NOBODY'S BUSINESS

BY JULIAN CAPERS JR.

Austin.—Veto by Gov. Allred of the commercial carrier bill, written by the legislature in an effort to permit private business concerns to deliver their products in their own trucks without qualifying as common carriers, and a revival of the oft-repeated rumor that Gov. Allred will receive appointment as a federal judge and resign the governorship, were the outstanding developments of the week in Austin.

The federal judgeship rumor, which has been bruited about for more than a year, appeared this time to be backed by significant circumstantial evidence. Altho Allred has maintained discreet silence, his close friends say he is exceedingly anxious for the job. There is before the house judiciary committee in Washington a bill creating an additional judgeship in the South Texas (Houston) district. Inside information from the national capital indicates it probably will be passed at this session of congress.

AGREEMENT REPORTED

Best information here is that Senators Sheppard and Connally will endorse different candidates, neither naming Allred. That would put the decision up to Vice President Garner, who has always been Allred's close political friend. Garner is known to be willing to go a long way to prevent Allred becoming a candidate against Connally in the future, and the current story here is that he has definitely decided to back Allred for the judgeship. In that event, Allred would resign. Lt. Gov. Walter Woodul automatically becoming governor for the remainder of Allred's term.

Friends of Col. Ernest Thompson and Atty. Gen. William McCraw, who will both seek the governorship in 1939, are said to have used their influence to prevent this program working out in the past, because they feared that Woodul would feel obligated to seek election as governor, thus complicating the situation next year for their favorites. But close friends of Woodul have recently declared the lieutenant governor would far rather be attorney general of Texas—an ambition to which he has been pointing his whole political career for years—and that even if he served out Allred's unexpired term, Woodul probably would then continue with his present campaign for attorney general next year. Upon this assurance, friends of the other two candidates apparently have waived their opposition to Allred's appointment, and the thing appears more likely to be worked out on his basis now than at any time since the rumor originally started.

ALLRED VISITS ROOSEVELT

Two visits by Gov. Allred—one official, to welcome the president to Texas, and the other with an apparent effort at secrecy this week—lend some credence to the reports. The governor's mysterious "trip to the country" to "take a rest" is reported here to have been an unheralded visit to the president near Galveston.

Knowledge of this situation is credited by many here with the policy of the group of senators who have blocked action of many important legislative measures supported by Allred, including the race repeal bill. Nobody knows when the Allred appointment will go thru—if it does—but Sept. 1 is the date most frequently heard here in discussions of the subject.

Eighth Veto Angers House

Veto by the governor of the bill adopted to permit privately owned trucks to cruise the highways at will drew fire in the house which quickly passed the measure over the veto, with many Allred stalwarts favoring the bill. In the senate, anti-Allred leaders, such as Frank Rawlings of Fort Worth, and Clint Small of Amarillo, rallied to support the veto, and the bill failed of enactment over the

Work Sheets Must Be Signed May 15

Saturday, May 15, 1937, is the final date for farmers of Mitchell County to sign Work Sheets in the 1937 Agricultural Conservation Program. Every farmer is urged to sign a work sheet if there is the slightest possibility that some unforeseen condition might cause him to follow one or more Soil-Conserving and Soil-Building practices later on in 1937. Rates of pay for Soil-Conserving are the same in 1937 as in 1936—5 cents per pound on the adjusted yield per acre—and $1.00 per acre multiplied by the number of acres devoted to Soil-Building practices being the amount one may earn for a Soil-Building Payment.

There are several practices a producer may follow that must be conformed to under certain technicalities, but each producer should first consult the County Agent.

Division of Payments is same as in 1936. Share-tenants receive 50% of the Soil-Conserving payment, and share-croppers 25% of same. Soil-Building payments are divided on basis of the actual expense borne by the various parties concerned.

ROY LAMBERT CAUGHT ADMITS COW THEFT

Roy Lambert of Roscoe, wanted for the theft of the John Seown cow here on Sunday, May 2, was caught at Roscoe Tuesday night and is reported to have admitted the theft. Lambert is in jail at Colorado awaiting action of the grand jury. A charge of theft was entered against Lambert in Justice J. A. Crosby's court Thursday.

veto by the narrow margin of two votes. The governor explained in his message that the bill was so poorly drafted it virtually threw the highways open to trucks without regulation, and raised serious legal questions as to the validity of the whole common carrier truck laws now in effect. The governor took the position that the private trucks ought to be pererner took the position that the strict regulation, and that the present good system of regulation for common carriers should not be jeopardized or impaired. Senate action probably killed further commercial truck regulation for this session.

THOMPSON FAVORS ADVERTISING BILL

Rallying to the support of Lt. Gov. Walter Woodul's constitutional amendment to permit the state to advertise for tourist and industrial business, Col. Ernest O. Thompson of the railroad commission pointed to Amarillo, the city of which he formerly was mayor, as having proved the value of community advertising by doubling its population within a few years thru advertising. He also cited the California campaign, which has raised the per capita income of that state to twice that in Texas, brought millions of visitors and permanent residents there, and drawn millions of dollars of industrial capital to the coast. The amendment resolution has passed the senate, is threatened with death in the house. It may get a final house test this week.

SESSION END NEARING

Altho neither house had acted definitely at the weekend on adjournment date, May 22 was most frequently mentioned by senate leaders as the probable time. That would cause solons to work about 10 days at $5 a day, and would probably enable passage of the regular appropriation bills, upon which the house is busily engaged this week. Whether the chief bone of contention—the race-horse betting repeal bill—will get up remains doubtful, with the decision apparently resting in the hands of the separate minority group which has buried it on the calendar.

Eldon Mahon Wins Speech Contest

Eldon Mahon, a freshman in McMurry college, was winner in an oratorical contest Friday morning, sponsored by Dr. W. H. Mansfield, pastor of Trinity church, El Paso, and a McMurry trustee.

The award was a gold watch of the winner's own choosing.

Eldon's subject was "Texas in the Making," the speaker declaring that the Centennial marked the turning point in Texas' history, that a great era of progress in all fields is drawing.

Other speakers were W. F. Martin, freshman, whose subject was "Is Democracy a Dream that is Passing?" and Alex Bicklerly, sophomore, on the topic "Men Are Cogs." Both dealt with the present economic and social order.

Each speaker chose his own subject and made up his own speech.

Eldon is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Mahon and is a graduate of Loraine High School. His speaking ability in high school always ranked at the top.

Don H. Morris vice president of Abilene Christian college, and Miss Margaret Ehresman, head of the speech department, were the judges.

S. W. Altman of Cisco is here visiting his sister, Mrs. C. M. Thompson, who has been seriously ill for some time.

SCHOOL FACULTY IS ENTERTAINED

Saturday morning from nine until eleven Mrs. Fred B. Isou was hostess to the other members of the faculty and their families with a coffee at her home, which was temporarily converted into "The Early Bird Cafe."

In accordance with Mothers Day the guests indulged first in childhood memories, following which they were conducted to the dining room where home cooking, just like mother used to make, consisting of coffee, chocolate, sandwiches, and cinnamon rolls was served. The table covered with white linen cutwork over rose color with a centerpiece of spring flowers, was presided over by Mrs. Georgia Johnson who graciously poured. Misses Gladys Spikes and Dell Johnson also assisted with the serving and entertaining.

Following the coffee hour the guests participated in conversation, Mothers Day games and contests.

The annual social meeting of the P. T. A. met last Thursday afternoon at 3:30 P. M. in the high school auditorium. The program for the day was in keeping with music month and several musical numbers were given by the students of the school.

Gloria Martin sang two vocal solos, accompanied by Mrs. W. R. Martin. Iris Riden gave a clarinet solo accompanied by Billie Marie Rowland; Byron Bennett gave a saxophone solo accompanied by Ruth Ann Hall; A one act play directed by Ruth Ann Hall, was presented by Opal Martin, Junior Furlow and Iona Callahan.

Mrs. James the in-coming president expressed the compliments and appreciation of the organization for the service of Mrs. Lillie Bennett as president for the past two years. The new personnel for the coming year was introduced to the audience, and officers announced accordingly. The assembly adjourned, and all were ushered downstairs where punch and cake was served in the reception hall. This closed the final meeting of the P. T. A. for this school year. We have accomplished many worthwhile projects during the lifetime of our local organization, not as much as we probably hoped for, but any way we are happy to say that we are still active, openminded, and looking forward for better days, and to do better things. Publicity Chairman.

Seniors Will Use Own Talent

Graduating exercises for the senior class are to be held at the high school auditorium on Friday evening, May 28, with members of the class presenting the program in its entirety. No outside speaker has been obtained for the occasion. The theme for the program will be "Spirit of Education."

The Baccalaureate sermon will be delivered by Rev. J. J. Strickland, District Missionary for the Mitchell-Scurry Baptist Association, at 11 o'clock Sunday morning, May 23, at the high school auditorium.

Graduating exercises for the seventh grade will be held Thursday evening, May 27, in the high school auditorium with Rev. P. D. O'Brien of Stamford delivering the principal address. Other parts of the program will be furnished by members of the class. Honor students for the seventh grade are Alma Lee and Royal James.

Some boy and some girl of this class will be surprised on that night when they are presented the award from the American Legion for being the best all round students in the class.

K. J. ALTHOF BURIED MONDAY

Funeral services for Karl J. Althof, 62, farmer of the Brownlee community, who died Saturday night in a Sweetwater hospital, were held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the family residence six miles east of Loraine.

Mr. Althof is survived by his wife and six children: sons, Edwin G. Althof and R. E. (Dick) Althof, both of the Brownlee community; daughters, Mrs. C. H. Hackfeld, Wilma and Laura Althof, all of Brownlee, and Mrs. G. R. Bauman, Loraine.

Mr. Althof had resided in the Brownlee community for more than 22 years.

Zeppelin Explodes Details Presented In Today's Issue

Approximately 40 passengers and crew members of the giant German dirigible, Hindenburg, were killed when the ship exploded as it settled to rest at the hangar in Lakehurst, N. J.

A graphic account of the catastrophe is presented in this issue through a special word-and-picture description.

In presenting details of the Hindenburg disaster we maintain our policy of offering readers a complete newspaper, filled with timely news and features.

BIG SPRING COMING SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Manager Brack Watlington has matched a game of baseball with Big Spring for Saturday afternoon on the local diamond. After defeating Coahoma Sunday the Loraine team is feeling its okra and is willing to take on any team in these parts. Big Spring has a good team and will be tough competition, but manager Brack says the tougher they are the better he likes 'em.

The game is to be called about three o'clock Saturday afternoon and if you like good baseball you will not want to miss it.

UNIVERSITY HEAD DIES SUDDENLY

Dr. H. Y. Benedict, for ten years president of the University of Texas, died suddenly late Monday from a heart attack suffered on a street near the campus of the school.

Sixty-seven years old, Dr. Benedict had left his office to go to the state capitol for a conference with a legislative committee on school finances. As he stepped into an automobile, he collapsed, and death wrote an end to his long career as he was carried into a hospital room.

LORAIN DEFEATED COAHOMA SUNDAY

The Loraine baseball team, S. B. Watlington manager, defeated the fast Coahoma team at Coahoma Sunday afternoon 7 to 3. This was the first game for the local team and it is expected to improve as the season progresses. The Loraine team is made up mostly of young boys who have had very little experience on the diamond. Such old standbys as Lack and Ira Coffee, Charles Spikes Truman Henderson and Lee Dorn lend strength to the team, and with a little larger pitching staff Mr. Watlington is going to have a fast stepping team this summer.

Games at home are going to appear on the schedule in the very near future according to Mr. Watlington.

Good Rains Benefit Crops

One of the finest and most general rains we have had in a long time fell throughout this territory Sunday night and Monday morning. Although the fall was somewhat spotted every part of the territory received some rain, the reports varying from a half inch to an inch and a half.

The rain came gently and all of it soaked into the soil leaving plenty of moisture for immediate planting. The way it fell the moisture will help stuff that was already planted to come through.

There were quite a number of farmers who had stopped planting because the ground was getting dry on top and cotton would not come up. Now they can finish planting and be assured of a season to bring it up. Some will replant a part of their crop.

Pasture lands and small grain were greatly benefitted by the moisture. Grain will need more rain, however, before harvesting time to insure a good crop.

Early Wednesday night a heavy cloud moved from the northeast to the southwest and poured out a heavy rain and in some places considerable hail. Only a sprinkle fell here.

Roscoe reported more than an inch rain and a damaging hail. A heavy rain fell from Roscoe to Champion and some hail is reported but we have been unable to learn how badly damaged the crops are in that territory. Around Landers a heavy rain and hail fell. Considerable damage to crops in that area is reported. Only a shower fell about three miles south of town but from there on the fall was much heavier. One farmer just west of Champion reported between two and three inches and some hail.

MARRIED MAY 1

David C. Collier and Miss Lucy Frances Cheek were united in marriage on Saturday, May 1, at the Methodist parsonage in Colorado, by the pastor, Rev. C. E. Jameson performing the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Keller Banta, Miss Nina Pearl Brown and Cecil Collier witnessed the ceremony.

The couple left for Odessa Sunday where the groom has employment in an Odessa machine shop. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Collier, prominent farm family of the Bauman community.

The bride was a junior in Loraine High School and is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Cheek, also a prominent farm family of the Bauman community.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MEETING IS POSTPONED

The chamber of commerce was scheduled to meet next Tuesday at noon at the Baker Cafe for luncheon instead of a night meeting as formerly. The meeting, however, has been postponed indefinitely because Mr. and Mrs. Baker have decided they do not care to have the meeting of the organization any more. So few have been attending the meetings that the cafe has been losing money on the transaction. No other cafe in town is prepared to take care of the meetings.

A meeting of the board of directors will be called by the president soon to discuss this matter along with others of importance to the town.

DATES FOR FARMERS' SHORT COURSE ANNOUNCED

College Station—The dates for the 28th annual Farmers' Short Course of the Texas A. and M. College have been set for August 16-19, according to an announcement made by Roy W. Snyder, Extension Service Supervisor of Specialists' work, who is chairman of the general Short Course committee.

The Short Course this year will be of four days duration instead of the customary five, Snyder said.

The Hindenburg sinks into a flaming inferno after explosion which cost 36 lives at Lakehurst, N. J.

ZEP CRASH KILLS 36 AT LAKEHURST

20 Passengers, 44 of Crew
Survive As Hindenburg Explodes.

THIRTY-SIX persons were killed and many injured as a series of explosions shattered and burned the German dirigible air liner Hindenburg when she attempted to moor at Lakehurst, N. J., at the end of her first trans-Atlantic crossing of the season. The catastrophe began with an explosion of the highly inflammable hydrogen gas with which the ship was filled, in one of the rear gas cells.

There were 97 on board. Forty-four of the crew of 61 escaped with their lives and 20 of the 36 passengers survived. One member of the ground crew died of injuries received as he was trying to aid in bringing the great silver liner to earth.

The morning after the disaster smoke was still curling from the mangled skeleton of what had once been the world's largest flying vessel. There were still a few bodies unidentified or unaccounted for.

In a section of the crew's quarters in the hangar which had hastily been transformed into a morgue, a small group of men and women filed past the charred remains of 26 of the victims in an attempt to identify them. Other detachments of sailors guarded all approaches to the wreck of the airship and all information was refused.

Inquiries Under Way.
Three inquiries into the tragedy were to get under way, Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper was expected to be on hand to take charge of an investigation by the bureau of air commerce. Rear Admiral A. B. Cook, chief of the bureau of aeronautics of the United States navy, arrived to head a separate naval inquiry. Hans Luther, German ambassador to the United States, flew in and immediately went into conference with officials of the American Zeppelin company.

All this official activity, however, attracted little notice, for the mind of everyone is still concerned with the horror of the tragedy and in the ears of those who witnessed it still echo the screams of the victims as men were blown through the heavy glass window of the ship's observation room.

What caused the explosion probably never will be known to a certainty. And as to exactly what happened—the beginning and the end of the event were so closely merged together that even here the versions vary.

Even Capt. Ernst Lehmann, veteran of ten successful round trips on the ill-fated Hindenburg, could only mumble, as he fell into the arms of an American friend: "I don't understand. . . I don't understand."

The following, however, is the story as related by E. W. Kirkpatrick, one of the ground crew who was standing directly beneath the huge silver bag when it burst into flames.

Describes Liner's Arrival.
The Zeppelin was scheduled to have been moored at 6 p. m. There were several hundred persons on the edge of the large landing field waiting to cheer the successful end of her first trip across the Atlantic this year. Among them were several holding tickets for the return journey, for after a quick refueling and inspection the Hindenburg was to have started back at midnight. It was first seen over the field at 4:12 p. m. (eastern daylight time) after making its customary cruise over New York. There was some electrical disturbance and a steady rain was falling. The lightning, however, was not considered by those on the ground as sufficient to be dangerous. Nevertheless the Hindenburg circled around the field and disappeared. More than an hour later its engines were again heard, but the ship itself was out of sight because of the rain. It did not appear again until about five minutes after seven, flying low and passing to the northwest. Just at this time, it was explained, there was a shift of the wind from the south-southwest to southeast, which made it necessary for the Zeppelin to come down to the field from the northwest. After maneuvering for 15 minutes it swung low over the field at an altitude of from 150 to 200 feet and at 7:20 the mooring lines were dropped over the side. Two hundred men of the ground crew rushed in to grab the lines and start the 100-yard pull to the mooring mast. "It was not two minutes later that there came an explosion from the stern of the ship, followed almost instantly by another, and another, forward."

Almost immediately, several witnesses declared, a blinding sheet of flame enveloped the entire ship.

Confused Nightmare.
So quickly did it happen that the covering was entirely burned off and the bare skeleton of the ship's duraluminum ribs was visible behind the sputtering flame and smoke before it touched the ground.

What happened next is just a confused nightmare to those who watched it. Miraculous though it seems, those who were literally blown from the ship can thank the force of the explosion for saving their lives. The ship by that time was not far from the ground.

There was a rush toward the scene then, as though everyone was drawn by an invisible magnet. Men from the quartermaster corps who had been standing by ran for a ship. Three trucks, a four-seater airplane bus and several private cars were driven quickly across the field.

Men jumped to the ground, tearing their way through the bursting flames, and were dragged to safety. The heat from the flaming ship was so intense, however, that rescue work was prevented for several minutes.

All those minutes are nothing but the reaction of confused impression by those who were there. And probably scores of acts of heroism will go unrecorded and unpraised—both on the part of rescuers on the ground and of the passengers.

Rosendahl Acts Quickly.
This chaos, however, did not last long. Comdr. C. E. Rosendahl, in charge of the naval airport, was standing beneath the spreading stations of the mooring mast. It did not take long for him to galvanize into action. A cordon of men was thrown around the burning mass to keep back the crowd. Other men were dispatched to rush through calls for nurses and doctors and ambulances from surrounding towns and villages. Meanwhile the injured were rushed to the emergency hospital on the field and given first aid for their burns.

"I was standing directly beneath the ship when the first explosion came," Kirkpatrick said. "All of us in the ground crew were reaching for the ropes and were ready to haul her across the field. With that first explosion—it was like a huge puff of igniting gas that sometimes happens when you open a furnace door—we all ran back. From there I turned and saw the fire leap out. Another explosion came further forward. By that time the whole ship was in flames. It didn't come to the ground with a crash, though. It just seemed to sink down easily, like a floating fire balloon on the Fourth of July. I don't even remember hearing any crash even when it hit, though I suppose there was one."

Mrs. Margaret Unger of Maywood, N. J., was one of those waiting to make the return voyage on the Hindenburg.

"It was the most horrible thing I ever saw in my life," she said, still white and trembling from her experience. "I wanted to look away but I couldn't. I didn't hear any explosion because I was too far away. But I saw the ship start to sink, and then a huge burst of flames. It seemed to sweep over the airship all at once, and I saw three, maybe more, exploded out of the windows."

Ship Out of Control.
Ames Camp of Lakewood, N. J., another witness, said the ship "appeared to yaw as she dropped her mooring lines. It swung almost a full half circle and seemed to be extremely hard to manage."

"Then came the flash and I didn't wait to see any more. I ran toward the ship with the rest of them." Although the Zeppelin continued to burn for several hours and was still smoldering at daylight, it took only a matter of seconds to render it a skeleton of wreckage.

Late arrivals among the army of newspaper men, photographers and radio men found the roads blocked with cars and had to race back to Newark and return by plane.

Search for bodies of the victims continued by the light of the huge navy field floodlights. Work was later postponed until daylight, partly because the metal embers were still too hot to allow the searchers to make any progress.

Speculate on Cause.
There was much speculation as to what caused the explosion. Naval experts offered a possible explanation that it might have been caused by the grounding lines, causing a spark which ignited "free gas."

F. W. Von Meister, vice president of the American Zeppelin company, offered two theories—the first that it had been caused by an electric current induced by static; the second that the gas was set off by sparks from the exhaust when the engine was throttled down for a landing. This he said, seemed plausible, as the ship was valving gas gently as she came on the field, tossing over ballast to reduce her altitude.

"Ordinarily," he said, "she would have been expected to be perfectly safe—the moment she dropped her lines."

Report by Rosendahl.
Commander Rosendahl forwarded a complete report both to the commandant of the fourth naval district in Philadelphia, his immediate superior, and to headquarters of the Navy department in Washington.

His explanation of what happened tallied in the main with that of unofficial witnesses. According to his report, however, it was four minutes after the giant ship had made contact with the ground that the flames burst out.

"Four minutes later," he states, "fire broke out aft, working progressively forward. The ship settled to the ground tail first and was completely on fire by the time the ground was reached. The fire burned for several hours and was finally extinguished by chemicals."

"Out of 97 on board, 64 escaped alive, including 44 of the crew of 61 and 20 of the 36 passengers. Two of the 20 passengers, however, are seriously injured. Twenty-six bodies have been recovered, of which nine are still unidentified."

GEORGE VI AND ELIZABETH CROWNED

Five Million Voices Cry, "God Save the King!" as Guns Boom Glad Tidings From Historic Tower of London.

London, England.—"God save the King!"

As the great guns of the Tower of London boomed forth the news that the Archbishop of Canterbury had placed the weighty Crown of St. Edward, the Crown of England, upon the head of George VI, the cry came forth in a mighty swell from five million throats as from the throat of one man.

This was the climax of the greatest show on earth, a show for which a generous share of the throng which lined the six and one-half miles of the processional route had waited without moving from their places through the dampness of a London spring night and, indeed, through part of the preceding day.

Those of the King's subjects who had not been able to afford $2 to $250 for a seat that would assure them a glimpse of their new monarch on his proudest day began marking off space along the curb on the afternoon of May 11. Smart alecks who thought they could put off their vigil until sunrise of Coronation Day were doomed to stretch their necks an inch or two in twelve hours of straining to see over several rows of earlier arrivals.

"A Quiet Empire."

It was a heavy day of work at the end of many back-breaking weeks of preparation for the 9,000 gentlemen and ladies of the peerage whose rank and purse entitled them to sit for an entire day in 10 to 25 pounds of clothing per capita, on a hard seat 19 inches wide without ever moving. But it was a magnificent show.

"The Lord give you fruitful lands and healthful seasons," said the archbishop in the benediction which followed the crowning of the King, "victorious fleets and armies, and a quiet Empire."

No one in Britain could deny that in a time of world-wide unrest, a time of urgent necessity for imperial strength and unity, the political expediency of "a quiet Empire" prompted the government to make of this the most splendid coronation in all history. The government expense in the crowning of George VI has been estimated to be double that in the coronation of his father 26 years ago; its backing of the dazzling pageantry required expenditures of $2,620,000 of public funds, not counting an estimated $500,000 spent by the royal household in entertaining royal and foreign guests.

In the vast coronation pageant the government hoped to lend new emphasis to that sentiment which is the real bond holding the empire together, and which is symbolized by the crown and the man who wears it. There is still an undercurrent of dissatisfaction over the abdication of Edward VIII. The new King and Queen must be popularized to the fullest possible extent. The coronation was an opportunity to accomplish this, and the government could afford to let none of it slip past.

The show and the crowd lived up to all advance-billing. It was estimated that there were 300,000 visitors who had to cross the ocean. All London's 12,000 hotel rooms were sold out. Souvenir manufacturers and vendors did the expected land office business. The drink bill for toasting the new King was guessed at $10,000,000.

Queen Goes First.

Pomp and regal solemnity were byword of the day from the time the King and Queen boarded the coronation coach at Buckingham Palace in mid-morning. Eight magnificent cream-colored horses drew the ancient four-ton vehicle down the streets it has traversed since 1761, when it was built for Queen Anne. In its heavily ornate gold and jewels it carried the spectators back through the pages of history to those days before the American colonies had revolted and prevented the British Empire from including the lion's share of North America.

The ancient coach, a tradition at coronations, bore the royal couple down the mall to the Abbey, where the Queen's procession left the King to enter first, so that she could stand and wait for him by the chairs of state, or recognition chairs, in front of the royal box where the other members of the royal family were seated.

Peers and peeresses were in their places before the central figures of the coronation drama arrived. And before them the real martyrs had assumed their positions. These were the eight newspaper photographers the government had permitted to be present.

Abhorring the thought of flash bulbs marring the solemnity of such an occasion, but still anxious that pictures be taken, officials hit upon a solution. They provided camouflaged quarters for camera men in false pillars and other positions which blended into the background of the Abbey. Narrow slits in the walls of these refuges enabled the cameras to peer out at the spectacle. But the poor "photogs!" They had to be "set up" before anyone entered the Abbey and maintain their cramped positions for eight or nine hours. They were not permitted to withdraw until everyone else had left.

A general color scheme of blue and gold with rich, soft velvet hangings made a brilliant background for the cast and for the spectators in their gorgeous uniforms and gowns. Peeresses wore robes of crimson velvet, trimmed in ermine, unless they happened to be of royal blood, in which event they were required to don the purple velvet of royalty. The court gowns worn underneath were of white, cream, silver or gold. Fashion experts estimated that the most economical of them cost at least $1,200. Uniforms of the men started at about $600 and went up from there.

History's Greatest Gem Display

This did not, of course, include the jewelry or the coronets. The cheapest coronet could hardly have been purchased for less than $100. The total of all the rings, bracelets, necklaces, etc., worn by the 9,000 present must have run into the millions, and was probably the most costly and magnificent display of

The Crown of St. Edward, or Crown of England, made for Charles II in 1662 and worn, because of its excessive weight, for but a fleeting moment by George VI during the coronation ceremony.

Rank of the members of the nobility was indicated by the amount of ermine on the robes of the women and the length of their trains. A duchess was marked by four rows of ermine on her robe, and a train two yards long. A marchioness was permitted three and one-half rows of ermine and a one-and-three-fourths-yard train; a countess half a row less of ermine, half a yard less train; rank was further graded down at half a row and half a yard per classification.

The head of the procession, which had included a great list of dignitaries, the King's representatives and royal persons with their families from all over the world had been waiting at the west door of the Abbey, and as the royal coach approached, filed in to await their monarch. Following them came the chaplains, deans and officers of Westminster, then the archbishops with the Queen consort and the ladies and gentlemen of the court.

Enter the King.

Noblemen close behind bore the staff and the sceptre, with the cross and the golden spurs, and the three swords which signify mercy, temporal justice and spiritual justice. These were the trappings of St. Edward, with which English kings have invested.

Then came more dignitaries, and the King's sceptre with the dove symbolic of mercy and equity; the King's gold and diamond orb, surmounted by the Christian cross; the crown of St. Edward, the patent and the chalice and the Bible.

Then entered George VI in the crimson robes of state, to join his Queen, and march through the choir and up the stairs to the theatre. Passing the thrones, they then knelt at the faldstools before the recognition chairs to offer prayers. Next they proceeded about the Abbey to all four sides before the view of the assemblage. The King went to his chair and once more faced each side of the Abbey as the Archbishop, in loud tones, announced him.

After the regalia had been brought and placed by the dean of Westminster upon the altar, the Archbishop asked the King, according to ritual, "Sire, is your Majesty willing to take the oath?" and the King answered, "I am willing." He gave his oath to govern the peoples of the British Isles and the Empire according to their laws and customs; to maintain the profession of the Gospel and the Church of England. After he had kissed the Bible and signed the oath, the King repeated and subscribed to the declaration required by parliament and, with the assemblage, prepared for the communion service.

Following this lengthy service, the King, having first removed the cap and robes of state, ascended to the throne of St. Edward, the ancient chair which contains beneath its seat the historic Stone of Scone upon which the kings of Scotland sat as they were crowned a thousand years ago. After a silken pall had been put over the King, the Archbishop anointed him upon the hands, breast and face with the holy oil, and he was ready to be presented with the spurs and the sword.

King Receives His Crown.

These given, George VI removed the pall and was clothed for the first time in the royal robe of purple. The orb and cross were brought from the altar by the Dean of Westminster and placed in the King's hands by the Archbishop. He was next invested with the ring and the sceptres.

Then as the King bowed his head the Dean of Westminster brought the Crown of St. Edward, and the Archbishop, receiving it from him, held it but momentarily upon the head of the King (its weight is terrific).

This was the signal for the trumpets and the guns in the Tower of London, for the peers and peeresses to cry "God save the King!" and for the millions who, along the processional line outside, had been waiting for that moment, to toss their hats in the air and cry likewise, "God save the King!" The peers were now allowed to put on their coronets.

There followed more religious ceremonies of great length and solemnity, and then the coronation of the Queen, following which the peeresses cried, "God save the Queen!" and donned their coronets.

Still more long hours of ceremony. Then, in the early evening the King's coach at last passed once more down the processional route, and the millions who had waited all day for the sight went home happy.

The GARDEN MURDER CASE

Zalia Graem glared defiantly at Vance.

"I asked Mrs. Garden what I could do for her, and she requested me to fill the water glass on the little table beside her bed. I went into the bathroom and filled it; then I arranged her pillows and asked her if there was anything else she wanted. She thanked me and shook her head; and I returned to the drawing-room."

"Thank you," murmured Vance, nodding to Miss Graem and turning to the nurse. "Miss Beeton," he asked, "when you returned last night, was the bedroom window which opens on the balcony belted?"

The nurse seemed surprised at the question. But when she answered, it was in a calm, professional tone.

"I didn't notice. But I know it was belted when I went out."

He turned leisurely to Floyd Garden. "I say, Garden, when you left the drawing-room yesterday afternoon, to follow Swift on your errand of mercy, as it were, after he had given you his bet on Equanimity, where did you go with him?"

"I led him into the dining-room." The man was at once troubled and aggressive. "I argued with him for a while, and then he came out and went down the hall to the stairs. I watched him for a couple of minutes, wondering what else I might do about it, for, to tell you the truth, I didn't want him to listen in on the race upstairs. I was pretty damned sure Equanimity wouldn't win, and he didn't know I hadn't placed his bet. I was rather worried about what he might do. For a minute I thought of following him upstairs, but changed my mind."

Vance lowered his eyes to the desk and was silent for several moments, smoking meditatively.

"I'm frightfully sorry, and all that," he murmured at length, without looking up; "but the fact is, we don't seem to be getting any farther. There are plausible explanations for everything and everybody. Assuming—merely as a hypothesis—that anyone here could be guilty of the murder of Swift, of the apparent attempt to murder Miss Beeton, and of the possible murder of Mrs. Garden, there is nothing tangible to substantiate an individual accusation. The performance was too clever, too well conceived, and the innocent persons seem unconsciously and involuntarily to have formed a conspiracy to aid and abet the murderer."

Vance looked up and went on.

"Moreover, nearly everyone has acted in a manner which conceivably would make him appear guilty. There have been an amazing number of accusations. Mr. Kroon was the first victim of one of those unsubstantiated accusations. Miss Graem has been pointed out to me as the culprit by several persons. Mrs. Garden last night directly accused her son. In fact, there has been a general tendency to involve various people in the criminal activities here. From the human and psychological point of view the issue has been both deliberately and unconsciously clouded, until the confusion was such that no clear-cut outline remained. And this created an atmosphere which perfectly suited the murderer's machinations, for it made detection extremely difficult and positive proof almost impossible. . . . And yet," Vance added, "some one in this room is guilty."

He rose dejectedly. I could not understand his manner; it was so unlike the man as I had always known him. All of his assurance seemed gone. Then he swung round quickly, and his eyes swept angrily about the room, resting for a brief moment on each one present.

"Furthermore," he said with a staccato stress on his words, "I know who the guilty person is!" There was an uneasy stir in the room and a short tense silence which was broken by Doctor Siefert's cultured voice.

"If that is the case, Mr. Vance—and I do not doubt the sincerity of your statement—I think it your duty to name that person."

Vance regarded the doctor thoughtfully for several moments before answering. Then he said in a low voice: "I think you are right, sir." Again he paused, and lighting a fresh cigarette, moved restlessly up and down in front of the window. "First, however," he said stopping suddenly, "there's something upstairs I wish to look at again—to make sure. . . . You will all please remain here for a few minutes." And he moved swiftly toward the door. At the threshold he hesitated and turned to the nurse. "Please come with me, Miss Beeton, I think you can help me."

The nurse rose and followed Vance into the hall. A moment later we could hear them mounting the stairs.

Fully five minutes passed, and then the tense silence of the room was split by a woman's frenzied and terrifying cry for help, from somewhere upstairs. As we reached the hallway the nurse came stumbling down the stairs, holding with both hands to the bronze railing. Her face was ghastly pale.

"Mr. Markham! Mr. Markham!" she called hysterically. "Oh, my God! The most terrible thing has happened!"

She had just reached the foot of the stairs when Markham came up to her. She stood clutching the railing for support.

"It's Mr. Vance!" she panted excitedly. "He's gone!"

A chill of horror passed over me, and everyone in the hall seemed stunned.

In broken phrases, interspersed with gasping sobs, the nurse was explaining to Markham.

"He went over—Oh, God, it was terrible! He said he wanted to ask me something, and led me out into the garden. He began questioning me about Doctor Siefert, and Professor Garden, and Miss Graem. And while he talked he moved over to the parapet—you remember where he stood last night. He got up there again, and looked down. I was frightened—the way I was yesterday. And then—and then—while

"Miss Beeton, I Think You Can Help Me."

I was talking to him—he bent over, and I could see—oh, God!—he had lost his balance. . . . He stared at Markham wild-eyed. 'I reached toward him . . . and suddenly he wasn't there any more. . . . He had gone over!'

Her eyes lifted suddenly over our heads and peered past us transfixed. A sudden change came over her. Her face seemed contorted into a hideous mask. Following her horrified gaze, we instinctively turned and glanced up the hallway toward the drawing-room.

There, near the archway, looking calmly toward us, was Vance.

"I told you last night, Miss Beeton," he was saying, his eyes resting sternly on the nurse, "that no gambler ever quits with his first winning bet, and that in the end he always loses." He came forward a few steps. "You won your first gamble, at long odds, when you murdered Swift. And your poisoning of Mrs. Garden with the barbital also proved a winning bet. But when you attempted to add me to your list of victims, because you suspected I knew too much—you lost. That race was fixed—you hadn't a chance."

The nurse, who had been staring at Vance as if petrified, suddenly relaxed her hold on the stair railing, and her hands went to her face in a gesture of hopelessness and despair.

"Yes!" she cried at Vance: "I tried to kill you. Why shouldn't I? You were about to take everything—everything—away from me."

She turned quickly and ran up the stairs. Almost simultaneously Vance dashed forward.

"Quick, quick!" he called out. "Stop her before she gets to the garden."

But before any of us realized the significance of his words, Vance was himself on the stairs. Heath and Snitkin were just behind him, and the rest of us, stupefied, followed. As I came out on the roof, I could see Miss Beeton running toward the far end of the garden, with Vance immediately behind her. Twilight had nearly passed, and a deep dusk had settled over the city. As the girl leaped up on the parapet at the same point where Vance had stood the night before, she was like a spectral silhouette against the faintly glowing sky. And then she disappeared down into the deep shadowy abyss, just before Vance could reach her.

CHAPTER XV

A half hour later we were all seated in the den again. Heath and the detectives had gone out immediately after the final catastrophe to attend to the unpleasant details occasioned by Miss Beeton's suicide.

Vance was once more in the chair at the desk. The tragic termination of the case seemed to have saddened him. He smoked gloomily for a few minutes. Then he spoke.

"I asked all of you to stay because I felt you were entitled to an explanation of the terrible events that have taken place here, and to hear why it was necessary for me to conduct the investigation in the manner I did. To begin with, I knew from the first that I was dealing with a very shrewd and unscrupulous person."

"I was inclined to suspect Miss Beeton almost from the first, for, although everyone here had, through some act, drawn suspicion upon himself, only the nurse had the time and the unhampered opportunity to commit the initial crime. She was entirely unobserved when she put her plan into execution; and so thoroughly familiar was she with every arrangement of the household, that she had no difficulty in timing her every step so as to insure this essential privacy."

"Subsequent events and circumstances added irresistibly to my suspicion of her. For instance, when Mr. Floyd Garden informed me where the key to the vault was kept, I sent her to see if it was in its place, without indicating to her where its place was, in order to ascertain if she knew where the key hung. Only someone who knew exactly how to get into the vault at a moment's notice could have been guilty of killing Swift."

"Incidentally, one of my great difficulties in the case has been to act in such a way, at all times, that her suspicions would not be aroused at any point."

"Her motive was not clear at first," Vance explained, "and, unfortunately, I thought that by Swift's death alone she had accomplished her purpose. But after my talk with Doctor Siefert this morning, I was able to understand fully her whole hideous plot. Doctor Siefert pointed out definitely her interest in Floyd Garden, although I had had hints of it before. For instance, Floyd Garden was the only person here about whom she spoke to me with admiration. Her motive was based on a colossal ambition—the desire for financial security, ease and luxury; and mixed with this over-weening desire was a strange twisted love. These facts became clear to me only today."

Vance glanced at young Garden. "It was you she wanted," he continued. "And I believe her self-assurance was such that she did not doubt for a minute that she would be successful in attaining her goal."

Garden sprang to his feet. "Good God, Vance!" he exclaimed. "You're right. I see the thing now. She has been making up to me for a long time; and, to be honest with you, I may have said and done things which she could have construed as encouragement—God help me!" He sat down again in dejected embarrassment.

"No one can blame you," Vance said kindly. "She was one of the shrewdest women I have ever encountered. But the point of it all is, she did not want only you—she wanted the Garden fortune as well. That's why, having learned that Swift would share in the inheritance, she decided to eliminate him and leave you the sole beneficiary. But this murder did not, by any means constitute the whole of her scheme."

Vance again addressed us in general.

"Her whole terrible plot was clarified by some other facts that Doctor Siefert brought out this morning during my talk with him. The death, either now or later, of Mrs. Garden was also an important ingredient of that plot; and Mrs. Garden's physical condition had, for some time, shown certain symptoms of poisoning. Of late these symptoms have increased in intensity. Doctor Siefert informed me that Miss Beeton had been a laboratory assistant to Professor Garden during his experiments with radioactive sodium, and had often come to the apartment here for the purpose of typing notes and attending to other duties which could not conveniently be performed at the university. Doctor Siefert also informed me that she had actually entered the household here about two months ago, to take personal charge of Mrs. Garden's case. She had, however, continued to assist Professor Garden occasionally in his work and naturally had access to the radioactive sodium he had begun to produce."

Vance turned his eyes to Professor Garden.

"And you too, sir," he said, "were, as I see it, one of her intended victims. When she planned to shoot Swift I believe she planned a double murder—that is, you and Swift were to be shot at the same time. But, luckily, you had not returned to your study."

"But—but," stammered the professor, "how could she have killed me and Woody too?"

Nature Esteemed by Chinese

Nature is close to the life of every Chinese, says Nature Magazine. All the feathered folk that go to make up the out-of-doors are held in high regard by the laborer, the student, the water-shop keeper. More than mere incidents in the complete scheme of all things natural and of the earth, they were long ago given a rank of high importance in Chinese literature, art, and science. Perhaps, too, that is the secret of the abundance of bird life in China, in spite of the fact that the country has suffered periodic cycles of famine and scarcity since the dawn of history. Evidently this love has been so sincere that the birds have been preserved.

Lesson for May 16

THE FORBEARANCE OF ISAAC

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 26: 12-25.
GOLDEN TEXT—Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God. Matthew 5:9.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A Man Who Wouldn't Quarrel.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Was Isaac a Hero?

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How to Prevent Quarrels.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Promoting Peace.

In a world largely dominated by the philosophy that might is right, and in which men are urged to assert themselves and demand their rights, exacting them even by lawless and violent methods, it is increasingly difficult to proclaim the truth that meekness is not weakness and that the Christian virtues of patience and long-suffering are not simply outmoded theories which do not fit our modern world.

The story of Isaac, the second of the patriarchs, is instructive from beginning to end. The five chapters preceding our lesson merit careful reading. Isaac had come through many blessed experiences and had also sadly tasted the defeat of unbelief and sin before we reach the time of our lesson. Fearing a famine, and evidently not being certain that God would care for him, he had gone down from the promised land, and was dwelling in the land of the Philistines. But God had not forsaken him, and even there he blessed him.

I. Peace, Prosperity, and Envy (vv. 12-17).

Isaac was at peace although he was in the enemy's territory. God had given him great prosperity with the result that the Philistines hated him. Times have changed, but men are the same. Many are they who will not have the Lord Jesus Christ to rule over them, but who cast envious glances toward those who because they have honored God have been honored by him with peace of heart and have prospered in whatever they do. (Read Psalm 1.)

Note that Isaac's testimony is strengthened by his willingness to yield even what was his right, rather than cause contention. Undoubtedly there are times when one must defend his name and his possessions, but all too often those who "stand up for their rights" have wrecked homes, churches, and nations, and have gained nothing but an empty victory.

II. Peace in the World Is Temporary (vv. 18-21).

Isaac moved on and dug more wells, and for a time he was again at peace, but not for long. He was still in the land of the Philistines. We are in the world. We long for peace, we would throw all our influence on the side of peace. But let us not be misled, for as long as sin is in the world there will be strife and war.

Many noble Christian men and women have permitted their God-given hatred of war and killing to mislead them into support of unscriptural and impossible peace programs, often to the loss of their interest in the preaching of the gospel and the winning of souls to Christ.

But is there then never to be "peace on earth?"

III. Perfect Peace in the Presence of God (vv. 22-25).

When Isaac came up into Canaan the land which God had promised him, he found permanent peace and renewed fellowship with God. Even so, the Christian man and woman who will step out of a spirituality-destroying fellowship with the world and will come wholly over into the spiritual Canaan will find true peace and intimate communion with God.

A broader application of the same truth brings before us the teaching of Scripture that when the One who has a right to reign, the Lord Jesus Christ, returns to take his throne, then and not before, will peace cover the earth. In the meantime those who bear the beautiful name Christian, who are true followers of the Prince of Peace, will give themselves to such patient, loving, and long-suffering testimony to Him that their personal influence will be toward peace in the home, in the church, in the community, in the earth.

Always remember that God's Word, the Bible, is our guide. Let us read it diligently, intelligently, prayerfully. To help the reader to do this, the writer of these notes will be glad to supply without cost or obligation a Bible-reading calendar with a workable plan for reading the blessed Book through in a year. If possible enclose a stamped and self-addressed envelope with your request.

Faults Showing Up

The good often sigh more over little faults than the wicked over great. Hence an old proverb, that the stain appears greater according to the brilliancy of what it touches. —Palmieri.

Sin of Not Doing

Doing nothing at all is often the worst kind of wrong doing. Simply failing to do what we ought to do may be more inexcusable than any mistake in our best methods of doing.

Parading the Fashions

A STYLE show De Luxe for De Ladies on this De Lightful Spring day!

Betty Ann feels just a bit the most elegant of the three for her housecoat is superlative. She has "skirts" like the ladies in the feminine yesterdays; her basque is form-fitting; her sash has a bow, and her sleeves puff. The illusion is so perfect that she is about to reach for smelling salts or a sprig of old lavender.

Matrons Have Vanity, Too.

Mama, very young for her years, can not resist styles that bring more compliments her way. The no-belt feature of this one is definitely new, and does wonders for the figure a bit past the slim stage. The continuing collar, which in soft pastels is always flattering, gives the break required by the all-in-one waist and skirt. The fitted top and flaring bottom make for style plus comfort, a demand matrons, even though youthful, always make.

Parties and Picnics.

Winifred on the left is privately making up her mind to have a housecoat, too; though she is mightily pleased with the way her print has turned out. She chose this style because the fitted, broken waist line and front seamed skirt are so very slenderizing. She's on her way to the 4-H meeting now and has only stopped to remind Betty Ann of the picnic "The Jolly Twelve" are having on Tuesday.

The Patterns.

Pattern 1285 comes in sizes 12-20 (30 to 40). Size 14 requires 3 1/2 yards of 39 inch material.

Pattern 1282 is for sizes 14-20

(32 to 44 bust). Size 16 requires 5 1/2 yards of 39 inch material. It requires 2 1/2 yards of ribbon for tie belt.

Pattern 1983 is for sizes 36 to 50. Size 38 requires 5 1/2 yards of 39 inch material. With the short sleeves it requires only 5 yards of 39 inch material.

New Pattern Book.

Let Us Tell You More About It

Two men were talking about their children.

"I've spent much money sending my boy to a good school, and the young scoundrel doesn't even trouble to write to me," said Robinson.

"That's funny," replied Boots. "I always manage to get my son to write."

"How do you do it?"

"Easy," replied Boots. "I send him a letter saying I am enclosing a ten-spot—and forget to enclose the ten-spot."

Subtlety

A customer sat down at a table in a smart restaurant and tied a napkin around his neck. The scandalized manager called a waiter and instructed him: "Try to make him understand, as tactfully as possible, that that's not done."

Said the thoughtful waiter to the customer: "Pardon me, sir. Shave or haircut, sir?"—The Kablegram.

Miss Maggie Jeter

As a trade extension project for the chamber of commerce we suggest the organization of an inter-community baseball league,
all games to be played in Loraine.
Say we get a team from Landers,
Champion, Silver, Bauman, Lone Star, Valley View and other communities to enter the league and offer suitable prizes for the occasion. Such an event would draw a large number of people to Loraine each week during the summer.
Our plan would be to let the league games be free to everybody. We know of no place where baseball would be a better inducement for the people of the community like baseball. We know of a small town not far away that is working this plan,
and has for the past few years,
and it is proving very successful, they are having large crowds in that town every Saturday.

Loraine merchants are all smiling this week. They had a good day last Saturday and then the fine rain Sunday night puts them
in better spirits for the future.
Farmers, too, are all smiles this week following the fine rain.
Some had begun to get uneasy concerning the dry weather-afraid the rain would not come in time.

Now since we have a good season to finish planting the crop lets all knuckle down to hard work and make Loraine and its territory the best ever.

There are any number of homes in Loraine and its trade territory that need repairing, painting, and a general cleaning. Just a few dollars spent for lumber and paint will increase the value of the place in dollars as well as appearance to many times the cost of the materials.
If you are able to do this work now we are sure you will save money by doing so because prices for materials are almost certain to go higher. Everything points toward higher prices—so if you are able to do your repairing and painting now you will save on the cost of the material and preserve your property as well.

Have you noticed those fine shade trees growing in the city park? It will not be long until Loraine will have a little park of which she may well be proud. We should begin to place other improvements in the park to make it a playground for this area. It will not cost any of us much and it will be worth a great deal to our boys and girls for a place to play.
It would be fine thing for the city to pipe water to all parts of the park, plant grass and equip it with playground equipment. It wouldn't cost much, either, to build a few concrete

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

W. H. Capps, Pastor
It is needless for me to say that the program rendered Sunday morning by the primary, junior, and intermediate department was good for those of us present all received a great blessing by being there, and will say to those who were not there that you missed a great blessing by staying at home. Bro. Capps followed the program with a sermon using some of the Bible mothers as a background for his text.

We wish that more of you Baptist folks would come out to the services on Sundays. We need you and you need us.

The services were rained out Sunday night but a group of young people who met for B. Y.
P. U. were caught in the basement during the first rain and had a very good B. Y. P. U. followed by a nice song service.

There will be no Sunday morning preaching service next Sunday as the pastor is away attending the convention. But the ladies of the church will have a program worth while Sunday night on "Old Ministerial Relief" given in the form of a playlet titled
"The Fruit of His Labors." We urge all who will to come.

The church is very sorry to hear of Mrs. Roberts not doing so well. We want her and the family to know that the prayers of the church as a whole are with her in her illness, also other members who are ill at this writing.

CAMPERS SHOULD BE CAREFUL OF WATER-FOOD

Austin, Texas.—As the summer season approaches, a word of warning is timely to prospective campers, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, summer vacationists, fishermen, and others, who enjoy getting out into the open, relative to the possible dangers that may be encountered from the standpoint of contracting infection under the changed environment. This is especially true of diseases that may be transmitted through food and water supplies.

Typhoid fever is a disease the amount of which is greatest, as a rule, where there is the least sanitation. It is an unnecessary and preventable disease. It is spread from person to person by water, milk, fingers, flies and food. Every case is contracted by taking into the mouth some substance contaminated with typhoid organisms, and these occur only in nature in the bowel and bladder discharges of persons sick with typhoid or from carriers, persons who have had typhoid and who after recovery still harbor the germs in their system.

Persons planning a vacation or trip where sanitation may be rigidly enforced or where food handlers are not regularly examined should protect themselves against this disease by being vaccinated. Three inoculations with typhoid vaccine, a week apart, are necessary to secure protection against this disease and the immunity established is good for two years. The purity of water or milk cannot be judged by looking at it. Play safe and have your doctor protect you.

Society

The students of the first grade were given a party at the home of their teacher, Mrs. Johnson, Friday afternoon. After playing several games they were served refreshments of punch and cookies with favors made of decorated suckers. In addition to the 28 first graders Gene Williams, Jasper Hart, Patricia Martin, Jaeanne Martin, and Louise Hart were guests.

The Sophomores were entertained with a party Saturday night in the home of Blossom Lee Green. There were 14 present with the sponsor Mrs. Fred B. Ison. Many games were played which were enjoyed by all. After the games were played delicious refreshments of punch and cookies were served. Roy G. was very popular. He had seven girls with him at one time. All reported a nice time and went home.

The Juniors were well entertained with an ice cream supper Saturday night at Clista Hoover's. There were about 21 present with the sponsor Miss Hoskinson. Ice cream and cake were served to all. After freezing the cream and eating it several very interesting games were played, including Nina Pearl's favorite, Paul Jones. After the games the party adjourned with everyone expressing an excellent time.

Accomplishments of the Freshmen Class

The enrollment of the Freshmen class has decreased only 3 from 41 to 38, and now we have the largest class in high school. The Freshmen have become more dignified and have learned how to conduct themselves in school better than they did at the beginning of school. They have gained more knowledge. From the Freshmen class has come several declaimers, musicians, singers, and good students. With this year's work attained the Freshmen look forward to larger and better Sophomore year in L. H. S.

ginning of school. They have gained more knowledge. From the Freshmen class has come several declaimers, musicians, singers, and good students. With this year's work attained the Freshmen look forward to larger and better Sophomore year in L. H. S.

Accomplishments of

The Sophomore Class

The accomplishments of the Sophomores this year have been great ones. Most of the Sophomores either take Latin or Spanish and all take English and most of them take Algebra. Most of us have been passing on the past six weeks and we hope especially to pass this time. The Sophomores have several that never fail to be on the A honor roll and several that are on the B. The final exams will end a very happy year for the Sophomores. We have had several "Sophos" to withdraw this year, whom we were very sorry to lose. We will enter another year classified as Juniors and give our place as Sophomores to the girls and boys who are now Freshmen.

Introducing the Seniors

At dawn on December 23, 1918 it was cold, cloudy, and foggy, but before its departure the elements had subsided to the brightness spread over the world by the arrival of Orval Leo Shultz. As an intended Christmas surprise, his two day head start on the pathway of life, gives us an insight into his character, for it shows us that then as now delay is none of his, for he is always in his place before necessity demands. Working willingly and cheerfully, whether it be at home or school, or for himself or his associates. Standing six feet and weighing 160 pounds he is ideally suited to play, in football, the end position, which he plays in masterfully style. His brown hair, brown eyes, erect carriage, gentlemanly manners, and ready wit are his calling cards wherever he may be. Those who know him intimately know that nothing but success and happiness in the greatest degree await him.

The German band rendered two numbers between the second and third acts of the senior play. Everyone seemed to enjoy the music very much.

Soft Ball

Last week saw the beginning of the intramural soft ball league. The members of the league are the four classes of high school. A game is played each day in the week except Friday and enthusiasm is running high. Both boys and girls are participants in the league, having separate schedules of course. At present the Freshman and Junior boys are the league leaders, having won one game apiece and lost none. The Freshman girls share all the glory in their division being the sole leaders.

Accomplishments of

The Junior Class

It is the custom for the Junior class to give the Senior class a party on Hallowe'en. The Junior class of 1937 gave the Seniors a Hallowe'en party in the home of Earlene Brown. This was the first of their accomplishments this year. The next thing the Juniors did was to give a Junior play. As it so happened, it rained the night the play was given and the crowd wasn't so large, but the Juniors enjoyed giving the play and regard it as another accomplishment. Ordering your Senior rings is a happy occasion for anyone, especially if you can order them when you are a Junior. Well, the Junior class this year, did just that and they will get their rings early next fall instead of having to wait until next spring. The greatest accomplishment of the Juniors this year was the honor and privilege of giving the Jr.-Sr. Banquet. It was given April 22, 1937 in the band hall. Sailing was the theme carried out at the banquet. The Juniors enjoyed giving the Seniors the Banquet. Besides the things which have been mentioned, the Juniors have had several other parties and a picnic. The Junior class is a large class and everyone is hoping to pass his work and be Seniors next year. They hope to accomplish a few more things before school is out and many more next year. Oh yes! Miss Hoskinson, the Junior sponsor, has accomplished the task of purchasing a new car this year.

Senior News

The Seniors wish to thank everyone who had any part in making the Senior play a success. The play indeed was a success and the money will be used to make a trip to the Carlsbad Cavern. The Seniors plan to leave Friday and return Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Riden will sponsor the group. Thursday the Seniors have planned for the first time a kid day in L. H. S. In order that we might carry out these things, the citizens of this community have made it possible and we certainly do appreciate it. The Baccalaureate Sermon will be on May 23 at the high school. Rev. Strickland will be the speaker. Commencement will be on May 28 at the high school. The program will be composed of talent in the Senior class. There will be no main speaker. The Seniors will take final exams next week and the last week of school the Seniors will be free to do as they please. This is the custom and after 11 years they are permitted to be absent one week (without make-up work.)

Believe It Or Not

The Seniors are leaving for Carlsbad Friday and will return Sunday.

Lillian was knocked out Monday morning when she started upstairs. Her foot slipped and she took a bump.

Lloyd Brame happened to an accident the night of the Senior play. He went to sit down and his chair did too. This caused much excitement when he and the chair both hit the floor. But it went by all right; no one was killed or knocked out.

The "Fish" were seen studying Monday morning.

The Juniors will soon be Seniors.

Opal Martin can shout and Ruth Anne Hall can act lazy.

The Seniors have two more weeks of school life.

Margaret Jarrett went with a boy.

Club Picnic

Tuesday, May 11. The twelve o'clock bell has rung, all the members of the Latin and Spanish clubs rush to the school bus to go to the Wayside Park for a picnic lunch. About 50 students leave in the bus with Mr. Williams driving.

Arriving at the park they find Mrs. Ison, Dell Johnson and Ronel Thomas presiding over the food while Marign Rhodes uncorks the soda pop. Yes, it was really soda pop. The procession starts, but not in the manner of a funeral procession. The group passes by a table and each takes a soda pop and passes on to the next table to get a good square meal.

Mrs. Ison photographs the group while everyone is eating. She wants to get a picture of the one who eats the most. Last but not least the ice cream was served.

After tramping through the park a bit the students return to the bus and start for home.

The clubs wish to thank Mrs. Ison, Mr. Williams, and everyone who took part to make the event a howling success.

Epworth Leaguers in conjunction with the summer revival contemplate a young people's evangelistic campaign which would begin about a week before the Methodist revival July 2. Evangelist Bascom Morton will be here for a ten-day campaign.

Sunday School attendance Mother's Day was 234, the biggest attendance in more than three years. Part of the church school hours and part of the preaching hour was consumed in a special Mother's Day program rendered under the direction of Mrs. Bill Honea. The pastor preached on "A Praying Mother's Power and Glorification."

No night service was held Sunday due to the sudden rain squall.

Mrs. Bill Honea conducted the prayer service Wednesday evening. Attendance at prayer meeting has been increasing.

The pastor requested that all Methodist who have been laying out come to church and Sunday School Sunday. "Let's keep above 200 in Sunday School every Sunday," he suggested.

Woman's District Missionary Conference held at Sweetwater Tuesday was attended by Mesdames Hamilton Wright, Thomas, Palmer and Miss Isla Bruce from Loraine. Luncheon was served at noon. Sessions were held at Highland Heights Church. About 150 women from the Sweetwater district were in attendance.

The pastor will preach Sunday morning on "The Christian's Anchor". It will disclose how Christianity has triumphed in spite of persecution, hostile government, and apparently insuperable obstacles.

An evangelistic sermon will feature at the evening hour.

Remember the fourth Sunday in this month is to be observed in conformity with the regulations of the board of stewards as "Benevolence Sunday." All offerings go into the conference claims.

Dean Borger of McMurry College spoke for Rev. C. E. Jamieson at the morning hour Sunday at Colorado. One conversion resulted. Borger spent a short time Sunday afternoon at the home of Rev. Hamilton Wright here.

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of all excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. Movie Star

Springerle

4 eggs
1 pound flour
2 tablespoons anise seed
1 pound powdered sugar
3 level teaspoons baking powder

Beat egg yolks and whites separately, then together until creamy; add sugar, slowly beating until bubbles appear. Sift the baking powder with the flour thoroughly, then add the anise seed. Add slowly to the above mixture and mix well. Let stand for four hours in a cool place. Roll out, cut into fancy shapes and place on sheets of paper to dry. Bake in slow oven.

Why Laxatives Fail In Stubborn Constipation

Twelve to 24 hours is too long to wait when relief from clogged bowels and constipation is needed, for then enormous quantities of bacteria accumulate, causing GAS, indigestion and many restless, sleepless nights. If you want REAL, QUICK RELIEF, take a liquid compound such as Adierika. Adierika contains SEVEN cathartic and carminative ingredients that act on the stomach and BOTH bowels. Most "overnight" laxatives contain one ingredient that acts on the lower bowel only. Adierika's DOUBLE ACTION gives your system a thorough cleansing, bringing out old poisonous waste matter that may have caused GAS pains, sour stomach, headaches and sleepless nights for months. Adierika relieves stomach GAS at once and usually removes bowel congestion in less than two hours. No waiting for overnight results. This famous treatment has been recommended by many doctors and druggists for 35 years. Take Adierika one-half hour before breakfast or one hour before bedtime and in a short while you will feel wonderfully refreshed. At all Leading Druggists.

Giants to Dish Out Lots of Hard Luck Before Season Ends

PROBABLY the other National League clubs knew it all along, but no matter. It will do no harm—and, incidentally, will be a big help in getting this piece started to remind them to avoid black cats, putting bats on beds, walking under ladders and other innocent seeming yet dangerous pastimes this season.

The reason is the Giants. In spite of occasional spring rumors to the contrary there definitely will be no need for the Cubs, Pirates and Cards to saddle themselves with extra jinxes just to be sure of getting some competition when they come to the Polo Grounds. Instead, judged by what they have showed thus far it is obvious that the league titleholders are going to continue furnishing more than enough hard luck for all other contenders.

By that I do not mean that the mere statistics of early season triumphs over the second-division Dodgers is proof that Bill Terry has another pennant winner. I doubt that he has, but it nevertheless is plain that he does have just such a clasp as won two flags for him when better opponents faltered.

The team hustles. It is smart. Probably there still is a lack of hitting power—for instance Ott could easily be the difference between first place and fourth—but the Giants still play the league's best defensive baseball. Also they still need only the tiniest opening in an opponent's guard to enable them to slice themselves a victory. Added to that there may have been some improvement here and there. Lou Chiozza is not as finished a third base performer as Travis Jackson, but he has added needed speed. Then Hal Schumacher, who made his mates uneasy each time he went to the mound in 1936, seems back in form.

But don't go to asking too many questions about the Dodgers. The Brooklyn have so many other worries that it would be unfair to take their minds off their work just so that you can give a good example of what killed the cat. In a word, the Dodgers continue to be the Dodgers.

Manush, so long as his legs hold up, will provide line-drive assistance that the directors would not obtain for the fans twelve months ago. The experienced Woody English probably can combine with young Cookie Lavagetto to produce more double plays than could the keystone combination so generously allotted to the fans by the owners in 1936. Yet the truth is that the improvement is not enough to make any appreciable difference. Like the Ebbets field teams of 1936 and all too many other recent years, the Dodgers just do not have class.

They try hard, just as did the sorely battered outfit which played the second best ball in the league from July 4 on last year. The addition of such fighting veterans as Manush and English makes a difference now just as it would have last spring. There also are schedule blessings, such as the fact that the club meets favored Westerners on the home terrain, before venturing upon a long campaign on foreign terrain.

That may mean—indeed probably will mean—the Dodgers will do relatively well in the early stages of the race. After that weaknesses that were evident to all on opening day and, pitching problems that soon must crop up will tell the story.

A summer book rating of the (so-called) Ivy League football teams makes Penn the favorite and Yale the second choice, with Princeton figured to battle Columbia for show money. Incidentally N. Y. U.'s Mal Stevens says that Captain Clint Frank's Yale backfield should be the best seen on an eastern grid-iron in many years.

Unsung heroes always are being uncovered at the strangest places and now Princeton has come up with one in the form of a wrestling coach. He is Jimmy Reed, former Lehigh two-time national champion and Olympic star, who produced at least one titleholder during each of the five years he has been at Nassau. His mat teams have been undefeated during the past two seasons in dual meets and the Tigers got so excited about it that $700—one of the biggest Princeton indoor sports crowds on record—of them witnessed one meet last winter.

NOT IN THE BOX SCORE:

PRIMO CARNERA has written to a close friend that he is considering returning to this country as a wrestler. Judge Landis' favorite dish is Spanish bean soup. He refuses to talk about it but wealthy friends insist that Bill Terry's dearest ambition is to be president and part owner of the Brooklyn baseball club. . . . One success secret of Jockey Harry Richards, who is riding so many winners this year, is that he never shifts his hands on the reins. It also was a success secret of Isaac Murphy, who probably was the greatest American jockey of all time, and is earnestly recommended to those riders who pester good horses by continually fiddling with the reins.

Fight Manager Jimmy Johnston, Jr., is a candid camera addict. He takes pictures of his babies daily. . . . Friends say Paul Schissler undoubtedly would consider an offer to take on a college head football coaching job. Schissler had an excellent record at Oregon State and, considering the handicaps under which he worked, an even better one during his two years with Brooklyn's progressors. . . . American leaguers are complaining about Bill Dineen, once a great pitcher and umpire. They say the veteran can't move and is practically no umpire at all when not behind the plate. . . . If the Davis Cup committee pairs Bobby Riggs and Joey Hunt for the doubles match against Japan it will be like hitching a dog and cat in tandem, for they have just about that much love for one another. Still, so far as doubles ability goes, it would be a good team and might prove as successful as that celebrated, non-speaking double-play combination of Joe Tinker and Johnny Evers.

Bob Pastor boxing in California gets a cool $12,500 for meeting Bob Nestell, while waiting for Louis, Schmeling and Braddock to settle their heavyweight mess. . . . Frank Kohlbecker, who once caught for the Dodgers, now does a swell job as road secretary for the Cleveland Indians. . . . Lefty Weisman, Cleveland trainer, used to sell newspapers in Boston and pal around with a young Red Sox pitcher named Babe Ruth. . . . The New York State Athletic commission should give more work to the very able young referee, Frankie Fullam. . . . James Corrigan McCarthy is on the third freshman crew at Yale. . . . The first time, according to his parent, the celebrated Black Hat McCarthy, that the famous turf family ever has been mixed up in a boat race. . . . Add odd names among pugs—Cardinal Paul, Buck Jones, Demitri Demidri, a new Greek 175 pounder, Fanis Zantaooulus.

London Defeat Proves Crowding Beats Baer

That London whipping proves once more a statement made repeatedly in this space for the past four years that anybody who crowds Max Baer can beat him. In other words, Max is a long-distance puncher and he lost that one recently because he couldn't keep Farr away.

In spite of persistent rumors, Giants' First Basemen Leslie and McCarthy have nothing to worry about so long as they continue their present good work. Giant officials declare they lost interest in Dolph Camilli of the Phils two years ago. . . . They also add that no other deals are contemplated. . . . Casey Stengel, who was deposed so that Brooklyn could have a "fighting" team this season, was called by John J. McGraw "the best winning and best fighting player ever to be with the Giants." . . . Jake Flowers, former Dodger and Card infielder, has written a wrestling scenario which might interest some wide awake movie concern. . . . Turfmen, who have high hopes that the present campaign will surpass it, say that New York's best race season was in 1906.

Philip Murray, first vice president of the United Mine Workers of America, also is honorary president of the Keystone Soccer League in Pittsburgh where he once starred at left halfback for the Beading F. C. . . . Patrick T. Fagan, executive president of District Five of the U. M. W. of A., also achieved his first fame as a soccer player. He performed for the Castle Shannon F. C. when it was winning the Dispatch League championship. . . . The most promising of the younger lightweights is an East Side kid named Mickey Farber, who looks much like Tony Canzoneri. . . . Clint Hoard, former Brooklyn baseball writer, has given more than 300 baseball talks at colleges, schools, clubs and fraternal organizations during the past three years.

Aldo Spoldi, Italian lightweight champion, praised American fight fans and promoters during an audience with Premier Mussolini. . . . Harry D. Turner will promote wrestling and cycling at the Coney Island Velodrome this summer. . . . Boxing and wrestling will be resumed at the Long Beach Stadium this season after a four-year layoff. . . . Joe McKeown, who writes that fine soccer column in the Advance, does just as neat a job when he speaks about the sport on the radio. And why not? . . . For years Joe booted the ball around for some of the nation's best soccer clubs.

AROUND the HOUSE

Items of Interest to the Housewife

Outer Leaves of Lettuce—The outer leaves of lettuce, often trimmed off and thrown away, are more than 30 times as rich in vitamin A as the inside leaves.

Boiled Whitefish—Clean a whitefish. To sufficient water to cover add salt and vinegar and a bunch of parsley and a quartered onion. Cook until the flesh separates easily from the bones. Drain and place on a hot platter, garnished with parsley and serve with a sauce.

Removing Mustard Stains—Mustard stains can be removed from table linen by washing in hot water and soap and rinsing in warm water.

Hanging Pictures—Never allow picture frames to touch the wall if it is damp. The frame will soon become damaged. With a small tack or gramophone needle, attach two small corks at the bottom of your frame. These will keep the frame off the wall.

Soaking Salt Fish—When soaking salt fish add a small glass of vinegar to the soaking water and it will draw out more of the salt.

With Fancywork—Before starting to draw the threads on linen for hemstitching, wet a small brush, rub it over a bar of soap until a lather is produced, scrub the threads of linen that you wish to draw, and they will pull out easily.

Butter Layer Cake—When raspberry jam that is not of firm consistency is to be used for filling a sponge sandwich cake it is advisable to butter the inner surface of each layer before spreading it with jam. This will prevent the moisture from soaking into the cake and making it sodden.

Beef Juice—To make beef juice add 1 pound of fresh, raw, finely chopped round steak without fat to 6 ounces of cold water. Add a pinch of salt, put the beef and water in a glass jar and stand it on ice, over night. Shake and strain it through coarse muslin, squeezing hard to obtain all the juice.

Tomato and Lima Bean Casserole—Drain the liquid from a No. 2 can of green baby lima beans and combine the beans with a can of tomatoes. Add a little butter and seasoning, then mix. Place in buttered casserole. Cover, WNU Service.

Young-Looking Skin at 35—Now a Reality For Women!

THOUSANDS of women now keep the suture of youthful, dewy fresh skin at 30—35—40 and even after! Now a modern skin creme acts to free the skin of the "age-film" of semi-visible darkening particles ordinary cremes cannot remove. Often only 5 nights enough to bring out divine new freshness—youthful rose-petal clearness and bloom; it up-lifts surface pimples, blackheads, freckles.
