Carter wooes farmers

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — President Jimmy Carter stood under a slate-gray November sky and made a strong pitch to farmers and hard-line Baptists in this plains city, hoping to break traditional GOP voting habits here.

He spoke to about 10,000 cheering people from a runway platform at the Abilene Municipal Airport. Over the heads of the crowd, the president could see a parking lot dotted with green John Deere tractors plastered with Carter-Mondale campaign posters.

"I'm a farmer. I come from a long line of farmers. And I chose a man as agriculture secretary (Bob Bergland) who knows how to plow a mule ... how to plow a tractor and give you a better life.

"We increased farm storage 2.8 billion bushels, which encourages farmers to sell when the price is right. Through diplomatic relations with China, we've sold 6 (million) to 9 million tons of grain over the next five years," he said.

The farm country surrounding Taylor County, which grows primarily grain sorghum, cotton and maize, went heavily for Gerald Ford in 1976.

Almost two years ago, Abilene served as one of three launching sites for the nationwide tractorcade to Washington. Irate farmers invaded the capital with their big rigs and demands for parity. Leaders of the American Agriculture Movement have denounced Carter and have worked against his re-election.

Saturday, however, several men in three-piece suits and cowboy hats mingled in the crowd, holding signs that read, "Farmers for Carter."

"I like Carter because he helps the farmers with SBA disaster loan programs (for farmers in drought-stricken counties)," said Earl Glenn, a strapping, silver-haired farmer-banker from nearby Bronte.

"Our area was a disaster when the Lord created it. This is a bad year, a real bad year. But we have lots of money now for loans, more than we have ever had in our life," said Glenn, who also is president of the First National Bank of Bronte.

Carter, calling the Abilene area a "deeply religious education center," took aim at the evangelical new right by saying he strongly favored the separation of church and state.

"I don't believe in a religious test for political activity and I don't believe in a political test for religious fellowship," Carter said, eliciting applause and cheers.

The president acknowledged the dignitaries on the platform, including U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, Lt.

Gov. Bill Hobby and U.S. Rep. Charles Stenholm, a Democrat from Stamford.

"I note your illustrious governor is not here to see me," said Carter, prompting boos from the audience.

"I hope he is home reading the third commandment," the president said, referring to Gov. Bill Clements' statements that Carter was a liar.

In his sweeping 40-minute speech, Carter touched on increasing military strength, curbing inflation, increasing productivity and instigating a national health plan and "continuing to honor the stewardship of farmers."

The crowd greeted the president's speech with mild enthusiasm. A few carried signs that read, "Working Women Need Carter," or "Teachers Need Carter." But there also were a few Reagan signs, including one that read: "The Whipping Is Coming To You Carter."

Earlier, Carter, on his last campaign swing through this pivotal state, drew the biggest San Antonio crowd of the fall campaign with an outdoor rally at the Alamo and he told the Democrats, "I need you" next Tuesday.

Neither Republican Ronald Reagan nor his running mate, George Bush, conducted big outdoor rallies here, however, and the crowd was less than half the estimated 25,000 which attended Carter's Alamo rally during the closing days of the 1976 campaign.

Collections soar for United Way

The teams working for the United Way didn't quit for the weekend before passing the magic $100,000 mark in collections.

The eight squads approaching Howard County residents and firms for donations report the total amount of money now in the kitty amounts to $119,353.35.

The campaign, with a goal of $250,000, still has a long way to go but it has come a long way. The total to date represents 47.7 percent of the objective.

The Pacesetters lead in collections with $44,955 in 'the house.' Other groups and the money they have raised include:

Out-of-Town, $3,883; Special, $23,583.64; Metropolitan, $2,606.96; CFC, $8,480.50; Professional, $10,781; Rural, $750; and Residential, $4,313.25.

The teams will resume their work Monday, seeking to wind up the drive as soon as possible.

In an effort to help the United Way meet its campaign goal, the La Posada Restaurant will host a fund-raising benefit.

The banquet will be held from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m., Tuesday, at the La Posada Restaurant. A buffet style dinner will be served with all proceeds going toward the UW campaign goal. Cost of the luncheon will be $4.

"We want to try and help the community in any way that we could," said Oscar Zertuche, manager of La Posada. "And we felt that this was the best way we could do it."

Sweet potatoes sell in hurry

What do sweet potatoes and want ads have in common?

Well, if you place the former for sale in the want ad section of the Herald, chances are you will sell your stock in a hurry.

One man harvested some sweet potatoes recently and sold them all in an hour, after advertising them in the newspaper. He estimates he got "500 calls" about the yams.

For speedy results, whether you are trying to sell a commodity or a service, contact the friendly people of the Herald Want Ad Department for help in wording the ad. The number is 263-7331.

Open House set Friday

The Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf at Howard College will celebrate its founding in an Open House from 3-6 p.m., Friday at the Administration Building of the SWCID campus, announced college officials.

The public is invited to the open house. There will be a general brief presentation, a tour of the facilities, a reception and a ribbon-cutting ceremony to honor the occasion.

Federal, state, and local executive, legislative, professional, school and community agencies and organizations of and for the deaf are among the guests to be present.

For further information or assistance, one can call 267-2511.

MAN SURVIVES PLUNGE FROM BROOKLYN BRIDGE — Ernest Schender of Brooklyn plummets to the waters of the East River in New York Friday after jumping off the Brooklyn Bridge. Schender, a 29-year-old CBS employee, fell about 90 feet and survived. Officials said that his condition was not critical.

Hostage decision today is hinted

By The Associated Press

Militants holding the hostages in Iran Saturday called for a "grand demonstration" and "a program" at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran on Tuesday to mark the first anniversary of the Americans' capture.

"November 4 is the day of conquering, occupying and smashing the hideout of the great Satan (the United States) in the land of Islam," the militants declared.

One Iranian legislator predicted the Majlis, or Parliament, would muster a quorum Sunday and announce conditions for releasing the hostages on their 365th day of captivity.

The last scheduled session, Thursday, was canceled after a boycott by many legislators cut attendance below a quorum. The protesting deputies said any action on the hostages could help President Carter in the U.S. presidential elections, also on Tuesday.

Resolution of the hostage situation won support from the newspaper of the Islamic Republican Party which controls about 70 percent of the 288 Majlis seats. The newspaper said prolonging the debate "would not bring benefits to our people."

Tehran Radio on Saturday carried a lengthy commentary criticizing the "Zionist and imperialist propaganda machinery" for implying that "Iran is moving ... towards dependence on the West." It said the "Western world has launched the most intense propaganda, awaiting the release of the hostages."

It said implying that Iran might release the hostages to obtain spare military hardware for its war with Iraq creates the "misunderstanding that it was the war conditions which, under pressure by America, made Iran release the hostages."

A spokesman for Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai denounced a U.S. news report that a deal was sealed about two weeks ago between Iran and the U.S. to trade the hostages for military equipment.

In Saturday's Chicago Sun-Times, syndicated columnists Rowland Evans and Robert Novak alleged that the deal "was sealed by a handshake between Lloyd N. Cutler, President Carter's counsel, and Iranian emissaries in Geneva, Switzerland."

Tehran Radio said a "program" would be held inside the embassy after the demonstration on Tuesday. The broadcast appeared to refute speculation that the hostages might be released before the U.S. presidential election Nov. 4.

A spokesman for the militants, reached by telephone at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran, said the Nov. 4 program would include a few hours of speeches by the students and other people but said there were no special plans to include the hostages in the rally.

No bargain struck, Sect. Muskie says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Denying a bargain has already been struck, Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie said Saturday extensive further negotiations with Iranian authorities probably would be needed even if the Iranian parliament decided to free the 52 American hostages soon.

"We haven't reached any agreement with them," Muskie said in denying a published report that a deal had been sealed to swap U.S. military equipment for liberation of the captives.

In fact, Muskie told a news conference at the State Department, authorities in Tehran "are having quite considerable difficulty in reaching agreement" among themselves on terms for freeing the Americans held captive for nearly a year.

Even if the authorities and the parliament decided to free the hostages, Muskie said, "I don't exclude negotiations. I don't state that they are essential. I think they are a probability because of the complexity of the issue."

At the same time, he said he did not know what proposal might be adopted by the Majlis or when the Americans might be released.

"I have no basis upon which to set a time frame for a final resolution of the hostage question," Muskie said.

Wearing a yellow "Free the Hostages" ribbon in the lapel of his blue blazer, Muskie dismissed as "an incredible proposition" suggestions that President Carter has contrived the outcome of the hostage issue to benefit himself politically.

If that were his objective, Muskie said, the hostages should have come home weeks ago. "Anybody with an ounce of political brains or instincts wouldn't wait until the Sunday before the Tuesday of Election Day," he said.

The Majlis may set terms for release of the hostages on Sunday. Whether they are to be liberated "earlier than later is in the hands of the Iranian Majlis, not us," Muskie said.

And yet, he said there was a "growing awareness" among various elements in Tehran that the hostage question ought to be resolved.

He denied, meanwhile, a report published in The Chicago Sun-Times that a deal was sealed two weeks ago for Iran to free the Americans in exchange for U.S. military spare parts to use in its war with Iraq.

"There is no deal," Muskie said. "We don't even know what terms the Parliament is debating. Until we know, we can't tell you whether there has been a deal."

Jody Powell, President Carter's press secretary, called the account by columnists Rowland Evans and Robert Novak "absolutely inaccurate and totally irresponsible."

Dallas man is facing charge

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — An Oklahoma City printer and a Dallas man were charged in federal court Friday on counterfeiting charges after Secret Service agents arrested the pair and confiscated $250,000 in bogus $100 bills, authorities said.

James D. Teeters, 51, of Oklahoma City, and John Newton, 42, of Dallas, were arrested about 6:20 p.m. Thursday at Crossroads Mall, said Bill Skiles, assistant special agent in charge of the Secret Service's Oklahoma City office.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Repeat on story

Q. Can a story in the Dallas Times-Herald about overuse of drugs in Big Spring State Hospital and others be picked up and run here?

A. Associated Press probably picked up the story and moved it on the wire for morning papers, but didn't move it for the afternoon papers. This happens infrequently. AP removes the story from its computer system after it is used.

Silo water to be treated

DAMASCUS, Ark. (AP) — Contaminated water remaining in a devastated Titan II missile silo will be treated with chlorine and tested at intervals until it is neutralized, the Air Force says.

Workers have pumped 184,000 gallons of water contaminated with missile fuel from the silo, site of a fuel leak and explosion that killed a serviceman and injured 21 people on Sept. 19. A nuclear warhead was hurled from the silo by the blast.

After the explosion, ground water seeped into the silo, Capt. Ken Garrett said Friday. The pumped water was transported for incineration, and the rest will be neutralized over a period of about two weeks.

ABC to broadcast response

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC News, contending Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corp. turned down interview requests before a broadcast on aluminum home wiring, says it will broadcast the company's response to the story on a future "20-20" report.

Kaiser said it had sought to "reply to charges made on '20-20' that the company had intentionally marketed an unsafe product ... and withheld information on the product's performance." Company officials called the charges "blatantly wrong."

ABC did not comment Friday on the company's charges. A spokesman said an updated story would be broadcast on the newsmagazine at an unspecified date.

Carter would give extension

PITTSBURGH (AP) — National Steel Corp. says it expects to get an extra three years to make $180 million worth of air and water pollution-control improvements at three plants.

President Carter has said he would seek pollution-control deadline extensions for financially strapped companies, and Chairman Howard Love said Friday he expected to get an extension. But Love said an agreement with the Environmental Protection Agency comes "at a time when we can least afford to implement it."

Under the pact, dust emissions would be cut by 79 percent at the Ecorse, Mich., plant and 80 percent at the Granite City, Ill., plant, the EPA said. The pact also affects the plant at Weirton, W. Va.

Senator to appear in court

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr. and three co-defendants will appear in federal court next week for arraignment on charges stemming from the FBI's undercover Abscam investigation, the Justice Department says.

Williams on Thursday became the first U.S. senator indicted on Abscam bribery-conspiracy charges. During the inquiry, FBI agents posed as representatives of a phony Arab sheik seeking help in various matters. Two congressmen have been convicted of Abscam-related charges.

Fire in Polish hospital kills 48, injures many

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — A fire swept through a village hospital and killed as many as 48 people, officials said Saturday.

The fire broke out Friday night at the hospital in Gorna Grupia near Bydgoszcz, about 130 miles northwest of Warsaw, and forced the evacuation of 261 patients, according to the official news agency P.A.P.

Reports of the number of dead conflicted. A spokesman for the disaster coordinating group at a nearby hospital said the bodies of 48 patients were recovered, but P.A.P. said 45 people died in the blaze. It did not specify if all were patients.

P.A.P. described the institution as a hospital for the mentally ill. The nearby hospital spokesman said the fire broke out in a hospital ward for people with nervous breakdowns.

Neither source gave the name of the institution, a cause of the blaze or a report on possible injuries.

P.A.P. said 15 firefighting units fought the blaze through the night with the help of some army units. The report indicated the blaze was brought under control Saturday morning.

The government appointed a commission to "investigate the cause of the tragic fire," P.A.P. said.

Defense rests case in trial

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — Defense attorneys rested their case Friday in the murder trial of a woman who said spirits told her to cut the heart out of her 4-year-old daughter.

Patricia Ann Frazier, 25, has pleaded innocent by reason of temporary insanity to a charge stemming from the bizarre Feb. 23 slaying of her daughter Kunji.

The child's body was found in the woman's car, the heart was found wrapped in a bloody rag on the front seat.

State District Judge Keith Nelson scheduled final arguments to begin Monday morning. Jurors could get the case later Monday.

Dr. Enrique Macher, a psychiatrist who examined Mrs. Frazier after the slaying, testified for the defense Friday that he had diagnosed the woman as an acute paranoid schizophrenic. Two other psychiatrists already had testified they thought Mrs. Frazier was schizophrenic.

Macher said he believes Mrs. Frazier could not control herself when she cut out her daughter's heart with a butcher knife because at the time of the murder, she was experiencing visual and auditory hallucinations.

"The spirits made me kill my baby ... the spirits come when I am under someone else's control," Macher quoted her as saying.

Frazier also told him she was glad she killed the child, he said. She said she wanted to go to school and keep her boyfriend without someone else's baby coming between them, Macher testified.

The prosecution called Mrs. Frazier's former supervisor and a registered nurse who testified the accused woman's actions were normal the day before the murder.

Dawn Pate, a registered nurse at the plant where Mrs. Frazier was employed, said the woman came to her office the morning before the murder with "complaints of a female nature."

The nurse said the problem seemed minor and ordered the woman back to work. Mrs. Frazier seemed normal and had a pleasant look on her face, she testified.

Bruce Ebert, Mrs. Frazier's former supervisor at a fiberglass manufacturing company, said the woman had never exhibited emotional problems.

The defense called Carrie Henson, a fellow employee, who testified the defendant had strange facial expressions, unlike her usual countenance, the week before the slaying.

"She wore this big-looking grin-type smile," she said. She said she had seen the woman with her child before and "they looked like a mother and daughter in love with each other."

Five die in auto

FUQUAY-VARINA, N.C. (AP) — Unaware that deadly carbon monoxide was seeping into their disabled car, two teen-age sisters and three brothers were killed early Friday as they huddled against the cold only two miles from the girls' home, officials said.

"One probably dropped off and then another and another," said Lt. P.L. Womble of the Wake County Sheriff's Department. "We've had cases like this before but not five at one time."

"They were just sitting there talking and had no idea the fumes were coming in," he speculated.

Sheriff's deputy S.M. Gregory said the car apparently sped around a sharp curve on the isolated two-lane road and hit a wet spot, skidded into a traffic sign and then into the ditch. He said the tailpipe was "stuck in the mud."

Gregory said when he found the 1974 Ford LTD car at about 3 a.m., the engine, heater and emergency flashers were on.

He said he did not notice anyone in the car at first because the windows were fogged up. But, he said, when he opened the driver's door, fumes burned his eyes.

"They probably just got cold and got back in the car — the area is very rural, very isolated," said Sheriff's Lt. David Waller.

Warm temperatures predicted for Texas

By The Associated Press
Thin wisps of clouds mark much of Texas sky last night, and the continued presence of a large, weak high pressure system from the Rocky Mountains to the Gulf Coast brought more fall weather.

Early morning temperatures ranging from the upper 30s in north and western regions to the high 50s in the Valley. Lubbock reported a brisk 36. Longview, with clear skies, was 37. It was cloudy and 54 in Palacios, partly cloudy and 43 in Wink.

Forecasters predicted partly cloudy skies and warm temperatures, with widely scattered light rain in the southeastern parts of the state. Afternoon highs in the 70s were expected across the state, except along the Gulf Coast, where readings in the 60s were predicted, and in southwest Texas, where forecasters called for the mercury to hit the 80s.

WEST TEXAS — Partly cloudy and warm afternoons with fair and mild nights. Highs upper 60s north to lower 80s southwest. Lows middle 30s north to near 50 south.

WEST TEXAS — Partly cloudy and warm afternoons with fair and mild nights. Highs upper 60s north to lower 80s southwest. Lows middle 30s north to near 50 south.

WEATHER FORECAST — The National Weather Service forecast for today predicts showers in parts of the Great Lakes Region, and also in portions of California, Oregon, Idaho, and Montana.

IT WAS SPOOKY NIGHT OUT — The Werewolf seemed to be conspiring with the Mummy's Wife here Friday night. The costumes of Susie and Jimmy Welch were very appropriate, however, for they were attending a Halloween party given by Barbara and Mike Hall at 2902 Navajo.

Police Beat House damaged

The renter of a home at 500 Goliad is accused by her landlord, Robert Miller, 706 Highland, of damaging the floor and carpet of the home in the amount of $1,750.

Miller claimed the damage was done by water in the house.

He also claimed that a closet door, bed and refrigerator valued at $322 was stolen from the home.

Miller said the theft occurred between Oct. 10 and Oct. 18. He reported the theft and damage Friday.

Gary Hamilton, 202 Goliad, reported his door was broken in half and a window broken out of the door while he was at work Friday from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. He has a suspect in mind. Damage was in the amount of $75.

Mary Ann Bustamante, 30 NE Ninth, was assaulted Friday at 5:54 p.m. at her home, she claims.

Eggs were broken on a screen door by juveniles Friday at 9:45 p.m. at the home of Jim Fortune, 2603 Albrook.

Delia Salazar, 13-year-old Rannels eighth grader, has been missing since 8 a.m. Thursday. She was last seen at 1609 Bluebird.

Marijuana possession under two ounces was the alleged cause of the arrest of a male suspect Saturday at 12:01 a.m. The arrest occurred in the 1500 block of E. 5th when officers observed him drop a homemade cigarette near their patrol unit during questioning.

Glenda J. Statham, 1607 W. 2nd, said she believes a youth visiting her home stole a .22 caliber Colt derringer Thursday. The theft was

State champion expected here

The Highland Shopping Center Merchants Assn., with the cooperation of the Chamber of Commerce, will be sponsoring a "Texas Old Time Fiddlers Assn." fiddle contest Saturday, Nov. 22, at 1 p.m.

This event will be held in the Highland Shopping Center Mall. James Horton will act as director for the event.

All contestants must be members of the "Texas Old Time Fiddlers Assn." Memberships will be available the day of the contest. Prizes will be awarded in three age groups: 0-19, 20-55 and 55 and older.

There will be no admission charge to the public.

There will, in all probability, be between 25 and 35 of the best fiddle players in the state of Texas and New Mexico in attendance. Included in this group will be the present Texas State champion Ricky Boen of Odessa.

Iraq claims ready to negotiate

BEIRUT, Iraq (AP) — Fighting intensified around Abadan on Saturday and Iran claimed it stymied an Iraqi assault on its besieged refinery city and southwestern stronghold. Iraq said it had "recovered" territories it sought and was ready to negotiate.

Iraqi forces dropped a mobile bridge over the Bahmanshir River to cross into Abadan, but Iranian troops destroyed the bridge with rocket-propelled grenades, Iran said. It was the first report that the Iraqis, who claim a stranglehold on the city, had entered Abadan since fighting broke out 41 days ago.

Mobile bridges sit atop a large armored carrier and can be extended like a ladder across a river.

Last month, Iraq floated pontoon bridges across the Karun River north of Abadan, assaulting the vital Iranian oil port of Khorramshahr and sending tanks and troops south to storm Abadan.

Children learn chores at school Helping Mom at home

CRANSTON, R.I. (AP) — Children aged 8 and 9, many of them "latchkey kids" whose working parents get home after they do, are learning how to mend and wash their own clothes and cook their own meals in a special class at Norwood Avenue Elementary School here.

"It's a valuable program," said Joanne Forcier, a working mother of six children. "It has taught my kids self-sufficiency and helped lighten my load around the house."

The program, called Homemaking Elementary Learning Procedures, was launched by Norwood Principal Marie Lawrence in 1974. It caught on quickly, and today she hears from principals all over the country interested in starting similar programs.

"I got the idea when a little girl came crying to me that other children were taunting her because of her shabby clothes and unkempt appearance," said Mrs. Lawrence.

"It occurred to me that she isn't the only one suffering in the hands of other children because of her appearance."

"It struck me that in this neighborhood of working parents, it might be a good idea to teach kids how to wash their own clothes, how to sew on buttons, cook a nutritious meal."

The program, which serves about 110 third and fourth graders at Norwood, spread in its second year to the Edgewood Highland School for 300 fifth and sixth graders.

"The thing I like about these courses is they teach the kids that knowledge has practical, everyday applications," said Edgewood Principal William Condon.

Mrs. Lawrence used a $3,000 state grant to equip her school with appliances and tools, ranging from a kitchen stove to hammers.

The courses include care of the body and clothes, nutrition and home safety, consumer and shopping skills, hand and machine sewing, beginning cooking, simple carpentry and household chores.

"I can work all day and know my kids can fend for themselves. I know the older ones can put the chicken in the oven, or wash their own clothes or sew on a button," says Mrs. Forcier, a dietician.

"I went through the program when I was 9," said her daughter, Heather, now 13, "and I learned lots of things I still use."

For instance, using the carpentry skills she learned, she built a napkin holder.

"Teaching things like carpentry and sewing explodes a lot of sex stereotypes," said Condon. It gives the girls possibly their only exposure to tools, and "shows them they can break out of the stereotypes."

Mrs. Lawrence said she introduced carpentry to capture the boys' interest.

"As it turned out, I didn't need that carrot," she laughed. "The boys took to sewing and cooking as readily as the girls. They especially like cooking because they can eat their product."

Mrs. Lawrence seemed especially proud of the effort to teach the children to be shrewd consumers.

"We divided up a class into two groups and gave each group $3. One bought a common prepared breakfast snack, while the other bought bread and jam."

Jury begins discussions in trial

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — A jury of 10 women and two men began their deliberations today in the murder trial of a former Army ranger accused in the beating death of a man in a downtown parking garage.

Superior Court Judge Dunbar Harrison permitted the jurors to visit the garage Friday night before they began considering the case against John Gibson.

Taking the stand Friday in his own defense, Gibson, 24, of Gruver, Texas, repeatedly denied kicking 33-year-old Wayne Lee in the head.

"These courses mean more if we can show how they relate to real life," she said.

The program not only teaches children various homemaking skills, but also has a more subtle lesson, said Mrs. Forcier:

"It teaches the kids that they can join in and take responsibility for their daily lives, that they don't have to depend on their parents to do these things."

Senator hospitalized with stomach complaint

BILOXI, Miss. (AP) — Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., was hospitalized at an air base Friday after complaining of "severe stomach upset," a spokesman said.

"He's doing fine," said spokesman Eph Cresswell.

"He had a little upset stomach and the doctors decided to check him over," Cresswell, an administrative assistant, said Stennis, 79, had checked into the Keesler Air Force Base hospital about 3 a.m. and was in no pain later in the day after undergoing tests.

Reagan can only help chances, says Brady

Jim Brady, who stopped here Saturday on behalf of his candidacy for the office of Texas Supreme Court Justice Place 1, dates way back with the man who is heading the Republican national ticket, Ronald Reagan.

A native of Des Moines, Iowa, Brady was a running back on the Grinnell College football team when Reagan, who hails from neighboring Illinois, was hired to broadcast sports for a Des Moines, Iowa, radio station.

He recalls that Dutch Reagan, as he was affectionately called in those days, was called upon to do play-by-play for a Notre Dame-Iowa football game, when the late Graham McNamee couldn't make it.

Shortly thereafter, Reagan was summoned to Hollywood for a screen test and the rest is history.

Brady figures that the presence of Reagan on the GOP ticket this year can only be a plus as far as he is concerned. He is confident that Texas will go solidly for the Reagan-George Bush ticket.

Brady's Democratic opponent in the Tuesday election is James P. (Jim) Wallace. In the Supreme Court Place 4 race, Republican Will Garwood is in against Democrat C.L. Ray.

Other Republicans competing for statewide office include Hank Grover, a former candidate for the governorship, now offering for the State Railroad Commission; and H.J. (Doc) Blanchard, who is contesting Jim Nugent for the Railroad Commission unexpired term.

Brady is for new simplified rules for appeals to reduce delays and would permit closed circuit videotape in trial cases.

He is also for updating court reporting methods through the use of electronic word processing and was streamlining the Texas Judicial procedures.

The Austin resident has had 34 years as a courthouse trial lawyer. He was admitted to the Texas bar in 1946.

He has been involved in over 3,000 court cases and has argued before the U.S. Supreme Court. He served as an assistant district attorney for four years.

JIM BRADY

Married to the former Shari Marie Sebastian, Brady is the father of five children — Michael, Patricia, Teresa, Bridget and Jimmy. Three of the children are still at home.

America has its own kind of nobility

Perhaps the time in history has come when we elevate a former actor to the presidency. Certainly Ronald Reagan, by virtue of his experience in the statehouse in California, would bring credentials with him that are worthy of consideration.

The question which haunts more than a few of those poised to cast ballots, however: Will voters opt for Mr. Reagan because of his record in affairs governmental or because he once wore the trappings of a movie thespian?

Lend that some thought. The American concept for civility sprang largely from Great Britain, whose framework of jurisprudence promotes admiration everywhere and which was used as a model for our own legal system.

ENGLAND, HOWEVER, had something we did not — royalty. The English have insisted on maintaining their reverence and respect for its peerage, although English royalty has long since lost its clout in matters political.

We professed to live by a creed that all men be free and, though statesmen like Alexander Hamilton reasoned America should adopt its own strain of nobility, the idea offended most Americans. After all, many of the colonialists had fled England to escape the tyranny of the English caste system.

But, while it is true we did not promote a monarchy, many of us have been prone to deify those who have dedicated their efforts toward the acting profession.

Our weakness for promoting the image of those motion picture, stage and singing idols to something approaching sainthood has perhaps intensified in the latter half of the 20th Century, when the miracle of television has brought them into virtually every American home.

Our conduct in the presence of such individuals has often been shameful and degrading. We are sometimes prone to act as if they were not of common clay.

There is no doubt Ronald Reagan benefitted from the image he created in the theatrical world. It is important to remember, however, that he would not have endured as a dominant figure in the acting unions and as California's chief executive had he not had some administrative talents.

MR. REAGAN has one thing going for him that his political adversaries cannot take away from him: He has the reputation and the talent for picking a team of capable people who know what it takes to get the job done. Mr. Carter, his opponent, on the other hand has been labeled as a person who has blundered time and again by going back to his Georgia braintrust for ideas and inspiration, while ignoring reservoirs of talent in other areas. In the end, that weakness may cause him to come a cropper Tuesday. Time will tell.

If Mr. Reagan wins Tuesday, it will not be because his party will back him, though it has rallied to his side more so than any other Republican in many years, rather it will be because a host of Democrats have become disenchanted with their own standard bearer and are willing to let someone else try it for a change. There are so very many more Democrats than Republicans. For that reason, you know there will be a lot of cross-over voting if Reagan wins.

Reagan erred

Evans, Novak

CHICAGO — Reaganemia, the typically Republican sluggishness that pervades Ronald Reagan's campaign, has limited George Bush to an Oct. 23 live telecast from suburban Palatine as the vice presidential candidates' first, last and only campaign visit to Chicago's critically-important suburbs.

Reagan is not running nearly so well in those suburbs as a Republican should. Non-conservative Republicans still resist him, continuing to chase Rep. John Anderson's disappearing candidacy. The scary Carter image of Reagan "the mad nuclear bomber" has taken hold here. "The suburban mommies don't want their little boys to go to war, so they won't vote for Reagan," one gleeful Democratic politician told us.

THE BEST ANTIDOTE at this late hour is Bush, still the idol of Republican suburbia. Why, then, has he not been summoned repeatedly to pin down the state's 26 electoral votes? When a suburban party leader asked Bush that question, he replied, in effect: I go where I'm told.

Bush has not been told to go to the Chicago suburbs, save for that one-night stand, reflecting the Reagan campaign's mindset. Bush has not been deputized to conduct a rescue operation because Reagan's strategists do not think a rescue is necessary. Just that attitude has enabled President Carter to switch the campaign's focus from economic distress to war and peace.

That single-minded intent by campaign manager Hamilton Jordan was spelled out months ago and ignored by a Reagan campaign with delusions of sitting on a lead. While Carter painstakingly laid the groundwork to smear his foe as architect of World War III, there was no Republican rebuttal.

This failure was compounded in Illinois, where native son Anderson began with a strong liberal-to-moderate Republican base in the suburbs. Although Reagan's own polls still show him a slight favorite, Illinois is so closely contested that the Reagan campaign performance is inexcusable.

Considering Anderson's strength among Illinois Republicans, ordinary prudence dictated an appeal to the party's left wing. Instead, militant Reaganites running the state campaign have barred organizational involvement by their erstwhile intra-party enemies.

In Illinois if nowhere else, Republican factional sparring continues. George Kangas, Republican Chairman in suburban Lake County who headed Bush's statewide primary campaign, got no advance word of the Reagan coordinator for his district; Kangas considered him unacceptable. Moderate Republicans have been offended by independent Reagan efforts by what one party leader calls "real far-right, radical types."

REAGAN HIMSELF, never markedly popular in the state of his birth, has not been showcased in the Chicago suburbs. The standing-room-only audience at a Wheaton College rally was roused to frenzy by Gov. James Thompson's jeremiads. Reagan, instead of throwing away a fishwater-dull speech on education, read every last word of it — and anesthetized his listeners.

As a moderate Republican, Big Jim Thompson was no early Reagan booster. But he has spent the autumn romping and stomping across Illinois with head-on attacks against Carter's tactics that Republicans here only wish had been adopted by Reagan's national campaign.

Dear Editor:

I am writing in praise of the Howard County Library. I and my family visit the library often and have always found the people there to be most helpful and kind. From time to time there is a book that the library does not have, but they are able to get it for me from interlibrary loan. I have read books from Corpus Christi, Dallas, and Little Rock, Ark.

Even more than I appreciate this, I have been impressed with the fact that the children's section is not forgotten or ignored. I have been pleased to note that there is a continuous input of new and up-to-date children's books all year long. The library here is doing a commendable job for Howard County.

Dear Editor:

Ronald Reagan is constantly saying that he is running on his record as governor of California but isn't it ironic that he has never mentioned the three main promises that he made to the people when he was campaigning for office?

These three promises were: 1. Reduce taxes; 2. cut the number of state employees; 3. reduce unemployment and cut back on welfare.

Well, as Reagan knows quite well after 8 years in office, this is what happened to his 3 promises: 1. He quadrupled taxes (more than any other governor in the state's history); 2. there were 34,000 more employees on the state payroll than when he took office; 3. unemployment was higher and the cost of welfare was considerably higher.

Everyone knows that Reagan grossly distorts the facts about every accusation that he directs against President Carter. He says the foreign policy of Jimmy Carter is a failure, but the fact is that Carter has done more in less than 4 years to guarantee peace in the world than any other man in history.

First he brought about a treaty between Israel and Egypt. No other human being has accomplished that in over 3,000 years.

Secondly, he reached an agreement with Russia on nuclear arms limitation (which is being held up by Republicans for political gain).

Thirdly, Mr. Carter resumed diplomatic relations and trade agreements with China, which alone does more to deter Russia from thinking war than anything else that could have been done.

Ronald Reagan has been play acting all his adult life and now at the age of 70 he finds he still cannot grasp the fact that we have a real live world outside the walls of Hollywood.

I believe that the majority of the people of America will join me in wishing all the best for Reagan upon his retirement after Nov. 4, when he returns to his 'Fantasyland' in California.

Mack Underwood
Ponderosa Apts.

Dear Editor:

Shame on you! It should embarrass you to headline an article — on page one, too — that indicated Reagan was leading in Texas. How many readers do you suppose didn't read far enough to find out the poll was taken by school children?

And how about running a full page ad for Reagan that indicated it was not a paid political ad when in fact that is exactly what it was? I feel this is not only unethical but illegal.

Marcellous Weaver

Dear Editor:

I believe it was evident that Ronald Reagan won the debate over President Carter although who won or lost isn't as important as the fact that Reagan's position on the issues were clearly stated with facts and figures so that the American people have a clear choice.

I believe that choice will be Ronald Reagan. Jimmy Carter had a hard time sticking to the questions because he had to skirt around his poor record.

The nationwide telephone poll conducted by ABC after the debate favored Reagan with 67 percent of the calls to Carter's 33 percent.

Hubert Frerich
Chairman Reagan-Bush Campaign
Glasscock County, Tex.

Dear Editor:

No president has done as much to hurt the economy of Texas as the present one. Most people believe that the Windfall Profits Tax on oil hurts only those engaged in the oil industry. This is far from the truth because the Windfall Profits Tax siphons off one-third of the gross income of the largest industry and taxpayer in the state. This sharp reduction in oil revenue affects every individual. Farmers, ranchers and other landowners are affected by substantial reductions in royalty income. The reduction in tax revenues for local governments, schools, universities and the state affects everyone, for they will lead inevitably to much higher Texas taxes. We should be ever mindful of the fact that the Windfall Profits Tax devised by the Carter Administration is the largest tax ever levied on any segment of economy of the United States of America.

As if the burden of the Windfall Profits Tax was not humiliation enough, the Carter Administration has seized hundreds of millions of dollars of highway funds which belong to Texas. The Federal Government levies a tax of 4 cents per gallon on gasoline and 3 cents is returned to the states for construction and maintenance of the highways. The Carter Administration has changed the rules unilaterally so that only Texas has been deprived of its share of the tax. Now in order to maintain our highways we must raise our own taxes by several hundred millions dollars to replace funds confiscated by the Carter Administration.

I am not in the oil business or in the road construction business. I am a retired farmer. When I see how the Carter Administration has treated our great State of Texas, I am appalled. After what Mr. Carter has done to Texas he must have the gall of a brass monkey to come to this area and ask us to vote for him. This kind of judgment is probably the reason our country is so close to chaos today.

When the people of Texas fully understand that the Carter Administration has done major damage to our economy and then discriminated against us by confiscating tax revenues, they will realize it's high time to change the government in Washington.

George B. Hall
2002 River Oaks Circle
Abilene, Tex.

Dear Editor:

What would you think if someone told you that the price you are asking for your house is more than you are entitled to receive? That you are "ripping off" the general public? Therefore, by a decree of the Congress and the President, we will now place a "Windfall Profits Tax" of 70 percent on the difference between what we think you should receive and what you actually receive. Sounds unreal? It can never happen? It would be unconstitutional. Confiscation of property without compensation!

Believe it or not, the disaster described is exactly what has happened in the oil industry. Congress and President Carter in their great wisdom declared it a sin to make a profit! They have by law declared that the oil producers and royalty owners are receiving too much for the sale of their property.

If the "Windfall Profits Tax" remains in force, then other privately owned properties can become subject to confiscation without compensation. This would end our democratic form of government and also the right of ownership of property.

Think about it! Don't you think you should vote for a change? Now is the time. Vote for Reagan.

John Nutt
805 East 16th

Dear Editor:

We should vote for President Carter because Ronald Reagan offers a shaky alternative.

The average life expectancy of adult American males is 72 years; Reagan would be 70 beginning his first term and 78 ending his second. Reagan's advanced age is a dangerous gamble.

Gaping holes

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — The Carter administration's recent decision to dispatch four of the Air Force's Airborne Warning and Control System (AWACS) planes to Saudi Arabia might lead the average citizen to believe there are plenty of the high-technology aircraft to go around.

But the painful fact is that the United States needs every AWACS plane it has — and more — to protect the continental United States from a sneak attack.

A top-secret Pentagon assessment of our interlocking early warning systems has turned up a frightening flaw: a "radar hole" big enough for the Soviets to drive an armada of low-flying nuclear bombers through.

THE REPORT puts the message in one succinct, hair-raising paragraph: "Present U.S. surveillance systems can provide warning of aircraft attacking at high or medium altitudes through the polar region, but they have virtually no capability to provide warning or attack characterization from any other threat axis."

In other words, if the Russians — or the Chinese, for that matter — don't oblige us by sending their bombers in from just the right direction and at just the right altitude, the United States might not know they were coming until the bombs started falling.

Present U.S. early warning systems are aimed primarily at incoming intercontinental ballistic missiles, which undoubtedly would approach from the north. Satellites and tracking stations provide good coverage.

But for early warning on aircraft, Pentagon sources told my associate Dale Van Atta, the United States depends on the outdated Semi-Automatic Ground Environment System and its intended replacement, the Joint Surveillance System, which they say is not much better.

"Both of these systems are range-limited, both leave significant gaps in low-altitude radar coverage," the secret report warns. In addition, even the Joint Surveillance System lacks what the Pentagon calls "counter-countermeasure capability" — meaning electronic equipment that could overcome jamming and other enemy techniques that can neutralize our radar defenses.

THIS IS WHERE the AWACS planes come in — or could, if we had enough

HENRY FORD'S EX-WIFE Christina recently was awarded a $15 million divorce settlement so now Henry is selling some of his art collection.

When Henry divorced his first wife, it was reported he sold art works worth $2 million.

I understand he is telling his friends his two ex-wives drove him up the wall.

of them. AWACS aircraft, the report notes, "can provide low-altitude coverage, but they are too few in numbers and...would be prohibitively expensive to maintain as a strategic warning fence while remaining available for other assigned missions."

The United States has exactly 20 of these $100 million-per-copy super-sophisticated surveillance planes. Two more have been funded for each of the next three fiscal years, with an eventual goal of 34 AWACS aircraft.

Even that would be inadequate for proper protection of the continental United States, particularly, when, as now, up to 20 percent of the AWACS force is deployed on "other assigned missions" elsewhere in the world.

Meanwhile, the Pentagon is trying to plug the radar hole without having to depend solely on AWACS planes, which it would prefer to keep for their designed role in offensive operations rather than as a defensive stopgap.

"An Enhanced Distant Early Warning line of minimally-attended radars could improve coverage in the northern approaches to North America and significantly reduce operating costs," the secret report states. "Over-the-Horizon Backscatter radars will provide long-range surveillance of the coastal approaches."

The Pentagon also wants a modernized interceptor aircraft force — as well as more AWACS aircraft.

RELUCTANT WASTELAND: The Mariana Islands' link to the nuclear age goes back to August 1945, when the B-29 Enola Gay took off from Tinian to drop its atomic bomb on Hiroshima. But the islanders want no part of their latest potential connection: Japanese plans to dump radioactive wastes in the ocean 1,000 miles offshore.

The tiny U.S. commonwealth appealed to Washington for help, but got nowhere. Now the islanders understand why: Uncle Sam may have dumping plans of his own there.

A Department of Energy research team explored the same area of the Pacific to see if it's feasible to bury high-level radioactive wastes under the ocean floor. The mission's chief scientist said the area could handle all the nuclear waste the world has produced or ever will produce.

The Mariana Islanders fear the environmental integrity of the entire Pacific Basin is endangered. "Plain and simple, we're scared," said an island spokesman.

Not all U.S. companies operated in red

NEW YORK (AP) — The bad news in company profits for the quarter just ended was what made front-page news in some areas. The automakers' flood of red ink set records on a number of counts.

Steel and airline companies also had continuing problems. And oil companies reported profits rising by puny amounts compared with increases of as much as 100 percent late last year and early this year.

But not all enterprises reported a bad quarter. Earnings reports coming out recently for the third quarter showed a widely mixed pattern. Even within the same area of business, companies reported widely different results.

Among airlines, for instance, Eastern Airlines reported a $22 million loss in the third quarter. But Delta Airlines reported net earnings that were more than double the previous year's profits, and other carriers reported modest gains.

U.S. Steel Corp., the industry leader, reported $77 million in third quarter profits, down 13 percent from the previous year. Bethlehem had a 31 percent decline in earnings. National Steel reported a loss.

Standard Oil of Indiana, the nation's sixth-largest oil company, posted a gain of just 2.6 percent. It will be months before the government compiles final figures on corporate earnings during the third quarter ended in September. But preliminary surveys indicate that even with record losses among the automakers, overall profits declined by a comparatively modest amount. The Wall Street Journal reported that its survey of 463 major companies' earnings for the period showed an overall decline of 5 percent from the year-earlier period. That represented a slight improvement from the 9 percent drop in the previous quarter. Chrysler Corp. said it lost $490 million in the third quarter.

For anti-abortion protest

Parents jailed with child

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — Six-month-old John Paul Gaetano is going to jail Saturday for a crime committed before he was born.

His mother, Jeanne, was pregnant with John Paul when she and her husband were arrested for blocking the entrance to the Alexandria Women's Clinic, which performs abortions in this suburb of Washington, D.C.

Now the entire family is going to Alexandria's jail for 24 hours.

"There's no way I'm going to jail without him," Mrs. Gaetano says of her son, who was named after Pope John Paul II.

"They will never separate us under any circumstances."

John Paul's father, David, is going to the same jail Saturday, but will be assigned to a different section.

Sheriff Michael Norris says he has never housed an infant in his jail before.

He is doing everything he can to accommodate mother and child.

"She'll be able to bring any reasonable item — diapers, a portable crib, and crackers and toys," says a spokesman at the Alexandria jail.

The Gaetanos are old hands at anti-abortion activities. Both have devoted their lives to the cause.

David Gaetano writes for the Right-to-Life News. His wife spends full time demonstrating in support of her beliefs.

She has been arrested at least a dozen times, she says.

"I spent my 18th birthday in a Niantic, Conn., prison overlooking the sea," she says.

"When you consider that these actions might make some women realize that there's a heart beating inside — a life — then it's all more than worthwhile."

The Gaetanos were among eight demonstrators arrested in September 1979 for blocking the entrance to the clinic here.

They were convicted of trespassing and sentenced to a day in jail.

Mrs. Gaetano raised a defense what she called "the common law of necessity."

"It says, in effect, that when human life or property are at stake, minor statutes may be ignored to achieve greater good. That might be a fireman rushing into a burning house," she says, "or, in our case, saving a human life."

Mrs. Gaetano said the defense worked in nearby Fairfax County courts, but the judge in Alexandria refused to consider it.

Nonetheless, she says, she will resume demonstrating as soon as she — and John Paul — get out of jail.

Meeting set for Dec. 2

The Big Spring Lung Association, associated with the American Lung Association and formerly known as the Pink Puffers, will not meet in November. Chairman Ken Randall, Director of Respiratory Therapy at Malone-Hogan Hospital, says that the local group will meet again Dec. 2, at 7 p.m., in the classroom of the hospital.

One of two TDC escapees caught

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — One of two men who broke out of a Texas Department of Corrections unit was recaptured without incident by a TDC guard and a sheriff's deputy, prison officials said Saturday.

The pair, both serving life prison terms for murder at the Eastham Unit of TDC near Lovelady, Texas, broke out by scaling the unit's outer fence Tuesday evening, said TDC spokesman Keith Wall.

Inmate Arthur Coble, 34, from Harris County, was apprehended about six miles from the prison unit within five hours, Wall said, offering no resistance when he was found by a task force of officers from the prison system, the Houston County sheriff's office and the Department of Public Safety.

The other escapee, identified as Bexar County resident Randy Nyman, 28, was apprehended Friday night in Lovelady, Wall said Saturday. He also surrendered without resistance once officers tracked him down, Wall said.

Local physician named to X-ray tech board

Dr. Buerk Williams, chief radiologist at Malone & Hogan Clinic and director of the Malone-Hogan School of Radiologic Technology, has been named by the Joint Review Committee on Education in X-Ray Technology (JCR) as an on-site surveyor for accreditation for X-Ray schools throughout the nation.

DR. BUERK WILLIAMS school in its own state, the physician says.

Currently there are 900 accredited schools of X-Ray technology in the United States. Approximately 2-3rd of these are college based, and 1-3rd are hospital based programs, such as Malone-Hogan's school. Six hundred surveyors, 60 percent technologists and 40 percent radiologists make up the accreditation teams.

Malone-Hogan's school is five years old this year. Dr. Williams is the founder, and is credited with developing a unique pyramid teaching concept, created by two school teachers who worked the concept into a curriculum for the two-year school in the X-Ray department. Graduates of the school have scored high in national accreditation exams.

Dr. Williams' first assignment will be to evaluate the program of a hospital-based school in New Orleans, La., in December.

JCR is to schools teaching X-Ray technology, what Joint Commission on Accreditation for Hospitals (JCAH) is to hospitals. Its role is to evaluate quality, organization, faculty qualifications, allotment and lesson plans, and student records regarding experience, grades, attendance, absences, and tardiness records.

Dr. Williams says that the teams are not punitive in nature. "Actually our role is one of assistance. Without organization, proper execution of the educational progress does not result," he says, and with the steadily increasing cost of education, every educational endeavor becomes subjected to proportional fiscal strain.

"What is likely to happen is that curtailment is introduced that results in a weakening and perhaps the eventual demise of the program," Williams adds.

"This is a challenge that I'll enjoy. To assist programs in improving their end product, namely the graduate technologist caring for patients, is an honor I do not take lightly," the radiologist says.

A radiologic technologist will join Dr. Williams in New Orleans, to assist in evaluation of the job training in the school's program. To assure objectivity, no team is allowed to judge another

FARM FORUM

By RONNIE WOOD

One way to get rid of the boll weevil may be to beat him with a tree. Actually, it's a product of the tree. The Tung tree, Deterrent 1 is the name of the product which is derived from tung oil. Tung oil is relatively easy to extract from the trees and the trees grow well nearly anywhere with a warm climate. Now back to the boll weevil. USDA scientists, determined to get rid of the expensive pest, started working with tung oil nearly 20 years ago and finally have discovered a mixture that works. They say you can dip a plump-and-juicy cotton boll (that's how it looks to the weevil) in Deterrent 1 and drop it in front of some nearby starved weevils. Hardly any of them will take even a second look. If all goes well, it should be available soon.

Texans not apathetic about 1980 elections

By JIM DAVIS
Harte-Hanks Election Team
AUSTIN — If absentee voting is any indication, Texans may not be as apathetic about the 1980 elections as some political analysts suppose.

A survey of the 14 Texas newspapers owned by Harte-Hanks Communications, Inc., shows persons voting absentee in record numbers in many of the 14 counties where the papers circulate.

A big question of 1980 is: What does this heavy absentee turnout across the state mean for President Carter and Ronald Reagan in their quest for Texas' 26 electoral votes?

Democratic leaders say Carter needs a high voters turnout to win. They hope that the high absentee vote indicates long lines at the polls on election day.

But in Texas the absentee vote usually is more conservative and more Republican than the election-day vote. Thus, Republican leaders optimistically foresee a GOP victory.

In Navarro County, for example, County Clerk James Doolen told The Corsicana Daily Sun he expects about a 60-percent turnout, compared with 42 percent last May.

Calvin Guest of Bryan, longtime state Democratic Party leader, says the only thing being signaled for certain by the absentee vote is that "both sides of the street are working hard" to get out their loyal supporters.

The election outcome, he says, may well depend upon which side does the best job.

Brazos County Clerk Frank Boriski told The Bryan-College Station Eagle he expects a "very high turnout," higher than the 74 percent of the county electorate that voted in 1976.

But again, it's hard to predict what that means in the presidential race. A straw vote at Texas A&M University recently indicated strong support for Reagan on that 33,000-student campus.

A poll conducted by A&M political science students two weeks ago and sponsored by Harte-Hanks showed Reagan leading Carter statewide by 41 to 37 percent and 45 to 38 percent among those who said they are almost certain to vote.

Carter led by 5 percentage points among registered voters in the northeast section of the state within telephone Area Code 214. But among only those who said they were highly likely to vote, Reagan took a slight lead.

In rural areas in Northeast Texas, some Democratic leaders are worried about defections among rural voters to the Republican column.

"For some reason, the farmers and ranchers have forgotten what (Presidents) Nixon and Ford did to us a few years ago," Lamar County Democratic Chairman W.P. Murphy told The Paris News.

Republicans say they are counting on this rural dissatisfaction to swing the area to Reagan.

Many political observers believe Carter's chances in East Texas depend on the turnout of black voters. Polls have shown little black support for Reagan.

This vote was critical to Carter's 1976 win, but no one knows whether blacks will turn out in large numbers again.

Mrs. Charles Wilson, president of the Harrison County National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, told The Marshall News Messenger last week that blacks fear Reagan.

She added: "Nobody's really excited. There's a certain quiet, but I feel that in that quiet they (blacks) are making their decisions and they will turn out to vote in fairly large numbers."

At Huntsville, Republicans have made an extensive pitch for black votes. "I know we cannot take Walker County without some black support," County GOP chairman Joe Stivers told The Huntsville Item.

Democratic county chairman M.B. Etheredge said that defection of blacks won't happen, but he admitted that the overall vote in that traditionally Democratic area is going to be close.

In the rural-oriented Greenville-Commerce area, absentee voting has been running heavy, but longtime political observers say that's about the only sign of campaign enthusiasm.

The Commerce Journal

reports students at East Texas State University have shown little political activity except some support for Independent John Anderson.

Hunt County County Judge Ed Terrell sees little enthusiasm in the whole area: "The mood I get is one of dismay, not an enthusiastic one. I get the feeling people are not happy either way and are not all excited about the national election," he told The Greenville Herald-Banner.

A similar assessment was made by Grayson County Judge Horace Groff. "People in general are discouraged over both candidates... no real choice between them," he told The Denison Herald.

State Rep. Bob Bush of Sherman sees the campaign warming up. There's "more going on now than I can ever remember before," he said.

A red-hot Fourth Congressional District race, rather than the presidential contest, could be stirring up some of the voting interest in the Denison and Greenville-Commerce areas.

But reports of high voter interest are coming also from the other side of Texas, and from some areas with no exciting local races.

In Big Spring, for example, absentee voting is high and the only local race is a quiet one for county commissioner.

"It's got to be the presidential race," the political reporter for The Big Spring Herald said. The Republicans have been working particularly hard on absentee voting, he said. A political writer for The San Angelo Standard-Times, said the campaign mood of West Texas is mixed, with the Reagan forces most audible but the pro-Carter people in rural areas working hard and working scared.

"While most observers believe West Texas will fall into the Reagan column on election day, the margin may not be as overwhelming as had been believed earlier," she said.

In rural Concho County just east of San Angelo, a Democratic rally drew twice as many persons as a Republican one.

But at an oil-and-gas seminar in Ballinger, criticism of Carter and the windfall profits tax was dominant.

Four years ago, Carter lost Abilene to President Ford but won in rural counties.

Domestic oil, gas operators set record

REV. LARRY DROLL

Catholics plan for conference

A Catholic Charismatic Conference will be held Friday and Saturday, Nov. 7 and 8, at the Immaculate Heart of Mary Church here.

Featured speaker of the Conference will be the Rev. Larry Droll, Chancellor and director of vocations for the San Angelo Diocese. Bishop Joseph Fiorenza of the Diocese will celebrate Mass on Saturday.

The title given to the conference is "Are we really living the word? Then why failure and frustration in our Christian lives?"

Registration for the conference will begin at 7:30 p.m. Friday. A prayer meeting will follow at 8 p.m.

Rev. Droll will speak at 9:45 a.m. Saturday. Mass will be celebrated by the Bishop at 11 a.m.

A number of workshops will be held Saturday afternoon.

The conference will be held in the IHM school cafeteria. Charles R. Richards of Big Spring will act as master of ceremonies.

Those wishing additional information are requested to call the church at 267-2882.

HOUSTON (AP) — Backed by higher wellhead prices, domestic oil and gas operators have set another record for acreage held under lease.

At the end of 1979, the industry had 447.1 million productive and non-productive acres under lease in 33 states. That was 19.8 percent of total land area of the 50 states.

It was the second consecutive year for the industry to move to a new record after a prolonged period of belt-tightening prompted by a 15-year slump in drilling operations.

The new total compares with the old record of 432.1 million acres under lease at the end of 1978 and with the previous all-time high of 424.2 million at the end of 1959.

The drilling slump had dropped the holdings to a modern low of 325.1 million acres in 1967.

The industry released huge chunks of acreage as well completions dropped from a record 58,160 in 1956 to a modern low of 27,300 in 1971. The renewed interest in leasing activity accompanied a gradual comeback in drilling operations that led to 51,263 well completions last year.

New figures on productive and non-productive acreage were released in the 1980 edition of "The Oil Producing Industry in Your State." The annual publication of the Independent Petroleum Association of America includes 134 pages of industry statistics on nationwide operations and for each state with oil or gas production.

The addition of Oregon this year boosted the number of producing states to 33.

Oregon's first production was reported as the 1979 output of 15.1 million cubic feet of natural gas in Columbia County where 21 wildcat and development wells led to five gas completions and 16 dry holes. The proved reserves at year-end were estimated at 200 million cubic feet.

The booklet indicated 700 productive and 4.5 million non-productive acres or 7.3 percent of Oregon's total land area were under lease at the end of 1979.

An introduction to the 1980 edition says almost 30 percent of the total acreage under lease across the nation is controlled by the federal government. Geologists contend much of the domestic oil and gas yet to be discovered is beneath public lands and the trade group expressed hope "that government policy in the future will encourage the increased use of these public lands for oil and gas exploration and development."

A new chart in the booklet indicates more than 1,600,000 persons are employed by the domestic industry.

The independents gave this breakdown for employees within the industry's major segments: gasoline service stations 584,200, oil and gas extraction 470,400, wholesale trade 231,600, transportation 186,900, and refining-manufacturing 169,700.

The trade group said a survey of each of the 50 states was made because such information of the number of employees within the industry was not available by state from any published source.

By individual state, the employee totals ranged from a low of 2,045 in Vermont to a high of 325,164 in Texas.

Productive leases at the end of 1979 totaled a record 50.1 million acres, compared with only 25 million at the end of 1959. The new non-productive total of 397 million acres, however, was still below the all-time high of 399.1 million set in 1959.

At the end of 1979, the nation had 526,855 producing oil wells. While still well below the record 617,057 reported in 1961, the new total indicates a continuing although slow comeback since the drilling slump and abandonments dropped the count to 494,352 in 1974.

Since 1859, the industry has drilled 2,526,748 wells. Oil producers totaled 1,484,768, gas producers 264,925. The remaining 777,055 or 30.7 percent were dry holes.

Cattlemen are awaiting sale

Charles W. Creighton and Stuart Henderson are each consigning two lots of cattle to the 34th annual to the 34th annual Concho Hereford Association sale, which will be held starting at 12:30 p.m. Monday at the fairgrounds in San Angelo.

Both Creighton and Henderson are, of course, members of the association as are Morris and Malcolm Patterson and Leland Wallace of Howard County.

Ninety registered bulls will be up for auction at the San Angelo sale. The auctioneer will be Walter Britten of Bryan.

Creighton will be part of a sponsoring group which will stage a sale here in January.

Runnels Magazine sales go on for 31st year running

By KRISTIE GRIMES
Last week Runnels students again sold magazines, this year making a total of 31 years for Runnels to sponsor the magazine sales. Monday, a Runnel's Yearling blanket was given to high salesperson, Stacy Basham.
Tuesday Neasa Rhodes won $10 as the high salesperson, and on Wednesday Julie Miller and Mary Weaver tied for first.
Julie Miller took first on Thursday and Jim Cowan was in second place. Friday Derik Logback was the high salesperson and Mark Walker second.
The RCA TV and the $50 high salesperson award will be given Monday. The room with the largest volume of sales was Mrs. Cornelia Gary's first period class which is looking forward to a pizza party.
Runnels was delighted Tuesday morning with an assembly in which the Steer drill team, twirling line, rifle team, and flag line entertained the students. The Steer band was preparing for the Southwest Auxiliary Championship Competition which was held Saturday in the Coliseum.
Visitors representing the Southern Association of Secondary Schools will be in the building Monday and Tuesday. This is part of a ten year evaluation and accreditation. Students are requested to be on their best behavior.
The October Computer Room contest winners were Mark Gutierrez in math and Victor Gomez in English. The Computer Room also ran a contest for the classes with the most gain. The winners were first period math and sixth period English. The winning classes received a coke party.
Another president was the answer to this week's Calendar Clue Game. Harry S. Truman, the 33rd President of the United States, was the correct answer. Jim Cowan came in first; Jamie Sotelo was second; and third was Kristi Wise.

In the pep rally last Thursday, students were presented with two skits. After the pep club accepted the spirit stick from last week's pep rally, students were visited by a canary from the Canary Islands. Cheerleaders then showed the students how to "chew up the Colts."
The Pep Club went to their out-of-town game Thursday, the 30th of October. Leaving directly after the pep rally, they went to cheer the Runnels football teams in last week's games in Sweetwater. The Sweetwater Colts edged the White team 24-25, while the Red team blanked the Colts 12-7.

A Concert of Symphonies

ALPINE — The Big Bend Chamber Orchestra will present their fall concert, "A Concert of Symphonies," Nov. 8 at 7:30 p.m. in the Sul Ross State University Main Auditorium.
The concert includes "Symphony No. 2" by Ned Rorem, the "Unfinished Symphony" by Franz Schubert and Serge Prokofieff's "Classical Symphony." Dr. Rex Wilson, director, said, "Each work is unique. Rorem's piece is modern. Schubert's is romantic in style and Prokofieff's is reminiscent of the style of Haydn."
The best known of the compositions is Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony." Schubert finished only two of the intended four movements, and after becoming tired of the piece, he sent it to a friend in Graz where it remained in a desk drawer for 43 years. "Today, it is one of the most loved symphonies," Wilson said.
The orchestra consists of 32 members. Local performers include Lora Bell Lockhart, Sandy Deal, Avis Faulk, Arthur O'Keefe, Shawna McGahey, David Denning, Joan Peck, Yvette Roach, Michael Franklin, Dr. Jim Richerson, Kevin Arnett, Jane Green, Dr. Buzzy Green, Bill Brooks, Dr. Harold Miller, Sheri Talley, John Rayburn, Eugene Marquez and Ellen Boyd.
There is no admission charge for the concert which is funded by a $2,000 Texas Commission for the Arts' grant. According to Dr. Samuel Davis, Music Department chairman and director of the Liberal Arts Division, the grant must be matched by the Alpine community by spring, 1981. Anyone interested in contributing to the orchestra fund should contact Davis at 837-8211. The spring orchestra concert is March 7.

Governor's staff defends tougher parole stand

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements' staff says he vetoes more paroles than previous governors because the Board of Pardons and Paroles has gotten softer while convicts have become meaner.

"Too many dangerous risks to society are being recommended to the governor," says David Dean, head of the governor's clemency office and Criminal Justice Division.

A prisoners' lobby and some legislators disagree, however, and would like to see the Legislature abolish the governor's power to deny paroles.

The two biggest arguments for getting the governor out of the process are to end duplication of effort and not have a parole policy that is determined by the politics of the governor," says Charles Sullivan of Citizens United for Rehabilitation of Errants (CURE).

Clements wants to keep his power and has recommended a bill that would let him appoint the board's chairman and vice-chairman, who now are chosen by the board. Clements also believes the board should control halfway houses for parolees and require restitution as a condition of parole.

Clements vetoed 28.4 percent of the paroles recommended to him in fiscal 1980 — leaving in prison 2,241 convicts the board said could safely return to society.

Sullivan says prisoners would not be sleeping on the floor if it were not for Clements' parole denials.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe, also a hardliner on "law and order," never rejected more than 13.4 percent of paroles in a fiscal year. Gov. Preston Smith turned down less than 1 percent and in one year vetoed only one parole out of 2,385 recommended to him.

A report prepared in Dean's office says 29.7 percent of the persons sent to prison in 1979 had committed violent crimes, compared with 26.7 percent in 1976, 19.3 percent in 1966 and 18.6 percent in 1966.

Meanwhile, 81 percent of the Texas convicted felons last year received probation. Half the persons actually sent to prison in 1979 had violated parole or probation conditions, the report says.

"This indicates that, a convicted felon now has to earn his way into TDC (Texas Department of Corrections) as a violent offender or as a high risk to society or as one who has demonstrated that he cannot live by the terms of probation or parole. Yet in spite of this, ... it is now easier to get out of TDC because of the high number of parole recommendations by the Board of Pardons and Paroles," the report says.

Sullivan disagrees, saying, "The average prisoner is less violent than several years ago."

In fiscal 1979, the board recommended 49.6 percent of the eligible inmates for parole. In fiscal 1980, the rate dropped to 40.6 percent.

"We feel the parole recommendations we sent over there (to Clements) were good risks," says board chairwoman Connie Jackson.

What elements influence Clements — or, more accurately, Dean and the four lawyers who review cases — to deny paroles recommended by the board?

The report says that in 59 percent of the denials, the inmate had at least one prior conviction, and in 45 percent a violent crime was involved.

Sullivan believes Dean's staff overlooks the value of parole in rehabilitation and applies arbitrary guidelines.

"They are coming out of their Republican, conservative culture. They are not having face-to-face contact with the inmates," he says.

In one case, he said, Clements vetoed a parole in which the board had imposed a requirement of psychiatric treatment. The inmate finished his sentence without getting any psychiatric help, Sullivan said.

"Each case is reviewed on its own merits — it is weighed on its totality," Dean replies.

Parole recommendations come from three-person panels drawn from the three board members and six parole commissioners. The governor, chief justice of the Texas Supreme Court and presiding judge of the Court of Criminal Appeals each appoints a board member and two commissioners.

The Austin-based board members, who make the rules for the parole system, and the commissioners, who are based near the prisons, don't always get along. Except for Clements appointee Glen Heckmann, the commissioners voted more often for parole in fiscal 1980 than did the board members.

Statistically, inmates of TDC's southern units have a poorer chance of parole than those farther north because a majority of their panel consists of Heckmann, with a 25.7 percent approval rate, and board member George Killinger, 27.3 percent.

Board members Jackson, Killinger and Ruben Torres have endorsed Clements' bill to make commissioners mere employees of the board instead of independent state officials.

Dean says the commissioners' independence needs to be squelched because it has "caused any amount of petty bickering and animosities between the board and the commissioners."

Sullivan and Commissioner Paul Mansmann say Clements is out to get commissioners with high parole approval rates, such as Mansmann's 61.6 percent, but Dean says the governor just wants better management.

In 1979, the Senate narrowly passed a bill to abolish the governor's parole authority, but it died in the House. Its sponsor, conservative Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, says he will not reintroduce it in 1981.

"There's not much percentage in carrying a bill that is going to be vetoed," says Jones.

Sullivan says he will find another sponsor.

Sen. A.R. Schwartz, D-Galveston, says the parole system would work better without the governor but, realistically, the governor probably will remain in it.

"The public demands someone in the electoral process in the parole system to reflect their views of what law and order, crime and punishment, ought to be," he said.

Avowed racist is arrested

Manhunt ends at blood bank

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — For Allen Lee, the soft-spoken head of the downtown plasma donation center, it wasn't unusual for an FBI agent to ask him to keep a lookout for someone.

The 25-year-old manager of Sera-Tec Biologicals sees all kinds of drifters and down-and-outers, people trying to make ends meet by giving blood for $5.

This time, the FBI was looking for Joseph Paul Franklin, an avowed racist wanted for questioning in the sniper killings of blacks in four cities and the wounding of civil rights leader Vernon Jordan.

The Secret Service had also linked Franklin to a 1976 letter threatening President Carter. It said Carter had "sold out to the blacks." A campaign visit by the president was only three days away.

It was Tuesday, Franklin was still at-large after a two-year search. The FBI was checking the Sera-Tec blood bank, where about 120 people a day give blood, as a likely place for him to show up.

Agent Fred Rivero mentioned the Carter visit to Lee as he handed him an agency flier on Franklin, born Clayton Vaughn Jr. He said Franklin was a homicide suspect. "Very dangerous," Rivero said as he left.

Lee mentioned Rivero's visit to some of his lab technicians. He thought no more about it — but within hours, his blood plasma lab would give the FBI the break it needed to get its man.

On Friday, Franklin, 30, a native of Mobile, Ala., was indicted by a federal grand jury in Salt Lake City on charges that he violated the civil rights of two black men who were shot after jogging in a park with two white women on Aug. 20.

The Lakeland Ledger reconstructed the events

Tuesday.

At 3 p.m., four hours after the FBI visit, Claudette Mallard looked up from her receptionist's desk to see a 200-pound man walk in wearing brown pants, a long-sleeved shirt and carrying a suitcase.

"Name?" she asked. "Thomas Alvin Bohmert," he replied. He filled out a form, giving an out-of-state address as his residence.

A technician noticed the donor had tattoos and told Lee he seemed to fit the FBI description. Lee called the local FBI office, five blocks away.

The next 4 years could be our last 4 years.

Don't think it couldn't happen. It has happened—in ancient Rome and modern day England. Mighty Rome fell because its all-powerful government spent the treasury dry on free food and circuses for the masses as its once powerful armies became weak and impotent.

England has fallen from its lofty peak of power because it dealt with Hitler from a position of military weakness to bring about World War II—and then turned to the economic chaos of socialism after the war.

Now America has a choice. Shall our country return to those principals that made it the greatest in man's history or continue on our present path to moral, military and economic decay? Each of us has the sacred right—and duty—to make this choice on November 4th.

Since this very well may be our last choice, lets look at how the men who wish to lead us during the next 4 years stand on the vital issues that will determine our country's future...

IF OUR COUNTRY IS TO SURVIVE, WE HAVE GOT TO HAVE A CHANGE.

Never before has our nation been in such danger. In just 4 years the moral, economic and military foundations of our country have been so weakened that we are now dangerously vulnerable to the selfish desires of our enemies throughout the world. Getting us into wars has been the sad record of Democratic Presidents throughout our history and our present leadership is no exception. Every war that American boys have died in since 1914 has been started during a Democratic Administration.

Program gives migrant children opportunity for college education

EDINBURG, Texas (AP) — Diana Torres recalls the summers of her childhood traveling to California to pick nectarines and peaches with her family of migrant farmworkers.

"I knew all along I wanted out of that," said the second of five children. "All my relatives went too, to the same area. It was like a support system. Out of the eight families that went, ours is the only one not migrating anymore."

Mrs. Torres, 22, came a long way from the peach orchards of California. The McAllen native will earn a master's degree from Pan American University this year and has been accepted to the doctoral program in education at Notre Dame University in South Bend, Ind. She will receive a $15,000 grant to study at Notre Dame.

She is one of many "success stories" among former migrants who credit much of their educational advances to a program begun in 1972 to help migrant students attend college.

The College Assistance Migrant Program is a federally-funded service operating at three colleges across the country to help migrant freshmen with financial, scholastic and social needs.

Other programs are at Adams State College in Alamosa, Colo., and St. Edwards University in Austin.

Pan American is located in Hidalgo County, one of four counties that make up the lower Rio Grande Valley, home base for the nation's largest community of migrant farmworkers.

The U.S. Labor Department counts 144,332 migrant and seasonal farmworkers in the Valley and 496,000 in Texas.

Mexican-Americans make up 85 percent of the Valley and account for probably the entire migrant community.

The average per capita income for the McAllen-Pharr-Edinburg area was $4,323 in the latest U.S. Commerce Department report, the lowest for a metropolitan area in the country.

Dr. Lucas Hinojosa, CAMP director at Pan American, says families of students in the program average four children and two parents. They generally close up their houses three to four months a year and head for work in the Midwest and Northwest.

Local public schools have special migrant programs to accommodate the families who generally leave the area in April and don't return until after school starts in the fall.

However, college students cannot afford to miss classes.

"We sometimes have to convince the parent to leave the child in college or to return home by Aug. 22," he said. "It's very hard to break into the Mexican-American migrant family. They want 100 percent total supervision of their children. But once we tap into the family, it follows suit."

To qualify for one of the 150 camp spaces, a student's family must have migrated in the last 18 months and earn up to 50 percent of its income from farm work.

The total family income must be below poverty level, which is considered $8,400 for a farm family of six.

Students must be high school graduates, meet regular entrance requirements and be citizens or have a permanent visa.

They receive a $500 stipend and their financial needs are met by a combination of sources from CAMP and the university financial aid office.

Only freshmen participate in CAMP, but after a student's first year the university often picks up the bill for a camp student.

Hinojosa says the program concentrates on retaining students. It started with 67 percent retention rate and is up to 86 percent now.

This year, 80 percent of CAMP students commute while the rest live in university dorms. They are recruited at 34 South Texas high schools.

Program participants averaged a 2.3 grade point compared to 1.93 for other freshmen. CAMP students must attend tutoring and counseling sessions and are watched for progress by Hinojosa.

The program has an annual funding at Pan American of $369,000.

Maria Elene Torres is a 19-year-old freshman from Crystal City. Her family migrated to North Dakota to harvest beets for three months a year. Back in Texas, her father worked at odd jobs three or four days a week if he could find employment.

Pickle autograph party to be held Nov. 15-16

Third quarter meeting of officers and trustees of Heritage Museum was held at the museum, Thursday at which Frances Wheat, president, presided.

Mrs. Wheat appointed a nominating committee consisting of Janell Davis, John L. Taylor and Mary Nell Mansfield.

Teachers, Mrs. James Fryer and Mrs. Judy Nichols.

Out-of-town guests visiting the museum with their hosts recently included:

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Fryrear of Haxton, Colo., visiting their son, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Fryrear, Jr., of the US Experiment Station.

Katherine and Cynthia Courcier, La Hubra, Calif., visiting her niece, Margaret Cooper.

Mrs. Gladys Green of Kosciuska, Miss., visiting her cousins, Mary Underwood and Emily Pike.

Opal Coleman, Nocona, Tex. visiting her daughter, Carol Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Peyton Reavis, Tucson, Ariz., visiting her sister, Mary Crawford.

Plans were discussed for an autograph party for Joe Pickle, author of "Gettin' Started," history of early Big Spring, which the museum had published, according to Frances Wheat, president. Dates of the autograph party will be Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 15 and 16, from 1 to 5 p.m.

Curator Gerri Atwell's third quarter activities report reflects a brisk flow of traffic from out of state and Texas visitors, as well as local people. Total number of visitors for the third quarter was 4,234, bringing this year's total to date to 11,535.

Recent new and renewal membership for 1981 are: Mr. and Mrs. K. L. Hart, Twila Lomax, Alma George, Virgie Boardman, Austin, Allene Rollins, Austin, Chelsea Taroni, Sue Read, Roger Read of New Mexico, and Mr. and Mrs. Tony Taroni.

Eighty first-grader students from Coahoma Elementary School toured the Museum with their

"My parents have always encouraged us and they brought us up to seek more education," said the CAMP student and fourth of eight children.

Miss Torres, a law enforcement major, says her father particularly wants his children to have a better life than that of a migrant.

NRA Endorses Reagan: A Reagan Victory Equals Gun Owner Victory

For the first time in our 109-year history, the National Rifle Association is formally endorsing a candidate for the Presidency of the United States — a candidate totally committed to the principles which form the common bond of our 1.8 million members. That man is Ronald Reagan.

Very clearly, Governor Reagan — a long-time member of NRA — shares our fervent belief in the absolute meaning of the Second Amendment of the U.S. Constitution: that the Right to Keep and Bear Arms applies to the individual citizen, and that it is a right inviolate, which cannot be abridged.

The hallmark of Ronald Reagan's Administration as Governor of California was the return of the reins of government to the citizens — to the people. He is a man of deep personal conviction to government based on the very principle that it should serve the people, and serve at the pleasure of the people — that a government which is master over the people has no place in America.

But one man alone is not enough. Ronald Reagan, as he did as Governor, will bring with him men and women in government who share equally in that belief — in that common principle. The combination of a belief in the people's right to keep and bear arms, and in the right of citizens to be free from the bondage of an oppressive government will be for us a new beginning.

Perhaps uniquely — better than any other single class of citizens — NRA members and the nation's firearms owners — have felt the full force of government which is beyond the control of the people. Especially during the past four years we have been victimized by an arrogant Federal bureaucracy rejecting the right of individual citizens to own and use firearms for lawful purposes.

We have spent millions of our dollars — your contributed dollars — just to curb the excesses of small men hidden in Jimmy Carter's government — small men whom no one elected, small men with immense power.

With a Ronald Reagan Administration — those small men, those invisible bureaucrats will no longer be allowed to corrupt the law to their own ends, or to use our tax dollars against us!

With a Reagan Administration, we will see the end of the abusive practices of the Federal gun police — the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms. That is Governor Reagan's commitment.

With a Reagan Administration, we will see wholehearted support for the legislative effort to remove the onerous provisions of the Gun Control Act of 1968 — a law which has spawned the BATF abuses of the past four years and done nothing to limit crime. That is Governor Reagan's commitment.

With a Reagan Administration, we will see a Justice Department which will pursue and prosecute those in government who abuse citizens for the political ends of "gun control." That is Governor Reagan's commitment.

With a Reagan Administration, we will see a Department of Interior once more dedicated to the rights of hunters and to the key role of hunters in sound wildlife management. That is Governor Reagan's commitment.

Our people in California know what a Reagan Administration means first hand. As Governor, Mr. Reagan received the coveted "Outstanding Public Service" award from the California Rifle and Pistol Association, for his efforts in furtherance of firearms owners rights.

A Reagan Administration — a Reagan Presidency — is a must for the nation's firearms owners and hunters!

Especially for the membership of the National Rifle Association of America, a Reagan Administration is a must.

But to elect this staunchly pro-gun rights and pro-hunting Administration and an equally pro-gun rights, pro-hunting Congress will take a massive effort on the part of the NRA membership. It will take your vote — the votes of your families, friends and neighbors.

It will take an NRA led grass roots movement of unprecedented magnitude and dedication.

It will take your dollars, to the NRA Institute for Legislative Action and to the NRA Political Victory Fund.

To make the political possibilities of 1980, political reality, only one critical factor must be present. You. The individual member of the NRA.

If you are not registered to vote, do so.

If you have not volunteered your time to the Reagan-Bush campaign, do so.

We cannot allow this opportunity to slip by; each of us must be fully involved this year. And most important — vote as if your gun rights depend upon it. They do!

Riding Reagan's coattail

Slagle labels Republican claims as wishful thinking

By DANA PALMER
Harris-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — As far as Texas Republicans are concerned, Ronald Reagan's presidential style is especially fashionable this election year.

But whether the state's various GOP candidates, including District 77 House candidate E.L. "Ed" Hicks of Denver City, can ride his conservative coattails into offices long-held by Democrats is anything but certain.

Hicks is running against incumbent state Rep. Jim D. Rudd of Brownfield.

Hicks' campaign is not considered one Republicans can count on, GOP officials say, and has not been targeted for a special effort by the party.

Democratic state chairman Bob Slagle of Southmayd says his party slipped up in 1978 by failing to turn out. That allowed Bill Clements to become the state's first Republican governor in more than a century.

Republican state chairman Chester Upham of Mineral Wells says he expects Tuesday's election to end in many GOP victories, including Reagan's.

The coattail effect, he says, will be evident, but it won't come because of Reagan's personal popularity or because he is a Republican, but because he is a conservative.

Along with a Reagan win, he says, will come the election of Republicans to a minimum of two more U.S. House seats, three additional posts in the Texas Senate and at least nine new seats in the state House.

Currently, there are four Republicans and 20 Democrats in Texas' congressional delegation, four Republicans and 27 Democrats in the Texas Senate and 26 Republicans and 124 Democrats in the Texas House.

Upham says his victory predictions are conservative: Republicans could end up with as many as 50 seats in the Texas House, 11 in the state Senate and eight in the U.S. House after Tuesday's general election.

Of Upham's boasts, Democrat Slagle says, "There's an old fisherman's saying that the first liar doesn't have a chance."

But long-time Democratic party coordinator Dwayne Holman of Austin acknowledges that in the legislative races, "Mostly, we're really concentrating on holding what we've got."

In past presidential elections, many conservatives voted Republican in the top race and Democratic in most of the other races, party officials on both sides acknowledge.

This year, however, Republicans expect that conservatives drawn to the polls to vote for Reagan also will vote Republican in state and local races.

Slagle, too, says he expects some coattail effect, though not substantial.

If his party's turnout is moderate to heavy, most Democratic candidates will have no problem winning, he says.

But Upham contends more people appear ready to vote their political philosophy rather than party label, with conservative Democrats and Republicans voting for conservative Republican candidates.

Though Republicans are a numerical minority, traditionally a higher percentage of party's numbers go to the polls.

And Upham says the turnout of Republicans and Reagan supporters will be enhanced by the party's intensive use of telephone banks in more than 30 Texas cities.

He predicts the turnout will be heavy — as high as 4.25 million or about 61 percent of the registered voters in Texas.

His reason: heavy absentee voting.

"The absentee box usually goes to us and I agree that's a good omen," Upham says, "but then we have a lot of funny things going on this year and we'll just have to wait and see how things go."

Slagle's prediction of an insignificant coattail effect is bolstered by a recent poll predicting that a majority of Reagan voters are not likely to vote a straight Republican ballot.

According to the poll Democrats and independents who vote for Reagan out of disenchantment with President Carter will then switch back to Democratic candidates.

The key then to legislative and congressional victories by either side will be turnout of party regulars, both Slagle and Upham say.

"That's the whole race — a function of turnout," Slagle says.

In close races, including the Carter-Reagan battle for the state's 26 electoral votes, Slagle adds, "If we have a light turnout, we'll lose. I really believe that."

Upham says, "Slagle's going to be working on turning out his troops, but he's not going to be working as hard as we are."

The Republican chairman contends that Democratic leaders are not working as hard as in years past because "they're not interested in Carter." Democrats are losing key people, Upham says, and having a hard time attracting volunteers and organizing get-out-the vote drives.

The GOP has designated eight congressional races as ones they might win.

The Democrats, in turn, have targeted the Houston-area congressional seat now held by Republican Ron Paul of Lake Jackson. Slagle says Democrat Mike Andrews of Houston has a good chance of taking it away.

Upham predicts easy reelection of Paul and the state's three other Republican congressmen — Bill Archer of Houston, Jim Bradshaw, going against House Majority Leader Jim Wright of Fort Worth, and Tom Pauken of Mesquite, battling Rep. Jim Mattox of Dallas.

Slagle labels those claims as wishful thinking, especially as regards the Bradshaw-Wright race.

taking on liberal Rep. Bob Eckhardt of Houston; Jim Collins of Dallas and Tom Loeffler of Hunt.

"We'll also take two to three, minimum, of the U.S. House seats now held by Democrats," he says.

Upham identified the possible GOP winners as Jack Fields of Humble,

Alabama streak ends in loss to Bulldogs

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Sophomore Dana Moore kicked two second-half field goals and the Mississippi State Bulldogs rode an inspired defense to a 6-3 upset of top-ranked Alabama Saturday, ending college football's longest winning streak at 28.

The Crimson Tide waged a desperation drive to rescue victory in the waning moments, moving to the Bulldog 3, but defensive end Billy Jackson preserved the triumph by recovering quarterback Don Jacobs' fumble.

Moore kicked field goals of 37 yards in the third quarter and 22 yards early in the last period as the Bulldogs handed Alabama its first defeat since a 24-14 loss to Southern California in 1978.

Alabama scored only on Peter Kim's 49-yard field goal as time ran out in the first half and fell to 7-1 for the season, 3-1 in the Southeastern Conference.

Mississippi State improved its record to 7-2 and 3-1 in the SEC as representatives of five bowls watched the shocker.

Arizona shocks UCLA

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Defensive tackle Mike Robinson sacked quarterback Tom Ramsey in the end zone for a safety with 1:32 remaining to help give Arizona a 23-17 upset victory over previously unbeaten, second-ranked UCLA Saturday afternoon.

Robinson's tackle came after Arizona punter Sergio Vega put UCLA on its own 20-yard line with less than two minutes remaining.

Tech KO's Longhorns

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Quarterback Ron Reeves' passing and free safety Ted Watts' 34-yard interception return staked Texas Tech to an early 24-0 lead and the Red Raiders clung tenaciously to it to upset No. 12 ranked Texas Saturday 24-20 in a wild Southwest Conference football game.

The victory upped Texas Tech's season record to 4-3 and evened its conference mark at 2-2. The Longhorns dropped to 5-2 for the year, 2-2 in league play.

The final score was what the scoreboard read at halftime as the two teams took turns steamrolling each other.

Texas Tech scored 17 first-quarter points in an explosion that used only 4:06 on the clock. Reeves scored on a 2-yard run, Watts made his big defensive play for a score, and John Greve kicked a 31-yard field goal.

Wes Hightower scored on a 1-yard run early in the second quarter for what proved to be the Red Raiders' winning points.

Texas' 20-point second period rally was triggered by backup quarterback Rick McIvor. After Johnny Jam Jones ran a yard for a touchdown, McIvor hit tight end Lawrence Sampleton on a 56-yard scoring bomb. Field goals of 42 and 39 yards by barefoot John Goodson narrowed Tech's lead to just four points at halftime.

The second half was spiced with big defensive plays. Texas' Bobby Johnson intercepted a Tech pass on his own 10-yard line and the Red Raiders' Tate Randle returned the favor at the Tech 10 late in the game.

Baylor loses gimme

WACO, Texas (AP) — Gerald Willhite spurred for touchdown runs of two and six yards in the fourth quarter Saturday as San Jose State upset 10th-ranked Baylor 30-22, spoiling the Bear's bid for a perfect season.

Baylor, off to its best start in 81 years with a 7-0 record entering the game, grabbed a 15-0 lead in the intersectional game early in the second quarter. Dennis Gentry opened the scoring with a 12-yard touchdown run. Mike Fisher made a fingertip grab of a 41-yard scoring pass and Tim Strong kicked a 22-yard field goal.

Quarterback Steve Clarkson, out of action since he broke his collarbone on Oct. 4, returned to guide San Jose to all of its points in less than three quarters of playing time.

Baylor trailed 16-15 at the end of three quarters, but took the lead on a 14-yard scoring run by freshman Alfred Anderson.

San Jose, aided by a 15-yard roughing the kicker penalty on fourth down, drove 70 yards for the go-ahead touchdown, which Willhite scored on a 2-yard dive.

SMU whips A&M

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Southern Methodist converted two long punt returns by cornerback John Simmons and two blocked kicks into a 20-0 lead and the 19th-ranked Mustangs went on to defeat Texas A&M Saturday in a regionally televised game.

Linebacker Byron Hunt opened the SMU scoring in the first quarter by blocking a punt and taking it 59 yards for a touchdown.

Moments later, Simmons shocked the Texas Stadium crowd of 41,289 with a 66-yard punt return for a touchdown.

For the day, Simmons returned 3 punts for 122 yards, including a 53-yard scamper that set up Eddie Garcia's 53-yard field goal.

Simmons also blocked an A&M field goal try, and Hunt ran 51 yards with a loose ball to set up a 28-yard field goal.

Freshman Lance McIlhenny, who engineered SMU's 20-6 upset of Texas a week ago, got his second straight start. Mitchell Bennett's leaping catch of McIlhenny's 5-yard pass in the fourth quarter wrapped up the scoring for the Mustangs.

The victory raised SMU's record to 6-2 for the season and 3-2 in Southwest Conference play. A&M dropped to 2-6 and 1-4.

This is the first time in eight years that the Aggies have lost four straight games.

The Aggies played without free safety Mike Mosley and starting tackle Tim Ward. The players, who are roommates, missed bed check Thursday night.

Houston, which won its fourth straight game, now is 5-3 for the season and 4-1 in the SWC going into Saturday's showdown against the Texas Longhorns. TCU dropped to 0-8 for the season and 0-4 in the SWC.

Cards impressed with new Cowboys

ST. LOUIS (AP) — You really can't blame the St. Louis Cardinals if they're worried about what legend-dominant to expect next from Danny White's bag of tricks.

The San Diego Chargers momentarily forgot about the fifth-year Dallas quarterback's sleight of hand last week. Partially as a result, the Cowboys emerged with a 42-31 triumph which kept their National Football League division title hopes burning brightly.

"Danny White has really matured," St. Louis Coach Jim Hanifan said of the 28-year-old successor to all-time Dallas quarterbacking great Roger Staubach.

"I think Tom Landry and his coaches were pretty well convinced of this," Hanifan said. "When Landry had made the statement that he's the smartest quarterback that he's had, that takes in a pretty wide group."

Hanifan said he was impressed not only by White's runs of 19 and 12 yards off fake punts against San Diego but also by other facets of the Cowboys' performance as well.

"For the most part, they were able to give White the time he needed," the Cards' coach said of pass blocking by members of the Dallas offensive line. "They still play fine defense. They're just tougher than all get-out to run the ball against."

Landry, the Cowboys' head coach, agreed in principle with what Hanifan said.

"I feel good about things, because we had so far to come," he said of a team which has been forced to rebuild its secondary. "The defense especially is making the plays and gaining confidence. And a lot of young players like (Timmy) Newsome and (James) Jones are playing well and developing."

Walker runs for 219 in Dog win

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — Freshman whiz Herschel Walker, bottled up for most of the first half, bolted 76 of his game-high 219 yards for a touchdown on the third play of the third quarter to give Georgia some breathing room and the unbeaten, fourth-ranked Bulldogs held on Saturday for a 13-10 college football victory over No. 14 South Carolina.

Walker's long-distance gallop came with startling suddenness and made him the 13th freshman in NCAA history to run for 1,000 yards and enabled him to capture his ballyhooed nationally televised rushing duel with South Carolina's senior star, George Rogers.

USC scores 60 for 27 in a row

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tailback Marcus Allen rushed for 137 yards and two touchdowns and quarterback Gordon Adams threw for 154 yards and two more scores Saturday as seventh-ranked Southern California mauled California 60-7 in a Pacific-10 Conference football game.

Southern Cal, which tied a 47-year-old school mark by running its unbeaten string to 27 games, broke open the contest with a pair of touchdowns in the second quarter that snapped a 7-7 tie.

The Trojans raised their Pac-10 record to 3-0-1 and their overall mark to 6-0-1. Cal is 2-3 in league play and 2-6 on the season.

Cornhuskers romp

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Jarvis Redwine, scoring on the first two Nebraska possessions of the game, rushed for 129 yards to lead the ninth-ranked Huskers to a 38-16 victory over 15th-ranked Missouri Saturday.

The loss knocked the Tigers out of a share of the Big Eight Conference lead.

Missouri coughed up the ball in the game's opening series and Nebraska's Toby Williams pounced on Tony Hill's fumble at the Tiger 26.

Redwine scampered the final 15 yards for a 7-0 Nebraska lead with 12:20 left in the opening quarter. When Nebraska got the ball back, the senior 1-back rolled for an 18-yard touchdown run with 7:25 left in the first period.

The victory gave Nebraska a 4-0 league mark, 7-1 overall, and a half-game lead over 3-0 Oklahoma in Big Eight play. Missouri dropped to 3-1 in the conference and 6-2 overall.

Rice dramatics in 4th quarter stuns Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Left-footed Kenneth Sam kicked a 31-yard field goal with 21 seconds left in the game as Rice scored all its points in the fourth quarter and upset Arkansas 17-16 Saturday night.

Sam's winning field goal came five plays after David England blocked Steve Cox's punt and the Owls took over at the Arkansas 39.

The field goal completed an incredible Randy Hertle comeback by the Owls, who were behind 16-0 less than two minutes deep in the third quarter.

The Owls made only one first down in the first half behind freshman quarterback Doug Johnson and then switched to Hertle, a senior, who is a passing specialist.

Arkansas, with freshman Bill Pierce making his first start at quarterback, took few chances offensively in the second half and made only one first down in the final two periods.

Hertle and Bobby Williams hooked up on a third down pass play that netted 16 yards in the Owls first touchdown drive.

Moments later, Mark Mistler and James Tolbert missed connections on a handoff and Rice noseman

Kyle Rice recovered at the Arkansas 34.

Mike Firestone made two excellent catches, one for 18 yards and one for nine and, on third and two, Hertle tossed to Hosea Fortune for a touchdown that made it 16-14 with 5:40 left in the game.

The loss was the first for a Lou Holtz-coached team in Little Rock after 13 straight victories.

Denver gears for Campbell wow! BYU wins, 83-6

DENVER (AP) — It was no coincidence that during practices this week the Denver Broncos had a player dressed up in a blue jersey with No. 34 on it who was attracting considerable attention every time he carried the ball and who was continually referred to as "Earl."

The Houston Oilers' Earl Campbell wears No. 34, and Denver Coach Red Miller wanted to get his defense accustomed to seeing the number and reacting appropriately.

Campbell and the Oilers (5-3) visit Mile High Stadium Sunday for a National Football League game against the Broncos (4-4).

The Broncos have been preoccupied this week in devising a means of containing Campbell, who has topped 200 yards rushing in his past two games and has a chance to become the first player in NFL history to do it in three straight games.

"To stop a great runner like Campbell, you need good pursuit, lane discipline and good hitting," said Miller. "We want a lot of folks around him. We don't want him to break one on us."

But despite the ploy of dressing up fullback Larry Canada, who is on injured reserve, as a Campbell lookalike this week, the Broncos are fully aware that you can get burned if you concentrate all your attention on one player.

"We think Houston is improved with Ken Stabler at quarterback, and we obviously have to be concerned about him, too," said

Miller. "Stabler fits in perfectly with their style of offense. He has quite a guy to hand off to, and he likes to use the run to set up the play-action pass, which he does so well."

Denver linebacker Randy Gradishar says his job this week "is to tackle the guy with the ball, whoever he is. We never key on one player. We must play a sharp mental game and not make mistakes. We especially don't want to make a mistake against Stabler. If we do, we may as well mark off a big play."

The Broncos had more success than most teams at stopping Campbell in last year's wild-card playoff game. Campbell gained just 50 yards on 13 carries before sitting out the second half with a groin injury.

DeLos Santos 27th, Ismael Carillo 30th and Fred Lopez 31st.

Britton was very pleased with the Big Spring runners. "We've never had a team perform as well," he said. "Of course, we're disappointed that we didn't finish any higher, but with a couple of things happening differently we could've very easily have been fourth."

"The performance was super," he continued. "This is the youngest team in the district, and I think we could be very tough next year."

San Angelo wins 5-5A cross-country

SAN ANGELO — As expected, the San Angelo Central Bobcats easily won the District 5-AAAAA cross-country championship here Saturday morning, scoring an impressive 36 points in running away from the field.

Odessa Permian was second in the competition with 73 points, followed by Odessa High with 76, Midland with 106, Midland Lee with 113, Big Spring with 115 and Abilene Cooper with 157.

Abilene didn't field enough for a team in the cross-country affair, which was run on the three-mile course in San Angelo's Santa Fe Park.

Big Spring was paced by Karl Wolfe, who finished 10th in the individual competition with a time of 16:04. That is was run on the three-mile 41 seconds faster than his previous best.

The next Steer was Curtis Harrison in 23rd with a time of 16:50. That's over a minute from his previous best.

James Hodges was 25th with a 16:56. Calderon 26th at 17:00, and Tim McNamara 31st with a 17:41. Other BSHS varsity runners not placing were Mark Hitt and Rudy Hilario, who finished 37th and 41st, respectively.

Hilario is the only Big Spring senior on the cross-country team.

The top individual in the meet was Lee's Robert Schuler, who blazed to a time of 14:35. He and the other top five individuals, as well as Central and Permian, will advance into state competition.

OH5 won the JV competition with 23 points. Central was second with 36, followed by Permian with 93, Big Spring with 106 and Midland with 118. Both Abilene schools and Lee didn't field JV teams.

Brent Crenweige was Big Spring's top JV performer, finishing 13th. Mike Dutcher came in 15th, with Junior Garcia 21st, Johnny

Permian stays perfect in shutout over Lee

MIDLAND — The Odessa Permian Panther defense continued with their amazing ways, stopping the potent Midland Lee running attack cold in taking a 13-0 win in a 5-A-A-A-A game here Friday night.

The win allowed Permian to up their season mark to 8-0 and their 5-A-A-A-A record to 5-0. They have shut out seven of their eight opponents thus far.

Lee, meanwhile, fell to 2-2-1 in district play and 4-3-1 on the year.

Permian struck on their opening drive, marching 70 yards for a score. Philip Crane got the honor on a 30-yard jaunt, with Roy Dunn booting the PAT.

Permian increased the margin to 10-0 later in the opening stanza when Dunn booted a 30-yard field goal.

Lee's defense held for the most part the remainder of the way, with Permian's final three points coming in the second period on a 36-yard Dunn field goal.

Lee, who entered the game with the leading rushing team in 5-A-A-A-A managed only five first downs and 87 yards rushing. They had 129 total yards.

Permian rolled for only 12 first downs themselves, and amassed 265 total yards against the stingy Lee team.

OHS stays alive despite torrid Bulldog rally

ODESSA — Odessa High used two touchdowns from Duane Conklin and Greg Adams and then withstood a furious fourth quarter Midland rally to emerge with a 25-21 win in an important District 5-A-A-A-A game here Friday night.

The victory allows OHS to remain in the title chase with a 4-1 league mark. The Bronchos are 7-1 on the season.

The loss ended any hopes of a district title for Midland, who fell to 3-2 in district and 5-3 on the year.

Both offenses moved the ball throughout the contest, as the stats were nearly even. Midland had 257 yards rushing and 158 passing for 415 total yards, while OHS managed 251 rushing and 146 passing for 397 total yards.

OHS scored twice in the first period for a 13-0 lead, and held a 19-7 advantage at halftime.

Adams ran 34 yards in the third quarter to give the Bronchos a 25-7 lead, but Midland came back to make things interesting.

Quarterback Michael Feldt, who passed for two touchdowns, connected with 250-pound tight end Wade Johnson on a four-yard scoring toss to narrow the OHS lead to 25-13, and then ran one yard for the final touchdown of the game.

Odessa must now get past Big Spring next Saturday night to set up their season ending showdown with Odessa Permian for the district title.

Abilene hands Bobcats 8th straight defeat

SAN ANGELO — Quarterback Loyal Proffitt ran for one touchdown and passed for another in leading the Abilene Eagles to a 26-14 win over the hapless San Angelo Central Bobcats in a District 5-A-A-A-A game here Friday night.

The win was the second in five starts for the Eagles, and evens their season record at 4-4. San Angelo is winless in eight starts.

The Bobcats scored first when Steve Yafbrogh ran in from the 15, but the PAT failed, leaving the host team with a 6-0 lead.

But Abilene came back to take the lead in the second period on a safety and a 34-yard pass from Proffitt to Eddie Davis. Ken Hall's PAT gave the Eagles a 9-6 lead.

Abilene then scored 17 points in the next two periods before San Angelo could tally their final touchdown late in the game.

The Eagles rolled up 22 first downs and 338 total yards in the game, while Central managed 13 first downs and 201 total yards.

Need some money? Go to Hawk game

The money will be up for grabs, literally, this Thursday night when the Howard College Hawks open their 1980-81 basketball season against the McMurry JV's at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

The theme for both the Hawks and Hawk Queens this year will be "Hawk Hysteria," and Thursday night's money giveaway will no doubt create interest for more than the basketball fans.

At halftime, one person from the audience will be selected after a drawing to participate in the fun. The lucky person selected will stand in the middle of the court. Ten Howard College students representing the cheerleaders, ball girls and SGA, will distribute money in one dollar amounts around the person.

The person will then have 10 seconds in which to collect as much money as possible. The entire activity will last seven to eight minutes, and promises to be lucrative to the person with the lucky number.

The sponsor for the event is Big Spring Savings President Ray Don Williams, an avid Howard College basketball supporter.

New Home explodes past Garden City

GARDEN CITY — Danny Estrada and Mickey McClintock combined for five touchdowns to lead the New Home Leopards to a copvincing 35-7 win over the Garden City Bearkats and ruin the Homecoming festivities Friday night.

Estrada, who scored three touchdowns, rambled for a pair of them in the first stanza to give the visitors all of the points that they would need. Both were one-yard runs. McClintock, who also booted all five PATs, converted after both for a 14-0 New Home lead.

Garden City came back in the second period for their only touchdown on a six-yard jaunt by Scottie Hillger. Hillger also booted the PAT to narrow the New Home lead to 14-7.

But McClintock ran over from the six before halftime to put the Leopards back on the winning road.

Estrada rambled 43 yards for a touchdown in the third period, and McClintock ran in from the four later in the period to ice the game.

The win boosts the New Home record to 5-2-2 on the

Cooper Cougars impressive in big win over Steers

Shotwell Stadium not the place for BSHS Steers, Herald writer

By NATHAN POSS

ABILENE — Shotwell Stadium proved to be a most bullying place for both the Big Spring Steers and their local sportswriter here Friday night in a District 5-A-A-A-A game, with both visiting groups no doubt wishing they had never made the trip at all.

Just before kickoff, Big Spring Sports Editor Nathan Poss was not only denied access to the press box, but the inside of the stadium, as well.

He proceeded to chart the game from the top of his car on the north end of the stadium overlooking the bowled arena, frustrated by the ridiculous and inhospitable Abilene Athletic Department run by Shorty Lawson.

Meanwhile, Cooper Coach Ray Overton unleashed an impressive offense sparked by junior running back Oscar Riggins in wearing down the Big Spring Steers by a score of 42-13 on the cold

Friday night.

It was an offensive show from the start, as Cooper took the opening kickoff and drove 58 yards in 11 plays, with senior quarterback Lanny Dycus passing six yards to Riggins on play action for the game's first score with just under four minutes gone. Mike Stills booted the first of his six perfect conversions.

But Big Spring's offense came out charging, and gave Steer Coach Ralph Harris something he has been looking for lately, a ball control drive which results in a touchdown.

The Steers, with Tracy Spence operating superbly, drove 80 yards in 14 plays to achieve paydirt. Spence started the drive by passing 23 yards to Tony Kennedy, and the visitors were in motion.

Spence maneuvered for 19 yards and first down at the Cooper 25 to keep the drive going, and seven plays later scored from the six.

The Steer junior quarterback faked the ball to Bobby Earl Williams on a fourth and one on the scoring play, and then went untouched into the end zone on the first play of the second stanza. Edward Vela booted the PAT to tie the game at 7-7.

But Cooper's impressive offensive machine scored on their next two possessions to take complete control of the contest, although the Steers never quit fighting to the end.

Halfback Scott Reedy scored the go ahead touchdown in the second stanza for the Cougars on a six-yard run, and Riggins romped in from the four with less than four minutes to play in the half for a 21-7 lead.

Big Spring, with both Spence and mini-mite Todd Darden operating at quarterback, moved to the Cooper 23 at the end of the first half, but ran out of gas at that point.

The Steer ground game looked better than it had in weeks in the loss, even though the Cooper defense was keying on Williams. BSHS accumulated 266 yards rushing on the night, but could not dent the Cooper secondary enough on the occasions they needed aerial yardage.

The Steers held Cooper on their first possession of the second half, and had Dycus pinned for an apparent loss on a fourth and one from the Cougar 46 late in the third stanza.

But Dycus pitched while falling, and Riggins made an excellent one handed catch of the somewhat wild toss and rambled 27 yards into Steer territory at the 27.

Three plays later Riggins raced 22 yards to paydirt, and Stills' PAT boot gave Cooper a 28-7 advantage and all but iced the contest.

With the Steer defense tiring due to the numerous two-way starters, Cooper scored again early in the fourth quarter. It was Riggins again, this time churning 23 of his game high 183 yards to achieve the score and a 35-7 Cougar lead.

Big Spring came right back, as junior halfback Richard Evans raced 73 yards for a touchdown to narrow the Cooper lead to 35-13.

Cooper counted for one more touchdown, and in the process displayed their enormous amount of depth, with 210-pound sophomore runningback Jimmy Cossabone leading the Cougars. Brad Morrison, the leading receiver in 5-A-A-A-A, moved to what will probably be his position next year, quarterback, and scored the game's final TD with just over five minutes remaining.

The win allowed Cooper to maintain an ever increasingly slim hope at the 5-A-A-A-A title. They are 3-1-1 in league play and 6-1-1 on the year. But they still trail Odessa Permian by a game and a half with only two to play.

Big Spring, meanwhile, dropped their fifth straight league game. The Steers are 2-6 on the year.

The Steers were led in the rushing department by Evans, who had 121 yards on eight carries. And Williams, despite special attention from the Cougars, ran hard for another 83 yards on 17 carries, while Spence managed a personal high of 62 on 20 attempts.

Big Spring returns to action next Saturday night, at which time they visit the Odessa High Bronchos.

As Crane hangs on for 26-21 win

Two minute span costs Coahoma 6-AAA opener

COAHOMA — The Crane Golden Cranes scored 20 points within a span of just two minutes late in the second quarter here Friday night to stun the Coahoma Bulldogs by a 26-21 count in the District 6-AAA opener for both schools.

Coahoma outplayed their counterparts for most of the contest, but the horrendous span just before the halftime proved to spell defeat for the Big Red Machine.

The loss puts Coahoma in a must win situation going into their final two games of the season. If they can win both of their contests, against Denver City and Seminole, they still will have a very good chance of entering the state playoffs. The Bulldogs are now 2-5-1 on the season.

Crane, meanwhile, is now tied with Denver City for the 6-AAA lead. Denver City took advantage of seven Seminole turnovers to take a 9-0 win.

Coahoma got on the scoreboard first when Manuel Martinez raced 17 yards to paydirt with 8:20 left in the first half. Robert Walker booted the PAT.

But Crane exploded shortly after, with the first TD coming on a two-yard run by quarterback Daryl Burton. The touchdown was set up on a 25-yard pass to the Coahoma two. The PAT by Johnny Gonzales knotted the game at 7-7.

Coahoma returned the ensuing kickoff to the 30, but fumbled on their first play from scrimmage, with Crane recovering.

The Golden Cranes then drove for the go ahead touchdown, which happened when Johnny Sanchez bolted over from the 13. The PAT was good with 1:23 left in the half.

Disaster continued for Coahoma on their first play from scrimmage after receiving the kickoff at their own 35. With quarterback Philip Ritchey in the spread (shotgun) position, the Coahoma center snapped the ball over his head. He retrieved the pigskin at the outside kick, but fumbled under pressure, with Crane recovering at the Bulldog one.

Brian Cunningham ran in from that point with 1:09 left in the half. The PAT failed, and Crane had a 20-7 half-time lead.

Coahoma fought back in the third stanza, as the Big Red Machine drove 65 yards to score, with Clint Elliott getting the honors on a four-yard jaunt. Walker's kick was true and Crane had only a 20-14 lead.

Early in the final stanza, Crane threw a "Hail Mary" pass deep. Both the Crane receiver and the Coahoma defender latched on to the pigskin at the two, but the offensive player was awarded the ball on the tie goes to the offense ruling.

Shortly after, Sanchez ran in from the two, with Gonzales' kick giving Crane a 27-14 lead with 7:14 to play.

But Ritchey, with the help of a kickoff return to the 45 passes. But many of his aeriels were dropped.

Others playing well offensively included tackles Tracy Van Ness and Reagan Brooks, as well as fullback Chubby Abrego and flanker Ken Henson.

The leading tackler for the Coahoma defense was 135-pound tackle Mike Ripard. Tommy Joe Shirley also excelled defensively.

The Coahoma coaching staff mentioned heavy praise for the efforts of Austin Hale

Sands hangs on for exciting 8-6 victory

WILSON — The Sands Mustangs played it just about as close as you can in taking an exciting 8-6 win over the Wilson Mustangs in a District 3-A (West Zone) battle here Friday night.

Sands had scored with just over three minutes remaining in the contest on a Shayne Wigington to Dennis Martin pass to break the scoreless defensive battle. They then lined up to try for a one-point conversion, but Albert Ybarra faked it and threw to Martin in the end zone for two points and an 8-0 Sands lead.

But Wilson's Randy Hall put his crew back as time was running out, taking a Sands punt and racing 45 yards for a touchdown with only 21 seconds remaining in the hard fought game.

The Wilson team then went to Hall again on a sweep, but the Sands defense rose to the occasion and stopped the play cold, allowing themselves to escape with an 8-6 win.

Sands had taken the opening kickoff and driven inside the Wilson 10 for their closest penetration other than the Martin touchdown catch, but a penalty halted that march.

Wilson had one excellent scoring opportunity late in the first half, as they drove to the Sands three and had a first and goal from that point.

drove for the go ahead touchdown, which happened when Johnny Sanchez bolted over from the 13. The PAT was good with 1:23 left in the half.

Contrast in style

By JIM DAVIS
Harris-Hanks Election Team
AUSTIN — In the last week before the Nov. 4 election, the two campaigns for the Place 4 Texas Supreme Court seat were contrasts in style.

Will Garwood, the Republican incumbent thanks to a gubernatorial appointment to a vacancy, conducted his judicial duties in Austin and made plans to be on two public television meet-the-candidates programs.

C.L. Ray, the Democratic challenger, hopped across East Texas in a private plane, attending small receptions or trying to get the attention of the media in towns such as Paris, Corsicana, Temple, Waxahachie.

"East Texas is my home area and I don't want those folks to think I'm ignoring them," he said. Ray is a justice on the Sixth Court of Civil Appeals at Texarkana and former state representative and county judge from Marshall.

Ray shook more hands. But Garwood undoubtedly presented his message to far more Texans, thanks to the most expensive media campaign in the history of Texas court races.

The Republican candidate's latest campaign finance report shows contributions of $806,065 and expenditures of $787,587 through Oct. 25. During the month prior to that date, Garwood spent $7,720 for advertisements in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram alone.

Ray will spend much less than his opponent. His latest finance report brings his total contributions to $180,226 and his expenditures to $162,191.

WILL GARWOOD

Garwood also has the advantage of bipartisan support from noted attorneys and business leaders across the state. In the State Bar's poll of attorneys on the race, Garwood clobbered Ray with 8,571 votes to 1,925.

But Ray was a different kind of advantage, one that he hopes will make up for his opponent's campaign fund and endorsements: He's a Democrat. He also has the challenger's advantage of attacking his opponent.

Garwood is bucking history and conventional political wisdom by trying to win a Supreme Court seat as a Republican. That's something that hasn't been done since Reconstruction. He has the advantage of incumbency, but it's questionable how effective that is in a judicial race, where many Texans cast their votes with little knowledge about the candidates.

In November general elections, Texans have grown accustomed to seeing names only in the Democratic column. Even this year, five of the seven state wide judicial openings list only Democratic candidates.

Ray has campaigned closely with the Democratic organization attending party rallies across the state.

Garwood, in contrast, plays down his Republican party label. He points out that his father, St. John Garwood, served on the Texas Supreme Court for 11 years as a Democrat.

The Republican candidate stresses his bipartisan support and says that by nature he is non-partisan and judgments should be too.

Using free media as much as possible, Ray has made Garwood's vast wealth the cornerstone of his campaign. He has told news conferences across the state that his opponent owns too many shares of stock that he has a conflict of interest on the Supreme Court.

Ray says Garwood should divest himself of his thousands of shares of stock or resign. Ray says he sold all his stock when he became an appeals court justice 10 years ago.

Those charges have put Garwood on the defensive in the race, forcing him to answer reporters' questions about his wealth when he wants to talk about qualifications and endorsements.

"Qualifications to me are the issue in the race."

Wrong leg amputated

LOS GATOS, Calif. (AP) — The California Board of Medical Quality Assurance is investigating an operation in which a 65-year-old man had the wrong leg amputated.

The wife of the man says she has consulted her attorney about the mistaken amputation.

The patient was to have his right leg amputated because of poor circulation resulting from a diabetic condition, according to officials at Los Gatos Community Hospital.

Instead, the left leg was amputated below the knee during an operation two months ago. After the error was discovered, the right leg was amputated in accord with the original plan.

"We wanted to know what our rights are," the man's wife told a reporter, asking that the couple's name not be divulged. She said a decision on whether to file a lawsuit had not been made.

The medical board, which licenses physicians, was expected to take about a month to complete its investigation, a spokesman said.

Ralph Ross, executive director of the nonprofit, private hospital, declined to say how the mistake was made. He said the operation was performed by Dr. Allan Vishoot, who also declined comment.

On October 14, President Carter signed into law the "Installment Sales Revision Act of 1980."

Of greatest interest to most taxpayers is the elimination of the thirty percent rule (29 percent more commonly used) for receipts in the year of sale. Since the percentage measurement has been eliminated, you can take whatever cash you choose in the year of sale and pay income taxes only to that extent. For example, if you are selling a $100,000 asset and have current year cash needs in excess of $30,000, you are free to satisfy those cash needs and still qualify for the installment reporting privilege.

This portion of the new law is effective for all transactions entered into during the 1980 tax year. If you are on a December year end, any sale during calendar year 1980 qualifies for this new treatment. If you or your company has a fiscal year, this provision is effective for sales during the year in which October 14, 1980 falls.

Under the new law, all installment contracts will have 'automatic' installment treatment privileges unless the taxpayer specifically elects to have all the gain taxed in the year of sale.

Of special interest to owners of small corporations is a more lenient treatment for liquidating certain corporations with installment contracts. Under certain circumstances, the new law provides for the non-recognition of gain when a shareholder exchanges his stock for an installment obligation from his liquidating corporation. A taxpayer will be able to report the gain as the installment proceeds are received, as opposed to triggering all the remaining gain at the date the corporation transfers the installment contract to him.

The new law has many other provisions; taxpayers anticipating property sales should plan in accordance with the new law.

Hospital patients can cast votes this year

One of the healthiest things you can do for yourself, and for America, is to make sure that you vote in the national election Tuesday.

This year, hospital patients who can't get to the polls, and have entered too late to vote regular absentee, will be able to register their vote.

A State Election Code, passed in 1978 but used for the first time in this election, provides a voting process for those admitted to the hospital on or after Oct. 30. A physician's statement that the patient's stay will run after Nov. 4 will be required, as well as a voter's registration.

The Malone-Hogan Volunteers will help patients get their vote in. They will help the patient get a ballot, and see that the proper steps are taken to get the vote registered, according to the new law.

Families can help by seeing that the patient takes their voter registration card with them, when they enter the hospital, or take it to them there.

The Volunteers are working to get out the vote. Party preference is not discussed, and the County Clerk's office is counseling them in the project.

Coordinating the program at Malone-Hogan Hospital is Jo Lipscombe, a past-president of the volunteer organization, and member of the Texas Association of Hospital Auxiliaries Council.

VOTE REPUBLICAN FOR A CHANGE

'Scared Straight -- Another Story' Movie is stark, terrifying

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Scared Straight — Another Story" opens with the same stark, brutal impact as did the Oscar-winning documentary on which it was based.

A cocky young man swaggers into prison only to find that he is like fresh meat being thrown to the lions. His defiance quickly turns to terror when the other inmates start vying for his sexual favors.

A guard, locking him into a cell, tells him, "This ain't prison. This is a room for the night. Prison starts when they open the door and you have to step outside and face them." He throws a thumb toward the inmates outside the cell, howling and whistling.

The youth, dubbed the "Woman of Mystery," is raped repeatedly, and the prisoners swap him about for five packs of cigarettes.

He hangs himself in the prison machine shop, and it's his death that inspires several inmates to organize the "Scared Straight" program for juvenile offenders. Youths are brought to the prison to hear "the facts of life" about prison from hardened inmates in such a brutal and graphic fashion that it literally scares them into going straight.

"Scared Straight — Another Story," to be broadcast Thursday night on CBS, stars Cliff De Young as a probation officer and Stan Shaw as the inmate-organizer of the program.

The original "Scared Straight" documentary, produced by Arnold Shapiro of Golden West Television, told of the highly successful program at Rahway State Prison in New Jersey. The documentary inspired many other similar programs and went on to win an Academy Award.

"We got a call from CBS the morning after it aired," said Shapiro, who also produced the movie and now is in charge of film development for Norman Lear's T.A.T. Communications. "They said they didn't know what we wanted, but that they wanted a movie based on that documentary."

The movie follows three black youths who think they've got the system whipped and a white youth and his girlfriend who are into drugs.

Shapiro, who wears an Oscar tie clasp given him by his parents, said he believes the movie can have an important role in preventing crime.

"This is a totally fictional story," he said. "We wanted to do something different from the documentary. It may have more impact because with a documentary you can only film what happens before your camera."

"But in fiction," he said, "you can tell a story. So in a way the movie is a more comprehensive look at crime and how people deal with prison than the documentary."

Haggard's music of interest

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The songs of country music superstar Merle Haggard, long familiar in taverns and all-night restaurants, now are being heard in the halls of academe.

Armed with his guitar and East Texas twang, Dr. Graves Enck is using Haggard's music as a bridge into the study of sociology at Memphis State University.

Once a week, the Yale-educated Enck, 41, sings Haggard's songs for his continuing education students, pausing frequently to lead discussions about the lyrics.

Haggard's songs, like most country music, are rich in sociological implications. Enck said in a recent interview. There are broken marriages, unrequited love, alcohol, hard times and unfaithful lovers.

"I talk about the song, share with them my imagination of what the scene is and who these characters are," Enck said. "We talk about the possible themes and then I tell the students. 'Now you understand the implications of the song, if you are interested in how sociologists would talk about this, this is the way we do it.'"

Enck, a native of Carthage, Tex., who started out to be a physician and studied for the ministry before taking his degrees in sociology, emphasized that he isn't using music as a gimmick to attract students.

"I never pretend that my competence as a singer or guitar player is the drawing card," he said. "I'm doing what I do with an open apology to Mr. Haggard."

Enck has huge respect for Haggard's work, and he tells his students that they don't belong in the class if they have the idea the course consists merely of listening to records.

"Don't come here if you think we're going to use this guy's music as a soccer ball," he said. "We're studying art and we're studying sociology. ... We're studying Haggard's music in the hope that we can understand the art form, and then talk about it in sociological terms."

Enck became interested in Haggard's music while studying for his doctorate at Yale 10 years ago. Although he has never met the singer-songwriter, he said he has developed a growing interest in what he calls "this marvelous music which merits serious attention."

"A country music artist does his work in three or three-and-a-half minutes," he said. "He doesn't have time to confuse people."

Japanese director has views on film industry

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — During a recent visit to the film capital, Akira Kurosawa demonstrated that he is, like all great filmmakers, uncompromising in his opinions as in his work.

The Japanese director left behind pointed comments about his country's film industry, American remakes of his classics — and "Shogun."

Kurosawa was admittedly tired toward the end of an international tour for the launching of his epic "Kagemusha" ("The Shadow Warrior"), co-winner of the grand prize at the 1980 Cannes Film Festival. His spirit was lifted by a luncheon in his honor.

Before the luncheon, Kurosawa appeared at a press conference and through an interpreter responded frankly to queries.

"Kagemusha," he admitted, "might never have been made except for the intercession of two young American filmmakers, Francis Coppola ("The Godfather") and George Lucas ("Star Wars")."

McQueen will go back to hospital

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Steve McQueen will return "in a few days" to the Mexican clinic he left earlier this week after undergoing three months of cancer treatment, a spokesman for his doctors said Friday.

McQueen, 50, and his wife have been at his ranch in Santa Paula, Calif., since his release from the Plaza Santa Maria Hospital in Baja California, where he was following the nutrition-based program of treatment developed by William D. Kelley of the International Health Institution of Dallas, Texas.

"Dr. Kelley had promised Mr. McQueen he could take some time off if he followed the program at the hospital, that he could go home and take care of things," institution spokesman Ed Haag said in an interview from Dallas. "We expect him back at the hospital in a few days, when he's had his holiday."

"We look at it as encouraging" that McQueen felt up to the trip home, Haag added.

Haag said that while McQueen is home, he is supposed to be maintaining the hospital regimen, which includes doses of vitamins, minerals, enzymes and the controversial cancer medication Laetrile and a diet of mostly unprocessed raw vegetables.

Although the medical establishment says there is no evidence to show the Kelley program is effective, McQueen and his wife have expressed strong support for it.

"We both believe in Dr. Kelley and the program and feel that it is a new, unexplored frontier in medicine," McQueen's wife said in a news release about three weeks ago.

McQueen was admitted to the Mexican hospital with mesothelioma, a form of lung cancer generally considered incurable.

The doctors said that by early October, the malignant tumors on his neck, abdomen and chest had shrunk by about 25 percent.

Foster parenting: It takes a special kind

By ROBBIE CROW
Family News Editor

It takes a special kind of family to open the doors of its happy, well-adjusted household to a frightened, frustrated and confused foster child.

It takes a family that fully understands the emotional and material needs of a youngster who has been abruptly but necessarily plucked from his accustomed lifestyle of abuse and neglect.

It also takes a family that realizes that no matter what has happened, the child still loves his natural parents very much.

The delicately unique construction of a foster home is bonded with love and care intermingled with a willingness to help someone in need.

Foster children range from ages 0-17, can be of any race and come from all socio-economic and religious backgrounds. They're just like other kids, accept for one thing. They come from families with a problem and they need special attention.

Currently, the Children's Protective Service of the Department of Human Resources is in search of these special kind of families willing to provide an atmosphere of love and warmth for those special kind of children.

Due to the lack of foster parents in Howard County, six children have had to be placed in foster homes in other counties, says Cindy Gwin, child placement worker with the Department of Human Resources.

Miss Gwin serves seven counties, including Howard, Glasscock, Borden, Dawson, Martin, Andrews and Gaines.

The lack of foster parents in Howard County possibly stems from lack of understanding of the program.

"A lot of people think they have to be willing to accept anyone from ages 0-18 in order to become foster parents," Miss Gwin said, pointing out a common misconception.

In actuality, certified foster parents are left with the final choice. It is their right to accept or refuse any child for any reason.

"Parents can specify whether they want a preschooler, teenager or infant," conveyed Miss Gwin. "It's up to them."

The local Children's Protective Service is striving to certify a variety of different families in Howard County, which will enable child placement workers to better match foster children with foster parents.

"We need foster parents willing to take minorities. We need foster parents who will take infants, preschoolers, school-age kids and teenagers. We need foster parents for all ages," Miss Gwin emphasized. "Anyone willing to keep any child can help us."

Persons contemplating the idea of foster parenting should contact Miss Gwin at 263-7671. They will be provided with an information packet concerning the program. A form is enclosed for the interested party to complete and mail back to the Children's Protective Service Office at 707 E. Third.

"Interviews are set up so I can go over the complete program with them in detail and explain the minimum standards they will have to meet," she said.

Each family member will be required to take a TB test and all pets must be vaccinated. A fire and health inspection of the home will be ordered.

"Parents have the option of withdrawing from the study at any time," assured the child placement worker. "Those that choose to continue are asked to fill out an application form."

Following procedures include separate interviews with each member of the prospective foster family.

"Everyone in the family has to be agreeable with the idea of accepting a foster child into the home," explained Miss Gwin.

References are obtained from three non-relatives and two relatives.

The study is then presented to the program director for approval.

"We're looking for substitute families," continued Miss Gwin. "This requires 24-hour care. We want foster parents who will provide for these kids in the same way they would their natural children."

For sharing their home, love and support, foster parents are reimbursed monthly by the Department of Human Resources. Current rates are $6 per day for children ages 0-9 and $7 per day for children 10-17. Effective Jan. 1, 1981, rates will increase to $7 and $8, respectively.

The Department of Human Resources is responsible for providing a minimum amount of clothing for the foster child as well as paying all medical costs.

"Anyone that can halfway manage his finances isn't going to lose money by being a foster parent," said Miss Gwin. "Some may even make a little."

In keeping within the guidelines of foster parenting, all families are required to take 15 hours of training each year. The Department of Human Resources provides this service.

Before a children's protective worker can remove a child from his natural parents, it must be proven that his minimal needs for physical and emotional growth and development are not being met.

"We don't ever want to put a child in a foster home unless it's absolutely necessary," Miss Gwin stated.

"We always try to determine what would be best for the child — to leave him with his parents, or remove him. Most of the children we pick up are grossly abused or neglected."

In each case, however, the ultimate goal of the Children's Protective Service is to maintain integrity of the family unit.

"Our goal is to eventually reunite the child with his parents," explained Miss Gwin.

An attempt is made by the case worker to solve problems within the family unit. As progress is made, the child and his natural parents are allowed regular visits away from the foster home.

"The child is our first concern," stressed Miss Gwin, "and the way we help a child best is by helping his family."

As is the case with any program, there are successes and there are failures.

"A lot depends on what point we intervene as well as the type of situation we're dealing with," she stated.

Children removed from their parents often experience separation trauma coupled with feelings of guilt.

"They still love their real parents very much and feel they've been separated from them because of something they've done wrong," Miss Gwin explained.

That's where love and understanding on the part of the foster family comes in. It takes a special kind of family to welcome with open arms a child feeling hurt and resentment for being taken away from his parents.

One such special family is that of Mr. and Mrs. Tim Winn. Foster children have been frequent visitors in their home for the past four years.

The couple, now residents of Knott, lived in Garden City when they welcomed the first of many neglected children into their family.

Since that very first day when their lives were touched by the physical and emotional scars of that very first child, the Winns have seen over 10 children, the majority of whom were teenagers, come and go.

Interest in the foster parenting program was aroused in the couple while they were living in Austin several years ago.

"The desperate need for foster parents in the state was revealed to us at that time," recalled Winn, now pastor of the First Baptist Church in Knott.

In stressing the need for foster parents, Winn pointed to the steady increase of child abuse nationwide.

"Welfare workers will try to keep the family together as long as possible through counseling and other constructive measures, but when a child's life is in danger, they have to get him out and they have to have somewhere to put him," he explained.

The young foster parents, who have two children of their own, including Rusty, 4, and Brian, 2, feel that because of their age, they are better able to cope with and relate to the problems and needs of an abused teenager.

"When working with teenagers," Winn said, "there's a lot of rebellion involved. By the time they've been abused seven or eight years, they don't trust anyone. All they've ever known is rejection."

"As a younger couple," he continued, "we can kind of roll with the punches."

Mrs. Winn commented, saying "We seem to work well with that age group because we're not so set in our ways. We tend to come across more like a big brother and sister when the need is there."

After four years experience as foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Winn both agree that foster parenting isn't for everyone.

"Before anyone can become an effective foster parent, he first needs to have a pretty good handle of his own life," Winn emphasized. "You have to be flexible. You have to be willing to change your ideas."

Constant adjustments pave the road that leads to the foster parent home and learning to accept, as well as love, the natural parents of an abused child is the most difficult adjustment the Winns have had to make.

A 12-year-old boy who had been physically and emotionally abused by his natural parents was, as one time, a foster child in the Winn home.

"The boy's parents wanted him in foster care. The emotional progress he was making was evident," conveyed Mrs. Winn. "However, they wanted us to allow them to visit their child in our home."

Consenting to such visits was one of the greatest hurdles the Winns have ever had to jump as foster parents.

"It was a real adjustment for us to make," admitted Mrs. Winn, "but once we met them, we realized they were human beings too."

The most startling fact made aware to the Winns since they became certified foster parents is that every person is a potential child abuser.

"Everyone in the right situation is capable of abusing a child," stated Winn. "That's hard for people to swallow, but it's true."

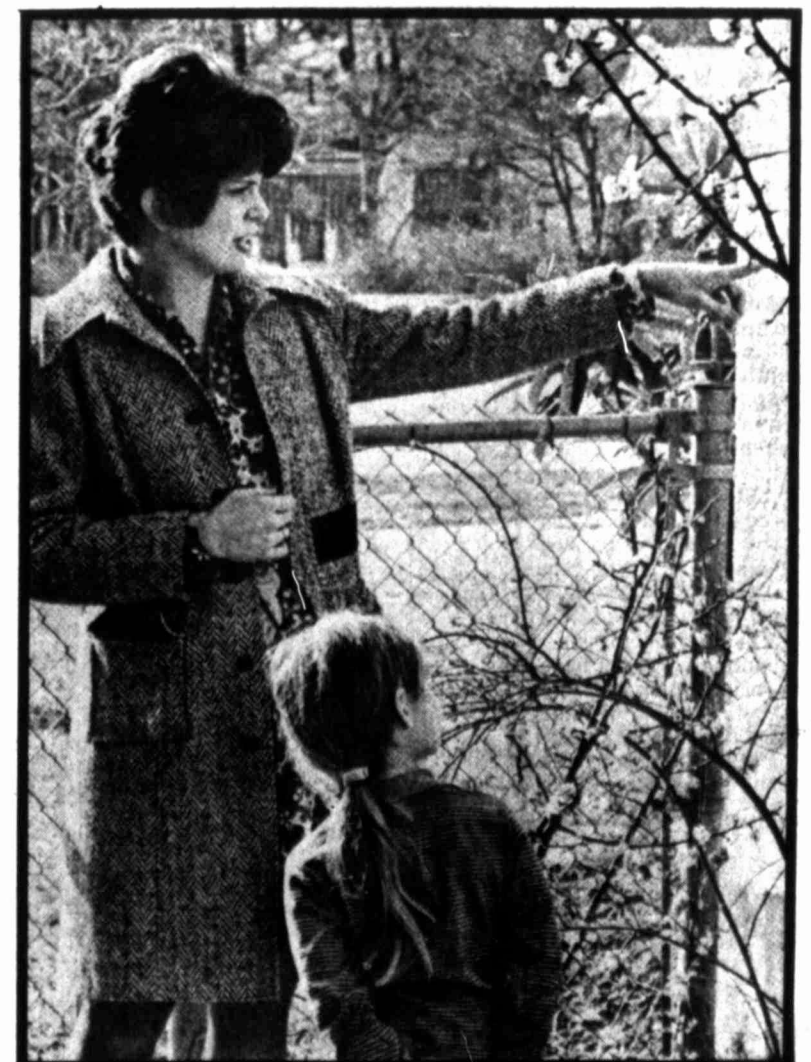

People who suspect they have such tendencies should seek help from the Department of Human Resources, encourages Winn. "They want to help you," he said.

In concluding, the couple reinforced their feelings that foster parenting is not something that should be taken lightly. It is a task of love that should be confronted with concern and dedication.

"We're not saying that ours is a shining example of how family should be," Winn added, "but at least an abused child who comes to temporarily stay in our home knows that there is an alternative to an abusive lifestyle."

Winn serves as president of the Howard County Foster Parents Association, an organization which strives to help foster parents provide for the physical as well as emotional needs of foster children.

The organization is open to anyone, interested in foster parenting. For more information, contact Tim Winn at 353-4410.

Parents key teachers

By JANET ROGERS
County Extension Agent

"Wise use of energy" marks a critical area in children's education these days — as a basis for decision-making, and parents are the key teachers. Parents are children's first and most important teachers, and the home is where children develop values, attitudes and habits that will affect their entire future.

Parents can influence children about energy use in four major ways: example, explanation, experience and encouragement. Children learn through observation. Parents convey their own feelings and attitudes through actions.

As parents adjust temperatures, turn off lights and use appliances with "saving" in mind, they show their children that they value wise energy use.

Children usually will adopt similar patterns of behavior, especially as they grow older.

Parents have many chances each day to extend their children's awareness about energy.

Simple explanation can help children identify energy sources and understand the application of energy to the way in which they live.

Such explanations may even stimulate children to research the subject on their own and to develop their research into simple projects.

As parents explain to children the basis for their own decisions — to use energy or not to use it, these parents create a format for helping children understand how to make decisions.

Children will learn to consider benefits and limitations of decisions, as well as alternative ideas. Learning is most effective when children are actually involved in "doing."

Parents can construct many "learning experiences" for their children in order to involve the children and capitalize on the interest created.

For example, playing with kites, balloons and pinwheels would give a child experiences with wind energy.

Whipping egg whites or making ice cream in a hand-cranked freezer give a child experiences with "human energy."

And, for a "go" at solar energy, parents could help the child through an experience with drying food or making "solar" tea by using the rays of the sun.

To make "solar" tea, simply start with a jar of cold water and three or more tea bags. Screw on the lid and set it in the sun.

You won't get as much tannic acid in "solar" tea as you do in tea made conventional ways, and the tea is better.

Also, you don't have to worry about leaving a teapot on the stove and risk boiling the water out of it by mistakes. Children are more likely to repeat desired behavior when they receive recognition and praise — the "best" kinds of encouragement.

Statements that acknowledge adult interest in what the child is doing — and encourage him with feelings of accomplishment — will make a greater impact than words that focus on a child's "foolish" use of energy.

A real opportunity is available, also, to parents and adult leaders of 4-H and youth groups in the 4-H Energy Program, entitled "4-H and Energy: Partners for Progress."

This 4-H and youth program, coordinated by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and available through County Extension Offices, includes materials developed for children ages 9-13 — complete with leader and 4-H member guides that give a step-by-step approach to energy experiments and activities. Materials for youngsters ages 14-19 are currently in production.

We do not know what energy-related demands will face adults of the 21st century — who are our youth of today.

But we do know that these children will be better prepared to meet the challenges of these demands if parents help them learn wise energy use now.

DECEMBER CEREMONY — Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Homeyer, Navasota, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Marie, 800 Marcy Drive, to Barry Canning, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Canning, 2704 Apache. The ceremony will be performed Dec. 27 in Trinity Lutheran Church, Navasota. The Rev. A. J. Niemann, retired, grandfather of the bride, will officiate. Steven Henze, St. Louis, Mo., cousin of the bride, will assist.

Escondido Canyon is site of wedding

Danita Logan became the bride of Curt Condray in a ceremony held the afternoon of Oct. 17 in Escondido Canyon, Lubbock.

The Rev. Marshall Master, uncle of the groom, officiated the 2 p.m. rite before an arrangement of yellow chrysanthemums.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Behis, Lubbock. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Condray, Big Spring, are parents of the groom.

The bride chose to wear a white satin wedding gown with lace appliques adorning the bodice. Bronze and yellow fall flowers arranged on fans completed the bridal ensemble.

Nora McNealey, Lubbock, served as maid of honor. Charles Condray, father of the groom, served his son as best man.

A reception honoring Mr. and Mrs. Condray was held at the Roadhouse Restaurant in Escondido Canyon immediately following the ceremony.

The bride is a graduate of Monterrey High School, Lubbock, and is presently employed by Gould Pumps of Lubbock.

The groom is a graduate of Big Spring High School and attended Howard College and Texas Tech University. Currently he is manager of the Fishery Restaurant in Lubbock.

Following a wedding trip to New Orleans, La., the newlyweds will be at home in Lubbock.

Baptist ceremony solemnized Friday

Robin Kay Spencer and Larry Jay Patton were wed in a Friday evening candlelight ceremony in the Forsan Baptist Church.

The couple exchanged vows and rings before an archway edged with blue flowers and flanked by baskets of blue carnations and candelabras. The rite was officiated by Rev. Jack Clinkscales, pastor.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Forshee, 1310 Lexington. Mr. and Mrs. L.M. Cassleman, Forsan, are parents of the groom.

Mrs. Bill Cregar provided traditional wedding selections at the piano and accompanied soloist, Mrs. George White.

The bride was given in marriage wearing a traditional gown of satin designed with an empire bodice. The high neckline was fashioned to create a Queen Anne effect. Venice lace lavishly applied the long bishop sleeves, ending in deep lace cuffs.

Sheer lace created a wide border around the bottom of the skirt enhanced by ruffled lace trimming the hemline and sweeping gracefully into a full back and chapel-length train.

A matching Venice lace headpiece held the two-tiered fingertip-length veil of bridal illusion. A nosegay of white carnations and blue rosebuds completed the bridal attire. Candy Spencer, sister of the bride, served as bridesmaid. John Corby Tatum served as groomsman.

A reception honoring Mr. and Mrs. Patton immediately followed the ceremony in the home of the groom's parents. The bride's table featured a three-tiered wedding cake adorned with blue flowers. Candy Spencer and Tresa Spencer, sister-in-law of the bride, served refreshments to the wedding party.

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School and is employed by Big Spring State Hospital.

The groom attended Forsan High School and is employed by Lorens Field Service.

Following a wedding trip to San Angelo the couple will be at home in Big Spring.

Here at Accent Shoppe, the mother of the groom is not forgotten. We advise all you mothers of sons to start compiling your guest list soon so that you will have it ready at least six weeks before the wedding, being careful to keep within the numbers agreed upon with the bride's mother. Traditionally you are responsible for the rehearsal dinner, so plan ahead as far as possible. It is especially thoughtful to consult with the bride's mother about what you will wear, and with the bride about what your wedding gift will be. If you do not live in the same town as the bride, you might also offer to register her gift preferences in your town. Oh and don't forget — relax and smile!

TwEEN 12 and 20

Get legal aid -- fast!

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I had a girlfriend, 15, and now she is pregnant. Last March, she and I (I'm 18) took off for Arkansas, but we were only gone two days before we were caught. My problem is that she is taking me to court claiming the baby is mine. We did make love but she was making love to a lot of guys.

I don't think the baby is mine and I shouldn't have to pay for it. She is due to have the baby in early January and I don't know what to do. To compound my problem, I am spending 90 days in the Knox County jail for driving a cycle without a licence. Please help me and hurry. — G.S., Mt. Vernon, Ohio.

G.S.: It's a good thing you weren't also arrested for statutory rape because you were guilty of it!

You need legal advice and fast. Get in contact with an attorney immediately. There is legal advice available at no charge if you can't afford it. Check around.

Dr. Wallace: I have been invited to a church campground clean-up by my best friend. We are both 14. My friend's brother, 16, will drive us there. My parents won't let me go because this boy is driving without his parents being present. This boy is a good, safe driver, and I think they should have trust in him. Don't you? Oh, I almost forgot. The campground is 100 miles from my house. — F.M., Lake Charles, La.

F.M.: Accidents can happen regardless of the age of the driver. Teen-age drivers should be good drivers because of their superior alertness, coordination and eyesight, but because that most important ingredient — maturity — is sometimes lacking, teen drivers are poor insurance risks. Oh, I almost forgot. I agree with your parents' decision.

Dr. Wallace: Can you please tell me how many humans live on our earth? Our family had a discussion on the value of birth control and the starving millions. — Charlene, Winchester, Tenn. Charlene: There are about 4.5 billion people living on our earth and this figure increases by about 75 million annually. That's a lot of mouths to feed. Scientists are looking more to the oceans to help solve the food shortage.

Send questions to Dr. Robert Wallace, TwEEN 12 and 20, in care of this newspaper. For Dr. Wallace's teen booklet, "Happiness or Despair," please send $1 and a 28-cent, stamped, large, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Wallace in care of this newspaper.

New rules are adopted by 4-H adult leaders

Glasscock County Adult Leaders met Tuesday evening in the courthouse. Norman Kohls, county extension agent, attended with 18 members.

A report on the annual Adult Leaders' Fall Retreat at Indian Lodge was given. Delmer Batla, District VI Adult Leader Association treasurer, spoke about fund raising on the district level. Wayne Montgomery gave a report on the leader training workshop on the Shooting Sports project which he and Mrs. Montgomery attended at the State 4-H Center.

After a discussion, the decision was made for Kohl to set up a meeting for leaders to get the project started for the Glasscock County 4-H Club program.

The group adopted a set of rules presented by the committee on the use of the 4-H van. A workday, Nov. 4 at 9 a.m., was selected for the men to make needed repairs on the van at the Leon Halfmann barn.

The county stock show this year will include a Pee Wee Showmanship event to gain the interest of younger children and serve as a learning situation for them.

The animals will not have to be raised by the children for them to compete. The age range will be from kindergarten through eight, including anyone who will not

'Star' PTA winners revealed

"Hello. This is Joseph Campanella. How are you?" These words from Hollywood met one Big Spring PTA member when she picked up the phone in September.

"What can I do?" asked Campanella about the "Join the Stars in PTA" membership campaign. Sure, he could send pictures of himself.

And, true to his word, 20 personally autographed photos of Campanella soon arrived, as did dozens of other pictures sent by James Hampton, Gary Collins and the movie company which produced Big Spring's movie, Hangar 18.

More than 150 photographs, movie posters and other Hangar 18 memorabilia were finally awarded to lucky students who helped recruit members for the city's five Parent-Teacher Associations.

Teachers and PTA members who won the free Hangar 18 tickets donated by Big Spring Movie Theaters to the city-wide PTA campaign were Towana Donald and Edith Gossett, College Heights; Willard Shipley and Jan Stroup, Kentwood; Mrs. Kendrick and Ella Williams, Marcy; Mary Ann Heffington, Linda Alexander and Sara Tipton, Moss; Joyce Johnson, Charlotte Gilbert and Vera Hamilton, Washington.

Students who won special PTA STAR T-Shirts were Pam Cox, College Heights; Jason Sanders and Paige Griffin, Kentwood; Heather Henderson, Marcy; Josh Hughes and Yvonne Barnes; Moss; Marci Weaver, Leonary Watkins, Staci Rogers, Vicki Cearley and Paula Pitman, Washington.

Names of students who recruited 10 or more PTA members each will appear on the National PTA Honor Roll. Marci Weaver of Washington leads these students, having brought in 46 PTA members herself.

Other leading recruiters were: Kentwood, Jason Sanders, 15 members; Washington, Staci Rogers, 11; College Heights, Kim Bailey, 11; Scott Owen, 14 and Pam Cox, 18; Marcy, Jino Flores, 11; and Moss, Belinda Banks, 15; J.P. Shanks, 11; Patrick Schrum, 12; Sonny Stiles, 19; Kevin Pirkle, 13; and Benjie Yanez, 20.

Other Moss students, Christa Tucker, Michele Tucker, Mike Porch and Katrina Thompson almost qualified for the National PTA Honor Roll with 14 PTA members each, but because they worked in pairs on the membership campaign their lists have some duplicate names.

Afternoon ceremony is performed in candlelight

The First Baptist Church of Coahoma was the setting for the Saturday afternoon wedding ceremony uniting Rose Marie Thixton and James Robert Teeler.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Cecil Thixton, Big Spring. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Marvin E. Patterson, Hatfield, Ark.

An archway, flanked on either side by spiral candelabrum, enhanced the sanctuary setting as the bride's uncle, Roy McDaniel of Odessa, read the 4 p.m. rite. Planters containing arrangements of fresh flowers completed the altar scene.

Wedding music was provided by Mrs. Velma Ruth Woods, pianist; and Jay Lane Phinney, vocalist and guitarist.

The bride was given in marriage wearing a floor-length gown of ivory organza trimmed in Schiffl embroidery. The full skirt, fashioned with a ruffled flounce, extended to form a chapel-length train. A waltz-length veil which fell gracefully from an ivory hat completed her bridal ensemble.

She wore an heirloom diamond necklace, a gift from the groom, and carried a lace fan adorned with daisies, roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. Tammy Johnson attended her sister as best man. Matron of honor, Mrs. Ann Wilton, Midland, served as bridesmaid.

Each carried a lighted candle enclosed in a globe decorated with flowers and ribbons.

James McCutchan served the groom as best man. Groomsman was Ronny Dodson, Coahoma. Guests were seated by Tony and Wesley Thixton, nephews of the bride.

Leann Van Ness, niece of the bride, was flower girl. Serving as ring bearer was Dusty Thixton, great-nephew of the bride.

Immediately following the exchange of rings and vows, the newlyweds were honored at a reception in the church fellowship hall.

Peach cloth overlaid with white lace enhanced the bride's table which held a three-tiered cake over a flowing fountain. A candle arrangement of bronze mums and peach carnations decorated the setting.

The groom's table was draped with peach cloth overlaid with rust cloth. Guests were served from a peach-colored, hexagon-shaped cake trimmed with rust.

The bride is a graduate of Coahoma High School and is presently employed at Connie's Fashions, Inc.

The groom, also a Coahoma High School graduate, is employed at Fiberglass Systems, Inc., and is currently attending Howard College.

Upon returning from a wedding trip to a undisclosed location, Mr. and Mrs. Teeler will make their home in Sand Springs.

MRS. JAMES ROBERT TEELER

Dear Abby

New Generation of Parents Also Needs This Advice

DEAR ABBY: Many years ago you ran "A Parent's Prayer." My wife and I kept it, and referred to it often. Our children are now grown, and thanks to the Lord they have never been any real trouble for us.

Perhaps running that prayer again would be helpful to some of the younger parents among your readers.

BILL B., BURBANK, CALIF.

DEAR BILL: With pleasure. It was written by Garry C. Myers, founder of "Highlights for Children," a fine, wholesome and educational monthly magazine that I highly recommend.

"Oh heavenly Father, make me a better parent. Help me to understand my children, to listen patiently to what they have to say and to answer all their questions kindly. Keep me from interrupting them, talking back to them and contradicting them. Make me as courteous to them as I would have them be to me. Give me the courage to confess my sins against my children and ask them forgiveness, when I know that I have done wrong.

"May I not vainly hurt the feelings of my children. Forbid that I should laugh at their mistakes, or resort to shame and ridicule as punishment. Let me not tempt a child to lie and steal. So guide me hour by hour that I may demonstrate by all I say and do that honesty produces happiness.

"Reduce, I pray, the meanness in me. May I cease to nag; and when I am out of sorts, help me, O Lord, to hold my tongue. Blind me to the little errors of my children and help me to see the good things that they do. Give me a ready word for honest praise.

"Help me to treat my children as those of their own age, but let me not exact of them the judgments and conventions of adults. Allow me not to rob them of the opportunity to wait upon themselves, to think, to choose and to make their own decisions.

"Forbid that I should ever punish them for my selfish satisfaction. May I grant them all their wishes that are reasonable and have the courage always to withhold a privilege which I know will do them harm.

"Make me so fair and just, so considerate and companionable to my children that they will have genuine esteem for me. Fit me to be loved and imitated by my children. Oh God, do give me calm and poise and self-control."

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a very heavy sleeper, and it is very difficult to wake him up in the morning. He sets his alarm for 6:30, but pays no attention to it when it rings — except to shut it off and go back to sleep. He has to be at work at 8 a.m.

I have had to wake him up three and four times in one morning. Should I keep waking him up, or let him sleep and leave without him? (We both work.)

SLEEPYHEAD'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: If you awaken him effectively once, that should be sufficient. By "effectively," I mean shake him, pull back the covers, apply a cold, damp washcloth to his face, and announce, "First, last and only wakeup call, Luv!"

If that doesn't bring him around, let him go back to dreamland, be late to work and learn the hard way.

Do you wish you had more friends? Get Abby's booklet, "How to Be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (28 cents) envelope to: Abby, Popularity, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Josh Owusu will speak at AARP meeting Tuesday

Members of the American Association of Retired Persons will meet Tuesday at 10 a.m. in the Kentwood Older Adult Center, 2805 Lynn.

The program will be presented by Josh Owusu, a chemical engineer with Cosden Oil and Chemical Co.

Owusu is from Ghana, South Africa, and was a contender in the 1972 Munich Olympics.

A covered dish luncheon will be served at noon. All members are urged to attend.

EXTENSION HOMEMAKERS HOTLINE

Continuing the 1980-81 club year, area extension homemakers elected officers and made plans for the upcoming holidays.

Six clubs, including Center Point, City, Coahoma, Creative, Fairview and Lomax Country Girls, reported their October meetings.

CENTER POINT
Kentwood Older Adult Center was the meeting place for Center Point Extension Homemakers Oct. 14. Ruby Gross and Ruby Rutledge served as hostesses.

Mrs. J. R. Petty, president, presided over the 15 members present. Officers were elected to serve during the coming year.

Janet Rogers, Howard County extension agent, presented the program, "Food for Tomorrow's World."

Zan Burriel received the door prize.

The club met again Oct. 28 at 11:30 a.m. for a salad luncheon. Eighteen members answered roll call, revealing what their household does to save electricity or gas.

Mrs. Olga Stampe and Mrs. Fannie Kent were hostesses. The Halloween theme was carried out in house decorations.

Mrs. J. L. Davidson reported on her trip to the State Convention in San Antonio. A letter was read from Big Spring State Hospital asking the club to help with the patient's Christmas Party.

A Christmas party for all clubs to be held at Kentwood Dec. 8 was discussed.

Mrs. Gross demonstrated how to crochet house slip-pers.

Faye Irons received the door prize.

The club adjourned to meet Nov. 11 with Mrs. Bob Wren at Canterbury Apartments.

CITY
Mrs. Alton Underwood entertained the City Extension Homemakers Club in her home Oct. 11 with Mrs. Frances Zant serving as co-hostess.

Janet Rogers gave a slide presentation on "Tomorrow's Meals" to the 13 members attending.

Mrs. William Priebe won the door prize.

Mrs. Ray Cantrell, Mrs. J. J. Quigley and Janet Johnson were guests of the club Oct. 24 when the City Homemakers met in the home of Mrs. Ervin Daniels.

Co-hostess was Mrs. H.P. Armstrong. Seventeen members attended.

Mrs. Cantrell presented a program on Aloe Vera Cosmetics and distributed prizes.

Mrs. Merle Hodnett and Mrs. Neil Norred were appointed to the Railroad Centennial Celebration committee. The celebration will take place in 1981.

The club's plans for a Christmas party were discussed. Plans for the council party were discussed by two members of the council committee. An announcement was made that Snyder will have their "Christmas in November" program Nov. 1, 10:30-11:30 a.m. and 1-2:30 p.m. A salad luncheon will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. for $3.50.

Mary Mabe, a member of long standing, was presented a going-away gift of a stained glass red rose on beveled glass.

Many of the members and guests went to the Heritage Museum following the meeting to view the Doll Show.

Mrs. Hodnett drew the hostess gift.

COAHOMA

Mrs. B. L. Mason's home was the scene of the Oct. 8 meeting of the Coahoma Extension Homemakers Club at 2 p.m. Mrs. Mason presided as president. The Halloween theme was used to decorate the home.

Mrs. Charlie Parrish gave the devotional, Psalm 146:5-10.

The 15 members and four visitors dressed in Halloween costumes, answered roll call by telling what foods they stored this summer. Mrs. Robbie O'Daniel won the prize for the best costume.

Janet Rogers gave the program on "Meals for Tomorrow's World," in addition to winning the door prize.

A Thanksgiving dinner will be the occasion of the next meeting in the home of Mrs. D.S. Phillips, Nov. 12.

CREATIVE
The Creative Extension Homemakers Club met Oct. 13 at 7:30 p.m. in Mr. G's Garden Center.

Joyce Crooker demonstrated how to make Christmas decorations.

FAIRVIEW
Mrs. H.J. Awtry, vice president, hosted the Fairview Extension Homemakers Club meeting in her home Oct. 7 at 2 p.m.

The devotional, Psalm 146:5-10, was given by Mrs. Awtry. The thought for the day was "You live only once, but if you work it right, once is enough." Roll call was answered by the members and on guest, Janet Rogers, telling what they had stored this last summer.

Officers elected for the coming year were Mrs. Awtry, president; Mrs. Vern Vigar, vice president; Mrs. W. N. Wood, secretary; Mrs. Frank Micallef, treasurer and Mrs. C. A. Smauley, council delegate.

Mrs. Rogers presented the program on What we will be eating twenty-five years from now. Mrs. Rogers also won the door prize.

The club met again Oct. 21 at 2 p.m. in the home of Mrs. D. F. Bigony. Mrs. Smauley, president, presided.

The devotional, John 6:5-13, was given by the hostess. The thought for the day, "Almost anything is easier to get into than out of." Roll call was answered by the eight members present telling what her household does to save electricity or gas.

A Thanksgiving dinner was planned for the Nov. 18 meeting in Mrs. Smauley's home. Mrs. Smauley won the door prize.

LOMAX
The Lomax Country Girls met Oct. 12 in the Bob Adkins home with six members including one new one, Mrs. Kenneth Froman, and five visitors present.

The devotional, John 6:5-13, was read by Mrs. Bill Romine.

Officers elected for 1981 were Mrs. Romine, president; Mrs. Kyle Ditto, vice-president; Mrs. Raymond Roberts, treasurer; Mrs. Hugh Shafer, secretary-reporter with Mrs. John Phillips to assist her and Mrs. David Roberts, council delegate.

Janet Rogers presented the program, "Meals for Tomorrow's World."

Don Bynum, photographer for extension services from San Angelo, took pictures of club members and the new Lomax Volunteer Fire Truck. The pictures will go to Texas A&M to go into a slide set to show International visitors how the extension service works.

The community Thanksgiving supper will be held Nov. 20 at the Lomax Farmer's Gin office. The club will furnish the meat and drinks with community members furnishing side dishes.

Designed to supplement income

Senior Talent Fair Nov. 15

The Howard County Council on Aging is again sponsoring the Annual Senior Citizens Talent Fair Nov. 15.

This is the tenth year for the Talent Fair. It is designed to supplement the income of those older adults participating in the fair. The participants keep the proceeds from the items they sell. Several have already signed up to participate in the Fair which is slated to begin at 10 a.m. in the Highland Shopping Mall. The Talent Fair will be open until 4:30 p.m.

Any senior citizen is eligible to participate. Participants are asked to provide card tables for their displays as large tables are not available this year. For additional information, call the Senior Citizen Center, 263-4016 or the County Extension office, 267-8469.

Items usually on sale at the Talent Fair include crocheted items, quilts, afghans, children's toys, Raggedy Ann dolls, wood crafts, baked goods, table linens and Christmas decorations.

The Howard County Council on Aging sponsors other activities for senior citizens in addition to the Talent Fair. The Senior Citizens Center, located in the Industrial Park, is open daily for table games and visiting. Classes are available to those interested in quilting, macrame, exercise, western dance and others. The Council also sponsors a monthly covered dish luncheon and a monthly birthday party.

The Council provides free blood pressure screening for older adults the second Tuesday of each month. They conduct the Mobil Meals program which provides a daily hot meal for older adults who cannot provide the meals for themselves. They also provide transportation services five days a week from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Call Christine Freeman at the Senior Citizen Center for additional information on these free services.
