city of Veracruz.

"We don't have any confirmation at this time of any Soviet ship's visit," embassy spokesman Vince Hovanec said. "Were such a visit to occur in Mexico or Latin America, we would view it with great concern."

A spokesman for President Miguel de la Madrid said his office had no information on any Soviet ships visiting Mexico. The spokesman, who did not want to be named, said he would investigate the report.

The Washington Post on Friday quoted U.S. officials in Washington as saying that two Soviet warships were expected to stop in the Gulf of Mexico port of Veracruz on Oct. 4.

'Dwarf tossing' condemned

STRASBOURG, France (AP) — An Italian Communist deputy on Friday asked the European Parliament to condemn dwarf-tossing competitions.

Vera Squarcialupi said the assembly must "condemn most strongly the commercial expoitation of dwarfs."

She said the competitions involve "throwing a person of restricted growth, i.e. a dwarf, as far as possible, and that this is done by particularly robust men."

She said in a draft resolution that Australian organizers of such competitions are recruiting dwarfs in Europe for an upcoming international championship.

The Australian government, she said, must "be urged to ban it."

Chemical leak injures 60

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — A pesticide chemical leaked from a cylinder that was being transported by truck on Friday, injuring about 60 people in the southern port city of Cochin, police said.

Cochin police spokesman K.N. Karthikeyan said the cylinder of hexaphlorocyclo pendidine, which is used in making pesticides, leaked while en route to the government-owned Hindustan Insecticides Ltd. in a suburb of Cochin.

He said the cylinder apparently had been improperly sealed.

Karthikeyan said the victims complained of eye and respiratory problems and were treated at hospitals and released.

The private news agency United News of India quoted hospital sources in Cochin as saying about 200 people were treated, including 25 children.

Academy honors American

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — The Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences has awarded the 1985 Crafoord Prize in astronomy to a Princeton University astronomy professor, Dr. Lyman Spitzer Jr., the academy said Friday.

The $135,000 prize is one of the largest ever awarded in astronomy.

Spitzer, 71, is credited with advancing knowledge about the varying density, temperature and velocity of interstellar matter, the academy said in a statement.

The academy cited his "fundamental pioneering studies of practically every aspect of the interstellar medium, culminating in the results obtained using the Copernicus satellite."

The Copernicus satellite, named after the 16th century Polish astronomer who theorized that the planets move around the sun, is an orbiting astronomical observatory launched in 1972.

Largest bridge planned

ROME (AP) — Italy plans build the world's longest suspension bridge, to link Sicily and the Italian mainland, the Rome newspaper Il Messaggero said Friday.

The span would be 10,800 feet long, more than double the 4,260-foot length of the Verrazano Narrows Bridge in New York City — the longest existing suspension bridge.

The government has commissioned several studies over the past decade. The newspaper quoted Transportation Minister Claudio Signorile as saying the state-run railroad and state-run highway company will sign a preliminary agreement with a consortium of construction firms by October.

Transportation Ministry spokesman Umberto Cutolo confirmed Signorile's statements.

The newspaper quoted Signorile as saying the bridge would take as long as eight years to build, beginning in 1988.

Jet wing chunk found

LONDON (AP) — A 10-foot chunk of a wing from an unidentified Boeing 747 jetliner was found in a wooded area near London's Heathrow Airport, an aviation official said Friday.

The plane that lost the part "could literally be anywhere in the world by now," said a spokesman for Britain's Civil Aviation Authority.

The metal wing section was found Thursday by a man walking a dog in woods near Reading, which is on the flight path of Heathrow about 40 miles west of the airport, said the spokesman, who spoke on condition he not be quoted by name.

"It is a leading edge slat from the wing of a 747, but it is not a critical part," he said. "There are 26 of them on the aircraft and the pilot could actually lose it without noticing.

"We have serial numbers from the part which will be checked through the Boeing computer in Seattle," the spokesman added. "This will obviously take time and we do not know what sort of records are kept of these parts."

Sky-high cake

Thailand has claimed to have made the tallest wedding cake in the world as a promotion for a Bangkok hotel. The 70-layer, 45-foot high fruit cake took 10,000 eggs, 551 pounds of butter, 53 gallons of milk and 441 pounds of flour. Nearly 300 persons worked three days on the cake.

'Death of a Salesman' extraordinary performance

ENTERTAINMENT

By MICHAEL KUCHWARA
AP Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Dustin Hoffman's portrayal of Willy Loman in "Death of a Salesman" galvanized Broadway last year. It was an extraordinary performance by a major actor willing to test his mettle in an important play.

Now television audiences get a chance to learn what the fuss was all about. While Hoffman and Arthur Miller's masterpiece are just as good as they were on stage, what viewers will see for three hours Sunday night on CBS is not a carbon copy of the play seen in Chicago, Washington and New York.

The television version, done with most of the Broadway cast, is not simply the play transferred intact to the small screen or a movie that tries to open up the drama in realistic terms. It's been filmed, not taped, in a kind of fractured reality, at times a reality that filters the past through Willy's eyes, at other times through the eyes of his family, especially his son Biff.

Director Volker Schlondorff, who did not supervise the Broadway revival, recreates this past as Willy peers into mirrors or darkened hallways. The concept works surprisingly well while allowing the poetry of Miller's script to come through.

Schlondorff, best known as the director of film versions of "The Tin Drum" and "Swann in Love," emphasizes the bleakness of Willy's life and what his delusions have done to him. Most of the drama takes place in the Loman house, and designer Tony Walton has constructed a shabby, decaying homestead that looks left over from an Edward Hopper painting.

The furniture is simple and worn. Paint peels from the window sills. Towering over the house is a huge red apartment building blotting out the sky as well as Willy's hopes. It's no accident that beyond the Loman backyard, a cemetery can be seen.

Schlondorff depends on the actors to anchor the play in reality, to give the drama the truthfulness that makes it work. Hoffman's Willy is remarkable. Physically, he's just right for the role. When Lee J. Cobb created the role on Broadway in 1949, Miller had to change another character's description of Willy to "walrus." For the bantam-sized Hoffman, the playwright returned to the original description, "shrimp."

Willy is a true believer in the American dream, and it's the dream that lets him down. The 48-year-old Hoffman, wearing wire-rimmed glasses and an expert make-up job by Bob Laden, captures Willy's fanaticism as well as his fatalism. It's an intense, highly kinetic portrait that comes across well

NBC hits pay dirt with 'Golden Girls'

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — NBC had the funniest new series last season with "The Cosby Show," and it appears to have done it again with "The Golden Girls."

Bea Arthur, Betty White, Rue McClanahan and Estelle Getty star as four women spending their golden years together in Miami. Naturally, the show was quickly nicknamed "Miami Nice."

Remember that last name. Estelle Getty, a veteran stage actress, is a newcomer to television, but she more than holds her own against three formidable comic actresses. She plays Miss Arthur's mother, who always speaks her mind. The result is outrageous and hilarious.

"The Golden Girls" and another new NBC comedy, "227," will premiere tonight.

Miss Getty, who plays Sophia, moves in with the other three when her retirement home burns down. ("Do you know what a fire alarm does to the heart of someone my age?")

Sophia is like a fire alarm, persistent and clamoring for attention. She can be quiet, too. Once, she's so quiet Bea Arthur holds a mirror under her nose to see if she's still breathing. "Just checking," she says.

Miss Arthur stars as Dorothy, a retired school teacher whose husband has run off to Hawaii with an airline stewardess. Dorothy, like Miss Arthur's Emmy-winning role in "Maude," is an acerbic, take-charge type with a low tolerance for nonsense.

Betty White, as Rose, dishes out nonsense by the bucketful, keeping Dorothy always near the boiling point. Rose is a daffy, ephemeral spirit who can be counted on to say just the thing that will irritate Dorothy. Rose is the flip side of Sue Ann Nivens, Miss White's role as the man-hungry "Happy Homemaker" of "The Mary Tyler Moore Show."

Rue McClanahan, also from "Maude," is Blanche, a widowed Southern belle with a weakness for handsome men. In the premiere show she is about to marry a man that Sophia spots immediately as a cad.

The impending marriage causes consternation among the other women because it means they'll have to move out of Blanche's home. How they react to this news and how it's resolved is side-splitting.

The show is the creation of Susan Harris, the writer responsible for "Soap" and last year's critical disaster, "Hail to the Chief." If "Golden Girls" can stay as funny as the pilot, it has the potential of becoming a hit, despite competition from Robert Wagner's new ABC series, "Lime Street" and the "CBS Saturday Night Movie."

It needs to be a sizable hit to carry along the follow-up "227." The pilot offered for preview will not be the first show.

The cast is largely black and the show is an apparent attempt to capitalize on the success of "The Cosby Show." Unfortunately, it lacks both the wit and charm of Bill Cosby's series.

Spielberg survives perils of cross-country hookup

By GUS STEVENS
Copley News Service

Stephen Spielberg, who will make his television series creative debut with "Amazing Stories" on NBC Sundays this fall, chatted earlier this week, via satellite, with 60 television critics from across America. At times it seemed that Spielberg was reliving the perils of his movie hero, Indiana Jones.

Nobody got mean and there were no fights. But there were problems with the ionosphere from time to time, providing comedy relief in what was an otherwise too-long interview.

Even a Hollywood light like Spielberg begins to dim when he's answering the same questions for the third time in 90 minutes.

"Come in, Seattle...San Francisco's not there," the woman in charge of linking America by means of satellite and satellite dishes said off camera, her tone urgent.

An instant later the unmistakable voice of a phone company recording came through the monitor: "If you'd like to make a call..." She died in mid-sentence.

Spielberg, still on camera, smiled and said, "We're having technical difficulties." A few moments later he added, talking to someone on the East Coast, "I can't hear your question." He fiddled with the plug in his ear and the microphone pinned to his front.

The voice that was looking for Seattle and San Francisco came back: "Excuse me for doing this, but Steven's mike is rubbing up against his jacket. It's affecting the audio."

But, what the heck, most of the time the picture and the sounds were fine. It's a miracle, really, that people from the four corners of the U.S.A. can be linked live.

Spielberg, who shuns neckties the way some men avoid coral snakes, dressed for his appearance in a plaid shirt, blue windbreaker, a full beard and brown hair that seemed to be growing out of his ears.

And he got his message across: He has high hopes for "Amazing Stories," he enjoys working on the project and viewers are going to be surprised for 44 weeks spread over two seasons of prime-time Sunday nights.

Spielberg made several points clear:

One — He's being very coy about revealing details of future episodes, like who's starring in them, who's directing and what they're about. He has let it slip out that episode one, airing Sept. 29, is called "Ghost Train," but his news bulletin also reads: "For viewers' maximum amazement, plot details will not be disclosed." Presumably he will let TV Guide give a synopsis of the show in its log.

Two — Casts and directors will change each week, each episode being separate and standing on its own. Among the directors Spielberg has lined up are Burt Reynolds, Clint Eastwood, Brian De Palma, Peter Hyams and, of course, himself. Spielberg directed "Ghost Train" and provided writer Frank Deese with the story idea.

Three — NBC has given Spielberg his own toy to play with every Sunday night. He can do almost anything he wants for two seasons.

BUICK'S CARGO KING.

When it comes to carrying cargo, you won't find a more royal wagon than the remarkably posh Electra Estate Wagon.

Actually, it's more like the quintessential luxury car with a rather roomy trunk. The accommodations are exquisite, the standard features list as long as a chauffeur's arm, and the cargo capacity truly astounding —almost 88 cubic feet with the second seat folded down.

Wouldn't you really rather have a Buick?
