Dainty and Modish Hood

THIS new, pretty and modish hood is made of white chiffon mull, shirred as shown in the photograph. The borders of the tie are of Persian liberty silk. The hood is a fetching means of protecting the hair from the dampness of the seashore or lakeside. It is particularly charming when worn with a lingerie frock.

FLOWERS TO MATCH THE EYES

New Freak of Fashion Altogether
Charming When Carried Out With Due Consideration.

The touch of velvet near the face, matching the color of the eyes, has long been popular with the women who study their own good points, and this has been easy to manage in these days of quaint little bows and pippings. Of late, however, the women of the smart set have taken to wearing flowers which carry out the color, too. There are panics that are for the brown eyed girl, forget-me-nots for blue eyes and orchids for the maid with hazel eyes.

The girl with gray eyes is the only one who has any trouble, for all she can find to match her eyes is the humble dusty miller leaf. Sometimes she fancies her eyes, however, are "gray blue" or "green gray," so she varies her color scheme with orchids, mignonette or a dull blue blossom. If she is quite convinced that her eyes are really "matchless" she contents herself with the feeling of superiority arising therefrom and lets the jewels of her face sparkle unrivalled or wears the modest violet, which would never presume to resemble the eyes above them.

When natural blooms are not procurable the woman with an eye for flowers buys artificial ones of the required tint.

Parisian ingenuity has gone one step further in this art and provides for its readers of fashion real flowers dyed with chemical dyes in any desired color or shade.

Hardy flowers, such as carnations, carnations and all varieties whose stems are good absorbers, are placed in the liquid and allowed to stay there until exactly the right amount of color has been absorbed.

To Keep Furs.

Every housewife knows what a great worry furs and woolen garments are during the summer months, when moths are so ready to destroy any within their reach. Tuck a five gallon crock and after running and brushing the furs place them in a the crock then cover with a heavy piece of wrapping paper which is glued fast to the crock making it absolutely air tight and there are no cracks or crevices for moths to enter. This can be kept in a dry cellar all summer, or if you have no cellar or clothes press get a large tin lid to fit the crock and make a cover of cretonne and use for a corner seat in any room, and save all worry over moths for the summer.

Popular Trimming.

Lace is one of the most popular trimmings on the new spring styles, being used on hats, frocks for any time of the day and even the suit of cloth, and of all the laces Irish is perhaps the favorite.

Irish lace copied from Venetian designs is a new factor in the fashions, and has been widely taken up for the collar and cuff sets for either blouse or coat.

ELASTIC SIDE GUSSETS USED

Boon to Those of Stout Figure Are the
New Corsets of Very Long
Hip Cut.

Elastic side gussets are introduced on corsets of very long hip cut, as shown in our illustration, and stout figures especially can be assured of added slimness in those shapes, which particularly give flat hips.

A reduction in the circumference of the figure of from three to five inches is an important consideration to the stout woman, even if she now does not exceed an average build; every garment, as she well knows, looks and wears so much more advanta-

Don't Use a Scarecrow

To Drive Away the Mail Order Wolf

You can drive him out quickly if you use the mail order houses' own weapon—advertising. Mail order concerns are spending thousands of dollars every week in order to get trade from the home merchants. Do you think for a minute they would keep it up if they didn't get the business? Don't take it for granted that every one within a radius of 25 miles knows what you have to sell, and what your prices are. Nine times out of ten your prices are lower, but the customer is influenced by the up-to-date advertising of the mail order house. Every article you advertise should be described and priced. You must tell your story in an interesting way, and when you want to reach the buyers of this community use the columns of this paper.

Let Us Be Your Waiter

We never tire of helping others when they ask for good job printing. We can tickle the most exacting typographic appetite. People who have partaken of our excellent service come back for a second serving. Our prices are the most reasonable, too, and you can always depend on us giving your orders the most prompt and careful attention. Call at this office and look over our samples.

to the public through the columns of this paper. With every issue it carries its message into the homes and lives of the people. Your competitor has his store news in this issue. Why don't you have yours? Don't blame the people for flocking to his store. They know what he has.

The Buyers' Guide

The firms whose names are represented in our advertising columns are worthy of the confidence of every person in the community who has money to spend. The fact that they advertise stamps them as enterprising, progressive men of business, a credit to our town, and deserving of support. Our advertising columns comprise a Buyers' Guide to fair dealing, good goods, honest prices.

The Home Paper

Gives you the reading matter in which you have the greatest interest—the home news. Its every issue will prove a welcome visitor to every member of the family. It should head your list of newspaper and periodical subscriptions.

The World's Wonders

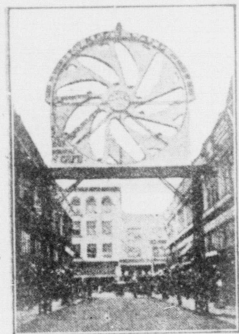

STRANGE THINGS FOUND IN VARIOUS PORTIONS OF THE EARTH

Easter Weddings Bunched

St. John's church, Hoxton, London, known throughout the metropolis as the church of the many weddings solemnized within its walls. Especially on Easter Sunday do the people flock there to be married, dozens of weddings being celebrated there on that day every year. A large proportion of the couples are of the coster class.

SIGN IN "PERPETUAL MOTION" CAT FINDS HIDDEN TREASURE

"Perpetual motion" is claimed for a sign in London which has twenty-four wheels that revolve night and day. The theory is that of leverage. The wooden wheel seen in the illustration is pulled down on the left rim by heavy metal balls at the circumference, while, by the curving grooves that radiate from the axle, the balls at the right gradually slide to the center, whence, as the wheels revolve, they slide once more to the left rim. The motion is continuous, but slow.

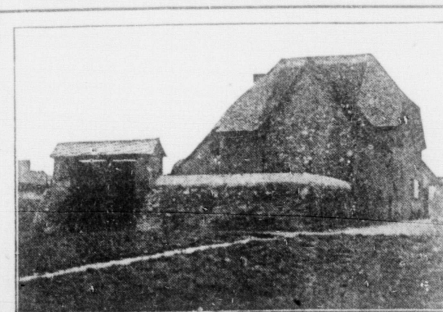

GROHAN'S INTELLIGENT HEN

John Grohan of Glenville believes that he owns the most intelligent hen in New York state. The hen, a white Leghorn, is a pet and Grohan has taught it many tricks. He is employed in Tarrytown and goes there by trolley car every morning. The hen follows him to the car and when she sees him safely aboard she goes home. The other morning Grohan overslept and he was in such a hurry to catch the trolley that he forgot about the hen until he boarded the car. He says he heard a flapping of wings behind him and saw his hen flying up from the ground. She lighted on his shoulder and just then he dropped his nickel with which he was going to pay his fare. The hen flew from his shoulder, picked up the coin with her beak and flew back to him. After she had seen him give the coin to the conductor and had heard the fare rung up, she flew away in the direction of her coop. And Grohan has borne the reputation of a truthful man.

SINGS AS HE IS HANGED

Singing a hymn he learned as a child, as he walked to the gallows at Petersburg, Pa., Steve Rusak, a Russian, was hanged for the murder of Mrs. Rosa Tombov, a boarding-house keeper, as the result of a love affair. The strong, full notes of the song continued during the march to the gallows and while the noose was being adjusted, and were only stopped when the trap was sprung.

Oldest House In Germany

What is supposed to be the oldest dwelling house in Germany is known as the Graue Haus and is in the city of Winkel in the Rheingau. It was originally the residence of Robanus, archbishop of Mainz, who died in the year 850.

NESTS MADE OF BANK NOTES

A pair of swallows of Fieberbrunn in the Tyrol have stolen a number of 10 kronen bank notes to line their nest.

The parent birds discovered that the new notes are just the shade of blue to match their eggs, the tissue being tough but flexible and exactly the material that they needed. The nest and the missing notes were only discovered when the swallows had abandoned it and it fell to the ground.

This feat has been equaled by that of an enterprising mouse in Dornbirn, which abstracted a number of 20 kronen (10s. 8d.) notes to the value of £5, of a delicate reddish brown shade from the cash drawer of a butcher and tearing them to pieces adapted them to the purpose of making a nest for her family of seven. The butcher in his search for the notes suspected and traced the mouse and found the nest under the boarding. He carefully picked up the remains of the notes and returned them to the bank, where they were placed together. The butcher recovered £7 10s., the bank claiming 10s. for "material loss" caused by the mouse's teeth.

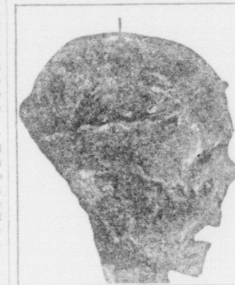

HEN THAT NEVER WALKS

A man residing near Thomaston, Conn., has a hen which is the only one of its kind in existence. In appearance she is very much like any hen, but the owner claims he has never seen her walk; instead she flies about the farm very much like a bird, but only rises about five feet from the ground. Many times she is seen on one of the larger limbs at the top of a tree. On several different occasions she has laid an egg in a small box, which was put in the tree some years ago by children who hoped that birds might pre-empt it for their home.

RECEIVER AS DARNING BALL

The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company has purchased for an aged woman a brand new darning ball. For months complaints came in thick and fast about the farmers' lives being dead on Fridays. Manager Gardiner sent to San Francisco for a gumshoe man. He was out a day and then sent back to San Francisco for the darning ball. He had discovered that a woman on the Ceres road had been in the habit of taking the receiver off her telephone every Friday morning and all that day and the next using it for a darning ball in mending socks.

GENUINE HEAD OF CROWELL

A lively controversy has been waged of late in England as to the respective claims of two grisley relics to be the genuine head of Oliver Cromwell, the protector. Sir Henry Howarth, Professor Ford Dawkins and other eminent archaeologists have decided that the skull herewith pictured, which is the possession of Rev. R. H. Wilkinson, is actually that of Cromwell, and the one preserved in the University Museum at Oxford is spurious.

MEN'S PLUMED HATS APPEAR

Downy Adornment for Masculine Attire is the Greatest Departure in a Century.

Chicago.—Plumed hats for men are the latest. They have made their appearance in Chicago and have caused a great wave of excitement among the fashionable men of the city. They are the biggest departure in masculine adornment made in a century, and are so decided a change from the conventional that leading hatmakers declare that a complete transformation in men's formal attire will be the result.

The extreme styles in men's plumed hats will not become popular at once, say experts. Extreme styles never do. But observant persons have noticed that for several years many of the better dressed men of Chicago have worn a ruffed feather just above the bow of their dress hats. Recently this feather has been made a trifle larger until the leaders of fashion have accepted it as permanent feature of the thoroughly up-to-date hat.

The most striking of the new hats are in the shape of the foreign Alpine hat which comes in all colors and can be had with any style of trimming desired. One shown is of a light pearl gray and trimmed with a dark green plume, with a light border of rich yellow. A Paris milliner would call it striking.

The same style with a long green quill makes another combination becoming to many faces. The Alpine hat admits of almost unlimited changes and will permit well-dressed men to show as much individuality in the matter of hats as women do now.

The denterous imported soft hat, shown with a novelty wing, is of dark gray and comes in many pretty shades of brown, which will harmonize well with the newer fabrics which the tailors have been importing for spring suits. Wearers of the always formal silk hat will also be able to take advantage of fashion's latest caprice and will not be denied the privilege of ornamenting it.

Dignified white and gray alpacas and other more conservative feather effects can be added to the latest French style with the flat brim, without defying the mandates of Dame Fashion.

FOR CROSS-COUNTRY FLYING

Aviators Gradually Turning Their Attention to More Important Phase of Sport.

New York.—Cross-country flying is gradually attracting more and more attention on the part of aviators. This is, of course, as it should be. Mere racing around a track, for hours at a time, goes for nothing in indicating no value of the aeroplane. Gradually he short trips, so uncertain and dangerous, have been stretched out, until now 150 miles in an air line is a common occurrence, made in a single non-stop flight. One of the most daring cross-country flyers is Pierre Vendrine, whose feats have astonished France. In one of these cross-country journeys he flew 181 miles and in another 212. Recently he flew from Paris to Pau, a distance of about 500 miles.

Bargains in Bright Dollars.

Trenton.—Because many foreigners in South Trenton were parting at half-price with bright, new silver dollars bearing the date of 1879, it has been necessary for some of the banks to announce that these dollars are not counterfeit. The cry was raised among the small tradespeople that "money of this particular date was no good, and several strangers have been going about collecting them

THE ADVANTAGES OF A COLLEGE EDUCATION.

"Do you farmers believe in sending your sons away to college?" inquired the stranger.

"Some of us do, an' some don't," replied the farmer, who, years ago had given his two sons a college education; "but I notice some on us 're proud t' be th' fathers of college sons as kin entertain th' neighbors with half-rain' stories an' lively songs of old college days down in th' kitchen, after their farm chorps 're done fr' th' day!"

A Warm Retort.

At a dinner party an officer of the guards was placed with his back to the fire. He stood the heat for some time, but at last was obliged to ask for a fire screen.

"A British soldier should always be able to stand fire," said the host, a pompous old squire who thought everything belonging to him was perfection.

"But not at his back, sir," was the witty reply.—Answers.

The Usual Charge.

He had been the star at a farewell dinner, because he had "accepted a position in New York." When he returned, six months later, because he had failed to make good, he said: "Oh, I couldn't stand the town. It's too un-American for me. The luckiest thing I ever did was to refuse to sign a five years' contract with the people who got me to go there."

Difference Between Fire and Water. "Hurry, dear!" exclaimed the husband. "The fire is gaining. We must get out. Haven't you got your clothes on?"

"Oh, I can't go out this way," she screamed. "I couldn't find anything to put on but my bathing suit, and I'm not going to face all that crowd in it!"—Life.

Always in So.

She—I don't see anything pretty in the new spring hats.
He—I do.
He—What do you see worth looking at in them?
He—The faces.

AFRAID OF A BATH.

Woody—Say, Tim, dis is er good place ter hang up der night.
Tim—Not on yer life. I don't stop near any river. I did once, and got up in my sleep an' walked right into it.

A Catastrophe. Gaily she danced in the merry dance. Bitterly she regretted the step. For it burst her bubble with!

He Had the Habit.

English Tourist.—That fellow over there is the most wonderful guide I ever saw. I was with him in a car van that was lost in the desert for ten days, after which we put this fellow in charge, and in less than two minutes he set us down in a big puddle of water. I wonder who he is?
American Tourist.—I know him. He used to be a New York street car motorman.—Puck.

Her Awful Secret.

"Yes," said Little Binks. "Miss Paynter is a handsome woman, but sometimes when I look at her she seems to me like a woman who has a terrible secret."
"She has," said Whitley.
"I was sure of it," said Little Binks. "Have you any idea what it is?"

"Yes," said Whitley. "She's forty-eight years old."—Harpers Weekly.

Got an Opening.

"I have a note to meet next week and I'm afraid I won't have the where-withal." "Won't borrow trouble?" "No; what I want to borrow is a little money. Could you spare a ten?"

As It Should Be.

News.—Don't you think a man should always listen to his wife's advice? Oldweld—Yes, indeed—then he should proceed to act according to his own judgment.

As Reminded.

Waggs—There goes Sapsleigh in a new suit of clothes. Do you know what he reminds me of? Taggs—No. Waggs—Of a pretty label on an empty bottle.

THE HIKERS.

We moved in last November And distinctly I remember 'Twas the steam heat that she wanted; And she said: She was crazy in addition For a dining-room in mistletoe. And the den was simply perfect, Being red.

Now she's weary of the mistletoe Dining-room. It's her ambition To serve ham and eggs in one with paneled walls; And she wants a bedroom pink, And a wider kitchen sink. And some blue and yellow paper in the halls.

Every autumn, every spring, Just like birds, we're on the wing. For a change in decorations We go hiking. And I'll gamble when she dies That her mansion in the skies Won't be finished just exactly To her liking.

JUST SO.

Higgs—There are times when a man has to lie to his wife. Jiggs—And worse than that, there are times when he has to tell the truth.

Interrupted Wooing.

He sang about his dream girl, With passion most intense; Her bulldog came a flying leap And caught him on the fence.

Smooth of Him, Anyhow.

"He is in bad, isn't he?" "I don't know whether they will be able to make a case against him or not." "What were the circumstances?" "He handed his mother-in-law a handful of matches and told her to go down the cellar and find the gas leak while he went out and got a gas-fitter."

Too Short.

"You're not going to put up the big office building you are talking about?" "No; the land deal fell through." "What was the trouble?" "The owner of the lot refused to sell it outright. All he'd agree to do was to lease it to me for 999 years—and I wanted to put a permanent structure on it, you know."

The Rule.

My son, I've traveled round the world And many maddis I've met; There are two kinds you should avoid—The blonde and the brunette. —Life.

Regretted the Incident.

"Nan, what has become of your hat?" "I left it sticking in a masher's arm an hour or two ago."

"My my! What an unpleasant experience you must have had!" "Indeed it was. It was my most expensive happen."

Not Her Kind.

"Have you heard?" asked Mrs. Oldcastle, "that Grace Moneylove has married an octogenarian?" "Money loves!" exclaimed Mrs. Justice. "Is that so? Well, he may be all right, but I've never seen a man who wouldn't eat meat that I'd live with." —Judge.

MELODRAMATIC.

Miss Vassarward.—And wasn't the professor awful, awfully provoked when he caught you in the very act of painting his door with nasty, black, sticky tar? Vassalton.—I guess he was pretty mad about it. He told me to never darken his door again!

Alias and Alack!

Although the maid is fair to see And worth a lover's gaze, Her lily hands will never be adept at making pies.

Still Life.

"No, Herbert," whispered the maid; "you mustn't put your arm around me. We are watched."

Herbert looked around the dimly lighted parlor.

"Oh, yes," he smiled; "I see there's a rubber plant at the other end of the room."

"Sh! There's another one that you don't see. Johnny's hiding there!"

Of course we're going to have it. What? That Junction barbecue. When? Tell you later as to the exact date. Junction knows how to celebrate. Just tune up for it. "It's kummin'." The first bale of cotton raised in the world, 1911 was produced at San Benito, and sold on the Houston market, June 9th for over a Thousand Dollars. This beats the world's record for early production, at least, since the records have been kept. King Cotton has pinned all the blue ribbons on Texas and each year we break our own record.

The June crop reporter issued by the Federal Department of Agriculture reports 33,418,000 acres of cotton in the United States and of this acreage Texas is credited with 10,350,000. We have approximately one-third of the cotton area of the United States and 19 per cent of the world acreage. The cotton condition in Texas is reported at 105 per cent as compared with last year and the recent rains in the cotton belt districts of the State have bettered the conditions of the plant.

Smashed idols! There is no sadder picture in all of life's gallery than that of a man seated dejectedly among the fragments of his smashed idols. Idols around whose shrine he has worshiped, planned, and longed, perhaps through the winding stretch of telling years; with those idols in view he has given his very life strength to unceasing labors towards the realization of his dreams; only the seeing of those idols has made possible the self denial and sacrifice which he has endured; and after all, after all he awakes to find his golden hopes a mirage, his idols shattered. Bright-hued clouds become threatening thunderheads, and sweet-scented Elysian fields become groves of thistles, brambles and thorns. Shattered idols, and the grin of contempt seems to play upon the fragments. The refined essence of sorrow seems the only cup to place to parched lips, and the man exclaims: "Indeed 'life is but a walking shadow'—a tale told by an idiot signifying nothing." A gruesome task that of gathering up those scattered shattering of his wrecked dream and burying them in forgetfulness, to turn, once more to meet the world with a grin, and "for ward, march" once again. That is a man's task, but a man can do it. Credit the man who to the account of experience, looks the volume that contains it, like the rock and key. Then rise up and leap forward, never look back, but leap forward, forward towards the golden tomorrow. Life is not done in a day. The morrow will come and in its radiant dawn will be more of grandeur and light, more of love and laughter, and its bliss more sublime to you for your having tasted of sorrow's draught among the shattered idols of a dead past.

Wow! Wow! W. O. W.

Last Friday the Junction lodge Mountain Camp No. 434, Woodmen of the World celebrated by giving a big basket picnic. The scene of enjoyment was in J. L. Wright's pasture in a beautiful, pleasant grove on the banks of the hmpid Llano.

The occasion was well attended by Woodmen and their families from Junction and surrounding country. At 11 o'clock Friday morning the stores closed for the day, and our people went out to enjoy a good dinner and a pleasant time in the cool retreat of inviting shades.

When the proper time arrived the overflowing baskets and boxes were brought forward, their contents brought to light, with them were placed the pickles and coffee furnished by the lodge, and a grand spread was made. Beef, bread, pickles, ham, chicken, sandwiches, salads, cakes, pies, and on through the list of good eatables, all prepared with the characteristic Kimble culinary skill, and served in about 29 different ways. It was indeed a feast, and those who gathered around the pretty arrangement of snowy linen and delicious delicacies presented a pleasing picture of genuine enjoyment.

There was a cold drink stand on the grounds, under the management of J. L. Wright, and red lemonade flowed freely and other refreshments were in abundance.

Joe Turner and Taylor Cloudt were the winners in the cigar races, which were heartily enjoyed in both morning and afternoon.

The day was most pleasantly spent by all and the W. O. W. camp did honor to her efforts—as is her custom.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure the local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Rev. Atticus Webb addressed an attentive audience at the Courthouse here Wednesday evening on the subject of State-wide Prohibition. His remarks were pointed, yet not abusive, full of irresistible facts and figures and formed a well-delivered speech that was fervid in its zeal. He denounced the liquor traffic saying that its only means of fighting in the campaign is to "muddy the waters," thus blinding the voters to the real issue. And pointing out that the real issue before the Texas voter today is whether or not this state is to continue to license the open saloon. For about two hours he held the attention of his hearers as he dealt with various phases of his subject.

Mr. Webb spoke at a Sunday school picnic at Copperas Wednesday afternoon. He went from here to London where he spoke Thursday evening.

AYRSHIRE FOR DAIRY

Most Economical Producer of Milk and Butter.

Product Is of Highest Value for Infant Food, Because It Is Most Evenly Balanced in Bone and Muscle Producing Qualities.

The Ayrshire is the most economical producer of milk and butter of any of the so-called dairy breeds, producing the largest quantity for the food consumed and yielding the largest net profit. This has been proven in competitive public tests.

The Ayrshire produces the most defect food for growing children. Children fed on Ayrshire milk are not inclined to stomach trouble and make a strong and steady growth.

The Ayrshire has a strong, healthy body with a superabundance of vitality and vigor, is rarely sick and almost never has any disease of udder or teats, which is probably one reason why there is so much life-giving quality in her milk.

The Ayrshire has never laid claim to belong at the head of the dairy breeds for butter producing, but the official records made by the expert men stations during the past few years would indicate that she is a most profitable butter cow and second to none.

The Ayrshire is the dairy rustler of all the dairy breeds, thriving and paying a profit where other breeds can hardly exist, because she is a vigorous feeder, and not at all dainty in lirable milk for the milkman of any dairy breed, because of the uniform high quality in total solids, placing it above the standards required by state laws.

The Ayrshire milk is the most satisfactory to peddle, because it will bear transportation without changing to butter, and will hold its uniform quality to the last quart in the can.

Ayrshire milk is the favorite with the housekeeper because it has a good color and never looks blue, even to the last that is poured from the pitcher, the cream remaining in the milk to give it a uniform quality until the last is used.

Ayrshire milk is of the highest value for infant food, because it is most evenly balanced in the bone and muscle producing qualities of any of the dairy breeds, thus making it a her appetite, eating with relish everything that comes in her way in the line of forage, good grass, poor grass, and browse, all is food for the Ayrshire cow.

Feeding Cattle.

I feed grain when I first go into the barn in the morning, then give the hay and milk them and separate the milk, says a writer in an exchange. Then I turn the cows out to drink, and when they come in I give them a s. all feed of hay. At night I do as in the morning, except the cattle are not watered. I feed two quarts best mixed feed, one quart corn meal and one quart cottonseed twice a day with all the water they will drink, and good bedding.

CABINET FOR TESTING SEED

One Shown in Illustration Designed by Two Iowa Men Provided With Series of Drawers.

A complete seed-testing cabinet has been designed by two Iowa men and is shown in the illustration. The cabinet is provided with a series of drawers each of which has a layer of absorbent material in the bottom. A pump, with openings opposite each drawer runs down through the cabinet and has a drip spout at the bottom. This pipe is supplied with water from a little tank at the top and the flow of the water is regulated by a stop cock below the tank. Thus a comparatively small supply of water can be regulated so that it will take all day to filter through the cabinet, moistening the absorbent material on the shelves as it seeps out of the holes in the pipe and keeping the seeds continuously moist. In the bottom of the cabinet is a heating apparatus by means of which the seeds can be heated to any temperature desired.

Farm Prizes

The Texas Industrial Congress will give away $10,000 in prizes to encourage farming progress in that state this year. Men, women and children are eligible to $5,000 of the prize money, but the remaining $5,000 is for boys and girls under twenty years old.

French Merino Sheep.

A sheep farmer near San Angelo, Tex., has during the past two or three years brought over several carloads of fine French Merino sheep. He is using them to raise the standard of his own flock and to improve the breeds in his part of the state.

General Farm Notes

Raising chickens, eggs and duck meat is a fine business.

The hen's feet are comfortable as the ones that give you the eggs.

Plant carrots, rutabaga, kohlrabi, beets and onions every two weeks.

The man who keeps his hops in clover resting in financial clover.

Climbing roses do not require much cutting back, but the old wood should be cut out.

Oats, wheat, corn and middlings with a quiet course and a warm place for the hatching house.

A flock of chickens will keep a small orchard free from insects while drop to the ground.

Exercise is of prime importance in several ways. It keeps the circulation and in a healthy condition generally.

The sweet potato has plenty of enemies. The principal ones are cutworms, leaf miners, stem borers, leaf rollers and weevils.

Look out for antiseptic eggs. They are the cause of egg-birds many times. Keep plenty of grit and shells on hand all the time.

To kill the mites with water it must be boiling hot and must reach every crack and crevice. Carbolic acid helps wonderfully.

The chicken does not refuse to lay eggs or get fat through overfeeding of character. It is simply because the owner does not know how to bring about the desired results.

PROVIDE SHADE AND SHELTER

Two Most Important Items That Farmer Cannot Afford to Overlook in Hot Weather.

(By W. F. PERDUE.)

I provide shade and shelter for my pigs by turning them into a wood pasture or the orchards or by constructing a shed. This is done by setting some posts to support a roof of rough boards. The pigs seldom hurt the orchard if they don't run in it more than a month or two during the hottest weather.

Sometimes where there are but few trees in the orchard it is not best to let the pigs run there too long, as they may kill some of the trees by rubbing and gnawing them off.

If they start at this I turn them out and provide artificial shade. But I furnish them shade of some kind and have abolished the dirty wallow holes.

Shelter is also needed at certain times. There are always a few wet and cold spells every summer when the pigs will suffer if they don't have good shelter, and they can easily get a set back during a cold rain that will take them a long time to recover from.

WILLIAM A. RADFORD
Editor

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE, but COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building for the readers of this paper. An account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 135 West Jackson, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose two-cent stamp for reply.

India was the original home of the bungalow, the native name for this type of house being hanga, which signifies a country house of one floor only. On account of the increasing popularity of the bungalow style of building in our own country it will be of interest to note some of the special characteristics associated with these structures in the land of their origin.

In India it is the Europeans who live in the bungalows, which are built in all sizes and styles, according to the taste and wealth of the owner.

The single ground-floor plan is frequently departed from by the addition of rooms utilizing the under-roof space on the second floor. Invariably, however, the bungalow is surrounded with a veranda, the roof of which affords a shelter from the sun, which in America the veranda is often confined to one end of the house or run only part of the way around. In the chief cities of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay some of the bungalows assume the proportions of palatial residences, but in the smaller towns they are of more modest pretensions. In general, they are provided with exterior offices or buildings to accommodate the large retinue of servants common in Indian life.

Poor private bungalows, therefore, military bungalows on a large scale for accommodating troops in the military divisions, also public bungalows maintained by the government for the accommodation of travelers, in which are blended the features of an English residence, but an eastern advantage. These bungalows, though they vary greatly in actual comfort, are all built on the same plan. They are quadrangular in shape, one story high, with roofs projecting so as to form porticoes and verandas. Along the trunk roads they are located at Indian day journeys—12 or 15 miles apart. They are divided into suites of two, three, or four rooms, provided with beds, tables and chairs, glass windows, and framed glass doors. Off each room is a bathroom, with running jet of cool water. Travelers are expected to bring their own four paintings sold for $75,000.

At present to the world of art it is the recent sale of four pictures by Raphael, French and American artists, in the American collection for an aggregate sum of more than $75,000.

These pictures, obtained for American collecting, include a Romney and a Whistler, a Degas and an Ingres.

A notable three-quarter length portrait of Mrs. John Blackburn, by George Romney, the English portrait painter, has been bought by V. J. Toward through the Blackburn gallery for the sum of $12,000, which is considered a good price for portraits of the English school.

Announcement is also made of the sale of "Twilight," a characteristic landscape by the English painter, J. M. W. Turner, for $20,000.

bungalow type of house so strongly to American home builders. Especially in the suburbs or outlying districts of our cities, where busy workers of the day seek rest amid surroundings like those of the country, and where even those of moderate means find it impossible to call their home their own, the bungalow is in constantly increasing evidence.

In the accompanying perspective view and floor plan we show a very neat and attractive five room cottage of the bungalow type, which can be built anywhere for about $1,500. It is 24 feet 6 inches wide and 45 feet 6 inches long. The spacious porch covers the entire front, affords a shady outdoor retreat, where, we think, very much of the "living" will be done by the family at every opportunity in fair weather. Entering the house we find ourselves in a large, inviting living room, also extending the full width of the house, with a seat along the left end, and a large fireplace at the right end, flanked by bookcases for the little library that should be found in every home. Straight down the center of the house runs a hallway, on each side of which opens off a commodious bedroom with ample closets, the latter being supplemented by two additional closets opening directly off the hall. Back of the bedrooms lie, on one side, the bathroom, entered from the hall, with still another closet (the linen closet, etc.), and on the other side, the well-lighted pantry opening directly off the kitchen. At the very end of the hall, a door opens into the dining room, which is directly connected with the brightly lighted kitchen. From the latter a small passage leads to the rear porch, and another door to the back porch. The cellar or basement can be built of any size desired, and is lighted by windows in the underground or the foundation walls. Every inch of space in this house is put to advantage use, and the entire layout is satisfactory and adapted to the modern requirements of good lighting, heat and ventilation.

Record Act of Bravery That Is Set to Credit of Intrepid New York Man.

The bravest man in New York made his appearance in a Broadway store last week. He carried an enormous box which contained an enormous amount of money refunded. The men were pretty mad and while looking for some one who had the authority to negotiate the transaction he talked loud enough for everybody to hear.

"My wife bought this hat," he said. "She doesn't need it. She has already bought three hats this spring. She paid $35 for this one. She has never worn it. It just came home last night. I can't afford to throw it all that money away and I want you to take the hat back. She wouldn't bring it down, so I undertook the job myself."

"In the side of that man Napoleon was a crying coward," said the young woman who had made the sale.

"Imagine his running into a Persian millinery shop with a hat that he didn't want Josephine to buy. He couldn't have done it. Very few men can. Once in a long while some poor fellow with the courage of desperation in his heart returns to his wife and his family and his money to the whole store for a month."

WELCOMED BY MEN WHO SMOKE

Particular men who smoke realize how offensive to people of refinement is a strong tobacco breath, and how objectionable to themselves is that "dark brown taste" in the mouth after smoking.

Fastine Toilet Antiseptic is worth its weight in gold for this purpose alone. Just a little in a glass of water cleans the mouth and breath the teeth.

The mouth is thoroughly disinfected, the breath becomes pure and sweet and a delightful sense of mouth cleanliness replaces that dark brown taste.

Fastine is far superior to liquid antiseptics and Percol for all toilet and hygienic uses and may be obtained at any drug store 25 and 50¢ a box or sent postpaid upon receipt of price by The Fastine Toilet Co., Boston, Mass. Send for a free sample.

"Did your tongue make a satisfactory record?"

Yes, replied the man who habitually thinks along ethical lines. "It has only found fault, and has never found anything more heinous than to kick back on a moral issue, well, he's got a right to do that."

PREHISTORIC MAN IS FOUND

Fossil Remains of a Briton 170,000 Years Ago Discovered in the Thames Valley.

London.—Back in a time that no man knows, 170,000 years ago, there lived in England a race of men, whose stature and physical characteristics did not differ materially from those of the Englishman of today—a race that had shed all traces of simian traits in face, feature and body, and whose brain cavity was larger than is often found in highly intelligent people of our modern age. This has recently been proven by the discovery of the bones of a prehistoric man buried 17 feet deep under a terrace, which is regarded, and with good reason, as the ancient bed of the Thames river.

There is no reason to believe that the skeleton is of a man, and the fact that the bones of the skull and the jaw are in the level of the river, has not been uniform. The past must be judged from what we know of the present and on this basis the land movement which formed the terrace, and which has scarcely changed since the Roman period, has been deposited at the rate of one foot in 1,000 years, this is signifying a period of at least 170,000 years since the high-level terrace was laid down at Galle Hill, and the ancient Briton was entombed in the river bed.
This ancient Briton, was five feet one inch in height. The neck was enormously thick and the chest was narrow and protruding.

FINDS SECRET OF EGYPTIANS

Art of Hardening Copper Is Rediscovered by Kansas Fireman of Kansas.

Newton, Kan.—The process of hardening copper to the temper of steel, an art known only to the Egyptians hundreds of years ago, has been rediscovered by a Kansas fireman of a long line of hard workers. It is declared. John Stipp, a Santa Fe fireman of this city, is said to hold the secret for which scientists of many countries have sought for many years.
In a tiny laboratory of a neat, well-kept cottage near the railroad shops, Newton, Kan., Stipp has been working for some time on the process of hardening copper to the temper of steel.

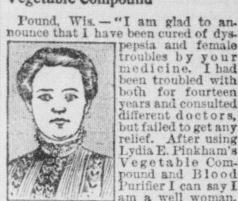

John Stipp.
working for all the world like other cottages of the average laboring man, the last art was recovered. John Stipp's father, grandfather, great-grandfather and how much further back he does not know and does not care, were metal workers. For six years he has been experimenting in his laboratory for the secret buried with the ancient Egyptians. Recently his years of discouraging failure culminated in success, and he holds a process for tempering copper until it defies the hardest file, he says.

House of Lords.
London.—The house of lords is composed of lords spiritual and the lords temporal. All the peers were originally entitled to a seat as a matter of right, but only those who were actually summoned by the king. Every peerage of the United Kingdom which is conferred now gives the right to a seat in the house of lords. The number is indefinite, and may be increased at the pleasure of the crown which, however, cannot deprive a peer of the dignity once bestowed. The upper house at present comprises about 550 members. By the act of union with Scotland, 16 representatives of the Scottish peerage are elected by the Scottish nobility for the duration of each parliament, and 23 are elected for life by the peers of Ireland.

DOCTORS FAILED TO HELP HER

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Pound, Wis.—"I am glad to announce that I have been cured of dyspepsia and female troubles by your medicine. I had been troubled with both for fourteen years and consulted different doctors, but failed to get any relief. After using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier I can say I am a well woman. I can't find words to express my thanks for the good your medicine has done me. You may publish this if you wish."
—Mrs. HERMAN SEER, Pound, Wis.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills, and suffering women owe it to themselves to at least give this medicine a trial. Proof is abundant that it has cured thousands of others, and why should it not cure you?

If you want special advice write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for it. It is free and always helpful.

STILL HAVING FUN WITH HIM.

Percy—Wealthy, Daisy, I dined so elegantly in that last waltz that my head feels light, don't you know.
Daisy—Indeed! I supposed that sensation was so common with you that you had ceased to notice it.

CRIMINAL NEGLECT OF SKIN AND HAIR

Cuticura Soap and Ointment do so much for poor complexions, red, rough hands, and dry, thin and falling hair, and cost so little that it is almost criminal not to use them. Think of the suffering entailed by neglected skin troubles—mental because of disfigurement—physical because of pain. Think of the pleasure of a clear skin, soft white hands and good hair. These blessings are often only a matter of a little thoughtful, timely care, viz.—warm baths with Cuticura Soap, assisted when necessary by gentle anointings with Cuticura Ointment. The latest Cuticura book, an invaluable guide to skin and hair health, will be mailed free, on application to the Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Boston, Mass.

He Used Good Material.
Rembrandt and Michael Angelo were playing checkers under a spreading tree in the golden sunlight of the Elysian Fields.
The famous Italian looked up.
"Remmy," he said, "did you notice the price somebody has just paid for that 'Milk of yours'?"
"Well,"
"Well, I'm glad I had enough money when I painted that picture to buy a good quality of canvas. It's your idea, Mike."
And the game went on.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Willy Judge.
At an assize court, according to the London Times, a juror claimed exemption from serving on the ground that he was deaf. The judge held a conversation with the clerk of arraigns on the subject, and then, turning to the man at whom he looked intently, he asked in a whisper: "Are you very deaf?" "Very," was the unguarded reply. "So I perceive," was the rejoinder of the judge, "but not whisper deaf." You had better go into the box. The witness shall speak low."—Case and Comment.

A man can lead any woman to talk, but he can't always make her say what he wants to hear.

WHY SHE DID NOT SEND HER PICTURE

What They Did About It.

The reason was because her face was so disfigured by a skin eruption that she couldn't have it taken. Just make a note of this fact if you know anyone who suffers from disfiguring skin eruptions. Resinol ointment cures eruptive skin diseases. It restores the skin to normal health and clears the complexion. "I take pleasure in testifying to the most excellent results from the use of Resinol, both ointment and soap," writes Miss Opal Lilley, Camp Creek, W. Va. "I had been troubled for four or five years with a very disfiguring eruption on my face, and Resinol has helped it so much." Resinol ointment should be used for all skin eruptions, eczema, erythema, herpes, barber's itch, psoriasis, etc. It stops itching instantly. Resinol promptly allays irritation and is the best dressing for burns, scalds, boils, felons, carbuncles, etc. It is a comforting, healing preparation, which can be used freely on the tenderest skin. Resinol ointment is put up in opal jars in two sizes, price fifty cents and one dollar. At all druggists. Resinol Chemical Co., Baltimore, Md.

Street Sayings Are Short Lived.
If some London slang has a short life, the street sayings current for a time pass away even more quickly. Most of these, such as "Has your mother sold her mangle?" "Who shot the dog?" and "How are you off for soap?" survive only in the pages of contemporary novelists.
Some, however, have a long life. "Does your mother know you're out?" has been traced back to 1840 and may possibly have been current before then. Others are revived, with slight alterations. Ten years ago rude little boys would shout, "Where did you get that hat?" when their grandfathers would exclaim, "What! the same old hat!" And the expression of dissent emphasized nowadays by "Not in these trousers!" used to be conveyed thirty years ago by the tag, "Not in these boots!"—London Chronicle.

The Passing of the Wife.
We have known for some time that the wife would have to go. We have held off as long as possible the inevitable moment, but it might just as well be over with at once.
The wife was a very desirable article while she lasted. She mended the hose and did the housework when necessary and sat up patiently and waited for hubby's return. A useful person certainly—one to love, to honor and obey.
Now the suffragette age is upon us and the wife is rapidly becoming extinct, says Life.

In a few more years she will be exhibited in museums.
Admon, madam! We respect your memory!

Head on Crooked.
Little Paul had always been taught by his mother that God had made him and that he ought to be thankful that he had been made so perfect, eyes, ears, feet, hands and all complete. His mother had bought a new cook stove and Paul was examining it. He lifted the reservoir lid and looked in. There was his picture, as natural as life. If the water, but he was sorely troubled, while looking at it. When asked by his mother, what the trouble was, he said:
"Dad might 'o' made me perfect, but he put my head on crooked."

Looking Out for Number One.
Sydney had been given some discarded military with which to amuse herself. She trimmed a marvelous looking hat, and so arranged it that a long red ostrich plume hung straight down from the front of the brim, over her baby face.
"Come here, Sydney," said her mother. "Let me tack that feather back out of your eyes."
"Oh, no, mother! I want it that way, so I can see it myself. Most always only other people can see the feathers on my hat."—Judge.

New Fishing Industry.
Albion fishing in Nova Scotia waters has become interesting, but for financial reasons. These fish frequently weigh over 500 pounds and are known as horse mackerel. A number were shipped to Boston last season. The average price there is three and one-half cents per pound. Formerly these fish were considered a nuisance to the fishermen.

A Prudent Program.
"I make it a rule never to lend anybody an umbrella," said Mr. Grower.
"Good idea," replied Mr. Grump.
"If you keep lending an umbrella about, there's no telling when it may drift into the hands of the original owner."

If your skin is marred by pimples and liver marks, take Garfield Tea. It will regulate the liver, cleanse the system and purify the blood.

There's nothing disappoints a woman more than not to be disappointed when she expects to be.

Mrs. Homely—My husband is extremely hard to please.
Miss Castique—Indeed! You don't look it.
Riches.
Knicker—Brown counts his wealth in seven figures.
Bocker—Perpendicularly.

Saved His Wife's Life

"My wife would have been in the grave today," writes O. H. Brown, of Muscogee, Ala. "It had not been for Dr. King's New Discovery." She was down in her bed, not able to get up without help. She had a severe bronchial trouble and a dreadful cough. I got her a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, and she soon began to mend, and was well in a short time." Infallible for coughs and colds, its most reliable remedy on earth for desperate lung trouble, hemorrhages, larynx, asthma, hay fever, croup and whooping cough. 50c, $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by J. A. Heyman.

Lightning Kills Few

In 1906 lightning killed only 169 people in this whole country. One's chances of death by lightning are less than two in a million. The chance of death from liver, kidney or stomach trouble is vastly greater, but not if Electric Bitters be used, as Robert Madsen, of West Burlington, Ia. proved. Four doctors gave him up after eight months of suffering from virulent liver trouble and yellow jaundice. He was then completely cured by Electric Bitters. They're the best stomach, liver, nerve, and kidney remedy and blood purifier on earth. Only 50c. at J. A. Heyman's.

Saloons or Prohibition?

—By Squibblum—

Having shown in a previous article that the adoption of the prohibition amendment will prohibit the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors, and as the saloons are the only legalized places where sales are made, it necessarily follows that the vote on the 22d day of July, next, will actually determine whether or not Texas will continue in the saloon business.

Each individual voter when he goes to vote will be compelled to settle the question: do I stand for saloons, or do I stand against saloons. There may be other questions pushed into the campaign for deceptive purposes, such as the local self-government question or question as to whether the local option laws are to be repealed, but always keep this fact before you: that if a majority of the voters of Texas vote against prohibition, Texas will continue to license saloons; if a majority vote for prohibition, Texas will cease to license saloons. No representative anti will deny that this is true. As has been well said, "They may prate as much as they please about personal liberty, local option, local self-government and sumptuary laws, and no doubt there are thousands of anti-prohibitionists in Texas deceiving themselves and deceiving others with such cries, but behind it all, whether it be the gilded palace upon the main streets or the dives which lurk in the more disreputable parts of the cities, is the grinning skeleton of the liquor business, whose life is at stake in this contest and which will be the immediate personal beneficiary of the victory." If it should come to their side.

They are spending unnumbered thousands of dollars to prevent the passage of the constitutional amendment for prohibition in Texas, and they give us as a reason that they are doing so, "to promote temperance and prevent more liquor being sold in Texas than ever at a great loss of revenue to the state." Some people may be fooled, but the liquor dealers are not. It is taxing credulity to ask us to believe that they would maintain the great political organization in this state that they are maintaining to keep the people of Texas from buying surreptitiously more of their stuff than they now buy openly.

But they say, "What right has Denton or Collin County to determine what Bexar or Gillespie county may or may not do?" That sounds plausible, and no doubt many good men at first glance may think it good reasoning. I concede that Collin county has no right to determine what Bexar county may or may not do, but I do maintain that the great state of Texas has a right to say to both Collin and Bexar and every other county within her borders just what the laws of this state shall be. Bexar county may not want gambling, roping contests or any of the various things that are at present prohibited by the laws of this state, and through her representatives may vote against them, but the great state of Texas has a right to determine for both Denton and Bexar counties.

The evils of the liquor traffic are not only statewide but national wide; it will not and in the nature of the case, can not be imprisoned within boundary lines.

The liquor dealers in San Antonio, Dallas and other wet centres do not hesitate to bottle up their so-called local self government and ship it into their neighboring counties against their local self government.

District Judge, Hon. R. L. Porter and District Attorney Hon. Clyde Sweetor, of eighth district, composed of the wet counties of Hunt, Hopkins, Rains and Delta, from an intimate knowledge of the origin of different crimes called to the attention of the court, gave it as their opinion that in Hunt and Hopkins and the other dry counties where prohibition prevails, at least 75 per cent of the crime committed in these counties is due to, and results from the liquor traffic carried on in adjoining wet counties.

Do you not, therefore think that if the liquor traffic carried on in Dallas and other wet counties of the state is responsible for 75 per cent of the crime and lawlessness that is occurring in Hunt county, that if it is forcing up the tax payers of Hunt county the enormous expense incident to prosecution of this crime, that the tax payers of Hunt county ought to be very much interested in the question as to whether or not these injuries should longer be visited upon them?

"But," says one, "will it not increase our taxes?" Does not the anti-prohibition committee tell us that it will? Here is the statement of Comptroller Lane on this taxation question: "It is being industriously circulated in this state over the signature of first one gentleman then another and sometimes in paid advertisements, a statement to the effect that the adoption of statewide prohibition in Texas would seriously affect the present rate of taxation, and as usual, this bold statement is made on the assumption that the revenue derived from the liquor is all profit and no expense. After a careful examination of the records in the comptroller's office, it is my candid judgment as the statistical officer of our state government that the adoption of statewide prohibition will in no wise increase the taxes of the people, but on the contrary will ultimately very perceptibly decrease taxation."

According to the records in the comptroller's office, there are 3575 saloons in Texas today; 2084 liquor saloons and 1491 beer saloons not counting the 56 well regulated beer saloons that have been operated in Galveston without any state and county license whatever. The liquor saloons pay the state an annual license of $375 each or a total of $781,500. The beer saloons pay the state an annual license of $62.50 each, or a total of $93,657.50. The total license paid to the state by the liquor and beer saloons is $874,657.50, less 5 per cent for collection, leaves a net revenue to the state of $830,955. The breweries and wholesale liquor dealers paid into the state treasury for general receipts tax for the year ending April 1, 1911, the sum of $57,178, making a grand total from all liquor sources of $888,133. Now let us see from the records in the comptroller's office what this liquor traffic cost the state, and by this means we will be able to arrive at the profit, if any, we receive from our partnership with this unmitigated evil.

In the first place we will out of the state treasury for the fiscal year beginning September 1, 1909 and ending August 31, 1910 for fees and costs of sheriffs, clerks, attorneys, justices of the peace, witnesses and constables, the sum of $12,258. Of this enormous sum of money collected from the people in taxation, $254,050 in the 83 wet and partially wet counties (population according to 1910 U. S. census 1,796,364.) For salaries of district judges and criminal district judges, for district attorneys and criminal district attorneys and special judges, the people paid last year $241,550, and of this amount there was expended $130,739 in the 83 wet and partially wet counties of the state, while only $110,820 was expended in the 162 totally dry counties (population according to the 1910 U. S. census 2,098,178.)

The state orphan's home, the epileptic colony, the state lunatic asylum, the Southwestern Insane Asylum, the North Texas Insane Asylum and the state institution for juveniles cost the tax payers of this state for the fiscal year ending August 31 the sum of $992,177. It is variously estimated by the highest authorities that from 50 per cent to 75 per cent of the inmates of all insane asylums are brought to this unfortunate state of existence either directly or indirectly through the baneful and destructive work of the liquor traffic. "Giving the liquor traffic the benefit of the doubt and charging it with the smallest percentage of cost, we find that it has laid a burden of taxation upon the people of Texas in the sum of $496,089 in the care of these unfortunate wards of the state."

If we should pause at this period in our investigation and total the debit side of our ledger we would find that the liquor traffic has cost the state the sum of $787,012, which would leave us a profit of $10,119, but unfortunately this is not all the cost. In the presentation of the next item of cost to which I shall direct your attention, I want to lay special stress upon the statement that is being daily heralded over the state in which they attempt to frighten the farmer in to the ranks of the anti-prohibitionist by telling him that the adoption of statewide prohibition will increase his taxes. Now let us see how much truth there is in the statement. There are 245 counties in the state of Texas, 162 of which are totally dry, 21 totally wet and 62 partially wet. The average county tax rate for the 162 totally dry counties is 41 1-4 cents on the $100 valuation; the average tax rate of the 62 partially wet counties is 43 3-4 cents and the average of the 21 totally wet counties is 46 3-5 cents on the assessed valuation.

"If this increase in the average rate of taxation in the 21 totally wet counties over the average prevails in the 162 totally dry counties can be charged to the existence of the liquor traffic, and no candid, well-informed man will deny this, then by abolishing the saloons, the prolific source of much crime, these counties would save annually 3 1-3 cents on their total assessed valuation of $300,982,080, which would amount to a saving of $100,324, and the 62 partially wet counties, would save 2 1-2 cents on their total valuation of $957,430,978, which would amount to a saving to the taxpayers of these counties of $239,358, making a total saving to the tax payers of these 83 wet and partially wet counties of $339,682. Charge this up to the liquor traffic and we find it debtor to the state in the sum of $339,682."

Then there is the cost of our penitentiaries that have always been self-sustaining but the Thirty-second Legislature appropriated $250,000 of the people's money to defray the expenses of these institutions, and at least 50 per cent of this amount is chargeable to the liquor traffic.
