

County May Take Over Federated Club Building

Adjustment Of Debt, Removal Of Presena Occupants Factors In Deal Now Being Considered

A deal whereby the county would become owner of the federated clubhouse on the southwest corner of the courthouse square was being considered by the county commissioners court today.

By combining and readjusting office space in the building, the county would be in a position to save about $50 a month or between $500 and $600 a year in rental fees for federal and state agencies furnished office space by the county.

Two members of the court figured if demands for office space by state and federal agencies operating in Howard county and surrounding area continued for four more years, the building would pay for itself in saved rentals.

By combining and readjusting office space in the building, the county would be in a position to save about $50 a month or between $500 and $600 a year in rental fees for federal and state agencies furnished office space by the county.

Ready To Vacate
In a meeting Monday evening, the museum association, which now has its collection and paraphernalia stored in the club building, passed a resolution informing the county commissioners court that if the county took over the building, the museum would vacate at any time as per the county's request.

Commenting on this action by the association, Dr. P. W. Malone, is president, said it was the association's desire not to stand in the way of any deal whereby the signers of notes for the building would be forced to pay heavy losses on the structure.

Reliable sources said that the library also would be moved elsewhere when the proposed deal goes through.

According to information Thursday, approximately $2,250 is outstanding on the federated clubhouse, erected more than 10 years ago. Administrator for the estate demanding payment on the overdue notes agreed to a reduction leaving the difference between the county's offer and the debt about $1,000. The club building fund, it was said, had a portion of this difference in its treasury, leaving signers to make up only a fraction of what would have been their loss otherwise.

County Judge Sullivan, talking about the proposed transaction, said that the county was willing to take the building over if it could be used, especially so since it would prevent "some fine, public spirited citizens from taking losses for their community spirit."

Commissioner H. H. Rutherford added that if the building could be made to accommodate office space supported by county funds it would pay for itself in the space of four years.

GOP Campaign Leader Claims 76 House Seats In Fall Elections

WASHINGTON, April 21 (AP)—Representative Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts, republican congressional campaign chairman, predicted today his party would win at least 76 democratic seats in the house in the November elections.

"Several weeks ago I predicted we would win 85 seats," Martin said, "but opposition to the new deal is growing so fast out in the nation that I feel safe in increasing that figure by 11."

"It is entirely possible that we will win control of the house," he said.

The republicans now hold 90 seats and the democrats 132.

Defeat of the government reorganization bill, Martin said, helped the republicans cause. He said "this relief business, if carried to

Insurgent Air Raids Take Many Lives

Border Area Bombed In Drive To Smash Vital Links

PERPIGNAN, France (AP)—Spanish insurgent airmen today bombarded towns, troop concentrations and one of the principal railroads of northern Catalonia in a drive to smash the remaining land links between Catalonia and France.

Civilians Killed
At least 22 civilians were killed and 35 injured at Puigcerda, Pyrenees gateway, where a Catalonian railway reaches the French border at one of the three frontier passes remaining under government control.

Six hours after the noon hour bombardment rescue crews digging in the debris of the railway station and other Puigcerda buildings reported recovery of 22 bodies.

Swooping low to rain bombs and machine gun bullets, Generalissimo Francisco Franco's planes raided a 40-mile branch railroad between Puigcerda and Ripoll in Upper Gerona province.

The bombardment of Puigcerda began at noon when four bombers and four pursuit planes swept in over the Pyrenees. The attack lasted almost half an hour, with one bomb dropped every minute.

French authorities took prompt precautions against any spread of the offensive to French soil. French mobile guards reinforced frontier posts and French anti-aircraft gunners fired rockets to warn the insurgent airmen.

Some of the rockets burst among the planes. The attackers remained on the Spanish side of the border.

Tokyo Sending New Troops Into China

TOKYO, April 21 (AP)—Large number of new troops are being sent to China where recent Japanese military reverses have created high political tension at home.

There are no figures, but the troop movement is the first on a large scale in many months.

Streets are filled with departing soldiers bidding farewell to their families, and the scenes are comparable to those of last September when Japan entered the conflict in earnest and began moving large home forces to the front.

The political crisis which has risen from the China campaign may come to a head when Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye reports to the emperor tomorrow.

The premier returned to work today after nearly a month's absence distributed by illness. During which rumors grew that he would resign in opposition to further extreme war measures signed by the military leaders.

HEAVY LOSS IN GRAIN ELEVATOR BLAZE

MINNEAPOLIS, April 21 (AP)—A spectacular fire starting early today destroyed the 55-year-old Pillsbury elevator with loss estimated at between $350,000 and $500,000.

Approximately half a million bushels of wheat, barley and rye were destroyed. The structure was 13 stories high and was owned by the Andrews Grain company.

At the height of the fire, residents in the vicinity were warned to be ready to evacuate, but rainedampened roofs and flames resisted the spread of flames. Burning grain and other debris was scattered for several blocks.

GOOD RAINS OVER OKLAHOMA AREA

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 21 (AP)—Soaking rains fell over the northern two-thirds of Oklahoma today, furnishing needed moisture to the Panhandle and supplying further "spring seasoning" for crops in the remainder of the drenched area.

Weather Observer Harry Wahlgren said the rains would especially benefit the Panhandle, where they were needed for planting of spring crops to replace those blown out by recent dust storms. The rainfall averaged half an inch.

The program, Luttrell said, had been worked out by the FHA and the Texas Lumbermen's association. Better housing chairmen in each city were to arrange the meetings for lumbermen and others interested.

Luttrell said amendments to the national housing act, passed by congress in February, would be explained, as well as new procedure for obtaining FHA building loans. Lumbermen also were to discuss and determine action on the FHA sponsored program of building demonstration homes in each city, at a cost of less than $4,000, to show the public what could be done for their building money and to encourage new homes.

Meeting dates included: April 29, Waco; April 27, Houston; April 28, Houston; April 30, Houston; May 3, Sherman, Beaumont; May 5, Denton, Galveston; May 10, Marshall, Amarillo, Brownsville; May 11, Amarillo; May 12, Tyler, Lubbock, Harlingen; May 17, Paris, Big Spring, Austin; May 19, San Angelo, San Antonio; May 24, Palestine, Vernon, Corpus Christi; May 29, Corsicana, Fort Arthur, Wichita Falls, Laredo.

PWA Aid For City Water Project Is A Possibility

Govt. Asks About Local Plans On Development

Possibility that a PWA grant in excess of $200,000 might be available to the city of Big Spring for a water development program was noted in a telegram Thursday from G. C. Street, Jr., acting regional director for the governmental agency.

Street wired the city Thursday to find if the municipality is still interested in an application made several years ago when a surface water supply was in mind.

City Manager E. V. Spence informed him that the city was "still interested," although he indicated that the idea of impounding a lake for a municipal water supply had about been abandoned here.

The grant, if and when it were received, might be applied to other water works development, said the manager.

Since the application was originally filed, with the idea in mind of a lake just east of Moss Springs (11 miles southeast of here), investigations have indicated that the watershed might not be sufficient to maintain a sufficient supply of water.

The U. S. geological survey had a crew of men here last year making an underground water survey. Big Spring cooperated in the survey, now held up pending a first report.

To Confer At White House Next Week

General Recovery Program Pushed On Several Fronts

WASHINGTON, April 21 (AP)—The White House announced today President Roosevelt had invited Henry Ford to an informal luncheon conference with him next Wednesday.

May Bring Others
Stephen Early, a presidential secretary, said the invitation was sent to the automobile manufacturer by teletype last night.

The telegram said if the elder Ford desired he might bring along his son, Edsel, president of the Ford Motor company and W. J. Cameron, public relations advisor.

It was expected the three would talk over business conditions with the president, although no subject was mentioned in the invitation.

While the text of the White House telegram was not given out, Early said it noted that Ford would be in Washington next week and said the president would be delighted to have him lunch informally with him.

It will be Henry Ford's first visit to the White House since President Roosevelt took office. He has differed with many New Deal measures and principles, especially the industrial recovery act and the Wagner labor relations law. He refused to sign NRA's blue eagle declaration of compliance.

Utility Program
Meanwhile, a high administration official said that Mr. Roosevelt's efforts to promote federally-financed expansion in the utilities industry were aimed at eventual stimulation of a huge utilities building program.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation announced yesterday it was ready to meet the financial needs of all comers in an attempt to end the industry's construction slump.

White House advisers have estimated that possibly a $1,000,000,000 utilities building program could be undertaken immediately with quick and far-reaching effects in other industries such as steel, cement, brick and lumber.

Utilities executives told the president several months ago they were about $3,000,000,000 behind normal building schedules.

Impetus to the campaign to enlist utilities in the recovery movement.

DEAD AND INJURED REACH 800 AS QUAKE CONTINUE IN ASIA

ANKARA, Turkey, April 21 (AP)—The Anatolia earthquake toll of dead and missing soared to at least 800 today after a night of continuing shocks which 50,000 homeless spent in mud terror.

Terrific underground rumblings were accompanied by intermittent earthquakes over a wide area of western Asia, bordering the Aegean sea, and especially about Kirshahr, Yazand and Teheran.

Panic stricken refugees fled from Erzerum full of boiling water. Eighteen villages were utterly destroyed, and 22 others were badly damaged.

Whole families were buried under mountainous debris. Most of the victims were women and children.

Salvage and relief squads were organized throughout the stricken country and the national assembly voted emergency funds.

The quakes first were felt about 1 p. m. Tuesday and lasted until nightfall. They were renewed last night.

The rains were in some of the most productive agricultural districts. Following the first shocks many residents rushed into the countryside.

To Check Mail Volume For Air Route

Brief Filed For Amarillo-Big Spring-San Antonio Line

SAN ANTONIO, April 21 (AP)—A brief has been filed with the Transcontinental Western Airways by the Texas State Manufacturers association in an effort to have established a feeder line from Amarillo to San Antonio, connecting with their transcontinental line at Amarillo.

It was announced today by E. R. Goodwin, assistant manager of the association.

A three-day check of first class mail going from San Antonio to Amarillo, San Angelo, Big Spring and Lubbock to obtain figures showing the need for air mail service between here and Amarillo will be conducted April 27-29. This information, it was reported, will be forwarded to Rep. Maury Maverick, who is conferring with officials in Washington to press for action on the proposed air mail route.

TWA now operates a line from Chicago, through Amarillo to the Pacific coast. The manufacturers association hopes to get this line routed from Amarillo via Plainview, Lubbock, Big Spring, San Angelo to San Antonio, Goodwin said.

READY TO HELP
If a survey is made of towns along the proposed air mail line from Amarillo to San Antonio via Lubbock, Big Spring and San Angelo, every effort to promote use of air mail will be pushed here, Dr. P. W. Malone, president of the chamber of commerce, said Thursday.

"Big Spring is interested in cooperating in every way to see a line established," he commented. "Not only are we cooperating in encouraging use of air mail, but are hopeful that the airport project will be started early in May."

ment came from a conference yesterday between the president, Chairman Jesse H. Jones of the RFC, and William O. Douglas and John W. Hanes of the securities commission.

Will Give No Advice To FD, Ford Says

SUBBURY, Mass., April 21 (AP)—Henry Ford of Detroit today revealed plans for a discussion of "business conditions" with President Roosevelt, but asserted he would enter the conference with no axe to grind.

Standing in the warm spring sunshine of the extensive Wayside Inn estate, the multi-millionaire automobile maker said he did not intend to give any "advice."

"If people do not raise their own food," he asserted, "they will have to have a dictator to tell them to do it."

"In no other way can we raise the money. The farms today must provide for industry."

"As an example I am going to cultivate every foot of the whole acreage here, right away."

"This entire land is just yearning for young men to go to work in it. That's all a young fellow needs today, the habit of work. Once he gets the habit, he'll find his own work."

Ford voiced the belief that America was on the road back to normalcy, but warned against overconfidence and predicted that commodity prices would be established at a lower level.

Asked if an increase in farm products such as he proposed would result in a lowering of farm prices, he replied:

"The price of farm products generally can never be too cheap because when the prices of farm products go down, new uses will be found for the products."

He said in this connection that industry was using more plastics and was looking to agriculture to supply materials. Cellulose could be found in most farm products, he said, adding that "in the future the fuel for automobile engines will come from farms."

RALPH YARBOROUGH

borough of Austin opened his campaign here Tuesday night for the attorney generalship before a large crowd that included delegations from Athens, Marshall, Kilgore, Henderson, Longview and other cities.

Reviewing his record as assistant attorney general, Yarborough pointed particularly to his services to the public schools, including the winning of $1,073,500 in one case, the second largest money verdict ever collected by the state; fighting successfully to raise the price of oil from public lands so it would be in line with other oil; getting "strappage" abolished so the pipelines now have to pay for 100 per cent of the oil from public lands, and writing the bill which set aside the oil royalty from remaining riverside for the public schools.

"The attorney general is chosen by the people and it is to the people that he owes allegiance," Yarborough said. "They should choose a man whose record shows both the willingness and the ability to serve the general welfare. To select a man who has been the mouthpiece of special privilege is to ignore the admonition of Holy Writ that a leopard cannot change his spots and that no man can serve two masters."

If You Doubt That Colonial Ladies, Hospitality, And Old Slaves Still Dwell In Mansions, Visit Natchez

If you doubt, as many people do, living out in the wide open spaces, that the old South and all her traditions are found only in history books, you should take a trip to Natchez, Miss., about this time of the year and see the colonial and antebellum days revived by the Garden club of that city which has sponsored a pilgrimage to its mansions every year for the past seven years for the purpose of collecting and perpetuating the legends, traditions and history of a land influenced by the culture of France, England, Spain and the Southern planter.

Mrs. E. V. Spence of Big Spring returned this week from such a delightful trip and reports the tour well worth any person's time, and it is especially recommended to those who doubt that colonial ladies, hospitality and old slaves dwell under the same roof in massive white columned structures.

Mrs. Spence made the tour with her cousin, Miss Annie Claire Atkinson, and Mrs. W. J. Heinritz of Texarkana. They visited twenty homes in two days and declared they almost grew weary of hearing the phrase, "for five generations" because practically everything they saw had been in the family "for five generations."

Homes Impressive
They were particularly impressed with those colonial structures which had been modernized to a certain degree, yet retained a bit of the atmosphere of the old South in its flourishing days. Approximately 1,200 registered for the pilgrimage one day with all states of the Union and four foreign countries represented. The garden club especially appreciates Texas because so many from the state attend the tours every year.

While Natchez has preserved her homes, furnishings and silverware and inculcated the desire to maintain her vast treasures, she has not made the most of the pilgrimages, the Texas party thinks, because she has not used the money to beautify her gardens and lawns. But once you enter the portals of a mansion, the neglected premises are forgotten and you drift back to the pre-war days of the South.

Over Century Old
A few of the homes are 163 years old and many were erected over 100 years ago. While some of them have remained in the same family for generations (probably five) others have changed hands for various reasons, but in most cases because of poverty. The original furniture is in some of the mansions as well as drapes of expensive imported lace. Bell cords once used to summon the slaves are intact and native oak punks are still used every day to keep the diners cool and discourage the congregating of flies.

Callers were greeted at the door of the homes by negro mamies and ladies of the houses, attired in beautiful colonial dresses and furbelows, directed them through the antiquated estates. On a day it rained two negroes were stationed on the porches to wipe the feet of the guests as was the colonial custom.

First Shower Bath
One of the highlights of the tour to Mrs. Spence and her party was a shower bath found at one of the homes called Richmond. It was supposed to be the first shower bath ever conceived and consisted of a pump and overhead tank. Water was pumped from a lower tub into the tank, a lever released, and the water came trickling down. The next bath pumped the same water back into the tank and the process was repeated. Many china bathtubs of pastel hues were also exhibited at the same place.

Learned About Audubon
At Green Leaves, the loveliest home visited, Mrs. Spence said the furnishings remained intact and one of the few sets of china painted by Audubon of France was in the mansion. Audubon came to Mississippi, fell in love with the country, and remained for a time. The china was sent to Natchez from France, painted by him, returned to his native land to be "fired" and then sent back. The travelers say if you have never heard of Audubon, don't be ashamed of it because neither had they, but they returned home quite Audubon-conscious.

Each year during the pilgrimage at Green Leaves, the hostess serves meals for the convenience of visitors in the typical Southern style. During the war several of the homes were used by the army, including Airline which served as a hospital and Weymouth Hall, overlooking the famous Devil's Punch Bowl of outlaw days, was the Union troops' headquarters.

Mexico Keeps Oil Dealings Secret

MEXICO CITY, April 21 (AP)—A lid of silence was dropped on Mexico's negotiations to sell oil today. The department of propaganda and publicity henceforth will handle all statements from the National Petroleum Council and Government Export company. It was disclosed by a government official who said there had been "too much loose talk."

Heretofore Vicente Cortes Herrera, general manager of the Petroleum Council, and Gustavo Espinosa Mireles, head of the Export company, not given any other Mexican official except President Lazaro Cardenas, of speaking for themselves. Before the new policy went into effect Espinosa Mireles said reports were exaggerated that W. R. Dais, New York promoter, was going to buy 20,000,000 barrels of oil. Dais himself could not be reached, although he conferred for several hours yesterday with Espinosa Mireles.

P-TA SESSION

Favor Government Arms Manufacture

WASHINGTON, April 21 (AP)—Senate foes of the administration's naval expansion bill threw their support today to a proposal to require the government to manufacture its own armaments.

Both sponsors and opponents of the $1,156,000,000 measure said senate debate probably would continue another week. Speechmaking was being carried on largely by opponents.

Senator Nye (R-ND), who began a fight against the house-approved bill yesterday, said government production of war supplies and weapons could be established at a cost of only $42,000,000.

READING AND WRITING

FIRST-CLASS PASSENGER'S

Such is the monopolistic quality of fame that most readers probably have no idea at all that H. L. Mencken has a brother. This is a fact, however. His name is August Mencken, and he also has a sense of humor, and a consuming interest. August Mencken's consuming interest is not the boobies like his brother's, but ships.

He has compiled a most amusing book about ships, the which has been published in due course by another H. L.'s publisher. The book is called "First-Class Passenger," and quite oddly, that is an exact description of the content. Mr. Mencken is an engineer by profession, which may possibly account for this precision.

The idea is simple. The book is made up of narratives written by first class passengers on a variety of boats, the latest of which is one by Ed Howe concerning a trip from Australia to South Africa in 1812, the earliest the narrative of Jonah's famous voyage a good many centuries ago. Chronologically, the book is put together backward, with Howe's story first, and Jonah's last. This is a help, it may be added.

Mr. Mencken has found nothing written earlier than the 15th century which he can call a narrative by a first class passenger. Instead he has included pieces such as a Felix Fabri's account of his voyage to the Holy Land, speaking of the Holy Land, it should be added that there is another excerpt dealing with the same voyage, though from a different starting point. This is from Mark Twain's immortal "Innocents Abroad," which has to do with the first cruise ship—the "Quaker City" which in 1867 took a party from New York to the Mediterranean. This was a very remarkable excursion, and the account of the ship and its equipment for the sea-faring innocents might almost be taken from the current record.

There is more than merely amusement in Mr. Mencken's book. One can get out of it a pretty fair history of passenger carrying by ship. And beyond that, one can see how a diverse assemblage reacted toward this pursuit. The reactions seem to run rather true to a set pattern in all ages.

Ticklish Questions To Be Before The League Council

GENEVA, April 21 (AP)—Troublesome, delicate questions piled up today for the League of Nations council, scheduled to open an important session May 9.

Haile Selassie, deposed emperor of Ethiopia, notified Joseph Avenol, the league's secretary-general, he would be represented at the session to fight against recognition of Italy's conquest of his country. Switzerland, seeking further guarantees of her neutrality and freedom from League obligations, drafted a demand the council consider the question of her "integral neutrality."

Already embarrassment was promised the council by the demand of the Barcelona government of Spain that the session take up the question of foreign intervention in the Spanish civil war.

Funds Proposed For Waterways

WASHINGTON, April 21 (AP)—The house appropriations committee has proposed expenditure of $4,712,800 for maintenance and operation of Louisiana and Mississippi harbors and waterways in the 1933 fiscal year.

The war department civil functions appropriations bill which the committee has reported to the house contains the following maintenance and operation appropriations:

Here's The TVA 'Inland Empire' That Congress Will Investigate

By The AP Feature Service Year in year out, the best shows in Washington are the congressional investigations. It's a poor season when the Capitol Hill dramatists don't produce at least one hit. But this has been a season of flops.

President Roosevelt himself wrote the prologue to the drama when he fired TVA Chairman A. E. Morgan as the climax of a series of charges and counter-charges between the chairman and his fellow directors of TVA, H. A. Morgan and David Lilienthal.

And now Congress is going to investigate the whole thing—TVA, its power policy and the activities of its private competitors.

These two maps show the physical setup which the congressional sleuths will examine:

1. Above: The Tennessee river and the several dams completed, under construction and planned to develop its natural resources.

2. Below: The power distribution system, with its 4,000 miles of lines, and the areas in which it serves 40,000 customers.

To date the government has spent about $155,000,000 on TVA. For its money it has:

1. A power system producing about 8,500,000 kilowatt hours a month, which is being sold wholesale to municipalities and rural cooperatives.

2. Facilities for flood control, erosion prevention, navigation and the manufacture of fertilizer which cannot be accurately evaluated in dollars.

A squad of 75 policemen fought half an hour to restrain street crowds, intent on retaliating, from invading the meeting.

N. Y. Mayor To Be At Guthrie Celebration

LaGuardia Principal Speaker At 89'er Festivities

GUTHRIE, Okla., April 21 (AP)—There will be plenty of booted, bearded western frontiersmen and crinoline garbed pioneer women at the 89'er celebration here tomorrow, but the main attraction will be New York City's Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia.

The energetic LaGuardia, due at 7 p. m. (CST) has agreed to a schedule calling for him to keep going at his best speed from then until he becomes a member of the Cheyenne and Arapaho Indian tribes at a night rodeo.

LaGuardia's main appearance tomorrow will be in a ten-mile long parade at 10:30 a. m., led by 40 bands and in an address before a conference of mayors at 1:15 p. m. The New York mayor has promised to attend a breakfast, hold a press conference, greet visitors in his hotel headquarters, attend two rodeo sessions and an 89'er banquet.

Three hundred mayors from Texas, Colorado, Arkansas, Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and New Mexico have accepted invitations to the conference, officials said.

LaGuardia, one-time republican congressman, elected mayor on a fusion ticket and now espousing the American Labor party, indicated to his Guthrie hosts he would discuss relief, reform and housing problems.

Tomorrow has been set aside as a legal holiday in a proclamation by Governor Marland.

It is celebrated because it is the anniversary of the run of 1889 when old Oklahoma territory was opened to settlement.

WIDOW OF FIGHTER AT SAN JACINTO HAS QUIET DAY

BAIRD, April 21 (AP)—Mrs. Martha Catherine Berry, 85, sole surviving widow of a fighter in the Battle of San Jacinto at which Texas won its independence, celebrated the day quietly at her farm home near here.

A recent illness prevented her from following her usual custom of visiting the grave of her husband, A. J. Berry, who was buried here in 1899.

Mrs. Berry was born in Hempstead county, Arkansas, in 1853 and came to Robertson county, Texas, in 1855 with her parents. Her husband was a private in the command of Jesse Billingsley during the Mexican war when she married him at the age of 22.

ROME CELEBRATES 2691ST BIRTHDAY

ROME, April 21 (AP)—Italy today celebrated the 2691st birthday of Rome—founded in 754 B. C., according to legend—with nationwide inauguration services for public works and awarding of labor prizes.

Thousands gathered in the Piazza di Venezia to see Premier Mussolini hand pensions to 1,250 aged and invalid workers and award small cash prizes to winners in the fourth annual "faithful to the soil" competition.

Sums ranged up to $50. Many of the peasants could claim their families since medieval times had worked the plots of land which brought them prizes.

Throughout Italy public works projects costing more than $2,500,000 were dedicated. They included new workers' homes, dams and bridges.

HITLER GIVEN PLENTY SOCKS

BERLIN, April 21 (AP)—Fuehrer Hitler got enough hand-knit socks on his 64th birthday to fit an army division.

There were more than 10,000 pairs to be handed over to social welfare organizations. The Fuehrer also got a number of other things to wear, all made by admiring followers.

Other gifts, presented during yesterday's birthday celebration: A three-foot birthday cake, a model of the streamlined, four-passenger "people's car" Hitler wants every German to possess; an ancient Arabian sword belt and a big silver cauldron from the envoys of Iraq and Bolivia.

There were also a lion's cub, phonograph records of official speeches on the union with Austria, and a complete set of all editions in all languages of his book, "Mein Kampf."

ROUTE OF DALLAS TRIPPERS, DUE HERE APR. 28

Key men of Dallas business and industry will leave their desks for five days to renew old friendships and make new ones on the 37th annual Dallas Business Tour, April 23-28. Traveling on a special train, they will visit 28 cities in Southern Oklahoma, North and West Texas, and will also pay April 28. Ardmore, Okla., will be the first stop on the tour, and Temple will be the last. The trippers will be in Big Spring next Thursday, April 28. The map shows the 1,777-mile itinerary, which will take the special train through the heart of one of the most important and most prosperous areas in the Southwest. A 25-piece band under direction of Alex Keese, program director of Radio Station WFAA, will accompany the Dallas party, and an entertainment program will be staged in each city.

Go To The Circus For Inspiration When You Plan Your Next Party

BIG-TOP CAKE
Candy elephants, zebras, lions and clowns decorate this circus-party climax. Cake and peanuts rest on sawdust of roasted coconut.

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
AP Feature Service Writer

Everybody likes a circus—almost everybody. Why not capitalize on this universal delight when you want to give a party? Make it a circus party.

You may want to wait until the landscape around your town blazes with circus posters. But any time in the spring or summer would be good.

Make circus tickets for invitations. Collect the tickets at the door and exchange them for circus "money" for the guests to spend.

Let barbers—Dad or Older Brother or George—explain the wonders of the Big Top and Side Show. (Movies or lantern-slide pictures of family and friends make an ideal side show.)

Let Little Sister Ann sell popcorn, chewing gum and peanuts and let her classmate preside over the pink lemonade.

Fill the Big Top—rumpus room, attic, porch, or garage—with games.

Have someone hand out rubber horseshoes for the midway ring games. Give gaudy dolls as prizes for table tennis. Let Uncle Bob be the weight guesser—and make him forfeit a lollipop if he's five pounds off.

Establish a lunch counter—stacked with hot-dogs, ice cream in cups and lemonade. (Beer may be better for the old folks.)

Let the 'teen-age group fill lunch boxes—and then saunter around the grounds to eat. They may start out with sandwiches, salad served in paper cups, drop cakes and cookies and come back for cocoa and ice cream.

Set up a special table for the very young fans. Decorate it with balloons and toys and give whistles as favors.

SEVEN MINUTE FROSTING
2 egg whites, unbeaten
1 1/2 cups granulated sugar
5 tablespoons water
1 1/2 teaspoons light corn syrup
1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine egg whites, sugar, water, and corn syrup in top of double boiler, beating with rotary egg beater until thoroughly mixed. Place over rapidly boiling water. Beat constantly with rotary egg beater, and cook seven minutes, or until frosting will stand in peaks. Remove from boiling water. Add vanilla and beat until thick enough to spread.

FURTHER AVIATION TRAINING PROPOSED

WASHINGTON, April 21 (AP)—Representative Maverick (D-Tex) proposed today the government encourage development of the air service in federal land grant colleges.

Saying "everybody knows the United States is deficient in aviators," Maverick introduced a bill to establish a national aeronautics academy at Kelly, Randolph, Duncan and Brooks fields in Texas. The legislation would authorize the war department to lend planes to the land grant schools for use in training prospective aviators.

TREASURY BUYS MEXICO SILVER

WASHINGTON, April 21 (AP)—Secretary Morgenthau said today the treasury had purchased a quantity of silver mined in Mexico by an American company. This was first Mexican silver bought since Morgenthau on March 27 suspended the agreement for American purchases of 5,000,000 ounces of silver from the Mexican treasury each month.

The secretary said the silver was offered the United States treasury on the New York silver market and was bought in accordance with the treasury's policy of buying all silver offered at New York at the treasury's price. The Mexican treasury will be permitted to take advantage of the offer as well as private companies, the treasury had said last week.

School Vocalists To Be Heard On KBST Friday

The Big Spring chamber of commerce broadcast over KBST, scheduled for 5 p. m. Friday, this week will feature the small ensemble groups of the high school chorus which won honors at the recent district choral festival in Abilene. Last week the larger ensembles were presented.

Friday's program will include: Girls' quartet, composed of Claire Lou Nummy, Dorothy Carmack, Christine Shannon and Sara Lamun, singing "Birdsong At Eventide" (Eric Coates) and "Sweet Miss Mary" (Niedlinger).

Boys' quartet, composed of Howard Carmack, Donald Schurman, Joe Hansard and Donald Cole, singing "Passing By" (Purcell); "Grandfather's Clock" (Ira E. Wilson).

Girls' trio, composed of Wanda McQuain, DeAlva McAllister and Emily Stalcup, singing "To A Wild Rose" (McDowell) and "Cossack's Lullaby" (Russian Folk Song).

Girls' sextet, composed of Maurine Rowe, Emily Stalcup, Christine Shannon, DeAlva McAllister, Lillian Hurt, and Wanda McQuain, singing "Around The Gypsy Fire" (Brahms) and "Cranan" (a Scotch lullaby).

All these groups are under direction of Mrs. Bruce Frazier.

Service Held For Causey Infant

Funeral services were held at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon for Delton Jess Causey, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Causey, who died at the family home, two miles north of the city, at 12:30 p. m. Wednesday.

Rites were conducted by Rev. G. C. Schurman, pastor of the First Christian church, and burial was made in New Mt. Olive cemetery.

The baby, who had been ill for some time, succumbed on the eve of his first birthday.

Survivors besides the parents are the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Robinson of Big Spring and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Causey of Mt. Vernon; and two brothers, L. C. and Leyman Causey.

Social Justice For Children Urged

WACO, April 21 (UP)—Social justice for children was urged by two speakers today at the Texas conference of social welfare.

Miss Beatrice McConnell, of the U. S. department of labor, children's bureau, advocated education "that will fit our young people for useful and constructive citizenship."

Clinton W. Arsoff, New York City's chief probation officer, urged equalization in education and called for "the assistance of wealthier portions of the state to schools less able to provide educational opportunity so that the latter may not be a drag upon social advance."

Miss McConnell said socially minded persons must exert an unremitting effort toward careful planning of conditions vital to boys and girls.

MOB FAILS TO FIND NEGRO SUSPECT

TEXARKANA, April 21 (UP)—East Texas county jails early today had failed to yield Tommie Wells, negro, sought by a band of about 50 men.

Wells, under indictment charged with a criminal attack on a Texarkana white woman, was held in an unannounced jail.

The men formed a motorcade at a shooting range here last night and visited the Cass county jail at Linden and the Marion county jail at Jefferson. They were informed the prisoner was not held in either of those jails and no effort was made to force entry for a search.

The group left Jefferson early today, apparently bent on stopping at other places.

WPA Teaches Adults

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP)—The WPA has announced that it has taught more than 17,000 adults in Oklahoma to read and write in its adult education classes since 1934. One of its prize classes, officials said, is at Guthrie, where there are six students who are 65, 66, 67, 71, 72 and 76 years old.

NEW THEATRE OF WAR

In a desperate attempt to push over the stubborn Chinese resistance in south Shantung province, Japanese rushed fresh troops to the Yi river, near Lini (arrow) from Tsingtao. The Japanese, forced to fight all the way, have a bigger battle coming, the Chinese say, when they engage Chinese at Lini in what military experts say may be a major engagement of the nine-month-old war.

Defends Legality Of Daylight Saving Time System

PITTSBURGH, April 21 (UP)—City Councilman Robert Garland, slightly excited as always about this time of the year, denied once again today that daylight saving time is illegal.

The Irish-born councilman, widely known as the "father" of daylight saving, is credited with starting the movement in America back in 1916 when he secured the endorsement of the Pittsburgh chamber of commerce.

He headed a group that went to Washington and urged congress to enact the wartime legislation making "fast time" law.

The act was later repealed, but the practice of providing "one more hour of God's sunlight"—as Garland puts it—remained in much of the nation.

The father of "fast time" said that it will be observed for the 21st year in 1939 in New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, Great Britain, Garland concluded triumphantly, changed time April 10 and France and Belgium on March 27.

Rare Edition Found

MILLBURY, Mass. (UP)—Apparently forgotten since Colonial days, a dusty first edition of John Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress"—valued at $4,000—was discovered recently in the Millbury public library cellar by Fred L. Traverse, a WPA bookbinder, while sorting stacks of lattered tomes.

ASSERTS CONSUMERS WOULD OPPOSE THE SEPARATION OF OIL MARKETING DIVISIONS

WASHINGTON, April 21 (UP)—Howard Pew, president of the Sun Oil company, told a senate judiciary subcommittee today that if the millions of gasoline consumers knew what was proposed in a bill to divorce marketing from other phases of the oil business, "you'd have an army of them here opposing this legislation."

The Philadelphian testified at a hearing on the bill by Senator Gillette (D-Iowa) to separate the business of producing, refining and transportation of petroleum products from the marketing business.

"The gentlemen who argue for this will say that of the four divisions of the oil industry, two are now profitable, two are unprofitable," he said. "They want all four made profitable; that is, they want the consumer to pay enough to insure four profits instead of two."

Pew said he wondered if proponents of the bill "really believed there is any injustice or unfairness in the present marketing setup."

"I have suspected," he said, "that they hoped through this legislation to fall heir to a department of the business that has been built up through many years at great cost."

The subcommittee hearings were concluded with a statement by Paul E. Hadlock of Washington, D. C., secretary of the National Oil Refiners association, that the bill would provide a remedy for abuses which "everyone admits" and would "in no way be the source of injury that has been conjured up by the jobbers and dealers."

"The great problem before your committee," Hadlock said, "is stamping out monopoly in the oil business and preventing it from increasing its grasp. Figure out the independent marketers and we leave it to you whether, or not, the public will not pay more for its products. Did not the elder Rockefeller take advantage of his 'pound of flesh' once he had cornered the refinery market?"

Mrs. W. L. McClure is in Austin where she is visiting with relatives and friends.

Alfalfa Bill Again Candidate For Okla. Governor

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 21 (UP)—William H. Murray—"call me ex-Governor Alfalfa Bill on the ballot"—emerged from retirement today and plunged into another campaign for the governorship.

He offered a platform of economy to lure the democratic nomination.

Tall, gaunt, gray-haired and bushy-mustached—but heavier than when he left office three years ago—Murray said:

"At 68, I'm a better man than a lot of those now at the capitol who are only 40 because I don't eat and drink myself to death."

The "sage of Tishomingo" declared the "new deal has no more to do with this election than infant baptism" and said he will campaign on state issues only.

Murray, the eighth candidate to file, has stiff opposition. But he once joked: "The more the merrier."

"I'd rather not be governor if I can't win by a clear majority."

Sees Spread Of Newspaper Censorship

Independent Press Must Uphold Self-Government

WASHINGTON, April 21 (UP)—Alfred H. Kirchofer, president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, asserted today that "the black plague" of newspaper censorship was spreading to the American continent.

Kirchofer, managing editor of the Buffalo (N.Y.) Evening News, opened the society's annual convention by declaring it was the duty of this country's free press "to defend and interpret free institutions."

"Today self-government is on trial," he said, "an independent press can uphold it."

"History shows that even the best of the politicians, job-seekers and office-holding bureaucracy tend to become self-serving. If they aren't thinking of reelection or appointment, they are thinking of their place in the sun."

"It is the duty of the newspaper press to warn against such self-aggrandizement. To do this requires a high degree of competence in our editors and reporters."

"We should indeed be at the end of our rope if the American press were so subservient to government that it, in its entirety, reflected only the views of the government rather than reported and interpreted its action objectively."

"Our job is not to keep America, in these changing times, in the shackles of the status quo, but to make sure that, through methods of discussion and education which are basic features of the newspaper function, the virtues and defects of proposed alterations in our political, social and economic system are understood before we take steps which may lead to change but not necessarily to progress or reform."

Kirchofer said it was an anomaly that in news dissemination that ever before, the circulation of American newspapers is at an all-time high and that increasing criticism is being directed at these self same newspapers.

"It doesn't make sense," he added, "unless you accept the thesis that the masses are looking to these newspapers for competent, honest and courageous leadership. In other lands, dictators who establish propaganda bureaus think it is enough if they know. Here the people must know and understand."

The seven principal virtues in medieval Christian ethics were purity, obedience, benevolence, faith, hope, love and humility.

Low Bids Are Tabulated

Contracts Due Soon On Big Highway Program

AUSTIN, April 21 (UP)—A few formalities was the only barrier today to commencement of a highway construction program costing $2,920,732.

The highway commission yesterday announced low bidders on more than 50 projects and announced work orders would be issued within 15 to 30 days on most items.

These included, by counties:

Carson, Gray and Hutchinson, 7.4 miles of widening roadway sections and grading, drainage structure, flexible base and double asphalt surface treatment on Highways 33 and 117, U. S. 60, on sections from Potter county line to Kingville and from Berger northwest one mile, Althands & Davis, Dallas, $40,977.

Hunt, Red River, Lamar and Fannin, 49.6 miles of asphalt seal coat and asphalt concrete on Highways 1, 5, 24, 34, 42 and 78 from Ardix Heights east five miles; from Detroit east 2.9 miles; from Batesville to Bagwell; from end of pavement in Paris north 4 miles; from Trout Spur to Red river; from Kaufman county line to Quinlan; from Ladonia to Wolfe City; from Celeste to Fannin county line; from Greenville south 3.1 miles; from Bailey north five miles, and from Collin county line to Leonard, Haden & Austin, Houston, $34,521.

Highway Signs In Spanish For The Valley Sector

AUSTIN, April 21 (UP)—Highway signs in Spanish, placed along Highway 2 from San Antonio to Laredo for the benefit of the large Spanish speaking population in that area, will be duplicated along Highway 4 through the Rio Grande valley.

The maintenance division of the highway department said the Mexican government had agreed to erect English language signs along the Pan-American highway between the border and Monterrey in reciprocity for the Spanish markers in Texas.

San Antonio's Famed Battle Of Flowers Is Scheduled Tomorrow

SAN ANTONIO, April 21 (UP)—Originalizing nearly a half century ago with a visit from a president, San Antonio's week-long Fiesta de San Jacinto celebration moved toward its climax tomorrow in the Battle of Flowers parade.

While President Benjamin Harrison's visit here in 1891 served as the foundation of the fiesta, other factors are attributed to the origin of the spectacle, climaxed with the Battle of Flowers parade.

A jaded horseman, Joseph De Urrutia, an outsider for the expedition of Domingo De Teran, visited the area and led to the establishment of the city of San Antonio more than two centuries ago.

A heroic little band, the heroes of the Alamo who stood off Santa Anna and his army for 14 days, and the battle of the republic fought at San Jacinto and leading to a successful conclusion of the Texas revolution—all were the basis for staging the annual celebration.

One of the highlights of the first fiesta was a Battle of Flowers staged in front of the Alamo. For several years each fiesta had its flower battle, but later the nature of it changed with the passing years.

More and more emphasis was placed upon San Antonio and its history—first as an outpost of the far flung Spanish empire in America.

It became the desire of the citizens to impress upon visitors to the city the leading role played by the city in development of a new continent. Likewise, the desire grew to show the world that dual races can dwell together in amity, preserving the customs and manners of both.

First U. S. Turnpike Still Serves As A Strip Of Lincoln Highway

LANCASTER, Pa. (UP)—The Philadelphia and Lancaster Turnpike, first extensive road built in the United States and the first highway surfaced with crushed stone, according to predetermined plans and specifications, is nearly a century and a half old.

Today the old Lancaster Pike is a modern, three-lane road forming a link of U. S. Route 30, the Lincoln Highway, over which automobiles travel the 62 miles between the two cities in less than two hours, but early in the 19th century, stage coaches required a day to make the trip.

A charter for construction of the turnpike, which was to become the first link of the 320-mile Great Western Route from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh, was granted by the Pennsylvania legislature on April 9, 1792.

Construction started in February, 1793, was completed in December, 1795, and cost a total of $465,000, or an average of $7,490 a mile.

Travelers paid tolls at 13 gates located at intervals along the road. According to a report made by Secretary of the Treasury Albert Gallatin in 1808, tolls amounted to less than $25,000 a year and annual expenses and repairs were estimated at $13,000. Railroad competition a few years later wiped out this favorable balance.

The charter granted the Philadelphia and Lancaster Company by the legislature required the highway to be 50 feet wide and to make in no place an angle of four degrees with the horizon, or not more than what is known today as a 7 per cent grade.

The crushed stone surface was 24 feet wide, 18 inches deep at the center and 12 inches at each edge, thus forming a crowned roadbed.

Conestoga wagons, built in the Lancaster district and taking their name from the Conestoga river, which flows through the center of Lancaster county, were the general use about 1750, made up the bulk of traffic on the pike.

Taverns, at which stage coaches stopped to permit their passengers to rest and eat, dotted the 62-mile highway, but few remain today. The Spread Eagle Inn, in Radnor Township, Chester county, 14 miles west of Philadelphia, was operated as a tavern as early as 1760, and was rebuilt as a three-story stone building in 1760. It still stands. Today it is a restaurant, serving travelers who speed along the old road in automobiles.

Sailors Give Honolulu A Brief Boom

HONOLULU, April 21 (UP)—Fifty thousand sailors have completed the "capture" of Honolulu. With the war games at an end with exception of maneuvers incidental to the fleet's return to Pacific Coast bases officers and men enjoyed ten days' relaxation after a month of strenuous duty in the annual mid-ocean exercises.

Hawaii, scene of the nation's heaviest concentration of troops and armament, is a favorite port with most first personnel.

The visitors got a bad break in weather this year at opening of their liberty period, with low clouds and rain prevailing, and a wind which local people think is cold but may be a warm breeze to those fresh from northern cities.

It's Romantic to Marine

Typical of servicemen's reactions to the islands was the comment of Private John Curley, New York marine just back from China. "My girl thinks Hawaii is a very romantic place," he said, "so I am finding out for her and from all I have seen it lives up to its reputation for blue skies and waving palms."

A fellow marine, Private Max Klein of New York, was more blasé. "We have places like this around New York," he said, "where we go for weekends."

Seaman William Deger, New London, Conn., just off the U.S.S. Whitney, was sold on the Far East and "you can have your palm trees and Walkiki and hula moos. Why they even have better hula girls in Manila than in Honolulu," he said, although admitting the only hula girls he knew in the Philippines were Hawaii-trained. "And I like Shanghai better than either of them. I was on the Augusta when she was bombed but I still like China."

No Night Shore Leave

About half the enlisted personnel was allowed liberty each day. Thousands of sailors rolled into Honolulu on buses each morning from Pearl Harbor, 14 miles away, where nearly all vessels except the aircraft carriers are anchored. The carriers, Saratoga, Lexington and Ranger anchored about a mile off Walkiki Beach. Enlisted men could stay ashore only until 7 p. m.

Local merchants prepared for weeks for the fleet's annual visit, which marked one of their biggest booms of the year. A bull market prevailed for 10 days in grass skirts, ukuleles, leis, coconuts—ready-for-mailing and picture post cards. Down on Hotel street a sailor could get his picture taken in a grass shack with a real hula girl for 25 cents.

A high percentage of fleet personnel were camera fans and many followed the usual tourist trails to King Kamehameha's statue in front of the federal building, Iolani palace just across King street, and on to Walkiki, Diamond Head, or "around the island."

Geysers Show The Scars Of Vandalism

Tourists In Yellowstone Persist In Leaving Marks

YELLOWSTONE PARK, Mont., April 21 (UP)—The "fools' faces" were gone long ago, but their names still adorn public places here, along with penciled poetry, tax tokens, and marks of vandalism.

Visitors annually enter the park, try to get their names in as many different places as possible, throw logs in the geysers to see them blow up, and take pieces of rare formations for the mantelpieces back home.

Names with the date 1880 still may be seen beneath the thin crusts of geyser nature used to hide her shame, many of them in the most beautiful formations of the valley.

In some cases, entire geyser cones have disappeared, blown out by a load of rock or logs tossed in to amuse the tourist who demands action, or taken home in small chunks to prove to the neighbors that "we really were there."

Tax Tokens Cast Into Pools

Shining tax tokens are thrown into geyser pools for no apparent reason, and park attendants fish them out at the risk of damaging delicate formations.

Vandalism is nothing new. As early as 1873, one year after appointment of N. P. Langford as first park superintendent, it had become objectionable.

"The parapets of sinter of the 'Bee Hive,' he wrote to the then secretary of the interior, "have been much defaced by visitors to the park." He even suggested leasing parts of the park so leases would hire protection to safeguard their interests.

A description typical of today's vandals was written by Capt. William Ludlow of the U. S. army engineers more than 50 years ago.

Continued Curb On Crude Output Is Advocated

TULSA, Okla., April 21 (UP)—The petroleum industry swung along today at a steady pace and the much talked of spring upswing still was barely discernible.

Oil men who held the opinion that Easter would see a brisk rise in the demand for motor fuel still awaited reports on it.

Leaders continued with their same counsel on the need of holding down production of crude oil and runs to stills so topheavy stocks could be brought into line.

Generally disappointing in this area was the American Petroleum Institute's report that for the week ending April 15 gasoline stocks had declined 278,000 barrels to total 92,001,000.

Considering the inquiry and movement during that period in the Mid-Continent, it had been expected here the dip in gasoline stocks would be greater.

Marketers in the Mid-Continent reported a good demand for gasoline during the past week. One observer insisted that for the Mid-Continent, at least, movement of gasoline out of refineries was approaching normal.

Long range views on the year's business generally were that consumption of petroleum products would reach a satisfactory point, by comparison with last year.

Park directors, however, find consolation in the attitude of the majority of visitors, who report vandalism and frequently use force to make ambitious name carvers and sample-getters stop.

And, as Joe Soffe, assistant to the superintendent, puts it, "we still have more natural wonders than any place else in the world."

THE SPORTS PARADE

By HANK HART
Manager Barnabe Knows The Biz

We think you're going to like Charles Barnabe. He's whipped the local team into great shape and with the opening game less than a week in the future is just about ready to open the season. He's cut his squad systematically and now needs top off only three men to get within the regular player limit of the West Texas-New Mexico league.

He rarely ever comments on anything but he really thinks he has a fair little ball club out there and that's good enough for us. Jack Hutcherson promised the town he'd have a club that would win more games than it lost and the way the situation looks now Charley is thinking in terms better than that.

Several of the local fans who have seen the local boys work out are amazed at Charley's versatility. In his active days he was known as a pitcher but the way he swings that timber around had led some to believe that he missed his calling.

He does something no fan around here has ever seen before, that in knocking pop fouls to the catcher. If you don't think that's hard to do then just try it.

Barney may see plenty of action this season but he doesn't intend to put himself on the active list at the beginning. He wants to give all the young players that he can a chance and won't do the playing togs unless it is absolutely imperative.

Interesting Grid Game Up Friday

Football fans who are aching for a chance to see a grid game this spring can get a look-see at this new six-game if they drive out to Garner Friday afternoon. The Hill Billies, Coach Floyd Burnett's Garner high school outfit and Lloyd Devan's Coahoma Bulldogs will initiate the new season.

Six-man football may seem rather strange to fans of this sector who have been accustomed to the regular 11-man game but it should be highly interesting.

There should be more action and more scoring than otherwise due to the fact that there will not be as much defense as usual.

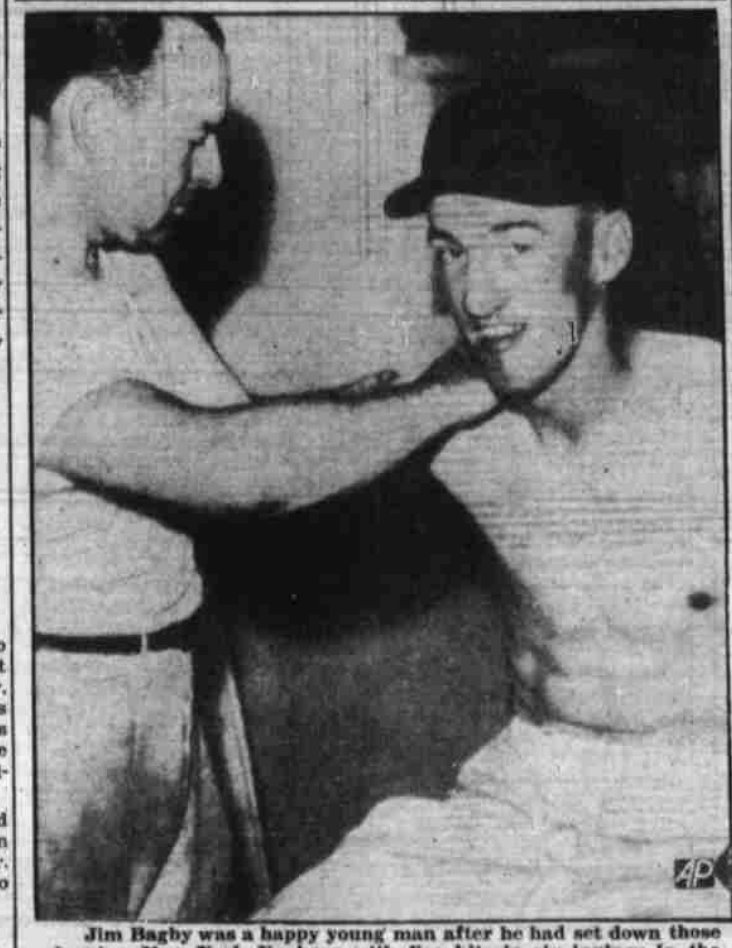

A rule forcing a team to pass at least two yards on every play should speed up the game and all fans, as a general rule, like an offensive game.

All other schools of the Pioneer School Activities Association will take part in football this spring. Another game of the association will pit the Westbrook crew against Courtney high school.

Cosch J. Crouch at Westbrook will depend on several of his track stars of the past season while Mentor Nolan Robnett of the Courtney team should have plenty of material from which to draw. Fourteen boys reported to him two weeks ago and have been going through strenuous drills.

To Discuss Plans For Golf Tourney

Bill McCall, district recreation supervisor of the WPA, is due in town within a few days to discuss the approaching district junior golf tournament to be held here with Harold Akey, pro at the Mundy club.

Actual dates for the meeting, open to all golfers under 21 years of age, has been set for July 21, 22 and 23. Detailed plans are being worked out for making this one of the most attractive golf tournaments ever to be held in West Texas.

More than 200 youngsters are expected to try for the honors here, a fourth of them from Big Spring.

Cowley, Joiner And Hobson Compete

Team Shows Coordination In Drill For Forsan Game

Having sliced his squad down to 19 members, Manager Charles Barnabe today labored long hours with batting and infield practice preparing the Barons for the Saturday game with the strong semi-pro club, the Continental Oilers of Forsan. The two teams are set to clash in Baron park at 3 p. m.

Cut away from the crew Wednesday were Rudianian, outfielder; Kelley, infielder, and Nelson, pitcher.

Two catchers, eight pitchers, five infielders and three outfielders were wearing Big Spring uniforms today and Barnabe announced that he would not bring the club to within the league limit of 16 men until after the weekend.

Three left-handers are riding with the squad and all will probably see action against the Oilers. Frankie Jacot, a carryover from the Monahans team of a season ago, is expected to get the starting call.

Trio of Shortstops
Barnabe dedicated most of his time in Wednesday's practice to his infielders, working Siebert, Decker and Henderson at first, second and third, respectively, and alternating Joiner, Hobson and Cowley at the shortstop berth. There is a possibility that one of the latter two named may be taught to play some other position in the infield since all have shown to an advantage.

Decker, originally a third sacker, is fitting in nicely at the keystone sack. He needs to spend more time on executing double plays but he shapes up well in all other departments.

Both of the team's catchers are shining brilliantly. Allen Berendt is expected to get the starting call in Saturday's game but Bob Varralman's all-around performance was gratifying to the leader. Both displayed excellent arms and both have indicated that they will try for that starting berth.

Base running also occupied part of the youngsters' time. The squad may be divided for an intra-squad game today, the leader said.

Feats Of Feller And Dean Headline Show

By GAYLE TALBOT
AP Sports Writer

The big league baseball races, only just begun, already have supplied more quick color and commotion than a four-ring circus during a thunderstorm. The customers today were slightly bewildered from trying to look in a dozen directions at once.

Joe DiMaggio, the last of the holdouts, was rolling eastward to join the beleaguered New York Yankees, watching the telephone poles tick off the dollars he had lost by trying to buck the most powerful club in the business.

Owner Phil Wrigley, the chewing gum king who owns the Chicago Cubs, was breathing a little easier and gaining confidence that he hadn't been stuck in planking down $250,000 for pitcher Dizzy Dean. The Dixie did all right in his inaugural.

Bob Feller, 19-year-old fireballer of the Cleveland Indians, had come within a single scratch hit of achieving that noblest of all diamond deeds, a no-hitter, as he shut out the St. Louis Browns, 9 to 0. Also, he struck out six and made two hits.

MOORE SHINES
Among the lesser incidents of a lusty day was the home run hit by little Gene Moore of the Boston Bees with three on base to beat the Giants, 6 to 4; a nine-run rally by the Cubs at Cincinnati's expense, and a four-run, last-inning comeback by the Philadelphia Phils to out-game Brooklyn, 6 to 5. It was a day.

Eyes were glued to the tickers all over the country as Dean went in to prove that Branch Rickey of the Cards hadn't made a sucker out of Wrigley. It wasn't a complete test for the Great One's arm, not after the Cubs gave him nine runs in the second inning. During the six innings Dix worked he allowed eight hits and two runs, but he looked tough enough when it came time to hear down.

He struck out three men, each time with men on the sacks, but didn't appear to be exerting himself otherwise. In the sixth, Manager Charlie Grimm let Jack Egan pinch hit for the 10 to 4 victory.

Club Doc Says Diz's Arm Is In Condition

Says Trade Should Result In Pennant For Cubs

CINCINNATI, April 21 (AP)—Andy (Doc) Lohaw, who has rubbed and kneaded the kinks out of Chicago Cub muscles for 17 years, set at rest today all fears that an ailing arm might have been among the reasons the St. Louis Cards shipped "Dizzy" Dean to the Windy City club in exchange for three players and a bundle of cash.

Dean wrecked some of the rumors yesterday as he "brezzed" through six innings against the Cincinnati Reds in his debut as a Chicagoan. He allowed eight hits, two runs, walked none and fanned three as the Cubs won their second straight by 10 to 4, with a nine-run explosion in the second.

"Doc" worked on Dean's muscles and listened to his one-armed "conversation" for a half hour after the "one and only" had been taken out for a rest. As Dean stepped into his shower, Lohaw said:

Nothing Wrong
"There's nothing in the world wrong with that arm, except that it's a bit weak from lack of use. The muscles are 'loose as a goose,' and he'll win a lot of games for us this season. He may mean the pennant."

"Dizzy, counting the six against the Reds, has worked only 21 innings this year. He was ill for 10 days down south, and he wasn't ready to go more than six innings in his first start. But he'll be ready to go the route in a couple of weeks."

Charley Grimm, Cub skipper, said Dean would start the game Sunday at Chicago against his old team mates, the Cardinals. On that angle Dizzy, modest as usual, said:

"I'll be ready Sunday and will I show 'em something. I've got one game in the bag, so I have 29 to go. I'm going to win 30 this year, just to show some of those guys who said I was through. And those Cards are next on the list."

"Grimm Great Leader"
Dean had several other pertinent remarks to get off his chest. Among them were:

"Charley Grimm is the greatest manager in the game. (This despite his nomination of Bill McKechnie, Redleg pilot, as the "greatest manager" at a Monday luncheon.)

"I knew my arm was right when Garback (Chicago catcher) had to get a sponge for his glove while I was warming up. The arm feels better than it has felt since I started pitching.

"The pennant is in the bag for the Cubs.

"I never got rubdowns and treatment like this at St. Louis. They had so many players who couldn't fight your way to a rubbing table. This is the best treatment I've ever had."

"The Cubs pulled a couple of fielding plays behind me that the Cards couldn't have made in a hundred years."

Coahoma Gridders Oppose Garner Hill Billies Friday

Teams In First Try At Six-Man Game

Burnett Has Had Advantage Of Working Team Three Weeks

Coahoma's Strong Bulldogs will oppose Floyd Burnett's Garner Hill Billies of the football field Friday afternoon in one of the Pioneer School Activities Association's first "six-man" football games.

The Billies have had the advantage of several weeks workout and are shaping up in fair condition. The Bulldogs, who have been out since Monday, can put a strong club on the field since several of last year's regulars reported to Coach Lloyd Devan again for the spring work.

The Thomas brothers, R. C. and R. V., are expected to start in the secondary for the Burnettsmen along with M. Brown. In the line will be Pete Denton, Parks Lawley and Bill Anderson.

For Coahoms, Devan is expected to rely on Dunn, Little, Collins, Arthur and Langley.

The Garner field has been cleared for play and will be ready for the two teams. The gridiron necessary for "six-man" football is 80 by 40 feet.

Womack Works For Regional District Mile Champ

Tuning Up For Supreme Test

Another two days of priming should round District Five's mile champion, Red Womack, into fair shape for the regional meeting in Abilene this weekend. Carmen Brandon, high school track and field member, announced.

Red capped top honors in the feature at the district meet in Sweetwater last Saturday in the good-time of 4:57.2 seconds and has been turning in fair trial runs all this week.

He will work this afternoon and prep a few moments Friday afternoon. He will leave Saturday morning along with Coach Brandon.

MOORE LOSES TO ROOSTERS

SOFTBALL INTEREST GROWS, INDUSTRIAL LOOP PLANNED

Malone Makes Survey Of BS Local Teams

Plans of Recreation Director H. F. Malone for two softball leagues progressed slowly this week with indications that at least 10 teams would be represented at Monday's confab in the city court room of the municipal auditorium Monday evening, 7:30 o'clock.

Malone today was making a survey of possibilities, contacting leaders of various business firms. Definitely assured is a church league of four teams while six teams have been admitted as possible members of an industrial league.

The Anderson Devils, Big Spring Motor and T&P Clerks were represented in the last softball meet held April 12 in the offices of The Herald and other possibilities include the Wooten Grocers, Montgomery Ward, Texas Electric and WPA.

Higher Octane Gasoline and to still further protect the uniformity and quality of its production, the Cosden Petroleum Corporation is now building an additional refinery which will practically double its potential output of Higher Octane Gasoline.

This addition includes the installation of the latest design, Dubbs Cracking Unit, featuring four U. O. P. Upshot cracker and fractionating columns. The equipment is designed to operate at a high degree of pressure and temperature as is necessary to secure maximum yield of high quality gasoline from crude.

The above is a reproduction of the engineer's sketch of the new Universal Oil Unit now under construction, which will increase the COSDEN HIGHER OCTANE output by 175,000 gallons per day. The arrow on the photo at the left shows where the new unit is located.

This installation will increase the output of COSDEN HIGHER OCTANE GASOLINE to 180,000 gallons per day and will give the refinery sufficient capacity to completely process into gasoline and fuel oil 14,000 barrels of crude per day, and by manufacturer have the flexibility of 17,000 barrels of crude oil per day.

COMING OUT FOR THE FOURTH ROUND

The American people generally have great admiration for the quality of persistence, stick-to-itiveness, or what you will. They have a fondness for such sayings as "My head is bloody but unbowed," "If at first you don't succeed, etc., etc.

But some of the realistically-minded American people also hold to the theory that the bit of the political bug is generally fatal, and that there's nothing much to be done for a man who has been so bitten.

And so there will be conflicting views on the announcement of Tom F. Hunter of Wichita Falls as a candidate for the governorship of Texas.

Mr. Hunter doesn't know the word quit. He can't, as the saying goes, take it. He has been defeated in three gubernatorial contests, but he is ambitious enough to come out of his corner for a fourth round.

Mr. Hunter made his decision after a tour of some sections of the state where, it is said, he found voters sympathetic toward his candidacy.

But Mr. Hunter has as yet offered no platform, other than to say, not surprisingly, that he will be the champion of the state's "plain people." That has a strangely familiar ring, and we wonder if other candidates for office have not in the past stood as the same sort of champion.

One wonders if Mr. Hunter, for all his quality of persistence, is pursuing a wise course. Is he running because his supporters want him to run, or is he running because he has a program he thinks would be of benefit to his state?

Almost any man can find some friends and advocates of a mutual cause who will urge him to run for office. There are some more candidates in the Texas gubernatorial contest who have found such groups, we suspect. But it seems to us that a man, to offer for a high public office, ought to do so with something in the nature of a constructive governmental program rather than with the good wishes of his friends.

Instead of a platform being an instrument with which to garner votes, it should be the expression of the popular will. Mr. Hunter, we take it, sincerely believes that his position with reference to state affairs is an expression of the popular will. But Mr. Hunter evidently thought the same thing in three previous campaigns, and he was wrong.

It may be that the political bug bite is bothering him. Mr. Hunter, of course, is perfectly free to run for the governorship as many times as he cares to, as is anybody else who meets the legal qualifications. Come on in, boys, the water's fine.

REVIVAL MEETING TO BE CLOSED SUNDAY

The revival meeting of the Assembly of God will come to a close Sunday evening, Rev. W. A. McCann, evangelist, said Thursday.

The meeting has been in progress since April 1, and several additions have been reported.

Thursday evening, Rev. McCann speaks on "Present Day War Clouds—Signs of Christ's Coming," Friday evening on "The Holy Spirit—Mark of the Beast," Saturday on "Perfect Government," and Sunday on "The Weight of the City."

Singing of Mrs. McCann is a feature of the services. Although there were 168 in Sunday school a week ago, the pastor, Rev. Homer Sheas, expects a record attendance this Sunday. The church has the devotional at 8 a. m. over radio station KBST Friday.

THE ANGIO-ITALIAN AGREEMENT

The Anglo-Italian agreement may well prove to be an historic event comparable with Italy's decision to enter the World war on the Allied side.

In 1914, it will be recalled, there was another Rome Berlin axis known as the Triple Alliance. But when it was put to the crucial test, Italy realized at once that the vital interest of her own security demanded the defeat of Pan-Germanism in Central Europe and the Balkans and the Near East and that her position as a maritime nation demanded a partnership with British sea power.

One of the men who led the Italians out of the German alliance and into the British alliance was Benito Mussolini, until then a rather obscure agitator of the extreme left. Then, as now, the British had to pay a price for the change of Italian policy, and the price, then as now, was to make concessions to Italian imperialism in the eastern half of the Mediterranean.

The bargain struck in 1915 had many features which were indefensible on the general grounds of morals and in the light of what the Allies professed to be fighting for. But to convert Italy, first into a neutral and, then, into an ally was one of the indispensable and delicate conditions of the Allied victory. Had this not been done, it would almost certainly have meant the success of the great Pan-German thrust by way of Vienna and Belgrade to Constantinople and Bagdad.

The same fundamental causes which induced Italy to leave the Rome-Berlin axis in 1915 and to come to terms with Britain and France have operated once more, and the same fundamental reasons which induced Britain to make concessions then have once more prevailed.

From the British side the dominating fact in the situation has been the intolerable danger of the German-Italian-Japanese combination. Britain has been confronted with three antagonists acting in concert and, unable to deal with all three together, Britain has been unable to deal with any one of them, when no ally but France, Britain simply could not oppose Germany in the North Sea and in Central Europe, Italy in the Mediterranean and in Africa, Japan in the Far East. So, ever since the Berlin-Rome-Tokyo combination came into existence, the British power in the world has been paralyzed and Britain has been forced to abandon her professed ideals and her vested interests.

It was essential to British interests and to the general interest of the world that this hostile combination should be dissolved. There was really no alternative. For the Eden policy of refusing to bargain and refusing to fight, of bombarding the dictators with angry threats and of retreating before their armies, was leading—in fact it had led—from one major disaster to another. It did not restrain the militarization of Germany; it did not prevent the conquest of Ethiopia; it did not prevent the invasion of China. But it turned Italy into a most dangerous enemy of Britain and France all the way from Spain to Arabia, and it made Italy a great enough menace to Britain to paralyze completely British influence both in Europe and in the Far East.

Thus Mr. Chamberlain has had compelling reasons for negotiating with Mussolini. But Mussolini also had compelling reasons for negotiating with Mr. Chamberlain. For he was on his way to becoming not the ally of Germany but the vassal of Germany, and the cat's paw of Germany and Japan. He knew very well that if British imperialism had to fight one of the military dictatorships, it would have to fight his; Britain would give up China and Central Europe but it would never give up Egypt and the road to India. In a war with Britain he had no chance to win. In the end he was certain to be crushed. Whereas the Germans and the Japanese were advancing in regions where Britain had only a secondary interest and where Britain had no great military power, Mussolini was threatening the vital interests of Britain at the point where British power is still enormously great.

For Mussolini to challenge Britain further was to the advantage of Germany and Japan but not to the advantage of Italy. This was already evident some months ago. But with Hitler's seizure of Austria, a change of the Italian position became absolutely necessary. With the Nazis in Austria, Italy lost what she fought the World war to achieve. Once again she has armed Pan-Germanism on her frontier, and Pan-Germanism across her path in Central Europe and the Balkans. So the time had come when Mussolini had to forget the ideology of Fascism as in 1914 he had forgotten the ideology of revolutionary syndicalism; he had to act again, as he had acted nearly 25 years before, as an Italian nationalist. He had to anticipate his country, as he had then, from subservience to the Pan-German advance and to lead it along a path with its natural ally—the maritime power of Britain.

Because Great Britain and Italy have had these compelling reasons for reaching an agreement the agreement they have reached can almost surely be relied upon. What they both need is essentially the same thing—a realignment of the balance of power in which Italy moves out of the camp of the aggressors and into the camp of the defenders of the status quo. For Italy, having conquered an empire without as yet subjecting it, having lost the protection of an independent Austria, is now in the same position as Britain and France. Like them, she wants to keep what she has and, like them, she has nothing further to gain by war and everything to gain by preserving the peace.

In the abstract it is no doubt immoral to recognize the conquest of Ethiopia. But since Britain and France are not prepared to go to war to undo the conquest, there is nothing grossly immoral in accepting the accomplished fact. On the other hand, recognition means much to the Italians. For without it the Ethiopian resistance will be prolonged and there is no possibility of obtaining capital to exploit Ethiopia. Thus on Ethiopia the British have conceded much to the Italians at no real cost to themselves or, as a matter of fact, to any one else.

They have gained, on the other hand, considerable relief of the pressure on Egypt from Italian Libya and on the whole middle East from Italian agitation among the Arabs. They have reaffirmed the ancient right of Italy to use the Suez canal, but they have greatly strengthened their power in the Red sea. Thus even if they have not made the Mediterranean any safer as a British highway to India and the East, they have increased their power to prevent Italian or any one else from putting submarines into the Indian ocean and threatening the route to India and the Far East by way of the Cape of Good Hope.

The most uncertain part of the agreement is that which concerns Spain. The British are presumably acting on certain assumptions: that, first, Franco will win, second, that in Spain Mussolini cares more for prestige than for anything else, third, that Franco must, for all kinds of reasons, make friends eventually with Britain, and fourth, that with the fall of Austria, Italy's security is so greatly impaired that Mussolini must now desire for purely Italian reasons to see a strong Britain and France in Western Europe. Whereas Mussolini once thought his interest was to strengthen Germany and to weaken Britain and France, the Austrian affair has caused him to change his mind and to want for Italy the protection of a Britain and a France that Hitler must respect.

It is some such calculation as this, one may suppose, rather than the promise to evacuate, which gives substance to the Spanish agreement. For if Italy is now compelled once more to return to a real partnership with Britain, and a France that Hitler must respect, it is some such calculation as this, one may suppose, rather than the promise to evacuate, which gives substance to the Spanish agreement.

The reality of this agreement will be tested fairly soon. If it is real, Britain and France will be able to negotiate with Germany instead of having to yield under the threat of force. If it is real, Britain will now feel secure enough in the Mediterranean to send warships to Singapore and to

How To Torture Your Wife

Man About Manhattan

by GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—One day last November I was walking up Fifth avenue when I noticed a girl sitting at a table in Child's restaurant. You could see her very clearly through the plate glass windows and she seemed so melancholy that I had walked past the place I retraced my steps and went inside.

She was a blonde, there was a cup of coffee in front of her and she was smoking a cigarette. Or rather, she held a lighted cigarette in her hand. From time to time she tapped the edge of the saucer with it, to free the ash, but she did this subconsciously, and it was clear that her thoughts were a thousand miles away.

Although she seemed vaguely familiar, I was unable to place her. I dropped down at a table not far removed and studied her for a long time, and it seemed at the moment that I had never seen anyone as dejected or unhappy.

Well, after a while, I got up and went out and after a little while I didn't think of her again until a week later. I saw a two-column picture of her smiling out of a morning newspaper. There was nothing unhappy about this pose. Her name was Julie Hayden and she had been engaged to play the ingenue in a new play, "Shadow and Substance."

The rest is very recent and gratifying Broadway history. I think there can be no question that Julie Hayden is the dramatic find of the season. In this play about Catholic Ireland she plays a little drudge whose faith and humility teaches an austere big-wig of the church that religion, after all, should not be based on a classical, remote concept of God.

The critics saluted her and the columnists wrote long, enthusiastic pieces about her. She was appearing in all the magazines, interviewed and her picture began. This month you will find her on the cover of a monthly magazine.

Paul Vincent Carroll, who wrote "Shadow and Substance," is an Irish school teacher who lives in Scotland, and not long ago he crossed the ocean to see the play that is making him independently wealthy. He is still here, and he thinks Eddie Dowling, who produced it, deserves a medal for casting Miss Hayden in the role of Bridget, the little servant girl.

Meanwhile, some day soon I have a date with Julie Hayden to sit down and talk, and although she doesn't know it, we aren't going to talk in any hotel bar or restaurant. Not if I can help it. I'm going to take her over to a Child's restaurant on Fifth avenue and sit her down at that table where I saw her, alone and melancholy, one grey afternoon last November.

She hadn't dreamed Reuben would dare to speak harshly to her. Hadn't dreamed he had the nerve. He'd always tried so hard to please—flushed, stuttered, been embarrassed at her slightest displeasure. Been servile—almost. What had happened to change him so entirely?

She did not blame herself. Something or somebody—What? Who? "Clay!" The answer zigzagged across her reason.

"No!" Judith protested vehemently aloud, "No!" Her self respect wouldn't countenance that. Clay had taken one man from her—it would be absurd to have her take two!

Reuben was well up before Reuben found a semblance of sanity. The finding had been hard. His rage clung to him like myriads of persistent prickly burrs. All night he had roamed the forest—a jungle beat. Passion, raw, primitive stalked with him. He wanted to strike, to hurt, even as he had been hurt. Reason tried to tell him that he was placing undue importance upon a trifling incident. He would not listen to reason. Judith had done this to him—Judith! And after the way he had slaved and scrimped to bring her here.

His mind veered to Pike. It was all his fault for not preparing the tent, but murdering Pike wouldn't help any now. He must prove to Judith that he was as good a man as Brent—By gum that was what he'd have to do. Not next week, next month, next year, but now—this minute! He'd show her! He'd been a fool to take Judith and her codes so seriously. Hereafter he'd make his own laws. Live by them! Fight for himself and the devil take the hindmost.

The suddenness with which he came to this decision quelled his rage, stilled the dizzying lurch of slide. The time to act was now. But first he went to the pool for a swim. The cold water stimulated and banished, for the time, his weariness. He went to the community hall for breakfast. He ate a good one. By eight thirty he was rapping on the door of Gary's cabin.

Air admitted him. "Mawning Mist! Oliver. You'll come after you can't?"

"I came to see Mr. Brent. Am I too early?"

"Not at all," Gary, shrugging into a coat came into view, "Come in Oliver. How are you?"

"Fine." The two men shook hands. Reuben took the chair Gary pushed forward, declined a cigarette.

"I'm glad to get to see you, Reuben. It's been a long time. How are you?"

"I'm fine. How are you?"

Chapter 23 HIS OWN LAWS

Reuben walked to the tent's flap, untied and flung it aside. Stooping to pass through it, he tossed her a crooked smile that reminded her of the absurdity of Judykin's when her feelings were hurt. "You're making another try for Brent, eh? Wish you luck this time!"

The flap fell shut behind him—"Wish you luck this time!" Reuben's words echoed through the tent; echoed around the world. They made a roar like thunder.

Judith, waiting for the reverberations to die away, stood staring at the still awaiting tent flap like one hypnotized. "Reuben!" Reuben had said that—Reuben! But for his coat flung across one of the beds and his pocket knife lying atop a pile of blankets she could have believed the whole episode a dream.

It wasn't a dream. She and Reuben had done the very thing they so carefully avoided—quarreled! Very thoroughly, and but that they hadn't said, they wanted to see Judith knew it by the tumult that seethed and foamed within her. By her tensed fingers, curved like talons—mute evidence that she wanted to scratch and claw!

It didn't seem possible. What had she been thinking of to allow such an impasse? Gran could have avoided this vulgar situation easily. Judith felt a sudden shame.

"Gran was never bettered!" she said, a trapped animal. "Gran never had to live in Casper Street or in a tent and scrimp and save and worry and try not to hate."

She had come further than Gran. The going had been hard. It would be harder. Infinitely Judith knew that. What had just happened between her and Reuben was just the lifting of the lid and letting out of the first scalding sputters of a relative volcano.

"I won't let you!" she said, degrading myself quarreling, fighting, I'll go back to Casper Street in the morning!"

"Then what?" The tent's sloping white walls shrieked it at her, "Then what—what, what?"

No matter what, she was going away from here in the morning. Going away from Reuben. She hated him, she hated him, she hated him. Gary! If she went away now she wouldn't see Gary, wouldn't go riding—

But of course she'd see Gary. Wherever she went she'd see Gary. The knowledge sent her head up. But Casper Street would be unbearably hot—

She hadn't dreamed Reuben would dare to speak harshly to her. Hadn't dreamed he had the nerve. He'd always tried so hard to please—flushed, stuttered, been embarrassed at her slightest displeasure. Been servile—almost. What had happened to change him so entirely?

Loses In Effort To Recover His Tuition Fees

AUSTIN, April 21 (UP)—Herzmann Evans, former student of Southern Methodist university, lost in an effort to recover more than $1,800 tuition and other fees from that institution because it did not award him a degree in music.

Evans claimed the university was under contractual obligation to graduate him, but the court decided otherwise.

"There is no allegation," the court wrote, "stating that the university became more definite in an effort to confer a degree upon the plaintiff than the allegation of an effort to teach him the elements of music."

Reports New Step Toward Artificial Diamonds

DALLAS, April 21 (UP)—A new step toward making artificial diamonds was reported to the American Chemical Society today by Levellyn D. Lloyd of McPherson College, Kansas.

This is a method of quickly searching the material in which the diamonds are made to see if any are there. Heretofore it has taken weeks of patient work to do this.

Mr. Lloyd described six years of progress made by Dr. Willard G. Fritts of McPherson college, to make synthetic diamonds. In that time Dr. Fritts has made 80. They are real. Year by year they grow a little larger. The largest is now one-eighth of a cent.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

by ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — Donald Crisp, the character actor, was shaking his head sadly the other day.

"I heard them swinging 'Annie Laurie' last night," he shuddered. "It was terrible."

"But it set some of us talking about music and songs," he went on, "and we hit on a counter-suggestion for the swingers. Those songs George M. Cohan was writing 25 years ago... Yes, they're right in the modern tempo. Remember 'H-A-R-I-G-A-N' and 'I Am the Man Who Owns Broadway' and 'Little Johnny Jones'?"

Those songs are as much in the spirit of today as tunes they're turning out now—and swingable, too."

Knitkin Gets 'Em On the set of "Little Miss Broadway" little Miss Patricia (Honey Chile) Wilder was swinging an industrial pair of needles. Knitting needles. And with the yarn she wove in a bit of advice:

"Take up knitkin! If you want yourself a fella, girls—that's what Ah say, there's something about knitkin that gets 'em every time. Most young fellas can't get past the old-fashioned idea that a woman's place is home—and there's something awful homey-looking about knitkin."

Honey Chile never wants for dates, knitkin or no knitkin. But on the set of "The Amazing Dr. Clitterhouse," where the next knitter was encountered, Gale Page didn't know about that. "I'm knitting this sweater for my sister the first I've done — and I'm doing it to keep from smoking—something to

Steers Defeat Indians, 6-4

Move Into 3rd Place In Texas Standings; Sports Lose Again

By The Associated Press

Where they play today: Tulsa at Fort Worth. Oklahoma City at Dallas. San Antonio at Beaumont (day). Shreveport at Houston.

The Dallas Steers took the first game of their Texas league series with the Oklahoma City Indians, 6-4, last night in Dallas. The visitors got the tying runs on the bags in their half of the ninth, but Colin Lancaster, Steer pitcher, whiffed Mike Chavira for the last out.

The Fort Worth Cats, thanks to Pitcher Clyde Small, stopped another Oklahoma invasion when the Tulsa Oilers were defeated 6-4 in the opener of a three-game series. Small was touched for 11 hits, but they were interspersed with eight strikeouts.

At Shreveport, the Spots lost their eighth consecutive game, to the San Antonio Missions, 1-0. The Shreveports paced the Missions 1-0 until the seventh inning when Bernardino's home run tied the count. In the eighth the Texans pushed over another tally.

Beaumont and Houston had open dates yesterday.

Beaumont tops the league standing, San Antonio next, and Dallas slipped into third place by their win over Oklahoma City and Tulsa's loss to Fort Worth.

Dinneen Honored In Retirement

SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 21 (AP)—Sporidon's great and near-great feat into official retirement today Big Bill Dinneen, who "called 'em as he seen 'em" in major leagues for 27 years.

Dinneen, honored at a dinner here last night, became a member of the "most derided profession in sports"—a baseball umpire—after a career that took him to the top of another branch of his chosen field, a major league pitcher.

His pitching reached a peak in the 1903 world series when he helped the Boston Red Sox win from the Pittsburgh Pirates by taking three of the four games he pitched, including the one that clinched the title.

The dinner, attended by 1,200 persons, was described by Alan Gould, sports editor of the Associated Press, as setting "an all-time, all-American record as a tribute to an umpire."

WICHITA FALLS, April 21—A spectacular parade, of pagentry and beauty, to be a "Mayor LaGuardia Day" feature of the 20th annual convention of the West Texas chamber of commerce, to be held in Wichita Falls beginning Sunday, has been announced.

The parade, to be several miles in length, will be held on next Tuesday afternoon. It will attract bands, floats, and visiting marching delegations from all of West Texas, and adjoining Oklahoma.

Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia, of New York City, making his first visit to Texas and the Southwest to address the convention that afternoon, will review the parade, together with U. S. Sen. Tom Connally of Texas, to be Wednesday's featured speaker.

Mayor LaGuardia will address the convention at an assemblage in Memorial auditorium, at 3 o'clock, following the parade at 1:30.

30 Bands Expected

Horace Robbins, parade chairman, who has staged such Wichita Falls parades as the Golden Jubilee celebration event in 1932, and the WTCC convention parade in 1937, said today that the 1938 edition "will maintain our best standards."

Paul Seeds, director of the Texans, noted band group, as band contest chairman, already had word today that a total of 30 bands will participate in the parade.

SAYS WHIZZER HAS SIGNED WITH BUCS

By SID FEDER

(Pinch Hitting for Eddie Briets)

NEW YORK, April 21 (AP)—There's a rumor drifting around pro football circles that Whizzer White has signed that 15 grand offer of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

And that the current yes-and-no business is the good old ballyhooey... Say it ain't so, Whiz... What's this report about the Cardinals trading Dizzy Dean to the Cubs on the understanding they could buy Van Mungo from the Dodgers?... And that Larry MacPhail backed out because he isn't palsywally with Branch Rickey... Larry says the whole thing is a lot of stuff you slice very thin and put in sandwiches. Jack Coomb's Duke baseballers have tallied better than 70 runs in their first seven games... 51 of 'em against Dartmouth and Richmond... Which is really powdering that apple.

Ladies and gents, baseball's biggest business man (Al Schacht) figners on making clowning pay to the tune of $30,000 this year... He's got himself a manager now and is booked solid through May and June... Opens in Jersey City tomorrow, shows in Boston Friday, Philly a week from tomorrow, makes his first Broadway appearance at a semi-pro game May 1... And then starts swinging through the west and south... Memphis May 4, Indianapolis June 4, Fort Worth June 8, and stops in Virginia, South Carolina and North Carolina.

Devils Smash Ackerly, 35-5

Ben Daniel's Anderson Devils, 1937 city softball champs, scored at will in the game with the Ackerly Eagles on the Mundy diamond Wednesday night, winning 35-5.

From the time that Bobby Savage smashed out a home run as the first man at bat, the result was decided. Lefty Bethell also had a circuit smash.

The Eagles got one clean blow throughout the nine innings, that a home run in the fourth frame.

L. D. Cunningham, opening on the bill for the locals, struck out every man that faced him in the opening innings and whiffed all but two for six frames. Savage, taking over in the seventh, fanned three in a row.

Both Joes would like to see number "3" go up on the scoreboard when the lineup are given to the umpires; DiMaggio because it is costing him about $162 a day to remain idle, McCarthy because his bombers have been futile at bat without the services of the cannoner from the coast.

"I'm certainly glad DiMaggio is coming in," said McCarthy last night, "but I'm particularly happy he has seen the light for his own good. He has just avoided making the biggest mistake of his life."

CHAMPS EDGE OUT PALESTINE, 6-4

Jacksonville, defending its East Texas baseball league championship, aimed today at another victory over Palestine in its second game of the season.

In last night's initial encounter Palestine was edged out 6 to 4 on the champions' own diamond.

The remaining clubs remain at the same stands for their second games tonight.

At Henderson last night, Ed Hall and George Sturdivant contributed homers to defeat Kilgore 11-9.

At Marshall, Texasians used two pitchers, Kelley and Kent, but could not stem a 14-1 defeat. Hitless for the first three innings, the Marshall nine made seven consecutive hits in the fourth.

Longview's season opener at home was spoiled by Tyler, with a 11-3 victory for the visitors. Papish and Grové, Marshall hurlers, were both wild.

CENTURY-OLD TIP FOR PRESS AGENTS

NEW BERN, N. C., April 21 (AP)—Mrs. Harlow C. Wildrops thinks Hollywood executives should turn to the last century to brush up their descriptive vocabulary.

She found behind her mirror a newspaper dated Feb. 8, 1864. It described a presentation of "Il Trovatore" as "wonderous, incredible, inexplicable, indescribable, inexpressible, ineffable, monstrous, prodigious and stupendous."

Magic Drops Of Mercury Used In New Crime Detection Instrument

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor

DALLAS, April 21—Magic discovered in drops of mercury is used to make a new scientific instrument of detection for chemistry and potentially for crime — which was described to the American Chemical Society here today.

This "magic" in mercury is the ability of tiny drops, smaller than a pin head, to pick up electricity. The drops are allowed to fall, like a string of beads, into any liquid that chemists wish to test.

Because mercury does not mix with liquids, the drops fall to the bottom, and make a little, flat pool there. A wire is connected to this pool of mercury. Over the wire flows any electricity the mercury droplets have picked up during their fall through the liquid.

Now comes the magical part—reported by Professor I. M. Kolthoff of the University of Minnesota and Dr. Otto H. Muller of Stanford university. The amount of electricity which the little droplets pick up, reveals the impurities.

SPANISH WAR HAS ECHOES IN TEXAS

HOUSTON, April 21 (AP)—A flurry of fist fighting marked a mass meeting of friends of loyalist Spain here last night.

A delegation from Barcelona, here on a national tour, was heard at the meeting. A heckler interrupted an address by one of the visitors. As he was being ejected a bystander intervened. The interloper received a split lip in a flurry of fists loosed by one of the ushers who was ejecting the heckler.

The disturbance was quelled quickly.

Hospital Work Progressing

Brick Laying On One Unit In Final Stages

Construction work on the state hospital here was in full swing Thursday as weather remained calm and the latest delay due to materials was overcome.

Work was progressing on all buildings in the original unit of the state's newest hospital plan. Brick laying on the administration building appeared to be in its final stages, and the finishing touches to brick work on the power plant was added. The storage room was nearing completion.

Brick was going up on the psychopathic and general hospital buildings and columns were poured on the employes structure. Thursday workmen were scheduled to start pouring columns and second floor slab on the north ward building while footings were standing ready on the south ward unit.

SHOOTING GALLERY STICK-UP FAILS

SALT LAKE CITY, April 21 (AP)—A man entered Ray Douglas' shooting gallery last night, picked up a rifle, and asked, "Is it loaded?"

"Sure," said Douglas, replied the visitor.

"O. K. then this is a stickup," Douglas grasped the weapon and yelled for the police. Arrested, the man gave his name as C. W. Preston, 22.

A young Irish woman who complained that her husband spanked her, "as one would beat an unruly child," won a separation decree in Dublin on the ground of cruelty.
