Session To Be Held Monday In Plainview

By H. L. KIEFER
Avalanche Staff Writer

REPRESENTATIVES of all South Plains and Panhandle cities and towns interested in the Canadian river as a possible source of water supply will meet in Plainview's Hilton Hotel Monday noon to discuss the project.

Data submitted at the Plainview session may have decisive bearing upon the Canadian development—the most gigantic enterprise of any kind ever proposed in Northwest Texas.

Call for the meeting followed a quickly arranged conference in the City Hall here late Wednesday in which Lubbock, Amarillo and U. S. Reclamation Service representatives participated. The Amarillo and Reclamation Service participants flew here in a chartered plane.

Estimates To Be Asked

Arrangements for the use of the Plainview Hilton's dining room were made by Raymond Lee Johns, chamber of commerce manager there. A "dutch treat" luncheon at noon will be followed by a business session.

Officials of all the cities and towns interested will be asked to prepare tentative estimates of how much water their communities could use for domestic and industrial purposes if it was available from a reservoir on the Canadian. These estimates are to attempt to forecast probable needs, based upon reasonably expected growth, at periods of 10, 20, 30 and 40 years in the future.

These estimates are expected to supply the most definite indications available now as to whether sales of water during the next 40 years might pay for the proposed dam, reservoir and pipelines to localities supplied from this source.

Lubbock To Send Notices

The Lubbock Board of City Development, of which Homer D. Grant is president, agreed to send notices of the meeting and invitations to attend to officials of all counties and communities which might be interested.

If any who are interested do not receive invitations, Grant said, they are cordially invited to attend anyway. If any are overlooked, he explained, it will be due to oversight resulting from the short time allowed for completion of arrangements for the meeting.

More extended notice is not being given, Grant continued, because speed appears vital to the best chance of bringing the Canadian river development to reality.

Demand Is Key

There apparently was no question in the minds of the participants in the parley here as to the abundance of the supply of good water — better than any have now — for all localities wanting it if the Canadian development is carried to completion.

Chemical tests, as reported to the conference here, indicate it would be free of the fluorine content which causes stained teeth.

The chief question of those urg-

B-50 MAKES HISTORIC FLIGHT—The U. S. Air Force's Boeing B-50 Superfortress, "Lucky Lady II," is shown above taking off on its historic round-the-world, non-stop hop at Carswell Air Force base, Fort Worth. The plane returned to Fort Worth Wednesday and this picture was released upon completion of the trip. High U. S. officials last night hailed the flight as proof that the U. S. Air Force now can carry an Atom Bomb anywhere in the world. (AP Photo.)

HUGE BOMBER SPANS GLOBE IN NON-STOP FLIGHT

B-50 Circles World!

By LEON SHLOSS
INS Staff Correspondent

FORT WORTH, March 2—A huge, four engine B-50 bomber completed the first non-stop 'round-the-world flight in history Wednesday and dramatically emphasized the ability of the United States to carry an atom bomb to any point on earth.

The B-50, developed from the war-tested B-29, landed at Carswell Air Base, Fort Worth, an even 94 hours from the time it became airborne last Saturday amid strict Army hush-hush.

Were Refueled In Flight

Officials said the end of the dramatic flight brought home forcefully the fact that the U.S. can "deliver an atom bomb any place in the world where it is necessary."

Air Force leaders declared the giant bomber thus established the possibility of round-the-world mass flight bombing.

They explained that the spectacular flight—a secret as well-kept as the atom bomb—was made possible by a new mid-air refueling technique.

Specially prepared B-29 aerial "tankers" rendezvoused with the four-engine giant, "Lucky Lady II," at four points around the globe.

Air Force officials in Washington said 390 of the giant B-50's, including improved models, are "on hand or on order."

Air Secretary Symington said in Washington the feat proves "the shadow of American air power can be cast over any area in the world."

(Air Force Commander Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg asserted the flight could have been made with a full bomb load if necessary.)

The weary but happy 14-man crew—obviously proud of their feat—announced they were "ready to start all over again—after a steak, a green salad and about four days sleep."

Officials estimated that the world-record, uninterrupted flight,

WASHINGTON, March 2—Air Secretary Symington declared today that the globe - circling flight of a B-50 super-bomber proves "the shadow of American air power can be cast over any area of the world."

Other air forces officials, describing the flight as America's answer to the supreme challenge of the atomic era, said that 390 of the giant B-50's including improved models are now "on hand or on order."

Full Load Possible

Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, air force commander, said the historic flight could have been achieved with a full bomb load if necessary.

Defense Secretary Forrestal was quick to call the Lucky Lady II's global mission a "significant achievement." Sen. Tydings (D-Md), chairman of the Senate Armed Forces committee, said:

HST Calls For Quick Action On Filibuster

By ROGER D. GREENE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 2—President Truman called today for a quick decision in the three-day old filibuster in the Senate, but there was no sign of the talkfest running out.

Administration cries of "shame" only spurred southern orators in their fight against a Truman-backed proposal under which Senate debate could be cut short any time two-thirds of those present so vote. The southerners assailed this as a preliminary move to "crucify" the South with civil rights bills.

The Dixie bloc, originally 22 strong, actually gained strength as the debate went on.

GOP Group Neutral

Senator Langer, North Dakota Republican, announced that he will vote against the proposed debate curb. Langer explained that he fears small states and minorities would be damaged by limiting debate.

Late in the day, Chairman Taft (R-Ohio) announced that the Senate Republican policy committee had agreed to keep hands off on the voting of individual GOP Senators in the filibuster controversy.

"We decided it is not a matter for party policy," Taft told newsmen after a 90-minute committee session behind closed doors.

"I see no reason why people should not vote their own opinions," he added.

HST Interested

Previously, Senator Wherry of Nebraska, GOP floor leader, had predicted that "quite a few" Republicans would vote against any ruling to choke off debate until the issue had been thoroughly aired.

Dixie oratorical gales were still blowing strong when the Senate recessed at 6:05 p. m. until noon tomorrow.

President Truman showed a keen interest in the Senate battle over the curb-the-filibuster proposal.

Senator Elbert Thomas (D-Utah) informed newsmen after a White

U.S. Army Denies Red Mission Food And Water In Frankfurt

By TOM AGOSTON

FRANKFURT, March 2 — Armed American MP's sealed off eight disaccredited Soviet repatriation mission members in Frankfurt today, denying them water, food, or public utilities.

It was a miniature, reverse twist to the Soviet blockade of Berlin.

One Russian officer attached to the separate military mission sought to enter the house but was refused permission.

Three German servants left the house, were questioned by the U. S. provost-marshal's office, and released.

Tonight there was no sign of movement in the blacked-out office-residence except the glowing ends of burning cigarets smoked by the four Soviet officers and four enlisted men.

During the day one Russian hiding behind the shutters thrust the nose of a camera out the window to snap pictures of the fur-capped American guards and MP's in radio patrol cars.

The Russians under Col. Vassily Argoonov refused to obey U. S. Military Governor Gen. Lucius D. Clay's recent

U.S. Reds Pledge Wartime Aid To Nation's Enemies

NEW YORK, March 2—U. S. Communist leaders said Wednesday "if Wall street should succeed in plunging the world into war" American Communists will give aid to "all democratic forces to defeat the predatory aims of American imperialism."

A statement issued by the national headquarters of the party said the Communists will strive to "bring such a war to a speedy conclusion on the basis of a democratic peace."

The statement was signed by William Z. Foster, general chairman of the Communist party, and Eugene Dennis, general secretary.

(In Washington, two members of Congress interpreted the statement as a declaration that American Communists would support Russia in the event of war between the U.S. and the Soviets.

(The Justice department refused to comment and the State department referred all questions to the Justice department.

(Sen. Mundt (R-S.D.), former member of the House Un-American Activities committee, said, "I am glad to hear that the cat is now out of the bag. I hope that even our fuzzy-minded liberals will see clearly what the picture is."

Follows Similar Statements

(Rep. Nixon, (R-Calif.), a member of the Un-American Activities committee, said the Communist statement emphasizes the need to "relentlessly expose all the Communist traitors in our midst.")

The statement issued by the American Communists followed by a few days even stronger instructions to European Communists issued by party chiefs Maurice Thorez in France, Palmiro Togliatti in Italy, Harry Politt in Britain.

Similar statements also were made by Communist leaders in Norway Wednesday and in the Russian-occupied zone of Germany.

'Dead' City Official Appears In Houston As Bible Salesman

(By The Associated Press)

HOUSTON, March 2—Chris Jepsen Christensen, missing San Francisco city supervisor, turned up in Houston tonight, a Bible salesman.

It was his first day as a Bible salesman and he made $13.50.

"I've been doing what I want to do all day," he protested to an assortment of reporters, photographers and radio men.

"I've been selling Bibles. Why don't people let me alone.

"Just because I was somebody once—why do people bother with me?"

These words were the introduction to a rambling discourse of an hour or more—much of it a sort of stream of consciscousness monologue—interrupted by a question now and then in a long distance telephone conversation with a San Francisco radio station.

Vanished Year Ago

Christensen disappeared Jan. 13, 1948, shortly after his election as city supervisor. He left his coat and hat and a disturbing note on the Golden Gate bridge.

The easiest thing to believe was that Christensen was dead.

But shortly after 7 p. m. today, the 44-year-old Christensen showed up at his room in the old Mcashan apartments. Reporters, photographers and Ted Walsh of District Attorney A. C. Winborn's staff had been waiting hours for him.

Earlier in the day Christensen had been traced to Houston through a San Francisco reference he left at a Houston employment agency.

He admitted his identity readily. He said he had not known who he was for

New Controls Go Into Effect Next Monday

By JOHN BOOTH
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 2—The Federal Reserve board took cognizance of the break in prices today by easing restrictions on consumer installment buying.

The board announced that, effective Monday, these changes will be made in Regulation W, which provides for consumer credit controls.

Buyers will be given a maximum of 21 months to pay off balances on automobiles, household furniture, refrigerators, radios, television sets, and other goods affected by the controls instead of 15 to 18 months as at present.

Business Outlook "Good"

Down payments on furniture and other articles used in home furnishings will be reduced from 20 to 15 per cent.

The present one-third down payment required on new or used automobiles, however, remains unchanged.

The board's action came only a few hours after President Truman's Council of Economic Advisers told him that the nation's business outlook is "good, bright and promising."

Businessmen had contended that the credit controls were working hardships on potential installment plan buyers.

They pointed to official reports that total consumer credit declined $548 million in January, the largest drop for that month in any postwar year.

The economic advisers cautioned in their report to the President that "there is still serious inflation" in some segments of the economy and said the public must be protected from "a distorted, psychological fear of the situation."

In other developments on the business front:

1. Treasury Secretary Snyder declared that "any apprehension as to impending depression is unfounded."

50 Planes Seek Missing Craft

SAN ANGELO, March 2 (AP)—Fifty search planes today scanned hundreds of square miles of the rugged southwest Texas country in a hunt for a missing C-47 transport plane with nine men aboard.

They took off from San Antonio, El Paso, Pyote and San Angelo. After an all-day search, they reported no trace of the craft, more than 60 hours overdue in San Antonio on a flight from Hamilton Air Force base, Calif.

The search turned to the rugged Big Bend country in Brewster county after a report that a C-47 had been seen flying low in overcast weather Monday between Mount Ord and Santiago mountain.

Plane Reported Sighted

A network of 100 amateur radio operators was standing by in the search. Some of the operators reported they caught faint signals they believed may have come from the plane.

Final Okay Seen On Pantex Project Today

WASHINGTON, March 2. (Special.)—Texas Technological college's request for Pantex ordnance property near Amarillo was approved by the Real Property board of the War Assets administration late today, Senator Tom Connally learned.

The transfer will not be official however until Administrator Jess Larson of WAA approves the decision. He is expected to do so, it was learned. Final decision is expected Thursday.

According to Senator Connally's information the transfer would take place on terms and in acreage as requested by Texas Tech officials.

The college would use the ground for carrying out numerous experiments in connection with the U. S. Department of Agriculture, part of which would be on wheat rust prevention and on livestock improvement. The experiments would be especially beneficial to North Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Colorado and possibly New Mexico.

Jones Conviction Upheld By Court

AUSTIN, March 2 (AP) — The court of criminal appeals today affirmed conviction and death sentence of W. Fred Jones for the Floydada shotgun slaying of H. C. Love.

Love, a clerk in Jones' grocery store, was killed Sept. 27, 1946.

The appeal from Crosby county was from Jones' second conviction and death sentence for the slaying. The first conviction, in Hale county, was reversed and a new trial ordered by the appeal court.

Court Finds No Errors

The appeal court's written opinion said that the state "evidently convinced the jury" of "falsity" of Jones' defense "and also of the maliciousness of the act of killing."

The defense had testified that there had been "lascivious conduct" between Jones' wife and the deceased shortly before the killing, the opinion noted.

"While the verdict is a severe one and the trial evidences a vigorous prosecution, as well as a learned defense, we cannot say that we find any errors herein that might have affected the verdict," the opinion said.

Lost B-29 May Have Been 'Tanker' Plane

MANILA, Thursday, March 3 (AP)—A missing U. S. Superfortress may have been one of the four vital refueling links for the nonstop globe girdling flight of the B-50 Lucky Lady 11.

The B-29, missing with nine aboard and believed down in the lofty, unexplored Carabello mountains of northern Luzon, failed to return from a "routine" flight about the time the B-50 Lucky Lady 11 passed over Luzon Tuesday (Philippines time).

There was no immediate confirmation from U. S. fighter wing headquarters at Clark Field that the lost plane served as a tanker for the record flight, however. Its home base was in the United States.

(In Tucson, Ariz., the missing plane was identified as belonging to the 64th Squadron, 43rd Bomb Group. Planes from that group refueled the B-50 on its round-the-world flight).

The names of the crewmen, with home addresses where available, included: Capt. William W. Taylor, Houston; Capt. William G. Fuller, Fort Worth; First Lt. William E. Roegels, 3025 Sixth St., Port Arthur.

Grain Sorghums Support Studied

SARAH McCLENDON
Avalanche Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 2.—No decision was reached on the question of support price on grain sorghums at a conference of Agriculture department officials with Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan late Wednesday.

The conference followed an earlier conference between Secretary Brannan and Rep. W. R. Poage, 11th Texas district, and member of the House Agriculture committee. Poage told the secretary that it is imperative that a support price be announced at once.

Decision Expected Soon

Some decision is expected by the end of the week.

Congressman Poage explained that many farmers will plant grain sorghums if they are assured of a fair price, but if that assurance is lacking, they will plant cotton which is supported at 90 percent of parity. It is generally agreed that the 1949 cotton production will probably far exceed the need. Poage therefore urged action to reduce cotton plantings.

Poage learned later that the Agriculture department had queried the State Production and Marketing Administration committees in grain sorghum areas, asking if their farmers would be content

At Least 15 Persons Killed In Terrific Blast In Istanbul

ISTANBUL, Turkey, March 2. (AP)—A violent blast levelled a private munitions plant here tonight and killed an undetermined number of persons.

Reliable informants said the plant had been making anti-aircraft shells for Egypt and Syria.

A government spokesman said the death toll would be about 15, but eye-witnesses said they had seen far more bodies in the wreckage.

More than 125 employes were working at the time of the blast, which wrecked the plant and knocked down homes 100 yards away. The explosion rocked the entire city and was felt as far as 20 miles away. Police said tons of nitroglycerin which did not explode were in the path of flames sweeping the wreckage.

Mild Weather Will Continue Over Area

Partly cloudy and mild weather will continue over the South Plains today and Friday, the weather bureau station north of Lubbock predicted last night.

The mercury is expected to move above the high of 63 degrees recorded yesterday. The low yesterday morning was 26 degrees. Fog again is forecast over the area, following on the heels of a "pea soup" blanket that cut visibility almost to zero shortly after midnight yesterday. The fog made driving over the area extremely hazardous and sharply reduced speed of traffic movement. The fog lifted about sunrise. Much of the state was hit by the fog blanket.

An upper front that moved into California last night is being watched by the Weather station, but the weatherman said that present indications are that the front "won't amount to much."

Two Men Suffer Knife Injuries

Two men were treated at West Texas hospital early Wednesday night for cuts suffered in the course of an altercation in room 26 at Abbott's 7-Acres lodge, located on East Broadway.

J. E. Weir, believed to be about 35, of O'Donnell, was admitted to the hospital. He suffered considerable loss of blood from deep knife wounds in his left shoulder and left chest and a less serious cut on the chin.

Leroy Adams, 22-year-old negro porter at the lodge, was treated for a stab wound in the lower right portion of his abdomen, and later removed to Chaptman hospital. His condition was not believed serious.

The sheriff's department, which investigated the case, was at a loss in an attempt to find out "who cut who."

A third party in the room at the time of the cutting, a 51-year-old O'Donnell man, was confined to county jail on a drunk charge. He was unable to answer questions, officers said.

Officers who arrived at the scene about 6:45 p.m. found the room spotted with blood, some playing cards on a small table and four empty beer cans and an almost-empty pint of whisky.

Porter Gives Statement

Robert Cubitt, 38, another negro porter for the courts, gave a statement to officials, but could shed no light on the affair. He, according to his statement, went to the cabin to tell Adams that it was "time to quit work," and saw both men covered with blood. He left then, he said.

Russian Sails Small Raft To Japan In Search For Freedom

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN

TOKYO, March 2. — Another Russian seeking "freedom" was disclosed in Tokyo today to have made a danger-fraught open sea trip on a six-foot raft to Japan.

The Russian, Innokenty Zyryanov, 24, told American authorities that he had to fight off attacking seals with nothing more than a pocket knife during an 18-hour trip from the Russian-occupied Kurile islands off Siberia to northern Hokkaido last December.

He was the fourth Soviet citizen who has sought sanctuary recently in Allied occupation zones.

Russia's top spokesman in Japan refused to comment meanwhile on the story of a 23-year-old Russian army sergeant who stole a Soviet transport last November and soloed to a crash landing in Japan because he "wanted to find freedom."

Allied authorities had kept secret the escape from Siberia of the young airman, Sgt. Vladimir Barashkov, until his story was told at a news conference yesterday.

Both men have asked for safe haven. The sergeant said he had been promised that he eventually will be able to reach the U. S.

PRESS CLUB SLATES DINNER

Marshall Will Make First Talk Since Retirement Friday Night

By BOB CONSIDINE
INS Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, March 2—Gen. George C. Marshall, the unflagging public servant, will make his first public speech since leaving the State department, at the tenth annual dinner of the Overseas Press Club of America Friday night at the Waldorf.

The former chief of staff and secretary of state, fully recovered from his recent operation, is expected to make his remarks as blunt as he wished they could have been as secretary. He has asked the club's dinner committee to drop plans to broadcast his address, but it will not be off the record.

Other Eventful Talks Recalled

Overseas Press club dinners have provided arresting sounding boards in the past and this one is not expected to depart from the tradition.

It was Marshall, in the fretful days shortly after German Gen. Von Rundstedt's breakthrough, who announced to the assemblage—for the first time—that "we've got it licked," and that Hitler had thrown his last punch. His revelation was of such importance at the time, and so tied up with the over-all strategy of Gen. Eisenhower, that he could not be quoted.

The dinners have reflected the high and low tides of our relations with Russia. In 1942 Maxim Litvinov was cheered to an echo when he spoke of the enduring tie between the U.S. and U.S.S.R. At the 1947 dinner, Andrei Gromyko backed out at the last moment—after promising to attend and speak.

Byrnes Spoke Bluntly

Secretary of State Jimmy Byrnes in 1946 chose the dinner to make the first get-tough-with-Russia speech that had been uttered in public by a top-ranking government official.

Two statesmen soon to be doomed sat side by side at the dinner at which Litvinov starred—and they were doomed by the try. Litvinov represented. They country Litvinov represented. They were Jan Masaryk, who fell or was pushed to his death at the climax of the political conquest of Czechoslovakia by the Soviet, and Gen. Wladyslaw Sikorski, whose Polish-government-in-exile was already being undermined by Stalin's Lublin Poles—though Poland was an ally of Russia.

On his trip to this country Sikorski narrowly escaped death when his plane's engines were tampered with at a field en route. Stanislaw Mikolajczk, his closest friend and associate, was aboard the plane and has attested to the attempted sabotage.

Killed In Crash

After his return to London, Sikorski, failing to get an answer from Russia on the German report that the bodies of 11,000 missing Polish officers had been unearthed in the Katyn forest—allegedly killed by the Russians during the time Hitler and Stalin were allies—appealed to the International Red Cross to examine the charge. For this, Stalin immediately broke relations with the Polish government which Sikorski headed. Sikorski and his aides were killed not long after that in a plane crash off Gibraltar.

Last year's dinner had its amusing as well as instructive sides. I know, for I was the harried toastmaster.

Our chief speaker, Gen. Omar Bradley, became ill a few hours before he was to fly up from Washington and had to bow out. King Michael of Romania, the No. 2 man, was told by one of his staff that Bradley had declined as a political snub to the throneless monarch. So Michael decided not to come.

Speakers Came Through

Our No. 3 man, Bernard Baruch, seemed bewildered a few minutes before the dinner when I mentioned his speech to him. The great man, who uses a hearing aid, apparently had been tuned out when the committee asked him to speak, but, being a friendly soul, had nodded agreeably.

Nope, said Mr. Baruch, who was now tuned in, he could not think of speaking on such short notice.

A thousand guests were by now trooping into the Waldorf ballroom, at $15 a head, and I was trying to think of a way in which I could tell them, with a winning chuckle, that the only speaker they were going to get was John J. McCloy, head of the world bank.

But at the last moment, Bradley flew in a brigadier general who made a good thumping talk, the king showed up with his gracious maw, Baruch, after listening to a few excerpts from the introduction I had written for him, decided to speak, and McCloy made the best talk of all.

McCloy told a Churchill story that night which was new to those present. Churchill had been taken to task by an erudite member of the opposition for ending a sentence with a preposition. He replied, angrily, "this is a kind of pedantry up with which I will not put!"

Navy Training Men To Instruct In A-Bomb Emergency Measures

SAN FRANCISCO, March 2. (AP)—A two-year-old school at the Navy's Treasure Island base here is turning out graduates trained to tell people what to do in event of an atom bomb emergency.

The school's first graduates were officers and men who have since set up similar schools at Keesler field, Biloxi, Miss., and at Edgewood arsenal in Maryland, Navy Captain Roy D. Williams reported.

The course, Captain Williams said, includes lectures on crowd psychology and other anti-panic techniques, and instructions for handling Geiger counters and for keeping people away from dangerously radioactive materials.

Captain Williams said seven to eight miles is a safe distance from an atom bomb blast. Hundreds of lives could have been saved at Hiroshima and Nagasaki if the people had known what to do.

One Killed, Four Hurt In Illinois Hotel Fire

ROCK ISLAND, Ill., March 2 (INS)—One man perished today and four others were injured in a fire which destroyed the top floor of the five-story Harms hotel, 60-year-old landmark in Downtown Rock Island.

The body of Russell Darnell, 46, of Davenport, Ia., was found in room 506, where Assistant Fire Chief Joseph Burke said the blaze started.

Three guests were hospitalized and a fourth was released after being treated at the scene. Francis Gilmore, 30, of Indianapolis, Ind., Orville Wells, 41, of Lacon, Ill., and Edwin Sherer, 37, of Des Moines, Ia., were under treatment at St. Anthony's hospital for smoke inhalation.

Sherer, awakened by the alarm, hobbled down three flights of stairs from his room without his artificial leg. The appendage was retrieved by a fireman.

Policeman Peter Smith's alertness was credited with preventing a worse fire. Smith noticed flames in the top floor windows of the hotel as he passed by.

Burke said Smith's action enabled firemen to get to the hotel before the fire spread to lower floors. He said the flames were brought under control in 45 minutes.

Two Men Injured In Fight With Farmer In Burning House

TAMA, Ia., March 2 (INS)—Two men, one an Iowa highway patrolman, were seriously wounded today in a gunfight which developed after Ivan Elliott, about 50, went berserk and set fire to his home in Tama.

Highway Patrolman Johnny Wilson was reported in "serious condition" but expected to live while Elliott was said to be "critical." Both were taken to a Marshalltown, Ia., hospital.

Witnesses said Elliott, who had been ill recently, became enraged this afternoon and set fire to his home. When his wife called the fire department and Tama County Sheriff Russell Kearns, Elliott reportedly barricaded himself in the house.

Sheriff Kearns, accompanied by deputy Pat Flynn, Tama Marshal Sam Shafer and Patrolman Wilson surrounded the house.

Flynn and Wilson approached the rear door and were met with a barrage of bullets.

Four Baker University Men Burned Fighting Sorority Fire

BALDWIN, Kans., March 2 (AP)—Four men students suffered severe burns today while fighting a fire that destroyed the Alpha Pi Omega sorority house at Baker university.

Thirty co-eds fled into the near-freezing cold in their night-clothing.

The four students burned were members of a bucket brigade. They were taken to a hospital at Lawrence, Kan. None of the residents of the three-story stucco building was injured.

The fire apparently started in an attic storeroom about 1:45 a.m. Phyllis Taylor, a sophomore from Alexanderia, La., smelled smoke and aroused her sorority sisters. They ran out before flames threatened their living quarters.

Members of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity across the street formed a bucket brigade and attempted to fight the fire while awaiting firemen from Baldwin and the nearby Olathe, Kan., Naval air base.

The four hurt were inside the house when the flames fanned over them. The students, who escaped unaided, were Bob Rega and Bob Denning of Kansas City, Jim Eager, Albany, Mo., and Larry Noll, Paul City, Neb.

The white birch furnished the Indian with bark, transportation, and lodging.

WE HAVE all heard of the miraculous springs of Lourdes, France, and famous Thermion in ancient Greece, where, according to legend Hercules, the god of eternal strength and youth, drank its waters and bathed to be forever young.
IF YOU ARE a sufferer, and can not go to the mineral springs, try GEO-MINERAL which contains a blend of the same minerals that can be found at the world's best springs. The minerals in it may work miracles.

HAS anyone else noticed that a dime candy bars are just nickel bars grown up?

IN THE MAIL.

DEAR MISS TURNER:

The death of Albert Taylor brings back the following to me:

In the spring of 1903 he rode up to our place ten miles south of the little village of Tahoka. My father was atop the new house we were about ready to move in to. Mr. Taylor said, "Ed, come down and saddle up. Let's get this county organized." Armed with a petition, they galloped away.

I do not recall just when my father returned; only remember they rode in a northeasterly direction. There were no houses in sight, but a few half dugouts were scattered about. The 900,000 acres of Lynn county soil had hardly been scratched, except by prairie dogs.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Ben Moore, Sr.
O'Donnell.

DEAR MISS TURNER: I am wondering if a 1916 dime is worth more than just ten cents and if so what? I'll be watching the paper for your answer.

A Daily Reader.

DEAR READER: Perhaps a coin collector will notice this and answer for you. We can't imagine why a 1916 dime would be worth more than ten cents, but we are not an authority on the subject.

MISCELLANY

A GREEK fraternity pin, attached to a tie clasp, was found near Tech campus. It's at 2504 Fourteenth, if you are the owner.

A package was found in front of a downtown five and dime store Tuesday. The owner may have it by telephoning 2-6376 and identifying the contents.

BEAUTY ROUTINE

WITH the winter days drawing to a close, most of us have noticed that our complexions show signs of too many hours indoors, steam-heated rooms and a diet that has been rich in starches, fats and sweets. The spring fashions call for bold color accent on your face, but who wants to use new colors in rouge and face powder over a blotched skin?

Most women think they could look better if only someone would tell them how to do it. Well here is one chance. Miss Bobbie Fisher, specially trained in skin analysis and make-up at the New York headquarters of Charles of the Ritz is at the cosmetic bar at Hemphill-Wells this week and without charge she will analyze skin and make-up problems.

ON ERRORS

WHY is it that when a newspaper prints an item that it wants the public to read, a lot of people who claim to be careful readers of the paper insist they didn't see it?

On the other hand, why is it that when a mistake is made in some item every subscriber of the paper and some who don't take the paper see it right away?

It suggests that perhaps the way to insure an item being read by someone is to deliberately make an error in it.

Student Dies In Highway Crash

PLAINVIEW, March 2 (Special)—Bobby Terrell Stringfellow, 22-year-old Texas Tech student from Mexia, was killed, and another student seriously injured early Wednesday morning when their car smashed into the rear of a cattle-laden truck tractor-trailer on U. S. highway 87, five miles south of Plainview.

Alonzo Laurell Inderman, 25, of Teague, driver of the car in which Stringfellow was a passenger, was rushed to a Plainview hospital where his injuries were said to be a broken leg, cuts, bruises and abrasions.

First Traffic Fatality

The accident, resulting in Hale county's first traffic fatality for the year, brought to nine the number of persons to die by violence on the South Plains since Saturday night. Five of the victims were traffic fatalities, while four were victims of slayings.

Stringfellow's body was taken to M. W. Lemons Funeral home of Plainview.

Thomas Richardson, 32, of Sweetwater, driver of the truck, was not injured. His truck was not damaged much.

Richardson told John Strother, state highway patrolman, he was driving southward at from 20 to 30 miles an hour in a heavy fog when he was rammed. The accident occurred at 2:30 a. m. The car was virtually demolished.

Did Not See Truck

Strother, assisted in his investigation by Capt. Joe Baker, J. T. Sanderson and Delbert Ballew of the Plainview police, was informed by Inderman that the driver did not see the truck until too late to avoid collision. Inderman said he and Stringfellow were returning to Lubbock from Amarillo at the time, and driving approximately 45 miles an hour. He gave his Lubbock address as 2434 Twenty-fourth.

The Plainview police officers immediately set up a patrol over the wreck vicinity to protect other motorists approaching on the heavily-traveled route.

Strother said the rear of the semi-trailer bed crushed Stringfellow's head, just above the eyes.

Condition Is Good

At the hospital it was announced that Inderman's condition was considered "good under circumstances."

The truck's damage was listed only as to a spring and to a light.

Stringfellow, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Stringfellow of Mexia, was a senior petroleum geology student in Tech. He was graduated in 1946 from Mexia High school, and had been enrolled in Tech since. He was a member of the Presbyterian church, and lived in men's dormitory 3. His father is employed by an oil company.

Inderman, a veteran of three and a half years as an automatic rifleman in the infantry, in the Asiatic-Pacific theater, is a sophomore history major, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Inderman of Teague. He participated in two battle campaigns and one assault landing, and holds the purple heart, friends in Lubbock said.

Stringfellow's body will be taken overland to Mexia Thursday morning by Lemons ambulance, and funeral services are scheduled there for 2:30 p.m. Friday. Burial will be at Valley Mills, the funeral home said.

Survivors, in addition to the parents, include one brother, Billy Stringfellow, who lives with the parents at Mexia.

Navy To Experiment With Rocket Missiles

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 2 (INS) The converted seaplane tender Norton Sound was enroute to "equatorial waters" today to launch the navy's program of experimental rocket firing into the upper atmosphere.

The announcement from the Eleventh Naval district at San Diego said that the test firing will mark the first major attempt the Navy has made to enter the rocket field.

In 1947 a captured German V-2 rocket was fired from the deck of the aircraft carrier Midway. The Navy said that the earlier test was not satisfactory.

Muleshoe Negro Residence Is Nearly Destroyed By Fire

MULESHOE, March 2. (Special) A four-room box construction residence and furnishings in the negro residential area was practically destroyed by fire early Wednesday night. No one was in the house at the time.

A preliminary estimate placed the loss at approximately $1,000. The house was owned by Tom Ammons, negro groceryman, and had been rented to Mettie Williams, negro woman, who had moved some furniture into the house.

The blaze, which was discovered about 6:45 p.m., was believed to have started from either an oil stove or a short circuit in electrical wiring, according to Bill Booth, Muleshoe fire chief.

Montana Solon Urges Creation Of Missouri Valley Authority

WASHINGTON, March 2 (U.P.)—James E. Murray, (D-Mont) today introduced a bill to create a Missouri valley authority to supervise the development of the "great economic resources and tremendous potential wealth" of the Missouri basin.

Murray said such an authority is necessary "to harness the mighty Missouri river, stop the periodic ravages (of floods) in the territory, and put the river to work for the benefit of all people."

Thirteen senators, many of them from the West and Midwest, joined Murray in sponsoring the bill. Two of them, Sens. Guy M. Gillette, (D-Ia), and Hubert H. Humphrey, (D-Minn), also spoke in support of it.

Called National Problem

In his own speech, Murray said: "Here is the greatest river basin the United States. Control and development of the Missouri river is not a local problem; it is a national problem."

He said the MVA he proposes would be modeled after the Tennessee Valley authority and the Bonneville Power administration on the Columbia river.

Like TVA, the proposed Missouri Valley authority would supervise the construction and operation of projects for flood control, power generation, soil conservation, forest preservation and irrigation.

Unified Attack Urged

Under present law, federal development of the basin is controlled by two agencies — the Army Engineers corps and the Interior department's Reclamation bureau.

But after years of federal effort in the area, Murray said, "the big Missouri is less tamed than ever before."

"Only a unified attack on the manifold problems of resources development and control will accomplish what is essential to the future of the area," he said.

Murray said that a unified development of the area "will provide a foundation which a virile American free enterprise system can expand and develop with an assured future.

"It will create new wealth, attract new populations, raise the standard of living. It will do much to stabilize our economy at full employment, full-use-of-resources levels. . .

Proposal Is Outlined

"Here is the effective and silencing answer to those false prophets who would create despair of our future and spread the deadening blight of Communist dissension amongst us. Here is something big worth working together to accomplish."

The Murray bill would:

1. Set up a board of five directors, three of whom would be Missouri basin residents.

2. Create the post of general manager of the Missouri Valley authority.

3. Call for development of an MVA plan "as expeditiously as possible." (This plan would have to be approved by Congress before any funds were authorized.)

4. Create an advisory board of 12 citizens representing agriculture, labor, commerce, industry and recreation. Additional members would come from the federal agencies concerned with the project. Governors of the 10 Missouri basin states would constitute a special committee to advise and cooperate with MVA directors.

In his speech, Murray described the existing Pick-Sloan program for Missouri river development as "outmoded and piecemeal."

Gillette said the present river development plan is neither "unified nor practical."

Humphrey said the MVA would help combat monopoly in such fields as light metals and fertilizer.

Second Smallpox Case In Week Reported In Rio Grande Valley

EDINBURG, March 2 (U.P.) — The lower Rio Grande valley today has its second smallpox case in a week and plans for widespread vaccination of school children were in the making.

Vaccine units for 4000 persons was enroute to Rio Grande City.

Second smallpox victim was a 30-year-old oilfield worker from Starr county, brought to Edinburg's Grandview hospital. His condition was reported serious. He had been ill for several days before his ailment was diagnosed.

Dr. Robert Hale, head of the Hidalgo county health unit, reported 160 residents of the oil field camp where the victim lived had been vaccinated.

First valley case of the dread disease was reported last week at Rio Hondo in Cameron county. Dr. Claude A. Selby, Cameron county health director, said he believed it was carried in by migrant farm workers.

Laredo Publisher To Receive Mexican Journalists' Medal

MEXICO CITY, March 2. (AP)—Mexican newspapermen will give a medal March 8 to William Prescott Allen, Laredo publisher.

The Mexican division of United American journalists will present the medal in a ceremony here. Efrain S. Hidalgo, head of the Mexican division, said the presentation will be made because of Allen's "outstanding work in bringing Mexican and U. S. journalists closer together." Hidalgo recalled that Allen has been coming to Mexico frequently since 1942 and has many friends in the Mexican newspaper world.

The publisher of the Laredo Times already holds two Mexican government decorations. He was the first foreigner to receive both the Medal of Military Merit and the Order of the Aztec Eagle. The new decoration he will receive is the "Medal of the United American Journalists."

Prize Oklahoma Sow Produces Two Litters Five Days Apart

NORMAN, Okla., March 2 (U.P.)—Any dice player who has rolled two lucky sevens in quick succession can understand the elation of hog breeder D. A. Ellexson.

Ellexson's prize hog, a registered Duroc sow named "Red," produced two litters only five days apart—and each included seven pigs.

"Maybe she's trying to steal the headlines from the cow in the silo," said Ellexson, who runs the farm in partnership with Oklahoma City oilman Robert Rucker.

"She's the most beautiful hog we've got. An auburn number with a permanent wave."

The two litters, the first born Feb. 24 and the second Tuesday, included nine gilts and five boars —"that's nine girls and five boys to you," Ellexson explained.

The hog rancher said Red's performance was the first such incident he ever heard of, and he's been raising hogs or teaching agriculture for 20 years.

"Litters of 14 pigs are not unusual," said the breeder, "but having them spread over a five day interval certainly is."

The increase is retroactive to Nov. 15. The present contract was extended to next Nov. 1.

State Tourney Opens Today

Shallowater Is Meet Darkhorse

AUSTIN, March 2 (AP) — The boys from the crossroads open the twenty-ninth annual state high school basketball tournament tomorrow.

Big Sandy (Livingston), the prevailing Class B favorite, opens the three-day tournament with Woodsboro at 8:45 a.m. as preliminary games in Conference B and A monopolize first-day play.

New champions are assured in all three divisions. Crozier Tech (Dallas) the 1948 conference AA titlist, has graduated to the City Conference, and Mount Vernon and Maydelle, the Class A and B winners respectively, fell along the wayside this year.

Class AA first-round play starts Friday afternoon after semi-finals games in A and B have been completed. The AA semi-finals are Saturday morning and championship and consolation games in all divisions are scattered throughout the day and night Saturday.

Shallowater Meets Slidell

Following the Big Sandy-Woodsboro opener, Shallowater plays Slidell at 10:10 a.m., Waelder meets Gustine at 11:30 a.m. and Marfa engages Martin's Mill at 1:45 p.m.

The Class A schedule is Coleman vs Memphis at 3:10 p.m., Madisonville vs Gastone (Joinerville) at 4:35 p.m., Uvalde vs French (Beaumont) at 7:15 p.m. and Nocona vs Lampasas at 8:40 p.m.

In Class B regular season play, Big Sandy won 41 games and dropped one to a Louisiana team and averaged 49 points throughout the season. However, Marfa (23-2) and Martin's Mill (29-7), the conquerer of Maydelle and several metropolitan Dallas and Fort worth teams, may decide the winner in first-round play.

Shallowater, a power-laden West Texas Team, is the Class B darkhorse with a 46-4 record, and Waelder has a fine 36-1 mark. The season records of the others are Woodsboro (23-5), Slidell (32-5), and Gustine (20-2).

Hectic Race Seen

The Class A race is sure to be hectic with the teams apparently evenly matched. Lampasas (41-3) and Gaston (24-6) are the favorites, but some support is swinging to French (22-4). The Beaumont team holds a split series with Port Arthur, the Region's AA representative to the meet.

Records of the others are Nocona (16-7), Coleman (24-4), Uvalde (23-3), Memphise (26-5) and Madisonville (23-7).

In Class AA, Bowie of El Paso is rated a strong tournament favorite with Lubbock, a slight favorite to reach the finals in the tough lower bracket.

Lubbock To Leave For Austin Today

Lubbock's Westerners went through their last practice before leaving for the state tournament Wednesday afternoon at Chapman field house.

A special bus carrying the boys and Coach Roy Morris is expected to leave at 9 o'clock this morning from Chapman fieldhouse and arrive in Austin at approximately 7 tonight.

In their first game, the Westerners are scheduled to meet a powerful Highland Park quintet of Dallas. The loser of this game is automatically out of the tournament. In case Lubbock wins, a second game will be played against the winner of the Austin-Brownwood match in the semi-finals, Saturday morning. The final game in Class AA will begin at 9:15 Saturday night.

Coach Morris is not counting on winning the first game too easily, and said Monday that he had heard that nearly all the teams going to the state tournament would be strong contenders for the championship. An hour practice session will be held in Gregory gym tonight at 10 o'clock in order that the team can familiarize itself with the court and get used to the glass backboards.

Pacing the Westerners will be the regulars with Charles Galey and Jimmy Sexton at forwards, Jim Wilson at center, and Blair Hankins and Bob Rooker at the guard posts.

The squad making the trip includes those mentioned above and Tom Cheatam, Jearl Pierce, Jack Hensley, Jessie Fullerton, Garnet Reeves, Neil Sikes and Morris Turner.

Also making the trip are Coach Bill Floyd, E. J. Lowrey, and Tyler Curtis, photographers for the high school year book.

Roscoe Wilson Drops K. Carter School In Softball Loop Tilt

In a public schools softball league game Wednesday, Roscoe Wilson defeated K. Carter, 10-8, in the last half of the ninth inning.

With two men out, Dave Allen stepped up to the plate and knocked in the winning runs for Roscoe Wilson. Bob Welch received credit for the victory on the mound, and Tommy Sewell was the catcher.

HE STOPPED FOE'S FAST BREAK

Blair Hankins Rated Defensive Standout On Westerner Quintet

By AL WILLIAMS
Avalanche Sports Writer

A defensive standout on the Westerner basketball team this year is Blair Hankins, guard.

For the season the Westerners scored an average of 43.3 points per game and held their opponents to a mere 28.4 per game average. And Hankins deserves credit for his part in the defensive performance.

The slim, 6-foot, 1-inch senior scored only 20 points this year in district games but he didn't shoot too much, being instructed to play back to guard against a fast break by the opposing team. Nevertheless, Hankins developed a fine one-handed push shot.

Came Here In 1944

Hankins is another team member who moved to Lubbock during his high school days. He came here in 1944 as a sophomore and lettered on the sophomore team in track and football and in football the junior year. Last year he received a letter in basketball.

Other than basketball, Hankins lists hunting and fishing as hobbies, but he hasn't found much to hunt since coming out here. He is another of the basketballers who took up the harmonica on road trips.

Beating Amarillo three times in one year, twice in district and once in the Borger tournament, was the biggest thrill he received in high school athletics, but ranking alongside this triple killing was the victory over Pampa that gave the Westerners their first district championship in five years and set the stage for the state tournament trip, the first in 21 years.

Blistered feet and a weak knee have hampered his play this year, not that it is too noticeable, and he wears an elastic knee guard. Earlier in the season shin splints slowed him down.

He is very aggressive and speedy and on defensive keeps his arms moving constantly to block passes and to try to steal the ball away from his opponent.

In high school work he has maintained almost a "B" average, but the last semester solid geometry proved a little too deep, and he fell down considerably below that mark in that subject.

For college work, Hankins has almost decided on civil engineering. In his own words, "I like architectural drawing and in civil engineering I won't be cooped up all the time. I can work outside and inside too."

The choice of the college he hopes to attend has not been decided definitely yet, and he hopes to be able to continue his athletics in addition to the regular college work if he can get a suitable scholarship.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Hankins live at 2221 Fifteenth, and they are interested in athletics as much as their son.

First Trip To Meet Recalled

It was pretty rough sledding moving a team 400 miles to a basketball tournament back in 1928, and some of the men who made the first trip to the state finals for the Westerners that year still remember it.

After winning 10 straight games in conference play, the Lubbock boys lost their first game in the state finals to Cisco (Big Dam) Lobos, 33-20. One of the main reasons for defeat was the trip to Austin.

The principle thing lacking that year was money. People didn't go in much for basketball, and they didn't support the team. However, one exhibition game was played with Ralls, a power then, but it wasn't nearly enough to cover expenses.

The transportation problem was partially solved when the manager of the old super service filling station, a man named Mansell, loaned Coach Dell Morgan two cars in which to make the trip.

Had Car Trouble

One was an old Packard which gave them trouble from the beginning of the trip and finally quit running this side of Fredericksburg. It had to be towed into Fredericksburg with a piece of wire taken from a fence alongside the road. Flat tires and dirt roads further complicated matters.

Hotel accommodations were obtained in Fredericksburg about 3:30 a. m., Coach Morgan related, but the manager almost changed his mind when one of the team members, Raymond Ater, accidently broke a glass door on a landing leading up to the rooms. And the team had to leave early the next morning in time to reach Austin, arriving shortly before game time with no time to rest before the contest.

To make things worse, Lewis L. Walker sprained his ankle and Ernest Dowell had an infected foot which swelled badly on the trip back to Lubbock.

In those days the teams used a more deliberate offense, and moved the ball down court slowly and methodically. Lubbock used a faster attack, however. Most of the defense was zone, and this helped to slow down the game.

Team Handpicked

The Lubbock team virtually was handpicked and was comprised of members from the small country schools around here. Several of the boys roomed together, and jobs were obtained for those who had to work their way through high school.

Henry Frnka, now football coach at Tulane, helped organize the team the year before, and Morgan coached them into the state finals.

Nine men made the trip to Austin. The members were Raymond Ater, Ernest Dowell, Haden Moody, Cecil Kelsey, H. A. Castleberry, Leslie Smith, Horace Kerr, Emmett Kerr, and Walker.

Cecil Kelsey led the scoring that year in the 10 regular games with 85 points. Moody had 70, Dowell scored 60, Ater made 45, and Walker conected with 33.

The district was considered rough that year. Victories were registered over Canyon, Slaton, and Idalou in the county, and Hale Center, Seagraves, Floydada, and Ralls in the South Plains meet. Canyon fell to Lubbock in the bi-district playoff in two straight games.

Scot Quint Built From Reserves

(Special To The Avalanche)

DALLAS, March 2.—Highland Park's Scots, District 6-AA cage champions and Bi-District winners over Bonham, are mostly a bunch of B team graduates from last season.

Coach Ralph Binnion had two reserve lettermen, Bill Lynch and Sam Vilches, and a B team to work with when the season started.

The Scots won the district race the hard way, winning the first six conference tilts and clinching the title two weeks before the chase ended. They lost one district game, 39-38 to Denton, and finished the conference season with a record of seven victories against one defeat.

Have 15 Won Record

Highland Park has a record of 15 victories against five losses for the entire season. The Scots lost a couple to Paschal and one to Polytechnic of Fort Worth. They also were beaten by Crozier Tech of Dallas. The other defeat was the district loss to Denton.

Lynch, a six-foot, one-inch player, led the team in scoring with 93 points in eight conference games. It's an average of more than 11 points per game. Lynch also is a pillar on defense and one of the most effective ball stealers in the conference.

Vilches stands just as tall as Lynch, but is more versatile, playing either guard or forward and playing both well. He is a co-captain of the quintet. Vilches started the season at center, then moved to forward and finished at guard. He is a rebound artist and good defensively.

Baker Good Handler

The rest of the starting lineup includes Co-Captain James Baker, five-foot, 11-inch forward; Bill Farrell, five-feet, 11-inch guard or forward; and either Walton Miller or George Hurt, both also standing five-feet, 11 inches, at the other guard position.

Baker compiled a modest scoring record, but is a polished ball handler, good at fake passes and usually breaks the ice on a tight defense. Farrell is shifty, slow but accurate in his shooting and specializes in fancy crip shots. Miller and Hurt both are good pinch shots and stellar defensemen.

Capable reserves include Bill Crawford, Buddy Baird, Louis Weber, Charles Mith and John Butler.

BERLIER, CURL TO MEET

HOUSTON, March 2 (AP)—Whitey Berlier of New Orleans and Jimmy Curl of San Antonio will appear on the supporting card here March 16 when Joe Louis and Elmer (Violet) Ray meet in an exhibition bout. All are heavyweights. The Berlier-Curl bout will be a 10-round affair.

Charles, Walcott Make Agreements

Promoter Louis Signs Top Fight Figures

MIAMI, Fla., March 2 (AP)—Promoter Joe Louis, who learned about contracts from Mike Jacobs, revealed today he had tied up the NBA-version of the heavyweight championship for his International Boxing Club by exclusive two-year agreements with Ezzard Charles and Jersey Joe Walcott.

"Charles or Walcott, whichever wins in June, has agreed to fight only for us for two years," said Louis on his return from another exhibition at Nassau. "That was part of the deal by which they will fight for the title. The winner has to fight either Lee Savold or Gus Lesnevich in 90 days."

When Louis won his crown from Jim Braddock in 1937 he signed a 10-year exclusive with Uncle Mike. That contract was a most important factor in the rise to power of Jacobs' 20th Century Sporting Club.

Louis appears to be in the promotional game to stay with the substantial financial backing of his new partners, Arthur M. Wirtz and James D. Norris.

"I'll handle the big bouts," said the retired champ, "I will suggest the matches I think are the best. We'll still work with the local matchmakers in each city when we come in. We don't want to hurt anybody."

Louis sent out a batch of wires and air mail letters today, informing all promoters and matchmakers of his official retirement. He told them all to expect to hear from him soon.

"We don't want any fight with Mike Jacobs," said Louis when informed of Jacobs' decision to return to active direction of the 20th Century. "There ought to be room in New York for more than one promoter."

Actually the new organization has enormous resources to finance any prolonged war with other boxing promoters. It controls five arenas and already has the skeleton of a local staff in operation.

The James D. Norris who is one of the three partners in the International Boxing Club is the son of James Norris, Chicago grain operator. Wirtz, the third partner with Louis, is a partner with the two Norris men in a vast midwest entertainment empire. Norris, Sr., is not officially connected with the boxing venture. He is a director and "substantial" stockholder in Madison Square Garden, where Jacobs operates.

Goelz Downs O'Dowdy In Main Event

Pat O'Dowdy didn't make good his boast that he would use Bill Goelz as a stepping stone, losing two out of three falls in the main event last night at Sled Allen's arena before a sellout crowd.

Goelz won the last two falls after dropping the first one to O'Dowdy to bring the night's card to a close.

In the other two matches, Buck Weaver made his return a successful one by pinning Gorilla Poggi in the preliminary bout and Balk Estes had to be satisfied with a draw in his grapple against Olan Boynton.

Weaver, making his first appearance here in several years, pinned Poggi with a Hoosier neckbreaker after 12 minutes of good, fast wrestling.

Estes threw Boynton after 18 minutes of work in the first fall with an alligator clutch, but Boynton came back to take the second fall in 13 minutes with a backbreaker. The two wrestlers then went 14 minutes to a draw.

The main event had all the action that had been promised, with O'Dowdy intent on dealing out punishment. He took some while dishing it out, but had the best of a rough first round, which he won after 13 minutes with a series of head butts and body smother.

Goelz went out of the ring in the second fall, crawled under it and back into the ring on the opposite side, knocked O'Dowdy down and won with a body smother after four minutes of action.

The final fall went to Goelz on disqualification, after O'Dowdy had been named the winner. But the rowdy wrestler from Big Spring had blinded Goelz with some kind of liquid and Referee Boynton gave the fall to Goelz after one minute in the ring.

Mel Patton Will Return To Track

LOS ANGELES, March 2 (INS)—Mel Patton, one of the greatest sprinters in the history of Southern California, announced tonight that he would return to the cinder path.

Patton, who won the 200 meters in the Olympics, retired from track activity six weeks ago to go into business with his father-in-law.

However, after working since last Jan. 18 at his father-in-law's plant, the Allied-Matrix company, he changed his mind about taking up a business career as a life work.

He said he decided to take up physical training as a career and in pursuance of that goal intended to return to Southern California for track competition.

Patton will graduate at the end of this semester.

Before his graduation, however, he'll be able to compete in dual meets, Pacific Coast Conference championships in Seattle and the National Championships in Memorial Coliseum. He intends to pass up the Fresno, Coliseum and Modesta relays.

Patton, called the fastest human in the world, is national champion of the 100 and 200 meters and holds the official world record for the 100-yards, 9.3 seconds.

Patton, because of his layoff, does not figure to be in condition until the middle of April. The first meet in which he should compete is the dual meet between USC and California at the Coliseum April 23.

Raiders, Abilene Tangle Tonight

Winner Of NAIB Game Here Will Meet Quintet From East Texas In Finals

Basketball practice at Texas Tech, which hasn't been stopped even though the regular season ended Saturday night, was resumed yesterday with added intensity.

For in Tech gym tonight at 8, the Red Raiders meet Abilene Christian college in a semi-final game of the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball tournament. The winner of this game meets a team from East Texas and that winner goes to the national tournament.

Ducat Prices Announced

Tech's athletic council met yesterday morning to decide on the price of tickets. Since this is not a regularly scheduled season game and the tournament is under the direction of the NAIB, student activity tickets are not good to the game.

RAIDER RESERVE — Wayne Bowles has been one of Texas Tech's most dependable reserves this year. He was stepped into the lineup to replace almost anyone and has done a good job. The tall player is recognized as a fine shot, as well as a good defensive man.

Tech and ACC students will be admitted for 75 cents each and tickets for the public will sell at $1.20 each. Tickets go on sale today at the athletic office in Tech gym at 2 p.m. Half of the profits must go to the NAIB.

The Red Raiders, going on the assumption that it would be wise to be ready if a bid to participate in the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball tournament was extended, never put their suits away. Instead, Coach Polk Robison worked them lightly Monday and Tuesday.

Then late Tuesday afternoon, word was received that the Raiders would meet Abilene Christian college here Thursday night in a semi-final round NAIB tournament game. That was the only impetus needed to send the Raiders into strenuous practice.

Yesterday's drill primarily was to polish the Raider offensive ability. No violent changes this late in the season are planned and Coach Robison will stick with the style of play that carried the Raiders to 17 victories in 25 starts. Tech finished the Border Conference season in second place for the second successive year, highest finish of any Texas member.

Miller Extends Invite

On the basis of that, the Raiders were extended a formal invitation to participate in the NAIB playoffs, the bid coming from Coach Gus Miller of West Texas State Teachers college, NAIB area chairman.

Other teams in the four-team tournament are representatives of the Texas Conference, the Lone Star Conference and Texas independent colleges.

If Tech beats ACC tonight, a meeting will be held with representatives of the winning East Texas team to decide, by coin flip, site of Saturday night's final game. The winner of that game will leave immediately for Kansas City, Mo., and the national tournament, which opens Monday.

Coach Robison tonight will depend on the usual 12-man squad, with his probable starting lineup consisting of Gene Gibson and Whistle Banks, forwards; Don Grove, center; and Ardis Barton, Wimpy Hill or Jiggs Jackson, guards.

Boxing Event At Plainview Set March 9

PLAINVIEW, March 2 (Special)—Entries are pouring into the Plainview Junior Chamber of Commerce office in a near record proportion, as ameteur boxers hasten to enter the Plainview Jaycee invitational boxing tournament here March 9 through March 12.

Deadline for entering is 5 p.m. March 9, at which hour all entrants must have secured their physical examinations and gone through weighing-in here.

Two team trophies are being awarded, one to the high school champion and one to the open division winner. Both divisions will run from flyweight through heavyweight.

So far 15 cities have indicated that they will have entries in either the open or high school divisions and, in some cases, in both. In addition to Plainview, entries have come from Lockney, Olton, Wellington, Dalhart, Floydada, Tahoka, Hale Center, Petersburg, Amarillo, Lakeview, Canyon, Idalou, Lubbock and Wichita Falls.

Wichita Falls will bring its entire open team, the same one that represented that city at the state Golden Gloves meet. They also will have nine boys in the school division.

Lubbock will not have a team in the open division, but Gene James, three-time Golden Glove regional champ and semi-finalist in this year's state tournament, will enter. His competition will come from Bill Thompson of Lockney, Amarillo regional winner, Joe Epperson of Dalhart and Glenn Spruell of Wichita Falls.

The light heavyweight division will be one of the best, with Doug Beedy of Plainview, Lubbock winner, Alex Perez of Amarillo, G. H. Bryand of Wichita Falls and T. A. Anderson of Dalhart on hand.

The Jaycee office announced today that 121 entries had been received so far and they are anticipating 150 before the deadline next Wednesday.

Mrs. Fenner Tubbs Takes Low Medalist Honors At Country Club

Mrs. Fenner Tubbs took low medalist honors at Lubbock Country club Wednesday over the 18 hole course at the regular meeting of the Womens Golf Association, and Mrs. John Markham had the low score putting over the route.

Low net score over the shorter nine holes was carded by Mrs. Harry Holcomb. Mrs. Wayne Prather, Mrs. Chick Trout, and Mrs. E. S. Hall tied for low putting honors.

Discussion of the West Texas Ladies tournament here June 14-19 was the main business at the meeting at 2 o'clock, and the local club is making plans and drawing up rules to govern the meet.

Chandler To Hold Hearing On Park Dispute Of Browns, Cards

How Things Look At Spring Camps

SARASOTA, Fla., March 2. (AP)—Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler said today he would conduct a hearing on the dispute between the St. Louis Cardinals and Browns over Sportsman's Park.

He did not say when the hearing would be held.

The Browns notified the Cardinals Monday they could not use Sportsman's Park after April 1. The two clubs have been feuding for some time over use of the park.

The Browns have asked more rental money for use of the park.

Chandler explained "Both clubs made representations to come for a hearing."

SARASOTA, Fla., March 2. (AP)—The three big question marks of the Boston Red Sox — Tex Hughson, Dave (Boo) Ferriss and lefty Mickey Harris—took five minute turns on the mound in batting practice today as Manager Joe McCarthy sent the team through its second drill of the spring training season.

The trio, who last year could win only a total of 17 games, appeared loose and limber and McCarthy was pleased by their performances.

TAMPA, Fla., March 2. (AP)—Pitcher Harry Gumbert and President Warren Giles of the Cincinnatti Reds failed today to reach an agreement on salary.

Gumbert is one of the few unsigned Reds but he showed up in camp yesterday. Today he and Giles talked at Plant field but still were far apart on terms. Gumbert, who won 10 and lost eight last year, is seeking a salary boost.

BURBANK, Calif., March 2. (AP)—Second baseman Gerry Priddy was the lone holdout in a squad of 44 St. Louis Browns today, but there was no indication of an agreement in his case.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 2. (AP)—Sam Chapman has discarded the glasses he wore last year—and can see better.

"Doctors went over my eyes three times during the winter," said the Philadelphia Athletics outfielder, "and just before I came here for training, they told me my vision was perfect—as good as it ever was. I won't be wearing glasses this year."

BRADENTON, Fla., March 2. (AP)—Outfielder Pete Reiser, acquired from the Brooklyn Dodgers in an offseason deal, today featured a Boston Braves practice session with a fancy slugging exhibition.

One of his drives struck the left field clubhouse wall 380 feet from the plate.

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., March 2 (AP)—Manager Bill Meyer of the Pittsburgh Pirates was a bit irked today when slugger Ralph Kiner failed to show up for the second day of spring training.

Kiner previously informed the club he would miss the open day's drills but he had been expected today. Also absent were Johnny Hopp and Dixie Walker.

DOCTOR OPTIMISTIC ABOUT CLIPPER

DiMaggio Rejoining Yanks After Injured Heel Declared All Right

BALTIMORE, March 2. (INS)—Joe DiMaggio got a quick heel examination from Johns Hopkins specialist Dr. George Bennett today, and left by train for New York with prospects bright he will lose no playing time.

The famous $90,000-a-year "Yankee Clipper" flew from St. Petersburg, where the Yanks are training, for a session with Dr. Bennett, who said he was "optimistic" about Joe's condition.

DiMaggio will take off by plane from New York tomorrow for Florida, where he will resume training with the Yankees.

The slugging New Yorker hastened to Baltimore today when there was recurrence of pain in the heel which was operated on last November.

Fears Are Groundless

It was at first feared that DiMaggio might be hospitalized and lose part of the spring training. There also was the possibility that unless the ailment became better, DiMaggio, Yankee mainstay in the 1949 pennant campaign, might be forced to spend some time on the bench.

Bennett, who was Joe's physician last year, issued a cheering statement. The physician said:

"I think DiMaggio is going to be all right."

When reporters asked Bennett whether DiMaggio was going to resume training, the surgeon replied:

"He is going back and try it."

Two yeras ago DiMaggio was rushed to Johns Hopkins because of a similar recurrence of pain in his left heel, following an operation.

Yankees Are Worried

That mishap kept him out of spring training and he was unable to return to the line up until the season was a week old. During the campaign the heel continued to bother him, but it gradually returned to form last year.

In 1948 the Clipper incurred the spur on his right heel. It handicapped his running but he insisted on staying in the lineup and wound up the season with a .320 batting average.

News of the new injury to the star, who signed a month ago for a reported $95,000 per season, cast a pall over the afternoon workout of the Yankees. Players refused to believe there could be much wrong with the ace, but they gathered in groups anxiously wondering what would happen to their chances if DiMaggio would have to be operated on again.

Morley Jennings Is Named To NCAA Court Committee

CHICAGO, March 2. (AP)—Two changes were made today in the sixth district basketball selection committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Arthur C. Lonberg, Northwestern university, chairman of the NCAA selection committees, said James Stewart, Dallas, Tex., commissioner of the Southwest Conference, and Morley Jennings, Texas Tech, has been named to replace Gene Lambert, Arkansas, and F. J. McKale, University of Arizona, whose teams remain in contention for the sixth district choice.

British Promoter Will Stage Heavyweight Fight Extravaganza

LONDON, March 2 (AP)—Boxing promoter Jack Solomons promised today to stage the biggest fight in history—with 150,000 spectators—as the London version of the next world heavyweight title scrap.

Solomons said he would hold the bouts outdoors in Hyde Park, located in the center of London, next September unless the government disapproves.

His fighters would be Lee Savold of Paterson, N. J., who is under contract to him, and the winner of the June 2 bout here between Bruce Woodcock, British Empire European heavyweight champion, and Freddie Mills, world light heavyweight titleholder.

WARD WANTS PRO JOB

SPOKANE, March 2 (AP)—Marvin (Bud) Ward, former National Amateur golf champion, said today he had applied for a job as professional at the Walla Walla country club. "If I don't get it," he said, "I will continue as an amateur."

Kentucky Team Accepts NIT Bid

NEW YORK, March 2. (AP)—Western Kentucky and Bradley today joined Kentucky and St. Louis in the National Basketball Tournament field.

This will be the fourth appearance in the N. I. T. for both Bradley and Western Kentucky. Their acceptances were announced by Asa Bushnell, chairman of the tournament's selection committee.

Only four more berths are left to be filled for the March 12-14-17-19 show in Madison Square Garden. The vacancies are expected to be filled before the week is over.

City College of New York (17-5) and Manhattan College (17-7) clash in the Garden tomorrow with the victor virtually assured of a place in the tourney.

San Francisco (21-5) and Utah (22-6) are almost certain to receive bids. San Francisco, eighth ranking team nationally, has finished its season but Utah is involved in a three-day battle for the Big Six crown. If Utah wins its league championship it may be bound to participate in the N.C.A.A. tourney as district seven's representative.

Also believed to be in the running are Loyola of Chicago (21-5), North Carolina State (22-8), Villanova (18-3) and Bowling Green (21-6).

Western Kentucky (25-3) is ranked sixth nationally.

Bradley (25-5) clinched its invitation by defeating Oklahoma A. and M.'s second ranked quintet, 35-31, Monday. The Braves are rated tenth in the country.

Kentucky, of course, is the top ranked quintet in the nation. The Wildcats (25-1) are shooting for a grand slam of both the N.C.A.A. and N.I.T. meets. St. Louis (19-3) is ranked third.

McKINNON PACES MEET

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., March 2 (AP)—A newcomer produced the fireworks today in opening round match play of the South Atlantic Women's Golf tournament. Betty McKinnon of Mt. Pleasant, Texas, making her first visit to Florida, set a new record of 69 for women in defeating Mrs. Betty Bush of Hammond, Ind., 4 and 3.

FIRST TEAM TO REACH SEMI-FINALS

Lon Morris Gains 46-44 Victory Over San Angelo In Junior Meet

COLLEGE STATION, March 2 Lon Morris gained a 46-44 victory over San Angelo's Rams today to become the first team to reach the semi-finals of the second annual State Junior College Basketball Tournament.

Jackie Henderson's free throw and Tony Soler's field goal in the last three minutes of play were the deciding factor.

The short and speedy Bearcats meet Tyler Thursday. Tyler won tonight, 83-36, over Clifton college.

It was knotted at 37-37 and 43-43 before Henderson and Soler came through.

Lon Morris led, 27-22, at the half. Roy Burroughs of the winners topped scorers with 20 points.

In consolation games today, Howard County of Big Spring fought off Wharton County's strong finish to win a 51-50 thriller; Paris coasted past Frank Phillips of Borger, 50-29, and Blinn blasted Laredo, 63-43.

Clifton's small and plucky Cowboys never had a chance against the powerful Tyler quintet, which vaulted on top, 19-2, in the first five minutes.

Apache reserves took over at the 11-minute mark and made it 45-15 at halftime. Twelve Tyler players scored four or more points each as Bryan Miller, former All-State high player, led the way with 13.

Jimmy Carter's long shot in the last six seconds of play brought Amarillo a 42-42 deadlock with John Tarleton, then the Panhandle quintet won in overtime, 50-45, in a consolation bracket battle.

Amarillo led, 18-14, at the half but fell behind during the next ten minutes. Carter counted 20 points. Basham and Ball hit ten each for the Plowboys.

Austin College's Morrison On Spot

SHERMAN, March 2. (AP)—Ray Morrison is on a spot.

Looking out the window of his cheerless office in Austin college's great barn of a gymnasium, he said he knew it.

This is the man who took football in the southwest, dressed it in party clothes and turned it loose "razzle dazzle."

He's been at Austin college less than a week. He hasn't even seen what his 1949 team will look like in uniform. He doesn't know how many boys he'll have out. Or what they can do.

Morrison gave football a new twist in the twenties. He took a Southern Methodist university team to West Point. He lost this Army game. But he left an imprint in the east as firm as he did in his own backyard—the Southwest and Texas. He did it with a team that passed.

He coached Southern Methodist university to three Southwest Conference championships. He turned out some fine Vanderbilt teams and at Temple university (Philadelphia) he produced some others. He had no sensational teams during his eight-year reign at Temple. There was the draft and the war. Both hit the U. S. shortly after he went to Temple from Vanderbilt in 1940.

He left Southern Methodist in 1934 to go to Vanderbilt, his alma mater. He spent 18 years at SMU, 1915 until 1921, when he went to Vanderbilt for a year. But he was back at SMU in 1922 and stayed until 1934.

Sixteen Horses Die In Lexington Fire

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 2 (INS)—Sixteen thoroughbred racehorses burned to death today in an explosion and fire in a 26-stall barn at Clifford Mooers' Walnut Springs farm near Lexington.

Four two-year-olds in training, nine weanings, two broodmares and a lead pony perished in the flames which followed a blast believed to have been caused by ignition of a quantity of liniment in the barn. Total loss was set by farm manager Waller Jones at over $200,000.

Mooers, who also operates horse farms in Texas, is the owner of Old Rockport, recent surprise victor in the $100,000 Santa Anita derby for three-year-olds.

Officials To Study Water Project

ing the project most vigorously seemed to be whether there would be sufficient demand for the water, if available. Hopes are that the Plainview conference may go far toward providing assurance that the water, if available, would be used.

Group Spearheads Drive

Participants in the conference here included Harry Burleigh, area chief for the reclamation service; John McCarty, Amarillo public relations counsel, president of the Panhandle Water Conservation authority; and the following from Lubbock: Mayor W. H. Rodgers; City Commissioners W. B. Price and Clarence Whiteside; County Judge Walter Davies; City Manager Steve Matthews; City Engineer R. L. Oldham; Joe Nislar, chairman of the city water resources board; B. C. D. President Grant, and Jim Crook, assistant manager of the chamber of commerce.

The specific purpose of McCarty's visit here was to invite Lubbock and all other South Plains counties desiring to affiliate with the Panhandle Water Conservation authority.

The authority, it was explained, is spearheading the fight for the Canadian river development, which would require congressional approval, as the first step; an appropriation of huge but undetermined amount, as the second step, and then actual construction.

Agency Claimed Needed

Mayor Rodgers and Commissioners Price and Whiteside gave prompt assurance of their desire to cooperate with the authority in every way possible.

However, since the authority was created by legislative enactment in 1937, an amendment to the act would be necessary to permit the inclusion of additional counties. The membership now includes 32 counties, extending from the north Panhandle as far south as Hale. No difficulties are anticipated in the Texas Legislature in obtaining approval of an amendment which would include additional counties in the authority.

Burleigh said an agency like the authority should be invaluable in hastening a final decision on the Canadian project by providing a single contact for dealings with the reclamation service.

Time Is Short

He explained the service has until June 1—less than four months — to compile the information which is expected to show whether the Canadian project might reasonably be expected to be self liquidating. The time is so short, he added, that it is necessary to expedite all matters in connection with the project as much as possible.

Burleigh did not attempt to make any estimates of cost of any kind. Estimates won't be possible, he said, until he has some indication as to how many towns and cities might want water from the Canadian and as to the quantity each reasonably might be expected to take.

But, with this information at hand, he said, the reclamation service expects to estimate how much the whole project would cost, as well as the cost per 1,000 gallons for water delivered at the city limits of each participating community.

Plentiful Supply Seen

With these cost estimates before them, Burleigh pointed out, the officials of individual localities will be in better position to decide whether they would want to go into the project, binding themselves to buy fixed minimum quantities of water for long periods of time.

Figures also were indefinite as to how much water could be impounded in a Canadian reservoir.

"But there would be plenty for Lubbock, Amarillo and all other towns and cities in this territory for many years to come," McCarty declared positively. "This has been established beyond question by measurements of flow in the Canadian during many years."

Minimum Estimated

It was revealed, however, that a reservoir storing approximately 1,200,000 acre feet (an acre foot is approximately 325,000 gallons of water) is under consideration.

It was estimated further that a minimum of 30,000 acre feet a year would have to be sold for domestic and industrial purposes to make the project financially feasible.

Lubbock alone now uses around 10,000 acre feet a year — more than double the requirements of five years ago. The opinion was that Amarillo and Lubbock alone could easily guarantee a 30,000 acre foot minimum of sales.

No estimates have been reported as to what the maximum supply available from the Canadian might be. However, a reservoir holding 1,200,000 acre feet would contain nearly 50 times as much water as Lubbock and Amarillo combined used during the past year.

Figures likewise were lacking as to what the cost of the project might total. Estimates are that the dam and reservoir above would require an outlay of $20,000,000 to $25,000,000. Pipelines to various communities would add greatly to this cost.

However, a large part of the total cost—perhaps nearly half—would be charged off by the government for flood control, recreational development and other intangibles.

The government would expect repayment of the remainder, whatever it might total, within not more than 40 years. Funds for the repayment would have to come almost entirely from sales of water.

Those attending the meeting said it would be impossible to set a reliable time-table for developments which might take place in connection with the project.

But hopes are that authorization of the project might be obtained from Congress this year. The reclamation service then would draw detailed plans, with the hope that an appropriation to start construction might be obtained next year.

Burleigh expressed the opinion that the work could be finished in about three years after the start.

onstrates that through these newly-developed refueling techniques we can have our operative bases far ahead."

Rep. Mahon (D-Tex), chairman of the House Appropriations Subcommittee for the Armed Services, said "This is only the beginning of many sensational developments."

Mahon indicated that more sensational developments are in the immediate offing by declaring "this (the Luck Lady II) is not one of our top flight planes."

The Texan added that "in view of the President's program" he preferred to wait before making further comment.

Symington and Vandenberg made their statements after they arrived back in Washington from the Carswell base, Fort Worth, Texas, where the giant B-50 bomber completed its dramatic flight.

Earlier, the Air Force said that the momentuous flight is America's answer to the supreme challenge of the atomic era.

They pointed out that a B-50 last December made a 9,400-mile nonstop flight with three refueling contacts, and at the halfway point dropped a "sizeable useful load" of bombs.

The globe-girdling flight which ended today was hailed as proof to all the world that the United States can deliver atomic bombs on any target on the face of the earth.

Defense Secretary Forrestal was quick to call the global mission a "significant achievement."

Forrestal telegraphed his congratulations to Secretary Symington at Carswell Air Base and to Capt. James Gallagher of Melrose, Minn., the pilot of the history-making B-50, and his 13-man crew.

The globe-circling plane has a 141-foot wing span, is 99 feet long, and is 33 feet high at its highest point. Its gross weight is 60 tons and is powered by four Pratt and Whitney engines rated at 3,000-3,500 horsepower each.

The officially announced flight range is 6,000 miles with a 10,000-pound bomb load without refueling, and the top speed is about 400 miles per hour. The aircraft has a cruising speed of about 300 miles per hour.

order that they quit the American zone by March 1. They contended they would be deserting their post since their own superiors have not ordered them to leave.

It is believed the Russians can only hold out a short time because three servants said they had no drinking water.

Water, telephone, gas and electric services were shut off at 8:30 a. m. (1:30 a. m. CST) today at the order of Col. Sterling Wood, of Birmingham, Ala., the provost marshal.

"The President said I was right."

B-50 Completes World Flight

covered more than 23,450 miles.

The refuelings of the huge plane were made over the Azores, Saudi-Arabia, the Philippines and Hawaii.

Lt. Gen. Curtis Lemay, commander of the Strategic Air Force command, declared on completion of the flight:

"There is no reason why the United States cannot deliver an atom bomb any place in the world where it is necessary."

Lemay explained that "the refueling technique . . . can be utilized for mass bombing flights, depending upon a sufficient number of refueling ships."

Lemay said the technique—a military secret—was worked out especially for long B-50 flights.

Flight Schedule Given

The flight was classified by the Air Force as a training mission and part of a continuing program of in-flight refueling trips which will be flown to all parts of the world.

The giant bomber flew from Fort Worth to the Azores; to Dhahran, Saudi-Arabia; to the Philippine Islands; to Hawaii, and then to Fort Worth.

Army statiticians broke down the time schedule, with average speed, in the following divisions:

Fort Worth to Azores, 3,884 miles, time 15 hours 34 minutes; average speed 250 miles per hour.

To Dhahran, 9,189 miles, elapsed time 35 hours nine minutes; speed 270 mph.

To the Philippines, 14,178 miles, time 55 hours 39 minutes; speed 242 mph.

To Hawaii, 19,642 miles, time 78 hours 54 minutes; speed 242 mph.

Crew Is Named

The history-making plane was commanded by Capt. James Gallagher of Melrose, Minn.

The previous world non-stop flight record was 11,235 miles established by a Navy P-2-V during a flight in 1946 from Perth, Australia, to Columbus, Ohio.

The "Lucky Lady II" flew only 4,000 miles less than the circumference of the earth. The bomber's average speed was more than 249 miles per hour.

Air Secretary Symington and Gen. Vandenberg, chief of the Air Force, flew from Washington to greet the globe-girdling airmen.

The flight never was given an official code name. But the expression used in communications was "Scordo," which is a contraction of Strategic Air Command Coordinating officers.

Other members of the crew of the "Lucky Lady II" were:

Lt. Arthur M. Neal, Visalia, Cal., second pilot; Capt. James H. Morris, San Antonio, third pilot; Capt. Glenn E. Hacker, El Dorado, Kans., navigator; Lt. Earl L. Rigor, Corvallis, Ore., navigator; Lt. Roland B. Bonner, Bakersfield, Calif., radar officer.

Also, Lt. William F. Caffrey, Boston, radar officer; Flight Engineer Capt. David B. Parmelee, Guildford, Conn.; Ft. Engineer S-Sgt. Robert G. Davis, Niles, Mich.; Ft. Engineer T-Sgt. Virgil L. Young, Cranseville, Pa.

Also, Sgt. Burgess G. Cantrell, Pound, Va., radio officer; Sgt. Robert R. McLeroy, Alvarado, Texas, radio officer; Sgt. Melvin G. Davis, Long Beach, Cal., gunner; and Sgt. Donald G. Traugh, jr., Danville, Pa., gunner.

Three Persons Hurt In Auto Collision

Three persons were injured, none seriously, and one car was demolished in a collision of a 1949 Mercury and a 1949 Ford about 10:30 p. m. last night at Twenty-sixth and Ave. N.

Nolan Mowdy, 31, of 1520 Thirty-third, suffered an injury to his right shoulder. His Mercury automobile was considered "a total loss" after it was turned over by the force of the impact, "wrapping around" a small tree which was uprooted in the process.

Jon and Don Appling, both 19, of Slaton route 2, passengers in the Ford driven by J. M. Cain, 21, of Slaton were treated at West Texas hospital along with Mowdy. Jon was only bruised and lacerated, but his twin brother, Don, was believed to have suffered a fractured collar bone.

with a 78 percent support price. Instead the majority of committees replied farmers wanted 90 percent support.

Area Men Confer

Meanwhile, V. L. Cade, Lubbock member of the State Production and Marketing Administration committee, and B. F. Vance, chairman, College Station, conferred here today with Rep. Poage, regarding grain sorghum, cotton acreage limitation and the next wheat program for Texas.

The two had just come from completing a wheat conference at the Agriculture department.

They urged Poage to press for credit for Texas farmers for war crops such as grain sorghum in the House-Senate Conference committee on the cotton acreage control bill. Poage has considerable fight on this measure coming up in the Conference committee. The group has resubmitted this question largely through the efforts of Senator Clinton P. Anderson, New Mexico former secretary of agriculture, who maintains that a provision in the bill to give farmers credit for war crops will cut down the acreage which might now be planted to cotton in new cotton growing areas of far West Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California.

Adjustments of acreage planted to wheat were discussed at the departmental conference. With the surplus and price support program, some adjustment will be necessary, it is felt, although final decisions have not been made. Storage problems in Texas were also discussed in the double cutting had not been positively identified. A knife was found secreted in the X-ray table at the hospital, but no signs of blood were found on it.

No charges had been filed last night, officials said.

Burglaries Reported

Three burglaries of Lubbock business property were reported to police Wednesday, but nothing was taken in one of them, Southwestern Auto Supply company, at 1615 Ave. H.

Lee Jones' Phillips service station at 1619 Ave. H reported theft of $41.95 by a burglar who broke a south window of his station and reached in to fish the money out of a hiding place in an oil case.

Aztec Inn, at 2227 Nineteenth, was broken and entered, but intruders took only 40 pennies, approximately five packages of chewing gum, two cuts of pie, two slices of bread, and several after dinner mints, Bruce Kattman, proprietor, said.

Fine Is Assessed

County court officials said Mrs. Jim Norris had pleaded guilty of liquor law violation and been fined $150 and court costs.

The liquor control board said its inspectors had seized 108 four-fifths quarts of whisky and gin and 42 cans of beer in a raid in 1600-block Nineteenth, in connection with the case.

M. V. Ward, about 28, pleaded guilty of check law violation and County Judge Walter Davies assessed a fine of $25 and court costs, officials said.

$500 Bond Set

John Q. Lyon, 62, of Lubbock, pleaded innocent of drunk driving. Bond of $500 was set, County Attorney Waggoner Carr's records showed.

Albert Mitchell, 31, posted bond of $500 after pleading innocent of an aggravated assault complaint filed in the same court.

Phillip Gant, 26, a negro, posted $1,000 bond in connection with a felony theft complaint filed in the court of C. E. Lynn, justice of peace, it was announced at county jail.

To Testify Before Jury

Weldon Jack Horton, 20, a marine private who Tuesday was allowed suspension of a five-year sentence after pleading guilty of car theft, was surrendered to custody of Snyder officials, the sheriff's department said. He will testify before a March 21 Scurry county grand jury, Snyder officials said, in regard to a car theft investigation. A Garza county hold order naming him has been canceled, it further was related.

Raymond Shockey, 33, of Decatur, arrested here Tuesday by Chief Dep. Sheriff George Eubank and Dep. Sheriff Tom Cannon, was released to custody of Wise county officials who said he is under charge of desertion of five minor children whose ages range from 3 to 11.

Lee Mears of 2106 Twenty-sixth said two purses were pilfered of $21 when he was at a hospital.

Burglary Admitted

When Eubank and Dep. Sheriff Earl Horton routed James B. Jackson, 18, of route 7 out of bed Wednesday morning they took next-to-last steps in completely breaking a safe burglary tracing back to July 27, 1947, it was announced this afternoon by the district attorney's office.

E. G. Pharr, assistant district attorney, said Jackson had made a complete statement of admission of the burglary of Palace Skating rink. He related, Pharr and the county officers said, that he and two juveniles took a safe from the rink, burst it open after transporting it in a pickup truck to near the dump grounds, and extracted from it approximately $200 in money and a ring.

Jackson was in the Army at the time, and returned here only a brief time before his arrest, it was explained.

The juveniles were disposed of earlier.

A $50 fine was assessed in corporation court against Eddie Thomas Tyler, 32, officials said.

They related that he was arrested by Patrolmen Doyle Clark and Virgil Stephens after no records could be found of a transaction in which a stolen watch allegedly had been pawned to him for $3.

Roy Thornton of 1925 Texas avenue told police his $20 bike was stolen Wednesday from Senior High school, and a $25 peanut machine was reported stolen from the creamery building at Texas Tech.

The pattern of Communist statements was initiated by Thorez who said the duty of French workers would be to welcome as "liberators" a Soviet army in France in the event of an East-West war.

Large Crowd Attends Eileen Farrell Concert

Approximately 750 persons last night heard Eileen Farrell, widely-known soprano, who was presented in concert in Senior High school auditorium under auspices of the Tech Artists Course.

Miss Farrell, whose program ranged in color and mood from Wagner, Debussy, and Brahms, to a number of semi-classical and perenially popular numbers, won warm response from her audience.

Greatest applause, apparently, came after the Wagner and popular selections. She gave one encore after the conclusion of the first part of the program, and three at the conclusion of the program. Her piano accompanist was Nathan Price.

Dillard Appeal From Murder Conviction Is Given Court

Appeal of Brewster E. Dillard, 37, from a murder conviction was submitted to the court of criminal appeals Wednesday in Austin, on brief and oral argument, the Associated Press said.

Dillard was convicted Sept. 25 and assessed a five-year sentence in connection with the Oct. 31, 1947, slaying of Garlon Weaver. Trial was in Lubbock county.

Submitted on brief for both parties was the appeal of H. B. Carpenter, about 24, of Hockley county. Carpenter was assessed a fine of $100 in Hockley county court for transporting a case of beer, after testifying the brew was to have been used by himself and not for sale.

Woodring Trial Verdict Delayed

A 72nd district court jury had not returned a verdict late last night in the embezzlement trial of Richard A. Woodring, 26, and was locked in the jury quarters for the night, to continue deliberation this morning.

The indictment charges that Woodring, former bookkeeper for Hub Lee Tire company embezzled a $173.83 check early in the winter from that company. He was extradited from Oklahoma for the trial.

At least five witnesses had testified for the state Wednesday, District Attorney Lloyd Croslin and assistant District Attorney E. G. Pharr said.

Charge Is Dismissed

Attorneys for the defense had placed only one witness on the stand. Byron Chappell, who with Roy Carpenter were defending Woodring, took the stand in an effort to impeach part of the state's evidence. Woodring himself did not take the stand in his own defense.

Upon motion of the state, Judge G. V. Pardue dismissed a 99th court indictment charging Woodring with forgery. There are two other such indictments in the 72nd court, in addition to the charge tried Wednesday, the district attorney's department said.

The motion for dismissal informed the court that the indictment affected concerns parts of the same transactions of one of those filed in the 72nd court and that, since the 72nd court is hearing criminal actions now, it was deemed preferable to try the cases in that court.

on sighting the plane in Brewster county came from three separate and reliable sources.

The approximate location where the plane was reported seen was near Cooper's store, 20 miles west of Marathon, it was said to be flying south.

Radio Claimed Heard

Burford said reports that the C-47's call letters were faintly heard came from two amateurs near El Paso. A carrier wave on the same frequency was heard for two hours around noon today, but it went off the air just as the Federal Communications commission locator station at Kingsville was being alerted.

The plane had been last reported Monday morning over Wink.

A short time before it had taken off from El Paso on the last leg of its flight. Wink is a third of the distance from El Paso to San Antonio.

70 Area Persons Attend Meeting To Study Possible Broiler Chicken Production Plan

By ROGER SOUTHALL
Avalanche Staff Writer

Approximately 70 persons from Lubbock and surrounding area, representing various groups interested in local broiler chicken production, attended a meeting last night in the cafeteria of Lubbock National bank.

Highlighting the meeting were reports from 10 local men who last weekend toured chicken growing areas in Central and South Texas. The meeting was sponsored by Lubbock National Bank, Jack Creel, farm director for the bank and for KFYO, presided.

Visited Broiler Growers

The local men who made the inspection tour were Creel, Joe Jones, assistant county agent, K. B. Turner, L. E. Settle, Allen Kendrick, Sam Bell, H. L. Mathews, Joe Christian, and Bill Tatum.

The group visited the Youngblood plant at Waco, as well as the plants of a number of smaller broiler chicken growers in that area, and later went to Smiley, in Gonzales county, where more than 18 million broilers were grown last year.

The crux of the various reports was that big-scale chicken growers in these two areas each have their own individual ideas about growing broilers. Rarely, it was pointed out, were two growers in exact agreement as to feeding, methods of treatment and medication, or types of chicken houses used.

Plan Believed Profitable

At Smiley, it also was pointed out, the majority of the financing is done by the feed dealers, although bank loans are used.

After the reports, Creel called on local bankers, lumbermen, poultry processors, hatcherymen, and feed dealers who were present for their views regarding institution of such a broiler chicken program in this area.

The majority were in agreement that such a program would be beneficial, and without doubt, profitable. They urged, however, that all would-be broiler producers in this area "grow into" the program rather than "going into" it on too large a scale at first.

that Mr. Truman has been holding a series of night meetings with industrial, labor and farm leaders.

Control Power Still Sought

3. The Bureau of Labor Statistics said time lost due to strikes increased seasonally in January, but the number of man-days lost was smaller than in January, 1948.

Leon Keyserling, a member of the President's economic council, handed the council's monthly business review to the President and afterwards insisted that Mr. Truman still needs the stand-by economic controls requested of Congress. He said:

"There is still serious inflation in some areas. Metals, fuels and the cost of lighting have again reached new all-time highs."

The joint Congressional Economic committee yesterday gave a general endorsement to the President's plea for emergency powers to control prices, some wages and materials in short supply.

Claims Show Decline

Keyserling, who admitted a downturn in prices of some commodities, played a major share in laying the administration's views before the congressional committee.

He testified recently that another major depression could cost the nation $800 billion over a 10-year period.

Among other things, Keyserling told the President that retail sales in January-February are "up to those of last year," that the rate of new claims for unemployment compensation has dropped and that "business investment plans look good."

Snyder declined to comment directly on a statement by Robert R. Young, chairman of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad, that the nation already is in a depression with the railroads leading the parade.

Later at a news conference, however, the treasury secretary asserted that 300,000 persons were added to payrolls in January and said:

"I have never believed that we are in a business decline."

Snyder also hinted that controls on bank credit may be relaxed—a matter to be decided by the Federal Reserve board.

The White House was reluctant to discuss details of the President's recent night conferences.

A spokesman said there has been nothing unusual about the meetings; that they were "just what the President has been doing all along—trying to keep himself informed on every phase of everything."

Hiss And Chambers Clash In Unusual Meeting In New York; Disturbance Averted By Investigator

was a vice president of the Carnegie Steel Corporation. So it was McDowell who wired the youthful former State Department man and asked him to meet him at the Commodore on the evening of August 17, 1948, the day after Hiss had introduced the character "George Crosley" into the difficult case. Hiss at first pleaded a prior engagement, but finally agreed to appear, ". . . if you insist." Chambers was easier to obtain.

Hiss arrived a bit perturbed, accompanied by a friend from the parent company of Carnegie, Charles Dollard. He was upset for two reasons, he said. He had to contact a friend at the Harvard Club, with whom he had a 6 p.m. appointment, and he had just learned of the sudden death by heart attack of his friend Harry Dexter White, former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, whom we had questioned four days earlier on the charges of Chambers and Elizabeth Bentley that he had been a part of the stated Red conspiracy.

"I would like the record to show," Hiss said, after being placed under oath, "that on my way downtown I learned from the press of the death of Harry White, which came as a great shock to me. I am not sure that I feel in the best possible mood for testimony."

REP. NIXON (R-Calif), who had pressed the inquiry when others on the Committee were in a mood to abandon it, had just told Hiss that Chambers would soon arrive.

It is quite different at this stage in the testimony," Nixon had told Hiss, "that the case is dependent upon the question of identity. We have attempted to establish the identity through photographs of Mr. Chambers and that has been inadequate for that purpose.

"Today, we thought that since you had in your testimony raised the possibility of a third party (Crosley) who might be involved in the case in some way, and had described him at some length to the Committee, that it would be well to determine whether the third party is different from the two parties or the same one. So we have asked Mr. Chambers to be in New York at the same time so that you can have the opportunity to see him and make up your mind on that point."

Hiss made no direct reply to this but, instead, took the Committee to task for a "leak" in his secret testimony of the day before. There had been, indeed, a "leak." Carl Levin of the Herald Tribune had had a story about the session. Acting Chairman McDowell, indignant, promised Hiss that if the guilty person was found — presumably an employe of the Committee—he would be dismissed.

Hiss took a seat in an easy chair with his back to the front door of the suite. Louis J. Russell, one of our top investigators, went out through the bedroom of the small suite and brought Chambers in through the front door.

Looking right past Hiss, I greeted Chambers. Hiss did not turn around, did not change his expression. I suppose I expected him to leap up, wheel around, and demand why this man—whom he had testified he did not know—had made these astounding charges against him.

Chambers walked around Hiss and took a seat on the divan near Hiss and somewhat in front of him.

"WILL you please stand?" Nixon asked Chambers. "And will you please stand, Mr. Hiss?" They rose and looked at each other silently, the central figures in a case unparalleled in our history.

"May I ask him to speak?" Hiss asked, ignoring Chambers.

"My name is Whittaker Chambers," Chambers said in his low voice. Hiss cocked his head, inquisitively, and walked over to Chambers. He is the taller.

"Would you mind opening your mouth wider?" he asked.

"My name is Whittaker Chambers," the man repeated. It seemed like something out of a dream.

"I said, would you open your mouth?" Hiss repeated.

Chambers opened his mouth to say, "I am senior editor of Time Magazine."

Hiss Was Puzzled

Hiss puzzled for a moment, then he turned to Nixon. "May I ask whether his voice, when he testified before, was comparable to this?" he asked in his distinguished manner.

"About the same," Nixon replied.

Hiss wanted him to speak some more, but before Chambers had a chance he said, "I think he is George Crosley, but I would like to hear him talk a little longer. . . Are you George Crosley?"

"Not to my knowledge," Chambers answered. "You are Alger Hiss, I believe."

"I certainly am!" Hiss said, with a touch of vehemence.

Chambers looked at him for a time. "That was my recollection," he said. Then he reached down and picked up, of all things, a copy of Newsweek Magazine. As he did, Nixon said:

"Just a moment. Since some repartee goes on between these two people, I think Mr. Chambers should be sworn."

"That is a good idea," Hiss said.

McDowell swore in Chambers and Nixon, annoyed, spoke again. "Mr. Hiss, may I say something?" he asked. "I suggested that he be sworn, and when I say something like that I want no interruptions from you."

HISS stared back at him coldly. "Mr. Nixon," he said, "in view of what happened yesterday, I think there is no occasion for you to use that tone of voice in speaking to me, and I hope the record will show what I have just said."

"You were going to read," I reminded Chambers. He did:

" 'Tobin for Labor,' he read, picking a story at random. 'Since June, Harry S. Truman had been peddling the Labor secretaryship left vacant by Lewis B. Schwellenbach's death in hope of gaining the maximum political advantage from the appointment.' "

"May I interrupt?" Hiss asked. "The voice sounds a little less resonant than the voice that I recall of the man I knew as George Crosley. The teeth look to me as though either they have been improved upon or that there has been considerable dental work done since I knew George Crosley, which was some years ago." He thought a bit and then added, "I belive I am not prepared, without further checking, to take an absolute oath that he must be George Crosley."

"Mr. Chambers," asked Nixon, "have you had any dental work since 1934 of a substantial nature?"

"Yes; I have," Chambers answered, still looking at Hiss. "I have had some extractions and a plate." He gave the name of the dentist, a Dr. Hitchcock of Westminister, Md.

"That testimnoy of Mr. Chambers, if it can be believed," said Hiss, "would tend to substantiate my feeling that he represented himself to me in 1934 or 1935 as George Crosley, a free lance writer of articles for magazines. I would like to find out from Dr. Hitchcock if what he has just said is true, because I am relying partly, one of my main recollections of Crosley was the poor condition of his teeth."

NIXON queried Hiss on the subletting of the Hiss apartment to Crosley and his wife and child, and on the exchange of the old Ford. He could not yet make up his mind whether Crosley and Chambers were one and the same. He asked permission to question the man.

"Did you ever go under the the name of George Crosley?" he asked Chambers.

"Not to my knowledge," Chambers said.

"Did you ever spend any time with your wife and child in an apartment on Twenty-ninth street in Washington when I was not there because I and my family were living on P street?" Hiss asked.

"I most certainly did," Chambers replied.

Hiss said he was confused now. He could not understand how Chambers would deny that he was Crosley and yet admit he had spent time in the Hiss apartment.

"Would you tell me how you reconcile your negative answers with your affirmative answer?" he inquired.

Chambers looked at him steadily. "Very easily, Alger," he said. "I was a Communist and you were a Communist." Chambers turned to Nixon and continued, "I came to Washington as a Communist functionary. I was connected with the underground group of which Mr. Hiss was a member. Mr. Hiss and I became friends. To the best of my knowledge, Mr. Hiss himself suggested that I go there (the apartment) and I accepted gratefully."

Hiss broke in. "Mr. Chairman, I don't need to ask Mr. Whittaker Chambers any more questions. I am now perfectly prepared to identify this man as George Crosley . . . The ass under the lion's skin is Crosley."

HISS got up from his chair and stood over Chambers.

"May I say for the record at this point that I would like to invite Mr. Whittaker Chambers to make these same statements out of the presence of this Committee, without their being privileged for suit for libel. I challenge you to do it, and I hope you will do it damned quickly."

Then in a white-faced burst of anger he tried to get at Chambers but was stopped by Russell, our investigator.

"I am not going to touch him," he said, wheeling on Russell. "You are touching me."

"I want no disturbance," Russell began.

"Sit down, please," McDowell commanded . . . "We will suspend testimony for a minute or two."

Military 'Displays' Strengthen U.S. Hand In Diplomatic Efforts

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer

While Europe's Communists continue their reaction against the Atlantic pact the United States is going right ahead, putting military demonstrations behind its diplomatic efforts to convince everyone that, from here on out, war isn't going to pay.

Within a few days there have been unveiled new weapons and new tactics. The ability to penetrate an alerted air screen and deliver an atom bomb was shown in the Caribbean war games. A B-50 atom-bomb carrier has flown non-stop around the world. A rocket was sent 250-miles into the air, indicating a range of something like 1,000 miles on a military trajectory.

'Advertisement' For Force

Whether these demonstrations were timed for political purposes matters little. The effect is the same. They are an advertisement for the "unassailable force" to deter any would-be aggressor.

This idea is known to be a strong factor in administration policy. It very probably caused President Truman to think of sending Justice Vinson to Moscow last fall. There were indications then that the President thought the time was ripe for a direct warning to Russia that the United States had the stuff, and to see that Stalin did not underestimate our determination to use it if necessary. That, not appeasement, was the real objective of the proposed trip, which was called off because it might have been misunderstood by the rest of the world with serious political results.

To be factual, the B-50's world flight and the rocket which went 250 miles straight up are omens, rather than immediate war potentials. Methods for guiding a 1,000-mile missile to a target remain to be developed. The B-50 flight probably took weeks or months of preparation, and could not be accomplished every day. This the Russians know.

But the B-50 is a 1944 model. Bigger and faster bombers are coming up. The B-36, of which only a few are available so far, could probably make the 23,000 mile trip with one refueling.

More important, though, is the demonstration that, no matter what happens to her foreign bases, the United States will be able to continue fighting from home.

Constable's Gambling 'Raid' Strikes Snag

HOUSTON, March 2 (U.P.) — A 27-year-old La Porte, Texas, constable who came to town and stumbled upon a dice game charged today that Houston officers were "unco-operative" when he tried to have three of the praticipants jailed.

Constable Dale E. Richardson added that he had no idea getting prisoners into Houston's jail was so difficult or he would have hauled the men back to La Porte.

Followed Up Tip

The officer came to Houston, he explained, on a tip that a hot check artist was in a domino parlor. When Richardson walked in, two dice games were in full swing, he said.

"There were about 12 negroes shooting dice. I couldn't put all of them in my car, so I grabbed the first three and hustled them to a police station," Richardson stated.

Richardson called gambling squad Lt. H. A. Supple an "unco-operative and very insulting" officer, and said he "looked like a kid caught with his hand in the cookie jar when I walked in with the three prisoners."

Richardson claimed he was advised that Houston officers needed no "outside help" in enforcing Houston laws, and that he could do "whatever you want to" with the negroes. A justice of the peace finally instructed a clerk to accept charges against them, Richardson said.

The constable said he then took the trio to the county jail, where he was informed by a jailer that a $12 bond had already been made for each of the prisoners, and they were released.

Robert Mitchum's Suit For 'Invasion Of Privacy' Dismissed

HOLLYWOOD, March 2 (INS)—Robert Michum's $10,000 invasion of privacy suit against Actress Nanette Bordeaux was dismissed in Superior court today.

Superior Judge William B. McKesson threw the actor's suit out of court with the remark:

"It seems to the court that Mr. Mitchum's life has hardly been private lately."

Mitchum, currently serving a 60-day jail sentence on marajuana charges, sued Miss Bordeaux after she advertised furniture in her Hollywood Hills home for sale under the tag, "Robert Mitchum sat here."

Miss Bordeaux owned the property where the actor and three others were arrested in a marijuana raid last Sept. 1.

City Police Report Motorists Clearing Up Old Traffic Cases

Prompt reaction of motorists to a Tuesday announcement of the police that warrants of arrest will be issued for those who disregarded summonses in traffic cases in 1948 was bringing dispositions in numerous cases Wednesday, newsmen were told.

"The phone is ringing and numerous persons are appearing to ask if there are any unpaid traffic tickets naming them in our files," Chief of Police Lewis Kittrell said.

Jerry Hoover, a desk sergeant, said one motorist paid fines in 16 separate cases. "One paid in 12 cases, one in 10. Seven paid off five tickets each. Three paid off four tickets each," Hoover said he was kept busy most of Wednesday dealing with the old tickets.

Numerous individuals who had disregarded summonses paid assessments for one violation each, it was explained.

Hundreds of such tickets had accumulated in files of the department.

"It didn't seem right to fine those who come in promptly on traffic tickets and overlook those who declined to appear," officials said.

So they announced their intention of "clearing out all our old tickets, even if warrants of arrest are required."

Those who failed to appear on any ticket issued to them in 1948 or 1949 were informed in the announcement that they can save time for all concerned by going to the station and pleading guilty or posting bond for jury trials.

New Officers Named By Dallas Tech Ex-Students Association

D. M. McElroy, executive secretary of the Texas Tech ex-students association, was informed by letter Wednesday that the Dallas chapter of ex-Tech students had elected new officers in a meeting held Monday in Dallas.

Joe Alford was named president replacing Paul White. Alford is the editor of The Journal of Petroleum Technology, a publication of the American Institute of Mining and Metullurgical Engineers.

Jack Walker will be the new vice-president. He succeeds Mrs. Gerald Ramsey. Walker is an Assistant golf pro at the Dallas Country club. Miss Sarabeth Kimmel is the new secretary of the organization replacing Miss Beatrice Heatley. Miss Kimmel is employed by the Standard Oil company as a draftsman.

Plans for a spring banquet and program were also discussed at the meeting.

Pioneer Head Denies Airline Is For Sale

DALLAS, March 2 (AP)—Pioneer Air Lines "is not for sale to Continental or to anyone else," Robert J. Smith, Pioneer president, said today.

Continental Air Lines of Denver, Colo., has asked CAB permission to buy Pioneer. The two lines fly parallel routes from Midland to Big Spring, Tex., Las Vegas, Nev., to Santa Fe, N. M., and Santa Fe to Albuquerque, N. M.

"Pioneer has not been aproached by Continental regarding a possible sale, nor has Pioneer initiated such talk," Smith said in an interview. "The line is not for sale to Continental or to anyone else."

Continental contends the government would save money in mail pay by approving its purchase of Pioneer. Countering this, Smith said Pioneer is paid less for carrying mail, on a per passenger basis, than Continental.

BUENOS AIRES, March 2. (INS)—President Juan D. Peron of Argentina today awarded the high decoration "Condor of the Andes" to U. S. Army Lt. William Hackett, first American to scale the 23,080-foot high Aconcagua peak.

Hackett, a 30-year-old native of Portland, Ore., made the ascent of the peak on the Argentine-Chilean border Feb. 19 while on special leave from Ft. Benning, Ga.

PEOPLE LOSE 'COMMON SENSE'

Lecturer Fears Specialization Is Carried Too Far In America

By CHOC HUTCHESON
Avalanche Staff Writer

America's trend toward urban population is causing Americans to lose their "common sense," in the opinion of Dr. Burges Johnson, eastern writer-lecturer who currently is conducting a series of lectures at Texas Tech.

Moreover, Dr. Johnson said in an interview Wednesday, there is a tendency in this country to over-estimate the overall greatness of the specialist, and to underestimate the so-called "jack-of-all-trades."

Dr. Johnson Wednesday spoke to the Rotary club's weekly luncheon held at noon in the Hilton hotel. He emphasized in his talk the theme which he later expanded on in the interview just described, that a trend toward specialization is threatening the "common sense" of the nation's population.

The speaker was introduced by Dr. D. M. Wiggins, Tech president, who in turn had been introduced by Don Jones, program chairman.

Prior to Dr. Johnson's talk, George Dupree, local attorney, delivered a brief address in tribute to Jack Randal, Lubbock attorney and Rotarian who died last Friday.

Dean James G. Allen of Texas Tech presented Bill Gillespie, Tech senior, as the college's "Junior Rotarian of the Month."

John Brophy, Lubbock Senior High school's "Junior Rotarian of the Month," was introduced by E. J. Lowrey.

President Irving L. Jones presided, with invocation by Guy Small.

Over Specialization Feared

"I'm afraid we're losing our general quality of 'common sense' —which is that quality of mind which enables a man to meet an emergency for which he has not been prepared—because we are losing our frontiers," Dr. Johnson explained. "Under frontier conditions, every man has to take care of all his needs. But in our cities, nobody knows how to take care of himself. Each man is doing one kind of work for everyone else, and as a result we're losing our adaptability."

Bitter Clashes Loom In House

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, March 2—First clashes in expected House head-knocking over controversial labor and public school issues will come at public hearings set Wednesday for March 10 and March 16.

Rep. Rae Files Still, chairman of the House Education committee and staunch advocate of the Senate-approved Gilmer-Aikin bills, announced the hearing on them would be held at 7:30 p.m. two weeks from Wednesday.

The House Labor committee will hold public hearing on Rep. Blake Timmons' bill to modify last session's stringent labor regulatory laws March 10 at 2:30 p.m. It is backed by labor. The committee also will study Rep. Douglas Bergman's measure making it a penal offense for labor and management to enter closed shop agreements. Labor is fighting it.

Election Code Study Set

Announcement of these first House tests of what are bound to be two of the hottest issues this session topped legislative activity Wednesday. Other developments:

The House approved a resolution calling for a nine-member committee to study revision of the election code and report back with corrective legislation this session. The resolution went to the Senate.

The House approved a measure boosting travel expenses for employes of state colleges and universities.

The Senate passed a bill appropriating $960,000 to pay bills at the eleemosynary institutions for the balance of the fiscal year. Chairman Jim Taylor of the Finance committee said they are about to run out of money, and are in dire need.

Compact Approved

A Senate bill approving the Pecos river compact was passed by the House and sent to Gov. Jester. The compact ends a 25-year controversy over division of waters of the river between Texas and New Mexico.

Both branches of the legislature quit at noon Thursday for a series of important committee meetings.

The education bills have been hung up in the House Education committee awaiting public hearing while opponents and proponents have kept up a running battle on the issue.

The Senate-passed bills are those to reorganize central control over the schools, and provide a new system of financing. A third bill setting up machinery for financing, is pending in the Senate. Mrs. Still said all three would be considered, on assumption the third would be approved in the Senate by March 16.

Solons Approve 13 Nominations

AUSTIN, March 2 (AP) — The Senate's committee on governor's nominations today recommended confirmation of the appointment of Paul H. Brown of Harlingen as state fire insurance commissioner.

Brown was one of 13 whose appointments won committee approval today at an executive session.

Earlier Senate opposition to Brown's appointment was apparently dissolved.

Solon Announces Support

Immediately after the committee's action, Senator Rogers Kelley of Edinburg said in a prepared statement that he would "personally sponsor" the Harlingen man who formerly served as secretary of state and who was Gov. Beauford H. Jester's campaign manager in both his gubernatorial campaigns.

"There is every reason to expect that Col. Brown will be confirmed when his appointment comes up for consideration by the Senate," Kelley's statement said.

Others whose appointments were approved by the committee today included the three state highway commissioners, Fred Wemple of Midland, A. F. Mitchell of Corsicana and R. J. Potts of Harlingen; Hoxie Thompson of Trinity, public safety commissioner; H. L. Mills of Houston, member of the State Teachers colleges Board of Regents; B. L. Autry of Dallas, State Board of Hairdressers and Cosmetologists; and the following members of the Veterans Affairs commission; R. W. Akers of Beaumont, Joe M. Daniel of Corsicana, Rene A. Garza of Zapata, Lewis P. Fields of Amarillo, and Frank Ikard of Wichita Falls.

IDAHO ROUTS RABBITS

POCATELLO, Idaho (U.P.) — A two-months' drive against jack rabbits that damage farm crops has netted at least 95,000 animals in southwestern Idaho. Most of the marauders were killed by poisoned hay spread along the paths they use.

The cocaine plant is cultivated and harvested much like tea in South America.

Race Plans Being Completed By Lubbock Sponsors

Soap Box Derby Slated July 4

Hey, kids look this way! Lubbock's second annual Soap Box Derby will be staged on Monday July 4.

Sponsored by The Avalanche-Journal, Kuykendall Chevrolet company and the Lubbock Exchange club, the race which last year attracted 254 boys in the model racers has been rescheduled again this year.

Full details of the big race, rules, registration and other information will be announced within the next few days, so watch the Avalanche-Journal for further announcements.

In order to start things off with a bang again this year, the Exchange club voted at its luncheon Wednesday at Hotel Lubbock to sponsor another big Derby preview at the state theater on March 19 where motion pictures of the big All-American Soap Box Derby at Akron, O., and pictures of last year's local race will be shown. In addition, the rules for the big racing event will be announced.

Joe Lon Teal, last year's champion, will make an appearance at the big Derby show and give boys pointers on how he built his winning car last year.

Don't try to register for the race now, but in a few days an announcement will be made of registration details and you'll get your rule book and can start on your car early.

All boys between the ages of 11 and 15 within the circulation limits of The Avalanche-Journal are eligible to enter the race.

Winner of the local race will be given a free trip to Akron for the national event, billed as the greatest amateur racing event in the world.

President Charles Cathey of the Exchange club announced at today's luncheon that a full slate of committees for the race would be named within the next few days.

STUDENTS TO HEAR MUSICIAN

Violinist Dave Rubinoff To Give Concert At High School Tonight

By BILL CLARK
Avalanche Staff Writer

One of the world's most famous violinists, who gives 1,500 free performances a year so that children and invalids may hear his talent, will appear in Lubbock Senior High school auditorium at 8 o'clock tonight.

Dave Rubinoff will give seven performances in Lubbock public schools today, at assembly programs in J. T. Hutchinson and O. L. Slaton Junior High schools, Senior High school, Roscoe Wilson, George R. Bean, George M. Hunt and K. Carter elementary schools.

At the program tonight, sponsored by the Lubbock Junior Chamber of Commerce, admission will be $2.40 and $1.80, tax included, for adults.

Lectures With Music

The rapid-fire series of "lectures-with-music" that Rubinoff will give today are nothing unusual; he does it nearly everywhere.

With an average of 300 paid concerts a year on his calendar, Rubinoff easily makes five times that many free appearances—at hospitals, schools, homes for the aged and orphanages.

Why does this noted artist, highly sought after, give so generously of his time and talent?

Gasoline Tax Boost In New Mexico Seen

SANTA FE, N. M., March 2 (INS) —A bill to hike New Mexico's state gasoline tax by two cents was virtually assured today when the house of representatives went on record in favor of a seven-cent gasoline levy.

The House test came on a taxation committee report favoring a bill, already approved by the Senate, which carries the two-cent increase. The House call was 30 to 18 for adoption of the report. The measure went on the House calendar for action tomorrow.

The lower House spent one and one-half hours in debate before taking a vote. Opponents of the Senate-approved measure asked that a one-cent hike be enacted, or none at all. They said that a six-cent tax would enable the State Highway department to pay off its 23-million-dollar bonded indebtedness, and get on a "pay-as-you-go-basis, in 13 years.

The department, in asking for the two-cent boost, hopes to liquidate the debt in a little more than eight years.

The House vote today was a signal victory for administration forces.

Tests On Milk In Area Planned

A request from the American Dry Milks institute for 1,000 pounds of milk produced in this area has been received by the Texas Tech Dairy department according to C. W. Denison, instructor in dairy manufacturing at the college.

Denison said the milk would be used for research work to determine its fluorine content.

Previous tests on West Texas water have led to the suggestion that milk from the same area might contain an unusually large amount of the mineral. If an abundance of fluorine is found in the milk it is possible that a reduction of tooth decay would be the result.

In view of this the Tufts Dental clinic of Boston is working in cooperation with the Dry Milks institute to determine the effect of fluorine on teeth.

The milk will be taken to the McIlhaney dairy here for partial evaporation. Joe McIlhaney, owner of the dairy, Denison, W. H. Tinney, and Joe Cardwell, instructors in the Tech dairy department and Dr. J. J. Willingham, head of the department, will conduct the evaporation.

Denison said that equipment for complete drying and powdering of the milk was not available here. The partially-evaporated product will therefore be flown to a state experiment station in Illinois where it will be completely dried and put in powder form.

From there it will be sent to Boston where the test will be formed. Routine tests for fat content and acidity will be made on the milk before it leaves Lubbock.

National Drug Distributor Buys Stores In Amarillo, Oklahoma

NEW YORK, March 2 (U.P.) — McKesson & Robbins, inc., wholesale drug distributor, has announced acquisition of the Alexander Drug company of Oklahoma City, and its divisions in Tulsa and Amarillo.

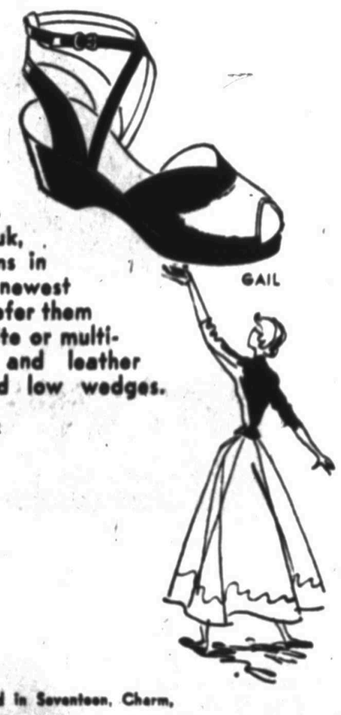

W. J. Murray, jr., president of McKesson, said the Alexander Drug firm, a 50-year-old organization serving Oklahoma, western Arkansas, southeastern Kansas, part of New Mexico and points in Missouri and the Texas Panhandle, will continue operations without change in existing local management.

However, he said, it will be integrated with the McKesson organization to obtain the benefit and other resources with which to further develop its service to retail druggists.

BLOODY TRAIL IS RETRACED

Michigan May Permit New York To Handle Two Murder Suspects

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 2 (AP)—Police today retraced the murder trail of two "lonely heart" slayers and Michigan authorities said they may send the couple to New York "to burn" in the electric chair for the slaying of a 60-year-old widow.

Kent County Prosecutor Roger O. McMahon said the Michigan attorney general had requested a week's delay in the arraignment of "mail order romeo" Raymond Fernandez and his 200-pound sweetheart, Mrs. Martha Beck.

The swarthy, handsome Hawaiian and his thrice-wed mistress already have confessed three murders. Police suspect the couple of preying on other love-starved women who met death in surrendering their hearts and savings in the gruesome marriage racket.

Body Is Found

McMahon said Michigan authorities "are considering the possibility of saving the Michigan taxpayers some money by sending the killers to New York to burn."

There seemed little doubt that plans for extradition of the two killers to New York for the murder of Mrs. Janet Fay of Albany are a direct result of Michigan's lack of a capital punishment law.

Mrs. Fay's body was found buried last night in the cellar of a home in Queens, New York.

Pending final disposition of Fernandez and Mrs. Beck, police in Michigan and other sections of the nation are studying records of missing women, some of whom they believe may have fallen into the deadly web of romance spun by the pair.

Have Admitted Slayings

The 34-year-old Fernandez and Mrs. Beck have admitted to police the murder of two women and a three-year-old girl in circumstances which led police to believe that the couple operated on a nationwide scale.

Fernandez and his plump woman friend admitted bilking Mrs. Deliphene Downing, 28-year-old Byron Center, Mich., widow, and then murdering her and her daughter, Rainelle. Their bodies were buried in cement-covered graves in the basement of her home.

Police concentrated today on reports that at least two of Fernandez's so-called "interests" met mysterious deaths. The latest investigations involve the deaths of Mrs. Myrtle Young, 49, Green Forest, Ark., and Mrs. Jane Wilson Thompson of New York.

Mrs. Young died suddenly in the Little Rock state hospital, Aug. 8, 1948. Her death was attributed to a cerebral hemorrhage.

Mrs. Thompson died mysteriously while on a "honeymoon" in Spain. New York police quoted Fernandez as saying Mrs. Thompson was killed in a train accident.

Routine Was Same

The mother of Mrs. Thompson was located in a home for the aged in Wilmington, N. C. She charged Fernandez shoved her out of her New York apartment and added: "I'm sure now that my daughter was murdered."

Kent County Prosecutor McMahon said that in all cases reported so far, the Fernandez-Beck routine was standard. The couple bilked the victims of their life savings after the Hawaiian wooed them with love missives. Then, he said, they gave them pheno-barbital or a derivative before killing them.

Other developments in the case were:

A list taken from the Hawaiian-born adventurer showed the names of 17 women and such data as ages, addresses, and assets.

Prosecutor McMahon received a message from Mrs. Catherine Tosterus of St. Paul, Minn., who said Fernandez resembles a "John Stevens" who swindled her out of $40,000 in Florida.

In New York, police sifting through letters found in two trunks recently shipped by the toupee-wearing Fernandez found communications from half a dozen women seeking "mail-order" attentions.

Jute-bag mills in Dundee, Scotland, eager to fill orders needed for huge grain crops in America, have been held back by inability to get enough raw jute from India.

Rubinoff To Perform

a concert with a ruptured appendix. He was critically ill with peritonitis for a long time, and in that period received thousands of messages from well-wishers.

He recovered, and resolved to pass on to others the kindnesses he had received.

Rubinoff feels that he owes America a great deal, too. Born in Russia, he received a doctorate from the Warsaw conservatory at the age of 14. Victor Herbert heard him play and arranged to bring him, a younger brother and their parents to this country. He toured for years with such artists as Herbert, John Philip Sousa and Will Rogers.

He has gained fame, money and tributes, and he is grateful to this country for making it all possible.

A man of intense energy and drive, he has many hobbies. For one thing, he acclaims himself the world's best hamburger-maker, and his wife concurs. Another hobby is collecting barber bottles, and he sometimes goes to great lengths to obtain an unusual specimen.

At tonight's performance the Jaycees will present Rubinoff with a genuine Texas hat—a handy gift, since he is bad about losing them.

Son To Appear

Mrs. Rubinoff and their son, 4-year-old Rubin, are here with the violinist, and Rubin will make a brief appearance on the stage tonight.

Mrs. Rubinoff says the visit to Lubbock so far has been much more pleasant than their last visit to Lubbock, when nearly everything that could happen did.

The South Plains was in the grip of a snow and ice storm, and the Rubinoffs were driving up from Lamesa.

At Tahoka the car broke down, having been frozen. Rubinoff, anxious to get to Lubbock for his appearance, thumbed a ride in one car and a companion, toting the $100,000 Stradivarius which he plays, got a ride in a different car.

Wife Stayed In Car

Mrs. Rubinoff stayed with the car. While it was being fixed she accidentally stepped on the tail of a cat, which bit her toe through an open-toed shoe and caused her several weeks' concern about the possibility of getting rabies.

The car partially repaired, she continued on to Lubbock, finally arriving after sliding off the road into a snowbank and suffering other difficulties.

Meanwhile, her mother and son, flying to Lubbock, were unable to land and had to continue to Hobbs, N. M., for a landing.

But looking back on the experience, she is able to laugh about it.

Of the many accolades which have been heaped on the shoulders of Rubinoff, he is especially proud of the Presidential citation which the late President Roosevelt gave him for the numerous voluntary appearances which Rubinoff made for the Treasury department during the war.

Young Rubin's violin lessons have caused a sort of chain-reaction in violin practice in the family. Mrs. Rubinoff's daughter by a previous marriage, Evelyn, 11, also takes lessons and helps the youngster, and her mother, Mrs. Lula Dean of Wichita Falls, at the age of 67 took up the violin in order that she could also be of help to the boy "in following in his father's 'fingersteps,'" as Mrs. Rubinoff expresses it.

Lecturer Fears

ges, the little doctor admitted, but these are more than balanced by certain disadvantages — such as the aforementioned loss of the "common sense" quality. Overall, the current trend toward centralization of population is an unhealthy one, he added.

"Take the medical profession, for example," he said. "The 'over-specialized' doctor is dangerous in the sense that he has caused the virtual disappearance of the wise old country doctor who was a general practitioner. If a man wants a physical examination now, he usually has to go to a clinic to see five or six doctors, instead of one."

Recalls "Peace Ship"

"I have noted an increasing tendency among Americans," Dr. Johnson continued, "to respect all opinions of a man who happens to be a specialist in one single field. Take Henry Ford as an example. There was a man who, in his day, perhaps knew more about mass production than any other individual in the world. But I remember what happened to his "Ford Peace Ship" idea in the days preceding America's entry into World War I. He got the notion that he could stop the war, and to do this he gathered up a load of impractical idealists and sent them to Europe to effect peace between the Allies and the Central powers. These people were not mentally incompetent—in fact, each was a specialist in his own field. But they were not equipped for the job they undertook. As a result, they never even got to Europe, because they got to fighting among themselves about how to stop the war, and the entire mission had to be called off when they reached England.

Dr. Johnson also pointed out Americans' "Idol-worship" of their stage and screen heroes.

"Newspapers, publicity men, and the public itself build a man into ficticious greatness, when actually he is talented only in the field of acting. And then many persons are willing to accept his judgment when he tells them how to vote."

"On the other hand, I have noticed that some persons have great contempt for presidents such as Franklin D. Roosevelt, Theodore Roosevelt, or Harry S. Truman, simply because these men did not acquire a supreme amount of knowledge about one narrow specialty. They deride Franklin Roosevelt because he was not successful as a lawyer, Teddy Roosevelt because he failed at an early-age publishing venture, and Truman because he once was a haberdashery clerk," Dr. Johnson said.

"These critics seem to forget," he added, "that there is a product from doing 'small-time' things that is far more important than many of us realize. Why, I'll venture that if some Lubbock man—say a man who operated a shoe store here, and who was treasurer of his church, and who took part in numerous civic projects—should unexpectedly find himself President of the United States, he would make a better president than did U. S. Grant, a specialist."

"The commodity of common sense," he observed, "can be acquired in richer quality right here in Lubbock than in New York City, because here conditions are more similar to those of the frontier."

Dr. Johnson, a thin little gentleman with a first-class sense of humor, currently is on a six-month lecture tour of the South and Southwest. A native New Englander, he attended Amherst, and later was a professor at Vassar, Syracuse, and Union college. He also served as editor-in-chief of "Judge" magazine two years, after beginning a journalistic career on The New York Commercial Advertiser, then edited by Lincoln Steffens, famed newspaper with whom Dr. Johnson formed a lifelong friendship.

Dr. Johnson and his wife, who is accompanying him on his present tour, now reside in Schenectady, N. Y.

More Money Sought For Cotton Research

AUSTIN, March 2 (AP)—More money for cotton research and crippled children was asked before senate finance subcommittees today.

The Texas Society for Crippled Children, Inc., presented a request that state health department funds be increased $100,000 above the board of control's recommendation to provide more adequate care for the state's crippled children. The board of control suggested $320,000 for the purpose.

Young Soldiers Learn Aircraft Mechanics In 28-Week Air Force Course At Keesler Field

By HARMON W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Writer

KEESLER AIR FORCE BASE, BILOXI, Miss., March 2—This is a story about a plain GI Joe named Bill, who was launched on a lifetime career in 28 short weeks.

Bill Freeman of Lancaster, O., is like most other 18-year-old kids. Fresh as they come and full of the devil.

He was a hayshaker by trade with a bent for mechanics. He let the other guys milk the cows and slop the pigs while he looked under the hood to see what made his old man's tractor tick.

"Natural" Choice

It was natural that the boy wound up at the airplane engine mechanic school here. He came in like the others, after 13 weeks of indoctrination.

In a series of letters to his mom back in Ohio, handsome Bill tells his own story better than I can tell it.

He was one of 28 boys to enter the school. How he came to know many of the 10,500 officers and airmen on the base. The big thrill he got the day he snapped to attention and saluted Maj. Gen. Charles W. Lawrence and warmed up inside when the general called him "Bill."

Tells Experiences

"Dear Folks," he wrote during the middle of his course. "We've been through about everything. We've taken a piece of wire and traced it through a B-25. Took it string by string, almost, until we could tell where the wire went and what it was supposed to do. We learned all about propellers, hydraulic instruments and fuel systems.

"The chow is great and maybe you can tell it from this picture—see my second chin? I've gained eight pounds."

Bill Freeman didn't stop to think about it, but while he was going through the course he was getting what no trade school could afford to give him at the going rate of tuitions, or in 28 weeks.

Twenty-eight weeks ago, Bill knew how to start dad's tractor and guide it down the corn row. And that was about all.

Accomplished Mechanic, Now

Today he can take any kind of airplane apart and put it back together again. While Uncle Sam was streamlining his planes, he didn't forget to streamline the men who keep 'em in the air. What Bill and the others got here and in the other schools is virtually a college education in aeronautics.

They're serious kids, for boys around 18. It's a funny thing but you don't see any horse play or monkey business around the base. The boys are here because they wanted to come. Nobody had to halter them.

The Air Force has produced its Doolittles and its Rickenbackers. They're in the front office now and the kids have taken over. Average age of the instructors at Keesler, so help me, is 19.

I mentioned Bill as a career man. His career for the next three years will be in the Service. After that, you'll probably look into a commercial hangar one day and find Mr. Freeman going over the complicated wiring of the DC-6.

Mardi Gras Revelers Continue Festivities Far Beyond Deadline

By PRESTON McGRAW
United Press Staff Writer

NEW ORLEANS, March 2 — The biggest Mardi Gras in New Orleans history ended—theoretically — at midnight last night, but thousands of revelers forgot the moment that the Lenten season was at hand and kept on celebrating into the early-morning hours.

Most of the merrymakers, whooping it up with costume, mask and bottle, looked as if they wanted to be sure to have plenty to repent during the next 40 days.

Crowds Ignore Rain

Frequent showers didn't bother the 500,000 to 600,000 celebrants, who danced in the wet streets as King Combus, monarch of the oldest Mardi Gras organization, paraded through town. Later, thousands of members of the Combus and Rex societies capped the carnival at a huge joint ball in the municipal auditorium.

At the same time, other thousands of negro members of the Zulu Aid and Pleasure society jammed the coliseum arena to hear Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong and his band.

Satchmo stole the final-day Mardi Gras show as he paraded as King of the Zulus, beginning early yesterday morning. Clad in long black underwear, a golden grass skirt, gold rose and crown with red plumes, the trumpetman supreme led the Zulus in a leisurely, unsteady march through the French Quarter.

Souvenirs Distributed

From five jungle floats, the Zulus "distributed" 2,000 coconuts as souvenirs. The "distribution" consisted of throwing the hard nuts high in the air and letting onlookers scramble for them.

Satchmo made frequent use of his right to declare open house at any negro bar he passed. All the saloons were ready with portable bars, which were rushed into the streets for the Zulus' pleasure.

Meanwhile, the white people's King Rex and his debutante queen paraded down St. Charles st. and up Canal st.

Rex (shipbuilder Lester F. Alexander) and Queen Dolly Ann Souchon, 19-year-old daughter of an old French family, halted at the city hall to drink a toast with Mayor Delesseps Morrison and Gen. George C. Marshall, former secretary of state.

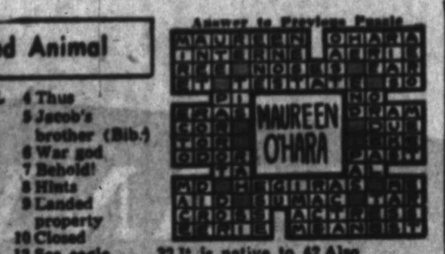

Earlier, Mayor Morrison presented honorary citizenship and keys to the city to Satchmo Armstrong, capping his social triumph.

The negro trumpeter was asked if it were true he would be "ready to die" after a day's reign as King Zulu.

"Well," answered Satchmo, "I hope the Lord won't take me too literally."

Population of Europe more than doubled between 1800 and 1900, increasing from 187,000,000 to 400,000,000.

Fred MacMurray, Associates Plan 'Package' Film; New 'Captain Bligh' Picture Scheduled

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
INS Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, March 2—You have to say that Fred MacMurray, Milton Bren and William Seiter have courage. Without a nickel's worth of backing from the bank, these men are putting their money in "Borderline"—a "package deal" with Fred as the star, Milton as producer and Bill directing of course.

It is a Famous Artists project—which means Charlie Feldman's fine agent hand is in it.

The original story by Norman Krasna takes place on the Mexico—USA border. Two narcotics agents pose as dope peddlers then wind up turning each other in. It is a thriller with comedy.

Charles Laughton, who has been imitated by every impersonator, as Captain Bligh, is reading a new Captain Bligh screen play. This one is "The Return of Captain Bligh," and it will be produced by Sam Katzman for Columbia.

It's possible to write stories about Captain Bligh, who was a real figure in British history, without even a bow to "Mutiny on the Bounty." That's the movie from which the Laughton imitations spring.

"The Return of Captain Bligh" has to do with Napoleon's planned invasion of England, and it makes a hero of the captain, who burned all the ships and saved Britain.

TEXAS LADY LOSES 47 POUNDS

The following remarkable story shows conclusively that Barcentrate DOES take off fat.

It contains nothing harmful. In fact, it contains ingredients that make you feel better. No starvation diet—no weakness—no hunger. Barcentrate, the original grapefruit juice recipe, takes off fat quickly, safely and you can eat plenty.

Here is proof

Here is what Mrs. H. F. Bishop, Route 2, Stamford, Texas, wrote us:

"I am very glad to endorse Barcentrate, so please accept my sincere thanks and appreciation for the great benefit I derived from its use. I not only lost weight, but also looked and felt better in every way.

"I had to have a very serious operation and was told that I must lose a lot of weight before the operation could be performed. I went on a diet and tried very hard to reduce, but failed to lose much weight until I heard of Barcentrate. I began taking it and could soon tell the difference in the way I felt and the weight I was losing. I weighed 160 pounds when I started and I lost a total of 47 pounds and was able to undergo my operation. I can truthfully recommend it to others, since it did so much for me."

At all druggists

If you are overweight and want to take off ugly fat, just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barcentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take just two tablespoonfuls twice a day. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, safe way to take off weight, return the empty bottle for your money back. Adv.

ALLIANCE NEARS COMPLETION

Details Of North Atlantic Pact To Be Released Soon, Acheson Says

By FREDERIC TUTTLE
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 2—Secretary of State Acheson indicated Wednesday the world will be told the terms of the North Atlantic pact next week and also whether Italy and Scandinavian nations will be asked to join at this time.

Acheson said a final series of top diplomatic conferences among member nations will precede publication of the text of the historic alliance to resist armed aggression by military action.

The United States and other member nations—Canada, Britain, France, Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg—will hold one urgent conference Thursday.

Second Discussion Planned

Acheson told reporters that a second pact discussion will be held later this week and that what he hopes to be the final meeting will take place Monday.

The secretary declared that the alliance meetings are moving ahead in harmony and that rapid strides are being made toward a completed draft, which will be signed by the member nations at a momentous ceremony.

Acheson pointed out that the program for sending arms and other military materials to pact nations and additional friendly countries probably will be postponed until after the Senate approves the alliance.

Bill Being Drafted

Assistant Secretary of State Ernest Gross heads a committee drafting a bill to supply materials to the other nations in the pact.

It is felt that the alliance must be approved before the Military Aid bill—which some observers estimate will call for an outlay of from one to two billion dollars during the first year—can be presented to Congress.

Acheson made clear that no decision has yet been reached on whether to invite Italy, Norway and Denmark to join the alliance at the time of the original signing.

Italian Membership Opposed

A responsible capitol source reported that Senate foreign policy leaders have advised Acheson that they are opposed to including Italy at present.

This view reportedly was expressed to Acheson Monday by Chairman Connally (D-Texas) of the Senate Foreign Relations committee; Sen. Vandenberg, Mich., ranking GOP committeeman, and Sen. George (D-Ga.).

They were said to feel that Italy, as a defeated former enemy state, could contribute little to the pact; that Italy has an extended coastline, exposed to possible enemy action, and that she is geographically removed from the North Atlantic area.

Acheson emphasized that the Italian question still is under discussion, and that this, like other matters, must be threshed out thoroughly and agreements reached gladly and not reluctantly.

Norway Interested In Pact

Norway has announced willingness to initial the treaty, despite Russian threats from the north and the rumored massing of Red army troops near the Norwegian border. Denmark also reportedly is willing to participate.

One of the main considerations believed under scrutiny in connection with possible Italian membership is the outburst of Italian Communist leader Palmiro Togliatti. He urged Italians to aid the Red army if it ever marched onto Italian territory.

Acheson praised the cooperation of the Senate Foreign Relations committee in laying the groundwork for the alliance.

The secretary said that he has received good advice from committee members and that they are being kept in constant touch with developments.

'Old Rip' Loses Grip, Runs Wild In Dallas Home For Old Folks

DALLAS, March 2. (AP)—"Old Rip Van Winkle," a bearded octogenarian, stirred in his sleep at a Dallas convalescent home at 3:30 a. m.

Later, he said, "The hand of God touched me." Some of his "friends" took a contrary view. Whatever the cause, the 84-year-old "Rip" climbed out of his bed, stole across the room, looked at his sleeping companions and picked up a chair.

Wielding it with vigor that belied his years, Old Rip went to work. When his "inspiration" had run its course, three of his fellow sleepers were in the hospital.

'Old Rip' Jailed

And Old Rip was in the clink, for "safekeeping."

One of the convalescent home inmates, known only as "Fireman," escaped Rip's wrath and told officers about the episode. He hid under bed sheets and watched it.

Old Rip arose from his bed "like a mist," Fireman reported.

He moved with ghostly quietness to the bed of a 73-year-old. There was a loud whack as Rip struck with the heavy chair. This victim ran from the room and fell at the foot of some steps where police found him, semi-conscious, about 30 minutes later.

Fireman, by this time, was scared. He pulled the bed sheets over his head and "hid." But, he peeped out to watch the antics of Rip, clad in long underwear.

Everybody Awoke

The room was awake. The first victim had screamed. Old Rip moved to another bed. He struck an 88-year-old with the chair, and quickly struck again. This time it was a 93-year-old preacher.

Old Rip swore loudly. He would clear the room, he said. The Fireman, about 75, dug deeper into his sheets.

Finally, police arrived. They found Old Rip banging away at the door with the remains of his chair. One victim was lying on the floor. Two, blood streaming from their heads, had staggered from the room. Fireman huddled in his bed. The room was in shambles.

The three victims of Old Rip's inspiration were taken to an emergency hospital. One was believed to be seriously injured. The doctor wasn't sure about the other two.

Architect Urges Giant 2,250 Foot Building

Dream-Like Skyscraper Civic Center For Houston Proposed

HOUSTON, March 2. (AP)—A dream-like civic center for booming Houston, including the world's tallest building, was proposed here today by architect R. G. Schneider.

Schneider said his idea, which will be presented to the city council, was to make the center a gradual 15-year development, avoiding expenditure of large sums of money at one time.

The skyscraper, second such structure to be proposed for Houston in the past eight months, would tower 2,250 feet—approximately 1,000 feet taller than New York's Empire State building.

Its base, said Schneider, would be a composite of six 36-story buildings forming a hexagon. These buildings would be used for a museum, research centers, a petroleum institute, and headquarters for all major oil companies in the world.

Schneider observed that Houston's rapid growth had stunted the city's civic development currently "lagging 10 to 20 years behind time."

Last year, a Houston corporation's highly publicized proposal for another such skyscraper, some 115 feet taller than the Empire State building, received little favor from architects and engineers. They claimed the city's soggy underground would not support any such edifice.

Texas Official Says World Oil Output Has Outstripped Demand

NEW YORK, March 2 (AP) — World production of oil "has already passed by far the present world consuming ability," Ernest O. Thompson, Texas railroad commissioner, said here today.

Addressing the convention of the Associated General Contractors of America, Thompson said that not only is the nation not running out of oil, but it has a 24-billion barrel reserve and 176 trillion cubic feet of natural gas.

Vast Reserve On Hand

Thompson, one of the authors and founders of the Interstate Oil Compact commission, said stocks of oil in tanks above ground increased by 120 million barrels during 1948, bringing a total of 250 million barrels of crude oil in tanks plus a 117-million gallon supply of gasoline.

"Texas today," he said, "has a half mililon barrel active oil producing reserve ready at the the turn of a valve that is in excess of our market demand. Of the 5,732 producing gas wells, 3,588 are shut in because they have no present market."

New Reserves Found

The industry is constantly discovering new gas and oil reserves, learning how to go deeper for oil, and utilizing better processes of conservation, Thompson related.

"In peace or in war the prosperity and success of our nation depends basically upon oil and construction," he said. "This should be self-evident to all who know how victory in World Wars I and II was prepared and powered."

He added: "These two great industries have been and still are intimately intertwined in the postwar prosperity. When construction and oil are in generous demand, the economy of the country is in sound condition.

Krug Says Navy May Take Over Tidelands

WASHINGTON, March 2 (AP)—Secretary of the Interior Krug said today if there is a long delay in settling the court dispute over the ownership of oil bearing tidelands it may become necessary to develop them as naval reserves.

Krug told a news conference the President has authority to direct naval development of the submerged oil fields, ownership of which currently is in dispute between the federal government and the states.

He said he prefers the normal procedure of granting oil development leases to private operators, but if the delays continue indefinitely consideration must be given government action.

FIENDISH KILLINGS DESCRIBED

English Business Executive Is Charged In Bizarre Slayings

By JAMES E. BROWN
INS Staff Correspondent

LONDON, March 2—An English business executive was charged with murder tonight in the "acid baths case" termed by Scotland Yard "the most fiendish succession of murders in British criminal history."

John Haigh, 40-year-old company director, was taken handcuffed before a special court in the ancient battlemented city hall of Horsham, 20 miles south of London. A hearing was set for March 11.

Haigh, suspected "bluebird" killer of perhaps six perons whose bodies were plunged into corrosive acid baths before piecemeal burial in an unusued factory grounds, was non-commital.

Other Cases Studied

One hundred persons jammed the small courtroom and crowds massed outside when Haigh was formally charged with the murder of Mrs. Olive Durand-Deacon, a wealthy 69-year-old London widow who had been missing for 13 days.

The Scotland Yard investigation created a sensation in England and sent police back over the distant trails of other missing widows.

Haigh had called at the Chelsea police headquarters in London to help detectives investigate the disappearance of Mrs. Durand-Deacon. He said he had known her for some time and had a date with Mrs. Durand-Deacon when she disappeared.

The widow wore jewelry valued at $2,000 when she disappeared.

Detectives followed a trail that led to a grim collection of charred bones in an abandoned factory yard at Crawley, Sussex county village near Horsham.

They were satisfied that remnants of clothing they found belonged to the missing woman and estimated she was killed Feb. 18.

Their theory is that the murderer visited the factory yard for several days to dispose of the body in pieces after much of it was dissolved in acid.

Fragments of other clothing and bones led police to widen their investigation of other missing persons in a case which a Scotland Yard spokesman said he believed was unprecedented.

The collection of bones and tattered bits of clothing dug up from the factory grounds was taken to London for study by the Yard's scientific experts.

Liquor Regulations May Be Strengthened

AUSTIN, Tex., March 2 (AP)—The House Liquor Regulation committee recommended passage today of a bill designed to plug the cracks in Texas liquor enforcement laws.

The group accepted a rewritten bill from a subcommittee by a vote of 16-1 after such discussion over the use of prices in whiskey advertisements. The present provision allowing use of prices was left untouched.

The original bill, by Rep. Sam Hanna of Dallas, was sent to a subcommittee for rewriting after 18 amendments were presented at a hearing last week.

Rep. Douglas Bergman of Dallas, head of the subcommittee, said some of the 18 amendments were incorporated in the revised bill and some were left out. Bergman said among the amendments left out was one to allow a person to own 15 liquor stores instead of the present limitation of five. Another discarded amendment would have prohibited liquor wholesalers from giving special discounts to retailers.

Solons Almost Ignore Independence Day

AUSTIN, March 2. (AP)—The House had to be called to order twice today while Rep. S. J. Isaacks of El Paso spoke on Texas Independence day.

Eighty-year-old Judge Isaacks, oldest member of the House, read parts of the Texas Declaration of Independence proclaimed 103 years ago.

"The attorney general (of the United States) now is trying to take part of our domain," Isaacks said, referring to the tidelands case. "It all belongs to our public schools.

"The democracy of Texas stands as one man against usurpation of authority by the federal government."

Speaker Durwood Manford asked the House to give attention to the speaker after members rose up twice to say they couldn't hear because of conferences and general confusion on the floor.

Iron Lung Demonstration To Be Conducted Here Monday

Seeking advice on purchase of a new-type portable iron lung for Lubbock, Beta Sigma Phi, young women's sorority, is inviting local physicians and nurses to attend a demonstration of the Monaghan artificial respirator to be held at 8 p.m. Monday in the Hilton hotel ballroom.

Lubbock chapters of the international business women's sorority have had raising money for the lung as a project for the past three years, according to Miss Bert Hartzog, city council president.

Funds are now available, but Miss Hartzog stated the organization feels the need of expert advice in deciding what type iron lung to buy. The model to be demonstrated Monday night weighs only 48 pounds and is capable of treating two persons at once.

When purchase is made, the iron lung will be kept at the city fire station and will be available for use anywhere in the county, Miss Hartzog stated.

Two Persons Killed In El Paso Accident

EL PASO, March 2. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Rafael Molinar were killed instantly this afternoon when a car in which the couple was riding was struck by the Southern Pacific's westbound Sunset Limited at a crossing east of the city limits.

The fatalities brought to five the number of persons killed at lower valley crossings since Jan. 1.

HEARING IS SET

AUSTIN, March 2 (AP) — The House state affairs committee will hold a public hearing March 9 at 7:30 p. m. on a bill to bar Communists from state employment.

Take care of your clothes Electrically

EVER stop to think of what a beating your clothes take when hanging on the line on a windy spring day?

That whipping wind tosses them, pulls them, twists them, detracting every minute from their future usefulness to you.

That can be easily avoided through the use of a scientifically designed labor saving home clothes dryer. In this economical machine, gentle puffs of warm air remove the moisture from your wash, leaving it toast dry. You'll avoid, too, the trouble of bundling up to go out to "hang up clothes" and resulting colds and sniffles.

Put an electrical clothes dryer on your list of electrical needs... you'll like it.

Evil In Its Cure

THE MOST persuasive argument in favor of preserving the right of the filibuster in the U. S. Senate is one most readily apparent to most people.

The filibuster, which means the privilege of virtually unlimited debate, is as old as the Senate. Comparatively few senators have resorted to it. Nearly all have seen legislation in which they were greatly interested blocked, crippled, or delayed by the filibustering of others. The Senate has had the power to halt the practice any time it chose. Yet it has refused to do so. Should more convincing proof be imagined that the Senators themselves believe the right of filibuster has served a worthwhile purpose? Many have condemned it. But they have preserved it.

No one can deny the filibustering privilege has been abused. But aren't the abuses under practices guaranteeing full hearing to minorities infinitely preferable to the risks which would attend restrictions upon freedom of speech? The attempts now being made to place curbs upon filibusters are, in essence, attempts to restrict the senatorial right of free speech. The administration is seeking the power to gag and silence the critics and opponents of its program.

Abuses of the filibuster are to be deplored. But they are abuses which symbolize a democracy. At their most extreme worst, they are far better than those which might result should any political party in power be given the right to refuse hearings to its opposition.

For Texas' Good

THE TEXAS Legislature again is considering a bill which would require the holder of a long-term office to resign upon announcing his candidacy for another elective position. While prospects appear better for enactment of the measure than ever before, most observers will be surprised if it is passed. The quiet, but powerful, opposition to such proposals usually manages to side-track them in some way.

But the need for such a law is apparent to anyone who gives thought to the subject. It is a common occurrence in Texas for an office-holder whose term does not expire to run for a higher and more lucrative position. To get down to a specific case, Railroad Commissioner Olin Culberson, whose term does not expire until 1953, is being mentioned as a gubernatorial candidate in Texas next year.

Mr. Culberson might make an excellent governor. But it would be absurd to argue that he could devote much attention to duty as a Railroad commissioner during a hot gubernatorial campaign—and the prospects are that the 1950 contest will generate considerable heat. Furthermore, if Mr. Culberson should follow the example of many predecessors, he might do a good deal of traveling and propagandizing in behalf of his candidacy on the expense account of a Railroad commissioner. He could contrive, as many in the past have done, to make the taxpayers pay, not only his salary, but a substantial portion of his campaign expenses.

So, with all respect and good feeling to Mr. Culberson, the proposed law looks like one which would serve the best interests of Texas. But we, like most observers, will be surprised if the law is passed.

BOTH Merry and Mike were quiet during dinner, and Aunt Jane, after a swift glance at each intent young face, managed a light chatter that covered their silence but did not demand their attention or their answers.

When the meal was over, she excused herself, and Mike looked at Merry uneasily and asked, "Could we perhaps go for a walk?"

"Why not? If it isn't too hot?"

"Not for me."

She nodded, caught up a wide-brimmed hat and they left the house together. One of the charms of Marshallville, to Merry, was that you could walk a dozen blocks in any direction and be out in the country. From her own home to the south, it was a matter of only three. Without a word, she turned in that direction now, and at the end of the three blocks, where the pavement ended, they turned into a leafy lane that revealed a narrow, winding trail that mounted the town's most ambitious hill. At the top there were wide-spreading oak and hickory trees, a few pines, and a great flat stone that offered a comfortable place to rest.

"It's a funny thing, Merry," Mike broke the silence that had held them since they had left the house. "Seeing you here in your own environment, I understand you and all the things that you feel and think better than if I had known you in New York for a lifetime. I know now why the thought of casual marriage and even more casual divorce repelled you so. You have roots deeply sunk in a real home; you grew up safe inside the walls of a marriage that was meant for life."

"And cracked up after 20 years."

"But isn't 20 good years an awful lot, Merry? How many of us can hope for anything like that? But I can see now, Merry, that a marriage, to last, as you see it, must have its roots deeply set in a home. Not just an apartment or a rented place that you occupy for a few months or a year or so, before you move on. You've got to be part of the town."

Merry said eagerly, "Oh, yes, Mike!"

HE looked out over the town spread before them, and then back at her.

"It's a nice little town, Merry."

He frowned a little, in deep thought.

"You know something, Merry?" he said at last. "I believe now that the reason I've always been so restless and easily bored is that I've never been particularly interested in any place. Mimi tired of places, and we were always moving on. There was never time to get interested. It all boils down to this, Merry: you've got to put down roots and anchor yourself."

"Oh, Mike, I'm so glad you've found that out!"

He looked down at her for a long moment, and the color burned brightly in her lovely face and her eyes were shining. And then Mike turned his eyes away and one clenched fist struck his knee hard.

"It's no good, Merry," he said harshly. "I couldn't stay here, and see you and Tip married."

Merry caught her breath as though he had struck her, and her eyes were wide and stricken.

"Tip. Why, Mike—" Her voice caught in her throat and she was still.

"He's so right for you, Merry. I knew it from the very first moment I saw you two together. But I couldn't stay and watch, and maybe be your best friend, old bachelor Channing, looking on at hearth-fires I couldn't share."

Merry did not know that she was crying until she tasted the salt of tears on her quivering mouth, and her voice came, husky and shaken, "Oh, Mike, you blessed fool!"

MIKE looked at her swiftly. His breath caught, and for a long, shaken moment he could only look deep into her eyes and read, with a dawning incredulous wonder, the lovely message he saw there.

"Merry?" he said at last, his voice a shaken thread of sound.

"Oh, Mike, Mike," she whispered, and leaned toward him. And then suddenly was in his arms, held close and hard against him, her tear-wet cheek against his own.

For a moment that was like an eternity of loveliness, yet only a breathless second of rapture, he held her so; and then he held her away from him and looked down at her, the terrible need for reassurance in so many words causing him to burst into speech.

"Merry, don't play with me, sweetest. Merry, is it — Merry, have you chosen me instead of Tip?"

"Darling, darling, I think I chose you from the very first moment," she told him, and cared nothing for the crystal tears that slipped down her cheeks. "I was afraid, that's all."

"Afraid, sweet? Of me?"

"Of us, Mike. Because I knew for me it had to be for always, or it wouldn't be enough. I knew I couldn't belong to you for just a little while and then let you go. I'm a terribly possessive creature, Mike. I sort of cling to those I love."

His arms drew her close again, and his kiss on her mouth was the loveliest thing she would ever know: that first exquisite kiss of surrender so complete that it was almost painful.

"Oh, Merry, sweetest, I do love you so!" he said unsteadily, like a boy with his first love; not at all the deft, sophisticated, casually expert lover whose outrageous "line" had frightened her slightly.

"For always, Mike?" Her lips were against his ear, her voice so small, so faint that otherwise he would not have heard her.

"Always and forever," said Mike huskily, and his tone held an ineffable tenderness, and exquisite promise that made the words a pledge flung straight in the teeth of the future.

THE END

Looking At Life -- By Erich Brandeis

ONE of my readers has called me to task.

He called me a snob. He called me a capitalist. He called me a "mammon worshipper."

All that because of a recent column in which I reprinted an essay a twelve-year-old boy had written about the Hotel Waldorf Astoria in New York.

BRANDEIS

The boy had called that luxurious caravansery a symbol of America.

My reviler calls it a symbol of capitalism, a place for only the rich.

I don't know whether the fellow is a Communist or not. It doesn't matter.

But he is wrong, very wrong. The Waldorf Astoria is no more a symbol of capitalism than a mink coat or a diamond ring is a symbol of capitalism. While a millionaire stays in a regal suite, a hod-carriers' convention may be going on in the ballroom.

The Waldorf, the Stork Club, the Cadillac automobile, Tiffany's all the other luxury places and luxury things are typically American.

They are typically American because they prove, more eloquently than anything else, what wonderful opportunities there are in America for everyone regardless of origin, race or creed. They prove that yesterday's laborer may well be tomorrow's "capitalist."

Just for the fun of it I did a little checking at the Waldorf after the chap wrote me that letter calling me a snob.

I did a little checking on a few of the recent guests.

One of them—he was occupying a sumptuous suite at goodness knows how many dollars a day—was a millionaire brewer.

Years ago he came over here from Germany without education, without money, without friends.

He lived in a cheap furnished room, he ate whatever he could scrape together.

Today he stops at the Waldorf, in a luxury suite.

Snobbishness? Capitalism? America, I say.

FOR ATLANTIC PACT

Full Backing Seen

By ROGER WARREN
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Signs now indicate that with bi-partisan Congressional approval Uncle Sam will back up a North Atlantic Security Pact with full military strength and with "ship cleared for action."

The opinion of those in contact with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the State Department is that we have gone too far to back out.

The Vandenberg Resolution on individual and collective defense against armed attack, passed by the Senate June 11, 1948 by a vote of 64 to 4, was the first strong hint to Russia, htat we would intervene in the event of a westward push.

Stalin will still reckon us as potentially hostile were we to shy away now. Backtracking also would completely shatter the morale of free Europe that believed President Truman and the Senate in their expressed policies of halting the forward march of Communism.

SECURITY: A certain amount of isolationist sentiment always is voiced on Capitol Hill.

Also Vera Micheles Dean, spokesman of the Independent but influential Foreign Policy Association, warns that "the very process of rearmament (of Pact nations) will generate fear which still further armament will be needed to allay, creating a mounting spiral of expenditures in which military estimates will prevail over considerations of economic recovery."

But security is taking priority in both the Administration and the Congress. In policy-making circles they argue that our position in regard to a regional security pact is different than in the sailing ship, foot soldier era when the writers of the constitution gave Congress sole power to give the order to open fire.

Minor incidents of pride and prestige no longer are considered sufficient justification for launching total war. In the old days we should have demanded and enforced the instant release of American soldiers seized by Czechoslovakia. Neither would we go to war now to save face for one of our impulsive treaty partners. Great insoluable issues would be required.

BINDING: Japan struck without declaring war. We defended ourselves as best we could before Congress assembled to make the solemn declaration. With swift modern planes penetrating sonic barriers, our national survival rests on our ability to strike quickly and as closely to vital enemy territory as possible.

The Constitutional limitation on a formal declaration, of course is binding. No pact, alliance, treaty or public opinion poll can set it aside. But even if there were no proposed North Atlantic Pact, it is probable that public sentiment would rush us into active defense should the Soviet army invade the Low Countries.

For the violation of Western Europe, according to Washington. Authorities on military policy, spells world war. The American people now know that even if they would, they cannot stay out of a global conflict.

Stalin would not risk this threat from us merely to pluck France into his already undigested Soviet sphere. If he took France he would not stop until he tried to take America, the one great barrier to world domination—the goal set in the writings of Lenin and Stalin and toward which all Communists policy is directed.

NORWAY: As in colonial times when Indians might suddenly sweep down on an exposed frontier settlement, modern Americans are building a block house to stay alive.

Our particular interest in having Norway among pact states is because one of the chief threats to American territorial security comes from the direction of the North Atlantic and Arctic. The continental lands of only two European powers, Norway and the Soviet Union, directly front the Arctic. Finland's Petsamo strip now belongs to Russia.

According to U. S. Air Force experts, our new six-engine B-36 plane can take off from Air Force bases in North America, fly to 97 per cent of all important targets of any potential aggressor, drop its bombs from great altitude and return home. It is designed for a top speed of 350 miles an hour.

But these long arms are limited in number. In case of war, bases closer to the foe are essential if we are to use our jet propelled B-45, B-47 and B-49 Flying Wing and the F-86 lightning fighter which streaks through the air at 600 miles an hour.

ISLANDS: Norway owns the Svalbard island group in the polar regions which includes Bear Island and Spitsbergen from which a modern plane can fly as far south as Odessa on the Black Sea. From Oslo, Norway, a bomber can reach. Stalin's trans-Caucasian oil fields. Moscow and all the industrial areas of European Russia are under the bomb sights of aircraft from either starting point.

Conversely, hostile planes from Spitsbergen could attack Alaska, Labrador and Northern Canada and dominate the northern sea lanes to Europe.

From Norway and its islands or from Denmark's Greenland our planes could do much to bottle up Soviet submarines, the only naval ships owned by Russia, that are dangerous to our Navy and our merchant marine.

BASES: From Scandanavian continental lands or island possessions democratic allies could plug the Baltic and batter the big submarine bases which Russia has built in Leningrad, Tallinn and Riga.

Conversely in Soviet hands the Norwegian fjords would be dens for subs as in the days when Hitler's wolf packs lurked there.

These possibilities are being discussed secretly but frankly in circles connected with friendly embassies and the United States government. Such plain talk is not warmongering. It is facing facts, a necessary procedure forced on a peaceful country by a now hostile nation which we once saved from ruin.

The life span of the average man in America is 62.81 years. That is provided he doesn't try to see how much his auto will really do.

Socialized medicine would have its complications. Imagine writing to your congressman about the doctor's bed-side manners.

After 20 years, a North Carolina "wild man" returned to civilization. He evidently hadn't heard of the present high cost of living.

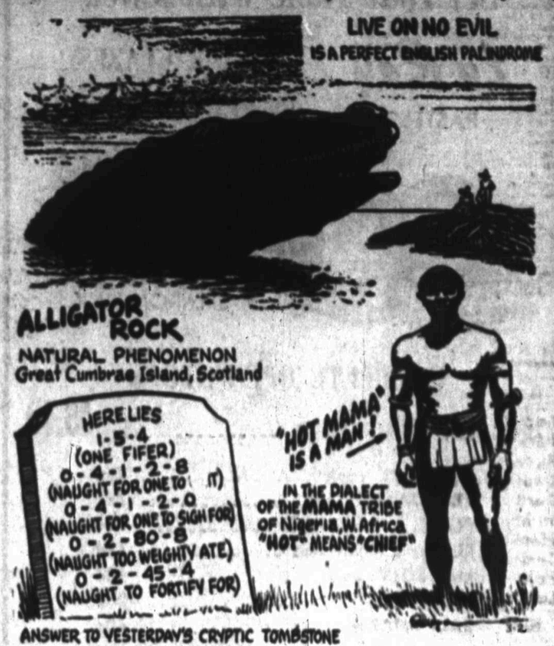

Famous last words: "Hold tight. The pavement is slippery."

The more horsepower the manufacturer places under the hood it seems the less horse-sense the driver displays.

The coinage of a 2½c piece is proposed. It would then buy what the penny used to buy.

Believe It Or Not -- By Robert Ripley

ANSWER TO YESTERDAY'S CRYPTIC TOMBSTONE

ON GIVING ARMS TO ALLIES

Solons Face Momentous Decision

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — A distinction is beginning to be drawn in Congress between the co-called North Atlantic pact, the projected alliance with Canada and Western European democracies, and the proposal linked with it to furnish a billion or two billion dollars' worth of arms to those same nations.

Congress soon will be called upon to approve both. They will be considered separately. It looks as if the arms project will encounter much more opposition in Congress than the alliance. It could be truly dangerous as a step toward war.

STOKES

It is like an overt act. Where an alliance is an understanding between persons to help each other out, the arms project, in this case, is like handing the fellow who is out in front, closest to a possible enemy, a loaded pistol. That is much more of a threat to the other fellow, at least it is so regarded by him.

Stand Is Defended

The alliance, too, holds dangerous potentialities. It can, however, be more easily defended, as it is being defended, and on two grounds. One is that such regional agreements are permissible within the United Nations, as, for example, the Inter-American pact that we have with Latin - American countries, which is held up as the model of the proposed North Atlantic pact. Second is that Russia has her own alliance in Eastern Europe, and has had since the end of the war.

We have criticized Russia for her expansion through her satellite nations and this expansion has been interpreted in some quarters, and in considerable propaganda, as having at least the implications of aggressive intent. It has come to have that meaning in the American mind to a degree. There's no reason, of course, why Russia should not look at the North Atlantic pact in the same way, particularly if it is backed up with armed assistance.

So we definitely enter a slightly warmer stage of the "cold war," which might now be called the "lukewarm war." We edge up closer to each other, and with no smile on our respective faces. We in this country should only be sure that our eyes are open as to exactly what we are about to do. It has not been signed and sealed yet.

Both the alliance and the arms support for Western Europe are new departures for us.

As for the alliance, while it may be compared to that with our Latin-American neighbors to the south, there is really a difference. For well over 100 years we have had the Monroe doctrine in which the United States guarantees Latin America from colonization and conquest from Europe. That is a settled and long-established policy. Our recent alliance is in keeping with that.

But, in the North Atlantic pact, we are reaching out to Europe for an alliance as we never have done before. While we have engaged in two wars in the last quarter century with European allies, we joined the alliance after the war already had begun, and entered both wars well after they had started. This time we are premeditatively working out an alliance in peacetime. There is a difference, and we should recognize that, even if we consider the step necessary.

Sold To Both Groups

Arms support in peacetime by official act of our government is brand new. During other wars through our history, our munitions manufacturers have sold arms, often to both sides, when war broke out somewhere in the world. But there was no official government backing. Our closest previous approach to what we are asked to do now was lend-lease in the last war, which was officially approved by Congress. But it was over a year after the war had started that we decided to become "the arsenal of democracy." When we made that decision we were from that moment in the war, to all intents and purposes.

The arms proposal is rejected in some quarters on purely practical grounds, the argument being that the large expenditure by us would not be worthwhile, since the amount of arms it would supply would not be sufficient to stop Russia if she were really intent on taking over Western Europe.

Before we take these steps irrevocably, we might take another look, for they involve a really momentous decision. In their present stage they offer a bargaining point which might be used to get Russia into negotiations, and certainly that should be attempted. Once they are done the situation might become so rigid on each side that most anything could, and might, happen.

The higher standard of living, absence of mass unemployment and the fact that everyone eats more meat, will leave the world short of meat for the next 10 years, said Professor John Hammond, Cambridge university meat expert, after studying conditions in South Africa.

Wall Street

MARKETS IN SMALL SLUMP

NEW YORK, March 2. (AP)—A small overall decline in today's stock market snapped a three-day rally.

Final prices showed a narrow margin of losses over gains. Most changes were fractional.

In sharp contrast to unusually slow trading was the negotiation of one of the largest deals in the recent history of the exchange. A block of 100,000 shares of Western Air Lines sold at 9¾ for a loss of ⅛.

Turnover of 698,000 shares compared with 736,000 yesterday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped .3 of one point to 83.6 of the 320 issues which changed hands, 146 declined while 217 advanced.

The 100,000 shares of Western Air Line stock, according to a report in Wall Street, was purchased by the investment firm of Burnham and Company for its own account as well as others.

In Denver, G. O. Brooker, general manager of the inland division of Western Airlines, said the block of stock was put on the market by W. A. Coulter, former Western president.

Several stocks responded to corporation news. El Paso Natural Gas gained 1¼ at 75½ following word of a boosted dividend and a stock split-up proposal.

Standard Gas and Electric 6s and $7 preferred each gained two points or so and the $4 added ¾.

Also up were U. S. Steel, General Motors, Goodrich, Sears Roebuck, American Telephone, International Paper, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Gulf Oil, and Great Northern Preferred.

Losers included Youngstown Sheet, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, United Aircraft, Consolidated Natural Gas, American Smelting, Radio Corp., American Woolen, Southern Pacific, Transcontinental and Western Air, and Eastern Air Lines.

Grain

CHICAGO, March 2. (AP)—Corn came out of the country in heavy volume and the government bought 1¼ in large quantities today. As a result, corn prices on the board of trade dropped early and then recovered part of their losses.

Cash dealers estimated corn purchases on a to-arrive basis at 250,000 bushels before the close. Hedging against this cash corn caused figuring to slump, particularly the May delivery. Later, the government was a good buyer and cash houses lifted their hedges. That caused futures to recover part of the lost ground.

Wheat closed ⅛ to 1 cent higher, May $2.18-2.18¼, corn was ⅛-¼ lower, May $1.32-32¼, oats were ⅛ lower to ¼ higher, May 67⅛, rye was unchanged to ¼ higher, May $1.21¼, soybeans were ⅛ to 1 cent lower, March 3.34¾-3.34¾, and lard was 2 to 5 cents a hundred pounds lower, March $12.15.

Cotton

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, March 2. (AP)—Cotton futures were irregular in dull trading today. The market moved lower in early dealings on scattered liquidation and hedging. Subsequently the market improved on covering by local traders, influenced partly by Washington officials that the business outlook for 1949 is good. There were no March notices issued at New York, although nine tenders were issued at New Orleans. The export and textile markets remained quiet.

Attention was attracted to estimates that record plantings of 3,500,000 to 4,000,000 acres will be made in the Texas South Plains area this season compared with 2,100,000 acres last year.

Futures closed unchanged to 75 cents a bale higher than the previous close.

SEPARATE LIFE INSURANCE AGENCY IS FAVORED

Drastic Overhaul Of Veterans Administration Setup Is Urged In Hoover Commission Report

WASHINGTON, March 2. (AP)—The Hoover commission urged today that the Veterans administration put its huge $40,000,000,000 life insurance business in order by setting it up as a separate government corporation.

It recommended also that the veterans' housing loan program be divorced from VA and set up as a unit of the federal housing and home finance agency. And in line with earlier good housekeeping suggestions, the commission, headed by former President Herbert Hoover, said that the Veterans administrator should have greater authority and his subordinates less.

Ninth Report Filed

In the ninth of 15 reports it is making to Congress on making the executive branch more compact and efficient, the 12-man group found numerous defects in VA's operating and administrative structure. It also charged deficiencies in the VA program for insurance, compensation and pensions, and vocational rehabilitation and education.

"In pointing out the defects of the Veterans administration," the report said, "we wish to emphasize that this commission is cognizant of the tremendous and sudden burden thrown upon the organization by the last world war."

"Services to an additional 14,900,000 veterans were authorized by various acts of Congress. Experience under this heavy work load has dictated certain changes in organiaztion that represent real progress."

Work Loads Compared

One of these, the commission found, was in the handling of almost 7,000,000 life insurance policies of veterans with a value slightly less than $40,000,000,000.

The report said employes in the VA life insurance division number 15,432. This means an average work load of 450 policies per employe. But in a comparable insurance company, the report added, the average work load is 1,762 policies.

It found these deficiencies in VA's insurance operations: Inadequate supervision of operators, very slow service in settlement of death claims and issuance of converted policies, and tardiness in calculation of insurance dividends. The commission therefore recommended:

Urges Corporation Setup

"That all functions relating to insurance (including the processing of death claims from beneficiaries) be consolidated and incorporated into a veterans life insurance corporation."

The veterans administrator would be president, with authority for day-by-day operations vested in an executive vice-president and general manager appointed by the administrator.

The commission made no reference to VA's huge medical and hospital program. It said this program will be embodied in a later report on "medical services." It is known, however, that the commission will recommend a vigorous retrenchment in VA's hospital building program—a course which VA recently took when it cancelled 24 proposed hospitals and ordered 14 others under construction reduced in size.

Tech Geology Field Trip Set For Summer

Around 180 students have signed up for a Geology field trip to Las Vegas, N. M., that will be conducted by the Tech Geology department this summer.

Two required courses for all Geology majors will be studied. Students who expect to graduate by the summer of 1950 will make the trip. The group will be quartered in old army barracks about four miles west of Las Vegas. They will take their meals at the cafeteria of New Mexico Highland university.

John P. Brand, Fredrick Warn and William C. Irvin, all of the Tech Geology department, and William Tanner from Oklahoma Baptist university will be with the group for the first course. J. W. Mallad from Odessa will join the group for the last half of the work.

FOOD BILLS DON'T WAIT

BOSTON (AP)—When Salvatore DeMare, 24, arraigned for nonsupport of his family, explained that he was a tomato packer "and this is the dull season," Municpal Judge Jennie L. Barron said: "There's no reason for you to wait for the tomatoes to grow before going to work."

San Angelo Fat Stock Show, Rodeo Scheduled To Open Today

SAN ANGELO, March 2. (AP)—More than 1,300 fat calves, fat lambs, fat pigs and registered breeding stock were in pens at the San Angelo fair grounds today for the formal opening tomorrow of the sixteenth annual fat stock show and rodeo.

The show will run through Sunday with an auction sale of boys' fattened animals Monday morning.

Show leaders expect a record breaking attendance if the weather is favorable for four afternoon rodeo performances.

Sifting of lambs and calves was under way this afternoon.

Judging of baby beeves gets under way tomorrow morning. All breeding sheep classes also will be judged.

A fat lamb show—largest in the Southwest—is Friday. Hereford and Brahman breeding cattle will be judged also Friday with judging of fat pigs and Aberdeen Angus breeding cattle Saturday morning.

A western mounted parade tomorrow morning formally opens this year's show. It will be reviewed by more than a dozen U. S., French, British and Chinese military men, assigned to the United Nations at Lake Success. These visitors will be guests at M. D. Bryant's ranch near here Friday when cowboys will be working calves.
