Scientists Minimize Risks

By C. G. McDANIEL
AP Science Writer

Each work day, tens of thousands of research scientists walk willingly into laboratories where they study exotic, sometimes dangerous, often deadly viruses and bacteria.

"We wash our hands a lot," said Dr. Richard Finkelstein, a microbiologist at Southwestern Medical School, University of Texas in Dallas.

But Finkelstein expressed little concern that he might contract cholera, the fearsome disease he studies.

"If you worried about it all the time," said Norman Barratt, a research associate at the Texas school, "you'd end up in the insane asylum."

However, these and other researchers working at this frontier of medical science also expressed a "healthy respect" for the dangers of working so closely with such hazardous substances.

These dangers were accentuated with the report last February of the deaths of three persons, including a Yale University laboratory worker, who were infected with Lassa fever, a highly virulent virus found in Nigeria.

Despite this, many scientists interviewed on the subject by The Associated Press minimized the risks. Sophisticated laboratory equipment and, if needed, potent drugs and antitoxins, help mitigate any fears.

The leading authority on laboratory-acquired infections, Dr. S. Edward Sulkin, a virologist, says the number of persons who work with agents which might potentially cause them to be ill or die is not known.

Sulkin is professor and chairman of the department of microbiology at the Southwestern Medical School and, with a colleague, Dr. Robert M. Pike, conducted the first survey of laboratory-acquired infections in 1949 with a questionnaire sent to nearly 5,000 laboratories in the Unites States.

He estimated in 1951 that there were about 121,000 scientists and others working in laboratories where they might become ill if proper caution were not exercised.

Now, he said, he has no estimate of the number because "there has been a virus explosion" since then with the discovery of new ones and a consequent increase in scientific interest in studying these viruses.

Persons who might be exposed include not only the scientists directing the research projects but their technical and professional aides and the dishwashers who clean the equipment, janitorial help, veterinarians, animal caretakers, students and office workers.

Pike, professor of microbiology, said 20 to 30 per cent of laboratory-acquired infections result from known accidents and the cause of the rest is unknown.

"The possibility of contracting a disease occurs to use, and we try not to be careless," said Pike, who does cholera research.

"Danger does not preoccuppy researchers very much," he said. "There's a greater chance of having an accident at home or in a car than in a lab where I'm more or less in control of what's going on," he said.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, May 4, the 124th day of 1970. There are 241 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1626, the Dutch colonizer, Peter Minuit, landed on Manhattan Island.

On this date:

In 1776, Rhode Island renounced allegiance to Britain.

In 1886, the Haymarket riot in Chicago was touched off by a bomb explosion during a demonstration for eight-hour work days.

In 1904, the United States took possession of the Panama Canal Zone.

In 1942, the battle of the Coral Sea began in the Pacific war.

In 1961, a biracial group of 13 persons — the first of the so-called freedom riders — set out by bus from Washington to New Orleans to test segregation.

Ten years ago — The United States agreed to sell 17 million tons of wheat to India. It was the biggest U. S. sale of surplus food.

Five years ago — The two contending forces in a revolt in the Dominican Republic signed a truce, but fighting continued in Santo Domingo.

One year ago — Negro leader James Forman disrupted services at New York's Riverside Church to demand reparations from predominantly white churches for past injustices to blacks.

OVER COMES INCUMBENT — Lloyd Bentsen and his wife Beryl Ann were all smiles Saturday night as they learned that Bentsen had swept out incumbent Sen. Ralph Yarborough in the Democratic primary. Bentsen Looking For New Issues

By CLAYTON HICKERSON
Associated Press Writer

Lloyd Bentsen Jr. looked for new issues today after a march nearer the Potomac with his upset victory over Sen. Ralph Yarborough in Saturday's Democratic primary.

All that remained for Bentsen's return to Washington was a victory over Rep. George Bush, R-Tex., in the November general election. It could be the hardest part of the return trip.

During the campaign, however, Bentsen borrowed the phrase "silent majority" from Nixon and used it effectively in saying it was the base of his support.

Bentsen retired from the House of Representatives in 1955 after three terms as a congressman from the Lower Rio Grande Valley where he was born. Never poor, he reputedly made another million or so in insurance in Houston, then turned again to politics.

Bush, who won easily over Robert Morris, president of the Plano University near Dallas, is a fellow townsman, mixes in the same social circles and even play tennis at the same plush River Oaks Country Club.

Both are a far cry from Yarborough, who grew up in rural East Texas, strove for the image of the "people's senator" and took his vote largely from the Negro, the Mexican-American, organized labor and the social security recipients he championed.

Yarborough's "people" did not show up in large enough numbers Saturday. Throughout the campaign, and even before, the senator said he feared an apathetic electorate. He was right as little more than 1.5 million of Texas 4.1 million voter potential turned out.

The biggest vote in the primary went to Railroad Commissioner Ben Ramsey who raked in more than a million ballots. Ramsey is a solid conservative and most of his supporters voted for Bentsen.

In the primary campaign, both Bentsen and Bush proclaimed Yarborough the "big spender" who knew nothing but "spend, spend, spend" to cure any problem.

Yarborough was pictured by Bentsen as supporting the war moratorium and student riots and being against prayer in public schools. Yarborough denied it all, but found himself on the defensive.

Bentsen and the conservative surge also swept veteran Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler, another East Texas farm boy, from office as newcomer to politics Bob Armstrong won easily over Sadler and third man Fred Williams.

Yarborough Admits Defeat

AUSTIN (AP) — Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., sad and fatigued by his unsuccessful re-election campaign, finally admitted defeat today.

"I send my best wishes to you as the nominee of the Democratic party," Yarborough said, reading from a telegram he sent the winner, Lloyd Bentsen of Houston, this morning.

Yarborough, 66, spokesman for Texas liberal Democrats and a Texas senator since 1957, added that "As always I will support the straight Democratic ticket in November."

Yarborough appeared almost haggard as he sat in the bright photographer's lights to read the brief message of concession.

For about 15 minutes he postponed reading the handwritten message of defeat as he went over his record in Congress and thanked his supporters for their volunteer help in the campaign. At times his voice sank to a hoarse whisper, several times trembling as if about to break.

Thomason Rites Held

Funeral service was held at 1:30 p.m. Sunday at the Bell-Seale Funeral Home Chapel for James William Thomason, 20, who was found dead Saturday afternoon in an automobile in Coke County.

A justice of the peace from Robert Lee ruled that he died of asphyxiation about a month ago. He had been missing since April 5. The car was located about 12 miles west of Silver.

The Rev. Buck Hatfield and the Rev. J. H. Skiles officiated at the funeral service. Burial was in the Ponder Cemetery in Denton County, where graveside rites were held at 6 p.m.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Frances Thomason of Hermleigh; three sisters, Mrs. Beverly Williams of Huntsville, Mrs. Linnie McCrary of Denver City and Mrs. Ona Kiker of Snyder; three borthers, John Thomason of Hermleigh, Floyd Thomason of Snyder and Lloyd Thomason of Fort Worth.

US Terminates N-Vietnam Raids

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon announced today an end to a series of heavy U.S. air attacks against North Vietnamese missile and antiaircraft installations but said such raids may be resumed if necessary.

Daniel Z. Henkin, calling the attacks "reinforced protective reaction strikes," said the missions were successful in knocking out a number of antiaircraft facilities that had endangered unarmed U.S. reconnaissance planes.

Henkin is assistant secretary of defense for public affairs. His words supported the Nixon administration's contention that the air raids against North Vietnam, like the attack by U.S. ground forces into Cambodia, are not an escalation of the Southeast Asia war.

"I want to inform you that these reinforced protective reaction strikes, which were all that were planned, have been terminated," Henkin told Pentagon newsmen.

The announced end to the raids, at least temporarily, came after North Vietnamese delegates at the Paris peace talks complained that the attacks violated the American commitment to halt all bombing of Vietnamese territory in November 1968.

Asked whether the U.S. decision to end the attacks was influenced by North Vietnam's criticism, Henkin said "I have no knowledge of that at all."

Officials said the weekend sorties across the demilitarized zone were limited to retaliatory bombing of air defense sites that had fired on unarmed U.S. reconnaissance planes. "Protective reaction," Vice President Spiro T. Agnew called the action Sunday.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers, saying much the same thing, called the bombing "suppressive fire."

Although some nearby supply dumps may have been hit in the air raids, the officials said, there has been no major change in the policy set in 1968 when U.S. bombings north of the DMZ were halted.

According to the administration, an "understanding" reached with Hanoi when the bombing was stopped provided that American reconnaissance flights would continue over North Vietnam without fear of ground fire.

The Vice President denied the air attacks and the Cambodia incursion were efforts to increase war pressure on the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong in an effort to force them to negotiate for peace.

Kosygin Condemns US Action

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Alexei N. Kosygin today condemned the U.S. military operations in Cambodia and warned that the Soviet Union "will draw the appropriate conclusions from such a line of action."

The Soviet leader, in an unusual maneuver, called a news conference to present the Soviet Union's reaction to events in Indochina.

"To the heavy responsibility borne by the United States for the war against the Vietnamese people is added a responsibility for the aggression it committed against the people of Cambodia," kosygin's formal statement said.

"It goes without saying that the Soviet government will draw appropriate conclusions for its policy from such a line of action by the United States in Southeast Asia."

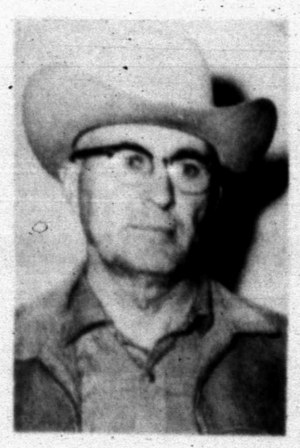
Kosygin appeared to attempt to rally the Communist world against the American campaign in Southeast Asia when he said that "all states which hold dear the interests of peace and freedom ... must display a high sense of responsibility for the further course of events and a determination to contribute toward repelling the aggressor."

Moore Withdraws From Pct. 4 Race

Scurry County's second Democratic Primary election ballot was cut in half this morning when Paul Moore withdrew from the race for county commissioner in Precinct No. 4.

Moore had been second in the three-man race in the first primary based on complete unofficial returns and was scheduled to enter the run-off against Incumbent Bill Hairston.

In the first primary Saturday, the complete, unofficial returns showed Hairston with 493 votes, Moore with 295 and Arthur Lee Pieper with 234.



PAUL MOORE
...pulls out of race

However, Moore announced this morning that he had withdrawn from the race and there would be no runoff. He filed an affacavit to that effect with County Clerk Beverly Ainsworth.

In a formal statement, Moore said:

"To the voters of Precinct No. 4 — I am conceding the race for commissioner to Mr. Hairston. I would like to thank all of you for your courtesy to me when I called at your homes and to you who voted and worked for me and said so many nice things to me. I say with all the goodwill and sincerity that can come from a man's heart, thank you so much."

Moore's withdrawal left only one runoff race for a local office in the second primary. Mrs. Agnes Brown, county treasurer, faces a run-off with Billy Wayne Thompson. In the first primary Saturday, the complete, unofficial returns gave Mrs. Brown 1,510 votes, Thompson 1,351 votes and Charlcie Roberson 538 votes in the county treasurer's race.

Choirs, Band Win Honors At Festival

Snyder High School had the top-rated Class AAA boys choir and won many other honors at the Buccaneer Music Festival in Corpus Christi over the weekend.

The SHS boys choir was the only one in its class to receive a Division I rating.

The Snyder High A Capella Choir rated Division I also, while the SHS girls choir and the Snyder High School Band received Division II ratings.

The choir's rating brought it the honorable mention trophy for Calss AAA mixed choral units, which is the second highest choir award given at the festival.

Arlie Eicke and Travis Angel earned superior ratings in individual solo competitions.

Solo winners in the SHS band included Kelly Cramer, flute; J. L. Pherigo, French Horn; Peggy Patterson, clarinet, and Bruce Bell, cornet.

Music units from schools from several states were in the competition, and judges of national prominence were used to determine the ratings.

Industrial Arts Pupils Win Awards

Snyder students did well at the 12th annual Texas Interscholastic League Industrial Arts Fair, held Saturday, in Austin with Wanda Raborn, a member of the Lamar Junior High School team, winning recognition as the outstanding student in the junior high division. She also was judged the best contestant in the ceramics division.

The Snyder High School officers won first place in the parliamentary procedure contest. They are Bobby Raborn, Coy Rhodes, Jan Rains, Steve Ray, Jennifer Brown, Mike Elkins and Teresa Young.

Judy Taylor was third runnerup in the State Sweetheart competition.

SNYDER HIGH SCHOOL

First Place — Calvin Goebel (2), John Sauceda, Steve Ray, Clifford Eargason, Terry Book, Bobby Raborn, Terry Clark, and Mark Lambert. Raborn won best in division award.

Second Place — Kelly Cook, Paul Duff, Bill Bilberry, John Sauceda (2), Mike Elkins and Jose Perez.

TRAVIS JUNIOR HIGH

Second Place — Steven Stanley, Don Whittenburg, William Clayton, Eddie Romero, Roger Tullis, Angela Howell, Jose Lopez, Eddie Romero, William Clayton, Rodney Hunter and Barry Ivison.

Third Place — Cris Clay, Eloisa Garcia, Manual Medrado, D'Ann Fisher and Roger Tullis.

LAMAR JUNIOR HIGH

First Place — Wanda Raborn (2), Froilan Reyes, Lane Johnston, Clifford Olsen, Richard Sullenger (2) and Robert Childers.

Second Place — Jeff Brown, Diane Lewis, Gary Dillard (2), Wanda Raborn, Cleo Wolf and David Treat.

Third Place — Roy Lee Carter, Dayna Smith, Steve Wittie, Pat Martin and Mike Hinton.

No excuse for late husband

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Last night my husband, who usually comes home between 6 and 6:30 p. m., came home at 10:45! I was nearly out of my mind worrying that maybe he was lying in a ditch, in a hospital, or even in jail. It so happened he was tied up with his boss, but he certainly could have called me.

I told him I thought he was selfish and inconsiderate not to have called me. He said, "You are not my mother! What was I supposed to do, ask my boss to excuse me so I can call my wife?"

Abby, if I'm wrong tell me. But shouldn't a man call his wife if he can, and let her know he's going to be home later than usual? NADINE

DEAR NADINE: Yes. And he should let her know if he's going to be earlier than usual, too.

DEAR ABBY: I have a 13-year-old son I am raising alone as his father was killed in an accident 2 years ago. Dick [I'll call him] has always been a shy, but well-behaved boy.

I don't believe in physical punishment, but my husband used to spank him if he did something wrong. Lately all Dick talks about is "punishment." I overheard him telling a friend that if he got bad grades in school I would take a razor strap to him—which is certainly not true. Yesterday he asked me to "time" him as he ran around the block, and if he didn't make it in a certain number of minutes, I could "beat" him. He failed, but I told him he made it.

He has written papers for school saying you shouldn't "spare the rod." What should I do? Punish him? I'd take him to a doctor, but he is normal in every other way. MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Your son is asking for punishment! Discuss this with your family doctor [or school psychologist, if one is available]. Children sometimes feel the need for punishment and provoke it by anti-social behavior. [Or he could be a "normal" boy who desperately misses his father—spankings and all.]

DEAR ABBY: If I knew your home address, I would fill your house with flowers! You had a "CONFIDENTIAL" in your column which read, "TO DRAGGING IN CLEVELAND: Never mind your SINUSES. Send your SISTER to Arizona and you'll feel better."

I live in Cleveland, and I have been indeed "dragging" for some time because I have an older sister who wants to live my life for me. I am 50 years old, but my sister still treats me as tho I were 9. My psychiatrist told me to "tune her out," but that is not easy after so many years of listening to her.

Well, my sister winters in Arizona, and the earlier she leaves, the better I feel. She saw the "confidential" in your column, and was sure that I had written to you [I didn't], and that was your answer. She hasn't spoken to me since. My profound gratitude.

"FEELING BETTER" IN CLEVELAND

DEAR ABBY: I was interested in the letter signed BOOBY PRIZE. She said she didn't especially enjoy going to someone's home where the hostess insisted they spend the evening playing "brain games." [At least she admitted that she wasn't as well informed as some of the others, and didn't care to let people know how dumb she was.]

I'm not the smartest one in our crowd either, but I would much rather spend an evening playing "brain games," than listening to people tell dirty jokes, or talk about how much money they're making, or discuss people they don't like.

Vote Erratic For Single Candidates

The voting pattern on unopposed candidates in Saturday's Democratic Party primary election was erratic in Scurry County.

This was attributed, at least partially, to the "X" system of voting. A vote for an unopposed candidate now is not counted unless the X is marked in the box beside the name on the ballot. Under the old "scratch" system, unopposed candidates received votes if their name was simply left inscratched. It was apparent that many Scurry voters did not cast votes for unopposed candidates in the first Democratic primary.

The champion vote-getter here was Congressman George H. Mahon, who was unopposed.

among opposed candidates was Austin McCloud, who was nominated by a margin of over 2-1, to serve as chief justice of the Court of Civil Appeals, 11th Supreme Judicial District.

Judge McCloud received 2,582 votes in Scurry County, while his lone opponent, Roger Q. Garrett, received only 570.

Other unopposed candidates fared as follows: Preston Smith, governor, 2,566; Ben Barnes, Lt. governor, 2,529; Robert S. Calvert, state comptroller, 2,527; Jesse James, state treasurer, 2,567; John C. White, commissioner of agriculture, 2,457; Jack Pope, associate justice, supreme court, 2,385; Ruel C. Walker, associate justice of supreme court, 2,361; David Ratliff, state senator, 2,584; Renal B. Rosson, state representative, 2,607; James H. Whiteside, state school board, 2,363; Zada Drum Chapman, district clerk, 2,681; Beverly Ainsworth, county clerk, 2,636; Buford Browning, county superintendent, 2,522; Frank A. Wilson, county Democratic party chairman, 2,551; T. E. Shelburne, justice of the peace at Hermleigh, received 200 votes, in an unopposed race in that precinct.

Thieves, Vandals Are Active Lately

Thieves and vandals have been busy lately.

Someone damaged the equipment in the pumphouse east of the Towle Park pool Friday or Saturday, according to a City Police report. The damage was set at $100.

Thieves took a shotgun, a rifle and an axle from the Paul Gutierrez residence, 3900 Merrill Drive, sometime between April 29 and May 2. Officers said the loss was estimated at $137.

Someone removed $35 from the purse of Rosa Benitez, 125 Peach, last Friday when she left it at a telephone booth at the Dairy Queen, officers said.

College Papers Plan Protest Strike

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Campus newspapers across the country planned to call today for a nationwide student strike to protest American military actions in Cambodia and the recent bombing of North Vietnam.

Strikes already have been declared at Princeton, the University of Pennsylvania, Sarah Lawrence and Bryn Mawr, and strike plans were reported underway at Notre Dame, Brandeis University and Stanford.

A national strike committee of delegates from the campuses was being convened for a meeting at George Washington University tonight to coordinate policy.

The New Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, also working toward a national student strike, called for a massive rally in Washington Saturday to demand immediate withdrawal of U.S. troops from Southeast Asia.

The common strike editorial scheduled for publication today in student newspapers was drawn up Sunday at Columbia University by editors of 11 major Eastern colleges. Six were present and others participated by telephone.

The editorial accuses President Nixon of ignoring "the constitutional prerogatives of Congress" by sending troops into Cambodia. Nixon, the editors wrote, "has revealed the sham of his policy of Vietnamization."

The editorial says "a massive, unprecedented display of dissent is required."

Drafting the editorial were editors from Columbia, Cornell, Rutgers, Bryn Mawr, Sarah Lawrence and the University of Pennsylvania. Endorsements quickly came from Harvard, Princeton, Dartmouth, Brown and Haverford.

Editors at Stanford and the University of California at Berkeley said they planned to print it as well.

Students from the Atlanta area, meeting at Emory University Sunday night, decided to march in Atlanta next Saturday while Nixon is in Georgia for the dedication of the Stone Mountain Confederate Memorial.

At Kent State University, National Guardsmen with bayonets on their rifles herded 1,200 students back to the campus Sunday night after they staged a sit-in at a downtown Kent, Ohio, intersection.

It was the third straight night of antiwar protests at Kent. A student was injured in the back by a bayonet and at least one Guardsman was hurt by a thrown rock.

Guardsmen were ordered into the city Saturday night after a demonstration by 1,000 students during which the Army ROTC building was burned and demonstrators took away firemen's hoses. About 50 persons were arrested Sunday night, raising the approximate total of arrested since Friday to 100.

Meanwhile, federal troops were being withdrawn from New England where they had been standing by in case of violence at a New Haven rally in support of Black Panthers on trial there.

Yale University President Kingman Brewster Jr., called for a resumption of classes on Tuesday. Yale has been shut down for 2½ weeks and has just completed a weekend of rallies in support of the Panthers.

The nine-banded armadillo always gives birth to four babies at a time and they are always of the same sex. It gives birth to both males and females, but never at the same time.

BOY INJURED — Stephen Curtis Clark, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Clark, 112 Elm Street, sustained minor injuries when the bicycle he was riding was in collision with this 1961 Model Chevrolet operated by Patricia Marie Hodge, Route 3, Snyder, at 1:38 p.m. Sunday on Avenue S at Parks Avenue. He was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by his parents and released after receiving treatment for a laceration on the back of his head. Damage to the car was set at only $10.

Immigration Policy Overhaul Asked

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pressure is mounting in Congress for a sweeping overhaul of a five-year-old law that was supposed to open a new era in U.S. immigration policy.

Strong protest against the existing law by such long-time friends of the United States as Canada, Mexico and Ireland; complaints about excessive red tape, and clear signs that the law is not working as expected have produced a flood of proposed legislative remedies.

The latest proposal, offered by a key member of the House immigration subcommittee, has a chief aim of lifting current restrictions on immigration from Canada and Mexico.

The bill by Rep. Peter W. Rodino, D-N.J., also would make it easier for refugees from Communist nations to seek asylum in the United States, and would revise the present preference system for admitting immigrants.

"The time is come," says Rodino in a speech explaining his bill, "to stop procrastinating and recognize that our current immigration policy is alienating our friends and neighbors and creating chaos in the Western Hemisphere."

Rodino's remark is strongly reminiscent of those heard five years ago when Congress was considering its first major change in immigration policy in 41 years. Those remarks were heeded and in October 1965 Congress passed a brand new immigration law.

The 1965 act eliminated the 1924-established quota system based on the national origins of the American people and designed to preserve the ethnic balance of the nation as it existed in 1890. Thus, England, Germany, France, Ireland and the Scandinavian countries got most of the quota numbers.

For the first time, the 1965 act also placed a ceiling on immigration from the Western Hemisphere, a provision put in by Congress over the vigorous opposition of the State Department.

In place of the old quota system, the 1965 act set up a series of preference categories—the highest preference being given to the immediate relatives of persons already in the United States—within which visas would be granted in accordance with names of a waiting list.

The new program was phased in over a three-year period and howls of protest began to arise almost immediately after the 1968 deadline was reached.

Among the loudest came from Ireland, which never came close to using up the big quota it enjoyed under the old system. It thus had no waiting list and was being largely shut out by the first come, first served policy of the new law.

Another loud protest came from Italy, which was supposed to be one of the major beneficiaries of the new policy. It had piled up a waiting list of more than 200,000 by 1965 but a 20,000 limit set for each country and the workings of the new preference categories formed new backlogs within certain classifications and Italians who have been waiting 10 years to join their families here still can't get in.

For Mexico and Canada, the new law was more a blow to pride. Canada, Mexico and the United States had permitted unlimited immigration across each other's borders for years, and in Mexico and Canada the policy remains.

But with Cuban refugees taking up a sizable part of the 120,000 ceiling placed on Western Hemisphere immigration by the 1965 act, Canadians and Mexicans seeking visas are, for the first time, being turned away.

SHS Pupils Set For State Meet

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the second in a series of profiles of Snyder High School students who will represent their school, district and region at the state University Interscholastic League meeting this weekend in Austin. Snyder High has one of its largest delegations in history qualified to participate in the state meet.

on the speech and drama field where you likely will find Barbara Carter, and likely she will be among the winners. A senior student, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Carter, 2901 Thirty-second Street, Barbara has competed in nine speech tournaments this year and she and her partner, Kathie Martin, have won 44 debates while losing only seven. They will represent the region in this event at the state UIL meet.

She attended a 3½-week speech workshop last summer at the University of Houston.

Activities at Snyder High School in which Barbara is involved include serving as accompanist for the A Capella Choir, accompanist for The Swingers vocal group, Vivace Junior Music Club, member of the forensic squad, member of the student council, secretary of National Honor Society, secretary of Future Teachers of America and Miss FTA for two years, nominee for Miss SHS. She also is Sweetheart of the Snyder Rotary Club. She plans to enter Hardin-Simmons University this fall.

Pam Patterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Patterson, 206 Thirty-second Street, is especially interested in her journalism and business classes, but has found time to be a member of the Snyder High School band for two years. A senior, she is serving this year as head twirler for the band. She also has served on the staff of the SHS annual, the Tiger's Lair, and as news editor of the SHS newspaper, the Tiger's Tale.

Pam will compete in the shorthand contest at the state UIL meet at Austin.

She plans to enter Texas Tech this fall.

Gene Kelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Kelly, 2509 Twenty-ninth Street, is a member of the cast of Snyder High School's one-act play, which will be in competition this weekend at Austin.

Gene's academic interests at Snyder High center mostly upon psychology, sociology, and drama, and it is in the speech and drama field that he has devoted most of his extracurricular interest. He transferred from San Antonio.

Gene hopes to travel after graduation from high school, but would perhaps go to college first if the opportunity presents itself.

Herbert Hodges, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Hodges, 2201 Avenue O, has a way with the discus and it has earned him a trip to Austin with the Snyder High School delegation to the UIL state meet.

Herbert won both the district and regional titles in the discus throw, and the track team has held most of his interest in extracurricular activities at SHS. On the other side of school life, he is particularly interested in shop courses, especially those which involve working on engines or building things.

His plans following graduation from high school are indefinite.

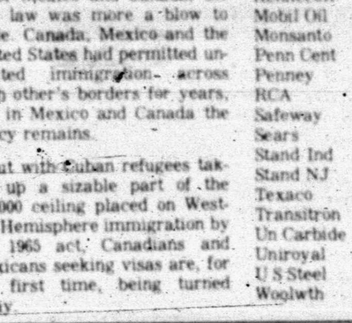
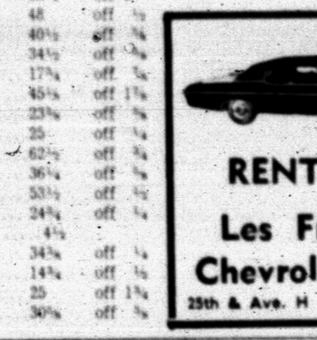
A modern gas range speaks out.

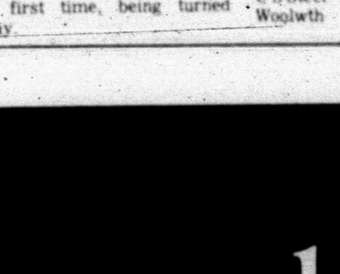
"There's more to cooking than high, medium and low. I can give you an infinite number of heat settings."



"I mean what I say. 'Off' means off. No hangover heat."



"Some people think I'm pretty smart. My Burner-with-a-Brain keeps foods from getting too hot or too cool."



"I can do more than broil and bake. I can keep foods warm, cook them super-fast and clean up afterwards."

"Take it from me, your best meal is yet to come."

Students See Only Midi And Maxi On Paris Tour

DALLAS — "The midi and the maxi were the only lengths we saw in any of the French couturier collections," said Christy Stubblefield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles N. Stubblefield, Colorado City, in an interview at Love Field in Dallas. She had just returned from Paris, France, where with fifteen other students if the Dallas Fashion Merchandising College she saw the advance collections of Guy La Roche, Jean Patou, Herbert Givenchy and Christian Dior.

Most of the students praised the Dior collection loudest, with Guy La Roche an easy second choice. At the latter showing, colored photographs served as backgrounds for the models.

Dior's new, soft, long look for day was debatable at first. However, after seeing it in a variety of moods and fabrics, DFMC students cheered it wildly. The longer skirt revealed delicate new proportions.

"You can't get the look simply by dropping the hem of a short dress — unfortunately," quipped one of the students. In sportswear, Dior kept the bodice sporty by giving it the T-shirt top. He favored the thinnest of crepe de chine — both in prints and solid colors.

The students were impressed with the watercolor softness they saw in prints at Givenchy, also. There, the sort skirt was a winner. Keynote in all the collections was a new femininity — a new, young spirit of the seventies.

Another highpoint during the Paris sojourn was the students' tour of the Palace of Versailles. They were enraptured — not only with the beauty of the galleries and sculptures, but with the French history the Palace recalled. Marie Antoinette's garden, Napoleon's initialed mahogany chair, the bronze statue of Louis XIV were three of many examples.

A visit to the Louvre was another highlight of the Paris trip. Despite a dispute between labor and the French government, students were able to spend a few hours in the world-famous museum. Government guards replaced regular ones and viewing time was limited.

"Wouldn't you know we'd be there when Paris broke its weather records!" one student bemoaned. "This April brought the coldest April day since 1894. It even snowed on us when we were at the top of the Eiffel Tower."

There were mixed emotions about French cuisine. Some students thrilled to the subtle seasonings. Others hoped to find a hamburger somewhere. But, it took only a few dinners, served in the French manner, to unify the opinion that French food was great.

Said Miss Stubblefield, "This Paris trip was the thrill of a lifetime. I can't wait to tell the other girls at the college about it."

Arrangements for the Paris trips are made by the Dallas Fashion Merchandising College through the cooperation of Air France and Neiman Marcus. The college maintains a permanent residence for its students at 58 Avenue Des Minimes, 94 Vincennes in Paris.

A paper napkin stuffed lightly in the neck of a vacuum bottle to be stored helps keep out any musty odor.

To prevent bacon from frying away and dwindling down to nothing, soak the slices of bacon in milk for 20 minutes prior to frying. Drain, dip in flour, and fry slowly until crisp.

Save time washing dishes by rinsing egg and milk dishes in cold water, sugary ones in hot water.

PRE-NUPTIAL SHOWER — A shower honoring Linda Miller (right) of Arlington was held Saturday morning at the Snyder Country Club. At left is her mother, Mrs. G. B. Clark, Jr., 2800 Westridge. Miss Miller will become the bride of Dr. Charles McFarland of Fort Worth in a ceremony to be held at 10 a.m. Saturday, May 30, in her mother's home.

AFTER SATURDAY'S DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY

Texas Senate Situation Unsettled

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

It will take two more elections to decide the ideological make-up of the 1971 Texas Senate. Saturday's Democratic primary left the situation unsettled.

Liberal Sens. Oscar Mauzy, Dallas; Roy Harrington, Port Arthur, and Joe Bernal, San Antonio, won clear-cut primary victories, as did conservative Sens. Ralph Hall of Mineral Wells and Wayne Connally, Floresville.

Harrington, Bernal, Creighton and Connally are unopposed in the Nov. 4 general election.

But Mauzy, leader of the Senate liberals, has a Republican opponent, publisher Ray Zauber of Dallas, as do the winners of three of the four June 6 Democratic run-offs for state Senate seats.

Sen. Don Kennard, veteran Fort Worth liberal, will be in the run-off against conservative Rep. Joe Shannon Jr., who outpolled Kennard by nearly 5,000 votes Saturday. There is no Republican candidate for the seat.

In the other three Democratic senatorial run-offs, no incumbent sought re-election. Republican candidates await the winner of each contest.

Liberal Rep. Glenn Kothmann, member of a San Antonio pioneer family, will square off against conservative Rep. Lamoine Holland, also of San Antonio, in a run-off to succeed the late Sen. V. E. "Red" Berry. Don Hand, a former representative, ran third. Rep. James Nowlin of San Antonio, who switched parties this year, is the Republican nominee.

Labor-backed James P. Wallace led a field of three and will meet former Rep. Donald K. Shipley in a run-off for the seat vacated by the retirement of Sen. Criss Cole of Houston. The winner will meet GOP political unknown Abraham Farrior in November.

In the Panhandle, Jack Hazlewood and Max Sherman, both Amarillo lawyers, will meet in the run-off for the right to challenge GOP Rep. Malouf Abraham of Canadian for the Senate seat vacated by the retirement of Hazlewood's cousin, Sen. Grady Hazlewood of Canyon.

Former U. S. Rep. Lindley Beckworth, Longview, was unopposed in the primary but has a Republican opponent, John F. Warren of Tyler, in November.

Ten Democratic senators and 88 representatives were elected in the primary, since they have no opponents in November. Included was Republican Rep. Tom Christian of Claude, in the Panhandle.

Counting senators not up for re-election this year, 13 conservatives and 12 liberals are sure to return in 1971. Last year's Senate had a 16-15 conservative majority, by both AFL-CIO and business lobby counts.

If Kennard, Mauzy and two other liberals, such as Wallace and Kothman, are elected, the Senate Balance will shift to a 16-15 liberal majority. If, on the other hand, Kennard is defeated —as well he might be—and conservatives win two other races, the conservative majority will remain.

The House will remain under business - oriented conservative Democratic control, even considering GOP races for 37 House seats in November.

"I am completely elated," said conservative House Speaker Gus Mutscher after receiving Saturday's House election results.

Mutscher received a shock, however, in the apparent defeat of conservative Rep. Felix McDonald, Edinburg, chairman of the House Criminal Jurisprudence Committee and one of the legislature's experts at bill drafting and legal maneuvering.

Former Rep. Lindsey Rodriguez of Hidalgo, a liberal, beat McDonald by 21 votes. McDonald said he would request a recount.

Other representatives defeated in the primary were Burke Musgrave of Breckenridge, Raul Muniz El Paso, Bob Burnett, Arlington, and Hudson Moyer, Amarillo. Moyer's wife, Nancy, also was beaten in the Democratic primary for Sen. Hazlewood's post.

Democratic run-offs will be held for 16 House seats, in addition to the four Senate run-off primaries.

The six Senators who won re-election without either Democratic or Republican opposition were liberal Chet Brooks, Pasadena, and conservatives J. P. Wood, Meridian; Murray Watson, Waco; David Ratliff, Stamford; H. J. Blanchard, Lubbock, and Jack Hightower, Vernon.

If the legislature redistricts next year, all senators will have to run, and will draw lots to determine who gets four-year terms and who will receive only two-year terms.

Redistricting is only one of several emotional issues likely to face the 1971 legislature. Others include taxes, with the Texas Research League estimating a $300 million two-year tax bill will be required; drug controls; pollution; and liquor by the drink if the voters delegate the legislature Nov. 3 to legalize mixed drinks.

Hailstone Control Is Being Probed

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Control of crop-killing hailstones now is the subject of continuing research by Illinois State Water Survey scientists.

A large computer at the University of Illinois is being used to analyze storm profiles and compare them with hail statistics for 29 county wide area covering 1,600 square miles.

"We're using a computer based study to learn whether we can identify hail-bearing storms as they develop," said S.A. Changnon Jr., acting head of the atmospheric sciences section.

Changnon said hail caused $284 million worth of crop damage nationwide last year.

Checkbook Puzzle Is Explained

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — There are 89 separate skills a student must possess before he knows how to handle whole numbers. Addition requires 21, subtraction 22, multiplication 20 and division 26.

Now we know why the checkbook never balances.

Nicklaus Defeats Arnie, Army In Dallas Playoff

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus lost the popularity contest and the call from Washington was a wrong number, but he pocketed the $9,000 difference Sunday in a dramatic, sudden death Byron Nelson Golf Classic victory over athlete of the decade, Arnold Palmer.

"When I found out they wanted Arnie," said Nicklaus who answered the Washington call first, "I just went back out to the green and picked up the championship trophy."

Nicklaus got a $20,000 first prize check and the trophy from golf great Nelson himself after a classic 37-hole head-to-head confrontation with Palmer, 10 years his senior.

A tap-in birdie putt on the first extra hole gave Jack the Bomber his first ever sudden-death win over old nemesis and goat friend, Palmer, who won $11,000.

Then came the call from Washington. It was Vice President Spiro Agnew on the line. Agnew wanted to speak to golfing buddy Palmer.

"I had played golf with him recently and he wanted to talk about today's round," Palmer said. "There wasn't any slight to Jack intended."

The mild-mannered Nicklaus wasn't miffed. He had played all day with a crowd of some 15,000 following his threesome, most yelling and applauding for Palmer.

"It was like Texas and Ohio State playing (football) in Texas," Nicklaus laughed. "There are damn few Buckeyes down here."

The crowd was estimated at more than 40,000 and about a third dogged the heels of golf's biggest names. They jostled, shoved and yelled.

Arnie came to me on the sixth green of the second round and said 'I think it's getting out of hand.'" Nicklaus said. "But you are going to have that anytime you play with Arnold, Arnie is a very popular fellow. I don't mind the people yelling and rooting just as long as they don't get rude."

Nicklaus, who got a line-of-sight drop in the rough because of a television tower obstruction on No. 18, said one fan yelled "Awww" when the ruling was made.

"I told him I was sorry," Nicklaus said. "I really shouldn't have taken the drop, I guess. I might have made a par."

Nicklaus bogied the last hole, missing a 21-footer by inches as Palmer knotted it with par.

But Nicklaus made up for it on the Par 5, 555-yard No. 15 with a prime-time national television audience looking on.

He blasted a tremendous drive over the corner of a lake. And he whistled a brassie 267-yards pin high in the right frog hair. Nicklaus got down in two, Palmer took par and it was over.

Palmer and Nicklaus had met in playoffs twice previously but never head-up in sudden death. Nicklaus won the 1962 U.S. Open in a playoff with Palmer. In 1963, Palmer beat Nicklaus and Julius Boros in another 18-hole playoff for the Western Open.

Nicklaus and Palmer finished the Nelson with six-under par 274s. Both had morning rounds of two-under par 68 and Palmer caught Nicklaus with an afternoon 69 to the Columbus, Ohio belter's 71.

Rookie John Schroeder, son of former tennis star Ted Schroeder, played in the Nicklaus-Palmer group and closed with a brilliant 68 and a tie with Lee Trevino for third at 275.

"Schroeder showed great courage to play as well as he did under all that pressure," said Palmer, who admitted his hip ached and his back was sore after the gruelling day.

"That round with Jack was just like old times," Palmer said.

Nicklaus agreed and added "Arnold has earned everything he has. He's made such a great contribution to the game. I just feel fortunate to be a part of it."

Lobos Nudge Tigers 3-2 With Late Rally

LEVELLAND — It ain't over over until the last out. Ask Jim Patrick. He'll tell you. The senior Snyder High School right-hander was working on a 3-hitter going into the last half of the 7th inning here Saturday afternoon and his mates had him a comfortable 2-0 lead.

Moreover, Jim fanned the first man up in the last frame. Then, the complexion of the game began to change quicker than West Texas weather as an error and singles by Williams and Mulloy (combined with a passed ball gave Levelland three runs and a 3-2 victory. It was only Snyder's second loss in 3-AAA action. The Bengals were to host Midland at 4 p.m. Tuesday in a non-league affray.

Patrick and the winning pitcher, Jim McCutchen, hooked up in a pitcher's duel Saturday. Both hurlers had superb control most of the way and both went the distance. McCutchen gave up just four hits — all singles. Stewart Sims got two of them and Wesley Bishop and Merce Hernandez each collected one.

Sims led off with a single in the 3rd, stole second, and scored on Hernandez' single. The second Snyder tally came in the 5th inning. With one away, Bishop singled, went to second on a passed ball, took third on a fielder's choice and scored on another passed ball.

The Tigers put men in scoring position in the 1st, 2nd, and 6th innings, but McCutcheon was equal to the challenge each time and worked out of the jam. He struck out 11 Tigers. Patrick whiffed seven.

Levelland threatened in the 2nd, 3rd and 6th frames.

Foyt Seeks 4th Speedway Crown

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — A. J. Foyt Jr., winner of two major stock car races this year in two different circuits, went back to work today tuning his non-stock Coyote for the 54th 500-mile race May 30 at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Foyt won the NASCAR 500-miler in January on the Riverside, Calif., road course. He won the Yankee 250 Sunday at Indianapolis Raceway Park.

The Houston, Tex., veteran, hoping to become the first four-time winner of the Speedway classic for big open cockpit cars, said, "I didn't come to finish second."

He was in no danger of finishing second Sunday at Raceway Park after veteran Don White of Keokuk, Iowa, blew an engine in his 1969 Dodge Daytona after 150 miles.

Foyt, driving the same 1970 Ford Torino in which he won at Riverside, finished about four miles in front of runner-up Roger McCluskey of Tucson, Ariz., the 1969 USAC stock car champion, who drove a new Plymouth Super Bird. His average speed was 83.839 m.p.h.

Only White gave Foyt much of an argument in the Yankee 250. They swapped the lead among early pit stops and White was 16 seconds ahead when his engine blew.

Norm Nelson of Racine, Wis., in a 1970 Plymouth Road Runner, was about seven miles behind Foyt in third place.

In another USAC race Sunday, a 40-lap sprint feature on the half-mile dirt track at Tri County Speedway in West Chester, Ohio, Carl Williams was the victor.

The driver from Kansas City, Mo., took the lead in the first lap and never relinquished it. He outdistanced Doc Dawson of Lima, Ohio, by about 10 car lengths.

USAC spring point leader Larry Dickson of Marietta, Ohio, finished behind Dawson.

On the NASCAR circuit, Tiny Lind of Cross, S.C., drove a 1970 Camaro to victory in the Model City 300 in Kingsport, Tenn., edging out Wayne Andrews, who was his toughest competition until Andres' 1970 Cougar spun out on a turn, costing him two laps.

Andrews, of Siler City, N.C., recovered to finish second, followed by Frank Sessoms from Darlington, S.C., in a 1969 Camaro.

Ted Tidwell of Augusta, Ga., in a Formula B, finished a mere half-second ahead of Asheville's Pete Feistmann driving a Formula Ford, to win the annual Chimney Rock (N.C) Hill Climb. Charlotte's John Phelps, piloting a Sprite, came in third.

In racing abroad, two Porsches came in 1-2 in Sicily's 54th Targa Floria race. Winning drivers Jo Suffert of Switzerland and Brian Redman of England turned in a record 74.495 miles an hour. Second were Pedro Rodriquez of Mexico and Leo Kinmunen of Finland.

Ashe Claims First Prize

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Arthur Ashe won the $2,500 first prize in the Glenwood Manor invitational tennis tournament Sunday with a 7-6, 6-1 victory over defending champion Clark Graebner in the finals.

Ashe, of Gum Spring, Va., is second-ranked nationally, and Graebner, of New York, is ranked fourth.

Kristy Pigeon of Danville, Calif., defeated Denise Carter of Los Altos, Calif., 6-1, 1-6, 6-1 for the women's singles $1,000 prize.

In men's doubles, worth $500, Ashe and Bob Lutz of Los Angeles defeated Graebner and Terry Addison of Australia 6-4, 6-4.

The longer you can wait on the pitch the better off you will be. This applies to the little shavers in the sandlots right to some of the youngsters in the major leagues.

Employe Suggestion System Is Proposed By NASS

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Here's a suggestion for companies besieged with consumer complaints about poor quality and service: set up an employe suggestion system.

Not only might this device afford you the brain power and imagination of your workers at a low cost, incidentally, but quite likely it could improve worker morale by giving employes a sense of participation.

That is the formula suggested by the National Association of Suggestion Systems, which now numbers 1,400 member corporations compared with 1,100 in 1960 and one in 1895.

Most systems have come a long way from the old suggestion box, which as likely as not became stuffed with ludicrous and sometimes insulting proposals. Most systems today are highly structured, sophisticated and profitable.

At International Business Machines last year, Robert Wood and John O'Donnell, tool and die makers at a Kingston, N.Y., plant, won a total of $64,776 for just one suggestion.

They proposed and developed a simplified jig that enabled workers to move quickly and efficiently thread with wire the tiny magnetic memory cores for computers.

The payment, computed to equal 20 per cent of the first year's net savings on labor and materials, was last year's record high payment by any NASS member. Worldwide, IBM paid $3.7 million for suggestions in 1969.

It was 75 years ago, NASS says the National Cash Register set up what is claimed to be this country's first system. The idea really never took hold in a big way, however, until World War II, when boxes sprouted in defense plants.

Following the war, the concept again seemed to fall from favor, but Bill Englehaupt, executive director of the Chicago-based NASS, claims that suggestion systems again are growing in number and popularity.

He lists among the reasons: the need to cut costs as inflation erodes profits; the rising level of customer complaints; the desire of companies to devise methods for dealing with service problems; the relatively new problems of environmental pollution.

Englehaupt claims that hospitals are among the most recent of institutions to benefit from suggestion systems, partially due to three NASS seminars for hospital administrators held this year in Atlanta, San Francisco and Chicago.

Hospitals, of course, are having serious problems of cost control. Medical costs are perhaps the fastest rising of any cost of living category and some many administrators have frantically and unsuccessfully sought solutions.

For too many years, one professional critic maintains, medical institutions have been victimized by "bossism" of doctors and nurses. Employe ideas, intentionally or not, were sometimes smothered or deemed too unprofessional.

A notable example of the changing attitude involved a physical therapist aide at Children's Hospital, Pittsburgh, who suggested that common table salt could be subsfituted for an expensive salt tablet in a saline solution for burn patients.

The suggestion, scoffed at when first received, was investigated later and found to be worthwhile. The estimated first-year savings of $10,000 resulted in a $2,000 award to the employe.

Developing Gas Supply Shortage May Get Worse

By MAX B. SKELTON
AP Oil Writer

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Domestic natural gas production the past two years exceeded 397 trillion cubic feet while new discoveries and additions to proved reserves totaled only 22.1 trillion.

An American Petroleum Institute official says the developing gas supply shortage could get worse before it could get better even if federal wellhead price controls were removed immediately.

Trends of the past two years have prompted a member of the Federal Power Commission to conclude that the current area formula for controlling prices has been demonstrated to be unworkable.

The trends also have prompted a top spokesman for the interstate gas transmission companies to predict the growing gas supply shortage will become a crisis situation unless corrective action is taken.

Carl E. Bagge, a former Chicago railroad attorney and a Republican member of the FPC since 1965, has supported the area formula in the past but now says the urgent need for squaring producer prices with realities of the market should be clear to most zealous advocates of producer price regulation.

John E. Hodges, an economist and director of the ifistitute's division of statistics, says consumers are facing a major shortage because the FPC regulatory practices have discouraged the search for new reserves the past 16 years.

"No one expects with any confidence that FPC regulation will be abolished," Hodges said. "Nevertheless, no other remedy will ensure adequacy of supply. The termination of regulation might be phased out over time, but the more rapidly it is abolished, the more rapidly gas supply is likely to increase."

W. J. Bowen, president of the Florida Gas Transmission Co., does not call for the elimination of FPC controls but says changes are essential. Bowen also is chairman of the Independent Natural Gas Association of America, a trade group that includes most of the nation's interstate gas transmission companies.

"The FPC must promptly develop new pricing policies and appropriate incentives to bring forth a significant and substantial increase in exploration activity," Bowen said.

"Only through increased exploration will we find and develop the vast potential gas reserves in this country in time to avert a critical shortage situation. There are encouraging signs this will be done and settlement discussions are under way in a very important case involving the Southern Louisiana (gas-producing) area."

The first area formula developed by the FPC involved the vast Permian Basin of West Texas and Southeastern New Mexico.

Permian gas was selected as the guinea pig case for developing of the formula, and Bagge questions the success of the test.

"Can anyone seriously contend we have passed the test when the intrastate market has preempted the sales of gas in the Permian Basin?" he asked.

Huge Permian reserves have been contracted to intrastate markets since the U.S. Supreme Court ordered price controls for interstate sales in 1954.

Hodge says the long range outlook under regulation is quite clear.

"Depressed producer prices, supply shortages and the ultimate need for rationing—unless price control is removed, or much higher prices are allowed, which would permit exploration and discovery efforts to proceed at adequate levels," he said.

Junior Editors Quiz on HORSES

QUESTION: Why were there no horses in America when the white men came?

ANSWER: Scientists say horses descended from eohippus (1), an animal no bigger than a fox, living in Europe and America, with toes rather than hoofs. These were defenseless little creatures, except for their ability to run fast. Slowly, they grew larger than their enemies. So the first tiny horses became larger (mesohippus) (2) and still larger (the donkey-sized protohippus) (3). These horses had developed hoofs, enabling them to increase their speed still further. In ancient times, Alaska and Asia were connected with a land bridge. It is believed that man came across from Asia to settle in America. Some time after they had evolved, horses vanished from America. What had happened? Perhaps drastic changes in climate had spoiled the grasslands on which the horses depended for food. The men who had come were hunters, living by killing large animals. Perhaps they helped to exterminate the horses. The first modern horses were brought to America by Hernando Cortez, the Spaniard, in 1519.

Columnist Learns From Mailbags

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

The average American uses about 26 million gallons of water, directly and indirectly, in his lifetime. Perhaps even more — if he spends it on the water wagon.

Guess who's credited now with making the first swim fins? Benjamin Franklin, that Jack-of-all-trades and master of many. Ben, a powerful swimmer even at an advanced age, constructed his pioneering fins of wood and they were worn on both hands and feet.

Rich beyond the dreams of Midas are the world's oceans. They contain nearly 27.5 million tons of gold, an amount beside which the total gold hoard mined by man through the centuries is but a fleck.

If federal taxes were apportioned equally among U.S. households, each family would pay $2,920 for the fiscal year beginning July 1. Of this amount $1,070 would go for defense, $950 for health and welfare, $118 for education, and $50 for space research and technology.

What's in a name? The Pilgrims called cranberries "devils' food," because they puckered the mouth when eaten raw. After the Indians showed them how to make cranberry sauce, however, the Pilgrims quickly became fond of the berries.

Quotable notables: "Nature is proving that she can't be beaten — not by the likes of us. She's taking the world away from the intellectuals and giving it back to the apes." — Robert E. Sherwood.

Many parents still fear to have their children vaccinated against smallpox. A recent medical tabulation of primary vaccinations, however, found that only one in a million resulted in death.

Do car fumes affect the weather? This possibility is being investigated by scientists. One theory is that the lead in automobile exhaust combines with iodine in the air to form lead iodide, the nuclei of which have been found to speed the formation of snowflakes.

It was Samuel Butler who observed, "He has spent his life best who has enjoyed it most. God will take care that we do not enjoy it any more than is good for us."

Egeberg Addresses AJC Meeting

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "The vaunted 'right to health care, is not only a fiction, it is a lie," says Dr. Roger O. Egeberg, the Nixon's administration's top health officer.

"The right to health care, which is not much different from saying 'the right to health,' is available at a price," he said Sunday. "And something like 40 million Americans can't afford it...

"If we cannot provide for the basic human health rights of the poor in this country, we will have failed as a nation, as a society and as a people."

Egeberg, assistant secretary of health, education and welfare, spoke Sunday at a meeting of the American Jewish Committee.

New Service Is Offered Ex-Priest

LONDON (AP) — John Cardinal Heenan has launched an official advisory and welfare service for priests leaving the ministry. It operates confidentally through a London post office box number. Priests under emotional stress are told they may go directly to the advisory service instead of to their bishop for advice and help.

Judy Carne Weds In Central Park

NEW YORK (AP) — British-born Judy Carne, former star of television's "Laugh-In," and producer Robert Bergmann chose Central Park as the venue for their weekend wedding.

Miss Carne, 31, now in the musical "The Boy Friend" on Broadway, and Bergmann, 23, took their vows at 5:30 a.m. in a light Sunday fog.

About 100 of her fans, many in hippie garb, attended the ceremony. Miss Carne said she chose Central Park because she wanted "to be close to nature" for the occasion.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Want a train, a riverboat, a covered wagon? Or Liz Taylor's wedding gown from "Father of the Bride"?

They're for sale at MGM Studio where thousands of old movie-making treasures went on the auction block Sunday.

Debbie Reynolds, pouting prettily when outbid, bought $3,050 worth of film furniture for a Hollywood hall of fame she hopes to start. Its proceeds would benefit the Motion Picture Relief Fund for needy film people.

A San Francisco antique dealer, Lesie Robinson, 28, made the afternoon's top bid—$8,750 for a carved settee and four armchairs from the movie "Marie Antoinette." His purchases, including a few for friends, totaled $30,350.

A source estimated the first session's take at $200,000. The auction will last 18 days.

The cheapest buy was a white and gold coffee table for $35.

The first item sold, a cut crystal decanter, went to Tom Hartzog, 32, for $90. The Memphis investor flew here with his wife Joy for the auction.

"It's a beautiful piece of crystal," he said, "and I thought it would be fun to get the first item sold."

About 3,000 bidders and onlookers on folding chairs nearly filled enormous Stage 27. An additional 2,000 roamed the sprawling lot's auction displays or watched the proceedings by closed circuit television on another stage.

David Weisz, the auctioneer, bought the approximate 25,000 props and 35,000 costumes from MGM in January for an undisclosed price. Trade paper speculation has put the figure at $1.5 million to $3 million.

MGM's new management says the studio no longer needs the gear for the movies it makes today.

FDA Proposes Tripling Iron In Enriched Bread

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government proposes tripling the amount of iron in enriched bread to combat fatigue and low resistance to disease which iron deficiency anemia produced in many women and children, particularly the poor. Specialists have yet to firmly estimate how widespread iron deficiency is.

But Dr. Philip L. White, secretary of the American Medical Association's council on food and nutrition, said "Iron deficiency anemia is one of the major nutritional problems of teenage girls, and indeed adult women as well," in testimony to the select Senate Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs.

The Agriculture Department surveyed diets of 15,000 persons one day in 1965. It found that 23 per cent of boys 12 to 14, and 38 per cent of women and girls 9 to 54 received less than recommended allowances of iron. White and the Agriculture Department both found these conditions especially affected the poor.

One irony of iron deficiency is that as the nation's technology advances, the iron content of the diet diminishes.

Because iron speeds oxidation —and thus food spoilage—processors have become increasingly efficient at eliminating iron from food.

Bleaching and processing bread flour, for instance, reduces its iron content by more than two-thirds.

The primary sources of iron are bread and meat.

Little can be done to enrich the iron content of meat. That's one reason the Food and Drug Administration, at the urging of the National Academy of Sciences and the baking and milling industry, has proposed that the amount of iron added to enriched bread and flour be tripled.

The Food and Nutrition Board of the National Academy of Sciences has also proposed enrichment for cereal grains, but no action has been taken on these proposals.

The recommended daily iron requirements for adult men and women is from 5 to 10 milligrams. The daily requirement for women during menstruation jumps to the 7 to 20 milligram range. For adolescents the requirement is 10 to 20 milligrams. And for pregnant women the requirement is 20 to 48 milligrams, which can be satisfied only with special supplements.

Extended or severe iron shortage leads to anemia, constant fatigue and increased susceptibility to disease.

The FDA presently limits the amount of iron in a one-pound loaf of enriched bread to from 13 to 16.5 milligrams. The amount of iron permitted in enriched flour is from 8 to 12.5 milligrams per pound.

In response to the bakers' proposal, the FDA has proposed changing the tolerances to 50 to 60 milligrams for enriched bread and 32 to 38 milligrams for enriched flour. Standard bread and flour would not be affected. Bakers and millers say the changes would not affect the taste, texture or appearance of bread.

Conversely, the FDA still has before it a four-year-old proposal to limit the amount of iron in fortified cereals to 1.5 milligrams per one-ounce serving.

Some popular brands of raisin bran, bran flakes and highly fortified cereals have substantially more than 1.5 milligrams of added iron per serving.

The FDA proposal on breakfast cereals was offered before nationwide concern over hunger and malnutrition. A report on it is due June 1.

Seattle Man Rents Fire Departments

By LORRIE BORING
Associated Press Writer

SEATTLE (AP) — As a child, Leonard Aaron always wanted to be a fireman because, he says, "for blacks in ghettos, firemen are about the only people who come into the area to really help."

Now 27, Aaron has expanded his dream: he rents fire departments.

Aaron is president of West Coast Fire Service, Inc., a Seattle-based organization which sets up and operates fire departments under contract with commercial and government installations.

"In the space of 30 to 90 days we could establish a 200-man fire department anywhere in the world," Aaron says.

The company, founded last June, operates a 21-man fire team for the Atomic Energy Commission in Amchitka Island in Alaska's Aleutian chain, its only contract so far. Amchitka is an AEC nuclear testing site.

Aaron grew up in a St. Louis Ghetto with "welfare checks and all," he says, until he joined the Marines. Then while working for the Amchitka Fire Department for 18 months under a minority hiring program, he decided he could provide the service better than his employers. So, with personal savings, bank capital and a group of fire protection experts for a board of directors, Aron started renting.

Many people, Aaron believes, went out on a limb to support the company because it represented black capitalism.

However, race is not the major factor in the company's hiring and training programs, Aaron says. The training program, he says, is geared more to disadvantaged persons, those with limitations in their education, economic, or cultural backgrounds.

"If an individual demonstrates leadership qualities and aptitude, even if he has a limited educational background, he deserves the chance to try," Aaron says.

After graduating from college, Aaron joined the Seattle Urban League, a minority-aid organization. The league later participated in the company's training and hiring programs, but Aron doesn't think minority hiring requirements such as those set by the federal government should be enforced rigidly.

"If I hire an unemployed Virginia miner who has five kids to support," Aaron says, "I think I'm doing just as much good as if I'd hired a ghetto dropout with no dependants."

The company operates the Amchitka department under a $550,000 yearly contract. Aaron says he thinks it is the first time that the AEC has subcontracted with a company specializing in fire prevention. Previously, he says, the AEC contracted with one firm to operate the entire installation. The company in turn would develop its own fire department as part of the total operation, he says.

The company currently offers fire risk analysis and consultation, control program developments, control system design, equipment specifications, fire-fighting teams, and inspection and consultation programs.

Aaron said the company is considering offering a fire insurance rating service. About every five years cities are rated to evaluate fire fighting capabilities and the extent of fire insurance carried by citizens.

Aaron says the company is succeeding. All you need, he says, is "contacts with the right people, luck, and intestinal fortitude from beginning to end."

Birds need great amounts of food. Young starlings sometimes devour their own weight of insects and berries in a day. After one meal a flicker's stomach was found to contain 5,040 ants. A bobwhite's held 10,000 pigweed seeds.

Celibacy Rule Has Been Disaster

LONDON (AP) — The Roman Catholic rule of celibacy for priests has denied it many eminent men and women like those who have enjoyed from the families of Protestant clergy, says the latest issue of Britain's Congregational Monthly. Remarking that an investigation early this century showed nearly one in 12 among distinguished Americans had come from clergy families, the writer mentioned some prominent Britons, including Sir Francis Drake, Adm. Horatio Nelson, novelist Jane Austen, artist Sir Joshua Reynolds, architect Sir Christopher Wren and Field Marshal Lord Montgomery. "From this point of view, the Roman Catholic celibacy rule has been a disaster in the story of the race," the Congregational Monthly commented.

Mullins Is Youngest Bishop

CARDIFF, Wales (AP) — Msgr. Daniel Joseph Mullins, a Welsh-speaking Irishman, has been appointed Auxiliary Bishop in the Roman Catholic archdiocese of Cardiff. Msgr. Mullins, 40, is a Welsh scholar who was a member of an episcopal commission which made a Welsh language translation of the Bible. He is the youngest Roman Catholic bishop in England and Wales.

BUSINESS and INDUSTRIAL NEWS

SAFE, SECURE VAULT — Shelby Coker, manager of Highland Park Cleaners, 3803 Avenue S, places a valuable fur coat into the cold vault. The temperature and humidity control panel is checked daily so that the best possible atmosphere is provided for clothing stored in the certified, bonded vault. For quality cleaning or prompt attention to any of your cleaning needs, just dail 573-7261.

Highland Park Cleaners' Bond Vault Protects Furs

Highland Park Cleaners, 3803 Avenue S, is a popular place this time of year because of its certified, bonded cold vault storage facilities.

Many local residents have discovered over the years that clothing placed in Highland Park's vault will be fresh and just like new when it's taken out again next fall. Furs and wedding dresses, especially, should be stored with care. Moths and other hazards pose special problems for fur coats when stored away in warm houses. That's why most people prefer to use the cold vault facilities at Highland Park Cleaners. The vault has a special control panel that governs the humidity and temperature inside. And it's checked daily so that the best possible atmosphere is provided for furs, woolens or fur covered clothing. It doesn't make any difference how hot it gets outside, the storage vault at Highland Park Cleaners is maintained at the right temperature for clothing all the time. Anything stored in the vault is insured against theft.

Shelby Coker, manager of Highland Park Cleaners, invites inquiries concerning the vault storage or inspection of the vault itself.

You can be sure that any clothing you entrust to the experienced personnel at Highland Park Cleaners will be treated with care. With the latest equipment and their special knowledge, they can dry clothing at lower temperatures, keep shrinkage to a bare minimum, and prevent stains from being set into the fabric.

People who store furs and woolens and other valuable clothing at Highland Park Cleaners also know that the cleaning will be of the best possible quality.

US Farm Exports Drop

By DILLON GRAHAM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the third consecutive year, American agricultural producers' income from the sale of farm products to the European Community has fallen.

The Agriculture Department said exports went from a 1966 high of $1.564 billion to $1.268 billion in calendar year 1969.

Sales of commodities subject to variable levies dropped progressively from $641.9 million in 1966 to $339.5 million in 1969.

Sales of commodities not subject to the European Communities variable levies, on the other hand, increased from $922.2 million to $929 million in the same period.

The variable-levy system imposed on selected imported commodities is basically the difference between the import price and the target price set on the EC market. High support prices had encouraged the rapid growth in EC production of dairy products, poultry, wheat, sugar and feed grains.

American exports which fall under the variable levies are feed grains, rice, rye, wheat and wheat flour, meats—beef, veal and pork—lard for food purposes, dairy products and poultry and eggs.

Exports of corn, grain sorghums, and wheat, fell substantially. Corn fell from $340.2 million in 1966 to $219 million in 1969. Grain sorghum amounted to $82.3 million in 1966, but dropped by $76.5 million by 1969. Wheat sales were down by $49.8 million to $56.1 million in the same three-year-period.

Food Stamps Arrive By Mail

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says there have been very few losses of food stamps being distributed by mail.

State agencies were at first reluctant to use the mails for food stamps because they did not want to assume the risk of loss. However, two years ago the Agriculture Department's Food and Nutrition Service assumed responsibility for losses.

Qualified food stamp users get a money order or cashier's check for the amount of purchase required and mail it to the county or city issuance office. This office mails the food stamps to the household.

Mail issuance helps the elderly, the disabled, those who live long distances from the issuance offices, and those who cannot go to the issuance office because they cannot get timeoff from their jobs.

Food stamps do not have to be sent by certified mail. They can be sent first-class.

Marine's Death To Be Probed

LAKE WORTH, Fla. (AP) — For four years George Girot was 4-F in the draft with a rheumatic heart and a crippled hand. Twelve days after he received a 1-A rating in a new physical examination he dropped dead of a heart attack at a Marine Corps boot camp.

Girot, a Marine for six days, was to be buried today.

The handsome 22-year-old youth joined the Marines after he voluntarily took the new physical, passed it and became eligible for the draft.

His mother, Elizabeth Girot, said he took the examination after four years of being unfit for military service. He wanted to learn a trade and figured the Marines would give him the best chance.

He did not detail his medical history on Marine forms at the Parris Island, S.C., training camp, authorities said.

His death has sparked an investigation by Rep. Paul G. Rogers, D-Fla.

"Something like this should not happen again," Rogers said.

Girot became 1-A April 17. He then enlisted, and shipped out for boot camp April 24.

"He told me he wanted to go into the Marine Corps rather than be drafted," his widowed mother said. "He couldn't do many push-ups, he couldn't even jog around the block without getting out of breath."

The young soldier spent his first three days at Parris Island in routine processing. Last Wednesday was his first day of basic training, and he did push-ups and sit-ups with the rest of his training company.

On the way back to his barracks he collapsed and died despite mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and heart massage, the Marine Corps said.

Mrs. Girot said she later received a letter from her son, mailed the day before he died in which he complained of feeling sick when he participated in regular morning drills.

"When he complained, he was told to get back in line," she said. "All they want is a warm body. They don't listen to the kids today. We can't bring Georgie back, but maybe we can save some other boys."

Capt. M. R. Arnold, a Marine spokesman at Parris Island, said the husky youth had not complained about his treatment and had not mentioned his disabilities.

Ben Taub Hospital Sets Expansion

HOUSTON (AP) — Ben Taub General Hospital which gets most of the emergency cases in Houston, will expand and modernize its medical facilities.

Pat McDowell, chairman of the Harris County Hospital District, said the $75,000 modernization will add an 11-bed holding area and two new X-ray rooms.

MR. AND MISS LAMAR — Fred Liner and Penny Jones were named Mr. and Miss Lamar at the annual school banquet, held Saturday night at the high school cafeteria. She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. N. Jones, 2808 Thirty-fifth Street and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Liner, 4105 Denison.
