So far as can be determined, the 201 points scored by Snyder High School students in the District 3-AAA University Interscholastic League literary contests last weekend is a record for the district.

The Snyder over-all vistory in the district meet at Sweetwater undoubtedly represented the biggest margin that any winner ever has accumulated.

Lest we have a tendency to boast, success in these events does not necessarily indicate superiority of one school over another. Indeed, only a few years ago, Snyder was mostly running with the pack in the literary events.

However, the purpose of the UIL events is to provide an opportunity for pupils to compete, just as they will have to compete later on when their formal education is completed and they are out in the world on their own.

Also, the competition stimulates pride of the type which is as American as apple pie, or pizza.

So, success in the UIL literary competition is a source of satisfaction and it can be a source of unification. Snyder High has been rather strong in the speech events for several years, and now, without showing any weakness in that area, it has turned out district titlists in various other fields of endeavor.

These are days that participating students and their contemporaries can recall pleasantly in later years.

There was a time when more attention was given the athletic events that to the literary contests, but the better schools now try for a balanced program. In fact there often is an overlapping of participants.

The program now offered by the UIL is much more sophisticated than it used to be, but it probably does not bring any more excitement to the participants than it did in earlier days. Was there anything more exciting on the old school calendar than the county meet?

NIXON CREATES NEW COUNCIL BY EXECUTIVE ORDER

Disaster Relief Change Asked

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon urged Congress today to authorize federal loans to communities suffering major disaster so they can make up losses of property tax revenues.

In a special message, Nixon said the general framework of current federal disaster relief programs is effective but declared that "a number of improvements are in order."

One of his principal recommendations was for low-interest loans to offset destruction of a substantial part of a community's property tax base.

Nixon also called for improvements in the disaster loan programs of the Small Business Administration and the Farmers Home Administration.

"The recommended changes," he said, "would provide for improved refinancing, payment deferral, and forgiveness arrangements and would assure disaster loans to older citizens."

The chief executive also asked the Congress to expand federal authority to permit permanent repair or full replacement of central public facilities damaged by disasters.

And he asked for a two-year extension of a program making unemployment compensation available to individuals made jobless because of a major disaster.

Other provisions in the legislation Nixon seeks would speed federally aided removal of debris from private property when it is in the public interest, simplification of laws allowing the government to provide temporary housing or other emergency shelter, and new emphasis on disaster prevention.

Nixon, by executive order, created a National Council on Federal Disaster Assistance made up of senior officials of agencies involved in such efforts.

Also, he said, "We are developing plans to provide 'one stop' service to individuals in disaster areas so representatives of federal agencies and the Red Cross would be available at a single assistance center.

Colombia Put Under Martial Law

By JAVIER BAENA
Associated Press Writer

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP — Colombia was put under martial law Tuesday night after two days of demonstrations by crowds charging that the government is stealing the presidential election from ex-dictator Gustavo Rojas Pinilla.

The civil registrar's office reported that after tabulation of 98 per cent of the votes, Rojas was trailing by nearly 50,000 votes, with 1,571,249 counted for the candidate of the ruling National Front, Misael Pastrana Borrero, and 1,521,267 for the former military strongman.

Police and riot troops in Bobota used tear gas and cavalry charges for the second night in a row to clear the streets of thousands of Rojas supporters. Ten persons were reported injured, most of them policemen hit by rocks.

President Carlo Lleras Restrepo imposed martial law, a state of siege and a curfew from 9 p.m. to 5 a.m., declaring that Rojas' followers were plotting "a subversive movement that is the gravest in the history of our nation."

Rojas' daughter and campaign manager, Sen. Maria Eugenia Rojas de Morena, called for an armed uprising to defend her father's "victory" and said: "We have constituted a revolutionary command to take power. The country is on the verge of civil war. Zero hour has come to begin the fight."

Lleras said he had the complete backing of the armed forces and the police. He said the state of siege will be in effect indefinitely.

He denied Rojas' charges that the election was rigged but said he was appointing a commission to check the election returns.

At 9 p.m., a trumpeter sounded curfew for the first time since Rojas was overthrown 13 years ago. The streets were soon empty of civilians and only the outlines of armed vehicles and soldiers could be discerned in the darkness.

Astronauts Tell Of Space Trouble

By PAUL RECER
AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — "A rather large bang" and rapidly falling oxygen pressure and electrical power told the Apollo 13 astronauts they were in serious trouble 202,000 miles from home, the spacemen say.

"My concern was increasing all the time," commander James A. Lovell Jr. said Tuesday. "It went from 'I wonder what this is going to do to the moon landing' to 'I wonder if we can get back home again.'"

Lovell, Fred W. Haise Jr. and John L. Swigert Jr. told of their brush with death in space during a nationally televised and broadcast news conference.

The astronauts said they didn't know what caused the No. 2 oxygen tank in their service module to explode, but that they thought the cause would be discovered and rectified for future flights.

A board investigating the accident met for the first time Tuesday night, hours after the board chairman, Dr. Edgar Cortright, had announced the names of the other members of the board.

The board includes Neil A. Armstrong, first man to walk the moon, seven officials of the space agency, the Air Force and Atomic Energy Commission, legal counsel, a technical support man, three observers and liaison men for Congress and the press.

"It is my hope we can reach an adequate, effective determination of what happened within three or four weeks," said Cortright, "but we will have to take as much time as required to do it properly."

The explosion crippled the Apollo 13 spacecraft, forced cancellation of its moon landing and imperiled the lives of the astronauts for four days while they fought to bring their craft back to earth safely.

When the trouble started, Swigert said during the news conference, "I felt a vibration accompanying the bang. Not a

Cost Of Living Rises Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of living climbed another one-half of one per cent in March, disappointing Nixon administration officials who had hoped for a slowing in the fastest rise of consumer prices in 20 years.

The Labor Department reported the gain today.

However, it said that its monthly index, when adjusted for seasonal changes, rose four-tenths of one per cent.

This was a bit better than the five-tenths of one per cent seasonally adjusted increase in February and the six-tenths of one per cent rise shown in each of the three preceding months.

The index climbed to 133.2 per cent of the 1957-59 average. That meant that it cost the average city dweller $13.32 to purchase the same assortment of goods and services he could have bought for $10.00 a little more than 10 years ago.

A painful rise in mortgage interest rates, 4.5 per cent for the month and almost 24 per cent higher than a year ago, accounted for more than one fourth of the rise in the entire living cost index.

Doctors raised their prices higher, and hospitals continued to increase their rates, so that the price of medical care services climbed 6.8 per cent in the month, the biggest increase since September 1966.

US Navy Heads For Trinidad

By WILLIAM F. NICHOLSON
Associated Press Writer

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (AP) — The helicopter carrier Guadalcanal, flagship of the U.S. Navy's Caribbean force, left Puerto Rico today and headed in the direction of Trinidad, torn by Black Power disorders for the second straight day.

A landing ship dock—or LSD — accompanied the Guadalcanal, heightening speculation that they were making the run of nearly 600 miles to the Trinidadian capital of Port Of Spain.

Shooting erupted here again as authorities sought information as to the whereabouts of rebellious elements of the island nation's 800-man army, called the Regiment.

The Guadalcanal normally carries 15 helicopters and 2,000 Marines in addition to her crew.

A source close to the Navy in San Juan said that if U.S. warships do come to Trinidad their prime mission would be to protect American lives and property.

The U.S. Emassy here has been trying to contact Americans in this country to warn them to stay indoors, avoid public places and observe the emergency regulations, a spokesman said.

There are about 3,000 Americans in this island nation, about 100 of them tourists.

Three deaths were reported in the Tuesday night violence that grew out of the arrests of 13 Black Power movement leaders.

Texas Colleges Note Earth Day

There was a rumbling sound being heard today from the college and high school campuses across the state.

It was not a rumbling from the earth, but rather about the earth.

This is Earth Day. A time to save the planet from man. A time for Americans to stop polluting America and clean up the mess they've made.

It's a national movement, and has White House endorsement.

The Earth Day idea spread to most of the colleges in the state, and many had projects planned today, this or all week.

There were lectures by professors, students, conservationists and political leaders, plus walk-ins, bike-ins and environmental teach-ins:

At Texas A&M, Dr. Donald Dunlop, assistant and science adviser to Interior Secretary Walter Hickel was on a program conducted by the Symposium for Environmental awareness.

At the University of Texas in Austin, the program called for workshops, and Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes will speak on the legal aspects of pollution control tonight.

Those taking part in San Antonio at Our Lady of the Lake College will be eating rice, since it is the chief food of about one-third of the world. That's part of the "world's average lunch."

At West Texas State University in Canyon, students filmed pollution scenes throughout the Panhandle as one of their many projects planned.

Sen. Ralph Yarborough spoke in Houston Tuesday night in a symposium sponsored by Rice University, the University of Houston and Baylor School of Medicine. He said that for too long we have lived as Mother Nature's sons. It is time to become her protector and not a benefactor, he said.

Fighting the pollution problem in the Greater Houston area is an organization called "Earthworks." This is a coalition of students and faculty members from seven colleges in the southeast corner of the state which is heavily industrialized and heavily polluted.

They will not stop with Earth Day, but continue the organization in attempts to focus the seriousness of the problem on people.

Students At SHS Mark Earth Day

Earth Day — a special observance by youth groups over the country today to call attention to pollution of the earth's atmosphere and environment — was observed locally with a program in the Snyder High School auditorium.

A group of students including Brad Maule, Stevie Boydstun, Barry Park and Gene Kelly produced the program. Maule sang songs calling attention to the problems of pollution while Boydstun read an editorial by Art Buchwald, New York columnist, and monitored slides of polluted areas in Snyder and elsewhere. Kelly operated the slides and Park portrayed a woman with 15 children in a short skit designed to call attention to over-population.

Maule also discussed Earth Day, pointing out student groups from across the country had planned to observe the special day with different projects. The Snyder student also discussed the problems of pollution and urged local students to do what they can to improve their environment.

Specifically, the students stated that industrial wastes are polluting the country's streams, rivers and lakes while fumes from cars and trucks are poisoning the air. Atomic tests also pollute the atmosphere, it was stated, and garbage spread over the countryside poisons the land as well as the water.

"It is time we stopped taking things from the earth without putting something back in," the students declared.

They pointed out the very real danger of pollution resulting in dying earth. They specifically called attention to a possible rise in average temperatures that could result from an increase of carbon dioxide in the air. This increase in temperature could eventually melt the polar ice caps and cause flooding over the earth. On the other hand, an increase in cloud covers caused by air pollution could lower the temperatures and bring on another ice age, it was stated.

Cambodia Renews Arms Aid Plea

By KENNETH J. FREED
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cambodia's reported urgent renewal of its plea for U.S. arms aid in its struggle against the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese has put President Nixon in a delicate diplomatic and political bind.

The President is considering the appeal, disclosed Tuesday night by administration sources. A similar request for weapons and other material was made last week by the new Cambodian regime.

Nixon has taken a position against widening U.S. involvement in Southeast Asia and is under congressional pressure to adhere to this policy, even though the Phnom Penh government of Premier Lon Nol did not ask for troops.

And the administration wants to avoid any charges that Cambodia has given up its neutralist role by linking up militarily with the United States.

Yet there is little doubt Cambodia is having a difficult time handling attacks by the Viet Cong-North Vietnamese elements and Nixon does not want a Communist takeover of the tiny nation that neighbors Vietnam.

One possible out being studied by the administration is the possibility of an international arrangement to provide aid to Cambodia with an eye toward supporting the Phnom Penh government's neutrality.

Lon Nol opened up this possibility last week when he issued a call for aid from other nations, saying he would accept "all unconditional foreign aid from all sources."

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield has led the opposition to any extension of American military aid, no matter what the form, to Cambodia.

After the Phnom Penh regime's initial request for help, Mansfield said the only way for the United States to avoid further destructive conflict in Southeast Asia is to go no further "in any way, shape or form."

Other opposition to answering the Lon Nol appeal has come from Sens. Frank Church, an Idaho Democrat, and John Sherman Cooper, Republican from Kentucky.

They say they will seek congressional approval of a proposal to ban the use of American combat troops in Cambodia, a prohibition similar to one passed last year regarding Laos and Thailand.

Another troublesome factor in the U.S.-Cambodian aid equation has been the reports by American journalists of the massacre of Vietnamese civilians living in Cambodia.

Businessmen Seek Action On Truckers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Business and civic leaders have appealed to President Nixon for emergency action to get trucks rolling before job layoffs triggered by Teamster strikes mushroom to severe new levels, possibly by the end of the week.

Layoffs grew in number Tuesday and businessmen calculated losses in millions, but dissatisfied drivers remained on strike in Chicago, Cleveland, St. Louis and Los Angeles.

Appeals to Nixon came from Mayor Carl B. Stokes of Cleveland and the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce.

Stokes said in a telegram to Nixon that wildcat strikes were "having a very serious impact" on his city and had "defied our best efforts at a settlement."

Stokes asked Nixon to direct the secretary of labor and attorney general to "take immediate action to return the truck drivers to work."

William Crowley, president of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, said in a telegram that it is "imperative that steps be taken to invoke Taft-Hartley emergency provisions in the trucking industry work stoppage."

Under the Taft-Hartley Act, the President can declare a national emergency and order an 80-day cooling off period during which employes keep working and negotiators push for a settlement.

Union spokesmen in Chicago reacted to the request by saying the truckers strikes do not constitute a national emergency. They said long-haul trucks, still on the move over most of the country, are being routed around strike-bound cities.

However, reports from around the nation showed that few cities have escaped layoffs and that many nonstriking drivers were among the job casualties. The International Brotherhood of Teamsters, representing 450,000 drivers, already has tentatively accepted an offer of $1.10 an hour in wage increases over three years, but to become official the settlement must be passed upon by the membership. Teamsters officials in Washington have not mailed referendum ballots and decline to say when they will.

Meanwhile, in the big transport hub of Chicago, where drivers negotiate separately from their national union, there was no sign of a settlement or a break in a week-old strike and lockout.

Some 50,000 Teamsters and members of the independent Chicago Truck Drivers Union are seeking a $1.65 an hour wage increase over three years plus fringe benefits valued at $10 a week. Five cartage associations have offered hourly raises of 70 cents over 39 months and $3 a week in benefits.

The Chicago situation has spurred fears that a $1.65 settlement would torpedo the national agreement. A national contract had to be renegotiated in 1967 when Chicago drivers won higher terms.

Laird Reports On Nuclear Missiles

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird says Red China could develop intercontinental missiles as early as 1973 but is not likely to be a serious nuclear threat until the 1980s.

However, he said in congressional testimony released today, if Peking gets ICBMs in three years, it could threaten the United States with nuclear blackmail because the American Safeguard missile defense system would not be ready.

The three Safeguard antimissile sites proposed now by the Nixon administration would defend only part of the United States against a Chinese attack, Laird told the House defense appropriations subcommittee Feb. 27.

He said all 12 planned Safeguard sites would be needed for full protection against a Chinese attack although a lesser number would give the entire continental United States a "very light area protection."

"But if the Chinese threat came into being as early as 1973," he said in reply to a question, "there would be a gap of several years during which the Chinese could threaten nuclear blackmail against us."

He said the first site in the Safeguard system, which also is designed to protect U.S. retaliatory missiles but not U.S. cities against a massive Soviet attack, is now expected to be in operation in 1974.

In other highlights of the testimony by Laird and the nation's top defense officials at the secret hearings:

—Laird said the Soviets' present missile buildup could put them in a position to gamble on a surprise nuclear attack after 1975. The United States, therefore, must make hard decisions by 1972 at the latest on how far to expand its defenses.

—Laird said President Nixon's plan now is to leave a force of fewer than 60,000 U.S. military advisers in Vietnam but, as in the past, gave no indication on how soon that could be.

—Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, outgoing chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said he has no fear of a South Vietnam surrender when U.S. troops leave "barring one thing, and that would be the disintegration of the South Vietnamese government." He and Laird expressed confidence there will be no such disintegration.

Laird and Deputy Secretary of Defense David Packard reported a $1.6 billion increase in total Safeguard costs—to $10.7 billion from last year's estimate of $9.1 billion—if the decision is made to go ahead with completion of all 12 sites by the late 1970s.

large vibration, a shudder."

Two seconds later, he said, "I had a master alarm. I transmitted to Houston that we had a problem."

Haise said that after the bang he noticed a fuel cell "was not outputting any amps."

"So," said Haise, "my first sinking spell was due to considering the fact that this could mean we really lost that fuel cell. It also meant by mission rules that we wouldn't be burning LOI (lunar orbit insertion) and with that one problem we had already lost the lunar landing."

"Survival now became a matter of initiative and ingenuity," said Lovell.

"The only way to survive the situation," he added, "was to transfer to the LM (lunar module). It was our only chance to get home."

"There were moments when I didn't know whether we had enough consumables (oxygen, water and electricity) to get home," said Lovell. "In a situation like that there's only one thing to do. You just keep going."

Haise and Lovell said they worked together to fire the rocket of the lunar module. The rocket firing sent them looping around the moon and streaking toward earth.

Apollo 13 passed within 137 miles of the moon, said Swigert, and he found it "almost awesome in its desolation."

Asked whether they felt an awareness of "the Infinite Power watching over you," Swigert replied: "If you're asking whether I prayed, I certainly did. And I have no doubt that perhaps my prayers and the prayers of the rest of the people did an awful lot for us getting back."

As the astronauts approached earth, they jettisoned the service module, the supply section of the spacecraft where the explosion occurred.

Lovell said the astronauts saw and photographed the damage.

"It was to me sort of an amazing sight," he said. "I didn't realize that this whole panel ... was thrown clean off. I couldn't see exactly what was damaged. I could see material hanging out from the interior."

Lovell was quoted during the spaceflight as saying it would be a long time before another moon flight.

"I don't believe that any more," he said. "I believe we can analyze our problems. I wouldn't be scared to fly again."

The others on the crew agreed.

McKeithen Sees Hope For Third Party

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Louisiana Gov. John J. McKeithen, a Democrat, believes there is a much better chance for a third party movement now then when George C. Wallace entered the 1968 presidential election.

McKeithen, here for a speaking engagement Tuesday, denied that he ever suggested himself as a presidential candidate, however.

"Assuming neither of the parties came around for equality for all states there are a number of people who would like to talk about it—a third party," McKeithen said.

"One of the people we would like to talk to is your own governor. Gov. Ronald Reagan has a lot of friends in our state and a lot of admirers."

URW Talks Continue

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — With the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. struck by the United Rubber Workers Union, the remaining three major rubber companies were to continue contract talks today to determine the fate of the 50,000 URW members still on the job.

Goodyear was struck Tuesday by the union, on expiration of its contract at midnight Monday, idling some 23,000 hourly workers at 15 plants in 12 states.

A company spokesman said union members picketing at a plant in Stow and at four gates of its Akron plant complex kept anyone from entering, and at other gates pickets demanded identification from those entering. Some pushing and shoving was reported at several gates, but no major incidents were reported.

There was no indication what action the URW might take against remaining Big Four rubber makers. Neither side has disclosed issues in the contract talks.

Talks were set today in Cleveland with the URW and the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. Uniroyal negotiations in New York were continuing on a day-to-day basis.

Fine Arts Program For Altrurians

Mrs. C. T. McLaughlin was hostess for the Altrurian Club's Fine Arts Program at Martha Ann Woman's Club.

Mrs. Virginia Whitson presented fifth and sixth grade students of Stanfield Elementary School in songs and stories, a program called "Sing A Song of America."

The story of American music is the story of the nation's history. There was primitive music in this country before white settlers reached its shores. Music played an important part in the daily lives of various American Indian tribes, and songs filled the air the day that Christopher Columbus sighted the New World. He recorded in his journal that the crews of his ship sang, "We Praise Thee, O God."

The Pilgrims emphasized religious music. As the songs of these periods were sung, Mrs. Whitson narrated the stories and introduced students in appropriate costumes.

The patriotic songs, inspired by the Revolution — then later wars, were given with enthusiasm.

The students continued with cowboy ballads, Negro Spirituals, touching many places of American life, right up to the present. The well-trained pupils were applauded by the club.

Mrs. Whitson was presented a token of thanks by Mrs. George, president of the club.

The next meeting will be held on May 1, at which time the auction of crafts will continue.

A pruning shear with a "ratchet-cut" action was shown at the National Hardware Show demonstration of 1970 lawn and garden tools.

"Prune-A-Matic" has a high-carbon steel blade coated with Teflon to prevent gumming and blade sticking. It has molded fiberglass reinforced nylon handles providing strength with little weight.

Other tools with working parts coated with Teflon-S include a grass shear with a "floating blade," and black sponge rubber grips for comfort; a lightweight shear; double-edged general purpose light duty saw; and full-sized all-purpose shear.

The coating provides easier action, reduces friction and keeps blades sharper longer and protects against rust.

MOON FLOWERS

If ever a flower received indirectly publicity it is the moon flower, which should rise in 1970 gardens.

Moonflowers are close relatives of morning glories and bloom at night, when the moon also shines. They are white and fragrant.

PRESTO TURNIPS

A tiny new turnip that may be pickled quickly has arrived from Japan. It is named Presto, because it matures so rapidly.

In a month after seeding, it is ready for pickling. In Japan the turnip is sown from February until March. Gardeners in the U.S. mid-south can follow the same schedule, but Presto will not do well in very hot or very cold climates.

Y?!P

When the turnips have reached pickling size, pull them, wash them and cut off squarely the roots and stems. Then make criss-cross cuts over one of the cut surfaces. This permits quicker penetration of vinegar used in pickling.

Soak the cut turnips for 30 minutes to an hour in a brine (1 tablespoon of salt to 2 2-3 cups of water). Remove and soak overnight or longer in a solution of 5 tablespoons of vinegar and 2 ½ tablespoons of sugar. Adjust salt and sugar to taste.

Serve Presto pickles as a side dish or hors d'oevres, mixed with bits of red, hot peppers or pimento.

QUIETING VEGETATION

One chore of a new experimenter at the Connecticut Agricultural Experimental Station will be to try to learn how vegetation muffles noises and thus creates a quieter Connecticut.

Donald E. Aylor also will study the operation of the microscopic leaf pores or stomata that annually release to the air about a half million gallons of water to the acre.

Officers Elected By VFW Auxiliary

The Ladies Auxiliary of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 8231 elected officers at its regular meeting Monday night.

Sue Lee was elected president, Francine Spivey was elected senior vice president, Earline Brooks was elected junior vice president, Shirley Minyard was elected treasurer, Iris Bowlin was elected chaplain, Floy Matthews was elected conductress and Sue Carpenter was elected guard.

Elected three-year trustee was Dolores Ginbey. The meeting was attended by District President Daphene Moore of Roby. Forty-two members were present.

"People Movers" Are Being Considered By Big Cities

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — As their streets and economic life become locked in traffic jams that sometimes grow tight as jigsaw puzzles, city administrators are now giving more serious consideration to revolutionary "people movers."

The term is perhaps not the best, but it does effectively encompass the wide range of conveyor belts, moving sidewalks, monorails, automatic railroads, subways and other means of moving masses of people short distances.

General Electric, Goodyear, Westinghouse and perhaps 100 smaller companies are involved. San Jose, Calif., is about to install a six-mile belt system. New York is considering a cross-Manhattan conveyor.

The primary problem of congestion remains associated with downtown areas of major cities, where dozens of roads disgorge thousands of automobiles that squeeze into a mass of noisy, polluted frustration.

At airports, where congestion already is bad, the situation could become almost impossible.

A hypothetical situation: A Boeing 747 terminates a flight and prepares for a return trip. About 400 passengers and crew get off and each is met by two persons. The total for one flight is now 1,200.

Double the figure because of those preparing to board the return flight. The total in one small area of the airport is now 2,400. But nearby, another 2,400 people are jammed at the gates because another 747 has landed.

The problem obviously cannot be solved by dispersing the people by automobile, because that would merely add to the congestion. The people movers say one of their systems is needed.

Goodyear, for example, is offering what it calls the Carveyor system, which consists of a series of small bubble top vehicles, capable of seating about a dozen people as they move along on an endless rubber belt.

At the loading point the cars slow to a speed of 1½ miles an hour, allowing a person walking at the same pace to step aboard easily. As the car moves onto a straightaway it speeds up to 15 miles an hour.

Westinghouse has a contract to build what it calls a Skybus system to the Tampa Airport. And a system called a Dash-A-Veryor, or automatic electric railway, is being considered for other airports.

Manufacturers of the new systems maintain there is an added advantage. Present mass transit systems, they say, are often unsuitable for large numbers of people, primarily the handicapped.

Russians Wait To Tour Apartment

By HOLGER JENSEN
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — Vladimir I. Lenin never liked to keep visitors waiting more than five minutes. Now the average Russian waits two years to view Lenin's apartment in the Kremlin.

The matronly tour guide divulges such statistics with great satisfaction. But the man who once passed a decree on "the eradication of red tape" might be quite perturbed if he knew of the extent of his deification.

The small group of rooms deep in the Kremlin is one of Soviet communism's sacred shrines. Here on the third floor of the Presidium building, the father of the Russian Revolution controlled affairs of state from March 1918 to May 1923.

The mysterious antiseptic corridors were opened to the public at the start of the 1960s. They also lead to the offices of the current Communist Party chief, Leonid I. Brezhnev. But the most a carefully screened tourist can hope for is a quick glimpse of some workers or a couple of uniformed generals.

Visitors to Lenin's apartment pass three checkpoints—a small guarded door in the Kremlin Wall near Spassky Gate, a sentry box guarding an inner wooden fence, and a couple of militiamen at the entrance to the Presidium building itself.

A rotund female ausumes command once the visitors are inside. Three eagle-eyed young men in civilian clothes unobtrusively join the group as she talks about Lenin's inestimable good works, his love for the peasants, his humility, his simple tastes and his staggering intellect.

Here is Lenin's kitchen—"he liked only simple food and never feasted." Here is Lenin's bedroom, where the great bald forehead rested between long hours of revolutionary planning. Then follows the room of Krupskaya, "his best friend, party comrade, propagandist" and incidentally, his wife. And the room of his sister Maria Ulyanova, "workers' correspondent, executive secretary of Pravda."

The furnishings are utilitarian. The guide explains: "Lenin said soft furniture doesn't suit work and there is no time to relax."

There are a small dining room and a library of 8,500 books. "Lenin knew 19 languages" and, if the guide can be believed, was a prolific speed-reader. The study is crammed with bric-a-brac, "gifts from his loving people," 2,000 more books and several telephones.

A visitor tries to take a picture after his party has left the room. One of the plainclothesmen steps forward: "Please rejoin your group. No pictures unless people are in the room," he is unyielding.

The visit is over. A small Japanese man timidly raises his hand.

"Please, where is the bathroom?"

The guide's face turns to ice. "That is not on the tour," she snaps.

Jury To Decide On Insurance Claim

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A jury must decide whether the Witte Museum can collect on a $200,000 insurance policy it held on the stolen McFarlin diamond, a federal judge ruled Tuesday.

A provision added to the original policy is involved in the dispute between the San Antonio Museum Association and the Maritime Insurance Co. Ltd. of Liverpool, England.

The provision required a guard to be on duty in the diamond room when it was open to the public.

The stunning diamond, worth an estimated $365,000, was stolen in 1968 while a guard was away for a soft drink.

Cecil Yancey Evans, then 48, a former Texas A&I football player, pleaded guilty to the theft. The gem was never recovered.

U. S. Dist. Judge Adrian Spears denied a motion for a summary judgment Tuesday and said trial would be set for some time in July. He gave attorneys until June 15 to file their preliminary briefs.

Escaped Prisoner Stops Wrong Car

ROME, Ga. (AP) — A 20-year-old prisoner at the Floyd County Public Works Camp fled from a work detail and attempted to hitch a ride to make good his escape. The car that stopped for the prisoner, Stanley Forrester, was driven by C. M. Caldwell, warden of the camp.

Boyle Yearns To Be Hermit

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Oh, when daffodils wave their golden banners and tulips lift their colorful cups to catch the sunshine and the rain, I get the feeling I'd like to be a hermit.

What a nice occupation that would be—at least during spring and summer. A hermit can get away from it all by being with it.

My idea is to be a sociable hermit not an unsociable one, to welcome all mankind but still keep it at arm's length.

I don't want to be a cave-dwelling hermit, because caves have an average year-round temperature of about 50 degrees, a mite chilly for antique bones. I want to be a hut-dwelling hermit and inhabit a comfortable stone hut in the shelter of vast trees by the side of a river on whose surface nothing would be allowed larger than a canoe.

The hut would contain a large meditation chamber, an open window, a perch for a singing bird, a mat by the fireplace for a hound dog to lie on, five bathrooms and three vice presidents.

Naturally a hermit has to lead an orderly life or else he'd go to pot like ordinary people do.

The way I've tentatively planned my schedule is this: Monday, Wednesday and Friday, available for public view and private consultation; Tuesday and Thursday, exercise days to be spent throwing rocks at my vice presidents; Saturday and Sunday, dedicated to deep thinking and watching fingernails grow.

Since it costs money to be a hermit, as it does to be anything else, I've decided to share my wisdom—at a price. Small questions asked by private individuals will be answered three for a quarter. Larger questions will be responded to at a flat rate of four bits each, paid in advance.

Large corporations, such as the Ford Foundation, will be charged a consultation fee of a million dollars a year, plus a $500,000 further fee for any idea suggested to it, whether accepted or rejected. I would limit myself, in any case, to no more than seven ideas a year.

At first I thought I would exclude the public from my weekend brooding sessions, but on second thought I decided that would be unfair to the tourists. So I'll let them in but erect a cautionary sign: "You're welcome to drop dollar bills in the wishing well, but, please, no coins. Their sound distracts the hermit."

When winter threatens I'll also put out a sign saying "Hermit in hibernation—do not disturb." Then I'll put my three vice presidents on public welfare, sneak out alone on some dark night and follow the sound of honking geese flying south.

I'm sure that in Miami Beach nobody would bother a hermit incognito tanning himself on the beach and letting the sands of time slip through his happy fingers.

Duck Attacks Lady Swimmer

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — A huge duck attacked Mrs. John Grogan as she was swimming during the weekend.

"It swooped down and tried to use my head for a nest," said Mrs. Grogan. "It was a big bird, not your everyday duck."

The Fort Lauderdale apartment dweller was rescued by a neighbor, Mrs. Paul Byrley.

"She grabbed it by the neck," said Mrs. Grogan.

Mrs. Byrley suffered several scratches from the invading bird and was given a tetanus shot.

Apartment house workers got rid of the duck. "I'd rather not say how," said one.

Junior Editors Quiz on MONEY

QUESTION: Why use money instead of trading things?

ANSWER: If we had no money, we would have to swap the things we produce for the things we need. Our picture gives some idea of the impossible jam people would be in if they tried to do this. Look at the difficulty Helen has just trying to pick up half-a-dozen oranges for her mother! If a great complex country like ours, with millions of people, attempted to establish such a system, industry and business would stop. People would be running in all directions trying to swap things with no time left in which to produce them. But see how different the situation is in the lower picture. Helen's family farm sells its milk for money. Helen can take some of this money to the store and exchange it for anything her family needs, knowing that the storekeeper will accept it. The storekeeper accepts it because he knows he can exchange it again, this time for things which he needs. So, money is agreed upon by everybody as a medium of exchange, something necessary to keep our complicated society running smoothly.

Rough Reds Rip Atlanta

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Red Menace has gone with the wind, leaving Atlanta in a shambles and Phil Niekro in a state of shock.

Cincinnati's rampaging Reds tagged Niekro for four of their seven home runs Tuesday night and thumped the bedazzled Braves 13-8 to go 4½ games ahead of the pack in the National League West.

"If Cincinnati is this good," mused Braves Manager Luman Harris, "they can just go on to the World Series."

Only three weeks having gone by in the regular season, the Reds will go on instead to St. Louis—after today's open date—with a 13-4 season mark and 30 home runs, the last 10 of them in two victories at Atlanta.

The Braves, meanwhile, will spend an off-day pondering the wreckage of a 2-6 homestand that has dropped them into the West Division cellar.

In Tuesday's other NL action, Pittsburgh outlasted Houston 9-8; the Chicago Cubs downed St. Louis 7-4 and San Diego tripped the New York Mets 5-3. Rain washed out the Los Angeles-Montreal and San Francisco-Philadelphia games.

In the American League, Minnesota nipped the Chicago White Sox 4-3; Detroit topped Cleveland 5-3; Washington defeated the New York Yankees 7-5; Oakland nudged Kansas City 4-3 and California beat Milwaukee 3-1. Boston and Baltimore were idle.

Tony Perez, the majors' hottest hitter, crashed his eighth homer and three singles to pace the Reds' 17-hit assault against Niekro, 0-4, and four Atlanta relievers. Rookie Bernie Carbo slammed two homers and Johnny Bench, Bob Tolan, Pete Rose and rookie Dave Concepcion hit one apiece.

Atlanta homers by Rico Carty, Orlando Cepeda and Felix Millan brought the two clubs within one of the single game National League record.

"I'm hanging too many," said Niekro, the knuckleball artist who won 23 for the Braves last season but carries a 7.77 earned run average after four starts this spring and has been the victim of 11 homers in 24 1-3 innings. "They're waiting, and it's jumping out."

Perez' 4-for-5 night boosted his batting average to .484, tops in both leagues. The Cincinnati third baseman also is setting the pace in home runs, RBIs (22) and hits (30).

Roberto Clemente's first homer of the year capped a five-run flurry in the sixth inning, sending the Pirates ahead 9-4, and they hung on to shade Houston. Jim Wynn delivered five runs for the Astros with a bases-loaded double and his fourth homer.

Billy Williams' three-run homer and Johnny Callison's two-run blast, both off Bob Gibson in the seventh inning, carried the Cubs past the Cardinals to thier sixth straight victory. The homers were the first of the season off St. Louis pitching.

San Diego, beaten 11 straight times by the Mets, scored twice in the ninth to snap a 3-3 deadlock, Clarence Gaston knocking in the go-ahead run when center fielder Tommie Agee misjudged his liner and it fell for a double.

Tennis Boys Sharpen Game

Snyder High School's candidates for regional tennis honors got in some good practice yesterday at San Angelo.

Ronnie Maddux and Max Falls, the Tiger doubles team, bested Skipper Hunt and Craig Pfluger 7-9, 6-3, 6-1. Their opponents are champions in district 3-AAAA.

John Phillips, singles qualifier, lost 4-6, 4-6 to the San Angelo Coach, Richard Barker. Barker is the former Southwest Conference singles champion.

Phillips will play a boy from Hereford at 9 a.m. in the first round. If he wins, he'll play Danny Smith of Andrews at 1 p.m. in the finals.

Maddux and Falls tangle with Dan Medford and Billy McBeth of Andrews at 10:30 a.m. If they win, they meet a duo from Perryton at 2:30 p.m. The regional net tourney will be held Saturday at Odessa College.

Meanwhile, Coach Ken McAllister was pleased with his girls. They won district with a 40-9 record when Estacado dropped a couple of matches to Sweetwater last Saturday. The Matadors were runnersup with a 38-11 mark. Standings of other teams: Dunbar, Sweetwater, Brownfield, Slaton, Levelland and Littlefield.

BRITISH VICTORY — Ron Hill, 31, chemist from Cheshire, England, leaps across finish line to win Boston A. A. Marathon Monday in record time of 2:10.30 for 26-mile 385-yard grind in rain. Hill was first Britisher to win the 74-year history of Marathon which is held on Patriot's Day to mark rout of Redcoats in battle at Concord in 1775, day after Paul Revere's famous ride. Wrestling Card On Tap Friday

Wrestling returns to Snyder at the Scurry County Coliseum at 8 p.m. Friday, April 24. There will be four great matches on tab.

The main event will be a tagteam. Bull Ramos and The Beast Vs. Terry Funk and Gorgeous George, Jr. Bull Ramos and The Beast recently won the Western States Tag team. They are the roughest and meanest team to wrestle in the state of Texas, according to promoters of the card. Bull Ramos, an Apache Indian, also is the heavyweight champion of Old Mexico. He weighs in at 300 pounds. The Beast, his partner, weighs 255 pounds, and he also is the Western States' heavyweight champion. They will have a hard time Friday night in the Scurry County Coliseum when they meet Terry Funk and Gorgeous George, Jr., the most popular team ever put together.

The semifinal will be The Lawman going against Chuck Karbo. Chuck Karbo is a newcomer and he is a big, "mean," rugged type wrestler. This will be another exciting match when he meets the big, tall, popular Lawman.

The special event will be Apache Greengo Vs. Salvador Dominguez. Salvador Doninguez is one of the best and speediest wrestlers ever to come out of Old Mexico. He will have his work cut out for him when he meets Apache Greengo, the right hand man of Bull Ramos.

In addition, there will be one other match on the card.

For reservations, call the Scurry County Coliseum. Tickets are $2 for ringside, $1.50 for general admission, and children of ages 4-11 will be admitted for $1.

Tigers Trip Cubs 5-4, Take Over 3-AAA Baseball Lead

BROWNFIELD — Like weather in West Texas, that district baseball clash here yesterday afternoon between Snyder's Tigers and Brownfield's Cubs changed in a hurry.

Snyder's Merce Hernandez and Brownfield's Richard Lepard were locked in a tight pitcher's duel, and neither team had been able to score in the first four innings. Merce was working on a two-hitter, and Richard had given up only a double to Wesley Bishop. Then the tornado hit.

The Tigers tallied four runs in the top of the 5th and added another one in the 6th to take what appeared to be a safe lead. However, six singles in a late 7th inning uprising by the Cubs produced four runs and kept Tiger fans sitting on pins and needles until the last out of the 5-4 victory.

Merce was equal to the occasion when the chips were down and fanned the last man to get out of the jam and preserve the victory. Hernandez struck out eight and gave up a total of nine hits —all singles — while walking only two. Leopard, the loser, hung around until the end, and, except for that monentary weakness in the 5th frame, turned in a creditable performance. He whiffed nine, yielded six hits, and issued four Annie Oakleys.

The Tigers have had a lot of punch at the plate lately, and yesterday was no different. Bishop singled and Larry Wall got on on a fielder's choice and Jim Patrick walked to load the sacks in the 5th.

Hernandez aided his own cause with a resounding double that brought in both Bishop and Wall, but Patrick held at third. After an out, David Thompson smashed a line single to centerfield, scoring Pattrick and Hernendez.

The last Tiger run resulted from back-to-back safeties by Wall and Patrick. Larry singled to right with two away in the 6th, then scored on a long triple to right by Patrick.

Singles by Roberson, Joplin, Richardson, Hicks, Lepard and Gravis accounted for the Cub tallies in the 7th.

Good clutch hitting and pitching by the Bengals have propelled them into the 3-AAA lead with a 4-0 record. The loss yesterday was the first one in league play sustained by the defending champion Cubs.

Saturday, the Tigers will be at Lubbock for a 1 p.m. engagement agianst Estacado, probably in MacKenzie Park.

Voluntary Sterilization Is Aiding Population Problem

By NAOMI ROCK
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — In a large metropolitan hospital, a 33-year-old woman who has just given birth to her eighth child is sterilized while still on the delivery table.

Across town in another hospital, an abortion-sterilization committee has voted to deny the sterilization request of a 30-year-old mother of two.

Nearby, in a doctor's office, a 25-year-old man, married and the father of two, undergoes a simple, 15-minute operation that he has been told will leave him permanently sterile.

In recent years incidents such as these have become increasingly common across the country, as an estimated two million Americans have chosen the safest, surest and, in the long run, the cheapest form of contraception.

This year more than 100,000 other Americans—better than 60 per cent of them men—will opt for voluntary sterilization. Some of these will find it very difficult to obtain the operation.

This is the nationwide sterilization picture outlined by the Association for Voluntary Sterilization. The AVS, a 33-year-old nonprofit organization headquartered in New York, is devoted to promoting both sterilization as a solution for family and population problems and medical research in the field.

A decade ago the subject of sterilization, like that of abortion, was seldom considered fit for mixed company. But while each year hundreds of thousands of Americans secretly resorted to illegal abortions, only a handful of others sought out sterilization, which was legal in most states.

Times have changed, however, so much so that in 1969 the AVS reports getting 3,707 requests for referrals to doctors who will perform the operation —quadruple the number of requests in 1966.

"There's a new awareness and new urgency today," AVS executive director John Rague says of sterilization's growing popularity. "The decline of American puritanism, coupled with the growing problems of birth control, abortion and the population explosion, have made increasing numbers of people at least consider sterilization."

Five years ago, Rague continued, most sterilization requests came from women, although the female operation was and is more delicate and more costly than for the male.

More women than men sought the operation, Rague maintains, for a number of reasons: women who bear both the children and the brunt of the burden of raising them, openly discussed sterilization among themselves; men largely ignored the subject because, historically contraception has been a woman's problem, and because "men have long equated sterilization with castration and dimunition of sexual prowess."

In recent years, Rague continued, more and more men began considering sterilization, as the myths perpetuated by rumor were dispelled by an airing of the facts.

In both the male and the female sterilization does not involve the removal of any gland or organ. It merely seals off the passageways which normally bring the sperm and ovum together.

Sterilization in a man, called a vasectomy, usually involves a 15-to-20 minute operation under local anesthetic in a doctor's office. The patient can usually go home immediately and to work the following day.

For a female, the operation is done in a hospital where the woman must remain for two or three days. Called a salpingectomy, the operation involves the cutting and tying off of the Fallopian tubes.

A vasectomy generally costs between $50 and $150, while a salpingectomy varies between $150 and $300.

Studies done by urologists, the doctors who usually perform sterilizations, have shown that neither in the man nor in the woman does the operation interfere with normal sexual responses. The only difference is that in a woman the egg is prevented from reaching the uterus, and in a man the sperm is prevented from reaching the semen.

Individuals seeking sterilization are warned that the procedure is considered irreversible —even though studies have proven up to 90 per cent reversibility for men and 65 per cent for women.

Although voluntary sterilization is legal for any reason in 49 states (Utah limits it to "medical necessity") and a recent Gallup Poll showed that 64 per cent of the country favors it for socio-economic reasons, it is often difficult to obtain, particularly for women.

Rague says that doctors are to blame.

"So many doctors are ignorant of the facts," Rague maintains. "Some fears that the operation is illegal. Others fear they will be sued for malpractice, although sterilization poses no greater danger in this area than any other medical procedure."

Nevertheless, Rague continued, men can obtain the operation with relative ease. There's always some doctor who will do it, and the AVS itself makes referrals to 1,600 physicians around the country. Women, on the other hand, are often subject to the whims of hospital committees, many of which still follow the recently-changed standard of the American College of Obstetrics and Gynecology.

The old standard, which Rague says must have been conceived by Houdini, called for an age-parity formula: no woman could be sterilized unless her age times her number of children equaled 120. Thus, a 37-year-old mother of three would be denied the operation because three times 37 equals 111, while if the woman were 40, she would be granted the operation.

Because the AVS believes that any man or woman over the age of legal consent should be able to elect sterilization, the Association last year gave the Margaret Sanger Research Bureau in New York City $30,000 to set up the country's first Vasectomy Service. Since early March, when a nationwide magazine publicized the existence of the service the clinic has been swamped with phone and letter requests for the operation.

Who are the most likely candidates for sterilization? AVS records for 1969 show that of 509 AVS-arranged operations, 78 per cent were male; 10 per cent were 25 or younger, nearly 19 per cent were between 26 and 29, 22.4 per cent were between 30 and 34, 22 per cent were between 35 and 39, and the rest were 40 and over.

The vast majority of the 509 had at least completed high school, and nearly half had incomes over $10,000.

Man Bitten By Crocodile

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) — An unexpected participant in a mass baptism in a river 250 miles north of here was a 12-foot crocodile. It bit one of the candidates in the leg.

Daviuon Kapyasa was being immersed to join the Watchtower sect Monday when the reptile got him. Two hundred other candidates ran to help and wrested him from the jaws of the crocodile.

Kapyasa was not given medical treatment as the sect does not believe in doctors. The local Watchtower leader said the croc would not be killed—"it is a creature of God."

Nonpublic School Study Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Moving cautiously in a controversial area, President Nixon has ordered a federal study into the plight of the nation's financially strapped private and parochial schools.

"Should any single school system—public or private—ever acquire a complete monopoly over the education of our children, the result would neither be good for that school system nor good for the country," Nixon said in a statement Tuesday.

He picked the members of the study panel from his Commission on School Finance and directed them to study the crisis of private and church-related schools and make "positive recommendations to me for action ..."

The panel is to complete its final report by March 5, 1972.

Calling private and church-related elementary and secondary schools an integral part of the nation's educational establishment, Nixon said they educate 11 per cent of all pupils—nearly 6 million school children.

Because of financial hard times and declining enrollments, they are closing at the rate of one per day, Nixon said, adding:

"If most or all private schools were to close or turn public, the added burden on public funds by the end of the 1970s would exceed $4 billion per year in operations and with an estimated $5 billion more needed for facilities."

Nixon did not suggest federal aid to private schools, nor did he mention the controversy raging in many state legislatures over the issue of state support for these institutions.

But he did caution the study panel to keep one main considerations in mind.

"Our purpose here is not to aid religion in particular, but to promote diversity in education within the Constitution," he said.

Nixon said the private and church-related schools "often add a dimension of spiritual value to education affirming in children a moral code by which to live. No government can be indifferent to the potential collapse of such schools."

Court Upholds FPC Order

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A federal appeals court Tuesday upheld orders of the Federal Power Commission requiring a number of natural gas producers to refund money collected in excess of price ceilings set by the FPC.

Petitioning for review of the FPC order were Hunt Oil, Marathon Oil, Amerada Petroleum, Shell Oil, Texaco and Sun Oil companies.

Sales involved are from wells located in the Permian Basin, in parts of New Mexico and the Texas Panhandle.

The producers' basic arguments was that the Permian rates could not be applied without an independent hearing.

The rates were approved by the U. S. Supreme Court after eight years of litigation. That case—the Permian Basin case—was the first proceeding in which the FPC set industry-wide rates on an area basis. The commission set maximum prices for the area.

Producers contested the rates and the FPC's power to set them.

The producers in the current case argue that they are not subject to the commission's price ceilings because prices for gas sales were set by producers while the Permian case was still pending.

Thus, they argued, they were not technically consolidated in that case.

After the original proceedings ended and the price ceilings were set, the FPC required all producers not involved in the proceedings to show cause why the area rate should not be applied to determine their refund liability.

The FPC decided from the nature of the response that they sought merely to relitigate the area rates and presented no grounds for exemption from those rates. The Commission ordered refunds without affording the producers an evidentiary hearing. It is from this order that the producers issued their current appeal.

The 5th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals said Tuesday relitigation of rates "would place unjustifiably heavy burdens on the commission" because of the irrelevant circumstance that these particular sales were not joined in the rule — making proceedings.

Juvenile May Be Tried As Adult

HOUSTON (AP) — Tyrone Malone, 16, charged in the robbery-slaying of Armand Yramategui, Burke-Baker Planetatium curator, will be tried as an adult.

Juvenile Judge Robert L. Lowery ruled Monday that Malone may be tried as an adult and not a juvenile. Before Malone can be tried in district court a grand jury must indict him on a murder charge.

Yramategui, 46, was shot on a Houston freeway Jan. 27, after he stopped to change a tire.

City Manager Is No Town Square

Career Corner

by Joyce Lain

what job would you like to see explored in this column?

Dear Joyce: There seems to be a real need for city managers, both in small towns and large cities. What kind of training is needed for this position and what colleges offer this as a major subject?" — J.P., KANE, PA.

A city manager sometimes shares the advertising executive's problem who said, "If a new catastrophe occurs, it will just have to wait its turn. I can't possibly think about a new crisis for three weeks!"

This is a demanding profession which can be 24-hours-a-day, seven-days-a-week because of such factors as night meetings, preparation of reports, emergency calls and attempting to work with conflicting community factions. One thing is for sure, the city manager is no town square – he must be adept at human relations as well as sophisticated in the technical aspects of administration.

TRAINING. A bachelor's degree is basic, and a master's degree in public administration or related field is preferred. Those entering college teaching or urban research should have a doctorate.

There is no mandatory undergraduate curriculum but a major in political science or government is a good bet. Some of the recommended courses: physical and social sciences, local government and current urban problems, statistics and math. Few universities offer an undergraduate degree in public administration; many offer graduate degrees. Several leading programs in urban or municipal management are: U. of Kansas, U. of Pennsylvania, U. of Pittsburgh, U. of Southern California and Syracuse U. in New York.

A CITY MANAGER is not an elected official, such as a mayor. He is an executive officer appointed by the city council in more than 2100 cities with the council-manager form of government. (Another 400 cities employ a similar professional administrator.) These urban managers work without an employment contract per se, and job security depends upon the confidence of the city council.

THE INTERNATIONAL CITY MANAGEMENT ASSOCIATION says there is a shortage of well-qualified persons to fill high level management jobs and that nearly 100 cities are now looking for a city manager. Few women are yet city managers but a number work in related administrative jobs.

DIVERSIFIED DUTIES. The city manager deals with nearly every aspect of local government operations. A few highlights: seeing that all city laws and ordinances are enforced . . . supervision of personnel and budget . . . long range planning . . . public relations . . . awareness of new technologies and approaches . . . recommendation of city programs to meet the needs and desires of residents.

EMPLOYMENT. Managers are found in cities of all types and sizes, and a large number of counties employ managers. Others with this background work for State and Federal governments, university research and training centers, and various organizations and associations. Some enter industry. This is a mobile profession; one survey shows an average tenure of four to eight years.

EARNINGS. In 1968 (latest survey) the average salary was $14,500. For managers of cities over 10,000 population, the average was nearly $18,000. Earnings can exceed $30,000 in larger cities, and are generally highest in the western part of the country. Fringe benefits may include a car.

IDENTITY QUESTION. Some authorities say – contrary to traditional opinion – that managers are really political animals and ought to be as concerned with social ends as with administrative means, and transformed from chief executive to community leader. An explanation of this philosophy is in "The City Manager – Myths and Realities" published by the Public Administration Service, 1313 E. 60th St., Chicago, Ill. 60637. $2.70 postpaid.

Four Are Charged In Murder

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Four person were charged Tuesday with the murder of space expert Albert Mott Chattin, 47, last Oct. 21.

Named in the slaying were Bobby Joe Daniels, 20; Sammy Davis, 20; J. C. Walter, 37; and Walter's wife, Juanita, 23. Police said that the four signed statements.

They were held without immediate bond.

Chattin, who had just flown to Dallas to take part in a conference on space matters, was approached on the parking lot of the motel where he was staying and was then forced to drive to a vacant field where he was shot and robbed, said police.

The body was discovered in the field by a police helicopter on routine patrol.

Chattin had been killed by a single shot in the forehead.

Police Capt. Robert Dixon called the slaying "one of our biggest cases" and credited detectives Gus Rose and Walter Potts with preparing the information.

Mrs. Chattin offered a $10,000 reward Feb. 2 for information on the case, but Captain Dixon declined comment on that.

Although a contracts specialist for the space agency and investigators from NASA spent several days here, there was no hint that any government secrets were involved.

Connally Speaks To Oil Group

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Former Gov. John Connally of Texas said Tuesday he did not feel that racial differences were the cause of strife and turmoil in the country.

Instead, said the former Secretary of the Navy, he felt the strife and turmoil comes from mounting concern for the quality of life such as air and water pollution and increasing pressure for more public services.

He spoke here before a meeting of the Petroleum Equipment Suppliers Association.

He told the oil-oriented group that a national policy of geographic dispersion of population and industry would be a big step in the ending of the strife and turmoil he mentioned.

The necessary legislation, he said, should include tax credits up to 15 per cent to industry willing to move plants from congested areas into communities of 500,000 or less.

He said the petroleum industry is living in a political environment not conducive to the solution of many problems. He said the public and politicians would keep the industry under attack, an attack which he said was unjustified.

Oilmen, he said, have been victims of a society operating on an emotional plane.

AS PRESIDENT OF AUTO WORKERS

Reuther Awaits Re-Election

By A. F. MAHAN
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — With new contract demands tailored to his liking, Walter P. Reuther awaits re-election as president of the United Auto Workers on Thursday to strengthen his hand in negotiations later this year with General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

Reuther's re-election is being challenged for the first time since 1949 before 3,170 delegates representing the union's 1.6 million members at a biennial convention.

Art Fox, a longtime critic of Reuther, is running for the presidency but is given virtually no chance of an upset.

The convention elects new officers and international executive board members Thursday. A set of new contract demands, supported by the Reuther administration, drew lopsided approval Tuesday. They included:

—A "substantial" but unspecified wage increase.

—Retirement after 30 years service at a minimum pension of $500 a month, regardless of age. A $400 pension after 30 years service now is possible at age 60.

—Unlimited cost of living allowances geared to the government's consumer price index.

—A year-end bonus on grounds that "what is fitting for executives is equally fitting for workers."

—A worker stock-purchase plan.

The current average hourly wage in the auto industry is $4.02 and fringe benefits such as pensions, insurance and supplemental unemployment benefits add an additional $1.75 an hour according to the automakers.

Three-year contracts negotiated in 1967 expire next Sept. 14. They cover 750,000 employed by the Big Three and set the pattern for UAW bargaining with auto supply plants and the aerospace and agricultural implement industries.

Because of sagging new car sales, increasing dealer inventories and growing worker layoffs, Reuther has conceded his union faces possibly its toughest negotiations since the 1958 recession.

He told a news conference following the wrapup of economic demands Tuesday, however, that profits of the industry have been "scandalously high" in recent years and repeated a previous assertion that "we will not be bargaining about the economy of 1970 but about the future."

More Action Set Against Polluters

HOUSTON (AP) — City health engineer Gerald Hord said Monday the city's air pollution section will sample less and sue more.

He said the office will devote less effort to sampling air pollution and start action against the polluters.

"We are gathering evidence for presentation to the city legal department, with the recommendation that legal action be taken," Hord said.

Angry Man Is Charged

HOUSTON (AP) — Irvin L. Harper got so mad at the U. S. Post office Monday he ropped down a street mailbox, a postal inspector charged.

The inspector said he didn't know why Harper was angry. Harper was charged with unlawfully and maliciously tearing down the federal property and placed in jail in lieu of $1,000 bond.

Contaminated Food Recalled

By G. C. THELEN Jr.
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has initiated the voluntary market removal of 13.9 million servings of a nationally known soup mixture because of food poisoning danger.

Also since January, it has spurred industry recalls of 334,000 pounds of popcorn packed by a Milford, Ill., firm; of 24,000 nationally-distributed frozen strawberry pies manufactured by a Columbus, Ohio, baker; and of 2,000 cases of a name-brand candy. All were contaminated with insect or rodent material, or both.

Other food items recalled in the past three months because of contamination in certain brands and lots include dried eggs, anchovies, noodles, raisins, frozen fried chicken, peanut butter, pimentos, pizzas and cooked mushrooms.

The recalls are never totally successful, according to a spokesman for the Food and Drug Administration. Some of the products are purchased and consumed. The agency can't specify how many.

"Today's scientific Knowledge, working through good laws to protect consumers, assures the safety and wholesomeness of every component of the American food supply," says the FDA, and indeed the great majority of foods, health supplies and cosmetics sold to the public are safe and wholesome.

The National Academy of Sciences says, however, FDA inspects only 40 per cent of the 64,000 interstate food processing plants subject to federal checking, and the agency itself estimates that 20 per cent of the plants are in substantial violation of government standards.

The most spectacular recall this year has been the 13.9 million servings of these nationally distributed, cartoned, Lipton soups: Perky Noodle Soup Mix, Chicken Vegetable Soup Mix, Ring-O-Noodle Soup Mix With Real Chicken Broth, Giggle Noodle Soup With Real Chicken Broth—test marketed in New England only—Beef Flavor Noodle Soup With Vegetables.

All the soups were contaminated with a bacteria called salmonella that can cause food poisoning. The organism was traced to the manufacturer of the noodle soup used in the Lipton mixes.

Lipton is recalling the mixes from retail shelves, but the FDA estimated that between 15 and 20 per cent remained on the market as of last week.

The FDA's weekly recall reports for this year show such other health-related product defects as:

—21 instances of contaminated batches of cosmetics, versus 11 in all of 1969. Most of the contaminants found, among other places in eye liner and cologne, were bacteria that can cause skin infections.

Candle holder whose bases explodes when the candle burns low.

—Drugs of varying potency that were mislabeled, encased in tubes that leaked or lacked an essential ingredient.

—Such supposedly sterile hospital supplies as sponges, scalpels and catheters that were contaminated.

Tuesday night the FDA warned against eating a brand of prepared pizzas distributed by the Roman Inn Pizza Co., throughout the upper Midwest.

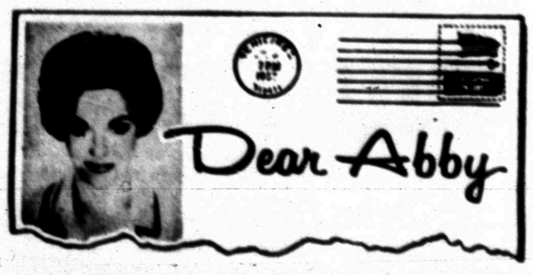
The FDA said mushrooms in some of the 80,000 "Roman Deluxe Italian Brand" pizzas produced this month are suspected of causing botulism, an acute food poisoning that can be fatal.

Roman Inn Pizza has been recalling the pizza, the FDA said, but "since distribution has been so widespread and has gone on for several weeks a public warning is considered necessary."

The 24,000 Mountain Top Frozen Strawberry Pies were recalled, the FDA said, because of "rodent contanination of fruit used as a raw material."

The recall of 2,000 cases of Russell Stover Candies distributed in Missouri, Nebraska and Indiana was caused by "rodent and insects infestation of plant and rodent and insect hairs and fragments found in samples," the FDA said.

The agency attributed the recall of the 334,000 pounds of popcorn to "rodent contamination of plant and product." The popcorn is packaged under these labels, according to the FDA: Buddy Boy Hulless, Premiere 404 Monarch Popcorn, Our Family Popcorn, and Richelieu.



Wants both his wives with him

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Both my wives read your column.

I have just been offered a promotion to a top job in our Honolulu office. Policy dictates that either I take the job or resign.

For 25 years I have been in charge of our two offices, one in Fort Worth and the other in Houston, alternating weekly.

I have a wife in each town, support two families, and put two sets of children thru school.

If I were to resign, it would hurt everybody. I cannot, and will not, decide between either of my wives. I want to take both of them. What should I do? Please hurry, Abby. I haven't much time. TROUBLED IN TEXAS

DEAR TROUBLED: Keep one family in Hilo and the other in Oahu. And buy all the volcano insurance you can get.

DEAR ABBY: Will you help us get the message across to our 15-year-old daughter that it looks bad for young people to put on a show of affection in public? I want to crawl in a hole when I see my daughter walking down the street with her boyfriend. She is hanging on him, or their arms are around each other's waists, and they even stop to kiss right on the street!

When they are in the car together, she is practically sitting on his lap. And when they are indoors, it's the same picture.

Abby, I know young people are attracted to each other, and I am not saying there is anything wrong with honest emotions, but please tell young people to keep their hands off each other in public! OLD FASHIONED

DEAR OLD FASHIONED: Hello, young lovers [wherever you are] and this goes for the older lovers, too.

All the world may love a lover, but it's poor taste to act out the role in public. A boy who respects a girl will keep his hands off her in public, and a girl who respects herself, will make sure he does.

DEAR ABBY: I am 69 years of age, a Buddhist missionary and a private teacher of English, German and the violin here in Bangkok. I came here from Germany 38 years ago, and during that time I have had no chance to satisfy my refined and spiritual love hunger — the reason being that I am two-thirds bald.

The Thai women do not like bald-headed lovers, and the western women find other excuses. German women never demanded hair on their men. Can you help me while there is still time! BALD-HEADED IN BANGKOK

DEAR BALD-HEADED: Either get yourself a hair piece, or head for Germany and find a woman there who will satisfy your refined and spiritual hunger — while there is still time.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "ARIES AND CAPRICORN": Thank your lucky stars! It's better to have loved and lost than to have hated and won.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

WTPA Set To Present Scholarship

BALLINGER — West Texas Press Association is looking for another winner in its $800 newspaper scholarship contest.

Applications in the 1970 contest will be received from high school seniors until May 8, Richard H. Perry, chairman of the scholarship committee, has announced.

Applications should be sent to Richard H. Perry, The Ballinger Ledger, Box 111, Ballinger, Texas 76821. Announcement of the winner will be made by May 20.

West Texas Press Association, which started the newspaper scholarship in 1956, has four students in college this year. One will graduate this spring.

Rules for the scholarship contest have been mailed to high school principals and to newspaper editors or publishers of the West Texas Press Association area towns, who will be glad to help with the necessary application details.

Interested students should talk with their principal or editor and start immediately to prepare the application.

All applicants must be in the upper 25 per cent of their class, must have demonstrated ability in newspaper journalism and a desire for a newspaper career.

The winner will receive $200 per year ($100 per semester) for each of the four years of college, providing satisfactory academic requirements are met.

Eleven West Texas colleges and universities have been designated for scholarship winners by WTPA. These are Abilene Christian College, Angelo State College, Hardin-Simmons University, Howard Payne College, Midwestern University, Sul Ross College, Texas Tech University of Texas at El Paso, Texas Christian University, Wayland College and West Texas State University.

Car Theft Ring Is Broken Up

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Police announced Tuesday the breakup of a car theft ring that had stolen over $1 million worth of autos in the last three years.

The group was made up mostly of teen-age auto thieves—many from wealthy families—and supposedly led by a former convict now being held in jail in lieu of $50,000 bond on three auto theft indictments.

Auto Theft Bureau detective Bill Gee said the former convict, Steven O'Neal Shepherd, 23, believed to be of Farmersville, had organized the group of at least 24 youths which stole 200 to 250 autos. Shepherd disposed of equipment which was stripped from the cars.

Gee said the gang specialized in high performance automobiles, "usually 1966 or later models."

He gave this outline of the rings operation:

The cars were usually stripped of high performance equipment such as engines, transmissions and bucket seats for resale to friends. The stripped hulk was then left in a field or burned.

Members of the ring also used friends, parents and insurance fraud to make money from the stolen equipment.

The insurance fraud cases occurred when ring members would steal a friend's car, strip it, then resell the stolen equipment to the friend at reduced cost. The friend would then claim the car stolen and collect insurance.

Gee said other youths would get money from their parents to get money for a new engine or other equipment, and would then use the money to buy stolen goods at a reduced price.

Gee said that a lot of the youths felt that they weren't stealing at all, and some were not concerned with the seriousness of the charges.

"The kids won't talk about it much," said Gee.

Pastor Indicted In Conspiracy

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A federal grand jury Tuesday indicted the pastor of the Mid - City Baptist Church here and four others on charges of conspiracy, fraud in the sale of securities and mail fraud.

Defendants in the 13 - count indictment include pastor J. Paul Driscoll; Jessie M. Ray, the church's bond director; Hugh E. McGee Jr., a Houston, Tex., attorney; and Paul D. McMillan and Clyde L. Rabun, both of Houston and identified as church bond brokers.

The indictment was returned to U. S. Dist. Court Judge Lansing L. Mitchell. He ordered that the Driscoll and McGee be allowed to sign their own bonds of $1,000 each.

Mitchell ordered arrest warrants issued for McMillan, Rabun and Ray, setting surety bonds of $5,000 each.

Rabun and McMillan were identified as operators of Southland Church Funds, Inc. of Houston.

Asst. U. S. Atty. Daniel J. Markey said Rabun and McGee organized the Rabun Corp. and that Rabun also headed Southland Church Contractors, Inc., and Southland Building and Lumber Co.

One count of the indictment charges fraud in the sale of securities, 10 counts allege separate instances of mail fraud, and one count charges a general conspiracy.

Markey said over $4 million in bonds were sold between Aug. 1, 1962 and Nov. 30, 1967, the period covered by the indictment.

Planet Mercury Has Rough Features

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The planet Mercury has mysterious rough spots near its equator which may be "mountains, boulder fields or craters," scientists at Jet Propulsion Laboratory say.

The features were detected during spectographic radar probes between May 24 and June 13 of last year when the tiny planet, closest to the sun, was about 55 million miles from earth, Dr. Richard Goldstein of JPL's Goldstone Tracking Station said Sunday.

"The rough features of Mercury seem to be like the ones we have observed earlier on Venus," Goldstein said, "except they are larger, relative to the size of the disc and have much less contrast to the surrounding areas."
