Egyptian voter turnout heavy; Two arrested

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Officials reported a heavy turnout today in balloting on a national referendum to name Hosni Mubarak, the only candidate, to succeed Anwar Sadat as president. No incidents were reported by police, who were ordered to shoot anyone "disturbing stability and security."

Meanwhile, more details of Sadat's assassination last Tuesday became available, and official sources reported 18 army officers were transferred to civilian posts because of "fanatic religious tendencies."

Also, the Interior Ministry said security forces had arrested two of the five Moslem fundamentalists accused of instigating two days of violence in the southern city of Assyut.

Official results from the referendum, in which the 12 million voters were asked to mark "yes" or "no" next to Mubarak's picture on their ballots, could be announced as early as Wednesday.

Mubarak, the air force commander chosen by Sadat in 1975 as his vice president and future successor, was nominated by Sadat's National Democratic Party and approved by the National Assembly.

Officials at three polling booths in the Cairo suburbs of Helipolis and Abbessia said more than half of the eligible voters had cast ballots in the first three hours of voting.

"Everyone in our country will say 'yes' for our new president, Mubarak," Sada't widow Jihan told CBS News' correspondent in Cairo after she and Sadat's four children cast ballots. "He is our hope now.... This is what my husband wanted."

Mubarak voted at a polling station near his home in Helipolis and was accompanied by Sudanese President Mohamed Gaafar Nimeiri, who also voted. Officials said the Sudanese leader was permitted to vote because he considers the ties between Egypt and Sudan so close that he is practically an Egyptian citizen.

Sudan was one of the few Arab nation to maintain diplomatic relations with Cairo after Sadat signed the U.S.-sponsored 1979 Camp David peace accords with Israel.

Also voting for Mubarak was Bishop Gregorius, one of the Coptic Christian leaders chosen by Sadat to administer the church after Sadat banished Coptic Pope Shenouda III to a desert monastery during a crackdown last month on religious extremists and political opponents.

"Mubarak is the best choice." Gregorius said. "He has been with Sadat all the time, he knows our problems, and is prepared for the hard test."

The leader of the small pro-Soviet Progressive Unionist Party urged his followers to vote "no," but the leader of another small opposition party, the Socialist-Labor, supported Mubarak. He said he was ready to "give him a chance" to change Sadat's policies.

Defense Minister Abdel Halim Abu Ghazala said all four of Sadat's killers survived although previous government statements said one of them was killed. The four are reported to be members of a fanatic sect dedicated to killing Moslem leaders who do not live up to its standards of fundamentalism.

Abu Ghazala said in an interview with The Associated Press that the ringleader, 1st Lt. Khaled Ahmed Shawki el-Islambouly, had come out of a coma and "told the whole story."

Sudan given U.S. assurances

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Sudan's President Gaafar Nimeiri says the Reagan administration has promised to protect him from the Soviet Union and Libya, and he may wage a "preventive war" against his Libyan neighbors.

Nimeiri said in an interview Monday that Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. told him the Soviets and Libyans will not be allowed to undermine his regime.

"I have been assured by Secretary of State Haig that the United States is not going to let such an act happen," he told The Associated Press and four American newspapers.

In another interview published today in the independent Beirut newspaper An-Nahar, the Sudanese leader said, "Possible defense could be best ensured by attack: I mean carrying the battle into Libya."

The paper's Cairo correspondent said he asked Nimeiri if he meant Sudan would wage a preventive war inside Libya, and the president replied: "This is correct."

He stressed, however, that he had never discussed a preventive war against Libya with the United States or Egypt, the Lebanese report said.

Nimeiri told the American reporters Libya's leader, Col. Moammar Khadafy, is planning to invade Sudan with Soviet support.

"We don't know the time," he said. "We don't know the direction it will come from, but it's coming. If you hear Khadafy talk...you'd think they are going to attack tomorrow. You would think they are already attacking."

Sudan accuses Libya of daily bombing raids on Sudanese villages bordering Chad, where Libya maintains an estimated 12,000 to 15,000 troops to support President Goukouni Oueddei. Sudan and Egypt support Goukouni's foe, former Defense Minister Hissene Habre.

Nimeiri, one of the few Arab leaders who openly supported President Anwar Sadat's peace treaty with Israel and his alliance with the United States, was in Cairo for Sadat's funeral.

From Khartoum, Nimeiri's capital, Sudan's official news agency SUNA reported some U.S. military equipment would be sent immediately to Sudan as a result of talks there between U.S. State Department counselor Robert McFarlane and Defense Minister Abdel Magid Hamid Khalil. Mcfarlane left Khartoum Monday, but three U.S. experts stayed to work out details of the U.S. shipments.

In Washington, State Department spokeswoman Anita Stockman said U.S. military advisers might be sent to train the Sudanese how to use some of the equipment. But President Reagan, when asked by reporters whether U.S. troops would see combat in Sudan, replied: "We have no intention of any Americans engaging in combat."

Nimeiri, who came to power in a military coup in 1969 and has put down a number of attempted coups since then, said he urgently needs air-defense systems, missiles, anti-aircraft guns and jet fighters.

He also said Sudan will join in military exercises next month with the United States, Egypt and some Persian Gulf nations.

Nimeiri repeated charges he has made previously that the Soviets want to destabilize pro-Western Arab and African nations.

County attorney submits resignation from office

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

Robert Rendall, Midland County attorney who is nearing his first year in office, on Monday submitted his resignation in an executive session of the Midland County Commissioners' Court.

"Oh, that's terrible," Commissioner Charlie Welch said after the closed session. "Midland County just lost a tremendous employee when Robert Rendall resigned."

Rendall, 27, tendered his resignation to the commissioners in the wake of the resignation of Rendall's senior assistant Woody Leverett, 28, who, like his boss, is joining an established Midland law firm.

Rendall, whose resignation is effective Nov. 1, will be practicing law with the Bullock, Scott & Neisig firm, which specializes in oil, gas and real estate litigation. Leverett will swing over to the Kerr, Fitz-Gerald & Kerr firm. And yet another attorney, Rob Sutphen, on the county payroll also is literally crossing the street for employment with the Turpin, Smith, Dyer & Saxe firm. Supthen, 27, is an assistant prosecutor to District Attorney Vern Martin.

The exit of Rendall and Leverett will leave the County Attorney's Office with three lawyers, J. Scott Henderson, a former policeman who signed up on the county payroll for $20,000 late last year; Ruben Bustamante, a spring joinee, who was raised to $17,700 in May; and Mark Dettman who is Leverett's replacement.

Commissioners favor judicial raise, balk at additional hydrology fees

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

Midland County commissioners, who have been cautious but generous spenders this year, were eager to help boost the annual pay of four appellate court judges to the mid-$60,000s but balked at paying Midland hydrologist Ed Reed an additional $4,800 for services the commissioners say they did not solicit.

The county already has paid its 38 percent share ($20,207) of the $53,174 which Reed charged the city and county for his six-month study of the controversial Midland Draw and the city's rising underground water table.

"I feel very strongly that we don't owe any of it," said Commissioner Charlie Welch, a former water-well driller who has differed with Reed's analysis of the draw, which runs alongside Midland's sewage treatment plant.

The $4,800 includes $800 for a press conference; $1,500 for consulting work with Austin hydrologist William Guyton, whom the county, at the insistence of Welch, had paid $15,000 for a similar but less detailed study afforded by Reed; another $1,500 for tests; $800 for a report and $200 for miscellaneous services.

Reed's hourly rate is $75, while his son's rate is about $47 per hour.

County Judge Bill Ahders said he would contact Reed to get a clearer explantion of the additional services before the commissioners re-consider paying the bill.

BUT THE commissioners seemed more than willing to pay $1,200 yearly to each of four Far West Texas appellate judges seated in El Paso after attorney Bill Kerr argued that the judges' salaries ought to be within $1,000 of the $65,700 drawn by the Texas Supreme Court judges. At present, the judges are drawing about $55,000 — about $10,000 less than the Supreme Court judges — from the state.

The court, in hearing death-penalty criminal cases and civil cases, "is going to be more significant in our lives than it has ever before," Kerr told the commissioners.

"Undoubtedly," Kerr said, "the Court of Appeals is becoming far and away the most important court that we have."

"They are handling heavyweight matters...matters involving lots of money," Kerr said.

Development still in question

City Council to consider jurisdiction

A joint venture has been formed between the HBF Corporation of Midland and Liberty Trust Co. of Odessa to start work on a 1,300- to 1,400-acre planned community development, which will eventually expand the existing Mission Country Club to include a golf course and residential area.

The Midland City Council was to look at the development today during its regular meeting in City Hall Council Chambers. At issue is whether or not the council will give up jurisdiction to its half of the development, which is being requested by Harriett P. Faudree.

The development will be located midway between Odessa and Midland Regional Airport, between the new Texas 191 (North Route) and Highway 80, according to a spokesman for the group.

The Extraterritorial Jurisdiction line for both Midland and Odessa cuts that development in half, and Mrs. Faudree is requesting Midland turn its half over to Odessa. Odessa then would be required to furnish water and sewer services and police protection.

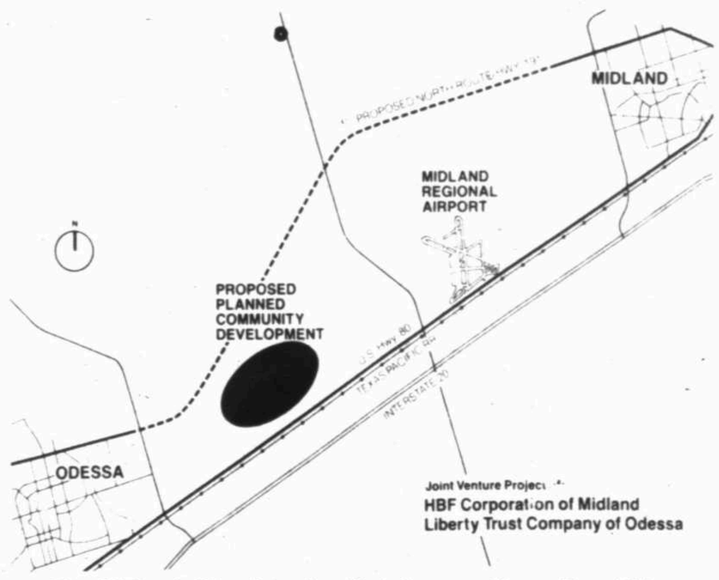
The ETJ line, by law, extends three miles beyond the city limits. In the case of Midland, the Regional Airport is the westernmost point of the city limits.

Preliminary plans call for a 36-hole golf course with country club and will ultimately provide 4,000 new residences with other supporting recreational facilities. The residences will include estate homes, single family houses, cluster homes, townhouses and condominiums.

3D/International, a Houston-based design and management firm, is master planning the project. In 1979, 3D/I master-planned 10,000 acres of the Faudree Ranch and is currently designing the twin-tower Heritage Center project in Midland, being developed by the HBF Corporation.

Landgraf, Crutcher and Associates, Inc., of Odessa is the consulting engineer for the development. Killian and Nugent in Chicago is the golf course architect, with Jack Tuthill, tour director for the Professional Golfers' Association, as consultant.

This area formerly was known as Golden Acres and included the 150-acre, 18-hole golf course known as Mission Acres. It is surrounded by the 442-acre Faudree Estate, which sits about a mile northeast of Odessa Country Club on East Highway 80.



The Midland City Council will today consider relinquishing jursidiction over land to be used in a proposed planned community development.

Air show slated at Midland Regional Airport

The Confederate Air Force's Desert Squadron of Midland-Odessa will engineer a 65-plus warbird airshow which will feature fighters from the Curtiss P-40 Warhawk of Flying Tiger fame to the Boeing B-29 Super Fortress of the Atomic Age at Midland Regional Airport.

The show is set for Oct. 31 and Nov. 1.

The CAF is dedicated to preserving and keeping flying and airworthy the relatively few remaining Allied and Axis Powers aircraft from the 1939-45 era.

And on Monday, the CAF announced the show, which has been months in planning, in a CAF-get-together with the mayors of Midland and Odessa.

"These planes flew in the last war that our country won," Odessa Mayor Bob Bryant said after the climbed from the cockpit of a BT-13 Vultee "Vibrator" of World War II vintage. "To reflect on that, our history is to reinforce our patriotism," Bryant said. "I appreciate these people (CAF colonels) who work to preserve these aircraft."

Moments later, he joined Midland Mayor G. Thane Akins in Tiger Charter headquarters at Midland Regional Airport to read mayoral proclamations sanctioning the air show.

Mayors Akins and Bryant proclaimed Oct. 31-Nov. 1 as "Confederate Air Force Days" in the Midland-Odessa area.

Bryant referred to "our precious heritage" reflected in the World War II trainers and combat aircraft and commended the Desert Squadron for "preserving these aircraft for future generations."

Akins noted the mission of the CAF: "to preserve in flying condition a complete collection of combat aircraft" from the war; to provide air power museums; and keep the esprit de corps alive.

Akins said that the Allied air power was "probably the greatest factor in winning that war."

Bryant, who said he does "remember very well World War II, said that "Patriotism was higher then than any time I can remember."

Desert Squadron public information officer, Col. Don Luttrell, who outlined the two-day show, CAF as a "flying museum."

The aircraft will be on static display on Oct. 31, but will be flying on the afternoon of Nov. 1.

Aircraft scheduled to be at the show include the P-40 Warhawk, the P-51 Mustang, The P-38 Lightning, the B-25 Mitchell, the A-26 Invader; the A-20 Havoc, the B-24 Librator, the B-17 Flying Fortress, the B-29 Super Fortress, and a squadron of AT-6 Texans, mono-wing and bi-wing trainers, and Air Force, Navy, Marine Corps, and

Pay hike for appellate judges favored

Kerr, who had no one on the Commissioners' Court to contradict his contention, suggested that the veteran lawyers seated on the high bench were underpaid.

"There are lots of lawyers with two or three years experience making that much money," said Kerr, a former federal prosecutor who heads up an old-line Midland law firm. "They (the judges) have to give up a practice" to get on the bench."

Kerr characterized the judges as having class, quality and experience.

On that court, seated in El Paso, are Max Osborn, a former Midland attorney, whom Kerr described as an "outstanding" appellate judge "by anybody's standards"; Stephen Preslar, formerly of McCamey; William Ward; and the newest member, Charles R. "Dick" Schulte of El Paso. The court, which now makes the circuit, will be seated in Odessa on Oct. 16, Kerr said.

"The court is going to be the final word" in most cases, Kerr said.

MIDWAY IN KERR'S talk to the commissioners, a discussion on salaries and earnings of lawyers' in private practice was brought up, and the commissioners noted that county governments are hard pressed to offer competitive salaries to practitioners. At the same time, the commissioners noted the relatively high fees lawyers charge for their services and allowed that some people who need legal advice simply can't afford the high dollars attorneys demand.

"Lawyers are going to price themselves out of existence," Kerr suggested at one point. He said the legal profession has become "very money-oriented" in attracting and retaining able lawyers. That trend has created the money barrier.

"We are not all living high on the hog," Kerr said.

He noted that the money-orientation has infiltrated the medical field. "We are all in the same boat."

But Kerr proposed that professionals might give considerations to serving those who can't pay high fees.

"This public-service spirit has got to come," he lamented.

IN OTHER ACTION, the commissioners:

—Discussed a proposal by The First National Bank of Midland that the county lease to the bank the basement and the third and fourth floors of the proposed Midland County Public Library which the bank, in a free-will gift, is building with $5.5 million in bank funds. The commissioners took no action on the measure, but Library John Deats said that the 56,000 to 58,000 square feet making up the first and second floors of the proposed library would double the capacity of the existing 1950s library and likely would serve the community needs until about 1990. The library is to be built just south of the 24-story First National Bank Building and near a 40-story tower proposed by the bank.

—Sided with Commissioner C. DeWayne Davis in his ire over utility and oil-and-gas companies for laying underground lines and pipe under county roads and not getting permission to do so or for not properly repairing the roads once the lines and pipe is in place. Ill-done road work at the crossing often washes out or wears out or otherwise "makes the roads rougher," Davis said.

Durward Wright said that Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. people "do it to us all of the time" but that he rarely has trouble with Texas Electric Service Co. "Both of them cooperate beautifully" in rectifying the conditions.

"They (Bell Telepone) are so big and (have) so many tiers that the right hand doesn't know what the left hand is doing half the time," Wright said.

Davis said he would draft a letter in which he would remind the utility and pipeline companies to "rectify and correct" shoddy work on county roads and "those crossings that are in need of repair."

"And it's going to get worse and that's the bad part," Davis said in alluding to Midland's booming growth.

—Listened while Judge Bill Ahders read a letter from 318th State District Court Judge Barbara Culver. In the letter to the Commissioners' Court, Judge Culver thanked the judge and the commissioners for "improvements" to her fourth-floor, mini-courtroom, which had been county's law library. "It is a great help to have my own secretary (Mary Ann Kelly), and we are seeing an improvement in scheduling and handling of telephone communications."

The judge, who is compelled to relocate her court to a larger courtroom when she is in jury trials, commented that the court "will perform our duties in these small but pleasant surroundings until that day when the 318th District Court moves into its own courtroom with adequate jury room and office space."

"That's what I call suave," Davis said of the judge's tact.

Rendall submits his resignation

Ahders and the four commissioners have openly praised Rendall for his industry and expertise as county attorney and as the court's legal adviser. At the same time, they have lamented the county's supposed inability to pay competitive salaries to attract and keep employees, including lawyers, secretaries, clerks and road-and-bridge workers.

The resignation makes moot speculation that Rendall's attraction to public service, which, in this case, pays about $30,000 a year and was pegged at $35,000 in 1982, was politically inspired.

"I don't really have political aspirations for anything," he allowed. "I just feel that the opportunity was something I couldn't pass up. It's something I'm really excited about."

A year ago, his precedessor, Leslie Acker, 37, shed his public-service role and took on the less diverse role of an abstract-title lawyer. "It offers some good opportunities for me in the future," Acker had said.

Though talk of pay is generally shied away from, both lawyers had indicated that more money was a strong attraction in pulling them from the courthouse and public life and into the private sector.

Only hours before Rendall submitted his resignation, the Commissioners' Court, inspired by attorney Bill Kerr, had dwelt on salaries of judges and lawyers. And an annual salary which cropped up was $65,700 — more than double the county attorney's present pay.

"Any attorney worth his salt earns that ($65,700)," figured Commissioner Win Brown.

Rendall, who had been an assistant to Acker since 1979, was appointed by the Commissioners' Court to succeed Acker last Nov. 1, after Acker, a Democrat, opted not to finish out the last two months of his four-year term. Rendall, who had defeated attorney-prosecutor Richard Moore for the Republican Party's nomination for county attorney's job in May 1980, was a shoo-in in the November 1980 general elections.

The Commissioners' Court expressed regret over Rendall's impending exit but took no action on naming his successor.

"We are extremely sorrowful that Robert is leaving," Commissioner Durward Wright said, "but are pleased that he is finding a more prosperous position."

In offering his resignation, Rendall said that he has "enjoyed my work with the county and found everyone in the Courthouse to be dedicated to their jobs and most pleasant to be associated with. I have also appreciated the cooperative spirit the Court has shown to me and the County Attorney's Office."

Army jets and helicopters and a Russian Tank.

Flying events will include precision flying by aviators in experiments aircraft, the "Tora! Tora! Tora!" Pearl Harbor attack act and sport jumping by the Army's Golden Knights, a parachute team.

The Nov. 1 show will begin at 1 p.m., and will be preceded by a "Dawn Patrol" mass fly-over of the warbirds.

"This airshow will bring home to every person who attends, regardless of age, the spirit of an era of our nation's history when Americans pulled together to defeat a common enemy," said Col. Paul Erdmann, leaders of the CAF's Desert Squadron. "Patriotism, idealism, and American technology are all present and can be felt as our 'living museum' of World War II aircraft fly on Oct. 31 and Nov. 1."

Albuquerque man arrested on charges of kidnapping Odessa man at gunpoint

ODESSA — A New Mexico man has been arrested on kidnapping charges stemming from an incident Sunday afternoon in which a westside Odessa resident allegedly was taken from his house at gunpoint and pistol-whipped during an 8-hour ordeal that ended near Monahans when police there found the assailant's pickup truck at a gas station.

According to Odessa police today, a 43-year-old Albuquerque man has been jailed in connection with the abduction of 28-year-old Steve Compton. Compton told officers a man knocked on his door about 2 p.m. Sunday, brandished a gun and demanded food.

After being fed, the man sat around watching a football game before ordering Compton into his pickup. The man then drove west on Interstate-20 and stopped near a stalled vehicle. Compton escaped briefly, only to be recaptured after the man allegedly fired a shot at him.

Meanwhile, a passing motorist reportedly contacted Monahans police who spotted the pickup at a gas station near the Fort Stockton Highway and I-20. A long-bladed knife was recovered from the vehicle, but no gun was found.

Compton was treated for an eye injury at Odessa's Medical Center Hospital and released. The suspect remained in the Ector County jail this morning, awaiting arraignment on kidnapping charges.

Area has respite from wet weather

With the forecast calling for partly cloudy skies for tonight and Wednesday, Midland and the surrounding area at least will have a brief respite from the wet and gloomy weather of the last few days.

After a 30 percent chance of showers and possible thunderstorms predicted for today, the forecast from the National Weather Service at the Midland Regional Airport has no mention of rain through Wednesday.

According to the NWS, an overnight rainfall of .01 of an inch was recorded. Rankin reported rain early this morning while Big Spring reported showers during the night.

With no important change in temperatures, tonight's low will be in the upper 50s with the mercury climbing once again into the middle 80s on Wednesday.

Winds will be from the south and southeast 5-10 mph tonight, increasing to 10-15 mph on Wednesday.

Monday's high of 78 was 20 degrees cooler than the record high of 98 set for that date in 1979. The overnight low of 64 was 30 degrees warmer than the record low of 34 set in 1969.

Suspect jailed on armed robbery charge

A suspect has been jailed on armed robbery charges after he allegedly held up a Midland man who was walking to a store near his home about 6:30 p.m. Monday.

The victim, Buster Terry, 24, of 3200 W. Franklin Ave., told officers he was on his way to a convenience store in the 3400 block of Thomason Drive when a man approached and grabbed his wallet containing $40 in cash and some credit cards. The man, who was armed with a 9mm pistol, then fled on foot.

The suspect, a 27-year-old man with no known permanent address, was arrested later at a local motel following a routine investigation, according to police. Formal charges of aggravated robbery were expected to be filed later today.

In a theft complaint to police, Ramon Silva of 609 N. Lamesa Road said he left his residence Monday night and returned to find a $400 TV set missing. Entry was gained through an unlocked front door

Red Cross aides in flood disaster

The Midland Red Cross has been summoned to assist in the North Texas flood disaster, according to Elvis Curb, executive director of the Midland Red Cross.

Curb said the Red Cross Division in Dallas called Monday night asking for assistance from Midland. Donna Curb, family services specialist in disasters, flew to Dallas today to supervise caseworkers who are assisting the families of the flood.

"Approximately 10 counties are flooded," Curb said. "We're providing support of personnel and we have equipment on stand-by, if they need it."

Curb said in disasters such as this people want to help, but for now, "we will only accept financial contributions that may be sent to the Midland County Chapter of the Red Cross, P.O. Box 1706, Midland 79702."

Farm still family business

WASHINGTON (AP) — According to government census sifters, farming continues to be mostly a family enterprise.

The Census Bureau, a Commerce Department agency, said its 1978 agricultural census shows that about 88 percent of the nation's farms and 67 percent of the land in farms and ranches are operated by individuals or families.

AGRICULTURE

Partnerships and corporations account for the remainder, the Census Bureau said in a recent report. Almost 90 percent of the corporations are family corporations. In all, the corporations operated about 2.1 percent of the farms and 11.7 percent of the land, the agency said.

The government defines a farm as "any place from which $1,000 or more of agricultural products were sold or normally would have been sold" during the census year.

Only 128,170 women were shown as farm operators in 1978, compared with more than 2.3 million men.

Spray zone expanded

LOS GATOS, Calif. (AP) — Concern over last week's discovery oy a Mediterranean fruit fly in the city of Hayward has prompted officials to order aerial pesticide spraying for another 50 square miles in the San Francisco Bay area.

Southern California, meanwhile, also will get more spraying after a fertile medfly was found Sunday in an orange tree in West Covina.

Medfly project spokesman Bill Pope said Monday that helicopters would start "protective" malathion spraying in southwestern Alameda County "because of the flies that have been found."

Included in that new spray zone are San Lorenzo, Castro Valley, San Leandro and Hayward, where the last fly was found Oct. 8, Pope said.

The medfly discovered in West Covina was less than a mile east of an area that has been sprayed for the past seven weeks.

Bean grades considered

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposal under consideration in the Agriculture Department would go a long way to stamp out elitism among dry beans.

It calls for the elimination of "special and premium grades of choice, hand-picked and extra No. 1 from all classes of beans except pea beans," the Federal Grain Inspection Service said.

Kenneth A. Gilles, administrator of the agency, said the elimination of the super grades reflected industry comments and discussions with members of the National Dry Bean Council.

"We periodically review existing regulations, such as those governing dry beans, to assure that standards continue to serve the needs of the marketplace," Gilles said.

Unknown waters ahead

There are uncharted waters ahead, and there may be dangerous dragons there.

That fear of ancient mariners is the feeling many of us have as the nation plows ahead into the uncharted waters of Reaganomics. President Reagan and his Republican supporters say his economic programs of massive budget cuts and tax cuts will work, that they will stimulate the economy and return "good times" to America. But Democrats, and a good number of economists, say the programs won't work, and deadly dragons of higher budget deficits, higher interest rates and higher inflation lie hungrily in wait on the horizon.

Americans will find out in the next few months who's right. Fiscal year 1982 began recently, and Reagan's budget cuts of almost $40 billion began; for the next three years, the proposed budget cuts are about $130 billion. Most of the cuts are coming from social programs of welfare, education, nutrition and health. Almost 900,000 persons, for example, are expected to be erased from food stamp rolls. Other examples: reduced-priced lunches in schools will rise by a maximum 20 cents per child; the 29 million elderly Americans on Medicare will have to pay $54 more in deductible, up to $260, before they receive aid from the health plan.

The first 5 percent installment of Reagan's tax cuts has been started; for an average worker, that means around $3 or $4 more weekly in his pay check. For the wealthier persons, the cuts — although the same in percentage — are much higher in total. Additional 10 percent cuts in the marginal tax rates are scheduled July 1, 1982, and July 1, 1983.

Reagan believes these tax cuts will be saved and invested in the economy, resulting in increased tax revenues to balance the budget, to lower interest rates, to lower inflation. Doubters believe the cuts will be spent to pay debts or to buy new merchandise or for "fun" — and will lead to reduced government revenues and higher budget deficits; if this proves true, higher interest rates and higher inflation surely will soon rear their ugly heads.

For now, our advice is twofold: Tighten belts. And batten down the hatches.

Resist the monitoring

Freedom of the press has many champions, and many foes.

Foes include members of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) who have been trying for years to get governments involved in the news-gathering process. UNESCO delegates from the Third World have joined periodically with those from the Soviet Union in urging a variety of forms of control and direction over those who gather and disseminate information.

Happily, on the other side of the battle are free press champions who speak out whenever journalistic freedoms are threatened. Among them are members of The Commonwealth Press Union who met the other day in Melbourne, Australia.

Delegates represented 20 countries, and they spoke out as one against a threat of censorship in Canada. They passed a resolution asking Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau to refrain from introducing a law that would restrict press freedoms in Canada and encourage Third World nations to do the same.

Specifically they protested "dangerous and unprecedented" proposals made by the Kent Royal Commission. The commission has argued in favor of a press rights panel that would bird-dog Canadian newspaper editors, and report to Parliament on their performance. Clearly that would be a dilution of editorial independence, and open the road to some form of news management. As the Press Union pointed out, it would set a precedent that would greatly aid and comfort Third World nations who want to do the same thing.

Let us hope Mr. Trudeau gets the message, and stays the hands of those who would strike a blow against a free press in Canada. Let there be no monitoring of Canadian newspapers, some of the best in the world, by the Canadian Parliament.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Report contends 'Mob' dominates labor

WASHINGTON — Attorney General William French Smith has announced that the Justice Department will make street crime its No. 1 target. But the war on muggers should not blind the attorney general to the need for attacking the wholesalers of crimes.

Jack Anderson

Organized crime has become the nation's third-largest industry. The Mob has taken over legitimate businesses and infiltrated labor unions.

With union pension funds rapidly becoming the largest pool of such private investment money in the nation, their control by the underworld poses a serious threat to the economy.

This should come as no surprise to anyone at the Justice Department. It was detailed four years ago in a still-secret 65-page report prepared by the department's organized crime strike force chiefs, Douglas Roller and Peter Vaira. Their conclusions are still valid today, according to an update by my associate Tony Capaccio.

"A majority of the locals in most major cities of the United States in the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Hotel and Restaurant Employees Union, Laborers International Union of North America and the International Longshoremen's Association are completely dominated by organized crime," the report states.

The report's authors noted gloomily that "the officials of these unions are firmly entrenched; there is little hope of removing them by a free election process."

The report concentrated on mobster infiltration in Chicago and Cleveland, but concluded that organized crime also has a substantial foothold in the New York City area.

In fact, the report states, "experienced investigators from the Labor Department list over 100 unions with members of organized crime or their associates in positions of power."

In Chicago, "the syndicate's influence is not only heavily concentrated but disciplined," the secret report states, adding: "The control comes directly from the top of the Chicago organization."

Of all the Chicago unions, "the most striking and dramatic evidence of the hoodlum element ... is in the Laborers International," the report concludes. Two of the union's important officials, Al Pilotto and Vincent Solano, "also hold a position of power in the Chicago syndicate," according to the report. It claims that they "are two of the five lieutenants under Joey 'The Doves' Aiuppa, who controls the illegal activities in the city." Pilotto, says the report, controls "Laborers International president Angelo Fosco."

Mob control of unions would be bad enough if it were limited to the unions themselves. But as the report points out, "the most significant result of organized crime influence over the labor unions is the resulting political influence."

The report cites Cleveland as an example: "The Cleveland area is primarily an industrial community in which the unions wield a tremendous amount of political power. Corrupt union leaders are able to dictate their wishes to political candidates. Judges and prosecutors must curry their favor." Through this power of the unions, "organized crime has a definite say in the political and economic life of the city," the report concludes.

One citation in the report bears special significance in light of the Reagan administration's ties to Cleveland Teamsters official Jackie Presser. "There are organized crime figures or close associates of organized crime figures in virtually every Teamster organization in the Cleveland area," the report charges.

For some reason, the strike force report has been gathering dust at the Justice Department for four years. But Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, has also obtained a copy, and is reviewing labor's links with the Mafia.

A WORSE IDEA: One of the Carter administration's farewell gifts to Big Business let the Ford Motor Co. off the hook in what would have been the biggest safety-induced recall in automotive history. The effects of this decision are still being felt — with lethal results.

Last New Year's Eve, then-Transportation Secretary Neil Goldschmidt overruled his safety experts, who wanted to recall nearly 10 million Fords with defective automatic transmissions that sometimes slipped from "park" to "reverse" with understandably disastrous results.

Transportation Department safety watchdogs had concluded that the defective transmission was involved in more than 6,000 accidents, which caused 140 deaths and 1,700 bodily injuries. Two days before his decision, Goldschmidt received two boxes of Ford documents that supported the safety experts' claims.

Despite this, Goldschmidt ruled that Ford could avoid a costly recall by simply sending warning stickers to car owners that would be stuck on the cars' dashboards.

Since then, at least eight persons have died in accidents traced to the faulty transmissions.

A survey of 750 Ford owners in San Francisco, Minneapolis and Washington, D.C., showed that only 49 had bothered to stick the company's warning label on their dashboards.

INSIDE REPORT:

Zbig's seating arrangement signals tougher Israeli policy

WASHINGTON — President Reagan subtly signaled a tougher policy toward Israel by seating Zbigniew Brzezinksi, Jimmy Carter's national security chief, at his right for the VIP luncheon Reagan gave for former national security aides and secretaries of state and defense on Oct. 5.

Rowland Evans

Robert Novak

The president's personal selection of Brzezinski, a hairshirt to Israel during his four White House years, for the honored seat at the pro-AWACS luncheon was also perceived by some of those present as a downgrading of Henry Kissinger. Kissinger, the most powerful occupant ever in the National Security Council office, was placed across the table next to Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger.

But the most active participant at the VIP lunch was tough-talking former defense secretary Melvin Laird. Laird told Reagan: Pick out half a dozen senators you need on the AWACS vote and use plain old presidential muscle to convert them.

NOT GOV. KEMP

Whatever hope remained that Rep. Jack Kemp might yet run for governor of New York next year all but vanished when he gave a nationally-prominent conservative leader a green light to support New York City businessman Lewis Lehrman.

The conservative had written Kemp saying that he was about to back Lehrman for governor unless Kemp himself ran. Kemp's reply: Go ahead and endorse Lehrman. "I'd say that makes it about 96 or 97 percent sure that Jack won't run," one friend of Kemp told us.

If the friend is right, Republican county chairmen who have been kept on hold by Kemp for months are about to get some very unpleasant news. They consider Kemp the best chance to elect a Republican governor of New York for the first time since 1970, with the rest of the GOP field consisting of dubious prospects. Former state Republican chairman Richard Rosenbaum is probably the frontrunner, but Lehrman has been picking up support in conservative quarters.

NIXON-ALLEN THINKALIKES

Richard Nixon's attack on Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin and "parts of the American-Jewish community" for trying to defeat President Reagan's AWACS deal was not cleared by the White House despite Reagan's own veiled warning to Israel in his Oct. 1 press conference.

Nixon wrote his blunt statement himself without any prompting from Washington. One high official told us he felt the former president may have gone too far in his attack and worried that it might boomerang.

That scotches speculation that the past and present chief executives were in cahoots to warn Begin — "hands off." The Reagan warning, which singled out but did not actually name Israel, was written by national security assistant Richard V. Allen, a key administration leader in the battle to prevent a congressional veto of Reagan's plan to sell AWACS radar planes to Saudi Arabia.

SEN. GEORGE WILL?

Prominent Maryland Republicans, fearful that chances of beating Democratic Sen. Paul Sarbanes for re-election next year are slipping away, are privately asking syndicated columnist George Will to make the race.

Will, 40, who was a Senate Republican aide before entering journalism, lives in the Washington suburb of Chevy Chase, Md. He is not expected to say yes. But efforts to convince him will intensify now that Rep. Marjorie Holt, the best Republican bet to beat Sarbanes, has announced she will stay in the House.

National Republican strategists had considered Sarbanes one of the two most vulnerable Democratic incumbent senators (the other is Sen. George Mitchell of Maine) but only if Holt ran. Republicans now shudder at the thought of a personally-vicious Senate primary between two candidates considered unlikely to defeat Sarbanes: Prince Georges County Executive Lawrence Hogan and former Sen. Glenn Beall (who lost to Sarbanes in 1976). Hence, the call to George Will becomes a distress signal.

WHITE HOUSE FRIENDS

The guest list for the Sept. 28 private White House reception at which President Reagan personally thanked congressional staffers who helped pass his economic recovery program shows that White House lobbyists have trouble telling friends from enemies.

They invited Republican staffers from the Senate Budget Committee and House Ways and Means Committee who never concealed their contempt for the Reagan tax cut. Omitted from the list were conservative staffers from both houses who had fought for the Kemp-Roth tax bill before it became Reagan's and then went all-out for the president's program.

Even more conspicious by their absence from the guest list were those Treasury officials who had done the most to get the tax bill enacted, even though many other administration officials were invited. Treasury lobbyists Dennis Thomas and Bruce Thompson were asked at the last minute. But Assistant Secretary Paul Craig Roberts and his deputy, Steven Entin, never did get to the reception.

CHARLEY REESE

Inflation changing attitudes

If the house you bought 20 years ago for $20,000 is now marketable for $80,000, has the value of your home gone up or has the value of our currency gone down?

In most cases, the apparent increase in price is really a decline in the value of the currency. I say in most cases because inflation is not pure, but a mix of different types of inflation.

Charley Reese

Excessive demand for a scarce commodity can cause a genuine increase in price. A Vietnamese pirate who has the only water supply on a boat and sells it for three ounces of gold per cup is an example. The value of the gold has not declined; the value of the water has increased as the passengers' thirst intensified.

Most so-called price increases in our economy today, however, are really a decline in the value of the dollar. There is no shortage of beer and cigarettes, for example, but the price of both has risen anyway.

As the purchasing power of the dollar declines, then prices must be posted higher just to stay even. What causes the value of the dollar to decline is an increase in the supply of dollars in circulation.

A dollar, you see, is only a measuring unit. It has no real value itself. It's value is determined by what it can be exchanged for and so as more and more dollars are created by the Federal Reserve System in relation to the goods and services available, the value of each one declines.

It's really psychological. If you have just two oranges, each one seems important, but if you have 3,000 oranges, then one orange seems less important. That's why a deliberate policy of inflation, which our government has followed since World War II, is potentially dangerous. At some point difficult to forecast, people can lose complete faith in the value of the currency at which point inflation becomes runaway.

The runaway inflation in Germany, after World War I, is the most familiar in the 20th Century. It was absolutely ruinous.

Alan Bullock, a historian, decribed it this way: "The collapse of the currency...meant the end of trade, bankrupt businesses, food shortages in the big cities, and unemployment. It had the effect of reaching down to and touching every single member of the community in a way that no political event can. The savings of the middle class and the working class were wiped out at a single blow with a ruthlessness which no revolution could ever equal..."

We can already see in our own country the demoralizing effects of inflation. It discourages honest labor and thrift, encourages speculation. It robs pensions, steals from savings and insurance policies. It creates a mental attitude of helplessness and frustration.

I said a long time ago that liberalism based on inflation would eventually kill itself, and that has come about. So long as the middle class was comfortable and felt economically secure, they didn't care how big government grew or how much was spent on welfare. Now that inflation has robbed them of that security and comfort, they are no longer willing to tolerate the welfare state.

The middle class has not become less compassionate or more philosophically conservative; it's just been forced to worry about its own survival.

A recovery team member stands amidst the wreckage of a U.S. Navy Neptune aircraft discovered Saturday by farmers on the Myrdalsjokull Glacier in Iceland, 28 years after it crashed. The aircraft went down Dec. 17, 1953, with nine crewmen aboard. The bodies were flown by helicopter to the U.S. Naval base at Keflavik, Iceland.

Remains of plane crash discovered after 28 years

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — The remains of eight U.S. airmen were lifted from their icy grave in a glacier on the southern coast of Iceland, where their plane crashed 28 years ago, rescue authorities reported Monday.

The wreckage of the U.S. Navy twin-engined Lockheed Neptune, which crashed with nine men aboard on the Myrdalsjokull glacier Dec. 17, 1953, was spotted by farmers rounding up stray sheep over the weekend, officials said.

They said the farmers found the remains of eight bodies in the glacier three miles from the crash site. Their identities were being withheld until relatives in the United States could be informed.

In Norfolk, Va., Lt. Cmdr. Ken Pease, a spokesman for the Navy Atlantic Fleet, said Monday that the Navy "is now trying to confirm whether that really was the Navy plane that crashed in 1953."

He said the Navy must find the records of the crash and the medical records of the crewmen to make positive identifications. He said the Naval Safety Center in Norfolk, which keeps records of Atlantic Fleet crashes, did not exist in 1953.

"Twenty-eight years was a long time ago," Pease said.

Earlier Monday, a spokesman said it was thought only seven bodies were recovered. He later said it was established that the remains of eight "badly mutilated" bodies were in the glacier.

Rescuers said the remains were airlifted by helicopter to the U.S. Navy base at Keflavik.

Shortly before the crash, the pilot radioed Reykjavik that he was off the south coast at an altitude of 3,000 feet. The plane slammed into the glacier at that height.

Rescuers battling through blizzards did not find the crash site until Christmas Eve 1953, a week after the plane went down. The wreckage was scattered over a wide area and only the body of one man was found at the time. Authorities speculated he died while trying to crawl away from the wreckage to seek help.

American sources in Reykjavik said the wreckage was thought to have been covered years ago by the glacier's movement. It was assumed the wreckage was uncovered recently, then spotted by the farmers Saturday.

One-armed busboy catches gunman

HOUSTON (AP) — A one-armed busboy whose co-worker had been shot in a robbery chased down the gunman, tripped him and held him in a headlock until police arrived, authorities said.

Hereclio Ramirez, 21, said the gunman tried to shoot at him during the chase, but the gun was empty by that time.

"All I could think about was catching him and not letting him get away," said Ramirez, who lost his left arm in a sawmill accident five years ago.

"He really gave the guy a beating," said officer A.W. Sanford of the airport police, who were were called to Christina's Casa de Mexico restaurant from nearby Hobby Airport during the incident.

"I know I don't have two arms, but I will defend myself any way I can," Ramirez said Monday. "I can fight anybody with two hands, even though I only have one."

Leon J. Franklin, 37, was charged with aggravated robbery and attempted capital murder and held in lieu of $40,000 bond.

Police said the gunman arrived at the restaurant shortly after it opened Sunday, and stayed there drinking coffee for about 20 minutes. He grabbed about $28 from the cash register and started to run outside, and then pulled a .22-caliber pistol and fired six shots at two employees and owner Christina Herrera, officers said.

Reginaldo Rosales, 42, a cook at the restaurant, was hit four times. He was in serious condition at Ben Taub Hospital late Monday.

Ramirez took up the chase as the gunman fled and said he caught up with the suspect about a block from the restaurant and tripped him.

"After the guy shot Mr. Rosales, he ran out the front door of the restaurant," Ramirez said. "I ran after him. He turned around to fire at me but there were no more bullets."

Ramirez said he threw away the gun, but the gunman grabbed it again, struck him on the hand and kicked him in the face.

"I ran up to him a second time," Ramirez said. "I told him to get up, to just calm down."

Judge will rule today whether Daniel's testimony in custody case acceptable in murder trial

LIBERTY, Texas (AP) — Faced with circumstances he called unique, a state district judge has put off until today his ruling on whether testimony Vickie Daniel gave during a child custody case will be allowed as evidence in her murder trial.

Attorneys said Monday that Judge Leonard J. Giblin Jr., of Beaumont, is faced with precedent-setting circumstances. They said Texas has never held a child custody case stemming from events that led to a murder trial.

"It is a new area that's never been explored before," Giblin said after a hearing on a defense motion to disallow the testimony. "Something this unique, I felt, should be studied overnight."

Defense attorney Jack Zimmermann contends that Mrs. Daniel waived her 5th Amendment right not to testify in an April child custody suit filed by her sister-in-law because she was lead to believe she would lose her children otherwise.

"If you let this in, the government is being allowed to call a criminal defendant to the stand and make her testify against herself," Zimmermann said. He said Mrs. Daniel's attorney in the custody case, Richard "Racehorse" Haynes, told her he didn't think she could keep her children if she did not testify.

Nine 'cats staked in districts 8A, 7A&B

Nine wildcat locations have been staked along the northern and eastern fringes of the Permian Basin region, in Railroad Commission districts 8A, 7A and 7B.

BORDEN WILDCAT

Worth Petroleum Co., Fort Worth, will drill the wildcat No. 1 Escondido Ranch to 8,750 feet, 13 miles southeast of Gail.

The stake is set 1,980 feet from the north and west lines of section 39, block 30, T&PRR survey.

The drillsite is 3/4 of a mile east of the Texland et al No. 2 Amoco Long, abandoned Nov. 27, 1978 at 8,840 feet.

The available information suggests the Mississippian, and perhaps the Ellenburger, should be encountered somewhere around the projected total depth of this hole.

McCULLOCH WILDCATS

Mid-Texas Energy Inc., Brownwood, has scheduled locations for two wildcat projects in McCulloch County.

The No. 1 Billie J. Bingham is slated for 1,990 feet and located 330 feet from the north, and 330 feet from the west line of section 40, Benjamin Horton A-1671.

The site is nine miles southwest of Lohn and 1/2 mile northeast of 1,560-foot Pennsylvanian gas production in the Siler-Johnson field.

The No. 2 Wes Bratton "A" will be drilled to 1,500 feet, and is located 330 feet from the south, and 2,310 feet from the west line of section 193, H&GN survey, abstract 747.

Four miles northeast of Lohn, it is 5/8-mile northeast of 790-foot Strawn production in Byrd field.

SCHLEICHER PROJECT

Meador Land Co., Eldorado, will drill a 900-foot shallower pool wildcat in Schleicher County, two miles northwest of Eldorado.

Designated the No. 1-48 Jackson Heirs, location is 767 feet from the south, and 1,780 feet from the east line of section 48, block LL, TCRR survey.

The site is surrounded by 6,458-foot Canyon gas production in the Cody Bell field.

MENARD VENTURE

Nordan Oil & Gas Corp., Abilene, has staked location for a 3,400-foot wildcat in Menard County, eight miles southwest of Menard.

The new test is the No. 1 Brandenberger Estate, located six miles south of 1,669-foot King sand production in the Ferris field.

Drillsite is 2,400 feet from the south, and 2,800 feet from the west line of the I&GN survey No. 244.

NOLAN SEARCHERS

John R. Jacobs Corp., Abilene, will drill a 6,500-foot deeper pool wildcat in Nolan County, four miles east of Sweetwater.

The wildcat is the No. 1 Faver, located 1,867 feet from the south, and 1,500 feet from the east line of section 46, block 21, T&P survey, abstract 1269.

It is 9,000 feet north of 6,066-foot Caddo oil production in the J&J field.

****

R.L. Foree, Dallas, will re-enter an old 6,230-foot wildcat failure and clean out to old total depth for completion attempt.

The re-entry is the No. 1 T.R. Ahrend, located 840 feet from the north, and 2,173 feet from the west line of section 58, block 21, T&P survey.

The drillsite is 16,500 feet northwest of 6,464-foot Ellenburger production in the Withers field.

The wildcat was drilled originally drilled by J.A. March, and plugged and abandoned in 1978.

RUNNELS ATTEMPT

U.S. Mineral Operating Co., Inc., Austin, has staked location for a 5,400-foot deeper pool wildcat in Runnels County, eight miles west of Winters.

The new project is the No. 1 R.A. Hall, located 2,400 feet from the south, and 5,230 feet from the east line of the Henry L. Bays No. 444 and is 1/2 mile southwest of 4,535-foot Goen oil production in the Deike field.

CONCHO PROSPECTOR

Carlton Drilling Co. Inc., Midland, has scheduled locations for two 3,600-foot wildcats in Concho County, five miles southeast of Eolia.

The sites are five miles west of 3,191-foot Canyon production in the Speck, North field.

The No. 1 T.D. Hester is located 1,287 feet from the south, and 823 feet from the northwest line of the EL&RR No. 3 survey.

The No. 1 Earl Lightsey is 353 feet from the south, and 1,363 feet from the northwest line of the EL&RR survey No. 3.

Analyst says gas prices continue to drop despite earlier prediction

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Oil industry analyst Dan Lundberg says the price of gasoline is dropping at the pump, but he says the drop will be short-lived and troubled times are ahead for the motorist this fall.

Lundberg said in his weekly newsletter that he is not backing away from predictions of higher prices even though the current price drop disproves an earlier prediction of a price rise at this time.

He says it is just a matter of time before the costs go up and the supplies go down.

The researcher said gas prices fell nearly a half cent across the nation during the past two weeks.

He said the price averaged about 133.7 cents a gallon in the United States. Wholesale prices also dropped a half-cent, he said.

But he says gasoline stocks are still below what they were last fall, while the demand for gasoline is rising. Meanwhile, Lundberg said, refineries are processing an all-time low amount of fuel.

Nuclear policy denounced by New York Congressmen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Calling it "a blatant propaganda campaign," a key House subcommittee chairman denounced on Monday an Energy Department plan for a multimillion-dollar public relations blitz to win support for the Reagan administration's nuclear energy policies.

Rep. Richard Ottinger, D-N.Y., said the campaign outlined in an internal department memo calls for the use of public relations agents, speech writers, media training for department officials, distribution of pro-nuclear "educational materials" and sponsorship of a scientific study by a pro-nuclear group.

Ottinger, chairman of the House Energy Committee's subcommittee with jurisdiction over nuclear energy policy, said the memo recommends the program despite the existence of what it calls a "well-designed and competently implemented" public relations campaign by private industry.

He called the plan "a blatant propaganda campaign for the nuclear power industry that will cost the American taxpayers millions of dollars." He said he will ask department officials to justify the expenditure at a hearing before his subcomittee.

"This plan comes from the very department that won't spend any more money to tell people how to cut their fuel bills by conserving energy," Ottinger said. "It comes from the same administration that seriously considered offering our children ketchup as a lunchtime vegetable to save money."

DOE Spokeswoman Constance Stuart said that the Reagan administration has made no secret of its support for nuclear power and its belief that the nuclear industry suffered a serious setback because of the policies of the Carter administration.

She said discussions had been proceeding in the Energy Department over what actions the government could take to correct mistakes of the past four years.

"Many people believe there is a lot of misinformation in the public about nuclear power and that government has a role to play in keeping the facts straight," she said.

Ottinger said the campaign outlined in the memo included:

—Public appearances by department officials, assisted by public relations agents, media training and speech writers.

70-year old oil magnate dies

HOUSTON (AP) — John W. Mecom, who built an oil and financial empire from a $700 investment, died at his home following a lengthy illness, a family spokesman said.

Services were pending for the 70-year-old Mecom, who died Monday at his fashionable River Oaks mansion where he lived for more than a quarter century.

Mecom, the father of John Mecom Jr., owner of the New Orleans Saints of the National Football League, built his empire on oil and gas holdings in Texas, Louisiana and the Middle East.

He was born Jan. 13, 1911, in nearby Liberty. His family later moved to Houston where he attended The Rice Institute, now Rice University. He also studied at the University of Oklahoma and received an honorary degree from St. Bonaventure University in New York.

In 1936 Mecom, then 25, and two partners each put up $700 and borrowed an old wooden rig from Mecom's father and drilled on a South Liberty oil field that was considered dry. After two years Mecom sold his interest for $100,000.

In the late 1940s and early 1950s, Mecom sold most of his Texas oil holdings and invested in similar operations in Louisiana and the Middle East.

In 1958, Mecom and Pure Oil Co. began exploration and production in Yemen, the Trucial States and Dhofar, in which Continental Oil Co. became a partner.

Mecom also acquired ranching properties in Texas and Colorado.

By the late 1950s, Mecom had amassed other oil holdings in Saudi Arabia and Oman, and in 1957 was rated by Fortune Magazine as the third largest independent oil operator in the world behind H.L. Hunt of Dallas and Sid Richardson of Fort Worth.

He also purchased several hotels, including the historic Gran Hotel Bolivar in Lima, Peru, Houston's Warwick and acquired half interest in the San Francisco Hilton.

In addition to his son, Mecom is survived by his wife, Mary Elizabeth, and two daughters, Betsey Mullins and Lannie Moses, all of Houston.

The names of the victims were not immediately available.

Computer assists doctors in choosing drugs

By PAUL RAEBURN
AP Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A computerized system developed at Presbyterian Hospital is helping doctors choose the safest and cheapest antibiotics for their patients.

The system, described in a recent issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association, should help curb the misuse of antibiotics, one of its developers says.

"The value of this system is that it permits a physician to choose a drug rationally," says Dr. Paul Ellner, director of the Clinical Microbiology Service at Presbyterian Hospital. He developed the system in collaboration with Dr. Harold Neu, the hospital's director of infectious diseases.

Most hospital laboratories can tell a doctor which drugs will fight a patient's infection, but doctors can't always be sure what dose to give.

The reason, Ellner says, is that the many commonly used antibiotics vary in potency. The proper dosage depends on which drug is used, how it is administered, and what part of the body is infected.

Ellner's computer system tells doctors which drugs will be effective when used in their lowest normal doses.

"If several drugs are good, he can use the least toxic or least costly drug," Ellner says.

The computer combines the results of a patient's laboratory tests with standard data on the effectiveness of various drugs in different circumstances.

By giving the doctor a number of options, it does not diminish the physician's role as the patient's primary caretaker, Ellner said.

He developed the system on a large computer, but added that a private firm has transferred the system to a $4,000 desktop computer for use in small hospitals.

Authorities have become increasingly concerned about the improper use of antibiotics. In August, 150 doctors in 25 countries issued a joint statement urging international action to curb the worldwide abuse of antibiotics.

Overuse of the drugs, the doctors said, decreases their effectiveness as bacteria become resistant to them.

Mormon leaders okay after surgery

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The president of the Mormon Church and his traditional successor both were reported in satisfactory condition today after they underwent surgery.

Spencer W. Kimball, 86, the president of the 4.7 million-member Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, underwent minor urinary tract surgery Monday at LDS Hospital. He has been hospitalized since Sept. 5 when he had skull surgery for removal of a subdural hematoma, an accumulation of blood and scar tissue between his brain and skull.

Ezra Taft Benson, 82, president of the Quorum of Twelve Apostles and by tradition the next in line to succeed Kimball, underwent hip surgery Monday at the hospital.

Church spokesman Jerry Cahill said it was the first time that the president of the church and the man who would be his successor have been hospitalized at the same time.

Kimball's operation was performed with a local anesthetic and was designed to correct what his physician, Dr. Ernest L. Wilkinson, termed a "longstanding urinary tract defect."

Immediately after his September operation, Kimball suffered respiratory complications that kept him in the intensive care unit for several days. About a week ago, Kimball suffered internal bleeding which was stopped by minor surgery. No date has been set for his release.

Dr. Wallace E. Hess termed Benson's operation a success and said the former secretary of agriculture under President Dwight D. Eisenhower should be released from the hospital in about eight days.

The surgery, which concluded shortly before noon, involved the implantation of a metal ball hip joint and a plastic hip socket.

Benson suffered a fractured hip in July 1978 when a horse knocked him to the ground. Cahill said degenerative arthritis developed in the hip, causing Benson considerable pain and limiting his mobility.

Three kids die

WAYNESBORO, Miss. (AP) — A truck with pine logs sticking out the back turned off a road and swung the timber into a school bus, pounding children and killing three of them, including the son of the woman driving the bus.

Two-dozen children were injured Monday afternoon and seven were in serious condition, straining the staff at the tiny Wayne County General Hospital, officials said. The truck driver was hospitalized for shock.

The truck was carrying a load of pine logs, including a 77-foot-long pole tied with a red flag, and was turning from the extreme right lane into an industrial park just outside the Waynesboro city limits, said Wayne County Sheriff Marvin Farrior. The bus was in a second lane on the same southbound side of Highway 45.

Author's experience basis for novel on divorce

By MARLENE AIG
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Howard Crook is not afraid to declare that "for the first time, I have a good happy life."

The 43-year-old author whose first novel, "The Brownstone Cavalry," has attracted both critical praise and a movie option, explains, "I have my kids, I have someone I care about, I'm in a city I like and I'm writing fiction, which I've always wanted to do."

But such a declaration comes only after years of literary frustration ("I was a great one for burning manuscripts," he says) and after the painful dissolution to his 10-year marriage.

His novel is, in fact, a kind of catharsis for that pain, a resolution for what he calls his "worst two years of hell," the years he adjusted to his marital breakup. "The Brownstone Cavalry" is the story of three men whose lives have been disastrously disjointed by divorce. It is not a story, Crook emphasizes, about how to make the marriage work. It's about how men must cope with post-divorce depression.

"Marriage is a kind of unit," he says. "In a divorce, a man gets expelled. You're in a wilderness. The woman keeps the house, the children, the friends. The man experiences the loss and so many turn it against themselves."

Speaking from experience, Crook, the father of two, says, "The biggest sense of loss a man has is the loss of his children."

But divorce creates another kind of loss as well. "All the time you're married, you think of yourself as a 'we.' All of a sudden, you're alone and you've forgotten how to be a 'me.' So many bad second marriages happen because men can't stand being alone."

The solution in his novel is the friendship of other men going through the same experience and their mutual efforts to understand what has happened. Their support and sympathy for each other is vital.

The story is set in Brooklyn Heights, where Crook now lives. He was born in Brooklyn, but by the time he was 5, he had had pneumonia five times. So the family first moved to Florida for his health, then finally settled in El Paso, Texas, where, he says, "I got very healthy."

He graduated from the University of Texas at Austin with an English-economics major and went off to Denver with dreams of being another Joyce or Chekhov.

After "literally starving," it occurred to him that reporters make money writing, albeit not fiction. All he knew of journalism, he says, was Humphrey Bogart in "Deadline: U.S.A." So, equipped with trenchcoat and slouch hat, he went to San Francisco in search of a job and finally landed one at the Oakland Tribune as a copyboy.

He progressed eastward and landed in New York with a wire service and later worked for newspapers. All along, he was writing fiction and throwing it away.

In the middle of it, his marriage broke up. He was bitter. A car accident left him with a broken pelvis and a long recuperation period in Texas, where he finally understood "what kind of self-destructive person I'd become."

He returned to New York, got a copy-editing job at The New York Times and slowly, "got my act together," writing the book over a two-year period. Once he got an advance on the book, he says, he quit his job and is now, with several novels in progress, a full-time writer — something he's always wanted to be.

Because he works at home his two sons, 8 and 11, live with him during the week. His former wife, Paula, a computer programmer whom he now calls "my best friend," has weekend custody.

"Raising my kids," he says, "is a wonderful challenge" and one he clearly enjoys.

He admits that, before and during his marriage, he was a "moderate male chauvinist pig." But now, he is a great supporter of women.

"Women," he says, "are answering the call of our time. They're entering the 21st century on schedule. Men are still locked in their father's armor, trapped in the 19th century. They need to have more awareness of the equality of roles and of entering a new era."

He hopes his experience will help other men in the same situation come to grips with their emotions. "First comes feeling," he says, "then comes insight. Then," he smiles knowingly, "comes change."

("The Brownstone Cavalry" is published by Summit Books.)

Mrs. John P. Butler honored at DAR's 15th anniversary tea

Mrs. John P. Butler of Midland was honored with a tea Oct. 15 on the occasion of the fifteenth anniversary of the organization of the Colonel Theunis Dey Chapter, National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Mrs. Butler was the organizing regent of the local chapter.

A resident of Midland since 1927 and formerly a member of the DAR Lieutenant William Brewer Chapter in Midland, she realized, along with a group of other members that the city's rapid growth warranted formation of another chapter of this patriotic organization.

According to DAR requirements, she and others became members-at-large for a year before calling the organizational meeting Oct. 15, 1966, at Midland Country Club.

At that tea, Chapter Regent Mrs. Clarence J. Kerth received the guests and was assisted by her executive board. Former chapter regents which served at the tea table were Mrs. Fredda B. Hadden, Mrs. John J. Redfern III, Mrs. Robert K. Hudson, Mrs. George C. Van Husen, Mrs. Solon P. Crain, Mrs. Walter C. Hubbard III and Mrs. James Ormond.

Scrapbooks showing the history of the chapter were on display at that meeting. Three Texas Society officers were also in attendance. As the year 1966 marked the Diamond Jubilee year-75th anniversary-of the National Society, the Col. Theunis Dey Chapter is recorded in the NationalSociety's annals as "Diamond Jubilee" chapter.

Name of the chapter is derived from Theunis Dey, colonel of the Bergen County, New Jersey, militia. He and his five sons stood with General George Washington during the entire American Revolution.

Col. Dey is the patriot from whom Mrs. Butler and her sister, chapter member Mrs. Charles Martin, are descended.

The first Deys were a Dutch family that settled in New Amsterdam in 1641. From there, one branch of the family moved across the Hudson River to a place two miles west of Paterson, N.J., where Theunis was born in 1725. About 1740, a manor house was built, a handsome brick house which Thuenis inherited. In 1751, he married Hester Schuyler and they lived in the manor house the rest of their lives. Gen. Washington made the Dey house his headquarters on two different occasions—in July, 1780, and in October and November of the same year. Among distinguished guests during the military campaigns were the Marquis de Lafayette and the Marquis de Chastellane, who left detailed descriptions of accommodtions there.

Present location of the house, called the Dey Mansion, is at Totowa, Passaic County, New Jersey. It is now a part of the New Jersey State Park System and is administered by the Passaic County Park Commission. The curator shows the house daily to the public.

Organizing members still in of the chapter are Mrs. Edwin F. Alstrin, Mrs. Ronald Britton, Mrs. John P. Butler, Mrs. Courtney Cowden, Mrs. Roy Davidson Jr., Mrs. Benjamin F. Black, Mrs. Edward N. Gideon, Mrs. Willard R. Green, Mrs. Fredda B. Hadden, Mrs. Robert K. Hudson, Mrs. John Redfern III, Mrs. Jack Sappington, Mrs. George C. Van Husen, Mrs. C. Robert Winkler Jr., Mrs. Mester Smith of Higgins and Mary Lynn Pannill of Houston.

Mrs. John Butler wears a commemorative pin commissioned by the National Society of DAR. It marks the bicentennial of the Battle of Yorktown, 1781, in which the victory won independence for the American colonies.

Guests attending the tea were Mrs. Ernest S. Brainard of Amarillo, president state regent, Texas Society, DAR; Dr. Carol M. Woodfin of Waco, state vice regent; Mrs. F. Hastings Pannill, former state regent of Huntsville; Mrs. John Cross and Mrs. W. C. Hubbard II of Midland, present state society officers; and Mrs. John Clark, of Odessa, chairman of state society division eight. Other guests attending from chapters in Odessa, Big Spring and Fort Stockton.

AT WIT'S END

Sense of humor still intact

By ERMA BOMBECK

Sometimes in the morning when I look in the mirror and discover the souffle of my youth has fallen, I think about a face lift.

When this happens I say, "Mirror, mirror, on the wall, who is the most cowardly of all?" and the mirror answers, "You are, chicken neck!"

Face lifts are not a matter of vanity anymore. They're simply a matter of something that has bothered some individuals about themselves for a long time . . . and very likely something that no one else has ever noticed about them.

The American Nasal and Facial Surgery Institute published a rundown recently on the "parts" of celebrities that were requested the most. They may surprise you.

I would have been willing to bet that when someone looked at Dolly Parton, it would take them weeks to get to her nose. Yet, that is the nose most sought after by those wanting theirs changed.

And how about this? For ears, they wanted replicas of those worn by Bo Derek. There are five million Americans walking the streets today who do not know Bo Derek has ears.

Let's talk philtrum. Never been crazy about yours? Never knew where you left it? It's that area between the lower part of the nose and the lips. And according to the face arrangers, Lena Horne and Alexander Haig have the best-looking philtrums around.

I have to confess, I haven't thought about spare parts since high school when we used to put together a composite of the most desirable characteristics for the school yearbook.

Eyes: Ginger Easy.

Mouth: Iris Rosebud.

Teeth: Maria Capps.

Hair: Wella Cascade. Nose: Suzie Pert.

Sense of Humor: Erma you-know-who.

I saw all of those people a few years ago at the class reunion and you wanta know something? Ginger's eyes looked empty and bored. The sparkle was gone. Iris' mouth never stopped and she had language like a sewer. Maria's teeth had shifted; Wella's hair was grey; Suzie's nose was in everybody's business.

Erma's you-know-what was the only thing that saved her. It was still intact.

White-collar crime costs

BRIARCLIFF MANOR, N.Y. (AP) — White-collar crime costs the nation almost $70 billion a year, excluding computer and industrial espionage crimes, according to an estimate by an international security firm.

Frequency of white-collar crime in government is as high as it is in the private sector, says Herchell Britton, executive vice president of Burns International Security Services Inc.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Fresh flowers can be inexpensive

DEAR READERS:

Flowers! They are so pleasing to the eye and most are pleasing to the nose, but you don't have to go out and spend a lot of money to have your home filled with their joy.

Since I DON'T have much luck with growing flowers and I am not lucky enough to be able to just pop out to the garden and snip off a few buds for the dining room table, I must rely on the local florist, or buy a bunch of daisies at the market.

I can take one $1.98 bunch of mums and a 98-cent bunch of daisies and divide them into four tall vases of flowers, and two smaller ones for my make-up counter and the hall table.

My little trick is that I put out all the vases that I want to use, then survey the flowers on hand. (Remember, a vase of flowers doesn't have to be overflowing to look nice.)

I divide the flowers into about three or four groupings, being sure to pull off all leaves which I can use as greenery in the bouquet. I then pull off all the buds, or little flowers and put just these into one taller vase with a few green leaves.

The rest I divide up into the other vases. The flowers which get broken I cut and trim to fit my two little three-inch vases — and with a few more green leaves, only two or three flowers look lovely.

Sometimes a single flower is just as beautiful and eye-catching as an entire bunch ... and a lot cheaper, too. — Heloise

HINTS FROM HIM

Dear Heloise: One of your readers asked about a good window cleaner. Just buy regular windshield wiper solvent from your auto supply store and two squeegees.

Have one person work from the inside of the window, and one from the outside.

All that's needed next is a soft piece of toweling, newspaper, or paper towels to wipe around the edges.

No fuss, no muss! — Jimmy Lester

DIFFERENT

Dear Heloise: I received the most marvelous wedding gift!

A thoughtful friend knew there were no small children in my family, but that my husband has young nieces and nephews who would be visiting frequently.

She filled up a lovely basket with toys for kids of all ages to play with when they visit.

It was a unique wedding gift and one of the most useful we received. — Diane Lindberg

TIDY TOILET BOWL

Dear Heloise: To help keep the toilet bowl free of brown discoloration, I put a cup of liquid chlorine bleach in the bowl overnight or when we are to be gone for the weekend. This disinfects it and helps to remove stain build-up.

Remember, do not put any other cleaner with the bleach as this could form a gas which could be harmful. — Mrs. H. Bourgeois

KEEP RECORDS

Dear Heloise: When I order things by mail, I keep a complete record of the orders — the entire address of the company, the number of my check or money order and the amount.

Also, the catalog number, price, handling and postage charges, etc., and the allowance time for the order to be delivered.

Then, if the merchandise doesn't come within a reasonable amount of time or there is a problem with it, I have all pertinent information at my fingertips. — Freda Kagarise

HASSLE FREE

Dear Heloise: If you have difficulty finding the end of transparent sticky tape, place a piece of paper at the end of the tape after each use.

Saves a lot of aggravation. — Marie Malackany

American couple takes sea lion act abroad

By LAWRENCE WIPPMAN

LIMA, Peru (AP) — On the face of it, Barbara and Max Morris are a pretty typical American couple. Maybe even a little better off than many.

They've got 115 acres of land, two houses, a swimming pool, a car, and 12 head of cattle.

But that is all back in Jacksonville, Fla., and the Morrises haven't lived in the United States for 15 years. Instead, they have been roaming Europe, and now South America, with their performing California sea lions.

They came to Lima this fall under a six-week contract with a local circus — which at Max's suggestion is calling itself the North American Circus — with what Barbara says is the first sea-lion act Peru has seen since 1965.

Few circuses anywhere have sea lions, she says, because "they are by far the most difficult animals in the world to troupe. They are very delicate."

That is one reason the Morrises are not performing in the United States. Circuses there have heavy travel schedules — too rigorous for sea lions, which are high-strung and must be introduced gradually to each new location.

"It takes two years to produce the kind of act I had in Europe," Barbara says. "You don't kill an animal just for some circus. They're worth too much money and, besides, they become like your children — you don't want to abuse them."

The fish fed to the sea lions must be checked carefully, and the water "has to be good enough for you and me to drink," she says. As Barbara speaks, her animals, Sam, Joseph and Goldie, restlessly splash and grunt in their small tank.

The Morrises left the United States partly because of the influence of Max's mentor, an old-time circus hand, Capt. Harold Winston (circus people call first-rate animal trainers "Captain). Winston had, years before, gone to England and made good money and a reputation. Max, tired of working for corporate operations such as Marineland, had visions of doing the same.

It was an agreeable experience. New contracts followed their first circus engagement, and Barbara, particularly, grew fond of England, Scotland and Scandinavia. Then, in 1976, Max was contracted in West Berlin to join a Hungarian circus and come to South America

Barbara kept her own act in Europe. But by last year two of her sea lions had gotten very big and very ornery — they had come to loathe each other, she says, and had to be kept apart. It was too much work for Barbara, who doesn't trust grooms to help with feeding or handling her sea lions. She sold her act.

"I was going to go home and stay there," recalls Barbara, a Jacksonville native who used to perform with circus horses. "But my husband was in South America and the girl he had in his act fell in love and went back to Switzerland."

Max, who is originally from Childress, Texas, and wears Western-cut corduroys and cowboy boots, needed help. Barbara came to the rescue.

DEAR ABBY

Gum addict needs to chew cold turkey

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am writing about an unusual problem I acquired about six years ago. I am a chain gum-chewer. I chew about 15 to 20 packs of gum every day (after I get off work, that is). I usually chew one piece about five minutes, then I will put another piece in my mouth. I became addicted to chewing gum when I was 17 and trying to lose weight. I chewed gum instead of eating, which was a very unhealthy thing to do. Now that I am slim I can't break the habit of chewing gum. When I try to quit I get dizzy, sick, weak, and my teeth get sore!

I must quit chewing gum because the guy I'm in love with says it will give me diabetes. Is that true? I really hate the habit. It's dirtier than smoking, it's also more expensive and it's embarrassing for a woman my age to go into a store and buy $3 worth of gum. The other day I put $4 in dimes into a gumball machine and some onlookers stared at me like I was crazy. Also, disposing of chewed gum is gross!

Can you help me, Abby? Sign me — THE SIOUX CITY CHEW-CHEW GIRL

DEAR CHEW-CHEW: First, diabetes is NOT caused by eating too many sweets. (Get "The Diabetic's Book — All Your Questions Answered" by Biermann and Toohey.)

You are wise to recognize your gum-chewing habit as an "addiction" because that's exactly what it is.

Try to quit cold turkey — it's by far the best method. If that fails, find a therapist who specializes in behavior modification.

DEAR ABBY: I've heard of students having crushes on their teachers, but have you ever heard of a teacher having a crush on a student?

There's this 15-year-old girl in one of my classes who is a rare beauty. I can't keep my eyes off her. I wonder if other teachers have problems like this. What's to be done? I'm twice her age, and my class is ner favorite class. I don't believe in anonymous letters so I will sign my name, but please don't use it. — GOT A CRUSH

DEAR GOT: Teachers have crushes on students for the same reason students have crushes on teachers: immaturity. What's to be done? Admire her from afar, and keep your eyes, your thoughts (and everything else) off her. Small wonder your class is her "favorite." You've telegraphed your feelings to her, and she got the message.

DEAR ABBY: Does my husband have a problem? He has 83 (I counted them) shirts in his closet and claims he needs them all. He has several sets of "twin" shirts, and several that would pass for triplets.

I took an inventory yesterday, and he has 44 shirts with short sleeves, 21 with long sleeves (lightweight), 15 flannel and three wool! There is no room in the closet for his pants, and I dare not give (or throw) away even one shirt. Any ideas on what to do? — JEAN IN ORANGE, CALIF.

DEAR JEAN: Why do anything? Let him live like the pack rat that he is, and when he's sufficiently crowded or inconvenienced, HE'LL remedy the situation.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "TO TELL OR NOT TO TELL": If you had paid for flowers, fruit or some other perishable gift to be sent to friends, wouldn't you want to know if your gift arrived fit for the garbage can?

Your horoscope

By JEANE DIXON

Wednesday, October 14, 1981

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Actor Roger Moore celebrates this birthday with you. Also born on this date: Greg Evigan, star of the just-departed TV series "B.J. and the Bear." The larger the organization you work with, the greater your chances for success this coming year. Think big! Bold and innovative ideas will boost your income. Family relationships become more rewarding as married couples draw closer together. Count on romance to bring you many happy new experiences. Where career is concerned, be sure to exercise sound judgment. This is no time to adopt an amateur approach to business or finance. Seek legal advice before signing contracts.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Your financial security could be affected by the way you handle new challenges. Luck will be operating in your favor! Refuse to let yourself be painted into a corner.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Your enthusiasm for certain project may subside when you see the advantages of an alternative idea. Keep an open mind and establish new lines of communication whenever possible.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Some hopes and wishes you have harbored become reality now. Do not try to rush things and you will get your own way. Imaginative thinking moves you forward.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Finances are less sensitive than in the past. Keep up with the times to ensure greater profits. Friends could play the role of Cupid! Accept social invitations.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Avoid making major decisions today. Mark time by recycling old ideas and materials to cut operating expenses. Romance needs a friendly nudge! Pay bills promptly.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Business affairs progress nicely if no extra demands are made on those in authority. Romantic partner could force a showdown. You may not be ready to take the plunge.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): The sentimental side of your nature could get you into hot water now. Keep business and personal life strictly separate! Hire lawyer if in doubt over legal matter.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): A friendship will be tested. Bide your time where romance is concerned. Your independent streak may put you at odds with someone else who is headstrong. Compromise is necessary!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Your desire to help others may lead you to put in extra hours at work. Observe all safety rules. You are closer to making a decision involving love and marriage.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): The financial picture may not be very bright, but help is on the way! Trust those who have worked in your behalf in the past. Newcomers may try to undermine an important relationship.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Thoughts of someone you once loved deeply are revived by a chance meeting. You could find real pleasure in renewing your former relationship. Be more practical.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): The creative project on which you have been working may have to be abandoned. You need time to regroup. Get away from routine chores for a few hours.

Bridge is a deceptive game. Some hands seem so easy that you can be lulled into a false sense of security, with the result that you fail to consider all possibilities. Then a quirk of distribution turns a huge profit into a loss. Here's a case in point.

South's hand might not qualify as a textbook example of a demand bid, but his strong distributional features and wealth of controls more than compensated for any deficiency in high cards. When North supported his second suit freely, South leaped straight to the small slam.

West led the queen of clubs, and when dummy appeared declarer was slightly unhappy that he had not risked a grand slam. He won the king of clubs and drew trumps in three rounds without the slightest concern about what the future might have in store. Next came the ace and king of spades, and when West discarded a heart on the second spade, declarer's plight began to dawn on him. He had three spade losers and a club in his hand, and only one trump and the ace of hearts to take care of them. That still left him with a loser too many, so he ended up down one.

Declarer was unlucky to run into a 5-1 spade break and a 3-1 trump split – one of the few combinations that could defeat the slam. But declarer could have guarded against the actual distribution. If spades were 4-2 and trumps no worse than 3-1, the slam could never be defeated. So, before touching trumps, declarer should play the ace and king of spades. If both stand up, declarer can draw three trumps, ruff a spade and concede a spade if necessary but still make his slam.

As the cards lie, West can ruff the second spade, but declarer is still safe. Best return is a trump. Declarer wins in hand and ruffs three spades in dummy, using the ace of clubs and a heart ruff as entries. The queen of diamonds on the board prevents West from scoring a second spade ruff, and the ace of hearts takes care of declarer's club loser.

Opera star Roberta Peters held audience spellbound

Metropolitan Opera star Roberta Peters gives a stirring performance with the Midland-Odessa Symphony Monday night in Odessa. Miss Peters will perform tonight at 8 at Lee High School, again with the Midland-Odessa Symphony.

The Midland-Odessa Symphony opened its 1981-82 season on the upswing Monday night in Odessa with a performance by Metropolitan Opera star Roberta Peters.

Displaying all the grace, class and charm one would expect to find in a great artist, Miss Peters held the audience spellbound as she performed "Voi che sapete" from "The Marriage of Figaro" by Mozart; "Voi avete un cor fidele," K. 217 by Mozart; "Quel guardo il cavaliere" from "Don Pasquale" by Donizetti; "Meine Lippen" from "Giuditta" by Lehar; "Wein, wein nur du allein" by Sieczynski; and "Viljia" from "The Merry Widow" by Lehar.

Her singing of "Meine Lippen" inspired one man sitting behind this reviewer to say, almost under his breath, at the selection's close, "Ohhhh, my." He sounded as if he had been holding his breath and those words came out almost in a whisper as he exhaled.

I certainly knew how he felt. During her two Mozart selections, I felt chills running up and down my backbone. I wasn't alone. Many there experienced similiar sensations.

At the concert's close, the audience didn't want her to leave. She very graciously came back onstage and after remarking on the heat, which was stifling, said of the audience that it was most kind.

Smiling, she explained that she and the orchestra had had only one rehearsal. Her smile has no doubt been rehearsed many times through the years, however, it appears to be natural and therein lies its charm. She appears quite at ease onstage, projecting an eminent stage presence.

Since her office had not sent any other music, she said, if the audience wanted, she would be pleased to sing "Viljia" again. The audience wanted to hear more.

Miss Peters, who began voice lessons at the age of 13, first performed at the Metropolitan Opera when she was 19. She sang Zerlinda in Mozart's "Don Giovanni."

She has just recently celebrated her 30th consecutive year with the Metropolitan.

Although Miss Peters is equally accomplished in other musical styles, she is perhaps best known for her coloratura heroines of grand opera, such as Gilda in "Rigoletto" and Rosina in "Il Barbiere de Siviglia."

The symphony itself got off to a ragged start during the first half in its performance of Tchaikovsky's "Symphony No. 4 in F Minor, Op. 36." As the piece progressed, the symphony, directed by Dr. Thomas Hohstadt, pulled itself together.

One of the orchestra's major difficulties seems to be in its brass section.

Horns can be be rich, harmonious, muted at times and occasionally subtle, but never, never timid. These were timid. This section had the same problem last year.

In addition, Monday night the section was sour at one point.

During the second half, the symphony performed selections from "Gaite Parisienne" by Lehar. In this number the orchestra played as an ensemble and sounded quite nice.

Tonight at 8, Miss Peters will perform once again. No doubt the audience at Midland's Lee High School Auditorium is in for a delightful experience.

Proposal to bill by calls could threaten privacy

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Southwestern Bell Telephone's proposal to bill by the call for local service could threaten Texans' privacy, the executive director of the Texas Civil Liberties Union says. But Bell denies there would be any danger.

TCLU director John Duncan released copies Monday of an article he said he wrote for publication this month in the Texas Observer.

Bell has asked the Public Utility Commission to allow it to give customers a choice between the present flat-rate billing system or "measured service."

With measured service, customers pay for telephone service according to the number of calls they make, the distance, duration and time of day of each call. Bell says this would benefit those who seldom use their telephones.

Bell officials say they intend eventually — with PUC approval — to replace flat-rate billings with measured service.

Duncan said the potential impact on personal privacy would be similar to that of the "pen register" system the Department of Public Safety is seeking court permission to use. The "pen register" provides a record of the numbers to which calls are made from the telephone of a criminal suspect.

"The company's computers will be programed for local calls as they now are for long distance direct dial billing. The records will be there, both on incoming and outgoing calls. They will clearly be available to federal authorities. They will also be available through the subpoena process to Texas grand juries and to other court proceedings," Duncan said.

"But worse from a privacy viewpoint they may be subject to casual browsing by DPS, local police and others who have connections with telephone security officers," Duncan said.

Bell spokesman Jim Goodwin said records of calls normally would not show the numbers called. Exceptions, he said, would be at the request of the customer.

Ordinarily, Goodwin said, only the time of day, distance and duration of a call would be recorded — not the number to which it was placed.

Duncan suggested politicians' telephone records might be subject to casual scrutiny, "or a more likely target for browsing will be a reporter who is making things uncomfortable for a public figure."

Goodwin said it was "absolutely untrue" that Bell security people would allow any unauthorized person to see records of telephone calls — when such records are made.

"Privacy is very important to us," he said, adding that Bell has fired employees for violating customers' privacy.

Carter joins Reagan in battle for AWACS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmy Carter, joining President Reagan in his battle over AWACS radar planes for Saudi Arabia, says the sale is "a litmus test of America's reliability" and is needed for peace in the Middle East.

"I think it's very important that once the president makes a commitment of that kind to a valuable friend like the Saudi Arabians that the Senate approve what the president has proposed," Carter said Monday as he arrived for a two-day stay in Washington — his first extended trip back since he was president.

"A lot of foreign countries can't understand the intricacies of American law and they look upon a promise by the president as being a commitment on the part of our own nation," he added.

Carter was to meet with congressional leaders at a Capitol Hill luncheon today and then visit for a half-hour with Reagan, who defeated him last November.

Meanwhile, former President Ford, who lost the White House to Carter in 1976, said he also will join Reagan's lobbying drive for the sale.

"I can assure you that if the Congress turns down President Reagan on the AWACS deal, it will have a devastating effect on our attempt to pursue the process of peace in the Middle East," Ford told reporters Monday in Arizona.

The $8.5 billion arms sale, including five Airborne Warning and Control System planes and F-15 jet weaponry, is in jeopardy in Congress. The White House has made some gains since the assassination of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, but an Associated Press count last week showed the Republican-run Senate lined up 57-31 to veto the deal.

Rejection in the House this week is considered inevitable. The Senate is scheduled to vote next Tuesday.

In a letter to Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., that was made public Monday, Carter said, "In many ways, this has become a litmus test of America's reliability" and added that "the beneficial influence of the moderate Arab nations is a valuable resource which we should nourish whenever it is practical to do so."

"For the well-being of our own country, for the continuing security of Israel and for the peace and security in the Middle East and Persian Gulf area, I hope that you and other members of the Senate will give him (Reagan) this support," Carter wrote.

Opponents of the sale have expressed fear that the AWACS could be used against Israel and could fall into unfriendly hands if the Saudi monarchy is overthrown.

Carter said the Saudis "are strong and influential moderates in an area where moderation is vital in circumscribing fanaticism and violence."

The former president noted that he stationed four AWACS in Saudi Arabia during the Iran hostage crisis last year and said those planes, which remain there under American ownership, "have not endangered Israel or any other nation in the area."

The Saudis "are not a warlike people and greatly desire peace and stability," Carter wrote.

He acknowledged that the Saudis had shunned peace talks between Egypt and Israel but said they might change their minds if the arms package clears Congress and the Palestinian issue is resolved.

Last week, Nunn, who is leaning toward the deal, introduced a resolution reaffirming U.S. rules on military sales.

Reagan welcomes Spain's king

WASHINGTON (AP) — King Juan Carlos I of Spain is making a belated visit to the United States to discuss defense relations between the two countries and Spain's anticipated entry into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The monarch was to have been one of the first foreign leaders to visit the Reagan White House, but his trip was postponed because of the abortive coup attempt by rightist forces last February.

After a White House welcoming ceremony today and a meeting with President Reagan, the king will be the guest of honor tonight at a White House state dinner. He is being accompanied by Queen Sofia.

The king is highly regarded here for what officials describe as the skill he has demonstated in shepherding Spain to democracy after long years of authoritarian rule.

Nonetheless, there was some dismay in Spain last February when Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. said the rightist coup attempt was an "internal matter." Some Spanish officials said that suggested an indifferent U.S. attitude toward the fate of Spanish democracy, an impression the State Department has sought to correct.

A U.S. official, speaking privately to reporters, said he expects Juan Carlos' trip to eliminate any "lingering resentment" stemming from Haig's remark. The monarch will remain in Washington until Thursday morning.

The United States has strongly supported Spain's bid to become NATO's first new member since 1955. Parliamentary approval of the proposal is likely and Spain could become NATO'S 16th member by early next year.

Nixon discusses AWACs with Saudis

JIDDA, Saudi Arabia (AP) — Former President Nixon apparently discussed the proposed sale of U.S. AWACS radar planes to Saudi Arabia with the oil kingdom's rulers, but his spokesman gave no indication that he got any concessions that might sell the deal to the U.S. Senate.

Asked whether Nixon discussed the controversial deal during his meetings with King Khaled and Crown Prince Fahd Saturday and Sunday, spokesman Nicholas Rue replied, "Well, they didn't talk about Piper Cubs."

But he refused to give any details, saying: "It is the president's custom not to comment on his talks during foreign trips before his return home."

Nixon recently issued a statement supporting the AWACS sale and criticizing Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin and Israeli supporters in Washington for trying to block it.

Nixon completed a three-day visit to Saudi Arabia today and preapred to leave for Jordan. The Qatar news agency, quoting "well-informed Jordanian sources," said he would deliver a message to King Hussein from President Reagan. But the White House press office said, "To our knowledge, it is a private visit.

U.S. faces identification problem

WASHINGTON (AP) — In "one of the most serious operation problems in air defense," U.S. and NATO pilots sometimes can't tell if other warplanes are friend or foe, the General Accounting Office says.

The same identification problem also exists on land and sea, the GAO said in a seven-page summary of a classified report.

Tank officers are concerned about distinguishing a friendly vehicle from an enemy in the dust and smoke of battle. Ship captains in combat usually face an enemy concealed by night, fog, distance or all three.

The GAO, the investigative arm of Congress, urged Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger to keep a close watch on efforts by NATO to get equipment that would make the air defense systems of all member countries "interoperable."

There is no agreement yet among the 14 air forces on a coordinated system, but Pentagon officials say they hope the necessary equipment to establish one can be in use by the late 1980s. The 15th NATO member, Iceland, has no armed forces.

Several different systems now are being used by the air forces of alliance members. "Therefore," the GAO said, "all friendly planes cannot be interrogated."

In its summary, dated Sept. 18, the GAO called the identification problem "one of the most serious and long-standing operational problems in air defense."

Texas passes Penn State for AP No. 1

Oklahoma out of top 20 for first time since Nov. 25, 1970

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas, leapfrogging into the No.1 spot in college football with a 20-point victory over Oklahoma, now faces an even more important game, says Coach Fred Akers.

Texas defeated Oklahoma 34-14 in a nationally televised game at Dallas on Saturday and next travels to Fayetteville, Ark., for a regionally televised Southwest Conference contest with Arkansas.

Akers said the Oklahoma victory was "fun, great the way it turned out for us" and important nationally, "but it's not as important as the Arkansas game. It's a conference game, and Arkansas is a quality football team."

"Arkansas is as talented as anyone we're going to see," said Akers, a former Arkansas quarterback.

Asked if he preferred being No.1 or No.2 going into the Arkansas game, Akers replied, "Not since there's nothing I can do about it, no."

He noted, however, "The choices are getting more limited as we go along."

Texas, with the help of a loss by top-ranked Southern California, moved up from the from No.3 spot Monday, leaving Penn State No.2 in The Associated Press poll.

"Nothing I say or do will make us No.1 or No.2," Akers said of the rankings. "They (opponents) shoot at us, regardless, and that's why it doesn't bother us to be ranked high."

Texas received 35 first place votes for 1,274 points to 24 first place ballots and 1,262 points for Penn State in voting by a nationwide panel of 66 sports writers and sportscasters. Pittsburgh was third with three first place ballots and 1,192 points, followed by North Carolina (4) and 1,126, Michigan, Clemson, Southern Cal, Missouri, Georgia and SMU.

The Second Ten consists of Florida State, Iowa, Miami of Florida, Wisconsin, Alabama, Mississippi State, Brigham Young, Washington State, Nebraska and Arizona State.

The loss to Texas dropped Oklahoma, which was 10th last week, out of the Top Twenty for the first time since Nov. 25, 1970. The Sooners had been in the rankings for 147 consecutive weeks during the regular season, two shy of Michigan's all-time mark of 149 weeks, which ended on Sept. 23, 1980.

Texas is the fourth team this season to hold the No.1 spot in the AP poll. Michigan, the preseason and first-week leader, gave way to Notre Dame for one week, before Southern Cal pushed them off the top rung.

Asked if he was worried about a letdown after the emotional victory over the Sooners, Akers said, "You have to be concerned with something like that."

But he said if "you stop and analyze the importance" of the Arkansas game, "I wouldn't think we've have much trouble getting their (the players') attention."

The Baseball playoffs are down to four teams in the pennant races with the New York Yankees against the Oakland A's in the American League and the Los Angeles Dodgers against the Montreal Expos in the National Leagues. Both leagues start their best-of-five series today.

Reggie plans re-entry draft

NEW YORK (AP) — Slugger Reggie Jackson, once baseball's highest paid free agent, said Monday he will go into the re-entry draft for a second time next month.

Jackson, after a workout at Yankee Stadium, said he would not sign with New York before the free-agent draft in November.

Asked if he knew where he would be next season, Jackson said, "That depends on who drafts me."

Does that mean he is definitely going through the draft?

"You didn't hear me stutter, did you?" he said.

Jackson, 35, batted .237 with 15 home runs and 54 runs batted in this season, his fifth with the Yankees. He joined New York in 1977 after declaring himself a free agent from the Baltimore Orioles. He signed a $2.9 million contract which, at that time, was the richest contract in baseball.

Yankee owner George Steinbrenner met with Jackson regarding his contract during spring training but there have been no negotiations since then. Relations between the two have often been strained.

"This is not the time to discuss that," Steinbrenner said after Jackson hit a towering home run Sunday to help the Yankees win the final game of the American League East Division playoffs against Milwaukee.

If Jackson signs with another team, he would be exempt from the compensation regulations of the draft because he would be a free agent repeater.

A's Billyball faces Yankees' power

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Oakland's young, fired-up A's challenge the tradition-laden New York Yankees with the American League pennant at stake in a best-of-five championship series beginning Tuesday night.

The A's, managed by ex-Yankees' skipper Billy Martin, feature a speed-oriented attack that is called "Billyball," a tribute to the pilot who has taken the team from sorry also-rans to championship contenders.

The A's speed game, led by fleet outfielder Rickey Henderson who stole 100 bases last year and 56 in 108 games this season, is in stark contrast to New York's rock-'em, sock-'em long ball approach, epitomized by slugger Reggie Jackson.

It was Jackson's two-run homer that triggered the Yankees' 7-3 AL East Division clincher against Milwaukee Sunday night. The A's swept to the West Division crown, eliminating defending champion Kansas CIty in three straight games.

Both New York and Oakland earned their way into the postseason playoffs by leading their divisions for the first half of the season. Oakland set a record, winning 17 of its first 18 games. The A's finished the first half at 37-23 and were 64-45 for the full season. The Yanks were 34-22 for the first half and 59-48 overall.

The Yankees received some bad news Monday when it was disclosed that a blister on the right index finger had knocked Rick Reuschel out of the second game start.

"His chances of pitching Wednesday are not very good," said Clyde King, the Yankees' pitching coach.

The Yankees will open with left-hander Tommy John Tuesday night against Oakland right-hander Mike Norris. Reuschel's injury forced New York Manager Bob Lemon to revise his pitching plans after that. Left-hander Rudy May will work Game Two, followed by rookie Dave Righetti in the third game and Ron Guidry in Game Four.

"The blister's not too bad," said Reuschel. "I should be ready sometime in this series."

When he returns to action, Reuschel probably will be in the bullpen, a busy place in the Yankees' scheme of things. Sunday night's 7-3 East Division clincher against Milwaukee was a perfect example of the club's approach to these games.

New York split the first seven innings of the game between Guidry and Righetti, then turned the lead over to relief ace Rich Gossage. It was Gossage's third save of the series, and it is a pattern that John dxpects to continue.

"On this club, you get to the seventh inning and it's tied or you're ahead by a run, you know you're going to get Goose or (Ron) Davis," he said.

That's not the case with the A's, where Martin specializes in complete games for his pitching staff. A year ago, the Oakland pitchers completed a record 94 games. This season, the strike interfered with that strategy, but Oakland starters still finished 60 of the 109 games the team played.

John remembered Martin's pitching strategy from 1979, when the Oakland skipper spent half the season piloting the Yankees.

"You would have to go to him and tell him you were tired," John said. "He'd stand there with his arms folded and watch you and if you were throwing all right, why he'd just leave you alone."

The managing careers of Martin and Lemon have been intermingled. When Martin resigned under fire as Yankees' manager in 1978, Lemon replaced him and took a team that was some 10 games behind to the World Championship.

A year later, Lemon was dismissed in mid-season and Martin returned. Martin was fired during the off-season and surfaced last year in Oakland. Lemon, meanwhile, cooled his heels until last month when Gene Michael was fired and owner George Steinbrenner summoned him back for another turn as Yankees' pilot.

Lemon said he is the same manager now that he was in 1978 when he got the job the first time. "I don't feel I've changed as a manager," he said. "The only difference was I knew what to expect when I came back."

Tech loses QB to knee injury

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Texas Tech starting quarterback Ron Reeves may be lost to the Red Raiders for two or three weeks with an undiagnosed knee injury, head Coach Jerry Moore announced Monday.

"There is a little swelling, but right now it is hard to put a timetable on it," Moore said. "Hopefully, he will be back two or three weeks. If he comes back sooner, then that's a bonus for us."

Senior Richy Ethridge will start as quarterback when the Raiders host Rice Saturday, Moore said.

A rash of injuries — especially in the offensive line — has depleted the Raiders' ranks for the Rice game.

Gullickson against Hooton in opener

By JACK STEVENSON
AP Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Right-handers Bill Gullickson of Montreal and Burt Hooton of Los Angeles were named starting pitchers by their managers Monday for the National League Championship Series opener at Dodger Stadium today.

Also, Los Angeles Manager Tom Lasorda said that Ron Cey, who wasn't on the Dodgers' roster in the NL West Division playoffs, would start at third base against the Expos in the first game of the best-of-5 series, scheduled to begin at 4:05 p.m. EDT.

And Montreal Manager Jim Fanning said that rookie outfielder Tim Raines would be in the Expos' lineup on Tuesday.

Cey hasn't played since he suffered a broken bone in his left forearm when hit by a pitch thrown by San Francisco right-hander Tom Griffin on Sept. 8. Lasorda announced Sunday night that Cey would be activated for the NL Championship Series.

"Ron has been an inspiration to the team during the mini-series against Houston just by being on the bench," said Lasorda. "He's got tremendous talent and he'll help us."

Cey ht .288 and led the Dodgers in home runs with 13.

With Cey sidelined, right fielder Pedro Guerrero moved to third base and veteran Rick Monday took Guerrero's spot in the outfield. Lasorda made no immediate announcement on who would play right field on Tuesday.

Raines was available for pinch-running duties only in recent weeks because of a broken bone in his hand. The speedy outfielder hit .304 and stole 71 bases while playing in only 88 games.

Fanning said Raines took batting practice twice during the Philadelphia series and "swung the bat real well."

There also was the possibility that second baseman Rodney Scott, who has been out because of a bruised shoulder, would also be able to play against Los Angeles.

The Dodgers will use rookie left-hander Fernando Valenzuela in the second game Wednesday night. Valenzuela fired a four-hitter last Saturday night in beating the Astros 2-1 in Game Four of the NL West playoffs. Right-hander Ray Burris will oppose Valenzuela.

Lasorda said left-hander Jerry Reuss would pitch on Friday when the series moves to Montreal. There is no game scheduled Thursday. Right-hander Steve Rogers, who defeated Philadelphia twice in the NL East playoffs, will hurl for the Expos in Game Three.

The Expos have been a study in futility at Dodger Stadium in recent years. Montreal has lost nine straight games in Los Angeles and 18 of its last 19 here.

Fanning discounted that factor, but Lasorda said: "I guess we play real good ball against them here. Even when we were behind, we just seemed to come back and beat 'em."

The Dodgers were 3-0 at home against the Expos this season and the teams divided four games in Montreal. Last year, Los Angeles won 11 of its 12 games against the Expos.

Valenzuela has been nursing a cut on the middle finger of his pitching hand, just at the finger nail, and it worried the Dodgers, but, showing the cut, the 20-year-old sensation shook his head, indicating it was nothing that bothered him.

Reb volleyball needs victory

By MIKE CRUVER
Sports Writer

Today could be the day that determines whether or not Midland Lee has any hope of winning the second half District 5-5A volleyball title.

The Rebels travel to San Angelo today to tangle with the Bobcats, who won the first-half title. San Angelo recorded a 7-0 mark in the first half to out duel Big Spring, 6-1, and Lee, 5-2.

A win over the Bobcats would put the Rebels one game up on the defending district champs. If Lee would win the second half title, they would have a one-game playoff with the Bobcats to determine the District 5-5A champion.

Lee will be looking for some help from their cross town foes today. Midland High tangles with Big Spring in the Bulldog gym starting at 6 p.m. for the junior varsity with the varsity game to follow at 7 p.m.

The Purple Pack and the Lady Steers are 1-0 in second half play.

MHS' junior varisty will be looking to run its district record to 2-0 in the second half to go along with a 6-1 mark in the first half.

Dolphins flunk first big test as Bills win 31-21

ORCHARD PARK, N,Y. (AP) — Don Shula had admitted before the game that the Buffalo Bills would be Miami's first big test of the season.

The Dolphins flunked it.

"We hadn't played a team as good with or without the ball all year," Shula said of Buffalo's offense and defense. "We knew this was going to be a pretty good indication of how good we were."

If that's the case, the Dolphins weren't anywhere as good as the 4-0-1 record they took into Monday night's game. The 31-21 victory by the Bills — and it was a lot easier than the score indicates — proved it.

The outcome not only left the Dolphins with their first loss of the season (Philadelphia remains the National Football League's only unbeaten team), it also left their record against American Conference East teams at 1-1-1. And Buffalo, 4-2 overall, is 4-0 against the rest of the division.

By halftime the score was a near-runaway 31-7 with Miami's only touchdown coming on Fulton Walker's 90-yard kickoff return. It wasn't until the final 18 minutes that the Buffalo defense relented and gave up Tony Nathan's 12-yard scoring sweep — the first rushing TD against the Bills this year — and Don Strock's four-yard touchdown pass to Joe Rose.

"This was about as bad as you can get beaten — the way we were handled in the first half," said Shula. "This was as sad a first half as we've had in a long, long time ... we couldn't get anything going from the opening kickoff. I was very upset about the way we played defense. The defense didn't make a play all night."

It couldn't, the way Joe Ferguson was throwing the ball. The Buffalo quarterback, given all the time he needed, completed 20 of 29 passes for 338 yards. And that was after he'd hit on 11 of 15 for 221 in the first half, when the outcome was all but decided.

"Ferguson had a great night and his receivers played super," Shula said. "Down and in, down and up, down the middle — balls were being caught all over the place. You must be able to stop people. We just aren't playing good pass defense. This was a continuation of what happened to us in the last two ballgames, when we gave up over a thousand yards."

In all, they gave up 454 this time. Wide receiver Jerry Butler got 28 of them on one touchdown pass and 25 of them on another and running back Joe Cribbs, who rushed for a game-high 60 yards, got another 65 on a touchdown pass.

Ferguson, who has thrown for at least three TDs three times this season, now has 14 and is tied with San Diego's Dan Fouts for the league lead. Another of his passes, a 29-yarder to Frank Lewis, fell one yard short of a touchdown. So Roosevelt Leaks ran it in from there.

"We had the right plays called at the right time," Ferguson said, shrugging off the praise directed his way. "Several times we were lucky. We put in formations to try and spread the Miami defense wide. We spread them out pretty wide and if the linebackers don't get back, it gives them real trouble."

As much trouble as the Miami defense had with Ferguson, that's how much trouble the Buffalo defense gave Strock, starting in place of injured David Woodley.

Strock was intercepted four times, two of them coming on the Buffalo one-yard line and the other two setting up touchdowns by the Bills. He also was sacked twice and was under intense pressure most of the night.

"They had to pass," said Bills linebacker Jim Haslett. "In fact, they weren't running from the very beginning and when we got ahead, it became kind of predictable."

"I think they more or less wanted to run," added defensive end Ben Williams, who shared in one of the sacks. "But when they got behind by 24 points, they had to pass."

And Strock observed succinctly: "We were desperate all night."

Andretti appeals USAC reversal

IPDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Mario Andretti said Monday he is appealing to the U.S. Auto Club about last week's ruling that made Bobby Unser the winner of the Indianapolis 500-mile race.

Andretti was declared the winner when a one-lap penalty was imposed against Unser a day after the May 24 race. But a special USAC panel ruled last Thursday that the penalty was too severe and instead fined him $40,000 for passing a line of cars as he left the pits during a yellow caution period.

Andretti's attorney, Forrest Bowman, said the protest by Andretti was based on the contention that "the court of appeals conducted the procedure in violation of the USAC rules book in that they did not give adequate notice of the hearing to all concerned parties."

Bowman told The Associated Press, "We had a right to receive notice of the proceedings. The same notice that Penske Cars Ltd. (Unser's racing team) received or the Indy 500 stewards received, in order to participate in all of the pre-trial procedures in time to make objections to the constitution of the panel, to participate in pre-trial agreements and prepare for the hearing."

Although the scheduled hearing was well publicized before it convened in June, Bowman said "the actual notice (to Andretti) was a telegram the morning the hearing started."

"We set out our contentions (to USAC President Dick King) what we believe to be his authority to expunge the decision of the court of appeals for failing to follow the rules."

King said Bowman "calls it a protest, but it's not really a formal protest. It's a three-page letter that talks about a lot of things. Our attorney will contact Mr. Bowman and ask for a clarification of what he is trying to say.

King said the letter from Bowman is "asking us to go into Article 22 of our bylaws and set aside the decision of the appeal board, that it was not lawfully conducted."

As to whether Andretti's complaint is valid, King said, "I dont think so, but I'd rather wait to get all the facts before us before I comment whether it's meaningful. I think it was a hurry-up effort to get something to us. Maybe they thought the checks were in the mail this morning."

Earlier Monday, the Indianapolis Motor Speedway announced a revised prize list which would award $299,124 to Unser and a second-place prize of $128,974 to Andretti.

The Speedway said, however, no money would be paid until official word was received from USAC that all appeal procedures had been completed.

King said Andretti had 30 days to appeal last week's ruling to the Automobile Competition Committee for the United States (ACCUS), which is the domestic arm of the Federation Internationale de L'Automobile (FIA), the international governing body for auto racing.

Andretti, in a telephoe interview from his home at Nazareth, Pa., said the protest went to USAC first "just to get the ball rolling. Then the procedure, I guess, would be to ACCUS."

Andretti said he decided to appeal Unser's victory "because I think I would have much easier accepted a verdict of 'no guilt' (on Unser's part) than a verdict of tampering with the penalty that violation definitely carries.

"That's the part that really turned me around," Andretti said. "It will make any future behavior (by a driver in a race) tough to control. That's the danger of this precedent, I can tell you that.

"How would you know how far you can go taking advantage of every situation, knowing if you take advantage of it and cross the finish line first, the race will never be taken away from you regardless of what the rule book says if you have a good enough counsel working for you?

"It's ludicrous," Andretti added, admitting the entire affair has given him second thoughts about continuing in Indy car racing. "You lose faith in everything. It does affect your thinking. I expected anything but this. It's unbelievable."

Andrews unbeaten, Rankin loses first

By MIKE CRUVER
Sports Writer

Two area schools entered football games Friday night highly ranked by the Harris Rating System, both teams played close, tense games — one picked up a victory while the other lost its first game of the year.

Andrews, ranked No. 4 by Harris, huffed and puffed but finally put down the pesky Pecos Eagles 19-7 in a District 2-AAAA battle. The win keeps the Mustangs undefeated in four district outings, 6-0 overall while Pecos slips to 3-3 overall, 2-2 in district.

Rankin (Harris' No. 4 team) was undefeated when the Red Devils teed up against the undefeated, high-flying Wildcats (No. 1 team in the Harris poll) in Wink Friday night in a crucial District 6-A battle.

For three quarters and five minutes, Rankin was short circuiting Wink's charge toward the district title. The tenacious Devils had taken the lead on Jessie Hernandez' 17-yard field goal just before the half and made the three points stand until Ronnie Thomas skipped in from two yards out.

Wink started their winning drive from their 49 after forcing a Rankin punt.

The 7-3 win broke an 11-game winning steak for Rankin against the Wildcats.

The three points were the first Wink has surrendered in five outings.

In Pecos, the Eagles held District 2-AAAA rushing leader Keith Brooks to jsut 25 yards on 25 carries but two blocked punts by Brent Petross were coverted into touchdowns as the Mustangs kept their winning streak alive. Brooks, the district's leading scoring, picked up one TD to run his season total to 17.

Petross blocked punts heroics came in the second quarter as Andrews went in at intermission on top 13-7.

Lamesa saw its losing streak stretch to six games as Sweetwater routed the Golden Tornadoes 31-7 in a District 2-AAAA battle in front of a Tor homecoming crowd. Sweetwater ups its season mark to 4-1, 2-1 in district.

The Mustangs went into the contest with the district's second leakiest defense. But Lamesa, (the district's worst offense club) could only dent Sweetwater's defense for 74 yards rushing but did accumulate 165 yards passing on 15 of 23 through the air.

Sweetwater waltzed through Lamesa's defense for 328 yards via the ground and tacked on 136 yards passing on only four completed of 12 attempts.

Lamesa's only TD came on a 3-yard run by tailback Bill Alexander and Rusty Ratliff added the PAT.

Greenwood kept pace with Wink in District 6-A as the Rangers blasted Grandfalls-Royalty to run their district record to 2-0. It was Greenwood's fourth straight win after an opening loss. The Bears drop to 3-3, 0-2 in district with the loss.

Greenwood completely control G—R in front of the Bear faithful. The Rangers ripped the Bears for 345 yards rushing and tacked on 54 via the air ways. Grandfalls-Royalty managed only 33 yards on the ground and 38 through the air lanes.

Kyle Longley and Todd Brooks led the Ranger attack. Longley scored three times while Brooks tallied on runs of 62 and 6 yards.

In a non-district encounter, Crane came up with its best defensive and offensive effort of the year but still went down to their fifth straight loss of the year as Sonora toppled the Cranes 13-0. Sonora pushed its record to 5-1 as they won at home.

Quarterback Randy Blankenship did the damage for Sonora as he ran one yard for a score and passed 38 yards for another.

Gilbert Ramirez rushed 17 times for 105 yards for the best effort of the year for a Crane back. Overall, the Golden Cranes rolled up 186 yards on the ground and picked up 59 more off the passing arm of Randy Pinkston.

Defensively, Sonora ran for 202 yards and gained 51 throwing the pigskin.

McCamey traveled to New Mexico and came back with a 53-0 win over Euncice. The victory pushes McCamey's record to 5-1 while Eunice lost for the fifth time in six games.

The Badgers stout defense kept Eunice bottled up the entire game. The Cardinals were held to one first down, a minus two yards rushing and a minus one yard passing.

On the other side of the ball, McCamey's infantry rumbled for 293 yards while Jerry Stacy picked up 63 tossing the ball. The only black mark on the Badger's performance was 70 yards in penalties.

Robert Arana ran for TDs of 2, 16 and 3 yards to lead the assault. Jodee Stephens clipped in with scoring jaunts of 3 and 40 yards while Donald Mann and Stacy tacked on a six-pointer apiece. Ray Zarata was kept busy as he toed five PATs.

The Stanton Buffaloes moved to the front of the District 5-AA race as they slipped by Forsan 21-0 Friday night in front of a large homecoming crowd. Stanton (4-2, 2-0) takes a one-game lead over defending district champ Ropes (1-0, 5-0). Ropes invades Stanton in two weeks. Forsan falls to 3-3, 1-1 in district with the loss.

Tailback Kevin Newman sparked Stanton as he rushed for 158 yards on 22 carries and found paydirt twice.

Stanton's salty defense surrendered 110 yards to Forsan foot troops but held the air game to -9 yards.

Defensively, Randy Jones, Tracy Spinks and Marizo Iaquaniello made life miserable for Forsan's defense. Newman did pick off a pass and Stanton's secondary performers had their hands on a couple of other tosses but were unable to haul them in.

Reagan County (4-1 1-0 in District 9-AA) and Midland Christian (3-2) enjoyed a weekend off.

Cage officials meet Wednesday

The Permian Basin chapter of the Southwest Basketball Officials Association will meet at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Midland College Roadrunner room for an organizational meeting.

Chapter president Bob Malaise said schedules and rule books will be distributed. "And anyone interested in officiating is urged to attend," he said.

Stars defeat Nordiques 4-2

QUEBEC (AP) — The strategy employed by Minnesota North Stars Coach Glen Sonmor against the Quebec Nordiques is one that many National Hockey League teams would be wise to use.

"We did not want to open up the play and we didn't," said Sonmor, whose North Stars topped Quebec 4-2 in the only NHL contest Monday night.

"We didn't expect to hold Quebec under 30 shots, but we played a strong game defensively," he added. "We knew we had to stress the defense against them."

Neal Broten sparked the Minnesota attack with two goals, including the game winner on a power play in the second period.

Several goals in the game were somewhat lucky, but Broten said he'll take goals of any description.

"I wish I could be lucky like this every game," he said. "On my first goal I just went to the net and I got a rebound that I put in off the goalie's stick."

Center Bobby Smith and defenseman Brad Maxwell added the other Minnesota goals, while defenseman Dave Pichette and center Peter Stastny replied for the Nordiques.

Minnesota took control of the game after the first period and Broten's second goal of the game, his third of the season, sealed the victory at 5:49 of the final frame.

Gilles Meloche was tested 28 times in the Minnesota goal and was particularly sharp in the third period, stopping 10 Quebec shots.

Quebec netminder Dan Bouchard, starting in his second consecutive game for the Nordiques after holding out in a contract dispute, also faced 28 shots before 15,211 fans at the Colisee.

The victory improved Minnesota's record to 2-0-1. Quebec is 2-2-0.

A weak wrist shot by Pichette went in off Bouchard's glove with 3:24 gone in the game to give Quebec a 1-0 lead. But Smith's shot from long range went in off Bouchard's stick at 10:01 to tie it.

The CD for All Savers...From First National

Now, First National offers a program for "all savers" to enjoy savings with high interest yield plus a tax benefit. It's called the All Savers Certificate of Deposit.

Here's how it works: From now until December 31, 1982, you may invest as little as $500 in a First National All Savers CD for a maturity of one year. During that year, interest earned by the CD may be excluded from your taxable income up to a maximum $2,000 for couples filing joint tax returns, $1,000 for those filing separately. The current annual rate is 12.14%.

The interest rate on the CD will change every 4 weeks, but the rate in effect at the time you invest is fixed for the full one year term. Although the interest rate is not compounded, you may receive interest payments monthly, quarterly or upon maturity. If the CD principal is withdrawn prior to maturity, the tax exclusion is forfeited and there is substantial penalty. Deposits are insured by the FDIC.

Compare First National's All Savers Certificate to other investment alternatives, consider your tax plan, then visit one of our CD representatives in our main lobby.

Rather has a bit of a problem in the muckraking department

EASTON, Conn. (AP) — You might say that veteran reporter Dan Rather is having a slight problem doing a little muckraking.

The anchorman of the CBS "Evening News" recently bought a new home on the line between the Fairfield County towns of Easton and Weston. He wants to dredge a pond that is on the Easton side of his property and deposit the muck and silt on the Weston side.

But Weston's Conservation Commission has balked at the idea. The commission says it wants more information on the project before allowing the dumping.

●

Reed

STOWE, Vt. (AP) — It started with an arm-wrestling contest, and then there was an argument, according to the co-owner of a local bar, and pretty soon police were called.

When it was over, some chairs and pictures had been damaged and police had arrested British actor Oliver Reed.

Police said Reed, arrested Monday, was charged with disorderly conduct, unlawful mischief and assault, and was released on $500 bail for arraignment today.

Dawn Hughes, co-owner of The Pub, said the fight broke out shortly after midnight when Reed began arguing with a man with whom he had been arm-wrestling. Mrs. Hughes said her husband, Richard, tried to break up the argument, but police eventually were called in. No one was seriously hurt, she said.

Reed, who has appeared in numerous films, including "Women In Love," "The Three Musketeers," "Oliver!" and "The Devils," came back to the bar Monday afternoon for a "lunchtime drink," Mrs. Hughes said. "He was very lighthearted about the whole thing. But I would rather it not happened."

Wonder

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Stevie Wonder couldn' make it to the funeral of Egyptian President Anwa Sadat, to which he was invited as part of th delegation from the United States, but he's written song commemorating the slain leader's efforts fo world peace.

The blind songwriter, singer and instrumentalist wa unable to accept the invitation from the Egyptia ambassador to the United States because of a family emergency, his spokeswoman said.

His song, written in memory of Sadat "and other who have lived and died in the name of peace an freedom," is titled, "The Day World Peace Began," the spokeswoman said.

●

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — After undergoing emergency surgery to repair a perforated ulcer, actor Richard Burton is reported convalescing comfortably, doing "very well" and headed out of the hospital soon.

Dr. John Reynolds said the 55-year-old British actor was on a progressive diet and eating more solid food since the surgery Oct. 1.

Burton was expected to be released from St. John's Hospital within two days, hospital officials said Monday.

It is Burton's second visit to St. John's within six months. Last March he was at the hospital when a back problem forced him to give up the starring role in the musical, "Camelot," in which he had been appearing at the Pantages Theater in Los Angeles.

●

Reagan

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Warning men that "the new girls' network is going to surpass you in the next five years," Maureen Reagan is urging women to make political use of their Christmas card lists and club rosters.

President Reagan's daughter said in a speech to the Lawyers' Wives of California that women have done more than men to improve the quality of life, "and we deserve the credit for it."

Ms. Reagan said in her speech Sunday that women should keep up contacts they've made since school days and in charity drives and volunteer work.

But, she said, top vacancies in business and politics are frequently filled by men, who use contacts to get jobs.

"Ladies, that's networking," she said, "and we've got to learn to use it."

●

WASHINGTON (AP) — Betty Ford says she doesn't understand how Americans can be proud of "what this nation stands for if we have not guaranteed the rights of half of our population."

The half that the wife of former President Gerald Ford was referring to was the half that includes her, Lady Bird Johnson, and many of the others at a rally Monday beside the Lincoln Memorial: women.

The rally, attended by an estimated 1,000 people on Monday, was held to attack President Reagan's position on the Equal Rights Amendment. The president is opposed to the amendment, and instead favors a state-by-state approach to combating inequities in existing law.

"The Great Emancipator did not free the slaves plantation by plantation," said Helen Milliken, wife of the governor of Michigan and, like Mrs. Ford, a Republican. "We cannot achieve equality for women one state at a time."

State Rep. Barbara Mandrell takes CMA honors

By JOE EDWARDS
Associated Press Writer

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Barbara Mandrell, the only country music star with a prime-time television show, triumphed at the Country Music Association's awards gala by becoming the first person ever named entertainer of the year twice.

The 32-year-old singer also was named for a second time as top female vocalist during the nationally televised ceremony Monday night at the Grand Ole Opry House.

"God's good; I'm proud," Miss Mandrell said. "This means the people like the TV show. The work is worth it."

The top male vocalist award went to 50-year old George Jones, a veteran who won the same award last year and who sang with Miss Mandrell on her biggest hit this year, "I Was Country (When Country Wasn't Cool)."

Miss Mandrell's victory cost her $20.

She had bet country music disc jockey Ralph Emery of Nashville that she wouldn't win. After the show, she was clutching a $20 bill and searching the backstage area for Emery.

"It's unbelievable," said Miss Mandrell, who also was a co-host of the program along with Mac Davis.

Alabama, a fast-rising four-piece band that was playing for tips just 15 months ago, joined Miss Mandrell as a double winner. The Fort Payne, Ala., group was named vocal group of the year and instrumental group of the year. The honor for top vocal group had gone to the Statler Brothers eight of the last nine years.

Until Miss Mandrell won entertainer of the year for the second straight year, the Country Music Association had never given the award twice to the same person in its 15-year history. Miss Mandrell was named top female vocalist in 1979.

"Barbara Mandrell and the Mandrell Sisters" is broadcast Saturday nights on NBC. The variety show, starring Miss Mandrell and younger sisters Louise and Irlene, had just gone on the air last year when Miss Mandrell was first picked entertainer of the year.

Jones is a former house painter whose off-stage battles with booze and bankruptcy have nearly overshadowed a successful singing career.

His seven-year marriage to country queen Tammy Wynette ended in divorce in 1975, he received hospital treatment for alcoholism about two years ago and he filed for bankruptcy in 1978, citing alcoholism for much or his financial trouble.

Pioneer singer Vernon Dalhart and veteran Grand Ole Opry announcer Grant Turner were chosen for induction into the Country Music Hall of Fame. Dalhart, who died in 1948, recorded country music's first million seller, "The Prisoner's Song." Turner, 69, who has been an Opry announcer for more than 30 years, said, "I want to be a guide at the hall of fame when I'm 92."

Other winners were "Elvira," by the Oak Ridge Boys, single of the year; "I Believe in You," by Don Williams, album of the year; "He Stopped Loving Her Today," song of the year, honoring songwriters Bobby Braddock and Curly Putman; David Frizzell and Shelly West, vocal duo of the year; Chet Atkins, top instrumentalist; and Terri Gibbs, horizon award for a promising newcomer.

Miss Gibbs, who is blind, quipped, "This time last year I was sitting home watching this on television."

With two pianos onstage, Mickey Gilley and Ronnie Milsap performed a piano tribute to rock 'n' roll pioneer Jerry Lee Lewis, who was hospitalized with a severe stomach ailment this summer. Lewis later received a long standing ovation when he walked onstage from the audience.

About 5,200 singers, musicians, songwriters and other professionals in country music were eligible to vote.

And the winners are...

Silverman gets job

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former television executive Fred Silverman will head a new entertainment company affiliated with United Artists and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, UA officials have announced.

Although the exact nature and name of the new concern was not disclosed, it was described Monday as an independent company "that will embrace all facets of the entertainment industry."

"My association with UA and MGM is the fulfillment of my 22 years in the business," Silverman said.

Silverman, 44, resigned in June as president and chief executive of NBC after failing to lift the network out of the TV ratings doldrums. Before that, he was president of ABC Entertainment and head of programming at the CBS television network.

Reader's Digest

MOST POPULAR FEATURES

"Life In These United States"

Here's how America sees itself through amused and loving eyes. Here's the funny side of life with our neighbors, our friends and our families told in our own words, reflecting the heart of a people who have the greatness to laugh at themselves when their slips are showing. An all-time Reader's Digest favorite.

"Drama In Real Life"

Escape from a flooding underground cavern, landing a super sonic jet while blinded, locked in hand-to-hand combat...with a maddened bear three times your size... these are but a few of the real-life adventures coming to take your breath away. You are there in drama more exciting than television because you see it in your mind's eye the way it really happened.

"Most Unforgettable Character"

Into each life comes someone who has left an indelible impression like a burning brand on the memory. Sometimes such people are famous, sometimes they just should be. Always their stories are absorbing, transferring that certain magnificent spark to those who are privileged to read about them.

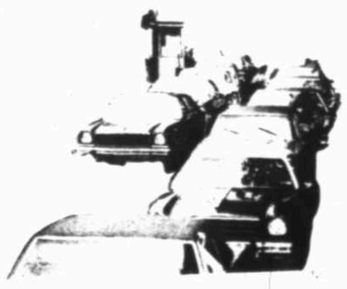
"Humor In Uniform"

Catching our servicemen off guard is far from a serious matter when it comes to humor. This justly-popular Reader's Digest favorite shows there is nothing uniform about the fun and laughter of those who wear their country's olive, blue or gray. Even in civvies, their funny bones (and those of their wives and families) are never off duty as they relate their favorite anecdotes.

PLUS

"AMERICA INSIDE"

"There's got to be a better way..." that's what they're saying in communities all across the nation, and what's more they're finding it. Whether it be lightening the tax load, unsnarling traffic jams, saving energy or getting the kids to get better grades in school, here are the case histories of how it can be done. A mixture of elbow grease and good old American ingenuity, a do-it-yourself manual for spirited citizens who've had just about enough.



"THE ART OF LIVING"

The celebration of life on the pages of Reader's Digest is as much a part of its legend as its humor and its drama. There's always an inspiration, a guidepost, a consolation to be pondered and appreciated. Now, appearing weekly in this newspaper for our readers to enjoy.
