NOT JUST 'KNEE-DEEP IN COTTON' — Workers for West Texas Compress & Warehouse Co. here appear to be up to their necks in baled cotton work. Cotton produced by most Howard County farmers and those at St. Lawrence is processed by the firm, manager Jack Irons said. Some of the about 55,000 bales anticipated for this crop will go to domestic textile mills, Irons said. Some will be exported through ports at Galveston, Houston and California. In this yard near Mt. Olive Memorial Cemetery, about 15,000 bales await compressing and shipment. Another 10,000 yet to be shipped stand in the yard by the plant on Northwest Tenth Street.

Hundreds ready to go

U.S. vets recruited for Angola War

WASHINGTON (AP) — Black American veterans are being recruited here to fight in Angola, and organizers say several hundred ex-military men are ready to join in the civil war there alongside Western-backed forces next month.

Organizer Larry Mitchell, a 34-year-old Vietnam veteran who works as a technician in Washington-area hospital, refused to say who is footing the bill for his mercenary expedition, but he would not rule out the CIA.

On Wednesday, Mitchell said his phone was ringing off the hook — the result of a weekend advertisement he placed in several newspapers: "Veterans Wanted — Medical and technical skills and willing to travel."

Meanwhile, dozens of British mercenaries flew out of London on Wednesday, bound for Africa and the Angola fighting.

The men generally were silent and many tried to hide their faces from photographers as they boarded planes. But some said they had been recruited by Security Advisory Services, a firm in Surrey, a county southwest of London, and were to be paid $300 a week, tax free, by the government of Zaire, an African neighbor of embattled Angola.

Between 40 and 50 men left London on one flight and about 100 others reportedly followed later in the day.

In Zambia, Roy Innis of the New York-based Congress for Racial Equality said he would seek black Americans to fight in Angola.

Innis said CORE cannot legally recruit U.S. volunteers, but he said CORE legally can sign up medical technicians to serve in Angola.

"If a combat veteran puts a medical badge on his arm and fools me, if someone says to me he's going there to stick needles in arms and then he picks up a rifle, I can't help that," Innis said.

More than 200 men have been enrolled in the private combat corps being formed in Washington, Mitchell said, including black Army, Navy and Marine veterans, ranging from the unemployed to a Washington policeman and a law firm messenger.

Ex-Coahoman charged with capital murder

Alejandro Hernandez Cevallos, 34, free on bond in two other murder cases, has been charged with capital murder in the Tuesday night knife slaying of an off-duty policeman in Houston.

Cevallos is a former Coahoma resident and former employe of a Big Spring carpet store.

Houston Police Officer George G. Rojas, 29, died five hours after being slashed with a curved carpet knife while at an east side night club.

Cevallos, a carpet layer, was surrendered to police Wednesday afternoon by his lawyer, Percy Foreman, who also turned over Rojas' pistol to police.

Lorenzo Cevallos, 44, a brother of Alejandro, was arrested later and held as a material witness.

Investigators quoted witnesses as saying Rojas, in civilian clothes, broke up a fight at the night club. Foreman, however, told newsmen Rojas had not tried to intervene in the fight but instigated the incident with Cevallos.

Houston Police Chief B. G. Bond said Cevallos was to be tried here in March on a 1972 murder charge and also was free on bond on a 1973 San Antonio murder charge.

Locally, he was arrested on several occasions for being drunk, carrying a prohibited weapon, aggravated assault and has served one term in the federal penitentiary in Lubbock for violation of the Dyer Act. He also has a police record in Muleshoe.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Joe Moss said Texas judges could not have denied bond in the two previous murder charges filed against Cevallos.

Moss said the judges had to grant bond in all cases between June 1972 and January 1974 when the new Texas Penal Code went into effect. It was in June 1972, Moss said, that the Supreme Court outlawed the death penalty as it was then being used.

Cevallos had been released under $15,000 bonds in both Houston and San Antonio.

Hearst jury selection closed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst's trial for bank robbery, described by the judge at the start as the "most fully covered case in the country," has gone behind closed doors while the jury is picked.

A critical preliminary phase — the questioning of prospective jurors about the effects of massive publicity given Miss Hearst between her 1974 kidnaping and her arrest last Sept. 18 — is being conducted in private.

U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter left more than 100 reporters representing newspapers from many parts of the world outside in a corridor Wednesday as he questioned prospective jurors.

Four women were tentatively seated on the panel and three dismissed. Carter, who had hoped to seat a jury Wednesday, told attorneys he anticipates completing the selection by Friday.

The four tentative jurors selected Wednesday, subject to peremptory challenge later, were Carol Waller of San Francisco, wife of a loan officer at the Wells Fargo Bank; Barbara Lawson, an employe of the San Mateo Heart Association; Jean Witte, a Danville housewife and mother of three; and Marilyn Wentz of Hayward, a dental assistant with four children.

SOVIET STYLE WARRIOR — A soldier of the Soviet-backed MPLA wears a Russian-style steel helmet complete with a red star in Santa Comba, Angola. The Soviets indicated today that they would help reach a political settlement of the Angola conflict.

In Angola

Soviets to help reach settlement

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government indicated today it would help reach a political settlement of the Angola conflict by endorsing a coalition government "of all the patriotic forces working for genuine independence and free development of their country."

The official government newspaper Izvestia, while reaffirming Moscow's support of the Popular Movement (MPLA) as the "legitimate government" of Angola, issued an authoritative article stressing the need for a peaceful settlement in Angola and unity in Africa.

Izvestia took what appeared to be the most conciliatory stance on Angola in weeks, and it comes at a time when the Moscow-backed faction is reported making considerable gains on the military front.

Up to this time, Soviet propaganda has concentrated on justifying this country's support for the MPLA and attacking outside interference from "imperialist" forces of South Africa, aided by the United States and some African countries.

The Izvestia article was signed by "an observer," the usual designation for a direct spokesman for the Kremlin hierarchy. The importance of the statement was underlined by the fact that Tass, the official Soviet news agency, ran a complete text of the article.

Spelling Bee will be staged March 25 at HC auditorium

The Howard County Spelling Bee will be staged Thursday, March 25, starting shortly after 4 p.m., in the Howard College Auditorium.

School champions and alternates will be determined about a week to 10 days prior to the county bee. All elementary schools and junior high schools in the county are eligible to send entries to the county meet.

The champion here qualifies for the Regional Bee, which will be staged in Lubbock's Moody Auditorium starting at 12:30 p.m., April 10. The auditorium is located on the Lubbock Christian College campus at 5601 West 19th St., in Lubbock.

The winner there qualifies for the National finals in Washington, D. C.

The supply of books for the spelling bee here is practically exhausted, according to Mrs. Helen Gladden, coordinator for the bee. The books can, however, still be obtained through teachers or principals or at The Herald at a cost price of 30 cents per copy.

The books contain the list of first-round words, intermediate words and final words. Words for both the county and regional bees will be taken from this book.

Mrs. O. T. Brewster has again agreed to serve as pronouncer for the bee. The judges are now being chosen.

Last year Glenn Margolis, then of Goliad Junior High, won the county bee and went on to become runner-up in the regional bee. He won regional the previous year to advance to the finals in Washington. He was the third Big Spring resident to qualify for nationals.

Airport Elementary, Bauer, Boydstun, Cedar Crest, College Heights, Kentwood, Lakeview, Marcy, Moss, Park Hill, Washington, Elbow, Immaculate Heart of Mary, Goliad and Runnels are eligible to send representatives to the county bee.

Poor showing may force withdrawal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen's Democratic presidential campaign is facing a crucial test in Oklahoma in nine days and a poor showing there could force him out of the national race, according to sources close to the senator. The Texas Democrat was fourth in a field of five candidates in the Mississippi caucuses last week with less than 2 per cent of the delegates. He needs a respectable finish in Oklahoma's Feb. 7 caucuses to prove he has support in his own region of the country.

Kissinger quizzed on memo

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is expected to be quizzed by a congressonal panel about a State Department memo that one senator says may have pushed the Soviet-backed Angolan faction closer to the Soviet Union and Cuba. The Senate subcommittee on African affairs today is opening a series of hearings on the United States policy in Angola and its implications for detente with the Soviet Union.

Woman indicted for murder here in 1972 apprehended

A woman indicted for a March 1972 murder here was arrested in Riverside, Calif., Wednesday by a Howard County deputy sheriff and returned to county jail here.

Dorothy Lynn Hicks, 24, is charged with the shooting death of Joe Willis Winters. Wayne Basden, a local attorney, and Tom Conway were her sureties on a $5,000 bond.

District Judge Ralph W. Caton started bond forfeiture proceedings against her sureties.

Basden and Conway responded wtih the claim that they had been informed the case would not be prosecuted.

Sheriff A. N. Standard said Deputy Sheriff Eddie Owen and Mrs. Owen arrested the defendant in California Wednesday morning. The defendant waived extradition, Standard said.

Early this morning, Owen said they arrived in Big Spring with the defendant. She remained in jail today.

On the date of the shooting, police made this note on a report: "Came to the station and turned herself in. Gave gun to dispatcher and said that she had shot a man." At that time, she was a student at Howard College.

Ervin still fox trots

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — Ervin Stanley has to rest every so often during his twice-weekly evenings of whirling around the dance floor. He's 95 years old.

"I generally dance one or two dances and then I rest a while," Stanley said. "It hurts my knees after awhile. If the floor is slick, I can get around pretty good. If it's sticky, I get awful tired fast."

His partners at the Gay 90s Club on Wednesday and at the Friendship Club on Saturdays say Stanley is a good dancer, spry for his age.

"I like the two-step and waltzes," said Stanley, who began attending weekly dances to stay active after his third wife died 23 years ago.

Kidnaper parole denied

ATLANTA (AP) — The Board of Pardons and Parole has denied parole for Gary Steven Krist, 29, convicted in the 1968 kidnaping of Florida land heiress Barbara Jane Mackle.

Krist was sentenced to life imprisonment in 1969 for the bizarre kidnaping in which Miss Mackle was buried in a coffin-like box for nearly four days in a pine forest near Atlanta.

The parole panel announced its decision on Wednesday.

Also convicted in the kidnaping was Ruth Eisemann-Schier, 32, who was released from prison and deported to her native Honduras in 1972.

Hello Blizzard? This is Snow

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — When Dr. Gordon Snow contacts the Office of Emergency Services for a report on drought conditions, he could ask for Everett Blizzard.

Blizzard handles county requests for emergency declarations, and Snow is a special assistant in the state Department of Food and Agriculture.

And, in heading a task force studying effects of lack of rain and snow in California this winter, Snow says he confers with a weather forecaster for the state's Department of Water Resources named Rainwater.

Uncle Sam sheds years

FORT DODGE, Iowa (AP) — That venerable symbol of patriotism, Uncle Sam, has shed the weight of years for Bicentennial 1976 and looks like a teenager. Actually, this Uncle Sam is only 17 years old.

Tim Larson, a high school senior, has taken to wearing an Uncle Sam costume to high school sporting events, elementary schools and appearances before civic groups.

As he makes his rounds, Larson distributes red, white and blue badges, with the message: "1776-1976: The First 200 Years Are Always The Hardest."

People are at first surprised at the sight of Uncle Sam, Larson said. "I walk around, crack jokes and listen to them complain about the government — mostly taxes."

Congress, Ford edge toward new confrontation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional Democrats who overrode President Ford's veto of a $4.5-billion spending bill now are moving toward a new confrontation over a $6.1-billion public works measure that backers claim would create some 800,000 jobs.

Beside authorizing money for projects designed to create jobs, the public works bill before the House today would grant federal funds during times of high unemployment to state and local governments faced with the alternatives of firing employes or raising taxes.

The Ford administration opposes the measure, and House Republican Leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona described it as a prime target for a veto if it is passed.

The measure comes up for floor action a day after the Democratic-controlled Congress overrode Ford's veto of a bill funding politically popular health, welfare and job programs at a level almost $1 billion above the President's budget.

Ford lost his first spending battle of the election-year session Wednesday when the Senate voted 70 to 24 to override the veto. The margin was seven more than the two-thirds vote needed to override. The House voted Tuesday to override, 310 to 113.

Ford, in vetoing the measure, said it would "contribute to excessive deficits and needless inflationary pressures." He said the measure would add 8,000 people to the federal payroll, saying, "I find it difficult to believe the majority of the American people favor increasing the number of employes on the federal payroll."

But Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., GOP manager of the bill, declared that the measure was only 2.6 per cent over Ford's budget, "which was woefully inadequate to begin with."

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine., said the bill did not exceed Congress' own budget, although it was over Ford's budget. He said the legislators, in adopting their own budget, decided more funds should go into programs of the Health, Education and Welfare Department and Labor Department and less into programs such as the military.

TAC, FAA employes confer with officials

A representative of the Texas Aeronautics Commission (TAC) met with members of County Commissioners Court and City Manager Harry Nagel Tuesday and Wednesday.

County Judge Bill Tune said Harry Rogers spoke to local leaders about the stability of Trans Regional Airlines as a carrier at Howard County Airport.

Also this week, two Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) employes from Fort Worth met with representatives of Trans Regional. Louis Rosenbaum, the El Paso businessman who owns the airlines, filed a complaint with the FAA when commissioners court denied to grant him fixed-base operator's (FBO) lease.

Rosenbaum, through an attorney, claimed commissioners court had granted Big Spring Aircraft Inc., the only present FBO here, "exclusive rights."

Ezzell opens local office

State Rep. Mike Ezzell has opened an office here in the Executive building at 1600 Scurry and will be here from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., each Tuesday to meet with the constituency and answer questions.

The office will be open daily for the convenience of those desiring information and will have telephone service, from 9 a.m., to 5 p.m.

Ezzell, a resident of Snyder, announced recently he would be a candidate for re-election this year, subject to action in the first Democratic primary election May 1.

Ezzell recently returned to West Texas after spending several days attending committee meetings in Austin.

Cookie sale due Friday

The 1976 Cookie Sale for the West Texas Girl Scout Council begins at 4 p.m., Friday. It ends Feb. 14. Girl Scouts may be asking, "Will you be my valentine?", while proffering boxes in five flavors: Peanut butter, sandwich creme, thin mint, shortbread, and peanut butter. Each box costs $1.25. Buy one, or all five kinds — you'll be loved by countless "green angels" and "brown cupids".

"I've got the spirit, 1976, WTGS Cookie Sale" is inscribed on a red, white, and blue Coolie patch. All Scouts may earn this patch for selling 42 boxes during the sale.

For 1st and 2nd grade Brownies, there is a special camping event to be held June 11-12 at Camp Boothe Oaks for Brownies and their Dads. To be eligible a Brownie must sell 80 boxes of coolies; 56 Brownies and 56 Dads did it in 1975.

For Scouts in the 3rd through the twelfth grades, camping fees are cut a fourth for selling 80-139 boxes; a half for 140-224; three-fourths for 225-299; and full fee for 300 or more boxes.

The outstanding cookie sales lady (girl selling the highest number of boxes) will receive a trophy this year.

Rhonda Sands, Abilene is the Cookie Sale Coordinator. Rhonda says that sales profits are used to promote wider opportunities for girls and adults. A group of 40 girls and adults will make a Bicentennial tour to Rockwood Girl Scout National Center, Potomac, Maryland on July 25-July 31. They will visit in the heart of Early America. Cookie funds will help finance the trip. Other girls and adults will be selected to attend intercouncil, national, or international opportunities.

Filing deadline nears

Not only candidates for county and precinct offices but candidates for Democratic and Republican county and precinct chairman seats must file before 6 p.m. Monday, County Clerk Margaret Ray said. Otherwise, their name will not appear on ballots.

Candidates for office and chairman posts must file with party county chairmen. G. Ben Bancroft is chairman of the Howard County Republican Party. And Harvey Hooser is chairman of the county Democratic Party.

You may run for precinct or county chairman as a write-in candidate without filing, but candidates for office must file with the chairman. There will be no write-in votes counted for county and precinct office nominations, Mrs. Ray said.

Before filing with a county chairman, candidates for office must designate their campaign treasurer for the county clerk's office. The county clerk's office will close at 5 p.m. Monday.

License plate stickers will go on sale Monday

License plate renewal stickers will be sold starting Monday at three Big Spring locations, Zirah L. Bednar, county tax assessor-collector, said.

Instead of issuing new metal license plates, the state of Texas has printed red, white and blue stickers slightly larger than a big postage stamp, Mrs. Bednar said.

These stickers must be attached to the rear plate of vehicles before midnight April 1.

Stickers for all types of vehicles may be obtained at the county courthouse and Webb Air Force Base Federal Credit Union.

Newsom's Food Center will sell stickers for passenger cars and a few pickups, Mrs. Bednar said.

Early in March, license plate stickers will be issued at the Coahoma City Hall for two days.

When purchasing stickers, motorists should bring renewal cards from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation or the vehicle title and 1975 registration receipt.

Mrs. Bednar warned vehicle owners to be careful not to lose the stickers.

Be it ever so humble . . .

One man almost got arrested for breaking into his own home and another almost bit the dust when he was trying to get in the wrong house Wednesday night.

A neighbor called and reported a man breaking into a home in the southwestern part of Big Spring. He was locked out of his own house.

The other call came from a woman on the northeast side of town who reported a man trying to get in the front door. He was in a confused state and thought it was his house, according to the police report.

Kunstler 'not upset' over assassinations

DALLAS (AP) — John and Robert Kennedy were two of the most dangerous men America ever produced and "I'm not entirely upset" by their assassination, lawyer William M. Kunstler said Tuesday.

"Although I couldn't pull the trigger myself, I don't disagree with murder sometimes, especially political assassinations which have been a part of political life since the beginning of recorded history," Kunstler told a news conference.

"I'm not entirely upset by the Kennedy assassination. In many ways two of the most dangerous men in the country were eliminated," he said. "It is hard to tell what the glamor of Kennedy could have done. Kennedy excited adulation. And adulation is the first step toward dictatorship."

Kunstler defended the Chicago 7 group charged with disrupting the 1968 Democratic Convention. He also is chief counsel for Symbionese Liberation Army soldiers Bill and Emily Harris.

Kunstler said he turned down offers to handle the defense of Patricia Hearst who went on trial Tuesday in San Francisco on bank robbery charges.

"I would never work for the Hearsts under any circumstance because I won't work for pigs," he said. "I only work for people I respect and anyone in the ruling class I don't respect. Patty Hearst will be the ultimate victim. She was brainwashed after she went to jail, not before."

He said Miss Hearst was denied bail because "they were afraid she would make it. She would have been the No. 1 speaker on college campuses and she could have raised enough money for her own defense and the Harrises."

Chief clerk candidate

LAMESA — Mrs. R. T. Bingham, deputy county clerk of Dawson County for 13 years and a veteran of 20 years in the clerk's office, will be a candidate to succeed the late Louie White as chief clerk in the upcoming May 1 primary election.

Mrs. Bingham is currently acting chief clerk. White's term was to have extended through 1978.

Trial continues without juror

The Rev. Monroe Teeters, a Coahoma minister serving on an 118th District Court, became ill when court recessed for lunch Wednesday.

Deputy sheriffs took him home, but the juror wanted to continue serving today. District Judge Ralph W. Caton, however, had excused the man because of testimony the juror missed Wednesday afternoon.

Judge Caton is presiding over a trial over consolidated suits filed in connection with a Skelly Oil Co. plant gas explosion. Byron Conway died after the accident. Also, three employes of Snyder Well Servicing were injured.

Testimony continued today with only 11 jurors.

In Schnabel probe

Grand Jury hears more witnesses

AUSTIN (AP) — A holdover Travis County grand jury today called five more present or former Senate employes in its investigation of the office of Senate Secretary Charles Schnabel.

One of the witnesses, Shirl Hearn, testified before the jury Jan. 16. She is one of five women who typed "heat sheets" at the Texas Relays track meet last April for extra Senate pay.

Schnabel is a jogging enthusiast and track buff.

Mrs. Hearn was paid $50 for 5½ hours work at the relays. The women reportedly had Senate overtime coming for which they were not going to be paid, and Schnabel offered to see they got some of it if they volunteered for the relays work.

The relays are sponsored by the University of Texas, which is a state agency.

Sources near the grand jury indicated after its Monday meeting the jury would continue to probe the case of the missing inventory Senate files.

That disappearance was discovered last Friday by Don Jones, Senate inventory supervisor.

Jones and Senate Sergeant at Arms Tommy Townsend testified before the grand jury Monday.

The missing files comprised the inventory records for Senate staff services, Schnabel's office, the Capitol tour guides, the Senate post office, Senate finance, the enrolling and engrossing room, contingent expenses, the file room, rental equipment and the Capitol security office.

Jones has said the original handwritten sheets from which the inventory records were compiled are still complete, with no missing pages, so it would be possible to reconstruct the inventory records accurately.

A district attorney investigator, David Sheppard, said it was those original sheets he was interested in, anyway, so the loss or misplacement of the inventory records is of little consequence.

Sheppard reportedly wanted to check to see if a "rental" camera with Schnabel's initials and Social Security number engraved on it had been made a part of the inventory records.

The grand jury indicted Schnabel Dec. 30 on two counts of theft and one count of official misconduct.

Usery for labor secretary

Senate moves toward confirmation

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's nomination of W.J. Usery to be his third secretary of labor is, as expected, moving rapidly toward Senate confirmation.

The Senate Labor Committee gave quick approval Wednesday to the nomination and sent it to the Senate for expected confirmation.

The committee voted 15 to 1 to recommend confirmation after a friendly, two-hour hearing in which Usery said he hopes to find some new way of resolving problems in the troubled construction industry.

There were no opposition witnesses, and the only committee member to oppose the nomination was Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., who questioned Usery about right-to-work legislation.

Usery, 52, now director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, was nominated by the President last week after John T. Dunlop resigned, saying Ford's veto of the "common site" picketing bill undermined his effectiveness with organized labor.

Usery also supported the bill, which would have broadened the rights of unions to picket building sites and provide a mechanism for stabilizing construction industry bargaining.

It would have been "good for the unions, good for the industry and good for the country," he said.

But since he is Ford's nominee, he said, "I do not see my coming before this committee, working for this legislation in light of past events."

He said some other forum must be found to bring labor and management together, and added, "We must get on with the job making the present system work."

Laxalt, who opposed the "common site" bill, questioned Usery on two controversial legislative goals long sought by labor — the right to strike for public employes and repeal of federal law allowing states to ban the union shop.

Usery said he believes that in a free society workers have "the right to withdraw their services" but that at the same time the public interest must be protected.

With "the crazy quilt of laws" governing public employes across the country, he said, legislation is needed to help resolve disputes without preempting state laws.

On the issue of compulsory unionism, Usery said he favors repeal of Section 14-B of the Taft-Hartley Act, the right-to-work provision. However, he stresses that he is not advocating repeal.

Class is all boys

Woman teaches family life at prison

ELDORA, Iowa (AP) — Boys ready for parole at the state reform school are lining up for a new sex education course. Many have been surprised to learn there is a lot they don't know.

"They're pretty experienced in sexual matters," said Linda Williams, 33, one of the course's two teachers. "But even though they might have quite a bit of factual knowledge about the mechanics of sex, most of them don't know how to put it into perspective in life.

"They come into the class thinking that girls and women are things — things to be used. But by the end of the course that attitude seems to change, and they develop a real feeling for what family life is all about."

The course — voluntary and requiring parental consent — was designed "to get the topic of sex out of back alleys," said Ronald Christensen, principal of the school where up to 200 teenage boys are housed for weeks or months without seeing a girl their own age.

"It's a course that was really needed here. The misconceptions the kids have when they come here — wow, you wouldn't believe," he said.

The comprehensive and highly descriptive course is "outstanding — one of the best family life programs I've ever seen," said Esther Walters of Des Moines, director of consumer affairs for Planned Parenthood of Iowa.

"Few high schools anywhere have anything like it," she said.

Sex has been — and still is — a highly controversial issue in many communities when it reaches the point of determining how — and how much — sex education is to be incorporated into school curriculums.

"Unfortunately, it's a situation in which a young person in Iowa almost has to be arrested before he or she can get good sex education," she said.

The course was designed about four years ago by a former teacher who spent a year doing research and developing materials, said Christensen.

The no-grade course is open to all boys in the school, who range in age from 12 to 17. It is so much in demand that priority is given to youths who are closest to parole.

The course includes sexual terminology, sexual anatomy of a boy and a girl, puberty and adolescense, masturbation, dating and making out, homosexuality, sexual abnormalities, premarital sex, veneral disease, contraception, marriage, conception, growth and birth of a baby, heredity and pornography.

Why a woman teacher?

"It helps to have a female involved as a teacher since there are no girls in the classes," said Mrs. Williams.

Congress wants 200-mile limit for U.S. fishing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both the House and Senate want to establish a 200-mile limit for a U. S. fishery zone off American coasts, but they have yet to agree on an effective date for starting it.

The Senate approved on Wednesday, by a vote of 77 to 19, a bill designed to protect the U.S. fishing industry against overfishing by foreigners. The vote came after the Senate had approved 93 to 2 an amendment postponing the effective date until July 1, 1977.

The bill, principally aimed at Soviet and Japanese fleets which fish near U.S. coastal borders, now goes back to the House, which passed similar legislation last October with a July 1, 1976 effective date.

The White House and State Department previously had opposed bills similar to the measure, but Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., told the Senate he had been informed that Ford would sign the new bill if it contained the deferment of the effective date.

Senate Commerce Committee Chairman Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., and other sponsors of the 200-mile fishery conservation zone accepted Thurmond's amendment to delay enforcement, saying it would allow additional time for the United Nations 144-country Law of the Sea Conference to attempt to complete negotiation of an over-all treaty on oceanographic issues.

The Law of the Sea Conference failed to reach agreement last year and has scheduled another session to begin March 29 in New York City.

Fourteen other nations now claim the 200-mile limit. The United States and most other nations now claim 12-mile coastal zones.

The bill places heavy fines on foreign vessels that take more than specific limits placed on fish stocks that stay close to shore. The bill does not apply to high seas migratory fish such as tuna.

A&M rips Texas, dominates SWC

By The Associated Press

The Texas Aggies own the Southwest Conference basketball leadership today thanks to another dose of double overtime lightning in the Ozarks — only the victim this time was Texas Tech.

The Aggies, who lost a controversial 93-91 double overtime game in Arkansas last week, ripped Texas 72-60 in Austin and immediately asked what had happened to Tech against the Razorbacks.

What happened was a 92-86 Red Raider loss in spooky Barnhill Fieldhouse with three Tech starters, including Rick Bullock fouling out. Bullock left the screaming crowd of 5,100 fans with a gesture which will be left undescribed for family newspapers.

The Aggies are now 6-1 and a half-game ahead of the 6-2 Red Raiders. Southern Methodist (6-3) bashed Rice 90-67 to pull within a game of the leaders. Baylor bounced Texas Christian at Fort Worth 71-68 in the only other game of the night.

Tech Coach Gerald Myers said Arkansas' victory "definitely puts A&M in the driver's seat. It was a bitter defeat."

As far Bullock's parting gesture when whistled for a fifth foul in the second overtime, Myers said "Rick is one of the finest persons I've ever been around. In this battle he broke, and I've never seen him do anything like that before. He was hacked, pushed and took a lot of punishment, but it shouldn't have happened."

Bullock was high point man for the game with 28 followed by Arkansas' Ron Brewer with 24.

Tech was whistled for 28 fouls compared to Arkansas' 22 and was outshot at the free throw line. The Razorbacks hit 28 of 34 and Tech 14 of 19.

"It's great for the fans, but it's a heck of a way to make a living," said Arkansas Coach Eddie Sutton, referring to yet another double overtime. "Tech is the best man-for-man defensive team we've played."

Myers said Tech still wasn't dead in the conference race and predicted "three or four losses will still win it. Arkansas has a great team. I'm surprised they've lost four. They may be as good as anybody we've played in the league."

The Aggies unleashed their famed "Barry and Sonny Show" on Texas. Barry Davis scored 24 points and collected 13 rebounds. Parker added 18 points and 11 rebounds.

Texas incredibly led 54-53 with 11:03 remaining and didn't make another field goal. The Longhorns went the last six minutes without a point.

A&M Coach Shelby Metcalf still had the loss to Arkansas on his mind.

"I think we ought to be undefeated but Eddie (Sutton) and that timekeeper up there won't give it to us," said Metcalf, referring to the fact official time was kept with a stop watch in the A&M-Arkansas game because of a clock malfunction.

It was only A&M's 11th victory in 48 games at Gregory Gymnasium.

Texas Coach Leon Black said "It's unbelievable a team can go that long (11:03) without scoring. The Aggies have great material and you can't let down against a bunch like that."

Rice Coach Bob Polk said of SMU: "They've got more than Ira Terrell. They throw a lot of things at you. It seems they were hitting those 15 to 17 footers from the wings all night."

SMU Coach Sonny Allen said "When we started running, it was all over. But the press really got 'em, I felt."

In games Saturday, Baylor is at Rice in a 1 p.m. televised encounter, and Arkansas is at SMU, Texas Tech is at Houston, and Texas A&M is at TCU.

PROS SHOULD BE ALLOWED IN OLYMPICS — Former skiing great Karl Schranz of Austria, gesturing during an interview in Innsbruck Wednesday, believes that the Olympics should be opened to professionals. Schranz, now 37, was barred from the 1972 Sapporo Winter Games for commercialism.

Schranz pleads for Open Games

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP) — Former skiing great Karl Schranz of Austria, who was barred from the 1972 Sapporo Winter Games for commercialism, is more convinced than ever that the Olympics should be opened to professionals.

"There should be 'Open Games' where the best athletes compete — rich or poor, black or white and without religious preference," Schranz, now 37, said.

Schranz, here for the 1976 Winter Games, said he stood by his outspoken attacks on Olympic amateur rules. He said he had no regrets about the dispute with the late Avery Brundage, then president of the International Olympic Committee (IOC), which led to his banishment from the Games four years ago.

The barring of Schranz in 1972 by Brundage nearly split the Games, and it fueled Brundage's claim that the Winter Games would die. But those Games have not died, and Schranz seems to have prospered.

"I was the most popular ski racer at that time and I became a sort of spokesman for the other Alpine competitors," he said in an interview. "His highness, Mr. Brundage, did not like my opinion, so I became the victim and the IOC threw me out."

At the time, Schranz, a twotime World Cup champion, claimed there were no pure amateurs among top class skiers and he admitted there were payoffs direct from ski equipment manufacturers — money forbidden by Olympic rules then in force.

"I never met Brundage. I was never allowed a hearing by the IOC at Sapporo," he claimed. "Perhaps they would have let me compete if they'd given me a chance to explain."

Schranz, a bachelor ski school operator and hotel owner in nearby St. Anton, admitted, "Sure I made money. I had to live like everyone else." But he denied as "exaggerations" reports that he pocketed up to $200,000 a year at the height of his amateur career.

Schranz's banishment from Sapporo — his last chance to earn the Olympic gold medal that eluded him in three previous Games — was treated as a national tragedy by the ski-crazy Austrians.

Looking at modified Olympic amateur rules that allow payments for income lost during training, Schranz said, "There's still no clear guidelines. I don't claim all top athletes are professionals. It's just that there are no amateurs. They must open up the Games to the best."

Schranz will work as an ABC commentator for the Innsbruck ski events.

Rockets' forward Johnson 'I can pass the ball, too'

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Rockets substitute forward John Johnson says everyone thinks of him as a shooter but he can pass the ball too.

Johnson had nine assists Wednesday night as the Rockets scored a 108-93 National Basketball Association victory over the Cleveland Cavaliers.

"Everybody thinks of me as a scorer or shooter but I can pass the ball, too," Johnson said. "I can penetrate and then it's tough for a canter to pick me up because that means their small forward has to guard our center. And we have big guys who can shoot."

The Rockets out-scored Cleveland 17-2 in the first five minutes of the third quarter to secure the victory, Houston's third in a row.

Houston's Eddie Ratleff and Kevin Kunnert controlled a Rocket defense that held the Cavs to 30 points in the first 20 minutes of the second half.

Ratleff blocked two shots, had a steal and scored 11 points in the third quarter.

"We won on the defensive end," Ratleff said. "We got a lot of good shots on breaks and semi-breaks, but that was because of our rebounding. We made them shoot outside and ws put enough pressure on their guards to bother them."

Calvin Murphy scored 25 points for Houston, passed out 10 assists and pressured the Cavalier guards full court during the second half as the Rockets took over. Rudy Tomjanovich added 20 points for Houston.

Houston was behind 49-48 at the half but owned a 65-61 lead with seven minutes to play in the third quarter.

Nate Thurmond came off the bench to lead Cleveland with 15 points. Campy Russell had 14 points for the Cavs who were prevented from tying Washington for first place in the NBA Central Division.

Tampa man is Ford's solon

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Hugh Culverhouse, owner of the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, has been named to a four-man delegation picked to represent President Ford at the winter Olympic Games in Innsbruck.

The National Football League club announced Wednesday that Culverhouse, a Jacksonville attorney, will carry the honorary title of ambassador. The official delegation is scheduled to depart New York Feb. 2 and return to the United States Feb. 7.

Hawks travel to Roswell

Coach Harold Wilder's high-scoring Howard College Hawks travel to Roswell, New Mexico tonight to battle New Mexico Military Institute.

The Bronco fans wouldn't have much sympathy with Hawk fans crying the blues over tough losses. NMMI has only lost three games (15-3), but all three have come at the hands of Western Conference opponents. The last one to Midland in Midland 72-71 Monday.

That same night Frank Phillips was upset by Clarendon 72-71. This was Clarendon's first conference win of the year. So far all of Howard's losses have been to contending teams.

Neither Howard nor NMMI have played a poor game this season, so tonight's affair should be close all the way. The Hawks may have more incentive to win. A loss by the Broncos (6-3) would just put them back with the pack, but a loss by the Hawks (5-4) would put them under the pack.

Summer Games stadium readied

MONTREAL (AP) — The main Olympic stadium and swimming hall will be ready for the 1976 Summer Games in July although some of the facilities will be temporary.

Quebec Municipal Affairs Minister Victor Goldbloom, who is responsible for the Olympics installations board, told a news conference Wednesday the stadium will be completed at a more relaxed pace after the Games are over.

The news conference was billed two weeks ago as the moment for the announcement of a decision on whether the Summer Olympics were to take place.

"It is clear that the facilities will not be complete," Goldbloom said. "But facilities for athletes, officials and spectators will be sufficiently complete for the holding of the Games."

The optimistic prediction by Goldbloom was based on continuing good labor relations on the Olympic site.

"Success is of course conditional on the continued close cooperation of all concerned," he said, adding he hoped the workers' sense of pride would prevent any walkouts in the future.

While he said no specific assurance had been given that further labor disputes would not disrupt the current completion schedule, he said he was heartened by reports from board members concerning their daily meetings with union representatives on the site.

A "disaster plan" was still available, Goldbloom said, in case the stadium could not be finished in time for the opening. He refused to reveal details of this plan.

The minister would not say which facilities would not be completed by the Games' opening July 17 on the grounds that the information is contained in a progress report which will be given to the International Olympic Committee.

This report is to be presented to the IOC Executive Committee on Saturday and to the full committee on Monday in meetings in Innsbruck, Austria, where this year's Winter Olympics are being held.

NEEDS PROTECTION — Relaxing between practice rounds for the Invitational tournament at Miami, Fla., golfer Laura Baugh, has asked for police protection during the tournament. Miss Baugh said that for about 10 weeks a man in his late 20s, wearing a cowboy hat and boots had threatened her. The 20-year-old blonde would not elaborate on the threats saying only "they are upsetting and he scares me."

State gridders are up for grabs

By The Associated Press

Southwest Conference schools harvest the state's talented schoolboy football crop Tuesday and early indications point to Texas A&M, Baylor, and Texas as the Big Three with the prospects.

Texas A&M, despite a recent marijuana raid which involved several of the school's sports stars, has received promises from some of the bluest of the state's blue chip players.

Running back Curtis Dickey of Bryan, a schoolboy All-American and almost a surefire starter as a freshman, heads the impressive list.

Other top schoolboy starts expected to sign with Texas A&M include linemen Paul Hagerty of Corpus Christi Zach Guthrie of Tyler John Tyler, and linebackers Frank Lemons of Pampa and Dick Frazee of Houston Westchester. Wide receiver Johnny Johnson of LaGrange also was expected to tab the Aggies.

Baylor has received commitments from such stars as quarterback Sammy Bickham of Plano, another schoolboy All-America, tackle Mark Moore of Fort Worth Eastern Hills, and James Rowell, an all-state defensive lineman from Angleton.

Texas has been given the OK from running back Johnny Jones of Lampasas, and highly rated quarterback Jon Aune of Dallas Hillcrest.

Each SWC school has 30 scholarships available except for SMU which can offer only 29 because of an NCAA edict which said the Mustangs gave 31 last year. New Coach Ron Meyer, off to a late start, has been blitzing the state spreading the Methodist gospel of wide open football.

It's business as usual at pro tennis tourney

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Defending champion Marty Riessen is gone, fiery Ilie Nastase says he will default his match today, but it's business as usual at the $115,000 U.S. Pro Indoor Tennis Championships.

Riessen lost 6-1, 6-4 Wednesday to Alan Stone of Australia, while Nastase polished off 18-year-old Billy Martin of the United States 5-7, 6-3, 6-3, in a stormy second-round match marked with protested line calls by both players.

Then Nastase, who had refused to appear at the customary post-match news conference Tuesday, arrived in the press room and told reporters, "I have the flu and I am defaulting my next match."

The Rumanian star, who is seeded fourth in the tourney, was scheduled to play American Eddie Dibbs today. Dibbs beat Dick Crealy of Australia 2-6, 7-6, 6-3 on Wednesday.

Tournament officials downplayed Nastase's statement because he did not tell the referee.

At the news conference, Nastase lectured his young opponent from California for yelling at a linesman. "When you have won Forest Hills and Wimbleton like me, then you can act like me," Nastase said.

After Nastase had left the room, Martin suggested, "I don't think he was that sick. He was irritated with the crowd."

There were some upsets in the competition which stretched until 1:24 a.m. today. Bob Lutz of the United States won 6-3, 6-3 over ninth-seeded Tony Roche of Australia, and Mark Cox of Great Britain took a 3-6, 6-3, 7-6 decision over 11th-seeded Vitas Gerulaitis of the United States.

Top-seeded Jimmy Connors, playing his first singles match, was extended through a 34-minute first set before winning 6-4, 6-0 over former U.S. Davis Cup captain Dennis Ralston.

U.S. ski hopes dim

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP) — A freckle-faced young Swede and a veteran from Italy rank as favorites in the men's slalom races as the world skiing elite heads for the Winter Olympic Games.

For Americans, meanwhile, there is little cause for optimism about the Alpine skiing team which will carry United States' hopes in the Games that open here a week from today.

Sweden's Ingemar Stenmark, 19, who leads this season's World Cup standings with 191 points, and Italy's Gustavo Thoeni, winner of the giant slalom at the 1972 Winter Games, finished one-two in Tuesday's final Olympic tuneup: a giant slalom in Zweisel, West Germany.

Stenmark, who won his fourth World Cup victory of the season, Thoeni and another Italian, Piero Gros, are ranked onetwo-three in the over-all standings and all are given good chances of winning medals in the two Olympic slalom events — giant and special.

The fourth-ranked World Cupper is Austria's Franz Klammer, a downhill specialist whose season-leading five victories make him a strong favorite in the third of the three Alpine skiing events for men.

Then there's the United States' team. In Zweisel, seven of the eight men who comprise the Alpine Olympic squad finished the race, led by a ninthplace showing from Steve Mahre, 18, of White Pass, Wash. It was the first time he has finished in the top 10 in a World Cup race — you get points only for the top 10 — and he earned his first two points.

FALLING SHORT OF RECORD — John Havlicek of the Boston Celtics takes a spill during Wednesday night's NBA action against the Atlanta Hawks at the Boston Garden. Havlicek scored 17 points in the game and now is only 3 points behind Elgin Baylor, the fourth-ranked all-time NBA scorer. Havlicek has a career total of 23,146 compared to Baylor's 23,149.

'Celtic pride' nips Hawks

By The Associated Press

The Boston Celtics have won 12 National Basketball Association championships with a basketful of talent, but their biggest asset through the years has been something intangible.

It's called "pride" — and that's what the Celtics used to beat the Atlanta Hawks Wednesday night, according to Cotton Fitzsimmons.

"Celtics pride turned it around," said the Atlanta coach after losing a 110-99 decision at the Boston Garden Wednesday night.

"They were ripe for a beating. We had a tough game in New York Tuesday night, but I felt if we could control the tempo we had a good chance. We did — right up to the third period.

"They broke our patterns with their pushing and shoving. The difference in the game was Celtics' pride. They won. It's no reflection on our team. We are young and don't have a history like the Celtics."

Boston Coach Tom Heinsohn was less romantic in his asssessment of the game.

"Paul Silas and John Havlicek turned the rhythm around for us in the third period," he said. "That gave us momentum. After we gained the lead, Steve Kuberski and Glenn McDonald came in and broke it open. They got us running."

In the other NBA games, the Houston Rockets beat the Cleveland Cavaliers 108-93; the Chicago Bulls stopped the Detroit Pistons 87-84; the Buffalo Braves outscored the New Orleans Jazz 126-112; the Los Angeles Lakers trimmed the Phoenix Suns 121-118 and the Portland Trail Blazers whipped the Seattle SuperSonics 124-104.

Havlicek and Charlie Scott led a baanced attack with 17 points each and Boston erupted for 69 points in the second half as the Celtics posted their fourth consecutive victory and seventh in the last eight games.

Two aides join Burris at Port Arthur post

Bob Glover and Tommy Moss both have resigned their posts as coaches for Big Spring High School and will join Bob Burris at Port Arthur Jefferson as assistant football coaches.

Glover came to Big Spring with Burris three years ago and has served as first assistant in football and also worked with track. Moss came the following year and worked with football, track field events and the weight program.

The two coaches will be moving to Port Arthur during the next few weeks to help Burris set up spring training and a weight program there.

Dr. Emmett McKenzie said after the school board meeting at noon Wednesday that Coach Robbins will be able to bring two assistants with him and to evaluate the remaining coaching staff during the spring months.

All board members were present Thursday for the meeting in which the official acceptance of Burris' resignation was approved and the hiring of Coach Don Robbins was also unanimously approved.

Demon Deacons battling slump

By The Associated Press

Will the real Wake Forest basketball team please stand up?

At the beginning of the season, the Demon Deacons couldn't lose for winning. Now they can't win for losing.

"Right now, we just need a victory more than anything else to bring out the best in the team and get us back where we were in the beginning," Wake Forest Coach Carl Tacy said Wednesday night following an 88-85 overtime loss to fourth-ranked North Carolina.

The loss was the fifth straight and sixth in the last seven games for Wake Forest, an enigmatic team that at one time had a 10-0 record and a place in the nation's Top Ten.

The Demon Deacons included North Carolina, North Carolina State and Maryland, three formidable Atlantic Coast Conference colleagues, among their victims earlier in the year.

But unfortunately two of the games did not count in the league standings and as a result, the onetime giant killers are saddled with a 1-5 ACC record and a dismal outlook for the near future.

"I think when you're in a winning rather than a losing streak like we've been in, you have a better chance of pulling out a game like we had tonight," Tacy said. "I think the team gave it everything they had and played well."

In other games involving ranked teams, seventh-ranked Maryland and eighth-ranked North Carolina State 102-84; 10th-ranked Notre Dame routed DePaul 89-68 and No. 20 Virginia Tech crushed William and Mary 105-79.

Mitch Kupchak scored 26 points and Tom LaGarde added 19 to help North Carolina squeeze the life out of Wake Forest. Kupchak and LaGarde combined for five vital points in the overtime period as the Tar Heels outscored the Deacons 11-8.

The regulation game ended with the score tied at 77 as Wake Forest's Skip Brown missed what could have been the winning basket in the last two seconds. The victory gave North Carolina an ACC-leading 6-1 record and a 14-2 record overall.

THE WORLD HAS CHANGED. SO HAS MAZDA.

There's something about the man

The local high school football team may not be able to immediately become a contender, competing as it does in perhaps the roughest district in the state, but I think I can assure the supporters of the school on one point: Under new coach Don Robbins, the Steers won't take the field thinking they will lose.

Robbins is an intense, hard-working individual who has said in the past: "We're not going to outsmart many of the teams we play. If we win, we're going to have to outwork them."

Out of football for two years, Don is returning to the game because it is the world he knows and loves best. He's a dedicated worker, one who believes the things a young man learns in the game stay with him the rest of his life.

Robbins probably knows as many individuals in the sport as any man. His genius at getting the most out of the material with which he works surfaced early here. In his four years at the helm, Big Spring never had a losing season, starting with a 5-4-1 mark he achieved in his inaugural year. His teams beat Wichita Falls High at a time the Coyotes were recognized as statewide powers. The only two times Big Spring ever beat Odessa Permian, Don was calling the shots from the sidelines. He came within a whisker of winning the District 5-AAAA (then 2-AAAA) championship on at least one occasion.

A player who goes through the Robbins' regiment invariably is ready for college football, with the result that college scouts are constantly beating a path to Don's door.

The fans offered the team tremendous support during his stay here, and likely will again. There's something about the man that lures the patrons through the turnstiles. They know they're going to get their money's worth.

Robbins' new association with the school bids fair to be an electric one, both for the team and the fans.

Air terminal business up

The Midland Regional Air Terminal handles a lot more traffic than the average person probably thinks.

The total number of persons enplaned there in 1975 was 232,256, which averaged out to 636 a day. These figures compare with the 1974 total of 215,515 or a norm of 590 a day.

Midland, and for that reason the area, is serviced by two airlines, Continental and Texas International. Continental, by far, was the busier carrier, boarding 207,357 passengers in 1975, compared to 24,899 for Texas International.

Total aircraft operations from Midland Air Terminal were 131,732, compared to the 1974 total of 119,816.

The boarding at Midland compared to Lubbock's boarding aggregate of 234,074 and Amarillo's sum of 212,476.

The spiral in air traffic will continue upward, especially in Midland, since the area is not serviced by Amtrak. The industry contributes heavily to Midland's economy and, for that reason, all of West Texas.

Improvising

Around the rim

Marj Carpenter

When I went over to Colorado City to walk through the new high school last week with Supt. Lloyd McKee, I had to smile remembering the many schools I have toured.

CEE CITY has a pretty one and as we went through the new fine arts building, the band director came dragging out one of those very old, slanted, seasoned and worn music racks that all band directors own at one time or another.

"Where is that going?" the superintendent said in rather ominous tones. "To the trash," the director quickly replied. "Good," said superintendent.

Lots of schools improvise when there is no other way. I remember in the lean years in Pecos, when the north winds used to blow, that caliche dust from the north playground of Pecos Elementary killing off the little dab of green grass out front hat they had managed to preserve.

They built a temporary low wooden fence at the edge of the school ground out of old boards. "It looks terrible," said one board member. So the principal asked all children who had honeysuckle at home to bring a sprig or a root of the vine.

The children came bearing honeysuckle roots in their grubby little hands. I say that because my child brought one and his hands were grubby at the time. Recently I passed by this school and smiled when I saw the beautiful honeysuckle hedge with all ugly boards properly hidden.

Not two blocks away from there is another school that holds fond memories for me.

My No. 1 child was in a special kindergarten program at the Catholic Sisters' School. As I was walking out the door after the program, I tripped on a loose board and did this horrible zig-zag nearfall all the way down the front steps finally landing in the arms of a very solid gentleman.

It was bad enough that it happened, but J. B. Kirklin, who now lives in Austin, was taking pictures of his daughter coming out the door and instead they photographed Marj's comic act. They used to show it at his house for laughs during home movies.

OVER IN ANDREWS in the spring of 1967, their expensive high school began to get cracks in the beams. They had spare buildings and moved the entire student body out to the old two story junior high while workmen strapped the beams.

The students got a big kick out of the move and being in the old building. One day in the Spanish class of a teacher named Ed Nichols, a student kept looking out the window.

"Quit gaping out the window, son," Nichols stated emphatically. "But," said the student. "No buts," said Nichols.

In a moment, a senior youth named Danny Cowan, now a computer expert in Houston, climbed through the window, said "Excuse me" and walked through the classroom. He had worked 30 minutes coming up a sheer wall just to get to do that.

But then in Pecos, back in 1964, a senior youth named Ken McAnally, now baseball coach at Monahans High School, glued shut the chemistry department windows because the teacher used to lean out the window and the students could never hear what he was saying.

BOTH THE classes of 1968 and 1974 barred all of the outside doors at Andrews High School on the last day of school shutting everybody inside, because the school doesn't have a single window. It does have a patio that students can climb out of and remove the bars. Actually, they're simply stuck pieces of wood through the door handles.

As long as schools are built for students, there will be incidents, and as long as they are not destructive incidents, I'll probably be among those laughing.

Vandalism now is another thing entirely and the fact that the vandals who damaged the local high school last fall were apprehended by city police is a wonderful thing. Jokes are funny, but destruction is sick. Vive la difference.

Upstaging Reagan

William F. Buckley, Jr.

Parts of the President's speech on the State of the Union were clearly drafted at once to harmonize with Ronald Reagan's speeches in New Hampshire and, by playing a soft reassuring cello, to make Reagan's violin sound screecher and screecher by contrast. Yes, Ford is for a reduction in taxes, like Reagan. Yes, he is in favor of increased state and local responsibility. But it would hardly do — would it, mothers and fathers of America ? — to attempt anything that would be disruptive, or to mislead anyone into thinking that social programs come free if they aren't paid for by Congress.

IT WAS A deft maneuver, and Ronald Reagan was more or less expecting it, and knows how to cope with it. Here is the problem he faces:

Most states receive money from Washington, D.C. which is, of course, money that originated in the states that are now, suddenly, the beneficiaries of that money. In 1971, for instance, only 9 per cent of the money "redistributed" through Washington ended in states different from those whence that money came.

True and radical reforms would separate the have-states from the have-not states, and once every year or two the richer states would deliberate over the extent of the contributions they are willing to make to the poorer states of the union.

But pending reform at that level, it is necessary to cope with the widespread suspicion that unless you have collective taxation, so to spteak, you stand to lose your sources of revenue. Residents of Connecticut — to give an example — are under the impression, in some cases correct, that many of the taxes paid by corporations whose headquarters are in New York but whose operations are in Connecticut, could go exclusively to New York. They have nightmares about the little office in the Empire State Building, staffed with six executives and ten secretaries, supervising the work of six factories spread along the southern littoral of Connecticut from Stamford to New London, producing an annual profit of 30 million dollars being taxed now, as matters stand, substantially by the federal government. What if the feds laid off? Wouldn't the state of New York step in, and come up with a corporation tax that would take into Albany 15 million dollars a year actually created in Connecticut?

THERE ARE long-term and short-term reforms. The long-term reform would eliminate that kind of tax opportunism, even as it is substantially eliminated by state income taxes levied on the basis of where you actually spend most of your time. But in the meantime, the public is suspicious, and Ronald Reagan should realize this; and, accordingly, adjust not his principles, but his techniques so as to say: let the federal government continue as the principal tax collector. But let the federal government reduce its role to that exactly. Let the federal government, having collected the taxes, remit them immediately to the states on a per capita basis, allowing the states to decide the social uses to which these taxes will be put.

This way local government is reinvigorated, cross-state hanky-panky eliminated; and economic sobriety encouraged as the individual Congressmen and Senators who vote the taxes realize that they are voting for money that was their constituents' to begin with. And the constituents learn gradually the economic facts of life, most relevantly that there isn't very much to be gained from the round trip to which we now subject the welfare dollar.

What Governor Reagan will do, in turn, to curb the excesses of some of Mr. Ford's partisans one cannot predict at this moment. But it will not be a mystery for very long.

State of the Union ...two viewpoints

Clouded victory

Rowland Evans

WASHINGTON — Jimmy Carter's sweeping triumph in the Iowa Democratic precinct caucuses, more conclusive and therefore more influential than expected, is clouded by what made it possible: the abortion question.

POLITICAL newcomers flooding caucuses across Iowa Monday night to back the former governor of Georgia for President include heavy numbers of single-minded "pro-life" (anti-abortion) partisans convinced Carter was on their side. But at the moment of Carter's triumph, some of his pro-life backers were complaining they had received no commitment in return. Learning that Carter has publicly opposed an anti-abortion constitutional amendment while privately giving the opposite impression in Iowa, one Catholic priest told us the morning after the caucuses: "I think I've been sandbagged."

That suggests Carter's Iowa tour de force, capturing anti-abortion conservatives while not losing pro-abortion liberals, cannot be repeated elsewhere — for example, in the first primary state of New Hampshire, with its substantial Catholic anti-abortion vote. Long before the Feb. 24 balloting there, Carter will have to do what he avoided in Iowa: take an unequivocal position on abortion.

This points up an obstacle to Jimmy Carter's impossible dream of 1976 never encountered by George McGovern's Cinderella candidacy of 1972.

Actually, Carter is potentially stronger in early delegate contests than was McGovern. Carter may run first in Mississippi (Jan. 24) and Oklahoma (Feb. 7) precinct caucuses. Private polls show him near the top in New Hampshire. A strong showing against Gov. George Wallace in Florida March 9 could produce irresistible momentum.

BUT WHEREAS McGovern's unexpected early victories energized a ready-made anti-Vietnam constituency, Carter has no such natural base. Rather, his triumphs could divide his support by forcing him to make clear where he stands, not only on abortion but in the general political spectrum.

That poses this question: is Carter's remarkable Iowa coalition — conservative farmers and small town merchants, fundamentalist Protestants, the United Auto Workers, the Polk County (Des Moines) courthouse crowd, some old McGovernites — held together not only by the candidate's superb campaign style but also because its elements really do not know what he stands for? That may be particularly true of his invaluable pro-life allies.

The anti-abortion movement made the difference between first and second place for Carter in Iowa. The only Catholic running for President, Sargent Shriver, was expected to win a rock-bottom 10 per cent; opposing any anti-abortion amendment, he fell short of 4 per cent — a humiliating performance carrying grave national repercussions — with the balance apparently going to Carter.

THE PRO-LIFE network passed the word that Carter would support anti-abortion legislation. As reported earlier, we heard Carter tell anti-abortion leaders that "under circumstances, I would support" a constitutional amendment against abortion. Removing all doubt, the word to back Carter was sounded from Catholic church pulpits across the state last Sunday morning, the day before the caucuses.

A typical result was one Des Moines precinct where around 30 voters usually turn up for a caucus. On Monday night, an astounding 100 — one-fourth of the normal Democratic primary vote — attended to elect Carter delegates to the county caucus. "I think their hearts were with (Ronald) Reagan," one Democratic leader told us, "but they were for Carter last night."

The tide drastically reduced the first place margin for Sen. Birch Bayh in Sioux City, his strongest area, thereby contributing to a so-so statewide showing for second place well behind Carter that did Bayh no good nationally.

DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL committeeman Don O'Brien, managing the Shriver campaign, desperately tried to convince anti-abortion forces they were being had — and finally succeeded with Monsignor Frank Brady of Sioux City. Given documentary evidence of Carter's public opposition to constitutional amendments, Father Brady telephoned Carter campaign headquarters in Atlanta.

Bad year for savers?

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — An economy in disequilibrium, as that of 1975 certainly was, leads to some results and assumptions that require a second look. For example:

—Many people have the notion that 1975 was a very bad year for savers.

In some ways it was, of course, because people were without jobs and others were hard pressed to make ends meet because of inflation. Moreover, inflation erodes the value of savings.

The savings rate, however, actually rose, and quite sharply. Whereas a range of 6 per cent to 6.5 per cent is considered average, the rate in 1975 ranged from just under 8 per cent to more than 10 per cent.

The savings rate is generally guided by the degree of consumer confidence, and last year that confidence was very low. As confidence is revived, the savings rate will tend to drop, perhaps very slowly.

A very important factor in the degree of confidence will be the unemployment rate, which remains high and is expected to fall only slowly, even by federal government officials.

The jobless rate is viewed by many workers as a barometer of their own job security. When the rate is high, they postpone purchases and put their money in the bank instead.

—Last year was a very poor year for new home construction. You might therefore believe it was a very poor year for the savings and loan associations that lend money for home purchases.

You are wrong if you believe that. Home lenders had a pretty good year. In fact, the U.S. League of Savings Associations reported its members closed $54.8 billion of loans, the highest on record.

Three factors help explain what at first glance appears to be a mystery: Inflation, which pushed up prices; a healthy business in existing homes; and the availability of money to lend.

Whereas in 1974 the average price of an existing single-family house averaged $32,040, in 1975 it came to $35,180. While not always the case, higher prices generally require bigger loans.

While new home construction was off badly in 1975, the demand for existing homes rose. In 1974, the association members made mortgage loans on only 654,000 existing homes, but last year the total leaped to 1,220,000.

—Total cash sales of U.S. Savings Bonds hit a record high of more than $7 billion in 1975, the Department of the Treasury announced. Well, that record, like some others, should have an asterisk beside it.

The 1975 figure was 2.6 per cent above that of the 1974. But hold on — we used different measurements in each year. The dollar used to measure the 1975 "record" was worth a lot less than the 1974 dollar.

Depending on how you calculate it, the Consumer Price Index rose either 9.1 per cent or 7 per cent in 1975, which is a lot higher than the 2.6 per cent increase in the dollar value of bonds sold.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: We have several good Christian primary and secondary schools in our community. How do you feel about Christian education versus public education? W.C.

DEAR W. C.: Our children have attended both kinds of schools, and each has much to commend it. Many Christian primary and secondary schools have very high academic standards and seek as well to give spiritual insight into all areas of life. On the other hand, many public schools continue to offer quality education. I must admit, however, that I am deeply disturbed over the increasingly open secularism in some public schools. To raise a generation of young people without moral and spiritual direction and discipline is to invite social chaos in the next generation.

You will want to pray for God's guidance if you are considering what is right for your children. You will also want to investigate your schools closely.

Most of all, don't leave the education of your children to the schools alone. Ultimately, the best school for Christian living should be the example and teaching you give your children in your home.

Medical slowdown

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

By RON ROACH
(Substituting for Dr. G. C. Thosteson)

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The proposal of a "state run, doctor-controlled fund" for malpractice insurance and the decision of most doctors to renew coverage before a midnight deadline offer hopes of an end to a month-old medical slowdown.

But as the prospects for resolution of the problem in Southern California improved, about 600 San Francisco area physicians voted to begin a slowdown of their own Saturday if the malpractice insurance crisis hasn't been settled by then. That's when their coverage expires.

Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. said Wednesday the proposed voluntary insurance would cost doctors an average of $4,000 for the first year. He refused to detail the program, but said the legislation would be introduced Friday.

Brown's aides have been holding lengthy negotiations since Jan. 1, when Southern California doctors, protesting premium increases up to 327 per cent, started a work slowdown. Under the increased rates, some doctors must pay as high as $36,000 for malpractice coverage.

By noon Wednesday, about half of Los Angeles County's 10,000 doctors had paid new, more costly premiums. The report was from Johnson and Higgins, an insurance broker for the area's physicians.

Later figures on the final 12 hours before the midnight deadline were not immediately available. Travelers Insurance Co. increased rates some time ago, but allowed doctors until Wednesday midnight to pay premiums.

A&M researchers study currents

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — A texas A&M University researcher is using satellites and buoys to force the world's oceans to yield the secrets of their currents.

The surface currents are tracked by free floating buoys and satellites in a project headed by oceangrapher Dr. A. D. Kirwan and sponsored by the Office of Naval Research and the National Science Foundation.

Signals transmitted from the buoys are picked up by a sophisticated radio receiver orbiting the earth on Nimbus 6, a satellite launched in June 1975.

By reading the signals, Nimbus 6 can pinpoint locations of the buoys and detect their movement.

The system began practical operation in last July with deployment in the Gulf Stream of four free-floating buoys equipped with satellite transmitters.

The buoys, each with a transmitter and drogue, are known as drifters. Of the four launched, one failed, two were recovered for engineering evaluation and one was till transmitting weakly last December.

While making the tests, Kirwan found the Gulf Stream flows at speeds of up to five knots off the coast of the Carolinas, but that its typical rate is two or three knots along most of the Eastern Seaboard.

The drifters followed several meanders of the Gulf Stream in the mid-Atlantic region. The meanders were roughly 200 kilometers long and had current speeds as high as two knots.

The information is similar to that collected from satellite photographs of the Gulf Stream, but the new system takes the information gathering process a step further. Whereas atmospheric conditions such as clouds could adversely affect satellite photography, the radio equipped buoys are not bothered by such conditions.

Dr. Kirwan is now studying movement of surface currents in the North Pacific from information transmitted by 11 drifters.

The currents detected by the buoys show a significant northward flow, where earlier charts based on ship drift indicate a southward flow in the area being studied.

Kirwan said the use of the floating transmitter-receiver system has "filled a void in current measurements in oceanography that was not possible until the space age."

Gramm wants Bentsen's funds separated

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Phil Gramm formally asked the Federal Election Commission today to take three steps designed to keep Sen. Lloyd Bentsen's federal matching money for his presidential campaign out of his Texas race for reelection as senator.

Gramm is running against Bentsen for U.S. senator in the Democratic primary.

Gramm told the federal agency that Bentsen is using matching funds illegally to benefit his senatorial campaign.

He asked the commission to issue a ruling that would:

—Prohibit any presidential candidate from using his federal matching funds "to benefit his home state campaign for another office."

—Require each presidential candidate to show he has spread his matching funds evenly among all states "to insure that a disproportionately large per cent is not used in one state."

—Force candidates to label as such any political advertising paid for with federal matching funds.

The federal money comes from persons who have checked a box on their income tax returns indicating they wish a dollar of their tax payment to be used for financing presidential campaigns.

Bentsen is running both for the senate and for the Democratic presidential nomination.

"Whether Sen. Bentsen uses his federal matching funds specifically for his senatorial campaign is immaterial. As the commission pointed out in its Advisory Opinion 1975-11, the mere expenditure of presidential campaign funds obviously gives Sen. Bentsen 'a significant publicity advantage over his opposition,'" Gramm said.

In that opinion, the commission said Bentsen can spend no more than $641,000 in Texas on both his senatorial and presidential campaigns. The figure is what he could have spent had he been running only for one office or the other.

Gramm said he had thought about challenging the state law that allows Bentsen to run for both offices at the same time. But, he said, he would have been required by any court to exhaust his "administrative remedies" through the election commission first. The campaign probably would be over before he could get a federal court decision, he said.

Steel prices will rise

HOUSTON (AP) — The president of Armco Steel Corp. says American industry will be able to buy all the steel it needs in 1976 but prices can be expected to edge up during the year.

Harry Holiday said recovery from the worst recession for the steel industry in 40 years will be slow.

"Even though we are seeing slow and gradual improvement we still have a long way to go," Holiday said.

Holiday told the Steel Group of the National Association of Purchasing Managers Wednesday that costs of raw materials and energy continued their upward spiral last year.

The group that handles about 10 per cent of domestic steel purchases meets four times a year and was meeting for the first time in Houston.

"We think steel prices will go up another five or six per cent in late 1976 when the market strengthens enough to make an increase possible," Holiday said.

Odessa murder suspect jailed

ODESSA — A second suspect in the murder of two transients, which occurred Jan. 17 near here, has been arrested in California.

He is Billy Alton Terry, 23, formerly of Odessa, who was taken into custody Tuesday in Ventura, Cal., on a fugitive warrant issued in Ector County Sheriff Elwood Hill's office.

Audie Murphy Shipman, 22, is in the Ector County jail in lieu of $100,000 bond in connection with the slaying of John Michael Snyder, 25. Terry is charged with the murder of Jimmy Lou Brumblough, 25.

The bodies of Snyder and Brumblough were found on an oil lease south of Odessa.

Ector County officials have indicated they are still seeking a woman in connection with the shootings.

Hunts warned not to cross

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — A Houston electronics expert says he was warned by a lawyer for two sons of the late oil billionaire H.L. Hunt "not to doublecross the Hunts" because they would "take care" of him if he did.

Patrick McCann also testified at a pretrial hearing here for the Hunts and other defendants charged with obstruction of justice that he was offered $1,200 a month if he kept silent about the Hunts' involvement in an alleged wiretapping scheme.

McCann said he was never physically threatened by lawyer Charles Tessmer of Dallas, one of those charged with obstruction, but that Tessmer told him "not to doublecross the Hunts — they'll take care of you."

He said he didn't take Tessmer seriously because he had been drinking heavily and may not have meant what he said.

Nelson Bunker Hunt and W. Herbert Hunt were acquitted last year of illegal wiretapping charges but they now face the conspiracy to obstruct justice charges.

Shakespeare Theater may have to close

STRATFORD, Conn. (AP) — The American Shakespeare Theatre needs $300,000 by April 1 to guard itself against the tooth of time and the razure of oblivion.

Not that the 22-year-old theater, one of the nation's major producers of Shakepearean drama, arrived at this winter of discontent without foreboding. For the past two summer seasons, theater officials have harbored fears of closing.

The theater already has canceled a preseason student program and must close entirely April 1 if it cannot raise $300,000 to get a matching grant.

Board chairman Harold Shaw said Wednesday the need to cancel the program for an expected 70,000 students was a "tragic decision."

Despite a healthy 73 per cent average attendance last season, fund raising for the 1,534-seat theater fell short of hopes, AST president Konrad Matthaei said.

As a result, it was unable to raise about $280,000 to match last year's Ford Foundation grant, a requirement of Ford's five-year grant program, he said.

The needed amount doesn't seem so deep as a well, nor so wide as a church door, but 'tis enough, 'twill serve.

"We just haven't had the support we need," Shaw said, "particularly from Connecticut's affluent business sector and from substantial contributors.

"The American Shakespeare Theatre is feeling the pinch of our inflationary climate. In the 1970's in America, arts institutions must have a very broad constituency to survive. They can no longer depend on a few major funding sources to pay for their performances."

The foundation's current $1-million grant program helped make the 1975 season a reality. Facing a $470,000 deficit, AST already has reduced the size of its staff and reduced its $1.7-million budget to $1.5 million.

Now the theater is listening for the inaudible and noiseless foot of Time.

Big heart helps 'Boyd' chase away 'bad breaks'

By STARBUCK WOOLF

In his brief seven years, "Boyd", a dog owned by Dickie Denton of Big Spring, has had more than his share of travesty and travail, even for a dog.

Denton, who runs a small dairy farm out on the old Oil Mill road, says that "Boyd", a Heinz 57 type, came to the farm about seven years ago as a small pup. Since that time Denton has taken the dog to the vet more times than he likes to remember.

"Boyd", one of 15 dogs on the premises, has been in a number of dog fights. His scarred face and ears attest to that. The dog also had one of his front legs caught in a fox trap a few years ago. "Boyd" also "got into it" with a porcupine and had to have the quills removed by the vet.

But a year ago this February "Boyd" experienced an ordeal which overshadows all his past episodes. The bottom portion of his back legs became infected and fell off.

"He just came home one day after being gone two or three, and his two back legs were puffy and swollen," Denton remembers. "Boyd" was taken to the vet again. The doctor there failed to talk Denton into putting the dog to sleep (Denton worships the dog and vice versa), and "Boyd" was given antibiotics and sent home.

"About three weeks later, the bottom part of the legs just fell off," Denton recounts.

The family still doesn't know exactly how "Boyd" initially injured his legs. Denton's mother theorizes some kids put rubber bands on the dog's legs and caused the muscle and bone damage. Denton assumes that the dog was run over.

However it happened, "Boyd" has lost the use of his rear legs. He walks exclusively now on his front legs, resting occasionally on the back stubs.

About the only major change in "Boyd's" lifestyle brought about by the injury is that he no longer chases rabbits. He still follows his master everywhere he goes. "Boyd" walks up and down the sides of a 12 foot ditch daily with very little trouble at all, and plays with the other dogs as roughly as if he wasn't hurt at all.

"Boyd" is not a pathetic sight. It is a shame that he is inconvenienced as he is, but his owner would rather have him that way than not at all.

'BOYD' HAS AN AMBULATORY PROBLEM
But he gets there, just the same

Abducted Euless woman released

EULESS, Tex. (AP) — A 58-year-old woman abducted Monday night during a service station robbery here was released unharmed early Tuesday near Frisco.

Police Chief H. M. Smith told a reporter Tuesday that Mrs. Mary Lack, an attendant at the station, was freed shortly after midnight.

Convicted killer gets ten

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Tommy Ray Kneeland, 26, has been given a 10-year prison term for the abduction of an 18-year-old Arlington girl in 1974.

Kneeland drew that sentence after pleading guilty in the court of Criminal District Judge Charles Lindsey this week.

He is already serving two life sentences which were assessed him in connection with the killings of two Oklahoma teenagers here.

The youngsters, Miss Mary Jane Handy and Robert Gholson, were found stabbed to death.

Y membership drives are progressing well

YMCA director Curt Mullins announced today that the YMCA sustaining membership and participating membership campaigns are progressing well, following a regular report meeting held Wednesday.

The sustaining membership drive, headed by Mrs. Odell Womack, reached 65 per cent of its goal, collecting $7,145 of the $11,000 goal. Twenty-two of the 30 workers were reporting at the meeting.

In the participating membership campaign, it was reported that 27 per cent of the $22,500 goal, or $6,007 has been collected so far.

Of the four divisions working on that phase of the campaign, the Eighth Pennsylvania Regiment was in the lead with slightly over 10 per cent of the goal. Ben Bancroft leads that group.

Mullins also reported that five workers were named quarterbusters for collecting more than $275. They were Doug Beams, Jim Thurman, Mrs. Paul Shaffer, Tito Arencibia (co-chairman) and Frank Hardesty (campaign chairman).

Baby food maker scaring mothers?

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — One of the nation's largest makers of baby foods is trying to scare mothers away from using homemade foods for their infants, the city's consumer affairs department charges.

Roberta Wielosznyski, the city agency's director, said Wednesday she has subpoeaned executives of the Baker Beech-Nut Co. to a Feb. 4 hearing to justify distribution of 760,000 flyers warning of the potential dangers of homemade baby food.

Beech-Nut Vice President William Mallison said, "While it may appear to be self-serving, our intent was to inform mothers to avoid particular items. We felt we were performing a public service."

A Beech-Nut lawyer added that the city has no jurisdiction over the firm, because "Beech-Nut is not engaged in doing business in Syracuse."

Mrs. Wielosznyski replied, "If the flyer could be supported, why not do so? Why suggest to Syracuse mothers who've been buying Beech-Nut products that the company doesn't do business in Syracuse? I'm sure that must come as some surprise to people who have trusted and bought Beech-Nut products in Syracuse stores."

The flyer warned mothers of the danger of exposing their babies to a disease called methemoglobinemia by feeding them home-cooked baby foods. A survey has shown "exactly one such case" in the United States, Mrs. Wielosznyski said.

The consumer affairs official said the company based its flyer on a syndicated column by Harvard nutritionist Dr. Jean Mayer. But she said Mayer told the consumer affairs unit that he had never been consulted by Beech-Nut.

"I too deplore the fact that an article of mine was misused by a commercial baby food company," the doctor was quoted as saying in a letter to the consumer affairs unit.

Mayer had said the rare instances of the disease have been traced to contaminated water and not to foods.

The flyer stated, "With too much methemoglobin, baby's skin turns blue and asphyxiation could result."

Mayer said, "Methemoglobin comes from home prepared baby food but it is very rare. It is easily avoided, all that is needed for it not to happen is to give a child a mixed diet. People certainly can make baby food at home if they are careful."

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration said Syracuse officials had written them about the flyers. An FDA spokesman said the letter was being studied.

Trichinosis threatens Vietnamese

ATLANTA (AP) — The Center for Disease Control mailed nearly 30,000 postcards this week warning Vietnamese refugees that eating a traditional holiday meal could make them dangerously ill.

Tet, the Vietnamese New Year, falls on Saturday. It is traditionally celebrated with a dish called Nem which contains raw pork.

Raw pork, the CDC cautioned, can cause trichinosis — a parasitic disease that is sometimes, though not usually, fatal.

"In this country most of us are conditioned to cook pork until it's at least pink on the inside," said CDC spokesman Don Berreth.

"However, in Vietnam, apparently there is little if any trichinosis in the pigs, so they may not be aware of the danger."

The CDC receives reports of about 100 cases of trichinosis a year, one or two of them fatal, Berreth said.

"SEES" ARIZONA GOVERNOR — Terri Wright, a senior at Sunnyslope High School in Phoenix, "sees" Arizona Gov. Raul Castro during a visit to his office. Miss Wright, who has been blind since she was 18 months old, is Arizona vice president for the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America.

Man charged with capital murder in schoolboy death

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — A 21-year-old man who, police said, often played with school children, was in jail today charged with capital murder in the slaying of a six-year-old Woodlawn Elementary School pupil.

The child, Randy Brown, was found dead Tuesday morning under a bed in the home of Justin Fox whom police arrested later and charged with the murder. He was held without bail.

The medical examiner said the youngster had been sexually abused.

Randy was buried Wednesday. His body was accompanied to the cemetery by his schoolmates and friends.

Brown disappeared Monday afternoon while walking home from school.

Earlier Wednesday parents of elementary school children in this Gulf Coast city took steps to protect their children from violent assaults.

A group of mothers representing the Parent-Teacher Association (PTA) and the Woodlawn Community Advisory Committee was mapping strategy to protect children.

The parents met with Woodlawn Principal Richard Battles and came up with a list of actions to protect children walking to and from school.

A "block mothers" program will be started. In it, a volunteer in each block near the school will display a sign in his window so children who are sick or in trouble will have someplace to go.

Battles also said the school would begin confirming the absence of any child from school by telephoning his home. And, he said an assembly will be called for pupils to remind them not to talk to or accept ridesfrom strangers.

Fox, who police said often played with children in the area, was arrested at a friend's home early Tuesday after his stepmother found the child's body under a bed in Fox's home late Monday.

School officials said Wednesday that more parents than usual appeared to be bringing their children to the school and picking them up in the afternoon.

Brown's teacher, Mrs. Marion McGinnis, was visibly shaken by news of the slaying. She said the other children in her class were upset, but that "They are all too young to know what death is." She described Brown as "a very fine little boy who was always obedient."

Battles said Brown seemed "bashful and shy, not one to go with strangers."

The child was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Brown of Corpus Christi.

School officials said a section of the library would be renamed the Randy Brown Memorial.

Congress recaptures control over spending

By OMAR BURLESON, M.C.
17th District, Texas

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The following is a general appraisal of what the second session of the 94th Congress, which kicked off this past week, may be like. As is always the case in an election year, there is less time and inclination for Congress to tackle tough issues. Sure, the rhetoric grows more shrill and lines draw tighter but compromise between a Republican President and a two-to-one Democratic Congress diminshes.

The new budget process intended to recapture congressional control over spending imposes tight deadlines. Coming soon is the real test of this law passed a year ago. It is now becoming fully implemented but is already being challenged. For a committee to exceed ceilings for its spending, a special waiver has to be made and last week the first was requested. The request comes from the subcommittee on unemployment compensation in the approximate amount of something over $6 billion. In addition, it raises the taxable base and increases the rates on employers. The unemployment compensation provision is some 40 years old in law but is becoming more like another welfare program than insurance.

By March 15, all major committees of the congress, of which there are 14, must submit to the Budget Committee cost estimates for all legislation they expect to report this year. Before October 1, the beginning of the new fiscal year, all appropriations must be through Congress and a full budget resolution setting a spending ceiling and revenue floor must be adopted. This second Session of the 94th Congress could well be characterized as the "year of the budget".

From all indications, congress will concentrate on issues to create jobs with "made work". The price tag on this proposal started in the last session is near $7 billion.

Some form of national health insurance has been on the front burner for several years. Chances of any such legislation in this Congress are slim, simply because it is recognized, even by the staunchest supporters, that there is simply no money for it without further running up huge deficits. It is possible that some form of catastrophic insurance could be provided but this, too, is hardly likely.

Congress is expected to pass a bill extending income tax cuts which expire June 30 of this year. It could provide a vehicle for some type of tax "reform" but indications are that it would be limited.

The congress will attempt to involve itself in the day-to-day operational affairs of foreign policy. An example is action to assist, indirectly, forces in Central Africa opposed to communist takeover in Angola and neighboring states.

Legislation creating a consumer protection agency passed both Houses of Congress last year. A veto is threatened and the bill has been withdrawn, presumably to give time to build up national support. The same is true of a measure to aid the floundering Northeast railroad system.

Both the house and the senate are investigating our intelligence agencies. They are not far from reporting some type of legislation which supposedly provides for a closer watch over the C.I.A. and other operations. Although the proposals are not yet in print, a guess is that there will be provided limitations on our security activities, both national and international. There is probability that the legislation would hamper national law enforcement agencies as well as the gathering of information relating to our security from foreign forces.

At the moment, there is on the surface a conciliatory atmosphere between the President and the Congress but there is no substantial reason to believe that such will be the case very long. Hopefully, there will be as little of this as possible. There are too many serious problems to be dealt with for this sort of situation to hold the center stage. There is always enough left over to be political about. The Congress and the Administration should get along with the business of the Nation first.

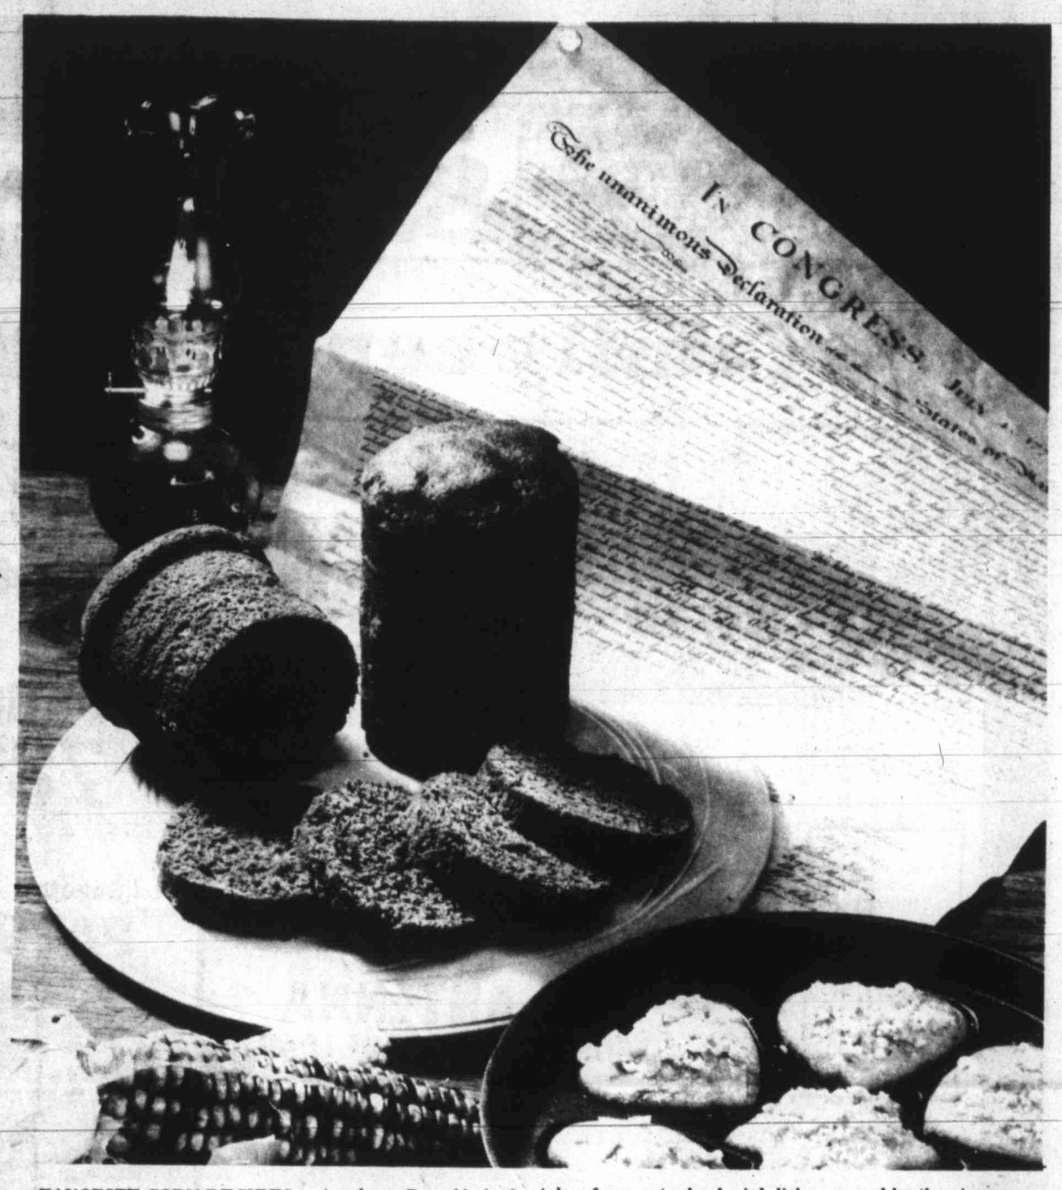
GRAINS AMERICA GREW UP ON

Dinner bells rang for corn meal and oats delicacies long before the Liberty Bell first rang out freedom! So in this grand bicentennial year we can really celebrate the fact that our nation literally grew up and got strong on grain foods.

Two hundred years after the Declaration of Independence, in 1976, we know grains best through cereals and breads; but it's fun and educational to delve back into recipes from the past, to feel connected to the earlier Americans who were such good cooks. Here is a harvest of recipes which gives you a taste of the long successful history of grains!



FAVORITE CORN RECIPES — Anadama Bread baked in cans and Colonial Corn Muffins with surprise ingredients of carrots and peanuts are delicious recipes taken from actual colonial dishes served by the pioneer women of America.

Corn

(Zeus mays)

Did you know that the first written record of corn in the New World was in Christopher Columbus' journal? Early settlers had to learn the intricacies of this peculiarly American crop from the Indians. Soon they were grinding it for themselves the native way — pulverizing kernels in mortars carved from hollow logs.

Quite appropriately, the Indian word for corn translates as "life." The grain's true value was soon recognized by the colonists, too, when it saved their lives those first bitter winters. In time, New England cooks became known for fancy-named creations begun from "Indian meal."

Colonial Corn Muffins

1 cup corn meal
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
1-3rd cup sugar
4 tsps. baking powder
1 tsp. salt
1 cup grated raw carrots
1-3rd cup chopped salted peanuts
1¼ cups milk
1 egg
¼ cup butter or margarine, melted
Light corn syrup
Chopped salted peanuts

Sift corn meal, flour, sugar, baking powder and salt into bowl. Stir in grated carrots and chopped peanuts. Add milk, egg and melted butter. Stir only until dry ingredients are moistened. Fill well-greased muffin cups 2-3rds full. Bake in preheated hot oven (425 F.) 15 to 20 minutes. Remove from oven. Brush with light corn syrup and sprinkle with chopped peanuts. Serve warm. Makes 18 muffins.

Favorite Anadama Bread

1 cake compressed or 1 pkg. dry yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
1 cup corn meal
½ cup dark molasses
½ cup raisins
¼ cup butter or margarine
2½ tsps. salt
1 tsp. soda
1 cup boiling water
1 egg
2½ cups sifted all-purpose flour

Soften yeast in lukewarm water. (Use warm water for dry yeast.) In large bowl combine corn meal, molasses, raisins, butter, salt and soda. Stir in boiling water; cool to lukewarm. Add softened yeast, egg and 1 cup flour; beat 2 minutes on medium speed of electric mixer or 300 vigorous strokes with a wooden spoon. Stir in remaining flour.

Spoon batter equally into three well-greased 20-oz. metal cans. Cover; let rise in warm place until nearly double in size, about 1 hour. Bake in preheated moderate oven (350 F.) 35 to 40 minutes. Remove from oven; let stand 30 minutes. Loosen and remove from cans; cool bread thoroughly. Makes 3 loaves.

Old Fashioned Scrapple

2 tbsp. bacon drippings
1-3rd cup chopped onion
1-3rd cup chopped celery
1½ cups cold water
1 cup corn meal
1 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
⅛ tsp. garlic powder
3 cups boiling water
One-half pound bacon, cooked and crumbled

In large saucepan over medium heat, saute chopped onion and celery in bacon drippings until onion is transparent but not brown, about 5 to 8 minutes. Meanwhile combine cold water, corn meal, salt, pepper and garlic power.

Add boiling water to vegetable mixture; bring to boil again. Slowly pour corn meal mixture into boiling water and vegetables, stirring constantly. Bring to boil; cover; continue cooking over low heat 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add cooked bacon; mix well. Pour into an 8½x4½x2⅝-inch loaf pan which has been rinsed in cold water. Cool scrapple lightly; cover and chill several hours or overnight.

Carefully run a metal spatula along edges of pan to loosen scrapple. Remove scrapple from pan and cut into 12 slices. Fry slices on lightly greased griddle or in fry pan until golden brown. Serve warm with syrup, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

Barley

(Hordeum vulgare)

Growing in the field, barley closely resembles wheat in appearance, but it has a full-bodied grain texture and appealing flavor all its own. Fortunately, the major drawback to the widespread enjoyment of barley — the long cooking time — is eliminated when quick-cooking barley is used.

Vegetable Barley Soup

6 cups water
One 10½-oz. can condensed onion soup
2 beef bouillon cubes
2 tsps. oregano
2 tsps. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
1 cup ½-inch thick sliced carrots
1 cup ½-inch thick sliced celery
1 cup shredded cabbage
One 16-oz. can stewed tomatoes
1 cup quick pearled barley
One 10-oz. pkg. frozen cut green beans

In 4-qt. Dutch oven or saucepan, combine water, condensed onion soup, beef bouillon cubes, oregano, salt and pepper. Bring to boil. Add carrots, celery, cabbage and stewed tomatoes. Simmer, covered, 30 minutes. Add barley and frozen green beans. Simmer, covered, 30 minutes. Serve immediately. Makes 6 servings. NOTE: You can substitute ¾ cup regular barley for quick barley. Add regular barley with carrots, celery, cabbage and stewed tomatoes. Proceed as directed above.

Oats

(Avena sativa)

By the early 1600's oats had arrived in America to stay. At first they were prepared in simple ways — the substantial breakfast porridge, the unadorned oatcakes. Gradually they were creatively incorporated into cookies, breads and cakes; and eventually the most economical trick of all was discovered — extending ground meats with them.

All-American Cookies

1 cup shortening, soft
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
½ cup granulated sugar
2 eggs
¼ cup milk
1 tsp. vanilla
1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. soda
½ tsp. salt
3 cups oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)

Variations:
1-3rd cup semi-sweet chocolate pieces
¼ cup chopped pecans
¼ cup flaked or shredded coconut

For cookies, beat together shortening and sugars until creamy. Add eggs, milk and vanilla; beat until well blended. Sift together flour, baking powder, soda and salt. And to creamed mixture; mix well. Stir in oats.

For variations, divide batter into 3 equal parts. To first part, add chocolate pieces. To the second, add pecans. To the final part, add coconut.

Drop batter by teaspoonfuls onto greased cookie sheets. Bake in preheated moderate oven (350 F.) 12 to 15 minutes or until lightly browned; cool. Makes about 7 dozen.

Old Glory Oatmeal Bread

2 cakes compressed or 2 pkg. dry yeast
½ cup lukewarm water
½ cup butter or margarine
1½ cups hot milk
1-3rd cup honey
2 tsps. salt
5 to 5½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 cup oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)

Soften yeast in lukewarm water. (Use warm water for dry yeast.) In large bowl combine butter, milk, honey and salt; cool to lukewarm. Add 2 cups flour, oats and softened yeast; beat vigorously with rotary beater until smooth, about 1 minute. Stir in enough additional flour to make a soft dough.

Turn out on lightly floured board or canvas; knead until smooth and satiny, about 10 minutes. Cover dough; let rest 20 minutes. Punch dough down; divide in half; shape to form 2 loaves. Place in 2 greased 8½x4½x2⅝-inch loaf pans. Brush tops lightly with melted shortening. Cover loosely with oiled waxed paper and plastic wrap. Refrigerate about 24 hours.

Remove loaves from refrigerator; uncover. Let stand at room temperature 10 minutes. (Prick any gas bubbles.) Bake in preheated hot oven (400 F.) about 35 minutes. Remove from pan and brush with melted butter margarine; cool. Makes 2 loaves.

Homesteaders' stew

Stew:
One 10¾-oz. can condensed cream of chicken soup
1 cup water
1 tsp. onion powder
¾ tsp. salt
½ tsp. celery seed
⅛ tsp. pepper
2 cups chopped cooked chicken
One 10-oz. pkg. lima beans
1 cup cooked carrots, drained and cut into 2½ inch pieces
1 cup cooked whole kernel corn
Biscuits:
2 cups pancake mix
2-3rds cup water
2 tbsps. vegetable oil

For stew, combine soup, water, onion powder, salt, ¼ teaspoon of the celery seed and pepper in saucepan. Bring to gentle boil, stirring occasionally. Add chicken, lima beans, carrots and corn; stir to combine. Return to gentle boil; reduce heat and simmer 5 minutes, stirring occasionaly.

For biscuits, place complete pancake mix in bowl. Add water and vegetable oil; stir lightly just until mix is moistened.

Pour stew into lightly greased 2½-qt. baking dish. Drop biscuits by tablespoonfuls onto hot stew to make 12 biscuits. Sprinkle with remaining ¼ teaspoon celery seed. Bake uncovered in preheated hot oven (425 F.) 15 to 18 minutes. Serve hot. Makes 6 servings.

'Proper place for him'

Sheriff moves judge to restroom

COOPER, Tex. (AP) — The sheriff of Delta County, who moved the county judge's furniture from his office to a courthouse restroom, says he plans to ask the Civil Liberties Union for help in trying to improve the county jail.

Sheriff Benny Fisher said Wednesday he moved the furniture to the men's restroom of the courthouse "because I just thought that was a proper place for him ... I wanted to get his attention. I wanted him to know that he does not own the courthouse, and that I am tired of his cutting off my orders for supplies for the county jail."

There has been a running feud in the Northeast Texas county between Fisher, 33, and county commissioners over funds the sheriff claims are needed "for jail facilities and proper law enforcement in Delta County."

County Judge George Bolger, who found his furniture in the men's room Wednesday when he showed up at the courthouse, said he had passed the matter to County Atty. Jack Neal of Sulphur Springs.

"I think the sheriff was unfair when he singled me out," Bolger said. He said when he came to the courthouse he found all his furniture in the men's room, even pictures.

"He took my picture and the picture of other commissioners and hung them up on the wall, neat as you please," Bolger added.

"It was just one of those things. He (Fisher) is unhappy with the operation of county commissioners' court."

Bolger said he spent the day in the commissioners' room except for occasional trips to the restroom to look at his files or get some documents he needed.

Fisher said he has been sheriff the past eight years and and has been trying to get jail facilities improved, but the commissioners refuse to give him the money to buy supplies for the jail.

"I have only one deputy," he said. "And the jail is in bad shape. I think that when a man violates the law he still retains some basic human rights. He should be treated as a human being."

He said the jail lacks a good plumbing system, enough beds and everyday supplies "to keep it clean."

Orange prices rise; good buys listed

COLLEGE STATION — Some produce prices are "weather-affected" this week as certain crops have suffered cold-weather damage during the past few weeks.

Orange prices are trending upward mostly because of crop damage in California, Mrs. Gwendolyne Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist, said.

"Produce reflecting good values, however, includes bananas, apples, grapes, tangerines and tangelos. Also, cabbage, carrots, rutabagas, turnips and hard-shell squash.

"Texas grapefruit is plentiful, very tasty — and moderately priced," she added.

At meat counters, fryer chicken prices are low, Mrs. Clyatt reported.

"Egg prices are attractive — with the large-size eggs offering the best value."

Other meat buys at economical price levels include smoked picnics and liver in the pork section — chuck cuts, ground beef, sirloin rib and T-bone steaks, round steak and liver in the beef section.

Lamb is available at moderate prices.

"At dairy counters, cottage cheese and cheese slices are items most frequently on special. Other good values are skim milk, sour cream and mellow cheddar cheese."

CONSUMER WATCHWORDS: Special prices are now appearing on canned cling peaches, fruit cocktail and pears in many Texas grocery stores.

GOODWILL GETS ODD GIFTS — Fred Sherman, director of Goodwill Industries in Dallas, looks over some of the strange items donated to the organization. Sherman brought some of the strange gifts to an awards luncheon so guests and board members could see what the organization has received. Some of the things were 10,000 Muhammed Ali-George Foreman pennants, 4,500 records of the same song, a 30-pound coat of dubious "fur" and 50 copies of Playboy magazine in Braille.

CALLING ALL HOMEMAKERS

Brought to you by Ted Hatfield

IN ANCIENT TIMES, carpets were everybody's bag in more ways than one. Even in the days of the ancient Greek and Roman Empires, carpets were used by everyone from the common soldier to his emperor. They were used for bags and garments, as floor coverings, as canopies and wall decorations and in many other ways.

The interesting thing is that carpets are playing those many roles again in today's interior decor. A basketball star's palatial mountain pad has one whole room that's all carpet, from floor to ceiling. The use of carpeting on wall areas and built-in furnishings is also on the uptrend.

One reason is the new technique for designs, multi-colors, woven-in stripes and patterns, liberating carpeting from a single function in the room.

Also, home interiors, like clothing styles, are becoming more personal, more individual, more colorful. All the bright new ideas in today's carpets let you express yourself in new ways ... even if it's carpet on the ceiling!

Looking for new ideas in carpets? Come in and visit our showroom. You'll be surprised how much is happening ... how many new directions in carpeting we have to show you.

Mrs. Tim Oden, the former Barbara Walker of Colorado City, was honored at a bridal shower given last Friday in the fellowship hall of the First Baptist Church.

Refreshments were served from a table covered with a white lace cloth over yellow with an arrangement of orange and yellow mums centering the table.

The honoree was presented with a yellow orchid corsage. The bride's mother, Mrs. Lance Walker; her grandmother, Mrs. Buddy Blair; and the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. E. A. Oden, were given yellow mum corsages.

Hostesses for the shower were Mrs. Curtis Clemmer, Mrs. J. D. Iglehart, Mrs. Rex McKenney, Mrs. Cleburn Rich, Mrs. Kay Morris, Mrs. J. K. Williamson, Mrs. C. E. Ranne, Mrs. Floyd Rice, Mrs. Earl Doss, Miss Mary Ann Lopez, Mrs. W. A. Bell, Mrs. Barb Miller, Mrs. Sidney Jones, Mrs. L. M. Dawson, Mrs. Clyde Chambers, Mrs. Ted Jackson, Mrs. R. L. Clemmer, Mrs. Alvin Byrd and Mrs. Altis Clemmer.

They presented Mrs. Oden with a set of Wear-ever cookware.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Cliff Wagnor of Silver, Mrs. Lois Blalock, Mrs. Bobby Blalock and David Blalock of Stanton.

Recent guests of the W. A. Bells and Mrs. A. K. McCarley were the Vance Armstrongs, Monahans; Mrs. J. E. Coles, Jane and Amy Coles, Iraan; Mrs. Bill Crockett, Miss Charlsa McCarley, Colorado City; the O. P. Watlingtons and the E. W. Watlingtons, Midland.

Mrs. Joel (Gayle) White of Colorado City is a patient in Scott and White Hospital, Temple. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Rollins of Westbrook, and her uncle, John Buchannan of Odessa, are staying in Temple while she is in the hospital.

Mrs. Ruth Buchannan, Mrs. Rollins' mother, stayed with Sharla and Steve Rollins in Westbrook.

Mrs. Doyce Edwards of Waco underwent surgery this week in Houston for a collapsed lung. Mr. and Mrs. Edwards are former residents of Westbrook.

Teenage farmhand told smoking is unfeminine

DEAR ABBY: I am 14. Almost 15. My parents won't let me smoke. My brother got to smoke when he was 15, but when I ask my parents if I can smoke, they say, "No, it's not feminine."

Abby, I milk cows, bale hay and even clean cow gutters, and you sure can't say THAT'S feminine.

All my girl friends get to smoke in front of their parents, so why don't they let me run my own life?

MYSELF

DEAR MYSELF: Because they don't want you to run it in a way that may be damaging to your health. I'm with them. The best advice I can give to nonsmokers is—DON'T START!

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were invited to a dinner party at the home of a very high-class, prominent society leader who has a reputation for entertaining beautifully.

My husband's widowed sister came to town unexpectedly, so I phoned my hostess and asked if we could bring our houseguest.

She asked, "Is your houseguest a male or female?"

I said, "She's my husband's sister."

And would you believe this so-called high-class society lady replied, "That's too bad. We already have three extra women. If you could bring a man, I'd be delighted, but we don't need any more women."

Have you ever heard of anything to top this?

SPEECHLESS

DEAR SPEECHLESS: No. And I thought I'd heard everything.

DEAR ABBY: I couldn't help but smile when I read your comment about people who run ads in the classified section to meet a partner. Agreed, they must be desperately lonely, and they do run the risk of meeting some creepy characters that way, but did you know that this practice is entirely accepted in Europe, specifically in Germany?

Believe me, I have run into creepy characters in the U.S.A. and Canada in distinguished public places where a lady would think she is safe from creeps. I also know that many Europeans have found decent companions by placing ads in newspapers or going through a marriage agency.

The adage "different countries, different customs" still holds true, so please don't condemn that custom altogether. For some, it works.

T.L.K.

DEAR T.L.K.: Many wrote to defend the practice of advertising in a newspaper for companionship, and even marriage. But those who wrote were invariably winners. I'd like to hear from some losers.

Buy scarfs in men's department

Menswear departments are excellent sources for quality scarves in classic designs. Often menswear scarves are also less expensive than comparable scarves in women's departments, Mrs. Becky Culp, area clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, points out.

Mrs. Smith speaks about American ballads

Mrs. James Smith gave a program on the American ballad during the Monday evening meeting of the Alpha Chi chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha. Members met in the home of Mrs. Alice Bentley.

Mrs. Smith is a teacher at Big Spring High School and Howard College.

She read "The Midnight Ride of Paul Revere" and followed the reading with an account of the historical events of the ride. She closed with a ballad entitled "The Lord and Columbus." Mrs. Smith suggested that some interesting historical books were the works of Kenneth Roberts.

Mrs. Tincy Perry presided during a business meeting. Members planned to serve residents of the Veterans Administration Hospital on Monday evening.

The next business meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Anna Walls, 2403 Carleton at 7:30 p.m., Feb. 9.

Faculty Ma'ams meet Tuesday

The Howard College Faculty Ma'ams met Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Wayne Bonner.

Mrs. Kenneth Sprinkle was cohostess. Mrs. Tony Ortiz, vice president, presided.

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Charles Hays, 809 Highland at 4 p.m., Feb. 25.

$33,523,080 in taxes, fees, receipts collected

During 1975, Zirah L. Bednar, county tax assessor-collector said $3,523,080 in taxes, fees and receipts were collected by her office for the county, state and college.

Motor vehicle sales taxes brought $930,003 in 1975 and $873,664 in 1974.

Registering 35,669 vehicles garnered $819,318 between April 1, 1975, and Dec. 31, 1975, she said. These statistics may be compared with 33,640 vehicles with Howard County tags issued between April 1, 1974, and April 1, 1975, bringing $804,360.

During 1975, there were 13,341 motor vehicle title applications filed through her office. You may compare this to 13,238 in 1974.

County property tax assessments totaled $1,009,410 for 1975 and $989,869 for 1974.

When 1974 property taxes became delinquent July 31, 1975, Mrs. Bednar said 97.2 per cent had been paid.

Delinquent tax collections for the county, college and state during 1975 totaled $29,784 and $63,953 during 1974.

	State	County	College	Total
Total Taxes Assessed For 1975	$122,193	$1,009,410	$736,515	$1,868,119
Total Collected For 1975 on Dec. 31, 1975	91,412	759,050	557,366	1,407,828
Total Taxes Assessed For 1974	153,154	989,869	565,338	1,708,362
Total Collected For 1974 on Dec. 31, 1974+	119,982	778,410	446,546	1,344,939

+Taxes do not become delinquent for a tax year until the following July 1. Zirah L. Bednar, county tax assessor-collector, said 97.2 per cent of 1974 assessed taxes were collected before July 1, 1975.

Ranchers ask for predator control action

McKINNEY, Tex. (AP) — Collin County ranchers have asked the commissioner's court to hire a trapper to rid the area of canine predators that have been attacking chickens, calves, sheep, goats and hogs.

The Northeast Texas ranchers say the night predators include wolves, coyotes and a vicious animal called the coyodog.

Some farmers and ranchers say the coyodogs, a crossbreed between a coyote and a wild dog, are doing most of the damage.

Elzie Moon, a rancher near the community of Anna, said Monday an estimated $30,000 in poultry and livestock have been lost within a five mile radius of his property during the past few years.

Moon said, "Wild dogs will run with a pack of coyotes and what you end up with is a king sized coyote--a vicious animal that is not as scared of humans as is a coyote. The crossbreed will kill just for the pleasure of killing."

Selby Kemp, another rancher, said "It's even impossible now to raise chickens. I have lost 35 chickens, three hogs and two peacocks recently."

Tom Robinson said he gave up sheep raising 18 months ago after losing 60 per cent of his ewes to predators.

Officials of the rodent and predatory control section of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Department said the agency would pay half of the $325 a month needed to hire a trapper.

During a recent public hearing on the matter, environmentalists protested the use of county tax money to pay a trapper. They said such a move could destroy the ecological balance between rodents and coyotes.

Youth killed in holddup try

DALLAS (AP) — Police said a drive-in food store manager shot a Dallas youth after a holdup Wednesday. He died at a hospital five hours later.

Officers identified the slain youth as Michael Daniels, 17.

They said Daniels and a companion, 19, took about $100 at pistol point and, as they turned to flee, the manager unlimbered a 12-gauge shotgun and fired once. The charge hit Daniels in the right side.

He dropped after running about 200 yards. Before he died the youth identified his companion to police, who arrested and held him without immediate charge.

Officers withheld the name of the storekeeper.

Woman given 15 years for killing girl

LIVINGSTON, Tex. (AP) — Mary Ann Shirley, 26, convicted in the fatal beating of her 2-year-old daughter, has been sentenced to 15 years in prison.

Mrs. Shirley, a widow from East Tempe, was assessed the penalty by a jury of seven women and five men Wednesday. The jury found her guilty Tuesday.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Jerry Winfree said Mrs. Shirley signed a statement one day after the Dec. 18, 1974, death of the child, Pamela, that she struck her daughter with an 18-inch-long steel pipe after having trouble toilet training the girl.

However, Mrs. Shirley, mother of three other children, testified during her trial that she could not remember anything that happened that day.

Widow seeks damages from patrolman

SHERMAN, Tex. (AP) — The widow of a Denton man who was shot by an off-duty highway patrolman Nov. 27 has filed suit for $402,800 in damages in U.S. District Court.

Delores Priscilla Perez, in the suit filed here, accused the patrolman, Michael T. Melton, of willfully depriving her husband, Joel Perez, 27, of his life.

She is seeking damages on behalf of herself and her two children, ages 5 and 7.

Melton, who was a neighbor of Perez, shot him after he was called from his home to break up a disturbance between Perez and a relative.

Athletes charged in drug bust

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Misdemeanor marijuana possession charges have been filed against four Texas A&M students, including three athletes who have completed their sports eligibility at the school.

County Atty. Roland Searcy Jr. said All-America defensive back Pat Thomas, halfback Skip Walker, former basketball center Cedric Joseph and Julie Willis were charged with possessing less than two ounces of marijuana.

All four are students at A&M but the players have finished their college athletic eligibility.

Conviction of possession of less than two ounces of marijuana is punishable by a fine not to exceed $1,000 and-or six months in the county jail.

Acting on a tip, police obtained warrants to search two units at an apartment complex following a Tuesday night basketball victory. In one unit, officers said, a party was under way with several members of the football and basketball squads in attendance.

In a nearby apartment, officers discovered 11 pounds of marijuana.

Dist. Atty. W.T. McDonald Jr. said Monday he will bring evidence before a grand jury soon for consideration of two possible felony indictments.

FREEDOM PERFORMANCE — Musician Bob Dylan performs in the Astrodome in Houston Sunday night in a benefit concert as part of a movement to free ex-boxer Rubin "Hurricane" Carter. Patrolman sentenced for robbery

DALLAS (AP) — Former state highway patrolman Tommy Lee Deal will be sentenced Feb. 20 for his part in four bank robberies in Northeast and Southeast Texas.

Deal waived his right to a jury trial in the court of U.S. District Judge Robert Porter and pleaded guilty Tuesday to the robbery of the Citizens State Bank in Royce City in which $16,188 was taken.

He also pleaded guilty to robbery of a Houston bank and two Clear Lake banks in which a total of $22,566 was taken.

Three of the robbery convictions carry a maximum 20-year prison sentence each and the Royce City conviction carries a 25-year sentence.

Deal's pleas ended a series of four conspiracy and robbery trials in which two other state troopers and a Dallas County sheriff's deputy were convicted.

All were arrested shortly after two men tried to rob the State National Bank of Caddo Mills.

Deal was not charged in the Caddo Mills case.

Rural town considers solar power

Power from the sun? Horsefeathers!

BRIDGEPORT, Tex. (AP) — This rural North Texas community is reaching for the sun—literally.

Power from the sun?

"Horsefeathers!" snaps Riley Irwin, a local locksmith. "It won't work. Not for this town, anyway."

"It's not a ripoff," counters Bridgeport City Manager Maury Brown, who is spearheading an effort to make this town of 5,500 a model for the nation.

Most residents are lined up behind Brown and the City Council.

"It's going to get us cheaper electricity, isn't it? If that's right, then I'm for it. It sounds like a workable idea," says Roy Bean after interrupting his street corner meditation.

Smiling across the counter at Mada's Dress Shop, Mary Helen Guinn says, "I think it's fantastic. Especially being the first to do it."

Such are the comments floating around Bridgeport as it moves helter-skelter toward acquisition of a solar energy plant.

Threatened with an electricity blackout because of a rate dispute with a power company, Bridgeport is negotiating to become the first community in the nation powered by solar energy.

"The project has tremendous humanitarian value," contends Brown, a retired Air Force veteran hired a year ago as city manager of the lake resort town.

"If we can make solar energy work, all people will benefit," he said. "We have done something to control the cost of living. For humans, it's got more potential than the atom bomb."

Although details of the proposed project are not fully known by anyone, including the principals—it ideally would involve private enterprise, partial government funding and contributions.

At a cost of perhaps $6 million, Solar King Inc. of Reno, Nev., would install a sun-powered system it reportedly has developed over the last few years.

Brown, other Bridgeport officials and several consultants from an Oklahoma engineering firm visited Solar King last week and returned, said Brown, "with great optimism."

Brown hopes the Energy Research and Developement Administration (ERDA) will provide a grant to make Bridgeport a "demonstration" city for the solar energy experiment.

"We've got the ideal environment for solar energy because from the solar standpoint we have a virtually pollution-free atmosphere, a high degree of vegetation, an economical water supply, the space and the distribution system," Brown said.

"It would be like the breakthrough to the moon. Once there, it was relatively easy to go back again several times."

Bridgeport began flirting with the solar concept after Texas Power & Light Co. threatened to cut off the town's power in 1978 because councilmen balked at a 10.76 per cent rate increase.

Brown, who said Bridgeport spends $500,000 annually for electricity, said townspeople overwhelmingly support the council action.

"The people are extremely appreciative of the council members who have had the fortitude to stand up to the power company and search for another way," he said.

"There is a sense of pride in being part of a community that's willing to step out on such a bold project."

A sampling of citizens uncovered little disagreement except from Riley Irwin, the locksmith who suggested the whole concept smacks of barnyard manure.

"Hell," the salty, slender, sixtyish Irwin declared, "We're 50 years away from something like this. They may do it someday, but it just won't work now.

"This city ain't got a bit of sense. This is too big for 'em," he said.

But sentiment rides with Brown and the council, at least at this point.

"We're just thrilled about this whole thing," said Ms. Guinn. "And we're proud they've stood up to the power company and done something about it."

E.L. Smith, vice president at Lone Star Gas Co., said the city has the water and the sunshine necessary for such an experiment and it's worth a try.

"I don't know that much about it," he said, "But it's something new and I'd like to see it tried...everybody I've talked to is really sold on it."

What if the solar experiment fails?

"I don't know," Smith said. "They say we've got three years whether we stay with Texas Power and Light or not. If it doesn't work, we've always got something to fall back on."

Midland to get 3 ambulances

Three more ambulances for the Permian Basin Emergency Medical Services System are scheduled to arrive at Air Terminal Office Building at 9 a.m. Friday.

These three modular type ambulances, each of which is valued at $17,848, are for the City of Midland.

Emergency medical technicians to operate the vehicles are being trained at Midland College. The City will enter the EMS System by July at the latest.

Smoking trial defendant acquitted

HOUSTON (AP) — Jack Lanerie, 61, the first person to be tried under the city's anti-smoking ordinance, has been acquitted.

Lanerie, an independent truck driver, was cleared in municipal court Tuesday. His $52.50 bond was returned.

Judge A. B. Green said, "The evidence presented to me does not support a conviction."

Green said the manager of the store where the alleged incident occurred did not testify.

The complaint was filed by Frank Stiver, 38, newly elected president of a Houston organization called Texans Against Public Smoking.

Persons convicted of violating the ordinance can be fined up to $200.

Oil drilling hits low mark

HOUSTON (AP) — Domestic oil and gas drilling operations have dropped to their lowest level since last August.

A weekly survey compiled by Hughes Tool Co. showed an average of 1,683 rotary drilling rigs were in use last week compared to 1,710 a week earlier and 1,601 a year earlier.

The 1,683 total is the lowest since a 1,663 average was recorded the week ending Aug. 25.

The report, released Tuesday by the International Association of Drilling Contractors, showed Texas had 680 active rotaries last week, down three from the previous week.

MEN HIDE THEIR FACES — Three men hide their faces at Heathrow Airport Wednesday. They were among a group of 43 men reported to be mercenary soldiers on their way to the war in Angola. The group flew to Brussels where, it is said, they were switching to a flight to Kinshasa, capital of Angola's neighbor, Zaire.

90 per cent increase

Big Spring sales tax totals $686,469

AUSTIN — Comptroller Bob Bullock released information Thursday showing how collections by Texas cities of the city sales tax — which has always been one per cent — have skyrocketed in recent years. Big Spring's total jumped to $686,469 during 1975. Their first year total was $360,602.79 in 1968.

Bullock released a list comparing each city's 1975 sales tax rebates with the rebates during the first full calendar year that city collected the sales tax.

Seven hundred and eighty cities showed increases including Big Spring with 90 per cent. Only 30 cities showed a decline in rebates.

"It shows what we've known all along," Bullock said, "that the city sales tax has become a cornerstone of the City Hall budget."

While the Comptroller conceded some of the increase is due to inflation, he said "Nobody could read this story of mushrooming retail sales and conclude Texas has anything other than a prosperous business community."

The importance of the city sales tax to city budgets led Bullock, shortly after entering office last year, to begin sending city sales tax dollars back to the cities on a monthly, rather than quarterly basis.

The Legislature authorized cities to assess a one per cent sales tax in 1967, and they were first able to collect it in the first quarter of 1968.

In other area towns, Colorado City increased 79 per cent from $52,551.54 to $94,282.86; Lamesa went up 58 per cent from $90,617.60 to $224,937.60; and Stanton increased 22 per cent from $16,036.73 to $19,515.58.

DEATH, SURGERY, AMPUTATION

Cancer tragedy strikes family three times

MIAMI (AP) — First, his 4-year-old son died of leukemia. Then, a second son underwent surgery for cancer, and a third son had a leg amputated to stop the spread of the disease. Now, Raymond Southerland is in a hospital with a brain tumor.

"We told them what could happen, the pros and the cons," Southerland said Tuesday. "It was a bad blow, but they handled themselves well. They tried to keep my spirits up.

"My children, after what they have been through, are very sturdy," said the 37-year-old Dade County policeman. "When we talk about cancer, we don't leave anything out."

His son, Stephen, 15, made national headlines in 1974 when he and Ted Kennedy Jr. became friends after both underwent leg amputations to stop the spread of bone cancer. Stephen and young Kennedy, the son of Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., still correspond.

Stephen's 4-year-old brother, Jeffrey, died of lymphatic leukemia, a form of cancer, in 1969. A second brother, Michael, now 10, underwent surgery in 1972 for a malignancy in the lining of his spinal nerve.

Doctors at the National Health Institute in Bethesda, Md., were to examine Southerland today in an attempt to learn if the tumor is malignant. The family already is the subject of a study by the National Cancer Institute.

"He had been suffering from blackouts for the past three years," said Stephen. "The doctors thought it might be his nerves because of having all three kids in the family coming down with cancer."

"I felt a dizziness," said Southerland, who works in a school-police liaison program and sometimes substitutes as an airborne traffic reporter for a Miami radio station. "But it was crazy, so weird that it wasn't something you'd complain about.

"I've been so worried about Stevie that I never had time to worry about it."

ILLNESS HITS FAMILY AGAIN — Raymond Southerland pushes his son Stephen in this file photo. A popular Miami police officer, Southerland saw one son die of cancer; Stephen lose his leg to the disease and now doctors have diagnosed a brain tumor in the policeman.

Plane theft attempt foiled by employe

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — An attempt to steal a private plane resulted in $150,000 damage and landed two young men in the clutches of the law today, authorities reported.

They said the pair tried to take off about 1 a.m. from Tradewinds Airport on the southeast edge of Amarillo and narrowly escaped serious injury as the aircraft veered off a taxiway and hit two parked planes.

Both were held without immediate charge, one at a hospital with a broken foot and the other in jail.

Officers related these details:

The two men approached Tradewinds employe Michael Ritter about 11 p.m. and offered him $4,000 to help them get away with a plane. Ritter told them to come back later. Meanwhile he telephoned his supervisor, who in turn notified sheriff's officers.

When the pair returned after a couple of hours, sheriff's deputies and metropolitan area police were waiting. The two quickly boarded a plane and started taxiing for takeoff. They veered to one side when a deputy pulled a car in front of the aircraft.

Another deputy drove alongside, fired several shots at the plane and tried to shoot out its tires. At that point it piled into the parked craft without ever getting into the air.

Officers said they had no idea what use was planned for a stolen plane.

Improved sales for cotton fiber papers?

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton fiber paper sales are expected to be up significantly in 1976, approaching 1974 levels of approximately 117,000 tons, reports Benjamin J. Sullivan, president, Cotton Fiber Paper Council Inc.

"We anticipate increased buying," says the trade association president, "particularly in business and personal letterhead paper, which compose 70 per cent of our total volume.

"Of the remaining 30 per cent — spread among technical, ledger, index and onionskin grades — technical grade papers used principally for original drawing or tracing, photographic and reproductive purposes should recover normal sales patterns."

'Vitamin D: New Hormone'

Dr. Alexander D. Kenny, Professor and chairman, Department of Pharmacology and Therapeutics, Texas Tech University School of Medicine, lectured at the V. A. Hospital today, at 11:00 a.m. on the topic of "Vitamin D: A New Hormone." Local medical personnel attended the lecture.

SPirit of independence

NEW YORK (AP) — Twelve of America's leading contemporary artists have interpreted the theme, "Spirit of Independence," in a lithograph or serigraph in editions of 125 signed and numbered original prints.

In the coming months, 109 U.S. museums will hold special exhibits featuring these 12 pictures. Each museum will have received a donation by Lorillard, a division of Loews Corp., of the 12 pictures for the museum's permanent collection.

In addition, a traveling exhibition, through the American Federation of Arts, will go to many other museums and colleges during 1976. The United States Information Agency will show the prints, called the Kent Bicentennial Portfolio, in foreign countries.

Lorillard, established in 1760, is one of a handful of companies now existing that were in business since before the American Revolution.

Students stage sit-in, cite deficiencies

HOUSTON (AP) — Pupils at H.C. Williams Junior High School say they were complaining about the lack of instruction in the classroom when they staged a sit-in at the school.

About 200 staged the brief sit-in Wednesday in a corridor at the school which has an enrollment of about 1,100.

When school officials agreed to hold a meeting on problems at the school, the youngsters returned to classes.

"We know that we are deficient in important subject areas and don't wish to be forced to work at menial tasks for the rest of our lives due to these deficiencies," the pupils said in a prepared statement.

Principal Willie Spencer defended the instructional program and said morale is as good at Williams as at any Houston school.
