

SPRING "BUSTIN' OUT ALL OVER" IN COLLINGSWORTH

All at once, Wellington was full of fruit trees in bloom, and beautiful flowering shrubs. These are seen in greater profusion than in any recent year. And the sight is duplicated time and again over the county. Here Patty Lacy, 11-year-old daughter of Mrs. Melba Lacy, examines the fragile white blooms of an apricot tree—usually the first of all trees to bloom here.

School Trustee Election Set for Saturday

Trustee elections in the county's four school districts will be held Saturday, April 6, school heads reminded this week.

There are no opponents to the two candidates in Wellington district, John Sherman and Louis Allred. Both are seeking school posts for the first time. Verman Warrick did not seek re-election to the board, and the second place was left vacant by the resignation of Frank Campbell earlier.

The election will be held in the county court room.

Only two candidates filed for the two places on the Samnorwood board. They are W. A. Bentley and Jim Ray. Ray is seeking re-election while Bentley is running for the post formerly held by E. J. Schaub. The election will be at the school.

Quail has six candidates running for three places. They are Lonnie Neeley, Carl Wischkaemper, V. M. Patton, W. A. Cooke III, Roy Canada, and Elmer Feemster.

Tractors, Plows for Tall Grass

More Volunteer Help Needed at Rural Fires

Wellington Fire Department needs more volunteer help at rural fires, especially grass fires, Chief Richard Bailey said this week.

Approximately 160 acres of love grass was destroyed by fire last week on the Paul Starr farm three miles east of Quail, Bailey reported.

Before the blaze was brought under control, it threatened the house, occupied by Glin Mc-

Gill, and other buildings on the farm.

"This kind of fire is especially hard to fight," Bailey said. "The grass is from one to three feet tall and usually thick. It isn't like fighting a short grass fire."

"We especially need people to bring tractors and plows not only to plow out a fire strip, but to pull out the fire fighting equipment when it gets stuck in the sand," Bailey continued.

Recently, volunteer help has been scarce at these rural fires, it was pointed out.

"Sacks and brooms are fine for a short grass fire, but you need tractors and plows for tall grass," he remarked.

"People depend on the Fire Department too much. We're glad to do what we can, but we absolutely cannot do it all."

The department last week also put out a grass fire on the highway right of way along the Zook Thomas farm at Lillie.

The blaze did not jump a fire guard, but had it done so, it would have burned through approximately a section of grass, ranging up to three feet tall, Thomas said.

During the past three or four years, the fire department has fought approximately two fires in the country to one in town, according to the fire chief.

The rural truck was bought last year by Collingsworth county and was equipped and is maintained by the city.

Stock Protective Group Names Fires, Dwyer

Livestock raisers, organizing Thursday, March 28, to cut down the continued and persistent loss of cattle, have named A. J. Fires of Wellington president and John Dwyer of Samnorwood secretary-treasurer.

W. C. Harwell and Zook Thomas of Wellington, and Polly O'Neil of Dozier were elected directors, along with the two officers.

The organization will be known as the Collingsworth County Cattlemen's Protective Association.

Up to Inch of Rain Breaks Long Dry Spell

The county's long dry spell was broken Sunday night and early Monday, March 31 and April 1, when from a quarter to an inch of rain fell through the area.

The heaviest fall came in the west part of the county, and in the southeast section along the Childress county line.

Wellington received .44 in the weather bureau gauge at the Highway Department, to bring the total for the year to 1.24 for the first three months.

Zook Thomas reported 1.1 inches of rain at Lillie, and from .6 to an inch was reported variously through the west part of the county.

Charley Bearden said .9 inch fell at his place east of Wellington and in the Fresno community, J. B. Killian reported .7.

From a quarter to one-half inch was reported around Dodson and at the Tom Birchfield farm, north of that town, one-half inch fell.

Along the county line thru the Loco and Arlie communities, Hubert Mauldin reported an inch and L. C. Hill estimated an inch fell at his farm.

County's Bank Assets at New Seasonal High

Collingsworth's three banks made county financial history as assets soared to the highest point ever reached for this season of the year.

Assets at the time of the March 18 bank call totaled $8,417,734.62, around $200,000.00 higher than assets a year ago.

Deposits for the same period were $7,700,331.47. Again this figure is up from last year, when total deposits were $7,641,942.

The asset figure is around a million dollars above that of two years ago, and approximately a million and three-quarters over that of three years ago.

Not only are this year's deposits up from last year, they are up approximately a million and a half from five years ago and around three quarter million above deposits two years ago.

Demand deposits account for $4,482,177.44. This is around $300,000 above the same figure a year ago.

The remainder of the deposit figure includes time deposits, deposits made by the United States, cities, the county, the schools, and other political subdivisions.

Loans and discounts on Mar. 18 were $5,178,981. A year ago the figure was $4,408,429. Undivided profits this year are $56,250.96.

Student Count Totals 1504 for County

Collingsworth county's scholastic count this year totals 1504, according to Mrs. Harold Scott, deputy in the office of B. W. Baird, county superintendent.

It is only two less than the count for 1962, and this is the smallest decrease for any year recently.

Both the Wellington and the Samnorwood school districts showed increases.

Boys outnumbered girls by 78 in the county as a whole, figures in the county superintendent's office show. Of the 1504 enrollment, 1346 are white (729 boys and 620 girls) and 155 (62 boys and 93 girls) are colored.

The count by schools is:

Quail

Quail, 150 students with 87 boys and 63 girls. There are 11 six-year-olds, and the largest number in any age group is the 17-year-olds—20. There are 4 colored students.

Last year Quail had 163 students, of which 92 were boys and 71 girls. There were no colored students.

Samnorwood

Samnorwood has a scholastic count of 211, which includes 114 white boys, 90 white girls, 1 negro boy and 6 negro girls. There are 15 six-year-olds who will enter school next year, and the largest age groups are the 7- and 16-year-olds, with 21 in each.

Elementary PTA Will Ballot on Federal Aid to Education

The Parent Teachers Association of the Wellington Elementary school will ballot on Federal Aid to Education at their next regular meeting on April 10 at 2:45 in the afternoon.

Mrs. Mack Saied, Jr., president of the Elementary PTA, has announced that the balloting will be done by a show of hands.

The official ballot of the National Congress is quite lengthy and Mrs. Saied has only one copy, but she said she would be glad for any interested PTA member to study it prior to the meeting next Wednesday afternoon.

The ballot which will be considered by the Wellington group next Wednesday is styled "Official Local Ballot on Legislation Program of National Congress of Parents and Teachers". It includes such items as Federal Funds for Education, Child Welfare, Library Services, Peace and National Security, International Relations, Program of the United Nations children's fund, (Unicef), World Health Organization, and other international organizations such as UNESCO, WHO, FAO, etc.

Mrs. W. J. Danforth, president of the Texas PTA has this to say of the ballot: "It is not slanted toward Federal Aid—rather it is plainly FOR Federal aid so that you can just as forthrightly say Yes or No as your membership decides."

Mrs. Danforth also points out that this is the first year the entire Legislation policies of the National Congress have been submitted to the State Congresses of PTA and the state organization in turn submitted the program to the local units.

She further said in her report: "I would remind you that this is an effort to give our local units an opportunity to vote objectively on this program."

FORMER CITY MAN BUILDS, DONATES ORGAN TO CHURCH

A former Wellington man now living in Amarillo has built a concert organ and presented it to his church, Kingswood Methodist.

He is L. C. Glasgow, 4100 Jackson and vice president of West Texas Electronics Company.

Dedication services were held recently, and relatives attending from here were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Jones and Mrs. Bill Langford.

It took Glasgow almost a year (lacking two weeks) to build the organ, and so intrigued were neighbors and friends that they were always dropping in to see his progress. One neighbor remarked: "It was a miracle. First just a lot of pieces and one day I hear it being played."

Sometimes Glasgow could work only 15 minutes a day;

other times he spent many of his week end hours.

"I always wanted to build an organ," Glasgow said, "and our church couldn't afford one since it is a new church with about 300 members. We had a piano and 18 choir members." This was the motive behind his gift to Kingswood Church.

The organ was built, he explained, from kits which are now on the market. More than 50,000 different pieces were used, but only simple hand tools were required. Mrs. Glasgow helped her husband.

He even tuned the organ and to get the 12 fundamental tones he used a phonograph record that zero beat for pitch.

The concert organ is the largest of this type that can be bought, measuring 55 inches wide, 20 inches deep and 31 inches high. It has 61 keys on

"Black Gold" to Premier at Ritz Thursday

Texans throughout the state, including Wellington, will be privileged to see simultaneous showings of Warner Bros. newest motion picture release, "Black Gold," when all-south-west premieres are held in theatres this week.

Penned about and by Oklahoma and enacted by a cast of fresh and favored personalities of both screen and TV, "Black Gold" will play the Ritz Theatre in a 3-day engagement Thursday through Saturday, it was announced by Manager Lydia McPherson.

Headlining the cast are Philip Carey, Diane McBain, James Best, Fay Spain and Claude Akins, and featured is Iron Eyes Cody, a Cherokee Indian from Oklahoma.

Exploding with all the vigor and perilousness that characterized the rough and tumble rivalry of the rowdy, romantic Oklahoma oil boom days of the early 1920s, "Black Gold" is an adventure drama of the oil wildcaters.

The screenplay was written by Oklahoma's own Bob and Wanda Duncan. The authentic and realistic atmosphere and staging of the film is a result of the Duncans' own rich knowledge of Oklahoma lore into which they reached for material, and the cooperation of Producer Jim Barnett who brought in a set coordinator, Glenn Metts, who had actually worked in oil fields four years in the 1920s.

Duncan, a guitar-playing native, started his writing career as an Oklahoma City librarian, compiling information on Oklahoma folklore and history. His first book, "The Dickey Bird Was Singing," was published in 1952. Mrs. Duncan comes from Minco, a small community just southwest of the state capital city.

The Skyrocket track team will participate in the District 2-A Interscholastic League track meet in Lefors Tuesday, April 9, Coach Don Beck announced.

There will be 14 events, and Wellington will have boys entered in each, except the relays, which will have one team of four men, Coach Don Beck said.

Lacrosse is the national game of Canada.

SHAMROCK DISTRICT ROTARY HOST

Wellington Rotarians will attend the annual conference of District 537 of Rotary International, to be held in Shamrock from Tuesday through Saturday, April 4 to 6. Representatives from 44 other clubs will be present. There will be a review of such Rotary activities as sponsoring Boy

Keep Social Security Records

Social security beneficiaries who move can receive their monthly checks on time by following a few simple rules, according to Hal Geldon, social security district manager in Amarillo.

A written request to the social security administration for a change of address received before the 15th of the month will assure receipt of the next check at the new address, Geldon said. If a notice of change of address is made later in the month, arrangements should also be made with the post office to have the next check forwarded. In any event, notify your social security district office or payment center as soon as possible of any change in your address.

Geldon reminded beneficiaries that a change of address card or letter must be signed by the person to whom the checks are issued, and must always show the social security claim number.

Convenient notification forms are available in all social security district offices. Geldon concluded that prompt and accurate reporting by beneficiaries will result in faster and better service in processing the millions of address and other changes received every year by the social security administration.

LOOKING AHEAD

SUNSET TRAIL?

Historian Arnold Toynbee has said that of 21 notable civilizations, 19 were lost not through subjugation or conquest, but from a decaying faith within.

If Britain and the U.S. in the coming centuries should join the 19 which have perished, Toynbee will have been proved a prophet.

Before this worst comes to pass, however, we might consider whether loss of faith and purpose is a condition to be feared when a nation reaches what appears to be a zenith of status and power.

Britain today is undergoing a time of serious testing and trial. (And so are we, but perhaps less aware of it.) Entry into the Common Market will not serve to undo the damage caused Britain by the Socialist government in 1945 when it denied the individual the right to town property and condemned a whole nation to mediocrity.

Britain has thus dissipated its wealth (or redistributed it, according to the Socialists) and destroyed incentive to create more wealth. The Socialists have been clamoring for a return to power so they can resume their program. Once the world's foremost model of justice and stability, Britain has few followers today.

Importing Ideas

But what of America? Men the world over have praised our love of freedom, our belief in the worth of the individual, our abhorrence of tyranny, our emphasis upon opportunity. Other nations have patterned their governments after ours in an effort to become responsible republics. Our freedom documents have been considered models of excellence. Our nation has been an exporter of ideas during its 175 years of existence. In more recent years, however, it seems that we have had less of real value to export in the way of ideas.

Mostly, it seems, we have been importing ideas, and some of the least valuable of these imports have come from British intellectualism.

Let's face it, the Fabian Socialists penetrate our universities, obtained our ear, and muddled our thinking. For a generation our major parties have nailed down some of their platform planks with points right out of Karl Marx' Manifesto. We, too have made steps down the road to socialism.

A "Human" Right

The American idea was not that of a strong government for people who are too weak to take care of themselves. There were freedom guarantees broad enough to protect everyone, even the minorities, but there was no paternalism. Into the Bill of Rights went all kinds of protections, rights, and assurances for individuals, and in no way was the government made superior over people.

Implied in the Constitution's "due process" provisions was the right to own and to acquire. It is a tragic thing that the right of the individual to own property has come to merit such little respect among persons in positions of leadership.

Whether taking up to 91% of an individual's "taxable" income violates these concepts is today only a nice point that not many politicians bother to argue.

Whether the Amish farmer who had no intention to accepting government handouts and therefore did not pay Social Security premiums should have had his horse (his means of livelihood) confiscated is also another interesting question.

In the name of "social progress" we have seen the government, in so many instances, deny the right of property, which is one of the most "human" of all rights.

The Private Sector

The wide interest now being shown in tax reform may direct our attention to an important principle: the economic necessity of investment capital. It is something rather new in this generation, this insistence upon the use of "seed money" and even upon the value to our society of those who own this kind of property.

The idea of tax cuts for business growth, sponsored as it is by an administration known more for animosity toward business and for pushing government planning than for considerations toward private enterprise, must acknowledge the validity of a principle.

This is the tacit admission that private capital, private investment, private spending, comprise the tap-root of our economy.

Modern technology has made Americans great consumers, but it might have widened the markets more all these years if the tax bite had not prevented.

If we believe in capitalism, that is, in the liberty of men to employ the fruits of their labor in the ways they think best, isn't it time we should act like it? What happens to our faith in freedom of enterprise as one of the basic requirements of our free society may prove whether Toynbee was right about us.

More Help Is Needed in Fighting Fires in Rural Areas

Wellington Firemen are doing an outstanding job fighting potentially disastrous fires, particularly in the rural sections. But they can't do the whole thing alone.

For some reason, the volunteers, the neighbors who brought their brooms and buckets and tow sacks and came to a friend's aid, haven't been appearing so much lately, according to Wellington Fire Department Chief Richard Bailey. And several times in recent weeks they were needed.

It is true, there are fewer of them to turn out for such a need, and that makes community alertness even more necessary.

Over a period of the last year or more, the department has answered two rural fire calls for every one in town. By the very nature of the relocation, these fires are harder to fight. No matter how quick the rural unit may arrive, a fire has gained some headway before any water can be put on it.

Rural fires are especially dangerous right now. There is more tall grass than at any time in recent years. It is dry as grass can get and ripe for a fire.

Several blazes in the area have started along the highways and spread to become major fires. This very thing should be in the thinking of every one who drives along ranches or pastures.

In a story elsewhere in this paper Fire Chief Bailey tells what is needed at these rural fires.

This seems to be a time, then, when visitors are welcome to a fire provided they do not come to look, but are willing to take off their coats, pick up a broom and work.

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

I see where the great King Hassan II of Morocco is in the U.S., visiting and looking after business interests.

My neighbor who is socially secure on $50 a month says he reads where Hassan II's main business here is to engineer a deal for about $40,000,000 a year aid for Morocco.

Says this seems like a pretty fat pension, compared to what most retired Americans get, especially considering that Hassan is only 34 and hasn't quit working, and has never paid a dime into the social security kitty.

I see where a gang called the Clay Committee has reported to the President that considerable foreign aid money is being wasted.

Took three months for them to figure this out, whereas many grassrooters knew it $90,000,000,000 ago. But, of course, it takes longer for Washington minds to catch up on the simpler facts of life.

This is because people at the brain summit have forgotten more than us plain people will ever know, and one of the things they forgot is that developing a large herd of mooching neighbors is a good way to go broke.

I see where there is some puzzlement being expressed about how come Vice President Lyndon Johnson needs 36 bodyguards.

My Texical neighbor says, though, this is because the federal government hasn't got any Texas Rangers, and it naturally takes about three dozen ordinary officers to bodyguard one large Texan.

Says also, Washington is realistic, and while 36 standard type bodyguards could easily be replaced on this job by one Texas Ranger, he would have 35 less votes.

I see where the House of Representatives has voted big

Vinson School Heads Joins Publishing Firm

Vinson board of education has received the resignation of Supt. Jack Sanders, who announced that he would become the state representative of the library division of Random House, a large publishing company.

A school man of 11 years in Harmon county schools, Sanders has headed the Vinson schools for the past three years.

in favor of making Sir Winston Churchill an honorary U.S. citizen.

My ex-rural neighbor says when he was a farmer he got annexed into city citizenship, and it was a very expensive honor.

Says he reckons Congress is pushing the matter of taking in Sir Winston as a citizen, in the hope of getting the current year's dues out of him by initiating him before April 15.

For the four preceding years he was principal at Gould, and before going there had taught at Louis Hill school for four years.

He is a graduate of Southwestern State College and has received the M.A. degree from the University of Oklahoma.

He has held many offices in professional education groups. He served in all OEA unit offices; was Southwest district representative to OEA; has been president of the county unit; president of Schoolmasters' association; a member of NEA and AASA; and a life member of NEA and OEA.

His wife, the former Twyla Caveness, now a teacher at Vinson, also has resigned and has accepted a position in the Hollis grade school, Supt. Joe B. Metcalf announced this week.

Supt. and Mrs. Sanders have two children. They plan to make their home in Hollis.

Farm Values Continue Rise

Farm real estate values in Texas and the nation are expected to advance in 1963.

During the peak year of 1962, the national average per acre value of farmland increased to 186% of the 1947-49 average. The steady climb of farm worth puts the estimated value of all U.S. farmland, including improvements, to a staggering $140.1 billion. In Texas alone, value gains in 1962 were placed at 8% above the previous year.

Farmland, then, remains a good investment despite the changing agricultural picture. Market value of farm real estate has continued an almost uninterrupted rise that began in the early 1940s.

HIGHER PAY NEEDED

A $4,200 minimum and maximum of $7,000 will be required to attract young people into the Texas teaching profession, said the Hale-Aikin committees.

Gaucho is the name applied to the Argentine cowboy.

The district winner will receive a handsome trophy and will compete in bi-district play. Class B competition goes to the state level.

The schedule includes:

- April 2: Mobeetie at Samnorwood. Hedley at Quail.
- April 9: Mobeetie at Quail. Samnorwood at Hedley.
- April 16: Hedley at Mobeetie. Quail at Samnorwood.
- April 23: Samnorwood at Mobeetie. Quail at Hedley.
- April 30: Quail at Mobeetie. Hedley at Samnorwood.
- May 7: Mobeetie at Hedley. Samnorwood at Quail.

Crop Insurance Policies Revised

AUSTIN.—Farmers will get more liberal crop insurance coverage under revised policies and rates issued by the State Board of Insurance. New plan eliminates the controversial mechanical harvesting clause pertaining to cotton.

Revisions were requested by both wheat and cotton growers.

Coverage will be available under economically priced "escalator" and "step-ladder" forms, as well as "broad form" policies.

LOTS OF CHEEK—When William "Andy" Wildermuth of Hamburg, Pa., blows his trumpet, it's a battle of the bulge. He has been playing the trumpet since he was 11.

Two Hospitalized Following Crash

Two persons were hospitalized following an intersection collision at the corner of East Avenue and Second Street on Thursday, March 28, about 3:15 p.m., Police Chief Troy Marsh reported.

Mrs. M. C. Zeck, who was riding with a daughter and four grandchildren, received a broken collar bone. Her condition was reported as improved by another daughter, Mrs. LeRoy Hofforth, and she was released from St. Joseph's Hospital April 2.

Still hospitalized is Pete Scott, who had fractured ribs and bad bruises on his left arm, shoulder and temple. He probably will be released Friday, his son-in-law, Cal Aaron, said.

Scott, who was alone, was driving south on East Avenue in a Ford station wagon, according to Chief Marsh.

With Mrs. Zeck were a daughter, Mrs. Juanita Young and her children, Clifford, 13; Penny, 11; Nannette, 3; and Tina, 1. They were shaken and bruised but not hospitalized. They were driving west on Second Street, Marsh continued.

Damage to the two vehicles was estimated by Marsh at around $1,000. He was assisted in the investigation by Deputy Sheriff Kenneth Hodge.

Legislature May Quit May 27

AUSTIN.—Gov. Connally and House Speaker Byron Tunnell seem to agree that the 58th Legislature should wind up its business before the May 27 deadline. This should please the Legislators. They stop getting the usual $12 per day living allowance 20 days before that deadline.

But many are afraid the loan shark bill may hold them here.

Officials Named by Governor

AUSTIN.—Frank C. Erwin, Jr., Austin attorney, was named by Gov. Connally to the UT board of regents, to replace Judge W. St. John Garwood, also of Austin, whom the Senate earlier refused to confirm. Jack Kultgen of Waco was his choice as State Highway Commissioner. He replaces Charles Hawn of Athens, whose term has expired.

Rev. C. A. Holliday, Negro minister of Fort Worth, has been named by Connally to a six-year term on the Texas Board of Corrections. He succeeds John S. Justin Jr. of Fort Worth. Connally pointed out that this is the first time a Negro had been appointed to the board.

Connally re-appointed to the Board of Corrections J. M. Windham of Livingston and Jack Vaughan of Dallas.

Dr. J. A. Chatham of Lubbock, Joseph A. Scott Jr., of San Antonio and Rev. Martin Griffin of Waco were assigned to the Texas Southern University's Board of Directors. All are Negroes. They replaced J. M. Odom of Austin, Mack H. Hannah Jr., of Houston and the late Dr. Everett H. Givens of Austin.

Norwood Eagles Open With Veteran Team

Samnorwood Eagles have opened the baseball season with an all-out effort to win their fourth consecutive district and bi-district victories.

Doyle Chambers is coaching the Eagles, and assistant coach this year is Leon Garcia, who is also team manager.

Garcia played as a regular for the past two years, but his birthday came three days too soon and he is ineligible his senior year.

The Samnorwood team posted a record of 11 wins against 6 losses in the past two years, Chambers said. All losses were to strong teams from Oklahoma.

The Eagles won all their district games the past season, then went on to win the Class B bi-district title for the third consecutive year.

With the loss of Bob King by graduation, the team is rather weak in pitching depth, Coach Chambers feels. However, the Eagles are fast developing in to good defensive players and fine hitters.

A high school baseball player himself, Coach Chambers was on three district championship and one regional championship teams. He did not play baseball in college.

1954 Study Club Hears of Famous American Homes in Recent Program

"Homes that Tell America's Story" were described for the members of the 1954 Study Club in their meeting Thursday, March 14. Mrs. Cal Hurst was the speaker.

Mrs. Charles Pendleton was hostess at the meeting, held in the directors' room of Greenbelt Electric Cooperative, Inc., and Mrs. Bill Long conducted the business meeting.

The Texas Heritage report was given by Mrs. Jack Aaron, who then led the Pledge to the Texas Flag, as it was Texas Day observance.

"Much of the furniture of Mt. Vernon, especially that in the library and in Washington's bedroom, is the furniture which he used," Mrs. Hurst told the group. "Where the Mt. Vernon Ladies Association was unable to buy back the same furniture, they purchased articles of the same kind. The coach in the coach house, for example, is not the same, but it was built by the same man and is exactly like the one in which Washington visited his neighbors. The grounds and the gardens surrounding the house are just as they were laid out by Washington and some of the trees were planted by his own hand."

After describing Abraham Lincoln's birthplace, Mrs. Hurst told the club, "Lincoln's first and only home was bought in 1843 in Springfield, Ill. He purchased it for $1,500, then added the second story. It is a beautifully simple frame house and now a state memorial. All the rooms are open to the public. Many pieces of Lincoln's own furniture and china are in the attractive home."

Thomas Edison wanted only a small house, but a huge work shop. Mark Twain's house in the river town of Hannibal, Mo., figures in his stories, but the fence, of the famous white-washing incident, is even better known.

Mrs. Hurst's final home was Honeycomb House of Dr. and Mrs. Hanna of Stanford University, Palo Alto, Calif.

"Their vision of a lifetime house was a dream, of course, and a daring one. When this house was built they were a young married couple who were supporting themselves, their studies and three small children on the modest income of an assistant professor."

"It took audacity for them to go to the country's most famous architect, Frank Lloyd Wright," Mrs. Hurst said.

The Hannas are considering giving their home as a memorial to Frank Lloyd Wright.

Attending the meeting were Mes. Sam Adams, A. J. Fires, Leon Hartman, Hurst, Floyd Keller, Long, V. K. Orr Jr., James Richardson, R. L. Templeton, Billy Joe Thogmartin, Lynn Wright, Bill Langford, Aaron, and the hostess, Mrs. Pendleton.

Glenda Ivy

Glenda Ivy Corpus Winner

A former Wellington junior high student, Glenda Ivy, was named winner of the Spelling Bee for her school in Corpus Christi recently.

She is 14 and an eighth grader.

Glenda attended school here last year. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Ivy, now of Corpus Christi, and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ivy and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hodge of Wellington.

Air Force Wife Finds English Winter Colder Than Temperature Reports

The dreariness of an English winter as an Air Force wife found it has been described by a former Wellington woman, Mrs. Clifton Stafford, who with her husband, T/Sgt. Stafford and their daughters, Molly, 14, and Juanice, 16, were transferred to near London in January.

England, with all Europe, was experiencing its coldest winter in years.

"England looks very much as I had expected it to look. It is much colder than I thought. You can't really go by the temperature gauge because of the wet dampness over here. It seems much colder than it really is by the gauge. And the only pitiful thing is that the houses aren't nice and warm like stateside," she wrote recently to her parents-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Stafford.

The contrast is sharper because the Staffords' previous assignment was at the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colo., where the winters are cold but dry, and the housing spanking new.

Mrs. Stafford is the former Ora Ellen Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hall.

Sgt. Stafford is in charge of the commissary at his base and frequently travels to inspect commissaries at bases on the continent.

By coincidence, their daughter and son-in-law, Sgt. and Mrs. Campbell Thomas (Cliffa Stafford) are stationed at another base nearby.

Housing was not available and the Staffords spent their first weeks in a hotel. The girls stayed with their sister.

"When you get out and get cold, you almost have to go to bed and get warm. I love to go down to Cliffa's house 'cause she has electric blankets and that is the only time I really get warm," Mrs. Stafford continued.

"Now you think I'm kidding, but it's the truth. I haven't been able to go even in the house without a sweater since I've been over here."

"Everywhere you go, even on buses, women are knitting woolen things. And this isn't hard to figure out. Believe you me I'm knitting on me a sweater, too. I don't think I could ever knit as fast as some of these girls do, though! They can make the needles fly."

"I won't mind a bit when my Uncle Sam says: 'O.K. Sergeant Stafford, it's time we make a little tour back to that wonderful land they call America.'"

And believe you me, I'm certainly glad that people identify me as an American. I'm certainly not ashamed of my heritage."
