Alcatraz Warden Injured Slightly By Convict's Attack

New Trouble In Island Prison Is Disclosed

James A. Johnston Is Attacked From Rear As He Walks Among Criminals In Mess Hall

(By The Associated Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 24. — A convict attack on Warden James A. Johnston today disclosed a new rebellion in Alcatraz prison, island fortress where the government keeps America's most hardened criminals.

Burton Phillips, Wichita, Kansas, kidnaper and bank robber, slugged Johnston from the rear as the warden passed through the prison dining room after interviewing 100 convicts confined to their cells because of a strike.

No Signs Of Fracture

Phillips' swinging fists injured Johnston before guards could intervene. The warden was taken to the prison hospital, where Dr. George Hess reported no signs of skull fracture.

Johnston telephoned the justice department in Washington, however, that he was not seriously hurt. A subordinate was named acting warden pending Johnston's return to full duty.

The prison did not disclose what disciplinary measures, if any, had been instituted against Phillips, who is serving a life sentence.

Received "Grapevine" Reports

Justice department officials expressed the belief that the newest Alcatraz explosion had been touched off by receipt there of "grapevine" reports of last Sunday's uprising in Folsom prison and the resultant death today of Warden Clarence Larkin.

Warden Johnston told the justice department the situation had been brought under control without violence and without the use of firearms or tear gas. Alcatraz is heavily planted with remote control tear gas devices and other modern instruments for quelling riot.

Refused To Work

The prison announcement of the assault said 100 of the 300 convicts had struck earlier in the week, refusing to work. They were quickly confined to their cells.

Johnston, noted for his discipline and his insistence upon anonymity as good medicine for bad men, had just interviewed the strikers in their cells and was passing through the dining room while the other convicts were at the noon meal.

Phillips arose from his seat and attacked while other startled prisoners looked on. Johnston was injured about the head and face.

The warden was quoted as saying the strike probably was motivated by a mass desire for more privileges and more attention. Both are rare elements at Alcatraz. Prisoners may talk among themselves only during a short recreation hour each day; have no visitors and little or no entertainment. The so-called "big shots" are treated the same as the lowliest of the 300.

Negro Man Held In Connection With Fatal Stabbing In Flats

Fred Blanton, 48-year-old Plainview negro, was arrested Friday night by police for investigation of murder in connection with the fatal stabbing of Zimmie Lee Blacknell, 22-year-old negro woman of 1719 Avenue C.

The negro woman was stabbed nine times, eight of the wounds being in the chest and the other under her arm, said investigating officers. She died before medical aid could be summoned.

Blanton was arrested by W. J. Tucker of the police department. Shortly after midnight he made a sworn statement before Victor H. Lindsey, assistant district attorney. Lindsey indicated charges would be filed early today. An "East Dallas special" knife was the lethal weapon, officers said.

Eight negroes were taken to police headquarters for questioning which continued early this morning. The woman was tsabbed about 9:45 o'clock last night in her room at 1719 Avenue C.

GETS 35-YEAR-TERM

GILMER, Sept. 24. (AP)—Tommy Woodward, 31, was given a 35-year prison sentence today by a jury which found him guilty of robbing the First State bank of Big Sandy last May 10. Woodward entered a plea of not guilty.

Three men escaped with $3,970 after herding employes into a vault.

Governor Issues Fresh Plea For More Revenue

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Sept. 24.—Members of the legislature arriving early for the special session beginning Monday were greeted today with a freesh plea from Governor James V. Allred to give the state additional revenue.

The governor urged further provision for old age assistance on grounds that otherwise it would be in a "critical" condition by January 1, but even as he spoke a member of a senate committee which has been studying government finances reiterated no new taxes were needed.

Called For Other Purposes

The session has been called not only to provide revenue for old age assistance but also for aid to the needy, blind and dependent children, the state's share of a teacher's retirement fund and rectification of the general fund's condition.

"Old age assistance will be in a critical condition January 1 and some folks are going to be cut off the rolls if more money is not put into the pension fund," Governor Allred said.

"This is a serious warning. The old folks are surely going to be in bad shape if something isn't done."

Need $2,000,000

He estimated $2,000,000 additional annually was needed to carry the pension load while $1,600,000 would be required to repay money borrowed last year to meet old age assistance demands.

Meanwhile, Senator Albert Stone of Brenham, member of the senate "economy and efficiency" committee, stood firm in his position that the state could get along

Total Of 450 Aboard Tech Special Train

Boosters for Texas Technological college gridmen in their tussle Saturday afternoon with the Texas University Longhorns pulled away from the Santa Fe depot 20 minutes late at 10:15 o'clock last night 450 strong. The special train was late because of a barrage of ticket selling just as it was ready to leave.

Aboard were the Matador band, the Saddle Tramps, men's cheering corps whose trip was contributed to by the student council of the college, and a representative cross-section of professional and business men and women and students.

Representing the railroad was Ralph Trollinger. Dean James M. Gardon of Texas Tech was in charge of the group. Conductor D. O. Wiley, director of the band, also was on the special.

The group will leave Austin at 11:55 o'clock Saturday night and will arrive here at 10:45 o'clock Sunday morning, according to the present schedule.

Hitch-Hiker Doesn't Hold His Thumb Right; Has To Pay Way

WILLIS, Sept. 24. (AP)—It may be Hitch-Hiker C. K. Roberts of Toronto, Canada, doesn't hold his thumb right.

He caught a ride in El Paso, with a family of four and found them penniless.

Roberts spent $8.10 for food and gasoline to get them here.

Stocks Drop To New Lows In Selling Wave

Many More Millions Of Dollars In Values Built Up In Last 5 Years Wiped Out Friday

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—A fresh selling wave in the stock market today washed away many more millions of dollars in quoted values laboriously built up the last five years.

Losses of $1 to $4 a share, generally—several of $5 to $10—were piled up in one of the broadest markets in recent years. More than half of the 976 stocks traded fell to new lows for the year or longer. The Associated Press average price for 60 stocks toppled $2.30 to $54, the lowest since Dec. 21, 1935.

Cotton Futures Drop

Most actively traded commodities and bonds went down with stocks. Cotton futures fell $1.05 to $1.25 a bale, carrying contracts well under 9 1-2 cents a pound, despite federal loans to growers of as much as 9 cents on some grades.

United States Steel tumbled more than $5 to $80.50, Bethlehem more than $4 to $67.50, Eastman Kodak was off $7.50 at $169, Allied Chemical down $6 at $184, du Pont off $6 at $140, American Can off more than $4 at $92.50 and Chrysler off $3.50 at 89.25.

Analysts Grope Uncertainly

As bull favorites of the prolonged upswing in share prices running from the spring of 1935 into this year wilted under the selling, market analysts continued to grope uncertainly for explanation, advancing a variety or reasons.

Increased offerings from abroad, particularly Amsterdam, was said in one quarter to have been a potent force in the resumption of the downswing. This selling was attributed in part to rumors the United States had agreed to exchange tax information with foreign countries with the aim of tracing evasions of the capital gains levy.

Svenson Named To State Board

Carl Lars Svenson, Lubbock engineer and author, Friday was named to the new state board for licensing professional engineers by Governor James V. Allred, according to an Associated Press announcement last night.

CARL SVENSON

The board recently was authorized by the state legislature.

Svenson was associated with the Texas Technological college department of engineering from 1926 to 1933 and since that time has been in private engineering business and has been a writer in the engineering field.

He has written "seven or eight" text books and other books dealing with engineering.

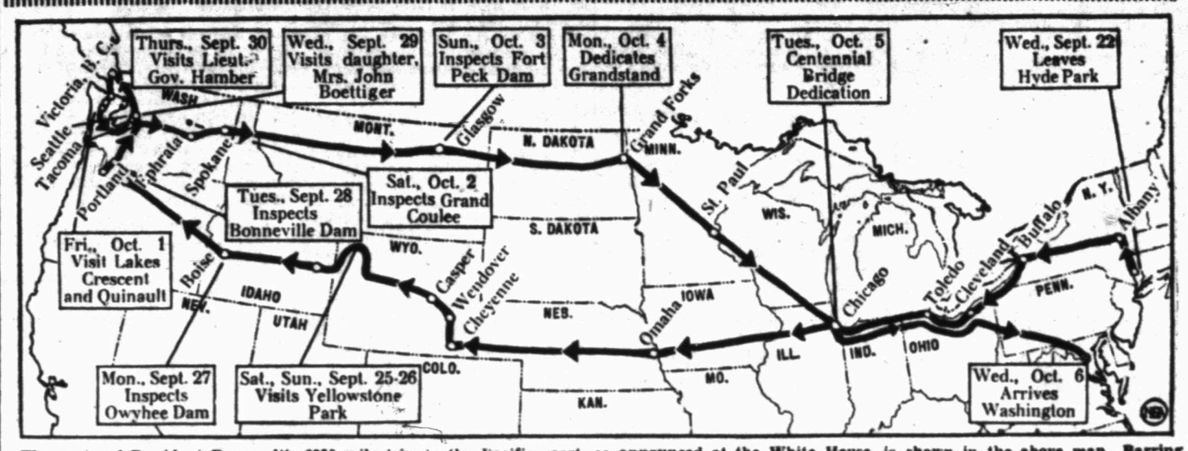

He said last night he would accept the place. His term, along with W. W. Trout's of Lufkin, will be for two years. Others selected by the governor were Ed C. Connor of Dallas and George R. Brown of Houston, four year terms; and Fred E. Righter of San Antonio and J. S. Hudnall of Tyler, six-year terms.

Two Are Killed, Two Others Injured In Crash At Paducah

PADUCAH, Sept. 24. (AP)—J. W. Bratton, 68, and his son, Lester, 34, were killed and two other members of the family suffered slight injuries when a pickup truck struck the rear of their wagon 5 1-2 miles north of Paducah tonight. Mrs. J. W. Bratton and her six-year-old daughter, Lawanda were injured.

The occupants of the truck, Bub Stewart and Henry Walling, received minor injuries.

Japan Continues Murder Via Air Over China

By MORRIS J. HARRIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

SHANGHAI, Sept. 24. — A Japanese airfleet penetrated the heart of China today to bomb the Wuhan cities, Hankow, Wuchang and Hanyang, where estimates of the dead ranged between 100 and 200 and of wounded between 200 and 500.

Nearly all the victims were noncombatants, many of them women and children stricken when the raiders bombed and machine-gunned Wuchang, on the south side of the great Yangtze river.

Gunboats Are Endangered

American and British gunboats were endangered as bombs fell near their berths in the river, but as far as could be learned no foreigners were hurt.

Nine planes, presumably from a base near Shanghai, took part in the attack. The three cities, forming the commercial and industrial metropolis of central China, are 450 airline miles from Shanghai.

Major Victory Reported

In the North China campaign the Japanese reported a major victory in the capture of Paotingfu, 80 miles southwest of Peiping and center of Chinese resistance in central Hopeh province.

Paotingfu, enveloped early today by the Japanese, was reported taken by storm and the Chinese garrison annihilated.

Besides the Wuhan cities many other Chinese communities suffered heavily as the Japanese air raiders ranged far and wide. Canton, great metropolis of the south, was again attacked but suffered little by comparison with the raids of Wednesday and Thursday in which 2,000 were killed or wounded.

Bombings To Continue

Although six great Occidental powers, including the United States, have protested in varying degrees against the Japanese bombing of non-military centers in China, a spokesman for the Japanese navy declared the bombings would go on.

This, he said, was especially true of Nanking, China's capital, since

Landon Says FDR Can't Retreat Or Advance Without Losses

TOPEKA, Kas., Sept. 24. (AP)—Alf M. Landon, 1936 Republican presidential nominee, asserted today that President Roosevelt "now is in the position of being unable to retreat or go forward without suffering serious losses in his control over congress."

Landon made his verbal comment as President Roosevelt traveled West on his swing to Seattle.

Landon renewed the attack on the Roosevelt Supreme court proposal which he first made last February, saying that the president would "take a licking' if he took the Supreme court issue "out in the open.'

There's Plenty Of Material For Education At Baylor

(By The Associated Press)

WACO, Sept. 24. — If oxygen is an eight-sided figure, Nero means "nothing," and Homer is a type of pigeon, you might also guess that Ulysses Grant is a tract of land upon which several battles of the Civil war were fought.

Those are some of the answers given by Baylor university's 650 freshmen in the required psychological examination at registration. There were other answers just as baffling.

One student said that a quorum is a place where fish are kept and a vegetarian is a horse doctor.

That new kind of silk that has just been handed down to civilization is called "radium," one announced to the world on his paper, and a young woman said Henry Clay is a mud treatment for the face.

FDR Scores 'Lip Service' Of Politicians; No Mention Is Made Of His Court Battle

By JOSEPH H. SHORT
Associated Press Staff Writer

ABROAD ROOSEVELT TRAIN En Route to Seattle, Sept. 24.—President Roosevelt told a Casper, Wyo., audience late today the people of the United States had little patience with those who paid lip service to objectives of government but stood in the way of methods of attaining those goals.

"That type of person has less influence in government today than ever before," he told a shivering throng about his car platform.

To Continue Practice

In an earlier talk at Cheyenne, capital of Wyoming, the president asserted "the United States government is not going broke" and that he will "continue during these four years the practice of the last four."

Constitutional government, he told the Casper crowd, "is succeeding despite the obstacles being placed in its way by those who do not want to see it work."

The president spent the day in Wyoming, speaking from the rear of his train five times without mentioning his court reorganization program.

Talks In General Terms

Some observers thought beforehand that he might do so while in the home state of Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) a leading opponent of the court plan. Instead the president talked in general terms of what his administration had done and planned to do.

At Casper, he said he was being helped to balance his budget by a reduction in Wyoming state relief rolls from 11,000 to 6,000. Sixty millions of dollars of federal money had been spent in the state during his administration, he said, but this rate would not continue since conditions had improved. He added that the budget would be balanced.

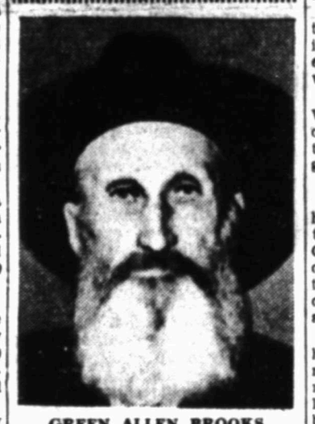

Turns To International Affairs

Once during the day, he turned to international affairs.

Someone in the crowd at Wendover, Wyo., yelled "Are we going to

GREEN ALLEN BROOKS

Octogenarian Is Given 5 Years

(By The Associated Press)

JONESVILLE, Va., Sept. 24.—A Lee county jury today convicted Green Allen Brooks, 82 year old Virginian, of manslaughter in the slaying of Deputy Sheriff Arch Redmond in 1935, and fixed punishment at five years imprisonment.

The bearded octogenarian testified that he shot down Redmond and Deputy Sheriff Bob Bailey in self-defense.

He said he fled to Kentucky and thence to Texas after the double killing in July 1935. He was acquitted by a jury some months ago in Bailey's death.

The two deputies came to his home to arrest Luther Poore, Green's son-in-law, on a charge of which he eventually was cleared.

The gun battle between the two officers and Brooks followed.

With him was Hal Roach, American movie producer associated with a new company which will make motion pictures in Italy.

Mahon Asks For Cotton Classers For District

Congressman George Mahon, busily engaged in gathering viewpoints of farmers on new farm legislation and crop control over his district, has begun a campaign to secure government cotton classing stations in at least two South Plains points to facilitate loans on cotton which have been held up by red tape of the government's recently announced loan program.

Pointing out that the South Plains crop is the latest in the nation and that growers face "serious losses' if conditions aren't alleviated, Mahon wired officials at Washington Friday for immediate action on the situation.

Warehousemen Declining

"Several days ago at the request of Lamesa cotton producers and others, I requested Secretary Wallace and the Commodity Credit corporation to provide government cotton classers for West Texas in order to fix class on cotton for the purpose of facilitating cotton loans," the congressman said. "Warehousemen are required by the CCC to be responsible for classification of all cotton upon which government loan is made. Warehousemen have declined to assume the responsibility and producers prefer that government cotton classers be sent into the field to definitely and finally grade cotton when loans are made. Producers feel that warehousemen will have a tendency to grade cotton low in order to protect themselves on their guarantee.

"In 1935 the CCC upon classification of government loan cotton found much of it did not measure up to classification and many loans were called the government and producers' cotton sold by the government at the lowest point on the market.

"Yesterday, I was advised by the CCC that it would not send cotton classers into the field for the purpose of grading cotton," he continued. "Today I have asked reconsideration and talked by long distance telephone to George Rothwell, secretary of the CCC in Washing-

Pioneer South Texas Cattleman Is Dead

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 24. (AP)—Col. Ike Pryor, 85, picturesque cattleman who grew up with Texas, died today.

A homeless orphan in his early youth, the Florida native amassed a million dollars because cattle fascinated him.

Pryor took to the trail when he was 19 years old and to the time of his death held a keen interest in ranching. He twice was president of the American National Livestock association and three times headed the Texas Cattle Raisers association.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow.

Riot By Fans Halts Plainview And Floydada Football Game

PLAINVIEW, Sept. 24. (AP)—A riot by fans late in the third quarter in which an official was injured tonight halted the football contest between the Plainview Bulldogs and the Floydada Whirlwinds with the Bulldogs leading, 28-6.

Henry Milby, Wayland college athletic director who was acting as umpire, was struck in the mouth by one of several fans who came swarming on the playing field after a Floydada player was ejected from the game for roughness.

Scatter Winters, Floydada coach, called his team off the field as police and ground keepers intervened in numerous squabbles on the playing field and attempted to halt the demonstration.

Meeting Of Two Dictators Has Europe Tense

Mussolini En Route Last Night To Parley; Tour Of Germany Planned; Talk Is Important

By ANDRUE BERDING
Associated Press Staff Writer

MUNICH, Germany, Sept. 24. — The Duce of Fascism and the Fuehrer of Nazism will meet tomorrow for the second time in their historic careers to toast the common ideals of their political creeds and perhaps to address to the world a joint appeal for peace.

Adolf Hitler, chancellor of Germany, already is here to be host in the dramatic meeting in this birthplace of national socialism, now in gala dress with flowers, flags and colors and under the vigilant eyes of thousands of crack German guardsmen.

Benito Mussolini, Duce of Fascist Italy, sped across Austria by special train for the rendezvous and for a five-day triumphal tour of Germany.

The two had met once before, briefly, at Venice in 1934.

Question Before Europe

What they will do at the second meeting and of what they will talk were the great questions in minds of European statesmen tonight.

Informed sources declared that the two heads of state had agreed to make a joint world appeal for peace when they address a huge demonstration in Berlin's Olympic stadium Tuesday.

Italians who should know believed it would be so strongly worded as an appeal for peace that it might form the basis for lasting understanding in Europe.

Hope To Arrange Agreement

Diplomats gathering here said Hitler and Mussolini hope to arrange some sort of peace agreement with Great Britain and France.

These plans, however, do not include Soviet Russia; Germany and Italy already are allied in a stand against communism.

Some sort of new Locarno treaty appeared to be the idea in mind—but with Belgium excluded because of her recently reaffirmed neutrality and her desire to keep out of foreign alignments.

The old Locarno included Belgium, Britain, Italy, France and Germany and contained the Rhineland clause, forbidding German military concentration in that buffer area next to France. The Rhineland now is remilitarized, and that clause would be missing from any new pact.

One danger point of the whole situation continues, however, political observers here believed, and that is the continuing Spanishcivil war, with Germany and Italy favoring Insurgent Spain, Britain seeking to maintain a neutral attitude and France favoring the Madrid-Valencia government.

There was also the interpretation from Italian quarters—as well as British — that this week's Italo-French conversations in Geneva were designed to give Mussolini the upper hand in any dealing with Hitler.

Mussolini, these quarters felt, sought to strengthen his position with France and Britain before the meeting with his Nazi colleague.

German foreign officials flatly denounced any inference that the Italian Duce had acted behind Hitler's back in this matter. "Any-

Library Was Burned Down And Sherman Gets Blame

(By The Associated Press)

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Sept. 24. President Roosevelt told a western crowd here today the story of a PWA application from the South which he said had amused him.

A Southern community, the story went, applied for funds to build a school and library. The school money was granted because the community's school house was about to tumble down. The library was rejected because congress had restricted the funds to replacing buildings destroyed or useless.

When an official of the community called on the president, Mr. Roosevelt said he explained how the law prevented his approving the library funds.

If the building had been burned down, the chief executive

The Woman's Angle

By Margaret Turner

THE heartaches of the country find their way into the president's mail, Ben Whitehurst discovered during the days he served as chief of the correspondence division of FERA and WPA and supervised the handling of the mass of mail which pours into the White House from all parts of the country every day.

Bad weather brings an increase, Mr. Whitehurst observes, for not only are needs greater when the weather is uncomfortable but confinement indoors encourages letter writing. Troubled souls throughout the land listen avidly and cast their burdens, great and small, upon him. And many assume that they are the only writers and expect personal and direct aid from the president.

We cite below a few of the requests which daily, during the past few years, have piled up in the president's office. But before you read them, let us quote from Mr. Whitehurst himself:

"One of the by-products of America's unburdening herself is humor—an unconscious, natural humor. Many of the communications are pathetic, but in the pathos the reader will find laughs as well as tears. I have often seen correspondence clerks shake with laughter at some passage from an incoming letter, only to grow misty-eyed with sympathy, and I believe they may be pardoned for their laughter, for sympathy, not ridicule, was uppermost in their minds."

And here you are:

My mule is out and gone 5 weeks. I can't find him nowhere."

"I've tried since last June to get in the insane asylum but they don't seem to want me because I'm not insane. The joke is on them."

"You as President should make a law that kidnappers can't collect ransom until the victim is delivered safe."

"I am writing this letter in longhand so that your stenographer may not know its contents. It is strictly confidential. I don't even want you to tell Mrs. Roosevelt about it."

"Mr. Roosevelt, they said I was living with a married woman. In the first place, she was not married. In the second, I was not living with her."

"I guess I will have to split up my family, including my mother-in-law."

"I am blond headed and trying to live a Christian life."

FOR LONELY HEARTS

There are poems for every lonely heart in Helen Welshimer's book, "Singing Drums." Here's a small one which she titles, "Souvenirs."

"I carry around
Small words you said,
The way that you smile,
And hold your head,
The ghost of a hill
That we went up,
And roadside tea
In a Gypsy cup,
A hurdy-gurdy
Not quite in tune,
The broken edge
Of a rugged moon . . .
There are lots of things
I intend to do
As soon as I stop
Remembering you."

CUTTING KITCHEN TROUBLES

A PAIR of efficient shears lightens much of the drudgery of many routine kitchen tasks. One manufacturer has constructed sturdy kitchen scissors with colorful handles which are excellent for cutting up poultry, slicing green beans, mincing bacon and parsley. Even cutting rope, carpets and wire screen are not too much to ask of them. A special hook on the handle prys off bottle tops and coarse teeth on the inside of the handles afford a firm grip to remove screw tops from bottles and small jars.

Rush Parties To Be Ended

Various groups have interesting activities scheduled for today or tonight.

High school and college clubs will conclude a two weeks' period of rushing. Several adult groups will enjoy socials.

A benefit supper will be given by St. Mary's Catholic auxiliary at 6 o'clock tonight at the parish hall. Reservations should be made by noon today with Mrs. W. C. Cole, telephone 1647-w, of Mrs. C. W. Ratliff, telephone 1063-w. Tickets are 50 cents each.

The Texas Technological college Council of Women Graduates will have a luncheon at 1 p. m. in the Hilton hotel Chimayo room.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon, the Lubbock branch of the American Association of University Women will have its first fall meeting in room 107 of the Tech home economics building.

New Officers Introduced At Wesley Class Luncheon

New officers of the First Methodist Wesley class were introduced Thursday afternoon at a covered dish luncheon given at the church for the class. They are: President, Mrs. George R. Bean; vice-president, Mrs. W. W. Richeson; secretary, Mrs. A. G. Odom; treasurer, Mrs. Pebble Talley.

The Rev. W. P. Garvin is teacher and Mrs. Fred Adkins is assistant teacher, Mrs. H. W. Sims is chairman of social activities; Mrs. A. B. Ellis is pianist and Mrs. W. C. Rylander is song leader.

Mrs. J. B. McCauley presided at the luncheon, asked for yearly reports and introduced the officers.

Of Personal Interest . .

Mr. and Mrs. T. Q. Scott are leaving today for their home in Laredo after a week's visit with Mr. Scott's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Scott. They will be accompanied as far as Coleman by Mrs. Scott, who will visit another son, Gilford Scott, and family.

Miss Willette Waters of Borger visited recently in the home of her mother, Mrs. H. O. Waters, 1020 Ninth street.

Mrs. Walker Is Honored At Party Given On Thursday

Mrs. Jimmy A. Walker, who was Miss Loyce Hollingsworth before her recent marriage, was honored when Mrs. M. M. Hollingsworth, her sister-in-law, entertained Thursday night in the home of Mrs. Leo Hollingsworth, 1907 Avenue F.

After a series of clever games and contests, the honoree was presented with a shower of gifts.

Refreshments were served to Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Hollingsworth, W. R. Anderson, John South, Ralph Collins, John Hartnett, Lynn Jones, Marie Kelly, Margaret Ann Cleveland, Wanda Graves, Mrs. C. H. Sumner, Ruth Harvey, Margaret Dotson, Virginia Davis, Geneva Dixon, Joyce Hollingsworth and Mrs. J. Wright.

Miss Winnifred Sherrod Is ACC Pep Squad Member

ABILENE, Sept. 24. (Special)—Miss Winifred Sherrod, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sherrod, 2320 Thirteenth street, was admitted to membership in the Kitten Klub, women's pep organization at Abilene Christian college, at the close of competitive tryouts held on the campus Wednesday afternoon. She is one of 33 students elected to fill out the quota of 80 members. Applicants were judged according to general appearance, personality and ability to co-operate in unison drill.

Wolfforth Band Mothers To Buy Uniforms, Bass Horn

WOLFFORTH, Sept. 24. (Special)—The Band Mothers club, composed of mothers of Frenship High School band members met for the first time this fall in the music room of the school building. The following officers were elected:

President, Mrs. R. S. Hobgood; vice president, Mrs. A. L. Smith; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. M. E. Casey, and reporter, Mrs. T. E. Snider.

The club will sponsor buying uniforms and a bass horn for the band.

Awards were made on the basis of scholarship, leadership, personality, character and a reasonable need.

School Disaster Is Cited As Example Of Safety Needs

DALLAS, Sept. 24. (AP)—The New London disaster was cited as an example of the need of adequate inspection and safeguards against farm fire and explosion in rural schools by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace in a release urging observance of National Fire Prevention week, received today by Harold M. Young, district manager of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce.

The National Fire Prevention week will begin Oct. 3.

"Last year" according to Secretary Wallace, "about 3,500 people lost their lives in farm fires. The property loss was approximately $100,000,000, not including the loss in non-farming rural communities." The loss in villages and towns of less than 2500, he estimated at $125,000,000.

"The tragic explosion last March in a Texas consolidated school which killed many children and teachers reveals the shocking face that but few states make any provisions for inspecting rural schools against fire, explosion and faulty construction." He urged that steps be taken to protect rural school children with the same strict safety laws that apply in cities.

Two Negroes Charged After Liquor Raids

As result of liquor raids in the 1900-block Avenue B late Thursday, two negroes were charged with violation of state liquor laws, the complaints having been filed Friday afternoon in county court.

Surlester Hereford, one of the defendants, entered a plea of not guilty and posted $250 bond, according to members of the sheriff's department. The complaint had been sworn to by Sam W. Fort of the Texas Liquor Control board before Hugh Anderson, assistant county attorney.

Bond Set at $750

Estes Bowman, 17, charged in the justice court of Walter Davies with attempting to pass an allegedly forged instrument, was arraigned Friday and bond was set at $750. Gray Harrist, deputy sheriff, swore to the complaint before Victor H. Lindsey, assistant district attorney. It set out the youth attempted to pass an $11.50 check on a Lubbock bank and bore an allegedly false signature.

A juvenile was charged in connection with the attempted passing of allegedly forged checks and his case was transferred to Judge E. L. Pitts of 99th district court, whose jurisdiction in juvenile matters is concurrent with that of County Judge J. J. Dillard.

The two held in connection with attempted passing charges live near Buffalo Gap, said Jas. P. Posey, chief deputy sheriff. One of them was in possession of a "billy" when arrested. They were in possession of several checks they assertedly had written and exchanged for purpose of thwarting possible attempts at detection, said the deputy.

Oklahoman Dies After 5-Story Plunge From Hospital Window

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 24. (AP)—E. F. James, 35, of Tulsa, Okla., died today after plunging five stories from a hospital window.

Hospital authorities said after a preliminary examination they believed he had suffered only bruises but later attributed his death to the fall.

The case of Rex Warren against J. I. Case company and others, suit for cancellation of debt and damages, probably will reach a county court jury early today, according to Judge J. J. Dillard. The case was begun Friday. Subject to call today is the debt and garnishment suit of Slaton Motor company against C. L. and Bettie Adams.

Outlaw Riders To Meet Outlaw Broncs Next Sunday In Texas Prison's Annual Rodeo

(By The Associated Press)

HUNTSVILLE, Sept. 24.—Outlaw riders will meet outlaw broncs here October 3 in the Texas prison's seventh annual rodeo—the roughest and toughest wild west show this side of the Trinity river.

Each Sunday during the month the convicts will stage their wild and wooly spectacle. It is the only show of its kind in the world. Only convicts are allowed to compete in the many events.

Ten thousand customers are expected to jam the prison stadium when the first bull roars his challenge to the horsemen. The stands were enlarged this year because annually thousands are turned away.

Prison Manager O. J. S. Ellingson said this year's show would be the best yet staged. Untamed prison owned stock, which roams the river bottom of a vast area, will be used.

Superb horsemanship will be required of the winner. Men with lives to be spent in prison ride hard when the money is down. And a $10 bill—a fortune to a man in prison—awaits the top rider. The second best rider will get $5 and the third winner will get $2.

Albert Moore, recreation director, said all money collected at the stadium gate will go to the prisoners' welfare fund.

Betting is heavy on their favorite riders. A plug of tobacco will get next Sunday's dinner that No. 65301 will beat 74652 in the bronc-busting feature.

Lubbock Westerners Win From Slaton, 19-0; Tech Tackles Longhorns Today

Paxton Stars As Locals Get Off To Slow Start

TOM MILLER
Avalanche Staff Sports Writer

The Westerners hit a snag early in the game with Slaton last night, but finally found the range to win, 19 to 0.

The Tigers, a husky, fighting bunch of gridders, fired up with a will to win over a class A team, opened with a nice running game. On three plays they advanced the ball 15 yards for a first down before Bullard fumbled to give Lubbock the ball. After the ball had changed hands four times on misplays in the first seven minutes of play, Lubbock put the visitors on the defensive, where they stayed throughout the game.

Scores All Touchdowns

Little Coulson Paxton stepped off runs of 21, 22 and 19 yards to score all of the Westerners' touchdowns on identical plays. Taking the ball on a spinner, Paxton timed his running well each time to drift through the Slaton line and away from the secondary.

The first score came on the initial play of the second period, starting from Slaton's 21-yard stripe. Capt. Babe Ritchie converted. Bill Sessums had put the ball there in the first quarter when he returned a punt 26 yards. An offside penalty loss was gained in two plays by Jumbo Webster as the opening chapter ended.

A short punt left the Tigers deep in their own territory midway of the third quarter. Webster hit the center of the line for 15 yards. After losing on two plays the stage was set for the second marker, as Paxton weaved his way over the pay line.

Pass Ruled Forward

The fleet little half almost singlehandedly pushed the ball from his own 25-yard line over the goal line in the third and final quarters. He returned 35 paces after taking Henry's punt. Change of positions on the field was sandwiched between Dutchy Cawthon's five yard slice and Webster's end run, good for 6 yards. The towhead scored from there.

The Westerners had apparently scored another touchdown soon after halftime when Ritchie pulled out of his tackle position to circle end. After a fifteen yard gain, the Babe passed to Jackson, who went across standing up. Officials ruled the pass forward, rather than lateral, and Lubbock was penalized the length of the gain.

Henry, fast Slaton triple-threater, with his passing, punting and running, and Bullard led the Tiger offense. Sonny Waldrep, end and Clack, center, were stalwarts on the forward wall.

Venable Plays Well

Paxton shared with Webster and Rusty Johnston in ground gaining for Lubbock. Bill Sessums did his share from the blacking back post.

On the Westerner line, L. D. Venable, shoved into the line-up when Herb Leaverton, regular pivot man, was incapacitated by a hand injury this week, stood out defensively. Venable's passes back were erratic at times, but were overshadowed by his deadly tackling.

Joe Pyteil played well at his guard position both offensively and defensively. Ritchie showed plenty of spirit in the second half after a slow start.

A near fist fight between opposing players in the waning minutes of play drew attention away from the game.

Starting line-ups:

LUBBOCK	Pos.	SLATON

Lid To Be Blasted Off Grid Season Along Wide Front

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Sept. 24. — College football blasts its way into the national sports picture tomorrow, taking up the headline slack in the wake of a volley of left jabs on the pugilistic front and with the edge currently off major league baseball's pennant fights.

There has already been some scattering gridiron skirmishing but this week's firing, heaviest in the Middle and Far West, marks the actual start of the big drive for glory, gate receipts, and post season invitations to the featured new year's "bowl" festivities.

Nearly Everybody In Action

Most of the ranking collegiate football powers, headed from all accounts by Minnesota's mighty Gophers and Pittsburgh's Rose Bowl champions, will swing into action for the first time.

The Middle West furnishes the chief intersectional test and the biggest drawing card, with Texas Christian challenging Ohio State at Columbus before an expected turnout of 75,000 fans, but the Pacific coast has a three-star program calculated to lure 135,000 spectators through the turnstiles.

Expecting 60,000

A crowd of 60,000 is predicted for the California-St. Mary's game, with 40,000 due to see Stanford play Santa Clara, the Sugar Bowl winner, and 35,000 anticipated for the intersectional match between the University of Iowa and Washington's Huskies, 1936 Pacific coast conference champions, at Seattle.

All told, an Associated Press survey of crowd prospects indicates close to 500,000 fans will witness a score of Saturday's featured engagements.

Ohio State Over TCU

Seven of the Big Ten conference squads will be put on view but only Ohio State and Iowa appear to be in danger of defeat. Ohio State gets the call over Texas Christian in what should prove one of the day's toughest battles. Iowa, making its debut under the new coaching regime of Irl Tubbs, may be nothing more than the experience and a train ride. Washington figures to beat the Hawkeyes handily.

Such is the gridiron fever in the region of the Twin Cities that 52,000 followers of the Golden Gophers are expected to see them enjoy a workout at the expense of North Dakota State.

Zuppke In 25th Season

Illinois, starting its 25th season under Bob Zuppke, has no setup in Ohio university. Wisconsin and Indiana have nothing especially to fear from South Dakota State or Centre, respectively. Purdue, led by the versatile Cecil Isbell, may have trouble with Butler.

There will be no delay getting an early line on Pacific coast conference prospects. California, with clearly defined title aspirations, is the choice over St. Mary's. Santa Clara was two touchdowns better than Stanford last year. The Bronchos are favored to repeat but it should be closer. U. C. L. A. is the choice over Oregon in a conference tilt.

Pittsburgh East Winner

Pittsburgh, with most of its 1936 stars available, figures to run roughshod over Ohio Wesleyan.

Cornell, one of the two "Ivy league" teams to make a September start, plays Penn State at Ithaca in the Eastern headliner. Cornell rates only a thin call over a rival that looks much tougher than last season.

Dartmouth plays a "breather" against Bates while the rest of the eastern "old guard" comprising Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Pennsylvania and Columbia, marks time for another week in training camps.

Out For Revenge

Down east, the Holy Cross Crusaders are out for revenge against St. Anselm, which held its bigger rival to a scoreless tie last year.

Navy, with material for all emergencies this season, figures to trim William & Mary tomorrow.

Moving South, there doesn't seem to be much cause for alarm among the top notchers, aside from the "natural" that pits the aspiring Vanderbilt Commodores against Kentucky at Nashville. This comes pretty close to being a toss up.

Breaks May Decide

Tulane is the choice over Clemson but the breaks may decide this one.

Duke, champions of the Southern conference, have too much power for Virginia Tech. North Carolina gets the nod over South Carolina. Tennessee and Georgia Tech figure to take workouts at the expense of Wake Forest and Presbyterian.

Southwest fans, while following Texas Christian's intersectional fortunes, will find interest in the first showing of the University of Texas under Dana Bible's newly installed regime. The Longhorns will have their hands full taking the measure of Texas Tech.

Levelland Is Victor Over Post, 34 To 0

LEVELLAND, Sept. 24. (Special)—The Levelland Lobos romped their way over the Post Antelopes to the tune of 34 to 0 here tonight.

Neither team had much luck passing, but both had better success on the ground. The Lobos ran with the ball for 400 yards and the Antelopes, while not scoring, gained 165 yards.

Bradley, Lobo quarter, scored two touchdowns in the second quarter and kicked four points after touchdown. In the first quarter one of his punts rolled out of bounds on the Post one-yard line after travelling 44 yards. McCann, half, shared honors in the Lobo backfield by scoring three touchdowns.

Altman, halfback, and Ingram, center, stood out for Post. Ingram came back from his pivot position to do most of his team's kicking.

El Paso Marksman To Compete In Skeet Shoot Here Sunday

A. L. Clay, arms salesman from El Paso, will compete Sunday in skeet shoot of the Lubbock Skeet and Gun club, according to J. E. Mann, secretary.

One of the best marksmen to display his wares at the local club, Clay was high scorer in Sunday's weekly shoot. Matches will begin at 2:30 p. m. at the club's range, 1 1-2 miles north of the city.

Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 24.—Five Southwest conference powerhouses start rolling tomorrow in a campaign all seven coaches agree will be the most unpredictable the league has seen.

Conjecture about at least two of the entries, Texas Christian and the University of Texas, will take the form of fact, for both have skipped the "breathers" and invited disaster at the starting post.

A 205 pound average Christian line, backed by clever ball carriers and aerial artists, play the nation's standout game against Ohio State at Columbus, Ohio. It's coach Leo (Dutch) Meyer's challenge to his old head coach, Francis Schmidt, who only three years ago forsook the southwest for the Big Ten.

Can O'Brien Replace Baugh?

Just what effect the absence of Sammy Baugh will have on the Christians will be determined by the actions of his successor, Davey O'Brien, a 147-pound sniper who can handle forward passes in the same league with Baugh, the critics say. Intact except for the probable absence of George Dunlap, guard, who suffered a bad head cut in practice at St. Louis two days ago, the Christians will rely on their noted razzle-dazzle tactics.

Stay-at-homes are most concerned over the debut of Coach D. X. Bible's University of Texas Longhorns, an outfit that floundered around and won only two games last year but is perking up under the influence of Bible, starting his first year as mentor. The Longhorns meet Texas Tech.

Tech opened against Arizona State last week and came off a 6-0 winner, but railbirds who watched them fumble repeatedly in the game say they are not as potent as Red Raider teams of the past three years.

Aggies Take It Easy

The conference favorite, Texas A and M, will content itself with scrimmaging the freshman team before opening against Chick Meehan's Manhattan Jaspers at New York City Oct. 2, as will Rice Institute, set to open against Oklahoma at Norman a week from tomorrow.

However, the Arkansas Razorbacks set about the business of defending their title by opening against the Central Oklahoma Teachers at Fayetteville. All the offensive power that was present last year again will rumble, while their great pair of ends, Jim Benton and Ray Hamilton, are ready for overtime pass receiving duty.

Baylor, the team they always concede will finish in the ruck but always sneaks into the first division, should have easy going against Southwestern of Georgetown in a night opener at Waco.

Coach Matty Bell's Southern Methodist Mustangs, blessed by offensive talent that was sorely missed last season, should get a touchdown workout against North Texas Teachers at Dallas.

Lengthy Gallop, High Score Feature Of Ropesville Win

ROPESVILLE, Sept. 24. (Special)—Ropesville ran over Cooper here today by a score of 50 to 0.

Though the visitors ran up 92 yards from scrimmage and made five first downs they were unable to score. Ropesville gained a total of 498 yards from a combined running and passing attack. Payton scored five times including a 95 yard gallop in the second period.

Raiders And St. Eds Scrimmage; Teams All Set

By COLLIER PARRIS
Avalanche Sports Editor

AUSTIN, Sept. 24.—The folks in this town, including those who play football for Dana Bible and the University of Texas, are in for an awful let down. A terrific deflation—if the Red Raiders from Texas Tech come through with anything approaching a victory at the Longhorn gridiron Saturday afternoon.

With Bible's arrival as head man at Longhornville, and considering the scads of physical material on hand, the idea around here is that University of Texas has "arrived" in a football way. A stranger in town would be impressed as he maneuvered from the capitol steps to any barroom by the amount of confidence the good people here have in the University football team.

Austin Fans Cocky

"Oh, from two to six touchdowns, anyway," is the answer to the query, "How bad will Texas beat Tech?" That gives you an idea. Very little wagering, or accepting of points is going on because the main Lubbock delegation won't be here until early Saturday morning. The special train will be met by a horde of students and townspeople.

Despite the fact that Temple and Austin were playing a high school game here tonight, the talk was all for Texas and Tech. Hundreds of the curious were at the station when the Red Raiders disembarked at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. They followed the Techs to the hotel. Tried to follow them to the practice field, but were thwarted when gates were closed against intruders.

Cawthon Not Optimistic

Coach Pete Cawthon set a precedent by being "one of the boys" on the trip to Austin, and by appearing cheerful and easy to meet upon arrival here. He answered all questions of sports writers, posed for photographers. "Guessed" that the Red Raiders would put up a good battle but "probably will find too much competition."

Not so the Red Raiders. They were ready to play Texas this afternoon. In fine, nervous fettle, they boarded buses out to the St. Edwards university field, and found a warm welcome. Not only did Coach Bill Pierce offer the use of the Saints' field but he submitted his own Saints as "warm up material" for a good workout. The St. Edwards crew ran University of Texas plays at the Raiders, and in turn set up Longhorn defenses against Tech plays. For this very accommodating gesture, Tech coaches were highly grateful. It proved to be one of the best workouts of the week.

Coach Bible, interviewed during Longhorn practice, had little to say. He wore a worried expression, and seemed to be the only person in Austin with such an expression. "We have a tough game coming up. I know it, even if the players don't. They're a little hard to convince, and they have me bothered. But we'll be ready, or as ready as any team could be for its first game."

Cawthon changed his plans at the last minute and decided to use Allan Plummer, plunging and passing junior from Beaumont, instead of Gene Barnett, asa starting left halfback. He plans to start Buzz Barnard at the other half, with Ed Smith at quarter, Elmer Tarbox at full.

Tech's starting line will be Captain Ramsey and Thurman Bostick at ends, Bill Davis and Abe Murphy at tackles, Pete Owens and Lou Jones at guards, Frank Gusick at center.

Texas' starting linup probably will be Roach and Peterson at ends, Myers and Esunas at tackles, Rhodes and King at guards, Jackson at center; Wolfe, quarterback; Atchison and Boyer, halfbacks and Gray, fullback.

Panthers Head Toward First Pennant And Dixie Series Since The Late Twenties

(By The Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, Sept. 24.—Fort Worth's Panthers drove towards the first Texas league pennant and Dixie series since their reign of the late twenties by stopping Oklahoma City here tonight, 3-1, in the fourth game of their titular playoff.

As customary, they came from behind to lick the Sooners, picking up runs in the seventh and eighth off boyish Ralph Buxton that gave them a three-to-one lead in the series.

Clyde (Rabbitt) McDowell, former Univeristy of Texas star, applied the punch that hurt in the seventh inning. His line single to left chased across Bill (Bust 'em) Jackson, who had started the inning with a lazy double into center.

Jackson stood on the second sack while Greenberg, pinch hitting for Smoll, whiffed and Hugh Shelley fouled to the third sacker. Buxton worked on McDowell for a two and two count before the chunky infielder lashed his clean hit.

Spur Swamps Local Cowhands, 52 To 0

SPUR, Sept. 24. (Special) — The Lubbock high Cowhands came out on the short end of a 52 to 0 score in their game here today with the Spur team. The victors ran up a grand total of 528 yards, gaining 422 yards running and 106 yards via the air route.

The Cowhands were plainly outclassed, but did manage to chalk up 4 first downs and completed 7 passes out of 15 attempts.

Lineups: Cowhands, ends, Millsap and Phillips; tackles, Holly and Farrias; center, Jones; quarter, Tate; halfs, Trice and Tate; full, Martin.

Spur; ends Willhoit and Towell; tackles, York and Lisenby; center, Rumpus; quarter, J. B. Haralson; halfs, Harrell and Bingham; full, Garner.

Matador Looses Game Friday To Silverton Eleven, 12-7

MATADOR, Sept. 24. (Special)—Matador High school's grid machine went down in defeat here this afternoon in its first conference tussle after taking an early lead with a touchdown on the third play of the game. Silverton won 12 to 7.

Silverton's gridsters retaliated in the first quarter with a touchdown and scored again in the third to win.

Scann, Matador back, loped across the goalline for the Matadors' on their third try.

Ryder Cup Stars Dropped Out In Belmont Open

By BILL KING
Associated Press Staff Writer

BELMONT, Mass., Sept. 24.—The pace in the 18-hole sprints, the bane of those who seek the pots of gold at the end of the golfing rainbows, much too hot for Denny Shute, Boston's two-time P. G. A. champion, and three of his Ryder cup teammates today in the opening rounds of the 12,000 Belmont open match play tournament.

Shute failed to get out of the first round, where he bowed, by the margin of only one hole, to the par-71 turned in by Herman Barron of White Plains, N. Y., the metropolitan P. G. A. titlist.

Snead, Manero Out Also

Sam Snead, Tony Manero, the 1936 national open winner and yesterday's medalist, and Horton Smith were the other Ryder cuppers who went out in the second round as their teammates, Champion Ralph Guldahl, Byron Nelson, Johnny Revolta and Henry Picard entered the tourney's first 36-holes round by putting together two victories over the shorter route.

Snead was unable to keep step with Mortie Dutra of Royal Oak, Mich., who fired a three-under 33 to gain a four holes lead at the turn and was even pars for the next five holes before he clinched his one sided 5 and 4 triumph.

Lacey Eliminates Smith

Charley Lacey of Great Neck, Long Island, who topped all of the Ryder cup players in the British open, eliminated Smith by a 4 and 3 Margin and Manero surrendered on the 14th green, where Johnny Farrell, who defeated Bobby Jones in a playoff for the 1928 open, had him five down and but four to play.

Among the other survivors were Leo Diegel of Philadelphia, "Lighthorse" Harry Cooper of Chicago, Ray Mangrum of Dayton, Ohio, Clarence Clark of Bloomfield, N. J., Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., Jimmy Thomson and Lawson Little, and Dick Metz, Chicago pro, who remained by removing the last of the five amateur qualifiers, Ray Billows of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., recent runner-up to Johnny Goodman.

Earned Huge Silver Bowl

Billows unexpected performance earned him the huge silver bowl, the outstanding award for an amateur in this richly endowed open event.

Three of the other four amateurs were also stubborn battlers against superior odds but they made their stands in the first round, where Nelson and Lacey had to go 10 holes to pass through Johnny Levinson of Kennebunk, Me., the New England champion, and Edward Martin of Wayland. The latter's twin brother, Leo was the fifth amateur qualifier but he was overwhelmed, 5 and 4, by Snead.

As a result of today's play, the thumping Little, who overcame Art Straub of Brielle, N. Y., 3 and 2, and appropriately named Emile Mashie of Fitchburg, 5 and 3, was installed as the 6-1 favorite. The even longer Thomson, Revolta, Picard and Nelson were bunched at 8-1 and the longest shots in the field, at 20-1 were Clark, Cox and Dutra.

"Methods," Vs. "Objectives"

IN a speech at Marshalltown, Iowa, the the other night President Roosevelt talked rather vaguely about "methods and objectives." His speech sounded good but what it meant was not entirely clear.

The nation knows full well the "methods" employed by the President in his ill-advised court reorganization plan. The patronage ax was waved in the faces of senators courageous enough to oppose the move. The radio was used as the President attempted to "sell the public" on his plan. New Deal chieftains threatened opposing Democrats with reprisals in the 1938 elections and last, but not least, the President poured forth bitter criticism of the opponents in his Roanoke Island address which included those "Lord Macauley" comparisons. So much for "methods."

The "objectives," however, are another matter.

The President's friends claim his still pursued program of taking over the judiciary has been adopted because of his burning desire to do something big and grand for us common people. His opponents, on the other hand, charge that Mr. Roosevelt seeks to place the courts system under his thumb so that his position will be relatively dictatorial.

One person's guess about which of the two claims is right is as good as the guess of anyone else. While the President's "objectives" may be as Utopian as he claims, they also may be just the opposite.

If, however, the "objectives" are to be judged by the merits of the "methods," there's nothing big or grand about the New Deal plan to kidnap the judiciary, lock stock and barrel. That's one thing that even the most ardent of the New Deal camp cannot deny.

Benny Goes To Visit 'Dolf

SOMETIME Monday Benny Mussolini, of the Rome Mussolinis, will arrive in Berlin for a friendly visit with his fascist pal and sidekick, 'Dolf Hitler, the well known ex-paperhanger of Vienna and environs.

During the past several days Berlin has been in a lather, getting ready for Benny's visit. With German efficiency, the greatest "cleanup and paintup campaign" in the history of the world is being pushed to conclusion. All will be sweetness and light when the two expert sword rattlers and mob harranguers sit down to decide just how each can help the other stay in office!

It is a situation wonderful to behold, intriguing even to the dullest imagination. Nobody aside from Benny and 'Dolf knows what the gabfest is for, or what will be discussed over kraut and beer at the great Berlin reunion of the mighty. But could it really be that the boys are getting together simply because "misery loves company?"

Stranger things than that have happened!

With Our Contemporaries

"'Actions speak louder than words,' applies again to the big C. of C. of Lubbock, which organization has seen the necessity of routing its trade trip around Plains," W. J. Hale complains in the Yoakum County Review. "We had hoped the trippers would visit us on this round so they could see our new buildings and the general improvement. We hope to have the light plant in operation soon and the Then, too, what is to be one of the largest hotels in all this south end of the plains, may have the foundation laid by the time they could be here. They should visit the oil capital, Plains." (All-right, pour it on; but a little bird has whispered that as soon as the fair is over, some of the boys will come over in a body and hobnob with you-all.)

"Charlie Guy in The Avalanche-Journal made quite a bit of 'light' of Uncle Tom Hunter, as he calls him, for sending up trial balloon feelers to run for governor," Andy Jack Stricklin blasts in the Terry County Herald. "Well, at least, you will have to admit that Tom made a better race each time for governor than your man, Grandpa Small, Sharley."

The One-Minute Sermon

Therefore it shall come to pass, that as all good things are come upon you, which the Lord your God promised you; so shall the Lord bring upon you all evil things, until we have destroyed you from off this good land which the Lord your God hath given you.

When you have transgressed the covenant of the Lord your God, which he commanded you, and have gone and served other gods, and bowed yourselves to them; then shall the anger of the Lord be kindled against you, and ye shall perish quickly from off the good land which he hath given unto you.—Joshua, XXIII, 15 and 16.

Murder On The Bluff... By Esther Tyler

SYNOPSIS: Jude Blinshop, my old flame, is mysteriously shot to death. That starts our stormy weekend at Farrington Bluff, home of Michael's aunts. A series of strange attacks occurs. Then we find the body of Michael's mad father below the bluff. Aunt Martha is shot in the shoulder, and nearly finished with sleeping powders. Then Skipper, Mike's tall, tweedy younger aunt, disappears. Cook, William, the chauffeur, and Annie, the maid suspect Higgins, the old butler. I lock him in his room, believing him the killer and write out the case against each person.

The Mark In The Sand

There was only one person left, and for a moment I hesitated. There was something repulsive about istting there sorting evidence against the Skipper when the chances were that her body was floating somewhere in the churning waters of the Sound. And yet, having gone so far, I wanted to finish it.

I wrote the Skipper's name at the head of a fresh piece of paper and rattled on.

SKIPPER

Upset from the very beginning. Motive obscure. By nature would stop at nothing to gain an end that she believed in. Before the cyclone, asked me to keep Michael away frow Jude. No real evidence as to her whereabouts when Jude was killed. Apparently the last person to see Jude alive. Knew of Higgins' gun. Had been seen to use it when she considered it necessary. Unusual for her to forget the dogs. With M. Farrington when prowler was heard in upper hall. With whole party when both attacks were made. Would have been trusted by anyone.

Seemed to know just where to look for brother's body. Alibi about second shooting substantiated by Higgins. Last person with M. Farrington before her second accident. Both disappearances coincide with disaster. (First—Jude's death. Second — M. Farrington's near death.) First person to notice forced lock on Jude's door. Capable of any sort of bluff at any time.

In all probability, Michael was searching the house for me by that time. Nevertheless, the odds were against my getting another chance to think things out alone. Time was pressing. The dial of my watch registered 2:45. I imagined that the boat from shore would be at the Bluff by eight o'clock at the very latest. That left us a little over five hours. I forgot old Higgins locked in his room waiting for the police. I forgot everything. Feverishly I pored over those scribbled sheets.

I thought that the evidence pointed to one of two things—to an elaborate plan of revenge on the part of William Miller and his wife, aided by an old friend in Cook, or to an obscure and inexplicable misunderstanding between Michael and the Skipper. It was clear that, in the latter case, the two culprits were not in each other's confidence. Michael had searched the Bluff for his aunt like a madman.

Far-fetched as it might seem, I really believed that he had been ignorant of the existence of his father. All of his actions seemed to indicate that he had stumbled upon some evidence against the Skipper. He was neither a fool nor a coward, and I could explain his anxiety to have the investigation dropped in no other way. It was an impenetrable mess. But the Skipper's guilt tallied with the evidence against Higgins.

There were few people in the world whom I could imagine Higgins trying to shield. Barbara Farrington was one of them. In her behalf the old boy would go to trial without a murmur. He might have taken those letters in an attempt to shield the Skipper. He might have substantiated her alibi and tried to get someone else's fingerprints on the revolver. He might have been with the Skipper when William found him out of his room on the night of Jude's death.

It was possible that he had been about to confide the whole story to me that day in the living room when he saw someone outside the window. Could that person have been the Skipper? But what motive—what earthly motive — could the Skipper have for killing the daughter of an old family friend, for killing her only brother, for twice attempting to kill her only sister? It was preposterous. I turned hopefully to the other view of the case.

M. Farrington Approves

The Millers had motive and opportunity for everything that had happened. One of them could have shot Jude in premeditated or sudden revenge. William might have cut me down as I was about to stumble over some evidence. Any of them could have enticed Michael's father from his hiding place. Either William or Cook could have killed the cat and upset M. Farrington's room after guessing old Norman's identity, in an attempt to throw the house in a panic.

It was highly possible that M. Farrington unconsciously held some evidence against them. Any of them could have both shot and drugged her and subsequently done away with the Skipper, who might have witnessed the latttr crime. But if the Millers were guilty, how could I explain the behavior of Michael and his aunt?

I sat there for a long time, frowning at that paper. Even if the Skipper had been telling the truth, what of Michael? What had he and Jude talked about? Why had the Skipper been so anxious to keep that pair apart? I couldn't seem to get anywhere.

Michael, in the doorway, put an end to my speculations.

I recited the case against Higgins to M. Farrington myself. Michael raged, stormed and threatened to tear me limb from limb. He would, he shouted believe Higgins in opposition to St. Peter. But M. Farrington took it silently, almost coldly, as if she had been expecting it and was in a measure relieved.

"You were quite right, James," she said, cutting short Michael's tirade. "It seems unfortunate, but we must take no more chances."

My sympathies, I am afraid, were entirely with Michael. The logical thing for me to do was to present my case against William, but I hesitated to tell that story to Farrington. An opinion once lodged in her head had a tendency to stay there, and if I were wrong two innocent people would be jobless when the whole business was over. Higgins was safe and quiet. Since Gay was taking M. Farrington's view of the case, I let it go at that.

At her own request, we left M. Farrington to sleep. She seemed really much better and announced her intention of joining us downstairs a little later. Gay wanted to stay with her, but she wouldn't hear of it. Pretty much involved in our own thoughts, we made a weary trek down the stairs. In the lower hall, I grabbed an old jacket of Michael's and slipped out onto the terrace.

The Imprint Of His Body

It was a beautiful night, starry, crisp and clear. The salt air felt good. Leaning against a pillar, I closed my eyes and listened to the steady roar of the surf. I stayed there until the uproar in my head had cleared a little.

Then, lighting a cigarette, I strolled aimlessly in the direction of the bluff with some vague idea of watching the effect of the spray on the rocks below. As luck would have it, I roamed unconsciously over the exact ground that I had traversed so frantically that morning. I found myself pulling up with a jerk at the scene of Norman Farrington's death. The ground was packed and trampled from the impress of many feet. The marks of our skidding as we tugged at the rope glistened icily in the starlight.

Wordsworthian reflections on Nature deserted me. Somewhat marred by the imprint of Higgins' feet, but still clearly defined in the sand below was the shape of poor old Farrington's body. Apparently it had landed hard without sliding or rolling. At almost any other point on the whole bluff, a heavy weight going over the edge would have rolled and slid to the beach below. Slid!

If the Skipper had gone over the edge, the extent of the bluff's outward slope would make it necessary for her to have struck sand. And if she had struck sand, the mark would still be there. The rain had stopped long before she disappeared, and the sand was too wet to be much disturbed by the wind. It would be impossible for anyone to jump clear of the bluff into the water, even at high tide. There was no moon and I was without a light, but my eyes, already accustomed to the darkness, had seen the mark of Norman Farrington's body without any trouble. I raced along the top of that bluff, my eyes glued to the sand far below me.

When I finally halted on the rocks beside the stable, I knew beyond the shadow of a doubt that the Skipper had not gone over that bluff into the water. She might, of course, have fallen from the rocks either where I stood or where Michael had fallen across by the boathouse. We had already examined that possibility, with no result.

I turned moodily back toward the house. That night couldn't end too soon for me. I tried to look at my watch, but my matches were gone. Striding rapidly along, I wondered what Gay and Mike were doing. It would be pretty terrible if the Higgins issue precipitated another row.

The hall was still vacant, and the sound of voices rumbled in the living room. Peeling off the jacket, I made hastily in that direction, and just as my hand touched the knob, Gay's voice came through the closed door.

"Then would you mind telling me why you were searching your father's pockets a while ago, and what you wanted with the key you took out of them?"

I flung open the living room door in the silence.

"Well, Mike?" I said.

Higgins gives a hint of the Skipper's whereabouts Tuesday.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

"JOE" KENNEDY has discovered that the shortage of man power for the New Deal's machine is more serious than most people imagine. He regards it as the greatest problem confronting the country and government today.

The Maritime chairman recently asked a New York shipping magnate friendly to F. D. R. to supply him with half a dozen financial experts. "I want men who can make $50,000 outside the government," said Mr. Kennedy, "although I can pay them only $9,000. But I have half a billion dollars to spend, and it's up to you to help me. You business men crab in your clubs about what the government does, but you won't pitch in and give us a hand." His friend, who once headed the Roper business advisory committee, agreed that it was an excellent idea, and promised to round up several topnotch executives.

In a few days he reported ruefully that he had scraped New York without any success. Able business men will no longer enlist under F. D. R., as they did in early 1933. For one thing, they dislike Mr. Roosevelt and his policies. Most important of all, they have noted that unless high officials kowtow to politicos and political considerations, they are fired in disgrace. The bitter experiences of Johnson Douglas, Acheson, Richberg and Peek have struck a fatal blow at the Roosevelt theory of drafting outsiders as the nucleus of a corps of career men in public service.

LEGALISTIC: Theorists on the National Labor Relations board have discovered that they cannot apply the law's provisions too rigidly without creating confusion in the labor market.

Hewing strictly to the law, the board has frequently ordered a corporation to reemploy men alleged to have been discharged because of their union activities. They have also required the plant to pay back wages for the full period of the employers' discharge. But then it develops that the principals involved have obtained work elsewhere, perhaps better jobs, and have no desire to return to their former shop. To go back would mean the loss of sure positions and reemployment at a factory where they would probably meet suspicion and perjudice from the bosses. It would also displace the workers who had been engaged in their place. Nevertheless, the board still grinds out decisions that appease its legalistic appetite.

A recent ruling reveals the group's apparent excess of zeal for legal phraseology, and why employers don't know what to expect next. It seems that several employes stole a few "inexpensive lamps" at a party given in honor of a foreman. Subsequently they signed up with a union, and were fired on the ground of their pilfering. But the board ruled that stealing an "inexpensive lamp" was not sufficient reason for losing a job, and held that their union activity was the real cause.

TURMOIL: President Roosevelt is undertaking a Wilsonian swing around the circle against the advice of almost all his personal and political counselors.

Two courses confronted the President as a direct aftermath of the Supreme court defeat and the Black appointment. He could asknowledge his mistakes, as he promised to do in his first inaugural, burying the court plan and demanding Mr. Black's resignation. Or he could assume an even more aggressive attitude, appealing to the country against opposition senators and avoiding the Black issue for the time being. Almost every hard-boiled politico begged him to grin and bear adversity quietly. Instead, he gritted his teeth and decided to fight.

The politicos are not chiefly concerned with his supposed loss of prestige and popularity. They now believe that the Black storm will blow over, and that the President will maintain his hold on the masses—that their economic betterment will outweigh their emotional excitement. What they dread is that further turmoil will disturb business and industry, and precipitate a downward swing which will sour the home folks on the administration. But F. D. R. laughs at their fears.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

THE following news behind the news is authenticated by thoroughly informed and reliable sources.

Prior to 1935 Hugo Lafayette Black owed the First National Bank of Birmingham, Ala., some $24,000 for money borrowed in connection with real estate speculations. The interest at 6 per cent having been in default Black went to see a high officer of the bank. He told the latter that he was involved in other similar situations and could not continue to pay 6 per cent interest. He offered instead to pay interest at the rate of 1 per cent per annum and intimated that if this were not acceptable he would be obliged to file a voluntary petition in bankruptcy. He explained that the position he was obliged to maintain in Washington took all his salary.

The bank official remarked that a petition in bankruptcy would presumably put the debtor in a bad light with the public. The senator (as he was then) replied that on the contrary it would strengthen his position with the voters.

As a result of this discussion the interest rate was reduced to 1 per cent. This was paid during 1935 and is probably in effect to date. The entire file on the situation is in the Treasury department in Washington, in the form of a report by a bank examiner. The bank has lately been required by examiners to charge off $12,000 of the debt.

TIME: Herbert Hoover made a quiet visit to New York early this week to consult with friends. He is working hard behind the scenes to promote his plan for a party conference next year, and is quite pepped up about the response he has received to date.

The ex-President's views on the possibility of a coalition between Republicans and conservative Democrats have changed a bit since they were last reported here. He is sharply critical of Senator Arthur Vandenberg for focusing attention on the idea now—thinks discussion of it is very premature. But he no longer takes the position that it is completely out of the question.

The viewpoint he is trying to get across to influential business and financial leaders is that the G. O. P. should make no gesture towards coalition until the right wing Democrats have had a serious try at regaining control of their own party from the New Dealers. If they fail, as they presumably will, it will then be time to talk coalition.

IMPATIENT: Mr. Hoover did not say so in so many words, but some of those to whom he talked got the impression that he aims to insure Republican leadership in any combination that might develop.

If the two anti-Roosevelt groups were to try to get togther now the Democratic insurgents would probably demand an equal voice or at least a strong voice, in the direction of the alliance. If, on the other hand, they have been first castened by defeat in a showdown within their own party they would porbably be more willing to accept Republican domination of the coalition without an argument.

Anti-Roosevelt leaders who are not politicians are getting a bit impatient with the attitude of a number of Republican chiefs whose primary concern seems to be to keep their party—and themselves—in command of the Roosevelt opposition in 1940. The non-politicos want that man and his philosophy out of there—and they don't care what the party is called nor who runs it, as long as it does the job.

SHOCK: Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana made a Constitution day speech in Chicago that got little or no attention in the eastern press. But New York leaders were watching for it, expecting another eloquent diatribe against President Roosevelt's treatment of the Supreme court. What they got instead left them gasping and indignant.

The Montanan cut loose with a blast that was worthy of F. D. R. at his hottest. He thundered away at big business and finance, insisting that they need constant correction and reform. It was a sad shock to conservatives who have idolized him as the "savior of the constitution."

Construction Of Pipe Line In Gaines Expected To Start Soon

SEAGRAVES, Sept. 24, (Special)—Construction of a 6 inch line by the Humble Pipe Line company from the Wasson field to Hobbs, N. M. was expected to begin immediately upon the arrival here of a representative of the company.

Seven cars of pipe have been received here and unloaded. More are expected.

While no statement has been made of the extension, it is thought the line will be extended to the Bennett field in Yoakum county and possibly to Cochran and Hockley counties. Both of these counties have producing wells.

Words of fewer than five letters are most commonly used in telephone conversation.

NOT TO USE NEGROES

DALLAS, Sept. 24. (AP)—The city council today decided, at least for the present, to abandon its plan to add negroes to the police force.

D. R. Graham, mayor pro tem, led the movement to abandon the plan. "Dallas is not ready for negro policemen and might rebel against them," he said.

TARZAN'S QUEST, No. 66 — By Edgar Rice Burroughs

While Udalo was dooming the Waziri, Nkima swung in frantic pursuit of Tarzan. Since the Waziri had been captured, the little monkey had lingered, shivering and trembling, in a tree near the village, fearful that Sheeta the leopard would come to devour him.

But when he overtook the ape-man, Nkima began to boast how he had beaten Sheeta with a stick and driven him away. Then he went on to other tales of his marvelous exploits. And in his enthusiasm he forgot the plight of the Waziri, so short was his memory.

The two friends, man and monkey, had traveled far when Tarzan said casually: "Soon the Waziri will join us, then Nkima will have many friends to help him." For a moment the little monkey was silent, gathering his thoughts. Then he began to leap and scream.

"Tarzan, the Waziri! the Waziri!" Quickly as best he could, Nkima related what had happened to the Waziri in the village of Udalo. The ape-man turned swiftly and sped toward that village, to gamble his own life for the lives of his beloved warriors!

19—Livestock For Sale

We feel that our duty is to satisfy both buyer and consigner. To do this, we must get cattle in when the market is the hottest.

We expect to have the best sale Friday, we have had. Last Tuesday, due to wet weather, we had only 300 head; but not a hoof was passed out, which shows that our market was good.

An unusual amount of inquiries from out-of-town buyers are coming in concerning our Sale Friday. If you have cattle we can assure you a nice profit on all that you consign for Friday's sale.

We expect best heavy calves to bring from $8 up and good cows $7 up. Bring us your cattle. We can get them sold for as much or more than you expect

New Shop Opened On College Avenue

Achilles Corcanges Sport and Millinery shop at 1107 College Avenue Friday completed its first day of business after its official opening from 7 to 9 o'clock Thursday night.

Corcanges came to Lubbock recently from Tulsa, Okla., where he was associated with an exclusive ladies' specialty shop. He has had several years' experience in that line of business.

Expert milliners have been employed and ladies hats will be made to order, according to announcement by the management.

said, he could have supplied money, but so far as he could tell the community had had no library previously.

"But Mr. President," his visitor exclaimed, "our library was burned down."

"That's funny," the president said, the application doesn't say so. When was it burned down?"

"Our library was burned, Mr. President, in 1864 by General Sherman," the Southerner replied.

Wall Street..

NEW LOWS RECORDED

NEW YORK, Sept. 24. (AP)—Selling forces tore the covers off stocks in today's market, driving more than half the active issues to new lows for the year or longer. Losses ranged from 1 to 4 points generally and 5 to 10 in a few instances.

It was one of the broadest and worst of the post-depression breaks. Large blocks of leaders swept over the ticker tape shortly after the opening, putting this recorder behind floor transactions for a while.

Analysts, searching for a cause of the slide, could find no outstanding news development but rather a combination of circumstances calculated to give Wall Street the "jitters."

Parleys between Secretary Morgenthau and Under-Secretary Phillips of the British exchequer to discuss suggestions for stemming the international flow of "hot money"—some $8,000,000,000 of foreign funds is now in the United States—revived thoughts of a homeward flight of capital if taxation is used to induce repatriation.

While selling of securities from abroad picked up appreciably, commission houses with overseas connections said it was not excessive.

Other depressants cited were growing doubts that future earnings and dividends will meet climbing costs of operations, possibility of consumer resistance to higher prices and the continued sag of bond and commodities.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off 2.3 points at 54, the lowest mark for this index since Dec. 31, 1935. Transfers totaled 2,482,010 compared with 887,250 yesterday. Of 976 issues traded, 864 were down, 37 up and 75 were unchanged.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 24. (AP) — Cotton prices dropped over $1 a bale here today under increased hedging pressure and lack of sustaining support. The close was hardly steady at net declines of 23 to 24 points.

Prices were on the down grade throughout the session. Favorable weather in the belt and disappointing foreign markets discouraged buying support and what little demand developed was made up of trade calling and was not heavy enough to halt he steady decline.

The increased movement of actual cotton to market was the main reason behind the selling wave.

The close was a point or two above the bottom with October at 8.29-bid, Dec. at 8.31, Jan. at 8.34, March at 8.42, May at 8.50, July at 8.61 and October, 1938, at 8.73-bid.

Spots continued active locally with sales of 19,988 bales. Middling closed 23 points lower at 8.31.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Sept. 24. (AP)—Cotton broke slightly more than $1.00 a bale today under hedging combined with commission house liquidation.

December declined from 8.40@8.21 and finished at the bottom, with final prices 21 to 25 points net lower.

The market opened 4 to 6 points lower in sympathy with Liverpool which was aided by continued favorable weather in the south and hedging and liquidation. Weakness of the stock market undermined sentiment and reselling by recent investment buyers added to the weight of larger southern offerings.

While trade price-fixing still furnished the chief source of demand, buying since the market eased below 8.50 for December was said to have been considerably smaller than above that basis. Foreign orders were on both sides today.

A forecast for probable frost in extreme northwestern Oklahoma, the first such prediction of the season, attracted a little covering at one time, but recoveries were limited to a few points and selling pressure soon increased.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 24. (AP)—The average price of middling cotton at ten southern spot markets today was 8.18 cents a pound, for the past thirty market days it was 9.03 cents a pound.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Sept. 24. (AP)—Gyrations of September corn prices today included steep tumbles of 6⅝ cents a bushel, but also sudden rallies of 5¼ cents overcoming most of the losses.

With only two days yet remaining to adjust ordinary methods uncompleted September contracts totaling 8,400,000 bushels, opposing factions of traders persisted in stubborn struggles for month-end corn market mastery, although the volume of new transactions proved relatively small, both sides being handicapped by big margins executed for the privilege of participating in the climax of the fight. Meanwhile charges that a "corner" or "price squeeze" is being attempted grew increasingly frequent, whereas on the other hand the receipts of corn in Chicago today, 219 cars, reached the largest total witnessed in many weeks.

A paradox in today's market was the fact that the greater part of the offerings of September corn came from a prominent speculator who has been credited with being one of the notables generally believed to be short of supplies to meet contract obligations before the current month is ended.

At the close, corn futures taken as a whole were ⅛ to 2⅛ cents lower compared with yesterday's finish, Sept. $1.10@1.11, Dec. 63⅞@64, May 64⅝@64⅞, wheat 1⅝ to 2⅛ down, Sept. $1.05½@1.05⅝, Dec. $1.05⅞@1.05⅞, May $1.06⅞@1.07, oats unchanged to ⅜ off, Dec. 31@31⅛, and rye showing ⅛ to 1⅛ setback, Dec. 79⅝. Provisions results were unchanged to 35 cents lower.

The committee questioned State Auditor Tom King again, as well as M. H. Crowe, an assistant auditor, seeking to show that the former's estimate of general fund revenues during the current fiscal year was low and did not give sufficient consideration to improved business.

Based On Experience

Declaring his estimate was based on experience and he believed receipts would approximate his figures, King also filed a report explaining a difference of $400,000 between his estimate of revenue July and August and the actual yield.

Crowe admitted he underestimated 1936-37 omnibus tax revenues by approximately $3,000,000, but said he did not think there was likelihood of receipts exceeding his estimate by any considerable amount this year.

Two Hundred Are Arrested In 'Great Plot' On Government

MADRID, Sept. 24. (AP)—The Spanish central government tonight disclosed the arrest of more than 200 persons accused of directing a "great plot" designed to overthrow the government.

A communique said the plot centered at Madrid.

Plans For Scouts At Fair Talked

Plans were discussed and completed for participation of Lubbock's Boy Scouts in the Panhandle-South Plains fair here next week at a meeting of scoutmasters Friday night at the First Baptist church.

Schedule for boys to serve as messengers at the fair was worked out and announced by Earl M. McClure, South Plains council executive, as follows: troops 5 and 9, Monday; 6, 7, and 14, Tuesday, 2 and 3, Wednesday; 4 and 8, Thursday; 10 and 11, Friday; and 12 and 13, Saturday.

Dr. E. L. Reed, local camp chairman, presented the "go-to-camp" plan.

The court of honor which had been planned for Friday night was postponed because of pressing business with the scouts' participation in the fair. The court of honor for September will be combined with the October court, McClure said, and will be held next month.

Next regular meeting of the scoutmasters roundtable for the Lubbock district will be held on the evening of Oct. 22 at Camp Post, it was announced.

Farmers From Northern States Plan To Visit Southern Area

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 24. (AP)—Farmers from Missouri, Illinois, Minnesota, Iowa, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Nebraska and South Dakota—about 150 in number—plan to go Sunday to Dallas, Texas, on the first leg of a tour to "enable Northern Corn Belt farmers to acquaint themselves with the agricultural problems of the Southern farmer.

The group will be met at Dallas by a delegation of Texas farmers for a tour of the cotton and livestock section of North Texas.

Foreign immigration into the United States was heaviest before 1900.

Littlefield's Fair Well Attended

By Staff Correspondent

LITTLEFIELD, Sept. 24.—Determined to have a permanent home for the fair by next year, officials of the Lamb County Fair association saw possibility of their plans coming true, as the second day drew a good crowd. Indications were Friday, the closing day Saturday would be a record breaker.

Livestock judging, except for cattle, was completed today. Many farmers watched the judges as they called winners. Livestock entries, while not extremely large, were of excellent quality and a number of farmers expressed regret at not having brought their stock along.

Crowd Expected Saturday

Saturday's program is expected to draw a huge crowd. Saturday is always a good day for Littlefield, hundreds of farmers coming here. Added to that attraction is the fair, which is expected to bring many cotton pickers as well as farmers.

Beef and dairy cattle are to be judged Saturday. W. D. Storey is superintendent of the former division and Viggo Peterson the latter. It is probable Euel Liner, vocational agriculture teacher here, will judge.

Saturday also will see the final rodeo programs of Curley Dougherty of Olton.

To Fill French Silo

J. W. Hammock, Sudan farmer, will fill a small trench silo Saturday. It is to be kept until next year's fair. Cane will probably be used.

The fair this year is housed in two huge tents, pitched alongside highway 7, between the school plant and the road. In one is the poultry, agricultural exhibits and the women's department; in the other industrial booths, etc.

Communities over the county have exhibits; several vocational agriculture departments have educational booths, including Spade, Littlefield, Sudan, Spring Lake and Olton. The Sudan, Bluebonnet and Yellowhouse 4-H clubs, several girls clubs and other women's groups are showing here. At one end is the poultry department.

Both the Littlefield Boy Scout troops and one from Olton have exhibits in the industrial tent. Automobile concerns, radio firms, electric refrigeration concerns and others have booths, as well as utility concerns. Glenn Burgess, chamber of commerce secretary and show manager, has a desk also.

Show officials are: Euel Liner, agricultural department; Jess Elms, horses and mules, Odell Reiger, individual agriculture; Boy May, swine and sheep; Viggo Peterson, dairy cattle; W. D. T. Storey, beef cattle; Fred Lehman, poultry; J. I. Bolling, crops and R. B. McQuatters, individual exhibits; Mrs. Floyd A. Hemphill, women's department; Mrs. Ruth E. Perry, home improvement education; Mrs. Pat Bonne, antiques; Mrs. M. M. Britton, bread, cakes and candies; Mrs. R. B. McQuatters, canned fruits and vegetables; Mrs. W. D. T. Storey, quilts; Mrs. Carl Lambert, women sewing and J. E. Chisholm, cut flowers.

McIver Is President

E. O. McIver is president and W. H. Cunningham, general superintendent.

R. B. Galloway of Amarillo judged the poultry.

Vocational Teacher Liner judged the swine and sheep Friday afternoon and Harvey D. Pool, Levelland, assistant county agent of Hockley county, the horses and mules Thursday.

Following were the awards as announced:

Game Warden Dies Suddenly Of Heart Attack At Matador

MATADOR, Sept. 24 (Special)—Auston Aulds 45, game warden for Cottle, Motley, Floyd and King counties, died unexpectedly at a rooming house here about 8 o'clock tonight.

He had complained of being slightly ill when eating and went to his room. Persons were attracted to his room when they heard groans. A physician was summoned, but Aulds was dead when a doctor arrived.

He came to Matador from Chillicothe in December. Burial will be at Chillicothe with Sheats Funeral Home in charge. Other funeral arrangements late tonight had not been announced.

He was survived by his wife and seven children, all of Chillicothe.

Grid Salary Rumor Basis Of Retort

HOUSTON, Sept. 24 (AP)—J. T. McCants, secretary of the Southwest conference, tonight denied published reports intimating the conference pays its football players a $50 monthly salary.

"There is a rule in the conference that no college may pay an athlete more than $50 a month for a campus job," McCants said.

The conference secretary pointed out the schools can not control salaries paid athletes or other students by interests employing them outside of school.

He added many athletes were employed as groundkeepers, janitors, waiters and in some instances laboratory and classroom assistants.

Two Carrizozo Gridsters Are Hurt In Traffic Accident

TULAROSA, N. M., Sept. 24. (AP)—Two Carrizozo High school football players were seriously injured in an automobile accident while en route to play Alamogordo High school this afternoon. The physician who gave emergency treatment here said U. D. Walker received a head injury and Manuel Gutierrez, a pelvic injury.

Bostmen Bowl Over Jackrabbits, 32-0

BROWNFIELD, Sept. 24 (Special)—Ralls met stiff opposition here this afternoon in its first conference game of the season, falling before Johnny Bost's Cubs, 32 to 0.

Winning their second district 5, class B game, Brownfield held the upper hand from the time Hill, Cub halfback, galloped 60 yards for a touchdown until the last whistle. Fore counted three times, Lowden went over once, and Jenkins added a pair of extra points. Pickett and Jenkins were outstanding in the Brownfield line.

The Jackrabbits were unable to function up to expectations, gaining but 39 yards on running plays, although they completed two passes for 22 yards. Brownfield gained a gross yardage of 318.

Line-ups—Brownfield: ends, Ellis and Rowden; tackles, Murray and Jenkins; guards, Pickett and Grider; center, Noble; quarter, Pharr; halfbacks, Hill and Chambliss; full, Fore. Ralls: ends, Collier and Watson; tackles, D. Smith and Farrington; guards, Wright and C. Smith; center, Able; quarter, McCaleb; halfbacks, Gillispie and Dendy; full, Barton.

Kentuckyians Lose To Cowboys, 21-0

ABILENE, Sept. 24. (AP) — Burns McKinney, Hardin-Simmons university's glamour boy, failed to go places on the ground in his accustomed fashion through a bulky line from Murray, Ky., State college here tonight but he turned on an aerial blast to sweep the cowboys to a 21-0 victory.

The skinny veteran backfield ace of the West Texans carried off individual honors in the intersectional fray by a wide margin by flipping two touchdown passes, and scoring another through the line after his throws had put the ball in scoring position.

Coach Frank Kimbrough did not pull his punches against his former high school team mate, Roy Stewart, Murray coach, until the fourth period. Hardin-Simmons sophomores played most of that round, and against them the Thoroughbreds made their most serious threat, reaching the ten-yard line.

The opposing coaches were mates on the Haskell, Texas, high school team 15 years ago.

Petersburg Wins, 26 To 0, Game With New Deal School

PETERSBURG, Sept. 24. (Special)—Petersburg soundly outplayed New Deal here today to gain a 26 to 0 victory.

The visitors were unable to penetrate the Petersburg line, gaining but 60 yards from scrimmage, including 12 on forward passes. The locals plunged the New Deal forward wall and circled end for 238 yards. One pass completion was good for 14 paces.

Robertson counted twice for the victors. Gregory and Glenn each scored once, to give Petersburg a touchdown in every period.

O'Donnell Licks Klondike, 53-0, In Passing Game

O'DONNELL, Sept. 24. (Special)—O'Donnell steamrollered Klondike High school eleven here this afternoon, 53 to 0, in a game filled with aerial heaves.

The victors took to the air for their first two touchdowns, Robinson tossing to Burleson and Clayton, the former for 35 yards. O'Donnell scored almost at will until the fourth period when a second string team took the field.

Maxwell and Harris paced O'Donnell's defense.

Anton's Running Of Wings Too Much For Frenship Tigers

WOLFFORTH, Sept. 24. (Special)—Frenship High school Tigers were unable to stop fleet Chester Jones today and dropped a well played game to Anton, 12 to 0.

Jones circled Tiger ends almost at will to score both touchdowns for the winners. He scored first in the second chapter after a long run. Captain Lester Seals, big fullback, was the leading player for Bob Rich's team.

Condition Of Former Prodigy Is Improved After Plunge

CHICAGO, Sept. 24. (AP)—The condition of Miss Yetta Wexler, 25, who suffered a broken leg and fractured skull when she plunged from a loop (Y. M. C. A.) hotel window Sept. 13, was described as "improved" today.

Miss Wexler, who was born in Texarkana, was a child prodigy pianist. At 11, she was soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra and accompanied well-known artists at 15. Recently, she had taught piano here.

Bail Allowed Garr Brothers In Brig. Gen. Denhardt Slaying

SHELBYVILLE, Ky., Sept. 24. (AP)—After Roy Garr had declared he killed Kentucky's Brigadier General Henry H. Denhardt because he was afraid the World war veteran would shoot him, he and his brothers were released on bail late today by County Judge H. F. Walters.

Bond for Roy and Dr. E. S. Garr, who also admitted firing shots the night Denhardt was killed, was set at $20,000 each. Jack Garr's bail was fixed at $10,000.

thing tending to improve Italo-British relations can only be welcomed by Germany," said one informant.

Reliable quarters indicated, however, that the Italo-French talks would be one of the first subjects for discussion when the two heads of state get down to business.

Officials felt that the conversations—between the Italian representative to Geneva, Bova Scoppa, and French Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos—had been over emphasized. (London sources asserted Il Duce had promised no more Italian volunteers would go to Spain to fight with the insurgents, thereby clearing a path toward Italian alignment with France and Britain in a new balance of power.)

Can Meet Emergencies

At Casper the president said democratic processes of government can meet emergencies.

"It is a part of the duty of the presidency to represent, insofar as possible, all the people, not just Democrats, but Republicans as well, not just rich people, but poor people as well. And I have been trying very simply to do the most good for the greatest number.

"Out here in the cattle country and the sugar beet country, of course I am interested in the prosperity of the raisers of cattle and the growers of beets. Perhaps somewhere down in my heart, I am a little bit more interested in the ten men who have a hundred head of cattle apiece than I am in the one man who has a thousand head of cattle, and perhaps I am a little bit more interested in the ten men who have a hundred acres of beets apiece than I am in the one man who has a thousand acres of beets.

"It seems to me that is one of the necessary things that go with the presidency, and we, in the past four years, have tried, I think honestly and I think fairly successfully, to do the greatest good for the greatest number."

ton, urging that it is absolutely necessary to send cotton classers into this area who will operate as agents of the government in fixing classification of all cotton offered for loan. Mr. Rothwell agreed to confer with Mr. C. L. Finch of the bureau of agricultural economics who has charge of cotton grading work for the department of agriculture. I have also wired Mr. Finch requesting that he cooperate in providing government classers for this area.

"I have also been in conference by telephone with Congressman Marvin Jones of Amarillo and Mr. Jones is likewise demanding that classers be sent into this area by the government to class cotton offered for government loan.

Office At Dallas

"The bureau of agricultural economics now maintains at Dallas a cotton grading agency and some government loans have been made at Lamesa after sending samples to Dallas but this occasions much delay and will not suffice in face of the full swing of cotton harvest operations on the South Plains."

Mr. Mahon said he had also joined Congressman Jones in making a request of Secretary Wallace that in addition to the nine and eight-cent loan on cotton a seven-cent loan be provided for cotton which failed to meet the standards of the higher loan.

"Unless something is done," he declared," a considerable portion of the bumper West Texas cotton crop is going to sell at a price which will be absolutely disastrous to the producers of this area. The price of cotton next year, in my judgment, will make such a loan perfectly safe to the government and will save many farmers from complete ruin."

Approximately 2,000 Attend Floydada Farm-Flower Show

FLOYDADA, Sept. 24. (Special)—Approximately 2,000 persons attended the opening day's program for the Floyd county agricultural and flower show here today. The program went ahead as scheduled despite threatening weather conditions early today.

The program closes tomorrow.

Judging of the exhibits began today and will be concluded tomorrow, according to those associated with the affair.

Prizes for community booths are $10, $7.50, and $6. Winners will be announced later. George Stiles of Baker community is director of exhibits which opened this morning.

The Garden club is sponsoring the flower show. Mrs. B. K. Barker is chairman of the club's committee on arrangements.

LIBEL SUIT DISMISSED

FORT WORTH, Sept. 24. (AP) — A $50,000 libel suit filed in 1928 by Rev. J. Frank Norris against the Herald Publishing company was dismissed today in forty-eighth district court. The suit grew out of an article published by the Denison Herald after Rev. Mr. Norris had spoken in Denison during the Alfred E. Smith-Herbert Hoover campaign for president in 1928.

Five-Year Term Given Mexican

Alfredo Albidez, 19-year-old Mexican murderer, elected to withdraw his plea of not guilty after the state had presented its case against him and entered a plea of guilty. A jury, five minutes later at about 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, returned the recommended verdict of five years in the state penitentiary.

Albidrez had been charged by indictment in connection with the fatal shooting in August of Jesus Samudio, 45, another Mexican. The case was heard in 99th district court with Judge E. L. Pitts presiding.

Sentence Agreed To

Attorneys held a consultation after the state's testimony had been presented and the Mexican changed his plea. The recommended five-year sentence was agreed to by the wife of the slain man, said District Attorney Burton S. Burks. Recommendation for the sentence was based on the youth's age and his previous good record, Burks said.

Victor H. Lindsey, assistant district attorney, assisted in the prosecution. Attorneys for Albidrez were Hill Stewart, Owen McWhorter, and L. A. Howard.

A petit jury will return this morning when several criminal cases are subject to call, said court attaches. It was indicated by the district attorney's office that the case against M. P. Kennedy, charged by indictment with failure to stop and render aid in one court and driving when intoxicated in the other, would be called first.

New Home Economics Teacher Trainer Employed For Area

Miss Doris Lavina Buchanan has been employed as itinerant home economics teacher trainer by the state department of home economics in cooperation with the home economics division of Texas Technological college. Her headquarters will be at Tech.

Miss Buchanan holds a B. A. degree in home economics from the University of Texas, a master's degree from Columbia University, has been an instructor in costume design at Iowa State college, critic teacher at Ohio University, and supervisor of student teaching at Texas State College for Women.

Working with all home economics teachers in high schools in North and West Texas, Miss Buchanan will contact a large number of graduates of the home economics division of Tech.

Second Scholarship Awarded To Local Youth In Oxford

Canon Clements, son of Mr. and Mrs. Solon Clements of 1920 Seventh street, who is a Rhodes scholar at Oxford University, London, England, has received a second Oxford scholarship, upon expiration of the first. On this award he will do research for the Bank of England and Lloyd's financial establishment of London.

The research will entail a considerable amount of travel through the principal European countries. Clements spent the past summer traveling in the Scandinavian countries writing for a London publication.

Clements received a Bachelor of Business Administration degree from Tech in 1932, a master's degree the next year, attended Harvard two years and received a Master of Business Administration degree in June of 1935. He returned to Tech that summer and was on the faculty in the business administration department in summer school.

After the Rhodes scholarship award, Clements went to England in September 1935.

Connally Cites New Tax Plan

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, Sept. 24. —A determined effort to make Texas husbands and wives pay joint income taxes rather than community rates will be made at the next session of congress and must be resolutely fought, Senator Tom Connally said here today.

He said Secretary Morgenthau of the treasury was strongly favorable to a new joint tax return that would "increase the income revenue by 40 per cent" in Texas and the other community property states, of which there are six.

Declaring he had been overruled by Secretary Wallace and President Roosevelt on the subject of nine-cent cotton loans to be paid farmers this year, the senator said cotton was piling up at warehouses and compresses because the latter feared to be responsible for the staple and grade.

Senator Conally, en route to Houston to attend the wedding of his son, Ben, to Miss Sarah Allen of that city, declined to comment on President Roosevelt's swing about the country, presumably to glean sentiment concerning a renewed Supreme court fight.

Three Firms Are To Furnish Covers For Textbooks Here

Baldridge bakery, Phillip's Petroleum company, and the Dr. Pepper Bottling company will furnish Lubbock school children with 50,000 book covers to cover their books in accordance with a state law, said W. B. Irvin, superintendent of Lubbock schools.

Phillip's Petroleum company also is furnishing book covers in the Shallowater, Bledsoe, and Idalou schools. Floyd Beall is the Lubbock Phillip's agent.

Poster Contest Is Announced For Junior High Students

Competition will be limited to junior high school pupils in a poster contest in connection with Lubbock observance of national fire prevention week Oct. 3 to 9, W. B. Irvin, city school superintendent, announced Friday.

Irvin is a member of the city fire prevention board which has charge of arrangements.

The poster contest, which will be an innovation for Lubbock, will end Oct. 1. The city fire insurance exchange has posted $15 in prizes, divided $5, $3 and seven of $1 each.

Partial Report Made On Sooner Student's Case In ROTC; He Won't Take Officer's Oath

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 24 (AP)—A partial report on the case of Ira Rice, 20-year-old University of Oklahoma senior in the Reserve Officers' Training corps unit who is reported to have said that "Uncle Sam is training me for a war I'll never fight," had been received today at Eighth Corps area headquarters here.

Corps area officials said that before any action or statement could be made that more information and a complete report is required.

Rice, an ordained minister in the Church of Christ, wants military training without the officer's oath and commission that goes with it, according to a press dispatch from Norman, Okla. Lieut. Col. Reese M. Howell, commandant of the R. O. T. C. unit, declared that the case was so unusual it wasn't covered by regulations and that he would pass it on to corps area officials.
