Plains Advised To Relax

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—The mayor of this tiny Texas town has some advice for the folks in Plains, Ga., home of Democratic presidential hopeful Jimmy Carter.

Relax.

The word is from George Byars, who for the past 28 years has been mayor of the birthplace of former President Lyndon B. Johnson.

A 27-member delegation from Plains and nearby Americus will arrive here June 30 to learn how residents of a sleepy farming community handled the fuss and furor of having the president of the United States for a neighbor.

Byars said the people of Plains are wise to start planning for a flood of tourists, but he added, "As far as the city getting a big boom, we didn't."

Visitors to Johnson City "just keep increasing. We have as many as 2,000 on a weekend," the mayor said. The town's population is 767.

In Plains, in the peanut farming area where Carter grew up and still lives, there are 683 residents, a gas station, a bank and the Jimmy Carter for President headquarters. There are no motels, restaurants, car rental agencies or other tourist facilities.

"I wouldn't be surprised to see a new motel," said Jimmy Grubbs, president of the Americus-Sumter Chamber of Commerce and organizer of the Johnson City trip.

But Grubbs said that a motel probably would be built in Americus, 10 miles from Plains, with a population of 28,000. Grubbs said Americus would probably be the center of growth arising from a Carter presidency.

He could be right. Other than one new motel, Johnson City didn't mushroom with facilities for reporters, government officials and visiting dignitaries. The overflow was handled by Austin, Texas' capital.

Grubbs said the businessmen of Plains are eager to foster legitimate businesses to serve tourists and pump up the local economy.

But at the same time, he said, the trip here is partly intended as "a fact-finding mission so we can know how to eliminate the fast-buck operators."

In Plains, some investors are selling one-inch square plots of land for $5. At that rate, an acre of peanut land would sell for $32 million. Carter has called the promotion "a misleading scheme designed to bilk the public."

Byars said Johnson City wasn't spoiled with scheming salesmen attempting to turn a quick profit.

"They never did get very far," said the mayor.

Higher Food Prices Feed US Inflation

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The largest increase in food costs in 10 months helped push consumer prices up six-tenths of a per cent during May, the biggest monthly jump since last November, the government said today.

The Labor Department said the May figures mean that inflation now is running at an annual rate of 7.2 per cent. The May performance compared with a consumer price increase of four-tenths of a per cent in April.

The 7.2 per cent inflation rate is higher than the 6 per cent rate which administration economists consider to be the underlying inflation rate in the economy. But the effect was to compensate for lower than normal increases in earlier months.

Despite the faster pace of inflation, however, workers managed to improve the amount of their disposal incomes. The Labor Department said real spendable earnings climbed by 1.2 per cent in May after decreasing for two consecutive months.

Spendable earnings for May stood seven-tenths of a per cent ahead of a year ago.

Consumer prices in May were 6.2 per cent more than a year ago.

Over-all food prices were up one per cent in May, the sharpest advance since the 1.8 per cent increase last July. Food price declines in the first three months of this year had been responsible for holding over-all consumer prices below an annual increase of three per cent.

For the month, the consumer price index stood at 169.2. That means that a sampling of goods which cost $100 in 1967 cost $169.20 last month.

Beef prices, which had declined for four consecutive months, shot up 5.2 per cent in May. Prices of pork and poultry nearly tripled the rate of their April increases.

Cereal and bakery prices rose seven-tenths of a per cent, the first increase in four months.

Coffee prices moved up 4.8 per cent to 35 per cent above where they were a year ago.

The increases overcame declines in prices for both fresh and processed fruits and vegetables.

But food wasn't the only area where inflation picked up.

While the cost of services increased by the same four-tenths of a per cent logged in April, commodities other than food went up six-tenths of a per cent in May compared to three-tenths of 1 per cent in April.

The average price of a gallon of gasoline moved up a penny nationally, to 58 cents for leaded regular gasoline. That compared to 55 cents a gallon a year ago.

Thompson Picked To Replace Hays

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democratic leaders today nominated a new chairman for the House Administration Committee and approved stripping the panel of much of its independence and its power over congressional allowances, including money for staff and travel.

The committee's former chairman, Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, was accused of putting a woman on the committee payroll for sex. The Democratic leaders nominated Rep. Frank Thompson of New Jersey, the panel's second-ranking Democrat, to replace Hays as its chairman.

Thompson, speaking to reporters about the actions by the leadership, gave no sign of opposing them.

Stripping the committee of its authority over allowances and returning that authority to the full House were among recommendations by a task force of three Democrats headed by Rep. David Obey, D-Wis. The moves were approved by the Democratic Steering and Policy Committee.

Details of recommendations by the task force, created by Speaker Carl Albert after the Hays scandal broke, were to be disclosed later in the day.

The Steering and Policy Committee also approved a recommendation from the task force requiring the speaker to appoint all Democratic members of the Administration Committee. The purpose would be to make the speaker responsible for their conduct.

A direct line of responsibility to the speaker would remove much of the panel's independence.

Sources said Chairman Phillip Burton of the Democratic Caucus opposed such a move. The California congressman contended it would make the speaker a "czar" over House allowances, the sources said. But they said the proposal was approved 14 to 7.

The other recommendations, including a proposal to create a special commission to study all House funds and accounting and recommend further changes, were understood to have been approved by voice vote.

Hays formally resigned as chairman of the Administration Committee on Monday. He is on his Ohio farm recovering from an overdose of sleeping pills. The congressman has not said whether the overdose was accidental or a suicide attempt.

Speaker Carl Albert appointed the Obey task force to devise ways of improving House payroll and accounting practices after allegations by Elizabeth Ray that Hays put her on his committee payroll at $14,000 a year to furnish him with sex.

Hays, 65, concedes having had a "personal relationship" with Miss Ray, 33, but he insists she did committee work for her salary.

Albert said he created the task force because of the allegation against Hays and because of allegations of other House funding abuses, including misuse of travel money by some congressmen.

Ford Still Confident Of Winning

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — President Ford, still professing faith in winning the Republican presidential nomination on the first ballot, was described today as believing Italy's election results offer an opportunity to preserve democratic government there.

Standing under an umbrella in a steady rain, Ford told reporters on arriving at Weir-Cook Airport that he remains confident of a first ballot win at the GOP's August convention in Kansas City.

White House officials described the President's Indianapolis trip as a non-political visit to address the national convention of the Jaycees. An aide said he knows of no plans for Ford to travel on any specifically political mission before the GOP convention.

During the flight from Washington, White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford had no comment on the Italian election Sunday and Monday "except to point out the non-communist and non-fascist parties won a majority, and therefore the opportunity for continuation of democratic government in Italy has been preserved."

COMMIES MAKE STRONG GAINS

Christian Democrats Win In Italian Elections

ROME (AP) — Italy's Christian Democrats beat back a Communist bid for power in national elections Sunday and Monday but failed to win the parliamentary majority needed to deal firmly with the nation's deep-seated political and economic crises.

The Communists made strong gains, moreover, at the expense of smaller center parties whose support the Christian Democrats have needed to govern in the past.

The ruling Christian Democrats are faced with the same choices as before as they try to form their 35th government since World War II.

They can try to rebuild the center-left coalition with the Socialists, Social Democrats and Repubicans which collapsed in January. But the Socialists said during the election that was a dead issue. The Christian Democrats can also try to govern alone, but without a majority in the Chamber of Deputies there would be a constant scramble for votes.

Finally, they can agree to share power with the Communists, who have not been in a national government since 1947. The Christian Democrats have said they will not form a partnership with the Communists, despite the party's insistence that it is independent of Moscow. Moreover, Washington strongly opposes such a government in this NATO nation.

More than one out of three Italian voters cast a Communist ballot for the Democrats got 38.7 per cent, the same showing they made four years ago.

Despite the prospect of continuing political and economic instability, the stock market and the lira rallied because of the Communists' failure to displace the Christian Democrats as the dominant party.

Gains in early trading on the Milan stock exchange averaged 2.5 per cent while the lira rose from 854 to the dollar to close at 847. Realization of the uncertain future overcame the initial stock market enthusiasm and most blue chips closed below their Monday level.

Former President Giuseppe Saragat announced he would resign as secretary-general of the Social Democratic party after its election losses. Saragat said the Christian Democrats picked up some of his party's support because they succeeded in blaming the Lockheed payoff scandal in Italy on Social Democrat Mario Tanassi, a former defense minister.

Giovanni Mosca, deputy chief of the Socialist party, a Marxist group, also announced his resignation.

Evacuees Reach Greece Safely

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Weary but relieved, 267 Americans and other foreigners reached Athens today 45 hours after being pulled out of war-ravaged Lebanon by a U.S. Navy landing craft. Some criticized U.S. presidential politics as responsible for the evacuation.

The Navy amphibious ship Spiegel Grove docked at the U.S. Army terminal at Piraeus, the port of Athens, about 9:30 a.m. Friends, relatives and consular officials from several embassies greeted the 110 Americans and 157 persons from 25 other countries picked up from the Beirut beachfront on Sunday.

Diplomats said many of the evacuees would be flown to the United States and various European cities today. Others were to stay in Athens hotels until deciding where to go.

"It'll be hard to stop thinking Middle East and start thinking Middle West," said college teacher Marilyn Raschka of Milwaukee, who had spent 10 years in Lebanon.

Tom Gorry of New York, a professor at American University in Beirut, noted that the departure was followed by another cease-fire, and said:

"I believe this one is going to work, because 34 is my lucky number." That is how many cease-fires there have been in the 14-month civil war involving Palestinian and leftist guerrillas, right-wing Christians and a Syrian occupation force.

U.S. Ambassador Jack Kubisch came aboard, along with Greek officials and British, French, German and Italian diplomatic representatives.

The travelers whistled and applauded their appreciation for the Spiegel Grove's 540 sailors and Marines, some of whom gave up their bunks for the evacuees while others walked dogs and played with children.

But there was considerable skepticism over the decision to launch the evacuation after a British-organized convoy to Syria fell through.

In a telegram to President Ford, schoolteachers Mark and Vicki Ulrey, winding up a year's tour in Lebanon, said: "Disagree with decision to evacuate by sea but highest appreciation and thanks to Spiegel Grove officers and crew."

Mrs. Ulrey, from Greenwich, Conn., noted that more than 1,100 other Americans and their dependents in Beirut had elected to stay and doubted the wisdom of the naval evacuation. Like several others, she observed it took place during the presidential campaign.

"I'm grateful," said Miss Raschka, "but I think we have Ronald Reagan more to thank than Ford. If he'd been running against somebody with a more soft line it might have been different."

SIMON PRAISES OECD CODE

Inflation Greatest Threat To Nations' Expansion

PARIS (AP) — The risk of a new round of inflation is the greatest threat to continued economic expansion among the industrialized countries, Treasury Secretary William E. Simon said today.

"We must do everything possible to build a public understanding of the tragic effects of inflation," Simon told a meeting of the 24-nation Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD).

"Some believe that demand will not be strong enough to support further expansion. I do not see major near-term distortions in the continued expansion from the demand side. To the contrary, the greatest threat to the sustained expansion is the risk of a resurgence of inflation."

He estimated the annual rate of inflation in the United States would drop to nearly 5 per cent by the end of the year and that unemployment would fall below 7 per cent.

Simon urged a liberal trade policy and "a hospitable climate for international investment." He said Western governments should work to dispel the impression that multinational corporations are harmful.

"Such corporations, and the investment they bring, should be welcome because of the positive contribution they make to economic prosperity," Simon said.

The industrial powers approved voluntary anticorruption guidelines for multinational corporations Monday. The code of conduct, a direct result of the Lockheed scandals, was adopted by 23 of the 24 OECD members. Turkey abstained, but it was not known why.

Simon said he was pleased with the adoption of the guidelines and the fact they make clear that "governments have obligations toward investors just as investors have obligations toward the countries in which they operate."

U.S. officials told reporters the success of the guidelines depends on their voluntary nature.

The code calls on corporations whose operations across national boundaries make them difficult to police not to offer bribes to public servants, to "abstain from any improper involvement in local political activities," to publish financial statements "and other pertinent information relating to the enterprise as a whole" at least once a year, and to "refrain from actions which would adversely affect competition."

The code also calls on multinationals to pay the correct amount of taxes in the countries in which profits are earned and to respect the right of employes to unionize and bargain collectively.

The code is aimed at encouraging "the positive contributions which multinational enterprises can make to economic and social progress and to minimize and resolve the difficulties to which their various operations may give rise," an OECD statment said.

"We don't claim we have solved all the problems, but we are certain we have made an important first step toward resolving the issue of multinational firms," said the current OECD chairman, Panayis Papaligouras of Greece.

There was no indication that any of the OECD governments might do anything in the way of laws to make the code legally binding.

GOP Platform Aim Is Unity

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Like the Democrats, the Republican party may draft a platform for the 1976 campaign that walks softly on the big issues.

With both President Ford and Ronald Reagan agreeing on most issues, one party official said that if there are any significant disputes, they likely would arise in the foreign policy area.

But a key objective in platform committee debates probably will be to avoid controversy in an effort to unite the Grand Old Party going into the fall presidential campaign.

The Democrats drafted a unity platform last week, and Gov. Robert Ray of Iowa, chairman of the temporary Republican platform committee, told reporters Monday that unity may be a good goal for the Republicans, too.

"We will start from the premise that the platform should be short, concise, but with enough detail to have meaning," he said.

Ray said both Ford and Reagan have said they will cooperate in drafting a platform to "avoid floor fights."

He said he thinks both men agree on most of the issues that the platform will address and that the "few items of disagreement," if any, would be in the area of international affairs.

Ray said potentially divisive issues such as abortion, busing and amnesty also will be considered by the platform committee.

"They are legitimate questions before the platform committee, but I can't tell you at this time whether they will be in the platform or not," he said.

He added, "We would like to avoid a floor fight if possible, ..." an indication he hopes that such issues would not be addressed in any detail that would arouse emotions within various party factions.

Drafting of the GOP platform will not begin until the week before the party's national convention in Kansas City in mid-August, and it will be subject to approval by the convention.

The party's temporary platform committee was holding public hearings here Monday and today. It held hearings in Los Angeles last week and will hold another hearing in Ames, Iowa, on Thursday.

Both Ford and Reagan will have representatives on the platform committee, and Ray promised to appoint subcommittee chairmen who will hear "both sides" in drafting a platform. Ray himself has endorsed Ford's bid for the party presidential nomination.

Swine Flu Shots Pass First Tests

By WARREN E. LEARY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The basic vaccines for the national effort to guard against swine flu came through their initial human tests with promising results and few side effects.

Scientists reported Monday that tests with 5,186 persons indicate one standard vaccine won't do the whole job. There could be several different vaccines or combinations used to innoculate all 215 million Americans if the federal plan is completed.

"The results show it's remarkably easy to immunize people above 24 years of age," said Dr. Harry Meyer, of the Food and Drug Administration's Bureau of Biologics. "However, the results reinforce the attitude that children have to be dealt with more cautiously concerning influenza than adults."

He noted that persons 24 years or older make up two-thirds of the population.

The apprehension about innoculating children arose when test results with hundreds of youngsters 3 years and older showed that the kind of vaccine that stimulated the best reaction against flu virus also caused the most severe side effects.

Dr. David Karzon of Vanderbilt University, summarizing the tests on children, cited uncomfortable side effects such as mild fever, headache and general malaise. None of the side effects was life-threatening, he said.

"We had no dangerous reactions occur at all," Karzon stressed, "and the general acceptance of all products was good."

While saying there were no more side effects with children than with other flu vaccines, researchers said they wanted better than this average performance because of the numbers that are to be innoculated this time.

With reduced doses of the more effective vaccine or a double dose of the other, Karzon said he was "optimistic" that a good vaccine regimen for children would be developed before flu season next winter.

Scientists found that people 53 years old or more tended to have pre-existing antibodies against swine flu-like virus, probably from prior exposure to similar kinds of influenza. The older the person, the more pre-existing antibodies there were and the more effective the vaccines appeared to be, they said.

Adverse reactions in adults for the most part were mild, even with doses of vaccine much higher than normally would be used, the studies showed.

CRMWD's Revenues Expenses Up

Both revenues and expenses for the Colorado River Municipal Water District are up for the first five months of the year. Part of the revenue increase is through sale of 408,000,000 additional gallons of water for the period over 1975, also from a rate increase to generate more funds for increased debt service.

Through May, revenues amounted to $1,467,012, from sale of water to cities, up $259,000; $887,842 from sales to oil companies, up $120,000; $23,862 from recreational facilities, up $5,000; miscellaneous $7,268, up $1,000; a total of $2,394,986, up $385,000.

Operating expenses for the period were $879,996 up $129,000. Of this, $99,000 was in increased energy coasts $7,000 more in general maintenance, $6,000 more in water purchases; $10,000 in operating and pumping labor expense, $11,000 more in maintenance labor, and $2,000 more in general and administrative costs.

During the first five months the district transferred $1,514,989 to debt service, which is $256,000 more than for the same time a year ago.

Revenues are based largely on sale of 7,003,377,000 gallons of water for the five months, or 408,000,000 gallons than for the period in 1975.

Fourth Escapee Found

EUFAULA, Okla. (AP)—A fourth Oklahoma State Penitentiary escapee was found hiding in a clump of weeds near here early today, about a half mile from where two other escaped convicts were recaptured Monday after a wild chase that involved kidnaping and gunfire.

Officials said Robert Nelson, 40, was "exhausted and dejected" when found about 8:30 a.m. (CDT) by a prison guard on horseback. Nelson surrendered without resistence.

Authorities recaptured two escapees near here Monday after a wild spree in which they commandeered a boat, shot at a young couple and kidnaped two telephone company workers, the Oklahoma Highway Patrol said.

The first of the seven inmates who escaped Saturday night was captured on a McAlester street Sunday night.

Meanwhile, authorities believed three convicted killers who remained at large may have headed for Arkansas in a stolen pickup.

Still at large were convicted bomb-slayer Rex Brinlee Jr. and cousins William Franklin and Edwin Jones, who were serving life for killing a Highway Patrol trooper and a state park superintendent in 1971.

The pickup was reported missing from a McAlester home. Officials said the trio was believed to be armed with knives and possibly firearms.

The seven inmates, all part of a work team headed by Brinlee, escaped through a utility tunnel in which they had been working.

Nelson, of Hudson, Wis., was a companion of the two inmates captured Monday. One of those inmates, Leonard Boyle, 31, of Chickasha, Okla., was shot in the knee by a state trooper after he refused to halt.

Nelson and the second inmate captured Monday, identified as 39-year-old William Morris of Minneapolis, Minn., were each serving 150 years for an Oklahoma County armed robbery.

Abused Children: Call Agency for Help

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune N. Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Please print this for that 14-year-old girl whose father molested her: I hope you will take Abby's advice and tell your mother. If not, call the police whose job it is to protect young people with problems like yours. Or, look for "Children's Services" in your telephone book. If you can't find it, dial "O" and ask your operator to help you. And if there is a hotline or a crisis center service in your area, call them.

When I was a newspaper reporter a few years ago, I interviewed the Children's Services people and found them to be some of the nicest people I had ever met. If you just can't tell your mother, ask the Children's Services people to tell her for you. Their job is to see that children are helped out of danger.

Your problem is more common than you realize. Don't worry about what the Children's Services people will think. They have heard it all before. Please don't keep this secret locked up inside you.

Abby cares. So do I.

A FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: Please read on for another helpful letter on the same subject.

DEAR ABBY: Ten lashes with a wet typewriter ribbon for advising that young girl who had been molested by her father to tell her mother. Not all mothers are sympathetic. Some are afraid of their husbands. Others don't want to rock the boat by facing reality. The girl may be better off bypassing her mother and going directly to an agency.

The Children's Protective Services are the people to call. Please let children know this.

PHYLLIS IN CONCORD, N.H.

DEAR PHYLLIS: You are right. About 10 years ago, a 16-year-old St. Paul girl who was in the same predicament wrote seeking my help. I checked out her story and learned it was true. I then enlisted the help of a State Supreme Court justice in an effort to rescue the girl and deal with her father appropiately.

Incredible as it may seem, the girl's mother refused to press charges against her husband, saying, "If he's put away, there goes the family's paycheck." The daughter also refused to testify against her father, so we were stymied.

Children who are sexually molested by an adult should call the Children's Protective Service, if the community has one. Otherwise, tell a trusted adult friend, teacher, relative or neighbor. Or call the police.

DEAR ABBY: In a recent column, you pointed out that honesty is the best policy. I agree, but in his "Ethics from Sinai," Irving M. Bunim reprimands us for equating honesty with a policy. He wrote:

"Consider the maxim, 'honesty is the best policy.' How dare we reduce honesty to a 'policy'! A policy has its place in business. It may be a policy to extend credit for 30 or 60 days, or to receive salesmen only at certain times during the week. But an ethical obligation cannot simply be 'a policy.' Honesty is a value built into the structure of existence itself."

Water Vapor On Mars Abundant

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Evidence of low-lying water vapor on Mars in greater abundance than expected has encouraged scientists to look for life as the Viking 1 spacecraft begins a 10-day study of the planet.

In low areas of Mars it appears that water in the form of frost becomes water vapor during the warmest part of the day and freezes again at night, Dr. C. Barney Farmer said Monday.

This information gathered by the Viking in recent days fits a new theory that the water might temporarily exist as a liquid during the transition from frost to vapor. It had generally been thought that water did not exist as a liquid on Mars.

Scientists on the Viking team that will search for Martian life by means of an automated Viking lander were intrigued by Farmer's report.

If his theory is true, said one scientist, low-lying Chrsye, the planned landing site, "could be one of the wettest places around." And the wetter the area, the greater the chance that some kind of life could exist there.

But by earth standards, it would scarely be wet at all.

Farmer said the water vapor mapping instrument aboard Viking has found some low areas in the planet's northern hemisphere where the abundance of water vapor was "many times" the average for the hemisphere's 10 to 12 precipitable microns.

The term refers to the amount of water that could be squeezed out of a given abundance of water vapor. In the above example, the water vapor present could be condensed into a layer around the entire planet only 10 to 12 microns thick. A micron is a tiny unit — one millionth of a meter — invisible to the naked eye.

Beginning today, Viking's water vapor mapper, heat detector and powerful television cameras were to be trained on the area where the lander is to touch down July 4.

On orders from Jet Propulsion Laboratory beamed through space, Viking was put into a new orbit Monday to prepare for the survey. A three-minute rocket burn fixed the probe into a circuit that will carry it over the landing site once a day.

Security Tight At Harrises Trial

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Despite objections that the judge himself fears the defendants, jury selection has begun behind a bulletproof shield in the robbery-assault trial of William and Emily Harris.

Superior Court Judge Mark Brandler imposed unprecedented security at the trial Monday, but decided not to sequester the jury.

Seated behind the bulletproof shield that separates participants in the trial from spectators, Brandler promised "an impartial trial" on charges stemming from a spree of violence on May 16-17, 1974.

Included in the charges were a sporting goods store shooting, the theft of four cars and the kidnaping of two men.

In deciding to let prospective jurors spend the lengthy trial at home instead of sequestered in hotel rooms, the judge admonished them not to read newspaper articles or watch television newscasts about the case.

And he added that Patricia Hearst, though absent, was still a codefendant: "The actions, statements and conduct of Patricia Hearst will undoubtedly be called to your attention innumerable times."

Miss Hearst, although charged with the Harrises, is undergoing psychiatric tests in San Diego after a San Francisco bank robbery conviction. Her trial was separated from the Harrises'.

In San Francisco, Judge William H. Orrick Jr. was appointed Monday to replace the late U.S. Dist. Judge Oliver J. Carter, who died a week ago of a heart attack before giving final sentence to the young newspaper heiress.

Objecting to the general vault-like atmosphere of the courtroom, chief defense lawyer Leonard Weinglass said the shield would terrify jurors. And he contended that a widespread fear of the Harrises, members of the Symbionese Liberation Army, had infected the judge.

"One of the most vexing problems in this case is the problem of the fear that's been injected in this community against Bill and Emily Harris," he said. " ... The court itself has become fearful of this case and these defendants."

Brandler, 66, refused to move the case to a conventional courtroom and rejected a defense motion to disqualify himself.

Learn To Crochet A Basic Granny Square

By Judy Love

Many grandmothers are anxiously awaiting a visit from grandaughters during the next few months. We've come up with an idea that should be fun for both and also something that will be useful in the many years to come. What better way to help you remember the "Summer of '76."

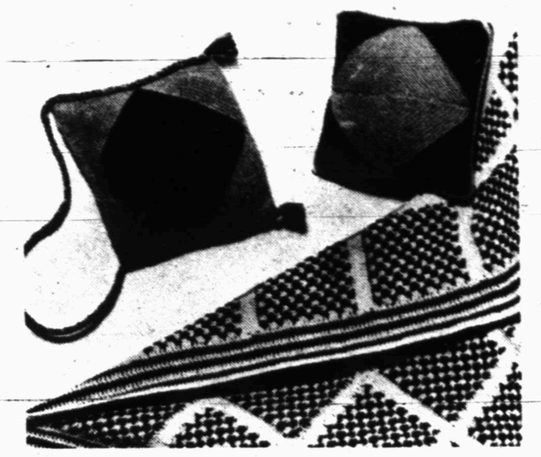
We've taken a version of that easy, fun to make "granny" square and made eight squares (four for the front, four for the back). Then, with insides together, crochet a row of single crochet around three sides, add a zipper and a shoulder strap, and a smart shoulder bag is ready to go!

Also, by using eight squares (four for each side) and adding a zipper and pillow form, you have a lovely pillow. For the little more ambitious worker, you can have a handsome lap throw by putting together 16 squares. What's more, work 30 squares and you have an heirloom afghan.

The squares will require two colors of Wondura yarn of Creslan acrylic fiber, either a pair of No. 10 or No. 10.5 knitting needles, and a size G crochet hook if you knit the items. If you prefer to crochet you will need a size H crochet hook.

To make the afghan you will need 4 skeins (4 ounces) of Wondura yarn of Creslan acrylic fiber in Color A and 7 skeins of Color B. For the edging you will need 1 skein of a contrasting color (Color C).

For the shoulder bag and pillow you will need 1 skein of Color A and 1 skein of Color B for each. You will need a 12-inch zipper for both and for the pillow you will want to have a 12-inch pillow form. The squares are done in either a knit stitch or a double crochet.



CROCHET ITEMS—Granny square works into shoulder bag, pillow or afghan. Just crochet number of squares needed.

Easy to follow instructions can be obtained by sending 50 cents to Stitchin' Time, Box 503, New York, New York 10019. Ask for leaflet No. 450 and be sure to enclose your name, address and zip code.

KNIT-KNACKS

Dear Handworkers:

Many of you have written asking how to put a zipper into sweater, pillows, etc. It really isn't hard. It is merely doing some handwork. Under no circumstance ever try sewing a zipper in by machine.

If you will follow these directions I don't think you will have any problems. Be sure to block and assemble pieces first. This will be the perfect base from which to work. The proceduer will be the same for whatever you are putting a zipper in. Place open zipper on the knitted piece, pin and baste in position, allowing teeth to extend a little. With matching thread, hand stitch securely, using a backstitch. Turn over and whipstitch the zipper tape to a few threads of the garment. This provides a neat finish for both sides and also adds a firmness to the action of the zipper on all types of closures.

Keep knitting.-Judy Love.

Purple Cauliflower Is A Fall Taste Treat

You're no doubt enjoying lots of home-grown vegetables from your garden now, but what about this fall? You can still have a fresh supply to spark autumn menus by planting cool-weather lovers such as broccoli, cabbage and cauliflower...to mention a few. June into July is the right time in most of the United States, or still later if you live in the South or Pacific Coast areas.

White-headed Cauliflower is a fall favorite with its tasty, succulent heads, delicious served raw with dips, or cooked and topped with cheese sauce. But if you're like many gardeners, you may shy away from growing it because you think it takes a little special attention to blanch the heads. The white variety, however, has an exotic, lesser-known "cousin" that not only is much easier to grow, but also is a real gourmet vegetable hardly ever available at super market produce counters or roadside stands.

"Just try Purple Head Cauliflower in your garden this season and you'll never be without it", says Theodore (Ted) Torrey, Burpee vegetable breeder. "Almost anyone can grow it; the heads don't need blanching; they stay in prime condition a long time; it's fun to watch the color change from rich purple to bright green during cooking...and the flavor is so delicious." Words really can't describe the subtle taste...a combination between broccoli and white cauliflower, but milder, different and especially appetizing. Not only is Purple Head Cauliflower a gourmet taste treat from the garden this fall, but also "fresh" from the freezer during winter, because it "puts by" so well.

Purple Head Cauliflower takes 80 to 85 days from set plants until heads are ready to harvest so figure your planting date accordingly. Mature heads stand cool fall weather, but are apt to be damaged by a really hard nip from Jack Frost. The easiest and best way to start Purple Head Cauliflower, according to Ted Torrey, is in a specially prepared seedbed or corner of the garden. Make sure the soil is well cultivated, leveled and lightly firmed. Sow seeds evenly and thinly ¼ to ½ inch deep in rows 3 to 4 inches apart. Keep the ground moist all the time. Weather is often hot, dry and windy so water as necessary with a fine spray until the seedlings are up and growing well. This often makes the difference between success and failure. Sprouting seeds are "thirsty" and can't stand complete drying out, even for a short time. You may find it helpful to shade the seedbed at first with a piece of burlap, but be sure to raise this as the seedlings grow to give them good light.

PURPLE CAULIFLOWER—This delicious vegetable extends the harvest season into fall...even into winter with purple head cauliflower "fresh" from the freezer.

A cold frame is also a handy place to start seedlings. It's usually not in use otherwise at this time of the year and it's easy to control germination and growing conditions in its limited space. The frame provides some protection from strong winds and the top can even be lowered temporarily if a deluge threatens. You can also start seeds in pots or flats on a porch or patio. Burpee Planting Formula, either alone or mixed half and half with fine garden soil, is a good growing medium to use in such containers, or a cold frame. This material holds moisture well, but even so, be careful not to let it dry out.

When seedlings start to get crowded or have at least two pairs of leaves, thin or transplant them to 3 or 4 inches apart in the seedbed for later transfer to the garden, or move them directly to the sunny, permanent location. Try to avoid a spot where any of the cabbage family were grown the year before. Set plants 1½ to 2 ft. apart in rows 2½ ft. or more apart. Water them well, and repeat if the weather is very dry. Purple Head Cauliflower is a dandy follow-up crop to the first planting of beets or snap beans which usually are finished when cauliflower seedlings are ready to transplant.

A few Purple Head Cauliflower plants can even be ornamental as well as useful in the flower border if you have no other room. They can also be grown successfully in pots or planter boxes on a patio, with one plant to each container about 10 inches across and deep.

Why not find out for yourself this season just how easy to grow; versatile and delicious Purple Head Cauliflower can be? One more plus...the richly colored heads combine with other fall vegetables to make stunning, temporary, autumn display arrangements.

For more ideas about vegetables suitable for fall and winter use, just look through your Burpee Spring Catalog, which is still in effect. The Burpee Fall Gardening Catalog, soon off the press, also will list many items to help you preserve your garden surplus for tasty, winter meals. You can request your free copy of the 1976 Fall Gardening Catalog from the Burpee Branch nearest you...Warminster, PA 18974; Clinton, IA 52732; Riverside, Ca 92502.

Planning Helps Protect Plants During Vacation

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — If you're going on vacation and you want to make sure you don't lose your plants while you're gone, there's a variety of plant watering systems you can easily set up in your own apartment, according to Dorothy Kalins, executive director of Apartment Life magazine.

If you're fortunate enough to get a friend to water your plants, you'll want to make it as easy as possible. Tape watering instructions on each pot and group them in the middle of the floor where it's cooler and where your plant sitter won't miss any, advises Miss Kalins. Make sure there's air circulation to keep pests down, and remove the flower buds on your plants while they're under minimum care.

If you don't want to leave the watering up to a friend, you can line your bathtub with plastic, fill the bottom with a layer of soaked newspapers and place your pots directly on top. You may want to clip a lamp with a timer over the curtain bar to give your plants 10-12 hours of light daily and fill the sink with water for humidity.

"Close the door and you'll have an instant greenhouse in your bathroom," says Miss Kalins.

You can construct individual greenhouses by enclosing the plant and pot in a lightweight cleaning bag. "Water your plant before bagging it, but don't soak or spray it. Too much moisture in the closed system causes mold," she advises.

Easier yet are pot-in-a-pot and wick methods. If you put your pot in a larger one filled with sphagnum moss and water both pots, your plant should stay moist for about 10 days.

According to Miss Kalins, you may use the wick method to keep your plants watered as a last resort. Take a large jar of water, puncture the lid with a can opener and stuff in a long cotton shoestring. Push the other end deep into the soil of a thoroughly watered plant.

"Once you're home again, carefully break your plants back into the usual apartment atmosphere," says Miss Kalins. If you bagged your plant, make an opening on the first day, then gradually remove the plastic over the next several days. If you kept your plants in the bathroom greenhouse, move them from the tub to bathroom shelves or the floor the first few days and then out of the room.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q.—We have a concrete patio at the rear of our house. I want to put a fiberglass roof over it. What size wood posts do I use to support the front of the roof framing?

A.—Use 4 by 4s. Be sure they are securely anchored to the concrete. There are various kinds of anchoring devices for this purpose. In selecting them, strength should be the first consideration.

Q.—I have an ax I want to sharpen and intend to use one of those sharpening stones. What's the difference between a slipstone and a whetstone?

A.—With a slipstone, the tool is held firm while the sharpener is moved along the edges. With a whetstone, the tool is moved across it to get sharp edges.

Q.—I have a large quantity of wood which will require a lot of sanding. The wood is very rough, but I got it at a cheap price. I need a portable sander. What's the best kind for this type of work?

A.—A belt sander. For the initial sanding, use an abrasive belt that is very coarse. Use a medium belt for the second sanding and a fine one for the final sanding. Of course, it depends on how the wood is to be used. It may be that a single sanding or two will prove satisfactory.

Q.—When putting a new pane into a window frame, how long should the putty be allowed to dry before it is painted?

A.—If the label on the container doesn't instruct you how long to wait, be on the safe side and wait at least four or five days.

Q.—A neighbor tells me that there is a type of splash block to put at the bottom of a downspout so that it rolls up and gets out of the way when it isn't raining. Is he kidding me or is there such a thing?

A.—He's telling the truth. It's not exactly a splash block but serves the same purpose; that is, it permits the water coming out of the downspout to flow away from the house foundation. The device rolls out from the weight of the rain, then curls back when the rain has stopped.

Q.—I've tried everything to correct the sagging frame of a wooden gate, including repositioning the hinges, but nothing works. Can you help me?

A.—Try a wire and a turnbuckle.

The rest of this week's articles will be by Jim Jacoby and will concern his early bridge experiences while his father was in Korea as a naval officer.

My first sectional win was in Shreveport. My partner, Phil Briggs, was a very good player, who quit tournament bridge completely due to business pressures.

I opened the queen of diamonds against South's three notrump contract and continued the suit after South ducked. He won the second diamond and led a spade. I put up my queen and was allowed to hold the trick. Later on South led a spade, finessed dummy's 10 and wound up with no spade tricks at all.

I was mighty proud of my play and it wasn't until some time later that Phil deflated me by pointing out that South could have made his contract plus at least one overtrick after my play, but that if I had simply played a low spade he would have been doomed to defeat.

For those of you readers who think Phil was mistaken the surefire defense was for me to play low and Phil to let dummy's 10 or jack hold that first spade trick.

Ask the Jacobys

A Minnesota reader asks: "I was vulnerable. My right hand opponent opened one heart and I bid two diamonds with ♠ x x ♥ A Q x x ♦ A K x x x ♣ x x. "Was my bid very bad?"

We would not say it was a very bad bid, but it certainly was doubtful. It is always dangerous to overcall at the two level with a five-card suit that only includes two high cards.

MOREHEAD, WOHLHUTER IN

Moses Sets New Hurdle Record

By MELINDA S. EDEN
AP Sports Writer

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — A pair of upstarts produced fireworks, some old veterans performed as expected and for the first time in three days of the U.S. Olympic Track and Field Trials the winners, not the losers, drew attention.

Edwin Moses, a 20-year-old junior at Morehouse College in Atlanta, shattered the American record in the 400-meter intermediate hurdles and Brenda Morehead rocketed to a near record in the 100 Monday.

And veteran rick Wohlhuter gained another Olympic trip with an expected 800 victory.

Moses' time of 48.30 bettered the American mark of 48.51 set by Ralph Mann when he ran second in the 1972 Games to John Akii-bua's 47.82 world mark.

Mann, 27, and Jim Bolding, 26, two of the favorites, fell behind and failed to make the team as darkhorse Quentin Wheeler and Mike Shine qualified instead.

Monday produced none of the big surprises or controversy which marked the first two days of this eight-day competition, when such stars as sprinter Steve Williams, pole vaulter Dan Ripley and shot putter Terry Albritton failed to make the team.

Miss Morehead, 19, a freshman at Tennessee State, burst from the starting block and sped to the finish line in 11.08, a shade off the world record of 11.04 set three weeks ago by West Germany's Ingrid Helten.

"I felt good," she said. "I didn't think it (her time) would be that good." It was the second fastest clocking ever by an American, just off the 11.07 U.S. mark set in 1968 by Wyomia Tyus.

Second was Chandra Cheeseborough, another newcomer and, at 17, the youngest U.S. Olympic team member so far. The high school junior from Jacksonville, Fla., clocked 11.13 and was followed by Evelyn Ashford of UCLA in 11.22.

Wheeler, of San Diego State, the NCAA hurdles champ, said, "It was a very rough race. I dreamed about this and I can't believe it."

Shine, of Penn State, said, "When Bolding went by me I thought it's now or never; I gotta do it or die, so I just poured out my guts."

Wohluter unleashed his famous kick in the stretch and earned his second trip to the Olympics with a time of 1:44.78.

James Robinson, 21, who won the AAU title a week ago, slipped on the second turn and dropped back to last place midway through the race. But he moved outside and exploded nearing the tape, finishing second in 1:45.86.

Mark Enyeart of the Utah State Track Club struggled past Villanova's Mark Belger in the last 10 meters to run 1:46.28 and round out the U.S. team in the two-lap race.

Earlier in the day, the favored trio of Mac Wilkins, John Powell and Jay Silvester all marched into the Olympics.

Wilkins, owner of the world record, responded to a hometown crowd and flung the discus 224 feet, 2 inches, earning his first Olympic berth.

The 6-foot-5, 255-pound former University of Oregon star now competing for Pacific Coast Club, set the world mark of 232-6 a month ago.

Ashe, Connors Are Victorious

By JEFF BRADLEY
Associated Press Writer

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — For two weeks, during the Wimbledon tournament, the British try to forget about their nation's decline and the sagging pound sterling, and concentrate on the constancy and delight of watching tennis played on the most hallowed grass in the world by the game's best players.

The 24,500 fans who swarmed into the All-England Club a few miles southwest of central London for opening day Monday, saw no big upsets. Defending champion and No. 1 seed Arthur Ashe and all the seeded men's singles players who got on court came away victorious.

Ashe, whose emotional victory over Jimmy Connors in the 1975 final still is discussed here, had a good workout against Ferdi Taygan of Framingham, Mass., a UCLA student making his Wimbledon debut. Despite 10 double faults and a couple of set points saved, Ashe emerged a 7-5, 6-4, 7-5 winner.

Connors also showed why he is the No. 2 seed and the bookmakers' favorite to regain the title he won in 1974, easily beating Antonio Zugarelli of Italy 6-2, 6-3, 6-2.

The other seeds who made it to the second round were Ilie Nastase of Romania, Bjorn Borg of Sweden, Adriano Panatta of Italy, Argentina's Guillermo Vilas, Roscoe Tanner of Lookout Mountain, Tenn., Mexico's Raul Ramirez, Tom Okker of The Netherlands, John Newcombe and Tony Roche of Australia, Jaime Fillol of Chile and Brian Gottfried of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

The only seed not to play Monday was Stan Smith of Sea Pines, S.C., whose match against Patricio Cornejo of Chile was scheduled today.

Ashe said his objective simply was to make it into Wimbledon's second week before worrying about facing the top players. He named his most feared rivals as Tanner, Nastase and Connors, but said there were many other tough, unheralded players in the field.

One of those could be Ashe's next opponent, Allan Stone of Australia. Stone beat Ashe last year only one day after the 32-year-old Miami, Fla., star had won the World Championship of Tennis final.

Meanwhile, Ashe said that women's tennis is somehwat different.

"After Evonne (Goolagong of Australia) and Chrissie Evert, it just drops off like a cliff. No one else is in their class," he said.

Miss Evert, 21, and Miss Goolagong, 24, are both former Wimbledon champions. Miss Evert won in 1974 and Miss Goolagong in 1971.

Miss Evert, sporting a new, shorter hairdo, is the No. 1 seed and the favorite to capture the title won last year by Billie Jean King, who has retired from singles competition. Ms. King is here, but only to compete in the women's and mixed doubles in search of her 20th Wimbledon title, which would be an all-time record.

Miss Goolagong is seeded second, and appears to be at the top of her game.

The other women's seeds chasing the most sought-after title in tennis are, in order: Virginia Wade of Britain, Martina Navratilova, a Czech now living in the United States, Olga Morozova of the Soviet Union, Rosemary Casals of San Francisco, Sue Barker of Britain and Kerry Reid of Australia.

Women's play was scheduled to begin today.

Coaches Game Up In Air

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — The future of the Coaches All-America football game was up in the air today.

Directors of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce decided Monday to withdraw as one of three cosponsors of the annual game, played at Texas Tech's Jones Stadium here the past seven years.

A spokesman for the Lubbock Lions Club, another sponsor, will take the same step, leaving only the American Football Coaches Association as backer.

Marion Key, president of the Lubbock chamber, said after his directors' unanimous vote, "The game has been a success in Lubbock the past seven years but the time has come for us to step aside on a successful note."

As reasons he mentioned a shortage of name players and sharply increased costs, including what the sponsors must pay to insure the participants.

Of the 24 players named to this year's Coaches All-America squad, just four took part in the nationally televised game last Saturday night, in which the West defeated the East 35-17.

Wlliam B. Murray, executive director of the AFCA, said that organization has made no firm decision on what to do about a 1977 game. He said there appeared to be no immediate remedies for the troubles cited by Key.

Before being moved to Lubbock the game drew sparse crowds in Atlanta and Buffalo. In the Texas Tech stadium the turnouts have been around 35,000 to 40,000 each year.

BLYLEVEN TOSSES 1-HITTER

Rangers Edge Out A's 1-0

OAKLAND (AP) — Pitcher Bert Blyleven finally pitched like the Texas Rangers expected him to. Blyleven tossed a one-hitter as the Rangers beat the Oakland A's 1-0 in 10 innings Monday night.

"I felt I could get all of my pitches exactly where I wanted them," Blyleven said. The one-hitter was the fourth of his major league career and the victory was his 100th in the big leagues.

The only hit he allowed was a fifth-ining single by Ken McMullen.

"I got the ball up instead of down," Blyleven said of McMullen's hit. "I'm glad the hit came in the fifth inning. If I had a no-hitter in the 10th inning, I really would have been nervous."

A home run by Tom Grieve accounted for the only run of the night. He led off the 10th inning with his ninth homer of the season. It came off losing pitcher Paul Mitchell, now 3-4.

"That was the only pitch Mitchell threw me all night that I could handle. His control was just about perfect," Grieve said.

Mitchell, who had pitched 17 consecutive scoreless innings until Grieve's homer, felt he had done a good job with the exception of the pitch to Grieve.

"I made one mistake all night, and it cost me the game," Mitchell said.

The A's missed two chances to score. They had runners on first and second with no outs in the fifth, but Blyleven struck out Larry Haney and Bill North to end the inning.

With one out in the eighth, Blyleven walked Haney and North. But he got Bert Campaneris on a fly to center field and Don Baylor on a popup to first base.

Blyleven credited pitching coach Sid Hudson and teammate Gaylord Perry for his change of luck. He had lost three straight games since coming to the Rangers from the Minnesota Twins earlier this month.

"It was just some little things they changed," Blyleven said.

The A's played the game under protest. Manager Chuck Tanner of Oakland claimed the Rangers were using an ineligible player — outfielder Joe Lahoud.

Lahoud was purchased by the Rangers the same night the A's sold three of their players to other teams. Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn has overruled the sale of the three Oakland stars, so Tanner contends the sale of Lahoud also should be voided.

Pitcher Mike Norris was called up by the A's from Tucson in the Pacific Coast League Monday night, and outfielder Angel Mangual was sent to Tucson.

LET'S JUST PRAISE THE LORD.

Soxs, Athletics Win In FL

The White Sox stomped the Yankees, 14-2, in Farm League baseball last night. For the Sox, Lance Leatherwood, Ricky Rodriquez, Kenny Gilham and Randy Martin picked up hits.

Darren Jackson, Weldon McFatridge, Heath Gardner and Bob Spikes grabbed hits.

Robert Tovar was handed the victory, while James Powell received the loss,

The wind and the rain were too much in the second game. The Athletics toppled the Braves, 15-8, but both sides had problems. Pitching was difficult as the Athletics were handed 13 walks. The Braves were hurled 11 bases on balls.

Practically no hitting was seen, but Pat Kohl did manage a double for the Athletics.

Winning pitcher was Shawn Gould. Roger Pavlik was given the loss.

Flames Douse Big Spring Stars

The Snyder Flames doused the Big Spring All-Stars, 14-11, last night.

For the Snyder ferns, Regina Lewis, Kathy English, Martha Brazil, Blanche Gentry and Vanessa White cracked two singles. Pam Rivers collected one single.

Kathy English was on the mound for the Flames and was credited with the victory.

The Flames hold a 5-1 season record.

The Flames see action again tomorrow, going up against Sweetwater at 7:30 p.m. The Snyder softballers return home Thursday and will play Odessa at 8 p.m.

Office's Bat Helps Braves Down Astros

ATLANTA (AP) — "It is sort of a pain at times, everybody asking me about it, but deep down I really like it," says Roland Office of his current hitting streak, which is the longest in the National League this year.

"In fact," he said, "I'm enjoying every single minute of it."

Office collected four hits Monday night—two doubles and two singles for three RBIs—to extend the streak to 26 games and help defeat the Houston Astros 11-9. He also become tied with Ralph Garr for the second longest hitting streak in Atlanta history.

Office's streak is second in the majors this year only to Ron LeFlore's 30 for Detroit. He is just five games behind the Atlanta record of 31 set by Rico Carty, but is 11 behind the National League record of 37 set by Tommy Holmes of the Boston Braves in 1945.

"They were just falling in," he said of his four hits in Monday night's game. "This can't go on forever. All I can do is just swing the bat," he said.

Asked if he is doing anything different compared with the first part of the season, Office said, "Yes, I'm trying to get the ball to left field more. Earlier in the season, I was trying to pull everything. I wasn't watching the ball."

Rebels Down Bullets; Dodgers Smack Braves

The winning pitching trio of Kris Seale, Bobby Degrate and Tony Degrate combined to render a no hitter and a victory last night in Teenage League baseball as the Rebels ricocheted past the Bullets, 8-4.

Seale was on the mound for 2 stanzas and 2 batters, Bobby Degrate for four innings and Tony Degrate faced the last three batters. None yielded a hit.

For the winners, Ricky Gambol, Hector Barbosa, Ronnie Myers, Danny Ronquille, Barry Farquhar and Toby Neves stole singles, while Neves snatched a double.

Bobby Degrate was awarded the victory, and Paul Gafford picked up the loss.

The Dodgers smacked the Braves, 10-5, in the second game.

Billy Hall, Scott Crenwelge, Marty Hammond, Jay Hammond and Jeff Stewart sliced singles for the winners.

Vic Valentine smashed a double for the Dodgers.

For the Braves, Shawn Ragland, Ken Tate and Lynn Edmonston nabbed singles.

Shawn Ragland suffered the loss, while Scott Crenwelge grabbed the win, firing 5 strikeouts.

LL Athletics, Sox Winners

With Gerald Don Hicks' pitching and strong team batting, the White Sox pounded the Yankees, 14-6, in Little League baseball.

Hicks limited the Yanks to 2 hits, doubles by Bobby Velasquez and David Rios. The Sock hurler fanned nine batters.

The plate was also hot for the Sox. Gary Edmiaston and Perry Echols collected singles with Randy Burrus and Calvin Wimmer grabbing two one baggers. Echols and Scott Warren clubbed doubles, while Malone blasted two doubles.

Gary Edmiaston really had a hot bat, smashing two home runs. The Sock catcher hit the first homer in his first trip to the plate. The second round-tripper was hit in the fifth stanza.

Gordon Gonzales was charged with the loss for the Yankees.

Due to weather, the game was called in the fifth, but the Athletics would have downed the Braves, 14-6, in the second game.

The Braves actually outhit the Athletics, but poor fielding was their downfall.

For the losers, Whit Parks, Dennis Young, Keith Wallace, Eddie McClure, Mark McClure, Billy Blayton and Chris Wadleigh came up with singles. Whit Parks and Jay Eiland ripped off doubles.

For the Athletics, Ronnie Rosas slashed two singles, while Ralph Hernandez and Richard Derrick clouted doubles.

Jay Eiland was tagged with the loss. Richard Derrick was handed the win, striking out 4 batters.

Six Penn State graduates are on the Nittany Lion coaching staff.

Robins, Rangers Win In Girls' Softball League

The Red Robins squeaked by the Bears, 11-10, in girls' mini-minor league softball last night.

The teams were evenly matched. Each came up with five hits, but due to errors and fielding the Robins came up with an extra run.

For the winners, Thresa Ashworth, Lisa McNew, Jana Jackson and Candy Shoemaker tagged singles, with McNew grabbing a double.

For the Bears, Jackie Parham rapped a triple, and Michelle Killion clubbed a double. Lisa Evans, Tina Romero and Crissy Natividad clinched singles.

Thresa Ashworth was awarded the victory, and Jackie Parham was charged with the loss.

Rain and dust drove everyone out of the ball park, but not before the Rangers drove the Giants, 16-3, out of the contest in minor league girls' softball last night.

The ball game was called in the bottom of the fourth inning due to weather conditions, but the Rangers had the game won.

Bunny Roe, Ranger left fielder, played a large role in the win. Roe cracked two singles, clubbed a double and blasted a triple, going 4 for 4 for the night.

Also for the winners, Kelly Jones chalked up two singles and a double. Tonja McFatridge and Tracey O'Day grabbed singles, and Michelle Barnes nabbed a double.

For the Giants, Isabel Rios knocked a triple, and Becky Pylant rapped a single.

Tracey O'Day was credited with the victory, and Kim McCarter was tagged with the loss.

Girls' softball's slate tonight features the Bobcats tangling with the Tigers in mini-minor league play. The Green Hornets will go up against the Blue Angels in major league action.

Lee, Ira Win In Men's Softball

Lee 66 stomped N.T. Lee, 23-1, in men's softball last night. Jerry Bob Lee cracked a single and a double. Randy Rogers, Marvin McClanahan and Ronnie Shields picked up singles.

Nancy Reagan Is Opposed ERA

NEW YORK (AP) — Betty Ford and Rosalynn Carter support the proposed Equal Rights Amendment to the Constitution. Nancy Reagan is opposed to the amendment.

The three were quoted in interviews with the wives of presidential candidates published Monday in the July issue of Ladies' Home Journal.

"I'm for the ER — I'm not for the A," said Mrs. Reagan, wife of President Ford's Republican challenger, Ronald Reagan. "Everyone should have equal pay, equal opportunity, equal rights. But I don't think the best way to go about giving it to people is the amendment process."

Both Mrs. Ford and Mrs. Carter, wife of likely Democratic candidate Jimmy Carter, said they support of the amendment, designed to assure women equal treatment. It has been approved by 34 states, four short of the number needed for ratification.

Dr. Lamb

Milk reaction may be problem

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I have the condition diagnosed as diverticulosis. I also have a tendency toward diarrhea and don't seem to be able to handle raw vegetables, fresh fruits, bran muffins, etc., all of which I like. Is this combination unusual?

I am supposed to drink milk three times a day to avoid bone thinning and milk is starting to cause some discomfort. Would boiling the milk aid in its digestibility?

DEAR READER—Those little pockets along the colon called diverticulosis are thought by some authorities to be caused by spasms in the bowel. As the pressure builds up inside the bowel it literally blows out little ruptures or pockets that are diverticula. It is often associated with spastic colon. An overactive bowel is often associated with increased pressure inside the colon. The combination of irritable colon or diverticulosis and intermittent diarrhea isn't all that rare.

In most instances these conditions appear to be improved by increasing the bulk in the diet as I have mentioned before. That specifically includes adding cereal fiber to the diet as you might find in bran. Remember there is nothing rough about bran. Once it is soft or moist, which will happen as soon as it is mixed in the stomach, it becomes "softage." It is this increased bulk that helps make the colon function more normally and in many instances helps to eliminate spastic colon, intermittent constipation, diarrhea and other manifestations of improper bowel function which often lead to diverticulosis.

Part of your problem may, indeed, be the milk. Individuals who are intolerant to the lactose (double sugar) of milk and can't split it often have gas and diarrhea. Boiling the milk will not help with this problem. You have to avoid milk and milk products altogether, including excessive use ot these items in cooking. You might be able to use low lactose milk made with Lact-Aid. If that is your problem, then you will need to get your calcium supplements in some other way, perhaps through calcium tablets.

I am sending you The Health Letter, Number 5-6, Diverticulosis to give you more detailed information. Others who would like to have this information can obtain it by forwarding 50 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB—What are the consequences if a prescription calls for three grains of thyroid per day and the patient takes four and a half?

DEAR READER—The normal adult thyroid gland produces enough thyroid hormone each day to about equal three grains of thyroid. When a normal person takes up to three grains a day the thyroid gland simply shuts down on how much it produces. Theoretically, a person taking three grains a day would not be producing any significant hormone from the thyroid gland.

Beyond this point, taking excess thyroid may cause the same symptoms a person has from an overactive thyroid gland, except bulging of the eyes which does not occur. Such a person may become nervous, feel hot, lose weight, have a rapid heart rate and could develop serious problems. While there are individual differences, taking excess thyroid without your doctor's approval is most unwise.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Treat your opportunities with respect today or you'll regret it. Taking things for granted would be very unwise at this time.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You're not likely to use your best judgment today in matters affecting you personally. Weigh carefully other advice.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Acquaintances will be willing to go out of their way for you today. They may not be back a second time if you are ungrateful.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your whims will probably exceed your budget today. Stay far away from things likely to appeal to your frivolous side.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Underplay your accomplishments in front of your peers today. Patting yourself on the back will gain you only a sprained arm.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You have good concepts today, but you need reassurance. Your problem could arise from talking to those whose vision lacks perception.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You could be rather gullible today commercially. Believe only half of what you're told and then divide that by two.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't permit someone else to do your thinking today regarding an important mater, especially if you know this person makes impulsive decisions.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Procrastination comes easy to you today. You'll gravitate toward the type of associate who will happily waste time with you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan 19) Tsk, tsk, tsk. You, better than anyone else, should know you can't get something for nothing. Today, you may kid yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Don't take for granted the outcome of an important project today. It won't turn out if you don't happen to oversee every detail.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You may have to deal with one today whose ideals are not as lofty as yours. Don't lower your thinking to her level.

Method To Hike Lamb Consumption

WASHINGTON (AP) — New methods of processing lamb for the consumer market are showing some promise for reversing the long-time decline in lamb consumption, according to the Agriculture Department.

The new methods use lamb meat such as briskets, neck meat and trimmings to fabricate "steaks" and other products. The methods have been developed by both government and private companies, a report by the department's Agricultural Research Service said.

The meat comes from "non-primal" cuts of lamb which in the past have not been in much demand. Consumers prefer prime cuts such as legs, chops and roasts which have put those in generally short supply.

According to the agency, fabricated lamb steaks from the other cuts have been accepted for future purchasing by the U.S. armed forces and are being gradually made available at civilian retail stores in some areas of the country.

"As more consumers become aware of the new lamb products, demand for them is expected to grow," the report said. "Ultimately, this increased demand will benefit American sheep and lamb ranchers."

Per capita lamb and mutton consumption averaged 1.8 pounds last year on a retail-weight basis, according to the USDA. Beef consumption, by comparison, was 88.9 pounds per capita and pork was 58 pounds. In 1960 per capita lamb and mutton consumption was 4.3 pounds.

The Texas Tech chapter nominated Thompson for the award.

Annually, the fraternity selects the outstanding senior exhibiting exceptional scholastic excellence, fraternity and campus-community leadership and service, and manly character.

Within the Fraternity, Thompson served as Interfraternity Council Representative and Worthy Master (pres.) He actively participated on the Housing Committee and won the Best Pledge Award as a freshman.

A top ranking student being listed on the Dean's Honor Roll for six semesters, he was honored with membership in Phi Alpha Theta (History Honorary), and a nomination for outstanding undergraduate history major in 1975.

On campus, Thompson served on the Relations and Social Committees.

The barracuda, according to Warren Zeiller of the Miami Seaquarium, is not a member of the shark family, but like the shark it is dangerous because of its unreliable behavior. The largest barracuda on record measured 5½ feet and weighed 103 pounds.

Kozelsky Completes Course

Michael F. Kozelsky of 3002 Thirty-ninth Street, Snyder, is among 18 Texas teachers who completed a special three-week energy curriculum development course June 18 at Texas A&M University. Kozelsky is an industrial arts teacher at Snyder High School.

The Energy Conservation Resources for Education (ENCORE) program developed energy instructional materials which can be incorporated into middle school and high school curriculums.

The 18 participants were selected from experienced teacher applicants throughout Texas, according to Dr. Daniel Householder, Texas A&M industrial education professor who served as the ENCORE program director.

All 18 teachers worked independently to develop materials for the energy areas in which they were most interested. A few of the areas included alternative energy sources for the future, energy conservation as it relates to the use of water resources, bilingual English-Spanish programs for teaching students about internal combustion methods, and film slide sets to illustrate energy conservation methods.

The materials developed in the workshop will be reviewed and selected for inclusion in a general energy teaching package. The packages will be distributed to the Texas Education Association and to schools throughout Texas.

Court Rejects Plea Of Roloff

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Evangelist Lester Roloff apparently will spend the last week of his 61st year in a Corpus Christi jail because "he agreed himself" into that situation.

The Texas Supreme Court rejected a plea by two of Roloff's lawyers Monday to free Roloff from jail on the first day of a five-day sentence for contempt of court.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Lynn Taylor told the justices in an informal session in their private conference room that Roloff belonged in jail because he had violated a 1973 court order.

Taylor said Roloff had agreed to the order, which authorized state welfare workers to inspect three child-care homes Roloff operates in south Texas.

On entering jail, Roloff told several hundred followers, including many youths from the homes, "If I never come out of this jail, you are worth it."

Roloff recently was held in contempt and ordered to pay a $1,750 fine because of his refusal to let the welfare workers visit his homes.

Houston lawyer Charles Lowry said Roloff had stipulated that he had refused seven times in 1974-75 to permit welfare workers to inspect his homes in Corpus Christi, Zapata and Port Isabel.

Lowry said the 1973 order was void, however, because it should not apply to persons connected with religious institutions, such as Roloff Evanglistic Enterprises.

In addition, Lowry said, the children and their parents were excluded from the 1973 court hearing even though they were "indispensable parties."

Also, Lowry argued, the welfare department had no authority to promulgate child-care rules, as only the legislature can do that. The department, he said, had violated the U.S. Constitution's prohibition against unreasonable search and seizure.

Even if the 1973 order was constitutional, Lowry said, Roloff should be exempt because the Christianity he teaches at the homes is a "way of life." Of 1,500 girls who have gone through the Rebekah Home in Corpus, 1,000 have "accepted Christ, and it has changed their lives."

Another Roloff lawyer, Hellmut Erwing, said the 1973 judgment could not order Roloff to admit welfare workers into his homes, because the state's petition had not asked for such authority.

Justice Jack Pope said, "It seems to me that Roloff is in the plight he's in because he agreed himself into a situation."

"That's a problem that's still not resolved," said Erwing.

Snyderites Attend LCC Music Camp

LUBBOCK—Cheryl Taylor, 2401 Forty-second Street, and Paula Wolfe, 2300 Thirty-second Street, participated in the annual Lubbock Christian College Music Camp held June 13-19.

Music Camp is held each year for junior and senior high students under the direction of Dr. Wayne Hinds, head of the LCC Music Department. A staff of 15 instructed, while 18 LCC students were counselors for the teens.

The week's activities included music instruction along with various social activities. The camp drew 210 participants from 10 states, including Alabama, Arizona, Colorado, Kansas, New Mexico, Nebraska, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Texas and Wyoming.

"How is lignite coal helping my electric bill?"

UNDERSTANDING YOUR ELECTRIC BILL

By using lignite coal to generate electricity, Texas Electric will be saving $44 million on its 1976 fuel bill. And that's money our customers won't have to pay.

We've turned to lignite because natural gas, our main fuel, is running out. New supplies of gas just aren't available in the huge quantities we need. Those supplies that are available have soared in cost.

In 1976 the lignite and the plants that use it will cost less than new natural gas alone. Here's how:

$86 million — The additional natural gas we would need in 1976 if we weren't using lignite.

— 42 million — The cost of lignite and the one-year cost for plants to use it in 1976.

$44 million — Money our customers won't have to pay in 1976 because we're using lignite coal.

These savings will continue in the years ahead. In fact, they will increase as we add more lignite power plants and our nuclear plant.

This doesn't mean rates will go down. But it does mean we have a way to minimize future increases and continue keeping your bill as low as possible.
