Battle scars

Three law enforcement patrol vehicles sustained damage Friday evening in Ballinger when a man fled officers who attempted to stop him after a family disturbance.

Felony charges of aggravated assault on a peace officer were filed against 41-year old Connie Mac Carson

Sr. of Ballinger in connection with the incident and his bond was set at $20,000.

Officers said that Carson was already serving a probation sentence on a similar charge when he was arrested Friday evening.

Three patrol cars damaged

Assault charges filed after nighttime Ballinger chase

A 41-year-old Ballinger man was jailed in lieu of $20,000 bond on charges of aggravated assault on a peace officer after a chase that left two Ballinger police cars damaged and one Runnels County Sheriff's Department vehicle damaged.

Sheriff's Department spokesmen said that the department received a call about a family disturbance about 9:00 p.m. Friday at a residence on 16th Street on Ballinger's west side.

Sheriff's officers and Ballinger

Police officers responded to the call and arrived to see a vehicle leave the residence. When officers attempted to stop the car, the vehicle fled officers.

Police officers attempted to block the path of the fleeing car by using patrol vehicles and the suspect vehicle rammed the front of a patrol car, backed up rapidly and crashed into the rear of another patrol car before getting away.

Several blocks later, Sheriff Bill Baird contacted the fleeing vehicle and got the car stopped after the vehicle crashed into the sheriff's car.

Sheriff Baird then took the man into custody and he was placed in the Runnels County Jail. Baird said that the man, Connie Mac Carson Sr., was charged with aggravated assault on a peace officer and that the man was serving a probation, four-year prison sentence on a

Post Office presents nine safety awards

The United States Postal Service recognized nine employees in Winters this week for their years of accident-free service.

In making the presentations, it was noted that the Postal Service has always been a leader in promoting safety and providing a safe place for its employees to work. To further promote safety awareness, the Postal Service implemented its Safety Incentive Award in October of last year.

The purpose of the program is to develop safe work habits and driving skills, reduce injuries and vehicle accidents, and recognize work units and employees whose safety records are exemplary.

All career postal employees are eligible for awards upon completion of five years of accident-free service. The employee must not have had a preventable accident or a lost-workday accident.

Receiving awards for twenty years of safety, a silver belt buckle, were O.J. Murray, George Lloyd, Jim Gehrels, and Wilson Marks.

A brass buckle, denoting 15 years, was presented to Donald Kruse. Ted Ahrens and Postmaster Ann McDorman received Bronze buckles for ten years of accident-free service.

Copper buckles, for five years, were presented to Jerry Sims and Martha Gehrels.

The Safety Awareness Incentive Program is a continuous program and awards will be given as employees reach five-year anniversary dates.

All drivers of the Winters Post Office have been given a six-hour defensive driving course in conjunction with the safety program.

Thank you...

Things will get back to normal next week, maybe, as soon as National Secretary Week is over. In The Enterprise office Tuesday our favorite secretary had her busy morning interrupted with a bouquet of red roses being delivered to her. If that was not enough, she was not overly happy with this photographer who just happened to be hanging around with a ready camera.

Seriously, we want to take this space to say thanks to Sandy Radford. Of course, Sandy is not just a secretary, we couldn't get the paper out without her.

Thank You, Sandy.

Lake floodgates closed — repairs now underway

Repair work is almost completed on the dam at the new Winters Lake according to City Administrator Glenn Brown. The work was to correct damage caused to the rip-rap on the face of the dam caused by the high winds several weeks ago.

The flood gates at the lake were opened and about three feet of water was released from the lake to allow for the repairs at water level.

When workmen attempted to close the gate, about two weeks ago, it would not close completely and water continued to trickle out of the lake.

Brown said the leak involved only a small amount of water, not enough to create a problem. The city administrator said that engineers originally planned to drop the water level about three feet but changed the plan and wanted to stop at about two and one-half feet. The leaking sluice gate let the water continue to run and dropped the level another six inches, to the level intended at first.

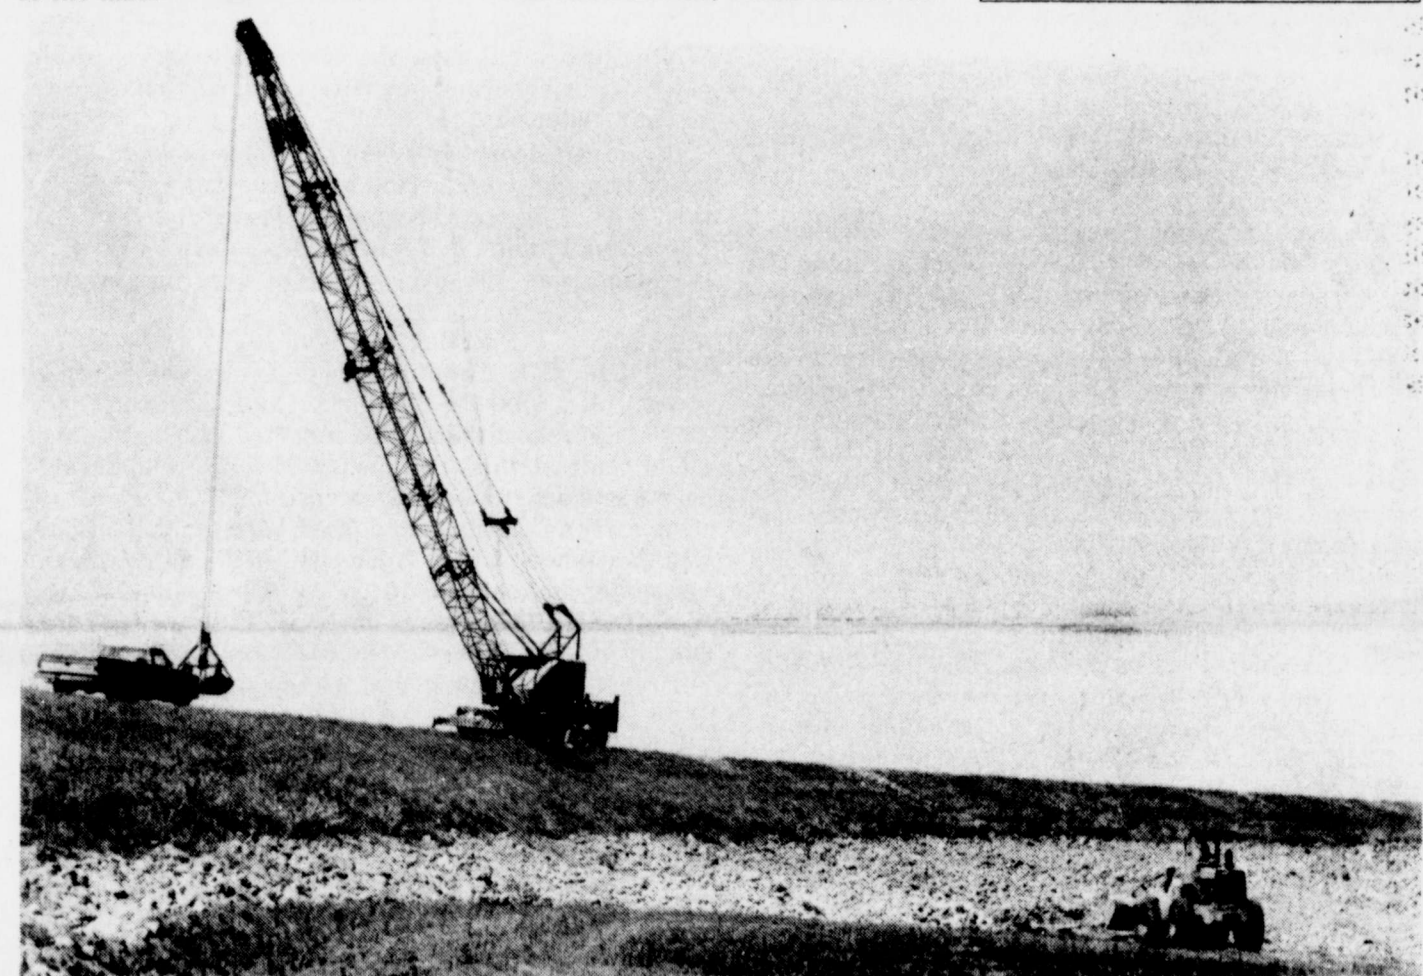

Two local divers, Lanny Bahlman and Garland Richards, temporarily stopped the leak in order for workers to climb down inside the wet well, which houses the gates, and make necessary repairs.

Downstream, residents of Ballinger were pleased to see a slight flow of fresh clear water running over the dam in the city park, the water that was released from the Winters Lake.

Getting the rocks in place

Workmen are putting the finishing touches on the dam at the new Winters Lake repairing damage to the dam caused by high winds several weeks ago.

The rocks, rip rap, and the soil beneath were washed away by four to five-foot waves that were driven by 40 to 60 mile-per-hour winds.

Both the engineers and the contractor said that the damage to the dam was minimal, but that if steps to repair it were not taken immediately, more damage could have been done.

Domino, tennis tournaments, pony show included during Mayfest

More plans are being announced for the Second Annual Winters Mayfest scheduled for Saturday, May 7, at the Winters City Park and Community Center.

Included in the Mayfest will be an Egg Toss and Sack Race. These events will be part of the day's activities.

The Egg Toss event will begin at 1:30 p.m. and the sack races will start at 2:30 p.m.

Oil production rate set at 100 percent

The Railroad Commission has set the Texas oil production rate for May 1983 at the market demand factor of 100 percent for the 75th month in a row and the 131st time since the commission first went to the ceiling level in April, 1972.

Chairman Mack Wallace and Commissioner Jim Nugent directed the continuance of the maximum statewide allowable after receiving and reviewing purchaser nominations for Texas oil in May totaling 2,473,449 barrels per day, an increase of 14,069 barrels daily when compared to April buyer requests. May nominations totaled 2,452,593 barrels daily.

Chairman Wallace reported that crude oil and petroleum products imported into the United States averaged 3,441,000 barrels daily for the four weeks ending April 1, down 1.1 million barrels from the same period a year earlier.

Prizes and ribbons will be awarded and children and adults both may sign up the day of Mayfest at the City Park. Lanny Bahlman is chairman for the events.

In conjunction with the Mayfest, a Domino Tournament will be sponsored by the Winters Area Chamber of Commerce. The domino play will begin at 1:00 p.m. near the swimming pool.

Straight dominos will be played at 250 points per game. About 10 games will be played by each team.

Prize money of $100 will go to the first three places with an entry fee of $6.00 per team being charged.

Persons wishing to enter the tournament may contact chairman James Spill at 754-4847 or Naida Barker at the Chamber of Commerce office at 754-5210.

Another of the many attractions during Mayfest will be a dual Shetland Pony Show sponsored by Vern Brewer of Gainesville, Joe Jeter of Eddy, Jack Gerhart of Dublin, and Myrtle Terry of Lueders.

The Shetland Pony Show will be held at the Lazy 'N' Stables, the old oil mill site on north Melwood

GTE may compromise

A proposed settlement of General Telephone of the Southwest's latest rate hike has been scheduled for final consideration by the Texas Public Utilities Commission on May 19.

Under the proposal, GTE has agreed to settle for $32.5 million in rate increases instead of the original request of $85.5 million.

Under the compromise proposal, a typical residential telephone subscriber's bill would increase less than one dollar per month. The original rate increase request called for $4.00 per month in residential rates.

GTE officials said that exact rates under the proposed settlement would not be ready until late this week.

The agreement must still be signed by attorneys for the Texas Municipal League, which represents a number of Texas cities who had opposed GTE's most recent rate increase request.

Don Butler, attorney for the TML, said that representatives of the cities will meet in Austin later this week to decide whether to sign the proposal.

The Public Utilities Commission has scheduled, for the first time ever, customer complaint hearings outside Austin. The hearings will be held in the Dallas and Houston areas for GTE customers in those areas. No meetings were set, however, for any area of West Texas.

Understanding Yourself

Families Can Be Happy
By Rev. Wallace Schultz,
Lutheran Hour Speaker

A happy family is still possible in spite of family feuds, adolescent runaways, parental abandonment and a spiraling divorce rate. For every member of the family it means putting God and His Word first.

Jesus died so that we can forgive and love our fellow family members.

As you examine your life and as you realize any part you may have played in contributing to disharmony or heartache in your family, turn first to your Heavenly Father in prayer. Ask Him for forgiveness. Then speak with the other members of your family and ask them for their forgiveness for anything that you may have done.

The love of God spoken of in the Bible is one of sincere commitment and total sacrifice. Jesus died so that you and I can have a clear conscience, so that we can forgive and love our fellow family members and so that we can live eternally in heaven.

For a free reprint of the Lutheran Hour sermon, "Families Can Be Happy," send your name and address to the International Lutheran Laymen's League, 2185 Hampton Ave., St. Louis, MO 63139.

R.C. Mitchell Hybrid Grain Sorghums

STANDKING Y-G

This medium-maturity, yellow endosperm hybrid has good drought tolerance and is resistant to MDMV and most strains of smut. It also has greenbug tolerance and has proven in both field conditions and official tests that it has bred-in ability to withstand attacks from this insect. It has a short, stiff stalk, is 38 to 48 inches in height and matures in 105 to 120 days.

This medium-early maturity, hetero-yellow endosperm hybrid is widely adaptable to areas in which hybrids of its maturity can be grown. It has resistance to downy mildew as well as other foliar diseases and is tolerant to chemical burn. This hybrid has good uniformity and great "eye appeal." It threshes easily and has excellent yield potential for its maturity. Height is 42 to 46 inches, and matures in 100 to 105 days.

17th Congressional District art competition planned

Congressman Charles Stenholm announced plans recently for an art competition for high school students, grades 9 through 12, in the 17th Congressional District. The winning entry will be displayed later this year in the corridor leading to the United States Capitol.

According to Congressman Stenholm, the art competition is part of An Artistic Discovery, a nationwide activity initiated by members of the United States House of Representatives to recognize the creative talents of young people.

"I believe that no group of Americans is more creative, expressive, and curious about our society than our young people," said Congressman Stenholm. "This competition enables us to encourage and recognize their rich and diverse artistic talents at a time when local arts budgets are being curtailed."

The contest, to be conducted at no expense to the Federal government, is open to any high school student in the 17th District. Artwork must be no larger than 30"x30" (unframed), and two-dimensional. Eligible Walter C. Humphreys, 93, of Abilene, died at 6:40 p.m. Wednesday, April 20 at Hendrick Medical Center after an apparent heart attack.

Services were held Saturday at Southern Hills Church of Christ with Dr. Gene Clevenger of the ACU Bible faculty officiating. Burial was at Wingate Cemetery.

One of eleven children, he grew up on a ranch in the Shep community.

After attending what is now North Texas State University and playing football there one year, he enrolled at Childers Classical Institute (now Abilene Christian University), when it opened in 1906, becoming a member of the first football team to represent that college. He played as a 148-pound end on the team.

He married Junie Allen of Wingate Dec. 20, 1908.

He was a mule barn operator and cattleman who switched to making horse and cattle trading his chief job after losing an 1,100-acre place during the Depression.

Learning how to play

Friendliness, like courtesy, makes the give and take of life more enjoyable. And, like courtesy, friendliness is learned by experience as well as by example.

When a child begins walking is a good time to give him a start in learning the art of being friendly, according to Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter.

At two years old, children are so busy exploring, so curious about people and things, that they have not yet become self-conscious about themselves. This is the ideal time for them to meet other children in a play situation.

Even though children don't usually play with other children until they are about three, two-year-olds are not too young to learn the fun of mutual exchange. Skills in "getting along" with others will increase with each exchange and self-confidence will grow with each new acquaintance made.

Friendliness is basically a love of other people, and enjoyment of their company, and a spontaneous desire to please them.

Beginning at two years, it is a good idea to take a toddler to some place where other children play two to three times a week. Toddlers get acquainted with other children in their own way and at their own rate. Don't push them, but quietly encourage them to respond to any overtures made.

Don't be overprotective, either! Toddlers must learn some give and take, and that includes

GOOD PSYCHOLOGY

Surprisingly, even though scientific evidence supports the value of safety belts, only a small proportion of people use them. People do not wear safety belts for a variety of reasons; fear that the safety belt will trap them in their cars, the belief that good drivers don't need them. Some people feel that they are just too much trouble.

Are safety belts worth the trouble it takes to use them? You decide: According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, for every one percent increase in safety belt use, 172 lives will be saved. These experts also report that safety belts reduce your chances of being killed or seriously maimed in a crash by about 50 percent. In short, not wearing a safety belt doubles your chance of being hurt seriously in a crash.

Historic old Fort Chadbourne Ranch near Bronte, Texas, will be the setting for the annual Chi-Punch Chianina Sale Friday, April 29.

The home of Maximizer '81 National Champion and '82 National Western Champion, the Chadbourne Ranch is owned by the Conda Richards family. Named for his grandfather and the founder of the ranch, the late Conda H. Wylie, Richards has expanded the operations while at the same time serving Ballinger's First National Bank as chairman of the board and president.

The ranch has a number of historical features which make it unique and fun to visit. It is the actual site of Fort Chadbourne, one of a number of forts established in frontier Texas to protect pioneers against Indians. The ruins are still there.

Cowboy movie star Rex Allen's grandfather is buried in the old Fort Chadbourne cemetery. And, speaking of Rex brings up several other notes of interest. Rex is the national chairman for the Cattleman's Round-Up for Crippled Children.

Well, you say, "So what?" The Chadbourne Ranch is the birthplace of CRCC. Some 25 years ago, the late Mr. Wylie donated 20 steers to be sold to defray operational expenses of the West Texas Rehabilitation Center.

It started the whole concept which today is a big annual tradition of WTRC and ranchmen throughout the Southwest. Every fall "a few head of livestock" are cut out of just about every herd from here to yonder and sold in special sales to help Rehab.

The different method of funding the center was copyrighted the first year and is now a vital part of fund raising for the handicapped. This way, no one receives a bill for services rendered. About 10,000 handicapped children and adults are treated on the Rehab campuses of Abilene, San Angelo and Snyder.

Some three years ago, Conda Richards put out the word at the ranch through his sons, Brian and Garland, and foreman, Jim Morrow, that in addition to the annual autumn donation to CRCC, he wanted to kickoff each new CRCC year with a special Chianina consignment in the spring ranch sale. Rehab III, A Miss FH2MX Mr. Italy heifer, will be auctioned this Friday with all proceeds donated to CRCC.

Other consignments include offerings from 80 lots. They are 20 fullblood bulls, 20 fullblood heifers, 15 percentage bulls and 25 percentage heifers.

See ya at the Chadbourne Ranch this Friday.

Lone Star Gas executive warns of dangers of "quick fix" legislation

Any contemplated "quick fix" to bring down the price of natural gas could lead to serious gas shortages in the future, Lone Star Gas Company Senior Vice President Douglas W. Williams warned recently.

Testifying before the House Subcommittee on Fossil and Synthetic Fuels in Washington, Williams urged the federal government not to cancel key provisions of contracts between natural gas producers and the pipeline companies that buy their gas.

"We believe that responsible parties should abstain from 'quick fix' short-term solutions and continue with the transition to free markets for new gas contemplated by the Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978, and thereby assure continued adequate supplies at reasonable prices," Williams said.

Several energy-related bills have been submitted to the 98th Congress, many of which would override existing contract provisions between producers and buyers of natural gas. Williams warned that legislation which might infringe on the sanctity of contract obligations could cause severe disruption within the natural gas industry, with both utilities and their customers being penalized.

Lone Star Gas Company is aggressively and successfully negotiating with producers to control gas purchase costs, Williams said. Many of the company's contracts provide for price renegotiation between buyer and seller.

In addition, Lone Star is continuing to secure voluntary price concessions. To date, prices have been lowered in 130 contracts, a reduction of about $85 million by December 1983 in gas cost.

U.S. threatens to quarantine Texas cattle over brucellosis

Texas cattlemen are asking the state's consumers to join them in seeking passage of new state animal health laws to avert a threatened federal quarantine of the multibillion-dollar cattle industry, says Frates Seelgison, president of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association.

The warning, from the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Animal and Plant Health Inspection

Service, concerns bovine brucellosis. The disease causes abortion or reduced calving rates, mastitis and an illness called undulant fever, which can be transmitted from infected cattle to man.

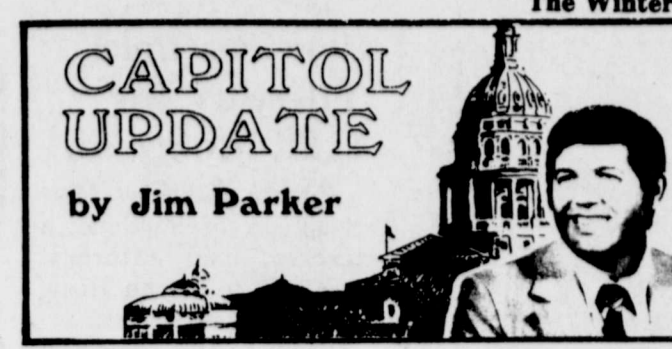

The quarantine would shutdown almost all interstate movement and sales of beef and dairy cattle from the state. It would cover all cattle, including those not infected with the disease, Seelgison said.

James O. Lee, Jr., acting APHIS administrator, told the Texas Animal Health Commission that if the legislation isn't passed, the only viable option available to his department would be to "impose and enforce a quarantine of the state of Texas."

TAHC supports SB 366 and HB 701, introduced by state Sen. Bob Glasgow, D-Stephenville, and state Rep. Bruce Gibson, D-Godley, to make those changes in the brucellosis law.

"Today, cattlemen in Texas face severe restrictions on movement of cattle out of state as a result of the inability to conform to the new federal regulations on bovine brucellosis. The cost of this curtailment, in times of drought, could be as much as 80 to 130 million dollars per year to the industry," Seelgison, a San Antonio cattleman, said.

"The new brucellosis law must be enacted if we are to avoid this economic impact. The quarantine and equally restrictive import regulations by other states can be avoided if the new bill is enacted this session. TSCRA strongly supports the

by Jim Parker

This week I would like to discuss a matter that may, at first blush, seem minor or minimal to all those involved but which I think is of great importance because it is typical of the unique issues faced by this session of the Legislature and graphically demonstrates the two divergent philosophies present in the Legislature and the Governor's Office.

The issue is the Teacher Retirement System (TRS).

The past three regular sessions of the Legislature we have increased the benefits that active members of the TRS could expect on retirement. In 1979, the State's contribution rate was increased to 8.5%.

You probably know as much about actuarial matters as I do, but an independent accounting firm has reported that the estimated funding period for TRS has declined to fifteen (15) years. My best information is that a retirement system is actuarially sound if it has a funding period of 30-40 years for the unfunded liability. As an example, the funding period for the emphasized. Texas exports about two million head of cattle and calves per year.

Under quarantine, all heifers and bulls over six months of age must come from a herd which has had two completely negative tests 120 days apart, the last test having been done within 30 days of movement. All certified free herds lose their status unless tested three times a year.

In times of drought, as many as 3.5 million head of cattle per year move from Texas to grass outside the state. If cattle were denied access to such grass or other markets and were sold in Texas for slaughter at a 30 to 40 percent discount, the cost could be as much as 100 dollars per head or a loss of 50 to 100 million dollars per year, he said.

Registered cattle breeders, who supply pureblood seedstock to commercial and other registered cattle herds, export approximately 20,000 head of breeding cattle per year. A survey of registered operators showed that they believe they would suffer about a 25 percent discount on their stock if forced to sell only in Texas. This would impose a loss of about five million dollars per year.

The restricted movement of show cattle exhibited in the state's major livestock shows because of the quarantine would reduce or eliminate such shows as Houston, Fort Worth, San Antonio, Dallas and El Paso. The loss in state revenues would be many millions of dollars per year, Seelgison warned.

With the quarantine, the two-compartment plan for Texas, where West Texas has greater freedom of cattle movement than East Texas with its higher rate of infection, would be lost. All Texas cattle would have the same restrictions under the quarantine.

"The prospect of a federal quarantine or equivalent state curtailment of cattle movement poses an enormous burden for Texas cattlemen and consumers, but this impact can be avoided completely if the new brucellosis legislation is enacted in the present session," Seelgison reiterated.

Texas State Employees Retirement System was 34 years in 1981 and 28 years in 1982, meaning, I suppose, it would be twice less sound than the TRS.

Now, with all of that passage of the new law."

The greatest negative impact will be on commercial cattle operators if the bill fails to pass. Seelgison out of the way, the question is, should the state reduce contributions to the TRS to 7.1% and use the 220 million dollars "freed up" for other programs?

In earlier years, when Texas was flush with oil and sales tax money, we could afford to have "inactive" state funds and no fears of taxes to meet our increased spending needs, but that has changed and we now must decide whether we want to "trim fat" or "raise taxes" to obtain funds needed for state programs.

While my position is not calculated to endear me to teachers, active or retired, I sincerely believe I have a duty to support the reduced contributions alternative and use the 220 million dollars that would be saved over the biennium for other programs such as teacher pay increases, highway programs and, perhaps, even increases for retired teachers. Our teachers are entitled to a safe retirement system; but can we justify "two times safe?" I think not. Besides, the reduced contribution period would only be for two years.

The alternative theory, and a theory widely held, is we should simply raise taxes to meet state needs and leave the TRS and similar situations alone.

I am not sure people are ready for honesty in politicians, but I guess we will find out at the next election. Many retired teachers have urged me to oppose the contribution reduction, my father-in-law of twenty-plus years, who is a member of TRS, included, but I have just got to do what I think is right based on the best information I have.

Thank you and see you next week.

Loyalty Day, May 1, to be observed nationwide

The first of May is Loyalty Day and as such it is a day filled with activities designed to involve the community in an overt display of loyalty to flag and country. Therefore, every loyal citizen should eagerly participate in the festivities in an effort to make this Loyalty Day the best observance ever held.

Loyalty Day has become a tradition with the Veterans of Foreign Wars. With the passage of Public Law 85-529 on July 18, 1958, the VFW won a long hard battle to have Loyalty Day approved by Congress. However, this day does not belong to the VFW alone, it belongs to all Americans.

Most Americans have heard the quote "Ask not what your country can do for you — ask what you can do for your country." This is a sound principle to live by in a country such as ours, where the government is elected by the people and where the public is expected to participate in the governing process.

In these times of global political turbulence, Americans should pause and ask themselves, "What have we done and what are we doing now to demonstrate to the world just how we feel about our country?" After all, ours is a country that has held high the beacon of liberty and asked nothing of the other nations except that they send to her, in the words of Emma Lazarus emblazoned on the Statue of Liberty, their "huddled masses yearning to breathe free." Ours is a country that has taken the abstract ideal of "Freedom and Justice for All" and made it into a way of life.

We must pledge ourselves to maintain a free society in which loyalty is always encouraged and respected. For, without loyalty the United States, the world's best hope for a future blest with freedom, cannot long survive. And, if we fail, the flame of

"Ask not what your country can do for you; ask what you can do for your country." — John F. Kennedy streets and asks that anyone else having a flag to fly it. The Veterans will also place flags in the Lakeview, Fairview, Northview and Lutheran Cemeteries to honor all veterans who served their country. The Ladies Auxiliary will place wreaths on the flagpoles.

All churches in the Winters Community are asked to take part in this observance during their morning services with the Ladies Auxiliary donating literature for the occasion.

Let's make May 1st one day to celebrate the loyalty we live by for the rest of the year, and let the rest of the world know we're proud to be Americans.

The Consumer Alert

by Jim Mattox
Attorney General

AUSTIN—With spring and summer coming up, homeowners are busy working on their lawns themselves, while others will turn to "professionals" on yard care services.

There are many reputable professional companies that can do a great service for you. The consumer has to be careful and contract with companies that guarantee their work and provide good service.

Consumers who are considering such services can choose those companies that specialize in jobs such as lawn maintenance, tree trimming, lawn and tree spraying, and landscaping among others. Some offer total care services with year-round maintenance or one-time service.

Whatever service is selected, consumers should investigate carefully before committing themselves to a contract for work, or paying in advance for a job.

Consumers should decide what lawn services they want performed and get at least three estimates from companies or individuals. Try to obtain information from your friends and relatives who have had these services, and check with your local Better Business Bureau and the Attorney General's Office to see
