IF SOUTHERN DEMOS JOIN, CONFIRMATION COULD BE IN DOUBT

Opposition To LBJ Appointments Voiced By Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eighteen Senate Republicans have signed a petition opposing President Johnson's appointments to the Supreme Court, far short of the force they must marshal to block confirmations but enough to make rough going for a filibuster develops.

Signers of the petition so far represent half the Senate's 36 GOP members. More could sign.

If Southern Democrats, loudly critical of the court's liberal rulings, should join the opposition, confirmation of Abe Fortas as chief justice and Homer Thornberry to the vacancy created by the death of Earl Warren could be in doubt.

President Johnson Wednesday named Fortas to succeed the retiring Earl Warren and Thornberry to the vacancy created by Fortas' elevation. Fortas, fourth Jew ever to serve on the court, would be the first to lead it.

The President told a news conference he believes the Senate will confirm both and that he tested the political winds in talks with Democratic and Republican leaders, as well as committee chairman, before making the decision.

The GOP petition, circulated by Michigan's Robert P. Griffin and California's George Murphy, takes a stand against letting a "lame duck" president fill court vacancies.

Both Griffin and Murphy said it had no bearing on the person- alities of Johnson's appointees. In fact the petition was drawn up before Johnson made public his appointment with the object of opposing Johnson's move to name anyone to the court.

Notably missing from the list of signers was Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois.

Dirksen has refrained from taking a stand on the issue, first raised by Griffin. But he would be under increasing pressure if the petition picks up more signa- tures.

The GOP leader, also top Re- publican on the Senate Judi- ciary Committee which will con- sider the appointments, said both Fortas and Thornberry are able men and he has "no per- sonal reservations" about their appointments.

Sen. Howard Baker Jr., how- ever, the Tennessee Republican, who is Dirksen's son-in-law and doubted the necessary confi- dence in the high court's lib- eral decisions on personal lib- erties, the courts has voted 5-4 with Warren, Fortas, Wil- liam O. Douglas, William J. Brennan Jr., and Hugo L. Black.

Johnson's selections, but the majority. If that trend holds, the addi- tion of Thornberry would give the liberal majority a 6-3 edge.

No date has been set for the committee's hearings on the nominations, but indications are that none will be held until after Congress returns on July 8 from the Fourth of July holiday.

Griffin said in an interview that he felt a filibuster would be justified to block confirmation.

DOZEN FIRES

Arsonists, Snipers Are Cleared Out

RICHMOND, Calif. (AP)—More than 400 police cleared the streets early today in a swift confrontation with snipers and arsonists, and firemen put out a dozen fires.

Some 60 persons were arrested during a second straight night of disturbances.

Police sealed off an eight-block section.

Reinforcements were called from a number of nearby cities, including 50 San Francisco officers with police dogs.

Police said they could not estimate how many people were involved in the disturbance, the extent of injuries nor total damage.

The trouble was regarded by officers as a continuation of a neighborhood disturbance that erupted Tuesday night after a Negro teenager was shot and wounded by a reserve policeman in North Richmond, 10 miles north of Oakland.

In the Wednesday night flare-up, one of the largest downtown buildings, the Travelline furniture store, burned to the ground after police said a firebomb apparently had been thrown. All of the other fires were small and easily put out, firemen said.

Reports circulated that the National Guard had been summoned, but, in Sacramento, Paul Beck, Gov. Ronald Reagan's aide, said "the Richmond city manager first asked for mobilization then withdrew the request."

Band Places Second

The Big Spring High School Band, tooting 'em up for New York state Lions, captured second place for marching bands in the gigantic Lions International parade in Dallas Wednesday.

There were some 50 bands, most of them from the Dallas area, participating in the parade which brought in elements from virtually every state and from over 100 other nations.

With the honor went $150 cash prize to the bandsmen from Big Spring under the direction of Bill Bradley.

They were uniformed in summer attire with sailor straws and played specially arranged tunes such as "Little Annie Rooney" and "Sidewalks of New York."

So popular were the young musicians that the Golden Steers, the stage band, the Dixieland band and other specialty units within the larger band are staying over an extra two days to appear at gatherings and on the convention floor.

Two bus loads will arrive back here at about 9 p.m. today, and the final group will return Saturday about the same time. Don Turner, who works with the specialty groups and assists Bradley in the band program, came over from North Texas State University, where he is doing summer work, to help in the Dallas appearance.

New York Lions selected Big Spring High School to represent the Empire State at the convention which draws around 30,000 visitors.

AUSTIN (AP) — Senators changed their minds today and went back to work on a House-passed bill that would raise the sales tax a penny.

The 16-15 vote wiped out the Senate's 18-13 refusal Wednesday to give tentative approval to the measure.

Sen. Ralph Hall of Rockwall said he had a $149.6 million tax package alternative, including the sales tax increase which he would offer in place of the bill that was defeated. The measure beaten Wednesday included only increasing the sales tax and state motor vehicle tax from 2 to 3 per cent and a hike in the franchise tax.

Hall later said he would accept a franchise tax which would raise another $20 million. Senators then recessed until 2 p.m. to look at the Rockwall senator's proposal.

The motion to reconsider the Senate's rejection of the tax bill was made by Hall and followed comments by Lt. Gov. Preston Smith that the Senate had "left itself in the position of voting for appropriations and then refusing to vote for the taxes to pay for them."

CLASSIC "This happens to be the classic example used to illustrate legislative irresponsibilities," Smith said.

Hall's proposal also included a $20 million tax on alcoholic beverages and tobacco products, $6.9 million on private clubs, $10.5 million from an amusement tax and $12 million by increasing the natural gas tax from 7 to 8 per cent of value.

Dozens of questions were asked by senators who wanted to know just where the Senate stood after the vote to reconsider.

The House approved the tax bill, 91-56, last Thursday.

The House recessed until 10 a.m. Friday in order formally to receive and possibly act on a tax bill, should the Senate pass one.

Speaker Ben Barnes said he would want the measure to go immediately to a conference committee if the Senate "just passed a bill that's a caption and a few dinky little changes." But if senators "pass a tax bill that will raise money, I would print it and allow members an opportunity to see it" before accepting any motions on the measure.

PLEASE "I would be greatly surprised but pleasantly pleased if the Senate did write a tax bill today," he told the House.

Senate-House conferees have been trying for a week or so to work out a $6 million difference in the $2.5 billion Senate and House spending bills. A measure needing some $140 million in new taxes was expected to emerge from the joint meetings.

Sen. Joe Christe, El Paso, said if the Senate cleared up the tax problem, he was ready with the small bottle liquor bill proposed by Connally, which includes changes in the liquor law act.

Sen. Bill Patman, Ganado, protested Wednesday that the $117 million tax bill was merely an effort "to cram the mini-bottle bill down our throats because this bill does not have enough money in it without the money in the liquor bill."

Sen. Jack Strong, Longview, in the last talk before the final vote said the Senate had better not agree to a sales tax because they would need one next year

Vote Coming On Anti-Gun Sale Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Shifting public opinion, a delayed vote and President Johnson's sudden call for stricter firearms laws have brought the gun control controversy to a critical stage in Congress.

A bill to ban the mail order sale of all weapons, including rifles and shotguns, was before the Senate Judiciary Committee today for a vote originally scheduled a week ago.

A majority of committee members favored the measure then as the public outcry over sination crested, but developments since have clouded the issue.

Johnson pushed after the assassination for the ban on rifles and shotguns, then asked Congress in the past week to also enact legislation requiring registration of all guns and licensing of their owners.

Some gun control hawks want to tack that request onto the rifle-shotgun bill.

But public opinion has shifted dramatically, with congressmen now saying their mail is running heavily against stiffer control laws, particularly those requiring registration.

As the administration pushed its case Wednesday in a hearing before the Senate subcommittee on juvenile delinquency, the registration measure got a cool reception in the House.

Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., of the House Judiciary Committee, who has backed enactment of mail order bans on long guns, said tacking on registration might endanger the measure.

when a tax bill might run as high as $400 million.

LUCK

Sen. A. R. Schwartz, Galveston, was the only liberal who had any luck Wednesday changing the bill. He sponsored an amendment increasing the state franchise tax from $2.25 to $2.75 per $1,000 in assets, predicting it would bring in $17 million a year.

Wilson tried to get through a $151 million tax package as the liberals' substitute for the sales tax increase. Amendments cut his proposal to about $82 million then the entire package was wiped out by an 18-13 vote.

"The tax on soft drinks is twice as much as on alcoholic beverages," Sen. Charles Herring, Austin, said of Wilson's projected package. "I think it's wrong."

"It's a basic industry in this state hiding behind the idea that we'd be taxing the children of this state," Sen. Wayne Connally, Floresville, told Herring. "It's a luxury tax—you don't need it (soft drinks) and I don't need it."

Herring's amendment, adopted 19-12, cut out a proposal of Wilson's to tax soft drinks one cent a bottle. He said it would raise $28.5 million.

UNDER TAX

Another amendment removed a provision that would raise $13.2 million by putting liquor and beer under the present 2 per cent sales tax. A change in the franchise tax would have eliminated the $26 million Wilson hoped for by increasing it.

Economic Boycotts Planned By Negro Campaign Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Poor People's Campaign leader says a new tactic—economic boycotts in about 40 cities—will begin in downtown Washington next week in an effort to put new pressure on Congress.

The leader, Jesse Jackson, said the aim of the boycott against specific products will be to force businessmen to pressure Congress for appropriations to relieve hunger and malnutrition among the nation's poor.

TARGET

Jackson did not name the other target cities.

In another new tactic, the campaign asked a federal court injunction Wednesday to force Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman to use $227 million for

Marines Pulling Out

U.S. Marines take down bunker at the Khe Sanh combat base on South Vietnam's northern frontier, where they weathered a 77-day siege last winter with 2,500 casualties.

Khe Sanh Base Being Given Up

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. troops are abandoning and leveling the Khe Sanh combat base, freeing its defenders to join mobile strike forces combating increased enemy forces in South Vietnam's northernmost provinces.

The U.S. Command said abandonment of the base in the northwest corner of South Vietnam where U.S. Marines took more than 2,500 casualties in a 77-day siege last winter "is part of a new concept of mobile warfare being put into operation" below the demilitarized zone, said Brig. Gen. Winant Sidle, chief of information for the U.S. Command.

"Khe Sanh will be leveled, bulldozed and the bunkers closed up," said Sidle. "It's already under way."

On the ground, South Vietnamese troops reported killing 125 enemy troops in a running battle east of Quang Tri City and 19 miles below the demilitarized zone. Government casualties were put at seven killed and 50 wounded.

HUGE CACHE

South Vietnamese infantrymen also uncovered a huge cache of weapons 12 miles west-northwest of Saigon, that included 126 rounds of big Russian and Chinese rockets of the type that have been used in shelling the capital.

In the air war, over North Vietnam, the U.S. Command reported that Navy F-4 Crusader pilots sighted two Communist MIG-21s 12 miles south of the 19th parallel Wednesday and downed one with air-to-air missiles.

It was the first MIG shot down since Feb. 14 and the first since President Johnson ordered a bombing curtailment March 31, limiting American pilots to targets below the 19th parallel.

U.S. pilots now are credited with downing 106 MIGs in aerial combat compared to 47 U.S. planes lost to the MIGs.

U.S. headquarters also reported that on Tuesday Navy pilots spotted three MIGs northeast of the coastal city of Vinh and fired on them. The MIGs headed north above the 19th parallel, apparently undamaged.

The western anchor of the allied defense line below the demilitarized zone is being moved 10 miles to the east, to a supply base with an airstrip known as Landing Zone Stud.

Because of the importance U.S. officers publicly put on Khe Sanh while it was under siege for 77 days last winter, its abandonment is a propaganda setback for the United States. But veteran observers of the war don't think the American military position is reduced significantly.

WARMER

Partly cloudy and a little warmer today and Friday. Winds from the southeast 8-18 mph. High today 90 degrees; low tonight 65 degrees; high tomorrow 95 degrees; soil temperature 74 degrees.

LONDON (AP) — James Earl Ray, fighting extradition to the United States to stand trial for the murder of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., asserted today he did not kill the Negro civil rights leader.

The prisoner—who is charged here under the alias of Raymond George Sneyd — took the witness stand in a surprise move and testified, "I have never met Dr. King. I have never had any kind of grudge against him."

Counsel for Ray indicated today he would seek to save Ray from extradition by contending that the assassination of the American civil rights leader was a political crime.

Under the U.S.-British extradition treaty, political grounds are a principal reason for granting asylum to anyone and barring extradition.

SECURITY

A hearing in historic Bow Street court was held under security precautions unprecedented in British judicial history. It took a dramatic turn after a lawyer representing the U.S. government gave evidence that Ray's fingerprints were found on the rifle suspected of killing King.

Ray was in the murky courtroom under heavy guard and heard a Scotland Yard detective testify that shortly after he was caught he collapsed in his cell moaning, "My God! I feel so trapped."

The extent of King's involvement in American politics was raised by a British lawyer defending Ray.

Attorney Roger Frisby closely questioned an American witness in an effort to get statements about King's political involvement into the court record.

At one point the witness, George Jacob Bonebrake, an FBI fingerprint expert, admitted under questioning that there had been a certain amount of dislike for King in the United States.

Bonebrake said he found from the print on the rifle 14 characteristics the same as on the prints on file for Ray, a fugitive from the Missouri State Penitentiary. He found 11 similar characteristics from the prints on the telescopic sight.

When the court suspended session for a luncheon break, detectives continued to guard all doors of the courthouse. News-men had to show credentials to get in or out and members of the public were searched for weapons.

The U.S. government was represented by a British lawyer, David Calcutt. He told Magistrate Frank Milton that Ray's fingerprints were found on the rifle which police recovered after King was shot in Memphis, Tenn., April 4.

"The bullet which killed Dr. King was examined when recovered," he continued, "and there is a strong likelihood that the bullet came from the rifle found by the police."

VICTIM

Calcutt told the crowded Bow Street Court that King was the victim of "a calculated, brutal and senseless murder—a murder that was bitter with irony."

extradition. With two British lawyers to defend him, Ray was expected to fight extradition and appeal to the High Court if Milton ruled that he should be returned to the United States. This could extend the process for weeks.

It was Ray's third court appearance under the alias of Raymond George Sneyd, the name on the Canadian passport he was carrying when he was arrested June 8 at London airport. His two previous trips to Bow Street for preliminary hearings had been brief, and the proceedings today provided the first extensive look at the U.S. government's case against him.

Journalism Scholarship Is Announced

ABILENE — Tyler Vance, Hereford, who already has three years experience in high school and professional journalism, is the 1968 West Texas Press Association scholarship winner.

The first and second alternates, Benny Turner and Linda Kinsey, are both from Sweetwater.

The selections were made by the scholarship committee of the WTPA of which Ed Wishcamp, editor of "The Abilene Reporter-News," is chairman.

The scholarship won by Vance is for $800, to be applied $200 per year over the four years of college. Vance said he plans to study journalism at West Texas State University, Canyon.

James M. Gillentine, publisher of "The Hereford Brand" for which Vance does part-time work, described the 18-year-old youth as "a near genius" in photography. He also does news writing.

Gillentine told the selection committee he felt "there is not a youngster in the United States who can outdistance Tyler" in photography, "and in 30 years of newspaper experience I have had only one or two professionals who come up to his quality."

Vance began journalism work during his sophomore year in Hereford High School as a writer-photographer on the school paper, "The Whiteface."

Later he went to work part time for the "Brand" and still continues on its staff while also working two days a week for the neighboring "Frost Star."

Vance was named the Outstanding Industrial Cooperative Training Student of Hereford High School for 1968. In 1966 he won first place award in news photos in the Panhandle Press Association contests. This year he won first in technical information and second place as outstanding photographer in Texas at the state meeting of Vocational Industrial Clubs of America.

His pictures also have won attention in national competition.

Vance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Vance, Hereford. His father is employed by a lumber company and his mother is a clerk at the Deaf Smith County Electric Cooperative.

Benny Turner, the first alternate, has written sports and other news for the Sweetwater Reporter and the high school newspaper, "The Pony Express." He also has been a sports correspondent for the "Abilene Reporter-News," "San Angelo Standard-Times" and "Lubbock Avalanche-Journal." He plans to attend Texas Tech.

Linda Kinsey, second alternate, also plans to attend Texas Tech. She has worked for the "Sweetwater Reporter" and was feature editor of the "Pony Express."

Bank Robbery Suspect Jailed

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Henry Lyle Soric, 26, was jailed in lieu of $35,000 bond today on a charge of robbing the Frost National Bank of $970.

Soric, an ex-convict, was captured while he walked near the Bexar County Jail a few hours after the morning holdup.

Bank teller Mrs. Clare Weaver said a man wearing dark glasses, a straw hat and levis approached her window shortly after the bank opened and handed her a typewritten message which read:

"I'm a deaf mute. Please understand. If you get excited I'll have to shoot you and some of your customers. So just put all of your $100's and $50's in the pouch and keep cool."

The note ended: "Thank you." Soric, Dist. Atty. James Barlow said, was convicted in San Antonio in 1964 of two counts of swindling by worthless checks and given two year sentences in the Huntsville State Prison.

Detective A. E. Zapata said Soric had been in prison in Salem, Ore., and had been returned to Bexar County early this month on a detainer warrant Oregon issued for Bexar County. The detainer concerned a charge of swindling under $50, a charge that saw Soric released in $50 bond.

Soric was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Frank Baskin late Wednesday.

Although he will not be putting aside his paint brushes permanently, H. H. McPherson will be retiring at the end of June.

As paint and warehouse foreman for American Petrofina Company of Texas the past five years, he has overseen the painting of service stations in West Texas, kept the paint inventory at the warehouse on West Third, and ordered signs for the stations. Painting of transport and delivery trucks has also come under his scrutiny.

Before that, while on the Cosden payroll from June 27, 1946, McPherson had traveled many miles in Texas as well as New Mexico, Arkansas, Missouri and other sales territory to paint service stations under that banner. During the years he developed a certain dexterity with both hands, but he is really a right-handed man. Even though he was mindful of safety, like most painters he has had his fair share of close calls from various altitudes. He recalls, for instance, having to "ride" down a slipping ladder when he was painting tall storage tanks in Lubbock. Flamboyant Ky Changes Style, Tactics For Power

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam's flamboyant Nguyen Cao Ky, foiled in the ambition to become chief of state under American auspices, has abruptly changed style and tactics. His ultimate objective—power—remains unchanged.

Instead of his famed Captain Midnight flying suit with lavender scarf and black baseball cap, the vice president now wears a Mao jacket.

Instead of cultivating friends in the U.S. Embassy, Ky has withdrawn into semi-isolation and embarrasses American officials with thinly veiled attacks on the United States.

The 37-year-old swashbuckler with a passion for exploits has virtually broken with the American-backed regime of President Nguyen Van Thieu.

Reduced to the ceremonial functions assigned to the vice presidency by South Vietnam's new constitution, Ky still pays lip service to the regime. But in the public mind, he is a more immediate threat to Thieu than the Viet Cong.

In his new image, Ky wants to appear a nationalist hero, seeking to free his country as much from the threat of communism.

He remains the most prominent and most determined foe of any kind of accommodation or discussion with the Viet Cong.

Once the master of South Vietnam's military regime as premier, Ky's decline really began when the ruling group of generals—and discreet American prodding—persuaded him to abandon his bid for the presidency and enter last September's presidential elections as Thieu's running mate.

American officials believe Ky has lost so much power and influence in the past two months that he is no longer a physical threat to Thieu.

Thieu himself and those close to him disagree.

Since early May, many of Ky's friends have been removed from important posts and replaced by Thieu nominees.

Yet the more Thieu strengthens his position, the more he seems to fear that the vice president's supporters may resort to violent action before it is too late.

A get-away helicopter stands permanently on the lawn in front of the presidential palace. The president's personal security force has been assigned to keep an eye on Ky and his entourage.

The president's friends point out that Thieu's elimination would automatically put Ky into the presidency. The South Vietnamese constitution requires new presidential elections in case the presidency becomes vacant—but the vice president assumes the post in the interim.

In South Vietnam, that provision can be interpreted in widely different ways.

'Mini-Medieval'

Two new additions to the fashion parade are these mini-skirted nun's dress with hood-collar combination, left, and monk's dress with hood. Both are from Paraphernalia and were created by Walter Holmes who calls them "mini-medieval." Holmes is a 24-year-old Chicago designer who was born in London.

House Panel Votes To Withhold SST Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee voted today to withhold any new funds for development of a supersonic airliner until an acceptable new design is worked out.

The committee turned down the Johnson administration's request for $223 million to carry on the SST project and further recommended that $30 million already advanced be returned to the Treasury.

If supported by Congress, the committee's action would mean at least a year's delay in the effort to build the huge transport, throwing the United States far behind in its race with France and England, which are working jointly on a similar aircraft.

The $223 million cut was by far the largest in a bill approved by the committee calling for fiscal 1969 appropriations totaling $1,353 billion for the Department of Transportation.

The total is $332 million below administration budget requests and $179.8 million below the amount the department got in fiscal 1968.

The Federal Aviation Administration, in charge of the SST development, bore the brunt of the economy axe. Besides cutting the entire request for the SST, the committee voted to withhold any new funds for the program of grants-in-aid to airports, for which the FAA asked $65 million.

In its report on the bill, the committee said the administration has submitted a new airport aid program to Congress that calls for major changes. Until the new program is enacted, the committee said, action on the budget request should be deferred.

In eliminating the entire amount requested for the SST, the committee said an earlier design turned out to be unacceptable and considerable redesigning is required.

"Although it is most unfortunate that the design was not acceptable," said the committee report, "the committee applauds the FAA for its action and agrees that the year's delay, although serious, is far preferable to the construction of a poor designed aircraft."

The committee said $216 million appropriated in previous years is still available to the FAA for the redesign effort, which the FAA estimates will cost $186 million. The $30 million left over, said the committee, should be turned back to the Treasury.

In another action, the committee voted to keep the highway beautification program limping along by recommending $1 million to permit the continuing administration of funds appropriated in previous years. The administration did not request any new funds for the program, a pet project of Mrs. Lyndon Johnson.

The Coast Guard's request for $58 million was cut by $2.6 million, most of the reduction applying to acquisition of new vessels.

The new National Highway Safety Bureau was cut $3.8 million, but the $2.6 million recommended for it by the committee is $5.5 million more than it got in fiscal 1968. The committee said $3 million of the proposed cut should be in research funds.

Tests Reveal Bars Not Gold

RANCHITO, Tex. (AP) — Laboratory tests have revealed that the gold Ramiro Vasquez found while digging on an outcrop in this Lower Rio Grande valley was not gold.

The 36-year-old garage owner had been digging on the outcrop when he uncovered an undetermined number of pre-cast metal bars. The bars glittered inside like gold, but tests arranged by Los Fresnos banker Ura Bredlove and KGBT-TV News Director Lee Harr revealed that they were Mexican gold, mostly of copper and a mixture of zinc and lead.

The bars were each covered with lettering in Spanish indicating that they were Mexican gold, mostly of copper and a mixture of zinc and lead.

Vasquez, who said he had been recently plagued with medical bills for his two children, said his garage business had been slow and mostly on credit, believed for a time that his financial problems had been solved.

"Maybe the next time I will find gold," he shrugged after being told the results of tests conducted at Pan American Laboratories at Brownsville and the U.S. Mint at Denver.

Gun Laws Linked To Crime Control

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "If we are to control crime in the United States, we must control guns," says California's chief deputy attorney general, Charles A. O'Brien.

"The situation has gone far beyond empty debates over possible constitutional problems or whether the gun is more deadly than the automobile," O'Brien told the American Society of Public Administrators Tuesday night.

"There are no constitutional barriers to strict gun control and guns are clearly more responsible for murders than any other weapon," he said.

In California alone, he said, there are 20 to 30 million guns in the hands of 8 to 10 million persons. He said concealable weapons are selling at $25,000 a month.

Arab Arms Back At Pre-War Level

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russian arms assistance has placed the Arab World back on a footing comparable to before last year's June war with Israel, Secretary of Defense Clark Clifford has told Congress.

Clifford told the House Foreign Affairs Committee Wednesday that the Middle East is one of several areas where Russian activity is causing the United States deep concern.

He added that although Russian attitudes have changed some in the past 25 years, the United States "must protect ourselves and our friends."

In pushing for approval of a bill that would authorize $296 million in the coming fiscal year to finance military credit sales, Clifford cited other reasons for concern Soviet supplies to North Vietnam and the presence of the Russian fleet in the Mediterranean.

In other congressional action, the Senate Labor subcommittee approved a bill to provide jobs for low-income and unemployed people, but left details and dollar amounts to be worked out by the full labor committee. The bill, as introduced by Sen. Joseph Clark, D-Pa., would have provided $10.3 billion to provide 2.4 million jobs, half in government and half in private industry. Republicans have proposed scaling down Clark's figures.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he had no plans to call up a bill that would give enforcement powers to the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission unless the House takes similar action.

Such a bill was passed in the House last year, but died in the Senate and House leaders have said no further attempts will be made in that chamber until the Senate acts.

The Senate leadership took steps to meet Congress goal of adjournment by Aug. 3 by saying business after the July 4 holiday recess would be limited.

FM Repeal Bill Sent To Panel

AUSTIN (AP) — A bill that would repeal the "Colon" Briscoe Act, which subsidizes the farm-to-market road program, has been referred to a House Revenue and Taxation subcommittee.

The author of the bill, Rep. Glenn Purcell, Houston, told the full committee Tuesday that repeal would put $15 million back into the general revenue fund.

Repeal would not hurt the farm road program, Purcell contended. The state has 39,000 miles of such roads already built or under contract, he said, and putting the subsidy back into the general revenue fund would merely reduce the highway construction funds to their 1960 level.

Weldon Hart, executive vice president of the Texas Good Roads Association, opposed the bill.

Hart said elimination of the subsidy would seriously threaten the farm road program in the future. There are still 140,000 miles of county roads, Hart said, and 11,000 miles of those roads carry 100 or more vehicles a day.

Some adjustment is needed in the farm road program, Hart said, but it should be phased out and not ended abruptly.

major legislation connected with the administration program.

President Johnson asked Congress for $98.6 million to carry out provisions of the Crime Control Bill he signed last week. The money would be used for training and equipping police and reducing congestion in the courts.

LETTERS

Favors An Equal Chance

To the Editor:

In finishing reading the article in The Herald concerning the alien and the Border Patrol refusing to take the alien back to Mexico, I was shocked by one of Sheriff Standard's statements. Sheriff Standard said that "We'll PUSH the charge we have against him, if the state penitentiary will, if we can convict him." In other words, this man already has a strike against him before he even goes on trial and to impress the Border Patrol Sheriff Standard is willing to throw the book at this man.

"I have always respected and admired Sheriff Standard, but this statement would make any body think twice because everybody deserves an equal chance."

Dear Editor:

Thank you for the recipes you have printed in The Herald in the past. There have been quite a few of them that my family has enjoyed, but why not give us gals — who have to watch calories or stay on diets — a break. We also need some help with diets. Is there someone who has low-calorie recipes they would share? I would appreciate your help.

Pour Cherries Over Dessert

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

We dreamed up an idea for a birthday cake that pleases us—and it may please you, too. When a guest came to dinner, we discovered it was her birthday. Cake was on the menu, so we decided to transform this dessert into a birthday offering. But trouble loomed. We didn't have enough birthday-candle holders in the little box of them we keep on hand. What to do? We grabbed a jar of maraschino cherries from the pantry shelf and used them to decorate the prebaked birthday cake you can imagine. The cherries make wonderful candle holders.

Should you want to follow suit, you might like to use this recipe for chocolate cherry cake for your dessert. Then add a pink color, fluffy frosting and the cherry holders plus candles. The tiny candles we had on hand were pale pink with rose color stripes. They looked especially attractive, but of course all-pink or all-rose or all-white candles can be used.

Because ice cream is usually served with birthday cake, we chose a cake recipe that tastes just right with the frozen dessert. The cake has medium chocolate flavor and an old-time butter-cake texture.

CHOCOLATE CHERRY CAKE
2½ cups sifted cake flour
1 tsp. baking soda
¼ tsp. salt
1 cup butter
1 pkg. (1 lb.) light brown sugar (2½ cups firmly packed)
1 tsp. vanilla
3 large eggs
3 sqs. (3 ozs.) unsweetened chocolate, melted
1 cup milk
1 jar (8 ozs.) red maraschino cherries, well drained and chopped fine
Grease bottoms of 2 round cake pans (each 9 by 1½ inches); line bottoms with waxed paper.

On a separate sheet of waxed paper sift together flour, soda and salt.

In large mixing bowl, beat butter; add brown sugar and vanilla and beat until light and fluffy. Thoroughly beat in eggs, one at a time. Add chocolate and beat to blend.

Add flour mixture in four additions, alternately with milk, beating until smooth after each addition; begin and end with flour. Fold in cherries. Turn into prepared cake pans.

Bake in preheated 350-degree oven until cake tester in center comes out clean—35 minutes.

Place cakes in pans on wire racks to cool for 10 minutes, turn out on racks. Remove paper. With wire rack, turn right side up. Cool completely.

To decorate cake in birthday style: put cake layers together and cover top and sides with pink-colored fluffy frosting. Reserve some of frosting and pipe it, in rope design, around top edge of cake; pipe small mounds of frosting over surface of cake where candles will rest. Drain maraschino cherries and dry thoroughly on several thicknesses of paper toweling. With a small sharp knife or a toothpick, make a tiny hole in rounded bottom of each cherry and insert a small birthday candle; place cherry holders, resting on flat stem sides, on cake.

New Method For An Old Favorite

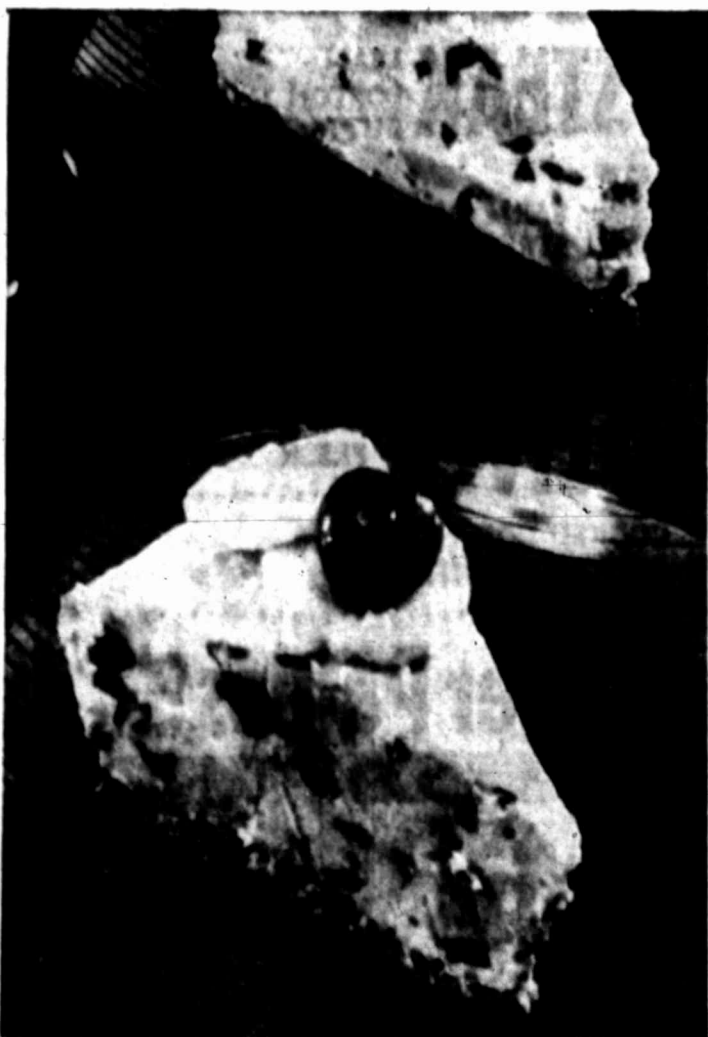

Pumpkin left from another baking. Make another pie!

SWEET PUMPKIN PIE
2 large eggs
1 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
¼ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pumpkin-pie spice
1½ cups mashed cooked pumpkin
1 cup undiluted evaporated milk
9-inch pie shell with high fluted rim, unbaked
In a medium bowl, beat eggs slightly; stir in the sugar, salt and spice to blend, then the pumpkin and milk. Pour into pie shell. Bake at 425-degrees until knife inserted 1½ inches from side of filling comes out clean—about 40 minutes. Cool on wire rack; serve warm—with or without whipped cream.

Salt Roast Beef When You Wish

Salt the roast before, after or during the cooking process. It makes no difference when it's added because it doesn't penetrate the roast much more than one-fourth of an inch.

However, when broiling meats like steaks or chops, season after each side is browned. Salt tends to draw moisture out of the meat during this cooking process and may retard the browning that's so desirable.

Refreshing for summer

Serve Freeze Dessert Soon

Representatives from three of the four basic food groups are found in Tutti-Frutti Freeze, a cool and colorful dessert for a special dinner, a campaign luncheon or a special party. The candidate from the cereal and bread group is packaged corn flake crumbs, forming a golden crust. Cream cheese and whipping cream are the delegates from the milk group; bananas and maraschino cherries represent the fruit and vegetable group. The people at your party are sure to elect Tutti-Frutti Freeze their favorite.

TUTTI-FRUTTI FREEZE

2 cups corn flakes or
½ cup corn flake crumbs
2 tbsps. sugar
3 tbsps. soft butter or margarine

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
3 tbsps. lemon juice
1 3-oz. pkg. cream cheese, softened
2 tbs. milk
¼ tsp. salt

1 cup whipping cream
½ cup sugar
1½ cups diced bananas (two medium)
½ cup chopped maraschino cherries
If using corn flakes, crush into fine crumbs. Combine corn flake crumbs, sugar and butter; mix well. Press evenly and firmly in bottom of 1-quart ice cube tray. Chill.

Soften gelatin in lemon juice; cook over hot water, stirring occasionally, until gelatin is dissolved. Beat cream cheese, milk and salt until smooth. Stir in gelatin mixture. Whip cream until it mounds; gradually beat in sugar until cream holds peaks. Fold in cheese mixture, bananas and cherries. Pour into crumbs-lined tray. Place in freezer for one hour. Store in refrigerator until serving time. Cut into bars or pie-shaped wedges to serve. Garnish with additional banana slices and cherries, if desired.

Yield: 6-8 servings of Tutti-Frutti Freeze

MRS. JAMES DUNCAN

Makes Home Place Of Relaxation, Parties

By RHODA LEMONS

The hospitable and charming home of Mrs. James Duncan, No. Six Indian Ridge, is the scene for parties, the comings and goings of young people and a place of relaxation for her husband and family.

Mrs. Duncan has full-time domestic help, but it is she who manages the home, prepares the menus and keeps the schedules of all participants in perfect order.

The Duncans have three children, Debbie, 18, a sophomore student at Texas Technological College; Dave, 15, a sophomore at Big Spring Senior High School; and Sue, 12, a seventh-grader at Goliad Junior High School. Duncan is associated with his father in Duncan Drilling Company.

Household tasks frequently prove too much work for one woman, so Mrs. Duncan assists with the housecleaning. She is a gourmet cook and it is in this field that she finds one of her greatest challenges.

"I feel that each recipe can be improved upon or made more palatable for my family," said Mrs. Duncan. And, it is a rare recipe that she does not put her own personal touch and modify it to suit her family's needs.

For family cooking, Mrs. Duncan cooks to suit whatever her children's needs are greatest. Her son is an athlete at high school and requires a diet high in protein, and Mrs. Duncan sees that he has a breakfast steak or chop with eggs and milk. The girls eat lightly at breakfast. Duncan, who arises early to go to work, joins his wife for a leisurely breakfast on the screened-in terrace later in the morning. The Duncans recently screened in their patio for a play and recreational area, and they have been delighted with the result.

Teenagers flock to the home, and Mrs. Duncan enjoys cooking for their parties. Debbie assists her mother in food preparation, and their only problem is deciding "how much for how many." However, Mrs. Duncan writes down exactly how much food is required to feed a certain number of teenagers or adults, as the case may be, and is never caught short.

The Duncans frequently entertain at large parties, usually buffet with quartet tables. They have entertained as many as 200 guests, but limit most of their parties to groups of 20 or 30. Their home is large enough to accommodate such groups, and Mrs. Duncan feels grateful that they have been able to have their home while the children are at an age to enjoy it.

The Duncans have a large swimming pool, and many parties are centered around the area. The children are close and even though there is an age gap between them, all intermingle and assist each other in their activities. The children are responsible for their own rooms and must keep them in order. Each child is able to prepare a meal for himself and to assist in tidying the house or the kitchen. Debbie is an elementary education major, and is interested in a field in which she could support herself if the occasion demanded.

Mrs. Duncan is a champion bridge player and recently received her Life Master's award. She is active on the board of the YMCA, and has worked in the past on the Big Spring Concert board.

PEANUT BUTTER CORN

New Sandwich Treat For Younger Set Is Delicious

The news is sweet for the younger set. It's a new snack made with squares of caramel popped corn sandwiched with creamy peanut butter and topped with melted chocolate. Sound delicious? It is and best of all, it's a treat that children can help mother make.

While packaged caramels are melting, corn can be popped in its own foil fry pan. The popped corn is coated with melted caramels and spread out to cool. Then it is cut into squares. Half of the squares are spread with peanut butter. Then each half is topped with another caramel square. Melted chocolate is spread over the top to add even more appetite appeal. These will be welcome snacks at birthday parties or other gay gatherings of the younger set.

POPCORN PEANUT BUTTER SANDWICHES

1 1-lb. pkg. caramels
3 tbsps. water
1 tsp. vanilla
1 5-oz. pkg. popcorn

Use Cottage Cheese For Many Uses

Cottage cheese, ready to serve right from the carton, is one of the most versatile of dairy foods. Whether in salads, main dishes, or desserts, the mild pleasant flavor of cottage cheese is a favorite with most everyone.

Garnish With Fruit

Decorate your roast—ham or lamb—with golden cling peach halves filled with currant or mint jelly. One tablespoon for each peach half is the "tastiest" amount.

Dear Abby

Here's A Smart Mother

DEAR ABBY: I never thought I'd be writing to you, but no body else will listen.

Abby, my mother is a first class A-1 square. I am nearly 13 years old and she treats me like I was four. She won't let me wear the kind of clothes I want. She won't let me use ANY make-up, and SHE tells me how I should fix my hair. I look like a creep. It is a wonder a boy will even look at me. I asked her if I could have boys come over and she said "NO, you are too young!"

She showed me something from your column about a girl could be her own boss. You said when a girl can pay for her own education, buy her own clothes, pay for her room and board, dentist, doctor, and all that crud, she could be her own boss. Believe me, you didn't make any points with me.

What I want you to do, Abby, is to tell me how to convince my mother that I can be trusted with a boy. I am an honor roll student and it is time I had a few privileges. By the time my mother thinks I am "old" enough, nobody will want me.

NOWHERE GIRL
DEAR NOWHERE: Summer down! I think your mother is right. Send me her name and address and I'll nominate her for MOTHER OF THE YEAR.

DEAR ABBY: There is a "swinger" who moved into our apartment building recently. She lives on our floor, and ever since she has moved in, my husband wants to empty the trash all the time. She's big, blonde, and buxom, and I've never seen her in anything but a Japanese kimono. I used to BEG my husband to take out the garbage, now he goes around the house looking for waste paper baskets to take to the incinerator room.

When he happens to see this lady in the hall, he stands around talking to her and getting his eyes full for 15 or 20 minutes. Should I worry?

THE WIFE
DEAR WIFE: Not as long as he's in the hall.

DEAR ABBY: I must disagree with you. You said, "Kissing, when inspired by honest affection, is instinctive. An inexperienced kisser may be clumsy at first, but with practice, he'll improve."

Horoscope Forecast

TOMORROW
—CARROLL RIGTER

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is no day or evening to try to rectify difficult matters from the past. But you would certainly be wise to seek new methods, new inventions, new appliances by which to get everything in perfect working order. A well-rounded course of action that does require much thought and planning is excellent for you now.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Listen to clever advice that can give you. Stop trying to tell others what to do or they will resent it. Start eliminating what is no longer useful. Why keep your closets so cluttered when others can be helped by what you throw away?

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) If you simply give a word of advice to those who labor at your elbow, you find that the whole morale improves. Stop fretting about the inevitable. Show that you have wisdom.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Instead of grumbling, show gratitude to him for the fine assistance given you. Listen to their keen ideas. That assistant friend is best given the cold shoulder. Time is valuable so why waste it in meaningless talk.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Be on the lookout for higher-ups who have an axe to grind. Do your work efficiently and all's fine. Forget all that expensive fun later. Drop in on friends or relatives who like you. You'll have a better time.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A little different system is necessary if you want to be successful where your personal ambitions are concerned. Some business he could give you a rough time if you argue over that money matter. Plan first, then handle business matters with determination.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have a powerful friend who understands your needs and is willing to help you. Show how much you appreciate such assistance. Avoid those cold, calculating persons who make you feel like a fool. Don't be sad.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Why are you thinking of giving that idea of yours to one who can use it immediately for own good instead of your going ahead with it? You could receive advance as a result of it now. Be smart! Keep your mouth shut.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have to use more modern thinking and methods if you expect any real growth in whatever your career may be. Do so. Being more aware of what is best for you to do in an emotional way is necessary.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Be sure to get those arrangements completed with others on which you have been working for the past two days. This could be an alliance that could change your whole life.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) With all those chores to be done you had better plan your time early. You're sure to get all confused later in the day. Get more cooperation from coworkers. You have plenty of ability.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Make those plans for a trip soon that will gain you your finest aims. Then sit down to some hobby that relaxes you. Why not look up those good friends tonight that you have been neglecting? A few laughs will do you a world of good.

Storms Romp Over Lower Valley Area

By The Associated Press

Thunderstorms romped around in the Lower Rio Grande Valley and it was at least partly cloudy along much of the Texas coast today.

Other parts of the state stayed dry and pleasantly cool. Authorities at Conroe reported meanwhile, the flood waters were subsiding to the south along the San Jacinto River, where overflows chased about 100 families from homes on the stream's east and west forks Wednesday.

The surprise floods washed away a summer house and invaded at least half a dozen subdivisions in Southern Montgomery County and Northern Harris County, rising close to the rooftops in dozens of houses. All persons in the affected areas apparently escaped.

Reporting a funnel cloud whirled through the air two miles north of Harlingen at 2:08 a.m., the Weather Bureau placed parts of two counties under a tornado warning for a couple of hours. It expired without word of any damage.

Thunderstorms lasting into the morning over parts of Cameron, Hidalgo and Willacy Counties. Cool, dry air covered most of Texas in the wake of a front which finished sweeping across the state Wednesday, followed by a high pressure center.

Clear to partly cloudy skies and little or no moisture were predicted for all sections through Friday.

Top temperatures Wednesday afternoon ranged from 78 degrees at Dallas and Palacios up to 96 at El Paso and 100 at Presidio in far West Texas.

Readings near dawn today ran as low as 57 at Dalhart and 59 at Texarkana with most other points showing marks in the 60s to low 70s.

Ranchers Plan Tech Museum

LUBBOCK — More than 30 widely-known ranchers and historians and top officials of Texas Tech have thrown their support behind a move to establish an authentic ranch headquarters on the Tech campus.

The headquarters, with all the allied buildings, will be situated on the site of the proposed new International Center for Arid and Semi-Arid Land Studies and Museum.

In attendance was Lee R. Read of Sterling City.

The entire concept was presented at a Lubbock Country Club luncheon hosted by Tech President Grover E. Murray and members of the Ranch Headquarters Planning committee, including Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Holden, co-chairmen, Lubbock, Frank Chappel Jr., of the Rendonbrook - Spade Ranch.

Holden said that many of the buildings for the headquarters have been located to be moved to the new museum site and "faithfully restored to their original condition."

Abandonment Does Not Reduce Military Stance

By JOHN T. WHEELER

Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — The abandonment of Khe Sanh may be a propaganda setback for the United States, but it does not reduce the American military position significantly.

Khe Sanh is the first major U.S. base in Vietnam to be abandoned because of enemy pressure. During the 77-day winter siege of the base by two North Vietnamese divisions, it became a symbol of American determination to stand fast in Vietnam.

Top U.S. officials in Washington and Saigon said that the base would be defended at all costs. Spokesmen for the U.S. Marines pushed the line "If we leave Khe Sanh, where do we stop? The South China Sea?"

Hanoi can be expected to repeat the American statements on Khe Sanh to bring pressure on the Paris peace talks and to bolster the standing of North Vietnam and the Viet Cong in influential world capitals.

One U.S. Marine officer at Khe Sanh openly criticized the American propaganda during the siege, saying that the vulnerability of the position to North Vietnamese siege guns in Laos ended its usefulness.

The new western anchor of the allied line below the demilitarized zone is at Landing Zone Stud, a supply base with an airstrip 10 miles east of Khe Sanh. This area has been in Marine hands all along, and the base could have taken over Khe Sanh's activities at any time.

Operations against enemy units along the western portion of the DMZ can be launched as easily from Landing Zone Stud as from Khe Sanh.

In announcing its decision to abandon Khe Sanh, the U.S. Command cited not only a big increase in enemy strength and new tactics but also the need to keep U.S. troops mobile. Khe Sanh, in short, tied down too many allied troops for its military value and was a sitting duck for North Vietnamese artillerymen.

Not that life will be simple at Landing Zone Stud. The bulk of the rounds that hit Khe Sanh were rockets and mortars, and these weapons can be moved easily to new mountain positions from which they can hit the new main forward base. But shorter Marine lines of communication should bolster the U.S. position at Stud.

In a conventional war, retreat on a flank would be a serious tactical matter. But in Vietnam the U.S. and South Vietnamese troops make no attempt to seal the frontier, and North Vietnamese units regularly cross along virtually the entire length of the border.

One of the hardest things for the U.S. Command to explain now is if Khe Sanh is unnecessary in June, why was it so vital in January when the siege began.

Senior Marine officers have said that the base was surrounded before the Leathernecks realized what was afoot. Any withdrawal would have meant a fighting retreat through some of the best ambush country in Vietnam. It was reckoned that the siege would be less costly than a fighting withdrawal.

Within The Law, Supports HHH President Reminds

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson says those concerned about the nation's poor people should "make appropriate representations and certainly express their viewpoints, but only within the law."

"I think that everyone in Washington in a position to serve the people of this country are going to do everything they can to aid the poor," the President said during a Wednesday news conference. He had been asked if any good purpose could be served by leaders of the Poor People's Campaign turning to civil disobedience.

On a range of other topics Johnson said he was prepared to act on the bill calling for a $10 billion tax increase and a $6 billion slash in spending as soon as the customary review of government agencies affected is finished, probably in a day or two.

He also said he hopes to get his way with Congress on requiring registration of every gun in America and licensing of all gun owners.

Otherwise the conference produced results pretty much on the negative side, Johnson said.

He knows of no basis for rumors of a U.S.-Soviet summit session or a presidential trip to Russia.

He is unable to evaluate reasons for intensified Communist pressure on West Berlin.

He preferred not to comment on the infiltration and ground situations in Vietnam or on some possible offensive.

Firemen Called

Fire department units were called to Broughton Pipeline and Steel Co. Wednesday afternoon to extinguish a blaze which burned the motor on a crane.

'Arriba' Move Supports HHH

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Tex., says an "Arriba Humphrey" movement is gaining strength among minority groups in supporting the vice president for the presidency.

Gonzalez, from San Antonio, was picked by Humphrey as chairman of the movement.

The organization hopes to do for Humphrey what the Viva Kennedy clubs did for John F. Kennedy. Roughly translated, the name means "Up with Humphrey."

In an interview Wednesday, Gonzalez said he hoped that Humphrey would be in San Antonio to dedicate the Arriba Humphrey headquarters in July.

The San Antonio congressman said the clubs will direct their efforts toward the Spanish-speaking, but not to the exclusion of others interested.

"Some of the landmark legislation of this century has Humphrey's imprints," Gonzalez said.

'I WAS OVERWHELMED' Thornberry Obviously Pleased

By ROBERT HEARD

AUSTIN (AP) — "I was overwhelmed," Justice Homer Thornberry, of the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals said after learning he was president's choice for the Supreme Court.

Thornberry alternately smiled and looked serious as he spoke of the appointment.

He is a longtime friend of President Johnson and for nearly eight terms held the old seat in Congress that Johnson occupied before moving over to the Senate.

He said Johnson telephoned him Tuesday night and "said he was thinking about it."

Thornberry said Johnson called him about 9 a.m. and said: "Homer, I'm sending in your name."

"I'll be grateful to you and I hope I can deserve this confidence," Thornberry told Johnson.

Thornberry has 4½ years judicial experience. He was

U.S. district judge for Western Texas at El Paso from December, 1963, to July, 1965, when he was named to the circuit court in New Orleans.

Asked if he thought he might get the appointment after he heard the first reports that Chief Justice Earl Warren was retiring, Thornberry said:

"Just to be honest about it, I thought I might be considered, but I didn't think about it."

He said he talked to no one about it except his wife.

Thornberry said he does not classify himself as a liberal or conservative.

"I think a judge has to look at the law as it is and should be, and does what he thinks right," he said.

Thornberry is a slightly portly man with wavy white hair. He has a round, cherubic face with a ready smile. He said he has no hobbies except that he likes to fish once in a while.

The Thornberrys have three children, all attending the University of Texas. Molly, 22, David, 19, and Kate, 17.

In a prepared statement, Thornberry said:

"The President has called me to say that he has nominated me for the Supreme Court of the United States. No greater honor could come to a citizen and lawyer of this nation."

"My family and I are grateful," Thornberry's statement said.

"If the Senate of the United States consents to my appointment, I will be presented with a serious challenge and a grave responsibility and I will do my best to justify the confidence shown in me."

Mrs. Thornberry said she was grateful to "that dear man," President Johnson.

She said she was proud of her husband, "as any wife would be if that works out, it's one of the greatest honors a man can have."

The appointment of Judge not only to this distinguished American Bank and commissioner, but to the entire State of Texas," Gov. John Connally said.

"I've known Homer Thornberry ever since he was a deputy sheriff, deputy county school superintendent in this well qualified. He possesses all the necessary qualifications for executive director of the Inter-the job."

Johnson, Thornberry

Started Out Together

WASHINGTON (AP) — When the two young Texas boys met more than 45 years ago, there was nothing in the backgrounds of either Lyndon Johnson or Homer Thornberry to indicate they would achieve more than moderate success.

Yet on Wednesday, President Lyndon Johnson nominated Homer Thornberry, the only child of deaf mutes, to be an associate justice of the U.S. Supreme Court.

Thornberry will take the place on the court held by Abe Fortas, whom the President nominated to succeed Earl Warren as chief justice.

When the two met, Thornberry was a page in the Texas Legislature, while Johnson was around the State House because his father was a legislator.

Both men were of modest background—Thornberry's parents taught at a school for the deaf—and their careers remained closely related as they moved toward political success.

Born 59 years ago, Thornberry made his life politics. Immediately after graduating law school at the age of 27, he was elected to the Texas Legislature. He also served on the Austin, Tex., City Council and when Johnson left the U.S. House of Representatives in 1948 to go to the Senate, Thornberry won the House seat.

Thornberry, a man of medium height and white wavy hair, remained in Congress until 1963 when, through the efforts of the then Vice President Johnson, he was appointed a federal district judge.

In 1965, Johnson appointed his old friend to the Circuit Court of Appeals. The swearing-in ceremony took place at the President's ranch at Johnson City.

Thornberry was considered a liberal in Congress. While he declines to classify his leanings as a judge, many think he will join the generally liberal justices on the Supreme Court, which includes Abe Fortas, William O. Douglas, Hugo L. Black, William J. Brennan Jr., and sometimes Potter Stewart.

Thornberry was married in 1945 to Eloise Engle. They have three children, and true to their Texas heritage they all attend the University of Texas, where their father graduated with a B.A. and L.L.B. degrees.

Thornberry worked his way through the University of Texas as a gun-toting chief deputy sheriff.

If nothing else, his membership in the "immortal 56" bloc which stopped a state sales tax in the 1930s when he was a member of the Texas Legislature put that label on him. Opposition to a sales tax is considered a liberal stand in the state.

And the liberal designation stayed with him among political observers when he was ranking member of the powerful House Rules Committee. He was in the House 15 years.

Johnson, then vice president, said of the stockily built Thornberry when the representative was nominated as a federal district judge:

"No man has ever had a brother who was more faithful to me or to the people of the 10th District than Homer Thornberry."

Thornberry was born in Austin. Moving into politics came easily. He is a strong Democrat and was a protégé of such men as the late Speaker Sam Rayburn.

He obtained his law degree from the University of Texas while holding down successive jobs as legislative page, newspaper salesman, deputy sheriff and assistant county school superintendent.

Thornberry was a Navy intelligence officer in World War II and returned to Austin to practice law and become mayor pro tem of the city.

He served in the legislature and spent two terms as district attorney here.

He went to Congress in 1948 and from there his career skyrocketed.

They Didn't Get Anything Right!

CANAAN, Vt. (AP) — A 17-year-old girl in this town on the Canadian border received a federal income tax refund check for $3,378.36.

That was pretty good, but the recipient, Denise Duranleau, had not done any taxable work during 1967 and had not filed a return.

The check was from the Internal Revenue Service's district office in Andover, Mass.

Miss Duranleau, who was graduated from Canaan Memorial High School this month, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Romeo Duranleau, reported the error.

A Devotional For The Day

There hath no temptation taken you but such as is common to man: but God is faithful, who will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able; but will with the temptation also make a way to escape, that ye may be able to bear it. (I Corinthians 10:13)

PRAYER: We thank You, Lord, for the guidance You offer us daily. We thank You for Your help that keeps us from falling victim to temptations. Continue to give us wisdom to recognize temptations and power to resist them. Amen.

(From the 'Upper Room')

Delay Is A Small Thing

Unlike in the Texas Legislature, where appropriations are highly uncertain until conference committee compromises, final congressional appropriations are usually close to what the House Appropriations Committee approves in the initial action on money bills.

This year the committee is hard-pressed to cut fiscal 1969 spending by $6 billion as Congress' price for approving the President's long-urged anti-inflation war tax bill. As President Johnson is insisting that non-

Vietnam military spending and deferrable public works take the brunt of that economizing, rather than the antipoverty and urban and welfare programs needed to quell big-city unrest, it looks like many congressional districts may have to forego some needed but not immediately essential projects.

None can really fault this, for when we consider how much our men are giving up for their tours of duty and in putting their lives on the line in Vietnam, delay on local or provincial projects seems a small thing.

Problem With No Solution Yet

Texas Attorney General Crawford Martin unfortunately was right in suggesting that the U.S. Supreme Court had no practical choice, under current conditions, but to condone repetitious jailing of chronic alcoholics for public drunkenness. Tragically, as Associate Justice Thurgood Marshall's majority opinion indicated, society has yet to provide any safe alternative.

The problem will not go away, however, and neither jailing nor liquor control will solve it. But society must solve it, as it is a multi-billion-dollar economic drain, an immeasurable human resources loss, that is growing alarmingly.

Much good can and has been done by Alcoholics Anonymous, councils on alcoholism, welfare agencies, and others mainly engaged in arresting alcoholism in individuals, primarily through persuasive abstinence, and gaining public recognition that it is a "disease" and not a crime or willful moral offense. Much more can be done, as indicated in a news conference at the Midwest Institute of Alcohol Studies at Northwestern University in response to the Supreme Court decision report, by providing community facilities other than jails for the handling of chronic cases.

However, the basic problem is that the causes and cures of alcoholism are not yet known; medical research on the "disease"—differing in symptoms and treatment response in individuals, and probably in fundamental types—is inadequate and inconclusive. Psychological alcoholism, or problem—drinking not new-considered true alcoholism, can be cured by psychiatric treatment. But physiological alcoholism remains a mystery, responding only temporarily to medical treatments and so far only arrestable by total abstinence.

However, research is at last attacking this medical mystery on a broadening scale, in the U.S. Public Health Service's National Institutes of Health, in universities such as Yale, Northwestern, Iowa and Duke, in private research institutes, in drug industry laboratories, and in the independent research of individual professionals. Here lies a great hope, and it is worth whatever it might cost.

David Lawrence Weary Of Demonstrations

WASHINGTON — The eyes of the world have been turned during the last few weeks on the capital of the nation which boasts of its orderly processes of freedom and democracy. For the spectacle has been one of willful groups of exhibitionists seeking to coerce Congress and the executive departments through the tactics of a "demonstration," whose leaders preach "non-violence" but provoke disorder.

Nearly five years have elapsed since the first "march on Washington," and what was unhappily foreseen then has since occurred. On Aug. 29, 1963, this correspondent wrote:

"THE MARCH on Washington" will go down in history as marking a day of public disgrace — a step backward in the evolution of the American system of government. For the image of the United States presented to the world is that of a republic which had professed to believe in voluntarism rather than coercion, but which on August 28, 1963, permitted itself to be portrayed as unable to legislate equal rights for its citizens except under the intimidating influence of mass demonstrations.

"THE PRESS, television and radio, the public forums in halls and stadiums — all have been available heretofore as mediums through which the 'right of petition' could be effectively expressed and public opinion formed on controversial questions. But a minority group — led by men who drew to their side church leaders and groups as well as civic organizations —decided that a massive publicity stunt would be a better way to impress Congress and the President with the idea that unemployment and racial discrimination can be legislated out of existence.

"THE RIGHT of petition is a fundamental principle of the Constitution, but it assumes an orderly and non-provocative procedure. The federal government had to go to large expense to police the demonstration here and to keep people from crowding into the city who might participate in disorders.

"To say that the 'march' was successful because large-scale violence was avoided is to ignore the bitterness and resentment prevalent on that day in a city whose normal community life was disrupted. Tens of thousands of people remained secluded in their homes lest they become injured or subjected to unwarranted delays in moving to and from their residences. American citizens were prevented from pursuing their customary ways. Their right to go to their places of employment was impaired by fear of bodily injury.

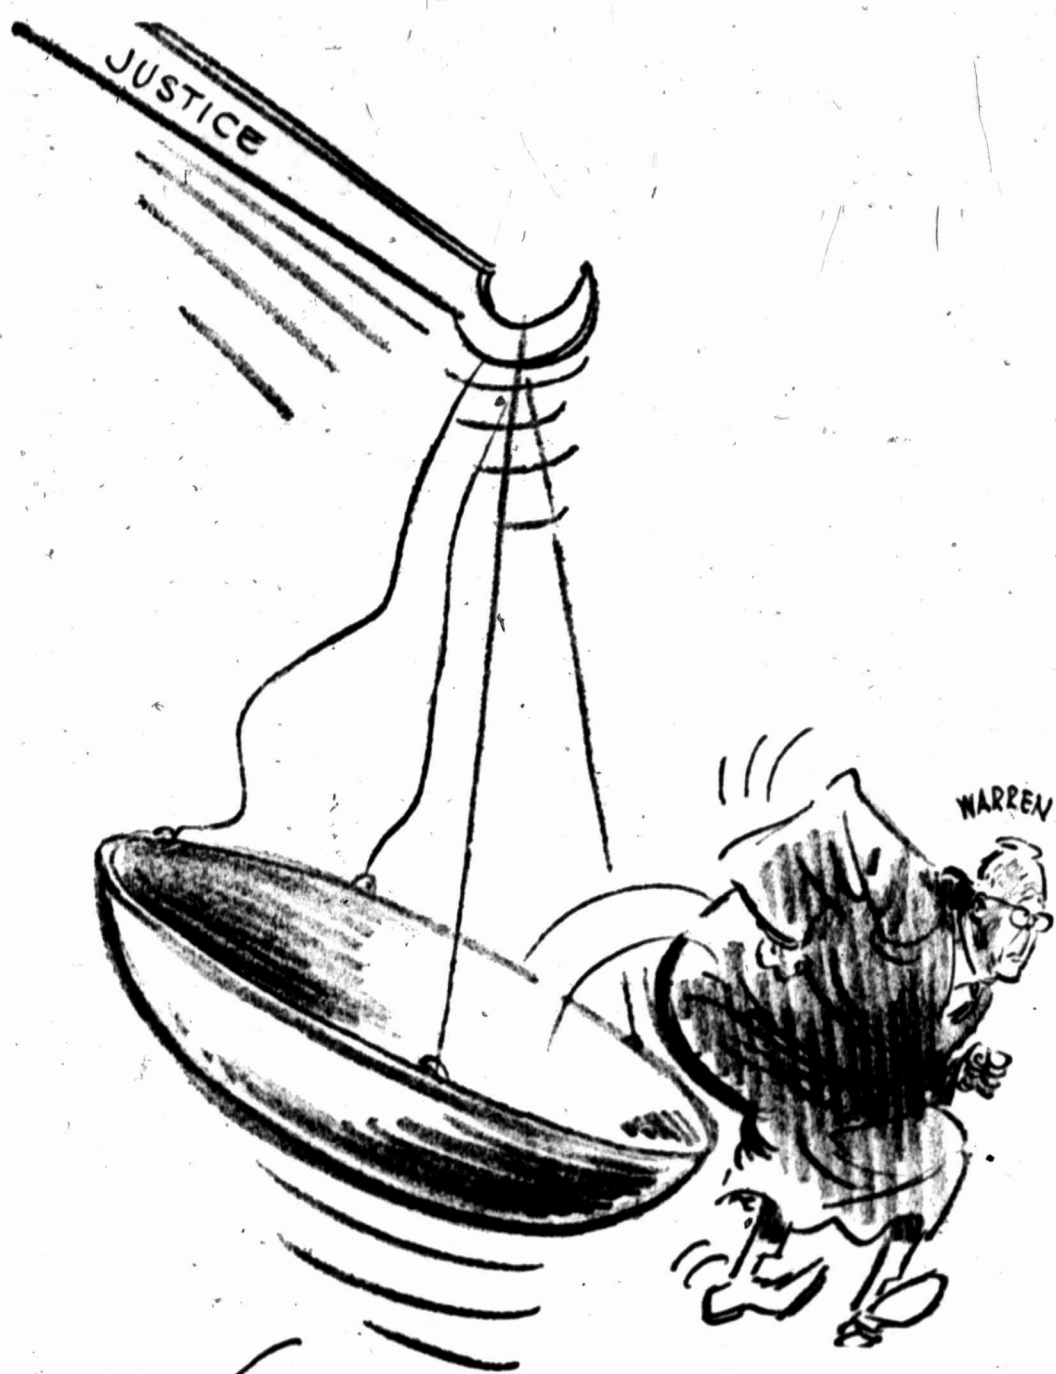

"WOULD THIS have happened if the petitioners had relied on the process of reason in a voluntary society? Are injustices remedied by creating more injustices, and is the cause of civil rights advanced by interfering with the civil rights of non-participants in the mass demonstrations?

"These are questions which will need answering, and the full effect of what may come to be called 'the mess in Washington' could be reflected in future elections. For what was proved by the big demonstration — that in free America only the mob can get laws passed covering the issue of civil rights?"

FINALLY, this week, when leaders of the "poor people's crusade" openly defied governmental authority, political politeness was at last brushed aside, and law and order was unhesitatingly imposed. It is a healthful and constructive sign that the people do lose their patience when protesters — no matter how just the cause — do not proceed in a lawful and orderly manner to petition their government for the redress of grievances.

MAYBE THERE will be more "demonstrations," but little by little long-suffering officials are getting tired of artificially developed mass protests. It is significant that D. C. Mayor Walter Washington, himself a Negro, took part in the ending of the "fiasco of 'Resurrection City,'" as 356 of the squatters — including the Rev. Ralph Abernathy, successor to the late Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. — were arrested. Thus was the maintenance of law and order resumed in the capital of the nation.

MAYBE THE SCALES WILL BALANCE AGAIN

John Cuniff It's A New Game

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market has been so frantically shuffling paper the past few months that there has been a tendency to overlook some fundamental changes that could affect prices.

Most recent of them: the Federal Reserve Board action in raising margin requirements from 70 per cent to 80 per cent; the prospect of sharply lower government spending; and, of course, the passing of a tax in crease measure.

WHAT THIS ADDS up to, in the opinion of many securities analysts whose most recent literary works were examined, is both a more stable economy, and a less volatile stock market. In other words, a new game.

As some of these analysts view the future—and their telescopes sometimes find imaginary objects—the good old blue chips that rise or fall with the economy and which pay solid dividends are now going to attract more interest.

This would be quite a change, as anybody can tell you who has held the price-stagnant shares of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. Such blue chips have lagged well behind the newer, smaller, more glamorous stocks.

FOR EXAMPLE, while AT&T has held at a few points on either side of $50 for many months now, dozens of glamor stocks have risen 50 to 100 per cent and even more. And, of course, some untested new issues have been scorching hot.

Some of these price rises have occurred, it is suspected, because of the inflationary psychology that infused many traders with the attitude that the only way to keep out of the inflation flames was to rocket ahead on a hot stock.

Reflecting this, the market has been volatile, wildly active, a traders' market, a market in which the quick gain rather than the long-term investment was sought.

NOW THAT THERE is at least some prospect that inflation will be cooled a bit, the ardor of the in-out traders might be chilled also.

A feeling also exists among stock analysts that some of the companies that have looked good during the past six or seven years of economic boom now might be squeezed the hardest in any upcoming contraction or disinflation.

Hal Boyle One Of Life's Ordeals

NEW YORK (AP) — One of life's little ordeals is to become bald.

Some 40 per cent of men are afflicted to a greater or lesser degree with hereditary early baldness.

The first warning often comes from an offhand remark by a barber: "Getting a bit thin on top, sir. I'd do something about it if I were you."

THE SECOND worst thing is to see so many dull young hippie-type men going around with such long tresses of hair dangling from their heads it's no wonder their brains are heated to a boil.

But envy never helped anybody, and it is of no help to a baldy. He must find other solaces, and they are available.

For example, he might learn to take pride in his condition. After all, many modern savants predict the whole human race will be bald in a few centuries. The baldy is merely ahead of the pack.

Also, baldness saves a man time, money and makes him look crisper and neater. Doesn't a cueball look tidier than a hair-bald?

THE ORDEAL of baldness could be lessened in other respects if society itself would show a bit more kindness.

Let's stop kidding bald men. Another constructive step would be to start a campaign to get Congress to have the bald eagle replaced by the bald man as our national symbol.

This makes real sense. The bald eagle is slowly dying out, but there are millions of new bald men every year. Nothing is more symbolic of America today than baldness.

To Your Good Health Symptoms Like Those Of Heart Attack

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: Please write about pancreatitis. I had severe pains and went into the emergency department at the hospital, thinking I had a heart attack.

After tests I was told it was a pancreas attack. After five months I am still weak and tired and still have a lot of back pain. I am on a strict diet.

What causes an attack and how can I prevent another? I do not drink alcohol.—W.K.L.

It is quite understandable that you would suspect a heart attack. The pain is in the upper abdomen. Of varying severity, it radiates to the back and left of center.

An electrocardiogram is important, immediately, to rule out an actual heart attack. Then chemical tests are used to identify the trouble in the pancreas more exactly.

The pancreas, which is an organ about five inches long, serves two main purposes. One is to produce insulin, which goes into the blood stream. The other is to produce a variety of enzymes which are important in digestion and go through a duct into the intestine. It is this latter which is involved in attacks of pancreatitis.

While excessive alcohol is a common cause of pancreatitis, it is by no means the only one. Gall bladder disease, whether infection or stones, also is an important cause of pancreatitis. Or the duct from the pancreas to intestine may be obstructed by stones, swelling, infection, or other means.

In any event, removal of the gall bladder, if it is diseased, usually ends recurrent attacks of pancreatitis. In other cases of relapsing pancreatitis, the cause very often is traced to excessive alcohol or meals which are unduly high in fat.

In a good many cases which (from your description) are like yours, prevention of further attacks is best encouraged by proper diet (low in fat and smaller meals) and judicious use of medication to reduce the activity of the pancreas. Some physicians think the amount of coffee should be curtailed.

There are more severe types of pancreatitis involving cysts, abscesses, or tumors, in which cases surgery may be required.

What causes "balance" trouble? What can be done to correct or overcome it? Dr. Molner's new booklet, "Dizzy Spells," discusses loss of balance, vertigo and nausea. Meniere's disease and labyrinthitis. For a copy of the booklet write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald enclosing 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim Many Sided Question

Having no strong feelings one way or another on the proposed strict gun legislation, I nonetheless feel that many of those voting the loudest cries may be missing a point or two. Because at least three nationally known personalities were killed by guns, stronger controls of the weapons are being demanded.

LOOKING AT it from another way, those guns were operated by someone, and if current accusations are correct, they might be summed up as an alien; a convicted criminal; and a former, if not active, Communist. All three, if the news reports are accurate, might be described as misfits, at least in our society.

One tried unsuccessfully to live in a Communist country, but returned to work for extremist causes. Another has reported strong nationalist feelings for his fatherland, where violent action is often the way of doing things. The third has lived, more or less, what the TV shows call "a life of crime." In addition, there has been some veiled hints of "plots."

IT WOULD seem that a case, similar to that being mounted against guns, could be brought for stricter controls of criminals, aliens, and suspected Communists. Surely, guns are easier to pass laws against, as they have no inherent rights. But law or none, I suspect they will be most difficult to enforce.

Criminals, aliens, and commies, on the other hand, might be easier to keep track of, and some question might be raised to just what rights they have, or should have, as none of them are considered patriotic citizens.

OTHER THAN direct confiscation, it probably will be impossible to keep guns out of the hands of the determined assassin. I suspect it will be easier to keep tabs on the assassin-prone. Few of the laws now under consideration, or given any serious hope of passage, would insure that the three men already accused could have been prevented from their appointed course.

NONE OF THIS is to say that some form of registration of firearms is not in order. My own blunderbuss, held over from a rabbit-hunting fever of some years ago, may no longer be considered a serious weapon, but I have no fear of registering it. Indeed, I see no reason why any gun-owner should protest declaring his ownership. It seems a reasonable requirement for something that can be deadly.

THERE APPEARS many and varied sides to this question, not all of them being given due consideration. In our frantic haste to do something, we may do too little or perhaps the wrong thing. Hopefully, the Congress will give careful thought to an adequate policy, without undue pressure from the irate spokesmen of the opposing side. The heat of controversy is not necessarily the best time for a patient search for the best path, but it appears to be the only game in town. — V. GLENN COOTES

Art Buchwald Do Away With Automobile Controls

WASHINGTON —The Committee to Abolish the Registration of Automobiles and the Licensing of Drivers has just opened up a lobby in Washington and I was happy to visit with Roger Crash, their spokesman.

Mr. Crash said, "We have formed this organization because the constitutional rights of all automobile drivers are at stake. There is no reason why anybody should not be allowed to own and drive an automobile in this country without his rights being infringed by local, state and federal authorities."

"Obviously you're against registration of vehicles, then?"

"WE CERTAINLY ARE. Most people who drive should not be inconvenienced by some bureaucrat who wants to know what they intend to use a car for. There is a conspiracy in this country to get everyone to register their automobiles, so they eventually can be taken away from them."

"Who is behind the conspiracy?"

"THE COMMUNISTS. They know that America would collapse overnight if their automobiles were confiscated. This country is going through a hysterical period right now. They blame all the automobile deaths and accidents on the drivers. But you're not going to prevent accidents by asking people to register their vehicles. If somebody wants a car to kill somebody, he'll find it, no matter how many laws you have."

"You're also against a driver's test, aren't you?"

"WE CERTAINLY ARE. Why should you penalize the law-abiding average driver by making him take a driver's test, just to catch a few nuts who are outside the law?"

"By asking someone to take a driver's test, you are subjecting him to indignity and guilt by association. You cannot punish the car-loving citizen who only uses his automobile for pleasure, in order to prevent accidents caused by lawless elements of our society."

"Is your society for doing away with traffic laws as well?"

"WE ARE AGAINST what would inconvenience a driver in any way. People must be free to do what they want with their automobiles. Our economy depends on motor vehicles. Every time you pass a traffic law you discourage someone from buying a car. Traffic laws do not prevent accidents; people prevent accidents."

"How do you propose to repeal the registration and driving test laws that are now on the books?"

"BY LAUNCHING a mammoth letter campaign. We're going to ask everyone who owns a car to write his congressman and senator demanding the repeal of all laws having to do with motor vehicles. This is an election year, and I assure you, our legislators are paying attention to their mail."

"I must admit you make a strong case against automobile controls. Do you think you have a chance?"

Mr. Crash replied, "There is now a big hue and cry about automobile accidents in this country, but it will die down soon. And then our lobby will really be able to go into action. We're tax-free, you know."

Holmes Alexander Somebody Like Symington

WASHINGTON — Among the what-might-have-beens in American history is one that still might be. I went by appointment to Bob Kennedy's Ambassador Hotel suite on the Sunday night in 1960 before the Democratic Convention opened in Los Angeles. I knew that John Kennedy had the presidential nomination wrapped up, and I knew that "the Kennedys" would be choosing their running mate.

"We're trying to get Stuart Symington," Bob Kennedy volunteered.

THE MEMORY is open-ended, past and future. It told me that Symington of Missouri, not Lyndon Johnson, was the Kennedys' first choice at that late hour. It says to me today that had Symington been willing, he could have had the vice presidential nomination. He would have added as much strength, and more, to the Democratic ticket. Had it happened, President Kennedy's need to go to Texas in November, 1963, would not have existed.

ONE MIGHT speculate on the inevitability of Fate, or that Lee Harvey Oswald would still have bought and fired the mail-order rifle — or that some other assassin, or an air crash, or an illness, might have ended JFK's life on the very same date. But Symington came as close as I have described to becoming a national nominee. That much is fact. He was disappointed that his own efforts had not succeeded, and he did not choose to stoop to second place.

The memory has a frontlash, too, because there is no gainsaying today that neither the Democrats or Republicans have got a presidential candidate worthy of the hour. And Symington is still very much around.

HE REMAINS every bit of what the Kennedys thought him in 1960. He was, and is, an immensely respected personality, demonstrably capable in business and politics, a proven executive and legislator, acceptable across the broad central sweep of both parties. He was — he is — a patrician of Southern blood, gifted with enough of the common touch to have amiable relationships among the lords and plebeians of the Labor movement with whom he has often bargained.

Symington couldn't have failed the 1960 Democratic ticket. I don't see how he could have failed (he never has) to make good if he'd accidentally become President. He's as good a man today, probably better through added experience. The need for him is greater and, I think, manifest.

THIS AWARENESS overwhelmed me the other day without premeditation or connivance. I hadn't thought of Symington as being in the presidential picture, and hadn't talked with him for months. But I was in the gallery when he entered a debate on opening a "soft loan window" in Export-Import Bank. Not a lowering issue, one might say, but Symington has a trait — the perception of wholeness. It allows him to see and express what Galsworthy called "the spirit of meaning" atop every national question.

THE MATTER of "soft loans" by an international bank irked Symington. It connoted "booniness of policy" all along the line — financial, diplomatic, military. It connoted slackness, expediency, gutless compromise, sloppy thinking, lack of discipline. His impatient gestures in that brief debate were those of a man annoyed that the argumentative atmosphere of the Senate chamber was full of gnats in an age when it should be swarming with eagles.

I was wondering — what's wrong with the system that doesn't summon somebody like Symington. (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

AS WE RUN OUT OF DRIVING ROOM

Bus May Be Coming Back

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal officials are saying privately they believe the nation's largest cities soon will have to place harsh restrictions on when and where people can drive.

Some officials suggest that entire sections of central cities will have to be placed off limits to motor vehicles. The reason: traffic congestion is threatening to choke the remaining life out of the already sick cities.

Secretary of Transportation Alan S. Boyd put it this way in an interview.

NOT ENOUGH

"There isn't enough money in the United States (to build a street and highway system) to allow everybody to go everywhere they want to at any time of the day" in and around the big urban areas.

Secretary Robert C. Weaver of the Department of Housing and Urban Development—HUD—points out, however, that to question the freedom of every American to drive anywhere he wants "is politically dangerous, since each car owner—and they are legion—has already decided the answer."

But many officials questioned in a series of interviews said they believe the issue will have to be faced. And soon.

For despite new efforts by government and industry, they say, the gloomy prognosis is this: urban traffic congestion will get even worse for at least the next several years.

The government, which helped bring the country to its present heavy reliance on automobiles through the federal aid highway program, now is trying to reverse the trend. It has been pouring money into existing transit systems to improve and modernize them. And it has begun cranking up a research program to find new ways of moving people and goods around urban areas.

REVIVE

The aim is to develop and revive public transportation—mainly buses and trains—as a greater alternative to travel by car.

Boyd, whose agency is the first ever to be given overall responsibility for the transportation needs of the country, has suggested a number of changes the cities might make to relieve the horrors of congestion. One is that each city or urban area regulate that parking rates be set to go up rather than down for each additional hour.

Boyd stresses that his department has no intention of dictating solutions. For the next few years, he says, "We'll be trying to find out what kind of a system of transportation people want."

But much of the hope for relieving urban congestion has come to rest with alternatives to the motor car. Of those that are known, the most discussed is rail rapid transit: subway, elevated or ground-level.

Department of Transportation officials maintain that rail transit has been oversold, however. They point out that only about 15 of the nation's largest cities have the population density to make such a fixed-route system feasible. And six already have it in some form. They are New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, Cleveland and Newark, N.J.

RAIL

But officials of HUD, which administers a new program of aid for urban mass transit, argue that more and better rail systems will go far to alleviate congestion where it is worst—in the largest cities.

Charles M. Haar, HUD's assistant secretary for metropolitan development, contends that "rail systems have been under-sold. If anything, the 14 or 15 cities were talking about making up something like 30 per cent of the population of the country."

Whatever the solutions, federal officials believe development of new and better means of transportation is critical to revival of the decaying cities. And they are deeply aware that they are in a race with the continuing flood of people to urban areas.

Most promising of the here-and-now idea is making better use of the ordinary bus. Researchers are trying to find ways of making the bus quieter, smoother, more attractive and more comfortable.

The biggest problem, officials say, is getting people to leave their cars for a bus.

EXPERIMENT

In the one controlled new bus experiment to date, commuters in Peoria, Ill., took well to the idea. But they had to be lured aboard the buses with such services as front-door pickup, hot coffee served by attractive hostesses, monthly passes ($6 to $10) home billing, guaranteed seating, paid taxicab service in case of a bus breakdown.

Boyd, who says there is a "slow as molasses approach to new forms of (urban) transportation," has been urging cities to set aside one lane on freeways for exclusive use of buses. Explaining the idea, yet to be tried by any city, Boyd says:

"Suppose you could buy the morning paper and get a cup of coffee on a bus that passed directly to a reserved lane on a freeway and nonstop to the city? Would you leave the car at home?"

"We don't know the answer," he confesses.

Though it sounds simple, the plan becomes complex because of the need to sell commuters in advance on the idea. Unless quite a few buses are using the reserved lane from the start, people jammed in cars bumper to bumper in the other lanes simply won't stand for it.

But the potential for traffic relief is tremendous. Buses traveling at 35 to 40 miles per hour could carry 25,000 to 30,000 people an hour in one lane, compared to 3,000 people in cars in the same lane.

REVITALIZE

To develop new systems and revitalize old ones, HUD has spent a third of a billion dollars in the last three years.

So far, the federal effort has failed to halt the decline in urban transit passengers, from 19 billion in 1946 to less than seven billion in 1966, even though the urban population has been soaring.

And HUD officials say it's going to take a lot more money—most of it local but more federal, too—to reverse the trend.

While HUD-supported research has produced no single, spectacular solution, officials say a number of projects show promise.

These include:

—A gasoline and electric-powered minicar, developed by General Motors and the University of Pennsylvania, half the length of the average car. It would seat three, and have a top speed of 60 miles per hour, cut down needed parking space by three to four times and give off only one-tenth the air pollution.

—Dual-mode automobiles. The small, battery-powered vehicles would travel both on regular streets and on rail guideways to and from downtown. Equipped with steel flange wheels in addition to rubber tires, the cars would draw electric power from the guideways and travel in trains as close as one foot and at speeds around 40 m.p.h. The concept could be demonstrated in a few years.

SKYBUS

—Westinghouse's Skybus project near Pittsburgh. The computer-controlled, minitrain-like affair with rubber wheels runs on an elevated concrete guideway. Federal officials say the system may prove useful for medium-density cities which cannot support costly rail transit systems.

For the throbbing center of the problem—downtown—federal officials have their eyes on such systems as conveyor belts, minitrains and minibuses, monorails, overhead sidewalks and even moving sidewalks.

Wanted Man Called Outlaw

HENDERSONVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Edward Thompson Jr., a Negro, was proclaimed an outlaw Tuesday, thereby authorizing any citizen to arrest him, and if he resists, to slay him with impunity.

The Leaksville Negro, 37, is charged in three kidnap cases, two involving rape, armed robbery and larceny of an automobile.

The outlaw proclamation urges Thompson to surrender to any sheriff at once.

Iredell County Sheriff LeRoy Reavis reported Tuesday that an intensive search by men from his office, the State Highway Patrol and the State Bureau of Investigation had turned up no clues.

Thompson has been identified by alleged victims as the man who twice raped a Mooreville girl, 14, whom he abducted along with her boy friend Sunday night.

He had previously been charged in a similar case a week earlier involving a young Hendersonville couple.

He has been charged also with kidnapping a Hendersonville doctor and his wife.

School Official Changes Positions

FLUVANNA, Tex. (AP)—W. S. Talley, former superintendent of schools at New Home in Lynn County, has become superintendent of schools in this Scurry County town. He replaces L. M. Dawson, who resigned after 13 years.

STUDENT POWER BECAME A SOCIAL FORCE

Turbulent Times On Berkeley Campus

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Sue Werbe, a pert and perky brunette, from Detroit, was one of 4,000 seniors graduating June 15 from the University of California at Berkeley.

Sue and her fellow students came through four turbulent years at the huge campus—years which shook the foundations of the nation's academic world, years which made "involvement" a byword in the halls of learning and "student power" a new social force.

SIT-IN

They were freshmen in 1964 when an all-night sit-in of the Berkeley administration building set a pattern followed most recently on a large scale at Columbia University.

Four years ago all available police vans, working in relays, carted off to jail more than 700 students protesting discipline procedures at UC.

Today the freshmen of that time—a birth era for college activism—are graduating into a world of turmoil.

Only a few days away from graduation Sue and four of her fellow seniors looked back over their four years at Berkeley, and what the experience has meant to them.

"Initially I wasn't involved," said soft-spoken 21-year-old Miss Werbe, managing editor of the campus newspaper.

"I attended the rallies but I really didn't feel a part of them. Not until the morning when they were arrested, a continuation of the arrests during the night."

"I walked down the campus and I had to go a different path because there was a police line. I had never come across police before. There were highway patrolmen, two abreast, going down along the plaza and completely guarding Sproul Hall. I didn't know exactly what to do next. So I went to my class."

ACTIVIST

"I had an activist teaching assistant in history. I went into the section and on the table was a note saying, 'If you come here you shouldn't be here. You should be on the picket line.' I just looked at the policemen and I just looked at the kids being carried out."

"And I went and joined a picket line. From then on I felt I was involved."

All this started on a small plot of ground called the Bancroft Strip, named after the street separating the city of Berkeley from the university's 1,200-acre campus.

There was a long-standing rule against talking politics and collecting funds on campus. But it wasn't enforced. The action on the strip was so interesting that tourist buses stopped there.

In October, 1964, suddenly, the rule was enforced. A non-student was arrested for collecting funds to help register Negro voters in the South. A protesting crowd surrounded and stalled a campus police car. Student Mario Savio climbed on top and sparked the Free Speech Movement.

The administration dickered with the rebels. The arrested man was released. Freedom to advocate and collect was allowed. But seven of the demonstrators were ordered disciplined. Emotions erupted. In December, more than 700 protesters staged a day-and-night sit-in at Sproul Hall, the administration building.

Police and highway patrolmen broke it up, carrying many bodily out of the building. Campus activism was in full cry.

Life for Berkeley's 4,186 freshmen of 1964 would never be the same.

"When this first came up, I just said that's the way it happens at Berkeley," explained sandy-haired, handsome Robert A. Crittenden of San Diego, a varsity football star for three years and co-captain of last season's Golden Bears.

"I just kept my nose out of it. But I found as it went along the interest in the campus just became very highly strung and everything just became focused on this one thing. By the end of November, I was for it and I was sympathizing with it."

CONSERVATIVE

"I was very conservative when I came here," said bearded Ken Stahl, 21, of Jamaica, N.Y., vice president of the Associated Students of the University of California.

"My parents were very conservative. But it was sort of fun to go by and watch the kids, even though I disagreed with most of them. When the administration came out with this ruling, at first I went along with them. I figured it was their university."

"As the tension grew and they had the first picket down in the plaza, I remember debating the whole question out with my roommates—two of them were first-year graduate students from Brown University. And we went through the whole thing and just decided one night the university was wrong. From then on, I pretty much went through all the efforts and demonstrations. And I got more radical as it went along."

CHANGED

"It changed my political outlook tremendously because it seems very clear that the radicals were the ones who were for freedom and individual rights and the conservatives were against it."

Deeply concerned Jay N. Miller of Palm Springs, Calif., a 21-year-old political science major who plans to become a rabbi, recalled:

"I was interested in civil rights because that was the main issue at the time. I wanted to be a part of the civil rights movement in my own way."

"That way was not to sit down and demonstrate."

"I think that such things as the Free Speech Movement can't possibly be considered advantageous, but also I'm sure that it wasn't inevitable," Miller contemplated.

"I know it didn't help the campus. I know it didn't help the image. I know I didn't get to study very much that quarter. But I also know that the policies by the administration that the FSM was opposed to were wrong and if that was the only alternative—and I'm not so sure it wasn't—then that is what had to be done."

Pretty and shy Elga Jakabsons, of Richmond, Calif., a straight grade A student who majored in physics and chemistry, was just one of thousands at Berkeley too busy to become very involved.

ISSUE

"I don't think the issue was really free speech at all. I mean that might have been a minor point. But I think it was more that the students wanted to be heard. And they realized that perhaps the only way they would be heard was to go to Sproul Hall, 700 of them, and sit there."

The campus scene at that time took on a bizarre atmosphere.

A long line of card tables stretched out along Sproul Hall Plaza. Sexual freedom was advocated. Signs were taken for political followings ranging from the far left to the far right. Peace Corpsmen were recruited—right next to a table for resistance to the draft.

Scarcely a noon passed without a rally on the Sproul Hall steps.

The curious passer-by would ask, "Could anyone possibly get an education here?"

Miller, who has found time during his studies to devise and help establish a better orientation program for freshmen, said: "If you consider your education to be what you learned in the classroom, then you're crazy and you're not getting what Berkeley is all about. And that's the main thing of a large campus. Your educational experience includes everything you take part in for the four years, whether it's back home or here or anything else."

PERSISTED

Activism persisted. Demonstrations continued. They turned against the draft and the Vietnam war.

Critics blamed a noisy minority. As recent as last April, two professors filed a report saying the activists had ulterior motives, not the good of the university.

Psychology Prof. Alex Sheriffs, later to join the staff of Gov. Ronald Reagan, a sharp critic of the campus demonstrations, said most of the students were of "the silent generation," unwilling to become involved.

President Clark Kerr, later fired by Reagan and other regents for his handling of campus problems, was among those who said Communists took part in the campus strife.

"There really was a silent generation," conceded Crittenden, who is going to Oxford for graduate study of underdeveloped countries and international relations.

"It was part of it. And I think that even now there's a large percentage of the students."

"But I'd say it's getting smaller every day. I think this vocal minority at the time caused this sleeping majority to wake up. It's caused me to wake up. A lot of my friends that you would say are utterly conservative are now forced into thinking very politically."

COMMIES

"I don't think anybody can say that Communists aren't going to be in a thing for Communist ideas," he added.

"But the Communists would have nothing to step into if there wasn't a problem there already."

"Initially, in the fall of '64, it was maybe 10 people on the steering committee who were willing to speak out and commit themselves," said Miss Werbe.

"Then it grew to 756 people who were willing to sit in and go to jail over a very important issue. I think what's happened after that is the new people that have come into the university have read about the free speech movement and wanted to become involved. And that number has grown."

"There were obviously Communists," Stahl conceded, "and there are obviously subversives around but people don't pay any attention to them unless there's a genuine grievance."

In turmoil, the 4,186 freshmen of 1964-65 began their collegiate career.

They were sophomores during the anti-draft troubles of 1965-66.

They were juniors during a tug-of-war between Reagan and the regents over tuition, over budget cuts that university administrators say threaten admission denials for the first time in history, and when Kerr was fired as president.

END FOUR

Now, after a comparatively quiet senior term, they end four years at Berkeley.

Charles Hitch, who succeeded

Kerr as president, recently said:

"Don't underestimate our students. The students now attending the university are the best prepared, the most capable, the most nearly abreast in their fields of any who have attended the university in its history."

Refusing that accolade, Miller said: "I think President Hitch is sticking his neck out by saying that. Because I think it is too soon in the life of our generation to figure out what we're going to do."

Harem Life Was Mixed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Life in a harem—a la Scheherazade—was mixed boredom, intrigue, fantasy and murder in a gilded cage where survival depended on winning the sultan's favor.

Despite storybook legend, says one close to the truth, it was not one long orgy.

Lady Audrey Campbell, widow of a British diplomat who spent much of her life in Turkey, has studied the harem. She knew first-hand of the women freed from the last sultan's harem in 1909.

For the last two years, Lady Campbell has made her home here.

Contrary to popular opinion, she says, girls were purchased rather than kidnapped. The sultan's emissaries paid high prices.

Once a girl was bought, she was shut away from the outside world. Recruits were coddled until puberty, then instructed in the fine arts of love in preparation for the day they might be chosen by the sultan.

The sultan's mother ruled the roost and gave candidates their final exams before they were presented to her son.

Lady Campbell says the harem was home for 300 women, or more. Favorites received special quarters and jewels. Servants were all women.

"It was a world of boredom and inertia, free from earthly cares, where the only events were the visits of the sultan; the only dramas, births and deaths."

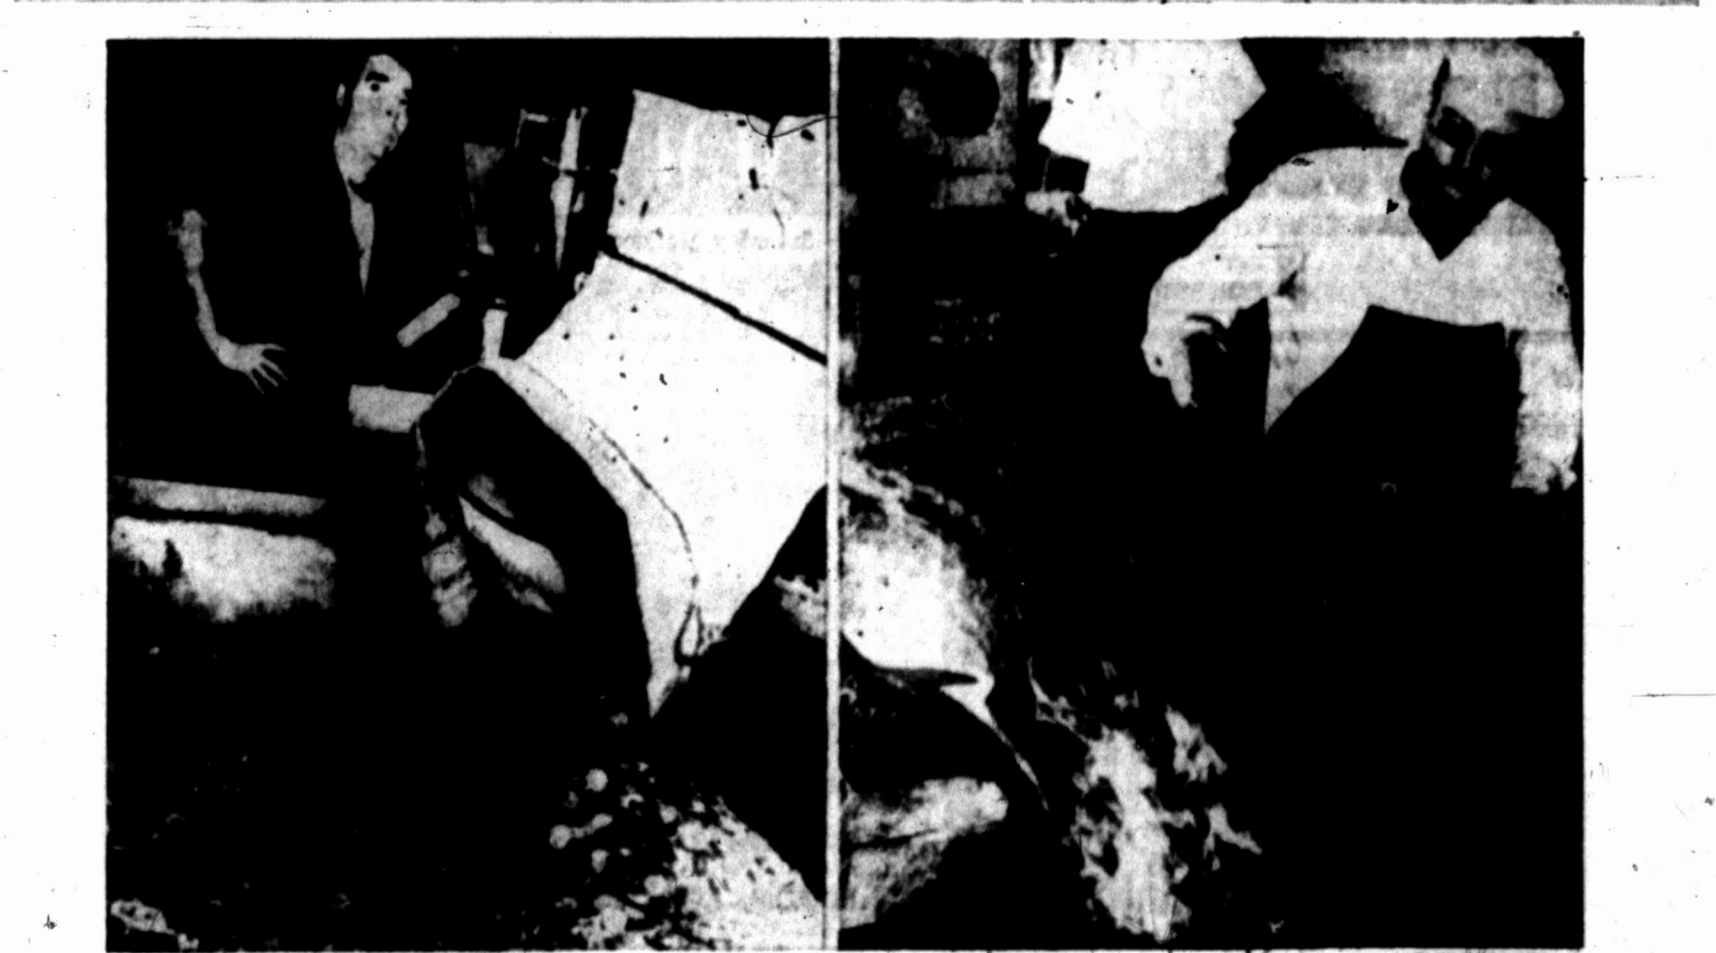

"The only goal in life was to become the mother of a son and thereby enhance one's position in the harem."

Lady Campbell describes the sultan's visit to his harem:

"There was great excitement and strict protocol. Accompanied by his head eunuch, he passed through throngs of bearded women in opulent gowns. Seating himself at a divan, the sultan inspected his girls."

If any aroused his interest, he asked her name from his mother. The girl then approached, kissed the royal divan and received the title "gudzed" or "chosen one."

The chosen girl was then pampered and polished until the sultan called—sometimes not for weeks or months. Sometimes, not ever.

Rev. Fry Called Liar By Former Ranger Warlord

WASHINGTON (AP) — The certainty that investigating senators have been lied to has become a major issue in a probe of a federal antipoverty grant intended to rehabilitate members of two Chicago street gangs.

"If the stories that have been told here are false, everyone involved should go to jail," Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., said Wednesday at the end of the fifth day of hearings into the Office of Economic Opportunity's $927,000 grant for the gangs.

"Transparent perjury has been committed," declared the Rev. John R. Fry, a slim, intense Presbyterian minister who has been charged with encouraging members of the Blackstone Rangers to step up criminal activity. "This is disgusting contempt of the Senate."

"I look at Rev. Fry right now and say he is a malicious liar," said George Rose, former Ranger "warlord" who has testified under oath Fry allowed his church to be used as a gang arsenal, that he allowed marijuana to be smoked there, that he relayed an order for the killing of a narcotics peddler and that he warned gang members of impending police raids.

"I specifically and categorically deny each and everyone of these allegations," Fry told Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., at one point in Wednesday's hearing.

Meanwhile, the regional Presbyterian in charge of Fry's church met in Chicago, voted to support what they called his "creative and courageous" approach to the solution of urban problems.

They protested against what they said is the "manner in which the character of the Rev. John Fry has repeatedly been maliciously maligned" by Senate witnesses.

The senators heard these allegations Wednesday.

Mrs. Annabelle Martin said two of her ten children were solicited by Eugene "Bull" Hairston, 23, Ranger president, to kill a narcotics peddler whom she said Hairston accused of infringing on his gang's territory.

She said she heard Fry tell lawyers he had provided for her he would pay her to take her family out of Chicago so her sons could not testify against Hairston.

Fry denied all her allegations. —James L. Pierson, an investigator for the State's Attorney's office of Cook County (Chicago)

A great many North-South pairs scored a deficit when this hand was dealt in a recent tournament.

West usually made life difficult for his opponents by opening with a preemptive bid of four hearts. North overcalled with five clubs. Some Souths were content to bid a small slam in clubs which was made with ease, since only a trump trick must be lost.

Several players in the South seat were unwilling to give up the higher scoring spade contract and, with a virtually self-sufficient suit, they bid six spades. In tournament bridge, where each deal is a separate contest, a premium is awarded for the best score, and the players, therefore, usually prefer a major suit contract over a minor.

He said they charged $50 to $150 for crudely scrawled signs bearing the name of the Ranger refused to disperse and tear gas was used, police said. They said the blaze was started by a firebomb.

The fight between the Negro tenants and the housing authority has been going on for several months. A meeting three weeks ago ended in a demonstration in which an estimated $10,000 damage was done.

The meeting developed into a shouting match as members of the predominantly Negro audience peppered the housing officials with jeers, catcalls and profanity.

The authority adjourned the meeting but the crowd of 300 refused to disperse. Police called for reinforcements, and officers with tear gas were brought in.

The crowd broke up into smaller groups without incident. The smaller groups began roaming the streets and scattered incidents of rock throwing and bottle throwing were reported. Police said damage was minor and no arrests were made.

When police and firemen arrived at one of the fires a group of between 100 and 150 Negroes vice president, which told all potential looters: "Do Not Touch!"

Earlier, Fry denied he counseled the Rangers to engage in extortion.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Henrietta the duck was not one to give up just because one of her nine ducklings strayed and tumbled over a 20-foot-high dam.

Soviets Ready To Talk On Curtailment Of Rockets

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko declared today that the Soviet government is "ready to exchange opinions on the curtailment of rocket systems—both offensive and defensive."

Addressing the Soviet Parliament—which has proved impossible on Soviet willingness to talk. But he apparently was referring to talks on nuclear missiles which the United States has been trying for 17 months to get started.

The foreign minister repeated long-standing Soviet calls for general and complete disarmament—which has proved impossible to reach agreement on between East and West. He also called for an international convention to prohibit use of nuclear weapons—regarded by the West as impractical because of Soviet unwillingness to accept inspection safeguards.

Because of this deadlock, the United States has been pressing the Soviet Union since January, 1967, to hold talks on limiting intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBMs) and antiballistic missile (ABM) defenses.

Speaking to the United Nations on June 13, when it approved the nuclear nonproliferation treaty, President Johnson called on the United States and the Soviet Union to "lose no time in finding the way to scale down the nuclear arms race."

"We desire—yes, we urgently desire—to begin early discussions on the limitation of strategic offensive and defensive nuclear weapons systems," Johnson said.

Gromyko said that there was reason to believe American-Soviet relations can be improved, but "the United States must stop trying to turn the world inside out."

Referring to Johnson's Glassboro speech June 4, Gromyko said: "We see no reason for a collision as long as the United States respects our security and the security of other peoples."

In a 90-minute survey of Soviet foreign policy, Gromyko said "Soviet-U.S. relations are, as before, burdened by American foreign policy, especially Vietnam."

"It depends upon the government of the United States to what extent the possibilities of Soviet-U.S. relations will be put to use," the foreign minister declared.

Referring to Soviet-Chinese relations, Gromyko said: "We have done all to prevent a deterioration of relations between our two countries. But Peking is dead to any initiative concerning the future of our relations."

Peekaboo? It's Good For Child!

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Want to raise a well-adjusted child? Try playing peekaboo with it.

Healthy development may depend largely on the games parents play with their children, says Dr. Justin Call, professor of child psychiatry at the University of California at Los Angeles Medical Center.

A mutual give and take is the key to parent-child relationship in which games develop, Dr. Call says.

The best time to play games, he says, is right after feeding when the infant is quiet but alert. The psychiatrist says games such as peekaboo can help form the basis for a later ability to relate to others, adapt to situations and develop learning skills.
