Only Big George Earnshaw Is Standing As Threat Against Championship Hopes; Resume Play In St. Louis

By ALAN GOULD

SHIBE PARK, PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7.—The "Wild Horse of the Osage," Pepper Martin, collaborated again today with the "Wild Will of the pitching peaks," Bill Hallahan, to baffle the Athletics, perch victory atop the National league banner and put the Cardinals within one game of the world baseball championship.

The Cardinals romped easily to triumph in the fifth game of the series, 5 to 1, as Hallahan posted his second straight victory over the world champions and Martin continued on the wildest batting rampage in the history of baseball's annual big show.

George Main Worry

It gave the Red Birds the lead, three games to two, an advantage enjoyed by the National league's forces for the first time in seven years. The Cardinals, now in command, with only the great George Earnshaw to do much worrying about, return to their home grounds with two chances to capture the fourth and deciding contest. The sixth game is scheduled Friday at St. Louis and the seventh, if necessary, on Saturday.

The smartest piece of strategy since the series opened, the elevation of the sensational Pepper Martin to the cleanup position in the Cardinal batting order in place of Sunny Jim Bottomley, was crowned with results of the gaudiest variety

Right-Of-Way For Highway 137 Considered By Court

Work of obtaining additional right-of-way for highway 137 is progressing satisfactorily, County Attorney Vaughn E. Wilson reported Wednesday.

While three suits condemning property have been filed in the last two months, only one remains on the court docket, he said. The other two were settled satisfactorily by juries of view. A jury of view was empaneled Wednesday to take up matters pertaining to the right-of-way, according to the county attorney.

Fall Seeks To Obtain Parole From Sentence

Former Interior Secretary Is Seeking Liberty From State Prison; Eligibility Is In Effect November 22

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Albert B. Fall today sought to regain the freedom which he was deprived after being convicted of accepting a bribe as secretary of the interior.

The former cabinet officer applied to the justice department for a parole. He is serving a year and a day in the New Mexico state prison and will be eligible for parole November 22.

Sentence Imposed

Fall's prison term and a $100,000 fine were imposed after a jury in the District of Columbia supreme court had decided the $100,000 which he received from Edward L. Doheny was a bribe. The former cabinet member had contended it was a loan.

Subsequent to the transfer of the money, Fall as secretary of the interior, existed a lease on the Elk Hills California naval petroleum reserves to Doheny's Pan-American Petroleum company. Doheny, brought to trial separately, was acquitted of the bribery charge.

Made Every Effort

Fall's attorneys exhausted every legal resort in an effort to prevent their client serving the prison sentence, appealing the case finally to the supreme court, which declined to review it.

An application for a pardon, signed by members of the New Mexico congressional delegation and of the

Mass Meeting Of Farmers Is Called For Oct. 10 At Anton

LITTLEFIELD, Oct. 7. (Special)—The farmers in this section have issued a call for a mass meeting of farmers of Lamb, Hockley and Hale county at Anton, Saturday, October 10, to discuss plans for obtaining a better price for cotton seed and a lower price for ginning cotton.

The farmers in this territory are of the opinion that the present price of cotton seed is ruinous and they think concerted action can bring about better prices. An effort will be made at the meeting to set 20 cents per hundred as the standard price for ginning.

Tulsa Carpenter-Contractor Claims Big Fortune Left By Thomas Lipton

(By The Associated Press)

TULSA, Oct. 7.—A Tulsa carpenter-contractor, now jobless, has laid claim to the fortune of the late Sir Thomas Lipton, estimated at one million pounds Sterling and has engaged a firm of attorneys to press his allegations of kinship.

The Tulsan is Thomas Paul Lipton, about 40, who says he was a second cousin of Sir Thomas, his grandfather and Sir Thomas' father having been cousins.

Lipton, found today by a representative of the Associated Press at his apartment home, a small flat in East Tulsa, said the family documents to substantiate his claim were destroyed in the San Francisco earthquake, and efforts he had made over a long period of years to communicate directly had been futile.

"My letters to Sir Thomas never got past his secretary," Lipton said, "and always were answered by the secretary. Everytime he would write me that Sir Thomas was in the East Indies or in Ceylon or somewhere."

Mother Of Slain Singer Weeps On Witness Stand

Events Leading Up To Finding Of Body In Seaweed Grave Described By Witnesses

By WILLIAM S. WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer

SINTON, Oct. 7.—The mother of Dorothy Dorcas Symons, whose body was found in a seaweed grave two days after she had disappeared from home, testified late today as a state witness in the murder trial of Newton Yarberry, accused slayer of the 18 year old choir singer.

Mrs. Symons, slight and haggard, was dressed in black. She wept occasionally throughout her testimony.

Kissed Her Goodbye

"When did you last see Dorothy alive?" the prosecution asked.

"On Thursday evening, July 30, she came home and got ready to go to choir practice. She came in and kissed me and her daddy good bye. That was the last I ever saw of her," Mrs. Symons replied.

The prosecution contends Miss Symons had an engagement to go swimming with Yarberry on the night of her disappearance, and was later seen with her.

Fear Is Told

The mother testified she began to fear "something had happened" when her daughter did not return home from choir practice. She said Yarberry described her daughter's disappearance as a "fine mess" and said if she was not found in "six or seven days" he would "go hunt her."

"I thought," Mrs. Symons added, "he's giving himself plenty of time."

Symons Is Heard

Mrs. Symons was on the stand when court was adjourned.

Symons, stepfather of Dorothy, preceded his wife on the stand. He testified as to "dates" Dorothy had with Yarberry. On cross-examination counsel for the defense sought to bring out that he had expressed "strenuous opposition" to the autopsy on the body when it was found. Symons said he would not have objected had it been "done in the right way."

Idalou Youths Arrested Here

Signed Statements Telling Of Theft Of Cattle Are Made; Each Animal Sold To Local Slaughter House

Three Idalou youths, ranging from 17 to 20 years of age, were arrested Wednesday night in connection with the theft of four heads of cattle from the ranch of a Mr. Beard, near Petersburg.

Signed statements admiting the thefts were made by the youths upon their arrest, city police said. Two were arrested in Lubbock by police. The third member of the group was taken into custody at Idalou by Deputy Sheriff Joe Rieger and Motorcycle Officer C. E. Luce.

Stolen Tuesday

The suspects told officers three of the cows were stolen Tuesday night. The other was taken Monday night. All were sold to a Lubbock packing house and were butchered Wednesday, officers said. The animals' hides were identified late yesterday as coming from Beard's ranch.

One of the youths was arrested Tuesday night by police on a traffic charge. He is believed to have gone directly to Petersburg after being released from the police station shortly after 10:30 o'clock.

Resignation Of Germany's Entire Cabinet Announced

BERLIN, Oct. 7. (AP)—Chancellor Heinrich Bruening got rid of his entire cabinet today and immediately undertook the formation of a new government that will rule Germany under a virtual dictatorship.

The resignations of the complete ministry were submitted by the chancellor to Paul Von Hindenburg, the nation's stern old warrior president, and Herr Bruening straightway was commissioned to form a cabinet whose members will be able to withstand nationalist and national socialist attacks when the reichstag reconvenes next Tuesday.

Modern '49er Has Leisurely Tour On Hand

'Cowhand' Not After Record Or Prize

BY CHARLES P. MILLER
Avalanche Staff Writer

WHILE experts congregated in conferences discussing the plight of the "common people," J. B. Muse, 50-year-old "cowhand" of New Mexico, California and other parts of the United States, has been "leisurely traveling about a bit to find out just how bad conditions really are."

Driving a span of playful Missouri mules, Muse pulled up in front of Lubbock's only wagon yard late yesterday afternoon, hopped out of his old fashioned hack and announced he was "going to see how Toby and Kit were makin' out before he run on out to the west coast." The arrival here marked the end of the first part of Muse's jaunt from Joplin, Mo., to Los Angeles in his two-mule powered vehicle.

"Good Critters"

Toby and Kit are "two good critters" Muse picked up at Joplin to pull him across the western part of the United States.

"Seems rather odd that I should have chosen such a rig to make the trip in, especially when I have a good automobile in New Mexico, but I wanted some sort of an arrangement so I could take my time, stop and chat with the farmers at the turn rows, pull to a gin and get the ginners' views of this depression," the veteran range rider said. "Then too, it's been a long time since I camped out and I sure get a kick out of it.

Had Stored Hack

"I bought the hack up in Missouri about 13 years ago, because it struck my fancy. I was traveling in an automobile then and couldn't very well take the rig back to New Mexico, so I stored it. A few weeks ago I decided I ought to get some ben-

Twister Strikes Near Rotan Area

ROTAN, Oct. 7. (AP) — A twister that struck two miles north of here at 5 o'clock this afternoon demolished a one-room house and injured one of nine occupants, Mrs. Ernest Upshaw, mother of a one-day old baby. The woman is suffering from shock, a lacerated arm and bruises.

The baby, its father and three other children, and three neighbors were uninjured.

The twister did damage in only a small area. The house was splintered and scattered for half a mile, and trees in the path of the storm were uprooted. No other material damage was reported.

Baptist Minister Is Slain At Home; Man Is Being Held

DENISON, Oct. 7. (AP)—Rev. G. R. G. Russell, 58-year-old Baptist minister, was slain at his home two miles west of Gunter yesterday. Frank Reece filed a charge of murder against Ed. F. Barnett, 21, who surrendered immediately after the shooting.

The estranged wife of Barnett had been living with Rev. and Mrs. Russell. Sheriff Reece learned that Barnett had gone to the parsonage and requested his wife to go with him to Houston. When she refused, Barnett allegedly drew a pistol and shot Reverend Russell.

Chamber Of Commerce Action Urged At Gathering In Waco

WACO, Oct. 7. (AP)—A resolution, calling on all cotton market centers in the state to take steps through their chambers of commerce to provide the necessary machinery to permit farmers to hold their 1931 cotton crop, was adopted at a state wide cotton meeting here today. The session was called by J. E. McDonald, state agricultural commissioner.

Attorneys For Two Sides Hold Forth In Long Argument On Question Of Admissability Of Certain Evidence

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Oct. 7.—Testimony in the impeachment trial of District Judge J. B. Price of Bastrop started in the Texas senate late today after attorneys wrangled for hours over the question of admissability of certain evidence.

A long recess was taken early in the afternoon while attorneys and other interested parties conferred on the possibility of agreeing to a compromise that would have terminated the trial.

Suggestion Rejected

It was understood a suggestion that Judge Price surrender his office if the impeachment trial be not prosecuted was rejected by the veteran jurist himself.

Arguments, engaged in by R. L. Batts and former Governor Dan Moody for the respondent and Grady Sturgeon, assistant attorney general assisting the house managers in presenting their case, were

Fort Worth Major Elected As Confederates End Meet

FORT WORTH, Oct. 7 (AP)—Texas confederates held forth in hectic session this afternoon before they closed their annual state reunion with the re-election of Major M. J. Bonner Fort Worth, to the commandership and selection of Corpus Christi as their next meeting place.

The thin, stooped, gray bearded old veterans who had stood with one accord earlier in the day in a pledge to "re-assemble every year as long as there are three of us alive," grew nervous, irritable and fatigued as the session wore on. They agreed on little else than the election of Major Bonner during the whole afternoon and that was preceded by a near battle over some parliamentary phase of the nomination.

Dawson And Lynn Farmers In Meetings; Pledge Support

Two hundred and fifty farmers of Dawson and Lynn counties, in meetings held in Lamesa and Tahoka Wednesday afternoon and evening, passed resolutions by unanimous vote pledging continued support of the Federal Farm Board, the Agricultural Marketing Act and the Texas Cotton Cooperative Association.

The meetings were held under sponsorship of the cooperative association, the principal address being made by B. S. Burgess, field service director. Burgess urged farmers to hold their cotton, either by pooling it in the various pools of the association, in warehouses or keeping it on their farms. He stated that for farmers to "give cotton at present price levels will mean bankruptcy to farmers and business editors alike.

President Hoover And Others Receive Three Bulletins On Condition Daily; Messages Are Being Received

(By Associated Press)

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 7.—Thomas A. Edison was described today by his physician, Dr. Hubert S. Howe, as mostly in a semi-conscious state preceding a coma from which he would not emerge.

A bulletin issued late this afternoon by Charles Edison, a son said: "In spite of the fact that Mr. Edison's heart is standing the strain of his illness unexpectedly well, it is felt that he is losing ground. He seemed weaker this afternoon than this morning. No immediate emergency is expected, however."

Is Much Weaker

Dr. Howe said the snowy-haired inventor was much weaker and could not sit without support.

As Mr. Edison's strength failed, the number of inquiries about his condition increased. From all parts of the world messages of solicitude were received.

President Hoover, through Lawrence Richey of the White House secretariat, telephoned the Edison home this morning to ask for the Simple Ceremony Marks Final Tribute To Dwight Morrow; Mrs. Morrow Drops Earth As Casket Is Lowered

(By The Associated Press)

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., Oct. 7. — Senator Dwight W. Morrow was buried today after a funeral service as free from pomp as his rank in the nation would permit.

His family, notables of the government, and friends and neighbors filled the First Presbyterian church to honor the memory of the man who four years ago turned from a position high in the financial world to become a leader in American diplomatic circles.

Crowds Gather

A large crowd at the church doors, filling the streets and lawns. Except for the confusion in the streets, with which more than 40 policemen labored, the rites were as the family had planned them, simple, dignified.

There was only a prayer at the cemetery. Mrs. Morrow dropped earth on the casket as it was lowered into the ground. The other members of the family stood by. Dr. Carl H. Elmore, pastor of the church which the Morrows had attended 26 years, conducted the service.

Jury To Try Thomas Ball In Houston Is Completed

HOUSTON, Oct. 7. (AP)—The jury to try Thomas H. Ball, venerable Houston barrister, civic leader and veteran of many stirring state political campaigns, on a charge of felony theft of three warrants for a total of $222,822.76 from the navigation district, was completed in district court here late today.

Immediately after the jury had been completed an indictment returned against the 72 year old defendant who has long been called the "Father of the Port of Houston," was read. Ball formerly was congressman from this district and

Rehearing For McKee Refused By High Court

Convicted Dawson Slayer Must Pay For Crime In Electric Chair; Date For Execution Has Not Been Set

Unless executive clemency is granted, Ira McKee, former Ballinger man, who was found guilty of the murder of W. R. Billingsley, a Sparenberg merchant, must die in the electric chair.

The state court of criminal appeals Wednesday overruled McKee's motion for a rehearing. The court denied McKee's appeal from a Dawson county jury's verdict last April. McKee was convicted of murder in June, 1930. After hearing testimony for several days, the jury required only seven minutes to find a verdict.

Shot After Robbery

Billingsley was shot several times by a man who was attempting to make his getaway after robbing the filling station and cafe owned by Mrs. Mary Bryce and her son. The daughter of the family, just about to enter the cafe, saw her mother and brother standing with uplifted hands while an armed man was taking what money she had. Hurriedly, the girl crossed the street and warned Billingsley of the robbery. He grabbed shotgun and started across the street, arriving at the front of the place as the bandit was about to emerge. The bandit struck him down with a bullet and then fired others into the man's body.

McKee was captured after an extended chase through West Texas after evidence had connected him with the Dawson county visit.

The date for McKee's execution has not been set, it was said last night.

Fourteen Are Injured When Rioters Sweep Manchester

MANCHESTER, England, Oct. 7. (AP)—Repulsed while storming city hall today, a mob of unemployed demonstrators adopted the "passive resistance" tactics of Mahatma Gandhi's followers by sitting on their haunches in the streets and refusing to budge.

Police changed their minds, and after half an hour of rioting, during which 14 persons were injured and several were arrested, order was restored.

Oversubscription Of Funds In Chest Drives Reported

NEW YORK, Oct. 7. (AP)—Oversubscription of $125,000 or 9.8 per cent, for community chests in six cities were reported today by Owen D. Young, chairman of the committee on mobilization of relief resources of President Hoover's organization on unemployment relief.

"These are great examples to set the cities whose campaigns are to come," Young said.

"He's Always Been A Hero To Me," "Mrs. Pepper" Sobs Through Tears

(By The Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7. — When Pepper Martin connected for his home run today a woman in the boxes cried while the rest of the multitude rose and cheered. The woman was Mrs. Martin, wife of the series hero. She always cries, she said, every time her now famous husband gains glory.

"He's always been a hero to me," she said. "When we were in grammar school I stood on a soap box to cheer his baseball work. Now when the crowd starts cheering him my eyes get misty. I just can't help it."

Two days after Mrs. Martin became of age she and Pepper ran away and got married. Her parents had her finish school when she returned from the honeymoon.

"When this series is over we're going to get somebody to care for our baby and go deer hunting in New Mexico," she said.

International Moratorium Is Occupying Center Of Stage As Opposition To Extension Looms Stronger

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7—The $500,000,000 credit corporation proposed by President Hoover to free penned-up assets is expected by federal officials soon to be functioning.

While New York bankers today worked out details of the plan with a view to having it in shape by the end of this week, treasury officials expressed confidence of success.

Governor George L. Harrison, of the New York federal reserve banks late this afternoon announced the personnel of a committee to work out the president's proposal, headed by Mortimer N. Buckner, president of the New York Clearing House association.

Members Named

Other members are Pharlest McCain, chairman of the board of the Chase National bank; Harry E. Ward, president of the Irving Trust company; George W. Davison, president of Central Hanover Bank and Trust company; Herbert S. Howell, president of Commercial National Bank and Trust company and Gordon F. Rentschler, president of National City bank.

It was pointed out that the program for mobilizing the gigantic credit pool was not only designed to strengthen the banking structure of the nation, but to break down the false apprehensions which have hindered the normal operation of thousands of perfectly sound banks.

Bank Heads Set Up A Framework

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 (AP)—Heads of the country's most powerful banks hastened today to set up the framework of a $500,000,000 corporation—and possibly it will be larger—for the purpose of thawing out frozen bank credit.

Needlework, Games Of Bridge And Programs Hold Interest

Hallowe'en Motif Is Clever Feature At Club Meeting; Mrs. J. E. Hamilton Speaker On Two Occasions

Needlework was a diversion, and programs for the installation of officers in Sunday school classes were heard at informal meetings of local groups Wednesday afternoon. Young women in a college club entertained with their first fall party. A number of other events have been scheduled for the next few days.

An autumn bridge supper was given by members of the D. F. D. club, social organization on Tech campus, Wednesday evening at their club house at 2347 19th street.

Autumn colors were combined with club colors of maize and blue in decorating the entertaining rooms and in bridge appointments.

Guests were Misses Hazel Price, Claudine Moore, Willie Mae Reynolds, Pauline Warren, Nancy Favor, Jerry Durham, Maurine Cook, Martha Alice Penney, Dorothy Hall, Ada Mae and Melba Gilbert and the sponsor, Miss Annah Jo Pendleton.

Club members present were Misses Rhoda Lou Clark, Ruth Sparks, Louise Sneed, Azora Adams, Leona Rodden, Mildred Price, Kathleen Harmon, Fay Foote, Edith Sanders, of Anton and Mrs. Leland Mast.

The Hallowe'en motif was featured in favors given at the party attended by L'Aiquillee Needle club members in the home of Mrs. T. W. Keys, 2341 19th street.

Mrs. M. L. Keys was a guest and members present were Mesdames Earl Ellison, William Von Wolff, J. W. Philips, H. A. Welmaker, T. L. Biggs, H. T. Wilkins and V. O. Jennings.

Mrs. Sparks Presides

Mrs. Fred Sparks, recently elected president of the First Baptist T. E. L. class, presided for the business session which opened the monthly meeting of the class in the home of Mrs. J. I. Noah, 916 Avenue R. Wednesday afternoon.

Joint hostesses with Mrs. Noah were Mesdames J. A. Barton, D. R. Couch, Pearl Carlisle, Carl Roberds and Tom Heddings.

Mrs. J. E. Hamilton talked on the duties of officers of organized classes and during the afternoon Miss Hilma Bartlett gave a reading.

Those present were Mesdames B. T. Summer, R. O. Rogers, J. K. Miller, Sparks, J. W. Grady, C. P. Cox, J. D. Carnett, E. L. Law, C. A. Benton, Otis Taylor, E. O. Smith, H. O. Waters, Mary McComb, Alice Pool, W. A. Terrell, J. B. Jackson, W. W. Ray, Amy Reed, Fanny Cotner and Miss Bartlett.

Meet In Nislar Home

Officers of the Women's class in the First Christian Sunday school, who were elected last Sunday, met in the home of Mrs. J. N. Nislar, 2105 Broadway, Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. H. W. Moore is president of the class; Mrs. E. O. Bagenstos and Mrs. Y. J. Aiken, first and second vice-presidents, respectively; Mrs. R. P. Johnson is secretary; Mrs. F. O. Kelly, treasurer; Mrs. J. F. Abel is honor roll secretary; Mrs. D. W. Robertson, pianist and Mrs. Walter P. Jennings, teacher.

Other officers present were Mesdames L. W. Squyres, J. O. Ballinger, J. H. Hackfield, Alfred Scott, George McCarty, J. A. Hodges, Paul Morgan, Charles Files, C. A. Nowlin, Beatrice Hendrick and J. F. Gregory.

Following the business session, the hostess served a light refreshment course.

Blouses Play Important Role In Winter Fashion Role

Left, white chiffon blouse with soutache; center white angel skin blouse; right, white crepe de chine trimmed with pleats.

By LUCIEN LeLONG
(Special Cable to Central Press)

PARIS.—Blouses play an important role in the new fall and winter mode, for though the tailored suit, in the strictest sense of the term, is somewhat in abeyance, ensembles consisting of skirt, blouse and wrap are much worn both for morning and afternoon.

I favor tunic blouses almost exclusively, for this form lends itself most harmoniously to my new elongated silhouette, elongated not only regarding length of limb as was often the case last season, but giving a high, slender line to the whole figure. The tuck-in blouse, particularly when it contrasts with the skirt, divides the figure into too short a space above the waistline.

My new tunic blouses, then, end in the neighborhood of the hip bones, sometimes at rifle lower; they are slenderly cut and the waist line is defined by a belt of the same fabric or by some sort of subtle fitting or draping.

These blouses are exclusively simple and at the same time very feminine in feeling. They are practically all whit, being in crepe de chine or romaine when they accompany the simpler type of costume, and in satin, faconne, silk, chiffon, etc., for afternoon. Many of them are in the new fabrics that are all-over tucks or that give an effect of being so.

Beaded Blouse Avoids Fussiness

Some of my dressy blouses for young girls are of white-beaded chiffon, but the simplicity of line and the discretion with which the beading is placed avoid, I feel, any suggestion of fussiness.

I am featuring a new type of blouse, also, in my late afternoon ensembles—a blouse cut with rather loose kimono sleeves, a slightly draped neckline just covering the base of the throat, and a left side closing caught together at one or two points by small white camellias.

The most different characteristic of these new blouses is that they drape and tie into a sash at the left side of the waistline, thus extending a little over the top of the skirt of black crepe or chiffon with which they are worn, giving the effect of a gown rather than a waist and skirt, though using a contrast of color or fabric.

I have developed these over-blouses in white faconne silk or satin as well as in black velvet. The resultant ensemble, with a knee-length velvet coat, is quite dressy enough for the most formal occasion, though retaining a character of great simplicity.

Youthful Queen Will Be Crowned As Opening Of Tech Aggie Rodeo Is Staged Friday; Contests Open To Students

BUCKING horses, bawling calves, and youthful riders and ropers will appear in an arena on the Texas Technological college campus Friday and Saturday afternoons in the 1931 Aggie rodeo.

Coronation of Miss Virginia Wester, 16, a graduate of Las Vegas High school and a freshman in agriculture, as la Reina del Rodeo will open the two-day event at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon. B. E. Snyder, rodeo manager, of Moran, has announced.

A mounted parade of contestants, steer riding, calf roping, and broncho riding will be conducted each day. The three events are open to individual students. A women's riding contest, open to students in college riding classes, will be held each day. Liberal arts and engineering teams will meet in a musical chair contest Friday, a mounted wrestling match and a quick change race Saturday.

Saturday afternoon's program will be preceded by a parade of performers through the downtown district and will begin at 2:30 o'clock with a parade of college livestock in the arena.

More than 3,000,000 "dead letters" mailed in 1925 and 1926 have just been burned in huge bonfires by the French government, which has issued a special appeal to writers to be more careful in addressing their correspondence.

This play will be presented in Abernathy on October 16 and later in Lubbock.

ROASTING PROCESS HAS ACCURACY OF ANCIENT TIMEPIECE

Hour-glass and Hills Bros.' Method of Roasting Coffee Operate a Little at a Time

It is fascinating to watch an hour-glass flowing evenly, continuously, a little at a time. But the flavor of coffee that's roasted continuously, a little at a time, is even more fascinating!

Controlled Roasting—Hills Bros.' patented process—is the only such roasting method. As the accuracy of the hour-glass depends upon an even, continuous flow . . . a little at a time . . . so the marvelous flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee is produced by this patented process that roasts evenly, continuously . . . a little at a time.

There is a vast difference between Controlled Roasting and ordinary bulk-roasting methods. There is a vast difference in results too! Controlled Roasting flawlessly completes the work that Nature began in the coffee-berry. It develops the flavor perfectly! You have never tasted the like, if you have never tasted Hills Bros. Coffee.

Remember also that this coffee never varies in flavor. And it is always fresh! Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is removed and kept out of Hills Bros.' vacuum cans. Ordinary, "air-tight" cans won't keep coffee fresh. Order Hills Bros. Coffee today. Ask for it by name, and look for the Arab trademark on the can.

Club Meets To Name Officers

Mrs. Henry Ross Is President Of Wolffarth Organization To Succeed Mrs. O. F. Corley After Election

Officers were elected Tuesday afternoon at a meeting of the Wolffarth Home Demonstration club in the home of Mrs. D. C. Beebe. They are as follows:

President, Mrs. Henry Ross; vice-president, Mrs. B. Landers; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. F. J. Stryker; parliamentarian, Mrs. Ed Schroeder.

Out-going officers who had served the time limit of two years were Mrs. O. F. Corley, president; Mrs. W. H. Dickson, vice-president; Mrs. W. N. Gates, secretary-treasurer.

Miss Ruth Stockton, county home demonstration agent, talked to the club about achievement days to be held in November and served as chairman during the election of officers.

Refreshments were served to Mesdames Landers, Corley, Schroeder, J. D. Fraley, Ross, H. A. Sullivan, Gates, H. A. Williams and Miss Stockton.

City P-T Council Plans Activities

Plans for a mothers' chorus were made when the Lubbock Parent-Teacher council gathered in the music auditorium at the Senior High school building Tuesday afternoon.

J. C. Brown, dean of men at Lubbock High school, talked on his work with the boys in the institution.

Mrs. Paul Barrier is chairman of arrangements for the chorus and Mrs. W. P. Clements is to be the director.

Program Is Heard When O. E. S. Meets

A program followed a business session when between 35 and 40 members of the Lubbock Eastern Star chapter attended a meeting Tuesday evening at the Masonic hall. Miss Violet Favor gave several tap dances and Miss Virginia Robertson played piano selections and sang. There was a general sing-song by all who attended.

Unlike other members of the deer tribe, both sexes of the Barren Ground Caribou have horns, although the horns of the female are shorter than the males'.

Employment Is Being Assured

General Electric Company To Inaugurate Plan Believed Destined To Materially Aid All Employes

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Oct. 7.(AP) A plan which virtually will guarantee six months employment beginning Nov. 1 has been offered to shop employes of General Electric Co., Gerard Swope, president, has announced.

The new proposal, which is called a "plan to prevent further layoffs for lack of work," is to be voted on by employes of the company who are members of the General Electric unemployment pension plan, which embraces the great majority of shop employes of the company.

As described by Mr. Swope, the plan is "to so divide the work that there will be no further layoffs for lack of work between Nov. 1, 1931, and April 30, 1932 with compensation; and that all those on the payroll Nov. 1, 1931, will receive during this period not less than the equivalent of one-half of their average weekly earnings for full time, but in no case more than an average of $15 a week. If actual earnings are above that average, however, the employe is to receive his actual earnings."

A three-fold method has been proposed to insure this result. Employes are to be assigned work outside their regular work, if necessary, at the prevailing rates of pay for such work.

The unemployment emergency fund, which has been operating since Dec. 1, 1930, is to be augmented by increasing the contributions of one per cent of earnings now being made by all employes who are working more than half time to 2 per cent, the company increasing its own contributions to match those of the men. This increased fund may then be drawn upon by employes "under the present provisions."

Finally, if these two methods are inadequate, the board of directors of the company will be asked to authorize additional payments by the company to the unemployment emergency fund, without increasing the employes' contributions to the fund.

Bright Spots In Nation

RETAIL TRADE UP

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP)—Fall retail trade and the farm board's wheat sale to China supplied bright spots today in the spectrum of business and employment reported weekly to President Hoover's relief organization.

In Philadelphia, general business improved 5 per cent above the usual September seasonal increase. Employment was better in many stores and "any improvement is looked for."

Retailers were helping in Pittsburgh, Wilmington, Delaware, Norfolk, Virginia, Atlanta, Birmingham, New Orleans, Memphis, Chicago and Minneapolis.

Seattle and Portland, Oregon, found the 15,000,000 bushels of wheat sold route to China stimulated the milling business, shippers and related trade.

CHECKS MAILED

ABILENE, Oct. 7 (AP) — Checks amounting to $116,790 have been placed in the mails, directed to holders of regular $6 cumulative preferred stock of the West Texas Utilities company, it was announced from the general offices of the company here.

The board of directors authorized payment of $1.50 per share, due October 1 to holders of record on September 15. It was the fourth $1.50 dividend authorization of the year on this class of stock, making total payments of $6.

"More than one-third of the amount authorized to be paid as of October 1 goes to stockholders in our immediate territory," said Price Campbell, president of the company.

BUSINESSES OPEN

TAHOKA, Oct. 7.—Re-opening of various business houses, closed several months on account of the depression, is said to indicate that better times are slowly returning. The St. Clair hotel has been re-opened by Mrs. H. Davis, Lubbock; a market by E. A. Park; the Club cafe by Cochelle Bros., O'Donnell; the Postoffice cafe; the Tahoka Dry Goods company by G. E. Hogan; and W. L. Knight's bakery.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 7 (AP)—An extensive production program was announced today by Paramount studios as indicating the motion picture industry's faith in an early return to "business normalcy."

Nine picture companies are working now on the stages and eight others are ready to begin this month, it was announced. New York studios are filming two additional features, while the Joinville, France, and Elstree, England, studios are working to capacity on multi-lingual pictures.

The program was said to involve about $2,000,000.

CELLAR FILLED

TAHOKA, Oct. 7.—Though she lives in town and has a limited space for her garden, orchard and chicken pens, Mrs. John Stokes has a cellar filled with home-canned products that looks like a small grocery store. Her industry in making a living at home might be an example for almost any farm family.

The Royal Aero club of England, exclusively a men's club, is to admit women as guests only, and may give them full membership later.

No Charges Are Filed After Arrest In Grocery Robbery

No charges had been filed late Wednesday in connection with the arrest of a man accused of stealing two cartons of tinned pipe tobacco from Piggly Wiggly company store No. 1 at 1215 Broadway. The tobacco was recovered by police.

C. L. Goad, 1634 Tenth street, reported to police Wednesday the theft of a four-door Chevrolet sedan from its parking place on Main street and Avenue J.

Albert Holcomb and L. O. Sechrist were returned to Lubbock Tuesday night from Clovis, N. M., to face charges of chicken theft. Sechrist, who first indicated he would fight extradition decided to return voluntarily when a deputy sheriff went after Holcomb, Sheriff Wade Hardy said. Tom Garcia, jointly charged with Holcomb and Sechrist, was arrested at Plainview several weeks ago.

Pioneer Cattleman Injured In Fall; Pinned Under Horse

KNOX CITY, Oct. 7 (AP) — Tom Pickett, pioneer cattleman, was taken to a hospital today with critical injuries. He was pinned under his horse while roping a cow on the Burnett ranch in King county.

The horse fell on him, breaking four ribs and causing serious internal injuries. His left leg was broken.

Pickett has been foreman of the Burnett ranch for the past 30 years. He served as commissioner of King county and as a peace officer at Wichita Falls in the early days.

When the Texas Tech Matadors line up against the Haskell Indians at Dallas next Tuesday, Bennie McWilliams, 200-pound Matador tackle, will face Big Boy Fred (Jug) Miles, 253-pound tackle for the Indians. Miles weighed 348 pounds last year but trained down until he is a mere shadow of his former self. McWilliams has added weight since playing as a freshman regular last season.

Junior High School Gridmen Drop 7-0 Game To Brownfield Junior High Team Yesterday

Coach Mule Davis and his Junior High school Sooners went to Brownfield yesterday and submitted to a 7 to 0 defeat at the hands of the Brownfield Junior high school eleven. Apparently excited and ill at ease, the Sooners fumbled frequently and at considerable cost to themselves. The lone touchdown was scored when Brownfield punted in the second quarter, and Quarterback Robert Allen Hill for Lubbock touched the ball before Brownfield recovered behind the goal line for a tally. The extra point was made on an off-tackle plunge.

Basketball League May Be Organized At Meeting Here

Efforts will be made tonight to organize a semi-pro basketball league on the South Plains when representatives from eight or ten surrounding towns and communities meet at the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce offices at the city hall. The meeting will be called to order at 8 o'clock.

J. R. "Dutch" Leuenberger, popular sportsman of Lubobck, will be present to represent Lubbock in the meeting tonight and is expected to report that Lubboek is ready to organize a team for league play.

Other representatives expected to the meeting tonight are J. O. Payne of Hale Center, Fred Rich of Wolffarth, Coach Earhart of Meadow, Payne Woods of Littlefield, Self of Slaton and Lloyd Evans of Ropes. Representatives from Anton and Shallowater are also expected. Any other towns whose basketball players and fans are interested in the formation of a league are invited to be present.

Meagher Drills Owls Long Preparing For Texas Steers

HOUSTON, Oct. 7. (AP)—Coach Jack Meagher this afternoon drilled his Rice Owls long and hard on fundamentals in preparation for Saturday's game at Austin against the University of Texas.

Rice's vicious tackling last fall largely was responsible for the six to nothing victory over the Longhorns.

Although disappointed at the ragged play of his men last Saturday against Oklahoma, Meagher has not lost faith in his young players. "We have a good football team," Meagher said.

Meagher announced today the entire squad of sixty players would make the trip to Austin.

Rice's chances for victory were bettered when Bert Mueller, stellar halfback, declared he was in good shape. He did not make the Oklahoma trip because of an injured leg.

LITTLE SERIES PROLONGED

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 7. (AP)—St. Paul, American Association champions, prolonged the Little World Series today by defeating the Rochester Redwings, International League titleholders, 9 to 3 in the sixth game. The victory was the Saints' second of the series.

A's Forgot To Scout Pepper; Is That Why?

Mack Intelligence Department Neglected This Pepper Guy And It Looks Bad; Cardinal Staffman Tells About It

BY GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7—If the Philadelphia Athletics are divested of their world baseball supremacy—and that seemed tonight to be the prospect—they can charge it to experience.

Their staff of strategists made only one mistake. Perhaps it was just an oversight, but the fact remains that Connie Mack's intelligence corps slipped up on a very important item when it was drawing plans for the present World Series.

It neglected to scout Pepper Martin.

The fact came out late today in a fanningbee outside the Cardinals' clubhouse. The informant, a member of the Cardinal staff, was having the time of his life telling about it.

Watched Hafey And Jim

"Get this. Those fellows had a scout trailing us for a month before the season closed. Who were they watching? Why, Hafey and Bottomley, of course. They could have told you what time Jim and Chick went to bed every night. But did they give this Pepper a tumble? No, sir. He was just a rookie, and what did they care about him? Boy, oh, boy, how they've learned to care!

"They haven't the least idea what to throw him and he has them in the hole every time he comes up. They don't know whether he's going to hit one a mile or bunt one down the line. What a ball player!"

Philadelphia Agrees

That seemed to be the consensus in Philadelphia tonight. From the bleacherites, who took this dashing blade from the derrick country to their hearts the first day, up to Connie Mack, the man he has injured most, they were talking nothing but Pepper Martin.

"Isn't he the darnest fellow you ever saw?" exclaimed the mild mannered pilot of the Athletics. "How are we going to stop him?" The accent was on the "are".

Gabby Street, fighting his way into the dressing room, hesitated only long enough to yell:

"Another great ball game. And how do you like that Hallahan and Martin?"

The shout that went up from the crowding, pushing throng that filled the corridor in hopes of getting a glimpse of the Cardinals was adequate answer.

No Time For Interview

Up the steps from the dugout came the happy, perspiring Martin, a husky teammate on either arm. They rushed him through the crowd, all three yipping as they went. A newspaper man tried to pull the Pepper loose for a few words. He was willing, but his mates shoved him into the direction of the dressing room and slammed the door. There wasn't a minute to lose to catch that train.

Somebody detached Bill Hallahan from the jostling procession and got in a few words with the star southpaw who had just stopped the slugging A's for the second time.

"I just pitched another game like I did the last time," he explained.

Connie Mack appeared pretty well disappointed at today's defeat. He had wanted to win it badly, and it was evident he realized his Athletics were in a precarious spot. He couldn't summon a smile, but he was eager to give the Cardinals full credit for their victory.

"They outplayed us and deserved to win," he said. "Hallahan pitched a fine game and they all played good ball. Hallahan used fine judgment, when it was necessary and his control is much better than it was last year.

"But what I want to know is, how are we going to stop that Martin?"

FIFTH GAME FIGURES:

Class A Clubs In Important Games Friday

Interscholastic League Race Is On With Increased Vim This Week-End; Lubbock And Slaton In District 1

BY BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Oct. 7. (AP)—The cargo of Texas Interscholastic League class A football combats will be increased this week. Numerous non-district games will be played, but district championship contests such as Stripling and North Side in district five; Sunset and North Dallas in district six, and Athens and Lufkins in district ten will feature an interesting scholastic football program.

The class A race started last week with one upset, and two tie games. In district one, Plainview and Slaton unreeled a 7 to 7 tie, but Plainview was ruled the winner. Following the game, officials ruled that Plainview penetrated Slaton's 20-yard line three times. Slaton was able to advance to within the 20-yard zone only once. The decision was based on an inter-scholastic rule for class A teams in district one.

In district fifteen, Laredo and Alice played a 0 to 0 game in their initial district appearance. Through Monday, no decision had been announced on the penetration rule.

The Highland Park Highlanders of Dallas, one of the League's outstanding state championship threats, started the district six race with a 21 to 0 verdict over North Dallas.

Temple stopped Waxahachie 68 to 0 in the only district nine championship game last week.

The upset was recorded in district twelve where Kerrville beat Alamo Heights of San Antonio, 7 to 6. The San Antonio aggregation ruled a two touchdown favorite, but found Kerrville's stubborn defense too much.

The Week's Schedule

District championship games this week-end follow:

District one, October 0, Lubbock at Slaton.

District two, October 10, Wichita Falls at Childress.

District three, October 9, Eastland at Ranger.

District four, October 10, Colorado at McCamey.

District five, October 9, Stripling at North Side. (Fort Worth).

District six, October 9, Dallas Sunset vs. North Dallas.

October 10, Dallas Tech vs. Dallas Woodrow Wilson.

District nine, October 9, Corsicana at Hillsboro.

Waxahachie at Cleburne.

District ten, October 9, Athens at Lufkin.

District eleven, October 9, Bowie (El Paso) vs. El Paso.

District twelve, October 9, Harlandale at Brackenridge. (San Antonio), Thomas Jefferson (S. A.) at Del Rio.

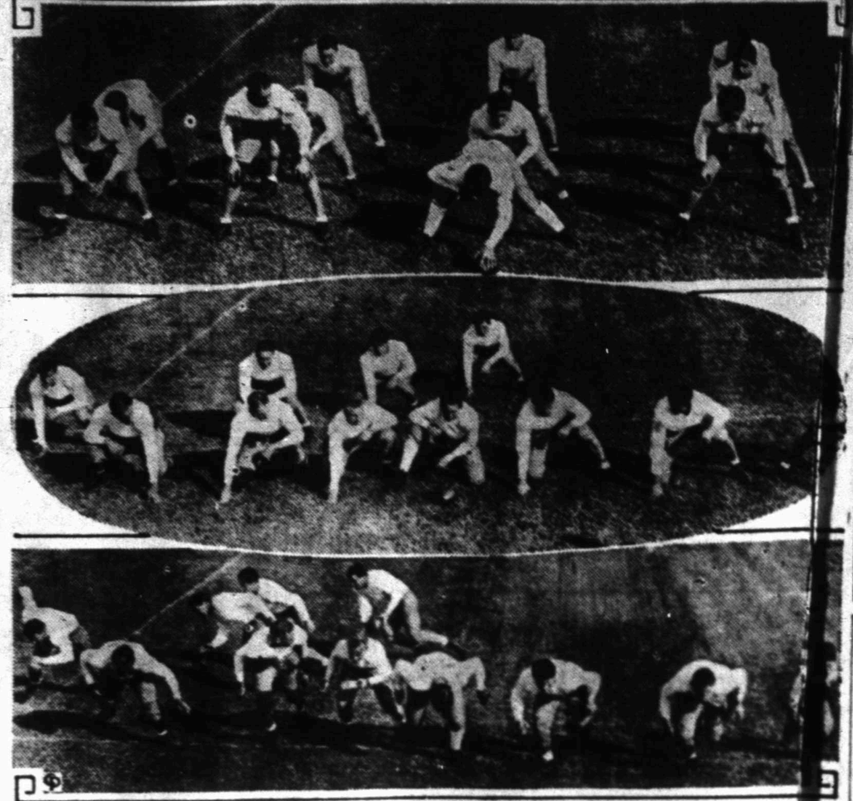

District thirteen, October 10, Sam Houston vs. Milby. (Houston).

District fifteen, October 9, Alace at Robstown.

Most of the players on the Indiana university's grid squad this year will be Hoosiers. Only 22 of 83 hail from other states.

Southern California's New Shift Caught By Camera

Ah, the secret's out! Right before your eyes is Coach Howard Jones' new shift which Southern California football fans hope will be of great aid to the Trojans in their quest for victories this fall. Top—Trojans line up, before shifting. Note short line and many men in "backfield." Center — Now they've shifted. You'll notice it's a balanced formation. Last season the Trojans attacked from an unbalanced line. Lower view—There they go! The attack is headed for the enemy's left flank with Galbraith, in this instance, toting the ball. Full speed ahead!

The Spice Provided By Pepper Martin Made The Cake Too Strong For The Athletics; Here's How

(By The Associated Press)

Following is the play-by-play report of the fifth game of the 1931 World series, played at Shibe Park, Philadelphia, yesterday.

FIRST INNING

CARDINALS—High came up but Adams replaced him in a last minute change. After looking a strike over Adams singled down the third base line. Watkins replaced Roettger in another quick shift and High ran for Adams. Watkins flied out to Simmons on the first ball. Frisch looked one over, fouled one and banged out a single to center and went to second on the throw-in, High taking third. Martin flied to Simmons and High scored easily after the catch. Frisch holding second. Hafey grounded out, Williams to Fox. One run, two hits, no errors and one left.

ATHLETICS—High went to third base for the Cardinals. Bishop hoisted to Watkins, who came in fast to make the catch. Haas fanned after looking over three balls. Cochrane popped to Frisch after looking a strike over. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

SECOND INNING

CARDINALS—Bottomley hit sharply to right for a single after a ball and a strike had been called. Bishop bounced one took a ball, and flied to Miller. Gelbert bounced to Williams and Bottomley was forced at second, Williams to Bishop. Hallahan bounded to Williams and was out at first. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

ATHLETICS — Simmons looked a ball over and hit against the score board in right for a double. Foxx took two balls and a strike and was thrown out at first, Simmons holding second as High made the assist. Miller took the one-one and bounced to Gelbert and was thrown out at first, Simmons being caught at the plate by Bottomley's relay to complete a double play. No runs, one hit, no errors and none left.

THIRD INNING

CARDINALS—High grounded out, Bishop to Foxx, on the one-two count. Watkins took three of one and two of the other and flied out to Bishop in short right field. Frisch flied out to Haas on the first pitch. No runs, no hits, no errors and none left.

ATHLETICS — Dykes grounded out to Bottomley, unassisted, on the two-two count. Williams fouled out to High who caught the ball in front of the Athletics' dugout. Hoyt took a ball and bounced to High and was out at first. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

FOURTH INNING

CARDINALS — Martin bunted to Foxx and was safe for a single on a lightning burst of speed for his tenth hit. Hafey fanned, swinging at the third strike Bottomley singled to right and Martin raced to third. Wilson lined to Bishop who threw to first, for a double play retiring Bottomley. Bishop bagged the ball close to the ground. No runs, two hits, no errors and one left.

ATHLETICS—Bishop took two-two and fouled out to Bottomley near the line. Haas attacked the first one and flied out to Hafey near the left field line. Cochrane fouled out to Wilson near the plate. No runs, no hits, no errors and none left.

FIFTH INNING

CARDINALS—Gelbert looked a strike over, fouled one and grounded out, Dykes to Foxx. Hallahan swung at the first, looked a ball over and grounded out, Williams to Foxx. High flied to Simmons on the first ball over. No runs, no hits, no errors and none left.

ATHLETICS—Simmons looked a pair over and bounced a single off Hallahan's arm, the ball rolling into left field. Foxx took a strike and four balls to stroll. Miller attempted a bunt and popped to Bottomley. Dykes fouled out to Bottomley. Williams took the three-two and swung on the third strike. No runs, one hit, no errors, and two left.

SIXTH INNING

CARDINALS—Watkins hoisted to Miller, who made a running catch. Frisch looked two over, swung at one and hit down the left field line for two bases. Martin took a ball and connected for a home run into the upper deck of the left field stands, scoring Frisch ahead of him. Hafey drove a long fly to Simmons. Bottomley flied out to Haas in right center. Two runs, two hits, no errors and none left.

ATHLETICS—Hoyt took a called strike and popped out to Frisch. McNair replaced Bishop at bat and fouled out to Wilson near the plate. Moore batted for Haas, took a ball, a strike, fouled one and flied out to Watkins. No runs, no hits, no errors and none left.

SEVENTH INNING

CARDINALS—McNair went to second. Moore to left field, Simmons moving over to center in the Philadelphia shift. Walberg replaced Hoyt in the box. Wilson singled to left on the three-two count. Gelbert swung and Wilson was thrown out trying to steal, Cochrane to Williams. Gelbert grounded out, Williams to Foxx. Hallahan fanned on a third called strike. No runs, one hit, no errors and none left.

ATHLETICS—Cochrane popped to Frisch on the first toss. Simmons took three balls after fouling one and singled to left for his third straight hit. Foxx took two strikes and a ball and singled off Hallahan's glove, Simmons racing to third. Miller grounded to High, Simmons scoring. Foxx was forced out at second, High to Frisch. Dykes took a strike and two balls, fouled one and sailed down the third base line, Miller stopping at second. Williams swung once then flied out to Frisch who went into short center for the retiring catch. One run, three hits, no errors and two left.

EIGHTH INNING

CARDINALS—High took two strikes and three balls and whiffed. Watkins looked three balls and a strike over and walked, the fourth being wide. Frisch flied to Moore, just outside the left field line, but Watkins stole second in the meantime on a ball Martin singled to left field and Watkins scored. Hafey took two balls and Martin was thrown out trying to pilfer second, Cochrane to McNair. It was the first time the youngster had been caught off the bases and his twelfth hit equalled the World series record. One run, one hit, no errors and none left.

ATHLETICS—Heving batted for Walberg, hoisting to Watkins after two strikes and a ball. McNair batted for the third strike for a whiff. Moore got a high bounder to Hallahan for a fielder's hit. Cochrane took the two-two pitch and scratched a single off Bottomley's glove on a hard hit ball, Moore going to second. Simmons grounded to Frisch, forcing Moore at third. No runs, one hit, no errors and two left.

NINTH INNING

CARDINALS—Rommel replaced Walberg in the box for the Athletics and singled after a called strike on Dykes' glove. Bottomley grounded to Foxx, Rommel being forced out, Williams to Foxx at second. Miller beat out a bunt, forcing Williams at second. Gelbert grounded to Bottomley, Miller being forced out at second. Bottomley to Foxx. Hallahan flied out to Simmons on the first offering. High singled to left, McNair to Foxx. One run, one hit, no errors and a pair left.

ATHLETICS—Dykes bunted out of the plate and reached first for a hit. Miller grounded to Gelbert, Dykes being forced at second, Miller beating relay to first. Dykes grounded to Frisch, forcing Miller at second. Gelbert to Foxx, Dykes being safe. Williams singled to center and Dykes ran to second. Regular Athletic shortstop, Boley, batted for Rommel and struck out. No runs, two hits, no errors and two left.

Lubbock Cowhands Battle Brownfield

The Lubbock High Cowhands, formerly known as the Pioneers, coached by Swede Murray, will go to Brownfield to meet the Brownfield Cubs, team of this district, in a scheduled game. The game will start at 3:30, according to reports here.

The Cowhands, who defeated Lubbock High what the first time and ineligible men are playing, Tech, played two games last season, winning a 51 to 0 decision over Amherst here during the Texas Panhandle-South Plains fair, and a 7 to 6 victory over Bill Williams' Spring Lake gridsters this week.

Carlos Proctor, former Florida football star, has played a series of 10 bouts to open his professional boxing career.

North Rhodesia has named its new capital Lusaka.

Westerners In Practice With Tech Gridders

Chapman Sends Charges Into Scrimmage With Matadors As Both Clubs Profit In View Of Next Games

Fair Park gridiron was a lonely place yesterday afternoon, the Lubbock High school Westerners transferring the scene of activity to the Texas Tech field where they battled the Matadors in a lengthy scrimmage intended to help both teams.

Since Coach Weldon Chapman employs the Warner double wingback and C-formation in his memorial system, that style being the kind used by the Haskell Institute Indians whom the Matadors meet at Dallas next Tuesday, it behooved the coaches of both teams to send their men against each other.

The Westerners, therefore, were given a stiff test, and while they made no sensational showing against Pete Cawthon's Matadors they held their own in a pleasing manner. On the offense most of the time, the high school gridsters profited in two-fold manner. While they were getting up against tough opposition they were perfecting their signals and their attack. The Matadors profited, particularly in a defensive way, since they must meet the same attack next week.

With the exception of minor bruises and scratches, the Westerners will be in top form tomorrow night to open the district 1 championship race against the Slaton Tigers. Gene Barnett, fullback, has been ailing a bit with a slight knee injury and others of the squad have sustained lesser injuries in practice and in the Lameso game. Coach Chapman said last night he expected his best eleven to be ready for the battle.

The Westerner mentor probably will start Barnett at full, O. H. Britton at quarter, Mack Scoggin and Cecil Merrill at half back posts tomorrow night. The line will consist of the usual seven men, Dalton Blagg and Will Ed Watson at ends, Rosser Abbott and Bert Williams at tackles, Melvin Griggs and Cotton Welch at guards and Captain Bob Crawford at center. Bill Davidson will be ready to go in at one of the halfback positions when the Westerners start their aerial game, and Coach Chapman maintains that they will use the ether waves a great deal of the time.

The Westerners have been working on passes steadily for the past few weeks and when the long aerial game gets started it will take severe opposition to stop it. With Will Ed Watson and Dalton Blagg running out to receive Barnett's long passes and Davidson alternating with the receivers from the backfield, it appears that this is Chapman's strongest forte in offensive business.

Reports from Slaton indicate that the Tigers are to be in top form when they get here for the game, and with past records to consider, the game should be a battle all the way through. Slaton is due to play its hardest against Lubbock. When the team was in the Class B division it always gave Lubbock one of its hardest tussles. The last game was played in 1929, resulting in a victory by a single touchdown for the locals.

Slaton will be well represented by its football rooters, indications show. The highway will be kept hot Friday afternoon with incoming traffic as the Santa Fe town moves to the Lubbock capital. Banners are waving, posters are out and there is an air of holiday over the smaller city.

The game will start promptly at 7:30 o'clock, and there is every indication that it will be conducted as smoothly and as quickly as the game here two weeks ago with the Woodrow Wilson Wildcats of Dallas. Much favorable comment from all sides has come about as a result of the swiftness and smoothness of the latter game.

New Professor Comes To Tech From University Of Illinois; Hall Is Doing Graduate Work In Mass.; Assistants Listed

The mechanical engineering department under G. F. Godeke, has a new instructor, Ralph E. Lewis Mr. Lewis received his Master degree from the University of Illinois this summer. Elmer Hall, the previous instructor, resigned to take graduate work in the Massachusetts Institute of Technicality. The assistants in this department this year are: Roger Clapp, Elton Smith, and Sam Hopper.

The engineering school has a decided decreased enrollment this year from last year; however the electrical engineering department has a larger enrollment. There are 20 juniors and 13 seniors. The main feature of the department is a new dynammeter set.

Are Assistants

The C. E. department's assistants for the fall term are: Bernard Dean, Duan Orr, Travis Parker, and J. P. Rhuman. The assistants in the drawing department are: Frank Hale and W. T. White.

The freshman engineering lecture class will meet for the first time Thursday afternoon and it is very important that all Freshmen attend because one unapproved absence is failure in the course.

Milling Plant Is To Be Installed

Machinery for Lubbock's first corn meal milling plant is being purchased by the Lubbock Grain and Feed company and production and marketing of the product will be under way about the last of the month, according to W. W. Lam, head of the organization.

Grinding equipment to be installed will produce both corn meal and whole wheat flour, Mr. Lam said. Corn meal milled in the plant will be marketed over a wide territory under the Diamond Dot trade mark of the Lubbock Grain and Feed company.

The plant will produce a local market for corn in this area, according to Mr. Lam, who said corn of proper quality and in sufficient quantities is raised in the territory surrounding Lubbock.

Quentin Bellomy, an experienced miller from Littlefield, will be associated with Mr. Lam in the new project.

Bishop Hiram Boaz To Speak To Special Gathering Today

Taking as his subject, "True Greatness of Service," Bishop Hiram A. Boaz, of Houston, will preach this morning at 10 o'clock in a series of revival meetings being conducted at the first Methodist church.

"This is a sermon on the slogan of the Rotary club," it was said, "and a special invitation is being extended all Rotarians in this service."

Pastors and leading laymen of the Lubbock district are to be special guests at this morning's meeting after which they will meet in a called session with Bishop Boaz and Presiding Elder C. A. Bickley to make reports and discuss plans for the remainder of the conference year. Lunch will be served in the basement of the church to the group and the meeting will continue into the afternoon.

Three Speakers Are Heard At Rotary Club Wednesday

Guy L. McAfee, chairman of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce fire prevention committee, Wednesday addressed the Lubbock Rotary club on fire prevention. Mr. McAfee urged closer observance of fire prevention methods in order that the nation's fire loss may be reduced.

Bishop Hiram A. Boaz of Houston also addressed the club.

Rev. Walter P. Jennings discussed the subject of disarmament. The speaker said the closer union between the peoples of various nations would bring about disarmament as war has never settled anything.

Ben Simmons and R. F. Hinchey were admitted as new members into the club.

After receiving a petition "11 miles long" against the proposed bill granting Sunday movies, the English government has decided not to push the measure in Parliament.

Officers Believe Bandits Escaped In A Second Auto

ARDMORE, Okla., Oct. 7 (AP) — Officers seeking two men who robbed the First State bank at Ryan of $3,000 expressed belief today that the fugitives escaped in the motor car of an accomplice.

The machine used in the robbery yesterday was found abandoned six miles north of Ryan a few hours after the holdup. It had been stolen at Duncan. Officers thought the men changed cars on a lonely road.

Oliver Anderson, bank bookkeeper, wounded slightly by the accidental discharge of a shot gun during the robbery, was back at work today.

AC COLLEGE COLUMN

By LOIS JACQUES, TECH CORRESPONDENT

SPEAKS TO CLASS

B. S. Burgess, Dallas, field service director of the Texas Cotton Cooperative association, talked to the Tech class in cooperative marketing this week. His subject was "Fundamentals of agricultural cooperatives and the work of the Federal farm board."

TAKES POSITION

Miss Geneva Adamson has been appointed assistant in the engineering library and has begun her work.

SOCIETY TO MEET

The Tech chapter of Pi Gamma Mu, national honorary society, will hold its ifrst meeting of the year Friday at 8 in room 214.

Dr. Thor J. Beck, who spent some time in Germany this summer, will lead the discussion, and Prof. H. R. Nissley will speak on "Economic and Social Conditions in Germany," where he also has recently studied. Both will base their talks on personal observations.

A short business session will be held for the election of a president. Frank Ward is vice-president.

Pi Gamma Mu's membership is composed of students who have made unusually good grades in the social sciences; however, the meeting is open, and anyone who wishes to come is welcome.

PLAINS SOCIETY EXHIBITS

A display case placed in the west rotunda of the Ad building by the Plains Museum society has attracted students' attention since the opening of school.

The present exhibit is strictly historical, and contains interesting specimens of various instruments, jewelry, etc., most of which came from foreign lands. The exhibit will be changed from time to time and soon one of geological interest will be arranged. This will be followed by an archeologic display. The society plans the installation of a second case soon.

R. A. Studhalter, head of the biology department who is on leave of absence this year, is president of the Plains society; Mrs. Mary Dale Buckner, secretary; and Dr. M. A. Stainbrook, curator.

INVITE FISH TO COUNCIL

All freshmen who were Hi-Y members in high school are invited to meet in the Y. M. C. A. office tonight at 7:30 for the first meeting of the newly organized freshman "Y" council, Harper Pereau is chairman of the group.

ENGINEERS SCHEDULE MEET

The Engineering society, one of the largest and most active organizations on the campus, is planning its first meeting for Monday, October 19. A president will be elected at this meeting. Olaf Lodal of Gordon is vice-president; Carl McAdams, Gordonville, is secretary; and Basil Hill of Lamesa is treasurer.

The Engineering society, membership in which is open to all students in the school of engineering, has in operation a loan fund of about $600 for seniors, and among other annual projects is sponsor of the Engineers ball, usually held in November.

ATTEND "WATERMELON BUST"

According to announcement, the "statistical aspects of a 'watermelon bust'" were studied by students in the agricultural economics classes Wednesday evening at a meeting held at 2609 Twenty-second street.

The students were required to bring a fork and pencil and they were supplied with watermelons, slide rules, calculaters and adding machines.

ANNOUNCES NEW CLASS

Dr. J. C. Granbery is teaching an hour course which will run the year, "The History of American Diplomacy."

The class, number 411-12-13, is scheduled at 10 o'clock on Saturdays. It is for the benefit of students who want extra term-hours and for teachers. As the class is just starting it is not yet too late to register, Dr. Granbery says.

WORKS IN NEW MEXICO

Preston Crawford of Lubbock, a junior engineering student last yeas, is working in a tailor shop in Albuquerque, N. M. He plans to enter Tech for the winter term.

FISH ENGINEERS MEET

The freshman engineering lecture class will meet for the first time today from 1 to 3 p. m.

Throughout the fall term various department heads will lecture to this class, giving information regarding the different fields of engineering.

VISIT MEETINGS

The agricultural economics class in cooperative marketing is visiting farmers' meetings in Lubbock and vicinity.

One night they attended a meeting of the Dairy Distributers of Lubbock; Friday they will go to Liberty to attend the Farm Bureau meeting; and Saturday they will go to the court house to visit the Cotton Cooperative meeting.

EMISON WORKING

Frank Emison, editor of the Toreador last year and a graduate with the '31 class, is now with the Municipal Gas company of Denison. His duties take him over a considerable portion of that part of the state, according to information received here.

GIRLS' DANCE TONIGHT

To defray expenses of buying uniforms for their organization, the Girls' Band is sponsoring an All-Girls' dance at the gymnasium tonight at 8 o'clock.

A dance orchestra composed of band members will play, and admission is to be 10 cents.

Uniforms will be typically Spanish in style, consisting of gored skirts, gay bolero jackets worn over white blouses, and flat black hats.

SPANISH CLUB MEETS

Members and prospective members are reminded of the meeting of the Spanish club which is to be held tonight at 7:30 in room 310. Anyone who has had two years in high school or one year of college Spanish is eligible to join.

There will be a short program and social hour.

PRESBYTERIANS PLAN PARTY

All Tech students who attend the First Presbyterian church are invited to a party there at 8 o'clock Friday night. This affair is to take the place of the annual open-house which had to be postponed at the first of this term.

Musical numbers, readings and games have been planned by the committee on entertainment. Helen Jennings is general chairman and Ruth Reed is chairman of the decoration committee. Women of the church will serve refreshments.

BISHOP TO SPEAK

The First Methodist church of Lubbock invites all the students of the Texas Technological college to be its guests at a special service which will be held at the church at 7:30 on Friday evening of this week. Bishop H. A. Boaz of Dallas, formerly president of Southern Methodist university, will be the speaker. All students and faculty members are cordially invited to be present.

RHEUMATIC HEART DISEASE

Visit To Be Different

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—French Premier Pierre Laval's heart-to-heart talk with President Hoover, scheduled to take place toward the end of October, promises to be a different type of international affair from Mr. Hoover's famous chat with Prime Minister Ramsey MacDouald of England in 1929.

Pierre Laval

The president and his guest from London, it will be remembered, exchanged ideas seated together on a log spanning the Rapidan headwaters, whence their conversation has been called the "Rapidan conference" ever since.

M. Laval's visit will be pretty late in the season for a prelonged out-door debate, besides which the Gallic cabinet chief is described as a formal person, who probably would not be at all at ease perched on a log across a rushing stream, with his feet dangling above the current.

MOREOVER, according to the testimony of folk who know him well, Premier Laval is Prime Minister MacDonald's opposite, temperamentally and philosophically.

The Briton was "en rapport" with Mr. Hoover from the instant of their first handclasp.

To anyone in the least acquainted with the president, the briefest observation of the English statesman was sufficient explanation of the evident liking which they showed for one another immediately. Clearly they reason along practically parallel lines: naturally they are upon terms of almost perfect mutual understanding and in nearly complete agreement.

EQUALLY with President Hoover, Prime Minister MacDonald is internationally minded.

Equally with the president, he is intensely humanitarian.

Nevertheless, neither Mr. Hoover nor the British prime minister has much faith in the populace's intelligence; Mr. Hoover has said so—"It is one of the most profound and important of exact psychological truths that man in the mass does not think but only feels"—and Prime Minister MacDonald frequently has implied a similar opinion.

Humor is only a rudimentary sense in either of them.

In short, they were ideal conferees, although nothing definite has yet materialized from the "Rapidan conference," which was contemplative of a reduction in world armaments.

NOW Premier Laval is coming, and it will be interesting to observe what kind of a conference HE and President Hoover have.

It will, of course, be an extremely pleasant conference, but it is good betting that it will be appreciably lacking in the unctuousness of the conference between President Hoover and Premier MacDonald.

M. Laval, they say, is a thoroughly affable Frenchman, but hard boiled under the skin.

He is not looking for trouble, indeed; quite the contrary.

It happens that the United States and France are caught in the same fix. Between them they own more than three-fourths of all the world's gold, and now the remainder of the world is threatening to abandon gold as its monetary standard.

Accordingly, President Hoover invited Premier Laval here to discuss the situation.

NO ONE questions that Premier Laval will be willing to pledge French co-operation with the United States in any program calculated to maintain the value of the gold hoards of the two countries, for clearly it will be to his own country's advantage to do so.

What may make the Franco-American conference less delightful than the conference between Mr. Hoover and Prime Minister MacDonald, however, is the crassness of the French in always calling a spade a spade in such negotiations.

M. Laval, in several debates concerning the pending financial crisis, already has plainly expressed his government's determination to have all that France has coming to her, regardless of the consequences to others, whereas Mr. Hoover's and Prime Minister MacDonald's habit is to weigh world considerations as well as their own people's interests, in deciding international problems.

BRIEFLY, President Hoover and Prime Minister MacDonald, when they talked together, spoke the same language—not meaning that they both spoke English, though they did, to be sure, but that they both spoke the language of world-wide humanitarianism.

From all indications, President Hoover and Premier Laval will prove to speak two entirely distinct languages—not meaning, either, that M. Laval knows almost no English whatever, although that, too, is true, but that his diplomatic language is strongly nationalistic which probably will conflict with Mr. Hoover's international idiom worse than ancient Sanskrit and Choctow.

The "Rapidan conference" was a beautiful harmony.

It will be surprising if Mr. Hoover and M. Laval do not need at least two kinds of interpreters to translate every word that they have to say to one another.

THE BIRTHPLACE OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY:

During the organization of Ripon College, (formerly Brockway College), Ripon, Wisconsin, in 1851, the privilege of the name was offered to the highest bidder. The record says: "The bidding was spirited, resulting finally in the name being struck off to William S. Brockway for a donation of $25.00, so the name Brockway College was adopted."

Three years later Mr. Brockway was a supporter of the first Republican party meeting to be held anywhere in the United States. At a meeting held on March 20, 1854, in the little frame building, the Republican party was born—and the same building is now preserved as the Party's shrine.

GREENLAND AND ICELAND:

Greenland was named by Eric the Red in 985. His motive in giving a name suggesting verdure to a country covered with ice and having an arctic character was to encourage people to go there. In other words, Eric was guilty of a deception which real estate developers no longer practice in our days. On the other hand, Iceland is a verdant country with a mild climate, and pastoral in aspect.

It would be a matter of historical justice to rename these two countries. The name of Greenland for Iceland, and vice versa would be perfectly in keeping with the characteristics of these island countries. I understand that a proposal to this effect has been repeatedly before their respective legislative bodies.

NEA FICTION

by LAURA LOU BROOKMAN — Author of "MAD MARRIAGE"

©1931 BY NEA SERVICE INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Pretty Norma Kent, 20-year-old secretary in a law office, marries MARK TRAVERS, son of F. M. TRAVERS, millionaire real estate dealer, after the father has sworn to cut Mark off without a penny if the marriage takes place. Norma has known Mark only a few weeks, did not know during the courtship that he was a millionaire's son.

The story opens in Marlboro, middle western metropolis. CHRISTINE SAUNDERS, with whom Norma, shares an apartment, and BRADLEY HART, Chris' employer, are witnesses at the wedding. Before this Norma has refused to marry BOB FARRELL, young lawyer of whom she is fond as a friend.

Mark sells his expensive roadster to get money for the honeymoon. He and Norma go to fashionable Blue Springs, where the young man takes delight in surrounding his bride with expensive luxuries. He introduces her to HOLLIS STONE, an old friend, and it is evident from the girl's discomposure that she has known Stone before.

One night Mark loses heavily in a card game. The young couple face the problem of getting enough money to pay their hotel bill and buy railroad tickets. Mark wires his mother but when the answer comes it is a curt refusal from his father. Mark borrows $500 from Hollis Stone and he and Norma return to Marlboro. There Mark insists on stopping at an expensive hotel. He spends more time with his wealthy friends than he does hunting a job. As their money dwindles the couple move to a furnished apartment. One evening Mark meets NATALIE PRICE a debutante who has long hoped to marry him. She professes admiration for his independence in breaking with his father. A little later Natalie telephones Mark's mother to confide "something important."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXII

Norma poured the steaming, fragrant coffee into a yellow cup. She held it across the breakfast table toward Mark. "You'll feel better after you've eaten something," she said brightly. Norma's tone was a little too cheerful; she was so obviously trying to be encouraging.

Without reply Mark took the cup and put it down. He was coatless. He had shaved and brushed his hair. He wore a fresh shirt but no necktie, and his collar was open.

Mark frowned at his plate—the perfect picture of a young man who has undertaken to prove sleep an unnecessary evil.

"Cream?" Norma offered the pitcher. She was still determinedly cheery.

"Don't want any!"

That was definite enough. The three words implied utter disgust with the breakfast, the clear bright morning, the world in general, even Norma.

She understood and was silent. They sat at the gateleg table which had been pulled out before the living room windows. Norma resembled a little girl playing at housekeeping. Her rose-colored cotton frock was sleeveless, made with a short, full skirt. There was a crisp yellow-checked cloth over the table and the yellow dishes (bought at the five-an-ten) were Norma's pride. There was a plate of golden-buttered toast, marmalade, bacon and an egg boiled the exact four minutes which Mark insisted upon.

"Good Lord, Norma!" The exclamation was sudden and violent. "Do I have to face a soft-boiled egg every morning of my life? Is there some kind of law or somehing that if a guy doesn't eat seven soft-boiled eggs a week—!"

"But I thought you liked them! I—oh, I'm sorry! The other day when we had sausages you said you'd rather have eggs. Why didn't you tell me you were tired of them?"

"Anybody'd be tired of them if they never saw anything else!"

"You don't have to eat it. There's oatmeal—I can fix that——"

"Never mind! As long as it's here I'll eat it. Don't fix anything else! Just because a person likes some-

Lynn Students To Help Gather Crop

TAHOKA, Oct. 7.—With the closing of the Tahoka public schools this week, every school in Lynn county is now closed in order that the children may help their parents and neighbors gather the low-priced cotton crop, states H. P. Caveness, county superintendent. The Tahoka schools have closed for one month.

O'Donnell schools did not open at the usual time in September and will not do so until some time in November. Wilson opened early in September, but closed after two weeks. With the closing of the schools at New Home and Pride last Friday all the rural schools have suspended.

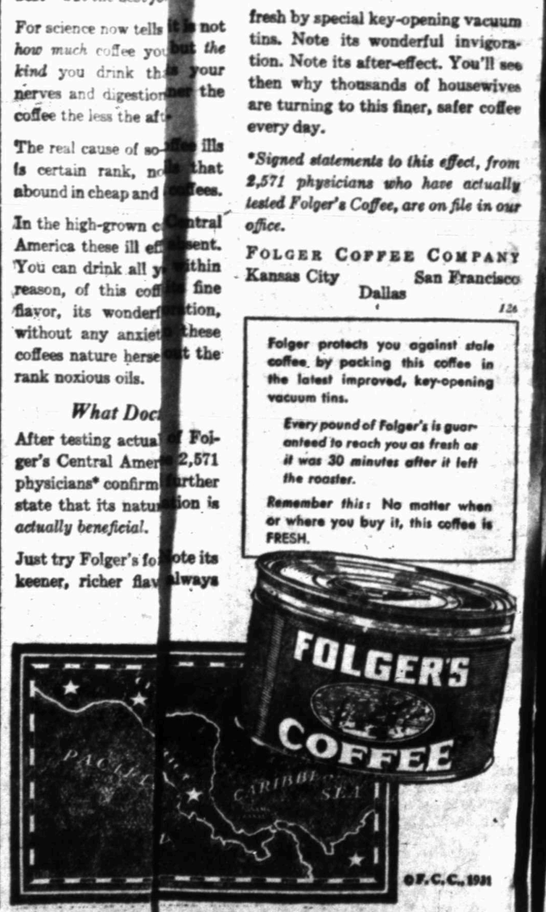

Inability of farmers to get cotton pickers is given as the reason for closing the schools. Most of them will make up the lost time later in the school year.

Author of "MAD MARRIAGE"

thing once in a while doesn't mean they want the same thing every day, you know." Mark's tone was easier. He was trying to excuse himself for the outburst. "You—you can cook all right, Norma, only you ought to think more about variety. Couldn't we have grapefruit occasionally instead of oranges? And cantaloupes. That's better yet."

"It's out of season. There may be some place in town where I could get cantaloupe but it would be terribly expensive."

"Oh, I see! One of those delicacies that's not for the undeserving poor. Lot of nerve a dub like me has, speaking of cantaloupes in October—a dub that can't even earn an honest living! That's what you're thing about me, isn't it? Why don't you say it?—Well—why don't you say it?"

He had thrown down the napkin, sprung to his feet.

"What makes you talk that way?" Injured appeal in the girl's voice. She went to him. "Darling, you know I can't bear to have you say those things! They're not true!"

"Oh, they're true all right." Mark stood, handsome and glowering, defying her sympathy. "Everybody knows I'm no good. What's the use of pretending you don't know it too?"

"But they don't know it! They don't know it because it isn't so! I won't have you abusing yourself, Darling, you're going to get a job. Why, maybe this very day—"

"Don't go on with that one! I know the whole speech. Maybe this very minute opportunity is lurking around the corner! Or sitting on the doorstep. That's where opportunity sits, isn't it? All I have to do is put on my hat and coat and go grab it! Sure! Only I won't find it. I'm a failure. A no-good. The kind of fellow who'd rather sit out nights playing cards and neglecting his wife. Well, madam, I pay for last night's little indulgence. I have in my vest pocket $40. I wasn't there at dinner time last night. It's there now. Forty dollars. We can eat on that a long while if we don't waste it on cantaloupes and artichokes and caviare—"

Bitter, bitter words one after the other. Bitterness and discouragement and reckless defiance. It had been three weeks since Mark and Norma had returned to Marlboro. During that time the girl had often seen Mark discouraged but never so bitterly defiant.

There had been half a dozen nights like the previous one when he had not returned to the apartment until near dawn. There had been times when he had asked her for car fare from the household money.

They had been three weeks of difficulty and strain for both Mark and Norma. She had not let him know about the tears she shed. He would not let him see her weep this morning!

Norma turned to the tiny gas stove. "Your coffee's cold," she said steadily. "Wait a minute and I'll have some more boiling."

Five minutes later Mark was drinking the steaming hot beverage. The outburst had ended. He was subdued and quiet now.

Across the table Norma began hesitatingly, "I've been thinking, Mark, maybe—I mean just why things are the way they are—I've seen some ads in the paper and I have so much time on my hands. Would you mind if I looked around to see if I could find a job—you know, just something until you're working?"

He let her finish. "That makes it perfect," Mark said slowly. "That's the final touch. Well, Norma, I can look for a job any day so far as I'm concerned. But the day I find one and begin working I walk through that door and don't come back. I may be a hell of a good-for-nothing but I'm not quite low enough to live off my wife's wages. Not yet—!"

He halted a moment before the mirror, adjusting his tie. Then Mark picked up hat and coat and left the apartment.

So once more Norma lunched with Chris Saunders. Toward Chris the younger girl turned as toward the last remaining stronghold of courage and comfort.

They met in a crowded cafeteria but the very bustle and hum of the eating place provided privacy. In the drone of hundreds of other voices their confidences were secure.

"I—I don't know what to do, Chris!" Norma's voice rose tremulously with the last words. "We're not getting anywhere and—oh, I'm so afraid something's going to happen! I don't quite know what it. When Mark talks the way he did this morning—he doesn't mean it, of course, but not being able to find a job is getting on his nerves. Maybe it's getting on mine, too. I try not to let it. Chris, I hate to talk to you like this but what can I do?"

Chris Saunders selected a tender section of celery.

"He's right, you know—" she said thoughtfully, "at least about your getting a job. A man with a grain of gumption isn't going to let his wife bring home a pay check while he's doing nothing."

"But I didn't mean it that way—!"

"Of course you didn't, lamb. It isn't how we mean things; it's the way other people take them that's important. Anyhow I think Mark's right. What kind of a job has he been looking for?"

"Oh, anything! I've heard him say a dozen times he's willing to do anything and he means it. Mark would do anything at all so long as he's paid enough for our living. That's what worries me. You see the money we borrowed is almost gone."

"Your credit's good with me, kid." Do you think Mark would let me borrow from you? Of course not!" Well, about this job. What does Mark know how to do?"

The two tiny wrinkles reappeared on Norma's forehead. "Working in his father's office is about the only job he's ever had. He wasn't there very long and anyhow that was mostly getting acquainted with the people in the organization and learning how things were done—"

"Don't I know! Rich men's sons. They sniff the business some day—come around and see how the faithful slaves are keeping it going."

Swiftly Norma took the defense. "But it wasn't Mark's fault! That was what his father wanted him to do. And besides it's different now. Mark really wants to work. He wants to work hard and he's been through college and he's so clever. I know he'd be a big success if he could just get a chance!"

While she was still speaking the other girl's face had lighted. "Listen!" Chris exclaimed dramatically. "I've got an idea! Do you suppose Mark could sell advertising?"

"Of course he could!"

"Well, I just remembered someone today and Brad hasn't hired anyone. Bud Jamieson's quitting Saturday to take his place. Brad doesn't like him but he likes Mark! I'll tell you how ordinarily take inexperienced salesmen—that you do—"

Casually that evening Norma spoke of meeting Chris. She added in an off-hand way, "Chris said Mr. Hart's been wanting to see you. He asked if you could step in his office tomorrow morning."

"What's he want to see me about?"

Dark fringed lashes fluttered saucily. Then the better part of valor won a victory. "I don't know," the girl said. "She told me Mr. Hart's always in about 11 o'clock. Chris is looking awfully well, Mark. I don't believe she's putting in as much overtime as she did."

Shortly before noon next day Norma was called to the telephone. A jubilant-voice Mark almost shouted the glad tidings:

"Brad Hart's got a job for me! Wants me to start right away. Do you hear that, Baby? I said Brad Hart wants me to work for him—selling advertising. Sure I can do it! Why, of course. Everybody knows advertising's a good thing! It'll be a snap. Hart's taking me around to meet some of his customers this afternoon. I'll tell you all about it when I get home. See you later, Baby. 'Bye!"

They celebrated by going to the neighborhood motion picture house that evening and holding hands throughout a talking drama which was neither very funny nor very moving emotionally. To Norma the picture glowed with a haze of romantic beauty that was to make it memorable.

For a week thereafter Mark Travers arose to the clangor of the new alarm clock, downed his breakfast and sprinted for the 8:15 car. Each evening he reappeared between 5:30 and 6. After dinner he read a volume Norma had unearthed in the public library. "Psychology in Selling Advertising" was the title of the book.

Norma got out the paper notebook containing her much-thumbed budget. Forty-five dollars a week was the sum Mark was to be paid. Pitifully small to a young man of Mark's financial standards but there would be commissions and raises. Norma remade the budget sheet so that it totaled $45. There was a column headed "savings," too.

Saturday noon—Mark's first pay—she waited impatiently for his arrival. She waited until frigid terrors coursed her spine and her hands were clammy. She tried to invent excuses; even invented reasons to believe the excuses. She waited and waited—and at 4:30 there were steps on the stairs.

"Is that you, Mark?" Norma cried, running into the hall.

"B-C" Will Stop Any Headache In 3 Minutes

Realizing that no one drug can conquer all headaches, as they come from so many causes, two North Carolina druggists developed a combination of several ingredients which function together giving three-minute, safe relief for any kind of headache, neuralgic sciatic or rheumatic pain, quiets the nerves and leaves you normally buoyant, without depression or bad after effects.

This combination of pain relieving ingredients, so efficient for women also at special times may be found at any drug store or soda fount under the name "B-C" (10c and 25c) ready for use in easing pains and quieting nerves in three minutes. "B-C" is the most amazing preparation of its kind ever discovered and is guaranteed harmless. (Adv.)

Special Train Leaves Monday

Tech Students And Boosters Of Matadors Will Witness Game At Dallas; Band Also Will Make Trip

A special train carrying several hundred Tech students and South Plains citizens will leave for Dallas Monday night. On the following day the Texas Tech Matadors will engage the Haskell institute Indians of Kansas in a football game, one of the features of the State fair for that day.

Is Tech Day

Tuesday has been set aside for 'Tech and South Plains Day,' according to word reaching here. It also has been set aside for 'Dallas Day' The Fort Worth and Denver Railway company is offering a special rate of $7.10 for a round trip ticket, with also special reductions on the pullman.

The train will leave here Monday night and arrive in Dallas in time Tuesday for breakfast; it will depart from Dallas late Tuesday, arriving in Lubbock Wednesday in time for breakfast—maybe in time for 8 o'clock classes.

No Fair Admission Price

It is probable that the students will have to pay no admission price to enter the Fair park, stated Professor W. L. Stangel, member of the Athletic council, this week, but tickets for the game are likely to sell for about $1.

Class cuts will not be counted against students making the trip on the special train, President Paul W. Horn has announced. The Matador band will accompany the trip and will play at the fair following an invitation of the Dallas chamber of commerce.

Iowa Hawkeyes Enroute To Dallas And Aggie Contest

IOWA CITY, Iowa, Oct. 7. (AP)—Definite announcement that Randahl Hickman, star halfback, would not be able to play in the Texas A. & M. game at Dallas Saturday caused Burt Ingwersen to make further replacements on the Hawkeye varsity team. Hickman, who received a sprained ankle in practice Tuesday will be out of the lineup for nearly a week. The squad will entrain tonight for Dallas. The players will work out in Kansas City Thursday, and at Dallas upon arriving there Friday afternoon

Warning Is Given On Tobacco Sales

County Attorney Vaughn E. Wilson Wednesday requested Lubbock merchants to be more careful in selling cigarets to minors.

The county attorney said he had received several complaints from mothers of schoolboys to the effect that their sons were being sold cigarets.

"Under the state statutes, it is a violation of the law to sell cigarets or tobaccos to any person under 16 years of age unless the minor has written permission from his parents or guardian," Wilson said. "Merchants who violate this law are subject to a $100 fine."

While only a few dealers are reported to have been selling tobacco to children, Wilson asked all merchants to be more careful in making their cigaret sales in the future.

"Hereafter, complaint will be filed when parents complain of this condition," he said.

Three Extension Classes Carded

Organization of three extension classes will be completed Friday night and Saturday at Texas Technological college, Prof. Cecil Horne said Wednesday.

The class in business English will complete enrollment and begin work Friday night at the Administration building.

Two education classes will be organized. One, a course in group study method, will meet at 8 p. m. Friday. The other, a course in practice teaching, will meet at 2:30 p. m. Saturday. The education classes will be under the direction of W. P. Clements and J. T. Shaver, respectively. Mr. Horne will direct the business English class.

The courses are open for college credit, but may be taken for cultural purposes only, it was said. The fee for each is $10, it was announced.

STRIB IN AMARILLO

AMARILLO, Oct. 7 (AP)—William L. "Young" Stribling, among the foremost American heavyweight fighters, spent a few minutes in a that with admirers here while his hip was being refueled. He was en route to Wichita, where he will meet an unnamed fighter October 19.

Cotton — All Advantage Lost By Cotton

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON
NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 7. (AP)—The cotton market after opening more than a dollar a bale higher on the Hoover credit proposals and good cables, lost all the advance and more on profit taking and hedge selling. The decline was helped by fears of a bearish government estimate tomorrow.
Liverpool is due tomorrow 6 to 7 penny points down.
The average guess of 87 members of the New York cotton exchange as to the government's crop estimate is 15,960,000 bales.

NEW YORK COTTON
NEW YORK, Oct. 7. (AP)—An opening advance in cotton today was followed by reactions under southern selling, combined with realizing or liquidation.
December contracts which had sold up to 8.04 on the early buying or 55 points above the low level of Monday, broke to 8.71 and closed at that figure, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 8 to 11 points.

Requests Information

The president requested that the physician's three bulletins each day be forwarded to him, and that if necessary he be informed of Mr. Edison's condition at more frequent intervals.

Mr. Edison this morning indicated a desire to sit in his chair, to which he was carried by Dr. Howe and a nurse, he was so weak he was returned to bed immediately.

Mrs. Edison remained in constant attendance in her husband's room.

Credit Pool

Hoover's program of economic stabilization already was well along the road to accomplishment. That object is restoration of confidence.

The bond market, which bankers said should be among the first to reflect the salutory effects of the program, recorded one of the sharpest advances of the year, many domestic issues gaining $10 to more than $50 per bond of $1,000 par value.

Moratorium Is Drawing Interest

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP)—President Hoover is considering whether the international moratorium should be extended beyond next June, and has found powerful opposition to it in congress.

The subject will be discussed with Premier Laval of France, when he comes to Washington late this month, and every authoritative indication is that Mr. Hoover will postpone any decision for several weeks.

state legislature, received unfavorable action from the justice department.

Fall's attorneys argued that his extreme age and ill health made the prison term a threat to his life. Consequently, the court permitted his incarceration in the high dry climate of New Mexico rather than the sea-level humidity of Washington.

The federal parole board is to hold a meeting here within a few days and the case may come up at that time. The denial of a pardon will have no bearing upon the parole application.

SEEK REDUCTIONS

FORT WORTH, Oct. 7 (AP)—Radical reductions in present cotton rates, both on joint and single line hauls for intrastate traffic, will be sought tomorrow by Fort Worth railroad men who are to appear before the state railroad commission at Austin.

Security Markets Reflect Country's Satisfaction With Practical Steps

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 7. (AP)—While leading bankers worked quietly but quickly to perfect the organization of President Hoover's suggested $500,000,000 credit corporation for the relief of banks with frozen assets, the security markets today reflected the country's satisfaction over what was obviously regarded as a most practical step in the campaign against unreasoned fear.

A runaway stock market was hardly to have been expected on top of Tuesday's rally and after some good gains in the lively early trading shares settled back, making way for a substantial improvement in bonds. Since the investment market stands to profit immediately in a relief from dumping it was natural that the prospective aid should be more strikingly evident there. Domestic corporation loans advanced vigorously in all departments.

Cardinals Win

as the rookie outfielder routed the veteran Waite Hoyt and had the Athletics shell-shocked for the fifth straight game.

Gets Three Hits

Martin, with a nation's eyes upon him and even the A's own home town fans cheering him celebrated the responsibility put upon him by smashing out three hits, including a home run into the left field stands, and driving home four of the five Cardinal tallies.

This stockily-built, 27-year-old Oklahoman from the Osage country, virtually single-handed battered the Athletics into defeat with just as much power as a slugger as he manisfested previously in dazzling speed. He drove in the first run with a sacrifice fly, pointed out the exit for Hoyt in the sixth with a home run clout, with Frisch on base, and concluded his day with a one base drive that tallied Watkins in the eighth inning.

Martin tied the world series record when he ran his total base hits up to 12 for five games, equalling the achievement first registered by Buck Herzog of the Giants in 1912 and duplicated by Joe Jackson of the White Sox in 1919 and Sam Rice of the Senators in 1925.

Batting .667

The Cardinal buzz saw boosted his batting mark for the series to .667, with his 12 blows in 18 times at bat, and moved closer to a new all-time record to displace the figure of .625 that now stands to the credit of Babe Ruth. But for the new rule banning the sacrifice fly as no-time at bat, Martin would have had a perfect afternoon at the plate.

Martin was close to being the whole show but Hallahan was superb again in the pinches as he subdued the A's, and the rest of the Cardinals, responding to the inspiration of the Martin-Hallahan combination, outplayed, out-smarted and out-fought the champions of the world to gain the all-vital edge in this battle.

Simmons Dangerous

Hallahan was not so invincible as he was in the second game, when he blanked the Mackmen with three hits, but he controlled all the sluggers except the mighty Al Simmons. The big gun of the A's batting champion of his league, rattled off three straight hits but Al was an easy victim in the eighth when he came to bat with two men on, two out and a home run needed to tie the score.

The Athletics scored their only run in the seventh inning. Simmons, with one out, connected for his third safe blow and ran to third on Foxx's line-smash that caromed off Hallahan's side into short right field. Simmons ran home on Bing Miller's grounder to High, who threw to second for a force out of Foxx.

For the first time in the series, Mack crossed up the experts by selecting Hoyt, the former Yankee star, to start on the mound. The "boy wonder" of 1921 and a figure in six previous world series with the New York Americans, was not equal to the task of doing what no other Mack pitcher has done—stop Martin. Hoyt lasted six innings, yielding seven hits, before being replaced by Rube Walberg, giant southpaw who had been picked for the starting assignment. Walberg likewise, was unable to check Martin, who blasted a single and drove in the fourth Cardinal run after taking two lusty swings at the Rube's sharp curves. The old knuckle-baller, Eddie Rommel, pitched the ninth and was touched for the final Cardinal tally, on hits by Hafey, Wilson and Gelbert.

All told the Cards combed Hoyt, Walberg and Rommel, all appearing for the first time in this series, for 12 hits. Frisch and Bottomley, each contributed two hits to support Martin, Bottomley shone, too, in the field with a number of brilliant catches of foul balls that the A's kept popping all over the premises in vain efforts to break through Hallahan's control.

The replacement of Max Bisop at second base late in the game by young Eric McNair, and the injection of Jim Moore into the outfield, as Haas was also benched, failed to help the A's. They have once again put their hopes solely upon the strong right arm of Earnsaw, who blanked the Cards with two hits yesterday and will probably get the call Friday in St. Louis in the sixth contest.

Livestock

MIDDLEWESTERN LIVESTOCK
KANSAS CITY, Oct. 7. (AP)—Cattle trade around the eleven market circuit was slow with some strength developing on highly finished strong weight steers but the general run of fed steers and yearlings selling on a steady to 25 lower basis. Western killing steers and she stock ruled steady to easier, some points showing losses of 25 on grass steers and grass heifers. Demand for medium weight and heavy calves continued narrow with values weak to 50 lower. Stocker and feeder classes were little changed. Chicago had a top of 10.60 on 1262 lb. steers Common to medium western steers ranged from 4.00@6.75 with good fed grassers upward to 8.35. Aggregate receipts estimated at 40,700 wre 2,000 more than a week ago.

Hogs found a fairly active outlet at prices strong to 20 higher most points showing upturns of 10-15. The day's top was 8.65. Offerings were around 99,000 as compared with 73,463 last Wednesday.

Senate Trial

over admissability of testimony that had a bearing on some of the six articles of impeachment that were eliminated from consideration when the senate last Saturday sustained general demurrers to those specific allegations.

Lieutenant Governor Edgar Witt held that any testimony bearing on the articles under consideration could be presented.

Attorneys for the respondent contended that the senate had already held, in sustaining demurrers, that the charges eliminated from the set of 12 sent to the senate by the house, did not constitute impeachable offenses.

Seven Mail Sacks Taken In Dumas Theft Are Recovered

DUMAS, Oct. 7. (AP)—Seven mail sacks taken in a robbery of the Santa Fe railway station at Dumas last night, with a loss of $3,500 in currency and several parcels, were recovered eight miles southwest of the city late today.

Locks and cords had been removed from the sacks and they had been rifled. Mail was scattered about on the ground. Many letters had been opened, and officers said that parcels containing merchandise were missing. Most of the letter mail was recovered. The sacks were found by Bus Brown, a farmer, in a wheat field about 50 yards from the highway. Sheriff Jasper Logue, who brought the mail into Dumas, reported that no clues were obtained, but he collected a number of opened envelopes on which were found fingerprints.

Dallas Man Gets Sentence Of Five Years In Slaying

DALLAS, Oct. 7 (AP)—Lelion Beard was convicted of the slaying of Booker T. Barnes, negro, August 9 by a jury in district court here today. He was given the maximum sentence of five years for murder without malice.

Barnes was killed following a controversy with Beard as they were about to climb on a streetcar.

CHICAGO GRAIN
CHICAGO, Oct. 7. (AP)—Grain traders who had enthusiastically bought in anticipation of last night's White House conference on the business situation moved quickly to realize profits today. Fresh advances in all cereals were thus turned into declines. Stock market recessions had much to do with bringing about this result.
Wheat closed unsettled, 5-8 to 7-8 cents lower, corn a shade to 1 to 1 1-8 down, oats a shade to 7-8 off, and provisions varying from 12 cents decline to an equal gain.

NEWS BRIEFS

Although both machines were slightly damaged no one was injured Tuesday night when a city-owned automobile occupied by Grady Harrist and Baxter Honey, Lubbock policemen, and a car in which Leo Austin and Theron Summerville, 2314 Tenth street, were riding, collided at Broadway and Avenue G.

F. W. Collins, 52, employe of a gin at Ralls, who suffered a fractured right arm and back injuries Tuesday afternoon while at work, was reported to be resting well last night at the Lubbock sanitarium.

Modern '49er

efit out of that vehicle so I bought Toby and Kit at a bargain, got a side of bacon and some coffee and started out.

"I ain't selling nothin'; not working for any prizes and I ain't trying to set any freak record," he continued. "I am just out traveling and finding out about conditions."

Muse left Joplin on September 16 and had averaged 35 miles, or more per day, except on two days when he had to lay over at Wichita, Kans., and Chickasha, Okla., to get Toby and Kit new shoes. "The pavement is mighty hard on mules' feet," he said. He expects to arrive at Tia Juana, Mexico, about Thanksgiving.

Was In Movies

Muse said his reason for going to California, in addition to the quest for information in his private economic investigation, was to renew acquaintances made during his six years in Hollywood as an extra for western movies.

"The boys used to go down to Tiajuana on Thanksgiving so I thought I might strike a few of them there," he said. Muse said he had worked with most the famous stars of western thrillers. He doubled for Tom Mix quite a bit during the making of the "Riders of the Purple Sage" a few years ago.

"Of course, I was kidded a great deal on my trip down from Joplin, but I was able to hold my own," the cowboy continued. "I told most of them that the Hoover administration was responsible for me having to trade my automobile for a hack and span of mules.

In Bad Shape

"I found the farmers in pretty bad shape generally," he said. "Those in Western Oklahoma seemed to be in for the greatest amount of suffering. High priced farm machinery, federal farm loans and low prices obtained for their products were the reasons most of them gave as the cause for their troubles. The farmers between Lubbock and Vernon seem to be better off than those of southern Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma. I found more activity between Crosbyton and Lubbock than in any other locality."

The weather-beaten cowboy got off of economic questions long enough to complain that all was not fun in making a trip in 1931 as a '49er.

"You wouldn't think that wagon yards have passed plumb out, but they have. As far as I could find out there is only one between Lubbock and Joplin. It is located at Paducah. Those mules of mine are good steppers, but they're terribly 'hifluatin'. The critters won't drink water out of a trough or eat out of a wooden or steel bin. I have to carry 'em water in a bucket and put their feed in a tub.

Muse said another problem he was studying on his tour is the maintenance cost of two mules and a man. Thus far, his expenses have amounted to about 60 cents a day, including axle grease, oats, iron shoes and his own food.

The traveler's father is a prominent ranchman of Roswell, N. M. Muse said he might go by to see him on the trip out west. He plans to leave today for Lamesa.

American Ambassador To Japan Is Blamed For Not Aiding Two Fliers

WENATCHEE, Wash., Oct. 7. (AP)—Clyde Pangborn, trans-Pacific flier, told a banquet honoring Hugh Herndon, jr., and himself last night that Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes had failed to aid them after their arrest in Japan last month for flying over and photographing fortified areas.

The criticism arose in a description of their activities since leaving New York. The fliers were detained and fined in Tokyo.

"I guess it was as much our fault as anyone else," Pangborn began. "No doubt more."

He then described "red tape" which he said followed, adding that the "army and navy and others helped us roll it."

Without mentioning Forbes directly by name, Pangborn said:

"If our ambassador hadn't been playing so much golf or something else, we could have gotten off without further trouble.

"The ambassador did nothing. The roll of red tape kept growing."

Annual Market Program Ended

Representatives Are Expected To Remain For Two Days For Displaying Of Merchandise; Interest Reported

While Lubbock's fourth semi-annual Market week was officially terminated last night, a number of the jobbers' representatives who brought displays here for the affair are expected to remain in Lubbock through today and Friday, it was indicated Wednesday night.

Salesmen representing the 56 wholesale houses expressed satisfaction with business from out-of-town merchants, from West Texas and eastern New Mexico, but were slightly disappointed in the amount of patronage from local stores, it was said unofficially.

No Estimate Made

Although no estimate of the number of retail merchants attending the market was available, officials in charge of the affair said the interest shown was very pleasing. Numbers of retail firms attended each day. The largest group viewing the displays, however, came Sunday afternoon, on the eve of the opening of the market. A fashion revue, conducted Tuesday night at the Uptown Dance Palace was one of the features of the market. More than 600 persons attended. Twenty-one Lubbock young women were models.

Witnesses Fail To Give Any Damaging Testimony In Case

CHICAGO, Oct. 7. (AP)—The wide open gambling houses of Cicero during the days when Al Capone made the village his suburban stronghold, were discussed at length today in the scar-faced gang leader's trial in federal court on charges of income tax evasion.

But when the day's court session was finished, not one witness had said definitely, in reply to persistent questions from the prosecution, that Capone received profits from the gaming houses.

Mississippi Legislature Favors Acreage Reduction

JACKSON, Miss., Oct 7 (AP)—Mississippi went on record today for cotton acreage curtailment in 1932 and 1933 as the house of representatives passed the senate-approved reduction bill and then clinched its position by defeating a cotton holiday measure.

The reduction bill was approved by a vote of 101 to 33, while the no-cotton bill was turned down 74 to 61.

State Ready To Take Proposals

AUSTIN, Oct. 7. (AP) — Governor R. S. Sterling will receive propositions from any one interested in the state's contemplated development of the Sabine river bed for oil in East Texas, even though the law authorizing the exploration does not become effective until 90 days from last Saturday, he said today.

Governor Sterling said a California company already had made an "indirect" proposal to pay a bonus of $500,000 for lease of the river bed. This would be in addition to the state's share of the porduction on a one-eighth barrel or more royalty basis, he said.

"There isn't any reason why we should not negotiate for development of the river bed while we are waiting for the law creating the board of mineral development to become effective," he said. "A bonus of $500,000 would look mighty good to the state treasury just now."

Native City Pays Tribute To Lipton; Services Held

GLASGOW, Scotland, Oct. 7 (AP)—Sir Thomas Lipton's native city paid him homage today at funeral services in St. George's church. Interment was in the obscure little cemetery where his parents are buried.

There were tributes from all parts of the world—floral anchors, shamrocks, Irish harps and lifebuoys. One of the most unsusual was a model in flowers of the Leviathan, sent by the captain and crew of the liner.

Gas Company Makes Appeal In Colorado Rate Action

AUSTIN, Oct. 7. (AP)—The Community Natural Gas company has appealed to the railroad commission from an ordinance adopted by the City of Colorado reducing gas rates to consumers.

The commission suspended the ordinance pending a hearing as it did in similar cases involving rates at Wichita Falls, McLean and Borger. A date for the hearing was left open.

Increased Significance Is Given Visit To Washington

PARIS, Oct. 7 (AP)—President Hoover's statement that he would discuss war debts and reparations with Premier Laval when the latter goes to Washington was regarded today as lending increased significance to the visit here of Foreign Secretary Lord Reading of Great Britain.

It was considered Mr. Hoover's announcement would stimulate frank discussion of these pressing questions between the British and French officials before M. Laval's departure next Monday.

Lord Reading made his first call on Foreign Minister Briand before noon and had appointments with M. Laval and Finance Minister Flandin for later in the day. The result of their talks will come before the French cabinet tomorrow and the French attitude on a possible extension of the Hoover moratorium will be considered.

TO ENTER CLINIC

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 7. (AP)—A dispatch to Excelsior from Monterrey today said former President Plutarco E. Calles intends to spend the coming winter in Rochester, Minn.

General Calles is suffering from a foot ailment and it is believed the object of his trip will be to enter the Mayo Brothers clinic.

Gandhi Becomes Tired At Delay

LONDON, Oct. 7. (AP)—Although he appreciates that the general election and Britain's financial difficulties necessarily have made the Indian question a secondary issue, Mahatma Gandhi is becoming restless.

"I have been in England nearly a month now," he said, "and I have accomplished nothing except to become acquainted with England's poor and unemployed.

"If, however, the government will give me certain pledges respecting its future line of action in handling the Indian issue I am willing to remain here until after the election. I am not one to strike his opponent while he is down.

"England must be given a chance to regain its feet but at the same time the Indian question can not go unsolved indefinitely."

Prime Minister MacDonald said today the general election would not interfere with the Indian roundtable conference and that the government will pursue its intention to settle the Indian problem before the year is over.

Coleman County Fair Opens; Mrs. Sterling Leads Parade

COLEMAN, Oct. 7. (AP)—The Coleman county fair was opened here today with a street parade headed by Mrs. Ross S. Sterling, wife of the governor.

Mr. Sterling also was scheduled to participate in the opening program, but advised those in charge last night he would be unable to fill the engagement. A message from the executive was to be read by State Senator Walter Woodward. Mrs. Sterling was to be the guest of honor at the Coleman country club this afternoon at a tea given by the local chapter of the American Revolution.

International Conference On Overproduction Urged

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7. (AP)—The calling of an international conference on the over-production of cotton has been suggested to President Hoover by Representative McDuffie of Alabama.

In discussing the low price of cotton with Mr. Hoover at the White House, the Alabama Democrat also noted that the American product showed a decline in recent years in exports due to foreign competition.

McDuffie, his party whip in the last house, presented to the chief executive a letter containing data on the production and consumption of the staple.

6 reasons for having a Telephone

The best reason for having a telephone, as one telephone user says, is not having one. Consider the many things a telephone does for you:

1. Brings the grocery boy . . . when the weather is bad outside . . . when you've forgotten something . . . when you're tired.
2. Breaks the monotony of long afternoons, when you visit with friends and relatives.
3. Puts your name in the telephone book to direct friends to your home.
4. Gets the doctor quickly when there's illness in the family.
5. Tells out-of-town friends about the baby, about sickness, about having fried chicken when you drive up this week-end.
6. Tells police there's a burglar in the house . . . firemen there's a blaze in the basement.

Helpful "Extras"

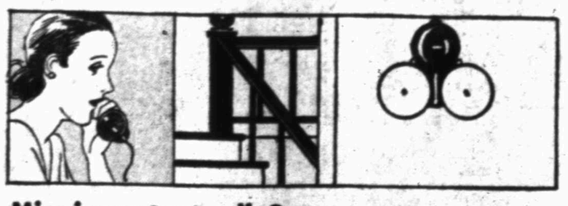

Live with relatives?
If you do, have your name listed in the directory with their telephone number so friends can reach you easily. Ask for an additional directory listing. Cost . . . 25 cents a month.

Your line busy?
With an individual line, your telephone never will be in use except when you or some member of your family is using it. Privacy is assured. Costs slightly more than party-line service.

Hearing impaired?
An amplifying set helps many who hear with difficulty. The amplifier is cut off with a key when others use the telephone. Demonstration free. Cost . . . $2 a month additional.

Miss important calls?
You can hear the telephone ring easily, if you have an "extension gong" in the basement, or near the back of the house. They cost little.

Talk in privacy
A "cut-off key," for those with more than one telephone, "cuts off" one telephone while you talk in privacy over the other. It also silences upstairs telephone bells during afternoon naps.

Police!

"Burglars . . . 5162 Oak Street . . . Quick!"

You feel much safer with an extension telephone at your bedside. Especially when you're alone at night. And the bedside telephone is a comfort when you nap in the afternoon, when you decide to sleep late mornings, when you're ill for a few days.

An extension in the kitchen or living room is a step saver, too.

Or, you may prefer the portable telephone. It plugs into a socket at convenient locations, like a lamp.
