WTC may lose $300,000 from state

Western Texas College officials estimate a state funding shortfall of from $200,000 to $300,000 next school year based upon a recommended statewide reduction in funds for higher education.

Last week, the Legislative Budget Board recommended a general reduction in such funds of approximately 10 percent.

Based upon WTC's allocation from the state this year, this would equal a $200,000 to $300,000 decrease, according to Gay Hickman, college business manager.

The proposed reductions for Texas colleges and universities are based on projections from State Comptroller Bob Bullock that state revenues will fall short of a no-growth budget for the next two fiscal years by $900 million.

State funds to institutions like WTC are based on the number of "contact hours" counted during a specified school year. Contact hours are basically the number of hours college students are in class.

The current school year which will count toward funding began last summer and will include the summer terms plus this fall and spring semester.

The enrollments for this period will then be used to compute funding levels for two school years beginning next fall. This would include state funding through August of 1987.

Any reductions at the state level will be felt during the 1985-86 school year. Such shortfalls would have to be part of budget planning this summer.

This current school year, WTC will receive some $2.1 million in state funds for its academic and vocational programs.

The general recommendation from the Legislative Budget Board is that 89.6 percent of this amount be provided beginning in 1985-86.

The state also provides insurance costs for college personnel. The recent recommendation also includes a 5 percent reduction in this amount.

Advocates weapons ban in outer space

LONDON (AP) — Senior Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev, in his first comment on the upcoming superpower nuclear arms talks, stressed today that they should aim to ban weapons in space.

In a statement distributed to news organizations in London by the official Soviet news agency Tass, Gorbachev said he emphasized the concern about space weapons in "frank" talks Sunday with Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher.

Both sides said the dialogue, which continued today with Gorbachev meeting Foreign Secretary Sir Geoffrey Howe, had produced agreement on the need to curb the nuclear arms race and stop it from reaching space.

"I would like to stress that during the meeting we stated the position of the Soviet Union on such questions as the prevention of the threat of nuclear war, restraining the arms race," Gorbachev said.

"In this connection we emphasized the significance of the forthcoming talks with the U.S.A. on the whole complex of space and nuclear weapons, prevention of militarization of outer space."

Gorbachev's repeated mention of the space weapons issue indicated this is the Kremlin's main concern at talks between Secretary of State George P. Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko in Geneva Jan. 7-8.

Gorbachev, considered the No. 2 man in the Soviet leadership hierarchy, said more than four hours of talks with Mrs. Thatcher at her weekend residence Chequers were "business-like and constructive" and called for improved British-Soviet relations.

"In the prevailing international situation, the need to establish mutual understanding between our two countries is especially great," Gorbachev said.

Both Gorbachev and Mrs. Thatcher realized "that what the other wants is security at a much lower level of armaments," a British source said.

Briefing reporters on condition he not be further identified, the source added that the Soviets "quite clearly were concerned as we are to prevent an arms race in space."

Strict security was imposed for today's talks between Gorbachev and Howe at Hampton Court, the red-brick Tudor palace once occupied by King Henry VIII.

Gorbachev arrived in the black Rolls-Royce — adorned with the red Soviet hammer-and-sickle flag — that has conveyed him everywhere in Britain so far.

In Moscow, the Soviet Communist Party daily Pravda said today the talks revealed "an increase in realistic tendencies" in the British government headed by Mrs. Thatcher.

Armory renovaton bid now awarded

The bid amount for renovation to Snyder's Texas National Guard Armory has now been officially awarded.

This paves the way for the beginning of construction, now expected after the first of the year.

The contract was awarded to Pharr and Company of Lubbock. The bid amount totals $756,425.

Bids were accepted here Aug. 30. These were not officially awarded, however, until funding for the project was finalized.

The work slated for the Snyder armory — the first since it was erected in 1957 — is part of a statewide armory renovation which includes work on 21 buildings across the state.

Approximately $20 million federal and state dollars have been earmarked for the project which includes work at Abilene and Coleman in addition to the Snyder project.

Plans for the Snyder facility include a 3,200 sq. foot addition on the south side of the existing structure — to include a small caliber rifle range and storage space as well as a renovation of the existing classroom and office facilities and additional paving in the parking areas.

When complete, the Snyder armory, now headquarters of Co. E of the 111th Engineers of the Texas National Guard, will include a total of 19,200 sq. feet of enclosed floor space.

Bandstand design unveiled Monday

County commissioners Monday morning approved a design for the bandstand to be built on the courthouse grounds.

This design follows that of the original bandstand on the square and features an eight-sided, peaked roof structure.

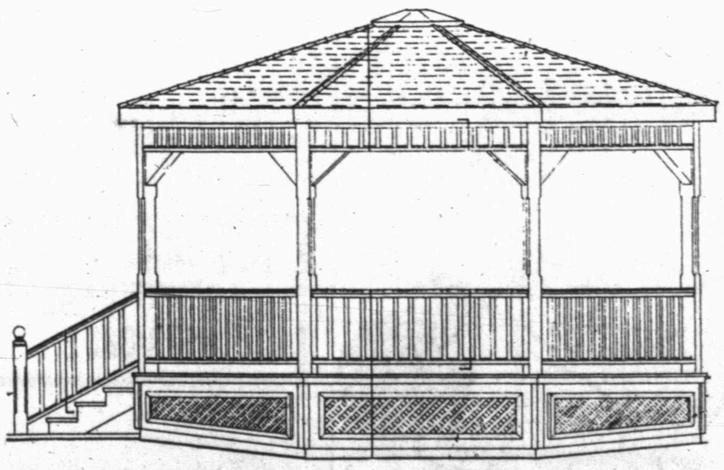

Offering the design plan Monday was Dr. Harry Krenek and Charles Anderson, members of the Scurry County Historical Commission. The commission has offered to build the bandstand after receiving permission from the court to locate it at the courthouse.

The work will be completed by building trades students at Western Texas College. WTC contruction technology instructor Billy Arp met with commissioners Monday also.

He said he expects the work to be done by May 10.

The structure will be some 19 ft. wide and will have a floor level some 2 ft. above the ground.

It will be painted white.

Rain here to 2 inches

Steady rains soaked Scurry County Saturday as from 1½ to 2 inches fell in the area. A winter storm watch predicting snow and/or freezing rain and hazaradous driving conditions for much of the state never materialized here, however, and by Sunday warmer temperatures were recorded.

Snyder received 1.54 inches in all, upping the year's total to 17.32 inches. The area west of Snyder received two inches.

Hermleigh reported 2.02 inches while Ira recorded nearly 1½ in-

Manhunt continues for bank robber, killer of 4

GERONIMO, Okla. (AP) — Lawmen said they hoped for a break in their search for the man who killed four people in a robbery at a Geronimo bank, and the small southwest Oklahoma town of 800 people prepared to begin burying the victims.

The FBI said two men arrested in Oklahoma and Texas matched the general description of the gunman and were being questioned about their whereabouts at the time of the robbery. But an agent said there was "nothing solid" to report yet.

The four were killed and three others wounded Friday when a lone gunman forced them and an infant into a back room of the First Bank of Chatanooga and began shooting. The 1-year-old girl escaped injury.

On Sunday, authorities took to the air in helicopters and an airplane as they searched for a car the gunman may have abandoned.

Tony Daniels, FBI special agent in charge of Oklahoma, said, "Hopefully we'll have a break." Daniels said the air searches would continue today if necessary.

Daniels said Sunday that two men matching the description of the gunman had been picked up for questioning, one in Oklahoma and one in Texas.

FBI spokesman Gene Pogue said law enforcement officers were trying to determine if the two men being held were near Geronimo when the murders occurred.

In Brief

No identity

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Medical investigators today hope to make positive identification of three people killed when a twin-engine airplane crashed west of Albuquerque during a severe snowstorm.

The three, two males and a female, died in the crash that occurred Friday, when a major winter storm swept across New Mexico.

A spokesman at the Office of the Medical Investigator in Albuquerque said Sunday the condition of the bodies had hampered efforts to identify the three victims. However, officials said papers found at the crash scene indicated the three people aboard the Comanche aircraft were from the Fort Worth area.

Murder down

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston's murder rate during the first 10 months of 1984 was down 20.0 percent from the same period for the previous year, according to Police Department figures.

Crimes dropped 2.1 percent overall during the 10-month period this year, from 128,149 in 1983 to 125,404 last year, Police Chief Lee Brown said.

The number of murders reported in the city during the first 10 months of this year totaled 386, compared to 488 reported during the same period last year, according to police figures.

One other violent crime — robbery — also dropped during the same period, showing an 11.9 percent decrease from the number of robberies reported betweeen January and October of 1983, police said.

Attack ship

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — A 20,000-ton Greek-owned ship was attacked by warplanes in the central part of the Persian Gulf today, south of the Iraq-Iran war zone, shipping sources reported.

The new attack came as another Greek ship, the 240,830-ton supertanker Ninemia, was being towed to Dubai for repairs after an Iraqi missile punched a hole into its crippled side on Sunday in the second Iraqi attack in two days on the tanker. Two crew were reported killed in the first Iraqi attack on the Ninemia on Saturday.

Valley still reeling from freeze of 1983

McALLEN, Texas (AP) — Pickings are slim now that the annual citrus harvest season has begun in the Rio Grande Valley, and some say the business will never fully recover from last year's devastating freeze.

"It's bad, bad news down in the Valley," said Paulette Schwartz, director of promotional marketing for the Texas Department of Agriculture. "There just essentially isn't any fruit."

The huge sheds and juicing facilities — normally open around the clock in a hectic effort to pack and process the citrus grown in Hidalgo, Willacy and Cameron counties — are working far below capacity, officials say.

Industry officials estimate the last Christmas' freeze killed 50 percent to 60 percent of the area's acreage and damaged virtually every tree. More than 65 percent of last year's crop, valued at $68 million, was destroyed.

This year's crop is so small it cannot even supply local supermarkets, industry officials say.

"It's the worst freeze we've had in the history of the citrus industry down here," said Ray Prewett, executive vice president of Texas Citrus Mutual, a growers' trade association.

And some growers say it may be four or five years before the business recovers.

"We don't think the industry will ever be as big as it was before the freeze. ... We seem to be going backward," said Bill Weeks, executive vice president of the Texas Citrus and Vegetable Association.

Starting from seed, citrus trees take about five years to begin producing commercial amounts of fruit. Young nursery stock for grove replanting also is scarce because it, too, was wiped out by the freeze.

Some growers have tossed in the towel rather than embark on a recovery process, the Dallas Times Herald said Sunday. Many dead or dying groves appear abandoned, with weeds thriving around gnarled, lifeless trees.

Some groves have been bulldozed and the wood burned, the land sold for development or left alone for possible replanting. "For sale" signs abound.

Some grove owners, in efforts to survive, have sold their land to commercial developers, notably for trailer parks that house hundreds of thousands of "winter Texans."

Each county should conduct its executions

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Capital murderers should be put to death in the county where they committed the crime and were convicted and jailed, the warden of the Texas prison system's Death Row says.

That way, executions would be more of a deterrent because they wouldn't be so far removed from individual communities, says M.D. Herklotz, the man responsible for overseeing the 179 inmates on Death Row and 2,240 other prisoners at the Texas Department of Corrections Ellis I unit.

"All Death Row inmates should be housed in the counties from which they are sent and executed in those counties, as well," Herklotz said in an interview with the Waco Tribune-Herald published Sunday. "They are county prisoners and the county ought to assume responsibility for them."

Herklotz said times have changed from when condemned prisoners were electrocuted. There were 90 prisoners on Death Row four years ago, he said, and the number increases each month to further add to the Texas prison population.

He advocates keeping the prisoner at the county level until his appeals run out and then having a local physician to administer the lethal injection.

Herklotz says he knows his concept might sound strange coming from a man with 13 years' experience on all levels of the Texas prison system.

Milk products provide calcium

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 67. Since I do not drink milk, I take additional calcium. I bought 100 percent natural oyster-shell calcium. Each tablet has 625 mg., but it contains no vitamin D, which I am now told must be included for the body to assimilate the calcium. I do take a preparation that contains 400 IU of vitamin D, but it contains no calcium.

Am I getting enough vitamin D to assimilate the oyster-shell calcium? Will taking the oyster shell have any adverse effect on my body?

DEAR READER — If you don't use dairy products, you probably do need to take calcium supplements. Authorities studying osteoporosis (dissolving bones) have stated recently that postmenopausal women who do not take estrogen should get 1,500 mg. of calcium a day. Your 625 mg. oyster-shell (calcium carbonate) preparation contains 250 mg. of calcium. The rest of its weight is from the carbon and oxygen atoms included in the chemical compound. To get 1,500 mg. of calcium a day, you would need to take six of these a day.

Vitamin D is important in improving the absorption of calcium from the small intestine. You are taking enough to do this. However, the fact that you are taking vitamin D does not mean that you don't need 1,500 mg. of calcium daily.

Estrogen increases the absorption of calcium, which is why a postmenopausal woman taking estrogen may be able to get along with 1,000 mg. of calcium a day. However, a healthy young woman or man is supposed to get 800 mg. of calcium a day in a balanced diet. A quart of milk fortified with 2 percent nonfat milk solids provides 1,400 mg. of calcium. You need all those pills because you are not eating a balanced diet if you are not using milk or an adequate amount of milk products.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My 21-year-old son was recently diagnosed as having acromegaly, a disorder of the pituitary gland. After reading that this disease could cause blindness, heart problems, high blood pressure and diabetes, in addition to enlarging his hands and facial features, I was dismayed that the doctor suggested that we do nothing at this time, but take a watch-and-wait attitude. The doctor wants to rerun the same tests again in four months and compare them with the recent tests. He said that an operation could have several undesirable side effects that would require my son to be on medication for the rest of his life. Will this disease burn itself out as the doctor said? If so, how long will it take?

DEAR READER — I cannot vouch for the correctness of the diagnosis. Advanced cases of acromegaly are easy to diagnose because of the enlargement of the nose, face, head, hands and feet. Acromegaly is caused by continued oversecretion of growth hormones after the long bones have matured and don't grow in length anymore.

The disease does not burn itself out or go away. It often progresses slowly and may not be diagnosed for years after it has begun. By that time, much of the changes have become irreversible.

Since your son is young, and considering the nature of the disease and its rarity, I must recommend that you seek a consultation at a large medical center, perhaps a university medical center near you. Ask to be seen by a specialist in endocrinology.

Dear Abby

Newlyweds' Family Ties Pull in Two Directions

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1984 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I recently married a woman who was married before. She has two children, 8 and 11. My new wife and her children have always spent Christmas with her former in-laws. It's become a family tradition—one the kids enjoy and look forward to. So naturally they plan to spend Christmas with Grandma and Grandpa.

Now the problem: I would like to spend Christmas at home with my new family and create our own holiday tradition. I was not invited to Grandma and Grandpa's, but even if I had been, I wouldn't feel comfortable there. They live in another city and expect their guests to stay with them.

I don't want to spend Christmas alone. My own family lives on the East Coast, and I don't want to fish for invitations from my friends.

My wife hates to break the tradition of Christmas with the grandparents because the kids enjoy it so much.

Any recommendations?

HOLIDAY BLUES IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR BLUES: I think it's imperative that you and your new wife be together on Christmas. If the kids would be heartbroken unless they went to Grandma and Grandpa's, why not send them there the day after Christmas for a short visit? If that's not feasible, perhaps the kids could spend some other holiday with their grandparents.

Ideally, the nuclear family should be together at Christmastime, providing it doesn't start a nuclear war.

DEAR ABBY: "Loves to Ski" froze his toes and now considers amputation as a way to keep his feet warm. I'm glad you said, "Don't do it."

I walked out of North Korea in 1950 on two frozen feet. I lost some toes, among them a large one at the first joint. Doctors smiled at my distress, saying, "Ladies love this operation—they can wear smaller shoes."

Well, the loss of one big toe throws me off balance, causing calluses on both feet. It's difficult finding shoes to fit because one foot is smaller than the other, and it's not true that amputating the offending digit will eliminate the pain.

My feet still freeze when it's cold, so I usually stay indoors. But if I'm determined to go out, I've learned to grin and bear it.

CAPTAIN, U.S. NAVY (RET)

DEAR CAPTAIN: Many readers wrote to say that toes once frozen will never again be free from pain when exposed to freezing weather. All emphasized that amputation brought no relief.

The big winner to ensure toasty warm toes was battery-operated heated socks, sold where hunters buy their hunting togs. For the rich, there's Abercrombie & Fitch; bargain hunters can hunt up an Army-Navy store.

DEAR ABBY: I once read a poem that went like this:

"When I met him, I liked him.
"When I liked him, I loved him.
"When I loved him, I let him.
"When I let him, I lost him."

Abby, when I didn't let him, I lost him.

I know I can't live my life like a poem, but lots of my girlfriends have "let" guys so they wouldn't lose them, but they ended up losing them anyway.

So, how am I supposed to know if I'm gonna lose him or not if I let him?

14 IN RALEIGH, N.C.

DEAR 14: When a girl of 14 "lets him," she usually loses him because most teen-aged boys become bored easily and prefer more of a challenge.

Since you stand to lose him either way, the loss is easier to accept if you lose him without having let him. At least you'll not have lost your self-respect in the bargain, too.

Your Birthday

Dec. 18, 1984

The year ahead should be a good one for acquiring material possessions, yet you must be careful not to buy things that could be difficult to get rid of if you later wish to sell them.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) The results aren't apt to be satisfactory today if you let your emotions and feelings dominate your intellect. Make logical evaluations. The Matchmaker wheel reveals your compatibility to all signs, as well as showing you what signs you are best suited to romantically. To get yours, mail $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Normally you're quite practical in financial matters, but today you could be influenced to waste your money foolishly by a friend with poor judgment.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It might be advisable not to set difficult objectives for yourself today because, unless things come easy, your best intentions might be aborted.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Pay heed to your instincts today, especially if they warn you against becoming romantically involved with someone you know you shouldn't.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Try not to let material considerations come between you and a close friend today. Your relationship is more important than money or worldly goods.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you met someone new today, be friendly and sociable but don't be overawed by outward appearances. Your first impressions may be erroneous.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Friends will be peeved today if you look upon them as labor-saving devices by trying to get them to do work you should be doing yourself.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Being protective of those you love is an admirable quality but today you must be able to distinguish between sheltering and smothering.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Guard against tendencies today to demand agreement from one who loves you when he thinks you are wrong. Don't be self-serving.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Do not attempt to use flattery on others today. People you deal with will know if your statements are sincere and they won't respect any form of deceit.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'd be wise today to stay away from stores that have merchandise you know you can't afford. Your sales resistance is fragile.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Even if you're merely running out on a brief errand today, be sure you look your best because you're likely to meet somebody you want to impress.

First industrial pension in 1875

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first industrial pension plan was established in 1875 by the American Express Co. and was financed solely by the employer, according to the American Council of Life Insurance.

It says the first formal pension plan supported jointly by both employer and employee contributions — the pattern of most pension plans today — was established in 1880 by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Co.

Self-inflicted end play

By James Jacoby

South was a little aggressive to jump right to five clubs, but he was playing percentages. First of all, he might make five clubs. Second, even if he couldn't make it, maybe the non-vulnerable opponents would be tempted to take a save. That last little bit of psychology did not work — the opponents quietly passed to the final contract, and now it was up to declarer to carry the ball. Sad to say, he fumbled on first down.

Declarer won dummy's heart king, drew three rounds of clubs, and led a spade. West won the ace and continued hearts. The ace of hearts won, and declarer pitched a heart on the king of spades and ruffed a heart to his hand. Now a low diamond was played, low from West, and dummy's jack won the trick. But dummy had nothing left except diamonds and had to play away from the king for down one.

Although the hand requires a lot of luck to come home (three cards have to be located favorably), South should have timed his play for success. After the opening lead, he should play only one or two high trumps before leading toward the spade king. Then, when the second heart is played, he can take his heart pitch on the high spade, come to his hand with a trump, draw any remaining trumps, and lead a diamond. If West ducks, declarer can win the jack in dummy. He will now be able to trump a heart back to his hand and to lead diamonds again, thus making the contract.

Science teachers get corporate jobs

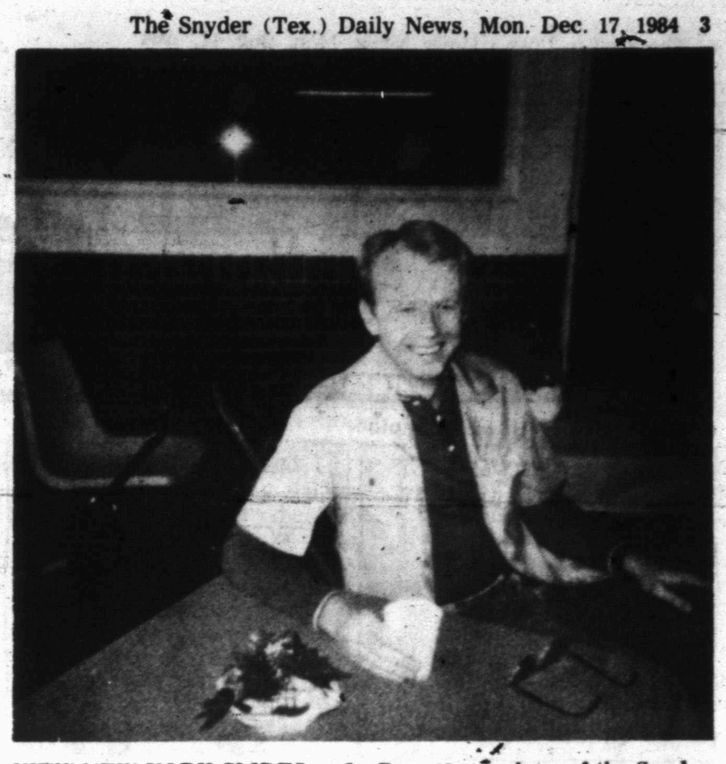

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP) About 25 percent of science teachers nationwide soon will abandon teaching for corporate jobs because of low salaries, according to Charles Kittrell.

Kittrell, an executive at Phillips Petroleum, says, "Why should science teachers accept a starting teaching position at $13.000 when they can make double or triple tha amount in industry? To me it's not shocking that they leave their chosen profession. It's shocking that they stay at all."

Check garden for nematodes

Fighting root knot nematodes in home gardens is a tough battle, and the first step is to get a good soil sample so that the tiny pests can be properly diagnosed.

The fall months are usually the best for taking soil samples for nematodes — microscopic worms that feed on plant roots. During this time nematodes are generally in the free-living stage (not living in the plant roots) and can be recovered easily by checking soil samples.

If your garden is infested with root-knot nematodes, you may want to fumigate all or part of your garden. Vapam is a broad-spectrum liquid fumigant that can be used to treat gardens. It will reduce the nematode population enough to allow you to grow one successful crop.

An area treated in your garden this fall should provide protection for nematode-sensitive crops such as okra or lima beans next spring.

To head off nematode problems in your garden next spring use the following suggestions.

—Add organic matter to your soil this winter. This can be leaves, mulch or straw. Even better are winter cover crops such as wheat or oats. Turning these crops under next spring may stimulate some of the natural enemies of nematodes and reduce the numbers present.

—Check the fertility and pH of your garden soil. A sufficient supply of nutrients available to plants can help them withstand more nematode damage before showing visible symptoms. If a nutrient is deficient, nematode-damaged roots will have an even harder time picking it up from the soil.

—Choose the correct varieties for next year's planting. Some vegetables have resistance against the root-knot nematode bred into them. Tomato varieties that will perform well against the disease are Better Boy, Big Set and Jack Pot.

Resistant varieties can also be found in seed catalogs. If you order seeds this winter for next year's garden, remember to select varieties that have root-knot resistance.

GINGERBREAD

1½ cups stirred all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 teaspoon ground ginger
½ cup butter, at room temperature
½ cup sugar
1 large egg
½ cup molasses
2-3rds cup boiling water
Whipped cream

Stir together flour, baking soda, salt, cinnamon and ginger. Cream butter and sugar; beat in egg, then molasses. Add flour mixture; beat gently just until blended — mixture will be stiff. Gradually and gently beat in boiling water until smooth after each addition — batter will be thin. Pour into a greased and floured 8-inch square baking pan. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — about 30 minutes. Let cool on a wire rack for 10 minutes; loosen edges and turn out on rack. Serve hot with whipped cream that has been slightly sweetened and flavored with vanilla.

Dallas playoff future on line as 'Pokes challenge Miami

MIAMI (AP) – A couple of weekend developments transformed what could have been a humdrum National Football league game between the Dallas Cowboys and the Miami Dolphins into a matchup full of drama.

First, the San Francisco 49ers tripped the Los Angeles Rams 19-16 on Friday night, giving the 9-6 Cowboys a chance to slip into the final NFC wild-card playoff berth.

Then, Denver ripped Seattle 31-14 Saturday, granting the Broncos a 13-3 record and forcing the 13-2 Dolphins to win their final game to earn the home-field advantage throughout the AFC playoffs.

Obviously, both teams have plenty of incentive in tonight's game at the Orange Bowl - the NFL regular season finale. A Dallas loss, however, will leave the Cowboys out of the playoffs for the first time since 1974 and only the second time in 18 years.

"It's been one of those years with a lot of ups and downs," said Cowboys running back Tony Dorsett. "We are still determined to make the playoffs. We are going to fight like the devil not to be on the first (Dallas) team in this decade not to make the playoffs."

Dorsett, who has gained 1,131 yards on 283 carries in what he considers a "down year" may hold the key to that quest. Opposing teams have been bludgeoning the Dolphins defense in the past few weeks, keeping the ball on the ground and thereby out of the hands of Marino and Co.

The Dolphins know what to expect.

"Tony Dorsett is one of the greatest running backs ever," said Miami nose tackle Bob Baumhower. "He cuts back well and all he needs is a little room and he's gone. We are lookg at this as a big test for us."

The Dolphins, after generally breezing through their first nine games, have been in battles each of the past six weeks. They trailed the Indianapolis Colts 17-7 at halftime last week before rebounding behind Marino's four second-half touchdown passes.

that improved the second-year pro's NFL record for TD passes to 44. Marino, who was voted to the AFC Pro Bowl team for the second time last week, also increased his passing yardage total to 4,744 to move within 59 of Dan Fouts' league mark of 4,802.

The Cowboys counter with Danny White, who will start at quarterback ahead of Gary Hogeboom. White has thrown for 1,334 yards and 10 touchdowns.

The injury-depleted Cowboys offense hasn't scored more than 28 points in regulation time in any game this year. The Dolphins average 32.3 per game.

But Coach Tom Landry's Dallas teams haven't won 249 regular-season encounters in 25 years by giving up before the game. This year's squad, despite the lackluster record, is one of the best when it comes to never quitting, Landry said.

"We could have been out of (the playoff race) very easily," the veteran Cowboys coach said. "Credit this team that they've been able to pull themselves up when they were down.

"I think we're fortunate that we still have a chance. As long as the chance is there, we're going to take a shot at it."

Miami Coach Don Shula said he is worried about the Cowboys' pass rush. Three sacks and constant pressure on Marino had a lot to do with the Dolphins' 45-34 loss to the LA Raiders two weeks ago. Though the Cowboys have sputtered on offense, Sula noted last week, "defensively, they're playing real good. they give you that big pass rush with that big front four. They can do a lot of things that can hurt you."

And Shula noted that the Cowboys showed some new wrinkles on defense in last week's 30-28 loss to the Redskins.

"They were using five defensive backs on first down and sometimes coming with more," he said. "We have to prepare for their regular defense plus be prepared for the five, six, seven defensive backs."

2-4A All-District...

Mustangs dominate all-loop

Proving that statistics aren't everything, coaches opted for team success in chosing the 2-4A All-District Team, released Sunday.

District champion Sweetwater put 11 players on the 1984 First-Team, including running back-safety Mike Welch as a two-way choice. Runnerup Monahans had six First-Team choices with lineman Ruben Medina also taking top honors on both offense and defense.

The only other two-way First Team choice was Wellman Bauer, tight end-linebacker for Pecos.

Snyder had no First-Team players. Picked to the Second-Team from the Ragin' Tigers were wide receiver Willie Greathouse, tight end Kyle Freeman, and running back Justin Webb. The Tigers also had several honorable mention choices.

Coaches bypassed statistics, all but ignoring the district's top passer, receiver and rusher in determining the all-loop team. Top rusher for 1984 was Lamesa's Kenneth Williams, who had 1,071 yards on 255 carries. Williams, a junior, was selected to the Second-Team. Another first-rate but Second-Team performer was Lake View receiver Dwayne Smith, who had 25 catches for 342 yards.

Also overlooked was Snyder quarterback Jimmy Cain, who led the district with 932 yards passing and seven touchdowns. Cain did make honorable mention.

Other honorable mention choices for Snyder were, on offense, guard Joe Rodriquez and center Mike McCravey, and on defense, lineman Juan Benitez, ends Robert Patterson and Steve Parker, linebacker Jimmy Hunter and from the secondary, Jay Mayo and James Powell.

Sweetwater virtually swept the offensive skill positions. Chosen as First-Team members were quarterback Neal Hoover, backs Welch and Thomas Goodman, tight end Lee Foust and wide receiver Anthony Norman. Also picked from the Mustangs' camp were center Burt Burnet and tackle John Layfield.

Hoover was the loop's total offensive leader with 555 yards rushing, 752 passing and 15 touchdowns. Goodman ran for 781 yards and 12 TDs while Welch picked up 716 yards and eight scores. Welch also had eight catches for 148 yards. Norman snared 18 passes for 461 yards and five touchdowns.

Other running backs chosen were Andrews' Jeff Tidwell, 1,004 yards and 10 touchdowns, and Monahans' Jeff Hines, 1,000 yards and 14 touchdowns.

The other wide receiver spot was taken by Pecos' Leon Mosby, whose 482 yards led all receivers. Bauer caught 14 passes for 260 yards as one of three tight ends chosen to the First Team. Others were Sweetwater's Foust and Trey Ford of Monahans who had 234 yards on 13 grabs.

Linemen chosen First-Team were tackles Layfield and Jay Brownlee of Andrews and guards Medina and Randy Culp of Lamesa.

Fort Stockton's Guy Gladson was the all-loop placekicker.

Defensive linemen were Medina and Lin Sanford of Monahans, Kyle Hooper and Israel Vera of Sweetwater, Jerry Rogers of Andrews, Jason Helms of Lake View and Omar Garcia of Pecos.

Linebackers were Pecos' Bauer, Bruce Carrington of Sweetwater, Anthony Scurlark and Wayne Willmon of Monahans, Kraig Caskey of Fort Stockton and Rickey Guzman of Lamesa.

In the secondary were Welch and Patrick Goodman of Sweetwater, Elias Payan of Pecos and Danny Neighbors of Andrews.

Neighbors was also the district's leading punter with a 41.2 average.

For Snyder, junior back Webb ran for 724 yards despite missing the final two games of the season. Greathouse, a senior, pulled down 18 catches for 373 yards and five touchdowns. Freeman, a senior, had 14 catches for 227 yards.

Tigers lose in AFB finals; head for Midland tonight

LUBBOCK – Lubbock Dunbar crossed Snyder up with a zone defense and it led to a 54-35 victory for the Panthers in the championship game of the Reese Air Force Base Classic here Saturday.

"It was a combination of things," said Snyder Coach Larry Scott as to the reason for the loss. "Dunbar had a lot to do with it. They had two big, 6-5 posts and I think they intimidated us. Dunbar ran a 1-2-2 zone (defense) and we let them spread it out real far. We didn't rebound well. We were usually only getting one shot on offense."

Jim Ruth had 10 points, Joey Torres 9 and Sam Collins 8 for the Panthers as Dunbar outscored the Tigers 18-6 in the second quarter and 13-9 in the third.

Snyder was led by Willie Greathouse's 12 points. Mike McWilliams scored 8.

"I think we were tired. This was our eighth game in 11 days," said Scott, who takes his Tigers to Midland tonight to play again. "And, this was the first time for all but about three of our kids to spend the night away on an athletic trip. That makes a difference.

"We're not playing consistant right now. We've got to be able to work against a zone better," he added.

Despite taking second place in the event, Snyder did not have anyone named all-tournament. That did not bother Scott, however.

"I know it upset some of our fans, but it is kind of a tribute to the balance of the team. We've been having pretty good balance. If we just played five kids all the time we'd probably have somebody that got that kind of recognition. But we've got depth and it's to our advantage as a team to use it," said the coach.

Snyder takes on Midland High, and former Tiger Coach Jack Stephenson, tonight at Midland High Gym. The action opens with a sophomore game at 4:30, followed by the junior varsity teams at 6:15 and the varsities at 8.

"They had some trouble with consistancy in our (Canyon Reef) tournament. They lost in their first game to Permian, but then came back real strong," said Scott of the Bulldogs. "They press the whole game and they run. They've got Darrell Davis. He's about 6-4, 220-pounds and he was all tournament at our tournament. They've got good outside shooters, too."

Scott said that playing so many games recently would not be an excuse if Snyder doesn't play well tonight.

"Midland played in our tournament and they went to San Antonio for a tournament this (past) weekend, so if anything, they ought to be more tired than we are. We're going to have to play well. They've probably got more basketball talent - not athletic talent, but basketball talent. We'll need to play real well."

Borden girls win tourney

GAIL – Borden County's girls had suffered only one loss heading into their tournament here last weekend and that was to Highland.

The Coyotes made up for the loss by tagging Highland 45-38 Saturday to take the championship honors.

The difference was at the freethrow line.

"We shot terrible when we lost to them (35-30) in the semifinals of their tournament," said Coach Bill May. "In our tournament against them we hit 19 of 21 freethrows."

Campbell will return for '85

HOUSTON (AP) - Houston Oiler General Manager Ladd Herzeg is unhappy with the way the National Football League team's coaches developed an offense enroute to a 3-13 season but says first-year Coach Hugh Campbell will return.

"The one thing I'm disappointed in with Coach Campbell is that, when I interviewed him for the job, he assured me he would play aggressively, offensively and defensively," Herzeg said Sunday after the Oilers lost to Cleveland 27-20. "I thought we had an aggressive defense, although we lacked talent. But I don't think we were aggressive on offense at all."

SWC basketball...

SMU undefeated; Hogs edge Tulsa

by The Associated Press

The seventh-ranked Southern Methodist Mustangs have scholastic exams this week, but then their basketball program gets its biggest test of the year in Hawaii.

The Mustangs are 6-0 and fresh off their third consecutive Dallas Morning News Basketball Classic title.

They are expected to whip tiny Campbell College of North Carolina and downtrodden North Texas State on Monday and Wednesday nights, respectively, as a diversion from their math and English exams.

Then the Mustangs travel to Hawaii for the Chaminade Classic in Honolulu.

Recall: the Chaminade is where mighty Virginia was upset several years ago when Ralph Sampson was in his glory.

The Mustangs open with Oklahoma and mighty Waymon Tisdale on Saturday, Dec. 22. Chaminade, the host, and Louisville are also in the tournament.

SMU discovered it's a pretty good team even when 7-foot Jon Koncak isn't in the game.

The No. 7 ranked Mustangs overwhelmed Oklahoma State 82-65 on Saturday night behind Carl Wright's 25 points. Koncak missed almost 15 minutes of play.

SMU Coach Dave Bliss inserted 6-9 sophomore Terry Williams into the game when Koncak got into foul trouble and Williams dominated the boards. He blocked two shots, collected eight rebounds and scored three points during Koncak's absence.

"Terry has worked hard and is really coming around," said Bliss. "He has great basketball instincts and is somebody we can count on. Now the team knows we can still play even if Jon gets into foul trouble."

SMU is the only unbeaten SWC team.

In other games involving SWC teams on Saturday, Arkansas outlasted Tulsa 70-66, Texas Christian bounced Oklahoma City 71-60, Nebraska defeated Texas Tech 79-74 in overtime, Kansas routed Houston 87-75, Baylor crushed McMurry 104-72 and the Texas Aggies won the Triple A Invitational in Des Moines, Iowa, with a 66-49 victory over Drake behind Todd Holloway's 20 points.

Other weekend tournament games include Houston in the Kettle Cassic, Texas A&M in the AT UOP Classic in Stockton, Calif., and TCU in the Gator Bowl Invitational in Jacksonville, Fla.

Texas hosts Missouri Western on Monday night.

Unbeaten Nebraska had a scare at Lubbock before falling to the Red Raiders.

"It was a good win for us, especially after we got beat by them last year at home," said Nebraska Coach Mo Iba. "In overtime our players played. Tech is very good and I'm proud we could win in Lubbock."

Air Force bombs V-Tech

The bowl season has begun and Air Force and Nevada-Las Vegas were the first teams to brighten their holidays.

Air Force defeated Virginia Tech, which did have Outland Trophy winner Bruce Smith on the field, 23-7 Saturday to win their second straight Independence Bowl. Nevada-Las Vegas beat Toledo 30-13 in the California Bowl.

In two other postseason college football games Saturday, Montana State completed the greatest turnaround in NCAA history as it defeated Louisiana Tech 19-6 for the Division I-AA crown and Central Arkansas and Carson-Newman finished in a 19-19 tie to share the NAIA Division I title.

Montana State's victory over Louisiana Tech gave the Bobcats a title and a 12-2 record. Not bad for a team that was 1-10 last season.

Montana State sacked Tech quarterback Kyle Gandy 11 times for 95 yards in losses, had four interceptions and recovered three fumbles.

One quarterback who did have a good game was Air Force's Bart Weiss, who completed six of seven passes for 49 yards and was named the Independence Bowl's outstanding offensive player. He carried 29 times for 93 yards against a defense ranked No. 2 in the nation against the run and No. 3 in total defense.

Investigators look for clues to fire that killed seven kids

BEASLEY, Texas (AP) — Fire officials say they may never find the cause of a fire that swept through a mobile home, killing seven children who had gathered for a family party.

"The trailer is so burned away we may never know what caused it. That's the sad thing," said Rosenberg Fire Chief Gerald Matheaus. "We're working with practically nothing but ashes."

Matheaus said investigators were concentrating their search for clues on a 20-foot wide area in part of the kitchen and the spare bedroom.

The mobile home, in a park three miles east of Beasley about 40 miles southwest of Houston, was already engulfed in flames when firefighters arrived about 4:15 a.m. Saturday.

"Seven young lives were lost," said park owner J.E. Brdecka. "They weren't given a fair shot at life."

The victims were identified as Jessica Ramirez, 3; Rachael Ramirez, 7; Elizabeth Ramirez, 8; John Montoya, 4, Esmerelda Montoya, 6; Mandy Montoya, 7; and Daniel Montoya Jr., 8.

Daniel Montoya, the natural father of four of the children and stepfather of the others, suffered cuts and second-degree burns on his hands while trying to rescue them, authorities said.

The 27-year-old carpet layer was in good condition Sunday at John Sealy Hospital in Galveston.

The mobile home had no smoke detectors, and "we don't know for sure that they would have got out safely had there been," Matheaus said. "But they sure would have had one heck of a good chance of getting out."

Montoya's four children, who did not live in the mobile home, had gathered there with the other children for a family party, Matheaus said.

Fort Bend County Fire Marshal Tom Talasek said firefighters found the children's bodies in one bedroom at the back of the three-bedroom trailer. The parents were in a bedroom at the other end of the trailer and got out before flames engulfed the structure, he said.

Montoya smashed through the children's window to try to reach the children but was stopped by the flames.

Because the family had no telephone, his wife, Delia Ramirez, 28, ran down the street to another home in the sparsely populated trailer park to call for help, Talasek said.

When firefighters arrived there was little they could do except prevent the blaze from spreading to nearby structures, he said.

"We got there and it was virtually on the ground already," he said. "This is consistent with a mobile home fire — they have a tendency to burn very rapidly."

Montoya, Ms. Ramirez and her three children moved into the rundown mobile home in October, Brdecka said. He said Montoya took the home "as is" and agreed to pay $250 monthly rent for 60 months, he said.

The trailer had been damaged during Hurricane Alicia in 1983 and suffered some damage from previous renters, he said.

Talasek said the trailer was built before 1976 federal standards requiring smoke detectors went into effect.

Goal's end looms closer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration, which pledged to stem soaring steel imports by this week, is closing in on its goal but may need more time to control the trade problem plaguing a depressed sector of the U.S. economy.

U.S. Trade Representative Bill Brock's office expects to announce this week that it has reached voluntary restraint agreements with five steel-exporting countries accounting for more than one-third of the foreign steel sold here.

But a sixth major producer, South Korea, has proven recalcitrant in several rounds of talks, and there are other countries that negotiators have not yet approached for discussions on voluntary limits, U.S. officials said.

In announcing President Reagan's program of voluntary restraints on Sept. 18, Brock said the problem of steel imports — now capturing about 26 percent of the U.S. market — would be "behind us in 90 days."

If successful, the program will bring imports down to about 20 percent of the U.S. market, including semi-finished steel.

With the self-imposed deadline set to expire on Tuesday, Brock's office was unable to say how close the five expected agreements would come to that goal.

The first rounds of talks have been aimed at major steel exporters who are considered by domestic producers to be trading unfairly through subsidies, dumping or diverting their products to the United States.

Since negotiations started, Japanese producers have agreed in principle to cut their steel shipments from 6.6 percent to 5.8 percent of American consumption.

In addition, agreements are near with Spain, Brazil, South Africa and Australia. During the first eight months of 1984, steel exports from those four countries accounted for 4.2 percent of the U.S. market.

Poor treatment by mother prompted hate of women

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (AP) — Serial killer Henry Lee Lucas says his mother was a prostitute who treated him so badly that he was tormented for life by "hate that was in there that I couldn't get out."

Lucas killed his mother in 1960 and says his hate for prostitutes prompted him to kill some 360 people.

"I grew up in it. I just hate it," Lucas said in a copyright interview published Sunday in The Huntington Herald-Dispatch.

The 48-year-old Blacksburg, Va., native said he chose to kill mostly women hitchhikers because he considered them prostitutes.

"Most of the females I've met on the road, they go to bed with truckers or they go to bed with whoever they can get a ride with," Lucas said.

He said his rage stems from childhood experiences involving his mother.

"I grew up in a log cabin in Virginia and I stayed in that for 14 years. I had to watch her have sex with men and I've had to cook for myself ever since I was about 5 years old. She didn't allow me to sit at the table with her. I just had this hate that was in there that I couldn't get out."

Lucas was in Huntington last week to talk to authorities about the Aug. 3, 1976, shooting death of city police officer Clemmie Curtis on a remote road off Interstate 64. Investigators have twice ruled the death a suicide, but Lucas has described a killing at about the same time and place as the Curtis death.

Cabell County authorities say they will ask a grand jury next month to consider charging Lucas in the Curtis death. The Herald-Dispatch said it had agreed to a request by Texas Rangers not to question Lucas about the case.

Lucas told the newspaper that most of his murders were designed to cover up another crime.

"The only thing that would cause me to hurt anybody is them come up on me on a crime," he said. "I didn't just go out of my way to hurt somebody.

"It was just an instant thing like where I'd run up on somebody; they'd end up dead so I had to more or less kill the next person to cover the next person, and it went on down the line that way."

He said he managed to avoid capture until 1983 by "traveling."

"Not leaving anybody behind to identify me. Never leaving any kind of evidence to prove that I did do a crime."

He said the killings got easier and easier.

"It's just like going out and doing a job at work and going on home — wasn't no different. That's what I trained myself to do and I just lived it."

Asked why he decided to help authorities investigate the murders, Lucas said it helps to clear his conscience and fulfill a promise to God.

"He leads me back to each one of the crimes. The families. That's the main reason I want to clear it up. Because it's a promise that I've made to God that I would do it. The families need to know what happened to the victims."

He also had a message for Curtis's family and widow, Paula.

"I'm sorry for them. I know what they've had to go through. They've had a rough life. She's had to bring those two children up by herself."

Lucas said he was in the Huntington area sporadically between 1975 and 1980 and also lived in Hinton. He said he worked briefly for a lumber company in north Huntington and that his father, a double amputee, once worked in Huntington selling pencils from a scooter.

Teacher hit while filling gas tank

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A 31-year-old schoolteacher filling her disabled car with gasoline was hit by another car and critically injured, officials say.

Suzette Williams had to have her legs amputated after they were crushed in the accident early Sunday, authorities at Wilford Hall Air Force Medical Center said.

She was listed in serious condition early today.

Sheriff's deputies arrested a 47-year-old San Antonio man and charged him with driving while intoxicated in connection with the accident.

The man, Virgilio Alfaro, was released on personal recognizance bond.

People are rioting for compensation

SAN JUAN IXHUATEPEC, Mexico (AP) — Government agents broke up a rally where residents were demanding compensation for victims of the fiery blast that killed 452 people in this township on the outskirts of Mexico City.

Several hundred residents of San Juan Ixhuatepec gathered Sunday to hear a leftist politican urge them to organize to demand compensation for damages caused by the catastrophe Nov. 19 at a liquid petroleum gas storage facility run by Pemex, the government monopoly.

Witnesses said several local members of the ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party, accompanied by plainclothes policemen, shouted down the leftist deputy, Victor Gonzalez of the Unified Socialist Party, and broke his microphone.

Shoving matches broke out between government agents and protesters, but no serious injuries were reported.

The demonstrators were demanding reconstruction of 88 houses destroyed by the blast, the repair of hundreds of damaged houses, an $18,000 payment to families for each person killed, and compensation for other damages.The government has provided 200 free houses and promised other compensation.
