All classroom teachers of the Wellington public schools were re-elected by the school board in a meeting Monday night, March 11.

In announcing the list, Supt. J. L. Harper reminded that the board in earlier meetings had elected school administrators and coaches for the 1968-69 school year.

Moisture Conditions Best in Many Years

The best moisture situation in years faces Collingsworth farmers and ranchers, and a wet snow which fell Monday, March 11, added to the store.

The snow itself was difficult to measure due to the wind that accompanied it. In grass and plowed fields, much of it held where it fell and by Tuesday afternoon had soaked in. The fall here was considerably lighter than that on the Plains and farther to the southeast.

There was no appreciable drifting. The temperature hovered at the freezing mark all day, and the anly suffering to livestock reported was to new calves.

The snow melted on the highways as it fell and gave no trouble, although the State Highway Department sanded the bridges on all highways in the county Monday night.

"We almost have a surplus of moisture—we should never say we have a surplus here," County Agent Sammy Helmers said. He added that the land was in the best condition, from the standpoint of moisture that it has been in years.

The county is behind in plowing and getting the land ready for planting, but that is true over much of the state, Mr. Helmers said.

Much wheat is still infested with greenbugs, but with a short period of warm weather it can quickly outgrow the insects, the county agent said.

Moisture for the first two and a half months of 1968 measures 5.45 inches by the WeatherScan equipment of Vumore. This includes the last several days that moisture fell, which amounted to .85 inch.

Goal Set at $1,200

Mrs. Edd Henard Heads 1968 Cancer Crusade; Drive Set

March and April have been designated as American Cancer Months, both nationally and in Collingsworth County. The drive will be conducted here under the direction of Mrs. Edd Henard, who recently was appointed chairman.

The Collingsworth goal this year is $1,200, Mrs. Henard announced. The fund drive will be held during the last week in March.

Mrs. Jimmie Strickland and Mrs. Nita White have been named as co-chairmen for the City of Wellington, and other community workers will be announced later, Mrs. Henard said.

"It takes our dollars to fight cancer," the chairman said, "but knowledge about the disease is equally important. All our house to house workers will have educational material to give to the people.

"This year, workers will be conducting the New Health Information Survey. Through this survey, being done only in Texas, the ACS will learn how to plan more efficient eductaional programs. In addition, the survey calls attention to the need for a regular complete health examination in a new and effective way.

"It takes a lot of interested and willing people to work, to make this Crusade a success. I will need several volunteer workers for our house to house campaign," Mrs. Henard said.

Collingsworth is part of the 19-county District 3-N, which this year has a goal of $74,000.

Noting that cancer is the most dreaded of diseases, Mrs. Henard reminded that the American Cancer National Clinical Fellowship Program, which began July 1, 1948, has invested up to July 1, 1967, a total of about $11 million for the training of over 2,400 physicians and dentists.

This program, which provides post graduate training, now exceeds the million dollar a year level.

Three candidates have filed for the three places on the Wellington City Council, which will be voted on Saturday, April 6.

Cliff Hartman, a Wellington ag-pilot and supporter of aviation development in the area, is seeking the office for the first time.

J. Y. Martin, who operates the OK Rubber Welders and is a representative for the Farmers Union, is the other candidate who is not presently on the council.

E. H. Harwell, who is serving an unexpired term, is a candidate for election to his first full term.

Leon Hartman is not a candidate for re-election and neither is Bobo Castleberry. Both have served two terms on the city council.

A drawing was held Monday, March 11, for placing on the ballot, and the names will appear in this order:

CLIFF HARTMAN
E. H. HARWELL
J. Y. MARTIN

The election this year will be held in the Club Room of Bura Handley Community Center, with Earl Hunter as election judge and Joe Terry as alternate. The polls will be open between 8 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Due to changes in the election law, the municipal election will be held on Saturday for the first time.

County Has First Traffic Fatality of '68

Collingsworth County had its first traffic fatality of 1968 when Mrs. Callie F. Poppajohn, 67, of Clarendon died at 9 a.m. Thursday, March 7 in a one-car accident at the intersection of State Highway 203 and US 83 two miles north of Wellington.

Sheriff John Rainey reported that Mrs. Poppajohn was driving east on SH 203 and it appeared that she tried to turn left onto US 83. The car, a 1966 Chevrolet, overturned and came to rest on its top.

There were "quite a few skid marks" he said. No other car was involved.

The woman was dead when officers arrived, Sheriff Rainey said.

Scout Supper Raises $100

Boy Scouts of Troop 32 raised approximately $100 from the sale of tickets to their Chili Supper Friday evening, March 8.

Wellington Jaycees, who sponsor the troop, donated the use of their hall for the supper, and mothers of the Scouts prepared the chili.

Proceeds from the supper will be used to finance Scout projects, part of which concern the new Adobe Walls Reservation between Wheeler and Mobeetie.

Plans Complete for Annual Band Banquet

Don Baird, assistant band director and brass instructor at West Texas State University, Canyon, will be the speaker at the annual Wellington Band Banquet.

That event will be Friday, March 15 at 8 p.m. in Bura Handley Community Center.

"This is to honor the kids who have worked so hard in our bands this year," said Director James Larson.

Seniors will be recognized for their achievements during their band careers.

Entertainment will include films of the West Texas State Band and the Skyrocket Band, according to Mr. Larson.

Tickets are still available and the event is open to anyone who would like to pay tribute to the Wellington school bands.

Catholic Church Sets Mission Mar. 24-29

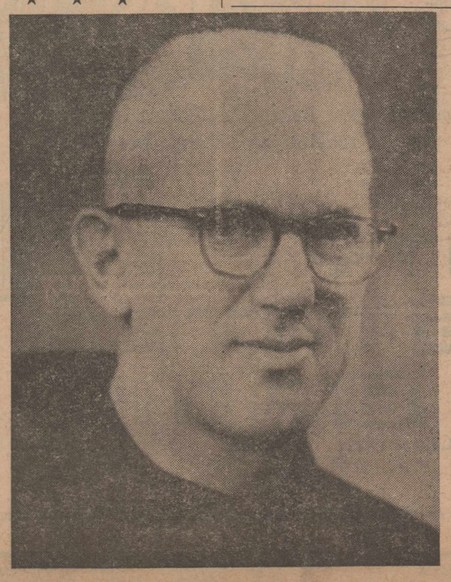

For the first time in almost 15 years, a Mission will be held at Our Mother of Mercy Catholic Church, starting Sunday, March 24 and ending Friday, March 29.

The Mission will be conducted by Father Paul Feichter, a Franciscan priest from Denver, Colo. Father Paul is a native of New York and a graduate of St. Bonaventure University. He was ordained to the priesthood in Washington, D.C., by Archbishop Cigognani, now Vatican Secretary of State. Most of his priestly life has been spent in conducting missions and retreats in forty-eight of the fifty states.

Each evening of the Mission, Holy Mass will be offered at 8 p.m., with a special sermon afterwards, followed by Confessions. Father Paul will stay at S. Joseph's Hospital, and will be available at any time for consultation on spiritual or moral matters.

The Parish Priest, Father Pat Burke, will be in charge of the overall conducting of the Mission, and he urges all Catholics of the county and their friends to take this opportunity to renew their faith in God, and to take stock of their spiritual lives during the week of the Mission.

Off Season Program Progresses

Track Team Enters Panhandle Contest

Not only is Wellington High School's relatively inexperienced track and field team competing with other schools, they are having to battle the weather at a crucial time.

With the end of the basketball season, all athletes are now engaged in one of two activities—track, under the direction of head coach Thayne Amonett, or off-season athletic program coached by Tank Forrester.

Two lettermen are back on Coach Amonett's track team this year, Andy Henard, who participates in the high hurdles and high jump, and Herman Moore, a member of relay teams and pole vault contestant.

"We don't have a great deal of speed," said Coach Amonett. "The kids are working real well when we have the weather to work in. We had a practice meet with Childress Thursday, March 7, which we didn't keep points on, but they did real well."

The Skyrockets will compete in their first track meet Friday and Saturday, March 15 and 16, when they go to Panhandle. The preliminaries are scheduled for the first day and the finals set for Saturday.

A meet at Shamrock, which was planned for March 2, was rained out.

The Skyrockets will compete in the annual Iowa Park track meet on Saturday, March 23, and a meet is set tentatively with Childress on Thursday afternoon, March 28.

That will be the last competition before the District 2-AA track meet to be held in Vernon Friday, April 5. The preliminaries are planned for the afternoon and the finals Friday night.

"That will end track season except for those who qualify for the regional," Coach Amonett said. There is no bi-district competition in track.

Boys slated to enter the Panhandle meet are:

440 yard relay: Danny West, Tony Hurst, Andy Lowe and Herman Moore; 800 yard dash: Nicky Watts; 120 yard high hurdles: Andy Henard and Dallas Holland.

100 yard dash: Lowe, Hurst and Moore; 440 yard dash: Ga-

2nd Lt. Bobby King

Turkey Has Surprises for County Officer

Second Lt. Bobby C. King, who is stationed with the Air Force at Lakenheath, England, recently was sent to a US Air Base near Izmir, Turkey, for a short period of duty. In this letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill King of Dozier, he tells of his visit to that city and some of his reactions to the country.

Here are excerpts from the letter:

From up above, Turkey looked real wet. I found out later that this is their wet season and it is usually pretty dry. I was surprised at how yellow the country was. It looked like it was about the color of our house, maybe a little darker, and the rivers looked like they were running mud. We got off the plane about 12:30 (which was 2:30 their time). There was a man there to meet me and he took me down to where our people were working, and briefed me on what I had to do.

Then one of my friends picked me up and we drove down around the flight line. By then it was about 4:30 and I still hadn't had anything to eat except one candy bar and four cups of coffee, so we went up on base, cleaned up, changed clothes and went to eat.

The bus we went in on was real crowded and I had to stand up, so I didn't get to see any of the countryside.

But Izmir was something to see. We got off the bus at the downtown Officers' Club, which sits right next to the Bay of Izmir. Boy, that's something! A great, big, wide open bay with real deep blue water and ships from all over the world sitting there. There is a big paved walk-way that runs along the water, and we walked down it for about a mile. I was real surprised! It was the first time I was ever around water that didn't smell like dead fish. It didn't smell bad at all.

Then we cut over into the market area and walked up through it. There must have been 10 million people out here. The market is right out in the street, except that the street is only about 15 feet wide at the most. That's from building to building, sidewalk, street and all. The merchants have their goods on little push carts, and they're just lined up in the middle of the street.

The people are streaming back and forth; it's just a solid mass of moving people.

And there is no organization at all to the streets. They twist and turn, and little alleys run off in all directions. While we were on the main drag, a funeral procession came through. They were all driving American cars and were honking their horns all the way. The merchants had to move their stuff over to the side, and the people packed in around the edges, and the cars crept through.

We turned up one alley way that is called "Jewelers' Row." It's about 6 feet wide and there are nothing but little jewelry shops on both sides for about 200 yards. I'm not exaggerating any. There wasn't a single other kind of store. All jewelry. The little shops were about 5 feet wide by about 6 feet long, and there must have been hundreds of them. And they had some fabulous buys. Everything was so much cheaper than in the states. I didn't buy anything while I was there, but I saw a lot of things, and I'll be back before I leave here.

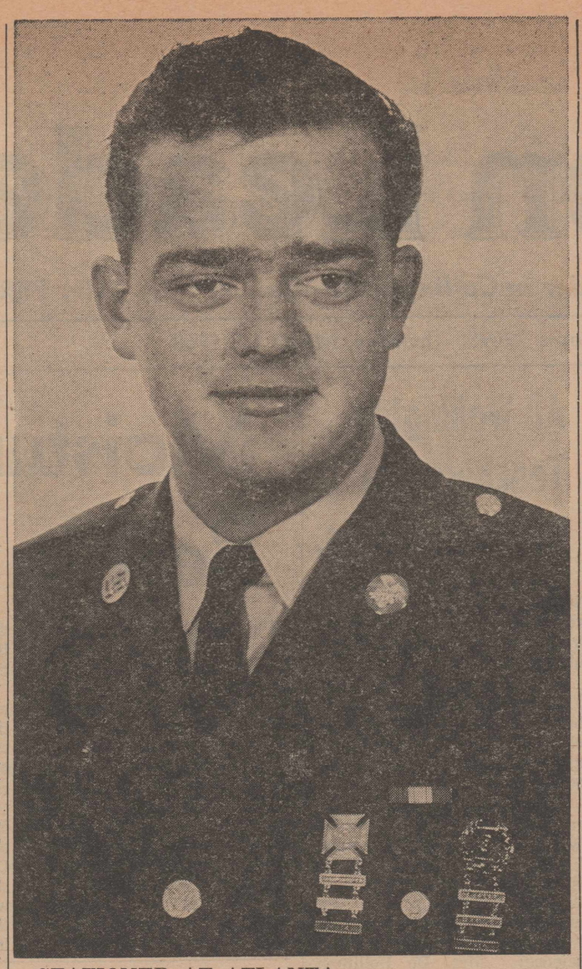

Then we went into the leather district. There were shops and shops with nothing but leather and suede goods. Boy, they sure had some nice things, and again the prices were fantastic.

We spent about five hours just walking around looking at people and shops and things. They still use a lot of horse-drawn carts over there, and the horses are the rattiest things you ever saw. I think they feed them on sawdust. The horses almost always die in harness and when they do, the owner just unhitches and pulls the cart off behind. The horse may lay there three or four days before it gets carried off.

. . . Boy, these bus rides were something. It was an Air Force bus, but it was driven by a Turk. The Air Force has a regular bus service between the base and Izmir. It carries American servicemen and Turks who work on base. It's always full. I had to stand up both times. The Turks drive hell for leather all the time, and the roads are crooked and full of holes, and they blow the horn all the time. But the worst part is the smell of Turkish cigarettes. Boy, they stink! They just darn near make you sick. In fact a lot of people do get sick riding that bus from the smell. I was lucky. I've got a strong stomach and a forgiving nose.

. . . I had a real curious feeling on that last Thursday night I was there. We were at some of the teachers' place having a little party. Our commander, Col. Evans, left for a little while to go listen to the news. When he came back, he told us about the Pueblo crisis and about the reserves getting called up back home. Here we were, only a couple of hundred miles from Russia and a major world crisis going on. Somebody made a movie about World War II a few years ago called "The Young Lions." I remember a scene in that show of a bunch of German officers at a little party back in 1939 when they got the news of Germany invading Poland. Of course there were a lot of "Dey Heils" and excitement.

Well, our little party was almost a duplicate of it. There wasn't any cheering or anything like that. But here was a group of men, all pilots except me, expert soldiers, the best in the world in the air, and the excitement was there. It was like watching a replay of history to sit back and watch that party that night. It was really unusual; I wish that I was a good enough writer to write what I felt that night.

• FIRST FLOOR OF HOUSE WITHOUT A BASEMENT

Place boxes or drawers on top and around the sides of a sturdy table or workbench and fill them with heavy materials. Often a makeshift table can be made by using doors supported by cabinets or other pieces of furniture. (See Fig. B.)

NOTE: This is a cutaway drawing. The people being protected should be surrounded by the protective materials.

Fig. B. Improvised fallout protection in a home without a basement.

• STORM CELLARS

If the existing roof of the storm cellar is made of wood or other light material, it should be covered with one foot of earth for overhead shielding from fallout. More posts or braces may be needed to support the extra weight (See-Fig. C). After the roof has been shielded, better protection can be provided by blocking the entrance way with concrete blocks, sand bags, bricks, earth or other shielding material, after all occupants are inside the shelter. A few inches should be left open at the top to provide ventilation. If shielding material is not available for the entrance way, shelter occupants should stay as far away from it as possible.

Notes

from Your Home Demonstration Agent

By Leta Hill

Snacks

Eating between meals is a well-established custom in the United States, particularly among children and teen-agers. But do the snacks you serve supplement the day's diet or just add extra calories?

10 to 15 percent of a person's daily calories is supplied by snacks.

Good snack foods add essential nutrients to the diet in addition to the calories they supply. Sensible snacks include: celery, carrot sticks and other raw vegetables, nuts, peanut butter, cheese, apples, oranges and other raw fruits and milk. They fall into one of the four food groups.

The following recipe is a nutritious, sensible snack:

Choco-Mint Shake

Put 2 tablespoons chocolate syrup, I cup milk and 1 large serving of peppermint ice cream in a mixer and shake well. Makes 1 serving.

This snack fits teen-agers' and children's taste:

Uncooked Peanut Butter Fudge

1 cup peanut butter
1 cup corn syrup
1¼ cups sifted powdered sugar
1¼ cups dry milk

Mix peanut butter and syrup in mixing bowl. Add dry milk and powdered sugar all at once. Mix all together, first with a mixing spoon and then with the hands. Knead until all the dry ingredients are mixed in. Turn onto a board and continue kneading until it is smooth. Form into a roll and slice or press out by hands or rolling pin onto a block ½ inch thick. Cut in squares. (Makes about 2 pounds).

Fruits in Family Meals

The USDA has prepared a new home and garden bulletin entitled "Fruits in Family Meals." This bulletin is a guide for consumers in buying, storing and using the fruits in your meals. One picture shows how to prepare fresh pineapple. Also many new recipes are included. How about pan-fried peaches, apples or pineapple? Or maybe you would rather try fruited shrimp salad, peach dumplings or red raspberry swirls. All of these recipes are included in this new USDA bulletin that is available at your local Home Demonstration Agent's office.

Leg Fashions

With increasing emphasis on leg fashion, here are some guide lines.

With the appropriate hose, legs can be made to look more shapely, thinner, longer or shorter.

Several types of stockings, such as the "wet look", shiny and rounded, tend to de-emphasize the leg size. The eye sees the area the light strikes and the areas to either side of the shine fade in importance.

Vertical stripes and very small designs, generally in medium to dark colors tend to slim the leg.

Short legs look longer if the color is continuous from the waistline to the shoe.

Thin legs look more shapely or heavier in white stockings, opaque hose fishnets, geometrics and pastel or bright colors, but the wearer should blend these with her costume.

Textured hose are best if worn with a chunky heeled, rounded or squared shoe.

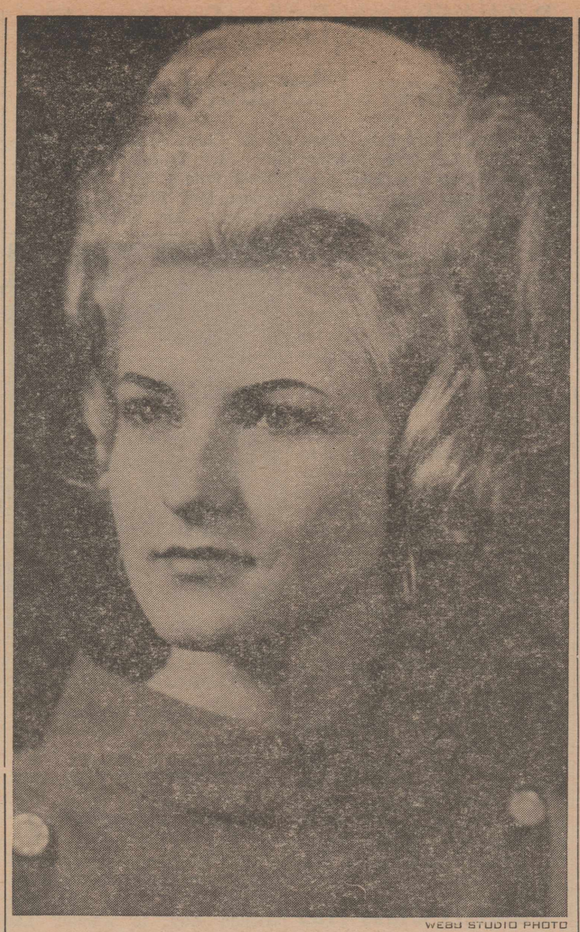

What's New

• Rugs can be made "skid proof" with an aerosol spray that dries in an hour and does not affect washability of any rug small enough to go into a washer. Larger rugs should be turned over and sponged occasionally with soap or detergent suds. Otherwise, a build-up of surface dust and floor wax may break the "grip" which anchors the rug in place.

• No matter how fast paced a vacation or quick trip may be(you can keep hair shiny clean at a moment's notice with the help of a tiny new hair dryer. Measuring under 5 inches by 4 inches by 2 inches, this dryer fits easily into an overnight case and weighs only 12 ounces. It can even double as a quick clothes dryer for hand washables.

Miss Becky Grasmuck, Houston, Miss Karen Richardson and Miss Linda Richardson, all students at Texas Tech, Lubbock, spent the week end with the Richardson girls' parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Richardson.

Miss Patsy Falk, who teaches in the Mangum, Okla., schools, visited her parents Mr. and Mrs. Frank Falk over the week end.

Ninty-First Birthday Celebration Honors W. B. Wilson on Sunday

A large group of friends, with many coming from out of the county, gathered to honor W. B. (Bill) Wilson at his 91st birthday celebration Sunday, March 10.

The event was held in the Bura Handley Community Center, and although Mr. Wilson's birthday was not until Tuesday, the celebration was held Sunday so more friends could attend.

Most of the day was given over to visiting, although in the afternoon, old-time singing entertained the crowd. Pictures were made during the day.

Mr. Wilson, a retired farmer, was born March 12, 1877 in Ellis County, and he lived there until he and his young family came to the Satt Fork community about 1906.

He continued to live on the same farm throughout his active farming career, and sold it only a few years ago.

About 12 years ago, Mr. Wilson moved into Wellington and makes his home on Dallas St.

He was married to Miss Maybelle Reynolds about 70 years ago in Ellis County. She passed away in 1940.

Active in his community, Mr. Wilson helped organize the Salt Fork Methodist Church and he recalls helping haul the lumber from Shamrock to Build both the first church and the first Salt Fork school. He also served on the school board for a number of years.

Both these institutions have disappeared from the Salt Fork community, the school into the Quail consolidated district in the mid-1930's, and the church became part of the Trinity Methodist Church in Wellington, of which he is now a member.

Mr. Wilson's unusual alertness and activity belie his 91 birthdays. Until about a year ago, he walked downtown every day.

All of his seven children were present for the birthday celebration, along with many grandchildren.

Children and children-in-law were Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Oldham of Lutie, Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Wilson of Borger, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Bledsoe of Fort Sumner, N.M., Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Mercer and daughter of Littlefield, Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson of Quail, Wade Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Wilson of Wellington.

Other relatives and friends coming from out of the county were Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Wilson and children, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Wilson, and Mrs. Richard Savage and Juli of Borger;

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Wilson of Maypearl, Mrs. Maurine May of O'Keene, Okla., Mr. and Mrs. Preston Gilbreth of Hedley, G. E. Atkinson of Pleasant View, Colo., Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mitchell of Hale Center;

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gilbreth and family of Lakeview, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Miller and Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Mitchell of Memphis, Maude Painter Mitchell of Fort Worth, Annie Painter Dreesen of Denison, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Ming of Pritchett, Colo., and Gano Wilson of Farwell.

Club Hears of Texas Heritage

The Belles Lettres Club met Tuesday, March 5, in the home of Mrs. J. H. Wood, with Mrs. Henry Vaughan presenting the program on Texas Heritage.

Basing her talk on the book, "Sam Houston's Texas," by Sue Flanagan, Mrs. Vaughan told of the author's fascination with the descriptive power and panoramic vision of Houston, which she called "as modern as manned spacecraft."

"The ink was scarcely dry on Karl Marx 'Manifesto' of 1848 when Houston, in early 1850, began warning against 'socialism' and the effects of agitation leading to 'assassinations and anarchy.' " she said.

Mrs. Vaughan said Houston had three purposes when he entered Texas at Old Jonesboro Crossing, 25 miles northwest of Clarksville on Dec. 2, 1832, as an envoy to the Indians for President Jackson.

He was to serve as legal counsel for a New York land company and secure land grants for them; he had an interest in another land company, for the purpose of securing rights to settle 800 families in the Brazos River basin; and he was a partner in still another company to buy up available rights. In just 29 days he had accomplished these things!

Mrs. Vaughan then traced the remainder of his life in Texas.

Attending the meeting were Mrs. A. B. Clark, Mrs. Bryan Denley, Mrs. F. A. Hatch, Mrs. Bob Hightower, Mrs. S. B. Owen, Mrs. Howard Riggs, Mrs. J. M. Stowell, Mrs. Joe Thompson, Mrs. Hershel Tyler, Mrs. Coy Vaughan, Mrs. Henry Vaughan, Mrs. Bernice Welch, and Mrs. E. F. Bartlett.

Wellington Future Homemakers to Participate in Area Convention

Spring fashions and young girls will take over Amarillo March 15-16, when 3,300 high school girls who are members of the Area I, Texas Association of Future Homemakers of America will be attending their annual convention. The activities and program on Friday night will be held at Tascosa High School, while Saturday, the group will convene at the City Auditorium.

A talent festival will be a feature of the evening program March 15, at Tascosa High School Auditorium. Local chapters from schools within a 38-county boundary will be performing with Janie Thomas, a senior from Roosevelt Rural High School as the emcee. New officers for the 1968-69 year will be elected when the delegates meet in the Tascosa study hall. Miss Thel Daniel of Spearman, area parliamentarian, will be in charge of the election and business session. Patricia Thomas of Wellington, Area I historian, will assist other officers and Polly Browning, Wellington FHA president, will be the chapter's voting delegate.

In one of the highlights of the convention, honors will come to a Wellington woman. Both area and state honorary membership will be conferred on Mrs. John Coffee, who has worked closely with the chapter.

A new entertainment feature for the convention will be the Ima Dee Singers, a choir composed of ninth and tenth grade girls from area chapters. Susan Oney will be among the 125 girls who perform in a concert just before lunch Friday.

Susan Coffee is a member of the Sharon Singers, composed of Future Homemakers from the eleventh and twelfth grades. They will perform selections from "Man from LaMancha," at the afternoon session.

Patricia Thomas and Susan Coffee will be among the state degree winners recognized in a special ceremony following the concert. Although they receive the highest honor from the Area FHA Association, they will also be recognized along with other area winners at the state convention in Austin in April.

Family Income at New Peak

COLLEGE STATION.—American family income has reached a new peak. The median income of all families in 1966 was $7,400, 7% increase from 1965.

Although prices have risen, too, Extension home managment specialists at Texas A&M University say real consumer purchasing power gained about 4%. Prices rose about 3% between 1965 and 1966.

The number of low-income families has decreased and the number of high-income families has increased. The percentage of families with incomes less than $3,000 dropped from 16% in 1965 to 14% in 1966. The percentage of families receiving $10,000 or more increased from 27% to 30%.

The 1966 median income more than doubled the 1950 figure.

This income growth is attributed to several factors. Rising productivity of the American economy and working wives are two primary ones.

In 1967, 35% of all wives were in paid jobs. In 1957, the percentage was 27.

The mediam income of husband-wife families in which the wife was a paid worker was $9,200. This was 30% higher than the median income of $7,100 for families in which the wife was not in the paid labor force.

HemisFair Is One-of-a-Kind

Jim Gaines, chief executive officer at HemisFair'68 makes it clear that the San Antonio World's Fair is a one-of-a-kind item, and unlike anything before.

"It is not Montreal; it is not New York; it is not Seattle; it is not Brussels, San Francisco nor even 1904 at St. Louis," Gaines said in a recent speech. "It is San Antonio—different San Antonio—San Antonio 1968.

"It is an Exposition which in its time and in its place, is as distinctively different as any that have gone before. It is a people's Fair — designed for them—to be pervaded by an atmosphere of Fiesta gaiety—at prices guests and we can afford."

Bridal Shower Friday Evening at Quail Honors Miss Judy Campbell

Crystal Room Found in Cavern

A vast new room, crystalline and translucent, has been discovered in Natural Bridge Caverns in New Braunfels.

The extent of the new room is still unknown, because the only three people who have been lowered into its depth have not explored it fully.

Joe Burch, employe of the caverns who has visited the room, said it contains many delicate "soda straw" formations.

He said, "Some of them are almost five feet long and about the size of a cigarette. A rare column is no bigger than a dime and stretches out seven feet."

Discovery of the room and plans for its development were announced by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Heidemann, owners of the caverns.

Texas House Speaker Ben Barnes, who dedicated a State Historical Marker at Natural Bridge Caverns, said 60,000 persons visited the attraction last year.

German Orchestra has Brief Stop in City

Wellington was host for an hour Monday, March 11, to the Munich Chamber Orchestra, an internationally known string orchestra from Munich, Germany.

Traveling by bus, the group stopped for lunch at Cherokee Inn Restaurant, as they were en route to Denver, Colo., from concerts at Brownwood and Snyder.

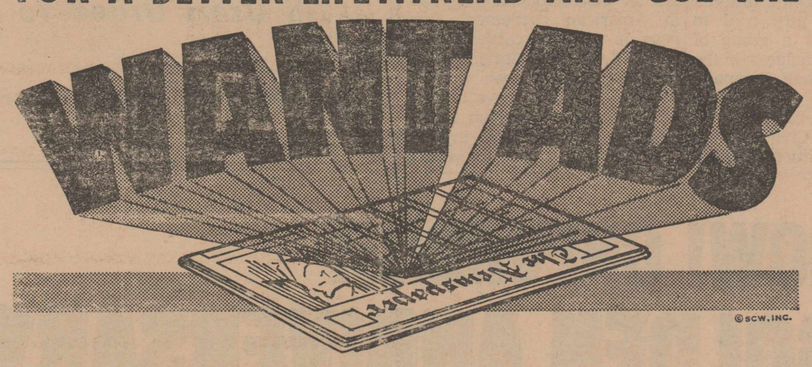

The Munich Chamber Orchestra with Hans Stadlmair as conductor and permanent music director, is on a 6-weeks tour of the United States, appearing in such cities as New York, Washington, Memphis and Detroit. From Denver, the orchestra will go to Fargo, N.D., then turn east again.

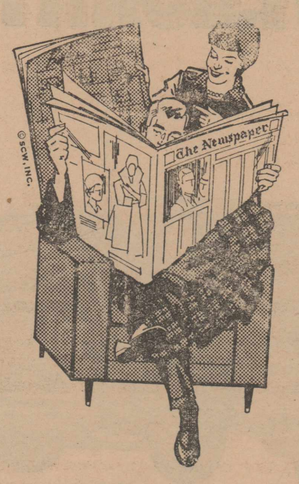

The orchestra consists of 15 virtuoso string players plus a harpsicordist. It has performed thousands of concerts outside of Germany and its tours have taken it to South America, Puerto Rico where the group played for Casals, Africa, and a visit to the United States in 1966-67.

An unusual feature of the concerts, and one which has aroused considerable attention, is the use of authentic instrumentation for the baroque music which it plays, said Emmerlich Bunemann, first cellist and manager.

Wellington residents in Cherokee Inn Restaurant when the group stopped were impressed by their good looks and their good humor . . . for they were obviously enjoying their lunch.

Civil Defense Does Fine Job; But Individual Has Responsibility, too

A magnificent job was done in setting up this county's Civil Defense Emergency Fallout Shelter Plan, and certainly those who had a part in the work should be commended.

They have mapped the county carefully and they found adequate public shelter to protect everyone in the county who might need it in case of nuclear attack.

Within a few days, each family will receive a copy of the Family Emergency Plan. We cannot urge too strongly that you study it carefully.

The folder is complete, and the information is the latest that is available. As we learn more about radioactive fallout, we are better able to protect ourselves from it.

The responsibility for protection from radioactive fallout, after all, remains with the family and the individual. We must make our own plans and our own preparations ahead of time. Most homes have at least one place that can be planned as a shelter, whether it is a basement, a storm cellar, or in the house.

A little planning, a little ingenuity, can make these more comfortable—game rooms, in fact, for non-emergency use, but stocked first of all with those supplies that are essential for survival up to two weeks.

We must do these things ourselves. The county Civil Defense cannot do them for us.

The Laymen Speak

Many Methodist laymen are protesting a proposed resolution on Viet Nam approved by the church's council of bishops. It calls for a cease-fire by Allied forces and the "maintenance of positions for the safeguarding of life and order."

We have tried before to stop one side of the war, and previous cease-fire experiments have resulted in not peace but further savagery by the aggressor. Now apparently these laymen are concerned that their church would urge repetition of past mistakes.

It is high time the laymen spoke up. If he loves his country and is dedicated to preserving freedom by repelling the invader, he may not be in the majority. But the time has come for finding out whether he is.

Too long have ad hoc committees and high-sounding commissions and councils spoken for him. They crank out press releases implying that their pronouncements are buttressed by masses of Christendom. But are they? Do they speak for the vast majority of laymen who sit on no lofty boards but who serve their Lord quietly and with diligence?

Again, the boards and commissions may well speak for the majority, from church school class up through the highest echelons. Furthermore, the majority may be perfectly content with the situation.

In the absence of much evidence either way, suffice it to applaud the loyal but dissident layman for the spunk to say bunk. —The Dallas Morning News

It's A Date

STATE Capital NEWS By VERN SANFORD

AUSTIN.—Rural areas are surprising the experts on voter registration.

Preliminary figures submitted to Comptroller Robert S. Calvert show that the first 100 counties to report on their voters, all smaller counties, had a 63.5% gain over last year.

Estimates by tax collectors in the three largest counties—Harris, Dallas and Bexar—indicate gains of only 13.6%, 31.7% and 18%.

Some of the increase in rural counties is due to the fact that voters over age 60 in rural areas and towns under 10,000 now must register to vote. Heretofore, they could vote without registering.

It is estimated that the number of qualified voters in Texas will exceed 4,000,000 this year. Final figures will not be in until April 1, the date that county reports are due.

School Costs Rising

Local school districts' share of the minimum foundation school program for next year will be $5,800,000 higher than the current level.

However, only 74 districts will have to pay a bigger share of teacher salaries, maintenance and operations costs of schools, bus transportation and Texas Education Agency operating expenses. In fact, 157 will pay less.

Total estimated cost for the minimum foundation school program this year has grown to $739,112,195. Local fund assignment is $159,600,000.

State Board of Education approved a new economic index on which each local district's share is calculated, selected textbooks for 23 subjects and all grades, and endorsed a plan for spending $737,950 in federal funds to aid handicapped children. While the bulk of the money would be spent in larger school districts, Victoria, Huntsville, Mount Pleasant, San Angelo and Midland will obtain $8,400 each to effect special education plans for handicapped youngsters in rural and sparsely-settled areas.

Vocational Training Urged

Need for improved vocational-technical education to train the unemployed for paying jobs is being spotlighted in Texas as never before.

Virtually all major candidates for governor are proposing this as one way to trim welfare rolls, raise more taxes, curb the danger of riots and reduce crime.

Both House and Senate committees are conducting hearings and studies on how best to expand training courses and improve techniques.

Gov. John Connally gave job training facilities a major boost by endorsing an application of the Lower Rio Grande Development Council for a $9,000,000 federal grant to build and operate a new technical institute at Harlingen Air Force Base.

Connally said he feels that most such training probably should be handled through the junior college system. But he described area problems as so urgent that waiting for development of a system was not feasible.

He said he will recommend to the next legislature an appropriate state agency to run the new institute permanently. Meanwhile, he recommended that Texas A&M University and James Connally Technical Institute at Waco operate the Harlingen facilities.

Last year the legislature appropriated $5,200,000 to buy facilities and equipment at James Connally Air Force Base to launch the state's first program of this kind.

Funds from the Federal Manpower Development Training Act will finance 90% of the Harlingen's facility's cost — at least until June 30, 1969.

Courts Speak

Fining of 22 whites for staging a civil rights sit-in at Cafe Raven in Huntsville was affirmed by the Court of Criminal Appeals. Same court also upheld the death penalty conviction of Tommy R. Vessels for rape of a Gray County woman and ordered a new trial in a fatal stabbing case.

State Supreme Court ordered a Bexar County jury trial to determine whether a group of San Antonio stockholders in the Uvalde Rock Asphalt Company has the right to inspect the firm's books and records.

Third Court of Civil Appeals reversed an additional workmen's compensation award to a Comal County woman hurt on the job because her lawsuit petition appealing the Industrial Accident Board decision was filed one day late.

Attorney General Rules

Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin has held that county commissioners courts may not legally sell to private concerns for commercial purposes duplicate copies of magnetic tape containing names of registered voters.

However, Martin said that county tax assessor-collectors and their deputies can prepare on their own time and sell copies of the registered voter list, providing the "moonlighting" does not interfere with regular duties.

In a separate opinion, Martin concluded that the State Liquor Control Board must turn down liquor license applications from persons who have not been Texas residents for the past three years.

Governor Preparing Budget

With a view toward that special legislative session just around the corner, Gov. Connally is putting final touches on his budget recommendations this year.

Connally still declines to be pinned down on the session date, but he volunteered one significant prediction: The new tax bill at this time appears to be shaping up in the $125,000,000 to $135,000,000 range.

Legislative Budget Board previously gave tentative approval to spending for 1969 which would require some $122,800,000 in additional taxes. LBB general fund budget so far totals $468,500,000. Governor's will be higher.

Industry Conference Set

Major industrialists will address the first Governor's Conference on Industrial Expansion here on April 3.

Purpose of the conference is to explore ways to further build existing industry which annually accounts for 85% of all industrial growth in this state. Five panels will explore growth industries with a view to showing communities how to stimulate expansion.

Headline speakers include John D. Harper, president and chief executive officer of Aluminum Company of America and James J. Ling, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Ling-Temco-Vought, Inc., Dallas.

Cattle Export Program

Texas Department of Agriculture is publishing in Spanish a directory of the state's leading cattle breeders and ranchers for distribution among Latin American cattlemen. Purpose is to lure cattle buyers to the Lone Star State. If that gets them here, then the department hopes to have bilingual personnel meet them at the border and show them around.

Program is aimed at Mexico now, because of lack of funds, but if the special session of the Legislature comes through — probably this summer — the program will be expanded to all of Latin America.

Electric Eye

Electronic watchdogs are being strategically placed on rivers and streams all over the state by the U.S. Geological Survey and the Texas Water Development Board in an attempt to gain all the information necessary for having a complete assessment of Texas' water resources.

As of July 1, 1967, they had instruments gathering data at 802 locations, and by next July, that number will increase to more than 1,000.

Instruments measure such things as continuous streamflow, chemical quality, lake content and rives and stream stages.

Short Snorts

• Federal government will acquire 206,650 acres in Williamson County during the next five years to build Laneport and North Fork dams on the San Gabriel River, reports the U.S. Corps of Engineers.

• Renovation and expansion of Stephen F. Austin State Park three miles east of Sealy is almost complete, says the Parks and Wildlife Department.

• Texas business activity shows good signs of stability for 1968, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

• Texas Water Quality Board is studying 12 applications for some of the $2,000,000 available through legislative appropriation of planning grants for state Sewage Treatment Facilities.

• Texas Tourist Development Agency will host 70 travel writers and managers from the American Automobile Association on a tour through the Highland Lakes area, the Hill Country and the Corpus Christi area on March 23-25, to see what besides HemisFair is in this section of Texas.

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor :

Report to Congress is that U.S. big cities have got their business in such a mess they have got to have $10.4 billion of somebody else's money to save them.

My rusticynic neighbor says this means that the 70% of the population which lives in the big cities just can't make a go of it on their own, so they are demanding that us 30% in the country and small towns help them pay their bills.

He says every time he goes to one of those places he gets honked at and hollered at and looked down the nose at, but these superiorish and sophisticated people obviously don't feel too metropolished to want to get on his shoulders.

Washington Report

From Congressman
BOB PRICE 18TH DISTRICT, TEXAS
1323 LONGWORTH OFFICE BUILDING, WASHINGTON, D.C. • 225-3706

Recently the President delivered his farm message to Congress. Main proposals of the program are for permanent extension of the commodity legislation enacted in 1965; a three year extension of the Food for Peace of PL 480 program; and a bill to create a "food bank" of government-held stocks of wheat, feed grains and soybeans. The President also called for Congressional hearings on "farm bargaining" and repeated earlier requests for a variety of more Great Society programs for rural areas.

By and large, the farm message was received without any great enthsuiasm on Capitol Hill.

Senator Ellender, chairman of the Senate Agriculture and Forestry Committee was quoted as saying that he did not feel that Congress would or should enact "permanent" commodity programs. The chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, on which I serve, Rep. W. R. Poage, did not introduce the President's proposals.

Many members considered the message rather partisan in tone, but in a "presidential election year" this type of political appeal isn't surprising. Portions of the message were, I felt, quite misleading and I believe it is especially important that farmers understand some of the implications.

In describing the 1965 Act, the President said: "To terminate the 1965 Act would bring catastrophe and ruin to many farmers. Cash prices would fall —and there would be no government payments to cushion the impact. Farm income would drop by as much as one-third —back to 1959 levels."

By these words the President leaves the clear implication that the refusal by Congress to extend the Act this year would cause catastrophe and ruin in rural America. In plain and simple language this is HOGWASH!

The fact is FIRST that the program covered by the 1965 Act run through 1969. New or modified programs aren't necessary—at least by the calendar—until 1970. So any changes could be made next year, after the elections.

In the SECOND place, and in the unlikely event that Congress failed to act before the termination of the 1965 Act, each of the major commodities —feed grains, wheat and cotton —have permanent "back-up" programs on the law books.

For wheat, there would be another farm referendum on a mandatory wheat certificate program with price supports on domestic and export up to 90% of parity; for feed grains, the Secretary could set price supports at anywhere from 50% to 90% of parity; in the case of cotton, there would be a marketing quota program with price supports from 65% to 90% of parity.

So it seems to me that the dire predictions of "catastrophe and ruin" to farmers if the 1965 Act is not extended this years is on the outer fringe of the credibility gap.

I don't believe that the major commodity programs are doing all they can for farmers and I don't think farmers are satisfied with them.

Better farm prices are certainly needed and as committee hearings proceed, I plan to do what I can, either in PL 480 legislation, a grain reserve bill, or more commodity programs to prevent government manipulations which depress farm prices and are responsible, along with continually rising farm operating costs, for the present low level of farm income.

LOTS OF YACHTS can now be accommodated at the Malta Yacht Basin where a new extension has been completed by a Rome engineering firm. About 200 ships can be berthed along the shoreline.

Investment Credit Reminder Given

COLLEGE STATION.— Taxpayers are reminded that the investment credit suspension period ended on March 9, 1967.

Investment tax credit on machinery and certain real property is limited to investments of $20,000 or less during the period of Oct. 10, 1966 to March 9, 1967, according to James Mallett, Extension farm management specialist at Texas A&M University.

Qualifying investments acquired after March 9 are eligible for the investment credit up to $25,000 of the tax liabilities plus 50% of the access over $25,000 (the old limit was $25,000 plus 25% of the access), points out Mallett.

The Restoration Act also exempts qualifying property ordered during the suspension period but which was acquired or on which construction was begun after May 23, 1967.

Use of rapid depreciation rates on buildings costing $50,000 or more was restored for buildings whose construction was ordered after March 9, 1967, and those ordered during the suspension but construction began after May 23, 1967. Even though construction began before May 24, 1967, accelerated depreciation will be allowed for the portion of the depreciation which occurred after May 23, 1967. Depreciation on buildings costing less than $50,000 were not affected by the Suspension or Restoration Acts, the specialist said.

Largest Sorghum Sale Completed

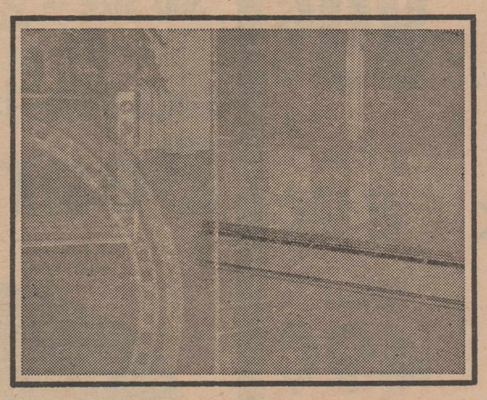

CORPUS CHRISTI—The largest single export sale of American grain sorghum on record was celebrated in a warm atmosphere of Japanese-Ameican hospitality, in spite of sunny, but cold weather on the afternoon of Feb. 23, aboard the Zenkoren Maru No. 1, docked at Producers Grain Port Terminal Elevator here.

The Zenkoren Maru No. 1 arrived in the Port of Corpus Christi on her maiden voyage and began loading the first shipment of milo included in a 200,000-ton contract, worth an estimated $8 million, between Producers Grain Corporation and the National Purchasing Federation of Agricultural Cooperative Association (Zenkoren) of Japan.

The vessel is one of three specially built bulk grain carriers which Zenkoren will be using to transport American milo and corn to Japan in ever increasing quantities.

The contract is the first and largest agreement of its kind ever signed by two farm cooperatives, and could be expanded into $25 to $30 million in a few years.

SALT FORK SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

CONTOUR FARMING
By Lynn Courtney

Plow with the terraces — not across them, advises the Soil Conservation Service. This is vital in getting good distribution and use of water. It also can make the difference between success and failure of the terrace system.

Where rows are laid out with terraces, each furrow holds its own rainfall, reducing runoff. This also reduces ponding immediately above the terraces. Ponding often causes part of the terrace interval to be too wet when the rest of the field is ready to plow.

Can Lose Water Benefit

Where rows are farmed across terraces, the increased runoff is usually impounded on the area above the terraces. As a result, the crop along the terraces may be good while it is poor in the rest of the field. Following heavy rains, results may be different. Crops may drown in the area above the terraces and be poor elsewhere.

On sandier soils, benching is worse where contour farming is not practiced. Also, plowing across terraces reduces their height, increasing the chance of overtopping and serious damage. This usually happens during the growing season when repair cannot be made without damage to the crops.

Slope Is Made Uniform

With parallel terraces, the most effective contour farming comes with land forming. In land forming, the slope of the land between terraces is made uniform. Each row is almost level. This helps water distribution, in that each furrow will have a nearly uniform depth of water from end to end.

It's easy to overlook the importance of contour farming. But it means longer life for the terraces and more water soaking into the ground — and that's where it counts. For maximum benefit of water, plow with the terraces. Contact your local Soil Conservation Service for assistance with terracing and contour farming.

Nationwide Survey Shows Many American Diets Poor

COLLEGE STATION—Despite higher income and the availability of wholesome nutritious food at the lowest real cost of any time in our history, many American diets do not meet recommended allowances.

A recent nationwide survey of food consumption conducted by the Department of Agriculture reported that Americans' food habits were shifting, causing change in national dietary levels.

The great variation of food use from household to household was significant, reported Extension foods and nutrition specialist at Texas A&M University.

Twenty-one percent of all households had poor diets. This figure was 15% in 1955. Half of the households surveyed met or exceeded requirements for a good diet.

The specialists concluded that many Americans are making a poor choice, nutritionally, of our food abundance. Incomes do not necessarily determine good nutrition, pointed out the specialists.

Low income households, those with incomes less than $3,000, had greater returns in calories and nutrients per food dollar than households with higher income, on the average.

Most families received adequate amounts of protein, iron, thiamine and riboflavin.

Nutrients most often in short supply were calcium, vitamin A and ascorbic acid. Nutrient shortages were associated with use of less-than-recommended amounts of milk, milk products, vegetables and fruits, say the specialists. The study showed a 10% decline in the consumption of fresh milk and other dairy products that are primary sources of calcium.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman indicated nationwide cooperation will better the nation's nutritional status: enrichment of flour, breads, cereals' improvement of nutritive value of processed foods, encouragement to shop for best nutritional values for purchases made and other consumer education.

The Texas Agriculture Extension Service's educational program is directed toward better food buying and toward work with low income families and donated foods.

Raisen Paste New on Market

USDA scientists have developed a process for making a raisin paste which will not set and harden and remains spreadable. Previously, each baker had to grind his own raisins, a costly and time consuming process. The secret was heating, either before or after grinding. The new paste remains soft, spreadable and keeps its natural color during at least six months of storage.

By the time you are reading this, I will be in Houston and will give you a report on Texas' largest city when I return. Dr. J. M. Orr was in Houston two weeks ago attending a meeting of the Texas Dental Association. One night he and Mrs. Orr spent the night with Mrs. Orr's mother and several houses were set on fire and one was only a few blocks away and live embers were carried as far as Mrs. Roby's home. Dr. Orr says that the Negro leaders say it will be hot in Houston this summer.

Troy Martin in the Canyon News:

When I was in the service I hitch hiked many a mile. Folks were good to me and now I hate to pass a hitch hiker.

I picked two up Sunday near Panhandle. My experience broke me of my Samaritan instincts on the highway. Never again.

The two boys I gave a lift were about 20 years old.

They at least did their best to frighten me into thinking I was about to be robbed. It was only after I told them that if they tried anything I would deliberately take my car up to 90 miles an hour and drive it into a utility pole that they became polite.

It is a harsh world we live in when we must fear doing a good deed for a fellowman.

Harold Hudson in The Ochiltree County Herald:

Preston Smith, candidate for governor, was in Perryton for a brief visit Tuesday morning, and we were among those who had coffee with him on his stop. Preston Smith is our choice of the 14-candidate field for governor of Texas and we would like to see him get the job. We have nothing against the other candidates, in particular Waggoner Carr and John Hill, but we believe Preston Smith has the best qualifications for the job. He spent six years in the House, six years in the Senate, and will finish six years as lieutenant governor at the end of this year. This gives him the experience and the qualifications to head the state of Texas, in our opinion. Preston Smith is held in high regard over the state and according to the polls is leading the list at this time. In visiting with him, we were impressed again at the formidable task it is to cover this state in a political campaign. The sheer distance that must be covered in a short time keeps a candidate occupied with travel if nothing else. There is the expense involved, too. This travel takes a lot of money, but if a candidate attempts to do much state-wide television advertising, statewide radio and newspaper advertising, he is talking about a real chunk of money. This is probably the main reason why Preston Smith's campaign is geared to an intensive person-to-person campaign because thus far he hasn't made any big statewide advertising commitments.

Glen Shelton in The Wichita Falls Record-News:

"For years I thought the term 'Black Angus' redundant. 'What other kind is there?' I asked. 'Red', was the answer. See any red black Angus lately?"

The term red black angus is apt; but allow me to provide you with more entangling and entertaining information on the Aberdeen Angus, brother Shelton:

I have known for years there was a red Angus breed; but it was only two years ago that Barney Glenn informed me that the red Angus is the original breed in Scotland and the black Angus was a sport just as the Hereford was a sport of red beef cattle that originated in Herefordshire, England.

Sammy Helmers, our county agent, added to this information recently. The black Angus was brought to the United States first and the Black Angus Association for registered cattle is older than the Red Angus Association. In both Canada and the United States, a red calf can be registered as a black Angus and a black calf can be registered as a red Angus under certain circumstances. It is possible for a registered black Angus bull and cow to produce a red calf and vice versa.

The complexities of the Angus situation were compounded at the Fat Stock Show in Fort Worth in 1966 when the following occurred: a red bull and a black cow produced a black calf which won first place as a red Angus steer in the carcass division. This is only half of what transpired at this same show. There was a red calf bred by a black bull on a black cow that won first prize as a black steer and this titillating award was made within thirty minutes of the time the black calf was awarded first prize as a red steer. Now I'm confused.

Production of the first helium gas in North America took place at a small plant near Hamilton, Ontario, in 1918.

UNITED STATES PAVILION—Work on the exterior of the United States exhibit hall, one-half of a $6.75 million pavilion complex at HemisFair '68, nears completion and attention is turned to the interior design. This picture of the structure, marked by the United States Seal, was taken atop the Swiss Skyride already in operation at the San Antonio World's Fair.

Prepare Soil Well, Fumigate for Successful Home Garden

One of the secrets to successful home gardening is a well-prepared soil, reminds County Agent Sammy Helmers.

A good quantity of organic matter, in the form of compost or peat moss, improves the structure of the soil. Rural gardeners may also want to use manure for this purpose, says Mr. Helmers.

Approximately 4 bushels of organic matter should be applied to each 100 square feet of soil area. It can be worked into the soil either by spading or plowing but mix it thoroughly, suggests the county agent.

It is also a good idea to apply some inorganic fertilizer to most gardens. A 16-20-0 blend is suitable for most sandy soils. An application of from 2 to 3 pounds per 100 square feet of soil area is usually sufficient.

The county agent suggests broadcasting the fertilizer over the area and then spading or discing it into the soil. Fertilizer may also be applied as a band placed to the side and slightly deeper than each row where the seed will be planted.

As a general rule, leafy vegetables will respond to additional amounts of nitrogen fertilizer. Root crops will usually respond to more phosphate.

Be sure, says Mr. Helmers, that the garden soil isn't too wet when it is plowed or cultivated. This can result in packed or cloddy soil which is undesirable for good root development.

Most gardens in Collingsworth County should be fumigated for nematode control at least two weeks prior to planting, the county agent advised. Fumigative material can be bought at most garden supply stores in Wellington, he added.

Young Dancers Due at Shamrock

Western music and entertainment will be on the sound stage all afternoon in Shamrock Saturday, March 16, celebrating St. Patrick's Day, Mr. and Mrs. Bill King have announced.

A special attraction will feature two groups of young folks from Wellington square dancing. These young dancers are sponsored by Mrs. Lynn Wright and assisted by Jack Wardlow af Shamrock.

The fiddlers contest will be the last feature of the sound stage entertainment.

"We expect 35 or 40 of the Golden Spread's finest fiddlers to be there for the contest," Mr. and Mrs. King said.

Prize money will amount to $150.

Bergvall Not Seriously Hurt

Craig Bergvall, stationed at Fort Hood, narrowly escaped serious injury in a car accident near Killeen recently.

This is the account of the accident from the Temple Telegram:

KILLEEN.—A Fort Hood man was trapped in a wrecked car for more than three hours on Thursday morning, Feb. 29, while searchers looked for the wreck for two hours before dawn in near-freezing weather.

Texas Highway Patrolman Bruce Casteel, assisted by Killeen police and a group of citizens band radio operators, began the search about 3:30 a.m. Thursday after Sp/4 Craig D. Bergvall, 23, of the 11th Medical Company stumbled to a farm house and called for help.

The ambulance picked up Bergvall and understood him to say that three more soldiers were trapped in the car, but he couldn't show where the car was.

The ambulance driver relayed the message to Casteel who summoned assistance to search for the car.

Two and a half hours later, just before an Army helicopter rigged with a spotlight was to sweep the area, the car was found in a creek bed, 2.4 miles south of Killeen on FM 410, hidden from the road.

The driver, S/4 Donald P. Kelly, 21, of the same unit, was pinned in the car.

Casteel said Kelly and Bergvall were the only occupants of the car and said that Kelly would have drowned if the water had been much higher.

Both men were taken to Darnell Army Hospital where they remained in satisfactory condition Thursday night.

Austin.

Monday we drove in snow all the way from Wellington to Austin. From Quanah through Wichita Falls and then south past Lampasas it was extremely heavy and wet. If the ground had been frozen traffic would have been stalled. As it was, the snow melted as it fell in most places. At Mineral Wells the snow was coming down so thick visibility was something like 50 yards; but the Fort Worth radio kept blaring away about the blizzard in the Panhandle.

N. A. Burnside Dies at Wichita

Newton A. Burnside, 78, of Wichita Falls, died in a nursing home in that city Friday, March 1, after being seriously ill about a year. He was a retired railroad employee and the father of Mrs. Jack Sanford of Wellington.

He and Mrs. Burnside had visited in the Sanford home here a number of times.

A long-time Wichita Falls resident, he retired about seven years ago.

Active in the work of the First Christian Church in Wichita Falls, Mr. Burnside was secretary of his Sunday School class.

Funeral services were conducted at 2 p.m. Monday from Hampton - Vaughan Funeral Home chapel. Dr. William E. Wright, pastor of First Christian Church, officiated and burial was in Crestview Memorial Park.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Erma Burnside; three daughters: Mrs. Harold D. Johnson of Wichita Falls; Mrs. Sanford; and Mrs. Charles Armistead of Moss Point, Miss.; a sister, Mrs. Vonnie Thomas of Marshall; and two brothers: A. B. Burnside of Azle and Erie Burnside of Sulphur, Okla.

Going from here were Mr. and Mrs. Sanford and their children, who were home from college, Miss Nancy Sanford and Bob Sanford.

Center Project Begun by FHA

Monday night, March 11, the Future Homemakers chapter met in the new Homemaking building. The projects for this year were discussed.

The chapter is now working to gather materials for the High Plains Educational Training Center, which is a place for mentally retarded children. It is strictly a volunteer organization, and the only materials they have to work with are those given to the school. Anyone interested in helping with this project may contact any girl belonging to FHA, or Mrs. Dee Coleman.

The program on Birth Defects was presented by Patricia Young and Nancy Sikes.

Refreshments were served by Rosie Lee Sterling, Bessie Sterling and Katherine Armstrong.

The FHA girls will attend the area meeting on March 16 in Amarillo. Patricia Thomas will appear on the stage several times as an Area I officer, and Susan Coffee and Susan Oney will be in the choir. Patricia Thomas and Susan Coffee will also receive their State Degree at this time.

4-H Horse Team Wins

The Collingsworth County 4-H junior horse judging team placed second in district-wide competition at Amarillo Saturday, March 2.

In the same event, Pam Patterson, a member of that team, had the top score and received a plaque in recognition of her achievement, Mrs. Bill Lowe, sponsor, announced.

Other members of the junior team were Bart Patterson, Teresa Patterson and Suzie Lowe.

The senior 4-H judging team also competed but did not place. Members were Linda Williams, Ricky Nall, Rod White and Janice White.

Dr. Dale Burnett, youth activities director for the American Quarter Horse Association, was in charge of the events.

Texas A&M furnished more officers to the Army in World War II than did West Point.

Class I third division solo winner was Billy McAlister.

Class II, Division III, saxophone quarter: Gary Mike Gulley, Lea Ann Taylor, Jacquelyn King and Linda Belew.

Class III, third division: flute solo, Jane Campbell; alto saxophone solo, Judy Jones; cornet solo, Debbie Jones; clarinet quartet, Lillian McKinney, Linda Orr, Debbie Neeley and Karen Maxwell; clarinet trio, Debbie Caison, Marsha King and Pam Kersten.

"We received no fourth or fifth division ratings," said Mr. Larson.

"I was extremely pleased with the solos and ensembles this year because February seemed to be a month I had to be gone or there was no school. I think we did extremely well in a month when they needed to be here most and they were here the least.

"There seemed to be much harder competition also, and the judges were more demanding."

Off-Season Program

The off-season program for athletes not competing in track and field events was set up several years ago and is considered one of the most valuable parts of the athletic program.

Weight lifting and agility drills form the base of this program, Coach Forrester said.

The new high school-junior high physical education building is used for three other activities, gymnastics, wrestling and tumbling.

"That's just a very few words to tell what the off-season program is, but it does a lot for the boys," commented Coach Forrester.

To implement this program, some new equipment has been installed in the PE building, including mats, ropes, weights and incline boards. More equipment is needed, however, to give the school a well-rounded off-season physical education program.

"The kids are working real well and are pretty enthusiastic about it," said Coach Forrester.

The 24 boys participating in this program are Tony Gonzales, Danny Watts, Anson Parker, Ricky Nall, James Jones, Billy Teakel, Danny Brooks, Ronnie Roberts, Andy Gonzales, Eddie Popwell, Jerry Lewis, Keith Martin,

Students Go to LCC Activities

Cathy Thomason and Beth Peters attended the High School Days Activities at Lubbock Christian College on March 8 and 9.

Purpose of these planned activities is to acquaint prospective students with the college. More than 350 high school students from a wide area attended, and the college auditorium was filled for its production of the annual Master Follies presented by the social clubs. Bill Brown, humorist from Lubbock, presented a program on Saturday morning.

Other activities which the girls especially enjoyed were the concerts by the college band and their Meistersinger Chorus.

Their selections will be "Totem Pole," a march by Osterling, and a Class AAA number, "Overture in B Flat," by Giovannini.

Greenbelt TV System Plans Annual Meet

The annual meeting of the Greenbelt TV Translator System will be held Thursday, March 14 at 8 p.m. in the Farm Bureau Building, Marshall Peters, secretary, has announced.

This will be largely a business meeting.

Television stations in Amarillo have been invited to send representatives to the meeting, said Mr. Peters.

Officers will be elected and the operation of the system will be reviewed.

President of the Greenbelt TV Translator System is Carl Wischkaemper of Quail. L. A. Davis of Rolla is vice president and Mr. Peters, who lives in Wellington is secretary.

The board of directors includes these three and Howard Hunt of Dodson, Worth Shields of Samnorwood, C. B. Carter, who lives in the state-line area north of Hollis, and Les White of Wellington.

All users of the system are urged to attend, the secretary said.

many helpers as may be needed to carry out the drive.

These workers were requested by Mr. Lennon to pick up their Red Cross Drive supplies from Mrs. R. H. Isbell, secretary, at the county library in the courthouse.

Although the regular visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile to Wellington is still scheduled for March, a specific date has not been set.

All of those working with the newly-organized Red Cross urge full support by the people of the county.

Of the $1,977 quota assigned the county, $1,168 will remain here to meet the needs of Collingsworth County, Mrs. Isbell reminded. National headquarters will receive $809.

Several functions vital to the life of people here are dependent on the Red Cross, it was pointed out.

Red Cross is the only organization that can serve as liaison agency between men in the armed forces and their families at home in case of emergencies, such as securing a leave in case of serious illness or death. This is done through the Home Service Department, which Mrs. Isbell heads.

St. Joseph's Hospital secures its blood and serum for transfusions through the Red Cross, as there are no longer enough walking blood donors to fill its needs. It is because of this that full county support of the Bloodmobile on its visit is urged.

Additional information concerning the drive will be announced within a short time, Mr. Lennon said.

"Minute Men" was the name given to companies of militia organized at the time of the Revolution.

Zook Thomas and Jimmie Kelso returned Saturday after a week of fishing and sightseeing in the Port Aransas and Corpus Christi area.

They report wonderful luck, with a catch of 50 sheepshead fish, weighing from one to four pounds, and a lot of red snapper, some weighing up to 12 pounds, caught in the deeper water.

They went sight-seeing in the Corpus Christi and Rockport area two days when the weather was too bad for fishing.

will be elected and none of the three has an opponent.

Walter Camp of Dodson is the candidate for re-election from Precinct 1, and Z. J. Neeley of Quail is seeking re-election from Precinct 3.

John Carson, who is going off the Quail school board, is seeking the place left vacant by the resignation of L. D. McMinn after many years' service.

Absentee voting in the school election will begin on Monday, March 18, and continue until Tuesday, April 2.

Only the two incumbents have filed in the election of Dodson Independent School District. These are Howard Hunt and Truitt Holland.

Petroleum is the correct name for oil, the word coming from the Latin meaning "rock oil." This name was given to it when, in ancient times, men saw petroleum oozing from the earth's surface.
