Alfalfa Seed Men Seek to Certify Only 863 Acres

Application for alfalfa seed certification has been made on 863 acres, county agent J. W. Thomas reported after the deadline was passed Saturday, June 14.

This is about half the acreage on which certification was asked last year.

Three growers are asking certification on fields of more than 100 acres, James Doneghy, 185 acres; J. R. Bowen, 148 acres; and J. A. Coleman, 132 acres.

In order to complete the requirements for certification, Mr. Thomas pointed out that each grower will have to ask for seed inspection a few days before he intends to cut his alfalfa seed.

Other growers making application, along with their acreage, are: Tom Caldwell, 30; C. E. Caldwell, 8; A. L. Duncan, 35; Henard Gray, 37; John C. Harper, 30; Dan Henard, 25; E. U. B. Lockhart, 20; A. J. Peters, 40; Dudley Phipps, 40; Cecil C. Street, 17; Dick Sweat, 78; and Jake Tarter, 38.

The largest acreage on which application for certification has been made here was 4,600 acres, four years ago. More than 3,000 acres was passed for certification.

Several factors have resulted in the decrease of acreage, Mr. Thomas said, including the type of seed grown in this area.

Ellis Receives Medical Degree

Dick Ellis, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Ellis, received his degree from Baylor Medical School in Houston last week, one of a class of 83.

He will begin his internship in St. Louis City Hospital, St. Louis, Mo., on July 1.

Addressing the graduating class was Dr. W. W. Kemmerer, president of the University of Houston. "If you should serve in a small town where you are the only doctor, you should know that the community will look upon you with the greatest degree of respect. Socially you rank the highest. In matters of education, politics, science, any statement from you is accepted as gospel truth. This respect and faith in you places upon you a tremendous responsibility," he told the group.

Attending the commencement from here were Mr. and Mrs. Ellis and their daughter, Mrs. Walt Winters, also their other daughter, Mrs. John Ritter and son, John Tom of Denton, and Mrs. C. E. High of Pampa.

Ellis graduated from Wellington high school in 1945 and received his bachelor of science degree from Baylor University. He graduated from Baylor Medical School with a scholastic standing in the upper one-third of his class. Ellis is a member of Phi Chi Medical Fraternity.

For the past two summers he has done extern work in the state hospital in Wichita Falls.

Ellis returned here with his parents to remain until leaving for St. Louis.

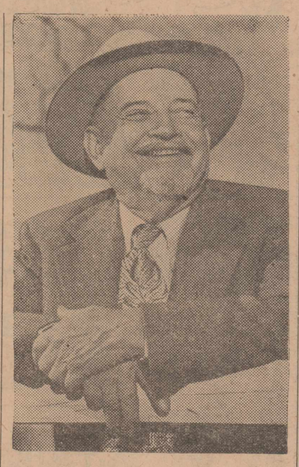

T. C. Richardson Speaks June 25 on Community Improvement

T. C. Richardson, Texas editor of the Oklahoma Farmer-Stockman, will come back to Wellington Wednesday, June 25, to be the principal speaker in a rural neighborhood program — a meeting devoted completely to the farm communities, their interests and their needs.

The meeting will be held at the community building beginning at 10:00 a.m., and all families are asked to bring basket dinners, which will be spread at the noon hour, according to County Agent J. W. Thomas, who is in charge of local arrangements.

A speaker who combines an entertaining wit with a great deal of down-to-earth practical discussion, Mr. Richardson will tell the people of Collingsworth and all adjoining counties how to utilize their own resources to develop their communities into better communities.

He will also explain the Texas Rural Neighborhood Progress Contest, sponsored by the Farmer-Stockman, in co-operation with the Texas A&M College System Extension Service. It is hoped that one or more communities of this area will be sufficiently interested to enter the contest.

It is a contest which stresses community organization for better rural living.

This contest has been set up to stimulate individual family and neighborhood effort toward farm, home and neighborhood improvement. The objectives are to make farm and ranch life more desirable and satisfying, as well as more profitable and stable for farm families. It has been in operation in Texas since 1946.

The contest stresses increasing and managing family income; improving health conditions and services, improving the farm and home, encouraging social participation, recreation, religious, and educational life of the community.

For T. C. Richardson, this meeting has a special interest, for he lived for a number of years on a farm east of Wellington, during the pioneer days of the county. He left here to enter newspaper work, and later to become one of the leading agricultural writers of the south. He has returned for brief visits on a number of times in past years.

Community leaders in adjoining counties are being invited to the meeting here, and everyone in Collingsworth who is interested in farming and farm community improvement is invited.

During the day, motion pictures will be shown of the Tin-top community, which was winner of the Rural Neighborhood Progress Contest two years ago.

Samnorwood Plans Big Two Day Fourth of July Rodeo

The annual Samnorwood Fourth of July Rodeo and celebration will be held Thursday and Friday, July 3 and 4, sponsored by the Samnorwood Rodeo Association.

There will be three performances, Thursday and Friday nights and Friday afternoon. The July 4 performance, which begins at 2:00 p.m., will be free, but there will be a charge for both night events, beginning at 8:00 p.m., according to C. A. Davis.

Stock will be furnished locally. This will be a jack-pot rodeo riding and roping. Contests will include the traditional riding and roping, wild cow milking, a cigar race, sock race and other.

Two sets of contests are being arranged, the junior division with an 18 year limit, and the senior division. Entrance fees in the junior jack pot are $2.50; the senior, $5.00, and in the cutting horse contest $2.50.

The Grand Ole Opera, which is gaining popularity throughout the Panhandle as Samnorwood's community entertainment project, will help with the entertainment, Mr. Davis and Bill King said.

The events on July 4 will be free to everyone. Each family is urged to bring a basket lunch, and the day's program will begin at 2:30 a.m. with a sack race. There will be a prize to the winner of each event.

A candidate speaking begins at 10:00 a.m., and all candidates are urged to be present. At 12:00 noon, the lunches will be spread and at 2:00 p.m. the free rodeo performance begins.

In the election of officers held recently, Cortez Barnett was named president of the Samnorwood Rodeo Association, to succeed John Oldham. Lloyd Bulloch was elected vice-president and Alex Coleman was chosen secretary-treasurer succeeding Fred Johnson.

Directors include these three and Buck Breeding, Jess Deger, Fleet Pruden of Wellington, Loy Harvey, C. A. Davis, Bill King, John Oldham, Pierson Barber of Shamrock, Earl Brashears, Leon Roberts of Wellington and Jim Jones.

The Samnorwood July Fourth entertainment is the direct outgrowth of the old Abra Rodeo and Picnic, begun as an Independence Day event about 1930 for the people of the Abra community. It out grew the ability of that community to stage it and care for the people attending, and in 1946, the last big Abra Rodeo was given—a barbecue to honor the men who had served in the armed forces. The following year it was transferred to Samnorwood and went under the auspices of the Samnorwood Rodeo Association.

Prairie Dog Eradication Under Way in County

A prairie dog eradication program is under way in the county, directed by two members of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife and A&M College Rodent Control service.

In charge of the work are Hinton Bridgewater and Russell Pancoast, district field assistants from Lubbock. They work in co-operation with County Agent J. W. Thomas.

Both the poison grain and cynogas methods of control are being used, the men said. This is their second trip into the county, and at present they are doing clean-up work. Bulk of the work is done in the spring and fall seasons, they said.

Individuals wishing to kill out prairie dogs on their land may secure the cynogas from the county agent, they added.

Mr. Bridgewater lived in Wellington as a youth, making his home with his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Stephenson. He completed grade school here and left in 1936.

From here, Mr. Bridgewater and Mr. Pancoast will go to Wheeler County to work.

L. W. Harrison Dies Unexpectedly At Noon Tuesday

Funeral services were to be held at the Ellis Funeral Chapel Wednesday afternoon, with the Rev. Gerald Squyres, pastor of the First Baptist Church at Quail, officiating.

Hopper Damage Spread Over Most of County

Extensive spraying and poisoning operations are now under way in an effort to stop one of the heaviest grasshopper infestations the county has had in several years.

Damage to crops is being reported from all parts of the county, but it is considerably worse in some sections.

"There are lots of grasshoppers and they got ahead of us," County Agent J. W. Thomas declared.

The infestation came as a surprise to farmers, since entomologists had predicted earlier in the year that the infestation this year would be light.

Poisoning is general over the county, and in a number of communities, grasshopper damage is slackening off.

Heavy damage was suffered around the Dodson area, especially to alfalfa fields, and to cotton and near where alfalfa was being grown.

The poison generally used is four to six pounds of lead arsenate or sodium arsenite in 100 pounds of bran, to be used on open fields, including cotton and feed at the present size. Toxaphene or chlordane is being used on alfalfa.

Mr. Thomas stressed that farmers must follow the directions of the manufacturer if they expect to get the best results, and not less than two pounds of the technical product per acre is necessary. Some farmers have sprayed with too weak a solution and failed to get the desired results, he said.

Mr. Thomas added that it isn't necessary to take cows off alfalfa patches that are sprayed.

Also the usual 5 per cent dividend on preferred stock, plus an added one per cent as the preferred stock participates equally with the common stock from five to 10 per cent.

The company's common stockholders meeting will be held at 2:00 p.m. Monday, July 7, Mr. Tollett said.

Acute Water Shortage Developes in Wellington

A water emergency has developed in Wellington as the city faces its most acute shortage in recent years, Mayor L. B. Bratten and City Manager Bura Handley revealed Wednesday morning, June 18.

At present, the city is asking for voluntary conserving of water on the part of every householder in the city, but if this fails, it may be necessary to resort to action by the city council in order to keep enough water in the standpipe for barely essential use.

"This is an emergency and we ask for your voluntary help. We must have it to the fullest extent, but if we are unable to get this co-operation, it will be necessary for the city to take further steps to save our water supply," Mr. Bratten said.

Tuesday evening many residents of the north part of Wellington, as well as some in apartments above business houses, were unable to get drinking water from their faucets. Since the town inclines to the south, residents in the south part of town still had water.

The water shortage is due to the drouth which has extended over the past year. Not enough water has fallen to replenish the underground water supply, and the underground water level is still dropping. Along with this, Wellington's water consumption is continuing to rise.

"The City has 14 water wells and in ordinary times these can pump up to 100 gallons per minute per well. Tuesday night the 14 averaged 34.1 gallons per well per minute," Mr. Handley explained.

The city is producing 700,000 gallons of water a day — 140 gallons per person in Wellington. The national average consumption is 60 gallons per person per day.

"We can have plenty of water if it is properly conserved, but each person must do his part," Mayor Bratten emphasized. With the largest number of air conditioning units in operation in the town's history, care was urged in the use of water in these. Attaching of a re-pumping system to the coolers was recommended, in which the water is pumped through the air conditioner over and over. These, it was pointed out, will more than pay for themselves in a season by smaller water bills.

"The city is not trying to sell anybody a pump, but we are trying to save water," Mr. Bratten declared.

Use of too much water through an air conditioner makes for a soggy, moist condition of the atmosphere, and the owner is not realizing the most comfort from his machine, the city officials pointed out.

Those in charge of the court house, schools, St. Joseph's Hospital and the football field have already volunteered to cut down lawn watering, and householders were urged to follow their example.

Early Wednesday morning, Wellington's standpipe was approximately half full of water. By nine o'clock, there was only about a foot left. To add to the city's water troubles, one well at the pump house went completely out of operation Wednesday morning.

The city is in contact with well drillers, and as soon as they can bring their equipment here, one well at the pump station will be redrilled, and a number of test wells drilled.

"We will keep on testing until we get a sufficient quantity of water to relieve this emergency," Mayor Bratten promised. "It can't be done in just a few days, though. It would be several weeks at best before such work could be completed."

The city is holding a water reserve at the pump house and in the underground storage tank to be used only in case of fire, and with both electric and gasoline pumps available, this water would be readily available in such an emergency.

At the same time, however, all residents are asked to cut off all running water about their places

New Buildings Planned

Panfork Encampment Opens on July 7

Approximately a thousand boys and girls, coming from 90 Baptist Churches throughout the Panhandle, will be at the Pan-Fork Baptist Encampment between July 7 and 18 for the two annual camps, the Rev. Chester O'Brien, pastor of the First Baptist Church, has announced.

The girls camp is scheduled to begin Monday, July 7 and will continue through Friday, July 11. The boys camp opens the following Monday, July 14, and continues through July 18.

An outstanding camp staff is being assembled for the two-weeks sessions, to conduct this program of religious training.

Cecil Leggitt of Wellington is chairman of the board of directors of the Pan-Fork Encampment, which is located about 10 miles northeast of Wellington, at the site of the old Rivercrest Country Club. Camp Director is the Rev. Mr. Hatchett, pastor of Pierce Street Baptist Church, Amarillo.

Considerable improvement of the physical plant of the encampment has been made or is under way. The First Baptist Church in Wellington is completing a large rock cabin to accommodate nearly 50 cots. This is in a choice location, at the top of a small hill near the main encampment buildings. This building will be used for special events of the First Baptist Church and Faith Baptist Mission, including young people's retreats, and meetings of men of the churches.

It is built of native rock, and men of the two churches have donated most of the labor, bringing the total cost down to around $2,000.

The First Baptist Church at Pampa also has under construction a new wooden cabin, for the use of its members, at the encampment, and concrete foundation has been poured for a cabin belonging to the First Baptist Church at McLean.

Churches already having cabins at the grounds are the First Baptist Church at Memphis, First Baptist Church at Shamrock, First Baptist Church at Clarendon, and Calvary Baptist Church at Borger.

The board of directors, in its last meeting, approved another cabin which will be used for guest speakers and those with special responsibilities.

The swimming pool at the grounds has been fenced in to keep small children away from it, and the water system is being improved.

The Pan-Fork Encampment serves the North Fork Baptist Association, the Panhandle Association, part of the Palo Duro Association, and a few churches in the Trans-Canadian Association, a total of 90 churches.

Mr. and Mrs. Mathis live at the camp as caretakers, and it is open to the public to visit and inspect at any time.

All Stars Meet Memphis Sunday

Shamblee's All Stars will meet a team from Memphis here Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Earl Shamblee, manager, has announced.

The All-Stars are due to have a new pitcher from Shamrock for this game, and Shamblee said he comes down highly recommended.

"This boy has played for a number of teams around, including Mineral Wells, and he ought to be good," Shamblee said.

D & H Texaco Station

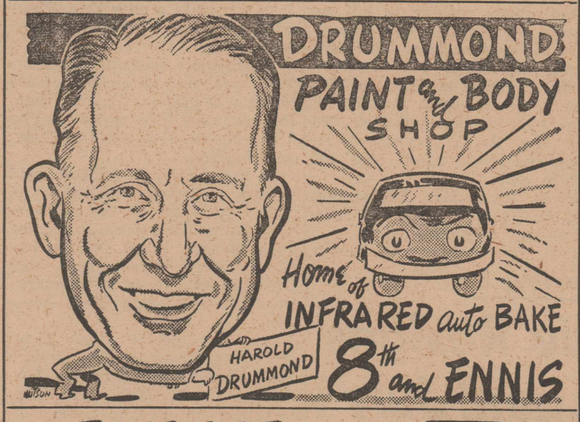

Located on Highway 83 at 9th St.

Introducing Lester Harwell and Bill Dunn of Texaco Sta.

A firm with an outstanding record of service that came under new management this spring is D&H Texaco Station, located at the corner of 9th Street and Highway 83. It is operated by Bill Dunn and Lester Harwell, who are brothers-in-law.

Lester Harwell knows Collingsworth County like he knows the palm of his hand, for he has spent most of his life here. He was born in Hall County December 29, 1911, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Harwell. The family moved to Collingsworth county in 1919, and he attended school at Fresno and Lillie.

He entered farming and the stock raising business for himself in 1934, going into it in the middle of the depression. That same year, on January 9, he was married to Miss Pearl Clement, also of Collingsworth County.

They were unusually active in the community life around Fresno, where they lived and Lester was regarded as one of the progressive young farmer-stockmen of the community.

They are members of the Baptist Church and have been active in its work for a number of years.

Lester is fond of horseback riding and still keeps a horse. He also likes to hunt, and has done considerable hunting in the past. For a spectator sport, he favors football.

Bill Dunn was born at Henderson, Tennessee, April 6, 1913, and attended school there. He came to Texas in 1934 and worked in the oil field at Burkburnett until 1941, when he went to Amarillo with a freight company. He continued in that work until he came to Wellington.

He was married to Miss Opal Clement of Wellington February 1 1941. They have two sons, William Murray Jr., 10, and James Robert, six.

They also are members of the Baptist Church and active in its work. Mr. Dunn is keenly interested in baseball and football, and he is a former basketball player.

Mr. Dunn and Mr. Harwell started as a partnership April 23, 1952, acquiring the Texaco station from Tom Barnes.

They are proud of the complete service they offer — equal in quality and completeness to that of any station in a much larger town, they believe. They have all the equipment needed for this service, and are constantly watching out for new equipment or new ideas that will mean better service for their customers.

Their products are nationally known. Besides Texaco oils and gas, they handle B. F. Goodrich tires and Delco batteries. They have all the equipment for washing and greasing — for giving your car a complete cleaning from one end to the other. To get West Texas dirt out of your upholstery, they use a Pullman vacuum cleaner. They carry fan belts and all general accessories for an automobile.

Their station is one of Wellington's newest and most modern. They are assisted in the work by Wayne Gray, young man who has had t and a half years exper here, and has made eve of them count.

Dukes Break Winning to Drop Three in a Row

By LELAND BONNEAU

The Dukes of Wellington, after going on a three game winning streak, dropped the next three of their last six games and at the present stand at four won and five lost.

The Dukes lost a close one last Sunday afternoon to Paducah by a score of 3 to 2. They had the tieing run on second base in the last of the ninth, but couldn't push it across. G. W. Robinson held Paducah to 4 hits, but a combination of bad luck and errors allowed an unearned run, which cost him the game.

The Dukes collected 5 hits off Ruyle for 2 runs. Ted Owens slammed out a lead-off double in the first and James Champion got a single. In the second, Robinson got a single and the Dukes were held hitless until the ninth when Bob McAlister and R. H. Templeton, both punched out doubles.

The Dukes are developing rapidly both in hitting and fielding. Another pitcher is being sought to strengthen the pitching staff, and it is believed that soon the Dukes will be a contender for first place.

Baseball fans are urged to attend all of the home games and support the Dukes as much as is possible.

The wheat harvest is going along very well in this community —yields reported are from 5 to 10 bushels per acre.

Row crops are looking good, but a rain is needed to keep it going.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Isbell has had their little grandson, James Clevenger of Oklahoma with them during the past week.

Rev. and Mrs. Wayne H. Ritchie and children, Tommy, Linda and Mike of Grand Rapids, Michigan, spent the week visiting with Rev. and Mrs. Robert Webb and family. The families were very good friends when they lived in Fort Worth where both men attended school. Also during the week end these people visited with the Webbs, an aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Killingsworth of Kelton, and cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Johnson and Trudy of Wellington.

Teacher Loss Results

CO. SCHOLASTIC CENSUS SHOWS LOSS OF 84 STUDENTS FOR 1952

A loss of 84 scholastics from last year's figure was revealed by B. W. Beaird, county superintendent, this week as he announced the census count for 1952.

This year's scholastics total 2,145, compared to 2,229 last year. Each of the four districts in the county showed a decline, although Wellington Independent district had a loss of only three.

Figures for the two years include:

	1952	1951
School
Wellington	1204	1207
Dodson	173	221
Quail	398	425
Samnorwood	370	377

Of the number, Wellington had 1073 white students and 131 colored students; Dodson had 161 white and 12 colored; and Samnorwood had 364 white and 6 colored.

The drop in scholastics will mean the possible loss of five teachers to the county schools, or the number could be one or two more than that, Mr. Beaird said. He pointed out that these scholastic figures are subject to revision in the State Department of Public Instruction.

Most Successful Encampment

NATIONAL GUARD CO. HOME AFTER TWO WEEKS AT FORT HOOD

Wellington's unit of the National Guard, which is the Medical Company, 142 Infantry of the 36th Infantry, returned Sunday night, June 15, from their two week summer training at Fort Hood.

This is the third year that the National Guard from Wellington has gone to summer camp, and it was the most successful of the three. The morale of the men was higher and each man seemed more experienced in his job. There also were no injuries this year, the officers report.

Since the Company is a Medical one, it was divided into different groups to accompany different types of squads during their four days of field training. Some men went with the heavy mortar tanks, some with artillery and some with the foot soldiers. In addition to this their medical training was continuous.

All ratings received for Army tests in the field were excellent or superior.

Wellington's unit was the largest Company in the entire regiment this time. The medical division is made up of three platoons which are in Wellington, Brownwood and Abilene. There were thirty-six men and three officers going from Wellington, while there were only one officer and two men from Brownwood and one officer and ten men from Abilene.

While at camp the National Guard received new equipment which consisted of four new jeeps and a new Army two and half ton truck with hydramatic drive. The new truck is equipped to run under water.

The food this year was above average which is also another credit to the Company, since it was prepared by their own cooks in the division.

Major Dale Watkins, commanding officer, is planning a new recruit men campaign to interest boys not over eighteen and half years old. Boys must enlist before they are classified as 1-A. There are also several openings for officers in the division.

Officers and men who went to camp this year were:

Major Dale Watkins, Capt. Charles Allen, Lieut. Don L. Kutch, Master Sergeants Weldon Cleveland, Sam L. Lindsey, Sgt. 1/c Donald J. Briggs, Raymond McGill, Sgts. W. C. Boykin Jr., Noble E. Childers, Edward G. Cleveland, Bennie T. Hawkins, Billy E. Leonard, Samuel J. Man, Dan Trew, Lonnie Joe Whitten, Joe Bob Wyrick, Corporals James W. Brooks, Weldon G. Burge, Raymond A. Boys Recount Trip to State Democrat Meet

By JAMES F. LEDERER

James Glasscock and James F. LeDerer, two high school boys, were sent to the Democratic Convention as observers by the Wellington Chamber of Commerce. They were sponsored by Paul Spillman on their trip.

They arrived in Austin Sunday afternoon, May 25, and stayed in the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity house through the courtesy of Fred Saied. Monday morning they left for San Antonio and after making arrangements for rooms they toured San Antonio and saw the Alamo. They enjoyed Mexican food for supper.

That night they went to the 18th Congressional District Caucus.

It was here that the deciding of committeemen, delegates, etc. was carried on to save time in the convention.

Tuesday morning the convention began. After they arrived, the loyalists started their rush. After the loyalists were refused seats on the lower floor, they took over the balconies.

The convention was called to order by the National Anthem and a prayer. The report of the credentials committee recommended that the majority rule over the minority, which was the Loyalists. After this was ruling the Loyalists walked out and then the excitement started.

The only fight that was close to the Wellington boys occurred when a leaving Loyalist snatched a convention placard from a woman. Some smaller man came up and took it away from him and the fight started.

After this, the convention ran very smoothly, because everyone seemed to be in agreement.

Tuesday night they returned to Austin and Wednesday morning the boys went on a tour of the capitol and were greatly impressed with its stately and magnificent appearance.

Both boys want to express their sincere appreciation to the Chamber of Commerce who sponsored their trip and to Paul Spillman who acted as sponsor for the boys. They both enjoyed the opportunity to see politics in action.

News Letter

From Congressman WALTER ROGERS

FACTS ARE MORE REVEALING THAN WILD ACCUSATIONS: On January 17, 1952, the Comptroller General of the United States furnished a Senate committee a preliminary report concerning certain grain shortages in the warehousing operations of tne Grain Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, Department of Agriculture, in Dallas, Texas. This report contained the names of grain firms and elevators that were alleged to be short in their accounts. The news releases that went out over the country contained all of the names in the reports and no effort was made to separate the guilty from the innocent. The result was that a grievous injustice was done to a number of grain dealers. Two of these grain dealers reside in the Panhandle of Texas. The stories concerning these shortages appeared in large print and was announced over the radio. Such publicity placed a definite black mark of guilt on all of the parties named. At the time this information was released I immediately commenced a personal investigation of the matter. Almost immediately I received advice from two grain dealers in the Panhandle that they had been wrongfully condemned and unfairly publicized. Subsequent developments from my investigation concerning these two firms have revealed the following facts: I have on my desk a copy of a letter written by the Comptroller General of the United States, Mr. Lindsey Warren, concerning these two firms which read as follows:

"1. Nelson Grain Company, Claude, Texas: The information obtained from the Dallas Commodity Office, Department of Agriculture, as demonstrated in our report, reflected a shortage against the Nelson Grain Company of Claude, Texas of 6,637 bushels of wheat. This information was furnished to us by a communication from the Director of the Dallas CCC Office on December 18, 1951. We have subsequently learned that loading out orders on September 12 and October 25, 1951, resulted in the shipment of 50,004.31 and 76,170.82 bushels of wheat, respectively, by November 27, 1951, and that the final under-shipment amounted to only 637.46 bushels of wheat which CCC considers within customary tolerance.

"2. Etter Grain Company, Etter, Texas: The statement received from the Dallas CCC Office on December 18, 1951, reflected also that the Etter Grain Company of Etter, Texas, was 5,857 bushels of wheat short as of September 21, 1951. Subsequently, information was received that as of February 19, 1952, the manager of the Etter Grain Company was authorized to ship one carload of wheat to the credit of CCC to cover the under-shipment of 1,584.67 bushels of wheat short on a previous loading out order. The CCC records now show that the Etter Grain Company shipped 1,591 bushels of wheat on February 22, 1952, which accounted for all the grain due the CCC."

The Letter referred to includes other grain companies not in the Panhandle district.

I had sincerely hoped that the papers and radios of this nation would give the same publicity to this information as they gave to the original accusations, but such has not been the case. It is not fair to associate firms that have been operating legitimately with those who have violated the law and then fail to make correction and the true facts concerning the matter. The damage suffered by a business that unjustly condemned, by association or otherwise, cannot be erased by the mere admission on the part of the accuser that his facts were not exactly correct. America has been built upon truth and factual information. The Amarillo Daily News carried an excellent editorial pointing out the dangers of these blanket accusations that are so many times made for headline hunting purposes. I hope that all of you read that editoral because the present facts in the cases in the Panhandle prove the good common sense that was contained in that editorial. As the editorial so well pointed out, there is plenty of wrongdoing to be corrected in the grain cases and other activities without making wild accusations against innocent business men.

RECESS OR ADJOURNMENT: It is my opinion that Congress cannot adjourn sine die by July 1st. The Senate has much work to do on bills already passed by the House. Many of these will be amended and the amendments will not be acceptable to the House. A Senate committee at present is working exhaustively in order to get the new Korean GI bill passed before July 1st. If this bill is not passed by that time, it could materially affect the rights of these boys in enterng school this fall. We on the Veterans Affairs Committee of the House are working with the Senate committee and hope to have the matter finished before July 1st. There will ultimately be a scrap between the Senate and the House on the Defense Production Act—extension of rent and other controls. I don't see how this can be settled before June 30th, the expiration date of the present act. However, it is possible, but if this is done, other major legislation will probably be delayed.

THE RUSSIAN AMBASSADOR: The transfer of the Russian ambassador Panyusshkin from the United States to Peiping may be ordinary routine, but it disturbs me greatly. I don't like the looks of it. Nor do I like the looks of the transferring of Zarubin, the Russian ambassador to Britain, to this country. His stay in Canada and in Britain was during that period of the espionage activities in the Russian embassy in Canada and the Klaus Fuchs espionage case in Great Britain. Eternal vigilance is still the price of liberty.

17 Million Old Cars on Road

DETROIT—Nearly 17 million automobiles operating in America today are nine years old or older. Their average speedometer reading is 73,020 miles.

These are two in a series of capsule facts contained in a new booklet entitled "THE WORK CARS DO," publication of which was announced today by William J. Cronin, managering director of the Automobile Manufacturers Association.

Drawing upon the results of recent national survey, sponsored by AMA to find out just how U. S. citizens use automobiles, the booklet points out:

1. fifty-nine million adults use motor cars daily in the United States.

2. Nearly 70 per cent of the typical motorist's driving is for necessity purposes such as going to work and shopping.

3. Over half of all employed persons use passenger cars for earning a living.

4. Nearly 80 per cent of those using cars to go to work do so five days a week or more.

5. Worn out automobiles are being taken off the road and scrapped at nearly twice the rate of prewar years. A total of 3,700,000 units were junked in 1950.

6. Production and distribution of automobile accounts for over one million jobs.

"Despit such evidence of the essentiality of motor vehicles," Mr. Cronin said "many government officials continue to classify and tax cars, trucks, buses and highway transportation generally with such items as costume jewelry, tabocco and alcohol.

"To consider the automobile today as a luxury can lead to a serious weakening of the nation at a time when all efforts are directed toward the building of strength to meet any emergency," he said. "Such thinking was out-dated in 1940 and 1941; it is even more outdated today. For as the Defense Transportation Administration recently observed, 'Phenomenal changes have taken place i nthe extent of ownership and operation of the private automobile' in the past decade."

"FASTER" THAN ITS AMMO—Believed to be the first such night photograph ever taken, this picture shows an F-89 jet fighter apparently racing ahead of its own ammunition. Tracer streaks from six 20 millimeter cannons registered on the film before the plane was "frozen" by a powerful stroboscopic light flash which lasted less than 1/5000 of a second. The unusual picture was taken at Edwards Air Force base, Hawthorne, Calif.

Concert Association Plans 1952-3 Season

Members of the Wellington Concert Association decided Friday night, June 6, to sponsor a concert series during the 1952-53 season, using the same plan as fo rthe last three seasons, Dr. C. B. Jones, president, has announced.

This years membership campaign, however, will not be held until September or October, and it is currently planned to extend the drive into neighboring towns, since, Memphis, the only town to operate under the Mutual concert association plan last year, has dropped out.

Three artists appeared on the 1951-52 season program, and at least that many, if not more, will be brought here next year.

"We believe that we will have an even larger membership than in the past by waiting until fall to hold our drive. It will be nearer the time for the concerts, and people will have their winter's plans more in mind," Dr. Jones said.

LOCO

By MRS. GEORGE ADKINS

It's really hot and dry here. Some one said we needed a good rain. Yes, we will all agree that a good cool rain sure would be a welcome visitor to this community and also to others.

Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Estes of Childress, Mr. and Mrs. Silas Crawford and Mary Sue, Estell Adkins and Doris White attended the Baptist workers meeting at Lutie Thursday night. There were some fine talks made by some visiting preachers.

There is some fine cotton here in the Loco community. Some of the farmers have hands chopping while others are plowing their wheat land. Some have their early wheat combined, but some is too green to combine.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Beavers and family of Littlefield visited Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wolf and family Sunday.

Some needed work has been done on the highways. The high weeds at the edge of the pavement have been mowed, raked, and burned and the dirt roads have been graded.

The candidates have really swarmed in this community this week, but we wish them all well.

Those visiting in the George Adkins home this week were Mr. S. W. Elbert of Wellington, George Melton Burr of Shamrock, Mrs. Pauline Patterson and Jada and Miss Tresa Roberts of Quail, and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wolf and Jimmy of Wellington and Mrs. W. D. Durfey.

A number from here attended the Wellington and Sheppard Field ball game Saturday night.

Mrs. L. H. Wolf, Jo and Juanell of Pampa visited Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Morris and family of Roaring Springs Monday and Tuesday. The Wolf girls are home on a vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Hunter visited Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Austin Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Little and Buddie and Leona of Buck Creek and Mr. and Mrs. George Patterson and Juda and Tresa Roberts of Quail and George Melton Burr of Shamrock were dinner guests in the Jack Brown home Sunday.

Mrs. E. V. McClendon is some improved this week.

Acute Water -

if they hear the fire whistle blow.

The public water hydrant at the city office is being restricted to use for drinking water. Farmers who have been hauling from this source for livestock use and to mix grasshopper poison will have to get their water at Marian Airpark Swimming pool until the present emergency is past, Mr. Bratten said.

It was pointed out that the well at Marian Airpark is a deep well, and the water is too hard for use as household water, but all right for livestock and other uses.

City residents are also asked to cut their car washing to a minimum.

Wellington is not alone in suffering from a water shortage. Farmers north and east of town, many of them with a number of head of livestock to water, this week have had their wells go dry, and some are making frantic efforts to locate drillers to get their wells drilled deeper.

neral Home.

Louis Webster Harrison was born January 21, 1872, in Panola County. He had lived in Collingsworth County for the last 37 years.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. L. W. Harrison, and one son, Wilford (Doc) Harrison of Wellington; a brother, G. T. Harrison of Paris; and four sisters, Mrs. J. A. Foraker of Hale Center; Miss Lucy Harrison of Rockwall; Mrs. Pinky Baker of Big Spring and Mrs. Stella Powers of Bridgeport.

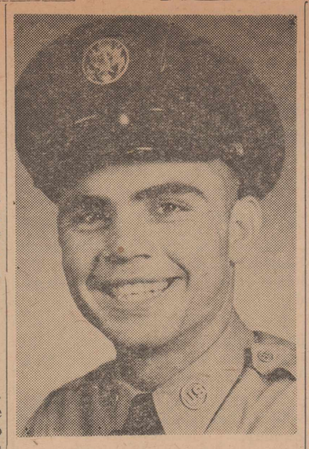

McClaskey Sets Comuting Record

Major William W. McClaskey, 1203 Dalhart St., Wellington, Texas, may hold an informal "Air Force Reserve commuting record." He travels 600 miles each month to attend meetings of the 904th Reserve Training Wing, Hensley Field, Dallas. He has never missed a training period since joining the unit last August.

Major McClaskey entered the service in 1940, and has worked extensively in the reserve program since his release from active duty in 1946. He helped to organize the 9863rd Volunteer Air Reserve Training Unit, Childress, Texas, and the Greenbelt Reserve Officers' Association at Childress, of which he was first president.

He has also completed eleven major extension courses with the Air University.

Mrs. Howard Rosenbaum and sons, Homer and Lloyd, of Abilene, left Tuesday of last week after visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Kesler.

AT LACKLAND

Virgil Holman, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Holman, will complete his basic training soon at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, within a short time, and will visit members of his family here and in Amarillo. Eighteen years old, he entered service two months ago. His wife, the former Billie Fern Carter, is making her home in Amarillo.

Houston Brings Candidacy Here

Hal Houston, candidate for Associate Justice of the Court of Civil Appeals for the 7th Supreme Judicial District, was in Wellington Tuesday, June 10, in the interest of his candidacy.

Many times a visitor in the county, Mr. Houston is a brother-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Nesbitt who formerly lived at Dodson, and was a friend of the family of the late Mr. and Mrs. Tobe Deahl.

Mr. Houston has lived in Amarillo since his release from the armed forces in 1950.

He is a veteran of both World Wars. He served eight years during and after World War II and was released from the Army with the rank of Colonel.

He was with the first United States group to fly into Berlin after the collapse of Germany and in 1946 was named chairman of the Reparations Commission in Austria, in charge of distribution of Germany Assets. As such he acted as advisor to the Austrian Treaty Commission and Council of Foreign Ministers in relation to Article 35. This, he explained, was the article defining the western view of reparations to which the Russians would not agree. Altogether, he and his committee handled in excess of one billion dollars worth of German property, based on replacement value.

Mr. Houston was a native of Houston, while his wife was reared at Quanah. They have one son, 19 years old, who is now a student in West Texas State College.

John Bynum Hightower, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bynum Hightower of Dodson, underwent a tonsilectomy in St. Joseph's Hospital June 11.

A visitor in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Wilkins last week was her niece, Miss Sue Harris of Vernon. Miss Harris is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Harris, former Wellington resident.

Bunnenberg Brings Candidacy Here

Harry Bunnenberg and Mrs. Bunnenberg of Vernon were here Wednesday, June 4, in the interest of his candidacy for Associate Justice of the Seventh Court of Civil Appeals.

Clarendon Wedding

Miss Romaine Anderson of Lelia Lake and Fred Thomas of Clarendon were married in the First Baptist Church at Clarendon at 3 o'clock Sunday, June 1. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Thomas of Quail.

Anderson-Thomas Vows Read in Clarendon Sunday

A sanctuary decorated with a large arch entwined with greenery and roses and having wedding bells in the center tied with white satin bows and with candelabra holding pink tapers and basket arrangements of pastel flowers backgrounded by fern formed the setting for the marriage of Miss Romaine Anderson of Lelia Lake and Fred Thomas of Clarendon, on Sunday, June 1, at 3 o'clock. The double ring ceremony was read in the First Baptist Church of Clarendon by Rev. John C. Denton, pastor of the Lelia Lake First Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Anderson of Lelia Lake and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Thomas of Quail.

As a nuptial prelude Miss Bobbie Seago of Bethany College Choir sang, "I Love You Truly," and "Always." Immediately following the ring ceremony Miss Seago sang, "With This Ring I Thee Wed," and she sang "The Lord's Prayer" for the benediction. She was accompanied by Mrs. Howard E. Scott, organist. The traditional processional and recessional were used.

Candlelighters were Karon Forbes of Vernon and Richard Stan Hoffman of Nocona, cousins of the bride. Miss Forbes wore a light blue organdy dress similiar of those worn by the bridesmaids. She wore light blue shoes and pink carnations at her waist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white slipper satin designed with a full skirt that extended into a circular cathedral-length train. The gown also featured a closely fitted bodice with long tight sleeves that terminated into petal points over her hands. Her finger tip veil of illusion was attached to a fitted satin cap decorated with seed pearls. The tradition of something old, something new, something borrowed and blue was also carried out. She carried a bouquet of white roses with cascading satin streamers.

Miss Marilyn Butler of Lelia Lake attended the bride as maid of honor. She was dressed in a pink organdy over taffeta designed with a low neck, tiny puffed sleeves, ballerina length skirt and a wide sash tied in the back. She wore pink nylon gloves, pink slippers and a short veil of pink illusion attached to a fitted pink cap. She carried a nosegay of spring flowers.

Serving as bridesmaids were Misses Shirley Aten, Janell Fox, Betty Jean Reed and Janice Christal, all of Lelia Lake. Their dresses of organdy over taffeta were identical except for color, two being yellow and two orchid. They were made with low square necks, ...ge puff sleeves and full ba... length skirts, also having wide sashes tied behind. They each wore white nylon gloves and white slippers. They wore head dresses made of net that matched their dress in color. They also carried nosegays of spring flowers.

Sherry Shaw who served as flower girl for the bride wore an aqua organdy dress identically like those worn by the bridesmaids. She carried a basket covered in white satin and wore a halo of pink roses in her hair.

Billy Royce Hill of Amarillo was the groom's best man. Groomsmen were Kenneth Maxwell, Donald Dollar and Jimmy Peggram all of Quail and Bobby Hill of Lelia Lake.

For her daughter's marriage, Mrs. Anderson chose to wear a navy crepe dress with navy and red accessories. Her corsage was of red roses.

The bridegroom's mother was attired in a navy blue dress with white accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony the newlywed couple was entertained with a reception given by the bride's parents in the parlors of the church. The refreshment table was covered with a lace cloth featuring the three tiered wedding cake profusely decorated with roses, wedding rings, and love birds, topped with a bride and groom under an archway.

Miss Rowena Ivey and Mrs. J. B. McDaniel alternated at the punch bowl while Mrs. Homer Hoffman of Nocona cut and served the cake. Mrs. Oliver Forbes of Vernon secured the names of the guest for the white satin bride's book. Incidental music was played throughout the reception by Misses Bobbie Seago and Billie Jean Poole.

For the wedding trip the bride selected a navy blue linen dress trimmed in white navy and white linen accessories.

Mrs. Thomas is a spring graduate of the Lelia Lake High School where she was very active in school activities. She was the editor of the school newspaper, associate editor on the annual staff, and she was a class officer and co-captain of the 1951-52 girls basketball team. Mr. Thomas is a graduate of Quail High School. He is now employed by Southwest Auto Supply of Amarillo. The couple are at home at 802 Monroe.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Burquist have as their guests in their new home at the southwest edge of Wellington his brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Burquist and children, Rudolph and Erica, of Cincinnati, Ohio. They arrived Tuesday, and after visiting here, they will go to Baton Rouge, La., to visit a sister, and then to Mobile, Alabama, to see members of Mrs. John Burquist's family.

White Summer Jewelry Has Added Attractions

BY EDNA MILES

IN costume jewelry for summer, the right fashion look is white. But it's white with a difference.

The plain and unadorned white jewelry of a few seasons back is gone. Coro, for instance, gives white a touch of crystal, a golden gleam, a rim of rhinestones, then uses a texture theme throughout an entire summer collection. White melons may be joined by golden stems or white beads may be caged in golden spirals.

You may wear a bib of white strung on gold or find that shiny enamel spheres are circled with rhinestones. Crystal is used to accent white enamel chokers and pendant necklaces. In polka dot beads, white is mixed with color for crisp contrast. Or, again, mounds of white sweetberry beads are mounted on golden leaves to carry out the frosty theme and a floral motif.

Often, smooth and textured beads are used together in an alternating pattern. In masses, they make chunky bibs. Bracelets are worn twining round and round or are the rigid type with handsome floral center.

A corsage of sweetberry pins can go on a suit or coat lapel, a trio of chokers at the neckline of your Gibson Girl dress. Or, fill in a low, scoop neckline with a chunky bib. Whatever the jewelry, just make sure that the color is white.

White and crystal are blended in this choker and drop necklace, a perfect fill-in for your low neckline. Drop earrings add flattery.

Vigilance Still Necessary on the Tidelands

The executive department's plan to seize and operate the tidelands without congressional sanction reminds that that rich possession is still outside the hands of their rightful owners, which are the states. The fact that it failed, for the present at least, does not lessen its seriousness.

To by-pass the congress that has shown itself overwhelmingly against giving the control of the tidelands to the Federal government, administration officials in Washington sought for some provision in the already existing laws which would give them a tinge of authority for taking over the tidelands, They found this in federal surplus property law, but it was an idea that backfired, arousing the fear that Congress, in the face of this effort, might vote to override the President's recent veto of the state ownership bill. Assurance was then given by the Secretary of Interior Chapman that the short-cut attempt has been abandoned.

The Federal Government's whole theory of "Paramount rights" is enough to bring a sense of shock, not only to the state-owners of the tidelands, but to every other state as well. If that theory applies to the tidelands off Texas and Louisiana and California, the states envolved at present, it applies to every foot of soil in the country.

As Attorney General Price Daniel pointed out when he spoke in Wellington last year, there are many who feel that if the federal government takes the tidelands, it can then take the mineral rights under any piece of ground that it wishes. It is now pointed out that the theory will inevitable cover state property and private property, in spite of the constitutional prohibition of exporiation without compensaton.

Whether it is due to vigilance of two resentful and aroused congresses that voted to return the title to the states, or to some other reason, the plan is set aside. But the same vigilance cannot be relaxed, not until the tidelands are again in the hands of their rightful owners.

National Foundation Lists 1952 Polio Precautions

With "polio weather" here for many sections of the country, we begin to think about precautionary measures and educational steps we can take to lessen the dangers of that disease.

Steps have been taken by the federal government in conjunction with the National Foundation For Infantile Paralysis to put the importance of polio precautions before the people of the nation.

In a statement prepared for release to weekly newspapers, the foundation describes the project this way:

Branches of the federal government are cooperating with the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis in assuring widespread distruction of 35,000,000 copies of the 1952 "Polio Pledge" for parents prepared by the March of Dimes organization.

Earl James McGrath, United States Commissioner of Education, as well as the United States Post Office Department, have endorsed this annual project to alert American children and parents to safeguards which may lessen the possibility of contracting paralytic polio.

Mr. McGrath, endorsing the Pledge's distribution through all the schools of the nation, said, "The 1952 message about polio precautions, entitled "Polio Pledge," has been made available to all the schools in the country. I recommend that administrators and teachers give all possible help to the National Chapters in this school and community health program."

The Pledge, in poster form, will be displayed through October 31 in the nation's 44,500 Post Offices.

This March of Dimes project to safeguard children from the menace of polio was inagurated in 1945 with a printing of 520,000 copies entitled "When Polio Strikes."

Two years later, in 1947, more than 29,000,000 leaflets called "A Message to Parents," were distributed through the schools in both English and Spanish edition.

In 1951, so popular was the project that the original printing was exhausted. Reorders from schools both in the United States and Puerto Rico boosted the total to 32,500,000. This growth was paralleled not only the population growth of public, private and parochial schools, but the increasing recognition of the publication's value by administrators and teachers.

Here, in abbreviated form, are the essential precautions listed in the 1952 "Polio Pledge."

(1) Avoid fatigue from work or play.

(2) Don't get chilled. Don't swim too long in cold water nor sit around in wet clothes.

(3) Don't mix unnecessarily with new groups. Don't take children out of camp where there is good health supervisions.

(4) Watch closely for signs of illness headaches, fever, sore muscles, stiff neck or back, trouble in breathing or swallowing.

(5) Put a sick person to bed at once, away from others, and call your doctor. Follow his advice.

(6) Contact your local March of Dimes Chapter for whatever assistance or financial help you may need.

Bumper Wheat Harvest

Again Texas farmers are harvesting a bumper wheat crop. Prospects elsewhere in the wheat country are good, too. The yield probably will be the third largest in history. If so, Uncle Sam will be saddled with a big surplus to dump abroad. The loss will be charged to the taxpayer.

Any guarantee of crop price without limit on planting is likely to bring a headache of this kind. We had that kind of situation in potatoes a few years ago when great piles of spuds, paid for by taxpayers, rotted in the fields while housewives paid high prices for theirs at corner stores. And, if the government does limit planting, weather conditions may cause a shortage.

The remedy is to take the government out of farming and let the farmers plant what they wish and sell in an open market. The law of supply and demand still gives the best assurance against either shortage or unsalable and price-depressing surplus. Of course a surplus is preferable to a shortage. some of the surplus now expected may come in handy for foreign relief. But it will be expensive to taxpayers, and heavy wheat planting under a price guarantee is taking land that should be used for beef instead.

Dear editar:

The way I understand it, Texas is gonna send four delegations to the national political conventions in Chicago next month, two from the Democrats and two from the Republicans, and while I have heard a lot of unfavorable comment on this, I do not look at it that way.

I think maybe Texas is just ahead of the rest of the states. I have been thinkin about the Presidency for a good while lately and have come to the conclusion it's too big a job for one man.

What we ought to do is nominate four candidates instead of two, and elect a pair of Presidents instead of one. Naturally it would thus take four acts of delegates to achieve this, and you can see Texas ain't so dumb after all.

With two Presidents, one for foreign use, one for domestic, or one for the conservatives, one for the liberals, or any other way you wanted to split their time, depending on the situation at the moment, everybody would be happy. Of course this might require two separate Supreme Courts, and also two U. S. Treasuries — one for the people who are opposed to spendin, one for those in favor of it. Wouldn't be any use in havin two Congresses, the one we got is already generally split anyway. One tax collectin agency would probably be enough too. It's enough for me.

If you think this idea has any merit, you ought to get busy on it, because if we let things ride like they are as sure as anything only two of the four Texas delegations will get seated at the Chicago conventions and for the next four years we'll have to limp along with one President.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Dear editar:

It's a long way from out here at Buck Creek to Korea and hasn't anybody asked me for my opinion but it seems to me the men who have been supervisin the prisoners of war on Koje Island never did get around to learnin a few basic facts about human nature.

The way to run a prisoner of war camp is the same way to run your own affairs, your own business, or your own farm, or anything else. The way to run it is like you think it ought to be run, not like somebody else thinks it ought to be run.

Take a man here at home. If he's always wonderin how the next business step he takes is gonna affect somebody else, he's whipped to start with. The fellow that won't decide how much he ought to donate to the Red Cross or the church or anything else, the one who hedges and tries to find out how much somebody else gave so he can stay in line, ain't near as self-satisfied or respected as the man who makes up his own mind on how much he can give and hauls off and gives it, regardless of what anybody else does, and if he over-shoots or under-shoots his neighbor, it doesn't matter a particle.

Now take those officials in charge of those prisoner of war camps over on Koje. Instead of runnin the things like they ought to be run, they been leanin over backwards to run em so they won't offend the enemy, on the theory if they don't please the enemy the latter will take it out on American prisoners of war in their hands.

This is known as baloney. If the Communists want to do anything, they ain't never waited yet for an excuse. If there's anything they're good at it's manufacturin excuses. We could furnish those prisoners of war with Turkish baths twice a day and air-conditioned loungin rooms and four-bit cigars, and if the Communists wanted to mistreat American prisoners, them cigars and other things wouldn't have any bearin on it.

If the army wants my advice, it's treat the prisoners as well as possible, but forget about what somebody else is gonna think, and keep em in line. I don't reckon you got much circulation in Korea though and I doubt if this reaches em.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Job Finds a Solution: Trust in God

Some problems are "modern" in the sense that man has never encountered them before our time.

But some problems are as old as man himself, and one thing that is unchanged is the fact that man has to be the problem solver. Some ancient experience and wisdom may have much to offer, even in the presence of problems that are as new as the new-born day.

Deep and unchanged in human life is the problem of suffering, and especially the suffering of the apparently morally guiltless. Much human suffering offers no problem, though the fact may alter its acuteness. It is the direct and observable result of sheer disregard of moral or physical laws. But the suffering of the good is another thing.

It is this problem with which the Book of Job deals. The Book has been called "a sublime drama of God's providence and man's suffering." Its central character, Job, a man of moral rectitude and apparently blameless life, is stricken with dire calamity, in himself, his family and his affairs.

The situation is made intensely dramatic to show the full impact of the problem. Yet it is no more extreme than that which many men and women have experienced today, especially the thousands of innocent people who have suffered war's ruthlessness.

Three of Job's friends sought to comfort him with plausible or conventional notions. These centered around the ideas that suffering is a sure sign of sin and that Job must be guilty of some secret fault.

This easy view Job refuses to accept. His faith is tried, and he is tempted to "curse God and die," But while he finds no solution to the problem of suffering, he finds a solution to his personal problem in the conviction that the Judge of the earth will do right and in the determination to trust Him no matter what may happen.

Looking Ahead With George S. Benson

IT HAPPENED TO THE INDIANS!

Several fictional books have been written in recent years dramatizing what lies in store for people when their welfare becomes the responsibility of a Welfare State. One of these books, "1984" by George Orwell, was on the best seller lists for several months. Yet it showed the final stages of the Welfare State's "planned society" to be so horrifying that its immediate effectiveness as a warning against the growth of the Welfare State in America was not great. Many Americans simply cannot believe that the enslavement depicted in "1984" could possibly grow out of little acts of government paternalism.

Truth is more powerful than fiction. Something effective against the Welfare State idea of government paternalism is in print. It is not fiction, but truth. It is the printed text of an address made on the Senate floor by Sen. George W. Malone of Nevada appealing for the emancipation of the American Indian. Since he has lived near them, has witnessed the frustration of reservation Indians, and feels keenly their miserable plight as awards of the Federal government, Senator Malone is qualified to reveal the facts about the Indians' Welfare State.

ONCE PROUD RACE

The American Indians have been dependents of the Federal government for 125 years. During this century of dependency most of these people from a once proud, resourceful and ambitious race have lost their best characteristics. Many of the younger Indians of each succeeding generation have sought for their race freedom from the equalizing, paralyzing clutches of Federal bureau paternalism. They have found, as has Senator Malone, that once a Federal bureau gets itself well established and develops a program of welfare functions, its political influence apparently is too powerful to overcome.

"The Indian Bureau," said Senator Malone, "was originally established to bring the advancements of civilization to the Indians. The original objective has long since been discarded, and new, multiple, and unexpected obligations have been assumed by the Bureau instead of providing conditions under which Indians could be educated, assimilated and trained to take their place among the citizens of the United States."

CHATTELS OF BUREAUCRACY

Here are some important truths about the Indians whose kindly government proposed 125 years ago to briefly help them along and then make them free:

Today a restricted Indian cannot buy, sell, or lease property except with Indian Bureau consent; he cannot have access to his money deposited for him in the Federal Treasury except by act of Congress; he cannot engage in free and unrestricted business enterprise on the reservation because the Indian Bureau has its own specifically sponsored corporations to handle business matters for the Indians; he is totally dependent upon the Indian Bureau when he is out of a job, sick, or when incapacitated by old age; he cannot buy, sell, or consume alcoholic beverages either on or off the reservation; if he should happen to be a war veteran he cannot, as a rule, obtain a loan under the GI bill of rights because his property is tied up in Indian Bureau trusteeship; for each individual Indian it takes in most cases a special act of Congress to be freed from the restrictions imposed by the Indian Bureau.

THE WARNING

"Government paternalism at its worst is strikingly exemplified in the Bureau's relationship to the Indian," said Senator Malone. "It has undermined the confidence of the Indian in himself and in the Indian Bureau . . . If such supervision and censorship should have been exercised over the people of any other nationality in the United States their growth and individual development would have been retarded in like manner."

Although the demand to abolish the Indian Bureau and emancipate the Indians has been made in Congress year after year and has failed because so few people are acquainted with or care about the Indians' plight, it is being voiced again this year. But Senator Malone is trying to arouse the public to the danger of any form of government paternalism. "The most difficult thing in the world," he emphasizes, "is to remove a system of any kind which is organized to supervise somebody and handle his money and property, so long as the money and the property hold out." Government today is taking an average of 32 per cent of the earnings of all American citizens. Its bureaus are proposing all kinds of "social aid" plans in return. Are we suckers enough to fall for more of this? Take another look at what the government has done for the Indians!

HIGH AND DRY IN CHICAGO—Almost as if by design, Ernest Karlsson and Ruben Markstrom, both of Chicago, are confronted with identical problems. They both spent the winter building boats in their houses; Karlsson in his basement, Markstrom in his second floor living room. At right, the Karlsson family enjoys an imaginary cruise in their 21-foot motor boat as dad applies some finishing touches. He'll have to remove the stairs, at right, and knock an eight-foot hole in the basement wall to extricate his handicraft project. Markstrom, left, with his wife, plans to lower his 14-foot, 225-pound ship out the window.

SANITARY GRAIN STORAGE

The Texas warehouseman is no longer a mere holder of goods left in his care for storage. He must also be a "good housekeeper."

A state-wide program of grain storage inspections being initiated by the Federal Food & Drug Administration is designed to promote good housekeeping habits in grain storage warehouses and elevators. Its major goal is to assure purchasers of grain and grain products that they are getting "clean" commodities, relatively free of insect and rodent damage. Farmers, too, could benefit through a program that may protect them from losses incurred by depreciation in value of grain stored in unsanitary facilities.

The program of the Food & Drug Administration is divided into two "phases", the first of which will be an effect during this year's crop season. This "phase" is a strict inspection of all grain storage plants and commodities held therein. Later, the F&D will initiate "Phase Two" — the inspection of carloads of grain at terminals.

Inspectors will be armed with check sheets which lists sanitary regulations the warehouseman must meet if he is to continue handling the farmers' grain. Federal officials indicate that if they find obviously filthy conditions in an elevator, or if the grain is badly contaminated, they will take immediate action. "Action", in this case, means they can ask the federal court to issue an order preventing shipment of grain from the warehouse into interstate commerce, or they can ask the court to seize the grain if interstate commerce is involved.

A "rule of thumb" test for badly contaminated grain as interpreted by the F&D, can be made by the farmer or warehouseman, himself. Wheat, for example, may be classified as unfit for flour if it contains three or more weevil exit holes per quarter-pint of grain, or one or more rat or mouse pellets per pint.

But the warehouseman cannot bear the sanitary burden alone. The farmer must take steps to protect his grain from infestation and contamination before storing it in a public grain warehouse or elevator. In some cases, the warehouseman may be forced to reject farm-stored grain that is obviously in bad condition.

Federal authorities maintain that no undue hardships will be imposed on farmers and warehousemen in the program. A series of articles has been made available to warehousemen with suggestions as to means of maintaining sanitary conditions.

If the farmer is in doubt as to how he can comply with sanitary procedures, he should consult his warehouseman or elevator operator.

COUNTY 4-H CLUB MEMBERS PARTICIPATE IN "TEX-CHANGE"

By JOHN GORDON THOMAS

Just as surely as summer heat discomfort and mosquitoes come so do vacations, encampments and fishing. We feel that none of these could be more enjoyable or more profitable than the 4-H Roundup at College Station June 9, 10 and 11. Going from this county were Joyce Amerson of the Samnorwood community, Sharlene Saunders of Quail, Raymond Daugherty of Dodson, and John Thomas of Wellington. Mrs. W. T. White of Quail and Mrs. J. W. Thomas of Wellington accompanied them as adult sponsors.

We arrived at College Station at 2:30 p.m. Monday, June 9. After registering and getting room assignments we had time to acquaint ourselves, with places where coming activities were to be held. A very popular spot was the Memorial Student Center, better known as the "Living Room of the A&M Campus." The best description of this center is that is has everything. The center houses all kinds of recreation rooms, library, gift shop, post office and cafeteria. It is fully air-conditioned and is the last word in comfort.

After supper there was a party for 4-H members and also a reception honoring adult sponsors and leaders which was held on the lawn of Chancellor and Mrs. Gibb Gilchrist's home.

An early breakfast started Tuesday morning's activities followed by contests and demonstrations.

The formal opening of the 1952 Texas 4-H Round-Up, was at 8:15 Tuesday morning. The theme of the Round-Up was "Serving as Loyal Citizens Through 4-H." Dr. George C. Baker, Jr., Chaplain, Southern Methodist University was the guest speaker. His topic was "Tomorrow's Honors". After his talk we had "Texchange" which is an exchange of ideas received from Dr. Baker's talk by 4-H Club members. This section was closed by a panel composed of one representative from each district.

Later there were folk games and other recreation. Lunch was followed by a program directed by Captain Don Lawrence, Department of Public Safety, called "Shoot 'Em Up." That afternoon a caravan of twenty-four buses started on a tour of the college property. We visited the dairy center, hog center, poultry farm, experimental farm and livestock center. One interesting feature of the tour was observing the new aeroplane, built by the college, and used for crop spraying and dusting.

That night the State 4-H Recognition Banquet, the highlight of the Round-Up, which is sponsored by Sears-Roebuck Foundation was held. After a delicious fried chicken dinner, we enjoyed a marvelous program by The Joan Frank Dancers, Joaquin Garay, and George Dunn. The music was furnished by Larry Herman and his band. Mr. Cal T. Johnson, Director of Public Relations, Sears Roebuck & Co. was the host of this banquet.

Breakfast on Wednesday was the close of the Round-Up.

We had a few sprinkles of rain early Monday morning. Made us want rain more than ever. Every body is so tired of these dry hot winds. But folks, if the wind didn't blow, how could we stand the hot weather?

Sunday being Father's Day our crowd at church wasn't as large as usual. Several families were having picnics and family reunions.

The Cummings families met at Lelia Lake. The Gollihugh families also met at the Lelia Lake picnic grounds.

The Wright families met at the old home place where Mrs. Wright and the R. H. Isbells live. Everyone brought dinner so there was a feast of good things to eat.

The picnic families cooked their chickens on a camp fire—as the rest of the dinners were already prepared.

The C. D. Messers spent Father's Day with her parents at Clarendon. The girls remained for a two weeks visit.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Wright and family visited in the J. W. Gollihugh home Friday. The ladies were swapping hair curls.

Mr. and Mrs. Ocie White and Brenda and Garrold were Sunday visitors in the C. D. Messer home Sunday, June 8.

Mrs. Bill Clifton and Mrs. U. S. Bolton and children drove down to Chillicothe last Thursday on a business and pleasure trip. They returned to Wellington Friday afternoon.

Our visitors at church Sunday night were Mrs. Henry Wischkaemper, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Messer and Mr. Haskel Baggett. Visitors are always welcome.

Mrs. U. S. Bolton, Mrs. Bill Clifton, C. A. Wright and R. H. Isbell attended singing in Wellington Sunday afternoon.

Several out this way started hoeing. Mr. and Mrs. Ira Morrow are hoeing for Carl Wischkaemper.

Walter Sweeden has been moved home from the hospital, the Morrow's say. They went to visit the Sweedens at Temple, Oklahoma recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Conley Lee Moody and family visited Mr. and Mrs. Richard Peters and family Sunday.

PATENTABLE IDEAS PROTECTED BY SIMPLE PRECAUTIONS

Many people have good ideas about new or improved machines or gadgets, but never do anything about them because they don't know how to protect their rights while perfecting such items and going through the necessary patenting procedure. Here's what you can do to protect your invention before you have it patented.

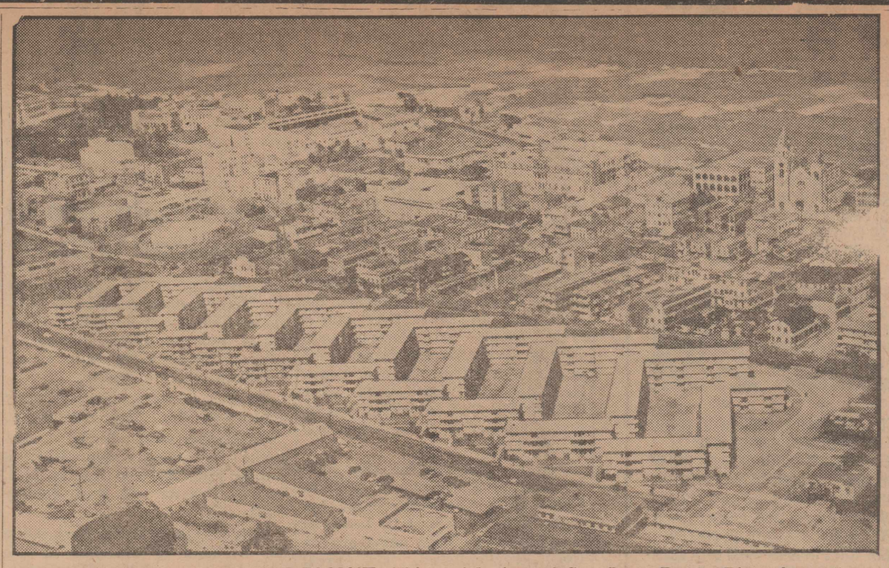

Under the patent laws of the United States the person who first conceives of a new and novel patentable idea is entitled to it. Therefore, if conflicting claims arrive as to who is entitled to a patent, it is necessary to establish who first had the idea, not who filed the first application for patent.

Of course, it is always advisable to make application for patent as soon as possible in such cases. But don't forget to protect yourself while you are completing your final drawings and ultimate plans and making such tests as may be needed to perfect your patent. To do this, you should, as soon as you conceive the idea, make a written record of the facts, dating the same, including a general statement of the nature of your invention, and a rough drawing if possible. This should be witnessed by two persons who could be called on later on to certify that they witnessed the same on the dates set out in the instrument you have drawn.

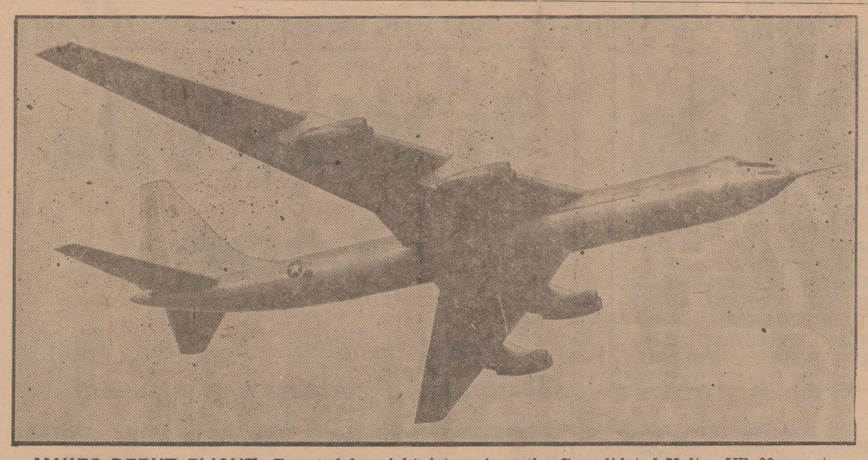

Some inventors place such witnessed statements and drawings in an envelope. This they seal and mail to themselves by Registered Mail. Their post office stamps each seam of the envelope in such a way that any opening of same can be detected. Upon receiving the registered envelope and its contents, the inventor merely files it away in a safe place unopened. Then, if a contest should later envelope, postal records will lend additional support to the testimony of his witnesses.

By taking the above precautions, you will establish a preliminary date showing the time when your original idea was conceived. After that you can continue with your work, perfect your idea, and after the same is perfected, make application for a patent, if you feel that you have a patentable idea.

One should not just make a preliminary sketch and put it away and think that is sufficient to protect his rights. That is just one additional bit of evidence to help him establish his right to the patent. The patent should be sought as soon as possibly can after conceiving his patentable idea and working out details of the same.

PUERTO RICO BEATS THE BLIGHT—This aerial view of San Juan, Puerto Rico, shows the Puerta de Tierra housing project containing 484 apartments that rent for less than $10 a month each. This latest development on the city's waterfront cost $2,277,000 and occupies eight acres. According to the island's planning board, about 18,000 families will have been moved out of San Juan slums and into modern housing by 1956.

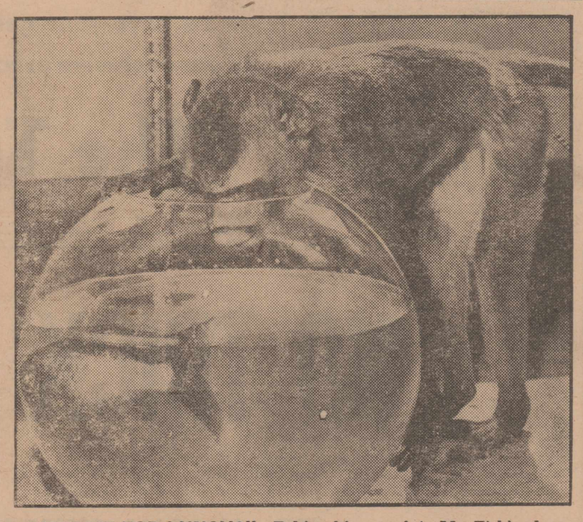

MAKES DEBUT FLIGHT—Powered by eight jet engines, the Consolidated Vultee YB-60 swept-wing bomber thunders over Fort Worth, Tex., where it is undergoing flight tests. The new bomber flew for the first time April 18, but the U. S. Air Force authorized release of pictures only recently.

PHONE 526 FOR APPOINTMENT

Dr. Green explaining spinal nerves and their part in the function of various organs and glands throughout the body.

Vertebral Subluxation

The term Vertebral Subluxation means that one of the twenty-six small bones or vertebrae which make up the spine or "Backbone" is out of place with its fellow vertebrae with the result that the large nerve trunk passing between it and the vertebra immediately above or below it is pinched. This pinching results either in pain somewhere along the course of the nerve or in the organs of muscles served by it. Or in failure of the parts it serves to function properly because of failure to receive in sufficient degree the necessary directing impulses from the brain.

When your foot "goes to sleep" from sitting with the knees crossed, thus pinching the large nerve under one knee with the bony cap on the other, you have an example of some of the minor effects of nerve pinching or impingement. If allowed to continue month after month and year after year you can easily see how these effects might become major ones.

An internal organ may similarly "go to sleep" from nerve impingement and eventually become diseased as a result of the imperfect circulation and function activity. Chiropractic adjustments correct the cause.

THE CHRYSLER NEW YORKER CONVERTIBLE
(This body style also available in Windsor DeLuxe with Spitfire Engine.)
White side-wall tires at extra cost.

ITS ENGINE ADDS MUSCLE TO EVERY DROP OF GAS!

To many owners, the mighty 180 H.P. V-8 engine that powers the Chrysler New Yorker is the most remarkable feature of this remarkable car. It is certainly the most discussed automobile engine in many, many years.

This is the engine with hemispherical combustion chambers . . . the engine that gets more power out of every drop of gas. And non-premium gas at that!

Actually, it puts you in control of more power than you'll probably ever need use. You'll sense this . . . together with its unequaled response . . . the very first yards you drive. It runs smoother, more quietly, and with less wear than any other engine ever built into an American automobile.

. . . and it makes driving (both cruising and the short runs) more fun than you have ever known it to be!

But that's not all. Along with this engine there are scores of other reasons, too, for driving a New Yorker before resolving on any new car. Like Full-time Power Steering that makes steering five times easier . . . and your control five times greater . . . than in ordinary cars. Like Power Brakes that cut needed pedal pressure by as much as two-thirds.

Like Oriflow shock absorbers that make even bad roads feel "newly paved" . . . restful chair-high seats . . . big, wide-opening doors . . . big windows that let you see more.

It's true . . . until you drive a Chrysler New Yorker you won't know what you're missing. Why not stop in today?
