Fast Thinning Ranks Of Confederate Vets To Be Mustered In Final Call

GENERAL L. W. STEPHENS

By NEA Service

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 28—The Grim Reaper has thinned the ranks and the march of time has enfeebeled the remaining Confederate veterans who battled for secession three-quarters of a century ago. That is the main reason why it has been decided the 41st annual re-union, to be held here June 2-5, will be the last.

In the nineties, when the re-unions were first held, from 12,000 to 15,000 of the "boys in gray" attended the gatherings and indulged in all sorts of celebrations and marches. Today their ranks have thinned down to about 2500 and reunions are marked by easy "arm chair" sessions.

Stephens In Charge

General L. W. Stephens, one of the few living generals of the Confederate army, elected commander-in-chief of the veterans at their 1930 reunion in Biloxi, Miss., will have charge of the gathering this year. Assisting him will be Governor B. M. Miller, who will deliver the address of welcome, the Sons of Confederate Veterans, Ladies' Memorial Association, and other patriotic organizations who will make the "boys" at home.

Here at the site of the old Confederate capital, veterans will visit scenes rich in south-

Orville James Found Injured Near His Home

Still Unconscious 12 Hours Afterwards; Physicians Say But Little Hope Held For His Recovery

Cause Not Known

Believed To Have Been Thrown From His Horse Between 11 O'Clock And Midnight Wednesday After Party

FOUND unconscious as a result of a severe head wound, 15-year old Orville James, of the New Lynn school community, last night was in a critical condition at the Lubbock sanitarium.

Although it had not been definitely determined how he was injured it was believed last night that he was thrown from a horse.

Still Unconscious

He was still unconscious last night twelve hours after he was discovered in a lot near the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Edwards, at about daybreak. He had bled considerably.

Little hope was held last night by attending physicians for the boy's recovery. X-ray photographs revealed a severe fracture at the base of his skull.

Left Companion

Riding a horse, the James boy and a friend went to a party Wednesday night. They returned to near the other boy's home. James' companion left him there and James continued on toward his home on the horse, which belonged to the other boy.

Subsequently, James was found near his parents' house, and the horse had returned to the other farm.

A supposition was that the boy had been injured when thrown from the horse between 11 p. m. and midnight.

His mother said she noticed some

Sterling Yet Undecided As To His Plans

Spends Most Of Thursday Conferring With Oil Men And Residents Of East Texas On Proration Problem

Pollard Answered

Governor Declares That State Should Take Care Of Problems Itself Without Aid Of National Congress

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, May 28. — Governor Sterling said late today he was still undecided as to whether he would call a special session of the legislature.

The governor said he had been in conference most of the day with oil men and residents of East Texas. He said he would confer with other East Texans and he hoped the oil situation there could be worked out without the necessity of a special session.

Receives Telegrams

"I have received telegrams, from all over the country, some from East Texas, urging that something be done about overproduction in the new field," Governor Sterling said. "Conditions there have demoralized the entire oil industry."

"East Texas should realize that unrestricted production would be the worst policy in the long run," the governor stated. "The people there are the ones who will suffer the most, because their wells will be running water instead of oil, they will lose their gas pressure and they will suffer from the consequent low price."

Answers Pollard

"It would be wonderful if the lease owners in the new field could form one gigantic corporation and agree to take the oil in such manner and quantity that there would be no oil or gas wasted. But of course the field is so big that prob-

Death By Shot In Back Marks Final Verdict

Michele Schirru, An American Citizen, Is Found Guilty In Trial Before Special Tribunal In Italy

Bravado Is Shown

At Dawn This Morning Victim Was Tied To Chair And Firing Squad Aimed Volley At Base Of Spine

(By Associated Press)

ROME May 29. (Friday)—Michele Schirru naturalized American, was executed at 4:27 a. m. today after his conviction last evening on a charge of plotting against the life of Benito Mussolini.

Death by shooting in the back was the penalty to which a special tribunal "for defense of the state" condemned Schirru, who was Italian-born.

Shot At Dawn

Schirru was the first American citizen tried in Italy by such a court. Today at dawn he was bound to a chair in the barracks drillyard, and a firing squad aimed a volley at the base of his spine.

Fifty minutes deliberation enabled the seven military judges to find Schirru guilty on seven counts, including the plot against the premier, possession of two powerful bombs, the shooting of three police officers, carrying weapons and being an anarchist.

Has Daughter

Schirru, 32 years old, was naturalized an American citizen in 1926 in New York City, where he was in the wholesale banana business. Schirru's small daughter, Carmela, is still in America.

He was arrested here February 3 after having been sought for anarchistic activities in New York and Paris.

The trial was a whirlwind affair. It opened at 9.20 o'clock yesterday morning. An indictment of 2,500 words was read, 28 witnesses were

Libel Case Expected To Reach A Climax Here Before June 15

Elimination Of All Extraneous Matter In Depositions Enables Authorities To Hurry Evidence Onward

By J. SAM LEWIS
Avalanche Staff Writer

ELIMINATION of extraneous matter in depositions offered by the defense in the libel action brought by Fred Spikes against J. Evetts Haley, et al, enabled the hearing of testimony to be speeded up Thursday in 99th district court and a total of 21 witnesses, 18 by deposition and three orally, were heard. The elimination was made by attorneys working until late at night on depositions to be introduced and read Thursday.

Charles C. Crewshaw, defense counsel, told Judge Clark Mullican, presiding, at 4:30 that his side was through for the day. The court then adjourned until 9 o'clock Friday morning, after advising counsel to "work all night" if necessary.

Forty Others

E. L. Klett, defense attorney, stated that there were about 40 more witnesses, oral and by deposition, to be presented by his side. This should give the presentation of the remainder of the evidence for the plaintiff a start by Tuesday or Wednesday of next week.

Tom Garrard, attorney for Mr. Spikes, said their testimony would not take as long to present as the defense side. Frank Brown indicated the case would go to the jury before the opening of federal court, scheduled for June 15.

Two Oral Heard

Six depositions and two oral witnesses were heard Thursday afternoon. Plaintiffs introduced the cross examination of several depositions

Young Girl Saved From Shock Death

EL PASO, May 28. (AP)—Almost electrocuted while playing in a bath tub, Reba Nell Smith, 8, was saved from death by another eight-year-old child, Joy Redmond, here today.

Reba was in the water when a cord to an electric light socket dropped into the tub. Shocked unconscious, she fell forward with her face beneath the water.

The other little girl attempted to draw her playmate from the water, but failed at first because of repeated shocks. She grabbed again, however, and finally pulled Reba to safety.

Then she called for help. A physician said another minute in the water would have caused death.

Two-Hour Parking Restriction Removed From Portion Of City

Area About Courthouse Square And East Of Texas Avenue Expected To Be Affected By Commission Ruling

THE CITY commission yesterday voted to remove the two-hour parking restrictions from the business district east of Texas avenue and around the courthouse square, in compliance with a petition, signed by officials of 60 business establishments, presented to the commission last week.

While the zone affected by the new order was not definitely defined, it probably will include all streets east of Texas avenue. Acting City Manager W. H. Rodgers was instructed to determine where unlimited time parking was desired.

The petition in part follows:

"Inasmuch as this part of the city has been more or less ignored by those responsible for public parades, such as occurred here last week during the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention, and since this part has been referred to, so we understand, by one of those responsible, as 'there isn't any business east of Texas or around the square' we feel as if being 'in the country' we should not be required to further abide by any city ordinance requiring two-hour parking limits, or any other limitations."

An order authorizing the 1931 tax equalization board was passed yesterday upon its first reading. It will be brought up for final passage at the next meeting of the commission. Frank Maddox, J. C. Royalty and W. G. McMillan were named as members of the new board.

Jons Sign company was awarded the contract for painting signs at the new municipal airport.

"BRINGING home the bacon" is no longer a literal term to Sheriff Wade Hardy, of Lubbock.

Wednesday, the sheriff went to New Mexico and took possession of eight hogs which were stolen from H. A. Bozeman's farm, in the eastern part of Lubbock county, May 4. Yesterday, Mr. Bozeman transferred the animals to his farm from the New Mexico ranch where they were discovered.

The swine were found on a secluded ranch, about 20 miles west of Clovis, Sheriff Hardy said.

The arrest of one suspect in connection with the theft had been made last night, officers said.

Hop Over Pacific Will Start Today

The start over the Pacific ocean will be made from Samushiro Beach, Hondo Island, 380 miles north of Tokyo.

Parrish Urges Fight Be Made By West Texas

Lubbock Senator States West Texans Should Go To Austin "With Blood In Eyes" Seeking Redistricting

Means of obtaining additional representation in both the state and national houses of representatives were discussed here yesterday by State Senator Pink L. Parrish, of Lubbock, who returned Wednesday from Austin.

In the event a special session of the state legislature is called, West Texans should go to Austin "with blood in their eyes" and demand redistricting of the state, the senator said yesterday.

May Get More State Solons

"The 1930 census", he said, "not only offers the South Plains the possibility of having its own Congressman, but also offers it the chance of adding two representatives in the lower house at Austin".

According to the Constitution there may be one representative at Austin for every 38,831 persons. Thus Lubbock county, Senator Parrish pointed out, is large enough to have its own representative at the capitol; Hale and one other county are large enough for another, while the counties to the south, now in the 119th district with Lubbock, likely muster up enough population for another.

May Add Third Man

OROGRANDE, New Mex., May 28. (AP)—This little village of southern New Mexico, already the scene last week of heavy tactical fighting between white and brown armies of the first cavalry division, tonight awaited what promised to be the crucial battle of the division's annual maneuvers.

Following a smashing defeat of white cavalry high up in the Sacramento mountains, brown army commanders received intelligence that white forces were concentrating again in the vicinity of Orogrande, and Major General Ewing E. Booth, brown commander, promptly ordered reinforcements to defend the town, an important rail head.

Record Flight Ends Thursday

Two Fliers Land Plane After 84 Hours And 33 Minutes In Air Without Refueling; Diesel Motor Used

(By Associated Press)

JACKSONVILLE BEACH, Fla., May 28.—Walter Lees, who drove a horse car to pay for his flying lessons and Frederick Brossy, whose hobby is "motors" today succeeded in their ambition to stay aloft in an airplane without refueling longer than man has done before.

Lees and Brossy landed their Diesel motored monoplane on the beach here at 7:20 E. S. T., tonight, setting a world's no-refueling endurance record of 84 hours, 33 minutes. This was 9 hours, ten minutes better than the former mark, made by two Frenchmen in Algeria, northern Africa in March this year.

The first to attempt a record flight with a Diesel motor, Lees and Brossy took off from the beach at 6:45 a. m., E. S. T., last Monday with 598 gallons of fuel oil aboard.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 28. (AP) —A committee of the Tennessee house of representatives formally reported today that impeachment of Governor Henry Hollis Horton was "warranted," and announced articles of impeachment would be presented as soon as they can be prepared.

Committee Will Discuss Contest

Details of the annual yard and garden contest are to be worked out at a meeting today of the contest committee, consisting of members of the Kiwanis, Rotary and Lubbock Garden clubs. Durwood Bradley, a member of the group, announced yesterday. The meeting will be held at the chamber of commerce offices at 9:30 a. m.

Amount of prizes, methods of making the awards and judging the yards and gardens, will be determined at today's committee conference, Mr. Bradley said. The Kiwanis and Rotary club each have appropriated $100 of the funds to be distributed to Lubbock residents who maintain the best yards.

At a recent meeting of the committee it was decided to enter every yard in the city in the contest rather than call for entries as was practiced last year.

There's A Hot Time Brewing In Old Home Town; "Bossy" Gillis Says That Kids Are Going To See Circus; School Superintendent Rules Against It

(By The Associated Press)

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., May 28.—There's a circus coming to town tomorrow and Mayor Andrew J. (Bossy) Gillis has ordered the police to see that no youngster goes to school while the clowns and elephants are here.

The superintendent of schools however has ordered an all-day session and threatens prosecution of anyone who interferes.

While the bewildered children wondered what they were to do, and their parents were equally perplexed, Mayor Gillis and Superintendent Starr M. King were firm tonight, one determined the children would go to the circus, the other insisting they'd go to school.

Mayor Gillis, after an unsuccessful effort to persuade Superintendent King to order the schools closed for at least the afternoon session tomorrow, inserted a notice in a local newspaper today announcing there would be no school Friday. This notice he followed with orders to the chief of police to have men stationed at every school building with instructions to admit no one but the janitors.

Superintendent King explained his refusal to close the schools by pointing out the state requirements called for 180 school sessions while with an interrupted schedule from now until the end of the year, there could be only 175. During the present term, he said, many

Lu Beta Delphian Members Meet Thursday For Study Of Russian Art

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

THIS is probably a pretty good indication of my feminine viewpoint on politics, but one big reason for woman in politics, as I see it, is that she is more likely to be individual in her voting. She isn't as likely to "rejoice in being a regular fellow who has gentlemen's agreements and votes a straight ticket."

Women have caused a lot of trouble with the political machine because no one can tell how they will vote. That is my idea of an ideal sort of thing but to men it is a serious situation.

Dr. Charles Shaw, author and professor of philosophy at New York University, recognizing this situation, the other day told members of the Women's Press club of New York City that "women and politics should be quits as neither has done the other any good, judging by a decade of suffrage."

A woman in politics is like a dog walking on his hind legs, he continued. He can do it, but how? It is better for women to stick to private life and increase the amount of culture they now have, he believes. And, while I have no personal desires to mix in politics, I'm inclined to believe that women aren't going to hurt it any by bringing a little culture along as they get in.

These observations of Dr. Shaw followed a talk in which he said that American women have more individuality and culture than men. Women's individuality asserts itself in a manner in which she dresses . . . she would rather look a fright than like some friend, he continued, saying that "woman remains within herself and refuses to let society smoke her out: long ago men were dragged into the open" and they take pride in their regularity, their uniform suits which hide their individualities.

And yet, woman's very inconsistency has a sort of method. She is as afraid of doing like others as man is of being different with the result that most women are a lot alike.

METAL ORNAMENTS CHIC

CHAIN belts and metal ornaments are the newest accessories for the smart costume, we are told in a dispatch from Paris. One Parisian couturiere makes flat chain belts reflecting the color of accessories of her suits, another uses belts of metal disks like nail heads, while a third closes skirt and jacket with dull brass hooks instead of buttons and button holes.

HIS FAREWELL MESSAGE

IF there is a graduate of Baylor University or a student who will not lead a better life for the example that Dr. S. P. Brooks has set and who was not touched by the farewell admonitions and philosophies of the man, which were read at the college commencement Wednesday, there is something terribly inhuman about that student.

The message that Dr. Brooks left should be treasured by all of us in this day when there is so much to bias our perspective of life, as his manner of meeting death should serve as an exemple of courage.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

ALTHOUGH I had never thought of it in this light, an editor writing recently in some paper on "female boors" probably is about right. I don't know where the clipping came from as someone gave it to me and it has no identifying marks.

The gist of the thing is that, while man undoubtedly likes the clinging vine type of woman because she caters to his vanity, he likes the capable woman no less if she gives him an opportunity.

To quote from this writer "Frequently, the woman who can make her own way in the world has an inferiority complex, due to the fact that she retains vestiges of the old philosophy that men are superior to women. If her secret sense of inequality is large enough, she may either underestimate herself or become unduly and irritatingly aggressive. In the latter event, she will become a female boor, never fully at ease, boastful, bossy, always trying to make a display of her superiority, especially to men, since they are the creatures who arouse the feeling of inferiority.

As a matter of fact, there have always been husbands who admired their wives' brains and ability. But invariably the independence of such wives is complete. They have good breeding as well as good minds.

You know, men do register about as many complaints about the lack of manners in women as they do about their new freedom. They resent our use of privileges a lot more than the actual freedom and rights that we may have. I've heard a lot more criticism of the "ungentlemanly" habits of women smokers than I have of actual smoking among women and we've all heard criticism of the boorish business woman while the one who has retained her ladylike qualities has received recognition and praise.

Perhaps women as a whole overlook this essential thing that they should recognize.

New Argument On Oil Flows

Opposition Manifest In Oklahoma As Commission Sits In Hearing On Proposal For An Increase In Flow

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 28. (AP)—A new argument on oil proration was taken before the Oklahoma corporation commission today. Opposition was manifest as the commission sat for a hearing on the proposal of Wirt Franklin, Ardmore independent operator, for an increase in allowable flow from the Oklahoma City field from 160,387 barrels to 81,193 barrels daily, with production curtailed on a basis of separate potentials of the various producing horizons in the pool.

B. C. Patton of Plains Petroleum corporation, said 15 other independents in the prolific north end of the pool had joined him in opposition to the plan for zoning the field, contending the north end gushers would lose production to which they are entitled.

In view of new low prices in East Texas fields, sentiment appeared for an effort to remove all restrictions.

Franklin himself declared the Oklahoma City field may as well close down as try to compete with Texas oil at the new prices.

A committee named to ascertain conditions as to under-production and over-production of wells may report today or tomorrow.

Franklin contends that continuation of the present system of proration here, with the potential of the field as a whole used as a basis, will result in gross discrimination against the older pools in favor of the north Wilcox pool and will destroy the recoverable reserve in the older regions. There are "at least four separate common sources of crude oil," he says.

Return Of Flags Being Requested

The flags were purchased by the chamber of commerce to enable the decorating of streets for conventions at a minimum cost to Lubbock merchants, and the return of as many of the lost flags as possible is desired, it was said.

American Pros In Pitch, Putt Final

ARBROATH, Scotland, May 28. (AP)—Although they failed to attain the leadership, two American professionals still were in striking distance at the end of the third round of the 72-hole pitch-and-putt golf tournament at Elliott tonight.

Horton Smith and Johnny Farrell, each with a 171 total for 54 holes, were only three strokes behind the leader, Percy Alliss, British open professional of a Berlin club, who came in with a brilliant 55 today for a three-quarter total of 168.

Smith, who at the halfway mark yesterday was tied with A. H. Padgham, young British professional, for the lead, took 61 strikes today. Padgham also had a poor round, taking a 62 to tie with Joe Kirkwood, the American trick-shooter, with 171.

Farrell, one of today's early finishers, turned in a card of 58 and held the lead until Alliss came in with his 55.

Nearly Half Of Stock In Local Pro Baseball Club Sold; Rest On Sale Now

Lubbock Business and professional men in a meeting last night chose to subscribe for nearly half the stock offered for sale in the Lubbock professional baseball club, which shall be a member of the Panhandle Professional Baseball league in the event the remainder of the shares are sold, and appointed committees to offer remaining shares for sale today.

A group of about twenty-five men met in two sessions yesterday and discussed the plan of operation that will be followed by the Panhandle League, which includes Amarillo, Pampa and Clovis, N. M., and appeared optimistic over the prospects of seeing Lubbock as the seat of a club in organized baseball.

In order to raise the funds necessary to create and operate for one month a Lubbock club it was decided to offer shares of stock for sale to Lubbock business men. The franchise, now in the hands of Harry Wanderling, named by League President J. Alvin Gardner, president of the Texas League, to manage the Lubbock club, will be turned over to a local man or group of men not yet selected.

The league plans to play night baseball in entirety, with the exception of Sunday. The funds now being subscribed will also take care of installing lights for night play here.

W. H. Keeling To Coach At Junior High At Kerrville

W. H. Keeling, assistant football coach and in charge of basketball at Lubbock High school during the past year, has accepted a position as head coach of a junior high school at Kerrville, it was learned yesterday in a telegram to the Morning Avalanche from Keeling at Marlin, his home.

Keeling served under Henry Frnka, head coach at Lubbock High for the last six years, last year as backfield coach of the Lubbock Westerners. He resigned his position here at the close of the recent basketball season after coaching the Westerner basketball team. Keeling gave as his reason for leaving Lubbock his desire to become head coach of some high school. He will have full charge of all sports at Kerrville Junior High school and will have an assistant under him.

Before coming to Lubbock last fall, Keeling was an assistant coach in a high school at San Antonio, coming here at the request of Frnka. He attended college at Sherman, gaining statewide prominence as an all-Texas Conference quarterback and now holding that position on the all-time, all-conference team.

Shields, Wood Sweep Opening Singles Round

United States Team Needs One Victory Out Of Remaining Three Matches To Cop Both American Continent Matches

BY JOHN F. CHESTER

WASHINGTON, May 28. (AP)—The youngest of all the long line of United States Davis Cup teams overran an experienced Argentine tennis team today, capturing both the opening singles matches of the final American zone tie with the loss of but one set.

Frank X. Shields, rangy young New Yorker, started the play with a 3-6, 6-2, 6-2, victory over Guillermo Robson, 28, Buenos Aires star.

Slender Sidney B. Wood, jr., 19, New Yorker, completed the day's battle by defeating the Argentine heavyweight Ronaldo Boyd 6-4, 6-1, 6-2.

To assure another United States Davis Cup invasion of Europe, only one more victory is needed in the three remaining matches to be played tomorrow and Saturday.

Almost ideal tennis conditions were provided today as the North and South American zone finals were begun. A gallery estimated at more than 1,000, including dignitaries from both the White House and state department and almost the entire staff of the Argentine embassy, provided, an impartial background that applauded equally the players on both teams.

Bernon S. Prentice, non-playing American captain, was over-joyed at the showing made by the two United States youngsters. He did not say whether he would change his indicated line-up of Shields and Wood for the doubles matches.

Country's Greatest College Stars To Clash At Franklin Field Today; Frank Wykoff To Qualify; Holds Record

PHILADELPHIA, May 28. —(AP)— With Franklin field closed to all athletes today while the cender path and turf were being made ready for the annual intercollegiate meet which opens tomorrow, the wise men of the track and field game were figuring out the winners of the various events.

There was general agreement among them that Southern California, twice winner in succession of the eastern classic, will repeat this year. Its team is expected to qualify enough men tomorrow to retain the championship Saturday. They have in the team here 30 1-4 of the 44 1-4 points scored at Cambridge last year.

Frank Wykoff, of Southern California, who holds the record of 9 4-10 seconds for the hundred, will run in the heats tomorrow and attempt to quality for Saturday's final. He is expected to measure strides in the final with Eddie Tolan, of the University of Michigan, who wants another chance to spring against the Californian.

Barney Berlinger, Pennsylvania's all around star, is entered in four events—the shot put, the javelin throw, pole vault, and broad jump. In the pre-meet gossip Berlinger was given a tie for first in the vault, a third in the javelin and a second in the shot putt.

There will be trials in 11 events tomorrow beginning at 12 o'clock, eastern standard time, with all finals Saturday.

Heavy Damage Suit Pending

Report By Chief Of Police In Washington That Man Was Informer To Soviet Nation Is Seen In Suit

SEATTLE, May 28. (AP)—A report by Chief of Police Louis J. Forbes to the fish congressional committee on communism that Serge N. Gorny, former imperial Russian army officer, had been informer to the Soviet government stood revealed today in a $25,000 damage suit.

The suit was brought by Gorny against Forbes here yesterday, the former charging he had found in the Fish committee records, a letter bearing the police chief's name. For five years Gorny has been an inspector in the Boeing airplane plant here, supervising the construction of United States military and naval planes.

The letter, written last November, listed Gorny among alleged secret agents of the Soviet government, adding "he renders very valuable service to the communist party."

Gorny said he learned of the letter through a friend and, on informing his employers, was told to clear his name because the company, with its government contracts, "must be certain that none of its employes are agents of a foreign government."

More Representation

SENATOR PINK L. PARRISH "hit the nail on the head" here yesterday when he declared that, in the event of a special session of the legislature, "West Texans should go to Austin with "blood in their eyes" on the matter of state and national redistricting."

At this writing there is no legislation more important to the South Plains. Additional representation at both Austin and Washington is much to be desired.

The Congressional Redistricting bill, which proposed a new South Plains district, was beaten in the state senate just a week ago. But according to Mr. Parrish there is a possibility that the bill will be reintroduced in the special session now looming, and that "although there will be a fight," there is a chance of passing it. South Plains people, of course, are vitally interested in securing their own Congressman—although it must be said that the chances of making the grade before another two years are decidedly "slim."

In the matter of redistricting the state House of Representatives, however, there is a fertile field for work. According to the Federal census of 1930, Lubbock county and the surrounding counties of the present 119th District have an opportunity to add at least two more representatives than are now allotted the area. Add to that a third representative, likely to be picked up somewhere between the Panhandle and the T&P tracks, and we have a political plum of the most inviting sort.

Since the problem is one of re-districting the house, the bill should originate in the house. If some far-seeing representative will lay his lines and fight the thing through, there is a probability that this territory will profit materially as far as legislative representation is concerned, by the time another election rolls around.

Something like 160 years ago there was a cry which has never been forgitten.

"Taxation without representation", it challenged, "is unjust!"

Today the theory "Taxation without sufficient representation is unjust" is similarly appealing to us who seek more strength where we need it most.

THE OIL SITUATION

While the depressed condition of the oil industry is not as apparent in the Lubbock territory as in those sections where oil is produced in quantity, we cannot, like the ostrich, bury our heads in the sand and refuse to take an interest in conditions.

For when the oil business is in the dumps, a very large part of Texas is in the dumps. And when the revenue from oil taxation comes into the state treasury in a lesser flow than usual, the whole state suffers.

Texas Tech, for instance, might have received a larger appropriation for the coming biennium, had the oil business been on the upgrade. Very probably the college would have been given a building or so from state funds, supported by oil.

But the oil business, like agriculture, is in a deplorable condition and—again like agriculture—no one seems to know what to do to make things better.

There are no derricks in this part of the country—that is, there are none to speak of—but never-the-less we, with the rest of Texas, are feeling the pinch of the oil depression, whether we realize it or not.

At any rate, it isn't recorded that spanking ever made a youthful criminal.

Competition among us boys is wasteful.—Al Capone.

Practical Health Problems

DIPHTHERIA

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Diphtheria is one of the diseases about which scientific medicine has most information, yet the condition is far from being under complete control.

Every year the American Medical Association checks the records of 93 cities, with a view to finding out the extent to which the disease is gaining headway or being subdued in each one of them.

Duluth and Salt Lake City had only one death each from diphtheria in 1930 and in both cases the victim was a non-resident. San Diego, Calif., had three deaths from diphtheria, all of which were non-residents. All of the New England cities, except Waterbury and Summerville, had lower rates for 1930 than for the preceding five-year average.

The rates for New York City, 2.9, and for Philadelphia, 2.5, are astounding when it is considered that the rate for New York City between 1890 and 1894, before the discovery of antitoxin, was 134.4; from 1900 to 1904, 58; from 1915 to 1919, 21.8, and from 1925 to 1929, 10.7. The rates for Philadelphia are approximately the same. These are excellent examples of the way in which modern scientific peventive medicine can control a disease of this character, if given the opportunity.

Wilmington, Dela., and Norfolk, Va., in their particular section, have the highest rates, and Wilmington would seem to be in particular need of a campaign on the subject, since its rate has never gone below 10. In Detroit a special immunization campaign has been carried on in recent years. The figures promptly reflect this in a steady decrease, the rate for Detroit in 1930 being the lowest in the history of the community and one-half the average for the previous five-year period.

The rates for Chicago, Evansville and Peoria in 1930 were somewhat above the previous five-year averages. Nashville was much worse, but Chattanooga and Louisville showed improvement. San Francisco and San Diego had approximately the same rates for 1930 as for previous years; Los Angeles showed extremely slight improvement.

Ten cities with the highest diphtheria mortality for 1930 include Elizabeth, Chicago, Detroit, Newark and Lynn, Mass. They were also on the high list in 1929. Grand Rapids, New Haven, Cambridge and Duluth are on the list of cities with the 10 lowest rates for both 1929 and 1930. Flint, Mich., is the only city without a single diphtheria death in 1930. Des Moines was the only city with a similar enviable record in 1929.

Experts in epidemiology are not certain whether the recent sweeping reductions in diphtheria mortality have been caused by a natural change in the disease itself or in a decrease of susceptibility to the disease. Neither can it be estimated exactly what part has been played by the gradually extending use of toxin-antitoxin and other methods of increasing resistance to the disease.

However, the steady improvement in records is certainly a warrant for continuing the preventive measures that have been used so successfully and with so few harmful results in recent years.

Today's One-Minute Sermon

Let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter: Fear God, and keep his commandments: for this is the whole duty of man.—Ecclesiastes, xii, 13.

Doubtful Of Fate

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 28.—The so-called progressives who still remain in Washington, commenting on the trend of the times, unquestionably are sincere in their expressed belief that no improvement of any consequence can reasonably be expected while the socalled stand-patters continue to run the government.

Robert La Follette

What the stand-patters think is not so certain; however discouraged they may feel, their obvious cue is to profess optimism.

The thing they have been hoping for, according to young Senator Robert M. La Follette, as a highly representative progressive spokesman, is a business revival in the ordinary course of economic events.

THE WISCONSIN SENATOR recognizes that a recovery has terminated each past commercial depression, but this time he says he can discern nothing to promise one.

"In 1920-'21, for example," he points out, "even while trade was flat and unemployment at its worst, there were manifest signs foreshadowing relief.

"Such signs are lacking today.

"Of course it is possible that entirely new developments are in the making, unknown to us, which will alter the situation for the better as they begin to take shape, just as our tremendous burst of mass production was born out of the war-time intensification of our industries, giving us our boom of nearly a decade, ending in the crash toward the end of 1929.

"However, there is no justification for predicting that we shall blunder into another rescue from our present difficulty simply because fate rescued us from our last one, practically without volition of our own, ten years ago."

PROSPECTS of a strong effort by large employers in the direction of a general wage cut also are spoken of in progressive circles as increasingly threatening.

Labor department statistics for April show a 0.2 per cent employment increase against a 1.5 per cent decline in payroll totals.

Progressives refer pessimistically to a reduction in pay coincidentally with an increase in employment—an employment increase much less than had been hoped for at this season. Moreover, the pay rate decline is mentioned as quite possibly representing only the entering wedge; a wage slash had hardly been even suggested prior to mid-March.

DUE CONSIDERATION is given in progressive circles to President Hoover's urgent demand for the maintenance of all wage schedules, to Secretary of Labor Doak's declaration that pay cuts by employers will justify efforts by employes for higher pay and to the warning of President Green of the A. F. of L. that strikes will be the workers' answer to a wage reduction campaign—but, for all that, the campaign seems to have begun.

Progressive lawmakers are hesitant to have their names connected with gloomy predictions, but some of them admit considerable anxiety.

"We shall be entering in a few months," one of them reminded me the other day, "upon our third winter of stress for the workers. One winter is bad enough. The second is well-nigh unendurable. Have the labor organizations the sinews to wage a fight lasting through a third? I don't know."

ADVOCATES of wage "readjustment" argue, it is true, that lower pay in dollars and cents will not be in a real sense reduction, provided it is down to a level merely of a lowered cost of living.

"However," answers Senator La Follette, "that contention is sound only on the theory that wages, at their peak, were advanced correspondingly with the cost of living at ITS peak—a theory which I believe can very successfully be opposed. If so, the net result of a reduction will be to leave labor worse off than before—and it was none too well paid then.

"Furthermore, a reduction, supposedly to a changed index, seldom stops at the index."

WISCONSIN'S young senator's program goes basically into taxation readjustment, with a view to the more even distribution of wealth and the fresh products of industry.

"But immediate relief," hesays, "calls for a shorter working day and week, nad the industries' stabilization.

"If employers will devote as much ability and energy to putting their factories upon an evenly-producing basis as they have devoted hitherto exclusively to money-making, they will relieve employment of most of its uncertainty."

BLACKMER'S CASE

In the fall of 1923, when the senate investigation began to uncover some questionable acts of the Continental Trading Company, Henry M. Blackmer, oil magnate, slipped quietly out of the country and went into exile in France. He is still there, fighting efforts of the federal government to collect $60,000 in fines imposed upon him for his refusal to return to the United States and testify in the famous Teapot Dome trials.

Blackmer may or may not have fled from justice, but events subsequent to his flight indicate that, while he may have found it convenient to get out while the getting was good, he probably has prolonged his troubles without escaping them. He has escaped extradition, but the government attached enough of his property to secure what fines might be imposed upon him.

One of the things that set his case apart from the others was his refusal to return his share of the oily Liberty bonds. The other conspirators did.

Exile may be no punishment for this cosmopolitan, he may have convinced himself that in time the whole incident and his part in it will be forgotten and he can again take up his life in the United States where it left off eight years ago. If the government and the people do forget, it will not be unexpected. Both are quick to forget and forgive malefactors against the government.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

JACQUES BOERRAVE WAS EXECUTED FOR MURDER COMMITTED 87 YEARS BEFORE.—Jacques Boerhave, of Xanten, died on the executioner's block in the city of Hanover, Germany, in 1844, after royal clemency was denied him by King Ernst. The murder for which the defendant was convicted occurred in 1757. It came to light when the victim's skull was dug up accidentally and it was discovered that a long rusty nail still imbedded in the skull was the cause of the death. Ownership of the nail was traced to Boerhave, who was 104 years old at the time he was executed. See "Jahrbucher of Xanten, Ausug, Vol. 2, PP. 12-14.

CARBOLOGY.—Carbology is the name of a cemented carbide alloy (tungsten carbide) which is non-ferrous and used as tool material. Its hardness is such that it was originally used as a substitute for diamonds in drawing tungsten wire lamp filaments.

A THRILLING MYSTERY STORY — by MILES BURTON

CHAPTER 14

The detective ransacked the vessel thoroughly, forcing open lockers and searching every corner, without discovering anything of value. Pollard scratched his head reflectively. "They can't have dumped the stuff overboard!" he exclaimed.

"I shouldn't think so," replied Dick. "Though we'll have the river dredged if we can't find it. Good Lord! I know. What an ass I was not to have thought of it before! Here, lend me a hand, there's a good fellow."

He tore up the carpet with which the floor of the cabin was covered, exposing the floor boards. These were screwed down to their bearers, but the screws were bright, and had evidently been recently inserted. "Let's have a screw-driver!" exclaimed Dick excitedly. "There's one in the engine room. I saw it just now."

Pollard fetched it, and Dick took the screws out one by one, until he was enabled to lift the boards. The space between them and the bottom of the ship was tightly packed with ballast, formed of leaden pigs. And among them were three which bore curious antique inscriptions.

"There you are!" exclaimed Dick. "There's the stuff, or at all events some of it. Pretty neat, eh? Nobody would guess if they didn't know the secret. One of these pigs is the one that Dr. Weatherleigh brought from Wells with him. The other two are what the men fetched from Lestridge Hall, no doubt."

"But I don't see the stuff," objected Pollard doubtfully.

"We'll get these pigs ashore, and I'll soon show you," replied Dick. "The sooner we get them to the Yard the better, I suppose."

Pollard agreed, though without fully comprehending. "I'll get the Superintendent to put a guard over the boat," he said. "Perhaps he'll send us back to the Yard in a car, and we can take these pigs with us."

Between them they managed to get the pigs on deck, and when the dinghy came off to fetch them, the Superintendent himself, all agog to see the end of the matter, was in it. Pollard explained his necessity for returning immediately to London, and the Superintendent agreed to put a car at his disposal.

Dick, completely exhausted, slept most of the journey, and it was not until the car drew up at the Yard, in the early hours of the morning, that he awoke. Sir Edric, warned by telephone from Ipswich of their arrival, was waiting for them, and they proceeded to his room to recount their adventures.

"By Jove, carried her by boarding did you?" he exclaimed, as they finished their story. "That was a pretty good effort:

"They fought as they fought in Nelson's fleet—
They were stripped to the waist,
they were bare to the feet.
As it was in the days of old."

"Not quite accurate, perhaps, but picturesque enough. I'll bet that was your idea, Dick! Now then, let's have a look at these pigs of yours. I had a forge and an iron pan rigged up as soon as I got your message."

They went downstairs, where they found the forge, and the pigs guarded by a couple of men. The pan was already on the fire, and, under Sir Edric's instructions, one of the pigs was lifted into it.

Dick uttered an exclamation of astonishment. The metal of the pig began to run as soon as it touched the hot sides of the pan. "That's not lead!" he said. "It's something melting at a much lower temperature, ordinary fusible metal, probably. You see the idea? There would be danger of the stones cracking in contact with molten lead, so they used something which melted at a low temperature—look!"

The metal melted rapidly, filling the pan with a silvery liquid. And on its surface appeared a mass of roughly-cut stones, floating so thickly that they covered the whole extent of the pan.

"The Hatton Garden stones!" exclaimed Sir Edric. "We'll have to skim them off with a ladle. All right, put that pan aside. There are a couple more, we'll see what's in the other two."

The experiment was repeated, and this time the blood-red glitter of the Maharaja's rubies greeted them. At the third and last melting, the glorious stones from the famous Hardway necklace scintillated before their eyes.

"Well, that's that," commented Sir Edric. "We owe this to you, Dick. But I cannot help seeing the humor of the fact that you lived at Lesteridge Hall at that time, with your sister's diamonds lying on a shelf in your host's study!"

That same day Dick travelled down to Wells. Alison was much better, but it was some days before it was judged wise to break the news of her father's death to her. Dick was entrusted with the task, and explained that he had been present when Dr. Weatherleigh was killed in a motor car accident. Alison, in her weak state, was almost prostrated by the shock. Dick, caring only that she should be spared the revelations which must follow, took the doctor in charge of the case into his confidence, and begged him to prescribe a long sea voyage.

Consequently, as soon as she was convalescent, she left England in company with her Aunt Edith, on a six months' trip. She was thus spared the details of the coming

Bishop Visits College Of His Name

Bishop William F. McMurry Is Principal Speaker Before 1931 Graduating Class Of McMurry College At Abilene

ABILENE, May 28. (AP)—Paying his first visit to the school that was founded in 1923 and named in his honor, Bishop William F. McMurry, St. Louis, this morning addressed the eighth spring convocation address of McMurry college. He spoke to 41 candidates for degrees, and to one of the largest gatherings ever assembled on the campus.

Unveiling of a life-size portrait of Bishop McMurry—the gift of the graduating class—was a commencement program feature. The picture, painted by Peter Piotkin, was unveiled by Rigdon Edwards, jr., of Fort Worth, senior president, and accepted by Dr J. W. Hunt, president of the college.

Bachelor of science degrees were awarded to eleven students, and bachelor of arts degrees to 17. Three candidates for B. A. degrees and eight candidates for B. S. degrees in August were recognized.

The only answer to the hunger of the human heart is God, Bishop McMurry told the class. He said: "I have but one message for you in all your entertainment and diversion, in all your ambitions that are worthy, in all your accomplishments, there is only one safe road—the hard blue road that God has mapped out and toward which the spirit yearns. The man who is responsive to this message of God, who heeds the call, is the man who is going to count in this and the world to come."

Secretary To Visit Alma Mater

MUSKOGEE, Okla., May 28. —(AP)—Twenty six years ago a slender boy who had spent much of his youth as a barefoot toiler in Oklahoma coal mines was graduated from Bacone college, the oldest advanced school in this state, as valedictorian of his class. On June 2, this same alumnus, Patrick J. Hurley, now secretary of war, will speak at the commencement services of his alma mater.

Celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of the college, a pageant, "Oklahoma," depicting early scenes in the state's development, will be presented next Monday.

Bacone is an Indian school and at present there are 304 students representing 30 tribes from 14 states enrolled. Hurley was the only white student in the class of 1905. The school was founded by the Baptist missionary society, which will celebrate its centennial this year.

that they are so happy together that he thinks of getting married himself.

THE END

Stubborn Ills Are Conquered

Konjola, All of Its 29 Ingredients Working Together, Wins New Victories

After all sufferers take medicine for just one thing—to get relief, and Konjola does give relief from ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and from rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness.

Mrs. Harry E. Barker

Consider, as a typical case of this remarkable medicine at work the experience of Mrs. Harry E. Barker, 4123 Victor street, Dallas. Read her words of gratitude and praise: "For more than six years I had stomach trouble, and gas after every meal made it almost impossible to breathe. I had severe headaches and was very nervous. But since taking Konjola I eat anything I want. Headaches are gone and I sleep soundly."

Mr. Frank Norman

And think over the statement of Mr. Frank Norman, 828 Mississippi street, Amarillo: "My appetite was very poor; gas formed; I was very nervous and losing weight. I did not rest well, and was always tired out. To my surprise, improvement started at once with Konjola. Konjola is what I should have had years ago."

Mrs. Flora Stanley

No wonder Mrs. Flora Stanley, 315 N. McMasters street, Amarillo, is enthusiastic over this medicine. She declares: "For five years I was in miserable health, the result of stomach, liver, and kidney disorders. My back ached terribly, and my feet and ankles were badly swollen. My husband got me to try Konjola, and as a result I am on the road to better health."

Konjola, actually 29 medicines in one, goes to the very source of the ills Konjola is designed to relieve. Buy Konjola in any drug store, and do not accept a substitute.

Cotton Fluctuations On Market Apparent — Livestock More Action On Cattle Is Seen — Grain Grains Reveal Upward Trends

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, May 28. (AP)—Cotton was nervous and erratic here today in fairly active trading and prices fluctuated frequently and freely but without definite trend.

The market closed steady net 1 point up to 2 down. The market at the lows of the day was at the lowest of the season.

Liverpool cables were 1-5 penny points worse than due and private cables stated that the continent sold and local traders liquidated longs. Manchester cabled that Talerand states that business in cloths is at a standstill owing to the holidays and that trade is also adversely affeced by further decline in raw cotton.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, May 28. (AP) — Rather nervous and irregular fluctuations occurred in cotton today.

Early declines were followed by recoveries and the general market closed very steady net unchanged to 1 point lower.

The opening was steady 6-12 points lower in response to the easier cables and the favorable weather map.

The market closed with July quoted at 8.89 and January at 9.24.

Reports of firmer grain markets probably contributed to the steadier undertone in cotton and the increase in the demand noted on the forenoon declines evidently encouraged reactionary sentimen.

Exonerates Girl

"One of them said, 'by the way, take off your hat'."

"Who said that?"

"The cop who ain't shot."

"When did you say then?"

"I said, 'don't do nothing and leave her go. She had nothing to do with it. I'll go with you.' They wouldn't do that. They said 'naw.' I was just sitting there for a minute. The gun (Hirsch's was up against my stomach and I reached in my pocket and heard the gun click twice.

"I pulled out my gun and fired three shots and I could see the other cop (Yodice) running through the bushes. I kept on shooting and pretty soon I had no more bullets and I grabbed hold of the gun the cop had. I pulled the trigger and kept on pulling until I fired one shot and then we drove away."

It was brought out in the testimony that Crowley could scarcely read and that he could write only his name and other simple words.

The prosecution rested its case today after Crowley's confession had been read into the record and technical experts had testified.

Stocks Hold Heads Up With Just A Bit More Confidence On Thursday

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, May 28. (AP)—Whether the support came from short covering or from stronger sources, stocks held their heads up with more confidence today.

There were periods of softness in certain issues, but by and large the buying was more substantial than the selling. Sales approximated 2,100,000 shares.

Foreign bonds were weak and domestic rails again reacted. German government obligations sold off sharply, while some of the Latin American found the market thin. Cotton stiffened toward the close. Weather news rallied the grains.

of the morning session. John Campbell, John Madden and Henry Russell.

Depositions introduced in the afternoon were: John Nelson, Plains, N. M.; Henry Russell, Roswell; John E. Whitmore, Fred Walther, Hotchkiss, Colo.; Segude Martinez, Norton, N. M., and Brooks Lee, Somertown.

Martine On Stand

Following the reading of the cross examination of Campbell, O. R. Martine, Plainview, chief of police there and a resident of Hale county since about 1890, took the stand. He lived for a year in New Mexico about 1896 and then returned there in 1900. He knew John Spikes in Crosby county before he went to New Mexico, witness said. In New Mexico, at Tucumcari, witness said he "saw John Spikes" once. He knew the reputation of the boys there and of John in Crosby county.

On cross examination witness admitted he did not know "much" about the boys, except what he was told by others. He admitted he heard a great deal about the boys after the shooting of John and Dick.

Bates Testifies

R. M. Bates, Cisco, who freighted into New Mexico years ago and who lived there for 29 years, leaving in 1929, testified as to what he knew. He went to near Mesa Redonda early in 1901 and lived near Mesa Redonda where he had a farm and freighted from Amarillo to the end of the Rock Island railroad. He is a brother of M. W. Bates who was a neighbor of his in New Mexico. He also lived near Louis Nance and B. Hill. He said he knew the reputation of the Spikes boys was bad as he heard them "classed with bad company."

In 1901, he related, he saw some colts and mares, the colts with the Lazy S brand the mares with the C-5 and other brands, running together. Witness identified the Spikes brothers brands. Cross examination brought out Bates was never at the home of John Spikes until after the death of the latter. "I don't remember ever seeing Fred Spikes, he admitted. He was never well acquainted with any except Sam. Had talked with Sam Gholson, Emmet Ricks, Bert Smith and others. Never heard his brother Bill say he was in the posse that killed the Spikes boys.

Lived On Ranch

John Nelson, in 1901 lived on the Hunter ranch on the south side of Mesa Redonda and knew each Spikes boy "personally." Their general reputation was bad, he testified. On cross examination he testified being in the party that had once captured Lee Rasberry and held him captive two days.

Henry Russell of Roswell knew John, Dick, Sam and Ernest Spikes personally; met Fred personally a few times. Knew their reputation.

John E. Whitmore, Tucumcari, in the stock business 30 years ago, knew the Spikes boys by reputation and it was bad, he said.

Fred Walther, of Colorado, postmaster at Puerto, N. M., for years, knew John, Dick and Fred personally. Knew Sam but did not know Jeff or Ernest. John, Dick and Fred had a "bad" reputation, he testified.

Sigunde Martinez, living in Norton, N. M., in 1901 and 1902, knew John, Dick and Fred; saw Ernest a "few times" but does not remember seeing Jeff and Sam. Once, while going along the trail, he passed a herd of between 200 and 300 cattle but did not recognize the drivers. At night these cattle passed the place where he had camped. He met Fred Spikes once, also John and Dick Spikes. On cross examination he said he never recalled meeting Jeff.

W. Brooks Lee, brother of Bud Lee, lived near Mesa Redonda 30 years ago. Once, near the home of John Spikes, witness said he found some clothing in a creek. He also saw dead animals. On cross examination Lee admitted he had talked to Bud about the shooting.

At the morning session H. F. Maywald, son-in-law of Sam Gohlson testified orally. Depositions were by: J. P. Florez, Louis De Baca, John Madden, Frank Page, Will J. Lewis, George R. Taylor, E. Van Lee, Juan de Olivers, Jack Campbell, Leandro Martinez and Daniel Diaz.

H. F. Maywald said he married the second daughter of Sam Gohlson in 1893 at Colorado City and went to Carlsbad, N. M., in 1899 where he first heard of the Spikes boys. In 1901 he moved to a ranch five miles south of Mesa Redonda where he worked as a carpenter, laborer and freighter to Hereford and later Bovina, Texas. He knew the reputations of the Spikes boys, he said.

Ordered Off Range

Witness told of an incident while freighting; with Lee Gohlson and Lynn Hall, he camped for dinner along the trail from the railroad camp near Tucumcari to Texas. As he was peeling potatoes two men rode up, armed with pistols and rifles and "began to cuss us, saying we were on their range," witness said. They were ordered off. The freighters were unarmed.

"Just about that time Bud Lee rode around my wagon and told them to ride off and they rode off," said the witness, explaining Lee was armed and pulled his pistol to enforce his order. His brother-in-law said one of the boys was John Spikes and he did not know the other.

Under cross examination of G. E. Lockhart, witness said he did not remember where he was the day the Spikes boys were killed. He was not asked to join the posse or "mob," he testified, Sam Gohlson, he thought, told him of the slaying of the two boys. Once, he said, he met Ernest Spikes.

MIDDLEWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, May 28. (AP) — The levels attained in the recent series of declines at last drove attractive to buyers of killing cattle, practically all of the eleven markets reporting more action to the trade at fully steady prices. There were even spots of strength, but the most encouraging advises were that the demand was able to absorb most of the accumulated offerings. However, it is more than ever apparent that supplies next week must be further curtailed to put the market back on a stable basis and possibly influence a recovery. Combined receipts were 19 100, compared with 29,184 a week ago.

But there was light strength to the hog markets, especially to weighty offerings. Prices ranged from 25 lower in extreme to 10 higher. Arrivals aggregated 72,300, compared with 77,067 a week ago.

strange object lying on the ground in the lot, but she supposed that the object was a large dog which was kept on the farm. The boy was missed at the same time, but she supposed that he had gone to the home of his friend to spend the night, Mrs. James said.

In addition to the fractured skull, the boy suffered swelling of the face and a few other minor bruises.

German Scientist Declares That Flight Was A Success

BERLIN, May 28. (AP)—A dispatch to the Wolff agency from Ober Gurgl, Oetz Valley, Tyrol, tonight said in his first interview Professor Auguste Piccard declared his trip into the stratosphere was completely successful, as a measurement had been obtained of the conductivity of gases generated by cosmic rays.

The measurement was possible, he said, only at the highest altitude, for the balloon rose very rapidly after its takeoff at Augsburg yesterday morning.

El Paso High School Girl Dances On Though Injured

EL PASO, May 28. (AP)—On, with the dance! That's the way Dorothy Joseph, 16-year-old high school student feels about it.

While doing an eccentric dance number in the high school auditorium here last night, she fell from the stage, but climbed right back and kept on dancing. With one arm hanging at her side, she completed the performance. Examination at a hospital showed the shoulder broken.

In the next fifteen years the gold supply of South Africa, which has furnished over half the world output, is expected to become exhausted.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 28. (AP)—Owing largely to nervousness over threatened big damage by drouth in Canada, grains showed a further stimulus from stock market rallies and from signs that North American export demand had improved. It was announced that only 10,000,000 bushels remained of 35,000,000 bushels which United States government-sponsored organizations hoped to dispose of overseas before the new 1931 domestic crop started to move.

Wheat closed stronger, 1-4 cents off to 7-8 to 1 up, corn 3-8 to 1 7-8 higher, oats at 1-8 decline to 1-4 advance, and provisions unchanged to 10 cents down.

Parrish Talks

resentative could be picked up, the Senator said. He also stated that the new population made redistricting of the Senate possible and that through redistricting an extra West Texas Senator might be secured from the section from the Panhandle to the T. & P. railway. Since the Senate was redistricted early in this decade, however, the gain would not be as great for this area as should the House boundaries be revamped he averred.

Turning to the Congressional Redistricting bill defeated in the Senate by one vote last Friday, Mr. Parrish said there was a possibility of the bill's being re-introduced.

Might Pass It

"It would be a fight", he said, "but we might pass it".

The bill included a South Plains Congressional district, divorced from the North Plains which, through Congressman Marvin Jones, of Amarillo, now embraces this territory.

Texas Tech Senator Parrish pointed out, is being as well taken care of as any of the state schools in the matter of appropriations. Nearly a half million dollars per annum will be available for the next biennium, he stated.

While Tech's plea for additional buildings went unheeded, those state institutions granted additional structures are not likely to get them by the time Governor Ross Sterling finishes wielding his blue pencil. "I'm sure the Governor will veto the building appropriations", Senator Parrish said, "and I'd rather see Tech left out on buildings approved by the legislature and vetoed by the Governor, than to see the college included in the list knocked out".

Cites Two Accomplishments

The two outstanding accomplishments of the legislature, the Senator averred, were the submission of the Constitutional amendment to abolish state ad valorem taxes on homesteads under $3,000 and the increase in taxes on sulphur and cement. The latter tax increase, he estimated, will bring in approximately $1,500,000 per year to the state treasury.

He re-iterated his stand made at Austin in regard to public utilities, declaring that "Texas needs control of public utilities". He also listed equalization of taxes as a need of the present and future.

The Senator, who came in last night from Austin, did not remain long in the city. He planned to leave shortly after noon today for Austin where he will confer with Governor Sterling on several bills now pending in the chief executive's office.

ably could not be done."

Answering the statement of Senator Tom Pollard of Tyler that congress should deal with the situation the governor said he thought the state should take care of its own problem and he did not believe Texas wanted congress interfering with its affairs.

The governor said he probably would not decide before next week whether to call an extra session.

He had called in representatives of the board of control, the comptroller and the auditor to help him study the appropriations bills. If the governor should disapprove these bills, a special session would be necessary to consider appropriations. He can cut down the amounts by vetoing certain items. The governor said he had still reached no decision on the truck bills and that many arguments on bota sides were being made by wire and through personal visitation.

Asked about the bills proposing creation of additional district courts, the governor said he had not retreated from his previous position that these bills would have "hard sledding." He said he had received several letters from persons in the territories affected protesting the creation of the four courts.

Answering a query about whether he would disapprove the Finn bill preventing the highway commission from routing highways around towns he said he would not have to write a veto message on that because Dan Moody, former governor, had promised him he could use the one Moody prepared two years ago.

Reg Robbins Is Believed Planning Hop Over Ocean

FORT WORTH, May 28. (AP) — Credence was added to the report current in aviation circles that Reg Robbins is planning a non-stop, refueling flight from Fort Worth to Tokio, Japan, when it was learned today that the famous endurance flier had cabled to Fairbanks, Alaska asking if gasoline was available there. A dispatch from Fairbanks gave the information that ample gasoline is available.

Distinct Treads Welded and Fused Into One

America's FINEST TIRE

The Only Tire That Breathes

And Has 3 Lives

Air Cooled By

BREATHING

Draughts of air are forced through the tread of the tire by flexing of the tread, as the tread contacts the ground. The Air draughts increase in force with the speed of the car, carrying away the heat generated in the tread regardless of the speed.

Heat is RUBBER'S greatest enemy and the positive air circulation through the THREE TREADS and CARCAS eliminates the tire failures caused by over heating and burning of rubber.

The force of the air through the tread automatically forces all road materials from the air tunnels in the tread, clay, sand, mud, pegs. The cooling area remains shiny clear under all kinds of road conditions.

200% More Non-Skid Miles

The air cooled feature of this new tire makes it possible for Seiberling alone to give you three treads in a tire. When one tread wears away the other ones automatically appears.

Tire manufacturers have tried before to build tires with extra deep tread for longer non-skid mileage but the internal heat generated within the tread has previously thwarted all attempts and limited the amount of anti-skid tread which can be built on the carcas.

The first anti-skid tread of this new tire, alone is deeper than the tread of any other tire, the other two anti-skid treads will not wear until the first one has worn away actually giving more than 200% more miles of tire service.

Comfort - - -

The super construction of this new Seiberling tire with its triple air-cushioned treads presents the most nearly burst-proof tire ever made.

In other tires the disadvantages of the extra thick treads has been the hard riding quality imparted by the extra thick rubber—but in the new Seiberling both heat and inflexibility have been conquered.

The transverse holes that pierce the tread through and through absorb road shock before it reaches the carcas of the tire, acting more as cushions for the carcas and tire.

The new Triple Tread Seiberling pulls back the curtains on the dawn of a New Tire era. First, we had solid rubber tire, then high-pressure, then the present day balloon tire, each an improvement over the old, NOW Seiberling brings a tire that is revolutionizing the tire industry.

Memorial Park Is To Be Developed

Installation of a waterworks is under way at Memorial Park cemetery here, marking the start of a program of improvement which will include planting of shrubbery and sodding of the plot, F. S. Duga of Tulsa said.

Duga said that a 200-barrel tank was being erected and that a 20-foot tower would be put up to obtain pressure as a part of a general development program under different management.

E. C. Young of Lubbock has been named manager of the cemetery according to Duga. The latter said he, L. E. Cooper of Tulsa and Sam Vierson and A. D. Cochran both of Okmulgee Okla., were owners of Memorial Park.

Difficulties which virtually halted operation of the new cemetery have been adjusted, Duga said.

County commissioners court this week declared a road from state highway eastward through Memorial Park cemetery and to Lubbock cemetery would be maintained as a 60-foot public road.
