Russia Concedes On Veto Issue And Conference Moves Ahead

Session Now Expected To End June 15

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7—Russia, reacting to a secret note handed Premier Stalin by Harry Hopkins, gave in on the veto issue today and started the United Nations conference toward speedy completion of a world charter.

The agreement which knocked the biggest stumbling block from the path of the 50-nation meeting was engineered through a cable Sunday night from Secretary of State Stettinius, acting with President Truman's approval, to Moscow. It made direct appeal for reconsideration of the Russian position and offered no U. S. compromise.

Yield With Pleasure

When the reply from Stalin came through last night, the Russian delegation which only yesterday was refusing even to discuss the veto deadlock, and said no further Moscow statement was expected, yielded with apparent pleasure to their Big Five colleagues.

In a meeting in the penthouse apartment of Stettinius, Soviet Ambassador Andrei Gromyko, smilingly told the United States, British, French and Chinese representatives that in the interest of unanimity Russia would go along with the four others on their stand that no one of the Big Five should be able to veto "freedom of hearing and discussion" of international disputes submitted to the security council of the projected new league. Previously, Russia adamantly refused to relax her demand for the veto right even on council discussions.

Secretary of State Stettinius announced the Big Five will have veto power over "all decisions in the security council relating to enforcement action and—except as to parties to disputes—in all decisions for peaceful settlement."

Can Air Disputes

But the veto, he said, does not apply "to the right of any nation to bring a dispute before the council" for discussion, and "no individual member of the council can alone prevent a consideration and discussion by the council of a dispute or situation thus brought to its attention."

Russia on one side had been insisting that the veto should apply even to discussion of international quarrels in the security council. The rest of the Big Five —

Truman Turns Down French Levant Plan

By ERNEST B. VACCARO
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 7.—President Truman, in a fast-moving new conference, today vetoed a Big Five meeting sought by France to explore the dynamite-laden Middle Eastern question.

However, he unfolded further plans for the forthcoming Big Three meeting on world affairs with Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin, saying it would be held within 40 days. The President said he saw no need for bringing other powers in on this discussion.

Asked about a Big Five meeting to settle the French dispute with Syria, the President said he would not favor it and thought the difficulty would be worked out on a lower level basis.

The President said he had not seen a note delivered by French Ambassador Henri Bonnet inviting the U. S., Britain, Russia and China to a conference on the Near East but reiterated that he did not believe a five-power meeting would be necessary.

White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross issued a statement later in the day to clarify the President's meaning.

"When replying this afternoon to a question at his press conference which related to a proposed meeting of the five powers to settle the Syrian question, the President indicated that it would not be desirable to have such a meeting in view of the imminence of the meeting of the Big Three," the statement said. "This of course does not mean that the U. S. would have any intention of discussing a solution of the Syrian problem at a meeting from which France, Syria and Lebanon were absent."

Correspondents crowding into the oval room for the President's conference were bombarded with a swift series of announcements.

Speaking so swiftly the newsmen had difficulty following him, the President topped his disclosures by an unexpected appointment of Gen. Omar N. Bradley to replace Brig. Gen. Frank T.

House Vote Topheavy In Support Of Bretton Woods

WASHINGTON, June 7. (AP)—By a resounding 345 to 18 vote, the House passed and sent to the Senate today legislation ratifying the Bretton Woods agreements setting up a world bank and monetary stabilization fund.

Applause greeted Speaker Rayburn's announcement of the vote, in which 205 Democrats were joined by 138 Republicans and two minor party members in the overwhelming approval of the measure. All the 18 "no" votes were cast by Republicans.

Hailed By Morgenthau

Secretary Morgenthau immediately hailed the decision, saying the House "has spoken forcefully for the principle of international cooperation." He said in a statement it presaged "an era of world cooperation which will lead to prosperity for all."

Chairman Wagner (D-NY) of the Senate Banking committee said:

"It was a marvelous vote for a marvelous cause. I do not anticipate any trouble in the Senate committee nor on the Senate floor."

Senator Ball (R-Minn): "I believe there will be quite a fight in the Senate over adoption of the Bretton Woods proposal but I believe the Senate will approve it—but by a closer vote than in the House."

Drawn by representatives of 44 nations meeting at Bretton Woods, N. H., last summer, the agreements would establish a $9,100,000,000 world bank for reconstruction and development loans and an $8,800,000,000 fund for international currency stabilization.

Arab League To 'Fight' French

CAIRO, June 7 (AP)—The Arab league announced tonight that it was supporting the demand of Syria and Lebanon for immediate evacuation of French troops from the Levantine states and had decided to take "necessary measures in order to resist French aggression."

The council of the league said it had decided "France attacked Syria and Lebanon and must take responsibility for assassination, destruction and other losses which occurred in both countries."

Threat To War Effort

In a communique the council declared "retention of French troops in Syria and Lebanon is contradictory to the rights, sovereignty and independence which have been acknowledged in both countries. Presence of French troops in Syria and Lebanon is a continual threat to the people of such fatal events as took place in recent days and the further presence of these French forces causes permanent tension in the relations between France and the two Arab republics and this tension extends to the rest of the Arab country, thus embarrassing the war effort against Japan."

The council said, "in accordance with clause six of its constitution (providing mutual aid for a member attacked) the Arab league has decided to take necessary measures in order to resist French aggression. These measures are being put into effect."

Opposition To Peace Time Draft Mounts

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Religious, labor and education leaders spoke vigorously against peacetime draft legislation today on the ground that the issue can wait until the war is won.

Their arguments were made to the House committee on postwar military policy by spokesmen for the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, the Catholic hierarchy in the United States, the Rabbinical Assembly of America, the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, and the Evangelical and Reformed church.

Peace Pattern Unclear

All favored adequate defense but suggested that action on peacetime military conscription should be deferred until victory is won and the pattern of peace is clear.

Dr. Herbert J. Burgatahler, president of Ohio Wesleyan university, Delaware, Ohio, testified that the Federal Council of Churches of Christ opposed the bill because "the precise nature or strength of armaments that may be required can not be foreseen now."

"The people for whom I speak and the churches with which they are identified hold to the view that our nation should not at this time take any action which would reverse our historic policy with respect to compulsory military training."

Mrs. William A. Hastings, Madison, Wis., president of the PTA, suggested that peacetime military training is unnecessary.

Can Be In Readiness

"If," she said, "a reasonably sized standing Army, along with a strong National Guard force, is ready for an immediate emergency, then our youth, in good physical condition, skilled and alert in mind, can soon be prepared for any part they must play."

Chairman Woodrum (D-Va) read a letter from the Very Rev. Msgr. Howard J. Carroll, general secretary of the National Catholic Welfare conference saying the Catholic hierarchy in the United States believed that a matter "so important should await decision until the end of the war when it can be known what the international situation will be."

Invitation For War

Byrl A. Whitney, assistant general counsel of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, testified that passage of the bill now would be an open invitation to other countries to prepare for war.

"There is," he said, "something pitifully ironical about a nation vigorously preparing for the next war and delaying the problems of peace while fighting a war to destroy militarism and to establish enduring world peace."

Saying that the Rabbinical assembly is not a pacifist organization, Dr. Robert Gordis, president, declared that action now on the legislation "would be unwise and even dangerous.

"What is more," he said, "a

Oroku Cut Off And Jap Remnants Sliced Up

NEW TWIN-ENGINE TIGERCAT—The F7F Tigercat, above, called the swiftest and most powerful, and the first twin-engined fighter ever used by the Navy, is now ready for action against the Japs. Built by Grumman, it packs a terrific wallop, and will be used first by Marines for land-based operations, and by naval fliers on carriers of the Midway class.

Tokyo Starts Buildup For Island's Loss

By LEIF ERICKSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

GUAM, Friday June 8—American Marines cut off Oroku peninsula yesterday, dividing remnants of the Japanese garrison still stubbornly defending Okinawa into two separate groups, and Tokyo radio today began a propaganda buildup to write off the island.

About the time Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz reported 66,324 Nipponese had been killed from the April 1 invasion through Wednesday, Tokyo broadcast "the Okinawa fighting was never intended to decide the fate of our nation . . . it is only a part of the decisive war on our homeland."

Great Effect On War

Tokyo conceded however "no one can deny that the fighting on Okinawa will have a great effect on the entire war."

One concentration of Japanese was trapped on Oroku peninsula, where they were answering Marine attacks with 40 and 20 mm. and machinegun fire and mortars. They were sealed off when Maj. Gen. Pedro A. Del Valle's First Marine division drove to within 300 yards of the west coast, north of Itoman town.

On the east flank, Maj. Gen. Archibald V. Arnold's Seventh Infantry division was pressing into one end of the Yaeju-Dake escarpment against determined resistance. Advance patrols of the Seventh and Maj. Gen. James Bradley's 96th Infantry division abreast to the west reported machinegun fire along the entire escarpment.

Land On Small Island

Elements of the Seventh division, meantime, landed on O-Shima island, one-quarter of a mile of southeastern Okinawa, against light resistance yesterday.

Admiral Nimitz reported 66,324 Japanese had been killed on Okinawa and surrounding islands as of Wednesday, 67th day of the operation. This was 4,805 more than the toll one week before. American soldiers and Marine dead, wounded and missing, last given as of May 24, were 26,677. Neither total includes naval casualties.

Improving weather over the Okinawa area permitted the use of aircraft and tanks in support of the ground operations. For many

Tigercat, Navy's New Fast, Power-Laden Fighter, Ready For Action Against Japs

BETHPAGE, N. Y., June 7 (AP)—A new Navy fighter plane, the twin-engine Grumman F7F Tigercat, swiftest and most powerful built for the fleet, is ready for action against the Japanese.

The Navy today removed some of the secrecy surrounding the heavy, high-speed fighter which it described as one of the answers to improved performances by Nipponese aircraft.

Although the number and size of guns carried by the Tigercat were not revealed, Navy officials said the full firepower volume could smash a big Japanese bomber in a single burst.

Climbs Mile a Minute

Some of the highlights of the sea service's latest sky fighter are:

1—Ability to climb steeply at better than a mile-a-minute.

2 — Carrying a 4,000-pound bomb load—greater than any other fighter—or a full size torpedo. It is also equipped with rockets.

3—A longer range than any previous fighter plane.

As the first twin-engine fighter used by the Navy, the Tigercat is powered by two 2,100 horsepower double Wasp Pratt and Whitney radial air cooler engines turning three blade propellers. The horsepower may be increased for short emergency periods by water injection to the engines and the plane, if necessary, can fly home on one engine.

Described as the most versatile aircraft it ever had adopted, the Navy said the Tigercat's climbing speed made it especially effective in quick interception of enemy air attackers, and its speed a vital advantage in defending against

Osaka's Plants Lashed By B-29s

GUAM, June 7 (AP)—Osaka's huge arsenal and factory belt were blasted today by 450 Superforts as Tokyo radio warned the homeland the B-29s are preparing to extend their devastating attacks to "medium and small size cities."

The great formation of Marianas-based bombers loosed high explosives and 3,000 tons of gasoline jelly incendiaries on Japan's leading industrial metropolis. (Loss of two raiders was acknowledged by the 20th Air force at Washington).

Plenty More Coming

The enemy's radio bluntly told the people that B-29 raids "will be all the more frequent, bombing objectives will be enlarged and we can expect that the medium and small cities in local areas, as well as the large cities and their vicinity," will be hit.

Tokyo said B-29s have been "minutely reconnoitering" new potential targets.

To date, the big bombers have been making their large scale attacks on the big cities of Japan, including Tokyo, Osaka, Nagoya, Yokohama and Kobe.

The enemy broadcaster urged residents of smaller cities to "place first importance to fire prevention." He pointed out such places have an advantage over the large cities because they are not so concentrated and "water can be easily obtained from wells and streams."

Effect Is Terrific

The terrific effect of the Osaka strike attained by the combination of high explosives and incendiaries was indicated in Japanese reports.

The War department in Washington said considerable anti-aircraft fire was encountered by the raiders but that fighter opposition was unaggressive.

Fire fighters were driven to underground shelters by the explosives, Tokyo raido said, and then the incendiaries turned the target area into an inferno.

The high explosives were aimed particularly at the steel and cement Osaka arsenal, one of the largest in Japan. Ignited ammunition from this and other munitions plants in the city probably added to the blazing ruins.

Tokyo said the raid continued through three hours, starting at 10 a. m. (8 p. m. Wednesday, U. S. central war time.)

Another Japanese radio dispatch, by Domei agency, said about 40 American fighter planes,

Fight For State's Oil Rights Urged

AUSTIN, June 7 (AP)—Governor Coke Stevenson was urged today to appoint without delay a coordinating committee to present evidence and arguments before the Federal Power commission, by a committee recently named by him who pointed out "the states sovereign rights to control oil and gas conservation are at stake."

The personnel of the committee appointed by Governor Stevenson to make a thorough study of the situation were closeted with him for a considerable time today.

The committee told the governor that they believed that he should promptly appoint a committee to coordinate the preparation and presentation of evidence before the FPC.

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP) — Speaker Rayburn announced today the ceremonies of a joint session of Congress June 18 honoring General Eisenhower will be broadcast.

The speaker said he has received no direct communication from the general regarding his trip to Washington, but has been informed by the War department that he will be here on that date.

Heavies Batter British Borneo

By FRED HAMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

MANILA, Friday, June 8. — Liberator bombers struck savagely at Labuan island in Brunei bay, British Borneo, Wednesday as the tempo of air strikes against the East Indies stepped up steadily and it was announced that Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell had conferred here with Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Stilwell, who once commanded American forces in China, Burma and India and now is commander of Army ground forces, visited forward areas and talked with theater commanders. The time of his visit and the subjects discussed were not disclosed.

Moves Toward End

While events in the Philippines were moving relentlessly toward a conclusion despite stubborn Japanese opposition on Mindanao and Luzon, air fighting predominated in the Far Eastern campaign.

The U. S. 13th Air force dug craters in the Timbalai airdrome on Labuan and smashed Japanese bivouacs on the island, which is 200 miles northwest across the neck of Borneo from Tarakan and an equal distance southwest from the American held isle of Balabac.

Elsewhere in western and southern Borneo the jungle air force medium and fighter bombers and Seventh Fleet heavies blasted airdromes, troop concentrations, shipyards and shipping. Among the targets of 225 tons of bombs was Jesselton airdrome, south of Brunei bay.

Labor Troubles Bother Texans

(By The Associated Press)

Texas is keeping a worried eye on labor disputes today.

Five plants are involved, four of them war plants.

The Humble Oil and Refining company's plant at Ingelside, which President Truman had ordered the government to seize, is still operating under company control.

The federal court has temporarily restrained the government from taking over the refinery. A solution is to be sought at a hearing in Houston Monday.

Plant At Houston

Production was expected to be resumed today at the Goodyear Rubber plant near Houston. Although not involved in a labor dispute itself, by an odd quirk it had been forced to shut down last Monday.

A single road lead to the Goodyear plant and a new tire plant constructed for the Kelly-Springfield Tire company by Brown and Root, contractors.

Workers represented by the Houston Building Trades council picketed the Brown and Root company, termed an open shop concern by the council.

Goodyear workers would not go through the picket line, and the rubber plant was forced to shut down. About 300 AFL workers were involved.

Shift To New Entrance

Yesterday a second entrance was built. The pickets were shifted to the new entrance, leaving the Goodyear plant entrance open.

Although the rubber plant was forced to close, operations continued at the construction project which was being picketed.

Employes of the Shell refinery at Deer Park have voted to strike unless the Fair Employment Practices committee relents on its orders directing the upgrading of Latin-American and negro workers.

In Denton, the Record-Chronicle has resumed publication after a one-day work stoppage by printers. The dispute is to be negotiated.

Reshuffle Of Jap Cabinet Indicated

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7 (AP) Premier Kantaro Suzuki of Japan met with his cabinet in special session for five hours today after reporting to the emperor on political matters amid indications that another political reshuffling may be at hand.

Radio Tokyo reported the meeting in a terse broadcast today, recorded by the FCC, that gave no indication as to the purpose of the extraordinary session beyond saying it discussed "the various problems of the day."

The premier's audience with the emperor, following a conference between Suzuki and the president of Japan's powerful new totalitarian party, came as the war situation deteriorated sharply for Nippon.

Tokyo said the premier's report to Emperor Hirohito concerned "general political affairs."

Boston Goes Wild In Patton Celebration

BOSTON, June 7. (AP) — Swashbuckling General George S. Patton, jr. came home today to the screaming welcome of three-quarters of a million people, whose enthusiasm knocked out all reception time schedules.

It was a continual din from the moment he jumped from a huge Army transport plane straight into the arms of his waiting wife.

Army public relations officials estimated the welcoming crowds that lined the 20-mile route from Bedford airport to Boston at 750,000 and the estimates of unofficial observers hit the million mark.

Just as his record of achievement as head of the invincible Third Army read "ahead of schedule" for almost every operation he undertook, so Patton's transport plane touched the Bedford runway 20 minutes before it was slated to arrive.

But after that, there was no holding the schedule—the yelling crowds slowed it down.

As the side door of his plane opened at Bedford, the general's shiny four-starred helmet popped. He didn't wait for the steps to be placed, but jumped the foot or two to the unloading platform

In Fantastic 'Valley Of Shangri-La'

Crash Survivors Are Nature's Prisoners

By RALPH MORTON
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOLLANDIA, Dutch New Guinea, June 5. (Delayed)—Two Army airmen and a WAC—survivors of a U. S. Army plane crash which killed 21 persons — are awaiting rescue in Dutch New Guinea's fantastic "Hidden Valley of Shangri-La." Air corps officers are battling numerous problems to save them from their remote refuge.

Hidden Valley, populated by a tall, dark tribe of spear-wielding people strikingly different from the other New Guinea natives, is 150 miles southwest of Hollandia. It is locked in among the Oranje mountains and, so far as is known, no white man ever had reached this lost world.

But paratroopers since have been landed to help effect a rescue.

The 21 Army personnel were killed when a transport plane crashed May 13 into a perpendicular mountain wall rising 17,000 feet. It is a part of the mountains completely encircling the valley, 25 miles long and four miles wide.

A lieutenant, a sergeant and a 30-year-old WAC corporal survived the crash with slight burns and shock.

Since then they have been kept alive by field rations, medical supplies and other comforts dropped by plane. They were kept in constant communication through parachute-dropped walkie talkie.

Through they were able to talk daily with planes circling overhead.

"We are all right, just keep sending us supplies," the survivors repeatedly say over the thin radio link.

Those on the ground, who report that reaction of the natives is somewhat passive, said that natives at first were unwilling to trade any with them, but that the trick had been turned through parachuted quantities of salt — a basic item of friendship in New

Russian Demand For Withdrawal Of Troops Voiced By Soviet Newspaper

By W. R. HIGGINBOTHAM
United Press Staff Writer

LONDON, June 7.—Russia demanded again today that American and British troops withdraw from the Soviet occupation zone in Germany.

The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia indirectly voiced the demand in attacking assertions in the London Times and other newspapers that the signing of the four-power pact in Berlin "at last ends the confusion in Germany."

Asks Meaning

"What does the Times mean by 'confusion?' " asked Izvestia. "The difference in regimes in the occupied zones?

"Perhaps by 'confusion' the newspaper means that Anglo-American troops occupy part of the zone which is to be occupied by Soviet troops.

"But the borders of these zones were determined by the European consultative commission and all one had to do was to abide by them."

Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov, the Soviet delegate to the Allied Control council, first expressed the demand—also indirectly—that the United States and Britain pull their forces out of the Soviet occupation zone.

He told Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery and Gen. Jean de Lattre de Tassigny at Berlin Tuesday that he could do nothing further toward establishment of the control council until the western Allies had withdrawn from the Russian zone.

Demand Causes Surprise

British commentators showed surprise and resentment at Russia's demand and at her unilateral disclosure that the Red army will occupy half of Germany.

Newspapers as widely divergent politically as the Times and the Laborite Daily Herald expressed disappointment that Moscow had seen fit to disclose the occupation zone boundaries and demand that the United States quit the area assigned Russia.

Moscow dispatches yesterday detailed the demarcation line between the sections of Germany to be occupied by the Red army and by the western Allies.

The diplomatic correspondent of the Times said it was felt in London that the announcement should have been a joint one issued perhaps by the Allied control council.

"Nothing is to be gained by such independent action," the Times said. "The reason for the Russian pricipitancy is not given."

Times Suggests Reason

The Times suggested that the announcement may have been intended to hasten the withdrawal of British and American forces to the lines already agreed upon.

The Daily Herald said that while British and American forces penetrated into Russia zones, Soviet troops similarly had advanced some distance into the British zone of Styria.

Zhukov's demand for the withdrawal of American forces from the Soviet area "caused much surprise and disappointment," the Herald said.

The Daily Telegraph, pointing out that official London circles declined to comment on the Soviet announcement, said:

"They still observe the rule of secrecy adopted by the European advisory council, which has been responsible for defining the zones of occupation."

At the same time, the Telegraph and other newspapers said there was no reason to doubt that the demarcation line defined by Moscow was correct.

Water Safety School Dates Are Extended

The water safety school planned by the Red Cross will be conducted from June 15 through June 29, rather than June 15-24, the water safety committee of the county chapter decided at a meeting Thursday.

Schedule of classes was decided upon as follows: 7-7:45 a. m., nurses; 8-8:30, boys and girls, 10 to 15 years, 8:30-9, boys and girls, 8 to 10; 9-9:30, boys and girls, 6 to 8; 10:30-11, women of all ages; 12:30-1 p. m., men of all ages; 9-9:30 p. m., nurses and all business women.

Several changes were made from the tentative schedule that had been announced previously. The night class formerly was planned only for nurses.

The school will be conducted at Municipal pool.

Young Woman Killed At Grade Crossing

FORT WORTH, June 7. (AP) — Miss Sammie White, 23, a coffee shop employe, was killed and Van Earl Brown, 23, a chemist for an oil company, was critically injured early today when their sedan was crumpled by a backing Missouri-Kansas-Texas switch engine at a south side grade crossing.

An hour was required to cut the couple from the wrecked car. Miss White was the daughter of Mrs. Sam Dickerson of Mineral Wells. Brown, a medically discharged war veteran, is in St. Joseph's hospital.

Dr. I. J. Sparks Dies At Fort Worth

Dr. Isaac J. Sparks, 72, former resident of Olton and resident of Amarillo the last eight years, died Thursday at a hospital at Fort Worth where he had been a patient since Saturday.

Funeral services will be conducted at 4 o'clock this afternoon in Olton cemetery, with Dr. John W. Darby, pastor of West Amarillo Christian church, officiating. Wood Funeral home of Plainview will direct burial.

Dr. Sparks was born Feb. 3, 1873. He moved to Eastland when a child. He received his medical degree from Dallas College of Medicine in 1901.

He practiced at Snyder and served as minister of the First Christian church there. He moved t Olton in 1928. He helped organize the Olton Medical association and was president of that organization when he retired from practice and moved to Amarillo.

His wife died in 1937 and her body is buried in Olton cemetery.

Survivors include five sons, A. J. Sparks of Chicago, J. L. and E. J. Sparks of Amarillo, Lt. R. B. Sparks of Fort McClellan, Ala., and Cpl. R. A. Sparks of San Diego; and three daughters, Mrs. Irene Borge of Amarillo, Mrs. Madge White of Fort Worth and Mrs. Ruby Sears of Corpus Christi.

Dr. Sparks had visited in Fort Worth since Christmas.

AUSTIN, June 7. (AP)—Shipment of tomatoes from the lower Rio Grande sector was straddling the 9,000 car mark as the week closed, representing a 30 per cent increase over last season, the United States department of agriculture reported today.

Texas melons were reported maturing faster than usual. Cantaloupes are moving rapidly to market but indications were for a smaller crop despite increased acreage.

Panhandle potatoes made good progress. While onions in the North Texas area were of good quality, the quantity was lower because of early season acreage cut-backs.

NAHA, Okinawa, June 7.—Japanese military forces on Okinawa were heavy users of narcotics and may have thus bolstered their hopeless but fanatical defense of the island, two Navy doctors said today.

They were Lts. (jg) Frank Xavier Dwyer, Kansas City, and John J. Scheider, Minneapolis.

"The Japanese were heavy users of morphine derivatives," said Dwyer. "We've found very few medical supplies—the Japanese apparently had almost no hospitals or aid stations—but those supplies we have found, mostly in caves, consisted principally of sizable stocks of morphine, opium, heroin and cocaine.

Scheider added:

"The Japs are great users of ampules and prefer to administer medicines that way. It is their practice to keep wounded in action and bandages are just slapped on without particular care.

"The bandages are made of better material than ours, though."

Program Planned At Corral For Saturday

A "College of Musical Knowledge" program will be conducted at 8:30 o'clock Saturday night at the Corral, the June program committee decided at a meeting Thursday at the Corral.

Ray Simmons will be the "professor."

Members of the committee present were Jo Ann Bailey, Pat Jones, Joan Forbes and Betty Tubbs. Mrs. Ruth Bryan, one of the directors of the Corral, met with the group.

Bill Proposes Offer To U. S.

MANILA, P. I., June 7. (AP)—At least one measure placing Philippine military bases and manpower at the disposal of the United States is already on the docket for the first Philippine Congress since 1941, which opens Saturday.

Pres. Sergio Osmena will address the House and Senate jointly the afternoon the session opens for its historic restoration of representative government.

Congressman Manuel Gallego of Nueva Ecija already has filed a House resolution offering the United States all air, army and naval bases necessary for "all time to come."

Tribute Considered

A joint House-Senate resolution also filed would make General Douglas MacArthur an honorary citizen of the Philippines and carry in perpetuity his name on the company rolls of all Philippine Army units. It also provides that MacArthur's likeness should appear on a Philippine stamp and coin with the title, "defender-liberator."

The session will be highlighted by what may be a major test of strength between Osmenda and Sen. Manuel Roxas, current Philippine hero who is now openly making a bid for political influence.

Many legislators elected in 1941 have been in hiding during the occupation but now have gathered from all parts of the archipelago in sufficient numbers to form a quorum. New elections have been announced for November.

Sheets Still Being Dropped In Germany

HARRINGTON, England, June 7. (AP)—The U. S. Army air forces' 406th bombardment squadron, finally revealed as the main air arm of the psychological warfare division, still is bombing Germany with propaganda and news sheets, of which it dropped 1,789,960,000 before V-E day. Six such missions were on its schedule today.

Maj. Robert H. Gaddy of Latta, S. C., disclosed the 406th now had the job of eliminating chaos and easing the military government's task among Germans and displaced persons.

Brig. Gen. Robert A. McClure, chief of the psychological warfare division, said interrogation of sample groups of German prisoners showed 80 per cent had seen Allied leaflets and that these had been instrumental in lowering morale and influencing surrender.

Publication Resumed By Denton Newspaper

DENTON, June 7. (AP) — The Denton Record-Chronicle resumed publication today after a one-day suspension yesterday when printers failed to report for work because of disagreement with the management over contract negotiations.

Following a conference last night between J. B. Drake, typographical union president, Publisher Riley Cross and two representatives of the United States conciliation service, the printers agreed to continue work pending further negotiations.

Grocerymen Fined On Charges Of Contempt

DALLAS, June 7. (AP)—Federal District Judge W. H. Atwell fined four West Texas grocerymen $400 to $500 here yesterday on contempt charges alleging violation of previous court orders enjoining them from violation of certain OPA rulings.

Three of the grocerymen, Sam Novit, C. L. Hogsett, and L. J. Sullivan, all from Vernon, pleaded guilty to non-willful violation of the injunctions in that they continued to sell certain grocery items in excess of OPA ceiling prices. They cited human and inexperienced help as the reason for the overcharges.

R. L. Gregg of Bu. urnett was fined $400 for alleged violation of an order enjoining him from the issuance of further checks on his ration account until the account's deficit was restored.

Young American Soldier Says He Was Imprisoned As Wounded Nazi

FRAMINGHAM, Mass., June 7. (AP)—A 27-year-old American soldier hospitalized here told a story of spending the "30 most harrowing days" of his life when he was captured by his own troops and held as a wounded "German" prisoner of war.

Cpl. Gilbert J. Beamesderfer of Ephrata, Penn., a Cushing General hospital patient recently granted a 90-day work furlough, was a squad leader in the 35th division of the Third army before events became too confused for comfort.

He remembered leading his men against a German machine gun nest in France and being hit in the left arm.

Awaked In Hospital

Then apparently he got mixed up with some captured Germans and when he awoke he was in a hospital.

Beamesderfer's story was officially recorded by a public relations officer here. The soldier said he was treated at a first aid station as an American but that later he found himself placed with some German wounded in the evacuation hospital after he talked German with a German medical corpsman who cleansed his wound. He received an inkling of his plight that night when he asked a nurse, in English, when he was to be operated on and she gasped, "wherever did you learn to speak such good English?"

Just before they gave him ether, a surgeon spoke to him reassuringly—in German. Beamesderfer, who speaks German, grinned and answered in the enemy language.

Hours later an American lieutenant passed by, and Beamesderfer asked: "What happened? Have we been captured?"

"I'm An American"

"Be quiet," the lieutenant said. "You're all right. You're with your buddies."

"Buddies, hell!" Beamesderfer screamed. "Get me out of here. I'm an American!"

The officer smiled and left. Germans posing as Americans were nothing new. After ten days in France, the prisoners, including Beamesderfer, were transferred to a POW camp in England. Finally he managed to nab an interrogator.

"I'll tell you things about Pennsylvania that no one could tell you unless he's actually been there," Beamesderfer said desperately.

Unique Customs

They called in a Philadelphia nurse. He told her about the unique customs of the Amish, descendants of German settlers of eastern Pennsylvania. The nurse was impressed.

Camp officials cabled Washington for his fingerprints. They established Beamesderfer as Beamesderfer. On the 30th day of his imprisonment, an officer burst into his tent and announced:

"I am happy to inform you that you're an American at last!"

Fire Continues In New Mexico Forest

LAS VEGAS, N. M., June 7. (U.P.)—A forest fire near Mora, N. M., 35 miles north of here, continued to rage today, the forest rangers office reported.

The fire broke out yesterday. A car was sent from Santa Fe to bring special equipment to combat the conflagration but the vehicle sideswiped a horse and was delayed.

New Mexico state guardsmen and all civilian volunteers it has been possible to recruit, are fighting the blaze which is burning 600-acres of timber. Another 1,000 acres of land is threatened, according to a reporter from radio station KFUN at Las Vegas who flew over the fire last night.

Statisticions estimate that the annual cost of street lighting in the United States is about $1.20 per capita.

Plane With 18 WACs Aboard Is Missing

WASHINGTON, June 7. (AP) — Air and surface craft are searching the French Ivory coast of West Africa for a missing plane carrying 18 WACs and a crew of three.

The WACs, including two Texans, are the first ever reported lost overseas.

The department disclosed today that the Army transport plane has been missingg for a week on a 766-mile flight from Accra, British West Africa, to Roberts Field, Liberia.

The WACs, who were being transferred to a new assignment, had been assigned to the Army Transport command base at Accra since last October.

The two Texans were Pfc. Ruth E. Warlick, sister of John A. Warlick,, Route 1, Goldthwaite, and Pfc. Wilma E. Liles, sister of Mrs. Clottilde L. Fryman, Dallas.

Pfc. Ralph McBride Of Hale Center Is Home

Twice-wounded, recently returned Iwo Jima veteran, Marine Pfc. Ralph McBride, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lum McBride, route 2, Hale Center, Tex., is now on furlough visiting his parents who have two sons and a daughter in the Marine Corps.

Serving as a Fourth Marine division tank crew member with his brother Pfc. Ray McBride, he saw action in his 15 months overseas in both Saipan and Iwo Jima. He was wounded once in each campaign.

He'll have no trouble remembering future Fourths of July. Independence Day on Saipan was marked for him by the action in which he was wounded. His tank company was in a valley that day with three of them knocked out by enemy fire. The return passage to Marine lines was blocked. Unable to escape, they were held there about eight hours.

Prior to enlisting in September, 1943, he attended high school for a year and a half and worked on his father's farm.

His sister, Sgt. S. L. Adams, in the U. S. Marine Corps Women's reserves.

Children In State Homes To Get Outing

AUSTIN, June 7. (U.P.)—Plans for every boy and girl in a state institution two weeks summer outing at Longhorn State camp near Inks Lake on the Colorado river were announced today by the state board of control.

There are about 750 children who will enjoy vacations.

Chas. S. Winfrey, Austin, has been appointed director of the camp.

The camp will remain open until Sept. 1. Vacation will be rotated among boys and girls separately at the various state homes.

In Jdly the camp will be used for the 466 children in the state home at Corsicana and in August it will be turned over to the 273 children in the state home at Waco. Smaller groups will go in June.

Camp life will include an hour of study each day. A health program will be directed by Dr. Chas. W. Castnerm, chief of the eleemosynary division of the state board of control.

Political Prisoners Released In Spain

MADRID, June 7. (AP) — Two thousand political prisoners who were sentenced to prison terms of 20 to 30 years as a result of the civil war have been released on Generalissimo Franco's order in a cabinet meeting at the end of May, it was learned today.

This is the largest number of prisoners to be released by a single order this year, although through three previous years the government gave provisional liberty to more than 100,000.

The prison population of Spain now is estimated at between 50,000 and 80,000, of which the majority were jailed as a result of the civil war or politics.

The daily weather map of the United States was first published by the federal government in 1871.

Truman Asks That Citizens Stay Home

WASHINGTON, June 7. (AP)—A plea for citizens to "stay at home" in the months ahead to relieve a critical transportation emergency was voiced today by President Truman. He said if it becomes necessary he will call for government control of travel.

The President added he hoped such a course would not be necessary and that he did not anticipate it.

He made this comment in connection with a formal statement in which he said that with the return of soldiers from the European war and their transfer to the Pacific "we must now complete in ten months a task that is only one-third less than the previous job which required nearly 48 months."

Existing transportation restrictions not only will be retained, he said, but undoubtedly will be increased.

"Those asking for relaxation of the restrictions are asking for the impossible," his statement said.

Dog Got Kisses In Her Home, Wife Says

LOS ANGELES, June 7. (AP) — Mrs. Aybuh Harwood was granted a divorce today after she testified that her husband, Donald:

Kissed his dog every night when he returned home; let the dog sleep with them; left their bedroom window open so his cat could go out and in, and "the cat would bring in gophers and I would have to kill them."

BETTER FITS

BY product of outfitting service-women is a new knowledge of the requirements of average figures. Manufacturers' dress sizes have been inaccurate, requiring extensive alterations or providing poor fit.

Correctly standardized sizes will prove a boon to the woman who is a perfect what-have-you.

HAPPILY EVER AFTER

SEVERAL brides of American servicemen, who recently embarked from Melbourne, Australia, said the trip is solely for the purpose of divorcing their husbands. One woman said she had not heard from her husband since their marriage 18 months ago and added the trip had no glamor for her, that she could not wait to get back home.

One wife, according to the Associated Press story, said her husband was moved to a forward area two months after their marriage and since had returned to America; had written that he had found another girl and their marriage had been a mistake.

WE are not surprised that some of those marriages are going haywire. We wonder why it is necessary for the women to make the long trip here to establish residence and sue for divorce. Why cannot a paper marriage be dissolved by a paper divorce? Warnings from the Americans' relatives and their Aussie brides' relatives that those marriages were not going to be "forever after" went unheeded. And now, as proof from the "I told you so" folks, we have the story of mass divorces being sought.

The Woman's Angle is wondering on what type of ships these Australian brides are passengers. And, if, during a war, room can be found to bring wives seeking divorces to this country, why cannot room be found on westbound ships whose passage would be eagerly sought by American wives anxious to see husbands who have been away for a year, two and even three years. That makes more sense in our book.

Anyone who peddles out advice for free on marriage will tell you that it's taking a chance on fate even when the odds are in your favor. Odds such as having a lot in common, background, schooling, friends. Perhaps those Aussie girls had their heads in the clouds and their feet trailing instead of firmly planted on the ground. Perhaps they didn't keep their chins up, traditional admonition from GIs. Pehaps the men were at fault. Whatever caused the failure, it's too bad.

ABOUT LANOLIN

YOU hear and read much these days about lanolin. Practically every high class cosmetic item in the cream or foundation line boasts a lanolin content.

Do you know what lanolin is? What are its benefits in creams and foundations? Why is soap containing lanolin recommended for both dry and oily skins?

Lanolin is a substance extracted from wool and in its internal structure is said to resemble that of the human fat more closely than any other grease. For this reason, it should be obvious that its presence in cosmetics is beneficial and softening to the skin.

Soaps containing lanolin, or so-called superfatted soaps, are especially recommended for thin and dry skins because they are milder in action and in the absence of natural oils, supply non-drying cleansing through their fatty content.

As for the gal with the oily skin, she too uses soap with lanolin because, since lanolin resembles human fat, it mixes with the normal grease and allows its complete removal.

Excuse us while we wash our face with lanolin soap.

REMEMBERING DAD

FATHER'S day is June 17. Most dads, whether stationed at a camp many miles away or working long hours in their home city, will appreciate the fact they are remembered.

We'd suggest on Father's day you give Dad something which is truly his own. Something masculine in appearance and size, such as a man-size cakes of spicy soap of a shaving mug or something to wear. Men enjoy practical gifts, which at the same time bring pleasure.

Several Problems Due To Come Up At Proposed Big Five Conference

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE
United Press War Analyst

The Syria-Lebanon dispute threatens to expand from a local issue into a major problem that will involve all the big powers.

Moscow already has proposed a meeting of the Big Five—Russia, Britain, France, the United States and China—to deal with it. The French cabinet, perhaps too hastily, welcomed the proposal. Unofficial French sources are beginning to hedge, realizing what a Pandora's box of trouble may be opened if the tangled problems of the whole Middle East are exposed to a showdown in these uncertain times.

Interests Involved

Such a conference inevitably would have to deal with the interests of the big powers, particularly France and Britain, from North Africa through Asia Minor to Iran, where Russia's direct interests become involved.

Britain being in the stronger position, France might stand to lose more than she would gain, whereas Russia would be the only one likely to benefit from a deadlock between the two powers.

The alternative for France would be to accept Prime Minister Churchill's proposal for a conference in London of Britain, France and the United States. There the United States, which is honestly interested in accord between Britain and France, might act as mediator. Unfortunately, Gen. Charles de Gaulle's pride has been hurt by Churchill's almost brusque intervention in the Levantine dispute and the implied summons to London. Perhaps cooler French heads will devise a face-saving formula for a conference to be held elsewhere than in London.

European Balance Needed

Otherwise, if Middle Eastern problems as a whole are brought up for general review, a whole range of topics would arise which the powers are not yet ready to settle on a permanent basis. On the principle of first things first, the balance must be restored in Europe before Europe's position on the crossroads to the Orient can be determined. Even the elementary step of German occupation has not yet been worked out fully.

Problems which would come up at a five-power conference—or a four-power one if China is omitted—would include the following:

1. France's position in Morocco, Algeria and Tunis, her indispensible north African empire.

2. The status of Tripolitania and Itwian Libya as regards both Britain and France.

British And Near East

3. The British position in Egypt, trans-Jordan, Palestine and Iraq.

4. Russia's interests in Turkey and a revision of the rules governing the Dardanelles exit from the Black sea. The Dodecanese islands, claimed by Greece from Italy, also would enter in that connection.

5. The status of the Iranian oil fields and the Allied troops not yet withdrawn from that country, despite Tehran's request. Here Russia enters the picture prominently, also the United States, because of American Persian gulf oil interests.

Pied Piper's Story Fully Borne Out In Scarcity Of Rats

By KENNETH L. DIXON
Associated Press Staff Writer

IN OCCUPIED GERMANY—If you see any sixth grade kids looking skeptical when they are assigned "The Pied Piper" for tomorrow's reading lesson, you can tell them, by golly, it must have been the truth.

Because there are no rats in Hamelin town.

Comes From Doughboys

The sixth graders better believe that statement because it comes from the doughboys of the 333rd infantry regiment, one of the 84th division's hardest fighting outfits.

The regiment was assigned to this area around the site of the Pied Piper's poetic exploits (which incidentally is spelled Hameln instead of as it is in the poem). The doughboys decided to do a little exploring to see whether that 14th century flute tooter was as hot a rat exterminator as they had heard.

S/Sgt. James T. Battle of Augusta, Ark., started the local rat hunt. Some say it was because he wanted to get his outfit's name in the papers, but he insists it was because he was an ardent reader of fairy stories as a child.

At first one of the regiment's most diligent hunters was Pfc. William Cook of Tuscaloosa, Ala., but then it turned out he merely had misunderstood the term "rats."

"Gee, I thought we were looking for Germans," he said, obviously upset. He never had heard of the Pied Piper of Hamelin.

Told of Poem

So Battle told him how the rats practically were eating up the town back in the old days and how the city council was holding a special emergency session when—according to the poem—this wandering whistler in a fancy coat showed up and said that for a price he would unlimber his high-powered pipe and get rid of the rats.

Then, the sergeant explained, the council agreed and he started tooting his flute and all the rats but one old one followed him right down to the Weser river, jumped in and were drowned. Then Battle told how the council would not pay the piper so he blew some more tunes and all of Hamelin's children followed him off and disappeared forever into the mountainside.

"Sounds just like a German," said a Brooklyn soldier. "They haven't changed in 600 years."

But There's No Rats

But there were no rats, so you can tell those sixth graders that what they said about the Pied Piper must have been so.

However, if the sixth graders are modern young skeptics they probably will remind you that a major supply railroad runs through the town which was given a good working over by U. S. army air force bombers in the later days of the war.

And they probably will insist that that is why the rats left Hamelin.

And they probably will be right.

Blood Is Precious Commodity Carried Across Vast Pacific

NAVAL AIR STATION, Honolulu (AP)—A big four-engined plane sped down the runway. A sailor watching it head west, said "a lot of guys will be glad to see her. She's got a cargo of blood aboard."

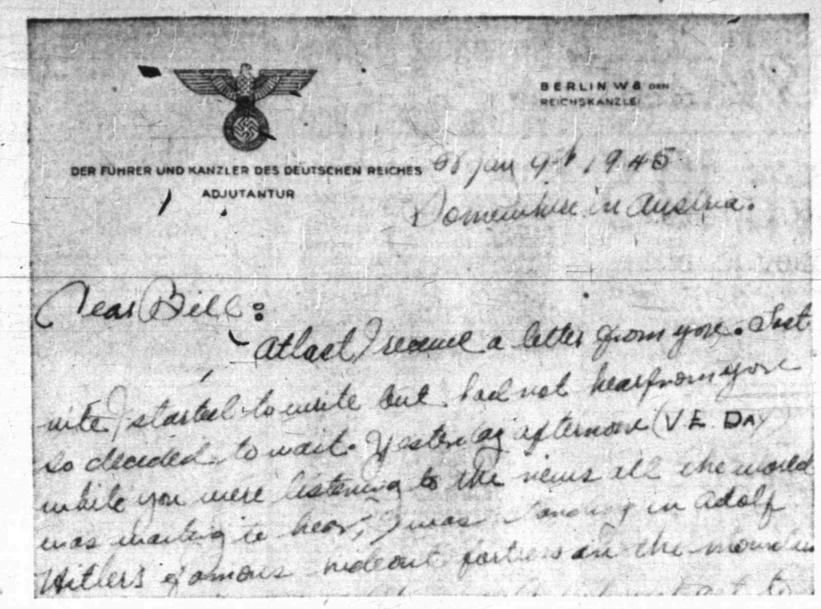

It was another in a series of whole blood deliveries which this year have totaled 15,000 gallons—all carried by the naval air transport service.

Universal, or "O" type blood is gathered at banks in San Francisco, Portland and as far east as Chicago, iced, and flown in 36 hours from the west coast to blood banks in the Marianas. Some goes to the Philippines, but most of it is now going to Okinawa.

Blood deliveries, however, are far from the sole task of NATS. The pilots and crews deliver everything from passengers to cargo all over the Pacific. The men who do this job, flying over vast oceans areas, are the men you used to see in banks before the war, or at airports, or in the corner drugstore. Some of them served in other branches of the service. There's John L. Harris, for example, of Kansas City. Harris is a former submarine man who has been a NATS radioman for a year and a half. His partner is ACRM Robert Clark of Westfield, N. J. Clark used to be a Wall Street accountant before he went into service in 1940.

Lt. John A. De Gomez, "I'm no relation to Lefty," of Oakland, Calif., is another NATS pilot. Gomez, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Gomez live at Bisbee, Ariz., has been in the naval air service since 1942 but he's about ready to go home.

"We've got a baby coming up," he said with a grin. "I want to be around when the stork makes a landing."

FROM DER FUEHRER'S PRIVATE STUDY—Here is a portion of a letter written by T/Sgt. Gerald H. Crow, 35, of Corpus Christi to his friend, W. T. "Bill" Childress of Corpus Christi on sheets of Adolf Hitler's personal business stationery, which Crow took from Hitler's study at Berchtesgaden in the Austrian Alps on V-E Day.

Roaring Springs Man Promoted On Luzon

From Luzon island in the Philippines comes word of the promotion of Pfc. Sam D. Hunter, jr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam D. Hunter, Roaring Springs, to the rank of technician fifth grade while in action against the Japanese.

An infantryman with the 35th regiment, T/5 Hunter participated in the fierce battles on the southern slopes of the Caraballo mountains which resulted in the fall of Balete Pass to the 25th division. With this strategic pass secure, the "Tropic Lightning" troops, commanded by Maj. Gen. Charles L. Mullins, jr., are now in action on the northern side of the rugged mountains, spearheading an attack toward the Japanese stronghold in Cagayan Valley.

Prior to entering the Army in December, 1942, T/5 Hunter was a student in the Roaring Springs High school.

Effort To Influence Election Is Charged

WASHINGTON, June 7. (AP)—The Truman administration was accused today of having attempted to influence this week's special Montana congressional election by announcing that a veterans hospital would be built in that state.

Rep. Halleck (R-Ind), chairman of the national Republican congressional committee, told the House that the chief administrative assistant to President Truman had sent the following telegram to Rep. Mansfield (D-Mont) at Miles City, Mont., one week before the election:

"The veterans administration has advised me that the hospital will go to eastern Montana."

Lone Star Flag Is Hoisted On Okinawa

AUSTIN, June 7. (AP)—The Lone Star flag of Texas is now flying over Okinawa.

Lieut. Gov. John Lee Smith today received a letter from his son, Lt. John Lee Smith, jr., of Okinawa, thanking his parents for sending him a Texas flag and advising them that at appropriate services held on May 20, the flag had been hoisted alongside the stars and stripes.

WITNESS GOERING CAPTURE

MONTERREY, Mexico, June 7. (AP) — Gen. Eulogio Ortiz, commander of the Monterrey military zone who returned Tuesday from an observation tour of European battle areas, said today he witnessed the capture of Hermann Goering and personally took his gold cane from him. General Ortiz added he used Hitler's personal automobile to tour war regions. He said he crossed the Atlantic by plane in 28 hours.

League Leading Giants Defeat Error-Riddled Brooklyn 10-5

NEW YORK, June 7 (AP)—Eight Brooklyn errors and seven New York hits gave the league-leading Giants a 10-5 decision over the Dodgers today in a loosely played contest before 15,618 paying fans.

Brooklyn came within three misplays of the all-time National league record in committing the eight errors.

Van Mungo earned his sixth straight decision at Leroy Pfund's expense but neither starter was around at the finish as Leo Durocher paraded Clyde King, Tom Seats and Cy Buker to the hill, drawing nothing but a series of wild pitches, walks and fielding boners.

Mungo Gets Triple

Mungo had a shutout, 7-0 up to the sixth and had driven home two runs with a tremendous 400-foot triple to deep center field but he weakened in the eighth and gave way to Andy Hansen.

Ed Stanky broke Mungo's shutout in the sixth when he walked, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on Goody Rosen's fly. After Galan strolled, Luis Olmo bashed his fifth homer into the right field stands for two more.

Davidson Pitches Purina Nine To Win

Denny Davidson's one-hit pitching gave the Purina Mills nine a 6-1 victory over the Dickinson Motor company squad Thursday afternoon in an exhibition junior baseball game played at Chapman field.

The only Motor company hit was made in the first inning, after which Davidson hurled faultless ball for the rest of the game. Jack Vaughn, pitching for the Dickinson team, held the Purina nine to three runs until the seventh inning, when Henderson blasted out a three-bagger and scored two men on base.

Battery for Coach Finis Vaughn's Purina Millers were Davidson and Charlie Louder; with Jack Vaughn and Wayne Cobb leading the Dickinson nine.

KIWANIS NINE BLASTS JAYCEES IN 13-1 GAME

Coach Dell Morgan's Kiwanis club nine found the "weak spots" of two Junior Chamber of Commerce pitchers yesterday afternoon in an American league junior baseball game at the boys club diamond and blasted out a 13-1 win over the hapless Jaycees.

John Tosh, starting pitcher for the Chamber of Commerce team, was touched for one run in the first inning and seven in the second frame before he was relieved by Conn.

Charles Galey, who did all the hurling for the Kiwanis group, pitched a near perfect game after allowing a single tally in the first inning.

Byron Nelson Sets New Tourney Record

MONTREAL, June 7. (AP)—Byron Nelson, Toledo's champion par-buster, set a new Islesmere golf course record today by blasting out a nine-under-par 63 to gain a six-stroke edge in the first round of the $10,000 Canadian PGA open. The previous record of 65 was held by Stan Horne of Islesmere, Que.

Nelson's closest rivals, Harold (Jug) McSpaden, Sanford, Me., and Jimmy Hines, Chicago, finished six strokes off the pace set by Nelson as they carded 69's.

Sammy Snead Absent

A crowd of more than 8,000 witnessed the opening round which was marked by the absence of Sammy Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

Stan Horne, Islesmere's home club pro, finished atop the Canadian entries by carding a two-under-par 70.

Bob Gray, Toronto pro, thrilled the gallery circling the 18th green when he dropped a 200-yard approach shot into the cup for an eagle two. Gray carded a 71.

Dallas Nine Upsets Favored Austin 8-5

DALLAS, June 7. (AP) — Forest (Dallas) banged over eight runs and ousted a favored Austin High school nine from the state high school baseball tournament here tonight, 8 to 5.

Warren (Rip) Collins jr., son of the former major league star, started on the mound for the Austin Maroons, but was yanked after yielding a hit, sacrifice and a walk. Gorrin then took over, walked five and hit a batter before the frame ended.

James Camp went all the way for Forest and managed to stave off a strong Maroon finish.

Brownies Defeat White Sox Twice

CHICAGO, June 7. (AP) — The champion St. Louis Browns won a four-game series with Chicago here today by a 3-1 margin as they took the second game of a double-header, 6-2, after winning the opener, 6-0. Jack Kramer scattered seven hits for his third win in the first game before 2,881, and Tex Shirley won his third of the year in the nightcap, although he gave up 11 hits.

The Browns, shut out yesterday 4-0, came back today to bunch their hits in the opener and take advantage of three Chicago errors to beat Ed Lopat, 6-0, and were off to a 6-0 lead in the nightcap as they shelled Johnny Humphries from the mound in the sixth inning.

Sox Score Twice

The Sox scored a run in the last of the sixth and another in the seventh off Shirley to prevent a shutout in the nightcap.

Kramer gave up seven hits in winning the first game, but he kept them well spaced and not a Chicagoan reached third. Two singles, a sacrifice, a base on balls and an error gave the Browns three runs in the sixth to sew up that game.

Buck Ross came to the rescue of Humphries in the sixth and held St. Louis to three ineffective hits the rest of the day.

Galveston Flyers To Join Victory League

HOUSTON, June 7. (U.P.)— The Galveston Army Air base Flyers will replace the Freeport Tarpons in the South Coast Victory league after close of the first half of the season Sunday, league officials said today.

Freeport, occupying last place in the loop, voted earlier this week to withdraw after reaching the mid-way mark Sunday.

Action in the league last night saw Aloe field of Victoria rack up two runs in the ninth to defeat the Finger Furnituremen 4 to 3 in a Houston game.

Russia Concedes On Parley Issue

France, China, Britain and the United States—contended that it should not.

Their differences apparently were composed by direct negotiations involving President Truman and Premier Stalin.

Mr. Truman had a personal envoy, Harry L. Hopkins, consulting with Stalin. Hopkins left Moscow today, and Truman announced he expected soon the declaration which Stettinius issued this afternoon, and the conference appeared to be set at last on a straight run to a finish.

May Finish By June 15

There was talk that the conference may finish its task of writing the charter for a world organization intended to preserve the future peace of the world by June 15.

Stettinius, however, would make no forecast so exact. He told his news conference it might require 8 days, 10 or two weeks.

Unofficial word circulated, nevertheless, that Mr. Truman was counting on addressing the closing conference session on June 15.

Removal of the blockade which differences over the veto had imposed in the path of the conference will allow a number of committees which have been stalled to get under way once more.

They are the ones concerned with writing charter provisions dealing with voting in the security council and efforts of the council to bring a pacific end to arguments among nations.

Senator Connally (D-Tex), a member of the American delegation, predicted acceptance by a conference committee of the Big Five's interpretation of council voting procedure.

The working conference committee of which Connally is a member will begin consideration tomorrow of the charter section dealing with the voting procedure.

"As a member of the committee," Connally told a reporter, "I shall urge immediate action. This has been a stumbling block to progress in the conference and I am very happy that it seems to have been removed."

The break in the veto deadlock developed at a mid-afternoon meeting of chiefs of the Big Five delegations in Stettinius' penthouse atop a San Francisco hotel. Immediately the secretary hurried to conference headquarters to announce the results to the conference steering committee, in which all 50 conference delegations are represented.

Stettinius Announcement

The steering committee held its briefest session of the conference and Stettinius immediately appeared before a crowd of reporters to declare:

"Ladies and gentlemen, I am happy to announce that I can now make the announcement for which you have been waiting for some time."

Stettinius grinned as a round of applause thundered through the auditorium of the veterans building. Then he read the formal statement. It was punctuated by more applause.

days the front has been so muddy that supplies have had to be transported by hand, ship and plane.

Near Naha Airdrome

The Sixth division Marines, moving slowly southeastward from the Naha airdrome sector, encountered fire from machineguns, heavy automatic weapons and dug-in mortars as they pressed to Gushi town, on the south side of the Oroku peninsula, in advance of more than a mile from the airfield.

Marines of the First division, immediately east, captured Hill 108, west of Takiton town, on a highway leading to the sizeable west coastal city of Itoman, western anchor of the Yaeju-Dake escarpment. Advance elements drove to the west coast about 900 yards above Itoman.

Tank-led columns of the 96th Infantry division advanced about 1,000 yards through hills northeast of Yuza town, two miles due east of Itoman.

large standing Army with an active bureaucracy and a permanent conscription system must ultimately undermine democracy . . . For us to adopt this peacetime military training program would mean to serve notice that we have no faith in the capacity of the United Nations to achieve a lasting peace organization."

Huber F. Klemme of Cleveland, speaking for the Evangelical and Reformed church, opposed the legislation on the ground that "we can see only a militarization of our democracy that will tend toward future wars."

Two Held In New Mexico Grain Theft

A Lubbock man, 34, and an Idalou man, 24, were arrested Thursday in connection with the theft of 17,300 pounds of grain in Roosevelt county, N. M., and its sale in Lubbock.

The men signed waivers of extradition and were taken to Portales yesterday afternoon by the Roosevelt county sheriff and a deputy who, with Texas Rangers and the sheriff's department, conducted an all-day investigation here.

One man admitted the theft, officers said.

The grain was stolen March 30 from a Roosevelt county farm and sold here the next day.

The 2-day-old infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Starr of Seagraves died at 9:07 o'clock Thursday night in Lubbock General hospital.

Lt. Weems Jones Is Here With Family

JONES

Lt. Weems D. Jones, 26, son of Mrs. R. A. Metcalfe of 2016 Tenth, and former prisoner of war in Germany, is in Lubbock on 60-day leave.

Lt. Jones, an employ of the City of Lubbock before going into the service, was liberated April 29 at Stalag luft No. 3 at Moosburg, Germany. Several other Lubbock men were imprisoned there, he said. He was freed exactly a year from the day he was interned.

He was a pilot of a Liberator.

Lt. Jones will report to Miami, Fla., for reassignment Aug. 2.

Truman's Views

Hines as administrator of veterans affairs.

He made this change, the President asserted, simply on his belief that a veteran of this war should handle affairs of veterans of the same engagements. He would not have been very happy, as a World war I veteran, if a Spanish - American war veteran had been in control during the last two decades or more, he said.

The President, attired in a dark blue suit because of the unusual chill in Washington, started his meeting by congratulating the House upon its 345 to 18 approval of the Bretton Woods agreements.

He then referred to the fact that next Sunday is the third anniversary of the destruction of Lidice which he called one of the most barbarous crimes in the Nazi wave of criminality.

May Ration Travel

Then, turning to home front problems, he warned that if it becomes necessary for the government to ration travel in the critical days ahead he will not hestite to do so.

He said that the movement of soldiers from Europe back to this country and to the Pacific would strain transportation facilities to the very limit and that citizens had best stay at home.

Then in rapid order the President announced:

1. The appointment of Navy Lt. Paul M. Herzog as chairman of the National Labor Relations board replacing H. A. Mills, who it was explained is leaving because of poor health.

Gillette Successor

2. The appointment of W. Stuart Symington of St. Louis to succeed former Senator Guy M. Gillette of Iowa as chairman of the Surplus Property board when the latter leaves July 15. The President said the question whether the board is changed from a three to a one man control is a matter for Congress, not the White House, to decide.

3. The resignation of Grover B. Hill as undersecretary of agriculture and the appointment of John B. Hutson, deputy director of war mobilization, to succeed him. Hill is a Texan, Hutson a Kentuckian.

4. His complete approval of the report of Supreme Court Justice Robert Jackson calling for sure punishment of Nazi criminals, even if the U. S. should have to proceed alone with the punishment of those in its possession. However he did not think such a course was necessary since the British had acquiesced in an overall tribunal and he believes the French and Russians are likely to do so soon.

Wage Formula To Stand

5. That the "Little Steel" formula limiting wages will stand as it is for the present and the government will undertake an overall survey at a later date to determine whether any changes are required.

6. That members of the Senate and House are grossly underpaid and that he would sign legislation raising their salaries from the present $10,000 a year to $15,000 to $25,000 if Congress should pass such a bill.

B-29 Osaka Raid

led by two B-29s, "invaded the skies" over the southern Japanese home island of Kyushu, beginning more than an hour ahead of the Osaka raid.

The dispatch said the fighters apparently were from Okinawa, made little attempt to attack targets but scattered propaganda leaflets around the city of Kagoshima.

Heavy Overcast

Crews of the Osaka mission B-29s reported on return to Marianas bases that the explosives and incendiaries were dropped through heavy overcast. They were unable to observe results.

No Japanese opposition of any sort was observed. The returned flyers said the sky above the overcast was empty of Japanese interceptors, anti-aircraft shells and fire balloons.

Osaka previously was attacked by mass fleets of B-29s with incendiary bombs March 14 and June 1. Reconnaissance photographs disclosed these attacks had lain waste 11.5 square miles of the city.

Navy's Tigercat

low-level opposition as well as bombing and strafing the enemy and getting away.

They added that the longer range, made possible by a 300-gallon detachable fuel tank, enabled it to operate ahead of ground attacks or to give fighter cover on distant bomber missions. Carrying a torpedo 100 miles an hour faster than present torpedo planes adds to the F7F's value against enemy ships.

Marine Ground Use

The first production of the Tigercats will be used by Marine corps pilots for land-based operations, and the Navy said its own fliers would use the plane on new 45,000-ton aircraft carriers of the Midway class. Although swift in the air, the plane has a low landing speed, and a tricycle landing gear makes it easy to handle on crowded carrier decks.

Another version, carrying two men, will be used as a night fighter and as a patrol plane.

Dinner Held By Tech Art Group

Mrs. Roger C. Roberdeau of Austin, retiring president of the Texas Fine Arts association, was principal speaker at the Tech Art Institute dinner last night in the Cadet lounge at Hilton hotel.

J. E. Maisen, master of ceremonies, presented Robert Lockard, secretary of the Tech organization, who summarized the work of the Institute during the past year. F. A. Kleinschmidt told of the beginnings of the Tech Art Institute, founded in 1932, and pointed out that it owns 150 prints besides the water colors and oils that have been purchased during the 13 years.

Tech Collection Cited

Kleinschmidt also called attention to the collection of prints, water colors and oils that were on the walls of the dining hall and explained that they were chosen at random from the Institute's collection. Eight of the prints were purchased at a board meeting this week, as was one of the paintings.

Mrs. Roberdeau told of how the Texas Fine Arts association grew from the purchase in 1911 of the studio and collection of Elizabeth Ney, in Austin, to its present proportions. The estate of Clara Driscoll, originally the home of Stephen F. Austin, located five miles out of the capital city, now houses the Texas Fine Arts museum. Called "Laguna Gloria," the estate is one of the show places of the state.

The Fine Arts Institute next year will become a chapter member of the state organization and a showing of the local collection will be held, Kleinschmidt said.

Officers Elected

During a short business meeting, Mrs. T. K. Martin was elected secretary to replace Lockard, who resigned the office, and Mrs. J. C. Allensworth, Mrs. R. G. Porter and Mrs. Ben Brewer were re-elected as members of the board.

Seventy-five members of the organization were present at the dinner. A reception honoring Mrs. Roberdeau was given in the home of President and Mrs. W. M. Whyburn on Tech campus in the afternoon.

Shangri-La Valley

Guinea.

The valley is in a remote area. A National Geographic expedition explored parts of the area some years ago but never reached Shangri-La.

The fabulous valley — it is so like Hilton's setting for "Lost Horizon" — is populated by a civilization infinitely superior to anything elsewhere on this little explored island.

An aerial funeral, one of the oddest ever solemnized in the Southwest Pacific, took place 11,000 feet over the crashed plane.

Chaplin Cornelius Waldo, Indianapolis, described the scene today. The funeral plane took off from Hollandia May 26.

"In the late afternoon, as the setting sun shone against the almost perpendicular stoney cliffs bordering the tropical valley, Catholic and Protestant services were read," Waldo said.

"The beauty of it seemed to whisper a peace more living and beautiful than any spot I've seen."

Twenty wooden crosses were dropped with one wooden Star of David to mark the grave of a Jewish WAC sergeant.

"Out of the depth have I cried unto Thee, oh, Lord," intoned Col. August Geardard, Milwaukee, Wisc., Catholic priest from Psalm 129.

A 19-minute Protestant burial service was conducted by Lt. Col. Carl Mellberg, Dayton, Ohio, whose last parish was in New Jersey.

The three crash survivors took part in the ceremony but could not hear the aerial service. They were given a description over the walkie-takie before it commenced.

After the crosses were dropped, the commander of the dropped paratroopers informed the trio the service was at end. The paratroopers aided the survivors in placing the crosses and star on the graves.

Wife Of Discoverer Recounts His Story

By HAROLD STREETER
Associated Press Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7. —Mrs. Ray T. Elsmore, of Menlo Park, Calif., wife of the colonel who discovered Dutch New Guinea's "Hidden Valley" told me in utmost confidence two weeks ago that an airplane crash had brought the first white men into that fabulous area.

Her story, as conveyed from her husband at Hollandia, varies only slightly from that sent from Hollandia by Associated Press correspondent Ralph Morton.

As He Sketched It

As sketched by Colonel Elsmore: The transport plane crashed near Hidden Valley. After considerable searching, Elsmore spotted the wreckage, saw that there were survivors and dropped the walkie-talkie.

Later, he said, two Filipino medics were parachuted beside the survivors.

Still later paratroopers were dropped into the valley proper, supposedly to build an airfield for planes to land to bring out the survivors.

In April, I flew with colonel Elsmore over this fantastic valley. Between Hollandia and the valley there is an endless series of mountain ridges, all covered with impenetrable jungles. At no point is there a place for a forced landing.

Sgt. William F. Brown Recovering In England

THE 124th GENERAL HOSPITAL, England. — Wounded by shrapnel from an enemy mortar shell while fighting with his infantry unit near Prum, Germany, S/Sgt. William F. Brown, 19, of Route 2, Lubbock, Tex., is now recovering at this United States Army general hospital in England. He has been awarded the Purple Heart and has been reported by his ward surgeon, Capt. Robert Siegal, of Revere, Mass., as "making a very satisfactory recovery." Sgt. Brown's wife, Juanell, lives at the rural address. Before entering the Army in March, 1944, he was engaged in farming.

Bretton Woods

the 44 nations to act on ratification legislation.

The limited House opposition bloc, led by Republican Representative Sumner of Illinois, Smith of Ohio and Buffett of Nebraska, assailed the world monetary plan as "a swindle and a fraud" and as an international WPA. They said "debtor nations" would control the world banking agency.

Prior to the final vote today the House turned down 325 to 29 a motion by Sumner to send the bill back to the banking committee with instructions that all provisions for the stabilization fund be stricken out.

Here's How It Works

As outlined by Treasury department officials, here is how the Bretton Woods agreements would work:

World bank—

1. Encourage international investment in productive enterprise in war-devastated countries and development of natural resources, public utilities and industries in underdeveloped countries. The bank would guarantee loans by private lenders and make some loans out of its own resources.

2. Make long term currency stabilization loans to countries whose money encounters difficulty.

3. Each member nation would share in the bank risks in proportion to the stock it held.

Of the $9,100,000,000 bank capital, the United States would subscribe $3,175,000,000. Members would pay in at the start 10 per cent of their subscription, which would mean $317,500,000 for the United States.

Fund—

1. Stabilize currencies of all cooperating nations in terms of gold.

2. Progressively remove barriers against making payments across international boundaries.

3. Provide a revolving fund of foreign exchange for member countries to enable them in times of stress to maintain stable and unrestricted currency relationships.

Of the $8,800,000,000 fund assets the United States would subscribe $2,750,000,000.

The ratification legislation makes no change whatever in the language of the agreements drawn at Bretton Woods. It does, however, "interpret" the language.

Under a compromise, by which the bill obtained bi-partisan support, the banking committee said in the "interpretation" that the bank, not the fund, would make long term stabilization loans. The United States has veto power over United States currency handled by the bank.

Patton's Welcome

and strode across the 50-foot runway where Mrs. Patton, who had come up from the Patton farm at Hamilton, waited.

He had been away two and one-half years. He doffed his helmet and kissed Mrs. Patton.

Then he turned to his son, George S. Patton, III, a West Point cadet who was given special leave to meet his father, and kissed him on the cheek. He then embraced his two daughters.

At the hatch shell on the Charles River embankment, where many thousands had gathered to hear the general speak, a section was reserved for 400 wounded veterans of Patton's Third Army.

The general looked directly at the men who had fought with him in North Africa and Europe as he paid tribute to the veterans before the wildly yelling crowd.

"With your blood and bonds," General Patton said, "we crushed the Germans before they got here.

"This ovation is not for me, George S. Patton—George S. Patton is simply a hook on which to hang the Third Army."

The general paid tribute to all his men at the state dinner.

Praising his generals he said, "without them the war with Germany might have lasted much longer than it did. I call them 'my generals' and the biggest thing they did was to get along with me."

Of the enlisted men who served under him Patton declared feelingly:

"I speak of the men who, regardless of mud, regardless of ice, regardless of snow, went on and on.

"And I must come back to the soldier with his naked bosom—and it's naked as hell when they are shooting at you—crossed rivers that couldn't be crossed and plowed through where nobody could plow through.

"These men were heroic Americans and—by God — they are heroic.

"We should thank God such men were born.

"I can't say any more."

Patton and the 46 officers and men with him arrived in three transport planes escorted, as they reached Bedford airfield, by six flying Fortresses.

Among those who disembarked with the general was M/Sgt. William G. Meeke of Junction City, Kans., the general's personal orderly. Meeks, a negro who has served 27 years in the Army, has been with Patton six years.

Damage Light From Four Fires Thursday

Firemen answered four alarms Thursday and early last night but damage in none was reported excessive.

Heaviest damage was caused by a fire on the L. B. Baker place in the Carlisle community, where a brooder house and several hundred bundles of feed were destroyed, according to Glenn Smith, assistant fire chief.

Intensified sunlight or a cigaret was believed to have set off a flare-up about 3:15 o'clock at Forrest Lumber company, 1306 Fourth. A pasteboard carton containing four jars of turpentine burst into flame but was checked by firemen. One possibility was that the sun, shining through a glass jar, set fire to the pasteboard.

A blaze caused by a "shorted" electric circuit did light damage at Goodnight packing plant on the Plainview highway at 6:30 o'clock last night. At 8:47 o'clock yesterday morning, similar trouble originated a fire in a pump at Standard Oil company's bulk and service station, at 106 East Broadway. Personnel had extinguished the fire when firemen arrived.

To keep her young children warm, an Eskimo mother carries them naked on her bare back, underneath her coat.

Needed: A Correction!

Cause Is Worse Than The Result

UNDER a recognized assumption that all are fallible, those who contributed to the Legislature's latest "boner"—which, incidentally, may cost Texans all the way from $75,000 to $200,000—should be censured less than the system which ineptly fails to provide any way "out" for such clumsiness.

When a resolution was placed on the desk of Gov. Coke R. Stevenson, calling for an election to amend the state constitution to sell land to war veterans, the governor discovered an irrevocable error in it.

The Legislature's intent was to have the election called on general election day, on Nov. 5, 1946, when there will be an election on amending other constitutional provisions. Instead, the certified copy of the land sale amendment calls the election for the "first Thursday in November," which would be on Nov. 7.

Since constitutional amendments cannot be submitted at a special session of the Legislature and since the Legislature is adjourned, it is not possible to change the date as defined in the resolution—hence, it is interpreted, there must be two elections! One on the resolution to issue $25,000,000 in bonds to buy land to sell to veterans on easy terms —and those others coming up on general election day!

That the die is cast is recognized, as evidenced by the construction placed by the chief executive, himself an able attorney. But why, one should inquire, should the Legislature not get busy and clear the legal air of the state of such procedure that in a twinkling can lash the arms of the Legislature behind its back?

The statutes, themselves passed by the Legislature, often are construed by appellate courts not on the sheer weight of their own words, but on court surmise as to the "Legislature's intent." Such courts will hold directly against what appears to be the meaning of a given law, and enunciate their conviction legislative "intent" was thus and so.

With that as a precedent—or for the need of sheer logic, if you please—why cannot the Legislature amend its own procedure slightly so that, when such future fallible errors are discovered, its members can be circularized or otherwise given a chance to go on record as to what their "intent" was, and with the further provision that something definite can be done to cure the defect once that "intent" is established?

Our Fine "Silent Service"

BECAUSE the "Silent Service" is aptly named, Americans have a difficult time appreciating what a tremendous role our under-sea arm is playing in the war against Japan. The submarine flotillas of the Pacific Fleet work by stealth. All that is heard of them is contained in the brief summaries of ships sunk and in the communiques—happily they are rare—which report that a sub is overdue and presumed lost.

The latest totals, reported by Admiral Chester Nimitz from Guam, help to bring home the prodigious accomplishment of American submarines. Japan's merchant fleet is smaller by 1,119 vessels totaling 4,500,000 tons as a result of their forays since Pearl Harbor. In the past year alone, as bases have been won close to Japan's home water, 2,000,000 tons of enemy shipping have been sent to the bottom by the "Silent Service." As a result, Admiral Nimitz says, the lines which connected the Jap empire with its stolen possessions have been "all but severed."

Achievements like this have not been made without heavy cost. The number of American submarines listed as overdue or lost now stands at the tragically high figure of forty-three. But this is only a fraction of the vast number of U-boats sacrificed by the Nazis in a far less successful campaign. Operating at enormously greater distances against targets far more widely dispersed, American submarines have sunk or damaged a far larger proportion of the enemy's shipping resources.

It is a record in which the officers and men of the submarine service can take a deep and justified pride. They have waged persistent and effective battle on the lifeline of the Japanese empire. When the final defeat of Japan is accomplished, a major share of the credit will belong to them.

"Faith in physicians will prolong your life," declares a physician. "The life-span of physicians is almost three years shorter than the general average," asserts a statistician. Draw your own conclusions.

Now the debunkers say Benjamin Franklin wasn't frugal. Not only that, but he stole most of those wisecracks which paragraphers have been stealing from him for, lo, these many years.

A LITTLE MELODRAMA
XXVI

In times of stress the eye roves, and mine roved right into a pair of yellow spats under a too long overcoat that covered an unpleasantly round little man—Mr. P. A. X. himself. He held one hand eloquently suggestive in his pocket.

Booker slid the gun down my back and thrust me towards a chair. I sat down with Booker's pistol ice-cold on the back of my neck Peter A. Xavier gave me a bleak unilluminative smile.

"Where," he said, "are the gems?"

"What gems?" I asked.

His lips drew straight over that meaningless smile. His voice became silky. "I am told," he said, "that you have a peculiar sense of honor. The Ostermann diamonds are mine. I bought them. And I propose to have them."

"No dice," I said.

The pistol muzzle bored into my neck and Peter A. Xavier seemed to swell at the veins.

"I mean I haven't got them." I spread my hands. "I haven't the faintest notion of where they are."

"Listen." Booker leaned close to my ear. "Last night Phineas Hudson came to The Ledges, put a pistol to my head, just as I'm putting one to yours now, and relieved me of the Ostermann diamonds."

"So you had them! It was you who slugged me in the basement corridor!"

"Trent, I'm warning you—"

"And you killed Phineas Hudson!"

For an instant all sound, all motion, all thought, seemed suspended. Xavier and Booker exchanged glances and I saw the gleam of distrust in the former's eyes.

"Booker." Peter A. Xavier's tone was a mere whisper and his eyes were dark, bitter pools. "You haven't lied to me?"

I could not see Booker's face, but the pressure on my neck relaxed.

"Xavier," he said, "don't be a fool. Would I stick my head in the noose here—now?"

"For five million dollars," Xavier's tongue slithered lovingly over the words, "you would do anything. So would I."

"Then we'd better get busy," said Booker.

For one long moment Xavier surveyed him, then nodded briefly and the pistol came away from my neck. I moved my head gently, caught the tense look in Xavier's eyes, then felt the blinding flash of pain as Booker's pistol butt crashed down on my skull.

There was a pin-ball game going on inside my skull and bright tinklings, in my brain, accompanied every movement of my head.

"Migraine," I thought to myself and tasted the bitterness on my tongue. I opened my eyes and looked straight into Xavier's eyes that were curiously like a sturgeon's. Deliberately, I tried to put my thumb in the very center of one eye, but my hands were fastened behind me through the slats of a very uncomfortable straight-backed chair. The dank odor of harbor and sea moss came up through the cracks in the floor and against the wall.

Booker sat astride a packing case looking at me expectantly.

"A little melodrama," I said.

Xavier's teeth showed briefly. Then he whipped out with the flat of his hand and struck me across the eyes.

"Where are the stones?" he asked.

The blow stung. The hot blood rushed into my cheeks, but, actually it hurt little. I said nothing.

"Where are the stones?" intoned Xavier.

Booker still watched. Xavier rose and hooked me full in the mouth with his fist. I went over backward in the chair. Like a cat he was on me pulling me upright again and I noted with satisfaction that there was blood on his knuckles.

"Where are the stones?"

I spat out a tooth. It was a good shot. It just missed Xavier's eye. "You," I said, "have a fixation."

Then he kicked me and I had merciful moments of hot black oblivion. I was conscious of my tongue—a thick, detached lump in my mouth threatening to choke me. I heard sounds that blurred and swelled, finally fading gently into the low tone of voices.

"This is useless." Booker was saying, matter of fact and dispirited. "I don't believe he knows."

"If he does," replied Xavier, "I shall torture it out of him."

"We should have got the girl," said Booker.

"Booker." Xavier's ferret eyes were on me. "He is again awake."

Booker came over and stood in front of me. "Trent," he said, "if you have the diamonds, you know of course that you can't dispose of them anywhere."

"I haven't the diamonds," I said. "Get me some mouthwash."

"Or if you know where they are," pursued Booker, "the information might be worth something to us—a great deal more, in fact, than you might expect to derive from illicit sale of the stones."

"You're contradicting yourself," I said. "I know nothing whatever about the Ostermann diamonds."

Booker stared at me thoughtfully. He gave a little shrug and said:

"Xavier, I am inclined to believe him."

"I," replied Xavier sucking his hand, "should like to make sure." Xavier came closer. I tensed. Those fish eyes had a glaze of ice over them. I teetered the chair a bit with my toes and kicked as I went over backward. I missed his chin by an eyelash and lay on my back in the ruins of the chair—helpless, unable to rise.

McEachern Named To Position With OPA

William R. McEachern of Lubbock has been named to the position of miscellaneous products representative in the rationing division of the Office of Price administration, Lubbock district, said Earl E. Kerr, acting district director.

McEachern fills the position made vacant by the transfer of Oscar Walker to the ration section of the rationing division. He has had 23 years experience in the shoe business.

Nelson Goes To ODT Regional Position

Nettles F. Nelson will take over duties as senior transportation specialist in the regional Office of Defense Transportation at Dallas today, after serving as district manager of the ODT office in Lubbock since August, 1944, according to a Thursday announcement by E. P. McCallam, jr., regional director of highway transport division.

Nelson will be succeeded in the district post here by John J. Van Pelt, assistant manager. Van Pelt said today no announcement of his successor would be made for several days.

Van Pelt has been in Lubbock since last Oct. 15. He is married, has a son, John J., jr., and a daughter, Dorothy Ann. The family resides at 2710 Twenty-third.

The Lubbock ODT district comprises 71 counties.

Europa Being Readied By U. S. For Service

ABOARD THE S. S. EUROPA, At Bremerhaven, Germany, June 7 (AP)—The 49,700-ton Europa, once slated to carry German invasion troops to England, is being overhauled and soon will be sailing the Atlantic again—but this time in the service of the United States.

It is presently estimated that this $16,000,000 piece of booty, now rusting, camouflaged and stripped of her once costly furnishings, will be ready for service within three months.

Looking At Life - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

SIX former luxury yachts bought from their erstwhile owners by the Navy are being offered for sale, as they are no longer needed for war purposes.

Among them is Harold S. Vandebilt's famous Nara, built at a cost of $750,000 and others once owned by such millionaires as R. Livingston Sullivan of Radnor, Pa., J. W. Doroll of New York and W. R. Reid of Houston, Tex.

BRANDEIS

All these luxury ships may be bought at greatly reduced prices and restored to their former splendor for much less than original cost.

You may want to buy one those yachts. With it, you will, of course, want one of the many hundreds of stately mansions that are for sale at bargain prices in almost every one of the country's large cities.

It is a rather strange phenomenon that in these days of acute housing shortages, millionaires' forty and fifty and seventy-room manor houses are on the bargain counter, while three or four-room flats and six-room houses are impossible to find.

It is just as strange that magnificent yachts go begging while old jaloppies bring the highest prices in automobile history.

Or is it so strange?

One reason is, of course, high taxes, and no household help.

But there is another reason, I think.

Display of wealth and showing off are going out of style.

I think we are entering an era in which success is not measured by how much money you have but by what you are worth in service to your community and your fellow men.

THE man who invented nylon may not be a millionaire, but I think he is considered more important than the man who becomes rich to the point where it can be put into mass production to the benefit or enjoyment of all mankind.

But statues are erected and history is written not to the men who make the money but to the memory of those whose brains and study and tireless work have made it possible for the commercial-minded to exploit the inventor's and discoverer's efforts.

Commerce and industry have done much to make this country great. But before the manufacturer and the salesman came the quiet, modest, earnest often poor man in the laboratory and the study.

Even the yachts and the mansions now so cheaply for sale were thought out and designed by engineers and architects.

U. S. Navy Can Guarantee Peace

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THE disclosure that the United States Navy now consists of ninety capital ships—twenty-three first-class battleships and sixty-seven cruisers — assures a more certain guarantee of postwar peace "within our time" than any pact which may emerge from the San Francisco Conference.

It means that no other great power will dare go to war if there is any chance that Uncle Sam will deliver this naval strength to the international alliance which holds out for a non-military settlement of future disputes.

TUCKER

President Truman apparently relies on this superiority to keep other nations from resorting to warfare. He has approved a new building program that will increase the number of dreadnoughts, cruisers and, what is more important, aircraft carriers.

It is clear that these additional vessels are not needed for the defeat of Japan. So they can be classed as further insurance against another global conflict, or as bargaining chips at the final peace table.

POLICEMAN: No nation will have the audacity to face our salt-water might when these new warships are added to those which will survive the present struggle.

Japan's fleet will have been destroyed or turned over to the Allies when she surrenders. Britain, once the master of the seas, will not have one-fourth of our maritime strength. Russia has no navy to speak of, except for a submarine complement that does not compare with our hundreds of underwater ships.

In the number of aircraft carriers, including the 27,000-ton types and the baby escorts, we blanket the combined navies of the world. The new construction program contemplates a great increase in this class of vessel, which has proved so effective in our various invasions and in warding off the U-boat menace.

Thus, regardless of San Francisco or other agreements designed to outlaw war, our fleet after firing ceases will become an international policeman by the very fact of its existence.

BATTLESHIPS: The relative sizes of the world's navies when the Japanese are conquered may send the vast battleships of forty-five thousand tons to Davy Jones's locker. Despite their brilliant performance on all the seven seas, they are possibly making their last appearance. And Uncle Sam may have the deciding voice in the controversy over their destiny.

Britain and the United States will have the only worth-while quota of battlewagons when this war ends, but we shall probably outnumber London's by two to one, or by even a more disproportionate ratio. It will then be possible for President Truman to suggest that we scrap these costly vessels and channel naval building into flat tops, small protective cruisers and subs.

Twenty years ago, in appearing as a witness for "Billie" Mitchell on Capitol Hill, Admiral William S. Sims declared that the Navy of the future would consist of "aircraft carriers and submarines." Although slightly premature, he maintained that air and underwater techniques had outmoded the mighty dreadnoughts.

Should the United States obtain strategic island bases in the Atlantic and Pacific at the peace table, the need for the heavies would be lessened. Shore-based planes could then adequately defend the Western Hemisphere. Carriers, cruisers and subs would furnish enough striking power if it so happened that we must ever again fight a war thousands of miles distant.

Such a shift in naval construction would permit some relief for the taxpayers by reducing the cost of our postwar national defense system. The new kind of Navy would impose a smaller financial burden on the budget.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

CHARLES de Gaulle's insistence on making France show off as if she were a great power — an obsession with him — is back of the latest bloodshed in Syria and Lebanon.

The situation has already embroiled Washington and London in the most serious clash with Paris since the day the haughty French General defied General Eisenhower over the occupation of Stuttgart.

Unless intervention by the British Commander in Chief of the Middle East brings an end to the fighting, the probable reaction on the tinderbox Moslem states will endanger United States Army communications between the Mediterranean and the Asiatic front.

An examination of the issues involved in this new outbreak is disheartening to those who hoped that San Francisco marked a new era in handling disputes threatening the peace of the world.

SHOOTING: General de Gaulle seems to have reverted to the old, discredited "snap the whip" method in dealing with mandated nations: "Do as we say or else—."

Although Paris pledged independence to Damascus and Beirut, provided that France was given certain prerogatives, the shooting of civilian crowds by Senegalese troops has ruined negotiations for an amicable separation.

Brute force is deciding. Weapons which the United States gave to France to fight the Nazis are now diverted to mowing down street mobs. Our lend-lease guns and planes are also being used by the French in Algeria to shoot Arab "rebels" protesting against a food famine.

But the French are not the only ones in the Levant who are making things difficult for us. Washington and London recognized the independence of Syria and Lebanon. The native governments repaid this friendly interest by increasing their militias to a war footing and allowing agitators to stir up trouble in the bazaars before exhausting mediation means.

As a result, the United States and Britain are in collision with France whose cooperation is vital to European peace.

BUNGLING: Why is General de Gaulle so high-handed? New York authorities on foreign policy think that he beats the empire drum so vigorously to distract the attention of Frenchmen from his ministry's inability to solve home front problems.

He is not to blame for many of the local difficulties. His nation in this war has lost one million five hundred thousand homes, two hundred thousand factories and thirty thousand farms.

The Germans are responsible for these hardships. However, French newspapers and opposition political parties maintain that bungling by the General's cabinet has delayed recovery.

De Gaulle is tightening his grip on the colonies and mandated areas to make certain that their resources will pour back to the mother country as aid for rehabilitation. Oil from Tunisia and French West Africa and sugar from the Antilles have already been received.

American trade is wanted to further stimulate the commonwealth. Georges Peter, Director of Economic Affairs of the Military of Colonies, has arrived in New York to explain to American importers and exporters how they can do business through the license system. Initial shipments of vanilla and rum have been landed here. A French Colonial Agency is now open in New York City.

When a person says, "I wouldn't do that if my life depended upon it," Fate usually makes a note of it and later crowds that person into a tight corner and makes him eat his words.

The guy who used to name Pullman cars has a new job. He's thinking up names for 15-cent ersatz off-brand wartime cigars made of two-thirds hay and one-third tobacco sweepings.

There is no danger that the Germans will ever possess the earth. They can't conquer it, and they will never become meek enough to inherit it.

Stokes Applauds Chief Executive's Action

President Truman And The FEPC

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—Nothing President Truman has done has stirred so much fuss within his party, or in Congress, as his forthright advocacy of a permanent Fair Employment Practices act to keep down discrimination in industry on the basis of race, creed, color, national origin or ancestry.

It took political courage.

It was an open challenge to the Southern wing of his party, still powerful in Congress—a challenge immediately accepted by the southerners. The Southern Democratic bloc not only has fought federal anti-discrimination legislation, but also has led the movement to kill off the wartime Federal Employment Practices committee, created by executive order of the late President Roosevelt, by depriving it of funds. The FEPC was left without funds in the War Agencies Appropriation bill now pending.

STOKES

The President's demand for a federal FEPC act was his second challenge to the Southern Conservative branch of the party within a few days. The first was his request for a federal Unemployment Compensation law for reconversion to supplement inadequate benefits of state laws. This is being resisted again, as it was last year, by Conservatives, both Southern Democrats and Republicans.

Honeymoon Wanes

It began to look as though the orange blossoms and magnolias which symbolized the honeymoon of the new President and his Southern political leaders are about to wither. At the same time, Mr. Truman has solidified himself with the New Deal wing of the party by his championship of minority rights and undoubtedly strengthened his position with minorities which are potent politically in big urban centers of the East and Midwest.

Political effects of Presidential acts are always analyzed and weighed here. But it must be remembered that the President is making no new departure. He was a champion of FEPC when he was in the Senate. He has carried his convictions with him to the White House.

THE President went directly to the issue. Not only did he call attention to failure of the House Appropriations committee to provide funds for the current FEPC, but he revealed that the bill to create a permanent five-member Federal Employment Practices commission was being bottled up by the House Rules committee.

He thus disclosed the blockading tactics of the Southerners on that powerful committee, which has had the bill since February, as well as the lip service by many Republicans, though their party platform advocated a permanent commission.

Besides challenging the Republicans, his plea for a permanent law also is a challenge to Southern liberals outside Congress. They have followed the general theory that the way to improve racial relations in the South is to raise the status of the negro—and the white—by better paid jobs.

Just An "Opening Wedge"

This law would apply only to industry in interstate commerce and to labor unions in interstate commerce and to workers employed by those with government contracts. Its object is to protect negroes, as well as other racial groups, in their right to jobs and thus the right to better wages. It has nothing to do with social equality, Jim Crow laws, housing, education, voting privileges, or with domestic servants or help on small farms. It only affects employers of six or more persons.

The primary purpose of the proposed commission is mediatory, to remove discriminations if possible by the conference method. If such is not possible, it may issue cease and desist orders which, however, are enforceable only by a court order, and thus subject to judicial review, like orders of other federal commissions.

THE present FEPC is entirely advisory. It has no powers of enforcement. It may cite cases to the President for his action through regular government agencies. Thus far only one case has been cited, the Southern Railway Firemens case.

FEPC is a wartime agency, with jurisdiction only in cases involving government contracts, directly or indirectly. It loses its jurisdiction immediately when plants become reconverted.

Fort Worth Remains Labor Shortage Area

FORT WORTH, June 7. (AP)—Despite laying off 10,000 war workers at Consolidated Vultee's bomber plant, Fort Worth still remains a critical labor shortage area, James R. Ellis, area director of the War Manpower commission, said today.

About 5,500 Fort Worth firms are placed under labor ceilings, Ellis explained, and will absorb the newly-jobless easily and rapidly, "clamoring for more labor after that."

THANKS FARMERS
IN BEHALF of our boys in the armed forces, we wish to thank you for the way you responded to our plea for large clean grade A eggs. Because of your patriotic cooperation, we have been able to get their eggs to them much faster than could have been possible otherwise. We still have many more war department orders to fill, and the government is looking to you to help us meet our increased quotas.
If you haven't heard of the way that you can make more money, and still be helping our soldier boys, ask your neighbor, or we will give you the information. Your large clean grade A eggs are still desperately needed. Thanks again

STOCKS SHOW FIRMNESS

NEW YORK, June 7 (AP) — Assorted stocks developed strength in today's market although many leaders continued in the losing division.

Gold Mines enjoyed an early revival on word Canada had removed production restrictions in this field. Rails and aircrafts negotiated a last-minute bulge as financial prospects seemed better for these industries.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up .1 of a point at 66. Both the industrial and utility composites lost ground. The rail average gained .4. Of 922 issues registering, 437 advanced and 274 retreated.

In the "new high" class were Chicago and Northwestern preferred, following another disbursement on this stock and Warner Bros., still reflecting dividend possibilities.

Ahead were International Nickel, United Aircraft, Southern Pacific, Texas Co., U. S. Rubber, Loew's, Montgomery Ward, Philip Morris and U. S. Gypsum. Casualties included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, American Telephone, Standard Oil (NJ), Sears Roebuck, Du Pont, Westinghouse, Anaconda and Eastman Kodak. Railway bonds came back.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, June 7 (AP)—Expectations that Congress will enact a more liberal price control law rallied the cotton futures market today as aggressive trade and commission house buying encountered some scale-up offerings.

Advances in the near months were limited by considerable hedge selling associated with the purchase of loan equities by spot firms. Traders anticipated that textile ceilings will be adjusted to assure mills a reasonable profit under the extended price law. It was also expected the purchase, designed to assure farmers parity for the staple, will be continued for another year.

Death For Goering Approved By Majority In U. S.; Some Would Have Him Tortured

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J.—The American people take a certain grim satisfaction in the suicides of former Nazi leaders, and they want more heads to roll.

If the people had their way, little concern would be shown for any nice international legalisms in the punishment of such high Nazis as Hermann Goering. When the public was asked in an Institute poll what should be done with the former leader of the Luftwaffe, two people out of every three said curtly: "Kill him."

GALLUP

Others think he should be imprisoned for life, while only a scant few—one in 25—would even give him the courtesy of a public trial for his crimes.

As Goering awaits his fate as a captive in England, the views of American civilians are reflected as follows in the poll:

"What punishment if any do you think we should give Goering?"
Kill him	67%
Imprison for life	6
Give him a trial	4
Other punishment	5
Do nothing	1
No opinion	17

The 67 per cent advocating death for Goering includes many who say that the manner of death should be made as unpleasant as possible, with torture thrown in.

The poll does not include the views of men in the armed forces. Presumably their opinions on the proper treatment for Goering would be equally as stern as the views of civilians, if not more so.

In addition to the problem of punishing Goering, Allied leaders will face the question of punishment for the thousands of Gestapo agents and Nazi Storm Troopers who were responsible for some of the most frightful atrocities perpetrated under Hitler's regime.

American opinion on whether punishment of war criminals should be on a scale large enough to include these types, has just been measured in a poll to be reported tomorrow.

Brownwood Man Talks To Club

Kiwanis club members at their weekly luncheon Thursday noon heard E. E. Kirkpatrick of Brownwood tell of kidnapings and bank robberies which have been shunted to direct investigation of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and how they have shown a marked decrease under the delving of that department.

Kirkpatrick, who had made a similar address Wednesday to the Rotary luncheon, was the intermediary who paid $200,000 to kidnapers of Chas. F. Urschel in 1933 in Oklahoma.

He said there had been 600 bank robberies in 1932, only 22 in 1942 after the FBI had been relegated to the task of convicting those responsible; 375 kidnapings have been reported—"and only two of them are unsolved: the Mattson and the Levine cases, in both of which victims were murdered." More than 100,000 suspects, he said, were interviewed by the FBI in connection with those unsolved cases.

Outline Given

Kirkpatrick outlined step by step how the nation's most wanted criminals were hunted down in the Urschel case. The "break," he said, came when a farmer was "taken into a woodshed by an FBI agent" and informed that "your wife says she will kill you if you talk—I believe I'll just kill you too!"

"The FBI doesn't use any rough stuff," the speaker said, "and I well know it, but the ruse worked. The farmer talked."

He said, in a droll laugh-evoking manner of speech, that Urschel was allowed to "deduct the $200,000 from his income tax, but he later paid more than that, at higher rates, on the $128,000 that the FBI dug up."

Twenty-Two Convictions

Twenty-two convictions were a result of the FBI's work—"everybody associated with the case in any irregular manner."

Out-of-Lubbock visitors were Harry V. Mathews of Brownfield, L. M. Hargrave of Wolfforth, Frank Pickel of Tulsa, Okla., Truett Owen of Sherman and Wallace Wood of the armed services, and a Kiwanian from Plainview, E. B. Miller, former lieutenant-governor of this Kiwanis division.

Rev. H. G. Gantz, pastor of the First Christian church, offered an invocation. H. L. Gowin was introduced as a new member. W. C. Wood is Kiwanis president.

CONVICTED OF MURDER

BEEVILLE, June 7. (AP)—A Bee county jury yesterday convicted Victoriano Salazar of murder in the March 9 slaying of Capt. Alfred Basler of the Brownsville police department. Salazar, who was said to be a citizen of Mexico, was sentenced to death in the electric chair.

Jackson Reports On War Trials

WASHINGTON, June 7 (U.P.) — Supreme Court Justice Robert H. Jackson, American prosecutor of Axis war criminals, reported at length to President Truman today on plans to bring European war criminals, including the German general staff, to trial.

Time Not Announced

Jackson delivered to the president a 5,000 word report on his preliminary trip to London, but left unanswered the questions of when the war crimes trials would start or how long they would take. The answer to this, he said, depends on the action of other governments and many agencies.

Jackson said the Allies would accuse "a large number of individuals and officials who were in authority in the government, in the military establishment, including the general staff, and in the financial, industrial and economic life of Germany who by all civilized standards are provable to be common criminals."

He said legal charges against the top Nazis would be divided into three classes:

Three Classes Listed

1. Atrocities and offenses against persons or property in violation of international law, these including the killing and mistreatment of wounded and prisoners of war, firing on undefended localities, pillage and wanton destruction and ill-treatment of inhabitants of occupied territory.

2. Atrocities and persecutions on racial and religious grounds committed since 1933.

3. Invasions of other countries and initiation of wars of aggression in violation of international law or treaties.

No great Differences

The American chief counsel in the prosecution of Axis war criminals reported "no substantial differences" between this country and the British on the prosecution of major war criminals. He noted, however, that the Soviet union was not yet committed.

Jackson said the provisional government of France had accepted in principle the American proposals for trials before an international military tribunal and would designate its representatives shortly.

Russia has been informed of the British-American steps, he said, and "there is no reason to doubt that it will unite in the prosecution."

From 1,300 B. C. to the ninth century B. C., Phoenicia was a country of great commercial importance because of its seafaring merchants.

EXTRADITION ASKED

LONDON, June 7. (AP)—The Belgrade radio said today Yugoslavia has demanded the extradition of Field Marshal Milan Nedic, former Nazi puppet premier of Serbia, on war crimes charges. Nedic and his brother Milutin Nedic, who was his minister of war, were reported in western Allied hands May 10.

Young Sailor Circles Globe As Naval Guard Aboard Cargo Vessel

A few years ago a trip around the world seemed something far out of reach to R. J. Hightower, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hightower of 1823 Ave. E, and former employe in the Avalanche-Journal sterotyping department.

But young Hightower, a seaman first class, USN, back in Lubbock on leave, has just made such a trip and says, "I guess it was worth a million bucks to me." Hightower circled the globe on a merchant ship, on which a Navy crew manned the vessel's light guns.

His ship, the S. S. Texarkana Victory, pulled out from the West coast and weighed anchor in New York two months and 22 days later.

"Those New York people are certainly nice to service men," he said. "Everywhere you went there were New Yorkers who would talk to you and would go out of their way to show you a good time."

Hightower recalled that when the Texarkana docked at Melbourne, Australia, "about 250 women were waiting to show us a good time."

The ship, carrying a cargo he is not permitted to disclose, put in at Calcutta, India; Colombo, Ceylon; Aden, Arabia; at a port at the mouth of the Suez and at Port Said, then threaded the Mediterranean and Gibraltar in reaching the Atlantic ocean homeward

Gallant Role Of Sub Nautilus In Makin Raid Revealed By Navy

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The Army, Navy, and Air Corps all have their heroes and their names are known to the world. Some of the most brilliant performances of the war have been turned in by American submarines, but their stories have been held secret in the Navy's voluminous files. At last, a part of the story may be told. This is one in a series on underwater heroes of the United States Navy).

By MURLIN SPENCER
Associated Press Staff Writer

PEARL HARBOR, June 7. — On the little Pacific island of Makin a Marine in jungle green was praying and offshore the U. S. submarine Nautilus was firing on a range given by a son of the President of the United States.

The guns of the Nautilus, firing almost blindly, sank a Japanese transport and enabled Col. Evans F. Carlson and his Marine Raiders to complete their job and come home.

Much of the success of the now historic Makin Island raid, one of the most daring of this war, was because of the American submarine with a birilliant career, a part of which now can be told.

Captain (then Commander) William H. Brockman of Groton, Conn., packed every available inch of space on the Nautilus with specially-trained Marines and set out for Makin. A second submarine carried additional Marine fighting men.

Surprise Attack Set

The plan was to put the Marines ashore for a single day in a paralyzing, surprise attack designed to create as much havoc as possible, bring back information and possibly prisoners — there were no live Japanese left when the Marines finally looked around for prisoners—and throw a scare into the Japanese Army and Navy.

The morning of the attack was black and wet, but quietly and efficiently the Marines lowered their rubber boats over the side and jumped in.

The attack went off exactly according to plan—until a transport was sighted in the lagoon. Brockman is modest about the point, but the transport is believed to have held enough Japanese to have made the situation critical for the comparative handful of Marines.

Major James Roosevelt, son of the President, was ashore and in "walkie-talkie" communication with the submarine. He told of the hazard, and gave a range. Then the walkie-talkie faded out and never was heard again.

A Marine non-com saw the transport, too, and later told how he worried because "if the ship landed reinforcements we would have no chance. Then I heard the sub's guns."

Guns Sweep Lagoon

The submarine gunners swept the lagoon, being careful to keep from placing their shells among the Marines.

And then on the shore the Marine:

"I gave a silent prayer of thanks for the destruction of this ship because without its destruction I am sure we could not have escaped."

A patrol craft also was sunk at the same time, and the Marines carried out their campaign of destruction. Offshore the Nautilus and the second submarine waited to take them off.

They waited while the Marines struggled to get their little boats through a pounding surf. Many of the boats capsized and then the Japanese planes came and the sub was forced to submerge. Back it came and the Marines paddled away from shore, carrying their wounded. They could not bury their dead, but each dead Marine was left with his face looking toward the sky and the natives were given money and told to bury them.

Neal D. Hallmark Of Slaton Is Promoted To First Lieutenant

WITH A 12TH AAF B-25 GROUP IN THE MEDITERRANEAN THEATER — Promotion of Neal D. Hallmark to the rank of first lieutenant has been made recently, 12th Air Force headquarters announces. His home is at 500 W. Lubbock St., Slaton, Texas. Lieutenant Hallmark is assigned as a bomber pilot with a B-25 Mitchell bombardment group that helped the American Fifth and British Eighth armies assail the "last ditch" Nazi troops in Italy which resulted in the end of the campaign. This Mitchell unit began its combat history in March, 1943, supporting the Eight army's drive to Tunis, and they supported both armies in the bitterest battles of the Italian campaign. It also supported the American invasion of southern France and with other 12th Air Force units helped smash the heavily defended Brenner railway line to a fragment of its original value as a supply route.

Trial Of Pete Norris, Accomplice Opens

GALVESTON, June 7. (AP) — Trial of Pete Norris and John Frederick Box, jr., who escaped from Retrieve prison farm last February, opened today in federal court.

They entered not guilty pleas to an indictment charging them with taking a government automobile from Frank Clarkson, a federal game management agent.

Clarkson testified that on Feb. 27 Norris and Box got out of a car on the road near Manvel in Brazoria county, took possession of his automobile and forced him and a man named Miller to drive them to Houston. They went over "back roads" to Houston where Norris made a telephone call at a filling station, the witness said.

In a few minutes a big car drove up, Clarkson testified, and Norris and Box left in this car after taking his rifle and pistol.

At the time of his escape Norris was under prison sentences aggregating 436 years plus two life sentences.

U. S. Sends Housing Shipment To Britain

LONDON, June 7. (U.P.) — The first batch of an expected total of 30,000 pre-fabricated houses en route here from the United States has arrived in Britain. Workmen will begin erecting them over the week-end in the London district of Tottenham.

The houses are expected to be ready for occupancy within two weeks, when they will be rented for about $2 a week.

Cheese, Bean Sandwich

FOR Sunday night supper — or for any supper—this combination of green beans, cheese, mayonnaise, and eggs produces a substantial protein dish. To increase the protein content of the menu serve oatmeal and nut cookies with the dessert, or a dessert in which peanut butter is used liberally.

Grilled Cheese-Bean Sandwiches
(Serves 6)

Six slices toast, fortified margarine, 1 pounds cooked, frenched string beans, 2 tablespoons minced onion, 12 small slices processed smoked cheese or cheese spread, 6 to 8 tablespoon mayonnaise.

Spread hot toast with fortified margarine. Cut diagonally and arrange in diamond shape. Place beans lengthwise on toast and sprinkle with onion. Place a slice of cheese on each half of toast slice and a generous teaspoonful of real mayonnaise across center. Run under broiler until cheese melts and mayonnaise browns. Serve with deviled eggs.

Deviled Eggs
(Yield: 16 halves)

Eight hard-cooked eggs, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup mayonnaise, 1 tablespoon sugar, 2 tablespoons mustard with horseradish, stuffed olives.

Cool eggs thoroughly before peeling under running cold water. Cut in two lengthwise. Remove egg yolk and mash with fork, adding salt, mayonnaise, sugar and mustard. Heap into whites Garnish with stuffed olives.

Salmon With Mayonnaise Sauce

Clean a two-pound piece of salmon and tie it in a piece of cheesecloth. Boil in enough water to cover, with salt and the juice of a lemon. A two-pound piece should take about 25-30 minutes. It is done when it leaves the bone. Remove the skin after cooked. Serve hot with:

Mayonnaise Sauce

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
Salt and pepper
Juice of ½ lemon
½ cup mayonnaise
1 egg, well beaten

Melt butter or margarine. Remove from fire and add flour, mixing to a smooth paste. Return to flame, add milk and stir until sauce thickens. Season to taste. Combine mayonnaise and lemon juice. Add sauce to mayonnaise mixture. Add mayonnaise and sauce mixture to egg. Pour over hot salmon. Serve immediately.

Keep cellar stairs in good repair to prevent accidents.

Favorite Recipes

(At the invitation of the food editor, women of Lubbock and the South Plains are presenting recipes in this column. You are invited to submit family favorites, especially those that are short on ration points or made of materials available in the grocery stores at present.)

This recipe for a cooling drink was in answer to a request to Mrs. Thomas L. Gilbert, who serves it with success to youngsters, teenagers and others.

Boil two and one half cups water and two cups sugar for five minutes. Pour over the juice of 3 oranges and 6 lemons to which has been added a handful of crushed mint leaves and grated rind of one orange. Let mixture set for 2 hours. Strain, put in refrigerator. To serve, pour over crushed ice.

Fruit Sherbet

3 bananas, mashed, juice 3 lemons, juice of 3 oranges.

Mix with 1 cup sugar. Freeze to a mush. Fold into whites of 3 eggs whipped stiffly.

With sugar becoming scarcer and scarcer, a reader who asks that her name be withheld sends her favorite recipe for—

SUGARLESS TWO-EGG CAKE

2¼ c sifted cake flour
2¼ tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
½ c shortening
2 tsp. grated orange rind
1 c white corn syrup, 2 tbsp.
2 eggs, unbeaten
2-3 c. milk
1½ tsp. vanilla extract

Sift the dry ingredients together. Work shortening and rind with back of spoon until fluffy and creamy. Add syrup gradually, beating thoroughly with spoon after each addition. Add 1-4 flour mixture, and beat until blended with a spoon. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each. Then add remaining flour mixture in thirds alternately with milk in halves, beating thoroughly with a spoon after each addition. Add vanilla. Turn into 2 greased 8" layer pans. Bake in a moderately hot oven at 375 degrees F for 30 minutes, or until done. This makes a thin batter.

Variations: 1. For Space Cake, sift 1 1-4 tsp. cinnamon, 1-2 tsp. nutmeg, and 1-4 tsp. cloves with flour. Substitute 1 tsp. grated lemon rind for orange rind, and use 1 tsp. vanilla.

Whipped Cream Filling

Place 1-2 pint day old cream in top part of double boiler. Fill bottom of metal double boiler with ice cubes, sprinkle 2 tablespoons of salt over ice cubes. Beat cream until it peaks. Let stand over ice until time to serve. Season with sugar and vanilla.

Coconut Pie From Mrs. King's File

Because numerous persons have praised coconut cream pies baked by Mrs. John King, request was made for Mrs. King's recipe for the food page.

She has taken pies baked by the recipe to church and other events, at which compliments have been given her cooking.

Bananas, pineapple and other fruits also may be used, as well as coconut, in the pie.

The ingredients are:

1-2 C. sugar.
4 T. flour.
1-8 Tsp. salt.
1-4 C. cold sweet milk.
1 1-2 C. scalded milk.
3 egg yolks.
1 Tsp. vanilla.
1 C. shredded coconut.

The sugar, flour and salt are blended with the 1-4 cup of cold milk, and the scalded milk added. The mixture should be stirred constantly over slow heat until thick. The beaten egg yolks are added and the mixture cooked two minute longer. The vanilla is added after it is removed from the stove and then the coconut, or fruit, is added. The filling is placed in a cooked pastry shell and covered with meringue.

Cooling Beverages Will Pep Up Those Jaded Appetites

SPRING and summer parties . . . garden parties, bridge foursomes, luncheons on the porch, after-golf snacks, all must have their cooling drinks.

Iced chocolate and iced coffee are good stand-bys and always popular but subtly combine the two and top with ice cream and you have a beverage that is "different." Here is a delightful surprise called Mocha Float, snowy mounds of ice cream floating in a milky chocolate. It is a perfect hot weather drink for adults of the family, one that also is nutritious because of the milk and ice cream used.

Serve tiny rolls filled with cottage cheese with Mocha Float for afternoon refreshments.

MOCHA FLOAT

6 tablespoons chocolate syrup
3 cups double strength coffee
4½ cups milk
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 pint ice cream.

Blend chocolate syrup with coffee; add extra sugar if desired; chill. Combine mixture with cold milk and blend thoroughly. Pour into tall glasses and top each with 2 tablespoons vanilla ice cream. Serves six.

NO-POINT DRINKS

If your sugar supply is low, there are several types of beverages that can be prepared with sugar-savers like corn syrup, fruit juices and honey. Here are two suggestions for eye - appealing frosty drinks, served in attractive glasses:

Grape Juice Ade
(Serves 4)

½ cup honey
1 cup boiling water
½ cup lemon juice
Grape juice
Mi xthe honey with the boiling water. Stir until dissolved. Pour mixture into glasses and add enough grape juice to fill glasses. Add 2 tbsp. of lemon juice to each glassful before serving with drinking straws.

Fruit Freeze
(Serves 6-8)

1 fresh ripe pineapple
2 lemons
1 quart cold water
Syrup to taste

Pare the pineapple, remove the core and eyes. Run pieces of pineapple through the food chopper, then add water, lemon and corn syrup or honey syrup to taste. Chill and fill glasses to within a third of the top and add a scoop of raspberry ice. Serve with drinking straws.

Use Fruit Filling In Molasses Roll

When it comes to tossing off a super dessert in wartime, one that uses a minimum of sugar and shortening, even the most experienced culinary queen faces brain-racking complications. The following molasses sponge roll, just an old familiar sponge cake, with New Orleans molasses and a sprinkling of spice to give a fresh new twist, shows what can be done. Then by baking the mixture in a thin sheet, it can be rolled up with all kinds of different fillings — whipped cream, ice cream or even a plain vanilla packaged pudding—or the little fruit number given below. Anyway, you do it, it's a sugar-saving idea, it has a party flavor and it serves 10 people generously.

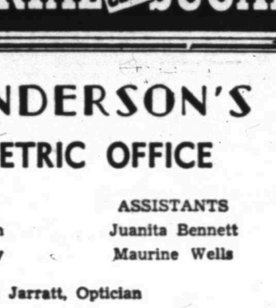

Molasses Sponge Roll

½ cup New Orleans molasses
4 egg yolks
4 egg whites
1 teaspoon lemon juice
½ cup sugar
¾ cup sifted flour
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon salt
¾ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon mace
½ teaspoon soda

Beat egg yolks until very light, then beat in molasses. Beat egg whites until light, adding first lemon juice and then the 1-4 cup sugar gradually during last few minutes. Fold into egg yolk mixture. Sift together remaining ingredients and fold into egg mixture. Bake in shallow pan about 10x16 inches, the bottom, not sides) of which is lined with waxed paper, in a slow oven of 325° F. for 20 minutes. Turn out on a towel, roll up cake and towel together. Cool. Unroll from towel, spread with filling and reroll. Serves 8-10.

Yank General Says Some Nazis Must Be Used To "Run" Germany

By ROBERT MUSEL
United Press Staff Writer

HILDEN, Germany, June 7 — Maj. Gen. Ernest Harmon, first American military governor in Germany, said today that he had found it practically impossible to run the conquered Reich without the help of some Nazis.

"I don't like it personally, but until we get better men this is the way it has to be," he said.

Harmon was summing up his regime in an interview as he prepared to turn the Rhineland over to British occupation forces under the terms of the Big Four agreement.

Killed Many Germans

Harmon, who as commander of the 22nd Army corps reputedly killed more Germans than any other American general during the war, worked out in important Rhineland districts many of the problems American occupation forces will meet elsewhere in Germany.

Faced with a choice of letting German civilians starve and freeze to death or permitting a few Nazis to retain positions, Harmon said he chose the latter course.

"I don't like the Krauts," he growled in the tones which won him the Army nickname of "Old Gravel Voice."

"But letting them know who won the war is one thing, and letting them go without food now and without food and coal this winter is another.

Had Most of Ability

"This country has been run by the Nazis a long time and practically all of its administrative and commercial brains are in the Nazi party.

"You can't run railroads with drug clerks or run factories with bootblacks. So in some cases we had to keep Nazis who had the know-how."

Harmon's domain comprises the three rich rhineland districts of Aachen, Dueseldorf and Cologne. It contains cities whose names constantly recurred in bombing reports—Essen, Duisburg, Muelheim, Wupperial, Reimscheid, Oberhausen, Elberfeld and Leverkusen. Originally the area contained about 8,000,000 persons. Now the number is nearer 6,000,000.

Not Self Supporting

Although it is the most concentrated industrial area of Germany, the Rhineland is only 20 per cent self supporting. The biggest task has been to get enough food to the Germans.

The Americans cut the German rations heavily and went to prodigious lengths to use every available ounce of food. They even raised and reclaimed wheat on sunken barges.

Even so, there is barely enough now for subsistence, and officers think things will get worse before they get better.

Sixth Oak Leaf Is Awarded Lt. Hurley

AN EIGHTH AIR FORCE FIGHTER STATION, England: 1st Lt. James C. Hurley, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hurley, of Idalou, Tex., who took part in the final air assault again Germany, has been decorated with a sixth Oak Leaf Cluster to the Air Medal for meritorious achievement during sustained combat operations overe enemy territory. A cluster signifies an additonal award of the same decoration.

HURLEY

Lt. Hurley, who has credit for shooting down a jet propelled ME 262 and for setting fire to an ME 109 on the ground—the latter victory occurring shortly before VE Day—flew against the enemy as a member of the high-scoring 352 and Mustang Fighter group, which destroyed close to 800 German planes, both in the air and on the ground. The group, which is commanded by Col. James D. Mayden, of Junction City, Kan., has been in combat since September, 1943.

Equipment Said Used Only Against Japan

CHUNGKING, June 7. (AP) — Minister of War Gen. Chen Cheng said today he wanted to "assure our Allies emphatically" that every lend-lease gun and bullet received by the Chungking government had been — and would be—used only by those forces assigned to fight against Japan.

(The Russian government newspaper Izvestia asserted Sunday that the Chungking government was using some of its troops to "blockade" Chinese Communist forces.)

He declared government troops had been given strict orders not to attack any Communist forces until they were attacked first.

Glenn W. Parrott Of Sudan Is Awarded Bronze Star Medal

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY, Italy—S/Sgt. Glenn W. Parrott, 23, of Sudan, Tex., recently was awarded the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious service in combat.

He served on the Fifth Army front in Italy with the 361st Infantry Regiment, 91st "Powder River" Infantry Division.

As supply sergeant for his company, Parrott successfully delivered supplies to his company over rugged mountain trails, often mined, and under all types of enemy fire. On four occasions, when hostile fire threatened to disorganize pack trains, the sergeant exposed himself to reorganize the train and lead it on. He personally drove vehicles over routes interdicted constantly by artillery fire to deliver supplies to his company's position.

Parrott entered service in March, 1939. His mother, Mrs. Clara B. Parrott, lives in Sudan.

Plans To Demobolize Considered By Navy

WASHINGTON, June 7. (U.P.)— The Navy has several schemes for demobilization under consideration but has not yet selected any specific plan such as the Army's point system, it was learned today.

Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal and Adm. Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the U. S. fleet, have both emphasized the fact that there will be no demobilization of naval forces until V-J day.

Area Fifth In State In Farm Cash Income Of $118,115,000 In 1944

With a total farm cash income of $118,115,000 reported for 1944 in the 17 counties of district 1-S of Texas, with Lubbock as the center, the area ranked fifth for the year in income in the state, according to a summary published by the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Texas.

District Altered

Two counties, Hale and Floyd, usually listed as on the South Plains, were excluded from the district and placed in district 1-N, northern section in the report. With income from these two counties included in the South Plains, the area would rank second in the state. Inclusion of Hale and Floyd counties in the Amarillo district gave it an income of $130,398,000.

Other districts which exceed the South Plains by only a few million dollars in farm income were: district 10-A, the lower Rio Grande valley area, $118,870,000; district 2, the Green Belt which includes Wichita Falls, $123,149,000; and district 4, the Dallas-Fort Worth area, $187,438,000.

Cash farm income on the South Plains has increased from a low of $16,436,000 in 1934 to the present figure and with the exception of 1937 when the area had $57,331,000, the increase has been steady. Income by years since 1934 has been as follows:

Income Given

1935, $25,209,000; 1936, $37,304,000; 1937, $57,331,000; 1938, $37,109,000; 1939, $35,421,000; 1940, $38,712,000; 1941, $71,890,000; 1942, $96,377,000; 1943, $107,228,000; and 1944, $118,115,000.

Income in the seven previous years to 1934 were: 1927, $42,861,000; 1928, $36,501,000; 1929, $47,515,000; 1930, $28,119,000; 1931, $22,703,000; 1932, $22,132,000; and 1933, $25,616,000.

The report also revealed that retail sales of independent stores on the South Plains ranked fourth in the percentage increases for 1945 over 1944 in spite of a drop of 3.0 per cent from April 1945 over April, 1944 and a minus 19.3 per cent from April 1945 compared to March, 1945.

Lubbock slipped up in its ranking in construction in the state during April and now stands seventh as compared to eighth in March, 1945 and ninth in April, 1944. Building permits totaled $133,337 in April and were outranked only by totals at Austin, Corpus Christi, Fort Worth, Houston, Dallas and Port Arthur.

In postal receipts, Lubbock moved up a notch in April over March this year and April of 1944. Lubbock now ranks 13th in postal receipts with Amarillo, Austin, Beaumont, Corpus Christi, Dallas, El Paso, Fort Worth, Galveston, Houston, San Antonio, Waco and Wichita Falls ahead in totals.

Lubbock's postal receipts for April, 1945, totaled $34,308, a decline of $158 from April, 1944 and $3,084 from March, 1945.

B-6 And C-6 Coupons To Become Invalid

After June 30 B-6 and C-6 gasoline coupons, not issued since March by local War Price and Rationing boards, will not be good for consumer use, William G. Williams, district rationing executive, announced Thursday.

Most of these coupons have already been used, Williams said, and the few remaining will be taken out of circulation, in line with the Office of Price administration policy of periodic invalidation of gas coupons.

Consumers who have any of these coupons that represent an unexpired ration may exchange them for valid coupons at their local boards.

Service station operators will have 10 days, or through July 10 to surrender these coupons to their suppliers or to their boards. Distributors have until July 20 to deposit coupons in ration bank accounts.

Automobile Use Tax Stamps Go On Sale

L. B. Barkley, division chief of the Office of Internal Revenue, has announced that the new $5 automobile use tax stamps are on sale in the local office, second floor of the Lubbock National bank building.

The law requires the owner of every motor vehicle which is used upon the highways to buy this stamp and to display it on the vehicle, beginning July 1, preferably on the windshield of the auto.

Cash and jail penalties for failure to pay the tax are provided by law and Barkley says that to protect themselves against unnecessary penalties owners of motor vehicles should not be misled by false rumors alleging repeal of this tax.

At Post Office Later

Stamps will be sold, beginning Saturday, at post offices and major offices of the department only.

Collectors of internal revenue will fill mail orders when accompanied by cash, money orders or certified checks. Personal checks cannot be accepted for the purchase of stamps, Barkley said.

Barkley advised that a separate record of the serial number which appears on each stamp be kept by owners to protect against theft. Motorists are also requested to write on the back of the stamp, the make, model serial number and state license number of the vehicle.

Meat Quotas In Nation Shuffled

WASHINGTON, June 7. (AP) — The government is redealing the nation's decreased meat supply in an effort to hold the civilians' share near its present levels for the July-September quarter.

To this end, it was announced today, lend-lease and foreign relief shipments will be suspended entirely and military meat allocations will be reduced.

This action is being taken by the War Food administration. At the same time, the Office of Price administration ordered reductions in the food allotments of most restaurants and hotels for July and August to put them on the same ration basis as domestic households.

Public Eating Places

The cuts to public eating places apply to meats and fats, sugar and canned fruits and vegetables.

Chester Bowles said most meals will be meatless even in eating places with the highest point allotments, and any restaurant providing "heavy meat service" daily in the two-month period will be automatically suspected of operating "in the black market."

Hopes were held out for a larger civilian supply and a resumption of foreign shipments in the last three months of the year. These hopes are based upon prospects for a material increase in marketings of meat animals during the fall and early winter.

Meanwhile, Rep. Anderson (D-NM) indicated before a House Food Investigating committee that he may call upon the military services and the office of Foreign Economic administration to lend a hand in supporting farm prices after he becomes secretary of agriculture and war food administrator.

Third Quarter Division

In a statement explaining how the third quarter meat supply will be divided, the War Food administration estimated the amount available will be nine per cent below that allotted for the present quarter.

The civilian allotment—3,740,000,000 pounds, carcass weight, compared with 3,786,000,000 this quarter—should be sufficient, officials said, to allow consumption at an annual rate of 115 pounds. Civilian consumption last year averaged 149 pounds.

Japs Said Ready To Put Out Peace Bids

NEW YORK, June 7. — American Broadcasting company (Blue network) monitors said today they heard the Bern radio broadcast that "reports continue to persist in Moscow that the USSR has been asked to transmit peace offers" from Japan.

"These reports are given special significance by the announcement that the Russian ambassador to Japan is back in Moscow on business," said the broadcast.

No source was given for the unconfirmed report.

Crop Insurance Plan Described

Letters have gone to all producers with cotton crop insurance in the district from the office of Walter Y. Wells, administrative officer of the Agriculture Adjustment agency, regarding collection of insurance on crops this year.

Wells said he had been advised by the district insurance adjuster, and by the state crop insurance supervisor that a determination will have to be made after it is too late to replant cotton in case a loss occurs.

The survey will be conducted to see that normal farming operations have been carried out on any insured farm.

Explanation Given

Wells' letter explains that in case cotton is dry planted normal farming operations will be deemed to have been carried out if the crop is planted in a workmanlike manner and a majority of the uninsured producers are carrying out similar practice, or dry planting.

Farmers who have dry planted, or intend to do so, and who have a loss may prepare a statement showing the loss, Wells said. This report will be passed on by the insurance adjuster and if determined that normal farming operations have been carried out, as stated above, farmers will receive an indemnity.

Farmers are further advised that the insurance premium is earned by the insurance corporation when the cotton is planted and that the cotton must be planted before any insurance is in effect.

Wells said that he felt it doubtful that any indemnity would be paid to any producer who dry plants and has a loss because of failure to secure a stand of cotton.

Meters Changed For Parallel Parking

Work began Thursday morning on re-spacing meters so that parallel parking may go into effect in several areas, Marlin R. Smith, city manager, announced.

The streets on which changes are being made are: Avenue J, from Tenth to Fourteenth; Avenue K, from Main to Thirteenth, and Thirteenth street, from Avenue H to L.

Re-spacing of meters and marking of lines for parallel rather than 45-degree parking is to be completed within a week or 10 days, it was announced.

Arch L. King, city engineer, and Smith had submitted plans for the project at a City commission meeting Wednesday afternoon.

Except for Greenland, more than 90 per cent of all Arctic land is snow-free in August.

Survey Shows Varied Ambitions Among Texas College Graduates

By WALTER P. BOSWELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

Most youths walking off Texas college commencement platforms with diplomas have planned what they will do. Inquiry discloses also that the same is true of undergraduates.

For men qualified by age and physique the trail to the armed services is still blazed plainly. Women students and graduates are in the majority. Ambitions are as varied as there are jobs.

Teaching is a profession mentioned frequently in plans of this year's graduates. That could have a welcome sound to some public school board which has had trouble keeping a faculty, unless it also heard the comment of Sam H. Whitley, president of East Texas State Teachers college.

Want Paying Jobs

"About 95 per cent have indicated they will teach," says Whitley, speaking of his 633 students (20 men, 53 women graduates). "But as a matter of fact they will accept whatever job pays more than teaching, which most of them now do."

There were 2,760 students at Texas State College for Women this year (262 graduates). "Nearly all of them want to prepare for some other vocation than teaching because of the low salaries paid to teachers," says L. H. Hubbard, TSCW president.

"They want to go into business of various types, to be technicians, occupational and physical therapists, dress designers, journalists, playground directors, workers in radio advertising."

Whitley and Hubbard replied to the questions: "What percentage of your students have indicated what they will do after graduation?" and "What do they plan to do?" put to Texas college presidents by the Associated Press.

43 Shools Answer

Answers came from 26 senior institutions, including the major state and church schools, and from 17 junior colleges.

Out of those answers to add to the summary by Hubbard may be gleaned such specific goals as business administration, fine arts, law, the ministry, medicine, dentistry, pharmacy, engineering, agriculture, including veterinary medicine; missionary work, secreterial work, a job as airlines hostess, library work, social work, nursing, housekeeping, chemistry, aviation, music, the stage, the diplomatic service, writing, additional study, or "getting married."

This year traditional commencements began late in May and will for the most part be completed by June 25. Senior colleges which answered the questionnaire counted 34,013 students—12,797 men, 21,216 women, and 2,606 candidates for degrees—737 men, 1,869 women.

Women Predominate

Men students in the 17 junior colleges numbered 1,281 and women 2,925, a total of 4206. In that group were 465 graduates, 374 of them women. Nearly 90 per cent of the students in senior colleges and 80 per cent in junior schools had indicated what they planned after graduation.

The state's three medical schools: University of Texas at Galveston; Baylor at Houston, and Southwestern at Dallas, have 830 students who want to be doctors. Seven hundred eighty-one of them are men. There are 196 candidates for graduation and only nine of them women. Southwestern at Dallas will not hold commencement for its 48 graduates until Sept. 3; Baylor will graduate 39 on July 16, and some 109 received degrees at U. T. Medical.

D. Bailey Calvin, associate dean of medicine at the Galveston school, says 13 of the Navy personnel will go directly into naval hospitals for rotating internships, and the remainder of the graduates will go into civilian hospitals for nine months internships starting July 1. Baylor has both Army and Navy specialized courses. at Southwestern Medical there are 34 Army, five Navy, and nine civilian candidates.

Reflected in answers to the questionnaire were many changes in curriculums occasioned by the war and evidence that most of the schools were giving some study to post war plans and prospects.

The 56 graduates of Mary Hardin Baylor, girls school at Belton, are "about evenly divided between teaching and industry," says Registrar Ailese Porter. "Even those who are married or expect to be within the next few weeks will work until husbands are released from the armed service."

The office of acting President T. S. Painter says that a survey at the University of Texas early last year showed that approximately two thirds of the boys expected to go into military service.

Analysis Of Degrees

An analysis of University of Texas degree candidacies discovers 265 in arts and science, 67 in business administration, 26 fine arts, eight law, 38 education, 15 pharmacy, 34 engineering, 45 in the graduate school.

The 66 degrees Texas A. and M. college awarded this spring made 2,083 given under the Aggie educational speedup since the start of the war. A hundred percent of the Aggie grads knew what they'd do, go into the armed services or pursue careers in their majors, which were: agriculture 10, arts and sciences 3, engineering 13, veterinary medicine 30, master of science 9, professional CE degrees 1.

Baylor university's Waco class included 73 undecided on their futures, but 56 planning to teach, 35 to be ministers, 10 to marry; 2 interested in the stage, 1 writer, 4 journalists, 1 social worker, 1 librarian, 3 lab technicians, 1 psychologist, 10 religious workers, 1 airline hostess, 17 who would go into business, 1 into radio, 1 occupational therapy, 6 medicine, 1 chemist, and 1 dietitian.

Those are some typical breakdowns. As an indication of student planning in junior colleges take the report of Lon Morris with 31 grads, about 50 per cent of whom have said that they will go into medicine, dentistry, nursing, engineering, the ministry, or teaching, most of which call for additional college work.

Blinn Junior college at Brenham, analyzing its student body, found these ambitions listed by the girls: 20 clerical, 3 house work, 3 music, 10 teachers, 9 who didn't know, 1 hotel keeper, 1 religious worker, 1 laboratory technician, 4 nurses. Among the men three planned to attend university, four didn't know what they'd do, five would be engineers, three teach, 1 study medicine, 1 be a minister, 1 a photographer, and 2 mechanics.

The senior schools surveyed and the number of graduates, where that data was available, included: Texas Technological college 124, Texas Christian university 82, Texas School of Mines 50, University of Houston 225, Trinity university 41, Austin college 21, Southwestern university 22, Jarvis Christian college 18, Texas Wesleyan 42, Abilene Christian 41, Rice Institute 162, Sam Houston State college 75, West Texas State 50, Southwest Texas State 59, North Texas State 105.

Among the junior colleges and their graduates were Amarillo 17, Clifton 10, Lamar at Beaumont 66, San Angelo 32, Kilgore 47, Temple 17, Gainesville 4, Southwestern Junior college, Keene, Tex., 52, Blinn 13, Wayland Baptist college 47, Decatur Baptist college 15, John Tarleton 29, Edinburg 17, Hillsboro 17, San Antonio 34, and Texarkana 17.

Army Above Quota In Returning Veterans

WASHINGTON, June 7. (AP)—The Army transportation corps has exceeded its scheduled quota by more than 14 per cent in returning 95,000 U. S. troops to this country from Europe during the 19-day period between "R" day May 12 and the end of the month, it was learned today at the War department.

Officials were also confident that the 250,000 quota for June would be reached or exceeded.

The May quota was set at 84,000, 11,000 less than the number of men actually returned home.

Special Price Control Basis Is Offered For Meat In Three Groups

By ANN HICK
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 7 — The administration, in an effort to appease Senate foes, has offered to put the meat industry on a special price control basis, it was learned today.

Promises Separate Consideration

OPA Chief Chester Bowles, in a letter to Senate president Kenneth McKellar, D., Tenn., promised that OPA would see that the products of each of the three main groups of meat animals—cattle and calves, hogs, and lambs—"are each separately considered on a profitable basis."

This would amount to abandoning the "over-all" profit basis on which OPA has regulated the meat industry. Packers have complained that this contributed to the meat shortage.

Bowles' offer was learned by the United Press as the Senate went into its second day of debate on a bill which would extend price control until July 1, 1946. The present act expires June 30.

McKellar had prepared an amendment for the special treatment of the meat industry. He planned to offer it during Senate consideration of the bill to continue price control for another year.

Bowles said in his letter that both War Mobilization Director Fred M. Vinson and Economic Stabilizer William H. Davis had approved the offer.

Amendment In Senate

Chairman Elmer Thomas, D., Okla., of the Senate agriculture committee, has already put before the senate an amendment asking for abandonment of the "over-all" profit basis, not only for the meat industry but for all other agricultural products.

Part of Bowles' letter to McKellar read:

"You have asked for a statement of the policy which OPA will follow in pricing the products of the various species of livestock.

"Recognizing the critical shortage of meat and the imperative need of avoiding any impediment to maximum production and even distribution, this offer in addition to satisfying all the various mandatory requirements of the present law will see that the products of each of the three main groups—cattle and calves, hogs, and lambs—are each separately considered on a profitable basis.

Profit By Groups

"To the fullest possible extent the Office of Price Administration will see that each of these groups of products is separately profitable at all times regardless of live animals. It will, in all events, see that each group is separately profitable on an annual basis."

Thomas told reporters yesterday that Bowles had offered him "practically everything" if he would withdraw his amendment. Thomas introduced it anyway, saying he did not believe Bowles could deliver.

Thomas and Sen. Robert A. Taft, R., O., are leading a bi-partisan drive to force revision of OPA price policies.

Dorothea Dix was the first head of an American Army nurse corps in the Civil War.

Oklahoma Divorce Is Rejected In Texas

AUSTIN, June 7 (AP)—The Texas court of criminal appeals today took official note of a decision of the Supreme court of the United States declaring one state may reject the divorce procedure of another.

The Texas court overruled a motion for rehearing in a bigamy case on grounds a divorce decree obtained in Oklahoma is not a defense against bigamy in Texas.

The ruling was in the case of J. B. Reed of Donley county whose conviction and two-year sentence for bigamy was affirmed by the appellate court in April, 1944.

Train Load Of Nazi Prisoners Wrecked

KANSAS CITY, June 7. (U.P.)—A nine-car passenger train loaded with German prisoners of war crashed into the caboose of a freight train near Leedsn, Mo., last night breaking up the caboose and derailing three gondolas.

No one was injured. The prisoner train, a special from Camp Crowder, Mo., was heading into Kansas City.

German prisoners were guarded by soldiers armed with riot guns after the crash, but no attempts at escape were made.

Pep Pilot Went To Berlin As Navigator On His 1st Mission

ELLINGTON FIELD—Lt. Alvin R. Gerik of Pep, Texas, went to Berlin on his first mission as a navigator in the Eighth Air force, but in his own words was "too ignorant of the danger to be scared."

GERIK

That first mission — the first for his group as well as himself —was the longest initial raid ever flown by a group in the European theater and brought a letter of commendation from Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle.

Lt. Gerik, who is now stationed at this installation of the AAF Central Flying Training command for refresher navigation training, became a lead navigator during his ten months of combat duty and led division, wing and group formations. In addition to Berlin, he helped to smash such big name targets as Brunswick, Munich, Mannheim and Ludwigshaven.

Mannheim threw up the greatest concentration of flak that his ship ever had to weather, but Brunswick became his most unpopular target after his group was jumped by fighters on two different occasions while making the bomb run. One of the two times, Messerschmidt-109's and Focke-Wulf-190's knocked six ships out of the B-24 group's formation, but Lt. Gerik's plane was not hit.

Even while on the ground at his own base, the navigator was bothered by the Nazis when they sent buzz bombs across his location, once dropping one near enough to shovel dirt over enlisted men's barracks.

Prior to enlistment in the army for glider pilot training in March of 1942, Lt. Gerik worked in Seattle, Wash., as bookkeeper and electrician for an electrical company. When glider pilot training was discontinued, he transferred to advanced navigation school at Selman Field, where he received his wings. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Gerik of Pep.

Littlefield Soldier In Philippines Tells A Story Of Seemingly Invincible Jap Officer

TALISAY, Negros—Climaxing the front line experiences of Pfc. Loyd A. Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Walker, Littlefield, Tex., during three months of combat in the Philippines is the story of the seemingly invincible Japanese captain.

"After a full day of close fighting," Pfc. Walker said, "we captured several hundred feet of barbed wire imported from Japan. Before dark we stretched the barbed wire around the perimeter as a precaution against an enemy night attack. From the way things looked we had a feeling the Japs would pull a banzai."

Attacked In Force

Exactly as the infantrymen had predicted, the Japanese about 10 p. m. attacked the perimeter in force.

"Like all of the other men in the company," Pfc. Walker continued, "I lay in my foxhole—waiting. I had a carbine rifle, and my finger was on the trigger."

"The Japs pushed against the wire," he said. "Empty ration cans which we had tied to the wire rattled like the noise of a billy goat eating through a trash dump."

Japs Piled High

The 40th Division infantrymen at this point, Pfc. Walker said, went into action with machine guns, Browning automatic rifles, Garand rifles, carbines and hand grenades.

"From the flash of machine guns, rifles and grenades," he said, "we could tell wounded and dead Japs were piled high — trapped in the wire. "Not one Jap came through the wire entanglement, but the captain, quietly and slyly, slipped around the end where there was no wire.

Swinging His Saber

"As he fired no weapons, the captain was almost on top of us before anybody saw him.

"First a soldier next to me trained a machine gun on him. But he still came on, swinging his saber round and round. He whirled the saber over his head and then around his ankles.

"Next, a Browning automatic rifleman opened fire. The captain looked as if he had been hit, but he still moved forward with the fury of a mad man. Two other soldiers, one with a Garand and the other with a carbine, failed to bring him down.

Had Dozen Bullet Holes

"I saw one of our men stand up and fire a tommy gun. It looked as if the men were standing face to face. The captain fell."

"We found the Japanese captain at daylight," Pfc. Walker said. "He must have had more than a dozen bullet holes in the stomach and chest."

Pfc. Walker is a veteran of three invasions and as many ensuing land campaigns in the Philippines. He landed Jan. 9 at Lingayen gulf on Luzon, and participated in the battle for caves and tunnels of the Zambales mountains dominating Clark field. He is entitled to wear the Philippines campaign ribbon of liberation with one bronze star, the Asiatic-Pacific theater ribbon and the combat infantryman's badge.

Before entering the army June 13, 1941, Pfc Walker was custodian for Littlefield public schools.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.
